

Red sky in the morning

It was shortly after 6 a.m. last Wednesday and dawn was breaking over the lake and the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club when staff writer and photographer Dan Jarvis set up his camera for this shot. Actually, the sky was gray and overcast, but with the aid of a linear polarizer, he was able to capture a mood of calm that hinted at a change in the weather.

Airport expansion opposition grows

By Ronald J. Bernas
Staff Writer

Jack Knoblock, a Detroit resident and business owner whose company will be displaced if the proposed expansion at City Airport goes forward, told Grosse Pointers last week to "wake up" and step up their opposition.

Otherwise, he said, "instead of listening to the birds, you may be listening to the low roar of aircraft."

Knoblock was a member of a four-member panel who spoke to a standing-room-only crowd of more than 300 who showed up to get information — and express their opposition for — the proposed $42 million project at the airport.

The meeting was sponsored by the City Airport Opposition Association, a grass-roots organization created recently to inform the public and spur them to action opposing the project.

Knoblock, Pat Bausch, a Detroit resident who has worked to oppose the project, Paul Donahue, aide to Rep. Dennis Hertel, and Walter Jakubowski, attorney for the city of Warren, told the residents that their best weapon in stopping the expansion is pressure on elected officials.

According to the master plan, the expansion calls for an airport five times the size of the current facility, which would make it nearly one-fourth the size of Metropolitan Airport. Flights will increase from the current one commercial flight every 25 minutes to one commercial flight every four minutes, and will most likely fly over the Pointes on the way up and down because Windsor asked the FAA to stop using their airspace.

"The only tool we have is public reaction to the master plan," Bausch said. "Our only hope is in the law."

Donahue told the crowd that Hertel has introduced legislation which blocks all federal funding for the expansion, but added that many people outside the Detroit area don't care about the proposed expansion and that getting anyone on a federal or state level to vote in opposition to the expansion would be difficult at best.

The FAA has a fund of nearly $2 billion which is earmarked for airport expansion and that money is available to Detroit. The fund is filled with — among other sources — taxes paid on each airline ticket.

"We do not want our tax dollars spent on an expansion of a facility that will destroy the quality of our lives," said Theresa Klaasen, one of the evening's planners.

"But don't lose heart," Donahue urged. "It will be a very long fight, it may never be over, but common sense will win this fight. By sticking together, by using our head, by not giving up, we will win this fight."

Jakubowski said Warren residents are noticing oil slicks on pools, on aluminum siding and on cars. That oil, he said, comes from pilot jettisoning of fuel. It not only affects housing and cars, it also affects the wildlife, and the quality of the water in the Great Lakes.

They all urged residents to write letters to their elected officials expressing their opposition and to work to get officials elected who support their position, because only political power can win in a fight against Detroit.

Klaasen, who is also a founder of the City Airport Opposition Association, was pleased with the turnout and with the response to the speakers.

"I was glad to see that our efforts to inform the public were well-received," she said.

Park woman killed by friend following argument in home

Suspect faces second-degree murder charge

By John Minnis

An argument. A gun. A 52-year-old Grosse Pointe Park woman is dead.

Louise Oliver died from a single gunshot wound in the chest at about 4:10 a.m. May 5 in her apartment in the 900 block of Trombley.

The victim's reported male friend, Anthony Angorelli, 33, of Allen Park, has been charged and arraigned on charges of second-degree murder and felony firearms. Second-degree murder carries a maximum sentence of life in prison.

Police said Angorelli called the police department following the incident to report a suicide. Police responded and took Angorelli into custody. On the following morning, Lt. David Hiller and Sgt. James Smith, who investigated the shooting, obtained warrants from the Wayne County Prosecutor's office.

Angorelli stood mute at his arraignment before Park Municipal Judge Kirsten Frank May 6. Frank set bond at $250,000. Angorelli is sitting in Wayne County Jail awaiting a preliminary exam in Municipal Court May 15.

Park police said Angorelli was at the victim's house when officers arrived. The gun was found in the home. The suspect remained in police custody until he was charged.

Oliver reportedly moved to the area in December when she was hired as manager of the Fishbone Rhythm Kitchen Cafe. Angorelli is also believed to be an employee of the restaurant in Greentown.

There has not been a homicide in Grosse Pointe Park in more than five years.

Kool-Aid stand robbed

Two 11-year-old entrepreneurs in Grosse Pointe City learned the negative side of business last week when two 13-year-old boys robbed them of their day's receipts.

The girls had set up a Kool-Aid stand at Kercheval and Lincoln May 5 when at 4:13 p.m. two 13-year-old boys approached them, exchanged a few words and grabbed the girls' plastic bag containing $20.40 and fled west on Kercheval.

An adult at a nearby home called police.

John Metropoulos

By John Minnis

For Grosse Pointe Farms resident John Metropoulos, his heritage is more than just an interesting bit of trivia.

Metropoulos, 29, is one of the founders of the Hellenic Professional Society, which was formed last year for people of Greek descent and philo-Hellenics — those who are friends of Greeks.

"I've always enjoyed the Greek heritage," he said. "You know who you are. You know your roots."

Metropoulos and his brother George, who edits the society's newsletter, The Oracle, wanted a means to get metro-Detroit Greeks together socially and for the preservation of the Hellenic culture.

The society also promotes intellectual stimulation through lectures on a variety of topics. Past lecturers have spoken on the European Economic Community, industry and, of course, Greek literature.

"It is our purpose to encourage this free exchange of ideas and to provide an atmosphere that nurtures such an exchange," according to the society's first newsletter.

The society was founded a year ago and already has more than 100 members. Membership isn't limited to the Detroit area. Metropoulos said there's a member in Sault Ste. Marie and another from Washington, D.C.

"Greeks are united," he said. "We're proud of our past."

Metropoulos and other society founders were concerned that as Greeks become assimilated into American society, they may forget their heritage. They hope the Hellenic Professional Society will curtail any further dissolution of what it means to be Greek.

Metropoulos couldn't help but remember his heritage. He and his brothers, who are second-generation Americans, learned to speak Greek before going to kindergarten, and they still speak it at home.

His parents are both doctors and successful business people. They opened up a 24-hour emer-

Woods establishes curbside recycling

By Dan Jarvis
Staff Writer

Leading the local recycling race, Grosse Pointe Woods approved a citywide curbside recycling plan Monday night.

Included in the overall plan, the city will turn over its garbage pick up to a commercial contractor, which will also pick up and market recycled materials.

In a 5-2 vote, the council approved a five-year contract between the city and Efficient Sanitation Co. of Fraser to provide the two services at a total cost of $2.2 million.

City Administrator Chester Petersen said the city will save nearly $1 million over the contract period.

But Robert Novitke, mayor pro-tem, doubts the claim of high savings and said if the city saves anything at all, the dollar amount would be more in the neighborhood of $100,000 to $300,000.

Novitke and councilman Ted Bidigare opposed the contract.

Novitke said, "I'm opposed to the privatization of trash pickup in the city and I have serious questions on the cost analysis."

"We are removing one of the essential community services out of our control and I feel we haven't had enough time to study the matter," Novitke said.

"Once we are out of the trash pickup business, we will be at the mercy of outside trash contractors," he added.

Bidigare echoed Novitke's concerns and added: "Once we find things aren't working as well as planned, it will be hard to get back in business. Privatization is not the answer."

Ted Bidigare
Woods Councilman

Councilwomen Jean Rice said new state and federal laws are being passed which will require cities to take action. "There are new environmental laws that state and federal agencies are pushing down on us," Rice said.

She added that the EPA's Office of Criminal Enforcement established by the president has led to numerous convictions, fines and even jail time for municipal representatives.

Rice said since laws will require environmentally sound city management, she felt compelled to vote for the new plan, even though she had some concerns.

Petersen said a commercial recycler and refuse hauler would benefit the city in many ways, including:

- Saving the city money in total liability insurance and workmen's compensation premiums.

- Reducing the annual expense of the city's quarterly pickup of household appliances and other bulky items. These costs will be totally eliminated and the contractor will pick up bulky items on a weekly basis.

- Avoiding financial penalties by the Grosse Pointes-Clinton Refuse Disposal Authority. If the city were to continue to collect garbage and institute a curbside recycling program, it could be fined by the authority for not delivering all waste to the facility in Clinton Township.

- Eliminating possible last-minute scrambling should curbside recycling be mandated by the state Legislature during the next few years. By acting now, Petersen said, the city can save money because recycling costs in the future are expected to rise because of high demand by local municipalities.

Petersen said bids for recycling and rubbish pickup were advertised in March and were answered by four commercial companies and the Woods Department of Public Works.

Efficient Sanitation returned the lowest overall bid for recycling and rubbish removal.

Curbside recycling during the first year will be performed at 21 cents per week per household. Rubbish pickup for the first year would cost four times as much, 85 cents per week, per household.

Over the full contract period of five years, Efficient Sanitation will be paid $422,000 for recycling and $1.8 million for rubbish pickup for a total of $2.2 million.

Thomas Whitcher, DPW director, said that according to the contract between the city and Efficient Sanitation, all part-time employees who currently remove rubbish from Woods residences will be hired by the commercial disposal company to avoid layoffs in the DPW.

Whitcher said the approval could put curbside recycling in place by mid-summer, though some on the council felt it will take longer.

According to the city's recycling and garbage removal specifications, contractors must have five years' experience and must employ a full-time field supervisor with radio equipment to monitor operations.

Efficient Sanitation will remove recyclable materials and garbage from the city's 7,007 residential units and 280 other units, which include businesses, churches, schools and government buildings.

After five-years, the city has the option of extending the contract for any amount of time, if approved by the council.

Curbside recycling would be held on the same day as regular garbage pickup, and the contractor is responsible for providing collection containers to all residences.

Recycling containers would be the same size and color as the ones used in the city's pilot program.

Efficient Sanitation will be required to submit written monthly and annual reports on the quantity of recycled materials marketed to various industries.

Annual reports must include yearly tonnage of marketed materials and revenue received. Annual reports must also contain the amount of participation by residents as well as problems and successes of the recycling program.

Help beautify Mack Saturday

There will be a major clean up from one end of Mack to the other this Saturday, May 12, according to Bob Mowbray, president of the Grosse Pointe Business and Professional Association of Mack Avenue.

From 9 a.m. to noon, street sweepers will wash down the street, volunteers will pick up litter, city and county workers will cut and trim the medians and business owners will plant flowers and perform their annual maintenance.

People will be armed with rakes, shovels, paint brushes and brooms, and everyone who works in or owns a business on the avenue is encouraged to join in.

Officials, including Wayne County Executive Ed McNamara, Wayne County Commissioner David Cavanagh and Sen. John Kelly are scheduled to appear at the 9 a.m. kick off at the Michigan National Bank branch located at 18550 E. Warren at Mack in Detroit.

The all-out clean up encompasses Mack from Conner Road to Old Eight Mile Road.

For more information, call Mowbray at 881-8603 or 884-7887.

In the event of rain, the project will take place Saturday, May 19.

No arrests made in bombing of garage on Blossom Lane

By John Minnis
Assistant Editor

No arrests have been made in the May 4 bombing of the Grosse Pointe Woods home on Blossom Lane, though an earlier armed assault at the address may hold clues.

Resident Albert Keatts, 63, escaped serious injury in the blast that occurred at 8:41 a.m. He was treated at St. John Hospital and released the following day.

Keatts was sitting in his 1989 Cadillac when the explosion ripped a gaping hole in the garage door and heavily damaged the two cars in the garage and blew out windows in the home. Flying debris damaged a nearby house and some fragments were found as far away as Mack.

The explosion was heard at least 3/4 a mile away and brought nearby residents out of their homes. Owners, employees and customers of businesses along nearby Mack Avenue poured out of their stores to see what was happening. Several residents called police.

A Detroit Police Department

lieutenant arrived on the scene in time to see Keatts stagger from the garage and collapse on the front lawn near a neighbor's home. Keatts was unconscious when Woods paramedics arrived.

A large quantity of glass fragments were removed from Keatts' body and clothing in the emergency room at St. John Hospital.

Another resident happened on the scene and discovered the garage and the two cars inside heavily damaged. He told police the Cadillac in the garage running when he arrived and he turned the car off.

Woods police and agents from the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms investigate the May 4 explosion on Blossom Lane.

Despite the heavy damage and reported large amount of smoke, no fire erupted following the explosion, according to police reports.

Woods police immediately sealed off the area, and state police and agents from the federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms were called in to assist in the investigation.

One neighbor reported seeing a metallic box sitting outside the garage door prior to the explosion. Police have not said how the explosive device was set off.

Woods police also reported that Keatts was the victim of an armed assault about a year ago at his Blossom Lane home.

According to police reports and a news story of the assault in the June 1, 1989, Grosse Pointe News, Keatts entered his garage to go to work at 6:51 a.m. May 23 when he was confronted by a masked man who had a gun in a plastic bag in his hand. A struggle ensued, and Keatts began yelling for help.

A 16-year-old neighbor youth heard the screams and helped Keatts subdue the assailant, who turned out to be a former business associate of Keatts.

Following the incident, Moshe "Morris" Koltunovsky, 76, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., was charged with assault. His trial on the assault charge is scheduled for July 23 in Detroit Recorder's Court.

According to statements made to Woods police at the time, Koltunovsky had given Keatts $490,000 to purchase equipment to manufacture electrical automotive parts.

In September 1988, Koltunovsky demanded his money back because he was going through a divorce and needed the money for the settlement. Keatts returned $300,000 but said the rest of the money was tied up in equipment. Koltunovsky was told he could have the rest of the money when the equipment was sold.

In May 1989, according to Woods police reports, Koltunovsky allegedly threatened Keatts and his wife, saying the money owed was now "blood money" and either Keatts or his wife "will pay."

At the time, Koltunovsky was released after posting $5,000 bond.

Police would not say if Koltunovsky is a suspect or if he has been questioned in the bombing incident.

Woods officers quickly sealed off the area around 19700 Blossom Lane following the early morning explosion May 4.

School board discusses 9.5 percent tax increase

By Ronald J. Bernas
Staff Writer

The Grosse Pointe Board of Education discussed, but took no action on, a proposed 1990-91 budget which calls for a 9.5 percent tax increase over last year.

The board, though, was divided on the percentage of increase, which is one percent higher than what the system based its site-budget allotments on.

In this first year of site-based budgeting, former Superintendent John Whritner, working with the administration and the board, set an 8.5 percent budget increase as one the board would aim for. It was the same increase as the previous year.

Allotments were made to each school based on that 8.5 percent increase. Because this is the first year of site-based budgeting, the board held back $660,000 as a contingency in case of problems.

Several options for that contingency money were discussed, and Superintendent Ed Shine said most of it — some $570,000 — should be distributed to the elementary schools.

"It was clear from the (budget) presentations that the elementary schools were genuinely restrained because of their allotment," Shine said.

The superintendent's recommendation called for the rest of the money to be divided among other programs, most importantly, technology throughout the entire district, at-risk guidance and counseling, staff development and curriculum and review.

While most of the members seemed to be in support of the recommendation, the board probably won't take action until its June 12 meeting.

Board President Jon Gandelot, though, wasn't pleased with the superintendent's recommendation. He said the board made a commitment to adopting a standstill budget at 8.5 percent, and the additional percentage is "throwing money at a problem."

He said the budget, at 9.5 percent is "hemorrhaging" and asked the board: "Where are we going to stop?"

He also said the board made a commitment that it would not adopt new programs until current ones can be looked at and weeded out, adding that as much effort that is put into studying and implementing new programming should be spent to eliminating and changing programs that don't work.

"You can't tell me every program we have cannot be cut," Gandelot said. "I think we have an obligation to look at these programs before we start adding new ones."

But other board members and Superintendent Shine disagreed.

"I sympathize with what you're saying," said trustee Gloria Konsler, "but the system has been at a standstill for too long. We get a real high return on our investment, and for this one year, we need to invest these figures."

According to figures Shine gave the board, the average homeowner with a 1990 SEV of $75,000 would pay $179 more in taxes this year at an 8.5 percent increase, and $200 more at a 9.5 percent increase.

Woods youth gets lube job in a jiffy

A 17-year-old Woods youth got a free but unwanted lube job from an employee at the Jiffy Lube on Mack in Grosse Pointe Woods May 3.

At 5 p.m. the Woods youth, who is a Grosse Pointe North student, parked his car in the driveway of Jiffy Lube on Mack and ran into the TCBY shop next door. When he returned minutes later, he found the door handles of his red Daytona had been greased and his windshield cracked, according to his statements to police.

He told the officers that when he went to confront the lube shop manager, he felt intimidated by the number of employees on hand. He left and returned later with friends. The manager of the lube shop then called police.

According to police reports, the Jiffy Lube manager admitted that one of his employees greased the Daytona's car handles, but he denied damaging the windshield. Police could not find any witnesses to collaborate the Woods youths' charge that his windshield was also cracked by the lube shop employee.

The employee wiped off the grease from the door handles and no permanent damage was visible, according to police.

The lube shop manager was advised that if he has any parking problems in the future to call police.

"Kismet," fully staged and costumed by a professional touring New York theater company, will be performed at the Macomb Center for the Performing Arts May 18-20.

'Kismet' to play at Macomb Center

Set in the lush palaces, moonlit gardens and teeming bazaars of ancient Baghdad, the Broadway musical "Kismet" is booked for a three-night run at Macomb Center for the Performing Arts.

The shows — fully staged, costumed and orchestrated by the touring New York-based Opera Northeast — are set for 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, May 18-19, and at 7 p.m. Sunday, May 20.

With musical scores that include "Stranger In Paradise," "And This Is My Beloved" and "Baubles, Bangles and Beads," the production features a company of 40 singers, dancers and musicians and the same scenery, costumes and props that were used in the Broadway version.

"Kismet" tells the story of a poet-wizard who advances from beggar to ruler in a single day. It opened as a straight play in London in 1911 and made its debut in its present musical form on Broadway in 1953. Its most recent New York revival took place at Lincoln Center in 1986. There also have been four film versions.

Starring artists in the Macomb Center production include Mark Janicello, who appears as the Caliph. In addition to numerous on and off-Broadway credits, he has appeared on the Bill Cosby and "Equalizer" TV programs and "Married to the Mob" and "Mozzarella" movies.

Playing opposite him as Marsinah is Estelle Mays, who has performed throughout Europe in the Houston Grand Opera's "Porgie and Bess" and the New York Harlem ensemble's "Carmen Jones." With Opera Northeast, she has played Julie in "Show Boat" and Julie Jordan in "Carousel."

David Ward will perform the role of Hajj, Marsinah's father and the musical's central character. He joined Opera Northeast this season following a series of engagements in opera and musical theater, including roles as Tevye in "Fiddler on the Roof" and Nathan Detroit in "Guys and Dolls."

Tickets are $20 for adults and $18 for students and senior citizens. They may be obtained at the center's box office or reserved on credit card by calling 286-2222, Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. The center is located on the Center Campus of Macomb Community College at Hall (M-59) and Garfield roads in Clinton Township.

'Q & A': A disturbing message

By Marian Trainor
Special Writer

An issue-oriented film, "Q & A" is a rough, tough, raw movie that zeroes in on prejudice — ethnic, racial and sexual.

Director Sidney Lumet adapted the film from a novel by Edwin Torres who is a justice of the New York State Supreme Court.

In treatment and tone it forms a kind of trilogy along with "Serpico" and "Prince of the City." Both of those books were based on facts about police department ethics and the complex problems of an increasingly pluralistic society.

Full of fury and despair, it presents on one hand the fear and frustration of those at the top and the resentment of those at the bottom whose efforts to climb the ladder are blocked by prejudice.

In "Q & A," a thriller set in a corrosive New York, Lumet sees pervasive ethnic enmities eating away at the core of the Big Apple.

Before the film begins and before the credits roll we see a big, powerful figure lurch out of an after-hours bar in lower New York. It is Mick Brennan (Nick Nolte), a detective with the New York Police Department. He has built up a reputation for being tough, brave and dependable.

Out of the darkness we vaguely see a slight, dark figure. Without warning, Brennan draws his gun and shoots. He carefully takes a gun from the victim's pocket, places it in his hand and then commands several of the bar patrons out to bear witness that he shot in self-defense.

The next time we see him, it is the bright lights of the outer office of the chief of the homicide bureau, Kevin Quinn (Patrick O'Neal), re-enacting an arrest he has made. A humorous account, it is also a revealing one that shows that Nolte doesn't hesitate to use his big, powerful body to bring the victim into line and that he is a crude person. His recitation is punctuated with extremely vulgar language.

For his own reason, O'Neal buys Nolte's story and calls in a newly appointed assistant, Al Reilly (Timothy Hutton), to prepare the report to be presented to the grand jury. It's all cut and dried, he tells Al, an open-and-shut case of justifiable homicide. Hutton is the son of a New York policeman, who idealized his father and the work that he did. As he begins his investigation, he becomes dismayed. Before he is finished, he will uncover an intricate network of corruption that leaves no one in the clear.

"Q & A" is a long (134 min.), many-layered film with a large cast of characters, the central one being Nolte, a man lost in time, struggling to hold on to the unquestioned power he once wielded as a member of the department.

He bitterly resents the infusion of minority groups and longs for a simpler time when the Irish were cops, the Italians controlled crime, the blacks stayed in Harlem and the Puerto Ricans were still in Puerto Rico.

He has always been able to intimidate anyone who opposed him by physical force or by threatening to expose them as being on the take. He grows increasingly panicky as he realizes that those he was once able to control have achieved enough power to fight back.

He becomes reckless and dangerous as he shoots, strangles or blows up victims who might be witnesses against him.

The irony is he can't understand why he is being accused. He doesn't think he did anything wrong.

"Q & A" makes it clear that bigotry breeds social and personal wreckage in this gripping drama peopled by characters who give memorable performances. Nolte stands out as the larger-than-life Irish cop who uses his threatening body and big voice to scary effect. Hutton, as the young prosecutor, gives a sincere and appealing performance. They both are supported by a huge cast.

"Q & A" is not an easy film to watch, not only because of Nolte's offensive vocabulary and his sadistic behavior, but because of the disturbing message it delivers.

The Good Neighbor All band, with its medieval theme, will perform at Pewabic Pottery's annual spring party.

Pewabic Pottery plans party

In celebration of spring and the sixth annual Spring Party, Pewabic Pottery will host a carnival. The historic pottery, located at 10125 East Jefferson, will be transformed into an international carnival on Wednesday, May 16, from 5:30 until 9 p.m.

Upon arrival, guests will be met by valet parkers and then whisked into a circus tent filled with balloons and spring flowers. There will be fortune tellers, roaming gypsy musicians, Hungarian folk dancers, clowns and more.

In the main gallery, there will be a silent auction of more than 100 art objects and services and a special exhibition featuring three new clay artists will be held in the Stratton Gallery.

A feast will be provided by the finest restaurants in the Detroit area.

Pewabic Pottery, a non-profit tax-exempt organization, is a nationally known learning center, gallery and museum for the ceramic arts. It is the oldest art pottery in continuous operation in the United States. Pewabic's annual Spring Party is the primary fundraising event that helps support the maintenance of the historic pottery and its educational and museum programs.

Admission for this year's gala event is $45. For further information, call 822-0954.

Audience is the victim in 'Tales from the Darkside'

By Michael Chapp
Special Writer

"Tales From The Darkside" is, in one way, cut from the same cloth as "Creepshow" and "The Twilight Zone." Unfortunately, it's not nearly as good as either of those pictures.

Based on the television show of the same name, "Tales" wraps one loose plot around three mini-stories. It's sort of like a comic book on film. And that's about as far as the similarity with the aforementioned two movies goes.

The bad news here is that this film lacks the originality and the playful sense of fun that made "Creepshow" and "Zone" so interesting. Instead of a campy and introspective sense of humor, we're left with a heavy-handed dinosaur of a movie that takes its dear sweet time getting anywhere.

Consider the first mini-episode: An intelligent but much maligned college archaeology student decides to get revenge on his enemies by bringing an Egyptian mummy to life. The mummy, which is about as scary as a brick — and about as smart — stalks around campus, killing the bad guys with the skill of a hit man.

Speaking of hit men, consider the second episode: An eccentric old millionaire hires a professional killer to get rid of the cat that's responsible for the deaths of his entire family. The hit man wanders around a dark, old mansion, waging war with a little fur ball that elicits about as much fear as Pee Wee Herman.

And in the third episode, a man witnesses a murder by a gargoyle-like creature, and is then warned by the gargoyle that if he ever tells anyone what he's seen, the gargoyle will come back and get his revenge.

Meanwhile, in the wraparound story, a little boy tries to distract a woman from her dinner preparation, since he's the ing heads — people who spend so much time explaining everything and setting up the action that there is little time left for any action.

Mummies, gargoyles, wicked old women and — gasp — cats, have plenty of potential for scares, or, at the very least, for a laugh or two. But "Tales" is so self-conscious and methodical that it loses all its life.

This movie could have been a lot of fun. Instead, it's a lot of wasted opportunities. One is tempted to suggest that viewers stay home and watch the "Darkside" television show instead.

It's cheaper, and, surprisingly enough, it's a lot more fun.

The boy, of course, is looking for a way to get revenge.

The revenge theme runs through the film, which is all right in itself. The problem is that the film is also full of talk-

'Miami Blues': Portrait of a psycho

By Marian Trainor
Special Writer

"Miami Blues" brings to the screen a portrait of a relentless amiable psychopath, Frederick J. Fenger Jr. (Alec Baldwin), who steals from the bad guys and gives, not to the poor, but to himself.

