

Park EMS goes on line with automatic defibrillator

By John Minnis
Assistant Editor

Grosse Pointe Park put its first of two recently purchased automatic defibrillators into service July 1 and has already had one occasion to use it.

At 6:23 p.m. July 4, a Park officer saw a man lying on the front lawn of a home in the 1400 block of Beaconsfield. The 79-year-old man had no pulse. An emergency medical ambulance arrived and immediately connected the automatic external defibrillator, which uses wires and patches similar to an EKG unit.

The computerized defibrillator, however, informed the emergency medical technicians that the patient's heart had no activity whatsoever and no electric shock could then be administered to the patient.

The man was pronounced dead on arrival at Bon Secours Hospital. Police said it was not known how long the man had been down before he was spotted by the patrol officers.

While the automatic defibrillator couldn't help the man in this case, the instrument has the capability of increasing a heart attack victim's chances of survival some five times.

The automatic defibrillator, which costs $5,945, is programmed to American Heart Association protocols, according to Public Safety Officer Chris Powell, who has been coordinating the training of EMTs. The instrument evaluates the patient's condition and then administers an electric shock if warranted.

A taped voice in the machine warns the EMTs when an electric shock is about to be given and tells the medics to stand clear. An electric shock is used to get a heart that is beating irregularly (defibrillating) into a normal pattern.

The automated unit also has a minicassette recorder that records all voices near the patient, as well as the EKG and other data about the condition of the patient during the time the instrument was connected. Emergency room staff can then listen to how the treatment was given and review what the patient's vital signs were before getting to the hospital.

Dr. Ronald Laskowski, emergency room director at Bon Secours Hospital, said the average survival rate of heart attack vic-

Parking lot behind Hill shops to be rebuilt in mid-August

By Dan Jarvis
Staff Writer

Officials from the city of Grosse Pointe Farms have set a tentative date of Aug. 14 for construction to begin on the parking lot behind one block of shops on the Hill.

The lot, which now has 173 available parking spaces, will be increased to 197 spaces when the project is completed, said Farms City Clerk Richard Solak.

Though the city is still taking bids and has yet to choose a contractor for the job, general plans for the project have been agreed upon by council members and administration officials.

Besides the 24 additional parking spaces, current plans call for a ticket dispenser at the entrance gate, near St. James Lutheran Church on the McMillan side of the lot. Also, an attended exit booth will be installed at the north end of the lot, near the Cottage Hospital parking structure.

"Our objective is to maximize the number of parking spaces," Solak said. "We also are looking at the aesthetics of the area and the safety of pedestrians and drivers using the lot."

"The lot will be separated entirely from the alley so cars will not be exiting into the alley. The only way in or out of the lot will be through the gates on either end."

"We originally considered exiting into the alley, but cars exiting may block traffic in the alley and cause a safety problem."

As far as the aesthetics, the city council is considering the removal of several utility poles surrounding the lot and installing underground cables to serve the adjacent businesses. Cost for the utility re-routing could cost between $70,000 and $75,000.

Cost for the installation of the two gates, the attendant booth, ticket dispenser and landscaping improvements may cost approximately $20,000 to $25,000.

Landscaping costs will include improvements on walkway areas leading to the lot and the installation of additional lighting where needed, he said.

Drivers parking in the lot now pay about 20 cents per hour, Solak said, with meters ranging from 15 minutes to 10 hours. The new price for parking has yet to be determined by the council, with a decision expected at the Aug. 14 meeting.

During construction, the lot is expected to be closed for two to three weeks. Solak said a meeting will be called between the city, merchants and property owners who will be affected by the construction.

"If we had a contractor, we would know more about the logistics of the project."

Solak added that merchants and property owners would be informed of the meeting through mailings and through the Hill Association's monthly newsletter.

Pointer of Interest

Joseph L. Posch Jr.

Assistant Editor

Sometimes sons of highly successful men have a hard time living up to their fathers, but that's not the case for Joseph L. Posch Jr. of Grosse Pointe Shores.

You might say Posch, 43, followed in his father's footsteps, but then again, he found his own way for success as well.

Posch Jr. as president and chief executive officer of Doctors Hospital on East Jefferson in Detroit's booming Rivertown district is a nationally recognized hospital administrator.

Posch Sr., also a Shores resident, is one of the nation's foremost hand surgeons.

So while Posch followed his father's path into the health care industry, he did so as an administrator, not as a doctor — although around Doctors Hospital he is respectfully called Dr. Posch.

Posch holds a doctorate in research statistics from Wayne State University. He said he earned the statistics degree to complement his MBA from Xavier University in Cincinnati. He also has a bachelor's degree in biology and mathematics from Mercy College.

His interest in math and statistics says a lot about Posch's management style. At a time when hospitals are working under tighter budgets, numbers play a crucial role in successful hospital management. Posch said he likes to make decisions based on objective, rather than subjective, information.

While relying on numbers and facts for decision-making, Posch is not aloof and calculating as a manager of people. He said his secret to management is to "have a soul."

Posch said he took the position at Doctors Hospital because of the challenge. Although he's only been on the job since May 1, he already has a firm grasp on the hospital's bottom line and

Blood needed

The Grosse Pointe Community Blood Council will sponsor a blood drive Thursday, July 27, at the War Memorial from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

There is a critical shortage of blood, especially type O-positive. People between 17 and 65 in good health are probably eligible to donate blood. Those up to age 70 who have been regular donors and have their doctor's written approval are eligible.

Babysitters and transportation will be available. For more information, call 884-5542 evenings.

Former Shores finance officer sentenced

$27,000 restitution to be paid

By John Minnis
Assistant Editor

The former Grosse Pointe Shores finance officer who pleaded guilty to embezzlement in January was ordered last week to pay the village $27,000 in restitution and court costs.

Patsy Mislinski, 43, who was employed by the Shores from September 1984 to July 1987, embezzled some $38,000 from the Shores township and village and Lake Township, officials said.

Mislinski must pay the Shores $6,000 of the $27,000 before the end of the year, with the remaining $21,000 to be paid off in equal installments over the next four years.

On July 11, Detroit Recorder's Judge Michael Talbot also put Mislinski on five years probation and ordered her to put in 500 hours in community service. She had no prior criminal history before facing embezzlement charges in the Shores.

In January, Mislinski pleaded guilty to one charge of embezzlement. She was originally charged with one count of embezzlement from Lake Township and three counts of embezzlement from the Shores.

After her guilty plea in January, she was ordered to repay $1,900 to Lake Township.

According to Shores attorney Ralph Houghton, Mislinski embezzled funds by failing to deposit cash payments made by residents for tax and water bills. She also took cash paid to the court for fines, and she failed to make quarterly payments to the state for employee withholding taxes, Houghton said.

The Michigan Exchange Security Commission has credited the Shores for $5,900, which Mislinski had to pay back to the MESC.

The $5,900 credit, $1,900 repaid to Lake Township, $22,000 restitution to be paid to the Shores and the $5,000 recovered court costs brings the Shores total amount recovered to $34,800. Even though the amount recovered is less than the estimated loss of $38,000, Shores officials are satisfied with the settlement and sentencing reached by Judge Talbot.

"Under the circumstances, we are satisfied with the court's ruling," said Village Manager Michael Kenyon. He said Mislinski was dismissed by the Shores when it was determined that she was responsible for missing cash.

The Michigan State Police municipal fraud division helped with the investigation.

Under the felony embezzlement charge, Mislinski could have been sentenced to up to 10 years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

Boy's drawing opens door to oceanography institute

By Ronald J. Bernas
Staff Writer

It was two years ago that Donny Pierce sent his pencil drawing of an underwater habitat to Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution, the nation's leading oceanographic study institute.

"I really enjoyed the ocean and I read a lot of books about oceanography, and I made a design of this underwater habitat," he said.

The habitat was a series of Plexiglas domes attached to the bottom of the ocean, connected by Plexiglas tubes which encased escalator-like transportation devices.

There was a dormitory, a cafeteria and a catch-and-observe aquarium which could be opened to capture fish and other aquatic life, then closed to allow the subjects to stay in their natural environment and studied, then set free.

The creator said a team of scientists could probably live there — provided there were enough supplies — for at least a month.

"When I was done, I looked in one of my books, I think it was the glossary, and I found the address to Woods Hole, so I sent it to them," he said. "I was sort of wondering what would happen when they got it."

What happened was he got a letter from Rick Chandler, sub-mersible operations coordinator for the ALVIN group at the institute.

In that letter, Chandler talked about ALVIN, an 18-ton submersible Navy-owned oceanographic facility, and explained that the pressure on the bottom of the ocean prevents man from colonizing the ocean floor because the pressure a quarter mile under water is equal to the pressure of a car's weight on a postage stamp.

"Engineers are presently studying ways to strengthen the materials we use underwater, and eventually we may be able to construct a design such as yours. In the meantime, I will add your drawing to our archive collection...someday you may see it in the Smithsonian Museum as the original habitat design!" the letter continued.

Donny said he designed the habitat to allow 24-hour study of the ocean floor. Currently, the time it takes a submersible, like ALVIN, to get to the ocean floor and back leaves only a few hours a day available for study.

The then-8-year-old Donny and Chandler became pen pals. The two finally met when most of the family, at Chandler's request, traveled to Woods Hole. The family toured ALVIN, which was undergoing its bi-yearly cleaning and tune-up, and Atlantis II, the 64-meter ship that carries and launches ALVIN.

"It was exciting," said Donny, who is now 10, "but when I saw ALVIN and how complex it was and I looked at the simplicity of my design...I mean there were circuit boards as big as that table. But my dad told me that all the things were done little by little, then combined to make ALVIN, so I tried to think about that."

Tommy, who helps his brother find books about oceanography and enjoys watching science shows on the ocean that the two tape, said he enjoyed the trip too.

"The Atlantis II was so big," he said. "It was like a freighter. I didn't know it was so big. It was neat."

In February Donny and his father saw noted ocean explorer Dr. Robert Ballard when he gave a talk in Detroit. Ballard is the scientist who discovered the Titanic a few years back and last month discovered the Bismarck.

"I got to shake hands with him," Donny said proudly.

"Because of Donny's interest, it's become a family hobby," said the boy's mother. "He keeps pursuing it, and we gave him the opportunity to have a dream come true by going to Woods Hole. The institute encourages young students who are interested in science, so maybe they will continue in their interests."

"I think I will stay with it (studying the ocean)," Donny said.

Younger brother Tommy isn't so sure he will, however he said he will continue to help his brother with projects relating to oceanography.

Tommy, left, and Donny Pierce, of Grosse Pointe Woods, got a tour of Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution in Woods Hole, Mass., thanks to Donny's interest in the sea.

Voters' league sets agenda

"Helping people get involved in government, getting an informed citizenry out to vote — that's what the League of Women Voters is all about," said Kay McDonald, co-president of the Grosse Pointe League, this week in an update on the group's current $3,000 fund drive. She said initial response to the campaign has been positive, but a little slow.

Many organizations campaign around heart-tugging tales of victims, violence or illness. McDonald noted, adding that while the league's request is not as emotional, it does have its own tug — one of this country's most basic privilege, the right to vote.

In the past year, people around the world in countries such as Poland, El Salvador and China have demonstrated, rioted and even died for this right — to vote and to have a say in their government.

League members throughout the United States work hard to support that right. The league operates on the premise that the American form of government functions well only when citizens are informed about and involved in the government process. To this end, the Grosse Pointe LWV provides Grosse Pointe and Harper Woods residents free printed, non-partisan election information on issues and candidates.

This year, the league plans to publish 12,000 non-partisan Voter Guides for June school and November municipal elections and to hold candidate and issue forums for contested elections and ballot proposals.

Financial help from the community makes it possible for the league to meet these goals. Finance Chair Fran Higbee said, stressing that funds collected locally are used in the community.

She asks that contributions be mailed to League of Women Voters, 32 Lakeshore, in care of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. Contributions may go to the GPLWV Education Fund or to the League itself or both. Money sent to the fund is tax-deductible.

Karen Opdyke, league co-president with McDonald, listed some of the local community projects completed in 1988-89:

- Distribution of information on issues and candidates in school elections;

- Published and distributed Voters Guides, including background on candidates and ballot proposals;

- Sent out a special Voters Guide to all residents in the Shores — the only contested election in the Pointes last spring;

- Conducted a get-out-the-vote and voter registration drives;

- Gave out 4,000 copies of "Your Government Officials" listing names and addresses of all elected officials representing this area. Members also lobbied for issues studied and supported by the league.

League membership is open to all women and men over 18 years of age. For further information, call 886-3078.

Park hires new officers

Two new public safety officers were hired by Grosse Pointe Park recently and will begin training at the Detroit Police Academy this month.

Nick Neamonitis, 25, is married and was recently honorably discharged from the Marine Corps as a military police officer. He has an associate's degree in law enforcement.

Jeffrey Milke, 20, has served for the past year as a cadet on the Macomb Community College Public Safety Department. He too has an associate's degree in law enforcement.

Corrections

Corrections will be printed on this page every week. If there is an error of fact in any story, call the newsroom at 882-0294.

A story in the July 13 issue of the Grosse Pointe News should have said that Margaret Anne Durant received a $7,500 scholarship to attend University Liggett Middle School.

A photograph on page 3B of the July 13 issue of the Grosse Pointe News should have identified Sigma Gamma party-goers as Mary Baubie and Lloyd Marantette.

The obituary for Andrew Kerr Bucciero in the July 13 issue should have said that his ashes were interred in the Grosse Pointe Memorial Church columbarium. Also, he is survived by his nieces, Lindsey and Ashley Knott.

Schools among 250 that don't measure up, state says

By Ronald J. Bernas
Staff Writer

The Grosse Pointe School District is one of more than 250 in the state that don't meet state board of education recommendations on minimum graduation requirements, but at least one local official isn't worried.

"We're not panicking over this," said Roger McCaig, director of research and evaluation. "We'll look into it, though."

The state board recommended in 1984 that all 524 school districts in the state require at least the following for graduation:

- 3 years of communications, which could include English, writing and speech;
- 2 years of science;
- 2 years of mathematics;
- 1 year of physical education;
- 1/2 year of computer education, and
- 3 years of social science, which includes history.

It is in the final two that the Grosse Pointe schools do not meet the recommendations. It exceeds the communications recommendation by one year, however, and also requires 1-1/2 years of fine and practical arts, for which the state has no recommendations.

Grosse Pointe does not require any computer education, and requires 2-1/2 years of social studies.

More than 82 percent of the students in Grosse Pointe take three years of social sciences anyway, McCaig said.

"It is true that we don't require a course in computers, but you have to find out what they mean by computer class. Do they mean word processing, because students get that in some classes, or do they mean programming classes?"

He said there were no figures on how many 1988 graduates took computer classes. The 1989 numbers are not in yet.

He also said the board's strategic plan, to be presented to the board later this year, will cover the state recommendations at the middle school level. That would not cover any new student entering at the high school level, but a catch-up class would be part of the strategic plan.

"The recommendations tend to sound better than they are," McCaig said. "It's one thing to require two or three years of one thing, but it's another to look at the quality and rigor of what's offered. Our reality is way above the state levels."

McCaig says most Grosse Pointe students exceed the minimum requirements, and that the courses they take are more challenging than they need to be to meet the state recommendations.

For example, most students take a semester more than the four-year local recommendation, McCaig said.

And the trend is the same in most other categories.

In math, 97 percent of the graduates took at least one year of college-bound algebra, when a basic arithmetic course would fulfill the recommendation.

In science — Grosse Pointe calls for one year each of life and physical sciences — 75 percent of the graduates took three years, 37 percent took four years of science and 10 percent took five or more years of science.

Although neither the state nor local boards have a requirement on foreign language studies, 82 percent of all Grosse Pointe students had studied a foreign language for one year, and 31 percent had taken four years by the time they left school.

Additionally, the state recommendations call for 210 credits for graduation, but more than 90 percent of the graduates leave with 230 credits, and 75 percent leave with 245 credits.

"You have to keep requirements in check," McCaig said, adding that the requirements made by the local districts must be broad enough so all students, including the special education students, can meet them.

If they toughen up the requirements, McCaig said two things would happen.

First, there would have to be two sets of requirements; one for special education students and one for the other students, which would also mean differentiated diplomas would be given, depending on which requirements the students met.

Secondly, tougher requirements would mean programs like art, music and vocational education would be severely hurt, because the more required classes, the less chance for students to take electives or study special interests.

"When the state makes an announcement like that, we need to pay attention and to look at our requirements again," he said. "But we're not going to be too worried. We have a good program."

Superintendent John Whitner and school board President Jon Gandelot were out of town and could not be reached for comment.

programs. He also served as ethnic liaison between the Republican National Committee and various ethnic groups.

In 1984-85, he served first as an intern and then as staff assistant for ethnic affairs in the Office of Public Liaison at the White House. Before starting his own political career, he worked in the Ruppe for U.S. Senate and Caputo for Congress campaigns.

He has worked in the family business, Valente's Men's Formal Wear, as controller and he also served as law clerk in the firm of Thomas, Garvey & Garvey, P.C.

A lifelong resident of Grosse Pointe Park, Valente graduated from Villanova University and has served as an alumni representative since 1981. He holds a juris doctor degree from the University of Detroit Law School. He and the former Claudia Marie Barker of Grosse Pointe Shores were married last year.

Trinidad Tripoli Steel Band

Enjoy the sounds of the West Indies

The internationally acclaimed Trinidad Tripoli Steel Band performs the final concert of the War Memorial's Sounds of Summer outdoor series, Thursday, July 27 at 8 p.m.

Under the direction of Hugh Borde, the group plays a repertoire that ranges from classical to rock, mixed with exciting calypso and reggae, all on oil drums.

The use of steel drums began following World War II when the natives of Trinidad created instruments out of abandoned oil drums to play their native Calypso music. Today's band is an outgrowth of the original group formed in Port-of-Spain, Trinidad.

Tickets for the performance are $6.50 each or $15 for a package of three tickets good for any concert series. Appearing tonight at 8 p.m. are the Sun Messengers.

War Memorial grounds open at 6:30 p.m. Bring a lawn chair or blanket and a picnic supper to enjoy prior to the concert. Tickets are available at the door or in advance at the War Memorial front desk, daily, 9 a.m.-9 p.m.

Outdoor concert

Grosse Pointe Community Concert Band will perform an outdoor concert Thursday, July 27, at 7:30 p.m.

The program will feature Sousa marches, "Raider's March," selections from "The Sound of Music" and "The Wizard of Oz," "Lady of Spain," and compositions by Holst and Grainger.

The concert will be held on the front lawn of South High School, weather permitting, or in the auditorium if it rains. Admission is free and audience members should bring lawn chairs.

The 60-member concert band is sponsored by Grosse Pointe Community Education and was founded last year by Director Ralph Miller, instrumental music director at North and South high schools. Musicians interested in playing with the band this summer can call 343-2178 for information.

Chenille Sisters next in summer music series

Be ready for an evening of music, warmth and wit when Connie Huber, Grace Morand and Cheryl Dawdy bring their show to the shores of Lake St. Clair, Monday, July 24 at 8 p.m.

The Ann Arbor-based trio, better known as the Chenille Sisters, performs on the War Memorial's lakeside terrace as part of the center's annual Summer Music Festival.

Represented by Donna Zajonc Management, Connie, Grace and Cheryl first performed together as the Chenille Sisters in 1985. Since then, they've appeared on Voice of America, on two live broadcasts of National Public Radio's "A Prairie Home Companion" with Garrison Keillor, numerous college campuses, folk clubs and festivals around the country. Most recently the harmonizing nonisters opened for Andy Williams at Meadowbrook.

Their repertoire is eclectic, moving easily from jazz to folk to country to pop to Motown; punctuated with hilarious skits and impromptu banter.

A performance was described by one reviewer who wrote that "the Chenilles' combination of '70s nostalgia by way of the 1940s', mild counterculture humor, coupled with their pose as the world's most successful nerds, made for an uncomplicated evening of good, clean fun.

Tickets for the Chenille Sisters' Grosse Pointe performance are $10, reserved; $6.50 lawn admission and children under 12, half price. Lawn ticket holders should bring lawn chairs or blankets.

War Memorial grounds open at 6:30 p.m. for picnics. Concertgoers are invited to bring suppers from home or purchase them from the War Memorial at $7 each. Supper reservations are due by Friday, July 21 at 5 p.m. A menu of fried chicken, pasta salad, fresh fruit cup and homemade molasses cookies has been chosen.

Tickets are available at the War Memorial front desk daily, except Sundays, 9 a.m.-9 p.m., or at the door the evening of the concert. MC/VISA accepted. Charge by phone, Monday through Saturday, 9 a.m.-5 p.m. A minimum order of $20 plus 50 cents handling is required on phone orders. Call 881-7511.

Summer Music Festival is a six-concert outdoor series, now in its 32nd year. Concerts are held rain or shine. In the event of inclement weather, concerts will be held indoors with seating not guaranteed for lawn ticket holders.

City's mayor challenged on birthday issue

With local elections coming up in four of the Pointes in November, early interest has been aroused in a possible contest for mayor of the City of Grosse Pointe as a result of the controversy over the date the municipality was founded.

Even though Councilwoman Myrna Smith lost her dispute with Mayor Lorenzo Browning and the majority of the council over the date of the founding of the City, she still plans to sponsor an ice cream and cake anniversary party at Neff Park on Aug. 26 and to run against Browning for mayor in November.

The council presumably put an end to the anniversary controversy last week when it officially established 1893 as the founding date for what is known today as the City of Grosse Pointe. Ms. Smith had contended that the centennial celebration ought to be held this year, making the argument the City really had its beginnings in 1889.

Whether politics fueled the dispute or not, there did seem to be evidence to support each side, but the council action will give the City of Grosse Pointe four years to prepare for its centennial celebration. Since the Farms also recognizes 1893 as its founding year, a joint celebration would appear to be in order for the two adjoining Pointes.

Opinion

In winning a seat on the council two years ago, Ms. Smith proved that she was a capable campaigner. After claiming she had been passed over for appointment to a council vacancy earlier that year, she filed and was elected after a spirited campaign that led to the defeat of a veteran councilman.

She based much of her campaign on her criticism of the council's practice of accepting resignations from council members who wished to retire and then appointing successors who would run as incumbents when the next election occurred. As a result of that practice, a majority of the council had first been appointed to office before being elected.

If she follows through on her intention to file for mayor this year, however, she will be facing a veteran in "Red" Browning who just yesterday celebrated his 18th anniversary of service to the City. He began as a council member on July 19, 1971, and served until appointed mayor in 1983, so he has had about 12 years of service on the council and six as mayor, being re-elected to his current post three times without opposition.

Browning's recollection of what happened in 1987 is somewhat different from

Ms. Smith's. He said the council had been interviewing possible candidates for several weeks and was about ready to announce the appointment of Susan Wheeler when Ms. Smith said she would like to fill the council vacancy.

In effect, Ms. Smith had made known her interest in the position too late to be seriously considered by the council for appointment to the post, in the mayor's view.

One Grosse Pointe mayoral contest is already assured in the Park where Dutch Hendricks, president and owner of Hendricks & Associates Realtors in the Farms, has filed to challenge Mayor Palmer T. Heenan who is seeking his fourth term. This is expected to be an interesting match-up since both men have been active in Republican politics at the state and national levels as well as locally.

But the Park, which traditionally provides campaign fireworks, is expected to do so again in several other contests. Former Municipal Judge Beverly C. Grobbel is seeking to regain her old job from Municipal Judge Kirsten Frank, who was elected in 1987 to fill the vacancy created when Ms. Grobbel resigned.

In addition, five challengers and one incumbent, James E. Robson Jr., have filed for the three council posts to be filled in November. Two veterans, Carroll F. Evola and Mark Valente III, are retiring from the council. Challengers are Dean Peter Valente, Mark's younger brother, Art Williams, Beverly Miller, Nancy Pilorget and Valerie Moran.

In the Farms, Joseph L. Fromm, mayor since 1986 and council member since 1973, is one of six candidates who have filed for the four council seats to be filled. The council picks the mayor after the election.

The other incumbents running are John Crowley, for a second term, and Gail Kaess, for a third term. Councilman Bruce Rockwell is not seeking re-election. Challengers in the Farms are Leroy H. Wulfmeier III, John E. Danaher Jr. and John F. DeHayes Jr.

A contest is also assured for municipal judge with three candidates challenging Municipal Judge Matthew R. Rumora. They are Paul C. Gracey, Gene Casazza and Richard G. Roosen. With four candidates in the field, a primary will be required Aug. 8.

The filing period in both the Woods and the City will close later. In the Woods, the closing date will be Sept. 11 and in the City it will be Oct. 14. Complete filings for mayoral and council positions won't be known until then. Terms of municipal judges in those two communities run until 1991.

Grosse Pointe Shores apparently set the tone for this year's local elections in the Pointes with a spirited May campaign for the council that even involved a write-in candidate. As a village, the Shores votes at a different time than the four Pointe cities do.

To curtail teenage drinking

Disrupted by holidays and vacations, the editorial page has been delinquent in failing to pay timely tribute to its colleagues in the news department for the successful completion of the Grosse Pointe News' superb year-long series on Adolescents and Alcohol.

