Stranded: When your travel agent lets you down

By John Minnis

A Grosse Pointe Park woman and her two teenage children spent a wonderful month this summer visiting Yugoslavia. All went well until they attempted to come home.

On Aug. 17 when the family went to leave Zagreb, the return flight portions of their PanAm tickets were confiscated at the airport as having been reported stolen. Fortunately, the Park family's relatives in Yugoslavia were able chip in for a new set of one-way tickets, otherwise the family would have been stranded.

The Park woman paid $2,550 for the three round-trip tickets July 17 at a newly opened travel agency in the Village, which obtained the $1,153 tickets elsewhere and sold them for $850 each. The woman had no problem with the tickets when she left Metro Airport July 31.

When she and her children finally got back to Detroit Aug. 31, the woman filed a report with Grosse Pointe City police, and when a detective began investigating, the agent who sold the Park woman the tickets immediately reimbursed her for the one-way tickets she had to buy in Yugoslavia.

Even though the travel agent has been known to engage in dubious practices through a former agency under a different name in Grosse Pointe Park, police discontinued the investigation because restitution had been made. Because the agency and the agent have not been charged with a crime, it is the Grosse Pointe News' policy not to publish their names.

In this case, the woman was lucky. In many instances, unscrupulous travel agencies spring up overnight, sell a block of stolen airline tickets or take large deposits on bookings for cruises or gambling junkets, and then skip town before unaware travelers learn they've been taken.

Fortunately for the Park woman, the travel agency in the Village didn't fold up. The agency is still open for business on the second floor of a small office building. The manager of the office building said the travel agency has been there four to six

There are no signs for the agency outside the building, and the only indication that the agency exists is a small, handwritten card outside the door of the agency, which

Bill Murphy, a sales manager for PanAm, said just the physical appearance, or lack of one, of the agency should have tipped the Park woman off to the fact that she was not dealing with an established agency that has earned a good reputation.

"That should have told her something," Murphy said concerning the handwritten placard announcing the location of the

A sign of caring

When Farms residents G. Richard and Katherine Jones celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary recently, their daughter Karen wanted to go beyond the traditional gift. So she rented the 14-by-48-foot billboard at the corner of Moross and Mack and got the entire family involved in the project to let the community know how proud they are of their folks.

The anniversary "card" was signed by the couple's daughters Karen. Aymie and Marilyn, her husband, Mitchell, Karen's brother Ben, his wife Kimberly and their sons. Christopher and Zachary

Second Woods home seized under drug forfeiture statute

By John Minnis Assistant Editor

The profits from the quick sale of the Grosse Pointe Woods home that was raided during a drug investigation in March were seized following a trial by a Detroit Recorders Court judge last week.

The seizure of the house in the 1500 block of Blairmoor is the second home in the Woods to be forfeited due to illegal drug activities, according to the Wayne County Prosecutor's office.

On May 18, Wayne County filed suit in Circuit Court to seize the Blairmoor home that had been raided March 22 during a drug investigation by the County of Macomb Enforcement Team, a multi-jurisdiction task force known as COMET. The raid resulted in the arrest of the homeowner, George A. Scandalis, 30, and his brother, John James Scandalis, 21, who lives elsewhere in the Woods. Found in the home were 4 ounces of cocaine, a small amount of heroin, a pharmaceutical scale, an AR-15 semi-automatic weapon, brass knuckles arraignments and are awaiting

Shortly after the March raid, George Scandalis made arrangements to sell the house through a local real estate company, and a purchase agreement was signed April 29, according to William Sauget, the assistant prosecutor that handled the forfeiture case.

When the prosecutor's office filed suit in May to seize the home under the Michigan Controlled Substances Act. a Circuit Court judge allowed the sale of the home to be completed, but he ordered that the owner's profits on the sale be held in escrow pending the outcome of the seizure trial Sept. 21.

Following the trial, Detroit Recorder's Judge Michael J. Talbot found that a preponderance of the evidence presented showed that illegal drug activity did take place at the Blairmoor house and qualified for seizure under the state controlled substance law.

Of the $181,000 sale price of the home as listed on the April 29 purchase agreement, Scandalis cleared $68,919.87 after the mortgage was paid off and other costs were paid, according to Sauget. He said "every dime"

Peppler put on electronic tether By John Minnis Assistant Editor

The Grosse Pointe Woods lawver involved in the December 1988 vehicular death of a Mason woman was sentenced last week months on an electronic tether. Dennis Allen Peppler, 37, who pleaded guilty to involunatary manslaughter in the death of June Gaedke, 32, was sentenced to five years probation by Detroit Recorder's Judge Dominick to three months in jail and ninth

R. Carnovale Sept. 22. The first three months of the probation sentence are to be served in the Wayne County Jail, and during the remaining portion of the first year on probation, Peppler is to be on an electronic tether, according to Assistant Prosecutor Robert

The electronic tether is a radio transmitting device worn on the ankle that shows probation officers the whereabouts of probationers. Peppler will basically be under house arrest at his own home, Hood said.

Peppler's sentencing for manslaughter comes after Carnovale reduced the second degree murder charge the Wayne County Prosecutor had sought against the lawyer. Carnovale also threw out as inadmissible two blood tests taken following the accident that left the Mason woman dead and Peppler badly injured.

Hood said an appeal of Carnovale's charge reduction and blood test rulings was refused by the Court of Appeals pending Peppler's sentencing. The prosecutor's office will again file appeals, Hood said.

Peppler was charged with second degree murder after the car he and the Mason woman were traveling in crashed through a Grosse Pointe Academy fence on Grosse Pointe Boulevard at about 3 a.m. Dec. 8. The car smashed into a tree and the woman passenger died instantly.

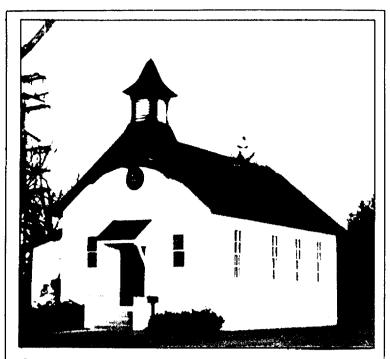

Following the accident, police obtained a search warrant to obtain a blood sample from Peppler at St. John Hospital. The emerpler had a blood alcohol level of probation conditions.

.20, twice the amount required to be legally drunk.

On June 12, Carnovale ruled that both blood samples cannot be used in the case against Peppler. He said the search warrant for a blood test was not valid because Farms Municipal Judge Matthew Rumora was not given sufficient cause for signing the

The prosecution charged that Peppler was driving the car and was fleeing from police when the accident occurred. Prosecutors believe the second degree charge was adequate because Peppler's actions showed a "wanton and willful disregard that the likelihood of the actions will cause great bodily harm or death."

Carnovale also ordered Peppler to continue alcohol counseling and attend Alcoholics Anonymous at least twice a week. He must also continue psychiatric counseling and serve some 200 hours of community service. He gency room staff also took a also must pay probation costs of blood sample that showed Pep. $165 a year and meet all other agent. Word-of-mouth recommendations from others who have agency are important in picking an agency, she said.

Murphy said the agent that airlines. sold the woman the stolen tickets has been involved in similar dealings in the past and is on PanAm's "black list." He directed additional inquiries to the Airline Reporting Corp., a clearing house for all airline ticket transactions by travel agents nationwide and abroad.

The reporting company is known in the industry as ARC and acts as the middleman between the airlines and the travel agencies that are writing and selling flight tickets. Last year, the ARC processed $42 billion in ticket sales.

An ARC spokeswoman could not comment on the Grosse Pointe agency, but she did say that the best protection from getting burned is knowing that the old cliche is true: If something sounds too good to be true, it probably isn't.

She explained that all ticket stock, similar to blank traveler's checks, are numbered and are issued by ARC. In order to get blank ticket stock and therefore be able to write tickets, an agency has to have an ARC number. And to get an ARC number, an agency has to meet minimum criteria concerning signs and security and the principle agent or owner has to have worked at least two years for an ARC sanctioned agency.

Agencies are required to re-

ARC in turn reports the numbers of the tickets in question to the appropriate

Officials speculate that in the case of the Park woman, the tickets were not processed as stolen until after she had left Metropolitan Airport.

The agency in the Village that the Park woman dealt with does not have an ARC number and cannot write tickets. Many agencies that purport to sell airline tickets but do not have an ARC number get the tickets through another agency that can write tickets. If this is the case, the traveler would be better advised to go directly to the agency writing the tickets.

Weinberg said travelers should ask if the travel agency has an ARC number. Furthermore, if an agency writes an airline ticket, then the agency's name and ARC number should appear on the upper right-hand corner of the ticket. If another agency's name is on the ticket, be skeptical.

The only exception would be if the agency is booking you on a complete package deal including airline tickets through one of the large agencies. Even then, though, usually the flight is a charter or airfare is not included. Weinberg said it is rare to purchase an airline ticket at one agency with another agency's name on it.

She also recommends travelers go through agencies that are members of the Amercan Society of Travel Agents, which maintains standards of ethics and professionalism for its membership.

And while Weinberg believes a good reputation and ARC sanctioning are pretty good assurances for travelers that an agency is on the up and up, Murphy is more pessimistic. When asked how a traveler can be absolutely sure that the flight ticket he's buying from a travel agent is legitimate, Murphy said there isn't any way to know with absolute certainty.

Confidence in travel agencies was shaken last week following the abrupt closing of Ambrose Tours in Lathrup Village. Thousands of travelers were affected by closing and thousands of dollars were lost.

Ambrose also collected thousands of dollars by selling tour packages to attend "Phantom of the Opera," which opened in Toronto last week. A group of 90 employees at The Detroit News reportedly paid $189 each to travel to Toronto to see the opera. According to reports, no hotel reservations were paid by Ambrose and several thousand "Phantom" tickets have been frozen as assets of the failed tour

Creditors will probably receive only cents on the dollar instead of the fun-filled trips they had been planning.

Meanwhile, police are treating Ambrose Tours as just another business going out of business. And there is little the state can do because there are no laws regulating travel agencies.

School finance proposals: 'Both are tax increases'

Staff Writer

On the November ballot will be two proposals, one of which, if passed, will change the way Michigan's public schools are funded well into the next cen-

Known as Proposal A and Proposal B, they are the first educa- School board passed a resolution tional finance reform proposal in decades, and are the result of years of political infighting and debate. For each person who calls one proposal bad, there is one person supporting it. And vice versa.

The process is this: Michigan voters can vote for both proposals. They can vote yes on both. They can vote no on both. They can vote yes for one and no for the other. If both pass, the one with the most yes votes wins. If both fail, well, some people predict a decade of chaos in the Legislature. Others are not quite sure what will happen.

The Michigan Education Association is urging people to vote yes on Proposal A and no on Proposal B. The Michigan Out-of-Formula District Association (of which the Grosse Pointe Public Schools is a member) is urging people to vote yes on both. Grosse Pointe's Sen. John F Kelly says he is planning on voting no on both.

The Grosse Pointe Public urging those in Grosse Pointe to vote no on Proposal B, because it will hurt the Grosse Pointe district, but took no position on Proposal A, because it will neither help nor harm the system.

Christian Fenton, assistant superintendent for business and support services, detailed the two proposals only in their relation to the Grosse Pointe School District. The analysis follows.

Proposal A

This proposal calls for an increase in sales tax by one-half cent of which all of it will go to the schools. That means approximately $400 million new dollars designated for the schools, not

'The bottom line, though, is that both are tax increases.'

> Christian Fenton assistant superintendent Grosse Pointe schools much of which will go to the Grosse Pointe schools because Grosse Pointe is an out-of-formula district.

The good points of Proposal A, for Grosse Pointe, are that there is no change in local control of tax dollars and that there is no cap or ceiling on the number of mills a local board can levy for the schools.

"On the other hand," Fenton said, "It's still a tax increase, it's not deductible, and the local taxpayers don't get any property

The additional $400 million would be less than the money raised each year will provide a step toward creating equity between the districts that spend more per pupil and the districts that spend less. (Incidentally, the Grosse Pointe schools spend $6,200 per pupil.) Still, Fenton said, the 550 school districts in the state will not all be equal in per-pupil spending.

Proposal B

Fenton has a slightly harder time finding the pros of Proposal

"It's a flawed proposal from top to bottom," he said. "It seriously erodes taxpayer control."

The bill calls for an increase in sales tax of 2 cents (of which only a portion goes to education), while significantly lowering the millage across the state. The new money generated, however, crease by 8 percent or 9 percent, generated by Proposal A.

The less property taxes also means fewer deductions when filing federal income tax.

The proposal sets a cap on number of mills which can be levied by the local districts, which erodes the power of the local boards, which is the school district's main concern.

The state would set a base level of mills which will be different for each school district. The local district could levy up to four more above that base, but could not raise the millage beyond that level, seriously eliminating local control over local school funding.

Fenton says that if Proposal B passes, the school district will get 5 percent more money next year than it has this year. The school estimates its costs will in-

If that happened, the school district - as well as many others across the state - will take building and repair projects out of the general budget and finance them through bonds, costing taxpayers more in the long

"Now we're accountable to the local board, but if this is passed, we would be accountable to the state. Taxpayers would lose local control over their boards," he said. The board would still make programming decisions, Fenton said, but those decisions will be based on what the state gives the district.

"Even without the money question. I would vote against it because of the loss of local control," Fenton said.

"The bottom line, though," Fenton said, "is that both are tax increases.

City replaces 25-year-old fire truck

After a quarter century, Grosse Pointe City is replacing the fire pumper truck it bought

The City Council approved the purchase of the truck at its Sept. 18 meeting from FMC Corp. for $110,533, the lowest of three bids received, and delivery is expected within six months.

Public Safety Lt. Tim Champine, who looked into the specifications for the new truck, said it will be the best-equipped truck the city has ever purchased.

"We only do this once every 25 years, so we wanted to do it right," said Champine, who has been with the fire department for 31 years.

The new FMC truck has a 1,200-gallon capacity, making it capable of extinguishing most fires with water from its own tanks. The fire equipment by FMC is being placed on a Ford chassis with a Caterpillar diesel engine.....

Missing were a VCR, a cassette player, amplifiers, a tuner, a CD player and eight bottles of liquor from the bar. The man left an empty Coors beer can on the lawn.

The old truck, a Peter Pirsch, was also on a Ford chassis but was powered by a gas engine.

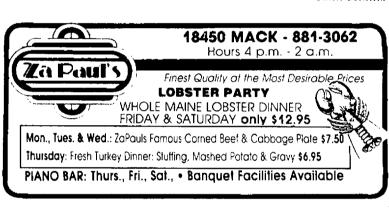

"The Ford has served us well for 25 years," Champine said, "though we've put a lot of dollars in it over the last five

Champine said one real advantage of the new truck will be that the controls and gauges will be on top of the truck instead of on the side like older trucks. He said if accidents occur on the road, the damaged area of the truck is usually the side with the gauges and controls, which becomes costly to repair. Controls on top will be protected from collisions and will keep the operator off the street.

Responding from a question from a concerned citizen, Champine said the truck will be yel-

Pat Victor, head groundskeeper at the Edsel & Eleanor Ford Estate had his crew of experts put together a list of winterizing tips to keep lawns, gardens and trees healthy for next year. The emphasis: A little work now can extend next year's growing season late into the fall.