Like a cunning animal, he prowls the streets watching for an opportunity where he can move in on a crime in progress, eliminate the crook, and make off with the loot himself. As one detective says, "Maybe we should wait and let him solve more caseloads."

When the audience is first introduced to the ruthless Junior and his utter disregard for danger, he is forging checks, breaking a Hare Krishna devotee's fingers, stealing a woman's suitcases at the airport, asking a bellhop to send him a prostitute and then trying to sell the stolen clothes to the prostitute. Junior is just out of a California prison and broke.

The prostitute, Susie Waggoner (Jennifer Jason Leigh), has decided to give up her profession and go to college. One wonders how she ever got into it to begin with. She is the picture of innocence and sweetness and is so trusting, she's unreal.

Junior, who knows a good thing when he sees it, persuades her that she should start her new life with him. He likes the idea of having someone to take care of him and of having a refuge.

Meanwhile, Detective Hoke Moseley (Fred Ward) is hot on Junior's trail. He stops by to ask a few questions. A veteran of the department, he has developed a few tricks on how to spread a net to entangle his prey. That scene is a classic of caginess. Junior knows that Moseley is on to him but plays along. Susie, oblivious to what is going on, invites Moseley to dinner. She is a

Tour neighborhood

The Grosse Pointe Historical Society and the Department of Community Education are sponsoring a one-session class, "Preserving a Grosse Pointe Neighborhood," on Sunday, May 13. The class is actually a tour of Grosse Pointe between Fisher Road, Maumee Avenue, Roosevelt Place and Jefferson Avenue on the first day of National Preservation Week, May 13-19.

Jean Dodenhoff will conduct the tour and discuss how residents are working to maintain the character of their community by preserving significant public and private buildings.

The tour begins at 2 p.m. on the lawn of Grosse Pointe South High School and will run until 4:30 p.m. Fee for the class is $5 and reservations may be made by calling Community Education at 343-2178.

Preservation Week will be celebrated throughout the county May 13-19 to remember the past and make plans for keeping the country's heritage alive for future generations.

terrific cook and soon they are exchanging recipes. She is a little taken back when Moseley takes out his teeth and lays them on the table, a deliberate move meant to stir up an aggressive reaction from Junior. It doesn't work.

But later he goes calling on Moseley, beats him unmercifully, steals his false teeth, takes his wallet, gun and his badge. He is now in business in a big way. Armed with all the credentials of a police officer, he becomes more reckless and vicious.

Baldwin as Junior is a revealing and revolting study of a psychopath in action. Ruthless and completely without remorse, he baffles with the matter-of-fact way he can hurt, maim and kill and walk away and go home to Susie with all the complacency of a businessman returning home after a day at the office.

Baldwin makes his schizophrenic role believable. He is handsome, impeccably groomed, attentive to Susie and vicious on the street.

"Miami Blues" doesn't have much to recommend unless you are interested in a case study of a dangerous, demented psychopath mad-dog killer who occasionally shows some human qualities when he is with Susie.

"Miami Blues" is based on a book by Charles Willeford who has written a series of crime novels in the Elmore "Dutch" Leonard style but with a sharply evoked seediness of their own.

Draper's Fine Furniture prepares for 25th

By Dan Jarvis
Staff Writer

Few people in life get the chance to travel their own road. Howard Draper is one of the fortunate few.

But his dream to sell top quality furniture did not come easy — the road was paved with a lot of hard work and patience.

Today, the road has led Draper and his family through a quarter century of offering residents fine furniture.

To celebrate, Draper's Fine Furniture, at 23200 Mack in St. Clair Shores, is holding the store's largest sale since it opened in 1965.

Draper was introduced to the furniture business by a family friend and he spent five years learning to make and sell fine furniture.

"After talking with many furniture salesmen who called on our shop, I decided I wanted to become one of them," he said.

Shortly afterward, Draper found a job selling appliances with General Electric. "My territory was the east side of Detroit, where I was born and grew up," Draper said.

Some five years later, Draper had the opportunity to join a furniture manufacturer as a sales representative.

"I was waiting for a chance to join a high quality furniture manufacturer," he said.

Draper honed his skills on the job, but the market for high-end furniture salesmen was dwindling in the Detroit area. Draper said territories were growing smaller and the salespeople were getting younger.

So in 1965, Draper, and his wife, Marie, decided to open their first store, featuring colonial high-priced furniture.

As the store flourished, the Drapers, now with three young sons, moved to Grosse Pointe City.

In 1984, the Drapers purchased Scott Shuptrine, "a store I had long admired."

"We tripled the sales in a short time," he said. "Soon after, the Drapers bought another furniture store, Price's in St. Clair Shores."

"With three buildings on Mack Avenue," Draper said, "we had a lot going on."

trips.

"Many of the new items will be in our showroom in late summer and early fall," Draper said.

To make room for the new stock, the store plans "the greatest summer sale in our 25-year anniversary, starting in June," he said.

During the last quarter century, the customer mailing list has grown to more than 18,000. "Most of our business comes from Grosse Pointe," Draper said.

"We have had the good fortune to keep our sales and delivery people for many years," he said.

Draper feels that the reason they stay with the store is that the family is flexible and does not attempt to overwork the staff.

"Unlike many stores in our field, we are closed Sundays and are only open three evenings to attract a higher caliber employee," Draper said. "There is a limit as to how many hours an employee can work and do a good job."

"As a consequence, we may give up some sales, but we feel our store will do better. My experience tells me that the cost of expanded hours has a way of catching up with you."

The Drapers enjoy boating and have been members of the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club for the last 15 years.

Draper's Furniture is located on Mack near Nine Mile Road in St. Clair Shores. The phone number is 778-3500.

gency clinic in Warren in the 1960s and now own the Early Detection Center.

While brothers George and Peter are doctors, John Metropoulos sought a career diagnosing ledgers rather than people.

He has a bachelor's degree in economics from Wayne State University and a master's degree in accounting from Walsh College and is employed as controller of the Early Detection Center. He is preparing to take the exam to become a certified public accountant.

He is active in the Detroit Chamber of Commerce and sits on the chamber's Council of Small Enterprises and the Transportation Committee. His memberships include Grosse Pointe Farms Boat Club, Detroit Yacht Club, Renaissance Club, Fairlane Club and Skyline Club.

Along with a strong work ethic, Metropoulos said Greeks have strong family values, and his family lives up to them.

He has fond memories of traveling and boating as a family and of Christmas and Halloween, the Metropouloses' favorite holidays.

The family makes a big deal of decorating for Christmas with a tree in every room. On Halloween, their home is a tradition in the Pointes with its ghoulish surprises.

The boating season began April 1 for Metropoulos and his family when they put their 33-foot cabin cruiser in the water. The boat is kept at the Pier Park municipal marina and the family has another slip at the Detroit Yacht Club.

Metropoulos said he practically lives on the boat and goes everywhere he can by water during the summer. He said there isn't a stopping point along the Detroit and St. Clair rivers and Lake St. Clair that he doesn't know about.

"You always see us on the boat," he said. "It's like an addiction."

"You see Detroit differently by water."

As an avid boater, Metropoulos obviously finds living in Grosse Pointe Farms an advantage, but he also enjoys the Pointes as good place to live.

"I enjoyed growing up in Grosse Pointe," he said. "It's a beautiful community. It's a friendly community."

He graduated from Grosse Pointe South High School in 1978. The Metropouloses moved to the Pointes in 1972.

Not only is John Metropoulos close to his two brothers, but he also considers them best friends. Likewise his parents have always been open, he said.

The intellectual and professional atmosphere at the Metropoulos home seems to have naturally led Metropoulos to help create the Hellenic Professional Society to promote the same ideals he grew up with.

Hellenics and philo-Hellenics can join the society, but a minimum qualification requirement is at least a bachelor's degree from an accredited university. Dues are $30. Those who would like more information about the society should write to Hellenic Professional Society, P.O. Box 641, Grosse Pointe, 48236.

Put Earth Day into action

The East Michigan Environmental Action Council will observe its 20th anniversary with an evening of celebration and dialogue, "Earth Day into Action," Tuesday, May 15, from 6 to 9 p.m. at Cranbrook Institute of Science, 500 Lone Pine Road. The annual meeting will feature a panel of experts who will discuss specific ways to make a difference in the quality of the environment. A reception is from 6 to 7 p.m. and the meeting and program is from 7 to 9 p.m.

Register at the EMEAC office, 21220 W. 14 Mile Road, Birmingham, phone 258-5188, or at the door. Cost for individuals is $10, for couples, $15.

AmaraClean gasoline helps reduce emissions of unburned hydrocarbons (HC) and carbon monoxide, without sacrificing all vehicle performance. Vapor pressure and aromatic content have been reduced and oxygenated. Oxygenates "enlean" the air fuel mixture, resulting in more complete combustion, reducing unburned emissions by 20% in 100% of cars. That will enable the mufflers, catalytic converters, and other engine parts to have a longer life!

Piano playing marathon benefits home for alcoholic women

By Dan Jarvis
Staff writer

Imagine playing the piano for 19 days straight.

That's just what Judith Johnson did while raising funds for Grateful Home, a rehabilitation home for alcoholic women.

Johnson began playing the piano on April 19 and didn't stop until May 7. She took pledges and swore to play until she could play no more.

Without even a catnap, Johnson wound through complicated concertos and maze-like minuets for three weeks, raising funds for the 26-year-old institution on Grand Boulevard in Detroit.

Sara Snyder, director of Grateful Home and a Grosse Pointe resident, said Johnson "made a commitment and won't back down. It has taken a lot of courage and determination, but it takes just one person to make a difference. She (Johnson) really cares about us."

"I can't imagine sitting up to play the piano for that long," Snyder said. "It's been an awful battle for her and I've gained a tremendous amount of respect for her."

The fundraising effort by Johnson is just one of the ways Grateful Home is trying to make ends meet. The home is owed some $17,000 by the Department of Social Services and must rely on grants and donations to keep the 10-bed facility for alcohol and drug dependent women operational.

"It's frustrating for agencies like ours," Snyder said. "So few agencies take in indigent people because of the slow reimbursement. We take them all and the problems that go with them."

A recent audit by the Arthur Anderson Co. lent credibility to Grateful Home when applying for state and federal grants. As a result, the home is in its best financial shape in nearly five years.

A $5,000 grant from the Earl

Beth Foundation of Grosse Pointe Farms allowed the home to install a security system after three break-ins which resulted in the loss of several pieces of office equipment.

'One person really can make a difference.'
Sara Snyder

Included in the purchase were smoke/fire detectors, a burglar alarm, security grates on the windows, security locks and an intercom system.

Snyder described Grateful Home's niche as being able to serve 10 patients at a time, even though there are 68 women on the waiting list.

"We average three to four calls per day by women seeking help," Snyder said. "Many are separated from their children because we are licensed for adult women only, not children.

"For many years, people thought if you treat the adult, the rest would fall in place. So programs were not designed to treat women with children."

"About 80 percent of chemically dependent women are divorced, many with children," Snyder said.

"Often, these women do not want to lose their kids and they put off treatment. The illness gets worse until the system recognizes her as a dysfunctional parent and the Department of Protective Services takes the children away."

Once the children are taken from a parent, Snyder said, the mother loses Medicaid and can't go for detoxification at a hospital.

"On any given day, there are easily 1,000 indigent women fighting for just five detox beds in the Detroit area," she added.

"If there were programs to treat women with children, many women would get treatment three to five years earlier. Other programs offer help, but they can't accommodate children over 5 years old," Snyder said. "We have tried all kinds of funding ideas to help solve the problem, but step-by-step we have been turned down by some of the best foundations in the area."

"People see us as this little program, but our expertise and our will to help solve problems is huge," Snyder said.

Snyder said Grateful Home's funding woes are created by an outdated system. A recent offer by the state to issue $450,000 in federal funds earmarked for residential drug treatment programs for women hinged on expansion.

"In order for the existing programs to qualify for funding," Snyder said, "they have to create more space for beds and treatment."

Snyder said many government funding programs set a minimum of 30 people in any combination of women and children to qualify for various funding programs.

"There are millions of dollars tied up in Washington, but we can't qualify because of our size," Snyder said.

As a result, Grateful Home is now in the process of joining forces with Spectrum Human Services in hopes of gaining funding and the creation of additional programs for chemically dependent women.

Snyder is also involved in community outreach programs to help change the beliefs that "bad women are always bad."

"I think society gets overwhelmed with the drug and alcohol problem," Snyder said. "Many just throw their hands up and say they can't do anything at all. That's the perception that we and people like Judith Johnson are trying to change. One person really can make a difference."

Protests seen mounting over airport plans

A partial success in the suburban battle against the Detroit incinerator in our view could spur the opposition to proposed plans to enlarge the Detroit City Airport.

Both campaigns are based on the same principle: that Detroit is not giving sufficient attention to the effects of the city's actions on the East Side suburban area, which includes the Pointes, Harper Woods and Warren, and on Canadians in Windsor and the province of Ontario.

True, environmentalists and many suburban protesters last week lost their battle to halt the reopening of the incinerator but did win at least a partial victory when the state Air Pollution Control Commission ordered the city to install new controls to cut airborne toxins.

However, the incinerator was permitted to reopen the day after Detroit agreed to add over the next seven years expensive pollution-control technology, including scrubbers and, if necessary, equipment called baghouses, and to operate the burner at 10 percent below its maximum

While the restrictions failed to satisfy environmentalists, Bella Marshall, chairwoman of the authority that operates the incinerator, said the agreement provides for "the most stringent guidelines in the country" for garbage burners.

In this case Detroit was forced by state officials to pay attention to the problems people have been complaining about. After the plant was reopened, some environmentalists continued their demonstrations, charging that the trash burner will still be a health hazard for the entire area even when the new technology is installed.

As for the proposed airport expansion, opposition rose another notch at a rally of more than 300 people at Grosse Pointe South High School last week.

The meeting, called by the newly organized City Airport Opposition Association, heard speakers urge a massive letter-writing campaign against the expansion that would more than quadruple the size of the airport and enable it to handle much larger planes on more frequent schedules than are now possible.

The proposal also would require the demolition of 3,600 occupied homes and 52 businesses, according to current estimates. Grosse Pointers are centering their fire on the possibility of plane crashes in a heavily populated residential area, the increase in noise and air pollution, and the possible environmental problems from jet fuel dumped during emergencies.

The committee also has asked the Pointe councils, all five of which have passed resolutions of opposition, to contribute to a $25,000 fund to hire a consultant to study the expansion plan and ways to combat it.

The opponents already have won the support of Rep. William Bryant Jr. in Lansing and U.S. Rep. Dennis Hertel in Washington. Both have vigorously opposed the plan. Bryant called it "wrong-headed and irresponsible," and Hertel who said he was "appalled" contended it sounded "like another bad plan that costs too much."

Bryant, the 13th District state representative whose district comprises the Pointes, Harper Woods and part of Detroit, wrote the governor asking him to support the opposition on the grounds "the safety, as well as the noise, air and jettisoned fuel pollution problem" are not worth any state investment of funds for airport infrastructure or other costs.

Hertel, the 14th District congressman whose district includes the Farms, Woods and Shores, introduced a bill to prohibit the use of federal funds for the expansion. He also has issued a new statement charging that the $400 million cost has been "vastly underestimated" and predicting the plan "could easily cost double that figure."

Overall, however, the city of Detroit obviously can muster more political clout than the suburbs can, but even the limitations imposed on the city incinerator proved that protest movements can bring some results.

In the case of the airport, Pointers hope to halt the expansion and perhaps even shift the focus of attention to proposals for civilian use of Selfridge Air National Guard base in northern Macomb County.

Over the long haul, a policy of opposition surely is justified by Pointe residents who seek only to preserve the quality of life they now enjoy.

A View from the Sidelines

by Wilbur Elston

Whatever else can be said of Peggy Noonan's "What I Saw at the Revolution," it offers an intriguing review of her life in the White House as Ronald Reagan's major speech writer in his second term.

Like Reagan himself, Noonan was a liberal Democrat before she had a political "conversion" and decided she wanted to help the conservative president. She had already won a reputation as a good writer in helping prepare Dan Rather's evening TV news broadcasts for CBS before she hired on at the White House.

Once there, she found it was months before she met the president personally. She also found suspicious people who apparently feared she was a CBS "plant" or a spy for Rather. Eventually, however, her ability to match her fine prose-writing talent to the needs of the great communicator who was president erased any doubts.

She herself learned she had passed muster when a draft of an early speech came back from the president marked "very good." Noonan was so pleased she cut out the two words and taped them to her blouse, "like a second-grader with a star," she wrote.

That act reflected her high regard for the president to the end of her tour of duty. So did her view that the 1980s "marked a revolution in thought, a re-finding of old truths," and her additional opinion:

"Ronald Reagan, like FDR, led a domestic realignment. The attitude of people toward government (you don't want it too big) and taxes (you don't want them too big, either) has changed. He changed them.

"He was a giant; some of us left him disappointed. But then we wanted so much. He believed in old style ideas—bow to a bully and you encourage him; love liberty, yes, but celebrate license and you'll make society worse, not better."

As a former Washington correspondent, I felt that the president delegated too much authority to his staff, didn't pay close enough attention to what was happening and too often took simplistic views of complex problems.

However, the admiring Noonan saw his simplicity as a virtue and his tendency to use basic truths to explain vague policies as part of his charm. But she didn't get along nearly as well with the women of the Reagan household.

After writing one speech for Mrs. Reagan who said "she loved it," Noonan decided she didn't want to write any more. The result? The next time the two women passed each other in the White House, Mrs. Reagan didn't recognize the speech writer but Noonan swears Mrs. Reagan's "mouth curled."

After having lunched with Maureen Reagan, the president's daughter, Noonan got a telephone call in which Maureen recommended that Noonan kill more than two pages of a draft of a presidential speech.

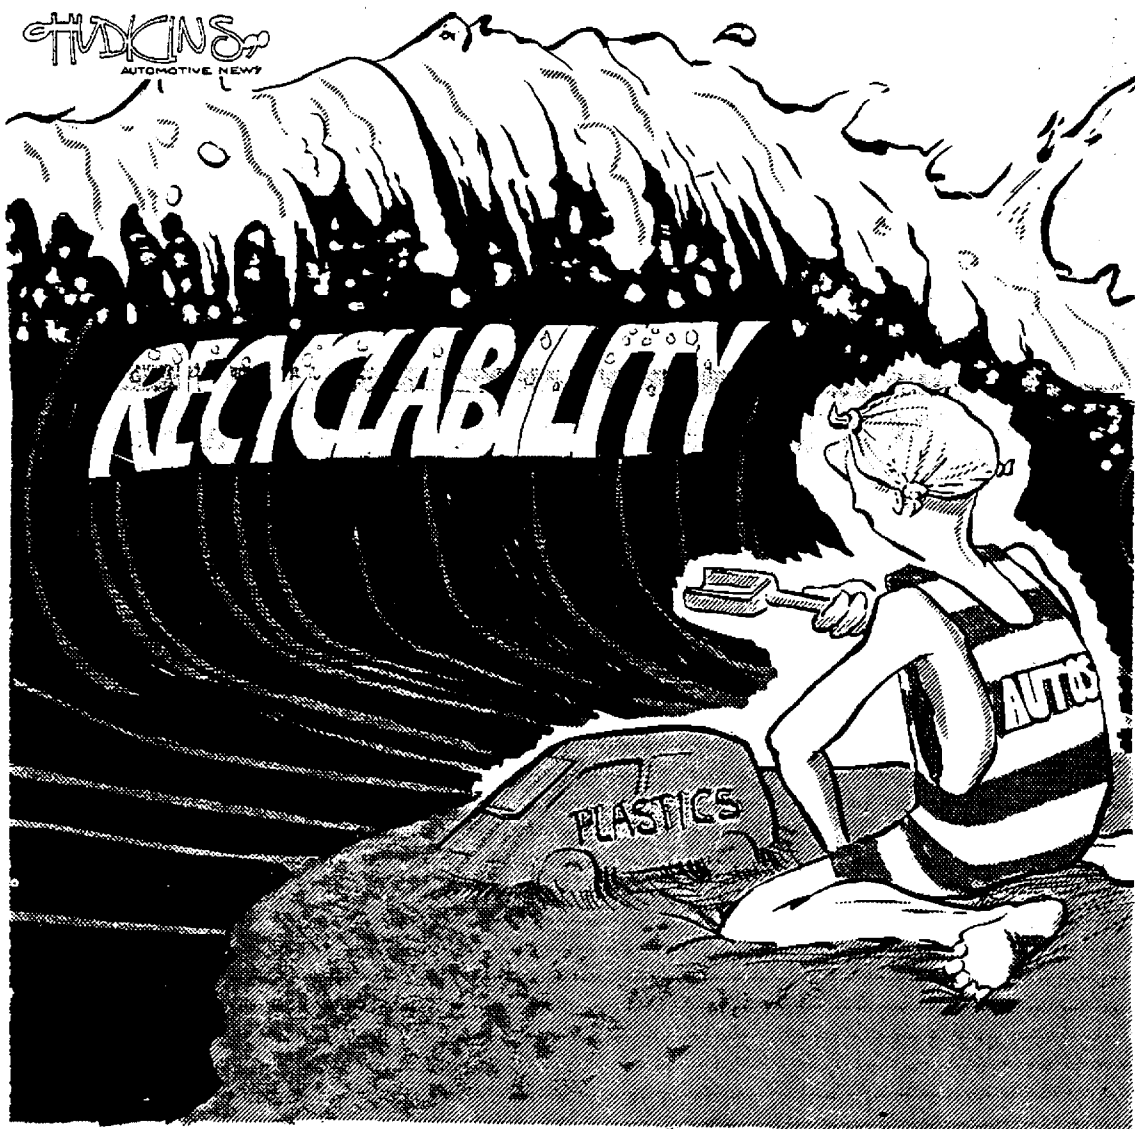

When Noonan tried to explain what she had in mind, Maureen hung up on her. Later a friend told Noonan Maureen had tried to get her fired but Maureen denied that charge, Noonan writes.

Noonan helped write Reagan's farewell speech to the nation and then gave Bush a hand with his inaugural speech. There, however, she found a different kind of president speaking: "low-key, direct, domestic, no dramatic or portentous statements."

Then she bowed out. She said she had to decide whether to be a partisan and polemicist or a writer. She chose the latter course—and wrote this readable memoir of her White House days.

Could she rejoin a White House speech-writing team; for George Bush or a future GOP president? We doubt it because she does tell some embarrassing tales out of school. On the other hand, the inarticulate Bush could use her.

Does she have a future as a writer? I think so. Parts of the book seem to be poorly organized but the writing often sparkles with imagery and insight.

Letters

Library

To the Editor:

Concerning the new library, the letter by A. Kerr Blessed (May 3) is the right idea.

The present location of the Central Library is the best location. It is very attractive and is served by two bus lines. The Kercheval bus stops at the door, and the Jefferson bus comes up Fisher Road to Grosse Pointe Boulevard.

They can build a third floor and extend it over the parking area. The building across the street is three stories. I'm sure it would cost less than a new building.

Ruth Jinks
Grosse Pointe Park

Airport

To the Editor:

For most of my life, I have carefully avoided political and controversial causes. I am not one to carry banners or stand in picket lines or go on hunger strikes.

Now I have no choice. My life, safety and property will soon be exposed to danger, pollution and noise pollution. The proposed expansion of Detroit City Airport will have a direct negative impact on my life and also on my neighbors and community.

My house, family and community will be in the direct flight path of large airplanes should the Detroit City Airport be allowed to expand or change flight patterns.

As an ex-pilot I know full well the dangers and hazards associated with flying and airports and aviation fuels.

I very strongly and passionately request that Detroit City Airport not be expanded. This expansion is not in the community interest. It is not wanted by me, my family, neighbors and the five cities that make up Grosse Pointe.

B.J. Khalipah
Grosse Pointe Park

Sympathy

To the Editor:

With the death of Stewart Kerr, our entire community has lost a dedicated friend.

The Grosse Pointe War Memorial Association, in particular, will miss the wisdom, strength, leadership and humor he provided through the years.

Stu Kerr's involvement in the association dates back to 1984 when he began serving on our board of directors. He demonstrated his expertise as head of the War Memorial's Development Committee which is responsible for fundraising and public relations. He was nominated and elected to chairman of the board in October 1989.

Over the years, Stu's commitment to the association and its purpose never wavered. He served his community unselfishly, particularly during this last year as chairman.

The Grosse Pointe War Memorial Association and the community is fortunate to have had Stu Kerr as one of its champions. To his wife, Jennie, and his family, we extend our heartfelt sympathy; we share your loss.

New name for the DSO?

Mayor Coleman Young's latest economy proposal for the city of Detroit is so preposterous it is difficult to believe it can be taken seriously.

It has been no secret that the Detroit Symphony Orchestra is not high on the city's priority list, in part because it has not hired as many black musicians as Young and his political cronies in the Legislature wanted.

But now Young would have us believe the city is so short of cash that it cannot aid the DSO even to the tune of the $250,000 the orchestra has been receiving in recent years.

True, the city did fail in three bleak years since the 1930s to help finance the DSO, but its contributions have ranged up to $800,000 as recently as 1986-87. The mayor's action is the second blow his administration has dealt the DSO in its recommended budget for the year starting

July 1.

Earlier it had failed to include money to operate the Ford Auditorium, which it has agreed to sell to Comerica Bank for a new riverfront headquarters. The DSO reportedly was not even notified even though the DSO has offices at Ford and has scheduled 50 concerts there during the coming year.

Early reaction of several Detroit City Council members raised hopes that they would restore the $250,000 to the budget.

