

Students learn Spanish by getting into the act

By Peter A. Salinas
Staff Writer

"Buenos dias, Senora Brazill."
"Buenos dias. Gracias."
"De nada."
The students at St. Paul School are just like second-graders anywhere — except they have been learning Spanish since they were in kindergarten. Spanish instructor Elizabeth M. Brazill leads Sister Mary Plunkett's second grade in a Spanish recitation of the Lord's Prayer. Once the students are seated, they recite the days of the week and the months of the year.

As the students recite the months, each student stands as the month he was born in is said. After some more recall exercises, the months are again repeated and the students sit down as their birth month is announced.

It's all part of the Spanish program Brazill implemented at St. Paul seven years ago.

"The system we use certainly involves a physical response," Brazill said. "We teach by using music and games."

A long group recitation of the body parts is as entertaining to watch as it seems to be for the students to perform. They touch their feet and say "pie," their heads, "cabeza," their elbows, "codo," and so on until they've gone up and down the body twice.

The students not only learn words, they learn about the culture of Spanish-speaking countries and a little about geography, music and art.

"When we discuss map work, I speak in English," Brazill said, "but later on I will teach them words in Spanish for map, key and country which they will incorporate into their vocabularies."

School officials believe the Spanish program at St. Paul is probably the only one of its kind in Catholic — and perhaps even public — schools in the area. Spanish is required for all grades from kindergarten through eighth grade. By the end of their first year, students can count in Spanish as well as read and speak basic words.

By the time the students reach eighth grade, they know three conjugations of verbs and learn about two others, can form plurals, know about the familiar tense and have a 500-word vocabulary or more committed to memory.

Woods ambulance system threatened

By Nancy Parmenter
Staff Writer

In a surprise move, a licensing board has warned Grosse Pointe Woods that it cannot continue to operate its advanced life support ambulance service past the end of February. The city is understaffed, according to licensing requirements.

The order stunned city officials when it came two weeks ago. The city has always operated its ALS ambulance service with one person qualified as an advanced emergency medical technician and another qualified basic EMT. According to the rules, there should be two AEMTs.

"This is very serious for our city," said Mayor George Freeman. "I remember how strict the state was when we applied for our license. I thought if we passed that, our troubles would be over."

The Woods council is committed to keeping the service if a way can be found to do so. A meeting of the committee of the whole has been called for Monday, Feb. 8, to explore ways to continue.

"I'm sure our residents want it," Freeman said. "We've saved lives with it."

At least 20 percent of the Woods ambulance runs require the use of the advanced life support equipment.

Approaches to saving the service range from lobbying state legislators to asking residents to support a tax increase. Woods residents already pay a half-mill charge for the ambulance; the cost of the additional staff needed to meet the requirement would amount to an additional half-mill. The city estimates staff costs at $140,000 a year.

If all approaches fail, the city will have to revert to a basic ambulance service.

City attorney George Catlin has already written the Detroit East Medical Control Board to request an exception to the rule. Catlin said he based the request on the fact that the city always

Cottage Lotto club hits the big one

Five thousand a year for the next 20? No complaints.

A group of 20 nutrition department employees at Cottage Hospital had been buying 20 Lotto tickets a week since the game first began, and last Wednesday, their efforts paid off. The group will split half of a $4,646,879 pot, and each will get about $5,000 a year — before taxes — for the next 20 years.

The winning numbers were 8, 10, 11, 17, 23 and 29.

Jim Southway, director of nutritional services, said it was a dream come true for him and the others in the club.

Yukkin' it up with Huck

Students at Trombly Elementary School were treated to actor David Parker's interpretation of Huckleberry Finn Monday morning. Parker, 30, is a member of the Attic Theatre acting company. He is involved with artist-in-residence programs and workshops. Students were treated to stories about Huck Finn and Tom Sawyer, but also heard educational facts about author Mark Twain. They also learned about school and games of the 1830s.

Modified hiring freeze implemented

Bryant says school financing reform should cost Grosse Pointe millions

By Peter A. Salinas
Staff Writer

Three major cost-saving measures were initiated this week by Superintendent John Whritner in reaction to word that changes in school financing could cost the district as much as $4.1 million.

Just several months ago, school officials were asking voters to approve an $8.6 million library expansion and spent thousands to explore the remodeling of the administration building. Monday night Whritner told the school board he was implementing a modified hiring freeze, halting spending from two capital accounts and asking building administrators not to make any purchases unless absolutely necessary.

What prompted the move by the school administration and concern by the school board was a letter from state Rep. William R. Bryant Jr. warning the district to save every dollar it could.

In a letter to Whritner dated Jan. 26, Bryant warned that the district should assume there will be no aid from the state for the 1988-89 school year and beyond.

He added that he was fearful that to fund at least part of the proposed Educational Excellence program, Gov. James Blanchard and other state politicians will seek to raise funds by cutting remaining categorical aid, requiring Social Security payments and pension contributions from out-of-formula school districts.

The employer's portion of Social Security payments and pension fund contributions are currently paid for by the state out of its general fund. Local payment of those funds would cost the district $2.3 million for Social Security and about $1.5 million for pension contributions. Whritner told the board that categorical aid amounted to

Pointer of Interest

Irwin Toby Holtzman

By Margie Reins Smith
Staff Writer

The Friends of the Grosse Pointe Public Library signed on a new member last week. They got a good one.

Toby Holtzman, Farms resident for a mere three months, is a lifelong bibliophile, a major collector of books, and the owner of a treasured collection of the complete works of William Faulkner. He has thousands of books stashed and stacked in a book room — one whole wing of his new Georgian-style home. Still more books are shelved in a family library room, more are in the attic, still more — his architecture collection — are in his Farmington Hills office.

He's on the board of the Friends of the Detroit Library and a dozen other Friends groups. He works for the Center for the Book at the Library of Congress and he's on the board of the Michigan Center for the Book.

"Friends groups are supposed to provide the cream on the coffee (for libraries.) They're supposed to add to the resources of their libraries," he said. "In reality, they've been called upon to save libraries. They've been turned into crisis management groups."

Holtzman is not pleased with the diminished status and importance of libraries in the last 40

Traffic meeting

The meeting to discuss street closings and other measures to control Farms traffic has been rescheduled to Monday, Feb. 8, at 7:30 p.m.

It will be held at the South High School gymnasium.

School officials have asked that people attending the meeting park their cars in the lot off Grosse Pointe Boulevard and enter the building from that side. A school board meeting will also be held at the high school that night — in the auditorium — and officials ask people to make sure they are in the right room.

to allow everyone in the club to retire.

"It would have been a disaster to lose 20 people from one department," he said with a laugh.

The club has placed the ticket in a safety deposit box and applied for an Internal Revenue Service tax number. It may be a few weeks before the club members actually have cash in hand, due to the delay in getting the number from the government.

"It means a lot of different things to a lot of people," Southway said. "There are some hourly employees in the club who will really be helped out by this."

fear," Southway said. "We play the same 20 numbers every week, and one person plays them. No one knew whether she played the number this week."

She sure did. "It's funny, because at first I thought we had only five of the numbers," said Norma Brumm, 26, a hospital cook and Roseville resident.

"I called my parents and when I realized I had all six, I started screaming."

Brumm bought the ticket at Tommy D's Party Store in Roseville the day of the drawing.

Southway said he's ecstatic over winning the money, but he's also glad it wasn't enough

Cinema league

The Grosse Pointe Cinema League will meet Monday, Feb. 8, at 8 p.m. at the War Memorial.

"Let's Visit Singapore, Malaysia, Thailand and Burma," a super 8-color movie will be presented by Dr. Vollrad J. von Berg.

The visit begins in Singapore with a brief look at accommodations, the shops and the skyline. The tour continues to countryside Malaysia through rubber plantations, then touring a city on stilts over the river and visiting fish farms.

Thailand is visited next. Viewers explore Bangkok, its surrounding agricultural area, salt pans and the Floating Market. In Burma the film includes Rangoon, Mandalay and Pagan — the temples, the Irrawaddy River of Kipling's poem, teak and buffalo, and most of all, the many pagodas of Pagan.

The public is invited. There is a charge of $2 for non-members, plus 50 cents for the social hour that follows.

Rock around the hot chocolate

Anxious ticket buyers who waited in line behind Village Records and Tapes last week to get tickets to the In Excess concert were treated, courtesy Detroit rock station 98.7 WLLZ. Station promoters passed out hot coffee and chocolate along with donuts to chilly fans who had been waiting outdoors for a few hours. Village Records, a TicketMaster outlet, has a system where the first to arrive get numbers, so they don't have to wait outside overnight. Many were on hand in the morning just before the tickets went on sale.

Mystery fans wanted

Central Library will present two additional programs in the popular "Let's Talk About It" series. Dr. Jerome Herron will talk about William Kienzle's "Rosary Murders" on Thursday, Feb. 25, and John Conley will present Robert Travers "Anatomy of a Murder" on April 28.

The grant for the program comes from the Michigan Library Association and the Library of Michigan and is designed to bring adults who enjoy the mystery genre together. The Friends of the Library have made a gift of extra copies of the books so that participants can read the books prior to the program. Registration can be made at any branch and there is no fee.

Both programs are at 7:30 p.m. in the Exhibition Room. The library is located at 10 Kercheval.

Cable show to feature North choir

The story of Grosse Pointe North's Concert Choir, its future trip to sing at Lincoln Center in New York and the events members are planning for the community is the subject of the Johanna Gilbert Show on Channel 32.

Gilbert will interview choir director Ben Walker and parent coordinator Judy Preston. The show will begin Monday, Feb. 8, and will air every day at 10 a.m. and midnight, and Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m.

South to present winter concert

Grosse Pointe South High School's Instrumental Music Department will present its annual winter concert Thursday, Feb. 11, at 8 p.m. in the Parcels Middle School auditorium.

Pancake supper

Boy Scout Troop 399 will hold its annual Pancake Dinner on Wednesday, Feb. 10, from 6 until 8:30 p.m. in the St. Clare of Montefalco Church social hall, prepared by "Don's Chuck Waggon" of East Detroit.

Individual tickets for $2.50 and family tickets for $10 should be reserved in advance by calling 882-8471 or 886-9623. Tickets may also be purchased at the door. Proceeds from the supper will provide money for equipment purchases for the new troop.

The Symphony Orchestra will open the program with the overture to "Don Giovanni" by Mozart, followed by Handel's "Concerto Grosso I" and "March to the Scaffold" by Berlioz.

The Symphonic Band will follow with Sousa's "Semper Fidelis March," "Suite of Old American Dances" by Bennett, Nimrod from "Enigma Variations" by Elgar, and "Americans We" by Fillmore.

Conducting the ensembles will be instrumental music directors Ralph Miller and Ann Di Fiore and Paul Perich, student teacher from Wayne State University.

The concert is free and open to the public.

Mack business people in dark about Farms street closings

By Nancy Parmenter
Staff Writer

An attempt to learn whether proposed street closings in the Farms would have an impact on Mack businesses ran into a dead end last week because business people on the avenue had not heard much about the proposals.

"I don't think most of the Mack business people know what the committee is doing," said Neil Bell of the Farms Market, who represents the Mack business community on the committee.

Bell, who said the city "volunteered" him on the committee, said he believes people don't really understand the traffic problems in the Farms.

"Some people living on those streets don't realize that they're feeder streets — there's naturally more traffic," he said. Further, "people have to realize that these streets were built when people had one car."

Bell said he doesn't expect the proposals to have a great effect on Mack traffic unless street closings are expanded in the future. "People from the Farms can still get to Mack, but they might have to make a U-turn at a different island," he said. "If they closed three or four in a row, it would affect Mack business."

He characterized the proposals currently under study as the "least offensive" of the ones that have been before the committee.

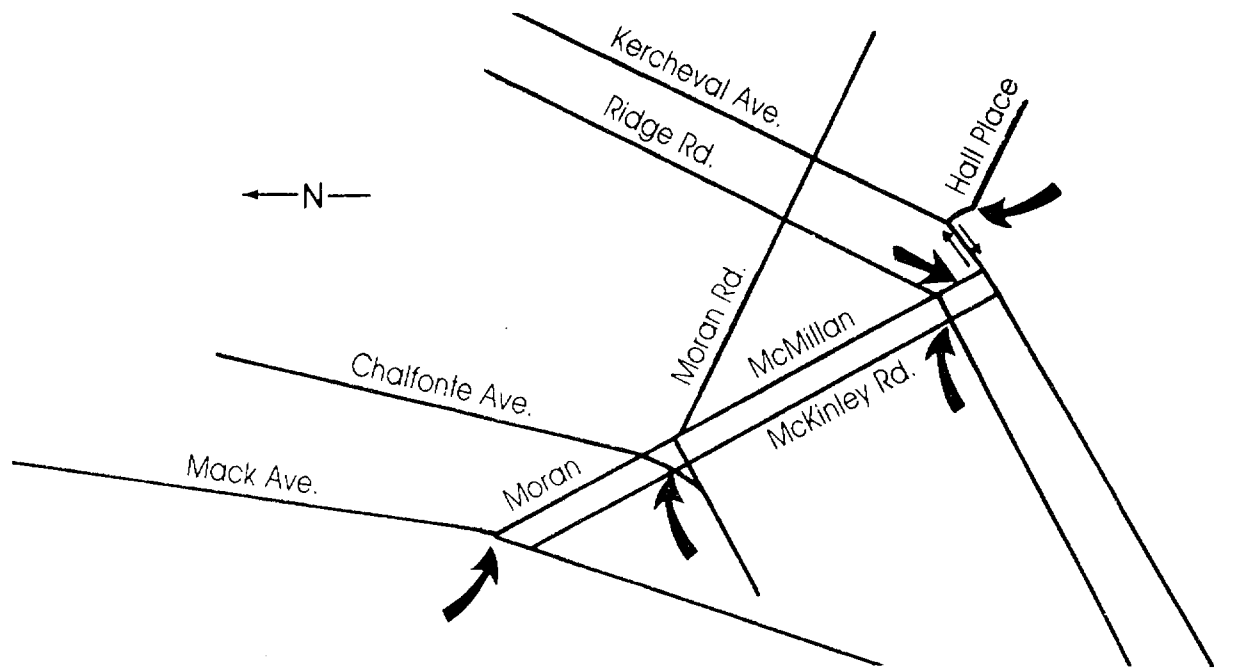

Mack Avenue dentist Michael Lahey said he was disappointed not to have heard more about the proposed street closings. "I thought we had good relations with the folks in the Farms," he said. "If it sets a precedent, maybe some hell should be raised."

The proposals that have been presented to the Farms council for approval include the temporary barricading of Hall Place, McMillan Road and the Moran island on Mack in order to reduce through traffic to and from the Hill. Also under consideration are making the two alleyways behind Kercheval businesses one way and limiting right turns from Ridge onto McKinley and left turns at McKinley and Chalfonte.

The council started to hold a meeting Jan. 25 to discuss the traffic committee's proposals, but the crowd in attendance exceeded the fire marshal's limits and the meeting was postponed.

The proposals came as a result of two years of pressure from residents on McMillan and Moran to limit the traffic. The idea of closing streets has met with opposition from Hill business people and with questions from school, church and neighboring city officials who could be affected, but say they have not been sufficiently informed.

The map shows the location of the six major proposals of the Farms traffic committee. The small arrows indicate the direction of traffic in the alleys behind Hill businesses. The large arrows show temporary street closings at Hall Place and McMillan and a Mack island closing at Moran. Also designated by the large arrows are No Left Turn from westbound Chalfonte to McKinley between 7 and 11 a.m. and No Right Turn from westbound Ridge to McKinley between 3 and 6 p.m.

Cottage lays off employees; belts tight at local hospitals

By Nancy Parmenter
Staff Writer

Last week, economic pressures forced Cottage Hospital to lay off employees. From the top down, the equivalent of 24 full-time positions were cut; 17 were management; two were top executive assistants.

"Essentially, we're facing competition among hospitals for a shrinking patient population," said Executive Vice President Ralph Wilgarde.

Cottage is only the most recent hospital to face economic belt-tightening. Nearby Saratoga Hospital fought for its life less than 10 years ago.

"The idea of survival is something we've been close to," said K. Rand Dykman, executive director of the hospital and president of Saratoga Health Corp. He said Saratoga had to close an entire department a few years ago and laid off seven people last fall. Some of the recent cuts were through attrition and some have been called back, he said.

The problems at Cottage didn't come as a surprise, Wilgarde said. "We had been telling the employees that '87 was a poor year and that changes would have to be made. Everybody knew something would happen."

Cottage Hospital ran a $1.4 million deficit for 1987.

Tough economic times at community hospitals are just part of a larger picture. Insurance reimbursements have changed and

Wayburn break-in

The pane of glass in the front door of a house on the 1000 block of Wayburn was broken to gain entry sometime between 7 a.m. and 5 p.m. Jan. 27.

Park police said a VCR, typewriter, jewelry and a cassette player were taken. Several of the items were found on the sidewalk in front of the house.

Police are investigating.

with them, the proportion of in-patients to out-patients. The more lucrative in-patient population has dropped, while the number of out-patients has soared. More than 60 percent of all business at Cottage is now on an out-patient basis.

"Reimbursement in the health care industry is unique and not necessarily logical," said Dykman. "They used to pay cost or cost-plus. That wasn't a generator of great efficiency, as may be imagined. Going away from that model has been traumatic."

The consolidations at Cottage are blamed on the declining inpatient admissions, the aging patient population and problems with Medicare reimbursements, the increase in sicker patients, which results in financial losses owing to lower insurance reimbursements, and rising costs.

The average hospital patient in southeastern Michigan is 2.2 percent sicker than the average patient a year before, according to the Michigan Hospital Association data system. The severity of illness is measured by Diagrosis Related Groupings (a reimbursement tool) and has increased 10 percent since 1982. The sicker the patient, the more care and services are required.

"We can echo (those concerns)," said Stephen Rallison, who heads Bon Secours Hospital and the Bon Secours of Michigan Health Care System. "Medicare changed its way of paying in 1982 and things have gotten much tougher. The dollars coming in on the revenue side are much more scarce. Managers have to be innovative to maintain service."

Bon Secours has not had to lay off personnel at the hospital in the last six months, Rallison said, but he is trying to make better use of manpower. His approach is to control staff levels through attrition, early retirement and greater use of part-time and contingency staff.

"We look at a position very carefully before deciding to fill it," he said.

More than half of Bon Secours' patients are on Medicare, and out-patient surgery has increased steadily over three years to about 60 percent of all surgery.

Attempts to reach officials at St. John Hospital were unsuccessful. A spokesman said all the financial officers were out of town.

Cottage might have gone out of business if it hadn't been able to affiliate with the Henry Ford system, Wilgarde said. "Four or five years ago we realized it would be necessary. It was never a question of should we affiliate or not, the question was with whom."

The hospital hired an outplacement firm to provide guidance to laid-off employees, 19 of whom left work on Thursday. Other cost-cutting steps, such as limits on marketing, travel and overtime, will also be taken, he said.

Wilgarde called the layoffs "painful," but necessary in order to break even in 1988. "As things improve, and we have every reason to expect they will, we should break even this year," he said.

The hospital has recently opened a stroke rehabilitation unit and expects to build its parking structure this year. The most promising development is that specialists affiliated with the Henry Ford health care system have leased the entire second floor of 131 Kercheval Center, the new building across from Cottage.

Brian Cheatham, a spokesman for Ford Hospital, confirmed that the doctors will move in to Grosse Pointe, although a timetable has not been established. "It should result in direct referrals to Cottage," he said.

"Things are happening," Wilgarde said, "but we wouldn't be able to turn it around without the help of Henry Ford Hospital."

Frank A. Colombo

Funeral services for Frank A. Colombo, of Grosse Pointe Shores, were Monday, Feb. 1, 1988, at the Verheyden Funeral Home and Our Lady Star of the Sea Catholic Church. Mr. Colombo died Jan. 28 at Harper-Grace Hospital in Detroit.

Mr. Colombo was a graduate of the University of Arizona and Harvard Business School, where he was a member of Alpha Kappa Psi and was named to the dean's list.

He was executive vice president of the J.L. Hudson Company. He was also vice chairman of the Board of Shopping Centers, Inc. and various other J.L. Hudson subsidiaries.

He served as president and director of the Metropolitan Detroit Convention and Visitor's Bureau, president and director of the Central Business District Association, chairman and director of the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce, director of the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce and chairman of the United Negro College Fund drive.

He was also vice chairman of the board of Harper-Grace Hospitals, a director of Comerica Inc. and Comerica Bank, a board member of the United Foundation and vice president and trustee of the Webber Foundation, the Harvard Business School Club of Detroit and the Mount Elliott Cemetery Association. He was a board member of the Economic Club of Detroit and Citizens Research Council, commissioner of the Municipal Parking Department of Detroit, and a trustee of the Grosse Pointe Shores council. Mr. Colombo also represented the state of Michigan as industrial ambassador.

He was past president of the Detroit Athletic Club, a member of the Detroit Club, the Economic Club of Detroit, the Harvard Business School Club of Detroit, the University of Arizona Alumni Association and Lochmoor Country Club.

He is survived by his wife, Josephine; a son, Richard; two daughters, Linda Ellis and Sandy Fossee; and nine grandchildren.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Frank A. Colombo Memorial Fund for Cancer Research at Harper Hospital or Rosary Shrine of St. Jude, Dominican Fathers, 1421 Warren, Detroit 48208.

Arrangements were handled by the Chas. Verheyden Funeral Home.

Madonna L. Ulmer

A memorial service was held Sunday, Jan. 31, at Church of Today in Warren for Madonna L. Harbison Ulmer, 66, of Grosse Pointe Woods who died Jan. 26, 1988 in Cleveland, Ohio.

She was born in Ohio. Mrs. Ulmer is survived by a daughter, Victoria U. Reynolds; two sons, Charles A. and Julian "Sandy" E.; two grandchildren; and three brothers. She was predeceased by her husband, Jacob.

Memorial contributions may be made to the American Lung Association or to the Church of Today Pavilion Fund, P.O. Box 280, Warren, Mich. 48090.

Woodrow W. Wilson

Services for Woodrow W. Wilson, 74, were held Friday, Jan. 29, 1988 at Christ Church Grosse Pointe. Mr. Wilson, of Grosse Pointe Park, died Jan. 26 at Cottage Hospital.

He was born in Escanaba, Mich., and graduated from the University of Chicago in 1939.

Mr. Wilson worked at Packard Motor Car Co., as director of safety, and at Jones & Laughlin Steel, as director of industrial relations. He retired in 1977.

He was the first president of the Traffic Safety Association of Macomb County, a member of the Grosse Pointe Senior Men's Club and the Senior Men's Club choir.

Survivors are his wife, Mary E.; two daughters, Jane Davidson and Beth Residor; a son, Bud; 10 grandchildren; and two brothers.

Burial was at Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Tributes may be made to Christ Church Grosse Pointe, 61 Grosse Pointe Boulevard, Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich. 48236.

Arrangements were handled by the Chas. Verheyden Funeral Home.

Dorothy Elliott Higgins Cummings

Services for Dorothy Elliott Higgins Cummings, 87, were held at Christ Church Grosse Pointe Tuesday, Feb. 2, 1988. Mrs. Cummings died Jan. 31 at her Grosse Pointe home.

She was born in Ohio. Survivors include two sisters, Florence Toth and Louise Jones; four nieces, Anne Sommerfeld, Marjorie Fredericks, Michelle Cooney and Susan Currier; and several great-nieces and great-nephews. She was predeceased by her husband, Walter.

Interment was at Woodlawn Cemetery, Detroit.

Memorial contributions may be made to the charity of one's choice.

Earl Albert Peeler

Funeral services for Earl Albert Peeler, 84, of Grosse Pointe Park, were Wednesday, Feb. 3, at St. Clare of Montefalco Church. Mr. Peeler died Jan. 30, 1988 at Bon Secours Hospital.

He was born in Michigan and was the owner of a hardware store.

He was a member of the Gabriel Richard Knights of Columbus and the St. Clare Ushers Club.

Survivors are his wife, Margaret; a daughter, Rosemary; and two brothers, Raymond and Wilson.

Interment was at Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Capuchin Soup Kitchen or Bon Secours Nursing Care Center.

Arrangements were handled by the Chas. Verheyden Funeral Home.

Harold Greenleaf Phelps

Services for Harold Greenleaf Phelps, 82, were held Jan. 25, 1988 at Christ Church in Lake Oswego, Ore. Mr. Phelps, a former Grosse Pointer, died Jan. 22 at his home.

He was born in Peterborough, N.H., attended Phillips-Exeter Academy, Proctor Academy and Harvard University, class of 1927.

He was involved in real estate and the savings and loan industries in Michigan before retiring and moving to Lake Oswego in 1970.

He was an avid golfer and sportsman. In Grosse Pointe, he was a Rotarian and a member of Lochmoor Golf Club. In Detroit, he was a member of the Detroit Curling Club, Plum Hollow Golf & Country Club, and chairman of the local draft board. In Lake Oswego, he was a member of the Oswego Lake Country Club and a former member of the Lake Oswego Rotary Club.

Survivors include a daughter, Judy McCuddy; a sister, Mildred Berry; and two grandsons.

The body was cremated.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Oregon Heart Association or to the charity of one's choice.

William John Goodson

A memorial service will be held today, Thursday, Feb. 4, 1988 at Christ Church Detroit, at 4 p.m. for William John Goodson, a former resident of Grosse Pointe Woods. Mr. Goodson, 80, died Jan. 25 at Bird Key, Sarasota, Fla.

He was born in Grosse Pointe Woods and was president of Service Art Plastering Co.

He was also president of the Detroit Contractors Association, president of the Detroit Builders Exchange, president of the International Association of Wall and Ceiling Contractors. He was awarded the IAWC's highest honor, the Ed Venzie Award.

Mr. Goodson was also a former member of the Detroit Commandry of the Masonic Order, the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club, the Grosse Pointe Power Squadron, a charter member of the Clinton River Boat Club and a member of the Bird Key Yacht Club of Sarasota.

He is survived by his wife, Mireille; a daughter, Marleine Ricca; eight grandchildren; eight great-grandchildren; a sister; and a brother. He was predeceased by a son, Jack.

The body was cremated.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Detroit Institute of Ophthalmology.

Max B. McKee

Private services were held for Max B. McKee, 96, a former resident of Grosse Pointe, a recent resident of LaJolla, Calif.

He was born in Center Point, Iowa and was a graduate of the Detroit College of Law in 1915.

He served in the Meuse-Ar-gonne sector during World War I, as a captain.

Mr. McKee was the founder of Sand Products Corporation in 1924. He inaugurated roll on/roll off freight transport across Lake Michigan in the early '30s and established passenger service with the SS Milwaukee Clipper between the ports of Muskegon and Milwaukee and across Lake Erie with the SS Aquarama between the ports of Detroit and Cleveland, according to his son.

He was a member of the State Bar of Michigan, and a 32nd degree brother of the Scottish Rite of Free Masonry since 1917.

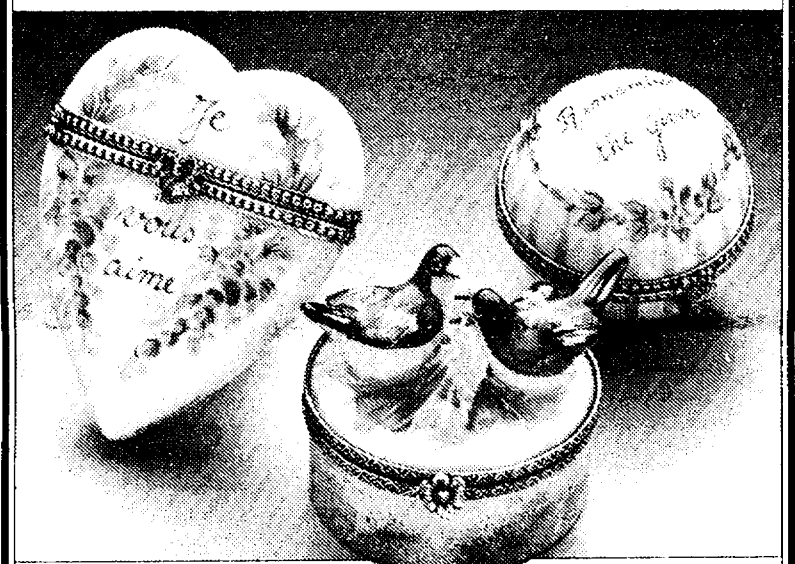

Survivors include two sons, Robert and Bradshaw; a daughter, Patricia Munson; grandchildren; and great-grandchildren. He was predeceased by his wife, Florence.