Starting from the ground up, Dale Bauman, the estate's lawn specialist, recommends several tips for tuning up your lawn in the fall to make it beautiful in the spring.

 Cure lawn baldness by reseeding your lawn during September. Gently work the ground with a rake. Then seed and roll the seeds into the dirt.

Cool weather is an excellent time for seeding because the seeds do not have to compete with weeds and will not be destroyed by intense heat. Seeding in the spring gives the seedlings only about 30 days to develop, while fall seedlings have several months to build up resistance and grow roots.

• Give your lawn the right haircut. Mowing your lawn shorter in the fall avoids long blades being exposed to extreme cold temperatures, which can kill roots. Bauman said grass becomes dormant in late fall, but the roots remain active until frozen. So help roots grow into late fall by a shorter cut. Caution: cutting too short will expose crowns and may kill the

Diet Pills Sweeping U.S.

Doctors Invent 'Lazy Way' to Lose Weight

U.S. Gov't. Approves Patent Claims for New Diet Pill

BEVERLY HILLS, CA (Special)-An amazing new weight loss pill called 'fat-magnet" has recently been developed and perfected by two prominent doctors at a world famous hospital in Los Angeles that reportedly "guarantees" you steady fat loss and calorie reduction by simply taking their tested and proven new pill.

The U.S. government has just approved the doctors claims for a hard-to-get patent that confirms "there has never been anything like their fat-bonding pill process before." It is a totally new major scientific breakthrough and is revolu-tionizing the weight loss industry. You Can "Eat Normally"

Best of all, "you can continue to eat your favorite foods and you don't have to change your normal eating habits. You can start losing fat and reduce calories from the very first day, until you achieve the ideal weight you desire without exercising Flushes Fat Out of Body The new pill is appropriately called the "fat-magnet" pill because it breaks into thousands of particles, each acting like a tiny magnet, "attracting" and trapping many times its size in undigested fat particles. Then, all the trapped fat and calories are naturally "flushed" right out of your body because they cannot be absorbed.

Within 2 days you should notice a change in the color of your stool, caused by the fat particles being eliminated.
"Automatically" Lose Fat

according to one of the inventors, Dr. William Shell, heart specialist and associate professor of medicine at UCLA medical school, "the new fatbonding process is a "lazy way" to lose weight because the pills alone "automatically" reduce calories by eliminating dietary fat. It is 100% safe and not a drug. The fat-magnet pills are already sweeping the country with glowing reports of weight loss from formerly overweight people in all walks of life who are now slimmer, trimmer and more attractive again.

Now Available to the Public If you are trying to lose 20, 50, 100 pounds or more, you can order your supply of these "no-risk" highly successful fat-magnet pills directly from the doctors' exclusive manufacturer only (includes optional calorie-reduction plan for even better results). Last week's arctic blast may fall helps in two ways. First, grass will be able to store food for a fast start in the spring. Second, roots can build up strength against cold weather if a fertilizer low in nitrogen and high in potassium is applied.

Floral specialist Bill Socia has the difficult task of caring for the late Eleanor Ford's extensive rose garden. A few hints from Socia can keep roses blooming late into the season and can ensure healthy blooms in the

To winterize rose bushes, apply ample water in the fall and past mid-September, avoid cutting the buds for indoor use. Keep bushes free of wilting blooms, but leave the hips when removing blooms. Keep the base around the bush free of pedals and dead wood. After the first frost, pile dirt around the base about one foot up the stalk to insulate against cold winter winds. Don Snodgrass, shrub and vine specialist, said good sanitation around the base of shrubs can make all the difference in avoiding fungus and insect breeding.

Evergreens should be watered well into the fall because the root system and the rest of the shrub is still growing.

Shrubs in a high wind area or close to a roadway should be protected by covering with burlap. Cold wind and road salt can kill shrubs. Prior to wrapping, preferably before the first frost, apply a fertilizer low in nitrogen. Mid to late November is usually a good time for winterizing shrubs.

Tree specialist Mike McHale recommends deep-root feeding for trees after the first frost. Use tree spikes or a general-use fertilizer, drilling small holes around · Late September is the per- the tree with a small auger or Prune dead wood and suckers from trees. Like shrubs, good sanitation will avoid areas of fungus and insect breeding.

When choosing a tree, match the tree with the area of planting. Planting a dry weather tree in wet soil, or vice versa, should be avoided.

McHale's problem? Fighting Dutch elm disease.

Sprays can be purchased that kill off the European elm bark beetle, a tree's natural enemy.

Trees in our area have no immune system to fight off the disease. Stressed trees are the perfect breeding ground for the beetles and many seedlings are born with the disease, which can be a threat to other trees.

Try these tips around your estate. They have worked well for groundskeepers at the Ford property, just think what they will do for your greenery

Pointes urged to back war against drugs

n the Pointes, we do not like to think that we have a drug problem. And it is Ltrue that the problem is not as acute here as it is in Detroit or the inner cities in other metropolitan areas.

Yet all a Grosse Pointer needs to do to realize the extent of the drug problem in this community is to read some of the headlines in recent issues of the Grosse Pointe News. Hardly a week goes by without a report of someone from the Pointes having been involved as a user, courier or even dealer in drugs.

Examples of headlines on drug stories involving Pointers or the Pointes in just the past month include the following:

Windmill Pointe man faces cocaine charge," "Drug dealer in Harper Woods sentenced to 10 years in prison," "2 young men caught smoking pot at school," "14-year-old boy seeks protection from drug dealer," "7-foot pot plant uprooted in Woods" and "Park woman guilty in heroin shipment.

These headlines do not include the one in today's issue of the Grosse Pointe News that reports on the seizure by the Wayne County prosecutor of a Woods home that that was raided last March during a drug investigation. The home on Blairmoor recently was sold for $181,000 and brought the county a net of $68,919.87 after the mortgage was satisfied and other costs paid off.

This was the second Woods home to be seized under Michigan's controlled substance law that makes it possible for the state to seize and sell all property associated with illegal drug activity. The first was a home on Anita that was padlocked by the county in April 1988.

These headlines and stories offer ample evidence that hard drugs are a problem in the Pointes even though we did not include in the listing any cases involving alcohol, which officials and school authorities regard as an even more serious drug addiction problem in the Pointes.

Reading the stories that were headlined above emphasizesthat it is not wise to assume that all the drug problems in the Pointes flow across the border from the city of Detroit. Yet it is true that automobiles bearing license plates issued to Grosse Pointers were among those recently identified by the media as carrying people who were patronizing Detroit crack houses.

It is also worth noting that while the local reaction to President George Bush's recently announced $7.9 billion program to finance America's war on drugs was mixed, according to a Grosse Pointe News story Sept. 14, nobody said that some such program wasn't needed.

In fact, the questions that were raised, locally as well as nationally, were whether the program was extensive enough to do the job. Most of the Pointers questioned by the News applauded the president's effort as a worthwhile first step but many felt it should be followed up by greater federal financing, more money for long-term care and a stronger attack on the economic conditions, especially in the big cities, that breed drug dependency.

The Children's Home of Detroit, located in the Woods, applauded the president's leadership but called for all Americans to share the common responsibility for the well-being of our children and our nation. And then it added the words that reinforce the need for Grosse Pointe to play a role against drugs:

"We have to make a war on drugs at every level of our society.

mong the dividends we all receive from living in southeastern Michi-Lagan is our proximity to our friendly international neighbor, Canada, which is happy to share its cultural diversity as well as its scenery and its commercial opportunities with American visitors.

That obvious opinion was brought home again to this writer by a recent visit to the Shaw Festival now nearing the Oct. 15 end of its run at Niagara-on-the-Lake. The production of Shaw's "Man and Superman" was especially impressive, although I thought J.B. Priestley's "An Inspector Calls" ran a close second in dramatic appeal among the four plays we saw.

This is not to denigrate in any way the professional and community theater companies serving southeastern Michigan. The Hilberry and Bonstelle associated with Wayne State, the Meadowbrook at Oakland University, the Attic in Detroit and the other professional companies in Detroit and the surrounding metro area, including even our own community theater, the Grosse Pointe Theatre, offer first-rate theater and entertainment. But the Shaw company at Niagara-onthe-Lake as well as the Shakespearean company at Stratford do tend to provide something a bit different with their mix of Canadian, American and English stage and professional personnel.

by Wilbur Elston In his review, Dan Laurence, literary advisor to the festival and dramatic advisor to the Shaw estate, said in part:

"Intended to be a drama of the thinking man rather than just another conventional examination of the lusting man - a fourth Play for Puritans, in fact - Shaw's play about sex, initially a comedy of manners, unexpectedly metamorphoses into an ultrareligious drama, a comedy of purpose, with conflict (especially in the Hell dream) elevated from a physical to a mental plane.'

It is also possible, I think, to see the play simply as a modern version of the Life Force demonstrated by the eternal war between the sexes. The male lead, admirably played by veteran actor Michael Ball, a determined socialist who always says what he thinks regardless of the consequences, finally succumbs to the wiles of the beautiful and talented Kate Trotter, who never says what she means but always gets what she wants.

Other theater-goers have their own versions of what Shaw meant but in this viewer's mind "Man and Superman" adds up to remarkable theater and thought-provoking entertainment.

And seeing it and three of the other plays in the current repertoire of the Shaw Festival company offers excellent cultural dividends for those of us living in proximity to Canada.

hard news? Soft news vs.

fter hearing an explanation for the dropping of the "Detroit Week in Review program by WTVS/Channel 56, we still have to express our disappointment at the loss of the wide-ranging program that gave us the reactions of Detroit area news media people to news developments in Detroit.

Cheryl Head, the station's vice president for programming/development, said that WTVS had decided the review program "had run its course" after almost eight years and chose to try a different format that would afford "more flexibility" than the review did.

But then Ms. Head offered a further explanation for the shift from the review to "Neal Shine's Detroit" at the same 7:30 p.m. time slot starting on Friday, Oct. 13.

People seem to get "a sense of negativ-ism from the media" and the new program presided over by Shine "will counter that view," she said. After all, she added. "There are other stories out there."

Instead of the negativism of the media, Shine's new show will focus on the interesting, newsworthy and passionate people who, according to Ms. Head, "are making a difference in Detroit.'

We trust that Shine and Bill Black, WJR reporter who is expected to be a regular participant, will remember their roots in the news and make sure that "Neal Shine's Detroit" will do more than "counter" the "negativism" of the media.

Otherwise, the new show may give us a "soft news" version of what is happening in Detroit rather than the "hard news' discussions we often heard with pleasure and profit on "Detroit Week in Review."

B, ignores A Bryant opposes misreading of a column by Rep. Willaim R. Bryant Jr. on the June 22 ▲Op Ed Page of the Grosse Pointe News has led the editorial page to err not once but twice by saying that the state representative opposes both of the school amendments to appear on the November

Bryant has taken no position on Proposal A which would raise the sales tax by one-half cent to benefit education but which, in his words, "is not a problem for our schools (in Grosse Pointe) but it also provides no property tax relief."

However, Bryant strongly opposes Proposal B which he says "has the potential of destroying our schools."

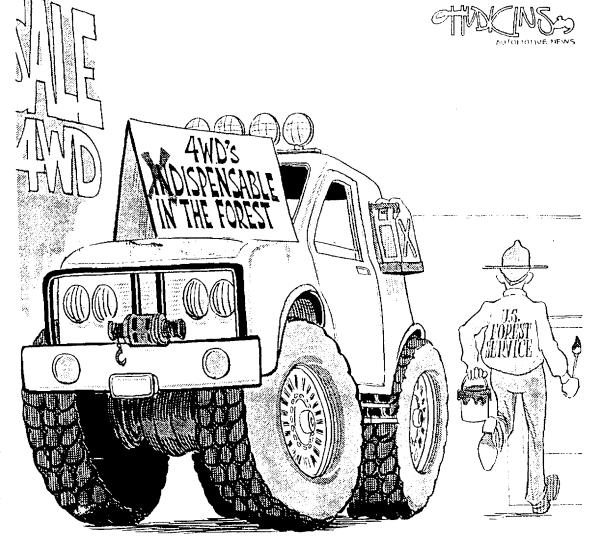

This plan would boost the sales tax by 2 cents and provide some new money for the public schools and some property tax relief. But it also would limit the Grosse Pointe district's ability to raise the local revenue it requires to maintain its excellent educational programs and make it more dependent on state financing.

As Bryant said in his June 22 column, Proposal B, if approved, could place the Grosse Pointe district's future financing in jeopardy because "the Legislature could deny us state aid on which we would be made dependent by the amendment, or worse, a court might order the state to see to it that no district has more resources than any other.'

Sorry about the errors, Bill, but we believe these paragraphs will straighten out the confusion we caused.

Recycle

To the Editor:

In today's world of disposable products, not enough people are recycling. More people should send whatever they can to recycling centers. In the Grosse Pointe area there are several kinds of recyclable items which the local centers would be happy to take.

First, the everyday newspaper can be taken to several locations in the Grosse Pointe area for disposal and reuse. If newspapers are thrown in with the trash then they are most often either burned or buried in a landfill. By taking the newspapers to a recycling center they can be reused by the paper companies. So next time instead of throwing the newspapers in with the trash, take them to the cen-

Other products that can be recycled are glass and certain plastic bottles. On many glass and plastic soda bottles there is a label that allows its returner a 10 cent refund. While 10 cents may not seem like very much money, if many bottles are returned over a long period of time, the savings could be quite substantial. Also many fruit juice and other juice bottles are recyclable. These bottles cannot be returned at the super market but they can be given to certain centers. The first Saturday of the month is recycling day at Grosse Pointe South High School. Here is where all nonrefundable glass and plastic bottles can be taken to. Don't throw away empty soda and juice bottles, take them to be recycled instead.

More letters on page 7A

The final and most important reusable item is aluminum cans. Almost everyone has had canned soup or fruit using aluminum cans. These cans can be recycled, and the reusing process saves an immense amount of energy and money. Twenty two aluminum cans can be node from recyled material where as it takes the same amount of energy to make one can from unused material. This adds up to 95 percent savings of electricity. If aluminum cans are being used in the household, take the time to save them to be recycled on Grosse Pointe Recycling Days.

It takes very little time to save a large amount of natural resources, electricity, and money. Next time think before throwing away any plastic, glass, or aluminum cans and bottles; in the future it could mean a substantial amount of savings. David Reinke Grosse Pointe Farms

Library

To the Editor:

May I offer a suggestion regarding building plans for the library? It's my hope that, first, more competent people be found to function in the system. We borrow books from the Park branch and have grown weary of the past due notices for books that are always returned on time. Tve lost count, and when I call about them, it's the same response: "The book is here. It must be the computer. Sorry. One day, when I complained to Central Library about this, I was told, rather imperiously, that the matter would be looked into. Shortly afterward, we returned another book and, you guessed it, got another past due notice a week later.

In the meantime, we avoid the Park branch and ponder whether there may eventually be a happy ending to all of this.