If the $250,000 isn't restored to the city budget, perhaps the DSO should be renamed the Michigan Symphony Orchestra or even the Suburban Symphony, since both the state government and the suburbs through their individual and corporate residents would provide more DSO funds than would the city for which it has been named.

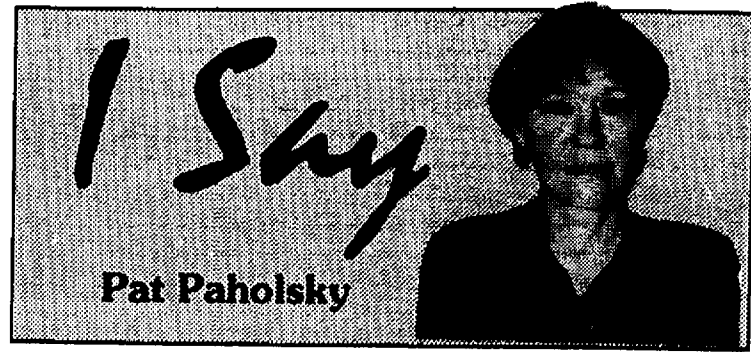

Whatever it is called, however, doesn't the mayor know that man doth not live by bread alone?

A mother's place is in the heart

Mothers.
They feed you, clothe you, pamper you, scold you. They bandage your wounds, calm your fears and get hysterical because your bedroom's a little messy. They blame you for everything, even when it's always your brother who is at fault.
They unabashedly create a scene to get you to do the dishes, then they criticize your cleaning. They don't hear a word you're saying when you're standing face to face, trying to explain why you got in late the night before, but just try to whisper something to your friend over the phone — they'll not only hear you, they'll hear the response from the person on the other end of the line.

Despite their radar-like ears and eyes that can see through the back of their heads, they look normal, but every mother's child knows they are the most complicated beings on this planet. Sometimes you can't live with them, but without them, you wouldn't be living period.

The umbilical cord, you discover at some point, was severed only in the physical sense. And this Sunday, most of us will give a little attention to one of the most important people in our lives. Say what you want about the commercialism, but if it weren't for Mother's Day, many of us wouldn't be forced to stop and reflect on the influence she had — and will always have — on us.
I always thought my mother was exceptionally smart. I could ask her anything at all and she knew the answer. It was easier to ask her what a word meant than to look it up in the dictionary. She always knew.
In her day, women generally stayed home and took care of the children. It was a long, physically demanding day, washing clothes in a washing machine, putting them through a wringer and hanging them to dry, shopping nearly every day at the corner grocery store, cleaning a house heated — and dirtied — by coal or oil.

Ironing was a major task. Clothes were starched and dampened and a man's dress shirt could take a half hour to iron. There were no microwaves, dishwashers, frozen foods. And in the evening, there was always something, usually socks, to mend.
I always thought that if my mother had the opportunity, she would be a noted artist, because she could draw anything. Her creativity was channeled into crocheted matching dresses for me and my doll and things like the large S she painted in blue on our house one time. Her handiwork was in abundant evidence in our house.

It was from my mother that I developed a love for the printed word. Money was scarce, but books were never considered a luxury in our house. The bookcase was always filled with a constantly changing collection and the magazine rack was stacked with a large variety of magazines and newspapers.

I'm sure she knew that some of the racier best sellers in the bookcase might not be considered appropriate reading for a young girl, but she didn't seem to notice when one was missing for awhile. That latitude enabled me to distinguish good writing from the merely titillating fairly early.

The best gift my mother gave me, however, was her trust in me. When I went out at night with friends or on a date, she never waited up for me. I'd let myself in and hear her ask, from the bedroom, if that was me and that was the only question I got that night.

That trust was a far greater deterrent to questionable behavior than the thought of getting cross-examined was.

I vowed that when I had children, I would put that same trust in them and hope they, too, would feel bound not to destroy it. I did and they didn't fail me either. Not to say there weren't some sleepless nights, but I was always in bed, not standing at the door or sitting in a chair.

My mother recently celebrated her 75th birthday, although none of us can believe it. She has the appearance and attitude of someone younger, probably because in her mind, she feels that way. She never likes any photographs taken of her, because what she sees in the mirror and what she sees in the picture is not the same. I understand. I'm beginning to feel the same way.

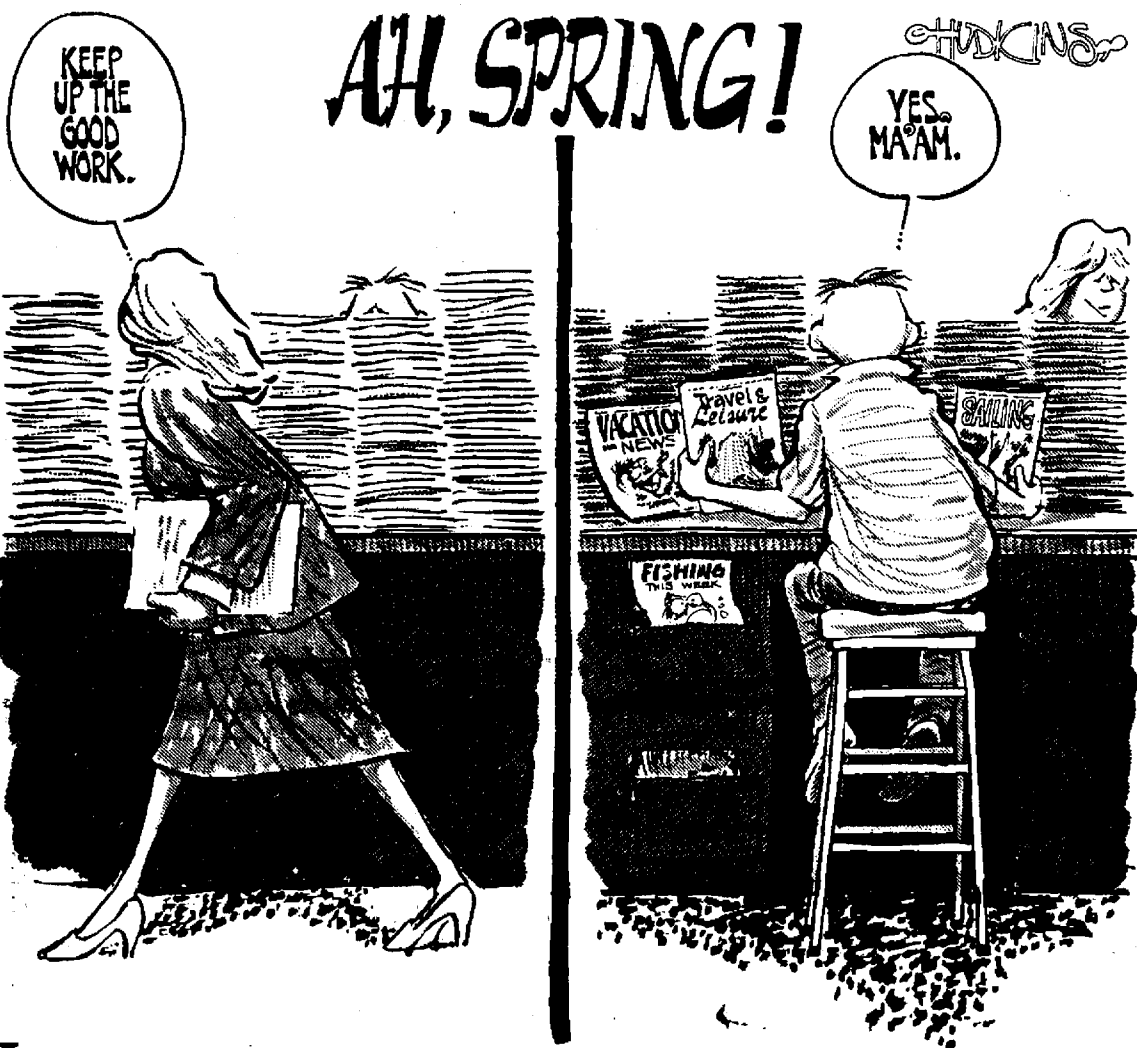

I'll be visiting my mother Sunday, something I don't do often enough. She'll have a bag filled with things for me to take home — a newspaper article pertaining to some interest of mine, some homemade cake she picked up at a bake sale, some coupons, perfume samples, a vase that belonged to my great-aunt. The contents are never the same. The only thing that never changes is that I always leave her house with a goodie bag.

And I know I'm lucky, because I have a mother I can still visit.

There's some unsung heroes and heroines on the newspaper recycling front.

According to Fran Schonenberg, president of Grosse Pointe Citizens for Recycling, the collection bin for newspapers at University Liggett School is getting some unsolicited assistance by friends who care about our corner of the earth.

Patty Kwiatkowski, a neighbor who lives near the recycling bin, has volunteered to stack and straighten newspapers and to call the salvage company when the bin is full.

Michael Smalley, ninth-grade adviser at ULS, is assisting class members with clean-up chores near the bin — as a class project.

And Joyce Edwards of Grosse Pointe Farms often rides over on her bike to organize the bin.

New way to give

The Detroit area needs more than 1,000 pints of blood daily, more on holiday weekends.

To help the American Red Cross meet its need for blood over the busy Memorial Day holiday, the Ritz-Carlton in Dearborn is sponsoring a blood drive in its Presidential Ballroom on Saturday, May 26, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Those who donate blood may reserve a room at the Ritz-Carlton for $55, which is a bargain compared to the hotel's usual $89 weekend rate.

While you're donating, you'll be serenaded with piano music; afterward, you'll be plied with freshly squeezed orange juice and fancy pastries.

For reservations, call 441-2000.

Work clothes

Want to see the Tiger baseball cap and Hawaiian shirt worn by Tom Selleck in the Magnum, P.I. TV series? How about the costumes worn by the Temptations in the '70s? Steve Yzerman, John Salley and Alan Trammell's uniforms? A green and white polka dot bow tie worn by former Michigan Governor, the late G. Mennen "Soapy" Williams?

"From Bunny Suits to Business Suits: Detroit Goes to Work," a brand new exhibition at the Detroit Historical Museum, examines the clothing worn by Detroiters in a variety of occupations during the last 100 years.

The exhibition is co-sponsored by the Fashion Group of Detroit Inc., the Detroit Historical Department and the Detroit Historical Society.

It's open until next April at the museum, 5401 Woodward, at Kirby. Hours are 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., Wednesdays through Sundays.

Hockey

To the Editor:
I have read Rob Fulton's article titled "No Place to Go" in the April 26 edition of the Grosse Pointe News and I certainly cannot argue with Mr. Fulton's observations of the condition of the Grosse Pointe Community Rink.

I would like to point out, however, that the Grosse Pointe Hockey Association (GPHA) and its 450 players, together with their families have not, by any stretch of the imagination, become complacent with the condition of the rink facility.

To monitor the conditions of the rink, the GPHA has created the position of rink repairs director. Our present director, Jerry Kenny, has been given the duty of communicating with the rink owners and administrator relative to the condition and repairs to be made to the rink. In turn, Mr. Kenny reports to the board as to the progress of such meetings and/or communications.

As you can imagine, the topic of rink repairs is a discussion of each and every monthly board meeting. In addition, a few years ago a number of community leaders, organized by my predecessor, Bill Fox, donated thousands of dollars for improvement to the rink facility. This amount was matched by the owners of the facility and a number of improvements were made to the rink.

I agree that something should be done with respect to improving the facility and the ice and it should be done in a positive manner so that the community can benefit by being proud of the facility and the participants will have a safe place for hockey, figure skating and open skating. I can assure you that the Grosse Pointe Hockey Association stands prepared to do its part. I hope that this article will motivate the other necessary parties so that together we can undertake to bring about a viable solution to the condition of the facility.

Many thanks to Mr. Fulton for his well-intentioned article and his offer of assistance. I look forward to calling upon him in the near future for his donation.

Rescue

To the Editor:
This letter is a big thank you to all the people who came to our rescue Monday, April 16, when my mother, myself and two small children were involved in a serious car accident on Charlevoix and Moran.

I cannot personally thank all of you, because of all the confusion that transpired at the accident, however I would like to sincerely try. To all the brave, wonderful neighbors who pulled us from our overturned car and comforted my scared, crying children while I and my mother were still inside trapped — thank you from the bottom of my heart. To the people who called the police and public safety officers, who appeared immediately, thank you!

To the Grosse Pointe City police (I do remember seeing your car there) and to our Grosse Pointe Farms police and public safety department, your kindness and compassion was truly appreciated by this family.

Thank you for being such a caring, desirable, supportive community to raise a family in!

Traffic safety

To the Editor:
(The following letter was sent in response to a letter from a Farms resident to Public Safety Director Robert Ferber, published last week, requesting a stop sign at Moran and Charlevoix.)

Thank you for your letter with regard to the intersection of Moran Road and Charlevoix Avenue.

For a long time, traffic safety officials believed that "stop signs" were a means by which to reduce vehicular accidents and decrease vehicular speed. It has only been since the late 1970s that traffic safety engineers have found that "stop signs" actually increase vehicular accidents, as well as the speed of vehicular traffic between given points. Therefore, as a means by which to reduce vehicular accidents, the state of Michigan has adopted the "Michigan Manual of Uniform Traffic Control Devices." The manual, which is binding on all units of government within the state, in part, sets criteria for the placement of "stop signs." The following is the manual criteria for the creation of a four way stop at the intersection of Moran Road and Charlevoix Avenue.

"The Multiway Stop installation is useful as a safety measure at some locations. It should ordinarily be used only where the volume of traffic on the intersecting roads is approximately equal. A traffic control sign is more satisfactory for an intersection with a heavy volume of traffic.

Any of the following conditions may warrant a multiway STOP sign installation:

1. Where traffic signals are warranted and urgently needed, the multiway stop is an interim measure that can be installed quickly to control traffic while arrangements are being made for the signal installation.
2. An accident problem, as indicated by five or more reported accidents of a type susceptible of correction by a multiway stop installation in a 12-month period. Such accidents include right- and left-turn collisions as well as right-angle collisions.

3. Minimum traffic volumes:

a) The total vehicular volume entering the intersection from all approaches must average at least 500 vehicles per hour for any eight hours of an average day, and

b) The combined vehicular pedestrian volume from the minor street or highway must average at least 200 units per hour for the same eight hours, with an average delay to minor street vehicular traffic of at least 30 seconds per vehicle during the maximum hour, but

c) When the 85-percentile approach speed of the major street traffic exceeds 40 miles per hour, the minimum vehicular volume warrant is 70 percent of the above requirements."

Please be advised, that based upon the above criteria, the intersection in question:

1) is not equal in traffic volumes - Moran has proven to be higher;

2) the intersection has consistently yielded less than five total accidents per year; and,

3) none of the minimum volumes or 85-percentile speed requirements have in the past been documented.

With regard to 2 and 3 above, the last traffic engineering study to document volume and speed requirements was conducted by the traffic engineering firm of Goodell-Grivas Inc. during 1985. During this May and again during this October, the traffic engineering firm of Goodell-Grivas Inc. will again conduct the necessary traffic engineering studies to provide the city of Grosse Pointe Farms with documentation with regard to your request. Based upon past and existing accident data, a four-way stop is not now warranted, and to create a four-way stop, based upon past documentation, which is contrary to the criteria, would subject the city of Grosse Pointe Farms to extreme liability. In short, the implementation of your request, will be based upon the outcome of the findings of the traffic engineering firm of Goodell-Grivas Inc.

With regard to your further written comments, please be advised:

1) The roll-over accident was caused by a driver error of failing to yield on Moran (police investigation could not establish that the driver failed to stop for the existing stop sign) - your personal driving practice of not regarding a stopping requirement as a total protection for you, is an excellent defensive driving practice; and,

2) The intersection of Kerby and Grosse Pointe Boulevard meets manual stopping requirements, however, a driver attentiveness problem existed (drivers did not see the stop sign), hence the blinking light was installed and again amplifies your excellent defensive driving practice of not regarding a stopping requirement as total protection.

While I must say no to your request at this time, I trust that you understand that my "no" is based upon the identical reasoning on which you called this matter to my attention, "The best interests of traffic safety in the city of Grosse Pointe Farms."

Opposed to airport expansion?

I vehemently, actively oppose expansion of Detroit City Airport. I have received dozens of calls and letters opposing city airport. That's all right, but I was and am an early and steadfast opponent of any expansion. We need to direct our effort at those who are unsure or who may lean toward supporting expansion. Calling or writing me does not advance the process, and, if it means the writers and callers are not also writing or calling someone they really need to call, then we are made worse off.

We need to:

1. Hire attorneys and a consultant. The issues are complex, and time is short.

2. Get our U.S. senators on our side.

3. Make sure our state senators know our concerns and demands.

4. Ask U.S. Rep. Dennis Hertel what else he can and will do, beyond introducing a bill that has little chance of success, including asking him to urge his brother, Curtis, to report out a bill opposing expansion. Curtis is chair of the House Committee.

5. Call and write our county commissioner, David Cavanagh, to get a County Air Pollution study of the effects expansion would have, and to deny Detroit any permits without the study.

6. Contact Southwest Airlines to say if they seek expansion and don't oppose expansion you will never fly Southwest. Call 1-214-902-1100.

7. Contact Chrysler Corp. and tell them you won't buy any Chrysler product unless they cease using Southwest Airlines, immediately unless Southwest satisfies No. 6 above.

8. Contact all other businesses you have any relationship with, to tell them to cease using Southwest Airlines or you will cease using them.

9. Complain to the Detroit City Airport whenever a large or noisy airplane goes over your house, or you see or experience any pollution.

10. Write Gov. James Blanchard, State Capitol, Lansing, Mich. 48913, opposing the expansion and demanding he oppose it

From Lansing

William R. Bryant Jr.
State Representative and demanding no state funds be used to fund, advance funds for, provide infrastructure for or provide local or state match required by any FAA grant offer for expansion.

11. Insist the State Natural Resources Commission do an independent study of the proposed expansion as to air, water, noise and soil pollution, with emphasis on air pollution and on potential ethylene glycol (de-icer) blowing off airborne planes and causing water pollution.

We all have a great deal of education and effort we need to put forth. We are aroused. Now we need to focus our efforts in the most effective manner and seek allies everywhere we can find them.

School retirees to be honored May 23

The Grosse Pointe Board of Education will honor 16 retiring school employees at a special reception on Wednesday, May 23, from 4 to 6 p.m. in the Fries Ballroom of the War Memorial. All members of the community are invited to attend.

A Memory Book is being prepared for each retiree. Colleagues, parents and friends who wish to include a note, card or photograph in a book should send their contribution to Fran Bergamo, Office of the Superintendent, 389 S. Clair, Grosse Pointe, Mich. 48230, no later than Monday, May 14.

The 16 retirees are Diane Barnard and Robert Barnard, school psychologists; Richard Barshaw, engineer at South High School; Jean Goodwin, social studies teacher at Parcels Middle School; George Goodwin, fifth grade teacher at Trombly Elementary School; Nancy Hogan, third grade teacher at Maire Elementary School; Claire Hunt, director of special education;

Society awards four sites historic markers

The Grosse Pointe Historical Society awarded historic markers to four local sites at its annual meeting. The society, which has made the presentation for the past four years, selects sites which are significant for their history, their architecture, the persons associated with the site or the adaptive reuse of the structure.

Honored this year is Grosse Pointe South High School at Fisher Road and Grosse Pointe Boulevard, which was nominated by the senior class of 1989. Designed by architect George B. Hass, Grosse Pointe High School opened in 1928. The Yeager murals and Pewabic tiles are especially noteworthy.

The second site selected is the former Home Telephone Company office at 35 Fisher Road. The structure was built in 1906 and has served as a telephone office, a duplex, and has been adapted for use as a single family home by the current owners, Mr. and Mrs. John Dyle. The Dutch Colonial style home has a carriage house in the rear.

The Buck-Wardwell House at 16109 East Jefferson was also honored. Built in 1850 and one of the first brick homes in Grosse Pointe, it is also on the National Register for Historic Places. The home is currently owned by Dr. and Mrs. Douglas Ross.

The fourth site selected is the Schafenberg-Allor House at 134 Kerby Road, currently owned by Mr. and Mrs. William Anderson. Built around 1865, the home has served as an office, a store and a family dwelling.

Each site was awarded a bronze plaque, created by J. William Gorski, which is designed to be prominently displayed. The plaque features the windmill, symbol of the Historical Society and the windmill that once stood in what is now Grosse Pointe Park.

Budding artists to decorate store windows

The Grosse Pointe Village Association invites the public to the fourth annual Paint the Window contest that will be held in the Village Saturday, May 12, from noon to 3:30 p.m.

About 150 elementary schoolchildren will create their ideas of "Think Spring in Michigan" in 2 by 3 foot paintings on the store windows along Kercheval between Cadieux and Neff roads.

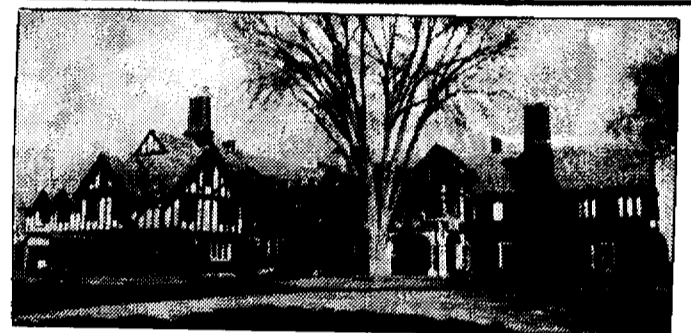

A barbershop quartet will entertain on the Village Plaza, Kercheval at St. Clair, from 4 p.m. until the prizes are awarded at 5 p.m. The paintings will remain on the windows until mid-week.

About asbestos

New from the Department of Community Education, "Asbestos Awareness" is a single session devoted to the recognition, evaluation and control of the hazards associated with the use of asbestos. A certified industrial hygienist, Dr. Leonard Jensen, accredited under Asbestos Hazard Emergency Responsibility Act as a building inspector, management project designer and contractor supervisor, will conduct the class.

Attendance at this session meets the legal requirement for asbestos awareness in many businesses.

Fee for the class is $8. It will be held Thursday, May 10, at 7:30 p.m. at Barnes School, 20090 Morningside Drive, Grosse Pointe Woods. Call 343-2178 for information.

Rare books appraised free

The Detroit Public Library's Rare Book Department will hold a free appraisal session for old and collectible books and documents on Saturday, May 19, from 1 to 3 p.m. Appraisals will be made in the Rare Book Room, second floor mezzanine of the Main Library, 5201 Woodward in the University Cultural Center.

Persons interested in learning the value of their book treasures and manuscripts are invited to bring up to five items for appraisal. Family documents, Bibles, or any books which might be of historical value are examples of the types worth having evaluated.

Four Detroit-area volunteer book experts will be on hand for the appraisal session: Jay Platt of the West Side Book Shop, Ann Arbor; Larry Johnson of Cardinal Books, Farmington Hills; Martha Sempliner of the Library Bookstore, Ferndale; and Kay McKay of Mad Hatter Books, Grosse Pointe.

Sponsored by the Rare Books Council of the Friends of the Detroit Public Library, these appraisal sessions are free and open to the public and are currently unique in the metropolitan Detroit area. Appointments

Learn to paint

Creativity and personal expression will be emphasized during an intense two-session watercolor workshop, Thursday and Friday, May 17 and 18.

The workshop will be held at the War Memorial Thursday from 12:30-3:00 p.m. and Friday, 9 a.m.-3:30 p.m. The class is taught by Jan Mayer who has been painting watercolors and successfully marketing her originals through shows, galleries and individual sales for over 15 years.

Mayer has just returned from Florida where she was the featured artist at the Wildlife Gallery in Sanibel Island and featured new artist in the Sarasota area at the Collectors Gallery. While in Florida, she studied under Jerry McClish.

Each class will begin with a demonstration by an instructor. Students will then work at their own level receiving instruction in varied watercolor techniques such as wet-in-wet and glazing while studying design, color harmony, abstracts, flowers, boats and the sea.

The workshop is $35 for two sessions. No single sessions are available without prior approval of instructor. Supply list is available at registration. Call 881-7511.

Hour chase on foot nets Woods lawyer Optimists' law award

By John Minnis
Assistant Editor

Some people will do anything to get the Lakeshore Optimist Club's Respect for Law Award.

Grosse Pointe Woods resident Robert Ihrie, who is a lawyer and the Farms prosecuting attorney, ran some 5 miles, jumped some 50 fences, scrambled over snow piles and walls, dodged cars on the freeway, hitched a ride with a stranger and nearly suffered frostbite before catching his man, which in turn led to his nomination for the local Optimists' annual award.

After receiving the award at the eighth annual Lakeshore Optimist Club of Grosse Pointe Respect for Law breakfast March 2 at the Lochmoor Club, Ihrie, 38, said he was a reluctant, humble, unworthy recipient of the award. He said becoming involved in the chase of a jewel thief was merely a knee-jerk response similar to someone diving in to save a drowning victim.

Knee-jerk reactions, however, don't last an hour and cover five miles. "It became a quest," Ihrie said.

The incident happened on Saturday, Feb. 24, when Ihrie, clad in jeans and Dockers, went into Eastland carrying a file folder with information on one of his cases. While there, he heard two cashiers talking about a man who was about to leave the store with a $2,300 ring he had stolen.

Ihrie told the cashiers he would follow the man to get his car's license plate number, but once outside the mall in blizzard conditions, Ihrie discovered the thief wasn't driving. Undaunted, he followed the suspect across Vernier to a restaurant. When Ihrie confronted the man and said he was going to call police, the suspect fled and the chase was on.