Burial was private.

State, GOP lose again in Grand Rapids

Michigan Republicans split into two opposing conventions last weekend with backers of Vice President George Bush and former TV evangelist Pat Robertson each claiming victory in their battle for the state's 77 delegates to the 1988 Republican National Convention.

The conventions became a quarreling series of political sessions, but the outcome of the "official" meeting did enable Bush to go into the important Iowa caucuses next Monday claiming he had won 37 delegates in Michigan, while Rep. Jack Kemp obtained 32 and Robertson only eight.

Bush forces also could argue that these results more fairly represented GOP opinion in Michigan than the Robertson convention did because the results of separate polls conducted by the Detroit News and Free Press showed Bush far ahead of both of his convention rivals in statewide GOP opinion.

However, the rump convention staged by Robertson and some Kemp supporters enabled Robertson himself to fly to Grand Rapids and claim victory in what he claimed was the "only convention sanctioned by the Republican State Central Committee" which, of course, is controlled by his followers. At his convention, he claimed victory with 43 delegates to 21 for Kemp and 13 for Bush.

Unless peace somehow is restored before August, it will be up to the national convention itself to decide in New Orleans which collection of Michigan delegates will be seated. It is already clear that the Michigan GOP has lost its race to be the first state to pick delegates to the national session.

Despite the angry post-mortems on the Grand Rapids convention, however, some people felt the state intramural battle had strengthened the party for its fall bout with the Democrats. That conclusion was predicated on the belief the Robertson people would stay and work in the party even if their candidate fails to make a strong run for the presidential nomination.

That belief is not shared by many outside observers and by many mainstream Republicans in Michigan, however. Instead, they see some Robertson support falling away from the GOP in the fall unless Robertson gets the national attention his backers think he deserves.

While there was plenty to criticize in the talk and action of both sides, Bush does appear to have a stronger claim than Robertson to the official slate of delegates. In fact, some national GOP leaders already were reported to be leaning in his direction. Yet the decision probably will not be made until the August meeting in New Orleans.

A new poll endorsement also strengthened support for revival of a presidential primary in Michigan in 1992. It would enable rank and file members of both parties as well as independents to have a voice in selecting the nominees, rather than leaving those decisions to the party leaders and the caucuses which often do not represent either public opinion or the opinion of party members in the state.

Unless time heals the party's wounds, however, the Michigan GOP does not seem to be in good shape to wage a united, vigorous campaign for the presidential nominee, whoever it might be, or even for the U.S. Senate and congressional seats in November. In our view, the state and party lost in Grand Rapids, just as both had lost in the recent bickering at the county and district conventions.

A loss to art and culture

With the death of W. Hawkins Ferry, the Grosse Pointes and Michigan have lost another of their outstanding citizens.

Like Henry Ford II, whose recent death left a void in the business and industrial world, Ferry occupied a special niche in this community, but his world was that of art and culture. He was one of the top patrons of the Detroit Institute of Arts, a major figure on the architectural scene and a member of the family that gave the Pointes their Marcel Breuer Central Library building. He also wrote "The Buildings of Detroit," published in 1968, revised in 1980 and regarded as the definitive history of architecture in Detroit.

Just last May the Detroit Institute of Arts honored him at a dinner at the opening of the W. Hawkins Ferry Collection which consisted of 38 works from his private collection and his many gifts to the museum. The collection was on display at the DIA through September.

His association with the DIA went back to his birth in his grandfather's home on the site of the present museum building, but he also had a long association with the Pointes. The family moved to Grosse Pointe when he was a year old. He attended the Grosse Pointe Country Day School, Cranbrook and Harvard, from which he graduated in 1937. Although he told a Grosse Pointe News interviewer last May that he was "always interested in art," and had even dabbled in painting as a weekend artist, his first vocation was architecture. Among his designs were the duplexes and flats in the area of St. Paul and Neff in Grosse Pointe.

Later, he turned his attention to architectural history after Wayne State University asked him to write the history of Detroit architecture that was first published in 1968. He began his career as a collector when he found a piece of art he liked at the Alger House, now the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, when it was a branch of the DIA.

His first gift to the DIA in 1946 was called "Space Modulation" and was displayed in a temporary exhibition of modern art. It was followed by many more, especially works by modern artists, including Joan Miro, Barnett Newman, Mark Rothko, Robert Motherwell, Alexander Calder and Robert Rauschenberg. His last gift, donated in 1987, was by European abstract expressionist Pierre Alechinsky.

Over the years, the Ferry family, and especially W. Hawkins Ferry, have made many contributions to the DIA, Detroit and the Pointes. In his tribute, Sam Sachs III, the DIA director, called Ferry "a collector of extraordinary taste and distinction" and a man "who, perhaps single-handed, was responsible for the major growth of the (20th century) collection at the museum."

For that distinction, he will be long remembered in the Pointes and in all of Michigan.

A 'lean, solid' state budget?

Gov. James Blanchard has proposed a "lean, solid and balanced" state budget for the year beginning Oct. 1, 1988, but he already has run into criticism from those who disagree with him at least in part.

Some critics say the budget is unlikely to be balanced because expenses will be higher and revenue lower than projected by the governor. And others contend that some state services, such as education, both at the K-12 and higher education levels, have been short-changed in the budget.

Blanchard himself said he is not predicting a recession but needs to be "cautious and prudent." Senate Appropriations Committee Chairman Harry Gast, R-St. Joseph, told the Free Press he didn't have any particular quarrel with the dollar cap at $6.628 billion, but added: "I'm sure I'll have different priorities." The Republican Senate majority usually does differ with the governor on most spending items.

Robert Kleine, an economist for Public Sector Consultants in Lansing, a private research organization, predicted at least a $100 million deficit and said executive cuts in the budget may be required if the short-fall approaches $150 million.

Perhaps more significant, politically, are the comments of economists for the House and Senate fiscal agencies. Warren Gregory, representing the House agency, said the state cannot afford the governor's budget spending level. Gary Olson, speaking for the Senate agency, said there will have to be cuts or the state will be required to dip into its so-called rainy-day fund to balance the budget.

The budget in effect froze appropriations for public higher education in Michigan, a move that prompted predictions by college administrators of higher tuition and/or cuts in programs at their schools. Blanchard increased funds for K-12 education by only about 1 percent, but did seek new money to finance programs for disadvantaged children.

True, he also asked $250 million to improve the curriculum in public schools, but that money is not part of his budget and would come from tightening tax laws, assuming the Legislature approves the idea.

He has said he will not support more funds for K-12 schools until the Legislature imposes tighter performance standards on schools and teachers. Earlier, he had said he would not approve a boost in the sales tax and a cut in property taxes unless these actions are taken as part of school reforms he supports.

Even though the budget would require almost 3 percent more than is being spent in the current year, it obviously is only a rough approximation of what actually will be spent. That will depend upon how the economy performs during the coming year, and the prospects at the moment do not appear propitious because of the layoffs and plant closings in the auto industry.

So it appears that Blanchard and his critics may both be right. The budget may be "lean and solid," as the governor said, but to achieve a balance he may still have to cut back on spending if a decline in the economy reduces revenues. Whatever occurs, it does not appear that 1988 will be an easy year for state government and the public services it supports.

Speak up and be heard

To the Editor:

Thank you to the people who attended the Farms council meeting on Jan. 25. Because of the concern that traffic patterns would be changed, both sides of the issue turned out, forcing the meeting to be moved to a larger facility. But more importantly, it gave this community the opportunity to become informed about what is happening and what is being proposed by the Traffic Safety Committee.

This committee has already spent $20,000 of our tax money and is asking council for another $7,000 — just for temporary barricades and a traffic engineering study. With this type of money involved, temporary very often leads to permanent.

Also, if this is a traffic experiment, who determines if it is successful and by what standards? Why is this being done before the parking structure is even started on the Hill?

The traffic committee's statement of purpose is "to enhance the residential character of the community by the equitable distribution of traffic that does not negatively impact access to areas of business development." Yet, the committee completely ignored the Hill representative who told them that the Hill merchants felt that the proposals would "negatively impact access to business development."

If McMillan is closed at Ridge and the alley behind Perry's is made one way, the only way to reach the parking lot is to enter off Kercheval Road. The traffic jam and congestion on Kercheval will be monumental.

It is the fear of the retailers that customers will lose patience with the traffic situation and shop elsewhere. This proposal is viewed as an economic hardship by this store owner.

Show the council that you care — attend the meeting Monday, Feb. 8 at South High School gymnasium and be heard!

Peacemakers

To the Editor:

I am glad that the media is picking up on the issue of racism. I don't think you could have chosen a better spot to highlight than Harper Woods. People in Harper Woods and elsewhere around the world are racist because of habit, fear of the unknown and low self-esteem.

But while racism exists and must be addressed, let us realize two things:

1) Racism is a type of prejudice. Any form of put-downism is just as bad.
2) People everywhere are working to recondition ourselves to be a loving society. I'm sure there are many examples of this type of work, but I would like to tell you about one here in Harper Woods.

The Samantha Smith Club provides children 5-10 of a variety of racial/ethnic/social economic backgrounds a chance to meet and have fun together while learning peacemaking skills. Many of the members are from Harper Woods and we meet in a Harper Woods location. This is not a church-sponsored organization.

Instead of trying to debate the obvious (is there racism in Harper Woods) or the ridiculous (how racist are we compared to other communities), let's get on to learning new ways of living together as one human family.

Living longer

To the Editor:

I am writing in regard to the article, "Cottage Hospital Offers Workshops." I am so happy to hear that there are at least a few helpful programs available for the elderly.

The article was very informative by giving the dates, the times and a brief description of each workshop. The courses: Health Life for Seniors, Weight No More and Smokeless System all will benefit the older citizens of this community. The death age is on the up and up; and hopefully with these programs it will keep rising.

Wheel love

My first car was a '53 Plymouth coupe. It was two-toned — baby blue with a cream top. There aren't too many cars that can be described as cute, but this one was definitely cute.

Then came marriage and joint custody of a '56 Chevy Bel Air convertible. It was turquoise with a white top and I just knew there would never be another car with so much style. It took us across the country via Route 66 several times and I loved that gleaming finned beauty.

We were living in California and our combined paychecks just covered the necessities. We had no TV and gas was cheap. So nearly every night, we would drive down the mountainous, hairpin turns of Laurel Canyon to the ocean, walk along the starry beach and watch the tide. Then we would come back through Beverly Hills by way of Sunset Boulevard and down glitzy, exciting Hollywood Boulevard, the in place to cruise. Our roof was the sky silhouetted by palm trees. It was better than any TV program.

Then came our first brand-new, straight-from-the-factory car — a golden Impala with a special limited edition paint job in honor of some anniversary. If we thought the convertible was special, this was extra-special.

In a fit of what we thought was a logical move, we sold it, bought a station wagon and had money left over for some bills. I don't remember the make or the color, only that it rattled and looked clunky. Never bought another station wagon after that either.

Somewhere in the blur of four-wheeled vehicles that rolled into our lives, there was one other memorable car. It was a Renault, and at that time, it was known by its French pronunciation. I called it the plastic toy car and my husband referred to it as a salt shaker, except the word he used wasn't salt.

I Say

There are two memories associated with that car that are etched in my brain. The first was when I was showing my mother the sights of Los Angeles, in particular the Hollywood Hills. I got about halfway up one of the hills and realized it wasn't going to make it. I had to let it roll back down and try again. It was no big deal — it happened all the time. We always tried to get a good running start and sometimes it made it to the top and sometimes it didn't. For my mother, however, the backward trip down was scarier and more dangerous than any roller coaster. She talked about that ride for a long time.

The other memory is racing over the freeways, hoping to get to the hospital before our baby was born. There were other such trips, but this was the most memorable because the plastic car didn't absorb the bumps at all. I was literally all shook up by the time we got to the hospital. I began thinking about the cars in my life when I was reading something about America's love affair with the automobile. After some self-examination, I have to admit I'm a car person.

For years, the pseudo-intellectual in me has decried the lack of decent mass transit, the automobile's waste of finite energy as well as its polluting of the environment, our dependence on such an undependable product and on and on. For years, I have been saying that I don't care what kind of car I drive — as long as it has wheels and it goes when I want to go.

Baloney. Oh, I still believe all that good stuff. For someone else, I rode the SEMTA for a year and hated it. I don't like to car pool. The Chevettes I was fond of driving because they saved gas and were easy to park have given way to a sportier black Buick with a sun roof and a tape deck. And the next car will have those features plus. No more plastic cars or plastic seat covers.

When writers refer to America's love affair with cars, they're referring to me. I have so many memories — good and bad — connected with cars.

I remember going for Sunday drives out in the country, sitting in the back seat with my three brothers. I also remember driving to Belle Isle at night and parking to watch Scott Fountain change colors.

Then when I got a little older, I remember the terrifying, yet exciting, feeling of getting into a car with a boy. And I remember going to Belle Isle, but this time not to watch the fountain.

Then there were the car beds and car seats and 319 pounds of paraphernalia that was absolutely required every time a baby was in the car. And I think of all those funeral processions...

A car is more than a means of transportation — it's a way of life.

A doctor who specialized in treating AIDS patients was to receive $10,000 in damages and a new lease under a settlement with a Greenwich Village apartment cooperative that tried to evict him. The suit was one of the nation's first dealing with bias against people connected with AIDS.

New movies out were "The Little Drummer Girl" with Diane Keaton, "The Razor's Edge" with Bill Murray, "Crimes of Passion" with Kathleen Turner and Anthony Perkins.

In Grosse Pointe, John Lake left most of his estate to the War Memorial. Lake was the first director of the center and had guided it for 30 years. He left the institution more than $500,000.

Complaints about the closed interviews used to select a new school superintendent didn't cause the school system to change its approach. Board members said open interviews would have a "chilling effect" on applicants who didn't want their employers to know they were looking for a different job.

Twelve "super-students" from North and South who qualified as National Merit semifinalists were interviewed by the Grosse Pointe News. They carried heavier-than-normal class loads with plenty of advanced placement courses and still averaged 3.8.

Icy roads took no prisoners

Icy road conditions after Monday's Woods council meeting were bad for everyone — including one Woods public safety officer who took out a traffic sign behind city hall.

Reporter Nancy Parmenter said she spotted one very disgusted officer get out of his car and walk back to the department after his car simply slid off the pavement which had turned to glass.

Accidents were commonplace around the Grosse Pointe and metropolitan Detroit area, but we thought you'd like to know at least one patrolman was just as unfortunate as the rest of us.

Help fight heart disease

The Blue Pointe Restaurants, owned by the Muer brothers, David, Mike and Tony have announced a fundraising effort in conjunction with their "Be Our Valentine" weekend (Feb. 12-14). This promotion will benefit the American Heart Association.

Beginning Friday, Jan. 29, and continuing through Sunday, Feb. 14, Valentine Hearts will be sold for at least $1 by bartenders, waiters and waitresses to patrons at both establishments.

These employees will be competing to sell the most hearts and ultimately qualify for gift certificates donated by Edwin/Paul Salon of Grosse Pointe, The Miner's Den Jewelers of Royal and Franklin Village, and Finger's Nail Salon of Warren.

Downtown Mu Mu

Things kind of slow down around here in January, but we heard of a tune that could liven things up significantly.

Have you heard of the Justified Ancients of Mu Mu yet? They're a new band with an old hit, done, shall we say, in a rather interesting way.

The song is the old "Downtown" by Petula Clark. Grosse Pointe News ad salesman Chris Dellas, who doubles as club deejay at The Shelter in downtown Detroit, says it's typical of a lot of the new dance hits.

"They borrow from the old, they cut it, remix it and come up with something fresh," he said. "It's easier to rehash a tried-and-true hit than to gamble with something completely new."

Chris said the Mu Mus actually use the Petula Clark song, sample it and add new percussion tracks on top of it.

"If you like to dance, you'll like it," Chris said.

Women sought for honors

Nominations for the fifth annual Michigan Women's Hall of Fame in both Contemporary and Historical Divisions are now open for 1988. The public is invited to nominate women of honor and distinction who are, or have been, closely affiliated with Michigan by birth or contribution.

Nomination forms may be requested by writing to: Michigan Women's Studies Association, P.O. Box 18164, Lansing, Mich. 48901. They are also available by calling (517) 484-1880.

The deadline for entries is March 21. Women selected will be honored at a dinner in Detroit in October 1988.

No limit is set on nominations. A group or individual may nominate an individual. The candidate's achievements and personal history must be documented through the official nomination form. The Life Achievement Award bestowed upon the selected women by the Michigan Women's Hall of Fame is intended to reflect the culmination of an outstanding career, service or accomplishment.

Women who have been recognized in the past include Rosa Parks, Helen Thomas, Genevieve Gillette, Ely Peterson, Rev. Marjorie Swank Matthews, Gwen Frostie, Lt. Gov. Martha Griffiths, Dr. Marjorie Peebles Meyers, Dr. Elizabeth Crosby. The Michigan Women's Hall of Fame was opened to the public in June 1987.

Quick response

To the Editor:

I have been meaning to write this letter for years.

I have been athletic director at University Liggett School for the past 20 years, and during that time, we have had to call the Grosse Pointe Woods Emergency Medical Service on many occasions. Such was the case recently.

The response has always been prompt and very professional. In fact, many times I have called from my office and as I have crossed Cook Road to return to the athletic fields, the ambulance has been coming down Cook Road.

On behalf of all the student-athletes and staff at University Liggett, I want you to know what a comforting feeling it is to be able to depend on your public safety officers and EMS personnel, and how much we appreciate them.

We hope that we will not have to call for assistance again, but if it is necessary, we know that we will receive prompt and professional care.

Again, many thanks.

This letter was mailed to all parents of Grosse Pointe North High School students last week.

To parents

To the Editor:

As I write this letter to you, I am filled with fear and trepidation — fear for the loss of young lives. I also sense feelings of anger and hostility because, when a teen death occurs, there is nothing I can do but express those and other emotions.

I am making reference to the Grosse Pointe "hall parties" that are regularly occurring around the community on weekends, mostly in Detroit.

These "hall parties" are rented locations where literally hundreds of young students, ages 14 and up, gather to "party down" or, in other words, to consume alcohol and/or drugs to a point where many very dangerous things can and have happened.

Parents, are you aware that these parties are going on? Are you aware that many students tell Mom and Dad that they're going to a school activity and, instead, attend these "hall parties"?

Did you know that the organizers of such parties are students themselves who make as much as $1,500 on a "party" and who provide substances for underaged students?

You should know, too, that multiple schools (North, South, DeLaSalle, etc.) are represented at these parties and that serious fights occur? Are you checking as to where your son or daughter actually is on weekends? Do you see them when they get home? Are you "networking" with other parents regarding weekend activities? Recently, a man who runs a funeral home told me that he buried 11 young people UNDER the age of 21 in the month of December 1987 alone, all related to substance use and abuse! Were you just "lucky" this time?

Something HAS to be done! It is a problem much greater than we can imagine. Parents, you must take a stand and save the lives of your children. "Hall parties" are the talk of the school. Everyone trusts their kids, yet 400-500 gather practically every weekend to "party down"... and we all believe that "it won't happen to me."

Unfortunately, it will happen and many will share the blame because we could have and should have taken action. Parents, please protect their lives before it is too late!

Likes Hill's atmosphere

To the Editor:

I am writing to you in response to an article concerning the rebuilding of the Bronze Door. In the Jan. 14 article, the writer referred to the new building as being compared to the neighboring Bologna building located at 131 Kercheval Center.

Although I feel the new Bologna building is beautiful, I don't think it fits in with buildings already located on the Hill. Each building has its own unique quality, giving the Hill and its shops their separate and personal qualities.

I feel the Hill should remain a grouping of small individual shops, catering to the people as they are now. To knock down the Bronze Door and rebuild it as a larger building serving the same purpose would be ludicrous. We shouldn't ruin an already beautiful structure.

Traffic problem minor inconvenience

To the Editor:

As a resident for 17 years in Grosse Pointe Farms, I have seen many changes, but the one thing that has remained the same is the traffic problem.

Everyone wants a safe, attractive residential area with schools, libraries, hospitals and shopping close by. Unfortunately, these all bring traffic.

For my family, the many facilities that are within such a short drive or walking distance of our home have far outweighed the negative aspects of having cars drive past my home.

I do feel the Farms council and city hall has listened to the majority of residents by adding extra police to control the speeders in this area. We greatly appreciate this.

The Hill has been in existence longer than most of us have owned our homes. To deny easy access to parking to their customers is to deny these businesses their right to survive.

By controlling the behavior of our traffic, the Farms can have a safe if not busy traffic pattern.

Let's drop this problem and spend our time and money on making our area an even more desirable place to live instead of benefiting a few unhappy residents.

Youth is state of mind

To the Editor:

The opinion article, "From 30 to 75 you're only as old as your act," deserves applause. I agree that old age is only a state of mind.

My 74-year-old grandmother tells me she never looks back and wishes she was there, but looks forward to pursuing new jobs and having fun. She enjoys watching her grandchildren perform in sports events and is a better bridge player than most people who are 30. Not only does she act and talk young, she thinks young.

So you can see that youth is a state of mind. Given health and a good mind, seniors can enjoy a good life without worrying about their age.

Diet Pills Sweeping U.S.

Doctors Invent 'Lazy Way' to Lose Weight

New 'Fat Magnet' Diet Pill
Guarantees Fast Weight Loss

BEVERLY HILLS, CA (Special)—An amazing new weight loss pill called "fat-magnet" has recently been developed and perfected by two prominent doctors at a world famous hospital in Los Angeles that reportedly "guarantees" that you will easily lose fat by simply taking their tested and proven new pill.

No Dieting—Eat Normally

Best of all, "you can continue to eat all of your favorite foods and you don't have to change your normal eating habits. You will start losing fat from the very first day, until you achieve the ideal weight and figure you desire."

There has never been anything like it before. It is a totally new major medical breakthrough for weight loss (worldwide patent pending).

Flushes Fat Out of Body

The new pill is appropriately called the "fat-magnet" pill because it breaks into thousands of particles, each acting like a tiny magnet, "attracting" and trapping many times its size in fat particles. Then, all that trapped fat is naturally "flushed" right out of your body because it cannot be digested.

Within 2 days you will notice a change in the color of your stool as the fat particles are being eliminated.

"Pills Do All the Work"

According to the doctors, the fat-magnet pills do all the work while you quickly lose fat with no starvation diet menus to follow, no calorie counting, no exercising, and no hunger pangs. It is 100% safe. You simply take the pills with a glass of water before meals.

The fat-magnet pills have just been offered to the American public and are already sweeping the country with record sales and reports of dramatic weight loss. It's the "lazy way" to lose weight for people who enjoy eating.

Now Available to Public

If you need to lose 20, 50, 100 pounds or more, you can order your supply of these new highly successful fat-magnet pills (now available from the doctor's exclusive manufacturer by mail or phone order only) by sending $20 for a 90 pill supply (+$2 handling), or $35 for a 180 pill supply (+$3 handling), cash, check or money order to: Fat-Magnet, 9016 Wilshire Blvd., Dept. W24, Beverly Hills, CA 90211. (Unconditional money-back guarantee if not 100% satisfied.) Visa, MasterCard and American Express OK. (Send card number, expire date, and signature.) Summer study in Italy

The University of Detroit's Italian summer studies program is open to any adult interested in learning about Italian life, art, culture and history in the beautiful and unspoiled medieval setting of Volterra, Italy.

Participants may earn nine college credit hours during the July 5 to Aug. 12 program, but they will also have access to rich collections of art and antiquities, libraries, artists' studios and archaeological excavations in Volterra and nearby Florence.

Under the sponsorship of the U of D College of Liberal Arts, the Volterra program will offer multi-disciplinary studies of Italy and Europe, beginning Italian and Italian art and architecture. During the last two weeks of the program, U of D architecture students who study in Florence in early summer will join the liberal arts students for sculpture classes in Volterra.

Cost of the program, which includes airfare and board, is $2,830 or $3,460, depending on the number of courses taken. For more information on the Volterra Program, call Sarah Gravelle, U of D history professor, at 927-1099 or 644-9273.

AIDS workshop scheduled

In the United States, 41,500 cases have been identified as of Sept. 10, 1987, of which 400 confirmed cases are in Michigan, according to the Michigan Department of Health.

On Friday, March 4, at the Novi Hilton, Dr. Michael E. Samuels, assistant to the surgeon general, will present a one-day workshop, "AIDS: The National Perspective." Dr. Samuels is responsible for development, preparation and publication of the Surgeon General's Report on AIDS. He serves as the principal liaison between the surgeon general and institutions, groups and other governmental entities on AIDS issues.

The workshop will also feature a panel representing the Department of Education, Public Health, Child Welfare agencies and Legal.

The workshop is sponsored by the Michigan Association of Children's Alliances in conjunction with Vista Maria of Detroit, Michigan Federation of Private Child & Family Agencies and the Lutheran Child and Family Service of Michigan. The cost is $65 for MACA members, $85 for non-members and is open to the public. Reservations may be made by calling 517/485-0840.

'Kiddie tax' a tough nut to crack

By William R. Bryant Jr.
State Representative

The Legislature has resolved the "kiddie tax" problem by adopting a conference report on Senate Bill 8 which was signed into law as Public Act 1 of 1988 on Friday, Jan. 22.

The act says that, beginning with the 1987 tax year, persons who cannot claim a personal exemption because they can be claimed as a dependent on another person's return, are nevertheless exempt from filing a state income tax return or paying any state income tax if their adjusted gross income is $1,500 or less.

It is the intent of this legislation to eliminate the legal requirement for dependents (usually minor children, but not necessarily) from having to pay state income tax on their odd-job income, such as babysitting, delivering newspapers or mowing lawns. Those whom we intended to protect would probably not have income of more than $1,500.

Note, however, that this is not a $1,500 exemption. It is an exclusion which applies only to those who meet two tests: They can be claimed as a dependent on another's return and they had adjusted gross income of $1,500 or less. There is a "cliff" in that a dependent with adjusted gross income of more than $1,500 is liable for state income tax on the entire amount. Those who developed this act knew that the "cliff" was there, but were primarily concerned with eliminating the tax liability for those with minor income. It was a "quick fix" aimed at the 1987 problem. The legislation would have applied only to 1987 income, but the Legislature did not want to be in the political situation of having a "kiddie tax" technically in effect all during 1988.

Many legislative leaders have pledged to take a longer look at the issue this year. Rep. Shirley Johnson has introduced House Bill 5279 which would apply only to persons who had not reached the age of 17 by the end of the tax year and whose income did not exceed the personal exemption in effect for that year ($1,800 in 1988).

As introduced, the bill has a "slope" rather than a "cliff" by providing an exemption of $500 if the minor's income is more than the personal exemption. For example, if income is $1,801 in 1988, the tax would apply to $1,301. The $500 figure would probably still provide too steep a slope and will likely be the subject of negotiations.

Rep. Lynn Jondahl, chair of the House Taxation Committee, told the committee when it was working on the "quick fix" legislation that it would be considering Rep. Johnson's bill — and perhaps others — this year.

Getting back to the 1987 problem: Although SB 8 will apply to the 1987 tax year, Treasury will not be issuing new forms. The department will provide CPAs with complete information on the new law and material has already been distributed to independent accountants. Treasury will be flagging returns on which no personal exemption is claimed and income is reported at $1,500 or less and will contact those to whom the new law applied.

Anyone who is now eligible for the new exempt status but who has already filed a return, or had a return filed for them and paid a tax should wait to be contacted. They should not file an amended return. That would only complicate matters.

Of course, anyone who had state income tax withheld from their earnings must file a return in order to obtain a refund.

It should also be noted that the new law refers to adjusted gross income of $1,500 or less, not total income. It is possible to have a total income of more than $1,500 and still be excluded from tax liability if adjusted gross income is less than that. Those responsible for preparing returns should check this point.

Finally, remember that the new law affects state income tax only. There are very different requirements for federal income tax, which treats dependent children's earned income more liberally than unearned income. Someone excluded from the state tax may or may not have to file a federal return.

years. "Attention and importance has turned away from libraries," he said. "Two generations ago, the library was number one or number two in importance as a public institution in every hamlet and city in the United States. People used libraries."

"Today, in my opinion, libraries have slipped behind art institutions, historical museums, science institutions, ethnic museums and others. We're in an age of visual presentations. People prefer to show off works of art as opposed to shelves of books."

It's obvious and it goes without saying, he said, that TV and videos and movies have pushed books to the sidelines and have been responsible for the declining interest in reading. "The Detroit Library's circulation figures are in decline," Holtzman said. "These figures are used against library types, like me. People say, 'Why spend money on libraries when people aren't using books?'"

