Census workers out in force today in Grosse Pointes

Today's the day that an army of census workers will hit the streets to determine population figures in the Grosse Pointes.

The foot soldiers will be armed with red, white and blue identification cards, questionnaire portfolios and copies of the Privacy Act to give to each person contacted.

Janie Boblitt, district office manager of the Grosse Pointe-Harper Woods Macomb County District, said that today, May 3, is the day that follow-up with people who didn't respond to the mailed questionnaire begins and census workers will visit households in the community.

"So far the district has a very high return rate of about 81 percent," Boblitt said. "We will have breakdowns on the individual communities sometime around August when our post census local review is completed."

Just after April 1, the U.S. Census Bureau began the pre-census local reviews, wherein district office managers received specific information on housing units based on previous census information.

The follow-up activities begin today and will continue for about five weeks, she said. "Our goal is to visit households where the census questionaires were not returned,"

Randy Edwards, regional area manager for Michigan, Ohio and West Virginia, said while the district, including Grosse Pointe, had a questionnaire return rate of 81 percent, the Detroit-Hamtramck-Highland Park district had a return rate of just 55 percent.

"This region (Grosse Pointe-Harper Woods-Macomb County) has one of the higher response rates," Edwards said. "The people in your area are very concerned and aware of how the population count affects local funding."

Population figures from decennial population counts are used to determine how

Burglars hit City over weekend; police in all the Pointes alerted

By John Minnis Assistant Editor

Five homes were burglarized in Grosse Pointe City last weekend, and thefts in other cities, particularly the Woods and Park, may be related.

In the City, four of the burglaries occurred during the early morning hours of April 29 and the other during the early morning hours of April 30. The houses broken into are on Lincoln, Rivard, University and Lakeland and all are in the 600 block.

According to City Detective John Drummond, it isn't known why all the houses were in the 600 block and it may be coincidental. He said all the burglaries are believed to be the work of the same person or group of peo-

He said the homes were broken into by cutting screens and pushing open windows or doorwalls. None of the houses had an alarm. In all but one of the cases, residents heard noises during the night but did not investigate. In the morning, the residents discovered they had been burglarized.

Drummond said residents should call police if they hear or see anything suspicious. "That's what we're here for," he said.

He believes the thief or thieves are young people, probably teens, because of the way they broke into the homes and they would go around looking for easy targets by walking around the houses. Once inside, they took small items such as purses, wallets, briefcases, portable phones and cigarettes. "Basically, they were looking for money," Drummond said.

The thieves left behind valuable items, he said.

During a burglary on Lakeland, the resident's car was also stolen. Drummond said the thieves may steal a car to use in other burglaries which they ditch before it's reported stolen.

He said the thieves are believed to have been driving an older tan or yellow car. He said the Park police have two suspects who may be involved in the City's burglaries.

Park Capt. William Furtaw said it is not yet known if any burglaries in his city match those in the Grosse Pointe City. Park Sgt. James Smith met with detectives from the other Pointes Monday at the City police station to compare notes to see if a pattern can be developed.

Last week, a house in the 1100 block of Harvard was burglarized when the thief broke out a pane of glass and reached in to unlock the door. Because the owner was away, it was not immediately known what was stolen.

Coincidentally, at 10:10 p.m. April 25, about nine hours after the things they stole. He said Park police had completed invesbeen rifled and a wallet was taken. During the early hours of April 26, a house in the 1600 block of Newcastle was burglarized and the resident's car stolen. The thief got in by pushing up an unlocked rear window and by cutting the plastic weather barrier that was over the window. A videocassette recorder and cash were taken, as well as a 1988 Ford Tempo.

On April 25 at. about 4 a.m. a house in the 1800 block of Prestwick was burglarized when the thief crawled through a 16-inch square bathroom window that was not locked. The residents reported hearing a thump, but did not investigate.

Police are investigating to determine if any of the City, Park and Woods burglaries are re-

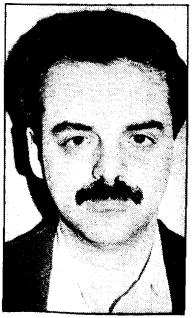

Pointer of Interest Michael M. Dixon

By Dan Jarvis Staff Writer

As Farms resident Michael M. Dixon began searching through dusty attics while collecting memorabilia for a family album, he had no idea where his quest would lead.

So far, it has taken him on a historic journey through Grosse Pointe Park's long-gone windmill at the lake's point and through the historic St. Clair Flats, the popular vacation resort area of the late 1800s.

The area, one of the largest river deltas in the world, is characterized by a vast area of low lving land including marshes, channels and bays and encompasses the south end of the St. Clair River.

Michael M. Dixon

Though Dixon's search for his roots is far from complete, he has self-published three books on the history of the Flats and is now working on a fourth book.

Young friends

Dixon, a second vice president at Maufacturer's National Bank in Detroit, did not set out to write a book, let alone four — it just sort of happened that way.

"The more I looked, the more I found close connections between my ancestors and the Flats," Dixon said. "I was always interested in history as a child and the books have allowed me an

Well before his teenage years, Dixon frequently canoed through the Flats, where his family had an old cottage. During the journeys, the young Dixon came across several old abandoned hotels, clubhouses and homes.

"It fired my my imagination," he said. "I would hang around with the old timers and hear stories about life without roads."

Through stories and historical searches, Dixon learned that during the 1870s and afterward, the area known as the St. Clair Flats was the most popular resort area for Detroiters who needed respite from the daily grind of 19th Century life.

During the period, a ride from Detroit to Grosse Pointe was a two-day rough ride in a horsedrawn carriage. A regularly scheduled ride to the Flats on one of the many excursion boats took "a pair of hours" and included a fresh seafood dinner -

Farms to barricade McKinley, designate McMillan one-way

Staff Writer

In an attempt to expedite and control traffic coming to and from the Hill area, Grosse Pointe Farms will soon set in place several temporary traffic controls, including one-way streets and a barricade on McKinley near

The plan involves a fourmonth trial period, traffic counts and engineering surveys to help the city determine if the changes should be made permanent.

Approved by the City Council and proposed by Director of Public Safety Robert Ferber, the seven-step traffic control plan will be implemented July 1 and will continue through October.

The city will study traffic control effectiveness during the fourmonth period and may make the changes permanent after a review on Dec. 1, 1990.

Ferber said the Hill area has reached the point in its development where traffic flow patterns have stabilized.

As a result, Ferber requested $10,000 to implement and evaluate the traffic control plan.

The plan includes the retention of Fisher Road as a one-way major roadway, but will increase traffic volume on Fisher from the Hill to Mack.

Also included in the plan is: • A barricade on McKinley at the alley just east of Mack to omit Mack Avenue traffic from entering onto McKinley.

The barricade is expected to increase traffic on Moran between Mack and Williams, and increase traffic on southbound

Incineration: Attorney, engineer offer opposing views

By Ronald J. Bernas Staff Writer

It appears that the Detroit incinerator will be up and operating soon with new and updated pollution control measures installed in the next couple of years.

Should Grosse Pointe residents be worried about emissions coming out of the controversial plant or is it as safe as possible?

Karen Kendrick-Hands, an environmental attorney who has testified before the state on incinerators, is a board member of the Eastern Michigan Environmental Action Council who has spoken on the problems of incinerators.

But Hands feels that what is in place now is good enough.

When garbage is burned, toxic chemicals are vaporized, then readhere to clean carbon particles. The emissions then pass through electrostatic precipitators (ESPs). An ESP is a series of charged plates that attracts the carbon particles - and the toxic chemicals which have attached themselves to those particles — before they are discharged into the air.

The Detroit ESP is a series of five plates, four of which must be running at all times.

A baghouse, which may or may not be installed in the next few years if other efforts don't work, is a huge room that acts like a giant vacuum cleaner, Hands said.

The gasses are sucked through the room, filtering out 99 percent of the impurities. ESPs generally get about 95 percent. Hands says Detroit's ESP is top

Staff Writer

In honor of National Volunteer Month, we highlight the efforts of a few volunteers who donate their time quietly, outside of the Pointes, for nothing more than a good feeling.

That's what Sister Peggy Manners says about a small group of volunteers who help tutor some of the high school girls at Dominican High School in Detroit.

"I've found the program to be very successful, not only for the students, but for the teachers, too," she said. "They provide a lot of help and guidance, and the fact of the matter is that I probably could not have hired anyone to provide the services they do."

Once or twice a week, retired engineer and Grosse Pointe Farms resident Stan Kramer goes to Dominican High School to tutor students in algebra, trigonometry, geometry and pre-algebra. But it is only one of the many volunteer services Kramer

He is a board member of People in Faith United, a group of churches which have banded together to fight urban decay, and he works with the Detroit Executive Service Corps which provides free consultation services to non-profit agencies. Through them, he got involved with Detroit Compact, an organization that helps motivate kids to stay in school. This, he says, is a little more work, but he gets to use his skills.

"I'm an engineer, so I have a lot of math in my background,' Kramer said. "Plus, I've had seven children, so I took high school algebra eight times once for myself, and once for each of my children."

He's been volunteering for three years, starting a few years after he retired from General

"They do more than just teach the kids," Berg said. "They encourage the kids, urge them to achieve more and really give them some confidence."

Berg recruited Kramer, a friend, after he expressed interest in doing some service work. She also recruited another Grosse Pointe resident, Bill Wood, to tutor.

"They make the difference between a student taking a higher-or a lower-level class," she said. And sometimes, between passing

Shores lacks big issues for May 15 vote or the second straight year, multiple contests without major controversial issues will mark the annual village election May 15 in Grosse Pointe Shores, long known as the smallest, quietest and wealthiest of the five Grosse Pointe municipalities.

Even after interviewing seven candidates for the four council posts to be filled, we were unable to find major issues that divide the challengers from the incumbents. Instead, all seven proved to be Shores civic boosters. The challengers said they seek office to make a contribution to their community and the incumbents said they are running again for much the same reason.

True, several challengers said they felt it was time for a change on the council, a comment apparently aimed at two veteran members; one challenger remarked that the community needed a stronger push on recycling and a second said the council needed to seek citizen participation to a greater extent. Yet these can hardly be described as major criticisms.

The two unopposed candidates seeking re-election are Edmund M. Brady Jr., council president, running for a second elective term, and James T. Wright, the veteran village clerk. The three council members seeking re-election are C. Bradford Lundy Jr., running for a 14th term; Patricia R. Galvin, seeking a sixth term, and John F. Monahan, elected a year ago after being appointed and now a candidate for a twoyear term.

The three challengers are Virginia Rice, Barbara Willett and Vito Cusenza. Both women became involved in community affairs through their work with the Shores Improvement Foundation. Cusenza, a real estate broker in St. Clair Shores who ran for the council some years ago, says he wants to make a contribution to his home community.

Yet the peaceful calm of the Shores campaign does not entirely mask the candidates' concern about the environmental problems facing the village government.

Those environmental problems arise from the continuing pollution of Lake St. Clair by overflow from the Milk River and other outlets into the lake; the need to recycle more waste materials, collect used household batteries and improve control of the waste burned in the Grosse Pointes-Clinton Refuse Disposal Authority's incinerator, and new threats to health, safety and air pollution stemming from Detroit City Airport's expansion plans.

Even in such matters, there are no announced differences among the candidates. True, some candidates would like to see the Shores government move faster but all say they support the present programs as well as increased efforts to protect the environment, keeping in mind the economic costs involved.

The candidates also spoke in support of the new master plan to help preserve the physical integrity of the village and protect it from excessive development. Upon completion of the plan, the village will end its six-month moratorium on construction in

After reviewing the backgrounds and experience of the candidates and their comments in the interviews reported in detail elsewhere in today's issue, the News editorially endorses the re-election of all five incumbents: Council President Brady and village Clerk Wright, who are unopposed, as well as the three trustees, Lundy, Galvin and Monahan.

Lundy, with his 26 years of service, is well informed on village problems, and especially those arising from the finance committee and the public safety department. As a retired businessman, he has time to devote to village affairs, including the new problems relating to recycling.

Galvin, a lawyer, strongly supports recycling, says the Shores Public Safety Department does a good job, including its work with the emergency medical service, and wants the village to remain a fine community of homes without massive developments.

Monahan, who served on the planning commission before being named to the council, is president of Edward V. Monahan Inc., a major builder in the area. He believes his background enables him to make a special contribution in working out the new master plan and in council nego-

The two women running for trustee for the first time also have had excellent experience even though the News prefers the three incumbents.

Rice is an associate professor in the Wayne State University College of Nursing and became involved in Shores community affairs through the foundation that uses non-tax dollars for community enhancement. Willett, who also worked with the improvement association, led a crusade that resulted in the Lochmoor sewer project and began the improvements to reduce overflow pollution of Lake St. Clair.

Despite its own recommendations, the News, as always, recommends that Shores residents study the backgrounds and performance of all the candidates so that they can make their own informed decisions on election day.

No longer a comeback state?

🔰 ov. James Blanchard needs a new campaign slogan for Michigan as he prepares for this year's election. It's no longer the "comeback state."

A New York Times story the other day reported that Michigan ranked 40th among the 50 states in the rate of growth of its non-farm payroll employment from 1987 to 1989. That was two places worse than its rating from 1979 to 1987.

Michigan's growth rate of 3.7 percent for the two-year period was well below the 5.5 percent rate for the entire country although it did exceed that of nine other states: New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Rhode Island, North Dakota, West Virginia, Massachusetts and New Hampshire.

Attacking Democratic Gov. Blanchard or his record, the Michigan Republican State Committee followed up the Times report with a new economic update summary claiming that Michigan lost 84,000 jobs in the last four months and that its 7.2 unemployment rate is the highest among industrial states.

Continuing its attack, the GOP also claimed that business failures in Michigan rose by 14.9 percent in 1989 while decreasing 12.9 percent nationally. Furthermore, it contended that Michigan's personal per capita income, which for 1929 through 1981 was above the national average, has been below the national average in all but one of the Blanchard years.

The Times report also had political connotations. The report said New Hampshire had the biggest decline in non-farm employment, dropping from third place in the rankings for 1979 to 1987 down to 50th and last place for 1987-89, while Massachusetts dipped from 17th place to 49th.

It is ironical that these two states were battling for last place in this employment derby because each of their respective governors, John Sununu of New Hampshire and Michael Dukakis of Massachusetts, claimed his to be the "miracle state" in economic recovery in the 1988 presidential Overall, the Northeast region suffered the greatest losses after making excellent economic gains during the earlier decade. The Times account blamed the decline on a labor market that tightened significantly in the mid-80s, the sputtering of the financial industry in New York City and the high-tech companies around Boston, continued loss of factory jobs and a sagging construction industry.

Michigan, too, can blame the continuing loss of factory jobs, especially in the auto industry, for its low rate of non-farm employment in recent years, while its claim to being the newest major high-tech state has not yet born much employment fruit.

Let's see, could we help the governor with a new slogan for his campaign this year? George Weeks, Detroit News political writer, suggested it's now the "fallback state" but we doubt that the governor will adopt that one. What about "the 40th comeback state?" Or "still in need of a comeback?" No, such phrases seem to belong in the lexicon of Sen. John Engler, the GOP candidate.

Maybe the governor's campaign aides can come up with something positive to say about April showers bringing May flowers to Michigan. Or is that too soft a theme for the state that's the home of the tough U.S. auto industry?

