

St. John doctors, nurses save woman's life on Moross

By John Minnis
Staff Writer

Two doctors and two nurses from St. John Hospital braved freezing temperatures last week and successfully revived a woman who suffered a heart attack while crossing Moross at Mack Avenue.

Drs. Norman Bolz and Louis Gregory were leaving St. John Hospital on the morning of Feb. 8 on their way to Bon Secours when they came across a 65-year-old Detroit woman lying in the median on Moross west of Mack in Detroit.

The doctors were in separate cars, and Bolz was the first doctor at the scene. Bolz said that when he arrived two nurses were already there and the Grosse Pointe Farms police had just arrived.

He said one nurse was attending the woman while another was getting equipment ready. When Bolz arrived he assisted in giving the woman cardiopulmonary resuscitation.

Gregory said that when he got there he took over helping Bolz.

"I saw all the lights flashing and cars pointing in different directions," Gregory said. "The woman was lying down in the island and people were all around."

Gregory and Bolz helped the two Grosse Pointe Farms emergency medical technicians get the woman in the ambulance. Gregory said Bolz had left his car running in the middle of the street and had to leave to move it.

"I told him it was my turn to be a good Samaritan," he said.

The woman was put in the ambulance, which took off for nearby St. John Hospital with Gregory pumping the chest and the emergency medical technician performing artificial respiration.

"I've never had such a ride in my life," Gregory said. "It was like riding in back of a flat-bed truck. You bounce around like a rubber ball."

Once at the hospital, the woman was given two shocks and her heart began beating on its own. Bolz drove back to St. John to pick up Gregory.

By the following morning the patient was sitting up in bed and demanding that the breathing tube be removed, Gregory said.

"She was kept alive," he said of Bolz's, his, the nurses' and the EMT's efforts to get her to the hospital. "There was no pulse or anything. It can happen to anyone at any place. It's important to continue resuscitation. You can't assume the person's dead."

Bolz added, "The lady couldn't have been more fortunate. It's just fortunate she fell down in front of a hospital. And the police arrived almost immediately."

He said a taxi driver happened to see the woman go down and radioed in the emergency at 10:15 a.m.

Gregory said the following day the woman was doing nicely and there appears to be no indication that she suffered any brain damage. She was reported in fair condition at St. John Hospital Monday.

He said he and Bolz are general surgeons and are not the physicians in charge of the woman at the hospital.

Gregory, 69, is a Grosse Pointe Shores resident, and Bolz, 40, lives in Harper Woods.

Winter fun

University Liggett School knows how to beat the February blahs — have a party. So last Friday, the school hosted a Winterfest, complete with talent show and pep assembly, and in the evening had its Family Supper, which provided games and food and fun for everyone. Suspected sex offender charged by Park police

Was subject of schools' warning to parents

By John Minnis
Staff Writer

A Grosse Pointe Park man, who was the subject of a letter from school officials to parents warning of a suspected sex offender in the community, was arrested and charged by Park police Monday.

Graham Gilpin, 29, was arraigned in Grosse Pointe Park Municipal Court on two counts of indecent exposure, three counts of giving alcohol to minors and three counts of disseminating pornographic materials to minors. All are misdemeanors.

Gilpin pleaded not guilty to all the charges and is being held on $45,000 cash surety bond. As of Tuesday morning, he had not made bail.

Gilpin is reported to live on Wayburn and employed as a postal worker.

Park court and police personnel would not state whether Gilpin has a prior arrest record but according to a Jan. 19 letter sent to parents of children in the Grosse Pointe Public School System, the man is "suspected of being involved in alleged sex offenses in another community."

Park police Sgt. James Smith, who directed the 2-1/2 month investigation, said the police became aware of Gilpin when a local coach voiced concern about one of his players who was being harassed by Gilpin.

The player, who was involved in a sporting program that was not part of the school district's activities, wanted his mother to get an unlisted telephone number. When the mother insisted on knowing why her son wanted an unlisted number, he said it was because Gilpin was continually calling him. Police said the youth was very distressed by the calls.

Smith said the initial call led to more names of individuals who had come in contact with Gilpin, and the police were able to gather enough information to file charges. Smith said Gilpin got to know young people by attending sporting events through out the Pointes.

Gilpin will face a preliminary examination in Grosse Pointe Municipal Court next week.

Prior to Gilpin's arrest, school officials felt there was sufficient evidence to warrant telling parents of his suspected activities in the Pointes and to give a description of his vehicle.

The Gilpin incident is the second time public school officials have warned parents and students about a man who could pose a threat to children.

In October there were several reports of a man in a red pickup truck who was stopping children and offering them rides. There were no reports of the man in the pickup actually molesting or abducting children. No arrests are known to have been made in the October incidents.

In response to the possible threat to children posed by the Gilpin and October incidents, a PTO meeting was scheduled for Wednesday night at Ferry Elementary School to discuss what can be done to protect children.

Stewart McMillin is just as comfortable in his Grosse Pointe City home as he is in his social studies classroom at East Detroit High School as he is leading students and others through historic cemeteries or churches or buildings in Detroit.

The outspoken promotion of Detroit has earned him, if not much money and a few snide comments, then some admiration and appreciation of those who have had their eyes opened — and sometimes reopened — to the wonders which await discovery in that city.

Last year, it earned him an award by the Central Business District Association as one of Detroit's top image makers, given to people who help create a positive image of the city.

Through the Grosse Pointe Department of Community Education, McMillin gives tours of Detroit by bicycle and by bus and foot. The tours — and some classes he offers — take those interested to historic churches, the ethnic neighborhoods, the Afro-American Museum, the Cultural Center, Hamtramck, the Mount

Cottage lottery players irate over attorney's fee

By John Minnis
Staff Writer

Members of the Cottage Hospital Lottery Club believe they are being gouged by the $4,200 paid last Friday to the court-appointed attorney for his services in distributing the contested $2.3 million prize won a year ago.

Wayne County Circuit Judge William Leo Cahalan granted a motion Friday by attorney John P. Reilly seeking $4,200 as a fee for his work as the receiver, which Cahalan appointed in October.

Cottage Lottery Club spokesman Jim Southway said Reilly did not bill the club or its attorney, Mark Granzotto, directly, but rather he filled a motion through the judge who appointed him.

"I didn't think we did business like that in this country," Southway said. "We have not seen a breakdown of Reilly's services."

Reilly's work since October, Southway said, has been to go to Lansing and cash in the winning ticket. He then put the money in the bank, divided it into 20ths for each of the club's 20 members and then mailed the first year's winnings to 15 club members.

According to Southway, Reilly's motion for $4,200 is based on 30 hours work, which comes to $140 an hour.

"I don't know how long it takes you to go to Lansing," Southway said, "but it doesn't take me that long. I think he's really taking advantage of the situation."

Reilly was not available for comment Monday.

On Jan. 27, 1988, the Cottage Lottery Club's ticket matched all six numbers in the $4.6 million Wednesday drawing. Because another ticket holder matched all the numbers, the lottery club won half the prize, or $2.3 million to be paid out over 20 years.

The after-tax payment of $94,000 per year was to be divided equally among the club's 20 members — $4,700 apiece — but then club treasurer Norma Brumm disputed the distribution of the money, saying that five or six of the members were not paid up to date, and because she made up the difference out of her own pocket, she was entitled

Recyclers unite with new group

Save those plastic containers... and those newspapers... and those glass bottles... and then you're ready to join the conservation-minded members of Grosse Pointe Citizens for Recycling.

The group is only a few months old, but with close to 100 dues-paying members, it is well on its way toward its goal of educating the public and government officials on the importance of recycling and composting as a means of preserving our natural resources.

One of the group's first efforts will be on Saturday, March 4, when it sponsors a plastic bottle drop-off.

From 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Trombly School, 820 Beaconsfield in Grosse Pointe Park, Citizens for Recycling will collect all clean opaque — non-clear — plastic bottles. These include milk, juice, detergent, soap, shampoos, cleaning products, bleach and many others.

The plastic bottles will be taken to a processing company in Madison Heights, washed and ground up. The plastic granules will then go to another company that recycles them into new products including picnic tables, fence posts, pallets and playground equipment, according to the group's plastics committee chair Leah Vartanian.

"Many plastic products cannot yet be recycled, they are buried in landfills forever or burned to add more carbon dioxide to the greenhouse effect," she said. She added that with good participation, the collection of plastics will continue with the same hours on the first Saturday of each month.

The next general meeting for members and interested residents will be at 7:30 Thursday, Feb. 23 at 7:30 p.m. at the University Liggett School cafeteria, 1045 Cook Road. Discussion will be held on current community recycling plans and projects.

Grosse Pointe Farms and Grosse Pointe Woods each have, in place, collection sites for used motor oil. They are for residents only. The Farms collects at 311 Chalfonte. Call 885-6600. The Woods collects at 1200 Parkway. Call 343-2460.

For more information on the plastics collection, or on Grosse Pointe Citizens for Recycling, call 884-5796 or 821-2465.

Fran Schonenberg, president of Grosse Pointe Citizens for Recycling, and Karen Schaupter, a member of that group will take their cause to the airwaves Sunday, Feb. 19 at 11 a.m. on Ask the Handyman, with host Glen Haegge, WXYT, 1270 AM.

School official reports on strategic plan

By Margie Reins Smith
Staff Writer

The Grosse Pointe schools' strategic plan — approved by the board last July — is progressing, according to Deputy Superintendent Edward Shine. The plan is a long-range discipline and process for planning the future of the schools.

Shine presented the strategic planning team's first update/progress report to the members of the school board at the meeting Monday night. The next progress report to the community and the school board for the three- to five-year plan will be in July.

"Everyone is working very hard, from directors to teachers," Shine said later. "We just got started in September, when school reopened."

The plan contains about 10 critical issues, identified as the most important for improving the school system.

Shine said that three new objectives have been added:

- A study of the infrastructure and needs of each building and grounds to provide a continuation of an attractive, healthy, efficient and safe learning environment;
 - An identification of at-risk students with two additional criteria — poor attendance and those who fall below national average in ability;
 - And the development of middle school organizational structures to make the most effective use of middle school facilities.
- Shine added that anyone interested in joining action teams to work on plans for these three new objectives should call his office at 343-2006.

The following are previous objectives — and brief assessments, by Shine, of the progress to date:

- By March 1989, to have 75 percent satisfaction from employees on the effectiveness of staff development activities and a 65 percent participation by each employee group.

Shine said that an evaluation survey is being redesigned, and its results will be available in April.

- By September 1989, to have a plan for high school courses that are endangered because of low enrollment.

Shine said that the classification system for high school courses has been completed and Grosse Pointe's high schools now have open enrollment and open course enrollment.

- By March 1989, to respond to crowded elementary school curriculum.

Shine said that progress is being made in this area. Plans are being formulated to schedule activities in one-hour blocks and a new policy is in the works to restrict non-curricular class interruptions.

- By June 1989, to hire all new staff by the same recruiting procedure.

Shine said that some data has been gathered concerning retirement dates and they have talked about an open house approach to recruiting. A recommendation will be presented to the board in March.

- By fiscal year 1990-91, to establish a budget process which includes a new decision-making model.

Shine noted the pilot program that is in process for on-site budgeting at Trombly, Maire and Kerby elementary schools, Brownell Middle School and the library.

- By March 1990, to implement a plan concerning educational needs of high-risk students.

Shine said that a booklet has been published for staff members about attention deficit disorders and that about 10 action plans are in place that address the needs of high-risk students. Among these plans are support for students returning from residential treatment programs, new study-skills programs, additional identification and follow-up for high-risk students, and parent conferences at the middle and high school level.

- By September 1992, to implement technology and its applications in all K-12 learning areas.

Shine said that funds have been budgeted for desktop publishing equipment and training for the South High School journalism program. In addition, an educational videotape library plan is in progress which includes purchase of VCR monitors and equipment and the transfer of the existing library of 16mm film to videotape.

- By September 1992, to implement a "Careers and Technology Education" program, using a systems approach.

Shine said that the action team is still working on a new curriculum report to be presented in May.

- By 1991, to develop methods to integrate thinking processes into the K-12 curriculum.

Shine said a report is forthcoming in May.

In addition, he said, the public library book security system is being facilitated with the purchase of tattletape strips.

Also, he said, the beginnings of the certification of roles of support staff has been made with the publication of their specific duties.

And the curriculum coordinating council has developed a sequence for curriculum review which will be presented to the board on Monday, Feb. 27.

New residents' group to fight license

By John Minnis
Staff Writer

A new residents' association is forming to fight the War Memorial's renewed attempts to obtain a liquor license.

Law partner Paul Marco and retired lawyer James Gram, both of Grosse Pointe Farms, announced last week that they are working to form an association for Grosse Pointers who are opposed to the War Memorial getting a liquor license.

"We have talked to a law firm," Gram said concerning the formation of the association. "I imagine it should be done very soon."

Farms resident Wallace Riley, of Riley and Roumell, attorneys, is putting the legal papers together for forming the residents' association, Gram said. A charter and bylaws have to be written, directors selected and the proper papers filed with the state.

Marco said it is premature to say who the directors and possible members will be.

The creation of an association is in response to the War Memorial's renewed interest in applying for a Class C liquor license. At the Jan. 23 Grosse Pointe Farms City Council meeting, War Memorial officials requested that one of the city's two unused liquor licenses be made available so that the community center on Lakeshore can apply for it.

The council through a 5-2 vote agreed to make the license available and set a March 6 public hearing for all those interested in applying for the liquor license.

Marco, as well as other residents, has opposed the War Memorial getting a liquor license in the past, and he has vowed to continue the fight.

"I feel we're on the right side of this thing," he said, "otherwise I wouldn't fight so hard against it."

The War Memorial has been trying for more than a decade to get a liquor license. In June 1986, War Memorial officials made an unsuccessful request for one of the unused liquor licenses available in the Farms. A year before that the council had vetoed the same request by a 5-2 vote.

The council's new direction in the controversy surrounding a liquor license for the community center and the center's continued efforts for a license have caused opponents to organize a "property owners' association on behalf of prominent Grosse Pointers," Marco said.

Gram added: "Apparently there's a determined effort to resurrect this thing. There's got to be an organization to stop it once and for all."

According to War Memorial President Mark Weber, the community center needs a Class C liquor license so that it can have greater control over the use of liquor at the center. Currently, alcoholic beverages are brought in by users of the War Memorial, such as wedding parties, and given away to guests. A liquor license is not required in these situations.

A small number of the users of the community center sell liquor and therefore are required to get a 24-hour license. The holders of the 24-hour licenses must also get liability insurance which costs as much as $1,500, Weber said.

If the War Memorial had a liquor license of its own, however, it would have more control over the distribution of alcoholic beverages on its premises and it would prevent the patrons from leaving the community center carrying liquor bottles and, possibly, drinking the beverages in their cars, War Memorial officials believe.

Weber said he wants to be able to control who drinks at the War Memorial and when and where. He said his main concern is with weddings and similar functions in which people bring in their own liquor, distribute it and carry it out.

"It doesn't make professional sense to let users control their alcohol use," he said, adding that the community center would also be able to get proper liability protection if it had a liquor license and better able to control alcohol consumption.

Opponents of the liquor license question the War Memorial's reasoning.

Gram and Marco say the War Memorial is in a residential area, and a liquor license is not desirable in such a neighborhood.

But Weber points out that the neighboring Grosse Pointe Club has a club liquor license, and he said alcohol at the war War Memorial isn't new.

"We've had drinking here for the past 40 years," he said. "It isn't a wet/dry issue."

Marco and Gram are also opposed to what they perceive is the War Memorial's attraction to people from outside the Grosse Pointes. Gram said he has seen the community center's parking lot filled to overflowing with many of the vehicles from out of state.

"A lot of people living around there don't like the congestion and feel the War Memorial is being too ambitious," Gram said. "We can only support so much in this community."

"That's absolutely not true," Weber said, responding to accusations that the community center is seeking users from outside the Pointes. "We're primarily supported by Grosse Pointers."

Weber added that the only time he can think of that there would be an out-of-state plate at the War Memorial is if a Grosse Pointer invited out-of-state guests to a wedding.

Park youth gets jail term for westside boy's death

By John Minnis
Staff Writer

A Grosse Pointe Park youth is spending 30 days in jail after being sentenced last Friday for negligent homicide in the death of a West Bloomfield youth more than a year ago.

Robert Kornwise, 16, was killed Dec. 4, 1987, when a car driven by David S. Kosmas, then 17, of Grosse Pointe Park, smashed into the rear of the car in which Kornwise, then 16, was a passenger.

Kornwise and friends were on their way home from skiing at Mount Brighton and were stopped at a light when Kosmas, who was speeding, slammed into the rear of their car.

According to a report in a Feb. 2 Observer & Eccentric newspaper, testimony during a preliminary examination indicated Kosmas had passed another car in a no-passing zone along a curving, hilly road before smashing into the rear of victim's vehicle, which was waiting in a lineup of cars leaving Mount Brighton.

Kosmas, 18, will serve 30 days in jail immediately, with the remaining five months of incarceration at the discretion of the judge. According to the deceased's father, Dr. Sanford Kornwise, Kosmas won't spend any more time in jail besides the 30 days.

"That's all we get for my boy's life," he said Friday following the sentencing by Livingston County Circuit Judge Stanley Latreille. "It bothers us that nobody ever knew about this on the eastside."

The Livingston County prosecutor handling the case, Laura A. Frawley, said Kosmas was turned over to the Livingston County Jail to serve his 30 days. She said the remaining five months were suspended, meaning that he could be ordered to serve the time if he does not abide by court instructions or violates his parole.

Kosmas was also sentenced to three years probation and ordered to serve 240 hours of community service, half of which have to be in a hospital unit working with automobile accident victims. He also had to pay a $1,000 fine and $700 in court costs, and his driver's license has been suspended.

Frawley said she believed the sentence was lenient, but she added, "I wouldn't want to have been in the judge's shoes." She said the judge had to take into account that Kosmas did not have any prior offenses.

Kosmas' attorney, Don R. Berschback, would only say Friday that "under the circumstances the sentence was appropriate." He said his client comes from an excellent family and had a perfect driving record and no criminal record prior to the accident.

Kosmas was originally charged with manslaughter, but he twice pleaded guilty to negligent homicide in a complicated case that took some 10 months to reach sentencing.

"He could have gotten life," Kornwise said. "I would like to have seen a better example made of him."

He said his family has been through "14 months of hell" since his son's death. He said it was about four months after his son's death before charges were finally brought against Kosmas.

"The whole point is," Kornwise said, "that we the victims continue to be victimized by the justice system."

In October, Kosmas withdrew his earlier guilty plea to negligent homicide when he went before Judge Daniel Burrell. After that the case was reassigned to Latreille, and Kosmas again pleaded guilty to negligent homicide, for which he was sentenced Feb. 10.

Kornwise said his son composed music, wrote songs and played three instruments. He said a book his son had started before his death will be published this summer. The manuscript, titled "Through the Ice," was completed by science fiction writer Piers Anthony, who Kornwise said admired his son's work.

"He had friends from every walk of life," Kornwise said of his son. "He was what you'd want for a son."

A step-by-step guide to reading your winter tax bill

By Margie Reins Smith
Staff Writer

The five Grosse Pointes have slightly different-looking winter tax bills.

All the bills are made up of some basic components: school taxes, county taxes, taxes for Wayne County Community College, the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority and the Wayne County Intermediate School District.

In addition, under state authorization, all five cities charge a 1 percent administration fee to cover costs of clerical work involved in billing and assessing.

The bills were due last Tuesday or by Feb. 28 with a 3 percent penalty.

Property taxes are the primary source of funding for the Grosse Pointe Public Schools and the five Grosse Pointe city governments. City taxes are billed in June.

Property value is expressed at the top of each bill as SEV, or State Equalized Valuation. It's the basis for property tax levies throughout Michigan. Other states have a different term for the SEV concept.

Michigan's Constitution requires an equitable sharing of tax responsibilities throughout the state. This is done by requiring the SEV to be at or near 50 percent of the market value of individual properties.

If your house's market value is $200,000, for example, your SEV should be $100,000.

A mill represents $1 tax for each $1,000 of your SEV. Therefore, one mill levied on $100,000 SEV would yield $100 in taxes.

Tax bills also note the city-assessed valuation. In nearly 100 percent of the cases, this amount is exactly the same as the SEV.

School tax

The school tax bill is the same for all five Grosse Pointes — 32.2515 mills. School taxes in Grosse Pointe may be broken down into four components, according to Christian Fenton, director of business affairs for the Grosse Pointe schools:

1. County-allocated tax

The Wayne County tax allocation board, (authorized by Michigan's Constitution) allocates 15 mills. This amount is split among the county, the local school district and the township. Grosse Pointe schools get 7.65 of this.

For our hypothetical property valued at $200,000, SEV $100,000, this translates into $765 in taxes.

2. Voted school millage

The voted portion of Grosse Pointe's school millage is 25.35 mills. Residents approved this renewal in March 1986.

For the hypothetical property with a $100,000 SEV, this translates into $2,535 in taxes.

Both the county-allocated tax and the voted millage are used for Grosse Pointe schools' operating expenses.

3. Library fund

1.3 mills were renewed in March 1986 by Grosse Pointe voters and 4 mills were approved in June 1988. Total library millage is 1.7 mills. This is used for operating expenses at the three Grosse Pointe public libraries.

On our $100,000 SEV property, this generates $170 in taxes.

4. Debt Fund

Part of the school tax money is used for repayment of debts — .8940 mills. According to Fenton, the debt fund is used to pay off Grosse Pointe schools' past bond issues.

The debt fund may be broken down into four components:

1) .3529 mills for Grosse Pointe North High School's construction, approved in 1965; 2) .8940 mills for North High School, approved in 1966; 3) Another .1966 was for more construction at North High School and South High School's library building, approved in 1971; and 4) .2058 for the vocational education center at South High, approved in 1978.

All these total .8940, or $89.40 of the hypothetical tax bill for a $100,000 SEV property.

The four components of the school tax levy add up to 35.5940 mills. The Headlee Amendment requires the roll-back of property taxes so they don't exceed the annual increase in the cost of living. Therefore, after figuring the Headlee rollback, the total school tax levy comes down to 32.2515 mills.

Tax bills for each of the five Grosse Pointes present their cases in slightly different ways.

Grosse Pointe Woods

The Grosse Pointe Woods winter bill breaks down into six components and lists tax rates as well as the amount of each component and the total.

- School — 32.2515 mills.
- County — 8.0127 mills. The Woods includes the recent 1 mill levy for jails in the county assessment.

- Drain — 2.0869 mills. The Woods belongs to the Milk River Intercounty Drain Authority which maintains city drains. Last November, the Woods council, with authority granted by Michigan's Constitution, added a 1 mill levy for reconstruction of drains.

- Intermediate School District — 2.0916. Included is the recent 1 mill increase voters approved for special education. In addition, this levy includes a .0298 operational fund and a .07 debt fund.

- Wayne County Community College — 1 mill.

- Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority — .24 mills for Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, which operates regional parks in southeast Michigan;

- A 1 percent administration fee.

City of Grosse Pointe

The city of Grosse Pointe breaks county and jail into two parts and does not give rates for each component of the bill.

- County
- School
- Community college
- HCMA
- Jail
- ISD
- A 1 percent administration fee.

Grosse Pointe Shores

The Village of Grosse Pointe Shores straddles Wayne and Macomb counties, so it's made up of two separate townships. Grosse Pointe Township is the Wayne County portion; Lake Township is the Macomb County portion. (Lake Township has only 80 people.)

People in the Wayne county portion of the Shores received a tax bill that breaks down components of the bill, but does not include rates; only total amounts for each component.

- County
- Township
- School
- Community college
- HCMA
- Jail
- ISD

For those 80 people in Lake Township, the jail levy does not appear, the community college tax is for Macomb Community College, and the county, township and ISD rates are different than those of Grosse Pointe Township. Michael Kenyon, who serves as deputy clerk of Grosse Pointe Township, assistant superintendent of Lake Township and manager/treasurer of the village of Grosse Pointe Shores, said the Shores encloses a piece of paper with its tax bills that gives a breakdown of current tax rates for each item as well as last year's rate, for comparison.

Grosse Pointe Farms

Grosse Pointe Farms also separates county and jail levies, combines ISD and the new 1 mill special education tax, but does not include rates for each individual tax. It reads:

- County
- School
- Community college
- HCMA
- Jail
- ISD/S. Ed.

Grosse Pointe Park

Park bills read:

- County
- School
- Community college
- HCMA
- Jail
- ISD/Special Ed.

Hugs, kisses for sale

Preschoolers in the Child Care Training Program at Grosse Pointe South and North high schools sold hugs and kisses Feb. 10 and 13 for the March of Dimes. High school students from both schools helped them sell enough to raise $200. The hugs consisted of coupons allowing the bearer to one free hug and the kisses were chocolate wrapped in tin foil.

Ash from the Detroit incinerator is hazardous, according to standard EPA toxicity tests sponsored by Greenpeace.

Greenpeace obtained the samples from workers at the incinerator site who were concerned for their health and safety. The city of Detroit has repeatedly refused to test the ash.

The results were released at a news conference held by Greenpeace, local environmentalists and waste management specialist Dr. Paul Connett of St. Lawrence University in New York.

Extraction procedure toxicity tests were performed on bottom ash revealing leachate concentrations of cadmium and lead exceeding EPA hazardous waste standards by six to eight times. According to the federal Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (RCRA), hazardous ash wastes must be dumped in hazardous waste landfills.

Greenpeace called on Mayor Coleman Young and Gov. James Blanchard to place a moratorium on incineration and demonstrate an effective resource program for Detroit.

