Space seeds put down roots in earthly soil and grow

By Ronald J. Bernas Staff Writer When Bill Leleszi, a science teacher at Brownell Middle School, read that NASA was sending tomato seeds into space and then shipping them off to schools to use in science projects, he sent away for some.

That was six years ago. The seeds were originally supposed to be returned to Earth after only a year in space, but the Challenger disaster kept them in orbit longer than had been planned.

In April, when Leleszi received the seeds, he invited students to participate in the planting experiment. He asked them to create experiments and help gather the scientific data. They did.

The 75 space seeds and 75 control seeds were planted and fertilized and are growing

Some of the seeds didn't sprout, some did and died shortly thereafter. Some grew well, some didn't. But there appeared to be no trend as to which - the space seeds or the control - grew and which didn't.

They measured the height of the plant and the width of leaves and recorded the data for NASA.

Is there a difference between the space seeds and the land-locked seeds? Some of the kids think so.

"The space ones grew faster," said seventh-grader Nick Joseph.

And Leleszi said the sixth-graders think the space plants are softer and fuzzier.

The plants have yet to flower or produce fruit, but when they do, Leleszi is planning on having the space tomatoes analyzed, compared to the control tomatoes. Another experiment might be to plant the seeds of the space tomatoes and see what comes up.

Cynthia Fellman, manager of horticulture education at Frank's Nursery, donated sterilized soil to the project and is more pleased with the project than with the results.

"It's an interesting project, but its real purpose is to expose students to horticulture and it's doing that," she said. "They're excited about the project.

Leleszi plans to do experiments with more space seeds for the next three years.

Park designates $100,000 for battling City Airport

• See related story, page 4A

By John Minnis Assistant Editor

Putting its money where its opposition is, the Grosse Pointe Park City Council last week designated $100,000 for the fight against the proposed expansion of Detroit City Airport.

The council earmarked the money out of surplus funds in the proposed 1990-91 budget. A hearing on the budget and a new city property tax rate was held May 29.

Because the money for the airport expansion battle will come out of the cash reserves, the city's budget document will not require revising and the pro-posed tax rate will not have to be increased.

During the budget delibera-tions, resident Patrick Mc-Carroll, among the many airport opponents in attendance, requested that $100,000 be set aside for the airport fight. He suggested the money be used for an anti-airport lobbyist in Washington, D.C.

Councilman Dan Clark responded to McCarroll's request by stating that the Park will probably be the first of the Pointes to spend any real money on the airport fight, but he didn't think it would be responsible for the Park to enter a lawsuit alone against the airport. He said other communities may get a free ride on the Park foot-

Durant still in race

Senate hopeful Clark Durant survived a challenge to his campaign as the state Board of Canvassers upheld his petition signatures Tuesday. His campaign office said the vote by the canvassers was unanimous.

''I'm static," Dur-Durant ant said Tues-"The attorney day morning. general and the (elections board) made it very clear that the provision was unconstitutional.

"Twice they were asked for a recommendation and twice they recommended that I be put on the ballot."

Durant wasn't the only ecstatic one. A call to his campaign office a few minutes after the ruling came down found a passel of campaign workers cheering in the background.

"We're excited," said aide Lori Packer.

The signature stumbling block was noticed two weeks ago when an advisory opinion to state elections officials indicated that the petitions might not be valid. State regulations require at least 100 signatures from each of 20 counties, a requirement not met by the Durant campaign.

Durant actually collected

2,837 signatures more than required, but they were not distributed according to the rule. He met the 100-signature requirement in only 16 counties.

While insisting that the breadth of his petition signatures met the spirit of the law, Durant admitted that technically he didn't comply.

"Clearly there's a provision in the statute and we technically didn't meet it," he said Tuesday. "But it wasn't listed on any of the three sets of directions from the Secretary of State.'

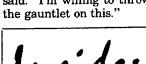

The campaign projected optimism throughout the wait for the ruling. "We don't think there's a problem," said campaign manager Wendy Lamb last week.

