

Class of '38: 'May have taken 50 years, but worth the wait'

By Ronald J. Bernas
Staff Writer

As a new school year begins, hundreds of fresh faces are entering high school, bright with the prospects of finding friendships that will last a lifetime.

At the same time, another group of students, most of whom may not have been in a high school for near half a century, were treasuring the memories of a recent 50-year reunion — the only reunion the Grosse Pointe High School Class of '38 has had. And according to the planners and some who attended, it was worth the wait.

There was a reunion some 20 years ago, but it was for a number of classes, according to the planners.

The reunion was prompted by a graduate, Jack Maas, who lives in Fredericksburg, Va. He wrote a letter to the editor of the Grosse Pointe News asking if anyone was interested in celebrating the 50-year anniversary. Three people were.

That was two years ago, said Marty Owens, publicity chairman for the event.

"But the head honcho of this thing was Fred Beyer. He did a lot of work," Owens said.

Beyer is equally modest.

"We decided to plan it and no one wanted to be chairman, so I agreed to do it," he said.

Health problems forced him soon after that to give up the reins, and the reservations were cancelled. But when he recovered, he was right back in the thick of things and the festivities were on again.

He received extensive help with the planning by a number of Grosse Pointers, including Harry Giesekeing, Russ Alles (of Walled Lake), Fred Gerow, Bill Genematas, Doris Williams Swink, Arch Swink, Bea Morrison Marrantette (who was not in the class, but helped by a proxy from her brother.)

Using alumni lists of the school, various colleges, and friends, looking through local phone books, and announcing the reunion through a number of local media, they heard from a surprisingly high percentage of the January and June classes of 1938.

Of the total of 224 from the two classes, 40 have died, 45 could not be located and some are thought to have died, and 139 were still going strong, Beyer said.

Of the graduates who could be reached, 63 attended the party. With spouses included in the following figures, 29 still live in the Pointes, 33 in metro Detroit, 23 in other parts of Michigan, and the rest are from different states, with Robert Hills of Eagle Creek, Oregon, the grad who traveled the farthest to participate in the reunion.

"Brag sheets" were sent to all who could be reached to see what they had been up to for nigh these 50 years.

With tongue firmly in cheek, Owens said, "Boy, you'd be amazed to find out how many presidents and vice presidents and generals and admirals we had in our class."

He added, "You surely don't want to write back that you did nothing."

Among the classmates, 44 men and two women served the country in World War II and four served in the Korean War. There were war prisoners, ace pilots, and highly decorated vets, a Women of the Year for a nearby city, nurses, lawyers, a cattle rancher/sled dog racer, professors, a couple (the only

Local group brings coveted chalice to Grosse Pointe

By Rob Fulton
Sports Editor

A 14-month, suspense-filled, endeavor to win back the Canada's Cup has finally paid off.

Challenge '88/Team Toyota, the 40-foot Nelson/Marek designed boat skippered by Grosse Pointe's John Uznis, now reigns supreme in the world of yachting.

Uznis and his crew of eight stripped the Canadian Steadfast AT&T of the Canada's Cup which has been on a 10-year sojourn through the country. The local crew won the series 4-3.

Bayview Yacht Club, the home port of Challenge '88/Team Toyota, last housed the chalice in 1975.

"We couldn't be more ecstatic," said Ken Meade, founder of The Meade Group of Grosse Pointe. "The team effort was phenomenal. It doesn't get any closer than this in sailboat racing."

The Canada's Cup Series began in 1895 when the Lincoln Park Yacht Club (Chicago) challenged Toronto's Royal Canadian Yacht Club to a series of match races on the Great Lakes, to be held at a neutral location.

Fourteen months ago, the Challenge '88 syndicate, formed by Meade, John Uznis and Kim McNamara, issued the challenge to fill a void left in the trophy case at Bayview.

"It's been 14 months of anti-pation and a lot of different people have worked hard to bring it all together," Meade said. "We built this boat strictly to win the cup back and we finally got what we set out to get."

Challenge '88/Team Toyota earned the right to compete for the Cup after eliminating Fred Detwiler's Trader in the Canada's Cup Elimination Series held at Bayview.

The start of the series in Toronto was delayed, because the first race didn't finish under time restrictions. Challenge '88 tied the series 1-1 after two races, but then fell behind 3-1 in the best-of-seven series.

"We had our backs against the wall," said Meade, who attended the two-week affair. "It was tough to keep morale up, but they (the crew members) are fighters. They wanted to win too badly to lose."

After approximately 57 tacks, Uznis rounded turn No. 6 and headed for No. 7. At that time he trailed by 16 seconds, but eventually cut the deficit and took a lead he never relinquished. The 11-second win in the final match race was typical of the entire series.

"A minute away, we knew we had it won," said Uznis. "It's kind of strange what goes through your mind. When you finish, you enjoy all the hoopla before winning sinks in, but a few minutes later the intensity isn't quite there, because the racing part is over.

"We really are excited about winning the cup," he added. "I can't really explain the feelings I have, except to say I'll remember it the rest of my life."

"They clawed their way back to win it," Meade said. "They had the ability to keep everything in perspective and fight for every inch."

Meade jokingly said he's done a lot of things in his life, but has never experienced anything quite like this.

"It's hard to explain because it was such terrific yachting," he said. "In my life I haven't done anything the easy way, so why start now?"

"The crew came from behind three times to pull it out. I think that in itself says how badly they wanted to bring that cup back to the United States."

Upon leaving the airport the morning of Sept. 1, there was one last reminder — a sign — that the Canadians had surrendered the cup.

The sign read: "Gretzky's gone, and now the Cup," referring to the recent trade by the Edmonton Oilers of hockey great Wayne Gretzky to the Los Angeles Kings.

Challenge '88 is now racing in the World One Ton Championships in San Francisco. Competition concludes next Thursday, Sept. 15.

Senior housing study put on hold

By Ronald J. Bernas
Staff Writer

Although it has the approval and financial support of four of the five Pointes, a proposed study on possible sites for senior housing may not ever get under way.

All of the city councils, with the exception of the Park, pledged support and money to fund the study. The Park council admitted there is a need for senior housing, but said it didn't want to disrupt the single-family nature of the city.

The study, to be performed by Gerald Luedtke and Associates, Inc., would locate sites for market rate alternate housing in the Pointes.

The study has been in the planning stages since September 1987, and was proposed by Focus on Seniors, a Pointe-wide organization which addresses needs of seniors.

According to the study proposal, the urban planning consultants would:

- Meet with each city council to discuss development of the strategy and how it could be coordinated with each city's long range planning objectives;

- Review the preliminary survey of sites with representatives of the cities to determine their acceptability;

- Develop a site profile detailing size, zoning utility considerations, traffic linkages, relationships to nearby shopping and other services and the like which would be needed by a potential developer. These would be combined into an overall document that would set forth a senior housing strategy.

The study is proposed to be funded by each of the Pointes based on the number of houses in each city with the total cost $15,000. The cities that pledged funds stipulated that they come from tax dollars, and not federal block grants, to keep the study from being used for federally subsidized housing.

Park Mayor Palmer Heenan said there were two reasons for the Park council's vote. First that the study is to focus on senior housing and there is no legal way to target housing for only one segment of the population, and second, because the Park wants to keep its single-family atmosphere.

"You don't want to encourage multiple housing in a single-family residential community."

"I understand the cause and I know it is a problem, but you

Seniors may get door-to-door transit

By Ronald J. Bernas

To help deal with the needs of an aging population in the Pointes, a new service is in the works and may be available as early as next month.

The program — as yet unnamed — would be based on a program which has been in operation in Detroit for the past 11 years, according to John Slater, executive director of the Special Citizen Area Transit Program and its parent organization, Community Resource and Assistance Center.

"We first became aware of the need because people who lived on the border (of Grosse Pointe and Detroit) called in and said they lived in Detroit, then crossed Mack to get picked up," Slater said.

The service would be a door-to-door service from any address in the Pointes and Harper Woods to others in the general area, Slater said. Specially trained drivers would help people into and out of the vehicle, which would be equipped to handle wheelchairs.

It would be available to seniors 55 years or older, and the handicapped of any age. Rides would have to be requested 24 hours in advance Monday through Friday. Hours may be expanded to include weekends, depending on the amount of funding available.

Although there would be no cost for the rides, donations are always accepted, Slater said.

"There is a real need for this," he said. "Private companies are very expensive, taxis aren't always wheelchair-equipped, and this is certainly not in competition with SEMTA, because they do not provide door-to-door service and by their nature, they cannot." He added that that SEMTA has supported the project.

The funding for the service would come from the Michigan Department of Transportation, United Foundation and smaller private or corporate donations. Slater is anticipating the donation of two lift-equipped vehicles from Michigan National Bank which has a program called Independence for Life.

Other funding, which is coming along more slowly than Slater would like, might come from various stores that would receive benefits from the program, such as food stores.

The Detroit program has worked so well, Slater said, that the bugs are all worked out and as soon as funding is available — near the middle of October, he expects — the program can be started up immediately.

That program last month provided 4,000 rides, and last year, with seven vehicles, provided 65,000 rides.

"The demand far outstripped our ability to meet it, and we actually had to turn people away. If we had more vehicles and more funds, we could probably provide many more rides," he said.

The program has been formally presented to four of the five cities (Grosse Pointe hasn't seen it yet, but Slater said officials there are aware of the program) and all who have seen it are in favor of it and have sent letters of support to the state to aid in the funding approval. No funds are being requested from the cities.

Pointer of Interest

Tish Colett

By Margie Reins Smith

Tish Colett is a recent convert to historic preservation.

She grew up in Grosse Pointe. Her family has been in the area since 1701: Cadillac's time. She remembers driving past the big old mansions along Lakeshore Drive when she was a child, but said she didn't appreciate them or feel sad as they were demolished, one by one.

"My family never squawked or said anything about historic preservation," she said.

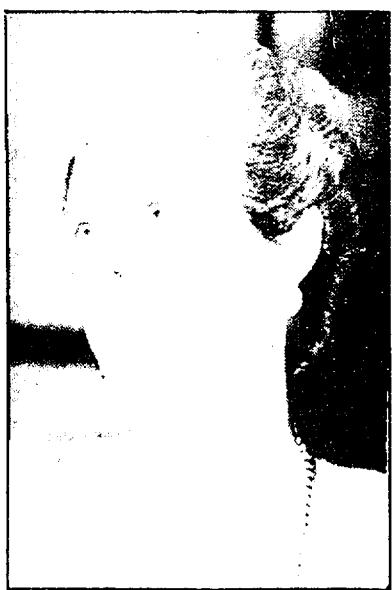

"But I like beautiful things."

Colett said she visited Charleston, S.C. about five or six years ago.

"It piqued my interest to see how beautiful old buildings were preserved and adapted to current use."

Colette has visited other communities and has seen what can be done to save the best of the old.

She joined the Riverfront Committee for the Junior League of Detroit about five years ago; she

Concoct a holiday drink

Any Michiganian with a flair for concocting festive non-alcoholic drinks which reflect "A Charles Dickens Holiday" spirit can compete for top honors in AAA Michigan's eighth annual "Zero-Proof Mix-Off" contest. Deadline for entry is Friday Sept. 23.

Drink recipes will be judged on taste, appearance, originality of name and how well the theme is carried out. Preliminary judging will be at AAA Michigan Headquarters in Dearborn.

The 20 finalists then must mix their drinks in person at 10 a.m. Oct. 13 at Grand Rapids' Amway Grand Plaza Hotel. Hotel accommodations, a meal and mileage allowance will be provided for those residing more than 150 miles from Grand Rapids.

The contest, which promotes AAA Michigan's alcohol-awareness program over the Christmas-New Year's Holidays, carries a first prize of $1,000 trip to Florida or $1,000 in cash. Cash prizes totaling $500 will be awarded for second through fourth place. Winning entries will be featured in "The Great Pretenders" party guide, available at AAA offices in December.

Entrants must be at least 16 years old. No previous winning recipes are eligible. One entry per person and one person per entry are allowed. Community ed offers cheap thrills, royalty

The fall program of non-credit leisure activities for adults and youth scheduled by Grosse Pointe Community Education is contained in the brochure expected to be mailed to all residences in the Grosse Pointe School District around Sept. 1.

Among the classes are 47 new-for-fall covering a wide range of topics, in addition to several hundred tried-and-true offerings. For example, a new series, "Anderssen's Amblings of the Mind" will deal with such diverse subjects as "Cheap Thrills" (travel bargains), "Grade Point Average," "Munich — the Heart of Bavaria" and "Queens and Kings, and Other Things" (dealing with European royalty).

Five classes in astronomy, to be held in the planetarium at Grosse Pointe North High School, are "A Planet for the Taking," "From Horoscopes to Telescopes," "INXS, KICK," "Natural Selection and Evolution" and "The Stars of Autumn."

Other new-for-fall classes are "A Polish Christmas," "Beyond Basic Smoking," "Body Broadcasts" and "Chord Organs."

Grosse Pointe's own acclaimed master cooking teacher, Charity Sucek, will present seven new classes: "A Spanish Appetizer Buffet," "Cajun Cooking — An Introduction," "Chowder," "Cooking for Solos and Seniors III," "Holiday Feast" and "Mediterranean Cooking."

Still more new-for-fall classes are "Composting the Easy Way," "Country Sock Doll," "Current Events in the Securities Market" and "Grosse Pointe — Development of a Suburb."

Other new offerings are "History of Detroit Cemeteries" and "History of Detroit Streets," "How to Love an Old House," "Improve Your Memory and Concentration," "Increase Your Enjoyment of Life," "Intermediate Social Crochet" and "Kitchen and Bath."

Three nutrition classes taught by Gerry Krag in the "Lipid Loss Series" are "Dealing with Food Cues," "Living the Low-Fat Lifestyle" and "Shopping and Meal Planning the Low-Fat Way."

Penny Masouris has developed a new approach to music appreciation with two classes, one classical and the other popular, called "Live Music Literature."

Also new for the fall term are a family night co-sponsored with the Living Science Foundation, "Origami for Parent and Child," "Pasta and Your Food Processor," "Photography Using Ultra Modern Cameras" and "Punch Embroidery Workshop — Advanced."

Other classes are "Refinishing

Molding and Hardware," "Small Claims Court — How it Functions," "The Creative World of Franchising," "Tai-Chi" and an introductory and advanced computer class in "Word Perfect."

Copies of the fall Community Education brochure are available at the public libraries, as well as at the Department of Community Education, located at Barnes School, 20090 Morningside Drive, Grosse Pointe Woods. Call 343-2178 for information.

Free tree pruning guide available

How a tree is pruned in its first few years of life will affect its shape, strength and even its life span.

An illustrated, easy-to-follow guide called "How to Prune Young Shade Trees" has been prepared for homeowners. It can be obtained free of charge by writing The National Arbor Day Foundation.

The How to Prune guide includes step-by-step illustrations showing how proper pruning in the early years of a tree's life can save money in the long run and result in safer, more beautiful, healthy, easy-to-maintain trees.

The booklet even shows how to hold a pair of pruning shears and how to make pruning cuts at the proper angle. You'll learn how to shape and guide a shade tree when it's young so that it's tall, straight, strong, and healthy when it's old.

To obtain your free copy of the booklet, send your name and address to: How to Prune, National Arbor Day Foundation, Nebraska City, Neb. 68410.

Condemnation hearing continues

By Margie Reins Smith
Staff Writer

Judge Robert Colombo Jr. continues to preside at a hearing in Wayne County Circuit Court on the condemnation of the Esquire Theater by Grosse Pointe Park.

The proceedings are a logical step in implementing the city's master plan for redevelopment of the Jefferson Avenue commercial strip, said Jeff Mueller, administrative assistant.

"We can only do one step at a time," he said. "There were a lot of boarded-up buildings (in 1985 and 1986). If we hadn't done something, we'd be in sorry shape now."

According to John Cashen, attorney for the Park, the hearing is expected to be completed by the end of this week.

"The Steiners (owners of the Esquire) have to prove the city's actions are without rational basis," he said. "They're trying to say there's discriminatory intent. The Park disputes this."

City officials claim the theater is a non-conforming use in an area zoned for general business.

Esquire owners claim city officials' reasons are racially moti-

Park councilmembers and public safety officers have been under pressure from citizens and businesses on the Jefferson Avenue strip for more than a year to close the theater. Residents complain that rowdy teenagers are attracted by the $1 admission price. Many of the teenagers are black.

Mueller said the city's Downtown Development Authority was formed in late 1986, a master plan for the redevelopment of Jefferson Avenue was drawn up, and the city purchased a Gulf Gas station, a Steak and Eggs Restaurant and a Unocal station — as a part of the implementation of the plan.

The Esquire was placed on the market in 1986, according to Pam Kondziolka, city clerk. The state equalized valuation, she said, is $74,930. Appraisal value was $271,000.

The Esquire was placed for sale with Champion & Baer Real Estate from March 1986, until December 1986, listed at $285,000, according to Kathy Dillaman, vice president of Champion & Baer. She said there were offers, but none were acceptable.

According to a salesperson at Jarvis Schmidt Real Estate, the Esquire was listed with it for about a year, ending in December 1987. Asking price was $275,000. Jarvis Schmidt received several offers — two or three serious ones.

The Park made four offers for the theater, ranging from $125,000 to $250,000. The last and highest offer was made about one month prior to the Park's decision to condemn it, according to Kondziolka. The condemnation suit was begun in late June 1988.

Witnesses for the Steiners have testified that Park officials used racial slurs when discussing the problems at the theater. Park officials deny this.

Cashen said if the judge upholds the necessity of the condemnation process, the next step is for him to decide when the city takes possession. It would probably be before December, he said, and the next step would probably be a jury trial to determine just compensation for the property.

A family tradition

The Byrne family has gathered for a Labor Day picnic at the Grosse Pointe Woods park every year for 38 years — without missing a single year. They were setting up their picnic tables Sunday afternoon, under a sheltered area, when the rain stopped and sunshine appeared for a brief period.

"We're here every Labor Day and every Fourth of July," said Pat Giroux, who now lives in Livonia. "Rain, snow, sleet or hail. We've never missed."

Family matriarch and patriarch, Richard and Marion Stevenson, of Grosse Pointe Woods, have lived in the Woods for 38 years. They said they expected about 30 family members to join them by the end of the day Sunday.

Elementary curriculum compares favorably to national standard

By Margie Reins Smith
Staff Writer

Alfrieda Frost, director of elementary curriculum for the Grosse Pointe Public Schools, said Grosse Pointe supports most of the concepts put forth recently by Secretary of Education William Bennett concerning elementary curriculum requirements.

Grosse Pointe has approximately 3,200 children in kindergarten through fifth grade this year in nine school buildings.

Bennett's recommendations emphasized seven basic subjects for elementary curricula: English, mathematics, social studies, science, foreign language, physical and health education and fine arts. The Grosse Pointe schools teaches all seven subjects.

Bennett emphasized that students should rely less on textbook reading and more on classic and imaginative literature written for children.

"We're moving forward in that direction," Frost said. "We're using more literature and we encourage reading outside the textbook."

Bennett's recommendations for math were to minimize methodology and results.

"We're in the second year of a new math program," Frost said, "with more emphasis on understanding and problem-solving."

She said the district is looking at its social studies program. "Bennett is criticizing our (type of) program," she said.

Grosse Pointe's elementary school youngsters begin their study of social studies by exploring the family, then moving outward to study the community, then the state, then American history and finally, world history.

Bennett suggests the study of American history in grades one through five, world history and geography in grades six and seven, and American government and world geography in grade eight.

"I question this (concept)," said Frost. She added that the social studies curriculum is being studied this year.

Bennett advocates beginning foreign languages in the fourth grade.

"There's no doubt that children learn languages best at a young age," Frost said. "That is not a philosophical disagreement — but a matter of time."

"Our dilemma is how to squeeze this into the curriculum."

Currently, elementary children cannot learn a foreign language during the school day, but may choose to take youth enrichment courses through the Department of Community Education.

The French Back-to-Back program for fifth graders is a new program this school year. It involves the study of French culture and customs, as well as some language and a travel exchange. A group of Grosse Pointe fifth graders live with French families and go to school in France for three weeks in the spring, while a group of French students live and attend school here.

Grade six now has an exploratory French and Spanish course. Students then must choose either French or Spanish in grade seven.

Frost said the district's strongest point is its elementary school writing program.

She also said the school system is implementing a new reading program this year.

And — as a long-term project — she said, "For elementary students, we're looking at the best possible use of time during the school day. We're trying not to pull students out of class as much and we're looking at extra activities that are brought into the schools."

Teen suicide: The warning signs

The American Academy of Child and Adolescent Psychiatry is concerned about teen suicide.

Suicides among young people have increased dramatically, becoming the third leading cause of death for teenagers and the second leading cause of death for college students.

Many teenagers experience strong feelings of stress, confusion and self-doubt in the process of growing up, and the pressures to succeed combined with economic uncertainties and fears about nuclear war can intensify these feelings.

For some teenagers, divorce, the formation of a new family with step-parents and step-siblings, or moving to a new community can be very unsettling and can intensify self-doubts. In some cases suicide appears to be a solution.

Depression and suicidal feelings are treatable mental disorders. The child or adolescent needs to have his or her illness recognized and diagnosed, and appropriate treatment plans should be made. When parents are in doubt whether their child has a serious problem, a psychiatric examination does no harm.

Many of the symptoms of suicidal feelings are similar to those of depression. Parents should be aware of the following warning signs of adolescents who may try to kill themselves. According to the American Academy of Child and Adolescent Psychiatry, if one or more of these signs occurs, parents should talk to their child and seek professional help if the concerns persist:

- Change in eating and sleeping habits.
- Withdrawal from friends and family and from regular activities.
- Violent or rebellious behavior, or running away.
- Drug and alcohol abuse.
- Unusual neglect of personal appearance.
- Radical personality change.
- Persistent boredom, difficulty concentrating, or a decline in the quality of schoolwork.
- Frequent complaints about physical symptoms, often related to emotions, such as stomachache, headache, fatigue, etc.
- Loss of interest in pleasurable activities.
- Not tolerating praise or rewards.

commit suicide may also:

- Complain of being "rotten inside."
- Give verbal hints with statements such as: "I won't be a problem for you much longer," "Nothing matters," "It's no use," or "I won't see you again."
- Put his or her affairs in order — for example, give away favorite possessions, clean his or her room, throw things away, etc.
- Become suddenly cheerful after a period of depression.

People often feel uncomfortable talking about death. However, it can be helpful to ask the child or adolescent whether he or she is depressed or thinking about suicide. Rather than putting thoughts into the child's head, such a question will provide assurance that somebody cares and will give the young person the chance to talk about his or her problems.

With support from family and friends — and professional treatment — children and teenagers who are suicidal can be restored to a more healthy path of development.

Scarab Club to host exhibition

The Scarab Club will host the Edgar Yeager Retrospective Exhibition, to run from Sept. 12 through Oct. 2. Gallery hours are Monday through Friday 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., and weekends from 2 to 4 p.m. Admission and parking is free.

There will be a reception with Yeager on Thursday, Sept. 22. Tickets are available by calling 831-1250. All proceeds will benefit the Scarab Club Restoration Fund.

Yeager attended both Robert Herxberg's Detroit School of Fine and Applied Art and the John P. Wicker School of Fine Arts. He also studied in Paris with Andre' Lhote, Marcel Gromaire and Othon Friesz.

One of the earliest abstract artists in Michigan, he was influenced by both Picasso and the Italian forerunner of surrealism, Giorgio de Chirico.

He has executed various murals for Grosse Pointe City Hall, University of Michigan and other Michigan institutions. Yeager has also held numerous one-person exhibitions and many national and international events during his 60-year career.

The Scarab Club Clubhouse was built in 1928 and is an important example of the Arts and Crafts style of architecture. The lounge will also host an Ethnic Art Exhibition during the month of September in association with the Detroit Festival of the Arts.

