Report outlines many options for costly Milk River clean up

By Dan Jarvis
Staff Writer

It will not be done soon and it will not come cheap.

That's the word from engineers studying several options for the state-mandated clean up of the Milk River drainage basin.

A report released recently by the engineering firm of MacNamee, Porter and Seeley, Inc., the firm contracted by the Milk River Inter-County Drainage Board to study the problem, maps out short- and long-range solutions for the polluted basin at the northern end of the Grosse Pointes.

The 55-page report presents several solutions, including the total separation of sewers and storm water drains in the area served by the Milk River system at a price tag topping $90 million.

The Milk River system serves Grosse Pointe Woods, Harper Woods and a small portion of St. Clair Shores.

Less expensive alternatives start at about $7 million and include disinfection of the drainage basin and the rerouting of the Harper Woods sanitary sewer system from the Milk River system to Detroit water treatment facilities.

The alternatives are designed to not only clean up the Milk River drain, but to alleviate raw sewage entering Lake St. Clair when the system becomes overloaded.

During heavy rain, combined sewage and storm water overloads the Milk River pump station on Marter Road in Grosse Pointe Woods and exceeds the station's volume limit being pumped into the Detroit treatment facilities.

The sewage and storm water mixture is stored in a four million gallon retention tank adjacent to the pump station. But water volumes often exceed the tank's capacity and overflow into the Milk River channel and eventually into Lake St. Clair.

Since the overflow contains raw sewage, the basin emits foul odors which have led to numerous complaints over the years by residents living near the Milk River.

Once sewage enters Lake St. Clair, bacteria can cause infections if water comes in contact with eyes, ears or cuts in the skin. The bacteria can be especially dangerous if swallowed.

Vyto Kaunelis, an engineer who helped design the engineering report, last week told members of the drainage board that each of the five possible alternatives include six or more steps that can be undertaken one at a time.

All of the alternatives have similar components including disinfection, rerouting Harper Woods sewage to Detroit and disconnecting downspouts to direct rainwater from storm sewers onto residents' lawns to decrease the amount of storm water entering the system.

Four of the five alternatives include cleaning the channel and installing a river circulation system to keep solids in the water from settling.

Two of the alternatives include building one or more 15-million-gallon retention basins on or near the Grosse Pointe Woods DPW yard.

Kaunelis said additional retention

Board closer to decision on new library building

By Ronald J. Bernas
Staff Writer

The school board took two steps Monday night toward a new library building at Brownell Middle School.

The first step was the unanimous acceptance of a committee report detailing uses for the Central Library building at the corner of Kercheval and Fisher.

The report, presented to the board Dec. 4 and adopted Monday, calls for the school administration offices currently at 389 St. Clair to be moved to the Central Library building.

The land and building at 389 St. Clair will be sold and the money will be used for the move, making cost to the taxpayers minimal.

The committee, chaired by board member Vince LoCicero, discussed possibilities from selling the land to converting the building into a community center.

The committee was unanimous in its decision not to sell the land, and also unanimous in its recommendation to move the district's offices there.

The decision is predicated on the fact that a new building will be built at Brownell and that both the Park and the Woods branches be kept open and operating.

In making the decision, the committee had to take into consideration the land was given specifically for construction of a library, and that the building symbolizes the library in the minds of many residents.

"The main thing the committee wants is a new library," LoCicero said.

Board President Jon Gandelot said the move was "one more step in eventually seeing a new library built." He praised LoCicero and the committee for their work.

The second step was more tentative, and cannot be taken until sometime in January when the board receives yet another report.

The board was to have received a report from Ketchum Associates, Inc., a private fundraising company that has been spending time in the community trying to determine how much money can be raised privately for a new library facility.

The report is now expected to be presented to the board in January.

Depending on the report, the board will have to decide whether to use Ketchum's services, or to go ahead and hope voters will approve a bond issue for the

Pointer of Interest Thomas Daley

By John Minnis
Assistant Editor

Did you hear the one about the Coast Guard commander who could be stationed anywhere but he chose Detroit?

Well, that's no joke for Cmdr.

Cmdr. Thomas Daley

Thomas Daley of Grosse Pointe Park who in July became the commanding officer of the Coast Guard's Marine Safety Office here and captain of the Port of Detroit.

"It's just like dying and going to heaven," he said of the transfer to Detroit and, more specifically, of living in Grosse Pointe Park. "It's like stepping back into the '50s almost."

After the "merry go round" of Washington, D.C., Daley, 41, is enjoying the slower pace of the Midwest and Detroit.

He said people are more friendly in the Pointes and the Detroit area. And he believes Midwesterners have a lot of pride in their work.

At home in the Park, though, he likes the strong importance on family that he finds prevalent here.

He and his wife, Helen, have two children: Jenne, 3, and Amanda, 1 1/2.

War Memorial claims election violation

By Dan Jarvis
Staff Writer

The Grosse Pointe Farms election that brought nearly 10 weeks of litigation because of alleged ballot handling violations is again drawing attention.

Attorneys representing the Grosse Pointe War Memorial recently filed a complaint against LeRoy H. Wulfmeier III, an unsuccessful candidate for a Farms council seat in the Nov. 7 election.

The complaint also names the Grosse Pointe Property Owners Association, the group which successfully opposed a public liquor license at the War Memorial.

The War Memorial claims that the Grosse Pointe Property Owners Association criminally violated non-profit corporation statutes by spending funds supporting Wulfmeier's candidacy.

In addition, John Rickel, representing the War Memorial, claims that Wulfmeier may have violated the law by mailing a campaign postcard without the authorization of the Grosse Pointe Property Owners Association.

The postcard was an endorsement of Wulfmeier by the property association.

The postcard stated that two incumbent councilmen voted to approve a public liquor license at the War Memorial, the application of which was recently denied by the Michigan Liquor Control Commission.

The War Memorial also claims that the property association sent postcards to all Farms registered voters — a violation of campaign laws since the Grosse Pointe Property Owners Association is a non-profit corporation.

"I understand it is a criminal violation for a corporation to spend funds for a political candidate, compounded here by violation of postal regulations," Rickel wrote in the complaint.

Webster Buell, director of Compliance and Rules Division for Campaign Finance, said complaints of unlawful corporate contributions, if proven, are felony violations and can bring fines of up to $10,000 and three years in jail.

The Campaign Finance Act states that a person who pays for a political advertisement or mailer must state his name and address. If it can be proven that the sponsor did not follow the rules laid out in Section 47 of the act, the person may be fined up to $1,000 and serve up to 90 days in jail.

"Most of these types of complaints are handled in conciliation, where the violator would sign a conciliation agreement with the state to undo the wrong," Buell said. "A corporation would be put on notice of the wrongdoing to avoid similar actions in the future."

Wulfmeier said he didn't know why the War Memorial filed the complaint, "especially in light of the election result."

Wulfmeier came in last in the Nov. 7 Farms election. "I have filed an affidavit with the state indicating that neither I nor the Property Owner's Association paid for the postcard," Wulfmeier said. He added that he does not know who paid for the postcard.

"It appears that the War Memorial has taken their liquor license fight a step forward," Wulfmeier added.

Mark Weber, War Memorial president, said, "Our concern is that the War Memorial's name was mentioned in the card. If it's illegal, it's illegal."

Serious dialogue

It's a good bet that this pair are not discussing world events — as exciting as that has been in recent months. But the young girl's body language reveals that the topic is heavy-duty stuff anyway. The exchange occurred on the grounds of the Grosse Pointe Academy during a Christmas Tree Sale sponsored by the school and the Lakeshore Optimists recently.

$7.7 million project.

According to a tentative time line presented to the board by Superintendent John Whritner, if Ketchum is used, the fundraising effort will begin in February and end in November 1990. The board will set the bond issue for $7.7 million minus whatever was raised privately and voters will get a chance to vote on the project in June 1991.

If Ketchum is not used, the project will go ahead immediately, a committee will be formed to sell the $7.7 million to the public and a vote on the bond issue will be set for February 1991.

Occupancy of the new library is estimated at January 1994 if Ketchum is used, and September 1993 without the company's services.

If the first plan is adopted, the board will have spent approximately $283,000 — for Ketchum's services (at $15,000 a month), secretaries and supplies for Ketchum, architects' fees and public relations efforts — by June 1991 when the taxpayers go to vote. If the bond issue is defeated, that money cannot be recovered.

If the second plan is adopted, the board will still have spent close to $75,000.

Along with a vote on a bond issue, the district would also be asking the voters to approve a .5 mill increase — from 1.7 mills to 2.2 mills — for the increased staff for the new facility.

Trustee Carl D. Anderson expressed frustration that the board couldn't go ahead and launch a campaign to have a bond and millage issue vote in June 1990 to save the school some money.

"I'm 100 percent for a new library, but I'm concerned we don't commit the taxpayers to $100,000 or $250,000 and then have the thing defeated," trustee Fred Adams said.

He also was concerned that the board has to get approval from the Grosse Pointe Farms council before the whole plan can be implemented.

"The board will have a difficult decision to make next month," LoCicero said.

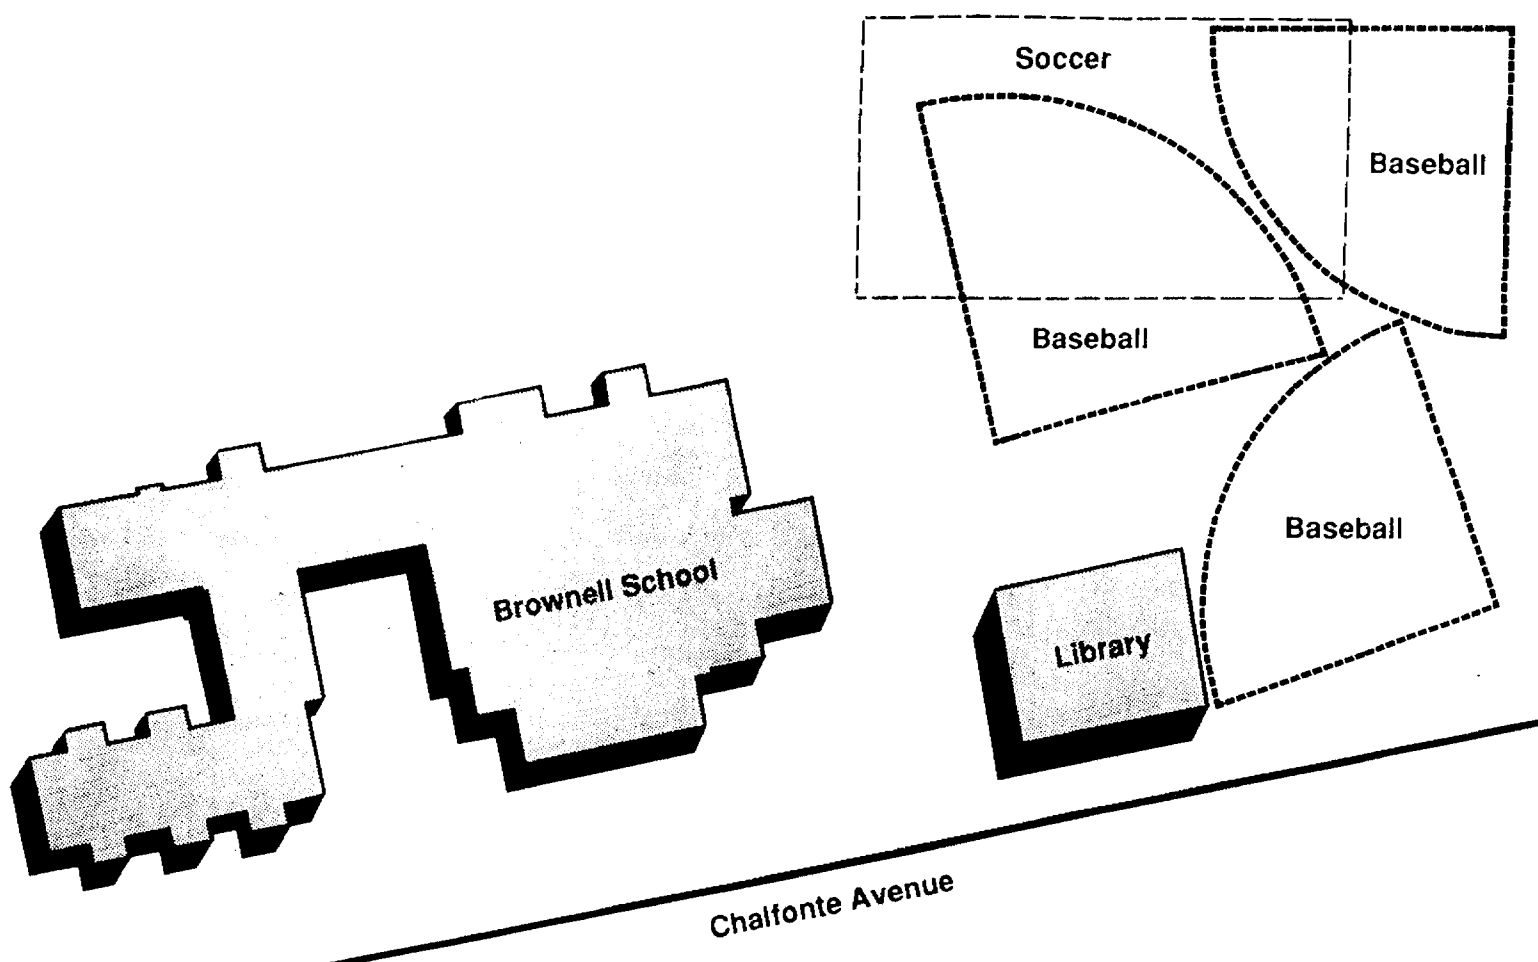

If the Ketchum report estimates the community can raise into the millions of dollars, the board must decide if Ketchum's $15,000 a month services will be worth the cost.

Whritner said the board must move cautiously with the project and make sure the school can drum up support for it.

"One thing this library project cannot afford is another defeat," he said.

The movement of school offices from 389 St. Clair and the sale of that property will only be started after a favorable vote on the library bond issue. Occupancy will be approximately 13 months after the library vacates the building.

Group collects more than recyclables at last recycling day

By Ronald J. Bernas
Staff Writer

The monthly drop-off days sponsored by the Grosse Pointe Citizens for Recycling have come to an end, but the group's work is far from over.

In addition to collecting plastics, metal, newspaper and glass at its last recycling day Dec. 2, volunteers for the group collected 1,202 signatures to petition cities to "establish an interim fixed dropoff site and institute city-wide curbside recycling by January 1991."

"And that wasn't everybody who dropped off recyclables," said Donna Di Sante, a group member who coordinated the petition drive. "Those were just the cars we caught."

"We had people waiting so we could give them a petition to sign," she added.

No one refused to sign.

Di Sante said many people who signed the petition commented that candidates for the recent city council elections had recycling high on their lists of campaign concerns, but to date have not done much to follow up on the issue.

The councils for all five Pointes passed a resolution urging the Grosse Pointes-Clinton Refuse Authority to begin a recycling program and provide appropriate staffing for the program.

None of the cities acted on a separate request that they establish an interim drop-off site for recyclables until curbside recycling could be instituted.

The 1,202 signatures contained the names of 299 Park residents, 279 Farms residents, 249 Woods residents, 144 City residents, 53 Shores residents, 101 Harper Woods residents, 53 Detroit residents and a smattering of names from other cities, including one from London, Ontario, and another from California.

"When you look at these figures and consider that there are more petitions floating around, you know there is a lot of interest in recycling," Di Sante said. "That thousands of people came (to the last recycling day) in a three-hour period is amazing and shows public interest."

The petitions will be presented to each council around mid-February.

"The petitions will give the city council members and the city managers a realistic idea of how many people are concerned about recycling," said Fran Schonenberg, president of the recycling group. "Having the names and addresses of the constituents who want recycling, perhaps the councils will move to respond to the needs of the communities."

Schonenberg said the group's goal is to get one city to establish a Pointe-wide drop off until curbside recycling can be instituted.

"We believe recycling will be mandated soon, either by the state or at the federal level," she said. "The only question is when, and will our cities be able to look ahead and plan and get an organized program, or have to put something together at the last minute."

Schonenberg said she was floored with the community's response to the drop-off days and to the recycling group.

Grosse Pointe Citizens for Recycling was created in September 1988 with the goals of establishing curbside recycling and raising consciousness about recycling. From only a handful of members at the start, the group now numbers more than 300.

"We started it because we believed in it," Schonenberg said. "We didn't start this for the feeling of fellowship we developed."

Di Sante agreed: "There was a great spirit of camaraderie that developed among the group and those who came to the drop-off days."

"It was a lot of work," Schonenberg said. "But it's amazing how people pulled together. It's just amazing what this community is doing. No one could have expected it."

day, 1,170 cars dropped off 36,320 pounds of newspaper, 19,080 pounds of glass, 3,850 pounds of plastics and 5,580 pounds of metal.

During the eight drop off days the group sponsored, 7,577 cars unloaded 289,760 pounds of newspapers, 134,260 pounds of glass, 27,518 pounds of plastic and 33,500 pounds of metal. The cost to the cities of putting the nearly 242.52 tons of recyclables collected into a landfill would have been approximately $9,700 according to an employee at the incinerator.

"We had great success with our drop-off days, and in a way we're sorry it's over," Schonenberg said. "But it shouldn't be all volunteer anymore. The city's must do their part now."

Petitions can be obtained by calling the Grosse Pointe Citizens for Recycling information line at 882-6439. The group has set a deadline of Jan. 24 for collection of the petitions. The group has its monthly meeting Jan. 24 at 7:30 p.m. at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

tion capabilities will enable the pump station to retain water longer while pumping water to Detroit. The result would be less sewage pumped into the lake.

Currently, sewage and storm water are pumped into the lake an average of 44 times per year during heavy rain. Additional retention would cut that number drastically, he said.

Kaunelis said his engineering firm is not recommending any particular alternative for the cleanup.

"We are striving for the most benefit per dollars spent," he said. "Our long-term goal is to eliminate combined sewer overflows and to increase water quality. There is a possibility that solutions chosen could take up to 70 years. We've got to concentrate on the next 20 years or so."

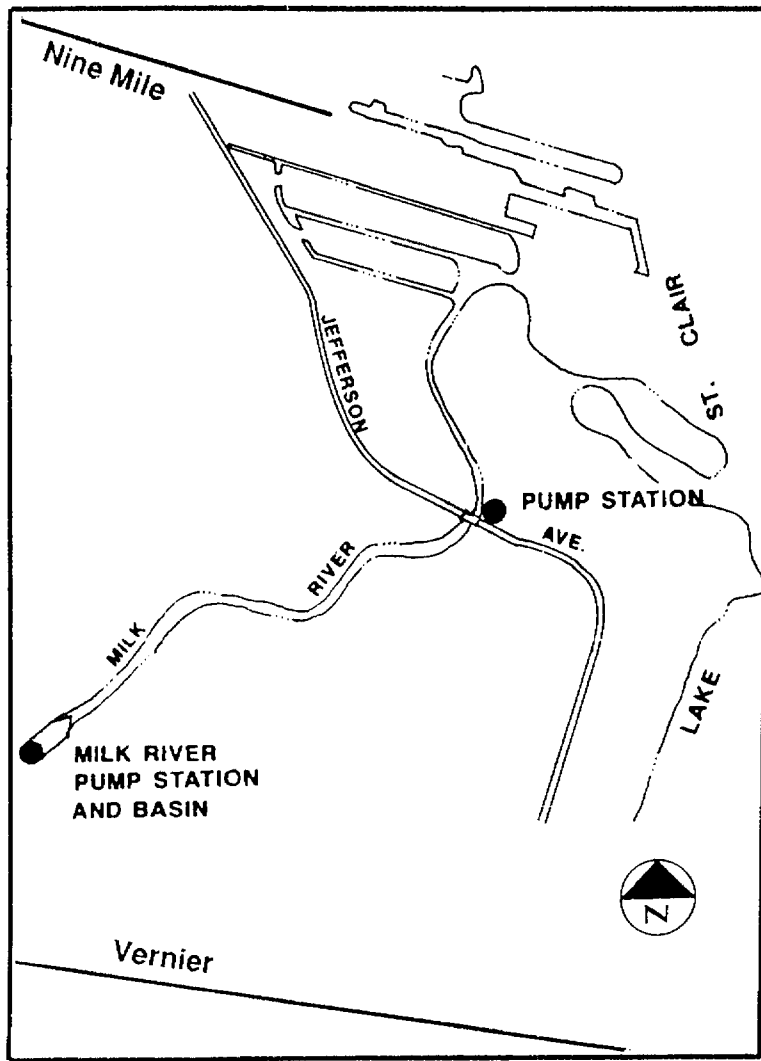

Now that several alternatives have been presented to the drainage board, the next step is a series of public hearings where people served by the system will be notified. Kaunelis said the public hearings are expected to begin in January 1990.

During the public hearings, people will have a chance to voice concerns regarding which alternative(s) to use, the cost involved and the completion schedule. If there is a consensus of opinion, the information will be compiled and presented to the drainage board.

"The input of the public is very important," Kaunelis said. "The public has a strong voice in the matter."

He said the choice of alternative will be decided by the drainage board but will have to be approved by the DNR. Once one or more solutions are chosen, the drainage board will then apply to the DNR for funding.

When voters in Michigan last year approved nearly $600 million in environmental cleanup bonds, a state revolving finance fund was created. The fund allows municipalities to borrow money for environmental cleanup projects at 2 percent interest over a 20-year period.

The cost of the clean up will be shared by people living in the area served by the Milk River system, Kaunelis said. The proportion to be paid by each city will depend on which alternative is chosen since each involves various construction projects in different communities. For example, if more work is to be done in Grosse Pointe Woods, then Woods residents may have to bear higher costs.

At the low end of the scale, a solution to improve water quality in the basin and to alleviate raw sewage from entering the lake will cost residents in the area less than $10 per month — about $115 per year.

At the upper end of the scale, total separation of sewers and storm drains at more than $90 million, customers can expect to pay $46.50 per month — about $558 per year.

"The solution chosen will be based on affordability," Kaunelis said. "Whatever solution is chosen, it will be a long-term, step-by-step procedure that will take time and will not be without expense."

Get a key, help the Capuchins

For the seventh year, Village Locksmith and Home Repair will offer its half-price deal on any house or car key starting Monday, Dec. 18 until Christmas.

Keys with a retail value of up to $1 will be cut for 50 cents and the money will be donated to the Capuchin Soup Kitchen to help provide a merrier Christmas to those less fortunate.

Last year the event raised $700. This year managing partners Bob Mowbray and Mike Petkowitz have a goal of $1,000 to donate to the Soup Kitchen on Christmas Eve.

Village Locksmith is located at 18554 Mack Ave., Grosse Pointe Farms. The phone number is 881-8603. Hours are from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday and 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturdays.

Optimists to collect coats for 700 families

The 72 members of the Lakeshore Optimist Club of Grosse Pointe will collect coats this weekend for some 700 families in the Corktown area who have little to nothing in the way of winter outerwear.

If you have some coats that are not being used and would like to know that they will be put to good use, bundle them up in a plastic bag, place it on your front porch and call 882-KIDS (882-5437). Leave your name and address and the bundle will be picked up by a member of the Optimists sometime this weekend. Indicate if you want a receipt.

The coats will be taken downtown to Holy Trinity Church and distributed to families who are in need of winter coats.

"Any donation of winter outerwear will be deeply appreciated by those families who are in need," said Mary Redlawski, Optimist Club member. "It will make a wonderful Christmas gift to those who cannot afford the essential needs of protection from the frigid winter weather."

Coats for the Cold is one of many charity functions the club performs throughout the year. The Optimist motto is "Friend of Youth," but this time of the year, the club doesn't mind being called "Friend of the Cold."