Incinerator critics win one

The city of Detroit apparently has won its battle to reopen its controversial incinerator but critics can take credit for forcing installation of additional pollution controls on the huge trash

The reported agreement between the city and the state departments of Natural Resources and Public Health will require the city to limit the amount of garbage it burns at the plant and to install scrubbers over the next five years to help clean the exhaust gas from the incinerator's three

Those are among the minimum limitations sought by environmentalists representing the Grosse Pointes as well as residential areas of Detroit, Windsor and the province of Ontario. They had raised such a fuss the Michigan Air Pollution Control Commission finally closed down the incinerator April 17 because it failed to meet the required limits on mercury emissions.

True, some critics had sought to close the incinerator permanently but that demand was not regarded as realistic. In our view, environmentalists should regard the new agreement as a victory for their efforts to control and limit the emissions from the huge plant, reported to be the world's largest.

If officials know what the new equipment will cost, they aren't saying. Estimates of the cost of the installation of the cheapest new equipment range from $20 million to $40 million. Mayor Coleman Young of Detroit, already in a budget crunch, said he would seek state and federal aid for the improvement.

We suggest both state officials and private environmentalists keep an eye on future developments at the incinerator to make sure that if and when it opens, the operators abide by the agreements reached. In view of Detroit's past performance, it surely would be a wise precaution to take.

EMS

To the Editor:

I am writing you in regard to the controversy in your community concerning advanced life support.

Five years ago our infant son was the victim of an accident at home. By the time our EMS unit transported him from our home to the hospital, he had died. It is still not clear to me whether the doctor or the emergency medical technician made the statement: "If we had advanced life support, we may have been able to save him." Without advanced life support, those precious few minutes may have made a difference between life and death.

I feel that it is vital that all communities have advanced life support systems on their rescue units. People should be aware that this equipment can be used for saving the lives of trauma victims both young and old, that is not just something to be used on senior citizens or heart attack victims.

I am grateful to say that our community is currently working toward upgrading its emergency medical units. Mary Beth Swor

Library To the Editor:

I have just finished reading re: the new public library council meeting at Brownell School.

There seems to be a considerable lack of imagination regarding the situation!

If you want to build a three- or four-story building at Brownell - why don't you add two or more stories at 10 Kercheval and/or lease some space from Mr. Edgar across the street? The parking spaces next to Richard School are never filled for I've been watching them at all times a day at least once a week for over a year.

Small children could be served upstairs as well as on the first floor and citizens, library and school people at considerably less than $8 million dollars!

What do you think is happening and has happened for years in New York City? They have just gone up instead of out.

In New York City, they have more imagination. I was raised there, so that's why I have some!

There's hope after all

After a decade of bottom-line mentality, the Earth Day celebration across the country and the world was a hopeful sign.

Not since the '60s and early '70s, it seems, have we seen such a popular outpouring of public concern over an idea, a belief. It's been a long while since hundreds of thousands of people have joined in a cause; in this case, it's the environment, Mother Earth.

As the 1980s brought on a decade of conservative leanings, those in the establishment gleefully proclaimed that the peace generation had given up its tiedyeds, sandals and long hair for corporate hair styles, Brooks Brothers suits and Gucci loafers. The I-told-you-sos, however, are now choking on their chortles.

Just when the status quo thought it was safe, they're back. After a respite of trying to make a living and raise a family, the protesters who were victorious over the Vietnam War are back with a purpose.

Of course, not everyone traded in the slogan "Make love not war" for "Let's make a buck at any cost" philosophy. Some never allowed their locks shorn or their bell-bottom jeans washed.

I happened to be in Nashville on Earth Day, and I was surprised by the sight. I wasn't in the country capital because I thought it was the mecca of environmentalists, though. Actually I was there by coincidence, but that's another story.

While there, I learned there were going to be big doings downtown on the momentous Sunday, so I made a point to join in. Of course there were displays by all the environmental groups imaginable and not so imaginable. But what really got my attention was the attendance by the aging love generation.

Now, I'm too young to identify with the '60s crowd. I didn't huggers. These were the real graduate high school until 1973, but I know a flower child when I see one - even if he and she does have middle-age bulges and streaks of grav.

In Nashville, there were so many long-hairs that I thought I was going back in time. But, of course, even radicals can't avoid aging, so the time travel theory was quickly disproved.

Nevertheless, there they were: 1960s vintage iconoclasts who have not changed in all these years. They still had the long, thing.

There were also some motorcycle mamas. Yeah, like their menfolk, they had gray streaks in their waist-length hair and they had also put on some extra pounds. Some of them had a new generation of little radicals in tow. But the point is, they were the same. At least they looked it.

I have to admire them. To them, the idealism of their younger years was not just youthful zeal. They remained unwashed-looking hair held back true to their beliefs. They kept in pony tails. They wore tie-dyed the faith. I wondered where all shirts and grimy, bell-bottom these people come from and jeans. Not only were these bell- where they've been hiding all bottom jeans, they were also hip- this time. Of course, I don't exactly hang around where they do. I'll have to admit, I spend most of my time in the mainstream.

But Earth Day brought these people out of the closet, and it was good to see them. They must believe the environment finally presented a cause worthy of their talents.

Of course, the polluting of the planet has reached across economic and social barriers in generating concern. Besides the throw-backs, there were young professional types - yuppies, if you will - and middle aged, normal moms and dads. Even elementary kids got into the act. It was especially good to see the average, everyday people turning out as well.

I guess what impressed me the most was the diverse backgrounds and large numbers of people that turned out for Earth Day. Afterward, I was filled with hope and felt more optimistic about our long-term residency on this fragile globe.

It's clear to everyone that government and institutions can't save the planet - only individuals fighting for a common cause can do that. Sure, each of us is insignificant as far as the large planet Earth is concerned, but when 100 of us act together, then we begin to have something. Then when 1,000 or a million of us get together, look out.

And I think that was the best thing about Earth Day. It wasn't government that mandated we recognize the occasion. We did so because we're concerned. We did so because we knew if we didn't, nobody else would.

So, today I'm hopeful. I'm recharged. Sure, most people will return to gazing at the balance sheet instead of the wastestream. We'll go back to making a living, worrying about the kids' braces and so, and that's OK. A living still has to be made and mouths have to be fed. The important thing is that we continue to do a little bit each day for Mother Earth. It'll add up.

If people from the '60s can remain true to an ideal for some 25 years, surely we can alter our lifestyles a little bit to save our home. I hope we can, and after Sunday, April 22, I think we

Samaritan

To the Editor:

How "good" was that Good Samaritan? I think John Minnis (April 12) should have given us more details about that surprising story he wrote on page one titled, "Good Samaritan makes arrest.'

A Farms policeman kindly lent a stranded motorist his tire iron to repair a flat tire. As the motorist was doing so, "the officer asked for a driver's license. The motorist obliged." Is this a "routine" procedure? If so, it would be prudent not to ask for "courtesies" from the Farms police unless you are, like Caesar's wife, "above suspicion" or perhaps a local resident of prominence. The gentleman involved had, it seems, an outstanding misdemeanor warrant for loitering as the policeman learned from the state computer. He was forthwith arrested, presumably handcuffed, taken to the Farms police station and held for the Detroit police.

Now loitering would not appear to be the world's most serious infraction. If it is serious and the Farms police want to be really diligent, I'm sure they can find some loiterers within territorial Grosse Pointe Farms every now and then.

As one reads this account by Mr. Minnis, certain questions leap to mind. Was the stranded motorist black? If white, was he "seedy-looking?" What circumstances led the officer to ask for a license since you are not required to have one to repair a flat tire?

If the late Henry Ford II had requested a loan of a tire iron, would he, too, have had to produce a license? Would, say, Msgr. Francis X. Canfield, who wrote such a good article about Easter symbols in your pages recently, have been forced to comply with the same request? Would the superintendent of schools? The chief of police from another one of the Pointes riding in his own car as a private citizen? Rep. Wm. Bryant?

What's going on here? What lesson is to be learned? Did the officer's "intuition" give him a clue? Did his 'voices" tell him he had a loiterer on his hand?

Mr. Minnis has a story here which requires amplification.

In any event, one can be sure that the present Rehnquist Supreme Court could find a rationale for this Samaritan's "alert-Good ness.

Stop sign

To the Editor: (The following letter, sent to Farms Police Chief Robert Ferber, is reprinted at the request of the writer.)

After seeing the photograph in today's Grosse Pointe News of a roll-over accident at the corner of

Moran Road and Charlevoix, I feel compelled to write to you. I live nearby on Mount Vernon Avenue and cross that intersection at least four times per day. I always glance up and down Moran before I enter the intersection because I am familiar with that crossing's history of averaging more than several accidents per year many of them involving injury or serious property damage. (They just recently had to replace the telephone pole this year since it has been repeatedly damaged.)

Please consider installing stop signs on Charlevoix, making that intersection a four-way stop. It is too long a stretch to allow cars to pick up speed on Charlevoix from McKinley to Kerby Road without a stop. Many children live in that area in addition to walkers, runners, strollers of all ages who may not be safe on the sidewalks due to speeders or careless drivers.

In addition, it is a regular public bus route for commuters as the bus travels up Moran Road between Chalfonte and Charlevoix, turning right on to Charlevoix requiring a wide turn into the intersection to do so. I really feel installing a fourway stop OR a blinker light

Child care

To the Editor:

I am shocked after reading IRS publication No. 926 (rev. Nov. 89), "Employment Taxes for Household Employers" (for wages paid in 1990). Who authorized these changes that affect child care tax deductions? We did not request or approve a tax increase in this area. Who is representing us in Washington?

Any dual or single income family considering in-home child care will be dissuaded from taking this deduction or find that they cannot afford in-home child care because the U.S. government requires these families pay additional taxes on the employee working in their home: 7.65 percent FICA-Social Security tax, 6.2 percent FUTA-annual federal unemployment tax, and earned income credit taxes if the employee wants it.

If the IRS treats families as businesses, requiring them to pay employment taxes, then the IRS should allow business deductions or losses associated with operating this business in their home, such as facility operating and maintenance expenses and employee benefits such as food or gas allowances.

Families are being penalized by these new rules which seem to be geared to prevent tax credit from being taken as deductions for in-home child care as opposed to taking your children out of the home for care.

Is it a quiet conspiracy to eliminate the child care deduction for in-home care for all but the extremely wealthy, or an attempt to force one parent to drop out of the work force and return home, or is it a national endorsement of day care facility child care as the only tax approved form of child care for American families?

Out-of-home day care is tax deductible with no tax strings attached, in-home day care requires the payment of additional taxes by a family using this as an alternative for their child care needs. In the 28 percent tax bracket, a family can take a tax credit that is equal to 2 percent of $2,400 for one child or a maximum of 2 percent of $4,800 for more than one child.

The tax credit is reduced significantly for the in-home child care family. This family must pay additional taxes on the money paid to their caretaker if they want to claim the tax credit. For example, using the maximum allowable amount of $4,800, this family would owe the government, 7.65 percent FICA and 6.2 percent unemployment taxes on wages paid. Minimal tax owed by family, to government using $4,800 as base: $664.80 total employee taxes family owes IRS each year. The cost of child care is prohibitive enough without the additional burden of employment taxes on these families' income. I repeat, if these families are to be treated as businesses, paying employment taxes for work performed in their home, these families should be allowed to deduct business expenses of operating a business in their home. Business are allowed these deductions, why aren't families?

It is a general misconception of the public or Congress that in-home care is for the wealthy only. This is not true. For families with children of different age ranges, it may be the only alternative that provides the coverage required for different school schedules, holiday coverage, sick coverage, and afterschool children activities. The cost of out-of-home child care approaches the cost of in-home child care when the number of children is two or more. For single or two parent families, in-home child care may the only alternative which will give the parents assurance of coverage on all working days.

News

Summer recess presents more child care coverage problems for children previously in school from 8:30 to 3:30 everyday. There is another problem of subjecting children to the adult regimen of 7:30 to 5:30 each day. 12 months out of the year. In-home child care allows children to spend more time at home and become a part of their neighborhood and community. Why is the government trying to discourage this?

What special interest group is representing us families with young children with dual incomes or families with young children with single incomes?

We are being thrown to the tax wolves and have no representation in Washington or in our state governments. Is there a day care special interest group lobbying for tax breaks for out-ofhome child-care?

Why are families being treated as businesses only when it comes to paying taxes but not as businesses when it comes to business expense deductions?

Why is this burden being levied on families with small children? These families are trying to provide a stay-athome environment for their children that reduces the stress on all family members and increases the quality of

There is a growing trend in the work force today for women to return home because many families find the cost of child care so prohibitive and the quality of care deficient, that one of the parents decides to leave the work force and return home. Is this what our government is striving for? Eliminating women with small children from the work force by making it financially infeasible to provide quality childcare?

What can single parents do?
Generally, families who take the child care deduction come from that income group which pays the largest of the nation's taxes. Historically this group usually doesn't formally complain about paying taxes because the requirements of everyday life leaves little time to organize a defense. Some of these families are also carrying the burden of college expenses for older children.

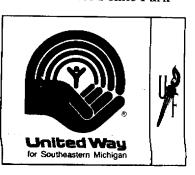

Everyone appears to be getting tax relief except the families with children. These families need tax relief from child care and education costs almost more than any other group. Monies paid out for these expenses are aftertax dollars.

Changes in child care tax relief should not be extended to just the lower income groups as Bush has proposed, but to all income groups.

Who will look after our interests in the state and nation's capital? We carry the burden of nurturing and educating the next generation of tax payers.

Why aren't we being represented?

Purse-snatching suspect caught

By John Minnis Assistant Editor

A suspect in three purse snatchings in the Woods told police last week he smoked crack prior to the thefts.

Woods, City, Detroit and St. Clair Shores police, responding to a purse snatching in the Woods and the resulting chase, arrested a 27-year-old East Detroit man who confessed to two prior purse thefts in March and December in the Woods, according to police reports.

On April 28, a 22-year-old woman was walking from her car to the side door of her house in the 500 block of Sunningdale at 12:24 a.m. when she heard the footsteps of someone running up behind her. When she saw a strange man running at her, she tried to get the door shut and locked, but the man forced the door open.

He began grabbing at the purse, which she clutched tightly to her chest, and she began yelling for her parents, who were upstairs sleeping. Finally the man got the purse away from the victim and ran. The woman ran to the steps going upstairs and yelled for her parents.

She then ran outside to the front of the house and saw a large, white delivery van accelerating rapidly eastbound on Sunningdale. The woman's mother called Woods police and a bulletin was broadcast to be on the lookout for the van.

Sgt. Paul Crook took up a position near Mack and Cook Road and within minutes he spotted a van matching the description in the bulletin. He followed the van south on Mack, then west on Huntington. When Crook attempted to stop the van, the driver began to speed up and refused to pull over.

The chase continued through residential streets in the Woods, St. Clair Shores, Harper Woods and into Detroit. According to Crook's report, he never lost sight of the van.

At Cadieux, the van entered eastbound I-94. Between 9 Mile and Stephens roads, the man stopped the van, jumped out, bankment into a backyard in the her purse. 22800 block of Beaconsfield in East Detroit.

On Beaconsfield, officers from Detroit, St. Clair Shores and Grosse Pointe City were waiting, and Sgt. Lyle Reese of the City was arrested, he had two wallets in his hands, one of which belonged to the Woods woman who was robbed earlier, according to

The Woods woman's purse was found in the van still parked on the expressway.

After he was read his rights at the Woods police station, according to police reports, the suspect told Detective Steven Backlund and was driving around smoking the other departments.