The lounge with its paneled walls are used for changing displays of the diverse works of the members and special groups. The ceiling has uniquely decorated beams, which have been signed over the decades by internationally famous artists.

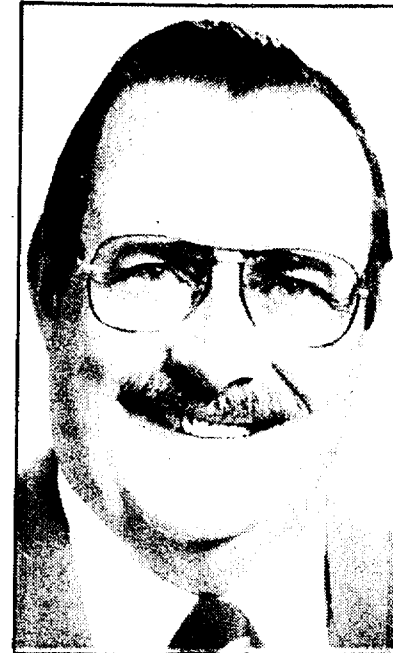

Christians and Middle East is topic

William Gepford, of the Presbytery of Detroit where he is program director for the Arab Ministry program, will speak on "The Christian's Responsibility and the Middle East" Sunday, Sept. 11, at 10:20 a.m. at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, 16 Lakeshore.

He will discuss the Detroit Presbytery's recent resolution on the Middle East.

His background includes 10 years as an educator in Presbyterian-related schools in Lebanon and the American University of Beirut where he was dean of students, six years as a student worker in Hong Kong as director of the Student Christian Center in Kowloon, and seven years on the administrative staff of Muskingum College in New Concord, Ohio.

The talk is open to the public.

Is your teenager smarter than his or her SAT score?

Probably. Even a case of the butterflies can affect your child's SAT score.

To do better, your son or daughter should prepare better. For nearly 40 years, Stanley H. Kaplan's test-taking techniques and professional educational programs have helped over 100,000 students prepare for the SAT. Many have increased their scores 150, 200, as much as 250 points.

Bicycling is first talk in historical society series

Dr. Philip P. Mason will begin the Grosse Pointe Historical Society series with a talk on "The Bicycling Era and the Gay Nineties" on Thursday, Sept. 15, at 7:30 p.m. at the Grosse Pointe South High School auditorium.

Mason is a professor of history and director of Archives of Labor and Urban Affairs for the Walter P. Reuther Library at Wayne State University.

He holds a degree in liberal arts from Boston University and a master's degree and doctorate in history from the University of Michigan.

Before coming to Wayne State in 1958, Mason was state archivist. He served as executive secretary of the Society of American Archivists from 1963 to 1968, and as its president from 1970 to 1971.

A noted history lecturer, Mason is also a writer and his articles have appeared in Archivaria, American Archivist and other historical journals.

The lecture is the first in a series to be presented annually by the Dr. Frank Bicknell Educational Fund. In 1987, Bicknell's daughter and son-in-law, Martha and George Kellner, of New York City, presented $25,000 to the Grosse Pointe Historical Society to host an annual historical lecture in his honor. Bicknell, a long-time Grosse Pointer, is the former chairman of the urology department of Hutzel Hospital.

Admission is free.

A reception honoring Bicknell and his family will be held in South's Cleminson Hall immediately following the lecture.

Schools start but financing issue remains

Even though schools in Grosse Pointe and elsewhere around the state have already begun their fall classes, legislators in Lansing still have been unable to agree on a new method of financing the public schools for the coming year.

True, they are closer to agreement than they had been some months ago, but leading legislators now are saying that the earliest a new school finance plan can be put on the ballot is probably next March.

However, a special election at that time will do little to solve the current funding problems that are delaying teacher contract negotiations in many districts. As long as there was a possibility of a school finance proposal at the August primary or even at the November general election, people didn't want to make long-term commitments about their school budgets.

With a state vote now apparently put off until March, there may be more teacher strikes around the state as both sides are still uncertain about future funding.

The Detroit dailies have reported that the plan now under discussion by the House and Senate negotiators would raise the sales tax from 4 percent to 6 percent. The increased revenues from the sales tax boost would more than replace the revenues lost by the proposed property tax cuts.

The plan would also increase state funding of school aid by as much as $500 million a year, exempt the first $15,000 market value of property from school taxes, redistribute state aid so that poorer districts would receive more money and limit school property taxes to a maximum of 28 mills, plus a possible addition of 2 mills. Districts with higher rates would be required to roll back their millages and be reimbursed by the state for lost revenue.

Under the current plan, the Grosse Pointe School District appears to be one of the districts that would be affected by the cap on school property taxes but would also be entitled to some reimbursement from the state for its loss of revenue. Just how much state reimbursement an out-of-formula district such as Grosse Pointe would be entitled to receive is not yet clear.

Nor is it clear whether the proposed cap on local school millage includes the library levies in such districts as Grosse Pointe in which the school board runs the libraries. In fact, it is not clear whether the county levies for school purposes would also be included in figuring the district's total levy that would be subject to the cap.

Another problem will be created if the special state election on the new funding plan is set for March. That is the month the Grosse Pointe school board had tentatively scheduled a vote on its own school millage renewal. If the state goes ahead with its March vote, the local date presumably would have to be moved ahead to April or May so that the board would know what happened on the state plan before the vote here.

If such points can be settled to Grosse Pointe's satisfaction, local school people and their supporters would find it easier to accept the rest of the program when the issue finally appears on the state ballot. The present understanding here, however, is that the Grosse Pointe district is apt to lose funding both from the proposed cap on local millage and proposed new limits on state reimbursements for costs now met locally.

Our view is that the Grosse Pointe community is firmly dedicated to excellence in its public schools and has consistently provided the necessary financing to support the schools' high standing. But any state move that would limit the local district's ability to levy the taxes needed to maintain high standards would be objectionable because it would put a cap on excellence.

True, a state cap would be part of the program to increase funding and raise the standards for districts with low property valuations. But surely it should not be necessary to limit the ability of the state's better-financed districts to offer high quality education in order to improve educational standards in poorer districts.

That would be the road to egalitarianism, not excellence, or, as the Michigan Education Association president has said, it would be the way to bring about "legislated mediocrity" in our schools.

The long, hot summer of '88

Whatever the statistics show, we all know that the summer of 1988 was one of the worst in memory, with the heat and humidity and drought all setting new records.

In Detroit, the precipitation through August totaled 13.38 inches, or 8.28 less than normal. Rainfall for August alone was 3.13 inches, or just about normal. Temperatures were far above normal with many more days in excess of 90 and even 100 than in an average year.

In the Pointes, the hot, dry summer damaged lawns, trees, flower and vegetable gardens and residents' sense of humor. On occasion, it was even too hot to go swimming, although the Pointe parks were usually crowded. One bright economic note: Sales of fans and air conditioning soared.

Yet the cost of the heat and drought in the Pointes was nothing compared with the loss by farmers in Michigan and elsewhere in the Midwest. Many lost more than half of their grain crops. Others sold off livestock because of the loss of pastures and the high cost of feed. And not even the recent rains have ended the long drought.

As a result, the federal government approved the most generous drought relief legislation in history, allocating $3.9 billion for farmers hard hit by the devastating dry spell. The most extensive aid will go to farmers in the Midwest where overall crop losses have been estimated at 30 percent or more.

While many urban residents, including some in the Pointes, have grumbled about the cost of the federal farm relief program, a good case can be made that it was necessary to prevent many farmers from going bankrupt and having to leave the farm. While the farm population now constitutes only about 3 percent of the nation's total, any further decline would risk a reduction in production as well as excessive concentration of the ownership of farm land.

A further argument in favor of federal drought aid is that its cost will be more than covered by the savings on the current farm program made possible by the dry spell. The federal government will spend an estimated $6 billion less on farm price supports this year than had been anticipated before the drought struck.

True, all of us will help finance drought relief through our federal taxes and, at the same time, pay higher prices in our supermarkets for fruit, vegetables and other farm products hit by the drought. But without this federal legislation a good many farmers and farm families would not have made it through the year.

And isn't it appropriate that Pointers be sympathetic to the nation's farmers when one of our own communities is named Grosse Pointe Farms?

The virtues of moderation

In politics as in many other things, moderation is a virtue that is not always appreciated, especially by the political parties and the people who are active in them.

That is especially true of Republicans who in recent years have moved steadily to the right, not only nationally but in Michigan since Gov. William Milliken stepped down in 1982 after a record 14 years as the state's chief executive.

Michigan was not exactly prospering in that recession year, but the Republican Party in this state still does not seem to realize what it was that made Milliken attractive to a majority of voters for so many years. It was, of course, his moderation.

Perhaps it was somewhat hypocritical for Democratic Gov. James Blanchard to lavish praise on the Millikens at the sellout benefit in Traverse City honoring the former governor and his wife, Helen. Blanchard has not always been as generous nor spoken in such glowing terms about Milliken, especially in his election campaigns.

Yet surely the Democratic governor was correct in lauding the Republican governor who preceded him for his ability to steer a moderate course for the state during such upheavals as the civil rights movement, the Vietnam War and the recession which became a depression in Detroit.

In that period, Blanchard said, the Millikens "were the anchors of Michigan, the anchors of decency and progress." Blanchard then added that "the Millikens have set a standard for the future" of Michigan politics.

In the bipartisan affair, praise also came from former GOP colleagues, including State Supreme Court Justices Robert P. Griffin and James H. Brickley, both of whom benefited from appointments, endorsements and support from the former governor.

It was appropriate, too, in the bipartisan affair that tributes to the Millikens should come from the 1988 standard bearers of both parties, Vice President George Bush, whom Milliken supported over Ronald Reagan in Bush's victory in the 1980 presidential primary, and Michael Dukakis, the Democratic nominee, who was a Milliken ally on several issues when both were active in the National Governors' Association.

Even Mayor Coleman Young of Detroit, who has kept a low profile since his defeat on the casino gambling issue in the primary, praised Milliken as an advocate of human rights and declared Aug. 27 as Milliken Day in Detroit.

Unfortunately, there has been little evidence that the state's current GOP leadership, still leaning to the right, has paid much attention to Milliken's record of moderation or even to Blanchard's declaration that the Millikens "have set the standards for the future."

Lottery funding of education explained

By Michael J. Carr
Bureau of State Lottery

I don't know how many times I've been asked, "Where is all that lottery money going?" or "Why should I vote for a local millage issue when my taxes are already too high and the lottery was supposed to reduce them?"

Furthermore, because lottery funding for education is so frequently misunderstood and difficult to explain, local school boards have an even tougher job convincing voters to support millage proposals.

Several things contribute to misconceptions about lottery support to schools, especially the fact that a lot of people just don't realize how much it costs to educate our young people. According to Department of Education figures, the total cost of educating the 1.6 million children currently attending public school in Michigan is a whopping $6.7 billion. That's billion dollars, not million.

Secondly, I suspect many assume the state provides the lion's share of funding for schools. This is simply not the case. More than half of this revenue must come from local taxpayers — in spite of the fact that the largest share (34 percent) of the total state operating budget goes for education.

The State of Michigan's contribution to education is primarily in the form of revenue from the School Aid Fund, and that's where the lottery comes into the picture. Since 1981, all net lottery revenues have been specifically earmarked for inclusion in that fund to help support kindergarten through 12th grade public education. Lottery money amounts to about 16 percent of the revenue in the School Aid Fund annually, or $407 million last year.

The School Aid Fund is then distributed by the Department of Education according to terms of the state school aid formula, established each year by our elected representatives in the Michigan legislature.

The school aid formula is the method used to determine which school districts are eligible for state aid (in-formula) and those which are not eligible for state aid (out-of-formula) because local taxpayer support is adequate to provide quality education with minimal state assistance. So, school districts with a poorer local tax base receive more state aid than those in which there are adequate local resources.

Nevertheless, lottery support of education has indirectly saved taxpayers money because the state no longer has to pull a comparable amount out of the state's general fund — made up primarily of money collected from taxpayers — to fulfill its role in supporting education. (During just the last two years, lottery funding was the equivalent of about $250 per Michigan household.)

It's also important to note that both lottery contributions and general fund money for education have increased over the past few years.

Maybe all the confusion began back in 1972 when the lottery was first begun. I'm sure many who voted on the referendum which permitted its establishment wanted to believe it would be a cure-all for educational funding woes. It's even possible that some proponents contributed to this misconception. But the fact remains that the lottery is not a panacea.

My intent here is not to downplay the role of the Michigan lottery. It has, and will continue to be, very important in helping provide needed revenue for our schools. But the lottery's contribution can never be anywhere near large enough to carry that burden alone.

As citizens who understand that our hope for the future rests with the children of today, we must support our local school boards and approve millage proposals when needed. Providing a quality education for our young people is a responsibility we all share.

Off to school they go

It's time for crossing guards and school buses again.

School is back and so are all the sales on clothes. As a kid, it used to be a big deal to go shopping for new school clothes. What should I get to go with my brown pants, and what shirt would match this creatively designed plaid pair of pants?

This time of year I wonder what kids are thinking. Are they happy the summer has passed, or would they rather be sleeping in and worrying what time the local kids would be getting together to sell lemonade at the corner? I used to dread it when summer was history, but once school started I was geared into recess, lunch time, and of course, studying.

Picking out clothes and new shoes was also part of the pre-school shopping spree. The demand for lunch bags or lunch boxes would outweigh supply, but somehow I always found a place for my sandwich, piece of fruit, a bag of chips and a couple of cookies. To this day, I still see brown paper bags with those grease spots on them, and I still wait for someone to tell me how they got there.

Mom used to make sure we always had some money to buy milk. For five pennies, I used to get a pint of milk. That was a lot of milk back then, but now 25 cents only gets you half that (so it seems).

It never rained on the first day of school. It was always an incredibly beautiful day that brought only sunshine and smiles. The gloom that encompassed the hallways was when you found out you had public enemy No. 1 for history.

I had to walk to school each day. Some friends would ride the bus, while others received rides from parents. I was fortunate enough to live only four blocks away from my elementary school, and only 100 yards from junior high. Needless to say, it was my parents' lawn that hosted the after-school football games and early evening baseball games.

The first day of school would set precedent for the rest of the year. Things you couldn't do, you ended up doing just because you wanted to explore, and the things you could do seemed too boring, so you left those out.

I remember playing tag and keep-away. Kicking soccer balls and throwing playground balls were a part of lunch time we couldn't miss. After graduating from elementary school and heading into junior high, all those "immature" things were dismissed. We only found more immature things to do.

I used to look forward to lunch time, because just before that, I had a drill sergeant for a math teacher. If I got through fourth hour, the rest of the day was a breeze.

High school came and went like a bolt of lightning. Before I knew it, I donned cap and gown and then headed for Central Michigan University. But nothing changed. I still went clothes shopping, I purchased new shoes, underwear and toothpaste. I began to appreciate life's finer things and still got an invigorating feeling walking to that first class of the year.

Each day the same kids would walk in the same direction. Cliques would walk the streets together, play together, be in the same class, and always walk home together. Boys used to make fun of girls, and girls never admitted they had cooties.

I remember being a safety boy. I wore that orange strap proudly. I can remember when the 1972 Detroit Tigers were winning the pennant, and TVs were put in every classroom. I recall the numerous film strips and movies we watched — it was all started by that first day of school.

Orientation to the school was a fearsome reality. Where is room 101A, and which hall is my locker in. I used to love homeroom meetings because I wouldn't have to be drilled by the math teacher.

School was fun, and it still is fun. I watch the kids rummage through the sale racks, see their faces when Spiderman goes home with them on their lunch box, and I see students walking to school (even though a Spree scooter seems to be the way to go today).

Meeting new classmates and seeing old faces was fun. You always tried to see who was cool and who wasn't. On the first day of school, the teacher would ask what we did over the summer, and everyone's story varied. It was fun to hear the tales of how David's story of how he caught pollywogs never changed over 12 years.

My only wish now is to own stock in pencils, pens, notebooks, ring binders and erasers.

ATTACKING

Yesterday's Headlines

Sept. 6, 1973 —

The New York Times reported that President Nixon said that he was giving highest priority to achieving a Middle East settlement that would put an end to Arab threats to curtail future oil deliveries to western countries.

The FBI uncovered evidence showing that almost all of the Superfecta races that were run at Roosevelt, Yonkers and Monticello Raceways from December 1972 through March 1973 were fixed. They said that the fixers of the races had netted more than $2 million during those months. Superfecta wagering, where bettors pick the first four finishers of a race in correct order, was suspended April 15 at the suggestion of the FBI.

President Nixon said he would veto the minimum wage bill and challenged Congress to improve upon a disappointing record by enacting his bipartisan legislative proposals.

Nixon said that the nation would face economic distress, enter nuclear arms negotiations and encounter a severe energy crisis unless Congress moved quickly to implement White House initiatives.

A small band of Palestinian gunmen took over the Saudi Arabian Embassy and reportedly seized at least 15 diplomats and employees as hostages.

The gunmen threatened to blow up the embassy or kill their hostages if their demands were not met.

The commandos demanded that Jordan free Mohammed Daoudodeh, a leader of Al Fatah, the Palestinian guerrilla organization who was serving a life sentence for terrorist activities.

In Grosse Pointe, negotiations continued between the Grosse Pointe Board of Education and the Grosse Pointe teachers Association, but a contract settlement was not reached. Teachers did come to work on the first day of classes despite contract disputes.

Erratic driving led to the arrest of two motorcyclists by Woods police and further charges.

Roger Ellison, 25, of Detroit was charged with changing lanes without signaling, throwing missiles, and carrying a concealed weapon.

Another cyclist, James Morang, 30, of Ferndale, was charged with changing lanes without signaling and failure to renew his license.

Detroit Henry Reed Jr., 27, who was found guilty of first degree murder in the beating death of Alfred R. Glancy Jr., was sentenced to life imprisonment in Wayne County Circuit Court. His imprisonment is to be served at hard labor.

A 22-year old Detroit resident was charged with trying to run into police cars while pointing a gun at the officers. He was ultimately apprehended after a road block was set up in front of the Woods municipal building.

Youth Service Division agent Michael Ferrence, liaison officer to North High School, was one of 38 officers who attended the Police School Liaison Institute Aug. 20-24 in Flint.

The program was sponsored by the National Center Community Education and gave liaison officers an opportunity to explore relations between police, students and the school system on common problems.

Take it off — take it all off

Clay Berger just isn't going to look the same after tomorrow.

Seems he challenged his co-workers at the Grosse Pointe Post Office to raise $1,000 for muscular dystrophy. If they succeeded, he would (gasp!) shave off his 10-year-old beard.

"Normally, I would raise a couple hundred dollars," said co-worker John Jarvis, who, as union steward, is chief cheerleader and fundraiser for charities in the office. "We had never come near that total, so we took him on."

The folks in the office began to bake brownies and scrape the bottom of their wallets, and the fund began to grow. Last Saturday, they even held a car wash in The Rain and netted $200.

The fund topped out at $1,450. Berger is parting with his chin warmer on Friday.

"A couple of girls here in the office have volunteered to shave it off," Jarvis said.

Don't be depressed, Clay — it's for a good cause.

More good news from the post office — this time, from the big guys in Washington.

They're going to restore Saturday window service, this very Saturday, in fact.

The Saturday hours were cut in a move to reduce the post office budget. Now it is believed that costs can be held down through "other, less onerous actions." (They didn't say what those were.)

Some post offices have already made the schedule change. In Grosse Pointe, the hours are 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays except Wednesdays, when the window will be open until 8 p.m. On Saturdays, the hours are 8 a.m. till noon.

Jamboree

And more news on the muscular dystrophy front.

The weekend telethon wasn't your last chance to raise money for "Jerry's kids." This weekend, Sunday, Sept. 11, the American Legion hold in Mount Clemens will host a country western jamboree to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Seven country western bands will be featured at the event hosted by WCXI's Buddy Blake. Look also for a dunk tank, pony rides, an auction, door prizes and refreshments.

Cost is $3 for the 2 p.m. to midnight event. Call 772-0132 for more info.

one) who married a fellow class member, and lots of grandparents. Although most are retired, there was one who said he was planning on retiring in the year 2000.

"We had huge nametags printed up. That way we could see who the people were without using our glasses," Owens said. The tags were hung around necks on blue and gold (the school colors) ropes.

The music, hired out of pocket by Beyer, was provided by Chet Bogan and his Dixieland Jass Band, and it filled the floors of the Hunt Club with a big band sound that got everyone on their feet, Owens said.

"It was amazing to see how the people had changed, and how many didn't change at all," Beyer said.

Beyer said there was a woman whom he couldn't remember at all — the face didn't ring a bell and neither did the name. That was rather upsetting to the woman who turned out to be an old sweetheart of his.

"She got mad at me."

One of the attendees was Evelyn Denne Osgood who said the reunion was a "wonderful time."

She said she did keep in touch with a few people from the class throughout the years, but that most of the people, although remembered, had gotten lost throughout the years.

"It was great to see all the old friends," she said. "We all looked really good, I thought, and everyone was dancing."

She had the unique experience of watching her grandson, Milton B. Osgood III, graduate from South, exactly 50 years from the year she graduated from the same school.

Beyer has received a few letters from those who attended the reunion.

"A fellow came from Indiana and said, 'It may have taken 50 years, but it was worth the wait.'"

And Owens said he's already getting suggestions to plan something else in a few years — as well as suggestions for a really big event in 2038 for the 100th reunion.

can't have everything in a city that's 2.1 square miles," he said.

Jean Rice, a member of Focus on Seniors, said the group is at a loss on where to go now with the study.

"I don't know where it is now except shot down," she said. "I believe it would have been an excellent study that would have helped us all."

The Park's portion of some $4,000 might be too large to ask the other cities to fund, Rice said. Another option might be to do the study anyway, but not include the Park in it, and eliminate that part of the total cost.

Rice, who is also a Woods councilwoman, said although that city had recently completed a study like it, "it would have been a duplicate, but we did it because we knew it would have benefited all of us. I was pleased that it went through." She called her council's decision "very un-territorial."

Focus on Seniors will meet later this month to decide what to do.

Disarming children

Since 1982 there has been a 700 percent increase in war toy sales, according to Stop War Toys Campaign (Norwich, Conn.) reported in Fellowship magazine in December.

A plan to exchange a war toy for a peace toy is part of the exhibit at the Swords into Plowshares Peace Center in Detroit. Besides displays of children's art and of games and toys, the Center will give a peace toy to children who bring in a war toy, or to children whose parents sign a statement that they have not or will not give war toys to their children.

In addition, the center will provide Saturday work shops for children, including story-telling, new games, kite-making, clowning. There will be a parenting for peace workshop for adults. Participation is free, but registration is required.

The exhibit runs Saturday, Sept. 10 through Nov. 5. There will be an opening reception Friday, Sept. 16 from 5 to 9 p.m. The center is located at 45 E. Adams, Detroit, on Grand Circus Park, near the Whitney Building People Mover station.

For information call Central Methodist Church, 965-5422, weekdays 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Groups wishing to visit at other times may call to make arrangements.

Childhood cancer support group

The "Metro Detroit Candlelighters affiliated with St. John Hospital," a support group for parents and health professionals touched by childhood cancer, meets the first and third Thursday of each month at 7 p.m. in St. John Hospital's ground floor boardroom.

Believing it is better to light one candle than to curse the darkness, the group shares goals such as linking parent to parent, exchanging information, breaking down social isolation, providing guidance in coping with childhood cancer's effect on all in a family, and identifying patient and family needs so medical and social systems respond adequately.

The group meets next on Sept. 15 at St. John Hospital, 22101 Moross west of Mack, one mile east of the I-94 freeway).