Greenpeace also called on President George Bush and Canadian Prime Minister Brian Mulroney to include the Detroit incinerator in the discussion of transboundary pollution issues at their summit meeting.

Vehicles stolen in the Woods

Two vehicles were reported stolen in Grosse Pointe Woods last week.

A 1986 GMC Jimmy was taken from the 19600 block of Blossom Lane between 5:15 and 5:28 p.m. Feb. 11. The truck was recovered at 11:46 p.m. by Detroit police in the 15300 block of Lanwood in Detroit. The steering column was damaged and the tires and radio were taken.

A gray 1988 Oldsmobile was taken from an unlocked garage in the 1800 block of Manchester some time between 9:30 p.m. Feb. 2 and 1:05 p.m. Feb. 11.

Blanchard vs. Engler: 1990 race starting

Gov. Blanchard last week offered a series of programs in his State of the State message that would, in his view, "keep Michigan in the forefront" of America's economic and education future.

As usual, however, the Democratic chief executive's promises were given a mixed reception, with many of his Democratic colleagues in the Legislature praising the message — though some criticized the lack of sufficient funding for social services — and the Republicans usually finding fault with the governor's programs.

That reaction has been customary, however, ever since the Republicans took control of the state Senate. The division is expected to intensify this year and next because the Senate majority leader, John Engler of Mount Pleasant, who is planning to seek the GOP nomination for governor in 1990, is already positioning himself to challenge the governor.

That possibility indicates the governor will have great difficulty in achieving his goals in the Legislature. For example, the governor has revived his education funding proposal that bogged down last fall in the House. He would hike the sales tax from 4 percent to 5 percent, cut homeowners' property taxes by 25 percent and reduce business property taxes by 10 percent.

Not even the Democratic House would buy that idea in 1988. True, the Republican Senate adopted it but chiefly to protect itself. The Senate earlier had favored a 2 percentage point increase in the sales tax but didn't want to be upstaged on the tax issue by the governor. So it went along with the 1 percentage point hike.

On the education front, Blanchard also proposed a rigorous core curriculum and tough standards for teacher competency and student performance in such basic subjects as math, science and reading. These proposals are less controversial but are unlikely to be approved unless more state funding is provided.

Because of the tight budget the governor projected, he sometimes sounded like President George Bush who faces a similar budget crunch in Washington. Even some of the issues Blanchard plans to tackle are similar to those President Bush has outlined. They include an intensified war on drugs, with both executives endorsing drug czars, calling for new attacks on crime and environmental problems, establishing child-care programs and, of course, improving education.

One black Democratic legislator was quoted as expressing disappointment because the governor did not make a strong commitment to the low-income individuals and families who are living in housing that is unsafe, overcrowded and still terribly expensive. The governor did propose a state investment plan to help people save money for a down payment on a house, but this idea would seem to benefit middle-income families more than the low-income group. Among other programs, the governor supported a state superfund to clean up toxic waste sites and sought state authority to collect triple damages from polluters. He also backed economic development by announcing the opening of a trade office in Toronto and by offering state-guaranteed payments to airlines serving smaller Michigan cities.

It looks like quite a package but Blanchard's aides sought to counter criticism on the grounds that the governor is not talking about expensive new programs, but instead is trying to "leverage existing resources (and) leverage federal resources within the constraints of a tight overall budget."

That sounds like the defenses of "voodoo economics" heard in the 1980 presidential campaign. Yet the governor, like the president, only proposes and the Legislature, like Congress, writes the laws, passes the appropriations and, in general, disposes of the executive's proposals.

With the state government politically divided and in the same kind of budget crunch that Washington faces, and with the governor and the Senate majority leader already squaring off in preparation for 1990, it is doubtful that many of Blanchard's new ideas will be enacted this year. Compromises always are possible, of course, but not many seem likely in 1989.

What price DSO harmony?

The Detroit Symphony Orchestra apparently has offered a contract to a second black musician without the usual blind audition, a state legislative committee has released $1.27 million in state funds for the DSO and harmony presumably reigns as the orchestra returns from its highly successful European tour.

Yet there is a bitter aftertaste about the price paid for the harmony that supposedly has been achieved.

The orchestra vote to waive its normal audition procedure to allow the hiring of a black musician apparently came only after new threats from the legislative committee that the $1.27 million it was withholding from the DSO would not be released until another black musician was hired. In effect, the orchestra voted with a gun at its head.

All of that was bad enough, but the conduct of the two Detroit legislators responsible for the committee action was reprehensible. Admittedly, the DSO in the past might have more actively sought to hire additional black musicians, but the legislators gave it no credit for its earlier efforts. One black who had had been offered a position after a regular audition unfortunately accepted a position elsewhere but the offer surely indicated the DSO management's current intentions.

But that effort did not satisfy the legislators. They threatened the DSO again and while the negotiations for hiring a black without an audition were still under way, Sen. David Holmes wrote to Ford Motor Co. and General Motors accusing them of racism for contributing money to the DSO.

"This (recent donation) is a slap in the face for every black person in Metropolitan Detroit and, in my opinion, it is a blatant example of racism," his letter said in part, according to The Detroit News.

That surely is disgraceful harassment of the two firms which have done more than anyone else to maintain the DSO's quality in recent years. In addition, it is unacceptable criticism of every non-black contributor to the DSO.

As one of the cultural jewels in Detroit's cultural crown, the DSO has received substantial state aid because it is regarded as a state cultural resource enjoyed and supported by many Michiganders outside of Detroit. The DSO deserves that support, but it and its contributors deserve an apology from the legislators involved in this shameful episode.

The wrangle over pay hikes

How come the pay hikes for Michigan legislators slid into law with little criticism while the proposed wage boosts for members of Congress generated so much public heat that our Washington representatives voted them down?

One reason for the difference in public responses was, of course, the difference in the amount of the pay hikes proposed. The proposed hike for Congress was about 51 percent, from $89,500 to $135,000 a year, while the boost that was accepted by the state legislators was only $3,000 a year and about 14 percent over a two-year period.

But perhaps a more important difference was that Congress was widely regarded as having failed to attack the budget deficit at the same time that it seemed to be willing to accept a huge pay increase without a vote on the issue. That connection was often emphasized by critics who raised a national storm over the Washington proposal.

Some of the criticism directed at Washington arose from the indirect way in which the pay increase was proposed. A national commission made the recommendation to President Reagan who endorsed it without making any reductions.

Yet a state commission also had proposed the state pay increases in the same way. In neither case was any vote required to put the pay hikes into place. But the criticism was directed chiefly at Washington, with the result that Michigan's legislators will receive their pay boost right on schedule and our representatives and senators in Washington, along with federal judges and high-ranking administrative officials, will have to wait for another day to get higher pay.

Our own view is that if Reagan had cut the proposed pay increase for our federal officials to perhaps 10 percent or even 10 percent a year for five years, the public would not have become outraged. It was the size of the proposed hike, plus the lack of congressional action to cut the deficit, that made the difference.

In our view, some pay hike was justified both in Washington and Lansing, although state legislators as well as members of Congress ought to have the courage to vote for a pay increase when it is deserved, rather than trying to win one by subterfuge.

Letters

To the Editor:
I'm writing to you in regard to the article titled "Committee explores possible uses for Central Library" from the Jan. 26 edition of your paper.

According to a survey mentioned in your article, it states that over 50 percent of people said the libraries in the community are excellent. The money generated from the sale of the St. Clair building could be used to improve the existing libraries and the excess could be used to make some kind of a teen hall.

This would be beneficial to the community, because teens would have a place to go on the weekends and not have house parties, which cause lots of problems. If the money from the sale of the building is not enough, then admission could be charged at the hall.

I hope this letter will be recognized and taken into consideration.

Richard Berri

Irrelevant

To the Editor:
Irrelevant articles are ones that occasionally come up. Many of your manuscripts are very informative. Quite a few times people gain good recognition. I enjoy most of what I read in the Grosse Pointe News. In this case, the short story on the problems with the teenager at Brownell seems uncalled for. The correspondent is correct that this is no small issue, but I do not believe that it should receive the publicity it did. What happened at the school is the teenager's business along with the family's, the administrators and any students who witnessed this so-called event.

Everyone who buys or hears about the Grosse Pointe News does not need to know. Furthermore, at the end of the article, it says how finding a ride home for the youngster was a bit difficult. Who cares?

In my opinion, the article was unnecessary and it did not deserve attention.

Jennifer Miller

Where are we headed?

To the Editor:
Recently, I read that parents of 40 years ago worried that their children would smoke cigarettes, skip school or run away and get married. Today parents fear the horrors of deadly drugs, guns or unwedded living arrangements. The kid on the block whose parents were divorced was the exception. More kids today live without one of their parents than ever before.

Grass roots

President George Bush has again shown his interest in sports by ordering the installation of several horseshoe courts on the White House lawn.

During the 1988 campaign, Bush was often pictured pitching horseshoes, but this is the first hint since he made it to the White House that he wants to use the game to keep in close connection with the many Americans of all ages who toss the shoes.

Maybe Bush will do for horseshoes what President Dwight Eisenhower did for golf. Ike not only played often but installed a putting green on the White House lawn. But Bush has gone down to the grass roots, an action that never hurts any politician.

Let there be windows

At least once in the life of every homeowner, there comes a time when he/she must make a major purchase. Since I bought my house, also known as "Casa de Money Pit," back in 1984, my time for major purchases can be measured in hours, rather than lifetimes.

The "great little starter home" I purchased for a song — complete with a long-playing mortgage — has needed more than a little "fixer-uppering" over the years.

First we painted. We changed the white trim to "Colonial Red." Then we had to buy new storm doors, in a lovely dark brown to match the red. And all was right with the house.

Until 1986. In the second year, we landscaped. We bought acres of dirt, truckloads of broken concrete, Visa-crushing amounts of decorative border and billions of bulbs. We toiled through sun and storm to turn the lunar landscape the house came with into a lush garden. And all was right with the house.

Until 1988. That January day dawned bright and clear and cold. It was around 18 degrees outside. And inside, where the 27-year-old furnace had given up the ghost, it was a cool 48. Six days, three repairmen, lots of banging and $4,000 later, we had a new furnace. And all was right with the house.

Until November 1988. One day, we noticed that the windows in the house were a little damp. Damp as in there was more water dripping off the windows than Mark Spitz ever swam through in his whole life.

And all around the windows there grew mildew. And no matter how often we washed it off it all came back, thriving in the gusty winds that flowed through around the corners of every window.

I Say

Peggy O'Connor

And so, 11 months into the payment booklet for the furnace, we sought to add another one to our growing library. We called "the window men."

We took advantage of the "free estimate" they advertised in the TV book. And on the night they were due to come to inspect our windows, we cancelled. Maybe with a little duct tape, a lot of newspapers and some musilag, we could make the windows last, Mike said.

No way, I reasoned back. Besides, strangers were beginning to walk up to our windows and poke their fingers through the gaps between window and wall. And the dogs had taken to bypassing the traditional exits and just jumping through those gaps. All was not right with the house.

New window men were called. They came. Measurements were taken and promises made. Financial histories were exchanged. Deals were struck. And windows were ordered.

We waited. December and January came and went. Tiny objects were sucked through the window gaps, never to be seen again. We took to tying the dogs down on windy days. And still we waited.

Letters arrived from the window company on a regular basis. "Tell your friends about our company and get $50" they trumpeted. "Tell us when you'll put our windows in and we'll give you the 50 bucks." we wailed back.

They teased us by sending a letter telling us everything we had to do in preparation of the big day. Have everything in your home that is breakable moved into another county, the letter said. Clear a path at least 40 feet wide in order to allow our workmen to move about, it told us. Tie up your dogs, your children and send granny away for 13 hours or so, the letter added. Move your cars and stay home from work all day in case we don't get there at 8 a.m. like we promised. Oh, and remember that sometimes, weather conditions won't allow us to complete the work in one day. So be prepared to do it all over again the next day.

And still we waited. Then one day earlier this month, "Bev" from the window company called. "Prepare yourselves. The window men cometh. On the 21st day of this month. Or so," she said. "Oh, and don't forget to have a check ready for the balance."

And so next week, or so, guys named Sid and Harry and Earl and Rocco and Marty and Phil and Snake and "Panebuster" will invade my home. They'll crash and bang and saw and hammer and spit and ask to use my bathroom. They'll track mud on my bedspread and on the dogs. They'll have the wrong size windows and have to go back to the shop and get some more.

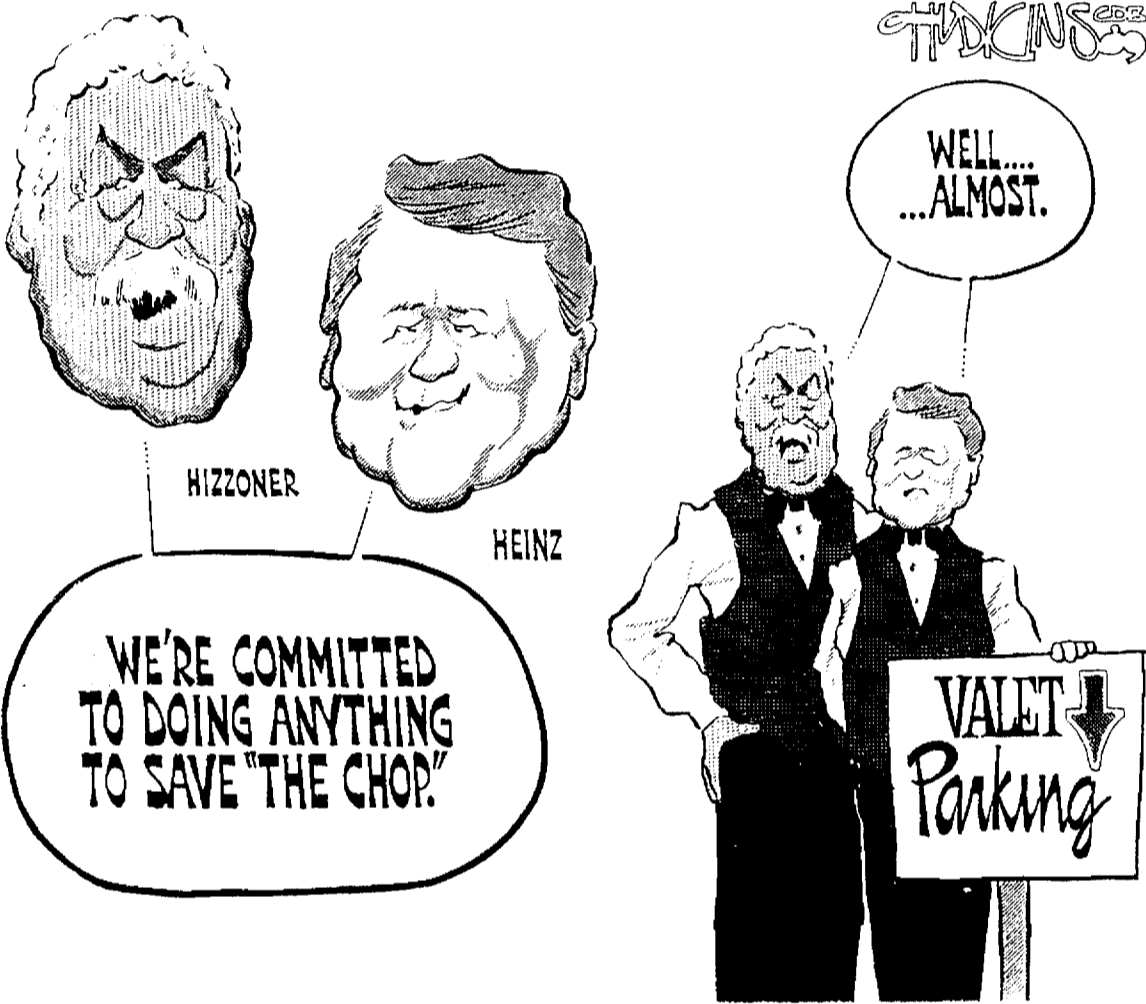

But someday, or so, we'll have new, dry, warm windows. We'll see our heating bill go down and our comfort zone go up. And best of all, we'll have lovely, clear, perfect windows out of which we can see the world... not to mention the bill collectors, so we can duck out the back door before they ring the doorbell.

And all will be right with the house. For now.

Up, up and away and back again

Maire second-grader Becky Johnson launched her balloon last October, along with hundreds of Maire Elementary School students, at their annual ice cream social. Becky put her 3-year-old sister Katie's name on the card.

The balloon went south. Katie recently received a letter from 17-year-old Brian Butler in Painesville, Ohio.

He mailed Katie the tattered remains of her balloon and a picture of himself. He said he found the balloon in the back yard while mowing a neighbor's lawn.

Brian swims on his school swimming team and plays the drums. "Save this letter," he wrote, "because I may be popular some day and you could say, 'Hey, Brian Butler found my balloon!'"

He added a bit of advice: "Just say No to drugs. Also remember that cigarettes and alcohol are drugs too."

Marabel Morgan lives!

Hang onto your aprons, ladies. Sit down. If I were the Freep's Jim Fitzgerald, I'd ask you to get your throw-up pots.

A Tokyo daily newspaper's advice column published the following letter last July 29:

"I am a housewife in my thirties, raising three sons. I've been married eight years. My husband has left all the housework to me. All he does after work is drink and watch TV."

"We never have any intimate conversations because he ignores me when I try to talk to him. On his days off, he gets up at noon, goes to a pachinko parlor, and comes home late at night. We hardly ever have dinner together as a family."

"I have been saving money for eight years to buy a house, but my husband spends ($525-$600) a month on drink and pachinko."

"When I complain he tells me it is only natural that I should do all the housework and he shouts, 'Who do you think is earning your bread?'"

"When I think about these things I become irritated, am unable to sleep at night, and unconsciously take out my anger on my children."

"Do you think I should just divorce my husband rather than raise my children in such a gloomy family? Or, for the sake of my children, should I play the role of the 'household employee' that my husband considers me?"

Hang onto that throw-up pot, folks. Here's the answer she got from counselor Michiko Fukazawa:

"You are the only woman among four men. You should be proud of your role as 'queen' of the house. You rule the family through your housework and child-raising responsibilities. You are dissatisfied because you don't like the role of 'household employee,' which is really a precious role, full of dignity."

(Gag. Barf.)
"It must be difficult for a man like your husband, who has been brought up to believe he has no responsibilities to the house or the children, to understand your dissatisfaction. And he must find it humiliating to hear you complain every time he does something. This is what keeps him out of the house."

(Upchuck. Erp.)
"The worst thing you can do is to get irritated and gloomy and take your anger out on the children because you will soon start detesting yourself. What you should be doing at this point is fully enjoying housework, taking care of the children, and saving money instead of blaming your husband for not helping."

(Biff. Squeam.)
"And you should make your children proud of their father by telling them good things about him. A father tries harder if he gets respect."
(Regurge. Vomit.)

Yesterday's Headlines

Oct. 7, 1954 —

The New York Times reported that the Soviet Union proposed an immediate four-power conference to reunify, neutralize and evacuate Germany. Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov hinted he was prepared to discuss the British-French-U.S. demand for free unfettered elections. He announced the new proposals at an East Berlin rally on the eve of the fifth anniversary of the founding of the Communist German Democratic Republic.

In related news, India called for direct unification talks between leaders of East and West Germany. V.K. Krishna Menon, the chief Indian delegate, told the U.N. General Assembly that Germany was the key to peace. He said world wars had a way of starting in Europe so what happened there was of concern to everyone.

Israel invited the Arab states to join her in non-aggression pacts as a first new move toward bringing peace in the Middle East. Actual shooting warfare between Israel and her Arab neighbors was ended in 1948 with armistice agreements drafted on Rhodes. However, the temporary arrangement had not been replaced with formal peace treaties.

A photo of President Eisenhower with a trout he hooked was on the front page. He had been fishing on the ranch of a friend 40 miles from Denver.

Carried astray on their annual summer migration by a wild northwest wind, 123 birds and four bats crashed into the Empire State Building in the early morning hours. Porters found the winged creatures and all but five birds and one of the bats were killed by the impact. Members of the Audubon Society were puzzled by the bats, since they have their own radar system that would warn them of objects ahead. The Audubon Society theorized that the entire flock had been flying low to escape turbulent winds and had been blown against the building.

An 11-year-old boy in Brooklyn survived a nine-story drop as he leaped from a window after being spanked by his mother. He was taken to the hospital with a possible fracture of the skull and left arm. He had landed on a grassy plot which acted as a cushion in breaking his fall.

The acting governor in Florida appealed to the U.S. surgeon general for immediate help in combatting a critical polio epidemia that had stricken 227 people, 39 of them in the previous 24 hours.

In Grosse Pointe, the new isolette given to Cottage Hospital by the hospital's auxiliary received its first customer when Maureen Lou Crosby was born three months premature. The infant, who weighed 1 pound, 11 ounces at birth, had gained 2 ounces, which was considered excellent progress.

A rain-soaked, basement-flooded weary Pointe was wondering if the rain would ever end, as the weekend brought the heaviest rainfall in 29 years. The storms not only flooded the basements of homes, but those of stores in the Kercheval business district, causing hundred of dollars in damages to basement-stored merchandise.

The Woods building inspection department and public works department were praised for their work in preventing the Torrey station dike from collapsing during the heavy rainfall. Even though all the pumps were working, the water from the torrential rain kept steadily rising and the dike started to crumble. The crew worked throughout the night and the next day without any sleep to keep the pumps working. The city workers were praised at the council meeting.

The Grosse Pointe Shores village council adopted an ordinance requiring that dogs not inside the home of their owners must be on a leash.

The Farms council approved an increase of 6-1/2 percent for and commitment labored to establish the War Memorial and it has flourished throughout the years. Today this community gem is bulging at the seams and is looking desperately to find more room to do more.

Today there may be a chance to do as much as was done 40 years ago. The board of trustees of University Liggett School has given some evidence that the Liggett campus may be for sale. It does not take much imagination to dream of the Liggett site as a future extension of the War Memorial.

If those in leadership roles today can exercise the same kind of vision and courageous commitment to all of Grosse Pointe, then perhaps our young people can see some hope of persevering the quality of life and the values of another day. Putting the Liggett property on the tax rolls at the expense of valuable service to the Woods residents is another kind of signal.

If all that happens after the wrecking ball demolishes that magnificent building is the construction of single one-family structures, then it becomes clear why the worries of modern-day parents are in such contrast with those in the past. Where are we headed? Where are our leaders of today with vision?

Thanks to Park police

The following letter was sent to the Grosse Pointe Park Police Department.

Thank you! My son Joe was pulled from the icy waters by your officers on Saturday, Feb. 4. Too often people remember and repeat their negative contacts with police and forget the positive.

When the 12-year-old friend needed help, he called the Grosse Pointe Park police. Within minutes the police responded. Your officers crawled out on an icy beam to pull my son from the water and saved his life. For them it was probably a fairly routine day, for Joe it could have been his last.

The next time someone complains about "the dumb cop" who gave him a ticket or relates some other negative story about the police, I won't forget to repeat Joe's story. I hope others will remember who they call when they need help.

Police reports

To the Editor:

This letter is written by a curious and concerned citizen. In the Grosse Pointe Newspaper, the Feb. 2, 1989 issue, an article was written concerning the decrease of crime in Grosse Pointe Shores, by the heading of "No violent crimes, stolen cars in Shores in 1988."

I would like to know what drove you to write an article about Grosse Pointe Shores only, without including Grosse Pointe Woods, Farms and Park; the newspaper is run by the name of Grosse Pointe News, then the crimes of all of Grosse Pointe should be included.

In the article was written that "Part I crimes declined 15.2 percent last year. . . Part II crimes dropped 61.5 percent from the previous year." The quote would be more easily understood if you had shown some graphs which show the crimes of 1986 and Part II crimes.

Your graph does not agree with your article, it says that in 1987 no burglaries were attempted while in 1988, six burglaries happened. In the article you stated that five burglaries happened in 1988.

Prop. 42 is fair

To the Editor:

On Jan. 26, you published two articles concerning Proposal 42. I don't think it is racially motivated or discriminatory against minorities as John Thompson, Georgetown University basketball coach, says.

First of all, Proposal 42 requires that an athlete maintain a 2.0 grade point average, which is only a C average. In order to get a scholarship, an athlete has to have a 2.0 GPA and 15 ACT or a 700 SAT. If they don't meet the requirements, they are still allowed to attend the university, but they have to pay their own way the first year, they also lose one year of eligibility. I do feel that this is a fair proposal.

I don't think it is a racial issue at all. Athlete or non-athlete, if a student wants to go to college, then he/she should be concerned about grades. If a non-athlete applies to a college, the chances of being admitted to with a 2.0 GPA, 15 ACT, 700 SAT are almost nil.

Just because someone excels in sports by being able to outrun anyone on the track, scoring the most points on the court, throwing a football farther than anyone, play soccer better than most, it doesn't mean entrance requirements should be lowered.

We have to remember the purpose of college is education. It's unfair to allow athletes to have lower academic requirements. If Proposal 42 is denied, perhaps the colleges should consider lowering their standards for the non-athletes as well. If Proposal 42 is discriminatory at all, it is to the non-athletes, not the minorities.

Credit DiMaso

To the Editor:

I believe that the Grosse Pointe Farms City Council is over-reacting in its issue to revoke the business license of Cracker Jax, now known as Topsiders.

I applaud Mr. DiMaso for his efforts in keeping his business alive, and for his ability to realize the great mistake he has made for ever opening his club to teenagers. It appears that the City Council has something against Mr. DiMaso himself and not for his business.