Three years ago, Detroit taxpayers were asked to approve or disapprove a millage to keep libraries open. "The Friends group had a pretty good promotion and they were successful in saving the libraries in Detroit," he said.

He thinks Grosse Pointers who are pro-library expansion should take a lesson from the Detroit campaign. "The solution is for the Friends group to work in conjunction with citizens' groups. In Detroit, we joined with groups from the branch libraries and went into the business community to promote passage of the millage. We used the business community's money and in-kind donations for our campaign. Advertising agencies donated time. Banks donated the use of their lobbies for posters. We got out the vote."

"Grosse Pointe should do this, too."

The challenge to library

Friends' groups, he said, is to gather a wide range of supporters, like art institutes do. "There are probably 1,000 art collectors for every book collector," he said. "Many people love books, but don't translate that love into support of libraries. They're not chintzy; book collectors just don't need each other. They're independent."

The Founder's Society at the Detroit Institute of Arts is a wonderful example of what a group of people can do for an institution, according to Holtzman. "They're successful and superfrantic. They've made a great proportion of their people into active collectors. Most supporters are active and have their own collections going," he said.

"I worry about libraries. They're in trouble. It's hard to believe that kids are being taught what's in art museums, but not what's in libraries."

Holtzman said he began his book collection when he was 10 years old, by picking up six abandoned Superman comic books during a train ride to Toronto. He grew up in the Detroit area, went to Cranbrook School and the University of Michigan, where he earned a political science degree. He immediately went into the family business, Holtzman & Silverman, developers and builders located in Farmington Hills. He's vice president/treasurer today, and his son has since joined the firm. He said the business allows him time to build his own private library collection and time to give advice to other libraries.

Holtzman said he's a speed reader. "I always read down the centers of pages. Certain writers — William Faulkner, John Updike, Robert Stone — demand attention to every word."

"In business, I'm submerged in print. I'm surrounded with magazines and newspapers and journals. But I have not entered the computer world in business, in my collecting, or in my library interchanges. I firmly believe that nothing replaces the printed word for rational attention and absorption."

"I read parts of every book in my collection," he said. "I don't consider total reading of everything essential. Re-reading of something is more important than total reading."

Holtzman has changed the emphasis of his private collection from the 150 or so American authors he concentrated on 10 years ago to about a dozen of his favorites. In addition to Faulkner, he collects the works of Nathaniel West, literature from the state of Israel, and Russian literature — 19th century and Soviet.

He said he considers authors more important than individual works. "It's Faulkner that counts, not 'The Sound and the Fury.'" In my Faulkner collection, the early, late, minor and major works are all equal."

Holtzman's advice to would-be book collectors: "Don't buy one Hemingway, one Faulkner and one Steinbeck. Buy three Faulkners or three Steinbecks and you're on your way."

Group plans July Fourth fireworks

A fireworks display and show are planned for the July 4 weekend. The Mack Avenue Business and Professional Association will spearhead the effort once again.

A kickoff meeting was held with major sponsors last month and the group is asking residents and other businesses to participate in funding the project.

"We expect the quality to go up again this year," said Robbie Curry, who is heading the event. She said the show gains in popularity every year, with 15,000 in attendance last summer.

"Last year we got a lot of contributions right after the fireworks — that made us feel good," she said.

Each of the five cities has already promised to kick in $500, Curry said. The cost of putting on the display has increased in recent years because of higher insurance costs. Curry said this year's show is expected to cost in excess of $20,000.

"We won't cut any corners," she said. The business association sponsors the fireworks as a way to help the community stay active and viable, she added.

Donations may be mailed to Mack Avenue USA, 17401 Mack, Detroit 48224, or contributors may use the form elsewhere in this issue.

Volunteer support group gets grants

Two grants totaling $49,000 have been awarded to a volunteer program sponsored by St. Clair Home Health Care that offers support to parents with seriously ill children.

The Helen L. DeRoy Foundation and the Skillman Foundation, both of Detroit, provided the grants to the TLC (Together Let's Cope) program.

The TLC program began in August 1986 when some parents of infants in the hospital's Neonatal Intensive Care Unit said they needed a phone support system to help deal with the trying situations they found themselves in. The program started with 26 trained volunteers and now has 43. It has expanded to also assist pediatric patients and their families.

"The restriction of insurance and public funds coverage for home care support plays a big role in what is available to these families. Medicaid, for instance, doesn't pay for a pediatric social worker," said Roberta Humphries of Grosse Pointe, administrator of St. Clair Home Health Services.

"It's hoped that a full-time person in that capacity will be available now because of these grants," she said. "We could show how that person's assistance might keep kids out of institutions — a benefit to the state."

The volunteers, who remain a vital part of the program, aid those families who no longer qualify for home care service by paid staff.

Parent volunteers are needed. The next training program is scheduled for February. For more information call St. Clair Home Health Care at 343-3738.

Gift creates women's manuscript prize

George A. Masterton of Windsor, Ontario, retired Wayne State University librarian, has donated $100,000 to WSU for establishment of a fund in memory of his late wife, Mary Dickey Masterton.

Income from the endowed fund will support the Mary Dickey Masterton Award, a manuscript prize for outstanding women authors and editors who publish with the Wayne State University Press.

The fund has already provided support for two Wayne State University Press publications, Evelyn Picon Garfield's "Women's Voices from Latin America" (1985), and Marilyn Williamson's

"The Patriarchy of Shakespeare's Comedies" (1986). Only manuscripts in the social sciences and humanities are eligible for the award.

"There is keen competition among university presses throughout the country to attract good manuscripts," said Peter Spyers-Duran, dean of University Libraries of WSU. "The Mary Dickey Masterton Award will allow the Wayne State University Press to compete nationally for the finest scholarly manuscripts by women authors and editors."

Mary Dickey Masterton was with the Detroit Public Library for 43 years until her retirement in 1983. A native of Terre Haute, Ind., she graduated from Simmons College in 1940.

Generations of Detroit Public Library users remember Mrs. Masterton for her work in children's service, film service, book selection, home reading services and the Browsing Library, which she headed at the time of her retirement. The Detroit Public Library in 1982 awarded her the Staff Memorial and Fellowship Award. She died in 1984 at age 65.

George Masterton retired from the library technical services division of the Wayne State Libraries in 1986. He also served on the Editorial Board of the WSU Press for 16 years.

Authors interested in applying for the Mary Dickey Masterton Award should write to Professor Arthur F. Mariotti, chair of the Editorial Board, Wayne State University Press, 5959 Woodward Ave., Detroit 48202, or call 577-4603. The first award will be announced later this year.

Learn CPR

A class on cardiopulmonary resuscitation will be offered at Cottage Hospital Tuesday, Feb. 9, from 1 to 4 p.m., in Boardrooms A and B on the lower level.

Participants will learn to recognize the signals of a heart attack and how to respond when heart attack occurs. The class also includes some basic anatomy, rescue breathing, one-person CPR, and the obstructed airway maneuver. Lecture, films, demonstration and individual practice of the technique on mannequins are used and certificates issued for successful completion of the course. Instructors for the course are certified by the American Heart Association. There is a $3 fee for the class and reservations must be made in advance by calling 884-8600, ext. 2390.

When is a kiss not just a kiss?

...when it's used to detect cystic fibrosis.

The Cystic Fibrosis Foundation has launched a statewide educational campaign, called "Kiss Your Baby," which runs from Feb. 1 through March 15. The purpose of the campaign is to alert parents to the symptoms of cystic fibrosis, in the hope that early diagnosis and prompt treatment will result.

Due to recent research advances, the average life expectancy of CF patients has increased from 21 to 26.6 years old. The quality and longevity of life is dramatically improving for these young adults.

One of the identifying symptoms of cystic fibrosis is an extremely salty taste to the child's skin, which can be detected by kissing or tasting them on the forehead. Other symptoms include: (1) recurrent wheezing, (2) persistent coughing and excess mucus, (3) pneumonia more than once during childhood, (4) excessive appetite but poor weight gain, (5) enlargement of the fingertips, and (6) persistent foul-smelling stools.

Suspecting parents are directed to consult their local physician for referral.

Ileitis support series to begin

Registrations are now being taken for "Coping with Ileitis (Crohn's disease) and Ulcerative Colitis," a five-week mutual self-help program to begin Monday, Feb. 8, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m., at Cottage Hospital.

Sponsored by the Michigan Chapter, National Foundation for Ileitis & Colitis (NFIC), the program is open to inflammatory bowel disease patients, their families and interested others. Prior registration is necessary.

The purpose of the mutual self-help program is to afford patients and significant others an opportunity to meet in an informal setting with trained facilitators to learn how to overcome the fear and the social isolation which can arise from living with ileitis and ulcerative colitis. These are chronic diseases which "nobody talks about" but which afflict two million Americans, 200,000 of them children.

To register for the self-help series or for more information, call the National Foundation for Ileitis and Colitis at 424-8656.

W. Hawkins Ferry dies; patron of art, history, architecture

By Margie Reins Smith
Staff Writer

W. Hawkins Ferry — architectural historian, author, art collector, patron of the Detroit Institute of Arts, member of the People Mover Art Commission, collector of modern and contemporary art, benefactor and board member of the Grosse Pointe Historical Society, benefactor of the Grosse Pointe Public Library — died Tuesday, Jan. 26, after a long illness. He was 73.

"He was a walking encyclopedia of Grosse Pointe history and architecture, of anecdotes about people who have lived here," said Donald Thurber, his friend for 60 years. "His information was very illustrative of the development and the social history of the Grosse Pointe communities. To take a walk with him along a Grosse Pointe street was to receive an education of what happened there and who lived there and what they did."

Mr. Ferry was born in Detroit, moved to Grosse Pointe when he was a year old, attended Grosse Pointe Country Day School, Cranbrook and Harvard. He graduated from Harvard in 1937 with a bachelor of arts degree in architecture.

He made the first of more than 50 gifts of modern and contemporary art to the Detroit Institute of Arts in 1946, and during the next 42 years he donated major works by Joan Miro, Barnett Newman, Mark Rothko, Robert Motherwell, Franz Kline, Alexander Calder and Robert Rauschenberg, Pierre Alechinsky, and others.

He maintained an interest in Grosse Pointe Central Library, because the Ferry Foundation donated the money for its construction in 1951 as a gift to the community, according to Dr. Charles Hanson, library director. "He had a strong belief that a public library should be a public forum for art as well as a repository of knowledge and for works of man's mind and spirit," Hanson said. The Ferry Foundation selected noted modernist Marcel Breuer as architect of Central Library.

Mr. Ferry donated the sculpture in front of the building, "Salute to Knowledge" and the Alexander Calder mobile that hangs in the main reading room.

He also served as honorary chairman for the Library Bond and Millage Committee and had reviewed the preliminary designs for the proposed library expansion that was turned down by voters in November.

He was the organizer of a group of DIA patrons who eventually became known as the Friends of Modern Art and were responsible for building the DIA's 20th century collection. He was a trustee of the Founders' Society from 1960 until his death, and he served as the DIA's honorary curator of architecture. He was most recently involved in the People Mover Art Commission, the organization responsible for commissioning art for the People Mover stations.

Mr. Ferry is probably best known for his book, "The Buildings of Detroit: A History," the definitive work on Detroit's architectural heritage. The book was published in 1968 and revised in 1980.

He was also an active member of the Grosse Pointe Historical Society since its founding in 1945. He served on the board as the society's first treasurer and was chairman of the Steering Committee in 1979, when the group was reorganized, then treasurer under the new charter. He was a benefactor of the society and an important source of information about Grosse Pointe history.

"The interesting thing about Hawkins Ferry," said Lisa Gandelot, past president of the Grosse Pointe Historical Society, "was that he was a patron of modern art, but was also enamored of his heritage. He appreciated the past — participated in the present — and looked forward to the future."

"I was fortunate to serve five years on the society's board with him. Last summer I ran into him (at a shopping center.) He was waiting for his housekeeper, who was doing some shopping in Kroger's. I sat on a bench with him and he talked about Grosse Pointe history for about 45 minutes — about his family — his home. I mostly listened. He didn't speak much, but when he did, everyone listened."

According to Donald Thurber, Mr. Ferry was working on notes for a book on Grosse Pointe history. "He had extensive notes," Thurber said. "I hope someone will put the rest together and complete the work. We talked about that in our last conversation a few days before his death."

Mr. Ferry's grandfather, Dexter Mason Ferry, founded one of the largest seed farms in the country. He was also one of the founders of the forerunner of the Detroit Institute of Arts in 1885. The Ferry's family home was on the same site as the current DIA. His father, D.M. Ferry Jr., guided the family business through a merger to become Ferry-Morse Seed Co., served as president and trustee of the DIA, and was responsible for building the institute's collection of 19th century American art.

W. Hawkins Ferry was honored last summer with an exhibition of his private art collection and his gifts to the Detroit Institute of Arts. In addition, friends raised $200,000 to purchase a sculpture, "Moonmad," by surrealist artist Max Ernst, in Ferry's honor, for the museum's permanent collection.

The Grosse Pointe Board of Education passed a resolution at their Monday meeting expressing condolences to the family of W. Hawkins Ferry and honoring Mr. Ferry for his lifelong support of the Grosse Pointe community and its activities. The resolution specifically referred to the Ferry family's provision of funds for the central library; Mr. Ferry's selection of architect Marcel Breuer and his donation of major works of art to the library; his interest in the library by serving as honorary chair of the Bond and Millage Committee and as a member of the Library Building Advisory Committee; and his depth of knowledge, quiet dignity, and generous nature.

A private memorial service was held Monday, Feb. 1, at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church. Mr. Ferry is survived by a brother, Dexter Ferry; a sister, Edith Hooper, of Baltimore, Md.; and eight nieces and nephews.

Memorial donations may be made to the Friends of Modern Art.

Park municipal building in violation of code

By Margie Reins Smith
Staff Writer

The Grosse Pointe Park municipal office building is in violation of some of the city's own code requirements, it was revealed at the Jan. 22 council meeting.

James Ellison, director of Public Service, presented a list of the approximate costs for correcting various violations. The total came to $109,395.

Plumbing and heating corrections were $33,100, and included the removal of all asbestos pipe coverings, repair of leaking heating motor valves, removal of an incinerator, repairs of steam traps and water leaks, replacement of a lavatory, and replacement and installation of vents and fans in lavatories.

According to Ellison, some of these repairs have already taken place. Repairs that have been done were within current budget allowances, according to Comptroller Dale Krajniak.

The estimate for electrical corrections came to $12,120, including the elimination of a 100-amp main panel in the basement, the correction of a loose splice, provision for ventilation in the transformer room and other items. Ellison said that the most serious electrical violations have been corrected, and Krajniak said that the repairs were covered under routine building maintenance and improvement funds in the city's budget.

Structural and maintenance violations estimates came to $64,175. Ellison said the city took bids for roof repairs two years ago and will proceed with the repairs. The $60,000 estimate for the replacement of eavestroughs, downspouts, the replacement of missing and rotted wood in the overhangs, and the replacement and repair of the roof will be budgeted for the 1988-89 fiscal year, which begins in July.

In addition, estimates were made for replacement of fire doors to the boiler room, weatherstripping of exterior doors, installation of canopies over open exterior stairwells and installation of roof vents.

At the same meeting, council members discussed the cleaning and replacement of drapes in its chambers. While the windows were being replaced, Krajniak said, the old drapes were cleaned and stored, and were to be rehung. Since the windows were installed, however, it was decided not to replace all the drapes. Some have been rehung; the rest are in storage. Council suggested selling the extra drapes.

Joy of giving

Parcells Middle School students experienced the true joy of giving by collecting 2,625 pounds of canned food prior to Christmas for Crossroads. The annual project of the Parcells Student Council was augmented this year by the admission to the pre-Christmas dance of two cans of canned food. Packaging the food are, from left, D.J. Reynolds, Katie Kutscher, Mari-martha Barlow and Shane Barr, student council officers, and their adviser, Margaret Van-Eckoute.

Boys camp film to be shown

Boys who are interested in attending Camp Deerhorn in Rhinelander, Wisconsin are invited along with their parents to meet the camp director and see a film Monday, Feb. 8, at 7:30 p.m. in the Maire School music room.

Boys from 7 to 16 from 18 states and three countries attended in 1987. Camp activities include horseback riding, riflery, water skiing, swimming, archery, basketball, tennis, golf, canoeing, crafts, baseball, soccer and sailing.

South senior wins scholarship

Eric London, 17, a senior at South High School, has been awarded a Chick Evans scholarship to the University of Michigan for the 1988-89 school year.

London, a caddy at the Country Club of Detroit, was one of 33 outstanding caddies including four young women, selected for the scholarship by the Golf Association of Michigan.

The awards, part of the national Evans Scholars program administered by the Western Golf Association, were announced by co-chairmen of the GAM Scholarship Committee, Robert McMasters of Royal Oak and Peter Green of Franklin.

Seventeen of the new Evans Scholars will be enrolled at U of M in Ann Arbor and the other 16 will attend Michigan State University in Lansing. Each Evans grant covers full tuition and housing in the Evans Chapter House on campus. The freshman class at MSU will be among the first scholars to live in a new chapter house to be completed this summer by the WGA's Evans Scholars Foundation. The foundation owns chapter houses at 14 major midwestern universities.

The scholarship has an estimated value in excess of $10,000 if renewed for four years. The foundation will award more than 200 scholarships this winter. Winners are determined on a competitive basis considering caddy record, high school academic standing and need for financial aid.

This program was initiated by golfer Chick Evans in 1939, and more than 4,700 former caddies have graduated as Evans Scholars since that time.

Stretching Table: Stretches the body, strengthens and tightens muscles in abdominal and midriff areas. Arms move up and down firming and toning underarms. Bust-line and rib cage are lifted, creating better posture and firm upper body. Toned muscles relieve tension.

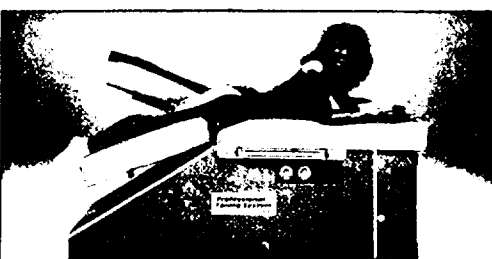

Stomach-Hip Table: Strengthens and tones the stomach and hips. It actually works to firm and lift the buttocks area. The gentle rhythmic action helps to break down "cellulite", giving a firm smooth tone to the skin.

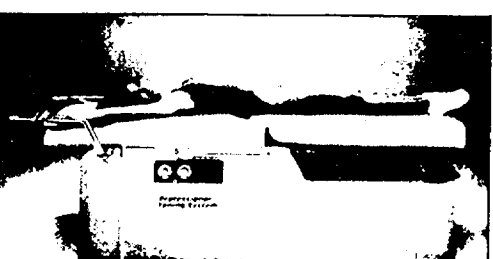

Sit-Up Table: Works to tone the abdominal muscles, reducing inches in the waist and hips, and increasing overall flexibility.

Leg Table: Slenderizes and tones the entire leg, concentrates on reducing the inner and outer thighs, hips and buttocks through muscle strengthening and endurance.

Twister Table: Alternately raises and lowers legs approximately 520 times during a normal 8 minute session. The simultaneous action works to firm, tone and reduce the waist, abdomen and hips, and strengthens the muscles in the lower back.

Side-Side Table: Stretches the lower torso from side to side, toning muscles in the abdomen, strengthening the lower back, all over muscle tone is improved and waist-line is reduced.

Q and A

Q. HOW LONG WILL IT TAKE TO SEE RESULTS?

A. Most people will notice inch loss after only a few sessions. As with all exercise programs, you will notice best results with regular use over an extended period of time. Strength, flexibility, and muscle tone will increase progressively if you will follow your individual program suggested by your salon.

Q. WILL I FEEL FATIGUED OR SORE AFTER EXERCISING ON THE TABLES?

A. You should not. Because of the passive resistance type of exercise, you'll feel refreshed and it will enhance your circulation and energize you for hours to come. With passive resistance there is very little blood flow to the muscles. When the muscle contracts rapidly there is a biochemical reaction taking place, and the soreness is the aftermath of the biochemical reaction. When you do passive resistance exercise this reaction is not taking place as much, so the soreness is not there as opposed to more active exercise.

Q. HOW CAN YOU GUARANTEE INCH LOSS?

A. Once you are introduced to our program and maintain your exercise program on a regular basis, weight and inch loss will occur. When muscles begin to tone up, they become more taut thus remaining in a more contracted state, changing and altering the configuration of the body.

Q. WILL THE ELDERLY PERSON BENEFIT FROM USING THE PASSIVE RESISTANCE PROGRAM?

A. We think these are excellent machines for the elderly. It promotes movement flexibility. It will promote toning and most of the elderly need that type of activity. At the same time, it's somewhat passive. The chance of increasing their blood pressure, overloading the muscle or injuring them won't happen with these machines or this type of exercise.

All our programs were developed and researched by Dr. Thomas B. Gilliam of Gilliam & Associates in Houston. Dr. Gilliam is a nationally recognized and respected exercise physiologist.

Spanish

who leave here and go on to a high school level Spanish program perform excellently," Brazill said.

Not only are the students learning about language, they are taught about the history of Spain and the contribution of the Arab people to the country. By the time they are in eighth grade, they have learned about the construction of the Panama Canal, and Spanish artists Picasso, El Greco and Goya.

Last year the second-graders, very fond of "La Bamba," asked to learn the song in Spanish, and sung it every chance they got.

Students at the kindergarten level get 15 minutes of lesson time each week, and beginning in first grade, students are given 45 minutes a week.

"With only 15 minutes every other day, I don't have time for nonsense," Brazill said.

But there is time for games. Students play Name the Animal. One student goes to the front of the class, and the rest must try to guess the name of the animal he depicts — in Spanish, of course.

St. Paul second-grader Christopher McGratty, far left, acts out his favorite animal, "el perro." Elizabeth Brazill, at back, smiles as students raise their hands to guess which animal he is.

Spanish is one of six extracurricular classes taught at St. Paul, which also includes art, music, gym, computers and library. Each of these get at least one period of instruction each week.

"I think the way we teach language in this country is wrong," Brazill said. "It is usually taught by sitting the students down and having them open a book." She said students must hear, use and live a language to learn it — all techniques she employs in her lessons.

"Students learn a verb so much more easily when they can act it out," she said. "Total body response is a much better way of learning and remembering something."

Brazill said there is not enough language education in the United States. She said compared to foreign countries, the United States is sorely lagging behind.

"We send our presidents to foreign countries and they make a mistake in the language and talk about lasting after a country," she said. "When our students go to Florida, California or Mexico, they will at least be able to communicate simple ideas and read a menu."

Brazill is taking part in the bilingual, bicultural program at Wayne State University and is working toward a master's degree.

Schools

Payment of local dollars in these three areas would be devastating to a district whose budget totals about $42 million.

The board unanimously passed a resolution Monday to be sent to state officials opposing any proposal that will limit the number of mills that can be submitted to the voters of the school district, and to any proposal that places the burden of paying the employer's portion of the FICA tax and pension fund contribution upon the school system.

Whritner said it is extremely difficult to create savings during the school year when 80 percent of the budget is expended on personnel. He said he had no plans to fire teachers recently hired to save money, but did plan to save where the district could.

"Tomorrow I am implementing what I call a modified job freeze," he said.

What that means, Whritner said, is that any position that becomes open for any reason will be scrutinized by a committee of which he will be a part, and unless absolutely necessary, the position will remain unfilled.

Spending from two capital accounts will be stopped until further notice. The accounts cover spending for non-instructional new and replacement equipment purchases.

He added that Business Director Christian Fenton will make an item-by-item review of the budget to determine where savings can be made.

"It is not our intent to touch the site budgets at this time," Whritner said, "but we are asking the building administrators not to expend unless it is absolutely necessary and they can support the expenditure."

Word from Lansing about the potential for the loss in revenue already has had an effect on the school board. Several items discussed at the meeting which would cost the district money, such as a $5,000 expenditure for an engineering study for interactive video, weren't dismissed outright, but board members weighed their value in light of the news from Lansing.

Grosse Pointe Education Association President Doris Cook said the Michigan Education Association will be expending about $1.25 million in an effort to state off attempts by the state legislators to find revenue for other programs by taking money from wealthier districts and to raise the quality of education.

She said the MEA will be lobbying legislators, surveying residents to determine if they might favor a 25 percent (one cent on the dollar) increase in the state sales tax to generate new revenue for education in the state.

School administrators and board members said they would be doing whatever they can to persuade legislators that the programs currently under consideration would not benefit Grosse Pointe and many other school districts.

John Crawford

Business association honors Crawford

Grosse Pointe Park City Manager John Crawford was honored Jan. 26 by the Park Business and Professional Association. Crawford was presented with a certificate of appreciation for his dedication to the city.

"It is evident that the city of Grosse Pointe Park would not be where it is today if it were not for the city manager," the association said in a statement. "Because of his love for Grosse Pointe Park and his tenacity, the city has continued to move forward and is one of the finest communities in which to live and work."

Crawford addressed the group's annual meeting with a "State of the City" message. He praised the implementation of the public safety department, continuing street improvements and the maintenance of a balanced budget without raising taxes.

Among the plans for 1988 outlined by Crawford are the restoration of the Jefferson Avenue business district, the continuing improvements for the northwest sector of the city and another balanced budget.

The business association installed its 1988 officers at the meeting at the Park Place Cafe. Park Municipal Judge Kirsten Frank presided. Elected were: Peter Wilhelm, president; William Bieker, vice president; Susan Stein, secretary; Garland Herndon, treasurer; and Clara Odell, corresponding secretary.

School committee sets budget cut priorities

By Peter A. Salinas
Staff Writer

Recommendations to cut the Grosse Pointe Public School System's budget by some $500,000 will come only after the cuts have been evaluated by a set of criteria developed by the district's budget advisory committee.

Doris Cook, president of the Grosse Pointe Education Association, had expressed concern over the administration's announcement that the majority of the cuts would be made by laying off teachers at the high school level.

Superintendent John Whritner had gone on record as saying that due to decreases in the overall number of secondary students, cuts in teaching positions at that level could be made more easily.

Cook argued there could be other ways to tighten the budget, through close scrutiny and by looking at such things as future retirements.

The seven recommendations, listed in order of least to most critical are: 1. Postpone any major projects requiring large expenditures unless they are of an emergency nature. Postpone plans for remodeling the administration building at 389 St. Clair.

2. Postpone all new positions due to expanding or new programs.

3. Do not buy any new equipment and postpone non-emergency replacement purchases.

4. Any vacant position should be carefully examined. Avoid cutting personnel in previously hit groups, such as maintenance and custodial staff.

5. Re-examine extracurricular programs, self-sustaining programs, student fees, ticket prices.

6. Return to a six-period day.

7. Instructional program cuts should be evaluated considering the number/kind of students impacted — curriculum, vocational education and class size.

"I have no problem with the criteria by which the cuts will be judged," Cook said. "They must come up with a number of small reductions instead of planning to increase class size at the secondary level or cut curriculum."

Cook said she knew of a number of school retirements which could save the district some of the $500,000, and that the retirements of which she was aware were spread around the district, rather than being concentrated in one area of the school or a particular building.

Cook said she was disappointed to learn that the collection of a summer tax for next school year was out of the question, since deadlines had already expired.

"We could save money by collecting the summer tax," she said. "It is not working in our favor to borrow now as it was in years past."

Whritner said there have been no firm decisions on proposed cuts at this time, but those decisions should be made in coming weeks.

Cook said the one thing the committee did was to decide that all areas of the budget could be considered for possible cuts.

"Nothing is sacred," she said. "Let's look at everything."

Woman robbed of purse, bag

A 24-year-old Park woman was parking her vehicle on the 1300 block of Balfour at 1:20 a.m. Friday, Jan. 29, when a man forced her against her car and grabbed her purse and carryall bag.

The thief, described as a black male in his mid-20s, about 6-foot-4, 180 pounds, with a light complexion, was driving past when he spotted the woman. He pulled his vehicle over and walked over to the woman. She was not injured.

The purse and bag were later found on the 5500 block of Somerset, minus $20.

Park police are investigating.

Speaker warns residents about drug, alcohol abuse

One of the nation's leaders in the prevention of drug abuse, Robert L. DuPont Jr., brought a strong message about alcohol abuse to Grosse Pointe's public high schools last week.

Speaking to educators, law enforcement officials, social workers, guidance counselors, parents and other community representatives, he emphasized that there is no such thing as the responsible use of alcohol by anyone under 21. He also warned that a community sinks or swims on the basis of what it does with drinking.