Labor history tours offer glimpse of unions' struggles

By Margie Reins Smith
Staff Writer

The Detroit Historical Department is offering a series of tours this fall for those who want to learn more about an often neglected side of Detroit's history — the struggles and organization of labor unions.

Three Saturday tours, Sept. 17, Oct. 15 and Nov. 12, will feature sites important in the evolution of labor unions in Detroit.

"The tours will explore Detroit's growth as a major industrial center, as well as examine the response of workers to that development," said Thomas Dietz, curator of urban history at the Detroit Historical Department. "They're called labor history tours, but they're as much urban and industrial history, developed into the whole context of how workers organized unions."

Grosse Pointer Dave Elsila was one of the developers of the labor history project.

"The tour project started in the 1970s," he said, "when people in the labor movement tried to fill a gap. A group met and developed a pamphlet, 'Union Town,' with maps for people to do their own tours."

At first, he said, the information was used mostly by classroom teachers and special groups.

Some interesting information tour-goers might pick up: "One location was the site of the first auto strike, in 1913, at the Studebaker plant. It just happened to have been led by an 18-year-old woman."

Tours concerning labor and union history are not new, Dietz said. "For the last 10 years we've had tours for labor groups and students. What's new is that they're now available to the general public and for groups on a regular basis."

The Sept. 17 bus tour, "Industrial Detroit before the Assembly Line," traces Detroit's industrial development from approximately 1850 until the advent of assembly lines. It focuses on the riverfront district and the Milwaukee Junction area.

In the riverfront area, saw mills, brass works and grist mills laid the groundwork for later Detroit industries, and Dietz said many east side industrial buildings from the last century are still standing.

"Small forges, iron works, marine engine works, metal working industries. One site is the Soup Kitchen Saloon," he said.

"It was an old German saloon in the 1850s and was the site, in 1857, of what was called the Whore House Riot."

The Oct. 15 tour, "The Diego Rivera Murals," features a 45-minute labor history perspective on the well-known Diego Rivera murals at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

The Mexican artist completed the murals in 1933. They depict life on the assembly line in Henry Ford's massive River Rouge plant. The tour offers both a labor and an industrial history perspective on Rivera's masterpiece, using the murals to discuss changes in labor relations.

The Nov. 12 bus tour, "The West Side and the Rise of the UAW," covers sites important in the building and operation of the Ford Rouge plant, between 1917 and 1928.

"It features the site of a strike in the early '30s that helped to build the UAW," Dietz said. "Oakwood and Ford Street was the scene of a hunger march in 1932, during the Depression. People were hungry. The symbolic march to the Rouge Plant was to persuade Henry Ford that he should provide jobs instead of laying people off," Dietz said.

"The workers marched up toward Miller Road and had confrontations with Detroit and Dearborn police. There was some tear gas. When they got up to the plant itself, Henry Ford's security forces came out and four marchers were killed. Some were wounded. It led to lots of anger and a spectacular funeral procession."

Tickets for the labor history tours are $6 per person per tour; a package price of $15 buys tickets for all three tours. Reservations may be made by mail. Make checks to: Detroit Historical Society, 5401 Woodward Ave., Detroit, 48202. No telephone reservations will be accepted and no tickets will be available on the days of the tours.

Buses leave the historical museum at 10 a.m. For more information, call 833-1475.

Elsila said that a 35-minute slide show is also available for groups or students. Call 822-6426 for slide show information or for custom-designed tours.

Headmaster shows he knows the plane facts

By Chip Chapman
Special Writer

Anyone familiar with the Grosse Pointe Academy may have noticed something new on the school grounds. It might appear like a small plane missed City Airport, but it's just a new addition to the Academy's playground.

Headmaster Sidney DuPont constructed the wooden plane to complement a train on the grounds given by the William Rands family.

The idea for the plane came when DuPont was inspecting the historic barn at the Academy and noticed that the roof had been leaking. Looking up at the inside of the roof, he saw two wheels hanging down. Someone suggested that they resembled the wheels of an airplane.

That set of wheels is now part of the new airplane.

DuPont said he began the project with no particular design in mind, but used an encyclopedia to model it after the English Sopwith Camel, the plane used to fight the Red Baron in World War I. A second seat was added to allow an additional "pilot" when the children play on it.

The plane was built in 10 hours. DuPont has been asked to add a boat to the transportation collection, but he indicated that he does not want to enter the playground construction business.

Recycling coalition expands scope

At their August meeting, members of the Grosse Pointe Recycling Coalition voted to establish a more formally structured separate community organization to deal with the pressing solid waste problems. They will vote on bylaws in the fall.

Member organizations have included the League of Women Voters of Grosse Pointe, the American Association of University Women Grosse Pointe Branch, Council of Grosse Pointe Garden Clubs, Grosse Pointe Unitarian Church, and Grosse Pointe Public School System Department of Community Education, as well as many interested individuals.

One of the coalition's major activities was to support formation of the successful Community Newspaper Recycling Center at University Liggett School on Cook Road. The center will celebrate its first anniversary Oct. 17.

The purposes of the new, broader-based group will be: To promote recycling as a means of reducing the volume of trash now incinerated or landfilled; to educate the community to the benefits of recycling; to urge local authorities to include recycling as a part of their long range waste management plans.

Interested persons should call 886-3078 or 881-9588 for more information.

Teen cancer support

Support for adolescents with cancer, or those in remission, is offered the first and third Thursdays of each month at St. John Hospital. The next session is Sept. 15.

The group meets in the hospital's Pediatric unit at 7 p.m. and is led by Michael McMillan, Ph.D., child psychologist. All teenagers in the community affected by cancer are welcome to attend.

For more information call 776-2949.

What's happening

A simple call can update visitors and Detroiters on the many activities occurring around Metro Detroit. Known as the "What's Line," this free phone hotline is operated by the Metropolitan Detroit Convention & Visitors Bureau.

The "What's Line" is a two to three minute telephone recording offering daily information on concerts, plays, exhibits, sports and other events happening in Detroit. This service is available seven days a week, 24 hours a day and can be reached by calling 256-6262. There is no charge.

Monte Nagler saw a lot in this late evening photograph of Lake Tahoe. His eye, and ultimately the lens, saw a dramatic arrangement of shapes and patterns that together make an exciting backlit landscape.

Photography

By Monte Nagler

Practice, practice, practice

Photographers, like all creative artists and top athletes, require practice. A concert violinist works daily on hand and sound techniques. A gymnast practices his or her routines constantly in order to perfect a performance. Photographers need their special kind of practice, too.

First, a photographer needs to practice the technical skills necessary to making a picture. You must know the operation of your camera thoroughly. Use of shutter speeds, aperture control, proper focus techniques, characteristics of different films — all these and more must become second nature to you.

Knowing what each of your lenses will do for you is important. Many shots that require spontaneity may be lost if you have to fuss and deliberate too long over the controls of your camera.

Second, and of utmost importance, is to practice seeing picture possibilities. A creative photographer sees picture potential in even the most ordinary of scenes. The creative photographer looks for the unusual, picks out small details, sees textures and shadows, responds to arrangements of color.

A creative photographer relates to his or her subject, even builds a relationship with the subject. You must learn to let your subject speak to you, and, in turn, you must learn to listen. Practice being open and receptive to the world around you.

Famous photographer Minor White once said: "The creative photographer must have a receptive state of mind, not unlike a sheet of film itself, seemingly inert, yet so sensitive that a fraction of a second's exposure conceives a life in it."

Practice looking at things in new ways. Study your subject from all angles and in different lighting conditions. An unusual camera or different lens may be just the thing to make your photograph stand apart.

Finally, to stay in practice, use your camera often! A tennis player, for instance, will keep his skills by spending hour after hour on the court.

Similarly, you must keep in top photographic shape, too, by taking camera in hand and practicing on the abundance of subjects that surround you.

All of your shots may not be masterpieces. Maybe only a few images per roll will satisfy you.

But this is OK. The important thing is to practice with your camera and let yourself be moved by the subjects that excite you.

Photographers to meet

More than 2,000 photographers from across the Midwest will meet Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 17 and 18, at the Dearborn Civic Center, 15801 Michigan Ave., for the fall photo trade show — Photorama USA.

Photographers of all descriptions — shutterbugs, snapshotters, camera collectors, professional and beginners, all with a common interest in photography will meet at this national event.

About 100 dealers will display new and used photo equipment, including cameras and lenses, as well as antique and collectible photographia. Most of the dealers will be prepared to buy, sell or trade equipment.

Allan Lowy will conduct a work shop on model photography, that will include models in studio setting, with special lighting and backdrops. The public is invited to participate by bringing their cameras and imagination.

Hours are from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday, and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Sunday. Admission is $4. Photorama will operate a hotline from Sept. 10 at 884-2243.

Register for classical ballet

The War Memorial's popular classical ballet program will begin the week of Sept. 19 for adults, teens and children, five and up.

New and returning students are invited to register for classes at the Center, Monday and Tuesday, Sept. 12 and 13, from 3:30 to 6 p.m.

The program is designed to introduce students to classical ballet according to the Cecchetti method.

Prospective students will have an opportunity to meet instructor Mary Ellen Cooper, who has more than 30 years teaching experience. She is a member of the board of directors and a senior examiner for the Cecchetti Council of America. She also holds an advanced certificate in Cecchetti branch in ISTD, London, England.

Adult classes are held Monday-Thursday, from 8:15 to 9:30 p.m. Workshop fee is $48 for 11 weeks (one hour per week) or $84, two hours per week.

Classes for children and teens meet Monday-Friday from 4 to 6 p.m. and Saturdays, 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Students are assigned to a class time according to age and ability. Exams in all levels of the Cecchetti method are presented.

Fees are $48, one lesson per week; $84, two lessons per week and $117, three lessons per week.

For additional information, call 881-7511.

Art classes to begin

War Memorial art classes begin the week of Sept. 12 and this season's roster offers something for just about everyone.

For beginning as well as advanced students, children and adults; there are day and evening sessions offering many opportunities to work in a variety of media.

New this fall is Beginning Watercolor and Drawing, Thursdays, Sept. 15-Oct. 6 from 9 a.m. to noon. Watercolorist Carol Lachiusa will teach this introductory course. Students will build skills in both drawing and painting during this four-week course. Enrollment fee is $32.

Classes beginning Monday, Sept. 12 are Figure Painting in Oils And/Or Acrylics with Daniel Keller from noon to 3 p.m. and Sculpting taught by Janice Trimpe from 7 to 10 p.m.

Pat Potter's Beginning Calligraphy will meet Tuesdays Sept. 13-Oct. 18 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. while the eight-week course, Exploring Painting with Mixed Media for students 13-adult meets Saturdays beginning Sept. 17 at 9:30 a.m. for eight weeks.

A children's class, Drawing Techniques (ages 10-13) meets Tuesdays, Sept. 13-Oct. 18 from 4 to 5 or 5 to 6 p.m. Drawing and Painting (ages 6-9) is offered Wednesdays and Thursdays starting Sept. 14 and 15. Two sessions daily, 4 to 5 or 5 to 6 p.m. are available.

League to host open house

The League of Women Voters of Grosse Pointe will host its annual membership open house Tuesday, Sept. 13, in the library of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

The evening will begin with a social hour at 7 p.m., followed at 7:45 by introduction of officers, and special guest speaker Dr. Charles Hanson, director of the Grosse Pointe Public Library.

To conclude the program, several members will describe the League's beginnings, and present and future plans, including the third annual Mum Sale on Sept. 10, held in conjunction with the Grosse Pointe Artists Association Art Fair at the War Memorial.

Barbara Foreman, membership chair, said "The League of Women Voters is a grass roots, multi-issue, nonpartisan organization. The open house provides an excellent opportunity to learn more about the league at all levels, but particularly the local level."

For more information about the League or the open house, call 882-6655 or 886-3078.

on the backs more and plan ahead so we can stay that way. We have to save the best of the past for future generations."

She's concerned that the people of Grosse Pointe are apathetic about the unique character of their community. They seem unconcerned, uninterested, uncommitted to the principles of historic preservation.

One of her current projects is the completion of a survey of all the existing buildings in the Grosse Pointes.

"We need the survey," she said, "to prove to the community that we have enough landmarks worth saving."

"Lots of people think we're closing the barn door after the horses are gone," she said, referring to the demolition — in the last 10 years — of most of the old mansions in the area. "But there's lots of horses left."

She offhandedly ticked off some significant structures still standing in the Grosse Pointes:

- Quite a few by architect Robert Derrick. He designed the Punch & Judy Theatre, the Little Club and the Henry Ford Museum at Greenfield Village.
- Lots by architect Leonard Willeke.
- Some by Albert Kahn.
- Examples of French farmhouses.
- French pear trees.
- Churches. Public buildings. Schools.

"These are not just big houses and mansions. Most are residences, but a few are commercial buildings and clubs."

"We only have about five buildings on the National Historic Register. Not because more don't qualify — but because more haven't been nominated. We have less than 20 on the Michigan Register and there's potentially more."

Colett noted the three most recent losses of valuable historic structures: the Higbie House, the Hubbard-Lucas House and the Stephens House.

"I'm discouraged and depressed," she said.

"In other parts of the country, preserving and reusing houses is taken for granted. Many cities even have funds to take old homes, fix them up and resell them. It mystifies me that people here in Grosse Pointe don't believe this is important."

The Grosse Pointe Historical Society has recently received some grant money and some foundation money and is planning to hire professionals to survey the existing structures in Grosse Pointe Farms.

"Volunteers have already done 99 percent of the City and about 5 or 10 percent of the Park," Colett said. "We trained 20 to 25 people, volunteers and photographers. It worked fine, but there was lots of clerical work to do afterwards. We don't have enough people to do everything."

And time is running out.

Colett said that the lack of housing for senior citizens in Grosse Pointe could mesh nicely with some historic preservation efforts. Her wish — if it could be granted — would be to see a large old home divided into condominiums, or a bed and breakfast with a restaurant, or an inn with a restaurant, or a cluster of townhouses.

"There's so many people who spend part of their time here and need a secure place, a condo."

She said perhaps people aren't against historic preservation.

"They just don't think about it. I don't want to see Grosse Pointe diluted and swallowed up and come to look like any other east side suburb."

"It comes to money as the bottom line. What a poor comment on our times, if maximizing money is the bottom line."

Another of Colett's — and the historical society's — projects this year is a community education series of five lectures about interior home restoration that will begin in October.

She said the society was not successful in attracting people to lectures on historic preservation in the past, "but this time it's a series on restoration. Nuts and bolts. People can attend one or two, or all five."

"We'll see what the response is, then maybe we'll do one on exterior renovation."

Getting philosophical, Colett said, "We've now done everything to lengthen life. We enjoy a higher standard of living. But, at our level, is the quality of life improving?"

"We should focus on pace, standards and values, the demand for quality. I don't want to live longer if life is devoid of beautiful things. Not just houses and trees. I want my children and my children's children to appreciate that every generation has its beautiful things. We need to save the best of the past."

How to love an old house

The Department of Community Education and the Grosse Pointe Historical Society will present a five-part series on practical tips for interior home restoration:

Oct. 4 — How To Love An Old House — Restoration vs. remodeling vs. renovation; new vs. old construction; background and basics; financing restoration.

Speakers: J. Michael Kirk, Kirk & Koskela and Cheryl Gauss, Standard Federal Bank

Oct. 11 — Restoring Woodwork and Architectural Details — Doors, moldings, floors, mantels. How to research a home's history.

Speaker: Michael Gervasi, Greenfield Village

Oct. 18 — Maintaining Household Systems — Heating, cooling, plumbing and electrical.

Speaker: Jerry Fouchey, master plumber and electrician

Oct. 25 — Rough Construction — Plastering and drywall.

Speaker: Robert Mowbray, Village Locksmith

Nov. 1 — Kitchen and Bath Restoration — Planning, fixtures, tile, cabinets, etc.

Speaker: John Mozena, Mutchler Kitchens

All lectures are in Room 201, Barnes School, 20090 Morning-side. Fee is $19 per person for the whole series. Single session: $5 per person. For more information, call Community Education: 343-2178.

Day trip schedule

The War Memorial's September day trip schedule begins Thursday, Sept. 22, with a history-filled outing to Meadow Brook Hall and Van Hoosen Farm.

This will be followed Tuesday, Sept. 27, by "Butterflies, Mushrooms and Roses," an excursion to Leamington, Ontario and Point Pelee National Park.

Interested travelers should make reservations early for both trips as space is limited.

Highlights of the Sept. 22 event include tour and lunch at Meadow Brook Hall, the lavish 100-room home of Alfred and Matilda Dodge Wilson. The home, an architectural masterpiece is complete with original furnishings and works of art.

Next on the itinerary is a leisurely stop in historic Stoney Creek Village for a tour of Van Hoosen Farm, a low-rambling estate that now houses the Rochester Hills Museum.

Final stop of the day is Yates Cider Mill before heading home to Grosse Pointe. Trip fee is $31. Travelers should arrive at the War Memorial at 8:45 a.m. for a 9 a.m. departure. Scheduled return is 5:30 p.m.

The Sept. 27 Canadian day trip will include a tour of a mushroom farm, a rose-growing operation and the quaint town of Leamington, known as Canada's tomato capital. Travelers will also enjoy a picnic lunch at Point Pelee and stroll along the Marsh Board walk to observe the southern migration of the monarch butterfly.

The day's last stop is at a fruit market and vegetable stand. Travelers will be able to purchase fresh produce to bring home. Trip fee is $22 per person. Proof of citizenship is required. Motorcoach will leave the War Memorial at 9:15 a.m. and return at 6:30 p.m.

The War Memorial will resume regular hours Monday-Saturday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 6.

Program to aid non-profit groups in energy

Joseph L. Hudson Jr., chairman of the Community Foundation for Southeastern Michigan, announced a major $3 million program to assist non-profit organizations throughout the southeast seven-county region of the state.

Under this comprehensive program, the Community Foundation Energy Initiative will provide funds to assist charitable organizations in developing energy conservation plans, to make the capital improvements necessary for greater energy efficiency and to support conservation programs for low-income residents.

"The Energy Initiative represents an innovative partnership with the State of Michigan, the Community Foundation, financial institutions and private funders in one of the first such energy conservation programs in the United States," Hudson said. "Our goal with this new program is to help non-profit organizations free more of their funds to directly meet community needs."

Gov. James Blanchard praised the partnership. "The State of Michigan provided $1.1 million to this program, and the Community Foundation has leveraged up to $2 million from the private sector," he said. "These funds can make a substantial difference in reducing energy costs in many of this state's vital, charitable organizations, enabling them to make better use of limited resources. Funds will also support special programs for low-income populations."

Through the Community

Foundation Energy Initiative, more than $2 million in direct grants and up to $1 million in loans are available. In addition to the Community Foundation, primary financial contributors include: The Kresge Foundation, McGregor Fund, Detroit Edison, MichCon Foundation and Consumers Power Company/CMS Energy Future Fund. Three major financial institutions will also provide subsidized low interest loans (at 3 percent) to supplement the direct grants received under the program.

Tax-exempt organizations throughout Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, Washtenaw, St. Clair, Monroe and Livingston counties are encouraged to apply for grants and loans under the program. For more information, interested parties should contact the Community Foundation at: The Community Foundation for Southeastern Michigan, 333 West Fort Street, Suite 2010, Detroit, Mich. 48226.

The Community Foundation for Southeastern Michigan is a 4-year-old foundation built around a concept first originated over 70 years ago. It is a permanent community endowment, built by gifts from hundreds of community citizens and organizations who are committed to the future of southeastern Michigan. Governed by a 40-member board of civic leaders, it has provided 500 grants totalling over $2.6 million for projects in the fields of education, arts and culture, health, civic development and human services.

Dangers to the Constitution

Harold Norris, noted professor of constitutional law, will speak at the War Memorial, Wednesday, Sept. 14, at 7:30 p.m.

His topic, "Dangers To The Constitution: A Bicentennial View", looks at the foundation of America's system of government from an expert's perspective.

His appearance is a presentation of the Center's Council of Sponsors.

Norris has taught constitutional and criminal law at the Detroit College of Law for 25 years. He has been actively involved with all constitutional studies in Michigan since 1961, when he was elected delegate from Detroit to the Michigan Constitutional Convention.

He authored provisions in the Michigan Constitution creating a freedom of expression and a right to an appeal in a criminal case. He also authored the provision prohibiting racial and religious discrimination and co-authored the provision creating a civil rights commission.

Tickets for the presentation are $5 per person. Advance purchase suggested. For further information, call 881-7511.

Get help with weatherization

Why wait for the first snow to weatherize your home? Now is the time to call Wayne-Metro CSA for the Weatherization Program. Low-income households in the Pointes, Harper Woods, Hamtramck and Highland Park are eligible for the Weatherization Program.

Homeowners and renters who require any work to stop infiltration (air flowing through cracks) or conduction (air flowing through materials used to construct the home) may apply. Call Wayne-Metropolitan Community Services Agency at 843-2550 between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m.

The Weatherization Program is funded by the Bureau of Community Services/Michigan Department of Labor.

Free cancer coping series offered at Grace Hospital

"I Can Cope," the highly successful community program for cancer patients and their families, will begin its fall season Tuesday, Sept. 20, 7 to 9 p.m. in the boardroom at Grace Hospital, 18700 Meyers Road in Detroit. The series runs six consecutive Tuesdays through Oct. 25 and is free of charge.

Co-sponsored by the American Cancer Society and Grace Hospital, the "I Can Cope" program is designed to help participants deal with cancer on both a physical and emotional level. Participants also learn ways to regain a sense of control over their lives, and find coping strategies for managing cancer.

The program includes a variety of informative presentations from health care and community resource professionals including physicians, nurses, physical therapists, lawyers, social workers, chaplains and others. Current cancer treatment methods are discussed, and participants have an opportunity to share their feelings with one another.

Preregister by Sept. 14. To preregister or obtain more information, call 966-3584.

A tasting in the park

The fourth annual Taste of Pointes East was held Aug. 27 at the William T. Johnstone Park in Harper Woods, and once again planners reported it was a big success.

Hundreds of people turned out to sample wares from Pointes East restaurants and buy raffle tickets to raise money for the Capuchin Soup Kitchen. In total, some $2,500 was raised, according to Darrell Finken of Sparky Herbert's, president of Pointes East and chair of the event.

There was a little something for everybody, including a one-man band, and for the kids, a clown and face-painting and balloon animals.

