

From ice to nice

Last week, the lake was ice-laden and the air was frigid. This week, temperatures soared to record 70s and a woman on Kerby was seen doing yardwork wearing shorts. This phenomenon is known as Michigan.

Woods residents shocked; assessments double, triple

Volunteer boards of review busy throughout the Pointes

John Minnis
Assistant Editor
William Seppala of Grosse Pointe Woods knew his old farmhouse on Vernier Road was a good investment, but he had no idea how good until the local assessor came along.

Seppala, owner of Harper Sport Shop, received his assessment increase notice last week and did a double and triple take: The tiny farmhouse's assessed value had skyrocketed from $25,000 in 1989 to $78,000 for 1990, a 212 percent increase.

Because the assessed value is supposed to equal 50 percent of market value, the sales price of his house tripled from $50,000 last year to $156,000 this year — according to Woods Acting Assessor Gerard McNamara, who could not be reached for comment because he is, you might say, busy right now.

Seppala also owns a second house on Vernier, but the second home fared better: Its assessment went up 67 percent, from $74,800 to $124,800.

Another Vernier resident, Ron

Marlow, saw his assessment jump 60.5 percent, from $71,390 in 1989 to $117,800 this year.

Marlow, who was preparing for a Board of Review challenge, said the assessor estimated the market value of one of his neighbors' homes at $211,000. The irony is that just 10 months ago the new owner bought the house for $87,000 — that's an increase in value of nearly 2 1/2 times in less than a year.

In fact, the new owner was so impressed that he put a sign up in front of the home stating that the small home was for sale for $211,000, according to the assessor's stated value. (At the urging of his neighbors, he took the sign down just in case someone actually offered to buy the place.)

Another resident, who won one of the Beautification Commission's top awards in 1989 after he fixed up and re-sided his Vernier Road farmhouse, saw his assessment double, according to Marlow.

While the citywide average assessment increases in the all the Pointes were double digit this year, the Woods residents — at least those cited here — are increases in the Pointes, if not the state.

According to the Wayne County Department of Equalization, the Woods' total residential assessment had to be increased 12 percent. This year, the city broke the community down and assessed each section differently. Apparently, the Vernier Road section was drastically undervalued, according to the assessor.

Grosse Pointe City had to raise its residential assessments 16.25 percent. City Treasurer-Assessor Dennis Foran said he gave all homeowners an across-the-board increase, and his notices went out last week.

Though the City's increases were levied more uniform than those in the Woods, Foran said he has already gotten a lot of calls from residents, and he expects a lot of appeals to the Board of Review.

The Grosse Pointe City Board of Review will meet March 19 and 20 and will consider property owners' appeals by appointment only.

The average residential assessments in the Farms had to be raised 13.72 percent. Controller-Treasurer Carol Lock said he basically gave residential assessments a blanket 12 percent increase. There were some individual adjustments as well.

The Farms Board of Review met on March 13 and will reconvene March 17 at 9 a.m. on a first-come, first-served basis.

In the Park, the city's state equalized value of all residential property had to be increased 15.75 percent, according to the county's equalization department.

City Manager Dale Krajniak said the city just got through with a major reappraisal of all the homes. Therefore, as in the Woods, some properties went up a lot and others went up very little or even decreased. Krajniak said the largest increase in the

See TAXES, page 19A

Taxes going up?

Yes, but more for some than others

While the increase in assessments is interesting, the bottom-line concern, however, is Will my taxes go up?

The answer is yes. How much? It depends.

First off, the Truth in Taxation and Headlee Tax Limitation laws mandate that the revenue from property taxes not be allowed to increase by more than the inflation rate. Therefore, if a community's total state equalized value went up 16 percent but inflation was only 4.8 percent, then the tax rate — number of mills — has to be rolled back so that the increase in taxes is only 4.8 percent.

In a community where all the assessments went up the same amount, all property owners should only see a 4.8 percent increase in their taxes.

Where assessment increases vary from way above and below the average, however, some taxpayers will see large increases while others may even pay less in taxes.

Grosse Pointe City Treasurer-Assessor Dennis Foran points out that while the Truth in Taxation and Headlee laws try to keep taxes from going up more than inflation, many taxing bodies try to override the limitation. He said it's up to taxpayers to speak out at public hearings to prevent overrides from taking place.

So, the bottom line — Will your taxes go up? — yes, at least with inflation. Will they go up more than inflation? Probably, particularly if your assessment went up more than the city average.

Two firsts!

The Grosse Pointe News received two first place awards in the Suburban Newspapers of America 1990 Advertising and Promotion Awards contest.

The paper took top honors in the categories: Best Single Ad Using Process Color and Best Graphic Designed Classified Section.

The ad, for Edmund T. Ahee Jewelry Co., was cited by the judges for its "special color theme, beautiful presentation" and was termed "classy."

On the Classified Section, the judges said it was "indexed nice, easy to read and well laid out."

There were 782 entries from newspapers throughout the country. This is the first time the Classified Department submitted an entry for competition, going up against 156 entries.

Awards will be presented at the SNA Advertising Conference in Toronto in April.

State champs tell what title means to them

By Rob Fulton
Sports Editor

The University Liggett School hockey team won the Class B-C-D title Saturday in Flint, their first since 1980.

Minutes after they captured the title, they were asked what it meant to them. Their responses follow. (In the confusion, some players were inadvertently missed.)

Coach John Murphy: "I'm

happy for the boys. I'm going to Disney World."

Coach Jim Glovac: "All that hard work by the boys has paid off."

Coach John Fowler: "It's exciting to see the boys with huge grins on their faces."

Coach Harry Jewett: "Outstanding... Bless them!"

Doug Wood: "It's the greatest feeling I've ever had. We finally got it."

Tom Reynolds: "It means we're No. 1 and the best, most dedicated team in the state."

Larry Ayuuy: "We've been close in soccer and other sports, but now I'm a part of at least one championship team."

Jesse Kasom: "It was a tough road getting here, but it's just an indescribable feeling."

Jonathon Davis: "A lot of hard work and sacrifice have gone into this. I'm just so excited — we're No. 1."

Tripp Tracy: "We've been put down by a lot of teams in other classes, but this should prove how strong we are. Our team won when it had to."

Andrew VanDeWeghe: "It's the best feeling there is. We've come a long way and it doesn't get any better than this."

Mike Coello: "It feels too great to describe. It's just a great feeling and I'm happy for this entire team."

Stefan Teitge: "It means everything."

Jon Bell: "Means we're the best. It's a great accomplishment in my life."

Nick Giorgio: "It's a heck of a feeling. It was better than last night (vs. Sault Ste. Marie), and tell East Kentwood to come out anytime it wants to."

Bill Robb: "Everybody — except Rob Fulton — has been saying our defense is weak, but our last two games should prove them wrong."

Alex Crenshaw: "The whole season has been building up to this and now that it's here, I can't explain it."

Taxi driver reports fare

An Eastside cab driver called Farms police March 8 to report his female fare was in the act of shoplifting at Perry Drugs on the Hill.

When officers arrived at 11:58 a.m., they found the cab parked in the alley behind the store. The woman then came out of Perry's, and the Farms officer saw three boxes of condoms jammed into her jeans pocket. She had no receipt for the merchandise.

The officer then noticed that her designer purse was open and in plain view were several bottles of Neet hair remover and three more boxes of condoms. She also did not have a receipt for the items in her purse.

She was arrested for shoplifting. In the back seat of the cab was a bag containing merchandise from A.L. Price but no receipt.

The brother of the 39-year-old Detroit suspect said she had AIDS and other health problems. She was released on $1,000 personal recognizance bond.

Applications accepted for parks & rec

Grosse Pointe Park is accepting applications for the summer of 1990. Preferred applicants are energetic, friendly and hard-working.

The various positions available include gate personnel, marina workers, maintenance and lifeguards who have successfully completed CPR, standard first aid and the new lifeguard training course.

For more information or to apply, call the Grosse Pointe Park Recreation Department at 822-2812.

Defer burglars caught red-handed

After the motion detector alarms were set off at Defer Elementary School in Grosse Pointe Park at 12:06 p.m. March 4, police arrived at the school just in time to catch the suspects exiting a window.

The suspects had in their possession a video cassette recorder that had been taken from a third floor closet.

Woods invites seven cities to beautification conference

By John Minnis
Assistant Editor

Representatives from seven cities, including the Grosse Pointes, were invited to a region-wide beautification conference March 6.

The first such event was sponsored by the Grosse Pointe Woods Mayor's Beautification Advisory Commission, the old-timer of beautification commissions in the area.

"This is the first of what we hope will be an annual conference," said Jan Duster, a Woods Beautification Commission member and public relations director at Cottage Hospital, where the conference was held.

She said the purpose of the "7 Cities Beautification Conference" was to share experiences, learn from each other's successes and work together where appropriate.

The cities invited to the conference were Grosse Pointe Woods, Shores, Farms, City and St. Clair Shores. Grosse Pointe Shores was the only city that did not have representatives at the conference.

In all, some 50 people attended.

Five of the represented cities made presentations on what their communities were doing in their beautification efforts.

Angelo DiClemente, chairman of the Grosse Pointe Woods Beautification Commission, talked about his city's long history and commitment to beautification efforts. He outlined the commission's various annual projects, awards and fundraising activities. He stressed the importance of having a mayor and council committed to beautification.

Emilie Karczewski of St. Clair Shores said her city's beautification commission is in its second year. Her group has already given beautification awards to businesses, completed a new entrance for the city's Memorial Park and started a tree nursery program at local schools. She mentioned no beautification plans for Mack Avenue or Jefferson.

She said the St. Clair Shores group's main fundraisers are an annual dinner and a citywide garage sale.

Goody Semple of the Grosse Pointe Farms Beautification Commission said her city's commission is in its third year. The commission has worked with the Farms Foundation at Pier Park and was involved with the new parking lot on the Hill. She said more beautification plans for the Hill are being discussed. The Farms held its first awards program last year.

"In three years we feel we've done a visible job in improving the Farms," she said.

Edith Cook of Harper Woods said her city does not have a beautification commission, although she has pressed the mayor and council to create one. Cook, her husband and fellow members of the garden club plant and dig up bulbs throughout the city each year.

Lynn B. Crissman, chairwoman of the Grosse Pointe Park Beautification Commission, outlined the activities of her city's ambitious beautification efforts. The highlight of the Park commission's year is the annual awards ceremonies in November at the Tomkins Community Center.

The Park Beautification Commission's involvement varies from tree plantings to fighting Dutch elm disease to planting the city flower, the daffodil.

Several of the communities had photo displays and pamphlets available.

Following the presentations, the beautification representatives mingled and discussed their various volunteer efforts to make their communities better.

Some of the elected officials present were Park Mayor Palmer T. Heenan and Councilwoman Barbara Leonard Miller and City Councilwoman Myrna Smith.

Also present were Chris Bremer, administrative assistant in the City, and Farms City Clerk Richard Solak.

While Grosse Pointe City does not have a beautification commission, Councilwoman Smith said the council is considering creating one and probably will.

Lupus workshop planned

Lupus affects one out of 400 females between the ages of 13 and 40. Many cases go undiagnosed due to lack of awareness.

The Michigan Lupus Foundation is sponsoring a one-day workshop Saturday, March 17, at Sinai Hospital's Zukerman Auditorium. The workshop, an educational program for Lupus patients, their families and friends, will be held from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Advance registration is necessary. Voluntary registration fee is $10 single or $15 per couple, which includes lunch and book.

The workshop will consist of a talk on the basic facts about lupus, a film and slide presentation, talk by a local rheumatologist, and discussion of emotional reactions to chronic illness by a social worker. Material will be presented in easy-to-understand lay person's terms.

On the following day, Sunday, March 18, the Lupus Foundation will sponsor an awareness and screening day at the same location. It is open to the public at no charge and will run from 10:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. with speakers, films, and free literature available. A free screening test for lupus will be available for persons who are not already diagnosed with lupus.

To register for the workshop or for further information, call the Michigan Lupus Foundation at 26202 Harper Ave., St. Clair Shores, (313) 775-8310.

Fill 'er up

The grocery bags inserted in this week's Grosse Pointe News are meant to be filled, but not this way. It's just our newsroom's way of catching your eye to remind you that the fourth annual Kids Helping Kids Food Drive is under way and will continue through March 30.

The drive, to help the Gleaners Community Food Bank, netted 17,186 pounds of food last year from the Grosse Pointe public schools, St. Paul and St. Clare and three schools in Harper Woods. Organizers hope to top the 20,000-pound mark this year, according to Jack Grifo, coordinator of the drive and a Grosse Pointe City resident.

There are collection bins to drop off the filled bags at all Grosse Pointe public schools, Central Library and St. Paul and St. Clare schools. A total of 50 schools in the area are participating this year, with 17 from Grosse Pointe.

Monteith Elementary School collected the most food last year — 1,723 pounds — with Kerby Elementary coming in second with 1,470.

Parcells Middle School edged out Richard Elementary for third place by 1 pound. Parcells collected 1,071 pounds and Richard had 1,070 pounds.

This year Grifo is issuing a challenge to Grosse Pointe South and Grosse Pointe North high schools with a new kind of rivalry, "a love-in type of rivalry" to help improve the community.

Grifo spoke to the South

marketing class recently and plans to meet with students from North this week.

"The older one gets in school, the less likely he is to bring food for a drive," Grifo said. "But they're coming around — they see the need."

Last year South students donated 900 pounds of food to the drive while North students brought in 475 pounds.

Residents who find it inconvenient to fill the bag with food and drop it off can cut out the coupon on the bag and mail it in with a donation for a case of food. The cost of various food items is imprinted on the coupon.

The Gleaners, in its 12th year of serving the community, gives food to 180 non-profit agencies which, in turn, distribute it to the hungry.

Among the 180 member agencies are the Capuchin Soup Kitchen, Fort Street Presbyterian Church, Grateful Home, Sacred Heart Rehabilitation Center and the Salvation Army.

The Gleaners is located at 2131 Beaufait, Detroit, Mich. 48207. For more information, call 923-3535.

Major crime in the City declines slightly in 1989

By John Minnis
Assistant Editor

Major crime in Grosse Pointe City declined slightly last year, maintaining an even crime rate over the past several years.

There were 225 major crimes in 1989, down from 237 in 1988. There were 236 major crimes in 1987.

Major, or Part I, crimes according to FBI uniform reporting standards, are homicide, criminal sexual conduct, assault, robbery, burglary, larceny, auto theft and arson.

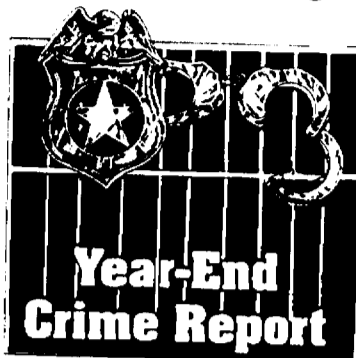

Public Safety Director Bruce Kennedy attributed the stable, low crime rate to the dedication of police patrols, the alertness of citizens who report suspicious activity and "luck." He explained that one professional burglar can send the crime statistics way up in a small community.

There were no reports of homicides, criminal sexual conduct or arson in the city last year or in 1988 and 1987. The only violent crime was one assault in 1989, down from three assaults in 1988. There were no assaults in 1987.

The number of robberies, burglaries, larcenies and auto thefts remained about the same over the past several years.

There were four robberies (two armed) in 1989, compared with three in 1988 and five in 1987. Burglaries totaled 22 last year, down from 27 the year before and 26 in 1987.

Larcenies (thefts) totaled 183 last year, about the same as 185 in 1988 and 191 in 1987. Auto thefts declined from 19 in 1988 to 15 last year.

There were 194 Part II, or minor, crimes last year, down from 218 such crimes in 1988 and 234 in 1987. Part II crimes include forgery, fraud, embezzlement, stolen property, vandalism, weapons violations, non-aggravated assault, gambling, drunk driving and disorderly conduct.

Of the minor crimes, 41 were for fraud, 71 for vandalism and 40 for drunk driving.

City officers issued 10,638 violations last year, including 8,831 parking meter tickets. Revenue from the violations totaled $95,784.

The officers made 290 arrests in 1989, down from 369 arrests the year before. Of last year's arrests, 36 were for felonies, 114 for misdemeanors and 75 were juveniles.

City police cars logged 129,528 miles and burned 11,298 gallons of gas, which figures out to be 11.5 miles per gallon.

In fire activity, the public safety officers made 102 runs, of which 27 were false alarms, 12 were to assist other cities and two were actual fires.

Fire losses in 1989 totaled $41,400, down from $298,480 in losses in 1988. In 1987, there were no fire losses in the city.

Last year the fire department bought a new 1,200-gallon pumper truck at a cost of $110,533. The new truck replaces the 26-year-old pumper that the city had also purchased new.

Grosse Pointe City's ambulance service is provided by Grosse Pointe Park.

Park residents, officials question efforts to block City Airport

By John Minnis
Assistant Editor

Grosse Pointe Park residents, concerned about the expansion of Detroit City Airport, let their fears be known to the City Council Monday night.

Resident Janice Skinner has started a petition drive in opposition to the airport, and she invited Warren officials, including Warren attorney Walter Jakubowski Jr., to address the council.

"We're looking for you to join the city of Warren to block the Detroit airport expansion," Jakubowski said. He offered to Park city officials the use of Warren's in-house legal staff in the fight against City Airport.

Park Mayor Palmer Heenan asked whether Warren has filed suit to block the expansion of the airport. Jakubowski said a suit is being considered, but the cost of a suit would be in the hundreds of thousands of dollars. He said Warren can't afford a legal fight alone, but with the help of other communities, it can be done.

"There's a clear and present danger for both of our communities," Jakubowski said. "Stop and think about what would happen if one of those big birds came in your community. How would you handle it?"

"We have to do what we have to do to protect the community."

Councilwoman Valerie Moran, who is a new member of the six-city Grosse Pointe-Harper Woods Airport Study Committee, proposed a resolution limiting the hours of operation of an expanded airport, the aircraft size and flight routes.

One resident, however, pointed out that she is having difficulty getting anyone to sign petitions with wording similar to that of the resolution. She said the residents want a petition in total opposition to the airport.

Heenan questioned whether the Park should take a stand, like the city of Warren, totally opposed to any expansion of City Airport.

Councilman Dan Clark said the Park should go on record as opposing an expansion of the airport. Councilman James Robson Jr. said the only resolution he would support is one in total opposition to the airport.

Mayor Pro Tem Vernon Ausherman questioned what appeared to him to be inactivity by the airport study committee to take an action in opposition to the airport. Moran said that even though she was appointed to the committee after being elected in November, the study committee has yet to have a meeting.

One resident said the problem with the committee is that it is a study committee, not an action group.

Former committee member Art Williams said following the meeting that it's time for city officials in the Pointes to stop looking to a committee to handle their airport problems. He said elected officials in the Pointes have to take an official stand and spend money to back up their position.

He points out that city officials are so concerned about spending money that the airport study committee couldn't even get printed stationery with its letterhead.

Williams suggested to the council that the Park withdraw from the study committee.

Skinner said Jack King, chairman of the study committee, was invited to Monday's meeting, but due to a death in the family, he couldn't attend. She said she will ask him to attend the next council meeting March 26.

Heenan said King should be allowed to speak before a decision is made concerning the Park's participation in the study committee. He also directed Moran to draft another resolution that would state the Park's total opposition to any expanded use of the airport. The new resolution will be considered at the next council meeting.

No violent crime, stolen cars in Shores again last year

By John Minnis
Assistant Editor

Once again, Grosse Pointe Shores police report that there were no violent crimes or cars stolen in the village during 1989.

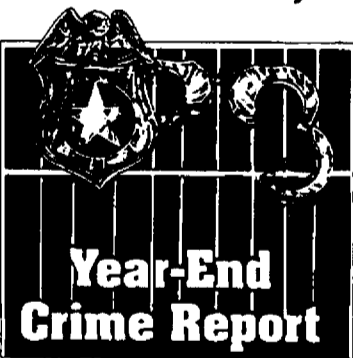

"It's been a good year," said Public Safety Chief Daniel Healy.

In the Shores in 1989, there were 34 major, or Part I, crimes. Part I crimes, according to FBI reporting standards, are homicide, criminal sexual conduct, assault, robbery, burglary, larceny, auto theft and arson.

In 1988, there were 30 major crimes.

There were no homicides, sex crimes, assaults or robberies reported last year. The only violent crimes in the last two years were two assaults reported in 1988.

There were five burglaries last year, compared to six the year before. Of the burglaries in 1989, four were committed in homes.

Larcenies were up last year: There were 29 thefts in 1989, up from 22 the year before. The increase came in the larceny over $200 category.

No cars were stolen in the Shores in 1989 or 1988. One car was taken in 1987.

No arsons have been reported in at least the last three years.

Among the minor, or Part II, crimes, vandalism more than doubled. There were 24 reports of vandalism in 1989, up from 11 the year before. Police said the cases of vandalism involved automobiles and the same perpetrators.

While there were more fire runs last year, the dollar value of fire losses was down. Shores public safety officers and auxiliary officers made 56 fire runs last year, up from 50 runs in 1988. Of last year's runs, 14 were structure fires.

The dollar value of structural fire losses was $22,650, down from $40,400 in structural losses in 1987.

The total number of citations issued by police in 1989 was more than the year before. Shores officers issued 2,041 tickets in 1989, up from 1,881 in 1988. Of the citations issued last year, 130 were for alcohol related offenses, including 68 drunk driving arrests.

Ambulance runs remained about the same over the past couple of years. There were 125 ambulance runs last year and 122 in 1988.

The Shores emergency medical service was enhanced last year with the addition of an automatic heart defibrillator donated by St. John Hospital. The electronic, computerized device went into operation with trained basic EMTs March 1.

Public safety officers made 11,596 checks of vacation homes last year, compared with 14,449 such checks the year before. Officers responded to 473 burglar alarms last year, down from the 500 alarms in 1988.

The officers investigated 3,049 individuals and 5,191 cars last year. During the previous year, 2,632 people and 4,912 cars were checked.

Decision expected soon in Farms ballot handling case

By Dan Jarvis
Staff Writer

A decision is expected soon in the case regarding charges of illegal ballot handling by Grosse Pointe Farms resident Irene Gracey.

The charges were handed down Oct. 5, 1989, by the Wayne County prosecutor following an investigation relating to Gracey's role in the Aug. 8 judicial primary in the Farms.

She was campaigning for her husband, Paul Gracey, who challenged incumbent Matthew Rumora in both the primary and general election. Rumora was victorious in both elections.

Rumora excused himself from hearing the proceedings since he was a candidate in the same race. The case was then moved to the 39th District Court in Roseville where Judge Mark Switalski reviewed the case and is expected to make a decision in the coming weeks. The misdemeanor charge carries a maximum penalty of 90 days in jail and/or a $500 fine.

Gracey was charged with illegal ballot handling because she allegedly received and carried an absentee primary ballot to a voter, then returned it to the Farms City Hall.

She was arraigned on two counts of unauthorized ballot possession of absentee ballots on Oct. 9 in the Grosse Pointe Farms Municipal Court before visiting Judge Frank Jeanette.

Richard Padzieski, chief of operations for the Wayne County prosecutor, said Gracey was charged after the prosecutor's office reviewed a Michigan State Police investigative report which contained 17 interviews of voters who cast absentee ballots.

Padzieski said the inconvenience suffered by voters required a proper response to protect the electoral process. The prosecutor later reduced the complaint to one charge of unauthorized possession of a single absentee ballot.