In single-page and double-page layouts in nine issues of the Grosse Pointe News running through the school year, the news staff put together testimonials, features, factual information and reports of various kinds that placed the alcohol threat to adolescents in proper perspective.

The News was given excellent cooperation by Grosse Pointe school officials, especially the substance abuse counselors at the high schools, as well as by representatives of such organizations as Mothers Against Drunk Driving, Students Against Drunk Driving, the Substance Abuse Community Council, Parent to Parent for Prevention, the Neighborhood Club and the police departments of all the Pointes.

Better late than never

At long last, the U.S. government has honored George Kennan, distinguished diplomat, historian and prize-winning author, by giving him the Presidential Medal of Freedom, the nation's highest civilian award.

It's an honor that is long past due because more than 25 years have elapsed since Kennan, one of the nation's first modern experts on the Soviet Union, completed his last government assignment, as ambassador to Yugoslavia from 1961 to 1963.

It would be fascinating to know what prompted President George Bush to honor Kennan after so many years of neglect by Republican administrations. Perhaps it was Kennan's own comment in his new book, "Sketches from a Life," in which he expressed appreciation for Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev's personal tribute at a luncheon in Washington.

After giving Kennan a bear hug, Gorbachev said, according to Kennan's account, "We in our country believe that a man may be the friend of another country and remain, at the same time, a loyal and devoted citizen of his own; and that is the way we view you."

Kennan described it as an "extraordinarily gracious and tactful statement," and then added the remark that may have alerted Washington to do its long-overdue duty:

"I reflected that if you cannot have this sort of recognition from your own government to ring down your involvement in such a relationship, it is nice to have it at least from the one-time adversary."

Among his many assignments, Kennan had served as ambassador to the Soviet Union, but after the USSR expelled him from the country, Secretary of State John

The purpose of the final feature on June 29 was to re-emphasize the threat that alcohol offers to the young people of the Grosse Pointes. It is, as Doug Merkle, substance abuse counselor at Grosse Pointe North, said last October, "the major drug abused in Grosse Pointe."

But the message should be read by adults as well as young people. As Susan Pearce, substance abuse counselor at Grosse Pointe South, told us last fall, "Outrageous public drunken behavior is acceptable in American life," a fact that sends the wrong message to our children.

Time and again, people have told us that the News campaign heightened public and especially parent awareness of the teenage drinking problem. We hope that is true but we believe that even greater sensitivity will alleviate the threat to our young people. That, of course, is the basic reason the Grosse Pointe News embarked on the program last fall.

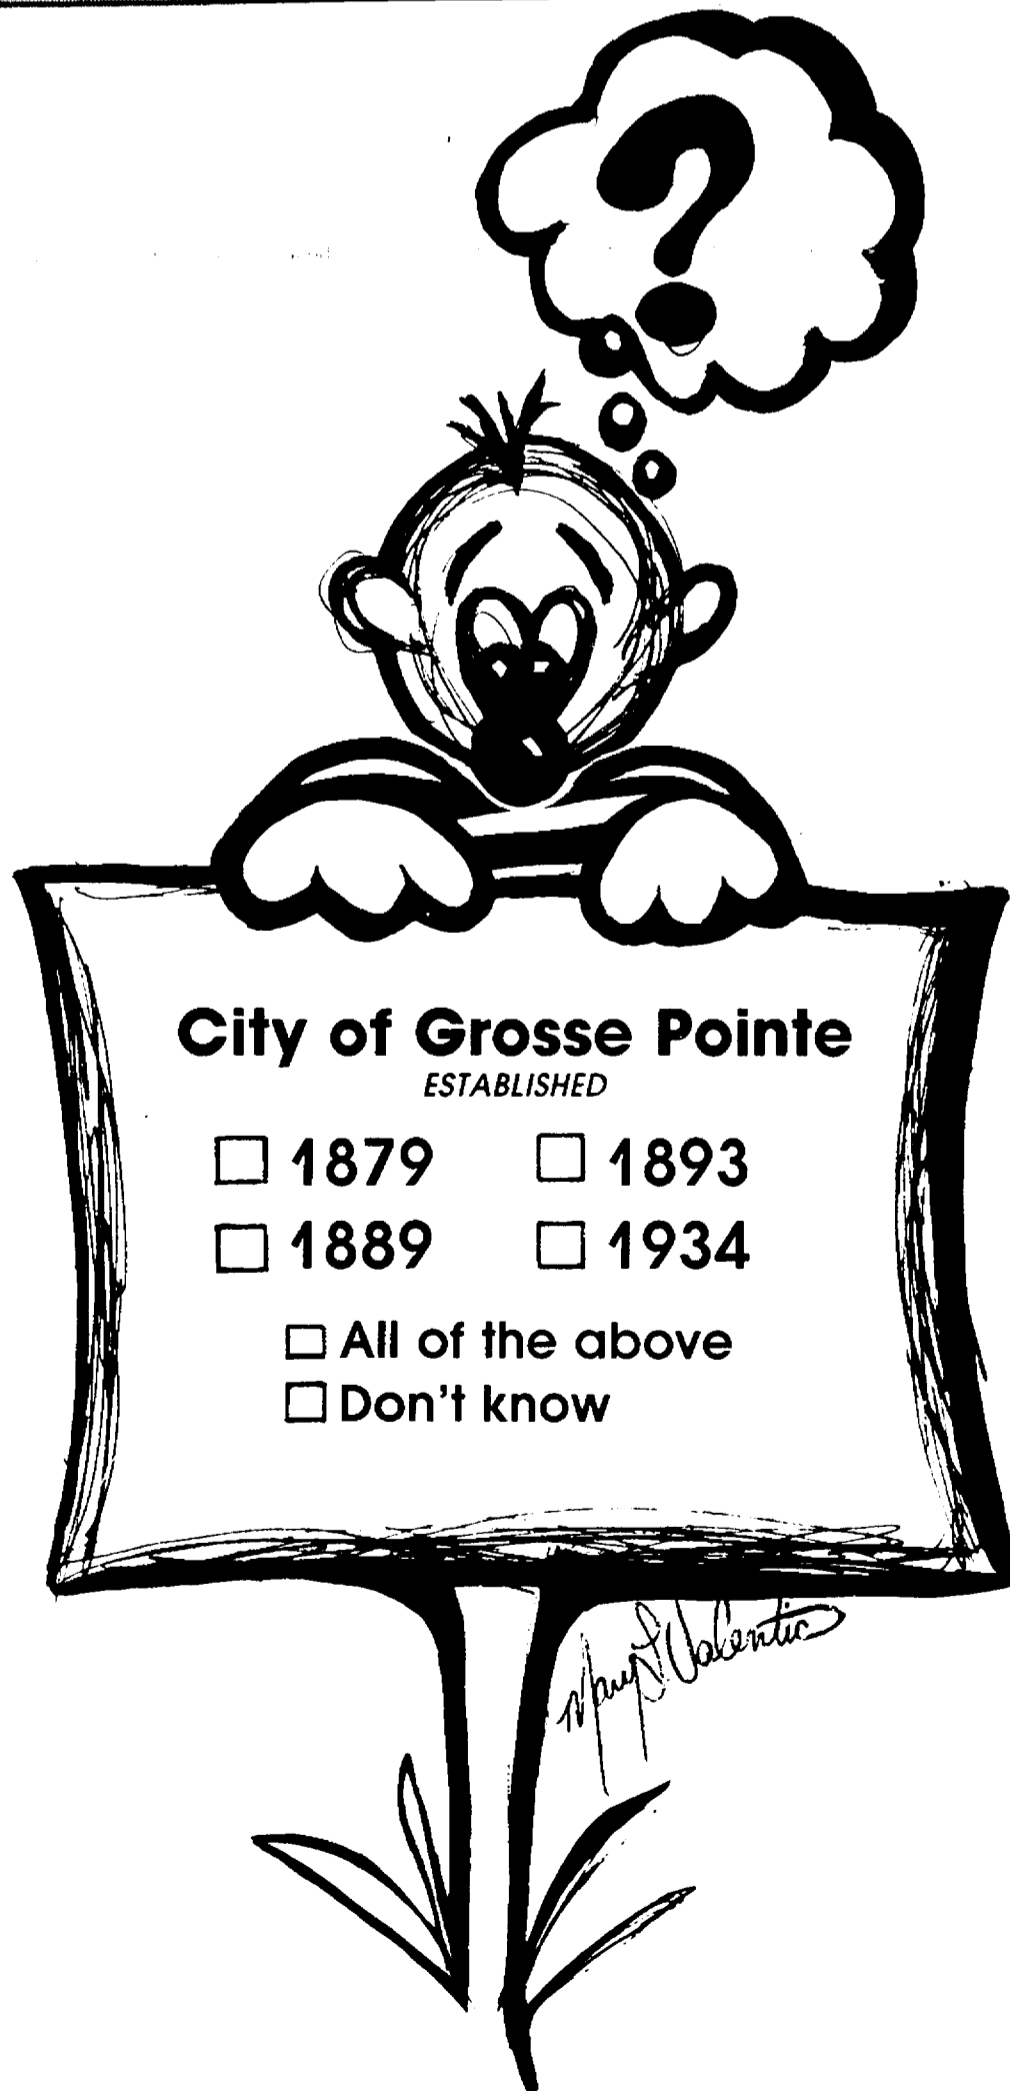

Foster Dulles removed Kennan from the American Foreign Service. His return to an ambassador's role in Yugoslavia came under President John F. Kennedy and Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

With the United States now apparently heading for a new relationship with the USSR, it was appropriate for President Bush to say in presenting the award that Kennan, now 85, was "truly a visionary" on U.S.-USSR relations. In fact, Kennan accompanied the first U.S. ambassador to the USSR, William C. Bullitt, to Moscow when the United States recognized the USSR back in 1933.

Even before that, in 1928, Kennan had accepted a State Department offer of an appointment as the first foreign service officer to receive special training for service in Russia.

Author of more than 15 books on diplomatic and foreign policy issues, he also wrote a celebrated article in Foreign Affairs magazine back in 1946 under the pseudonym, Mr. X. In it, Kennan outlined a U.S. policy of containment of Soviet Union expansionism by the "adroit and vigilant application of counterforce at constantly shifting geographical and political points." He later contended, however, that the Truman Doctrine, which embodied the idea, was "more grandiose and sweeping" and military in scope than he had envisaged.

Yet today Kennan must feel some satisfaction at the current state of relations between the United States and the Soviet Union. Containment did work and the Cold War is winding down, in part, surely, because of Kennan's early efforts to improve U.S. understanding of the USSR and its aims and ambitions.

Now we're smokin'

Smoking is a filthy, grotesque habit.

That said, I think it's now safe to say that as a whole, I like people who smoke better than people who don't.

And I don't smoke. But I always wish I did. There are some notable exceptions, but as a general rule, it holds true for me. There's something so...right about doing something so...wrong.

Have you ever watched a person smoke? I do, all the time. In a restaurant or in a park I watch the face. Notice the vacant, almost trance-like stare. It is a look of utter despair, or of perfect peace. Or a combination of the two.

I once fell in love with a beautiful woman in an airport just because she exhaled the smoke through her nose. I could watch that all day.

When I was 16 I decided to start smoking. When my cooking shift at a local restaurant ended, I stopped in the front lobby of the restaurant at the cigarette machine. I surveyed my choices and chose a pack of Parliaments. I can't remember why I chose those, I think it was because no one I knew smoked that brand and I wanted to be different. And besides, if other people didn't like my brand, they wouldn't bum any off me.

So I took the cigarettes — my ticket to a cool, new me — home, knowing full well no one was going to be there. I took a shower to get rid of the smell of grease that anyone who works in a restaurant brings home. I put on clean clothes. I put on some music. I didn't want anything to get in the way of the pure pleasure I knew this cigarette would bring me.

I Say

Ronald J. Bernas

I sat on the deck in the backyard and looked at my reflection in the door wall window. I watched myself as I pounded the unopened package into my palm to pack them like I had seen so many people do. I even slouched a little. James Dean don't ya know.

After I had watched myself do that for a while I casually — ooh, so casually — opened the package and pulled one out. I put it to my mouth and watched myself — ooh, so casually — light a match and put it to the tip of the cigarette. I inhaled, waiting for the peace and self-assuredness I knew smoking would bring me.

Then I watched myself — ooh, so casually — cough. And cough and cough.

When the coughing stopped, I inhaled again, knowing I would achieve that peace. But the only peace I felt was spelled differently and was a part of my lung. So, while I waited for the nausea to pass, I — ooh, so casually — put out the cigarette and threw not only that, but the entire pack away — in the bottom of the garbage so mom and dad wouldn't see — and then I got a Coke to kill the nasty taste in my mouth.

So I've always admired people who smoke — most people who smoke. Just like I admire most people who have stopped smoking, because I've put up with people who have tried to quit, but didn't succeed.

Whenever I'm at a function and the smokers can only stay in a certain area, I'd rather hang out there, with the smokers. Maybe some of that calm they get from their cigarettes will rub off.

If you want to watch someone who really knows how to smoke, get an old Bette Davis movie. Wow, that woman can light 'em up. She knows exactly when to exhale, accentuating her point. And the look in her eyes when Paul Henreid lit two cigarettes and gave her one. A guy could love a woman like that. This one does.

That's why it bothers me when buildings and offices have smoking rooms. It transforms a thing of quiet dignity and peace into a dirty little habit done in back alleys and dark corners.

I wonder what Bette would do if a snotty, uptight non-smoker told her that her cigarette was bothering him.

I can imagine the cold-as-ice look as she said — ooh, so casually — "What a pity." Stressing the h. Spitting out the p.

Noted humorist Fran Lebowitz once said: "Smoking is, as far as I am concerned, the entire point of being an adult. Many people find smoking objectionable. I myself find many — even more — things objectionable. I do not like aftershave lotion, adults who rollerskate, children who speak French or anyone who is unduly tan. I do not, however, go around enacting legislation and putting up signs."

Some day I may try to take up smoking again. Or maybe I won't. But I think I'll still hang around those who smoke. And suck in all the second-hand peace I can get.

Dogs

To the Editor:

Isn't there a regulation in the city of Grosse Pointe pertaining to dog-walkers about a leash and carrying a scooper with bag?

I find it extremely disgusting to see lawns and boulevard strips dotted here and there with nauseating piles of dog wastes. Grosse Pointe has always been known for its beauty and may it remain so! Gross violation of sanitation and property owners' (who must also maintain the surrounding boulevard strips) rights is disgraceful.

I am a corner property owner and find it necessary to have daily pick ups of waste and cigarette ends. This burden is caused by insensitive individuals who ignore regulations and a responsibility for their dogs. Feeding your dog before a walk and carrying a scooper with bag is a solution.

Grass cutters inform me that wastes of this nature ruin their equipment and many refuse to cut the grass for said reason.

Please, many of us are seniors. We are merely trying to preserve the dignity, beauty and sanitation of the Grosse Pointes.

School taxes

To the Editor:

In her letter of July 13, Margot Parker comments that a school budget summary appearing in the Grosse Pointe News on June 29 showed that the school system revenues increased 20.3 percent for 1989. She arrives at this figure by adding the recently approved school tax increase of 8.5 percent to the average SEV increase of 11.8 percent, an error that many taxpayers make.

SEVs are never added to taxes. They are simply part of a formula used to compute taxes. For 1989, the average SEV increase of 11.8 translates into an 8.5 percent increase in school taxes. That 8.5 percent is the total school revenue increase for 1989, not 20.3 percent.

For detailed information on the school system's revenues and expenses, Ms. Parker has only to call the Office of Business Affairs (343-2020) and ask that a copy of the budget be sent to her. We are more than happy to provide taxpayers with as much detailed financial information as they wish.

Thanks

To the Editor:

On behalf of the parents and GPFPC All Stars, we would like to extend our thanks to John Hoben, Bernie Dobranski, Chuck Matthews, Earl Kester and Jim Bellanco for their efforts in hosting our 13 year old State Babe Ruth Tournament. These men put in many hours organizing and promoting the 4 days of games. During the past years they have also served as coaches, board members and in other capacities, giving so much of themselves and their time unselfishly.

This was a wonderful experience for our boys. As host parents we had the opportunity to meet and form friendships with ballplayers from Niles, Alpena, L'Anse Creuse, Port Huron and Plymouth-Canton areas. The level of play at the games was an excellent learning experience for the boys and entertaining for all who came to watch.

We hope the pleasure our boys had from this tournament will be sufficient reward for their selfless efforts.

On flag burning

To the Editor:

I believe in the Constitution and the symbolic meaning of the flag, but as a student studying law and a supporter of our Bill of Rights, I take this stand:

I support the Supreme Court's ruling on flag burning as a freedom of expression of political protest. I agree with many that flag burning is wrong, but the First Amendment does allow this.

Our founding fathers wrote the Bill of Rights with no restrictions and to this day no amendment has ever changed our original Bill of Rights.

This is not the first time flag burning, or other forms of mistreatment to our flag, has appeared before the Supreme Court. In the cases of Street v. New York (1968), Smith v. Goguen (1974), and Spence v. Washington (1974) such mistreatment was declared as legal political protest.

Now after all these years, many politicians play super-patriots on emotional people. Whether we pass a flag burning amendment or not, we still have legal other forms of mistreatment to our flag, such as throwing plastic hand-held flags on the ground or in the garbage. Plus, what about those who do disrespect things while the national anthem is being played during a sports game, the existence of the Confederate flag, saying bad things about a certain branch of government, or burning mock Supreme Court justices' robes? If we ban these too, are we then not headed away from democracy and what our soldiers fought and died for?

Protect our First Amendment for all its good... and bad.

We haven't stopped nude beaches, KKK marches, and other "bad" things protected under the First Amendment.

It would be best for companies to make non-flammable state and federal flags and/or restrict where flag burners can protest, such as getting a permit (a costly one).

What's bad about stopping flag burning?

I've been raised to believe that if a flag has touched the ground, been ripped, or aged and weathered, it's to be burned, and not thrown in a trash can, as a sign of respect!

Let me point out that Chinese students burned their communist flag, marched, and died for democracy. They believe in our Bill of Rights, and now we're telling the world "You have First Amendment rights, but now..." It's all of our freedoms that other countries fight for, just as our soldiers died for our 200-year-old Bill of Rights. I believe we fought and founded this country, Constitution, rights, and freedoms more than our 41-year-old, 50-star flag.

In exercising my First Amendment rights: "Flag burners of protest — If you hate this country and your freedom that much, move to Iran, or else stop and keep paying your taxes."

Joseph A. Backus

Free thrills

The Detroit Fire Department will join other fire departments at the Detroit Zoo Saturday, July 22, for their third annual "Fire Fighters' Thrill Show."

Included in the thrills will be: performances by the Detroit Fire Department's clown team and a display of antique fire rigs, equipment and gear.

Included in the free stuff will be ice cream, compliments of Ashby's Ice Cream.

Firefighters will demonstrate how the "jaws of life" works. They'll also show off some rapping skills and compete in a tug-of-war.

The Detroit Zoo is located at 10 Mile and Woodward and is open daily from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. Admission is $5 for adults; $3.50 for senior citizens; $2.50 for children 12 and under; free for children under 5.

More from the Michigan Humane Society

What would this column be without a snippet from the Michigan Humane Society?

Now they're selling beach towels and frisbees.

The towel pictures a smiling pooch in sunglasses and flowered swimming trunks, holding a cold, tropical drink, floating on an inner tube.

The white frisbee shows the same dog in sunglasses and a Hawaiian shirt and says "Dog Days of Summer."

The 100 percent cotton terry velour towel is 30 by 60 inches and costs $16.

The frisbee is made of durable plastic and is $2.

Both are available at all Michigan Humane Society shelters in Detroit, Westland and Auburn Hills, at the Michigan Humane Society Sweatshop in Clawson, and by mail. Call 435-4710.

The Michigan Humane Society is a private, non-profit organization that operates three shelters, three veterinary hospitals and a wildlife rehab center.

Happy 60th

Marie and Augustus J. Christie of Grosse Pointe Woods have been married for 60 years.

June 3 they celebrated three score years together with the help of about 100 friends and family members, including daughter Suzette Roth, son-in-law Helmut Roth, grandchildren Tom, Bob and Carolyn Marie Roth, and granddaughter-in-law Celeste Roth.

And a lot of memorabilia. Carolyn Marie Roth made the three-tiered wedding cake for the anniversary reception. The original wedding bell ornament from the Christie's wedding cake in 1929 was placed on top. The bell had also been re-used for the Roth's wedding cake in 1960.

Helmut Roth gave the anniversary toast, using the original wedding goblet from the Roth's wedding.

The Christies cut their anniversary cake with a silver knife used by the Roths on their wedding day. The knife was tied with a gold ribbon saved from the Christie's 50th wedding anniversary party.

Tables were decorated with ribbon from Marie Christie's wedding bouquet.

Sixty years worth of marriage memorabilia was displayed at the reception, including: Marie Christie's wedding dress and veil; a lace baby bonnet made by her grandmother; a silk embroidered handkerchief that's been carried by all the brides in the family (including Marie Christie, again on her 60th anniversary); Marie Christie's curls (which were cut off in her early teens when bobbed hair was all the rage); Augustus Christie's wedding tie (now slightly faded); and a bracelet given to Marie Christie by her high school sweetheart (and future husband) more than 60 years ago.

The Christie's photograph albums were also displayed.

The Rev. John Child celebrated Mass at Our Lady Star of the Sea Catholic Church before the reception.

Plans are under way for the Christie's 70th.

Happy 50th

While we're on the subject...

George and Maureen DuFour, formerly of Grosse Pointe Park, are about to celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary.

They were married July 1, 1939.

George and Maureen DuFour

Coming from out of town: 10 children (from Laguna Beach, Calif., Kentucky, Chicago and Dallas); 13 grandchildren; four great-grandchildren.

The Rev. Michael O'Leary will officiate as the DuFours renew their wedding vows.

Many Park residents are alarmed by the infestation of elm leaf beetles this year. Officials, however, say the elm leaf beetle is not deadly to elm trees and does not carry the deadly fungus responsible for Dutch elm disease. A reputable tree service can easily get rid of the leaf beetles by spraying.

Elm leaf beetles don't spread disease

Residents in the Pointes, particularly Grosse Pointe Park, are alarmed this summer over the large quantity of so-called elm leaf beetles that have infested their trees.

Officials in the Park, however, said last week that the beetles that residents are calling about are not deadly to elm trees and they do not carry the dreaded Dutch elm disease that has decimated most of the state's elms.

Al Mazur, the elm expert on the Park Beautification Commission, said the beetles they see on their elm trees' leaves do not carry the fungus that spreads Dutch elm disease. He said the elm bark beetle is the culprit to be concerned about.

The bark beetle is about the size of a pinhead. Mazur said the bark beetle likes to burrow into soft, new bark of the elm tree and does not attack the leaves.

While the bark beetle requires extensive eradication techniques, the leaf beetle is easily treated. Mazur said there is a chemical mixture that is sprayed on the elm trees that quickly gets rid of the leaf-eating beetles.

The city of Grosse Pointe Park will spray trees on public property, but homeowners are responsible for the costs of spraying their own trees. Mazur said a good tree service company can spray for the leaf beetles.

Those who would like to know more about elms and the leaf and bark beetles can call Mazur at 881-0193.

The city has a forester who has been working part time for the Park for some years, along with entomologist Dr. Gerald Lanier of upstate New York. The forester will examine trees for residents who are concerned about their elms, but since he has a full-time job elsewhere, his time to help the city is limited. Park residents who would like someone to inspect their elms can notify City Hall at 822-6200, or they can call a knowledgeable commercial tree service company.

INTRODUCING GENTLE CHIROPRACTIC!

Hi, I'm Dr. Mary Quarnstrom. Perhaps gentleness in chiropractic is a new concept to you; it was to me before I began the six years of college training necessary for my doctorate degree. During those six years I learned the precise locations where light pressure can bring chiropractic relief to pain.

In addition to my doctorate, I am certified in both Impairment Rating and Ergonomics (man's relationship to his work). I have completed courses in advanced Orthopedics and Neurology. Even now I attended national seminars to stay current on the advances in this rapidly changing field a weekend each month.

If you have hesitated visiting a chiropractor, perhaps you didn't know about this gentle or "soft touch" technique. It has been effective treating:

Back Pain	Headaches	Shoulder Pain	Painful Joints
Neck Pain	Arthritis	Arm/Leg Pain	Stiffness
Numbness	Bursitis	Hip Pain	Cold Hands/Feet

And, because most insurance companies recognize and cover Chiropractic care, your treatment may be at little or no cost to you according to the limits of your insurance policy.

FOR A PRELIMINARY EXAMINATION TO DETERMINE IF CHIROPRACTIC CAN HELP YOU

CALL 774-9440 TODAY
DR. MARY M. QUARNSTROM,
CHIROPRACTOR

21507 Harper Ave., near 8 Mile St. Clair Shores, MI 48080
Hours: 9:00 a.m.-6:00 p.m. Monday-Friday

In case of accident or personal injury after hours call 774-9440.

Readers want to know more about the weekly "Fame & Fortune" game show.