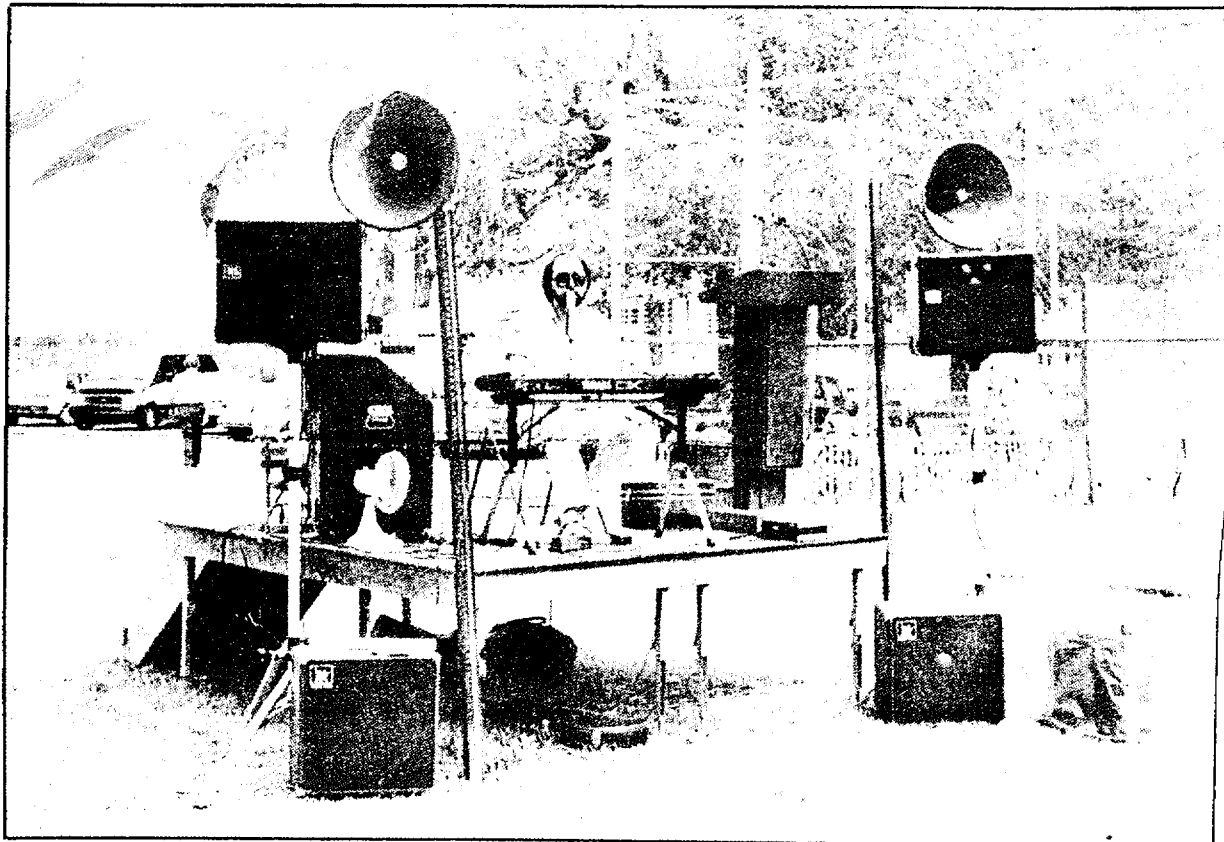

This year's event was held in association with the Harper Woods and Grosse Pointe Rotary clubs.

The Labor Day weekend didn't feature the finest weather of the Summer of 1988. Two rainy, cloudy days and one chilly day didn't bring shoulder-to-shoulder crowds to municipal parks in the Grosse Pointes.

During a brief period of afternoon sunshine on Sunday afternoon, the Grosse Pointe Woods park's picnic tables remained unused; the pool was occupied by about a dozen swimmers.

Central Library plans used book sale

Central Library, 10 Kercheval, will have a used book sale Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 10-11.

There will be records, cas-ettes, magazines, paperbacks, and books for adults and children.

It will be held on the patio

Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Sunday from 1 to 4 p.m. if the weather permits. Otherwise it will be held indoors.

Learn to sign

Learn how to sign and communicate with the deaf and hearing impaired. The Macomb Community College Professional and Continuing Education program is offering a course in sign language beginning Sept. 13. The course is designed to give students a better understanding of the perspectives of the deaf in our culture.

"Sign Language I" covers visual training, gestures, mime, sign principles, sign vocabulary, and communication processes of deaf and hearing impaired persons.

Classes meet Tuesdays, Sept. 13 - Oct. 18, 7 to 9 p.m., at Macomb's Fraser Campus, 32101 Caroline Road, north of Masonic, in Fraser. The fee is $50, with a sign language manual fee of $10 payable to the instructor.

For more information, call 445-7417.

Symphony auditions

Auditions are being held for the Lake St. Clair Symphony Orchestra at the Lake Shore Presbyterian Church at 27801 Jefferson in St. Clair Shores, on Saturday, Sept. 10, in the afternoon.

The Lake St. Clair Symphony Orchestra is composed of students, community players and professional musicians. Rehearsals are held on Monday nights in St. Clair Shores.

Those wishing to audition should contact the symphony office at 778-1012, between 11 a.m. and 5 p.m. to set up an appointment. Auditions will be scheduled at 10-minute intervals.

Sight reading and a short piece of the musicians selection is requested. High school students are encouraged to participate.

Coast Guard accepting applications

The United States Coast Guard Academy is accepting and processing applications for appointment as cadet, U. S. Coast Guard, Class of 1993. Applications are being accepted for both men and women.

Appointments as Coast Guard cadets are tendered solely on the basis of an annual nationwide competition with no congressional appointments or geographical quotas. Applications for appointment must be submitted to the Director of Admissions, U. S. Coast Guard Academy, prior to Dec. 15.

Candidates must arrange to participate in either the College Board Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) or American College Testing Assessment (ACT) prior to including the Dec. 10 administration for the SAT.

The competition for appointment is based on the candidate's high school rank, performance on either the SAT or ACT, and leadership potential as demonstrated by participation in high school extracurricular activities, community affairs and/or part-time employment. Most successful candidates rank in the top quarter of their high school class and demonstrate proficiency in both the mathematical and applied science fields.

To qualify for the competition, an applicant must be unmarried at the time of appointment, have no legal obligations resulting from a prior marriage, and must have reached the age of 17 but not 22 by July 1, 1989.

All applicants must be assured of high school graduation by June 30, 1989. Regulations stipulate that all applicants must have completed three units in English, and three in mathematics to include algebra and plane or coordinate geometry or their equivalents, and must fulfill basic physical requirements.

Coast Guard cadets obtain an undergraduate education at no personal expense. In addition, they receive pay and allowances fully adequate to fulfill their ordinary living expenses.

The curriculum leads to a bachelor of science degree with a strong academic emphasis on engineering and science. The selected major studies, when combined with varied elective courses, establish a solid foundation for a challenging career.

Under the Department of Transportation, the Coast Guard establishes and coordinates search and rescue operations by ship and plane, maintains advanced electronic and other aids to navigation scattered around the globe, operates the icebreakers which clear the way for all polar expeditions, and enforces marine law and all aspects of merchant marine safety. In addition, the Coast Guard has responsibility for boating safety and marine environmental protection.

For further information write: Director of Admissions, U. S. Coast Guard Academy, New London, Conn. 06320 or call (203) 444-8501.

With Scarab, auto collection is off to good start

"Moonlight Serenade."
In 1948, when I was a punk kid coming of automotive age, swaggering down the halls of Mackenzie High School in Detroit and devoting much more effort to being cool than to my academic studies, I thought Glenn Miller's sentimental swing was for the old folks. It was not cool, it was "moldy fig."

So I am amazed at the powerful nostalgia that piece of music can arouse in me and at the good feelings generated by looking at Chevys, Hudsons, Nashes, Studebakers and Plymouths of that era. Because they weren't cool then either. Hot-rod Fords and Mercurys were cool.

But the sight of a '48 Kaiser (most uncool) can excite me as much as a chopped '34 Ford roadster or a '39 Merc (ultimate cool).

"You should have come to the dance," said Ruth Cheshire, outgoing president of the Detroit Chapter of the Veteran Motor Car Club of American, which co-sponsors the annual (this was the sixth) Spirit of Detroit Car Show and Swap Meet at Historic Fort Wayne along with the Detroit Historical Department. "It was great!"

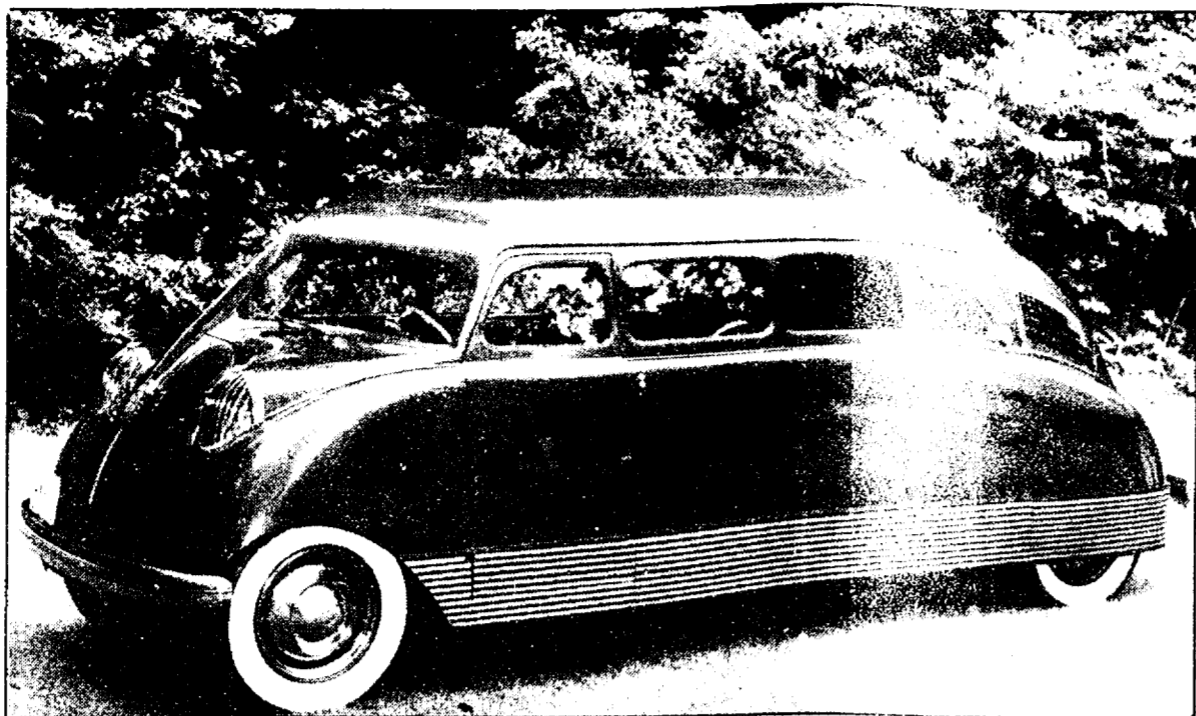

I was just looking over the entries in the auto show at Fort Wayne, which is truly a magnificent setting for a classic car show, and was awash in nostalgia, wondering why I hadn't worn a black shirt and chukka boots. "I'm sure it was," I said lamely.

She was referring to a dance held the night before the show at Fort Wayne. Theme of the dance was "Moonlight Serenade," in keeping with this year's car show theme of 1948.

"I can't dance," I offered, again rather lamely.

"So what?" she pointed out. "The music was great, the atmosphere, the clothes. It was a lot of fun. You should have come."

Ruth was right of course, I breezed through the swap meet, bought a hood ornament I had been looking for on an old Ford (wrong one, as it turned out) and pondered the meaning of it all. Why is nostalgia so much fun? I really like now better than then and those old cars can't compare with the new ones for all-around performance. But the old cars are fun, no doubt about it.

I hopped into the gleaming red, cream and chrome '54 Chevy I had borrowed from a friend for the event and headed back toward 1988.

"Nice car, buddy," said one of the gate attendants as I left Historic Fort Wayne. Guess that's why they're fun.

The Spirit of Detroit Car Show and Swap Meet is put on by the Detroit Chapter of the Veteran Motor Car Club of America, the in because we are focusing on post-World War II automobiles. Although the cars will be the stars of the show, the emphasis will be on nostalgia and family fun."

The Detroit Historical Museum has a small but very interesting collection of historic cars from Detroit's past. With the help of the Detroit Section of the Society of Automotive Engineers and local car collectors and historians, it has drawn up a wish list of 100 most significant cars innovations. The Horizon, for example, was the first domestic subcompact with front-wheel drive."

Among the very rare cars already in the museum's collection are a 1919 Dodge coupe and Dodge sedan owned by John and Horace Dodge; a 1912 Scripps-Booth V8-powered Bi-Auto-Go two-wheeled cyclecar; a 1918 Maxwell; a 1924 Rickenbacker; a 1924 Hupmobile roadster; a 1934 Chrysler Airflow and, perhaps the rarest of all, a 1935 Stout Scarab.

James Scripps-Booth was a grandson of James E. Scripps, founder of the Detroit News. He built a number of unusual and often quite advanced vehicles during his company's 1912-22 lifespan. The Automobile magazine headlines a story on the Bi-Auto-Go "Detroit Man Designs Strange Automobile." That was quite accurate.

The Bi-Auto-Go was a three-seater cross between a motor car and a motorcycle. It was powered by a 45-horsepower V-8, the first built in Detroit, pre-dating Cadillac's by three years. It had a compressed-air self-starter, a four-speed transmission and a whimsical engine cooling system that incorporated 450 feet of copper tubing which ran along, up and over the hood like twisted Detroit Historical Society and the Detroit Historical Department to benefit the historical department's automotive restoration fund.

"It's rapidly becoming one of the largest shows in the Great Lakes region," said William Chapin, president of Marketing Network, Inc., grandson of Roy Chapin, a founder of Hudson Motor Car Co., and son of Roy Chapin Jr., former head of American Motors. Chapin was chairman of the 1988 show committee.

"It's a show that even the beginning collector can participate which it hopes to acquire.

"The time has come for a public automotive collection in the Motor City that focuses on the innovations and contributions to the automotive industry that originated in the metropolitan Detroit area," said Detroit Historical Department Director Barry Dressel.

Dressel stresses that vehicles sought for the collection are not necessarily the most valuable. "We're seeking cars like the 1978 Plymouth Horizon not only because of the impact they had on the car-buying market, but because of their technological pipe organs. It was just one of Scripps-Booth's appealingly eccentric automotive offerings.

William B. Stout designed a few cars while he was an editor for Motor Age magazine and decided to go into the auto business instead of just writing about it. He became chief engineer for Scripps-Booth in 1915, then joined Packard the following year.

But Stout is best remembered for his work in airplane design. Shortly after World War I, he developed the first internally braced cantilever-winged aircraft, winning for him the title of "father of the modern airplane."

He designed the Ford Tri-motor airplane and this led to his return to automotive design with the Scarab. Using aircraft principles of aerodynamic design, he built a huge, resolutely ugly vehicle of great comfort and using many advanced features.

It was powered by a rear-mounted Ford V-8 and a three-speed transmission which he modified into a differential-transaxle to drive the rear wheels. The vehicle rode on coil springs and independent suspension at all four wheels. The body was unit construction, partly steel and partly aluminum.

Stout only turned out a handful of Scarabs, which looked kind of like the offspring of a modern mini-van and a '30's vintage Chrysler Airflow.

So the Detroit Historical Department already has a good start.

She was born in Sarnia, Ontario. She had been a teacher in the Grosse Pointe Schools.

Survivors include a daughter, Barbara Harrison; a son, John; eight grandchildren; one great-grandchild; and two brothers, Charles A. Hall and Walter D. Hall. She was predeceased by her husband, Frederic.

Arrangements were handled by the Chas. Verheyden Funeral Home.

To open in October

Nearing completion is the newest of the three multiple-use buildings that have been renovated or built in Grosse Pointe Farms in the past year. Kerby Place, at the corner of Kerby and Mack, should be opening its doors in early October. The primary tenant for the new building is The Grosse Pointe Bank & Trust, a new bank in formation which is currently raising capital through the sale of stock to the public. The new bank intends to occupy the entire first floor of Kerby Place. There is space for professional offices on the second floor of the new structure.

One of the other new multi-use buildings now leasing is 131 Kercheval on the Hill. Occupied by Standard Federal Bank and the Pierson Clinic of Henry Ford Hospital as well as several other tenants, the three-story plus basement structure is nearly 90 percent leased.

In the Punch & Judy block, also on the Hill, of 17,000 square feet of retail space at sidewalk level, only 3,400 feet remains available for lease. Approximately half of the area that surrounds the three-story atrium in the renovated theater is now leased to professional office tenants.

Local teens tour Europe; seven cities in 20 days

By Margie Reins Smith
Staff Writer

Twenty-two Grosse Pointe teenagers and eight adults recently spent 20 days on a whirlwind tour of seven European cities.

Bernard LeMieux, Grosse Pointe South assistant principal and organizer of the trip, said the trip was educational and was intended as an overview, a sampling of cities, so that students will be able to choose where they'd like to visit when they go back.

"They'll be surprised at what they remember when they get into humanities and history courses," he said.

The tour of five countries included Heidelberg and Garmisch in Germany, Austria, Florence, Rome, Paris and London.

The trip was arranged by Educational Travel for Everyone (ETE), a Clarkston-based travel organization that deals with educational trips.

The extended group also included six students from Lexington, Ky., and eight students from Bradenton, Fla.

"It's an opportunity to see Europe at a reasonable cost," said LeMieux. "It's open to any student — or adult."

Last summer LeMieux took his first group of 12 Grosse Pointe teenagers for the same tour. He's making plans for next summer's tour, and is considering including Venice and Switzerland.

Most of the students liked Germany and London best.

Molly Sullivan, 17, a senior at Our Lady Star of the Sea, said that Germany was a good place to start their tour. "There was no culture shock in Germany," she said. "It's clean, people were friendly, we stayed at a nice place, and the food was good."

In Austria, they visited the house used in the movie, "The Sound of Music," and they toured Mozart's birthplace.

Kathy Pierce, 17, a junior at Grosse Pointe North, said she was impressed by the museum in Florence that was full of Michelangelo's works. As to Michaelangelo's David, she said, "Fantastic."

Jill Schneider, a junior at Our Lady Star of the Sea High School, celebrated her 16th birthday in Florence. "We all went out to dinner and they surprised me with a cake with a candle on it."

The students were not enthusiastic about Rome. They said the city was dirty, dangerous, the food was bad. "Rome must be seen, however," said LeMieux. "We emphasize caution to the students while they're in Rome and in Italy. They should see the Vatican and the ruins."

Debbie Wilson, 18, a freshman at Michigan State University, said she was surprised by the ancient ruins she found in Rome. "In the middle of the city," she said, "there's some ancient ruins — just standing."

Sullivan and Pierce remembered Paris for the shopping and because they were allowed to wander around on their own.

Some went to the top of the Eiffel Tower. Pierce was especially impressed by the palace at Versailles.

London, they all agreed, was the best city. "It was the nicest hotel, across from Hyde Park. We used the tube (the subway) and we went to a play, 'Forty-second Street,'" Sullivan said.

Danny Kinsley, 17, a South senior, said, "It was neat to see things we've only read about in books."

LeMieux remembered an evening in a London pub called The Swan. A piano player was leading the group and everyone was singing, he said. "He knew seven different national anthems."

As he played the anthems, people from that country would stand up to sing. "I was so proud of our group when they stood up to sing our national anthem," he said. "You could see their pride in being Americans."

LeMieux said one of the most valuable lessons learned during the trip: "These kids found out that Europeans are human beings, just like everyone else."

"We told them to stay within the culture of each country — to avoid the McDonald's and the Wendy's and the pizza."

Wilson said she hopes to spend

Students from Grosse Pointe South High pose in Germany, before visiting Heidelberg Castle. The group visited seven cities.

Gathered in Rome, with the ruins of the Roman Colosseum in the background, are a group of students from Our Lady Star of the Sea High School. The girls spent 20 days in Europe this summer.

Molly Sullivan, a senior at Our Lady Star of the Sea, and Kathy Pierce, a senior at Grosse Pointe South, were part of a group of 22 high school students who toured Europe this summer.

a semester in France next year, while she's at Michigan State University.

And Sullivan summed up her impression of the trip: "It was a chance to meet people from all over the world and see that they're just people."

Psychologists to meet

The Lakeshore Psychological Association is featuring Dr. Sheldon J. Lachman, Ph.D., who will speak on "A Perspective on Psychosomatic Disorders," at its luncheon meeting, Tuesday, Sept. 13, at noon at Bon Secours Hospital, 468 Cadieux Road, Grosse Pointe. Lachman is a physiological psychologist at Wayne State University and the author of numerous professional publications and books on this topic.

LPA is the local chapter of the Michigan Psychological Association and holds bi-monthly luncheon meetings for purposes of professional development and a ready opportunity for contact among local psychologists.

This year's officers are: Trudie Kerns, Ph.D., president; Sheila Eaton, Ph.D., past president; Andrew Maltz, Ph.D., president-elect; Martin Wunsch, Ph.D., secretary; and Louis Thompson, D.Min., treasurer.

Grosse Pointe Memorial begins new chapter in its history

By Margie Reins Smith
Staff Writer

This is the fourteenth in an occasional series about Grosse Pointe churches.

Grosse Pointe Memorial Church has been around for nearly a century and a quarter.

It hasn't always been a Presbyterian church, however. And it's had about 10 different names, three different buildings, built on two different sites.

This Sept. 6, Grosse Pointe Memorial Church will begin a fresh chapter in its history with a brand new pastor and head of staff, the Rev. V. Bruce Rigdon.

One of the first things on his agenda, Rigdon said, is a careful assessment of what church members want to do in the next few years.

"This church needs to do a mission study," he said, "to allow everybody to describe what they want this church to be in the next three to seven years. We want people to ask themselves tough questions about what this church should — and shouldn't — be about."

Rigdon said this study would take place over a period of several months. "Meetings ... face to face talks ... listening to people ... filling out forms. It's a rigorous process."

"We need to assess talents and skills, programs that need to be high priority, budgets, and so on," he said.

The church was founded in 1865. Post-Civil War Grosse Pointe was a predominately Catholic community of about 2,000 residents. St. Paul's Catholic Church had been serving the community's Catholics for 17 years.

In 1865, a group of about a dozen Grosse Pointe residents drew up Articles of Association of the Protestant Evangelical Association of Grosse Pointe. Their stated purpose was, "to build ... a place of worship on the banks of Lake St. Clair for the ... Protestant residents of the township."

Cinema League

The Grosse Pointe Cinema League meets on the first and third Mondays of the month at the War Memorial to enjoy travel pictures and movies, followed by a social hour.

New officers are Joseph Mesana, president; Ruth Saur, first vice president; Ray Duffy, second vice president; Beverly Pearsall, secretary; Roger Bacon, treasurer; George Coury, assistant treasurer; Elfrieda Palmentier, historian; Roy and Margaret Scharfenberg and Ruth Collins, hospitality; Betty McAllister, publicity; Gerald Pearsall, badges; members-at-large, Harold and Betty Lee, chairmen; Patric McCarthy, equipment; Ray and Camilla Duffy, banquet chairmen.

Frances H. Parcels will open the season Monday, Sept. 19, at 8 p.m. with 35mm slides on Baja California.

New members are always welcome. Memberships are available at $12 for the season, September through May. Non-members are welcome to attend for $2, plus 50 cents for the social hour.

Join GM chorus

The public is invited to join the General Motors Employees Chorus. First rehearsal for the Christmas season is Monday, Sept. 12, at the Tech Center's Management Training Center, from 7 to 9 p.m.

For more information, call Margaret Olsen at 543-6368.

Blood drive

A Red Cross bloodmobile will be located at Cottage Hospital, 159 Kercheval, on Monday, Sept. 12, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

For an appointment, call David Mitchell at 884-8600.

Symphony plans auction

The Lake St. Clair Symphony will hold its annual auction Sunday, Nov. 6 at the Blossom Health Inn, 24800 Jefferson, St. Clair Shores, between 9 and 10 Mile roads.

Acquisitions and ads for the Catalog are needed. To donate, call Lake St. Clair Symphony at 776-1012.

Within two years, a small white frame building had been built at the intersection of today's Lakeshore Drive and Kerby Road, on land donated by Rufus M. Kerby. It was called the Lake St. Clair Protestant Church.

Grosse Pointers referred to it as the Little White Church. An addition in 1878 accommodated the expanding congregation. Twelve years later, the group had grown large enough to secure a full-time minister. Visiting ministers from Detroit no longer had to make a tedious four-hour trek over plank roads and muddy trails every Sunday.

Early in the 1890s, as members were pondering ways to expand and enlarge the church building, Grosse Pointer Joseph H. Berry donated a portion of his estate to the church. A new building was completed by 1894, at 16 Lakeshore Drive. It soon became known as the "The Ivy Covered Church."

Constructed of brick and stone, with a small bell tower, the exterior of the building was smothered with ivy during the summer. Membership was a bit more than 100 people.