The Skillman Foundation is seeking grant proposals

Leonard Smith, president of The Skillman Foundation, announced that the foundation is seeking grant proposals to fund substance abuse prevention efforts in the Metropolitan Detroit area.

The foundation has issued a Request For Proposals to award grants in the range of $5,000 to $20,000 to eligible community-based organizations. Smith said the intent is to strengthen the community's response to drug abuse problems. Programs should target young persons and the disadvantaged and be primary prevention or early intervention programs.

Copies of the Request For Proposal and information on the foundation's initiative can be obtained by calling 961-8850.

The Skillman Foundation was founded in December 1960 by Rose P. Skillman, widow of Robert H. Skillman, vice president and director of Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing. The foundation is a private grant-making foundation with assets of $290 million. Located in Detroit, it makes grants in the program areas of Children, Youth and Young Persons; Basic Human Needs; Community-Wide Collaborative Efforts; Culture and Arts and Education.

Shores officer completes evidence technician course

Grosse Pointe Shores Public Safety Officer David Scheuer recently completed the evidence technician course at the Oakland Police Academy and was certified by the state.

Public Safety Chief Daniel Healy said Scheuer's instruction covered all aspects of locating and preserving evidence.

"I think having someone like this at the crime scene will greatly enhance the collection of evidence," Healy said.

The course required 100 hours of training. Scheuer is the first in the department to become a state-certified evidence technician.

Free eye test offered

The Grosse Pointe Eye Center will hold a free eye screening to assist in the early detection of cataracts and glaucoma Thursday, March 29, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at 20845 Mack Avenue, Grosse Pointe Woods. Screenings will be performed by trained, certified ophthalmic technologists and technicians.

No appointment is necessary. For more information, call the Grosse Pointe Eye Center at 885-4987.

Racial justice center activities set

The center received 600 essays and 150 posters from local students. The essays are now being read and judges will be receiving the top entries shortly.

Serving as judges this year are Betty DeRamus of The Detroit News; Dr. Alfreda Frost, director of elementary curriculum for the Grosse Pointe Public School System; Dr. John Porter, superintendent of the Detroit Public School System; Edward Shine, superintendent of the Grosse Pointe Public School System; Neal Shine of the Detroit Free Press; the Rev. Norman Thomas, pastor of Sacred Heart Church; and Richard Wright, Department of Journalism at Wayne State University.

Judges for the poster contest are Bill Day and Pat Duff. Among the volunteers serving as readers are University Liggett social studies students, under the tutelage of Peter Imsdahl.

Anger can help

"Make Anger Your Ally," a single-session class scheduled by Community Education, has been scheduled for 7 p.m. Tuesday, March 27.

"Nice people get angry," instructor Janet Dunn said. "Buried under the mask of anger is the longing to be understood, to be close. Unmasking anger isn't hard once you understand the dynamics."

The class will be held at Barnes School, 20090 Morning-side Drive, Grosse Pointe Woods. Fee is $6. Call 343-2178 for information.

with a series of cultural activities, climaxed with a tour of Detroit March 3, led by Stewart McMillin.

Today, March 15, John Fillion will moderate a group discussion of 1989 Supreme Court decisions that affect race relations. The discussion is open to all. It's at 7:30 p.m. in the center office located in the annex behind Grosse Pointe Unitarian Church, 17150 Maumee, Grosse Pointe.

The center is sponsoring its major fundraiser of the year, Auction Unlimited, to be held Saturday, March 17, at the War Memorial.

Cost is $15 a person with advance reservations, $20 at the door, and includes an hors d'oeuvres buffet, dessert and libations. Call 882-6464 for reservations.

Bush expects state taxes to fund highway improvements

It has finally become clear that President George Bush's celebrated campaign emphasis on "Read my lips: no new taxes" does not refer to state support for the highway system.

Instead, the Bush administration is pressuring the states to increase their gasoline taxes in order to pick up a larger share of the burden of building and maintaining their own highways.

Whereas the federal government once paid up to 90 percent of the cost of some projects, the Bush administration now wants to limit the federal share to perhaps 50 percent. And with respect to the federal gasoline tax, the Bush admonition prevails: No new taxes and no increases in current rates.

In fact, the federal highway trust fund is still maintaining a balance from which the U.S. Transportation Department would finance increased spending on 160,000 miles of highways considered significant because they connect population and economic centers.

(As in the case of the Social Security fund surplus, the administration has been holding much of the surplus to shield the size of its budget deficit.)

But while another 740,000 miles of other roads would remain eligible for federal aid, the administration is drafting new legislation to shift the responsibility for those routes to state and local governments. And that's when the Washington support for increased state fuel taxes, more state toll roads and more local financing will be emphasized.

The highway program is just one of the many services for which the federal government is cutting its participation and shifting responsibility to state and local governments and in some cases to private enterprise.

As a consequence, more than half of the states are battling serious budget problems as they approach the final months of the current fiscal year, according to a New York Times report.

The decline in federal support for many mandated programs is one cause of the state deficits. For example, Congress is being widely blamed for forcing states to pay for costly new Medicaid services, but Bush's stand against federal taxes also makes it more difficult to raise state and local taxes.

However, the Times reported that public finance experts put the primary blame for the states' revenue shortages on the slowing of the national economy which has been far worse than expected and on the inability of state budget forecasters to warn of the declines in the economy and revenue.

Michigan is one of the states experiencing a severe cash shortage which has required Gov. James Blanchard to make an across-the-board cut in the state budget this year. But Michigan is better off than most of the New England states which are facing monumental deficits.

Under the circumstances, however, the prospects are that Michigan's roads will continue to deteriorate, new highway construction will continue on a limited basis and nobody in Lansing will make any serious effort to propose any new or higher taxes on gasoline or anything else — except perhaps higher "sin" taxes on liquor and tobacco — whatever the fiscal needs of important state services.

It's hardly an exhibition of state leadership by either party.

A grab for county power

When Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara recently said he might run for governor in 1994 if James Blanchard didn't seek re-election — assuming his victory in 1990 — McNamara opened the door for an attempted grab of power by the Wayne County Commission.

Several commissioners saw the McNamara comment as an opportunity for the commission to regain some of the executive and administrative power it lost to the county executive under the county charter and, at the same time, an opportunity for a commissioner to succeed to the executive's job.

What they propose amounts to an effort to deprive the deputy county executive, now Michael Duggan, of the opportunity to succeed McNamara in the event the county executive quits early to seek the governorship. The charter now permits the executive to make the appointment of a successor to serve until the next general election.

The commissioners say they would prefer as a successor someone who has already been approved by county voters, such as, of course, the commissioners themselves. So they propose as an alternative that they be permitted to designate one of their members to serve as executive for 120 days or until a special election is held.

What they didn't say, of course, is that the procedure would, if followed, give the commissioner who is appointed an excellent chance of being returned in the election because he would be the incumbent. And in Wayne County elections, incumbents regularly are returned to office unless their records become too much of an albatross.

This proposal looks like a new attempt by some commissioners to grab back part of the administrative and executive power the county charter shifted to the county executive's office. Before they buy this idea, voters with long memories ought to focus on the kind of government Wayne County had in the pre-charter days.

It was based on nepotism, political favoritism and other practices that served county officials and their employees better than they did the people of Wayne County. Even a small move to involve the county commission in administrative and executive matters ought to be resisted because it could be the beginning of an all-out effort to bring back the old discredited spoils system.

The end justifies the means?

Now that three-quarters of all Americans live in states with government lotteries, it is regarded as almost un-American to criticize what has been called our "painless tax."

Yet two researchers from Duke University have challenged the national addiction to lotteries by minimizing their contribution to state revenues — about the equivalent of a one-cent hike in the sales tax in most states — and contending "the lottery boom is simply contributing to the general rise in commercial gambling."

That view is expressed in a new book, "Selling Hope," by Charles T. Clotfelter and Philip J. Cook, which reminds the public that lotteries constitute a regressive tax because they prey on the poor, minorities and impressionable youth.

As an example, George Weeks, Detroit News political writer, cited a comment in the Washington Monthly by Peter Luke, a Booth Newspapers reporter, that per capita lottery sales in the inner city of Detroit are three times higher than in the suburbs.

In fact, the book points out that the reach of the state lotteries is still being extended since at least one state lottery is now making a connection with professional football in the hope of broadening its public appeal.

In a fact sheet touting the economic benefits of the lottery, the Michigan Lottery cites its support to education as well as its contribution to jobs, taxes and retailers' income.

The fact sheet, of course, ignores the odds against winning and the social costs stemming from the lottery addicts who waste the family income, the youngsters who spend their lunch money on tickets and the evidence that the lottery undermines the work and savings ethic at a time when the nation needs supports for both.

The bottom line is what counts these days and in Gov. James Blanchard's new budget the state is counting on $502.5 million in lottery revenues, or more than half a billion dollars, after totalling $481 million for support of K-12 education in 1989.

In such matters, it's the end that's important, regardless of the means used to achieve it. In effect, we encourage gambling to finance education. What a commentary on government and ourselves.

Signs of the times in U.S.

Two news stories in the Feb. 22 issue of the New York Times offer some interesting signs of the times.

One reported the building by a commodity trader of a 60-room family weekend country house in Fairfield County, Conn., so large that the Times pictured it vertically to show it was 200 feet long, the equivalent of a New York City block.

The same day the Times reported that Drexel Burnham Lambert Inc. had paid perhaps as much as $260 million in bonuses to executives in the weeks before the collapse of the firm's parent, the Drexel Burnham Lambert Group, which filed for bankruptcy on Feb. 13.

Pairing the two stories only serves to illustrate the amount of money being made in the markets before the decline in business led to bankruptcies, firm closings, layoffs and losses for a great many people.

Grosse Pointe has had its share of grand homes in past years but a 60-room, 200-foot-long weekend and summer house? That's bizarre, but perhaps it merely reflects a 1990 symbol of Thorstein Veblen's "conspicuous consumption."

Referring to the Drexel bonuses, someone paraphrased Lord Acton's famous remark this way: "Money corrupts and an absolutely staggering amount of money corrupts absolutely." The comment does apply to Wall Street's excesses.

Letters

Ruth

To the Editor:

During Current Events class, the junior high students at Our Lady Star of the Sea Elementary School became concerned about losing Ruth, the only elephant left at the Detroit Zoo. They all feel that the removal of this elephant would be a great loss to future generations.

The students have sent a letter to the director of the Detroit Zoo and have collected signatures hoping to save this elephant for posterity.

We hope this note will bring our concern to the attention of other students and parents in this area.

Everyone needs a friend. No matter if that is an animal or a person. We all enjoy having a friend or friends. Can you imagine if no one was nice to you, or you had no friends, or family, or no one to laugh with, talk with, and just be there for you? Elephants need a companion too, that understands him or her.

At the Detroit Zoo we have a large population of the same kind of animals such as black rhinoceroses. Why don't we trade with another zoo that has a small population of rhinoceroses and in return get another elephant? Ruth is the only elephant left at the Detroit Zoo. She needs someone to understand her and be her friend so she won't be lonely. What if the kids of today's generation grow up never knowing what an elephant looked like? Let's keep the elephant and get a companion for Ruth.

Unprecedented

To the Editor:

On Tuesday, Feb. 27, over 800 people gathered in the Performing Arts Center to hear Dr. Bruce Baldwin. His message, "How to Avoid Parent Burnout," was enthusiastically received by the group. School and community worked together to bring about this program aimed at benefiting all Grosse Pointe.

On behalf of the PTO Council, I would like to thank the Grosse Pointe News for its part in this unprecedented event.

Parking

To the Editor:

My family and I are relative newcomers to Grosse Pointe, but since moving here seven years ago, have taken as much of our business as possible to the Hill and Village. I have read numerous letters in your column from unhappy Grosse Pointers, who say they will never shop on the Hill again because of the parking situation, and although I've always sympathized with them, I felt they were being a little drastic in their tactics.

No longer!

Yesterday, a neighbor and I took another neighbor to ONE23 for a celebratory birthday lunch. After spending $40 there, they informed me they do not stamp the tickets for the parking in the back. Of course not! Why would they accommodate their patrons when they'd much rather have you pay $3 for their valet service? Today I bought $3 worth of candy at Life's Delight, to learn they also do not validate the parking tickets and then I went to Perry's and spent $4.80, and was told they won't validate them, either, unless you spend at least $5!

To say the least, this isn't good for the patron's morale. Considering the real estate taxes we pay here, and the fact that you can't even park without it costing you money, is insulting and makes Grosse Pointe seem much less than the ideal community we once thought it was. In the Village, at least, you can walk into the stores that do validate the parking tickets, and get them stamped without pur-

Following directions

Some things come with precise, detailed directions.

Like refrigerators. My new GE model TCX20 arrived carrying a 16-page "Use and Care Guide." All the stuff I needed to know about this refrigerator could have been stuck to the door with a magnet: "Plug in. Fill with food."

The booklet told me more than I'll ever need to know about model TCX20. Things like:

- Use this appliance only for its intended purpose.
- Do not install the refrigerator on a floor that's not strong enough to support a fully loaded refrigerator.

• If the refrigerator has an odor... check for spoiled food. Duh.

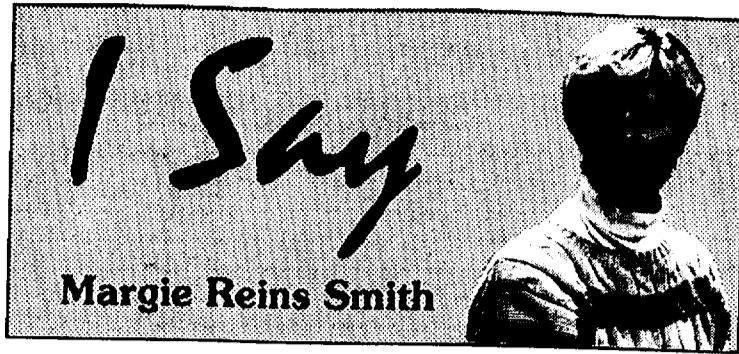

My electric knife came packed in a miniature Styrofoam coffin with a 32-page book: "Slice and Carve like a Master Chef." Definitely a page-turner. Something to curl up with on a winter evening.

Some things come without directions.

Like false eyelashes. Like kids.

Babies don't even come with a change of clothes, for Pete's sake. They last lots longer than refrigerators, they're more complicated than electric knives, and they're infinitely more precious.

Do parents get a use and care guide? Nope. It's sink-or-swim-figure-it-out-for-yourselfes-solong-suckers.

After a few brushes with stuff like the refrigerator instructions, most of us tend to ignore how-to booklets.

When we purchase a "some assembly required" item, for instance, we rip into the package and bumble along, attaching wire A to lug B, aligning bolts D, E and F and tightening the wing nuts to the auxiliary spudgits and the right and left widgets.

We don't turn off the water supply. We don't turn off the electricity.

We don't check to see if we are assembling model 333, 333/SS, 77, or PV1600.

We don't care if we have 300 ohm twin-lead cables or ohm triple-left forks, we just fiddle around until the thing is assembled.

Or until the thing is hopelessly muddled. Then we settle down and read the directions.

Like false eyelashes.

I bought three pairs of false eyelashes, tongue in cheek, for my three daughters as stocking stuffers last Christmas.

Their reactions were something like, "Ho hum," "Yawn," and "Uh, Gee, thanks Mom."

So I decided to try these things myself.

I charged ahead. I ripped open the box, peeled the little insect-like things off the plastic insert, squirted the glue on the edges, slapped them on my eyelids.

Again. And again. And again.

They slid up. And down. The ends kept popping off. The glue smeared. The lashes were so long I couldn't keep my eyes open. They looked like plastic spiders.

Finally I read the directions.

The directions were about as detailed as the ones that came with the kids. But — at the bottom of the page was this helpful zinger: "Avoid contact with open flame or heat."

Nuts. While I'm wearing these dudes, I won't be able to poke lighted matchsticks into my eyes.

Looking for talent

Put on your dancing slippers, limber up your piano fingers, fine-tune your singing voices and fill out an entry form for the 1990 Renaissance Center Talent Contest.

Applications for auditions are now being accepted. Participants must work in downtown Detroit and be at least 18 years old.

Performances should be three minutes long. Renaissance Center will provide the stage, piano and sound system, including cassette tape player. All other materials for the performance must be provided by the talented one.

Finalists will perform at the 1990 Renaissance Center Talent contest on April 11, from noon until 1 p.m., in the Jefferson Avenue Atrium.

The winner will receive a first place trophy and a $250 gift certificate from the stores of Renaissance Center. Second place winner will take home a $100 gift certificate. Third place finisher gets a $50 gift certificate.

Tom Ryan of WOMC-FM will host the event, which is one of several festivities celebrating the Renaissance Center's 13th birthday.

Entry forms are available at the RenCen information booth in the Jefferson Avenue Atrium. They must be returned at the RenCen Venture office, 100 Renaissance Center, 14th floor, Detroit, 48243, by 4 p.m., on March 19.

Entrants must be able to audition on March 27 and 28 between 4 and 8 p.m.

The green icing shaped like a shamrock on top of your cupcake may not be so festive after all.

According to the Feingold Association of the United States, a non-profit organization dedicated to helping children with problems such as attention deficit disorder (ADD) and hyperactivity, food colorings are often produced artificially from petroleum and researchers have found that synthetic dyes can trigger reactions such as asthma, headaches and hives in adults and learning and behavior problems in sensitive children.

Use green plastic shamrocks for your white-frosted cupcakes, they say.

Just make sure the little nippers don't eat the plastic.

To learn more about how you can locate foods free of petroleum-based dyes, send a long, self-addressed stamped envelope

Soup scoop

Michigan residents are invited to compete in Souper Bowl II, a contest to find the state's best soups and to showcase its agricultural products.

The contest — now in its second year — has two categories: one for professional chefs employed by Michigan restaurants and one for amateur chefs age 16 or older.

Recipes may contain veggies, fruit, fish or meat, but must be made entirely of Michigan food products.

The winner in each category gets $500.

Deadline to submit written entries is April 13.

Five finalists will be selected in each category and a final judging panel will do their thing at 11 a.m. on Thursday, May 17, at Kalamazoo's Black Swan Restaurant.

Recipes should be marked amateur or professional and should include name, address, telephone number and directions for four servings. Mail entries to Souper Bowl Contest, AAA Michigan Public Relations, One Auto Club Drive, Dearborn, 48126.

chase. But to be told today in Perry's, a store where I spend a considerable amount of money every month, that I had spent 20 cents too little to "qualify" for free parking, was the final straw that broke this camel's back.

I wonder if the "great minds" who make up these rules are morons or what. Don't you?

Taxes

To the Editor:

(Editor's note: The following was sent to Woods administrators and is being printed here at the writer's request.)

Being one of your electing constituents from Grosse Pointe Woods, I hope you will listen to me when I say I am extremely distressed by my most recent property assessment by the city. In 1989 my assessment was $55,755; in 1990 it is being increased to $101,179. Just for the record that is an 87.39 percent increase. My home is valued in the $125,000 - $135,000 range; Grosse Pointe Woods is now telling me that I have land property alone valued at $161,084.00, and that my house is valued at $52,530.00.

I have done considerable research at the City Hall of Grosse Pointe Woods and have found some major inconsistencies in their methods of assessment. Who has the time to do all that is required to fight an issue such as this? There is every evidence that my taxes will double, simply because Grosse Pointe Woods has decided to play Russian Roulette with their constituents. My family is very upset not to mention the neighborhood I am in and the real estate brokers who are stuck between a rock and a hard place because of these inconsistencies.

Why is my land being rated at 1400 percent and my neighbors at 810 to 1010 percent? If an individual is going to live in a community, shouldn't taxes be 10, 12 or 14 percent across the board instead of only a few paying the highest percent increases. Grosse Pointe Woods is being assessed by districts, whatever that is. Believe it or not, I have neighbors who have assessments that have actually decreased. Some of these individuals have actually increased the value of their homes by additions to their homes. Where is the sense in this? Isn't it the building on the land with or without improvements that is to be taxed? Obviously I now am stuck with a house on a piece of property that I can do nothing about except wait and fight when and where I can for what I feel is right. What good is a piece of property in my backyard? I can't subdivide it. Who would buy it now anyway?

My city assessor, Gerald McNamara, said to me, "You've been undertaxed for years." That may be so but what makes it right to tax us in excess of the majority of the community when it is the assessor's office which obviously isn't doing an adequate job of keeping their field and fact sheets updated. I can show that our taxes have risen every year we have lived at this address for the last eight years. That being from 4 percent to 13 percent each of those eight years.

I certainly would appreciate your efforts to assist in clearing up this obvious error. I feel my only recourse is to appeal to the Board of Review, Grosse Pointe Woods and hope to be treated fairly. If I should fail with that approach, I will appeal to the Michigan Tax Tribunal. I feel this would be a significant hardship to accept such a ridiculously high increase. Not to mention a significant hardship in terms of time, money, and effort having to make a case for one's self and an emotional and physical expenditure as well. When you are working part time, going to college and trying to raise two decent children, it is not easy to take hours and hours to clear up a mess like this has become.

Thank you for reading this letter. I am also writing to the lieutenant governor, attorney general, Sen. John Kelley, Rep. William Bryant, Grosse Pointe Woods mayor, city administrator, and assessor. The officials of this fine state had better realize just how upset, justifiably, their voting constituents are and act on rectifying this situation pronto.

Honoring

The Mothers' and Dads' Clubs of Grosse Pointe South High School recently honored artist Edgar Louis Yaeger, the artist who 52 years ago painted the murals in Cleminson Hall. A plaque describing the murals were commissioned by the Works Progress Administration sponsored by Franklin Delano Roosevelt. The reception, held March 5, included a chance to meet Yaeger and see reproductions of other works by Yaeger. At the event were, from left, school board President Jon Gandelot, Dads' Club President John McSorley, Mothers' Club President Peggy Davis, Yaeger, and South High Principal John Artis.

Memories of an Irish Father

By Donna Moran
Special Writer

Whenever St. Patrick's Day draws near, memories of my father, Michael Moran, begin to creep into my mind. Although he spent most of his life in Detroit, his family came from Calway, Ireland, and, in many ways he never left the land of his ancestors.

He thought of himself as a lucky fellow, who could always find a four leaf clover in a patch of weeds, just waiting for him to pluck away to put in his wallet for good luck. When I was a child, he'd often give one to me and I still carry one in my purse at all times.

The one I have now is embossed in the center of a round plastic disk and comes in handy for a keychain. But I don't use it for that. I'm not certain that it's a lucky charm, either, although I'm sure that my Dad might dispute that. Mainly, I take it out every now and then and hold it. It makes me feel that I take my father's memory with me, wherever I go.

He had a shillelagh, too, that was painted green and hung on a nail in the rec room. Although he sometimes hinted strongly to my brother and me that it could be used for purposes other than a walking stick, it was never taken off the wall. It was only used for a conversation piece, and was a reminder to him of his "roots" in the "auld sod."

My Dad was a stickler for traditions and rituals, and, in his later years, became obsessed with funerals. He thought of them as "going out" parties, and attended as many as possible, even if he was only slightly acquainted with the main person involved. "Paying one's last respects" was a final courtesy and part of the "grand send-off" to the "other side."

Like many Irishmen, he wanted to "go-out" in grand style, with the biggest wake in town, to remember him by. He visualized limousines lined up in front of Verheyden's Funeral Home, with not enough parking spaces for all the people who would come to say one last goodbye. How they all would miss him!

