

DSO musicians to play Halloween night concert

By Margie Reins Smith
Staff Writer

Detroit Symphony Orchestra musicians aim to fill Orchestra Hall with a spooky ambience on Halloween night, Saturday, Oct. 31 — in spite of their recent five-week work stoppage. Costumes and trick-or-treat nonsense are part of the program, and Halloween music is the featured attraction.

Beginning at 9 p.m., Charles Greenwell, music director and program host for WQRS-FM, will direct the approximately 100 DSO musicians in a Halloween theme concert which includes Mussorgsky's "A Night on Bald Mountain," Saint-Seans' "Danse Macabre," Gounod's "Funeral March of a Marionette" (the old Alfted Hitchcock TV theme), Dukas' "The Sorcerer's Apprentice," and more.

"It'll be full orchestra," said Kevin Goode, DSO trumpet player since 1979.

"The musicians will be in costumes. The audience is encouraged to come in costumes, too. It's going to be a fun evening of spooky music."

Greenwell has degrees from Michigan State University and the Royal College of Music in London. He's been a conductor, singer, pianist, oboist, composer, actor, stage director and broadcaster and has performed throughout the United States, Canada and Europe. He is also music director of the Lake St. Clair Symphony Orchestra.

The work stoppage has caused cancellation so far of at least 13 of the DSO's regularly scheduled concerts this season, as well as two tours.

The Halloween concert will be the fourth self-produced concert, according to Stacey Woolley, violinist and spokesman for the musicians. Woolley said the musicians are not on strike, but have been locked out.

DSO management calls the situation a strike.

For the past five weeks, however, musicians have not performed the season's scheduled concerts because musicians have refused to accept a last-minute 11 percent pay cut — management's solution to the orchestra's more than $1 million deficit. "They (management) won't let us play because we won't accept a contract imposed upon us. We want to play," Goode said.

"The revenue from the Halloween concert will keep up the musicians' hospitalization and insurance benefits, which amounts to about $25,000 to $30,000 a month," Goode said.

Woolley said that a compromise between management and musicians is taking place. "(Management) is getting what they wanted." At the end of October, he said, management will have saved the same amount that they would have saved if musicians had agreed to the 11 percent cut. Management has saved $700,000 in musicians' salaries and $100,000 in travel and lodging costs by cancelling an East Coast tour. Additional savings, he said, are coming from not having to pay soloists' fees, guest conductors' fees, benefit payments for musicians, various marketing and promotional costs, and rental fees for Ford Auditorium. Management's only loss, Woolley said, was in ticket sales. According to a Detroit Free Press article, most subscribers have not turned in tickets for refunds, but have opted to donate the price of the tickets to the symphony or to hold them for rescheduled concerts.

Goode said a party will be held after the Halloween concert across the street from Orchestra Hall, at the Gnome Restaurant. For a $5 cover charge, party-goers will be entitled to complimentary hors d'oeuvres and a cash bar.

Ford House proposes new activities building

By Peter A. Salinas
Staff Writer

A 13,000-square-foot addition to an existing building on the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House estate has been proposed for use as an activities building and offices.

A public hearing on the matter Oct. 20 was tabled by the Grosse Pointe Shores village council because attorneys on both sides were still negotiating a contract, which includes fees to be paid to the village for the additional rubbish, police and fire protection the building could generate.

Though the public hearing was cancelled, the notice of the meeting was publicized and village President Gerald Schroeder felt that since there were several residents at the meeting for the hearing, the matter could be explained to the public.

Architect Vitus Bagdonius was the only official at the meeting representing the project.

Bagdonius said the activities building would be located at the site of an existing building that was once used as a greenhouse. It is located about one-half mile northwest of the guardhouse and about three-quarters of a mile from the main house.

The proposed facility would be adjacent to a recently expanded parking lot.

Before this project could be approved, Ford House trustees would have to secure a special land use permit from the village.

Since the 86-acre Ford House, as a non-profit organization, does not pay taxes to the village, there are fees paid to the village for services. Some 25 acres of undeveloped land on the south side of Lakeshore, however, are taxed.

Paul Alandt, executive director of the Ford House, said the building would be used to give short orientation sessions to guests before shuttling them to the house for tours. There would be a hall capable of holding about 400 people. Also proposed are a small kitchen and snack bar, so guests could have something to eat and drink prior to or after a tour.

Bagdonius said that the new facility would have the same brickwork as the older building. It would not be visible from Lakeshore, nor would it be visible from the house.

Residents asked if the foundation anticipated more guests because of the new facility. Bagdonius said there would not be additional tourists, and this project was designed for better serving the guests who now come for tours.

Schroeder said that there would be no financial burden on the residents of the village.

Village officials tabled the matter, but indicated that another public hearing would have to be scheduled, likely at their regular meeting in November.

City, school elections Nov. 3

Elections for city council members will be held in four of the five Grosse Pointes Tuesday, Nov. 3, from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Voters in all five Grosse Pointes and some precincts in Harper Woods will also be voting on the Grosse Pointe school district's request for a bond issue and a one-mill increase for library expansion and operations.

Since there is no village election in the Shores, voters there will go to the polls on the library issues only.

In Grosse Pointe, four candidates have entered the race for three council seats. Mayor Lorenzo Browning is running unopposed for his second term as the city's highest elected official. Two candidates are seeking the position of municipal judge.

In the Farms, five are seeking four seats on the council. Three incumbents and two newcomers have bid for three four-year and one two-year seat.

In the Park, voters will elect three council members from a field of six candidates, three of whom are incumbents. Mayor Palmer Heenan is running unopposed for his third term as mayor.

Park voters will also be selecting a new municipal judge. Two candidates are running for the bench, trimmed from a field of six in the August primary election.

In the Woods, four candidates will compete for three council seats. Three are incumbents and the fourth is a former councilman defeated two years ago after 12 years of service.

Three candidates are seeking the municipal judge bench in the Woods. One is an incumbent and two are challengers.

Profiles of city council candidates were published in the Oct. 15 and Oct. 22 editions. Profiles of municipal judge candidates are in this issue.

Trick or treat

The Grosse Pointe Village Association invites children under 12, in costume, to trick or treat the village shopping area. Look for the pumpkins in the windows.

This is about the 10th year the village association has sponsored the annual event.

Marge Nixon

By Peggy O'Connor Andrzejczyk
Feature Editor

When it comes to finding volunteers needed to assist in the Grosse Pointe schools, the old saying "It takes one to know one," aptly describes the talents of Marge Nixon, coordinator of volunteers for the Grosse Pointe Public School System.

Nixon is the only person ever to hold the position, created by the system six years ago to fill a growing need for someone to match up volunteers with volunteer jobs in the schools. It was perfect for Nixon, who had worked until her first child was born, then stayed home to see all five children through school. When her youngest, Beth, was 12, the job opened up and Nixon jumped at it.

"I'd always been involved as a volunteer in the schools, either with school board or millage elections or as a room mother. I'd gotten to know a lot of the teachers and the parents through my work at Monteith, Brownell, Barnes, Parcels and North High. And looking back, that's been an advantage in my job these past years," said the energetic Nixon.

"Because I'd gotten to know them I had the edge over someone who might have had to come into the system and spend time learning about everyone. I just went in and talked to people and found out where the need for volunteers exists."

As Chicago native Nixon has been right for the job, the position has been exactly what she needed, too. She took it to fill her free time after her kids were in school, but since the death three years ago of her husband Floyd, the job has become even more important. And it has also begun to take up much more of

Woods to consider longer-term parking

Parking in Grosse Pointe Woods is a constant problem. The latest idea to solve it is a change in the amount of time allowed on the parking meters. Last week the Woods council sent the question to the parking commission and told them to come up with a recommendation in November.

City Administrator Chester Petersen said he first recommended the idea of extending the time on the meters in June, but the parking commission had not acted on it. Last week he asked the council to help hurry the process along.

"My office is convinced that if they changed the timing on the meters, no one would need to get tickets in Grosse Pointe Woods," he said. "It might improve our customer relations."

Petersen said his idea is to increase the limit by an hour on Mack and boost the limit to as many as 10 hours on some side streets. Lengthening the time span is not intended to change the cost of parking, however, Petersen said.

It is meant to make shopping more convenient, since many of the businesses offer services that require more than an hour — like doctors and hairdressers. The council is expected to have the recommendation on its agenda at the second meeting in November.

Quick reference

Last Monday's stock market crash sent brokers around the country scurrying for the best information available. Executives at Roney & Co.'s Grosse Pointe branch office on the Hill weren't any different on Tuesday morning. Account Executive William J. Quinn Jr. and Branch Manager Vann Fleming consulted something every securities salesman should have — a cocktail glass with a historically accurate chart of the Dow Jones Industrial Average printed on its side. Unfortunately, the two were looking at what happened on the day after the Oct. 29, 1929 Black Monday.

Volunteer turns blue days into sunny days

Last year, more than 15,000 people in the tri-county area served their communities through the American Red Cross. These volunteers — whether they pitched in at disasters, volunteered at hospitals or transported people unable to drive themselves to doctors' appointments — gained the sort of personal rewards that can only be earned by helping others.

Thelma Nelsen of Grosse Pointe is one such volunteer. She has served her community as a Red Cross hospital volunteer for 28 years, volunteering one day a week at St. John Hospital.

She says she enjoys volunteering because of the special feeling it gives her. "I like giving of myself," she said. "If I can make someone else feel good, then I feel good inside."

Nelsen first became interested in Red Cross after her two children went off to school. She was looking for something to fill the day when a friend told her about the opportunities available through Red Cross. She decided to volunteer on Mondays because that was her "blue day" after the weekend.

"Now it's my sunny day," she said. "It brightens the rest of the week."

Some incoming patients are nervous about their upcoming surgery or tests. As a hospital volunteer, Nelsen's first responsibility is to help the new patients feel at ease.

Immigration dept. answers commonly asked questions

By Alan C. Nelson
Special Writer

The Immigration and Reform Control Act of 1986 has raised questions from people who would like to become legal immigrants to the United States under the legalization provisions of the new law.

Based on reports from INS field offices, a number of questions have been identified as the most commonly asked. Among these are:

• How do you want my name? In the Anglicized version with my father's last name or with my mother's maiden name as well?

Do not Anglicize your name for the INS. In our country's past, immigration officers at Ellis Island may have done so for some new arrivals, but that is no longer the case. Please use your full legal name as it is in the country of your origin.

• Where can I get documents to prove I was here before Jan. 1, 1982?

Almost any legitimate document will suffice. This would include rental or utility bills, pay stubs from work or an affidavit from a former employer who paid you cash.

This is not all-inclusive; other documents may be acceptable. However, employment records are the best and preferred documentation.

• I have a couple of misdemeanors on my record. Does this exclude me?

No. But be sure they are misdemeanors and that you do not have more than two. Three misdemeanors in this country will disqualify you, as will one felony.

• I left the country for two months in 1984 for family reasons. Is this considered a break in my residency requirements? Does it disqualify me now?

Any single absence from the country of more than 45 days disqualifies applicants for legal status. However, there are exceptions for unusual circumstances. These are decided on a case-by-case basis during the interview with INS.

• Why do you ask on the application about my brothers and sisters and what if I don't know their exact dates of birth?

We ask about family members so that in the future we can help give your immediate relatives preference for legal status in this country if they so desire. If you

"We'll talk," she said. "I'll ask them if this is the first time they have been in a hospital, then they'll tell me about their family and soon we are in the elevator going up to the room. They tell me, 'Thank you, you made me feel a lot better.'"

She also delivers mail and flowers, reads to patients who can't read for themselves and accompanies patients to therapy. She makes sure every patient in her area receives a visit from her if that patient doesn't have regular visitors. She believes that no person in a hospital should feel lonely.

"The other day, I talked with a cancer patient whose son was in Hawaii," she said. "He was really missing his son, so I tried to cheer him when I brought the mail. He told me that I made his day. Well, it makes my day too, when I know I've made someone feel better."

The Detroit Red Cross office has many opportunities for caring, dedicated volunteers. Areas of special need include hospital and transportation volunteers. Transportation volunteers drive people to hospitals and clinics for medical therapy. Red Cross vehicles are used and schedules are flexible. Hospital volunteers can work in hospitals of their choice.

Anyone who is interested in volunteering or would like more information can stop by the Detroit office located at 100 Mack Ave. or call 494-2860 during weekday work hours.

State police auction offers bargains

The auctioneer's chant will ring out once again at the Michigan State Police annual fall auction Thursday, Nov. 5.

This sale will be held at the Lansing Artillery Training Center (formerly known as the Marshall Street Armory) located between Michigan Avenue and Saginaw Street in Lansing. The sale begins at 9 a.m. and will continue until the last of 184 lots is sold.

Bidders will find an assortment of lots from lost, recovered, stolen and abandoned property or forfeited under court order. Among items to be put on the block are a boat with oars, TV sets, electric trolling motor, rods and reels, calculators, tires and beer keg tappers.

A large assortment of rings will be offered along with numerous watches and other jewelry. All items are sold "as is" and can be paid for by cash or check. Check writers must have a valid Michigan driver's license for identification.

Profits from the sale are turned over to the state treasury.

Animal protection groups offer tips for safe Halloween for pets

By Margie Reins Smith
Staff Writer

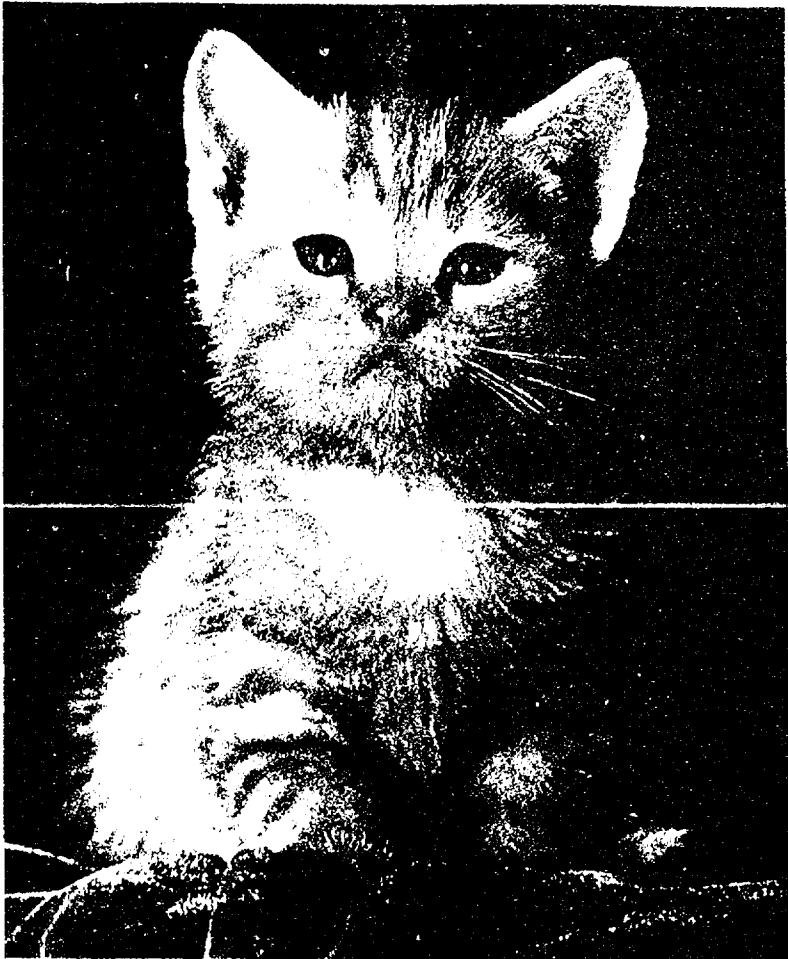

Devil's Night and Halloween Night are bad times for pets, according to Deborah Thurman, shelter manager for the Anti-Cruelty Association. "It's bad for cats, especially black cats," she said. "We've found them hanging from trees; even set on fire." Julie Morris, director of operations for the Michigan Humane Society's three Detroit locations, said, "For your pet's safety, it should be confined in your house on Halloween and on Devil's Night. Pets tend to follow kids around. In the excitement and confusion (of trick-or-treating) the pets may get confused and lost.

"Most kids are kind to animals. Some try childish pranks and some are downright cruel. We've seen cats hung — especially black cats.

"Even if the pet is inside the house," she said, "confine it to a bedroom or a bathroom while you're answering the door for trick-or-treaters. It's a frightening time for pets — strange noises — costumes — strange children. Your pet may run outside. It may bite someone because it's frightened and thinks it's protecting the family."

Thurman wrote an article in an Anti-Cruelty Association pamphlet about her anger and her anguish for a 5-month-old kitten that she found one Halloween night with its legs tied together, its mouth taped, and its body partially burned. She advocates education in the schools as being an efficient way to help children learn to be kind to animals. "Let us become more vigilant for the helpless and the voiceless animals," she wrote.

Thurman said the Anti-Cruelty Association has been around for 52 years. At their shelter, 13569 Joseph Campau, between McNichols and Davison in Detroit, they offer a variety of services for animals: adoptions; pick-up of strays and unwanted animals; investigation of reports of cruelty to animals; legislation for animal's rights. The association has two ambulances on the road constantly. They also do some educational programs. Thurman would like to expand the educational services.

She advocates a Halloween-season warning: "Please keep your pets inside, especially during Halloween week. Do not let them become victims of sadistic and cruel persons who would torture and abuse them."

The Anti-Cruelty Association's regular hours are 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays.

The Michigan Humane Society's closest shelter is 7401 Chrysler Drive in Detroit, near the I-94 interchange. They also have an adoption center. They investigate approximately 5,000 charges of cruelty to animals each year. They have eight rescue trucks on the road from 8 a.m. until 9 p.m. seven days a week to pick up sick, stray, injured and wild animals who need help. They offer a pet visitation program for nursing homes and hospitals. The society also lobbies for legislation to benefit animals and they serve as an animal resource center, dispensing information and education about animals.

This Halloween, Morris said, children will have a chance to help animals by collecting money for the Michigan Humane Society while they're trick-or-treating. Call 872-3400 to arrange for trick-or-treat canister to collect money for animals.

Park businessmen address problems along Jefferson

By Margie Reins Smith
Staff Writer

Many Grosse Pointe Park businessmen are concerned about the lack of new business development on Jefferson Avenue and about the deteriorating image of the area, according to Peter Wilhelm, president of the Grosse Pointe Park Business and Professional Association. Moreover, he said, businessmen are downright irate about the Esquire Theater situation.

Wilhelm is director of the Wilhelm Funeral Home, 15227 E. Jefferson in Grosse Pointe Park. Concerning the Esquire problem, he explained: "Several months ago, Esquire management lowered their price to $1. This attracted more people, including a certain element who had no intention of going to the movie, but instead intended to disrupt the community." Nearby businesses, he said, have complained of thefts, noise, vandalism, illegal parking, littering, break-ins, gangs of people intent on chasing each other, fighting, littering and screaming.

Capt. William Furtaw, of the Park's Public Safety Department, confirmed that there has been an increase in complaints about disturbances in and around the theater. Since they began logging calls at the end of June 1986, he said there have been approximately 40 incidents identified with the Esquire. An argument on Oct. 17 inside the Esquire involved a gun, a snub-nosed .38 that was fired once. No one was injured.

Everyone is walking with light feet around this issue, Wilhelm said, because of the racial and ethnic overtones. "But this is not in the least racially motivated.

"Crimes have been committed. Residents have found live ammo and hypodermic syringes in their backyards, purses, watches. What will happen if someone trespasses, tries to break into a business or a private residence? Some citizens are considering arming themselves," he said.

Wilhelm said the business people must make their feelings known. "If we don't do anything, we won't get any action."

Diamond T. Phillips, owner of Diamond T's (formerly The Old Place), said he closed his restaurant because the area is deteriorating. "One reason for closing was because of the young rowdy children (from the Esquire Theater)," he said.

Eric Steiner, owner of the Esquire Theater said Monday that the price of admission to the theater is still $1 and he had no comment on the situation.

Phillips is also disappointed in the Park council's defeat of a proposed development project by Fred Ruffner on a city-owned parcel of land on Jefferson between Nottingham and Westchester. Several other businessmen in the Jefferson Avenue district have also expressed dismay at the defeat of the Ruffner project.

"That project would have been a step in the right direction to revitalize the entrance to the Pointes," Phillips said. He said that other developers were interested in the Jefferson Avenue area when they heard of Ruffner's $3.5 million project, but lost interest when they saw the lack of enthusiasm by the Park city council.

Phillips said he is upset by the polarization of the Park's mayor and council. He said he hopes that whoever is elected to the new council will get the message that Jefferson Avenue needs a concerted effort on the part of the council to address the problems of revitalizing the area.

He would reopen The Old Place, he said, if the area was revitalized. "I had faith in this area. I still do."

Mike Maher, owner of Mike

Maher Chevrolet Inc., 15175 E. Jefferson, said the Park has recently lost about $4-1/2 million worth of new construction because of the Esquire Theater problems and because of the apparent lack of commitment of the council. "The Esquire has gotten a lot of publicity," he said. "But the bigger problem is that some members of the Park city government do not want to move the city forward. We will continue to lose businesses, one after another. Next to go will be property values."

Maher said that some council members are playing politics. "Politicians are not moving the community forward and not representing the total populus of Grosse Pointe Park. They're not doing what they were elected to do."

Philip Hessburg, M.D., with Grosse Pointe Ophthalmology, a new building on Jefferson, said, "All of the business community is heartsick that the Ruffner plan was killed by the city council. That vote reflected a small, extremely vocal part of the community. The vast majority of the residents of Grosse Pointe Park are totally incredulous at how that vote went. The vote was a political vote — it was not realistic."

Not that Nixon minds. "I love it, I really do. I tend to get very enthusiastic about it. I always feel that I should tell people who ask about how my job is going not to push that button and get me started," Nixon said with a laugh. "But it's a very rewarding job and I think that I had a hand in starting something like this program is a nice feeling."

Much of Nixon's work involves recruiting senior citizens to assist in the schools and finding high school students to fill a variety of volunteer spots throughout the Grosse Pointe area. "When I started the job, the senior population was going up, enrollment was going down and there were fewer aides for teachers. It seemed like a logical thing to find volunteers to help out in the classrooms. And so many children these days don't have grandparents or their grandparents are younger and still working and involved in other activities."

"It just seemed like a good way to bring the generations together."

teacher. She makes certain the teachers know that the volunteers are available if they are needed and what the volunteer can do, and at the same time, lets the volunteers know that the position is open.

Once she receives a request form for volunteers from the teacher, she searches for a volunteer who will best match the school (usually, someone who lives in the neighborhood). Then she gets together with the volunteer and the teacher to help set up a time for the volunteer to come into the classroom to assist.

"We like to call the teacher-volunteer relationship a staff partnership. It's on-the-job training for the volunteer, so the more the teacher opens up, the better the relationship can be. We've had pretty good results so far... the return rate is about 90 percent," Nixon said.

"Basically, you could call what I do being the middle man."

Nixon said that she's found that the seniors in the community are interested in volunteering and that the kids in the classrooms just "naturally gravitate to the seniors. And that's really rewarding to see."

High school-age volunteers are another story, however. While volunteer jobs are plentiful, there aren't enough high school students around who have the free time to fill the positions. "Kids in this area just have so many demands on their time already," Nixon admitted. "But I try to impress upon them the importance of volunteering."

"There are so many volunteer jobs they could do that would give them a taste of what the working world is like and of what a vital community we have. And it certainly might give them a good start on a career. Volunteer experience in areas like the Latchkey Program, in nursing homes, in computers, etc., are just invaluable."

Nixon doesn't give up easily, though. She is constantly on the lookout for high school volunteers and regularly circulates flyers in the schools "advertising" volunteer opportunities like working as sports assistants in Neighborhood Club sports programs, tutoring, hospital work or helping videotape events for cable TV.

Nixon also writes a newsletter that goes to school staff, as well as what she calls a "chatty" letter she mails to volunteers to keep them updated. She also coordinates the end-of-the-year thank you luncheon attended by the senior citizen volunteers as well as the superintendent and some members of the Grosse Pointe school board.

She has also started a new project called the Community Resource Bank. It's a computerized list of community resources available to the classroom teacher. It's a list of people, retired or currently employed, who would volunteer to come into the schools and speak to students. "We have people who have traveled extensively who could speak to the children and really bring an alive way of learning about the world to the kids," Nixon said. "Each school would have a Resource Bank Book from which to contact a resource. I'd be responsible for setting the computerized list up and making the follow-ups and evaluations of the program. I'm pretty excited about it."

But then, Marge Nixon gets excited about any aspect of her job. And there's still more that she'd like to do.

"Well, I'd like to see still more seniors get involved in volunteering. A Gallup poll found that 50 percent of seniors who had never volunteered said it was because they'd never been asked to volunteer. I'd also like to see more men volunteer; so many kids need male role models. And I wouldn't mind seeing a volunteer service requirement in the high schools, not unlike the one in the Bloomfield Hills schools, which would require students to amass a certain number of volunteer hours before they graduate," Nixon said.

And one more thing. "Before I retire, I'd like to get the senior program really going so that when I'm ready to stop doing this, I can step right into being a volunteer," Nixon said with a grin.

Auto dealers sponsor writing contest

Michigan novelist William X. Kienzle will again help judge the Detroit Auto Show's fourth annual short story contest. Kienzle is the author of the best seller, "The Rosary Murders," recently made into a movie that was filmed in Detroit.

The other judges are: Ruth Pollack Coughlin, book editor of the Detroit News; Neal Shine, senior managing editor of the Detroit Free Press; Jane Rayburn, editor of Metropolitan Detroit Magazine; and Jim McFarlin, entertainment writer for the Detroit News.

The writing contest is sponsored by the Detroit Auto Dealers Association. The winner will receive a check for $1,000 and the second and third place entrants will receive $500 and $250 respectively. The first place winner will be published in the official auto show program.

A second category for high school students has been incorporated for the second year. Five prizes of $500 will be awarded to the best of five stories.

The contest is open to any Michigan resident. There is no theme requirement, but all entries must be fiction and not longer than 2,500 words. Contest deadline is Nov. 6. Rules can be obtained by writing the Detroit Auto Dealers Association at 1800 W. Big Beaver Road, Troy, Mich. 48064 or by calling 643-0250.

RE-ELECT COUNCILMAN

GROSSE POINTE WOODS COUNCIL ON TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 3

Dear Grosse Pointe Woods Resident,

In an ever-changing, fast paced society, it is very comforting to live in a community where you can leave the hectic pace behind, and enjoy a tranquil environment secure in our homes and neighborhoods. Oftentimes, I have taken this quality of life for granted, but as one of your representatives for the past four years, I now recognize just how much work is necessary to sustain our selected life style.

Four (4) years ago I told you I was committed to maintaining and improving our community through the most efficient and cost effective use of our tax dollars. During my term I have worked diligently to make that commitment a reality. As Chairman of the Tax Study Committee, I have made every effort to see that our tax dollars are managed properly, so that we receive a greater return on the taxes we are already paying; thereby avoiding the common problem of asking for more and getting less.

As your Councilman, I have worked very hard to earn your trust and support, and it has been my privilege to serve you. My sincerest wish is that you have come to know me as a responsible and dependable fellow resident who has and will continue to address the needs and concerns of our community.

Please give me the opportunity to continue this effort by supporting my candidacy on Tuesday, November 3rd.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

This is the eighth year in a row ASCAP has honored Hartway of Grosse Pointe Park. The monetary award will help him continue with his work, he said. Hartway was further honored this year when the Detroit Archdiocese commissioned him to compose music for the pope's visit. His "Fanfare and Hymn" was played during the papal visit.

Wrap gifts for Easter Seal Society

The Macomb Easter Seal Society will provide a special Christmas gift wrapping service at Lakeside Mall from Thanksgiving through Christmas Eve. The society will occupy a fully equipped and stocked store on the upper level of the J.C. Penney court of the mall. Services will include all sizes and shapes of gift boxes, a large selection of gift paper and ribbons and bows. Any size gift will be wrapped while the shoppers wait and the nominal charge will go directly to the Macomb Easter Seal Clinic for care and treatment of the 800 handicapped children who are currently patients there. Gift Wrap Chairperson Dolly Allemon would like wrapping volunteers, either individuals or groups, to contact her at Easter Seals, 468-7000, for information on shift times and days available. Experienced gift wrappers will instruct volunteers in easy ways to create beautiful gift packages.

Market crash called threat to library vote

Opinion

A new factor, the recent crash in the stock market, may become a serious obstacle to the approval of a bond issue of $8.625 million and a 1.7 mill increase in the library tax levy to finance expansion of Grosse Pointe's library facilities in the election next Tuesday, Nov. 3.

Leaders of the campaign for the library expansion earlier had thought their biggest obstacle might be getting out the vote in view of public apathy. No organized opposition had appeared, few people had turned out for the open forums on the issue, few questions had been raised publicly and few letters to the Grosse Pointe News had opposed the library expansion.

Now, however, with the market slide having cut stock values by about 35 percent in recent weeks, some supporters are concerned whether voters will consider the tax increase and bond issue to support the library expansion as necessary in these uncertain economic times.

Nobody knows, of course, how many Pointers suffered major losses in the market decline. Nor does anyone have any idea whether those who did sustain losses might change their attitudes toward the library expansion as a result of what happened in the market. But it is known that the incomes and the confidence of Pointe residents in many walks of life have been affected by the market plunge.

Another factor, the distribution last week of a flyer opposing the expansion because of the Central Library's encroachment on the South High School playing fields, is, like the market crash, difficult to measure. The Board of Education had thought its earlier explanation of the need to use a limited amount of space on the fields had been acceptable to most residents.

Yet neither the market setback nor the critics of the library's encroachment on the playing fields should halt the efforts to improve the community and the excellence of its services. At the Central Library, there has been no new addition or renovation since the library was opened in 1953. The library has been filled to capacity for more than 10 years, limiting storage of books at the library and requiring that some be stored in the Richard Elementary School attic.

True, however, the approval of the expansion program at the Central, Park and Woods libraries would cost the owners of a $100,000 home with a state equalized valuation of $50,000 about $85 more in taxes per year on top of the $65 currently levied for library purposes. The increase would be divided between the .70 of a mill, or $35, for debt retirement and 1 mill, or $50, for increased operating costs at the expanded facilities. Overall, the library levy would rise from 1.30 mills at present to 3 mills upon approval at the polls.

That is a substantial increase, of course. But a public opinion poll taken before the crash showed that a majority of residents supported the expansion, although even then some were disappointed at the encroachment into the South High field, some were critical of the cost of the expansion and some even expressed concern because of the threat of war in the Persian Gulf.

A random sampling of opinion of 500 residents of the district also found that 67 percent of the users want more services, more materials, more equipment, better parking and more quiet areas in the libraries. And almost two-thirds of the respondents said they would definitely support a building program.

While the district's population has stabilized along with the school population, two studies made last year concluded that library needs will continue to grow and more space will be required to meet future needs.

So as they go to the polls Tuesday, Pointe residents will be asked to approve a bond issue and increase their taxes to finance important improvements and increased service at the three Pointe libraries. Despite the cost, we endorse the expansion in line with the tradition in the Pointes to improve the community's quality of life and the excellence of its educational facilities and programs.