A former director of the National Institute on Drug Abuse, DuPont directs the Center for Behavioral Medicine and is vice president of Bensing, DuPont and Associates, which provides consultations on drug abuse in the workplace nationwide.

Citing statistics from the University of Michigan's recent survey of high school seniors, DuPont pointed out that 65 percent of seniors in the survey used alcohol, 30 percent smoked cigarettes, 23 percent smoked marijuana and 6 percent used cocaine.

DuPont said while most would agree the percentages for cigarettes, marijuana and cocaine should be zero, that attitude is not true for alcohol. He said that belief is the major cause of the drug epidemic now facing this country.

Many parents have abdicated their responsibilities when it comes to alcohol and drug use, says DuPont, and have come to accept substance abuse as normal.

Parents must be clear about what they expect from their children, and must be sure they understand those expectations, DuPont said.

In affluent communities such as Grosse Pointe, the percentage of people who abstain from alcohol is lower than the national average, and the percentage of heavy drinkers (four or more drinks a week) is higher, DuPont noted.

The drug expert then gave eight guidelines for responsible drinking by adults:

1. Do not have more than two to three drinks in any 24-hour period.
2. Do not drink more than three or four days out of seven.

Ambulance

has four personnel on the scene (even though only one has the required AEMT designation) and that the service has been operated since its beginning without incident.

"They turned us down," he said Monday.

Several public safety officers are EMTs and two are qualified AEMTs, according to City Administrator Chester Petersen. The Patrolmen's Association has in the past refused to consider the city's offer of supplementary pay for public safety officer paramedics because of contractual considerations. Public Safety Director Jack Patterson told the council that the option of asking them again still remains open and would be the lowest cost option for the city.

"To maintain the AEMT rating takes a lot of time, training and retraining," said Petersen.

"It's pretty hard for a regular patrolman to maintain that status."

The council spent nearly an hour discussing lobbying and court action. "I really think we're under an obligation to show we've done everything we could," said Councilman Robert Novitke.

Catlin argued that if the council came up with a plan, the board might grant an extension. "If we said we needed time to make this thing gel, they might," he said. "We haven't even considered the option of hiring advanced paramedics for a limited period until we can resolve it."

Grosse Pointe Woods operates the only advanced life support service in the Pointes. It is the only one in metropolitan Detroit operating without full staff.

of people who abstain from alcohol is lower than the national average, and the percentage of heavy drinkers (four or more drinks a week) is higher, DuPont noted.

Take your boat to Boblo

Boblo Island is modernizing its marina and will open 96 new slips this spring, making it the largest marina open exclusively to transient boaters on either side of the river.

The $250,000 in improvements at the Port O'Call Marina are a part of a $14.4 million investment in the island the last five years.

Boats up to 60 feet in length can be accommodated, with reservations taken only for parties of 10 boats or more. In addition to the upgraded slips, new electrical and water hookups are being installed at the marina, which opened in 1964 and was last renovated in 1968.

The modernized slips have steel frames and supports driven into bedrock approximately 30 feet below the water level. The decks and fendering are wood. Another 35 slips are available from last season. Future plans call for more wells at the marina.

Marina prices will be the same as last year — 50 cents per foot in U.S. funds and 65 cents in Canadian funds for a 24-hour stay.

3. Do not drink within four hours of driving.

4. Find someone who drinks less and use him/her as a guide.

5. No one under the legal age of 21 may drink.

6. Pregnant and nursing women should not drink.

7. Anyone with a history of drug or alcohol abuse should not drink.

8. Anyone on medications should not drink.

Pointing out that the ninth-grade is the most common year for students to begin consuming alcohol, DuPont warned that the younger a person starts to use alcohol, the more likely he or she is to lose control, add other drugs and have longtime drinking problems. Kids who are impulsive, pessimistic, extroverted, rebellious, lack ambition or have poor work habits are most vulnerable, he said, although no one is immune.

DuPont urged that law enforcement officials take a strong stand against businesses which sell alcohol to minors and against minors who use fake identifications. The drinking age must be vigorously enforced by the community, he said, or the community is hypocritical.

"Grosse Pointe's greatest resource is its kids," DuPont said, "and adults want to protect them."

DuPont's visit was sponsored by SAC² and the Grosse Pointe PTA/PTO Council. A number of schools made donations to help defray expenses, including Defer. Ferry, Kerby, Maire, Monteith and Richard elementary schools, Brownell Middle School, South High Mothers' Club and University Liggett School.

Lorraine Hopper, vice president/chief operating officer of Saratoga Foundation, and K. Rana Dykman, executive director of Saratoga Community Hospital and president of Saratoga Foundation, cut the ribbon to unveil the Tree of Life at the dedication on Jan. 17.

Saratoga dedicates Tree of Life

More than 400 people gathered at Saratoga Community Hospital to dedicate the custom wall sculpture "A History of Caring Tree of Life," Jan. 17.

The Tree of Life consists of golden leaves, golden apples, and foundation stones. Embedded in the trunk is a hand cast rendering of the original hospital, the present building, and three scenes of patient care services.

The Tree of Life program is a unique recognition program honoring those who are investing in Saratoga's future. The funding will be used to purchase state-of-the-art equipment.

Total donations to date are $933,950. Saratoga Foundation's goal is to reach $1,710,000 by mid-1989.

Two donor recognition societies are associated with the Tree of Life. Current members include donors from Saratoga's board of trustees, administration, employees, physicians, business associates, former patients, other community friends, and a local private foundation.

For more information on the Tree of Life program, call Lorraine Hopper at 245-1334.

Academy open house

The Grosse Pointe Academy will open its doors from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 7, as it hosts its biannual open house.

The Early School (2 1/2 through 6 years old) and the lower and middle school (grades 1-8) welcome everyone who would like to learn more about the academy and its programs. The school will also be debuting its summer Academy Adventures '88 trips, which are open to all children ages 10 to 15.

Grosse Pointe Academy is located at Lakeshore and Moran roads in Grosse Pointe Farms. Students, faculty and parents will be on hand to answer questions and give tours of the campus, a Michigan historical site listed in the National Register of Historic Places.

For more information, call the director of admissions at 886-1221.

Two employees pull man from Lake St. Clair

It was really lucky for Farms resident Joseph Furton that Gary Munck and Carl Ayres ate lunch together at the boathouse at Farms Pier Park.

Furton, 72, of Muir Road, was ice fishing at the foot of Kerby Road, when he fell through the ice about 150 yards from shore.

Gary Munck, a Farms accounting department employee, was having lunch with Carl Ayers, a parks and recreation employee, in the boathouse at the Farms Pier Park.

Munck said he didn't actually see Furton go into the water, but saw him trying to lift himself out of the water and was unable to because of the thin ice around him.

Ayers went for rope and Munck ran out the side door of the building "to let him know right away that someone knew he had gone in."

Munck said because he was lighter, he got to within about 15 feet of Furton and threw him the rope.

"Carl held on to the rope about 10 feet behind me and we both pulled him out," Munck said.

Munck said his heart was racing, but he didn't realize just how much until after Furton was safe.

"I've known Joe for a long time," Munck said. "I'm sure I

Arthritis course

Cottage Hospital will offer help to arthritis sufferers with the four-week course, "Arthritis - A Joint Venture." The classes begin Thursday, Feb. 11, and continue on Feb. 18, 25 and March 3. They will be held from 3 to 5 p.m. in Boardroom B on the lower level of the hospital.

"Arthritis - A Joint Venture" is designed to encourage patients to take an active part in their arthritis care and emphasizes proper use of medication, exercise and relaxation, nutrition, joint protection and evaluation of non-traditional arthritis treatment.

The fee for the four-week course at Cottage Hospital is $25, which includes "The Arthritis Handbook." To register, call 884-8600, ext. 2390.

would have done the same thing for anyone out there, but it's a little different when you know the person."

"There is no doubt that (their) quick action, rendered at great personal peril, resulted in the saving of a human life," said Farms Police Chief Robert Ferber, on behalf of his department and the city. "For this, we both thank and commend you for your actions rendered in behalf of another."

Furton sought no medical assistance and warmed up at home.

Develop your voice

Grosse Pointe Adult Education is offering a voice development workshop for five weeks beginning Thursday, Feb. 11, from 7 to 9 p.m.

The class will instruct students to learn to use and understand the human voice.

The class will be taught by Margaret M. Jedlick.

Local celebrities reveal how they handle being in the public eye

Being a celebrity can be exciting, but it sometimes has a down-side. Learn the humorous and not-so-humorous aspects of being in the public eye Wednesday, Feb. 17, 8 p.m. at the War Memorial.

The Council of Sponsors will present its fourth annual Celebrity Panel, made up of some of Grosse Pointe's best known residents.

WJR personality Hal Youngblood will moderate this year's panel. A native of Johnson City, Tenn., Youngblood began his broadcast career at WSM-TV in Nashville. He joined WJR in 1964 as executive producer and helped develop J.P. McCarthy's popular "Morning Show" and "Focus" programs.

Serving as panelists are Molly Abraham, Mike Duffy, Chuck Gaidica, M. Jane Kay, Betty Magee, Jennifer Moore, Shelby Strother and Jeanne Whittaker.

Molly Abraham is a restaurant critic of the Detroit Free Press and author of "Restaurants of Detroit," a guide to bistros and cafes in Michigan and Ontario. Prior to joining the Free Press in 1981, Abraham covered dining for the Detroit News, beginning in 1969. She is a graduate of the University of Detroit with a degree in English.

Mike Duffy, until recently the intrepid "Captain Video" of the Detroit Free Press, is now a general columnist at the paper. Duffy, born in Richmond, Va. and raised in Mansfield, Ohio, is a graduate of Denison University and the University of Iowa College of Law. He joined the Free Press in 1976 and was named TV critic in 1980.

Weatherman Chuck Gaidica, now of WDIV-TV 4, has been in the Detroit area since 1982, coming here from KATV in Little Rock, Ark. He joined TV 4 after five years at WJBK-TV. Besides anchoring the weather segments on "News 4 at 5:00" and "News 4 Nightbeat" at 11 p.m., Gaidica is also the forecaster for WNIC radio.

M. Jane Kay, vice president-administration, Detroit Edison Co., is a native Grosse Pointer and active participant in community affairs. She has been with Edison since 1948 and was selected "One of the 50 Most Powerful Women of Detroit" in 1985.

Kay

Betty Magee is the F.Y.I. (For Your Image) wardrobe consultant at Hudson's Eastland Store. F.Y.I. is a free consulting and shopping service developed by the store to assist Oval Room shoppers.

Magee

Jennifer Moore is business editor for WDIV-TV 4. In this capacity, she reports on some of the most important local and national business and automotive issues and how they impact Detroiters. She has been with the station since 1979 and has received numerous awards for her reporting, including a local Emmy.

Moore

Shelby Strother, sports columnist for the Detroit News, should have many stories to relate. His recent assignments for the paper have included trips to Atlantic City for the Tyson-Holmes fight and to San Diego for the Super Bowl. Rounding out the panel is Jeanne Whittaker, People columnist of The Detroit News. Prior to joining the News in 1987, Whittaker was Suburban Life editor of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers for 10 years. During her career, she has interviewed a host of local, national and international newsmakers including the late Henry Ford II, Imelda Marcos, actor Douglas Fairbanks, singing legend Lena Horne, statesman Henry Kissinger, Princess Grace of Monaco, author Truman Capote and others.

Chairing this year's Celebrity Panel for the Council of Sponsors are Margot Kessler and Aphie Roumell, assisted by Claire Perry and Mary Turner. Tickets are $5 per person. Advance registration is suggested. For further information, call 881-7511.

There are lessons to be learned from history

By Marian Trainor
Special Writer

In an attempt to determine where we are going, we sometimes seek to understand where we have been. We turn to the past, not to recapture a world we have lost, but to learn the lessons of history.

This thought comes to mind after reading W. Andrew Achenbaum's provocative book, "Old Age in the New Land" (John Hopkins Press). Drawing upon a wide range of sources from social, intellectual and political history, he sketches a surprising picture of the place of the older generation in American history.

Interestingly enough, it has come full circle, from good to bad and back to better, if not as good as we would like it to be. Like all history, this one contains a lesson. If you want better things, you've got to keep working at it. You cannot afford to retire from life.

Much has been accomplished — Social Security, private pension systems, Medicare, Medicaid, political activism, legislation, medical advances.

Yet much remains to be done, such as flexible job scheduling, a lightening of the work load rather than forced retirement for those who want to continue working but not at the present pace.

While older Americans today might look forward to shorter work hours or light work as a goal, Achenbaum, in his work, finds a precedent for this in the past. This was due to the striking differences in the way early American defined older people's place in society. Americans between the Revolutionary and Civil War believed their infant republic depended upon the commitment and ability of men and women of all ages to work together in creating a new society.

They judged the assets and liabilities of being older invaluable in shaping the cultural and social life of the new land. People who enjoyed a "ripe old age" were regarded with respect because they believed that living a long and fruitful life was in itself an achievement. In a world where sickness, injury and death plagued all age groups, those who attained the biblically inspired three-score-and-ten seemed remarkable. In fact, the number of elderly people in the United States became a powerful ideological weapon in demonstrating that the New World environment was beneficial.

It is interesting to note that in 1790, as today, many of the maxims for maintaining health are still advocated — fresh air, regular exercise, moderate diet and sufficient sleep.

Older people were also emulated because they demonstrated that temperance, industry and exercise had contributed to longevity. This assumption led to the conclusion that it was advantageous to rely on older men and women to help direct and safeguard the moral development of the young nation. Since older Americans were deemed well-equipped to give sound advice, it was concluded that youth and old age could benefit by association. Older men and women were thought to serve the rising generation by admonishing vanity and idleness and by instilling a sense of integrity, honesty and responsibility. Youth repaid age by offering its companionship and sharing their joys.

Older people were expected to remain economically and socially useful as long as they were physically able to work. Older Americans considered it foolish to stop working because of age. Between 1790 and 1860 people worked as farmers, they were appointed to high public office and no profession, industry, business, craft or trade organization prior to 1860 required people to leave the labor force because of age. They were expected, however, to know when it was time to let others assume some of their duties. As one writer put it: "An old horse that trotted was respectable, but one that tried to speed was contemptible. The great secret of preserving respect is the cultivating and showing to the best advantage the powers we possess and going beyond them."

With this attitude, it is not surprising that early Americans chose the sinewy old man with white hair and whiskers to symbolize their new land. Uncle Sam seemed to personify honesty, self-restraint, reliance and devotion to country. Uncle Sam not only epitomized the hopes of young America, but he also seemed to demonstrate that the nation could be wise and experienced even in its formative years.

Implicit in the earlier respect for older Americans was the idea that they were most similar to other age groups than they were different. After the Civil War, the picture began to change. Americans began to challenge the usefulness and merits of age. Scientists' knowledge came to be more relied upon than common sense in dealing with life's problems.

Another factor in the decline of the influence of older citizens was the rise of large-scale business in the late 19th century. As the value of older workers in the labor force came under question, work opportunities diminished. As their image of being productive decreased, so also did their place in society.

For the first time, dependency became a problem and it was not until the 20th century that the actual place of older Americans in society became modernized. Oddly enough, it took the Great Depression to bring about an improvement in the economic situations of seniors. It was during that time that Social Security came into being and with it some financial independence and dignity that had been lost.

Other benefits followed, such as Medicare and Medicaid. Important advances but it might also add to older citizens' sense of well-being to go back in time and try to recoup the status under modern conditions which was enjoyed in the pre-Civil War days.

He advises people how to manage their money

By Margie Reins Smith
Staff Writer

The term "financial planner" is a buzzword, according to Randy Letcavage, vice president of Crane Financial Management. He prefers the term financial adviser.

In the last five years, financial planners have been in vogue, he said, probably because the insurance industry wanted another way to sell insurance. "We're touchy about insurance. A lot of insurance people call themselves financial planners."

Crane Financial Management sells advice and that, according to Letcavage, makes all the difference.

"If I had to go to a financial adviser, I'd be scared to death," he said. "However, even for something as simple as a mortgage, you can't afford not to. A lot of people want to tell you what to do. You need help. But you want to make your own decisions."

"I have a system whereby I put all the cards on the table — tell people their options — then let them make their own decisions."

When a client — a couple, for instance — goes to CFM for financial advice, he said the first step involves a meeting, interview, discussion and a questionnaire to allow him to determine the couple's net worth. Current net worth and cash flow are essential starting points in the counseling process. CFM also provides figures for clients' projected net worth for the next four years.

"It's very difficult for most people to save money," he said. "Everyone's lifestyle will match or exceed their income. The only way to save is to reduce taxes. And with six tax law changes in the last seven years, things have never been so complicated, financially."

Letcavage then sets out to find ways for his client to reduce taxes and maximize investments, as well as ways to plan for individual identifiable goals — perhaps an education fund for their children's college expenses, retirement planning, insurance purchases, estate planning and other goals.

Letcavage said that his services include asset management, tax planning, recommendations for insurance, trusts, wills and estate planning. "We make our client aware of possibilities for estate planning and wills, so he's prepared before his attorney's meter starts running."

Financial advisers are an asset to clients, he said, anytime the client has to go to a bank for financing. "A bank is much more receptive to someone who's done some financial planning."

The initial flat fee for workup of the client's financial position is based on net worth, according to Letcavage. Asset management fees are 1 1/2 percent of the assets under management.

"This gives both of us an incentive."

Trading of stocks and bonds is discounted by 50 percent. Fees for other services are negotiable.

Crane Financial Management is affiliated with four other companies which provide these additional services. Crane & Co. Securities, Inc. is a broker/dealer registered with the Securities

Randy Letcavage, vice president of Crane Financial Management and Crane & Co. Securities, Inc., said his firms manage more than $60 million for their clients. CFM has about 300 clients in Grosse Pointe and an additional 50 or so in its California office.

and Exchange Commission and a member of the National Association of Securities Dealers. Smith, Hague & Company, Inc. provides brokerage services. Strategic Commodity Systems is a commodity trading advisory company. And Crane Energy is a general partnership specializing in energy programs and currently operating oil wells in Texas and Kansas.

Letcavage said his clients' incomes range from $50,000 annually to more than $1 million. "The client who earns $50,000 will probably get more out of financial management than the one with the million."

He believes he can be of service to a wide range of people with different financial resources and problems. "Maybe one out of 50 people has a problem that we can't help. But if he's serious about financial planning, I'll do anything to help."

"For instance, one of our clients can't retire. He'll need to take a part-time job. But at least he knows this ahead of time."

Once a client's plan is drawn up and implemented, Letcavage said he may pay a yearly retainer, about 25 percent of the initial fee, for a quarterly review and update of his financial situation. He said the firm issues bills on a monthly basis — to keep the client interested and provide options for more counseling.

"I spend time holding client's hands — if necessary — walking him through the plans. Soon they get confidence. Soon they're calling me with ideas. They become less passive and more aggressive. Clients call about purchases they're contemplating: a house, a car, a boat. We can usually answer their questions within 48 hours, often the same day."

Letcavage is 30 years old and has been advising clients for nine years. Because of referrals and friends' recommendations, he has opened a small California office. He said 35 percent of his income comes from the five or so days a month he spends in California. He plans to arrange business so that he can spend most of his winters in California, most of his summers in Grosse Pointe.

Letcavage has an associate's degree in business from Northwood Institute. He is a registered investment adviser and a certified financial planner. "I would never do anything else," he said. His enthusiasm shows. "I love it. I want to be a hero to people."

As an additional precaution, he said, his firm doesn't handle investment checks through their office. "Clients make out checks directly to the investment companies." This is another safeguard for customers, he said. "We take money only for our own fees. That's the way all good money managers work."

There are seven financial advisers in the Grosse Pointe office of CFM, and two in the California office. Ten representatives serve the brokerage firm Crane & Co. Securities, Inc. in other offices.

Letcavage's advice for anyone looking for a financial management firm. "Look for somebody who has some business savvy. A group with some tax background. A firm with background in financial services and stock brokerage."

"Most important," he said. "Be sure to find a person you can work easily with, one who can help you, educate you. A person who will be there in an emergency, a manager who will not treat you like an item on a production line. In short — an adviser with a personality you like."

The 30th annual Detroit Boat and Fishing Show at Cobo Hall begins Saturday, Feb. 6, with approximately 1,000 boats assembled under one roof in 400,000 feet of display space. Attendance in 1987 was 135,083. Sales numbered 2,635, an estimated $59 million worth of boats.

Boat show opens at Cobo Feb. 6

The 30th annual Detroit Boat and Fishing Show will open Saturday, Feb. 6, at Cobo Hall and run through Sunday, Feb. 14. More than 1,000 new recreational boats — dinghies, cabin cruisers, racing yachts, fully-rigged fishing vessels, platform boats and paddleboats — will be on display and for sale. Marine accessories and electronic equipment will also be displayed. Daily seminars on fishing will be presented by nationally known anglers.

Typically, the largest boat in the show is dubbed "Queen." This year the Queen is a Sea Ray 460 Express Cruiser, docked at the Colony Marine exhibit. The vessel retails for about $350,000.

The largest sailboat will be a Beneteau Oceanis 350, docked at the Sun and Sail exhibit. A new family of Hunter Sailors will be represented by the Hunter 33.5. Rounding out the large sailboat class is a 34 Catalina, berthed at the Jefferson Beach sailboat center.

"While the larger luxury yachts steal the spotlight, the smaller and mid-class boats steal the show and by far are the biggest sellers," said Ray L. Underwood, show manager and executive director of the Michigan Boating Industries Association. "There is a boat for every individual or family budget," he said. "For instance, a 19-foot runabout will cost approximately $8,500 to $14,000, depending on brand. That translates to a monthly payment of only $119 to $169. A 16-foot Catamaran sailboat retails in the range of $3,800 to $4,850, making monthly payments in the $68 to $86 range."

In addition, seminars and demonstrations will feature nationally renowned anglers each day during the show. Detroit News outdoor columnist Dave Richey will emcee the daily seminars which will feature speakers, including Babe Winkelman, host of the World of Fishing TV program; Spence Petros, from Fishing Facts magazine; Jerry McKinnis, host of the TV program, The Fishin' Hole; and Greg Dubrule, Connecticut shark fisherman.

Show hours are noon to 10 p.m. Saturdays; noon to 8 p.m. Sundays; Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, 3 p.m. to 10 p.m.; and Wednesday, 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. Admission is $6 for adults, $3 for children from 5 to 12 and senior citizens over 62. Children under 5 are admitted free.

Discount parking is available in four city-owned parking lots adjacent to the People Mover and marked with a green P. The People Mover will operate until midnight Monday through Saturday and until 10 p.m. Sunday.

Inventors to meet patent attorney

The February meeting of the Inventors Association of Metropolitan Detroit will meet Thursday, Feb. 11, at 7:30 p.m. at Grosse Pointe North in Room 312.

Patent attorney Pete Keefe and Michael D'Anna will discuss "A Case History of a Patent Application."

For more information, call 772-7888.

Financial strategies

A three-part class, "Advanced Portfolio Strategies," will be offered Mondays, Feb. 8-22, from 7 to 9 p.m. at the War Memorial.

Bernard A. Shinkel, Ph.D., portfolio manager, management consultant and former finance professor at Wayne State University, will conduct the sessions.

Participants will learn how to build a portfolio tailored to their specific objectives, methods for controlling risks while enhancing returns and the newest concepts in stock valuation.

Fee is $15 for the three-part series; $650, single session. Call 881-7511, Monday through Saturday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. for further information. Advance registration is suggested.

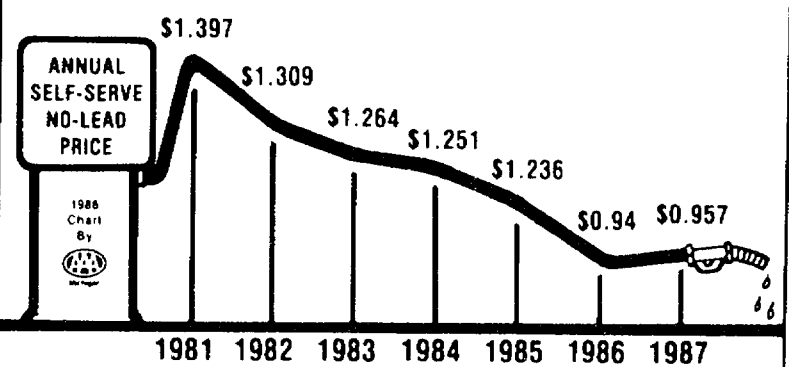

Chamber to meet

The Metro East Chamber of Commerce, which serves the business communities of St. Clair Shores, Roseville, Harper Woods, Fraser and the Grosse Pointes, will hold a general membership luncheon Wednesday, Feb. 17, 11:30 a.m., at the Grosse Pointe Academy, Lakeshore Building, 171 Lakeshore Road, Grosse Pointe Farms. The cost is $9 per person.

The speaker will be Kathy Kozmatka, senior manager, Tax Department, Touche Ross & Company. Her subject will be the "The Impact Of The 1988 Tax Reform Act."

Due to limited space, reservations are necessary and may be made by calling the chamber of office at 777-2741.

1987 Michigan no-lead price up first time in six years

For the first time in six years, the average annual price of self-serve no-lead gasoline in Michigan climbed in 1987. At 95.7 cents per gallon, the year's average price was 1.7 cents more than in 1986. AAA Michigan records show no-lead prices dropped steadily after peaking at an average $1.397 in 1981. The 1987 figure is 44 cents below the 1981 average. No-lead accounts for an estimated 75 percent of gasoline sales in the state.

Club to host USA Today publisher

The Women's Economic Club will host Cathleen Black, publisher of USA Today, as its luncheon speaker Wednesday, Feb. 17, at noon.

In today's business environment, it is unusual for a woman to hold a key executive position, especially as publisher of one of this nation's largest daily newspapers. To learn how a woman accomplished this, plan to attend the luncheon meeting at the Westin Hotel, Columbus Ballroom — 4th Level.

Tickets are $15 for members and $17 for guests. Tickets can be purchased through the Women's Economic Club at 963-5088.

Monahan to speak

Vice chairman of the board of Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit, Michael T. Monahan, will be the guest speaker Wednesday, Feb. 10, at 5:30 p.m. at the Detroit Chapter of the Planning Forum's dinner meeting at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club.

His topic will be "Planning for Profitability in a Changing Industry."

The public is invited. Tickets are $19 for members and $24 for non-members.

Sara Redding, back in Grosse Pointe.

A learning experience

Trip to war-torn Nicaragua gives Pointe student a glimpse of the world of Sandinistas, contras

By Peggy O'Connor Andrzejczyk

Two things are certain after Sara Redding's two-week stay in Nicaragua last month: One, after a three-times-a-day diet of tortillas and beans, she never wants to look a bean in the face again. And two, the formerly politically-unaware Sara Redding isn't politically-unaware anymore.

Redding, a Grosse Pointe South High School graduate who is a sophomore at Long Island University, got a first-hand civics lesson on Nicaragua as a member of a coffee brigade sponsored by the Nicaraguan Network. The network is a sort of world-wide manpower source, sending different brigades of volunteers to the war-torn country to help harvest export crops.

Redding heard about the Nicaraguan Network from one of her college professors, a man who had worked on earlier brigades and was now serving as a brigade organizer. She talked to her parents about it and decided to make the Jan. 3-17 trip.

"The stupid reason I decided to go was that I was going to have a long holiday break (late December through early February) and I knew that I'd get bored with that much time on my hands. But mainly, I wanted to do something on my own and I wanted to learn about the country and about what was going on there," explains the soft-spoken Redding.

Redding doesn't speak Spanish and before last month, had never picked a coffee bean. The Nicaraguan Network sent her many pamphlets and packets of information on what to do — and what not to do — as a visitor to the country. Her advisor also showed slides and included a section on Nicaragua in Redding's anthropology class.

Among the things Redding was told was to abide by both the Network's rules and by those of the farm — the upe — she'd be working on. Workers are instructed not to travel anywhere alone, not to pack any army-green clothes or to allow anyone to take photos of themselves wearing fatigues or holding weapons. Redding and her fellow brigade members were also told not to photograph the upe, government buildings or local citizens dressed in fatigues or carrying weapons. She was well-prepared to make the trip, she recalls, but still a little wary of what she'd find in Central America.

"I was a little scared before I left. Everybody was telling me that I was crazy or that I was going to get killed. But the way I looked at it, my teacher was sending me and I trusted him. And I felt that if I followed the rules, I'd be okay," Redding says.