In his mind's-eye, he pictured them all standing around in their Sunday clothes, smiling through their tears, as they remembered what a fine fellow he'd been. The bowing crowd from the DYC would be there, swapping stories of his exploits at the club. And the families of the people who worked at his manufacturing plant in Poletown might remember that, even in hard times, he always met a payroll.

Maybe some of the boys that he sponsored for the Moran Shamrocks baseball team that played at Belle Isle, so long ago, would remember that he'd given them their first baseball mitts.

He hoped that the newspapers would honor him, too, with an article in the obituary column. He was proud of how he'd built up his business "from scratch" in Depression times and hoped that it would mention that he was in "Who's Who" in the big blue book of the National Association of Manufacturers.

Hopefully, there'd be a long funeral procession, blazing a trail through rush hour traffic, with headlights turned to "high," flags flying on front fenders and beeping horns all the way to the cemetery. Then the whole town would know what an important person he had been to the community and how he was loved by all who knew him.

Afterward, there'd be a grand party, with plenty of food and drink for all and maybe a little sad singing of "Tura-lura-lura" and "My Blue Heaven" around the piano. It was to be his "Last Hurrah" — the final applause for his last performance on the "stage" we call Earth.

My Dad "passed away," as the Irish say, several years ago. It was a quiet funeral, for family only. Some people didn't even know he was gone — but might think of him on St. Patrick's Day, as I do, each year.

I still carry a four leaf clover (and my father's memory) in my purse at all times. Wherever I go — it goes with me. Love has no time or place. It is in our hearts and is with us, always. For me, it is there, particularly, on St. Patrick's Day. Whenever I see a patch of clovers among some weeds, I think of my Dad, and of my own heritage, too. Some things can never be taken away. Love is one of them. Being Irish is another.

The writer, who was born in Grosse Pointe, now lives in Houston.

Issues to be resolved: Property tax relief, school tax reform

I have filed to run for re-election this year. It continues to be an honor and pleasure to represent you in the legislature. I am hopeful, also, that the Democrats will be less likely, with me there, to try to chop up the Grosse Pointes in the legislative reapportionment process following the census.

There are also two major unfinished issues crucial to our area, issues I would hope could be wholly solved or at least partially solved this year, but which probably will not be. I want to continue to be active in pushing for their solutions. Those issues are property tax relief and school finance reform.

We have passed through the House, to the Senate, legislation to cut property taxes in two ways, legislation which would implement a proposal by the governor for a limitation on assessment increases and implement the House Republican proposal to increase the property tax credit limit from $1,200 to $2,600.

Assessments, mine included, are going up a lot this year. Remember, though, that each city council and the school board must cut the millage so they do not take any more revenue than they did last year, unless they give public notice, hold a public hearing, at which you have a right to speak, and then vote to levy millage that will increase your taxes and take in more revenue for the city or schools. This process is, in addition to the protections of the Headlee amendment, called Truth in Taxation and is mandated by Public Act 5 of 1982.

The legislature enacted the Truth in Taxation Act because local officials like to try to blame high property taxes on the state, but the state doesn't levy or spend property taxes, and assessments, by themselves, do not result in taxes. Millage rates as applied to assessments, equal taxes, and the millage rates are totally subject to local control. If your property taxes are too high, then question your local officials.

Advocate to speak

The Michigan Association For Children & Adults With Learning Disabilities will present a program by Robin Friedman on "Advocating For Your Child," Tuesday, March 20, at 7:30 p.m. at Central Library.

Friedman is a professional advocate with the Michigan Protection and Advocacy agency. The Protection and Advocacy agencies are a nationwide network of federally mandated agencies which protect the educational and civil rights of all handicapped citizens. In addition to direct advocacy services, the agency provides training for parents interested in advocating for youngsters in their own area.

Friedman will offer guidelines and strategies for parents to use when they represent their child. MACLD programs are open to the public at no charge.

State Representative

But even though property taxes are local, I am hopeful we can provide property tax relief at the state level. Contact Senator Kelly about the House-based property tax relief bill. It provides $400 million in property tax relief and can be passed by the Senate without raising other taxes.

From space seeds to laser discs, science brings the future to life

By Ronald J. Bernas
Staff Writer

Bill Leleszi gets excited when he talks about science. The excitement is contagious and he hopes the students catch it.

One example of the excitement is the tomato seeds from space which Brownell students are planting this week.

In 1984, the Challenger launched several pounds of seeds into space; they were supposed to stay in space a year and then be recovered and planted to see the effects of weightlessness. The Challenger disaster kept the seeds in space longer than first anticipated, but they were recovered recently and last week were shipped to schools throughout the country.

Leleszi, chairman of the Brownell science department, applied to receive 50 of the seeds — the maximum allowed per school by NASA — about the time the seeds were launched and was informed he would receive the seeds in 1985.

"We've included the whole school in this project," Leleszi said. "NASA said each school is to design its own projects, so last week we asked teachers to talk to their students about what they wanted to do with the seeds."

The school will receive 100 seeds, 50 from space and 50 as a control. Student ideas included varying the amount of fertilizer, the amount of light, and even analyzing the tomato produced to see if it differed in content from another tomato.

"The kids have been real excited about this," he said. "We're videotaping the entire project; we started last week when some students volunteered to wash the growing tables. They know that this is a very special project, a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity.

We've even had parents ask to come in and see the project."

In order to make sure the project would work, Leleszi asked for some advice from Dr. Cynthia Fellman, director of horticulture for Frank's Nursery and Crafts. She saw the importance of the experiment and gave the school sanitary soil so the seeds have the best possible chance to grow.

The seeds were scheduled to arrive today, March 15, and will be planted as soon as possible.

At about the same time Leleszi applied to NASA for the seeds, he became involved with laser discs. He said he is so excited about the discs he has offered classes on their potential uses.

For example, when the recent earthquake devastated the San Francisco Bay area, the students had a chance to look at the area from a satellite's viewpoint, and were able to see the faults beneath the ocean floor. They saw Brownell's site from a satellite's eye, too.

Encyclopedia Britannica has recently created a set of encyclopedias on laser discs which costs approximately the same as a set of books, but has infinitely more resources, including video footage of actual news events and speeches, including John F. Kennedy's inaugural address, and

Martin Luther King Jr.'s "I have a dream" speech.

If, for instance, a student wants to know how a certain bird sounds, the disc has its call recorded. Each laser disc holds the equivalent of 400 slide trays each containing 100 slides, Leleszi said.

"The potential for use of this in an educational setting is phenomenal," Leleszi said.

Additionally, Leleszi helped National Geographic write a computer program titled "The Weather Machine" which shows weather patterns across the country and is updated twice daily.

The computers, the laser discs and the disc players were purchased with money collected in school fundraisers.

Errant wrecker driver stopped again in Shores

The 33-year-old Harper Woods man charged with driving head-on into a car on Lakeshore and charged with drunk driving Jan. 6 was again stopped by Shores police March 11. This time he could be charged with cocaine possession.

The officers stopped the man at 3:35 a.m. when he was clocked at 51 m.p.h. northbound on Lakeshore. According to police reports, he was swerving excessively from side to side. He registered a .163 on the portable breath test, but refused a Breathalyzer at the station.

After arresting the man for drunk driving, officers made a routine search inside the vehicle and saw on the floor in front of the driver's seat a small vial typically used for cocaine. The suspected narcotic was sent to the Michigan State Police for analysis, and the man could be charged with possessing cocaine.

At the station, police thought the man's name seemed familiar, and a check revealed that he was the driver of the wrecker that was going the wrong way on Lakeshore at 8:51 a.m. Jan. 6 and smashed head-on into a car driven by a St. Clair Shores man. At the time he was found to have a blood alcohol level of .15. Legally drunk is .10.

His January drunk driving charge is still pending in court. He was released on $100 bond for the latest incident.

Harper Woods police arrest Park suspect

A juvenile suspect in the Feb. 13 burglary of a home in the 1400 block of Lakepointe was arrested by Harper Woods police March 6.

The Harper Woods officers, acting on information from Park detectives, arrested the runaway who was from the Park. During the arrest, the juvenile was found to be carrying marijuana and a pellet pistol that was a replica of a .357 magnum revolver with a 6-inch barrel.

The youth was charged with breaking and entering.

Woman flashes Woods diners

A 45-year-old woman who repeatedly exposed herself to Red Lobster customers at 7:36 p.m. March 9 was detained by an off-duty Detroit policeman until Woods officers arrived.

According to police reports, the woman wasn't wearing pants and kept running in and out of the bathroom. She said she had nowhere to live and was under psychiatric treatment. She gave the name of a physician at Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital.

She said she has a son who lives in Detroit, but he kicked her out of the house a long time ago and she's been living in the streets ever since. She also said she was pregnant, full-term, and her water broke two days earlier.

Officers believed she was pregnant and had a psychiatric disorder. She was transported to the Woods police station, given a meal and then taken to psychiatric unit at Detroit Receiving Hospital.

Volunteers sought for diabetes study

The Detroit Medical Center is looking for individuals with diabetes for a six-year study involving the use of tolrestat, a medication believed to either prevent or delay the onset of eye and kidney disease related to diabetes.

The study is made possible through a $1.2 million grant awarded to George Grunberger, M.D., director of the diabetes program at Harper and Grace Hospitals. Robert Frank, M.D., of the Kresge Eye Institute, is a co-investigator in the eye studies.

The research team is looking for individuals with either insulin dependent or non-insulin dependent diabetes. Participants will receive free medical care, medications and supplies. Free eye examinations at the Kresge Eye Institute will also be provided, as part of the study. Participants must meet the following criteria:

- Have Type I (insulin dependent) or Type II (non-insulin dependent) diabetes mellitus.
- Be between the ages of 18 and 70.
- Be at or above their ideal body weight and not have any serious medical complications.

For more information, call Melissa Baker, R.N., clinical research coordinator, at 745-1783.

Grief support seminar scheduled

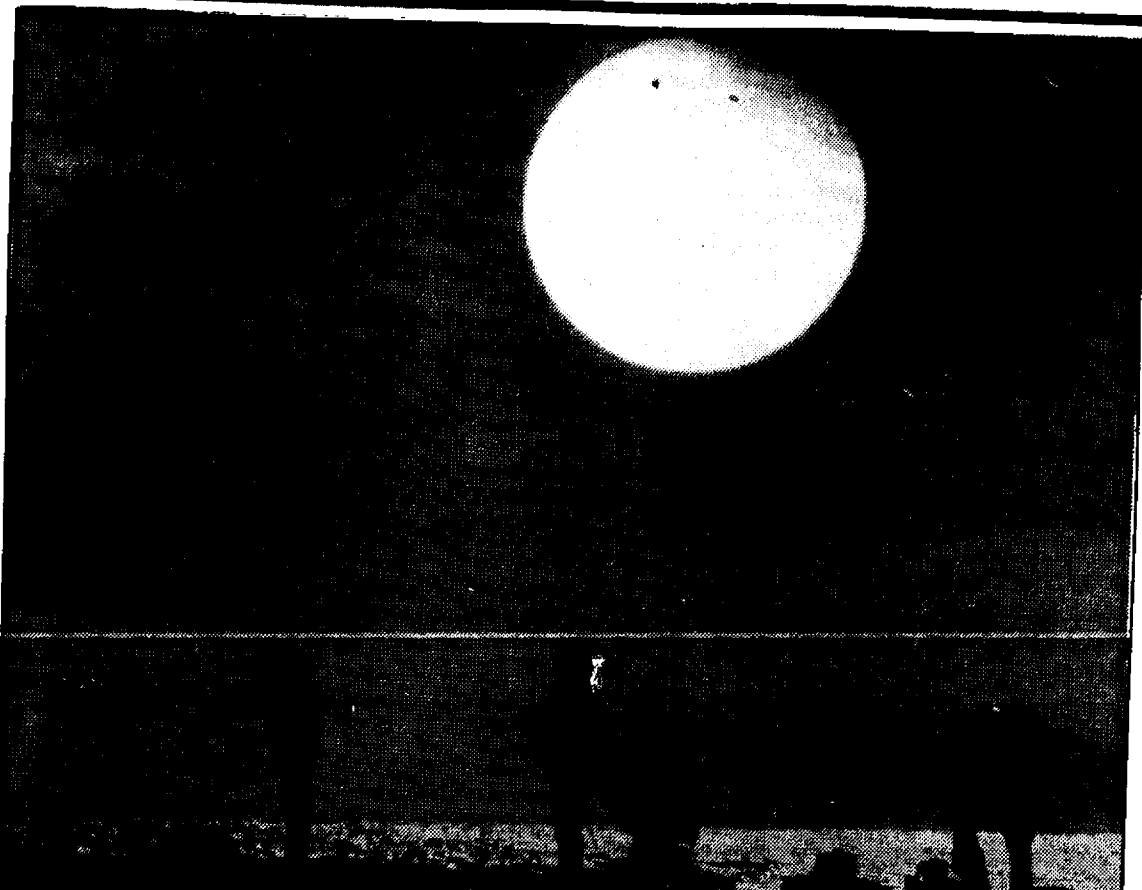

The War Memorial, in cooperation with New Beginnings, will present a six-week seminar offering understanding and guidance to those who have lost a loved one. The seminar will be held on Tuesdays, March 20-April 24, from 7 to 9 p.m.

The seminar is offered as a community service. Participants are welcome to bring friends for additional comfort and support as they begin to deal with the grief process with the guidance of a trained facilitator.

There is no charge for the seminar. Those wishing to attend should call the War Memorial at 881-7511, Monday - Saturday, 9 a.m. - 9 p.m. to be placed on the reservation list. Donations are requested.

Following the seminar, weekly support groups will meet at the War Memorial on Tuesday evenings.

The sun was not there in the initial photograph of the fishermen. Monte Nagler "placed" it there to achieve a dazzling result in this slide sandwich.

Sandwich your slides for impact

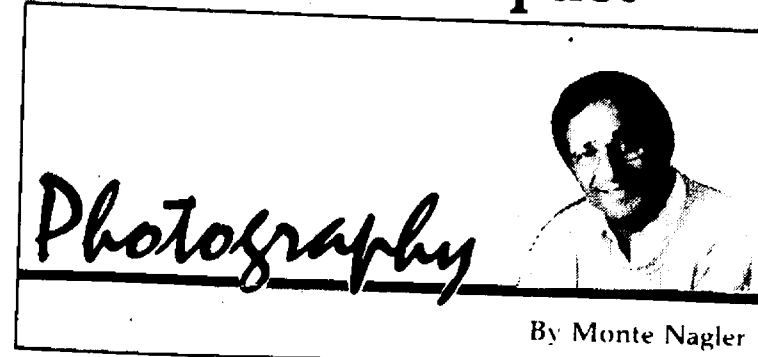

Would you like to learn a way to liven up a "dull" slide or even take a good slide and make it better? It's called slide montaging or slide sandwiching. It's easy to do, requires no darkroom, and adds exciting impact to your photographs.

Before we get into how it's done, let's discuss some picture possibilities that lend themselves to montaging. Silhouettes are good for starters. Those stark trees and lonely lighthouse shots with backlighting make dramatic photos when combined with a colorful sunset or abstract cloud pattern.

A close-up of wood grain sandwiched with an overall shot of a barn results in a slide full of mood.

Even try shooting a colorful flower arrangement totally out of focus to give you a slide of color "blur." This, when combined with a portrait or any other exciting subject, will reward you with a sensational combination.

When shooting slides for the purpose of montaging (always use slide film because you will see what the end result will be), try to overexpose slightly. This way, when you make your sandwich, the result won't be too dark.

By Monte Nagler

Keep files of your slides to be used for montages. You can have a file of sun shots, cloud shots, silhouettes, etc. This makes your montaging much easier.

Is your appetite whetted? Okay, here's how it's done:

Take the two transparencies which will produce your final sandwich and remove the film from the cardboard mounts. This is easily done by cutting right down the middle of the "Kodak" logo and then carefully peeling the film away from the cardboard.

After blowing off any dust particles, place the two pieces of film together, emulsion facing emulsion. This is done so that when the final slide is projected, it will be as sharp as possible. (The emulsion side of a slide is always on the same side as the Kodak logo and also has texture when you let light skim across it.)

You'll need a supply of glass slide mounts. The brand I recommend is called Gepe because they are easy to use and come with anti-newton ring glass. Newton rings are distracting bands of light caused when the base side of film is pressed against glass. The special glass in the Gepe mounts eliminates this problem. Simply place your slides in the Gepe mounts, snap the two halves together, and there you have it... an exciting photo combination! Your finished slide can now be projected on a screen, or, you can have a print made.

Don't overlook other combination possibilities. Most camera stores sell 35mm texture screens available in dot, tapestry, linen and other designs that are easily combined with your transparency to superimpose the texture when projected or printed.

Even try sandwiching a piece of lens-cleaning tissue cut to the proper size with your transparency. A dramatic "fiber" background will result.

Park rejects Buick dealership at Lakepointe Olds building

There are many things Grosse Pointe Park officials would like in the old Lakepointe Oldsmobile building, but another car dealership isn't one of them.

The City Council Monday, sitting as a board of zoning appeals, rejected a variance request by Jerry Mickowski that would allow him to move his Buick dealership from Harper in Detroit. Mickowski said the building in Detroit has been sold and he has to relocate his business.

In February, the Park Planning Commission denied a variance request to allow a dealership on the site, which is now zoned office-service (OS). Councilman Dan Clark told Mickowski that the reason the property was rezoned office-service is that the city's master plan seeks businesses other than car dealerships or light manufacturing in the Jefferson business district.

In 1929, the Albert Kahn-designed building was built for the Packard Motor Car Co. as a dealership. The building has held four dealerships since then and has been vacant for 14 months.

The council as a zoning board of appeals voted 6-to-1 to reject the variance request. Mayor Pro Tem Vernon Ausherman said he cast the no vote because he was tired of seeing a vacant building.

Feds seeking cooperation during 1990 census count

By John Minnis
Assistant Editor

The feds are coming, but don't lock the doors and pull the shades.

Grosse Pointers are among the 106 million households throughout the nation that will be receiving questionnaires in the mail beginning March 23 from the U.S. Census Bureau for its 1990 Decennial Census.

The residents are then asked to fill out the questionnaire and mail it to the Census Bureau by April 1. After the deadline, 340,000 temporary census workers out of 496 district offices nationwide will visit the households of all those who have not responded.

Not only are residents encouraged to respond to the census, but failure to do so is against the law and punishable by a $100 fine.

Barbara Bryant, a 63-year-old Detroit who formerly was a senior vice president with Market Opinion Research, has been pegged to head the momentous nationwide head count.

She stressed that all information given to the Census Bureau is confidential and is not shared with any other governmental agency or individuals outside the Census Bureau. She said some people have a built-in distrust of big government, but in no way will the information be used against or linked to those providing it.

On March 9, Bryant joined Detroit Mayor Coleman A. Young and WDIV General Manager Alan Frank in kicking off an unusual media-government cooperative effort to promote the census and make sure everyone gets counted.

Young joked with reporters present, saying that despite the revelations of the past week, he was nevertheless asking the media to trust government — at least as far as the census is concerned.

"This is probably the most important count we've ever had," Young said. "What's at stake is representation and money — the lifeblood of politics."

According to some estimates, Michigan's head count in the 1990 census might cost the state two congressional seats and untold dollars in federal aid.

Bryant said the census is required by the U.S. Constitution and is used to determine federal representation in Congress. The head count is also used to divvy federal, state and school funds. Population figures are used by private enterprise for development purposes, Bryant said.

"All of us, not just the city, have a vested interest in an accurate count," said Frank.

Young pointed out that the 1980 census missed an estimated 180,000 people in Detroit, resulting in a loss of $270 million in federal funds. Even though the city sued the Census Bureau and won, Detroit did not get the corrective action it wanted, Young said. He urged the Census Bureau to come up with a way of adjusting the final figures.

Grosse Pointe City Mayor Lorenzo "Red" Browning said an accurate census count is no less important in the Pointes. Virtually all returning tax dollars — whether for highway funds or for a number of social programs — depend somewhat on population, he said.

"I am firm on this thing," Browning said. "I think it's quite important." In fact, he has even produced a 30-second spot of himself promoting the census. The spot will be shown on Grosse Pointe Cable.

Other celebrities making spots for the census are Detroit Pistons John Salley and Scott Hastings. Some 25 slick public service spots will be shown by Detroit television stations.

Unlike the 1980 census, when the Grosse Pointes were part of the Warren District headed by Farms resident John Schonenberg Jr., the Pointes and Harper Woods are part of the Macomb District with offices on 23 Mile Road in Mount Clemens.

The first census was conducted by Thomas Jefferson in 1790, Bryant said.

"He's a hard act to follow for this little woman from Detroit," said Bryant, poking fun at herself.

The 1790 census showed a nationwide population of 3.9 million. The 1980 census reflected a U.S. population of 226.5 million. Michigan's first participation in the census was in 1810 and had a population of 5,000. By 1890, the state's numbers had already grown to 2.1 million. The 1980 census showed Michigan's population at 9.26 million. Bryant said the 1990 state population should be down slightly to 9.2 million.

Browning expects Grosse Pointe's population to remain about the same. Woods City Administrator-Clerk Chester Peterson expects his city's population to continue its downward trend. In 1986, the Park's population had grown to 14,230, up from the 1980 count of 13,639.

April 1 is known as Census Day. April through June, census workers will make house visits. The cut-off for counting is August, when local officials should receive their first preliminary 1990 census figures. Bryant said she has until Dec. 31 to deliver a final copy of the census to President George Bush.

Any questions concerning the census can be directed to the Macomb District office at 1-949-8000 or the toll-free number at 1-800-999-1990.

Wanted: 1,000 census workers

Up to 1,000 census workers will be employed full- or part-time through the Macomb District, which includes the five Grosse Pointes and Harper Woods.

Macomb District Manager Jane Boblitt said jobs in the district's office on 23 Mile Road in Mount Clemens pay $6 an hour and field workers get $6.50 an hour. She said a car is necessary in some areas, but field workers in the more heavily populated areas can sometimes get by without transportation.

While there are some part-time positions available, most are full-time, about 30 to 40 hours a week. Job assignments can last a week or two or up to six weeks. She said good workers who catch on quickly can sometimes remain employed longer.

For information on job opportunities with the Census Bureau, contact the Macomb District recruiting office at 1-949-8004.

Shores police recover jewelry stolen from home in February

The Grosse Pointe Shores police investigation into the Feb. 2 theft of $105,000 in jewelry has recovered 90 percent of the stolen goods and charges are pending.

The jewelry was taken from a home on Belle Meade after the couple living there were lured away by the thieves. When they returned home at 9 p.m., they learned jewelry had been taken from where it was hidden.

On Feb. 16, an employee at an Eastland jewelry store became suspicious when a 16-year-old Grosse Pointe Park youth was trying to sell a very expensive bracelet. Eastland police officer Joseph J. Baity took down the youth's name and that of an 18-year-old Shores man who was with the younger boy. Baity also confiscated the bracelet and told the boy if he wanted it back, he would have to return with his father to claim it.

Baity then turned the bracelet over to Harper Woods police who sent out a description of the bracelet. Shores Special Services Sgt. Dan Fronczak recognized the description of the bracelet and called the 16-year-old in for questioning.

The Park youth confessed to theft of the jewelry from the Shores home and implicated the 18-year-old who lived near the Belle Meade house. Shores police said prosecution of the case is pending.