Grosse Pointe's population grew rapidly during the teens and '20s, as Detroit's automobile industry flourished. The Ivy Covered Church was an important part of Grosse Pointe's social and cultural activities. On April 22, 1896, for instance, a 10-cent ticket could buy admission to a lecture, "How to Prepare for Home Life and How to Enjoy It," delivered by the Rev. A.R. Gay.

The Ladies Union of the Ivy Covered Church, seeking to lure young people away from nearby saloons and taverns, planned elaborate weekly programs for the entertainment, instruction and socialization of Grosse Pointe teenagers: piano recitals, readings, recitations, stereopticon slide shows and travel lectures.

By 1920, the congregation had voted to reorganize as a Presbyterian denomination, and the name was changed to Grosse Pointe Presbyterian Church.

During these years, the church served often as the setting for non-religious community and social events.

Before the Punch and Judy

Theater was built, movies were shown every Friday night in the church gymnasium, drawing large crowds of youngsters and adults. Typical community programs during the '20s included lectures with titles like: "Courtship, Marriage and Home Life," "Slum Life in London," and "Mind Your Own Business."

Membership expanded during the next few years, and again the congregation began plans for a newer, larger building. At the eleventh hour, just as the little Ivy Covered Church was about to be torn down, longtime members Truman H. Newberry and John S. Newberry Jr. offered to pay for a new sanctuary, chancel and tower as a memorial to their parents, John Stoughton Newberry and Helen Handy Newberry — with one stipulation: the name of the church be changed to the Grosse Pointe Memorial Church.

And that's how the impressive Modern English Gothic stone church that stands today — came to be. Dedication of the main building was on May 15, 1927. By 1930, membership was up to about 670.

In 1962, the ever-expanding congregation added a new fellowship hall, a small chapel and a library, and added more space for Sunday school classes.

Church membership today is about 2,700, according to Rigdon, and has remained steady for the past four or five years.

Rigdon comes to Grosse Pointe from McCormick Theological Seminary in Chicago, where he's been a professor of church history for more than 20 years. Rigdon said he was attracted to the Grosse Pointe church because it's on the edge of Detroit and because Detroit is a city with big problems.

"The church is always drawn to places with problems," he said. "We want to understand. Find solutions. Turn problems into opportunities."

"This congregation cares about international concerns and urban issues. A congregation like this, on the edge of Detroit, has ample reasons to care — to make the city more beautiful — happier — a more humane environment for everybody."

The Modern English Gothic design of Grosse Pointe Memorial Church includes a 47-bell carillon. Carillon concerts have been part of the church's contribution to the community for many years.

Another unique feature of the church's design are 40 colored glass panels depicting the quest for the Holy Grail which are incorporated into the church's massive front doors.

The panels were added during the 28-year ministry of the Rev.

The Rev. V. Bruce Rigdon

Dr. Frank Fitt. According to those who remember Dr. Fitt, he was a strong, outspoken, colorful, often controversial church and community leader, a remarkable stabilizing force in the Grosse Pointes during the dismal Depression years. He also had a terrific sense of humor, according to those who knew him.

The artist who designed the colored glass panels of the front doors of the Grosse Pointe Memorial Church included the likeness of Fitt as the face of the devil.

Fitt is said to have studied the glass panel carefully, pondering his own face on the body of the devil, brandishing a pitchfork. He looked at the door for a long time, then stood back, satisfied, and said, "It's an excellent likeness."

The current building housing Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, 16 Lakeshore, was built in 1927, with an additional wing added in 1962. The church was founded in 1865 to serve the growing number of Protestants of Grosse Pointe. The population of Grosse Pointe, in 1865, was about 2,000. Church membership, in 1988, is about 2,700.

Local teachers attend educational workshop

Two hundred teachers and administrators of the Grosse Pointe Public Schools recently attended a three-day workshop. Dr. Madeline Hunter, an internationally known lecturer and consultant in UCLA's Graduate School of Education, presented the seminar.

Hunter is the architect of the UCLA Model of Teaching, and is known worldwide for her programs to increase teacher effectiveness and to develop principals and supervisors as educational and instructional leaders. Her programs are used in every state in the nation and in 35 other countries.

Hunter believes that teaching is a science delivered artfully, and that the skill of the teacher, not the size of the class, determines the quality of education.

"The job of the teacher is to help students be right," she said, "not catch them being wrong. A teacher is successful only when the student can do it without the teacher."

Hunter's workshop covers every aspect of teaching from the principles of chalkboard use to disciplining students with dignity. She uses the same methods of instruction in her workshops that she advocates for teachers in the classroom. These include checking periodically to see if the participants have learned the lesson, dignifying incorrect responses, and asking questions of the group, not of an individual.

Hunter is quick to emphasize that there are no absolutes in teaching. There is nothing a teacher must do all the time, she said, "except think."

Rosalie Bryk, head of the Grosse Pointe School System, said, "Dr. Hunter's workshop has been a real eye opener for me."

Hunter has reorganized and re-focused our teachers and provided a different perspective on the teaching styles and techniques that Grosse Pointe teachers use every day.

"The ultimate beneficiaries of this experience will be the Grosse Pointe students," Bryk said.

North orientation

Parents of freshmen at Grosse Pointe North are invited to attend a Ninth Grade Parents Night at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 14, in the school cafeteria.

Speakers will present information about freshmen activities, policies and procedures.

There will be an opportunity for parents to meet their child's teacher in small groups for additional information and questions.

Parents are encouraged to attend and new items specifically for freshmen will be distributed.

Refreshments will be served.

Young poets honored

Debra Klughani and Jeremy Gault, both 11 and students at Piquette Middle School, received honorable mentions in the June 1988 Cricket League international poetry competition sponsored by Cricket Magazine.

Art contest for youngsters

The Northeast Guidance Center is sponsoring an art contest for youngsters 14 and under. The theme is "I Like Me!"

Prizes are 25 silver dollars for first place, 15 silver dollars for second place and 10 silver dollars for third place. Entries must be received by Friday, Sept. 23, and accompanied by an official entry blank. To receive a contest flyer and entry blank or for more information, call the center at 824-6640.

Ferry open house Sept. 15

There'll be plenty of cool stuff on hand, but a warm reception for parents, teachers and children alike is planned at Ferry School's annual ice cream social and classroom visitation Thursday, Sept. 15, at 5:30 p.m.

Highlight of the evening, the first event on the Ferry PTO's 1988-89 events calendar, is the introduction of new Principal Rena DeRidder, who replaced retired Principal Audrey Prim on Sept. 1.

Classrooms will be open for visits by relatives and friends of the school's more than 300 students in grades K through 5. Good Humor ice cream and frozen juices will be available for a nominal sum. There is no admission charge.

PTO memberships will be solicited and reservations taken for the school directory. Also, Ferry T-shirts and sweat shirts will be sold.

Other fall events on the Ferry PTO schedule: Oct. 21, Hoe Down and Haunted House; Dec. 10, Breakfast with Santa.

Dominican reunion

The Dominican High School Class of 1948 is planning a 40 year reunion Oct. 9.

For reservations and information, call 881-1572, 775-1799 or 777-7321.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

Notice is hereby given that a public hearing will be held by the Planning Commission of the Village of Grosse Pointe Shores. Purpose of the hearing is to consider the amendment of Article III, Article IV, and the Table of Height, Area and Land Regulations by recasting the existing provisions to provide a new district entitled Residence-Lakefront District (Article IV.A) and by adding provisions that establish Residential and Accessory building setbacks on the east side of Lake Shore Road north of Vernier Road.

The purpose of the proposed amendment is to establish a more restrictive residential building setback from the waterfront based upon the location of existing buildings and/or a distance measured from the front yard setback from Lake Shore Road. Also, the amendment is designed to require all accessory buildings in the proposed Residence-Lakefront District to be no taller than 15 feet; to remain at least 15 percent of the lot width away from the side lot line; be of permanent construction; and receive special land use approval from the Village.

All interested parties are invited to attend the public hearing scheduled for in the Council Chambers of the Village Municipal Building, 795 Lake Shore Road, Grosse Pointe Shores, Michigan.

A copy of the Village Zoning Ordinance and proposed amendments and additions are available for public inspection during regular hours at the Village Administrative Offices each weekday between 8:30 a.m. and 5:00 p.m.

Maserati moves into the U.S. and the Pointes

By Ronald J. Bernas
Staff Writer

Joe Ricci had a gift given to him out of nowhere, and he sees it as a win-win proposition for all involved.

Ricci, president of Joe Ricci Jeep/Eagle Inc., was recently named the exclusive Maserati dealership for the Detroit area by the Italian carmaker.

According to Ricci, new ideas in the Maserati corporate structure have prompted a greater resurgence of the hand-made cars into the United States.

Ricci said he got a phone call from a representative of Maserati. "I thought he wanted to sell me something," he said.

But the representative told Ricci that, based on his record, his location and his high Customer Satisfaction Index (he was tied for number one in the country for all Jeep Eagle dealerships last year), he was being considered as the exclusive area Maserati dealership.

"I was real honored," he said. "The big guys always get everything. It's kind of hard for the little guys to get something."

Up through 1987 Maseratis were sold in this country through little boutique-type operations which only had one car at a time, he said. But the new program is to open up the cars to customers in the more traditional manner, through a customer-oriented, smaller, traditional car dealership.

"They didn't want a mega dealer who would put it in the corner of his showroom. They wanted someone who would treat it with the enthusiasm they had for it, and to market it Mercedes and Jaguar."

The cars are still hand-built, so the company does not want a great increase in sales, which is one of the reasons the company is only looking for 75 dealerships throughout the United States, Ricci said. The other reason is because the company wants to remain a little more exclusive than other cars.

With new models and a new marketing strategy, Maserati hopes to nibble at the sales of other high-prestige cars, like BMW, Jaguar and Mercedes.

"Say Maserati and everyone thinks it's a low-slung $140,000 sports car, but that's not true," Ricci said.

The 1989 cars include four-door sedans, two-door coupes and convertibles priced from $35,000 to $55,000.

"But the problem is, nobody knows this," he added.

Buying a Maserati is buying uniqueness, Ricci said. People look at the car because it is a little different and ask, "What is that?" Once they get in the car, however, and notice the hand-sewn leather dash, the finest suede available on the seats, also hand-sewn, the polished wood with the name inlaid in the dash, and the legendary Maserati clock (turned on only after the car is purchased), then they realize what it is.

"They're put together like Swiss watches."

Ricci, a Farms resident, is so committed and excited about the project that he is building a new showroom and service center on Mack and Bluehill exclusively for the Maserati. He expects it to be fully operational in mid-October.

Right now the car is selling, but Ricci said he is doing big business in parts. He has helped people from Flint, Canada and other surrounding areas with service. One customer said he had been going to Chicago for service on his Maserati, but now it'll be more convenient.

Ricci said his association with Maserati will do two things: First, he considers himself foremost a Jeep/Eagle dealer, and it will give that part of his dealership more credibility for being selected as an exclusive outlet, and secondly, it will solidify the service part of the operation, bringing in more service orders.

Who will buy these new machines?

"The people who want to stick out of the crowd just a little bit," Ricci guesses.

"I don't think it'll be a real big market," he said. "If there's 10 people who are considering buying a Mercedes or a Jaguar or a BMW, maybe two or three will buy a Maserati. It's a fun vehicle. It appeals to the little boy or girl in you, with the feeling, 'You only live once; do it in a Maserati.'"

Joe Ricci stands next to one of the new Maseratis his dealership sells exclusively in the Detroit area for the Italian carmaker. Salesman Craig Astrein is behind the wheel. Ricci says the car isn't flashy, but is put together like a Swiss watch. And besides that, its bi-turbo engine helps it go from 0 to 60 in six seconds.

Father-son team preside over DaEdoardo's

By Pat Paholsky
Editor

Elegant, intimate and warm. The rich woods, the earth-colored brick, the mirrors and crystal and lush oil paintings. It's obvious that there was a lot of attention to detail in the design and decorating of DaEdoardo's on Mack in Grosse Pointe Woods.

That same attention to detail shows on the menu which lists 20 entrees plus another five selections served as dinner for two. The wine list offers 49 selections by the bottle and about a half-dozen more by the glass.

Presided over by the father-son team of Ed Barbieri Sr. and Ed Barbieri Jr., the restaurant observed its tenth year in May. The two are hands-on owners who spend most of their time in the kitchen.

And even though DaEdoardo's was honored last year by The Detroit News as the best restaurant of the year, Barbieri Jr. says he wants to go to Europe, probably France, to learn more about cooking, particularly sauces.

A lifelong Grosse Pointer, Barbieri attended Austin High and earned a bachelor of science degree from the University of Detroit. He says he always knew he would go into the restaurant business.

His father owned LaLantern in downtown Detroit until 1978, the year DaEdoardo's opened. It took six to seven months of renovation before it opened with one room.

In 1980, the building was expanded to add two more small dining rooms and the restaurant, which employs 15 people, now serves about 60 diners. Through the liberal use of mirrors, the small rooms have an illusion of space.

The restaurant is open seven days for dinner only — from 5 to 10 p.m. Monday through Thursday; 5 to 11 p.m. Friday and Saturday; and from 5 to 9 p.m. on Sunday. It's closed on holidays.

Reservations are suggested and Barbieri said gentlemen should wear jackets. During the extreme heat, however, it was not necessary, he said.

Entrees range from $15.95 for Fettucini Alfredo to $24.95 for Gamberoni Portofino, large shrimp sauteed in a sherry wine sauce and cream and served with baby artichoke hearts.

Dinner selections consist of beef, veal, chicken and fish, including sauteed lake perch with champagne sauce and char-grilled swordfish steak with lemon butter sauce, both for $19.95. All of the dinners include soup, salad, a side dish of pasta and vegetable.

The dinner for two entrees consist of several pasta offerings, chicken or salmon. The cost is $39.95 and includes a bottle of red or white wine.

The food is northern Italian continental and Barbieri says, "We're pretty traditional as far as food is concerned."

Besides beer and wine, there is full liquor service. The restaurant accepts Visa, MasterCard and the Entertainment card.

Another generation may join the business — Barbieri's daughter Ann, 19, is a student in hotel and restaurant management at Michigan State University. He and his wife Jodi have two other children, Eddie III, 16, a junior at Grosse Pointe North, and Alicia, a kindergartener at Our Lady Star of the Sea.

The restaurant is located at 19767 Mack and the phone number is 881-8540.

The Cappuccino Room is one of three dining rooms at DaEdoardo's on Mack in the Woods. Mirrors set in arches give the illusion of space in the small room.

The eye of an artist

Former News illustrator dabbles in many mediums

By Peggy O'Connor Andrzejczyk
 Assistant Editor/Feature Editor

William Amenda remembers watching his artist-father at work and how he'd try to anticipate what colors the elder Amenda would use, or where he'd place his next brush stroke. Sometimes, he says, he'd guess right. Usually, he'd just shake his head in amazement at his father's talent.

"He was the greatest teacher. He'd do things like paint figures on silk pillows with textile paint and apply the fine work with a tube, outlining the figures and making them three dimensional. My dad just knew everything about paint and using different kinds of techniques to get a different result. He really had an eye for art," Amenda says.

Amenda was born in Germany, where he lived until age 8. His father had come to the United States three years earlier and worked in coal mines and at a display advertising company where he did art work. He sent for Amenda, his older brother and their mother when he had saved enough money to bring them to Pittsburgh.

It seemed only natural that young Bill Amenda follow in his father's artistic footsteps. Amenda attended school at the Art Institute of Pittsburgh and took night classes at Carnegie Tech. His first job was illustrating men's fashions for Kaufman's, an exclusive store in Pittsburgh.

"It was enjoyable work, but there was too much other work involved besides art. I had visited my brother here in Detroit — he worked in production planning at Ford Motor Company — and decided to stay. I got a job with Walker Sign Company doing outdoor signs," Amenda says.

There, he painted huge Coke bottles and similar projects. After six months, he moved on to graphic illustration for an engineering subsidiary of the Hughes Corporation. He made drawings from three dimensional figures and recalls that while the work was rewarding financially, the constrictions of technical art were a bit much for his artist's spirit.

Amenda found what turned out to be a perfect outlet for his creativity when he landed a job at the Detroit News in 1953 and remained there until his retirement in 1987.

"I actually started retouching photos and doing line art, I moved on to cartoons and sketches and illustrations and wound up doing everything from political sketches to portraits to entire color illustrations for the front page or special sections.

"I enjoyed it. For an artist, there are not many jobs where you can work on a variety of projects and have creative license. And the money was right, too."

Amenda says that some of his favorite projects were his opportunities to work in courtrooms.

Photos by Peggy O'Connor Andrzejczyk

"I liked the challenge. I enjoy figure work and although you are limited in time when you are sketching courtroom scenes, it was a great challenge for me to get as much detail as possible in the pieces. And, of course, even though I was concentrating on my work, I was able to observe the trial unfolding around me," Amenda says.

He proudly shows a visitor some of the original sketches from his work at the News: the defendants in Detroit's Vista trials, the Hoffa hearings, the Pinto trials, and the finely detailed work he did at the trial of convicted killer Ronald L. Bailey.

Then Amenda moves on to his current pieces — pastels and portraits he is readying for the Grosse Pointe Artists Association's 29th annual Fall Festival. Amenda is the featured artist for the show, which will be held at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial Saturday, Sept. 10, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Amenda has been in a number of exhibitions, but rarely presents his art for sale; preferring, he says, to use art shows as a way to talk to other artists and learn from their work. He is a long time member of the GPAA and says the upcoming fall festival will give him that opportunity to touch base with fellow artists he doesn't see often enough.

"And it gives me a chance to learn. I think you can learn from other artists and from the different things you try yourself. I know that when I work with watercolors, it teaches me to use that same loose and fluid motion in oil... which gives a very different look to an oil painting."

"One medium teaches you something about another." Amenda dabbles a bit in several mediums: He created a beautiful bronze sculpture of a runner and has entered wildlife stamp competitions. He has traveled extensively, and says he enjoys stopping in European towns and quickly sketching what he sees.

"I guess I get more fun out of that type of drawing than anything else; that quick impression you see and put down on the sketch pad. That means more to me than anything I do."

Amenda says. Retired for just a year, Amenda says he's hard put sometimes to point himself in any one artistic direction. There are too many ways to go, too many different things he'd like to do, he says.

"I'd never want to go back to work full time because I enjoy my freedom. But I do regret not staying around long enough to see the use of computers in art work develop more fully. Gannett (the newspaper chain which purchased the Detroit News some years ago) had been in the process of utilizing computerized graphics more and more when I retired."

"I did it enough to know, however, that there's a real future in it."

Amenda says that someday, artists will work almost totally by computer. When the programming and technology becomes more sophisticated, he explains, it'll be just a matter of time before art is produced sans the smell of paint.

"The computer has to come out of the awkward age. But when it does — and it will — an artist will be able to do a sketch, put it through a scanner at a print shop and order any size, color or number of reproductions," Amenda says, his eyes gleaming at the prospect.

"And although many people feel intimidated by such an idea, I feel that an artist should be scientific and analytical enough — have enough engineer in him — to appreciate that with a good computer program, his artistic style will still come through."

Amenda says he can recall when much of the work he did in his early years at the News called for glue pots and cut and paste jobs.

"We adapted to the change and we even welcomed it. I can't imagine working that way any-

Through his artist's eye, no doubt.

William Amenda will display his work along with several other artists and craftspeople at the Grosse Pointe Artists Association's Fall Festival Sept. 10 at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, rain or shine. Admission and parking to the event — which features food, entertainment and demonstrations — are free.

This year there's a new twist to the GPAA's 29th annual fall art festival. A group of GPAA members will gather in one booth to display their work.

The GPAA booth will be located near the information tent, next to the War Memorial fountain.

DSO ends summer, set for 75th year

With the Detroit Symphony Orchestra's 25th summer at the Meadow Brook Music Festival drawing to a close, the focus turns to the Orchestra's 1988-89 season — its 75th anniversary year.

Music Director Gunther Herbig enjoyed a tour of guest-conducting engagements throughout Europe during the month of June. His appearances with the Accademia Nazionale Santa Cecilia in Rome, the Orchestra de Paris in Paris, and the Orquesta y Coro Nacionales de Espana in Madrid, Toledo, and Granada were met with enthusiastic reviews.

The month of July was spent on holiday, except for July 29, when Maestro Herbig conducted the Boston Symphony at the Tanglewood Music Festival and coached several advanced conducting students. He returned to Detroit in August to conduct the last two weeks of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra's Meadow Brook season.

In addition to his work with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, Maestro Herbig worked with the newly-established Meadow Brook Academy Orchestra which is a summer program for young musicians conducted by Oakland University and the DSO.

At Ford Auditorium, efforts have been focusing on the Detroit Symphony Orchestra's Diamond Jubilee Season, with the theme "Great Music is Also Forever." Season ticket sales are on the increase since mid-July and are expected to continue on the upswing.

Music Director Gunther Herbig has planned an exciting Brahms Festival for November to celebrate the 75th anniversary, opening with a gala concert featuring violinist Itzhak Perlman.

A highlight of the season for the Orchestra will be its three-week tour of Europe in January and February.

The 1988-89 season opens on Sept. 15 with Herbig conducting an all-Beethoven program.

Exchange students need homes; you can help

Hundreds of bright-eyed, well-educated students throughout the world are looking forward to living in the United States for the upcoming school year. There's only one problem — finding families here who will "adopt" the students as one of their own for nine months.

Host homes are urgently needed so that students can be suitably matched with families and schools before their August arrival. It takes several weeks to organize the match and to orient students and host families.

Host families benefit greatly from the cultural exchange, and the exchange students carry their memories back to their homelands to share with their countrymen. Since 1974, Youth Exchange Service has brought more than 6,500 students together with host families throughout the nation.

YES students are 15 to 18 years old, communicate well in English, are screened for good moral and ethical behavior, and have medical/accident insurance. Students receive an allowance from their parents for spending money during their stay.

Students are expected to act as a part of their family, integrating into their lifestyle and sharing as much of each other's culture as possible. In addition to being an emotionally satisfying experience, hosting students has a tax deductible benefit of $50 per month. Interested families may call YES at 800-848-2121.

Pointe recycling coalition formalizes

Members of the Grosse Pointe Recycling Coalition met in August to decide to establish a more formally structured separate community organization to deal with our pressing solid waste problems. They will vote on bylaws in the fall.

Coalition member organizations have included the American Association of University Women Grosse Pointe Branch, Grosse Pointe League of Women Voters, Council of Grosse Pointe Garden Clubs, Grosse Pointe Unitarian Church, and the Grosse Pointe Public School System Department of Community Education, as well as many interested individuals.

One of the group's major activities was to support formation of the successful Community Newspaper Recycling Center at University Liggett School on Cook Road. The center will celebrate its first anniversary Oct. 17.

The purposes of the new, broader-based group will be:

- To promote recycling as a means of reducing the volume of trash now incinerated or land-filled;
- To educate the community to the benefits of recycling;

- To urge local authorities to include recycling as a part of their long range waste management plans.

If you are interested, call 886-3078 or 881-9588.

MOT's DiChiera appointed to panel

Karen DiChiera, Michigan Opera Theatre's Director of Community Programs and co-founder of the 18-year-old Detroit-based opera company, has been appointed to the National Endowment for the Arts Opera/Musical Theatre Professional Companies Panel, which met in Washington, D.C., recently to review more than 140 professional opera/musical theatre company applications seeking federal funding for fiscal year 89-90.

DiChiera directs the company's year round Overture to Opera troupe of professional singers, in addition to the annual winter/spring state touring program, Michigan Opera Theatre in Residence. In addition to her duties with the Michigan Opera Theatre, she is an active consultant to the Dayton Opera on community outreach and disability programming.