Q. How are contestants drawn?

A. Each week the bureau receives approximately 40,000-45,000 TV entries. From among these, 250 are randomly drawn to be included in the drum you see on the Fame & Fortune show. At the end of each program, the six contestants for the next week's show are drawn from among those 250 entries.

Q. How are home partners selected to be paired with contestants?

A. After the on-air drawing of six contestants for the following week's show, six more entries are drawn to become home partners. They are paired with contestants in the order drawn.

Q. Are home partners notified in advance?

A. No, this is another surprise element of the show designed to heighten interest. Any player submitting a TV entry may hear his or her name announced as a home partner at the beginning of the show.

Q. How much do home partners win?

A. Each week, the home partner lucky enough to be paired with the contestant winning the $50,000 top prize gets a $500 award.

Q. Are entries not drawn as contestants or home partners held for later drawings?

A. No. After each week's drawings are completed, those entries are destroyed. A fresh batch of entries for the next show include all those received the next week.

Q. How much has been won on the "Fame & Fortune" game show?

A. Through the 14th show on April 29, the total value of prizes won was $1,030,231. In addition to the 14 awards of $50,000 each, prizes included 15 new automobiles, three computer packages, one stereo package, and 51 other cash awards. Home viewers won another $7,000.

Q. What else does a contestant do on the day of the show?

A. All contestants enjoy a full day of stardom! After a get-acquainted continental breakfast at Detroit's Omni International Hotel, they are driven by VIP Limousine Service to the studios of WDIV-TV for a tour and taping of individual introductions. Then they are guests of honor at a special luncheon in The Whitney Restaurant. Returning by limo to the studio, they are briefed on all elements of the show by a Lottery representative. A professional make-up session and a chance to meet the show hosts Chuck Gaudin and Diane Sarnecky is next. Then contestants are greeted by the live audience, and pose for a souvenir photograph on the set before starting the game. After award of prizes, they return to the hotel for an overnight stay as guests of the Lottery.

For submitting the first question leading to this column, James Persons of Livonia will receive 30 "Fame & Fortune" tickets. Note: When duplicate questions are received, that with the earliest date stamp upon arrival at Lottery Central wins. In case of a tie, the winner is selected by random drawing.

If you have a question not yet covered in these monthly columns, send it to: "Winners Circle," Michigan Lottery, P.O. Box 30077, Lansing, MI 48909

ACT programs surveyed in Michigan

Michigan residents with mental illness who are served by assertive community treatment (ACT) teams use state hospitals more than 90 percent less after three years.

This is among results from a new survey of ACT programs by the state Department of Mental Health. ACT is a program of intensive community treatment, geared specifically to adults with mental illness who have had more than three hospitalizations for acute psychiatric impairments.

"This is very good news for Michigan," said state Mental Health Director Thomas D. Watkins Jr. "Half of all persons admitted to state psychiatric hospitals have been there before. This indicates we can make a strong downward impact on that trend, given time and adequate resources. Better care in the community, for less tax dollars, is good news for all," he said.

"This extensive survey, covering hundreds of patients, provides compelling evidence that intensive community programs help persons with long-term mental illness," Watkins said. "We were convinced ACT was the correct way to go when we expanded the program earlier this decade. This report indicates we were correct in our assessment."

The report was released June 7 by the department's Bureau of Community Mental Health Services, directed by William MeShane.

It said persons in ACT use fewer psychiatric hospital days, showing a reduction of 75 percent after a year in the program, and 92 percent after three years. For persons surveyed, the report verified less hospital use in private facilities, shorter lengths of stay and reduced number of admissions, as well. The report was based on surveys of 32 programs serving 1,144 persons throughout Michigan. Data was gathered in August 1988.

Patterned after programs in Wisconsin, ACT serves adults with a history of repeated hospitalization in public facilities, persons for whom traditional therapy has failed. In it, county workers provide treatment services to ACT clients in the community, often in their homes. A key element to the program is low staff-to-client ratios between 1:6 to 1:10.

ACT was piloted in Grand Rapids in 1979. There are currently 53 programs serving more than 2,300 people in 59 counties, funded by the state mental health department and implemented by county agencies. The report gave this profile of program participants:

- Five of six live independently or with family members.
- About one-third have required non-inpatient crisis intervention since they started receiving ACT.
- They use hospitals as the principal crisis intervention resource much less frequently than before program participation.
- About 30 percent have substance abuse problems.
- Through ACT, they have been introduced to recreational and socialization treatment programming, and have been helped with personal living skills, employment and housing.

Julie Corbett from Grosse Pointe South watches the school's first video yearbook, as she plans for next year's edition.

South produces video yearbook

By Ronald J. Bernas
Staff Writer

It was a learning experience for all involved, including the instructor, Julie Corbett.

And Corbett, who teaches television production at Grosse Pointe South High to students from both high schools, said the final product was one of which everyone can be proud.

Videopointe, South High's first video yearbook, was delivered last week to those students who paid $10 for the innovative new way to remember their high school days.

"It was sort of a number of people's ideas," Corbett said. "But mostly it was South's Mothers Club who approached me with the idea."

So Corbett discussed it with the students in her class and they discussed it and discussed it.

"None of us knew what we were doing," she said.

But while they were trying to make up their minds, the students were filming. They shot homecoming festivities, football games, spirit week and concerts. It wasn't until October that the students and Corbett felt they could put together a video yearbook.

So they went into high gear. Everything of import was filmed, from the choir's trip to Disneyworld to the prom and especially graduation.

"We had to make a decision as to whether to put the sound with the pictures or run a soundtrack over it," Corbett said. "But we felt the pictures were most important."

So three students, Tim Miller, Chris Plansker and Jeremy Schroeder, got together and wrote the jazz music that is heard during the entire 50-minute tape.

"It's sort of like a music video," Corbett said.

The most exciting day during the making of the tape was graduation night, Corbett said.

Graduation was filmed and then the whole production crew, which includes juniors Ken Vance, Jeremy Schroeder and Holly Nixon, and senior Tim Golic, ran to the studios beneath South High's tennis courts — they called it Bunker Studios — and added the footage, created the name, did some final editing and had the tape ready for the senior's all-night party.

"They loved it," Corbett said. "They absolutely loved it."

Next year though, they will do a few different things. First of all the price will be slightly higher, but all profits made from the sale of the tapes goes right back into the video production department and thus into next year's video.

Corbett also said they would concentrate on fewer events. She said they have so much tape that they could produce another video of the same length and not show anything that's on the completed tape.

Next year, as part of an interdisciplinary learning experience, some business classes will be involved in the business end, from marketing to distribution, Corbett added.

Also next year, the art department will be involved in creating a sleeve for the video which this year was delivered in a brown plastic container.

"I don't think it will ever really replace the real yearbook," Corbett said, "because you can't sign a videotape."

The tapes were reproduced at Producer's Color, at a better price than what it would normally cost, Corbett said. She praised the company's help as a prime example of industry and education working together for mutual benefit.

"Doing this thing was a lark," Corbett said, adding that she is already excited about next year's edition.

Class does cancer research for credit

An innovative Wayne State University undergraduate laboratory course, now in its 10th year, has proved itself to be a success and a worthy role model for emulation, according to the program's originator and supervisor, Dr. Kenneth V. Honn, director of the cancer biology division of the department of radiation oncology at the medical school and adjunct professor of chemistry.

"Introduction to Biomedical Research," the formal title of the program, has two main goals, according to Honn, a Grosse Pointe Woods resident.

"First, we want to increase the amount of hands-on laboratory instruction available to our biological science students. And secondly, we hope to interest some of these students in biomedical research by giving them experience in a real research environment, as opposed to a typical lab course."

The program admits about 15 students each year after a vigorous screening process. Successful applicants have come from a variety of majors, including biology, chemistry, physics and psychology.

"We ask for a heavy commitment from our students," Honn said. "The course requires 15 hours a week in the lab over a full, 52-week year for two credit hours."

Each new student is introduced to the Cancer Biology Lab, located in the Chemistry Building on the main campus, with a training program in basic laboratory skills.

After this orientation period, the student is assigned to be a member of an existing research team, headed by a professor, a postdoctoral student, or in some cases a senior level predoctoral student. Each research team may consist of from two to seven individuals in addition to the student.

The newcomer is closely supervised and briefed by the group leader about the goals of research being conducted. The research subjects include areas such as radiation effects on cells; overcoming cancer cell resistance to chemotherapy, and detection of highly metastatic cells.

Eventually, the new students are given real research tasks and responsibilities, and students have designed and conducted projects of their own within the larger framework of the group.

The opportunity for hands-on research and the minimum one-year duration of the program are the significant differences between Honn's program and other laboratory and directed studies class.

Jenny Mandelbaum, a student in the course in 1986, notes that in other lab courses, "much of the time is spent washing test tubes and dishes, instead of actually participating in experiments and learning techniques. In Dr. Honn's lab, the only materials we washed were those we used in our own experiments."

Honn believes the program has been successful in achieving both of his original objectives. "We've had about 170 students pass through the program over the last 10 years. Many of them have made significant contributions and have been placed as co-authors on papers published by members of the division. 80 percent of our students gained admission to medical school, and at least 18 are working on Ph.D. degrees in biomedical research."

Si, habla Espanol

Grosse Pointe South High School graduate Gabriella Bruno was selected to receive an all-expense paid trip to Spain as a result of her outstanding score on the National Spanish Examination. Bruno is the sole Michigan winner of this award. With her is South High's foreign language Chairman Edward Franco.

Dunlap, Rowe honored

The 1989 Pierce School recipients of the Roger Welch award for the outstanding students in academics and athletics were Brad Dunlap and Mary Rowe.

Hulswit honored

This year's Grosse Pointe South High School recipient of the Yale University Book Award is Gwyn Hulswit, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hulswit of Grosse Pointe City. Hulswit is ranked in the top one percent of South's junior class and has made significant contributions in both civic and extracurricular activities.

Hulswit

Each year, the recognition goes to students who have demonstrated leadership and athletics. The award was established many years ago by the family of a former Pierce student in his memory.

Dunlap and Rowe have contributed service and leadership while at Pierce. In addition to being outstanding students, they each were active participants in student government, as well as many athletic activities.

Each was given a trophy and their names will be added to the plaque which will hang in the halls of Pierce. The students were honored at the annual awards assembly.

Artwork donated to Parcels

Greg Tisdale, Michigan artist, water colorist and a Grosse Pointe resident, recently donated 12 large prints to Parcels Middle School.

The prints are water scenes of the Chicago and Port Huron areas and several Lake St. Clair freighters. Six of the prints have been framed by the Pointe Paint Decorating Center and are hanging in various locations in the school. The prints were donated in memory of Christie Brady, an English teacher at Parcels for many years before her untimely death due to cancer in 1987.

South students inducted into NHS

The Cum Laude Chapter of the National Honor Society at Grosse Pointe South High School had its candlelight induction ceremony and academic awards assembly May 22.

New junior class inductees are David Asker, Allison Eng, Barbara Forster, Gwyn Hulswit, Stephanie Kitchen, Michael Lewis, Sara Liliensick, Therese Me-

Gratty, Jennifer Mitchell, Amy Stephens, Janette Torrico and Kathryn VanHampler.

The 1988-89 officers of the chapter are Ethan Dettmer, president; Ann Llewellyn, vice president; Kristen Youngblood, secretary; Terrell Semple, treasurer, and NHS adviser is James Rakowski.

Students compete in Olympiad

South High School's social studies Chairman Gene Matecum and parents Diane and Michael Marston and Rita Goss accompanied seven students to Walled Lake Western High School April 15 to participate in the third annual Michigan Social Studies Olympiad.

Competing against teams in grades 9 through 12 representing 72 schools from as far away as Holland, Erie and Midland, South's students walked away with two medals.

In the Library Grand Prize, seniors Judy Watta and Dave Spitzley were awarded a third place medal for their efforts. In the Social Studies Computer Simulation Game, freshmen Kari Elsila and Bob Kalogerakos won the first place medal.

The rest of the team who competed in the Social Study Bowl was a team of Candace Goss, Christopher Marston and Kurt Sowers. Earlier, Tom Huse, Mark Peterson, Jeremy Schroeder and Eric Snell submitted an entry in the Historical TV News-cast competition.

Going up

Final field trip

Defer Elementary School teacher Shirley Kirk, dressed as an old-fashioned school marm, took the final field trip of her 20-year teaching career to Greenfield Village. She was accompanied by her 23 second-graders outfitted in knickers, caps, bonnets and pinafores. In keeping with the occasion, Kirk conducted country school in the Miller Schoolhouse using slates for the math lesson and McGuffey Readers. Here Michael Brunner reads from his McGuffey Reader while Ben Schaefer relaxes after he recited his lesson. Students got a taste of old time discipline methods when she waved her switch and employed the dunce cap. Kirk has been at Defer since 1971.

Hertel honors graduates

Continuing an annual tradition, Congressman Dennis Hertel, D-Harper Woods, recently awarded the Congressional Medal of Merit to a number of graduating seniors from high schools located in the 14th Congressional District, which includes Grosse Pointe Woods, Grosse Pointe Farms and Grosse Pointe Shores.

The special award, consisting of an engraved bronze medal and a certificate, is presented to one member of each graduating class who has a record of achievement in social studies and has demonstrated a commitment to school and community service.

"I have always felt that education and community service are key ingredients in the continuation of our democracy, that is why I have chosen to commend these students for their achievements as they assume their adult role in our society," Hertel said.

Nominated by the social studies faculty of their respective schools, students who received the Medal of Merit scholarships are Megan Abbott of Grosse Pointe North High School, Lauren Moran of Grosse Pointe South High School, Christine DeFour of Our Lady Star of the Sea High School and Elizabeth Sieber of University Liggett High School.

Koenigbauer nominated

Sylvia A. Koenigbauer, South teacher, has been nominated for the 1989 Presidential Award for Excellence in Science and Mathematics Teaching.

Koenigbauer was nominated by the South Math Department and administration because of her exceptional effectiveness as a classroom teacher and her significant contributions to professional activities.

A resident of Grosse Pointe Woods and a leader in the school system's Madeline Hunter professional development symposium, Koenigbauer has been instrumental in introducing computer-assisted math instruction for South High students.

Student Spotlight

Erin Miedema

Each week in this column, we will focus on the work of a student. It can be a poem, a drawing, a short story, a picture of a scientific experiment or a wood-working project, a book review.

The following was written by Erin Miedema, a student at Grosse Pointe Christian Day School. She is the daughter of Geanne Miedema of Detroit and Bruce Miedema of Plymouth. Erin was in the fourth grade when she wrote the poem.

Rejoice

Rejoice in the Lord always and again he'll say rejoice. You can rejoice when you broke your arm and be thankful there wasn't more harm. You can rejoice in the breeze and rejoice when the birds sing in the trees. You can rejoice when you read a book and be thankful that God gave you eyes that see and look. You can rejoice that God made hands that play in the sand. You can rejoice for food to eat especially meat. You can rejoice that you got an A on your test and be thankful that you did your best.

A Day to Forget

One day my cousins were in town. We were playing basketball in the house with a little rubber ball and a basketball net. I threw a marble. It missed the net and it hit the glass. I never could figure out why I did that! Now in the glass door there is a little star and a crack from the marble. I think it's sort of neat. However, my mom didn't think it was so neat, and luckily my dad wasn't home. He was at the ice rink. My mom had a pathetic look on her face like "you tell him" or "boy, I'm glad I'm not you." The terrible, sinking feeling hit me. Mom said she couldn't imagine what made me do something like that, and it was my responsibility to tell dad.

We got in the car to go pick up dad; boy, was I scared! It's a good thing my dad likes hockey so much because when I told him what happened I don't think he heard a word I said. When I got home I ran up the steps. I thought he was going to kill me. He pushed open the bathroom door, pulled open the shower door, looked at me and just screamed - AAAH! - only with a grin on his face. I guess he was shocked I'd do something so dumb.

I've waited a long time to get punished. Worrying about the punishment is worse than anything he could have done. I hope he doesn't read this - he might get some ideas.

Usually, I'm a pretty good kid. I still don't know why I did it. I sure wish I hadn't.

Radio operators

Learning how to operate a 140-foot radio telescope are Grosse Pointe South students Heather Glovac, left, and Liz Hatch, who visited the National Radio Astronomy Observatory in Green Bank, W.Va. in March. The students were among 12 people from Ardis Maciolek's Earth Science Club. While at Green Bank, the group was able to inspect the NRAO engineering labs, drafting room, auto-CAD design and milling systems, the machine shops and a cryogenics lab.

VanHamplert honored

Grosse Pointe South High School presented junior Kathryn VanHamplert with the 1989

Smith College Book Award. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles VanHamplert of Grosse Pointe City.

VanHamplert ranks in the top one percent of her class and exemplifies the academic achievement, leadership qualities, and concern for others that Smith College in Northampton, Mass. promotes. The Smith College Club of Detroit arranged for the presentation through Jean Stewart of Grosse Pointe Woods.

Koenigbauer effectiveness as a classroom teacher and her significant contributions to professional activities.

A resident of Grosse Pointe Woods and a leader in the school system's Madeline Hunter professional development symposium, Koenigbauer has been instrumental in introducing computer-assisted math instruction for South High students.

The Grosse Pointe Park Public Safety Mounted Division's Sgt. Randy Cain and his faithful companion, Johnny, a Missouri Fox Trotter, were the hit of the parade for a whole bunch of horse-loving children.

A fine Fourth

It was a Fourth of July parade that would have done Norman Rockwell proud.

A parade with fire trucks, floats, old cars, clowns, policemen on horses, politicians, children in costumes and even family pets. This year's Grosse Pointe Park parade had the flavor of an election year in a small town, with politicians campaigning hard. There wasn't a dime of PAC money in sight. It came down to tried and true formulas of American politics: politicians making speeches, shaking hands, handing out balloons and kissing babies.

The highlights of the parade included the grand prize winning float of a pirate ship, "The Pirates of Bishop/Grayton," commanded by Capt. John (Red Beard) Morgan. The float had been assembled by a group of kids (and kids at heart) from the 1200 block of Bishop and Grayton streets. The idea, as well as 7,250 garbage bags, 1,000 feet of twist-tie, came from John and Dawn Morgan, Sam and Trish Peulis and Patty and Peter Dodge.

The Grosse Pointe Park Public Safety

Mounted Division was represented by Sgt. Randy Cain and his own horse, "Rebel's Mr. Shinn C," who goes by Johnny.

The Grosse Pointe Park Marching Kazoo Band provided the music for the parade. The band, 20 strong, is now in its fifth year and continues under the direction of Bill (B-flat) Leith. It is, obviously, Grosse Pointe Park's only professional marching Kazoo Band. Rainbow the Clown and her pet Silly Goose and their sub-sub compact car were all there for the fun.

Prizes were awarded for the best children's costumes. Dressed in everything from flowers to Indians, they were the nicest part of the show. Scott Kiely, dressed as Uncle Sam, and Jillian and Kevin Maliszewski dressed as an Indian brave and squaw were honored for their good costumes.

The parade, sponsored by the Grosse Pointe Park Civic Association, was produced by Bob Buhl and Pat McKeever, the chairmen of the parade committee. It has been an annual event since 1975.

Photos and text by Clinton R. Andrews

Under the leadership of Bill Leith, the Grosse Pointe Marching Kazoo Band entertained the crowd with its own distinctive renditions of America's favorites.

Scott Kiely took first prize with his costume of Uncle Sam, appropriate for the mood and festivities of the day.

Brent Scheiwe, an Eagle Scout, raised the flag high for everyone to see.

Kevin and Jillian Maliszewski also took a first prize with their Indian costumes.

What is it?

Leonard B. Smith, music director of the Detroit Concert Band, has a large collection of historical band instruments. Smith is holding a Polish cavalry trumpet. In the foreground is a cornet and standing on its bell is a keyed bugle. He is pointing to a rotary valve trumpet.

Shirley Mays Evans

A memorial service for Shirley Mays Evans, 66, of Grosse Pointe Park, will be held Saturday, July 29, at 1 p.m. at the Grosse Pointe Woods Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Evans died Saturday, July 15, 1989 after a brief illness.

Shirley May Evans

Born in Pittsburgh, Mrs. Evans received her bachelor of science degree from Chatham College and a nursing degree from Allegheny General Hospital.

She was a resident of Grosse Pointe since 1953 and was involved with many volunteer organizations, including the Health Education Council, the Interfaith Center for Racial Justice and Crossroads.

She was also active as a deacon, elder and teacher at her church.

Mrs. Evans is survived by her husband, Dr. Gomer P. Evans; daughters, Kimberly Merrill, Pamela Corbett, Leslie Evans and Beth Mufson; five granddaughters and a grandson; and a brother, Alexander Mays.

In lieu of flowers, memorial contributions may be made to Crossroads, 400 Woodward Ave., Detroit 48202, or to the Grosse Pointe Woods Presbyterian Church, 19950 Mack, Grosse Pointe Woods 48236.

Crystal Culton Gregory

Funeral services for Crystal Culton Gregory, 82, of Grosse Pointe Woods, were held Friday, June 30 in Searcy, Ark. Mrs. Gregory died Wednesday, June 21, 1989 in Arkansas.

Born in Parksville, Ky., she moved to Grosse Pointe Woods in 1926.

Mrs. Gregory was a teacher, a seamstress for the Chrysler Corp. and owner of Crystals Tots and Teens Shop at Mack and Fleetwood.

She was founder and president of the Chene-Trombley Community Playground in Grosse Pointe Woods.

She won numerous blue ribbons for knitting, crocheting, macrame and crafts and was one of the original members of the Roseville Church of Christ, founding the quilting ladies group.

She and her late husband, David Harold Gregory, a former Woods police lieutenant, spent many summers on Lake St. Clair and winters on Pine Island, Fla.

Survivors include her daughters, Madelyn Elliott, Nancye Thompson and Crystal Grizzell; four brothers; five sisters; nine grandchildren; and 12 great-grandchildren.

Burial was in Parksville, Ky.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Alzheimer's Disease Association, 17251 W. 12 Mile Road, Southfield, Mich.

Genevieve Fisher Herdegen

A memorial service for Genevieve Fisher Herdegen, 102, of Grosse Pointe Farms, will be held at 11 a.m. Thursday, July 20 at the Chas. Verheyden Funeral Home, Grosse Pointe Park.

Mrs. Herdegen died Wednesday, July 12, 1989 in Grosse Pointe Farms. She was born in Milwaukee, Wis.

Mrs. Herdegen and her late husband came to Detroit in 1914 and settled in Indian Village. She was a member of the Country Club of Detroit and enjoyed gardening, knitting and sewing. She was also a longtime Detroit Tigers fan, following games on television and radio.

She is survived by a daughter, Mary Jane Copeland; sons, Robert T. Herdegen and John M. Herdegen; nine grandchildren; and three great-grandchildren.

She was predeceased by her husband, Robert T.; and a daughter, Elizabeth Ann.

Cornelius Fowler

Funeral services for Cornelius Fowler, 84, of Grosse Pointe Farms, were held Friday, July 14, at the Chas. Verheyden Funeral Home, Grosse Pointe Park.

Mr. Fowler died Tuesday, July 11, 1989 at St. John Hospital in Detroit. He was born in Scotland.

He was formerly employed by Wayne State University. He was a former member of the Coast Guard Auxiliary and the Masonic Order. He enjoyed boating and golf.

Mr. Fowler is survived by his wife, Elizabeth; a daughter, Betty Healy; a son, Richard; five grandchildren; and six great-grandchildren.

Interment was in Oakview Cemetery, Royal Oak.

Memorial contributions may be made to the American Heart Association.

Federal job information available

The federal government is looking for qualified persons to fill positions in the scientific, medical and clerical fields.

Free job information can be obtained from Detroit Area Office of the U.S. Office of Personnel Management. The Federal Job Opportunity List is published weekly. This list contains information about jobs including salary, location and how to apply.

Interested persons can get this information in a number of ways.

The Federal Job Opportunity list is available for viewing at the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC) offices in Michigan.

A computerized telephone program is available 24 hours a day, seven days a week. The number is 226-6950. With a touchtone telephone callers can obtain information about current Federal job openings, veteran preference, the handicapped program, transfer, reinstatement, the Senior Executive Service, and other subjects.

For many jobs, callers can leave their name and address to receive application materials by mail. This is a toll call. Callers will be billed by their local long distance telephone company. For lowest phone rates, evenings and weekends are the best times to call.

An Electronic Bulletin Board System (BBS) is also available 24 hours a day, seven days a week. The current Federal Job Opportunity List, as well as information about how to apply, the federal hiring process, benefits programs, special filing procedures and other information is available via this system to anyone using a personal computer equipped with a modem.

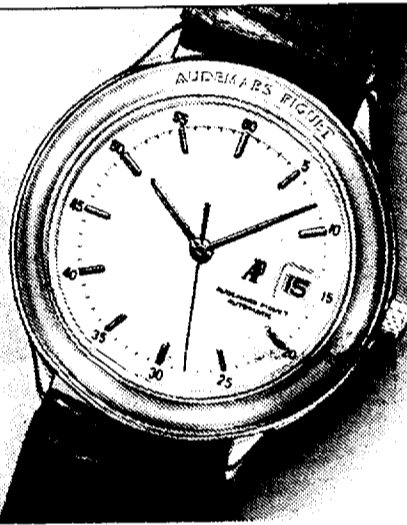

Users of this service can transfer copies of job lists, vacancy descriptions and other files to their own computer. The Bulletin Board lists federal jobs in 14 states of this region of the country, as well as a some in other parts of the country.