Musickes Pleasure in concert Sunday

The eight voices of Musickes Pleasure will present a holiday concert Sunday, Dec. 17, at 7:30 p.m. at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, 16 Lakeshore, adjacent to the War Memorial.

The concert this year will feature the traditional and lighter sides of the season as well as several new works by Michigan composers Albert Fillmore, Thomas M. Kuras and David Strickland. A variety of instruments played by the singers will provide accompaniment throughout the evening.

General admission tickets of $5 may be purchased at the door or by calling 884-7691 or 882-8593.

Singers are Dan Aggas, Steve Blackburn, Katherine Harris, Donna Johns, Phil Micheal, Danica Randall, Gay Shaw and Stephen Stewart.

Revolt called a Yule gift to the world

With the sudden collapse of the Soviet empire in Eastern Europe, it appears that the world is getting an early Christmas present: new hope for peace on earth, good will toward men.

True, reorganizing and restructuring Europe will not be easy and even the United States will have its troubles in adapting to a post-cold war world. Michigan, not a major defense supplier in recent years, will pay a price for peace in the form of the sharp shrinkage of defense contracts in Warren, Detroit and elsewhere.

It is a price, however, that most Michiganders and most Americans will gladly pay.

But what was it that set off the bloodless revolt against the Communist leadership in Eastern Europe?

If we read the signs correctly, it was the system's economic failure that started the rout of communism. The trigger was the sudden realization behind the Iron Curtain that Mikhail Gorbachev meant it when he called for more openness in government and a restructuring of society.

Once he permitted reformers to take control in Poland and Hungary, the door to economic freedom was opened and through it rushed the people of the Baltic states, East Germany and Czechoslovakia, with even Bulgaria showing signs of wanting reform and political and economic freedom.

These impressions of what has been happening are derived from the comments of several Eastern Europeans who have recently visited the Detroit area as well as from television, radio and print media reports by U.S. correspondents covering the political and economic battlegrounds in Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union.

Despite the more than 40 years of Communist control of public education and the media, the people themselves knew that the system wasn't working. Despite what they had read or heard from the media and what they had been taught in the classroom, they knew that there were shortages of food, clothing, housing and consumer goods in general. Standing in line just to buy the necessities of life was a daily reminder of communism's economic failures.

The eastern Europeans knew as well that they were really occupied countries with the Soviet divisions ready to pounce on any sign of opposition to or protest against Moscow's orders. They knew, too, that their local rulers were really puppets manipulated from Moscow, although it wasn't until recent weeks they learned the extent of their leaders' personal corruption.

Despite the tight control of information, they also knew from western European television, radio (including the Voice of America) and the print media that made it over and through the Iron Curtain that economic conditions were far better in the Western world.

And so, when the opportunity presented itself, the people went into the streets and the government leaders, having been warned by Gorbachev against any use of armed force and no doubt hoping against hope that the protesters would wear themselves out, let them have their say and their way.

The rest, we could say, is history. By now the flood of humanity streaming toward freedom and economic opportunity has become so strong and supportive of democratic and capitalistic reforms that not even the mustering of the Soviet occupation army is likely to be able to stem the tide against communism.

Not that the millennium has arrived. Replacing the Communist command system with a market economy will be difficult, just as difficult as it will be to replace the Communist political organization with a more democratic system.

In addition, Europe's nationalistic quarrels over boundaries, displaced ethnic peoples, access to water transportation and other traditional issues are likely to be revived as Eastern Europe seeks to play a new role in the new order that will follow the collapse of the Soviet empire.

In fact, some of the quarrels are already apparent. Ethnic Germans in Poland warmly welcomed West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl when he visited an area taken from Germany and awarded to Poland after World War II. Some Western Europeans as well as some Americans are warning that the moves toward German reunification must be slowed down to maintain European stability during the dangerous transition period.

Obviously, peace is not yet guaranteed. And even though Gorbachev says the Cold War is over, there still are disagreements between the United States and the Soviet Union, just as there are different views in Western and Eastern Europe over the future policies to be followed.

Yet can anyone think of a better Christmas present for the world than the rapid march toward political and economic freedom that has occurred in Eastern Europe in recent days? Let's hope it truly means the eventual achievement of the goal of peace on earth, good will toward men.

A housing deal for Whritner

Grosse Pointe's school superintendent, Dr. John Whritner, accepted a new post in the Greenwich, Conn., schools only after a creative financing deal made it possible for him to make an offer on "a modest home" for just under half a million dollars on a visit to that city last weekend.

Whritner received $94,000 a year in salary in Grosse Pointe, plus a $3,000-a-year bonus for staying three years, rent-free use of the residence owned by the school district and a $400-a-month car allowance.

In Greenwich he will be paid $105,400 a year, plus a housing allowance of $11,400, a tax-deferred annuity of $15,000 and $3,600 for car expenses.

But the special financing plan was required to enable him to buy a home in Greenwich because housing costs there are far in excess of those in Grosse Pointe. Last year, average sales were about $170,000 to $200,000 here. The superintendent's residence in which Whritner lived rent-free here was valued at from $250,000 to $300,000.

In contrast, the Greenwich Time reported that the average price for a single-family home in Greenwich for the first six months this year was more than $822,000 and 23 percent of all houses sold at more than $1 million apiece.

Under the special plan, Whritner will finance his new home in Greenwich, where his contract requires him to live, with the aid of a private housing subsidy valued at about $200,000. It will require him to take two separate mortgages on his home in order to pay both the bank and the investor group.

The superintendent will pay 5 percent interest on the loan from the private investors who also would be reimbursed if the house were sold and, in addition, would receive their proportionate share of any profit realized in the sale.

Until the private financing deal was worked out, Whritner's negotiations with the Greenwich school board had stalled, according to the Greenwich newspaper. Then after the plan was worked out, Whritner informed the Greenwich board of education he would accept the post.

Whritner had told the Grosse Pointe News earlier he had accepted the Greenwich post to be near his family. He has three grown children on the East Coast and other relatives as well. Being nearer his family remains his major reason for accepting the new post, he said again last week.

A native of Long Island, Whritner had been superintendent in East Lyme, Conn., for 13 years before coming to Grosse Pointe four and a half years ago. Before that he had worked as a teacher and administrator in White Plains, N.Y.

From the reports heard by this newspaper, and our own coverage of his activities, we believe Whritner has had an excellent reputation not only with school officials and the school board but also with community leaders.

To tell the truth, however, many are disappointed that the Pointes once again will have to go through a search for a new superintendent. Thus many local people, while respecting Whritner's wish to return to the East Coast to be closer to his family, are sorry he could not have been persuaded to remain.

JOA stumbles in early going

Horror stories abound in the Pointes and elsewhere in Michigan about the lapses and failures of The Detroit News and Free Press joint publishing arrangement now heading into its third weekend.

One family in the Pointes that subscribes to both papers reported it received two copies of the first Saturday jointly published newspaper, three copies of the first Sunday and then no copy of the Monday Detroit News. Delivery was better for this family on the second weekend, but a good many other subscribers reported they failed to get all of the special sections.

As expected, the newspapers raised their rates last week for advertising and circulation. The circulation hikes seemed to be generally accepted but some advertisers, angered by steep boosts in ad rates, threatened to use other media to get their messages to the public.

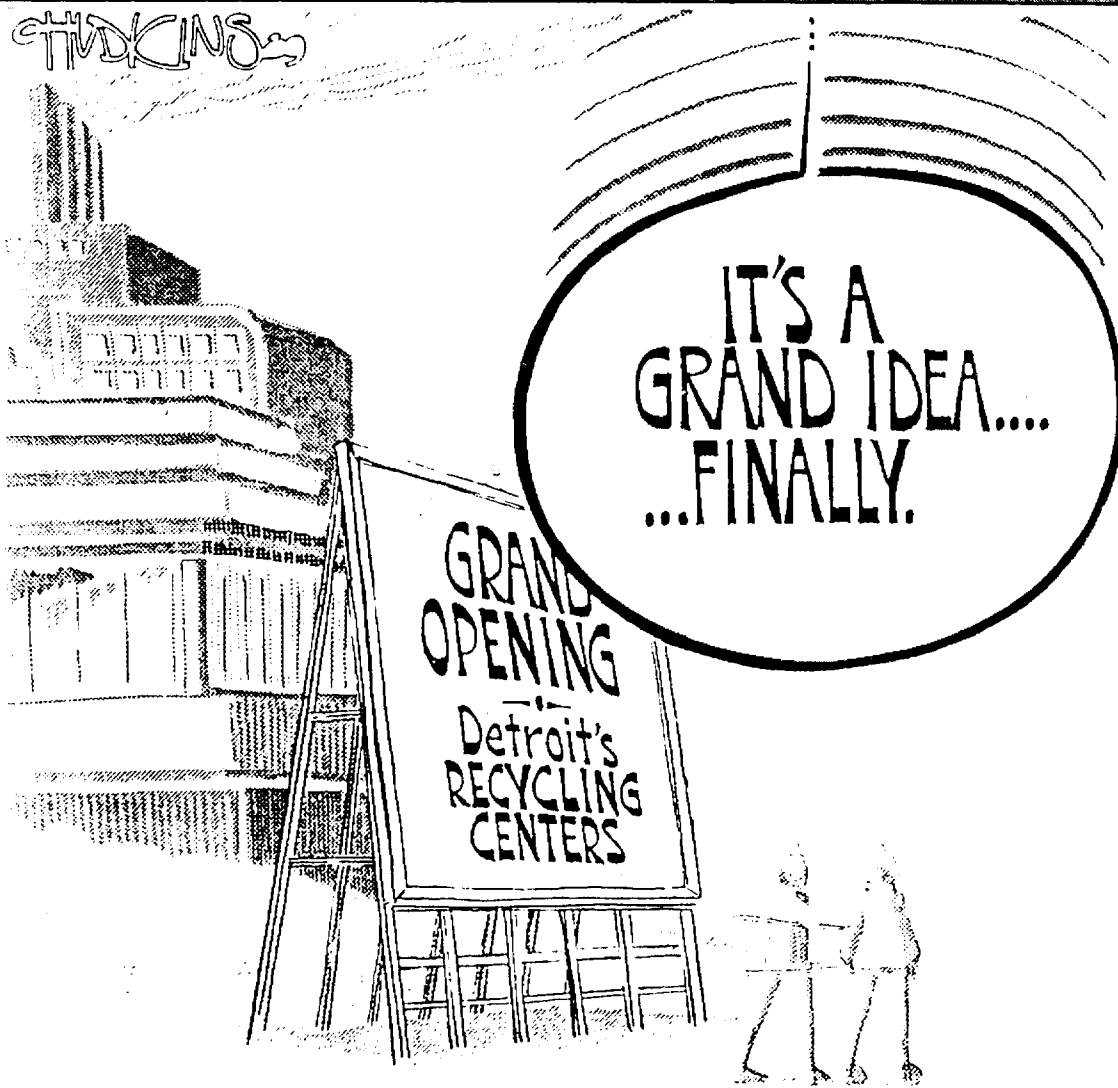

To their credit, both newspapers covered their own failings in the news columns, but at the same time quoted executives as promising better and more efficient service in the future.

Meanwhile, down in the trenches at both papers resentments were reported even after members of the Newspaper Guild, which represents chiefly news and editorial department employees, approved their contract.

Among those who were unhappy was Pointer Pete Waldmeir, columnist for the News. He complained the JOA is a "joke" because of its poor delivery service, because the first edition of the News now looks like the old first edition of the Freep, and vice versa, and because of assorted other gripes.

Many of the staff complaints are normal, of course, because it is the nature of newspeople to criticize everyone and everything. So those now involved, for better or worse, in the JOA are just following their waspish tradition.

There is enough merit to the public criticism, however, to warn the joint publishing agency it ought to get its act together as quickly as possible to avoid further complaints and losses in circulation and advertising that might jeopardize the future of the JOA or one of the two papers.

Recycling

To the Editor:
Saturday, Dec. 2 was a very sad day for me. It was the last day for Grosse Pointe Citizens for Recycling monthly drop off.

After actively participating in once-a-month collections, I'm sorry indeed to think that people may go back to throwing away our limited resources. With so many people waiting in line to do their part for our precious earth, I cannot imagine why our elected officials refuse to heed the will of the people.

Many other communities have recycling programs year 'round. Can the Grosse Pointes be so short-sighted and behind the times? My 3-year-old son used to get very excited about doing pick-ups for those unable to get to Grosse Pointe South. He was prone to exclaim, "Yay, wet's get going recycling." Out of the mouth of babes, huh?

I think all concerned Grosse Pointers should get a copy of the Grosse Pointe Citizens for Recycling petition and circulate it among concerned residents and continue to save their recyclables.

I personally plan to take my things to another community drop-off site. I'm much too accustomed to recycling to "throw away a good thing," while city officials drag their feet.

Cadieux house

To the Editor:
I strongly object to the proposed project for the Cadieux farmhouse.

Why in the Detroit area are the wonderful old houses either destroyed or changed?

Where is our sense of history and care for the community?

The farmhouse is on a large lot, but not too large for a single dwelling.

Why can't the house be sold for a fair price to someone who will renovate and keep it in its original state?

Plans look wonderful on paper, but when you see the actual finished product, it's something else — case in point — many projects on Lakeshore.

The citizens of all the Grosse Pointes should strenuously object to this latest destruction of our heritage.

Parade

To the Editor:
The Grosse Pointe Village Association's 13th annual Santa Claus Parade is packed up and put away, but thoughts of the generosity and enthusiasm of so many participants are far from faded memories.

This year's parade was noticeably bigger because of extra funding from The Bed, Bath and Linens Store, Charterhouse & Co., Damman Hardware Stores, First

'Tis the season for freedom

"The most powerful single force in the world today is neither communism nor capitalism, neither the H-bomb nor the guided missile — it is man's eternal desire to be free and independent" — John F. Kennedy, 1957.

This holiday season I will be celebrating a little more than last year. I don't mean I will go to more parties to eat or drink more. Rather, in my own way, I will be celebrating recent advances in freedom in various corners of the world.

As more Americans collect pieces of the Berlin Wall and take joy in the crumbling wall and its symbolism of a crumbling communist world, I hope we won't forget the political prisoners who were killed trying to get over. Today, their sons and daughters also collect pieces of the wall and can easily pass through with the help of soldiers who a few months earlier had a standing order to shoot to kill.

My generation (I'm 29) grew up with constant references in the media to the wall, the Iron Curtain and the Cold War. We at the tail-end of the baby boom generation and our older brothers and sisters grew up in world where the superpowers were constantly stockpiling nuclear weapons.

We may have sounded naive when we questioned why the United States and the Soviet Union needed to stock enough warheads to destroy the world hundreds of times over. Wouldn't once or twice do the trick?

In a world whose children grew up with the constant threat of thermonuclear war, I listened with great interest when former President Ronald Reagan and Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev began laying the foundations for a reduction in nuclear arms and conventional forces.

I Say

I for one do not see Gorbachev as the great liberator, but even the naysayers and doomsayers cannot deny that something special is happening in the Soviet Union, Eastern Europe and parts of South and Central America. Perhaps the citizens of these areas are seizing an opportunity to speak out against tyranny — an opportunity not previously available.

When thousands of Chinese students in Tiananmen Square boldly said they would rather die than live under the strict rule of the government, they showed they were sincere. The world was shocked when many were mowed down by tanks and gunfire.

These students ignited a spark of freedom across the world which now burns brightly. The effects of their cry for freedom can still be felt in many countries of the world.

Our world, at least in my eyes, looks brighter than the world of 20 years ago.

Recently, in the relative safety of an American shopping mall, I saw someone wearing a T-shirt embossed with the words "I survived the '80s."

At first I sort of giggled to myself. Then I began to think all the ones who did not survive the 1980s. The words hit home more recently when I heard about the massacre of 14 young women in Montreal — a tragic occurrence that is being called Canada's worst.

As we move into a new decade, the last of this century, let's hope the next 10 years are going to be brighter.

On a larger level, let's hope that recent changes in Eastern Europe will continue to support the efforts of citizens crying out for a voice, a vote that may guide us to a brighter future.

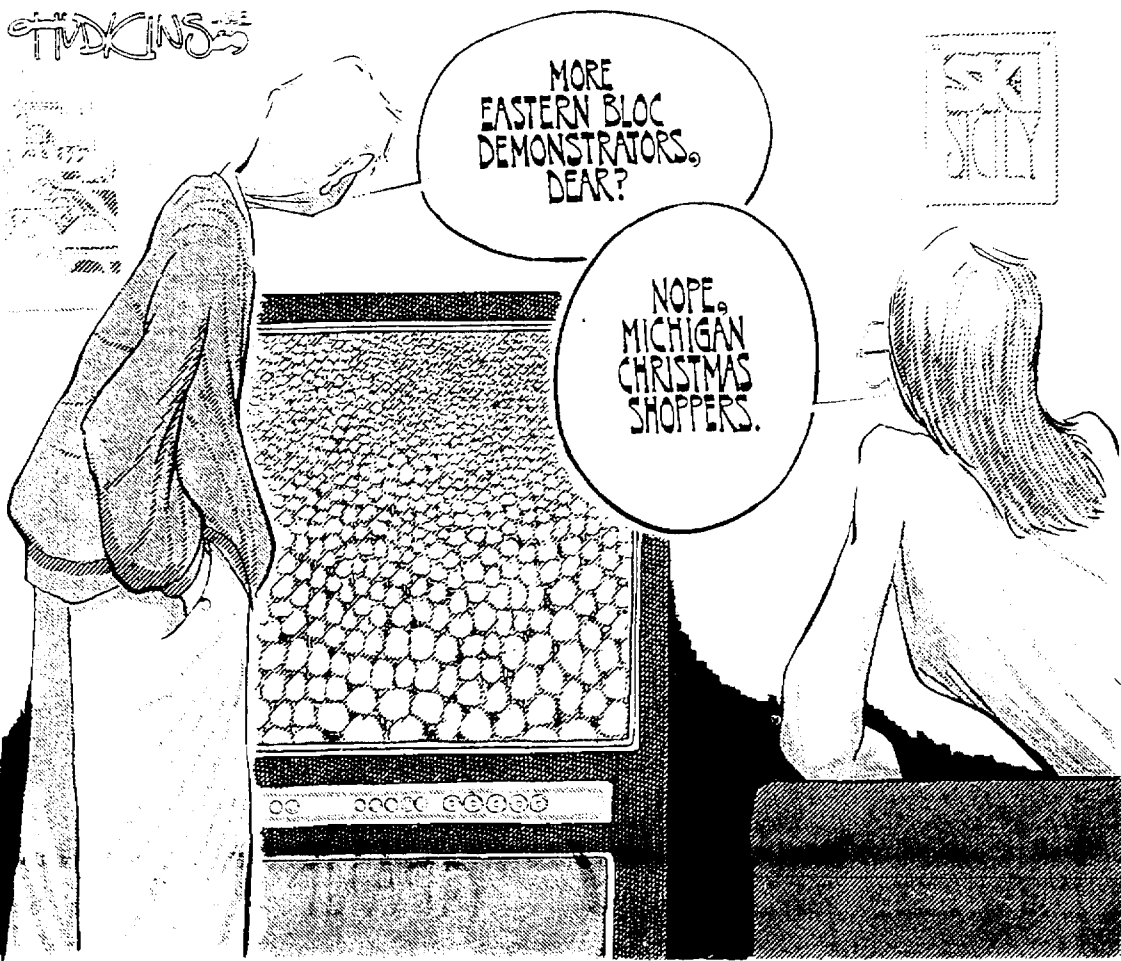

This holiday season, I'm thanking my lucky stars (and stripes) that we in the United States have a voice and a vote. I'm going to be thankful that most of my family and friends survived the 1980s.

This season, when I hear the words "peace on earth," I'm going to be thankful and hopeful that one day they may be more than just words.

Greco Tile Co. and Drummy Olds-Suzuki, who also provided the vehicles to pull the floats.

Out of the limelight, Hood Sails Great Lakes again allowed us to use their loft for float-building and storage. Pointe Electronics made sure we could all hear the Village commentary and Santa in his sleigh. Grosse Pointe Cable TV provided coverage for those at home.

The combined efforts of the City, Farms and Park police departments and their auxiliaries were terrific and kept both marchers and watchers safe. They were ably assisted by the Grosse Pointe Rotary and volunteer marshals.

Ric Seike and Mac Gallagher deserve special appreciation. Ric has been art director as long as the parade has been in existence and all the floats reflect his creative talent. Mae, as community director, organizes all the scout troops and is the link with Grosse Pointe Theatre. GPT is vital to the parade. They provide make-up to scores of clowns, maintain some very popular units in the line up such as a people powered "Bug," and blow up 1,000 balloons to distribute.

Thanks to all the groups and individuals who participated in the parade. Some of you return year after year, others have hopefully begun a new tradition. The clever and colorful costumes, routines, music, banners and vehicles made the event a visual treat.

A parade is nothing without parade-watchers, so hats off to all who bundled up and lined the curbs to see the marchers. May the good cheer continue through the holiday season!

Improvement

To the Editor:

Regarding the Grosse Pointe Woods beautification and tree commission, I would like to express my appreciation for the landscaping additions to Mack Avenue, Fairford Road, and other neighboring areas. They are a great improvement.

The commission's vision for Mack Avenue, our primary commercial zone, creates a setting of beauty and tranquility. The landscaping additions on our individual streets will not only enhance our environment, but will reap financial rewards for all homeowners.

Thank you. Please continue with this project of love. The commission can be justifiably proud of its achievements.

Santa parade

To the Editor:

When I trotted my 2-year-old daughter, her little bear, Bucky, and myself off to see the Village Parade, I eagerly anticipated another enjoyable time as we had last year... but that expectation was severely dashed when, upon arrival at our curb site, I discovered little Bucky had somehow slipped from the stroller, undetected by us both.

I felt so bad. I don't know if I'm losing it or what, but I became emotionally attached to all her stuffed critter pals that she loves so much. I actually felt heartsick at Bucky's loss.

Show time was beginning and I didn't want my little girl to miss it and we were by ourselves, so I couldn't go back by myself to search, so we stayed put.

At the instant of the finale, however, we made a mad dash homeward bound in search of our missing third party. I was hot on the heels of throngs of other homeward bounders, much less frenzied and hurried than I was. We got through all of them and kept going, going, going, eyes darting up and down, to and fro, hoping beyond hope we'd find him. I'm surprised I didn't call his name, as if he could hear me!

And then on Kercheval near Kenwood perched atop a tall brick fence sat our beloved Bucky Bear. What joy! Happiness is finding an old friend. I was so elated. We all went home and had a tea party to celebrate our happy reunion and we were even able to laugh at the incident now that it was safely behind us. And like all good fairy tale endings, we've been living happily ever after ever since.

Many thanks to the thoughtful someone who perched Bucky atop that fence so we could find him. Thanks, also, to the Village Association. We actually did enjoy the parade and will be back next year too — my little girl, myself and a seat-belted Bucky!

Ring-a-ling

John Prost of Grosse Pointe Park has interviewed Clarence Harvey, Michigan director of the Salvation Army, on his cable TV show "Pointers with Prost."

Prost said (with modesty, of course) that it's a pretty good interview. Harvey talks about the recent flap over the Army's bell-ringers and kettle-keepers at local malls.

"I learned an amazing thing," Prost said. "It only costs $120 to feed and clothe one homeless person for one year."

"Pointers With Prost" appears on Grosse Pointe Cable, channel 32, and will be repeated at 7 p.m. Friday, Dec. 15. Also Monday, Wednesday and Friday, Dec. 18, 20 and 22 — and several other times.

Sing-a-long

Speaking of the Salvation Army...