Lamb said she expected the commission to rule in favor of Durant, but if they didn't, the campaign would appeal to the Federal District Court.

"The case law is quite clear that signature requirements are unconstitutional, except for aggregate numbers," she said. The rule has never been challenged in Michigan, but it has in other states.

"We sent in more signatures than we needed, with 61 counties represented." The campaign collected 9,582 signatures, almost 3,000 more than the 6,945 required.

The requirement was not listed on the information sent to candidates by the state, Lamb

Grosse Pointe Cable to move to Park

By Dan Jarvis Staff Writer

Grosse Pointe Cable announced that the company will move its commercial operations into Grosse Pointe Park.

John Rickel, chairman, president and treasurer of Grosse Pointe Cable, said the company has just purchased the 13,000square-foot Hood Sail Building on Charlevoix in Grosse Pointe Park.

The commercial operations and local origination cable studio was previously located in the Seven Mack Shopping Center, but due to contruction of Pointe Plaza at the same location, the company had to seek another location.

The War Memorial recently announced plans to house the non-profit local origination cable studio on the property it just bought next door to the center.

The engagement announcement for Mary Fisher and John F. Hickey Jr., which appeared on page 7B in the May 24 issue, should have said Fisher is the granddaughter of Mrs. Charles T. Fisher Jr. of Grosse Pointe and the late Charles T. Fisher Jr.

The story on the Grosse Pointe Shores 1990-91 budget should have said the new village tax rate was set at 13.74 mills, which is the equivalent of $13.74 per $1,000 in assessed value.

Due to an editing error in last week's "Woods colonial color rule" story, two lines of type were inadvertently switched. The paragraphs should have read: The problem for Wakely may come when a merchant wants to repaint with a similar color manufactured by a different company.

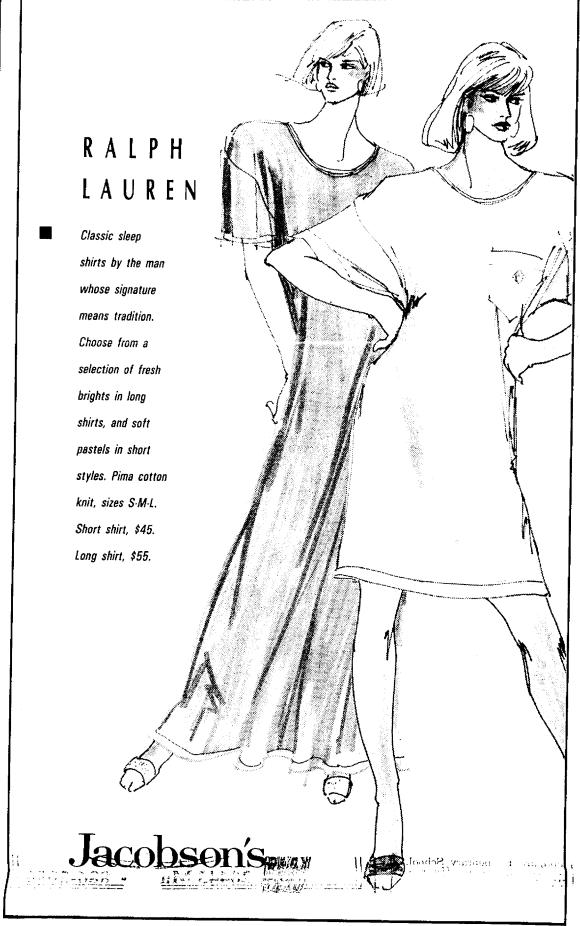

"If someone wants to paint their store with a different brand and the color comes close, I may be able to approve it. I'm not really sure," Wakely said."It hasn't been put to the test yet."

According to the building fronts amendment, all painting or repainting "shall conform to the Early Americana chart which is on file with the office of the building inspector.'

Boat upset

Two men, 27, were dunked Saturday, May 26, when a bigger boat ran past their 14-foot outboard and swamped it. The men, from East Detroit and Mount Clemens, fell out in shallow water and were able to wade ashore. The driver of the big boat didn't stop.
The Coast Guard retrieved their boat, floating upside down 100 yards offshore. The men were uninjured. Shores police took them to Nine Mile and Jefferson to reclaim their boat.