In my opinion this guy has bent over backwards trying to please them with the things that he has done. And now he has changed the club into a restaurant and bar in efforts to shed himself of his past nightmares.

I am 28 years old, and was a regular patron at his establishment up until he opened it to teenagers, although I do admit that I did still go there on occasions. And even though they did get caught serving minors, I'll bet that there are a lot of other drinking establishments in this area that do the same thing and don't get caught.

Besides, what would they do with the building if he did lose his license? Turn it into another office building? I sure hope not. Mack Avenue is already full of them. Besides I think he has done a nice job of remodeling the place, and the food is not that bad either.

Community ed, Northeast Guidance to offer lectures

In cooperation with the Northeast Guidance Center, the Department of Community Education will offer three lecture discussions this winter. The first, "Coping with Aging Parents," focuses on communication, and will be held at 7 p.m. on Thursday, Feb. 23.

"Communicating with the confused elderly is generally a topic that one chooses to hear about only when there is an imminent need. This presentation will speak to the issue in a positive, even preventive manner, so that anyone might benefit from the lively discussion," said Mary Ann Collinson, a therapist in Northeast Guidance Center's Older Adult Program, who will conduct the class.

Second in the series is "Signs and Symptoms of Substance Abuse," on Tuesday, March 9. The course will cover the signs and symptoms frequently associated with chemical dependence (alcohol and other drugs) and describe the psychological and physiological implications of this disease.

The instructor will discuss methods to identify potentially addicted persons and what can be done to deal with this issue. David Monhollen, project director at the Lakepointe Center, will conduct the session.

"Death and Dying" is the third lecture in the series. It will provide a basic overview of the concepts related to grief and bereavement, death and dying. The class will cover coping with loss and learning how to draw upon your inner strengths. The instructor, Denise Cain, will share experiences and techniques that have been successful in helping others. The session will be held at 7 p.m. on Thursday, March 9.

Fee for each class is $7, payable in advance.

Classes will be held at Barnes School. Call 343-2178 for more information.

Polish studies scholarship available

Through the Wayne State University Slavic Department, applications are now available for full scholarships (room, board and tuition) to the summer school of Polish Language and Culture at the Jagiellonian University, Krakow, Poland.

Those accepted will study in Krakow for six weeks under the auspices of the Wayne State - Jagiellonian University Exchange Program.

The program runs from July 9-Aug. 20. All currently registered Wayne State students are eligible to apply for scholarships. A limited number of places are also open to non-students who may apply through Wayne State University and pay the fee of $775.

Deadline for applications is March 31.

Applicants must submit three letters of recommendation and a copy of their latest transcript. Interviews will be scheduled for all applicants shortly after the March 30th deadline for submission.

Acceptance to the scholarship program is competitive with priority granted to the students of Polish language and culture and to those with a demonstrated interest in Central and Eastern-European cultures and nations.

Woods police purchase cars

The purchase of four new cars for the Grosse Pointe Woods Public Safety Department and two additional vehicles for city use were approved by the City Council Feb. 6.

The cost of the six cars came to $72,237. Three of the vehicles were police patrol cars and they cost $12,555 each. The three remaining vehicles with standard equipment are for the public safety director, the director of safety inspections and the director of public works. The standard vehicles cost $11,524 each.

All the vehicles purchased are to replace high-mileage cars that are subject to breakdowns and high repair costs, according to Public Safety Director Jack Patterson.

All the new vehicles are Chevrolet Caprices and are being purchased through Oakland County's group purchasing plan. Patterson said he checked with Macomb County, but its purchase prices were slightly higher than Oakland's.

Patterson said he checked with several local dealers as part of the bid process and found that if the police cars are available to the dealerships, the prices for the cars would be from $1,000 to $1,500 more per car.

Chrysler Corp. is not providing police vehicles this year and will not have police packages available for some time in the future, Patterson said.

From the Capitol

We need more than experiments

By William R. Bryant Jr.
State Representative

The governor's State of the State address included a plan to fund 15 experimental schools, heavily involving teachers into the design, to be conducted for a 10-year period in various districts to be determined. Each school is to operate with a high degree of autonomy.

Experimentation is healthy. Especially, it is a worthwhile endeavor to have teachers, the front-line of education, design the entire organization of the building and staff and design the curriculum.

It is also healthy to experiment with a high degree of school building autonomy, allowing the staff of the school, with only general policy guidance and fiscal control by the school district central office and school board, virtually total control over what happens in the building.

What bothers me about the proposal? Two things do. First, the problem is not that we don't know what should be happening in the classroom, necessitating experimental schools to try to find out the answers. The problem is we do know what should be happening in the classroom, but it isn't happening and we know it.

All one would need to do to prove the statement that we already know how teaching should be taking place, what should be going on in the classroom, would be to talk to the 10 Michigan Teacher of the Year winners for the past 10 years. They will all say the same thing, multi-model teaching, whole-brained approaches, honoring the ways each child learns each subject, and teaching with context, in loving, confirming, self-esteem building, challenging ways.

Second, to propose a 10-year research program scares me, because it seems to cross off the next 10 years as far as any appreciable attempt by the state to help improve what does go on in the classroom.

The governor keeps saying he wants to improve the quality of education. I don't see, however, a real commitment on his part, or on the part of the legislature to make it happen.

It won't be easy. Teaching is an art and not everyone has what it takes. Research programs work because they excite and involve everyone, parents, students, teachers, administrators, school boards and usually get the best resources and teachers. Then, when the ideas used are installed on a mass basis in other schools, the result is little, if any, improvement.

We need more and better teachers and teachers need more and better incentives to come to and stay with teaching, including protecting them from burn-out.

We always need to experiment, to keep doing research. But we need, even more, to help existing teachers gain comfort in the skills and approaches we already know are the foundation for successful teaching, which means successful learning.

Replace household poisons with harmless substances

By Ronald J. Bernas
Staff Writer

Every year Time magazine chooses a person of the year. It is the person who dominated world news most in the previous 12 months.

But in 1988, Time chose Earth as the Planet of the Year. Years of neglect from its inhabitants have done damage, some of it perhaps irreparable.

A raised awareness of the affects of chemicals and other outside agents is leading to renewed efforts by authorities to urge people to recycle and to be more aware of various chemicals they use.

As part of that effort, the Grosse Pointe Department of Community Education recently hosted a one-night seminar on toxic household substances. Grosse Pointe North chemistry teacher Gordon Morlan talked about the affects and possible alternatives to many household chemicals.

A toxic substance is defined as anything poisonous; in household products toxic substances include drain cleaners, weed killers, aerosol cans, pesticides, fertilizers, copper cleaners, furniture polish, oven cleaners and the list goes on.

"I think the best thing to do is for people to be aware that there are toxic substances and to choose one or two parts of their lifestyles to change," Morlan said.

He told the approximately 35 people who attended the seminar how to read labels. He explained that each toxic substance has a number, called the LD⁵⁰ rating.

Gordon Morlan, Grosse Pointe North chemistry teacher, spoke about toxic household substances to about 35 residents at a recent community education seminar.

The letters stand for "lethal dose," and the 50 is the percentage. The rating therefore is the dosage of that substance at which 50 percent of the animals tested die.

There is also the NOEL scale that tells the maximum dosage at which no obvious affects are shown, he said.

These numbers are to be taken, however, with a grain of salt because they are determined by tests on healthy animals of the same age exposed to only one toxin at a time.

"In real life, some of us may not be healthy, and are exposed to more than one toxin at one time," he said. "So it's not always possible to take the numbers and say this, without a shadow of a doubt, is the toxic level."

Much of his talk, he said, centered on disposal of these household toxic chemicals.

In the Grosse Pointes, garbage is burned at the Grosse Pointe-Clinton Refuse Disposal Authority's incinerator. The incinerator has been shut down since Dec. 28 after routine testing showed unacceptable levels of cadmium and lead in the ash.

Batteries, from both flashlight and car, are the suspected causes of the cadmium and lead levels. Morlan said he hopes to see more community efforts in collection of batteries. He said that many so-called button batteries — flat ones used in watches and cameras — contain mercury, and some companies that produce them will take them back, and perhaps offer a slight refund for them.

"People who attended expressed a lot of frustration because they really did not know where to take the chemicals (when throwing them out)," he said.

Batteries can be safely stored at home, Morlan said, and perhaps taken to special collection centers throughout the area.

(For a list of Wayne County recycling centers, hours and items that will be accepted, call Concerned Detroit at 963-6082.)

Many household products that come in aerosol cans can be eliminated and other substances used.

In the bathroom, cinnamon sticks or potpourri can eliminate unpleasant odors. "It sounds simplistic, but it's a good way around air fresheners," he said.

Instead of using spray insect repellent, studies show that eating Brewer's Yeast tablets repels mosquitoes.

Cream of tartar sprinkled on the ground, and a thin layer of dish soap will control ants and eliminate the need for some pesticides, he said.

A mixture of vinegar and salt will clean copper as well as any copper cleaner, he said, and a plumber's snake and boiling water will unclog most problem drains.

Furniture polish can be replaced with a little bit of mayonnaise on a cleaning cloth, or a mixture of two parts vegetable oil with one part lemon juice. Oven liners and diligence in catching oven spills immediately can eliminate the need for toxic oven cleaners.

Lawn services spray lawns with chemicals high in nitrates which break down into nitrites and can filter down to water tables. Morlan said nitrites, when digested, play havoc with the blood's ability to hold oxygen. This is not dangerous for adults, but for children under 5, it could possibly lead to the so-called blue baby syndrome.

"Most of the warnings we have are for acute toxicity, meaning the immediate effects. We need some studies on substances which have long range, or chronic toxicity," he said.

"It's very important to think about recycling and household toxic chemicals, especially with the incinerator shut down," Morlan added.

ATTENTION VIETNAM VETERANS

The Grosse Pointe War Memorial Association announces that the plaques honoring Grosse Pointe veterans who served in Southeast Asia during the Vietnam conflict will soon be permanently cast in bronze.

The following criteria were established for names to be included:

1. The veteran must have been physically present in Southeast Asia during the time of the conflict (considered to be from the early 1960's to the United States' final withdrawal in 1975).
2. The veteran must have entered military service from the Grosse Pointes, or his/her immediate family, including parents, must have resided in the Grosse Pointes during his/her service in Southeast Asia.

Names of the following veterans have been verified. If you meet the criteria and your name DOES NOT appear below, or if you have corrections, call Teri Hearn, 881-7511, Monday-Friday, 9 a.m.-4 p.m. by FEBRUARY 28, 1989.

Elliott and Elmwood cemeteries. One class gives the histories of those people — like Augustus Woodward, John Trumbull, Lewis Cass and Walter Harper — whose contributions to the area were so significant they had streets named after them.

After receiving a degree in teaching from Michigan State University, he returned to his Grosse Pointe home and began subbing for the Detroit school system.

"When I was subbing, I saw the differences between the wealthy areas like Grosse Pointe and the poorer areas of Detroit, and how (those in Detroit) were not getting the best education, I felt, this is not right."

That planted the seed which grew after he landed a job at East Detroit High School where he saw and felt the racist feelings about Detroit.

The tours began sometime after the 1967 Detroit riots, McMillin said, when his concern about those attitudes of the suburban people regarding Detroit peaked. He became involved in the Grosse Pointe Interfaith Center and began taking people into the Jefferson-Chalmers area to prove to them it's not so bad.

He also wanted people to understand the institutional racism — which included redlining and blockbusting — practiced by some in business.

"All this mentality of Alter Road and Eight Mile being like the Berlin Wall and that everything was fine when you were outside of that area, I felt, was terrible," he said.

He expanded those informational trips to students in his government classes, and from there he expanded to the day trips he leads now through Grosse Pointe Community Education.

It is opening the eyes and expanding the horizons that McMillin said he hopes to achieve through the tours, for he says it

DETROIT UNITY

AND

is only through education and communication that the barriers created by racism can be destroyed.

"Racism is a cancer that can wreck this country," he said, with the worst part about it being that "doing something about it is not high on people's agenda."

He remembers participating in the fight to get local television news stations to put black reporters on the air, and although there has been progress, there is still a way to go, he said.

"I'm not denying there's been progress, there has," he said,

"but there are some people who think everything's OK, and it's not."

And that's why the tours and the promoting of Detroit. "It's just to expand the horizons. There are some people who live in the area and never go into Detroit. When they do that, they might as well be living in the Upper Peninsula," he said. "I think people just don't know what's there, and when you show them and see a glow on their face, it really makes you feel good."

"What is really interesting is to see a lot of transplanted Detroiters — people who may have grown up in Detroit, but moved away — getting back to their roots."

Is Detroit on its way up, or in a decline, or simply stagnating? According to McMillin, a little of all three.

"It depends on who you talk to," he said. "If you look at the waterfront, yes, it's improving, if you look at some of the neighborhoods, it's declining in some parts. There's negatives and positives, but you hear so much about the negatives only."

"A lot of life is attitude and if you can accentuate the positive, it's easier."

But it is easy for a white man, living and working in virtually all-white communities, to talk about the problems blacks in Detroit face.

"People say that to me all the time," McMillin said. "Some of them ask me why I don't live in Detroit or teach in Detroit if I feel the way I do. I tell them that we need liberal involved white people. Maybe it is easier for white students and people to hear this message from another white person."

Several years ago, McMillin had a number of bumper stickers printed at his own expense. They show a black hand clasping a white hand. The saying is "I have a dream: Detroit Unity — and a Tiger World Series."

Since that bumper sticker was printed, McMillin has seen one of those dreams come true. He waits and works for the other.

to their winnings as well as her own.

Southway said, however, that all the members were paid up for all the Wednesday drawings in January and therefore are eligible for their shares of the prize. He said some of the members weren't available to pay an extra dollar for a special Saturday drawing in January that the normally Wednesdays-only club decided to get into.

Furthermore, Southway says, the lottery club always has extra funds on hand and there would have been no reason for Brumm to pay anyone's dues out of her own pocket.

In the meantime, 15 of the 20 members have been found eligible, while the other five members' eligibility remains in dispute.

The lottery club took the 14/20ths paid out last year (excluding Brumm) and divided it among the 19 remaining members, which amounted to $3,463 apiece. Brumm is no longer employed at Cottage Hospital.

Southway pointed out that Reilly's fee is more than the amount each of the club's remaining members received last year. He and the other club members are also upset that Brumm doesn't have to contribute any of the court-appointed attorney's fees.

The lottery club also has to pay for its own attorney, and Reilly will presumably continue petitioning the court for fees until the dispute is settled.

The lottery club hasn't received this year's payment of the lottery prize. Southway said his attorney confronted Judge Cahalan and Reilly during last Friday's hearing on the motion and learned that Reilly was holding onto the winnings until he is paid.

Reilly's $4,200 will be taken directly from the remaining five shares held from last year and the new payout collected this year.

"We're talking about a lot of people who don't make a lot of money," Southway said concerning his fellow lottery club members. "What did this guy do for us? This is crazy. Our attorney has worked hard. We know what he's doing for us."

To make matters less tolerable, Southway said Cahalan wouldn't declare Reilly's fee a court cost, which would have made it possible for the lottery club members to deduct their share of the court-appointed receiver's fee.

Swan, Webster elected

Jerry Swan of the Woods and Jerry Webster of the Farms were elected to the Republican State Committee at the state convention held in Grand Rapids Feb. 10-11.

This will be Swan's third term and Webster's first. They have been active in Republican politics for a number of years. Both are on the 14th District Republican Committee, are precinct delegates and have been delegates to the national convention.

Breathers' Club to meet Feb. 20

The Breathers' Club, sponsored by the American Lung Association of Southeast Michigan, will host a free community service program Monday, Feb. 20 at 4:30 p.m. in the Science Hall of Bon Secour Hospital, 464 Cadieux.

Registered pharmacist Steve Lundmark will lead the discussion detailing the various uses of medicine in the treatment of lung disease. Free valet parking will be available.

Breathers' Club is an educational and social program for persons with breathing problems caused by chronic lung diseases such as asthma, allergies and emphysema.

Speaker to discuss infertility

RESOLVE of Michigan is a group offering support and information to people with infertility problems.

The next meeting will be held on Friday, Feb. 17, at 7:30 p.m. at Bon Secours Hospital, 468 Cadieux. An infertility specialist will discuss the causes of infertility.

For more information, call 549-8240 or 569-6903.

It's fun, it's fast-paced, it's revolting. It's the pie-eating contest at the Winterfest. One lucky student from each grade had the honor of scarfing down as much of a pie as they could in one minute. Mmm-mmm good.

To help students out of the February doldrums, University Liggett School hosted its annual Winterfest and Lower School and Pre-Kindergarten Family Supper last Friday.

The Winterfest, for the Upper School, included inter-class competition from pie eating to a race with those big kids on Big Wheels. Students and faculty entertained each other with songs and skits during a talent show in the afternoon.

The Family Supper allowed kids of all ages to play games and spend time together before having to go out and brave those February winds.

An obstacle course pitted the classes against one another. The balance beam proved to be the trickiest part.

Of course, no inter-class competition would be complete without the ubiquitous tug-o-war. Most of the teams were disqualified, though, after the students watching got over-zealous and mobbed the teams trying to help. At left, Mike Barnes, of the upper school, and Lacey Booth watch Whitney Booth putt, as Ralph H. Booth II gives her pointers at the Family Supper.

South choir to present English feast

The Grosse Pointe South Choir will present its first Madrigal Dinner and Performance Saturday, Feb. 25 at 7 p.m. The historical cafeteria at South will be converted into 16th century England.

The audience will find itself in the center of a make-believe world peopled by jesters, minstrels, singers, dancers from the South Choir and singing serfs from the kingdoms of Brownell, Pierce and Parcels.

The dinner will include Was-sail, mutton au barley soupe, legge au fowle and roaste beefe, apple Charlotte, browned rounde loofe and will be prepared under the direction of parent Ann Matish.

The performance will feature the singing of the select Pointe Singers with authentic ballets, chasons and madrigals.

A play, "The Jester's Test," will feature Mike Heppner as the Jester, Joe Fitzsimmon as Merlyn and Charlie Lickfold as the naive troubador.

The Royal Court will be played by members of Pointe Singers. Featured Renaissance dancers will be Missy Bologan, Mike Kunkel, Cori DeVries, Patrick Wright, Valarie Ziebron, Chris Marchesi and Gus Grodsinsky.

Tickets for the feast and show are $25 and are available at Village Records and Tapes. Tables of 10 will be organized. For more information, call Ellen Bowen, director of vocal music at South, at 343-2130 or Mary White at 822-0008.

Local author to speak

Josephine Wunsch, author of 12 novels for teenagers, will speak about her professional writing career at the Grosse Pointe Central Library Thursday, Feb. 23, at 7:30 p.m.

Wunsch, a longtime Grosse Pointe Park resident, began her writing career when she was still a student at the University of Michigan. She was editor of the Michigan Daily in her senior year. She later worked for The Detroit News and the Detroit Free Press.

After her marriage, she shifted to free-lance writing, then to teen fiction.

Her first book was published in 1962.

The most recent publication, "Girl in the Rough," is about golf.

One of her novels, "The Perfect 10," has been translated into three languages.

There is no charge for the lecture.

Orphan cars, once shunned, now sought after

By Richard A. Wright
Special Writer

The Detroit Auto Dealers Association's first North American International Auto Show at Cobo Hall stole a lot of the thunder of the Los Angeles Auto Show, which was held at the same time, topping it in new cars making their world debuts and in factory concept cars.

But the LA show did have an interesting feature, a display of nose and it may take a while, but you can always get parts for almost anything. And I have owned cars which were not orphaned for which getting parts was no easier than for cars long dead.

I came of automotive age during a time that many call Detroit's Golden Age, but it was often a sad time too. It was orphan time.

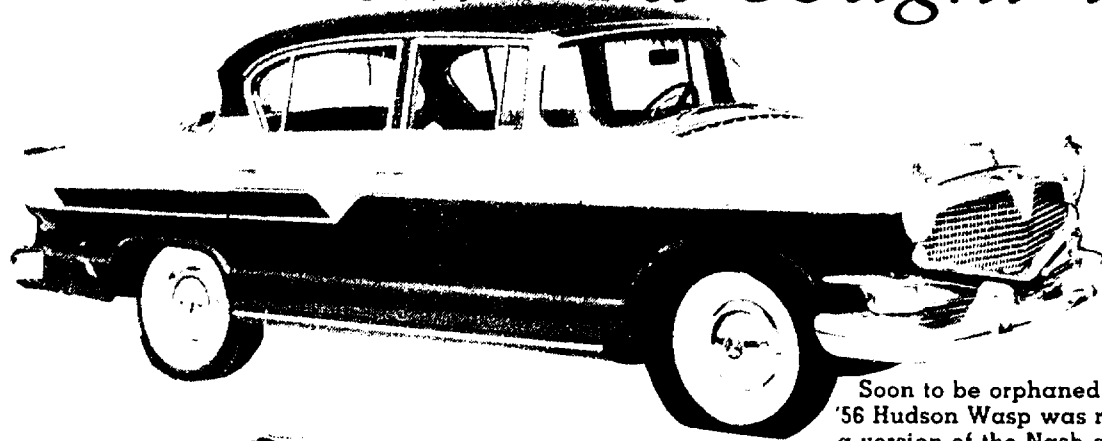

When I was a kid just before World War II, several great names became orphans. The magnificent coffin-nosed Cord died. It was so beautiful, both Graham and Hupmobile bought the dies and built beautiful models themselves. They both died too.

American Bantam developed a little utility vehicle which impressed the Army and became the model for the General Purpose or GP military vehicle. The GP was quickly dubbed "Jeep" by GIs and the Army, fearful that little American Bantam could not meet its needs, allows Willys and Ford Motor Co. to build them also. Willys prospered after the war building Jeeps. Ford Motor Co. prospered under leadership of young Henry Ford II, recalled from Navy duty to save the crumbling empire of his grandfather. American Bantam went out of business.

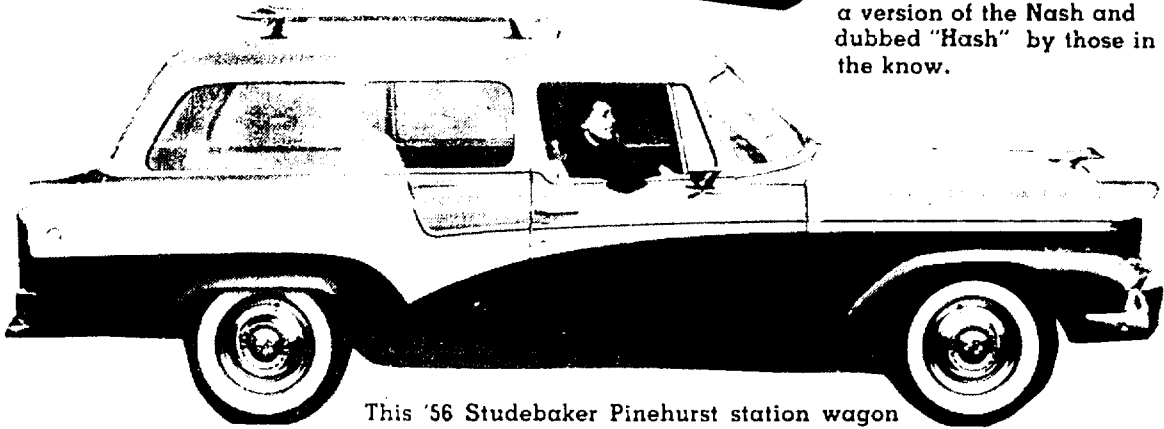

For a while after the war, anything with four wheels that moved sold, but finally the returning vets all had cars and the market got tough. First Frazer, then Kaiser, then Willys disappeared. The Crosley, a car many people did not know was being built anyway, died a quiet and largely unlamented death.

I bought a '42 Hudson and learned from wiser guys that the Hudson was a loser and was going to die. I sold it and bought a Nash and was told by wiser guys that it was a loser and was going to die. And I would be stuck with a (gaspl) orphan.

Well, they did die before the decade was out, merged during 1954 into American Motors. By the end of the '50s, no Nash or Hudson survived, only the Rambler. Studebaker and Packard joined forces the same year. Packard died a peculiar death in '58, its proud nameplate affixed to some of the oddest Studebak-ers ever designed, magnificent in its final supercharged Hawk incarnation, but an orphan finally. Studebaker introduced excellent Lark, Hawk and Avanti models, but the better it got, the more money it lost and soon they were all orphans.

Soon to be orphaned, this '56 Hudson Wasp was really a version of the Nash and dubbed "Hash" by those in the know.

This '56 Studebaker Pinehurst station wagon became an orphan in the '60s and probably deserved it.

Ford introduced the Edsel amid much fanfare, but it was easily the least appealing in the corporation's lineup and was quickly orphaned. Chrysler Corp. assured its dealers that the DeSoto would not become an orphan, then dumped it. It was an orphan before Studebaker.

These are all collector cars now, desired by my generation's members, now finally aware of their own mortality and awash in nostalgia for those good old days.

So don't pay any attention to the wise guys. As Bobby McFerrin says, in what could have been Nash's (or Hudson's, or Studebaker's, or Hupmobile's) theme song in the Golden Age, "Don't Worry, Be Happy."

Autos

"orphan cars" which included over a dozen American-made vehicles with nameplates no longer on the market. An "orphan" is a car whose maker has died.

They ranged in size from a 1932 Packard Model 903 phaeton down to a 1955 Nash Metropolitan. And these orphan collectibles mock the conventional wisdom of my youth, which was "stay away from orphans or cars which are about to become orphans." A lot of those orphans are worth a lot of money now. But so are Shirley Temple milk pitchers and who would have guessed that?