The upe Redding worked on was about six hours outside Managua and a three-hour walk from the nearest big town, Matagalpa. The brigade had to trek into the mountains each day to pick coffee, working from 6:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. and getting an hour for lunch. Meals were the same: tortillas and beans three times a day and rice thrown in Redding posed next to a wall bearing a political slogan. She was in Granada, an historic city which remains untouched by the ravages of the war in Nicaragua.

AIRPORTEXPRESS: A MICHIGAN INNOVATION IN TRANSPORTATION TO AND FROM DETROIT METROPOLITAN AIRPORT

AirportExpress shuttle vans provide quick and convenient service to and from your doorstep. Just ask the nearly 1000 travelers who now use our service every month.

Since AirportExpress vans first began rolling down the avenues of the East suburbs, approximately forty miles east of Detroit Metro Airport in the summer of '87, our two white and red-stripe vans, along with the number of cities we serve, have multiplied. Among frequent business and pleasure travelers, the AirportExpress has gained a reputation for "cheap", reliable, hassle-free airport transportation.

And more than delivering economical, dependable, pleasant service, we arrive on time with clean equipment and drivers who are well-trained and courteous.

Understanding that the segment of the trip that we would serve could be the least predictable and most tense of the entire trip, AirportExpress set its sights to change the perception. And we've been most successful at doing just that. We don't offer food and drinks, but what we do works!

Simply call three to five days before departure for a reservation. Approximately 2 hours before your scheduled flight, an AirportExpress van greets you at your doorstep, makes one or -at the most- two stops (three stops maximum from more north cities), then takes off to Metro. If you have a reservation, upon your return, one of the AirportExpress shuttles can meet you in front of your arrival terminal within 15 to 30 minutes. In both directions, our service is punctual and pleasant with fares usually running less than half that of cab service!

AirportExpress operates 18 hours a day, seven days a week, and with that many miles behind us we've learned a lot about getting you to and from the airport. And to us making sure that every passenger will make their scheduled flight with ample time, is serious business.

Make AirportExpress your ground transportation choice, and we'll put our airport transportation talents to work for you!

Learning

at lunch time.

The weather was warm, but the workers wore pants because of the heavy insect population. Redding and the 21 other members of her group lived in one big room which had been sectioned off into three areas.

"The evenings were all our own. We talked or went to dances. And we were usually so tired after picking that we were in bed by 9 p.m.," Redding says with a laugh.

The best part of the days were the times she got to talk to the Nicaraguan people and to other brigade members. "I hadn't known what to expect about the people and the government of Nicaragua. I had this vision of '1984.' But it wasn't that way at all," she says. "There was a meeting every day where everyone could talk about whatever was on their minds. For example, the workers were in a union and they hadn't been paid in four weeks. There was talk about a strike, but they ended up not walking out after the leader pointed out to them that if they didn't stay, the coffee wouldn't get picked and they'd never get paid."

Redding said that on the whole, the Nicaraguan Network brigades were welcomed by the people. "Some people thought we were contra spies but the majority wanted us there because they just don't have the people available to pick coffee... they're all off in the war."

She spent a lot of time talking with children and other young people, Redding says, all of whom are extremely politically knowledgeable. "The kids stay in day care until they are 6, then they work in the fields until they're 15, when they go to war. More than half of the little kids I saw had those bloated stomachs from malnutrition.

"I had no idea until I got there that it was such a desperately poor country."

The people Redding spoke with were curious about all things American. They talked about music — for some reason, they're big rap music fans, she says — but concentrated on finding out about racism in America and most importantly, about making their plight known to Americans.

Redding says she felt a little used at first. After her time on the up was up, she and the group toured Managua's textile plants and hospitals. They had a sort of debriefing with personnel at the Nicaraguan Institute for Economic and Social Reform, with the Nicaraguan Committee for Solidarity for the People and with an agrarian reform group.

"They asked us a lot of questions, mainly about how we would do things on the farm and about how our unions and factories and hospitals were. But I knew before I went down there that we were going for a purpose, that we'd be asked a lot of questions.

"I was looking at this as a learning experience, a chance to take in as much information as I could. A lot of things I took with a grain of salt and a lot of stuff I just listened to because I wanted to hear both sides of the situation as much as possible," Redding explains.

What she heard from the people was that they were proud of the successes they achieved after winning independence in 1979. The Sandinista government had experienced a surge of economic growth and instituted a literacy campaign from 1980-82, but had seen progress slow with the arrival of the contras, Redding says.

"The majority of the people support the present government. They told us that it was obvious they did because since they were all armed, they could have overthrown the government long ago," she adds.

"The point they kept making with us is that if they could just keep other governments off their back, that their government — which they call a political pluralism because even they haven't been able to classify it — would start them in the right direction."

The people Redding worked with were not government officials, but field workers who resent the U.S. for sending aid to the contras because they feel that it makes their lives more difficult. That might be a simplistic view of the current political atmosphere in Nicaragua, but it is one which made an impact on Redding.

"The big thing they kept telling us is that they wanted the war to be over and for them to be independent to work out their own problems.

"I tell people back here that I am basically not a very political person but that I don't agree with the contra position. The people there don't want the contras and they are the ones who have to live there," Redding explains.

"I guess I believe that if the contras want to fight the Sandinistas, that's fine. But we should not aid them."

The trip was a success, Redding says, in that she accomplished her main objective: to learn. She returned to school this week to resume studies in marine biology and marine archeology. And to reread a book on Nicaragua which she had started before she took her trip. "I'll have to begin again because I think that I can approach it with a more open mind," she says.

"I think a lot of people are like me, unaware of what's going on in places like Nicaragua. I just try to tell them what I saw and what I felt when I was there."

ABWA will host forum on surrogates

The Grosse Pointe Branch of the American Association of University Women will sponsor a public forum on "Surrogate Parenting," on Thursday, Feb. 18.

The panel of speakers will include four outstanding participants to address this controversial subject. Each will focus on a different phase of the topic.

The meeting will begin with dinner at 6:30 p.m. in the Crystal Ballroom at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, 32 Lakeshore Road, in Grosse Pointe Farms. Dinner cost is $14. Reservations are to be made by Feb. 11 by mail only to: Judy Livingston, 620 Cadieux, Grosse Pointe, MI 48230. Checks should be payable to the Grosse Pointe Branch AAUW.

Noel P. Keane, Dearborn attorney, chief architect of surrogate contracts including those which led to the "Baby M" and "Laurie Yates" court cases, will speak on how surrogate parenting developed and requirements and legal aspects of a contract.

Dr. Ronald Zack, a Detroit area physician involved in medical screening of surrogate mothers, will cover the role of the medical community in the surrogate process.

Richard Fitzpatrick, former state legislator and sponsor of an early bill directed at regulation, will give an historical overview of regulatory efforts and the current legislative picture across the country.

Senator John F. Kelly, State Senator and member of the Senate Health Policy Committee, will discuss current legislative proposals in Michigan, their status and prospects.

The focus of the forum is to educate members and the public on surrogate parenting and proposed legislation aimed at regulation. AAUW has not taken any stand, either pro or con, on this issue.

The forum of speakers will begin at 7:45 p.m. Following their presentation there will be a 30-minute question period facilitated by a moderator. Reservations for the forum only should also be made by contacting Livingston by mail. For further information call 885-8646 after 7 p.m.

A week of sweet, neat treats for Valentine's Day '88

Dominican Consultation Center's gala party heads list of fabulous February events

The Dominican Consultation Center, a non-profit health facility which serves the metro Detroit area with a wide variety of mental health services, asks that local folks "keep their hearts in the Center" next Sunday, Feb. 14, Valentine's Day.

That's the night of the Center's third annual Valentine's Day benefit, a dinner dance at the Lochmoor Club. "Keep Your Heart in the Center," is the theme of this year's event, which begins at 6:30 p.m. The festive evening will include a gourmet dinner, open bar and dancing to the music of the Hi-Tones.

General chairpersons are Mr. and Mrs. Ronald A. Simon; committee members include Mr. and Mrs. Paul Brink, Rose Buglione, Venus Ferris, Dr. Mary Martinen and Mrs. Samuel Trupiano.

Honorary committee members for the evening are Dr. Roger AbiRagi, Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Ferris, Nadine Foley, O.P., Ph.D., Mr. and Mrs. Marcel Hage, and The Rev. and Mrs. Donald MacPherson.

Tickets are $65. For reservations or more information, call Sharon Snyder, director of community affairs, 885-2223.

... oh, lolly, lollipop

Alpha Phi sorority philanthropy chairperson Denise Cotter says "You've gotta have heart," referring to the organization's annual sale of heart-shaped lollipops, going on through Valentine's Day. This year's objective is to buy an additional CINE projector for St. John Hospital's Cardiac Catheterization Laboratory with the proceeds.

The CINE projector is used routinely to view the 35 mm film used during heart catheterization. The projector helps the cardiologist determine the nature of heart problems. It also aids the cardiovascular surgeon with the diagnosis of patients before open heart surgery.

Alpha Phi is one of the oldest sororities in the country. Its major efforts raise money nationwide for heart projects. See any Alpha Phi to buy a lollipop during the sale.

Set your heart on the Marathon:

We told you last week about the Detroit Symphony Orchestra/WQRS-FM Radio Marathon to be broadcast live from the studios of WQRS-FM 105 in the Masonic Temple next Thursday and Friday, Feb. 11 and 12. The Marathon, a joint venture of the Detroit Symphony League and the Women's Association for the Detroit Symphony Orchestra to raise funds for the DSO's Youth Outreach programs, will run from 7 a.m. Feb. 11 to 7 p.m. Feb. 12 (except for 7 to 10 p.m. Thursday).

We also told you about the hundreds of wonderful items to bid on during the auction, and the special premiums listeners can receive when they phone in their pledges.

We didn't tell you, however, about the three different designs of valentines being offered during this year's Marathon. For $15, a valentine will be mailed before Valentine's Day to that special person in your life, indicating that a contribution has been made in their honor to the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

The best way to find out more about the valentines is to call

832-4430 next Thursday and Friday to bid or pledge and help out the DSO.

Turning fat to cash:

Getting through Valentine's Day without nibbling from a box of valentine candy might not be too easy this year for Grosse Pointers Mark Andrews, WCZY-FM personality, Detroit Free Press columnist Neal Shine, WDIV-TV's Mort Crim, local businessmen David and Herbert Schervish, and Edward Deeb of the Michigan Food & Beverage Association.

If they can manage it, the sacrifice will be for a good cause: area charities such as Leader Dogs for the Blind, Michigan Cancer Foundation, Easter for each pound they lose, with the proceeds going to their favorite charities. Weigh-out day is on "We're-Not-Fat Tuesday," Feb. 16.

To date, they've lost 42 pounds. For pledge purposes, each celebrity's goal is to lose between five and 20 pounds. Donations are accepted in dollars per pound lost or in lump sums.

Pledge cards, checks or money orders (made out to the charities) can be sent to: The WW Group, Inc., 28555 Orchard Lake Road, P.O. Box 9072, Farmington Hills, Mich., 48333-9072. For more information, call 553-8555, ext. 63.

Banish blahs at Artists Market

In a bid to banish the mid-winter doldrums from downtown Detroit, the Detroit Artists Market will feature a performance "happening" on Sunday, Feb. 7, at 3 p.m. in the main gallery.

Titled "The First Time We Met," the performance was conceived and organized by Robert Martin, local artist and teacher. The event will include members of RC 22 and will present a theatrical performance of unrelated and spontaneous action with some participation by the audience.

A reception to meet the performers and discuss the work will be held immediately following the event. Admission is $2. Call 962-0337 for reservations.

The Detroit Artists Market is located at 1452 Randolph Street in downtown Detroit's Harmonie Park. It is one block southeast of the Broadway station of the Detroit People Mover. For visitors arriving by car, adjacent parking is available. The Artists Market is open daily Tuesday through Saturday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Letter from a dad

By The Rev. Robert Curry
St. Paul Evangelical Lutheran

Dear Son,
I'm writing this letter to you in our paper so that maybe another son or daughter who doesn't have a dad at home might hear some fatherly advice on the subject of gambling. Webster's Dictionary defines gambling as "1.) to play games of chance for money; 2.) to take a risk in order to gain some advantage; 3.) to bet, wager."

My first concern is that your Mother and I may be the only people telling you not to gamble. Many people do gamble. Many people have not taken this matter to the Lord for His guidance. Maybe no one else will see it as a social sin that is epidemic.

My hope is that other adults who share this same value as our family would share with you how they arrived at their position based on the word of God. But even if others do not vocalize their agreement, I will share with you from God's word on being a good steward of the resources that God has given you.

I also want you to learn about what it means to love your neighbor and help him to improve and protect his property and living. When people gamble, they are not being good stewards of their resources and if they take their neighbor's money or property, they are not trying to love and help them. I didn't always understand this.

I grew up knowing that gambling was not good and that it was not pleasing to God. With my child-like understanding, I knew not to do it at home. But I gave in to peer pressure. First we just played the games... then for chips... then, what could it hurt when it went to pennies, nickles and dimes on up?

In our catechism, we teach about God's commandment "Thou shall not steal." We share that it means "We should fear and love God so that we do not rob our neighbor of his money or property, nor bring them into our possession by unfair dealing or fraud, but help him to improve and protect his property and living."

There are many forms of cheating, that is, getting something for nothing. Betting on contests and games, playing slot machines, selling chances, taking part in raffles and lotteries are forms of gambling. Again, son, not everyone agrees with me. You will find those who see gambling as no sin, and others who qualify what is okay gambling and what is not okay gambling. I would direct you to God's word and let His truth touch your heart. And I ask you to hold on to what is good.

Part of my concern for you, son, is that you will have even more pressure to gamble than I did growing up. By the time you reach 18, you will have heard thousands of commercials by your state encouraging you to play the lottery. You will see on the news how "power" people are trying to push for casino gambling in Detroit. You will hear all kinds of rationalizations to gamble.

I would draw an analogy of the temptation to gamble to the story of Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden. The snake (Satan) made the fruit look very tempting. The question might be: Which snake will approach you? I don't care if it is a school activity, a mayor, I don't care if the state says it's okay, even if a church says it's okay. Or if someone says "It is the social thing to do." Or even if they coat it with "It is for a good cause."

There are other ways to fund good causes. There are better ways to serve God with your money. And there are more positive ways of enjoying friendships than betting.

Your concerned Dad

'Luther' auditions Feb. 6-7 Old St. John's

Auditions for the play "Luther," by John Osborne will be held at 1 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 6 and 7, at Old St. John's Church, 2120 Russell near Gratiot in Detroit, opposite Brewery Park and Historic Trinity Church. Registration is at 12:15 p.m. Saturday and 12:30 p.m. Sunday.

There are roles for 15 men and one woman; there are also several non-speaking roles and positions for technical personnel.

The play is sponsored by Triangle productions, a company founded by The Rev. Dr. David Eberhard of Historic Trinity Church, and Richard Wirth of Old St. John's. The play will tour metropolitan Detroit on weekends from April 16 through May 1. Grosse Pointe's Grace United Church on Kercheval Avenue in Grosse Pointe Park will sponsor performances on April 22 and 24.

Directing "Luther" is George Valenta of Grosse Pointe Farms. His credits include numerous acting appearances with Grosse Pointe Theatre and local and community theatres such as the backstage Dinner Theatre, Greenfield Village Players, Macomb Center for the Performing Arts, Stagecrafters and East Detroit Civic Theatre.

Producer is Suzanne Hillman, recently of Jackson Hole, Wyo., where she acted in, directed and managed numerous productions.

Osborne's "Luther" has won the Drama Critic Award for the Best Play of 1964; it received a Tony Award in 1964.

For further information on the auditions or the presentation of "Luther," call the office of Historic Trinity at 567-3100, Monday through Friday, noon to 4 p.m.

Church Calendar

Day of Prayer is March 4

Representatives from Grosse Pointe area churches met at St. James Lutheran Church Jan. 26 to plan the 101st annual observance of the World Day of Prayer. The celebration will be observed on Friday, March 4, at 1 p.m. at St. James Lutheran Church "on the Hill" in Grosse Pointe Farms. The theme of the service is "Open Doors."

All are invited to attend the service. Refreshments will follow in the church's fellowship hall.

Agape breakfast

The Women's Association of Grosse Pointe Memorial Church will hold its annual Agape Breakfast, Tuesday, Feb. 9, at 9:30 a.m. in Fellowship Hall. The breakfast prayer will be offered by Dorothy Newhouse.

Jorge Cardenas, M.D., from Santiago, Chile will be the guest speaker. Cardenas has studied psychiatry at the University of Chile and theology at Duke University, North Carolina. Currently he is treating alcoholism and drug dependence with therapy linked to church and family relationships. He also teaches at the Evangelical Theological Community of Chile, a seminary which provides theological education and pastoral training.

Grosse Pointe Memorial Church will host Cardenas for the month of February.

Greeting guests will be Joyce Edwards, president of the Women's Association. Program chair Anne Bleich will introduce the speaker, Liz Aiken and Beth Staniszewski, co-chairpersons of the Service Guild, are in charge of Food Service and table decorations.

The public is invited to attend. Call the church for reservations at 882-5330. Child care is available.

Salad buffet at 1st English

First English Lutheran Church on Vernier in Grosse Pointe Woods will hold its annual Valentine salad buffet and card party at 12:30 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 9. Cost is $6 and includes lunch and door and table prizes.

Tickets are available by calling Marilyn Weideman at 884-0963 or the church office at 884-5040.

G.P. United Church women to meet

The Women's Association of the Grosse Pointe United Church will meet at 11 a.m. Tuesday, Feb. 9, for a business meeting and luncheon. Mrs. Paul Cuolaham of Norway will discuss the Cosmopolitan Women's Club of Detroit, an organization uniting women of all nationalities in a bond of friendship and understanding.

St. James plans lunch/card party

St. James Lutheran Church on McMillan at Kercheval will present a luncheon/card party at 12:30 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 10. Cost is $5; there will be table and door prizes. Members of the community are invited to enjoy an afternoon of fellowship by making up a table of cards or any game they wish to play.

Ecumenical educators to meet

The next Ecumenical Christian Educators meeting is Friday, Feb. 5, from 9 to 11 a.m. at Assumption Greek Orthodox Church on Marter Road. Discussion topics include Vacation Bi-

Teen problems addressed

Dr. Marvin Faust, Wayne County psychiatrist who assists children and teens and their parents, will discuss the problems faced by those groups these days at presentations each Sunday during the month of February at Grosse Pointe Baptist Church, 21336 Mack Avenue in Grosse Pointe Woods.

The presentations, which include such topics as teen suicide, alcoholism, problems of single parents and other family-related issues — will take place at 9:45 a.m. each Sunday. Sessions will be preceded at 9:15 a.m. by an optional half hour of coffee, doughnuts and fellowship, and should end by 11 a.m. so that participants may attend 11 a.m. services at area churches if they desire.

There is no charge. For more information on Faust's presentations, contact the church office at 881-3343.

Believe it — without snow, not much can grow

By Ellen Probert
Special Writer

We all have quite ambivalent feelings about snow. Nothing can be more beautiful than the star-shaped forms of individual snowflake crystals or the lovely effect of falling snow in a winter landscape. Skiers and children rejoice in snow and the manufacturers of snowblowers probably do too, but most of us have quite different emotions regarding it when we have to sweep off the car or shovel the driveway.

Did you know that a shovelful of fluffy snow weighs about four pounds (wet snow is even heavier)? If you lift 10 shovels full a minute, that's like walking up three flights of stairs in one minute. If the snow is wet that is equal to running up seven flights in three minutes — and you'd have to run to get up that many in that length of time. No wonder snow shoveling is frowned upon for those with less than perfect hearts.

But the snow that blankets your garden like a white feather comforter is helping to insure green grass and beautiful flowers, lavish vegetables and verdant trees next summer.

Snow contains nitrates, phosphates and a host of other organic compounds. Some of these come from contact with the soil, others from debris blown onto soil surfaces. Even new fallen snow is not pure water. It contains nuclei around which flakes first crystalize. These same drifts that are protecting dormant plants now, when melted, will yield essential moisture and nutrients to next summer's crop. Indeed, snow is the poor man's fertilizer.

With air trapped between each snowflake, snow provides excellent insulation. Beneath a few feet of it the ground may be many degrees warmer than the air above it. Daily fluctuations of air temperature do not penetrate snow and the cycle of freezing and thawing does not exist. A deep snow coming early and remaining all season will prevent heaving and also act as a mulch for perennial plants, protecting their dormant crowns.

One of the best times of the year for major corrective pruning of trees is during late winter. When leaves are not on the tree, the branch structure can easily be seen and evaluated, as can dying or damaged branches. New growth which develops shortly after spring pruning will quickly hide winter pruning cuts and spring growth speeds healing wounds.

If you are too impatient to get on with your summer vegetable garden to wait any longer you holes punched in the bottom for drainage, filled with houseplant soil can be planted with about 12 seeds per can. Carrots like good light in a south window if possible. Don't forget to water them.

The Gardener's Shed

might try having a kitchen-window sill garden in cans. There is nothing really new about growing vegetables indoors in containers, but, unfortunately people often start with one of the more difficult vegetables, then become discouraged and give up.

But there are some easy crops that can give such good results that even a beginner can be proud of them.

The easiest vegetables to grow in containers are the smallest varieties of carrots. Carrot tops make lacy-looking houseplants as pretty as ferns. A coffee can painted a bright color with a few Little Finger and Short 'n Sweet are two good choices of varieties to grow. As your carrots grow, thin out a few of them so the remaining ones can grow to full size without becoming misshapen. The thinnings are good to eat.

Radishes are as easy as carrots. The procedure is about the same and there are many varieties to choose from that will give you radishes of different sizes and colors. Some of them are ready to harvest in about 20 days. If you plant seeds every two weeks or so you will assure a continuous supply. Dwarf lettuce is another possibility and cherry tomatoes are also relatively easy to grow as container plants. Garden Cress is good too and is the fastest crop — ready to pick only 10 days or so after the seeds sprout.

In the medieval flower calendar in Europe the flower for February is the primrose, while the Chinese flower calendar lists the peach blossom, symbol of longevity and of marriage. The Japanese flower calendar says February's flower is the plum blossom.

Flowers seem to have their greatest appeal in mid-winter and exotic tropical flowers even more so. Be sure to take note of the orchid show to be presented by the Detroit Garden Center on Feb. 20 and 21, with the beautiful blooms displayed by Ron Ciesinski of Taylor.

Right now the winter Flower Show is waiting to delight you in the Anna Scripps Whitcomb Conservatory on Belle Isle. The island may be covered with snow but in the warm, humid atmosphere of the Conservatory a marvelous display of Cyclamen, Cinerarias, Calceolarias and Primroses is a delight. The display will continue for about six weeks.

There has been quite a lot said pro and con about the efficiency of vitamin C in warding off winter colds. It is true that of all the nutrients in food, Vitamin C is the most vulnerable to depletion when foods are stored, but is also able to counteract health problems that rise to a peak during the dark days of late winter.

Without knowing what vitamins used it correctly. In late winter and early spring the boiled the inner bark of the spruce, rich in vitamin C, to make a tea and watched for the early sprouts of herbs and greens.

It has been discovered also that vitamin C lowers cholesterol in the blood. Many plants contain large amounts of vitamin C. Did you know, for instance, that violets have more vitamin C than oranges do?

Andrea Mitchell

NBC News correspondent Andrea Mitchell will speak at the third installment of the Bon Secours Assistance League's 1988 Celebrity Series Thursday, Feb. 11, at 11 a.m. at Parcels Auditorium, Mack Avenue at Vernier Road. Tickets are $12 each and may be purchased at the door.

An award-winning journalist, Mitchell joined NBC News in 1978, covering regulatory agencies. As energy correspondent beginning in 1979, she reported on the Energy Department, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission and energy legislation on Capitol Hill.

Since 1981, Mitchell has been NBC's White House Correspondent. Her special reports on budget negotiations, nuclear power and energy costs have been featured on NBC Nightly News.

Ibex presents Hammann as 'Old Bach'

James Hammann

Ibex, a local fine arts club, will present a special organ concert at 3 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 7, in the sanctuary of Grosse Pointe Memorial Church. Concert organist James Hammann will appear in his one-man show titled "Old Bach." There is no admission to the concert.

Hammann is music director and organist at Jefferson Avenue Presbyterian Church. He is also conductor of the Southeastern Michigan Choral Society and the Tecumseh Orchestra. Hammann holds degrees in organ performance from Ohio Wesleyan University and the University of Michigan.

For his show, Hammann dons an 18th century costume and through dramatization and music, tells the story of the life of Johann Sebastian Bach. His performance on the pipe organ includes the Toccata and Fugue in D; selections for the harpsichord are from the Well Tempered Clavier and the Notebook for Anna Magdalena.

For more information on the concert, call Linda Smith at 822-7499.

The Theatre Arts Club will present the second show of its current season on Friday, Feb. 19, at 1 p.m. at the Players Playhouse on Jefferson Avenue. The play is John Pielmeier's "Agnes of God," to be directed by guest director Nancy W. Sutor of the Grosse Pointe Theatre.

Refreshments will be served following the performance by Gail Weber and Armita Volkens and their committee.

The cast includes Julia Keim as Dr. Martha Livingstone and Joann Koch as the Mother Superior, Miriam Ruth. Guest performer Laura Hagle will play Agnes. Hagle is the 1985 recipient of the Eva Woodbridge Victor Scholarship given annually by Theatre Arts to a Wayne State University senior theatre student.

Co-producing the play are Donna Ridella and Kathy Bilotti. Margaret Johnson is stage manager and Louise Dexter is book holder.

Valentine's Day classes at Garden Center

The Detroit Garden Center will present a pair of classes in conjunction with Valentine's Day. The center is located in historic Moross House, 1460 East Jefferson, one-half mile east of the Renaissance Center.

On Tuesday, Feb. 9, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., students will weave, dye and decorate a traditional Swedish heart basket with the help of instructor Sue Guillaumin of Grosse Pointe. Cost of the workshop is $15 for members, $13 for non-members. Phone reservations must be made by Feb. 8; call the center at 259-6363.

A Children's Valentine's Day flower arrangement class will be followed by a Teddy Bear Picnic for children 5 and older with instructors Loraine Lieder and Jacky Beck. Cost is $5 per child or adult, $3 per family ($5 for non-members). Refreshments will be served and children are asked to bring teddy bears.

Call the center for reservations by Feb. 11.

The annual meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Children's Home of Detroit was held on Thursday, Jan. 21. Outgoing president Russell A. McNair, Jr. handed over the gavel to the new president Nancy A. Nicholson of Grosse Pointe Shores.

The other new officers are William C. Rands III, first vice president; Beverly A. Curtiss, second vice president; Lynn F. Alandt, recording secretary; Lynn J. Scoville, assistant recording secretary; Mary T. Galloway, corresponding secretary; and Jane B. Vanderzee, assistant recording secretary. George J. Reindel III will continue his responsibilities as treasurer, assisted by newly elected assistant treasurers Elsie H. MacKethan and William E. Holmer. All are Grosse Pointe residents.

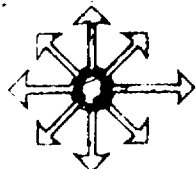

Children's Home of Detroit is a non-profit, residential treatment center located on Cook Road and has been serving youth since 1836.

Lending a hand

... to the Grosse Pointe North High School Choir in its effort to raise the $70,000 needed to send the group to New York for a performance, is the Lakeshore Optimist Club. That's club president John Turcotte (left) with North choir director Benjamin Walker. The Optimists presented Walker with a check for $500 at their Jan. 20 meeting. There's more to come, says club member Mike Martin, as some members are working with the choir to help raise additional funds for the trip to the Big Apple for an April 17 performance at the Lincoln Center. To help the Optimists who are working with the choir, or to find out more information on the group, call Mike Martin at 445-0491.

Deeplands Garden Club

The Deeplands Garden Club will meet Monday, Feb. 8, at noon at the home of Peg Stocking. The program will be an exchange of ideas and information from recent publications pertaining to gardening.

Grosse Pointe Unit, Herb Society of America

The Grosse Pointe Unit of The Herb Society of America will meet Tuesday, Feb. 9, at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Doris Woerner. Cindy Carson and Elaine Yates will assist with refreshments.

Following the business meeting, Evelyn Snyder will report on her signature herb, "Cardamom Elettaria." Ann McAndrew will present the program, which includes slides of the Ware Collection of Blaschka Glass Models that are permanently displayed at the Harvard Botanical Museum in Cambridge, Mass. Popularly known as the "Glass Flowers," they were created from 1887-1936 near Dresden, Germany by the father and son artists/naturalists, Leopold and Rudolph Blaschka. The collection is comprised of 2,000 pieces and was a gift from Mrs. Elizabeth Ware and her daughter, Mary Lee Ware.