The auxiliary to the Salvation Army will host a Sing-a-Long (for the second year in a row) on Friday, Dec. 15, from noon to 2 p.m. at the Kingsley Manor, 1475 N. Woodward Ave., Bloomfield Hills.

Music will be provided by a Salvation Army brass ensemble, Dixie Belle and WEXL-AM's Bob Allison. Also scheduled to be hanging around for the benefit song-fest: WDIV-TV's Rich Mayk and WJBK-TV's Bruce Kirk.

If you miss that — you get another chance.

The London Chop House will hold its 21st annual Carol Sing, a benefit for the Salvation Army, on Monday, Dec. 18 and Tuesday, Dec. 19, from noon to 3 p.m. each day.

Last year Chop House folk donated more than $23,000 during the two-day event.

This year's Carol Sing will be hosted by WDIV-TV's Carmen Harlan and WXYZ-TV's Bill Bonds on the 18th — and WXYZ-TV's Rich Fisher WJR-AM's J.P. McCarthy and WJL-AM's Sonny Elliot on the 19th. A Salvation Army brass ensemble will accompany.

If you don't like to sing — or can't take time to attend — or just want to send some cash — call the Salvation Army at 443-5500.

Play-a-long

Sen. John F. Kelly of Grosse Pointe Woods will be the guest host on WQRS-FM's "Guess Who's Playing the Classics?" this evening, Thursday, Dec. 14, from 9 to 10 p.m.

Design-a-long

Just for comparison — last year, the auxiliary sold 60,000 Christmas cards, netting $20,000 for the hospital.

Play along

Need a gift for somebody who has everything?

Or somebody who would like to explore new vistas?

The Detroit Symphony Orchestra Hall has gift certificates available in any dollar amount and redeemable for tickets to any DSOH event.

Call 833-3700 to purchase one by mail — or stop by the Orchestra Hall box office, 3711 Woodward Ave.

Gift-a-long

The National Society for Animal Protection (NSAP) is a Michigan-based, private, non-profit organization dedicated to protecting all animals and the environment.

The organization has two new holiday gift items: nightshirts for dog- and cat-lovers. Proceeds will go toward the support of NSAP programs for animals.

The shirt for dog-lovers has a pooch sleeping on an overstuffed armchair, dreaming of playing catch. It reads: "Dog Tired."

The shirt for cat-lovers shows a happy cat, asleep, dreaming of annoying the family's goldfish. It reads: "Cat nap."

Shirts are 100 percent cotton; available in peach only; one size fits all; price: $18.

Get them at the National Society for Animal Protection, 100 N. Crooks Road, between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays or between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. Saturdays.

A-long-time subscriber

Happy 90th birthday. Today, Thursday, Dec. 14, 1989, is the 90th birthday of Irene Flowers, a 44-year resident of Grosse Pointe Park, recently a resident of Long Beach, Calif.

Mrs. Flowers was married in 1925 and lived in Chicago and Ohio before moving to Grosse Pointe.

She began subscribing to the Grosse Pointe News in 1940, when the first issue was published. Even now, in Long Beach, she keeps up with local happenings by reading the Grosse Pointe News every week.

Library offers booklist for children

The Children's Youth Services Department of the Detroit Public Library has published its new "Books for Pre-school Children" booklist and is offering single copies free at the Main Library and all branch libraries.

Listed are alphabet and counting books, board books, wordless books, pop-up books, concept books, nursery rhymes, picture story books, poetry books, song and singing game books and books about reading with children.

The department has also published its new "Children's Books to Own" booklist of old favorites as well as more recent titles with brief annotations and appropriate age levels.

People who want to receive a copy by mail should send a check for $1 made payable to the Detroit Library Commission to: Public Relations Department, Detroit Public Library, 5201 Woodward, Detroit, Mich. 48202.

For more than one copy, call 833-4049 for information.

Dealers want to resurrect auto rows of old with a new twist

"Auto malls" are hot now, but the idea of putting competing dealerships in a single location to attract serious car buyers is nothing new, only the shape. In the old days, they were "auto rows."

Just about every major city had an auto row, most of which grew up in the boom years after World War II. As befits the Motor City, Detroit had several auto rows, most notably Livernois on either side of Grand River, probably the biggest in the world, and Joseph Campau in northern Hamtramck and spilling into Detroit.

The Joseph Campau auto row is a shadow of its golden age, but still alive. And if Robert Krajenke, of Krajenke Buick

By Richard Wright

Sales, has his way, the auto row will have a new life and enter a new golden age.

"From the '40s through the '70s, Joseph Campau was a premier auto mall and a forerunner of the modern auto mall concept," said Krajenke. "From Caniff to Davison, automobile dealerships from almost every American car manufacturer were represented along the strip.

"And between the dealerships were thriving used-car lots, service stations, auto supply stores and collision shops. In fact, it was one of the first, if not the first, of its kind.

"The fact that Joseph Campau was the automobile center of the Motor City during the 'golden age' of the American car industry gives the strip a unique historic identity, which I would not like to see lost."

Krajenke's long-range goal is to create a historic and commercial zone along Joseph Campau, a "tribute to the men, women, dealerships and manufacturers, past and present, of Hamtramck."

Krajenke's vision is an ambitious one. While the strip was home to dealerships of virtually all American makes in the '40's, it has shrunk to a handful. But the dealerships have plenty of history. Krajenke Buick advertises that "only General Motors has sold more Buicks." Woody Pontiac recently celebrated its 50th anniversary at the same Joseph Campau location, and dealer Woodrow Woody figures his store has sold more than 100,000 new Pontiacs. Also still inhabiting the strip are Kozak Chevrolet, Central Oldsmobile and Garrity Dodge.

But none has been on Joseph Campau as long as Krajenke. "My grandfather, Stanley Krajenke, started a garage farther south on Joseph Campau in 1913," said Clarence Krajenke, chairman of the dealership and cousin of Robert and Stanley, who is the dealer and president.

"That one-story garage, called Hamtramck Garage, had four stalls and it was near where Garrity Dodge is now," Clarence said.

"In 1915, he got a Hupmobile franchise and moved into a bigger facility, still in Hamtramck. In 1925, he added Buick and Pontiac franchises."

In 1940, Krajenke Buick, then run by Robert's father, Clarence (better known as "Babe"), sold the Pontiac franchise to a buyer who then sold it to Woodrow Woody.

"Sales were climbing and we needed more space," said Clarence, "so we moved into the present location (in Detroit, a couple blocks north of Hamtramck) in 1950." Later in the '50s, Al Long Ford moved out to Eight Mile Road and Krajenke bought the Long facility for a body shop. A building Krajenke had been using for new-car prep and delivery until a few weeks ago had housed a Kaiser-Frazer dealership.

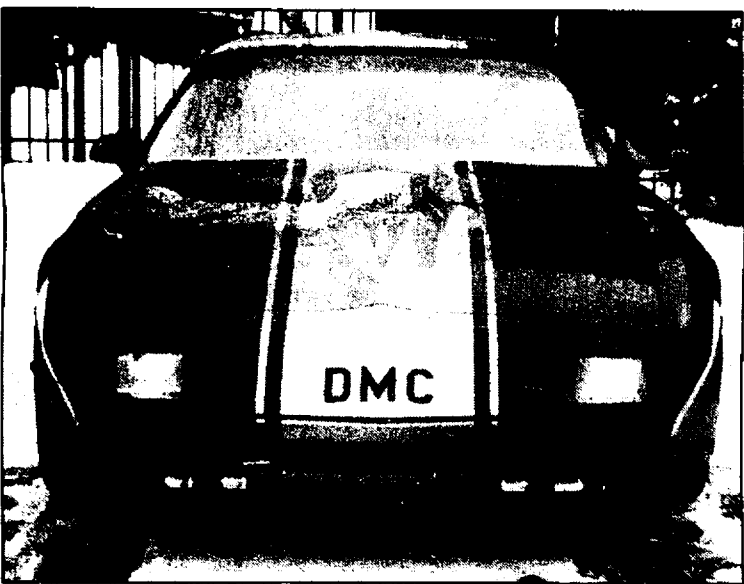

Krajenke sells about 600 new cars a year now. How good were the golden years? "We sold about 3,000 new cars a year in the '50s, '60s and early '70s," said Clarence, who also runs the service department.

"We were the No. 1 Buick dealership in those days," he said. "Hollywood stars, sports figures, celebrities of all kinds came to our showroom to buy Buicks. We got orders from overseas. One oil sheik ordered 25 Park Avenues at a crack."

Babe Krajenke died last year. Clarence explained because he had been a pretty good baseball player. Clarence's own father, Leonard, was nicknamed Barney, after Barney Oldfield (who drove Henry Ford's Old 999) because he loved to drive fast cars.

Give The Family Something They've Always Wanted For Christmas. A Sober Parent.

Every year your family hopes for the same thing. A joyous Christmas. One without the family fights, anger and tension that come from spending the holiday season with a parent who has a drinking problem. And every year they're disappointed.

But this year can be different. Because we can help your loved one overcome alcohol dependence. So your family gets what they want most of all. A sober holiday. A merry holiday.

is not what it used to be, but neither is Detroit, or Buick, or the auto industry. But Robert Krajenke thinks it can be brought back. He wants to have an automotive festival with owners of historic, custom and muscle cars taking part. He wants to have artists paint murals on the empty building sides in the area, murals reflecting the history of the auto industry. He wants to have ethnic celebrations reflecting the makeup of the groups who have worked in the auto plants.

Two plans are particularly interesting. "I'd like to stage a recreation of the glamorous new-model introductions of the '40s and '50s, with all their spotlights, glitz and excitement," he said.

Suspected crack dealer arrested in the Woods

A Detroit man arrested in the Woods for not having a driver's license was found to have all the makings of a crack dealer.

The 31-year-old man was traveling south on Mack at 6:17 a.m. Nov. 28 when a Grosse Pointe Woods officer stopped him for not having his headlights on. He was arrested for operating the vehicle without a license.

The officer removed a pager that was clipped to the arrested man's belt.

At the Woods station, he was told he would have to be locked up until his identification was verified and his $100 bond was paid. Prior to being put in the lockup, he was asked to empty his pockets.

Out of his right pants pocket he removed two cigarette lighters and a small Swingline stapler. From his left pocket he pulled out a large roll of paper currency held by a rubber band. The wad of money totalled $362.

The man was then patted down. Under the man's shirt near the waistline, an officer found a clear plastic bag containing nine small, clear packets that were stapled together. The packets contained rocks of suspected crack cocaine.

A search of the man's car revealed staples and some of the clear packets under a front floor mat. In the trunk, officers found an AM/FM cassette radio, a tape deck, a stereo amplifier and a synthesizer. Also found in the trunk was a box of baking soda. Baking soda is used to boil down cocaine into rocks of crack.

House burglarized

A house in the 1000 block of South Oxford in Grosse Pointe Woods was burglarized while the residents were on vacation last week.

The house was being watched by a neighbor, who found the doorwall partially open at 9 a.m. Dec. 10 and called police.

An investigation revealed that the house was thoroughly searched, and a television and fur coat and possibly jewelry were taken. A complete list of the items stolen could not be determined until the residents returned from vacation.

The burglar got into the home through the attached garage and most likely exited through the doorwall, where footprints were found in the snow.

Woods officer ducks bullets

By John Minnis
Assistant Editor

While making a traffic stop Dec. 4, Grosse Pointe Woods Public Safety Officer Steven Petrik found himself ducking as bullets slammed into his scout car.

Petrik monitored a broadcast out of St. Clair Shores shortly before 10 p.m. of an armed robbery at the Dairy Mart near Jefferson and Marter. In order to be able to watch traffic in case the suspects came through the Woods, Petrik pulled into the Peters Funeral Home parking lot at Vernier and Mack.

About two minutes after the broadcast, Petrik spotted a white BMW with smoked windows traveling westbound on Vernier. The officer pulled out behind the BMW and activated his over-head emergency lights.

The BMW pulled over to the curb and drove slowly for about 100 yards before coming to a stop west of Canton in Harper Woods. Petrik was unable to see who was in the car because of the smoked windows. As the BMW came to a stop, the passenger door flew open and a man jumped out and "assumed a crouched position," Petrik wrote in his report. The suspect began raising his arms and had a shiny object in his hands.

Petrik then dove across the front seat of the scout car, and just as his head was disappearing below the dashboard, he saw a flash from a gun in the suspect's hands.

Petrik said he heard about five or six shots. Two of the shots hit the police car's hood and two went through the windshield.

When Petrik peeked over the top of the dashboard, he saw the BMW pulling away, and the suspect who had fired the gun was running down Vernier toward Harper. Petrik began running after the suspect when he realized his portable radio had fallen out of its holster. By the time he had returned to the car to get the radio, the BMW was out of sight and the man on foot was cutting through the Speedway gas station at Harper.

The man on foot was captured moments later by a Harper Woods officer at Harper and Holywood. The arrested man was found to be Robert Lee Green Jr. of Detroit. He was arraigned Dec. 5 in St. Clair Shores on charges of commission of a felony with a firearm and felonious assault. The charges have to do with the Dairy Mart armed robbery.

According to St. Clair Shores detectives, no charges have yet been brought against Green in connection with reported shooting at Petrik. Bond was set at $50,000 cash or surety.

Meanwhile, St. Clair Shores police are searching for the driver of the BMW.

Woods' colonial storefront requirement challenged

By Dan Jarvis
Staff Writer

Evans Telegadas will not wait any longer.

As the owner of Telly's Place on Mack Avenue in Grosse Pointe Woods, Telegadas has been trying to install new awnings on his building.

Telegadas has been before the planning commission at least three times to get his awning designs approved. Each time he was denied.

The problem is that the awnings are not colonial in design. They are simple barrel awnings, half-round from the front, and not unlike others earlier approved by the city.

On Dec. 4 he approached the board of appeals (the same members as the city council) in hopes that the board would finally approve his awning designs.

When board members seemed divided on approving the concept, Telegadas said he didn't care what they decided. He said he intends to put up the awnings anyway.

This was not the first time he was confronted with divided opinions from the city. On Oct. 24, the planning commission in a 4-2 vote denied the barrel shaped awnings.

"I have been turned down five times," Telegadas said in his appeal. "I believe that the planning commission seems a little confused about what is in the ordinance for awnings."

But commissioner Robert Fraley, an architect who voted in the minority to approve the barrel design, said Telly's Place will not look colonial regardless of what type of awnings are installed.

In his appeal, Telegadas said the city's master plan allows for awnings and building facades to set one type of business apart from another. The master plan also states that facades must have colonial designs.

"They are trying to force something," Telegadas said. "I'm following all the guidelines."

For clarification, city attorney George Catlin said Telegadas indeed followed the guidelines for the approval process. Catlin also said the planning commission had the right to reject the designs if they felt the awning designs were not colonial or early American.

The division of opinions widened when board of appeals members Paul Beaupre and William Wilson fought to get Telegadas' awnings approved.

"He has been treated unfairly," Beaupre said. "Mr. Telegadas should be refunded his appeal money. When a similar awning has been approved down the street, we should grant him the permit."

Wilson said, "If I were a business owner, I would not do business in Grosse Pointe Woods. Every business is not colonial."

But Jean Rice, a staunch supporter of the city's colonial facade requirement, said, "A rule is only as good as its exceptions. Our city has advocated a colonial look and we are trying to do the best we can," she said.

By then, however, Telegadas had enough.

In his address to the board, he said, "I'm putting up the awnings no matter what you do. If you want to do something about it then I'll see you in court."

He then walked out of the meeting.

The board then approved the barrel design as motioned by Beaupre.

Mayor George Freeman credited Telegadas for several improvements at the location.

"It was the worst-looking corner in the city," Freeman said. "It looks much better now."

Before the board approved the design, board member Ted Bidigare motioned for a review of the city's colonial facade guidelines.

Hit and run

Dec. 9 marked one year since a hit-and-run driver killed Verlie "Val" Root, 65, as she was walking across Hayes at Troester in northeast Detroit. The driver of the blue, late-model van has never been found, and her husband, Paul Root, 58, continues to search for the killer. He believes someone knows who the hit-and-run driver is and he is offering a $10,000 reward for information leading to the arrest of the driver of the van. Val Root worked for 25 years as a Cunningham's drug store employee before her retirement. Anyone with information is asked to call Paul Root at 596-2560.

Clowns raise funds for Candlelighters

It all started when Arthur Kuehn of Grosse Pointe Woods befriended 7-year-old Rachel Fried of Grosse Pointe Woods. Rachel has cancer and Kuehn is the president of the Grosse Pointe Clown Corps.

Put the two together and a fundraiser for Metro Detroit Candlelighters affiliated with St. John Hospital and Medical Center was born.

The Clown Corps took to the streets and the stores selling candy to raise money for services for families with children who have cancer. As a result of their efforts, the group presented a check for $500 to the Candlelighters.

The Metro Detroit Candlelighters meet regularly at the hospital. Believing "It is better to light one candle than to curse the darkness," the group shares goals such as linking parent to parent, exchanging information, breaking down social isolation, providing guidance in coping with childhood cancer's effect on the family, and identifying patient and family needs so medical and social systems respond adequately.

For more information on the Candlelighters, call Birhara Fried at 881-8258.

South students are whizzes at math

Six Grosse Pointe South High School students have qualified for the second part of the 33rd Annual Michigan Mathematics Prize Competition, sponsored by the Michigan Section of the Mathematical Association of America.

South students placing in the top five percent of the students taking Part I of the test are Karen J. Ehresman, Brian A. Jackson, Alexander J. Nord, Jennifer L. Schultzman, Russell B. Smith and Ben M. Temkow.

The six South students qualified for Part II by placing among the top 917 out of 19,292 participants in an examination given at 502 schools across the state in October.

The qualifiers took Part II of the exam on Dec. 13. The 100 students with the highest combined scores will be invited to a banquet in their honor in February.

Jessica Fossee

Each week in this column, we will focus on the work of a student. It can be a poem, a drawing, a short story, a picture of a scientific experiment or a wood-working project, a book review.

The following was written by Jessica Fossee, 10, a fifth-grader at Ferry School. She is the daughter of Mark and Sandra Fossee of Grosse Pointe Woods.

A Day with the Conures

On Monday, Oct. 30, Ms. A, my teacher, brought her four parrots to school: Thelonious, Jaco, Amigo and Willy. When my classmates and I walked into the classroom, Ms. A was talking to the birds who were in their traveling cage. Once we were sitting down, Ms. A opened the cage and all the birds flew out. They flew to a large wooden perch Ms. A set up in the middle of the room.

Ms. Smith, the art teacher, came in and told us that we were going to draw the birds. I decided to draw Thelonious, the sun conure. While I was drawing, Jaco, the manday, flew over and landed on my desk, then she landed on my head. Everybody laughed and I did, too.

After that, Ms. A told us about the birds. We learned that if a sun conure and a genday conure mate, they make a sunday. Then it was time for lunch, and while we were eating, the birds ate, too.

When we came back to our room, Ms. A invited Mrs. Soderberg's class and Mrs. Sullivan's class to see the birds. We told the visiting classes all about the parrots.

Then it was time to go home, but first we had to clean up the huge mess the birds made. Finally, the mess was cleaned up. It was "a one-of-a-kind day!"

Alumni Day at South is Dec. 21

The sixth annual alumni day, sponsored jointly by Grosse Pointe South High School and the South Mothers' Club, will be held Thursday, Dec. 21 in the school gymnasium.

Alumni Day has been designed by the Counseling and Guidance Department to assist South students in making the transition from high school to college as smooth as possible.

Recent South High graduates, in cooperation with the admissions officials of their respective colleges, will return to share their new college experiences with current juniors and seniors.

A College Fair format, similar to College Night, will be used. Each college represented will be assigned an appropriately identified table in the gymnasium. College freshmen and sophomores will sit behind tables and field questions about life on that school's campus.

Seniors will be excused from their classes on a voluntary basis from 8:55 a.m. to 9:55 a.m. Juniors will be excused from their classes on a voluntary ba-

Free career planning book available

Each year, more than 2.5 million high school students will grapple with the experience of establishing a career ambition and obtaining the right education to achieve that ambition.

To help, a new book, "Getting Skilled, Getting Ahead: Your Guide For Choosing a Career and a Private Career School," published by Peterson's, is offered free by the National Association of Trade and Technical Schools and the U.S. Department of Education.

The guide helps students to unlock their potential in a world of skilled labor shortages by offering inside information on trade, technical and business schools.

Students who want to receive a free copy of "Getting Skilled, Getting Ahead," should write the Consumer Information Center, Department 574W, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

sis from 10:15 a.m. to 10:52 a.m.

Students may choose the three or four colleges in which they are most interested and spend their time visiting the representatives from these schools in the gymnasium.

"Because this program complements the official college information already available to South students through College Night and visits with college representatives, we expect high student interest," said Russell P. Luttinen, assistant principal-student services at South.

Mothers' Club Alumni Day Chairperson Ellen Sullivan said some 50 to 75 colleges are expected to be represented by former students who will answer questions juniors and seniors might feel uncomfortable in asking official college representatives.

Teresa Lloyd, South's career counselor, has prepared a list of questions South students should be thinking about before leaving home for college.

Lloyd and the Mothers' Club have planned a luncheon for the college visitors, South faculty members and other guests from 11 a.m. to noon in Cleminson Hall. At this informal luncheon, students can discuss their recent experiences with faculty members to give them feedback about their preparation for college.

All South alumni who can assist in this program are encouraged to contact Sullivan at 822-1624 in the evening.

ULS students set a record for UNICEF

Perhaps the message written to UNICEF from University Liggett School fifth-grader Nona Bararsani said it best: "I don't care what UNICEF does with the money. I hope they save as many children as they can."

Bararsani and the rest of the students in the lower school (kindergarten-grade 5) collected a school record of $1,600 for UNICEF, the United Nations Children's Fund, in October. Each child was given a UNICEF box on Oct. 1 and asked to return the box, filled with as many coins as possible, on Oct. 31.

According to fifth-grade teacher Julie Foust, one of the organizers of the effort, students collected 109 pounds of coins. The breakdown is as follows: kindergarten - $253.67; grade 1 - $245.93; grade 2 - $351.03; grade 3 - $180.19; grade 4 - $215.19; grade 5 - $346.53, all unofficial figures.

"We thank all the children and teachers for their efforts," Foust said. "Our dollars will make a big difference to children in need."

Our Lady Star of the Sea juniors Keri Zgol, left, and Lenore O'Lenick coordinated the collection of blankets, space heaters and toys for the Corktown Co-op.

Star students collect for needy

As they sorted through blankets and toys, the two Our Lady Star of the Sea High School students marvelled at how many new items they had collected.

"I never expected we'd get new things," said junior Lenore O'Lenick. "But we've got piles and piles of new blankets."

Keri Zgol, who also coordinated the schoolwide effort, said she, too, was pleased with her classmates' donations.

Students and teachers in the school decided they would see what they could do to assure that the needy in the Detroit area, especially the homeless, had something for Christmas.

In addition to blankets, the school collected money — in nickles and dimes as well as dollars — and purchased new space heaters, too.

And for the kids, from the kids, came toys of all shapes and sizes.

In this first-time collection more than 100 blankets were brought to the school by students. Those same students cleaned out their toy boxes and found everything from Transformers to dolls to games.

All items were taken by the students to the Corktown Co-op, a program created by Father Clem Kern, late pastor of Holy Trinity in Detroit.

"We've had great response from the students," said Sister Martha Goode who coordinated the effort. "They've really gotten into the spirit. People took a lot of care and we got so much, we couldn't take it all in one load. Everybody participated."

The blankets and the heaters, she said, warm not only the recipients, but also the donors.

Malcoun wins business competition

Emily Malcoun, a sophomore from Grosse Pointe North High School, won first place in the Detroit College of Business "Food for Thought" Scholarship Contest Dec. 7.