Bar bores and boors

"Scotch and water," said the 50-ish man who had been telling me, my brother and my brotherin-law stories about his business successes. He was talking to the bartender, a young-ish woman, her first day on the job. "And not so much water this time."

That done, he renewed his anything-but-interesting stories about how he started his business in his basement and watched it "increase his profits by more than 100 percent each year for the past five, and only because - and I'm not bragging here, I'm just stating facts - I'm one hell of a salesman."

He paused for emphasis. Or maybe he was expecting a pat on the back or encouragment to continue. Neither of which he was going to get from me.

He continued anyway. We learned about his 28-year-old son who parlayed $1,500 into 95 G's - with help from his father, of course. His other son just bought a big beautiful house, or had just sold a big house. I really wasn't sure because I wasn't listening. But either way, he was making "mega bucks" in the real estate market in Illinois.

After a 45-minute speech covering many topics including his resume, his bank account, how easy it is to "get ladies" when he's on the road, the real trick to selling, and how he made "let's just say it's more than 90 K last year," he actually got around to asking the three of us what we did for a living.

When he found out what I do,

a roll - everything he knew about journalism.

field for people who aren't really sure what they want to do," he paused, actually thinking he was imparting some golden words. "You spend a few years there getting your feet wet and then you can go on to other forms of communication where you can make the real money." Then he

he told me - because he was on added, as though he were saying the stupidest, most trite thing ever said, "But I guess you'd say "Journalism is a good little it doesn't matter what you make, as long as you like your job." He rolled his eyes.

What had been simmering for a while boiled over and that's when I told him exactly what he was, adding: "And furthermore, you are, to me, everything that is wrong with America."

In explanation, I give the following list of just what is wrong with America.

Dale Carnegie courses. One Minute Manager books. That ingredient-free cheese-like substance they put on nachos. The fact that William "The Refrigerator" Perry's one-yard touchdown run (or perhaps "roll" is the better word) is nominated among the top six plays in a viewer poll on ABC's Monday Night Football. The viewer poll itself.

Morality crusades. Pella Window ads (because the people in them act like they took Dale Carnegie courses). George Bush's speeches. Paying 50 cents an hour to park. Portable cellular telephones (no one has ever been so busy he needs to strap a telephone to his back). Steve Guttenberg. Newspaper columnists. Ly era biking shorts. Oh, and I almost forgot, Frank Sinatra after he started taking himself seriously.

The man at the bar retorted: You think I'm a jerk?'

"Yes." I said. "I do." "Then you haven't been to too many bars lately, have you?" he asked, and walked away. He meant, I believe, that he isn't half as bad as some of the jerks who hang out in bars. And he's probably right.

With the possible exception of a Top 40 disc jockey, there's not much that's worse than a lonely bore in a bar. I've thought about this guy often since our little tete-a-tete. I wonder if he repeats this story to his business friends and says, "So, this writer says You represent to me everything that's wrong with America.' Can you stand it?"

He was standing alone in the corner, drinking another scotch and water when we left.

Surveillance

cameras To the Editor:

I would like to respond to the ongoing controversy regarding the ACLU's objections to the surveillance cameras to be installed in Ghesquiere Park. Mr. Joseph Grano, in a recent letter to the editor, wrote that surveillance of citizens in a public place is perfectly consistent with the United States Constitution. The ACLU disagrees.

The Supreme Court has indeed stated that a person can have no "reasonable expectation of privacy" when the thing to be searched is in "plain view," when it is an "open field," or when there is an exigent circumstance, such as the possibility of hijacking (as in airports). When these circumstances are not present, however, it is a violation of the Fourth Amendment to conduct a search of persons without a warrant based on probable cause. The ACLU believes that whereas a park-goer cannot maintain a reasonable expectation that she will not be gazed upon by picnickers, joggers, street people or police, it is reasonable for her to expect that she will not be tracked from area to area without her knowledge by a multitude of cameras having the telescopic capacity to focus upon the letter she may be reading, the words she may be mouthing, or the fact that she may be scratching an itch. In a civilized society it is unreasonable to expect this type of intrusive surveillance; since she has done nothing wrong to trigger such surveillance, this search must be deemed unconstitutional.

Thus, while traditionally, the public setting has not been a privacy sanctuary, sophisticated electronic surveillance changes the scope of the search. If a video camera can zoom in to focus on facial expressions, a license plate or a letter, can we really claim that the cameras are merely an extension of a police officer's eyes? Police officers are not able to tape record events, nor do they have telescopic vision. These "enhancement" features on a video camera transform what would be a beat cop's routine observation into a search.

Once we are in agreement that mass citizen surveillance by sophisticated and intrusive cameras does indeed constitute a "search," such surveillance is rendered unconstitutional because the citizens being surveilled have done absolutely nothing to warrant turning the eyes of the government upon them. Like any type of sweep search, the dragnet quality of public video surveillance renders all citizens guilty until proven innocent. On this constitutional ground, we are secure: mass searches of innocent people are not constitutional unless there is a serious emergency. In a society that cherishes freedom and liberty, that proudly defends the rights of innocent citizens to act or go where they wish, mass surveillance invokes the specter of an Orwellian Big Brother. It transforms our free society into one that is ever watched by some remote bureaucracy. As it has in the past, the ACLU stands ready to vigorously defend the rights of citizens to move and act freely without fear of being searched or monitored. When weighed against the possibility of graffitti on a park gazebo, the ACLU believes that freedom for all citizens stands as the greater value.

War on drugs

To the Editor: Dear Editor,

On Sept. 5, President Bush declared a war on drugs and threw down the gauntlet to every American to get involved by addressing the contributing problems within his/her own community. The Substance Abuse Community Council of Grosse Pointe (SAC2) has picked up that gauntlet and is mobilizing our citizens into the home front effort so that every resident can join the local fight.

All individuals young and old, professionals, business persons, retirees, and homemakers have a responsibility to make a commitment. Victory was achieved in World War II largely through the dedication and participation on the home front where civilian Americans pulled together to do their part.

SAC2 will enlist area residents in the Home Front Effort through a three-step program which will feature outstanding speakers including the Michigan drug czar. Donald Reisig. The first program in the series will be held on Oct. 17 when the speaker will be Peter Bell who was selected on Sept. 8 as the "person of the week' on ABC World News Tonight with Peter Jennings. The Balduck Mountain Ramblers will be entertaining at Upland Hills Farm's October Pumpkin Festival in Oxford, Mich. on three Sundays next month: Oct. 1, 15 and 29.

The Ramblers are a string band foursome that play traditional American string band stuff: bluegrass, folk music, gospel, sea chanties, cowboy music and even a little pop, said spokesman Joel Stone of Grosse Pointe Park.

Members include John Denomme of Grosse Pointe Woods, on guitar; Stone, on mandolin; Kevin Taylor of Grosse Pointe Woods, on banjo; and Mike Sawicki of Harper Woods, on bass.

The group has been together for five years. Denomme is coowner of Village Records and Tapes, in the Village.

The Pumpkin Festival takes place every Saturday and Sunday in October from 11 a.m. until 4 p.m. at Upland Hills Farm, 481 Lake George Road in Oxford. Admission is $5.50 for adults, $3.50 for children, and includes a horse-drawn wagon havride to the pumpkin patch, a farm animal show, a visit with the Great Pumpkin, a puppet show, jugglers, pony rides, haunted house and a chance to eat donuts and drink cider.

And - a chance to stomp and clap with the Balduck Mountain Ramblers.

Annie Oakley is a complimentary ticket or a free pass. A bust out is the time when a bunch of clowns enter the arena at once usually just before the show. Cherry pie is extra work done by employees for extra pay. Donikers are the restrooms.

A First of May is a novice, a greenhorn, a performer in the show for the first year. It especially refers to first-year clowns.

A Joey is a clown. The term is derived from a famous clown, Joseph Grimaldi, who lived in England in the 18th century. Clowns are also called Zanies.

college campuses and an expert on individual and community solutions to alcohol and other drug problems, will appear on Thursday, Oct. 26. These two presentations will be held at Parcells auditorium.

The concluding program will present Mr. Reisig as the speaker along with Mark Steinberg from the Michigan Office of Substance Abuse Services. This event will be held on Nov. 1 at the North High School Auditorium. All programs will begin at 7:30 p.m. We ask your readers to watch for more complete information on these events which will be distributed throughout the community

Those who attend the programs will have an opportunity to "join up" in the community wide home front effort. We know every citizen will discover something small or large that he or she can do. Many groups right here in our own community have small skirmishes and we're proud of those efforts, but the war continues and the troops need new, wellcoordinated defense plans.

Perfect location

To the Editor:

I hope that the Grosse Pointe voters will seriously consider building a new library facility on the Brownell field property.

The present Central Library needs more space to grow and if it were expanded, it would take up even more of the already limited parking space. It would also take a sizeable corner out of the South High School athletic field. In addition, it would create a lot of traffic problems during con-Structions or we are the manner to Brownell Middle School's field, in Grosse Pointe Farms, is the perfect location for a new Central Library. The field is probably large enough for a bigger library, increased parking, and still have space for playing fields.

A new library will serve a greater number of the population than the play fields. The Chalfonte Road location is centrally located for library users and will cause less traffic problems during construction than the Fisher-Kercheval location.

The November election will give the Grosse Pointe residents an opportunity to vote for a building that will better serve the needs of the community in a convenient

Homecoming cost questioned To the Editor:

As a student at Grosse Pointe North I have recently been inundated with information concerning Homecoming. I have at this time examined the financial side of this annual event, and have found some startling results.

The freshman class alone last year spent $600 on Homecoming, which I have confirmed with the school financial clerk was enough to provide 43 students with tickets to the Detroit Symphany Orchestra in 1988. It was nearly that amount that took an entire class of biology students to northern Ontario last year, a fine, informative venture.

We must remember that this amount was only one class out of four. The other three, I have been told, spent roughly the same amount.

If we add this up for a two year period, we come to a figure that was quite nearly enough to purchase 300 new English textbooks in 1985. Surely this is a more proper expenditure for a school than a single fri volity. And the notion that the homecoming festivities ware overly expensive is not an uncommon one.

The president of the sophomore class, when it was remarked that the cost was too high, said, "I think so too... It has become a little too extravagant."

Homecoming will never be abolished, as it has become the bread and circuses of the high school set. But surely a smaller amount of money could be devoted to it, and a greater amount to activities of a more rewarding nature.

For a community that prides itself on academic excellence, this would be a wise path to follow.

Headlee on school finance

To the Editor:

As you know, I have been concerned for some time about school finance and the abuse of the constitutional protections that so many of us worked hard to place in the constitution a decade ago. That's why I am writing to tell you about the hidden damage to our Michigan constitutional rights contained in Proposal B.

Like so many Michigan citizens you are probably confused about the legislature's Proposals A and B on the ballot this November. Proposal A is straight forward enough, a $400 million tax increase. Proposal B, however, is terribly confusing. It combines a 50 percent increase in the sales tax with dramatic changes in school property taxes and school finance.

First, Proposal B establishes a new state property tax. Instead of sending your local school property tax dollars to your local schools, Proposal B would send a big chunk of it to the state legislature. Local control of local tax dollars would be the first casualty of Proposal B.

Second, the state property tax doesn't tax everyone the same Business property would pay 1-1/2 times the rate of non business property. This breakdown in the long standing principle of uniform taxation places every group of taxpayers at risk for the fu-

Third, and most importantly, the new state property tax, along with the local foundation property tax, would never be subject to voter approval, renewal, or review. Today's voters get the opportunity to periodically vote, up or down, on their school property taxes. After Proposal B that type of voter control would be just a memory. Discussion of the major change in voter control is cleverly avoided by the proponents of this devestating proposal.

Fourth, the new state property tax and a new local foundation property tax would be joined by yet another set of property taxes, 4 mills of "optional" taxes. While Proposal B promises "property tax relief" in fact that relief would be only temporary. One of the ways that relief will be eaten away will be from these four optional property tax mills.

Five, Proposal B would exempt most school property taxes from the provisions of the Headlee Amendment to the Michigan Constitution. Today assessment increases alone cannot increase taxes faster than the rate of inflation plus new construction. Assessment increases that exceed this limit rollback the millage rate so that the total property tax bill grows at the rate of inflation plus new construction. Under Proposal B that limit is gone, except for the optional mills. If you are one of the many citizens who saw double digit assessment increases in the past year, you should be especially concerned about Proposal B. If Proposal B passes there will be no limit on the growth in your property taxes caused by increasing assessments. The rollback provision would be eliminated.

Finally, Proposal B contains a shocking clause that should scare every citizen of this state, whether they pay property taxes or not. Section 11 of Proposal B contains these words, "The legislature may provide by law for the revision or elimination of any of the requirements of this section.

Unbeknownst to most citizens of this state, Proposal B would allow the legislature alone to amend this state's constitution without the approval of the voters.

In looking over Proposal B, I cannot believe that the supporters of Proposal B actually understand that their amendment would destroy so many constitutional protections that the citizens have worked so hard to place in their constitution. Whether you think a major tax increase is justified or not, I urge you and your readers to actually read Proposal B. After you understand what it would do to our constitution and your effort in the past, I am sure you will vote no.

Cecil Weems of Detroit, left, and Carl Sholander of Michigan's Upper Penninsula, are two of the people who ran a combined 725 miles from the U.P., through Lansing and Detroit to raise an estimated $150,000 in donations to benefit the annual Special Olympics event. Weems picked up the race from downtown Detroit, while Sholander ran the entire length, starting near the Wisconsin border.

Friend of the Court takes stock

Friend of the Court, Wayne County, collected $860,000 in delinquent child support through its special intercept program.

The friend of the Court executed 3,900 withholding orders against auto workers of the Big Three who elected to take the cash payout option of their stock pension plans. Another $322,000 is expected to be collected this year by the Friend of the Court from 163 employees with child support arrears who elected to retain the value of their assets in stock.

The 3rd Circuit Friend of the Court initiated the stock intercept program within weeks after Chrysler, Ford Motor Co. and General Motors announced intentions of liquidating some employees stock pension plans through cash payout. At the Friend of the Court's request, the 3rd Judicial Circuit Court

In an unprecedented effort, the granted modified child support orders for 3,900 cases. These orders are against those auto workers who disposed of their stock option plans by taking a cash payout. Under this program the cash payout distributed to the auto employees are subject to 50 percent withholding for child support arrears.

The plans referred to are the Tax Reform Act Stock Option Plan (TRASOP) and the Emloyee Stock Option Plan (ESOP). These plans are stock option purchase programs sponsored by the employer as a part of a pension plan on behalf of the employee. Early in 1989, the TRASOP and ESOP program concluded and participating employees selected one of the three distributions options for the assets contributed on their behalf. The three options were cash payout, accept shares of stock or transfer the assets to an alternative program.

When the Friend of the Court heard of the dissolution of these two pension plans, it acted quickly to determine which delinquent payers with arrears of $500 or more were included in the TRASOP and ESOP cash payout programs. Armed with this information the Friend of the Court moved quickly to modify the income withholding orders for those individuals. Since both the TRASOP and ESOP programs were a part of the employee pension plans, it was necessary for the Friend of the Court to obtain a Qualified Domestic Relations Order in each of the 3,900 cases. An additional amount of $322,000 per year in delinquent child support is expected to be collected by the Friend of the Court during the next phase of its stock program.