As voters go to the polls

The Pointes, often referred to as one community, once again will show their municipal differences when it comes to the elections next Tuesday.

All five Pointes will go to the polls, but Grosse Pointe Shores, which held its village election earlier, will vote only on the bond issue and the proposed millage increase to finance the expansion of the three Pointe libraries.

Three of the four Pointes will re-elect their mayors without opposition, but in the Farms the mayor is elected by the council itself from its own membership. That vote will take place after the Nov. 3 election.

The Farms also will march to its own drummer by electing the three council candidates with the largest vote totals to four-year terms and the candidate with the fourth largest vote total to a two-year term.

So much for the election differences among the Park, City, Farms, Shores and Woods.

In the past month, the Grosse Pointe News has interviewed the 19 candidates for council as well as the three incumbent mayors seeking re-election. News stories about the candidates have appeared in the news columns and the newspaper's endorsements have appeared in the editorial columns. The newspaper, however, is not taking positions on the judicial contests in the Park, City and Woods. There is no judicial election in the Farms.

Our own council recommendations, reported in greater detail in editorials in the two previous weeks, were as follows:

The Park: Incumbents John Prost, Vernon Ausherman and David Gaskin.

The City: Incumbents Arthur S. Fetters Jr. and John F. Youngblood with no choice made between incumbent Susan Wheeler and challenger Myrna M. Smith for the third position.

The Farms: Incumbents Harry T. Echlin, Bruce M. Rockwell and Emil D. Berg and challenger Gregg Berendt.

The Woods: Incumbents Robert Novitke, Ted Bidigare and Paul Beaupre, with strong consideration for John Sabol, a 12-year council veteran seeking a comeback.

What caused the '87 crash?

Those of us who remember the 1929 stock market crash tend to react to the precipitous market decline of recent weeks with the comment, "This is where we came in." For there were similarities, as well as differences, between what happened in October 1929, and October 1987. Even presidential reassurances sounded similar.

President Coolidge, just before stepping out of office on March 4, 1929, said things were "absolutely sound" and stocks were "cheap at current prices," even though many people then feared the market boom was getting out of hand. On taking office, President Hoover sent an emissary to New York to talk to bankers about the boom, but he returned to tell the president that things were sound.

After the Black Thursday disaster of Oct. 24, 1929, Hoover said, "The fundamental business of the country, that is production and distribution of commodities, is on a sound and prosperous basis." But more precipitous declines soon followed.

Last week President Reagan sought to reassure us after the 1987 decline that was far worse than the 1929 crash: "More people are working than ever before in history. Our productivity is up. So is our manufacturing. There is no runaway inflation as there has been in the past. I don't think anyone should panic because all of the economic indicators are solid."

Even though his words were in the 1929 tradition, he could, of course, be right. The market did regain about half of its Monday losses later in the week, although experts warned new declines were probable. But more than presidential words offer evidence that 1987 will not be a repeat of 1929 in all respects. Today's economy is better than that of 1929. And under the New Deal, reforms were enacted to prevent a recurrence of the depression of the 1930s.

Even these moves failed to protect the nation from the biggest drop in the market's history, however. But we should have been forewarned. The wide swings in the market early this year should have told us that all was not well in the economy and the market. So should the prosecution of illegal inside traders, and especially the bright young men out to make a quick fortune. The spreading takeover mania aroused fears about the future of many companies. Computer-programmed sales increased the volatility of the market swings.

And, most serious of all, the Reagan administration and Congress failed to tackle seriously the budget deficit and the huge imbalance in international trade, both of which had been growing for years as the nation continued to live beyond its means.

The extent of the effects of the 1987 crash may well depend on whether public confidence can be quickly regained or will have to be rebuilt over a period of years, as it was after the 1929 crash. While there will be investigations to try to fix responsibility, the likelihood is that they will produce the same answers given by John Kenneth Galbraith in his "The Great Crash."

"No one was responsible for the Great Wall Street crash. No one engineered the speculation that preceded it. Both were the product of the free choice and decision by hundreds of thousands of individuals. The latter were not led to the slaughter. They were impelled to it by the seminal lunacy which always has seized people who are seized in turn with the notion they can become very rich. There were many Wall Streeters who helped to foster this insanity. . . There was none who caused it."

So what really caused the great stock market crash of October 1929? In part, surely, it was the same greed that brought on the 1987 crash. Unfortunately, greed cannot be prohibited by law or prevented by regulation.

Letters

Conflict?

To the Editor:

Your paper thinks J. Thomas McGovern may have a conflict of interest in seeking a judgeship, because of his wife's contract with the city? How about Ms. Kirsten Frank, who works for the law firm headed by Mayor Palmer Heenan's brother-in-law, Richard Durant? You mean to say that firm does nothing for Grosse Pointe Park?

Wilma Ingalls
Grosse Pointe Park

Story tasteless

To the Editor:

The article about Mark Andrews in the Oct. 15 issue of the Grosse Pointe News was tasteless. Not only did the programs about North and South high school bands ridicule the bands, but they also insulted the Grosse Pointes in general. To make matters worse, the Detroit Symphony Orchestra was dragged in the satire of Grosse Pointe's homecoming.

These days, there is more to do at Grosse Pointe high schools than marching band. People have criticized that Grosse Pointe is so "wealthy," yet it can't even put together a marching band. We do have some of the best sports teams in the state, not to mention language and other academic clubs. It's not like we don't have a music program — concerts are scheduled for evening performances.

We may not have a marching band this year, but being publicly teased over the radio won't help the situation in future years.

Wake up, Academy

To the Editor:

This letter is long overdue, yet better now than after one of our kids is injured or killed.

There is an immediate need for a fence along the Grosse Pointe Academy soccer playfield as it borders Moran Road.

For years I have watched as hundreds of soccer games and practices have been played on this field. Several times during each of these activities, a ball is errantly kicked through the sparse bushes out onto the street. The ball is invariably followed by a running, unwary youngster, excited and distracted by his game. The bushes are only three feet from the curb — one stride from the street. They are sufficiently high so that the angle of vision of both the youngster and motorist are totally blocked until the kid is virtually in the street chasing a ball. Moran is officially designated as one of the four or five major through streets of Grosse Pointe Farms.

More letters on page 9A

I am not suggesting an unsightly barrier such as a flimsy, temporary snow fence or a stockade fence. I don't even think an expensive full-size chain link fence is called for. A simple, low profile, relatively invisible, 30-inch high cyclone fence, painted green for aesthetics will be sufficient to prevent a rolling ball and a careless youngster from entering a busy street and becoming another preventable traffic statistic. Wake up, Academy. This suggestion makes too much sense to be ignored.

The game of dinner

Dinner with my family is like a game of Hearts.

Hearts is a card game. It's no more than 2.5 on a 10-point scale of frolicsome pastimes, but it has a unique redeeming feature. After the cards are dealt, you get to pass your three worst ones to the player on your right.

(Life should be this fair.) It's like throwing out garbage. There's a drawback, of course. You have to accept the card-garbage from the player on your left. You get his three worst cards.

Sometimes his garbage is worse than yours. Sometimes not.

Now, dinner with my family does not involve garbage. Not in the beginning, anyway.

But — there is no perfect menu. Take five hungry picky people, sit them down at the same table, and I challenge you to discover one meal that they'll all dig into with gleeful abandon.

I am expected to create meals that are well-balanced, nutritious, attractive and appetizing. And — they must contain something for everybody. Nobody should expect to be ecstatic. But nobody should go hungry either.

Consider the game rules. Dinner must consist of meat, chicken or fish; a vegetable; a starch; a salad; and milk for the children. Options are bread; dessert; and a nip of wine for the adults.

Daughter No. 1 hates carrots, broccoli, scalloped potatoes, spin-ach, pork and veal, but loves steak, hamburgers, green peas, baked potatoes with crisp skins, nectarines, oranges, green salads with tomatoes, and anything that can be dipped into sour cream or guacamole.

Daughter No. 2 does not eat red meat. She also hates fish, broccoli, tomatoes and peas. She loves Chinese food, chicken casseroles prepared by anyone but me, macaroni and cheese, spinach, green salads, and baked potatoes with soft skins.

Daughter No. 3 hates all cooked vegetables except green beans. (She also likes frozen green beans — uncooked — straight from the freezer. She dips them in ketchup.) She won't eat Italian food, Chinese food, tomatoes, onions or anything that has been prepared in the same kitchen with a mushroom.

She loves meat loaf, hamburgers and French fries. She'll only drink milk if there is a cookie to dip into it.

Husband No. 1 dislikes eating anything with more than 50 calories per serving because he is currently on a diet. In reality, however, he'll eat anything that isn't moving or isn't covered with mold or hair. This includes steak, Chinese food, Italian food, chicken, fish, pork, veal, potatoes (with skins, butter and sour cream), and every kind of fruit and vegetable imaginable except asparagus.

And I like anything so long as it's followed by a large dish of ice cream. In fact, everybody likes ice cream.

So. We assemble for dinner. The game of Hearts begins.

The food is dealt. Daughter No. 1 passes her broccoli and the onion from the top of her pork chop to her dad. In return she receives Daughter No. 3's pork chop and two tomato wedges from Daughter No. 2's salad.

Daughter No. 3 takes the applesauce from Daughter No. 1 and passes her broccoli and her entire salad to me.

Dad refuses to acknowledge the baked potato, so Daughter No. 1 spears it with her fork. An animated discussion follows between Daughters No. 2 and No. 1 as to whether the potato skin is crisp or soft. They decide to split it.

Daughter No. 2 receives the cucumbers from her dad's salad, voices a complaint about the applesauce and pork, but decides to keep them.

After the reshuffling, I announce trump: "Nobody gets ice cream until he finishes his entire original dinner!"

Yesterday's Headlines

March 11, 1976 —

The New York Times reported that Jimmy Carter's plurality in the Florida primary was a reflection of the more moderate brand of politics emerging in the "new South" and of the massive influx of newcomers that was changing the social and economic complexion of the state, according to analyses of the New York Times/CBS News primary poll and of actual voting patterns. The analyses showed that Carter was more in step than his major rivals with the better-educated, racially moderate and business-oriented voters who along with blacks constituted a potent political force in the fast-growing South.

As a result, Ronald Reagan insisted he would not succumb to pressure to withdraw from the race for the presidency, saying that the Florida vote proved the Republican Party was deeply split and that President Gerald Ford was being put on notice that voters were resisting "rubber stamping" an appointed president. He said he was not a "spoiler" who was remaining in the race simply to deprive the president of an easy first ballot nomination at the Republican convention, scheduled for the following year.

Richard Nixon said in sworn testimony that he ordered a program of telephone wiretaps in 1969 to locate news leaks, but that it was Henry Kissinger, then his national security adviser, who supplied the FBI with the names of the original targets of the program.

An Austrian industrialist who was the sole nominee to be the next president of Rotary International was accused of having been a Nazi party member and a storm trooper during World War II. The charges against Wolfgang Wick were brought by the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith and by Simon Wiesenthal, head of the Jewish Documentation Center for Nazi War Crimes.

The New York Times ran a photo of Gov. Hugh Carey and former Grosse Pointer Anne Ford enjoying an evening out together.

Yale University's women crew members who disrobed in their athletic director's office the week before to protest a lack of showers where they practice in Derby, Conn., got a private locker room. The zoning board of appeals in Derby voted to allow the women to use a 50-foot trailer for showers and changing.

In Grosse Pointe, every street bore the devastating effects of an ice storm that hit the area and most of southern Michigan the week before. Piles of twisted tree branches and limbs tangled together awaited removal by city crews. Detroit Edison reported that there were still some 2,500 customers without power.

Detroit, in a move to tax approximately four acres of Windmill Pointe Park, set the assessment at $173,000. Then-City Manager Robert Slone said that although one municipality normally doesn't tax another on property within its corporate limits, a 1949 Michigan law permits taxation, and Detroit, prodded by disgruntled citizens of the Jefferson-Chalmers Citizens Committee, denied access to the park, decided to assess taxes on property held by the Park and located in Detroit.

The Grosse Pointe Park Police Officers Association circulated

A hoax?

Last week we ran an item about a little boy in Scotland who was dying of an incurable disease. His last wish was to get his name into the Guinness Book of World Records by receiving more postcards through the mail than anyone else.

Well, shortly after our classified department spent $5 on sending the young man postcards, our phones started ringing off the hook.

It appears that the whole thing is a hoax. Someone came up with the idea that if people send a young dying boy named "Little Buddy" a postcard, they might send along a few dollars to help ease his pain.

We had several calls from people who said this is an urban legend that keeps being resurrected periodically. One woman said she called Scotland and talked with the post office there and the police department. Both indicated the matter was a hoax.

While we can't say with certainty that the item is completely false, we suggest saving those postcards and donations for charities we are a little more sure of.

Chair hysteria

A rather strange incident occurred in the Park this past month.

We got a classified ad called into the office the other day. Simple and to the point, the ad said: Found: dining room chairs, and was accompanied with a phone number.

So we called. Seems Laurie Feiss and her family were away on a short vacation. They keep a house sitter at home with the family dog while they are gone. When they arrived home, they found a brand new set of eight beautifully upholstered dining room chairs in their house.

The Feisses hadn't ordered them. There was no receipt, no notice — nothing. They called the police and were informed that if something is delivered to one's home without anyone having ordered it, under Michigan law the party can keep it.

"There is a but," Feiss said. "There is always a but."

The police recommended they keep the furniture for a length of time before selling it, and they should make a reasonable attempt to find the owner.

They called a number of local furniture stores, to no avail, and then placed the ad.

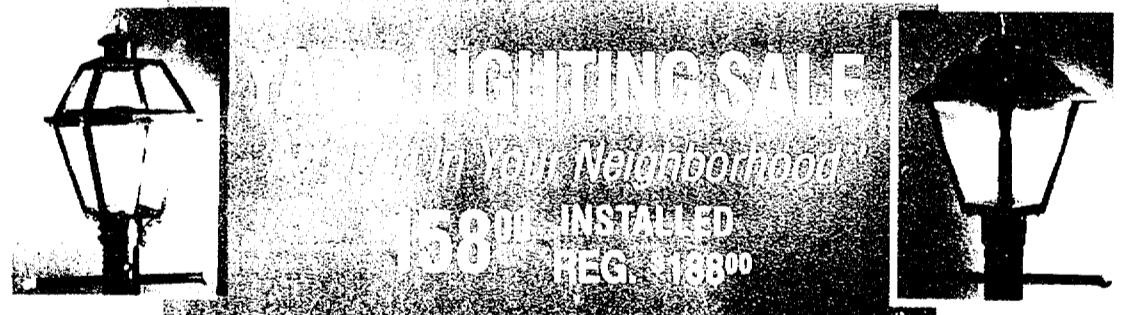

The day after they placed the ad — even before it ran — the rightful owner, the former owner of the house, called to claim the furniture. Seems the owner forgot to give the furniture store the new address.

"They are very nice chairs," Feiss said. "I could have sold them and had a very nice Christmas, but...."

Farms police offer safe Halloween tips

The Grosse Pointe Farms Police Department offers the following Halloween safety tips to parents:

- Parents should escort small children to homes in the neighborhood, visiting only those people they know.
- Older children should use the buddy system and not go alone.
- Children should wear reflective clothing or reflective tape on their costumes to make them easier to see at night by motorists.
- Costumes should be fire-retardant and unrestricting.
- Children should always look both ways before crossing the street and never run from behind or between parked cars.
- Children should avoid dark streets and alleys and stay away from any strangers, cars and vans they do not recognize.
- Use make-up or facial paint instead of a mask, so a child's vision is not blocked.
- Advise youngsters to approach all neighborhood pets with caution while wearing a costume, as it may frighten an animal.

- Advise children not to eat candy or food before getting home.
- Parents should check everything carefully for any tampering, dangerous objects or any discoloration before eating.

As in years past, the Farms police will check all Halloween bounty for tampering. Bring everything in to the desk officer.

If you like Teddy bears, you're an "artophile."

Rumors debunked

To the Editor:

As co-chair of the Library Expansion Education Committee and a recent participant in South High School's Back to School Nights on Oct. 14, I want to comment on several concerns expressed that evening by some Grosse Pointe residents regarding the proposed library building projects and specifically Central Library expansion.

First, in regard to the impact on the playing fields, I must point out that this issue was debated, criticized, and discussed thoroughly with the Library Building Advisory Committee which included Mr. Shine (South principal), a Board of Education member, Friends members, and library staff. The architects hired by the Board of Education were requested to design a building which maximized existing space while having a minimal impact on the athletic fields. This assessment began in July 1986, resulted in a document titled Facilities Assessment Report, and continued on through the preliminary design phase which the architect began in February 1987. Thus for over 16 months the architects and the Library Building Advisory Committee have been struggling with the issue. At one meeting the coaches, including Chuck Hollosy, administrative assistant for athletics at South High School, were invited to present their concerns. Although I was personally not a member of the initial planning group, the concerns are documented in the minutes of the meetings of the Library Building Advisory Committee.

What resulted from those meetings, and from the request for a variance on parking from the Farms council, was a compromise among several groups. The architect was able to design a proposed parking area which extended 43 feet into the present playing field going up Kercheval (currently marked by a stake placed outside the Kercheval fence) and simultaneously preserve the required 220 feet for the playing field. The design permitted the new library addition to extend over the current parking lot, with a minimal loss of the shot put area and with the unavoidable relocation of the current concession stand.

What surprised me at the Oct. 14 meeting at South High was the rumor that the library expansion was taking all the playing field and that no thought had been given to the consequences of relocating some athletic services. While the word compromise often carries with it the stigma of undervaluing one thing in favor of another, it is clear that the intent of everyone involved in the library project was to preserve quality in both library services and athletics.

True, there is a loss in total quantity of what in this community is often called

More letters on 10A

"green space." While no one likes the loss, it is a compliment to the architect, the Farms council and the Board of Education that a suitable compromise evolved which preserves quality; quality that we feel enhances this community.

The Library Expansion Education Committee has held a series of five public forums, the last on Oct. 24, during which time it was hoped that citizens who had concerns about the building project would come forth and express their views. Unfortunately, these forums had astonishingly small attendance, and at no time did the issue of the impact on South's playing fields come up. That is why it was surprising to hear concerns expressed at South's Back to School Night and not have these surface at any of the five forums.

I believe, speaking for the Library Expansion Committee, that a great deal of thought, time (16 months), and deliberation has gone into the design phases of Central Library. It would be unfortunate that some might find it necessary to vote against the library expansion because it is felt that answers to the complex questions of space around Central Library were never satisfactorily explored. Since Central Library opened its doors in 1953, the number of registered borrowers for all the Grosse Pointe public libraries has increased from 11,657 to 39,000, from 25 percent to 67 percent of the total population. The amount of printed information from 1953 to 1987 has increased dramatically. The need for growth in space has been documented in both the previously mentioned Facilities Assessment Report and the Needs Assessment Report by King Research.

The Library Expansion Education Committee has available several brochures for public information: 15 Questions and Answers Concerning the Proposed Grosse Pointe Library Expansion, and The Cup of Learning is Running Dry. Also available 24 hours is the Library Information Hotline, 343-2077.

I welcome this opportunity to respond to some of the concerns voiced at South High School. I urge everyone to vote for our libraries on Nov. 3. We need to continue the tradition of service excellence to our Grosse Pointe community, a tradition that enhances our investment in quality.

Donald N. Sweeney III
Co-Chair, LEEC

Time to say no

To the Editor:

More and more people are trying to dig into the taxpayers' pockets with a seemingly endless list of requests for tax increases or new taxes.

- Most of the Grosse Pointe city councils increased the property tax for 1987
- The school board is talking about a 7 percent increase

William R. Bryant Jr.
State Representative

Last week saw House passage of a two-percent tax on Michigan-based insurance company premiums. The House Democrats overrode Republican objections and alternatives to pass the $80 million tax increase on these local employers. Their aim is to provide new revenue to the state.

The Democratic speaker, Rep. Gary Owen, called the present tax on domestic insurers grossly low and a state subsidy to them. He claimed insurance is readily available from non-Michigan insurers, so the local companies could not pass along the tax increase by increasing their premiums on policyholders.

He ignores the incredible burden our companies bear already for social programs mandated by the legislature which make insurance available through state mechanisms to people otherwise uninsurable. A Democratic staffer earlier told the companies "that's the price you pay for not having to accept all comers," to insure all people regardless of risk.

Michigan mechanisms to assure insurance availability to the highest risk insureds cost companies in the form of "assessments." These assessments are, in effect, taxes, but the Democrats ignore their cost.

An incredible two-thirds of all such assessments paid by all insurers in the nation, in all 50 states, is paid in Michigan. It is hundreds of millions of dollars and nearly half of it is paid by our local companies because they sell most of their policies to Michigan residents.

It is as if the Democrats consider any tax of less than 100 percent of assets and income as a state subsidy.

Republicans have offered to vote for bills which revamp the tax law on insurance companies to provide the same revenues the state now gets, but refuse to tax our local companies more than necessary.

I urge residents to contact state senators urging rejection of the house version of Senate Bills 447 and 448.

Hopefully a House and Senate Conference Committee can resolve the conflict.

The issue is crucial because the governor has chosen to hold the budget, including nursing homes, hospitals, children's homes and other social service providers hostage until the insurance tax question is resolved.

Further, the governor is holding hostage the bill to assure that the state does not try to capture the $170 million added income tax that would result from federal tax reform law if taxpayers file based on their new federal adjusted gross revenue calculation.

Alert your tax adviser or yourself if you do you own taxes, now, that, if the legislature does not enact a statute requiring taxpayers to use for their Michigan return the figure off their 1987 federal 1040 form, there is the right to use the alternative, more advantageous, figure arrived at by using the old Internal Revenue Code. For those who took capital gains in the recent market craziness, the difference could be substantial.

Terumo has miniaturized the fever thermometer technology used in hospitals and developed a computerized thermometer that's hospital accurate and small enough to fit in the palm of your hand.

Computer design means no more shaking! Automatically activated when removed from its protective storage case it is constructed of virtually unbreakable, washable plastic. A sealed-in lithium battery guarantees years of carefree use. All this makes glass thermometers look pretty shaky. Ask your neighborhood pharmacist.

crease in our already high school taxes.

The school board and its library committee want a "yes" vote on a more than $8 million dollar issue for library improvements — a move that will substantially increase taxes for years to come.

An increase in the library operating millage is also being requested.

Wayne County is considering a request for a property tax increase.

The Grosse Pointe Park council is pushing for a bond issue for a $2 million plus seawall along Fox Creek — to be paid for by Park taxpayers.

It's about time for taxpayers to start saying no. Not all of us are rich. Many of us just can't afford any more tax bites. That's particularly true when you realize that because of an ineffectual, procrastinating legislature and a do-nothing governor, most of us will pay higher state income taxes, and get no property tax relief.

Closing will create problems

To the Editor:

As a sophomore at Grosse Pointe South, every day at around 10:30, I, as well as many other students, begin to think about where to go for lunch. Some possibilities are Burger King, Over the Rainbow, or across the street to the Farm's Market. I wouldn't even consider the cafeteria, due to the fact that it's too crowded, and the food is definitely under the ranking of OK. But if the board of education decides to close the campus, the choice of where to eat would stop and everyone would have to eat in the cafeteria.

Closing the campus would not only affect the variety of where to eat, but it would also create problems in the cafeteria. It's too small. In addition, students who smoke would have to wait until after school to do so, therefore increasing the risk of smoking in bathrooms, locker rooms and other places where they would probably not get caught. This is obviously very dangerous for the entire school. Furthermore, students would not be able to go home at lunch, if they forgot something they needed for school, such as gym shoes, books or money.

With all of this in mind, I think that closing the campus would just create more problems than anyone ever imagined it would solve.

Jumping on the bandwagon

To the Editor:

I read with interest your profiles of the candidates for the Grosse Pointe Farms city council seats. It is disturbing that several candidates who have never shown an interest in traffic and expansion problems on "the Hill," have suddenly incorporated these issues into their campaign.

The Mayor's Traffic Committee was established to answer concerns of the residents about traffic. It was because of Paul D'Angelo's efforts to bring this issue to the council that the committee was established, and Paul has been an active participant from the beginning. The other candidates could have become involved in this issue long ago, but didn't choose to do so. The traffic and expansion issues were addressed in city council many times.

It now appears that the other candidates are finally realizing that the community is truly concerned about traffic and expansion issues so it is now popular to support these issues. It is interesting that I found no mention of these issues in the other candidates' literature, while these issues are thoroughly addressed in Paul's "Platform Statement" document published months ago. Could it be that the other candidates are jumping on the bandwagon? It certainly appears so.

South band one of the best

To the Editor:

As a member of the Grosse Pointe South Symphonic Band, I would like to speak out against the recent attacks of our band program. Specifically, the feeling that the absence of a marching/pep band denotes a lack of spirit and discipline among the symphonic band members.

What is being overlooked in the attacks and accusations is the fact that South's symphonic band is one of the best high school music organizations in the area. The symphonic band has received highest ratings in local and statewide music competitions and performs annually at Orchestra Hall, not to mention numerous concerts during the year. Claims that band members lack discipline are ludicrous.

Being forced to march for a quarter of the year would severely restrain concert practice time. By not having to march, South's band is able to devote all of its time to rehearsing for concerts, and is able to uphold its reputation as a quality concert organization.

As to the claims that football and marching bands go hand and hand, may I quote Ralph Miller, conductor of South's symphonic band, who asked the question: "How many football players attend one of our concerts?" I also have to point out that South musicians have formed a pep band, on a strictly volunteer enrollment.

AAUW supports library

To the Editor:

The Grosse Pointe Branch of the American Association of University Women supports proposals on the Nov. 3 ballot that provide for expansion of facilities and programs for the Grosse Pointe Public Library System.

Professional studies have documented the need for expanded library services and an enhanced collection of materials — needs that cannot be met in the present library space.

AAUW feels there is a great need to improve our library system now, and we urge passage of the library proposals.

Does anybody care?

To the Editor:

Today, I paid a rare visit to A.L. Price and Joann Fabrics, located on Mack and Moross. Unbelievably, this shopping center is part of Grosse Pointe Farms.

I was absolutely appalled at the hideous condition of the parking lot and surrounding area. Excessive filth, garbage and broken bottles littered the parking lot. It was only 9 o'clock in the morning, but the suspicious-looking characters loitering near the store entrances made me wonder why I came. I felt unsafe, disgusted and very angry. Although I live in the Pointes, I felt like an outsider.

In no way does this shopping area reflect the beauty and cleanliness of the rest of the Grosse Pointes. It is upsetting to realize that I can't even shop in my own community at my own convenience. Instead, and unfortunately, I am not alone when I admit to shopping at stores not within the community. I know many friends and neighbors who feel the same way that I do.

How much longer will we, as taxpaying residents, allow this blighted area to remain within our beautiful community? Doesn't anybody care?

ADVANCED HEARING AIDS MEAN BETTER HEARING

Some people still think of hearing aids as cumbersome devices which produce less-than-satisfactory audio quality. A decade or two ago that viewpoint may have had some validity. But, advances in electronics which have brought us T.V. sets which fit in the palm of your hand have also been applied to hearing aids, some of which are only the size of a thumbnail!

We seldom hear users complain that their own voices sound different, that other voices sound "tinny", that clothing makes rustling noise, or that there is "whistling" caused by acoustic feedback. Modern hearing aid technology, coupled with the expertise of a professional fitter, can minimize any minor annoyances and maximize your hearing ability through effective use of a hearing aid.

Two running for municipal judge seat in the City

By Peter A. Salinas
Staff Writer

Two candidates will compete for the municipal judge seat in the City Tuesday, Nov. 3.

The incumbent, Stan C. Kazul, has held the bench since 1975. His opponent, George W. Cotichio, has made two unsuccessful bids for the position in past elections.

Both men are attorneys with their own firms. Each was asked to give biographical information and answers to two questions concerning their feelings on the issue of teenage drinking and house parties and whether they favor a district court for the Grosse Pointes.

George W. Cotichio

A municipal court requires a firm and fair judge, says George Cotichio, candidate for the City municipal court judge seat. He adds his beliefs and philosophy of justice qualify him to dispense prompt and professional justice for the citizens of the community.

George W. Cotichio

Cotichio is a 1953 graduate of DePaul University Law School. He is a member of the Detroit, Macomb, Michigan and American bar associations and is past president of the local bar association. He served as chairman of the Michigan Medical Arbitration Tribunal in Wayne County and as a defense mediator for the Mediation Tribunal Association.

tion with Wayne County Circuit Court.

"I have always been a part of our community," Cotichio said, "and share the traditional values which have solidified Grosse Pointe City's integrity. It would be my hope and expectation to further our community's common goals and traditions by serving as municipal judge."

Cotichio, married and the father of four, said the municipal judge occupies a unique position as a "facilitator of important values to our youth."

"I feel I can reach students and youth and thereby encourage the furtherance of our community's traditional values through their participation in acceptable social activities."

Not in favor of a district court, Cotichio said he feels district courts would diminish the ability of both the municipal judge and city council to benefit the community.

"It is through the municipal courts that we can have a direct impact on maintaining and preserving the quiet enjoyment and peaceful pursuit of our ideals in the Grosse Pointe communities."

Stan C. Kazul

Stan C. Kazul

For more than 13 years, Stan C. Kazul has been municipal judge in the city of Grosse Pointe. A 1965 graduate of the University of Detroit Law School, he is a member of the Michigan and American bar associations, Association of Defense Trial Counsel and a variety of legal associations.

He is a partner of the Kazul, Hoston and Ferraby law firm, and is married and has three children.

Kazul, 56, said he enjoys having the opportunity of serving his community, and that in 20 years as an attorney, he has the experience necessary to handle the position.

On the issue of teenage drinking, Kazul said that the Michigan Supreme Court addressed the problem by placing the responsibility of the host of a party when an underage social guest, as a result of drinking, causes personal or property damage.

"Our city council has passed an ordinance placing responsibility for disturbances on the homeowner," Kazul said. "This ordinance is aggressively pursued by our public safety department."

He added that he strongly supports the South Mother's Club-sponsored activities in the area of teen drinking. He also supports the Safe Rides program and the upcoming Teen Leadership conference.

Kazul said he believes the decision on whether the Grosse Pointes should form a district court should be left to the voters. He said he does support a detailed examination of the question.

"A study was done sometime ago and should be brought up-to-date," he said. "The report included the location of such a court, its funding and its staffing requirements."

He added the municipal court system in the City has served its residents well, even with a recent increase in the number of cases.

Oxford Institute opens outpatient facility here

In conjunction with October as Substance Abuse Awareness Month, The Oxford Institute, a health care partner of St. John Hospital, announces the opening of its Outpatient Substance Abuse Services at 21200 Harper in St. Clair Shores.

The Oxford Institute's health care professionals offer a full range of services for chemically dependent adults, adolescents and their families. Their goal is a balanced, guided recovery to overall health and well-being.