Twelve contestants each gave a three to four minute speech on who they believed was the "creme de la creme" of the business world. The speeches were based on a "recipe for success" which each contestant created and entered in the first level of the competition.

Malcoun, sponsored by North teacher Janice McCloud, received a $500 cash award and a large trophy. The school will receive a large trophy and a full scholarship, including books and fees, for any student to earn a bachelor's degree at the Detroit College of Business Dearborn Campus.

The object of the contest was to help students develop two important business skills: written and verbal communication.

Level I, the written portion of the contest, gave students all over the Metropolitan Detroit area the opportunity to enter. From the "recipes" received, 12 entrants were selected to go on to Level II, the public speaking portion of the contest.

The speakers were evaluated in three areas, including depth of business insight, originality/creativity, and style/delivery.

The panel of judges consisted of local business professionals.

Prizes were awarded to all those competing in Level II: places 1-3 received cash awards of $500, $400 and $300 respectively, as well as trophies. The remaining contestants received $100 U.S. Savings Bonds.

Emily Malcoun's speech won her first place in the Detroit College of Business "Food for Thought" Scholarship Contest.

Pointer

As an example of the importance of family in the Pointes, he tells a story about when he was looking to buy a house here. One week he and his wife were in Michigan looking at houses on the west and east sides of town. They found a house they liked in the Park and decided to make a bid. So on the Friday evening on the day before they were to return to Washington, D.C., they called their agent and said they wanted to make an offer on the home that night. The agent, however, refused and said they would make the offer Saturday morning. When he asked why wait until the next day, the agent told Daley that Friday night was time to be with the family.

She assured the Daleys that the offer would be made first thing in the morning. And true to her word, they were the first in with an offer and the Daleys moved into the home where they now live.

Daley said he and his wife looked at homes on both sides of Detroit, but they fell in love with the Park house. He said he also didn't like the idea of driving across town every day. Now it's a straight shot down Jefferson to his office at the foot of Mount Elliott.

As commanding officer of the Marine Safety Office, Daley has an office on the top floor with a great view of the Detroit River. The Marine Safety Office is responsible for inspecting watercraft and docking facilities and controlling and preparing for hazardous spills, such as oil. Daley's office, for example, monitored the cleanup of the Milk River after the oil spill earlier this year.

The Marine Safety Office inspects all types of ships, including the Boblo boats. As the captain of the Port of Detroit, Daley's domain stretches from Toledo to the tip of the Thumb, including Saginaw Bay.

Daley said he was advised by a friend that if he ever had a chance to go to Detroit he should jump at it. Because the friend had also been the commanding officer in Detroit, Daley figured he knew what he was talking about. So he requested a Detroit billet, and because most officers in the Coast Guard looked at Detroit with as much enthusiasm as Cleveland, Daley was granted his wish.

He doesn't regret the move.

"It's great to be really excited about a move and a job right at the start," he said.

Daley began in the service in the Navy in 1970. In 1975 he transferred into the Coast Guard as a lieutenant. He said he wanted to go into the Coast Guard originally, but there wasn't the opening he wanted at the time.

So far, Daley's 14 years in the Coast Guard have taken him to Norfolk, Va., as a chief of port operations, to the hot spot of Miami as the executive officer and to Washington, D.C., as a member of the admiral's staff.

The Detroit assignment should last three or four years, Daley said.

He has a bachelor's degree in marine engineering, which he describes as steamboat building. He also has a master's degree in management from the University of Maryland.

Daley has already taken his family to see the sights around Detroit. They even made the journey to Woodward on Thanksgiving Day to see the annual parade.

He said that while Detroit has a bad image elsewhere, it is really not any different than most major cities in the United States.

"Detroit is a neat place," he said. "You have to look past the bad press. I think Detroit has a lot to offer."

Possible bribe attempt reported

A Grosse Pointe Woods patrolman thinks a motorist stopped for speeding may have been attempting to bribe him Dec. 9.

The officer stopped a 59-year-old Woods resident for driving 49 mph down Mack at 1:24 a.m. While the officer was writing out a speeding ticket, the Woods man got out of his car and approached the police car.

The motorist told the officer that he just filled out a check for a $100 donation to the Woods police department. He asked if he was getting a speeding ticket, and the officer said he was. The Woods man then said that if he's getting a ticket he will tear up the check. The officer told the man to get back into his car.

When the officer gave the man the speeding ticket, he asked the man if the check was meant to be a bribe. The Woods man answered that it wasn't. He just figured the officer would let him go without a ticket and tell him to have a nice day.

Bodnant Gardens in northern Wales provided this miniature landscape on film — one of many pictures within the picture Nagler was able to make.

Look for miniature landscapes

Too often photographers try to shoot the broad panoramic view while ignoring landscape details. Within every large landscape are hundreds of smaller ones just waiting to be captured by your camera.

Lily pads shimmering on the surface of a pond, a cluster of fallen leaves, or a wave gently lapping the shore — each of these and many more can be just as exciting and picturesque as the more expansive view.

Any environment contains an inexhaustible supply of fascinating miniature landscape detail.

Other than a keen eye, no elaborate equipment is needed. At times, a set of close-up filters or a macro lens will help to move in close and a tripod should be used to maximize sharpness and depth-of-field.

Seeing "simply" is a good way to begin to photograph miniature landscapes. That is, start to look through the viewfinder and withdraw simple elements from the whole that, in themselves, make exciting, dramatic photographs. In other words, begin to see pictures within the picture.

The view of a majestic mountain across the lake will make a beautiful, overall landscape shot, but don't overlook the miniature landscape produced by the velvety row of moss-draped rocks at the water's edge.

Rather than portray the whole plowed field in your country photograph, zoom in on a small section of freshly cut furrows.

The Bodnant Gardens in northern Wales provided me with many sweeping landscape opportunities. Yet isolating only the simple elements of a single water lily, as shown in the accompanying photograph, produced a picture that "says it all" about these vast, impressive gardens.

Miniature landscapes will give a unique perspective to your picture and will emphasize textures and tones you often won't get by shooting the whole.

Remember, you're making photographs, not taking snapshots. Let your miniature landscape be a complete picture in itself while at the same time conveying the flavor and essence of the whole.

Heroin addict steals steaks

A 40-year-old heroin addict from Detroit was arrested Dec. 8 following the theft of steaks from the Farmer Jack store on Mack in the Woods.

The manager of the grocery store called Woods police at 12:38 p.m. to report a man had just run out of the store with a large quantity of goods stuffed under his jacket.

Store employees reported that the suspect walked quickly through the store with his coat partially unzipped, and it was obvious that he was smuggling merchandise out of the store. Employees said the man had his arms cradled to keep the food from falling out from under his coat.

Once out in the parking lot, the man was met by another man in a beat-up old Chevrolet. As the man on foot got near the car, he partially opened his arms to reveal his loot, according to employees' statements to police.

A few minutes later, a Woods officer was sitting in his scout car in the left turn lane on northbound Mack at Vernier when he heard the report of the theft at Farmer Jack and a description of the suspects and their car.

When the officer looked in his rearview mirror, he saw the suspects behind him in the old Chevy. He completed the left turn onto westbound Vernier and pulled over to the curb. The car continued driving westbound and the officer stopped the car at Canton in Harper Woods.

The driver got out of the car and the officer requested a driver's license and proof of insurance. While talking to the driver, the officer saw something white partially hidden underneath a large pillow in the back seat. Because the white material looked like the packaging used for fresh meats, the officer picked up the pillow and found six packages of Farmer Jack steaks.

He then ordered the passenger out of the car and told him to put his hands on the trunk of the car. The passenger then told the officer that he had meat under his clothing.

The officer removed another six packages of Farmer Jack steaks from under the man's clothing.

The two men were arrested and taken to the Woods police station. The passenger of the car who was seen in the Woods Farmer Jack was found wanted on warrants out of Dearborn and Farmington Hills. He told Woods officers that he was a heroin addict and that he had last injected the drug that morning. He was later turned over to Oakland County deputies on the Farmington Hills warrant.

The driver on the car was found wanted on a misdemeanor warrant. He was released.

The meat that was taken from the passenger's clothing was returned to the Woods Farmer Jack manager. The steaks found in the car had been stolen earlier from the Farmer Jack at Moross and Harper. The value of the 12 packages of steaks came to $101.58.

Toy trains to be appraised

The memories of that toy train set you received for Christmas so many years ago may seem priceless. But have you ever wondered how much that train is really worth?

Find out at the Detroit Historical Museum Saturday, Dec. 30.

From noon until 3 p.m., members of the Bluewater Michigan Chapter of the National Railway Historical Society will conduct a post-holiday toy train appraisal.

Toy train experts from the Bluewater Michigan Chapter will give verbal appraisals of Lionel, American Flyer, Ives, Marx and other pre-war and post-war locomotives and accessories.

There will be a $1 donation per item. All donations will go to the Historical Museum's Glancy Train exhibit fund.

The Detroit Historical Museum is home to the extensive train collection of the late Alfred Glancy of Grosse Pointe. During the appraisals there will be the opportunity to view the Glancy train layout which includes model stores, homes and churches, vintage billboards and fully operational street lamps.

In addition to the appraisals and Glancy train exhibit, continuing video presentations of toy train subjects will be offered.

The Detroit Historical Museum is located at 5401 Woodward at Kirby. For more information, contact Cynthia Young at 833-9708, Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Public school students score high on state assessment test

By Ronald J. Bernas
Staff Writer

Local public school students have made Roger McCaig, director of research and development for Grosse Pointe schools, very happy.

District scores from the Michigan Education Assessment Program (MEAP) were better than the state predictions that two out of three students would fail the test.

Reading and math tests were given at the start of the school year to fourth, seventh and 10th graders in all of Michigan's public schools. The fifth, eighth and 11th graders took a science test.

The most talked about test this year is the reading test which is completely new and has a totally different focus.

A pamphlet by the Michigan State Board of Education said the old test was revised to keep pace with rapidly changing needs of American businesses and the need for students to have a higher level of reading skills.

The new test focuses on understanding a longer reading as opposed to the shorter readings in previous tests. The new test consists of two sections — a story and an informational piece much like that found in a textbook.

In the fourth grade, 63.6 percent passed both sections of the reading test, in the seventh grade, 64.2 passed both and in the 10th grade, 53.6 passed both.

Because the new test is vastly different from previous tests, a section with similar questions was devised for comparison.

On that section, 98.8 percent of Grosse Pointe's fourth graders passed, 98.1 of all seventh graders passed and 95.7 percent of the 10th graders passed. All figures are slightly higher than last year's figures.

The math test, which McCaig calls "ridiculously easy" and is being revised for next year, gave Grosse Pointe's students no problems, either.

Ninety-seven percent of the fourth graders passed the math test compared to last year's 93.8 percent; 90.1 percent of seventh graders passed, virtually the same as last year's 90.9 percent; and 86.9 percent of the 10th graders passed compared to 85.5 percent who passed in 1988.

Because of the time involved in giving the MEAP tests, the state decided to switch the science test up one grade, so the fifth, eighth and 11th graders took the test for the first time as a grade and no comparative data is available, but 88.2 percent of the fifth-graders passed, 79.6 eighth graders passed and 60.5 percent of the 11th graders passed.

McCaig is quick to point out that the science test, unlike the math test, is difficult.

"If you're not a pretty good science student, you're not going to get a passing mark," he said.

The number of students passing is higher than last year's in each grade level, McCaig said, because this year's fifth graders who took the test took the same test last year as fourth graders, the eighth graders took the same test they took last year as did the 11th graders.

McCaig credits a new way of administering the test with the high reading scores.

Teachers split the test up over two days, taking advantage of the fact that the test was to be untimed.

Students having problems or behind finished the test in another room, so they would not be distracted or embarrassed.

"I'm very proud of the teachers because they volunteered their free hours to sit with students," McCaig said. "They really cared. They encouraged kids to do as well as they possibly can."

The high scores are due to four factors, McCaig said: bright students, good teachers, concerned parents and a quality reading program.

The MEAP test is the state's way of measuring each district's programming.

In some cases the state gives compensatory money to low-scoring districts. Additionally, it is a way for the district to respond to public pressure to improve its programming if the scores are low.

"The real value of this test is that we documented for the staff, and hopefully now for the community, what high achievers we have here," McCaig said. "And we're working hard to improve them still."

Comparison of scores with other schools

Shape of things to come

Just one several buildings takes shape at the future site of Pointe Plaza at Moross and Mack. When completed, the plaza will feature retail shopping, medical offices and a parking deck. Developers say Pointe Plaza could be completed in late 1990.

Airport committee is ready for next move

With the city of Detroit's announcement for an expanded runway at City Airport, the ad hoc Airport Committee in the Pointes readied itself for action.

But when it takes the next step, it will do so without its co-chair and co-founder, Art Williams.

Williams, who lost a bid for the Grosse Pointe Park council in November, said he didn't feel he had the support of the current council and mayor. He resigned last week.

The committee, he said, is prepared to go forward with its plan to keep the Pointes safe from air traffic and free of noise.

Detroit officials have proposed a new runway parallel to the current runway which would be 7,400 feet in length.

Its construction of the runway would mean the city would have to acquire some 985 acres, relocating nearly 3,600 families, 52 industries and 130 other small businesses and destroying approximately 600 vacant homes.

The new runway will allow larger jets carrying full loads to take off, Williams said.

"This is the second worst-case scenario we could have had in the Pointes," Williams said. "But our position is on record with the FAA and we are standing on good ground."

The Grosse Pointe Airport Committee was formed to protect the Pointes from problems associated with expansion at City Airport, and is working to get concessions from the city regarding traffic flow, size of airplanes and other safety and noise concerns.

The group has gotten assurances from carriers relating to size of airplanes, but because more carriers will soon be operating from the airport, Williams said assurances in the form of regulations must come from the FAA.

"We're in a pretty good position because three cities (Grosse Pointe Park, City and Farms) predate the airport, and there is legal precedent (from other airport expansions in other states)," Williams said.

But now the committee is going to need money for what is sure to be a long, possibly legal, road, to obtain the concessions they want from the airport.

The group is looking to combine efforts, and perhaps funds, with other similar groups in Wayne and Macomb counties to assure safety.

Dinah Lynch plays the Lord in the Attic Theatre's holiday show "Sand Mountain" through Dec. 23. For tickets call 875-8284.

Off-beat fun served for Christmas at the Attic

By Ronald J. Bernas
Staff Writer

Sand Mountain is the kind of place in Appalachia one reads about or sees in movies.

It's the kind of place where if a girl turns 14 and isn't married and pregnant, she's an old maid, doomed to a life of loneliness.

It's also the kind of place where people who are too poor to have dreams cling to tall tales and fantasy to get through the cold, wet nights.

It's also the setting for two fun but slightly bizarre one-act plays showing together at the Attic Theatre.

The plays, both by award-winning playwright Romulus Linney, show at once the value of honesty, but also the value of believing in things which are probably not true.

In the first play, "Sand Mountain Matchmaking" a young widow, inundated with suitors who make promises like "I won't hit you too much" is given a "magic spell" to help her determine which of the suitors is her best match.

The spell is really a small oasis of honesty in an area which raises ladies who are so genteel that a "bull" is referred to as a "cow brute" and a "stallion" is called a "male horse."

Cheryl Williams, one of Detroit's better known actresses, plays the young widow with a little bit of bewilderment and a little bit of spunk, so you know that even though she's down and perhaps a little lonely, she'll get through and end up with the right suitor.

Williams also has a large role in the second one-act "Why the Lord Came to Sand Mountain," an intriguing, if not downright strange, piece about the need for faith.

In the second show, the Lord, played by a woman, and St. Peter go to a small shack near the top of Sand Mountain on a cold Christmas Eve and end up spending the night drinking and swapping tall tales.

The casting of Dinah Lynch as the Lord, says the director, "reinforces the need for women to be seen as co-creative with, and having an equal share in divinity with men." Quite frankly, Lynch, looking very holy, pulls it off well.

The problem, however, with having a woman play the Lord comes from the script. The entire family accepts the fact that the Lord is a woman, yet when the family acts out the early years of the Lord's life, they have a male actor play the Lord as a young boy. The slight incongruity, though, does not take away from the humor and the pathos of the play.

"Why the Lord Came to Sand Mountain" is more than simply a tall tale, or an affirmation of religious faith. It is, under the direction of Pat Ansuini, a wonderful piece of ensemble acting.

In addition to Williams and Lynch, Mary Wright Bremer is excellent as the narrator of the second piece, and the actors, Dana Gamarra, Gordon Reinhart, Tim Rhoze and Harry Wetzel, are essential pieces of the satisfying whole.

Performances of "Sand Mountain" are Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays at 8 p.m.; Saturdays at 5:30 and 9 p.m. and Sundays at 2:30 and 7 p.m. The show runs through Dec. 23. Call 875-8284 for tickets.

Voice students to present Christmas concert Tuesday

War Memorial voice students will perform their annual Christmas Concert Tuesday, Dec. 19, 7:30 p.m. at the center.

"Seasonal Songs of Good Cheer" will be presented under the direction of Patricia Willington, now in her second year as War Memorial voice instructor.

Tickets for the program are $3, adults; $1.50, students 12 and under, and seniors 62 and over. All are welcome to attend.

Willington offers voice instruction to students ages 6 through adult. She has a bachelor's degree in music education from Eastern Michigan University, a certificate of voice from the Vienna Music Academy and a master's degree in fine arts (performance) from the Manhattan School of Music.

She has appeared extensively with opera companies throughout England, Belgium and the United States and is a member of the National Association of Teachers of Singing.

War Memorial voice classes will resume Monday, Jan. 15. Children ages 6-10 meet from 4 to 5:30 p.m. Mondays through Feb. 19. Adult class meets Mondays through Feb. 19 from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Students ages 11 and up meet Wednesdays, Jan. 17, Feb. 21 from 4 to 5:30 p.m. Course fee is $55 per six-week class.

A limited number of time slots are also available for individual voice instruction. Cost is $90 for six half-hour sessions.

For additional information, call 881-7511.

Chorale, handbells to perform

Cantata Academy will perform a concert of seasonal favorites accompanied by the "Classical Bells" handbell choir on two dates: Friday, Dec. 15 at 8 p.m. at First Presbyterian Church of Birmingham (Maple west of Southfield Road) and Saturday, Dec. 16 at 8 p.m. at Grosse Pointe Baptist Church (off Mack north of Vernier).

Tickets are $10 at the door. The program is sponsored by the Michigan Council for the Arts and Detroit Edison. For more information, call 546-0420.

The program will premier "Ringelintz" for chorus and handbells by Libby Larson. The selection was inspired by 16th century French carols used for "ring dances" in celebration of Christmas. Also on the program are six African-American carols, the Jazz Gloria, and traditional Christmas carols.

Come carol

The Grosse Pointe Village Association invites the public to join in the sounds of Christmas Tuesday, Dec. 19, at 1:30 p.m.

The Grosse Pointe Academy Bell Choir and the Grosse Pointe Academy Seventh Grade Honors Choir will fill the Village with the sound of Christmas carols. They'll perform on the Village Plaza, Kercheval at St. Clair, under the direction of Marion Chrisner.

"The Wizard of Oz" will be performed in the Detroit Institute of Arts auditorium Dec. 26-30.

'Wizard of Oz' at DIA

The Detroit Institute of Arts' Youtheatre brings 1989 to an end with a spectacular musical production of "The Wizard of Oz" by its own resident company, Prince Street Players. Holiday performance dates are Dec. 26-30 at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. daily in the DIA Auditorium.

The 90-minute production takes Dorothy and her entourage — Tin Woodsman, Scarecrow and loveable Lion — on a magical journey to the Emerald City. As Dorothy and her devoted entourage travel the yellow brick road to the land of Oz, Glinda the Good (Witch) and the magic silver slippers barely succeed in protecting Dorothy and her friends from the deliciously nasty plots conjured up by the Wicked Witch of the West.

"This year marks the 50th anniversary of MGM's 'The Wizard of Oz,' the most-watched, beloved film 'of our time,'" says Mickey Miners, curator of the Detroit Youtheatre. "And, interestingly enough, we are celebrating the Detroit Youtheatre's 25th anniversary this season. With the enormous excitement surrounding 50 years of Oz, we believe this year is a particularly ideal time to bring this American classic to life on our stage."

Complete with colorful costumes by Carmen Cavello and imaginatively designed sets by Norman Hamlin, the Prince Street Players took their production of "The Wizard of Oz" on the road in September beginning an eight-month tour across the nation. The DIA holiday performances are the company's Detroit debut for public audiences. Children must be five years or older to attend the performances and all seats are $5 each.

The "Wizard" cast includes 10 of Michigan's finest talents. Leading the cast as Dorothy is Amy L. Staup of Adrian, followed by Michael Bauder of Vassar as the Scarecrow, Robert Stone of Highland as the Tin Man and Timothy Salamandyk of Coldwater as the Lion.

Other cast members are: Glinda the Good (Witch): Karianne Arnold, Mount Clemens; Wicked Witch: Sharon Sussman, Southfield; Aunt Em/Munchkin/Monkey: Shawn Holcombe, Troy; Uncle Henry/Munchkin/Guard/Secretary to Oz: Charles Greenia, Roseville; Munchkin/Monkey/Guard: Derek Hood of Farmington Hills and Steven Webb, Walled Lake.

Musicians are: Saginaw resident Craig Galinski, keyboards and Detroit's Frederick Gibson, percussionist. Juliet Levy, of St. Clair, is the stage manager.

Roseanne Barr gives 'She-Devil' life

By Michael Chapp
Special Writer

It's kind of odd, in a way. Consider: In "She-Devil," Meryl Streep, easily the most acclaimed actress in the movies today, works alongside Roseanne Barr, easily the most... uh, mundane actress you'll find anywhere.

Streep, with films like "Kramer vs. Kramer," "Sophie's Choice," and "The French Lieutenant's Woman" to her credit, teamed with Barr, who has a nightclub act and a television show to her credit.

Streep — dramatic, a master of the art, the quintessence of drama. Barr — sophomoric, a master of dishpan hands, the quintessence of blue-collar Americana. An unlikely pairing, to say the least.

What's strange is that it's Barr — not Streep — who gives "She-Devil" the life it needs to go the distance. It's Barr, with her easily understandable and approachable personality, who puts this picture in a class above the routine comedies.

Not that Streep isn't respectable. On the contrary, she's quite solid in her reading of a prissy romance novelist who steals Barr's husband. She brings to the role of harlot all the vigor and energy she brings to everything else she does.

Unfortunately, that's not the character viewers are interested thinking, to systematically dismantle each of those assets.

Along the way, she destroys a house, builds her own business, turns Streep's life upside down, and gets her hubby into more legal trouble than he's ever known. She's a devil, yes. But she's a justified devil.

The film at times comes off as a commercial for the women's liberation movement, and in that respect it seems as if it's just a little bit behind the times. The comeuppance Barr delivers may give pause to more than a few viewers: It certainly begs the question why she ever married such a louse in the first place.

At its best, "She-Devil" is a contemporary morality play; an essay on the relativity of happiness and the shallowness of beauty. That interpretation is a bit liberal, however. More likely, this picture will be remembered as Streep's first big attempt at comedy, Barr's first big movie, and generally funny — but occasionally limp — holiday comedy.

in here. Barr, as the woman scorned, grabs our attention and our sympathy immediately. And from there, we only become more enamored with her.

Indeed, it's hard not to sympathize with her. She's the Plain Jane of the suburban set. Her accountant husband (Ed Begley Jr.) is on an upward track, but she's going nowhere. She's fat. She's fallen into a rut of being subservient and apathetic. And, worst of all, she's got a mole right above her lip.