The first two cars I owned were orphaned in rather short order and most of the others I desired were too. Most of my high school compatriots in the late '40s and early '50s owned Fords, Mercurys, Plymouths and Chevrolets and fantasized about Cadillacs and Lincolns. I owned Hudsons and Nashes and fantasized about the even weirder Willys, Frazer and Studebaker.

There were a lot of orphans on the road when I came of automotive age and people of more mainstream automotive taste were condescending in their attitude toward owners of American Bantams, Gramms, Hupmobiles and Terraplanes. Even such wondrous machines as Cords, Auburns, Pierce-Arrows and LaSalles were suspect.

Orphan cars are not good, went the conventional reasoning, because you can't get parts for them. But this was not and still is not true. You can get parts for them. You may pay through the

Edwin F. Lau

Memorial services were held Tuesday, Feb. 7, 1989 at St. Luke's Episcopal Church, Hilton Head Island, S.C., for former Grosse Pointer Edwin F. Lau, 66. Mr. Lau, of Hilton Head Island, died Saturday, Feb. 4, at the Hilton Head Hospital, after a long illness.

He received his bachelor of science and master of science degrees in chemical and metallurgical engineering from the University of Michigan.

He served as a lieutenant j.g. in the U.S. Navy during World War II.

Mr. Lau retired from the Warner-Lambert Corp. in 1984, where he was vice president for special projects. Mr. Lau held positions as vice president of medical-surgical products division in Greenwood, S.C.; president of the optical products division of the American Optical Corp. in Southbridge, Mass.; and vice president for operations for Parke-Davis & Co. in Detroit.

He was an active member of the Rotary Clubs of Detroit, Southbridge, Mass., Greenwood, S.C. and Hilton Head Island and was made a Paul Harris Fellow in 1988. He held the Silver Beaver Award from the Boy Scouts of America and he was a lay eucharistic minister and former vestryman at St. Luke's Episcopal Church.

Survivors include his wife, Aileen C.; two daughters, Robyn Zimmerman and Pat Linton; a son, Dr. Conrad C. II; a sister, Mrs. Gordon Lamphere; and two grandchildren.

The family suggests memorial contributions to Piedmont Technical College Foundation, Drawer 1208, Greenwood, S.C. 29646 or St. Luke's Episcopal Church Building Fund, 50 Pope Ave., Hilton Head Island, S.C. 29928.

John A. Moekle

Services for John (Jack) A. Moekle, 73, were Friday, Feb. 10, 1989, at Christ Church Grosse Pointe. Mr. Moekle died Feb. 8 at his Grosse Pointe Farms home.

He was born in Pittsburgh, Pa.

He was a graduate of the University of Michigan and Harvard Law School. In his junior year, he was elected to Phi Beta Kappa National Honorary Society. He was also a member of Zeta Psi fraternity.

He served in the U.S. Army Air Force during World War II and retired from the Air Force Reserve as a lieutenant colonel.

Mr. Moekle was employed by the law firm Bodman, Longley and Dahling until he joined Ford Motor Company's legal staff after World War II. In 1969, he was transferred to London, England, to join the legal staff of Ford of Europe. He returned to the United States in 1975 to serve with Ford's office of the general counsel and also as assistant secretary of the Ford Motor Co.

Mr. Moekle was a member of the Detroit Athletic Club and past chairman of the Witenagemote Society. He was a member of the Country Club of Detroit, the Detroit Club, the Harvard Club of Detroit, the Founders' Society of the Detroit Institute of Arts, the Detroit Historical Society, the English-Speaking Union, the Corinthian Lodge, the Moslem Shrine, the Consistory and, in England, the Royal Automobile Club and the Hurlingham Club.

A lifelong student of European and American history, Mr. Moekle was active in the Alliance Francaise de Grosse Pointe and the French-speaking community of Detroit.

Survivors include three daughters, Beatrice M. Skinner, of Grosse Pointe, Janet M. Riese and Cynthia L. Moekle, both of New York City; a brother, Herman L. (Pat) Moekle, of Los Angeles, Calif.; and three grandchildren.

Memorial contributions may be made to Christ Church Grosse Pointe, 61 Grosse Pointe Blvd., Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich. 48236 or to the charity of one's choice.

Arrangements were handled by the Wm. R. Hamilton Co.

John B. Doyle

Services were held on Saturday, Feb. 4, 1989, at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, for John B. Doyle, a former Grosse Pointer. Mr. Doyle, 75, died Feb. 1 at his Plymouth home, suddenly.

He was born in Detroit. He was a retired real estate broker.

Mr. Doyle was a past president of the Grosse Pointe Brokers' Association.

Survivors include two sons, William M., of Port Huron and John S., of San Francisco; a daughter, Julie B. Terraciano, of Oakland, Calif.; a brother, Robert B., of Ann Arbor; and one grandchild, Jeffrey S.

Memorials may be made to the American Cancer Society.

Arrangements were handled by the Lambert-Vermeulen Funeral Home.

Sue Johnson Krahl

Funeral services for Grosse Pointer Sue Johnson Krahl, 51, were held Thursday, Feb. 9, 1989 at the Chas. Verheyden Funeral Home. Mrs. Krahl died Feb. 7 at Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit.

She was born in Yakima, Wash.

She grew up in Grosse Pointe; moved to Baldwinsville, N.Y.; then moved back to Grosse Pointe last November.

Mrs. Krahl attended University Liggett School and Mount Vernon College in Washington, D.C.

Survivors are her husband, Julius; a son, David; a daughter, Sheila Anderson; and two grandchildren.

Burial was in Baldwinsville, N.Y.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Foundation for Exceptional Children, Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, Grosse Pointe, Mich. 48230.

Arrangements were handled by the Chas. Verheyden Funeral Home.

Mary Connor Thorpe

Services for Mary Connor Thorpe, 73, were at Christ Church Grosse Pointe on Wednesday, Feb. 8. Mrs. Thorpe, of Grosse Pointe, died Feb. 4, 1989, at Cottage Hospital.

She was born in Detroit and was a housewife.

Survivors include two daughters, Nancy, of Tubingen, West Germany and Barbara Jay, of Ray, N.Y.; two sons, William P. IV and John; and two grandchildren. She was predeceased by her husband, William P.

The body was cremated.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Community Living Center, 33229 Grand River, Farmington, Mich. 48024.

Arrangements were handled by the Chas. Verheyden Funeral Home.

Artists invited to enter contest

Entry materials for the Detroit Recreation Department's Artist Residency project, "Art on the Move" are now available in Room 1707 at the Detroit Recreation Department, 735 Randolph, in downtown Detroit.

"Art on the Move" is an annual competition designed to showcase the creative talents of Michigan artists. Now in its fourth year, the project gives artists the opportunity to experiment with the development of large scale, temporary installations in public parks. The works have ranged from sculpture and dance to performance and visual arts, and other works inviting public participation.

Selected artists will receive a $1,500 stipend and winners of this year's competition will have their work displayed in parks and plazas along the route of downtown Detroit's People Mover from July 26-29. In addition, the artists will be featured in an exhibit organized by the Detroit Artists Market in the lobby of the new Madden Office Tower at 150 W. Jefferson.

The deadline for entries is Feb. 27.

The proposals will be reviewed by a distinguished jury including William Demiene, vice president, Albert Kahn Associates; Robert Martin, assistant professor of art and art history, Wayne State University; Cynthia Madden, president, The Museum of Outdoor Arts; George Vary, landscape architect, Detroit Recreation Department; and Mary Wright, director of Xochipilli Gallery.

"Art on the Move" is sponsored by the Recreation Department, Michigan Council for the Arts, the Detroit Artists Market, The Museum of Outdoor Arts (located at the new Madden Office Tower), and the Metro Times.

Additional support is provided by the Southeast Michigan Arts Forum, Detroit Transportation Corporation, the Detroit Chapter of the American Institute of Architects, and the Central Business District Association.

Last year's "Art on the Move" works can be viewed in John Sobezak's Photo Retrospective on display Feb. 3-28 on the skywalk level at the Millender Center.

For more information on "Art on the Move" or for entry materials, call 224-1184 or 224-1157.

Maire kids cheer patients at Bon Secours in 1988

"Hope you don't have turkey pox!"
 "Don't worry. You'll be out in a hurry."
 "Santa's coming. Try to keep the blues away."
 "Christmas is almost here. Hope you don't get a tear."
 "Jingle Bells, Jingle Bells. The jolly fat man is near."
 These are just a few of the holiday and get well greetings two Maire Elementary School third-grade classes sent to Bon Secours Hospital patients in 1988. The 45 children began drawing get well cards for the patients on a weekly basis in October, said Nancy Hogan. She and Barbara Genter teach the two classes.

 "We had wanted to participate in the school's community outreach program," Hogan said. "With the help of Mike Sipple, hospital food service director, we carried out the get well card idea."

The project not only helps the students think about others, but also helps them with their language, art, math and composition skills, Hogan said. "They learn math and art while drawing circles and line segments on the front of the cards. They also learn to rhyme lines, which combines language and composition."

However, the students most enjoy trying to bring happiness to others, she said.

They have apparently succeeded in doing just that. The cards, distributed weekly on lunch trays to various patient floors, have been very well-received.

"The food servers said the patients open the cards and immediately get smiles on their faces," Sipple said. "The cards are funny but the feelings come through. Some of the patients have even sent thank-you notes to the kids at school."

"The messages show compassion for older people -- and a strong sense of who the patients are," Sipple said. "It just about melts your heart when you read them."

ADVERTISMENT New Doctors Discovery

Weight Loss Pill Approved for U.S. Gov't. Patent

'Lazy Way' to Lose Weight Already Sweeping U.S.

BEVERLY HILLS, CA (Special)—An amazing new weight loss pill called "fat-magnet" has recently been developed and perfected by two prominent doctors at a world famous hospital in Los Angeles that reportedly "guarantees" you steady fat loss and calorie reduction by simply taking their tested and proven new pill.

The U.S. government has just approved the doctors' claims for a hard-to-get patent that confirms "there has never been anything like their fat-bonding pill process before." It is a totally new major scientific breakthrough and is revolutionizing the weight loss industry.

You Can "Eat Normally"

Best of all, "you can continue to eat your favorite foods and you don't have to change your normal eating habits. You can start losing fat and reduce calories from the very first day, until you achieve the ideal weight you desire without exercising."

Flushes Fat Out of Body

The new pill is appropriately called the "fat-magnet" pill because it breaks into thousands of particles, each acting like a tiny magnet, "attracting" and trapping many times its size in undigested fat particles. Then, all the trapped fat and calories are naturally "flushed" right out of your body because they cannot be absorbed.

Within 2 days you should notice a change in the color of your stool, caused by the fat particles being eliminated.

"Automatically" Lose Fat

According to one of the inventors, Dr. William Shell, heart specialist and associate professor of medicine at UCLA medical school, "the new fat-bonding process is a "lazy way" to lose weight because the pills alone "automatically" reduce calories by eliminating dietary fat. It is 100% safe and not a drug."

The fat-magnet pills are already sweeping the country with glowing reports of weight loss from formerly overweight people in all walks of life who are now slimmer, trimmer and more attractive again.

Now Available to the Public

If you are trying to lose 20, 50, 100 pounds or more, you can order your supply of these "no-risk" highly successful fat-magnet pills directly from the doctors' exclusive manufacturer only (includes optional calorie-reduction plan for even better results). Send $20 for a 90 pill supply (+$3 handling), or $35 for a 180 pill supply (+$3 handling), to: Fat-Magnet, 9016 Wilshire Blvd., Dept. WX44 Beverly Hills, CA 90211. (Unconditional money-back guarantee if not 100% satisfied.) Visa, MasterCard and American Express OK. (Send card number, expire date, and signature.) Our Lady Star of the Sea held an open house Wednesday, Feb. 1, as part of its celebration of Catholic Schools' Week. From left are sixth-grader Paul Weir, Dorothy Weir and sixth-grader Peter Tocco.

Star celebrates Catholic Schools' Week

Wednesday's open house allowed parents to visit classrooms during regular lessons.

Thursday afternoon, student council members and volunteer parents drove to Holy Trinity School in downtown Detroit with love baskets and gifts. Each classroom collected food for a specific needy family by contributing canned goods and by using money from pizza lunch fundraisers to purchase clothing and toys for the families.

During their visit to Holy Trinity, Star students were entertained by a skit put on by Holy Trinity's students and were taken on a tour of the historic church.

On Friday, the whole school assembled for mass in honor of their room mothers.

Louise Blake coordinated the Catholic Schools' Week activities.

Franzinger tops in geography

Eighth-grader Mike Franzinger won St. Clare's first geography bee held Jan. 30 and a chance at a $25,000 college scholarship.

The school-level bee, where students answered oral questions on geography, was the first round in the new National Geography Bee that is sponsored by the National Geographic WORLD, the Society's magazine for children.

Mike has since taken a written test in hopes of being one of the top 100 scorers in the state who will then be eligible to compete in the state Bee April 7.

Panel to discuss college experience for women

University Liggett School's college guidance office will present "College 102: The College Experience for Women" Tuesday, Feb. 21, 7:30 p.m. in the main auditorium, 1045 Cook Road, Grosse Pointe Woods.

Girls in grades 9, 10 and 11 and their parents are invited to hear a panel of women educators address the issues facing female students in making their decisions about college.

Girls in middle school and their parents are also strongly encouraged to attend. An early awareness of the issues can result in a more successful college search and decision-making process for prospective students.

Participants in the panel will include: Sheila Murphy, dean of students, Mount Holyoke College; Susan Ford, assistant professor of athletics, head field hockey and lacrosse coach, Wellesley College; Carter Hopkins, director of Career Planning Center, Sweet Briar College; and Mary Ann Merryman, assistant professor of business administration and economics, St. Mary's College.

This program is free and open to the public. For more information, call Kim DeMeulemeester, director of college guidance, 884-4444.

Singers honored

Two University Liggett School students, Brooke Hohmeyer and Gerald Curley, were selected from more than 1,000 students who had auditioned to sing with the 100-voice State Honors Choir in a recent concert in Ann Arbor.

U.S. music teacher Jim Hohmeyer was director of the State Honors Choir this year.

125 careers to be featured at exposition

Working professionals representing more than 125 job and career fields will be on hand to provide advice to college and high school students at the second Galaxy of Careers exposition at Macomb Community College's Center Campus, Wednesday, March 15.

Representatives from more than 125 careers, including public and professional services, communications, hospitality services, transportation, medical, clerical, professional, scientific, manufacturing technology, skilled trades and fine arts will take part in the program.

Twelve careers clusters will be highlighted, featuring a unique role model structure, in which job and career specialists representing the occupations will share their experiences and knowledge with visitors.

In addition to the career representatives, materials on specific career opportunities will be available, including information on educational and training requirements and projected annual earning. The event is sponsored through a Michigan Department of Education collaborative grant among Macomb Community College, the Macomb Intermediate School District, and local high schools.

The program will be held from 6 to 9 p.m., at Macomb's Center Campus, K-Building, in Clinton Township. There is no charge.

St. Clare students shine in academics

Over the last few weeks, many St. Clare students have been recognized because of excellence in academics by being successful in a variety of competitions and contests.

The school's forensics teams each earned second place trophies in league competition and in the process, 25 students in grades 5 and 6 and another 25 in 7 and 8 received individual recognition by placing in the top three in specific categories.

Meanwhile, a number of eighth-graders were earning recognition at Notre Dame and Regina at their annual Scholastic Olympics.

The school received further distinction with the boys finishing third overall as a school at Notre Dame.

Other individuals were recognized for special achievements in school finals of state/national contests. They were: Mike Franzinger, the seventh grader who was the National Geography Bee winner, a new competition sponsored by the National Geographic Society and Becky Przybycyn of the fifth grade who became the school winner of the L.I.T./Detroit News Spelling Bee and Aaron Radelet who distinguished himself as the school winner in the America & Me Essay Contest.

Finally, to give special recognition to the junior high students who's academic excellence is a model of consistency, St. Clare chartered a National Junior Honor Society Chapter and inducted its first group of members in January under the leadership of junior high teacher Terri Peters. Those inducted were:

Grade 8

Dan Barduca, Danielle Pankowski, Jill Ryder, Paula Sanders, David Shusser, David Soranno, Julie Sullivan.

Fathers' Night

South Pointe Players win honors in theater festival

The Pointe Players of Grosse Pointe South High School took part in the Michigan Interscholastic Forensic Association District Theatre Festival Jan. 28 and was honored with the highest possible rating. The group will advance to the regional level.

The students performed a one-act play, "Identity Crisis," written by Christopher Durang. The play is directed by drama teacher Mary Martin and stars Tom Huse, Laura DeMercurio, Shana Huntington, Mike Heppner and Genevieve Dwaihy.

In addition to receiving the highest rating, South students were also honored with special awards given by the judges. DeMercurio, Huntington and Heppner received "excellent" awards and Huse received a "superior" award for his portrayal of a character with four personalities.

The entire cast and crew also received a "superior" award for the overall production.

The regional competition will be held Feb. 11 at Sterling Heights Stevenson High School.

Wildrick wins geography bee

Billie Wildrick, a fifth-grade student at Ferry Elementary School, won the school's geography bee Jan. 18 and a chance at a $25,000 college scholarship.

The bee was the first round in the new National Geography Bee that is being sponsored by National Geographic World, the Society's magazine for children.

The bee was held in thousands of schools around the United States and in four territories. Students in grades four through eight were eligible to participate.

The school winners, including Billie Wildrick, will now take a written test; up to 100 of the top scorers in each state will be eligible to compete in their state bee April 7.

Winners will go to Washington, D.C. to participate in the National Geography Bee finals on May 18 and 19.

The bee featured questions on the broad subject of geography — the study of the earth and its inhabitants. All of the questions could be answered with a word or a simple phrase.

Students from Ferry advancing to the final round included Jason Apostolos, Peter Mellos, Mark Miller, John Trepczynski and Jeff Vollmer.

Clark Durant

Each week in this column, we will focus on the work of a student. It can be a poem, a drawing, a short story, a picture of a scientific experiment or a wood-working project, a book review.

The following was written by Clark Durant, a third-grader at St. Paul School. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Durant of Grosse Pointe.

My Dream

My dream for a better world is that one day human beings will stop putting their garbage in the rivers, oceans, lakes and gulfs that the Father in heaven has given us.

My dream is that one day humans will stop polluting the air, water and land.

My dream is that one day no fish, birds and other animals will be hurt by pollution. Extinction is very near to birds like the bald eagle. Even though some of

Tibbitts wins essay contest

J.C. Tibbitts, a third-grader at The Grosse Pointe Academy, was the second student from the school to win an essay contest sponsored by the Detroit Free Press.

"My Happiest Holiday" was the name of the contest and the subject of the students' essays. J.C., a student in Karen Liederbach's class, had his essay printed in the Jan. 5 issue of the Detroit Free Press. The following is his winning essay:

"My happiest holiday was last year's Valentine's Day, also known as my birthday. First, I went up north with Tim Brady for a week. When I got there it was 10 p.m. and I had to go to bed right away because I was going skiing the next day.

When I got up I ate breakfast, then got my ski stuff on. When we got there we went down the first slope. When we were halfway down, Tim and I left our parents and took a short cut through the forest. We saw a ramp. Tim didn't want to go on it but I did, so I went flying in the air. When I landed, I broke my ski! Tim had to get my dad on the other side of the mountain and my dad fixed it. My Valentine's Day was over."

Sales up in '88 for Grosse Pointe Board of Realtors

By John Minnis
Staff Writer

Total sales by members of the Grosse Pointe Board of Realtors increased by more than 17 percent in 1988 compared to 1987.

New board President Forman Johnston said total sales by members of the board were 1,491 units in 1988, up 17.8 percent from the total 1987 unit sales of 1,266.

Johnston points out that the total sales figures include commercial and residential properties sold by all members of the Grosse Pointe Board of Realtors. He said some of the properties sold were in neighboring communities like St. Clair Shores and Harper Woods.

"The 1988 market started very slowly," he said, "however substantial increases in activity over the last few months resulted in a very positive increase over the year before."

According to the board's figures, the total value of 1988 sales reached $171.2 million, an increase of 20 percent over the $142 million in total value of property sales by board members in 1987.

The average cost per unit in 1988 equates to $114,688, an increase of 2.2 percent over the average unit cost of $112,164 in 1987.

Of the properties sold last year, 667 were homes. The number of homes sold in 1988 was down 3.6 percent from the 692 homes sold in 1987.

Johnston said the prices of homes increased by an average 10.5 percent from 1987 to 1988. He said homes in some areas increased a lot more than the average, while others had much smaller increases. He said the factors affecting home prices were type of home and location.

He would not say what areas in the Pointes were experiencing the highest or lowest property value increases.

"By and large, over the last five years, all of the Grosse Pointe homes have appreciated nicely," Johnston said. "We've been playing catch up of property values as compared to the rest of the country."

He said the recession in Michigan in the early '80s kept home prices from rising as much as they normally would.

The average sale price of homes in Grosse Pointe last year was $170,591. The 10.5 percent average increase in home prices in 1988 would mean that the average home price in 1987 was $154,381.

Johnston is quick to explain that the average home price is not the median home price in the Pointes. He said there are a lot more homes in the Pointes that sell below the average price than there are homes selling for more than the average.

"You can find a house for just about anybody," he said, "from first-time buyers to $1 million. A lot of people think Grosse Pointe is too rich for them, but if you look at the average home figure, it's really not that high."

He said the prices of homes sold in the Pointes last year varied from a low of $35,000 to $1 million. "We have recently seen a number of homes sell in excess of $1 million," he said.

Johnston would not say where in the Pointes the $35,000 houses or the $1 million-plus homes were.

He said he expects sales in 1989 to be about the same as they were last year. "We don't

The board of directors of Lambrecht Company announced that Stephen S. Saffee of Grosse Pointe Farms was named president of the firm. As president, Saffee will be responsible for the overall administration, management, and planning of the company's real estate service operations.

Red Roof Inns Inc. has promoted David Wible, a native of Grosse Pointe, to vice president of marketing and public relations. Wible began his career in 1982, in 1986 he was promoted to director of advertising for the company and in 1987 he was named director of marketing.

Wible

William M. Czamanske of Grosse Pointe has joined The Blunt Company, Inc., a Detroit-based management consulting firm specializing in executive search. Czamanske will provide human resources consulting services for The Blunt Company's expanding executive search services. Prior to joining the company, Czamanske was president of WMC LTD., an executive search firm in Grosse Pointe.

Czamanske

State Senate Majority Leader John Engler (R-Mount Pleasant) today appointed Barbara Gattorn of Grosse Pointe, and a Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce major account executive, to the Michigan Commission on Intergovernmental Relations. The 21-member commission was created in 1988 to study the relationship between state and local government as well as improve cooperation among units of government. The appointment is a single, non-renewable four-year term on the commission.

Stand by your real estate agent

If you like your real estate agent, stick by him (or her) to make sure you don't accidentally cause him to lose his commission.

Forman Johnston, president of the Grosse Pointe Board of Realtors, says that many homebuyers don't understand how an agent is paid and unintentionally cause an agent who has worked for them for weeks or months to lose a commission.

Real estate commissions can be divided several ways.

First, the broker (real estate company) that signs a contract to sell the house automatically gets some of the commission, no matter what company actually sells it. Often the broker's commission is split with the real estate agent who worked with the homeowner to get the listing to sell the home.

Second, homes put on the market by a real estate company are put on a multi-listing. The multi-listing shows all the homes for sale by the various real estate companies.

If an agent from a real estate company other than the listing company sells a home, then that agent and his broker (the real estate company he works for) split some of the commission.

The system is set up so that the home seller gets the maximum exposure and greater chance of selling the home in a short period of time. By guaranteeing an agent and his broker a commission no matter what other company listed the home means the home seller has hundreds of agents trying to sell the home rather than just a handful of agents from the listing company.

Of course, if the home is sold by the same company that listed it, then the commission doesn't have to be split with a second company and agent.

Johnston said a problem develops when a homebuyer works with more than one agent.

For example, a couple have been working with an agent for several weeks. The agent has taken them to look at several homes, and the couple are happy with the treatment their agent has given them.

One Sunday afternoon the couple are driving around on their own looking at homes in likely neighborhoods. They see a sign for an open house, so they stop. The house is being shown, however, by a real estate agent other than the one the couple have been working with.

They immediately fall in love with the house, and they sign a purchase agreement and eventually close on the deal. The agent showing the house gets a commission, as does the broker he works for, but the agent who had been working with the couple for the past several weeks gets nothing for his efforts.

Johnston said many homebuyers don't intentionally go behind their agent's back, and in many cases they feel bad to learn that their agent won't get a commission.

To avoid having your agent lose his commission, stick with him — that is if you are satisfied with what he has done for you. If you see a house you would like to look at, have your agent show it to you. That way if you should decide to buy the home, your agent gets paid for his efforts.

Johnstone & Johnstone begins its 7th decade

Johnstone & Johnstone, Inc. begins its 70th year of service to the Grosse Pointe communities this year.

W. Gordon Johnstone (1895-1972) began it all in 1919 after his return from World War I, when he set aside his University of Michigan engineering degree and embarked on the chancy career of real estate with the prestigious firm of Houseman-Spitzley Corp.

The local office, which Johnstone managed, was at Kensington. Houseman-Spitzley was one of the largest realty firms in the nation.

The main office was in the Book Building and its stock was traded on the Detroit Exchange. As a result of the Great Depression, however, the firm went out of business at the end of the '30s.