The number is 226-4423. This is also a toll call.

Interested persons can also visit the self-service Federal Job Information Center at the McNamara Federal Building, 477 Michigan Ave., Room 565, Detroit, from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. each business day. They can view the Federal Job Opportunity list, review all job qualifications information, as well as other information that is available through the computerized answering service.

The greatest demand is for clerical and secretarial personnel. Other excellent opportunities exist for air traffic controllers, computer specialists, special agents (intelligence), quality assurance specialists (persons who plan quality insurance programs), firefighters, engineers, credit examiners, correctional officers for prison occupations, accountants, auditors, and specialized medical personnel.

Summer school isn't for truants anymore

By Ronald J. Bernas
Staff Writer

Kathleen Herschelmann, principal of summer school in Grosse Pointe, stresses that summer school isn't just for the kids who may have failed a class during the regular year.

There is music for kids from 10 to 95, a young astronaut program, preparation for high school writing, classes which teach students how to study, sew, draw with computers and even a class in cosmetology.

There is a new course aimed at helping special education students develop social skills (which unfortunately was cancelled due to lack of enrollment, but may be back next year) and a summer theater workshop. (See side story.)

There are 665 students enrolled in classes and only 89 of those are students making up required courses they have failed. Nearly 60 percent of the elementary and middle school students are taking classes because of teacher or counselor recommendations, and the rest are taking courses because they want to. More than 150 high school students are taking courses — for credit — so they can take an elective during the regular school year.

But one of the best things about taking summer school, according to Herschelmann, is that the classes are held in air-conditioned Grosse Pointe North High School. And just as summer school is no longer a punishment for the kids, it is fun for the teachers, too, Herschelmann said, with the heads of various departments teaching smaller numbers of students for longer at one sitting.

"We've got the cream of the crop when it comes to teachers,"

she said. "They're people who really care about kids, and what they like, I think, is that the summer school set-up gives them a whole new way to reach kids. It's more relaxed. It's just kind of nice."

There is room for experimentation in summer school. For example a class which may not be offered during the regular school year — such as an elementary-level keyboarding class, which allows younger students to learn the rudiments of typing so they can more readily use computers, Herschelmann said. There is also a class on critical thinking and other higher-level learning techniques.

There is a class on American literature in which the students read the book and watch a videotape of the movie to compare and to spark interest.

"Those who panicked when they are handed a book like this are reading them on their own by the end of the class," she added.

But Herschelmann seems to be most proud of the program for the developmentally disabled.

These students begin their day with aerobics, then participate in fundraising efforts. They make cookies to sell to other students and faculty members and one day a week host a car wash. All proceeds are used to pay for field trips for the students. Their most recent one was to Greenfield Village. "I strongly believe that these students can earn a living as well as lead a good life," Herschelmann said.

She said the board is extremely supportive of her and the program and allows her to experiment with classes, just as long as she breaks even. Sometimes breaking even means combining two classes under one teacher, but that provides a better opportunity for both the students and the teachers.

Also, with teachers of all different levels working in the same building, there is more of a chance for interaction and trading of educational tips. Sometimes teachers sit in on other classes to learn a different technique.

Because there are fewer students, the social pressure is off the student and the stress level is reduced, making it a good situation for all concerned. There are fewer problems with fighting and tardiness.

Enrollment is down slightly from previous years, but that doesn't worry Herschelmann.

"We're meeting a need," she said. "When the need's there, the students are. Many parents still remember summer school as a punishment. We're trying to change their ideas."

One way to change those ideas is through an open house that will be held from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Wednesday, July 26 at North High School. Called the Summer Experience Open House, it provides an opportunity to see just what goes on. There will be music programs, a stage play and refreshments catered by the developmental learning program. Student artwork will also be on display. On Thursday, July 27 the instrumental music program will hold a series of recitals from 8 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Class of '69 plans reunion

The Grosse Pointe High School Class of 1969 plans its 20-year reunion for July 29 at the Roostertail.
Call 1-800-397-0010 to request an invitation.

Summertime is the season for bike thefts

With summer well under way, it's not surprising that many bikes are being stolen throughout the Pointes.

In Grosse Pointe City, for example, nine bicycles were stolen in a six-day period July 11-16, and the thefts are not limited to the City.

According to police reports, the bikes are being stolen from the front, rear and side of homes, from porches and a good number of them from unlocked garages.

The best way to keep your or your child's bike from being stolen is to keep it chained to a secure object under lock and key. Also, keep that garage door locked.

Cars stolen

Two cars were reported stolen last week, one each in Grosse Pointe City and the Park.

A 1987 Oldsmobile Cutlass was taken from the rear of 18000 Mack at 11:50 p.m. July 11. It was found the following day by Detroit police in the 4300 block of Phillip.

A 1987 Buick LeSabre was stolen from a driveway in the 1400 block of Beaconsfield in the Park between 1:30 and 4:10 a.m. July 2. It was recovered by Detroit police in the 14600 block of Alma. The car was partially stripped.

Youth parties disbursed twice in two cities

Grosse Pointe Farms police who responded to a youth drinking party of some 30 to 40 teenagers learned that the same youths had been disbursed from having a similar party in Grosse Pointe City the same night.

When Farms officers arrived at the home in the 300 block of Touraine at 12:45 a.m. July 16, they saw a large crowd of youths in the driveway at the home. The officers immediately identified two Park girls, 17 and 18 years old, who were possessing beer.

When the officers got closer to the home, the youths ran into the house and shut the doors.

When the 18-year-old male resident of the home was questioned by police, he said the youths had been at a party in the City, which police there had broken up. The youths then decided to come to his house to party because his parents were not home. He said he was too small to throw his friends out.

The Farms officers advised the youth that they would stand by while he cleared out the house and sent his friends on their way. The resident of the Touraine home was also told that because he was 18, he can be charged under the city's Open House Party ordinance.

Learn about horses

Macomb Community College will offer a five-part seminar, "The Wonderful World of Horses," Mondays, Sept. 18-Oct. 16.

The classes, from 7 to 9 p.m., will be held at Center Campus, Garfield and Hall roads in Clinton Township. Fee is $50.

The classes are appropriate for horse owners, riders, breeders and those considering horse ownership. Courses will be taught by a veterinarian and professionals in the field.

Topics will include: getting to know your horse; healthy hoof care; preventive medicine, when to call the vet; anatomy of a lameness; and feeding and nutrition.

For more information, call continuing education at 445-7417.

Woods offers help for trees, information for homeowners

If you are concerned about trees and want to understand urban forestry, the Grosse Pointe Woods Community Tree Commission and Department of Public Works is sponsoring a program, "Forester Day in the Park."

The program will feature a walk through Woods parks and sites of disease and insect infestations with explanations from experts. A pruning demonstration by William Lawrence, of Metropolitan Forestry Consul-ants, Ann Arbor, will be included.

The program has been popular in Ann Arbor for years, helping residents to learn and to deal with many problems that can arise during the life of an urban tree.

All Grosse Pointe residents are welcome.

Part I of the program will be held Saturday, Aug. 5, from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. rain or shine. People will meet and park cars in the parking lot at the dead end of Jackson and Kenmore.

There is no charge. To make a reservation or for information, call 343-2440.

Part II of the program, for residents of the Woods, features a graduate forester from the same company who will make visits to residents' homes on Aug. 7, 8 and 9.

During visits, consultants will assess tree damage caused by insects or diseases.

If you have a tree problem, call the Woods Department of Public Works between 7:30 a.m. and 4 p.m. at 343-2460. As with the above program, there is no charge and residents do not have to be home.

Clown Corps plans workshop

The Grosse Pointe Clown Corps will conduct a clown workshop Monday, July 24 to Aug. 29 in the basement of the Grosse Pointe Woods City Hall, 20025 Mack Plaza, at 7:30 p.m.

Registration is $25 and includes makeup. Participants will learn the proper way of putting on makeup, clown routines, skits, balloon animal-making and pyramids.

For more information, call Arthur Kuehnel at 881-8186.

times is 5 percent to 6 percent. The automatic defibrillator increases the patient's odds to 25 percent to 30 percent, depending on how quickly initial treatment is given.

Laskowski has been working with the Park Public Safety Department for the past two years in trying to get an external defibrillator for the Park's emergency medical service, and he has trained 22 of the Park's 24 EMTs. The EMTs went through an eight-hour cardiopulmonary resuscitation refresher course and six hours of instruction on how to use the external defibrillator.

The Park has six EMTs on duty during all shifts, and because some of the EMTs are also on patrol as police officers, a trained medic can be at the scene almost immediately to administer CPR. All police cars have CPR equipment.

Within four minutes, the EMS ambulance arrives at the scene.

With any medical emergency, time is the most crucial factor, Powell said. The sooner initial treatment is given, the greater the chances of a cardiac patient's recovery.

Public Safety Director Richard Caretti is quick to point out that the Park has been working for years on providing the community with a first-rate emergency medical service. He said the Park has been working for two years to obtain automatic defibrillators.

"We'd like to be recognized for the quality of service we provide," Caretti said. "We feel very confident with the quality of service we're providing. We feel it's second to none."

Laskowski commended the Park's EMS and Officer Powell in particular.

"Since Chris Powell's taken over, it's vastly improved," Laskowski said. "And we plan on taking it further." He said the next step for the Park would be to go to limited advanced life support capability.

The Park has what is called basic life support, which is enhanced with the automatic defibrillator instruments and is far more advanced than the old "scoop and drop" days of the 1960s when emergency patients were merely scooped up, put in a station wagon and rushed to the hospital, where the first medical attention would be given.

Limited advanced life support means more training for the EMTs in order to give them the skills to administer IVs and breathing tubes.

Laskowski is recommending that the Park not invest in going to advanced life support. He said the city is too small to justify the advanced EMS, and because of the limited number of calls in a small community, he said the highly trained EMTs required by advanced life support would use their skills too infrequently to keep them sharp. He said it would be like an emergency room staff trying to maintain optimum skills while serving only two patients a day.

Of the Park's 547 ambulance runs last year, 74 were heart-related complaints and 48 were respiratory related.

Laskowski said the best approach would be to have an advanced life support unit able to serve all the Pointes when necessary. He said better communications and working relationships between all the Pointes' emergency services and the hospitals would be required.

The Park has two EMS ambulances and also provides emergency medical service for Grosse Pointe City, which means residents of the City will also benefit from the addition of the automatic defibrillators.

Grosse Pointe Farms and Grosse Pointe Shores are considering a proposal through which Cottage Hospital would donate the automatic defibrillators and provide training. The Shores is also approaching St. John Hospital to see what kind of services it can provide.

Referring to the July 4 emergency run when the defibrillator was used for the first time, Park Public Safety Deputy Director Phillip Costa, who has been with the Park for 40 years, said that in the past EMTs would not have known the condition of the patient, but the medics were able to get a quick assessment of the patient by using the automatic defibrillator.

"The things public safety has done for this community are fantastic," Costa said. "The people should be happy."

The Park's new Heartstart 1000 automatic defibrillator can improve a heart attack victim's chances of survival some five times.

Powell demonstrates how emergency medical technicians connect the automatic defibrillator to a patient with wires and patches similar to an EKG instrument.

Park Officer Chris Powell demonstrates how portable the department's new automatic external defibrillator is. One defibrillator is carried aboard the emergency ambulance, and a second unit that has been ordered will be put on the Park's other ambulance.

NOTICE OF A PUBLIC HEARING ON INCREASING PROPERTY TAXES

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE pursuant to Act 5, Public Acts of Michigan 1982, that on Monday, August 14, 1989, at 8:00 o'clock p.m. at a regular session, the Board of Education of The Grosse Pointe Public School System will hold a public hearing at the Administration Building, 389 St. Clair Avenue, Grosse Pointe, Michigan 48230 (313) 343-2010 on the levy of a proposed millage rate of 30.6300 for operating purposes.

The present voted millage of the school district of 36.9000 mills for the General and Library Funds has been reduced by the "Headlee Amendment" to 35.5718. The Board of Education has complete authority to establish that 35.6300 mills be levied in 1989 for the General and Library Funds from the present authorized millage rate.

The maximum additional proposed millage rate for the General and Library Funds would increase revenues for operating purposes from ad valorem property tax levies in 1989 otherwise permitted by Act 5, Public Acts of Michigan in 1989 in the amount of $3,815,193, or an increase of 9.2% (the increase will be $3,637,938, or 8.5% for General, Library and Debt Funds.)

The figure for increase in revenue for operating purposes is based on the latest estimate of state equalized valuation of property located within the school district.

The purpose of this hearing is to receive testimony and discuss the millage levy. Not less than seven (7) days following the public hearing, the Board of Education may approve any portion of the proposed millage rate.

This notice is given by order of the Board of Education.

I swear

Two incumbent trustees of the Grosse Pointe Board of Education, Carol B. Marr and Carl D. Anderson, were sworn in by Park Municipal Judge Kirsten Frank at the July 10 meeting of the school board. The two ran unopposed in the June election. Anderson was elected vice president of the school board by the other trustees, and Marr was elected secretary. In addition, Jon Gandelot was re-elected president of the board, and Gloria Konsler was elected treasurer.

is expanding the institution.

He said the hospital is in very good financial shape and has avoided becoming burdened with the kind of debt that has hurt other institutions.

On Monday, Doctors Hospital opened a 24-hour emergency room, which is in much demand due to East Jefferson's ongoing renaissance. Posch points to the Stroh River Place and apartments, Harbortown and other developments along the east side that create a greater demand for services at Doctors Hospital.

"I honestly feel that in two years our demand will exceed our facility," he said, "and given the state of most hospitals today, that's a real challenge."

Doctors Hospital began in 1916 as Michigan Mutual Indemnity Hospital in a former Hiram Walker estate. Posch said rumor has it that there's a tunnel that runs underneath the Detroit River from the estate, at Jos. Campau and East Jefferson, to Windsor for use during Prohibition.

In 1953 the institution became Industrial Hospital, and three years later the name Doctors Hospital was born.

Before joining Doctors Hospital, Posch was director of Hand Therapy Services Inc., which has clinics in Detroit, Harper Woods and East Detroit. Posch founded Hand Therapy Services and will continue to oversee the business, though not on a day-to-day basis.

Similar to medical doctors completing residencies at hospi-

Grosse Pointe Shores resident Joseph L. Posch Jr., who holds a doctorate in statistics from Wayne State University, was named president and chief executive officer of Doctors Hospital in May.

Posch as a hospital administrator served residencies at Detroit Receiving and Harper-Grace hospitals.

At one point in his life, Posch had aspirations other than the health care industry. He spent two years in the seminary before deciding on following the family vocation in health care.

A 1963 graduate of Notre Dame High School, Posch is a lifelong resident of the Grosse Pointes. His wife, the former Margaret Kollar, is also a Grosse Pointe native. The Posches have five children: Joseph III, 19, who attends Boston College; David, 18, is a student at Loyola University of Chicago; Jean, 16, attends Regina High School; Michael, 11, is a student at Our Lady Star of the Sea; and Christina, 4, is in preschool.

The Posches are members of the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club, and they keep a small boat at the Shores municipal park. Posch said he enjoys fishing, and he and his son Mike have joined a hunting club near Metamora and are learning the sport together.

'Do the Right Thing': Provocative, controversial and thought-provoking

By Marian Trainor
Special Writer

Before "Do the Right Thing" ends in a violent confrontation in a poor neighborhood in Brooklyn, this extraordinary film gives screen time and empathy to all of its characters, enough to show that there are no good guys or bad guys. They are people who get caught up in a moment of unguarded fury.

Everyone's point of view is presented. If there is a culprit, it is the scorching heat of a 100-degree day that ignites the frustrations of all involved.

Except for the opening scenes where credits roll against a background of a sinuous dance solo performed to the rousing beat of "Fight the Power," the first hour of the film is devoted to a leisurely introduction to the cast and the street where they live.

Mister Senor Love Daddy (Sam Jackson), the local disk jockey, is at his mike in a storefront studio of Station W(e)L(ove)R(adio), urging those who have not yet roused themselves and gone out of the street to escape the already suffocating heat, to get up. "The color of the day is black" he informs his listeners, "to absorb some of those rays."

Basically good-natured, he has a short fuse when challenged. He doesn't hesitate to tell Radio Raheem who comes in with his blaring boom box to turn it off or he won't be served. Raheem is an enormous man with a fixed stare. At first he refuses, but Sal stands firm and he finally turns off the noise.

The only other problem Sal has is Buggin Out. He badgers Sal about his pictures of Italian notables that line the wall and demands that they be replaced with famous black men. Sal informs him in no uncertain terms that the pictures are Italian because he is Italian and he owns the place. "You buy your own place," he says, "and you can put up any pictures you want."

Without knowing it, Sal has given Buggin Out a cause. He calls for a boycott of the pizzeria on the basis that since Sal makes his money selling to blacks, their people should hang in his hall of fame.

It is a futile cry. Sal has so established his place in the community that the idea of boycotting him is ridiculous. Where else would they go for pizza?

As the scorching day ends without any relief and Sal is happily counting the receipts for his best day ever, a group of latecomers enter. Tired but willing to oblige, Sal extends his hours and serves them.

Meanwhile out on the street, Buggin Out gets Raheem involved in the cause. Together they go to the pizzeria. Buggin Out denounces the customers for spending money in a white establishment. Raheem turns up the volume on his boom box. "Fight the Power" rocks the walls.

Sal orders them out. They refuse. The box blares on and Sal loses it. He smashes the boom box with a baseball bat.

Enraged, Raheem reaches over the counter and grabs Sal. A melee breaks out as the customers try to pull him away. The police arrive. A crown gathers. Before quiet settles, a man is dead. Sal's pizzeria is trashed and burned. In one split second, 25 years of goodwill is destroyed.

In "Do the Right Thing," viewers understand the frustrations of all. Sal has worked long and hard in his pizzeria. On the other hand it was no big deal to please his customers by displaying pictures of their role models. Lee makes it painfully clear that everyone had the opportunity to do the right thing but nobody did.

Lee, who drew audiences' attention with his off-beat comedy, "She's Gotta Have It" and "School Daze," a look at conflicts of identity at a black college, is the author, producer, director and star of this remarkable film.

Controversial, provocative, compelling, thought-provoking, it is not incendiary as some have claimed. The riot at the end and the reasons for the resultant tragedy is fairly laid out. Questions are raised. No answers are given.

The film fades out with two quotes; one from Martin Luther King, the other from Malcolm X.

Sensitive ears might object to the frequent use of a four letter word which has become part of the street vernacular.

Film

Among those already on the street are a kindly old man in a straw hat who calls himself the "Mayor" (Ossie Davis). He holds a can of beer concealed in a paper bag and stops to help anyone who needs his assistance. Another is Radio Raheem (Bill Nunn) with his giant boom box blaring away.

Sal (Sanny Aiello) and his sons, Pino (John Turturro) and Vito (Richard Edson), are opening up their pizzeria. The brothers are arguing over which one should sweep the walk. Sal, who wants nothing but peace, threatens to kill someone before the day is over.

Mookie (Spike Lee), who delivers pizza for Sal, is not as industrious as Sal would like and he has not yet arrived.

Following the camera as it tours the neighborhood, we meet Mother Sisters (Ruby Dee) who sits in her window and monitors all that goes on in the street; Buggin Out (Roger Guenveur), a retarded man who roams the street pestering people to buy copies of what is apparently the only photograph of the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King and Malcolm X together, and Tina (Rosie Perez), Mookie's fiery Puerto Rican girlfriend and the mother of his son, Hector.

Other assorted characters include three old gentlemen who sit under an umbrella on the street arguing, commenting on passersby and conjecturing on where the Korean grocer across the street got his money to open his store.

Then there are the teenagers, blacks, Orientals, Italians, Latinos and Jews who occasionally clash in such non-violent encounters as hurling racial epithets at each other or engage in a contest with Radio Raheem to drown out his boom box with one of theirs. All in all, everyone has outwardly accommodated themselves to life on this street and Lee takes time to accent the point. There is fun and humor in many of sequences. There is no meanness, no drugs, rapes or muggings.

We see children romping in the water gushing from an open hydrant and young adults joining in the fun.

Central to the neighborhood is Sal's pizzeria. Everyone, young and old, comes in at one time or another for a "slice."

Sal is proud of his rapport with his black customers. "I've seen children grow up on my pizza," he tells his sons.

'Blithe Spirit'

Caroline de Faww, left, standing, of Grosse Pointe Park, rehearses Noel Coward's comedy to be performed at Grunow Theatre at Interlochen through Saturday, July 22, 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $3.50 and can be purchased at the door. De Faww is one of 2,400 students from throughout the United States and 32 foreign countries majoring in music, drama, dance or visual arts during an eight-week accelerated program at the camp for young artists.

Auditions

Auditions for "The Music Man" and "Blithe Spirit" will be held Monday and Tuesday, July 31 and Aug. 1, at 7:30 p.m. in the lower level of the Golden Lion Restaurant, 22380 Moross near Mack.

"The Music Man" will run Friday and Saturday evenings in November and December and "Blithe Spirit" will run Friday and Saturday evenings in January and February, 1990.

Five women and two men are needed for "Blithe Spirit," and six men and five women for "The Music Man."

No appointment is necessary and no prepared material is necessary. Readings will be held from the scripts of each production and vocal auditions will be held from the score of "The Music Man."

For more information, call 773-5914 between 6 p.m. and 8 p.m., Monday through Thursday.

Child actors

Peanut Butter Players, Detroit's only professional children's luncheon theater, is accepting applications for the 1989-90 season.

Interested experienced actors, under 18, should send a resume and black and white 8x10 head shot to 18241 Glenwood, Lathrup Village, Mich. 48076.

Qualified applicants will be invited to audition in early August. Deadline for resume submission is Aug. 5.

The Peanuts will open "The Wizard of Oz" Sept. 16 for a three-month run, every Saturday and Sunday in luncheon theater. The spring offering of the Peanut Butter Players will be a musical version of the Delia Ephron children's book "How To Eat Like a Child (And Other Lessons in Not Being a Grown-up)." The group will be performing at the Players Club, 3321 E. Jefferson Ave. in Detroit.

Macomb Center lines up 60 events

Macomb Center for the Performing Arts announced its new season lineup that features six Broadway musicals, two operas and a host of new faces who will join a select group of audience favorites returning by popular demand.

Heading the list of newcomers are singers Crystal Gale, Tony Orlando and Dawn, the McGuire Sisters, Eddie Rabbit, Fabian and versatile Ben Vereen.

Among those returning are several familiar vocal groups — Irish Rovers, Lettermen, Ink Spots, Platters, Drifters and Gatlin Brothers — along with singers Jack Jones and Kenny Rankin, pianist Roger Williams, Canadian Brass, P.D.Q. Bach, accordionist Myron Floren and other Stars of the Lawrence Welk Show, the Montovani and Glenn Miller orchestras, the Harmonicats and jazzman Boots Randolph.

Randolph, in what is becoming a tradition at the Center, will kick things off Sunday, Sept. 10, with his famous "yakety sax" and touring Nashville band.

All told, some 60 professional events will be presented during the 1989-90 season that runs through next May.

In announcing the new lineup, Executive Director Laurence L. Teal called it "the most star-studded" in the Center's eight years of providing the tri-county area with professional entertainment.

The all-new Broadway Series is made up of fully staged nationally touring productions of "Mame," "The Wiz," "No, No, Nanette," "West Side Story," and "Kismet," plus "Jesus Christ Superstar" produced by Macomb Community College's Music Theater Department.

The operas "Carmen" and "Romeo and Juliet," both staged by touring theater companies, highlight the Classical Series, along with a return of the Vienna Choir Boys.

For family yuletide entertainment there will be two performances of "A Christmas Carol," the Charles Dickens classic told in song and dance, and three early-evening performances of "The Night Before Christmas" fully staged and costumed by the Dayton Ballet.

There also will be a continuation of the 10-part Dennis Glen Cooper Travel Series, the Saturday Sunshine (children's) Series and the Sunday evening Big Band Dance Nights where the audience takes the stage to "dance the night away" after each of the concerts.

Tickets for all events go on sale July 13. Ticket and program information may be obtained at the Center's box office or by calling 286-2222, Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. The Center is located on the Center Campus of Macomb Community College at Hall (M-59) and Garfield roads in Clinton Township.

Wildlife gallery begins eighth year on the Hill

By Pat Paholsky
Editor

Mail boxes, wastebaskets, lamps, throw pillows, floor mats, bookends, fireplace tools, dog beds.

Taking the annual inventory at Wild Wings Gallery must take fortitude, perseverance and most of all, stamina. It takes time to shop here — the store is filled with myriad items.

Decorative decoys and fine carvings, gun cabinets, framed prints, oils, watercolors, brass ducks, weather vanes, books, notecards.

All items someone would expect to find at a store with the name of Wild Wings Gallery.