Park nixes Olds project plans

By Nancy Parmenter Staff Writer

Plans to put a pasta factory in the Lakepointe Olds building were turned down Monday by the Grosse Pointe Park council. Developer James Ferriole Jr. has a proven track record in the Park, but council members told him his plans just don't fit with the concept of the city's master

"Mr. Ferriole has taken projects that were fallow and developed them beautifully," said Mayor Palmer Heenan. "He's been very helpful to the city. I'm disappointed that we had to turn him down.'

Ferriole told the council that the pasta factory was to have been the anchor of the project. It would have occupied about 40 percent of the estimated 7,000 square feet of the building.

'Without it, I don't think we can do the project," he said.

This was Ferriole's third trip to the city in an effort to clarify the intent of the office-service zoning on Jefferson. This month the Planning Commission held a public hearing to get citizen input and to define the type of business that fits in the OS-1 category.

But Ferriole wasn't arguing about the definition; he was asking the council to expand on it.

"Whether it's OS or not. please let me have the pasta factory," he said. "I want to work with the city. I'm asking you to expand - this isn't a direct contradiction.'

Nearby residents were worried about noise, dust, garbage and traffic. The city was worried about zoning, and whether one exception would create a preced-

According to the master plan, the Jefferson district is to be limited to businesses with a suburban, residential character: noncongestive businesses that by their nature must be located near residential areas. Examples include travel agency, optical company, photography studio, interior design studio or counseling service.

The Planning Commission considered a list of 16 business types and concluded unanimously that inappropriate businesses include packaging stores, employment agencies and print shops. They were divided on the pasta maker, as well as on a detective agency and a dry cleaner.

But Grosse Pointe Park, like all cities, does have areas that are appropriate for these businesses. Kercheval and Mack both have districts that are zoned for general business.

That's what bothered Councilman Daniel Clark.

"You put us in an awkward ance," he said.

position because you base your development plans on an inconsistent use," he told Ferriole. "Unless we are consistent, we do other developers a disservice. "I'm trying to be guided by the master plan. When I read the intent, it's hard for me to imagine that manufacturing would fit in. Although the council was unanimous in rejecting the plan, several members expressed concern about the vacant building.

"An empty building is bad," said Councilman James Robson. "It's incumbent on the council to get something going.'

Clark advocated continuing to work with Ferriole.

"We should provide Mr. Ferriole with some additional guid-have a little more confidence in making business dealings with the Soviet businessmen.

Most of the questions were concerning the ruble, which until recently was not part of the international currency exchange. New Soviet openness will allow Soviet businesses to engage in trade and accept foreign currency where previously they could only deal in rubles. This opens the world up to Soviet businesses.

"No deal negotiations were made," Creedon said, with a laugh, "With a group like that, you just don't make negotiations public, but I really feel optimistic that a lot of business will be generated from this project."

Creedon said he compared notes with the Russian producers who said the excitement on their end was as great as the excitement on this end.

Because the questions and answers were so useful, Creedon is planning on boiling it down and making a videotape of the conference for business and educational use across the country.

The hookup between the three countries was made with satellites and microwave hookups that are much easier to arrange

That's what Creedon and Associates does, he said. He takes on a job and after determining what it is the client wants, then he hires the best people in the area - he says the pool of talent in Detroit, contrary to popular belief, runs deep.

In addition to creative satisfaction, Creedon says he enjoys the challenge that producing pre-

"I'll take chances, there is no challenge I'll back away from." he said. "For me, producing was an unmet challenge, that's why I got into it. It's a fun business, a wonderful business. What more could you ask for than to be in a business you like and one you do well? What other business can you be in and meet so many wonderful people as I have? It's so rewarding they shouldn't have to pay us.

Creedon's new world is no less fast paced than one he used to travel in: the world of hydroplane racing. He gave up that life when it came to the point that he had to make a decision between keeping it a hobby or turning it into a career. But he still travels in those circles, not willing to give it up totally.

But he is most proud of his two children with his wife Betsy: Parry, 12, and Reid, 8. They keep him running, too.

7 North students charged in breaking and entering

A babysitter at a home on Shoreham in the Woods called police when a group of fellow students from Grosse Pointe North High School broke windows and doors at the home Saturday night, Sept. 23.

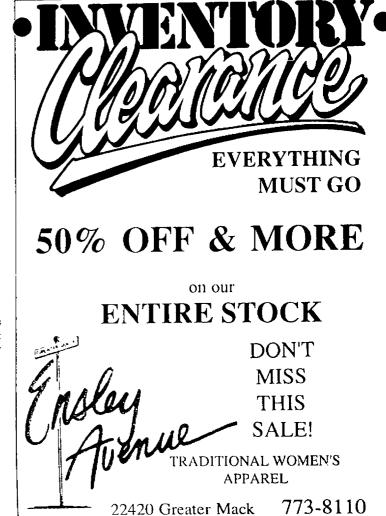

According to police reports, the young woman received a telephone call from a friend, telling her that the other students were coming to the house. In a few minutes, several vehicles pulled up. The youths rang the doorbell and demanded to be let in.

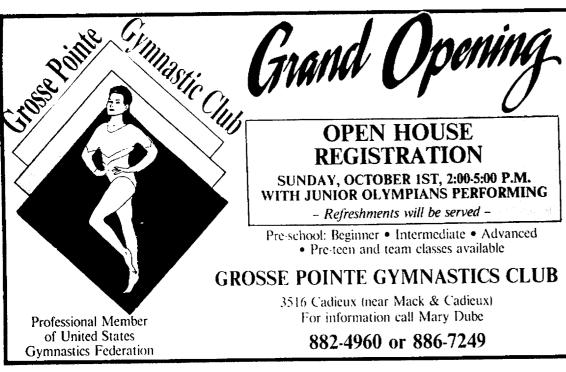

When she refused, they began to break windows. They smashed in a gate and the side door to the garage. When the babysitter looked out into the attached garage, they were inside. She told police she thought they were drunk.

Woods police searched the area by car. Soon an officer spotted a car crowded with people. A search revealed several 12-packs of beer, mostly unopened, and several wine bottles, one halffull. There were several cans of beer that had been partially con-

Both the babysitter and a friend visiting her at the house told police they knew the youths. The homeowner said he intends to pursue the complaint.

Starry night

Starfest, Our Lady Star of the Sea's annual festival, was held on rainy, chilly Sept. 22. But that didn't dampen the enthusiasm of the children of all ages who came out to play games, and visit with other families, and most importantly, support their school.

Even more than 20 years later, students still love a Moonwalk.

Clowning around was all in fun for kids and adults.

A train ride and a sea serpent ride added excitement for the little ones.

S News IS undertakes new middle school program to teens in the Grosse Pointe community.

FOCUS, an acronym for Fellowship of Christians in Universities and Schools, came to Grosse Pointe in 1984 with a nucleus of 20 teens and today has grown to an organization providing fellowship and leadership opportunities through a variety of activities to more than 100 teens in the com-

FOCUS begins its second organizational year under the leadership of Bryce and Melissa Gray. Recently married, both are graduates of Northwestern University and bring a wide range of youth related experiences as co-directors of the FOCUS program. They are excited about the prospects of this year's outreach that will include a comprehensive Middle School Program.

At the request of several participating families, FOCUS began a pilot Middle School Program last winter. The response to the program was so positive that the program continued through the spring and resulted in a total of eight meetings during the year.

The purpose of the high school meetings is to provide an exciting opportunity for competition, singing and skits, as well as to explore pertinent themes related to students needs. Last year's programs included such themes as friendship, parents, and dating. The year was capped with a Hawaiian party at a local racquetball club.

The Middle School program is designed to reach young people and to share relevant information with them to help them make wise decisions on such subjects as peer relations, drug awareness and dating. This fall the meetings will be held on Saturdays from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Fall meetings are planned for Sept. 30, Nov. 4, and Dec. 2.

A typical meeting is directed and guided by a core of ten high school leaders who serve as team captains. The meetings include game competitions and group activities related to a particular

Holiday will be brighter in Village

The sidewalks will be dressed in holiday style this Christmas with the purchase of new lights for all the trees in the Village.

The City Council approved Sept. 18 a proposal presented by the Village Association to purchase new strings of lights for the nearly 50 trees in the business area. The new strings will contain larger, brighter lights and will be easier to put up.

The cost of the lights is $5,000, which is being split equally between Grosse Pointe City and the Village Association. Each year the lights will be changed to a different color, with this year's bulbs being clear, similar to those in Birmingham.

Home burglarized

A home in the 900 block of Barrington was broken into at about 5:10 a.m. Sept. 11, resulting in the theft of a purse and wallet.

The break-in was discovered when a resident heard a noise in the family room and went to investigate. The burglar had gotten into the family room by tearing out a screen and crawling through a window.

The purse and wallet were discovered in a nearby yard.

Checks bounce

When a man came into A.L. Price two days running and tried to use checks to buy four cartons of Marlboros, the manager became suspicious. Sept. 7, when the man arrived for the second purchase, the manager called the bank and the Farms police. The man's account had been closed

FOCUS high school program activities include Friday morning meetings. These meetings are from 7 to 8 a.m. and are held at the home of Keith and Mary Kay Crain, One Woodland Place, Grosse Pointe City.

The purpose of the meetings is to create a comfortable forum of contemporary issues in small discussion groups headed by student leaders. In addition to the weekly fellowship meetings the FOCUS program also offers a Bible study which meets Tuesday evenings from 7 to 8:15 p.m. The program also offers a special monthly meeting called "Viewpointe." This program offers a variety of music, games, guest speakers, special events, as treats to Princeton, New York, and Martha's Vineyard.

Student and parent participation is welcome from all community middle and secondary schools. Parents or teens interested in learning more about FOCUS are invited to contact either Bryce or Melissa Gray at 331-8194, or write to FOCUS, 929 Beaconsfield, Grosse Pointe Park, 48230.

MCC hosts global conference

As members of a global community, we all need each other, and educators who take part in a unique conference Oct. 17 and 18 at Macomb Community College will be given the tools to teach their students just how much.

The "International Awareness Conference" is a two-day seminar for upper elementary, secondary and college educators. Designed to promote global literacy, it will take an in-depth look at world regions with an emphasis on global interdependence. The conference will also identify the specific knowledge students should have about how nations depend on each other.

During the two-day conference, individual sessions will address specific concerns, including the latest trends and methodologies in the study of geography. A report on the state of geography education will also be presented by a representative of the Geographic Alliance.

Featured presenters will be representatives from the University of Michigan's Near Eastern and North African Studies Center and Michigan State University's African Studies Center.

On Tuesday, Oct. 17, the eastern hemisphere will be the focus including Africa, Asia, and the countries of China, Japan, USSR and those in the Mideast.

On Wednesday, Oct. 18, the seminar will look at the western hemisphere including Canada, Central America and Caribbean and South America.

The conference will be held at Macomb's South Campus, 14500 12 Mile Road in Warren, in the John Lewis Student Community Center, Building K. Each session will run from 8 a.m. to 3:15 p.m. The cost is $15 for one day or $25 for two days. Lunch and materials will be provided. The conference is sponsored by Macomb Community College, Warren Consolidated School District and Michigan Council for the Social Studies.

The registration deadline is Oct. 6 and no telephone reservations will be accepted. Checks should be made payable to the Michigan Council for the Social Studies (MCSS) and sent to Ron Sartor, Warren Consolidated Schools, Frost Instructional Center, 14301 Parkside, Warren, Mich. 48093.

Woods proposes amendments to its 38-year-old city charter

By Dan Jarvis Staff Writer

On Nov. 7, voters in Grosse Pointe Woods may be given the opportunity to vote on four ballot proposals to amend the city's charter.

At its Aug. 21 meeting, the City Council approved a resolution outlining the ballot proposals, which were were sent to the Michigan attorney general and governor's offices for approval.

As of Sept. 22, the attorney general's office approved wording in the proposals and recommended approval to the governor's office.

If approved, the city will be allowed to place the proposed amendments on the November ballot.

The city charter was adopted in December 1950 when the Village of Lochmoor was incorporated into the city of Grosse Pointe Woods.

The first proposal seeks to amend Chapter 5, Section 5.1, of the city charter to state, "If a city administrator is not a resident of the city at the time of his appointment, he shall become a resident thereof within one year after his appointment and shall so remain throughout his tenure in office.'

Currently, Section 5.1 states that all administrative officers who are non-residents at the time of his appointment, he shall become a resident within 90 days of the appointment.

Chester Petersen, city administrator, said the section was proposed to be changed from 90 days to one year because once an administator is appointed, 90 days is not a sufficient amount of time to locate a home.

The second proposal will ask voters to amend Chapter 4, Section 4.11, of the charter - a description of the functions and duties of the city treasurer.

If approved at the state level and placed on the November ballot, voters will have the chance to vote on whether the charter should be amended "to provide that the treasurer be authorized to receive money on behalf of the city from representatives or agencies as may be authorized by the City Council.'

The amendment was proposed because when the charter was drawn up, electronic banking had not yet been invented. To aid in collection of city taxes and water bills, residents may be able to send money directly to the bank serving the city. Using the same method of electronic banking, the bank will electronically transfer funds to the city's account, where interest on the funds will be calculated immediately.

Currently, Petersen said, all funds must be received directly by the city's treasurer.

The third proposal, dealing with the purchase of property or capital equipment, seeks to amend Chapter 10, Section 10.6.

If approved by the governor's office, voters will be asked if the charter should be amended to "increase the authority of the City Council to enter into installment contracts for the purchase not exceeding a period greater than five years and in amounts not exceeding payment of principal amounts of up to $100,000 in any one fiscal year.'

The existing city charter states that installment contracts have a five year limit, but that contracts shall not exceed $10,000 in one fiscal year.

Petersen said the item, if approved, will allow the city to enter into a lease-purchase agreein the amount of $500,000 over a five year period.

For example, if the city needs to purchase a fire truck priced at $400,000, but opts to avoid an outright purchase which could drain a specific account, the city can lease a vehicle with a purchase option, thus freeing funds for other purposes.

The current charter only allows for a $50,000 lease purchase arrangement over a five of property or capital equipment ment for a contract or purchase year period, far too low for a land or equipment purlarge chase.

The final proposal for approval for the Nov. 7 ballot seeks to amend Chapter 8, Section 8.8, of the city charter regarding sales, purchases or contracts with the

The proposed amendment, as sent to the governor's office, seeks to amend the section describing sales and purchases, but in a lesser amount than the third amendment.

As stated in the proposed ballot question, voters will be asked if the section should be amended "to provide that sales or purchases or contracts in excess of $5,000 shall be approved by the City Council and that all purchases shall be made or contracts awarded according to procedure established by the ordinance.

Currently, the charter states that various sales and purchases office is expected soon.

must be approved by the City Council if in excess of $1,000.

Petersen said that amendment was proposed to increase the amount of non-approved items such as utility payments, small equipment purchases and service contracts.

He added that most cities have a $5,000 minimum for council approval. Many have a cap of $10,000.

Holmes: Fact or fiction?