Amid the rumblings of another war, Johnstone formed Johnstone & Johnstone, Inc. on Dec. 4, 1939. 1989 then marks the 50th corporate anniversary as well as its 70th service anniversary.

Community stalwarts as A.D. Wilkinson, W.B. Cudlip, Carl Breer, J.S. Whitcomb, D.N. Woodruff and Charles T. Fisher Jr. owned stock and served as directors of the new firm. Gordon's brother, Arthur, who joined the firm after returning from the war, was the second Johnstone in the firm's name.

Johnstone & Johnstone's first main office was in the United Artist Building where the rent was $50 a month. The company's first secretary was paid $25 a week. The first branch office was located on Kercheval at Whittier, an old structure with no plumbing and a pot-bellied stove for heat. A Victory Garden was maintained across the street during the war years by Gordon's son, William.

The main office was transferred to the old Hammond Building and the Lafayette Building with a commercial-industrial department that serviced a large Penn Mutual Life Insurance Co. mortgage account.

Houses now occupy the property where the shanty office stood and where the cornfield was located. Through the half-century that followed, offices were added in Birmingham, Detroit, St. Clair Shores and Farmington.

Today, Johnstone & Johnstone has three Grosse Pointe offices, a sales staff of 52 agents and does more than $50 million in home sales a year.

Chris Cross: A blend of humor, spirituality

By Pat Paholsky
Editor

When Chris Cross laughs her hearty, distinctive laugh — which is often — everyone on the first floor of the Grosse Pointe News building hears it. She has an ever-present sense of humor that comes with having a name that generally prompts people to ask her if it's her real name.

You pretty much have to develop a sense of humor, she says, but it's a name. "The best thing about it is people don't forget it."

And that leads into another aspect of her personality — a sense of her spiritual self, something she became attuned to during the eight years she lived in Colorado.

"I think that establishing a true spiritual identity is absolutely essential to establishing true happiness," she said. "It doesn't matter by what process, but one that allows you to be comfortable and to express yourself and find beauty and wisdom from every lesson and challenge that is brought to you."

Cross began working in the Classified and Circulation departments in November and said her main job is customer service. She takes ads over the phone and in person and assists in solving subscription problems.

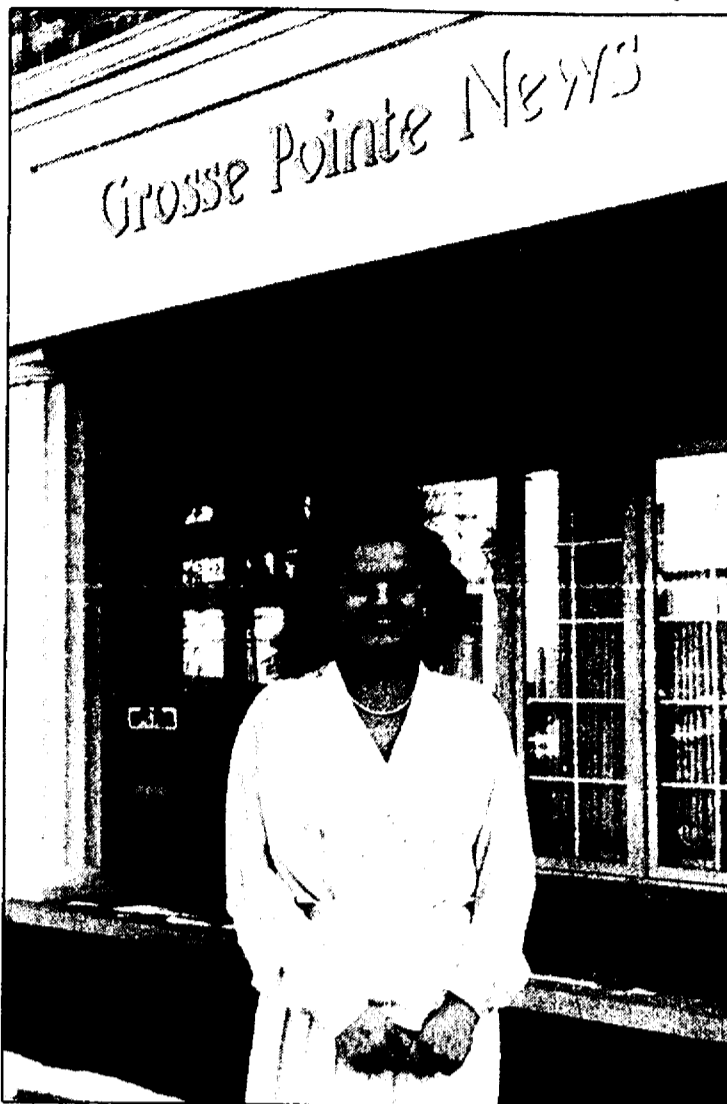

Into her 26 years, Cross has packed a lot of experiences. She grew up in Algonac on a house located on the river.

"I used to live in that river," she said, "playing ball tag between the seawalls and going under the boathouses — it was fun."

She and her friends would float down the river in inner tubes and then have her father drive them back, so they could float down again and again.

Her father and siblings still live in Algonac and Cross said that after living in another state for eight years, she is anxious for warm weather so she can go swimming in the river again.

She graduated from Algonac High School in 1980. In school she was active in Student Council and served as president of her freshman and sophomore classes. She was also a cheerleader when the team won an award, and a gymnast, winning medals and a team trophy.

Chris Cross, who works in Classified and Circulation, stands in front of the Grosse Pointe News building.

Cross began ballet lessons in the second-grade and continued until she lost interest in her sophomore year. It was a mistake, she now says. Ballet requires an incredible physical, spiritual and emotional discipline, she says, adding that she plans to resume her studies when she is settled.

After graduation, Cross moved to Vail, Colo. with a friend. They drove into the city late one September night.

"It was real dark and the only lights were those that shone on the huge rock faces," she said. "It was an environment that was so breathtaking."

She spent the first year working for Vail Mountain and when the season was over, she went to work at a bank where she stayed for four years.

"Resort living was lots of fun, but nine months of winter was too much."

Vail has three seasons, Cross said, winter, summer and mud. She moved to Denver and later to Colorado Springs.

Her reasons for returning to Michigan are twofold — to go back to school and get back in touch with her family. She lives in Detroit near the Grosse Pointe border with her aunt and goes back to Algonac every weekend. She has three sisters and a brother.

Cross will begin classes in September for massage therapy, something she'll be able to handle while working full time and something that is in keeping with her philosophy of natural health.

"Through massage therapy, you can treat certain symptoms of disease and balance your energy fields," she said. "Massage therapy stimulates healthy blood flow, enhancing overall health in mind and body."

"By giving loving energy through my fingers and helping someone feel better, that to me is the ultimate gift to express."

The people behind the Grosse Pointe News

The Grosse Pointe News employs more than 35 full-time and part-time people in five departments, all working to put out the best weekly newspaper possible. The talent involved in this endeavor is impressive.

Since June, we have been featuring an employee from a department — Classified, Circulation, Advertising and Production — that is not as visible to the public, in order that you, the reader, can better understand, and appreciate, the parts that make up the whole paper.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING PROPOSED USE COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT BLOCK GRANT FUNDS

The City of Grosse Pointe Park has applied for participation in Wayne County's 1989 application for Community Development Block Grant funds. The proposed objectives and use of the 1989 funds in the estimated amount of $154,000 are as follows:

1. Street Resurfacing Program to include all engineering and planning cost for the 1200, 1300 and 1400 blocks of Wayburn, and possibly Maryland and Lakepointe. $66,000
2. Continuation of a successful housing rehabilitation program 80,000
3. Continued participation in the minor home repair program for senior citizens. 5,000
4. Participation in the proposed senior citizen transportation program. 3,000

Also to be considered is the reprogramming of 1988 funds in the amount of $64,800 from the Mack Avenue Streetscape Program to the Wayburn Street Resurfacing Program.

A Public Hearing for these purposes will be held by the Citizens Advisory Board at 7:30 P.M. on Tuesday, February 28, 1989 in the Council Chambers of the Grosse Pointe Park Municipal Building, 15115 E. Jefferson, Grosse Pointe Park.

All projects are designed to meet the needs of the low/moderate income resident. Citizen participation by individuals, neighborhood groups, and/or private non-profit organizations is encouraged and suggestions and comments are invited for the City's 1989 application.

Business Notes

Fourteen exquisite Chinese ceramic pieces from the collection of the late Gov. G. Mennen Williams and his wife Nancy, will be featured on Sunday, Feb. 19 from noon to 5 p.m. at the DuMouchelles Art Galleries' February auction. The selection consists of 12 jars and two large garden seats.

One distinguished piece of merchandise being offered at the auction which begins on Friday, Feb. 17 and ends Sunday, Feb. 19, is an antique prayer Mecca Shiraz Persian rug which is 4 feet, 10 inches by 7 feet, 8 inches. The rug, in brilliant reds and blues, is pictured in Jacobson's book, "Oriental Rugs: A Complete Guide." The rug will be auctioned on Sunday.

DuMouchelles is located at 409 E. Jefferson Ave. in downtown Detroit, across from the Renaissance Center. Bidding by telephone is acceptable with arrangements made in advance. For information or a catalog, call 963-6256.

Kast Heating and Cooling has changed its name to Kast Service America linking with an Atlanta-based marketing and training franchise system called Service America. Kast also announced that it was expanding its services to include plumbing and electrical, moving the firm into what industry leaders have called the "super-contractor" mode. There is a new office in Grosse Pointe Woods located at 19839 Mack 886-5060.

Mack Avenue business group to meet Tuesday

The Grosse Pointe Business & Professional Association of Mack Avenue will host a cocktail party with hot hors d'oeuvres, soup and French bread on Tuesday, Feb. 21 at 6:30 p.m. in the newly opened private dining room at the Jefferson Colonnade Restaurant in St. Clair Shores.

Members and guests are invited to hear a representative from each Grosse Pointe city tell of their plans for the improvement and beautification of Mack Avenue all along the strip from Alter Road to the Wayne County line.

Speakers will be Christine Matthew, assistant to the city manager of Grosse Pointe; Richard Solak, city clerk of Grosse Pointe Farms; Jeff Mueller, asstant to the city manager of Grosse Pointe Park; and Anthony DiClemente, chairman of the Grosse Pointe Woods Beautification Commission. There will be a question period following the speakers.

The beautification of Mack Avenue has been one of the top projects of the GPB&PA each year. This year they hope to tie in their project with some of those planned by the individual cities.

The cost of the party is $8 per person. There will be a cash bar. Reservations must be made by Feb. 17 by calling Lee Meyer at 881-9099. Park free in the restaurant's parking lot and enter the private dining room through the south entrance.

see interest rates going up much more," he said.

Johnston said he personally believes that all the development going on in and near downtown Detroit has helped the Grosse Pointe home market and will continue to make the Pointes viable to the growing number of workers in new downtown office buildings.

"Almost all of the revitalization is going on along the East Jefferson corridor," he said, "which can't do anything but help Grosse Pointe."

The Grosse Pointe Board of Realtors has 443 members, most of whom are licensed real estate agents and brokers, from 87 real estate companies. The board also has affiliate members that are in businesses related to the real estate industry, such as banking and assessing professionals.

Johnston would not say what percentage of all real estate transactions in the Pointes is conducted by members of the Grosse Pointe Board of Realtors.

Businesses get concessions on Mack improvements

By John Minnis
Staff Writer

Responding to concerns by business owners along Mack Avenue, the city of Grosse Pointe Woods has agreed to make compromises in its landscaping plans for the boulevard.

Many business people attended a public hearing Feb. 8 to air their criticisms concerning a $100,000 landscaping project for five blocks on Mack. The hearing concluded with the city promising to look into each business' circumstances and to reduce the number of trees to be planted.

Business owners complained that the planned planting of 38 trees in front of businesses in the five blocks on the west side of Mack would make it impossible for customers to see the storefronts.

Following the hearing, Mayor George Freeman said the city will put in fewer trees.

"We will make some compromises," he told business owner Antoinette DiClemente, who rallied the business owners in protesting the improvements. She is the owner of the The Dried Flower and is a block captain with the Mack Avenue Professional and Business Association.

DiClemente said she first learned of the Mack project through a story in the Dec. 29 issue of the Grosse Pointe News. She made several copies of the story and handed them out to fellow Mack business owners. The business people then showed up at the Jan. 16 City Council meeting and voiced opposition to the plan.

The business owners' complaints took the city leaders by surprise, and the council sent the project back to the citizens' advisory committee that had originally developed the plans.

The $100,000 project is to be paid with federal Community Development Block Grant funds. City officials hope to start work along Mack in the spring.

The improvement project, called the 1987-88 Facade Zone Improvement Plan, calls for ripping up the concrete between the storefronts and the curb and replacing the cement with grass, walkways and trees. The Mack median will get new landscaping.

The blocks to receive improvements are between Prestwick and Broadstone, Kenmore and Oxford, Lancaster and Fleetwood, and Beaufait and Lennon.

The project's blueprints by John Grissim and Associates show 24 pedestrian lights among the trees, but there isn't enough federal block grant funds to pay them. The city had suggested that the business owners chip in for the lights, which could cost $1,500 per business, according to rough estimates.

"I'm against the lights," DiClemente said. "I can't afford them."

Committee Chairman Allan Adams told the business owners that having the businesses pay for the lights was only a suggestion by the city. He said that while the lights are shown on the blueprints, they are not part of the project because the city cannot afford them and has not approved any way of paying for them.

John Grissim said the pedestrian lights were controversial but needed. He said the lights are more for pedestrians than for cars, but several business owners said Mack Avenue is already well lighted.

Grissim said the Mack improvements are designed to make the boulevard more attractive to the community and easy to maintain.

"The warmth, identity of a community is the roads you travel," he said. "We want people to slow down to look, not just drive through to get from point A to point B." He said the improvements will make Mack more harmonious from beginning to end in Grosse Pointe Woods. He said the plants and trees will bring the boulevard to "human scale."

The business owners, however, are concerned that people will have to slow down on Mack because they won't be able to see the stores behind the trees.

"I'm in a retail business in which we display shoes and clothing, and the trees are a problem with me," said Lou Jacobell of Jacobell Shoes. "I'm not against the project, but I am against having three trees in front of our store."

Grissim said motorists will be able to look under the tree branches and see the storefront windows, but Jacobell pointed out that the signs for the stores are at the top of the buildings and will be directly behind the trees' foliage.

Grissim promised to look at each of the businesses' signs and design the layout of the tree plantings to make sure people can see the signs.

Other than the concern about the trees and who will pay for the lights, most business owners agreed that making Mack more attractive is a worthwhile goal.

"We just want to find a way so that we don't disappear and all you have is beauty," Jacobell said.

Dr. William Quinlan, who has a dentist office on Mack, said:

"I think this all adds viability to the community. I don't want them going to the mall. I want them to stay on Mack Avenue."

Robert Harrison of R.E. Harrison Co., the floor-covering store on Mack, suggested that some kind of compromise could be reached between the beautification project and the signage problem.

"I think any thing we can do to beautify Mack Avenue should be done," he said. "There's no reason why we can't beautify Mack Avenue and help those people too."

Councilwoman Jean Rice suggested that signs be added to the median in each block showing what street numbers were part of each block. Rice's suggestion was greeted with applause from the business owners.

Following the public hearing,

Grissim was directed to go back to the drawing board to come up with revised plans that incorporate the business owners' concerns and suggestions. The matter will go before the City Council at its Feb. 27 meeting.

Grissim told the business owners that it is important to get moving ahead on the project since the work has to be put out for bids soon in order to have the work started in the spring.

Gotta dance

Tuesday night is tap time for dance-loving crew

By Peggy O'Connor Andrzejczyk
 Assistant Editor/Feature Editor

Two 2-inch pieces of steel. On Tuesday nights, that's what brings Josie and Joyce and Edward and Mary Lou and Sonia and Kathy and Jackie and Betty and Mary and Lee Ann and Norma and Cookie together. Two 2-inch pieces of steel.

The steel is on the toes of their tap shoes. And every Tuesday is tap time in this intermediate tap dancing class at the Casali School of Dance on Marter Road and Jefferson.

The 12-member class is kind of special, according to teacher Anna Marie Casali, artistic director of the school.

"For some reason, it just hit that this group happened to draw all the same type of person. Tap draws an eccentric type of dancer anyway, because it's that type of dance. But this group is special. I teach a lot of classes and I don't get the type of fun and warmth I get in this Tuesday night class," Casali says.

"They're just special."

THEY RARELY MISS a Tuesday, this group of tap dance veterans. At 8 p.m., they crowd into the tiny studio, tease one another about a missing cane or an errant hat and get ready for warm-up.

Casali cranks up the warm-up song, "In the Mood." And pretty soon, even a visitor to the studio is tapping along to the beat.

To a tap novice, "shuffle-hop-hop-change" doesn't mean much. But it's obvious that Casali's Tuesday nighters have their time-steps down pat. And their enthusiasm more than makes up for any lack of polish.

"I go into these classes knowing that for these people, this is for fun. They come to class once a week to get away from the daily pressures of life. So I don't put more pressure on them to dance perfectly. I just want them to have fun," Casali says.

"And I really enjoy teaching them because they come to class because they want to, not because 'mom' drove them. And it's funny, you'd think that these people had known one another forever rather than just since the class began in September."

One woman who moved to California after the class began last fall keeps in touch with former class members by letter. She even managed a visit over the holidays.

"She told me that she never would have believed that she could have developed such wonderful relationships in a dance class," Casali says. "She treasures the friends she made here."

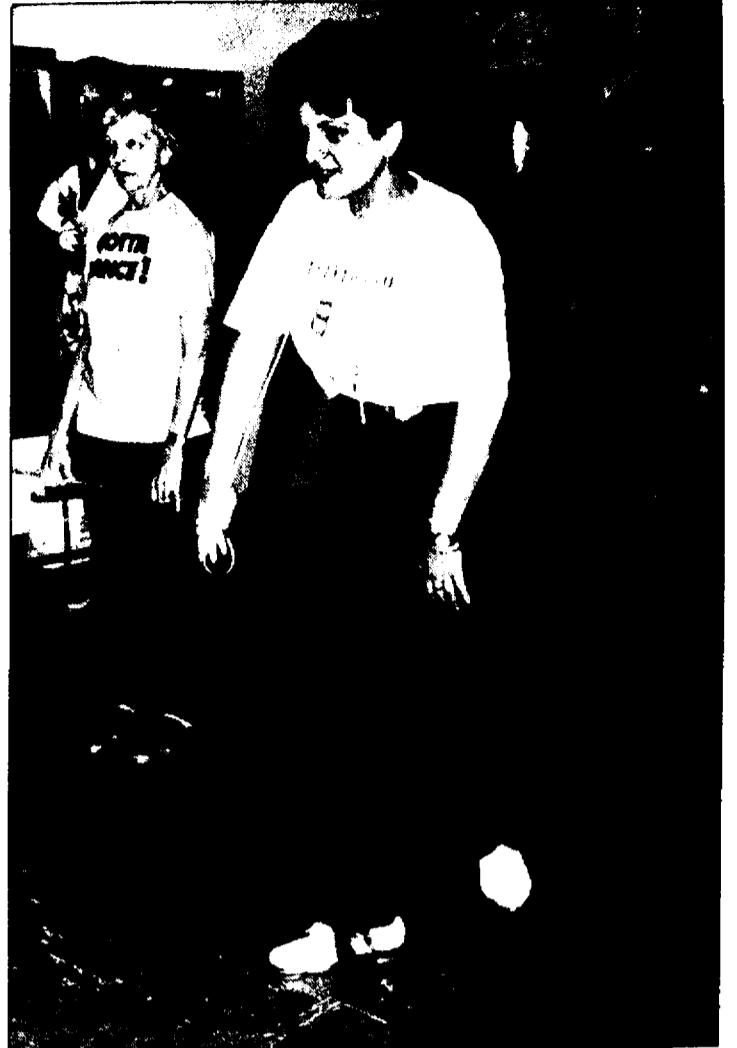

"And for me as a teacher, that's wonderful to hear."

MARY LOU SCHULTE was one of the original group which began lessons with Casali two years ago through the Grosse Pointe Department of Community Education. That group grew to the present dozen which re-enrolls for new classes at the Casali School and still takes classes through Barnes. Along the way, friendships grew, too.

"For us, the class means real friendship and real fun," says Schulte of Grosse Pointe Woods. "When you get into a group like this and find things in common with others, friendships begin to blossom. And you begin to find out things about each other. And to care about each other."

Schulte says she thinks the class "works" for the dancers because of two things: a mutual love of art and a sense of fun.

"I've found that we each have a keen taste for the arts. We have that in common, plus we consider this an outlet, a very inexpensive way to get away from our daily lives and have some fun," she says.

The troupe is working on a number they'll perform in an all-school recital in June. (For dates and times, call the Casali School of Dance at 771-6920).

The dancers, who range in age from "over 40s" to "under 40s," look forward to seeing one another on those Tuesday evenings. And they spend time together away from the class as well.

DANCER JOSIE OXIE of Grosse Pointe Woods arranged for the group to see "Steppin' Out" at the Birmingham Theatre in January because the show, about older dancers looking back at their lives, hit home with the older dancers in Casali's Tuesday class.

"We also got together for Halloween and Christmas and out to shows," Schulte says. "We've helped each other out, too, through deaths in the family and hard times. But that's what friends do, right?"

And judging by the noise at the Tuesday night session, they laugh a lot, too. They laugh when the canes used in one routine begin to fly a little too close to a fellow dancer's head. They laugh when Casali teases them about a less-than-attractive run-through of a step.

But nobody minds, because that's what Tuesday nights at the Casali School of Dance are all about: laughter and fun, Schulte says.

"Hey, it takes guts to get out there in tights and taps and do our thing. You better believe we do it for the fun of it."

DSO support/social group formed

A new generation of music enthusiasts is stepping forward to support the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. "Overtures" is made up of a group of Detroit area young professionals which has formed a committee to develop and plan social gatherings around selected DSO performances.

The inaugural series of events began Feb. 14 with hors d'oeuvres and wine at The Whitney restaurant followed by a special Valentine's Day concert by the Detroit Symphony Chorale at Orchestra Hall.

Two-piano concert Feb. 18

The "Saturdays at Four" chamber music series will present a two-piano concert on Feb. 18 at Marygrove College. The concert will feature three Grosse Pointe residents: Jack DuBois, Alice Ellison and Lawrence LaGore. The other pianists on the program are Richard Lenz, Sue Vanderbeck and Alike Zachary.

The program will begin with a group of two-piano arrangements: Prokofiev's "Marche" from "The Love of Three Oranges," Debussy's "Danse" arranged by LaGore and three Rachmaninoff songs arranged by Victor Babin.

Admission (which includes an hors d'oeuvres and wine reception after the concert) is $7, $3.50 for seniors and students. Tickets are available at the door. For more information, call 885-0744.

at Orchestra Hall. Overtures will be at Orchestra Hall on Friday, Feb. 17, to welcome back the DSO from its European tour. A dessert buffet will be served at the Rattlesnake Club following the performance. On Sunday, Feb. 19, the group will enjoy brunch in the lobby of the Fox Theatre before enjoying DSO's "Classical Roots" concert at Orchestra Hall.

"The idea for Overtures came during a dinner conversation when a group of friends were talking about getting involved in our community," said Erica Peresman, who with husband David Jaffe and a friend, Doug Graham, founded Overtures.

"We formed a committee, got in touch with the marketing staff at the DSO and began calling friends and acquaintances who might be interested in getting to know the orchestra with other congenial people."

Overtures committee members come from all over the metro area, including Detroit, Southfield, Birmingham, Rochester and Grosse Pointe.

Seats still remain for the group's Feb. 19 concert. Cost is $25. Tickets may be charged by phone by calling the DSO at 567-1400 or at the Ford Auditorium box office.

Spotlight will be on Shines at Feb. 25 Mercy Hospital benefit Grosse Pointe Park's own Neal and Phyllis Shine will be among four local residents who will be honored by the Friends of Mercy Feb. 25 at a dinner to raise money for children with cancer at Mount Carmel Mercy Hospital and Samaritan Health Center.

Shine, senior managing editor of the Detroit Free Press, Phyllis Shine, Mount Carmel surgeon Dr. Louis Garipey and his wife Rosemary, will be honored for their contributions to the people of Detroit.

Part of the proceeds from this annual dinner, set for Penna's of Sterling Heights, are earmarked to enhance pediatric oncology services at Mercy Hospitals and Health Services of Detroit. Other funds will be used to develop an outpatient health program for senior citizens.

Honoree Neal Shine has served variously as a Free Press reporter, assistant city editor, city editor and managing editor since 1950. He has received numerous community and professional awards, among them from UPI and AP and from the March of Dimes, the American Lung Association, Wayne State University and the University of Detroit. Phyllis Shine has served as a volunteer for several organizations, including Defer Elementary School, Grosse Pointe South High School, St. Ambrose Church and Academy, People in Faith United and Youth for Understanding.

Dr. and Mrs. Garipey have logged years of service to Mount Carmel Mercy Hospital. Dr. Garipey joined the staff in 1952 and is also a member of several medical and civic organizations. Rosemary Garipey is a founding member of the Mount Carmel Guild and has volunteered for the hospital in different capacities for 25 years.

Tickets for the event are $125 per person and may be obtained by calling 927-7499.

Happy birthday . . . was the song of the day Dec. 30, as 85 family and friends helped former Grosse Pointe Park resident Mel Urtel celebrate his 70th birthday. Urtel, R.Ph., F.A.C.A., worked for many years as a pharmacist at Notre Dame Pharmacy in the Village.