Woods plans flower sale

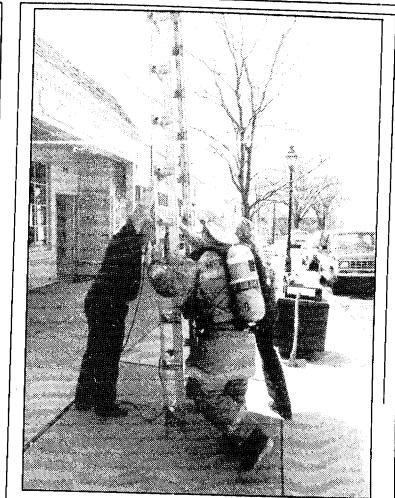

Just in time for Mother's Day, the Grosse Pointe Woods Beautification Advisory Commission will sponsor its 15th annual Flower Sale on Friday, May 11, from 2 to 7 p.m., and on Saturday, May 12, from 8 a.m. to noon, in front of the Woods City Hall at 20025 Mack.

The flower sale will feature several varieties of annuals including impatiens, begonias, geraniums, marigolds, daliahs, ageratum, dusty miller, petunias, snapdragons, salvia and vinca roses.

Also featured are several varieties of hanging baskets including Reiger begonias, New Guinea and regular impatiens and ivy geraniums.

Profits from the flower sale help to beautify the city by providing funds for flowers planted on street right-of-ways, intersections and city parks.

For more information, call the Woods City Hall at 343-2440.

Where there's smoke . . there's not necessarily fire. Farms and City firefighters responded to a report of smoke at 76 Kercheval on the Hill around noon April 25. No open flames were found and the cause of the smoke was determined to be a faulty air conditioning unit on the roof. Man flees

A 32-year-old Detroit man took officers from three police departments on a circuitous chase through Grosse Pointe Woods April 19. At 10:24 p.m., a Farms officer was monitoring traffic at Mack and Moross when a blue 1981 Ford pickup drove by eastbound, erratically changed lanes and cut off another driver. The pickup continued eastbound in an erratic manner, according to police reports.

The Farms officer pursued the truck, which finally stopped after it turned north on Stanhope about a block from Mack in Grosse Pointe Woods.

The officer asked for the driver's license and vehicle registration. The driver thumbed through his wallet several times, looked the officer in the face and then erratically drove off, according to the officer's report.

Farms, Grosse Pointe Woods and Harper Woods officers chased the truck north on Stanhope, west on Bramcaster, north on Littlestone, east on Chester, south on Allard, west on Bramcaster and north on Stanhope. The driver pulled into a driveway in the 2000 block of Stanhope, bailed out of the truck and fled on foot, running through yards and jumping fences.

The man was apprehended in front of a house in the 21400 block of Broadstone.

He was arrested and taken to the police station, where it was learned he had a restricted license. He was released on $150

What you don't know about laser surgery might help heal you.

Perhaps you've heard about the use of lasers in surgery.

But you probably don't know how often and how widely they can be used. And you may not be aware of the many advantages of laser surgery over conventional surgery.

In fact, lasers can be used by the independent surgeons at The Southeast Michigan Laser Center at St. John Hospital and Medical Center to treat problems ranging from portwine stains to brain tumors. And these proven tech-without incision.

One of the most useful laser techniques actually limits the need for an incision. Instead of cutting through the skin to reach affected areas, independent surgeons at The Southeast Michigan Laser Center can treat many patients with an instrument called a laser endoscope.

Working with an endoscope, the surgeon can vaporize internal growths or repair lesions without cutting through healthy tissue.

Gentle surgery with lasers

How to see surgery from a brighter perspective.

Lasers offer less.Laser surgery can be less painful than conventional surgery.

And so it requires less anesthesia and fewer pain-relieving drugs after surgery.

Lasers offer decreased bleeding and scarring, and less likelihood of transfusions or complications.

And laser surgery often requires less recovery time, in some cases turning a lengthy stay in the hospital into no stay at all.

City of Grusse Hointe Michigan NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

OF INCREASING PROPERTY TAXES

The City Council of the City of Grosse Pointe, Michigan will hold a public hearing at 7:30 P.M. on Monday, May 14, 1990 in the Council Chambers at the Municipal Offices, 17147 Maumee, on the proposed 1990 City tax levy and on the proposed 1990-91 City budget. Copies of the proposed budget are available for public inspection during regular business hours in the office of the City Clerk begin-

In 1989, the City of Grosse Pointe levied 14.56 mills ($14.56 per $1,000 SEV) for both City operating and debt service purposes. In 1990, the City anticipates levying a total of $13.36 mills ($13.36 per $1,000 SEV) for both City operating and debt service purposes.

Due to an increase in the State Equalized Value of existing property in the City, the State "Truth in Taxation" law (P.A. 5 of 1982) provides that the base tax rate for 1990 City operating taxes be decreased to an estimated 12.39 mills. The "Headlee Amendment" currently limits City operating and rubbish taxes at 16.48 mills.

To fund the City's proposed 1990-91 budget, to maintain the present level of City services and provide environmental program improvements, the City finds it necessary to restore a portion of its operating millage reduction. An additional millage rate levy of .84 mills (84 cents per $1,000 SEV) is proposed above the estimated 1990 base operating tax rate. This represents an increase of 6.67% in property taxes (both operating and debt purposes) for City residential property owners.

In accordance with P.A. 5 of 1982, the City has complete authority to establish the number of mills to be levied within its authorized millage rate as authorized by law and the City Charter.

Public comments, oral or written, are welcome at the public hearing on the proposed additional millage rate and on the proposed City budget.

Cinema League

The 35th annual banquet of the Cinema League is scheduled for Monday, May 21, 6:30 p.m. in the Fries Auditorium.

The travelogue to be shown is "Isle Royale and the Keweenaw Peninsula," a 35mm projection slide presentation by Herbert A. Brail.

Established as a national park in 1940, Isle Royale is an isolated wilderness area located in Lake Sueprior's northwest corner. Accessible only by boat or floatplane, the 45-mile-long island is traversed only by foot or canoe. The presentation will feature the natural beauty of the island and trace its history.

The public is invited. Tickets are $15 which include the dinner and travelogue. They are available from Dorothea Bush at 821-9558 or at the office of the War Memorial. The deadline is May 17. Travelogue tickets will be available at the door for $3.

Oxic substances in homes end up in the land By Ronald J. Bernas

Staff Writer

A recent study showed that 65 percent of all the toxic wastes contaminating landfills in this country come not from the industrial giants, but rather from household chemicals used to keep glasses spotless and clothes brighter.

According to one local woman, there are ways to eliminate or reduce using household toxins and still keep your house clean.

"It becomes a question of how clean do you really need your bathroom?" said Leah Vartanian, a Farms resident who speaks locally about reducing household toxins. "You may buy something to save time and elbow grease, but the environmental cost is very high. You have to make an ethical decision."

A toxic substance is any chemical that damages living tissue or affects the central nervous system or causes birth defects when inhaled or ingested. They are measured in parts per million (ppm) or parts per billion (ppb).

One part per billion would be the equivalent of one silver dollar in a roll of silver dollars stretching from Detroit to Salt Lake City, Vartanian points out.

Most of the most poisonous things are something you wouldn't normally associate with being toxic.

"I used to think it was toxic only if it stung me, but I learned that's not true," she said. For example, aerosol cans don't just affect the ozone layer, Vartanian said, they are also one of the biggest contaminants of landfills. When disposed of, they are eventually crushed or punctured by bulldozers or the machinery in garbage trucks, allowing the propellant — which is poisonous - to leak out.

The proper way to dispose of aerosol cans is to wrap them in newspaper, which will contain the leaking propellant.

But it's not just a question of what you use, it's also a question of how much and how often.

"Cleaning is just moving pollution from one place to another," she said. "Many cleaning products clean too well, and destroy the good germs along with the bad germs." She explained that some germs are needed to break down human waste and they are being destroyed by cleaning products.

Drying agents in some dishwashing detergents leave a chemical film on dishes that is ingested when used and using less of those products can reduce the amount of chemicals ingested.

Paint, paint thinner, furniture strippers and stains are also extremely toxic and emit poisonous fumes into the house which, unless ventilated, will accumulate.

Carpeting is made of fibers and rubber backings that can deteriorate or give off dust which is inhaled or ingested. Spilling another chemical on certain rug fibers can cause a chemical reaction and emits fumes.

Kitchen cabinets made of particle board and some foam insulations are known to give off formaldehyde gas.

"When people die in fires, it's not because of the fire itself, it's duced when they are burned that kill the people," she said.

Daily or weekly ventilation of the house can eliminate some gasses which build up, and certain plants - including spider plants and philodendron - remove gasses from the air and give off fresh oxygen.

"I don't mean to scare people, I just want to make them aware of the dangers lurking in their houses," Vartanian said. "And I want people to know that there are things they can do.'

A shopper should ask the following questions before buying household products:

• How will this affect the environment? • How much of this product will I use, and what will I do with the rest of it? · Do I really need this product? • Is there something I can use in place of this product?

"For most everything you have in your house, there is a natural replacement," she said. 'That's why the synthetics were created, as a substitute for the when the time comes for new natural."

She doesn't suggest people tear up their carpet and install new, all-natural carpet, but that

What you can use

Want to eliminate household toxins but aren't sure where to start? The following list provides some low-cost, non-toxic alternatives to some cleaning solutions.

• Abrasive cleaners — dip a half a lemon in borax and rub on the area.

 Ammonia-based cleaners vinegar, salt and water mixed, and baking soda and water for the bathroom.

• Bleach - for laundry, add half a cup of white vinegar or baking soda or borax.

• Furniture polish - use one part lemon juice and two parts olive or vegetable oil. (This eliminates an aerosol can, too.)

 Drain cleaner — flush with boiling water, use 1/4 cup baking soda and two ounces of vinegar.

• Flea collars — add brewer's yeast to pet's diet or use an herbal collar, such as eucalyptus or rosemary.

• Oven cleaner - baking soda and water or pour salt on spills while they're still warm. • Air fresheners - place a box of baking soda in enclosed areas, set out vinegar in an open dish. Fresh flowers and herbs or cloves and cinnamon simmering on the stove can make the whole house freshsmelling.

Alternatives to conventional gas engines — or is it imaginative PR?

Detroit is a major center of public relations activities, because of the auto industry, and some of my best friends are practitioners of that sometimes maligned and usually misunderstood profession.

An old college buddy ("old" buddy is just a term of endearment, not a reference to age), John Mueller, director of media relations for the operating staff at General Motors, explained in a recent J-Network, a publication for Wayne State University journalism alumni, why he and other GM PR types do not comment on the movie "Roger and

"The last thing I want to do is help promote the movie," Mueller said. "So you don't want to make a lot of waves about it."

As was the case with Michael Moore and his movie about his attempts to talk to GM Chairman Roger B. Smith, questions and problems of public image are often taken out of the hands of PR people and played out in the mass media by rich and famous people.

But these are just blips, temporary ups and downs in the image game. Much more serious are the long-term, high-stakes programs and two of them have been in the news recently, both involving GM.

One is the Saturn project, which recently underwent another round of publicity sparked by a purloined picture of the Saturn car. Top GM brass offered big rewards for information leading to the identification of the person who leaked that photo to the press.

Cynics suggest that it was one of GM's own PR people, because GM couldn't have bought the kind of wide publicity it got out of that spy photo. No so, GM's publicity minions say. We are not that subtle, they subtly sug-

If the Saturn is as successful a car as it has been a publicity device, then it will be successful indeed. Since announcing the Saturn project about a decade ago, partly it seemed to get the federal government and other critics off its back about competing more effectively with the Japanese makers, GM has reaped enormous media coverage and public relations benefit without ever building a car.

cal Museum.

G.P.N.: 05/03/90

And the very GM appearance of the Saturn in the unauthorized photo makes one wonder if it will compete with Japan or with Chevrolet and Pontiac.

And more recently, there was the unveiling by Roger B. himself of an electric car, the Impact, a two-seater sportster of very contemporary style said to be capable of respectable acceleration and freeway speeds. And, of course, an electric puts no emissions into the air, a fact of some interest to Los Angeles. where the car was introduced several months ago.

GM Chairman Smith followed with an Earth Day speech in Washington in which he said that GM is committed to production of an electric vehicle similar to the Impact. But he offered no details of when or where such a car would be produced, how far it could go on a charge (125 miles was claimed for the Impact, a very small car) or how much it might cost.

"Our goal is to be the first automobile company since the early days of the auto industry to mass-produce an electric car," Smith said.

Conservationists were interested but skeptical, as were industry observers in Detroit. It is true that electrics emit no pollutants, but they have to be recharged and their batteries hold power most likely generated by burning fossil fuel (such as coal) or by a nuclear reactor, neither of which are dear to conservationists' hearts. The Impact's 870-pound battery pack is said to take about two hours to charge. The timing of the electric car publicity and the venue of its unveiling (Los Angeles) and Smith's Earth Day speech (Washington) suggest a major public relations campaign once more to get critics off the corporation's back.

But another recent development indicates that it may have real substance, unlike most of the alternative fuel projects of the last couple of decades. Isuzu $\,$ Motors, of which GM owns a more than one-third interest, says it has developed a revolutionary new type of battery that can store more power than conventional batteries and can be recharged in 30 seconds.

Isuzu was not specific about details of its new "electric power storage," but the device sounds almost too good to be true. It relies on activated charcoal, so should be much less expensive than current batteries, its starting power is 40 times greater and its output 20 times greater. Isuzu said its power accumulation capacity is 10,000 times that of present condensers.

Isuzu said the battery can be formed into any shape, is much lighter than conventional batteries and says it will be on the market in two years.

This could make the electric vehicle a viable alternative to the gasoline car, which it has not been since the gasoline engine emerged as the champion automotive power source shortly after the turn of the century. Steam engines and electrics were built in some volume for a couple of decades, but by the '20s could still be spotted operating accounted for only a small percentage of the market and completely died out in the '30s.

The most successful and longest-lived electric was the Detroit Electric, which was built from 1907 through 1935, although a few were made after that using Detroit Electric power in Dodge car bodies. Production peaked at about 3,000 a year in the years prior to World War I, but dropped to hundreds per year in the '30s. A couple of Electrics around Detroit in the early '50s."

The same problems that caused the electric to fade short range, the high weight of batteries and substandard performance - continued to plague efforts to build modern electrics in the '70s search for clean vehicles not dependent on oil.

During the '70s, the major auto makers and numerous independent inventors worked feverishly to develop an alternative to the conventional gasoline engine.

By Richard Wright

Air was foul in Los Angeles and Denver, the source of our major energy was vulnerable to a hostile OPEC and the world was running out of oil anyway. So the dreams of doing well by doing good were strong motiva-

William Lear, of Lear Jet fame, tried a number of times to develop a steam-powered vehicle. but never got it off the ground.

Wallace Minto devised a steamer which used fluorocarbon fluid instead of water for more efficient condensation and interested Nissan in it, but it never saw production.

Sam Williams tried valiantly to perfect gas turbine engines for cars and installed a few in American Motors products. Like the Chrysler Corp. turbine pro-some more imaginative PR, of ject before it, Williams' efforts which there has been much in showed great promise but never the auto industry, right from the quite made it.

Dale Clifft designed a car called the Dale with a mysterious two-cylinder engine getting 70 miles per gallon and costing less than $2,000. Jerry Dean Michael and a 200-pound transsexual better known as Liz Carmichael attempted to build and market the three-wheel car, but their dreams ended in bank-ruptcy and, for Carmichael, prison on fraud and grand theft

Isuzu's new battery may make GM's announcement a near-term possibility and could give new life to independent inventors with their wonderfully imaginative approaches to building a better car.