Trying to shake Ihrie, the man ran through yards and scrambled over fences. But the prosecutor proved relentless, much to the annoyance of the suspect, who on several occasions stopped, turned around and walked toward the crazy guy who was chasing him.

Ihrie said he was just trying to follow the suspect, not catch him, so when the man approached, Ihrie retreated in the direction of the nearest heavily traveled area hoping to attract a police car. While running through yards, Ihrie banged on the sides of houses so that someone would call police. And while several did call police, by the time they got there, Ihrie and his quest were long gone.

Woods resident Robert Ihrie, received the Lakeshore Optimist Club's Respect for Law award for his efforts to apprehend a suspected jewel thief in February. He also received a new pair of Dockers. From left are Optimists Mike Martin and Respect for Law organizer Mike Szmigiel, state Attorney General Frank Kelley, Ihrie, Optimist President Jim Clarke and Harper Woods Police Chief Gary Ford.

"This day if I had $100 bills coming out of my pockets, I couldn't have bought a scout car," he said.

The fleeing man then got the bright idea of losing his chaser on the freeway, so down the embankment he went, where he talked a driver into giving him a ride. As the man rode off in a benefactor's car, Ihrie thought he had lost his man after 25 minutes of pursuit.

But luck was on his side, it seems. A woman traveling I-94 stopped and asked what was going on and Ihrie explained. She offered to join the chase, so Ihrie got in with his new partner. When he explained to the woman that the unsuspecting motorist who had picked up the suspect may be in danger, the woman said she knew she shouldn't have picked up a stranger either, but the Holy Spirit told her to stop. Ihrie responded, "I'm glad he did."

"We're really grateful to Bob (Ihrie)," Ford told the Optimists.

Ihrie and the woman were able to catch up to the other car and got the driver to pull over. When he did, the suspect jumped out, ran across four lanes of expressway, climbed the middle concrete barrier, ran across four more lanes of traffic and clawed his way up the embankment on the other side.

Ignoring the woman's protestations about playing in freeway traffic during a blizzard, Ihrie too jumped out of the car, crossed the freeway and struggled up the embankment. His hands were bleeding from scaling fences and expressway medians and his boating shoes were soaked and his feet freezing.

On the service drive, the suspect stopped several cars and jumped in, but the drivers refused to take the man anywhere. One woman simply shut off her engine and got out of the car until the stranger left, Ihrie said.

At one point, the suspect grabbed a snow shovel to do battle with Ihrie, but then changed his mind. After 60 minutes of pursuit, a Harper Woods police car finally caught up to the two men running through their city.

"I was so happy to see a Harper Woods squad car," Ihrie said. He asked the officers where they've been and one barked, "Hands on the car," in a manner and tone that only trained officers can muster.

The officers only knew there were two men running around their city, and they didn't know who was the bad guy. Finally the situation was straightened out and the suspected jewelry thief was arrested and Ihrie was able to get out of the cold.

The suspect, however, didn't have the ring on him. A Hudson's security camera showed he handed it to a female accomplice who was his girlfriend.

Harper Woods Police Chief Gary Ford, who nominated Ihrie for the Optimists' award, said the girlfriend called and said she had the ring and would give it back if they gave her her boyfriend back. The chief told her to come on in, and when she did, she was arrested. The couple are awaiting trial. The ring was never recovered.

"I'm one who feels we can't turn the streets over to the bad guys," Ihrie said. "We should all get involved, at least at a reasonable level."

After praising Ihrie's actions to bring the jewelry-theft suspect to justice, keynote speaker state Attorney General Frank Kelley said, "Thank god he (the suspect) didn't have a gun."

Appropriately enough, Optimist Joseph I. Gualtieri gave Ihrie a new pair of Dockers along with the plaque.

In accepting the award — and the shoes — Ihrie said the people who deserve recognition the most are not those who do an occasional act, such as he did, but those who do it every day.

"The police officers who get up every morning to do it deserve it," said Ihrie, who years ago worked for Grosse Pointe Woods as a police dispatcher. Every year, the Lakeshore Optimists have someone from the law enforcement community speak at their Respect for Law breakfast. Last year, Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano spoke. This year, Kelley, who has been the state's attorney general for 28 years, spoke on the U.S. Constitution and its role as the foundation of law and freedom in this country.

The Lakeshore Optimists' Respect for Law celebration is designed to fight public apathy about crime, promote moral responsibility and recognize public participation and assistance in law enforcement and the legal system.

"Every country should spend more time honoring those who by their actions assist in law enforcement," Kelley said.

Village of Grosse Pointe Shores

WAYNE AND MACOMB COUNTIES

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON INCREASING PROPERTY TAXES

The Village Council of the Village of Grosse Pointe Shores will hold a public hearing at 7:00 P.M. on Tuesday, May 22, 1990 in the Council Chambers of the Village Hall, 795 Lake Shore Road, Grosse Pointe Shores, to receive comments and discuss a proposed additional 1990 Village operating millage rate.

In 1989 the Village levied 13.97 mills ($13.97 per $1,000 State Equalized Valuation) for Village operating purposes. Because of an estimated increase in State Equalized Valuation of existing property within the Village, State Law, Act 5 of 1982, provides that the base tax rate for 1990 Village operating taxes be reduced to 12.23 mills ($12.23 per $1,000 SEV). This is 1.74 mills ($1.74 per $1,000 SEV) lower than the 1989 operating rate.

In order to fund the Village's proposed 1990/91 budget and maintain essential services, and to make necessary repairs to its infrastructure systems of roads, water and sewage, and to make essential purchases of DPW and Dept. of Public Safety equipment, the Village finds it necessary to increase its operating levy for fiscal year 1990/91 by .93 mills ($.93 per $1,000 SEV) above the 1989 base tax rate (12.23). This will provide an estimated 7.75% increase in Village operating tax revenues and would result in a 1990 operating tax rate of 13.16 mills ($13.16 per $1,000 SEV). Under its Charter and State law, the Village has complete authority to establish the number of mills to be levied within its fully authorized millage rate.

Public comments on the proposed increase, oral or written, are welcome.

James T. Wright

Village Clerk

Bon voyage

These Grosse Pointe fifth-graders and their teachers left April 25 for a three-week visit to St. Cloud, France, as the final part of this year's French-American Back-to-Back Cultural Exchange. In March, the students and their families served as hosts to French youngsters with whom they have been corresponding since November. Now the American students will live with the families of their French counterparts.

The exchange program, organized through the Association of French-American Classes and sponsored by the Grosse Pointe Public School System, is in its second year in Grosse Pointe. It is open to all fifth-grade students in the public schools. Anyone seeking further information on the program can contact Dr. Alfreida Frost, director of elementary curriculum.

Pierce places first in state tourney

Under the direction of Linda Rhodes, team members Rob Bacon, Andrew Drescher, Chris Browne, Doug Marschke, Chris Mackechnie, Pat Niven and Adam Rhodes competed at Central Michigan University on April 28 and 29 in Division II in the category of Omitronic Humor.

The Omitronic Humor Problem required the team to perform a comedy routine or a skit of a comedy routine. In addition, the team had to design, build and operate an original animated character that would show reactions and emotions.

The theme created by the Pierce team centered around old time radio and their robot character was able to smile, frown, shed tears and look surprised. The factors of cost and time are included in the creation and production of each program.

The team members and coach are preparing for the World Finals competition at Iowa State University in Ames, Iowa, on May 31, and June 1 and 2. The team members are currently working on projects to raise money to help defray the expense of the trip. Contributions from community members will be accepted and can be sent to Pierce Middle School, Odyssey of the Mind, 16430 Kercheval, Grosse Pointe Park, Mich. 48230.

Phi Beta Kappa honors students

At its 42nd annual Honors Convocation held April 30 at the Ford Auditorium, the Detroit Association of Phi Beta Kappa honored the high scholastic achievements of Detroit area seniors, including Michael Barnes, Sean Byrne, Michael Coello, John Dodds and Stacey Molitor of University Liggett School. Students from more than 100 metropolitan high schools were given special recognition.

Barnes is the son of Sally and David Barnes of Grosse Pointe Farms; Byrne is the son of Linda and Robert Byrne of Grosse Pointe Park; Coello is the son of Clarice and Eudoro Coello of Grosse Pointe Woods; Dodds is the son of Christine and J. McGregor Dodds of Grosse Pointe Farms; and Molitor is the daughter of Sandra and Richard E. Molitor Jr. of Grosse Pointe.

Malkar wins scholarship

University Liggett School has announced that Shona Malkar is the student recipient of the $2,500 Mary J. Remillet Scholarship for the 1990-91 school year.

Malkar is the daughter of Shrikant and Janet Malkar of St. Clair Shores. The award is named for Mary J. Remillet, former head of the history department at Grosse Pointe University and ULS, 1965-88.

This is the third year the stipend has been awarded. Criteria for the scholarship includes academic excellence, positive contributions to the school community and the recommendation of the middle school head.

Malkar will be a freshman at ULS in the fall.

Defer students are winners

Several fifth grade students from Defer Elementary School in Grosse Pointe Park were among the winners of the Department's Earth Day Poster Contest for youngsters in grades kindergarten through 12.

Stephanie Garza, Elise Pilorget, Jenny Holms, Emily Pope, Jason Cueny and Kathleen Clark, won in the Recycle Michigan! category.

The winners were awarded an original wildlife print by Gijbert van Frankenhuyzen, natural resources artist and art director for the Michigan Natural Resources Magazine.

Summer school enrollment is under way for all levels

Enrollment has begun for the Grosse Pointe Public Schools Summer School session.

Courses for elementary, middle school, high school and adults are offered during the regular five-week session from Monday, June 25, through Thursday, July 26. Mini-courses are scheduled from Aug. 14 through Aug. 24. All classes are at Grosse Pointe North High School.

The instrumental music program which began as an upper-middle-elementary school program now also enrolls adults who have always wanted to play a musical instrument.

In addition to elementary courses in English, science and mathematics, students age 6-10 may choose from First Grade Readiness to Thinking Skills to Creativity in Art to On Stage to Computer Carousel. An elementary typing course is now an integral part of Computer Carousel. At the middle school level, the same subject matter areas are offered as at the elementary level, but are supplemented by social studies, study skills, French, Spanish and sewing with a new course for the student who loves science, titled advanced placement biology preparation.

High school offers make-up courses in English, mathematics, social studies and science. Special interest courses include Creative Writing, Exploring Careers in Cosmetology, Summer Youth Theater Workshop, Typing/Word Processing, Photography and Testing Strategies.

For the five-week session, tuition begins at $55 for elementary, Tuesday-Thursday, 1-1/2 hour courses; $65 for middle school, Tuesday-Thursday, 2 hour courses, and $130 for high school credit, Monday-Friday, 2 1/2 hour courses.

Summer school brochures have been mailed to the 22,000 homes in the Grosse Pointe-Harper Woods school district, and registration may be done by mail or in person in the Career Resource Center (Room B110) at North High School. Call 343-2248 for more information.

Student Spotlight

Justin Matthews

Each week in this column, we will focus on the work of a student. It can be a poem, a drawing, a short story, a picture of a scientific experiment or a wood-working project, a book review.

The following poem was written by Justin Matthews, 11, a fifth-grader at Ferry Elementary School. Justin, who lives in Grosse Pointe Woods with his family, said he loves poetry. His favorite is "Stopping by Woods on a Snowy Evening" by Robert Frost.

I Used To Want To Be

I used to want to be a piece of old chewing gum,
Now, I want to be a shiny, brand new pair of shoes.

I used to want to be a slow-moving turtle,
Now, I want to be a quick cheetah.

I used to want to be a bag person sitting on the sidewalk in Greektown,
Now, I want to be a star football player.

I used to want to be a piece of dirt on the ground,
Now, I want to be the sun shining down on people.

I used to want to be a wilted flower,
Now, I want to be a willow tree reaching for the sky.

I used to want to be a fully ripe banana,
Now, I want to be a tasty fruitcake.

I used to want to be a Hostess Twinkie,
Now, I want to be an Oscar Meyer wiener.

I used to want to be an old, dirty broken-up car,
Now, I want to be a Ferrari Tatarosa.

I used to want to be a picture on the DIA wall,
Now, I want to just be myself.

Wallet lifted from shopper

A thief attempted to pick the wallets out of the purses of four shoppers at the stores at Mack and Moross May 3, with one of the victims' wallets picked clean.

One victim, a 42-year-old Park woman, had paid for purchase at Jo-Ann Fabrics at about 7 p.m., but a little later when she went to pay for groceries at Kroger, she discovered her wallet missing from her purse, which she kept on a shoulder strap. The wallet was later found, but $40 was missing.

At 7:35 p.m., a 31-year-old Woods woman shopping at A.L. Price felt someone tampering with her purse. She turned around and saw a woman opening a zipper on the purse, which had a shoulder strap. When the shopper asked what the other woman was doing, the woman said she was looking for some cards, according to the shopper's statements to Farms police. She didn't call police until she got home.

In the third reported theft attempt, two Harper Woods women, ages 42 and 34, were shopping at A.L. Price when one of the women caught two women in the act of going through their purses, which were also on shoulder straps.

According to their statements to police, all zippered compartments in their purses had been opened. When asked what they were doing, one of the would-be thieves said, "Don't worry, I didn't take nothing from you," according to police reports.

One of the suspected thieves is described as black, heavy set, about 5 feet, 6 inches tall, wearing a trench coat and a white T-shirt that read "Somebody in California loves me."

Extra, extra

The Lakeshore Optimists of Grosse Pointe manned the intersections April 26 for their annual newspaper sale, which is their major fundraiser for the year. Proceeds go to youth programs in the community. The day was sunny and warm and sales were brisk.

Home improvement classes offered

Home improvement is a topic on the minds of many property owners during spring. In order to help with as many projects as possible, the Department of Community Education has developed a series of five classes during the spring term.

"Kitchen Design," will be offered at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, May 15, in cooperation with Mutschler Kitchens. The fee is $6 and the class will provide an opportunity for those contemplating a kitchen renovation project to learn the basics of design from

Zebra Mussel law introduced

In an effort to combat the escalating ecological problems caused by the zebra mussel in the Great Lakes, Congressman Dennis Hertel (D-Mich.) has initiated a legislative measure to combat the species.

The mussel, whose numbers are growing at an alarming rate, threatens the natural balance of the Great Lakes ecology as well as adversely affecting Michigan's commercial fishing industry. In addition, current water supplies are being strangled by this quickly reproducing mussel.

Hertel's amendment, which recently moved out of the full Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee, allocates $1 million to the Great Lakes Environmental Research Laboratory in Ann Arbor, and $3.5 million to the National Sea Grant College program for basic research in controlling and eradicating the zebra mussels.

The measure, which is included in the National Ocean and Coastal Programs authorization bill (H.R. 4115) sponsored by Hertel, will now be placed on the legislative calendar to be considered by Congress within the next few weeks.

A new class, "Painting - Interior," will be offered by Jim Hay at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, May 22, for a fee of $6. The class deals with interior painting only and covers such topics as surface preparation, types of paint, tools, methods and problems that might be encountered.

The third in the spring series of home renovation projects is "Do It Yourself - Electrical Demonstration," also on Tuesday, May 22, at 7 p.m. Taught by Robert Swando, its focus is to enable the student to make simple electrical repairs. The fee for the single-session class is $6.

A two-session companion class, "Do It Yourself - Plumbing Demonstration," will begin at 7 p.m. on Thursday, May 24, and will be taught by Tom Frazho. Emphasis in the class will be on learning the basics of keeping your home's plumbing equipment in top shape and how to cope when things go wrong. The fee is $10.

The final class in the series is also a new offering, "Painting - Exterior," to be offered at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, May 29. Taught by Jim Hay, it will deal only with exterior painting and covers surface preparation, types of paint and stains as well as tools. The fee is $6.

All classes in the home improvement series will be taught at Barnes School, 20090 Morningside Drive, Grosse Pointe Woods. Call 343-2178.

Assignment: Research playground songs of lower east side

By Ronald J. Bernas
Staff Writer

The songs of the playground, written and performed by children, are more than just a bright cadence to jump a rope to.

At least that's what Steve White, a Bowling Green State University graduate student from Grosse Pointe Park has discovered.

White's study began as a class project for an ethnomusicology class — study the lyrics of the jump rope songs sung by inner-city kids and see if, neighborhood by neighborhood and decade by decade, the songs describe the feelings of the times.

To a point, they do, White discovered.

"As a composer, it interested me that the children themselves were the composers," White said. "It was an interesting journey. I thought, honestly, that there would be some research for me to draw on, but there was hardly any at all."

He discovered nursery songbooks at the library and found a dissertation on the subject, and a record of some songs made in the '70s. He recorded some songs at the St. Ambrose Elementary playground. Focusing on the east side of Detroit only, he found about 15 different songs through the various sources.

There were a few songs that remained the same throughout the years.

"There was one called 'Teddy Bear, Teddy Bear' that most people knew," White said. "Even people not from the area knew that one — there was someone from Texas who knew that."

Others that were well known were "Mabel, Mabel" — which White believes survived because it is so flashy and fast, and another song called "Lemon and Lime."

One reason for the endurance of these songs could be that they were the ones found in books on playground songs.

"These songs were a way for the students to poke fun at things," White said. "School was the easiest target, because what kid wants to be in school?"

The songs have changed over the years, however, and reflect all parts of inner-city life.

This was one he heard:
*This old lady (boom, bop)
She's gonna have a baby*

(boom, bop)

But she's so young (boom, bop) Where's her partner? (boom, bop)

At this point in the song, another child jumps into the twirling rope and the two do the fancy jumping White calls "jump rope pyrotechnics."

Some other songs discuss rivalries with other kids in the neighborhood and in other areas, but as far as White's research led him, it's all clean fun.

The caller acts like a caller in a square dance telling the jumpers what to do, and the caller and the jumpers change places often.

"It was really quite interesting, watching the interplay," he said.

White recently received a travel grant for research in the evolution and development of playground songs on the lower east side of Detroit over the past 60 years from Pro Musica, a group of friends and patrons of the school's College of Musical Arts. He is being encouraged to expand his research to Detroit's west side, and he would like to include other industrial cities, like Chicago.

After more research, he hopes to have his work published.

White will graduate in August with a master's degree in composing and musical technology.

Rice qualifications missed

Through an oversight, important details of Shores Village Council candidate Virginia Rice's background were not included in a profile about her on page 20A in last week's Grosse Pointe News.

Police report burglaries, attempts

Five burglaries and attempts were reported in the Woods over the weekend and two others were reported in the Farms.

The burglaries and attempts in the Woods occurred during the early morning hours of May 5.

A resident in the 1800 block of Broadstone heard a thump in the night but did not get up to investigate. In the morning, he discovered someone had opened the outside door to the milk chute and pulled out the insulating foam in the chute. The inside chute door was locked, and no entry was gained into the home.

The milk chute of a home in the 1800 block of Prestwick was the intended means of breaking and entering of another Woods home. The inside door of the chute was bolted. The burglar then punched in a screen of a rear porch door. A portable phone on the porch was taken. An attempt was made to pry open a doorwall off the porch.

A burglary attempt occurred in the 1800 block of Severn when someone removed screens from three windows that were locked. No entry was gained.

The three burglaries in the 1800 blocks in the Woods are reminiscent of a string of burglaries in the 1600 blocks of successive streets in Grosse Pointe City on the previous weekend.

Another Woods burglary May 5 occurred in the 1900 block of Littlestone. A 23-year-old woman sleeping in a room off the garage was awakened by a man's voice. She saw a flashlight shining around the room and when she sat up, the burglar was frightened from the home. She did not get a look at the intruder.

A possible burglary attempt occurred at 3:59 a.m. when a resident of a home in the 1700 block of Severn was awakened by his dog barking frantically at the side door. He investigated and found the hall light on, the door unlocked and his outside milk chute door ajar. He told police he always locks the door and turns out the light before going to bed.

In the Farms, a house in the 200 block of Ridgmont was entered through an unlocked side door. A wallet, a purse and the keys to the house and a car as well as the car was stolen.

A house in the 200 block of McMillan was burglarized sometime between 8:30 a.m. April 30 and 5:30 p.m. May 4. Taken were a 19-inch television, a stereo and a videocassette recorder.

Park woman gets 11 years for heroin trafficking

The Grosse Pointe Park woman convicted of heroin trafficking last year was sentenced to 11 years in prison by a U.S. District Court judge last week.

Helen Formanczyk, 61, was sentenced May 1 after she was returned to Boston by U.S. Marshals.

She was arrested Feb. 14, 1989, in a downtown Boston hotel after she took delivery of heroin from an undercover officer from the Drug Enforcement Agency. The heroin was intercepted by the DEA from a Lebanese courier.

Formanczyk, who claimed she did not know she was receiving drugs, was found guilty in federal court of drug trafficking and was to be sentenced Nov. 28, but when she failed to appear in court, an international alert was posted. Since she and her husband, Theodore, had put up their $200,000 house on Westchester for bail, the house was taken and sold by the U.S. Marshals Service when Formanczyk failed to appear for sentencing.

Formanczyk remained a federal fugitive until March 23 when she was found living above a bar in Detroit. U.S. Marshals learned of her whereabouts through a tip and subsequent surveillance.

During her trial, Formanczyk said she thought she was helping fellow countrymen smuggle valuables out of war-torn Lebanon. The satchel she received actually contained 1 1/2 kilograms (about 3 pounds) of 85 percent pure heroin with a street value of about $12 million.

William L. Cahalan

Funeral services for William L. Cahalan, 65, of Grosse Pointe Farms, were held Friday, May 4, at St. Paul Catholic Church in Grosse Pointe Farms.

Mr. Cahalan died Wednesday, May 2, 1990, at home. He was born in Wyandotte.

Mr. Cahalan's 37-year law career won him the admiration of numerous state officials.

He was a 1952 graduate of the University of Detroit Law School and soon after formed a private law practice with Frank J. Kelley, now state attorney general.

Mr. Cahalan was appointed Wayne County prosecutor in 1967 and served in the post for 17 years. He was appointed state racing commissioner by Gov. James Blanchard, serving for nearly four years. In February 1990, he was appointed Wayne County Circuit Court judge.

Mr. Cahalan recently said while many of his contemporaries are worried about condominiums in Florida, he spends his time going to the zoo and other places with his 4-year-old son, John Charles.

Along with several accomplishments in the legal field, he was chief architect of the state law which imposes a mandatory two-year sentence for a gun-related felony.

Early in his career, Mr. Cahalan served as a Democratic precinct delegate, later working with the Young Democrats, Wayne County Citizens for Kenedy and serving on the political campaign of the late Detroit Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh.

One year before his death, he said he has no regrets concerning a lifetime in law. "I'm very fond of the law. I always felt there is no other work I'd rather do."

Mr. Cahalan is survived by his wife, Mary (Kellet); daughters, Ann Ward, Molly, Kathy and Maureen; sons, William Jr., Jerome and John Charles; a sister, Mrs. Leo Sullivan; brothers, Dr. Joseph L. and Lawrence J.; and a grandson, Kevin.

Mr. Cahalan's ashes were interred in Mount Carmel Cemetery in Wyandotte.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Dr. Vaitkevicius' Cancer Research Fund, Harper Hospital, 3990 John R., Detroit, Mich. 48201.

Ann D. Welchli

Funeral services for Ann D. Welchli, 56, of Parma, were held Wednesday, May 9, at St. Paul Episcopal Church in Jackson with Father Zalmon Sherwood officiating.

Mrs. Welchli died unexpectedly on Sunday, May 6, 1990, in Parma. She was born in Cambridge, Mass.

Mrs. Welchli came to the Jackson area in 1960, then moved to Parma in 1964.

She was employed by the Parma-Western Schools in the special education department.

Mrs. Welchli was an American Cancer Society volunteer for many years. She enjoyed Bible studies, needlepoint, cross-stitch and other handcrafts.

Survivors include her mother, Ann Rogers Maynard of Parma; two sons, Russell of Grosse Pointe Farms and John of Parma.

Mrs. Welchli was predeceased by her father, Erville B. Maynard; and a brother, Erville Jr.

Interment will be in Grotton, Mass.

Memorial contributions may be made to the American Cancer Society or to the Emma Willard School.

Arrangements were made by the Tidd-Williams Funeral Chapels.

Services for Mildred B. Gillette, 86, formerly of Grosse Pointe, were held Thursday, May 3, at the Bell Chapel, William R. Hamilton Co., Birmingham.

Mrs. Gillette died Tuesday, May 1, 1990, in Bloomfield Hills. She was born in New York.

Mrs. Gillette was a self-taught painter who exhibited works at the Michigan Artists Exhibition at the Detroit Institute of Arts and the Grosse Pointe Public Library.

In 1949, while living in Grosse Pointe, Mrs. Gillette submitted three oil paintings to the Grosse Pointe Artists Association. Her works won several awards and she was subsequently chosen by the association as a board member.

Mrs. Gillette is survived by her daughter, Muriel Clayton; a son, J. Robert; and two grandchildren.

She was predeceased by her husband, Leslie.

Edward Fox

Services for Edward Fox, 44, of Grosse Pointe Park, were held Saturday, May 5, at St. Philomena Catholic Church in Detroit.

Mr. Fox died Wednesday, May 2, 1990, at St. John Hospital in Detroit. He was born in Detroit.

Mr. Fox was a welding systems salesman.

Survivors include his mother, Mary Blossom; and a brother, Thomas Fox.

Mr. Fox was predeceased by his father, Thomas Fox.