Services available at the St. Clair Shores location include:

- Assessment of physical, psychological, and social strengths and weaknesses
- Education about substance abuse
- Individual and group therapy
- Intervention support to break through substance abusers' denial of their need for treatment
- Links with support groups such as Alcoholics Anonymous, Narcotics Anonymous, Alanon, and other self-help groups.

Juvenile steals car; hits car, tree, house

A 16-year-old Detroit girl jumped in a car parked in the driveway of a corner house on Lincoln Sunday evening, Oct. 25, and when backing out on Kercheval, was immediately struck by an eastbound vehicle.

When the vehicle she had taken, a 1982 Buick, was struck by a 1987 Pontiac, the girl apparently depressed the accelerator instead of the brake. The car then skidded through the Lincoln/Kercheval intersection, swung around, sideswiped a tree, then plowed into a neighbor's house.

Reportedly, the keys were left in the Buick, according to City police.

The vehicle had major damage, but there was only minor damage done to the house.

Pierce plans 11th ethnic dinner

Pierce Middle School will host its 11th annual ethnic dinner Thursday, Nov. 5. The dinner sponsored by the Pierce PTO in the gymnasium, starts at 6 p.m.

Many varieties of food, including Greek, Middle Eastern, French, English, German, Italian, Mexican, Oriental, Polish and American will be served. This event is open to the public and tickets will be available at the door.

All the food is prepared and served by Pierce parents. Any money raised will go to purchase extra equipment and supplies.

The co-chairwomen for this year's event are Marianne Davies, Sue Dely and Jane Nutter. The purpose of the dinner is to introduce the parents and students of Pierce to its many ethnic backgrounds. More than 70 percent of the parents donate food to this event.

Academy prepares for Halloween with traditional parade

The Grosse Pointe Academy's annual Pumpkin Hunt is Friday, Oct. 30, and students are preparing to make the Halloween festivities a lot of scary fun.

"It is a wonderful day full of traditions at the Grosse Pointe Academy," said Camille DeMario, S.S.J., Early School and Lower School principal. "The older students not only assist in making the day special for the younger children, but also help raise money for children across the world."

Ghosts, goblins, witches and other Halloween favorites will start the day at 10 a.m. with a school Halloween costume parade. The Academy, located on Lakeshore and Moran roads, welcomes the community to view the procession.

After the parade, the Academy's Early School students hunt for a pumpkin in the "Great Pumpkin" patch to take home.

The excitement will continue as the Academy's Middle School students sponsor a UNICEF carnival for the Lower and Early schools.

ULS senior wins writing award

The National Council of Teachers of English has announced that University Liggett School senior David Lombard is a winner in the 1987 NCTE Achievement Awards in Writing.

More than 6,000 students were nominated last January by their English teachers for the NCTE Achievement Awards in Writing. Each nominee submitted a sample of his/her best writing and an impromptu essay. The compositions were evaluated by state judging teams of both high school and college teachers.

The approximately 700 winners selected each year represent high schools in all 50 states, the District of Columbia and American schools abroad.

The council recommends those cited, now seniors, for college scholarships in 1988, if they need such assistance. Names of the students are sent to admissions officers and English department chairpersons at U.S. two- and four-year colleges and universities.

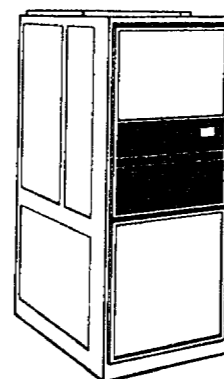

The National Council of Teachers of English is a professional organization of individual and institutional members at all levels of instruction.

Say no

Grosse Pointe's public high schools are participating in the Big League Challenge: Crack-down on Drugs competition presented by the Prosecuting Attorneys Association of Michigan. The competition began with a kick-off at the Silverdome on Oct. 6 and will conclude in February when three high schools in Wayne County will be recognized as having the most outstanding prevention program for substance abuse in their school. Representing Grosse Pointe schools were Shannon McKenzie (North), Lisa Fromm (Tower newspaper staff), Doug Merkle (North), Brian Fromm (South), John O'Hair, Wayne County prosecutor, Kristin Peslar (South), Gail Erickson (South), and Pete Eliades (North).

Young artist honored

Graham Sisk, an eighth-grader at Parcels Middle School, was honored at a special reception marking the unveiling of six black-and-white illustrations he created to relate to books popular with middle school students.

Southeastern classes plan 1941-43 reunion

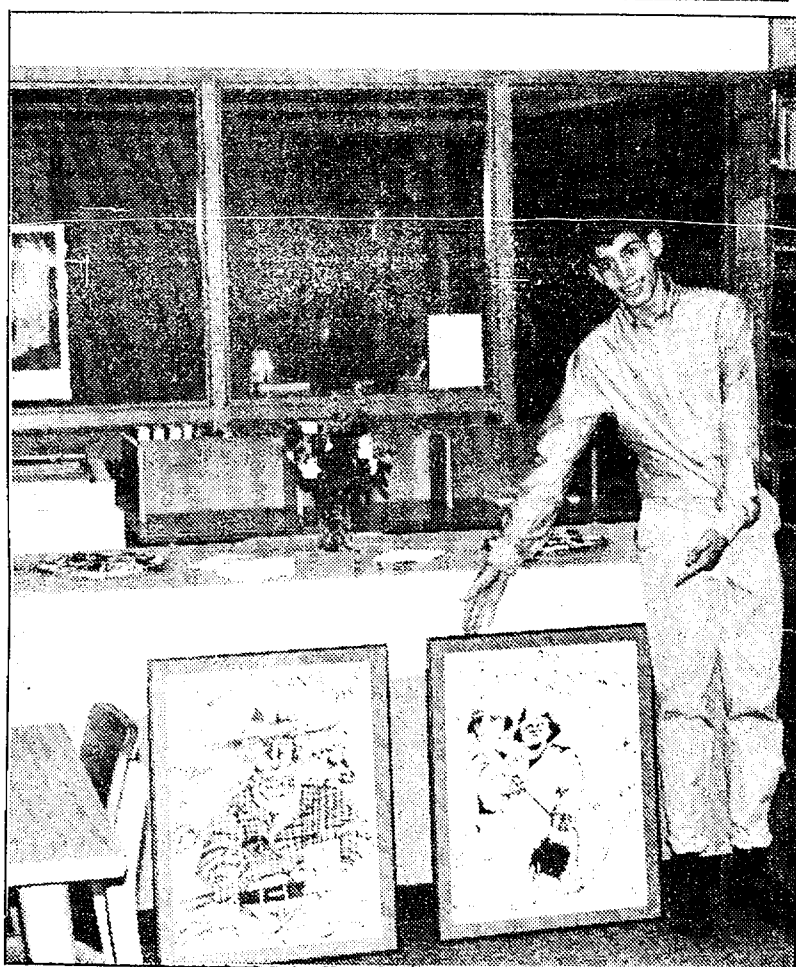

Southeastern High School, classes of 1941, '42 and '43 plan a reunion for Friday, Nov. 6, from 7 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the Fernhill Country Club, 17600 Clinton River Road.

There will be dancing, dinner and an open bar. Entertainment will be provided by the Austin-Moro Band. Tickets are $25 a person.

For information, call the following coordinators for the various classes: 1941 — Paul Andrews at 577-2163 or 882-3974; 1942 — Mark "Ted" Jacobson at 642-4700; 1943 — Herb Lorenz at 885-8976; miscellaneous calls — Vince Severini at 286-6521.

His drawings include the three witches from "A Wrinkle in Time," Harriet from "Harriet the Spy," the Cheshire cat from "Alice in Wonderland," Captain Nemo from "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea," Paul Bunyan, and a scene from "Captains Courageous."

The drawings are the first of a newly inaugurated project that will offer students visual interpretations of classic stories. Graham's artwork was created under the guidance of art teacher Mary Fodell, who also was responsible for suggesting him for this special library project. The drawings, which were framed by the Parcels PTO, are on permanent display in the Parcels School Library.

Graham Sisk stands near two of his drawings.

Engineering scholarships offered

Michigan high school seniors interested in pursuing a college degree in engineering can now apply for an $8,000 scholarship through a program jointly sponsored by the Uniroyal Goodrich Tire Co. and the Society of Automotive Engineers. Two scholarships will be awarded.

Past recipients are now attending the University of Michigan, the University of Detroit and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. This is the third year the scholarship has been offered.

Seniors will be selected on the basis of academic excellence, SAT and/or test scores, extracurricular involvement and a written statement on why they are choosing a career in engineering. Uniroyal Goodrich will provide $2,000 per student per year over a four-year period. Only Michigan high school seniors qualify. Application forms will be available through high school guidance offices in mid-October. Applications must be submitted to the SAE by Dec. 11.

For more information, contact the SAE Education Relations Department at 400 Commonwealth Drive, Warrendale, Pa. 15026, (412) 776-4841.

Halloween collection for humane society

The Michigan Humane Society will hold its third Halloween Collection for the Animals on Halloween night. Young people and adults will be asking for donations instead of the usual treats of candy.

Proceeds from this year's collections will be used to help fund the Michigan Humane Society's Cruelty Investigation Division's efforts to alleviate the suffering of the many abused animals it aids each year.

Volunteers who would like to help animals (and save their teeth in the process) are still needed to help with the collection. Canisters are available at any Michigan Humane Society Shelter. For information on the nearest shelter, call 872-3400.

ULS performance

University Liggett School's department of creative and performing arts and the middle school Dramatropers will present playwright David Goldberg's "A More Perfect Union" Friday, Nov. 20, in the great gallery of the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House, 1100 Lakeshore, Grosse Pointe Shores.

Goldberg's original script depicts the 1787 writing of the Constitution. The ULS history department has been assisting with the production to ensure historical accuracy.

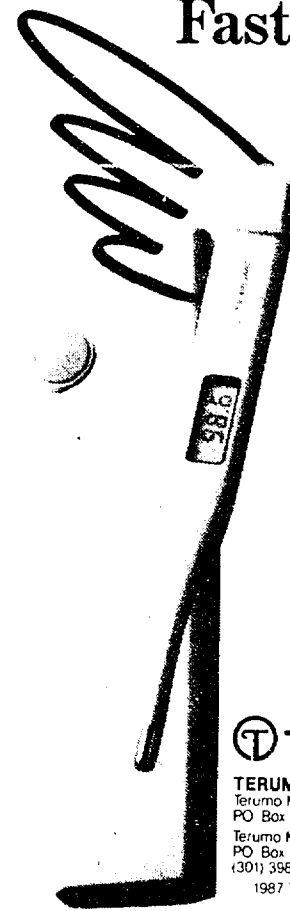

Admission to the performance is free. For more information, call director Meaghan Shubel at 886-4220. Space is limited.

ANNUAL FINANCIAL REPORT

THE GROSSE POINTE PUBLIC SCHOOL SYSTEM

The following report is a summary of the financial condition of The Grosse Pointe Public School System for the fiscal years ended June 30, 1987 and 1986 as authorized by the Board of Education and in accordance with General School Laws R340.351-2.

The Board of Education wishes to supplement the financial data with a few brief comments:

All monies received and disbursed by The Grosse Pointe Public School System are maintained under four major governmental fund types which broadly indicate the function. These are:

GENERAL FUND
LIBRARY FUND
BUILDING AND SITE FUND
DEBT RETIREMENT FUND

Two Account Groups are maintained for General Fixed Assets and General Long Term Debt.

GENERAL FUND:

This fund provides for all general operating activities of the School System, with the exception of activities associated with other funds as identified above.

The General Fund receives the bulk of its revenue from two main sources. The first and largest source is from tax levies on real and personal properties within the school district. The second is from earnings on investments.

Comments on the General Fund Operation:

For the year under review we report that the School System received no basic per pupil membership allowance under the 1986-87 State Aid Act. Our School System does not qualify for basic membership State Aid because our State Equalized Valuation per pupil is greater than the equalizing factor contained in the applicable distribution formula.

The System, however, does qualify for some Categorical assistance in financing special education programs such as Reading Support, Mentally and Physically Handicapped, Emotionally Impaired, Teacher Aides, Social Workers, and School Psychologists. In addition, Categorical assistance is received for the Bilingual program, Vocational, Community Education and Special Education Transportation.

The Board of Education continues to be committed to the concept of a balanced budget and continually reviews its financial condition and considers necessary adjustments to finance the educational programs within available sources.

These are serial bond obligations financed each year with tax levies and fund equity which are sufficient to meet the annual principal and interest payments.

During the 86-87 fiscal year the School System retired $875,000 in bonds, resulting in a balance outstanding in the amount of $6,450,000. At June 30, 1987 and 1986, the ratio of debt to the State Equalized Valuation of the entire school district was reflected at .53 and .64 respectively.

BUILDING AND SITE FUND:

Monies in this Fund are used primarily for the construction and repair of buildings and the equipment for such buildings.

Funds may be realized by special voted tax levies, specifically designated for the purpose mentioned above, by appropriation from the General Fund, or by designated gifts and contributions.

Three candidates square off in race for Woods judge

By Nancy Parmenter
Staff Writer

Two hopefuls are running against the previously unchallenged incumbent in the Nov. 3 race for municipal judge in Grosse Pointe Woods. All three believe the local court should be used as a vehicle to curb drunk driving by adults and teenagers and like the local control of the municipal court system, as opposed to a district court.

The volume of cases in the Woods has increased threefold in recent years. The court operates in the black and provides some income to the city.

Profiles of the three candidates follow.

Robert Ihrle

Robert Ihrle

Robert Ihrle is making his first run for public office in the race for municipal judge in Grosse Pointe Woods, but he has held several political appointments. Ihrle, an attorney and partner in the law firm of Killebrew & Ihrle, is also the appointed city attorney for St. Clair Shores and East Detroit and the assistant village attorney for Grosse Pointe Shores.

The fact that the Woods has one of only six municipal courts

Water resources booklet available

Michigan has 96,791 square miles of land and water surface, 35,000 inland lakes, 3,288 miles of shoreline and 36,350 miles of rivers.

A rare 10-acre salt marsh along the Maple River supports vegetation normally found only in the coastal marshes along the Atlantic seaboard. The Au Sable River is one of the best fly-fishing streams in the nation.

These are some of the many natural water resources that make Michigan one of the most fortunate states in the nation.

The need to understand and manage these resources wisely is the focus of the 64-page booklet, "An Introduction to Michigan's Water Resources," produced by the Institute of Water Research (IWR) at Michigan State University.

The full-color booklet contains 16 maps, 14 illustrations and numerous photographs that help portray, in easily understood terms, the history and extent of Michigan's water resources, and tell why they should be carefully managed.

Lois Wolfson, an IWR aquatic ecologist and educational programs coordinator, says the booklet should be valuable to teachers, students, citizens, government officials and community planners.

She says the booklet was developed in response to Michigan residents; increasing awareness of and interest in the quality of the state's waters.

"We believe that there is a need for a single document that draws from many sources of information yet makes the broad range of scientific data easily understood," Wolfson says.

She says the booklet is an educational link to the Great Lakes and Water Resources Planning Commission's "action plan," which cites recommendations for managing Michigan's water resources in the future.

The booklet can be obtained by writing to the Institute of Water Research, 334 Natural Resources Building, Michigan State University, East Lansing, Mich. 48824. The telephone number is 517-353-3742.

in the state is one of Ihrle's reasons for running. "I know and understand our city and the value of preserving our court's responsiveness to our special community needs," he said.

Ihrle says that as a trial lawyer and municipal attorney, he will bring to the bench more courtroom experience and legal expertise than the other candidates. He has written a book on drunk driving in Michigan, lectured, and been appointed to mediate municipal disputes.

Commenting on the problem of teen drinking and house parties, Ihrle said, "Substance abuse is a significant problem in our community. As your municipal judge, there is no question that offenses regarding alcohol and drugs by minors will be dealt with in a serious yet rational fashion. Parental liability, when it can be identified, will be an expensive experience."

Ihrle said he is not in favor of a district court system. "Local control over our court system is one of the unique characteristics of our community," he said. He said district court would require more employees and be more expensive to operate.

"Further, the Grosse Pointes have for years resisted consolidating efforts," he said. "This resistance is... a recognition of the separate and distinct personalities of the various cities."

Bernard Kelly

Bernard Kelly is running for public office for the first time, as he seeks the position of municipal judge of Grosse Pointe Woods. Kelly is a graduate of Oakland University and the Detroit College of Law.

He is a retired lieutenant from the Woods police force and has a private law practice. Kelly is also employed as a department supervisor at Metropolitan Airport.

Kelly said he decided to run for judge to help preserve the concept of separation of powers. Because the incumbent was appointed and has never been opposed, Kelly wants to involve the community in the selection. "I feel my background in law enforcement and my experiences in the community... make me best qualified to apply that experience and to represent the interests of the community from the judge's bench," he said.

Kelly said that teenage drinking and house parties could be dealt with through education and a firm application of the law. "It is the unsupervised, out-of-hand, teenage party that calls for the intervention of the public resources," he said. "I know that most of our citizens will react positively to informal police contacts. I believe that a formal complaint coming before the judge is a result of an aggravated incident. Only firm and meaningful punishment will send to the community the message that such activities will not be tolerated."

Kelly said he is not currently in favor of a district court system for the Grosse Pointes. "Our elected representatives studied this question several years ago," he said. "They found that the needs of the community are adequately served by the present system."

Patricia Schneider

Patricia Schneider is running for her second full term as Grosse Pointe Woods municipal judge. She was appointed in 1982 from a field of 17 candidates to fill an unexpired term.

Schneider hears all criminal and civil cases filed in the Woods and works as a visiting judge. She says she has made herself available seven days a week to handle arraignments.

Schneider has presided over a 300 percent increase in drunk driving cases, as the Woods stepped up enforcement in 1986. The Woods court is now the busiest in the Pointes.

She has made it a goal to educate the public about the courts. Schneider speaks to civic and school groups and was responsible for creating a brochure describing court functions.

Schneider has also worked on substance abuse programs. "When I became municipal judge, there was little effective drug abuse treatment or education programs, so, with community assistance, we created them," she said. "I have actively worked for substance abuse education programs with many groups."

In 1985, Schneider and Park Councilman Vern Ausherman began to promote the idea of a youth assistance program to give local supervision and counseling to young legal offenders. Last year the program became a reality under the Family Life Education Council.

This year she started a pilot program to deter alcohol use and provide alcohol awareness in the Grosse Pointe Schools.

Schneider said she favors keeping the municipal court system in the Grosse Pointes unless a district court could be shown to be more cost-effective. "Municipal courts work particularly well in smaller communities where local issues can be dealt with quickly and cost-effectively," she said.

Depression: The common cold of mental illness

By Pat Paholsky
News Editor

Joanne is 35 years old, she has a beautiful Tudor in Grosse Pointe, she's at the top of her profession in a high-paying job for which she spent 10 years earning advanced degrees and she thinks about suicide every day.

Joanne is depressed and it's not the down-in-the-dumps feeling that everyone experiences periodically. She's been in the hospital five times in the last two years for severe depression. Her medical bills over the last three years have topped $100,000.

She suffers from the most common of mental illnesses, an illness that touches one of every five families. Despite her thoughts of suicide and her feelings of complete helplessness and hopelessness that have disrupted her life and her career, Joanne is trying to help herself by helping others.

She has formed a support group that meets at Cottage Hospital the third Thursday of the month from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. in the new conference rooms 1 and 2. For depressives and manic-depressives, the group is new to the east side and people who are interested should call Joanne at 882-4366. The next meeting is Nov. 19.

The rap groups that meet throughout the tri-county area are under the aegis of the Manic-Depressive and Depressive Association (MDDA), an organization established by a group of patients who felt the need to supplement existing treatments with a confidential network of support and acceptance. The MDDA is in partnership with the Mental Health Association of Michigan, an organization supported by the United Foundation and local United Ways. The statewide organization provides MDDA with a meeting place, helps with publications and provides financial support.

Depression and manic-depression are so widespread, they are referred to as the common cold of psychiatric disorders. And while people suffering from either illness are generally considered to be non-productive, the fact is that many ordinary, and even extraordinary, people suffer from mental illness.

Some well-known people who have had depression or manic-depression are Abraham Lincoln, Winston Churchill, Theodore Roosevelt, Robert Schumann, Robin Williams, Virginia Woolf, Ernest Hemingway, George Frederick Handel and poet Anne Sexton. According to one author of a book on the subject, it seems that the illness fuels a certain kind of drive and creativity.

In an interview with Dick Cavett, who spoke of his experience with a severe depression, he said: "What's really diabolical about it is if there were a pill over there, 10 feet from me, that you could guarantee would lift me out of it, it would be too much trouble to go get it."

Nearly everyone has experienced some type of depression, so when does it warrant professional help? Joanne said if someone is in a down mood and can't shake it off after two or three weeks, he ought to see his family doctor or a psychiatrist for evaluation. This is particularly true, she said, if the person has gone through a previous depression.

It's also helpful, she added, to talk to someone who's been through a depression or to attend a support group meeting.

Some of the common symptoms of depression are: feelings of sadness, anxiety and hopelessness; sense of impending disaster or doom; loss of energy and motivation; eating disturbance, decreased or increased; sleep disturbance, decreased or increased; thinking and memory impairment; suicidal thoughts.

Some well-known people who have had depression... are Abraham Lincoln, Winston Churchill, Theodore Roosevelt, Robert Schumann, Robin Williams...

Symptoms of mania are: impaired judgment; extreme irritability; high energy level; overspending; minimal sleeping; feelings of grandiosity; rapid, unpredictable emotional changes.

Manic-depressive illness is characterized by periods of depression and mania.

Sometimes, Joanne said, depression is expressed as colitis, indigestion, headaches and nausea. Many times, people treat their depression with alcohol and become alcoholics.

"A lot of alcoholics are depressed," she said. "If they get help for the depression, the alcoholism goes away."

And there is help even for severe and difficult cases, Joanne said. There have been many advances in treatment in the last 10 to 15 years and people have to become informed consumers in this matter. She said the most common error by doctors in treating depression is under-medication.

The MDDA has a list of about two dozen professionals it recommends, including psychiatrists and psychologists, in the metropolitan Detroit area, who specialize in depression and manic-depression.

There are several theories about what causes depression or who is a likely candidate. There is the biological model, Joanne said, in which there is a chemical imbalance in the brain or in the body's hormones. In the psychological model, a stressful event, such as a death, birth of a child or a new job, can cause depression. Each affects the other, according to studies, Joanne said.

In her case, it was a seemingly minor setback that sent her into the depths of a severe depression from which she is struggling to recover.

She was an officer with a national company in the East when she decided to improve her position and eventually become a consultant in her field. She was interviewing throughout the country and she got an offer she couldn't pass in Detroit. She sold her house in the East and bought one in Grosse Pointe Park.

"I can remember the day," she said. "The moving company called and said they couldn't deliver my furniture on a particular day and I just fell off the edge."

She said she had been having bouts of depression since she was 20. Her worst episode occurred in 1980 and it was in 1983 when she got the call from the movers that began her long period of hospitalization and treatment.

Compounding the stress of a new job and new location was what Joanne refers to as her "loaded pedigree." Her mother is schizophrenic.

A doctor from the University of Miami School of Medicine, Janice Egeland, has done research among the Amish in Pennsylvania for 15 years. There is no alcohol or drug abuse among the Amish, they have large families who are supportive and there is no divorce, yet Egeland's studies shows that manic-depression is inherited.

Egeland spoke at a national convention on depression that was held at Mercy College in August. Joanne said about 450 people attended the three-day event.

There are monthly meetings at Beaumont Hospital in which family members can also attend. They differ from the smaller rap groups that are limited to those suffering from depression or manic-depression. The meetings at Beaumont feature a speaker and attract about 100 people each month. For information, call the MDDA hotline at 559-2070.

Joanne, who is now on disability, said her treatment consists of taking five drugs a day, undergoing psychotherapy, eating a well-balanced diet, abstaining from alcohol and limiting her coffee intake to two cups a day. Another part of treatment is to help others. Also important is aerobic exercise, she said, which releases endorphins in the brain and gives a sense of well-being.

Depression is more common among women, Joanne said, about three to one. Manic-depression is about evenly divided between the sexes.

Joanne is asked if she can see the day when she can function as she once did. She answers no. Then she adds that the two key characteristics of the illness are the feelings of complete helplessness and hopelessness.

For the time being, however, she's doing what her doctor prescribes, reading every book she can on the subject, attending meetings and seminars and hoping to get an active support group going in this area.

Four elected to War Memorial board

Margot Kessler, John F. Youngblood, Charles W. Davis, Jr. and John D. Durno were elected to the Grosse Pointe War Memorial Board of Directors at the 39th annual meeting Oct. 5. Kessler and Youngblood are new to the board, while Davis and Durno were elected to second three-year terms.

Following the election and presentation of plaques to retiring board members — Sandra L. Fisher and William G. Butler — War Memorial President Mark R. Weber said that during the past fiscal year, more than 189,000 people participated in approximately 5,000 functions at the center and more than 81,000 were served refreshments or meals.

Burglar surprised, steals car

A Raymond Road resident in the Woods left his home around 8 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 24, but returned at around 8:30 a.m., surprising a burglar who had the man's television and VCR all set to take from the home.

Upon entering the home, the man heard a noise in the kitchen and thought it was his wife. When he went to investigate, he saw a male in his early 20s exit the side door.

The resident pursued the man into the backyard, and heard a car start in front of the house. When he ran to the front, he saw the subject drive away in a silver Ford.

According to the police report, the resident replaced the television and VCR and waited about three hours before coming to the department to report the incident. Later investigation determined that the car the burglar drove off in belonged to a neighbor and was reported stolen shortly after the man made the report.

Police believe the thief may have spent the night in another vehicle, which also belonged to the resident who had the car stolen.

There are no suspects at this time, but Woods police are investigating.

A special presentation was made to Paul I. Moreland for 40 years of dedicated service to the War Memorial. The evening concluded with a slide presentation by board member Richard W. Kay of events and activities held during the past year.

Also serving on the board are Georgiann G. Henritzy, M. Jane Kay, A. Steward Kerr, William B. Lafer, John D. Lewis, Frances B. Mead, Ronald C. Morketter, Frank J. Sladen Jr., Barbara N. Weiss and honorary member Frances D. Sheldon.

Established in 1949, the Grosse Pointe War Memorial Association is a non-profit civic, cultural and educational organization dedicated to those Grosse Pointers who have served in the United States armed forces. Housed in the former home of Russell A. Alger Jr. family, the War Memorial serves the community through sponsorship of educational and enrichment programs, classes and educational travel. The facility, which also includes a ballroom and auditorium, is the site of numerous meetings, conferences and receptions throughout the year.

Happy Haunting!

One of the most intricately decorated houses in the Pointes belongs to the Pontengas on Lakepointe. Each year, Marilyn Potenga says neighbors start asking around Oct. 1 when she is going to get started. Her children, Nicole, near the wagon, and Kenny, help decorate grave markers by covering them with a blanket of leaves. Their father is Kenneth Potenga.

This scary light fixture graces a house on Allard in the Woods.

The Brothers Frontera are oblivious to the football player hanging above them. The boys, who live on Brys Road in the Woods, are, from the top, are Kristopher, 10, Michael, 8, and Matthew, 5. Their parents are Walter and Kathy Frontera.

Bats in the bellry and ghosts on the porch. This home on University in the City will be a scary place to visit on Halloween.

ULS book fair

The public is invited to attend the annual University Liggett School Book Fair on Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 11 and 12, from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. The event will take place in the arts wing studio of the Cook Road campus, 1045 Cook Road, Grosse Pointe Woods (use the upper school entrance nearest the tennis courts). There will be more than 4,000 titles available: the latest best-sellers, old favorites, classics, biographies, sports, fantasy, sci-fi, how-to, gardening, cookbooks and art books. A selection of computer software and books-on-cassette will also be available. Special-order service is offered and experts will be available to help with selections. Cash, check, Mastercard or visa will be accepted. All profits will benefit the ULS libraries. For more information, call 884-4444.

Academy book fair

The public is invited to visit the Grosse Pointe Academy's annual Book Fair Tuesday and Wednesday, Nov. 4 and 5, and Tuesday and Wednesday, Nov. 10 and 11, from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Held in the school library, located at Lakeshore and Moran, the fair will have a large selection of hard and soft cover titles for readers of all ages. There will also be games, calendars, bookmarks and diaries available for sale.

A special addition to the Book Fair will be the sale of wreaths, potpourri, soup mixes and other items grown and made by the Grosse Pointe unit of the Herb Society of America.

Sponsored by the Academy's Parents' Coordinating Council, the event is chaired by Dee Banicki and Deborah Dumler. Proceeds of the fair will be used to further enhance and benefit the library.

Rehearsing for "Whose Life Is It, Anyway?" are Nicole Smith, Eric Frederickson and Eileen Julian.

ULS Players on stage

The University Liggett School department of creative and performing arts and the ULS Players will present playwright Brian Clark's "Whose Life Is It, Anyway?" in the main auditorium, 1045 Cook Road, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Nov. 12-14.

The Tony Award-winning drama explores with humor and compassion one man's struggle to regain control of his life and destiny after a crippling automobile accident.

Curtain time for all three shows is 7:30 p.m. Tickets will be $2 for adults, $1.50 for students at the door. Advance tickets for $1.50, adults, and $1 students, may be reserved by calling the school between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. at 884-4444.

Y sponsors haunting affair

The Downtown YWCA of Metropolitan Detroit will sponsor a haunting affair on Halloween, Oct. 31, from 4 to 8 p.m.

The lower level of the Y will be transformed into a cavern filled with ghoulish fiends, flying things and other hideous creatures. Scary videos, spooky swim, games, music, special

Author of Ford book to speak

Best-selling author Peter Collier, who, with David Horowitz, penned the recently published biography, "The Fords: An American Epic," will visit the War Memorial Friday, Oct. 30, at 2 p.m.

Tickets for the lecture, which will be followed by a brief autograph session, are $5 per person and may be purchased at the War Memorial front desk or at the door.

"The Fords" is the third biography of a great and influential American family by Collier and Horowitz. They also teamed to write "The Rockefellers: An American Dynasty" and the number one bestseller, "The Kennedys: An American Drama."

Collier and Horowitz met in graduate school at the University of California at Berkeley in the early sixties, later becoming editors of "Ramparts" magazine. Collier was awarded a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts in 1979 and is the author of "Downriver," a novel. Horowitz received a Guggenheim Fellowship in 1979 and is the author of "First Frontier." They are currently working on a biography of the Roosevelt family. Friday's event is presented by the War Memorial Council of Sponsors, with assistance from Gwenn Bashara-Samuel of the Grosse Pointe Book Village. For further information, call 881-7511.

Book discussion

Author Walker Percy will be discussed at the Book O'Philes meeting Thursday, Nov. 5, at 7 p.m. at St. Paul Parish House. The talk will be presented by Msgr. Francis X. Canfield, pastor of St. Paul Church.

Percy, a major Southern novelist and moralist, is a unique voice in American fiction. He is the author of six critically acclaimed novels: "The Moviegoer," "The Last Gentleman," "Love in the Ruins," "Lancelot," "The Second Coming" and "Thanatos Syndrome."