Or we may be witnessing start.

The retention of a one-way Mc-Kinley will keep in place the safety factor for students at Richard Elementary School and will keep traffic volume low on Mc-Kinley in front of the school.

• The designation of McMillan as a one-way, southbound street between Williams and Ridge.

The designation could increase northbound traffic on Moran between Kercheval and Williams. The one-way plan is expected to reduce McMillan traffic by 30 to 50 percent through the elimination of northbound traffic.

A one-way McMillan would provide easy access from Mack to the Hill and is expected to reduce traffic volume on Muir between Ridge and McMillan.

• The designation of several no-through-traffic streets. Motorists traveling west on Muir Road will encounter the "not a thru street" sign at Ridge. A similar sign will be posted on Lewiston at Charlevoix and on McKinley at Chalfonte to eliminate westbound through traffic.

Included in the traffic plan is a statement that traffic restrictions will be "heavily" enforced through warnings and citations.

Ferber said the plan will include the consideration of input from residents, institutions such as Cottage Hospital and the business community.

Also, traffic counts will be taken during and after the fourmonth trial period to determine whether actual traffic patterns match desired traffic routes.

According to the original traffic control proposal for the Hill area, some of the advantages of the plan are:

1) Expediting the flow of through traffic to and from the Hill-Cottage Hospital area to Mack on the west end of the Farms.

2) It recognizes long-standing traffic volume patterns and preserves the existing roadway network.

3) It protects minor roadways from heavy traffic patterns.

4) It is relatively low in implementation costs as it relates to traffic engineering surveys, capital expenses and enforcement resources.

5) It limits and targets high volume roadways for police enforcement action.

Also, according to the original proposal, expected disadvantages of the plan are:

1) The inconvenience to some residents on McKinley, Mc-Millan and Muir roads because they will no longer enjoy direct access routes to and from their residences.

Mack Avenue clean up is May 12

Bob Mowbray, president of the Grosse Pointe Business and Professional Association of Mack Avenue, announced today that there will be a spring clean-up of Mack Avenue Saturday, May 12, from 9 a.m. to noon.

Wayne County Executive Ed McNamara, Wayne County Commissioner David Cavanagh and Sen. John Kelly are scheduled to appear at the 9 a.m. kick-off at the Michigan National Bank branch located at 18550 E. Warren at Mack in Detroit.

Mack Avenue business and professional people along with Wayne County and the municipalities of Grosse Pointe Park, Grosse Pointe City, Grosse Pointe Farms and Grosse Pointe Woods and other volunteer organizations will hit the street for this all-out clean-up of Mack Avenue from Conner Road to Old Eight Mile Road.

For more information, interested volunteers can contact Mowbray at 881-8603 or 884-7887.

"We will be on Mack Avenue in full force, with brooms-in-hand sweeping sidewalks, picking up litter and removing debris from alleys and vacant lots," Mowbray said. "We are pleased that this year we will be joined by volunteers from the following Detroit community groups who will be helping with the cleanup: U-SNAP-BAC, NEAR and DEAR."

In the event of rain, the cleanup project will be held Saturday, May 19.

Streets

2) The creation of some additional local traffic resulting from the residents of McKinley, Mc-Millan and Muir traveling to and from their homes.

3) Increased traffic on major roads such as Mack Avenue, Moran, Fisher and Ridge roads.

4) The possibility of the repeal of local parking laws relating to the Michigan Manual for Uniform Traffic Control Devices. Parking on both sides of Fisher and Moran may be cancelled.

This could present an inconvenience to residents with multiple vehicles along those streets, especially on rubbish collection

5) The plan could potentially create faster speeds on McMillan after it is changed to one-way status. According to the city, the potential problem could be reduced by retaining one-side street parking on McMillan.

According to the funding proposal for the traffic control measures, cost for traffic engineering is pegged at $5,000. Traffic signs and control devices are expected to cost $4,000.

Cost of the construction of a temporary "partial tee" turna-round at McKinley and the Mack alleyway is set at $1,000.

The total cost for the four month-trial period and related traffic counts is $10,000, as approved by the City Council.

"For any corrective measure, there are side effects," Ferber said. "We have to evaluate the plan. As far as traffic engineering, the plan makes sense. We have predicted that there will be some undesirable consequences.

"This is not a plan for Mc-Millan or McKinley, it is a plan to expedite the flow of traffic on the Hill's feeder roads, which are residential in character," Ferber

"Many roads in the community have historically been designated as major or minor roadways. We felt an obligation to protect the minor roadways because many people have bought their homes based on the expected amounts of traffic.

"We will evaluate the plan and set up a public hearing sometime around the beginning of 1991," Ferber said.

Student Spotlight A

Each week in this column, we will focus on the work of a student. It can be a poem, a drawing, a short story, a picture of a scientific experiment or a woodworking project, a book review.

The following was written by Elissa A. Amori, a fifth-grader at Our Lady Star of the Sea School. She is the daughter of Thomas and Mary Ann Amori of Grosse Pointe Woods.

Bliss Day

Are you exhausted from putting up with the identical type of day seven days a week? You need a change, a rather massive change. How does the word "Bliss" sound to you? You are probably wondering what "Bliss" really is. Well, Bliss is a joyous day of the week that falls between Tuesday and Wednesday.

On Bliss, every child would attend school. Wait - it's not what you think. For one thing, every child receives a wish. If that wish could be granted, perfect. If not, there was always next week. And guess whom would try their hardest to fulfill the children's requests? The teachers, of course!

On Bliss, each person would obtain and consume five Jolly Ranchers during the morning while having free time. The afternoon would be spent in gym. Home was the "pits" next to Day" really did fall between Bliss at school — well, maybe Tuesday and Wednesday?

Elissa A. Amori

not. On Bliss, each child of the family would be able to choose the place the family would go out to eat or maybe the person in charge of dinner could make the meal!

And, of course, after eight o'clock, the children would switch identities with their parents. That means late bedtimes, an unlimited supply of favorite snacks and more!

Wouldn't it be great if "Bliss

Participating students will donate 20 percent of the proceeds from the sale of their work to the Robert R. Rathbun Memorial Fund, established in 1987 following Rathbun's death.

Rathbun was a dedicated and respected art teacher at South who left a great part of his estate to the Mothers' Club. It has been set up as a fund to be used by the art department in the areas of scholarship, art awards and enrichment activities for the students.

An alumni exhibit will be part of the show this year. All proceeds from alumni artwork will go to the Rathbun fund. Alumni interested in donating work may call Judy Mitchell at 885-1706.

In addition, personal, family or business donations may be made to the fund. For more information, call the art department at 343-2147.

Shores president, clerk, 3 trustees' seats up for election

By John Minnis Assistant Editor

Three incumbent Shores village trustees face challengers in the May 15 election, while the president's opposition has withdrawn from the campaign.

First-term President Edmund M. Brady Jr. is running in his second election in as many years. He was elected by the Village Council to fill the vacancy left by Gerald Schroeder's resignation in December 1988.

He was to have a challenger this year, but the candidate who filed, Peter P. Werle, bowed out of the race April 25 for personal and family reasons. Because more than 10 days have passed since the filing March 27 deadline, it is too late to get Werle's name removed from the ballot.

The trustees running for reelection are Patricia R. Galvin, C. Bradford Lundy Jr. and John F. Monahan. Challengers are Vito Cusenza, Virginia Rice and Barbara Willett.

Village Clerk James T. Wright is also running for re-election. He is unopposed for his third term as clerk. He was appointed village clerk in 1984. Before becoming clerk he was chairman of the planning commission. He declined to be interviewed.

The polls will be open at Vernier School from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Voters may apply for absentee ballots by mail or in person at the village offices by 2 p.m. Saturday, May 12. Only the applicant can personally pick up or deliver his or her absentee ballot, or the ballots can be mailed to directly to the applicant.

During interviews at the Grosse Pointe News last week, the candidates fielded questions on various issues, including recycling, emergency medical service, the proposed Detroit City Airport expansion, the Detroit incinerator, the proposed new library facility for the Grosse Pointes, the moratorium on new construction in the Shores, particularly on the lake side of Jefferson north of Vernier, and combined sewage overflows into Lake St.

Edmund M. Brady Jr.

Edmund M. Brady Ir.

Brady, 49, has been on the Village Council since 1980. Prior to being elected to the council, he served five years as the village clerk. His father was chairman of the Shores Planning Commission for many years, as well as municipal judge.

Along with being an elected official for 15 years, Brady is a senior partner with the law firm Vandeveer Garzia P.C.

Brady strongly supports recycling, and his street was one of the test areas for the pilot curb recycling program last year conducted by the Grosse Pointe Citizens for Recycling.

As much as he favors recycling, he said that as a steward of the village he has to look at the economics of recycling.

"I want to do it and I want to do it as quickly as I can," he said, "but it's got to fit in my

He said some direction should come from the Grosse Pointes-Clinton Refuse Disposal Author. ity. He said the village is also considering working with Grosse Pointe Woods on a recycling plan.

He was pleased that the Grosse Pointes-Clinton incinerator was back in operation, and he pointed out the need to get yard wastes and leaves out of the wastestream. The Shores has in its budget the purchase of a new leaf vacuum truck and two dump trucks for use in the fall.

pointed out that the Shores has its automatic defibrillator donated by St. John Hospital in service and all the public safety officers are trained.

When the issue of whether the Pointes had adequate EMS surfaced last year, Brady called a meeting of all the Pointes mayors, heads of the local emergency rooms and the Detroit director of advanced life support services for a private meeting at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club. Brady said the meeting was informative and helpful to all the cities.

The Grosse Pointe Shores Village Council has passed a resolution in opposition to expansion of Detroit City Airport, and Brady said, "I think we should all be concerned." The village sent letters to all its residents informing them about its opposition to the airport and providing information about the proposed expan-

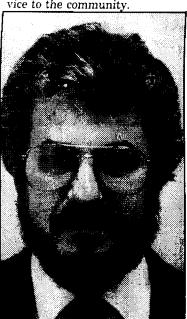

Brady said the Pointes do need a new library, and added that a few sacrifices will have to be made to find a location for it.

Concerning the moratorium on new construction in the Shores, Brady said the planning commission is beginning to work on a new master plan. He said the current plan was adopted in 1954 and was signed by his father, who was then chairman of the planning commission.

He said the economics of the times is one reason a new master plan is being developed. As land becomes more valuable and taxes higher, developers have been eyeing the large parcels along Jefferson for possible sub-

One of the Shores' biggest fears is that the land will be used for purposes other than detached, single-family homes, such as condominiums or cluster housing. Brady wants the area's character to remain the same with single-family lots and Brady said he has enjoyed his first year as president. He said the Shores has made progress. He has been blessed with good trustees, he said, and looks forward to another two years of service to the community.

Vito Cusenza

Vito Cusenza

Cusenza, 59, is running in his second election for village trustee. The last time he ran was eight or 10 years ago, he said. He has lived in the Shores for 23

He is a graduate of the University of Detroit with a bachelor of science degree. He worked for 30 years for the Ford Motor Co. as a manufacturing manager. While at Ford he put himself through law school at Wayne State University. He is a member of the bar. After retiring from Ford, he opened a $RE/\bar{M}AX$ real estate franchise in St. Clair Shores, which he still operates.

He said he is running because there are some trustees who have been on the Village Council for a long time and some new people on the council would be good for the community.

'I do believe it's an extremely well-run community," he said, "but we can improve and enhance it.

Recycling, he said, does have merit. He said a combination drop-off and curbside recycling plan may work in the Shores. He also pointed out that something has to be done to create a demand for the recycled materials. He said the city of Detroit does need another airport, but he doesn't think it has to be in Detroit. He favors Selfridge as an ideal airport location.

He said a new library with ample parking is needed in the Pointes.

Concerning EMS, he said the Pointes are fortunate to be close to several hospitals. He said advanced life support would be OK if the taxpayers want to pay for it, "but because of taxpayers' revolt, it would not be a prudent thing to do at this time.'

He said improvements can be made to the Shores municipal park, such as volleyball courts. 'There's more things we can offer them," he said, adding that the park is being used more now than in the past.

Concerning his bid for office, he said, "I'd like the opportunity to serve the community at this time."

Patricia Galvin Patricia Galvin

Galvin, 39, is running for her sixth term on the Village Council. She was first elected in 1980.

A law graduate from the University of Detroit, Galvin has had her own practice in Grosse Pointe Woods for 15 years. Before starting her own firm, she was a trial lawyer for five years for the Wayne County Prosecutor's office. Before going into law, she taught high school English in the Grosse Pointe schools.

During mhemmidecade grow if them Shores council, she has served on : all the committees and has retained her membership on the Parks and Harbors Commission, which she chairs. She is also a member of the Grosse Pointe Shores Improvement Foundation.

A lot of her time goes into the Shores parks, including the muthree-page agenda in just getting the park ready for the coming landfill at skyrocketing costs.

"We take great pride in that park and the beautiful marina,' she said.

The Shores has many recreational facilities, she said, such as athletic field, a new baseball diamond and a soccer field.

Concerning recycling, she said waste management is something every community has to deal with. She said she would like the Shores to be in the forefront of curbside recycling. She pointed out that the Shores led the way in battery collection. She would also like to see if young people could be recruited in some kind of recycling effort.

As a member of the council. she was one of the trustees who adopted a resolution opposing any expansion at City Airport, and she said she opposes the airport not only for the benefit of the Shores but for all the Detroit incinerator.

Pointes. She said EMS is constantly Public Safety Department treats the residents with the same concern as family. She said the addition of the automatic defibrillator was necessary, and she is being purchased. Concerning the Farms' rejection of a site for a new library, Galvin said she was stunned the residents weren't 100 percent behind it. "I'm in favor of it 100 percent," she said.

Galvin said development of the large parcels on Lakeshore is something that has to be watched and controlled. She said developers have been talking to the owners of the large properties. "There hasn't been a crisis," she said, "but life changes."

Galvin's campaign literature lists a large number of supporters. "I've always considered myself the people's candidate," she said, "because I have such a large grassroots support.'

C. Bradford Lundy Jr.

C. Bradford Lundy Jr. Lundy, 68, is running for his 14th term on the council, which means he has been a trustee for 26 years. He serves as the council president pro tem.

Now retired, Lundy was formerly was a partner in a manufacturers representative firm. Besides serving on the Village Council, he is on the board of trustees of St. John Hospital and is currently on the Parish Council of Our Lady Star of the Sea Catholic Church.

He said his main two concerns are the hospital and garbage.

As the Shores representative to the Grosse Pointes-Clinton Refuse Disposal Authority, Lundy also sits as vice chairman of the authority that runs the incinerator. He was pleased to point out last week that the incinerator was burning again after being shut down for 15 months and 15 days by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources due to hazardous materials in the ash, primarily cadmium from old batteries in the wastestream.

Lundy said Shores Village Manager Michael Kenyon took the first efforts to get batteries out of the residents' trash by providing plastic battery disposalbags to be collected during garun bage pick up. Now the batteries are collected throughout the Pointes.

As a member of the incinerator authority, Lundy knows the value of recycling, and he backs the recycling efforts. He also favors the elimination of yard wastes from the wastestream to nicipal park. She pointed out reduce the amount of trash that her commission faces a burned and the amount of ash that has to be put in a special

> The reason I'm running is garbage," Lundy said. "We've got to (reduce the amount of garbage going to landfills) or we will be up to our necks in garbage.'