Interment was in St. Alphonse Cemetery in Windsor, Ontario, Canada.

Albert J. Klick

Services were May 4 for Albert J. Klick, 80, of Grosse Pointe Shores, who died May 3, 1990, in Detroit.

Mr. Klick was born in Bowling Green, Ky., and worked for the Stroh Brewery Co. for 48 years. He retired as a member of the board of directors where he served as secretary and treasurer. He loved tennis and skiing.

He is survived by his daughters, Kathy Tuttle of California and Susan Fernald of Oregon; and four grandchildren. He was predeceased by his wife, Frances.

Interment was at Woodlawn Cemetery in Detroit. Memorial contributions may be made to the American Heart Association.

Arrangements were made by

John E. McVickers

Services were held May 8 for John E. McVickers, 81, of Ocala, Fla., formerly of Grosse Pointe, at the Hiers Funeral Home in Ocala. Mr. McVickers died May 6, 1990, in Ocala.

Mr. McVickers was born in Southampton, England.

He is survived by his wife, Almeta; sons, Ronald J., John E. and Thomas S.; one grandchild, Jeannie Enders; two great-grandchildren, Melissa and Sean Enders; and one sister, Nora Kennedy.

Arrangements were made by the Hiers Funeral Home in Ocala, Fla.

A memorial service for L. Nicholas Ruwe, former U.S. ambassador to the Republic of Iceland, was held Saturday, May 5, at the Grosse Pointe Academy Chapel in Grosse Pointe Farms.

Mr. Ruwe died Wednesday, May 2, 1990, at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn. He was born in Detroit in 1933.

Mr. Ruwe, the son of Lester F. and the late Ruth D. Ruwe, graduated from Brown University and the University of Michigan School of Business.

He was appointed to the ambassador's position by President Ronald Reagan in May 1985, and served in Reykjavik, Iceland, from 1985 until October 1989.

Mr. Ruwe was responsible for the operation of the 1986 Reagan-Gorbachev summit and was responsible for the largest purchase of American planes from the Boeing Corp. to Icelandair.

From 1980 until 1984, Mr. Ruwe was chief of staff to President Nixon in New York, traveling with the former president to 23 foreign countries.

In 1975, he married the former Nancy Lammerding, who was the social secretary to President and Mrs. Gerald Ford at the White House.

In 1969, Mr. Ruwe was appointed by President Nixon as U.S. Assistant Chief of Protocol — the youngest in State Department history. He served in the capacity for six years.

He was responsible for the arrangements for the state funerals of President Harry S. Truman and President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

He was the director of the 1969 Apollo 11 around-the-world trip for astronauts Buzz Aldrin, Mike Collins and Neil Armstrong. He also directed Frank Bowman's European goodwill trip after Apollo 8.

Mr. Ruwe was an avid sportsman. He hunted game in Great Britain, Scotland, Spain and Canada. He fished for salmon in Alaska, Canada, Norway and, for the past 30 years, in Iceland.

Both he and his father were moving forces in Ducks Unlimited, a conservancy society.

Mr. Ruwe was cited in 1988 by the U.S. Inspector General's Office for directing one of the best five managed embassies in the world. Upon his departure from Iceland in 1988, he was awarded the Order of the Falcon with a star and cross by the president of Iceland. The award, Iceland's highest, was never awarded to any other U.S. ambassador.

Mr. Ruwe is survived by his wife, Nancy of Washington; and his father, Lester Ruwe of Grosse Pointe Farms.

In lieu of flowers, memorial contributions may be made to the National American Cancer Society, 1599 Clifton Road N.E., Atlanta, Ga. 30329; or to Ducks Unlimited, Inc., 1 Waterfowl Way, Long Grove, Ill. 60647.

A memorial mass will be held in Washington, D.C., later this month.

Paul Mather Conway Sr.

Timothy John Ware

Services are today, May 10, for Timothy John Ware, 8, who died May 4, 1990, in La Jolla, Calif.

Timothy suffered from biliary atresia, a disease of the liver's bile ducts, since birth. Last August he underwent three liver transplants at the UCLA Medical Center in Los Angeles.

"Timothy was a brave little boy, who, despite his situation, loved life, and shared his enthusiasm and love with everyone he met," said family friend Jon B. Gandelot. "He touched the lives of thousands of people in the short time he lived."

He is survived by his parents, Carol (Ratcliffe) and D.J. Ware; sister, Christie; brothers, Paul and Matthew; grandparents, Mrs. Leon Ratcliffe of Grosse Pointe Woods, Mrs. Loren Ford of Detroit and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ware of Northville; aunts, Ann Ware James of Grosse Pointe Park and Janet Jackson of Grosse Pointe Farms.

Memorial contributions can be made to the Bishop School Memorial Fund for Timothy J. Ware, 7607 La Jolla Blvd., La Jolla, Calif. 92037.

Charles E. Stumb Sr.

A memorial service for Charles E. Stumb Sr., 85, of Grosse Pointe City, will be held Saturday, May 19, at St. Paul Catholic Church in Grosse Pointe Farms with Msgr. Francis X. Canfield officiating.

Mr. Stumb died Thursday, April 12, 1990, at Bon Secours Hospital in Grosse Pointe City. He was born in Nashville, Tenn.

Mr. Stumb was a general agent emeritus with the Connecticut General Life Insurance Co.

Survivors include his wife, Stella; sons, Charles E. Jr. and W. Thomas; four grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren.

Mr. Stumb's ashes were interred in the St. Paul Catholic Church Columbarium.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Michigan Heart Association.

Services will be today, May 10, at 10 a.m. at the Charles Verheyden Funeral Home for Dorothy L. Fedelem who died April 28, 1990. She was 84.

Mrs. Fedelem was born in Detroit, and was a resident of Grosse Pointe Woods. She was a homemaker and an avid gardener.

She is survived by her daughter, Arlene Schneider; sisters Ann Cusenca and Ellavene Holselter; four grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren. She was preceded in death by her husband, John G.

Interment will be at Forest Lawn Cemetery in Detroit. Memorial contributions can be made to Cottage Hospital.

Arrangements were made by the Chas. A. Verheyden Funeral Home.

Georgette Szejbach

Services for Georgette (De Deckere) Szejbach, 61, of Mount Clemens, were May 8 at the Charles A. Verheyden Funeral Home. Mrs. Szejbach died May 5, 1990.

Mrs. Szejbach was born in Detroit. She was a member of the Colony Town Club, Suburban Woman Golfers and worked with the Cancer Loan Closet.

She is survived by her husband, Richard, daughters Susan Caliguri, Christine Bremer and Martha; two grandchildren, Dennis Jr. and Tommy; and a brother, Robert De Deckere.

Interment was at Forest Lawn Cemetery in Detroit. Memorial contributions may be made to the Cancer Loan Closet.

Arrangements were made by the Chas. A. Verheyden Funeral Home.

Farms detective retires after 40 years on the job

By John Minnis
Assistant Editor

Reluctantly giving up the chance for a career in the French Foreign Legion, Earl Field settled for a job with the Grosse Pointe Farms Police Department.

That was in Oct. 1, 1950. On April 11, 1990, Detective Field, 61, ended a four-decade career with the Farms. Field was honored April 23 with a resolution from the Farms City Council, and Sen. John Kelly, D-Grosse Pointe Woods, introduced Senate Resolution No. 308 honoring Field's years of distinguished service. The resolution as adopted by the Senate March 22.

"They've been good to me," Field said. "I can't complain."

Field, who likes to entrance the younger guys with the lurid details of the many cases he's worked on, spent 21 years as a detective. Fresh out of the Marine Corps, a young, lean Field joined the police force as a patrolman after completing the police academy training.

Field said a Marine buddy proposed they join the French Foreign Legion after their hitch was done, but he didn't have transportation money to get to France and "it seemed to make the wife very unhappy when I brought up the subject."

He had been with the Farms Police Department for 11 months when he was called back into active duty because of the Korean War.

He still remembers his first day on the job in the old circa 1912 police station. Now within the last year of his career, the station has been expanded and remodeled.

Field recalls that in 1950 the yearly salary for a patrolman was as high as $4,800. Out of their salaries the officers had to buy their own uniforms, which consisted of blue, double-breasted coats, gray shirts and black ties. The city provided a blue-steel, six-shot, Colt revolver, a black-jack and a 26-inch, night stick.

Field said the 1949 Ford squad cars had a red flashing light in the center of the grill and an exhaust whistle that operated from a pull-chain in the dashboard. The car radio had only one channel, and the officers walking a beat used the old call boxes to get in touch with the station.

He said that most of the officers then had a second job or went to college at then-called Wayne University. Field received continuing instruction throughout his career and kept up with modern advances in criminology. The high-tech gadgets for police investigations are so fascinating, Field said, that they make him want to hang around just to see what's coming next.

Now things are different. No longer are there separate fire and police departments. Field said the Farms Fire Department was one of the best around when he joined the police force. Now the public safety officers are trained as firefighters and law enforcement officers.

He said he found himself at age 60 attending firefighting training with people a third to half his age.

Field and his wife, Gertrude Mary, raised three sons and a daughter. They now have 10 grandchildren. Mrs. Field has worked the past 25 years and owns a real estate office in St. Clair Shores.

Field said he and his wife plan to do some traveling and visit their children and grandchildren.

Prayer breakfast

The fourth annual Mayors' Prayer Breakfast was a huge success May 4 with an overflow crowd attending at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club. This year's speaker was Ohio U.S. Rep. Tony P. Hall, who addressed the gathering on how he found Jesus Christ. The prayer breakfast is sponsored by the mayors of the five Grosse Pointes and Harper Woods.

Series to examine philosophies

The War Memorial will present a three-part series examining the philosophies of Woody Allen, William Shakespeare and George Bernard Shaw Wednesdays, May 16-30, from 10 to 11:30 a.m.

Through plays, novels, inspirational essays and motion pictures, the three raise important philosophic questions about life that are worthy of study.

Sherwin Wine, a scholar and leader in Humanistic Judaism, has chosen the existential philosophy of Woody Allen for his first lecture, May 16. Focusing on the noted humorist's latest movie, "Crimes and Misdemeanors," Wine will explore the serious messages that lie beneath the comic surface of this critically acclaimed film.

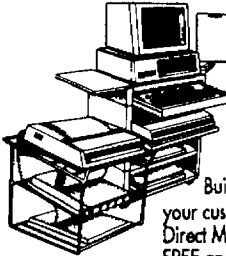

The following Wednesday, May 23, Wine will discuss William Shakespeare and the powerful messages contained in his plays and poetry. The final lecture, May 30, will focus on George Bernard Shaw and the fundamental questions of life he deals with in his plays.

Tickets are $20 for the series of three lectures; $8, single session. Advance purchase recommended. For more information, call 881-7511.

Chrysler begins revolutionary advertising campaign

"Safety doesn't sell cars" has been conventional automotive advertising wisdom ever since Ford Motor Co. tried it in 1956.

Now Chrysler Corp. is advertising (gasp!) safety with a series of TV commercials which extol the air bag, pointing out that Chrysler is ahead of the Japanese auto firms because most of them are not making the air bag standard equipment.

That may be cause for alarm right there. Japanese auto executives have consistently demonstrated that they have a better feel for what the American buyer wants in a car than the American makers have. So if they eschew the air bag, it is probably because they feel it is not a feature with sales appeal to the American buyer.

Since the air bag was unveiled to the public in the late '60s by Eaton Corp., it has been controversial. The automakers didn't like it, politicians and government regulators did. For 20 years, Detroit fought the efforts of the government to impose air bag technology.

The industry resisted it on the very solid ground that it did not know if the air bag would work in head-on collisions. And it did know that it would not work in side or rear impact collisions or in rollovers. Seat belts, the industry said, do work. Make them mandatory.

Politicians don't like to tell voters they must do something they don't want to do, so the government is mandating passive restraints — either an air bag system (which retains the current three-point belt systems) or a passive belt system, that is, a belt system that does not require the motorist to buckle it.

Whichever way the manufacturer chooses to go, it adds hundreds of dollars worth of equipment to every car, equipment which when offered as options, most buyers did not order.

Chrysler Corp. may be advertising its air bags in an effort to achieve a more positive image for the system because it is the only American maker offering the systems in all the car lines it builds. Ford Motor Co. and General Motors offer air bags on a number of their lines, but not all. Among imports, passive belt systems are more commonly used, except among the more expensive lines.

But safety is risky, history indicates. In 1956, Ford decided to push its safety features in its advertising, a move which rival manufacturers viewed as a mistake. "Ford's selling safety," the wisdom of the day went, "Chevy's selling cars."

In fact, the industry was taking its first tentative steps toward improving safety, based on studies of what actually killed and injured people in accidents. Everyone had improved door locks in 1956, because the studies showed that you are safer inside the car in an accident than if you are thrown from the car, as had been widely believed.

The studies showed that it was the "second collision" that did the damage. When the car stopped suddenly, because it had hit something, occupants kept moving and hit interior surfaces. Drivers were impaled on the steering column, so deep-dish steering wheels and collapsible columns were developed.

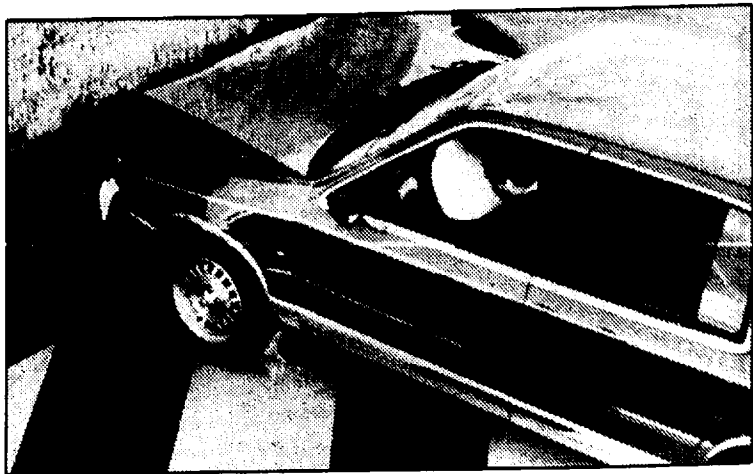

Dashboards were padded in an effort to ease injuries of occupants who hit their heads on them, but the big safety breakthroughs came with the widespread use of seat belts (to keep the occupant in place so he or she would not hit anything) and layered windshields with plastic film sandwiched between glass layers to prevent occupants from going through the windshield.

It was not the impact into the windshield that was most deadly, the accident studies showed, it was going through the windshield. More specifically, it was falling back in through the broken glass that killed. The plastic film stretched and was intended to keep the occupant's head from going through. The head might be bumped, but it would still be attached to the body.

By the mid-60's, when the federal government began writing safety standards, all the automakers were equipping their cars with seat belts, collapsible steering columns and safety windshields. But they weren't

By Richard Wright

That's a real man, not a dummy, in a crash test of Chrysler Corp.'s air-bag system in a Plymouth Acclaim for a new TV commercial. The driver was unharmed.

boasting much about it in their ads.

Conventional advertising wisdom contended that buyers don't want to be reminded that the bright, beautiful pleasure machine they are buying can also kill or maim them. But in those days, attitudes toward safety were different. Most of the public believed that the most dangerous part of the car was "the loose nut behind the wheel." Now there is a strong tendency to blame everything that goes wrong on the product.

Chrysler is advertising a safety device that frightens many people and which will be used only in very serious accidents, which of course we don't like to think about. TV commercials show the crash of a Plymouth Acclaim into a wall with a real person behind the wheel — a wheel that houses an air bag.

The air bag deploys, of course, and the driver, Roger Richman, a Los Angeles-based professional driver, is uninjured, but impressed. So impressed that he wrote a letter to Chrysler Chairman Lee Iacocca saying he is now "an enthusiastic endorser" of the air bag.

Other commercials feature people who have been involved in severe accidents with their air bag-equipped Chrysler products on actual highways. Karen McGowan, of Columbia, Md., tells how she walked away from a 40 to 45-mph impact that totaled her Chrysler LeBaron.

"People say I was lucky," she says in one commercial. "Luck had nothing to do with it. A Chrysler air bag saved my life." McGowan was not paid for her testimonial.

Two local residents appear in Chrysler's campaign, Kim Livingstone, of Sterling Heights, and Mrs. Jan Gardner, of St. Clair, both of whom survived severe head-on impacts in their air-bag equipped Chrysler cars. Each is followed by Iacocca, who says, "that's why Chrysler puts an air bag in every car we build in the U.S."

The air bag commercials are part of a TV and print advertising campaign with the theme "Advantage: Chrysler," which pits the company's products and features directly against Japanese competitors, another risky advertising gambit.

The jury will be out for a while on whether this revolutionary ad campaign will have positive results for Chrysler — and for the air bag.

Similarly, the jury is still out on air bags and will be for some time. Their widespread use is just beginning and some feel their installation on many '90 models is hurting sales.

Auto safety is a tricky thing. There are many factors contributing to accidents, injuries and deaths to be considered — the automobile, the road and, the most difficult to pin down, the driver.

The annual death toll has risen over the years, from about 33,400 in 1946 to a peak of close to 55,000 in 1970 and has since dropped to about 49,000 last year.

Americans are driving more. The rate of deaths per vehicle mile is the lowest in our history (around 2.5 per 100 million miles) and lowest in the world.

Perhaps more interesting than the actual effect on highway safety of the air bag (which will undoubtedly be minimal in the overall picture, although not for McGowan, Livingstone and Gardner) will be the impact of Chrysler's advertising campaign on our perceptions.

Hertel schedules art exhibition

Congressman Dennis Hertel (D-Mich.) has announced plans for his annual art exhibition, "An Artistic Discovery."

The exhibition, featuring artwork by high school students who reside within the 14th Congressional District, will be held Saturday, May 19, from 1 to 3 p.m. at the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House, 1100 Lakeshore Road, in Grosse Pointe Shores.

The exhibit is free and open to the public.

Prior to the exhibit, one of the entries will be selected by a panel of local art instructors to represent the 14th Congressional District in a national, year-long exhibit in a corridor leading to the United States Capitol — an area dedicated to the artistic talents of young Americans.

This spring, members of Congress throughout the country are conducting similar contests to encourage high school artists by offering national exposure to the winning entries. An Artistic Discovery is conducted at no cost to the federal government.

Students participating in this year's 14th District competition reside in the cities of Harper Woods, Hamtramck, east-side of Detroit, Grosse Pointe Farms, Grosse Pointe Shores, Grosse Pointe Woods, Center Line, Warren, Sterling Heights, East Detroit, Utica, Hazel Park, Madison Heights and Troy.

Friends of Library plan annual dinner

The Friends of the Grosse Pointe Public Library will host their annual dinner on Wednesday, May 16, at the War Memorial in the Fries Auditorium at 7 p.m.

The speaker, Ann duMais McCormick, author of the newly released novel, "Northern Exposure," published by St. Martin's press, will address the "Creative Process of Writing a Book."

McCormick husband William and their two sons.

Cinema League

"Land of Many Civilizations," a dual-projection slide show, will be presented by Mary Ellen Tappan on Monday, May 21, following the 35th annual banquet of the Cinema League at 6:30 p.m. The event is open to the public.

The show will explore the many diverse cultures that make up the exotic world of the Turks.

Tappan is a member of the Photographic Society of America and an associate of the Grosse Pointe Camera Club. She is a member and performer for the Cinema League and is active in civic and professional associations.

Tickets are $15 and include dinner and show and are available from Dorothea Bush at 821-9558 or at the office of the War Memorial. Deadline for banquet tickets is May 17. Travelogue tickets will be available at the door for $3.

Realtors plan airport forum

The Grosse Pointe Board of Realtors is sponsoring an open forum on the proposed expansion of Detroit City Airport on Tuesday, May 22, at 7 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center at Grosse Pointe North High School.

Board President Nanci Bolton said, "The expansion of City Airport is generating a great deal of interest and concern among the residents of the five Grosse Pointes and Harper Woods, and we feel it is important that as much information as possible be made available to everyone."

"It is our goal that both the public and our membership be informed about the proposed expansion plans and we have been able to get some fine speakers for this event."

Panelists will include John King, chairman, Grosse Pointes-Harper Woods Airport Study Committee; George Kileen, commissioner, Macomb County; Ronald Bonkowski, mayor of Warren; David Brown, director of public relations, Southwest Airlines; and William Douglas, executive administrator, Detroit City Airport.

There is no admission charge.

Children's Home sets rummage sale

The Children's Home of Detroit will hold its annual rummage sale on Saturday, May 12, from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The home is located at 900 Oak Road in Grosse Pointe Woods, off Mack Avenue between Moross and Vernier.

Crisostomo exhibit at library

"Mainstreet: A Portrait of Small-Town Michigan," an exhibition of photographs by Detroit Free Press photographer Manny Crisostomo, will be on view in the third floor exhibit hall of the Main Detroit Library, 5201 Woodward in the University Cultural Center, from May 12 through July 7.

Viewing hours are Monday through Saturday, 9:30 a.m. - 5:30 p.m., except Wednesdays when the library is open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Taken from the Grosse Pointe Park resident's 1987 book by the same title, these photographs were part of a series of more than 500 photos appearing on the back pages of the Detroit Free Press between 1984 and 1986, for which Crisostomo won the coveted 1986 Michigan Understanding Award.

A native of Guam, Crisostomo graduated with a degree in journalism from the University of Missouri in 1981. The recipient of numerous photojournalism awards, he received the 1988 Michigan Photographer of the Year Award for the overall excellence of his portfolio.

A piece covering police raids on Detroit-area crack houses titled, "Too Young to Die," was a part of this winning portfolio. Additional work along these lines culminated in a series titled, "A Class Act: The Life and Times of Southwestern High School," for which he was awarded the 1989 Pulitzer Prize.

Laser inventor helps open new center at St. John

By Dan Jarvis
Staff writer

When Theodore Maiman began to toy with the idea of channeling cohesive light into a high powered beam, people accused him of being a quack whose goal was to make a lethal ray gun similar to Buck Roger's futuristic science fiction weapon.

Some 30 years later, Maiman takes great joy in the fact that his laser beam invention has not only saved numerous lives, it has become a standard medical treatment in many medical centers across the United States.

"I don't know of anyone who has been killed by a laser," Maiman said, "but I know of many people who have been healed by lasers."

Patients at St. John Hospital and Medical Center may be among the next round of patients to benefit from Maiman's invention now that St. John has established the Southeast Michigan Laser Center at its facility.

The hospital has joined 15 other major medical centers across the country in offering the use of lasers in surgery. The center offers a new concept that integrates a multi-medical approach to providing laser surgery, including technology, personnel, training, procedures and support.

Laser, an acronym for light amplification by stimulated emission of radiation, is a beam of light particles lined up into a coherent beam with a high amount of carefully focused energy.

In the medical field, lasers can be used as "light-powered scalpels" for cutting and coagulating, as well as specialized instruments to vaporize tumors, remove gallbladders, perform mastectomies for cancer, heal bleeding ulcers, treat infertility problems, weld detached retinas and repair hernias.

The list of laser applications in medicine is constantly growing as more uses are discovered.

The benefits of laser surgery are numerous and include reduced pain and bleeding, lower risk of infection, fewer blood transfusions and shorter hospital stays.

But Maiman had no idea that his idea to control coherent light would be used in medicine or a host of other high technology industries when he first theorized that light could be channeled into small and powerful beams.

By contrast, incoherent light — like sunlight or incandescent lamps — contains diffused or scattered light particles.

Published reports in the mid-1950s claimed that passing coherent light through a synthetic ruby crystal to produce a controlled beam was impossible. But Maiman, a scientist with Hughes Research at the time, felt it could be done.

"It worked the very first time I tried it," Maiman said.

Since Maiman's test in 1960, laser light has been applied to telephone technology, fiberoptics and even in home entertainment items such as laser disc players.

At St. John, the laser center is staffed by laser-credentialed personnel — surgeons and staff members who must participate in comprehensive clinical and academic instruction for certification.

Along with the advantages for patients, the advantages for physicians include using state-of-the-art technology and simplified surgical procedures, often leading to fewer complications.

Health costs can be cut because laser surgery is less invasive than conventional scalpel surgery. The high cost of a prolonged hospital stay, general anesthesia, X-rays and other diagnostic tests, operating room costs, transfusions and aftercare nursing, can be reduced or eliminated.

Laser surgery is often called the "bloodless surgery" because the heat of a laser beam seals blood vessels. As it cuts, the laser creates a dry surgical field, making surgery easier and quicker.

Laser technology is currently used in ophthalmology, ear, nose and throat, dermatology, gastroenterology, gynecology, neurosurgery, urology, orthopedic surgery, cardiovascular, pulmonary/thoracic and general surgery.

Since the laser revolution in medicine has just begun, its future looks bright. Biomedical engineers and physicians continue to seek out new applications, while simultaneously developing new lasers to provide additional capabilities.

Because many laser procedures can be performed on an outpatient basis, there is no need for a hospital stay. Many procedures, however do require hospital care and the decision is made by the physician. Maiman's work is included in the Smithsonian Institution and he was inducted into the National Inventors Hall of Fame in 1984, along with such luminaries as Thomas Edison, Alexander Graham Bell and the Wright Brothers.

Maiman was the recipient of the Japan Prize for Electro-Optics in 1987 and is listed in several who's who publications, the Encyclopedia Britannica, Collier's, World Book and the New York Times Encyclopedia almanac.

He was the director of the Quantum Electronics Section at Hughes Research Laboratories from 1956 to 1961.