He returned from his retirement home in Boone, N.C., with his wife Phyllis, for the celebration.

Enter through the red door . . . on Forest Avenue this Saturday, Feb. 18, at 9 p.m., and enjoy an evening of fun, food, dancing and refreshments at the First Unitarian Universalist Church, at the corner of Forest and Cass in Detroit.

The occasion is the North Cass Community Union's annual fundraiser for neighborhood soup kitchens, "Love Ball 3." Cost is $5 and proceeds will be donated to those area kitchens. "Gangster Fun," "The Ghost Band," and "Off White Larey," will provide the musical entertainment.

All ages are welcome to what organizers call "a chance to sense the spirit of a neighborhood rich in artistic talent, energy and commitment to its community."

For more information, call 833-3443.

More Mardi Gras:

In the mood for some more Mardi Gras-style celebrating, even though "Fat Tuesday" has come and gone?

Check out the Michigan Opera Theatre Guild Board's rousing New Orleans-style "Mardi Gras Cabaret" evening on Wednesday, March 1, from 6:30 to 11 p.m. at Roma's of Bloomfield.

The fundraiser's festivities will begin with a silent auction of items donated by retailers and a chance for patrons to create their own colorful Mardi Gras masks. Following dinner, MOT members will provide lively cabaret entertainment, from soft show and Broadway show tunes to variety and comedy acts.

Patron tickets are $75 and general reservation tickets are $50, which include dinner, complimentary wine (cash bar) and entertainment. A portion of the funds raised go to benefit MOT. Reservations should be made by calling 646-9481 no later than Feb. 26.

Michigan Opera Theatre Guild Board members include Grosse Pointers Dale Austin, Karen Schultes, John Schultes and Bill Springett.

It's Bow-Bow Ball time:

Chefs from more than 30 of metro Detroit's finest restaurants will prepare a gourmet strolling supper to benefit homeless animals of the Michigan Humane Society at the second annual Bow-Wow Ball, set for Saturday, April 1, at Somerset Mall in Troy.

Participants include One 23 Kercheval chef Bill Watson. The event, which begins at 7:30 p.m., will also include live entertainment, a silent auction and a live auction with auctioneer Ernest DuMouchelle. Coffee and desserts will also be served.

More than 1,200 are expected to attend what promises to be the biggest Michigan Humane Society fundraising event of the year. Tickets are $250 for benefactors, $150 for patrons and $100 for friends.

For more information, call the Humane Society at 872-3400.

'March-ing' further into April, there's the Travelers Aid Society's annual fundraiser to keep in mind and on your calendars for April 10.

"The Great Escape," which combines an auction, a "Foods of the World" buffet and a celebrity suitcase-packing contest, will run from 6 to 10 p.m. that Monday evening at the newly renovated Fox Theatre.

Detroit Red Wing commentators Mickey Redmond and Dave Strader will serve as moderators for the packing contest and auction. Travel packages designed specifically for the event will be part of the auction. The Sun Messengers will provide musical entertainment.

Tickets for "The Great Escape," sponsored by Little Caesars Enterprises, the Fox Theatre and the Detroit Red Wings, are $50 each and are available through the downtown offices of Travelers Aid Society, 211 West Congress (third floor) or by calling 962-6740.

The Travelers Aid Society of Detroit is a United Foundation agency that cares for the traveler in transition. Martha R. Wylie, the society's executive director, is a resident of Grosse Pointe.

With booths at Metro Airport, the Greyhound Bus station and at the headquarters, Travelers Aid workers and volunteers provide services to the battered wife, the runaway, the senior citizen, the handicapped and the homeless.

'The Magic of Spring':

That's the theme for the St. John Hospital and Medical Center Fontbonne Auxiliary's 24th annual spring fashion show and luncheon set for April 24 at the Westin Hotel.

Cocktails will be served at 11 a.m., followed by lunch at noon, then a showing of fashions from Saks Fifth Avenue of Somerset Mall. Tickets for the fashion show are $25 each.

Proceeds are designated for a Cell Saver, a machine that collects blood lost during surgery, purifies it and returns it to the patient. The process reduces the need for transfusions from another donor.

More than 1,000 guests are expected at what is one of metro Detroit's largest fashion shows and luncheons. General chairmen for the event are Jane Buhl of Grosse Pointe and Betty Nelson of Fraser.

For reservations or more information, call the Fontbonne office at 343-3675.

The Power of Words

By The Rev. Edward Cobden
Rector, Christ Church Grosse Pointe

Never underestimate the power of words. Words shape or reconstitute reality.

As an army chaplain I had the occasional responsibility to tell the next of kin of the death of their loved one. A soldier might have been dead for several hours, even up to a day before I would inform his widow of his death. His wife would not be aware of his death.

She would be living in a world in which her husband still lived — a world which actually no longer existed. At the moment I broke the terrible news, for her, her husband was dead. At that moment her world turned upside down.

Words are powerful. They are the tools, the bricks and mortar which construct our world. The choices of words we make have far-reaching consequences. They will constitute the reality in which we live.

A church school class was preparing for Christmas. The teacher explained that Christmas is about God coming inside us as human beings. When God was born in Jesus, we realize that He was not some far off, distant spirit, but that He dwells within us.

The teacher said that God is in each one of the students. He comes as a spirit of love and expresses himself through each one. So the teacher said to the students, "I want you to draw a picture of yourself and show in that picture how you think God might be showing His love through you."

Everyone set to work on a self-portrait. Except Jane. She picked up a crayon, but paused in mid-air. She was clearly blocked and unable to proceed with the exercise.

The teacher approached Jane and said, "You seem puzzled. Can I help you?"

"God is a man," Jane said. "I'm a girl. I can't understand how God can be inside me. He doesn't fit."

The churches are working on sexist language. But the purpose ultimately transcends the issue of sexism or feminism. The real point in all of this is to find words and language that will no longer hinder Jane from the truth as Christians see it.

That is that God through the Holy Spirit dwells within each one of us. We believe without reservation in the in-

SANE/Freeze director to speak in area Saturday

When William Sloane Coffin said farewell to his Riverside congregation in Manhattan a little over a year ago, he said he was sorry to leave that church. But, added the outspoken champion of peace and social justice, as head of the newly combined Washington-based SANE/Freeze group, Coffin would continue to serve "the churches."

This month, the Rev. Coffin makes his first swing through Michigan since taking the reins of SANE/Freeze, the largest peace organization in the country, in January 1988. SANE/Freeze has a current national membership of 175,000; Michigan membership is estimated at 18,000.

Coffin's initial stop in Detroit is Jefferson Avenue Presbyterian Church, E. Jefferson Ave. at Burns Drive, at 1:30 p.m. this Saturday, Feb. 18. He will focus on the responsibilities of the religious community in working toward peace and justice at home and around the world.

Later in the day, the former Yale University chaplain is the guest of honor at a SANE/Freeze gathering at Christ Church Cranbrook in Bloomfield Hills.

One of the items on his local agenda is the proposed deployment of MX missiles to a site in Michigan, probably Wurtsmith Air Force Base near Oscoda.

"We're very much opposed to these first-strike missiles on any site," said a SANE/Freeze spokeswoman. "In addition to their unbelievable destructive power, they represent such vulnerability. The location becomes an immediate target, they are not readily accessible to the user and they are obvious targets for sabotage or terrorism."

Coffin, 64, has worked both "sides of the street" over his career. He was in U.S. Army Intelligence during World War II and subsequently worked for the CIA before becoming an ordained minister.

He was arrested several times in the 1960s for participating in anti-segregation activities. He was active in protests against U.S. interference in Vietnam and the military draft. He visited Americans held hostage in the Middle East earlier in this decade.

Coffin served as Yale University chaplain for close to 20 years. His sermons drew crowds to Riverside Church and were regularly reprinted and mailed to those who requested them. He also was charged with making the interdenominational church a "center for radical activism."

This Saturday's discussion at Jefferson Avenue Presbyterian is free of charge and open to the public.

Teen challenge in St. Clair Shores

The St. Clair Shores Assembly of God will present "Western Michigan Teen Challenge" on Sunday, Feb. 19, at 10:30 a.m. in the sanctuary at 24905 Manhattan in St. Clair Shores.

Teen Challenge is a Christian organization that works primarily with drug addicts, alcoholics and those with life-controlling problems. The students will be sharing their life stories and how they experienced a total life change from drugs and alcohol.

Memorial Church book review group

The Book Review Group of Grosse Pointe Memorial Church will welcome Caroline Davis, wife and equal partner in ministry with Rex Davis, Ecumenical Minister from Lincoln, England. The meeting is set for Tuesday, Feb. 21, at 1 p.m. in the church lounge.

Mrs. Davis, editor of Chrysalis Magazine and executive director of the Movement for the Ordination of Women, will review "Mirror to the Church," edited by Monica Furlong, author, journalist and Christian feminist. The book is a collection of essays about the position of women in the church.

Guests are invited. Reservations for the noon luncheon can be made by calling the church office at 882-5330.

Ecumenical effort Anglican ministers share their thoughts on Grosse Pointe, Detroit and ecumenism in programs at Memorial Church

By Peggy O'Connor Andrzejczyk
Assistant Editor/Feature Editor

For the Rev. Bernard Rex Davis and his wife Caroline Davis, the past two weeks in Grosse Pointe have been a blur of activity — meeting people, going places, leading discussions and listening to ideas.

It has also been a very enjoyable time, the couple says.

The Davises arrived in Grosse Pointe on Jan. 27 for a six-week stay as part of Grosse Pointe Memorial Church's Ecumenical Minister Couple Program. Davis is subdean of Lincoln Cathedral, Lincoln, England. His wife is executive director of Britain's Movement to Ordain Women.

The Ecumenical Minister Couple Program is the 1989 version of an ecumenical program which is in its 18th year at Memorial Presbyterian Church. This year's program is being used as a springboard to increase the ecumenical relationship with neighboring Christ Church Grosse Pointe, an Episcopal church.

"We've enjoyed Grosse Pointe very much, although we've been extremely busy running from one place to another. But we've had a chance to meet interesting people everywhere we've gone here," Caroline Davis says.

That's high praise coming from the well-traveled Davises. As subdean of Lincoln Cathedral where one of four extant copies of the Magna Carta is housed, Rex Davis travels with the copy when it is displayed outside the cathedral.

"In 1988, that meant traveling to Australia three times: once to prepare for its display at an exposition in Brisbane, once for the opening and once when Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher visited the exposition," says Rex Davis, himself a native of Australia.

The Davises have also brought the Magna Carta to the United States, touring the New England states and the South with the copy, which dates to 1215.

"That trip was memorable in that we had a chance to talk with and learn about the people of America as they stood in line to see the Magna Carta. It was a marvelous way to meet people."

That same opportunity to meet and learn about people is part of what drew the Davises to participate in Memorial Church's ecumenical program, Rev. Davis explains.

"With this program, this church has taken an incredibly important step toward looking at the impact that ecumenism can have when it is made real for people. The congregation often doesn't get that opportunity to have input into the ecumenical movement.

"This church has taken that initiative and we're pleased to be part of that."

Personally, the program has meant much to the pair.

"It's been a good experience for me as an Anglican to immerse myself in the Presbyterian life, even for six weeks. It has been illuminating in terms of learning the spirituality and prayer life of Presbyterians, as well as the structure of the church's hierarchy.

"That's important to do because the texture of life is very different and the contrast is important to note and learn from. Partly because of the ecumenical movement, there has been a great convergence and a lessening of wasteful argument. We can get to the meat of issues," Rex Davis says.

Caroline Davis, who spends much of her time in England leading the Movement to Ordain Women, says she has benefitted from her interaction with such groups as Church Women United.

"We're working on legislation to bring about the ordination of women in the Anglican church — you've had it since 1974 here — and we're hoping to see it passed soon," she says.

"Basically, we're a pressure group trying to keep the issue before the public because we've found that the women fail to be interested in a male-dominated church."

The Davises' busy schedule in Grosse Pointe hasn't allowed them time to explore the Grosse Pointe community much beyond the church setting. They have attended two Economic Club meetings downtown, visited the Detroit Institute of Arts, helped dish out soup at a kitchen run by Fort Street Presbyterian Church, and taken a sleigh ride at Greenfield Village.

"The museum at Greenfield Village was marvelous... but I didn't think I'd survive the cold on that horse-drawn sleigh," Caroline Davis says with a laugh.

"Your art institute is a magnificent centerpiece, a wonderful meeting place for the people. It's one place in Detroit where I've felt as if I was in a cathedral of the people," Rex Davis says.

"Otherwise, three things strike me about Detroit. There is a great concern for the future of the city. There is a concern about artificial barriers between city and suburbs and how to recognize those barriers and break them down. And there is a concern about the vigor and life of the church at large."

The Davises say that the community's willingness to help those in need is also very apparent.

"We went to Fort Street church and that was a big eye-opener. There were middle class people from the suburbs cheerfully helping out the poor in a healthy kind of relationship that was not patronizing to the poor. That was wonderful to see," Rex Davis says.

The pair will conclude the Group prepares for day of prayer

Twenty-one women representing 15 churches in the Grosse Pointe area, recently attended a meeting at Christ Church Grosse Pointe in order to plan for the upcoming World Day of Prayer.

This annual event will be observed this year on Friday, March 3, at 1 p.m. at Christ Church, 61 Grosse Pointe Blvd., the host church for 1989. The theme for this year's service is "Jesus, Teach Us to Pray." The service has been written by women of Burma.

The Rev. Duane Arnold will be the featured speaker. All are welcome at this world-wide ecumenical event, now in its 102nd year. Child care will be available at no charge.

Be transformed

The St. Clair Shores Assembly of God will present the series "Being Transformed" on two consecutive Wednesday evenings beginning Feb. 15 at 7:30 p.m.

The first session, "Turning Tragedy into Triumph," dealt with unexpected death, losses, grief and many other blows of life that could crush us. "Pages From God's Memory Book," on Feb. 22, shows how to put painful memories to rest.

visit on March 5, after participating in several more events. Rex Davis will conduct a tour of historical churches on Feb. 25. He will also preach at the Feb. 19 and March 5 services at Memorial Church and at Feb. 26 worship at Christ Church.

Then it's off to Los Angeles for a meeting on South Pacific religions, another of Rev. Davis's interests, before heading home to Lincoln.

"We'll settle back into our routine at Lincoln — the overall administration of the fabric of the cathedral: that's the stone, glass and lead which makes up one of the largest cathedrals in Europe. And there is an entire staff related to maintaining that cathedral for the 300,000 visitors we receive annually," he says.

"And it's back to our home, which is directly across from the west front of the cathedral... and from one of the greatest and most noble sites in Europe."

Blood drive

The Grosse Pointe Community Blood Council will hold a blood drive Thursday, Feb. 23 at the War Memorial from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Walk-ins are welcome, but an appointment is recommended by calling 884-5542. Babysitters and transportation will be available.

People between 17 and 66 who are in good health are eligible to donate blood. Regular donors may give up to age 70 if they have written permission from their doctor within two weeks of the donation.

Children's choir at Woods church

A new venture is taking place at the Grosse Pointe Woods Presbyterian Church for third, fourth and fifth grade students.

Each Wednesday from 4 to 5 p.m., church organist Helen McConachie will meet with this newly formed children's choir.

This is a pilot program for the addition to the church's music program. The young singers will perform at a worship service in April.

Pam Seltzer is serving as choir mother for this short-term experience.

Swing into Spring

Making last minute plans for the seventh annual Bishop Gallagher High School Mothers' Club's fashion show, "Swing Into Spring," are, from left, Helen Van Rossen of Roseville, Cathie McIntyre of Grosse Pointe Woods, Linda Koch of East Detroit and Detroiters Betty Jobe and Clarinda Morris.

The show is set for Saturday, Feb. 25, in the Crystal Ballroom of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. Luncheon will be served at 12:30 p.m., followed by a showing of fashions from the Fashion Bug. There will also be a raffle and door prizes.

Tickets are $15 and may be reserved by calling 885-3817.

Jazz at Unitarian

Bess Bonnier and her quartet will "jazz it up" on Sunday, Feb. 19, at 7 p.m. at Grosse Pointe Unitarian Church, 17150 Maumee Ave. The Bess Bonnier Quartet — with Steve Wood on woodwinds, Paul Keller on bass and Tom Brown, drums — will perform selections that "wowed them in Motown" at last summer's Detroit-Montreaux '88. The performance concludes the concerts held to celebrate the 50th birthday of Grosse Pointe Unitarian Church, where Bonnier has been an active member for years.

Bonnier, a composer and recording artist, solos each Sunday from 1 to 4 p.m. in the Crystal Gallery at the Detroit Institute of Arts. She also has performed often at the Top of the Pontch, the Summit at the Westin Hotel and at the Detroit-Montreaux festivals.

Tickets for the Unitarian Church performance are $6. Refreshments will be served. For more information, call the church at 881-0420.

Gibson School for the Gifted, with Dan Ford of Ford's Auctions serving as auctioneer, will present a "Gala Internationale Auction," Saturday, March 4, at 7 p.m.

The event will be held on the University of Michigan-Dearborn Campus, in the Recreation and Organizations Center. Admission for this adult evening is $7.50.

More than 150 items will be auctioned, including a hand-carved wooden duck, a week's vacation in Myrtle Beach, and a complete home computer. Theater tickets, including tickets to special exhibit and lecture on the art of growing bonsai. Bonsai expert Jack Wikle of Hidden Lake Gardens will discuss the techniques of growing and training small bonsai; lecture times are 2 and 3:30 p.m.

In the Matthaei Conservatory, guests will examine and taste exotic fruits and foods which come from around the world. Horse and wagon rides will be available on the grounds outside.

Cross country ski enthusiasts can ski the 1.5 miles from Radrick Farms to the botanical gardens on a trail. Ski rental is available.

Admission to the gardens for the winter horticulture gala is $2 for adults, $1 for children 12 and under. Members of the Matthaei Gardens will be admitted free.

The gardens are located at 1800 North Dixboro Road. Take U.S. 23 north, exit at Geddes Road and turn right, then turn at Dixboro Road.

Vegetable prices increase

The mild Midwestern winter has Michigan consumers saving on heating bills while California and Mexico are experiencing unseasonably cool winter weather.

Fresh produce buyers are calling it one of the worst stretches of cold weather in recent years. Lettuce is one of the hardest-hit commodities with the wholesale (delivered) price in the 75-cent-per-head range. That translates to over a $1 per head if it's going to be a profitable item for the retailer.

Resourceful consumers will be switching to cabbage as the Florida cabbage crop is up by a whopping 35 percent over last year's crop. For a less "cabbagey" salad, combine slawed cabbage with some nippy Michigan Ida Red apples. Leave the red skins on for added flavor, color and nutrition; add a few skinless peanuts for crunch and protein.

Florida is having about as good a winter as California and Mexico aren't. With the exception of a brief December cold snap, warm weather has reigned in the sunshine state this fall and early winter.

Florida's growers are happy as the inclement weather in California and Mexico has cut supplies and bolstered the prices of all fresh vegetables.

For example, shipments of Florida snap beans are up 14 percent over those of a year ago, but the price per bushel hampers was running $22 in early January, more than $10 higher than the same time last year.

Celery shipments in both the West and Florida are running below '88 levels, but are due to pick up from Florida by month's end. The 50-percent larger cucumber crop along with the 25-percent larger green pepper crop in Florida have kept a lid on the price of those salad vegetables.

Meanwhile, more and more consumers are telling us they prefer to eat produce grown in this country . . . and asking us how they can tell when items are not grown here. This is a definite revelation of age; most people over 50 know the seasonality of domestically produced produce. So, for all you under 50 youngsters, here's the scoop: Starting about mid-December, most seedless grapes, peaches, nectarines, plums and apricots come here from Chili. Their season concludes about mid-May.

Frankenmuth recipe contest open

The third annual Bavarian Inn Motor Lodge Recipe Contest in Frankenmuth is open. Categories for this year's competition are vegetable dishes, meat and poultry and desserts. All recipes must be postmarked by March 15.

Contestants can send in an original recipe or a family favorite for a chance to win one of three first prizes or a grand prize. The contest will end May 1 with a cook-off, where the 12 finalists in each category will prepare their dish before a live audience.

Judges for the competition will be Dorothy Zehnder, co-owner of the Frankenmuth Bavarian Inn Restaurant and her sister, Edna Hegenauer.

Contest entry forms are available at the motor lodge by writing Frankenmuth Bavarian Inn Motor Lodge, Recipe Contest, One Covered Bridge Lane, Frankenmuth, Mich., 48734.

The newly elected officers of Grosse Pointe Chapter No. 2151 of the American Association of Retired Persons are planning an activity-filled year. Seated, from left, are recording secretary Gladys Greenburg, president Albert A. Beste, corresponding secretary Christine Otis; and standing, treasurer William A. Pankhurst, first vice president Donn G. Kipka, immediate past president S. Sidney Newhouse, and second vice president Robert B. Healy.

General meetings of the chapter are held on the fourth Monday of each month except July and August in Grosse Pointe Memorial Church's fellowship hall.

Rx for good health: Rebates and yoga

By Marian Trainor
Special Writer

In accordance with the slogan "Michigan is a Good Place to Live and Work," comes some good news for the state's senior citizens.

To start, the legislature has passed a law which will make low-income seniors 65 and older eligible for a rebate of out-of-pocket prescription drug costs that exceed 5 percent of their household income.

Persons are encouraged to keep a record of their prescription costs which are not reimbursed by a third party such as Medicare, Medicaid or an insurance plan.

This is good news indeed for those who have had to choose between getting a prescription filled or buying food for dinner.

In a lighter vein comes news that the practice of yoga can be beneficial to older citizens. Marge Alpern of Southeast Michigan has been a student of yoga for more than 20 years. She believes that there are many therapeutic effects to yoga which older persons with mobility problems would find particularly helpful.

Alpern found yoga to have successfully addressed a congenital back problem which physicians were predicting would seriously alter her lifestyle by the time she reached adulthood.

Today, after years of daily yoga practice that includes relaxation, meditation, special breathing techniques, attention to diet and prescribed exercises, Alpern feels and looks great and has more vigor and flexibility than many people in her age group.

For the last several years, Alpern has been working largely with cancer patients, using yoga's power of meditation and visualization to, as she says, "Listen to the body as a means of healing and caring for oneself."

She does not suggest shunning conventional methods of medical treatment to cure serious illness, but believes yoga can serve as an adjunct to modern medicine.

Alpern says the hallmark of maturity is the shift from seeking excitement to seeking peace. "That's why I believe so greatly that yoga has a particular place with older adults."

Her hope is that at some point in time yoga will be more readily used and accepted by the elderly in the U.S.

"The more I travel and meet with people my age, the more convinced I am that yoga offers countless benefits these people should be tapping into."

She goes on to say that the reason we're not seeing more practitioners of yoga in their 60s and older is simply because they haven't been exposed to it. She has spent time studying yoga in Nepal, India, Thailand and other Eastern cultures where the following of yoga is a life-long experience.

She believes that those who do practice it find inner personal growth and peace, develop discipline, sensitivity and patience, find relief from daily tension and have increased energy and improved physical well-being.

Class on Social Security benefits Feb. 21

Bon Secours 55PLUS is sponsoring a free lecture on Social Security Benefits for individuals 55 and over.

"What are Your Social Security Benefits?" is scheduled for Tuesday, Feb. 21, from 7 to 9 p.m. in the Bon Secours Health and Fitness Center classroom.

The lecture will be conducted by representatives from the Social Security Administration who will cover Social Security benefits; long term care insurance coverage; changes in the Medicare regulations concerning catastrophic coverage.

The Bon Secours Health and Fitness Center is located at 22300 Bon Brae, St. Clair Shores. Call 55PLUS at 779-7477 for reservations.

Adult day care center seeks volunteers

Volunteers of all ages are needed for A Friend's House Adult Day Care Center in Warren to teach or help with crafts and exercise programs and provide companionship and support for the elderly who attend the center.

Sponsored by Catholic Services of Macomb, A Friend's House provides a structured program of health, recreational and social support services for older adults who cannot be left alone during the day.

The center is located at 28111

To volunteer a few hours a week or a month, call 751-6260 (Monday, Wednesday or Friday).

Exercise class for arthritics

Saratoga Community Hospital will offer a course specially designed to help people with arthritis improve range of motion, reduce stiffness and increase flexibility and mobility. The course, called People with Arthritis Can Exercise, or PACE, is an eight-week series held on Mondays and Wednesdays from March 6 to April 6 from 2 to 3 p.m.

PACE is approved by the Arthritis Foundation — Michigan Chapter. Cost is $20. Registration is required and may be made by calling 245-1589.

have come to the attention of Michigan residents. There are others which we may never hear about because they may not affect our specific area.

Many of them are implemented because of the Project Independence Award originally initiated at the federal level five years ago and designed to recognize programs which promote the independence and dignity of older adults.

The School of Government Inc. to meet Feb. 22

The second meeting of the 1989 season for The School of Government Inc. — a non-partisan organization founded in 1940 by the late Clara H. Brucker — will be on Wednesday, Feb. 22, at the Dearborn Country Club. The social hour begins at noon, followed by the program at 12:30 p.m.

The featured speaker will be Thomas J. Bray, editorial page director of The Detroit News. He was formerly the features editor of The Wall Street Journal's editorial page. Bray will discuss "What's Ahead in 1989?"

President Linda Zimmerman will preside.

For reservations, call Wanda Sepanski at 822-1474 or Sally Kinmetz at 399-1698.