Lundy, an obvious supporter of incineration, sympathizes with the dilemma at the Detroit incinerator, which has basically the same problems as the Grosse Pointes-Clinton incinerator except at many times the scale. He points out that along with putting in expensive pollution control devices, Detroit can also prevent pollution by making sure hazardous items don't get in the wastestream to begin with, doing what the Pointes did, for instance, to prevent batteries from being burned. "All I can picture is the stuff piling up like ours did," he said about the closing down of the

As a member of the incinerator authority, Lundy believes the involved in training and said the authority should be leading the recycling efforts for the all the Pointes: "I think we can do it and do it better, and we have the room for it.'

Concerning the proposed Dereported that a new ambulance troit City Airport expansion, Lundy is opposed to it. He said he favors Selfridge Air National Guard Base near Mount Clemens as a better site for an airport on the east side.

Lundy favors a new library for the Pointes, and concerning EMS, he added that the purchase of a new modular-type ambulance is in the budget.

John F. Monahan

"Jack" Monahan, 65, has lived in the Shores for the past 18 years and in the Pointes for more than 40 years. He is president of Edward V. Monahan Inc., a construction company founded by his father. He's headed the company for 30 vears.

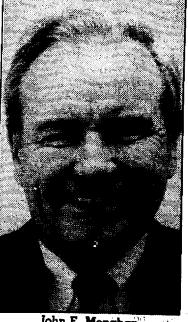

War Memorial and Friends of Bon Secours, and has been a member of the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club for 20 years.

He was appointed to the council in early 1989 to fill the vacancy left by Daniel Beck's resignation. Monahan ran for the office last year, and this year's election will put him on schedule for the two-year term.

His experience as a builder led him to serve on the planning commission for a couple of years before his appointment to the council. He is the only member of the council who is a builder and planner, he said.

As the council's liaison to the planning commission, Monahan is taking an active role in the formation of the new master plan. He said the Shores faces changes in development and those changes have to be controlled

"Whatever change occurs in the Shores, we want it to be well-thought outring a controlled manner, " he said." multone

Concerning the polluting of Lake St. Clair, he pointed out that the Shores' ongoing street and sewer project will eliminate the village's sewage from entering the lake during the infrequent heavy rain storm, as is now the case. This year, Colonial Road is slated for a new sanitary sewer and paving.

About recycling, he said the Village Council feels very strongly about separating recycl ables from the wastestream, but he also points out that markets have to be developed for recycled materials.

He added that the economics of recycling has to be taken into account and the process has to be done logically. He said the Shores should have a recycling plan set up soon. He personally favors curbside pick up of recycled materials.

Monahan is opposed to expansion of City Airport. "I just don't think it belongs there," he said. He said he favors Selfridge as an airport site.

As a Grosse Pointer, Monahan said he favors a new library facility, and he thought the Brownell Middle School site that was nixed by the Farms council was a good location.

On another matter, he said he would like to see Vernier School restored and used by the community.

Concerning the Detroit incinerator, Monahan said burning is a fact of life, and Detroit Mayor Coleman Young was farsighted in constructing the incinerator, but he said the city should have used all technology available to prevent pollution.

Monahan has some experience with incinerators. His company built a very successful co-generation plant for Hutzel Hospital.

On the EMS issue, he believes the Shores has done a good job of upgrading with the automatic defibrillator and the planned purchase of a new ambulance. He praised the leadership of Brady as council president. Monahan said his platform for re-election is his knowledge as a builder and planner and a successful businessman for 40 years.

Virginia 'Ginnie' Rice

Rice, 52, who has lived in the Shores for 15 years, is making her first bid for public office. She has experience in community service as a member of the Grosse Pointe Improvement Foundation.

She has a doctorate and is an associate professor at Wayne State University.

Concerning the building moratorium in the Shores, she said she is opposed to subdividing the large lots and wants to preserve the uniqueness of the Shores.

She's frustrated with the Shores' slowness in getting into recycling. "We would have had the opportunity to be a model community if we had gotten moving on it," she said. "We don't have to reinvent the wheel. We just have to get on with it." She said a combination drop-off and curbside recycling plan may be the way to go.

She said she is pleased to be against the expansion of City Airport: "We don't need high density air traffic over high density population."

Concerning the Detroit incinerator, Rice said Detroit should have installed the equipment to prevent pollution at the beginning.

. About EMS, she favors advanced life support for all the Pointes. "We just can't rely on the Woods Whishe said, referring to the boly trity in the Pointes with paramedics.

Barbara Willett

Barbara Willett

Willett, 50, is making her first run for public office. She is board secretary of the Grosse Pointe Shores Improvement Foundation and the first woman president of the Greater Detroit Society for the Blind.

She prides herself as a leader, a good communicator, a negotiator and someone who gets results. She served as president of the Junior League of Detroit from 1978 to 1985 and was the only Detroit member of the Junior League elected national director for the Association of Junior Leagues Inc. in New York City.

Other organizations with which she has volunteer board experience include the Adult Service Centers, Hope Ship League of Detroit and president of the Grosse Pointe Newcomers Club. She has a bachelor's degree in English with a teaching certificate from the University of Michigan. Her work experience includes director of the Capital Campaign of the Children's Center in Detroit, coordinated selling of convention booths for the Michigan Society of Architects, administrative assistant and secretary at the St. Clair Renal Center at St. John Hospital, English and journalism teacher and a paid trainer for the Harvard University intern program.

"Two-thirds of Detroiters would visit the Flats within the course of a year," Dixon said, "Many went via the famous excursion vessel Tashmoo."

Not surprising, many of the original developers of the Flats were the same pioneers who developed the Grosse Pointes during the same period.

The St. Clair Flats, with its abundant wildlife and numerous canals, became so popular with Detroiters that it was called "Little Venice."

Numerous clubhouses and hotels sprung up, offering visitors the finest in hunting, fishing, boating and all-around relaxa-

Dixon's search has also yielded information on his ancestoral roots in the area.

"One of my ancestors was the first to build a cottage in the South Channel," Dixon said. "I found that my great-grandfather and great-grandmother met in the Flats. My parents also met Dixon's research led to the publishing of "Life at the Flats" in 1985, a book detailing the excursion ship era and the South Channel lifestyle.

The book was so well-received that Dixon two years later published "The Flats Golden Era, 16 years.

Willett said she is running for office at this time because she believes she can make a contribution to the community. If elected, she would like to get more citizen participation in decision-making. One way to get residents involved is to send out surveys, she said, that would register their priorities in village projects and spending.
"I don't want you to think I have the answers," she said, "but I know how to get out and get them."

Concerning recycling, Willett, anid she favors anything that reduces the wastestream. She would like curbside recycling looked at and the costs studied. She also credits grassroots organizing by residents for the current concerns and accomplishments in recycling.

On the proposed expansion of City Airport, Willett agreed with the council's opposition, saying: "It was the right thing to do."

She believes the Grosse Pointes deserve the best in library facilities, but she doesn't know where a new library could be located and what justifiable costs would be.

The Shores' efforts to separate water and sewer lines are largely due to her efforts in 1983 to get a new sewer on Lochmoor. She said that at the time her basement was constantly flooding and the village administration refused to help until she organized residents. Shortly afterward, Michael Kenyon become village manager and a study was conducted to begin a sewer separation and road resurfacing program for the Shores.

"I think they kept thinking I'd go away," she said of the former administration that gave her the run-around.

Willett experienced the quality of the Shores EMS when her husband had a medical emergency. She was very pleased with the response and care provided.

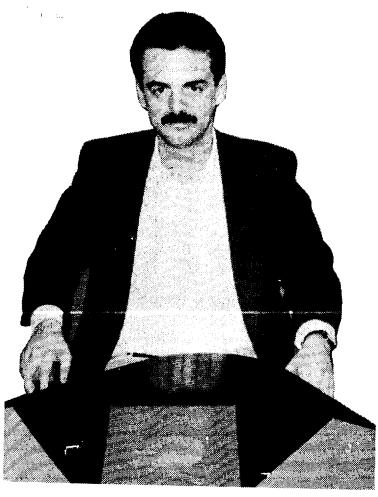

While she could not point to any instances of poor government by the current council and said village officials have been fiscally responsible, she believes she can contribute and make the community better and stronger.

"Spring Fever in the Park," a special event planned for the first time at Windmill Pointe Park, is Sunday, May 6, beginning at 2 p.m. In case of rain, the event will be held a week later on May 13.

The event, for Park residents, will feature games for children under 12, face painting, helium balloons, an adult spring drawing and refreshments.

Once the local review is completed, the Census Bureau will shut down district offices and begin the information processing period before reporting population figures to state administrators, Edwards said.

Once again, the favorable reaction to the first two books led to a third, "Marshland Memories.'

The book is Dixon's last volume on the Flats and is a summary of his thorough research into the history of the St. Clair River delta region.

Dixon is now preparing to publish a fourth book, this one centering on the early connections between the Great Lakes marine engine industry and the development of the automobile.

"Motormen and Yachts," his next book, will explore the strong links between the development of the Michigan automobile industry and the marine based internal combustion en-

"They were for the most part developed by the same people," he said.

Besides the Mississippi River style steamboats, there was no alternative to the lightweight marine power plants found in watercraft. On land, horses needed just hay and water and they were very reliable, Dixon said.

By the time marine engines were made reliable, many of the pioneers became invovled in applying the engine technology to land-based vehicles.

Ironically, the birth of the automobile and its marine devel-tailed history of the Flats and oped internal combustion engine marked the death of the Flats.

"After the development of the automobile, fewer Detroiters came to the Flats," Dixon said. "There was no more market for the supplies carried by the excursion boats and the tourist trade faltered. The hotels became empty and fell into disre-

"The introduction of liquor prohibition hurt the tourist trade even further and marked the end of an era."

Now, Dixon said, the Flats are coming back in style. Several old clubhouses and hotels have been rebuilt and Dixon is rebuilding on the site of his ancestoral property on the South Channel.

Dixon has 12 years experience as a loan officer at Manufacturers Bank and currently resides in Grosse Pointe Farms with his wife Clara and their 8-year-old son David, a student at Kerby Elementary School. Dixon earned his undergraduate degree in finance from the University of Michigan. He earned his master's degree from the School of International Management in Arizona.

"Writing about history has given me great satisfaction for having preserved not only my family's history, but the history of a beautiful and historic area.' Where does he find the time for all this research? "I honestly don't know," Dixon said. "I think it's the drive. The overwhelming passion to see it through."

Rosalie finally sees for herself what her mother and Devo have been trying to tell her. Looking through the shelves in the library, she sees Joey, in fine form, making a move on a young and pretty patron.

At first she is devastated. This superman whom she had put on a pedestal and willingly, almost gratefully, waited on, has betrayed her.

With the help of her willing mother, who has become an expert in such matters from reading the national scandal sheets, Rosalie settles on poisoning his spaghetti sauce. After four bowls he complains of a stomachache.

Kevin Kline is fantastic as the friendly, likable philanderer full of bounce and energy. Although he comes across as a heel because of the way he treats Rosalie, he manages to display a compassionate good side, something that is not easy to accomplish in a realistic comedy. Tracy Ullman gives an excellent performance as Rosalie, the put-upon wife. While the film is basically a farce, she makes the viewer feel the pain and anger she experiences when she learns of Joey's infidelities.

Joan Plowright, Rosalie's practical mother, lends her share of humor to the film. She advises Rosalie: "If you don't kill him, kill yourself." William Hurt and Keanu Reeves are comic with their weird, drug-induced patter and Richard Phoeniz is good as the sincere, devoted Devon.

While "I Love You to Death" is not a hilarious film, it is funny and will be appreciated for the outstanding performances of the characters that people its dark humor.

Coda' examines the life of music, the music of life

By Ronald J. Bernas Staff Writer

When jazz is good and everything clicks, it's something special. It becomes a suspended moment in time when musicians and audience are taken to a place that not everyone can find.

When jazz is not good - for there's really no $ba\bar{d}$ jazz — it becomes an uncomfortable experience, making every minute of it

The

Charlie "Bird" Parker, quite possibly the finest jazz saxophonist ever, almost single-handedly redefined the way jazz was played.

"Coda" is set a few days after Bird's death. Bird had played in Spoon's Lounge - just as any jazz musician worth his salt in the 1950s did - and knew the owner Weatherspoon (Booker Hinton), Maddox (Von H. Washington), a local jazz impresario, and Royst, a man who Maddox said could "play the horn, and not just for a white boy."

Maddox has just been released after four years in prison. He landed there after his grief at the death of his wife led him on a slow decline aided by drugs and alcohol.

Repentant and afraid, he has returned to Spoon's to see his daughter, Theresa, a fledgling musician whose spite keeps her from admitting that she needs to play the way her father does.

Then there's Royst, the white musician who sold out and became the host of a local kiddie television show. His disillusionment stems from the realization that the children of the day cared nothing for the past, nothing for the music, and nothing for the stories that were told with the music.

The relationships, and indeed the characters themselves are well-developed and fully drawn, especially the friendship between Spoon and Maddox. The two men, who knew each other when they were young, married sisters and shared each other's lives. joys and pains.

But more than anything, they shared the music. They shared their love of Bird, whose death to them signifies the end of music as they know it, and their love of Theresa, a tiny, flickering light into the darkness left by Bird's death.

They shared their love of Spoon's Lounge where everything was brought together, where everything made sense for them.

The play's coda — the story of what happened when Maddox and Bird played together one magical evening - comes after too much. It's a conclusion of a song that was played out. It's a shame, too, because the story is beautiful, but it's lost.

Local theaters plan several benefits for Attic Theatre

In an unprecedented show of support from the professional theater community, five Detroitarea theaters have scheduled benefit performances on their stages with all proceeds going to the financially troubled Attic Theatre.

"This is the most heartening action taken to help the Attic Theatre since we announced our financial crisis March 21," said Lavinia Moyer, the Attic's artistic director.

The five are the Detroit Repertory Theatre, the Hilberry, the Jewish Ensemble Theatre, Meadow Brook Theatre and the Theatre Company.

"The achievements of the Attic Theatre have been a beacon in Detroit's artistic life," said Meadow Brook Theatre artistic director Terence Kilburn. "Its demise would be an inestimable loss to the community and a blow to the cultural growth of Detroit."

The Attic Theatre has operated on the edge of financial collapse since its Greektown theater was destroyed by fire in 1984, Moyer said, and several fundraising events are in the works to benefit the theater.

"In the last month, we've received more than $50,000 in donations - and of that $30,000 came from individual contributions by theatergoers," Moyer

"We are making progress, but there's a long way to go before the Attic Theatre's financial goal is reached.'

Moyer said that by the end of August the Attic needs to raise $550,000 beyond its normal contributions and box-office sales to continue operating.

pportunity Knocks' for Dana arvey

By Marian Trainor Special Writer

Fans of "Saturday Night Live" need no introduction to exuberant Dana Carvey, star of "Opportunity Knocks," a comedy that appears to have been written and directed to showcase his versatile talents.

A gifted mimic, whose "Saturday Night Live's" Church Lady, dour Hans and the Chinese pet store owner who sells nothing but chickens, has established himself as a first-rate entertainer.

in his first big-screen lead role (he played a mime in "Spinal Tap"), he plays Eddie, a smalltime Chicago con artist, and transfers his sketch humor to extended characterization.

Being a con man is not just a temporary means of making money for Eddie. It's his profession, one that he has been schooled in by his father, Max (Milo O'Shea), a jovial full-faced Irishman who looks like Santa Claus without a beard. He is constantly urging Eddie to go for the big swindles, such as phony stocks and bonds. "It's the American way," ha says.