Delicate perfume bottles with frosted bird stoppers, crystal from Sweden, music boxes, porcelain songbirds, collector's plates.

"We are not just male-oriented," says Manager Louise Jabara. "We have something for everyone in different price ranges."

Wind socks, glassware, mugs, towels, napkin rings, hot pads, thermometers and barometers, wreaths.

Wild Wings is in its eighth year of business at 1 Kercheval, across from the Central Library. The store opened in May 1982, two years after the first Wild Wings opened in Plymouth. There is also a Birmingham store.

Watches, blazer buttons, tie tacs, handcarved pins, wallets, regulator clocks, mirrors, end tables and coffee tables, a wing chair and ottoman covered with a duck pattern.

Jabara's parents, Kal and Julia, run the Plymouth store, and her brother Dean operates the Birmingham store. The family business was begun by Kal Jabara in 1980 after he retired from the steel fabrication business. He and his brother owned a company in Plymouth.

"My father has always been a collector of art and a lover of the outdoors," Jabara said.

He secured the exclusive rights for Michigan from the Wild Wings headquarters in Lake City, Minn. and he works more now than he did before, according to his daughter.

"But it's a labor of love for him," she said.

"When you have a family business, you do the extras for customers," Jabara said. "There's a big difference; you can deliver at 7 at night. We gift wrap, do custom framing. I'll help people with appraisals of art and we'll special order things for people."

Jabara, who has a bachelor of arts degree in psychology from Wheaton College, worked in the Plymouth store for one year after graduation. She's been with the Grosse Pointe store since it opened.

She finds her training helpful. "Once you build trust with your customer, you strive to maintain it and they believe in you. My satisfaction is when my customer is satisfied."

Every member of the Jabara family is an environmentalist. Most wildlife artists are environmentalists, too, Jabara said, and their works promote the environment and benefit, through proceeds of sales, fish and wildlife programs.

Internationally recognized artists, like Canadian Robert Bateman, have made personal appearances at the store. This year's winner of the Federal Duck Stamp Competition, Neal R. Anderson, will visit the Grosse Pointe store this fall.

Walking through Wild Wings Gallery is like visiting a museum, Jabara said. "We want people to appreciate the art. We are not a hard-sell store; it's not necessary."

Wild Wings Gallery is open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday and until 9 p.m. on Thursdays. The store takes all major credit cards. The phone number is 885-4001.

Business People

Ronald J. Bernas

KPMG Peat Marwick partner William E. Bjork of Grosse Pointe Farms, was a session leader on the topic "Accounting for Financial Institutions" at the Michigan Association of CPAs and the Graduate School of Business Administration, Michigan State University Conference on Current Accounting Issues in May.

Grosse Pointe Farms residents Alvin Choma and John Wayne were installed as members of the board of directors for the American Polish Engineering Association in May.

Roy R. Broman of Grosse Pointe Park attended a two-day meeting of Suomi College's board recently. Broman is a chartered life underwriter with Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Company and is on the board of trustees of Suomi, which is located in Hancock in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan. Suomi is a private, two-year college and is the only college founded by Finns in the U.S. He has been on the board since 1975.

Grosse Pointe William E. Price, formerly general product manager for service parts for GM Service Parts Operations' SPO International sales staff, was recently appointed to director of marketing and customer relations for SPO International. Price joined General Motors in 1963 first as a merchandising representative. He held various positions and was named general product manager for service parts in 1987. He held that position until named to his current assignment.

Diane T. Emerick, independent accountant and owner of dt Bookkeeping Service, was voted Woman of the Year by the Grosse Pointe Chapter of the American Business Woman's Association. She is a resident of Grosse Pointe Woods and has been active with the Grosse Pointe Chapter since 1982. She is eligible to compete for the 1989 Top Ten Business Women of ABWA. The winners will be announced at the organization's national convention to be held in November. Annually, each of the ABWA's more than 2,000 chapters elects a Woman of the Year. Selection is based on achievements in the field of business, education, community activities and participation in ABWA.

The Detroit office of KPMG Peat Marwick recently announced that Grosse Pointe resident Richard G. David was admitted to the partnership. Prior to his admission he was a senior manager in the audit department specializing in serving middle market companies. He will direct KPMG Peat Marwick's High Technology practice in Michigan. He serves as treasurer of the Detroit Institute of Arts Founders Junior Council.

David

Edward Thomas of Grosse Pointe Park, president and chief executive officer of Detroit Receiving Hospital and University Health Center, was named chairman-elect of the Michigan Hospital Association Corporate Board recently. Thomas has served on many councils and task forces on the MHA, most recently as treasurer. He is an adjunct assistant professor in the department of Community Medicine at the Wayne State University School of Medicine.

Gene McKinney, director of communications of the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers Association, has been elected president of the 425-member Detroit chapter of the Public Relations Society of America for the 1989-90 program year. McKinney, MVMA communications director since 1980, has been employed by the association since 1976. He is formerly of Grosse Pointe.

McKinney

William Brace Krag has been elected a member of the Institute of Management Consultants and has been certified as a certified management consultant. Certification by the Institute of Management Consultants signifies that an individual consulting practitioner meets the institute's strict standards of technical competence, professional experience and ethical conduct. The institute's membership represents a significant proportion of the senior practitioners in the management consulting field. A resident of Grosse Pointe Farms, Krag is a principal at Arthur Young in Detroit.

McAlpine

John McAlpine of Grosse Pointe Woods has been appointed vice president of finance for The Crown Group. As vice president, McAlpine will assume full responsibility for all finance, accounting and computer activities. McAlpine joined the firm in 1986 and most recently was manager of the accounting and computer areas. He was previously with Arthur Andersen and Co.

Grosse Pointers who were honored with Detroit Press Club Foundation Awards for excellence in broadcast journalism were Mort Crim, who won second place in the television documentary category for "Coleman Young: The Mayor and the Man." Also honored for that piece was producer and Grosse Pointe John Owens. Crim also received a third place in the documentary category for "Flight 255: A Day Remembered," a half-hour special memorializing the 1987 plane crash at Detroit's Metropolitan Airport.

Three Grosse Pointers helped the Detroit office of Campbell-Mithun-Esty win awards from the International Advertising and International Radio Festivals of New York. Rex Roy of Grosse Pointe City worked on the copy for the award-winning "The Jeep Book," a full-line showroom catalog. Michael Belitsov of Grosse Pointe City was the creative director of the "Rock Star" print ad which received a finalist certificate in the automotive category. Mary Ellen Krawczyk of Grosse Pointe Park was the producer of a bronze medal for radio advertisements created for the Jeep/Eagle Dealers.

Whitney estate to be auctioned

A collection from the estate of Phyllis Whitney will be up for auction at DuMouchelles Art Galleries Friday, Saturday and Sunday, July 21-23.

She was the wife of David Marshall Whitney, scion of one of Detroit's most distinguished families. Items set for auction represent pieces of history that span three generations of the Whitney family.

Items include antique English and French china and a Tiffany tall case clock by Walter Durfee that belonged to David Whitney's grandfather, financier and developer David Whitney Jr., whose mansion is now the site of The Whitney restaurant on Woodward.

The auction on Friday begins at 7 p.m. in the galleries at 409 E. Jefferson, across from the Renaissance Center. The Saturday auction is at 11 a.m. and Sunday at noon. Telephone bids are accepted with prior arrangements. For information or catalogs, call 963-6255.

Grant applications open

The Clayton K. Stroup Foundation, dedicated to funding professional substance abuse treatment and quality care for the less fortunate, is accepting applications for grants that will be awarded at the annual dinner Oct. 13. Focus for this year's event will be pregnant addicts and their impact on society in the future.

The foundation will award three mini-grants totaling $3,000 with consideration of funding up to a maximum of three years, one year at a time. Tax-exempt organizations are encouraged to apply. Consideration will focus on the following: treatment services to the indigent; prevention; education; and research.

Submit five copies of your proposal for funding to Stephen N. LeBel, President, Clayton K. Stroup Foundation, 1110 Eldon Baker Drive, Flint, Mich. 48507, (313) 744-3600.

County joins eyes, ears program

With school out and children playing outside during the summer vacation, Wayne County Executive Edward H. McNamara announced that the county will join the "Eyes and Ears" program initiated by the public utilities.

"Eyes and Ears" identification decals, supplied by Detroit Edison, have been affixed to more than 275 orange Wayne County Department of Public Service radio-equipped vehicles.

The purpose of the logo is to alert the public, especially young people that the vehicle is an emergency reporting station and the county employee operating the vehicle is trained to request emergency assistance.

The primary focus of the "Eyes and Ears" program will be reporting suspicious persons and situations that appear to be related to sexual assaults, abductions and rapes. In addition, they will be on the lookout for fires, burglaries and other types of crime-related activities. Nearly 650 employees have been trained in crime-reporting techniques by Detroit Police Department instructors.

Computer volunteers needed

The Grosse Pointe libraries have offered public access Apple computers for several years, and are now adding IBM XT-compatible computers at all three libraries. These machines will feature color monitors, 640 kilobytes of memory and 30 megabyte hard drives with built-in software.

Anyone interested in using the public access microcomputers must first take a brief introductory course (about one hour) to become familiar with the machines and the library's rules for their operation.

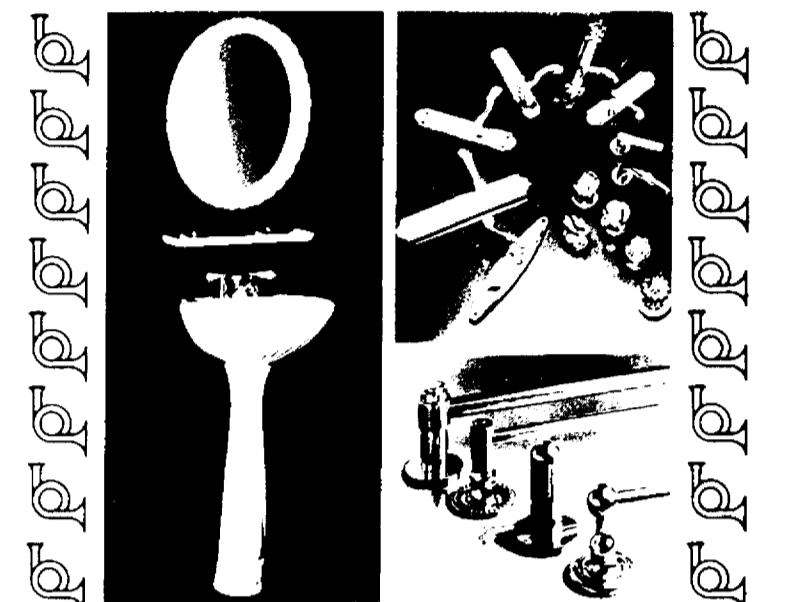

Separate courses for the IBM and Apple computers are taught in the A-V room at Central Library by volunteers or library staff. To use the Apple computer, you must take the Apple course, and to use the IBM-compatible computer, you must attend the IBM course.

A schedule of courses if posted in the A-V room or may be obtained by phoning 343-2083.

Blaine Morrow, coordinator of automated services for the Grosse Pointe libraries, is recruiting volunteers to help teach the introductory courses for these computers. Anyone with experience using an Apple or IBM-compatible microcomputer and interested in helping to train others should contact Morrow at 343-2340.

SEMCOG honors Kaess

Grosse Pointe Farms Councilwoman Gail Kaess was honored recently for her contributions to the quality of life in the region.

SEMCOG, the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments, each year honors one or two individuals as Regional Ambassadors. Kaess was this year's honoree and was recognized June 22 during the annual meeting of SEMCOG's General Assembly.

Kaess, a senior research analyst for Wayne County, has been involved with SEMCOG for a decade and has served as chairperson of its DataCenter Advisory Council (DAC) for three years. The DAC's primary responsibility is the Regional Development Forecast, which occurs once every five years and forecasts the number of jobs, residents and households in 1,400 small areas of the region.

Kaess also has made her mark in the area of environment by serving as chairperson of the Detroit River Celebration for two years in a row. The celebration has aimed to create awareness of the Detroit River as an attribute to greater Detroit.

As president of the Michigan Municipal League, Kaess has literally served as an ambassador of Metropolitan Detroit to the rest of the state. Speaking to municipalities statewide, Kaess spreads good word about SEMCOG and government leadership in the region.

Flower power: July 28-30 is 16th annual garden tour

By Margie Reins Smith
Feature Editor

Seven Grosse Pointe gardens will be dressed in their best and ready for company next weekend — all leafed-out, planted, trimmed, fed and fragrant, waiting for visitors to the Council of Grosse Pointe Garden Clubs' 16th annual summer garden tour.

Proceeds from the three-day event go directly back into beautification programs for all five Grosse Pointes.

The tour is expected to attract between 800 and 1,000 people, and will include — besides a peek into some of Grosse Pointe's best-loved and best-tended gardens — complimentary refreshments and an opportunity to shop for handmade crafts in the Detroit Garden Center's Upstairs Shop.

Tour-goers look forward to opportunities for picking up — plagiarizing, if you will — garden tips, tricks, pointers and creative design ideas for their own gardens.

They won't be disappointed.

This year's tour offers a variety of gardens styles: large formal designs — tiny patio-centered gardens — landscaped areas designed for entertaining — eclectic wildflower plots — vegetable gardens — low maintenance gardens — family-tended gardens — gardens that feature ponds, pools, fountains, fish, frogs, pots and plants — even a yard with family antiques incorporated into the outdoor setting.

In addition to tours of six private gardens, the Grosse Pointe War Memorial's Trial Gardens will be open for viewing. The 37-year old Trial Gardens include a historic centerpiece: the French granite millstone from the early Windmill Pointe mill. The stone dates back to the mid-1700s and has an interesting history of its own.

This year's Trial Garden theme is American Patchwork Quilts. Participating garden clubs have designed plantings to recreate the bright colors and classic patterns of heirloom quilts.

However, it's the private backyards which remain the best sources of new gardening ideas for the green thumb set.

The Lutz Garden, 1029 Yorkshire in Grosse Pointe Park, is dominated by a huge red maple that spreads its canopy over nearly the entire yard. Charming patio and walkways are made of New York Bluestone. A perennial garden surrounds, made up of such colorful as yellow yarrow, pink astilbe and blue spiderwort. Interspersed around the far reaches of the area are lilacs, rhododendrons and dogwoods.

The garden was designed by James J. Leamon as an undergraduate study when he was a student at Michigan State University.

The Abbott Garden, 430 University Place in Grosse Pointe Park, features a spacious redwood deck, a paisley-shaped pool and a terrace with fieldstone boulders which separate the upper and lower gardens.

The owner has planted a charming wildflower garden that includes a tall yellow heliopsis that she says blooms from July until the first frost and provides a welcome addition to year-round dried flower arrangements.

She also carefully tends a pair of currant bushes — one a rare English golden currant — which are the sources of fruit for her homemade currant jelly.

Also included in this very personal garden are gooseberry bushes, a French lilac, white pine, pussy willows, profuse clusters of white and Concord grapes, and a Canadian hemlock.

The Brown Garden, 423 Fisher Road in Grosse Pointe City, is a true family garden. It's been designed, landscaped, constructed and tended by family members, and its focal points are a collection of rustic family antiques which are incorporated into the overall design. A two-level fish pond is filled with goldfish. (The owner said the little critters spend the winter in the family's bathtub.)

A 100-year old water pump from the family farm in Ohio is part of the pond's design. A huge old-fashioned dinner bell on a pole stands beside the garage. It's used when the grandchildren visit.

The front yard features masses of colorful impatiens, a raised berm and two large elm trees.

Family photos will be displayed to depict the transformation of this garden.

The Allen Garden, 71 Moross Road, Grosse Pointe Farms, was designed as a private family retreat. The back yard, formerly used as the children's play area, was redesigned three years ago as a small adult oasis by landscape designer Marguerite Decker.

There's no grass to mow in the back of the house. Instead, a mixture of evergreens, flowering shrubs and trees, perennials and ground cover surround and enhance the sandstone patio, the pond and fountain. Flower beds are raised for easier tending and they double as extra seating for entertaining. Apple and mulberry trees provide coolness and shade for the pond, which is home to fish, frogs and pond-loving plants such as papyrus, cattails, Boston fern, iris and water lilies.

The owners maintain the garden themselves. The wife does the gardening; the husband does the pond work.

The DeWitt Garden, 540 Sunningdale in Grosse Pointe Woods, features deep beds of Baltic Ivy, rhododendrons, pink azaleas, blue scilla and white flowering dogwoods. The brick terrace, which dominates the back yard, is accented by plantings and bright clay pots full of impatiens. It gets its cooling afternoon shade from a towering white pine and a canoe birch tree.

Red roses climb the white trellis and old-fashioned garden swing in the far corner of the yard, and annuals provide splashes of color throughout the growing season. Bill Whetstone edge, and a vegetable garden.

The 1989 Summer Garden Tour will be Friday, Saturday and Sunday, July 28, 29 and 30, from 1 to 5 p.m., rain or shine.

Tickets are $7.50 on the days of the tour and may be purchased at any of the gardens.

Pre-sale tickets are $6 and are available at the Garden Center at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial on Tuesdays through Thursdays; at Maskell Hardware, Mack and Cadioux; at Grosse Pointe Florists, 174 Kerby Road; and at Hollywood Pharmacy, 20853 Mack Ave.

Complimentary refreshments will be available on tour days at the Abbott Garden. The Detroit

Garden.

Coordinators for this year's tour are Doris Gardner, Margaret Bordon and Jane Mertz.

Honorary chairman is Jeanne Lowe.

The Thornton Garden, 1040 Lakeshore Drive, features a vegetable garden, a grape arbor, and masses of sun-loving shasta daisies. A special lily-of-the-valley, imported from Europe years ago, provides larger flowers and a stronger fragrance than domestic varieties.

The owners, who have raised a family and lived in the house for 40 years, have incorporated family interests into the garden's design — a girl's playhouse, a seaplane ramp at the water's

Study shows most women choose jobs close to home

By Joy Aschenback
National Geographic News Service

A suburban woman gives up a challenging desk job downtown and switches to the assembly-line tedium of stitching labels on sweaters in a factory closer to home.

It's just another example of how geography restricts the role of women in the workplace.

Despite the prevalence of such episodes, geography has been almost completely ignored in studies of why women work where they do and why many find themselves in occupationally segregated situations, said Susan Hanson, director of the School of Geography at Clark University in Worcester, Mass.

In a survey of journey-to-work patterns in the Worcester metropolitan area, Hanson found that spatial constraints — geographic factors — limit job choices for women much more often than they do for men.

Nearly 55 percent of the women surveyed, but only 7 percent of the men, mentioned "located close to home" or "conveniently located" as a reason for choosing a particular job.

Closely coupled with the distance factor were work hours. More than 43 percent of the women, but only 6 percent of the men, cited the importance of "good working hours" or "hours that fit my needs."

Worcester women generally work much closer to home than men, both in travel time and distance: women, about 16 minutes away; men, at least 21.

Women in female-dominated occupations, ones in which at least 70 percent of the employees are women, work significantly closer to home than women in male-dominated or gender-integrated fields. Among female-dominated occupations are teaching, nursing, secretarial, and clerical positions.

"Women are more likely to ask what jobs are available within a 10- or 15-minute radius of home, within walking distance, or on a bus line," Hanson said. "The role of geography is very clear in their decision to go to work and in what opportunities they'll consider."

Forty-six percent of the women surveyed who held full-time jobs, and 66 percent of those who worked part time were employed in female-dominated occupations, she found.

"It's the fact that female-dominated jobs are available as shift work, on a part-time basis, or close to home — coupled with the time and space constraints that women face at certain points in their lives — that leads to the segregation of women within disadvantaged segments of the labor market," said geographer Geraldine Pratt of the University of British Columbia, who collaborated the survey.

Although the two geographers' findings cannot be projected to the United States as a whole, metropolitan Worcester, with a population of 375,000, reflects the national percentage of women who work, about 51 percent.

G.P. Rotary to sponsor club behind iron curtain

John Brooks, president of Grosse Pointe Rotary, announced plans to establish a Rotary Club in Crakow, Poland.

At the July 10 meeting, Brooks told members that Grosse Pointe Rotary and Hamtramck Rotary would jointly sponsor the formation of a new club behind the Iron Curtain. Judge Benjamin Stanczyk of the Hamtramck club has already visited Cracow.

Providing citizens of a communist country with the support and ideology of Rotary is one way for Rotary to extend its goal of world community service, according to a club spokesman.

The Hamtramck club founded the Grosse Pointe club more than 50 years ago.

Marowski, director; and Mark Zmyslowski, treasurer. Not shown are Ron Vitale, first vice president; James Alle, second vice president; and Mark Raveschot, secretary.

Contestants needed for Columbus Day queen

Over $1,000 in prizes await the 1989 Columbus Day queen who will reign over the Columbus Day festivities for the two-day weekend Oct. 7 & 8. Plans are under way for the 1989 Columbus Day Queen Contest, to be held Sunday, Sept. 10, at Zucaro's Country House, in Mount Clemens.

Contestants are currently being sought. The contest is open to any girl of Italian origin who is 17 to 23 years old as of July 30 who is not or has never been a professional model.

A current black and white (3" x 5" or 5" x 7"), must be submitted for release to be published in the program book. Each contestant will be judged in a one-piece bathing suit and evening gown.

The winner will represent the total Italian community at many civil and social functions during her one-year reign as Columbus Day Queen.

If you would like to enter, or know of any young lady who would qualify, please call Queen Contest Chairman Jo Anne Sprietzer at 642-0320 or 792-4440; or Marlene Baker at 573-6552.

Stagecrafters are holding auditions

Stagecrafters will hold auditions for Rodgers and Hammerstein's "Carousel" on Monday, July 31 and Tuesday, Aug. 1. Registration is at 7 p.m. with auditions beginning at 7:30 p.m. each evening at the Baldwin Theatre, 415 S. Lafayette, Royal Oak.

All auditionees are asked to prepare a song from the show for the audition and dress comfortably for movement auditions. Readings from the script will also be required.

"Carousel" is being directed by Craig Juleff with vocal direction by Mike Smith and choreography by Tom Mullen. Co-producer is Rick Bodick, of Grosse Pointe Players.

Production dates are September 29 through October 22 at the Baldwin Theatre.

Capuchin Souper Summer Celebration VIII: Friday, July 21

The work of the Capuchin Community Center, founded 50 years ago, has always been to feed people in need, in a clean, safe and respectful atmosphere. Volunteers often serve more than a thousand people during a single day.

In addition, the Center provides emergency assistance of all types to people who need it, such as meals for shut-ins, a recreation program for neighborhood youngsters during the summer, clean used clothing, furniture and household items, counseling, educational programs as well as referrals for those who need medical, legal and psychological assistance.

The eighth annual benefit for the Center — Capuchin Souper Summer Celebration VIII — will take place tomorrow, Friday, July 21 from 8 p.m. until 1 a.m. at the Roostertail, at the foot of Marquette Drive.

Sponsored by Edmund T. Ahee Jewelry Co., the theme this year is "Lifting Lives: Time After Time."

Admission is free. Snacks are complimentary. Cash bar. Live bands will represent different musical sounds: Johnny Trudell (big band), Royce (pop), The Suspects (top 40) and Tom Saunders Surfside Six (Dixieland).

Dress code? Anything from casual to semi-formal. Some $23,000 worth of prizes will be given away to lucky ticket-holders and 100 percent of the proceeds will be given to the Capuchin Community Center.

Tickets are $1 each and may be purchased during the party or in advance from Edmund T. Ahee Jewelers in Grosse Pointe Woods or at the Capuchin Community Center, 1760 Mount Elliott, Detroit.

Prizes will be awarded starting at 11:45 p.m. and more than 28 luxurious items are up for grabs, including a $10,000 ladies diamond choker necklace with 119 brilliant cut diamonds.

Also to be given away: several watches, diamond bracelets, and a diamond and gold ring. Lucky ticket-holders don't even have to be there to win.

According to the Ahee family, the first benefit, which was eight years ago, raised $5,000.

Last year, more than 2,000 people attended, netting more than $115,000 for the Center.

This year... so far... more than $90,000 has been raised. This is the largest fundraiser for the Capuchin Community Center, except for their own SOCK dinner.

Call 886-4600 for more details.

More fundraising will be going on July 27 for the Michigan Parkinson Foundation.

Grosse Pointer Ronald C. Lamparter is one of the three co-chairmen for the first-time benefit that will include cocktails, dinner and an auction.

Co-hosts for the event include Grosse Pointers Judy and Randy Agley, Sandy and Bill Baer, Marlene and John Boll, Carol and Tom Cracchiolo, Mary and Ron Lamparter,

Jane and Ken Meade, Nora and Manny Moroun, Darlene and Tony Soave and Nancy and Mike Timmis.

More antique car doings will be Sunday, Aug. 6, from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. on the grounds of the Meadow Brook Estate.

Oakland University's 11th annual Concours d'Elegance, a benefit for Meadow Brook Hall, the 100-room mansion of automobile baroness Matilda Dodge Wilson, will include three days of vintage and classic automobile events.

One of the 200 automobile collectables is a 1922 Mercedes Benz owned by George Hendrie of Grosse Pointe.