G.P. alumnae, Kappa Alpha Theta

The Grosse Pointe Area Alumnae Club of Kappa Alpha Theta will hold its annual Founders' Day observance on Saturday, Feb. 25, at noon at the Loehmoor Club. The celebration marks the 119th anniversary of the founding of the fraternity. All members are invited to attend.

Reservations for the luncheon and program may be made by contacting Kris Ledyard at 331-2029.

Alliance Francaise

The Alliance Francaise de Grosse Pointe will conduct its third joint program this year with the Grosse Pointe Public Library. The occasion is a French movie for children, "Le Ballon Rouge," about a child and a red balloon.

The showing is set for Saturday, Feb. 18, at 2 p.m. at the Grosse Pointe Public Library, Woods branch, at 20600 Mack Ave.

Trowel and Error Garden Club

The monthly meeting of the Trowel and Error Garden Club will be on Thursday, Feb. 23, at 12:30 p.m. at the Oxford Road home of Audrey Poole. She will be the hostess.

Following the regular business meeting, Pauline Banyou will present the program.

Pointe Garden Club

On Monday, Feb. 20, members of the Pointe Garden Club will meet for lunch and a program at the home of Edie Jacques. Judy Materna, Louise Owen and Lillian Stewart will assist the hostess. Liz Kuhlman will present a program on water conservation.

In January, the club members enjoyed Marguerite Decker's slide presentation, "Plants for Shady Spots." Elaine Ross, Harriet Browne, Fran Hurley and Irene Vance arranged the luncheon meeting at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church.

Harry G. Constant

Marine Corps 1st Lt. Harry G. Constant of Grosse Pointe has been chosen to receive the Major Joseph Foss Award. The award is presented annually by the American Fighter Aces Association to the new Marine pilot who displays outstanding air combat maneuvering skills, exhibits exemplary qualities of leadership, integrity and devotion to duty and motivation towards a career in the Marine Corps.

Constant, a 1981 Grosse Pointe South High School graduate, is currently on a six-month deployment in Japan. He will receive the Foss Award at the American Fighter Aces Association Convention set for May in Colorado Springs, Colo. Constant has earned his F/A 18 "Hornet" pilot status and, according to the Marine Corps, did it better than any other new pilot in the corps during a one-year period.

He says his goal is to attend "Top Gun" school in Miramar, Calif., where the best pilots train.

THOMAS D. STEEN, CRS, GRI
ASSOCIATE BROKER

WHAT IS CRS?

I've been receiving queries about the letters CRS following my name. The title, CRS, stands for Certified Residential Specialist, a professional designation awarded by the national Association of Realtors only to those Realtors who have met stringent requirements and successfully completed extensive advanced study in the field of residential real estate. In academic terms, it is the equivalent of a Masters Degree in Real Estate.

The CRS is a specialist who has demonstrated advanced knowledge in property values, financing, construction, site information, taxes, zoning, syndication, trading, leisure homes, and inter-city referrals. The CRS contributes his or her time and talents by lecturing, teaching, and writing informative articles or books for national publication.

If you plan to buy, sell or lease or exchange residential property, it's in your best interest to consult a Realtor who is a Certified Residential Specialist. Only one out of every 100 Realtors is a CRS, so you know you'll be dealing with an expert.

What are you weighting for.....? Eat yourself thin!

Eat yourself thin with Malsovit, the Diet Plan from Europe, is exactly what Europeans have done in the past seven years. We asked Peter van Liel, the creator of Malsovit, what makes Malsovit so unique. "A lot of people want to lose weight, but are disappointed with most diets they have tried, because these diets do not offer a long term solution," according to Peter. "Malsovit's Diet Plan is easy to follow because it includes regular foods and, to my knowledge, is the most inexpensive Diet Plan available." Malsovit, a bread based Diet Plan, offers the consumer a combination of weight loss and balanced nutrition.

"Malsovit has allowed Europeans to eat themselves thin and to keep the weight off, in a healthy and safe manner," says Peter, who points at research regarding the value of fiber as part of a daily diet and the value of complete protein to prevent regaining weight.

The specially formulated Malsovit bread provides high fiber, complete protein, B-vitamins, iron, complex carbohydrates and is without sugar, cholesterol, artificial additives or preservatives.

MALSOVIT bread, with its accompanying free Diet Plan, is fresh baked at:

BUYING A HOME CAN BE EXHILARATING, JOYFUL AND AWFUL.

Hope the roof doesn't leak.

Can't wait to hear rain on the roof.

We're getting a lot of house for the money.

I don't know if we can afford this.

I'm worried.

I'm happy.

Guess I'll have to buy a lawn mower.

We'll plant vegetables where the lawn is now.

I wonder what it'll be worth when we sell it.

We'll never move again.

Whether you are looking for the second time, or the third or first, you should never have to deal with an insensitive bank. The process is difficult enough, as it is. It can be scary. It can be intimidating. It can be overwhelming. These are natural feelings that come with the highs.

So while you're looking, whether you've found something or not, if a question comes up, or you just need someone to listen, call us. We can help.

And if you'd like to get together, but the pressure of your schedule makes it hard, don't worry. When you or your real estate agent call, let us know, and we'll figure out a convenient place and time to come and meet with you.

The Diamond Engagement Ring has been a tradition since 1477, when Archduke Maximilian of Austria gave a diamond ring to Princess Mary of Burgandy to celebrate their decision to marry. Unknowingly, he started a beautiful tradition that grows stronger each year. Even the position of the ring on the third finger on the hand is a tradition. It was an early Egyptian belief that the vena amoris (vein of love) ran directly from the heart to the top of the third finger of the left hand. Come in and see our vast selection of diamond engagement rings at 20139 Mack Avenue at Oxford in Grosse Pointe Woods. Open Monday through Saturday from 10:00 until 6:00 and Friday evenings until 8:00 p.m., 886-4600.

Charles the great?

It's far fetched to refer to North coach Charles Buhagiar as The Great, but it's not extreme to crown him with the highest standard of achievement a coach can earn in respect.

Buhagiar, 41, my coach, just wants his players to succeed in life as well as athletics. Many times parents or even players, can second guess coaches' abilities and commitment but in this case Buhagiar's fans don't scrutinize; they just appreciate.

Buhagiar, a father of three, doesn't monopolize the family's coaching tactics. His wife, Joy, coaches at Port Huron North. Buhagiar coaches three sports at North Year-round. Buhagiar coaches girls' cross country, girls' track and girls' volleyball — all at the varsity level. He's also coached some javyee.

Living in Port Huron and commuting to Grosse Pointe might put some people out, but for Buhagiar the routine has become simple. He doesn't enjoy the luxury of a chauffeured limousine, so he pilots his daily routine himself. Fifty miles of road divide him and his family, but his proxies in Grosse Pointe — his teams — are happy to sign the adoption papers.

He's given his heart, soul, tires, and oil changes to the Norsemen athletic program for nine years. Port Huron Northern is the main recipient of his teaching skills, but for what it's worth, North feels fortunate to have a devoted, intelligent and concerned coach from 3 to 10 p.m.

Longevity in coaching is mainly based on success. That for Buhagiar is easy to weigh: 105 wins in cross country, 97 wins in track, and 77 in volleyball.

If that scale is used for his evaluation, then Buhagiar will be around for quite some time. The scale of success, is not the sole determinant. Buhagiar was hired for his expertise, his willingness to work with athletes and his goal of turning even a novice runner into a champion — nothing more, nothing less. A reliable car helps, too.

It's difficult to read him sometimes. When he concentrates, his demeanor can be mistaken for abrasiveness but when the time comes, this business-like man tends to your needs and concerns.

During volleyball matches, Buhagiar is the team's biggest fan. On the track, he runs on the infield while cheering his runners on. During cross meets, he runs the hills, keeps times and waits at the finish line for not only the winner, but the last place finisher.

It does figure that coaching doesn't pay a lot, but for Buhagiar his income is based on how well student athletes work. Like any coach, happiness in coaching is based on what the kids get out of it. With Buhagiar mentoring three teams, it's only fitting to say that three teams benefit from a highly-talented and devoted coach.

I'm sure that more than once he's wanted to turn around on I-94 and head home. Other times I'm sure the ride is torturous, but his perfect attendance record speaks for itself.

It's reassuring to know that there are coaches who have a genuine concern for kids, not winning. I know Buhagiar is not the only coach of his kind, but it's nice to know there's a coach out there who would drive from Port Huron to give kids the opportunity to participate in athletics.

A stronghold

With all the trophies, medals, plaques, ribbons and dust collected on the shelf in John Shefferly's room, one would guess there is no room left.

As a junior, Shefferly, who is currently 41-1 on the year, will compete in the state championships Feb. 17-18 in Battle Creek but to reach that point he has had to overcome many battles on the mats. Although things have come relatively easy for the district and regional champion, he has had his trying moments.

As a junior, Shefferly was just another wrestler caught up in the hoopla of the state meet. He was an unknown grappler with everything to prove. As a 126-pounder competing in the 1988 finals, Shefferly won one match. That, however, wasn't enough.

"I want to get there and win it all," he said. "Last year I struggled and really didn't know how to deal with it all. Now, I think I'm better prepared."

Shefferly's preparation has included regular-season championships in four invitational. At the Macomb Invitational, he was voted — by the coaches of the 18-team journey — the meet's Outstanding Wrestler. Even after that, he still considered himself an outsider to the Who's Who in wrestling.

"I won it, but other wrestlers really didn't know who I was," Shefferly admitted. "I wasn't looking for people to come up to me and say a lot to me, but it's nice to be recognized."

After the often difficult Mount Clemens Invitational, where he won the 135-pound slot, Shefferly quickly gained an identity.

"After that meet I believe people started to realize who I was," he said. "Going into that meet, I knew that if I won my class, that it would put me on the map."

The win also catapulted him into the No. 4 slot of the top five wrestlers in the state at 135 pounds.

"That was a big thing for me," he said. "I was working very hard to get ranked and now that I am I've got even more to prove."

Shefferly was 32-1 after the team's league meet, in which it finished third with 130 points. His only defeat came against Romeo's Chad Biggert. A few weeks later, however, Shefferly reversed that defeat by beating Biggert.

"I shouldn't have lost to him," Shefferly said. "But I did. I made a couple mistakes and it cost me."

In the rematch, however, it was a different story.

"I wasn't going to lose," Shefferly said. "It was a real tough match. We were both going after one another. It was a battle out there."

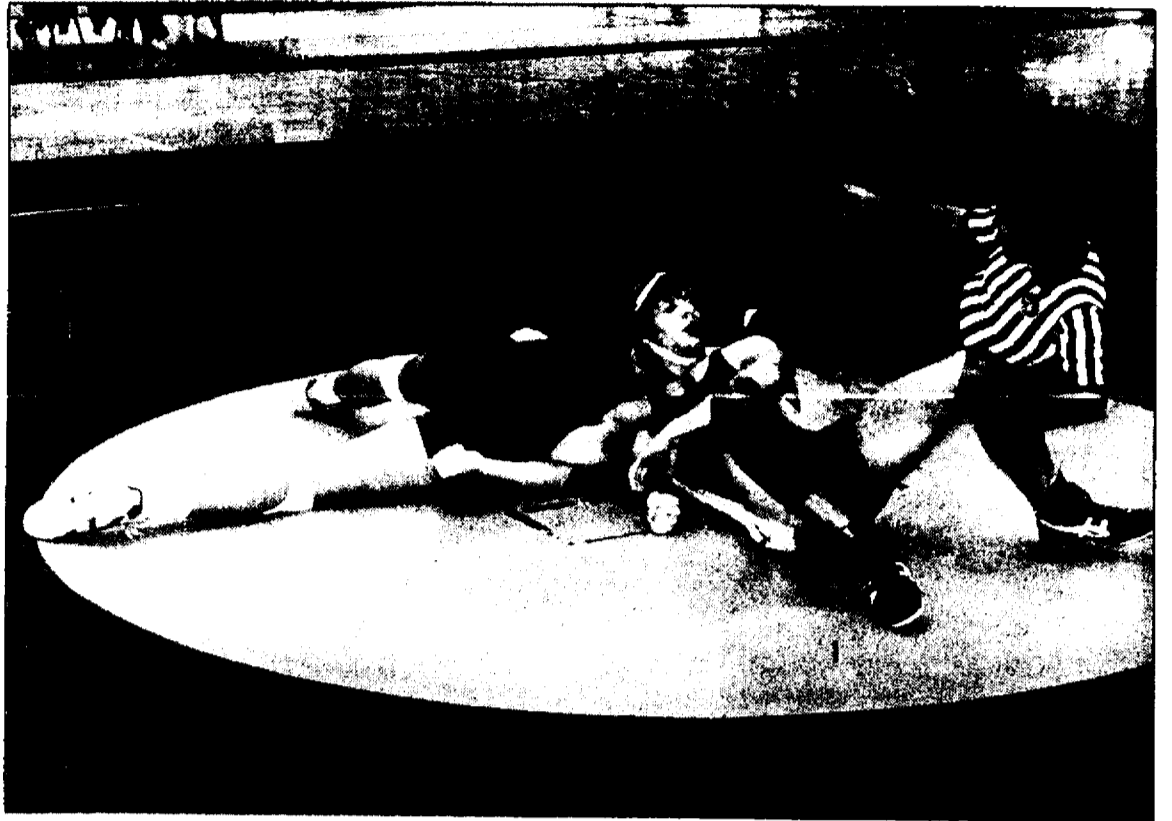

The most important thing was the win.

"No doubt," he said. "It was just like erasing that loss."

As a junior, Shefferly finished an injury-plagued season at 34-8. During that season he was an underdog in many matches, and when he faced a tough opponent he wanted to be the one to knock the favorite out of the perch. Nowadays, he's the tough guy he used to look out for.

"Last year I was really hungry to beat everyone," said Shefferly. "This year, since I've remained pretty healthy, it's been different. I'm winning a lot of matches and some guys are really coming after me. I haven't been as hungry as I was last year, but I just try to wrestle strong each match and win with the basics. Nothing fancy, though, because I can't afford to make a mistake."

Wrestling since only his freshman year, Shefferly has come to find that home is where the heart is and for him the welcome mat is on the mats.

"I have thought about what I'm doing ever since my freshman year," he said. "Every time I step onto the mats, whether it's for practice or a match, I know that wrestling is what I want to do."

The pressure of being on top has yet to affect Shefferly.

"I think I'm handling it pretty well," he said. "I'm keeping my composure and thinking about the state meet. Everything to this point is nice, but wrestling in the state meet would be nicer."

Shefferly has become an elite wrestler by honing his skills. In practice, he works on his moves, but he prefers to grapple with teammates Dan Collins and Paul Attar.

"I give a lot of credit for my success to Dan and Paul," he said. "They're out there every practice sweating it out with me on the mats and that training has been great for me. They toss me around so much at times, that it's a wonder that I haven't been hurt."

Shefferly, who is motivated by the goals he has set for himself, won't settle for a second-place finish. He's determined to win the state title, and that motivation comes from the fear of failure.

"I'm motivated by the things I do for myself," he said. "I'm my own teacher right now. I'm motivated to win, but I get that from being motivated not to lose."

Shefferly, whose confidence has escalated to new heights, isn't cocky about his newly formed reputation. He's aware of the upset-minded wrestlers he'll encounter at the state meet, but he'll come fully equipped for the battle.

"If I put everything together and wrestle smart, I stand a good chance at the state meet," he said. "There's some tough guys out there who want a piece of me. I'm sure, but I can handle my own in the state meet."

The winning trend has been established this year and if his fortunes continue, Shefferly will proudly remember the invitational wins and his record, but nothing will compare with the championship trophy.

"My record kind of speaks for itself, but I'm really satisfied because I beat Biggert and got ranked," he said. "I'll remember it all, but the ultimate would be winning the championship."

Wood, Nowowiecki hit century mark

Doug Wood and Shannon Nowowiecki, University Liggett School's ace hockey players, became the first tandem in ULS history to reach and go over the 100 total-point mark in a single season.

The Knights' tandem reached the 100-point plateau at Ann Arbor Huron in a 7-5 win. Wood had five goals and one assist, and Nowowiecki had one goal and four assists. Akil Adams' goal started things off in the first period for ULS, now 17-4-3, and ranked No. 5 in Class B.C.D.

Wood's and Nowowiecki's achievements mark the first time in Michigan high school history that two players from the same team have scored more than 100 points in a single season. Nowowiecki now holds the state scoring record for assists (currently 67) in a single season, and Wood owns the career mark for assists (currently 125). Wood, with 235 career points, is just three points from breaking Mike Helber's (Ann Arbor Pioneer) career mark of 237. Wood has 58 goals during this season's campaign.

"No other high school that I know of has such a tandem as Nowowiecki and Wood," said ULS coach John Fowler. "Shannon is so creative on the ice, and Doug is always there to mop things up around the net."

Wood and Nowowiecki were ever so dangerous at home against No. 4 ranked Detroit

Country Day, as they both shot for the hat trick in a 6-6 tie. Nowowiecki tallied the first three goals as ULS and DCDS entered the third period tied 3-3. Wood then scored to give ULS a 4-3 lead, but DCDS tied it, 4-4. Wood then proved why he is an all-state hockey player when he netted two consecutive goals to give ULS a 6-4 lead.

Defensesmen Mike Coello (1), Ross Kugel (2) and Jesse Kasom (1), as well as forward Andrew Van Deweghe (2) assisted the ULS goals. Goalie Mark Sullivan was credited with 25 saves.

ULS plays at Gabriel Richard on Feb. 23 for a 7 p.m. contest.

Basketball

The Knights ran their winning streak to seven with convincing wins over Southfield Christian, 57-37, and Center Line St. Clement, 75-50.

ULS is now 13-3 on the season.

Against Southfield Christian, ULS struggled in the opening quarter as the Eagles held the Knights to only four first-quarter points. ULS broke loose in the second period as Tarik Lester and Kanda Milton scored nine and six points, respectively, to give ULS a 24-14 lead at the half.

Kevin Crociata hit for 10 points for ULS in the third quarter as the Knights built up a 25-point advantage. Lester led the Knights with 15 points, while Crociata and Milton had 12 each.

The St. Clement game at home Feb. 10 was an emotional one for the Knights. Two years ago, the Crusaders hammered ULS by 30 points in the first round of the state tournament. Four of ULS' current five starters were on that team.

The Knights' full-court pressure forced St. Clement into several turnovers as the Knights ran to a 45-15 halftime lead. Milton was brilliant and finished with 31 points, including 23 in the first half. He hit on 13 of 16 shots. Crociata contributed 17 points and Lester banked in 11.

"We really played well against St. Clement," said ULS coach Chuck Wright. "Orchard Lake St. Mary, the No. 7 ranked team in the state, beat St. Clement by only six points last week. I think this convincing win proves we should be a ranked team in Class C."

ULS will host Ann Arbor Greenhills Feb. 17 at 7:30 p.m., and Redford St. Mary on Feb. 21.

ULS lost, 9-15, 15-8, 2-15 to Cranbrook in a game in which ULS' Diann Imbriaco was cited for her outstanding performance.

On Feb. 9, led by co-captains Sylvia Ristic and Imbriaco, ULS defeated Huron Valley Lutheran, 15-7, 18-16, 15-13, 15-4.

After its victory over Country Day, the ULS swim team remained unbeaten (7-0) on the year.

Behind many personal-best efforts, school records and first places, ULS captured an 83-74 win.

In racking up the points, Craig Behling, David Allen, Jon Sieber and Dan Shanle won the 200-yard medley relay, shattering the school record by 2.13 seconds. Behling, Allen, Neil Weyhing and Beth Weyhing won the 400-free relay and also set a new school record by slicing .19 seconds off the old one.

Shanle also got first place in the 100-free and finished second in the 50-free. Not only did Sieber win the 500-free by a wide margin, but he also recorded a personal-best time. Kelly FitzSimons won the 100 breaststroke and Sonny Randazzo swam a personal-best in the 50-free.

ULS will be putting its unbeaten record on the line at Kingswood on Feb. 16.

Lawson directs North

By James Moore
Special Writer

Senior guard Derek Lawson directed the North basketball team to two wins last week over Romeo (68-65) and Brablec (66-51).

Lawson's playmaking abilities enabled Charlie Stumb to hit for 19 points in the win at Romeo. Matt Brady tossed in 15 points in a return after an ankle injury, and senior center Scott Clein hit for 14 points and pulled down 10 rebounds. Andy Dudeck laced 10 points.

Coach George Olman was extremely pleased with the win and commented that Lawson, "Did a fine job of directing our offense and playing defense."

Three days later at home, Stumb led all scorers with 20 points, including 11 in the first quarter and Clein netted 16 points to go with 11 rebounds.

North has now won two straight and owns an overall record of 10-6. The Norsemen will host Woods-Tower Feb. 17 at 7:30 p.m.

Volleyball

The Lady Norsemen were outspiked twice last week as they managed to come up with only 25 points in two games.

Laurin Schultz had four kills and eight blocks at Woods-Tower, but the Norsemen fell, 6-15, 6-15. Kelli Gianunzio led an honorable scoring attempt with five service points.

The lady Norsemen will host Romeo and Lake Shore on Feb. 22 and 24, respectively.

Devils two wins away from E.M.L. title

By Rob Fulton
Sports Editor

It may be too early to say it, but the Grosse Pointe South Blue Devils' basketball team is thinking about winning the Eastern Michigan League championship.

And why shouldn't it? South (15-2) remained the only unbeaten E.M.L. team by beating Roseville (90-47) and L'Anse Creuse North (65-54). Currently 11-0, South has to play Port Huron Feb. 17, and travels to Mount Clemens Feb. 24. (The Devils played at East Detroit Feb. 14 after the Grosse Pointe News deadline).

Mount Clemens is South's closest competitor with two league losses, and would need a miracle to at least tie the Devils. Therefore, it looks as though South will be the champion for the first time in eight years.

At home against Roseville, the starters built up an insurmountable lead with great team defense and fine offensive execution, and then turned the game over to the bench. All 13 Blue Devils played and scored. Andrew Ament, who has quickly become a candidate for the league's MVP award, scored 17 points. Rob Khoenic tossed in 14 points off the bench and Andy Ayrault knocked down 12 points.

In another home game, South drilled L'Anse Creuse North behind Ament's 23 points, 11 rebounds and two blocked shots. South used a strong second half to pull away from a 26-22 lead at the half. Ayrault chipped in with 15 points, and Chris Gramling hit for 10 to go with five assists. Joe Caldwell added eight points and also dished out five assists.

Volleyball

After losing its first league contest two weeks ago, South hit the road for two games at Roseville and L'Anse Creuse North, but proved that winning isn't difficult away from home.

Chris Schulte and Traci Lee combined for 11 kills in a 15-10, 15-5 win over Roseville. Lee then recorded five kills at North and Schulte added three kills and three ace serves in South's 15-5, 15-4 win.

Against Roseville, Jenny Kalmink had four kills and Meg

Blondin had 13 assists on 48 sets. Blondin was good on 30 of 31 sets, including 12 assists and seven service points at North. Emilie Ayrault played an outstanding backcourt game, according to Coach Cindy Sharpe, and also had two kills.

South has two matches left before heading to district play the week of Feb. 27.

Swimming

Fred Michalik's team has had a relatively easy time with opponents, and the story was much the same when South rocked Eisenhower, 119-53.

South (11-0) was paced by the first-place medley relay team of James Bellanca, Matt Hart, Brad Stedem and Chris Marston. Ted Stedem was first in the 200 individual medley and Andy Walter was first in the 50-free. Other winners were Tim Peacock (100-fly), Walter (100-free), Tom Mertz (100-back), T. Stedem (100 breaststroke), and the 400-free relay team of Ethan Dettmer, Craig Winger, Hart and Chris Nelson.

Devils, Norsemen play to 4-4 tie

By Rob Fulton

Go ahead Tim. Really, nobody is watching. It won't kill you to show some emotion. Besides, "kissing your sister" can't be that bad.

After his hockey team skated to a 4-4 tie with the Norsemen of Grosse Pointe North Feb. 9 at the St. Clair Shores Civic Arena, South hockey coach Tim Zimmerman said, "I'll kiss that sister any time you want me to," he said in reference to the phrase a tie is like kissing your sister.

The Blue Devils, who have struggled all season long, entered the game as a bona fide underdog but scored four times in the second period to tie the No. 8-ranked Norsemen.

The tie, the first one ever recorded in a North-South game, also snapped North's eight-game winning streak. For South, the tie avenged a 5-1 loss when the teams met Jan. 12.

Derek Farr got the start in goal for South, and turned back 31 of 35 shots in a sterling performance. South, not known for its offensive prowess, attacked North's Jim Bunn with only 13 shots on goal, but four of them turned the red light on.

"Scoring four goals was impressive for us," Zimmerman said. "We haven't done that Health problems related to winter weather

Winter-time is once again upon us, and with it comes medical problems and injuries inherent to our climate and outdoor physical activity.

One condition which we commonly see in emergency departments this time of year is frostbite. In order to prevent and manage this problem, it is first of all necessary to understand some of its basic medical causes.

Frostbite is the direct result of severe cold's action on exposed skin. What actually happens is that the cold causes the blood vessels in the skin to narrow down or constrict. The blood in the narrowed vessels then clots and the blood supply to the skin, which is supplied by these blood vessels, is cut off. As a result of this loss of the blood supply, the skin dies and we call this frostbite.

Most of the cases involve fingers, toes, nose and ears. The symptoms are coldness of the skin, tingling and numbness. The skin becomes red, and as the condition becomes more advanced, becomes pale and white or waxy-looking.