"For the present, Eddie and his pal, Lou (Todd Graff), are running a scam where Lou jumps in front of a car and Eddie fasttalks the court-shy driver into handing over his money, his watch and rings. When they run up a gambling debt with a twoton hoodlum with muscles to match, who is capable of crushing them like a beer can, they realize they need to add to their income.

Disguised as inspectors looking for a gas leak, they knock on the door of a house and inform the owner they need to come in. While Eddie diverts him with a scary account of what might happen to his house, Lou prowls the country club to meet their the premises. Just as he is about to remove a TV set, the rest of the family returns, including two boys who are karate experts.

Cruising on, still desperate for cash, they spot a mansion where it is obvious that the owner is away. They break in, intending to make a quick haul, but change their mind when they discover that the owner has gone to India and the house sitter has cancelled out.

They settle in to a yuppie's dream. The house is not only luxurious with everything electronically controlled, but the giant-sized TV, stereo, coffee maker, and even the fireplace can be turned on and off with a flick of a hand-held control.

A surprise visit by the owner's daughter, Annie, who is a doctor. Milt, who has made a fortune manufacturing restroom equipment, wants Eddie to come into his company as an adviser and right-hand man. This proves to be a field day for Carvey. In one scene he is required to act as an interpreter for a distressed Japanese businessman man who only wants directions to the men's room. As Loggia stands by admiringly, Eddie spouts out a staccato machine burst of pidgeon Japanese.

Acting on the advice of the old con expert himself, his father, Eddie begins to work seriously on winning over Annie. She is not as easy a mark as her parents, but Eddie doesn't give up.

"Rediscovering Michigan by Rail and Water" is the theme of the 1990 public excursions of the non-profit Bluewater Michigan Chapter of the National Histori-`cal Society.

Activities will include a nostalgic day-long trip behind a steam locomotive; steamboats between Detroit and Port Huron; and a variety of diesel-powered rail outings.

Bluewater Michigan Chapter, dedicated to the preservation of railroad history, is in its eighth year of providing a variety of family excursions in Michigan and the midwest aboard its "Yes! Michigan Train.'

This year's first set of excursions, the "Railroad Days Ram-bler," will run round-trip from Howell to Durand on Saturday and Sunday, May 5 and 6, as part of the 15th annual Railroad Days Festival in Durand. The Livingston Limited will carry passengers from Durand to Howell where they may spend a few minutes or a few hours.

The Memorial Day cruise, "Steamboats to Port Huron," will be a celebration of European freedom and solidarity using both of the famous Boblo boats, the SS Ste. Clair and the SS Columbia. One boat will feature Polish music and dancing, representing the re-emerging nations of Eastern Europe; the other will feature Scottish and Irish entertainment.

On Saturday, July 14, the nation's largest steam locomotive in regular excursion service, Norfolk & Western's giant articulated 2-6-6-4, Number 1218, will return after a two-year absence to pull a train of more than 20 coaches and special service cars from Allen Park as "Steam to Fort Wayne" visits the annual Three Rivers Festival in the Indiana City.

Saturday, Aug. 11, will mark a "first" for Bluewater excursionists. The "Michigan Festival Limited" will pick up passengers in Birmingham, Pontiac and Durand, and deposit them in (Mondays only).

East Lansing for the festival on in cooperation with Amtrak, the MSU campus. Shuttle buses also will carry excursionists to the Capitol and the new State Library/Museum.

The weekend of Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 8 and 9, will feature separate round-trip excursions to the Historic Homes Tour in Marshall and to the increasingly-popular Wine and Harvest Festival in Kalamazoo and Paw Paw. Both trips will be operated which has arranged a special stop in Marshall and has a regular stop in Kalamazoo. Both excursions will originate in Detroit, Dearborn and Ann Arbor.

Grosse Pointe Farms

Farms lawyer strives for the 'perfect sports bar'

Assistant Editor

Grosse Pointe Farms attorney John Carlisle set out to open the perfect sports bar, and he just may have achieved his goal.

In December, Carlisle open Jimmy Mack's at the former Hollywood Nights location on Mack in Grosse Pointe Park. During its first three months of business, the bar has exceeded expectations, Carlisle said.

"In my mind's eye, there was that perfect bar," he said. "I think this is it."

The Mack location had been closed for months before Carlisle came along, and the building was in total disrepair. Carlisle ted out. Before he could begin the finishing touches to create the atmosphere for his perfect sports bar, the interior was gutted from wall to wall, the floor ripped out and even the front facade was torn off.

The front now features French pane windows and doors and a colorful awning proclaiming "Jimmy Mack's." The floor is covered by linoleum reminiscent of the 1960s, the era reflected by the many touches incorporated in Carlisle's design.

"Anyone can identify with that era," Carlisle said, "but it's not gimmicky."

He would not say how much square foot was substantial. Dark wood paneling, reflecting conservative Grosse Pointe, is used inside and out. The walls are an unusual, dark green. Carlisle said it took several attempts to get the green he wanted before he realized a sweat shirt he was wearing was the exact color he sought. So he took the sweat shirt to a paint store and had the color custom-mixed.

but he indicated the cost per

Even some of the ornate, tin ceiling tiles typical of the '20s had to be replaced. Carlisle found some tin ceiling tiles in an old building being demolished on Kercheval. Though the tiles aren't duplicates, they have been arranged in a geometric fashion so that only close study reveals the differences.

In fact, the entire interior of Jimmy Mack's warrants close study. Covering the walls are sports pictures Carlisle has collected from the '60s. For sports buffs, the pictures are intriguing.

Carlisle has added special touches throughout, including a new mahogany bar railing, the name Jimmy Mack's etched in the huge mirror behind the bar and even brass fixtures in the women's restroom.

Manager Rick Strasz said one of the main complaints from women about bars is the poor condition of the restrooms. Strasz and Carlisle vow not to make that mistake, and they pride themselves on having the cleanest place in town. According to one female patron, she has never seen as clean a restroom and bar as Jimmy Mack's.

"I want to run a good, clean place that the community can be proud of," Strasz said.

The '60s theme even incorporates an old jukebox. To provide the quality sound expected in the 1990s, though, Carlisle runs the music through high-techlooking equipment and quality speakers throughout. There are enough speakers so that the sound level is even everywhere in the bar.

Songs on the jukebox are just three for a quarter and all tunes are from the '60s and are personally selected by Carlisle.

Jimmy Mack's even has a computerized dartboard, and dart-throwing contests are held with competitors from other establishments in the area. Recog-

The bar also has a satellite dish and 10 televisions. Theoretically, 10 sporting events could be shown at one time, but usually Jimmy Mack's offers its customers a choice of two or three events.

Explaining the name "Jimmy Mack's," Carlisle said it's a play off the 1960s song by Martha and the Vandellas, as well as the street the bar is located on, but Strasz said there's more to

He said Carlisle, a Vietnam veteran, was wounded and spent, out." time in the hospital. While recovering, Carlisle's favorite song was "Jimmy Mack." The '60s classic has a lot of meaning for Carlisle, who was awarded a Purple Heart, Strasz said.

The crowd at Jimmy Mack's does not consist of the rednecked, beer-bellied guzzler one might think of associated with a sports bar. Carlisle said the patrons of his bar are upscale professionals, including many fellow lawyers. He said 80 percent of the men on any particular evening are in suits and ties.

Jimmy Mack's owner John Carlisle, right, and manager Rick Strasz shoot a quick game of pool

Carlisle wanted a place where professional people could go after work or on weekends and feel comfortable in a suit or blue jeans. He said Jimmy Mack's is popular with women and cou-

Rather than bringing crowds with bands, Jimmy Mack's hopes to have a regular clientele that comes for the sports on television, the pool or the company of like-minded people.

"The days of just sitting at a bar and putting them down is over," Strasz said. "People want "So I hung a shingle out on to do something when they renor Mack Nychue," he said.

"The main thing is they come back," he said of his customers. 'We want them back."

Carlisle did not want to get into the food preparation business, so Jimmy Mack's is not a restaurant. Only hot dogs, pizza and chips are available. The bar is open from 3 p.m. to 2 a.m. 364 days a year. The only day it's closed is Christmas.

Carlisle, 42, said the completion of his perfect bar and its initial success are gratifying, but he added, "It's not as fun as I thought.'

Jimmy Mack's is Carlisle's first attempt at owning a bar. He still makes his living as an attorney with offices in a building at Mack and Moran, which he also gutted to make the "perfect law office."

He completed law school at the University of Detroit, and because he had always been his own boss even while earning his way through law school, he wasn't about to become just another attorney at someone else's practice.

While Strasz, 36, who has been in the restaurant and bar business all his working life, manages Jimmy Mack's, Carlisle keeps actively involved in the business.

"It's one thing to say you're a sports bar," he said. "It's another thing to be a sports bar."

Farms attorney John Carlisle, left, opened Jimmy Mack's in December after 3 1/2 months of renovation of the building on Mack. Rick Strasz is the manager.

By Ronald J. Bernas

Former Grosse Pointe Farms resident William H. Parker III, the Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense for Environment, has been awarded the 1990 New England Award by the Engineering Societies of New England. Parker's selection is unique since he is the first person who has received both the Young Engineer of the Year Award by the Massachusetts Society of Professional Engineers and the New England Award. The award recognizes Parker's accomplishments and commitment throughout his 30 years of experience in civil engineering, particularly in the environmental field.

Michael P. Smith of Grosse Pointe Park has been named vice president of economic development for the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce and executive director of the Greater Detroit/Southeast Michigan Business Attraction and Expansion Council. Prior to his new position, Smith served as the chamber's vice president for government relations and as regional representative for U.S. Sen. Donald W. Riegle Jr.

Hutzel Hospital has promoted Donald Snell of Grosse Pointe Farms to executive vice president/ chief operating officer with responsibilities in finance. Snell graduated from State University of New York at Albany and earned a master's degree in hospital administration from the George Washington University in Washington, D.C. Snell joined Hutzel's staff in 1978. He is a member of the American College of Hospital Administrators.

Snell Kathleen Tindall of Grosse Pointe has joined Young & Rubicam Detroit as a media planner for the Lincoln Mercury Dealer Association account. Prior to Y&R, Tindall was a media buyer for J. Walter Thompson. Cato Johnson/Detroit, Young and Rubicam's sales promotion agency, recently promoted Gay Chapman, formerly of Grosse Pointe City, to senior account executive. Chapman, who joined Y&R in 1987, remains assigned to the Ford Parts and Service Division and Village Green accounts where she had been working as an account executive. Chapman graduated from the University of Colorado, majoring in English.

The pillows are plumped. The flowers are fresh. The guest towels are out. The Junior League of Detroit's 1990 Designers' Show House is ready for company.

About 26,000 guests are expected. This year's house is bigger, classier, better and promises to be more profitable than ever.

Twenty-eight designers have created a houseful of eye-catching, eye-pleasing, even eye-fooling treats that manage to be traditional, high-tech, opulent, homespun, outrageous, obvious, tongue-in-cheek, clever, down-to-earth and impractical all at the same time.

Whether you're looking for adaptable design ideas for your own living space or whether you just want to marvel at the ambience of it all - the 1990 Show House is worth a walk-through.

It's all for a good cause too.

how to wring every last buck out of a fantastic fundraising scheme. The biennial event makes money in nearly a dozen different ways besides the obvious one of charging $10 at the door to anyone who wants to

Before the designers were turned loose. for instance, hundreds of people paid 99 cents each to walk through the empty

More than 300 people attended a glitzy evening preview party in the undecorated house. Another 650 or so attended an evening preview party of the completed project. The price was $100 each for the two-party package.

Then there's the raffle, the silent auction, donations from benefactors, patrons, sponsors and friends, the group ticket sales, the Boutique, the Greenery and the Tea Room.

The whole shebang will fatten the League's treasury by about a quarter of a million dollars - all to be turned back to the community through League projects such as the Alcohol and Drug Community Education and Advocacy Project, an educational awareness program concerning chemical dependency and its effects; the restoration of Detroit's historic Sibley House; the Children and Youth Initiative - a project to aid Wayne County's at-risk youth; Focus: HOPE Center for Children Training Project - a parent training program; and the AIDS Project for the development of a coordinated AIDS volunteer system for the greater Detroit area.

The 1928 English Tudor mansion, designed by architect Robert O. Derrick, provided the backdrop for 28 designers to run free with their most creative, most outrageous, most eye-popping ideas.

A triumvirate of co-chairmen is supervising the 1990 Designers' Show House. Cochair Judy Sieber picked her three favorite must-see features in the completed Show

"I love the gold gilt mirror in the first floor powder room," she said. The room was decorated by Interiors By Design of Rochester in a French and European tradition with shades of black, French gray, cinnamon and ecru and includes one of several examples of trompe l'oeil in the house. The neo-classical French antique mirror has been restored in shades of gray and 24 carat gold leaf.

"The dining room is one of my favorites because of its different design," Sieber said. "It's a fun room with lots of colors, designs and patterns, all working together. It's eclectic." The room was designed by the Hudson's Interior Design Studio and is full of English and Italian furniture and a mixture of fabrics: linen, cotton, wool and sisal. Two tables are set for dinner - one by the fireplace — one by the window, overlooking the

"The wine cellar is one of my favorites because it's something you don't often see," Sieber said. Designed by Gibb's World Wide Wines, the tiny basement alcove is stocked, floor to ceiling, with wine, and features a gravel-covered floor. "The gravel is traditional for wine cellars," she said. "This is something I didn't know before. It helps preserve the proper humidity for the wine. Also, if you drop a bottle, it won't break."

Co-chairman Marilyn Bartley chose her three favorite features of the house. "The Staffordshire Pub in the garage is extremely well done. It's very creative.

See SHOW HOUSE, page 6B

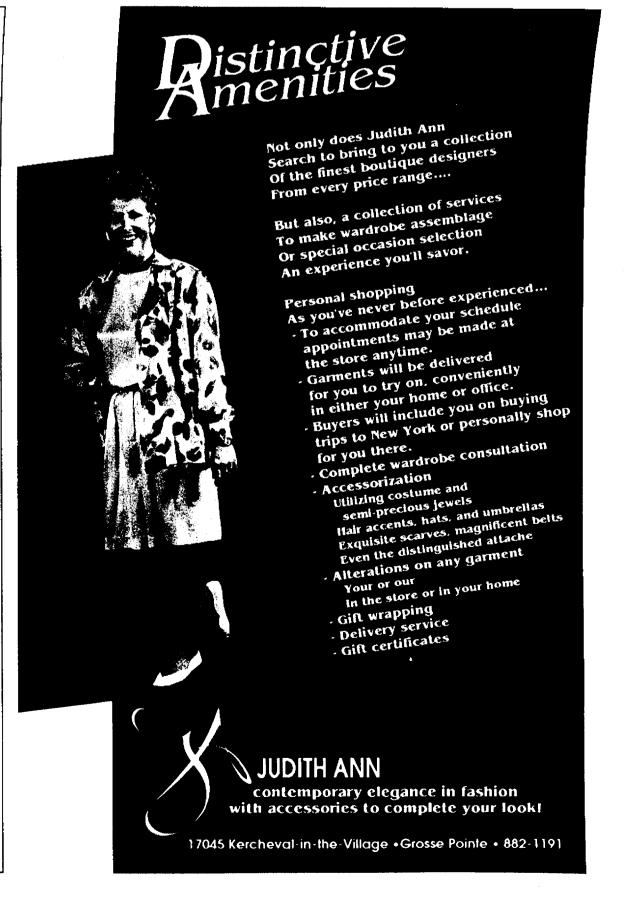

The living room of the Designers' Show House was designed by Perlmutter-Freiwald in the grand tradition of the English country house. It features a blend of patterns, fabrics, colors and textures and a collection of antique paintings and unusual accessories.