The benefit will also include an exhibition of automotive art, vintage car races and a parade.

For more information, call 370-3140.

Fontbonne Auxiliary of St. John Hospital and Medical Center has a new president. Grosse Pointer Patricia Young recently took over the two-year position from Pattie Klimchuk of St. Clair Shores.

Leadership for the next two years includes Verence McQuade, S.S.J., auxiliary director; Victoria Keys, president-elect; Joan Gehrke, first vice president; Mary Lou LeFevre, second vice president; Mary Tulloch, third vice president; Jane Young, recording secretary; Maureen McCabe, corresponding secretary; Carol Ann Cracchiolo, treasurer; Alice Reisig, assistant treasurer.

Members of the board of directors for 1989-91 are Cathy Andary, Catherine Baumgarten, Marie Brady, Sharon Burke, Sharon DiGiulio, Alice Grieshaber, Ann Humes, Betty Ireland, Patricia Jeffs and Pattie Klimchuk.

Other board members include Lucille Knop, Joanne Marcell, Patricia Motschall, Patricia Dress is creative. The only requirement: a black tie.

Donations for tickets is $30 in advance; $35 at the door. All proceeds will go to the American Cancer Society's research, service, rehabilitation and educational programs.

Last year, the American Cancer Society Young Professionals raised $12,300. They hope to double that this year.

Russian pianist Alexei Sultanov

gold medalist in the Van Cliburn International Piano Competition, will be in Detroit for the first time at a benefit for the Northwood Institute Detroit Arts and Business Council.

On Sunday, July 23, Sultanov will perform and will appear at a press conference and a private reception and buffet.

He is currently in his second year at the Moscow State Conservatory. At age 19, he was the youngest of 38 pianists in the recent international competition.

Longtime Northwood supporters include Grosse Pointers Mr. and Mrs. Carl Larson, Mr. and Mrs. George Slezak, Mr. and Mrs. J. Addison Bartush, and Northwood's Detroit area coordinator Sharon Snyder.

Eyes on the Classics

last weekend's benefit for the Detroit Institute of Ophthalmology, drew more than 7,000 people to see the best in automotive design and to recognize outstanding designers.

Held on the grounds of Grosse Pointe Academy, billed as the only auto design show in the world, the benefit raised more than $75,000 for the DIO's programs to preserve vision through education, research and support for the visually impaired.

Y.B. Bishai of Grosse Pointe Farms won first place in the European pre-war class with his 1929 Rolls Royce.

Commemorative posters of the 1989 Eyes on the Classics are available by mail. To order, write to the Detroit Institute of Ophthalmology, 15415 East Jefferson, Grosse Pointe Park or call 824-5554.

Next year's Eyes on the Classics is already in the planning stages. It'll be July 8.

What have you been up to for the last 50 years?

Twenty-one members of the class of 1939 from St. Rita High School answered this question, before a microphone, at a reunion held recently at the home of Joe and Halina Callahan of Grosse Pointe Woods.

The Rev. Edward Hurley, formerly of St. Rita's parish, now assistant at St. Lucy's Catholic Church, started the day-long reunion by celebrating Mass for the group.

The Great Elephant

Heist... a evening of mystery and intrigue... which took place June 20 at the Detroit Zoo, involved a few Grosse Pointers in the roles of characters, musicians and sleuths.

The event, a fundraiser for the Detroit Zoological Society, part of "Sunset at the Zoo," involved a mock crime... complete with obscure clues and celebrities dressed in Batman character costumes — along with a champagne reception, a progressive dinner, an auction by Du-Mouchelles Art Galleries and a raffle.

Tim Kiska, Detroit News writer, dressed as the Penguin, acted out clues to the mystery. Tom Saunders and the Surfside Six provided music. And amateur sleuthing was practiced by Mr. and Mrs. Paul D. Alandt, B.A. Bates Jr., Mr. and Mrs. William Wygard, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore A. McGraw, Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred R. Glancy III and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald E. Warren.

When teenagers get into drugs, they aren't the only ones who suffer. Whole families feel the pain. Shouting matches begin. Doors slam. The arguing seems endless. If you're going through times like this with your teenager, it may be hard to imagine ever spending more than a few minutes together without fighting — much less feeling close enough to hug.

But it is possible. Psychiatric Center of Michigan has programs designed especially to help teenagers with drug and alcohol problems. Our specially trained staff will work with you and your child to develop an individualized treatment plan — not only to help solve your teenager's drug problem, but also to help put your family back together again.

If you and your teenager are having trouble, and you suspect the problem is drugs, don't let it tear your family apart. Take the first step and call Psychiatric Center Hospital. We'll talk about the problem, possible solutions, and what the next step should be.

Whatever happened to What's Their Names?

The Rev. Robert E. Neily
St. Michael's Episcopal Church

Not all people are easily recognizable or famous — their names are not familiar to all, like Cher, Madonna or Bo. It is the unknown, the unsung, who make the world more human. The world is filled with those kinds of people. They are the ones whose contributions are on the good side of the ledger of life. I am thinking especially of those men and women whose manner of life or whose acts of interest or kindness down through the years have deeply affected our lives. They have cast their shadows upon and we are better or happier for it.

Have you heard of Epaphroditus or Euodia? I am sure many have not. Epaphroditus and Euodia are mentioned in Paul's letter to the Church in Philippi. Most people have heard of Abraham and Sarah, Mary, Paul, Moses, and many others, but Epaphroditus and Euodia? Paul calls Epaphroditus a brother, a fellow worker and "minister to my need." He declares that Euodia is a woman who "labored side by side with me in the gospel." Such descriptions would seem to indicate that they were the kind of people who would be there when you needed them.

Now I cannot recall ever having heard a sermon about either Epaphroditus or Euodia, and I know I have never preached one myself. Maybe I should sometime. They are unknown, unsung, unheard of. Yet, they were both seemingly persons who were present and important in the life of Paul.

We all know people like that. They write letters, they make phone calls, they bring food or surprise gifts, they bolster spirits, they visit and care for the sick, they do all sorts of things that need doing. Others serve on committees and work for justice, they vote, they are politically active, they care for the issues of the day. Like Epaphroditus and Euodia, they are often unknown, unsung, unheard of — and yet they make the world more human.

Sometimes when we are discouraged by the fact that people do not remember our names, or that they misspell them, or that they stumble about when they try to introduce us.

Take heart! Our names are not all that important. But our deeds are — what we do for others to ease their burdens and to make their lives brighter and better. If we are faithful in the performance of those opportunities that are ours and commit our lives to high purposes and to God — that is what counts in the long run even though sometimes people may refer to us as good old What's their names?

Camp . . . or school?

With a schedule that includes making crafts, singing songs, playing games and sharing stories, it seemed appropriate to change the name of First Christian Reformed Church's Vacation Bible School to Vacation Bible Camp.

The Camp runs from Aug. 7-11, from 9:30 to 11:45 a.m., for children from 4 years old through sixth grade.

Call the church office to register: 824-3511 or 331-3678. The church is at 1444 Maryland in Grosse Pointe Park.

Alliance for the Mentally Ill — Eastside

The Alliance for the Mentally Ill — Eastside, a support group for families with a mentally ill member, will hold an educational meeting Monday, July 24, at 7:30 p.m. at Cottage-Belmont Nursing Center, 19840 Harper, Harper Woods.

Clinic will discuss manic-depression and major depression (bipolar and unipolar diseases) with an emphasis on research. Relatives and friends of the mentally ill are invited to attend. For more information, call S. Dube, M.D., of Lafayette 839-9826 or 884-9005.

Christmas crafts in July

The Yuletide season is coming early to Macomb County with a Christmas in July craft sale at A Friend's House Adult Day Care Center in Warren, from July 17-28, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The center is located at 28111 Imperial Drive, one block south of 12 Mile Road and one block east of Hoover.

Most of the economically priced, holiday craft items are made by the older adults who attend the center. They include Christmas ornaments and wreaths, stuffed toys, magnets, wall plaques, potpourri, bird houses and all-occasion decorated baskets. Orders will be taken for special items.

A Friend's House provides structured programs of health, recreational and social support activities for frail older adults who need supervised care. It also gives much-needed respite to family members responsible for their care.

The center also offers support groups, counseling, information and referrals for caregiving families.

A Friend's House is sponsored by Catholic Services of Macomb and is supported by Title III-B and Title V Older American's Funds through the Southeast Michigan Area Agency on Aging.

For information, call 751-6260 on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

Widows plan Chicago trip

The Widows' Organization has plans for August.

Their annual picnic will be Saturday, Aug. 5 at Ford Field in Dearborn. The group will gather at a picnic table just south of the gazebo, three blocks north of Michigan Avenue and Monroe Avenue.

The Dearborn Homecoming Festival is taking place on that weekend and a variety of ethnic foods will be for sale, including Italian, Polish and American. There will be free entertainment and fireworks.

On Wednesday, Aug. 9, beginning at 7 p.m., there will be a meeting in Room 111 in the Henry Ford Centennial Library on Michigan Avenue, one block east of the Southfield Freeway. The theme will be: Let's talk about your health. Free coffee and doughnuts. Candidates for the upcoming election will attend.

On Friday, Aug. 18, the Widows' Organization will begin their seventh annual weekend in Chicago. The group will depart from the Dearborn train station on Michigan Avenue, one block west of Greenfield, at 7:55 a.m. and return Sunday, Aug. 20 at 8:30 p.m. The trip includes two nights and three days at the Westin Hotel in Chicago.

For more information, call 582-3792 between 1 and 5 p.m.

RSVP plans bowling benefit

Bowl of Fun, an evening of fun bowling to benefit RSVP of Macomb (Retired Senior Volunteer Program) is set for Friday, Aug. 18, at 7 p.m. at Continental Lanes in Roseville.

Regular bowling and bowling with surprise twists are planned along with prizes, mystery drawings and snacks at reduced prices.

Participants may sign up individually or as part of a team. People of all ages are eligible and experience is not necessary.

Registration fee for three games is $3 for adults; $2 for children 15 and under. Each bowler must secure a minimum of $12 in pledges.

Registration deadline is Aug. 10. Call 468-2616 for information.

RSVP of Macomb is a non-profit program of Catholic Services of Macomb that provides meaningful community service opportunities for individuals age 60 or over.

Phoebe Wall Howard
Wall-Howard

Phoebe Wall, daughter of Elizabeth Wall of Grosse Pointe and Robert Wall of Algonac, married James Spalding Howard, son of Minerva S. Howard of Columbia, Mo. on June 24, 1989 at Trinity Episcopal Cathedral in Little Rock, Ark.

The bride's gown was a white satin and Rochelle lace sheath. The Sabrina neckline, trimmed in heavily beaded Shiffler lace, was highlighted by slightly raised shoulders and tapering sleeves of beaded satin and Rochelle lace. The princess-line bodice and fitted skirt were also accented by beaded appliques of Shiffler lace. Jeweled scallops trimmed the sheath. The back of the bodice featured an open V effect, accented by pearl drapes and a large pearled medallion in the center back. A large bow at the skirt was also highlighted by pearled medallions and pearl drapes on the chapel train.

The bride wore a matching headpiece of pearl spray and a white two-tiered fingertip-length veil with a rolled edge. Her bouquet was a cascade of white Dendrobium orchids, white roses, Queen Anne's lace, and variegated ivy.

The groom wore a matching headpiece of pearl spray and a white two-tiered fingertip-length veil with a rolled edge. Her bouquet was a cascade of white Dendrobium orchids, white roses, Queen Anne's lace, and variegated ivy.

The groom also graduated from the University of Missouri at Columbia with a bachelor of journalism degree. He will attend the University of Arkansas School of Law at Little Rock in the fall.

The mother of the groom wore a tea-length light green silk dress and a corsage of three white roses, Queen Anne's lace and variegated ivy.

Ushers were Austin Bradford Howard of Chicago, the groom's brother; Pat Nichols of Columbia, Mo. and Howard Petrie of Kansas City. Charles Riggsby was the organist.

The bride graduated from Grosse Pointe South High School and earned a bachelor of journalism degree from the University of Missouri at Columbia. She is a reporter at the Arkansas Gazette in Little Rock.

The groom also graduated from the University of Missouri at Columbia with a bachelor of journalism degree. He will attend the University of Arkansas School of Law at Little Rock in the fall.

The couple traveled to Ixtapa, Mexico after the wedding. They live in Little Rock.

ated at the ceremony, which was followed by a reception aboard the yacht Kathleen W.

The matron of honor was Mar-etta Day of Hollywood, Fla.

Groomsmen were Steve Mulligan of Ft. Lauderdale and Joe Votta of Fort Lauderdale.

The bride is a graduate of Western Michigan University and works as a recruiter at Nova University.

The groom received an aircraft mechanics license from Embry Riddle Aeronautical University in Florida and works as an aircraft mechanic.

The couple honeymooned in Germany and Austria. They live in Ft. Lauderdale.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald C. Nietzsche

They wore strapless tea-length gowns of moire with puffed sleeves and bolero jackets and carried bouquets of Rubrum lilies.

Kevin Connolly of Rochester Hills was the best man. Groomsmen were Mark and James Shaway, brothers of the bride. The ringbearer was Frederic Moore, cousin of the bride.

The bride's mother wore an ivory silk tea-length dress with Alencon lace on the bodice and jacket and carried an orchid corsage.

The organist was Bob Foster. The soloist was Monica Setchelle.

The bride is a graduate of Grosse Pointe South High School and Michigan State University, where she earned a bachelor of science degree in marketing. She is employed as manager for Electronic Data Systems at General Motors Cadillac division.

The groom earned a bachelor of science degree in economics from Eastern Michigan University and is employed as a general sales manager for Marty Feldman Chevrolet.

The newlyweds traveled to Cape Cod. They live in Farmington Hills.

Bridge

HAVE A PLEASANT TRY AT PERFECTION
BRIDGE BY WOODY BOYD
THE PASTEBOARD PASTIME

Volumes have been written about the genuineness of his character and personality, the genius of his play and the gifts that Oswald Jacoby made to Bridge over a sixty-year span. I write about him because he was a friend who spurred me to play above mediocrity.

Three years ago, son Jim told me that my letter to his father in June of '84 was the last one he read. New York was Ozzie's favorite stage to play because the action was continuous, classic and his friends there were many. The great players of the world always made at least one prolonged stop each year. When it finally became difficult for Ozzie to travel, I would send him interesting hands from some of the stake games he loved to play in from one of his favorite clubs.

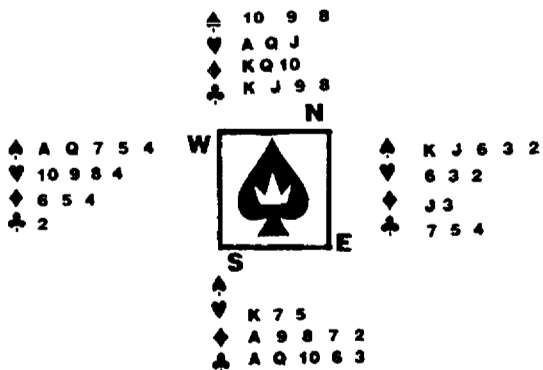

We first met when I was a fledgling member of the Regency Whist Club in 1960. It was my first experience at high stake bridge and my performance was a shade shy of catastrophic. Naturally, I should have had better sense and substantially greater resources, but I tapped Mr. Jacoby's table and was politely invited to participate. Ozzie cut the famous Greek General Constantine Platsis and I, unfortunately for him, drew Sherman Stearns whose reputation was formidable. The first three hands were a prelude to perdition and the fourth, a four spade play, was the most flagrant abuse of one's privilege to be declarer in the Club's exalted history. Eleven tricks were in sight and I found nine of them. Fortunately for my new found illustrious playing friends, the dinner hour was upon us and that was a credible excuse for them to beat a hasty retreat. Sherman's parting words were "Someday young man, you're going to be a fine member of this club". Needless to say, my high stake card playing career was mortally scarred. It took years of careful play for me to restore a modicum of their confidence, but they were superb gentlemen and eventually they threw fear to the four winds and embraced my modest game.

Of Ozzie's many bidding contributions, I like his transfers best. This device has two significant attributes. It allows the strong hand to remain concealed and the opening lead, often so crucial, comes to it too. In the past couple years, I've adapted to the four suit transfer, a derivative of Jacoby's creation and recently I added the three Diamond gadget which shows:

1. At least 5-4 in the minors
2. At least 11 high card points with game intentions and slam interest.

The responder's actual shape is determined by the no-trump bidder invoking a three-Heart asking bid. Three Spades then confirms 5-5 or better, and three no-trump shows 5-4 in the minors.

Today's hand from the Platsis Memorial Tournament at the Regency Whist Club in June of '88 helped Tom Smith and I eke out a close victory in this prestigious event. The opportunity to use the three Diamond call over a no-trump is rare, but what an instrument when such a holding is dealt.

The Grandy was almost a lay down and no other pair bid past six. I don't suggest that a good partnership couldn't find seven, but normal sequences make it difficult.

Mr. and Mrs. James Ronald Szabo

Trowell-Szabo

Susan Alice Trowell of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Trowell of St. Clair, Mich. and Boca Raton Fla., formerly of Grosse Pointe Farms, married James Ronald Szabo of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Szabo of Clearwater, Fla., on April 22, 1989, at the Church by the Sea in Fort Lauderdale.

Frederick E. Hummel officiated at the ceremony, which was followed by a reception at the Gourmet House.

Shaway-Nietzke

Sharon Marie Shaway, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Shaway of Grosse Pointe Park, married Donald C. Nietzsche of Farmington Hills June 11, 1989, at First English Evangelical Lutheran Church in Grosse Pointe Woods.

The Rev. Schmidt officiated at the 5 p.m. ceremony, which was followed by a reception at the Gourmet House.

The bride's gown was made of ivory peau de soie and featured a sweetheart neckline and double puffed bows as sleeves. Alencon lace with pearls and iridescent beads bordered the neckline and scalloped dropped waist. The chapel-length train and skirt were edged in a petite double lace ruffle with a deep border of Alencon lace, iridescent beads and seed pearls. She wore a Juliet cap of matching Alencon lace, edged with ribbon and cascading into a four-tiered chapel-length illusion veil. She carried a bouquet of orchids, roses and stephanotis.

Bridesmaids were Laurie Shaway, sister of the bride and Denise Nietzsche of Ann Arbor, daughter of the groom.

Good nutrition is easy with July's fresh fruits, vegetables

Hang up your sweaters and throw open the doors. Summer is finally here.

Meteorologists proclaim June 22 as the arrival of summer but pragmatists know differently. They know that June is a flit - warm, fragrant and lovely one day; cool, rainy and sloppy the next. July fulfills every promise of summer. July days awaken freshened by the cool night, bathed in the glory of the rising, crimson sun, melodious with the trilling of flitting birds, verdant and fragrant with dew rising from rainbow-hued blossoms.

July is a temptress, a siren, an enticement. Gaudy with color, voluptuously warm, seductively perfumed she lures even the most reluctant stay-in-the-house to come forth and enjoy her favors. July is summer in all its glory and promise.

Now is the time for leisurely walks in the stretched-out hours of evening, eating outside on the patio or sitting under the limitless sky in the yard with a book and a cool drink.

For older people it is a time of freedom from the confines of the house. The hazards of winter-chilling winds, icy sidewalks and long, dark days are over. Summer's July is a release and a renewal. It provides a setting that enables those who have endured winter's discontent to break away from winter's routine and to enjoy the bounties of nature.

July is therapeutic. The long warm days make living easy and everyone feels young again no matter what his or her age. If nature can recover from the ills of winter with such aplomb, surely the human spirit can experience that same resurgence and renewal.

However, if this is to be accomplished, it is important to relinquish one's self to the blessings of July's summer. Bask in the sun, breathe in the air and above all partake of July's bountiful foods. There is nothing more important to assure good health and vigor at any age than good nutrition.

Forget the coffee and roll breakfast, the tea and cake lunch, the soup and sandwich dinner. If you can get there, go to Eastern Market, a roadside stand or a local fruit market and select those fruits and vegetables that will make mealtime a joy versible merely by quitting the smoking habit.

Recognizing the enormous contribution adequate nutrition could make toward improving health, the National Institute on Aging has given high priority to research on the nutritional status and requirements of older density of affected bones makes them weak, porous and more susceptible to fracture. Recent surveys indicate that osteoporosis is more widespread than arthritis and about three times as common as diabetes. Although osteoporosis is thought to be a result of a combination of factors, chief among the causes is nutrition.

Studies have shown that among the most important measures for preventing osteoporosis are a sufficient calcium intake, a diet adequate in protein and other nutrients and possible treatment with vitamins and other nutritional supplements.

In support of this recommendation, the director of the National Institute of Arthritis, Metabolism and Digestive Diseases, Dr. Donald Wheden, cited research findings comparing osteoporosis patients with patients of the same age who did not have the disease. These findings suggest that persons with osteoporosis tend to have lower calcium intake. Studies also showed that the patients showed improved storage of calcium as intake was increased, for instance, by drinking more milk.

It may seem like a big jump from the joys of July to the ills brought on by poor nutrition, but the subjects do relate. One of the joys of July is the opportunity of feasting on good fresh food bursting with nutrients that will nourish and revive the body and keep it running through winter's parsimonious offerings until July comes again with its munificence.

Just visiting a market at this time of year will stimulate your appetite. The greens of fresh lettuce and spinach; cantaloupe, cut open to expose the orange juiciness of its meat; watermelons round and oblong, plain and striped with little peephole wedges cut to show how red and ready they are; strawberries; blueberries; corn and broccoli; and summer's favorite the tomato are there for your choosing.

If you only go once, don't miss the sights and sounds of the market in July. The memory will linger on in the dearth of winter, when by necessity you turn to canned and frozen foods. Looking at those pallid offerings you will recall with pleasure how good they were in their original state and will smile as you think, "Ah, I knew you when..."

Summer passes too soon, but the benefits will remain if the daily diet has included the fresh foods that are so plentiful and nutritious in this giving season.

Many people pay for improper eating with poor health. But changing bad habits can have a positive effect at any age. For example, more than one study has shown that some of the adverse effects of smoking are re-

One of the studies conducted by the NIA was the effects of overweight. Curiously enough, their studies indicated that the mortality rate appears to be lower in individuals who are currently classified as obese. There appeared to be some beneficial effects of mild and even moderate obesity in older people.

Other findings indicated the need for protein in older people was at least as great as in younger groups, that sufficient roughage and water must be included in the diet, and that daily exercise should be part of the prevention program.

Osteoporosis, a skeletal disease characterized by decreases in the amount and strength of bone tissue, is another concern of NIA. The reduction and mass of

A way of living.

Taking weight off and keeping it off are two different matters. For the first, you need a program that offers safe, rapid weight loss. For the second, you need a program that focuses on long term life style changes.

You need the leader in the field of obesity treatment. You need The Optifast Program conducted by Wayne State University and Harper Hospital.

Medically supervised, hospital and university affiliated, The Optifast Program offers a unique combination of safe, rapid weight loss, personalized nutritional counseling, exercise instruction, and a major focus on long term weight maintenance.

It's not easy, of course. But if you're willing to make the commitment, we've got the know-how—and an impressive 12-year record with more than a quarter million patients.

If you're fifty pounds or more overweight, call the number below and ask about our next orientation session. There's no obligation. And it could be the first step to a better way of life.

Teach kids to cook; they'll learn creativity

In this technical age, basic computer classes get more emphasis than home economics.

Parents can help their children by teaching them important kitchen skills that can lead to self-sufficient petite gourmets who find rewards in cooking for themselves.

Creating food can be exciting to children, especially when they help in the preparation. Taking children through simple recipes means they not only create different dishes to eat, but they learn the basics about the science, safety and nutrition of food. As a result, children know how to plan a variety of healthy meals and can be trusted alone in the kitchen.

Teaching The Basics

Children can begin helping in the kitchen at a young age reading recipes, setting the table or cleaning up after meals. More difficult tasks where the potential for injury is greater, such as boiling water or frying, should be restricted to older, more experienced children under an adult's supervision.

Because children have short attention spans, select recipes that have few steps. Children should read the recipe by themselves first. If necessary, involve more than one child in the preparation by assigning each one a different step. Rotate duties from one cooking session to the next so children can learn a variety of skills. Proper use of measuring cups and spoons, electric mixers and mixing bowls, the stove and various utensils, are lessons in themselves.

Help children appreciate the science involved in cooking. Point out the things adults sometimes take for granted, such as foods changing color during the cooking process. (Meat turns from red to brown when well-cooked.)

Explain how to protect food from spoilage by wrapping it tightly and refrigerating after use.

Children also can learn how spices and flavors are used in cooking. By sampling different tastes, children will learn the secret ingredients that make dishes taste hot and spicy, sweet and salty. Allow them to experiment with different recipes that have different characteristics to compare flavors.

Use Convenience Foods

Some of the best recipes for young cooks are made with convenience foods. A variety of canned foods, for example, is safe for children to handle and offers nutritional value comparable to fresh or frozen foods when prepared for the table. Once children are trained to properly use a can opener, it is easy for them to make a variety of meals.