So when hubby dumps her for the glamorous Streep, you can hardly blame her for going after him with a vengeance. His last words to her, before walking out the door, are a listing of the only assets he has in life — his home, his family, his career and his freedom. It only makes sense then, in Barr's twisted way of

Douglas, Turner excel in 'War of the Roses'

By Marian Trainor
Special Writer

There are no shots fired in "War of the Roses," but it is a war that is fought with frightening force between two people who go at each other with whole scale hostility in a black comedy that is uproariously funny in its excesses.

It begins when Oliver Rose (Michael Douglas) meets Barbara (Kathleen Turner) at an estate sale. She catches his eye when she keeps outbidding him on a small piece of sculpture. It is here when we see that this persistent young gymnast never gives up until she gets what she wants.

Douglas, who is also used to getting what he wants, is fascinated. He follows her out. With no preliminaries they end up at his house. Soon after they are married. By all odds, it should be a successful marriage.

Douglas becomes a partner in an influential law firm. Turner converts her catering service into a successful business. They have two trouble-free children who are doing well at a prestigious college.

In the process of acquiring success, however, they miss the signs that lead to disenchantment with each other. He becomes insufferably domineering and patronizing. At first she is hurt by his self-satisfied manner, then she rebels in furious anger.

When Douglas is seized by what is thought to be a heart attack while lunching with clients, she never arrives at the hospital. When he is released, he confronts her and demands to know why she didn't come. The answer is devastating.

She tells him that she started out, but pulled her car over because she was scared. He melts at what he thinks is concern. But she tells him she was frightened at the thought that she was relieved at the prospect of his demise. Then she tells him she wants a divorce.

As viewers are led down a dark and dangerous path with the Roses charted by director Danny De Vito, it becomes increasingly apparent where the journey will end. The battle rages as each of them contends for the house. They both want it.

DeVito, who is Douglas' lawyer and also his friend, arranges for joint occupancy of the house. It is a devastating mistake.

Both Douglas and Turner are enchanting in their evil doings. DeVito holds our attention both as narrator and amusing friend who becomes frustrated when he cannot reason with his client.

If you like humor that disturbs and shocks even as it fascinates and entertains, you don't want to miss this film.

Water, oil, convenience mix for success of Shores family

By John Minnis
Assistant Editor

Whoever said water and oil don't mix didn't have the business mind of Ramzi Simon of Grosse Pointe Shores.

Simon, an Armenian who arrived in this country in 1973, bought his first gas station in 1974. A few years later he mixed water into the oil business by selling packaged ice.

Today, Simon & Sons Enterprises Inc. owns 46 stations, Detroit's largest ice company and a wholesale oil company.

"We worked really hard, every one of us," said Faiz Simon, 28, the founder's second-oldest son.

Of the four Simon sons, three are currently working as managers of various aspects of the company. The youngest son, Firas, 21, is attending the University of Michigan, where he plans to begin law school next year. Firas is anxious to finish college and join his older brothers and father in the family business, Faiz Simon said.

Ramzi Simon, 56, is still a full-time, working chairman of the board. He controls the company's finances. Faiz is vice president in charge of real estate, construction and office administration. Oldest son Fawzi, 29, is the senior vice president and in charge of operations. No. 3 son Fawaz, 27, manages the Atlas Oil Co. in Southfield, which sells wholesale fuel products to Atlas and independent gas stations, marinas, construction sites and warehouses throughout southeast Michigan and Windsor.

The company has come a long way since 1974, but the founder came a long way just to get to the United States.

During the first half of this century, Ramzi Simonian fled to Baghdad, Iraq, to escape the Turkish extermination of his people. From there he came to the United States. An immigration official shortened the name to Simon.

In 1977, Ramzi Simon already owned two gas stations and wanted to be able to sell ice. The ice company existing at the time refused to set him up with ice machines because it was thought he couldn't turn over enough volume.

He then bought a 400-pound ice-making machine and started his own ice company in the basement of his home. The excess ice that he couldn't sell himself, Simon sold to other independent stations and stores at a price lower than the major ice companies charged.

Today, Great Lakes Ice Co. is the largest in the Detroit area and third largest in the state. Some of Great Lakes Ice customers are Tiger Stadium, the Pontiac Silverdome, Spartan and Kroger stores, Perry Drugs and a slew of independent stores.

But while frozen water is a success story of its own, the oil side of the business is the biggest part of the Simon & Sons mixture.

While the Simons operate a number of gas stations under the Atlas name, others are affiliated with the major oil companies such as Amoco, Shell and Sunoco.

Simon & Sons is always looking for new ventures. This past year, the company bought a couple of gas docks with adjoining stores along the Detroit River. Some $100,000 was invested in one gas dock, which will include a deli, store and lounge.

Simon & Son's most ambitious project, however, was the opening of a $2.2 million, 3,500-square-foot Sunrise Food Mart & Deli, which could be considered the Meijer's of convenience stations.

Not only will the convenience mart sell gasoline, diesel fuel and propane, but inside there will be a food store, deli, pizzeria, bakery, hand-dipped Stroh's ice cream and three dining booths with a pay telephone at each. There is also a large selection of video rental tapes and there's a fax machine.

The entire store, from the gas pumps to the automatic car wash to the video rentals to the deli, is open 24 hours a day, 365 days a year.

Simon & Sons opened its first Sunrise Food Mart Nov. 30 in White Lake Township across from the Alpine Valley ski resort. Next year the company plans to open three more Sunrise Ramzi Simon and his son Faiz show off a drawing of their company's latest addition: the Sunrise Mart & Deli in White Lake Township. Sunrise Marts are scheduled to open next year in St. Clair Shores, Ann Arbor and Warren.

Marts in Ann Arbor, Warren and St. Clair Shores at Masonic and Jefferson.

The new Sunrise Mart will employ 25 workers and is expected to generate $3.5 million in sales annually.

The opening of the new stores is being supervised by Faiz Simon. He believes his company's vision of convenience is what consumers want for the 1990s and beyond.

"Sunrise is designed to serve the customer's needs based on the kinds of things we'd like to see," he said. "There is nothing like it around."

"We're going to have friendly, smiling service with no waiting. We'll get you in and out right away with two people waiting on each customer — one to fill your order, one to handle money."

He said all customers will be greeted with a smile by employees wearing uniforms and ties. The stores are bright, clean and cheerful, he said.

Faiz Simon said the company began an expansion effort in 1982. Simon & Sons had some gas stations in California and was considering moving all business activities to the West Coast. But Simon and a brother missed the family back home in Michigan, so the California stations were sold and the brothers were reunited with the family.

After the decision was made to stay in Michigan, the company began an expansion program, of which the new Sunrise Marts are a part.

"When we decided we're staying here," Faiz Simon said, "we decided to start building."

PSI plans Christmas lunch

The Detroit Chapter of Professional Secretaries International will hold its December Christmas luncheon meeting Saturday, Dec. 16, at The Townsend Hotel in Birmingham, with cocktails at 11:30 a.m. and lunch served at 12:30 p.m.

There will be Christmas caroling and an informal fashion show by Jacobson's.

Cost per person is $25. For more information and/or luncheon reservations, call Ann Dickinson at 549-8558 (evenings).

Kids of all ages are invited to meet Santa Claus at the St. Clair Shores office of Schweitzer Real Estate, Inc./ Better Homes and Gardens on Saturday, Dec. 16 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Each child will be photographed with Santa and will receive a surprise. The St. Clair Shores Schweitzer office is located at 27230 Harper, just north of Frazho.

Robert Loomis and Associates, Inc. of Grosse Pointe has been appointed to represent Auto-Owners Insurance, one of the nation's largest insurers. The local independent insurance agency will represent Auto-Owners for all lines of personal and commercial property and casualty insurance.

Auto-Owners Insurance is headquartered in Lansing, and is comprised of a group of companies that currently ranks as 39th largest in the nation.

Kiska, Silfven to sign books

Yours Truly columnist Tim Kiska of Grosse Pointe and Sandra Silfven, Detroit News restaurant critic, will sign copies of their latest books Friday, Dec. 16, beginning at 6 p.m. at Waldenbooks, 16980 Kercheval, in the Village.

"Kiska's Detroit's Powers & Personalities" is a behind-the-scenes look at the city's movers and shakers. "Pocket Guide to Detroit & Michigan Restaurants" is a comprehensive guide to dining at 452 restaurants in greater Detroit, Windsor, Sarnia and Ann Arbor as well as western, central and upstate Michigan.

Treasure jewelry at Eastland

Linda Booth Alexander, Atcha expert and founder of Treasure Traders, will be at Hudson's Eastland Sunday, Dec. 17 from noon to 4 p.m. to present pieces from the find.

The Nuestra Senora de Atcha, a 630-ton Spanish galleon that sank in 1622 was discovered off the coast of the Florida keys in 1985. Its treasures included gold, emerald, silver ingots and coins.

Alexander will answer questions regarding the hand-sculpted reproductions of the original treasure. Prices range from $35 to $5,000 and each piece is accompanied by a certificate of authenticity.

Foundation suggests resolution for 1990

Do you always seem to make New Year's resolutions that are easily broken because you run out of will power?

This year, the National Kidney Foundation of Michigan can suggest a resolution that doesn't require any will power at all, but has the power to help save someone else's life someday.

"Sign an Organ Donor Card and don't forget to tell your family. It's one New Year's resolution that's easy to keep," the foundation urged.

Currently in Michigan, 667 people are waiting for kidney transplants, and another 465 are waiting for transplants and other vital organs and tissues.

Last year, while nearly 9,000 Americans received kidney transplants, another 12,000 were kept waiting because of a lack of available organs. Thousands of others were kept waiting for transplants of other vital organs and tissues.

Signing an Organ Donor Card and discussing it with your family doesn't take much time, but can last a lifetime for someone else.

For more information on organ donation, contact the National Kidney Foundation of Michigan at 3378 Washtenaw, Ann Arbor, Mich. 48104 or call toll-free in Michigan at 1-800-482-1455.

Glancy to receive honorary degree from WSU

Alfred R. Glancy III, chairman and chief executive officer of MCN Corp. and its principal subsidiary, Michigan Consolidated Gas Co., will receive an honorary doctor of humane letters degree from Wayne State University during commencement ceremonies Dec. 14 at Cobo Hall.

In addition, rock 'n roll legend Bob Seger and Jewish historian and author Jacob R. Marcus will receive honorary degrees during the program.

A native of Detroit, Glancy completed his elementary education at the Detroit University School in Grosse Pointe. He attended the Hill School in Pottstown, Pa., and graduated in 1956.

He received a degree in economics from Princeton University in 1960 and earned an MBA from Harvard Business School in 1962. That same year he joined Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. in the economic and financial planning department.

Fax Santa

Sir Speedy Printing at 21312 Mack in Grosse Pointe Woods will fax your child's wish list to Santa at the North Pole from Monday, Dec. 18 through Thursday, Dec. 21.

And while you wait, Santa will send back a personal reply. The service is offered free.

Owners Terrie McLaughlan and Tony Alfonsi invite children of all ages to take part in this special hook-up.

Steadily rising through the ranks, Glancy was appointed manager of the economic and financial planning department in 1967 and vice president and treasurer in 1972.

Glancy became vice president, customer and market services of Michigan Consolidated in 1976, and after serving the next 11 years in senior vice president positions, he was elected chairman and chief executive officer of the company. In 1988, he was elected chairman and chief executive officer of MCN Corp., a holding company for Michigan Consolidated Gas formed in 1988.

Glancy is currently chairman of the Detroit Strategic Plan Review Committee and was vice chairman of the project's Race

Perry buys Trail Apothecary

Perry Drug Stores, Inc. has purchased the assets of Trail Apothecary Shop, an institution on Kercheval on the Hill for more than 30 years.

"We're delighted by this," said Berl Falbaum, a spokesperson for Perry's. "We learned that the owner was interested in retiring and we pursued it. It was a very amicable business arrangement."

Trail's assets, including prescription files and liquor license, have been transferred to Perry's, located several doors away.

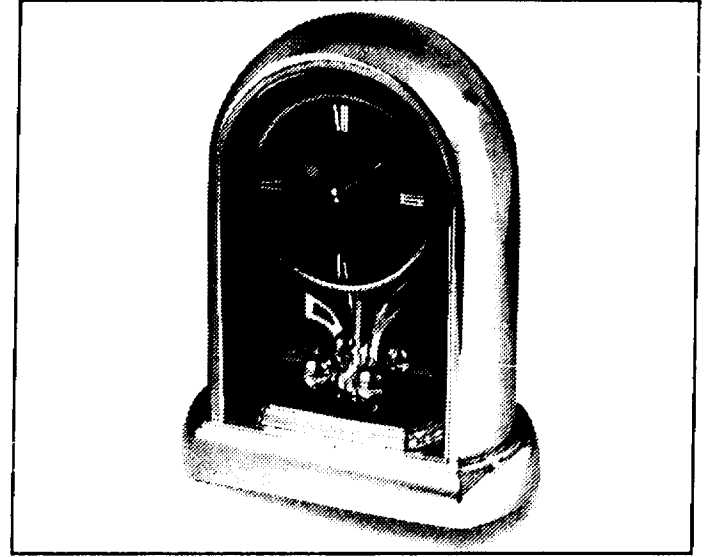

Gerry Conway, owner of Connolly Travel Inc., and president of the Hill Association, said "It's always sad to see an established business with a following like Trail's go. The Hill Association is saddened; it's an institution."

Conway said she remembers going to Trail's as a child. "We look forward to being able to serve the community and Trail's customers the way we've been serving the area for the last eight years," Falbaum said.

Ed Holzinger, owner of Trail Apothecary Shop, could not be reached for comment.

Paws With a Cause: Hearing ear dog works 168-hour week

Randi is a certified hearing dog. Besides being a loveable family pet, she's on call 24 hours a day. She serves as the ears for Rhonda and Bill Kerr who are hearing impaired.

By Margie Reins Smith
 Feature Editor

The doorbell rings. Inside, Randi, a light-gold 2-year-old 60-pound golden retriever, jerks her head up, awake, alert. Her ears twitch and rotate. She responds with a deep bark and an energetic prance to the front door. She runs to her owner, Bill Kerr. She returns again to the door. Back to Kerr.

Rhonda Kerr grasps Randi's collar in one hand and opens the front door with the other.

Without Randi, Rhonda and Bill Kerr of Grosse Pointe Woods might not have known that their doorbell rang. Both are hearing impaired. Bill is severely deaf. Rhonda's hearing is moderately impaired. She wears hearing aids in both ears.

Randi is a hearing ear dog. "She hears when I don't hear," Rhonda said. "She makes our life a lot easier."

Lynn Hoekstra is director of Paws With a Cause, a non-profit organization that helps people with hearing impairments and other disabilities use the unique working qualities of well-trained dogs.

"Dogs' sense of hearing is so acute," Hoekstra said. "They hear so much more than we do. They respond to stuff they're not even trained for."

Paws With a Cause has been in existence for 10 years, she said. Formerly known as Ears for the Deaf Inc., the organization has expanded and now trains dogs not only for people with hearing impairments, but also for people with other disabilities.

"By the end of this year we will have trained 337 dogs," she said. "Three-fourths of these are hearing dogs; the other one-fourth are service dogs."

Hearing ear dogs like Randi are trained to alert their owners at the sound of a telephone, a smoke alarm, an alarm clock, a door knocker or door bell, a baby's cry — and the sound of an intruder.

When she hears the sound, Randi barks, makes eye contact with one of her owners, and takes her owner to the source of the sound. If the smoke alarm rings, Hoekstra said, Randi is trained to take her owners outside.

Rhonda Kerr learned about Paws with a Cause by chance.

"I had taken Randi to obedience training. The staff trainer knew about the program and told me about it," she said.

Hoekstra said that Randi had to pass a temperament test before she was accepted into the program.

"We use dogs that are outgoing, friendly, intelligent, alert. They must be sound-sensitive and have stable temperaments."

Randi attended school in a suburb of Grand Rapids for four weeks of sound training. Dogs who have not already been to obedience school, as Randi had, must attend an eight- to 10-week session which includes obedience training as well.

Then the dogs receive four weeks of in-home training for specific sounds and situations within their own families.

If the dogs pass their final examinations, they're certified as hearing dogs. They're issued an ID card and an orange leash with Hearing Dog printed on it. In 48 of the 50 states, hearing dogs, like leader dogs, are granted access to restaurants, public buildings, public transportation, hotels and shopping centers where other dogs may not be allowed.

Hearing dogs are not mechanical robots, Hoekstra emphasized. They're happy, well-adjusted pets who are also trained as working companions. They stop playing when it's time to work, and they're on call 24 hours a day, 168 hours a week.

Paws with a Cause is a United Way of Michigan agency. Hoekstra said the organization receives 60 percent of its funding from United Way and the other 40 percent from service clubs such as Lions and Moose and AmVets. Donations are tax-deductible.

"Southeastern Michigan has between 60 and 100 trained dogs," she said. "In addition to dogs that are trained to help people with hearing impairments, service dogs are trained to help people in wheelchairs by holding doors open, turning on light switches, picking up dropped items, and pulling tie chairs."

Action Auction 1990 gets head start on donations, volunteers

It was beginning to look a lot like Christmas on Wednesday, Nov. 29, at the home of Grosse Pointers Michelle and Morry Taylor, chairmen of the Grosse Pointe Academy's Action Auction 1990.

The Taylors, with fellow-chairmen Kathryn and Joseph Kaiser of Grosse Pointe, hosted a holiday party to encourage academy volunteers to get into the spirit of the annual fundraiser, which is scheduled to take place May 12, 1990.

Among the parents and friends who got a sneak peak at some early Action Auction acquisitions — like, for instance, a Toyota 4-Runner, a Bittar oil painting, Tiffany Christmas china and a customized kitchen package featuring G.E. appliances and Woodmode cabinets — were Grosse Pointe Academy board of trustees president Mary Stroble, with her husband, Ed, and Mary Beth Jagger.

Also on hand were Mrs. Edmund M. Brady Jr., Mrs. Jesse J. Cardello, Mr. and Mrs. Salvatore Cipriano, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Gehrke,

From left, Grosse Pointe Academy's Action Auction 1990 chairmen Joseph and Kathryn Kaiser and Michelle and Morry Taylor welcomed GPA parents and friends to the Action Auction holiday party on Nov. 29.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard D. Grow, Dr. and Mrs. James W. Klein, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Olson III, Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Loren J. Tibbitts and Mrs. Michael L. Turnbull.

Hall of famer: Robin Buerki, M.D., formerly of Grosse Pointe, former executive director of Henry Ford Hospital, was honored recently at a reception at the Grosse Pointe Club.

Friends gathered to pay tribute to Buerki, who is 97 years old, on the occasion of his induction into the Modern Health Care Hall of Fame, which is sponsored by Modern Health Care Magazine.

Among those who attended the event were publisher Keith Crain and his wife, Mary Kay, and Modern Health Care publisher Charles Lauer. Other Grosse Pointers were Henry Ford Health Care Corporation Chief Executive Officer Gail Warden and his wife, Lois, Henry Ford Vice President of Market Communications and Community Affairs Patricia McCarthy and her husband, Tim, and Dr. and Mrs. Edward Krull.

Wheel meals: "Buy-a-Card Give-a-Meal" greeting card sales will be held in all southeastern Michigan Weight Watcher offices. It's the Detroit Area Agency on Aging's Meals-on-Wheels special holiday fundraising project.

Each card purchased represents a hot meal delivered to a homebound senior citizen on Thanksgiving, Christmas, Easter and Labor Day.

Without funds from this project, home-delivered meals are only available on Mondays through Fridays — nothing on weekends or holidays.

Meals are delivered to frail elderly people in Detroit, Hamtramck, Harper Woods, Highland Park and all five Grosse Pointes.

In 1988, Detroit Meals-on-Wheels served more than 10,000 meals during the holidays.

Each greeting card sells for $5; $50 buys a package of 10 cards. Co-chairs of the fundraiser are Rosa L. Parks and Florine Mark.

A banquet to benefit the fundraiser will take place on Saturday, Dec. 16, beginning at 6 p.m. at the Omni Hotel in Detroit.

The banquet is called "Into the 90s," and will include a drawing for two round-trip tickets to Paris and some other goodies like a microwave oven, a fund-raiser, and Weight Watchers cookbooks.

For more information about purchasing cards, call the Detroit Area Agency on Aging at 222-5330. For tickets to the banquet, which are $35 per person, call 559-9133.

Good cooking: The Detroit area chapter of the Alzheimer's Association is offering a brand new cookbook called "Cooking with Love."

The recipes are all new and never-before-published. They were compiled locally and include gourmet recipes as well as easy-to-fix fare.

The spiral-bound book is $5.95 and is available at the office of the Alzheimer's Disease and Related Disorders Association, 17251 W. Twelve Mile Road, Suite 109, Southfield 48076.

For an additional $1.50, the cookbook will be mailed to someone on your Christmas list.

Volunteer Shelley Thomson worked for nearly a year with families, supporters and Alzheimer's caregivers to collect recipes for the book.

All proceeds go back to the organization to provide family and patient services, research and education.

Call 557-8277 for more information.

The Pastor's Corner

Divided no more

The Rev. Robert A. Rimbo
St. James Lutheran Church

A few years ago my wife, Lois, and I stood near the Brandenburg Gate in West Berlin and stared into the gray bleakness of the Soviet Bloc. I felt a strange emotion then, never felt in quite the same way before or since — until now.

Then and now the words of theologian-hymn writer Martin Franzmann come to mind:

We walled us in this house of doom,
Where death had royal scope and room,
Until your servant, Prince of Peace,
Broke down its walls for our release.

As the Berlin Wall comes down — figuratively if not literally — I am reminded of the mercy of God which has removed every barrier so we might live in union with all creation and with its Creator.

This is one of the wonders of the Holy Season we enter, that time of anticipation and celebrating Christ's coming to break down the walls for our release. At the manger we all can start over again, no longer barred from God, but free, forgiven, unafraid and unashamed. At the manger, we know that we are loved with the love of the Child.

It is this love we know and celebrate — a love which leaves nothing outside — a love for which nothing is too poor or weak or full of sin. It may break the Child's heart to carry our burden, as it really did in the terror of the crucifixion.

But that is why he came.

Berlin reminds us of other cities: San Salvador, Johannesburg, Havana and, yes, Detroit. Thus reminded, we hear the summons from the manger to seek the welfare of the cities, to break down the walls that divide us from others, to heal the breach of all our sad divisions as we are gathered into the arms of a Baby.

The gray bleakness of all the world will, then, witness to the rising Sun of Righteousness, Jesus the Christ, who comes with healing, with wholeness, with love.

Christ Church presents traditional Service of Nine Lessons, Carols

The traditional Service of Nine Lessons and Carols, sung at Christ Church for the past 30 years, will be presented on Sunday, Dec. 17, at 4:30 p.m.

The setting will be similar to the medieval chapels of England, with Christmas greens, readings, and carols sung by the choirs of Christ Church. The origin of the service comes from one sung first at Truro Cathedral and made famous at King's College, Cambridge, England.

The community is invited to the service, which will take place at the church, 61 Grosse Pointe Blvd.

Christmas pageant

Christ the King Church plans living nativity on Dec. 17

Christ the King Lutheran Church welcomes the community to its third annual Living Nativity on Dec. 17, from 12:30 until 3:30 p.m.

Children and adult choirs will lead the singing and children may pet and touch the animals.

Children from local Sunday schools will participate as Bible characters.

Christ the King Lutheran Church is at Mack and Lochmoor in Grosse Pointe Woods.

Author, child psychologist to speak at Christ Church

Dr. Kevin Leman, known internationally for his wit and his common-sense approach to child psychology, will speak at 10 a.m. Saturday, Jan. 13, at Christ Church Grosse Pointe in a free lecture open to the public.