Everybody wants to know how her garden grows

By Peggy O'Connor Andrzejczyk
Assistant Editor/Feature Editor

There was one thing Bonnie B. Quinlan knew she couldn't take with her when she moved to a condominium after living in a large Grosse Pointe Park home for 35 years: her beautiful backyard.

So she went one better. She created her own backyard.

"I used to be able to entertain in my big house and I missed that when I moved here," said Quinlan, an 11-year resident of the Shorepointe condominiums in Grosse Pointe Woods.

"But I really missed by backyard. So, when I bought my house from the developer, I got permission to put up a porch and an awning and things just took off from there."

Indeed they did. With help from an architect friend, Clay Bagley, Quinlan designed, planned and had built a garden oasis. There is a deck, a built-in barbecue, rock garden, large, covered porch, a small waterfall and two statues which operate with running water.

Also installed are automatic timers and 20 lights spaced throughout the brick and wood walkway which offer a soft light in the evening. There is also a set of special flood lights for nighttime barbecues.

The entire setting is in brick, wood and black wrought iron. Quinlan did the planting herself, including a magnolia tree, pachysandra, a small rose garden, ground cover, lilac bushes, border flowers and even a Bonsai pine.

"I've had a lot of comments from my neighbors and my guests; even the mailman raves about my yard. He says it's the prettiest place in the development. He loves to come in and sit down for a bit on a hot day," Quinlan says, smiling.

"The yard really wasn't anything when I moved in, just a lot of grass and one tree with rocks around it. And I love to garden, so I thought, 'Why not?'"

Quinlan says she did a lot of the work with some of her favorite places in mind.

"We used to go to Gatlinburg, Tenn., before it got so commercial. There was a little babbling brook there and I used to sit by it and relax. I'd tell myself then that someday, I'd have a babbling brook of my own. And now I do."

Quinlan sits by her little brook in the early morning, reading her newspapers and getting ready for the day. She's retired now, after a successful career in real estate, life insurance and politics. But she says her four children and six grandkids manage to keep her busy.

"And I love to entertain. I can't do as much as I used to because I don't have the room. But I just make it a barbecue party and I can fit about 20 people in my yard."

"Besides, I learned a lot from my selling days. I've learned to adjust to a smaller scale of living. I've learned to do little tricks to make things seem larger in my home and yard and best of all, I've learned to cater to myself. That's what I did with this yard."

Quinlan says that Shorepointe management wrote several articles in the condo newsletter praising her efforts. And people keep stopping by to find out how she managed to make such magic on a tiny plot of land.

"I tell them to plant something pretty. You can work wonders with a few flowers or hanging baskets."

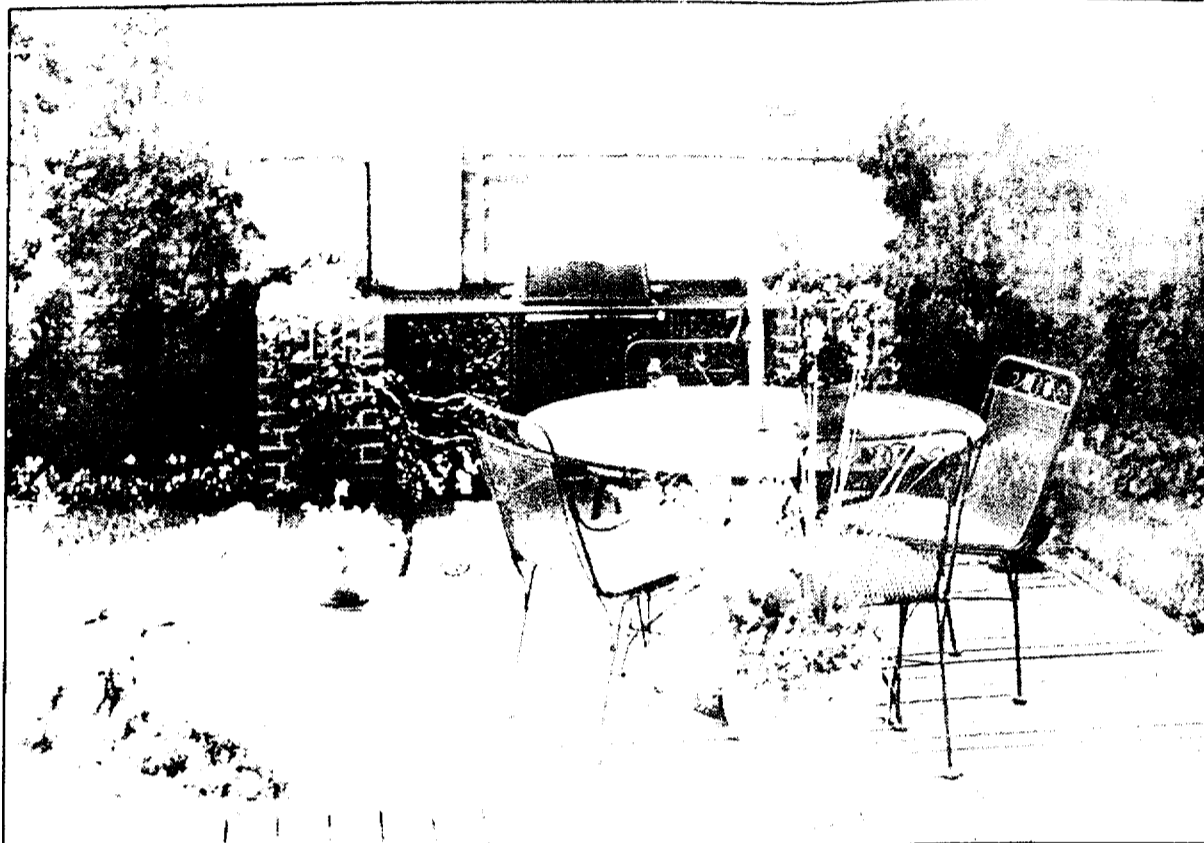

"I think a lot of people my age just give up when they have to move from their homes into something more manageable. And that attitude makes them feel old and keeps them from doing something."

"I don't feel old, I guess that's the key. I just get out and do."

Next Cottage Silver subject: 'For Women Only'

Paul C. Nehra, M.D., a gynecologist at Cottage Hospital, will discuss the common health problems and conditions for women over 55 in the next free Cottage Silver community program, "For Women Only: Osteoporosis, Menopause and Estrogen Therapy," on Wednesday, Sept. 21, from 4 to 5:30 p.m. at Cottage Hospital.

The talk is held in the lower level boardrooms of the hospital, 159 Kercheval Ave. Call 884-1177 between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. to reserve a seat for the program or for the mammography screening being offered at a special rate of $50. Appointments can be made for Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday, Sept. 13-15, or Monday and Tuesday, Sept. 19 and 20, from 1 to 5 p.m.

Dr. Nehra will address such women's health issues as menopause, osteoporosis and its treatment. During menopause, the ovaries' production of estrogen is significantly reduced. One of the consequences of this change is osteoporosis — a condition characterized by a significant reduction in bone mass. Prevention of the problem with calcium supplements has been offered as a possible solution, as has correcting the hormone deficiency with estrogen supplements. Nehra will discuss both remedies.

For more information, call Cottage Community Services at 884-1177.

Shine will speak to A.A.R.P. 2151 Sept. 26 at Memorial

Neal Shine

Neal Shine, senior managing editor of the Detroit Free Press, will address the Grosse Pointe Chapter No. 2151 of the American Association of Retired Persons on Monday, Sept. 26, in Fellowship Hall, Grosse Pointe Memorial Church.

Shine was born and raised in Detroit, started at the Free Press in 1950 as a copy boy and advanced to his present position in 1982. He has taught journalism in area universities for 20 years and currently is adjunct professor of journalism at Oakland University, where he teaches media ethics.

Blood pressure checks will be given before and after the meeting and refreshments will be served following the meeting.

'Gentlemen of Swing' return to Whittier

Whittier Towers residents and guests will enjoy a return engagement of the "Gentlemen of Swing" under the direction of Mel S. Stander on Wednesday, Sept. 21.

The band generates that big band sound of the 1940s with such songs as "Moonlight Serenade," "Sugar Blues," "In The Mood," "Pennsylvania 6-5000," and others. The program features saxophonist Mike Bentz and vocalist Jan Michael.

Government is an intriguing, complicated and ever-changing process. By and large, we are content to trust our elected representatives to watch over our interests and see that any modifications or amendments work for our benefit.

There is the possibility, however, that if we knew more about the operation of various phases of government and its workings, we might find areas where we could have input to insure a better deal.

This is particularly true of older people, many of whom are dependent on what the government provides in the way of Social Security, health benefits and other provisions that make their later years better ones.

Removed from the machinations of Washington, we try to follow the processes by reading newspapers, magazines and watching television. For those who would like the opportunity to watch government at work, there is a one-week program that offers us a chance to meet those who govern and become familiar with government at work.

It is called the Close Up Program for Older Americans, a non-partisan education experience in Washington, D.C. It provides Americans 50 and older with a chance to examine, firsthand, the issues, institutions and personalities of contemporary government.

Through a week-long series of topical seminars, staff-led discussion groups and study tours, Washington becomes a living classroom for adults. Those who attend meet and talk with national leaders and experts such as members of Congress, administrative officials, lobbyists, journalists, political analysts and other members of the Washington community.

The days are filled with scheduled activities throughout the city, making the most of Washington's fast-paced political atmosphere, its resources and its scenic beauty.

The learning experience extends into the cultural and historical side of Washington. There are visits to the city's neighborhoods, monuments and museums and an evening at the theater.

The purpose of the program is to help older Americans develop a deeper understanding of the nation's capitol and the political process that shapes the course of American society. It's made possible by the cooperation of the Institute of Lifetime Learning of the American Association of Retired Persons (A.A.R.P.) and Close Up Foundation.

It is an outgrowth of the Close Up Foundation program instituted in 1971 for high school students. Since then, the Close Up Programs have served as the largest classroom for more than 130,000 Close Up graduates.

The program has been endorsed by those in government. Sen. Robert Dole (R-Kans.) calls it "one of the finest programs I've had a chance to be associated with."

Rep. Claude Pepper (D-Fla.) enthusiastically supports it. Stephen Janger, president of the Close Up Foundation, explains its purpose: "There is no more important asset in America than the willingness of citizens of all ages and backgrounds to become actively involved in the democratic process of government. Older Americans have so much to contribute to the process and their collective wisdom is one of the country's greatest natural resources."

The program is not for the weak. Those who apply are warned that the activities require walking and boarding buses daily. A typical day begins at 6:15 a.m. and includes a day-long schedule of such activities as a keynote address, a visit to the West German embassy, a legislative seminar and a walking tour of Capitol Hill.

Typical seminar topics might concern legislation affecting older Americans, the role of the U.S. in the international community, the effect of the media on the formation of public opinion, the function of lobbying or the relationship between federal government and individuals.

Participants have an opportunity to examine current and upcoming legislative issues, to analyze the political personalities in power and to explore the workings of our political system. They learn about avenues open to every citizen for participating in the democratic process.

Those who have attended the program are enthusiastic. One participant said, "I was very impressed by the program. We got a better insight into how government works, what organizations and Congressional committees really do. You get a good feeling of what it is to be an American. And I think a bonus is meeting with people from other parts of the country and hearing their opinions."

There are five, six-day sessions. One is Nov. 6-12 — election week.

Tuition is $725 and includes six nights lodging in a major metropolitan hotel (Marriott, Sheraton or comparable accommodations), all meals, all sightseeing, excursions, program instructions, curriculum materials, transportation, an evening at the theater, gratuities and health, life and accident insurance.

For more information, write: Close Up Foundation Program for Older Americans, Dept. POA, Suite 1500, 1235 Jefferson Davis Highway, Arlington, Va., 22202; or call 1 800 232 2900.

Notes in a garden

By Lynn Zwickey

From September 1959 to December 1972, Grosse Pointe artist, gardener, teacher and writer Lynn Zwickey served as editor of "Garden Pointers," the monthly bulletin of the Men's Garden Club of Grosse Pointe.

The Grosse Pointe News is reprinting samples, on an occasional basis, of Zwickey's work. Zwickey, a long-time Pointer, died last month.

Status Seekers and Others

Someday, I shall write an essay on people and trees.

There are five kinds of trees.

The first kind are the old native trees. The ecology books call them climax trees. Oak, maple, beech, hickory. Sometimes the city forester plants them, and the choice is subject to the whims of time and place. Norway maples, sycamores, gingkos. Sometimes the people plant them for reasons of food or of sentiment. Apples, cherries, pears. Or the farmer plants them for hedgerows or field boundaries. Osage orange.

Third, there are the status trees, which people plant because they are beautiful or fashionable. The choice of these, too, is subject to whims of time and place. In our area — in our time — they have been Judas trees and magnolias, carefully chosen blue spruces, clumps of birches and so on and on.

Fourth, there are the urchin trees, which take over in the cities when the status seekers move away. Their seeds fly in the wind and lodge chiefly against walls and in the assorted chinks of unkempt alleys. Ailanthus! Boxelder! And to a lesser extent, Norway maple and ash.

Fifth, there are the trees of special habitat. Sassafras makes thickets at the end of beech forest and is rarely, if ever, seen as a planted tree. When it persists as an occasional specimen in suburban areas it is a relic of an earlier rural environment.

Thus people make their mark upon trees and trees upon people. Count the ailanthus trees to know diminishing values of city blocks. Count the tulip trees — accidental survivors of an earlier day near Seven Mile and Mack for a measure of the resiliency of rural nature against man.

Count the shapely Colorado spruces and the magnolias as a measure of the current pecuniosity of suburban man. Count majestic oaks as a measure of an old and stable community, whose forerunners knew the grace of trees. Count whatever tree you like and think, "What does this count mean?"

Issues of aging to be addressed

The latest in aging research, education and current events will be explored by over 600 older adults and professionals in the field of aging at the state-wide biennial Governor's Conference on Aging.

Heading the array of speakers is keynote Dr. Joyce Brothers, noted psychologist, columnist and author. Brothers will present the main address at the opening plenary session at 2 p.m. Monday, Oct. 17, at the Grand Plaza Hotel in Grand Rapids.

James H. Schultz, Ph.D. of Brandeis University in Waltham, Mass. is the luncheon speaker on the first full day of the conference, Tuesday, Oct. 18. The professor of economics and aging policy will give a talk entitled, "The Continuing Battle: Private Versus Public Provision of Income in Old Age."

Closing luncheon speaker Deloris McBain of WMAQ-TV in Chicago worked with the station on the award-winning project, Your Golden Years.

Persons interested in registration information should write the Office of Services to the Aging, P.O. Box 30026, Lansing, MI 48909 or phone 517/373-3052.

A.A.R.P. 3430 will meet Sept. 12

The American Association of Retired Persons, Chapter No. 3430, will meet at the Neighborhood Club at 1:30 p.m. Monday, Sept. 12. The program will feature a spokesman for the Customs Service discussing the rules and regulations of bringing goods over the U.S. border. A board meeting will precede the talk.

At each meeting, blood pressure will be taken at no charge by St. John Hospital representatives.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Richard T. Flynn Jr.

Stemczynski-Flynn

Jennifer Anne Stemczynski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Stemczynski of Harper Woods, married Richard Thomas Flynn Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard T. Flynn of Grosse Pointe Woods, on March 5, 1988, in St. Joan of Arc Catholic Church.

The Rev. Charles Morris and The Rev. Alcuin Mikulanis, a friend of the bride's family, officiated at the 1 p.m. ceremony, which was followed by a reception at the Lochmoor Club.

The bride wore her mother's wedding gown of ivory satin, styled with a sweetheart neckline and trimmed at the sleeves and train in antique ivory lace. A headpiece of ivory satin held the bride's veil: a piece of Irish lace which had been worn by the bridegroom's mother and handed down through her family. The bride carried a bouquet of white Sweetheart roses, stephanotis, babies'-breath and fresh greens.

The maid of honor was Frances Gammicchia of Harper

Woods. Bridesmaids included the bride's sisters, Susan Fell of Chandler, Ariz., and Paula Luke of Grosse Pointe Park; the bride's sister-in-law, Mary Beth Stemczynski of Grand Rapids; and Margaret Gillis of Harper Woods and Sue Wray of Chicago, Ill.

The attendants wore tea length dresses of royal blue moire, styled with three-quarter length sleeves and pearl buttons down the back. Each carried a hand-cut bouquet of alstroemeria, babies'-breath and fresh greens.

The best man was John Leshia of Grosse Pointe Shores. Grooms-men included the bridegroom's brothers, Bryan Flynn and Paul Flynn of Grosse Pointe Woods; the bride's brother, Chris Stemczynski of Grand Rapids; and Earl Allard and Joe Boyle, both of Grosse Pointe. Ushers were Victor Cavatio of Grosse Pointe Woods, Hunter Fox of Detroit and John Bogdziewicz of Mount Clemens.

Soloist for the ceremony was Joyce Beekman; Ron Prowse was organist. Brian Flynn and the bride's godfather, Edward Borkowski, read scripture.

The mother of the bride wore a light pink cocktail length dress. Her wrist corsage was a single gardenia.

The mother of the bridegroom wore a royal blue cocktail length dress. Her wrist corsage was a single gardenia.

The bride is a graduate of Grosse Pointe North High School and Michigan State University, where she received a bachelor's degree in advertising. She is employed by Katz Communications, Inc., in Dallas, Texas.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Grosse Pointe North High School and Michigan State University, where he earned a bachelor's degree in advertising. He is midwest manager for Southern Living Magazine in Dallas. The newlyweds honeymooned in Maui, Hawaii. They live in Dallas.

Mr. and Mrs. Sean M. Quick Weller-Quick

Richelle L. Weller, daughter of Richard and Kathy Weller of Hastings, married Sean Michael Quick, son of Ronald and Linda Quick of Grosse Pointe Woods, on June 18, 1988, at Baypointe on Gun Lake.

The Rev. David Nelson officiated at the 1:30 p.m. ceremony, which was followed by a reception at Baypointe on Gun Lake in Shelbyville.

The bride wore a white satin gown, styled with a V-neckline, chapel length train and a back accented with a butterfly of sequins and pearls. Her illusion veil was accented with pearl sprays. She carried a bouquet of white roses and ivy.

The matron of honor was the bride's aunt, Mary Chestnut of Wayland. Attendants included the groom's sister, Genevieve Quick of Grosse Pointe Woods; the bride's cousin, Angela Green of Grand Rapids; and Danielle Grant of Farmington, Kris Beck of Hastings, Jane Johnson of Augusta, Ga., the groom's cousin, Whitney Parthum of Grosse Pointe Park, and Kendra Shannon.

The attendants wore dresses of peacock blue taffeta with white embroidered overlays. They carried lace fans with white carnations and roses.

The best man was the bridegroom's brother, Casey Quick of Grosse Pointe Woods. Ushers included Charles Coughlin of Waterford, Ireland; the bride's brothers, Craig Weller and Bradley Weller of Hastings; the bride's uncle, Sheldon Green of Grand Rapids; and the bride's cousin, Michael Green of Grand Rapids.

The mother of bride wore a drop-waisted dress of cream-colored antique lace tied with a satin sash. Her corsage was pink roses.

The mother of the groom wore a dress of pale blue embossed linen with a pleated bodice. Her corsage was a white orchid.

The bride attended Western Michigan University. She is employed at MicroMatic Computers in Holland, Mich.

The bridegroom holds a degree from Western Michigan University. He is employed at Footlocker in Holland.

Hanzakos-Kondelis

Jamie Lynn Hanzakos, M.D., daughter of Leo and Harriet Hanzakos of Grosse Pointe Shores, married Nicholas Peter Kondelis, M.D., son of Peter and Bess Kondelis of Wilmette, Ill., on Sept. 3, 1988, in Assumption Greek Orthodox Church.

The Rev. Demetrios Kavadas officiated at the 3:30 p.m. ceremony, which was followed by a reception at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club.

The matron of honor was Pamela Papas-Corden, M.D., of Farmington Hills. Bridesmaids included the bridegroom's sister, Elaine Kondelis of Chicago, Ill.; the bride's godsister, Roseann Lambros of West Port, Conn.; Vaso Karris of Birmingham and Marya Corden of Farmington Hills. Flowergirl was the bride's niece, Alexandra Polus of Crown Point, Ind.

The best man was George Despotis, M.D., of St. Louis, Mo. Ushers included the groom's brother, Dean Kondelis of Wilmette; and Jim Halikas, Jim Collis and Bill Behnke, all of Chicago. Ringbearer was the bride's nephew, Michael Paul Domitrovich of New York City.

The bride is a graduate of University Liggett School, Carleton College and the University of Michigan School of Medicine. She is an emergency medicine physician resident-in-training at Northwestern Memorial Hospital.

The bridegroom is a graduate of New Trier High School, Knox College and the University of Illinois Medical School. He completed his residency in cardiac anesthesiology at Northwestern Memorial Hospital. He is the attending physician at Elmhurst Memorial Hospital.

Classic cars

... will be the topic when the Grosse Pointe Questers No. 147 meet Friday, Sept. 9, at the Lakeshore Road home of Myrtle Palmer. Vi Champagne and Barbara Crane will assist Mrs. Palmer.

The 1937 Phantom III Windsor, restored and formerly owned by the late Richard Mertz and his wife Jane, will be among the cars discussed at the meeting. Mrs. Mertz will share her experiences restoring classic cars, particularly Rolls Royces.

The Grosse Pointe Chapter of Questers No. 147 was founded June 29, 1961 and named "Grosse Pointe" because it has historical significance: the words are French for a large, broad point of land and the French settled the Grosse Pointe area. Questers is a national organization interested in the research and study of antiques and dedicated to the preservation and restoration of existing memorials, historical buildings and landmarks.

AAUW fellows will discuss experiences

Grosse Pointe area women have had a chance to study everything from archeology to computer programming, thanks to the American Association of University Women's Education Foundation Program, funded by monies earned through the annual used book sale.

Five of these women will share their educational experiences at an AAUW meeting Thursday, Sept. 15, at 7:30 p.m. in the undercroft at Christ Church Grosse Pointe. Branch EFP chairman Margit Jackson will give an explanation of the program, how it works and where the money goes.

This year's AAUW Used Book Sale dates are Sept. 27 through Oct. 2. For more information about the Sept. 15 program, call Linda Wheeler Jones at 331-8211.

Shores branch, Farm & Garden

The first meeting of the 1988-89 season of the Grosse Pointe Shores Branch of the Women's National Farm & Garden Association will be held Friday, Sept. 9, at the Carmel Lane home of Mrs. Max Gardner. Co-hostesses will be Mrs. Robert Chope, Mrs. Gilbert Mack and Mrs. James Thrasher.

Peggy Mezritz will speak on "Wild Wings: Attracting Birds and Butterflies to Your Garden." Mezritz is affiliated with Seven Ponds, a teaching facility for school children located in Dryden.

Fox Creek Questers

The Fox Creek Chapter of the Questers will begin the fall season Thursday, Sept. 8, with a "High Tea at Noon," at the Grayton Road home of Mary Edlo Thompson. She and co-hostess Theresa Klassen will serve a number of different teas, dainty sandwiches, scones, pastries and sweets.

Speaker Andrina Gilmartin will discuss "The History of Teas and Teapots." Members who have them are asked to bring antique teapots to show.

G.P. Newcomers

"Motown Hoedown" is the theme for the Grosse Pointe Newcomers Club's first party of the season, set for Saturday, Sept. 10, at 5:30 p.m. at the Metro Beach Group Activities Center. Couples will enjoy a night of western fun featuring food, beverages and square dancing.

Planning the party are co-chairmen Mike and Roseanne Horne and Dave and Fran Miller. Helping out are committee members Eric and Alice Ernst, Jim and Lori Everett, Rob and Trish Fishman, Gernot and Julie Joachim, Paul and Mary Ellen Keyes, Kevin and Karen Liederbach and Ron and Sue Waits.