Investigator of the unusual Mark McPherson, returns to the War Memorial, Thursday, Sept. 28, at 7:30 p.m. to offer insights into the legend of Sherlock Holmes, the world's most famous fictional sleuth.

Parents invited

All parents of Grosse Pointe South High School students and other interested residents are invited to attend a program cosponsored by the Mothers' Club and the Dads' Club Monday. Oct. 2 at 7 p.m.

John Whritner, superintendent, will discuss the possible innovations in the future educational process as he describes the high school in the year 2000. John B. Artis, the new South High principal, will also be welcomed.

Was he simply the product of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's imagination or was he a real person? McPherson, an investitured member of the Baker Street Irregulars, has used his investigative talents to locate the actual prototype for "Bakersville Hall" in London's Baker Street at the site marking Holmes' residence.

McPherson has modeled his own career after the famous detective. As founder of the Daedalos Investigative Agency, he has traveled the world investigation things that can't be proved, using Holmes' methods. His lectures are thought provoking and entertaining. ish botanist Carl Linnaeus.

An 18th century botanist, Linnaeus was a pioneer in the field of environmentalism and developed the basic binomial system for plant and animal classification that has been used continuously by scientist since 1735, a truly remarkable accomplishment without the assistance of today's computer technology.

Ann McAndrews, a Fellow in the Linnean Society of London and member of the Herb Society of America, will present slides of gardens in Sweden that follow this botanist's footsteps, and will explain the influence of religion in his career. Gardens included in the slide presentation include: Rashult (his birthplace), his garden at the University of Uppsala, summer home in Hammarby, the city garden in Vadstena and numerous other beautiful gardens throughout

Although Linnaeus was born to a parish rector, later married the daughter of Lutheran minister, and studied at a theological school, he felt his calling was not in the church as a minister, but rather to serve as God's registrar. He became a professor of medicine and botany and made numerous expeditions throughout Sweden, Denmark, Germany, Holland, France and England. His many publications on the flora, fauna and minerals encountered were of great enlightenment to people regarding the value of natural resoursces.

The meeting is open to all interested people and will be held in the Undercroft at Christ Church-Grosse Pointe, 61 Grosse Pointe Blvd. Coffee will be served at 10:15 a.m. the meeting will open at 10:45 with the luncheon to be served at noon. Reservations for the $5 luncheon and babysitting must be made by noon on Monday, October 2, by calling the church office at 885-4841.

When cellular phones first appeared, I thought they were a silly gimmick, too expensive to be seen as a value. But I thought that about air conditioners, power windows and power door locks when they first appeared, equipment I now regard as enhancements to the pleasures of motoring, if not essential equipment.

I have not seen any figures on whether car phones are a safety problem or not, but it seems to me that if you are conducting important business or having an argument with your loved one, it could be very distracting. I know people read while they drive, study maps, apply makeup, comb their hair, search for cigarettes and do all kinds of distracting things while they drive. And once in a while, someone gets

Also, the automobile is one of the few places in which one can get away from the phone. I guess I am not so much opposed to the car phone as I am to all phones. The fact that the phone is one of the most essential tools in my socalled profession just rubs it in.

Anyway this is all a roundabout way of getting to a study done by the University of Michigan Transportation Research Institute which concluded that a panoply of electronic wonders awaits automotive buyers of the future, including voice-activated telephones, built-in maps and navigation systems, zoned climate control and back-seat tele-

Wow! The U-M survey also says that use of anti-lock brakes and electronicaly controlled automatic transmissions will become widespread over the next decade. But the new technology will have to prove its worth to drivers, says William B. Ribbens, the U-M prof who wrote the report.

The anti-lock brakes sound good to me, an important safety advance, but the rest? Well...

I guess I'm a bit of an automotive Luddite who views the highcompression Pontiac V-8 as one of the great flowerings of Western civilization, along with similar efforts from Ford and Chevrolet and the Chrysler Hemi.

Don't get me wrong, the new engines are a wonder with their computer controls. But when one declines to start, what do you do? Stick a screwdriver in the carburetors throat? It most likely doesn't have a carburetor, replaced by a computer-controlled fuel-injection system.

Even with the right equipment, it isn't easy. General Mo-

Simplicity of design was the thing that made Henry Ford the man who put the world on wheels instead of someone else. His designs were elegant in their simplicity. Not all technological change is progress, some if just complicates things. I guess that's what the U-M report said.

'sex, lies and videotape' earns artistic reputation

By Marian Trainor

Special Writer

Films in which the central theme is sex have a difficult time avoiding an X-rating, "Sex, hes and videotape" avoids the objectionable with artistic merit, a comic stance and the implicit message that in approaching sex, as in other personal relationships, it is important to know vourself.

Ann. (Andie MacDowell) tells her psychiatrist she thinks sex is over-rated, but her body language belies that assertion. She squirms around on the couch where she is sitting, getting herself into various positions like a schoolgirl. Ann is young and pretty with an expressive face and eyes that light up as the discussion progresses.

She is married to John (Peter (Gallagher) a young yuppie lawyer. To him, sex is a game of conquests. He uses sex as a measure of personal success, much as he uses his steps up the ladder in his law firm as a measure of sive - Graham comes on as a professional success. He works poetic type: blond, blue-eyes, genhard at both. In both instances, tle, relaxed, more interested in for him, more is better, and he others' problems that his own, keeps count. Since his marriage, and in the eyes of men like he has a tally of ten and the fu-John, no threat, nor does he ture looks promising - both in business and play.

His latest fling is with Ann's sister, Cynthia (Laura San Giacomo). Cynthia is the antithesis of Ann. While Ann is a replica of the blond and pretty bride next door. Cynthia is dark with a throaty voice, a sinewy Cher-like body and as forthright as Ann is reticent. She exudes sex but she is not a plaything. She uses sex as a weapon. In this case she is getting what her sister has, sex with John and in her sister's bed.

Enter Graham, (James Spader) John's friend whom he has not seen in nine years. Here, too is a study in contrasts. While John is the typical story-book male tall, dark, handsome and aggres-mean to be. However, women are attracted to him because they feel safe. They seek him out as a friend and confidante.

Because he doesn't want to waste his time on such a person as Graham, John turns him over to Ann to help him find an apartment. They find one quickly and go off to have a drink and become better acquainted. Relaxed and at ease, Ann invites Graham to share confidences and we once again hear her confide that she thinks sex is over-rated and once again she betrays her statement as she runs her fingers around the rim of his glass over and over again.

When it becomes Graham's turn, he confides that he is impotent in the presence of another person, but it has not always been so.

Oblivious as to what's going on between her sister and John, Ann amuses herself with Graham. In a surprise visit to his apartment, she walks in while he is watching a videotape. He quickly turns it off. Curious, she picks up several. All of them have women's first names on

She is horrified to learn that each of them are interviews with women discussing in detail their sexual life and preferences.

While they are not pornographic, they are sexually stimulating. She leaves.

Cynthia, who has heard of Ann's interest in Graham, sets herself another goal: seduce Graham and once again grab what she thinks her sister has. She doesn't get what she comes for but ends up on a videotape.

Just as Graham has changed Ann's perspective, so also is Cynthia's changed.

As each situation in the film shatters - Cynthia breaks off with John just as Ann discovers what has been going on; John can't believe his nice quiet home life has come to an end, and Graham comes to terms with his hangup - the sisters who have never been close become conciliatory, a giant step when you consider how they clash over a simple decision of what to get their mother for her birthday. Ann's choice makes for a funny scene in a bar where Cynthia works. It is a rather loud sundress which Cynthia says looks like a tablecloth. A drunk at the bar soothes Ann by saying it is a pretty dress, but as she leaves he Steven Soderbergh, besides providing viewers with an amusing, insightful, film on sex and attitudes in general has also created a suspensful one. Near the end when Ann insists on being videotaped, the film suddenly goes blank. What went on after that we are left to wonder about.

In Graham, he may have even demonstrated that sexual diffidence is cool.

We may be in for a whole new wave of films where sex is talked over rather than vividly demonstrated complete with soundtrack. If they are as well done as "sex, lies and videotape," they will be just as provocative as those which depended on the explicit.

September 28, 1989 Enterlainment 'Driving Miss Daisy' is evocation of Southern life

Ted Lange and Rosemary Prinz starring in "Driving Miss Daisy" at the Birmingham Theatre now through Oct. 22.

By Marian Trainer

Special Writer
"Driving Miss Daisy" opens with a bang when Miss Daisy, wearing her lilac colored dress with a white lace collar and a little black straw hat perched on her head, trips across the stage, steps into her imaginary new Packard car, adjusts her wirerimmed glasses on her nose and starts the engine.

There is a crash. The stage goes dark and when it lights up, Miss Daisy is sitting in her favorite rocker. There isn't a scratch on her, but the car is totaled and the garage across the street is demolished.

Her son Boolie is setting down the law. She is never to drive a car again. He is going to hire someone to drive her.

This does not sit well with Miss Daisy. A cranky 72-year-old Jewish Southern widow, she is not about to be told what she can and cannot do. Furthermore, she considers it a waste of money to do for her what she can do for herself.

She then recites the same speech he has heard many times and we will hear again during the course of the play about how poor her family was and how they made a meal out of bread and gravy and how she knows the value of every penny.

But Boolie has an ace card. Her license has been revoked. She remains firm — no driver.

When a few days later, Hoke Coleburn shows up as her driver, she is outraged. He is black and this is Georgia, 1948. Miss Daisy's prejudice, because of her also. During an ice storm when She doesn't phase Hoke. Dressed in a baggy suit, handed down from his last employer, he is glad to get the job. Unlike Miss Daisy, he is without prejudice. He relates how he worked for a Jew before and he knows they are not cheap.

Miss Daisy still refuses to let anyone drive her. She sits in her chair and threatens to go on a bus to do her errands. In the meantime Hoke sits in the kitchen keeping the cook com-

When she finally gives in and allows Hoke to drive her, it is with the understanding that she will only go as far as the Piggly-Wiggly store.

With this first trip begins a saga of two people - one a lonely old woman, the other a genial and kindly black man who become friends amid laughter, understanding and mutual respect over a period of 25 years together. In the end he becomes closer to her than her own son.

The segments showing Miss Daisy getting in and out of the make-believe car, checking the back window and clinging to the side strap whenever Hoke makes a turn are hilarious. However it is the little arguments they have that provide the light and lively humor. Hoke wants to go a short route. Miss Daisy insists he travel the route she used to drive. Her insistance that she is poor is met with Hoke insisting that if he had what she had, he would feel rich.

There are touching moments no one can get out and the power is out, Hoke makes his way to her house and brings a candle. Another is when Miss Daisy discovers Hoke can't read.

They are in a cemetery. She directs him to put a plant on a grave with the marker "Bower." Hoke hesitates. When she prods him, he confesses that he wouldn't be able to find the grave. Right then and there Miss Daisy, who was a school teacher, gives him a lesson in Again, when they are on a trip, and Hoke has to depend on Miss Daisy to read the map, she becomes confused and they get lost. Each one is dependent on the other, and neither one is able to solve the problem.

When Miss Daisy begins to fail - and she knows it's happening - she reaches out for Hoke. "You are my best friend," she tells him.

When she is in the nursing home and Boolie drives Hoke, who is having a difficult time getting around himself, out to see her, she refuses to talk to her son and makes a motion for ter outlets, Hudson and Harhim to leave. After he is gone, mony House.

Rosemary Printz does well as the truculent Miss Daisy. She ages convincingly, particularly in the last years. Anyone who has been with an aged person will recognize the frailties that come with age in her, down to the last scene were she tries very hard to hold up her head which has become to heavy for her frail body.

Ted Lange is likable as Hoke with his carefree manner and his concern for Miss Daisy. The two of them present a remarkable performance, effectively bringing to life with the barest props a span of 25 years in the lives of two people who, in one way or another, became dependent on each other.

"Driving Miss Daisy" will be held at the Birmingham Theatre for the next five weeks, after which it will go on a national tour. Performances are Tuesday through Thursday at 8 p.m., Sunday at 7 p.m. Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. with Sunday matinee at 2 p.m. and Wednesday matinee at 2 p.m. Tickets are available at the Birmingham Theatre, 644-3533, or Ticketmas-

Douglas dominates

By Michael Chapp

Special Writer
"Black Rain," which casts Michael Douglas as a transplanted New York cop in Japan, is either about the clash of cultures or the melding of cultures. It's hard to tell which is intended to be emphasized more.

Still, Director Ridley Scott's stylish thriller is a winner, as much for its visual flair and visceral punchiness as for its story development.

And make no mistake. Douglas' presence does nothing but help the picture. His renegade cop is strong character — agres- tigated by the department's in-sive and commanding. Placing a "Dirty Harry" prototype in unfamilliar territory is a nice twist on an otherwise familiar theme. Douglas' homicide detective is of questionable integrity from the beginning. He's being investernal affairs division for allegedly taking money from a drug dealer he busted.

By sheer coincidence, he witnesses a murder in a crowded restaurant. He makes a quick arrest, and thus falls into an international counterfeiting war. His arrestee is a lieutenant in a Japenese mob.

"Douglas alld his partner are assigned to accompany the mobster to Japan. But when they get him there, he quickly escapes, leaving the displaced American cops with egg on their faces and no way to communicate with times as well as being named

The scenario is an intriguing one, to be sure. And Douglas communicates the frustration with an appropriate degree of anger and hopelessness.

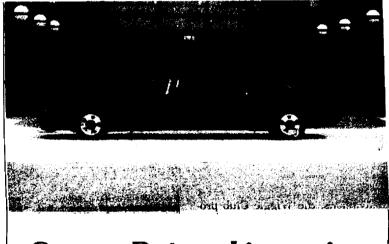

Actually, hopelessness isn't a good word. Douglas is one of the most single-minded cops of all time; he doesn't intend to give up until he finds his man, regardless of the obstacles he finds in his way. Many of those obstacles are burearucratic - the local police department seems to be more a hindrance in finding clues than an ally.

Indeed, Douglas has a difficult time understanding many of the things he sees and experiences in Japan, starting with the funny language and food and lice department. Yet there's lot that's similar to his home turf,

Like the brutality of the myopic bad guys. And the bonds that form between new partners, regardless of the language and culture barriers that separate

Douglas' presence is one of the picture's main drawing points, and it is clearly Douglas that leads the film with his big-screen charisma.

"Black Rain" is a violent picture, filled with cussing and blood. It's a quick-paced thriller though, and the visual intrigue picks up the slack where the other elements of sytle leave off.

We both recognized there was a special need for home cleaning in Grosse Pointe," McBride said.

Another reason they decided on Merry Maids was that most of the opportunities to purchase franchises were on the west side of the Detroit metropolitan area. They not only wanted to remain on the east side, but felt that the current need for home cleaning services in the area would most likely increase over the years.

Their Merry Maids franchise. located near the Eastland Mall, serves all five Grosse Pointes, Harper Woods, St. Clair Shores and East Detroit up to 11 Mile Road.

The service claims about 250 customers in the area, with the majority located in the Pointes.

Most of our customers are in the Grosse Pointes. We are geared toward couples who both work and need a hand with the home cleaning, 'she said.