Fronczak, with the assistance of Eastland, Harper Woods and Roseville police, was able to collect 90 percent of the jewelry. The unrecovered gems were sold by a Detroit pawn shop, but Fronczak said the pawn shop acted within the law, documented its transaction involving the jewelry and is without blame.

The jewelry found its way to the pawn shop after it was purchased by an employee at another Eastland jewelry store. Fronczak said the employee made the purchase on his own and was not acting on behalf of the store. The employee has cooperated fully with the investigation.

The 18-year-old Shores man traded a 1-carat pear-shaped diamond and a 3 1/4-carat heart-shaped diamond, both the centerpiece of rings, for an automatic assault rifle and ammunition from an employee at a Roseville gun shop. The employee called Roseville detectives and asked if two large diamonds had been reported stolen. The Roseville detectives did not connect the Shores theft with the employee's inquiry.

As was the case with the jewelry store employee, the gun shop employee cooperated fully with police. Fronczak said the Park 16-year-old, his parents and the parents of the Shores 18-year-old have cooperated in the investigation and the recovery of the jewelry.

Automotive advertising of the '50s sold dreams

"Hmmm. I wonder what these folks are up to?"

The question came to mind in the Pierce Street Gallery in downtown Birmingham, where an exhibit called "Heavy Metal" is showing off automotive advertising art from the fanned '50s. The exhibit of color photographs from the collection of Boulevard Photographic was subtitled "Beauties and Beasts of the '50s."

Prompting the wonderment was a photo of a '57 Pontiac convertible, a rather rare example of automotive art from Detroit's baroque age. It was not the car that prompted the wonder, however, it was its cargo — a man in suit and hat behind the wheel, two beautiful and well-dressed women, one in the front passenger seat, the other in the rear seat, and two expensive-looking golf bags, well stocked with sticks.

Why did this crowd seem so unlikely? Because it was. They were not dressed like people on their way to play golf. Maybe the clubs were just props for a fantasy, kind of an early-day rock video without the music. It was a '50s fantasy that no longer has meaning.

Nearby was a picture of a '57 Mercury Parklane, with an ideal American family — father in suit and hat, mother in skirt and high heels, junior and sis, all well-dressed and clean, the Nelsons, the Cleavers, the Cunninghams. Not real-ideal. Or at least, the Detroit ad man's ideal family.

Further down the wall was a photo of a Jaguar, with the master joyfully driving, the liveried chauffeur in the passenger seat. The democratic America of the '50s.

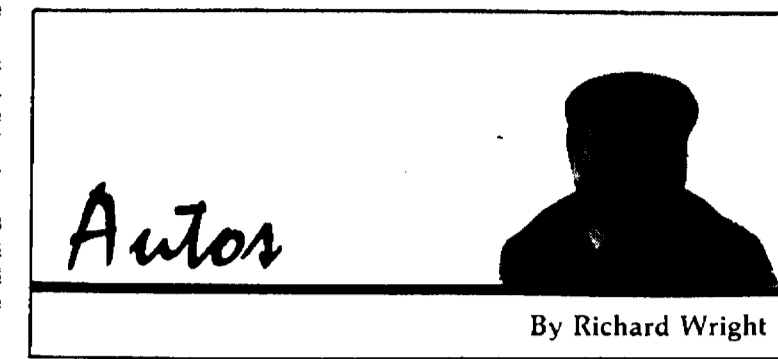

One can still see the automobiles of the '50s on summer weekends at various auto meets around Detroit. But that America is gone forever. In fact, it never existed, just as today there is a make-believe advertising world consisting of young, beautiful lunatics racing frantically after wealth, youth, beauty, high social status, "perfect" health, peace of mind and eternal life.

One may question whether advertising art is really art, but

Special ed group to meet

The Grosse Pointe Special Education Parent Advisory Committee will meet Wednesday, March 21, at 7 p.m. at the Brownell Library. The parent group is open to all persons with an interest in special education in Grosse Pointe. Dr. Claire Hunt, director of Special Education Services, attends the meetings.

The group provides a forum for ideas and problems which parents may wish to share with other parents or with the special ed director. It is also a way for parents to keep informed of changes in programming and there is no question that some fine artists have engaged in the business and the photographic art of some of them is on display at the gallery. And the exhibit tells a lot about both the auto world and society in general in the '50s.

General Motors dominated the look of cars in the '50s to a much greater extent than it had state, county and local issues which may affect their child.

At the March 21 meeting, both Hunt and Ed Shine, superintendent of schools, will be in attendance. The agenda will include committee reports on vocational education, summer programs and recreational activities for handicapped students, as well as reports on state, county and local developments. The meeting will then be opened to allow parent input.

before or does now. Over half the cars portrayed in the exhibit are General Motors cars, including eight Buicks, most of the '59 models with wing-like fins sweeping upward from front to rear. There were several Cadillacs, including the gaudy '59 with its soaring tailfins, but the most interesting was a '55 Cadillac convertible with an elegantly dressed lady with a broad-brim hat most unlikely for top-down driving, and white poodle perched in the rear seat.

Second to GM in number of entries was Chrysler Corp. Ford Motor Co. dominated styling in the '80s, but not in the '50s.

Ford's three entries (a Lincoln, a Mercury and a Thunderbird) were matched by Packard and Nash, both of which were in their death throes.

In staging a display of automotive advertising art of the '50s, of course, one looks for the most unusual, the most period. And the Nashes (or "Hashes," as the Nashes which bore Hudson nameplates after the merger into American Motors were called by fans and detractors) of that era were hard to beat.

GM undoubtedly led the styling trends early in '50s, but Chrysler's "Forward Look" was very influential in the later years of the decade and this is reflected in the exhibit.

It was a decade of enormous finned behemoths, of the "insolent chariot." Soaring tailfins were the rule and colors were bright. And everybody's favorite color was chrome. So it is natural that the cars were the stars of that decade's advertising. People and backgrounds were mere props.

Contrast that with some of today's advertising in which image is the central focus, most notably Nissan's advertising for its Infiniti, in which the car does not even appear. In the '50s, they showed the car. It made sense because the cars were spectacular, distinctive and a wonder to behold.

Modern image advertising really started in 1923, when Ned Jordan penned an ad for his Jordan Playboy which did not discuss its mechanical features, nor did it have a picture of the car except in silhouette in a drawing with a cowboy on horseback. Its headline was "Somewhere West of Laramie" and it has become an automotive advertising classic.

Despite its flashy name, the Jordan Playboy was a mediocre car, never selling 10,000 a year and out of production before the market crashed at the end of the decade. But that ad changed auto advertising forever, by stressing the intangible image of a car instead of its mechanical attributes.

In a way, the ads of the '50s did the same thing, but not with copy such as this concluding paragraph of Jordan's ad: "Step into the Playboy when the hour grows dull with things grown dead and stale. Then start for the land of real living with the spirit of the lass who rides, lean and rangy, into the red horizon of the Wyoming twilight."

No, in the '50s they sold dreams by just showing the cars.

The '50s were a decade of enormous advances in technology. But we remember it chiefly for the tailfins and gaudy colors, the horsepower race, the chrome and the status conferred by these wonderful monsters. Dreams were more important than mechanical reality then and probably still are.

The exhibit runs through March 31 at the Pierce Street Gallery, 217 Pierce Street in Birmingham. Hours are 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., Wednesday through Saturday.

Men and women all wore hats in the '50s, including the driver of this '55 Cadillac. But not the poodle.

If Someone Close To You Has A Drinking Problem, Taking This Test Could Be A Sobering Experience

Check the symptoms that describe someone you care about:

- Denies drinking too much.
- Frequently feels depressed.
- Personality changes dramatically when drinking.
- Has difficulty stopping after a few drinks.
- Doesn't remember events from the night before.
- Allows drinking to affect job performance.
- Loses sense of responsibility because of drinking.

If you check two or more of these symptoms, there is something you should do. Call for professional help.

Carol Gutmann

Funeral services were held Sunday for Carol Gutmann, 42, of Grosse Pointe. She died suddenly on Wednesday, March 7, 1990, at St. John Hospital.

The service was held in St. Paul Lutheran Church, where Mrs. Gutmann was an active member.

"She was a tremendous all-around person," said her pastor, Rev. J. Philip Wahl. "Everyone here is stunned. Carol was a cheerful, hard-working person and a good team player."

Mrs. Gutmann held a variety of leadership positions in the church: coordinator of the youth services, member of the bell choir, leader in the couples' club and a Sunday school teacher.

She worked as an accountant with the Grosse Pointe law firm of Dietrich and Cassavaugh.

Mrs. Gutmann was born in Iowa and was a graduate of Wartburg College in her home town of Waverly. She was married in 1968 and with her family, moved to Michigan six years ago.

She is survived by her husband, Roger, a vice president of Lutheran Social Services of Michigan; a daughter, Laura; a son, Daniel; her parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Marvin Grunke of St. Paul, Minn.; two sisters and a brother.

Helen Klaver McIntyre

Private services were held for Helen Klaver McIntyre, who died Friday, March 9, 1990, in Detroit.

Mrs. McIntyre was born in 1902 and taught elementary school in Detroit before her marriage to Dr. Frank McIntyre in 1966. She was a graduate of the University of Michigan and an active member of Chi Omega Sorority.

Mrs. McIntyre was active in Pan Hellenic, Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, the American Association of University Women, the Garden Club, Girl Scouts, the Daughters of the American Revolution and the Daughters of American Colonists.

She is survived by her husband, Frank D. of Grosse Pointe; a daughter, Elizabeth Jenkins; two sons, Peter Klaver and Dr. Donald McIntyre; and five grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements were made by Chas. Verheyden Funeral Home. Mrs. McIntyre's ashes will be interred at Woodlawn Cemetery.

Memorial contributions may be made to Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, 16 Lakeshore, Grosse Pointe Farms 48236.

Jean F. Mesritz

Jean F. Mesritz, formerly of Grosse Pointe Farms and St. Clair Shores, died at his home in Vero Beach, Fla., on Tuesday, March 6, 1990.

Born in The Hague, Netherlands, Mr. Mesritz graduated from the American High School in Paris and moved to Grosse Pointe to join his half-brother, Gilbert Pingree, grandson of former Michigan Gov. Hazen Pingree. After attending Cornell University for two years, Mr. Mesritz joined the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and served as a lieutenant during World War II.

Following the war, he became an associate with Loomis Sayles investment counselors and later co-founded Investment Counsel Inc. in Grosse Pointe, from which he retired as a partner.

Mr. Mesritz was a member of the Country Club of Detroit, University Club of Detroit and the Moorings Club of Vero Beach.

He is survived by his wife, Margaret Monaghan; a son, George, of Birmingham; and a daughter, Ann, of Alexandria, Va.

A private burial will take place in late March at Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Memorial contributions may be made to VNA/Hospice of Indian River County, 1111 36th St., Vero Beach, Fla. 32960.

Dean K. Riddle

Dean K. Riddle, a Grosse Pointe resident for more than 25 years, died Saturday, March 10, 1990, in Ann Arbor, where he had lived since 1976. He was 63. Mr. Riddle died, at home, under the care of Arbor Hospice.

Missouri-born, Mr. Riddle spent a career as a civil engineer and devoted his free time to working with children. He was active in Little League and PTA in Grosse Pointe, and in Boy Scouts in Grosse Pointe and Ann Arbor.

Mr. Riddle was project manager for a number of major construction projects in Michigan, including the student center at Macomb Community College and Grosse Pointe's North High School and Liggett School. He also worked on the addition to the Detroit Institute of Arts.

He is survived by his wife, Winifred, whom he married in 1945; sons Daniel and David; daughters Carol Peters, Janis Denman and Nancy Slach; and 10 grandchildren.

Mr. Riddle's ashes will be buried at the Memorial Garden of Grosse Pointe United Methodist Church.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Dean Riddle Fund, Boy Scouts of America, Wolverine Council, 1979 Huron Parkway, Ann Arbor 48104.

Marie Hawley Burgess

Services for Marie Hawley Burgess, 70, were held Monday. She died Friday, March 9, 1990, at the Glacier Hills Nursing Home in Ann Arbor. She was formerly of Grosse Pointe.

She was married to the late David E. Burgess, once the mayor of Grosse Pointe City.

She was a member of Detroit Sorosis, Alpha Phi, Grosse Pointe South Mothers' Club, Grosse Pointe Congregational Women's Group and the Detroit Athletic Club. She worked several years as a volunteer for the Detroit Institute of Arts and for Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts and Girl Scouts.

Mrs. Burgess is survived by four daughters, Susan Getz, Martha McGugin, Mary Cummings and Julie Ward; two sons, David M. and Dr. Charles F.; and 12 grandchildren.

Arrangements were made by Chas. Verheyden Funeral Home. Burial was at Woodlawn Cemetery.

Memorial contributions may be made to the American Lung Association.

Rodman C. Moesta

Services for Rodman C. Moesta were held at St. Clare of Montefalco yesterday. Mr. Moesta died Sunday, March 11, 1990, at Bon Secours Nursing Care Center. He was 66.

Mr. Moesta lived in Grosse Pointe Park and was a partner in the firm of Johnson, Campbell & Moesta. He was a graduate of De La Salle and the University of Detroit.

He was active with the St. Clare Teen Club, St. Clare religious education, Civic Searchlight and the Bar Association of Michigan. He was an Army veteran of World War II.

Mr. Moesta is survived by his wife, Mary Belle; daughters Maureen Bruce, Anne Schultz and Elizabeth White; and seven grandchildren.

He was buried at Mount Olivet Cemetery. Arrangements were by Chas. Verheyden Funeral Home.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Alzheimer's and Related Disorders Association.

John D. King

John D. King, 90, of Grosse Pointe Park, a retired railroad executive and Catholic fraternal leader, died Sunday, March 11, 1990, in Maumee, Ohio.

Mr. King had a heart attack shortly after attending a meeting of the Ohio Knights of Columbus Charities Foundation, of which he was a director. He was State Deputy of the Knights of Columbus of Ohio from 1939 to 1941 and continued to attend every meeting for the next 49 years.

Retiring in 1964 as general manager of the New York Central Railroad in Indianapolis, Mr. King and his wife, Mabelle, moved to Grosse Pointe. He is a past president of the Grosse Pointe Senior Men's Club.

In addition to his wife, Mr. King is survived by his sons John L. and Daniel N., both of Grosse Pointe; nine grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

A funeral mass was said Wednesday at St. Paul Catholic Church.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, 32 Lakeshore, Grosse Pointe Farms 48236, or to the Knights of Columbus Charities Foundation, 30 Hanley Ave., Youngstown, Ohio 44505.

Hugo J. Ulbrich

A funeral service for Hugo J. Ulbrich, 77, of Grosse Pointe Woods will be held today, Thursday, March 15, 1990, at Verheyden Funeral Home in Grosse Pointe Park.

Mr. Ulbrich died March 12, 1990, after a heart attack.

Born in Detroit, he graduated from Eastern High School and the University of Michigan.

Mr. Ulbrich was an account executive for the radio broadcasting industry for more than 25 years. Upon his retirement, he volunteered weekly at Bon Secours Hospital. He was a World War II naval officer and an avid golfer.

He will be remembered as an energetic individual who looked and acted years younger than his age.

He is survived by his wife, Elaine; daughter, Tawn Othalek of Grosse Pointe Shores; a sister, Ernestine Logan; and two grandchildren.

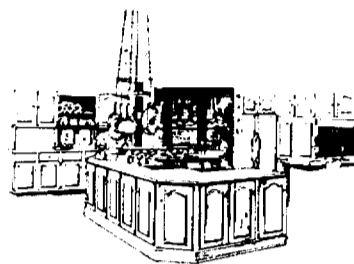

Interment will be in Roseland Mausoleum.

Pat Lane and Burlee Green bring their donations for the North choir garage sale.

Donations sought for North choir garage sale

The Grosse Pointe North Community Choir will hold a Giant Garage Sale for the North High School on Saturday, March 17, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Proceeds from the sale will go toward the choir's trip to sing in Washington, D.C., May 10-13. For this major fundraising event, the choir has been collecting a vast amount of sale items from the community over the last several weeks, and has accumulated an interesting array which should please any bargain hunter.

Among the thousands of articles on sale are furniture, baby equipment, jewelry, clothing, sporting goods, exercise equipment, boutique items, small appliances, books, video and board games and a potter's wheel. In addition, a bake sale and a car wash (weather permitting) are also planned for the same time and place.

The choir will continue to accept donations of sale items through Thursday, March 22. All items must be in good working condition and clean. Anyone interested in making a contribution may call Frances at 884-3862 for information about drop-off times or pick-up of large items.

Henry is scholarship finalist

Brendan Lynch Henry, son of Walker and Mary Louise Henry and a graduating senior at University of Detroit Jesuit High School, has been named one of some 1,500 semifinalists in the 1990 Presidential Scholars Program.

Nearly three million students will graduate from U.S. high schools in 1990. The semifinalists were selected from nearly 11,000 students who were identified as potential candidates for the program on the basis of their exceptional scholastic achievement.

In early May, the White House will announce the names of the 141 Presidential Scholars who will be selected from 500 finalists who will be selected in April.

National merit finalists named

Several Grosse Pointe high school students were named finalists in the 1990 National Merit Scholarship competition. They are, as follows:

- Grosse Pointe South High School — Mikael A. Elsilva, Brian A. Jackson, Elizabeth C. Johnston and Stacey L. Westley.

- Grosse Pointe North High School — Bryan Jendretzke, Matthew Kim, Reed Konsler and Erick Trickey.

- University Liggett School — Sean P. Byrne, Julia N. Caputo, Michael C. Coello, James H. Combs, John A. Dodds, Elizabeth H. Wisgerhof and Sunil Golwala.

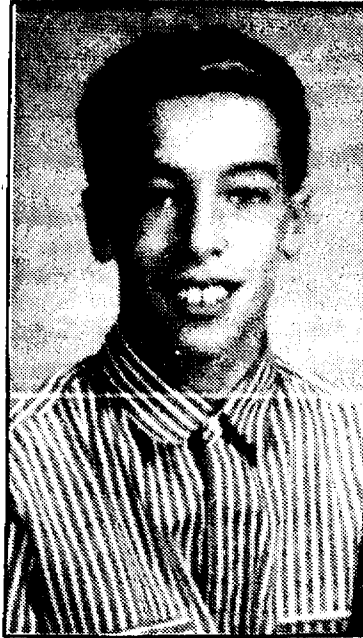

- University of Detroit Jesuit High School — Brendan Henry.

Student Spotlight

Albert Duzzie

Each week in this column, we will focus on the work of a student. It can be a poem, a drawing, a short story, a picture of a scientific experiment or a wood-working project, a book review.

The following poem was written by Albert Duzzie, a fifth-grader at Ferry Elementary School. He is the son of Charles and Vivian Duzzie of Grosse Pointe Woods.

Anger

Anger looks like your sister playing with your games.
Anger tastes like a dry mouth.
Anger smells like five packs of hot sauce.
Anger feels like sandpaper on your face.
Anger sounds like your dad using his chain saw in the basement.

Amanda Batts

The following poem was written by Amanda Batts, a first-grader at Monteith School. She is the daughter of Thomas and Donna Batts of Grosse Pointe Woods.

Thinking

Seed, hard, dry
Sun, bright, hot
Rain, wet, cool
Wind, gentle, warm
Farmer, tall, strong
All together, good food.

South students sell sweatshirts

Grosse Pointe South High School business students have designed a limited edition school spirit sweatshirt to raise money for a two-day field trip to Chicago.

The sweatshirt design, developed by business administration students, features a silhouette of the South tower inside a collegiate-like emblem that includes in Latin the school slogan "Blue Devils."

The sweatshirt is available in Oxford gray for $30 and comes in medium, large and extra large.

All profits will cover student expenses for a two-day field trip to Chicago where they'll visit the Mercantile Exchange, Midwest Stock Exchange, Federal Reserve Bank and the Chicago Board of Trade.

For further information, call Dr. Charles Hitch at South High School, 343-2130.

Parcells band tops at fest

The Parcells Middle School Band and Orchestra participated in the Michigan School Band and Orchestra District XVI Competition at Warren High School and Warren Lincoln High School.

Both groups earned first division ratings which make them eligible to compete at state level festival competition.

Adjudicators at the festival included several positive statements in their evaluations. These included: "I really enjoyed hearing your program, it was a nice way to start the day," from Richard Blatti of Adrian College; and E. Daniel Long of Ann Arbor Public Schools said, "Congratulations to all of you — your conductor, your community and school for supporting a fine orchestra program."

The Parcells Band and Orchestra is directed by Christina A. Judson and consists of seventh and eighth grade students. The full orchestra meets as an extra curricular group before school and includes the Parcells string orchestra and selected band students. Judson was assisted in festival preparation by Nathan Judson and Anne DiFiori.

Kerby, Trombly plan 'Evening with Bach'

On Monday, March 19, fifth grade students at Kerby and Trombly Elementary Schools will spend "An Evening with J.S. Bach" in the Trombly School auditorium.

Dr. Dave Wagner, program director of Detroit's classical music station, WQRS-FM, will be master of ceremonies for the evening. The hour-long Bach program begins at 7:30 p.m.

Instrumental students and parents will perform a number of Bach pieces. A skit on the life of Bach, written by students, will also be presented. A special booklet containing students' art work and writing selections related to the life and music of the Baroque Period will be distributed.

An afterglow following the program will be hosted by Priscilla Martysz and her committee. Candice Sylvester and Catharine Green are in charge of the special booklets. Music teacher Judith Bailey is coordinating the event. All residents are invited to attend.

Ferry book fair

The Ferry School PTO, will hold its annual Book Fair Monday through Friday, March 19-23, from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

A large selection of children's books will be provided by the Book Center of East Detroit. Titles will include fiction, non-fiction, Newberry and Caldecott Award books, science, sports, art and many more. Parenting books will also be available.

Parking during the fair will be allowed on the north side of Roslyn Road from 8:45 a.m. to 2:45 p.m.

Waldorf School hosts conference March 24

The Detroit Waldorf School will present its third annual conference, "Guiding Your Child's Journey" from 8:30 a.m. to 2:15 p.m. on Saturday, March 24 at the school located at 2555 Burns, in Indian Village in Detroit.

The day-long meeting for parents and educators will present prescriptions for cultural literacy and an antidote for the "hurried child." The conference includes workshops, demonstrations, panels with parents and graduates and exhibits.

"Guiding Your Child's Journey" offers an ideal opportunity to discover the rewarding, unique and classical education process employed by Detroit's specially trained Waldorf teachers.

Norman Davidson, a British journalist, author and educator in the fields of mathematics, astronomy, literature and history will present the keynote address:

"An Education for the Future." Davidson is the director of Teacher Training at the Waldorf Institute in Spring Valley, New York.

Among the 15 workshop offerings are: Science - Wonder, Observation and Reasoning; Math "Our Way;" Integration of Humanities in the Waldorf Curriculum; The Child's Year - a Celebration of Festivals and Seasons; Alternatives to Television and Other Distractions; Restoring a functional family - How a Healing Education Can Help; as well as many offerings focusing on the younger child. The faculty and students will also present a narrated demonstration of Waldorf education in action.

The $15 registration fee includes all workshop materials and a catered lunch. Child care is available at a cost of $10 for the first child from a family and $5 for each additional child, but spaces are limited. Ample parking is also provided. Registration deadline is March 16.

The Detroit Waldorf School is an independent day school providing education, before- and after-school programming and summer day camp for children from pre-kindergarten through eighth grade. Detroit Waldorf School is accredited by both the Independent School Association of the Central States and the Association of Waldorf Schools of North America.