G.P. Woman's Club

The Discussion and Garden Group of the Grosse Pointe Woman's Club will meet at 1 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 10, at the home of chairman Frances Ahee. Herbiologist/iridologist Debra Cole-Ryding will present a program on "Iridology." She has her own radio show on WJZZ called "New Dimensions." Tea will be served following the program. For members only reservations, call Ahee at 881-4793.

Lakeside Palette Club

The Lakeside Palette Club will meet Tuesday, Feb. 9, at 7:30 p.m. at the St. Clair Shores Civic Arena, 20000 Stephens. Visitors and guests are welcome. The program will be a demonstration of matting and framing by Detroit Paint & Color Co.

Toastmasters Int'l

Toastmasters International, a speech club, will host its next meeting Monday, Feb. 8, at 7:30 p.m. on the upper level of the Grosse Pointe Central Library. The meeting will feature speakers whose verbal communication skills range from someone who is giving their first public speech to articulate corporate executives.

The general public is welcome to play an active role in the club's meetings, held the second and fourth Monday of every month. Toastmasters International is a non-profit organization dedicated to helping men and women overcome their fear of speaking in public.

For additional information, call club president Michael Nichols at 247-5159 (evenings).

G.P. Crafts Guild

The regular meeting of the Grosse Pointe Crafts Guild will be held Wednesday, Feb. 10, at 7:30 p.m. in the upstairs meeting room of the Grosse Pointe Central Library.

Crafts Guild meetings are held the second Wednesday of the month. Anyone interested in any craft is invited to attend. For more information, call Guild president Nancy Thompson at 881-3687 or Betsy Martin at 886-1827.

G.P. Rose Society to meet Feb. 10

The Grosse Pointe Rose Society will hold the first meeting of the new year on Wednesday, Feb. 10, at 7:45 p.m. at the Neighborhood Club. Rose Society president Forrest Geary invites all who are interested in growing roses to attend.

Guest speaker will be Warren's James Hill, a premier grower and exhibitor in the Great Lakes area. He will stress the importance of selecting rose varieties which will grow well in this area.

Welcome Wagon events are scheduled

The February meeting of the Grosse Pointe and Harper Woods Welcome Wagon Club will be held Thursday, Feb. 4, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. Lunch will be followed by a Grosse Pointe Historical Society presentation titled "A Peek at the Past and The Pointe of Preservation."

Cost is $15. Babysitting is available. For reservations, call 822-5943 or 885-6237.

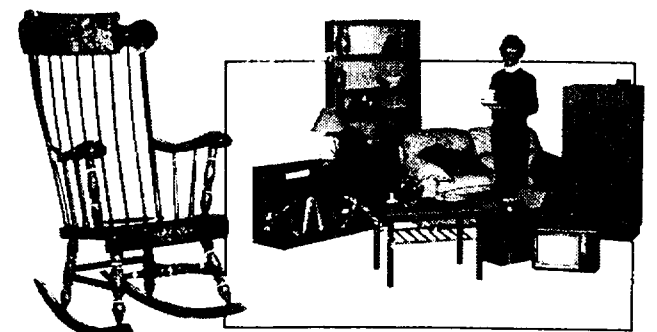

On Feb. 18, the group will go to the D.C. Watt Restaurant for lunch. For reservations, call 881-2868 or 885-9451.

For information on any of the group's activities, call 881-1017.

Yachtswomen

The Yachtswomen will meet Thursday, Feb. 11, at 8 p.m. at Great Lakes Yacht Club, 23900 Jefferson, St. Clair Shores. Hostesses will be Marjorie Huggins of Roseville, Nona Smith of Berkley, Kathy Tarrant of Grosse Pointe Park and Anne VanDale of St. Clair Shores.

February is the month the Yachtswomen traditionally honor long term members and welcome those who have joined during the past year.

Shores Garden Club

Amy Rowe will open her Lincoln Road home Friday, Feb. 5, for the monthly meeting of the Grosse Pointe Shores Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association. Co-hostesses Barbara Cammett, Clara Mack and Trude Schmidt will feature herbs in the preparation of food for the luncheon: pasta with herb sauce and salad with herbs. The use of herbs in the luncheon will highlight the subject of Mary Krueger's talk, "How to Grow Culinary Herbs." Krueger is a member of the National Herb Society.

G.P. Farm and Garden

Members of the Grosse Pointe Farm and Garden Club will meet at 11:30 a.m. Monday, Feb. 8, at Moross House, 1460 East Jefferson, home of the Detroit Garden Center. Following a luncheon hosted by Mrs. Warren Johnson, Mrs. John Tompkins and Mrs. Richard Bachman, a program featuring slides of the flora and fauna surrounding her own summer home region in Maine, will be presented by Mrs. Daniel Clifford, another club member.

Woods Garden Club

Members of the Grosse Pointe Woods Garden Club met at noon Wednesday, Feb. 3, in the Hollywood Road home of Mrs. Joe Craig. Mrs. Frank Bromley was co-hostess. A short program followed the business meeting.

English Speaking Union

The first program of the year for The English Speaking Union, Detroit Branch, will feature Dr. Robert Dunning from Taunton, Somerset, England, for dinner and discussion Wednesday, Feb. 10, at the Fox and Hounds, Bloomfield Hills.

Dunning will be traveling in the U.S. as an English Speaking Union "source list speaker." He will address seven branches in Region VI East. His topic for the meeting will be "Glastonbury."

Educated at the universities of Bristol and Exeter, Dunning is a fellow of the Society of Antiquaries of London and the Royal Historical Society. He has been the Somerset County historian since 1967, is a trustee of Glastonbury Abbey and has authored or edited 10 books on Somerset and English local history.

Senior Men's Club

The Senior Men's Club of Grosse Pointe will meet at 11 a.m. Tuesday, Feb. 9, at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, 32 Lakeshore Road. Speaker will be Leonard N. Simins; his topic will be "It Was Great While It Lasted." Presenter will be Kenneth M. Wheeler.

Senior men of Grosse Pointe are welcome to attend. They — and club members who have not yet made reservations for the meeting — may reserve a spot by calling Ed Boss at 886-0231 or Pete Corsigliella at 773-0519.

St. Clair Shores honors Assumption Church's Fr. Kavadas

Father Demetrios S. Kavadas, pastor of the Assumption Greek Orthodox Church in St. Clair Shores/Grosse Pointe Woods, was recently honored by the city council of St. Clair Shores.

Mayor Ted Wahby presented Kavadas with a proclamation recognizing his support and contributions to the annual "Cops for Kids" program. Wahby noted that Father Kavadas' untiring efforts extended not only to his congregation at Assumption Church, but to the metropolitan Detroit community. His ability to provide spiritual inspiration and guidance to over one thousand parish families while participating in diverse civic projects was called truly exemplary.

Assumption Greek Orthodox Church is one of the 10 most active churches in the Archdiocese. Kavadas has been pastor for 25 years. Following his ordination to the priesthood in 1957, he served the St. George Greek Orthodox Church in Manchester, N.H. for five years and then came to Assumption.

He holds numerous national leadership positions in civic and ecumenical arenas including the National Chairman of the Archdiocese's Department of Religious Education for Sunday School Curriculum and the Diocesan Director of Religious Education. He has written numerous books and articles on philosophical and theological concerns.

Born in Chios, Greece, Kavadas came to the United States in 1950 on a scholarship from the University of Athens to attend Tufts University in Medford, Mass. He continued his education, majoring in religious education and minoring in child psychology, at Holy Cross Theological School, Harvard University and Boston University. He holds a Bachelor of Arts in theology, a Bachelor of divinity degree and Master's in sacred theology.

Take a look at Taize music Feb. 7

The East Region Catholic Musicians will present a concert/demonstration of the music of Taize on Sunday, Feb. 7, at 3 p.m. in St. Ronald Church, 17701 East 15 Mile Road in Fraser. A social will follow. There is no admission charge and all are welcome.

Taize is a tiny village in the hills of Eastern France near Cluny where, about 50 years ago, a group of brothers began an ecumenical community centered around prayer. As news spread of this community, people came from far and near to join in prayer. A need arose for a form of music that would be ecumenical, universal and one in which people could actively participate.

So was born the Taize style, short musical phrases which can be memorized by everyone. Cantor, choir and instrumental parts surround and color the community's song, creating a very prayerful atmosphere.

Soup makes the transition from lunch to supper

The All-American Favorite 'Soup-Sandwich' combo is well represented in this combination of Tomato Cabbage Soup and Burgundy Burger making a balanced nutritious combination and with the addition of Apple Crumble and a salad takes it from a luncheon to a dinner menu as well. Enjoy!

Tomato Cabbage Soup Burgundy Burgers Apple Crumble

TOMATO CABBAGE SOUP

A wonderful blending of flavors makes this soup outstanding. It is snappy and tart and truly low calorie and takes only 20 minutes to prepare plus being most inexpensive.

1 can (48 oz.) tomato juice
7 Tbsp. lemon juice
2 Tbsp. instant minced onion
1/2 cup water
2 thin slices of lemon
2 env. instant beef broth
1/2 tsp. oregano
1/2 tsp. basil
2 cups shredded cabbage
1 Tbsp. sugar

Combine tomato juice, lemon juice, onion, water, beef broth, oregano and basil in a large sauce pan and bring to boiling.

Add cabbage; cover and simmer 20 minutes (cabbage will be crisp-tender) or until cabbage is done as you like it. Stir in sugar. Remove lemon peel before serving to 6. Three whole cloves stuck into each lemon slice gives a decided piquancy.

Calories, about 75 per serving.
Cholesterol, 0.

BURGUNDY BURGERS

A regal treatment that gives an old favorite a real party flavor.

3/4 lb. very lean ground beef
2 green onions, minced
1 tsp. minced garlic
2 tsp. finely minced fresh ginger

1/4 cup soy sauce
3 Tbsp. dry burgundy
1 Tbsp. water

to a boil, spoon over burger and serve to 3.

Calories per serving, about 244. Cholesterol, about 70.

Elegant Eating

APPLE CRUMBLE

Abundantly endowed with healthful ingredients this dessert should rate high on your meal planning curriculum while apples are most reasonable in price.

4 to 5 cups apples, peeled, cored and sliced
1/3 cup brown sugar

1/4 cup regular wheat germ
1/4 cup unsifted flour
3/4 tsp. cinnamon
1/4 tsp. nutmeg
2 Tbsp. margarine
Whipped topping (optional)

Combine dry ingredients. Stir well to blend. Cut in margarine with pastry blender until crumbly. Spray casserole with non-stick coating. Arrange apples in casserole, sprinkle sugar which has been blended with cinnamon and nutmeg over top of apples. Bake in preheated 350° oven 30 minutes or until top is brown and apples tender. Serve with a dollop of whipped cream, if desired. Makes 6 servings.

Calories, about 173 per serving. Cholesterol, 0.

Pride of the Pointes

Jacqueline E. Fox

Philosophy in Education and Counseling from the University of Michigan at commencement ceremonies Dec. 20. Fox, who is the daughter of Stella Barbara Fox, earned a bachelor of arts degree in psychology from Oakland University in 1976 and a master of arts in guidance and counseling from OU in 1977.

Fox's dissertation was titled "Dance in a Sightless World: A Phenomenology," and was a descriptive study about the world of five visually-impaired children and their behavior through the experience of dance. She completed her work toward her Ph.D. in eight years, despite suffering two major illnesses. Fox is currently writing a book about the concerns women with chronic illnesses have as they try to maintain quality living. She plans to lecture to groups about the welfare and development of visually-impaired children and will do some post-doctoral work at Harvard University this summer.

Among December degree recipients at Central Michigan University were Robert P. DiLabio of Grosse Pointe, bachelor of science in business administration; Kimberly A. Kraus of Grosse Pointe Woods, bachelor of science; Terese L. Francis of Grosse Pointe Shores, bachelor of applied arts; Judy A. Thams of Grosse Pointe Shores, bachelor of science in business administration; Jill M. Davenport of Grosse Pointe Woods, master of science in administration; Stephen O. Holth of Grosse Pointe Woods, bachelor of applied arts; and from Harper Woods, Robert A. Bova and Susan J. Eisen-gruber, bachelors of science in business administration.

Among Albion College students who have chosen to spend the upcoming spring semester in off-campus study are Melissa Peslar, daughter of Hope Peslar of Grosse Pointe Farms and Doran Peslar of Dublin, Ohio, and Matthew Terry, son of Robert and Gail Terry of Grosse Pointe Woods. Terry, a 1985 Grosse Pointe North High School graduate, will spend the spring semester studying in Washington, D.C. He is a junior majoring in economics and management. Peslar, a 1985 Grosse Pointe South High School graduate, will participate in an off-campus internship through the Philadelphia Center. She is a junior majoring in communications.

Among St. Olaf College students participating in the St. Olaf International Studies Program this semester is sophomore Tyler Steben of Grosse Pointe, who is enrolled in the literary course "Irish Literature in Its Cultural Setting." As part of the course, students live in cottages in the Irish coastal village of Killybegs and join Irish families for evening meals.

Among students enrolled at Heidelberg College, Tiffin, Ohio, this fall is Brian Schweitzer of Grosse Pointe Woods. Schweitzer is a Grosse Pointe North High School graduate.

Grosse Pointe A Unique Community

Architectural Diversity As the great variety of home sizes and styles suggests, growth has continued slowly over many years. It continues even today. Old estates are subdivided for building contemporary homes, making the mansions that still survive (and many do) all the more treasured by their owners and tradition-minded residents. At the same time, the area includes homes of just about every style and size—from townhouses, two-family units and other small homes to gracious English Tudors, colonials, executive mansions, contemporary ranch styles and a variety of modern designs, including condominiums.

This diversity has helped make Grosse Pointe attractive to all who value well-maintained quality which far exceeds its price.

Put Number 1 to work for you.®

Questions and Answers Help To Explain Tax Law Changes

Taxpayers who itemize will find many changes due to the Tax Reform Act of 1986. The Internal Revenue Service has compiled the following questions and answers about itemized deductions.

- Q. Will I still be able to take a deduction for medical and dental expenses?
- A. Yes, but only deduct the unreimbursed part that is more than 7.5 percent of your adjusted gross income.
- Q. What interest deductions am I allowed to take on my home?
- A. Generally, if you itemize deductions on Schedule A, Form 1040, you can deduct all mortgage interest on your principal residence and a second residence for all mortgages secured on or before August 16, 1986. On mortgages secured after that date, you will generally be limited to deducting interest only to the extent that the loans are not more than the purchase price plus the cost of improvements.
- Q. Can I deduct loan interest on a mortgage secured after August 16, 1986, that is in excess of the purchase price plus the cost of improvements?
- A. Yes, if the mortgage interest results from borrowing money for qualified medical or qualified educational purposes.

- Q. Will I still be able to deduct the interest on my car loan and credit cards?
- A. The deduction for personal interest will be phased out. The deduction will be limited to: 65 percent in 1987, 40 percent in 1988, 20 percent in 1989, 10 percent in 1990 and zero percent thereafter. For this purpose, any interest that you cannot deduct because of the home mortgage limitation, discussed in the preceding two questions, will be considered personal interest.
- Q. Can I still deduct sales taxes?
- A. No, taxpayers can no longer deduct state and local sales taxes.
- Q. Are there limitations on deducting employee business expenses?
- A. Yes. Except for reimbursed expenses and moving expenses, employee business expenses will generally be deductible as a miscellaneous itemized deduction and only to the extent that they exceed two percent of adjusted gross income.
- Q. Can I take a deduction for tax return preparation?
- A. Yes. However, miscellaneous deductions such as tax planning expenses, union dues and subscriptions to trade magazines are only deductible to the extent that they exceed two percent of adjusted gross income.

- Q. Are there taxpayers who must itemize deductions?
- A. Yes. Some taxpayers must itemize deductions. For example, when married taxpayers file separate returns and one spouse itemizes deductions, then the other spouse must also itemize.
- Q. Can I continue to take a charitable deduction without itemizing?
- A. No. A charitable contribution is only deductible for taxpayers who itemize.
- Q. How are moving expenses deducted?
- A. Moving expenses of an employee or self-employed individual are now allowed only as an itemized deduction. This deduction is not subject to the new two percent of adjusted gross income limitation.
- Q. Are adoption expenses still deductible?
- A. Adoption expenses are not deductible. Adoption expenses for a child with special needs were allowable as an itemized deduction under prior law but can no longer be deducted.

WORKING STUDENTS:

When you fill out your Form W-4, "Employee's Withholding Allowance Certificate," remember: If you can be claimed on your parent's or another person's tax return, you generally cannot be exempt from income tax withholding. To get it right, read the instructions that came with your Form W-4.

Two Jobs in 1987? Check Social Security Withheld

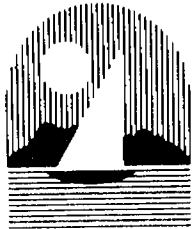

Those who worked for two or more employers during 1987 and received wages totaling more than $43,800 should check to see if they are entitled to a credit for excess social security tax withheld, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

Social security tax withheld in excess of $3,131.70 can be applied as a credit against income tax only if the individual had more than one employer. IRS notes that those who file joint returns may not add the social security tax withheld from one spouse's income to the amount withheld from the other spouse to determine the credit. The credit must be figured separately for each spouse.

Workers who had only one employer and had more than $3,131.70 withheld may not claim the excess as a credit against their income tax. The employer should adjust this over-collection, the IRS explains.

Grosse Pointe
A Unique Community

A Cultural Cornucopia Appreciation of the arts begins at an early age for Grosse Pointe children. The public library, a division of the Grosse Pointe Public School System, offers, at no cost, a variety of children's reading programs at its three locations.

For adults, the library programs range from travel films to informative presentations on subjects of current interest. These, too, are free to residents of all the Grosse Pointes.

Another great source of local culture is the beautiful War Memorial Center, the former mansion of the Russell A. Alger family. With its subsequently added ballroom and theater overlooking Lake St. Clair, the center is a community attraction that rivals the many private clubs in the area. Here—open to all residents—are offered art classes and exhibits, lectures, concerts, plays, ballet and social dancing instruction, and children's theater, as well as membership in a long list of special-interest clubs whose focus is either cultural, informative or just plain fun.

A more recent addition to public property is the Edsel and Eleanor Ford House. Designed by architect Albert Kahn and supported by a $15 million endowment, this gracious replica of an English manor house is now open for tours and is used for meetings, fund-raising events and several series of "house" concerts.

THIS MAGNIFICENT RESIDENCE is the picture of elegance. Ample use of rich paneling hand carved stone fireplaces and detailed plaster moldings make this home impossible to duplicate. A long list of major improvements and renovations since 1986 assure the new owner long term trouble free enjoyment. Consider the new heating system, a new three and a half car attached garage, new storm windows and screens, a new roof, extensive decorating and refinishing of hardwood floors. This beautiful estate also features a large privacy fenced yard... perfect for that tennis court, swimming pool or... sell it off for another home to be built. There is a lot more to this story so why not call for additional details.

Grosse Pointe
A Unique Community

A Romantic Past As a Grosse Pointe resident, you'll walk upon grounds that were once the swamp, marsh and meadow haunts of deer, buffalo and beaver. It was this profusion of wildlife—plus fish from the 460-square-mile Lake St. Clair—that attracted the French farmers who first settled the area in 1701.

During the century that they fished, farmed and traded with the local Indians, many legends began. And many infamous locations were indelibly named: Fox Creek, graveyard of the Fox Indian nation; Bloody Run, where a company of British soldiers from Fort Detroit were ambushed and killed.

From Pristine to Prosperous After a brief period under British rule, the area began its history as an American settlement. Its beauty and bounty made it an ideal resort area for families from the growing city of Detroit. Between 1875 and 1925, Grosse Pointe became the elegant summer residence—and then permanent home—of families who had amassed fortunes in lumber and automobiles. In the midst of the lavish mansions, farm cottages and resort ambience, there gradually grew a year-round community of quality homes for families from all walks of life.

Tax Questions Answered by Phone Service

Tele-Tax, a recorded telephone tax information service provided by the Internal Revenue Service, is available again this year to taxpayers who have tax questions.

Tele-Tax offers information on about 150 tax subjects such as changes in the law, filing requirements, itemized deductions, tax credits, dependents, and adjustments to income, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

Taxpayers can use the Tele-Tax system by calling local telephone numbers found in their tax packages; Publication 1163, the Tele-Tax brochure; or in IRS Publication 910, Guide to Free Tax Services.

Push-button (tone signaling) phone users can use Tele-Tax by calling the number listed and listening to the recorded instructions on how to use the system. By pressing telephone buttons which correspond to the appropriate topic numbers listed along with the phone numbers, callers can then listen to the tax information they desire. This service is available year-round, 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

Rotary (dial) or push-button (pulse dial) phone users should call the special rotary telephone numbers listed in their tax packages, Publication 1163, or IRS Publication 910 and tell the IRS operator the number of the topic they wish to hear. This service is available year-round Monday through Friday during business hours.

In addition, a toll-free number is available for those taxpayers who are outside the local dialing area of the sites listed. The number, 1-800-554-4477, is available for push button telephone users 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, and for rotary phone users, Monday through Friday during business hours.

Taxpayers can also use Tele-Tax to find out the status of their refunds. Taxpayers who have not received refunds within 10 weeks of the date they filed their tax returns can call the Automated Refund Information System at 1-800-554-4477 and check on the status of their refunds. Individuals using Automated Refund Information should have a copy of their tax returns available since they will need to know the first social security number shown on the return, the filing status and exact amount of the refund.

Instructions for using the Automated Refund Information System are also provided in the tax package, Publication 910 and the Tele-Tax brochure. This system will be available after March 15, 1988.

Publication 910 and Publication 1163 are available by using the order form in the tax package, by writing to the IRS, or by calling the IRS forms number 1-800-424-3676. The free Tele-Tax brochures are also available at many local libraries.

Service is available to push-button (tone signaling) users Monday through Friday from 6:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. (Area hours may vary.) Rotary (dial)/push-button (pulse dial) service is available Monday through Friday during business hours.

Love it now

With the recent death to a North Farmington High School basketball player, I wonder how many people are sitting back and collecting their thoughts.

It's funny how one minute, a dream of scoring two points in a first varsity game can suddenly turn into the most final thing — death. I for one am pondering about my prep career and am counting the good fortunes that went with it all.

It's an unfortunate circumstance that many of us will use as a precedent. Why must something like this happen to make athletes aware of the ramifications of sports? I am struck by the entire death of the player who collapsed after playing two minutes of basketball. Two minutes. Two minutes of a dream that ended so abruptly.

A young man who was well-liked. An athlete who was content with playing basketball and took everything that went with not being a starter, such as seeing a lot of time on the bench.

Tragedy. A shame. A lifelong dream shattered in seconds. I'm sure the death of Matthew Leiter, 17, will bring North Farmington together, but it should also be a wake-up slap in the face to every athlete to love the sport, as well as life, now — for tomorrow that dream may be just a memory for everyone else.

To me, death is horrifying and living each minute is now a priority. Being thankful and happy seems to go unmentioned all too often, but now maybe it's time for all athletes to realize that without the God-given ability, you wouldn't be able to play basketball, football, soccer or anything else. It's a privilege only some people have. Don't take it for granted, and enjoy each shot, kick, or hit.

All too often athletes assume that there is a tomorrow. If you lose, there's always next year, but for Leiter, tomorrow never arrived. But, a dream was fulfilled and each moment on a field or court, a player should count his blessings for being able to walk off it and wake to a bright sun.

Many athletes walk onto a field and a few hours later walk off. The only displeasure they may have is to rehash the loss. Being involved in sports, from the outside looking in, I see many disheartening things, but never before have I witnessed a death — and I don't want to either.

Two-way street

In the Pointes there are great athletes with great expectations and great ideas. We have to ride the intelligence of these kids because they are the future. I only hope that they are around to share in the beauty of the world. Most of them seem content with the athletic production they've given, but they can't stop there. They have got to realize their potential and keep in mind the avenues open to them. Sports is a large part of high school. Sports is a two-way street. It provides young people with leadership, companionship and sportsmanship. And at the same token, the kids provide enthusiasm and portray a special ability.

Win, lose, or draw, athletes have got to be happy with opportunity. They have got to play every bounce, every hit, and every ball. They've got to run hard and play rugged. They've got to appreciate an opponent's abilities as much as their own. They've got to love playing and when the final buzzer sounds, be glad they made it through one more contest.

Sure, the bumps and bruises are all part of it, but taking it all for granted may cause more scars than bumps.

I didn't know Matthew Leiter, but I know the Grosse Pointe athletes. I haven't gotten very close to most of them, but losing them would strike too close to home. I hope each one of them are happily engaged in athletics, or whatever else they love, but in the morning I hope they realize how lucky they are to wake up to the sun and get back to the court or field.

Three-point shot lands mixed emotions

"I think it's good for high school basketball... When you're down with a few minutes left, you start looking for the line, but when it isn't a factor, people shouldn't look for it." — ULS forward John Yancey.

By Rob Fulton
 Sports Editor

The technique is different than booting a field goal, but hitting a field from 19-foot-9-inches gets a team the same result — three points.

Up until the start of the 1987-88 high school basketball season, the only way a player could score three points on one play would be to convert a free throw after cancelling a two-point basket. But, thanks to the three-point line, one toss of the ball can get you three points.

It's the first full season for the three-point line on the high school level, and for the most part, South, North and University Liggett School are not ecstatic over the line being painted on the hard floor, but it's comforting to know the line is there.

Although ULS utilizes the challenge of shooting it more than North or South, the three-point acts as a security blanket for the Grosse Pointe teams. It's not something that is abused, but with it comes more excitement, a new basketball dimension, and a chance to stay in the game.

"I think it's great," said South point guard Chris Caldwell, who has helped his team hit 41 percent (10-24) of its three-point shots. "It takes away a big lead and adds excitement to the game from start to finish."

South's game plan doesn't call for the three-point shot, but if necessary, Coach George Petrouleas will turn the page of his playbook and go to it.

"We've incorporated it into a few plays, but nothing dominant," he said. "In close games, it's nice to go to, but we try to keep away from it."

Petrouleas keeps the three-point in the bank, but if it weren't for the installation of the shot, his book would be filled with less pages — and he wouldn't mind that.

"It takes away from the kids working on ball handling, passing and shooting," he said. The line hasn't changed the complexion of Petrouleas' game, but he does try to get the kids to ignore it.

"The first thing the kids do when they come out for a practice is work on the fundamentals," he said. "We don't put any emphasis on shooting from there. When we use it we try to use it effectively."

Chris Gramling has been the Devils' high-point man by hitting 57 percent (4 for 7) of his three-point shots.

Three-point shots are rare for South, but at ULS there is a higher frequency of attempting a three-pointer.

"At first I had some reservations, but now I really like it," said ULS coach Chuck Wright. "It adds a lot of fun to the game. It's an exciting play because it rewards outside shooting and opens up the court more."

The Knights, led by John Yancey's 11, three-pointers, have made 25 three-point buckets because they have a few more people geared into the three-point offense. Tarik Lester has hit eight, and Kevin Crociata and Kandia Milton have laced three for the Knights.

"I think it's good for high school basketball," said Yancey. "When you're down with a few minutes left, you start looking for the line, but when it isn't a factor, people shouldn't look for it."

Although Wright has the guns to shoot the ball, he agrees with Petrouleas that some of the kids may miss the basic fundamentals.

"On lower levels, yes it can hurt kids trying to learn the game," he said. "I see the little kids throwing up long set shots just to try and make a three-pointer. They need to learn a jump shot from closer in."

At North, Coach George Olman doesn't concern himself with it.

"If we shoot some, it's unintentional," he said. "We have kids who can shoot it, but they aren't concerned about it. It's not a part of our offense."

Even if the game is on the line, Olman still prefers to get a quick two.

"It adds pressure to a kid if you design a play that he's supposed to shoot," he said. "We don't want to put that kind of pressure on ourselves. We'll work the ball around in that situation and when the guy puts it up, he puts it up."

They may not shoot it often, but when they do, the ball seems to be in Steve Szymanski's hands. Szymanski, who has hit for 50 percent, enjoys the thrill of the three-pointer.

"I like shooting it because it gets me pumped up," he said. "Knowing it's there is comforting, because it can put you right back into the game, or hitting a couple quick shots can bury a team."

A couple quick shots can break a game wide open, but having to defense it becomes more of a task, and Olman holds the three-point play accountable for the possible increase in man-to-man defense.

"The three-point shot may be a determining factor for why there may be some teams playing a man-to-man," he said. "For some teams it doesn't matter, but if they hit a few shots from the outside it causes some zone defenses to switch to a man-to-man."