Leman is the author of the best-selling "The Birth Order Book," along with other books including "Unlocking the Secrets of Your Childhood Memories," "Growing Up Firstborn," "Making Children Mind Without Losing Yours," "The Pleasers," "Sex Begins in the Kitchen," "Measuring Up," "Bonkers," "Smart Kids, Stupid Choices," and "Parenthood Without Hassles — Well, Almost."

His appearance is part of the Sweeney lecture series of Christ Church, established in memory of Dr. Donald N. and Mary Margaret Sweeney.

The one hour lecture will be followed by a 90-minute question and answer period. The church is at 61 Grosse Pointe Boulevard in Grosse Pointe Farms.

Leman can be heard daily on "Today's Family" on the Family Life Broadcasting network. He has appeared on "Donahue," "Geraldo," "Oprah Winfrey," "Sally Jesse Raphael," and other television shows.

The Tucson, Ariz. psychologist formerly was assistant dean of students at the University of Arizona.

For more information, call the church at 885-4841, from 9 to 5 p.m. weekdays.

St. Ambrose holds musical festival

The eighth annual "Winter Wonder" concert will be performed at St. Ambrose Church in Grosse Pointe Park on Sunday, Dec. 17 at 4 p.m.

This festival of Christmas music will feature Frances Brockington, soprano, The Chapel Bells Handbell Choir from Orchard Lake Presbyterian Church, and The St. Ambrose Liturgical Choir.

Tickets will be available at the door. Adult tickets are $5 and senior citizen and children's tickets are $3.

St. Ambrose Church is located one-half block north of East Jefferson Avenue between Maryland and Wayburn Avenues in Grosse Pointe Park.

Call 822-2814 for more information.

G.P. Ministerial Association elects new officers for 1990

The Grosse Pointe Ministerial Association has elected its officers for 1990.

New officers are the Rev. John F. Child, president; the Rev. Jack Mannschreck, vice president; the Rev. Jack T. Ziegler, secretary; the Rev. David R. Kaiser-Cross, treasurer; and the Rev. Gregory P. Sammons, program chairman.

The association is an ecumenical gathering of local clergy who meet each month and who implement a variety of community programs.

The Rev. William DeVries, outgoing president of the organization, said that the Grosse Pointe Ministerial Association is currently involved in five projects. "We provide input for the Substance Abuse Community Council (SAC?). We send a member to sit on the sexuality advisory board for the Grosse Pointe Public Schools. We co-sponsor an annual CROP walk to raise money to feed the hungry. We are pursuing avenues for ecumenical Christian programming on local cable channels. And we meet regularly to exchange news of church fellowship and to encourage each other as professionals."

"We also hold an annual public ecumenical worship service and an annual mayor's prayer breakfast," DeVries said.

He said the group consists of 72 local pastors, chaplains of local hospitals and clergy on special assignments and represents 38 local churches and organizations.

The association also provides weekly Pastor's Corner columns for the church page of the Grosse Pointe News.

Grosse Pointe Camera Club

The Grosse Pointe Camera Club will meet on Tuesday, Dec. 19, at 7:30 p.m. at Brownell Middle School, 260 Chalfonte, Grosse Pointe Farms, for mono-chrome and color print competition and pictorial and nature slide competition.

Ribbon Farms chapter, Questers

The Ribbon Farms chapter of the Questers is planning a Christmas luncheon on Monday, Dec. 18, at noon at Bea Scanlan's home. Members will tell their most treasured memories of past Christmases.

Tip Toppers will host annual Christmas dinner dance

The Tip Toppers Club of Detroit will host its annual Christmas dinner dance on Saturday, Dec. 16, from 7 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the Barrister House, 21801 Harper, St. Clair Shores.

The event begins with cocktails at 7 p.m., dinner at 7:30 p.m., and dance immediately following. The complete price is $22.50, which includes cocktails, dinner and dance with open bar.

Reservations are required no later than December 10. There will be a $15 charge for the dance and open bar.

The Tip Toppers Club of Detroit is a social club for people of tall stature — women 5 feet 10 inches and taller, and men 6 feet 2 inches and taller. The club is a non-profit organization, formed in 1940, and is a member of Tall Clubs International.

For further information on the Tip Toppers Club, and the Christmas dance, call 278-TALL.

R.O.M.P. support group to meet

Recovery of Male Potency (R.O.M.P.), a support group for males who have had, or are contemplating, penile or sphincter implant surgery, meets in St. John Hospital and Medical Center's auditorium the third Tuesday of each month from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Sphincter implant surgery may help those who suffer from incontinence or loss of bladder control.

The program was developed by Grace Hospital in Detroit.

The next meeting is Dec. 19. St. John Hospital and Medical Center is located at 22101 Moross at Mack, one mile east of the I-94 expressway.

For more information call 332-7036.

Award available to local singers

The Elizabeth Gardner Vocal Award was set up by her daughters, Margaret Snyder and Mary Pardee, after her death in 1969.

This award is to be used to further the musical career of a young singer. Elizabeth Gardner was a singer and strong supporter of musical activities throughout her entire life.

Applicants for the $300 prize must be members of the Michigan Federation of Music Clubs as a junior, student, active or individual member. The competition is open to men and women between the ages of 17 and 23 inclusive.

The entrance fee is $3. If the applicant is not a member of the Michigan Federation of Music Clubs, a student membership fee of $4.50 is also required.

Auditions will be held in Birmingham, in February. Official entry forms may be requested in advance from Beverly Stief, 4203 Yorba Linda, Royal Oak, 48072. Call 549-2524.

Applicants must have four selections prepared: an aria from opera or oratorio; early Italian; romantic (French or German); and contemporary. Performers must provide their own accompanists.

The winner of the award, to be used for additional music study, will be presented at the Michigan Federation of Music Clubs' annual spring convention.

Special care for special times.

If you're caring for an elderly parent or relative at home, there are limits to planning a vacation. There are limits to where you can go, and limits to the length of time you can spend away from home.

But there are no limits to the care that's available to you at Cottage Belmont and Cottage Rose Villa Nursing Centers. Both Centers offer short-term care for the elderly and chronically ill — whether it's for a week or weekend.

You can rest assured that they'll be cared for like they're cared for at home. With comfortable rooms, nutritious meals and a warm, friendly atmosphere. Experienced physicians, registered nurses, skilled aides, therapists, social workers and nutritionists see to it that residents not only get the expert medical care they may need but also the personal care they deserve.

And more available personal services and social activities for those interested and able to participate.

Feringa, of Grosse Pointe Farms, has announced the engagement of her daughter, Alexis Feringa, to James Nickell Thurman, son of Celeste Thurman of Dallas, Texas, and Patrick Dering of Little Rock, Ark. Margaret V. Feringa is also the daughter of the late Philip J. Feringa, M.D. A January wedding is planned.

Feringa is a graduate of Grosse Pointe South High School and she earned a bachelor of arts degree in political science from Kalamazoo College. She is a candidate for a master's degree from the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy in Boston.

Thurman earned a bachelor of arts degree in English and history from the University of Arkansas. He is a reporter for the Christian Science Monitor in Boston.

Bridge

HAVE A PLEASANT TRY AT PERFECTION BRIDGE BY WOODY BOYD THE PASTBOARD PASTIME

Brand Marwell is one of Franklin Hills finest fairway medalists, an encyclopedian of rare manuscripts and a good friend. He also enjoys dabbling at duplicate when time from his business permits. This was the instance a few weeks ago for our partnership at Patty and Bob Newman's Tuesday game in West Bloomfield.

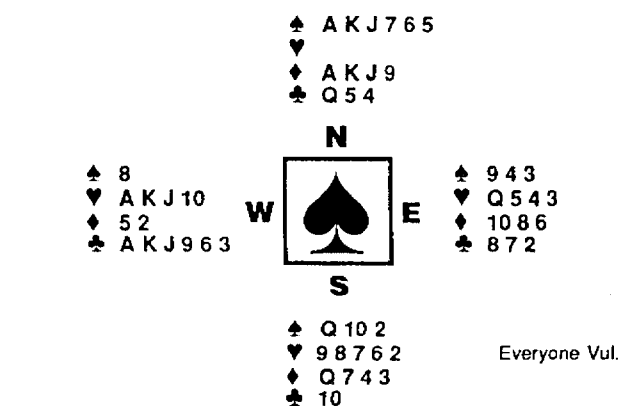

As we sat to play Brand remarked, "Take it easy on me, I haven't played in a month and I'm a little rusty." Then he proceeded to show me that even rusty he was no duffer. In the course of twenty-four boards he was instrumental in finding three successful slams, two of which weren't bid at the other tables. Three games that we were alone in, one of which he had to coup east in an end position to capture nine tricks. For an encore on board Twenty-four he doubled east for a penalty price of plus 300 while the field was laboring in a major partial.

In summation the evidence soundly supported his judgment, his bidding and playing acumen. But what impressed me sincerely was the confidence he displayed in himself and our partnership. If that is lacking the outcome is usually underdone or overbungled.

Heaven forbid if this man ever takes duplicate seriously. Such natural talent with professional direction and an experienced partnership could become a life master in a month of Sundays.

To best show you what I mean by his partnership confidence let's do a delayed replay on one of the dramatic hands from that pleasant event. It was a bidding problem that Brand handled with bravery and resolution and this I believe was spurred by his respect for our partnership.

You say . . . boy, were they lucky! Yes, there's a lot of luck in every competitive card game. It was lucky that west didn't lead a singleton spade or north/south would have been a trick short. It was luck for east/west that we didn't play six diamonds as nothing will topple that. It was also luck that east took a third bid or we would have languished in one spade. So luck did favor us, but let's talk a little bit about judgement and skill. When north could show two good

E	S	W	N
-	-	1C	DBL
-	1H	DBL	1S
-	-	2C	2D

suits vulnerable it was time for me to cooperate. After three rounds of bidding I had constructively contributed nothing. Holding two key queens and a lonesome club my hand had to be working for north . . . so three spades accelerated my partner's last call and that could have won for him "The distinguished bidding cross" posthumously, but I like this kind of valor. It comes with the character of every winner.

As that wonderful gentleman Teddy Roosevelt once said, "Far better it is to dare mighty things, to win glorious triumphs, even though checkered by failure, than to take rank with those poor spirits who neither enjoy much nor suffer much, because they live in the gray twilight that knows not victory nor defeat."

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Arthur Montie

Huebner-Montie

Carolyn Jane Huebner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julius J. Huebner of Grosse Pointe City, married Paul Arthur Montie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Montie Jr. of Ypsilanti, on Sept. 23, 1989, at Christ Church Grosse Pointe.

The Rev. Edward A.M. Cobden Jr. officiated at the 4 p.m. ceremony, which was followed by a reception at the home of the bride.

The bride's gown was fashioned of white silk shantung. The Basque-waisted bodice featured a Sabrina neckline and puffed sleeves and was punctuated with beaded Alencon lace and highlighted with triple pearl clusters. The full skirt swept into a cathedral train which was trimmed with Alencon lace from the bride's mother's wedding gown. Her pearl necklace had been a wedding gift from her grandmother 63 years ago. A silk shantung bow with seed pearls held the bride's fingertip-length illusion veil and blusher. She carried a cascade bouquet of lilies, stephanotis, white freesia and ivy.

Frances Thompson of Grosse Pointe was the maid of honor.

Bridesmaids were Alice Scott of Suttons Bay, the groom's sister, Laura B. Huebner of Grosse Pointe, the bride's sister-in-law, Rebecca Gray of Grosse Pointe, Katherine Hein of Grosse Pointe, and honorary bridesmaid Laura K. Huebner of Ann Arbor, the bride's sister-in-law.

Flowergirls were Elena Keydel of Monroe, Conn., the bride's cousin and Sara Jane Prisky of Mount Clemens, the groom's cousin.

Bridesmaids wore periwinkle blue tea-length wool crepe dresses with Alencon lace collars. They wore wreaths of Sonia roses, bachelor's buttons and ivy in their hair and carried cascade bouquets of Sonia roses, daisies, bachelor's buttons, freesia and ivy.

The flowergirls wore white dresses smocked in periwinkle and pink and carried baskets of Sonia roses, bachelor's buttons and ivy.

Fritz Klaetke of Detroit was best man.

Groomsmen were Julius Huebner Jr. of Ann Arbor, Charles Huebner of New York City and Peter Huebner of Grosse Pointe, all brothers of the bride, Kenneth Scott of Suttons Bay, brother-in-law of the groom, Stephen Gillich of Sterling Heights, cousin of the groom and James J. Woods of Ypsilanti.

The mother of the bride wore a chiffon dress in shades of blue, green and lavender.

The groom's mother wore a pale peach tea-length dress. Both mothers pinned corsages of white Phalaenopsis orchids to their dresses.

Frederic DeHaven was the organist for the ceremony, and was assisted by trumpeter Ted Pethick. Frances Thompson and Charles Huebner were Scripture readers.

The bride is a graduate of Grosse Pointe South High School and holds a bachelor of arts degree from the University of Michigan. She is a marketing associate with State Street Research and Management Co. in Boston.

The groom holds a bachelor of fine arts degree and a bachelor of science degree in computer engineering from the University of Michigan. He is a partner of Visual Dialogue, a Boston-based graphic design firm.

The couple traveled to northern Michigan. They will live in Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. James D. Knotts Jr. Boone-Knotts

Rebecca Jade Boone, daughter of Anita and John Tanner Boone of Grosse Pointe Woods, married James D. Knotts Jr., son of Susan A. Knotts of Virginia Beach, Va., and the late Dr. James D. Knotts, on July 22, 1989, at Christ Church Grosse Pointe.

The Rev. Edward A.M. Cobden Jr. officiated at the 4 p.m. ceremony, which was followed by a reception in the Crystal Ballroom of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

The bride's gown was fashioned of Alencon lace with beaded pearls and silk satin, a cathedral train and a scalloped off-the-shoulder bodice.

The matron of honor was Victoria Boone-Horsley and the maid of honor was Anita Elizabeth Boone. Both are sisters of the bride.

The bridesmaid was Kimberly Knotts Watson of Hillsdale, the bride's sister-in-law.

Attendants wore pale pink and blue rose patterned off-the-shoulder gowns.

Gregory Watson of Hillsdale was the best man.

Tanner Smith Horsley of Grosse Pointe Woods was ring-bearer.

The mother of the bride wore a pale blue silk dress with a V-neck and wore a gardenia corsage.

The mother of the groom wore a pink silk dress with a peplum and a matching picture hat.

Soloists were Ara Berberian and Dorothy Ignasiak. Readers were Lilly B. Miller, the bride's grandmother; A. Elizabeth Boone, the bride's sister; and Matthew Robb, the groom's cousin. Chalice bearer was Jack Renick.

The bride earned a bachelor of arts degree from Michigan State University. She is a teacher of English and literature in Aiken County, S.C.

The groom earned a bachelor of science degree from Michigan State University. He is an engineer employed by Westinghouse.

Maitland-Waugaman

Katherine Lowe Maitland of Huntington Beach, Calif., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Renwick Maitland Jr. of Grosse Pointe Farms, married Douglas Allen Waugaman of Huntington Beach, Calif., son of Nancy J. Waugaman of Grosse Pointe Woods and William J. Waugaman of Grosse Pointe City, on June 17, 1989, at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church.

The Rev. Stanton R. Wilson officiated at the 5 p.m. ceremony, which was followed by a reception in the art wing of University Liggett School.

The bride's gown was made of ivory satin, fashioned with seed pearls and pearl sequins on a lace bodice, featuring a scalloped neckline and puffed sleeves. Her headpiece was a wreath with Alencon lace, silk roses and seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of dendrobium orchids, gardenias, roses, stephanotis and ixia. The maid of honor was Carolyn Lowe Chesbrough of Ann Arbor, the bride's cousin.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Allen Waugaman

Bridesmaids were Sally Corn Bedell of Atlanta, Heidi Cracchiolo Bell of Asheville, N.C., Mary Hutchison Fern of Detroit, Jane Ryder Hitchcock of Long Beach, Calif., Holly McKinley Maitland of Grand Rapids, Nora Del Rosario of Orange, Calif., and Alison Marie Smith of Newport Beach, Calif.

The flowergirl was Monica Cadence Schwerwin.

Attendants wore pale peach cotton voile tea-length dresses with dropped waists, trimmed in eggshell lace and carried bouquets of Sonia roses, white freesia and bachelor's buttons.

The groom's brother, Richard Thomas Waugaman of Grosse Pointe, was best man.

Groomsmen were Jay Cameron Hitchcock of Long Beach, Calif., John Frank Jastrem of Redondo Beach, Calif., Edward Wishropp Maitland of Grand Rapids, Robert George McGraw of Chicago, Michael Roll Scott of Pulyallut, Wash., and William Arthur Waugaman of Lubbock, Texas.

The mother of the bride wore a tea-length champagne silk dress with a lace bodice and a scalloped neckline.

The mother of the groom wore a tea-length coral lace two-piece dress.

The bride is a graduate of University Liggett School and the University of Arizona. She is a sales representative for Fellowes Manufacturing Co. in Orange County, Calif.

The groom is a graduate of Grosse Pointe South High School and Miami University. He is a CPA account manager/business unit comptroller for Plastiglide, a division of Illinois Tool Works in Hawthorne, Calif.

The newlyweds traveled to Portugal.

They will live in Huntington Beach, Calif.

Immanuel Lutheran Church will hold Swedish service

Julotta is the Swedish word for "early morning Christmas worship service."

This Christmas worship service continues to be observed in the Swedish custom in Detroit at the Immanuel Lutheran Church, located at Chandler Park Drive and Dickerson Avenue.

This year Immanuel celebrates its 70th anniversary as a congregation and will again have the traditional candlelight service Christmas morning at 7 a.m.

Members and guests may enjoy the inspiring Swedish heritage of worship liturgy, Christmas singing and music in the Swedish language. The Christmas sermon message will be in English.

A coffee hour and fellowship will be held after the service.

German Christmas service planned

On Sunday, Dec. 17, at 4 p.m., Historic Trinity will hold its annual German language Christmas service. This service has become one of the highlights of the Christmas season. Because of its beauty and tradition, it is attended by many non-German-speaking people, as well as those who are familiar with the language.

This year's service will be conducted by the Rev. Dr. Jakob Heckert of Concordia College in Ann Arbor. Special German choral anthems will be provided by St. Peter's Lutheran Church choir of Warren.

The church is open for tours weekdays in December from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Christmas Eve services will be at 7 p.m. and 11 p.m. Christmas Day service is at 10:45 a.m.

Paws

Specialty dogs are trained to answer the needs of seniors, the developmentally disabled and people with multiple disabilities.

Rhonda and Bill Kerr already had Randi. She was a family pet who was trained to respond to their unique needs. Paws with a Cause also trains hearing dogs rescued from local animal shelters and service dogs donated by breeders of working dogs.

According to Hoekstra, it costs $2,500 to train a hearing dog and takes four to five months of training. It costs about $4,500 and takes seven months to a year to train a service dog.

Recipients of the trained dogs donate what they are able to afford and sponsors cover the balance.

Owners of the trained dogs can recite dozens of anecdotes about their working pets. One owner said her dog alerts the family to the arrival of the school bus and to the sound of sirens when her husband is driving.

Another tells of the dog who woke her in the middle of the night when the siding on the house was smoldering. The family escaped in time.

Another dog alerted his family to a fire in their living room and another dog alerted his family to a fire in another apartment in the building.

Rhonda and Bill Kerr both work for General Motors at the Tech Center in Warren — Rhonda is a spec analyst for the CPC group and Bill is an engineer with the Truck Engine Development Group.

"Randi is one of the family," Bill said. "I love dogs. All my life I've loved dogs. She's a good friend and she means a lot to me. I don't have to worry about break-ins when she's here."

"She sleeps at the foot of our bed," Rhonda said. "She's our security."

Randi will fly to Colorado with the Kerrs soon, when they go there for a skiing vacation. Because of her training as a service dog, Randi will fly in the cabin, not in the baggage section of the airplane.

"Randi doesn't ski though," Rhonda said.

'It Happened in Harrods' cast

The Fine Arts Society presented its first play of the season Nov. 17-18.

General Josiah Harmar, NSDAR

The members of the General Josiah Harmar chapter of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution held their annual Christmas party at the home of Charlotte Buchanan, Chapter regent, on Dec. 9. Dolly Young and Ruth Banks Clarke were co-hostesses of the festivities.

There was a raffle, a cookie exchange and lunch.

Grosse Pointe Newcomers Club

The annual Christmas dinner dance of the Grosse Pointe Newcomers Club was held on Dec. 8, at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

The club helps new couples to become aware of offerings and activities in the Pointes. By joining, new couples can meet other couples and socialize at monthly gatherings. The next "coffee" will be on Dec. 14. For information about the "coffee" or about joining, call Darrell and Anne Frappier at 822-4638 or Jim and Dorothy Bond at 885-4547.

Windmill Pointe Questers to meet

"I've got a secret" will be more than a guessing game for members of the Windmill Pointe Questers at their Dec. 18 meeting.

Participants will share information about some of their favorite discoveries. The subject might be an outstanding bed and breakfast near Lake Michigan or an herb farm specializing in classes for the holidays.

Co-hostesses for the event will be Maureen Christian and Kathy Forster.

Trowel and Error Garden Club

The Christmas holiday season will be celebrated by the Trowel and Error Garden Club members at the home of Shirley Goalsby on Thursday, Dec. 21, at 11 a.m., with a luncheon and gift exchange.

Festival of Lessons at Cathedral Church of St. Paul

The Cathedral Church of St. Paul will host its traditional Festival of Nine Lessons with Carols, on Thursday, Dec. 21, at 7:30 p.m.

Evoking themes of the Christmas season, the service will feature community singing, Scripture readings and carols old and new, sung by the Cathedral's Choir of Men and Boys.

A candlelight supper, sponsored by the Friends of the Cathedral, will precede the service at 6 p.m. in Barth Hall.

Supper reservations, at $4 per person, may be made by calling the Cathedral Office at 831-5000. The Cathedral Church of St. Paul is located at the intersection of Woodward and Warren avenues, one block south of the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Advice to seniors: Stay active; take on new challenges

In this enlightened age, when those who have reached the age of 70 are regarded as the young-old, and no one is looked upon as old until they reach 80, and the term "elderly" is reserved for the 90 to 100 set, it is a little mystifying to read that some 50-year-old youngsters are fretting about reaching the half-century mark.

Perhaps it is the prospect of extended years that prompt them to reassess their lives and decide to change the course of their lives mid-stream and sail into new and uncharted seas.

At any rate, there appears to be many who are deciding to spend time and energy on interests other than their present occupation.

Take, for instance, Laurin Fischer, an engineer and executive with a computer science company. As he approached 50, he performed a system analysis on himself. He decided that he had had enough of the corporate environment and wanted something more personal where he could control his hours.

He settled on optometry, a field where his interest and training in science could be put to use and where he could have contact with others. He spent four years preparing for the change.

When Sue Dolman reached 60, she set the difficult goal of overcoming her fear of turning 60. A divorced mother of four grown daughters, she became depressed because she thought life would be dull when she reached that age. A naturally active, athletic woman, she worried about the loss of health with a subsequent slowing of her lifestyle, which had until then included skiing in the winter and jogging year-round.

She attended a vigorous training program which included running 20 to 30 miles a week. The final test was a trip to Mount Rainier in Washington, where she walked from 6,000 to 10,000 feet, to accustom herself to the altitude.

After four months, Dolman was ready for the Himalayan trek. She spent her 60th birthday at 17,000 feet. The benefits of the trek were quick to materialize. Her whole attitude changed. It gave her courage to start her own business. She now operates her own bookkeeping service.