Judge Pitts is final speaker in Memorial Church series

Frances Pitts, Wayne County Probate Court judge, juvenile division, is the featured speaker in the final presentation in the Grosse Pointe Memorial Church series "Windows on the Renaissance City," held Sunday, Nov. 1, at 10:40 a.m. in Barbour Chapel. Her topic will be "Where are the resources for our children?"

Recently appointed to the bench, Pitts will assume the position of presiding judge in January. Her experience includes 10 years as a referee in juvenile court and prior years of service as parole officer, clinical social worker (with a master's degree), mental health consultant, group therapist and casework supervisor.

She has given her time to a wide range of law and social work-related organizations. Of special interest to Presbyterians is the fact that Pitts is serving as the moderator of the Detroit Presbytery for 1987. In addition to extensive committee work in the Presbytery and in her home church, St. John's Presbyterian, Pitts has also been active in the General Assembly and led its Committee on Social Justice in the 1987 General Assembly.

Her interest in young people and their concerns also led her to serve on the board of Barat Human Services, an affiliated agency of the League of Catholic Women, which provides residential care for young women and girls, and a wide range of other counseling services for young women and their families.

DIA curator to trace state's history

As Michigan's 150th anniversary celebration draws to a close, Macomb Community College's Forum Luncheon Series will honor the historical heritage of Michigan's earliest ancestors with a special presentation.

Dr. David W. Penney, Ph.D., associate curator of the department of African, Oceanic, and New World Cultures at the Detroit Institute of Arts, will discuss Michigan's original inhabitants and how far back we can trace their ancestral ties.

Dr. Penney's presentation will take a look, through lecture and slides, at the art forms which were woven into the framework of daily life. The program will share a cultural legacy for all people who share Michigan.

The luncheon is Thursday, Nov. 5, 12:30 to 2 p.m., in the John Lewis Student Community Center, K-301, at Macomb's South Campus, in Warren. For more information, call 445-7417.

Make a decorative egg basket

Learn to create decorative and functional baskets during a one-day Egg Basket Workshop, Saturday, Nov. 7, 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the War Memorial.

Instructor Mary Herbert will teach basic basket-making theories as well as the specific patterns. New students are welcome. For returning students, there will be a larger variety of materials, such as grape vines and sea grass, with which to work.

Bring a sack lunch. Workshop fee is $18 plus a nominal supply fee payable to instructor. Supply list available at time or registration. Call 881-7511.

Theater buffet to precede play

Buffet dinners will be served at 6:30 p.m. in the War Memorial Fries Ballroom prior to some performances of the Grosse Pointe Theatre production of "Pirates of Penzance."

Reservations are being accepted for Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Nov. 4-7, and Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Nov. 11-13.

Dinners must be ordered three days in advance of the performance and are $10.50 per person. Parking, tax and tip are included. Checks should be made payable to the Grosse Pointe War Memorial and mailed with a stamped, self-addressed envelope to 32 Lakeshore, Grosse Pointe Farms, 48236. Indicate date desired.

Be sure your performance tickets are confirmed before ordering dinners. Performance tickets are $9 and must be purchased through Grosse Pointe Theatre, 881-4004.

For further information about the buffets, call the War Memorial, 881-7511.

Mysterious Michigan

Mysteries set in Michigan and written by Michigan authors will be the topics for discussion at Central Library as part of the sesquicentennial celebration.

Professor James Herron of Wayne State University's Department of English will talk about Elmore Leonard's "52 Pick-up" at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 5. Paperback copies of the book have been donated by the Friends of the Library and are available upon registration at Central. Following Herron's talk, there will be a group discussion.

The "Let's Talk About It - Michigan" series of which "Mysterious Michigan" is a part is co-sponsored by the Michigan Council for the Humanities and the Library of Michigan. The program is designed to bring out-of-school adults into libraries and into an informal seminar setting with scholars.

Loren Estleman will be the next speaker Thursday, Dec. 3, talking about his book, "Motor City Blue."

Participants are asked to have read the books before the program, which is free. Registration can take place at any branch and is recommended.

Cinema League hosts slide show

The Grosse Pointe Cinema League will meet Monday, Nov. 2, at 8 p.m. at the War Memorial. Helen Kosy will share her 35mm slides, "Driving Around Portugal."

The fly-drive holiday will begin in Lisbon, where a two-door Fiat is the means of transportation down to the Algarve, to the Spanish border and the interior and along the Atlantic coast, stopping at picturesque pousadas along the way. Pousadas are government-owned hostels — many times medieval castles, monasteries, or fortresses — modernized and available for travelers by car.

The itinerary extends to Beja in the east, where an old deserted fortress is explored, continues to the cork forests to Faro, a resort center, and along the Mediterranean coastline. Up the Atlantic coast there are stops at Santiago do Dacem, where the pousada is surrounded with flowers, and farther north at Obidos, a walled town with an 11th century fortress.

In the interior of the country, the forest of Busaco is visited, where the palace of the last king becomes our hotel for several nights. This is truly a storybook setting complete with flowers, pools, white swans, turrets and even gargoyles. Another stop is in Evora, where an ancient Roman Temple of Diana graces the square. In this area a 14th century castle, with air conditioning to preserve the precious antiques, is our pousada in the town of Estremos.

Lastly, the beautiful city of Lisbon is visited and tours made to historical areas such as the castle of St. George. Portugal is steeped in history, from the Phoenicians, the Romans, the Celts, the Germans, the Moors, French, Spanish and English; and yet it has retained its own customs, language and way of life. Evidence of this past still endures and is recorded with a light touch in this interesting travelog.

The public is invited to attend. There is a charge of $2 for non-members plus 50 cents for the social hour that follows. Memberships are available for $10.

'Pinocchio' cast plans Halloween party

The Peanut Butter Players plan a gala Halloween party as part of their regular weekend showing of "Pinocchio" at Austin Hall.

On Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 31 and Nov. 1, the audience is invited to attend the show in costume and participate in a costume contest with prizes. Lunch of hot dogs, potato chips, apple, cookie and a soft drink will be served at noon; the show begins at 1 p.m.

"Pinocchio" will continue every Saturday and Sunday afternoon through Dec. 13. Reservations are required and can be made by calling 559-6PBP during the day. Price of both lunch and show is $6.

The Peanut Butter Players are professional child actors who come from Detroit and suburban communities. Austin Hall is located at 18000 E. Warren between Mack and Cadieux.

Brahms recital

Italian virtuoso pianist Mario Delli Ponti will be heard in an all-Brahms recital Sunday, Nov. 1, at the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House.

The concert begins at 3 p.m. and tickets are $11. Seating is unreserved.

The selections on the program include three Intermezzi, Sonata No. 2 in F sharp minor and Sonata No. 3 in F minor.

Park voters to choose between two for municipal judge seat

By Margie Reins Smith
Staff Writer

Voters in Grosse Pointe Park will choose a municipal judge Tuesday, Nov. 3, to replace Beverly Grobbel who resigned in July.

Two Park residents are running for the position, Kirsten Frank and J. Thomas McGovern. Both were asked to comment on the issues of teenage drinking and house parties and how a municipal judge could influence these problems. Both were asked whether they favor a district court for the Grosse Pointes.

Kirsten Frank

Kirsten Frank

Kirsten Frank said she is committed to the preservation of property values in the Park by the vigorous enforcement of building codes. She also believes in education for teenagers about alcohol and substance abuse as well as fair and consistent sanctions for youthful offenders. She also said a district court for the Grosse Pointes is long overdue.

Substance abuse by teenagers,

Frank said, has led to an increase in drunk driving and disorderly conduct. "This increase is exacerbated by open house parties where teenagers drink and then drive, with serious legal consequences. Police are often called when these parties get out of hand and parents can be and are held responsible (under a Park ordinance).

"The problem can be attacked on two levels: education and uniform application of sanctions for violations of the law."

Frank believes the municipal judge should take an active role in educating youth about the serious legal consequences of such behavior. She cited the value of substance abuse programs and organizations such as MADD. If (teenage drinking parties) reach the legal system, she said, the court must consistently and fairly apply sanctions in order to conform with the community's expected standards for conduct for teenagers.

Concerning the creation of a district court for the Grosse Pointes, Frank said she has consistently supported such a move. "Nowhere is the need more evident than in Grosse Pointe Park," she said. "For example, we are unable to locally adjudicate citizen disputes in excess of $1,500, which means our residents' cases are heard by other district courts where dockets are extremely congested. Furthermore, a district court would ensure judicial availability on a full-time basis to meet our police department's requests for search and arrest warrants, arraignments, and so on. Finally, a district court would not only be cost-effective, but would generate revenues in excess of its costs."

Frank received a bachelor's degree from Michigan State University and a juris doctor from the University of Detroit. She was a Republican precinct delegate, a delegate to state Republican conventions, Republican youth chair for the 6th District, chairman of the College Republicans and a member of the Republican Supreme Court Selection Committee.

She's a member of the Michigan Bar Association, Michigan Trial Lawyers Association, Women Lawyers Association, supervising attorney for Legal Alternatives for Women, Barrister Mentor Program, chairwoman of the Grosse Pointe Park Downtown Development Authority and Detroit Bar Association Alternative Dispute Resolution Committee.

She's a partner with Durant and Durant, P.C. Frank, 30, and her husband, William B. Kelly, live in the Park.

J. Thomas McGovern

J. Thomas McGovern

J. Thomas McGovern said he is uniquely qualified for the position because he has legal experience as well as community involvement. He said the underage drinking and driving problem is epidemic and he favors a district court for the Grosse Pointes, but with some qualifications.

"I view (the teenage drinking problem in Grosse Pointe) as a serious problem which needs to be specifically addressed by the municipal judge. I would establish a firm strategic policy for minor drinking drivers which would include license suspension, mandatory substance abuse

Grief seminar

If you have suffered a loss due to the death of a loved one and are dreading the coming holidays, join Mary Herta Jamerino, ACSW, a social worker and the bereavement counselor for the Kaul Funeral Homes, for a two-evening seminar. The focus of the program will be coping with and adapting to the emotions experienced during the grieving process.

The seminars will be held from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 5, and Thursday, Nov. 12, at the Religious Education Building of St. Gertrude Catholic Church, 28839 Jefferson, between 11 and 12 Mile roads in St. Clair Shores.

The program is free. Reservations are requested. Call 775-2424.

counseling, community service and restricted curfew during a period of probation. I would establish a similar policy for minors convicted of being in possession of alcohol or public intoxication.

degree in tax law at Wayne State University Law School. He served in the U.S. Air Force.

He is a member of the state bars of Michigan and Arizona, the board of directors of the St. Clair County Bar Association and he is chairman of the Criminal Indigent Committee, St. Clair County Bar Association. He's also a member of the mediation committee for the 31st Judicial Circuit Court.

McGovern served on the selection committee for appointment of the Pierce Middle School principal and as adviser for South's freshman homecoming committee. He's been president of the Park's Little League and on the board of directors for the Grosse Pointe Inter-Faith Center for Racial Justice.

He has practiced law in St. Clair County since 1973 and has been general counsel for St. Clair Township and China Township, and special counsel for Marine City, including ordinance and traffic enforcement.

McGovern is 43. He and his wife Kathleen have three children. They live in the Park.

Senior citizen assaulted; suspect caught, charged

A 32-year-old Detroit man, alleged to have broken the arm of an 80-year-old Wayburn resident in the Park Oct. 17, was arrested two days later after extensive footwork by Park police.

According to Park Capt. William Furtaw, George Abriel was arraigned in municipal court Oct. 21 on charges of armed robbery and breaking and entering. He was being held last week in lieu of $10,000 bond awaiting preliminary examination scheduled for next week.

The victim, said Furtaw, was the same man who was robbed in his home on Oct. 15 by a woman. During that incident, the victim said he remembered that a man came to the door asking if a woman were in the house. The elderly resident didn't remember that when he first related the incident with the woman to police. The woman had come into the house and demanded money. She later pushed the man to the floor and removed cash from his wallet.

Apparently, Abriel had broken into the home through a window. When the resident returned home and found the man in his house, he ordered him out and a struggle ensued. Abriel used a flashlight to strike the man, allegedly breaking the man's arm. He then took $75 from the resident's pocket and fled.

Over the next two days police canvassed the area. Several residents indicated they had seen the man described to them by police. Police also contacted nearby store employees and asked for help in locating the man. Just two days later a store employee called the Park station and said the man they were looking for was in the store.

Police questioned the man and learned he had two outstanding misdemeanor warrants out for him. He was taken into custody and later admitted to the Wayburn break-in and robbery.

"He is being charged with armed robbery because he used the flashlight as a weapon against the man," Furtaw said.

Park DDA spokesman raps three city council members

By Margie Reins Smith
Staff Writer

About 50 Park residents attended Monday night's council meeting. Most were there to address the issue of a proposed amendment to the zoning ordinance for a piece of city-owned property on Jefferson Avenue between Westchester and Nottingham.

A representative of the city's Downtown Development Authority, who said he was speaking for the entire group, read a prepared statement expressing the DDA's dismay at the conduct of three council members who, it said, are playing political obstructionist games and are not putting the interests of the city of Grosse Pointe Park first.

Some council members and spectators responded by defending the accused council members and by pointing out inaccuracies in the DDA statement. One councilman pointed out that the DDA statement itself is political — and disappointing.

Councilman Vern Ausherman moved and councilman James Robson seconded the motion to table the zoning issue because of its highly political nature. "Let's take this out of the political realm," Ausherman said. "Three councilmen are up for election. The next meeting will be with the council people who will have to live (with the decision).

Councilman Mark Valente was the only one to vote against the motion to table, saying such a move would not de-politicize the issue, but would allow more disinformation to be spread.

At councilwoman Carroll Evola's request, city attorney Herald McC. Deason announced that the council would need five affirmative votes to adopt anything but residential zoning.

Discussion was lively. Mayor Palmer Heenan began by restating his disappointment at the council's refusal to pass the zoning necessary for the Ruffner project, a $4 million office complex. "We would have had a shovel in the ground on Oct. 1 if the Ruffner project had gone through," he said.

Dr. Philip Hessburg, who said he represented the entire DDA, read a statement to the council which said his group is "appalled and dismayed at the conduct and positions recently taken by Grosse Pointe Park council members Prost, Valente and Evola . . . when an essential component of the Jefferson Revitalization Plan was voted down." The prepared statement urged the three named council members to "stop playing games for the purposes of their own political agenda."

It went on to describe the Ruffner proposal in detail and added that the enthusiasm that it generated resulted in two additional developers submitting preliminary proposals to develop the Esquire Theater and the boarded-up Unical station at the southeast end of Jefferson.

The DDA's statement concluded, "We therefore publicly request that in the event that another major project or developer (i.e. any project whose new construction or remodeling costs will exceed $1 million) is voted down, the council mandate that the matter be submitted to the electorate."

Councilman David Gaskin pointed out that the council had no knowledge about Unical or Esquire proposals at the time they voted. "Did the city ever receive written intent to do these projects?" he said. "No. We never had any opportunity except the Ruffner project. The DDA should get their facts straight before they accuse the city council."

Councilman Prost said later, "The DDA statement is highly unusual. It's the first time I've ever heard a city commission put out a statement that is highly political. Also disappointing. The DDA is appointed by the mayor and approved by the council. I understand their disappointment (at the failure of the Ruffner proposal) — but this statement sounds political to me."

Michael Marsten, a Park resident, said, "The issue here — is that money speaks. The issue ought to be — what was this community intended to be? It was not intended to be a business strip. We need to draw a boundary and keep it firm."

Spectators at the meeting seemed to be evenly divided, as some applauded for Dr. Hessburg, when he said, "If the council isn't behind the DDA, then we have no reason to exist. We're just spinning our wheels."

Others applauded when another resident said, "Zoning shouldn't be driven by fear. We're not saying 'Don't build.' We're saying build something that fits the community."

Police think break-ins are related

Four recent break-ins south of Jefferson last week may be tied to one culprit, Park police believe.

Break-ins on Buckingham, Windmill Pointe, Lakepointe and Essex all were similar in the method of operation, according to police officials.

In the Lakepointe break-in, which occurred between 7 a.m. and 10:15 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 20, entry was gained through a bathroom window located within a breezeway. A screen was removed and the inner pane broken. The suspect reached through the window and unlocked a door. Small pieces of jewelry, a black vinyl shoulder bag and a 10-speed bike were taken.

At about 12:15 p.m. the same day, a woman heard a noise near a side door window at her residence in the same area. She came eye-to-eye with a young man who was peering through the window. He was riding a 10-speed bike and was carrying a black vinyl shoulder bag.

Officials feel the man she saw was the same man who committed the Lakepointe and other break-ins.

She described the man as a black male, about 18 to 20 years of age, 5 feet 8 to 10 inches tall, wearing a shiny white hip-length parka with a hood.

Entry to the Buckingham residence between noon and 7:30 p.m. Oct. 18 was gained through a door between the house and the garage. A glass pane was cut out and the suspect reached through to unlock the door.

Two watches, other jewelry and $150 cash were taken.

Entry into the Windmill

Pointe residence was gained through a kitchen window. Some $220 in cash and travelers checks were taken. The break-in occurred between 8:45 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

The Essex home was burglarized between 8 a.m. and noon Oct. 19. Entry was gained by breaking out a basement window and crawling through the opening. Jewelry and $90 in cash were taken from a second floor bedroom.

In each instance, officials said, the home was searched thoroughly, but neatly. The suspect took nothing more than what would fit inside pockets.

Lakeshore repaving delayed

There's a lot left to do before the paving job on Lakeshore in the Farms is completed. Interior curbs will be milled down three inches from their current height and the finish layer may not be laid before winter.

"We're still hoping to get Ajax (the asphalt contractor) in here so we can get a flying start," said City Manager Andrew Bremer.

The city sent its initial $173,500 payment to the county this week. County guidelines call for a payment of 50 percent at the beginning of the project and the remainder at completion.

The curbs will not be as high above the road when the layers of asphalt are applied, Bremer said. The safety curb on the lake side of the road will be nine inches above the road and the others will be six.

The project was bid and contracted by the county, with the city paying less than one-third of the cost.

Library coloring book available

"Color Your Library," a new coloring and design book for young patrons of the Grosse Pointe Public Library, is now available at all branches, according to library director Charles Hanson.

The library is using posters with forms for a written response about the libraries and the coloring book to promote appreciation of the proposed expansion and remodeling plans at Central, Woods, and Park libraries. The library's expansion plans include doubling the size of the present book inventory, increasing square footage from 27,000 to 60,000, and installation of state-of-the-art computer hardware and software, information retrieval system. The improvements are budgeted at $8 million for construction and one mill for operating expense.

TRAVEL TIPS

by Winnie Manley

Dorado Beach and Cerromar Beach have been popular resorts from the day they opened. Located about an hour by car from San Juan, these two hotels have a loyal repeat clientele lured back by exceptionally fine golf courses, beautiful beaches, extensive tennis facilities and the superior service. Guests at either hotel can use the facilities of both which adds to your enjoyment.

The Cerromar Beach hotel has just opened the world's largest swimming pool with 14 waterfalls, a subterranean jacuzzi and a 187 foot waterslide. There's a Casino, indoor and outdoor restaurants, bicycle paths, a nightclub and a disco, so you'll never lack something to do if you don't like to spend all day on the beach.

Most people who stay at these fine resorts never leave the place during their vacation, but you can go into San Juan for a day of shopping or to try your luck at the race track if you wish. These are special hotels for special people and have a totally different atmosphere from the hotels in San Juan which appeal to those who enjoy a faster pace. Perhaps the four championship Robert Trent Jones golf courses and 21 tennis courts attract a more sports minded crowd, but these hotels are perfect for families, honeymooners or anyone else seeking the best in accommodations, service, food and facilities.

There are many special air fares to Puerto Rico which we can combine with a hotel package, but please bear in mind the fact that these hotels are always heavily booked and have a devoted repeat clientele. Early reservations are recommended for any time of year in order to get the date of your choice, so give us a call and we'll do our best to get you space.

After all, have you ever seen a 187 foot waterslide?

Farms residents unite to fight problems

By Nancy Parmenter
Staff Writer

Disgruntled residents of the Madison Avenue area who came to the Farms meeting last week got part of what they asked for. Charging that the council is not responsive to residents, they got a hearing as well as a promise to pay attention in the future. They didn't get assigned to a slot on the traffic committee, which was their main request.

Resident Anthony Skomski, the founder and president of the 6th Precinct Association, told the council that traffic problems in the area warrant the inclusion of one of the residents on the standing traffic committee. After a long and noisy face-off with Mayor Joseph Fromm, Skomski learned that the traffic committee was selected to represent the major problem areas in the city and that it already has four representatives from the sixth precinct area.

"But I will take your request under advisement," Fromm said.

Several residents spoke to the council to complain that increased speeding enforcement on Moran and MacMillan has caused drivers to turn down Madison. They said the police are not enforcing the speed limit on Madison and the municipal court is not upholding the tickets that are issued.

Madison Avenue resident Jay Geideman, whose appointment to the committee Skomski had urged, said he had tried ever since the formation of the traffic committee to attend the meetings, but had never been able to get anybody to alert him to a meeting date.

"The traffic committee isn't very well publicized," he said. "I didn't know it was open." Committee chair Gail Kaess said he would be put on the list of people to be informed about the meetings.

Later in the week, Geideman explained that the 6th Precinct Association is barely a month old and already has so many members that they meet at a local school. It includes residents of the area bounded by Mack, Chalfonte, Fisher and Moross.

"Basically, we hope this organization will help awaken consciousness (on the part of the city)," Geideman said. "It's not political in any way."

"We want to communicate. We want to learn how to get a Neighborhood Watch. What are people on other streets doing? What can we do?"

The primary concerns in the area are traffic and crime. Residents see traffic increasing and don't know what to do about it, he said.

"We're concerned that it's escalating," he said. "We're right there on the firing line. We're not sure what the traffic committee is doing — it's so low key."

"We just don't want the door to be closed and a decision made (without our input)."

On the crime front, residents are worried about car thefts and house break-ins and the negative influence of the shopping area at Seven and Mack. "A lot of residents won't go there at any time of day," Geideman said. "That may be an unfounded fear, but

(the center) does raise a lot of questions."

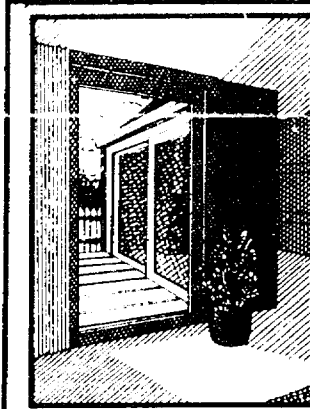

Geideman said he thought the group's appearance at the council meeting had accomplished something already. "The next morning, lo and behold, there was a police car next door with a radar," he said. "I'd never seen that before — of course, whether it was a result of the council meeting, I don't know."

He said the fledgling group plans to meet once a month to work on neighborhood problems. "We're trying to be friendly and cooperative. We have to give city council a chance to hear our views."

Ready to roll

The Kiwanis Club of Grosse Pointe has donated $15,000 to the Woods to replace one of the two Kiwanis buses used to transport residents — especially to Lakefront Park during the summer months. The club also provides wheelchairs for local churches, food and a special fund for terminally ill children, with funding primarily through the annual Peanut Day sale. Here Kiwanians and city officials gather to look at the bus: Robert Novitke, councilman and Kiwanis past president; Donald Hallman, Woods director of Parks and Recreation; City Administrator Chester Petersen; Dr. Ernest Buechler, president of the Kiwanis Club; and Mayor George Freeman.

NOTICE OF HEARING ZONING BOARD OF APPEALS

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Zoning Board of Appeals will meet in City Hall at 90 Kerby Road, Grosse Pointe Farms, Michigan on:

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1987

at 7:30 p.m. to hear the appeal of Mr. & Mrs. Peter Ronan, owners of the premises located at 36 Beacon Hill, from the denial of the Building Department to issue a Building Permit for the construction of an addition to the rear of their existing dwelling located at the foregoing address. Such permit issuance was denied for reason that:

a. The residence located on the foregoing premises is non-conforming for reason that it is in violation of the rear and side yard provisions of Article XIII, Section 1300 of the City's Zoning Ordinance, and in accordance with the provisions of Article XV, Section 1502, Item 4-A of the City's Zoning Ordinance, no such structure may be enlarged or structurally altered unless a variance is granted.

b. The proposed addition on the rear would further infringe upon the minimum rear yard requirements of 40 feet leaving a rear yard of 32 feet thereby requiring a variance from the provisions of Article XIII, Section 1300 of the City's Zoning Ordinance.

The Hearing will be public. Interested property owners or residents of the City are invited to attend.

Prime Time for Senior Citizens

Senior citizens deserve respect, dignity

By Marian Trainor
Special Writer

A response made in a local newspaper to a question of etiquette regarding the proper manner of addressing an older hospital patient highlighted an attitude that has become irksome to senior citizens. It has to do with condescending manner in which older patients are addressed by young staff members.

The query contained a question about whether it was proper for physicians and nurses to call an older person by his or her first name.

The writer was incensed because every morning the resident physician would come by and say, "How are you today, Mary?"

"Is there no respect left in the world for one's elders?" she wrote.

She went on to say that the doctor was young enough to be her grandson and that she resented that "twerp" calling her by her first name. She pointed out that she wouldn't dream of addressing him as "Jim?" He was Dr. Smith to her. (Both names are fictitious).

She went on to say that in the era in which she was raised, one didn't call someone by his or her first name until invited to do so or a friendship developed.

An expert agreed that her view was not old fashioned and that she merited being called Mrs. as a badge of respect.

Not long ago, a feisty elder citizen complained about this same condescending manner. She objected to being treated the same as a young child. She wrote in no uncertain terms that she was perfectly capable of directing her own life and communicating with adults as an adult. She particularly objected to being talked down to and cited an instance where clerks and hospital personnel had used baby talk to her. "Old ladies are not old babies," she vehemently declared.

There is another side, however. There are older people, particularly those who are long-term patients in hospitals and nursing homes, who complain of being neglected and would welcome any kind of attention whether it be out of context with the expected plane of adult communication or not. In other words, they wouldn't care whether they were called by their first name or sweet talked in nursery terms just as long as someone recognized their existence by giving them personal attention.

Good medical care, nourishing food and a clean bed are necessities, they agree, but they also feel that a bit of conversation, a smile and a hug are the extras that make the difference being a bed number and a feeling of worth. Experts concur. They also feel that these extras make a sick person want to get well, a troublesome patient less demanding and those patients who because of motivation to work with elderly clients.

Regarding nurses who worked in nursing homes, it was concluded that they often work under what is termed "burden of care," such as short staffing, low salary and poor fringe benefits. They are confronted daily by challenges of care for a number of elderly clients who have multiple physical and emotional problems. Subsequently they come to view their patients as more dependent and may actually foster dependence rather than rehabilitation.

see no reason to keep up personal appearance, recognize the therapeutic value of looking as good as possible.

Attitude toward older patients is becoming of increasing importance to those in the field of gerontology.

The findings in a recent article on nurses' attitudes toward older patients highlighted some concerns. The question raised was whether their attitudes are influenced by the age of the nurse, education and percentage of time spent with elderly clients. It was felt that the values and attitudes held by nurses determined the degree of knowledge and humanistic care that is delivered to older patients.

The type of facility where they worked was also a major factor in attitude. For instance, the study showed that the differences in the degree of favorable attitudes toward the aged among registered nurses varied. Hospitals, nursing homes and home health agencies directed by visiting nurse associations and private home agencies were considered.

It was generally found that nurses employed in nursing homes had a less favorable attitude toward older patients than those who worked in other settings and that nurses employed in visiting nurse associations have more favorable attitudes than nurses employed in private home health agencies. It was conjectured that a nurse in a private home health agency chose to work in that setting because of monetary benefits rather than

Participating in a dedication ceremony held at the Neighborhood Club on Oct. 14 were the friends and family of the late Margaret Smith, left to right, her sister Richie Chalmers, her son Hal H. Smith III, sister Star O'Brien, sister-in-law Marjorie Smith and son Leonard W. Smith, with Neighborhood Club director John Bruce.

Memorial gifts from friends and family of Mrs. Smith were used to add shelves to the Chamberlin Library located in the Neighborhood Club Senior Center. A bronze plaque was placed on the wall next to the shelves acknowledging the memorial gift and recognizing Mrs. Smith's long service to the Club.

During her 30 years as a trustee, Mrs. Smith was chairman of the building committees which oversaw the construction of the Community Center in 1967 and the Senior Center addition in 1979. She was president of the board from 1962-65. From the time she began as a trustee in 1955 until her death in 1985, the Neighborhood Club grew from 800 to 7,500 members and her leadership and support were important components in that growth.

"Whistler's Play" to open at Hilberry

"Whistler's Play," about the most famous and fantastic libel trial in English history, joins the Hilberry Theatre's 25th anniversary season Oct. 31, following previews Oct. 29 and 30. This new play by Wayne State University Theatre Director Howard Burman runs in repertory with "King Lear" through Dec. 19.

The subject of "Whistler's Play" is the history-making lawsuit brought by American painter James McNeill Whistler against Europe's most prominent art critic of the Victorian era, John Ruskin. When Ruskin published a scathing criticism of Whistler's painting "The Falling Rocket," the sale of his paintings fell sharply. Faced with impending bankruptcy, Whistler sued Ruskin for libel and damages worth one thousand pounds.

The trial became London's social event of the season, and the British court of law attempted to determine whether an artist's work can be judged by another's standards of art, and if it is right to sue a man for voicing his opinion. The careers of both painter and critic were on the line.

There will be a special benefit performance Friday, Nov. 20, Co-sponsored by Preservation Wayne and the Founder's Junior Council of the Detroit Institute of Arts, the benefit begins at 7:30 p.m. with a reception and an illustrated presentation on Whistler's "The Falling Rocket," which is part of the permanent collection in the DIA. All proceeds of the benefit will be applied to the East Ferry Avenue Historic District Preservation Project.

For tickets and information, call the box office at 577-2972.

Record apple harvest this year

A rising tree inventory and excellent weather have produced the state's largest apple crop ever - 64 percent above last year's level - and that means plenty of cider sipping this fall, reports AAA Michigan.

Michigan's total apple crop this year exceeds 1.15 billion pounds, up from last year's 700 million pounds. The harvest is the largest since the Michigan Agriculture Department began keeping records in 1898.

This year, Michigan is expected to become the second largest producer of apples nationwide, growing 70 million pounds more than last year's second-ranked New York State. Washington continues to lead in apple production nationwide.

Historically, the most abundant Michigan apples are Red Delicious and Jonathan. Other popular varieties include Ida Red, Golden Delicious, McIntosh, Rome and Northern Spy.

Cider mill visitors will find that cider averages $2.45 per gallon, 5 cents more than last year, with prices ranging from $1.50 to $3.90. A dozen doughnuts averages $2.37, 7 cents more than last year, and costs from $1.55 to $3.

Halloween superstitions still abound

James Callow, the University of Detroit's resident folklorist and director of its computerized folklore archives, flew in on a broom this week to warn about the perils of wandering into a cemetery on Halloween.

"Oct. 31 was once believed to be a witch's sabbath," Callow said, "a time of the year when ghosts walked the earth. People, especially wrongdoers, were warned to stay away from cemeteries because the wandering spirits might harm them."