Maiman is a member of both the National Academy of Sciences and the National Academy of Engineers. He is a Fellow of the American Physical Society, the Optical Society of America and the Society of Photo-Optical Instrumentation Engineers.

"Of all the things lasers have been used for to date," Maiman said, "the medical applications are the most satisfying to me because it is able to help heal people."

THANKS TO MOMS FOR PASSING ALONG THOSE OLD FAMILY RECIPES

By Margie Reins Smith
Feature Editor

Everyone knows the story of the young girl who watched her mother prepare a roast for the oven.

Mother cut off one end of the roast, put it aside, then placed the larger portion of meat in the roasting pan.

"Why did you cut some off?" the girl asked.

"I don't know," the mother said. "That's the way my mother did it. Let's ask grandma."

Grandma pondered the question. "I don't know," she said. "That's the way my mother did it. Let's ask great-grandma."

Great-grandma solved the mystery.

"I never had a roasting pan big enough to cook a whole roast at one time."

Mothers are responsible for passing along more important stuff than the family jewels and some half-baked information about birds and bees.

Mothers are archivists of the family's favorite recipes.

Whether mother was a superb cook or not — just about everyone has a favorite dish that reminds him or her of Mom. Perhaps it's a special holiday dish that brings back memories; perhaps it was a get-well treat, prepared to tempt a sick child's lagging appetite; perhaps it's a special dish that spells l-o-v-e, because Mom made it specially for you.

We asked some local cooks — who are themselves noted for knowing their way around the kitchen — what they remember as Mom's greatest recipe.

Grosse Pointer Jimmy Schmidt, chef at the Rattlesnake Club in Detroit, said that his mother, Ann Schmidt, made a terrific strawberry shortcake.

"There were five kids in the family. We picked our own strawberries in southern Illinois. We weren't allowed to eat them, but of course we sneaked some. We'd load a trailer with strawberries and she would freeze them and make preserves and so on. After all that, we'd get strawberry shortcake for a treat."

The following recipe, Schmidt said, was given to his mother by her mother in 1942.

Ann's Shortcake

2 cups sifted all-purpose flour

1/2 teasp. salt

3 teasp. baking powder

1/2 teasp. baking soda

1/4 cup sugar

1/2 cup shortening

1/2 cup plus 1 Tbsp. buttermilk

1 pint sliced fresh strawberries

1/2 cup heavy cream, whipped to firm peaks

Preheat oven to 425 degrees.

Sift together the flour, salt, baking powder, baking soda and sugar. Cut in the shortening until the mixture resembles small peas. Stir in the buttermilk until just mixed.

Pat the dough into an 8-inch square pan and bake for 15 to 20 minutes until golden. Split the shortcake in half while still hot. Spoon the berries over the bottom half and spread the whipped cream over the berries. Top with the other half of the shortcake and serve.

Pat Pompei, owner of Pat Pompei's All Natural Cuisine, and teacher of cooking classes co-sponsored by Grosse Pointe Community Education since 1983, is also a life management teacher in Roseville.

Pompei said her grandmother, who was born in Italy, was a great cook. "The fondest memory of my grandmother's cooking is her chicken soup. My two sisters and two cousins also recall this wonderful, rich, cheesy soup.

"It was always the first course for every holiday meal at Grandma's house. We all remember Grandma repeatedly asking us to eat second, third and fourth helpings.

"Grandma didn't write down or read recipes." The following recipe was developed because Pompei's mother, Eleanor Pompei, watched Grandma make the soup, and wrote down what she observed.

Grandma Robelli's Northern Italian Chicken Soup

1 stewing hen or roasting chicken (about 5 lbs.), quartered

3 1/2 quarts water

1 large onion

1 rib celery with tops

1 teasp. salt

1/4 teasp. pepper

8 oz. Orzo pasta

1 egg

1/2 to 1 cup freshly grated Parmesan cheese

Put chicken into a large pot; cover with water and bring to boil over medium-high heat. Reduce heat and simmer, uncovered, about 45 minutes, skimming off foam with a slotted spoon.

Add onion, celery, salt and pepper. Simmer partially covered 1 to 1 1/4 hours longer, until chicken is tender and falls off the bones. Reserve one cup broth in a measuring cup.

Leave chicken in pot until cool enough to handle. Remove with vegetables, using a slotted spoon. Discard bones and skin. Cover and refrigerate chicken for other uses.

Bring broth to a boil and add pasta. Cook, uncovered, for 10 minutes.

Beat the egg in a small bowl. Add the 1 cup cooled, reserved broth and whisk together. Slowly add egg-broth mixture to pot of broth, whisking as you pour. Pour into a soup tureen and stir in the 1/2 cup Parmesan cheese. Add more cheese if you want a thicker soup. Serve. Pass extra Parmesan cheese for those who want to add more.

Mom Watt's Best Sauerkraut & Ribs Dinner

2 lbs. Silverfloss sauerkraut
3 lbs. pork spareribs
1 lb. stewed tomatoes or 1 lb. chopped canned tomatoes
1 Spanish onion, coarsely chopped

Portion spareribs into 8 oz. serving pieces. Place ribs in shallow casserole or baking dish (12 x 18 x 2). Put layer of chopped onions with sauerkraut, including the juice. Put tomatoes, including juice, over the sauerkraut.

Cover pan with foil and bake in preheated 350 degree oven (in Mom's words) "until the ribs are good and tender." The meat should be falling off the bones — which takes about 1 1/2 hours. Serve over mashed potatoes.

Irene Burchard of Grosse Pointe Woods, the Grosse Pointe News' Elegant Eating writer, said her mother, Paula Burchard, is a creative cook.

"One of the many wonderful things she made me was the crepe for breakfast. The ones with fresh fruit were particular favorites of mine during the summer and early fall months."

Irene Burchard has five daughters. She said they're all good cooks, but they often ask her to make crepes when they come back to visit her.

Basic Crepe Batter

3/4 cup all-purpose flour pinch of salt
1 1/4 cup milk
1 egg yolk
1 egg

1 Tbsp. melted butter or light oil

Sift the flour into a mixing bowl. Add a pinch of salt, the egg yolk, the whole egg and half of the milk. Stir with a wire whip until smooth. Add the remainder of the milk and the melted butter or oil.

Heat 1 Tbsp. oil in crepe pan until hot. Pour just enough batter into pan to cover the bottom. Turn crepe with spatula when it starts to bubble on the surface. Cook other side. Remove; add filling; roll. Serve.

All of the ingredients may be put into the blender for 10 seconds. If the batter is made in the blender, it may be used immediately. If it is prepared by hand, allow it to rest for one hour so that the milk and flour will be well combined.

The batter may be prepared for later use and will keep in the refrigerator all day. If it is left until the next day, it may need to be thinned with 2 more Tbsp. milk.

Fresh sliced strawberries, sliced peaches, red raspberries or blueberries lightly sugared are delicious as a filling. Fruit preserves may be used instead of fresh fruit.

Makes 12 crepes.

Then there's my mother, Grace Reins. She knows her way around a recipe or two, even though she's become better acquainted with Betty Crocker in recent years. She watched her mother, my grandmother, Alice Bernius, make baked beans a couple of hundred times. She wrote the recipe down on Sept. 25, 1942.

"I remember my mother cooking these on an old wood-burning stove. They cooked almost all day and they smelled delicious," she said.

Grandma Alice's Beans

1 lb. navy beans
Water

1 teasp. salt
4 Tbsp. sugar
A little syrup
1/4 cup catsup or 1/2 to 3/4 cup canned tomatoes
Pinch baking soda
1 Tbsp. bacon grease
Several slices bacon

Soak beans overnight. Let them come to a boil; rinse. Cover with water again and add salt, sugar, syrup and either catsup or tomatoes. A pinch of baking soda makes them cook quicker — just a little on the tip of a knife.

Add bacon grease or a couple of slices of bacon while cooking.

Boil very slowly so the beans stay whole. They're done when you can blow on them and their skins pop. Place in oven casserole. Cover the top with bacon and bake at 275 degrees until brown and fairly dry. Don't skimp on the bacon because this is where the flavor is.

OK, Mom.

Sole searches, freaky sneakers are fundraising features

Perhaps you should tuck a can of athlete's foot spray and a pair of odor eaters in your pocket before you attend this one.

The third annual "Suits and Sneakers" is a fundraiser for the Detroit Department of Recreation's youth programs. It will offer you a chance to bid on the autographed sneakers of the rich and famous — the likes of Aretha Franklin, Dick Vitale, Mr. Universe, Eddie Murphy, Jacques Demers, Isiah Thomas and more.

Dress code is ... what else? ... suits and sneakers.

It's planned for Thursday, May 17, from 6 to 10 p.m., at Cobo Center's Riverview Room. Included in the evening: silent auction, live auction by Du-Mouchelle Galleries, prizes for the most outrageous sneakers, auction of celebrity sneakers, live music, dancing, food, cocktails, fashions and photo opportunities.

Hosts will be Friends of Partners, a group of volunteers who are dedicated to raising funds for the Detroit Recreation Department. The honorary host committee includes former Detroit Lion Lem Barney, WJBK-TV anchor Dayna Eubanks and Roostertail owners Tom and Diane Schoenith of Grosse Pointe.

For more information, call 224-0112.

Zut alors: The 20th annual meeting and dinner of L'Alliance Francaise de Grosse Pointe will take place on May 23, beginning at 6 p.m., at the Country Club of Detroit.

According to Vera Axson and Ruth Drake of the annual meeting committee, the evening will include entertainment (by pianist Michael Shaib, flutist Celeste Cordonnier, and Nick Dara, who will present a selection of songs made famous by the late Maurice Chevalier, accompanied by Janet Drolshagen); food (a five-course dinner in the Great Hall); and a brief business meeting (including election of directors and presentation of awards).

Cost is $28 per person. Tables for eight are available. Friends and prospective members are welcome. For reservations, call Axson at 881-9593 or Drake at 881-9729.

The Alliance Francaise is a non-profit organization providing incentives to young students pursuing the study of the French culture and language.

Benefit for boys: A benefit for St. Peter's Home for Boys will hold its fifth annual summer dinner dance on Friday, Diane Schoenith, Lem Barney and Dayna Eubanks are ready to auction off some special celebrity sneakers at the third annual "Suits and Sneakers" benefit for the Detroit Recreation Department on May 17.

May 18, at the Detroit Athletic Club.

This year's gala is following a Great Gatsby theme. "We'd really like this to be a multi-generational party," said chairman Betsy Fulcher.

Grosse Pointers on the committee are Peter K. Dow, Karen Kirchner, Benjamin Paddock IV and John Boladian. Call 646-2966 for more information. St. Peter's Home is a home-away-from-home for boys with emotional and behavioral problems.

Antique fare: The sixth annual Village Antiques Show will take place Friday, Saturday and Sunday, May 11-13, for the benefit of Henry Ford Museum & Greenfield village — in particular, the museum's educational programs.

A preview party for benefactors and patrons will be on Thursday, May 10, and will offer an opportunity to purchase antiques prior to the public opening.

Ranked as one of the top five antiques shows in the country, this year's show will feature 47 exhibitors and a broad selection of antiques.

Jill and David Williams of Grosse Pointe City are general chairmen of the event. Kathleen and Walter E. Simmons of Grosse Pointe Farms are chairmen of the host and hostess committee; their daughter, Linda Simmons, is co-chair. L. Karl Bates is chairman of the decorations committee and the Williams' daughter, Nell Hosler, is co-chair for decorations.

Other Grosse Pointe volunteers include Nancy Hogan, Gertrude Draves, Carol Head and Gretchen Wood.

On Friday at 3 p.m., a complementary talk: "Decorating with Antiques: The Fun and the Frenzy," will be given by John M. Davis. On Saturday at 3 p.m., Christopher W. Lane will present "Currier & Ives: The Top 50 Revisited."

Antique show hours are 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Friday; 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Saturday; 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday at Lovett Hall at Greenfield Village in Dearborn. Admission is $6 at the door; $5 in advance.

Black-tie gala: Detroit Receiving Hospital and University Health Center will launch a year-long celebration of its 10th anniversary with a gala dinner dance at the Westin Hotel on Saturday, May 12.

The black-tie event will begin at 7 p.m.; dinner at 8 p.m.; dancing to the Jimmy Wilkens Orchestra. Tickets are $150 per person and proceeds will benefit the Emergency and Trauma Research Fund at the hospital.

"During our first decade, we met the challenge of the public funding crisis and several natural disasters through innovation and hard work," said Edward S. Thomas, president and CEO of Detroit Receiving. "Today, Detroit Receiving is one of only a few hospitals nationwide that have been recognized by the American College of Surgeons as a Level I Trauma Center. We have been selected as the hospital of choice, if needed, by the president of the United States, the pope and other dignitaries."

Among those who are planning to attend the 10th anniversary dance are David J. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Saubier and Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Fahle, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred R. Glancy III and Richard L. Measell.

The Pastor's Corner

Beating the bounds

Rev. Gregory P. Sammons
Christ Church Grosse Pointe

During the Easter season in Western Europe, a tradition developed called "The Rogation Days." These were special days set aside for prayer as the new crop was put into the ground. Recognizing God's mighty hand in the gift of sunshine and rain, people found it appropriate to beg God (from Latin, rogare: to ask or beg) for a fruitful harvest.

One of the most picturesque customs from the rogation celebration was the ceremony called "beating the bounds." The people would walk in procession around the village boundary, with prayer and song, just as ancient people used to walk through the cornfields, praying for deliverance from mildew.

(Sometimes, modern gardeners recommend talking to our plants. How much greater the value, however, of talking to God about our plants.)

It is sad the Rogationtide is no longer widely kept, since there is a gripping relevance to its themes. Earth Day 1990, observed a few weeks ago, shows that people finally are alarmed by the shape of our planet. The big question is whether our concern will lead to any meaningful action.

It is worthy and right for people of faith to pray for the healing of our environment. But, as Jeremy Taylor, the great 17th century bishop and author of "Holy Living" and "Holy Dying," once wrote: "Whatsoever we beg of God, let us also work for it."

We must arise from prayer, willing to become part of God's answer. Otherwise, prayer is simply childish wishful thinking.

Bringing our environment to God in prayer will mean specific challenges to the way we live. For example, is it essential for our lawns to look like golf courses?

"What is the harm?" you ask.

The harm is that these perfect lawns usually have gallons of chemicals poured upon them each year. Where do these chemicals wind up. In our groundwater, our streams and lakes — that's where.

It is not simply the big polluters that bear responsibility for the plight of God's creation. It is all the little polluters like you and me. Would we rather have a cleaner Lake St. Clair tomorrow? Or no dandelions today?

Often, God speaks to us in choices that are this simple, concrete — and attainable.

God is inviting you and me to "beat the bounds" of our homes and lifestyles. He's asking that we learn simple ways to live as humble, responsible stewards of His Earth.

Mothers and daughters:

Grosse Pointe United Methodist Church women will host a mother-daughter banquet and fashion show on Saturday, May 12, at the church. Co-chairmen are Debra Mitchell, left, and Janet Evans.

Church women to hold book review

The May book review for Presbyterian Women of Grosse Pointe Memorial Church will be held on Tuesday, May 15, at 1 p.m. Doris Brucker has chosen "Joshua and the Children," a modern-day parable based on the Bible passage, Luke 18:16-17. The book was written by Joseph F. Firzone, author of "Joshua."

Brucker is a long-time member of Grosse Pointe Memorial, an elder and the first woman

'Children and sexuality' talk at St. Clare

"Children and Sexuality" is the topic of a program to be held at St. Clare of Montefalco Church on Wednesday, May 16, in the Social Hall, from 7:30-9 p.m.

The speaker will be Sean Hogan-Downey, ACSW. Hogan-Downey is a clinical social worker who specializes in helping families and adolescents cope with conflicts that occur at specific life stages. She is a well-known and respected community educator who conducts seminars in parenting, adolescence, communication skills and family life issues. "Children and Sexuality" is sponsored by the St. Clare Adult Continuing Education Committee. The cost is $3.00.

St. Clare of Montefalco Church is located on Mack at Whittier in Grosse Pointe Park. For additional information, call 884-2110.

Mother's Day breakfast at Grace Church

The men of Grace United Church of Christ, 1175 Lakepointe, at Kercheval, in Grosse Pointe Park, will serve a breakfast for the ladies of the church on Mother's Day, Sunday, May 13.

St. Columba concert to be May 13

St. Columba Episcopal Church will present a concert on Sunday, May 13, at 3 p.m. with Catherine McKeever, contralto, and Craig Scott Symons, organist.

McKeever has performed at several churches in Detroit and Windsor. She is pursuing a degree in voice performance at the University of Windsor.

Symons earned a bachelor of arts degree in church music and organ performance from Wayne State University. He is director of music at Village Presbyterian Church in Livonia and director of the Detroit Edison Glee Club.

St. Columba is at 1021 Manistique at East Jefferson, two blocks west of Alter Road. A free will offering will benefit the organ maintenance fund and free guarded parking is available. A reception will follow the recital. For more information, call 881-5499.

Historic Trinity offers history workshop

Historic Trinity Church, 1345 Gratiot, Detroit, will present a day-long workshop, "History and Community: A Workshop for Churches," on Thursday, May 10, beginning with registration at 8:30 a.m.

William H. Mulligan Jr. will be the workshop instructor. The workshop will cover caring for church records, researching the history of churches, and writing and publishing anniversary and other history books. The registration fee of $20 includes lunch and all workshop materials.

For information or to register, call Edith Miller at 567-3100.

Alumni Club is for Catholic singles

The Catholic Alumni Club of Detroit is a non-profit organization comprised of practicing Catholics age 21 or older who have a bachelor's degree in any field and who are free to marry in the Catholic church.

The purpose of the meeting is to promote fellowship among Catholic singles and to introduce new members to the religious, athletic, cultural, intellectual and social activities sponsored by the organization.

A general meeting will be held on Wednesday, May 16, at 7:20 p.m. at the Harper Woods Community Center, 19748 Harper. Refreshments will be available.

The group also meets for volleyball every Tuesday evening at 7 p.m. at St. Bartholomew's, 2291 East Outer Drive.

St. George Church plans fashion show

"Summer Rhapsody '90" will be the theme of the May 15 fashion show luncheon hosted by the ladies of St. George Orthodox Church, to be held at the Hyatt Regency, Dearborn.

Mrs. Phillip Nader of West Bloomfield is chairman of the event, which will feature fashions by Dawood's of Grosse Pointe.

The "Middle East Fair" will open at 11 a.m. with an array of ethnic foods, followed by a luncheon and fashions at noon.

The public is invited. For tickets and reservations, contact Mrs. Casper Hackem at 254-1915.

Mrs. Henry Nelson Kuhlman

Hunter-Kuhlman

Laura Jill Hunter of Grosse Pointe Woods, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William R. Hunter of Alexis, Ill., married Henry Nelson Kuhlman of Grosse Pointe Woods, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Kuhlman of Grosse Pointe Shores, on Nov. 11, 1989, at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church.

The Rev. Stanton R. Wilson and the Rev. V. Bruce Rigdon officiated at the 5 p.m. ceremony, which was followed by a reception at the Country Club of Detroit.

The bride's gown was based on an 1890 wedding dress and was fashioned of white taffeta, featuring a princess line bodice, leg-of-mutton sleeves, a Basque waistline and pointe-de-gauze lace with pearl accents. The hem of the gored skirt was accented with Alencon lace. The overlay of the cathedral-length train was made of heirloom lace originally worn by the groom's mother. The ballet-length veil of silk tulle was held in place by a Juliet cap and the bride carried a cascade of gardenias, dendrobium orchids and roses.

The maid of honor was the bride's sister, Carrie Hunter of Rock Island, Ill. The matron of honor was the bride's sister, Martha West of Iowa City, Iowa.

Bridesmaids were the groom's sister, Sarah Erickson of Denver; Dr. Polly Hineman of Grosse Pointe Woods; Dr. Pamela Georgeson of West Bloomfield; and Susan Jorgenson of Plymouth, Minn.

Attendants wore royal blue velvet tea-length dresses with long sleeves, V-necklines in the back and bows at the waistlines. They carried arm bouquets of roses, lilies and dendrobium orchids.

Dave Gannett of St. Charles, Ill., was the best man.

Ushers were Kirk Barker of Grosse Pointe Shores, Jim Hull of Denver and Fred Klingbeil of Harper Woods. Groomsmen were Dr. Craig Hanson of Bloomfield Hills; the bride's brother, Tom Hunter of Plymouth, Minn.; Brian Lowery of Orlando, Fla.; Clay Purdy of Evanston, Ill.; and Kirk Purdy of Alexandria, Va.

The mother of the bride wore a soft blue silk suit with a draped V-neckline and long sleeves.

The groom's mother wore a silk chiffon periwinkle dress with short sleeves and a jewel neckline.

The soloist at the ceremony was James M. Moore. Scripture readers were Tim and Jane Stoepker. Special guest was Mrs. Edgar C. Sites of Boca Raton, Fla., the groom's grandmother.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Osteopathic Medicine in Des Moines, Iowa. She is a physician in private practice.

The groom is a graduate of the University of Colorado. He is vice president of A. Kuhlman & Co.

The couple traveled to Thailand and Hong Kong. They will live in Grosse Pointe Woods.

Marlinga-Baker

Theresa Lynn Marlinga of Mount Clemens, daughter of Carol and Terrance Marlinga of Kawkawlin, married Matthew Anthony Baker of Grosse Pointe Woods, son of Carole and William F. Baker of Roseville, on Jan. 13, 1990, at Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Kawkawlin.

The Rev. Chester J. Pilarski officiated at the 2 p.m. ceremony, which was followed by a reception at the Regal House in Bay City.

Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Anthony Baker

The bride wore a gown with a chiffon skirt, a beaded lace top and a satin sash at the waist.

The maid of honor was the bride's sister, Julie Marie Marlinga of Ferndale.

Bridesmaids were the groom's sister, Deborah Baker of Grand Rapids, and the bride's sister, Adrienne Marlinga of Bay City.

The best man was the groom's brother, Alan Baker of Roseville.

Groomsmen were Cameron Brady of Detroit and Dave Giard.

Mr. and Mrs. William Jay Hartman III

Peters-Hartman

Jennifer Leigh Peters of St. Clair Shores, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Robert Peters of Grosse Pointe Farms, married William Jay Hartman III of Berkeley, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Hartman of Birmingham, on Aug. 26, 1989, at the Grosse Pointe Academy chapel.

The Rev. Ron Victor officiated at the ceremony, which was followed by a reception on the lawn of the academy.

The bride wore a gown that featured a dropped waist, a fitted bodice of Alencon lace, a jewel neck, elbow-length sleeves and three graduated tulle skirts bound with white satin ribbon.

Her headpiece was a bow with three tulle veils bound in satin ribbon. She carried a dozen white roses bound with a white satin ribbon.

The maid of honor was the bride's sister, Sarah Jeanne Peters of Grosse Pointe Farms.

Bridesmaids were Anne Lackey of Grosse Pointe, Tamma Norwood of Los Angeles, Renee Bacalis of Dearborn and Sheryl Briggs of West Bloomfield.

Attendants wore dresses of white-on-white embroidered organza with thin pink ribbon trim at the hemlines and carried wild flowers tied with satin ribbons.

The best man was Karl Schweikart of Minneapolis, Minn.

Groomsmen were Mark Vermeulen of San Francisco, Dan Schimpke of Los Angeles, and the groom's brothers, John and Tom Hartman. The bride's brother, Tom Peters of Boulder, Colo., served as usher.

The bride's mother wore a pale pink raw silk dress. She carried two pale pink long-stemmed roses tied with a pale pink satin ribbon.

The mother of the groom wore a multi-colored pastel silk dress.

Readers were Thomas R. Peters Jr. and Christopher P. Austin.

The bride earned a bachelor of arts degree in business from Michigan State University. She is a territory manager in medical sales.

The groom earned a master of architecture degree from the University of Michigan. He is employed by Smith, Hinchman and Grylls.

The couple traveled to Mackinac Island. They will live in St. Clair Shores.

PRINT, VIDEO TO BENEFIT DOSSIN GREAT LAKES MUSEUM

Detroit artist William A. Moss is proud to announce his latest limited edition color lithograph entitled "The Delphine Docked At Rose Terrace" is now available. This stunning twilight view of Anna Thompson Dodge's mansion and her private steam yacht, The Delphine, is being offered as a special package. The package consists of one signed and numbered 18 inch by 24 inch print, and a video tape tour of the mansion and the yacht.

Through the courtesy of Detroit television station WDIV-Channel 4, a special 30-minute VHS videotape is being made available. The video documents the tapestries, marble columns, sculptures and the wrought iron work that graced the interior of this elegant home. The twin-winged mansion was started in 1931, completed in 1935 and razed in 1976. The 250-foot-long Delphine, the largest private yacht built on the Great Lakes, is currently undergoing restoration work on the East Coast. The proceeds from the sale of all the videos will directly benefit the Dossin Great Lakes Museum Development Fund.

The lithograph is limited to 750 signed and numbered prints. The companion video is only available in this special promotion. The cost of the limited edition print and videotape is $100 and is available for purchase at The Framing Gallery of Grosse Pointe, 18140 Mack Avenue, Grosse Pointe, Michigan, 885-3743

NACEL needs host families for foreign exchange students

NACEL, a cultural exchange group, is seeking Grosse Pointe, Harper Woods and St. Clair Shores families to host students (age 14-18) from France, Germany and Spain. The teenagers from abroad pay their own way and come with spending money and insurance. They have studied English and wish to experience life with an American family. Host families are carefully matched with the students as to general interests and specific activities they would like to share — such as sports, water activities, computers and cultural pursuits. Groups of French and Spanish students will arrive July 2 and leave July 29. A second group, which will include students from Germany, will arrive July 29 and depart Aug. 25. Host families need not speak a foreign language, as the students are coming here to use their English.