Changing jobs doesn't always mean learning new skills. Sometimes the skills learned from the present occupation are your most valuable asset when you want to make a change. This is especially true if you want to be a consultant.

You have two valuable commodities to offer: experience and wisdom. The trend toward longer life expectancies, the growth of specialized fields and the demand for business expertise have all made consulting a popular option for those looking for a change. Opportunities for consultants to solve sticky business problems are available. Lack of knowledge is the main reason for any business failure. Most private consultants are over 50 because they're the ones who have all the experience.

By Marian Trainor

A consultant should be a specialist and well-equipped to share knowledge. By general definition, consultants bring to bear the lessons of experience on a set of business problems, using strong analytic and communication skills.

For example, former police officers can become security consultants. Retired government bureaucrats could advise organizations that deal with government agencies. Former business owners can advise local merchants about meeting payrolls, going to the bank for a loan and keeping track of inventory.

If finances are no problem, volunteerism can be the change that provides rewarding opportunities.

Volunteerism is changing. Once its ranks were filled by young and middle-aged socialites or homemakers. Today's volunteers are often retired or semi-retired women or men.

Nor is volunteering one-sided. It gives back in full measure. It provides enjoyment and a sense of contributing. It fulfills personal needs.

A recent survey by Independent Sector, a non-profit coalition of corporate, foundation and voluntary organization members, reported that 89 million Americans, more than a third of the population — serve as volunteers in one way or another. Their reason? A desire to help others, interest in the work or activity and enjoyment of the work.

As a group, volunteers enjoy a highly positive outlook on life, according to a recently published study by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

When asked what specific things older persons can do to stay well or improve their health, the answer was "Stay Active."

Volunteering helps achieve that end.

Just as there are those who opt to leave their present occupation to pursue other interests, there are those who want to stay on, but for one reason or another are forced to retire. Many of these people cannot afford to follow their interests but must find gainful employment.

For them the good news, according to Joyce Slayton Mitchell, author of "Making More Money: 55 Special Job-hunting Strategies for Retirees," is that there is a new awareness on the part of employers that older workers are willing and able to do the work.

The first place to look for help in getting a job is the state office on aging. This office is set up by the governor and the state legislature to help older persons. Write to the Office of Services to the Aging, P.O. Box 30026, Lansing, Mich. 48909.

Pineapples, pomegranates: Symbols of hospitality

Hospitality is a wonderful aspect of the holiday season. It's a tradition that goes far back in American history. In fact, the first settlers in Virginia recorded the Christmas celebrations which marked the very first years of the colony in their diaries and letters.

It is hard to imagine Christmas without Santa Claus or Christmas trees, but neither of these Christmas symbols was part of the colonial tradition. Christmas trees appeared in Williamsburg in 1842. Santa Claus came along even later.

But hospitality in colonial times was lavish and presents were given on New Year's Day. Families and friends gathered in festive groups in each other's homes to celebrate the season. It was a time for weddings, for family reunions for the renewal of friendships. Wines, punch of various kinds and cider were in lavish supply.

There is a lot of confusion about cider. It is, basically, the juice from apples that have been ground to a pulp and pressed. Cider may be sweet (unfermented) or hard (fermented).

By Ellen Probert

Sometimes it is difficult to decide where apple juice ends and cider begins, since the words are often used interchangeably. There is a difference in the taste of cider, depending on what varieties of apples are used in making it.

Fermented cider is the drink to which Europeans refer when they speak of cider. Its alcoholic content varies. One form is applejack, a potent spirit distilled from hard cider.

Sweet cider is the native New England American form, while hard cider has always been more popular in Europe. It is the traditional beverage of England and northern France where it is called cidre. Sparkling cider is also very prevalent in Europe.

Pomegranates and pineapples are traditional symbols of hospitality. Pomegranates are native to western Asia and southern Europe and were named by Pliny who was fond of the apple-shaped fruit of this decorative plant. The leaves are willow-like and the fruit is orange and gold and flushed with red, as are the large fragrant flowers.

Pineapples were grown in greenhouses as a curiosity in the 18th century. They make good house plants, but may be grown outdoors in the southern part of this country. They're a big industry in Hawaii.

Pineapples, as a symbol, were prevalent in the 18th century and were the sign of hospitality displayed in carvings on doorways, on finials or silver vessels and as a motif in woven fabrics for draperies and carpets. They were often used in wreaths and on mantels or windowsills along with apples and evergreen branches in holiday arrangements.

In 1790, George Washington's cook, Hercules, made beautiful centerpieces for the table out of fruit and holly, always centered with an exotic pineapple. Hercules was apparently an excellent cook and went to Philadelphia with the family and back to Mt. Vernon when they returned. Dinner was always served at 3 p.m. and when there were guests of importance or at Christmas or other festive occasions, the feast often lasted until 6 p.m. or later.

Christmas puddings and fruit cakes all around the world are replete with nuts and currents, citron and pineapple, cherries and spices from many origins.

So deck the halls with apples and holly, pineapples and evergreens, mistletoe and pomegranates, rosemary and ivy, and prepare for that most festive of holidays which brightens the darkest days of winter with traditional hospitality.

Catastrophic Coverage Act: What can we learn from it?

By Marlys Dee Craig
Special Writer

The Catastrophic Coverage Act was repealed Nov. 22, but there are no winners in this decision: In varying amounts, everybody will lose something.

What is there to be learned from the recent series of events surrounding catastrophic's passage and repeal?

It was absolute nonsense in the first place to adopt the Catastrophic Coverage Act without extensive input from seniors who were going to carry the cost. Forty percent of the seniors who were slated to pay for most of the cost of the benefits were never asked to testify in congressional hearings.

Some say the whole mess is now history, but history has a strange way of threading its way into the present and future. Seniors must keep informed and vocal.

Taxes, premiums and health benefits seldom make exciting news in the media. I have been told by some seniors that this sort of information is either hard to follow or boring. Maybe we need to ask ourselves if this kind of response is in our best interests. Whether we are seniors or baby boomers, we have a responsibility to become informed about the health coverage we are receiving or are going to receive someday.

The need for an informed public throughout the development of the Catastrophic Coverage Act became evident by the ground swell of opposition by seniors following its passage. Without belaboring the details of this opposition, which resulted in organized responses to Congress, we should focus on two conditions.

For seniors to understand and evaluate the various plans proposed, it requires an understanding of Medicare benefits. A recent survey by the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) revealed that most Americans over 45 years do not feel well informed about how the Medicare system operates or the benefits it covers. Repeatedly, surveys show that from 50 percent to 60 percent of the seniors believe that Medicare will pay for long-term stays in a nursing home.

"As public debate about government responsibility for health care intensifies, it is essential that we understand Medicare well enough to decide what changes we might advocate or support," the University of Kansas Gerontology Center urges.

A lack of information resulted in the sudden show of opposition from many seniors to the coverage act.

Honored:

Two St. Clair Shores men, Nick Zizzi and George Merrelli, have received certificate of appreciation awards from the Italian American Cultural Society for their work toward the repeal of the Medicare Catastrophic Coverage Act.

Rep. Sander Levin said the response of seniors reflected a failure on the part of television and newspapers to keep the public progressively informed during months of congressional hearings and debate.

It is my firm conviction that as citizens we cannot confront health-care issues if we do not have a knowledge of basic health-care facts.

The content of future news and information must, by necessity, prepare the public with an understanding of population changes affecting health costs and coverage, health care inflation rates, use of health care resources and private and public coverages. On the local level, community agencies and centers have an educational obligation to clarify health care issues with members, possibly through meetings and newsletters.

It has been said that hindsight may provide sharper vision; therefore, a brief review of the act is in order to focus our thinking.

The act was signed by the president in July 1988 and was the most significant expansion of Medicare since its beginning in 1965. It represented a culmination of several legislative proposals, the original being submitted by Dr. Otis Bowen. The main thrust of the law aimed to protect Medicare members (actually a small percent) from the cost of lengthy hospital stays and large doctor bills.

Because a portion of the seniors were incensed by the supplemental premium they were required to pay, some comments about the funding regulations are in order.

A two-premium financing approach was adopted. First, a payment of $4 a month was added to the existing premium covering medical expenses for 1989. Second, a Medicare member was required to pay a supplemental premium of $22.50 for every $150 of federal income tax owed in 1989. The supplemental premium was not a general tax because the money went into the Medicare fund and had to be spent for benefits.

It should be mentioned that several plans for financing catastrophic benefits were considered in view of the current national budget deficit. Many seniors were unaware that AARP exerted strong opposition to the original congressional proposal to count the value of Medicare benefits as taxable income, which would have imposed a heavier premium for Medicare members of moderate income than the two-premium plan.

Another proposal highly disapproved and discarded would have financed the new benefits through a flat premium paid by all Medicare beneficiaries. This would have resulted in premiums which the majority of Medicare members could not afford.

The two-premium plan that became the law did not contain a means test. It was a payment plan, not welfare. Income was used as a means of determining how much a beneficiary would pay, but not whether he would be entitled to benefits.

Actually, the income-related "tax" was not new to the Medicare program. FICA taxes, which go into the Medicare Trust Fund, are proportioned according to income earned. In spite of how much each worker pays into the Fund, all workers receive the same Medicare benefits when they become eligible.

The catastrophic supplemental "tax," however, differed from FICA in that the FICA is paid by all employees and employers, while the catastrophic supplemental "tax" was to be paid only by those receiving the benefits — namely seniors.

To avoid future public uproar, any expansion of Medicare benefits should carefully address the payment plan as to how premiums are apportioned across the population involved.

Roast goose, plum pudding are on traditional holiday menus

Domestic geese date from a remote time in history, as documented by their appearance on the monuments of ancient Egypt. Biblical writing, early Roman manuscripts, and Chinese records show geese as part of agricultural enterprise as far back as 3,000 years. Throughout the ages, geese have been reared and prized as a source of nutritious and palatable meat.

Modern breeds and types of geese are probably descended from the wild geese of the British Isles.

Historical records indicate that the golden roast goose shared main dish honors with eel, venison and wild turkey at the first Thanksgiving celebration in 1621.

In early America, the tradition of the goose as the festive holiday centerpiece was brought from England by the Pilgrims. It was the noble goose that always graced the Christmas dinner table. The succulent moist meat of the roast goose, teamed with a special sage apple dressing still make a delicious holiday meal.

The modern ideal of Christmas, particularly in the United States and England, is directly from the the English Victorian Christmas. Charles Dickens heartwarming captured the Victorian spirit of the Cratchits, Tiny Tim and the family dinner with roast goose in his tale, "A Christmas Carol."

The new American-bred goose has become popular for the holiday season because of increased availability, the marketing of larger sizes, lower prices and leaner quality. Our modern American geese are different from their ancestors because they are grown in a controlled environment and fed natural grains which result in the highest yield of meat to bone and the least amount of fat.

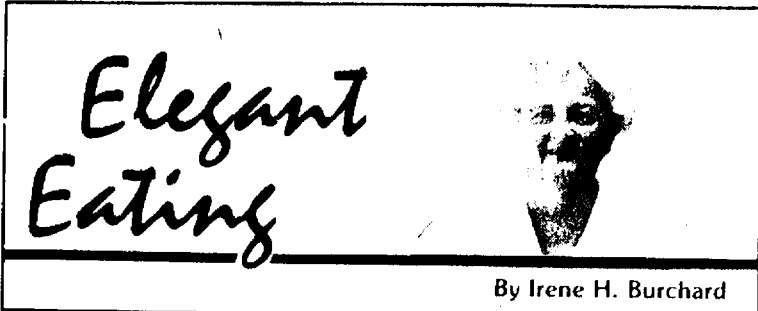

This year, a larger goose is available to the consumer. Birds weighing more than the popular 12 to 14 pounds are coming to market as lean and tender as their smaller counterparts. There are sizes up to 17 pounds which will feed eight to nine people generously. An early order from your favorite butcher or supermarket is the best way to insure getting the size you want.

Fresh chilled goose can be held two or three days in the coldest part of the refrigerator. Make sure the wrapping is loose enough to provide some air circulation. Giblets should be removed from the bird, cooked promptly and refrigerated until ready to use.

Fresh frozen goose must be completely thawed before cooking. The National Goose Council recommends that you select a goose with the USDA Grade A shield to be sure the bird you serve is the finest available. The shield signifies that the goose is a federally inspected, healthy bird that has met the most stringent quality standards. Imported birds are graded in their country of origin. Standards in these countries are not equivalent to those imposed by the USDA.

Roasting the goose

1. If goose is frozen, it must be thawed thoroughly.
2. Preheat oven to 400 degrees.
3. Remove neck and giblets from body cavity. Cook them promptly or refrigerate until ready to use.
4. Remove excess fat from body cavity and neck skin. Reserve fat and render for use in other cooking. Rinse bird and drain.
5. Wings may be removed at second joint or tied flat against body with cord around each wing and across back. If two end pieces of wings are removed, cook them with neck and giblets. If unstuffed, sprinkle body cavity lightly with salt.
6. To stuff, fill neck and body cavity loosely. Fasten neck skin to back with a skewer. Tie legs together, or tuck in band of skin at tail if present. (No need to truss.)
7. Place goose, breast side up, on rack in shallow roasting pan. Insert meat thermometer deep into inside thigh muscle.
8. Roast uncovered for 45 minutes to 1 hour (depending on size of bird) in preheated 400 degree oven. No need to baste.
9. During roasting, spoon or siphon off accumulated fat and reserve for use as a shortening in other cooking. This should be done at half-hour intervals so that the fat doesn't brown excessively.

10. After roasting for 45 minutes to 1 hour, reduce oven temperature to 325 degrees and continue.

11. Roast until thermometer in thigh registers 180 to 185 degrees. Stuffing temperature should also be checked and it should register 165 degrees.

12. If a thermometer is not used, press meaty part of leg between protected fingers. It should feel very soft. Also prick thigh with a fork. The juices running out of thigh should be beige in color, not pink. The skin should be golden brown and crisp.

Wild mushroom port gravy

- 1 carrot, chopped
- 1 onion, chopped
- 3/4 ounce dried porcini (mushrooms)
- 1 cup dry white wine
- 1/3 cup all purpose flour
- 1 rib celery, chopped
- 3 1/2 cups of chicken broth
- 1/4 cup Tawny Port
- Fresh sprigs parsley for garnish

Scatter the carrot, celery, onion and chopped giblets on the bottom of the pan, and roast the goose. During the last half hour of roasting, soak the dried mushrooms in 1 cup of broth, heated. Strain the mushroom liquid through a fine sieve. Rinse the mushrooms, drain them well and chop fine.

Remove the goose from the pan to a heated platter. Skim off the fat in the pan, remove the vegetables and giblets from roasting pan with a slotted spoon and discard. Reserve the pan juices. Add wine and Port to the pan, deglaze the pan over moderately high heat, scraping up the brown bits clinging to the bottom and sides, and boil the mixture until it is reduced by half.

In a saucepan, combine 1/4 cup of reserved fat drippings and flour and cook the roux over moderately low temperatures, whisking for 3 minutes. Add the remaining 2 cups of broth, the wine mixture and the reserved porcini liquid in a stream, whisking, bringing the mixture to a boil, whisking, and simmering the gravy, whisking occasionally for 3 minutes, or until it is thickened. Stir the porcini into the gravy with salt and pepper to taste. Simmer the gravy for 2 minutes and transfer it to a heated saucepan.

Part 1:
1 lb. chopped suet (butter or margarine may be substituted)

- 1 lb. raisins
- 1 lb. currants
- 1/2 lb. chopped citron

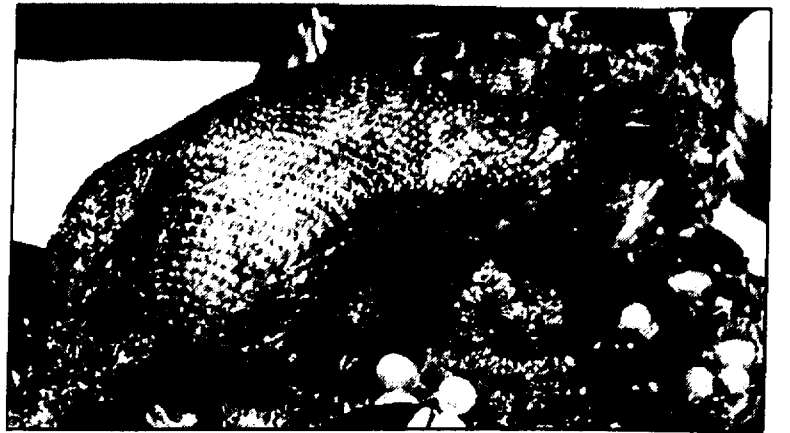

Part 2:
1 grated nutmeg
1 tablespoon mace
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup brown sugar

Part 3:
7 egg yolks and 7 egg whites (separated)
1/4 cup cream
1/2 cup brandy
1/2 cup Guinness Stout (any brand of beer may be used)
3 1/2 cups bread crumbs

Mix part 1 with half the flour. Dredge lightly. Sift the other half of the flour with part 2 ingredients. Combine parts 1 and 2. Add part 3, except the egg whites. Whip egg whites until stiff. Fold them lightly into the mixture, stirring clockwise.

Pour the mixture into a one gallon pudding basin or steam mold. Cover the top with plastic wrap and foil, tying them in place. Steam for 6 hours. If the pudding cooks too fast, it will become a hard inedible mess.

Before serving, ignite brandy in a separate pan and pour on pudding when the flame goes out.

Roast Christmas goose is part of the American holiday tradition. American-bred geese are becoming more popular because they're leaner, larger and lower priced.

Plum pudding may be made gradually to the butter until weeks in advance, but must be stored in an airtight container in the refrigerator or in a cool place. Reheat by steaming process before serving. Top with holly for garnish.

Hard sauce

- 1 cup of powdered sugar
  - 5 tablespoons butter, soft
  - pinch of salt
  - 2 tablespoons whiskey
  - 1/4 cup whipping cream
- In a mixing bowl, add sugar

Recipes are from Steve Schopen, chef at The Whitney, and were demonstrated at The Pointe Pedlar on Nov. 1. Schopen was born and educated in England and studied culinary arts there. He claims the pudding recipe, which has been in his family for a long time, is better than the queen's plum pudding recipe, which appeared in Gourmet Magazine.

Grosse Pointe Yacht Club board of directors

Seated, from left, are Herold M. Deason, secretary; Thomas D. Ogden, vice commodore; Tymon C. Totte, D.D.S., commodore; Charles E. Stumb Jr., rear commodore; and James Morrow, treasurer.

Patches

It's been said there's no place like home. Patches wouldn't know; he's never had one.

Boris

When Boris wouldn't walk for the two men who found him, they tied him to a leash and dragged him through the streets. When we found him, we also found out why he wouldn't walk. His pelvis had been crushed.

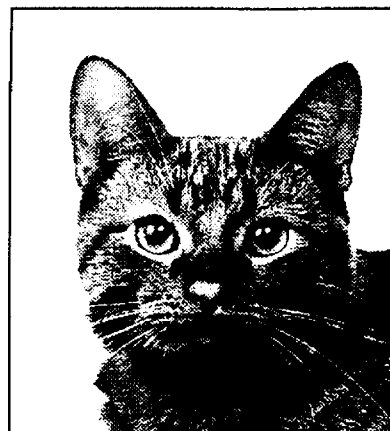

Sarah

When Sarah's owners moved, the only thing they left behind was trash and litter. Sarah was part of the litter.

Buddy

We found Buddy in a one bedroom house with forty-one dogs and eight cats. He was severely malnourished but still alive. He was one of the lucky ones.

Cosmo

Cosmo is a victim of the saddest kind of animal cruelty. An owner who just doesn't want him anymore.

Without your help, we can save only one of these animals.
Which one should it be?

That's the decision we're faced with every single day at the Michigan Humane Society. Every day, homeless and abused animals like Boris and Buddy and Sarah are brought to us seeking care and shelter. We help them all. But the painful truth is, there continue to be more animals in need of homes than there are homes to give. Of the 47,000 animals we took in last year, only one out of five found homes.

That's why we need your help. We ask you, during this season of giving, to find room in your heart and your home for Boris or Patches or any one of the hundreds of animals at the MHS.

Or you can do the next best thing. You can make a generous holiday donation. Because the more you help, the more we can help. Your donation not only provides shelter, food and medicine. It buys these homeless animals what they so desperately need - time.

So now, which one should we save? One of them? Or all of them? You decide.

Delicious pretender:

John Argy of Grosse Pointe Park, is one of the winners in AAA Michigan's ninth annual Great Pretenders nonalcoholic drink contest. The theme for this year's competition, "The Nutcracker Ballet," produced not only some delicious recipes, but some juicy recipe names as well — like "Sugarplum Punch," "Cranballet Sparkle," and "The Nutcracker Smacker."

Argy's fourth place award-winning recipe:

Nutcranner Sweet

- 6 oz. cranberry juice cocktail
- 1 oz. frozen orange juice concentrate
- 2 oz. cream of coconut (canned)
- 6 large ice cubes
- 2 pecan halves (shelled)
- 1 maraschino cherry
- 14 oz. frappe glass

Place first four ingredients in blender. Blend on high for 1 1/2 to 2 minutes until no large pieces of ice are visible. Pour into tall frappe glass. Float pecan meats on top and place cherry on top of pecans.

"These drink recipes demonstrate that you don't sacrifice taste or creativity by serving nonalcoholic drinks at holiday gatherings," said Robert V. Cullen, AAA Michigan Community Safety Services manager.

Besides some recipes, the "Great Pretenders Party Guide" includes tips for safer parties and some guidelines to help individuals know their drink limits. The booklet is free at AAA Michigan offices around the state.

Parliamentarian: Andrea Egan Weyhing of Grosse Pointe Farms recently returned from the 27th biennial convention of the National Association of Parliamentarians in New Orleans, where she completed certification for professional registered parliamentarian status.

Weyhing served as a delegate for the Michigan State Association of Parliamentarians while she was in New Orleans.

Marilyn Connor and Susan Zeff, both of Grosse Pointe Farms, attended the Wayne State University President's Preview, opening the Hilberry Theatre's current season.

Connor, president of The Understudies, the theater's community fundraising arm, announced that the group had raised a record-breaking $110,000 for the theater's scholarship fund.

A struggling club

It may be too early to tell, but the Grosse Pointe North hockey team doesn't yet look like the state contender I thought it would be.

Watching the Norsemen play Brother Rice Dec. 7 at the St. Clair Shores Civic Arena, I wasn't very impressed. North is touted as a team to give defending Class A champ Southgate Anderson its toughest task, but if the team continues to play as individuals, Anderson will again skate circles around the Norsemen.

North will host Anderson Dec. 19, and that will be its toughest test. North needs to escape its syndrome of not playing as a team and get on with things now, otherwise this season could fizzle.

North has difficulty getting the puck out of its zone.

Rice, which won the game 7-6, dumped the puck in and North struggled all evening to dump it back out. Many of the players were standing around waiting for something to happen instead of taking command and forcing the tempo.

I was surprised to see North playing as a team separated by individuality. The players have yet to mold their styles and personalities, and they didn't play a very disciplined game.

With 10 guys back from a year ago, North is supposed to be skating with precision and confidence, and no glitches even though it's early in the season. These guys have been playing together for three years now but the consistency is missing.

Perhaps you could blame the slow 3-3 start on the fact that No. 1 goaltender Matt Krieg was lost to the team. Perhaps you could blame it on the coaching, or maybe the lack of defense. Maybe, but North's biggest problem is weak goaltending.

Defense was to be a strong trademark for the Norsemen. Six defensemen are in the lineup, but the steadiest one right now is Tim Ryan. Ryan plays a very physical game, but he's the only one. Good defensive teams don't give up seven goals. If North can't clear its zone, the goaltender may as well paint a target on his jersey. And with the current lack of goaltending North may give up more than seven goals a game.