William Sutherland, an industry analyst at Butcher & Singer Inc. in Philadelphia, said security is a real issue with homeowners. A big company like Merry Maids' parent company, ServiceMaster, can offer customers piece of mind.

McBride said that all employees are strictly screened and bonded to guard against theft. Also, the company's insurance would cover any loss due to breakage or even personal injury of one of the Merry Maids employees so that the homeowner is not responsible in any way.

Customers' homes served by Merry Maids range from modest homes to very large mansions.

But you don't have to be wealthy to hire the service. Rates are based on the size of the home, or area to be cleaned. and the type of cleaning and effort involved.

According to the New York Times, rates for cleaning homes in the home cleaning business can range from $11 to $25 per hour. Rhoades said the hourly rate can be confusing since the per-hour price can be based on one person or a two-person team.

"What we do is to tell people there is a $50 minimum for cleaning We will set up an apperform an estimate," Rhoades

All the personal attention, McBride said, is the reason the

Tower opening at Harbortown

A grand-opening celebration was scheduled Sept. 28 to mark the completion of the second apartment tower at Harbortown, a multi-phased residential community of townhouse condominiums, rental apartments and a shopping plaza on East Jefferson between Mount Elliott and Adair Street. A joint operation between Coastal Corp.'s ANR Development and Michigan Consolidated Gas Co., Harbortown consists, so far, of two apartment towers and 58 townhouse condos around a central lagoon system along the Detroit River. The apartment tower that opened last week is 15 stories and has 172 units. The first tower, which is 19 stories and has 101 units, opened in August 1987. Harbortown's continuing expansion will be based on market conditions. A total of 1.500 units are planned for the 48-acre site.

Maturity schedule for saving bonds set

The Treasury Department established a schedule of final maturity dates for U.S. Savings Bonds by announcing a series of extended maturity periods for outstanding bonds and notes, as well as new issues of bonds. The action will significantly reduce confusion for many of the millions of Americans who own bonds but are unaware of when their bonds stop earning interest.

Financial institutions and savings bond and note owners will now only have to recall an easy to remember "40-30-20" formula to determine how long bonds will earn interest

 Series E savings bonds issued before December 1965 will stop earning interest exactly 40 years from their issue dates.

• Series E bonds, Series EE bonds and Savings Notes (Freedom Shares) issued after November 1965 will stop earning interest exactly 30 years from their issue dates. Outstanding Series H bonds, issued between 1959 and 1979, also have a 30-year final maturity.

• Series HH bonds issued since 1980 will stop earning interest 20 years from their issue dates

Savings bonds are sold with a designated "initial" maturity and are then granted maturity extensions. The announcement means that new issues of Series EE bonds, in addition to the current 12-year initial maturity, will be granted one 10-year maturity extension, and one 8-year

St. Ambrose benefit at Tom's Oyster Bar

A benefit for St. Ambrose Academy and a grand opening of the expansion of Tom's Oyster Bar will be held Monday, Oct. 2, from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Tom Brandel, owner of Tom's Oyster Bar located at Mack Avenue and Maryland in Grosse Pointe Park said the $10 admission goes directly to St. Ambrose Academy, located at 1091 Alter Road in Detroit. Fresh oysters and seafood chowder will be available and various entertainment will be inside and outside under a tent.

"This is a way to pay back the customers who have been with us for a long time," Brandel said, "and also, we all have to look after each other down extension - resulting in a final maturity of 30 years. Outstanding Series EE bonds having initial maturities of 8, 10, 11, and 12 years will receive the required number of 10-year and shorter extensions, when appropriate, to provide a final maturity of 30 years.

By announcing its policy on savings bond extensions and final maturity, the Treasury has taken another step in improving the savings bond program. Bond owners will now be able to better plan for their children's education, retirement and other long-term goals by knowing the final maturity of their savings

Treasury's administrative costs will also be reduced by simplifying the program and significantly reducing the thousands of inquiries received each year from bond owners asking when their bonds will stop earning interest. Within the next year, as new bonds are printed and issued, the final maturity, or interest earning life, will appear on the face of the bonds.

Accompanying this release is a table that illustrates the extensions that will be applied to outstanding bonds and notes, as well as, new issues of bonds to effect the new policy.

Psalm 151

Which psalm?

Students of the Bible in most of its versions will correctly note that there are only 150 psalms. Only the very latest translations contain number 151 and a few of its companion psalms.

Psalm 151 was found about 30 years ago in the Dead Sea Psalms Scroll, written in A.D. 30 and uncovered in caves in Jordan, along with 800 other lost scrolls. Its translator was the young scholar, James A. Sanders, now 62 and head of the Ancient Biblical Manuscript Center for Preservation and Research in Claremont, Calif.

Sanders is coming to Detroit in November to speak in Birmingham and Grosse Pointe. While here, he will do a cable television interview Nov. 7 with Rev. Edward Cobden in the morning, then speak at dinner at the War Memorial. His visit is sponsored by the English Speaking Union.

It is the sheerest coincidence that just as a major Biblical scholar and translator comes to Grosse Pointe, the scholarly world is shaken by controversy over the Dead Sea Scrolls. While most of the scrolls were translated, studied and interpreted by the scholars assigned to them, nearly one-quarter of the scrolls remain unpublished. Rumors abound that some of the scholars are not equal to the task.

"The team of scholars assigned more than 30 years ago to publish the Dead Sea Scrolls

Scholars argue that the closed system of assigning scrolls to particular scholars has prevented others from gaining access to them, that the entire older generation has been cut out of the

This has nothing to do with Sanders, who completed his assignment a generation ago. "He won't criticize his colleagues,' said Marion Gifford, president of the English Speaking Union.

But the controversy does heighten interest in his visit. It also points up the importance of the manuscript center he founded.

In 1980, the center was officially designated a safe repository for copy negatives of the films of the Dead Sea Scrolls (both published and unpublished). Copies are stored in a vault, which maintains the security and climate according to strict standards. This is the only place in the world outside of Israel that scroll microfilms are

The Dead Sea Scrolls caused a revolution in the scholarly approach. As Sanders wrote in Bible Review, great strides were made in understanding "and hence in serious modification of the way text criticism (determining the best readings where variants occur in the manuscripts) should be done. . . My hands have made an instrument and my fingers a lyre; And so have I rendered glory to the Lord, thought I, within my soul.

The mountains do not witness to him, nor do the hills proclaim; The trees have cherished my words, the flock my works.

For who can proclaim and who can bespeak and who can recount the deeds of the Lord? Everything has God seen, everything has he heard and he has heeded.

He sent his prophet to anoint me, Samuel to make me great; My brothers went out to meet him, handsome of figure and appearance.

had especially to be abandoned." Sanders is so well known for his views on text criticism that he was the only American to be included on the board of the Text Project of the United Bible Societies in 1969. That project has published five volumes and is still in progress. Although most scroll translations were handled by a team, Sanders - only in his 20s at the time - was given a scroll of his own. He has studied extensively in both testaments of the Bible and in the rabbinic literature.

An ordained Presbyterian minister, Sanders has preached widely, as well as teaching Biblical studies and interpretation at more than eight university divinity schools.

It was about a year ago that the English Speaking Union became aware of the opportunity to host Sanders in the Detroit area. Although ESU events are generally open only to members, the group quickly realized that the interest in such an event is widespread.

"There's no doubt that he is one of a handful of the most prominent Biblical scholars in the world," said ESU President Marion Gifford. "This is not just a party or a fundraiser - it's a serious contribution to the religious community.'

Sanders' and Cobden's discussion on Grosse Pointe Cable will be aired at 10 a.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 7. He will speak that evening at a 6:30 dinner at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. His topic is "Forty Years' Study of the Dead Sea Scrolls."

The sneak preview of a major movie, food from Detroit's finest restaurants and an auction of celebrity memorabilia — all will be available Wedesday, Oct. 4, at the Northland Theatre in South-

The Variety Club of Detroit is sponsor of this benefit, which they're calling "Lights, Camera, Auction.

For more than 50 years, the Variety Club has been "the heart of show business" that has helped Michigan's handicapped and underprivileged children. Its charitable programs bring the latest medical, technological and therapeutic advances to kids through their cardiology center at Children's Hospital of Michigan, their myoelectric Center at the Rehabilitation Institute, their Child Development Service at the Detroit Institute for Children, their Sunshine Coach Program, their Special Friend Communication devices, the Rainbow Connection and the 4-H Youth Handicapped Riding program and more.

All these programs help underprivileged and handicapped children in Michigan lead more normal lives.

The evening benefit will include an auction of personal mementos from more than 100 entertainment stars - like . . . a bon bon dish donated by Paul Newman and Joanne Woodward and some neon yellow boots donated by Hulk Hogan.

Also, up for auction: a chance to be a columnist for a day, courtesy of Bob Talbert; tickets for four to the Bill Cosby TV show; fur coats; jewelry; a seven-day cruise in the Greek Islands; two autographed books written by Grosse Pointer Mort Crim, WDIV-TV anchorman.

Grosse Pointers David Benjamins, M.D. and Michael Klein, M.D., are involved with the children that are helped by the Variety Club. "They're celebrities to the children," said Les Lee Roland, publicity director for the Variety Club. Benjamins is medical director of the Variety Club's Child Development Service at the Detroit Institute for Children and Klein works with the ECMO (Extra Corporeal Membrane Oxygenation) which is a heart-lung machine designed for children with respiratory and cardiac failure.

Tickets for Lights, Camera, Auction are $100; $50; or $25.

The benefit starts at 6:30 p.m. with gourmet refreshments, live entertainment, silent and live auctions. The sneak preview of 'In Country" starring Bruce Willis begins at 8:45 p.m. — and is billed as the Detroit premier of the movie.

Call the Variety Club office for more information: 855-6440.

Something's cooking:

Cox & Baker Designers and Builders and the Van Dyke Place are sponsoring cooking demonstrations to benefit the Foundation for Exceptional Children.

The demonstration-type classes start Oct. 7 and continue, once each month, through April 21. Each month has a different theme and all proceeds benefit the Foundation.

The culinary capers will begin at 10 a.m. and run about two hours. They will be held in the Cox & Baker Designers and Builders showroom, 19591 Mack Ave., Grosse Pointe Woods.

Those who attend get to watch the cook, take home the recipes, ask questions, discuss the menu, and - eat the results.

Each class is $35. Classes are limited to 25-30 people. The first one will be Saturday, Oct. 7 with a demonstration of country French cuisine: from Alsace, an appetizer of chicken, apple and peppercorn sausages with a ragout of vegetables; from Anjou, a salad of greens tossed with asparagus, beets, walnuts and fresh goat cheese, served with a sherry walnut dressing; from Provence, a braised salmon fillet with artichokes, potatoes. tomatoes and olives; and from Normandy, poached pear and chocolate tart served in a pool of warm chocolate sauce.

In the coming months, themes will include: regional Italian cuisine; Southwest Christmas; breakfast cookery; pasta made fresh; herbs and edible flowers; and just desserts.

For more information or to make a reservation, call Mark Baker at 885-6040 Mondays through Fridays.

The world is a circus

By Rev. John Corrado Grosse Pointe Unitarian Church

The world is a circus and we are not the main event or even the audience. We are the freaks.

We are terribly precious, terribly fragile beings terribly in need of one another.

Fortunately, the god of the platypus, the giraffe, Jerusalem artichokes and human beings must have a cosmic twinkle in her eyes.

The fact that we were conceived in a moment of profound fun should tell us something, too.

Be terribly precious, terribly fragile, terribly human creatures terribly in need of one another and be blessed!

Memorial Church women study Bible

"A Faith More Precious than Gold: A Study of I Peter" will be the Bible study explored by the Women's Circles of Grosse Pointe Memorial Church this year. Circle groups are open to all who are interested. Meetings, held the first Tuesday of each month, include time for study and discussion, mission awareness and fellowship.

The first lesson will begin on Oct. 3, with morning circles meeting at 9:30 a.m., afternoon circles beginning at 1 p.m., and evening circles at 7:30 p.m. A noon luncheon has been added this year.

Lunch reservations may be made by calling the church at 882-5330 by Oct. 2.

Parish addresses role of women

A special program on the role of women in the church will be held at St. Clare of Montefalco Church on Oct. 4.

Sponsored by the St. Clare Adult Continuing Education committee, "In God's Image: Partnership for Women" will review the changing roles of women in society and today's church, from a historical as well as pastoral perspective.

Sr. Pat McCarthy will be the presenter. She has a Masters of Divinity from Orchard Lake Seminary and serves as pastoral assistant at St. Sylvester Church in Warren.

The seminar will meet on Wednesday, Oct. 4, from 7:30 to 9 p.m. in the resource room of St. Clare School. The cost is $3.

For more information, call 884-2110.

Pet blessing

Saturday, Oct. 7, is the day when pets will be blessed in the annual ceremony at St. Paul Church.

Monsignor Francis X. Canfield will bless pets, and prizes will be given for the youngest and oldest dog and cat.

The public is welcome to the 11 a.m. blessing.

Fashion planning

"Fashion Reflections" will feature a dinner and an evening of fall fashions for men and women at Assumption Cultural Center Thursday, Oct. 5. Fashions will be presented by Judith Ann of Grosse Pointe, Constantini Furs of Windsor and Antonio Rimanelli Men's Fashions. Shown preparing for the event are Colleen Lee, manager for Judith Ann; Rimanelli; Stephanie Daskas and Georgia Vlahantones, co-chairs; Costa Apatsides of Constantini's; Irene Rousos, reservations chair; and Linda Lanctot, commentator for the show. Grosse Pointe News Journal from Oxford: How to find a pub with excellent food

Joseph Samulowicz accepted ire cat sat on a horizontal bough highlights: an early retirement offer from Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Michigan - and decided to travel. His first trip, a six-week study tour to Oxford, England. was to study the evolution of arts in England and British architecture.

This is the third in a series of articles, "Journal from Oxford."

By Joseph Samulowicz Special Writer

During my stay in Oxford. there seemed to be an awful lot of strikes - public transit and government workers in particular. Strikes generally lasted one or two days, followed by a couple of days of strike the following week, and on and on.

However, each week, strikers would pick different days to close up shop. So you never knew what's what. It was hard to plan.

On one of these strike days, I went to the city tourist office. In the window there was a poster advertising a production of "Alice in Wonderland" to be performed at Christ Church College the next afternoon. Christ Church College was the setting for the book. Alice in Wonderland and Lewis Carroll belong to Oxford. She was the daughter of the Dean of Christ Church and he was one of the college tutors.

Charles Dodgson, a pseudonym for Lewis Carroll, first met Alice and her two sisters in the garden of Christ Church while he was taking photographs of the Cathedral. That day marked the beginning of a friendship which was to inspire one of the most famous books in the world. The shared experiences of Lewis Carroll and Alice in Oxford would be relived in a Wonderland and Looking Glass world to the delight of several generations of young and old alike.

The next afternoon's performance was everything I imagined it would be. The young performers were from the Cathedral school. Alice was a perfect replica of the drawings in the books.