Callow says spirits are quite envious of humans.

"Bad tidings, such as the evil eye, result from the gods' anger when a human is praised. That's why disguises have become so popular with humans on Halloween."

Callow says that the traditional Halloween colors of black and orange stem from ancient beliefs as well. Black can easily be related to black cats owned by witches. As for orange, the witches' custom was to use oranges like voodoo dolls, affixing their victim's name to it with as many pins as possible and then hiding it in the chimney, where by magic it would cause the victim's heart to rot.

Callow says another belief is that witches criss-cross the sky on Halloween to sweep cobwebs from the moon. Seeing a falling star that evening may mean your sweetheart is a witch.

A related seasonal holiday, All Souls Day, brings its share of superstitions, too. Callow says Mexico, for example, celebrates Nov. 2, the Feast of All Souls, as a day when the dead come back and visit their surviving relatives. The relatives welcome back the spirits by leaving food on the grave and on the doorstep, sometimes strewing flowers along the path to the graves. The Irish seem to have found the means to stave off these supernatural beings, Callow said. They put salt in their hair to prevent the wee folk from carrying them off.

Farms floats municipal bonds for upgrading park, city hall

By Nancy Parmenter
Staff Writer

The Farms has long intended to finance park and city hall improvements through a bond issue. The bids came in Monday — the day the stock market suffered its biggest decline in history. That brought the building authority to the council meeting for approval to go ahead.

"Because of the turbulence of the market that day, the authority wanted to talk to the council," said Comptroller Carrol Lock. "It was the last chance if the council had any reservations."

The interest rate (effective 8.5 percent and 8.7 percent for the two bonds) was higher than hoped for, but within the amount budgeted, according to Mayor Joseph Fromm. "The market is likely to go higher," Fromm said. In spite of market uncertainty, the council voted to approve the two bond bids.

The bond for city hall construction is $500,000, payable over 15 years. No one knows whether it will be enough to pay for the entire project, because no final drawings have been prepared and no bids have been taken.

The tentative plan is to add to the end of the building toward the parking lot and to add an elevator to provide handicapped access. Some block grant money may be available for the elevator, Lock said. Once plans are finalized, if the bond isn't enough to pay for it, council will have the option to make some cuts in the plan or to find other financing.

Park plans are more definite. The $150,000 bond will not be enough to pay for the whole renovation, but the capital improvement fund of the city's general improvement fund will cover the remainder, Lock said.

The council approved bids of $208,000 at the same meeting to completely renovate the park pool, removing and replacing the entire pool deck and the layers of marbled plaster inside the pool shell, and updating the filtration system, plumbing and mechanism for treating it with chemicals. "It will be completely new except for the gunnite shell," said City Manager Andrew Bremer.

The project was originally estimated at $225,000.

This is the first time the Farms has actually used the building authority to finance a project, according to Lock. Under this arrangement, the city will pay the authority for the bond costs, but the authority is ultimately responsible for paying off the bonds.

"It's just like buying a car — do you pay cash or borrow?" said Lock. "You could pay cash — if you have the cash and choose to use it for that. You could have the foundation pay for it — if they have the cash."

"Cities don't have a lot of options. Unless you have a reliable source of revenue, people don't rush to lend you money."

Young audiences are beginning to discover theater

By Sharon Ann Harty

Smithsonian News Service
The house lights dim as the actor moves into the spotlight — a tall, dark figure, barefoot, dressed in black, coaxing Oriental melodies from his wooden flute. Hushed whispers fall silent — all but for one wide-eyed youngster who wants to know, "Is it magic?"

Yes, it's magic — theater magic. It suddenly takes over as giggles and squeals of surprise from these pig-tailed connoisseurs and pint-sized critics threaten to bring down the house. An audience full of 5-year-olds has discovered the theater for the very first time.

Stanislavski, the Russian thespian and founder of method acting, wrote early in the century, "It is necessary to act for children as well as adults — only better." Across America, professional theater companies are taking notice, producing musicals, dramas, ballets, puppet shows, everything from tall tales to Shakespeare.

Children's theater poses a demanding but rewarding challenge for directors and producers. They must consider carefully every aspect of theater and examine its impact on younger audiences. The material must be suitable for the age group, taking into account attention span, comprehension level and the particular interests of children.

At the same time, directors and producers of theater for young audiences have a rare opportunity to discover the theater all over again. "It's simply marvelous how students respond to Shakespeare while experiencing the whole nature of theater, the mystery of the theater — and the fun," says producer Joseph Papp. "They come totally unprepared — this is all fresh and new. Their senses aren't dulled by knowing the outcome or expecting the next line. They can't help but be influenced by it, even surreptitiously."

The latest emphasis on children's theater in the United States has deep roots going back to 1903 with the founding of a major children's theater at the Educational Alliance, a settlement house on Manhattan's Lower East Side. The primary goals of that first experiment were to provide better entertainment, to teach English to children of immigrants and to meet social needs of the neighborhood. Although this theater sparked the interests of other communities across the country, its doors closed in 1909 due to lack of funding.

The first government-sponsored theater in the United States was the New Deal's Federal Theatre, which included the Federal Theatre for Children. Its goal was to provide jobs for unemployed writers, directors and technicians during the Depression, but the theater lasted only three years. During the '30s, the mainstream of children's theater shifted from community groups to colleges and universities.

In 1944, the Children's Theatre Association of America, the first national professional organization for children's theater, came together. By 1952, its sponsors joined with other professional organizations forming the American Educational Theater Association to promote quality theater for all audiences.

Many colleges and universities across the country began offering courses in children's theater. In the mid-'60s, new government grants in the arts made theater possible on the elementary and secondary school levels.

Today, educational, community and professional theaters are providing first-rate performances throughout the country with funding from private, corporate and government sources. Professional theater companies are taking new interest in theater for young audiences, hoping to encourage understanding of the performing arts.

Theater companies have also focused attention on family theater. The Belasco Project presents weekend performances for parents to attend with their children. "We're not geared just to the students," Parsons explains, "but to people who haven't had the opportunity to see live theater. Exposure to the theater is such a wonderful teaching tool — no matter what age you are."

ery Theater, Swarthout also stresses how important it is for parents to learn about the theater. "We've got to educate parents, as well, to expect the best theater for their children. Parents often think they won't enjoy shows for children, but they're always pleasantly surprised."

"The entertainment works on all levels," the Library Theatre's Adler says. "The key element is fun. We have to realize that these are the audiences of the future. If they enjoy it, maybe they'll turn off the TV — if not, we've lost our audiences for good."

Parsons offers similar goals: "We have to develop the American theatergoing public, so eventually we have theatergoers who truly understand the theatrical experience."

"The arts are a part of everyday life," Swarthout explains. "We need them to express ourselves — to express emotions, perceptions, beauty. There's something you can learn through the arts that you just can't get out of a textbook. That's what we're aiming to show these children."

Glancy tells local officials why gas company is battling bypass

News Editor

Alfred R. Glancy III, chairman and chief executive officer of Michigan Consolidated Gas Co., spoke about an issue in which the gas company is currently embroiled to about 24 fellow Grosse Pointers at the War Memorial last Wednesday. It was the third annual Influentials Luncheon and included mayors, police chiefs, city managers and other officials. The issue of distributor bypass has MichCon battling Panhandle Eastern Pipeline Co. and Great Lakes Steel in the courts. Glancy said it's "the lead case for the entire country."

Distributor bypass allows a large industrial company — Great Lakes Steel, in this case — which is located near an interstate pipeline, to directly tap into the pipeline for its gas supply. The bypass, approved by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, effectively removes the industrial company as a customer of the distributor — in this case, MichCon — and if approved, will create a deleterious ripple effect throughout the gas industry, Glancy said.

In support of MichCon, the Michigan Public Service Commission ruled Sept. 29 that Panhandle Eastern cannot "compete for the cream of the volume business without regard to the local public convenience and necessity."

The U.S. District Court for Western Michigan issued a temporary restraining order the following day, allowing Great Lakes Steel to complete construction of the bypass tap, but not to transport gas.

MichCon is taking an aggressive stance against distributor bypass, Glancy said, and is prepared to take it to the Supreme Court. The interstate pipeline is not regulated by the states as the local gas company is, he said, and in the event that it could not supply gas for some reason, the local company is obligated by law to provide back-up service.

"That's the equivalent of wanting an insurance policy, but not wanting to pay any premiums," Glancy said.

He listed four major drawbacks to bypass: 1) it undermines an established state regulatory structure that protects all natural gas consumers; 2) it offers a promise only of lower prices; 3) it will create a duplication of gas facilities, such as lines, mains, regulators and compression facilities; and 4) it will raise gas costs for the remaining consumers.

"Each large customer that leaves the system weakens it by shifting fixed costs onto a similar number of remaining customers," Glancy said. "If other customers follow the lead of Great Lakes Steel Co., bypass could well negate the six percent savings we have been able to negotiate for 1988."

Glancy told the group that gas bills for the average MichCon customer would drop by six percent this winter heating season, or about $50. The reason for the decrease, he said, was due to the company's negotiation of better contracts by buying on the spot market and by offering transportation services.

In the case of transportation contracts, a major customer buys gas independently and arranges through a distributor, such as MichCon, to transport it. Locally, there are five users that have transportation contracts with MichCon — the Grosse Pointe public schools, Bon Secours Hospital, Cottage Hospital, University Liggett School and St. Paul School and parish.

Last year, Glancy said, the company had 370 transportation contracts with large customers. This year, MichCon has 700 transportation contracts, involving more than 114 billion cubic feet of gas, or a little more than one-third of the company's total gas sales.

terian Church, 19950 Mack. The next meeting will be Tuesday, Nov. 10. For more information, call Elmer Stanke at 268-1044.

The Grosse Pointe Farms support group meets the second and fourth Monday of each month at 12:15 p.m. at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, 375 Lothrop. The next meetings will be Nov. 9 and 23, both on Monday. For more information, call Lorraine Kall at 527-5216.

NOTICE OF SPECIAL ELECTION TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1987 THE GROSSE POINTE PUBLIC SCHOOL SYSTEM COUNTY OF WAYNE, MICHIGAN

TO THE QUALIFIED ELECTORS OF SAID SCHOOL DISTRICT:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a special election will be held in The Grosse Pointe Public School System, County of Wayne, Michigan, on Tuesday, November 3, 1987, between the hours of 7:00 a.m. and 8:00 p.m. Eastern Standard Time, for the purpose of submitting the following proposals to a vote of the qualified electors of the school district:

Public Library Fund Proposition

Shall The Grosse Pointe Public School System, County of Wayne, Michigan, borrow the sum of not to exceed Eight Million Six Hundred Twenty-Five Thousand ($8,625,000) Dollars and issue its general obligation unlimited tax bonds therefor in order to provide funds for erecting, furnishing and equipping additions to and remodeling, refurbishing and reequipping the three public library buildings operated by the Board of Education in the School District and developing and improving the sites for the library buildings?

Public Library Operating Millage Proposition

Shall the limitation of the amount of taxes which may be assessed against all taxable property in The Grosse Pointe Public School System, Wayne County, Michigan, be increased, for a period of four (4) years, the years 1988 through 1991, both inclusive, by one ($1.00) dollar (1.00 mills) per one thousand ($1,000.00) dollars of the state equalized valuation of all taxable property in the School District, for the exclusive purpose of providing additional funds to meet operating expenses of the Public Library System operated by the Board of Education in the School District?

The bonds described above will be paid from ad valorem property taxes which the school district is authorized to levy without limitation as to rate or amount. The bonds will be repaid in annual installments, not exceeding 30 in number, as shall be determined by the Board of Education, and will bear interest on the unpaid balance at a rate or rates determined at the time of sale not exceeding the maximum rate permitted by law.

THE PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST OF SAID GENERAL OBLIGATION BONDS SHALL BE PAYABLE FROM THE GENERAL FUNDS OF THE SCHOOL DISTRICT AND THE SCHOOL DISTRICT IS REQUIRED BY LAW TO LEVY SUFFICIENT AD VALOREM TAXES, IF NECESSARY, FOR THE PAYMENT THEREOF UPON ALL TAXABLE PROPERTY IN THE SCHOOL DISTRICT TO THE EXTENT NECESSARY, WITHOUT LIMITATION AS TO RATE OR AMOUNT.

Each person voting on the above proposition must be:

- (a) A citizen of the United States of America over eighteen (18) years of age;
- (b) A registered elector of the City or Township in which he or she resides.

Voters to decide fate of library expansion Tuesday

By Peter A. Salinas
Staff Writer

Bumper stickers are on cars, T-shirts are on backs and phone calls have been made to residents throughout the community, but more than anything, supporters of the proposed Grosse Pointe public library expansion are concerned that voters have become complacent over the bond and millage success.

Voters will go to the polls Tuesday, Nov. 3, and decide the fate of two proposals, an $8.625 million bond issue and a one-mill increase for library operations. The money will be used for a major addition and renovation to the school system's Central Library as well as an addition and major renovation to the Woods branch and renovation to the Park branch.

Current plans are to add 28,000 square feet to the existing Central Library facility, along with the addition of a 10,000-square-foot basement for storage. Some $6.26 million will be spent on the addition and renovation of Central Library. Expansion at the Woods branch, located at Parcels Middle School, will cost about $1.48 million if approved. Plans are to construct a 6,200-square-foot addition to the 4,900-square-foot existing facility. The Park branch would get a face lift, a small addition through the renovation of some existing classrooms. Total costs for architectural fees and bonding costs will be about $625,000.

Charles Hanson, library director, said he participated in a phone canvassing of residents sponsored by the several committees formed to support passage of the bond and millage questions.

The phone calls were made Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday for two consecutive weeks earlier this month.

"In general, I found people were upbeat," Hanson said. "They were very interested in the library and the majority of people said they were in favor of the bond and millage proposals."

Hanson said there were people who were opposed to the proposals, because of the increased tax burden placed on them. There has been no organized opposition to the project, although there have been some letters to the editor against the project sent to the Grosse Pointe News.

Several supporters agreed that because the library is considered worthwhile, opposition may not be vocal.

A homeowner with a $100,000 home and a state equalized value of $50,000 would pay an estimated $85 more a year in taxes if both proposals pass. That homeowner currently pays about $65 a year for 1.3 mills for operation of the library. The additional mill and debt would cost that homeowner about $150 a year.

"There are undoubtedly people out there who feel the additional cost is not warranted and will vote no," Hanson said. "We literally service people from cradle to grave... We are a very visible part of the community, and people may feel a bit embarrassed to admit (that they are opposed to the project) and once in the polls, vote no."

People contacted by phone in the survey who were in favor of the project will be sent reminders by mail to vote on Nov. 3.

"We fear apathy most of all," Hanson said. "We do need everyone who is in favor of this to vote."

Don Sweeny III, co-chair of the Library Steering Committee, said that the community has been supportive of all of the efforts of the Friends of the Library and the various committees.

"We feel we have provided a fair and comprehensive information program," Sweeny said.

He is concerned, however, that voters may feel the proposals are going to pass and not vote. Only two people turned out for the Saturday, Oct. 17 public forum on the issue.

"We have made every attempt to give people the chance to see what's going on," he said. "I have spoken at two back-to-school nights, and will speak at a Rotary Club meeting."

Other supporters have volunteered their time to speak at various organization meetings.

"Grosse Pointe is a well-educated, professional community," Hanson said. "When people see the opportunity this program presents for the community, they will vote for this. I am very confident."

Sweeny said he was concerned that since there are no controversial issues facing voters in most of the Pointes, voter turnout will be light. In fact, Shores residents will be going to the polls only for the library proposals.

Dr. Ned I. Chalal, president of the Friends of the Library, said the committees are concentrating on getting people out to vote.

He, too, is concerned that voters may not publicly speak out against the project, but vote no in the polls.

"We think about it, but there isn't a lot of opposition out there," Chalal said. "If it is, the sentiment must be well-buried if there is objection to it."

Chalal mentioned the recent crash in the U.S. stock market as a reason some people may have become sensitive to the issue of voting to increase their taxes.

"The stock market, job security, the Persian Gulf problems may have made people a little nervous," Chalal said. "We are hopeful they are able to reason through these things. We just hope it works. Grosse Pointers have risen to the occasion on a number of other issues."

Chalal said he attended a party earlier this month wearing a T-shirt that supported the library.

"My wife thought it looked silly, but I sort of enjoyed it," he said. Hopeful of convincing people to vote in favor of the project, Chalal offered a quote he had read years ago.

"Libraries will see us through times of no money better than money will see us through times of no libraries," he said.

Mary Krueger, co-chair of the Bond Issue Committee, said she felt there was good response to the phone campaign.

"We think every single vote of the supporters is important," Krueger said. "We must get those yes votes to the polls."

Krueger pointed out there have been no capital expenditures on the libraries in many years.

"We need additional money to bring our libraries up to speed," she said.

Opposition to library expansion surfaces

Peter A. Salinas
Staff Writer

Up until this past weekend, there was no organized opposition to the proposed expansion of the Grosse Pointe public libraries, but a husband and wife are organizing an effort to get others to vote no on the proposals.

Jerry and Julie Bourke of the Farms say they are not against the expansion of the library. Both feel it is necessary, but they don't want to lose part of Grosse Pointe South's playfields to do it.

There have been meetings between architects and school officials, school board members and the Farms council, sparsely attended public forums and 18 months for someone to voice concern about Central Library's proposed expansion and the use of some of the playfield to do it, but there has not been any organized opposition to the proposal until now, one week before the election.

"We attended meetings in the spring and voiced concern then," Julie Bourke said. "I guess I waited for someone else to do it."

She said she had not been to any of the public forums nor had her husband attended any.

Jerry Bourke, a former South Dad's Club president and former board member of the Grosse Pointe Little League, said this effort on their part started this past weekend.

He said he walked off the area that would be used by parking area for the proposed $6.26 million expansion of Central Library, and had no idea until then of the size of the area that would be taken.

Some 43 feet of the softball field located along Kercheval will be used for parking. Also the concession shed, the shot put and high jump areas located east of the existing library along Fisher Road would have to be relocated.

"I don't think that people generally know how much property is being taken," Julie Bourke said.

The Bourkes said they, along with about 20 others, will have flyers printed and will pass them out in areas in the Farms, City and Park.

Julie Bourke said she is just getting her effort organized. She noted that of the 20 people, none of the men wanted their names associated with the effort due to "political reasons."

"We are not opposing the expansion," she said, "but it sure would be nice if it would go somewhere else."

She said that the school district could use the space at Barnes School or tear down the school administration building in the City. Both ideas were considered by the administration and dismissed for various reasons after lengthy study, according to Don Sweeny III, co-chairman of the Library Expansion Steering Committee.

In fact, Sweeny said, many of these suggestions and concerns the Bourkes are raising had been discussed by school officials earlier, and after lengthy study and planning, compromises were reached.

Sweeny said that the shot put, high jump and concession shed facilities will be moved. There is no location currently in mind, but there will be space found, he said.

Sweeny said that the question of the usage of the athletic and softball fields was discussed in length at various meetings with South athletic officials to reach the compromises.

Another compromise was reached, one that has the Bourkes concerned. As part of the agreement with the Farms to get a parking variance, the school board agreed to provide more parking in case the number of parking spaces allowed were not enough to handle the volume. The only place where the district could get the additional parking would come from the athletic field.

"We need that field at South for our kids and our community," Julie Bourke said.

Sweeny said the utmost concern for the needs of young people and the community has been given at every turn in the project. He said he is disappointed that more people didn't attend the public forums, so they could have become more fully informed on this project.

For Michigan travelers

If winter comes early, travelers in Michigan will be ready for it.

Just released is the Michigan Travel Bureau's new 1987-88 Winter Travel Planner: 56 full-color pages filled with information on Alpine and Nordic skiing, on the state's thousands of miles of snowmobile trails, on more than 200 attractions (indoors and out), on activities that range from winter canoeing to ice-carving.

With this seasonal travel guide is the Michigan Travel

Bureau's calendar of events, covering the months of November through March. Separate publication of the calendar resumes a former bureau practice — producing a glove-box-size, easy-to-use guide to what's going on in Michigan for the coming season. The calendar was incorporated into recent seasonal travel planners, but was given back its own identity due to popular demand.

All can be obtained by calling the Michigan Travel Bureau at 1-800-5432-YES.

Condo boat wells are booming business

By Nancy Parmenter
Staff Writer

Want to buy a nice piece of lake bottom?

There are plenty of people willing to pay up to $40,000 for a little bit of lake — surrounded by piers and the amenities of a well-groomed marina. The shared ownership of condo boat wells is fast growing in appeal as the rental price of marina slips skyrockets.

Grosse Pointe's Andrus brothers are in on the ground floor.

Primarily residential real estate brokers, they are also both boaters, so were aware early of the pressure on boatwell rentals. "You can't work in Grosse Pointe without knowing something about the water," said Dennis Andrus.

Their Harbor Pointe Real Estate Co. is currently marketing condo boat wells at Mount Clemens' Belle Maer Harbor at a rate they never even imagined. Dennis and Douglas Andrus expected to sell the 406 wells at the rate of about 100 a year.

They opened sales in January — and only have 50 left.

"Tell about the time we sold 110 in two days," urged their main sales agent, Susan Hinsby of the Woods.

The Andrus connection with the marina goes back to a few years ago when they helped general partners Marc Howard and Eric Foster find and buy it. They had both seen the condo arrangement working in northern Michigan and in Florida, where they also sell real estate.

"We spent 18 months looking for a marina between Port Huron and Detroit," said Dennis Andrus. "We saw every one."

They settled on the Blue Lagoon, a deteriorated marina with sagging wood docks and a reputation for rowdiness. Foster and Howard bought it in 1984 and spent a lot of time and money replacing all the docks and utilities and increasing the number of wells. It is the cost of the development that makes selling the wells an attractive option.

"We would have to put rentals at a level most people would find objectionable and unaffordable," Howard said. "The most logical thing today is to try to generate return by selling individual boat wells. (A buyer's) out-of-pocket on a 15-year loan in most cases comes to less than they'd pay in rent. It makes sense for committed boaters."

And that boater is not faced with constantly increasing rentals.

Another advantage of ownership is that owners have a stake in the way things look. "Equity participation brings out pride of ownership," said Douglas Andrus. "There's a strong drive to have quality of life associated with their hobby. Many of them, their boat costs more than their house."

For whatever reasons, boaters swarmed to Belle Maer to buy wells even before the Andruses were ready to sell them. Lake St. Clair boaters had kept their eyes on construction activity at the marina for two years and the word got around. "We didn't even advertise," said Doug Andrus.

The marina has about 850 wells, with about half currently scheduled to be sold as condos. The development must follow the state condominium act requirements just as if it were a dwelling unit.

"What we have here is a village," said Howard. "The people who bought the slips are the registered voters."

Marina partner Marc Howard, Dennis and Douglas Andrus stand at the railing of the gazebo on "the mountain" at the entrance to Belle Maer Harbor. The gazebo, on a landscaped hill, serves as a landmark to boaters and has already been the site of a wedding.

Howard and Foster are quick to say they haven't invented anything. Some form of shared ownership of boat wells has been around the Clinton River for about 30 years and condo marinas exist in other areas. But in metropolitan Detroit, they're one of the biggest.

The condo boat wells are already proving to be a profitable investment. Although the first owners bought less than a year ago, a few have chosen to sell — and have made money. "People sell for all the same reasons they sell a house," said Dennis Andrus. "Health, job transfer, they want a bigger boat, they want a smaller boat, they want to get out of boating."

Owners of other boat wells on the Clinton have seen their investments go from $8,000 to $30,000 in 10 years and from $65,000 to $140,000 in less than that, according to Howard. New wells at Belle Maer cost from $24,900 to $34,900, depending on the size of the boat. Owners also pay association fees and property taxes.

They're glad to do it.

"We've created a life style for professional boaters," said Douglas Andrus.

"It's a floating cottage," agreed Eric Foster. "People come and spend the weekend." Owners come from as near as Mount Clemens and the east side and as far as Chicago and even North Carolina.

The market for condo boat wells is still on the upswing, the Andruses believe. They say the price for a marina has tripled in the four years since they were scouting the market. There are waiting lists at many marinas and rental prices continue to go up.

Although they have already sold almost all of the slips at Belle Maer, they have just completed an office on the property and expect to handle waterfront residential property when they run out of wells. Active in the Grosse Pointe real estate market for 21 years between them, they say they are looking to establish a wide reputation in waterfront property all around the lake.

"We're lucky to be able to combine business with pleasure," said Doug.

"Business is pleasure," added Dennis.

Introducing Scan-Alert<sup>SM</sup> Service.

Because the gap between security and no security is very small indeed.

You may be thinking about investing in an alarm system to protect your business or residence. Or you may have already invested in one. But what happens if an intruder cuts the line to that system? In most cases, the system shuts down. Unless you have new Scan-Alert* service. Scan-Alert service is an inexpensive addition for most alarm systems that use your phone line to transmit a signal to your alarm company. So not only can emergency calls get through, the system is also automatically triggered if the telephone line is cut or tampered with. Definitely a worthwhile investment for your peace of mind.

PLEASE NOTE: Michigan Bell's responsibility is limited to the transmission link between your business and your independent alarm company's monitoring facility.

Correction

An article appearing on page 17A of the Business Section of the July 16, 1987 edition of the Grosse Pointe News, titled "Consumer protection group starts up in Pointes," contained a reference to the group's founders, Steven and Shawna Chapman, which could have been misinterpreted. The News stated that "a complaint is on file in the Farms (police department), and the Farms detective bureau is investigating."

What the News intended to say was that it had learned that a local business had simply made an informal inquiry concerning the organization and its activities, and that the police were looking into the matter. The News has since learned that no formal Complaint was ever filed with the Farms police department, and that after a preliminary review, the matter was dropped.

The News apologizes to the Chapmans, the organization and its members if its original write-up in the matter was in any way misleading and regrets any inconvenience it may have caused.

Seminars for appraisers

The Detroit Chapter of the National Association of Independent Fee Appraisers (NAIFA) will sponsor two one-day seminars on single-family report writing and on relocation report writing Nov. 13 and 14, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Holiday Inn, West Nine Mile Road. The Friday seminar will emphasize correct preparation of the FHLMC-FNMA (Freddie Mac-Fannie Mae) short (new) form for single-family residential appraisal reports. Seminar participants will be given step-by-step directions for completing the report as well as experience preparing a sample report.

The "Relocation Report Writing Seminar," offered Saturday is designed to make the appraiser aware of relocation companies' rationale and objectives.

Each seminar has been approved for seven hours of recertification credit for designated NAIFA members.

Tuition for the two seminars is $65 and $60, respectively, lunch not included.

For information, call George Palms at 886-4444.

Small business conference for vets

David Harrison, president of First of America Bank, Macomb-Oakland, will be the keynote speaker at the fourth annual Small Business Conference for Veterans, Saturday, Nov. 7. The day-long conference, at Macomb Community College's South Campus will offer practical answers, ideas and techniques for the various problems encountered by businesspersons, as well as resource information and networking opportunities.

More than 20 workshops will be conducted on pre-business and advanced levels. In addition, one-to-one counseling, informal roundtables, exhibits and a networking session will be available.

The $25 fee includes lunch and all conference materials and activities. Call the Michigan Small Business Development Center at 577-4848.

Basics of the alternative minimum tax explained

Once upon a time, only the very wealthy had to be concerned about the alternative minimum tax (AMT), but the Tax Reform Act of 1986 has changed that.

More taxpayers than ever are expected to be affected by the alternative minimum tax for a number of reasons. First, the general cut in individual tax rates increases the likelihood the AMT will exceed a taxpayer's regular taxes. Second, Congress has added several new tax "preference" items that must be included when computing the AMT. Lastly, losses from passive investments must be added to your taxable income for AMT purposes even though, during the phase-in period, certain taxpayers can still partly claim these losses when computing their regular taxes. Some experts predict that four times as many people will be subject to the AMT as a result of these changes.

For those unfamiliar with the alternative minimum tax, the Michigan Association of CPAs offers this explanation, "The alternative minimum tax is an alternative way of calculating one's tax liability and determining the minimum amount of tax that must be paid by those taxpayers who have successfully reduced their regular tax liability." The alternative minimum tax is the government's way of ensuring that at least some taxes are paid by those taxpayers who minimize their tax liability by taking advantage of tax preferences. The AMT must be calculated without the benefit of many of the tax breaks available under the regular system.

At first glance, the process might appear simple. You compute your taxes twice — once the standard way and again using the AMT. But, in actuality, understanding the rules and doing the necessary calculations are quite complex and a matter you might want to refer to a tax expert. But a basic understanding of the AMT and careful planning may help you save dollars by ascertaining that investment strategies taken to save tax dollars are not diluted by the alternative minimum tax.

The AMT applies to a broader base of income than used under regular tax rules. Using Form 6251 to compute the alternative minimum tax, you start with your adjusted gross income, increase it by tax preference items and reduce it by only certain deductions and exemptions. Among those items deductible when computing the AMT, are casualty, theft and gambling losses, charitable contributions, medical expenses to the extent they exceed 10 percent of your adjusted gross income and certain qualified interest expenses.

By contrast, state and local income taxes, real estate taxes, miscellaneous itemized deductions and consumer interest are some of the items not deductible in computing the AMT. The AMT allows an exemption of $40,000 for married couples filing jointly and $30,000 for singles. After you've adjusted your alternative minimum taxable income by the proper exemption, multiply it by 21 percent (up from 20 percent last year) to arrive at the AMT amount. If the alternative minimum tax is greater than your regular income tax, the IRS requires you to pay the AMT.

Higher income taxpayers should note: Starting with 1987 years, the exemptions referred to are reduced by 25 cents for each dollar the alternative minimum taxable income exceeds $112,500 for individual filers and $150,000 for joint returns. There is no exemption once income reaches $232,500 on an individual return and $310,000 on a joint return.

The Tax Reform Act retained previous tax preferences, modified some and added several new ones. The following is a list of the three newest tax preferences.

- Net losses from certain passive investment activities;
- The untaxed gain of post-Dec. 31, 1986 charitable contributions of appreciated property

(carryovers arising from contributions made before Aug. 16, 1986 are not subject to the AMT);

• Tax-exempt interest from certain private-purpose municipal bonds issued after Aug. 7, 1986.

Wayne holds fair for small businesses

A small business fair, sponsored by the Wayne State University School of Business Administration, Small Business Development Center, is scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 14, at Heritage Junior High School in Sterling Heights. Hours are from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The purpose of the fair is to help current and prospective business owners communicate with others from the business community. Information and counseling about establishing a business will also be available.

There will be a $10 table fee charged to business sponsors to exhibit. Admission is $5. To reserve exhibit space or to receive a brochure, call 577-4850.

Learn to apply time-saving strategies

Management consultant John W. Coe will conduct a one-day seminar on time management Saturday, November 7 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the War Memorial.

A Farms resident, Coe has more than 40 years experience in retail management, including nine years as vice president and general manager of Hudson's Eastland. He is currently a director of Champion Enterprises, Inc. and the International Trading Company.