The three-point shot has given the smaller guys a chance to become more of a scoring threat, but the coaches agree that it has given the big men more action as well.

"If you hit a couple of three-pointers, it forces the defense to come out and play you," said Petrouleas. "When that happens, then we dump it inside and let the big guys take over. There's no doubt a couple of three-pointers spreads out the floor."

"Our game plan is to work the ball," said Olman. "We can shoot from the outside, but we like to get it inside where the higher percentage shots are."

"It just doesn't help the little guy," said Wright. "With a guy like John Yancey we can hit from the outside, but when they play him, he dumps it off to the inside. That's why hitting a few three-pointers can prove to be so successful."

Some reservations were apparent at the beginning of the three-point season, but now half the season is over and some questions have been answered. While the general consensus is still mixed, shooting from 19-foot-9-inches remains a potent part of ULS' game, while North and South could do without it.

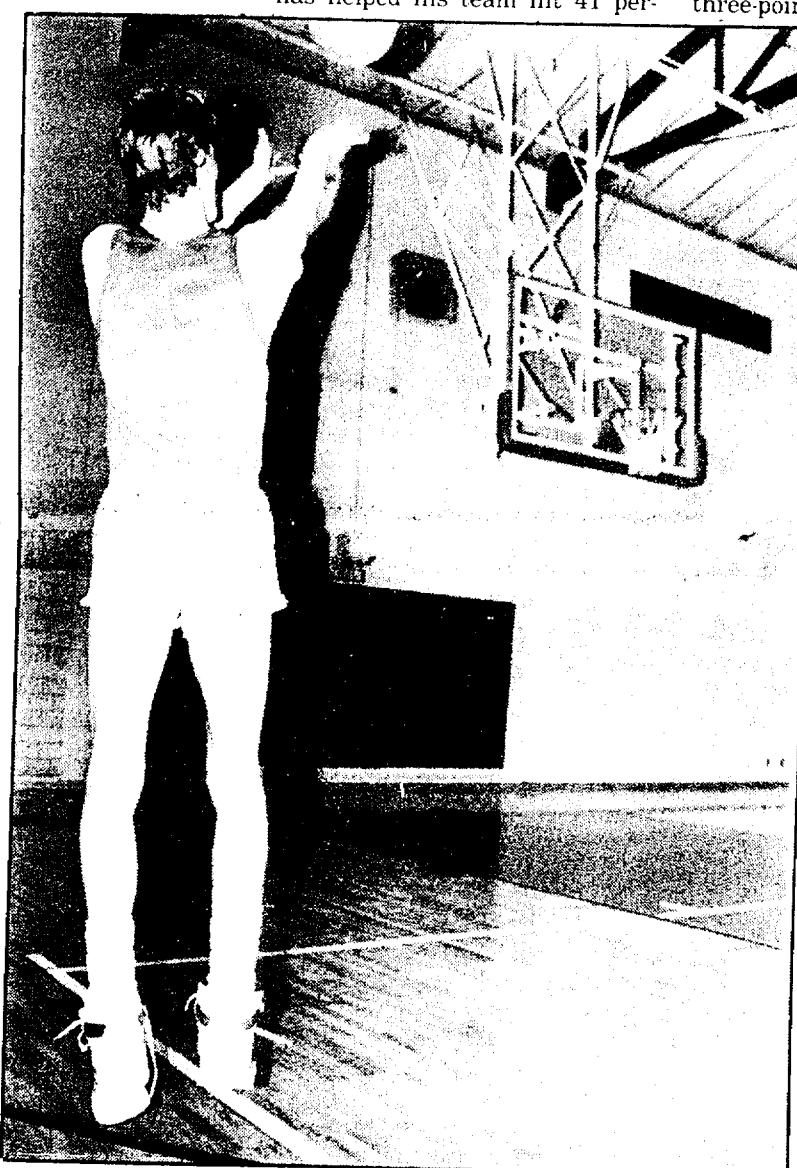

"It doesn't effect us at all," said Olman. "It's not a part of our game and I don't see it becoming a part of it."

"It's a lot of fun for a team like ours," said Wright. "We have many opportunities to shoot it and I'm glad it has become a part of the game."

"Whether you use it a lot or not, you still have to have the personnel who can shoot it consistently," said Petrouleas. "If you don't then it's simple, you don't use it."

It doesn't matter if a team has the weapons for it or not, the three-point line is going to be around for a while. The next step to upgrading high school basketball could be a 45-second shot clock, but don't get the coaches started on that one.

"I don't even want to think about that right now," Petrouleas said laughing. "It's something that may or may not evolve."

Going for 3

At ULS, John Yancey (left) is the hot hand when it comes to shooting three-pointers. Yancey has hit 11 three-pointers and as a team, the Knights have combined to hit 25.

The three-point has only been in effect for just over half a season in Michigan's high school basketball gyms and in the Pointes, the 19-foot-9-inch shot doesn't seem to be a big factor — except at ULS.

APSC swimmers finish season

All Pointes Swim Club ended its season with an overwhelming win over Allen Park and Dearborn Swim Clubs in a tri-meet held at North. All Pointes racked up 361 points to Allen Park's 254 and Dearborn's 117.

The mixed 100 and 200-yard freestyle relay teams started off with a win as swimmers R. Murray, G. Emery, K. Blake, M. Mathews all won in the 8-and-under division.

S. LaFond, M. Mathews, K. Zeller, C. Jamerino were winners in the 10-and-under and touching second were P. Reaser, S. Blean, J.P. Gamrat, K. Higel for the 11-12 age group. R. Leiphart, L. Goldstein, M. Zeller and S. Booher won for the 13-14 year olds.

The boys' 8-and-under butterfly was won by Martin Mathews (20.46) with Westleigh DeGuvera touching second (20.66). Madeline Emery won for the girls (21.31) and Jennie Lroanger placed second (24.82). Kile Zeller placed second in the boys' 10-and-under butterfly (33.63), and for the girls, Erin O'Loughlin took a first with a time of 41.95. The 13-14 boys' butterfly was won by Craig Williams (31.67), and Charlie Roddis was second (32.79).

APSC had great success in the backstroke events with Rachelle Atrasz touching first (19.87) and Amy Booher taking second (21.04) in the girls' 8-and-under 25-yard backstroke.

Morgan Mathews finished first (41.22) in the boys' 10-and-under 50 backstroke, Meghan O'Loughlin placed first for the girls (38.29) and Amanda DeFever took second (42.10). Kim Higel took the win for the girls' 11-12 age group in the 50 backstroke (31.40). Charlie Roddis took the boys' 13-14, 50 backstroke with a time of 34.58.

In the individual medley events, Christine Jamerino placed second in the girls' 12-and-under IM (1:15.27) and Paul Swan took a third for the 12-and-under boys (1:33.45). Emmett DeGuvera touched second in the boys' 13-and-up 200 IM (1:19.33), and Leah Goldstein took a third for the girls (1:17.73).

C.J. Fenton won the 8-and-under boys' 25-yard breaststroke (24.63) while Michael Jamerino took second (26.41). Finishing second for the 8-and-under girls was Jennifer Miller (26.95) and Greta Emery took third (28.73). In the boys' 10-and-under 50 breaststroke, Michael Howe came in second (48.88) and Kathryn Tusa placed second for the girls, and Tiffany Schippert took a third (48.79). Steve Booher touched third in the 11-12, 50 breaststroke (40.10) and Suzette Atrasz finished second for the girls (39.10). Tony Atrasz won the 13-14, 50-yard breaststroke (38.54) with Jeff Dungan taking second (43.43). Christine Jamerino (37.57) took a second and Gretchen Miriani took a third (40.78) for the girls.

All Pointes scored in almost every age group in the freestyle. Fritz Schippert (17.00) and John Versical (17.29) touched one-two in the 8-and-under boys' 25 freestyle. Kimberly LaFond touched first (20.85) and Maureen Matous was third (23.80) in the girls' 8-and-under event. Finishing first in the boys' 10-and-under 50 free was Emmett DeGuvera (29.51), and Ashley Wolter (32.27) took the flag for the girls. Stephanie Matous took a second in the same event in a time of (34.82). J.P. Gamrat took a third (31.92) in the boys' 11-12, 50 free, while Marsha Zeller took a second (30.86) for the girls.

Craig Williams took home a blue ribbon for the 13-14 boys' 50 free and Cheryl Jamerino placed second (31.00), and Nicole Kim was third (32.90).

The All Pointes team of Gamrat, T. Atrasz, Reaser, and Williams (2:17.47) and the combination of M. O'Loughlin, S. Atrasz, Higel, and Blean (2:19.04) finished first in the boys' and girls' 200-yard medley relays.

APSC swimmers swam to an undefeated season and will go for the gold at the Michigan Metro Winter League Finals in March at Southfield High School.

GPSA announces class

The Grosse Pointe Soccer Association (GPSA) has announced a program of instruction for soccer referees to be presented in cooperation with the Grosse Pointe Neighborhood Club.

The program is geared for high school students without prior referee experience, particularly soccer players from boy's and girl's teams fielded by area high schools.

Gary Archinal, a referee instructor licensed by FIFA, the national soccer association, will conduct the program. The program is scheduled for six consecutive Mondays beginning Feb. 22 and ending March 28. The instruction will be presented at the Neighborhood Club facility in Grosse Pointe from 6 to 9 p.m.

Upon successful completion of the course and a test administered as part of it, participants will be certified as FIFA officials. That certification will enable the new referees to judge soccer matches for GPSA, the Neighborhood Club and other area soccer organizations.

Steve Miller, director of referees for GPSA, explained that refereeing can be profitable for high school students as area soccer organizations customarily pay certified referees $8 to $10 a match, with three or more matches often available for an enterprising official on any weekend day during the spring and fall soccer seasons.

Dan Wyers, the assistant recreation director at the Neighborhood Club, described the referee instruction program as a great opportunity for soccer players to learn the technical aspects of the game, while providing a real service to the youth of the community.

"These young referees provide tremendous role models for youngsters just learning the game," Wyers said.

Archinal, a referee certified by Michigan and FIFA, has judged more than 1,800 matches in Michigan. He emphasized that a good referee must thoroughly understand the game of soccer and exercise good judgment in the application of its rules.

High school students interested in the referee instruction course should register for the program as soon as possible by contacting Joey Johnston at 885-4600 before Feb. 15. The course will be offered only once this year and the cost is $15.

Knights' win streak hits seven

Stretching its winning streak to seven games, the University Liggett School boys' varsity basketball team recorded two convincing wins last week.

In a showdown for first place in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference, the Knights shelled previously unbeaten Oakland Christian, 80-49. They then thumped Lutheran Northwest 91-48.

"Our schedule gets tougher now," said ULS coach Chuck Wright. "Seven of our last 10 will be tough and that's exactly what we need. Even if we lose a couple, we need it to get ready for the state playoffs."

ULS established an early 22-12 lead against Oakland Christian. Kandia Milton paced the attack with eight, first-quarter points. Milton finished with 14 points, while John Yancey hit for a game-high 25 points. Tarik Lester added 10.

The Lutheran Northwest game was over early as the Knights led 29-12 after the first eight minutes. Playing only half the game, Yancey scored 30 points and Milton picked up 14.

"One of our goals this year was to try and dominate the league," said Wright. "So far we've been able to do that, but Southfield Christian will be tough and we still have two games with them (Feb. 9 at ULS and March 1 away).

The Knights travel to Ohio Feb. 5 to play in the Maumee Tournament.

Hockey

With a 6-4 win over the St. Clair Shores Falcons, the ULS boys' hockey team upped its record to 9-5-2.

The victory over the Falcons was sparked by junior right-winger Shannon Nowowiecki's hat trick. Nowowiecki now has 19 goals to go with 19 assists on the year. Linemate Doug Wood (20-26-46) assisted three times and registered his 20th goal of the year. Captain Bill Jewett (9-15-24) had a goal and two assists.

After a quick, first-period Falcon goal, the Knights rallied to tie the score. Sophomore Jonathon Davis scored his 16th goal of the season on a pass from Charlie Roby and Greg Petrilli. Nowowiecki then notched two quick goals, one on a pass from Ross Kogel. Freshman Jesse Kasom fired a shot that was deflected in by Jewett, and Wood's goal capped the 4-2 score at the end of two periods.

Steve Stoyka was solid in net as he turned back 20 shots; raising his save percentage to 90 percent.

Coach John Fowler's Knights host Andover at 6 p.m. Feb. 6, and then face Allen Park Cabrini in Joe Louis Arena prior to the Wings-New Jersey game, Feb. 12.

Girls' hockey

ULS blanked Garden City, 5-0 as Kim Owens earned the save in net by kicking out 20 shots. It was the first win for Coach Biffy Fowler's Lady Knights who are now 1-5.

Scoring for ULS were Beth Birgbauer (2), Meghan Brady, Carrie Carpenter and Sarah Haggarty. Allison FitzSimons, Liz Prus, Karen Galsterer and Stacey Westley played tough defense.

ULS plays home against Livonia Feb. 6 at 3 p.m.

Squirt hockey

The ULS Pee Wee B Knights avenged an early season loss by defeating the USA Flames, 3-2.

Nick Giorgio (2) and Alex Crenshaw (his first) provided the scoring. Crenshaw, Whelan, Mike Owens, Matt Spicer and Chad Yates picked up assists.

Against the G.P. Bruins, Peter Mertz scored the Knights' only goal in a 1-1 tie.

On Feb. 5-6, ULS will host the Private School Pee Wee Ice Hockey Tournament. For more information, call Bob Wood at 884-4444.

Trotters to hoop it up at Joe Louis

The Harlem Globetrotters will bring their basketball magic back to Detroit a little earlier this season for two outstanding performances at Joe Louis Arena on Saturday, Feb. 27 at 2 and 7 p.m.

The legendary Trotter squad features Detroit's Dedrick Reffige, along with two new female teammates — Sandra "Sweetness" Hodge and Joyce "The Juice" Walker.

With their unbeatable brand of basketball, these legendary magicians of the "hardwood currently hold a world-record 6,043 game-winning streak. The Trotters have played in over 100 countries across the globe, becoming known as the world's "Ambassadors of Goodwill." Comical antics, sharp shooting and fast moves have kept the popularity of the Globetrotters constant for more than 60 years.

Tickets to see the Harlem Globetrotters are priced at $12 and $10 and are now on sale at the Joe Louis Arena Box Office and all Ticketmaster locations including AAA offices.

CHAMP sponsors workshop

Just in time for spring sports, Cottage Hospital Athletic Medicine Program (CHAMP), will present Coaches Workshop II.

Track, baseball and softball coaches, athletes, student athletic trainers and parents can benefit from this free workshop on Wednesday, Feb. 10, from 7 to 9 p.m. in the lower level boardrooms.

Reservations can be secured by calling 881-1800, Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

CHAMP director Beth Ayn Deutsch, A.T.C. and athletic trainers Marti VanEenaam, A.T.C., and John Somers, A.T.C., will discuss the prevention and care of sports injuries to the lower back, shoulder and lower leg. Proper training programs are outlined in an effort to reduce injuries and participants practice taping techniques. Slides, handouts, demonstrations and hands-on practice make the workshop a unique learning experience for those who work with athletes.

"Our primary goal is to teach coaches and athletes how to prevent common injuries, including shin splints (lower leg pain) and rotator cuff problems (shoulder muscle strains and tendonitis)," said VanEenaam, "and to enjoy a pain-free, successful, and enjoyable sports season."

Lady Norsemen gymnasts finish in sixth place

By John Gulbord
Special Writer

In the always tough Adrian Gymnastics Invitational, the North gymnasts ran up a total of 124.05 points to finish sixth out of 10 teams.

Seniors Kim Gilbert and Tina Francis qualified for state meet in the vault, beam, floor and bars, respectively. Sophomore Jennifer Dube had consistent scores of 9.5 on the vault, 9.45 on the beam, and 9.45 for the floor exercise.

Deanna Leech also qualified for the state on the bars, while Meagan Gray qualified for a third time in the vault.

Swimming

The Norsemen swim team defeated Utica Stevenson, 106-83.

Earlier in the week, the squad beat Brighton as the meet was highlighted by the 500-freestyle event in which North's Victor Perez finished first, Ron Jendretzke took second, and Peter Ellison finished third.

North travels to Utica this evening for a 7 p.m. meet.

Volleyball

By competing at the .500 level in the Wayne State Tournament, the Lady Norsemen finished 4-4 overall.

They split with Regina and Cass Tech, defeated Lamphere, but fell to Chippewa Valley. Amy Grierson and Beth Stevenson aided North defensively, while Heidi Cartwright had 16 points on serves. Monique Van Assche added 14 service points.

Against South Lake, North bowed to defeat, 6-15,15-7,5-15. North played well, but couldn't pull off the win. Mary Lex had an outstanding game, as Van Assche and Cartwright served for six points each.

The team's next action will be Wednesday, Feb. 10 when they host Woods-Tower at 8 p.m.

Basketball

It's tough to win on the road, but for North, the friendly confines of home proved fatal in a 49-46 loss to Cousino.

North (7-4 at press time) had to battle Kirk and Chris Gil-liam's combined effort of 28 points, and did so until the end. The Patriots' Curtis Randal, who canned 10 points, hit two free throws late in the game to cap the win.

Karl Schultz led North with 18 points and Steve Szymanski had a dozen.

Earlier in the week, the Norsemen drove past South Lake, 89-48.

Junior Matt Brady led North with 12 points and Todd Dessinger had 10 points to go with 12 rebounds. Kirk Lowry and Szymanski had 10 each in the lopsided win.

The Norsemen will resume play at home Tuesday, Feb. 9 at 7:30 p.m.

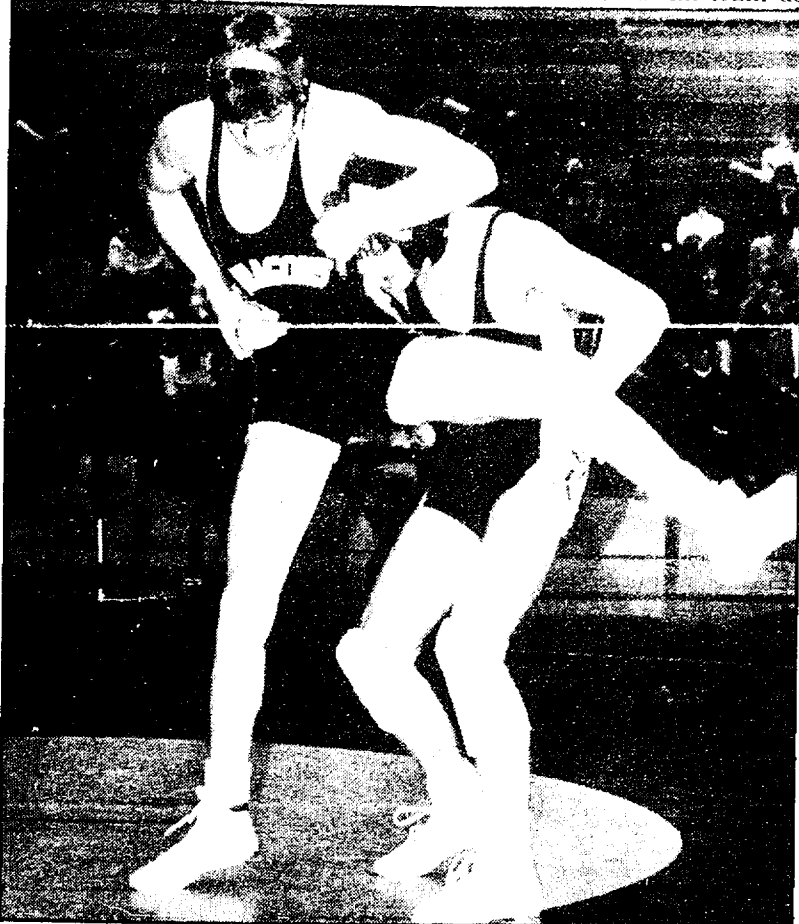

Wrestling

The wrestling team had a division championship showdown with Clintondale, and neither school walked away a clear-cut champ as they settled for a 33-33 deadlock.

The tie left North 4-0-1 in the division and 9-3-1 overall in dual meets.

In other action last week, the matmen destroyed Roseville Bralec, 56-18. North was led by Chris Irving, John Shefferly, Chris Hayes, Bill Lewis, Don Collins, Dean Demetropolous and Dave Van Dale; all pinning his opponent.

The Norsemen will travel to the league-championship meet at Lake Shore on Feb. 6.

By Rob Fulton
Sports Editor

Riding a six-game winning streak, the Devils faced-off at home against No. 2 ranked Port Huron, and found out how tough the twin towers can be.

Jay and John Zulauf, two of high school's top players, combined for 53 of Port Huron's 86 points, as they beat the Blue Devils, 86-56.

The loss snapped South's streak, but more importantly handed the Devils their first defeat in the league, where they are 5-1, and 8-4 overall (at press time).

"The kids felt they had a fair shot, but we just didn't execute and they did," said South coach George Petrouleas. "They are a very good ball club. Forgetting our mistakes, we just couldn't put the ball in the basket consistently."

South led early (9-5), but with the Zulauf twins canning 18-footers, it was hard to stay on top.

"They shot 66 percent from the floor," said Petrouleas. "They are very tough to play, but I thought we did what we could. We played with good intensity and had a few spurts, but we allowed them to get on top and that's where they stayed."

South, led by Dave McCormick and Andy Ayrault's 10 points each, trailed 41-18 at the intermission, but there was still plenty of time left. However, the combination of 22 turnovers and the inability to convert the front end of several one-and-ones, did the Devils in.

"We shot only 50 percent from the free throw line and that's not very good," said Petrouleas. "We missed a lot of key one-and-one free throws and against a good team you just can't do that."

At East Detroit, three nights earlier, the Devils stayed unbeaten as they used a depleted squad to nip the Shamrocks, 47-44 in overtime.

"It was an important win for us because of our situation," said Petrouleas in reference to three of his players being sidelined with injuries. "During the game we also had a few bumps, so at one time we had only five guys."

Chris Rowan and Chris Gramling paced South with 14 and 13 points, respectively. As a team, South shot 39 percent from the floor.

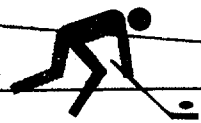

"We're trying to survive," said Petrouleas. "The kids are playing well and we have to keep it up. We're hoping to get at least one starter back from an injury this week and we'll take it from there."

Volleyball

After stumbling a bit, the volleyball team got back on track with two wins over East Detroit (15-7,15-12) and Port Huron (10-15,15-5,15-7).

Flames-Flyers

The Flames clipped the Flyers, 2-1.

Patrick Pound netted both Flames' goals on assists from Jason Donohue, Michael Getz and Jeffrey Giffer.

Nathan Ascencio held the line in goal for the Flames by allowing only Andrew Ricci's goal to scoot past him. Dave Legwand assisted.

Nicholas Miotke, Aaron Ascencio and Brandon Przepiorka were recognized, by the coaches, for having outstanding games.

Flames-Bruins

Chris Mitchell scored the winning goal in the Flames 3-2 victory over the Bruins.

C.J. Williamson (Flames) and Jeff Graffius (Bruins) withstood many shots on goal to highlight the game. Patrick Pound scored twice for the Flames, and Walter Belenky (2) and Michael Getz assisted.

The game-winner was assisted by Rami Zayat, Jason Donohue and Nicholas Miotke. Playing well for the Flames were, Jack Donnelly, Dan Collins and Reilly O'Toole.

Troy Bergman and Matthew Descamps tallied for the Bruins. George Massu, Ben Weaver, Tim French and Alex Rust played well for the Bruins.

Raiders-Top Guns

The Monroe Raiders clinched the regular season championship in the Mite Division with a 5-0 shutout over the Top Guns.

Brian Kasiborski earned the shutout in goal for the Raiders and George Andary and Matt Benfer supplied tough defense in front of him. Brent Kuhar, Danny Sylvester, Michael Kasiborski and Chuck Thiel (2) tallied for the Raiders. Brian Fehling, Beth Fehling, Mark Aronson and C.J. Lee skated well for the Top Guns.

Monroe's started the season with a tie and a loss, but bounced back to win the rest of its games. Players include, Danny Baskel, Jonathon Bayko, Andrew Benfer, Natalie Brewer, Ricky Carlson, Ross Gerbasi, Sumeet Karnik, Robby Thiel, Stevie Thiel and J.C. Tibbitts. Chris Baskel is head coach and George Andary and Rick Carlson assist.

Blues-Arrows

The Talon Arrows completed the regular season with a 12-2-2 record after beating the Blues, 6-0. Brad Belesky's hat trick paced the Arrows. Josh Prues had two goals and Matt Kenny added one goal. Berc Backhurst earned the playmaker.

Defensively, Kyle Swanson and Rush Zimmerman were strong. Eric Dunlap had the shutout.

Arrows-Raiders

The Arrows defeated the Raiders 6-1 in the opening round of the playoffs.

Stephen Andris had the hat trick and Josh Prues banged home two goals. Tim Lutfy and Eric Dunlap accounted for the final two Arrows' goals.

Baskel scored for the Raiders. Tim Brady, Abbey Fox, Jeff Sheldon and Chris Smith anchored the Arrows' defense. Roni Sawaf did an excellent job in net for the Arrows.

Cougars-Bruins

With goalie Matt Farr turning in a masterful performance, the Detroit Monthly Cougars used two goals from Joey Baratta to beat the Bruins, 3-1.

Matt Descamps scored for the Bruins, but Baratta's two tallies melted the early lead. Mark Kujawski, Nicky Allen and Gene Baratta played heads-up defense.

Top Guns-Flyers

The Proform Top Guns defeated the Flyers, 3-1.

After Brian Fehling's goal for the Top Guns, Andrew Ricci scored for the Flyers. Anne Platt put the Top Guns up 2-1 and Fehling tallied again to close the scoring. Beth Fehling and Lisa Aronson played well for the Top Guns.

Mark Aronson did an excellent job in goal for the Top Guns as did Jonathon Solaka for the Flyers.

Flyers-Bruins

Joe Ricci's Flyers tripped the Bruins, 2-1. Solaka held goal and stopped all but one shot.

Goals for the Flyers were scored by Justin Holmes and Dave Legwand. Andrew Ricci drew an assist.

Massu scored for the Bruins as Bergman played well in net, and Drummy and Rust skated well.

Flyers-Cougars

Joe Ricci's Flyers finished the season with a 3-2 win over the Cougars. Andrew Ricci scored two goals and Charlie Eldridge played a good game in net for the Flyers. Peter Pone and Murg played strong defense.

Patrick Ball and Casey Crain scored for the Cougars. Patrick Kerwin and Graham Merriweather skated well.

Bantam Division

Pro-Chiefs-Knights

The Chiefs, led by Paul Cavazos' hat trick, earned the 6-0 win over the ULS jayvee Knights.

Jason Bucko (2), Brad Hea (2) and Blake Crawford drew assists. Crawford also added two goals.

The final goal was an unassisted slap shot by Richie Harder. Brian Dennis and Greg Semack combined efforts to earn the shutout in net.

Chiefs-SCS Chiefs

The Chiefs routed the SCS Chiefs, 8-1.

Dan Buraou scored a hat trick and Jason Bucko and Blake Crawford earned playmakers to lift the Chiefs. Mike Watkins, Brad Hea, Ihrie, Bucko, and John Morreale scored for the Chiefs.

Brian Dennis, who held off a penalty shot, and Greg Semack combined for the win in goal.

Squirt Division

Leafs-Kwansis

The G.P. Leafs played the Allen Park Kwansis at Joe Louis Arena and skated to a 2-2 tie.

Chuck Schervish was outstanding in net for the Leafs, as Greg Ryan and Jay Ricci provided the scoring. Paul Megler, Ryan, Ricci drew assists.

Kevin Kasiborski, Frank Zimmer, Tom Waldron and David Collins played well.

Leafs-Shammies

Chuck Schervish earned the shutout in net as the Leafs drilled the Shammies, 3-0.

Leafs-Bruins

The Leafs and Bruins skated to a 2-2 tie. Mike Lahey, assisted by Colin Darke and Geoff Kimmel, and David Collins, on a feed from Ricci, scored for the Leafs. Carl Melchior and Mike Collins scored for the Bruins, with assists going to Tim Miller and Carl Melchior. Jason Santo played a strong game in goal for the Bruins.

Lucido, Kasiborski and Shepard played well for the Leafs, and Chris Dettmer, Tom Fennell and Matt Lariscy did a nice job for the Bruins.