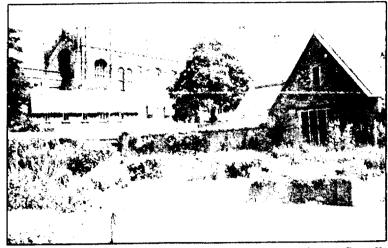

The Deanery garden was the setting for the play, near the chestnut tree where the Cheshin the story. What a wonderful way to spend an afternoon. Everyone seemed to be carried away with the stunning performance and its setting.

• If the food and service is vile, refuse to eat and refuse to pay. This is difficult to do. But anger causes indigestion. Conanger is worse and which causes the most indigestion? - the anger which exhales itself in open fury and in the words, "This food is uneatable; I am going?" Or the anger which simmers through the paying of the bill and rumbles all the way home in the bus or train — frustrated, humiliated and causing heartburn?

· This is for wives and girlfriends only. There are two expressions from which you must in all circumstances refrain. Do not say or indicate by your nose or eyelashes: "Oh, you aren't going to make a scene!" Do not, on the other hand, go to the other extreme and indicate: This is intolerable. Deal with these people as they deserve!" Your escort is engaged in delicate and dangerous warfare. You are the reserve battalions; you must give him steady and calm support. You must neither run away nor rush vociferating into the front trenches.

On our way to Ludlow, a professor and I talked about the sheep grazing in the countryside. He said at one time, a friend of his didn't want to cut his grass so he bought a lamb to graze on his lawn. The city ordinance prohibited this and he was forced to get rid of the lamb. I asked what happened to the lamb. He said, "It made delicious roast lamb!"

The Cotswolds were extremely picturesque. Cotswolds means hilly country. We soon arrived at Ludlow and had an elegant dinner at The Feathers at Ludlow. which is one of the world's most famous inns. The inn has a magnificent half-timbered front elevation and a richly decorated interior. It was used in 1603 as a private residence. The inn was first referred to as The Feathers in a deed of 1656 and was given the name in honor of Prince Charles, son of James I.

Ludlow Castle was impressive. Before the middle ages, England and Wales were separate countries. In a classical sense, castle means, "war machine for defense - built to fend off the enemy." Later the term castle was adapted in a more romantic sense as in Windsor Castle, built for royalty and for a showplace.

Our group had front row seats for the performance of Julius Ceasar. The performance was superb, enhanced by the outdoor setting in the castle grounds.

One of the Oxford colleges we visited as part of the architectural class, was New College, founded at the end of the 14th century. This was one of the great medieval buildings, originally a monastery. The dining hall, early 16th century, has linen fold paneling. The gardens were exceptionally beautiful and were surrounded by the old city wall built around 1000 A.D. We learned that the term "spooner-liam Spooner, dean of the school from 1903 to 1924. The term was linked to him because of his verbal dyslexia - an unintentional interchange of sounds, usually initial sounds, in two or more words. One of the most quoted phrases, according to our guide, was the phrase, "the Dear old Queen", which came out as "the Queer old Dean".

One of the principal streets of Oxford is High Street, which has been described as one of the finest streets in the world. It is lined with magnificent buildings which make a superb streetsism" was attributed to Dr. Wil- cape. During the week it's crowded with traffic and people.

Off High Street is the delightful Victorian Covered Market, built in 1774. It contains a fascinating mixture of sights, scents and color; tempting cakes and pastries; freshly baked breads and pies; bunches of scented flowers and herbs; shiny fruits and vegetables; homemade chocolates, pastas and salamis; braces of grouse and pheasant; gleaming salmon and trout; the delicious aroma of coffee and exotic teas.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Valente III Barker-Valente

Claudia Marie Barker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James V. Barker of Grosse Pointe Shores, married Mark Valente III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marco Valente Jr. of Grosse Pointe Park, on Nov. 19, 1988, at the Grosse Pointe Academy Chapel. The Rev. Joseph Padelt of Chatham, Ont., officiated.

Organist was Cliff Wilkins and soloists were Cynthia Meier and David Lemlin. The bride walked down the aisle on a pink runner, as her parents did 36 years ago. The ceremony was followed by a reception at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club.

The bride wore a gown of candlelight Lyons lace with a chapel train. The dress was decorated with hand-beaded pearls and iridescent sequins. She wore her mother's veil of four-tiered candlelight French silk illusion, with coronet cap appliqued with cascading pearls. She carried a bouquet of white gardenias, pink roses and stephanotis.

The matron of honor was Susan Devine of West Bloomfield. a friend of the bride.

Bridesmaids were Jamie Skrabec, Fresno, Calif.; Pamela Johnson, Farmington Hills; Kathie Burke-Harness, Grosse Pointe Farms; and Laura Rinke Madison, Grand Rapids.

The attendants wore velvet and satin lavender tea-length gowns with off-the-shoulder sweetheart necklines. They carried a single purple cattelaya orchid surrounded by heather.

Dean Valente, brother of the groom, was best man.

Groomsmen were Craig Barker and Kirk Barker, brothers of the bride, both of Grosse Pointe Shores; Richard Valente, groom's brother, of Detroit; and Jeffrey Harness, friend of the groom, Grosse Pointe Farms.

Ushers were James Valente, brother of the groom, of Grosse Pointe Park; Michael Ren, Clifton, N.J.; J. Robb Baubie, Grosse Pointe Farms; Linas Kojelis, Washington, D.C.; and G. Mark Cook, Falls Church, Va.

The bride's mother wore a tealength cream-colored dress with chiffon skirt and elongated Alencon lace bodice. She carried a single crea cymbidium orchid.

The groom's mother wore a floor-length mauve beaded dress and carried a single white gardenia.

The bride is a graduate of Western Michigan University with a degree in business administration. She is a special assistant to the Secretary of the Interior in Washington D.C.

The groom is a graduate of Villanova University and the University of Detroit Law School. He is director of congressional relations of the office of personnel management for the federal government in Washington, D.C.

After a honeymoon trip to Ireland and London, the couple returned home to Arlington, Va.

Mrs. Robert Farrell Shaughnessy-Farrell

Megan Chamberlain Shaughnessy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Francis Shaughnessy Jr. of Sewickley, Penn., married Robert John Farrell, son of Mrs. George Raymond Farrell and the late Mr. Farrell of Grosse Pointe Woods, on Sept. 23, 1989 at St. John the Evangelist Church in Plaquemine, La. The Rev. Father Howell J. Champagne officiated.

The reception following the ceremony was held at the historic Nottoway Plantation in White Castle, La.

ous gathering where Harriet Goldher Lerner, a well-publicized author delivered a titillating address promoting her latest offering, "The Dance of Intimacy."

Her first book, "The Dance of Auger,"(1981) didn't get off to such an auspicious introduction. However, interest in it grew until it became a latter-day success in 1989, just in time to assure a waiting interest in the new one.

Sponsored by Hudsons and Estee Lauder at the Hyatt Regency in Dearborn, she could not have had a better setting. The conference room was softly lit, the tables attractively set, the buffet was laid out with tempting and

On the other hand, "better cancels out if something or someone "better" comes along.

There is no doubt that times are more stringent now than in Grandmother and Grandfather's day and call for different means of survival. Yet all this inner probing seems so sterile and devoid of feeling. One has to ask where is the regard for the other delicious food.

The speaker was enthusiastic and stimulating and the commentator who followed her had a terrific delivery to go along with slides that showed the before and after of what could be achieved by the exact and careful application of cosmetics.

Prime Time

The fashion show that followed was beautifully choreographed. The models were attractive and showed off the lovely fall tones of autumn in coordinated costumes for every type of figure. The 800 women who attended left with a gift package and that euphoric feeling that comes from an evening that couldn't have been more perfect.

As the well-pleased audience left there was a display of the author's books available for sale. The smiling and gracious author was there to personalize each autograph.

As a practicing clinical psychiatrist from the Menninger Institute, her presentation was logical and livened by actual examples of her basic theme which was to search for the hidden cause of outbursts of anger rather than making an issue of the immediate confrontation which might only serve to intensify the underlying causes that led to the immediate problem.

For instance she presented a of a husband who had forbidden his wife to attend a workshop she was conducting. The wife was determined to go. What was involved was not the workshop but rather her husband's fear that attendance at it might change her and eventually weaken his dominant position in the marriage. On the other hand, the wife felt that if she didn't go, she would lose the right to choose for herself on important matters that concerned

The wife needed to be a 'self,' which at the simplest terms means we can be pretty much who we are in a relationship rather than what others wish, need and expect us to be.

It was a concept that was well received by an audience that age wise appeared to be young or middle-age. Nurtured on the 80's "me" philosophy, this was a step forward in delineating the importance of "self" and how best to maintain that "self."

It would probably be necessary to return to grandmother's time to validate a different view of "self" if it was an issue at all.

Back in the dark ages of the 30s and 40s there was no power struggle. The father worked and supported his family. His job was his kingdom. Mother ruled over the house and children. That was hers. Roles were clearly defined. If either one felt cheated or deprived, it was not an issue involved in their chosen roles, perhaps they didn't find it necessary to probe their psyche to discover that all important "self." If they liked themselves or loved themselves that was enough and that love of self grew out of service to others. Other times, other values, lives that could not be led in the same way in today's world, economically because mother's role has been changed by the need for two incomes to keep a family going; philosophically, because girls are encouraged to place a career rather than early mar-person's feelings, the empathy, the compassion, the kindness, all those qualities that make women-and men-more lovable.

What you get is what you see may be honest but it is self-serving. A better approach might be, I'm not perfect nor are you but we'll work on it.

The whole process seems manip-

The author quotes a French philosopher as saying "Beginnings are wonderful." She then goes on to describe it as the Velcro stage of a relationship and stresses the necessity to navigate that delicate balance between separateness and connectiveness and the challenge of sustaining both. Do we need to know that? Can't we just enjoy the moment rather that engaging in a "dance of intimacy?

Dr. Lerner writes with pride of her son who remarked to a visitor that his mother had spent the whole six years of his life writing a book. She saw that as a sign of development. In those

You have been extended the rare honor and exciting opportunity of representing your Bridge club in a test of your skills with a truly exceptional partner. You have been flown as a guest of Goren International to Cannes to compete in France's Master Pair Classic, one of Europe's most prestigious duplicate events. Your host, Tannah Hirsch, presents you to your partner, the gifted and brilliant, Omar Sharif. For oh so long, he has been a distant and mighty image and now he stands before you in his ever charming, smiling way and greets you. "This is a wonderful occasion for me and I am delighted that we will be playing together for the next few days." You're completely undone, but who wouldn't be!

By previous agreement your bidding system and carding has been set. You will sit South and your illustrious partner will sit North for the first 26 board session.

Grateful

This column has been written several times in my mind, but the recent death of a friend's mother really provoked my thoughts to finally draft this overdue column.

My mother and father were my biggest fans when I was growing up. Both of them made sure the bed was made, the clothes were clean and the meals were always warm.

No matter how many times the uniforms needed washing or how many sweat socks I needed, mom made sure they were ready for me. It seems like yesterday when I walked through the door telling my parents that I made the little league team. I graduated to the varsity team in high school as a freshman, played some hoops and watched every football game from the sidelines — with mom and dad present.

Every game I played in at least one of my parents was there; much of the same, I see in Grosse Pointe athletics. I never understood how my parents could manage to work a full day, get to every game, make dinner, cut the lawn, pay the bills, take care of my other five brothers and sisters, and still have time for me.

Mom is the family backbone. She's strong, a good listener and a best of all, a friend. Mom would ask me what happened on a muffed ground ball. She'd tell me that I took my eye off the ball and she'd say, "but I'm proud of you son.

Dad would say much the same, but at times he wouldn't say it with words; his look would say it all. However, I knew dad was backing me and that he was proud. Not saying much was just his way of not being overbearing, or rubbing salt in the wound. He knew I felt bad enough.

However, my parents were also the first ones to tell me how well I played.

My father always made sure I worked on my game and the books. He'd toss the ball to me in the backyard, but soon after he'd tell me to hit the books. Just like any kid, I would second guess my parents, but now I realize how much good they did me and were doing me.

From age 14-17, I didn't want to cut the lawn, take out the garbage, do the dishes or study algebra. I wanted to be on the ball field. Now, however, I want to spend time with my parents because, unlike my friend. I still have them around. I can still toss the ball with dad, and chit-chat with mom, and right now I don't want to leave anything out. Time is too valuable and so are relationships.

My parents aren't in danger of dying, but I just wanted to tell them, in writing, how much I admire them and thank them for the success I have encountered.

We all get preoccupied with our lives, but we have to remember that the family is our best friend. Whether we were or are involved in sports. bands, choirs or theater, it's a comfort to know that mom and dad are cheering us on.

It's difficult to tell what time will bring, but the day my parents, or even I die, I'll know in my heart that I said and did the things I wanted for and with my parents.

We all only get one set of parents, and no matter how close or distant a relationship is. I think it's vital to always remember where home is and who established that founda-

Mom and dad, I thank you for doing my laundry, picking me up when I was down, correcting my poor baseball swing, giving me 10 bucks for more sweat socks and keeping the meals warm. Most of all, however, I thank you for the friendship we have established, and all those days you sat in the

While Pelok continued to hone her game, she also became interested in music. Approximately fifth grade, Pelok's mother found her a place to take lessons. ULS stung by Yellowjackets, 3-0

By Rob Fulton

Sports Editor Since 1985, the University Liggett School boys' soccer team has searched for a viable way to beat Detroit Country Day

And after a 3-0 loss to the Yellowiackets on Sept. 19 at home. ULS is still wondering what it will take to drop the No. 1 ranked team in Class C-D.

'Amazing isn't it?'' asked ULS coach David Backhurst. The last time we beat them, all the kids who are on the team this year were in middle school.

"They are definitely a top-notch team," continued Backhurst, "but they're not unbeateable. It's disappointing to lose to them again.

In 1987, ULS lost to Country Day in the state finals, and in 1988 the Yellowjackets prevailed in the semifinals.

"Last year we had three losses and two of them were to DCDS," said Backhurst. "They apparently have our number, but we're going to do what we can to reverse what's happened."

ULS, which had won six straight before the loss, will have to wait for the state playoffs - maybe.

"We may or may not face them in the playoffs," said Backhurst. "If things go right, I'd like to think we could be on an even level with them by the time the playoffs begin."

Backhurst, who admitted he scheduled some weaker teams earlier in the season, wasn't so sure meeting DCDS this early in the season was in his team's best interest.

"We wanted to hit them early enough so we can make some adjustments," he said. "But it hurt us because we weren't ready for them. They had played 10 games before this one and we had only played six, and I think that had something to do with it, as well. We just weren't ready for them."

DCDS carried play throughout the first half, but the ULS defense salvaged a 0-0 deadlock at halftime.

"Our defense really played a strong game," said Backhurst. "The midfielders and forwards, well, they didn't have as strong of a game."

The defense, according to Backhurst, was led by Larry Ayuyu, James Kim, Richard Berri, John Gordon and goalie Paul Lanzon.

"Looking at the score, it doesn't look like it, but I felt our defense shut them (DCDS) down," said Backhurst. "Richard's assignment was to mark with some of the stronger kids and he did a great job.'

The Yellowjackets broke the 0-0 tie early in the second half, when Scooter Place headed a ball in. Mike Clark added goals two and three for DCDS.