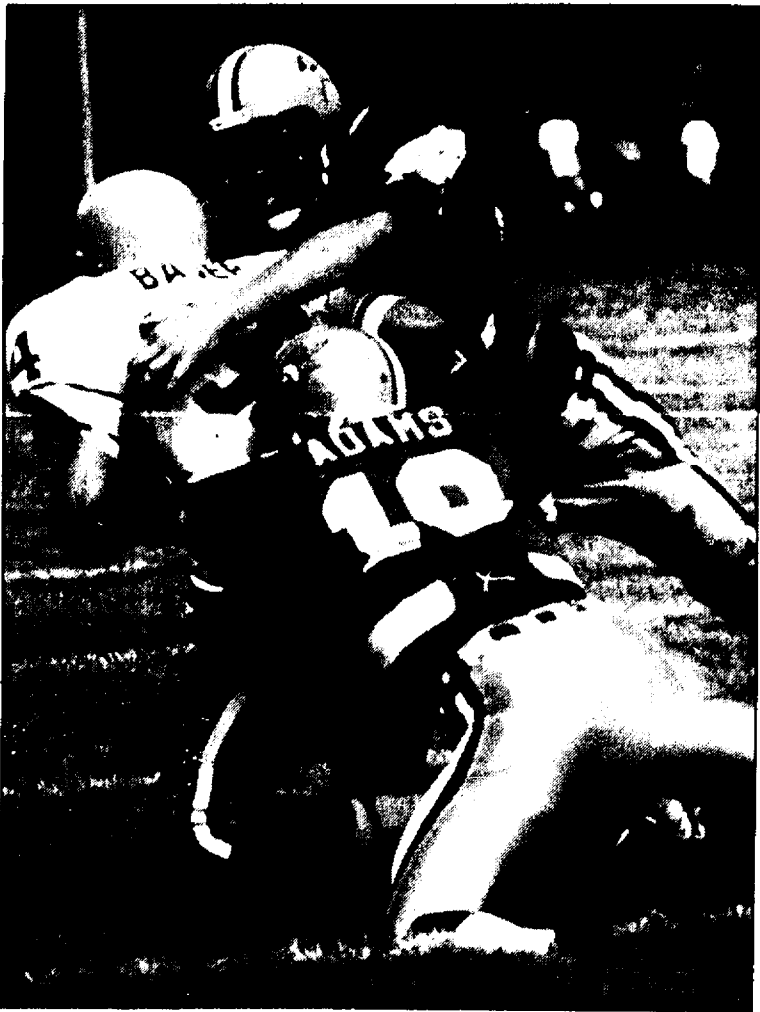

Coach Mike Manzella anticipated his senior-laden team would open the season with some fire. But, the fire has been doused by poor execution and the missing link of leadership. Manzella also mentioned his team looks good on paper, but it must find the right chemistry. Well, someone better get into the lab and mix some things together, otherwise North won't have much fun this season.

At 3-3, it's not time to panic, but there is no quick fix. The guys on the ice and off the bench must come together and play as a team. It's difficult to blend 16 different personalities, but it's not impossible.

Instead of seeing guys standing around banging their sticks on the ice calling for the puck, I'd rather see five guys forechecking, backchecking and creating opportunities. Not a few working hard and the lazy guys getting the reward.

North has the potential to win the state title, and thank goodness there is still enough time to correct the mistakes. There's a great deal of individual talent, but someone's got to step forward and take charge.

Can a smiling Stumb meet the challenge?

By Rob Fulton
Sports Editor

Three Grosse Pointe North coaches unanimously agree that senior Charlie Stumb is a great athlete who survives on natural ability.

It's also a foregone conclusion that Stumb is an All-State football player destined to play Division I football. So, how does an athlete who simply goes through the motions become one of the Midwest's top prep athletes?

Pure athleticism. "Charlie has just a great deal of ability, not only in football but at any sport he plays, that everything comes naturally for him," said North girls' basketball coach Ray Ritter, one of Stumb's closest friends. "Ever since he was a kid, Charlie has been able to survive on just being Charlie. He's excelled in sports and it's scary to think of how good he could be if he tried more."

He's already responded in the big high school games, so the question remains: Can Stumb meet the challenge of Division I football and survive just on his ability?

"Knowing Charlie, probably," said Ritter. "But he's aware that he's going to be one of many athletes with the same ability and he's going to have to play above that."

"I truly believe he will be a good, solid Division I football player, but he's got to turn his game up a notch."

Stumb, who steps in at 6-foot-6-inches and 225 pounds, isn't offended by Ritter's remarks. In fact, he agrees.

"Coach Olman (basketball) and Coach Sumnera (football) tell me all the time that I'm only playing on my abilities," said Stumb, who has been heavily recruited since his junior season. "Personally, it's not that I haven't given my best, but I know I can be a better player. I'm just a happy-go-lucky person."

I work hard, but I know I could work even harder."

"He's not a good basketball player yet," said head basketball coach George Olman. "He's playing on ability. I expect so much more out of him because I know there's so much more ability in him. He knows it, too."

His peers expect much more from him too, because he is a franchise player. Stumb is popular, friendly and the president of the Varsity Club. Not all the people you talk to at North may know him, but they know of the kid with the perpetual smile.

"That's because Charlie is liked by everyone," said Sumnera. "He's one of the most pleasant kids I've ever coached. Everyday at practice, he'd have a smile on his face. He's just a good-natured kid who makes you feel good even when you're not down."

Stumb

"Coach Sumner, Ritter and Olman are a few of my best friends," Stumb said. "They've always wanted what's best for me and pushed me to be the best. I have a lot to thank them for."

Stumb, who plays point guard and can post up for the hoop team, shattered several school records on the football field including the most career catches (60), most receiving touchdowns (10), most career yards (1,097), and the longest touchdown catch for a tight end (73 yards).

Besides being the only receiver at North to ever exceed 1,000 yards in the air, Stumb twice set single-game marks with eight catches.

Offensively, he's powerful, strong and a threat. But, when the opposition takes over on offense, it doesn't get Stumb off the field. In his senior season, he recorded 90 tackles from his linebacker spot, had four interceptions, including one for a touchdown, had 15 behind-the-line tackles, three fumble recoveries and four quarterback sacks. He also handled the punting and kickoff chores.

"Charlie never left the field," said head football coach Frank Sumner. "He has great coordination. In my 20 years of coaching, I've never seen an athlete with hands as soft as Charlie's. He just flat out catches the ball, and on defense, he's got such a keen sense and gets to the ball very quickly."

In his two varsity seasons for the Norsemen, Stumb has been twice named to the All-White Division first team. This season he shared the team's MVP award with fullback Bryan Ford, and also made The Detroit News All-Dream Team.

"I never thought for a minute that I could be selected as one of the state's top 23 players," Stumb said in reference to the News' selection. "It's a great honor for me, but I wouldn't have been able to do it without a lot of help from my teammates."

This season, Stumb was also placed on the All-Suburban, All-Metro East and All-Metro teams listed by the Free Press and the News.

Destined for DeLaSalle Collegiate High School after eighth grade, Stumb had no hopes of attending North until he found the freshman football team practicing in August of 1986.

"I knew Scott Bernhardt

(North's quarterback) pretty well and one day I saw him throwing the ball on the field," Stumb recalled. "I ran a few patterns and caught a few passes, and the next thing I knew Coach Sumner had me going home with a Norsemen football helmet."

And his life would never be the same.

In subsequent years Stumb threatened to quit, but Sumner kept motivating him. So did his best friend Matt Brady, a 1989 North graduate.

"After my sophomore year, I knew I had to play as a junior," said Stumb. "Matt was a senior and playing, and I knew I couldn't sit in the stands on Saturday afternoons and watch him play. I had to be a part of it."

And a big part he was. As a junior Stumb set the single-season record for catches (36) and scored five touchdowns.

Unlike the previous seasons, Stumb didn't have any ill feelings toward football after his junior season. In fact, he was anxious to put the pads back on.

"It took me a while to realize how much I really love football," he said. "After my junior year, I personally thought I was not an all-around good football player, but a lot of college coaches were interested in seeing my game films and that's when I began to realize I should take football more seriously."

He still, however, takes his basketball very seriously.

As a child, he gave up his ice hockey skates to work on basketball. Sleeping with his ball and always dribbling it through his house, Stumb began to show signs of being a quality basketball player.

"I used to dream of being a great hockey player," Stumb said. "But I gave it up for basketball, and now I'm going to play college football and that's it. I haven't ruled out college basketball, but it would be very difficult to play two sports in college. After the basketball season, I'll work in the weight room and get ready for football. Basketball, however, will always have a special place in my heart."

If he peaks this basketball season, though, perhaps he could be recruited for hoops, too.

"My first love used to be basketball, and in some ways it still is," said Stumb. "I've got to think of the basketball team right now and when that's over I'll focus back on football. When I was a kid, everyone had the biggest dreams for me to become a great basketball player because they knew that was my sport."

And now?
"It's kind of scary to think at one time I wanted to be the best basketball player ever," Stumb said. "And now I'm being recruited for football. It's kind of strange, but it's fun, too."

The fun of being recruited began at the conclusion of his junior football season, but now the pressure mounts as the signing date nears and the colleges look to acquire Stumb.

"I'd like to commit and sign as soon as possible," said Stumb, who can't officially sign until Feb. 15, 1990. "By doing that, I can stop all the phone calls and mail from recruiters. It'll be nice to know I'm going somewhere and can concentrate on things that are going on right now."

Stumb is currently looking to play at Michigan, Michigan State, Penn State, Indiana or Louisville.

"I know I've got to be stronger, faster and mentally ready to play football at a Division I school," said Stumb. "I'm very happy with all that's happened to me and I'd like to thank all the people who have helped me along the way. I can't do anything from here on just on my athletic ability. I've got to be ready to compete."

And he will be.
"It's either that, or get my head taken off," Stumb said with a smile.

East-West Soccer Ambassadors hold tryouts

The East-West Soccer Ambassadors, a nationally known youth soccer program offering international soccer travel to players ages 12 through 19 will be conducting clinic/tryouts for interested players.

One will be at the Canton Indoor Soccer Dome on Friday, Dec. 15, from 4:30 to 6 p.m., and the other will be at the Square Lake Indoor Soccer Facility on Saturday, Dec. 16, from 5:30 to 7 p.m.

Last year, players from 17 different states discovered the thrill of representing the United States overseas as a member of the Ambassadors. Next summer, the Ambassadors will be touring and competing in Italy, Austria, Germany and Holland. The three-week tour begins in July with a unique week-long training camp on the Dutch/German border.

Players and families interested in learning more about the program should call 1-800-248-KICK, or attend the clinics on Dec. 15 or 16. All players should bring their own ball and a $10 application fee. A free T-shirt will be provided to all participating players.

ULS' Tarik Lester battles for a loose ball in a win over Cranbrook.

ULS sports

Knights raise status with quick start

By Rob Fulton
Sports Editor

University Liggett School basketball coach Chuck Wright knew his team was good, but now others know, too.

After wins over Cranbrook, 71-55, and Notre Dame, 63-59, the Knights earned respect and the No. 3 ranking in the Class C polls.

"We're just absolutely delighted to get ranked," said Wright. "We've been fighting very hard to be a team with some respect, and now we have that. I've been telling the kids that we needed to be a good team to gain the respect we deserve, and now we've got it."

ULS' basketball team hasn't been ranked in the state polls since the early 70s, when it held the top spot in Class D. ULS has never been ranked in the Class C polls.

"I'm very pleased, but we have to keep it all in perspective," said Wright. "We can't worry about the rankings, but it's truly a reward for guys like Kandia Milton and Kevin Cro-ciata, who have been through this program for four years. I'm pleased for the team."

ULS has been led by Kevin Crociata and Tarik Lester, one of the state's finest guard combinations. In the win over Cranbrook, Lester led the balanced ULS attack with 20 points, and forward Milton had 14 points to go with a game-high 13 rebounds. Crociata tossed in 13, and DeDan Milton had 12.

ULS took command early, but couldn't shake the Cranes. However, after leading at the half, the Knights scooted out to a 16-point lead at the end of three and coasted in the final eight minutes.

The win over Notre Dame (Class A), wasn't decided until the final two minutes, when Lester canned four straight free throws to ice it.

"Tarik's on the verge of having a terrific season," Wright said. "His whole game has improved significantly from last year."

About the two wins, Wright said: "Without a doubt, the team's mental toughness was the key to both victories."

Against Notre Dame, Kandia Milton had his second double-double, with 14 points and 11 rebounds. Lester led the scoring with 19 and Crociata had 12.

Brent McMahon hit for 11 points and had nine rebounds.

ULS is off until Jan. 3.

Hockey

After picking up wins No. 6 and 7, last week, the ULS boys' hockey team is now ranked No. 1 in the Class B-C-D polls with a 7-0 record.

The Knights beat Port Huron Northern, 5-3, and then upset No. 1 ranked Cranbrook, 6-3, to earn top billing.

"I have certainly never been there (No. 1) before, and neither have a lot of the boys," said Knights coach John Fowler. "It's an honor, whether it lasts a week or the whole year."

The last ULS hockey team to be ranked No. 1 was the 1980 state championship team.

"We've been playing very good team defense," Fowler said.

Alex Crenshaw, John Maycock and Stefan Teitge anchor the second line. The defense is led by Mike Coello, Jesse Kasom, Bill Robb and Greg Akers.

Senior captain Doug Wood, who had two goals and three assists in the win over Port Huron Northern, scored the game-winner against Cranbrook at the 10:04 mark of the second period.

Andrew Van Deweghe, Wood's linemate, led the Knights past the Cranes with a hat trick. Crenshaw unloaded a wrist shot that gave ULS a 1-0 lead, and Teitge, who also assisted on a goal, netted a solo goal.

Jonathon Davis registered two assists.

The Knights will host the ULS Christmas Hockey Tournament on Dec. 15 and 16. ULS, North, South and Midland Dow will compete. For more information, call 884-4444.

North sports

Sheehy paces Norsemen hoopers in season opener

By Rob Fulton
Sports Editor

In typical opening-night fashion, the Grosse Pointe North boys' basketball team struggled until the fourth quarter, before slipping past Lakeview, 56-50, at home Dec. 8.

North (1-0) trailed most of the way, until it put together a run in the fourth quarter. Down by one at the end of three quarters, North rode Brian Sheehy's game-high 16 points and 14 rebounds to take a 10-point lead twice in the final eight minutes.

"It was a typical opener for us," said Norsemen coach George Olman. "Early in the game we had to get the jitters of the first game out of our system, and later in the game we smoothed some of the rough edges."

North trailed by eight, 31-23, at intermission. At the half, Olman didn't make any adjustments, but just told his squad to continue to work hard.

"We really didn't change a thing for the second half," Olman said. "We just stayed with what we were doing in the first half and eventually we got things worked out."

"We were nervous because it was our first game, but we're glad we got the win."

Charlie Stumb added 12 points and Jason Serwa had 10 for the Norsemen.

Hockey

Despite blistering the Brother Rice goalie with 10 shots over the final two minutes, the Norsemen hockey club suffered a 7-6 loss to the Warriors.

North, playing a 2-3 zone system for the first time this season, had to play catch-up hockey all night. Rice scored three straight goals to take a 7-4 lead, but North countered to cut the lead to 7-6, before running out of time.

"We knew they were strong offensively," said North coach Mike Manzella, "so we wanted to run a 2-3 (three players on the blue line in Rice's zone) system to make sure we didn't get caught in any 3-on-2 situations where we had to fight to get back on defense."

"It was the first time we have run it all season, and I think our kids adjusted to it well."

Bob Beltz and Scott Nesom, both forwards on the second line, each had two goals, and Ed Barbieri and John Ferguson had one goal apiece.

"We put 10 shots on goal in the final minutes," said Manzella, "and couldn't tuck one in. However, we can't put ourselves in a 2-0 hole to a good team like Rice and expect to get away with it."

North is ranked in the top 10 of Class A.

Wrestling

Dan Collins led the Norsemen to a sixth-place finish in the Ferndale Invitational Dec. 9 by winning the 152-pound division.

Keith Giannico (125) took a third for North, while Reid O'Brien (119) and Joe Ament (135) both took fourth places.

South sports

Blue Devils split first two basketball games

By Rob Fulton
Sports Editor

After losing its season opener on the road, the South boys' basketball team won one on the road.

South kept the ball game at Notre Dame close, but lost after struggling at the free throw line, 66-58. Three nights later, however, senior forward Rob Khoenle had a career-high 20 points as the Blue Devils beat the Parkers of Highland Park, 53-45.

South is 1-1 overall. "The kids played very well at Highland Park," said South coach George Petrouleas. "We had our problems early on, but we worked them out in the second half and really played well."

South, which hit 45 percent of its field goals, didn't convert in the first half.

"We created our own shots, but we couldn't get them down," said Petrouleas. "We also got caught turning the ball over more than usual because we were trying some things and it cost us early."

After trailing 28-20 at the half, South chipped away and eventually cut the Parkers' lead to three points, 36-33, at the end of three quarters.

"At halftime, we made some defensive adjustments," Petrouleas said. "Our defense forced

With five minutes to play, South took a 39-38 lead and never looked back.

"It was a good win for us," Petrouleas said. "We needed to get the first one under our belts."

Down the stretch, junior guard Tim Gramling hit eight straight free throws to seal the South win. Gramling finished with eight points and Joe Caldwell had 13.

The win marked the first time in 25 years, according to Petrouleas, that South has beaten Highland Park in back-to-back seasons. Highland Park, however, leads the 74-game series, 47-27.

At Notre Dame, Gramling led the way with 15 points and four assists, and Caldwell hit a dozen points and dished out six assists. Khoenle and Durmon Coates had 10 points each.

Hockey

Renato Roxas, Brian Czarnik and Brian Crane combined for the hat trick in South's 3-2 win over Gabriel Richard.

Peter Bourke, Kevin McCracken, Roxas and Jim Pappas drew assists and Kevin Nesler got the win in net.

At Southgate Anderson, Nesler stopped 30 of 35 shots, but it was not enough as the defending Class A champs beat the Blue Devils, 5-2. Bourke and McCracken scored for South.

John Morreale and Dan LeFebre assisted.

Best in seven

A group effort from the Grosse Pointe Academy girls' tennis team enabled the team to record its finest season in seven years. Appropriately enough, the girls capped off the season with a 7-4 victory over Kingswood. With nine of the top 12 players returning next year, 1990 also looks good.

Kicking Bulldogs

The Grosse Pointe Academy Bulldogs recorded another winning soccer season with a 9-1-1 record. The Bulldogs were led by Jeff Wheeler, who scored 11 goals, and Shaun Black and Lawrence DeLuca, who scored nine goals each. Chris Johnson led the defense with four shut-outs. The Bulldogs outscored their opponents 47-17.

Volleyin' a title

For the 14th time in the 15-year history of Catholic Youth Organization volleyball, St. Clare captured the Eastside Division championship, finishing 15-1 overall and 10-0 in league play.

St. Clare has compiled a record of 287-17 and a league mark of 198-5 during the 15-year period.

Falcons fly

The St. Clare jayvee soccer team won the Catholic Youth Organization Eastside Division championship after finishing the season unbeaten and untied.

Uznis joins U.S. sailing team

Mike Uznis of Grosse Pointe Farms will be bound for Ecuador next April.

Uznis has just returned from the Mid-Winter Championships of Optimist Dinghys in New Orleans, where he finished third overall in the six-race series.

Uznis competed against 74 boats from eight states, skippered by sailors age 9-14.

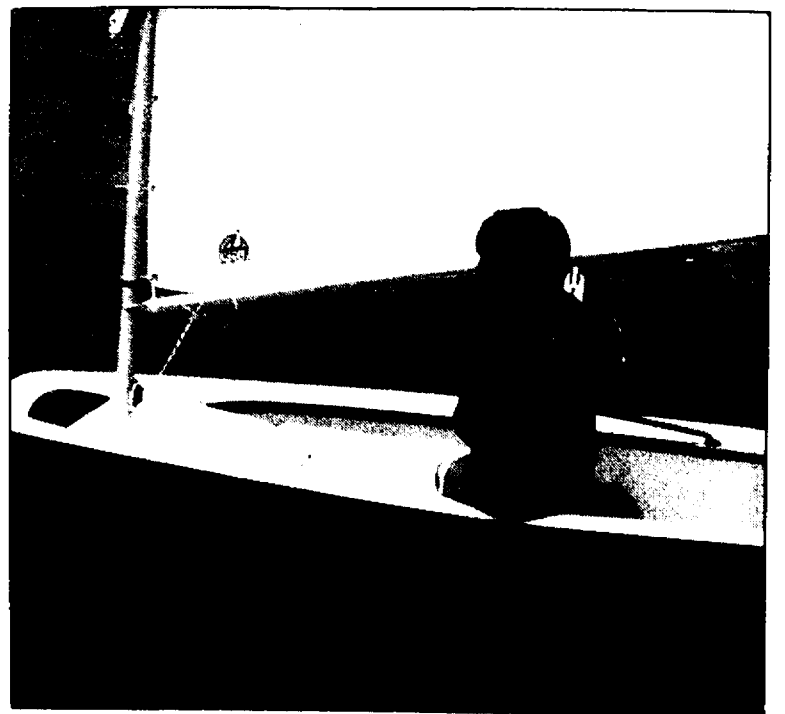

By finishing third overall, Uznis earned a spot on the United States team that will compete next spring. The top five skippers qualify for the national team.

With finishes of fifth, seventh, ninth, third (2) and first, Uznis took second in the Red Division, but had enough points to place third overall. It is the first time any skipper from the North has been represented on the national team.

In August, 1990, the U.S. Championships will be held at the Grosse Pointe Club. The event is expected to draw more than 100 boats from around the United States and seven foreign nations.

Uznis sails in the Bayview Yacht Club Junior Sailing Program. Tom Shumaker of Grosse Pointe finished 38th overall.

Mike Uznis, who sails in the Bayview Yacht Club Junior Sailing Program, skippered his Optimist dinghy to an overall third place in the Mid-Winter Championships in New Orleans. Uznis will now compete in Ecuador next April as a member of the United States team.

It figures

Gimpert took third in the Lady's Intermediate Division and qualified for the Midwestern Sectional Championships in Minnesota Jan. 9, 1990, and MacDonald took first in the Lady's Junior Division.

Gimpert, who like MacDonald trains under McGowan at the Fraser Ice Arena, was the only Michigan skater to qualify in her division.

Kristin Lee Buckler, at right, finished third in the Lady's Junior Division. Buckler, 14, has earned 45 medals since the age of 6. She's also a Grosse Pointe resident.

101 PRAYERS

PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT
Holy Spirit, you who make me see everything and who shows me the way to reach my ideal. You who give me the Divine Gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me and you who are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great the material desires may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones in your perpetual glory. Amen.

Thank you for your love towards me and my loved ones. Pray this prayer three consecutive days without asking your wish, after third day you wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Then promise to publish this prayer as soon as you favor has been granted. Thank you for favors received. G.L.D.

FREE to good home, Female kitten. 526-4942.

GROSSE Pointe animal clinic (on Kercheval) has an absolutely irresistible, one year old male kitty available this week for adoption. Tan and cream, very affectionate and would be a wonderful Christmas gift! For more information, please call us at 822-5707

SCHNAUZER/DACHSHUND This sweet, gentle Schnauzer/Dachshund mix mother was abandoned with her puppies when her owners moved. Neighbor has taken them in and would like to find good loving homes for all. These dogs will be small, short-haired and probably have the temperament of their mother, meaning they will be delightful. She is not a constant barker and is very well-behaved. Please call Bev at 839-1385 for more information.