College fair

The Metro Detroit National College Fair will be held at the Pontiac Silverdome on Tuesday, March 27, from 9 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. and from 6 p.m. until 9 p.m., and on Wednesday, March 28 from 9 a.m. until 12:30 p.m.

Sponsored by the National Association of College Admission Counselors, the event will provide students and parents with the opportunity to talk directly with admission representatives from colleges and universities across the country.

Special learning sessions for students and parents will explain college selection, application procedures, admission deadlines and financial aid options. One-to-one counseling will be available for students and parents to answer any specific questions about the college selection process.

Representatives from The College Board (SAT) and the American College Testing (ACT) program will provide information about standardized testing and how to register for the college entrance examinations.

Bowen honored

Ellen J. Bowen, director of choral music at Grosse Pointe South High School, was recently awarded the prestigious Caroline Leep Scholarship by the Michigan School Vocal Association.

The $1,000 award is given annually in the name of Caroline Leep to a dedicated, innovative music educator in the state of Michigan who has made significant contributions to the development and growth of vocal music education.

Bowen will use the scholarship funds by developing videos and films to teach emotions through sight and sound while singing. This project will be part of a doctor of arts degree in music education/gifted and talented and fine arts administration.

Bowen has been director of vocal music at South High School since 1986. Her choirs have consistently received first division ratings. She has 47 students who have qualified for state solo and ensemble competition, and 13 who earned places in the district honors choir in 1990.

Most recently, Bowen was the artistic director of the Madrigal Festival and Feast held at South in February.

She will direct the choir and conduct the orchestra on April 5-7 in Grosse Pointe South's production of "The Sound of Music."

Calvary plans closet sale

Calvary Center, 4950 Gateshead, near Mack and Moross, will have a Calvary Cleans the Closets Sale Thursday, March 15, and Friday, March 16, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. both days.

Included in the sale will be items for the home and personal use.

For more information, call Ann Demchak at 881-3374.

Lennon's poetry to be discussed

M.L. Liebler, a Wayne State University professor and poet, will give a talk on John Lennon's verses and poetry for the "Talks About Poetry" series sponsored by the Poetry Resource Center of Michigan, Grub Street - A Bookery, and James A. Monnig Books.

The lecture will be Thursday, March 29, at 7 p.m. at James A. Monnig Books, 15133 Kercheval in Grosse Pointe Park. Following the discussion, there will be a short open poetry reading on a first-come, first-read basis. Admission and refreshments are free. Call 331-2238 for more information.

Toxic talk

Learn to identify hazardous household products and to substitute non-toxic alternatives which are readily available or easily concocted at home, using safe and natural substances. Leah Vartanian, vice president of Grosse Pointe Citizens for Recycling, will offer helpful information on this topic, including useful hand-outs and a question and answer period on Tuesday, March 20, at 7 p.m. at Barnes Elementary School in Grosse Pointe Woods. The fee is $6. Call 343-2178 for more information.

Cinema League presents 'Sunny Italy'

The Cinema League will present "This is Sunny Italy," a 35mm slide show, on Monday, March 19, at the War Memorial at 8 p.m.

Esther Peters will begin her travelogue in Milan with views of the world-famous opera house and the equally famous cathedral. Next she will take us to Verona, home of Romeo and Juliet and the arena where open-air operas are performed in the summer. Traveling through the Dolomites we reach Venice.

The journey leads southward to the Bay of Naples, Mount Vesuvius, Capri and Anacapri and still southward along the spectacular Amalfi Drive, and northward to Pompeii. Also shown is Rome, Florence, Orvieto, Siena and Pisa.

Peters is a retired teacher from the Detroit school system. She has traveled extensively through South America, the South Pacific, the Orient, Africa, Germany and Austria. She is active in the Tuesday Musicale and an avid bridge player. She is organist at her church.

The Cinema League welcomes new members and guests. Annual dues are $7.50 instead of $15. Guests will be charged $3 each program, which includes refreshments at the social hour.

'Murder Game' at St. Gertrude

The St. Gertrude Players will present "Murder Game" by Tim Kelly at the St. Gertrude Activities Building, 28835 Jefferson, St. Clair Shores, between 11 and 12 Mile roads.

The show begins at 8 p.m. Friday, Saturday and Sunday, March 23, 24 and 31. Admission is $7 and includes refreshments. Call 777-9120 for more information.

Lake St. Clair Symphony plans St. Patrick's benefit

The Lake St. Clair Symphony Orchestra will celebrate St. Patrick's Day with a fundraising dinner of cocktails, dancing and Irish cuisine Saturday, March 17, at the Selfridge ANG Base Officers' Club. The evening's proceeds will go to the orchestra's scholarship fund to help student musicians advance their studies.

Dinner will include beef barley soup, soda bread, haddock poached in apple cider, colcannon (boiled cabbage, potatoes, leeks and cream seasoned with mace), chicken braised in ale with ham chunks, baked apple dumplings basted in honey and Irish whiskey and other authentic Irish dishes. Entertainment will be provided by Irish tenor Vernon York singing traditional Irish airs, Terri Fitzpatrick, Miss Greater Macomb County, playing flute, and dancers from the Lo-Ru Studio performing Irish dances.

Cocktails will be served at 6 p.m., dinner at 7 p.m. Tickets are $17.50 per person. The public is welcome. The Officers' Club is located at Selfridge Air National Guard Base, Harrison Township. Advance reservations are required and seating is limited. For more information, call 776-1012.

Park was 25 percent.

The Park's Board of Review meets March 20, 21, 22, 23 and 27. Call City Hall to make an appointment if you wish to challenge your assessment.

The Shores' average assessment went up 14.21 percent. Because the Shores does not have an assessor, the increase in assessments is being handled by the county. Village Manager Michael Kenyon said the assessment increases varied, with the largest increases affecting Lakeshore properties where land values went up 30 percent to 35 percent.

The Shores Board of Review met March 6 and 12, and Kenyon said the number of property owners challenging the assessments was about the same as the year before.

The Woods had its first Board of Review hearing March 13 and will have another March 17. The hearings are held from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on a first-come basis. Those in line at 5 p.m. will be heard before the Board of Review adjourns.

the Board of Review, so visit or call your city offices before just showing up at the Board of Review session.

Marlow, who lost his challenge before the Woods Board of Review last year, planned to appeal again this year. This time around, however, he has done his homework. He got copies of his assessment statement and those of all his neighbors for comparison.

He also took photographs of his and his neighbors' houses, and he compiled the most recent sales figures for houses near his.

His homework revealed interesting data. He found out that the city's appraisal report for his house said its assessed value as of March 8 was $106,488, meaning the market value should be $212,977. The notification of assessment increase he received in the mail, however, listed his assessed value as $117,800, making the market value $237,600. Marlow plans to point out the discrepancy to the Board of Review.

Also, the appraisal report said his house has central air conditioning. It doesn't.

Marlow, who's becoming an experienced assessment challenger, points out that before heading off for City Hall, residents need to have their property number, which is different than the address. The notice of assessment increase from the city has the property number on it, Marlow said.

He advises homeowners to study their appraisal reports for errors and to compare theirs with their neighbors' and homes similar to theirs. While the city will normally give you a copy of your own appraisal report free of charge, it costs extra to get copies of other reports. The Woods charges a $1 copying charge per report, Marlow said.

Also, most of the cities have sales figures of homes in the city during the past year. You can compare the actual purchase prices of similar homes to the assessed value of your home. Remember, the city's assessed Grosse Pointe Woods Acting Assessor Gerard McNamara, right, fields questions from a property owner after assessment notices went out last week. Some assessments doubled and troubled in the Woods while the citywide assessed value had to be increased 12 percent to keep up with market values.

Parsons named to temporary assistant to superintendent

Marjorie Parsons, an English teacher at Grosse Pointe South High School, has been named to the temporary position of administrative assistant to new Superintendent Ed Shine.

The position was created to help Shine make the move from deputy superintendent to superintendent easier and to help him with the details on the library project. The position will end June 30.

Parsons is a graduate of the University of Detroit with a degree in English. She earned her master's degree in reading and economics from Marygrove College in 1970. She earned a doctorate in educational administration with cognate studies in business management and computer science from Michigan State University in June 1987.

She served as acting assistant principal for student services for five months last year while a search was conducted for a new principal at Grosse Pointe South. Parsons has served on the curriculum coordinating committee and is a team leader for the High School 2000 project.

Windsor woodcarving festival set

An international woodcarving festival is planned at Cleary Convention Centre in Windsor, Ontario, on Saturday and Sunday, March 24 and 25. More than 125 woodcarvers will exhibit their craft.

The first two shows, held three and six years ago, attracted an average of 7,000 visitors. Carvers from Canada and the U.S.

Midwest will exhibit miniature furniture, wooden animals, decoys. Visitors will have the opportunity to talk to the woodcarvers and watch carving demonstrations.

Festival hours are 1 to 9 p.m. on Saturday and 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday. Admission is $3. Children under 12 are free if accompanied by an adult.

City of Grosse Pointe Farms Michigan NOTICE OF HEARING

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Zoning Board of Appeals will meet in the gymnasium, Brownell Middle School, 260 Chalfonte, Grosse Pointe Farms, on

at 7:30 p.m. to hear the appeal of the Grosse Pointe Public School System for the construction of a new library facility to be located on the property of Brownell Middle School located at 260 Chalfonte. Review of the Site Plan for the proposed library indicates that sufficient off-street parking would not be available on the property to meet the requirements of the City's Zoning Ordinance under Section 1504, Item 9. One hundred ninety-one (191) parking spaces are required according to building criteria under Section 1504, Item 9 of the City's Zoning Ordinance, whereas the plan of the proposed construction provides one hundred seventy-six (176). Under the provisions of Section 1504, Item 9, the Board may grant exceptions to off-street parking requirements where it determines after a hearing that the requirements are excessive or unduly burdensome for any of several reasons specified.

The Hearing will be public. Interested property-owners or residents of the City are invited to attend.

'Joe Versus the Volcano,' a fairy tale for adults, has class

Tom Hanks as Joe Banks and Meg Ryan (in one of her three roles) as Patricia meet the Waponi chief in "Joe Versus the Volcano."

By Michael Chapp
Special Writer

You just don't see very many comedies like "Joe Versus the Volcano." It wouldn't be possible; the powers that be in Hollywood don't take chances like this very often.

Be thankful they did this time. "Volcano" is one of the most offbeat and original comedies to come down the pike in years. It's sidesplittingly funny, in its own way. It's also a cerebral exercise that pays great dividends by the time the final credits roll.

This picture is not for everybody. It's a combination of existential philosophy and fairy-tale romance.

Like we said, this picture is not for everybody.

But for those interested in thinking a little bit before they laugh, this film is exactly the ticket.

Perhaps the best news of all is that Tom Hanks has finally done something positive on the big screen again. He plays a hypochondriac advertising librarian at a pharmaceutical company. He's the quintessential working drone — a nameless, faceless nobody in a going-nowhere job. Hanks is told by the doctor he's suffering from a "brain cloud," a malady that has no symptoms, but which will kill him in six months.

So he quits the job he has and takes a new one, the final one — sailing to a small island in the South Pacific in order to jump into a volcano. Why not, he figures. It's not like he has a life or anything.

But a funny thing happens on the way to the island. The boat Joe was sailing on sinks, and he and his companion on the journey (Meg Ryan) spend days on a makeshift life raft. It's during that time Joe begins to confront his own humanity.

A blend of fantasy and reality, "Volcano" spends a lot of time allowing viewers to feel what Joe is feeling; namely the angst of a search for meaning in a sea of despair. The world is a cold, uncaring place, Joe believes. And we do too, especially when we see his office, where flickering fluorescent lights make it easy to see the dingy gloom of reality. Joe is the unfortunate product of that environment.

It's only when Joe thinks he's going to die that he really begins to live. He learns about the meaning of life. And about love. And about what's important.

Namely, all of the above.

"Volcano" takes an interesting path to its destination. It's a path not everyone will understand or even enjoy. But fans of Hanks and Ryan (who plays three roles), along with viewers who enjoy some substance behind their comic styles, will find plenty to enjoy here.

"Joe Versus the Volcano" is a movie with class. And let's face it: You can't say that about anything at the movies very often.

Macomb Center to present 'Jesus Christ Superstar'

Four fully staged and costumed performances of "Jesus Christ Superstar," the Broadway rock opera that relies entirely on music and images to tell the story of Christ's last days on earth, are coming up at Macomb Center for the Performing Arts.

Presented over two weekends as a joint effort of Macomb Center and Macomb Community College's Music Theater Department, shows are set for 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, March 30-31, and at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, April 6-7.

The performances, featuring a blend of collegiate and community talent, portray Christ's betrayal and crucifixion as seen through the eyes of Judas.

The show, produced locally by Larry Carrico, has won worldwide recognition since its Broadway introduction. It recounts the last week in Christ's life, and His followers' searching cries for the meaning of His death.

The role of Christ is played by Kelton A. Kepner, a western Michiganian now living in Detroit. Judas is played by Arnell D. Carmichael of Birmingham while Theresa R. Randazzo, a student at Macomb and a member of the college's Macombers show choir, is cast as Mary Magdalene.

Kepner has appeared in such Lake Shore Summer Theater productions as "West Side Story" and "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum."

Carmichael, a singer, songwriter, producer and actor, is male vocalist with several local bands and has worked with RCA Records. Randazzo, who also sings with local ensembles, has appeared in such productions as "A Chorus Line," "Wizard of Oz" and "Cabaret."

Tickets are $10 for adults and $9 for students and senior citizens. They may be obtained at the center's box office or reserved on credit card by calling 286-2222, Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The Center is located on the Center Campus of Macomb Community College at Hall (M-59) and Garfield roads in Clinton Township.

Oscar-nominated film 'Camille Claudel' included in Detroit Film Theatre offerings

The Detroit Film Theatre of the Detroit Institute of Arts continues its 17th season in March with a lineup of great film offerings.

Continuing the month on March 16-17 is "The Plot Against Harry," a comic odyssey about ex-con Harry Plotnik, who finds himself up against mobsters, congressional investigators, a vengeful wife, a kosher caterer and a blocked colon. Screening times are at 7 and 9:30 p.m. on Friday and 5, 7 and 9:30 p.m. on Saturday. As an added attraction on Sunday, March 18, the DFT will present the restored version of the 1962 low-budget cult horror classic, "Carnival of Souls." Screening times are at 5, 7 and 9 p.m.

On March 23-24, "Queen of Hearts," the 1989 film by English director Jon Amiel, will be presented. This is a dreamlike, comic vision of three generations of an Italian family transported to England. This fairy tale saga of romance, revenge and cappuccino, which Time magazine critic Richard Corliss called "criminally enjoyable," will be screened at 7 and 9:30 p.m. on Friday and Saturday.

On Sunday, March 25, "The Dybbuk," a 1937 film by Polish director Michal Waszynski, will be screened at 1, 4 and 7 p.m. This rare Yiddish-language, restored film is a mesmerizing, stylized adaptation of St. Ansky's legendary tale of predestined love and possession from beyond the grave.

The Oscar-nominated film, "Camille Claudel," has an exclusive area engagement at the DFT on March 30 through April 1, just days after the Academy Awards ceremony. This is the story of the complex, obsessive relationship between the great sculptor Auguste Rodin (Gerard Depardieu) and his pupil, Camille Claudel (Isabelle Adjani). Adjani, who is among the Oscar nominees for Best Actress, won the French Academy Award (Cesar) for Best Actress, as well as the Best Actress Prize at the 1989 Berlin Film Festival. In addition to Adjani's awards, "Camille Claudel," which is also an Oscar nominee for Best Foreign Film, received a total of five French "Oscars," including Best Picture of the Year.

Because of the anticipated popularity of the seven-performance engagement of "Camille Claudel," advance ticket purchases are suggested. Tickets to DFT screenings are $4 or coupon books are $25 (offers a book of 10 film admissions). Tickets for all films are available in advance at the DIA Ticket Office, or MasterCard and Visa phone charges area available during weekdays. Call the DIA Ticket Office at 833-2323 for further information.

Women's suffrage movement shown

"Count On Me," a dramatic portrayal of Michigan's 1912 campaign for women's suffrage, will be held Saturday, March 24, from 2 to 3:30 p.m. at the Detroit Public Library in Friends Auditorium.

The one-hour drama, written by Attic Theatre teacher and actress Randi Douglas, portrays the experiences of two generations of Michigan women who fought for liberty, justice, and the right to vote. It focuses on a mysterious visit to a contemporary student from her historic foremothers.

Detroit actress Sakunah DeLaney is featured as abolitionist Sojourner Truth and Detroit suffragist Mary McCoy. Douglas plays abolitionist Laura Smith Haviland and Detroit suffragist Clara Arthur in the play.

The historical characters reenact their passionate debate, crowd-rousing speeches, and sly tactics to gain support for the cause of human rights in their efforts to inform the student, played by Kyla Byas of Cass Technical High School.

For information, call Silvia Williams, curator of Education for the Detroit Historical Department, at 833-9720. Admission is free and the performance is open to the public and suitable for children ages 10 and over. A discussion with performers will follow.

Spring arrives at Henry Ford Museum and the always-fun Greenfield Village

March winds will blow in a season of discovery and delight at Henry Ford Museum & Greenfield Village. A variety of special activities and exhibits plus an expanded spring schedule provide numerous incentives to rouse folks from winter's hibernation to rediscover the museum and village this spring.

March kicks off with the opening of a new exhibit, "Main Street U.S.A.," which illustrates the development of downtown business districts in cities and towns across America through a display of 64 turn-of-the-century photographs.

St. Patrick's Day weekend (March 17 and 18) offers a real motive to "celebrate the green" as Greenfield Village re-opens its historic homes, shops and workplaces of days past. Meanwhile, museum visitors can stroll down memory lane with live music and dancing at "Henry Ford Museum Live! Sounds of Rock 'n' Roll," the museum's third "special weekend" of 1990.

"Henry Ford Museum Live and on the Air!" April 7 and 8, takes visitors back to the Golden Age(s) of Radio and Television with a re-creation of the popular TV show "What's My Line?" and auditions for a radio news program or even a 1950s television commercial.

Firestone Farm workers will show city — and suburb — dwellers just what the "good old days" of the 1880s were like during "Spring Farm Days," April 27, 28 and 29. The men will be guiding the draught horses as they plow and harrow the fields, while the women beat rugs, polish the stove, and air out the bedding in the farmhouse. There's so much to be done that visitors may even be asked to pitch in.

April showers bring not only May flowers but also the "Village Antiques Show," May 11-13. Considered to be one of the finest antiques events in the country, the show attracts exhibitors from across the nation with merchandise reflecting the scope and quality of the museum's own collections. Included will be furniture and accessories, paintings, jewelry, toys, clothing, glass and ceramics, textiles, clocks and watches, all chosen to appeal to the discerning collector. Unlike most activities and special weekends which are included in the price of admission, there is a $5 per person charge for the Village Antiques Show.

Whether inside the museum or outdoors in the village, Memorial Day weekend promises to be memorable.

Indoors, an American institution which has become a symbol of "the good life" and even a target for movie satire — the vacation — for the first time is the subject of a major museum exhibition. Opening May 26, "Americans on Vacation" explores the evolution of American vacations from the early 19th century to the present, examining changes in how we plan and pack for our trips, where we travel, what we enjoy doing, and how we preserve our memories.

In the village, visitors will salute America's armed forces from the Civil War to the present during "Memorial Day Observances," May 26, 27 and 28. Parades, music and encampments will honor the men and women who gave their lives for their country in the six wars since the mid-19th century.

Throughout 1990, the museum is showcasing two temporary exhibits which recognize the influence of design on 20th-century America. "The Herman Miller Furniture Collection: A Gift to Henry Ford Museum & Greenfield Village" features landmark designs in residential and office furniture.

From the late 1950s until the early 1970s, General Motors designer Bill Mitchell set the standard for American car design with such cars as the Chevrolet Corvette Stingray and Buick Riviera. "Power In Motion: The Automotive Design Career of Bill Mitchell" chronicles his achievements through original renderings and examples of his most famous cars.

In addition, beginning in mid-March visitors to Henry Ford Museum can enjoy different 10-minute presentations each day tracing the stories behind various objects and items that are on display.

Separate admission to the museum and village is $10.50 for adults, $9.50 for senior citizens age 62 and over, $5.25 for children ages 5-12, with children 4 and under free. There is no charge for special programs (with the exception of the Village Antiques Show) beyond regular admission.

Annual passes and memberships, good for unlimited visits to both facilities for one year, are available at the museum and village entrances.

Romeo and Juliet

The fully-staged and costumed classic opera will be presented at 7 p.m. Sunday, March 25, by the touring Texas Opera Theater at Macomb Center for the Performing Arts. Tickets at $20 for adults and $18 for students and senior citizens may be obtained at the center's box office or reserved on credit card by calling 286-2222. Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. The center is located on the Center Campus of Macomb Community College at Hall (M-59) and Garfield roads in Clinton Township.

The Velvettes

Motown sound to rock museum

The Velvettes, an original Motown group, will headline Henry Ford Museum's next special weekend, "The Sounds of Rock 'n' Roll," Saturday and Sunday, March 17 and 18.

The Velvettes will take the stage with their distinctive sound and choreography twice each day. Accompanied by the Johnny Kidd Band, they will perform their own hits, "Needle in a Haystack" and "He Was Really Saying Something," as well as chartbusters by other famous Motown groups.

Museum visitors can keep on rockin' as George Bedard and the Kingpins will jam to the sounds of the rock's first decade, performing everything from Chuck Berry songs to surfing music.

A '60s-style DJ will round out the weekend, spinning hits from the mid-1950s through 1965 with his own commentary on the tunes that shaped the time. The Step In Time Dancers will be on hand to encourage museum visitors to kick up their heels.

There is no charge for special weekend activities beyond regular museum admission. Henry Ford Museum & Greenfield Village is located at Oakwood Boulevard and Village Road in Dearborn, just west of the Southfield Freeway (M-39) and south of Michigan Avenue (U.S. 12).

Detroit Youtheatre's March lineup

"Gemini:Fancy That!" featuring twin brothers Sandor and Laszlo Slomovits, kicks off the Detroit Youtheatre of the Detroit Institute of Arts' March schedule which offers presentations for children ages 3 to early teens and families.

On Saturday, March 17, Detroit Youtheatre presents "The Red Ball," a special Wiggle Club show for ages 3 and older. "The Red Ball" is a comic fantasy in which puppets, black light and fluorescent paint combine for an imaginative show.

The performances center around a bored and restless little girl "who, with the help of a bright, red ball, is delighted when ordinary kitchen utensils assume a variety of new lives (oven mitts turn into fish, a potted plant sprouts arms, legs and a head thus becoming an ornery gardener, a kitchen table becomes a moose and much more).

On Saturday, March 24, a childhood favorite, "Harriet The Spy," comes to the Detroit Youtheatre. This is an adventuresome yet sensitive musical tale about a precocious sixth-grader who, largely ignored by her self-absorbed, career-oriented parents, befriends the housekeeper. When Harriet confides to the housekeeper that she does not know what she wants to be when she grows up, the housekeeper gives her a notebook and suggests that she observe people and events around her.

However, the overzealous Harriet stretches the truth a bit and her spying becomes annoying.