Couples new to the Grosse Pointes within the past two years who would like more information about the Grosse Pointe Newcomers, should call Paul and Corinne LaBarge at 884-9009 or Dick and Terri McClelland at 885-3574.

Pear Tree Questers

The Pear Tree Chapter of Questers will gather for their September meeting at the home of Mrs. A.J. Christie. Mrs. Mel Stander will serve as co-hostess.

Mrs. Fred Wicklund will read a paper on lace. Members are asked to bring samples of old lace from their collections.

Grosse Pointe Senior Men

The Senior Men's Club of Grosse Pointe will meet Tuesday, Sept. 13, at 11 a.m. at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. Speaker will be John E. Lobbia, president and chief operating officer of the Detroit Edison Company. His topic will be "The Summer of '88 and Electricity Futures." Presenter will be Tullio A. Alessi.

Grosse Pointe senior men are welcome to attend. Reservations may be made by calling Bob Gyax at 885-7358 or Pete Corsiglia at 773-0519.

G.P. Camera Club set for 51st season

The Grosse Pointe Camera Club will begin its 51st season on Tuesday, Sept. 13, at 7:30 p.m. at the Brownell Middle School, 260 Chalfonte Avenue, room C-11 for a slide and print competition.

The G.P. Camera Club was organized in 1937 with three objectives in mind: To increase members' knowledge of photography, to stimulate creativity in this field and to exchange ideas and information among its members.

Club meetings are usually held on the first, third and fourth Tuesdays of the month except September. The Labor Day holiday and subsequent opening of the school year changes the schedule of meetings to Sept. 13, 20 and 27.

Two of the monthly sessions are devoted to a judging and critique of the members' work in prints and slides, both in pictorial and nature categories. Mini-programs on some techniques in photography precede each competition. The last meeting of the month is program night and may include a guest expert, or a workshop, or an enjoyable slide program. Several field trips per season are also planned.

Both visitors and potential members are invited to attend a meeting without pressure to join. For more information, call 881-8034.

South High Mothers' Club establishes alumnae group

The Mothers' Club of Grosse Pointe South High School is trying something new this year — inviting mothers of graduated seniors to join the Mothers' Club as alumnae members.

The Mothers' Club organizes numerous school activities and financially supports events and academic scholarships. The Club also serves as a communications vehicle between parents and school officials. The alumnae participation would encourage increased involvement by the community in school affairs.

Mothers' Club president Billie Deason is enthusiastic about alumnae members continuing their involvement with Grosse Pointe South and maintaining many of the friendships previously established within the organization.

"We have a lot of talented moms out there and we miss them. We hope they will come back to South and join Mothers' Club again," Deason said.

Alumnae members will receive the Mothers' Club school publication, "High Pointes," and copies of the annual student directory. This is also an opportunity for alumnae members to establish a networking system and share experiences as parents of college students.

The alumnae program is being coordinated by Patricia Mohn-Monforte whose daughter, Beth, is a 1988 South High graduate. "As an 'empty-nester' I will now have a little more time to devote

Deeplands Garden Club

The Deeplands Garden Club will meet Monday, Sept. 12, at the home of Marie Draper. The meeting is set for noon and will include discussion of programs and events for the coming year.

Join the chorus; sing for the holidays

Trappers Alley is seeking choirs and choruses of any age group to participate in the fourth annual Holiday Choir Competition set for Nov. 25 through Dec. 24 at Trappers Alley. Choral groups will be scheduled every hour, Monday through Saturday, during mall hours.

For more information, call John Percy or Diane DeForest at 963-5445.

Craft show

Metro Beach will be the site of a pre-fall outdoor craft show from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 10 and 11.

Dealers interested in displaying at the show should call Joe at 792-4563.

Why be religious?

Think about it. When was the last time you saw the pursuit of Christian ideals portrayed as normal, rational behavior in the media or cinema? Can worship be relevant today?

You're invited to come to our church service and explore God's goodness with us.

p.m. in the upstairs meeting room of the Grosse Pointe Central Library. Program ideas for future meetings will be discussed, as will reports on summer craft fairs.

Following the business part of the meeting, Guild member Betsy Martin will assist those present in getting a head start on Christmas by making tree ornaments from wood shavings.

The Crafts Guild meetings are held the second Wednesday of each month; anyone who is interested in any type of craft is invited to attend.

For further information, call Guild president Nancy Thompson at 881-3637 or Betsy Martin at 886-1827.

Grand Marais Farm and Garden Assoc.

The first meeting of the season for the Grand Marais Branch of the National Farm & Garden Association will be held Monday, Sept. 12, at the home of Ella Lewis. Co-hostesses for the luncheon will be Lorine Forster and Kay Baird. The program will be "The Summer of 1988 - Sharing Experiences."

Men's Garden Club of G.P.

The Men's Garden Club of Grosse Pointe will hold its annual meeting and dinner dance on Thursday, Oct. 20, at 6:30 p.m. The event will be held at the London House East, Marter Road near Jefferson in St. Clair Shores.

Members are asked to watch the Garden Club Newsletter for further announcements about the meeting and dance.

Make that $22

The Cottage Hospital Auxiliary will present a benefit luncheon and fashion show Wednesday, Sept. 14, at the Assumption Cultural Center, 21800 Marter Road. Tickets for the event - which begins at 11:15 a.m. - are $22, not $20 as published in the Aug. 25 Grosse Pointe News.

But hey, that unexpected extra $2, and the rest of the cost as well, goes to a good cause: toward the purchase of a CT scanner for Cottage Hospital.

Hospice history

A three semester-hour course, "Fundamental Concepts in Hospice Care," offered at Madonna College deals with the history of the hospice movement and the philosophy of care inherent in it.

The class is held Thursdays from 4 to 7 p.m., in room 285. For information, call 591-5052.

Condiments — the little things that make a meal

Do not panic when you hear the words "relish" or "chutney." They do not necessarily mean canning or preserving! These can be done in small quantities — very delicious and enjoyed year around.

These recipes will justify the extra effort required and the results are sure to bring a great deal of satisfaction and many compliments. The addition of these delightful condiments insure superb dining on both formal and informal occasions. A little effort lavished on the preserve recipes capture summer freshness and flavor for the brightening of dreary winter days.

The following recipes come from the low-calorie, low-cholesterol, budgetwise kitchens of Thyra Grey Howard and Helena DeWitt Pugh.

- Hot Beet Relish
- Onion Relish Dressing
- Fresh Chutney
- Tomato Relish
- Lime-Zucchini Relish
- Fresh Peach Chutney
- Tomato Corn Relish
- Watermelon-Rind Chutney

Hot Beet Relish
4 cups cooked shredded beets
2 Tbsp. melted margarine
1 Tbsp. flour
1 Tbsp. sugar
1 Tbsp. vinegar
1/2 cup thick plain yogurt
Heat beets in melted margarine in saucepan. Stir in flour, sugar and vinegar. Heat thoroughly, stirring frequently. Taste for seasoning, add salt and pepper if needed. Slowly add yogurt and heat slowly, stirring constantly. Do not let boil. Serves 8.
Calories per serving, about 70. Cholesterol, trace.

Onion Relish Dressing
2 cups finely chopped sweet Spanish onions
1 cup salad oil
1/2 cup catsup
1/2 cup vinegar
1/2 cup horseradish
1/2 tsp. dry mustard
3 drops hot pepper sauce
Juice of 1 lemon
Salt and pepper to taste
Place chopped onion with remaining ingredients in a quart jar. Cover and shake until thoroughly blended. Refrigerate until used. Makes 1 quart. An excellent base for Mediterranean Baked Fish.
Calories, about 35 per tablespoon. Cholesterol, 0.

Fresh Chutney
1/2 cup finely chopped onions
1/2 cup finely chopped green pepper
2 medium large tomatoes, peeled, seeds removed, coarsely chopped *
1/4 cup finely chopped sweet red pepper
1/2 cup fresh lemon juice
Combine all ingredients in a small bowl. Let stand for 1 hour, stirring often. Chill at least 1 hour. The longer this dish stands the mellow the flavors will be blended together. Makes about 2 cups.
Calories, about 6 per tablespoon. Cholesterol, 0.
* Whole canned tomatoes may be substituted for the fresh, but they should be well drained before chopping and as many seeds removed as possible.

Tomato Relish
1 lb. onions, diced
1 bunch celery and tops, diced
1 qt. tomatoes, peeled, sliced
1 Tbsp. honey
Juice and rind of 1 lemon
2 bay leaves
1/4 tsp. sweet basil
1/4 tsp. salt
1/8 tsp. black pepper
Powdered garlic to taste
Simmer all ingredients together until vegetables are very tender and flavors well blended. Remove bay leaves. Chill. If desired, preserve by pouring into hot sterilized jars. Makes 3 pints.
Calories, about 5 per tablespoon. Cholesterol, 0.

Tomato Relish
1 lb. onions, diced
1 bunch celery and tops, diced
1 qt. tomatoes, peeled, sliced
1 Tbsp. honey
Juice and rind of 1 lemon
2 bay leaves
1/4 tsp. sweet basil
1/4 tsp. salt
1/8 tsp. black pepper
Powdered garlic to taste
Simmer all ingredients together until vegetables are very tender and flavors well blended. Remove bay leaves. Chill. If desired, preserve by pouring into hot sterilized jars. Makes 3 pints.
Calories, about 5 per tablespoon. Cholesterol, 0.

Lime-Zucchini Relish
2 medium limes
1-1/2 lbs. fresh, crisp zucchini
1/2 cup lime juice
1/4 cup cider vinegar
Pinch of salt
1-3/4 oz. pkg. fruit pectin
4 cups sugar
Cut ends from limes and slice very thinly; then chop slices very, very thinly. Trim ends from zucchini and coarsely shred. In large kettle, stir together lime, zucchini, lime juice, vinegar and salt. Thoroughly stir in fruit pectin. Over high heat, stirring constantly, bring to a boil; stir in sugar, bring to boil again and boil 1 minute. Remove from heat and stir for five minutes with wooden spoon. Ladle in prepared, clean, hot canning jars and seal. Cool to room temperature and store in refrigerator or very cool place. Makes 6 and 1/2 pints.
Calories, about 16 per tablespoon. Cholesterol, 0.

Fresh Peach Chutney
2 Tbsp. salt Water
7 cups peeled and sliced fresh peaches
1-1/2 cups cider vinegar
2 large cloves garlic, minced
1 cup coarsely chopped onions
1 tsp. ground ginger
pegar and garlic. Bring to a boil, add peaches and cook until they are translucent, about 40 minutes. Remove the peaches from the syrup with a slotted spoon.
Add onions, spices, lime juice and raisins to syrup. Cook until slightly thickened, about 10 minutes. Add peaches and candied ginger, bring to the boiling point. Ladle into hot, sterilized half-pint jars and seal at once. Process 10 minutes in boiling water bath. Remove jars and place upright several inches apart, on a rack to cool. Store at room temperature for up to one year. Makes 6 half-pint jars. 549 calories per half pint.
Calories per tablespoon, about 34. Cholesterol, 0.

Tomato Corn Relish
6 Lbs. firm, ripe tomatoes, peeled, seeded, and coarsely chopped
3 Lbs. green tomatoes, peeled, seeded, coarsely chopped
2 medium green peppers, diced
2 medium red peppers, diced
2 large sweet onions, diced
2 cans (12 oz) vacuum-packed sweet corn
1-1/2 cups white vinegar
4 tsp. salt
1 Tbsp. mustard seed

Watermelon-Rind Chutney
2-1/2 quarts chopped pared white watermelon rind (1 watermelon — 15 lbs.)
2 Tbsp. non-iodized salt
3 cups chopped, pared, cored baking apples (about 1 lb.)
2 cups chopped onions
1 Tbsp. non-iodized salt
1 quart distilled white vinegar
2 Tbsp. mustard seeds
2 tsp. celery seeds
3 cloves garlic, minced
1 pkg. (15 oz.) golden raisins
2 cups packed brown sugar
1 cup granulated sugar
1 jar (5 oz.) preserved ginger chopped
1 lemon, thinly sliced
1/2 cup lemon juice
2 tsp. cinnamon
2 tsp. ground cloves
2 tsp. ground allspice
1/2 to 2 tsp. cayenne pepper
Heat rind and 2 tablespoons of non-iodized salt in water to cover in large kettle over medium heat to boiling; reduce heat. Simmer uncovered until tender, about 10 minutes. Drain.
Combine rind, apples, onions, 1 tablespoon non-iodized salt and the vinegar in large bowl. Let stand at room temperature three hours. Drain; reserve rind mixture and liquid separately.
Crush mustard seeds, celery seeds and garlic cloves in mortar with pestle. Heat reserved vinegar, crushed mixture and remaining ingredients except rind mixture in large kettle over medium heat, stirring frequently, to boiling; reduce heat. Stir in reserved rind mixture. Simmer, stirring occasionally, until syrup thickens, about 1 hour. Taste and adjust seasonings. Let stand at room temperature eight hours or overnight.
Heat mixture to boiling, spoon into pint jars. Leave 1/4 inch headspace in jars. Process in boiling water bath 10 minutes. Makes 5 pints.
Calories, about 50 per 1/4 cup. Cholesterol, 0.

Double-decking it
St. John Hospital Fontbonne Auxiliary members get ready for their trip to the Detroit Institute of Arts in a 1963 English double-decker bus provided by Cardinal Lodging Group. Luncheon at the DIA was followed by a highlights tour conducted by assistant curator Linda Margolin. During the return trip, guests enjoyed iced lemonade on the 95-degree day. Chairing the day's events was Barbara Monahan of Grosse Pointe Shores.

Alcohol, drug dependency information available
A four-session class about alcohol addiction and chemical dependency will begin Wednesday, Sept. 21, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at the Warren office of Catholic Services of Macomb, 24900 Hoover at 10 Mile Road.
The series is designed for individuals and family members who want more information about the process of alcohol or drug dependence or addiction. Dwight Vaughtner, ACC, a chemical dependency specialist, will lead the series.
Cost is $35. Call 757-3800 before Sept. 16 to register.
Catholic Services of Macomb is a Torch Drive agency, accredited by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations and licensed to provide substance abuse services by the Michigan State Department of Public Health. It also provides a full range of counseling services to individuals, families and single parents; child placement services in adoption and foster care; and adult day care.

Participants needed for Wayne State study
Individuals with chronic active hepatitis due to the hepatitis B virus are needed to take part in a study that is being conducted by the Wayne State University School of Medicine, in cooperation with the National Institute of Health and the Food and Drug Administration.
The study is a clinical trial using thymus gland hormones in the treatment of chronic active hepatitis resulting from infection with the hepatitis B virus. Currently, there is no acceptable treatment for chronic active hepatitis B. But preliminary results using the thymic hormone have produced beneficial effects.
Individuals interested in participating and who qualify for the study can contact Dr. Milton Mutechnik at 745-7521. There is no cost to participants.
Chronic active hepatitis B is a disease which can lead to cirrhosis of the liver and liver cancer and can result in liver failure and death.

Outreach program begins
The Women's Justice Center's domestic violence shelter, "My Sister's Place," has begun an outreach program for abused women. The shelter's support group meets every Wednesday from 2 to 4 p.m. and again from 6 to 8 p.m.
For more information, call the 24-hour crisis line at 921-3900.

TRADITION, CONDITION and your AMBITION will combine to lure you to this petite French estate which is nestled away on a private dead end lane which leads to the lake. The magnificent gardens can be seen through iron and brick walls. The swimming pool is secluded from prying eyes with its own walled enclosure. There is a charming apartment over the three-stall carriage house, and ample parking in the entry courtyard. Most bedrooms have fireplaces and private bathrooms. Truly, one of the Pointe's finest mini estates.

The Georgian Colonial you've always wanted! Elegance of years past mixes with today's life style. Unique and quality workmanship is everywhere from the marble foyer, the sweeping staircase, the four master bedrooms, the multiple fireplaces to the four car heated garage with its carriage apartment. Entertaining is a pleasure and your guests will delight in the wonderful gardens which add their grace and serenity to this Grosse Pointe City home.

We're a team you can count on!

Take this, Bayview

Bayview Yacht Club has a new addition to its already filled showcase.

After successfully meeting the challenge they issued more than a year ago, Challenge '88/Team Toyota ranks up there with Dennis Conner and the America's Cup yachters.

Ken Meade, owner of The Meade Group, John Uznis and Kim McNamara organized a syndicate to develop a 40-foot Nelson/Marek sailboat last year to go to Toronto and match race Steadfast AT & T for the Canada's Cup; a series that started in 1895 when the Lincoln Park Yacht Club of Chicago first issued the challenge to the Royal Canadian Yacht Club of Toronto.

The next best thing to bringing back the coveted chalice for the first time in 10 years, could have been a sign which read, "Canada lost Gretzky, and now the Cup." This sign hung at the airport as Meade flew his nine-man crew back to Grosse Pointe. It was just another blow to a nation which lost two prize possessions in one month. Don't you just pity them?

For the next three years, the boys aboard Challenge '88/Team Toyota can be proud that they were the ones to bring the Cup back to where it belongs. Bayview Yacht Club is the sole holder, but the team is the actual source behind all the happiness. They gave us all something to be proud of.

The yacht was built strictly to give the Americans a chance to win the Cup. Not built to look at or race in several regattas. It was a concerted effort to bring a silver chalice which has evaded the United States for 10 years.

You can only think of how those members felt once they won the best-of-seven series, 4-3. They were pushed into a 3-1 deficit, but when the bell sounded for the next three rounds, Challenge '88/Team Toyota came out with both sails ready to hoist. They weren't about to be laughed out of the Canadian waters, and would do what they had to do to win it all.

Inspirational, maybe. A battle of the fittest, maybe. But I think it was a matter of pride and patriotism.

In 1991, the Americans will have to defend the cup on their own waves, so they don't want to get too cocky. I say, heck with that, enjoy it now and let the sojourn through America begin.

For yachters, winning the Canada's Cup is like winning the World Series. I'll be the first to run the ticker-tape down Kercheval as the nine-man crew waves from convertibles. This is something that shouldn't go unmentioned. They fought through an elimination series off the shore of Lake St. Clair with Fred Detwiler's Trader, and proved they were the men for the job. The preparation they had in fighting Trader had plenty to do with the way they sailed in Canada.

When football coaches win the BIG ONE, they get hoisted upon the shoulders of players. When a yachter wins the BIG ONE, the skipper takes a swim. The crew rewards itself by tossing the skipper into the water once they've docked. Well, I'm Pointe teams stumble, lose opener

By Rob Fulton
Sports Editor

Three teams set out to grab an opening day football victory last weekend, but three teams were turned away.

North lost to Fraser, 20-6, South was beaten at home by Edsel Ford, 12-3, and the Knights were shut out 20-0 by Harper Woods.

Sept. 10 games

North hosts Utica Eisenhower at 1 p.m.

South is home against Roseville at 1 p.m.

Lamphere invades ULS at 1 p.m.

South found itself trying to anchor an elusive quarterback in Ford's Joe Crill. Crill rushed for 156 yards and squirmed his way to two quarterback-sneak touchdowns. Defensively he picked off South quarterback Brian Letscher twice, and did the kicking as well.

"Crill was a bit too much for us to handle," said second-year head coach Jon Rice. "We prepared ourselves defensively to stop him, but he eluded us very well."

"We got tired of chasing him around," Rice added.

Defensively, the Blue Devils were sound. The Thunderbirds were stuffed twice at South's goal line on fourth down plays, and once at midfield; all in the first half.

Linebackers Rob Crane and Lance Harding had 13 and 12 tackles, respectively, to lead the Devils.

Jason Weissert's 27-yard field goal at the 7:45 mark of the second quarter gave South a 3-0 halftime lead, but as far as Rice is concerned, South could have easily trailed.

"Our defense was on the field a long time," said Rice. "Too long in fact. But, they kept us in it. At the half, we could have been down at least 14-0, but the defense kept us in it."

Josh Windquest's 40-yard run set up the Weissert three-pointer, and added to the total offense of 110 yards.

"Physically, we were going right after them," said Rice. "It was not a place for the faint-hearted to be. There was a lot of popping going on out there."

With the loss, South finds itself in the same predicament as last year.

"We lost our opener to Eisenhower (7-6) last year and came back from that to win nine straight," said Rice. "Sure we're disappointed. We have a lot of new kids and we didn't execute very well, but we'll get better."

South (0-1) opens defense of its Eastern Michigan League crown on Sept. 10 at home against a vastly improved Roseville team. Game time is 1 p.m.

NORTH'S loss was self-inflicted.

Fraser, a team the Norsemen beat 21-3 in 1987, avenged its loss by causing North to shoot off its own foot.

"We made a lot of mistakes," said head coach Frank Sumner. "We didn't play very well and we couldn't convert on third down. We never made the big play."

North's best shot to turn the tide came from Fraser's 29-yard line. But North retreated instead of attacked.

"We were moving and were on the verge of possibly scoring and turning things around," Sumner said. "But two penalties pushed us into a third-and-12 situation instead of a third-and-two."

The Ramblers took the opening kickoff and drove 70 yards in 14 plays to take a 6-0 advantage after a failed point after touchdown (PAT). After punting the ball away, North's defense was challenged. But, an interception by Matt Brady at the Norsemen 2-yard line, allowed North to escape unharmed. Three plays later, North punted again.

"We couldn't control the ball," Sumner said. "If you can't make the big plays, it's difficult to win."

Fraser chewed up 73 yards of real estate to take a 13-0 advantage at the intermission, but Sumner got out of it in good shape.

"We were playing pretty decent defense, but we were behind," he said. "We couldn't stop their ball control game. At the half I felt good because we were still in it despite not moving the ball on offense."

North's opening possession in the second half resulted in yet another punt, but Mark Azar recovered a fumble to boost the Norsemen on Fraser's first play.

"We got the fumble, but then we punted the ball again," Sumner said. "Our offense had 274 yards, but we only scored six points."

The six points came when quarterback Scott Bernhardt hooked up with Brady on a 60-yard touchdown pass. The touchdown was set up one play earlier when Chuck Schultz ran 14 yards for a first down on a fake punt.

"I was happy with Scott," Sumner said. "He played very well in his first start as a junior. He did the job."

Charlie Stumb caught three passes for 48 yards and Chuck Schultz carried the ball 13 times for 76 yards.

After an unsuccessful on-sides kick, North followed with a blitz, causing a fumble — which was recovered by Fraser.

"The ball was on the ground," Sumner said. "If we could have come up with it, the game could have taken a new look. We only trailed 13-6, but we didn't get the ball."

Nine plays later, Fraser padded its lead, 20-6.

"Normally we don't have a team control the ball on us," said Sumner, whose team recorded only eight first downs to Fraser's 14. "The second half was all us, but as I said, we didn't stop them and then convert."

North (0-1) will host Eisenhower (1-0) Sept. 10 at 1 p.m.

FOR TWO quarters, University Liggett School was in the game at Harper Woods. But, it was the final two quarters that got them in trouble.

"In the first half we played very well," said head coach Bob Newvine. "In the second half, they picked up the momentum and caught fire."

The Knights and Pioneers battled to a scoreless tie at half, but according to Newvine, ULS should have held a 14-0 lead.

"We were moving the ball all over the place," he said. "Twice we had chances to score, but some people didn't come through for us."

"We were one block away from scoring on both those chances, but we didn't get the block," Newvine added. "If we would have made those blocks, it would have made the difference."

Just before the half, ULS was stopped inside the Pioneer five. On a third-and-15, Harper Woods picked up 27 yards to get out of trouble.

"That broke us," Newvine said. "We had them in a hole with about two minutes to go in the half, but they scrambled for a first down. If we could have held them, we would have gotten the ball back in good position."