Con artists work Park, area with a variety of scams By John Minnis

Assistant Editor

Along with the warm weather comes an annual event that's not quite so pleasant: scam artists preying on residents, particularly the elderly.

Grosse Pointe Park received several reports of attempted scams recently and one successful so-called "gypsy scam" where the $400 was taken from a home.

On a couple of other occasions, a caller contacted residents saying he was a relative and needed money in a hurry. The caller often coaxes the name of a relative out of the resident and plays upon the information.

On May 28, a resident in the 1300 block of Maryland was approached by two dark-complected men who said they had a rebate for the resident on some construction work she had done recently. The suspects said they needed change for a $100 bill, and the resident went to where she had cash and made the change for the men. The con artists then distracted the woman and took $400.

In East Detroit recently, according to Park police, a con artist called a resident there and claimed to be a relative who needed money immediately to prevent from being physically hurt or worse. In many cases the caller asks that the money be dropped off at a location in De-

In the East Detroit case, the East Detroit police did make one arrest recently, but it was an attentive neighbor that called police, not the intended victim.

Park Lt. David Hiller said the East Detroit victim was ready to give the con men money when police arrived. He had no idea he was being conned. A neighbor across the street didn't like the looks of what was going on and called police.

In another East Detroit case, a resident paid to have his roof sealed with a special paint that was said to forever prevent leaking. Police investigated and found the special sealant to be nothing but standard latex paint.

tempts in Detroit, the residents did the right thing by asking for water department identification. In one case, the resident saw two children waiting in the so-called water department employees'

The variety of scams are limited only to the imaginations of the con artists. Some of their techniques have included the call from a relative, sealing roofs and driveways, completing construction work or giving rebates and posing as utility employees.

In all the cases, the cons want you to give them cash or let them in your home.

Hiller said it appears that several families work an area at one time and then quickly move on before authorities can catch them. He said they like to prey were reported in Detroit's 9th on older people because they can be more easily confused or distracted.

Park throws down gauntlet on the airport

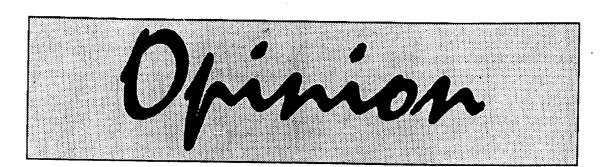

rosse Pointe's battle against the proposed expansion of Detroit City Airport took on a new dimension last week when the Grosse Pointe Park City Council designated $100,000 to support the opposition effort.

With the councils of the five Pointe governments previously having contributed $25,000 to finance a consultant's study of the problem, the Park action offers additional evidence of official support for the growing community campaign against an airport expansion that is increasingly seen as a threat to the Pointes' highly prized quality of life.

In supporting the request of the City Airport Opposition Association for the additional funds, Mayor Palmer Heenan no doubt spoke on behalf of the residents of his city when he said:

"If the other communities don't get on board, all the Grosse Pointes are going to lose. I'm willing to throw down the gauntlet on this."

The growing evidence of Grosse Pointe opposition came as the Detroit dailies reported on Detroit Mayor Coleman Young's continuing annoyance with any suburban opposition to his airport plan as well as new evidence that the cost of the project will be far in excess of early Detroit estimates.

The mayor counterattacked, branding his critics as people "repelled by progress" and again repeating the ugly charge that the airport opposition is rooted in "racism." Apparently nobody, and especially no one from any suburb, can have an honest difference of opinion with the mayor without being called a "racist" or being found guilty of "Detroit-bashing."

Asked by the Free Press about the Grosse Pointe opponents, Young reportedly replied that they are fighting progress, too, and then added, in his own Grosse Pointebashing remarks, "They're in the wrong century. They were born too late."