Leafs-Blue Devils

A strong Leafs team scored eight goals against the St. Clair Shores Blue Devils and Chuck Schervish got his ninth shutout on the year as the Leafs blanked the Devils, 8-0.

Scoring for the Leafs were, David Collins, Paul Megler (2), Jay Ricci (2) Geoff Kimmel, Mike Lahey and Joey Lucido. Megler (3), Ryan (3), Frank Zimmer, Ricci (2), Collins (3), Shepard and Lahey drew assists.

Districts up next

The St. Clair Shores Chargers will be the Pee Wee House representatives in the district tournament on Feb. 5-7.

The Chargers are also the Little Caesar League Champs.

With an aggressive attack from forwards J. Beniciti, M. Abdilla, J. Joseph, D. Bombich, D. Deleeuw, P. Santos, F. Vettese, V. Covacha and S. Starke, the Chargers have been averaging five goals a game. With defensive help from M. DeNardis, C. Carlson, E. Covach, C. Weinert, J. Collard and D. Vogan, goalie Jason Chevalier has the lowest goals against average in the league.

The Grosse Pointe Bantam Capitals stretched an unbeaten streak to 4 and will represent Grosse Pointe in the district playoffs.

In a 1-1 tie with Sterling Height-USA Team, Juan Ganum scored the Capitals' goal. Dan Grundman, Jeff Giacobbe, Bill Wilson and Ganum played outstanding defensive games. Goalie Chris Paul played well.

The unbeaten streak began when the Capitals defeated the G.P. Chiefs, 2-1. The Capitals then defeated the Sterling Heights team 3-0, and then countered with a 3-2 win over the first-place Warren team.

Cholesterol tips

You're probably tired of hearing and reading about cholesterol these past few weeks, but think of it as an education rather than an intrusion.

You can have your cholesterol screened at Eastland Mall, Monday through Friday noon to 8 p.m., and Sunday, 1 to 5 p.m.

The easy, non-fasting cholesterol test is covered with a $4 donation.

Here are some important cholesterol tips:

The list begins with the food group, followed by what you should eat less of and then a possible substitute. The final listing is the foods you should go easy on.

Dairy: Whole milk (regular, evaporated, condensed), hard cheeses, whole-milk cottage cheese, ice cream, whole-milk yogurt, imitation milk products. — Substitutes, use skim milk, low-fat yogurt, low-fat American style cheeses, low-fat cottage cheese, ice milk, farmer or pot cheese, buttermilk (from skim milk). Go easy on 2 percent fat milk, part-skim mozzarella or ricotta cheese.

Protein: Egg yolks (no more than 3 to 4 per week), organ meats, fatty red meats (beef, lamb, pork), cold cuts, sausage, hot dogs, bacon, spare ribs, canned meats, meat mixtures, duck. — Substitutes, use poultry without skin, white fishes, tuna packed in water, egg whites (2 whites equals 1 whole egg), dried beans, lean cuts of beef, pork or veal (no more than 2-3 times per week), cholesterol-free egg substitutes. Go easy on nuts, hellfish, oily fish (salmon or mackerel), nut butters, fish canned in oil.

Fruits and vegetables: Added butter, margarine, creams and sauces, coconuts. — Substitutes, more fresh, frozen, canned dried fruits and vegetables (rinse and drain excess salts and syrups in canned goods). Go easy on avocados and olives.

Breads: Baked goods (pies, cakes, cookies, doughnuts), greasy rolls and muffins (croissants), egg noodles and breads. — Substitutes, whole-grain breads, cereals and baked goods (use oatmeal, whole-wheat, bran, rye), rice, noodles and pasta (no added fats). Go easy on muffins and breads made with polyunsaturated fats.

Fats: Butter, hydrogenated fats, shortening, chocolate, coconut oil, palm oil, lard, bacon fat, sour cream, cream cheese, cream, half and half, most non-dairy creamers and toppings. — Substitutes, polyunsaturated oils, corn safflower, soybean, sunflower, margarine with one of the polyunsaturated oils listed first in liquid form, diet margarine, imitation mayonnaise, salad dressings made with liquid vegetable oils, yogurt, buttermilk and diet dressings. Go easy on peanut oil, olive oil, mayonnaise, reduced fat sour cream or cream cheese.

In trying to control cholesterol levels, these are only a few suggestions. Remember, you can get your cholesterol level checked at Eastland Mall.

Those aching back pains can be prevented

More than 12 million people in the United States suffer from low back pain — the number one cause of disability in workers under age 45.

Back injuries account for 24 percent of all days lost from work.

Two of St. John Hospital's health care partners provide complementary, yet different programs designed to meet the needs of patients with low-back pain and return them to their regular daily living and work activities.

St. John Hospital-Macomb Center (formerly Harrison Community Hospital) was the first health care provider in Southeast Michigan to offer the $140,000 Cybex Back System that seeks to help those aching backs.

The system, with more than 30,000 hours of clinical testing, offers help for many back pain problems. It's comprised of three sophisticated components, The Trunk Extension-Flexion Unit, the Torso Rotation Unit, and Liftask.

The Trunk Extension-Flexion Unit (TEF) allows physical therapists to determine the trunk muscle's functional capability. A series of tests seek to indicate problem areas throughout the trunk's range of motion. The system can provide objective validation of described pain and document progress. With the help of high technology, the patient can see a computerized assessment of his or her muscle function.

Since the data is based on objective, scientific methods, the information is considered admissible in court and is expected to significantly impact workers' compensation hearings.

"The Torso Rotation Unit (TR) has been able to isolate problem areas without damaging supporting muscle groups during rehabilitation. Increasing range of motion and strengthening individual muscles are two capabilities of the TR and TEF units that help patients return to work and other activities with reduced chance of re-injury," said Kelly Tomaszewski, physical therapist, assistant director.

Lifting moderate to heavy objects, as well as repetitive lifting of lighter objects, from a low position is a difficult task for many back pain patients. The Liftask component of the system can measure a patient's ability to consistently lift objects at various heights. By simulating specific tasks, such as bending, stooping and reaching to lift various weights, Liftask assists in training workers to correct techniques.

The physical therapists can tailor a Liftask pre-employment testing program to determine perspective employees' ability to meet certain job demands or to rehabilitate present employees for return to work.

Once the participants have reached their greatest potential, they can go on to work hardening.

A complementary program offering a new approach to an old problem of returning injured people to their jobs or daily activity with decreased chance of re-injury is provided at another health care partner of St. John Hospital, the St. Clair Back to Work Center at 25689 Kelly in Roseville.

Their program is geared to persons for whom traditional means of therapy has been unsuccessful. Many of these people have been out of work for a long time and need extensive reconditioning.

Their approach is through active participation in job simulation tasks, exercise and conditioning in a controlled environment.

One device used there is the Baltimore Therapeutic Equipment Work Simulator (BTE) which provides a wide variety of job simulations," said Mary Ellen Keyes, occupational therapist. Through different attachments, the use of various tools can be simulated for job tasks.

She can also assist executives, office workers and dental personnel build up their sitting or standing tolerance for prolonged periods of time, to decrease pain.

She does this in a simulated work setting instructing them on how to minimize their pain through using proper postures and lifting techniques.

The use of tools such as shovels, dollies and office equipment can help simulate exact job duties.

How long does this therapy take?

The client goes through a work hardening program simulating work activities from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. for an average of four weeks. The purpose is to gradually increase the person's endurance and tolerance to work requirements while monitoring symptoms and providing instruction for the prevention of re-injury.

Occupational therapists can also make recommendations for modification of one's work environment such as using different table and chair heights and building up handles so tools can be better grasped.

Once a doctor diagnoses the person's problem, a referral can be made to one of the programs. For information on a doctor who can examine the problem, call St. John Hospital Physician Referral Service at 1-800-237-5646.

Eat

By Mary Busse

Smart Food Chains

Have you ever been reading a magazine and come across an appetizing food ad or gone into a restaurant to just have salad and you smell steaks grilling? Or are you worried about your spouse and children being late? The next thing you know, in each of these instances, you are hungry? The fact that you weren't hungry to start with doesn't matter. How can this be?

The hunger mechanism is triggered by low blood sugar concentrations. Other factors include stomach contractions, type of food in the stomach, glycogen stores, and probably a wide variety of normal biochemical and nervous interactions. Virtually all animals regulate their response to hunger with an amazing degree of accuracy. When they feel hungry, they are actually experiencing a calorie deficit. They eat in response and they stop when the hunger signal stops. It appears that hunger is an inborn biological drive which food intake automatically governs.

Humans go beyond the innate hunger drive. We have developed many learned responses to food. Hunger is a physiological need for food, our appetite is the physiological desire to eat. Ideally, the appetite accompanies hunger. If you have been continually trying to control your weight, you know that your hunger and appetite are often not in balance. As a result, you are always losing or gaining many pounds. You can put an end to this distressing situation if you will learn what is behind your urge to eat and how to control it.

The fact is, opportunities are boundless. We are constantly exposed to food. Food is this country's number one industry. Advertisers are very busy convincing us to buy wonderful products that are fast to prepare, taste delicious, and somehow will make us happy and beautiful.

Eating is a socially acceptable activity. There is hardly an occasion where it isn't included.

Can you imagine having guests in your home and not offering them something to eat? How can you go to the movies and not eat popcorn, or go to a ball game and not have a hot dog? We associate some of our happiest memories with eating (Christmas, Thanksgiving, Sunday dinners, birthdays) and where would the PTA or the Little League be without bake sales or concession stands?

It is not hard to understand the urge to eat when we are exposed to food, or pictures of food, but it is more difficult to imagine how our emotions have power over our appetites.

Emotional eating often starts early in childhood. A baby learns very quickly that parents radiate love when baby "makes it all gone." Many of us were members of the "Clean Plate Club." It was great to receive such loving attention. When we want to show someone how much we care for them, we cook their favorite meal or dessert. If they want to show us how much they care for us in return, they can ask for seconds. How pleased we are!

When a child is unhappy, hurt or scared, he is often comforted with a treat that is sweet. We grow up thinking that food can solve all problems. As adults we know this is not true, but the old emotional habits are still there. Have you ever tried to avoid making a decision or fulfilling an obligation and started eating? Eating is an activity. As long as you are eating, you are busy, and won't have to write that letter, return the telephone call to a troublesome client, clean out that closet — the list goes on and on.

Emotional eating is one of our stoniest eating habits. It is related to our innermost feelings and personal conditioning. It attacks at the most vulnerable times and under critical conditions.

If you can analyze and identify the origins of your eating habits, you can better cope with them. Stand back and take a good look at yourself and what you are doing. There is no need to feel guilty about your actions. By recognizing the fact that these are learned behaviors, we can more readily accept the fact that they also can become "unlearned." By making a conscious decision to change a negative pattern, we will create new and healthy habits to replace them.

Getting started

1) If you don't buy it, you can't eat it. This applies to food you keep in the house, but also what you choose to eat outside of the home.

2) Honestly evaluate foods you are bringing into your home. Are you keeping "junk" foods on hand because a member of your family just loves it, or do you keep that food item on hand, because truthfully, it's your "favorite?"

3) Establish balance in your life. If you find yourself with too much time on your hands, get busy! One of the best activities is helping others. When you become involved with other people, your own negative feelings seem to lighten up. On the other hand, many of us use an overloaded schedule as an excuse for poor eating habits. Finding the proper balance will ensure you of successfully coping with those old learned behaviors.

4) Eat on schedule. Never let yourself go hungry. The body does not understand what is going on, and will try to compensate by "hoarding" the calories you consume when you finally do eat.

5) Plan what you will eat ahead of time. If you are eating at home, have the foods you choose to eat available and when it is possible, have them prepared ahead of time. If you are eating out, make a mental plan of what you intend to order, before you arrive at the restaurant. If you are unfamiliar with the restaurant's menu, call ahead and get an idea of the types of food they serve. If you are invited to a set-dinner for a large group, or whether it is a small dinner party at a friends where you have no control over the choice of what is being served, remember to eat a small amount of food before you leave your house. An apple is a perfect choice. It will help to stabilize your appetite, you will still be able to enjoy the meal and the evening, but you will less likely over-eat and you will feel much better about yourself the following morning.

6) When a "hunger attack" occurs, take 10 minutes, and ask yourself this question, "Am I truly hungry, or is something else going on that I am not aware of?" By giving yourself 10 little minutes to think things through, you will often discover the real reason why you are drawn to food. And with that discovery, you can say to your body, "No thank you, not right now. I am not only OK, I am down right terrific!"

Rise and shine for fitness at Macomb

The popular "Sunrise Program" is designed with the early-bird health conscious individual in mind. This session, which runs Monday through Friday from 6:30 a.m. to 7:50 a.m., combines all of Macomb's available facilities for use by the program participants. Early-risers may jog, swim, play racquetball, basketball or lift weights. There is a $1.25 charge per day, or $4 a week.

The pool is also open for the afternoon and evening swimmer. Hours run from noon to 1:30 p.m. weekdays, and from 6 to 7:50 p.m. Monday, Thursday and Friday. The admission price is $1 for Macomb students, $1.50 for community members, $2 for out-of-county residents, and 50 cents for senior citizens and children.

The racquetball and wallyball courts are also available for rental Monday through Saturday. The court times vary from day to day so reservations are needed to hold the court. The rental fee is $4 for Macomb students, $5 for in-county residents and $6 for out-of-county residents. All fees are based on a one-hour rental.

Wallyball rental is offered to Macomb students for $10 per hour and $12 per hour for non-students. To reserve both courts, call 445-7476.

Macomb Community College is starting a new semester and with it comes the return of the Athletic Department's morning

"Sunrise Program." The program includes daily open swim and racquetball/wallyball court rentals.

Exercising programs offered

The Healthy Outlook Fitness Consultants, in cooperation with the Cottage Hospital Sports Medicine Department, will provide, free of charge, an instructional program for educating individuals in proper exercise techniques.

The first lecture topic will be "Proper Weight Training Techniques and Injury Prevention and Treatment." Lectures will be held at Eastside Gym and Fitness Center, 21339 Gratiot. Call 775-0130 for more information.

The sessions are scheduled for Thursday, Feb. 4 at 5:30 p.m. and Friday, Feb. 5 at 10:30 a.m. Fitness consultants will be on hand to answer any questions participants may have in regards to any aspect of fitness and health.

Safe boating class to set sail

The United States Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotilla 12-10 will begin a 14-week safe boating class on Feb. 9.

The class will be held every Tuesday from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at Warren Woods School. The school is located at the southwest corner of 12 Mile Road and Schoenherr.

The class is designed for young and old alike. Some of the topics that will be covered include: road and legal requirements.

Classes include slides and movies and many informative free brochures. There is a nominal charge of $20 per master student textbook and workbook. Additional workbooks can be obtained for $10 each.

The textbook and workbook are useful for future reference. Instruction is provided at no charge by qualified members of the USCGAux.

Registration begins at 7 p.m. on Feb. 9. For more information, call Walt 773-7142, or Art 979-3296.

Chuck Norris' third MIA film continues blood and guts saga

By Marian Trainor
Special Writer

In an often scary world, bigger-than-life heroes are reassuring. These cinema supermen achieve the impossible and no matter how ridiculous their exploits, we applaud them. We may abhor the violence, but if that's what it takes to destroy the evil forces, we accept it.

Superstars have built their careers on outdoing themselves and each other performing amazing feats. Among them is Chuck Norris who has taken on whole countries — successfully — leaving audiences with that secure feeling that no matter what happens, somewhere out there someone will go crashing through all barriers to save us from harm.

In "Braddock: Missing in Action: III," Col. Jim Braddock, played by Norris, returns to Vietnam to do what he does best — prove to the world that he is equal to any challenge.

This time mayhem is softened by a humanitarian mission. On his prior trips he rescued American prisoners of war. This time he brings out a group of Amerisian children, among them a son he didn't know he had.

The film begins with scenes showing the final hours before the Vietcong take over Saigon. Among them is Lin, Braddock's Vietnamese wife. Her clearance papers are snatched from her and she is turned back. When Braddock comes looking for her, he is told she is dead.

Twelve years pass. Braddock is sitting in a bar in Washington, D.C., when a priest who runs an orphanage in Vietnam comes in looking for him. He brings a message that Lin is alive and that Braddock has a son.

Making his way to the orphanage, he has the priest take him to the squalid hut where Lin and their son huddle together on a dirt floor. It is a joyful reunion that is short-lived.

Action fans will applaud Braddock's actions. Bodies are sent flying by his artillery, necks snap in his iron grip, cars, airplanes and buildings fill the screen with fire as they explode.

There are no memorable scenes in "MIA III." It's all flash

an explosion of violence and an incredible display of muscle power. It never slows down, but we accept the blood and gore because of its worthy mission.

There's one big question that needs to be answered about "Anguish." Is the title supposed to describe the difficulties of the film's characters or is it supposed to be a warning for those who would be viewers?

Really now, the most noteworthy thing about this picture is the gimmick it uses to draw viewers into the story. And generally, there is one of two explanations for gimmickery in the movies. Either:

1. The gimmick is the film's raison d'etre, and the story is nothing but an excuse to try something new and different. Most 3-D movies fall into this category. Or,

2. The gimmick is used to compensate for an otherwise weak idea, justifying in the producer's mind money spent on a project that demands some external justification. Those old films made in "Sensurround" are examples. Remember "Earthquake" and "Rollercoaster?"

The difference is subtle but important, because at least films in the first category may have some type of entertainment value, albeit twisted. Movies in the second category, however, are the type that usually show up on Saturday afternoon horror television within a few years.

Opera auditions

The Michigan Opera Theatre will hold auditions Wednesday, Feb. 10, for the children's chorus in the company's mainstage production of "La Boheme." Positions are available for eight girls and eight boys, ages 10-14. Auditions will be held in the Michigan Opera Theatre administrative offices, located at 6519 Second Ave. in Detroit's New Center Area.

Children interested in auditioning will be asked to sing, from memory, one musical selection in either English or a foreign language. An accompanist will be provided, however singers must provide their own music. Applicants should call the Michigan Opera Theatre Production Department no later than Tuesday, Feb. 9, to schedule an audition: 847-7850.

Critic picks the year's 10 best

By Michael Chapp
Special Writer

First thing's first. The list that follows of the 10 best films of 1987 is admittedly not the most objective collection you'll find in print. It is based on a larger sampling of only about 75 films this critic saw in the last 12 months. So sue me. For the first time in four years, I spent more time in a classroom than it did in a movie house.

Still, certain things become obvious when you see that many pictures in one year: 1) You're in a pretty good position to judge which films are memorable and which ones aren't. 2) There are a lot more of the latter than there are of the former. 3) The floors in every Detroit-area movie house contain more food than the concession stands.

Anyway, here is a list. It is in alphabetical order, except for the last film mentioned — my choice for best film of the year.

• "Angel Heart" — There are few pictures in recent memory so chock-full of spilling blood and graphically repulsive material. But "Heart" used such elements only for dramatic plot development, not for cheap thrills. The result was a stylistically rich piece, not easy to watch, but still quite rewarding for daring moviegoers.

• "Empire of the Sun" — Steven Spielberg became a certified heavy hitter in Hollywood's sparsely populated intellectual circles with this metaphysical masterpiece. He took a subject with the epic sweep of World War II and whittled it down to the war's impact on a young boy. And both the macro and micro aspects of the story came through clearly.

• "The Fringe Dwellers" — Sure, the picture slipped into preachy melodrama at times, but in sum, this story about racial unrest in Australia was one of the most socially and artistically relevant pictures of the year.

• "Full Metal Jacket" — A highly stylistic and carefully crafted work that relied heavily on metaphorical symbolism to convey its messages, "Jacket" is a testament to the artistic genius of Director Stanley Kubrick. This entry in the waterfall of Vietnam films was so painstakingly conceived and executed in every aspect that it earned itself a place of distinction in the genre.

• "Hamburger Hill" — A film about faceless soldiers fighting in a ubiquitous war, "Hill" was based on a true story, making its images that much harder to accept. Though its punch was not as powerful as "Platoon" nor its philosophical ideology as disturbing as "Full Metal Jacket," this film made its point. And therefore, it is second to none.

• "Native Son" — This story of Bigger Thomas, a 19-year-old black boy from the south side of Chicago was, despite occasional problems with dramatic integrity, an essay on race relations and the true nature of equality. Bigger is not necessarily better, the film told us, and the fact that this is our fault is a message worth thinking about.

• "Radio Days" — Though Woody Allen does not make a single appearance in this film, there is no doubt that the picture is his. He used it for self-reflection, and one can't help but feel that it's him talking through each of his characters, theorizing about how future generations will remember his work.

• "Tin Men" — Hollywood actually spent millions of dollars making a film about a couple of guys who sell aluminum siding for a living. That fact alone is a prime indicator of what type of film this was — a finely crafted example of contemporary comedy.

• "The Untouchables" — Brian DePalma's resurrection of the Elliot Ness/Al Capone feud in Prohibition Chicago was one of the most sheerly enjoyable pictures of the year. It also featured great performances by Kevin Costner and Robert DeNiro.

• "Broadcast News" — From the man who brought "Terms of Endearment" to the screen a few years ago, "News" continued James L. Brooks' tradition of creating characters that are human — in ways that touch viewers as few directors can. The year's only genuine masterpiece.

'Kiss and Tell' at Henry Ford Theater

A secret wedding and a not-so-secret pregnancy fan the flames of a feud between two families in the 1943 romantic comedy, "Kiss and Tell," playing at Henry Ford Museum Theater, Feb. 5 through March 19.

In a Romeo and Juliet type situation, Lenny and Mildred are young lovers from two families at odds — the Archers and the Pringles. They decide to elope, letting Lenny's sister Corliss in on the secret. Mildred soon becomes pregnant, but it's Corliss who is seen by Mildred's mother leaving the obstetrician's office. The whole comedy of errors is resolved in World War II era-fashion.

Performances of "Kiss and Tell" at Henry Ford Museum Theater are Fridays and Saturdays at 8:30 p.m. Tickets are $7 each for reserved seats, available daily at the information desk in the entrance to Greenfield Village, at the Museum Theater box office one hour before each performance, or by calling the Reservations Center at 271-1620. A combination dinner and theater package, at $21.25 per person, is also available.

Astrology fair

The Astrology '88 Spring Fair with Rich Milostan will feature Michigan astrologers and psychics. The eastside fair will be held Saturday, Feb. 20, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Georgian Inn, Grafton at 13 Mile.

Fair-goers may attend lectures on dreams, karmic palmistry or 10 other subjects and buy 25 kinds of psychic readings.

For information, call 521-2229.

The Missing LINC
Linking individuals to Needs in the Community

Linking individuals to Needs in the Community is a non-profit organization whose purpose is to coordinate needs with resources. This is accomplished by placing goods no longer needed by individuals and businesses into the hands of Metropolitan Detroit charitable agencies. Operating since 1971, LINC is proud of the accomplishments it has made and strives to increase its resource base. If you have recyclable items, no longer of use to you, Operation LINC knows who can and will use them. Please call LINC at 882-6100 with your donation. KEEP IT MOVING!

The Detroit Area PRE-COLLEGE ENGINEERING PROGRAM INC. is in need of MODULAR PARTITIONS for creating office units in classroom settings and LABORATORY EQUIPMENT. This program identifies and works with minority students with the intellectual and personal ambition to succeed.

CRIBS and CRIB MATTRESSES and infant clothing have been requested by the Crisis Pregnancy Center.

BOARD GAMES for ages 12 thru adult are needed for the NORTHEAST DROP-IN Center.

Homeless and runaway youths are helped at the SACTUARY. This organization is in need of a MACINTOSH COMPUTER with printer. Also required are Macintosh one sided floppy discs #OM-D3440 size and computer printer paper.

NATIVITY 4-H has requested several HIGH CHAIRS and INFANT SEATS in good condition, to be used in parenting classes. This program targets prevention of child abuse and teaches parenting skills.

American Heart Association

American Heart Association shopping hints

- Consumers are generally concerned about getting the best for their grocery dollar while at the same time assuring healthy food selections for themselves and their families. A particularly high cost item in most families' food budgets is meat, poultry and fish. The American Heart Association (AHA) offers some hints to help get the most for your food dollar.
- Make your own frozen prepared foods, such as steaks, spaghetti sauce or casseroles.
- Choose dried beans, peas, lentils with chicken, fish or leftover meat. This will provide a satisfying protein rich dish.
- When substituting dried beans and peas for a meat course, remember pre-seasoned dried beans are more expensive! Experiment with herbs and spices and learn to season your food yourself.
- Buy "good" or "standard" grades of beef. They are the leanest and contain more protein and less fat than "prime" or "choice" grades.
- The larger the turkey or chicken, the more meat in relation to the bone and the more servings per pound.
- Buy a whole chicken and cut it up yourself rather than buying chicken parts. Also, if your recipe calls for boned chicken breasts, bone them yourself.
- Chicken, turkey and fish often cost less than meat, and they have less fat and fewer calories. In addition, fish fat is polyunsaturated.
- The American Heart Association points out that proper food selection and preparation are the keys to nutritious meals. All food groups—fish, poultry, lean meat, low-fat dairy products, fruits, vegetables, cereals and grains—should be included in the diet, and cost of food alone will not assure good nutrition.
- Many factors can influence your total food budget. What foods you buy, where you live and shop, how much time you have for meal preparation, and how carefully you plan your meals.
- Use moderate sized portions of fish, poultry or lean meat. AHA's dietary guidelines recommend 5 to 7 oz. per person daily from this food group, and AHA suggests fish and poultry be eaten more frequently than red meat.
- Frozen fish is often less expensive than fresh fish.

Help Your Heart RECIPES

American Heart Association

Five-Minute Soup

A quick-cooking soup, this is best served immediately while the vegetables are fresh and colorful. Double the recipe and you'll be able to freeze soup for eating on chilly Winter days.

4 cups	chicken broth	1	tomato, cubed
	half a raw cucumber, scrubbed, unpeeled and sliced very thin	1/2 cup	leftover lean meat, shredded
2 cups	shredded raw green leaf vegetable (spinach, lettuce or cabbage)	4	raw mushrooms, sliced

Heat the broth. Add the vegetables and meat. Bring to a boil and simmer 5 minutes. Serve immediately.
Yield: About 1 1/2 Quarts

South (11-5, 4-2) got seven kills from Chris Schulte and four from Tracy Lee to drop East Detroit. Megan Keller had three kills and Kathy Rajt added nine service points.

Tracy Lee continued to play well as she picked the struggling Devils up in the third game against Port Huron with six kills. She finished with eight on the day. Coach Cindy Sharpe stated that Lee's performance was the difference.

Schulte smashed seven kills and Megan Keller added four.

Swimming

Still unbeaten. That's one way to describe the Devils' swim team.

With two resounding wins (120-52 over Notre Dame and 112-60 over Brighton) the Devils moved to 8-0 on the year.

The 200 medley relay team of B. Thompson, Smith, C. Nevison and J. Mello led the way against Notre Dame. Also finishing first were C. Keane (200 free), Ted Stedem (200 I.M.) K. MacLean (Diving), I. Thompson (100 butterfly).

C. Winner made the state cut in the 100 backstroke.

At home against Brighton, Wilson, Thompson, Stedem and Keane won the 400 free relay and Nevison won the 100 breaststroke. Mello took two first places, and P. Wilson was first in the 200 individual medley.

Wrestling

With only one win and 12 defeats, the wrestling season seems to linger.

Jake Rowan and Travis Perry won their battles, but South lost the war to Port Huron, 54-23.

Snow birds are flying high

The Snow Birds Ski Club has only completed half of its scheduled trips for the season and most of the skiers have moved up the ladder of success, according to their ability.

The newest badge winners are Peter Guthat and Wilson Wehmeier. Lauren Kordas attained the highest honor of a black badge and Erin McHugh and David Smith received their parallel red badge. All-area blue badges went to Mark Best, Brad Marx, Peter Brown and Michael Saviano. Gaining yellow badges were, Sarah Cius, Parry Creedon. Susan Peslar, Katie Pine, Dana Pozniak, Maryann Marantette and Tara Holvick.

vitational, South had two, third-place finishers — Travis Perry and Barry Brookes.

The next scheduled trip for the Snow Birds will be a mystery trip on Feb. 6. On Feb. 15th, they are having a "Bring a Friend" day. Race day, which is fun races for club awards, is Feb. 20. On March 5th, the season concludes with a "Fun Day" picnic.

Currently, the Snow Birds are in the midst of planning a week-end trip to the north country for some spring skiing, March 11 to 13. This will be a supervised trip for the youngsters and of course, parents and family groups are welcome. The package price of $135 each will include everything, except lunches on Saturday and Sunday. Reservations must be in before Feb. 15.