Instead, the teams settled for a goose-egg draw until Harper Woods scored two quick touchdowns in the third quarter by putting the ball up.

"Our secondary got caught standing in their boots," Newvine said. "They (Harper Woods) knew they couldn't get much on us by running up the middle, so they put the ball up."

The offensive line protected field general Lex Smith the entire afternoon. Smith completed six passes in 10 tries for 104 yards.

"I was pleased with the offensive line and how they pass blocked," Newvine said. "They protected the quarterback and allowed him the time to throw."

Dike Ajiri rushed for 72 yards, and Chris Carroll compiled 44 yards.

"We out-conditioned them, but when they got the momentum and we couldn't break it or get it back, that was the key. We just couldn't get it back."

ULS will host Class B Madison Heights Lamphere at 1 p.m. Sept. 10.

Dike Ajiri (white jersey), from University Liggett School, is wrapped up by a couple Pioneers from Harper Woods in the Knights' 20-0 opening-day loss. Smith rushed for 72 yards.

CHAMP responds to weekend injuries

Did that last tackle you made leave you with a swollen knee? Or worse yet, a knee you can't walk on? Are you experiencing ankle pain due to a tough basketball or soccer practice?

Athletes injured in Friday and Saturday contests of practices can turn to the Cottage Hospital Athletic Medicine Program for answers on Sunday.

The CHAMP Fall Injury Clinic will be open every Sunday through Nov. 6. The clinic hours run from 9 to 10 a.m.

Appointments are not needed to take advantage of the convenient injury clinic. For a $20 fee, an orthopedic physician will assess your injury and recommend a course of treatment. Further therapy may be prescribed if needed.

Need an answer now? Call the CHAMP 24-hour Injury Hotline at 884-3502. A CHAMP athletic trainer will answer your questions between the hours of 9:30 and 2:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. At other times, a recorder will take your message and a CHAMP trainer will return your call within 24 hours.

Statewide cheers are being drowned out by the battle off the fields

By Rob Fulton
Sports Editor

Advocates of cheerleading are mounting a strong campaign to let the public, the Michigan High School Athletic Association (MHSAA), and school officials know that they are taking cheering a bit more seriously.

The institution of cheerleading has always been defined as a "support group." But many people think cheerleading can continue that role, as well as take on other responsibilities; namely competition. Others, however, would like to see the squads remain strictly supporters — not competitors.

The biggest question unanswered at this time is whether a cheerleading squad should be an MHSAA sanctioned sport. If so, would they be limited to the number of times they can compete as other teams? And, if the MHSAA rules in November that cheerleading is a school sport, then how do they define competition, eligibility, transfer rules, travel distance to compete, and the same rules that govern MHSAA athletes/teams now?

"What we've been involved with over the last three to four years has been whether or not we should govern, assist the school, or provide guidelines to use for cheerleading," said Sue Martin, assistant director of the MHSAA. "Our only jurisdiction over them (cheerleaders) is at MHSAA tournaments. During regular season basketball and football games, supervision is determined by the school or league."

That's another gray area. According to Jo Lake, South athletic director, and Tom Gauerke, North athletic director, depending on where the event is hosted, some schools have the privilege of various routines, but others don't. Those types of routines including mounting and stunts have been all but banned — by some schools.

"The problem started when mounting got out of hand," said Sue Dickinson, South cheer coach. "Principals got concerned and began to regulate it by saying something like, 'Cheerleaders in my school won't be mounting.'"

"The controversy started in games and competitions because one school was allowed to mount, but other schools couldn't because they had separate rules."

Cheerleaders are able, by no ruling from any league or MHSAA, to have fundraisers and use that money to go to summer camp; something no other sanctioned team can do. But all that could change if the MHSAA sanctions cheerleading.

"I do want to be a sport," said Dickinson. "They would regulate our summer activities and fundraisers, but it would be beneficial for the kids. They would feel like true athletes and not just sign makers."

According to Dickinson, clashing with other cheerleading squads would be ideal, but the first responsibility is still the school.

"I would love to go and compete with squads," she said. "There are enough teams out there that we could go every weekend, but I wouldn't do that. If there was a conflict with a school-supported event, then we would not go to the competition."

"The reason for competing would be that there comes a time during the year when the kids want to be evaluated on whether or not they achieved some goals. They would also like to know if they really performed well as a cheerleading squad."

Guidelines. Or better yet, what guidelines? The MHSAA has not written any guidelines for schools to follow. But, guidelines for safe cheerleading have been established by six major organizations which host camps, and the National Federation, according to Linda Ritter, president of the Michigan Cheerleading Coaches Association (MCCA). But none of them are being followed.

"The organizations and the National Federation have come up with safe guidelines," said Ritter, who is starting her second term as president. "I don't know if they'll be passed out with the hope that most people will abide by them or not. Personally, I would like to see the guidelines tried. By sending out the guidelines saying 'use them as a recommendation,' I think they'd be accepted as rules."

Ritter feels that procedure would be the first of several bold moves.

"It's such a huge step, but it's all we need at this point," she said. "I don't know if they need to take that additional step (sanctioning them) at this time."

Lake shares those feelings, and believes the cheerleaders could handle both responsibilities.

"Through organization and coordination of the three major groups (MHSAA, MCAA and the Federation), then there would be time to be a support group as well as a competitor," Lake, who enters her second year as athletic director, said. "The process, however, has to be consistent for all squads. You can't allow one squad to do stunts, and others not to."

The demand for the cheerleaders' time is always increasing. Between practice, games, making signs and promoting events, there has to be time to study.

"Cheerleading is very demanding for the girls to practice during the week and cheer at a couple of games a week," Gauerke said. "To get into a competition would not be in their best interest."

Gauerke is not a backer of competition, at least not yet.

"In my opinion, cheerleaders are to encourage school spirit with the students and fans," he said. "We consider them as an athletic-support group whose purpose is to arouse the student body to cheer positively at school-sponsored events."

That doesn't mean, however, that Gauerke would not support a competitive atmosphere.

"I don't think they should become a sport," he said. "However, if that's the only way we can get control on them and have some guidelines, then I would support very limited competition."

"If they made it a sport where they had to compete 15-20 times, then no, I wouldn't support that," Gauerke added.

While both sides present their cases and the MHSAA Governing Committee reviews them, the story remains the same: give me guidelines.

"What most of us are asking for is guidelines," Gauerke said. "It's simple, do what you have to do to give me guidelines to help the cheerleaders."

"I think that would be the best solution for everyone concerned," said Ritter. "We are all aware of the problems and who wants what, but we need to know in which direction we go in."

All parties await the November decision, but until then both Lake and Gauerke share the feeling that the cheerleaders are always welcome.

"I'm very pleased with the job the girls are doing and have been doing promoting the school," Gauerke said. "They do such an outstanding job leading the cheers at the games. They are an important part of our school."

"Cheerleaders work hard throughout the year," said Lake. "They condition, they practice cheers over and over, just like other teams and athletes. They deserve to be recognized for more than just cheering at games."

"Cheerleading has been the most discussed topic in the last two to three years," said Martin. "We recognize what everyone wants. It's our job to try and give guidelines which will define what kind of cheers squads can do, how much they can do, and who will be responsible for them. We will try and clear up the discrepancies over what 'control' should be."

Gone fishin'

Feldborg's fish was the largest caught that day, and was the first catch from a City participant.

More than 100 kids enjoyed the day as they sank their bobbers and baited their hooks for a one-hour extravaganza. The day included a raffle and free hot dogs and pop for all.

The first fish caught from the Farms belonged to Brian Ternes. Ternes caught a 7-inch perch. Not too bad for a 2-year-old fisherman.

Jeff Case of the Farms caught five fish to take the "Most Fish Caught" award.

sure John Uznis didn't mind taking the victory dip.

Seven races over two weeks, and 14 months after an off-the-cuff remark about building a sailboat, Meade, Uznis and McNamara are officially the best; the top dogs of sailing. Nothing more, nothing less. They wanted something small to fill a hole on the shelf at Bayview. Their only goal was to win a Cup. Not just any cup, however. They spent plenty of money to create a superior boat for one reward. It's that simple.

They didn't want anything more than to put the Cup in the proper place. From day one they didn't look for prestige, but they now have that. They didn't want any highlights, but now they have it. They wanted the Cup, and now they have that too.

Do we thank them for bringing the Cup home? No. They don't want that. They are content now. Please, no frills.

It's a proud moment for the crew and Bayview Yacht Club, but the syndicate of Meade, Uznis and McNamara didn't just win the Cup for themselves, they won it for the United States of America.

It's our Cup to revel in for at least three more years until it's defended. It's unquestionably a great moment in the world of yachting.

The crew just wants Bayview to "take this."

Friendship Run to benefit the needy Sept. 18

"To aid the blind and others in need while enjoying the sport and friendship only running can provide," will be the goal of participants of the Eighth Annual Friendship Run on Sept. 18 at Balduck Park.

This one day series of events includes a 10K, 5K, and one mile runs, as well as a two-mile fitness walk. All events are open to everyone.

Race Director is Dave Mitchell of Grosse Pointe.

New records of the men's and women's one-mile run were established last year with times of 4:39 and 5:11, respectively, by Ken Price and Ella Willis.

Former Park resident Peter Bolos, 74, ran the fastest time ever for his age group at 50:15 in last year's 10K.

The 1988 run will be the largest and best ever. The "one fee covers all events" policy is the same as last year. Early registration is $8, and all early registrants will receive a specially designed cap in addition to the beautiful shirt. A special reduced entry fee of $5 will apply to those age 14-and-under, or 80-and-over.

All entrants are assured of professional race management provided by the Motor City Striders and the Lions Club. The course is TAC certified. Ample refreshments will be available.

More than 300 prizes will be awarded in the various events and age groups. A raffle for all entrants will also be held, including large assortments of running gear from Running World.

Entry forms are available at Running World, 20385 Mack, in the Woods; TUBY Yogurt on Kercheval in the Village; and Rays Delicatessan, East Warren. You can also pick a form up at any Motor City Striders running event or by calling 885-2374.

A full day of fun and exercise is planned with the start of late registration ($10) at 8 a.m. The first run is 10 a.m., and the East Warren Parade is at 1 p.m., and the day culminates with the East Warren Festival at the St. John-Bon Secours Senior Center.

Correction

A Fitness Page article in the Sept. 1 issue of the Grosse Pointe News should have stated that current research indicates that there is no medical evidence that physical activity is harmful to the healthy cardiovascular system.

'Betrayed' packs a powerful emotional punch for viewers

By Michael Chapp
Special Writer

A profoundly disturbing picture, "Betrayed" accomplishes what few so called serious movies can: It grapples with viewer's beliefs, forcing them to work hard, and ultimately, to come to a better understanding of the world and themselves.

That's easily said but very painstakingly done. Any work that attempts such a difficult task faces two immediate challenges. The picture must establish and maintain credibility and it must not become preachy.

"Betrayed" meets both challenges. And the result is a picture that becomes more than just an evening's entertainment experience. It becomes a lesson in contemporary sociology. Indeed, this is a picture that stands as an unpleasant reminder of America's biases, and as a somber gauge of how much more there is to learn about equality.

For all its immense and ambitious themes though, "Betrayed" deals with its subject matter in a simple and approachable way; it follows two main characters. Cathy Weaver (Debra Winger) is an FBI agent sent into a small town to investigate what is believed to be a ring of Ku Klux Klanmen Nazis White Supremacists homosexual haters.

In short, just about every ugly prejudicial element in America is represented by this rural assemblage. The group collectively is the chief suspect in the killing of an outspoken Chicago radio talk show host, and it's Weaver's job — undercover as a farm combine driver — to get to the bottom of the muck.

Perhaps because of her naivete — perhaps because of nature's unwillingness to be a partner in absurdly wordly matters — Weaver falls in love with Gary

He seems nice enough at first; single father of two beautiful children, card-carrying Republican, horse lover, church-goer,

Film

Simmons is the quintessential small-town American. It's not until he persuades Weaver to go hunting with him, and the target turns out to be a young black man, that Weaver begins to realize how deceiving things can be on the surface.

Adding to the emotional punch of the picture is the relationship that Director Costa-Gavras documents with gentle detail before the actual meat of the narrative is introduced. Weaver is deeply in love by the time she learns and accepts the truth. And that makes for a powerful conflict.

Viewers share in the conflict because "Betrayed" goes right to the heart of cultural Americana and rips it out. It chillingly forces viewers to face the hatred and unjustified paranoia still alive and growing in America — and across the world.

It asserts that prejudice and fear of others pervades not only political systems and special interest groups, but the seemingly innocent and traditional institutions of life as well. In "Betrayed," the person sitting across the family dinner table or the church aisle by day may be hunting down someone with a different skin color or burning crosses by night.

There's little more challenging or disturbing than that.

Fourth sequel to 'Nightmare' continues the horror

By Marian Trainor
Special Writer

That horrible hero, Freddy Krueger (Robert Englund), is back. He has risen from the moldy dust of his grave, reassembled his disintegrated parts and is once again terrorizing the teenagers of Elm Street.

This marks his fourth appearance and why not? "Nightmare" III made $45 million. All told, Freddy has brought in $100 million, enough for the producers to spend a few dollars on this newest sequel and it all went into spectacular special effects.

There was no need to spend it on anything else, like outstanding supporting cast — Freddy is a one-man show.

As for the story-line, "Nightmare" barely needs a plot. With its background of throbbing rock sounds, it has the same draw as an adventure music video.

Freddy Krueger was a child murderer who got off on a technicality. Outraged, the parents torched him. But Freddy tells one of his victims, "I am eternal" and he's not just bragging.

Freddy hasn't changed in appearance since we first met him. He has the same toasted skin, scarred face, rakish hat and razor-clawed hands. He is still seeking revenge on the remaining children he didn't get in the first three tries.

The kids are primed for what's coming. They remember what happened to the others and know that it's just a matter of time before they must battle Freddy for their lives in their dreams.

For this little group, there is the added terror that Freddy will not stop with them; that somehow their friends will be pulled into their nightmares. This possibility delights Freddy. "Fresh blood," he chortles.

In the meantime, the three remaining victims try to pretend that Freddy will not return. That hope is shattered when the three meet in Kirsten's dream. When she sees Freddy, and screams in terror, her friends, Joey and Danny, run to rescue her.

She wakes up with a slashed upper arm.

Such incidents keep the audience uneasy since generally when the kids go to sleep and see Freddy in their dreams, they don't wake up. Trying to guess whether the teenagers will wake up terrified but alive or if Freddy has decided they've dreamed their last nightmare gives the film an extra eerie touch as it slides between dream and reality.

For a cold-blooded murderer, he has a style and class that puts him above Jason in "Friday the 13th" and Michael in "Halloween".

Freddy has another angle. He plays to his teenage audience by letting them work out their worries and fears and by taking their side against uncaring parents who ignore their problems much as one victim's mother does.

Freddy fans will note in one of the final scenes that there is a definite promise they have not seen the last of him.

American posters exhibited at DIA

The American art poster was born in 1893. Designed to promote magazine sales, the poster immediately became a "hot" item among collectors.

This is the period surveyed in American Posters of the "Gay Nineties" at the Detroit Institute of Arts. Approximately 90 original posters and magazine covers from the DIA's extensive permanent collection will be displayed through Sept. 18 in the Schwartz Graphic Arts Galleries.

In 1893, encouraged by the success of their occasional holiday issue posters and responding to artistic developments on the continent, Harper & Brothers publishers made the momentous decision to promote Harper's Monthly Magazine with monthly placards.

Edward Penfield, the young director of Harper's art department, designed this first popular poster. It announced the April 1893 issue simply with an image of a gentleman reading the magazine. The only lettering was HARPER'S FOR APRIL. Gone was the usual descriptive list of contents and headline proclaiming the feature story.

The bold simplicity of Penfield's design revolutionized the art of the poster and commercial design in America. Soon other publishers were employing young artists to design posters and covers for their periodicals. In addition to Penfield's work, the images of Will H. Bradley were particularly influential.

Referred to as the American Beardsley, Bradley distilled the current artistic styles of England, most notably the work of the Arts and Crafts Movement. Penfield, on the other hand, drew from the French humor and design sensibility of Bonnard, Vuillard and Toulouse-Lautrec.

Along with Bradley and Penfield, artists represented in the exhibition include Elisha Brown Bird, Claude Fayette Bragdon, William L. Carqueville, Joseph Christian Leyendecker, Florence Lundberg, Blanche McManus, Maxfield Parrish, Ethel Reed, Louis John Rhead, Henry Moritika Rosenberg, Rob Wagner and Charles Herbert Woodbury.

American Posters of the "Gay Nineties" is open during regular museum hours: 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday; closed Mondays and holidays.

David Kiehl, associate curator of Prints and Photographs, the Metropolitan Museum of Art, will discuss the exhibition in a public lecture at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 14. General admission is $3 at the door of the Lecture Hall, $2 for seniors and students with ID, $1 for Founders.

The Missing LINC

Linking individuals to Needs in the Community is a non-profit organization whose purpose is to coordinate needs with resources. This is accomplished by placing goods no longer needed by individuals and businesses into the hands of Metropolitan Detroit charitable agencies. Operating since 1971, LINC is proud of the accomplishments it has made and strives to increase its resource base. If you have recyclable items, no longer of use to you, Operation LINC knows who can use them. Please call LINC at 882-6100 with your donation. KEEP IT MOVING!

The DOWNTOWN SENIOR CITIZENS have requested an air purifier and a pool table.

Adult CRAFT KITS (boats, planes and cars) for twenty-five to thirty men are needed by the DETROIT RESCUE MISSION.

Many agencies have requested fans/and or air conditioner units. It has been hot! If you have a spare unit please pass it on. LINC has an ongoing need for infant items. If you have a crib, high chair, infant seats, please call us.

CAREGIVERS is currently developing a new program with the Youth Services of Wayne County for children who must be removed from their families for abuse and neglect. Often there is a period of several hours before foster care placement is secured. Currently they are kept at the precinct. The new program would assure quality care for the children in transit. Caregivers is looking for carpeting, children's picture, plants, a television, child size table and chairs. This is a traumatic time for these children, help us help them.

PROJECT UPLIFT has requested cans of fruit juice, coffee creamer, a simple map of the United States, a Scruples game and 35 mm film (print).

Torch-Relay burns in Pointes

By Chip Chapman
Special Writer

At the same time the world's athletes will be preparing for the Opening Ceremonies of the Olympics in Seoul, Korea, an Olympic torch will be making its way through Grosse Pointe.

The torch will come by way of a relay, which will originate from the White House in Washington, D.C.

On the morning of Sept. 16, the torch will leave downtown Toledo and proceed north to Michigan. After stopping Friday night at the Hilton in Novi, the torch will travel around the fringe of the metro area and eventually arrive in Grosse Pointe at approximately 2:15 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 17.

The Torch-Relay is being organized by chairman John Rogin of Wayne. At least $60,000 is expected to be raised by the Torch-Relay Committee between Toledo and Detroit.

For a tax-deductible donation of at least $25, sponsors may carry the torch — while running — for one kilometer. The donations will go to the United States Olympic Team. The route through the Pointes will start between the Jefferson/Marter intersection, and end at the Jefferson/Beaconsfield intersection; total distance equals seven kilometers.

The two torches being used for the relay are from the 1984 cross-country Olympic relay. They are worth $3,000 each and will be auctioned after the relay. All proceeds will go to the U.S. Olympic Team.

Prior to its passage through Grosse Pointe, the torch will be carried from Farmington Hills to St. Clair Shores at 12 Mile Road. From there, the torch will travel south on Jefferson and continue to Hart Plaza for the closing ceremony.

In addition to raising money for the Olympic Team, the Torch-Relay could act as an attention getter to those looking for a city to host an Olympics. According to Rogin, if Detroit is to make a bid to host the Olympics, this is a positive first step to show the Committee how supportive and patriotic the area is.

Rogin also said that cooperation from Wayne County Executive Ed McNamara and Sheriff Robert Ficano, as well as local governments, has been overwhelming. He did not think organizing a thousand people would be easy, but each community has helped to facilitate his duties, he said.

Many area celebrities from sports and the media will take place in this event. There will be radio updates during the relay on WWJ-AM and WJOL-FM. If you need more information call 729-2000.

If you would like to be a carrier or just make a donation send a check or money order payable to the U.S. Olympic Team to, Noreen Gardner c/o National Bank of Detroit, 35011, Michigan Ave. Wayne, Mich. 48184. Carriers will receive an application to be filled out. The Torch-Relay is open to people of all ages and abilities.

New wave of fitness offered

The Department of Community Education of the Grosse Pointe School System is offering a variety of aquatic-conditioning programs for the community.

Aqua Dynamics will be offered at the Parcels Pool. Liz Stavale will instruct the program which includes exercises from the President's Council on Physical Fitness.

Aqua Fit will be instructed by Jane Fredette at the Brownell Pool. This program is co-sponsored by Fitness Firm. It is an aerobic dancing class with the added measure of safety from exercising in the water.

Slmnastics will meet at the Parcels Pool. Jackie Beck will lead an effective water routine which includes the benefits of toning muscles and increasing one's range of movement.

Saturday a.m. Wet Workout is a new fall offering at the Pierce Pool. Lorrie Schulte will instruct this class intended to supplement one's exercise program.

Mad Anthony Run at WSU

Hundreds of runners will fill the streets on Sept. 25 for the Mad Anthony Wayne Run. The run is sponsored by the Wayne State University Alumni Association and Circa 1890 Saloon, in conjunction with the annual Detroit Festival of Arts.

Both the one-mile and 10K runs are open to all. Advance

Drop-in recreational swims, Red Cross instructional classes and a variety of special aquatic activities are scheduled for young and forever young alike.

Call 343-2178 for further information.

Entry fee is $8 and late registration is $10. The one-mile run begins at 8:30 a.m. and the 10K starts at 9 a.m.

Entry forms are available at Alumni House, 441 Ferry Mall, from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., or at Circa 1890, 5474 Cass. Or call 577-2169.

Low-impact aerobics begins Sept. 12

Fitness Firm will be offering an eight-week series of low-impact aerobics starting the week of Sept. 12 at Christ the King Church in the Woods.

Classes will take place on Mondays and Wednesdays from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m., and Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m.. Evening classes on Monday/Wednesday and Tuesday/Thursday are available from 6:45 to 7:45 p.m. A class on Monday and Wednesday from 7 to 8 p.m. will be held at the J.F. Kennedy Library in Harper Woods.

The fall session titled "Alive," will give students the opportunity to work out aerobically as many times per week as desired. The freshly choreographed dance routines, set to a variety of upbeat music, are easy to learn. Students with, or without previous aerobic experience are encouraged to join.

Fitness Firm also holds an AquaFit class in the area. This class takes place in pools and routines are performed in three to five-feet of water.

For more information, call 885-8246, or 886-7534.

Senior Olympian

Jeff Eaton is a Senior Olympics swimmer who added a few more ribbons to his collection at the Senior Olympics in Southfield Aug. 15.

Eaton, who trains at the Farms Pier Pool, finished first in the 50-meter freestyle, second in the 100 breaststroke, and third in the 50 breaststroke.

With that work, Eaton qualified for the Nationals in St. Louis in June 1988.

Class unscrambles football

Don't let another football season go by spending Saturday, Sunday and Monday evenings alone.

It's time to register for "Football Unscrambled" at the War Memorial and join the millions of fans who are hooked on this All-American sport.

Retired Grosse Pointe football coach George Duditch will guide you through the intricacies of the game on Thursdays from Sept. 15 through Oct. 20 from 7 to 9 p.m.

Duditch will explain such topics as offense, defense, the kicking game and special calls. Duditch will also help you become a Monday morning quarterback in plenty of time to enjoy Super Sunday.

Class fee is $20 for six weeks. Advance registration is recommended. Call 881-7511, Monday through Saturday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.