Canned foods are cooked foods, so they need only brief heating before serving. Canned vegetables, fruits, soups, main dishes and pasta items, many of which come in single-serving cans, are easily microwaved after transfer to the serving bowl.

Here are a few tips on basic cooking every child should know:

- The location and proper use of cooking utensils and safety items.
- The importance of cleanliness for food preparation—clean hands, clean cutting board, etc.
- The importance of safety to prevent injury — using wooden spoons in pans, turning off stove and keeping pan handles turned inward to avoid accidents.
- The importance of good nutrition. Use foods from the four food groups: milk and cheese; meat, fish and poultry; fruits and vegetables; and breads and cereals; and explain why.

Keep your pantry and refrigerator stocked with a variety of items that children can prepare easily, such as: single serving canned items; a variety of lunchmeats, cheeses and bread for sandwiches; and crackers and healthy snacks such as nuts and raisins.

slices, cherries or blueberries (in juice syrup or pie filling) over layers of split shortcakes. Top with whipped cream or topping and a drizzle of syrup.

Children's Chicken Surprise

- 1 can (14 3/4 oz.) macaroni and cheese
- 1 can (10 3/4 oz.) cream of chicken or mushroom soup
- 1 can (5 oz.) chicken
- 1 can (4 oz.) mushrooms, sliced or stems and pieces
- 1/2 cup (2 oz.) shredded cheddar cheese

Microwave Method:

Spoon macaroni and soup into a buttered 1 1/2-quart microwave safe casserole. Cover and microwave on high power for 3 minutes. Stir to blend. Add chicken and mushrooms and their juice; stir to mix. Sprinkle with cheese. Microwave on high power for 2-3 minutes or until hot and cheese is melted.

Conventional Method:

Combine all ingredients in a buttered 1 1/2 quart casserole. Bake in 350° oven for 35-45 minutes or until hot. Sprinkle with cheese for last 5 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

BUYING REAL ESTATE?

Consider all the factors which eventually affect the outcome of your next real estate purchase.

By utilizing a BUYER BROKER as your agent you are the "client" — not just a customer of an agent.

Traditionally, sellers become clients when they employ agents to help them obtain the highest dollar amount for their property.

By law, that means whether or not the agent the buyer is working with is employed by the listing real estate company, he or she is bound to work in the best interest of the seller.

In other words, a customer does not have equal representation to that of the client.

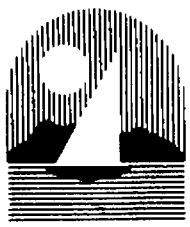

The BUYER is the one whose MONEY pays for the property. Therefore shouldn't you be the "client"?

LOCATION THAT CAN'T BE BEATEN

An open and shut case on value. This picturesque home in Grosse Pointe Woods is the best buy on the market. Located at 1181 Fairholme, it is the perfect family home for the rising young executive. Great for entertaining - both inside and out. Some of its many features include central air, three bedrooms, two baths, large kitchen with eating space, glass brick living room fireplace, and much more. All this for $129,900. - See you on Sunday.

Welcome to live-in elegance. This custom-built Colonial in Grosse Pointe City has style and elegance galore. From its location on a private drive, to its two-story foyer, it has a feeling of open spaces without the upkeep. Some of its homes many features are a large family room overlooking a Japanese garden, open kitchen with eating space, den, basement recreation room and studio. A wonderful family home with three bedrooms and two baths, it is also a home meant for entertaining.

Not a look-alike home. The tile roof and stone trim set this home apart from its neighbors. An updated kitchen, multi-fireplaces, screened porch and basement recreation room appeals to all of us. Call today and ask about this great three-bedroom, one-and-one-half bath English. A little tender loving care will make this a great home to be proud of for many years to come.

Since 1984, I have been professionally landscaped. My owners have given me a new roof, new gutters and downspouts, and painted my interior. They have updated my kitchen and installed new carpeting in two of my bedrooms. They have insulation blown in and even painted my basement but sadly they have also outgrown me. I am three bedroom, one-and-one half bath Grosse Pointe Park Tudor waiting to be purchased.

Boaters Paradise. This condo by the lake is perfect for the water lover. A single-family unit with two bedrooms and two baths. Some of its great features include a private patio, two-car attached garage, twenty-five foot boat well, lake privileges, sprinkler system, first-floor laundry, and a second-floor storage area ready to be finished for a third bedroom. Located in St. Clair Shores, this better-than-new condo is waiting for you.

Grosse Pointe A Unique Community

A Cultural Cornucopia Appreciation of the arts begins at an early age for Grosse Pointe children. The public library, a division of the Grosse Pointe Public School System, offers, at no cost, a variety of children's reading programs at its three locations.

For adults, the library programs range from travel films to informative presentations on subjects of current interest. These, too, are free to residents of all the Grosse Pointes.

Another great source of local culture is the beautiful War Memorial Center, the former mansion of the Russell A. Alger family. With its subsequently added ballroom and theater overlooking Lake St. Clair, the center is a community attraction that rivals the many private clubs in the area. Here—open to all residents—are offered art classes and exhibits, lectures, concerts, plays, ballet and social dancing instruction, and children's theater, as well as membership in a long list of special-interest clubs whose focus is either cultural, informative or just plain fun.

A more recent addition to public property is the Edsel and Eleanor Ford House. Designed by architect Albert Kahn and supported by a $15 million endowment, this gracious replica of an English manor house is now open for tours and is used for meetings, fund-raising events and several series of "house" concerts.

LINCOLN ROAD - ENGLISH AT IT'S FINEST - This charming home features elegant accents of oak and marble along with three and a half baths, a paneled library. Large carpeted recreation room with fireplace and bar - A great location, you can walk to schools, the Village and "The Hill." Possession can be arranged for September school opening. Call us for additional details.

FARMS RANCH - The perfect solution for anyone seeking two bedrooms, an expansion attic, a brand new kitchen, central air, attached garage, and a large terraced breezeway. This special offering is very well priced at $133,900. BETTER HURRY!

LUXURY RESIDENCE - FIRST FLOOR MASTER SUITE - This brand new home features Cape Cod styling, fireplaces in both the library and living room, a fabulous kitchen with bay windowed breakfast nook and many exceptional conveniences not built into older homes of our community. Ready for September 1989, we invite inquiries and you'll make decorating and cabinetry selections.

JUST REDUCED - This beautiful English residence has been completely redone in the past few years. Highlights include a newer kitchen, both a family room and a den, beautiful hardwood floors and custom window treatments. You won't find a neater home. Give us a call!

OVERLOOKING THE LAKE - 150 feet from Lake St. Clair, this lot offers a real opportunity to construct your dream home. Call us for details.

RIVIERA TERRACE - Spacious two bedroom two bath condo with new carpet throughout and very close to the clubhouse and pool.

1821 Severn Rd. - OPEN SUNDAY 3-5 P.M. - Impeccable, this three bedroom one and a half bath Colonial is located on one of the most sought after streets and features include a spacious updated kitchen, central air, new landscaping, a pleasant Florida room and PROFESSIONAL DECORATING. Call for details.

LAKESHORE VILLAGE CONDO - Location, Location, Location, this two bedroom townhouse is close to the pool and tennis courts and recent decoration completes the reasons for you to call us today.

A wealthy man

Bill Nagel, who has been called the historian of the Port Huron to Mackinac race, is a rich man.

Last week I had the opportunity to meet with Nagel at his home in the Park. I didn't search his checkbook, nor did I glance at his savings account. I didn't need to.

Money, whether this man prospers from it or not, doesn't matter. What he has is much more valuable than that paper stuff that makes the world go round. Nagel is a walking encyclopedia.

Nagel declares that all he ever was, and still is, is a sailing bum. That may be true, but even in his spare time he headed the prestigious Cook Travel Bureau in the Cook Hotel. Now he sits in his blue leather chair reminiscing about the good old days. And, at 78 he's got many things to remember.

His livelihood was sailing, not booking plane trips. He began sailing at 7 and from that point on fell in love with the water. When he sweats, his pores emit sea salt. When he talks, he talks with an authoritative captain's voice. He's a man of great wisdom, with never a boring story to tell.

A captain of the seas during World War II, Nagel used his schooling and skills to skipper a 169-foot tugboat. A Bayview Yacht Club member for 53 years, Nagel remains a staunch supporter of sailing, despite not sailing in a Mackinac race for at least 12 years.

"I used to love the competition of long-distance racing," Nagel said. "I never liked sports that you had to compete against yourself."

Nagel knows aging is imminent, but his foremost thought is not being able to help other sailors.

"One of the things about the aging process I really don't like," said Nagel, "is not being able to sail. The other stuff I can handle. At my age, it's just difficult to take because I can't contribute anything to sailing."

On the contrary, he offers knowledge and expertise. Without a second thought, he can tell you how many nautical and statute miles lie between Milwaukee and Detroit. He can tell you the best way to get to Charlevoix, too.

"One day a guy asked me how to get there," Nagel recalled, "and I told him to spend about $40,000 on a boat and head up Lake Huron until ... That's the only way I knew."

Nagel is like a fish out of water. However, he rests on the memories and anecdotes he has created and lived through. He thrives on talking about his heydays when there used to be only 12 boats in a Mackinac race. Simply, he enjoys talking.

"If bull pooh (paraphrasing of course) were music, I'd have my own band," he says.

In 1972, Nagel's skippering days ended with the sail of his 44-footer Last Straw. Sailing has ended, but the articulate and well versed Nagel remains a highly respected sailor. As one person said, you can take the man out of sailing, but you can't take the sailing out of Nagel.

In two hours, Bill Nagel took me from his 14-foot dinghy to his 169-foot tugboat, to his Last Straw and I enjoyed every bit of it. He's a man of distinction, who enjoys the quote from Dr. Samuel Johnson: "A man who'd go to sea for pleasure, would go to hell for a pastime."

I guess Nagel's been to hell for some time then.

History, nostalgia fill Mackinac sailboat race

By Rob Fulton
Sports Editor

The Bayview Yacht Club Port Huron to Mackinac Sailboat Race will be embarking on its 65th running on July 22. However, if it wasn't for the first fleet of 12 boats in 1925, the Mackinac may have never come to pass.

Some 65 years later, the Port Huron to Mackinac race ranks as one of the most prestigious sailboat races in North America. Boaters from Illinois, Florida, Canada, California and even England, make the trip just to sail in the 259-nautical mile race that rotates weekends with the Chicago to Mackinac race. Now, the Chicago and Port Huron races are run one week apart.

Fujimo was the overall winner last year.

Through the years, boats have become safer, the course has been re-routed and the fleet has increased. On Saturday, more than 300 boats will head for Mackinac Island, hoping to win their respective class.

• Pointers in the race. See page 2C.

THIS YEAR, just like in years previous, many "Old Goats" will be christened. An Old Goat is a sailor who races in at least 25 Mackinac races. Many younger sailors will be introduced to Cove Island (the half-way point), while others will stay at home and savor their memories. Many, however, may not know how the Port Huron to Mackinac race evolved.

"Many old time sailors, such as myself, know," said race historian Bill Nagel. "But many other sailors will become a part of history when they finish at Mackinac. This race is the greatest on the Great Lakes and I'm sure that the majority of the people racing know how prestigious of an event this really is."

In 1924, Dr. W.A. Wilson, Bayview's rear commodore, and his 50 club members welcomed Herb Stone, editor and publisher of Yachting Magazine, to their little tin shanty in Waterworks Park. Stone, who according to Nagel was a staunch supporter of sailing, started to plant the bug of sailing in a long-distance race. Many of the club members, all of whom sailed, heeded Stone's advice.

"STONE AND DOC Wilson began talking and Stone suggested some of the fellas go to the Bermuda Race," recalled Nagel. "Stone said the guys should charter a boat and race. So they did and wouldn't you know it, they won their class."

The Bermuda Race is run every other year.

Upon return, Stone began implementing a new concept to the Bayview sailors, that would later be coined as the Port Huron to Mackinac race.

"Stone said, 'Why don't we start a long distance race on Lake Huron,'" said Nagel. "None of the guys realized it had been tried before, but took a liking to the idea."

According to Nagel, a few sailors — including his father, Harry Kendall and Alpheus Jennings — tried a long-distance race on Lake Huron in 1895 or 1896.

"It had been tried, not done before," Nagel said. "They (the sailors) made the mistake of starting at Russell, which meant they had to go through Lake St. Clair and the river in order to get Lake Huron. The problem wasn't the starting point, however, it was the swift current."

In the early 1930s, the Bayview and Chicago races shared the same weekend for their starts. Chicago wasn't about to yield its tradition while Bayview was beginning one, so alternative weekends were not feasible.

"CHICAGO REALLY had no need for our boats," said Nagel. "They were the big guy on the block and they didn't have to court Bayview because they were getting enough sailboats out of Milwaukee, and their fleet was big enough."

Also, the Inter-Lake Yachting Association was hosting its eight-day regatta in Put-In Bay one week later, so people from this area would run the Port Huron race and then go to the ILYA race.

"The ILYA always drew more boats," said Nagel. "The ILYA regatta was the oldest and because it ran a week, people could get more sailing in. Also, it was a lot closer than having to get to Chicago. Back then you would have had to sail to Mackinac and down to Chicago for the start. That was too much."

Now people transport boats by land.

"Times are a changin', my friend," Nagel said. "People have more money now and better resources."

BECAUSE OF THE ILYA race, the Port Huron to Mackinac fleet didn't increase much over the next 10 years.

"We went from 12 boats to maybe 25 by 1935," said Nagel. "The ILYA regatta was just too strong."

While Chicago wouldn't budge on its stand to not alternate weekends, most sailors — even in Chicago — began to see that the more competitive boats from Detroit couldn't compete against Chicago. However, that didn't seem to matter so both races continued without stiff competition from their Great Lake counterparts.

"There were so many great boats that raced in both races

Mackinac

that it was a shame they couldn't go head to head," said Nagel. "It never really dawned on anybody that Chicago would compete against Detroit. And, it was kind of a shame that the entire two fleets couldn't sail against one another.

"Chicago was reluctant to do something to be compatible with Detroit," added Nagel. "Chicago didn't pay much attention to our race, but over time I think it's safe to say that where sailing is concerned, we have superseded them."

For more than 20 years, a campaign to rotate weekends was mounted, but never came to pass. A few more boats came into the fleet, but then came the interruption of World War II. Shortly after that, the campaign intensified.

"AFTER THE WAR our reputation began to grow," said

Nagel, who raced in his first Mackinac in 1928. "Many people were expressing an interest to race in both races so we just wanted the races to begin on separate, yet back-to-back weekends."

Finally in 1954, with Nagel as commodore of Bayview, the Chicago organizers conceded.

"We proposed that one year the Chicago race goes first, followed by ours, and the following year we swap. We asked them to take the odd years, and we'd take the even years.

"They agreed because the fleets were getting bigger," Nagel added. "I believe they also thought that it would have to happen sooner or later."

The fleet improved from 55 to more than 120 by the mid 50s.

"More people could afford a boat," said Nagel, who raced in 32 Mackinacs. "Don't forget also, that sailing was catching on, plus more women became interested. All of those reasons have to be factored in when you ask why did the fleet increase."

Incentives also helped the increase.

"We used to entice them (boat-ers) with a few cases of beer if they raced," said Nagel. "In the 50s, we never even thought of an entry fee, so that was our way of getting some more people interested in sailing to Mackinac."

The agreement between clubs also meant that Port Huron could become more of a show-place.

"Many people think the Blue Water Festival (which runs the week prior to the race in Port Huron) started the Mackinac," Nagel said. "Well, let me set the record straight. The festival was started by the race. I also believe the race put Port Huron on the map."

The festival has run for 51 years.

The Bayview to Mackinac race, which is not run under the auspices of anybody, began as an invitation only race and remains that way today. The course has been redirected through the years, making it more comparable to the Chicago race, but at one time sailors struggled to find Cove Island.

"Before we re-introduced Cove Island," said Nagel, "the boats had trouble finding it. Nobody could see it because it was foggy and the boats didn't have navigational instruments so it was tough to tell if you had rounded it or not."

"We used to have a course that was a straight shot up the lake, but we had to make it longer," Nagel said. "We really had no other place to go and the course has been like that for quite sometime."

FROM THE LATE 50s and on, the advent of navigational equipment occurred. Radio direction finders, better materials, life lines, winches, stainless steel and other materials hyped the sport and made it easier to sail.

"When you can punch a couple of buttons and receive your latitude and longitude, you're in pretty good shape," Nagel said. "The times have changed, haven't they?"

The Bayview Yacht Club Port Huron to Mackinac Race has graduated from "55-foot boxes" to 78-foot fiberglass boats. Port Huron still throws its Blue Water Festival and thousands of people line the Black River to bid farewell to the competing boats the morning of the race. The Mackinac race is bigger than any of those sailors ever dreamed.

"It all began as a dream," said Nagel, "and now it's one of the greatest things on the earth. Many people have contributed to this sport, and many more will. The Port Huron to Mackinac race will never die... it's just too big."

Grosse Pointe Cable will be airing the race results on Channel 32 Lakeshore from 5 p.m. Friday, July 21 until the race is completed.

Dutch Schmidt's "Sassy" was the first to cross the finish line in the Port Huron to Mackinac last year, and finished fifth overall. "Sassy" was the 1987 overall winner.

Buhl takes checkered flag

Robbie Buhl jumped to within three points of first place in the Barber-SAAB Pro Racing Series with a stirring win at Watkins Glen, N.Y. July 2.

The win, the second for the Grosse Pointe native this year, gives Buhl 87 points at the halfway mark in the 12-race series. Buhl trails leader Justin Bell (90) who finished second at Watkins Glen.

Buhl, who qualified fourth at Watkins Glen, jumped into second place before the end of the first lap, took over first from Bell by the end of the second lap and threatened to make the race a blowout before tire wear began to slow him down.

"The car was working real well and I was stretching my lead in the straight-aways when the tires began to 'go away,'" said Buhl. "Justin caught up and then we had a real dog fight. We exchanged the lead twice in the final laps. Our cars were so close that people thought we actually touched."

GPYC swimmers continue to win

The Grosse Pointe Yacht Club swim team started the 1989 season the way it has each year for more than 12 years — with a win.

On June 21, the GPYC swimmers opened the season by defeating Western Golf and Country Club, 277-215. The winning medley relay for the 8-and-unders consisted of John Mclellan, Heather Olson, Alexis Kirchner and John Sullivan.

In the 8-and-under freestyle relay, Lisa Blake, Mary Cornillie, Kelly Huetteman and Jackie Taylor took first place. Taking second in the girls (all ages) freestyle relay were, Susan Cornillie, Kathleen Storen, Jennifer Paolucci and Courtenay Youngblood. In the boys' freestyle relay for all ages, Matt Kirchner, Tim Reynaert, Jamie Mertz and Chris Keane took second place.

The blue-ribbon winners in the 8-and-under breaststroke were Heather Olson and John Sullivan. Dana Mertz took a first in the girls' 9-10 age group, and Lauren Kordas in the 11-12.

Patrick Kirchner turned in a fine performance in the 13-14

breaststroke and Ashley Moran and Ted Stedem placed first in the 15-16 age group.

First-place winners in the backstroke were John Mclellan, Shara Teigte, Suzanne Toledo, Mark Bickenbach and Chris Keane. Jamie and Peter Mertz took first and second in the boys' 13-14 backstroke.

Blue ribbons were earned by Kathleen Storen, Kile Zeller, Jon Seiber, Stephanie LaFond and Ted Stedem in the butterfly events. First-place winners in the freestyle events included Jamie Taylor, Tim Reynaert and Jennifer Paolucci.

On June 27, the GPYC swam past Dearborn Country Club, 545-403.

In the girls' medley relay, the team of Suzanne Toledo, Kathleen Storen, Ashley Moran and Shara Teigte earned blue ribbons. Tim Reynaert, Ted Stedem, Jon Seiber and Matt Kirchner took second place in the boys' medley relay.

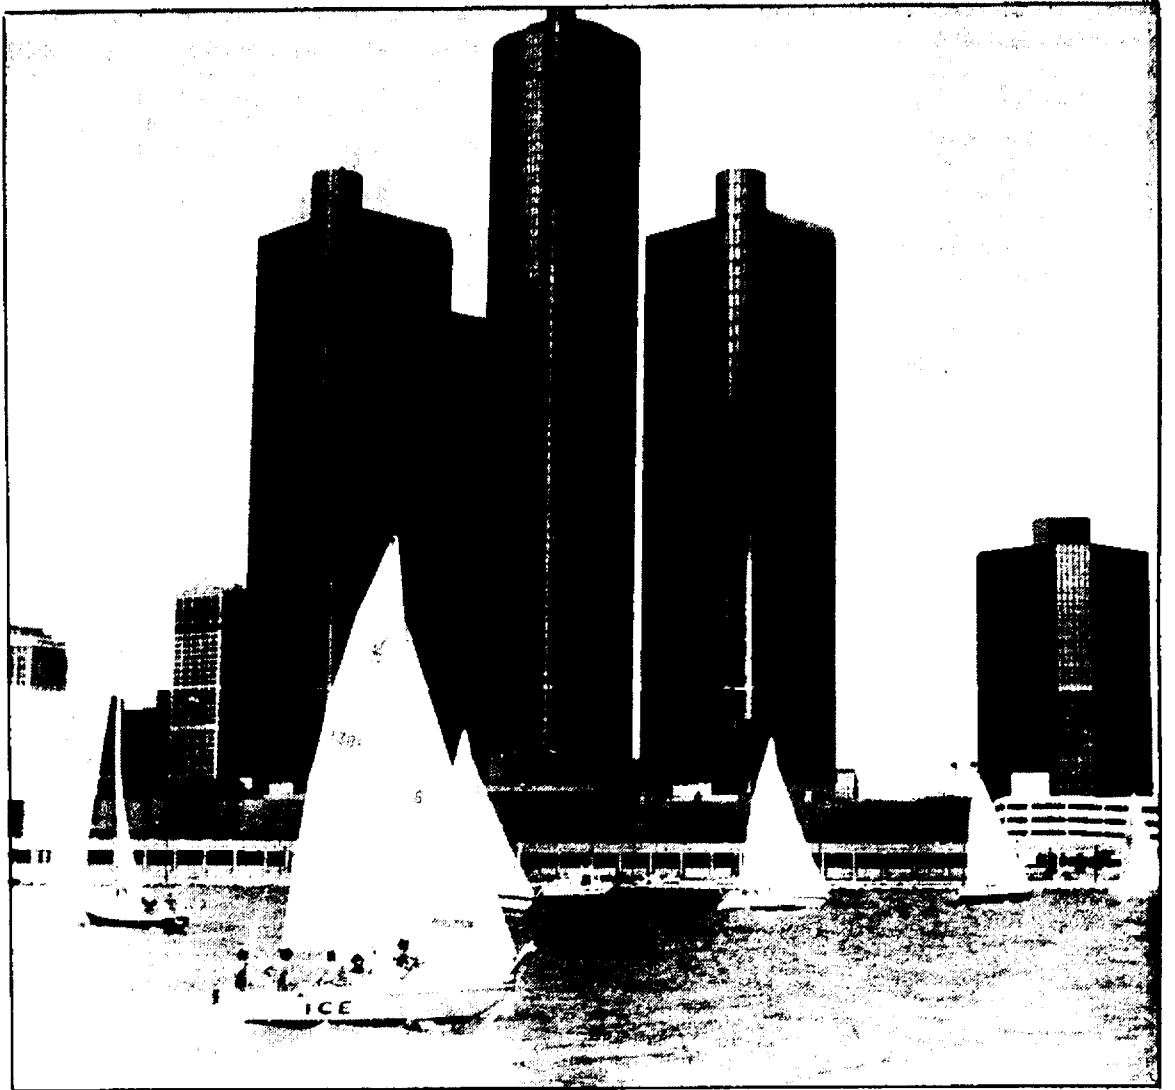

First-place winners in the girls' breaststroke events were Dana Mertz, Kathryn Tusa and Lauren Kordas. New swimmers for the GPYC, Natalie Wegner and Whitney Wegner, each placed third in their breaststroke events.

Alexander Brown, Lisa Blake, Joe Hanley and Paul Rashid all took ribbons in the 8-and-under backstroke. First place went to Kile Zeller in the boys' 11-12 backstroke, with Katie Tompkins and Jenny Smith each placing in the girls' 13-14 backstroke.

In the 8-and-under fly, first place went to John Sullivan, with Susan Cornillie placing first in the girls' 9-10 fly. Brenn Schoenherr captured first in the boys' 13-14 fly. Additional winner in the butterfly included C.T. Brown, Elizabeth and Meghan Moran, Lindsay Youngblood and Eric DeMeulemeester.

First-place winners in their respective freestyle events included Stephanie LaFond, Jennifer Paolucci and Brenn Schoenherr. Great performances were also turned in by Brady Schoenherr, Jeff Vollmer, Amanda Defever, Amanda Hanley, Mark and Kail Bickenbach, and Alicia Cytacki.

More than 100 boats sailed the Detroit River in the George E. Van Memorial Regatta, which benefitted the American Cancer Society.

Dettmer, Hannert advance to festival

The Detroit Boat Club Oarsmen were in Indianapolis June 22-25 to compete in the United States Rowing National Championships and did quite well.