His experience led him to the conclusion that time-saving strategies are universal for both the business arena and at home. By applying his expertise to one subject — time — he has designed a seminar that will benefit a broad spectrum: men, women, managers, professionals, housewives and working mothers.

There will be practical applications for all, including the special problems faced by working mothers, who are not only expected to hold jobs, but also manage home and family.

Each participant will receive a notebook, a "things to do" pad, calendar and pen to help practice what is learned. Seminar fee is $55 and includes lunch. Call 881-7511.

A 'family' turns 40

A look back — and ahead — as Grosse Pointe's community theater enters 40th season

By Peggy O'Connor Andrzejczyk
Feature Editor

Leave it to the Grosse Pointe Theatre... after 39 seasons, the old girl can still come up with a few firsts.

This year, it's the first-ever production of a Gilbert & Sullivan operetta, "The Pirates of Penzance," which will begin the 40th anniversary season of the GPT on Nov. 3. This comes on the heels of a new venture by newsletter, on June 24-25-26, GPT's first production, "Clarence," by Booth Tarkington, hit the stage at Pierce Auditorium.

Back then, it cost around $400 to produce an entire show. Back then, everybody involved in GPT did just about any job in order for the show to go on. There weren't any special requirements, no rigid rules. The point was to produce good theater and enjoy doing it. And back then, GPT members would stand out in the parking lots of Pierce or Cannon Recreation or South High — wherever the vagabond GPT was playing at the time — waving patrons into the show with flashlights. In those days, members who sold four tickets to a production were rewarded with steaks.

Today, it costs a bit more to put on a show: around $18,000 for a lavish musical. And those first GPT members would probably pale at hearing the budget for 1987-88 — approximately $150,000. Steaks aren't the reward for ticket hustlers these days; full houses are: there are already a few sold-out shows for "Pirates."

There are, however, things about GPT which haven't changed.

All auditions are open, just as they were in 1948. Everyone still pitches in at a variety of jobs to make the show go on. The basic goal of GPT has remained the same: to present top-notch theater and have fun doing it. And perhaps best of all, the Grosse Pointe Theatre is still the "family" it was back in 1948.

Phyllis Reeve joined GPT that season. Theater friends tease her about being the "oldest living active member." She and Mark Reeve were the group's first "theater marriage." She tells the

Robert Maxwell and Patricia Rice in the GPT's 1954 production of "The Glass Menagerie."

The Grosse Pointe Theatre's first "theater marriage" paired Phyllis and Mark Reeve (the couple on the far right).

GPT: a weekly radio program on WDTR-FM which began last month.

New ideas and fresh approaches are nothing new for the group, which was founded in 1948 by Russell Werneken, who wrote in GPT's first newsletter in May, 1948: "If a community theater's primary capital assets are goodwill and enthusiasm — and they are — your theater is already rich beyond my expectation."

The goals of those first GPT members were simple: "To produce really good theater in Grosse Pointe; that good theater, well-managed, could pay its way at the box office; that good theater provides a wholesome stimulus to both those actually working on it and to the ticket-buyers and hence, the establishment of a permanent, non-profit community theater in Grosse Pointe is both feasible and desirable."

One month after that first

story of her introduction to the GPT as only a veteran actress can.

"I was 20 years old, studying drama and working as a receptionist for a film producer. Russ Werneken came in and asked me if I wanted to belong to his theater group. I was young and silly and I recall replying very eruditely, 'I don't believe in amateur theater, thank you.'

"But he somehow hooked me into going to a board meeting ... where they wound up 'voting' me the job of recording secretary," Reeve says with a husky laugh. "And here I still am." A year later, in 1949-50, Reeve had the female lead in GPT's production of "Claudia."

Then she turned around and pulled a Russell Werneken act and hooked an old college friend into joining GPT. Reeve had gone to school with New York native Barbara Roney, who later wound up living a short distance away from Reeve.

"She called me up one day and said 'I'm dying to see you.' So I asked her to come with me to a GPT meeting. And the rest is history," Reeve recalls with a chuckle.

"I didn't know anybody in Michigan, I was just thrilled to be asked to go to a meeting and get a chance to talk to someone," Roney remembers. "It was down in the War Memorial. I sat there for two hours and nobody spoke to me. Near the end of the meeting the president, John Dykema, stood up and asked for suggestions. I remember making some speech about how if they ever wanted to get new members, they ought to try smiling and talking to strangers in their midst.

"The next day I got a call from someone asking me to be on the board," Roney says with a laugh. She joined GPT and has served in many capacities, including as an actress, stage manager, board member and GPT president.

Recently, Roney and other GPT veterans sat in the conference room of the GPT studio on Fisher Road and talked about Grosse Pointe's community "treasure."

Shirley Shepard, GPT president in 1965-66, directed the group's first musical, "Kiss Me Kate," in 1963. She's well-aware of the turning point in GPT's history.

"It was the 1962-63 season. That was the year we took up residence in Fries Auditorium. That took us out of various school auditoriums and put us into one place. That was also the year that we began to play on two weekends instead of just two performances. And it was the year we did our first musical.

"Musicals generally have a wider appeal. They help sell the full season of plays and attract season ticket buyers because they are light and lively," Shepard says.

Another important step in GPT's history was its purchase in 1981 of the building at 315 Fisher Road. It is fitting that the building had been a hotel, a hospital and a nursing home before it was bought and refurbished by the group. GPT members have worked nights and weekends, volunteering time, talent and materials, on making the storied building a home.

It's a home with a character all its own. There's a velvet painting on the wall in the basement, which houses the audio room, props room and kitchen. On the first floor is the music room, a conference room, a reception lobby; each room is decorated accordingly, with sheet music serving as wallpaper in the music room, old programs hung on the walls in the conference room and photos of past members and productions lining the walls all the way through.

Upstairs is the rehearsal hall and upstairs from there a wonderful costume room filled to the brim with every type of costume imaginable. As cast members from this season's production rehearse Gilbert & Sullivan songs, costumers working in a room off to the side hum along with the singers.

"It isn't just an outlet for actors," Shepard says. "At times, we've all done things we'd never thought we'd do ... sewing, stage managing, directing, scenery. Of course, some come just to act. And that's fine, too.

"If you sat us down and asked us to explain what it's all about, you'd never get a straight answer," Shepard adds. "It's pure magic, that's what it is. The Grosse Pointe Theatre has grown but it hasn't really changed. The spirit is always there."

It's that spirit of joy, a celebration of family and of the theater that drew Clarke Scholes to the GPT some 24 years ago. "Twenty-four years doesn't carry a lot of weight around here but I'll say this: I belong to a number of clubs and organizations, different social groups, and I've never been involved in a group that is more important to me, that has a tighter hold on me, than the Grosse Pointe Theatre.

"If I had to give up any of my organizations, this would be the last one I'd let go of," Scholes says.

It's that same spirit that Rohn Seykell, a former Grosse Pointe resident who is now a stage and film performer in New York, found when he was a GPT member. "Grosse Pointe Theatre is the finest community theatre

I've ever worked with. It taught me how to be responsible, how to be professional as an actor. In GPT we were expected to come through as a professional and consequently, your production was professional," Seykell says.

And it's the same spirit, the same feeling of camaraderie that Kaki Tindall, now serving as stage manager for "Pirates," found when she joined GPT.

"I remember being very depressed when I'd have to go back to school at Indiana University and I couldn't finish the GPT season. I love being in GPT. They take you in and make you feel like one of them, like one big family," Tindall says.

And if the GPT is one big family, it's a very protective family. Shepard, Roney, Reeve, Scholes and current GPT president Wally Maher just grin and shake their heads when asked for their opinions on the hits and misses in GPT's history. "Audiences are very forgiving, they tend to forget the 'dogs,'" explains Phyllis Reeve's husband, Mark. "Besides," adds Shirley Shepard, "what is a dog to you may not be to someone else. And it's the same with the 'best' shows. That's a matter of individual taste and a theater group is not one but many people."

Many people who are rewarded for their time, effort and talent with the yearly "Clarence" awards, named so in honor of that very first production. The awards began in 1957 and are not given for "best show," but for many other individual aspects of production.

It is a pity that there isn't a Clarence for "best GPT memory." It would have to go to the one Barbara Roney came up with that recent night in the smoky, homey conference room at the GPT studio.

"I'll never forget it. It was 1967, the year of the Detroit riots. We trouped the musical "Boys from Syracuse" to perform for the National Guard troops quartered at the State Fairgrounds. It was a perfect show for troops because it had lots of girls in scanty costumes. But we had to have it reviewed by the commander of the 101st Airborne because no one had ever suggested such a thing before, entertaining National Guard troops during a riot.

"We did the show for the commander as a dress rehearsal and there they were with their white gloves and 'yes ma'ams,'" Roney recalls. "But they okayed it and the entire cast found itself being driven through the streets of Detroit in an Army truck, with the guns drawn. We could hear the snipers. We got there and had to walk through ankle-deep mud to get to the bandshell. But we did it.

"There were 4,000 troops there and they went crazy. After the show they invited us to the canteen out in the field for coffee and doughnuts. They carried the girls from the show on their shoulders. The whole thing was just unbelievable. And when the show was over, 4,000 soldiers stood and cheered us. I get goosebumps thinking about it even now," Roney says.

GPT president Maher hadn't heard that story until that minute. "But that's so typical of the history of this group. And it's typical that even after all these years, we come up with a first like our first Gilbert & Sullivan show. And that there is a wait-

What Flexsteel Is All About Flexsteel Sofa

Flexsteel builds it into every piece of Flexsteel furniture. We start with a frame of select, kiln-dried hardwood, shape it carefully and seal it against moisture. For long-lasting stability, joints are double-doweled and the hardwood corner blocks are both glued and screwed in. Designed for sturdiness, Flexsteel frames are guaranteed for life.

Long-lasting, deep seating comfort is assured by Flexsteel's patented seat spring. Made of fine watch-spring steel, this unique spring has a written, lifetime limited warranty. A wide selection of popular contemporary, traditional, and country styles are offered, all beautifully tailored in handsome and durable fabrics from Flexsteel's Thousand-Plus Collection.

Music Hall Fan Club's party a hit

What if you gave a party and everybody came? That was the happy predicament the fledgling Music Hall Fan Club found itself in Friday, Oct. 16, when some 1,400 party-goers jammed into the Stroh's River Place for the Club's benefit party for the Music Hall Center for the Performing Arts: "Ancient Space at River Place."

The Music Hall lovers found themselves transported back — and forth — in time as the party gave them a look at what outer space might have been 10,000 years ago as envisioned by an Egyptian dreamer. Local designers Camilo Pardo and Enis Seferah, both of Grosse Pointe, were among the design team led by architect Victor Saroki who transformed the Stroh River Place into a surreal, Egyptian-outer space scene.

Guests dined from a luscious buffet provided by dozens of area restaurateurs and enjoyed music and dancing for the rest of the gala evening. The best part is that the ticket price included an automatic membership into the Fan Club, which entitles them to Music Hall privileges and, according to party chairmen John Bloom and Irene Cole, in the future, much more of the fun and excitement they sampled at the Oct. 16 event.

Action on the Auction:

It's never too early to get started on a good thing... at least that's the message sent by organizers of the Grosse Pointe Academy's Action Auction '88. The 1988 version of the Academy's very popular fundraiser isn't until May 14, 1988, but supporters of the event got together recently for a kickoff party hosted by chairmen Alfred and Barbara Fisher and Patty and Michael Turnbull.

For art's sake: Nov. 7 is the date for the Friends of Polish Art benefit at the Bloomfield Hills home of Vicki Kulis. Among those working on plans for the $25 per person affair is Grosse Pointe's Mrs. Georg Slezak.

The evening includes musical entertainment by baritone Krzysztof Borowicz, followed by wine and an array of gourmet hors d'oeuvres.

Proceeds from the party will go to help fund the proposed American Center of Polish Culture in Washington, D.C. For information, call 646-9054.

A fascinating find:

Tucked in the back of the 100-year-old German Bible purchased by Mrs. A.J. Christie of Grosse Pointe Woods is an old, yellowed newspaper clipping which relates the news about a Valentine party given for one "Miss Blanche" by her mother, "Mrs. E. W. Villerot."

Mrs. Christie, who bought the Bible at an estate sale as a Christmas gift for her son-in-law, wonders if there might be someone around who may remember any of the people named in the story, which also included detailed descriptions of the decorations — red hearts running from the chandelier to the four corners of the table, upon which sat a basket of American Beauty roses. Mrs. Christie says she'd love to find out if anyone remembers "the Misses Helen Malcomson, Vida La Measure, Madeline Ives, Marguerite Kolb, Katherine Breitmeyer, Josephine Marantette, Ruth Remington, Beredine Cottong, Hazel and Bessie Zumstein, Elsa Kolb, Dorothy Bornman, Jeanette Pringle, Dortha Becker, Florine Lieberman and Leila Little."

Bill and Sue Vittioe of Grosse Pointe were among the Music Hall party-goers.

Making a difference

People in Faith United's Housing Corporation goal: Revitalizing urban area with more than reconstruction

By Peggy O'Connor Andrzejczyk
Feature Editor

The decaying neighborhood bound by Alter Road, Jefferson, Chalmers and Kercheval may be physically only a few blocks away from Grosse Pointe's stately homes and manicured lawns, but it is miles away in terms of economic and aesthetic standards.

Within that six-block area characterized by vacant lots, abandoned homes and dilapidated houses, there are changes occurring that are just as drastic as those differences between the Detroit and Grosse Pointe neighborhoods.

Those changes are being brought about by the Housing Corporation arm of PIFU, People in Faith United, an ecumenical coalition of inner-city and suburban churches and service organizations ministering to the Fox Creek area on Detroit's east side. Among them are Christ Church Grosse Pointe, Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, St. Paul Catholic Church and Faith Lutheran and St. Columba churches in Detroit.

PIFU created the Housing Corporation in 1983 in order to establish a housing and community development program for low-income families in that six block area known as Fox Creek. The corporation's goals are to stimulate economic reinvestment, make home ownership affordable for low-income families and build new houses and rehabilitate existing homes.

It is how the organization is going about revitalizing the area that makes the PIFU program unique, says Grosse Pointe's Michael Goodell, vice chairman of the Housing Corporation.

"We're doing it by way of sweat equity. A person in the program must work toward owning a home. It takes a requirement of 20 hours of work to qualify for the home ownership program and around 400 hours to qualify for a home," Goodell explains.

"The thing we've found is that the pride and sense of accomplishment that comes from working in the program is a great motivator. And once these people see that they can get ahead, they have reason to apply that motivation to other aspects of their lives."

PIFU purchases the homes in the area, provides the material needed for rehabilitation and turns the work over to the people. There is usually a core of around 20 workers at a time in the program; they are assisted by volunteers from the member churches and organizations.

They do what work they are able to, Goodell says, with any extensive reconstruction being contracted out.

"We work on corporate grants, funding from foundations and from private citizens. We target around $15,000 per house for acquisition and rehabilitation," Goodell says.

Some of the houses which need "moving in" work like painting, plumbing and wallpapering, etc., are purchased for higher prices; houses with serious code violations like missing porches and bricks, bad roofing, etc., are usually cheaper.

PIFU has so far purchased nine housing units and is currently working on two of those units.

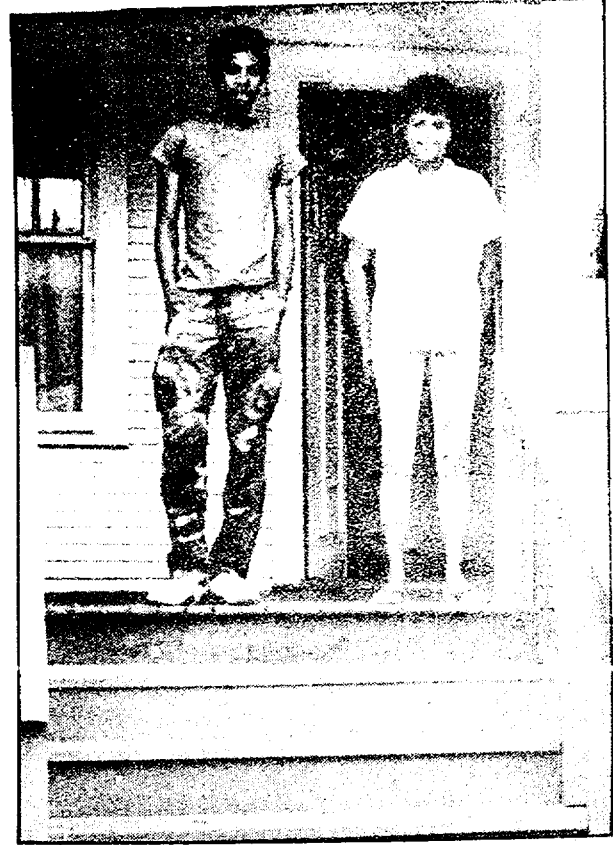

Goodell is responsible for a lot of the group's fundraising. "It's been a very positive year. Funding is on the upswing. We're looking at a possibility of some major funding from some banks and perhaps the Department of Social Services," Goodell adds.

Goodell, a freelance writer, is taking a year off to work exclusively with PIFU. He came to this area from California and recalls being stunned by the abject poverty which is immediately apparent just outside Grosse Pointe. "You can't miss it. It stares you in the face. I thought about it and came up with an idea similar to what PIFU was already doing... which is typical of a lot of my ideas," Goodell says with a laugh.

"So I jumped into PIFU's program and I've been jumping further into it ever since.

"It makes me feel excited to see what the group has accomplished. We're seeing results. I've seen changes; little children who used to react with fear because I'm white are now playing peek-a-boo with me."

People in the Fox Creek neighborhood are just as excited, he says. "Most of them responded like a drowning person would.

Ted and Juanita Traynor on the front porch of the Ashland Avenue home they are currently working on.

They see the improvements as a sign of hope for their neighborhood. Each accomplishment, each house renovated pays dividends. We're hearing people say 'We want to be middle class.' That's an encouraging sign," Goodell says.

"We're seeing more and more of them wanting to get off welfare, wanting to take pride in their surroundings and participate in our beautification program. We see them watching out for one another, seeing that crime doesn't run rampant. That's a big step in rebuilding a neighborhood."

The next step, Goodell says, is for residents to begin to take jobs that don't pay much but will get them off the welfare rolls. "They know it's not going to get them anywhere, but it sets an example for the kids who can see that there's an alternative to getting stoned on street corners."

Goodell says he'd like to see the Department of Social Services help make it easier for residents to get off welfare by allowing them to keep medical benefits. "You know that you can't afford medical benefits making $5 an hour and a lot of people can't afford to get off welfare and lose those benefits," he says. According to Goodell, seven of 24 PIFU program volunteers have gotten off welfare all together. One of them is Marvella Hayden, community organizer and office manager for PIFU. Her first contact with the group was through a PIFU survey in 1983. "They knocked on my door and talked about their development plan. As a community person, I was concerned about the area but didn't know what I could do. And at first, I thought they were just another bunch carrying Bibles and talking trash," she recalls.

But PIFU member Robert Winters talked Hayden into coming in to volunteer her time a few days per week. She was on ADC when she began coming into the office to volunteer in January 1984. She was soon caught up in the spirit of PIFU and by April, the group began to ask her what she thought she'd like to do for PIFU.

"I told them I'd like to be a community organizer because I knew everybody in the area from selling Avon... most of them still owed me money," she says with a smile. "By July of 1984 I was on the payroll and I've been here ever since," Hayden says, gesturing around her at the PIFU offices in the basement of Faith Lutheran Church.

"PIFU is like a cancer ... once it gets hold of you, it takes over. This has become a daytime job, a nighttime job, doing whatever needs to be done," she explains. She helps gather data on income and employment, takes surveys on what the community is thinking and in general, keeps in touch with residents.

Her goal now that she and her husband have signed the lease on their own Housing Corporation home, is to help PIFU implement the Neighborhood Revitalization Plan as developed by Gerald Luedtke and Associates, Inc., for PIFU.

"I helped gather the data and I would like to see us complete the program and move on into other areas of the city and do the same thing," Marvella Hayden says.

Her husband Charles echoes her desire. Charles Hayden is the Housing Corporation's chairman of the board. He got involved after watching his wife spend so much time on the program. He admits to being a little overwhelmed by PIFU's great plans. "But the more I sat in on it and saw what was going on, the better I understood and could see what we could make happen. And the word is getting out on the street.

"So I guess I'm in for a while," he adds.

Rehab expert Rick Adams hopes that the program can be completed in less time than "a while." He's been involved with PIFU since 1984 and says that he feels that more could have been accomplished by now but for one stumbling block: money.

"The bottom line is money and where we're going to get it is the $64,000 question. The plans were in place three years ago and I had envisioned us as being somewhat of a contractor, rehabilitating an area and moving on to another area to work and so on. I think that sometimes the money people look at our plan as not being feasible. But we know it's feasible," Adams says.

"If we hadn't thought it was viable, we'd have abandoned it a long time ago. We know it can be done. And it will be done."

If the money is provided, Adams reasons, he can't see why the rebuilding and rehabilitation project can't make its way through the entire city of Detroit. And he supports the notion that having the residents put sweat equity into their homes and neighborhoods is what will make the program continue to work once the rehabilitation is done.

"We've really had faith in the program as a result of the churches' involvement and the Lord's presence. That's been the largest factor in getting as far as we've gotten," Adams says.

"The Lord's presence is what keeps us here."

Beef & Bingo

St. Paul Catholic Church's popular Beef & Bingo party is back and, left to right, ticket chairmen Steve and Chris Schater and general chairmen Sheila and Rob Crandall, are getting set for the Friday, Nov. 6 event, which will be held in the school gym at 7 p.m.

This year's theme celebrates Michigan's 150th birthday. Tickets are $20 per person and should be purchased by Nov. 4. The evenings includes a roast beef dinner, two cocktails, bingo session, entertainment and prizes like bottles of cheer, hams, turkeys, steaks, cash and a special door prize.

Chairmen for the event include Linda and Tom Sullivan, Kathy and Bob Champion, Cheryl and Mike Kawa, Peggy and Bill Leins, Wendy and Mark Dettloff, Sharon and Jim Tucker, Diane and John Mathews, Dona and John Imesch, Patty and Chip Miller, Carol and Larry Marantette, Jeanne and Jim Bieri and Kathy and Greg Hill.

To purchase tickets or make reservations for parties of four or more, call 886-5493.

Organ concert set for Nov. 1

James Hammann will present a program of organ music on Sunday, Nov. 1, at 4 p.m. in Jefferson Avenue Presbyterian Church, 8625 East Jefferson on the edge of Indian Village in Detroit. A reception follows the concert. Tickets are $5 at the door, $3 for senior citizens and students.

Kolping Society plans card party

The Kolping Society will hold a card party on Sunday, Nov. 15, at 2 p.m. at the Kolping Center, 24409 Jefferson and 9 1/2 Mile Road in St. Clair Shores. Donation is $4.

The event includes cards, door prizes, table prizes and a luncheon. Linda Irbacher and Rolande Farrar are co-chairmen. Reservations may be made by calling Lynne Rheker at 757-1251 or Marilyn Lajun at 294-5982.

Church circles meet Nov. 2

Grosse Pointe Memorial Church Women's Association Circles will meet next Tuesday, Nov. 2, at 9:15 and 9:30 a.m. and 1 and 7:30 p.m., according to their regular time schedules. Beth Staniszewski, Bernice Penz, Helene Keppelman, Reva Liesemer, Denise Controulis and Ruth Collins will serve as hostesses. Refreshments and fellowship precede these monthly circle meetings. Visitors are welcome. Further information may be obtained by contacting circle coordinators Helen Kipka or Marion Wilson at 882-5330.

Veterans' Day service planned

The Cathedral Church of St. Paul's will host its 24th annual "Veterans Day & Remembrance Service" on Nov. 8 from 4 to 5:30 p.m. at 4800 Woodward Avenue (at Warren). This memorial service is meant to pay tribute to all veterans and their families of the United States, Canada and Britain.

The sermon will be delivered by Chaplain Walter A. Hiskett, Captain in the U.S. Navy. An hour of fellowship will immediately follow the service.

Methodist Church women to meet

Rees to lead hymnfest

First Evangelical Lutheran Church on Vernier Road in Grosse Pointe Woods will host a program of congregational hymn singing and brass music at 7 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 1.

Leading the congregation will be 1983 International Young Singer of the Year, Maggie Rees of Grosse Pointe Woods. Rees will lead the congregation in following the tradition of the Welsh Gymanfa Ganu (Hymn Singing) by sitting in the church according to voice part and singing in four-part harmony. Members of the choir will sit among the congregation to assist.

The combined choirs of First English and St. Paul Lutheran Church of Grosse Pointe Farms, under the direction of Susan Kvale, will sing two anthems with texts by Issac Watts and Martin Luther. The informal program will also feature a selection by a brass quintet and a solo by Rees.

Robert Foster, coordinator of music at First English, and Linda Bauer, St. Paul organist, will provide accompaniment.

A free will offering will be taken and light refreshments will follow the program. All are invited to attend and lift their voices in song. For further information, call 884-5040.

Meeting needs with love is lecture topic

The ability to meet needs — whether physical, financial or emotional — through spiritual means is the topic of the next Christian Science lecture "Home: Focal Point of Love, Not Lack," scheduled for Friday, Nov. 13, at 8 p.m. at First Church of Christ, Scientist, 282 Chalfonte Ave., in Grosse Pointe Farms.

Speaker will be Michael A. West, member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship. A Christian Science practitioner, West has been involved in the public ministry of Christian healing for a number of years. He has also served at the denomination's headquarters in Boston, Mass., as treasurer of the Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist.

Having the talent to show you which is best, yet the confidence to tell you which is not.

Creating fashionable looks that are realistic to your needs.

Freedom from weekly salon visits by showing you personally how to handle your own hair.

Hair colored and permed as subtle as nature itself.

Convenient hours to suit you. Open five days a week, appointments from 8:00 AM to 9:00 PM.

Guaranteed satisfaction.

It's beginning to look a lot like Christmas (fairs)

Just like Christmas gifts, Christmas fairs come in all sorts of packages: big and small, some open one day and others, two or three. But they also have a lot in common: they offer a chance to get the jump on holiday shopping, finding that special gift for someone or just an afternoon of sampling Christmas goodies and enjoying the beginning of the season.

And even though Halloween has yet to come and go, most of the local Christmas fairs are planned for the next two weeks. So here's a list of Grosse Pointe area Yule fairs to help you get started:

Friday, Nov. 6

Immanuel Lutheran Church

The Immanuel Lutheran Church Fair runs from 10:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the church, 13031 Chandler Park Drive in Detroit. Items include crafts, handiwork, baked goods and Swedish imports. Luncheon will be served at a cost of $4 for adults, $1.50 for children. Reservations are appreciated and may be made by calling 821-2380.

Grace United Church

A Christmas Fair and Luncheon will be held at Grace United Church of Christ, 1175 Lakepointe in Grosse Pointe Park from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. There will be arts and crafts, attic goodies, greeting cards, jewelry, a special gift booth and a bake sale with homemade jams, jellies and pickles. Lunch — with homemade pies for dessert — will be served.

Saturday, Nov.

Reedemer United Methodist

It'll be an all-day Christmas Fair and Harvest Dinner presented by the Reedemer United Methodist Women at the church, 20571 Vernier Road in Harper Woods. The fair runs from 9:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. and features handmade gifts, decorations, baked goods, jellies and pickles, candy, a flea market and games for children. Coffee and doughnuts will be available all morning; lunch will be served from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. A turkey dinner with all the trimmings will be served from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. at a cost of $6 for adults, $3 for children 6-11, and free for kids 5 and under.

Call 884-2035 for more information.

Zion Methodist Church

Zion Methodist Church's annual Christmas Bazaar will run from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the church, 17500 Chandler Park at Neff Road in Detroit. Featured will be Christmas ornaments and decorations, quilts, crafts, a country store and other miscellaneous items. A light lunch will be available.

Immaculate Conception Church Alliance

The Women's Alliance of Immaculate Conception Church will sponsor its third annual Craft Show from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the multi-purpose room of the school, located on the corner of M-29 and Church Road, two miles east of New Baltimore. The show consists of handmade/handcrafted articles only.

Sunday, Nov. 8

Daughters of Isabella

The Daughters of Isabella, Ama Deus Circle No. 616, will hold their annual Arts and Crafts Sale from 11:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Athena Hall, 25650 Gratiot in Roseville. All proceeds will be donated to charities.

Regina Mothers Guild

The Regina Mothers Guild's 11th annual Arts & Crafts Fair is set for 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Nov. 14. The fair includes a bake sale and refreshments, a boutique, craftsmen and 1988 Entertainment books.

Regina High School is located at 20200 Kelly in Harper Woods.

St. John Lutheran

The St. John Lutheran School, 16339 14 Mile Road in Fraser, will hold its seventh annual "Cavalcade of Crafts," from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Nov. 14. Donation is 50 cents at the door, 12 and under free with an adult.

There will be 60 arts and crafts exhibits, lunch, door prizes, fresh doughnuts and pictures with Santa.

Friday and Saturday, Nov. 20-21

St. Peter Ladies Guild

St. Peter Ladies Guild of Harper Woods will sponsor its 14th annual Arts and Crafts Show from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Nov. 21 and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Nov. 22 in the social hall and school hallways of St. Peter parish, on Vernier Road near Beaconsfield across from Eastland. Admission is free.

Over 80 dealers will present a variety of Christmas gifts, folk art, personalized greeting cards, ceramics, macrame, stained glass items and more. Food will be available. There will be a bake sale and a cheer basket raffle.

Friday, Saturday, Sunday Nov. 27-29

Italian American Cultural Society

Tables are still available for the Italian American Cultural Society's three-day Christmas Bazaar which will be held at the Italian Cultural and Community Center. Cost of one table for three days is $40. For further information, call Colleen at 751-2855.

The Italian Cultural and Community Center is located at 28111 Imperial Drive in Warren, east of Hoover between Martin and 12 Mile Roads.

St. Paul Church

St. Paul's TPG group will hold its annual "Santa's Attic" at the school, 170 Grosse Pointe Boulevard. There will be an raffle, handmade items and more.

Assistance League Christmas Mart

Mart hours are 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Sunday and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday. Valet parking will be provided. Coffee and sweets will be served from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.; wine and cheese will be offered in the evenings. Gift Shop buyers have been working since March planning, buying and packing away goodies like the ones in the photo above.

Others have been trimming trees, decorating wreaths and creating new and festive arrangements for the Mart. The Science Hall at the hospital will be turned into a Christmas Fantasyland, with 10 gift booths with goodies like lingerie, jewelry, brass, infantware, toys, silver, china, ornaments and cards and gourmet treats.

All proceeds from the Mart benefit Bon Secours Hospital, located at 468 Cadieux Road.

Our Lady Queen of Peace

Our Lady Queen of Peace Church, 21101 Bournemouthe in Harper Woods, will present its second annual Arts and Crafts Show from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The show is sponsored by the parish's Parents and Teachers Together group. More than 50 craftsmen will display their work. Snack food and refreshments will be available. Admission is free; free parking is available.