Christ Church to present annual Antiques Show on June 2-3

Memorial.

The sixth annual Christ Church Antiques Show committee hosted a veddy veddy proper English tea party on April 9 at the home of Mrs. Robert Ritter. The official reason for the tea-tasting party: to determine exactly which special treats will be served in the Victorian Tea Room at the church's annual Antiques Show.

The show itself, to be held on Saturday and Sunday, June 2 and 3, at Christ Church Grosse Pointe and at the Grosse Pointe South High School gymnasium, will feature 39 antiques dealers, a lecture, "Collecting Quimper," (colorful French pottery) by Joan Datesman, and a tour of the stained glass windows in Christ Church Grosse Pointe.

Proceeds from the benefit will go to the music program and the mission of the church.

The Antiques Show committee tasted, tested, commented and proclaimed the following to be suitable for the Victorian Tea Room menu: angel scones, Scottish oat scones, clotted cream, traditional Ferguson shortbread, maid of honor tartlets, Russian tea cakes, choir boy fudge, fresh strawberry preserves, assorted tea sandwiches and - of course tea. The tearoom will be open from noon until 5 p.m. on both days of the show. Cost is $5 per Tea Room chairwomen Laura Huebner and Terry Dietrich researched the history and customs of a traditional English tea. They discovered that tea was introduced to Britain in the 1650s. but the tradition of having tea was made popular in the English court by King Charles II's wife, Catherine of Braganza.

In the mid 1800s, a delicate meal of tea and cakes was used to fill the gap between meals and tea time became the focus for social visits.

The Antiques Show will take place on June 2 from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. and on June 3 from noon until 5 p.m. The preview party will be Friday, June 1, from 7 until 10 p.m. For reservations for the Datesman lecture (Saturday, June 2, at 9:30 a.m.; $6) or the preview party, call

In the meantime, whip up some Traditional Ferguson Shortbread by hand mixing one stick of unsalted butter (which has been brought to room temperature) 1/4 cup sugar, 1 1/4 to 1 1/2 cups flour and a pinch of salt. Knead for 15 minutes. Pat (do not roll) to 1/2- or 3/4-inch thickness. Prick with fork. Bake on ungreased pan at 275 to 300 degrees for 45 to 60 minutes until it is pale golden beige. Watch it carefully; it burns easily.

Honorary chairmen of the Antiques Show are Mr. and Mrs. Gordon T. Ford. Co-chairmen are Mrs. Joseph N. Jennings Jr., Mrs. F.W. McMillan II, Mrs. John R. Nicholson and Mrs. George H. Zinn Jr.

Will Cinderella dance the Lambada? Party-goers will find out on Friday, May 11, when the Women's Committee of the American Lung Association holds its annual Cinderella Ball at the Ritz-Carlton.

Arthur Murray instructors will demonstrate - and teach the exciting new South American dance at this year's version of the nation's oldest charity ball.

Grosse Pointers Sybil Jaques and Gloria Clark are co-chairmen of the benefactors' party on Thursday, May 3. The party will include cocktails, buffet dinner and a presentation of "Coda" at the Attic Theatre.

Reservations for the ball are being handled by Ida Krandle. Call 851-4524. Sponsor tickets are $150 per person. Benefactor tickets are $250 per person and include the May 3 party.

Sterling show: More than 1,000 guests attended the St. John Hospital and Medical Center Fontbonne Auxiliary's 25th annual fashion show and luncheon, "A Sterling Affair," which was held at the Westin Hotel on April 3. Fashions were by Bettie Dawood of Grosse Pointe, prize drawings totalled nearly $40,000 and special silver mementos were given to each of the guests. Proceeds from the event, which was chaired by Alice Reisig of Grosse Pointe Park, will go to the hospital's neonatal intensive care unit to purchase four infant ventilators.

Patty Fox of the Christ Church Antiques Show committee pours tea for Mary Anne Zinn, co-chairman of the annual event which will take place Saturday and Sunday, June 2 and 3.

On the wall: Cynthia Ruffner of Grosse Pointe Park has been invited to speak at the Homestyles Showhouse in Westport, Conn., on May 9. The designer show house is sponsored by author/TV personality Martha Stewart and proceeds will benefit the Hole in the Wall Gang Camp, a sleep-away camp for terminally ill children founded by actor Paul Newman.

Ruffner will present a slide lecture on the history of decorative painting - from cave paintings, to Egyptian tomb decorations, through the Renaissance, the 18th century and up to the current popular wallglazing finishes such as marbleizing and gold-leaf plasterwork.

The Pastor's Corner

By Rev. Nancy Allison Mikoski Grosse Pointe Memorial Church

As a teenager growing up in California, I began a yearly countdown around Easter, of the days until school would be out and summer vacation would begin. I daydreamed about how I would spend my time. I would sleep in every morning. I would go to the beach at least once a week. And I would definitely go to my favorite church camp.

Church camp was an experience I always looked forward to. All the kids from my church would pile into a rented bus and head for the mountains with their fresh smell of pine trees and beautiful blue skies. I looked forward to the singing, the skits, the small group discussions and to making new friends. But one year I had an experience at camp that I will never forget.

It happened on the second night of the week-long camp. After the evening program, while other kids were heading back to their cabins or over to the snack bar, I joined a group of six or seven other teenagers from different churches. Each person was taking a turn telling how God had worked in his or her life. I felt very good about my relationship with God so I decided to stay and share my story as well. The first young man told of how he had been addicted to drugs and because of the Lord's intervention, had been clean for a year. The 15-year-old girl sitting next to him described a family life of terror and abuse. The Lord intervened in her life as she walked the streets as a runaway. She now lived with foster parents and was volunteering to work with young runaways. By now I began to feel a bit uneasy. My life was so boring and normal in comparison. And then the 17-year-old guy sitting next to me began to speak. He told of his experience in juvenile hall and his experimentation with satanic worship. God had spoken to him and told him to have faith in Jesus Christ. From that day forward, this young man had been a zealot for the Lord.

My heart began to beat rapidly. I felt my throat tighten up. It was my turn. They were all looking at me. For a moment I considered making up some dramatic tale of God's intervention in my life. I couldn't bear to tell them the truth: how God had blessed me with a loving Christian family, how the people of my church had modeled what it means to be a Christian, how the Lord had worked in and through my parents, friends, teachers and pastors to encourage my faith. I began to have doubts about my experience as a Christian. Maybe I was not really a Christian at

Fellowship Day is Friday, May 4

May Fellowship Day, Friday, May 4, is an annual event sponsored by Church Women United. It brings together women of faith from varied Christian denominations to share issues of concern and strengthen community relationships within an ecumenical environment.

This year's May Fellowship Day is being celebrated at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, from 9:30 a.m. to noon. The morning will begin with a business meeting, followed by a worship service and light refresh-

Mary-Darlene Edwards, who works side-by-side with her husband, Rev. Eddie Edwards, in the Joy of Jesus ministry of the Ravendale community, will give the meditation.

The service, entitled "Justice With All Your Mite," focuses on the issue of increasing poverty in America and connects personal faith with economic realities and economic justice in our society. It was written by CWU women from Hartford, Conn. They drew upon their shared experiences working with women and children in poverty, to create a Fellowship event that challenges churchwomen to examine how justice is or is not done in their communities. It also encourages them to bring about greater economic justice for the poor.

May Fellowship Day gives visibility and content to CWU's five-year commitment to work for elimination of the root causes of poverty.

The public is invited to join the CWU for May Fellowship Day. For more information, con-

That night I decided to tell the truth. Nobody seemed very impressed. Nobody seemed particularly inspired. But what I learned at church camp that year I will never forget. God has chosen to work in people's lives in a variety of ways. Some experiences are filled with drama, like Saul's blinding encounter with God on the road to Damascus. For others, the experience of God's love and intervention resembles the experience of the boy Samuel who heard God's call while serving in the temple.

What is exciting, what is impressive, what is inspiring is what God has done. God's love and care for us meets us right where we are. Because each person is unique and a special creation of God, our experiences of God will also be unique and special. We don't need to exaggerate or create amazing stories about our relationship with God. God's love is amazing in that while we were yet sinners, Christ died for

Real Estate THOMAS D. STEEN, CRS, GRI CRS

FAULTY PRICING LOGIC When pricing your home for sale, you may ask: "Why not price it higher than the house is worth because buvers will usually offer less than the listed price?" Although this strategy gical, von wil most likely end up with less than if you had priced it realistically.

Your Realtor can show you recent comparable sales (what similar houses in your area sold for). Houses that sell within a reasonable length of time are generally priced within 5% of market value. Houses that are over-priced by more than 10% receive little or no activity.

Buyers tend to concentrate on properties that are listed close to market value. Those who would be the most logical buyers will bypass it and purchase elsewhere. In addition, a house that's been on the market for a lengthy period of time carries somewhat of a stigma - buyers (and some Realtors) tend to feel that something must be wrong with it. You will do yourself a big favor, in both selling time and profit, if you price your house properly from the start.

If there is anything I can do to help you in the field of Real Estate, please phone or drop in at ADLHOCH & ASSOCIATES, REALTORS. We are located at 19515 Mack Avenue, Grosse Pointe Woods. Phone 882-5200. No Obligation.

HAVE A PLEASANT TRY AT PERFECTION BRIDGE BY WOODY BOYD THE PASTEBOARD PASTIME

Many of the games muddled lovers consider defense the bane of their bridge existence. Among most it isn't popular nor does it spur splendid play. This is a perfectly reasonable condition unskilled players must experience on their rise above mediocrity. Fine declarer play isn't easy to achieve, but defensive excellence stands like Everest, for it requires a mightier artistry and your best estimation.

Not enough has been written about defense, but Alfred Sheinwold Marshall Miles, Mike Lawrence and Dorothy Hayden Truscott would rank the following high on their defensive agenda.

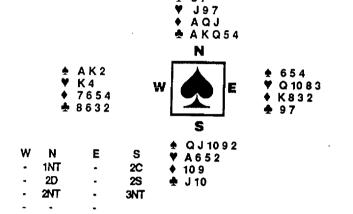

1. Carefully listen to the opponents bidding as it is foresightful to put their communication to work for you. Sitting south with the doubleton ten, deuce of spades and the following bidding . . . east, one heart . . . west, one spade . . . east, one no trump passed out you can be sure that the spade ten by you, all other considerations equal, is a strong candidate for the card you should lead. The reasoning is this; west probably has four spades, east probably no more than two. This would place four or five spades in partners hand sitting behind the dummy that bid that suit.

2. Generally keep your leads simple until you're proficient. To mastermind a miracle lead requires experience. Today's column will feature two such examples, but much is required to succeed at such chicanery. True, 61% of the time there is a given lead that can beat a given contract, but to find it and follow thru is difficult and bold plays can boomerang.

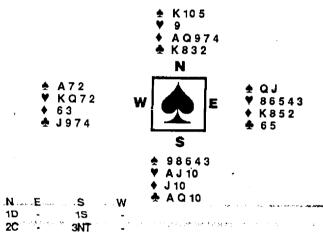

3. Count the defensive winners you presume you hold and how many more partner must contribute to defeat declarer. High cards alone aren't always the arsenal required. Sometimes the shape of your partner's hand can serve the purpose. If the opponents have both vigorously bid some suit other than trumps and you hold either three or four with the ace of that suit, or trumps, lead it and continue or continue the suit, when you win the first trump.

4. When the best sit down to play, they show their cards attitude usually in preference to count, but then only when it is absolutely mandatory. High-lows, mud and fourth best, and those kinds of standard examples can also help declarer. Deception can be inflictive, but the defending partnership must use judgement when false

Time and again we've seen leader brilliance beat a cold contract. On this one west opened a spade ace and switched at trick two to the heart king! Yes, the heart king in defense of three no trump! From that point on, south had no chance for nine tricks.

Defensive false cards are a major theatrical production and once in a while the swindler gets away with it even against an expert.

West led the spade seven and dummy ducked to east queen! East switched to the heart four and west, forever false carding, won the king and played the spade deuce which again dummy ducked and the contract was doomed! South had been horn-swoggled as the boys on the prairie used to say.

Ibex board of directors

Ibex is an organization devoted to providing its members with opportunities to increase their knowledge and appreciation of the arts and to encourage creativity. It's a non-profit educational organization limited to 100 invited members.

Ibex is not a service organization, but it has contributed to a variety of Detroit institutions such as Children's Hospital, American Red Cross, Detroit Community Music School and the Foundation for Exceptional Children. Ibex was a major contributor to the arts wing at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial and to the restoration of Orchestra Hall.

Members were recently invited to the home of Detroit artist Patricia Hill Burnett, who is a member of Ibex, to preview the progress of Hill's commissioned portrait of Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher.

On Friday, May 4, Ibex will hold a salad luncheon which will include an informal recital by coloratura soprano Elizabeth Parcells, a former Grosse Pointer.

A quick guide

Hey, batter, batter, batter. Come now, kid. Take your pitch and drive it, babe.

Baseball jargon fills newspapers, ears and radio shows. It's that time of year that we need to understand what Amer ica is talking about when we watch baseball games.

Whether you're basking in the sun at the stadium, or lounging under a shady tree with Ernie and Paul, there are a few things you had better know about baseball.

- An error is when you drop your chips in the couch, or when you spill mustard from your hot dog on your lap.
- A sacrifice is when you get up to go to the bathroom: you sacrifice watching at least a half an inning while you wait in line.
- A double play is getting two Monaghan pizzas for one hefty price.
- A pinch-hit is when the lady in front of you alleges you touched her, and hits you.
- A designated hitter doesn't necessarily mean the guy can
- Home plate is not something you eat off.
- A rundown is something that happens to you if you don't scurry through the ticket
- A shoestring catch is when you drop a nacho, but you're quick enough to get it before it falls to the ground.
- A shortstop should be made before you reach your seat.
- · A relief pitcher is not sold at the ball games.
- A bullpen does not house
- A foul tip occurs when someone tells you one line is shorter than the other and it's really not.
- A twi-night doubleheader doesn't mean you're dating
- Ballpark also means stad-
- A squeeze play is when you ave to nudge the guy next to
- you just to sit in a narrow seat. • A Texas leaguer is not necessarily a ballplayer from
- · A putout is when your seat is behind a pole.
- · Heads up means just the opposite.
- A steal is when you scam on seats that aren't yours.
- A rookie is someone who walks to the concession stand instead of waiting for the vendors to come around.

South sustains high respect on courts

By Rob Fulton Sports Editor

With five nationally ranked players, including a No. 29 player at No. 1 doubles, the Grosse Pointe South tennis team shut out North, 8-0-April 26.

South, ranked No. 1 in the Class A polls, showed its power as it rolled through all eight flights en route to its sixth straight win. South has not lost a dual meet in two years.

North, riding a five-match winning streak including three in the Macomb Area Conference's American League, is really not as bad as the score indicates.

But when you've got to face the likes of Jeff Giraldo, Nick Lorenzini, Emiliano Lorenzini, Cullen McMahon and Lee Lorenzini, as well as other strong players, it doesn't seem like a typical high school tennis match.