"Amigo," one of Mexico City's newest and hottest young musical groups, will appear at the Detroit Youtheatre on Saturday,

Amigo's performance includes an exhilarating blend of pop music, salsa, rock 'n' roll, Broadway and current Latin American

All Detroit Youtheatre performances are at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. in the DIA Auditorium. Except for noted Wiggle Club performances, no one under 5 will be admitted to the theater.

For ticket information, call the DIA ticket office at 833-2323.

Learn to act for Chekov

Versatile New York actor Roger Bechtel, currently starring in the leading role in the Attic's production of "Hamlet," will offer a four-week course, "Acting Chekhov," through the Attic Theatre Conservatory.

Bechtel, a graduate of the Yale School of Drama, is well versed as a Shakespearean actor, sword-fighter and also in the plays of Anton Chekhov, having studied recently with Oley Gaba-kov of the Moscow Arts Theatre.

"The class will be a performance class, with the focus of Stanislavsky principles to draw out the rich subtext and character analysis which appear in Chekhov's plays," Bechtel said.

The class will begin Tuesday, March 20, from 7-9 p.m. at the Attic Theatre Offices, 2990 W. Grand Blvd., Suite 308.

Also being offered are a Shakespeare class, taught by Gordon Reinhart, who is directing "Hamlet," and an improvisation class by the Attic's resident Improv expert, Randi Douglas.

To register, or for more information on classes, call the Attic Theatre at 875-8285.

'Rock concert' at Macomb

A national touring troupe of singers and musicians will bring back the glory days of the Bea-ties, Elvis Presley and Buddy Holly in a "Rock 'n' Roll Concert" at 7 p.m. Sunday, March 18, at Macomb Center for the Performing Arts.

The show will be presented as the final event in this season's "1950s and '60s" series at the center.

Tickets are $14 for adults and $12.50 for students and senior citizens. They may be obtained at the center's box office or reserved on credit card by calling 286-2222, Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. The center is located on the Center Campus of Macomb Community College at Hall (M-59) and Garfield roads in Clinton Township.

This family really works together — all together

By Dan Jarvis
Staff Writer

So you think the extended family has vanished and been replaced by the highly mobile nuclear family unit. Don't tell that to the Sauerses of Grosse Pointe Woods.

As the primary work force behind the Skip Printing and Duplicating company in Roseville, the Sauerses have resurrected a traditional extended family work ethic based on European tradition and the modern-day mobile society with its fragmented, diverse families.

Rob, 25, is an immaculately dressed young man who works in the Roseville office. Witnessing just a few minutes of the high-paced Skip operation is enough to make anyone want a taste of it.

Working and handling equipment is the main thing and the other people doing a job. It's a lot of work, but it's a lot of fun. It's a lot of fun, but it's a lot of work.

At any given moment there are several customers asking questions, moving samples, making and picking up orders. Meanwhile, family members handle it all with a frantic calm that seems to be the rule rather than the exception at Skip.

"It's crazy," said Gail Sauers, Bob's wife. "But that's all right."

For Sauers, the pace is more restful than his former positions at three major advertising agencies: Ross-Roy, Campbell Ewald and Meldrum & Fewsmith. "I got out of the advertising business to have fun, to live longer and to get into business for myself," he said.

They have three grown children: Rob, 25, is the plant manager with a bachelor's degree in graphic arts. Rob, the oldest, is also the all-around fix-up person who keeps the equipment in top order.

Kathy, 23, is the computer specialist who, along with her aunt, Sue DeMeyere, and workmate Karen Palka, holds down the typesetting side of the business known as East Side Type and Graphics.

The youngest, Tricia, 20, is studying accounting at Central Michigan University in Mount Pleasant.

"Since Tricia could stand up, she was collating paper work," Mrs. Sauers said.

As treasurer, Mrs. Sauers handles the accounting and book-keeping, while her husband heads sales and design concepts.

"We help customers with multi-color orders, making videos and performing virtually all facets of advertising and marketing," Sauers said. "If there's a buck in it, then we sell it. We're kind of like a quick printer in terms of price but the quality is much better. We handle up to six-color process for the automotive industry."

Sauers' advertising experience helped him design a packet for new owners of the Chevrolet ZR-1 Corvette. The packet features a leather portfolio case, a fancy key chain, a clothbound owner's manual and matching Corvette history.

Skip also designs and produces sales and descriptive materials for heavy industrial operations and the real estate industry and has even produced membership rosters and printed material for the Grosse Pointe and Bayview yacht clubs.

Predicting a slump in the automotive industry, Sauers diversified Skip's focus to the print industry as a whole. The move brought plenty of growth opportunities for Skip, which now hums and clanks six days a week.

"We don't have as heavy a backlog as we would like," Sauers said. "But we're happy that we're so busy."

Since Skip's first day 12 years ago, Sauers has increased the staff from three to 10 people.

"Skip had a niche in the industry," Sauers said. "But we needed typesetting capabilities. We bought some typesetting equipment and began East Side Type and Graphics, which is really a company within itself."

Since the introduction of East Side Type, the growth rate for Skip has been about 20 percent a year. By the end of 1990, Sauers hopes Skip will post its first million dollar sales year. "That's if things go as planned," he said. "But that is in the hands of Michigan's economy."

One of Skip's secrets of success is high productivity and a commitment to get the job done correctly and on time. "We recognize that customers need something when they need it," Sauers said. "We have worked 'round the clock, whatever it takes. That's the commitment you need if you want to stay in business for awhile."

"We like to pitch in and help the employees," Sauers said. "We are employees just like them so we try to be flexible."

To Mrs. Sauers, Skip's success depends on the employees getting along together. "Part of the fun is working together," she said. "We also get along pretty well at home, primarily by not taking the job home at night."

Home for the Sauers family is a Grosse Pointe Woods house built by Gail's parents. "It took a lot of talking to get Bob to move this far east," Mrs. Sauers said. He's an admitted westsider from Ferndale. "I used to think when I got to Gratiot I would get wet," he quipped.

While her children were in school, Mrs. Sauers was active in the Barnes Parent Teacher Association. For her volunteer work in the Barnes lunchroom and many other school-related activities, Mrs. Sauers was named Volunteer of the Year by the Grosse Pointe Board of Education in the early 1970s.

Sauers coached Little League and was active with the athletic departments at both North and South high schools.

Breen

Michael F. Breen of Grosse Pointe Park was recently appointed executive director of Saratoga Community Hospital by the Saratoga Hospital board of trustees. Breen had been acting executive director since June 1989. Prior to that, he was director of professional services for Saratoga; he served as administrative liaison to the medical staff and was responsible for implementing a hospital/medical staff relations program.

Mark Ulicny of Grosse Pointe Woods was appointed Wayne County labor relations director by Wayne County Executive Edward H. McNamara. Ulicny was previously employed at the law firm of Plunkett & Cooney where he was involved in collective bargaining, grievance arbitration and discrimination and employee relation matters. Among his duties with the county, Ulicny will be responsible for coordinating, administering and negotiating contracts.

Ulicny

Janet Horsman Ridder has joined the staff of R.G. Edgar and Associates as sales associate. Prior to joining Edgar and Associates, Ridder was assistant to the publisher of four international technical trade journals at Cardiff Publishing Company. Ridder has served on the board of directors of Planned Parenthood in Detroit and is currently a member of the board of trustees of Hamilton College and is an active member of the Junior League of Detroit. She lives in Grosse Pointe Farms.

Michael E. Tindall has been reappointed as secretary/treasurer of Gleaners Community Food Bank of Detroit, a non-profit service organization providing food for the needy. This is Tindall's third appointment as secretary/treasurer; each term runs three years. He is the managing partner of Tindall & Associates, P.C., a law firm located in St. Clair Shores. Tindall is a long-time resident of Grosse Pointe.

Grosse Pointe Park resident George O. Murray has been appointed vice president and chief financial officer of Expert Implementations Corp. of Farmington Hills. EIC provides computer system consulting for small-to-medium size companies and a single-point focus for computer system specification, procurement and implementation. Murray brings 20 years of fiscal management and engineering experience to his new position. As president and COO of Utility Technical Services, a subsidiary of Detroit Edison, Murray managed worldwide technical services and consultation.

Murray

James F. Mooney, senior vice president and branch manager of Dean Witter Reynolds, Inc. in Detroit and a resident of Grosse Pointe, has been elected 1990 chairman of the District No. 8 Business Conduct Committee of the National Association of Securities Dealers, Inc. The committee monitors the compliance with federal securities laws and the NASD's own Rules of Fair Practice of 800 securities firms in Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota, the Dakotas and Wisconsin and imposes penalties where violations are found. Mooney has served on the 15-member committee for the last two years.

Mack business, professional group to meet March 27

The Grosse Pointe Business & Professional Association of Mack Avenue is hosting a cocktail and dinner meeting Tuesday, March 27, at 6:30 p.m. at the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club.

President Bob Mowbray will report on two important projects that the group is sponsoring again this summer — the Mack Avenue Clean-Up and Flower Sale on May 12 and the annual Fourth of July fireworks display to be held Sunday, July 1, at the Parcels athletic field.

After the short meeting, Wayne County Commissioner

David Cavanagh, a Grosse Pointe Woods resident, will speak on current and future conditions of Mack Avenue and the status of all the Pointes as they relate to Wayne County government. There will be a question and answer period following the speech.

Reservations should be made by March 22 by sending a check made out to GPB&PA to Karen Warren, First of America Bank, 17101 Mack Ave., Detroit, Mich. 48224 or by calling Lee Meyer at 881-9099 with firm reservations. The price per person is $18 with a choice of steak or fish.

Politics and hospitals

As part of St. John Hospital and Medical Center's program of grassroots political advocacy, legislators from various communities in its service area visit the hospital to learn how current issues affect health care for residents of their districts. From left, Glenn Wesselmann, president and chief executive officer, talks with Rep. Sharon Gire (D-72nd) of Mount Clemens, and Rep. William Bryant (R-13th) of Grosse Pointe Farms at the hospital.

Community education plans financial classes

The spring schedule of classes offered by Community Education contains three single sessions in finance. The series begins at 7 p.m. Tuesday, March 20, with "Preparing for Death: A Financial and Life Goals Approach." Conducted by the Financial Education Network, the class is designed to minimize the financial and emotional distress of losing a loved one, including how to inventory your assets, estate preservation techniques, how to use insurance and ownership techniques to minimize the cost of death, and what to do before and after the loss of a loved one. Fee is $8 with a $5 materials fee collected in class. The second class, "Investing — the Basics," will be held at 7 p.m. Tuesday, March 27. The fundamental mini-course leads to an understanding of the three main ways to invest using cash equivalents, bonds and stocks. Learn the importance of proper asset-allocation techniques to structure a portfolio to meet your specific needs. It will be taught by Kevin McDevitt. The third offering, "Finances for the Retiree," will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, March 29.

Taught by Philip DeLange, focus will be on Ginnie Maes and other U.S. government securities, high income mutual funds, preferred stocks, and other investments to help increase a retirement income, as well as trust accounts and estate planning. Fee is $6. All three classes will be held at Barnes School, 20090 Morningside Drive, Grosse Pointe Woods. Call 343-2178 for information.

Finances, divorce to be discussed

In a program designed primarily for women, Helen Hart and Phyllis Kozlowski will discuss financial considerations before, during and after divorce Thursday, March 22, from 7 to 9 p.m. at the War Memorial. Hart, an educator and certified financial planner, and Kozlowski, an attorney in private practice, will answer procedural questions about the divorce process and its impact on financial security. Topics such as the value of marital assets and the preferred type of settlement will also be discussed. Seminar fee is $5 and advance registration is suggested. For further information, call 881-7511.

Business Notes

John C. Brooks, C.L.U., of Grosse Pointe Farms, and J.C. Brooks Jr., announce the opening of their Allstate Insurance Neighborhood Office, located at 19921 East Twelve Mile Road, Roseville. This father and son team brings 31 years of insurance experience into this joint venture. Joining them as office manager is Laura J. Dennis of Grosse Pointe Woods.

Grosse Pointe Symphony Orchestra: Music for— and by — the community

Felix Resnick conducts a rehearsal of the Grosse Pointe Symphony Orchestra. He has served as conductor since 1959.

By Margie Reins Smith
Feature Editor

The 65 or so members of the Grosse Pointe Symphony are top-notch musicians — and more.

About a year ago, the group arrived for practice at Grosse Pointe North High School. They discovered the practice room was locked and nobody had the key.

No problem.

One of the orchestra members was a locksmith. He picked the lock. The rehearsal went on as planned.

Each symphony member could be identified by his or her instrument: violinist, percussionist, trombonist and so on. But this eclectic gathering consists of registered nurses, computer systems engineers, teachers, bankers, Junior League volunteers, attorneys, salesmen, secretaries, locksmiths, doctors, housewives and more.

Some members are teenagers. Some are twentysomethings, thirtysomethings, forty-, fifty-, sixty- and seventysomethings.

They're united by their love for performing symphonic music.

"Our original purpose was to present music for the community," said conductor Felix Resnick. "It still is.

"It's also an outlet for talented people."

Resnick is assistant principal second violinist with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. In addition, he's served as the Grosse Pointe Symphony's conductor for 31 years.

The idea of a community orchestra was under discussion as early as 1953, when Thomas Nester, Stanley Scotford and Alois Chronowski were having coffee together, according to the symphony's history which is printed in a recent concert program.

The group's first rehearsal was at Pierce Junior High School in January 1954. The new, 59-member symphony's first concert (a sellout, incidently) took place on Sunday afternoon, March 7, 1954, at Parcels Junior High School.

Wayne Dunlap was the conductor.

That first group consisted of 12 teachers, 18 students, five housewives, one banker, one lawyer, and 13 others engaged in a variety of businesses and industries, according to an article in the Grosse Pointe News. One of the symphony's original members was only 12 years old.

The Grosse Pointe Symphony Orchestra Society now has about 300 members — all the season ticket holders — according to President Irene Blatchford. The season consists of four subscription concerts: one in November, February, April and May. In addition to the subscription concerts, the society holds special events during the season — a dinner with entertainment and dancing in October — a cabaret concert, which is coming up on Friday, March 23 — and an outdoor concert each summer as part of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial's Summer Music Festival.

The symphony often combines its talents with other community organizations, like the Theatre Arts Society or the Choraliers.

In addition, the Grosse Pointe Symphony sponsors a musical scholarship fund in honor of Thomas Nester, one of the symphony's founders and the first president of the society. High school musicians in grades 9-11 in the area audition before a committee and the winner receives a grant for advanced music studies plus the opportunity for a solo performance at a Grosse Pointe Symphony concert.

Auditions will take place in April.

Resnick said the symphony has served as a training ground for young musicians as well as an outlet for older musicians. "Many young people have begun their careers with the Grosse Pointe Symphony," he said. "Ani and Ida Cavafian, two young violinists, are now well-known in New York. Pianist James Tocco was a soloist with us when he was in his teens. Pianist Cynthia Raim and dozens more have gone on to professional jobs with major symphonies in other cities."

Resnick said the group plays a classical repertoire, but with variety. "Over the years, we've done it all, except for works that require an exceptionally large orchestra. We've done all the Brahms symphonies, the Tchaikovsky, the Rachmaninoff, the Berlioz. We've done choral work. We've also done lighter concerts, more familiar works."

He added that in recent years, orchestra members tend to be younger than they were in the early years.

"We're always there. We try to play what people want. We're trying to attract a younger audience," he said.

puter systems engineer.

Patten teaches music for the Detroit Public Schools. Strachan is assistant vice president, lending, for Standard Federal Savings. Nahat is vice president, trust division, for National Bank of Detroit. Ford is a registered nurse and a critical care instructor at Detroit Osteopathic Hospital. She also serves as the orchestra's manager.

Fontbonne's spring fashion show will be 'A Sterling Affair'

The 25th annual fashion show and luncheon of the Fontbonne Auxiliary of St. John Hospital will be Tuesday, April 3, beginning at 11 a.m., at the Renaissance Ballroom of the Westin Hotel. Fashions will be by David Boutique.

Fittingly, the silver anniversary event will be called "A Sterling Affair." Proceeds from ticket sales for this benefit have provided health care for thousands through the years. This year's proceeds will purchase four infant ventilators for the hospital's neonatal intensive care unit.

Tickets are $25 per person. They may be ordered by writing to the Fontbonne Auxiliary, 22101 Moross, Detroit, 48236. Call 343-3675 for more information.

Alice Reisig of Grosse Pointe Park is general chairman. Among those on the committee are: Marilee Rinke, Jane Buhl, Betty J. Nelson, Maureen Allison, Mary Gallant, Carol Cracchiolo, Patricia Ostosh, Sally Shield, Carol Barr, Varilyn VanBriggle, Lorna Zaleniski, Charlene Prysak, Mary Ann Werschky, Mary Nolan, Marilyn Olson, Jean Azar, Alice Grieshaber, Gertrude Young, Pattie Klimchuk, Becky Grajewski, Gayle Boutrous, Betsy Schooff, Betty Deneau, Sister Sylvia Dimeck and Karen Janssen.

Raffle prizes will be chosen at the luncheon. The top three prizes total more than $12,000. Twenty-five prizes will be given away.

TV auction: Grosse Pointe Woods residents Jim and Kay Baubie have been named co-chairpersons, along with Al and Sharie Gladner of Southfield, for the 22nd annual Channel 56 Auction, which will take place April 20-29 on WTVS.

Detroit Public Television's annual fundraiser raised $668,642 in 1989, accounting for 9 percent of Channel 56's operating budget.

Kay Baubie will serve as processing supervisor for all gift certificates donated to the auction. This involves itemizing and organizing hundreds of certificates which are redeemable for items like concert tickets and dinners at local restaurants as well as for personal services like hair-styling and aerobics classes.

Jim Baubie will assist the shelving supervisor during the 10 days the auction is on the air. In this capacity, he will make sure that all items up for bid are properly shelved for pick up after they've been shown on the air.

The Channel 56 auction needs new merchandise valued at $70 or more — appliances, jewelry, apparel, tools and sporting goods. To donate, businesses may call the auction office at 876-8350.

"Volunteering at Channel 56 is one of the most energizing and rewarding things you can do for yourself and your community," said Kay Baubie. The Baubies have been volunteers for this fundraiser for the last six years.

The funds raised make possible such programs as "Sesame Street," "Nova," "Masterpiece Theatre," and local shows like "Neal Shine's Detroit" and "Club Connect."

Swedish deb: Two young Grosse Pointers participated in a century-old tradition on the evening of Feb. 24. Anna Marie Margareta Lundberg of Oernskoeldsvik, Sweden, and Lars Schneider of Frankfurt, West Germany, are both exchange students at University Liggett School and are living in Grosse Pointe for a year.

On Feb. 24, Lundberg was presented as debutante at the Austrian Society's 43rd annual ball at Cobo Hall. Schneider was her escort.

After her introduction, Lundberg made a deep curtsy to nearly 2,000 guests and the young couple joined 31 other couples in performing an elaborate grand march and polonaise to the music of Johann Strauss and Frederic Chopin.

In the court of honor that provided the backdrop for the presentation of Lundberg and seven other debutantes, were fellow-ULS students Katrina Ho- man, Yohanna Suczek, Wilson Wehmeyer and Marcel Antras, an exchange student from Barcelona, Spain. With them was Susan Kolodziejczyk from Grosse Pointe South High School.

The grand march and polonaise is open to sons and daughters of families who trace some relationship to one of the countries linked with Austria-Hungary. Anyone interested in participating should call the directors of the presentation, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Suczek, 885-0793.

Take a hike: The March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation has begun its 1990 "Golden Mile" fundraising event, which will take place on March 23.

The Golden Mile is a symbolic one-mile walk through Stroh River Place designed for busy professionals who have the heart — but not the time — to participate in the 25-kilometer Walk-America, the March of Dimes' annual fundraiser to be held on April 29. Money raised from the Golden Mile will be used to further the March of Dimes Campaign for Healthier Babies.

Golden Mile walkers are asked to secure pledges from friends and employers. Minimum donation is $150 per walker.

The event begins at River Place Inn, 1000 Stroh River Place, on Friday, March 23, at 11 a.m. After the one-mile walk through Stroh River Place, participants will return to the Rattlesnake Club to celebrate with a thank-you lunch.

For information about pledging or participating, call the March of Dimes, 423-3200.

DSO benefit: "Encore by the Lake," the third in a series of 18 musical fundraisers presented by the Volunteer Council of Detroit Symphony Orchestra Hall, will take place at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Kim Lie of Grosse Pointe Park.

Gordon Staples, former DSO concertmaster, will perform.

Tickets are $40 per person. Call Trudy Rhoades, 886-1933, for details.

American art: American paintings from the collection of Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Manogian of Grosse Pointe Farms will be on display at the Detroit Institute of Arts from March 27 through May 27.

More than 70 paintings by American artists from 1830 to 1910 have been selected for the exhibition, including works by Raphaelle Peale, George Caleb Bingham, Thomas Eakins, John Singer Sargent and William Merritt Chase. The exhibit will travel to the National Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C., then to San Francisco and New York. Exhibition admission is $3.

Spring break: Some Grosse Pointers traveled to Boca Raton, Fla., to attend a benefit for the Michigan Cancer Foundation recently.

"Spring Break '90" consisted of three days of benefit parties: a cocktail party hosted by Frank and Stephanie Germack on March 9; a reception, dinner and dancing at the Boca Raton Hotel & Club on March 10; and a seabreeze buffet hosted by Weldon and Page Yeager at their home on March 11.

Members of the host committee also include Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Meade, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Lamparter and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Jaques.

Kay and Jim Baubie

— Margie Reins Smith

The Pastor's Corner

We know what, not when

By the Rev. Tom Schomaker
Jefferson Avenue United Methodist Church

Shakespeare's tragic hero, Julius Caesar, was warned of this day in his own history. The sage offered: "Beware the Ides of March."

The ominous words pointed the character and the audience toward destiny. They didn't know what would happen, but they knew when it would happen. Christian experience and prophesy points us and our history differently. God will fulfill history in God's good time. We know what will happen. We don't know when.

"Hallelujah! Hallelujah! Hallelujah! Freedom is coming," screamed African Anglican Archbishop Desmond Tutu, as he danced in ecstasy upon hearing that Nelson Mandela had been released from prison after 28 years.

Rejoicing in a triumph he fought for so hard, Tutu saw a turning point for South Africa and all of Western history. He knew how history would move, and he exploded in grateful joy when it suddenly burst upon him. Truly, he was dancing with God as a partner.

The past few months have opened the world to change to totally unexpected in its swiftness. Eastern Europe has shattered chains forged by many years and much blood. Soviet moves toward democracy opened doors to fresh air throughout its empire. Global politics and power are presently leaning in the directions of last year's victims. Apartheid's spine has snapped. Its death is imminent. That is music for dancing with God.