Young again bashed airport critics at the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce's annual conference last week but was given a verbal spanking by the Free Press for accusing some of his foes of "racial prejudice (or at least a lack of foresight) and publicly questioning the intelligence of other elected officials."

As for the airport costs, earlier estimated at $630 million, chiefly in federal and state funds, the Free Press reported that a draft environmental report cited a series of potential environmental problems that would cost additional millions to clean up.

Among the structures in the airport expansion path, according to the draft report, are 161 storage tanks, many of which still could be dribbling substances into the soil; dozens of houses in the airport expansion route that have asbestos insulation; two metal-plating companies that generate hazardous waste, and a third company that treats, stores or disposes of hazardous wastes.

The $10 million environmental cost estimate in the report was regarded as extremely low, especially in view of the $28 million cost of the removal of contaminated soil from the site of the Chrysler plant on Jefferson that was almost 10 times the original estimate.

Detroit Councilman Mel Ravitz, a foe of the airport expansion plan, escalated the cost estimate to perhaps $1 billion, "when this thing is finished, including the removal of polluting substances," he told the Free Press.

But the City Airport Opposition Association, the Grosse Pointe citizens group, had the week's last word when Theresa Klaasen, an organization spokesperson, was widely quoted with this telling statement:

"Yes, there is a need for more air facilities, but that does not mean that those facilities need to be located in densely populated urban areas."

All in all, the campaign of opposition to the airport has generated more interest from the residents of the community as well as from elected city, state and federal representatives than any other issue that has involved the Pointes since the early 1980s controversy over school building closings.

And perhaps, as in that case, Grosse Pointe's public opinion will eventually prevail.

Now a non-comeback state?

ov. James Blanchard won some praise for his performance at the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce's annual conference at Mackinac Island last week, but two new reports from more objective sources cast new doubts on his third term quest.

One report showed that Michigan's unemployment rate for May rose to 7.7 personal cefit while the ration's jobless rate in the ration's jobless rate in the other report said that the state administration has asked state employees to cut their work hours to help reduce a $250-million budget deficit.

Among the 11 largest industrial states, Michigan once again showed up with the highest unemployment in May and, in fact, its 7.7 percent figure was more than 1 percentage point higher than the runner-up, Texas, which had a 6.5 percent rate.

The explanation for Michigan's continuing high rate is that the number of jobs grew in May but the number of people looking for jobs grew even faster.

The cut in working hours by state employees was proposed after analysts and budget officials predicted a deficit of more than $250 million in the state's $7.6-billion budget unless drastic reductions in spending can be made or new revenues found.

State Budget Director Shelby Solomon's recommendation was for a 3.5 percent reduction in all state programs except education, but the early legislative proposals to deal with the deficit took different routes.

The Senate Fiscal Agency proposed that the state raid its $383-million "rainy day" fund to avoid a deficit while the House Fiscal Agency offered a budget-balancing plan that would defer $57 million in payments to colleges and universities until the next fiscal year opens.

Whatever plan finally is adopted, it is clear that the state once again is in fiscal trouble and that the claim that it was the "comeback state" is no longer applicable. That's hardly good news for a governor seeking his third term.

More room at the very top?

rom all reports, the Bush-Gorbachev summit ended in a riot of good feeling, a batch of minor agreements but no shifts by the two superpowers in their differences over the nagging problems of Germany and Lithuania.

It also raised the serious question as to whether, in view of the Soviet Union's in-the list of 127 names of people who attended President Bush's dinner for President Gorbachev last week to learn not only who was there but who was not there.

Gorby's 'gang'

We found, for example, no labor union executives, no American workers and no real dirt farmers, although quite a few wives of other guests were present.

Michigan was represented by Harold Poling, Ford Motor Co. chairman; Rep. William S. Broomfield, ranking GOP member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, and Max Fisher, Detroit financier and GOP supporter.

Gorby had brought his own claque from Moscow with no fewer than 13 other Soviet officials listed as guests. But George Bush had an even larger claque on hand: Washington's top 25 to 35 political figures.

When the Gorby show moved on to Minneapolis, almost 150 business, trade and farm representatives took center stage, and in San Francisco it was more of the same.