In early frostbite or frostnip, simple contact rewarming such as putting your hand over an affected ear is usually sufficient.

where the skin is pale and waxy looking, it is important to remember that rewarming should be done only once, and if you're in a situation where there is any chance of the skin refreezing after you have warmed it, then it is better to wait until you have medical help before the part is thawed out. This is because tissue that refreezes once it has been thawed out will almost certainly die off and amputation of fingers and toes will then become a necessity.

Prevention is No. 1 remedy

The best cure for frostbite is prevention. People should remember to wear adequate, dry clothing and mittens, keep their feet and socks dry, avoid unnecessary exposure and don't smoke; smoking also causes the blood vessels to narrow and this makes things even worse.

One thing people tend to underestimate is the effect of the wind-chill factor. By this, we mean that if the air is moving with the wind, the actual temperature of this moving air on the exposed skin is much lower than if the air is still. The wind-chill factor is very important in deciding if freezing of exposed flesh will occur.

At a temperature of 10 degrees Fahrenheit, you only need a wind of 20 mph to get a wind-chill factor of 24 degrees below zero. At this point you are in the danger area.

At zero degrees, with a 40 mph wind you get a wind-chill factor of 55 degrees below. This has not been uncommon in our area in winter and at this temperature you have a very definite danger of exposed fingers freezing within a minute or so. Each year in the St. John Hospital Emergency Center, we see several of these cases which should have been prevented.

Some cases of frostbite are associated with hypothermia, or low body temperature. Many such instances are the result of accidental prolonged exposure outside and could be prevented with forethought and common sense. It is important to dress correctly if one is spending any significant amount of time outdoors.

For all-weather purposes, clothing should be worn in closely-fitting layers with outer garments that shed wind and water, wool garments that retain their insulation when wet, and inner garments that keep warm air close to the body.

Remember that 50 percent of the heat lost by the body at temperatures below 40 degrees is through the head and neck. So, it is very important to make sure that the head and neck are adequately protected.

Dangers of alcohol

Finally, let me add a word of warning concerning alcoholic beverages.

Many people believe drinking alcohol in very cold outdoor weather helps to keep them warm and prevent some of the ill effects of low temperatures. This is not true and if people are going out into cold weather they should avoid drinking alcohol.

The alcohol makes you feel warm inside because it dilates the blood vessels in the skin and these vessels then become filled with warm blood, making the skin feel warm. The problem is that the heat from this blood in the skin is then lost to the outside air and people then cool down a lot quicker than they do if they don't drink alcohol; and so develop hypothermia much quicker.

Michigan's winter-time can offer a lot of fitness activity. By taking some elementary precautions, you should safely increase your enjoyment of this season.

This article was written by Dr. Anthony Southall, director of the Emergency Center at St. John Hospital.

Kids and weight: A growing problem

Children. They are our hope of the future. When their safety is threatened, we are willing to fight for them, pass legislation and start agencies to protect them.

Children. We want what is best for them. We — the parents, grandparents, aunts, uncles, teachers, community leaders, — the list of adults who help shape and form the lives of our children is endless. Threats to their well-being incite us to action. However, there is an increasing threat to our children that may not seem as obvious as the usual forms of menace: childhood obesity.

Despite a generation of adults that are more diet, health and fitness conscious, America's youth seem to be getting fatter. The statistics are startling. According to a 1987 Harvard study, today's young people are not only heavier, but many are also gaining weight at a frightening rate. The report found that a number of children ages 6 to 11 who are obese, has increased 54 percent since the middle 1960s, and the prevalence of super-obesity (determined according to body fat measurements) among this group has grown by 98 percent.

For adolescents ages 12 to 17, there has been a 39 percent increase in the obese group, with a 64 percent rise in the super-obese. Obesity in children increases the risk for respiratory disorders, orthopedic conditions, psychosocial dysfunction, diabetes, high blood pressure, and even heart disease. The bottom line: heavy kids are less healthy.

Findings released by the American Alliance for Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance, show that "about 40 percent (of American children), age 5 to 8, exhibit obesity, high blood pressure and high blood cholesterol levels and less than half have adequate heart-lung endurance.

Contributing Factors

Why these alarming numbers? Researchers cite environmental, rather than genetic causes as the likely culprit. Experts still disagree about heredity's influence on obesity. There is evidence that one's heredity does play an important role, but it is only one of the many contributing factors to childhood obesity. Despite the fitness craze, many children suffer from chronic inactivity, school physical education spending has been reduced, resulting in fewer school exercise programs.

Statistics taken from the Bogalusa Heart Study of Cardiovascular Risk Factors in Children indicate that obesity is on the rise, especially in the 11 to 14 age bracket. All age levels, however, showed an average 5 1/2 pound gain over just 11 years, (that is a 9 percent increase). So, are these children eating more? According to the study's findings, the answer is no, they are eating about the same. Consequently, researchers surmise that it is "lower energy expenditure" that is responsible for the dramatic weight gain.

Television may also play a role. Figures show that by the time a child graduates from high school, he/she will have spent about 15,000 hours watching television. In comparison, 13,000 hours are spent in the classroom. During those hours of TV viewing, kids will be exposed to 350,000 commercials, with more than half of those commercials geared to edible products.

Family eating habits and food-related attitudes learned in the home environment may also induce childhood obesity. Today, most adolescents have easy access to high-calorie foods, "quick-fix" and fast foods, plus many choices on the market that are definitely "junk foods."

Children are also responsible for making more food choices on their own.

How to combat the problem

There is no fast and permanent cure for childhood obesity, but recognizing the problem's magnitude is a positive step. Evidence suggests that cyclical weight reduction may actually make losing weight more difficult. For children whose weight continually fluctuates, the chance for successful long-term weight-loss is compromised.

What can a parent do? Professional weight-loss experts favor treatment that focuses on a healthy diet and a regular-exercise program. Promotion of healthful eating behaviors is critical. By establishing regular meal times, including healthy snacks and planning nutritious low-fat meals, the parent provides the child with healthy options.

Kids need to be encouraged to eat every meal, especially breakfast. There is nothing wrong with a child, or any of us eating six times a day. What we eat at those times is the key to a healthy eating plan.

Overweight children (and many adults) are famous for meal-skipping, which can undermine self-control at the next meal. Keep foods, especially those loaded with calories that contain high fat contents, out of the house. You can't eat what isn't there.

Encourage your child to participate in learning what constitutes reasonable and healthy choices. The focus of these discussions should always be on a "total health concept" for the entire family, rather than focusing on the weight of one particular child.

Young people who learn to incorporate healthy eating habits into their own daily living, and are given methods to control those habits, will have a better chance of getting slim and staying healthy.

It is never too early and it is never too late to start your child and your entire family on the road to a healthy lifestyle.

Pointe Aquatics team begins new season

Pointe Aquatics, the newly formed swim team of Grosse Pointe, was represented by 27 fine swimmers at the 24th annual A Swim Meet hosted by the Bulldog Aquatic Club of Livonia, Jan. 13-15.

In the boys' 10-and-under, the 200 medley relay team of Mike O'Connor, Westleigh DeGuvera and David and Brent Nielubowicz took sixth (2:37.40). Also, in the 10-and-under boys' events, David Nielubowicz touched fourth in the 200-free (2:20.89). Nielubowicz also achieved 'AA' state-qualifying times in the 100-free, 50-fly, 100-fly, 100-back, 100-breaststroke, and the 200 IM. Teammates DeGuvera and O'Connor were also 'AA' qualifiers with DeGuvera in the 100 breaststroke, and O'Connor in the 100-free, 50 and 100 butterfly.

The girls' 10-and-under 200-medley relay team of Michelle Vasopoli, Rachelle Atrasz, Kathy Storen and Michelle Dumlner, finished eighth (2:33.68). Kathy Storen placed sixth in the 100-IM with an 'AA' time of 1:17.07. Storen also achieved the state 'AA' cut in the 50-free, 50- and 100-bfly and the 200 IM. Eight-year-old Rachelle Atrasz touched third in the 10-and-under 50 breaststroke (45.43), and also made the 'AA' time in the 100 butterfly.

The 200-medley relay team of J.P. Gamrat, Tony Atrasz, Emmett DeGuvera and Steve Williams touched fifth (2:15.84) in the 11-12 boys' age group. Emmett DeGuvera took a first in the 100-free (1:03.85) and a good performance was turned in by J.P. Gamrat (1:06.06) in the same event. In the 100-fly, Jeff Shelden swam to a 1:20.77.

Suzette Atrasz placed fourth (1:17.64) in the 11-12 girls' 100-yard breaststroke, and Rebecca Walter touched second in the 50 breaststroke in 38.72. Anita Warner swam very well in the 50-fly and turned in an 'AA' time of 31.31.

Kim Higel finished sixth in the girls' 13-14 500-free (5:40.90), third in the 100-back (1:05.84), sixth in the 400-IM (5:01.13) and sixth in the 200-open backstroke (2:21.99).

The 400-girls' open freestyle relay team of Wendy Mader, Kim Higel, Karen Dundon and Heidi Mader touched fourth with a time of 3:50.82.

Heidi and Wendy Mader, along with Karen Dundon and Lisa Williams, teamed up to finish second (4:17.92) in the 400-medley relay.

In the girls' individual-open events, Heidi Mader took a second in the 50-free (25.43), first in the 200-back (2:12.32) and second in the 200-IM (2:15.94). Wendy Mader finished second in the 500-free (5:18.32), second in the 1650-free (18:17.25) and third in the 400-IM (4:49.51).

Karen Dundon took a fifth in the 500-free (5:22.49) and third in the 200 IM (2:16.69) to round out the point total for Pointe Aquatics.

Hockey

since Jan. 6 in a 5-1 win over Dow. It's a step in the right direction for us. Maybe not for this year, but maybe for next year.

"The tie was definitely a win for us," he added.

South (6-10-2) hasn't put more than 20 shots on goal since Jan. 1. Its ineffectiveness to find the net was never more apparent than in the first period when they managed to get off only one shot. They overloaded in the second period with 12 shots on goal as they set the up-tempo pace.

"We wish the second period would have lasted 2 1/2 more hours," Zimmerman said. "I really believe we dominated that period. It's the best 15 minutes we've put together all season."

North's Nick Black assisted Frank Lucido's goal that opened the scoring in the first period. The period ended that way, but in the second period the tightly-played game took the shape of a basketball game as both teams exchanged goals, with South taking a 4-3 lead at the end of two periods.

Mike Kisskalt, on a pass from Andy Busse, tied the score (1-1) for South, but North's Ed Barbieri tucked in the go-ahead goal just a minute later.

Trailing 2-1, South's Busse (unassisted) and Kisskalt scored back-to-back power-play goals to give South its first lead, 3-2. Brad Russell tied it for North at the 10:25 mark, but Jim Alderton's goal 20 seconds later gave the Blue Devils the 4-3 edge heading into the final period. Russell then netted his second tying-goal of the night at the 2:30 mark of the third to finish the scoring.

Zimmerman couldn't give a particular reason why his team broke out of its slump suddenly in the second period, but if he could define it, he'd patent it.

"In between periods I really didn't say anything out of the ordinary," Zimmerman claimed.

"I can't tell you what made the difference for us, but if I could I'd bottle it and save it."

North (12-3-2) didn't want to get into a physical game with the Devils, but eventually were forced into it after trailing 4-3 entering the third period.

North coach Mike Manzella, who saw John Ferguson's goal at Gabriel Richard earn his team a 4-3 come-from-behind win earlier in the week, was hoping to squeak out another win, so the tie was surely a humbling experience.

"We've had a lot of everything this year," Manzella said. "We've had some close ones and we've had some easy ones. I think we really needed something like this to wake us up because things have been going too well for us since Christmas."

Manzella admitted his team was dominated in the second period.

"We haven't given up four goals in one period all season," he said. "We stood around and watched too much. To South's credit, however, they played a good second period and a good game."

The final 10 minutes of play were pressure-packed. Farr and South faced several shots and according to Zimmerman, his team was a little apprehensive.

"The kids didn't want to make a mistake with the puck," he said. "We went into a shell."

While the tie was a victory of sorts for South, for North it was a disappointment.

"We're disappointed we tied, but to keep things in perspective, they (South) didn't break our winning streak," Manzella claimed. "We weren't really into the game and I don't know why."

"Down the stretch, we had guys who wanted to win it, but we didn't have the team effort. Our goal is to be prepared for the regionals and this one should prepare us."

'Tap' Gregory Hines leads a talented cast that pushes tap-dancing to its limit

By Marian Trainor
Special Writer

What goes around comes around. So it is that there is renewed interest in tap, a form of dancing that went out with the rock 'n' roll era.

A new Broadway musical, "Black and Blue" not only features some of the older hoofers who are in their 60s, but brings to the stage dancers in their 20s and 30s and kids like 15-year-old Savion Glover and his sister.

In "Tap," the movie, several of the greatest tap specialists still alive are featured: Harold Nicholas, Jimmy Slyde, Sandman Sims, Bunny Briggs, Steve Condos, Arthur Duncan and Pat Rico.

Also cast are Suzzanne Douglas, a beautiful actress, singer and dancer and Savion Glover from "Black and Blue."

With Sammy Davis Jr., and starring Gregory Hines, a fine, sinuous dancer currently regarded as the best in the field, the art of tap dancing never had a better showcase.

"Tap" wastes no time in prepping the audience for the dazzling array of talent it will see.

Near the beginning we see a group of elderly men sitting around a table playing cards in a room just off a studio where Amy, (Suzzanne Douglas) is teaching a tap dancing class.

Little Mo (Sammy Davis Jr.), her father, interrupts the game with news that Max, the son of one of the great tap dancers of all time, is back.

Little Mo is jubilant because he thinks Max has inherited his father's talent and is determined that Max make the most of it.

Film

What he doesn't know is that Max has other fans waiting for him — a group of second-story thugs who have been waiting for Max to get out of prison where he has been spending time after botching a job. They are waiting for him to help them with a robbery that requires the agility to scale several stories of a building where a window has been left unlocked that leads into a safe filled with jewels.

Max agrees to do it. He likes the high living that comes with money, money he knows he could never realize as a tap dancer.

However, he has a deep affection for Little Mo, Amy, and an attachment to Amy's son, Louis (Savion Glover). He makes a stop at the dance studio to visit with them.

When he hears Little Mo's plans for him to return to tap dancing he refuses to consider it.

He points to the little group around the table, living in past glory with legs that probably have lost their ability to perform.

With that, Little Mo shouts "Challenge" and to a man they all get up and one of the most electrifying scenes in the movie takes place.

In a room bathed in yellow light, each one with his own particular style takes the floor in succession to try to top the performance of the preceding dancers.

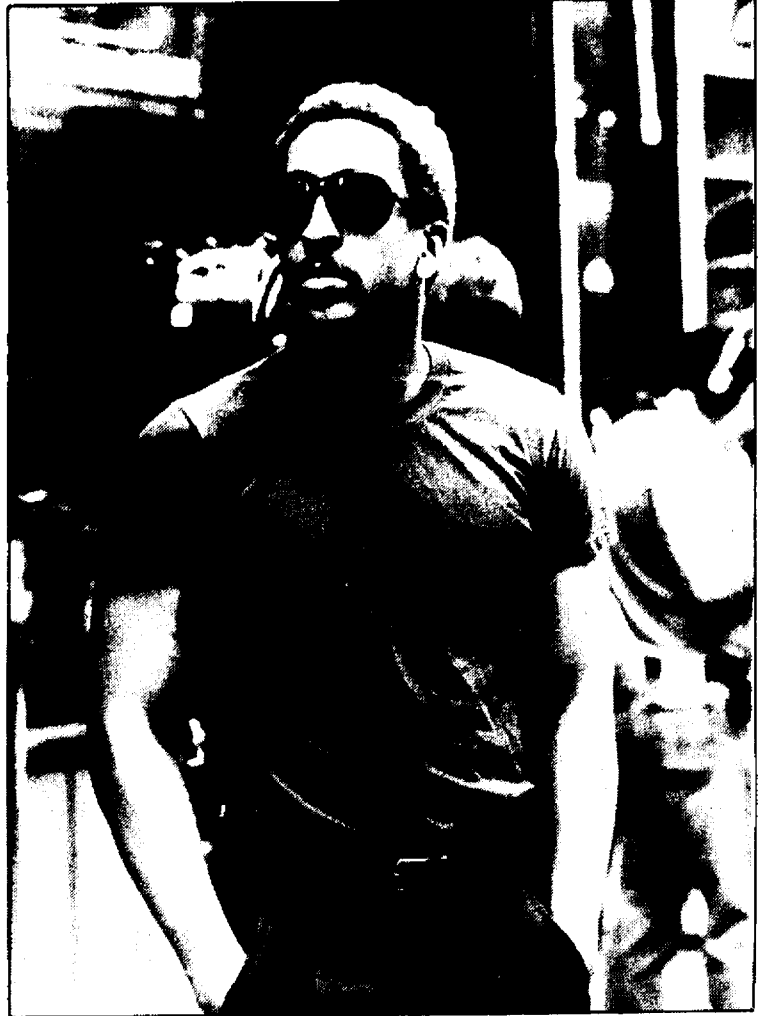

A stitched-together story of Max's ambivalence between the love of money and his urge to dance provides a background for some great dance scenes.

The choreography is inspired. Choreographer Henry LeTang, who was Hines' teacher and also young Glover's, has created some intricate numbers that give Hines an opportunity to show off his expressive tap style.

We see Max, like his father before him, taking his cues from the rhythms of the street, the sounds of construction machinery, of traffic, of sidewalk musicians.

"Tap" is brought into the immediate present in a Tap-tronics routine at a rock 'n' roll bar. Max's shoes are wired into a sound system and we hear, feel and see every one of Max's steps pounding out rhythmic intricacies above the drums.

Not unexpectedly, Gregory Hines is the film's drawing card and it is an ace. He pushes tap dancing to the limit to give a fantastic performance.

Max Washington (Gregory Hines) has been raised to do one thing in life — tap dance — but he's always preferred fast money instead. He returns home to be challenged by the expectations of the family and dance community he left behind in "Tap."

'Fly II' not worth the admission price

By Michael Chapp
Special Writer

It was inevitable. "The Fly" was successful at the box office a few years ago, so the Powers That Be in Hollywood have decided to bring us another chapter.

Not that anyone particularly wanted a second chapter. Even those who liked the original had little reason to want more, since the story was wrapped up very nicely the first time around. But money speaks louder than art, meaning that movie decisions are generally economic rather than artistic.

And the fact that there's no story to tell is insignificant, since there's money to be made.

This time around, in "The Fly II," Eric Stoltz plays Martin, the son of Seth Brundle, who accidentally metamorphosized himself into a fly in the first film. Martin was born in the custody of a large scientific corporation, which is interested only in watching the development.

It seems the corporation knows that Martin will turn into a fly — just like his father did — once he reaches puberty. The big question is whether Martin will figure out his fate in time, and whether he'll figure out what the company is planning to do with him before it's too late.

Helping Martin in his discovery process is Beth (Daphne Zuniga), who is to Martin what Gina Davis was to Jeff Goldblum in the first film — friend, lover and collaborator. Zuniga's presence in the film provides some romantic interest, albeit limited.

Indeed, that is the film's biggest difficulty. "Fly II" has none of the human interest that characterized the first picture. And while the original tended to get bogged down in its early expository segments, at least we cared about the people being affected.

In this film, we care little about Martin because we don't know enough about him. He's a freak show waiting to happen, and little more.

Film

Blame the screenwriters for this shortcoming, however, not Stoltz. In the first half of the film, he does his best to develop a character that is as three-dimensional as one could reasonably expect. It's noteworthy that Stoltz's most memorable role before this was as a severely deformed teenager in "Mask." As well as anyone, Stoltz has an ability to communicate emotion through massive amounts of makeup.

The problem is, of course, that the emotion he's asked to communicate in this picture is artificial at best and downright preachy at worst. The film is a constant commercial against big business, setting up corporate honchos as the bad guys.

The first film pitted Brundlefly against himself. This one pits Brundlefly II against the world. Aside from some nifty special effects and gruesome stomach-turners, there's little that's unique or exciting here.

That means the only thing left is the Brundlefly II-against-the-Establishment scenario. And as everyone knows, Me-Against-The-World films are a dime a dozen.

Attic presents 'Measure for Measure'

The Attic Theatre's next presentation will be an innovative production of Shakespeare's "Measure for Measure," directed by associate artistic director Ronald Martell.

The high tech look of the set and costume designs support Martell's contention that "Measure's" themes are universal, and that contemporary placement gives them the present day focus which Shakespeare's sought in his own time.

The show, the Attic's largest undertaking this season, opens Friday, Feb. 24 and runs through March 19. "Measure for Measure" is co-sponsored by ANR Pipeline.

One of Shakespeare's darker "comedies," and written about three years after "Hamlet," the play confronts the problems of legislating morality, corruption in government and sexual politics.

The plot, typical of Shakespeare's comedies, involves a variety of deceptions and disguises. A ruler (the Duke), whose strong laws exceed his ability to execute them, places in his stead a deputy (Angelo) to carry out justice.

The self-righteous Angelo makes his first power play the condemnation to death of a man (Claudio) who has impregnated his (Claudio's) fiancée (Juliet). Claudio's sister, Isabella, about to enter a convent, pleads before Angelo for her brother's life.

Performance times and dates are: Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays at 8 p.m.; Saturdays at 5 and 9 p.m.; Sundays at 2:30 and 7 p.m.

Opening night is Friday, Feb. 24, and will be followed by an afterglow catered by On Stage. Preview performances are Wednesday and Thursday, Feb. 22 and 23, at 8 p.m.

101 PRAYERS

PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

Holy Spirit, you who make me see everything and who shows me the way to reach my ideal. You who give me the Divine Gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me and you who are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great the material desires may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones in your perpetual glory. Amen.
Thank you for your love towards me and my loved ones. Pray this prayer three consecutive days without asking your wish, after third day your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Then promise to publish this prayer as soon as your favor has been granted. Thank you for favors received. H.C.D.

Bill Gmiciener netted both Wings' goals, with Ralph Harik and Chris Auty drawing the assists. Nate Marshall did a fine job in the Wings' net.

Flames 3, Stars 3

The Flames came-from-behind in the final four minutes to earn the tie.

Eric Przepiorka had one goal and an assist, and Brewer and Shumaker added the other goals.

Kenny, Ascencio and Stars all had assists to complete the Flames' scoring.

Gorcezyka, who also had an assist, had one goal for the Stars, as did Hoban and Ball. Williams did a fine job in net for the Stars.

Magis 2, Bruins 1

Goalie Jeff Basta was the star for Major Magics with several great saves. Brad Drummy and Kate Calandro each scored an assisted goal for the win. Paul Rashid, Chris Robinson and Nick Allen played well for the winners.

Jordan Damm scored for the Bruins, on a pass from Ben Weaver and Matt Descamps. Jeff Kuester was tough in net.

Magics 1, Raiders 0

In the first playoff game of the year, Matt Fair was tough in net for the Ram's Horn Raiders, but the Magics' Angelo Laprana managed to sneak in the game's only goal.

Basta picked up the win in net and teammates Jack Donnelly and Justin Lariscy played well for Magics. Mike Getz and David Chapman played well for the Raiders.

Wings 4, Coney's 1

Patrick Manion scored the hat trick, while Christian Auty added the fourth goal. Elizabeth Auty added two assists and C.J. Lee earned the win between the pipes.

Kurt Faber tallied for the Coney's.

Talons 4, Raiders 2

The Talons' attack featured balanced scoring from Sarah Fox, Matt Borushko, Clint Carpenter and Adam Raab. Andrew Murphy and Rush Zimmerman assisted and Jimmy Christman got the win in net.

Mark Borushko, Joe Versical, Kyle Swanson and Ricky Meade skated well for Talons.

David Chapman scored his first two career goals in leading the Raiders. Anthony Curis assisted on both goals and Joey Baratta did a fine job in goal. Gene Baratta, Michael Curis, Ken Maratta and Matt Fair played well.

Talons 3, Coney's 0

Sarah Fox kept her scoring streak alive, and Murphy and Carpenter also added goals. Murphy and Fox assisted, with Christman getting the shutout in net. Ryan Durant, Mark Borushko, Jim Wood, Zimmerman, Swanson and Meade led the Talons' blue-line attack. Mary Meade and Joey Versical turned in strong performances.

Bill Van Fossen played well in the Coney's' net. Chris Holloway, Neil Komer, Walter Belenky, Brad Batesky and RT Wolney all had an on-standng game.

Squirt

Leafs 2, Devils 0

The Mr. Q Travel Leafs' goalie James Robinson earned the win over the Devils.

Nate Bayko, Tony Bommarito and Chris Amuden played well defensively. Kevin Kasiborski buried an unassisted goal, and Nick Wen found the net with Michael Shepard's pass.

Devils' goalie O'Dell Jackson played an outstanding game, while Paul Huebner, Sumeet Karnik and Matt Lariscy led an energetic Devils' attack.

Sharks 1, Canadians 0

Bob Meyers scored for the Sharks in the final three minutes.

Blake Kenny, Leo Salvaggio, George Massu, Danny Sylvester and Bela Rabbani played well for the Canadians.

Canadians 5, Blazers 2

Andrew Ricci and Geoff Kimmel combined for four goals, and George Massu scored once for the Canadians in this Little Caesars tourney.

Assists were dished out by Thomas, Semack, Ricci, Salvaggio, Blake Kenny, Tom Stroble (2) and Rabbani.

Tim Gorski scored twice for the Blazers.

DRIVE IN ELEGANCE

The English revere tradition. That's why Jaguars have always been swift and surefooted, and as elegant as a 400 year-old manor house.

The British have an affection for art and tradition and a motorcar that embodies both. The 1989 Jaguar XJ6.