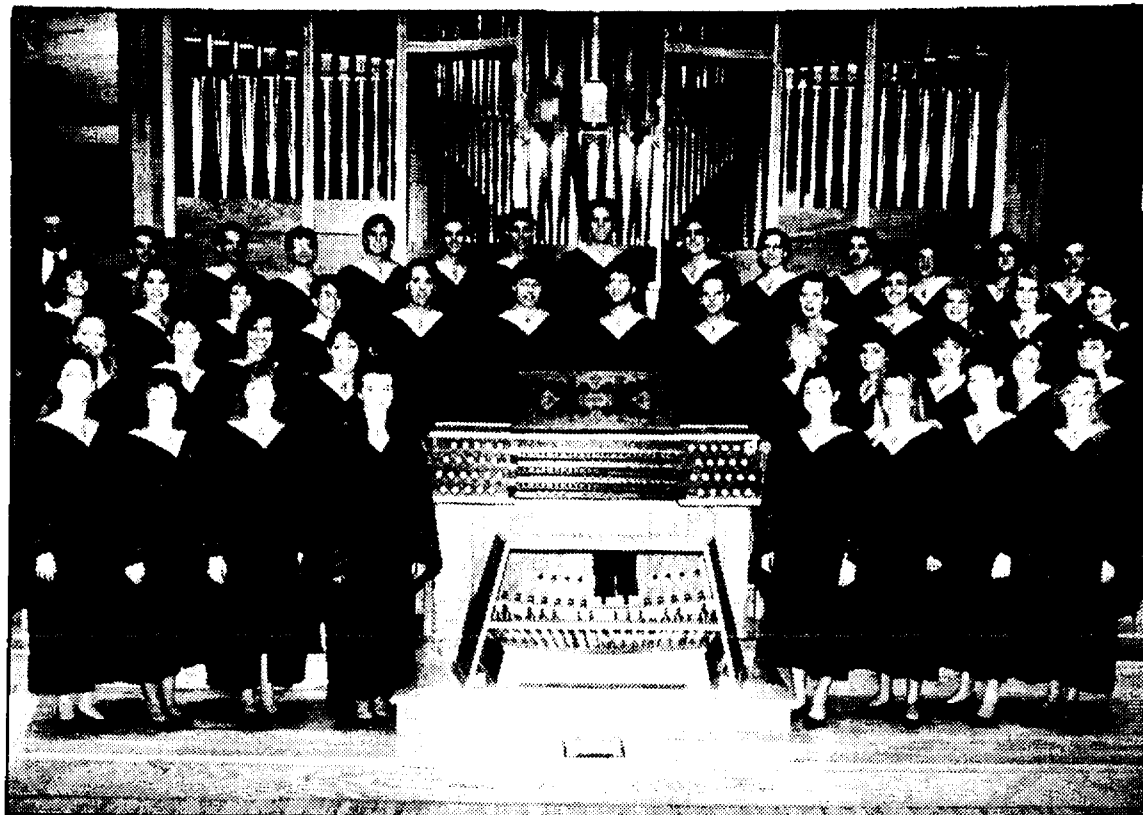

Lent prepares us for the unexpected. To the very end, the disciples failed to grasp what God had in mind with Christ in Jesus. At the most unexpected time, God took control of history. That the disciples were caught unexpectedly is understatement. What better lesson for us to be ready for God's changes at any moment.

With liturgy, we space out the year and fix a date of resurrection. Then we move predictably toward the date. The lesson of Lent is to be always ready for the event to interrupt our expectations.

We know where history is headed. God invites us to work toward the ends rather than defy God with our status-quo:

- We can work so our system promotes people rather than the Pentagon.
- We can demand bail-outs for desperate communities, not devious corporations.
- We can actively work toward an end to racism within our own community.
- We can join God who always calls people to overcome isolation across economic, religious and national boundaries.

Who among us was not moved by Bishop Tutu's joyous dance? God's call overwhelms our fears and makes us God's dancing partners.

Calvin College Capella

First Christian Reformed presents Calvin College Choir

The Calvin College Capella of Grand Rapids will present the next concert in the 1990 Choral Concert Series at the First Christian Reformed Church of Detroit, 1444 Maryland, Grosse Pointe Park, on Friday, March 30 at 8 p.m.

Conducted by Merle R. Mustert, the Calvin College Capella is a 39-voice choir which has performed extensively in this country and abroad. Within the past decade the scope of Calvin musical presentations has been broadened by the choir's appearances in the cathedrals of England and on television both in the United States and in the Netherlands. During the summer of 1988, the choir toured Central and Eastern Europe presenting concerts in Hungary, Germany, Italy and the Netherlands.

The concert is open to the public. A free will offering will be taken to help defray expenses.

Memorial church women review book

The book review for the Presbyterian Women of Grosse Pointe Memorial Church will be presented on March 20, by the Rev. Anne E. Fuhmeister at 1 p.m. in the church lounge.

Fuhmeister will review "The Messiah" by Marjorie Holmes. The book has been described as, "a fascinating presentation of the life, family, and close associates of Christ." It is a fictional book based on the few known facts of Jesus' life. It creates a setting of Christ's life as it might have been.

Fuhrmeister was born in Detroit. She is an alumna of Coe College in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, where she majored in English and French. She graduated from Princeton Seminary in 1982. She served churches in Ohio and in Ypsilanti before coming to Grosse Pointe Memorial Church in August, 1985, as interim associate pastor. She is presently serving as parish associate.

Luncheon will precede the book review at noon. Please call the church to make reservations: 882-5330.

Program for single parents

An eight-week, low-cost program to help single mothers become successful single parents, presented by Catholic Services of Macomb, will begin Thursday, March 22, from 3:30 to 5 p.m., at A Friend's House Adult Day Care Center, 28111 Imperial, in Warren.

"Reaching for Success! Single Parenting in the '90s," will be directed by Tracey Asbury, a specialist in single parent counseling.

Topics will include parenting techniques, children's needs outside the home, establishing beneficial friendships and social supports, developing healthy lifestyle habits, setting goals and assessing skills to achieve financial and job security, and an exploration of the role and responsibility of the father figure in a single-parent family.

Cost is $15 for the series or $2 per session, which includes free on-site child care. Scholarships are available.

For information, call Tracey Asbury at 558-7551.

The Assumption Greek Orthodox Church and Cultural Center this spring offers luncheon tours of its recently completed sacred iconography.

A light luncheon will be served following the tour. There is no charge for the tour, but luncheon donation is $7. Tours are available Thursday, March 22; Thursday, April 19; or Saturday, May 19, from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

Exchange Club donates funds to Safe Rides

The Exchange Club of Grosse Pointe-St. Clair Shores recently donated $200 to each of the Safe Rides programs from Grosse Pointe South and Grosse Pointe North High Schools.

Exchange Club President John Schober made the check presentations to members of the two groups at a recent club meeting. Accepting on behalf of the Safe Rides programs were Grosse Pointe South Safe Rides President Mary Begg and Treasurer Sean Kelly, and Grosse Pointe North Safe Rides Vice President John Galvin.

The Safe Rides program, developed by the Boy Scouts of America and concerned members of the community, is designed for teenagers who need a free and confidential ride home because they are incapable of driving themselves home safely or because they would be riding in a vehicle driven by someone who is impaired due to alcohol or drugs.

"Our club is proud to be of assistance to this most worthwhile effort. We are particularly pleased that the youth of today are involved in providing an answer to the problem of drinking and driving, which is of great concern to all," said Schober.

The program is open to students in grades 9-12. These students take a training course, attend meetings, and serve periodically on Friday and Saturday evenings. The free rides service is offered every Friday and Saturday night from 9:30 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. during the school year. Approximately 250 students from both high schools are involved in the Safe Rides Program.

Changes in Social Security should get careful, cautious consideration

The relieved sighs of older citizens for whom monthly Social Security checks make a difference between living and existing could be heard throughout the land when President Bush promised "not to mess around with Social Security."

Many seniors remember the great Depression, when living from day to day was a challenge. Money was almost non-existent. Young people were struggling to provide their families with food and housing.

It was worse for older citizens. With no jobs, no savings and little hope for the future, they had to move in with their children who had little to share or go to what was then called the "poor house."

One of the most poignant verses of the day was Will Carleton's, "Over the Hill to the Poor House." It tugged at the heartstrings with its rhythmic story of children who could not care for their mother. The horror of being old and destitute was real.

The 1935 Social Security Act marked the return of dignity, a degree of independence and the blessed relief from the fear of living too long for the elderly poor.

So it is with trepidation that older citizens regard any change in Social Security.

Many question Senator Pat Moynihan's proposal to repeal the most recent Social Security tax increases. That increase was proposed by the 1983 Greenspan Commission of which Moynihan was a member. Now he is proposing to repeal it. As late as May, 1988, he praised the tax.

Congress then endorsed higher Social Security taxes on the baby boom generation in the 1980's and 1990's, to avoid sharp tax increases on future generations when the baby boomers will have retired early in the 21st century.

Moynihan complains that Social Security taxes are being used to help balance the budget. Yet in 1988, he wrote: "In 12 days in January, 1983, a half-dozen people in Washington put in place a revenue stream that is just beginning to flow and that, if we don't blow it, will put the federal budget back in black, pay off the privately held government debt, jump-start the savings rate and guarantee the Social Security trust funds for a half century or more. Our present path takes us in theory to a zero deficit by 1993. If that happens, the revenue stream from Social Security will be sufficient to begin retiring debt by 1994."

So all along Moynihan expected that until 1994, the Social Security surplus would be used to shrink the current budget deficit.

In 1988, Moynihan defended the Social Security tax increase on the grounds that we don't save enough. That is as true today as it was in 1988, because most Americans still regard Social Security taxes as a kind of savings. This is understandable. Social Security taxes are contributions to trust funds.

To add to the controversy, Rep. John Porter of Illinois offers a plan. He suggests that workers own their own retirement accounts. He would return most of the present Social Security tax and then require workers to invest the rebated money in private savings accounts for their own retirement. In such a system, each family would fend for itself and the poor would be hurt. It would mean a loss for low-income families who now benefit from the system. Many privatization plans would end other Social Security benefits like disability and survivors insurance. The present Social Security system protects workers permanently disabled by injury or illness.

Another proposal is one proffered by Enid Borden and Bruce Schobel, both former high-level Social Security officials. They would return part of the payroll tax to workers. But unlike Mr. Porter, they would not reduce future benefits. The needy would be protected.

The drawback is the fiscal reverberation. Giving workers back their Social Security tax would gut federal revenue. To comply with Gramm-Rudman deficit targets while offsetting this decline, Congress would be forced to raise taxes and cut spending sharply.

Treasury Secretary Nicholas Brady had this to say about both plans:

"I think the Porter and Moynihan proposals are goofy. They strike at the very soundness of the Social Security system. To take a system that is now fixed — and unfix it — makes no sense at all. You either have to sacrifice actuarial integrity or you have to reduce benefits."

However, there is a real concern about the low level of U.S. savings to counteract the situation and one of the central features of the Bush budget is the Savings and Economic Growth Act. It proposes creation of a Family Savings Account (FSA), into which families with incomes of $120,000 or less could put up to $5,000 a year. The savings would be allowed to earn tax-free interest if left in the account for seven years. Unlike the old Individual Retirement Accounts, the initial contribution wouldn't be tax deductible. However, the saver in an FSA plan could withdraw the money without a penalty. Brady says the new account will stimulate new savings.

There are those who argue the key to economic growth is not force-feeding savings. It is providing a tax climate that encourages investment.

That same argument might well apply to reducing Social Security taxes.

Any change that affects Social Security would be approached with caution, particularly after the Medicaid experience in some states.

Some of concern is a rise in Social Security if any retirement plan is established. Social Security taxes were raised in 1983 to pay for the new Social Security program. The benefits of Social Security

Children need information to counteract myths about elderly

By Marlys Dee Craig
Special Writer

What children learn today about older adults may have a serious effect upon decisions about the elderly in the 21st century. Today's children will be the prime-age workers tomorrow. They will produce the goods that will support the baby boomers who have retired.

These future workers face the economic burden of having to support a bulging population of an estimated 65 million people, age 65 and over.

What kind of attitudes will today's children hold toward the older adult group? Will they be willing to consider solutions which resolve pressing age-group problems?

Unfortunately, our country tends to separate children and older people. There has been limited provision in the past for joining them together in meaningful activities.

Instead of learning about one another through personal experiences, the two age groups tend to form opinions about one another through television and other indirect sources. Such information consists of commonly held myths which many people accept without dispute.

There is a strong social need for parents of children and older adults to join together against poverty and poor health at both ends of the life cycle. The two groups often suffer the results together when this kind of destitution shatters family ties through which assistance ordinarily would be provided.

Impoverished families have poor children and poor older adults to care for. A fair social policy is actually based on the interdependence of the generations.

If the two generations are going to join together in common action, this requires more accurate understanding of the capacity of older adults to function.

Many social myths persist about the health and aging process.

Parents and teachers may provide appropriate sources of information to counteract learning that violates facts.

For instance:

- Physical aging consists of changes in body functions and starts from the time of birth. Normally, there is a decline in body function after 30, but the organs of the body do not all age at the same rate. How well older adults are able to function depends not only on their body condition but also their personal style of living, the use of resources available to them and people who help support them. Factors other than physical aging must be taken into consideration when estimating the capacity of an older person.

- An old folk belief says that you cannot teach an old dog new tricks. This has been applied to older persons as a pat answer to explain why they persist in doing what they do. People often say that older persons carry the same attitudes until they die. But we now know this is not true. Some change in personality continues throughout life. When attitudes appear more fixed in older persons, it may be because of their limited amount of educational opportunity.

- Not all older adults perceive their ages the same way. Old is not always old. There are reports that older persons often perceive themselves as younger, even middle aged. A younger image often depends upon physical health and the belief that one is better off than the members of one's age group. This view may change, however, as one's health and independence decline.

- Older adults may grow more concerned with the control and satisfaction of their own personal needs. People may say that old persons are self-preoccupied. This may be expected for older adults who are concerned about their decline in physical functioning and the ability to carry on the tasks of daily living. Older persons may show limited response to stimulation because they are depressed. The combined stresses of body ills, loss of relatives and friends, reduced income and society's negative attitudes about aging may stimulate chronic de-

- Memory loss is popularly associated with aging and used as a symptom of declining mental capacity. Research to date gives evidence of only small declines in intelligence, learning and memory in healthy older adults. Forgetting is common to all of us and occurs because a memory link has been blocked. Since memory depends upon associations, it is possible to learn cues which create an association with what is to be remembered. For example, many people of all ages use notes to prod their memory.

- It is commonly believed that old persons are lonely and separated from family and friends. Studies have repeatedly shown that the family is still the primary source of social support for older adults. The U.S. Senate Special Committee on Aging, 1986, states that nearly 94 percent of people over 65 have living family members.

At the present time, there is much need for available information about aging. Through information and knowledge the

STATE CHAMPS

With two wins in Flint's IMA arena, the University Liggett School hockey team claimed its No. 1 status as the best team in Class B-C-D.

Ousted again

After breezing through a very inadequate and unrewarding regular-season schedule, the University Liggett School basketball team found out that it's time to pack the schedule with more formidable opponents.

Last Tuesday night, the Knights were upended by Royal Oak Shrine in the first round of the district playoffs because they panicked down the stretch and blew an eight-point lead.

The only reason the team lost was because it's not used to tight games. In fact, ULS, which had really only four challenges in 20 games and won only two of them, lost because the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference is only a league by name — not by teams.

Thirty- and 40-point wins are not going to help even the finest and most talented of teams in the district playoffs. ULS entered the postseason tourney 18-2 and even had a No. 3 Class C ranking earlier in the year, but was dropped.

However, in order to garner any respect teams have to win in the postseason and ULS has failed to do that the last four years. Granted, in the previous three it was highly ranked Detroit Country Day School that eliminated the Knights, but this year should have been different because the Yellowjackets are in Class B.

To their credit, the Knights had solid victories over Notre Dame, Catholic Central and Cranbrook, and won their fourth straight Maumee, Ohio Tournament.

Entering the districts at Bishop Gallagher, ULS head coach Chuck Wright knew his team was in a district filled with parity, but realistically the Knights should have advanced. Mopping up teams with 30- and 40-point wins during a regular season does not prepare a team to battle in the tournament.

ULS should reconsider its thinking of playing in the MIAC, a league it dominated with a 9-0 record, and go back to an independent schedule and get some heavyweight contenders. This year, with Kandia Milton, Kevin Crociata, Tarik Lester, Kevin Whitfield, DeDan Milton, Brent McMahon and others, ULS had its finest team in years. Each of those players could start at a Class A school, but they've elected to attend ULS, where a basketball schedule only allows starting players 10 to 15 minutes a game, and doesn't allow for any down-to-the-wire games — the kind athletes learn how to win in.

ULS doesn't deserve to be drilled, but does need to analyze a patsy schedule when it has one. Wright will tell you that he's tired of cheating his players with games against such weaklings as Southfield Christian, Oakland Christian, Lutheran Westland and Lutheran Northwest, but still has to compete. Why? Because he has to honor the league he's in. I'd like to see ULS play more Class A teams, a few more Class B teams and wind up the season 10-10 instead of 18-2. In four years, the Knights have won 72 games, but have failed to win the big one — a district game. It's not to say Wright can't coach, and it's not that ULS doesn't have the horses to compete. It's just a schedule that gives the players no more of a challenge than they could get in a pick-up game.

ULS' tennis team takes on the state's top teams, so why can't the basketball team? The hockey team takes on top-rated Class A and B schools, so why can't the basketball team?

Wright wants some respect and attention for his team, but until he divorces the MIAC and gets some competition, his players won't get what they deserve.

Freshman Nick Giorgio may have said it best: "Bring on East Kentwood and any other team."

Giorgio expressed his teammates' sentiments just minutes after the University Liggett School won its first Class B-C-D state hockey title since 1980.

The Knights took home the triangular-shaped hardware March 10 after getting a 6-0 shutout win over Saginaw Nouvel Christian in the finals at Flint's IMA arena.

"The attitude was more serious and everyone had a well-focused drive. There's only one school that ends its season with a win. It's so rare and that in itself has such a big impact."

So will the subtle reminder of the new banner, which should be suspended from McCann Rink this spring.

"It's going to be something the boys will never forget," said Fowler. "They know exactly what it means and when we get a new banner it's going to be a great reminder of the fact that trying to do too many things."

It helps, too, that the Knights have Tripp Tracy in goal. Tracy, who yielded only two goals per game over the last five, including three regional games, stopped a combined 53 of 54 shots during the semifinals and finals.

"It's definitely a credit to Tripp," said Fowler. "He's come up big for us all season long and even bigger when it came crunch time."

So has the defensive tandem of Jesse Kasom and Mike Coello, who combined for 11 points in the final five games.

Tracy joined Doug Wood, the state's all-time leading scorer (177 goals, 195 assists), Coello, Andy VanDeweghe, Jonathon Davis and Kasom on the All-State team.

ULS reached the finals by escaping with a 2-1 semifinal win over 1989 Class B-C-D champ, Sault Ste. Marie, March 9, in a game that was touted as the 1990 state championship.

ULS drew first blood on VanDeweghe's goal, from Kasom and Davis, and that first-period lead held up until "The Sault" scored with 2:20 to play in the second period. With 1:51 left in the game, Wood took a rink-length pass from VanDeweghe and beat Devils' goalie Travis Pavlat up high to the glove side, giving the Knights a 2-1 win and a berth in the finals.

"I don't think they (Sault Ste. Marie) intimidated us just because they had been there (final four) before," Fowler said. "We weren't overly impressed with

"We are the best team in the state" was the cry heard from the ULS locker room as water bottles were emptied on everyone's head, and players danced to AC/DC's "Highway to Hell."

And rightly so. ULS, which finished 24-3 on the season, winding up with 10 straight wins, beat three of the four Class A semifinalists during the regular season. Those teams included Class A champ East Kentwood, Flint Powers and Ann Arbor Huron.

"I think the boys were on a confident mission all season long," said ULS coach John Fowler, who was voted Coach of the Year by his peers. "Before the season, I asked the boys to write down their goals and 14 of the 19 boys made some type of reference to the state finals. Now we can all enjoy it, because we set goals and attained them."

Oftentimes being ranked No. 1, which ULS was for all but three weeks, is the kiss of death when entering the playoffs.

"A No. 1 ranked team sometimes has a tough time living up to everyone's expectations, but this team has lived up to them," said Fowler. "It's a tremendous weight off the boys' shoulders and a tremendous swell on their chests."

In November, the quest for the title began, but over the last month the emphasis increased.

"The practices were all focused on the state finals," said Fowler.

hard work and dedication truly pay off."

Hard work and dedication were two of the intangibles that came together, but defense is where this championship team hangs its hat.

"We made it this far because of our defense," said Fowler. "Our defense was crucial. It's our positional play that makes it tough on opponents, but it's also our confidence that when the opponent is coming down on us, we don't get out of position by Tripp Tracy highlighted ULS' championship season with a goals against average of two over the final five games.

ULS defenseman Jesse Kasom made it difficult for opponents to get across the blue line.

"I think our biggest sparkplug of the entire tournament was John's goal from Billy Robb," Fowler said. "It was a big goal because we were struggling a bit and it got us back on track."

The Knights went on to win the regional, 6-4.

Throughout the third period against Sault Ste. Marie, ULS returned to its bread and butter, forcing the play into the offensive zone. In the championship game against Nouvel, which beat Grand Rapids Catholic Central in the semifinals, the Knights picked up where they left off.

"We wanted to come out and pound the puck into their zone," Fowler said. "We had to break open the scoring because we

In the five playoff games, the first line of Wood, Davis and VanDeweghe combined for 46 points. The second line of Maycock, Teitge and Crenshaw had 13.

"This team is made up of great individuals," said Fowler, "and as a collective unit they're all that much better. The kids knew they could do it and it's a reaffirmation that hard work pays off."

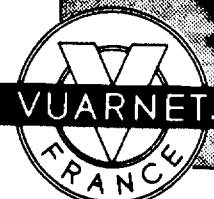

"For a time in their lives, they can all know they achieved a great thing."

Knights can't crack Royal Oak Shrine

By Rob Fulton
Sports Editor

For the first time in four post-seasons, the University Liggett School basketball team did not have to face — and lose to — the ever-powerful Yellowjackets from Detroit Country Day School.

Instead, the Knights had to play the Knights of Royal Oak Shrine and found it just as difficult to advance in postseason play, being eliminated after losing 63-59 March 6 at Bishop Gallagher.

The past three tournaments, ULS was beaten by Country Day.

This time around, however, it was supposed to be different. ULS, sporting an 18-2 record, including 16 straight to end the regular season, was a favorite in the tournament. But, one bad quarter of basketball and several missed field goals led to the Knights' demise.

"It's awfully disappointing," said ULS coach Chuck Wright, whose team had been ranked No. 3 in the Class C polls earlier this season. "We've gone through this the last four years, but it's something we have to deal with again."

But it shouldn't have been that way.

ULS held a 46-39 advantage after three quarters, but was outscored 24-13 in the fourth quarter, virtually wasting a 12-point third quarter by senior Kandia Milton, who finished with a team-high 21 points.

"I think we became a step slower in the fourth quarter," said Wright, whose team looked as if it was panicking down the stretch. "No, I don't think we panicked. We had a great third quarter because we were finally able to run our up-tempo game, but our first team players aren't used to playing a full fourth quarter."

That's because ULS hasn't had a game closer than 14 points since Jan. 3.

"When you win by 20 or even 30 points, you don't need to play your first team," Wright said. "We play everyone in games like that."

In the second half, ULS was able to ward off a barrage of 3-point hoops by Shrine's Ray Stone because Kandia Milton found his groove.

"Kandia was going to the hole really well and creating things," said Wright. "But our outside game really didn't get untracked."

Between ULS guards Tarik Lester, DeDan Milton and Kevin Crociata, there were only seven buckets in 21 tries.

"They (Shrine) were all over us outside and played strong defense," Wright said. "We weren't really setting ourselves and squaring up to the basket to shoot. Instead, we were taking a lot of off-balance shots that didn't fall."

Lester finished with 11 points. Kevin Whitfield had eight and DeDan Milton added 11.