Truly, Gorby seems to have got it about right, appealing to politicians in Washington and businessmen in the rest of the country in his search for a market economy.

creasingly serious economic plight, the USSR even qualifies any longer as a superpower and whether, heaven forbid, the newly united Germany is about to become Europe's newest superpower.

In fact, the issue of which European power is entitled to a future seat at the superpower table was one of the major questions left unanswered at the summit.

It was obvious, however, from the news media reports that a good time was had by all, not only in Washington but in Minneapolis and San Francisco as well, that President Gorbachev did win some U.S. concessions on trade matters but that even those minor concessions still await the ratification of a possibly balky Congress.

Still remaining for possible disposition at future summits are those questions of whether the Soviet Union will agree to membership in NATO for a newly united Germany and whether the USSR can work out some compromise to satisfy the demands of Lithuanians and their Baltic neighbors for independence.

In fact, it may be that Gorbachev and company won more benefits for the Soviet economy from the private deals they were seeking from eager U.S industrialists than the government concessions they got from the not-quite-so-eager Bush administration.

In Washington, Minneapolis and San Francisco, the emphasis was on the government aid and the private capital that the USSR now is trying to attract not only from the United States but the rest of the free world.

If the hints of deals to come are ever consummated in any numbers, the summit will have been well worth Gorbachev's effort, but whether it will be prove to have been meaningful for U.S. business and other investors obviously awaits the judgment of time and the Soviet bureaucracy.

Enjoy your trip

I write as a resident of Grosse Pointe Woods and as an owner of a business occupying 360 front feet on Grinnell Avenue. Our company and others in the area employ 1,300 real people.

I wish to apologize to Mr. Stanton (writer of May 24th) and others of like mind who are inconvenienced by having to drive an extra 20 minutes to Detroit Metro. How selfish of me to want to only spend 25 minutes driving to work five or six days per week.

Contrary to newspaper talk, condemnation is not the road to riches. The city will try to steal our properties. I and other owners will have to spend countless unpaid hours in public meetings, conferences with attorneys and consulting with real estate people. And then we will be extremely lucky to receive sufficient money to replace our businesses. Enjoy your next trip to Key Biscayne, Mr. Stanton.

Soccer coverage To the Editor:

Disappointment is an understatement with regard to Mr. Fulton's article about the North and South girls' district soccer game. The article did not reflect the high caliber of play which both teams displayed throughout this extremely competitive

Instead of focusing on the game itself, it focused on the negative aspects of the refereeing. Granted the referee played a significant role in the outcome of the game, but as a player I would have preferred Mr. Fulton highlight-and spirited match.

After reading the article, I wondered if Mr. Fulton had actually watched the game because his article totally disregarded what happend on the field.

North's first goal and South's two goals demonstrated excellent soccer skills and athleticism; both teams played outstanding defense. However, these aspects of the contest were barely mentioned. The strong effort that both teams put forth went unrecognized.

The match between North and South proved how well girls can compete athletically. The game resulted in a heartbreaking loss for South and a thrilling victory for North, but nobody would have realized that from the article. I think the teams deserve some credit.

In the future, I hope Mr. Fulton focuses on important events of the games rather than the side issues.

The good old days

If I'm having fun reading the Reflections y'all are sending in for our upcoming anniversary issue, just imagine how much you're going to enjoy it. After all, they're your memories.

It's kind of interesting to realize that many people's nostalgia is centered around places. Businesses, for instance. Lots of you are remembering Francois' and Schettler's and the Punch and Judy Bar. There must have been some great happenings at those places, but none of you are telling that part.

I remember other places, from a town in Ohio, but the memories are the same kind.

I remember Benny's. Benny had a little candy store sunk into a hill on Mayfield Road. He once saved my friend Sally from choking on a Milk Dud.

And Conner's. They had handpacked homemade ice cream. My father always took us there to celebrate after-school concerts.