Daniel-Laurie

Petra Marie Daniel, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles E. Daniel Jr., of Wickford R.I., married David Hutchinson Laurie, son of Mr. and Mrs. William David Laurie Jr., of Grosse Pointe Farms and Jamestown, R.I., on Oct. 17, 1987, in St. Paul Episcopal Church, Wickford, R.I.

Canon Peter Spencer and Dr. David W. Richardson, an uncle of the bride, officiated at the ceremony, which was followed by a reception at the bride's parents' home, Wickford House.

The bride wore her mother's wedding dress of tulle and Valenciennes lace. Seed pearls formed her tiara.

Maid of honor was Linda Fleming. Bridesmaids included Andrea Petronio, Patricia Scanlon, Julie Podrasky and Lena Laurie, the bridegroom's niece. They wore dresses of electric blue lace and satin.

Best man was Paul Keenan. Ushers included Steve Edwards, Mark Steinberg, Richard Cacciotti and the brother of the groom, Duncan Laurie.

The bride is a graduate of the University of South Carolina. She attended Lycee Anna de Noailles, Evain les Bains, France and the University of Vienna, 1982-83. She is a banker at Creditanstalt-Bankverein (Austria's largest bank) in New York City.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Fessenden School, West Newton, Mass., and Menlo College, Menlo Park, Calif. He is president of D/H/L construction company and is involved in real estate development and is a musician and composer.

The newlyweds honeymooned in Caribbean. They will reside in Trumansburg, N.Y., and New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Thibodeau Jr.

Lewis-Thibodeau

Andrea Lewis, daughter of Geraldine Gadecki Lewis of Glenview, Ill., and Gerald Lamar Lewis of Chicago, married Robert Leo Thibodeau Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Thibodeau of Grosse Pointe Farms, on May 23, 1987, in St. Paul Catholic Church.

Monsignor Francis X. Canfield and The Rev. Albert Hillebrand officiated at the 2 p.m. ceremony, which was followed by a reception at the Country Club of Detroit.

The bride wore a white dress designed with an Alencon lace bodice and a silk peau d'oeie skirt with chapel length train; the gown has a jewel neck and long sleeves. She carried a bouquet of cymbidium orchids and stephanotis.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Stephen Herbert Weinig of Boston, Mass. Bridesmaids included the bride's sister, Elizabeth Regina Lewis of Stockton, Calif.; the groom's sisters, Mrs. Daniel Robert Hughes, Kathryn Marie Thibodeau and Suzanne Marie Thibodeau, all of Grosse Pointe Farms; Pamela Elizabeth Friend of Chicago; and Mrs. Scott Arlen Morehead of Chicago.

The attendants wore tea length dresses of pale pink organza and placed pink bows in their hair. They carried fresh flowers, including tulips in different shades of pink.

Best man was the bridegroom's brother, David Trombly Thibodeau of Boston. Ushers included another brother, Edward Roney Thibodeau of El Paso, Texas, and the brother-in-law of the groom, Daniel Hughes of Grosse Pointe Farms; and William Wade Boeschstein of Houston; Richard Ray Boundy of Midland; Michael Robert Fisher of Grosse Pointe Farms; Charles Thomas Fisher IV of New York; John Thaddeus Naquin of Elkhart, Ind.; and Michael Shaw Smith of Birmingham.

The mother of the bride wore a tea length dress of pale pink silk crepe featuring rhinestone buttons. The mother of the bridegroom wore a tea length dress of pastel floral chiffon.

The bride holds a bachelor of arts degree from DePauw University, Greencastle, Ind.

The bridegroom received a bachelor of business administration from the University of Notre Dame in 1976 and earned his MBA from the University of Michigan in 1979. He is general manager of Bob Thibodeau Ford in Centerline.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Aymin

Abate-Aymin

Angela Marie Abate, daughter of Rosemary Hakim of Grosse Pointe Park, and Michael D. Abate of Utica, married John Michael Aymin, son of Charles and Ruby Aymin of Glenshaw, Pa., on Sept. 5, 1987, in Grace Community Church, Sun Valley, Calif.

Pastor Randy Murphy officiated at the 6 p.m. ceremony, which was followed by a reception at the church.

The bride wore a dress of ice white. She carried a bouquet of white, pink and periwinkle flowers tied with icicle ribbon accents.

Maid of honor was Diane Alvernia, a cousin of the bride. Bridesmaids were the bride's sisters, Lynn Abate, Julie Abate and Nicole Abate; and Allison Crowley of Riverside, Calif.; Carolyn Fieldhouse, Sharon Shall and Nicolina Briguglio, another cousin.

'Magical,' mysterious plants part of Halloween lore

By Ellen Probert
Special Writer

Carnivorous plants seem an appropriate subject for gardeners to consider at this season of Halloween. Insectivorous is really the proper name for them, but carnivorous sounds fiercer somehow, and more hobgoblinish. There are a number of varieties — Sundews, Venus Flytrap, Drosera, Pitcher Plants and Bladderwort — to name the most common ones.

(One Grosse Pointe woman wishing to send a bouquet to a 10-year-old nephew recovering from chickenpox, was inspired to send a large Venus Flytrap. The child was delighted and gleefully fed it bits of hamburger until he recovered and went back to school. The plant died of overeating.)

Insectivorous plants are of two types: One emits a sticky, sweet-smelling fluid which attracts and then holds its prey until the enzymes in the fluid dissolve the insect and the plant absorbs it as plant food; the other utilizes a sort of snap-shut trap which closes on the unfortunate insect. Most of these seemingly-malevolent plants are grown as curiosities, but many of them do have beautiful flowers and a lovely scent.

Other plant forms which come to mind at this exciting and bewitching season are the Dragon Tree, native to the South Sea Islands, and the Mandrake, whose roots grow in the shape of human limbs.

The legend in the Solomon Islands is that the Dragon Tree is so named because it grew from the grave of a sea monster and it is considered the most potent magic plant for all occasions. The resin from this tree, called Dragon's Blood, was brought by Venetian merchants to Europe in medieval times and was considered to be an excellent love incense. If burned near an open window for seven midnights in a row, the escaping fumes were guaranteed to bring back straying lovers or attract new ones, whichever seemed warranted.

The Mandrake is the oldest magic plant in botanical history. In the Bible it is mentioned as an aphrodisiac and in Greek legend it was called the Plant of Circe and credited with the power of turning men into swine. In the dark ages its roots were an integral part of every witch's cauldron and in the middle ages a concoction of Mandrake berries was used as an opiate and a love potion.

Everyone believed that the Mandrake grew under the galls and that when it was pulled from the ground the plant emitted a wild shriek and whoever heard it would be driven mad. The safest way to pull up a Mandrake was to tie a dog to the plant on a moonless night, then to plug one's ears with beeswax and blow a loud horn to drown out the shrieks.

On the stroke of midnight the dog was whipped forward and the jumping dog pulled the plant from the ground and died! The English name of the plant, Mandrake, means "the dragon resembling man."

Another lovely Halloween plant might be the deadly Nightshade. The fruit of this plant, a relative of the eggplant, resembles small, yellow cherry tomatoes and is poisonous. It is considered the symbol of sin in the Near East.

Hellebore with its green flowers, curling leaves and poisonous

The Grosse Pointe Garden Center plans a spectacular event for Friday, Nov. 20, at 11:30 a.m. at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial when Chris Giftos, floral designer and special events designer for the Metropolitan Museum in New York will present a demonstration-slideshow-lecture which promises to be a sell-out. Giftos has done flower arrangements for Jackie Onassis, Greta Garbo, Pat Nixon and Elizabeth Taylor and did the centerpieces for President Reagan's inaugural luncheon.

Beginning the second week of days of late October and early November!

Now that your houseplants have been inside again for a time after their summer sojourn in the garden, perhaps you have noticed leaves falling off to some degree. This is probably caused by low light. They were used to a lot more light outdoors and now, with the days growing shorter and the sunlight getting paler and with them being indoors again, they just aren't getting enough light. Don't worry about it, the leaf dropping will probably stop as the plants adjust to their winter environment.

Incidentally, did you know that eggshells crumbled up and chopped into the soil of your flowerpots will do wonders for houseplants? Eggshells contain all kinds of mineral nutrients and are guaranteed to help your houseplants to thrive.

One of the most fascinating of garden shrubs is the Witch-Hazel. Incidentally, the word "Witch" (here we are back to the Halloween theme again!) in its name is there because forked branches or large twigs from this plant are considered the best by "Water Witches" or "Dowsers" who use them as dowsing rods in searching for water sources. The word "Hazel" comes from the similarity in leaf shape of these trees to the hazelnut tree.

The Witch-Hazel is especially nice for gardens because it flowers at times of the year when not much of anything else is in bloom and how delightful it is to look out of a picture window in a warm room and see the reddish spider-shaped blossoms of the native Witch-Hazel glowing against a gray November landscape, or the golden yellow of the Chinese variety against the snow of mid-winter, when the fragile-looking flowers withstand the coldest weather without injury.

Witch-Hazel grows in a wide variety of soils and is relatively free from insect and disease problems. A pleasant smelling lotion is made from the bark of this shrub which has been a household standby for generations in treating bruises and sunburn and other minor skin problems.

One local lady with slightly hypochondriac tendencies says that she would never go to a doctor whose office plants have died. There is something to make one think!

The Gardener's Shed

honey, described by the Bishop of Down as "and green its glaucous leaves expand with fingers like a mermaid's hand," is another Halloween plant.

What a hobgoblin garden we can conjure up if we try!

November, the annual Chrysanthemum Show at the Anna Scripps Whitcomb Conservatory on Belle Isle will be an ongoing delight until early December. How nice to have the prospect of colorful, aromatic flowers brightening the early-darkening Architectural Diversity As the great variety of home sizes and styles suggests, growth has continued slowly over many years. It continues even today. Old estates are subdivided for building contemporary homes, making the mansions that still survive (and many do) all the more treasured by their owners and tradition-minded residents. At the same time, the area includes homes of just about every style and size--from townhouses, two-family units and other small homes to gracious English Tudors, colonials, executive mansions, contemporary ranch styles and a variety of modern designs, including condominiums.

This diversity has helped make Grosse Pointe attractive to all who value well-maintained quality which far exceeds its price.

The battle lingers on

Here it is, folks. The moment you've all been waiting for. It's Grosse Pointe's annual re-enactment of the Civil War. It's a battle of the fittest in the game that counts for bragging rights, city pride, but most of all, a clean shot at being the top gun in the Pointes.

When the Blue Devils of South host the Norsemen of North in their annual football game, the clash will be packed with a lot of physical explosions. Never before on the face of the Blue Devil field will people witness such a display of talent and respect.

It is going to be my first taste of this Civil War and I am looking fully ahead at the possibility of taking cover. I don't want to be anywhere in between the firing lines and I don't want to have to call the shots. This is the game of the year for both schools as they wipe the slates clean for their final regular season game.

From what I hear the season rides on this game, once the divisional crowns have been placed. In the case of North, they entered the Macomb Area Conference's White Division and used a 3-1 record to vault into a three-way tie for first place. The Blue Devils captured the brass in the Eastern Michigan League for the first time since 1984 with an unblemished 7-0 record.

The war began in 1969 with the North Norsemen entering the ranks of the football world. South, on the other hand, had been thrashing opponents for years, but the battle lines were drawn when the two Pointe schools opted to take opposite sides. The battle was not precipitated by one side's idea of creating a separate nation, as is the case in the actual Civil War that began in 1861, but the schools do try to fight for their own territory and always strive to be the team of the Grosse Pointes.

It's not going to be as bloody nor have a comparable impact the Civil War had on the United States, but it will determine bragging rights for another year. North, or the Union, has won the last three engagements between powers, and Frank Sumner (North's coach) will be looking for South General Jon Rice to succumb to the pressure and surrender South's pride for the fourth straight time. However, Rice and his Confederates will wage another defensive war to limit the firepower of the Norsemen.

One more time

It will be the 19th meeting between these two crosstown armies as they struggle to win the war and the battle. As in the case of players at the University of Michigan — where kids go to play Ohio State — it seems that players take part in this game with intense patriotism and determination to fight for one's cause is what it is all about.

Unlike the soldiers who took part in the Civil War, the Grosse Pointe G.I. Joes regard education quite highly. But when it comes to defending their honor, they become talented, soldier-like ball players who skillfully map out their strategy.

Although the Civil War ended four years later with Robert E. Lee surrendering to Ulysses S. Grant, this battle is going to linger for years. Rice is hoping his Blue Devils can lift the dreary cloud from their shoulders, while Sumner will be gunning for a fourth straight win. The Civil War was surrounded by uncompromising objectives, and in the Pointe Civil War, the objective is the same: Winning.

For the 19th time in as many years, the Blue Devils of South High and the Norsemen of North High will lock horns in their annual football rivalry.

North, which leads the series 10-8, will invade Blue Devil country on Oct. 31 for a 1 p.m. game in which city pride and bragging rights seem to rule. However, this year, there is more at stake for the Blue Devils than the Norsemen. South, the 1987 Eastern Michigan League champions with a 7-1 overall record, has a legitimate shot at extending the season into the state playoffs. North, winners of the White Division of the Macomb Area Conference, is 6-2 overall and stands a slim chance of slipping into post-season play.

"I'm excited about this game because of what it can lead to," said first-year Devils' head coach Jon Rice. "It happens to be the last regular season game, but I'm more excited about what the win can mean to us than I am about playing North."

A win would virtually clinch a playoff berth for the Blue Devils. Sumner, who is in his seventh season at the helm of the Norsemen program, is hoping to win North's fourth straight North/South game in as many years.

"We are concentrating on winning this game," said Sumner. "Our slogan for the week is 'Go 4 It' and we want it. We have to have a win if we have any glimmer of hope to make it to the playoffs."

For years the North/South — or South/North — matchup has concluded the regular season. The slates are wiped clean and it's almost like the season starts all over again.

"We're approaching this game as a playoff game," said Rice. "If we are a playoff-caliber team, then we have to beat a team like North because they fall into that category."

"This is a biggy," said Sumner. "It's not like the season boils down to this game, but it is a very big game. It's the kind of game you're in coaching for. It's the white-knucklers and the nail biting games that make this job exciting."

The series began in 1969 when Russ Hepner (South coach at the time) handed Jim Krucki (North's coach) a 7-6 loss. Since, both coaches have retired from the high school coaching ranks, but both recall the excitement this week brings.

"I think it's a great rivalry," said Krucki. "There is more intensity in this one game than any other high school game I've ever seen."

"As a coach it was always a game the entire community got involved with," said Hepner, now an assistant coach at Eastern Michigan University. "Everyone was involved. I mean janitors, teachers and anybody else. It's good because it gets everyone involved."

Among the four coaches and ex-coaches, the most respected portion of the city championship game is the regard the athletes have for one another.

"The kids have always left the game on the field," said Hepner. "It is a credit to both schools that these kids can bang on one another for hours and then shake hands and respect one another."

"I still enjoy the rivalry and as a spectator I probably always will," said Krucki. "As long as it stays on the field."

The same holds true for the current coaches as they prepare an important game plan, yet admire one another's abilities.

"We have a great admiration for Frank's program," said Rice. "The rivalry is fun and exciting and what has made it that way is the kids."

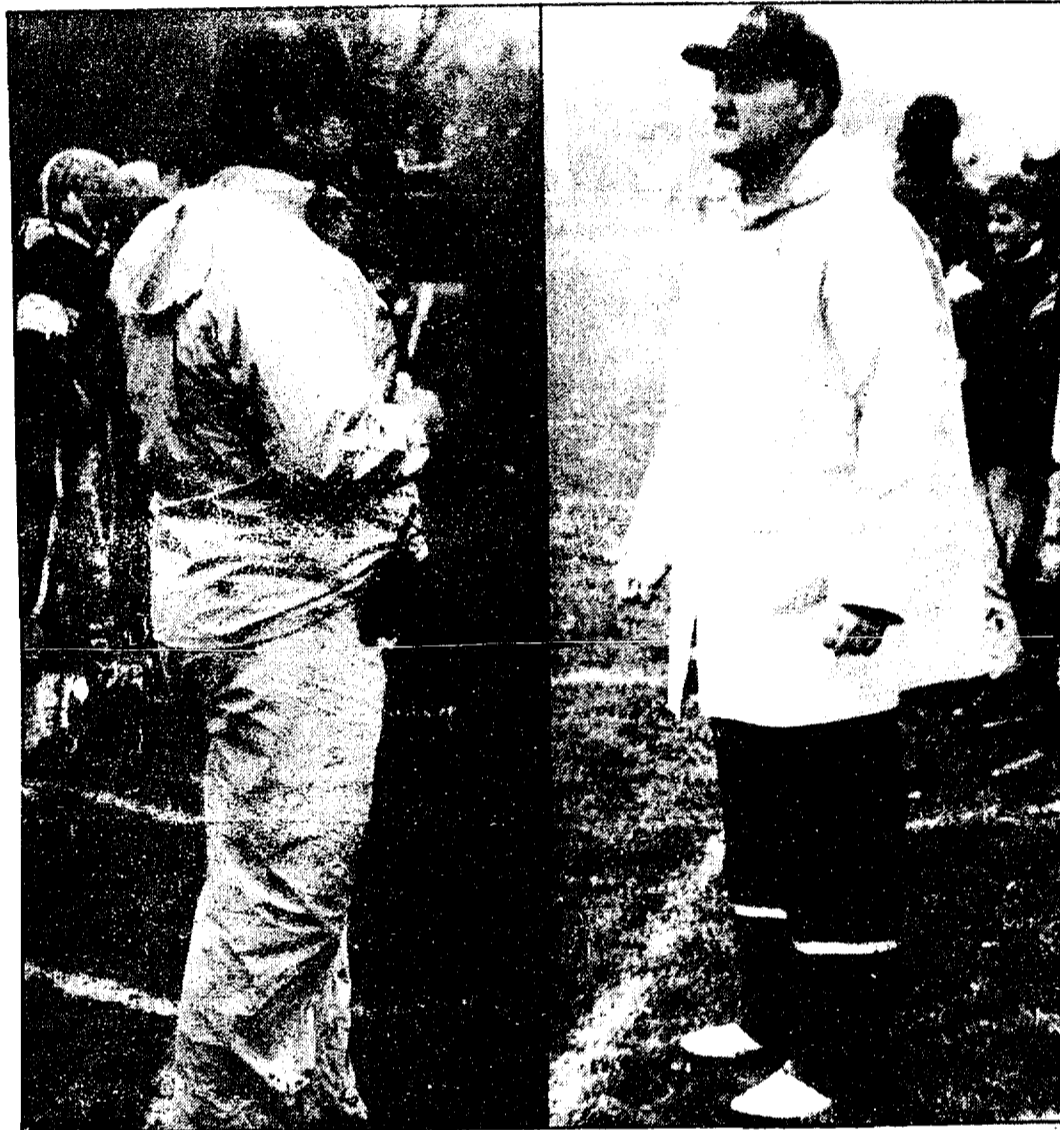

"We know South is a well-coached football team," said Sumner. "Jon has done an outstanding job over there."

For the past five years there has been a Grosse Pointe football team in the state playoffs. Over the years the programs become better and reach the playoffs, but before the post season, the crosstown team stands in the way. Many seasons have been made by knocking off South or North, and many trips to the playoffs have been aborted by an upset. And this season is no different. South, which hasn't visited the playoffs since they did it two straight years in 1982-83, is hoping to continue playing, but the Norsemen are hoping to make it a long winter for the Blue Devils.

"This game is always a great game that holds a lot of importance," said Rice. "But this year it holds a lot more importance for us because we want to keep playing. We don't want the season to end. Many teams go home after the regular season, but we're looking to keep playing."

"Whether we beat South or not and they go to the playoffs, God bless them," said Sumner. "I have always supported Grosse Pointe whether it's blue and gold (South's colors) or green and gold (North's colors). Jon's got a legitimate shot at making the playoffs, but I don't want to be the stepping stone."

Game time is set for 1 p.m. at South. For the winner, possibly an extended season. For the loser, possibly a chance to re-reflect.

E.M.L. crown belongs to Blue Devils

By Rob Fulton
Sports Editor

The Eastern Michigan League belongs to the Blue Devils of South High.

With a resounding 34-6 win over East Detroit, in a torrential downpour, the Blue Devils finished a perfect league record (7-0) to take their first E.M.L. championship since 1984. In a game ruled by the rains, South celebrated the championship at the end of the game, but by the half, the trophy was being polished off and placed in Jon Rice's hip pocket.

"This is a great feeling," said South coach Jon Rice. "This is a good football team that deserves to be league champions."

With one quarter of play left on the clock, Steve Rice, who scored his eighth touchdown of the season from six yards out, wrapped up his feeling of winning the league like this: "It's right here (as he clenched his fist) in our hands. I wanted this one so badly I could taste it."

Well, the taste was ever so sweet from the start as Marcus Wysocki's punt returns made the difference. Wysocki set up Roger Hunwick's 1-yard touchdown plunge with a 25-yard return of a Shamrock punt.

"Marcus made the difference for us," said Rice. "He really got some good blocking on the returns and he just used them to gain field position for us."

South led 6-0 at the end of one quarter, but with 28 points in the second stanza, the Shamrocks were doomed on a mud-filled field.

"At that time (South up 6-0) I thought that maybe one more score would do it," said Rice. "But, in rain like that you never know what can happen."

What happened was another outstanding return of 35 yards by Wysocki to get the Blue Devils within striking distance again. This time Rice took it in to up the Devils' lead to 13-0. Moments later, Wysocki picked off a Shamrock pass and rambled 28 yards to push the lead to 20-0.

"Things were going very well and the team could sense the league championship," said Rice. "But we still had a lot of game left."

splashed 52 yards for a score. Bryan Jones, who tossed only one pass, hooked up with his favorite receiver, Ian Thompson on a 17-yard scoring strike to end the first half, 34-0.

Wysocki's interception was his seventh of the year; tying a school record.

South, who will host city rival Grosse Pointe North Oct. 31 at 1 p.m., is 7-1 overall, but more importantly, they grabbed the E.M.L. title.

"At the start of the season when Bob Schroeder (offensive coordinator) and I sat down to look at our offense and defense we knew we had a good team, but you never know how it's going to turn out. You can only hope it turns out how you want it to and for us it did," Rice said. "It's just like we drew it up. The kids really executed well and and it is gratifying to see our plans, and the way the kids executed, pay off."

"It's fun for all the kids," Rice said about the championship.

Steve Rice led the Blue Devils with 66 yards rushing on nine carries as South compiled 197 yards on the ground.

The team concept, which has been South's trademark for years, has carried them into the No. 4 spot, in their region, in the state playoff rankings. Since day one, Rice has emphasized the team concept and is pleased with the way the kids have picked up on it.

"Things are going great right now," said Rice. "We got another team effort to win this game and that's what has led us to the championship. The kids are taking a lot of pride in the team concept."

The final game of the regular season will be held at 1 p.m. Oct. 31 when North visits South.

Soccer

Showing no mercy, the Blue Devils blasted Roseville 12-1. Bill Thompson had three goals and David Morinelli booted two. Brink Crawley, Mike Disser, Andy Eckart, Steve McCann, Jim Ryzewski, George Sparrow and Dave Birnbryer each had one goal to pad the lead. Jeff Johnston and Mike Finch led in assists with two each.

Morinelli, Ryzewski and Sam Steinhebel found the net once each in a 3-0 win over Anchor Bay. Finch, Chris Grambling and Sparrow dished out assists.

As a team, South finished 12-5-1 after picking up four losses based on eligibility rules sent down by the MHSAA. Also, as a team, the grade point average was 3.04.

Girls' cross country

For the third time in four years, the Blue Devils racked up an undefeated season. It also marked the ninth consecutive time they won the Eastern Michigan League title.

Last week, South beat Mount Clemens (17-43) and Anchor Bay (20-41) to finish the regular season 15-0.

In the win against Mount Clemens, Vicki Groustra, Toni Tedesco and Elizabeth Kraft all finished tied for first for South. They were closely followed by Anna Dinverno, Julie Nichols, Debbie Solterisch and Elizabeth Johnston.

The senior members of the Blue Devils were the only ones to run the final dual meet of the season in which they won the E.M.L. championship. Coming through the finish line together were Micha Song, Elizabeth Lazarowitz, Wendy Berger, Rebecca Wasinger, Megan Smucker, Jenny McSorley and Stephanie Morreale.

The South seniors completed a four-year dual-meet record of 52-1.

In their final invitational meet of the season, South traveled to Oxford and took second place. Medalists (top 25 finishers) for South, included Kraft, Tedesco, Groustra, Dinverno, Solterisch and Berger.

This Saturday, Oct. 31, South will compete in the state regional meet at Metro Beach. The top three teams will advance to the state meet in Lansing on Nov. 7.

Basketball

With two wins in as many games, the hoopers upped their league record to 5-2 and their overall clip to 8-4.

Against league foe East Detroit, the two hottest names to hit the E.M.L. this season led the assault over the Shamrocks, 48-47. Carmina Amezcua and Lisa Fromm, South's leading tandem, hit for 13 points each. Fromm also added 14 rebounds as South got 10 points from Patty Pentecost. Chris Schulte had nine boards and four assists. Pentecost went to the charity stripe with 26 seconds left and hit a free throw to put the Devils up by four.

In a double-overtime battle against Port Huron two nights later, Amezcua and Fromm collected 11 and nine points, respectively, to net their eighth win, 40-37.

Megan Keller had eight points and 12 rebounds for the winners and Pentecost had eight steals.

Boys' cross country

The Blue Devils, in their final week of the season, recorded a split decision as they lost 24-32 to Mount Clemens, but sank Anchor Bay, 24-33.

At Mount Clemens, Mark Sonnenberg finished second overall (17:99) and Phil Orton took third (17:21). Dave Kerfoot was seventh (17:47), Jeff Kerfoot was 11th (18:10) and Chris Sherwood was ninth (18:06).

Sonnenberg and Orton led the way over Anchor Bay with a one-two finish. Chris Sherwood and Dave Kerfoot finished sixth and seventh, while Jeff Kerfoot and Bill Staats took eighth and ninth. Bill Wilson rounded out the top seven for South.

Tankers looking for year's first victory

By Joanne Gerstner

The Star of the Sea varsity swim team dropped their second meet of the season, 104-52 to Marian.

One bright spot in the loss was the 400-yard freestyle team who posted a first-place time of 4:39:80. Members of the winning team are Catherine Jarvis, Deb Hartson, Denise Vittiglio and Diana Richardson.

The loss dropped the Tunas to 0-2 overall and 0-1 in the league.

Basketball

Beth Allor, a legitimate All-Catholic team member, netted 17 points to lead the Tunas to a stunning 55-33 win over St. Florian. Allor led the Tunas in scoring, but also grabbed 11 rebounds.

"We played excellent man-to-man defense. We really shut St. Florian down," said Coach Debbie Allor-Fish.

Jenny Sparkman added 10 points for the Tunas and impressed Allor-Fish.

"Jenny Sparkman's awesome defense totally shut down her St. Florian opponent," Allor-Fish said.

Star's Carrie Wild returned from her injury and scored five points. Sarah Brennan rounded out Star's scoring with two points.

Against St. Clement, Star was drilled 64-44 despite Beth Allor's 19 points and 15 rebounds. Buffy Stumb helped out with seven points and six boards. Sparkman had three steals to go with a perfect night from the free throw line.

Star is now 7-5 overall and 4-4 in the Catholic League.

The series at a glance

Grosse Pointe North and South opened up their annual football rivalry in 1969. It has been one of the state's greatest football rivalries and each year the game holds more meaning. This year, state playoff spots are being battled for as well as city pride.

In 1980, Frank Sumner (North's current coach) took over for Jim Krucki and won his first North/South game. This year is the first season for South coach Jon Rice at the helm of the Blue Devils' football team and he is looking for his first win against the Norsemen.

Here's a look at the scores of the previous 18 games.

- 1969..... South 7, North 6.
- 1970..... North 26, South 7.
- 1971..... North 35, South 21.
- 1972..... South 14, North 7.
- 1973..... North 36, South 21.
- 1974..... North 19, South 15.
- 1975..... South 20, North 12.
- 1976..... South 6, North 3.
- 1977..... North 10, South 7.
- 1978..... South 21, North 15.
- 1979..... North 17, South 12.
- 1980..... South 24, North 7.
- 1981..... North 7, South 2.
- 1982..... South 14, North 10.
- 1983..... South 29, North 6.
- 1984..... North 3, South 0.
- 1985..... North 37, South 0.
- 1986..... North 12, South 10.

North holds the edge over South with 10 wins in 18 meetings. On Saturday, Oct. 31, these two teams will meet again at Blue Devil field starting at 1 p.m.

I know the differences between these two battles is comparable to night and day, but it is fun to think that two talented football teams fight to defend their school's heritage. It is a rivalry that is looked forward to from the start of the season. Games played in between hold plenty of value, but in the end both teams push forward and don't think about retreating. They have one another in their sights, and they won't come out firing until they actually see the whites of their eyes. But when they do, be prepared to take a look back into your history books for a great battle that should never die.

A look ahead

I was asked to predict the outcome of this game, but being a prognosticator is not my cup of tea. However, for the sake of all mankind, I will split my loyalties between the Norsemen and Blue Devils and tell you that South will win the first half and North will win the second half. Stalemate!

Thomas' return lifts Norsemen, 6-0

By Rob Fulton
Sports Editor

Chuck Thomas sifted through Roseville Brablec and waded through numerous puddles en route to a 75-yard punt return to lead North to a 6-0 win over Roseville Brablec.

North is 6-2 overall and has already tied for the White Division championship of the Macomb Area Conference with a 3-1 record.

"This game, by far, was played under the worst conditions I've ever coached under," said North coach Frank Sumbera. "It was sloppy, muddy and cold, but the main thing was the win."

Thomas, who provided the only points of the day, got behind the wall of green and gold jerseys to escape the Cougars' clutches to dart 75 yards on the fourth play of the game.

"Chuck turned on the burners, got two good blocks from Paul Glei and Dave VanDale, made a nice cut and finished it up in the end zone," said Sumbera. "It was a really well executed play."

Playing with a football that resembled a watermelon lacerated by Vaseline, the Norsemen could only muster 146 yards of total offense. Jay Tobias, who has gained over 800 yards in eight games, led the way with 101 yards on 22 carries.

"Our offense didn't move the ball very well until the final quarter, but we just turned the game over to our defense after we scored. I really thought the one touchdown was going to be enough with the field conditions."

The Norsemen, led by Dave VanDale's 16 solo tackles and two fumble recoveries, limited the Cougars to 88 yards on the day.

"The defense did a great job under the conditions," said Sumbera. "They got us the ball six times and that really did the damage for us."

Ted Stephens aborted a Brablec drive in the second half with an interception at his own three-yard line.

"That preserved our third shutout of the year," said Sumbera. "To keep that intact in that weather says a heck of a lot."

Thomas added kickoff returns of 30 and 10 yards, and Sumbera feels the special teams won this ball game.

"Our special teams were outstanding," he said. "We had more yards in returns than we did total offense."

Due to the inclement weather, Sumbera went to the book of conservation in the second half.