Sen. Kelly to speak to ABWA

The Grosse Pointe chapter of the American Business Women's Association (ABWA) will hold its annual business associate event on Wednesday, May 16. The event honors the business associates and employees of ABWA members and provides an opportunity to learn about other fields, industries and positions. Sen. John F. Kelly will be the guest speaker. His topic is "Changing Politics in a Changing World." Kelly currently serves on the public health committee, government operations and the judiciary committee. The ABWA currently has more than 100,000 members nationwide. As an educational association, the awarding of scholarships is one of ABWA's key programs. The month of May is recognized as scholarship month and locally, the Grosse Pointe chapter has awarded over $6,000 to women. The mission of the American Business Women's Association is to bring together all working women of all backgrounds and to provide opportunities for them to help themselves and others grow personally and professionally through leadership, education, networking support and national recognition. All employed individuals who support the mission and goals of the association are eligible for membership. The meeting will begin with cocktails at 6 p.m., followed by dinner at 6:30 p.m., with music by pianist Ruth Cowan. For further information, call Adrienne at 838-8166 or Gudrun at 469-0053.

Lou Glasse is Senior Power Day keynoter

Lou Glasse, president of the Older Women's League, a national advocacy organization of approximately 20,000 members, has been named keynoter for the 16th annual Senior Power Day in Lansing.

The event, scheduled for Tuesday, May 15, at the Civic Arena, is expected to draw a crowd in excess of 7,000 persons.

Glasse is versed in such issues as long-term care and pension and retirement income. She is expected to focus her remarks on health-related concerns.

That platform is calling for expansion of pre-admission programs administered by the aging network, programs that can prevent unnecessary institutionalization of older adults.

The senior advocates are also asking for a $5 million increase in funding for the state's home delivered meals program for fiscal year 1991, a program that served more than 5.9 million meals to the homebound last year.

A third tenet of the SPD platform seeks support of equal access to Michigan nursing homes as a right under the law, regardless of whether the nursing home resident is a Medicaid recipient or not.

The fourth and final plank of the platform calls for an increased amount of each county's mental health budget to be spent on mental health care for older people.

According to Shelton Tappes, chairman, Michigan Senior Power Day Inc., "One of the major thrusts of this year's Senior Power Day will be to get the attention of the president and of Congress, imploring them to proceed with the passage of a universal, comprehensive and publicly administered national health care program."

Members of the organization are approaching all Michigan residents to sign petitions. "Health care is not just a senior issue," Tappes said. "Eight out of ten Americans, of all ages, are experiencing or will be affected by long-term-care health problems."

Persons wishing to learn more about the campaign or about Senior Power Day should contact Senior Power Day Inc., 115 W. Allegan, Suite 610, Lansing, 48933, or call 517-482-4725.

AAUW meeting includes vintage fashion show

A trunk showing of period costumes from the Meadowbrook Theatre Guild of Rochester will entertain members and guests of the American Association of University Women at a dinner meeting on Thursday, May 17, at Blossom Heath Inn, 24800 Jefferson Avenue, St. Clair Shores.

The 75-year-old Blossom Heath inn was once the east side's famous "speakeasy" during the Roaring '20s.

A steady stream of lace and bedding, embroidery, feathers and natural boas, togas and antique parasols, 18th century brocades and even period lingerie costumes will be modeled by Meadowbrook Guild members.

Julie Glynn, Meadowbrook Guild moderator, will provide a brief synopsis of each play in which the costume appeared plus interesting tidbits on the character and actor who wore the costume. Pertinent historical and cultural information will place the costume in an accurate fashion perspective.

Members and guests are invited to see and touch these wonderful theatrical illusions at 7 p.m. Dinner will be at 6 p.m. Reservations are required by May 7.

The American Association of University Women promotes equality for women, education and self development over the lifespan, and positive societal change. It welcomes members who have earned a baccalaureate degree from an accredited college or university or a foreign institution recognized by IFUW.

For information on membership, contact Rose Evanski at 886-6036, or Bonnie Woods at 886-3496.

Even after retirement, some people can't stop achieving

What makes a winner keep running? Why do men and women who have achieved their life goal, whether it be in business or professional fields, choose to continue on, rather than sit back and enjoy a leisure they have earned?

We read of executives, retired from companies because of age restrictions, who go out and start their own businesses, act as consultants to others or serve on several boards of corporations. The experience they bring is welcome and invaluable and the companies they serve are fortunate to have the opportunity to benefit from their hard-earned skills acquired over long years. But still the questions persist. Why don't they want to rest?

It is true that the urge to keep going rather than to level off is not typical of most retirees. Fortified financially by Social Security, private pensions and investment income, most workers look forward to enjoying years of pleasurable activities; traveling, pursuing a lifetime hobby, improving their golf game or some other form of physical skill.

By Marian Trainor

It could be that from the time they entered the workplace they had set their sights on being super-achievers. Their whole lives were wrapped up in what they did and their personal happiness came second to success.

They were, according to psychologists, willing to take risks, convinced that they would succeed. The fear of failure was never considered. They are propelled at retirement age by the same motivation that influenced them when they first entered the job market.

As one post-retiree explains: "I love work and I love making money. With experience I built up a backlog of decision-making and work values that taught me how to use my time and talents to the best advantage.

"I don't work as hard as I used to because I can get more done in a shorter length of time now. I am not one to sit back and rest on my laurels once I've reached a goal. There are always other goals."

Joe Rittenbacher, a Los Angeles psychologist, explains this affinity for work. "Making one's mark in the world can be a stimulant. We all know people who can't quit. The more successful they are, the harder they work. Why? Integrity is linked to ambition, but so is power. Once a person has that power, it isn't easy to let go."

Money, then, is not the primary factor. There are millionaires who never have enough. It is the wheeling and dealing that stimulates. The "high" that comes from competition is another factor.

As one businessman, now in his 70's, puts it: "When I was a kid I was always competing, trying to beat out the other guy. I got a big kick out of doing deals — even if it was trading marbles."

What it comes down to then, the answer to why people go on working when they could stop is that they are fulfilling needs, which may be financial, emotional or personal.

The first one is financial. This is particularly true of older people who remember the Depression. For them financial and personal security are related.

Another need is for love and respect. People who succeed at any age have the respect of their family, friends and those who work for them. Entertainers are an example. Even those who have passed their prime keep coming back because they thrive on the love and adulation of applause. Sometimes those who keep going achieve a success in their later years that surpasses what they achieved when they were young.

Jessica Tandy, who won the Oscar this year for her role in "Driving Miss Daisy," is an example, as is Geraldine Page who won in 1986 for her part in "The Return to Bountiful."

Burt Lancaster is another. At 68, after 36 years of stardom and

62 movies, he made a comeback in 1981 with "Atlantic City."

One of Lancaster's colleagues in earlier days was Ronald Reagan. He switched careers but is a perfect example of a person who not only enjoys work and the admiration of millions but refuses to give in to age.

Walter Matthau at age 65 is another example of someone who, in spite of suffering a massive heart attack in 1966 and undergoing open heart surgery and a quadruple bypass operation in 1976, still pursues his career.

And then there is the indelible George Burns who says that he can't die because he has too many commitments to fulfill.

Those who need recognition and enjoy a sense of power are often attracted to a world of fitness, where the individual may work to become proficient enough to compete in a sport, or may just compete against his or her own body to whip it into shape.

At 83, Clarence Ross, a retired insurance man from Montclair, N.J., swam his first Masters meet. Since then he has won all but one of 123 championships.

No matter what the proving ground is, there are those who can't bear to drop out of the race whether it be in business, the entertainment world or in sport.

Senior Community celebrates National Nursing Home Week

The St. John-Bon Secours Senior Community, 18300 East Warren, is planning a week of festivities to celebrate National Nursing Home Week, May 13-19.

On Monday, May 14, residents will have a balloon launch. Post cards will be attached to the balloons and the resident whose card is returned in the mail from the farthest point will win a prize.

On Tuesday, May 15, there will be a baby crawling contest. Anyone who wants to enter a child in the contest should come to the first floor dining room at 2:30 p.m. for pre-registration.

On Wednesday, May 16, the staff will put on a talent show for the residents.

On Thursday, May 17, there will be a Senior Olympics competition.

On Friday, May 18, there will be an outdoor picnic for staff and residents with games and a pie eating contest.

On Saturday, May 19, Ronald McDonald, Bozo the clown and Mel Stander's band will entertain from noon until 3 p.m. The YMCA will host a youth run at 10 a.m.; a senior walk at 11 a.m.; and a stroller walk at 11:30 a.m. In addition, there will be food, booths and children's games.

The public is welcome.

AARP No. 3430 will meet on May 14

Mark McKee will speak at the next meeting of the American Association for Retired Persons, No. 3430, Neighborhood Club, on Monday, May 14. The general meeting starts at 1:30 p.m.

McKee, a former newspaperman, is noted for his knowledge of lighthouses. He will bring some collectibles from his research.

The meeting will be followed by the usual coffee hour. New members and visitors are welcome.

Bridge

HAVE A PLEASANT TRY AT PERFECTION BRIDGE BY WOODY BOYD
THE PASTEBOARD PASTIME

This May (17-20) The Southeastern Michigan Bridge Association will sponsor The Michigan State Senior Regional and Spring Sectional. The Southfield Civic Center will be the site for this fine four day event which is expected to draw a large cadre of experts and enthusiasts from all over the Mid-West. Last years S.O.M.B.A. spring regional, The Wolverine Classic, drew 1,638 tables to play. This year's tournament chairman, Ken Wawrzyniak, has spared nothing to make this Michigan's best bridge event. Get your favorite partner on line and mark your calendar accordingly.

I studied some of the hands from last year's flighted open pairs and one of those from that event is the excellent text for today's column. "The Luxury of Usable Singletons In Slam Bidding." Of the 128 N/S pairs who played today's hand only 5 found the lay down slam and less than 70% of the field were in a club game. You can see that there was an obvious bidding enigma, but here follows the sequence that allowed one very fine partnership to achieve the maximum result.

Most east players opened the bidding so we must treat that as a standard obstacle. Without such interference the slam should be found easily after north responds in diamonds to south's opening call. Some souths, I am told, preempted a spade intending to jam the bidding, but south's hand is way too good for a three club call. North was obviously looking into Tiffany's window when he first saw his holding and heard partner bid clubs. The experience north in a good partnership must take some immediate forcing action with two controls, a singleton, outside suit and clubs too. South's diamond king is pure gold and can only be shown if over a cue bid the partnership has an understanding to show a feature; otherwise it is difficult.

I checked with Bob Crafton as he and his partner, Howard Weiner, found the slam with the bidding shown. East certainly gave them way too much help with all those horrible doubles that allowed north to fragment hearts and cue bid spades all at the same level. East should have realized it wasn't his hand and muffled his tongue. I like south's pass of east's first double and redouble of his second act of vengeance. The subtlety of the redouble shows more than second round control. A second pass would show nothing extra, but the actual bid says I've got a singleton spade and a plus we haven't discussed which must be in diamonds.

DBL			4S
DBL	RDBL		6C Passed Out

For a second opinion on how this hand might have been bid to its zenith, I probed another able expert. Bob Weber felt "if three diamonds is forcing over west's two spades, the slam should be extremely easy to find and this columnist agrees.

Certain nameless individuals are counting on you during Be Kind To Animals Week.

His number is 267909. But at one time he had a name. A name that would cause his ears to perk up whenever he heard it. A name that would send him bounding through the house with joy whenever it was called. Now, no one calls his name.

Now, he sits in a cage. Alone. Confused. You see, a dog doesn't understand why his owner would move and leave him behind. All he knows is that after giving three years of love and devotion, he's been thrust into a strange place with other animals just as nameless. And just as scared.

They're only some of the 47,000 animals that come through the Michigan Humane Society each year. And while we provide each one with food, shelter and care, only you can provide what they need most: a home. Or you can do the next best thing. You can make a donation, big or small, to the MHS during Be Kind To Animals Week (May 6 - 12).

By Rob Fulton
Sports Editor

North soccer forward Christie Mack was not the only force behind a 3-1 win over South, May 5. She was, however, the difference.

North, now 9-0 after a 4-0 win over Lake Shore May 7, has allowed only three goals on the season and has scored 45. Two of those goals were given up in a 4-2 win at Fraser May 4.

South moved to 6-3-1 with the loss.

"It wasn't just me," Mack proclaimed after the game. "It was a total team effort and I just happened to be the one who scored two of the goals. We have a very powerful front line and a strong defense and those things made the difference."

A young, but quickly maturing defense.

"As you know, I was very concerned with our defense at the start of the season," said Norsemen coach Guido Regelbrugge. "But, the girls have come together very nicely, and quicker than I had anticipated."

Good for North, bad for South.

"North's defense is very strong and wouldn't allow us many chances," said South coach Vasilios Simopoulos. "We would make a few rushes, but they would stop us or the goalie would come out and make a nice play on the ball."

That's why North goalie Julie Hielscher is so tough to score on.

North immediately carried the play in the first half and took a 1-0 lead when Mack popped in the first of her two goals. The game was a stalemate the rest of the way until South picked up some momentum and tied the score on a Vicky Spicer goal, off Leslie Braithwaite's assist. The first half ended in a 1-1 tie.

"I thought the key was us getting the ball up front to our forwards," said North coach Guido Regelbrugge. "I knew South would test all three of our components (defense, mid-field and defense), but we did a nice job of creating things for our forwards."

North took a 2-1 lead just seven minutes into the second half on Felicia Paluzzi's goal, assisted by Mack. But South kept battling — until Mack iced the game with a direct-kick goal.

"By far, this was our biggest test of the season," said Regelbrugge. "South is a very good team and pushed us, but I feel we were more dominant in the crucial moments of the game."

You call this scheduling?

Prom dates, grab your track spikes, your soccer balls, your baseball mitts and softballs. Why?

Because when you're done with your dancing and eating, you're going to head to the state track meet, regional soccer game or a district game on the diamond.

Grosse Pointe South athletes, this year, are being put in a very precarious situation. June 1, the juniors will celebrate their prom. That's the night before all the state tournaments take place.

Most of us know that those young adults will not be home at a "decent" hour. Some will, but we also know what it's like to be 17.

I can't understand why South's class counselor and class officers couldn't select a different date. The date is set usually — one year ahead of time and shouldn't clash with any school events.

Kids will have to rush home, get a good night's sleep and compete against some of the finest teams in the state within 12 hours of hitting the pillow.

Some teams will have to leave at 7 or 8 a.m., meaning the athlete will need to roll out of bed at 6:30. The kids should be responsible and intelligent enough to make the right decision, but remember: We were young once, too.

South's senior prom is May 19, a Saturday. That's more reasonable, because school activities will not overlap. North has set its junior prom for Sunday, May 27, and its senior prom for June 2. June 2 is also more reasonable because it's after the state competition, but it's also not a great choice.

Why?

Because most of the kids competing will have difficulty concentrating. They'll be absorbed with thoughts of, "Is my tux ready," "Did dad remember to get the car washed," "Will my date understand if I'm late?"

This night should be one of enjoyment — not pressure. Granted, kids who choose to be involved in extracurricular activities have to make concessions, but what about the planning committee? Why in the world would it force these kids into such a situation. I don't think it's fair.

I also wouldn't expect a band member to perform the next day for a "chair."

Athletes have worked very hard all year to reach the state tournament. This is it. One game. Lose, go home. Win, the season continues. Nobody wants the season to end, but with a prom set just 12 hours before a clash with a defending state champion, it seems that South's season could end earlier than planned.

There is probably no great day to hold the prom, but in years to come I hope the people involved can make a better choice. Some people will never be happy with the selection of the date, but a date that doesn't conflict with ANY school activity would be ideal.

Again, student athletes have made the choice and should balance all the things he or she is involved in, but surely all athletes deserve one night of the school year without having to worry about a game, a band performance or a term paper.

Dube flips for Spartans' offer

By Rob Fulton
Sports Editor

Jennifer Dube has flipped, sprung, bounced and jumped before, but after learning Michigan State University wanted her, she may never come back down.

Dube, who has been a fanatic and adept gymnast for 12 years, will be taking her skills to the campus of Michigan State after signing a full five-year scholarship last week.

"I still can't believe it," said the three-time national competitor. "I've always worked for this day and I don't think I'll ever be able to describe the feeling I had when I was offered a scholarship."

Dube, who didn't compete most of her senior season at North because of a broken ankle, feels that her scholarship is a payback.

"My mom and dad have invested a lot of time and money in me to make me a better gymnast," she said, "and now I'm just paying them back."

The ankle injury, which was sustained in a meet against South, never threatened to end Dube's brilliant career, but she was concerned that it would distract some college recruits.

"As soon as it happened, I didn't think I was going to go to college," said Dube. "The injury was just devastating. I had never been hurt before and I didn't know how it would affect my chances to go to State."

Despite having very little to show as a senior, Dube still received offers from Boise State and New Mexico, but State couldn't be outdone.

"Jennifer really pursued a college scholarship on her own," said her mother, Mary. "She got a brochure with all the colleges that offer gymnastics scholarships and narrowed her choices. She put together her resume and a videotape of some meets and began corresponding with them."

Dube has always been an independent, self-taught gymnast.

"A lot of people have been very influential in my life," she said. "But I've always been one to teach myself — especially over the last two years. I am confident in my abilities because I've been in a lot of situations where I have been counted on to pull out a win. It's been fun and has taught me a lot."

State coach Jill Hough offered Dube the chance to compete at a Big Ten level, but has decided to resign from her position.

"She's a great coach," Dube said of Hough, "but she called and told me she was resigning to become a full-time mother."

"When she told me she was leaving, I had to take a long look and see if it was still for me. Coach Hough reassured me that State was going to get a strong coach so it shouldn't make a difference."

Dube, who is the president of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes at North, had made a name for herself long before State came around, and she did it with strength, drive and love for God.

"As a junior, I focused a lot of my attention on gymnastics and I'm fortunate I did," she said. "My records as a junior really helped me because I didn't participate as much as a senior and that's what the colleges looked for."

Dube will study social work.

"I'm ready for college," she said. "I've been to a lot of college meets and I am confident I can compete right away. I love gymnastics to death and without it I wouldn't know what I'd do. State has given me the opportunity to continue doing something I really love."

Lady Norsemen win second track invitational of season

By James Moore
Special Writer

Behind Laurin Schultz's wins in the mile run and 400 run, the North girls' track team won the Port Huron Northern Invitational May 5.

North scored 141 points, just nine more than second place Rochester Adams, to take its second invitational of the season.

The Lady Norsemen, who earlier in the week beat L'Anse Creuse, 75-53, placed three runners in each event, and placed in all three relays with a first in the 3200.

Against L'Anse Creuse, Schultz won the 200 and 400 runs, and Linda Krieg won the shot put and discus. Freshman sensation Jessica McLalin won both the 1600 and 3200 runs.

Hurdler Jane Rice then led North past Utica, 111-17, by winning both the 100 and 300 events, and Schultz won the 1600 and discus.

Boys' track

In fast and furious style, North's boys' track team mounted wins over L'Anse Creuse (84-53) and Utica Ford (85-46) last week.

Key wins over L'Anse Creuse came from Scott Collins, Juan Ganum, Glen Harkenrider (two wins), Tom Gauerke, Bob Thomas, Ted Bidigare and Dave Vier. The 3200 relay team of Collins, Andy Torrence, Keith Rader and Gauerke took first, as did the 400 relay team of Ed

Smith, Amod Sarnaik, Matt Van Coppenolle and Ganum.

Baseball

By Rob Fulton
Sports Editor

D'Angelo, only 2-2 on the season, served up a two-run homer in the fifth inning to Paul Sikorski, as the Norsemen lost, 3-2, to Roseville.

D'Angelo struck out 13, allowed five hits and walked one, but received no offensive support from his teammates.

North tied the game in the third inning on Steve Craparotta's one-run double, and got a final run in the fifth on a Craparotta sacrifice fly. Craparotta leads the team with 23 RBI and three home runs.

Marc Adams took the mound for North at Utica, but needed some relief help from Jim Tatti to preserve North's 6-5 win.

Adams, who tossed six innings, left the game in the seventh after walking in a run and leaving the bases loaded.

Tatti gave up a couple of sacrifice flies, but shut down Utica for North's first White Division win.

North scored in all but the fourth inning, and got RBI hits from Chris Meathe, Paul Straske (2), Dan Watkins (2) and Craparotta.

North is 7-11 overall.

Softball

Still unbeaten, the girls' varsity softball team beat up on Roseville, 12-1, in a mercy-rule win.

The game was stopped after five innings because North had a 10-run lead.

Kerri-Sue Kelly hurled a two-hitter, and also starred at the plate, banging out two hits, and driving in four runs. Stephanie Gore managed two hits and two RBI.

North is also unbeaten in the league.

Cavanaugh family has outstanding season

Walter "Pudge" Cavanaugh, a long-time Grosse Pointe resident now living in Venice, Fla., has just been ranked No. 1 in the United States in age 75 doubles with his partner George Reynolds of New Jersey.

As a team, Cavanaugh and Reynolds won all 11 tournaments in 1989, including the National Grass Tournament in Providence, R.I., and the prestigious Longwood Cricket Club grass tournament in Boston.

Gardner Malloy, the winner of more national men's championships than any other player, and his partner Bill Collins lost in the semifinals of the National Grass Tournament to the team Cavanaugh and Reynolds beat in the finals, 6-1, 6-3.

Denny Cavanaugh of Grosse Pointe City was a member of the local Volvo tennis team, playing in the highest Volvo category — 5-point teams — that went to the finals of the national Volvo tournament.

Denny and his partner Dick Keller of Grosse Pointe didn't lose a set in any of their matches in the Michigan, Midwestern and National finals tournaments. Denny was also the captain of the Bowling Green State University team, where he won two conference championships.

Jeanne Cavanaugh of the City, and her partner Julie Capara won the Michigan and Midwestern Volvo doubles championships, and won two matches in the Nationals in North Carolina before losing to the national champions.

Jeanne and her dad Pudge also played in the International championships at Marbella, Spain. Jeanne won the International age 40 women's doubles with Ann Schmid of Germany, while Pudge and Phil Edwards teamed to win the age 70 doubles.

Dloski aces tennis tourney

Ryan Dloski, a sixth-grader at Parcels, won four matches, including the fourth and final one, to win the Keating Brother's Outdoor Junior Tennis Tournament in Birmingham, April 27-29.

Dloski, who has appeared in 13 finals matches in the 12-and-under division, defeated Ann Arbor's John Long, 6-3, 6-4, in the finals. Long is currently ranked No. 3 in the Southeast Michigan rankings, and Dloski is No. 7.

Dloski plays in the Eastside Tennis Club's Junior Tennis Program and is coached by Dale Steiss.

The international champion is determined by the number of points won by each country's team.

Jeanne's and Pudge's wins, plus being semifinalists in their singles matches, contributed enough points to the total. Don and Mary Lou MacKay, also former Grosse Pointers, advanced to the semifinals of the mixed doubles, and Don's semifinalist points in men's 65 singles also helped the United States win the International Trophy.

Downs the charm in win over E.D.

By Rob Fulton
Sports Editor

Junior left-hander Brian Downs tossed a six-hitter April 30, and had a perfect game through five innings as the Blue Devils' baseball team beat up on East Detroit, 5-2.

Downs, 3-2, gave up only one earned run, struck out six and walked only one as he went the distance.

"Brian threw an outstanding game," said South coach Dan Griesbaum. "He was very sharp."

East Detroit's Tom Silva, one of the area's finest pitchers, wasn't much of a match for the South offense — especially in the second inning.

South's six-hit attack began in the second, when it pushed five runs across. Jason Benavidez had a two-run single, and Bill Leins knocked home the third run on a double. Kevin Nugent then smacked a ball to right field and two runs scored when the outfielder muffed the ball.

Two days later at home against Anchor Bay, senior right-hander Mark Jungwirth got his fourth win of the season, 5-4, over the Tars.

South is 4-3 in one-run games this season.

Jungwirth trailed 2-0 at the end of one inning after giving up a two-run homer, but then settled down. He did, however, eventually need relief from Brian Campbell, who earned his second save of the season.

"Mark was getting the ball up early and had a lot of trouble," Griesbaum said about his ace. "He just wasn't sharp, but he fanned two guys in the second and picked up his confidence."

Jungwirth leads the team with a 1.8 ERA.

South gave Jungwirth a cushion with four runs in the second inning. Jason Weissert got things started with his first home run of the season, and subsequent RBI hits by Tim Gramling, Tom Moellering and Bill Leins gave the Devils a 4-2 lead. Leins added a sacrifice fly in the fourth for South's final run.

In doubleheader action at Mount Clemens May 7, South moved to 5-2 in the Eastern Michigan League with a clean sweep, 10-3 and 6-2.

Downs pitched six innings for his fourth win of the season, giving up six hits and striking out four in the first game. Lance DeBets got the win in the nightcap, but got relief help from Brian Campbell in the seventh.

Matt Wysocki was the hitting hero in the opener, banging out three hits in four trips, including a triple and a double. He also had 3 RBI. Bill Leins had two RBI and Jason Weissert had two hits.

Tom Moellering had a couple RBI in the nightcap, and Wysocki smacked another triple.

Softball

Don't look at the record of John Bruce's softball team because it's not a true barometer of how the team has measured up this season.