Two of the more successful rowers, Ethan Dettmer and Geoff Hannert, competed in the Junior National Team trials for the double event and placed third in the nation, qualifying them for an all-expense paid trip to Oklahoma City to compete in the Summer Olympic Festival July 24-31.

The festival is sponsored by the U.S. Olympic Committee to develop and encourage athletes with an eye toward competing in the 1992 Olympics.

Hannert and Dettmer, both Park residents, also won the High School Senior National Double Championship in Delaware May 27.

The Junior Men's Eight Crew, made up of Jack McSorley, Scott Adams, John Harwick, Brad McMillin, Dave Chlebnik, Aaron Pruss, Craig Wininger, Dave Tanay and Jamie Osborn all earned bronze medals for a third-place finish. The team was only .16 seconds out of second place and less than four seconds away from a gold medal.

Some of the newer members of the crew, Tim Jogan, Brad Stocker, Chris Dorman, Bill Swanson and their cox, Molly Tannian, came in second place in the Junior Men's 16-and-under quad.

Keith Wolter, Mike Metz, Chris Hiltz, Josh Flowers and cox, Jeff Dossin placed fifth in the Junior Men's Lightweight Four Event.

The Junior Men's Four with Cox crew made up of McSorley, McMillin, Harwick, Pruss and Chlebnik came in fifth in the nation. However, Chlebnik and Pruss teamed up to win a bronze medal in the Junior Men's Pair Event. These two athletes also won third place in the High School Championship for this same event.

The first year women's team of Alice Shumate, Kathy Rajt, Donnell Stocker, Cynthia Herman, Holly Oates, Maya Davis, Anika Mitchell, Nissa Mitchell and Peggy Storen also rowed well. However, they battled some equipment problems in the semi-final event.

Kjos, Sommer card 138 to win tournament

Bev Kjos and Nancy Sommer totalled 138 strokes to win the first flight of the Women's Association of Gowanie Golf Club's Member-Member Golf Tournament.

Kjos shot a 64 and Sommer carded a 74 during the three day tourney in Mount Clemens. Approximately 100 entrants competed in the 36 hole best-ball event. Winners were as follows:

Second flight: Bette Wilds (66) and Mary Soulliere (69) shot 135; Dorothy Nelson (68) and Georgia Brooks (70) finished second with 138 strokes.

Third flight: Ada Reid (71) and Mary Davis (68) shot 139; Ardeth Brown (72) and Jeanne Zink (67) tied for the lead with a 139.

Sudden death determined the winner in the third flight, with Reid bringing in an eagle to provide the win.

Fourth flight: Joan McShane (76) and Phyllis Henry (70) carded a 146; and Diane Heavener (70) and Mary Babcock (78) shot 148.

Overall winners were Bette

Wilds and Mary Soulliere with a terrific score of 135. Their names will be engraved on a perpetual trophy kept in the clubhouse.

City tennis tourney July 29

Grosse Pointe City will hold its annual City Tennis Tournament during the week of July 29.

Registration for the tournament will be held at Elworthy Field Tennis Courts daily until Thursday, July 27. Participation is open to all Grosse Pointe school district residents.

Competitive divisions include, men's, women's, girls and boys singles; doubles for men and women, and mixed. Parent and child doubles teams will also be offered.

Semifinal competition will be held Saturday, Aug. 5, with the finals set for Aug. 6.

Synchronize under the stars

The 1989 Grosse Pointe Farms Synchronize swim team will perform its annual synchronize swim show, "Splash of Colors" under the stars on Friday, July 21 at 8 p.m.

The show is open to all Farms residents and their guests. The 1989 team is coached by Anne Connell and Ann Ball.

The show will presented at the Pier Park municipal pool.

Another title

For the eighth time in 10 years, the St. Clare of Montefalco varsity track team captured the Catholic Youth Organization's Eastside Championship. The title also marked St. Clare's eighth undefeated season of the past decade.

Student athletes

'Tennis elbow? I never played tennis'

The above statement has been heard countless times in our office when the diagnosis of tennis elbow is made.

Actually, in my experience,

less than 25 percent of patients seen with tennis elbow got this malady from playing tennis.

Tennis elbow is more formally called lateral epicondylitis. Roughly speaking, this is an inflammation of the origin of the muscles which pick up the wrist. This can certainly be seen in someone who plays tennis and is frequently seen in a player with a "stiff" backhand.

More commonly, in my experience, this disorder can be seen in people who perform repeated forceful movements at the wrist such as house-keeping, painting, or washing walls or floors, to name a few. The pain is located on the lateral or thumb side of the elbow, when severe pain can be felt in the entire forearm.

However, on closer examination, one can localize a point of intense pain, and palpation of this spot can cause a re-creation of the person's pain. Rarely, some swelling can be noted at this point. The pain can be worse when the offending activity is performed and can also be worse at night. There is never any sensory changes with this problem.

Treating the elbow

Treatment of this problem is varied based on severity of one's symptomatology. Minor symptoms may be quieted down simply by rest. Some people without other problems may also benefit from two buffered aspirins, three times a day with meals. If pain continues, one can try a "tennis elbow" band or strap. This wraps around the forearm and serves to redistribute the pressure generated by the muscle contractions away from the area of pain.

If symptoms still persist, physical therapy measures may be of benefit. These measures include deep heat to the area and stretching exercises. These exercises focus on lengthening contractions where the wrist is brought up and then let down slowly. Stubborn cases are sometimes benefited by a local steroid injection at the point of severe pain. In the most severe cases, where there has been no response to more conservative measures, surgery can be of some benefit. Note that this is a rare occurrence.

Try this

One can perform a home program to help prevent tennis elbow or lessen its chance of recurrence. Stretching is important as are simple activities, including bending the wrist and fingers down. Strengthening exercises can also be done. A common exercise that can be performed is the rolling up of a string which is tied to a two or three pound weight. One can also take a one or two pound dumbbell, pick the wrist up and then let it down slowly.

Please note that not all elbow pain is tennis elbow. A pinched nerve in the neck can cause pain in the area of the elbow. This will often be associated with numbness and neck pain, but not in every case.

Arthritis can also cause symptoms in the elbow as can a fracture. The important point here is if elbow pain persists, you should not make light of it, but should bring it to the attention of your physician, even if the name John McEnroe only makes you think of disposable razors.

This article was written by Dr. Anthony Femminio, physiatrist at St. John Hospital and Medical Center.

Diet, disease connection

Part II

The following information is a continuance in the discussion of the link between our eating habits and some of the diseases directly related to those habits.

This information is intended as a guide, not a prescription.

Heart disease

High blood cholesterol levels increase the risk of heart disease. The blood cholesterol level of many Americans is undesirably high. Eating foods high in fat, especially saturated fatty acids and cholesterol, causes elevated levels in many people.

For adults, blood cholesterol is considered high if it measures more than 200-240 milligrams of cholesterol per deciliter of blood, depending on age. As a result of their diets, most Americans far exceed that measurement. In fact, 40 percent of the calories consumed comes from fat. More desirable levels are from 25 to 30 percent; saturated fatty acids should compose less than 10 percent of that total.

Recently, a 20 year study was conducted, which shed some light on the benefits of fish consumption. All fish, including shellfish, are rich in special polyunsaturated oils that may help to prevent heart disease. These oils are called omega-3 fatty acids, EPA and DHA.

The oils are not found in vegetable oils, land animals or dairy products. And, the more oil in the fish, the more of these fatty acids they contain. Salmon and mackerel contain the highest levels.

Several studies have shown that these fatty acids reduce the possibility of blood platelets clotting in humans, thus decreasing the likelihood of heart attacks caused from restricted blood flow to the heart.

Furthermore, omega-3 acids tend to reduce blood levels of cholesterol and fatty triglycerides — both of which lead to heart disease.

However, blood cholesterol levels are not always determined by diet. Some people can eat diets high in fat and still maintain normal blood cholesterol. Others have high blood cholesterol even on low-fat, low-cholesterol diets. Yet, it is always wise to cut saturated fatty acids and total fat to a minimum.

Cholesterol is needed to form hormones, cell membranes and other body substances. The body is able to manufacture the cholesterol it needs for these functions; additional amounts are not needed in the diet. The following tips will help to ensure a healthier heart.

- Trim all excess fat from meats.
- Use polyunsaturated fats and oils, such as corn, sunflower or safflower.
- If you drink alcoholic beverages, do so in moderation.
- Try using herbs and fresh lemon juice for seasonings, instead of those seasoning that contain high amounts of sugar and salt.
- Avoid excess amounts of sugar. Many products that contain a high amount of sugar, also contain a high amount of fat.
- Be an ingredient reader.

Eat Smart

Many products contain coconut oils and palm oils. These oils don't contain cholesterol in and of themselves, but act as "sticky glues" in the vascular system and can cause the build up of cholesterol in the system.

• Incorporate some form of daily exercise. Even a 15-20 minute brisk walk done on a daily basis can help lower your blood cholesterol level.

• Spend 15-20 minutes a day practicing relaxation and visualization techniques. This is especially appropriate for those who have inherited a predisposition to high blood cholesterol. The mind is a powerful instrument for our well-being. If you can see it in your mind's eye that your cholesterol count is actually dropping like the numbers on a temperature gauge, you can help it become a reality.

High blood pressure

About one in every four Americans has elevated blood pressure. High blood pressure increases the risk for heart attack, stroke and kidney disease. Risk factors include a family history of high blood pressure, obesity and a high sodium intake.

While some individuals can eat high-sodium diets without increased blood pressure, too much sodium in the diet may aggravate high blood pressure once it exists.

The National Research Council of the National Academy of Sciences suggests safe and adequate range of sodium intake per day is about 1100 to 3200 milligrams for adults. This is far below the amount that most American adults consume, considering that one teaspoon of salt contains 2300 milligrams of sodium.

Many of us have become aware of the salt in many of the processed foods, not to mention the high content of sodium in fast food products.

Recently, calcium, potassium, and magnesium have been recognized for their possible roles in maintaining normal blood pressure. While research continues as to the connection between these nutrients and high blood pressure, it is advised to make sure that your daily diet choices contain adequate amounts of these essential nutrients.

For optimum health, it is recommended that you eat from a variety of foods, including a high amount of fresh fruits, vegetables, whole grain cereals and breads and lean meats (chicken and fish). The same guidelines reappear time and again when we are dealing with many of these chronic diseases: improve your eating habits, get on a daily exercise routine and give yourself some time each day for relaxation and reflection.

- 1/2 tsp. marjoram
- dash of pepper
- 1 tsp. paprika

Herb baked halibut steaks

- 6 portions halibut steak
- 3 Tbsp. onion, finely minced
- 4 tsp. lemon juice
- 1 tsp. dry mustard, or 1 Tbsp. Dijon-style mustard
- 1/2 tsp. oregano leaves, crushed

Wipe fish with a damp cloth. Place in a baking dish that you have sprayed with a vegetable spray. Sprinkle on the remaining ingredients. Let stand for 10 minutes. Bake at 350° for 20 minutes, or until fish flakes. Serve with lemon wedges if desired.

Weight loss should be realistic

If you're thinking of starting a diet with visions of losing a lot of weight for summer, NordicTrack, the manufacturer of the cross country ski exercise machine, advises you to take a long-term approach.

"It's much better to change your eating pattern and start a program of regular aerobic exercise program than to go on a drastic diet that promises fast results," said Ed Pauls, inventor and founder of NordicTrack.

"Every summer, there's a new crop of diets that promise fast weight loss. And some of them do result in rapid loss — much of it water weight and even some muscle tissue," Paul adds.

"The problem with fad diets is that people don't make changes in their lives, they don't learn anything new, so when they go off the diet they go back to their old eating habits and don't keep the weight off," said Marilyn Cummings, registered dietitian and author of "Diet to Lose & Win."

"We've heard from many people who have fought the weight battle all their lives, and finally won by eating sensibly and exercising regularly," Paul states.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D., medical consultant to the President's Council on Fitness and Sports, notes in his book, "The Weighting Game," that more than 90 percent of the people who lose weight by popular diets regain what they've lost.

"On very low calorie diets, your body adjusts to the lower amount of calories and a conservation/starvation mechanism kicks in. Your body becomes more efficient; your metabolism slows and you burn fewer calories," explains Cummings.

However, aerobic exercise helps your body to adjust to the lowered calorie level and increases your metabolism, so you lose weight. Another advantage of exercise is that you burn fat, not protein, so you preserve your muscle tone, adds Cummings.

Exercise is also vital in keeping weight off.

"To maintain a significant weight loss, people need to get regular aerobic exercise and to consume no more than 20 to 30 percent of their total calories in fat," said Donald S. Robertson, M.D., medical director of the Southwest Bariatric Nutrition Center in Scottsdale, Ariz.

Ease into that active schedule

Many people jump into summer too vigorously and instead of getting into shape to safely participate in activities, injure themselves, according to The National Exercise For Life Institute.

"With summer here, people start to jog, play tennis, swim, hike, play softball and tee off at the golf course. And, hundreds of these weekend athletes will find themselves with sore shoulders, aching backs, hurting knees, sprains and bruises," said Diane DeMarco, executive director of the Twin-Cities based institute.

"People are coming out of hibernation and are eager to be active," said orthopedic surgeon Dr. James Priest. "This time of year we see more shoulder impingement syndrome (which is a sprain of the rotator cuff), elbow injuries and stress fractures, which cause leg pain. These types of injuries can result from softball, baseball, tennis, golf and jogging."

"Some people don't believe in moderation and feel they have to do as much as possible to get the best results," said Dr. Richard Birrer, a professor specializing in exercise and activity at the State University of New York.

"To avoid injury, we would advise people to start exercising during the latter part of the winter, so they're more ready to go outside and participate," said Priest. "Don't rush into it. Start out slowly and gradually build endurance, strength and flexibility."

Take time to prepare for your favorite summer sports by strengthening the parts of your body that will be used during your particular activity," said DeMarco.

Some good choices

Experts agree that the best all-around aerobic exercise is cross country skiing, which uses all of the major muscle groups, including those in the legs, arms, back, shoulders and abdomen. It also gives a thorough cardiovascular workout and is an effective way to lose and control weight.

Swimming is also good for the muscles and skeletal structure because the buoyancy of the water helps reduce excessive pressure on the joints and bones. Walking is also highly recommended by experts as a means of getting in shape. However, plan to spend some extra time if you want to reap the same benefits as the exercises mentioned above. You should aim for walking three miles in 45 minutes, four to five times per week.

The best guide for avoiding exercise injuries is still basic common sense.

"Before jumping into an exercise program, check with a physical therapist to be sure you're in good enough condition for the sport or activity you've planned," said Priest.

The purpose of The National Exercise For Life Institute is to collect and disseminate information about the many benefits of regular aerobic exercise, in order to convince more Americans to start and maintain a program of regular aerobic exercise.

Exercise mini-session

Assumption Cultural Center's popular Kalosomatics exercise program begins a six-week mini-session on Monday, July 24.

The program runs through Sept. 2.

Classes are available for beginners and advanced sessions, as well as moderation. In addition, the new Bon Secours Nautilus Room at the center has day and evening workout times available, with instructors.

Assumption is located at 21800 Marter Road, in the communities of Grosse Pointe Woods and St. Clair Shores.

THANKSGIVING
NOVENA TO ST. JUDE

O Holy St. Jude apostle and martyr, great in virtue and rich in miracles; near kinsman of Jesus Christ, faithful intercessor of all who invoke your special patronage in time of need, to you I have recourse from the depth of my heart and humbly beg to whom God has given such great power to come to my assistance. Help me in my present and urgent position, in return I promise to make your name known and cause you to be invoked. Say three Our Fathers, three Hail Mary's and Glorias. Publication must be promised. St. Jude pray for us and all who invoke your aid. Amen. This novena has never been known to fail. I have had my request granted, publication promised. C.T.

101 PRAYERS

NOVENA TO ST. JUDE
May the Sacred Heart of Jesus be adored, glorified, loved and preserved throughout the world now and forever. Oh, Sacred Heart of Jesus, pray for us. Workers of miracles, pray for us. St. Jude helper of the hopeless, pray for us. Say this prayer 9 times a day. By the 8th day your prayer will be answered. It has never been known to fail, never. Publication must be promised. Thanks St. Jude for prayer answered. D.R.

The Missing LINC
Linking individuals to Needs in the Community is a non-profit organization whose purpose is to coordinate needs with resources. This is accomplished by placing goods no longer needed by individuals and businesses into the hands of Metropolitan Detroit charitable agencies. Operating since 1971, LINC is proud of the accomplishments it has made and strives to increase its resource base. If you have recyclable items, no longer of use to you, Operation LINC knows who can and will use them. Please call LINC at 882-6100 with your donation. KEEP IT MOVING!

Summer is coming and so is the heat! FANS AND AIR CONDITIONERS have been requested by the following organizations: Judson Center, Grateful Home, Operation Help, Youth Living Centers, and Friends of Aurora.

YWCA CAMP COVELL, CHILDRENS HOME OF DETROIT, AND FRIENDS OF AURORA have requested camping equipment, especially SLEEPING BAGS.

Escort service and home delivered meals are just two of the many services of SOC, SERVICES FOR OLDER CITIZENS. This group is in need of an ANSWERING MACHINE.

It's spring cleaning time! PAINT has been requested by: Children's Center, Flea, Care City, Neighborhood Catholic Youth Organization and the Teenage Parent Program. VACUUM CLEANERS and MOPS are needed for clean-up at the Phoenix Job Development, Detroit Urban Lutheran School and the Young Mens Christian Association of Metro Detroit. HELP THESE GROUPS CLEAN UP FOR SPRING!

Help them enjoy summer. Childrens Home of Detroit and Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital have a need for patio furniture.

As the summer nears LINC always has requests for sports equipment (SOFTBALLS, WATER TOYS, CROQUET SETS, BASEBALL GLOVES) and for BOARD GAMES AND CRAFT SUPPLIES.

TICK TOCK! TICK TOCK! Childrens Home of Detroit and House of Love need WALL CLOCKS.

503 HOUSEHOLD PETS FOR SALE

TEDDY needs a new home. He can't cope with the three women in his life, and needs to be an only cat. He is a purebred Somali, healthy, beautiful, friendly, and very outgoing. He could never be an outdoor cat, as he is too distinctive looking, and would be stolen immediately. He is so curious he would disappear also. He is four, neutered, FLV-, and still thinks he's a kitten, full of oats! Price is negotiable. If you are interested in a wonderful, unique cat, please write to Grosse Pointe News, Box -H154, 96 Kercheval, Grosse Pointe Farms, Michigan, 48236.

INSTRUCTIONAL Phoenix 9, Buffalo 6

Robby Thiel drove in two runs on three hits and scored twice as Phoenix won the semifinal game.

Andrew Benfer helped the Phoenix cause with two hits, two runs scored and he anchored the defense with eight putouts. Greg Peppier had three RBI and a triple, and Richard Mayk added two RBI on two hits, while John Kalogerakos played a strong game at third base.

Nathan Steinel, Peter Cune and Tim Lepczyk each had two hits in two trips for Buffalo, which rallied for five runs in the fifth inning.

MAJORS Tigers 9, Reds 8

Rob Franzino struck out seven Reds in three innings, and Mike Uznis and Chris Ford tossed in relief for the winners.

Franzino also led the offense with two doubles and three RBI, and Nick Rutan had a two-run single. Catcher Jason Santo played a strong defensive game, as did Rutan.

Browe Merriweather and Stuart Mackenzie pitched for the Reds, and led the offense.

Mackenzie rapped a home run and Merriweather had two doubles and a single. Kristofer Erickson had two singles and a double for the winners, and Chris Campbell had two singles. Scott Prieur had a strong game in left field.

Pirates 7, Tigers 4
Chris Fox and Eugene Agnone combined to pitch the Pirates to the championship.

Josh Prues led the way for the Pirates with a key double, and Damian Kotsis and John Wei had a couple of hits apiece.

Mike Uznis and Rob Franzino hurled for the Tigers, who got hits from Jason Santo, Chris Ford and Franzino. Ryan Morrison and Nick Rutan anchored the defense with sterling plays.

Park

MAJORS Yankees 8, Mets 4

The Yankees won the best-of-three World Series with the 8-4 decision.

Chris Dettmer led the Yankee offense with a third inning grand slam. Cory Schroeder hit a single and Kevin Schroeder went 3-for-4, including two singles and a fourth inning home run.

Met starting pitcher T.J. Otto collected two singles, while Tim O'Loughlin and Jimmy Michaels had the other two Met hits.

O'Loughlin threw out an attempted base stealer, before taking over on the mound. Yankee catcher Todd Drake also threw a runner out.

Babe Ruth

Red Sox 2, Tigers 1

In a tight pitcher's battle, the Sox defeated the Tigers to earn a spot in the Babe Ruth Major Championship game.

Colm Moore went the distance for the Sox in a brilliant pitching performance. Randy Aardema picked up the first RBI for the Sox and Brett Brownscombe knocked in the game-winning run with a triple. Brad Dunlap scored for the Tigers after he tripled, and was sent home by a Dan Commer double.

Red Sox 7, Yankees 1

In the championship game, Ed Dorda held the Yankees scoreless for four innings and Randy Aardema pitched the last three innings for the save. Aardema had three RBI on two hits, and Brett Brownscombe tripled in a run.

Matt Recht paced the Yankee attack with a double and single.

CHAMPIONSHIP

The Dodgers, the National League pennant winners, beat the American League Tigers in a two-out-of-three series to win the World Series.

In the first game, in which the Tigers won, 8-3, the Dodgers jumped out to a quick lead as leadoff hitter John Spath parked a home run on the first pitch. The Dodgers then loaded the bases, but were unable to score because of David Selewski's and David Maniaci's strong defense.

In the bottom of the first, the Tigers' David Guaresimo tied the game with a solo homer, and later capped off a four-run fourth inning with his second home run of the game.

Strong pitching by Ron Eisenhart held the Dodgers in check until the fifth, when Emmett DeGuvera smacked an RBI double. Pinch-hitter Wes DeGuvera led off the sixth with a base hit and scored on a hit by Kevin Halichi, but the Dodger rally fell short.

The Dodger bats came alive in the second game, scoring eight runs on eight hits. Kevin Collins and Joe Ellis led a four-run rally in the fourth inning with base hits. Catcher Kevin Halichi had a strong defensive game, throwing out two runners at second base.

Guaresimo and Eisenhart had two hits each for the Tigers and David Pierno had an RBI base hit to score the Tigers' only run in the 8-1 loss.

In the finals, the Dodgers scored three runs in the third inning, led by a John Spath double and a single by Billy Clark. The Tigers took a 4-3 lead in the fourth on alert base running by David Selewski and John Bommarito. Steve Champine singled home the tying run in the fifth for the Dodgers, forcing the game into extra innings after both teams failed to score in the sixth.

Emmett DeGuvera led off the seventh for the Dodgers with a single, and Gates followed with a double to left. Billy Clark delivered his third hit of the game to score the go-ahead run. The Dodgers had the bases loaded and threatened to score again, but heady infielding by pitcher Jason Schore resulted in a double play.

In the bottom of the inning, relief pitcher Jonathan Opdyke retired the heart of the Tiger order on just 14 pitches to preserve the 5-4 win. John Spath struck out seven batters, earning his second win of the Series for the Dodgers, and Opdyke earned his second save.

Kraft catches longest fish in rodeo

The Grosse Pointe Park hosted its 36th annual Grand Fishing Rodeo on June 24 at Windmill Pointe Park and approximately 50 people turned out to cast the rod and reel.

Despite the hot and humid weather, fishermen stuck it out from 8 to 11:30 a.m.

The longest fish was caught by Martin Kraft and Elizabeth Snell. In the heaviest fish category, Sarah Kraft took the top honors, while Lewis Williams took second place. Dane Strable recorded the first catch of the day, and Sarke Solomon (first) and Joey Safadi (second) reeled in the smallest fish on the day.

It's not reported how, but Kenny and Nicole Potenga teamed up for the most unusual catch of the day, and Patrick Bright (first) and Joey Safadi (second) collected the most fish.

A Mercedes 420SEL is about $60,000.
A BMW 735i is over $55,000.
A Jaguar XJ6, under $45,000.

The best value in luxury is a beautiful example of dollars and sense.

If the above price-comparison* surprises you, you're not alone. Many people assume the Jaguar XJ6 costs considerably more than it does. And no wonder.

The XJ6 is distinctively elegant, achieving contemporary aerodynamic efficiency, while reflecting the classic character of its celebrated ancestors.

The XJ6 also has impeccable performance credentials. Its double overhead cam engine incorporates the added sophistication of four valves per cylinder for enhanced power and high speed responsiveness. Its four-wheel power disc brakes are complemented by one of the most advanced anti-lock (ABS) braking systems.

We invite you to test drive the Jaguar XJ6. We think you'll agree: it's a beautiful example of dollars and sense.

ENJOY TOMORROW. BUICKLE UP TODAY.

*Based on manufacturer's suggested retail prices and gas guzzler taxes, which apply to BMW 735i and Mercedes Benz 420 SEL, excluding licensing fees, state and local taxes. Actual retail prices are set by dealer and may vary.