"A very conservative game on my part," he said. "We had the lead and I really thought it would hold up because I felt confident our kids could wear them (Brablec) down and they did. It wasn't played under great conditions, but we got a win out of it."

North will travel to Blue Devil country Saturday, Oct. 31 to round out the regular season in a 1 p.m. contest.

Basketball

All winning streaks must come to an end and unfortunately for the girls' basketball team, a 57-52 loss to Sarnia St. Patrick's snapped the streak at 10.

North battled all the way but they could not defeat the quickness of St. Patrick. The loss dropped North's record to 11-2 overall.

Robin Wheatley led all scorers with 13 points and Heather Mergos and Sue Nichols each hit for 12.

Earlier in the week, the Lady Norsemen thrashed MAC division rival L'Anse Creuse 56-27. North put on a shooting display that saw them hit 56 percent of their field goals. With the win, North went to 4-0 in the league.

Wheatley led all scorers with 12 points and Monique VanAssche dropped in nine.

Cross country

It was a cold and rainy Saturday at the Macomb Area Conference championship meet, but the girls' cross country team made it through the storm as they took a second place.

Liz Bolden led North with a second-place time of 19:37. Also contributing to North's finish were Laurin Schultz, Nikki VanOppens and Anne Finlan.

Sterling Heights Stevenson finished first.

Steve Clarke was the top finisher for the boys' team as he placed 12th overall in 17:18. Frank Markey, Tim Ballew, John Shefferly and Bob Straske were the next four finishers for the Norsemen.

Both teams will run in the regionals this weekend.

Golf

By John Gulbord
Special Writer

North's golf team capped its season with a 10th place finish out of 25 teams in the state tournament.

Despite the fact that North had to adjust to a new home course, Partridge Creek, they finished with an impressive 8-4 record. North also took third out of 14 schools at the Evans Memorial, was second in the regional match and first in the city championships.

Brad Wilson, the team leader, was medalist at three of four tournaments with an average round of 39 for nine holes. Bob Hetchler and Tony Giumetti scored in the upper 30s throughout the year.

Wilson collected Most Valuable Player honors for the Norsemen.

The Lady Norsemen are 6-1 overall and used a 57-23 win over Utica High to record their sixth win of the year.

North, rated number three in the state, got big wins from Martha Spiewak (200 Free-2:23.06) and Wendy Mader (500 freestyle-5:12.92). Mader's time is the number one rated time in the state. Karen Dundun took first in the 200 individual medley at 2:19.18 and Kristen Skaff added points against Utica with a time of 6:08.88 in the 500 freestyle.

"We've been getting some good times from our freshmen and right now that's the difference," said North coach Mike O'Connor. "This team is swimming well."

Heidi Mader took first in the 100 butterfly (1:03.5) and Nora Brooks was first in the 100 freestyle in 1:01.5. Mader's time of 1:01.94 in the 100 backstroke set a pool record and her time of 1:01.65 set a varsity record in the same event.

Footballers romp in first win

By Rob Fulton
Sports Editor

It's been a long time coming, but it's finally here.

The Knights of University Liggett School blew past Rochester Hills Lutheran Northwest, 35-0, to record their first football win of the year. The win snaps the Knight's season-losing streak at seven. They stand 1-7 overall.

"We dominated with a nice game," said Coach Bob Newvine. "The pressure of trying to get that first win of the year is definitely gone for us. The key for us was that the freshmen ran wild."

Chris Carroll racked up 267 yards on the ground to go with a touchdown run of 82 yards, and Dike Ajiri rushed for 167 yards, including a 62-yard touchdown. Carroll also intercepted a pass and ran it back 52 yards for a Knight score.

"We led 27-0 at the half and the kids were having a lot of fun," said Newvine. "Winning seemed different to them because it's been so long. Some of the kids didn't know how to accept it, but they handled themselves well."

Lex Smith, who threw only three passes and connected on only one, made it count as he nailed Ajiri for a 64-yard touchdown. Abimbola Afariogun traveled seven times on the ground for 103 yards and one, 3-yard touchdown leap.

"Our intensity was up," said Newvine. "They were bigger than we were, but we physically pushed them around the field."

Greg Davis had a good day on defense as he recorded 10 tackles. John Dodds had nine tackles and Ted Evans had six, including a quarterback sack for 25 yards.

"Everything worked for us," said Newvine. "We have a chance to finish 2-7 on the year and that's not too bad for a young football team."

ULS travels to Lutheran Westland for a 1 p.m. game Oct. 31.

On Saturday, Oct. 24 in mud and drizzle, the ULS soccer team won the District 28 championship and took a big step toward a possible state championship on Nov. 7.

The first district game against Lutheran East, saw the Knights score four goals in the first half en route to a 5-3 win. Frank Karabetsos led ULS with two goals as did Jonathon Davis. Mark Sullivan added the final tally for the Knights. With the win the Knights advanced to play Immaculate Conception at the ULS field.

The visitors scored first, but 10 minutes later Anthony Abiragi crossed a ball to Doug Wood, who headed it past the diving goalie. In the second half, Immaculate Conception scored, but the Knights came back a minute later on a goal from Davis to knot the score at 2-2 at the end of regulation. The teams then battled to a scoreless tie in a 20-minute overtime period to push the game into sudden death overtime where no scoring then forced a shootout.

In a tension-filled matchup, five Conception shooters booted goals, but the Knights responded with five of their own with Abiragi, Mike Coello, Bill Jewett, Sullivan and Karabetsos all scoring. Immaculate Conception's sixth shot caromed off the crossbar. With the door wide open for a Knights' win, Davis drilled the ball into the net to send ULS into the finals with an 8-7 win.

In the final game, in which ULS tangled with Harper

Woods, Jonah Smith opened the scoring from 20 yards out for the Knights. Eleven minutes later, Karabetsos blasted a long shot into the net to take a 2-0 lead at the half.

Harper Woods scored on a penalty kick to cut the lead to 2-1, but unanswered goals by Davis, Abiragi, and Karabetsos pushed the score to 6-1.

The Knights take on Inter City Baptist at Allen Park in a semifinal game Oct. 31.

Boys' cross country

By Ross Roy
Special Writer

The University Liggett School cross country team traveled to the Whitmore Lake Invitational on Oct. 24 and finished third out of 11 teams.

The meet was divided into two races as the freshmen and sophomores competed in the first and the juniors and seniors waited for the second heat. ULS had two runners in the first heat, Chris Fredrickson and Steedhar Samudrala; both received their personal-best times. In the second race, Gordie Maitland came in first place and Paul Brigolin notched his personal best.

ULS split against two tough opponents as they lost to Zion Christian 45-22, but beat Plymouth Christian 38-34.

Martina Jerant led ULS with 12 points against Zion Christian and laced 14 points to go with 20 rebounds in the win over Plymouth.

Sports People

PGA member

James S. Hirschfield, of Grosse Pointe Woods, has become a member of the Professional Golfers' Association of America, the world's largest working sports organization.

Hirschfield, assistant professional at the Pine Lake CC in Orchard Lake, was elected to membership Aug. 1 and becomes a member of the Michigan Section of the PGA of America.

Master swimmers

Christine Truhol, former Grosse Pointe Shores resident, placed eighth in the 200-meter backstroke and fifth in the 800-meter freestyle in the 25-29 age group at the National Masters Long Course Swimming Championships in Texas. Also competing was Robert L. Heritier of Grosse Pointe Woods who is a Michigan master swimmer.

Truhol is a 1980 North graduate.

Sean Byrne, of Grosse Pointe Park, recently won the Puma

Junior Tennis Invitational Regionals in Chicago. Sean's win, which came over Wisconsin's number one player, qualifies him to participate in the national finals to be held in Indian Wells, Calif. next April. Sean is coached by David Kamisar.

Tennis couple

Mark and Joan Levine, of Grosse Pointe Woods, recently earned a berth in the quarterfinals of the Ford Tennis Program in Indian Wells, Calif. The Levine couple compete in the B Division. They scored two straight victories in the first round of playoffs at Hilton Head, S.C. on the weekend of Sept. 18-19. Their trip to Indian Wells is an all-expenses paid endeavor by the Ford Motor Company. The Levines earned the right to go to Hilton Head by winning the local Ford B Division title at the Detroit Tennis and Squash Club in Farmington.

Hole in one

Rex Oliver, of Grosse Pointe Woods, dropped in a hole-in-one on a par 3, 175-yard hole at the St. Clair Shores Country Club. Oliver plays in the St. Joan of Arc League and it was a sanctioned hole-in-one.

Horse play

Christine Baker, of Grosse Pointe, will travel to the Pennsylvania National Horse Show Oct. 15-16 as one of the top 30 riders in the nation. Through the course of the year, Baker compiled enough points to earn a bid to ride in the national competition.

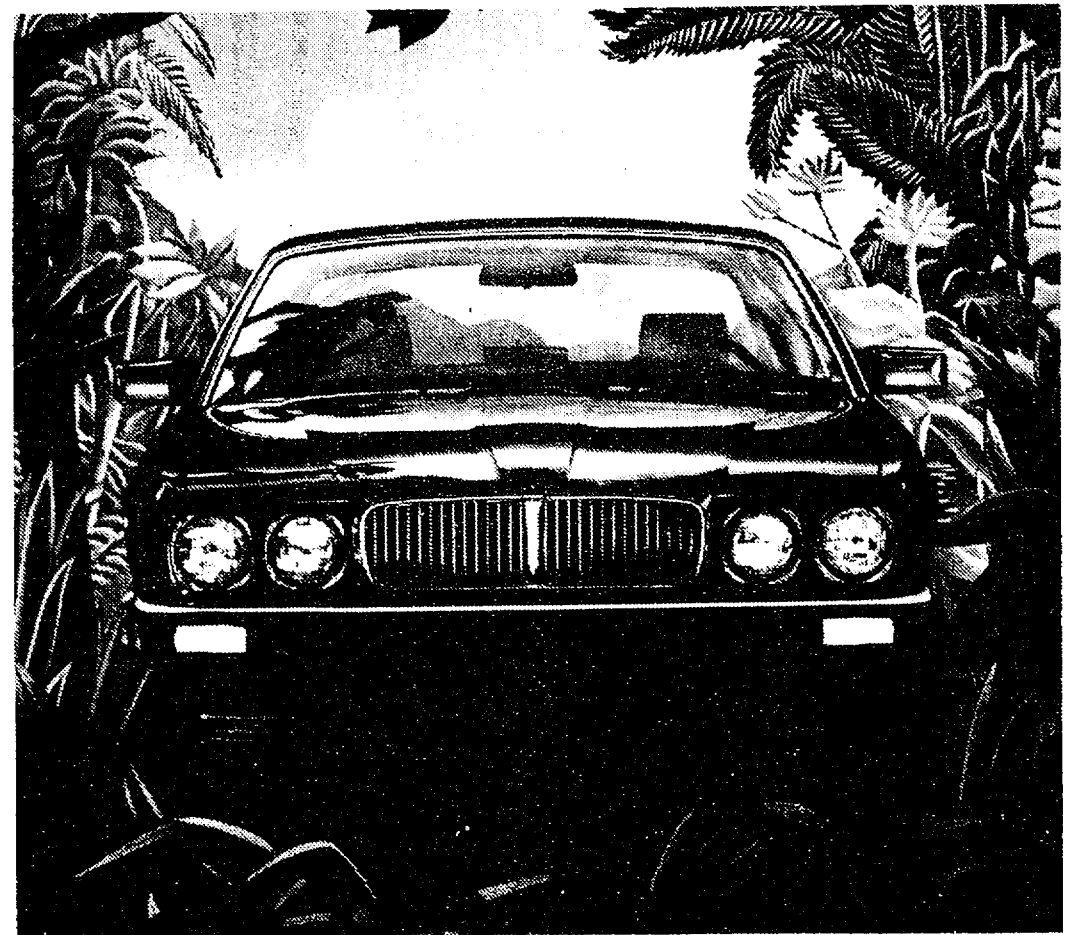

Goal scorer

Andrew Roy, a 1987 Grosse Pointe South graduate, was less than 15 minutes into his collegiate career when he scored U of M Dearborn's first goal of the 1987-88 hockey season.

Roy later assisted on a goal to ignite a Wolverine comeback en route to a 5-5 tie against Wind- sor.

EVOLUTION OF THE SPECIES

The New Breed Jaguar XJ6

Introducing the 1988 Jaguar XJ6. Like its forebears, its sleek form is taut and well-muscled. Yet it faces the wind with greater aerodynamic efficiency.

True to Jaguar tradition, its new aluminum alloy, fuel injected six cylinder engine has double overhead cams. However, the added sophistication of 24 valves further enhances power and high-speed response.

To the classic interior splendor of supple leather and fine wood, the new XJ6 adds advanced computer-age technology—in everything from its climate control system to its Vehicle Condition Monitor, which continually checks 27 critical functions.

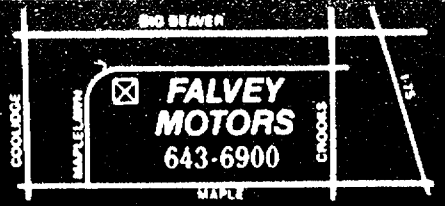

The 1988 Jaguar XJ6. It is totally new, yet it reflects the finest traits of its forebears. It marks the evolution of a legendary species. It's little wonder that upon previewing it in Europe, CAR magazine called it "the best sedan in the world."

Spot reducing:
Does it work?

The "promise" of spot reduction with exercise is especially attractive aesthetically. Wouldn't it be wonderful to be able to do curl-ups for the abdominal area to get rid of that layer of fat that bulges out producing a pot belly? I wish I could say to my students that, yes, leg lifts will reduce the circumference of your thighs. Life would be so much easier if this were true!

Proponents of the spot reduction theory would recommend a high number of repetitions on the basis that an increase in a specific muscle's activity would facilitate a greater fat mobilization from these specific storage areas. Unfortunately, there is no clinical evidence that fatty acids are released from the fat pads directly over the exercising muscle.

Exercise, indeed, stimulates the mobilization of fatty acids, but the areas of greatest fat concentration probably supply the greatest amount of energy. Energy burned means burned calories. To test the claims for spot reduction, comparisons were made on the right and left forearms of top tennis players. As one might expect, the circumference of the dominant playing arm was significantly larger than the non-dominant arm.

Tennis provides a muscular overload which increases the size of the muscle and, therefore, the larger circumference. However, measurements of fat-fold thickness showed that there was no difference between the arms in the quantity of forearm fat. This means that prolonged exercise using a dominant arm did not reduce fat deposits specifically in that arm.

Have you ever heard the old joke, "if spot reducing were effective, gum chewers would have skinny jaws?" It's the same principle.

Don't be discouraged. Weight control is nothing more than an energy balance: Energy input versus output. There is no doubt that regular exercise creates a negative caloric balance contributing to a reduction in total body fat. This fat, however, is taken from total body fat reserves, not the selected exercise area, and is usually taken from the areas of greatest fat concentration. This last statement should be of some comfort. The area of greatest fat concentration will be the area from which the fat reserves are taken.

In addition, building muscle through exercise results in more lean body tissue, and lean body tissue requires more calories to maintain. There is an increase in the trained muscle's capacity to mobilize and oxidize fat which is brought about by an increase in the blood flow within the muscle.

Therefore, the goal should be to have a lean, muscular body which can be obtained by:

1) Decreasing daily food intake and increasing daily energy expenditure through exercise.

2) Maintaining daily food requirements and increasing caloric output, or 3) reducing caloric intake below daily energy requirements.

I was recently asked what it would take to lose 10 pounds and my recommendations to the gentleman that asked me was the number one goal above. If we consider that most individuals burn 100 calories for each mile jogged, jogging just one mile a day and reducing calories by 100 a day would result in a 10 pound loss in six months. By doing this, you will develop healthy habits which will result in permanent weight loss. Hope you use this as food for thought.

Who are these fitness people?

Columnists juggle writing and fitness styles

By Rob Fulton
Sports Editor

Vital Options and Diet Center, Inc. are two Grosse Pointe fitness operations that take care of the hands-on training to groom people into shape, and they also offer two of the News' special columnists.

Mary Busse, owner of Diet Center, Inc. and Deanna Hawthorne, owner and operator of Vital Options, report the world of healthy eating and fitness

Both lay claim to the fact that being in a highly efficient business is rewarding and the career move wouldn't be any different if it had to be done over again.

"I enjoy it a great deal," said Hawthorne. "It's wonderful to be in a profession where you're doing something positive all the time."

"I really enjoy to see the personal growth in people," said Busse. "It's nice to watch people exactly how they feel.

"I used to have a weight problem so I can empathize with the people who come to me for counseling," she said. "I know exactly where they are coming from and that helps me to enjoy my job."

Hawthorne, on the other hand, deals with the physical ability to remain physically fit through aerobic exercise.

"I believe that trying to, or remaining fit, is important," she said. "We (partner Joan Thornton) deal in aerobic programs for the members."

Busse averages 50-60 hours a week within her business and Hawthorne engulfs about 35 hours a week into hers. However, there is time for pleasure, not just business.

"I really enjoy to bike," said Busse. "I also like sports and I'd rather participate in them than be a spectator. I also enjoy reading good literature."

"Running is a good thing for me," said Hawthorne. "I like to read books or magazines about physiology and philosophy."

Both fitness professionals agreed that keeping abreast of the changing world of fitness and health is important in their business. But, in between juggling a business and finding a time for recess, both turn to their respective families.

Busse, who has been married to Stuart Busse for 23 years, mothers four children: Aimee, 22, Claire, 19, Andy, 16 and Michael, 10. Hawthorne and her husband Eugene have been wed for 20 years and have a son, Todd.

"I really enjoy spending time with my family," said Busse. "They all are very supportive of me and that makes it a lot easier."

"Our family loves to ski," said Hawthorne. "We spend good time together."

Busse and Hawthorne continually update themselves for their community by their informative and educational columns they submit to the Grosse Pointe News.

"I enjoy writing the column because it gives me an opportunity to help people out there," said Busse. "If someone, somewhere, learns one thing each week in my column I am satisfied. I enjoy being able to service the community."

"I like writing the column," said Hawthorne. "It's hard to meet the deadlines each week, but I enjoy it."

Self: Control,

Have you ever heard the statement, "life is a do-it-yourself project. I take the credit or blame for my performance?" It is a fact of life that to be successful we must assume 100 percent of the responsibility for our own actions.

Since life is a cause and effect situation, we are all responsible for causing each effect in our daily lives. We each have the power to take control of every aspect, both mental and physical, of our life.

Self control

Self-control is the key to both mental and physical health; barring only organic damage or congenital faults. When we allow outside forces to govern our lives, we give up control. We must take credit for determining, creating and making our own place in the world. If we stop for a moment and realize that we are in the driver's seat we can change our lives. Nearly everything in life is the result of a deliberate decision. In fact, not making a decision is a decision in itself! Each of us has the choice to make a winner out of ourself — right now if we choose to.

To make it less difficult to incorporate these ideas into our lives, here are six specific ways we can begin to achieve self-control.

1) You are what you are. Be honest with yourself. Take the blame or credit for your position in life.

2) "I have to" is a compulsion. Use the statement, "I choose to" instead. In place of the inhibition, "I'm afraid to," use "I'm more comfortable doing this" as a condition for non-participation.

3) Carry this cause and effect statement with you, "my rewards in life will reflect my service and contribution."

4) Unless prescribed by a physician, avoid external depressants or stimulants. Learn a relaxation technique and practice it every day.

5) Carry another affirmative motto with you: "ACTION TNT" (action today, not tomorrow).

6) It takes just as much energy to have a bad life as to have a good one. It really is your choice.

Actions begin as thought and then become habits. It takes a minimum of 21 days to create a habit. Your behavior requires repetition to become a habit. Just desiring or having the right abilities is not enough. To be successful, we must practice these new decisions for a healthy lifestyle.

Everything we do becomes habit forming if it is repeated enough times. Remember this simple routine: Desire, information, assimilation, repetition. Self-discipline consists of nothing more than mental practice, but, without it, we can't achieve our goals. Self-discipline can effect a permanent change in our self-image. There is no doubt we can do it. We have been created equal. The choice to be self-disciplined is ours. And once we make this choice, self-direction begins to follow in the footsteps of that discipline.

The four-step formula

Desire: Take time to sit down and write out just what it is you want for yourself. Do you wish to lose weight? Do you want to improve your eating habits? It is important you see your goal on paper. The desire now takes the first step in becoming reality.

Information: No matter what goal, the next step — gathering information — is invaluable. For instance, if you have decided to lose weight, get as much information as you can and compare the various programs available. They are not all the same and some can be unhealthy for you.

Assimilation: Now that you have defined your goal and gathered background information, you are set to apply the necessary disciplines to your daily routine.

Repetition: By taking one day at a time and establishing short-term goals, you are putting into practice all the techniques you need to achieve success.

At first, your newly developed habits may seem to be taking a lot of time, attention and thought. You may become frustrated and just want to give up. But by adhering to your program and continuing to repeat the pattern on a daily basis, you not only can succeed, you will succeed.

Achieving your goal

A) In all walks of life, from the executive to the athlete, companies and coaches are utilizing the techniques of visualization to help their employees or their athletes improve. Simply put, it is another word for daydreaming.

We used to practice this as children and can once again learn to apply this skill in reaching our goals. Take 15 minutes of your day and dream your dream.

B) List five tasks that you have been putting off because they may not be the most pleasant duties. Do it now!

Set a time table for completion (an exact date). Start one task, finish it and go on to the next. Immediate action on unpleasant tasks reduces stress and tension.

C) Imagine the exact achievement as if it had already been accomplished. Take for example, a weight loss. Picture yourself in that swimsuit or new outfit looking so great and all the lovely comments you receive.

D) Winning is a learned habit and the old adage of "practice makes perfect" could not apply more than in the case of reaching your goal.

E) Get plenty of exercise. Free your body and mind from stress by actively getting involved in walking, swimming and/or aerobics. The list is endless. The hardest part of any goal is getting started. Instead of spending day after day, week after week thinking about it, just get going and do it one day; that leads to another day and after seven you've got a week. You can change and be in control of your life.

Food for thought: On your next birthday you will be one year older. That is a fact and there is no way you can change it. But on your next birthday, you can be slimmer and healthier and be in better shape.

Workshop shows
how to deal with stress

Stress — it isn't all bad. When channeled effectively, stress energizes, stimulates and promotes personal growth. It can provide the extra energy and incentive needed to meet the challenges of life.

But left unmanaged, stress wears on the body and contributes to mental and physical exhaustion and disease.

Learn to harness the stress in your life at a three-day You Can Control Stress workshop at Cottage Hospital.

The sessions are held on Thursdays, Nov. 5, 12, and 19 from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. in Board-room A on the lower level of the hospital.

Lecture, discussion and small group sessions are used in the workshop. Participants explore the signs and symptoms of stress, types A and B personalities, health and illness related to stress, relaxation techniques, effects of lifestyle on stress, and burnout in the workplace. Individuals assess their personal levels of stress and learn skills to assist them in combating stress-induced behavior.

Enrollment is limited. The workshop fee is $25. Call 884-8600, extension 2390, for more information.

'Prince of Darkness' might scare your socks off

By Michael Chapp
Special Writer

In the final analysis, "Prince of Darkness" will not be remembered as one of John Carpenter's best pieces of work. Nor will it stand out as one of the best horror films of all time. Still, there's something about this picture that will appeal to a certain type of moviegoer.

Suspense. That's what it all comes down to. If you love suspense, this film will be a real gem in your bag of Halloween goodies. If it takes more than just suspense to scare you, however, this picture will be about as welcome as a Devil's Night BMW waxing.

Carpenter takes his time setting up the story. The credits alone are interspersed with the beginning scenes of the picture for 15 minutes. Once the plotline formalities are aside, the film settles into a slow but deliberate pace that becomes almost painfully difficult to watch. It's like waiting for that first drop of ketchup to hit your hamburger; you know it's coming, but you don't know when.

We follow a group of academic types into an old, deserted church, where they have been asked to study a newly discovered phenomenon — a rotating green liquid which emits a spiritual force unparalleled in scientific pursuit. One by one, the members of the group fall prey to the "force," and start preparing the way for what is to come.

And that, of course, is the Prince of Darkness. Satan. In setting up the "horror" that is to follow, the film draws close ties between theology and science. Indeed, though the main action involves the supernatural occurrences surrounding the coming of Satan, a small nuance in the story explains why this can only happen now — before, science was not far enough in its development to comprehend the goings-on.

In that sense, "science" will surely not be alone. Things get a bit muddy as the picture progresses, and even at the conclusion, viewers will have more questions than answers. Intellectual cups runneth over trying to explain the subtleties of "Prince's" plot.

More important than any of that, though, is whether there are enough chills to make the film worthwhile. In this film more than any horror picture in recent memory, that is a very subjective question. Quite frankly, there is no pull-out-the-stops climax of horror. Carpenter chooses to take a softer approach, letting the "heebie-ee-bies" of the story come from our endless waiting.

Some will leave thoroughly satisfied, with white knuckles from gripping the armrests of their chairs for so long. Others will undoubtedly feel as though the picture ends with an anticlimax. The appraisal from this corner leans to the former. Suspense and anticipation can be every bit as scary as blatant horror and shock. Sometimes even scarier, because one can produce much more in the imagination than can be experienced in a movie.

'Biloxi Blues' is pure Neil Simon fun

By Marian Trainor
Special Writer

In situations loaded with comedy and dialogue that crackles with humor, Neil Simon's "Biloxi Blues" continues the saga of Eugene Morris Jerome, who was first introduced to playgoers in

"Brighton Beach Memoirs." There he was a young boy growing up in a Brooklyn family during the Great Depression.

In "Biloxi Blues," it's 1943 and Eugene is in basic training in the wartime army. Biloxi, Miss., proves to be a long way from Brooklyn, not only in miles, but in relationships and experiences.

As in the first play, Eugene keeps a journal of the day-to-day happenings and "Biloxi Blues" is a record of his observations.

When Eugene (David Jacobson) is inducted into the army, he has four goals: to lose his virginity, to fall in love, to come out alive, and to become a writer. Before the play ends, he achieves all four, but not before some liberal education in how the rest of the world lives.

Theater

His companions are a motley group with little in common beyond the fatigues they wear.

Sgt. Marvin J. Toomey (Robert Kurcz) is every soldier's nightmare of a devious sergeant. His first command when he meets the weary recruits is to order them down on the floor to do push-ups after they have spent a sleepless night on the train. This is just the beginning. He is a man of many talents when it comes to punishments. His favorite is latrine duty.

Scott McClelland as Joseph Wykowski is abusive and a loud-mouth. Hennesy (Ron Stone) is big and husky and the last one anyone would expect to be homesick. Don Carney (Michael McNeill) fancies himself a singer and plans to make a career of it when he gets out of the army. And Roy Selvidge (Kevin Kelly) is hyperkinetic and keeps the barracks in an uproar.

Much of the action involves Arnold Epstein (David Nackman) who quietly resists what he terms the dehumanization of army regulations. He is willing to pay the price for his beliefs.

"Biloxi Blues" is made up of a series of vignettes featuring the men in various situations. Most of them are humorous, a few of them feature humor mixed with pathos. All of them demand close attention in order to catch the sharp, pointed and very funny dialogue.

All of the scenes (there are five in the first act and nine in the second) are played out against the sparest of props, just enough to indicate place.

From the first scene on the railroad train where the men are huddled together trying to sleep sitting up, to those of the barracks and one in a hotel room, we are reminded that here are young men trying to grow up fast who are having a hard time doing it.

"Biloxi Blues" is first of all a comedy and a good one. It won the Tony Award in 1985. This presentation at the Birmingham Theatre is the first time it has been produced in the metro-Detroit area.

It opened Oct. 20 for a nine-week engagement through Dec. 20.

'Matewan' is an engrossing story of miners, unions, companies

By Marian Trainor
Special Writer

Based on the real-life massacre of striking miners who clashed with hired thugs of the Stone Mountain Coal Co., "Matewan" (rhymes with great one) presents a forceful and engrossing story of what life was like as a coal miner in West Virginia in 1920 and the sacrifices made by those who fought to unionize.

The workers were owned by the company in the same way as equipment. They lived without dignity or hope, working long hours under fearful conditions for meager wages paid in scrip.

The company owned the homes they lived in, the furnishings, the food they ate and the clothes they wore, all of which could be taken away at whim.

The breaking point occurred when word came down that wages would be cut and prices in the company store would go up. The miners went on strike.

Determined to break the strike, the company recruits blacks from Alabama and Italians just off the boat. Ironically, riding on the same train with them is Joe Kenehan (Chris Cooper), a union organizer. When the strikers meet the train with clubs, Cooper steps into the battle and convinces both sides that their enemy is the company, not each other, and that violence will only play into the hands of the bosses.

The situation worsens when two gun-toting thugs, Hickey (Kevin Tighe) and Griggs (Gordon Clapp) ride into town and try to evict the families from their homes. They are backed down by a fearless police chief (David Strathairn).

Determined to crush the miners, Hickey and Griggs rent rooms in a boardinghouse run by a widow (Mary McDonnell). They make life a nightmare for her and her 14-year-old son, Danny (Will Oldham) who is a prodigy preacher.

The film ends on a classic note — deceit, betrayal, a fallen hero and a battlefield of lost lives.

"Matewan" has a fine, strong acting ensemble made up of characters who will be etched in memory. Outstanding is the performance of James Earl Jones as one of the miners brought in from Alabama. His enormous girth and resonant, authoritative voice easily identify him as a leader. When he directs his followers to lay down their shovels, they do.

Will Oldham, the 14-year-old preacher, handles his role with the seriousness that often marks children who assume adult responsibilities. Dozens of other characters, deftly drawn, give this period film, produced at a modest budget of $4 million, the scope of an epic.

Director John Sayles is best known for smaller scale films, like "Brother From Another Planet." In "Matewan," his canvas is enormous. Much of the impact of this film is due also to the burnished tones of Haskell Wesler's cinematography.

"Matewan" is an engrossing story. It holds a special interest for people interested in the history of unions. Apparently the interest is there. "Matewan" was originally shown in an art theater, but by popular demand, it now can be seen at the mall complexes.

Event benefits Vietnam vets

"An Evening of Stars" a fund-raising presentation for the Vietnam Veterans of America, Chapter 154, will be presented at 8 p.m. Friday, Oct. 30, at Lakeview High School Auditorium.

101 PRAYERS

NOVENA TO ST. JUDE May the Sacred Heart of Jesus be adored, glorified, loved and preserved throughout the world now and forever. Oh, sacred heart of Jesus, pray for us. Worker of miracles, pray for us. St. Jude helper of the hopeless, pray for us. Say this prayer 9 times a day, by the 8th day your prayer will be answered. It has never been known to fail, never. Publication must be promised. Thanks to St. Jude for prayer answered.K.M.G.

PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT Holy Spirit, you who make me see everything and who shows me the way to reach my ideal. You who give me the Divine Gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me and you who are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great the material desires may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones in your perpetual glory. Amen.

Thank you for your love towards me and my loved ones. Pray this prayer 3 consecutive days without asking your wish, after third day your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Then promise to publish this prayer as soon as your favor has been granted. Thank you for favors received. M.M.C.