Despite a 2-9 overall mark and a 2-3 league record, South has played decent ball.

Except for a 13-1 defeat to East Detroit.

"Mentally we got down on ourselves and wanted to dig a hole and hide in it," Bruce said about the loss to the Shamrocks. "We hit the low point of the season in frustration because we expect more of ourselves."

Darcy Jones went the distance for the Lady Devils, and gave up 14 hits and fanned only one. Laurel Wolfe drove home the only South run on a double.

On the road at Anchor Bay May 2, Jones and the rest of the Lady Devils crept out of the hole to take an 8-4 win to move to 2-3 in the league.

"I was really proud of the girls and the way they bounced right back," said Bruce. "Over the course of losing those nine games, we knew we had all the ingredients but couldn't get the right mix."

Jones mixed her pitches well enough, scattering six hits and striking out four.

South picked up a run in the second inning when Wolfe, who singled, scored on a wild pitch. Jones got two runs home on a bunt single, and South led 3-0 at the end of 3 1/2 innings, but Anchor Bay scored twice in the fourth to cut into the lead.

The Tars took a 4-3 lead into the seventh, but South sent 10 batters to the plate in the seventh to ice the victory.

Jenni Wysocki's RBI single knotted the score at 4-4, and Kathy Apple, Jones, Becky Wysocki and Jenni Wysocki added the other RBI.

Girls' track

South's reign as a four-time Eastern Michigan League champion appears to be over.

North, South to compete in rowing nationals

Grosse Pointe North and South have qualified for the high school sailing nationals after taking the top two spots, respectively, at the Midwestern High School Sailing Championships.

The Nationals will be held May 11-13.

North and South traveled to Chicago's Columbia Yacht Club where nine schools competed for the two slots at the national level.

Although North and South have sent teams to sailing com-

South suffered its first league loss in five years when Port Huron drilled the Lady Devils, 85 1/2-42 1/2.

"Despite the score, it was a very heated meet," said South coach Steve Zaranek. "We had a lot of races that were dog fights."

Amy Balok and Jenny Williams cleared the high jump bar at 5 feet 1 inch, and 5 feet, respectively, to lead South. Robyn Scofield had a fine day, running on three South relay teams and long jumping more than 14 feet.

At the Sterling Heights Invitational, South successfully defended its championship by taking first or second place in 11 of the 16 events.

Karen Ehresman highlighted the meet with victories in the 100 and 300 hurdles, a second in the long jump (she became the second girl in school history to jump more than 16 feet), and anchored the first place 400 relay team.

Others on the 400 relay included Tere Gavin, Robyn Scofield and Kathleen Monaghan. Scofield and Monaghan teamed up with Angela Drake and Leslie Arbaugh to win the 1600 relay. Heidi Wise turned in a first-place finish in the 800-meter run.

South's Brian Downs has picked up two wins in his last two outings. Downs fanned six hitters in a 5-2 win over East Detroit, and struck out four more in a win over Mount Clemens.

The Blue Devils have now won five straight and are 5-2 in the Eastern Michigan League.

We make believers.

Sudden death during sports

Contrary to popular belief, most cases of sudden death in sports are not due to a "heart attack," a term that refers to death of heart muscle from an abrupt blockage in one of the coronary blood vessels which supply blood and oxygen to the heart.

Rather, sudden cardiac death, whether or not occurring during physical activity, is most often the result of an abnormally rapid rhythm (called "ventricular fibrillation" or "ventricular tachycardia") arising from the lower heart chambers. The heart's contractions become uncoordinated and ineffectual (cardiac "arrest"), causing a collapse in blood pressure throughout the body. Under these circumstances, only restoration of the normal heart rhythm by an electric shock delivered to the chest area will prevent a rapid progression to death. When resuscitation is prompt, the heart muscle is usually free of any evidence of new damage.

In the general adult population, the most common underlying condition predisposing to sudden death is atherosclerotic narrowings and blockages of the blood vessels that supply blood and oxygen to the heart. As a result of the previous damage to heart muscle from these diseased vessels, electrical instability can develop at the border zones between normal and scarred regions of the heart. This, in turn, sets the stage for ventricular fibrillation and cardiac arrest.

In middle-aged adults, including those who are athletes (such as former marathon runner James Fixx), this disease process accounts for most cases of sudden death.

Cardiac arrest from coronary artery disease is much less frequent in the under-30 age group, but is still associated with cigarette smoking, a strong family history of heart disease and elevated blood cholesterol levels.

The most important cause of sudden death in the young athlete population is an abnormality in the heart muscle itself ("cardiomyopathy").

Particularly prevalent among young athletes dying during competitive sports is a congenital disorder in which the heart muscle is excessively thickened. These muscle-bound hearts actually have above normal pumping ability. However, a greater muscle mass is more prone to developing oxygen deprivation during peak exertion. This tendency, together with certain other mechanical and electrical abnormalities associated with a thickened heart muscle, can precipitate ventricular fibrillation.

Other athletes who become sudden death victims due to cardiomyopathy, such as Hank Gathers, have some mild scarring of their lower heart chambers, instead of thickened muscle. While such scarring need not interfere with the overall pumping ability of the heart, it may, nonetheless, give rise to electrical abnormalities that can predispose to cardiac arrest. The source of injury to the heart muscle in these cases is not known, but has long been suspected to be a rare complication of a prior viral infection.

Certain congenital abnormalities of the coronary blood vessels which supply the heart can intermittently or chronically limit blood supply to portions of the cardiac muscle. Ventricular fibrillation may occur during periods of peak stress when oxygen is in short supply, or as a result of electrical instability from accumulated scar formation.

The case of former basketball player Pete Maravich dramatically demonstrates how well cardiac function may often be preserved even under these adverse conditions. Unfortunately, it was the associated "background" electrical abnormalities that precipitated his unexpected demise.

A minority of young sudden death victims have completely normal heart muscle and blood vessel anatomy. However, they possess a purely electrical disorder in which there is either a "short circuit" between the upper and lower chambers, or a generalized disturbance in the way the heart undergoes electrical recovery after each beat. Both of these abnormalities can give rise to episodes of rapid heart beats that may result in temporary loss of consciousness or even ventricular fibrillation.

Fortunately, a complete history and physical examination, together with electrocardiogram, cardiac ultrasound and exercise treadmill test, suffice in the overwhelming majority of cases to identify any anatomic or electrical abnormalities that could cause sudden death in young individuals.

A more aggressive diagnostic workup (including electrophysiologic testing and cardiac catheterization) should be strongly considered in any athlete with a history of passing out, attacks of rapid heart rhythm or a family history of sudden death.

Of course, cocaine and other forms of substance abuse should be strongly discouraged to prevent tragedies similar to that which befell Len Bias. Finally, one should not overlook simple measures, such as exercising regularly, maintaining a healthy diet and not smoking, to help prevent the development of atherosclerosis.

Laugh it off

If you have often wondered how anything that feels so good can be good for you, listen to the doctor.

Dr. William Fry, a Stanford University psychiatrist who has studied humor for 30 years, points out some bodily benefits to laughter.

Heart and blood circulation rates soar, imitating the effects of an aerobic workout. Afterward, these rates drop below average, promoting relaxation. Muscles vibrate, providing an internal massage that breaks up tension. The brain emits certain hormones that trigger the release of endorphines, the body's natural pain killers.

For those of us who are concerned with losing weight or maintaining a healthy body weight, we are quite aware of all three of these body responses. Helping us get slim or stay that way.

Increased metabolic rate, experiencing a relaxed and calm atmosphere, plus cutting off the triggering mechanism of the "appetite" are all important conditions in weight control. Laughter is truly the best medicine.

From his book, "Love, Medicine, and Miracles," Dr. Bernie Siegel states:

"A college professor was lying helpless on the operating table just before surgery when one of the nurses mentioned she was one of his former students, 'I hope I passed you,' he quipped. Laughter, which Sir William Osler called "the music of life," makes the unbearable bearable, and a patient with a well-developed sense of humor has a better chance of recovery than a stolid individual who seldom laughs."

Attitude counts

"Ha, easy for you to say, but you don't know what troubles there are in my life. Nothing is funny and everything is serious. Excuse me, but there is no room for humor in my life. You just don't know how terrible my life is. If you did, you wouldn't begin to crack the first smile."

"Talk about troubles, just give me five minutes of your time. What is so funny about living with a teenager? Or, let me tell you about my invalid parent who is trying to suck the life out of me. Or, how about my 3-year-old who sleeps 20 minutes a day and drives me crazy the rest of the time? No, don't talk to me about laughter. Life is serious and I don't have time to laugh."

If this scenario sounds the least bit familiar, lighten up. There are many of us who could easily fall into any one of those experiences, or maybe all of them. But, trite as it may sound, attitude does count.

All of us are given challenges. Some are short-term, while others we attack on a daily basis. The situations differ, according to your own personal experiences, but how we choose to deal with them does make an important impact on their eventual outcome and how they affect our lives.

When it comes to eating behaviors, there are three main personality structures, although people can have some or all of the three.

The 'pity party eater'

These people have failed many times in the past, and are convinced they are going to fail again. They will embrace a diet, looking for a miracle cure when there isn't one.

The 'pity party eater' blames everything and everyone in their lives for their failures. They "didn't feel good," they didn't want to "offend anyone," or they experienced a "headache."

Instead of looking at the diet, or taking a good look at themselves, they set themselves up for yet another failure and once again accept the fact they will always and forever be fat.

This type of person would like to make you disappear if you so much as make one small humorous comment.

'Well, I don't really know'

These people approach their weight problem with a half-hearted attitude. They can smile and will follow their eating program with vitality and a measured amount of cheerfulness — until something or someone puts a damper on their spirits.

They can become completely disheartened and accept whatever fate has to offer them "Oh well, there is nothing I can do. I tried, but my life is just too full of problems to make this work."

'I can do it'

This group follows its program for healthy eating with a sense of balance and energy in spite of what life has dealt them.

This type of eater carries a successful mental picture of themselves and accepts the fact that they are responsible for how they think and feel. They choose to see life as an adventure, offering challenges but also a deep enrichment of themselves.

They acknowledge there will be times when they will cry and feel despondent, but they also know this will pass. They love the sound of laughter, especially when it is their own. This does not mean that we have to go around with a silly grin on our faces. Some of the best curmudgeons are the funniest people around. They may sound serious, but they never take themselves seriously.

If you need a push in the right direction, try renting a totally silly movie next time. Or, take in one of the current movies now playing. The sillier, the better. Let yourself go. While you are laughing it up, you may be pleasantly surprised to see that it has really helped you laugh it all off.

"On this hapless earth, there is small sincerity of mirth, and laughter oft is 'by' art, to drown the outcry of the heart."
— Hartley Coleridge from "Address to Certain Goldfishes."

Walking around

Walking is natural. You know how to walk. You swing your arms forward and backward, and step along. What could be simpler? It's like breathing; you hardly have to think about it — you just do it.

Yet, there is more to walking than we might think... the way your legs move with each swing of the arm. Right arm forward, left leg back. Heel, toe, right, left, right, left. With each step, your arms swing naturally like a pendulum. What does this arm swing do for you? It helps maintain your balance.

In addition, it sets the timing and the rhythm of your step. The faster your arms swing, the faster your step. With this motion, more power is added to your walking stride.

An excellent aerobic exercise, walking can help you lose weight (brisk walking burns about the same number of calories mile for mile as jogging without the high impact stress placed on the joints) and helps to strengthen your heart and tone other muscles. It can help you control stress and help improve your mental awareness.

It is imperative that children develop good physical fitness habits at an early age. If you are a parent of young children, it is easy to teach them the joys and benefits of living actively through walking.

While thousands of people among our adult population are realizing the health, physical and psychological benefits of active lifestyles, the fact remains that infants and children are not as naturally physically active as is commonly assumed. Help them establish some positive life-time habits with a walking program.

Some basic walking tips include:

- 1) Wear comfortable shoes that firmly support your feet.

- 2) Wear thin, clean, dry socks.
- 3) Give yourself time for warming up and cooling down before starting vigorous exercise. Slow, easy walking serves as an excellent warm-up and cool-down.
- 4) In starting a walking program, take it easy at first. Stop at the first sign of soreness or pain.
- 5) Avoid walking on roads where traffic could be a hazard.
- 6) An easy stroll after a light meal can be beneficial.
- 7) For high walking performance, swing your arms forward and back at your sides and keep your body and head straight. Walk tall!
- 8) For weight loss, walk for time — preferably six to seven days per week. Don't worry about speed. For cardiovascular conditioning, walk more briskly about three to four days a week.

Row for fitness and fun

Adult rowing classes will be offered Tuesdays and Thursdays, beginning May 15 and running for five weeks.

Safety on wheels: Remember the rules

No matter what sport or recreational activity you pursue, it's important to follow basic safety rules and wear proper protective gear.

By taking a few precautions and wearing items such as knee pads, elbow pads and helmets, activities like skateboarding, bicycling or riding ATVs can be safe as well as fun.

One of the best ways to ensure safety on recreational vehicles is to make sure the driver knows how to use them correctly.

What everyone should realize is that these vehicles can be dangerous if not operated properly. They are not toys.

Points to remember

- Some basic guidelines:
  - Go slow over rough terrain and gravel to avoid spills and wipeouts.
  - Never operate any vehicle after consuming alcoholic beverages.
  - Make sure parental supervision is provided where needed.
  - Avoid going too fast on any recreational vehicle.

Proper protective wear is another way to promote safety on these types of vehicles. Perhaps the most important piece of gear you'll ever purchase is a helmet.

A large number of the several hundred thousand cases of serious brain injuries in the United States today have been caused by falls or vehicle-involved accidents. Wearing a helmet can greatly reduce your risk of serious head and brain injury.

Such injuries can require weeks of hospitalization and months of rehabilitation. Victims often lapse into a coma or unconsciousness, and may develop amnesia, seizures and behavior problems. A severe closed-head injury can result in a lifelong handicap.

Each year more than 700,000 people in the United States suffer head injuries severe enough to require hospitalization, according to Susan Mooney-Smith, director of the Rehabilitation Unit at St. John Hospital-Macomb Center in Harrison Township.

Mooney-Smith said those most at risk of sustaining a head injury tend to be younger people because they're more likely to be daredevils and take chances. The most frequent victims are age 18-25. Men are more susceptible than women because they tend to take more risks, said Mooney-Smith.

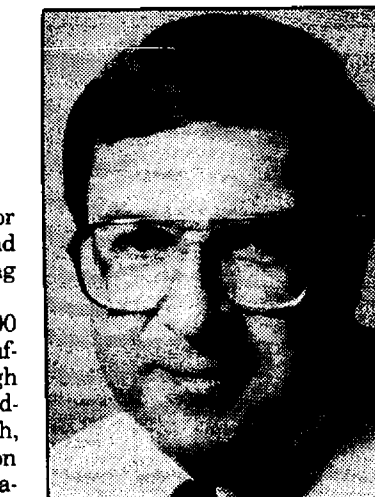

She also suggests that medical help be sought when someone loses consciousness after a head injury, or if headaches, memory problems or muscular weakness occurs later.

The walking wounded

People who have experienced mild head injuries and don't seek medical attention may risk joining the ranks of the "walking wounded."

Through her experience with rehabilitation patients, Mooney-Smith said that the signs of a mild head injury may not at first be apparent. However, repeated headaches, muscular weakness, speech problems or other symptoms may develop later.

Changes in memory patterns or problem-solving ability, increased irritability or the inability to get going could all be symptoms. She said that these people have been functioning fine all along and suddenly they just can't seem to get going. They can't seem to get to work and they can't seem to get themselves dressed or organized.

Always protect your head

It's important to remember that sudden traumas to the head can happen to anyone, anytime. Therefore, protective headgear should be worn at all times — whether you're practicing, competing or just pursuing the sport as a form of recreation.

When choosing a helmet, remember:

- It should meet the voluntary testing standards of either the American National Standards Institute, or the Snell Memorial Foundation. Look for a sticker on the inside of the helmet.
- Select a helmet that fits well and doesn't pinch.
- Use the adjustable pads at the front, back and sides of the helmet to ensure a proper fit.
- Wear the helmet correctly. It should cover the top of your forehead and not move back and forth with the strap in place.

CITY OF Grosse Pointe Woods, MICHIGAN

ON INCREASING PROPERTY TAXES

The City Council of the City of Grosse Pointe Woods will hold a public hearing at 7:30 p.m. on Monday, May 21, 1990 in the Council Chambers at the Municipal Building, 20025 Mack Plaza, the proposed 1990 tax levy for the said city.

In 1989 the City of Grosse Pointe Woods levied a total of 12.3420 mills ($12.3420 per $1,000 SEV) for the City's general operating fund; swimming pool bonds; park redevelopment bonds; and emergency medical services (advanced life support ambulance). In 1990 the City of Grosse Pointe Woods proposes to levy a total of 11.7395 mills ($11.7395 per $1,000 SEV) for the City's general operating fund; swimming pool bonds; park redevelopment bonds; emergency medical services (advanced life support ambulance); plus a new solid waste/recycling/disposal fund as provided by Michigan Statutes.

Due to an increase in the State Equalized Value of existing property, within the City of Grosse Pointe Woods, the State "Truth in Taxation" law (P.A. 5 of 1982) provides that the base tax rate for 1990 City should be decreased to an estimated 11.1919 mills. The "Headlee Amendment" currently limits city operating and solid waste taxes at 18.9199 mills.

To fund the City of Grosse Pointe Woods' proposed 1990-91 budget, to maintain the present level of service and to provide additional funds for curbside recycling, incineration and replacement of equipment, the City finds it necessary to restore a portion of its general fund operating reduction. An additional millage rate of .5476 mills ($.5476 per $1,000 SEV) is proposed above the estimated 1990 base operating tax rate. This represents an increase of 4.89% in property taxes (general fund operating, debt purpose, emergency medical service and solid waste/recycling/disposal fund) for the residential property owners of the City of Grosse Pointe Woods.

COMPARISON OF TAX LEVIES

General Operating Fund	10.7909 mills	7.6330 mills
Swimming Pool Bonds	.3908 mills	.3397 mills
Park Redevelopment Bonds	.6603 mills	.6081 mills
Emergency Medical Services	.5000 mills	.5000 mills
Solid Wastes/Recycling/Disposal Fund	0.0000 mills	2.6587 mills
TOTAL TAX LEVY	12.3420 mills	11.7395 mills

In accordance with P.A. 5 of 1982, the City of Grosse Pointe Woods has complete authority to establish the number of mills to be levied within its authorized millage as authorized by the City Charter, the electorate and/or Michigan Statutes.

Public comments, oral or written, are welcome at the public hearing on the proposed additional millage rate.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON INCREASING PROPERTY TAXES AND ON THE PROPOSED 1990-1991 CITY BUDGET

The City Council of the City of Grosse Pointe Farms will hold a Public Hearing at 7:30 p.m. on Monday, May 21, 1990 in the City Hall at 90 Kerby Road, on the proposed 1990 City tax levy and on the proposed 1990-1991 City Budget. The proposed Budget is on file in the Office of the City Clerk for public inspection during regular office hours, 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

The following is a summary of the proposed Budget:

GENERAL FUND

BUDGET ACCOUNTS

BUDGET ACCOUNTS	EXPENSE APPROPRIATION
Administrative.....	$ 647,810
Police.....	1,931,800
Fire.....	682,600
Public Service.....	221,850
Public Works.....	1,834,400
Recreation.....	400,000
Municipal Court.....	150,800
Sewage Pumping.....	421,000
Debt Service.....	165,160
Major & Extraordinary.....	418,580
General.....	817,000
Total Expenses.....	$ 7,691,000

FINANCING

Other Funds.....	$ 340,000
Estimated Revenue-State Shares Fine, Permits, License, Fees, etc.....	2,012,000
Surplus Appropriated.....	4,623,000
Total Financing.....	$ 7,691,000

PROPOSED TAX RATE - 10.75 per thousand - Based on Est. State Equalized Value of $430,000,000.

Last year (1989) the City levied 11.50 mills (11.50 per $1,000 SEV) for City operating purposes. Because of an estimated increase in the State Equalized Value of existing property in the City, state law (Act 5 of 1982) provides that the base rate for 1989 City operating tax rate be decreased to 10.26 mills ($10.26 per $1,000 SEV). This is 1.24 mills ($1.24 per $1,000 SEV) lower than the 1989 operating tax rate.

To fund the City's proposed 1990-1991 Budget, provide for Debt Service and to maintain the present level of City services, the City finds it necessary to increase its operating tax levy. An additional millage rate levy of .49 mills ($.49 cents per $1,000 SEV) is proposed above the 1990 base operating millage rate. This provides an estimate 4.78% increase in City operating tax revenues.

Public comments, oral or written are welcome at the Public Hearing on the proposed City Budget.

Corrections

Corrections will be printed on this page every week. If there is an error of fact in any story, call the newsroom at 882-0294.

In the write-up in last week's paper on incumbent Shores village trustee Patricia Galvin, her age should have been listed as 48.

The profile on Shores candidate Barbara Willett should have stated that she was a member of the Junior League of Detroit from 1978 to 1985. She served as the league's president from 1981 to 1982. She is employed full time as director of the Capital Campaign, which is raising $4.9 million for the Children's Center in Detroit.

Tim Sacka, a center-fielder for the North baseball team, should have been listed as an all-tourney player for his performance in the Alpena Tournament.

?????What Would You Like To Know?????

What if I have a story idea?

We welcome your ideas. Call our newsroom at 882-0294 if you have an idea for a story or something to report.

How can I get a print of a photo that appeared in the newspaper?

Photos taken by staff members are available for purchase for $5 for a 5 x 7 black and white. The photo that appeared in the paper is the only one available for sale.

A staffer may shoot a whole roll of film for a single event, but only one print is made of any published photo. We are unable to make extra copies. Therefore, if someone has come in and bought the photo you want, we're sorry that we won't be able to help you.

If the photo was submitted to us by someone else, it is that person's property and we are unable to give it to anyone else.

If it was taken by a professional photographer, a copy probably will be available for purchase directly through that person.

How can I receive mailed delivery and back issues of the newspaper?

Call our circulation department at 882-6900 to obtain current subscription rates.

Also call this number if you would like your address changed (temporarily or permanently), subscription service interrupted or discontinued.

Back issues are available at our office for up to one month prior to current publication date. Articles published before this period are available on microfiche at the Grosse Pointe Public Library.

How do I get an obituary in the newspaper?

If arrangements for the deceased are being handled locally, the funeral home will send us the information. The local funeral homes have our forms to fill out. Be sure to let the funeral director know that you want the obituary to appear in the Grosse Pointe News.

If the deceased is a former Grosse Pointer, you are welcome to come to the newsroom and fill out a form.

And we invite you to submit a photo, if you wish. It can be picked up after the notice has appeared in the paper. For more information, call Dan Jarvis at 882-0294.

This is your newspaper and we are here to serve you. Announcing your wedding, engagement, the birth of your baby or putting in an obituary is a service we offer the community and, therefore, we do not charge for printing your notice.

How about letters to the editor?

We welcome your opinion and we generally don't edit longer letters, because we want you to feel you have a proper forum. Keep in mind, however, that shorter letters are more widely read.

Sign your letter and include your name (printed), address and daytime phone number. We will withhold your name upon request only if there is a good reason, but you must still include your name and phone number.

How do I announce a wedding or engagement

We have forms for you to fill out. Our engagement and wedding form asks all the pertinent questions: who the bride and groom are, where and when the wedding takes place, what the bride's gown looks like, who the bridesmaids and groomsmen are, and so on. We also have a printed guide that will help you fill out the forms. Stop by our office and pick up the forms, or send a self-addressed, stamped business-size envelope to Feature Editor Margie Smith, and she'll send you the proper forms and the guide.

We require that at least one of the two people is either a Grosse Pointe resident, a former Grosse Pointe resident or a Harper Woods resident who lives or has lived in the Grosse Pointe school district.

Black and white photographs reproduce best, but sharp, clear color photos with lots of contrast are almost as good. We can't use Polaroids and we can't guarantee the quality of a reproduction of any photo. Questions? Call 882-0294.

How to send club news

You'd like the public to know about a forthcoming meeting of your club. Whether it's a women's afternoon bridge club, a support group for cancer victims or a social event for hang gliding grannies — we need the information in writing, preferably typed and double- or triple-spaced.

Flyers, invitations or announcements are not acceptable. The information must be in paragraph form. Perfection is not necessary, as we will probably edit and/or rewrite anyway.

Be sure to include the full, proper name of your club, the type of club or meeting it is, when it will take place, where it will take place and a phone number to call for readers who want more information. If there's a charge for the meeting, a special speaker, a dinner, a dress code or parking instructions, include these as well. Our policy is to avoid publishing addresses of private homes. Also include a phone number for us to call for more information, if it's different than the public number.

Because of space limitations, we have to confine our club news to groups that either meet in Grosse Pointe or that have a substantial number of members from Grosse Pointe.

You may submit a photo of your club if you wish, but these are used only as space permits. The best photos are black and white, contain a lot of contrast, and feature Grosse Pointers doing something besides lining up for the photographer. Photographs with five or fewer people are most effective.

How do I announce the birth of my child?

Send us the following information: name and sex of baby, date of birth, parents' names and city of residence, grandparents and great-grandparents (if any) and city. Call 882-0294 for more information.

How do I place a classified ad?

Simply call 882-6900 between the hours of 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, and one of our Classified Ad-visors will be happy to help you.

To place an ad in any other section of this newspaper, call 882-3500 and ask for our Retail Advertising Representative, who will help you in design, layout and the wording of any size ad you wish.