"We were getting beat to the ball all day long," said Backhurst. "In the second half we wanted to take some of the pressure off our defense and let our midfielders get the ball to the forwards, but we really didn't carry the ball."

With the DCDS and weaker games out of the way, ULS can focus on the task ahead. When asked if scheduling DCDS for the season's seventh game was not a good idea, Backhurst said: "Yeah, either that or maybe we should have had a few tougher games before we met them. Either way, it was a gamble, but we will bring our game up a notch because we now face the heart of our schedule and we should be battle-hardened for the state playoffs.

The Knights forgot about the loss to DCDS and bounced back with a 4-1 win over Southfield

Christian. Jonathon Davis opened the scoring with his ninth goal of the season, and in the second half forward Doug Wood notched his eighth and ninth goals of the season. Tom Reynolds tallied his fifth of the season.

In league play against Sacred Heart, ULS came away a 2-1 winner. Captain Carrie Carpenter, and Shields and Paul anchored the front line, with Listman and Wisgerhof supporting the defense. Sarah Stackpoole scored both goals, with the assists goig to Haggarty.

Carroll's touchdown runs of 7-, 10- and 1 yards lifted ULS to a 28.0 halftime lead. Carroll finished with 110 yards on 15 carries, and Whitfield carried 11 times for 114 yards. Whitfield score came from 7 yards out.

Jumaane N'Namdi scored the final touchdown in the second half from 3 yards out.

"This was a game that we were able to play everybody and work out some of the kinks,' said Newvine. "Everyone got to play and that made this victory that much nicer.'

Whitfield, Karow Gordon and Abimbola Afariogun led the defense in tackles, and Andrew Stroble recorded his first career

"Right now we're 3-1 and looking forward to improving on that," said Newvine.

Reiter paces Norsemen in loss

By James Moore Special Writer

Senior center Kim Reiter canned 24 points and yanked down 10 rebounds, but it wasn't enough as the North girls' basketball team lost for the first time this season, 47-45 to Utica.

North, 5-1 overall and 2-1 in the MAC's White Division, fell behind by as many as 12 points but rode its tight defense and Noelle Cormier's 10 points to cut the gap to two.

At home Sept. 23, North got eight points and five assists each from Melissa Champine and Cormier to upend Fraser, 32-29.

North struggled the entire day with a miserable 21 percent from the floor and 45 from the line.

Cross country

Tom Gauerke raced to 20th place at the Shrine Invitational and Dave Meda ran his best race of the season.

Earlier in the week, North was shelled by East Detroit, 44-17. Gauerke finished fourth (17:59), with Meda taking eighth (18:58) and Matt Beal (19:00) placing ninth.

In the Fall Sports Invitational, the Lady Norsemen followed the first and second-place finishes from Laurin Schultz (20:48) and Nikki VanOppens (20:59) to take first place overall with 21 points.

Jessica Mclalin (21:19) was fifth, and Allison Liebold (21:26) and Hope Peters (21:34) ran to sixth and seventh, respectively.

Earlier in the week, the Lady Norsemen slammed East Detroit, 15-50. Hope Peters was first, followed by Anne Dakmak, Jane Rie, Melissa Blumenthal and Zeina Haurani.

Tennis

The team recorded an 8-0 win over Stevenson, but lost to University Liggett School, 6-2.

Later in the week, North beat

Chippewa Valley, 5-3, with all four doubles teams winning. The have just moved ourselves out of fifth win came at No. 4 singles.

In the sports invitational, Barb Thomas and Cristina Bermudez won the consolation finals like gangbusters, but in the end at No. 3 doubles, while teammate Heather Klobuchar was the consolation winner at No. 4

As a team, North tied for third place with South with 15 points. Ann Arbor Huron won the tournament with 42 points.

Golf

Still winless, the golf team picked up 348 sixth-place points at the Gill-Evans Tournament. Brian Schatko shot 77 for overall second-low medalist. Scott Carson shot an 85.

Swimming

On Sept. 21, the team opened the season with a strong 126-39 win over South Lake.

Heidi Mader attained a statecut time in the 50 freestyle, while Charlotte Frankleman earned a third and fourth in the 200 and 500 freestyle.

Soccer

Angelo Gritsas booted four goals and John Ferguson, Jason Bucko and Nadeem Elian tallied one each as the Norsemen routed Roseville, 7-0.

After winning two consecutive games at home, the Norsemen have come up empty twice on the road.

After getting pounded by Eisenhower the week before, North looked to hop back in the win column at Romeo, but the Bulldogs prevailed, 21-12.

Worse yet, the loss dropped North (1-1) one game off the pace in the MAC's White Division

"I hate to say it, but we may the race," said North coach Frank Sumbera. "This was a big ball game for us. We came out we shot ourselves in the foot."

In the 41-12 loss to Eisenhower, North turned the ball over five times. In the loss to Romeo it lost the ball four times.

"Nine turnovers in two games," exclaimed Sumbera. You can start with that statistic and see that we should have lost two straight. It's disappointing and frustrating. Losing is one thing, but when you kill yourself, that's another."

Throughout the game, however, North did show signs of

"We moved the ball well all day," said Sumbera. "A couple times we were taking the ball in and stopped ourselves. Defensively we had some letdowns, but offensively we didn't execute.'

Quarterback Scott Bernhardt completed 11 of 24 passes for 186 yards, but three of his passes were intercepted. Bernhardt has now tossed nine interceptions in four games.

Senior tailback Chris Meathe played his best game of the season, rushing for 60 yards on 10 carries, catching three passes for 43 yards and returning four kickoffs for 73 yards.

"Chris played his best game of the season," said Sumbera. "He ran well and gave us some good field position with his returns."

Fullback Bryan Ford also did his part, rushing for 68 yards on 12 carries.

Romeo took the opening drive and ran off 12 plays, culminating in a 1 yard touchdown by Michael Davis. The extra point was good and North trailed 7-0 after one quarter.

North, which ran only five first-quarter plays, took its second possession of the second quarter and scored on a pass from Bernhardt to Ed Barbieri, his first touchdown of the sea-

"We came right back and scored, but our kicking game forced us to settle for a 7.6 score," Sumbera said about the missed extra point. "Tim Meinig, who was kicking in place of Angelo Gritsas who was at a soccer game, did a decent job, but when your regular kicker isn't available, it throws things off."

Romeo tucked in another score late in the second quarter, taking a 14-6 lead at the half.

"We were in the ball game, but in our initial drive of the second half we turned the ball over with an interception," said Sumbera. "We were moving the ball and if we could have scored, I felt we could have won."

North mounted another drive from its own 25, but on an option play Bernhardt's errant pitch to Meathe was recovered by Romeo at its own 27.

With 15 seconds to play in the third quarter, Romeo drove 75 yards and capped the drive with a 23-yard touchdown toss from Derek Ganfield to Brent Ploetz. Romeo added the point and took a commanding 21-6 lead.

"We kept putting our defense on the field and you can't expect them to do it all," said Sumbera. "We've obviously got to stop the interceptions and fumbles if we're going to get back in the win column.'

In the fourth quarter, North got the ball to the Romeo 45 and 12, but Bernhardt tossed two more interceptions. However, Bernhardt brought the offense right back late in the final two minutes and scored from the 3vard line.

Offensively, North had 186 yards rushing, 145 yards passing and 16 first downs.

"Statistics certainly are misleading, aren't they?" asked Sumbera. "They're (statistics) are also just for the losing team to look at.'

Kim Reiter (40) continued to lead the Lady Norsemen last week with 24 points against Utica.

Devils climb one step higher in E.M.L. race

By Rob Fulton

At the beginning of the season, the Grosse Pointe South Blue Devils football team set a major goal: to win the Eastern Michigan League title "One More Time.

Since the E.M.L. will fold at the end of the 1989-90 season. South wants to go out with its ninth championship in 16 years.

The chant continued Sept. 23 when the Devils picked up their third consecutive win, a 21-20 overtime victory over the previously unbeaten Big Reds of Port Huron.

With the slim win, the Blue Devils stayed atop the Eastern Michigan League with an unblemished 3-0 record.

Overall, South is 3-1.

"This was a game that we definitely had to win," said South coach Jon Rice. "We're happy again that we have sole possession of first place in the league. The win also puts us one step closer to our goal of winning the championship.'

It also means the ladder has one less step on it.

"We've told ourselves that we have to climb a six-rung ladder," said Rice. "We've got three steps (games) conquered and three re- picked off the intended 2-point main. With the win, we've sim- pass. ply climbed one more step closer a 14-6 fourth-quarter deficit to force the overtime.

In overtime, both teams get four downs to score from the 10yard line.

South drew first blood in overtime, when quarterback Brian Letscher, who finished with 77 yards passing and 25 rushing, scrambled 10 yards on the first South took a 21-14 advantage. game, what you do is figure out a way to score," said Rice. "Ten but against a tough defense it is.

"By scoring on the first play, however, it took the mystery out of trying to score," Rice said. "But it was far from over."

The Big Reds connected on their second play for a 13-yard scoring strike from Aaron Carpenter to Marlon Ashford. Down ended a 77-yard drive. 21-20, the Big Reds were forced to go for a 2-point conversion be- up 21-8 at the half, but the turncause of a weak kicking game, overs killed us," said Rice. "We and South captured the win knew we could get on the board South's Mike Montagne chewed up 160 yards on 24 carries with help from the offensive line and Z-back Jim West (40).

"After 25 years in football, you'd think that the wins would South had to battle back from blend together," said Rice. "But this one was just as sweet as the first one."

> From start to finish, the game was a true test of South's mettle. On the first play from scrimmage, the Big Reds hooked up for an 80-yard touchdown pass, added the 2-point conversion and held an early 8-0 lead.

"I was really pleased with our play. Jason Weissert added the poise," said Rice. "The kids werpoint after touchdown (PAT) and en't disheartened or let down by that first play. We knew we "When you have an overtime could move the ball so we just went to work on that.'

Sustaining drives of seven, yards doesn't seem like much, eight and nine plays, the South offense chewed up 230 yards rushing, led by fullback Mike Montagne's 160 yards on 24 car-well, and we knew it was just a matter of time."

The offensive line of Dave Asker, Andy Shaffer, John Bednarchik, Jim Campagna, Brett Brownscombe and Chris Harwick were the reason the ground game progressed.

Trailing 8-0 in the second quarter, South mounted a 70yard drive that ended in a Montagne 1-yard touchdown. Tight end Chris Harwick got the ball to the 1, with a 15-yard reception from Letscher. The 2-point try to tie the score failed and South trailed 8-6 at the half.

Port Huron controlled the third quarter and took a 14-6 lead with 11:08 to play when Carpenter squeaked in from the 1-yard line. In that third quarter South handled the ball only

"We had the wind at our backs in the third, but they (Port Huron) held onto the ball," Rice said. "That definitely hurt."

After the Big Red touchdown, South took over on its own 20. Letscher hit Z-back Jim West with two passes and Montagne picked up approximately 30 yards on the ground, moving the ball into Port Huron territory

"It was another must situation for us," said Rice. "We showed tremendous poise on that drive. The kids just hung in there."

The result: A 2-yard touchdown run by Montagne. Weissert's PAT tied the score 14-14.

"I don't like overtime, but you need it." said Rice. "We've won three ball games and two of them have been by one point. This was another dog fight and that's the way it should be.'

Jason Bedsworth led the defense with 14 tackles and Kelly Graves had 11. Rob Khoenle had an interception, and Rapo Nazarko's fumble recovery aborted a Port Huron drive.

"Our defense is really coming on," said Rice. "The kids are working hard and improving each week.'

Girls cross country

The Lady Devils ran their record to 2-0 last week with a big win at Center Line.

In that meet. South took the first five positions with Susannah McAndrew, Erica Mondro, Kim Apple, Claudine DuPont and Debbie Solterisch leading the way. Jenny Williams and Gretchen Hoffmeyer also ran

At the North Invitational, South did not defend its varsity and jayvee title, but did manage second-place finishes in both races. Six South girls were medalists including freshman Kim Apple, who placed eighth overall (21:49). Following Apple were McAndrew (9th), Mondro (10th), DuPont (11th), Williams (13th) and Solterisch (14th).

Boys cross country

Mark Sonnenberg, Eric Lindsay and Marty Kraft led the boys to a narrow 27-28 win at Center Line. Drew Lovell won the jayvee race, and Danny Quinn was third as South won the team event. Kevin Opdyke, Branden Farmer and John Itchon.

South is 2-0 overall.

Tennis

Things were going well, and basically still are.

However, for the first time in 16 years, the Lady Devils suffered a league defeat; a 4-3 decision at Port Huron Northern.

singles player Katrina Litka, 6-3, 7.6; Catherine Yancey and Beth Bonanni (6-3,6-3) at No. 2 doubles, and Kathy Nault and Becky Budolfson (6-4,6-1) at No. 3 doubles.

Linda Woodrow, playing at No. 3 singles, lost 6-7 in the third set after playing for more than three hours.

South moved its record to 4-1 with wins over East Detroit, as all flights won in straight sets, and Mount Clemens, 6-1.

Erin Tusa and Carolyn Begg teamed up to win the No. 2 doubles against the Shamrocks, and Kathie Burke and Mary Begg also won big at No. 3 doubles.

Swimming

The 200 medley-relay team of Anne Llewellyn, Tina Higel, Anna Francis and E. Sullivan led South to a season-opening victory, 99-73, over Marian.

Kim Higel made the state cut after winning the 200 free, and Kim Higel made the state cut in the 500 free. Other winners were Denise Brown (diving), Anna Francis (100 fly), Peggy Francis (100-free), and the 400 free-relay team of Amy Verlinden, Anna Francis, Peggy Francis and Kim Higel.

The Missing LINC

Linking individuals to Needs in the Community is a non-profit organization whose purpose is to coordinate needs with resources. This is accomplished by placing goods no longer needed by individuals and businesses into the hands of Metropolitan Detroit charitable agencies. Operating since 1971, LINC is proud of the accomplishments it has made and strives to increase its resource base. If you have recyclable items, no longer of use to you, Operation LINC knows who can and will use them. Please call

MOVING! Summer is coming and so is the heat! FANS AND AIR CONDITIONERS have been requested by the following organizations: Judson Center, Grateful Home, Operation Help, Youth Living Centers, and Friends of Aurora.

The Jaguar XJ6 is not only $15,000 less than a Mercedes 420 SEL, it's 7" wider, 2" lower and 100% prettier.

some European manufacturers have well-earned reputations for charging a lot of money for their cars, Jaguar maintains its tradition of giving you a lot of car for your money.

Take the Jaguar XJ6, for example. Its interior, unlike some of its European competitors, is neither cold nor austere. Instead, you'll find the warm luster of polished burl walnut and the richness of hand-stitched leathers. You'll also find impressive agility. With this and much more, it's no wonder many people expect the Jaguar XJ6 to cost even more than some well-known European luxury sedans. Yet, when compared to a Mercedes-Benz 420 SEL, the Jaguar XJ6 is not only seven inches wider, two inches lower and 100% prettier—it can actually cost about $15,000* less!

We invite you to see and drive the XJ6. We think you'll agree that it's a beautiful example of dollars and sense. FEATURE OF THE PROPERTY OF TODAY