"This was the first real tough match for us," said South coach Tom Berschback. "The score really doesn't tell the whole story. North has always been a deep team, but this season we are just so powerful and strong that we overcame North's depth.

"The North kids knew going in who they had to play, but still played very hard. They shouldn't be upset, because they challenged some of the best players in the state and nation.'

You'll get no argument from North coach Ken Gutow.

"Obviously, I would have liked the score to be 6-2, or 5-3, but that wasn't the case," he said. "They are the best players and best team in the state and frankly, they're going to blank a lot of teams.'

Giraldo, who beat Jon Seagram, 6-0, 6-1, at No. 1 singles, is ranked No. 10 in the 16-andunder Nationals, and Lee Lorenzini, who teamed with Matt Smucker to beat North's Scott McSkimming and Ben Fong at No. 1 doubles, 6-0, 6-0, is No. 29 in the Midwest 18s.

Emiliano Lorenzini is ranked No. 36 in the 16-and-under Westerns, and in the 16-and-under Nationals, Nick Lorenzini is No.

Cullen McMahon, only a freshman, beat Matt Kim, 6-0, 6-0 at No. 4 singles, and is ranked No. 15 in the 14-and-under Westerns.

Nick Lorenzini topped Kevin Bai, 6-0, 6-1, at No. 2 singles, and Emiliano Lorenzini took Mark Gregory, 6-1, 6-0, at No. 3 singles.

"It's really difficult to beat a team as good as North 8-0," admitted Berschback. "North was undefeated coming in and I feel it was a big victory for us because a couple of my doubles players were in the toughest match of the year and did what they had to to win when challenged."

South's Jim Pappas and Steve Carlin needed three sets to beat North's Rob Duross and Kyle Foresman, 2-6, 7-5, 6-1, in a 2 1/ 2-hour marathon match at No. 4

"I was extremely proud of the No. 3 and 4 doubles teams," Gutow said. "They both played well enough to win, but didn't and that's that. They played strong matches and have nothing to be embarrassed about.'

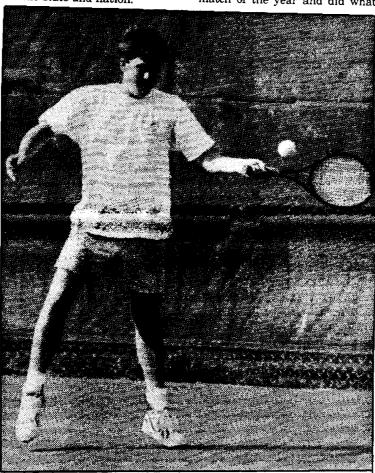

Craig Kostecke and Bill Wundram disposed of North's Jason Serwa and Brad Hea, 6-2, 6-1, at No. 2 doubles, and Brian Disser and Chris Schilling took North's Tom Moisides and Nadeem Elian, 6-2, 6-4, in No. 3 doubles.

"What makes our team even tougher to beat is the flexibility we have to put Lee at No. 1 doubles," said Berschback. "And I think Lee should be commended for playing doubles because he is a great singles player."

In fact, Lee Lorenzini played No. 1 singles last year but lost a challenge match to Giraldo for this year's top seed. Giraldo and Nick Lorenzini played a challenge match April 27 in practice to determine the No. 1 player this week, and that honor went to Giraldo, who didn't play high school tennis last year.

South's Matt Smucker put up his guard and returned the ball against North.

North's Jon Seagram had a rough time with South's No. 1

The South girls' track team enjoyed a highly successful week with two dual meet wins and a LaSalle Invitational. South beat Mount Clemens, 95-32, and East Detroit, 99-29, to remain unbeaten on the season and atop the Eastern Michigan League standings.

Outstanding performances were turned in against Mount Clemens by Leslie Arbaugh in the 400 dash, Jenny Williams (high jump), Heidi Wise (800 run), Angela Drake (200 dash) and Karen Ehresman (long jump). Running a season best in the 400 relay was the team of Tere Gavin, Robyn Scofield, Kathleen Monaghan and Ehresman. A superb 800 run by Claudine

DuPont, Michele Evans, Susan Llewellyn and Sandy Dierkes highlighted the victory over East Detroit.

Wise, Erica Mondro and Ann Llewellyn combined to sweep the 1600 run, while in the 3200 run, Jenny Barber, Mary Rowe and Katy Neumann finished one, two, three.

South's No. 2 400 relay team of Chari Andre, Suellen Garr, Jenny Mangol and Lindsay Howlett ran a superb time of 54.9.

At DeLaSalle, South placed in the top five in all 16 events.

Competing well in the shot and discus were Elaine Ford, Emily Nemeh, Jenny Mangol, Tanya Brewer and Renee Muccioli. Finishing first and third, respectively, in the freshman 800 run were Susan Llewellyn and Mary Rowe. Finishing second overall in the high jump relay were Jenny Williams and Sara Liliensiek, both clearing 4 feet 10 inches.

Having a banner day in the sprints were Leslie Arbaugh, Tere Gavin, Robyn Scofield, Angela Drake, Kathleen Monaghan and Ehresman. South's shuttle hurdle team of Ehresman, Williams, Erin O'Connor and Andrea Reynolds placed third.

South's Jenny Williams has bent over backwards to do what she can for the Lady Devils.

Two little, too late is a trite statement, but the South baseball team is redefining it of late. In a crucial week, the Blue Devils were tagged with two league losses and split a doubleheader with Watterson, Ohio, to fall to 7-6 overall.

South scored all three of its runs in the seventh inning in a 6-3 loss to Port Huron Northern. April 25, and then couldn't mount much of an attack until the sixth inning in a 5-4 loss to Port Huron.

At home April 28, South lost the first game to Watterson, 13-8, but won the nightcap, 15-12.

The ball is just not falling in for us," said Devils' coach Dan Griesbaum. "We can't afford to wait until the sixth or seventh inning and try to play catch-up ball. We have to get a quicker start."

At home against Port Huron Northern, South was held hitless until Brian Letscher's single in the fourth inning, and finished with only six hits.

Northern touched South starter Brian Downs for four runs in six innings. Downs, who was relieved by Brian Campbell in the seventh inning, gave up eight hits and three walks.

Tim Gramling had two RBI for the Devils.

Two days later in Port Huron, South's Mark Jungwirth suffered his first loss of the season against three wins, after allowing Port Huron to take a 3-0 lead after one inning.

Jungwirth, whose ERA of 1.96 leads the team, walked three hitters in the first and third innings, and finished with seven on the day.

Letscher, who leads the team with 14 RBI and an average of .410, had two hits, and Gramling had two sacrifice flies.

In the first game at home against Watterson, Lance De-Bets took the mound and was replaced by Campbell after giving up six runs in 3 1/3 innings. Campbell took over with a 9-8 lead, but took the loss. Nick

Johnston tossed the final 1 1/3 Mike Oliver led South's ninehit attack with two hits and two RBI, and Kevin Nugent had two cracked his first homer of the season and had two RBI. In the nightcap, South took a 15-4 lead into the seventh, but almost let the game get away.

"I could have asked for the mercy-rule win," said Griesbaum, "but I didn't because I wanted to play some other guys and Watterson came all the way from Ohio."

That kindness almost cost South a win, as Marty Gulewicz walked five batters in the seventh inning, before giving way to Bill Leins for the final out.

Oliver got the win, yielding four runs in five innings. Nugent had two hits in three trips, and Letscher had two hits and four RBI.

Softball

Darcy Jones tossed a two-hitter as South beat L'Anse Creuse North, 5-0, for its first league win, but five days later she went down with an ankle injury.

·Before rolling her ankle at the Romeo Tournament, Jones took a 3-2 loss to Port Huron Northern and a 5-2 loss to Port Huron.

South is currently 1-8 overall. Becky Wysocki had two RBI in the 5-0 win over L'Anse Creuse North.

Against Port Huron Northern, South ran into Amy Killbomb, who fanned 13 Blue Devils and allowed only five hits in the 3-2 decision. Laurel Wolfe had two hits in three at bats.

Jones tossed a complete game against Port Huron, giving up four hits and only four walks, but the Lady Devils stranded 11 base runners.

Wolfe had two hits and one

At the Romeo tournament, ners.

South couldn't muster a win in three games and finished the day 0-3.

In the opener, South trailed 1. 0 before Jones hurt her ankle, and eventually lost 6-0 to Bir. mingham Marian.

South had only three hits.

Freshman Kim Apple got the start in the second game against Sterling Heights Stevenson, but was tagged with an 8-7 loss in eight innings.

The offense didn't support Ap. ple's seven-hit performance, as it sputtered to knock out only four hits.

In the third and final game, South looked for revenge against Port Huron Northern, but didn't get it. Instead, the Devils were shelled 13-3 in five innings.

Soccer

South, now 4-2-1 overall, picked up wins over Warren (9-0) and Fitzgerald (4-1) last week.

Against Warren, Stephanie Coddens, Pam Reinke and Ashley Moran each had two goals, and Anne Gambino, Kathy Gay. man and Katie Kolp each had one goal.

Vicky Spicer and Katie Page had solo goals in the win over Fitzgerald, and Ashley Moran had two goals.

South, ranked No. 1 in Class A, won the Ann Arbor Huron Tournament, scoring 24 points.

Ann Arbor Pioneer and Okemos, ranked No. 3 and 4, respectively, tied for second with 22

Craig Kostecke and Bill Wundram pulled out a straight-set win, $6\overline{4}$, $6\overline{4}$, in the finals to give South the two points needed for the win.

Lorenzini to take tennis game to new heights at Purdue

By Rob Fulton

For simply stumbling upon a tennis racket just eight years quite well for himself.

Before he found his niche at age 10, Lorenzini, 18, was an avid swimmer, hockey and soccer player - until one summer.

"I just picked up a racket and started playing all day when I was 10," said Lorenzini, who is currently playing for South, the state's top ranked Class A team. And now he's signed a five-year scholarship with the Boilermakers of Purdue University. "I just started playing tennis to have a lot of fun," said Lorenzini, who is ranked No. 29 in the Midwest 18-and-under category, and No. 134 nationally. "I never thought my playing would come to this and now it's become quite an opportunity for me." Thanks to his hard work and parents.

state," said Lorenzini. "I had to

It also helped that his father Miguel was his biggest backer. "My dad is the most influential person in my life," said Lee. "He's always wanted me to push myself to be the best and has always supported me financially and psychologically. Without him and my mom this would have never happened."

It also helped that Lee was able to practice against two other nationally ranked players, Nick and Emiliano - Lorenzini.

"Tennis for all of us is a pretty individual thing," said Lee. "We all support one another and practice with each other, but there's really no competition between us. My scholarship is pretty much something the whole family deserves." But Nick and Emiliano, both sons and found me the best on the South tennis team as coach (Joe Shaheen) in the well, will eventually ink their own deals. "Maybe we'll compete against one another," chuckled Lee. Lee had the choice of attending Michigan, Indiana or Michigan State, but selected Purdue because of the rapport that started several summers ago.

"Purdue has always been interested in me and has really paid attention to my success, said Lee. "Purdue first recognized me while I was playing in the Indoor Nationals in Texas. I won two of three matches and I think that proved to a lot of coaches that I could play with the big boys."

And rest assured the future management student can.

"I'm going to give Purdue my best shot and hopefully I can move into the rankings and win a team and individual national championship," said Lee. "It's going to take some time to adjust to Big Ten tennis, but I have no doubt I can do it. Purdue will be an exciting place to Ranked No. 5 in the Class B-C-D polls, the University Liggett School girls' soccer team won two games quite handily last week, but dropped another to Royal Oak Kimball.

On April 24 at Anchor Bay, ULS got goals from Lauren Gargaro and Beth Weyhing to take a 2.0 decision in an Expressway League game.

"I've never been in a game where my team so consistently dominated, and yet managed to score only twice," said ULS coach David Backhurst.

At home against Clawson April 26, ULS got a hat trick from Sarah Haggarty en route to a 9.0 win.

Alexandra Wehmeier and Gargaro added two goals each, and Monica Paul and Sarah Cleek contributed one each.

With just one substitute on the bench, the Lady Knights battled highly ranked Kimball, but

In the second half, fatigue set in and the Knights allowed Kimball to score twice in the first 20 minutes. However, in the last 15 minutes ULS controlled play and got a goal from Paul with three minutes to play.

Tennis

ULS' boys' tennis team capped a week in which it defeated Redford Catholic Central, 4-3, and lost to Brother Rice, 5-2, by finishing second in its own Tournament of Champions on April 28.

Individual, flight, winners, against Relford were Sean Byrne (No. 1 singles), Paul Fozo (No. 3 singles), Cheo Ramsey (No. 4 singles), and Bill Schervish and Doug Wood at No. 1 doubles. Byrne and Schervish and Wood were ULS' only winners against Brother Rice.

At the Tournament of Champions, ULS scored 14 points to finish three behind East Grand finished third (9).

Eric Merte, who had two hits in that loss, drove home Paul Straske, who had singled, in the third to give North its first run. Steve Craparotta, who along with Merte made the All-Tournament Team, drove in the second run in the fifth inning.

On Saturday, April 28, Jeff Thomas got a 17.5 mercy-rule Goalie Julie Hielscher has re- win over Cadillac by tossing five innings. He allowed three runs on four hits before Brit Pierce pitched the sixth inning. Instead of giving up a bunch of runs in the opening inning, North jumped out in front, 7-0, in the first.

Tim Sacka drove in two runs with a triple, and Chris Meathe, Tim Meek and Mike VanSyckle also had RBI hits.

North struck for five more in the second inning, as Craparotta, Marc Adams and Sacka all drove

In a five-run fourth inning, VanSyckle belted a three-run homer, just after Meathe singled in a run. Sacka finished that game with three hits in three trips, and Adams and Merte had two hits apiece.

A disastrous first inning against Alpena resulted in a 9-1 Norsemen loss in the third and final game.

"We had two bad innings that cost us a couple of wins," said North coach Frank Sumbera. 'We can't afford to get down like

Scott Bernhardt, in his first appearance on the mound, didn't two RBI. Pam Thomas and Mellast the first inning as Alpena tagged him for seven runs. Straske took over in the first, and pitched until the sixth when Jim Tatti entered the game.

"Paul did a nice job," Sumbera said. "He kept us in the game, but we couldn't get any runs across to help him.'

Straske struck out six and gave up only four hits, but North's offensive attack produced only four hits; one each by Dave Senter, Craparotta, Bernhardt and Dan Watkins.

North is 5-10 overall.

Girls track

By Jim Moore Special Writer

Joy Ramberger helped three relay teams take first place as the Lady Norsemen ran to a 96-31 win over Utica Eisenhower.

North is unbeaten this season. Ramberger also won the 400. meter run, while Linda Kreig took both the shot put and discus. Noelle Cormier sprinted to victory in both the $10\bar{0}$ and 200dash, and helped both sprint relay teams to first place. Katie Loeher took first in the 800 run, and also ran on three winning relay teams.

Boys track

A somewhat undermanned squad let a meet slip from its hands last week, losing to Eisenhower, 70-66.

Double winners were Dave Vier, Bob Thomas and Scott Collins. Other wins that keyed the meet were turned in by Glen Harkenrider, Juan Ganum, Jared Kolleth and the mile relay team of Keith Rader, Reeve Brandon, Mark Heaphy and Vier.

Softball

Still unbeaten, the girls' softball team mopped up Eisenhower, 8-0, behind the one-hit pitching performance of Kerri-Sue Kelly.

Kelly, a senior right-hander, fanned 16 hitters, and also had issa Champine also had two RBI.