ULS mounted a 54-49 lead with just under five minutes to play, but Shrine took a 55-54 lead just one minute later. ULS found itself down 58-56 when Kandia Milton went to the free throw line for a one-and-one, but failed to convert. Shrine then extended its lead to 59-56 with 50 seconds to play, and then 61-56 with 28 seconds left.

DeDan Milton canned a 3-pointer to cut Shrine's lead to 61-59 just 10 seconds later, setting up a dramatic finish.

Shrine inbounded the ball, but Crociata batted it away, recovered it and fed Lester. Lester, who has won games for ULS on last-second shots, attempted a hoop from 20 feet out, but it was blocked. Shrine then got an easy basket as time ran out.

"It just hurts to lose this way," said Wright. "That's about all I can say. It's frustrating for the seniors, but we have to remember that we did a lot of good things this season, as well."

A No. 3 ranking and two wins over Class A schools highlighted the season.

Missed shots plagued ULS in the first half, as Shrine controlled play and forced ULS into a half-court game.

"We didn't run our half-court game very well," Wright said. "We wanted to run the floor and Shrine's game plan was to foul us and keep us from running."

Shrine accomplished that — until the second half — but ULS sank 15 of its 22 first-half free throws.

"That's what kept us in the game," said Wright. "We only had four baskets in the first half, but we hit our free throws to stay in the game."

ULS ran off a 5-0 spurt just before the intermission, but trailed 26-24 at the half.

"They did a nice job of getting the ball inside to Tillery (John) and we had some trouble stopping him," Wright said. "I knew before the ball game that our match-ups would be tough, but I didn't think our man-to-man defense would be ineffective."

After struggling from the field the entire first half, ULS adjusted its offense for the second half.

"They couldn't foul us forever and keep us out of our game plan," Wright said. "To start the second half, we tried to push the ball up the floor because we wanted to control the tempo. We got some steals and some points, plus we got into our game and forced Shrine to fall back into a defense."

"We weren't in any kind of flow in the first half, but we were in the second half. The thing I'm proud of most is the fact that our kids stayed in the game as a total team. I know it sounds hollow to the kids right now, but nobody got out of the game emotionally. This was a great effort; it's just too bad we couldn't pull it off.

Senior Kevin Crociata (32) put a move on against Royal Oak Shrine, but ULS lost to the Knights in the first round of district hoop play.

Poor shooting night drops Norsemen from playoffs

By Rob Fulton
Sports Editor

There's absolutely no superstition buried in the number 13, is there?

Well, convince the North basketball team of that — especially after losing, 50-43, to Finney in the district basketball finals March 9 at North.

Going into the finals, the Norsemen had won 13 of their last 14 games, including overtime wins against South and Notre Dame in the playoffs.

However, a poor shooting night and missed put-backs ended

North's season at an overall record of 14-9.

"We just needed an extra shot or two that didn't go in, to go in," said North coach George Olman. "That would have made the difference in the ball game."

Instead, the Norsemen were held to only 33 percent from the floor.

"We didn't have one of our better shooting nights," said Olman. "We were getting good shots, but no follow-up shots."

In the fourth quarter, North had several opportunities to cut the Highlander's lead to one, or even take the lead, but couldn't hang onto the defensive rebounds.

"We had two or three tries to

"We may have struggled offensively, but our defense was there all night long."

George Olman

tie the game with about 2 1/2 minutes to play," Olman said, "but we'd go up for the defensive rebound and wouldn't secure it. Instead, Finney would get the ball and lay it back in."

Senior Charlie Stumb led the way for North with 22 points and John Kesman had eight, but that was it for offensive production.

"Charlie really played a great game," Olman said. "Offensively, he carried us, but we didn't get much offense from anyone else. We needed the third or fourth guy to step in for us, but we didn't get that either."

Despite the poor offensive performance, the Norsemen were carried by a strong, fleet-footed defense that kept them in the ball game.

"We may have struggled offensively," Olman said, "but our defense was there all night long. By no means was it an easy night for Finney."

North trailed 24-19 at the half, but mounted a third-quarter surge to stay in the hunt and was down by only three with a quarter to play.

To get to the finals, North had to survive its second straight overtime affair.

On March 5, North beat South, 52-51, on David Vier's 45-foot buzzer basket in overtime, and to get to the finals, North needed three overtimes to beat Notre Dame, 70-66.

In the Notre Dame game, Stumb and Kesman each had 18 points. Kesman had eight points during the overtime periods.

"I'd take it if we were still playing," Olman said when asked if his team could have lasted through another overtime game. "Sometimes you're lucky and sometimes you're not."

Apparently North's luck ran out against Finney.

"It was a game much like the Notre Dame game," Olman said. "It was two intense teams going after one another. The only difference was that we didn't put ourselves into a position to win the Finney game like we did the Notre Dame game."

Kesman put North up 54-52 against Notre Dame, but the Irish's Michael Kwietniewski forced the overtime on a shot from the paint.

Again, it was Kesman who gave North a short-lived lead in the first overtime, but Kevin Bradley countered for the Irish to force another three-minute session.

After a scoreless second overtime, Kesman took charge again and scored four points to give North a 65-63 lead. Tim Sacka's two free throws extended North's lead to 67-63 with 55 seconds to play and then Brian Sheehy's layup closed the scoring, giving North the 70-66 win.

"It was a great high school game," said Olman. "We had more balance in that game than we did in the Finney game."

Earlier in the season, it looked like North would be a patsy — especially after a 1-7 start.

"Even when things were bad," Olman said, "we remained optimistic. We had some guys who were hurt and until we got them back we struggled. But once we got them in the lineup and got Kesman in there too, we were a decent team."

North put together a string of six wins before losing to Sterling Heights, but then rattled off five more to win the Macomb Area Conference White Division.

"We accomplished the main thing," Olman said, "and that was to win the conference."

North tied Roseville for the title.

"Nobody got down," Olman said. "A lot of people would have cashed in their chips, but not this group. Every guy on this team did a great job of coming together and as a coach that's all I can ask."

Charlie Stumb scored 22 points in the district championship game for North, but it wasn't enough as the Highlanders beat the Norsemen, 50-43. North reached the finals after beating Notre Dame in a triple-overtime affair, 70-66.

Blue Devils swim to 3rd place in state finals

By Rob Fulton
Sports Editor

After being ranked No. 2 in the Class A polls all season, the South swim team entered the Class A championships at Eastern Michigan University a favorite to knock off Andover.

That didn't happen, but South coach Fred Michalik will gladly take his third-place finish. The Blue Devils, who haven't lost a dual meet in three seasons, finished with 70 points. Andover took the top honor with 162 points and the Ann Arbor Huron River Rats took second (100).

"If you can't finish No. 1," said Michalik, "you may as well finish anywhere, but I am extremely pleased with our finish."

During the final week of preparation for the state meet, many top swimmers for South were not in the water because of the flu or other ailments. That, according to Michalik, was a big factor.

"I'm not making any excuses, but we were hit hard by the flu bug," he said. "It's awfully tough for us to remove several kids from practices and then have them get in the pool a day or two before and expect them to do well. However, they really did come through."

Ted Stedem, who struggled to beat mononucleosis over the past four weeks, swam back-to-back events and took a third and sixth place, respectively. Stedem swam a 54.1 in the 100 backstroke and came right back minutes later to swim a 60.23 in the 100 breaststroke. Craig Winger was seventh (55.1) in the 100 backstroke for South.

In the 50 freestyle, South got a fourth-place finish out of Jim Mello (21.5). Mello also joined Winger, Andy Walter and Tim Jogan on the fourth-place 400 free relay team (3:13.6).

Jogan, who along with Mello battled the flu, recorded a 4:45.2 to take eighth in the 500 freestyle. He also took 11th (1:45.3) in the 200 freestyle.

"I figured going in we could get 119 points if everyone placed where they were supposed to,"

Michalik said. "But all the kids had faster times than they had going into the meet and that's what I'm very pleased about."

"When times are faster at the end of the season, then the season was clearly a success no matter where you finish."

But South could have finished higher if it wasn't for a "poor call" from a diving official.

Ken MacLean, South's top swimmer who eventually finished 10th, was penalized for allegedly not having his hands over his shoulders during his final dive. The head diving official stated MacLean could receive no more than a score of 2 from each of the judges, hence dropping him from third place to 10th.

"We appealed the call," said Michalik. "I went to the head diving judge and showed him the video tape we just recorded, but unfortunately you can't use video any longer. I thought it was a poor call and it may have cost us a second place."

MacLean should have had 48 points, but was given only 18.

"We needed just a little bit more from each of the kids," Michalik said. "But overall I'm extremely pleased with the season. Third place is a nice finish."

Ted Stedem, who came down with mononucleosis a month before the state meet, swam to a third place in the 100 backstroke and sixth in the 100 breaststroke as the Devils finished third in the Class A meet.

Norsemen take 3rd in MAC

Grosse Pointe North hosted the 1990 Macomb Area Conference Boys' Swimming Championships Feb. 23-24 and came away with a third-place finish.

North finished with 229 points. Fraser won the meet with 325 points and Utica Ford was second (235).

The Norsemen, coached by Les Roddis, were favored to take the runner-up spot, but got bumped to third when its usually reliable diving team ran into problems.

On Feb. 24, after the preliminaries, Victor Perez won the 500 freestyle, and just missed a MAC record. Perez also placed second in the 200 freestyle and was part of the second place 400 freestyle relay team, that included Craig Williams, John Cartwright and Peter Ellison.

Senior Steve Swan swam his personal-best time to place second in the 100 backstroke, and took seventh in the 100 butterfly. Chris Dettloff, who also swam his season's best times, took sixth in the 100 breaststroke and eighth in the 200 individual medley. Sergio Santivago, who was first alternate in the 100 freestyle, finished ninth in the 400 freestyle "B" relay with Rob Chevalier, Brad Daniels and Rick Nelson.

Diver Jason Kahn came from behind to move into eighth place.

John Cartwright also earned points for North, finishing eighth in the 50 freestyle and seventh in the 100 freestyle. Teammate Andy Bringard placed eighth in the 100 freestyle and 10th in the 100 breaststroke, and Bob Jara took third in diving. Peter Ellison had a personal-best time to finish second in the 200 individual medley, also placed fifth in the 500 freestyle.

Eric DeMeulemeester led the sophomore class with a 10th place in the 200 individual medley and fourth in the 100 breaststroke. Chris Pearce gained a seventh place in diving, and Graham Sisk, who dropped five seconds in the preliminary meet, finished 12th in the 200 freestyle. Charlie Roddis saved his two fastest swims for the finals, to take a third in the 100 butterfly and 100 backstroke. Jeff Dungan and John Galvin were first and second alternatives in the 500 freestyle.

The freshman class was impressive, as well, with Rusty Milne scoring a 12th place in the 100 backstroke. He also led the "B" medley relay team that included freshmen Jeff Lathem and Rick Marcolini, and sophomore Chris Ditty to a 10th place.

Williams placed seventh in the 50 freestyle, was second on the 400 freestyle relay and was second in the 200 medley "A" relay. On that 200 relay team was Chris Dettloff, Steve Swan and Charlie Roddis.

"Only two things could have made it a better season," said Coach Les Roddis. "If Victor Perez had qualified for the state meet in the 500 freestyle, and if our divers could have had a better day."

"But, I am really encouraged by the overall swimming of this team. We knew Fraser had 11 great seniors who would score a lot of points, so we felt we would at least make them work hard to win. We are still basically a young team with a very strong nucleus. We should be right in the thick of it for several years to come."

At the state finals, Bob Jara finished 15th in the diving competition with 267 points. He reached the finals by qualifying eighth (357 points) at the regionals.

Vital Options adds body sculpting

Vital Options Exercise of Grosse Pointe is starting Body Sculpting, directed by Val Gokenbach, R.N.

Classes will meet on Tuesday and Thursday at 6 p.m., and Saturday at 10:30 a.m. Classes are held at the Vital Options studio at 16828 Kercheval, above the Ann Taylor Store in the Village.

Body Sculpting is unique because it offers an actual gym-style workout in a studio setting for those who may be intimidated by gyms. Employing weights and specific overload techniques, you can actually change your physique.

"The goal of body sculpting is to make each individual their own trainer," said Gokenbach, who's a competitive body builder.

The classes last 45 minutes. Workout programs follow a four-week schedule and then the program is varied to maintain good muscle balance and to add variety. It is recommended you attend two to three times a week.

Peplowski finds comfort at MSU

By Jill Vaquera
Special Writer

Mike Peplowski, a former student at St. Paul, has earned his share of headlines this winter as the Michigan State Spartans made a run for the Big Ten basketball title.

The former Warren DeLaSalle star, who still has ties to Grosse Pointe, has proved that college athletes can be just "regular guys" who are thrown, like it or not, into the spotlight.

Peplowski has been playing basketball for as long as he can remember. He gave other sports like track, football and baseball a whirl, but decided that his 6-foot-10-inch frame was best suited for hoops.

"I've given up a lot to get where I am today," Peplowski said. "My summers were always filled with basketball camps and practices. I've worked very hard. I really didn't have time to develop close friends and do normal things like go to the beach and just hang out."

But the trade-off was rewarding. Peplowski graduated from DeLaSalle in 1988 and became a Spartan the next fall. However, a knee injury as a high school senior delayed Peplowski's start for Jud Heathcote. After highly concentrated rehabilitation, Peplowski is now in the starting lineup for the Big Ten championships.

Being a member of the Spartan basketball team is like a full time job for Peplowski. His typical day includes morning and afternoon classes, a quick lunch, an hour of the soap opera "The Young and the Restless," practice for three to four hours, dinner and finally a film session.

"It's hard," he said. "You're always getting notes and going to tutors. You miss a lot of class time, but most professors are understanding. The season is very long and you sometimes find yourself wondering, 'Why am I doing this?', but it's a lot of fun."

Peplowski has managed to balance hoops and books. A college degree is very important to him, and that's evident in his 3.2 grade point average.

"You can buy a lot of things in this world, but you can't buy a college degree," said Peplowski, who's also a member of the FIJI fraternity.

"Last year I had a lot more time for it (the fraternity) because of my injury, but I'm glad that I have my fraternity because those guys really mean a lot to me."

Fame has not altered Peplowski's lifestyle.

"I'm still in awe and very flattered when little kids ask me for my autograph," said the sophomore center. "I never really know how to handle it. I just roll with the punches."

Peplowski advises future college athletes to keep everything in perspective.

"Keep your grades up and stay smart. Around the corner are people who don't really care about you — only what you do," he said.

Race Day highlights Birds' run

The Snow Birds Ski Club held its annual "Race Day" Feb. 24 at Mount Brighton, under bright skies and good snow.

Beginner skiers Chris Sigouin and Sara Hamilton passed their white patch and graduated to the green. Bryan French, David Easlick III and Betsy Ramsey all earned their green patch, while Scott Brown-Borden, Ted Swarthout and Jamie Taylor completed their yellow patch.

The all-area blue patch was earned by Chris Ford, Amanda Hanley and Chris Brown-Borden. Earning the red patch were Erin Fletcher, Tom Lytle, Mark Brewster, Amanda Lytle, Jason Wikency and John Spain.

After lunch, all skiers met on the slopes for the crazy slalom race. The race was run in two classes: white through blue, and the red, black and those working on silver.

The race consisted of many maneuvers, including eating crackers and whistling at one gate, drinking pop at another, climbing uphill at a third spot, but the most difficult one was finding all the gates in the blizzard-like conditions that developed.

Trophy winners in the white through blue race were Scott Brown-Borden (1st), Larry Marantette (2nd) and Adriene Cline (3rd).

In the more advanced group, Tom Lytle took first, with Mary Ann Marantette and Katie Blake taking second and third, respectively.

G.P. Academy honors student athletes

The physical education department of The Grosse Pointe Academy announced its "Athletes of the Fall Season" in a ceremony held at the Academy.

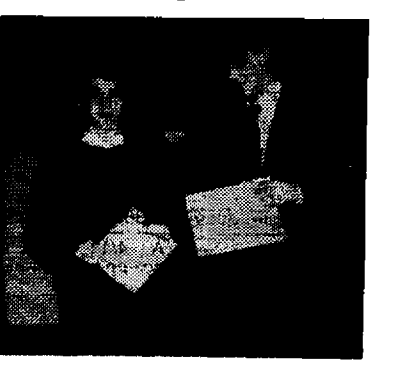

Honored as the top fall athletes were Lawrence DeLuca and Jeffrey Wheeler. Wheeler and DeLuca were chosen on the basis of their athletic performance during the season, dedication to sports, "coachability" and academic excellence and leadership qualities on and off the field.

Wheeler, the soccer team's Most Valuable Player, led the team with 11 goals and DeLuca had 10. The Bulldogs finished 9-1-1.

Other MVPs were Jennifer Garver (tennis), Brandon Silvester (cross country) and Jennifer Worth (basketball).

Academy eighth-grader Nicole Gimpert, was presented with a United States Figure Skating Association Certificate of Achievement by headmaster Signey I. DuPont, Ph. D. Gimpert was a gold-medal winner in the U.S. Figure Skating Association's Ladies Intermediate Midwestern Sectional Championships Jan. 9.

Christensen skates to bronze

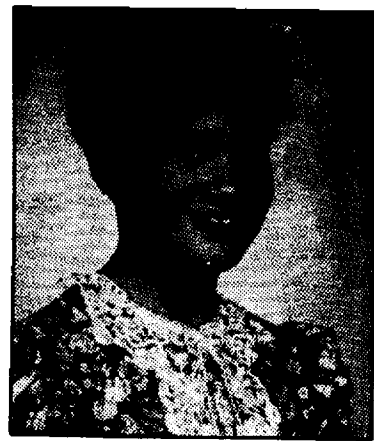

Lisa Kathleen Christensen, 10, picked up a bronze medal as a member of the Fraser Precision Skating team at the Midwestern Championships in Minneapolis.

Christensen, the only Grosse Pointe skater on the team, also has a first-place medal from the Tri-State Precision championships that took place in Bowling Green, Ohio, just two weeks before the Midwestern Championships.

The top prize at the Midwestern Championships went to the Angeletts of Ohio.

The silver medal in the Juvenile Competition went to the Fraser Minnettes, coached by Peggy A. MacDonald.

101 PRAYERS

PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

Holy Spirit, you who make me see everything and who shows me the way to reach my ideal. You who give me the Divine Gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me and you who are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great the material desires may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones in your perpetual glory. Amen.

Thank you for your love towards me and my loved ones. Pray this prayer three consecutive days without asking your wish, after third day your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Then promise to publish this prayer as soon as your favor has been granted. Thank you for favors received. T.R.P.

THE power of prayer is no myth. St. Jude made me a believer. T.R.P.

MAY The Sacred Heart Jesus be adored, glorified, loved and preserved throughout the world, now and forever. Oh, Sacred Heart of Jesus, pray for us. St. Jude helper of the hopeless, pray for us. St. Jude worker of miracles, pray for us. Say 9 times a day for 9 days, then publish. Your request will be granted. THANK YOU ST. JUDE FOR FAVORS RECEIVED RS

A Prayer to the Blessed Virgin (Never Found to Fail)

MOST beautiful Flower of Mount Carmel, Fruitful Vine, Splendour of Heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in this my necessity. O Star of the Sea, help me and show me herein you are my Mother.

O Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth, I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart, to succour me in this necessity; there are none that can withstand your power.

O, show me herein you are my Mother. O Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to thee. (3 times.)

Sweet Mother, I place this cause in your hands. (3 times.)

The Missing LINC
Living Individuals to Help in the Community

LINC is a non-profit organization whose purpose is to place goods no longer needed by individuals and businesses into the hands of metropolitan Detroit charitable agencies. If you have any items no longer of use to you, Operation LINC knows who can and will use them. Please call LINC at 882-6100.

Help make a positive change for others during these dog days of winter. Glance through the following items and see if you might be able to donate any and help to spread some cheer.

DRAPES!! do it. If you have some bright clean curtains, Detroit Area Agency on Aging knows who needs them. Think how your old drapes could provide a needed change for someone.

A fresh coat of PAINT always breathes new life into old, familiar surroundings. Children's Center and Core City Neighborhood Inc. have asked for paint. Items also needed by these and other organizations are PAINT BRUSHES, LUMBER, and other BUILDING and REPAIR MATERIAL.

How about some pretty SHEETS or BATH TOWELS for the folks at New Life Home for Recovering Alcoholic Women. If you have some just "hanging" around, get them over to LINC; it would be a great way to show you care.

"There's nothing to do!" is a familiar cry this time of the year. Our member agencies could use GAMES, TOYS and CRAFT SUPPLIES to help keep idle hands busy. And if you have been having bouts of cabin fever LINC might have a cure. Think about becoming a LINC VOLUNTEER. Call LINC between 10-2 for more information. WE NEED YOU.

500 ANIMALS ADOPT A PET

PUREBRED COCKER SPANIEL
Because the children have developed allergies, this beautiful purebred buff colored Cocker Spaniel is looking for a new home. He is 10 months old, housebroken, neutered, and a truly delightful dog. Affectionate and playful, he is good with adults and older children, but owner is not sure about young children as dog has never been around them. Although they paid $200 for this dog, the family is willing to give him free to the right loving home, in order to make sure he is happy. Call 772-4212 for more information.

SIAMESE Ragdolls, neutered and spayed, male, female, shots. One is declawed. Calico variety. 923-0548.

PLEASE KEEP ALERT!
COLD TEMPERATURES CAN KILL YOUR PET!
With the extreme outdoor temperatures of the last few weeks, animals can suffer terribly if not cared for properly. If you know of an animal in need of shelter or warmth, please call our shelter for healthful tips. We will provide free straw upon request.

The New Jaguar XJ6.
One Of Its Greatest Comforts Is The Luxury Of A Lower Price.
$39,700

Many years ago, Jaguar established a uniquely honest form of luxury. That of offering a fine car with value for money. It's a tradition that's especially true today.

Because for 1990 we've not only lowered the price of the XJ6, we've improved it in a number of significant ways. Our improvements start with a larger, more powerful 4-liter engine. There's also a new automatic transmission with "sport" mode shifting for more spirited response. And for safer, surer stopping under all braking conditions, we've installed a more sophisticated Teves anti-lock braking system.

Of course, true motoring luxury requires a cabin filled with natural beauty. That's why the XJ6 has seats faced in hand-tailored supple leather and an interior that glows with highly polished walnut.

Test drive the 1990 XJ6 at your Jaguar dealer. You'll come to find that among its many pleasures is the comfort of knowing that you're truly getting value for your money.

KIDS HELPING KIDS

Throughout the year, Gleaners Community Food Bank channels donated surplus food to the needy and hungry through its network of 180 member agencies (soup kitchens, shelters and emergency food depots in our community). During these two weeks, students are asked to reflect upon and respond to the despair of unemployment and its effect on other students in the United States.

The simple facts cry out with eloquence—

- More than half those living in poverty are children.
- People living below the poverty level are unable to afford adequate food, clothing and shelter. Twenty-two percent of the United States' children live like this.
- When there is hunger, the first ability to be affected is learning. Also affected is socialization or the ability to interact and interrelate. Hunger is suspected to be the problem for many children seen by mental health clinics.
- American children today are significantly poorer, more likely to suffer early death and sickness, hunger and homelessness, abuse and neglect than even four years ago.
- Nationally, 76% of the poor are women and children. Ninety percent of single parent families are headed by women, with one half of those living in or on the border of poverty.