Instead of a pine woods (remembered so fondly by many of you), we had a swamp. There was a field where we built forts (another favorite Grosse Pointe kid pastime). Instead of Fox Creek, we had a little stream flowing out of a covered drain in the park. Our mothers, too, worried about the polio threat, but we sailed a wooden cement-mixing "boat" in it, nevertheless.

Seems like life was slower in those days and kids had more free time. Don't you love hearing fact. I mean, somebody from about ice-skating on the lake and horse-drawn milkwagons and outhouse-tipping? The greater the difference from what we know now, the more we wrap our fingers in those memories.

We all believe we grew up in the best possible time and place. It's just hometown chauvinism, only partly based on tangible Oklahoma once asked me if it was boring growing up in Ohio.

The same kinds of changes that hit Grosse Pointe in the '50s and '60s came to my town too. Now all the empty land is "developed" and the late congresswoman's estate is the world headquarters of a major aerospace corporation.

What will our children remember about their hometowns? It's hard to imagine them spinning yarns about three-story office-retail buildings. They'll remember malls, though, just as our grandparents remember public squares.

Most contemporary towns follow trends so slavishly that it isn't easy to pick out anything distinctive or memorable. The buildings look alike and vacant land (if any) is guarded or fenced or manicured out of any possibility of fort-building.

Where are the Lloyd's Dairy Bars (a dog-eared, mucky-booted, long-gone favorite in my current hometown) - and how much room is there in modern hustle for a real-life diner like Janet's

This is just as true of Grosse Pointe as any place - watch out for the homogenizing influence of design and color ordinances like the one the Woods just adopted.

Grosse Pointe kids will remember the playfields and the parks. Everybody always remembers ice cream shops (what is it about ice cream?)

If it were I, I'd remember skateboarding or fishing in the Delphine Channel. Or pranks, like the time the kids carried the cafeteria tables up to the attic at South. Maybe they'll have boating memories. For sure, they'll remember Nintendo, no matter where they grew up.

Whatever the memories, they'll treasure them, just as we do ours. Join us on June 28 for a nostalgia-fest.

History rewritten

To the Editor:

The article "Mariners' Inn plans benefit for homeless" (5/24/90) rewrites history by adding 75 years to its work. Mariners' Inn was not "founded in 1842 to provide lodging for working seamen' as the article states.

In fact, Mariners' Church of Detroit was founded in 1842 by the will of Julia Anderson; incorporated by the Michigan Legislature in 1848, Act 142, which has neither been amended nor repealed; and the beautiful gothic building, now on Jefferson Avenue in the Civic Center, was consecrated in 1849.

It was over 75 years later, in 1925, that the Detroit Protestant Episcopal City Mission Society was organized, with its office headquartered at Old Mariners' Church. By 1934, a building on Griswold Street owned by the Trustees of Mariners' Church was refitted as an Inn, where lodging, food, and clothing were provided for the poor. This building was destroyed in 1955 when the Ford Auditorium was built, and the Episcopal Diocese of Michigan relocated Mariners' Inn in the Cass Corri-

These facts are set forth in the history of "Old Mariners' Church" written by Dr. William A. Coles, former professor at the University of Michigan, as well as in numerous documents on public record.

Mariners' Inn, operated by the Episcopal Diocese, is to be congratulated for its fine work to provide for the physical needs of the poor.

As a new member of Mariners' Church of Detroit, I am most thankful to have found the spiritual enrichment of this traditional Anglican church and the fellowship of other parishioners who glorify God through Jesus Christ in our beautiful worship services.

Apples should not be confused with oranges. Man does not live by bread alone. Mariners' Church of Detroit is not Mariners' Inn.

Critiques critic To the Editor:

Please, please get yourself another movie critic.

Come on, "Cadillac Man" worthwhile? There were so many four-letter words flying around in this picture Robin Williams never got a chance to be funny. However, the review was right on target when it mentioned this film may not appeal to everyone, because after one hour I left the theater and regretted wasting $11 in the name of entertainment.

Yes, violence was mentioned, but the "verbal pollution" was just as offensive, and that was never mentioned. If I sound angry, I am. If this movie is a box-office hit, there is certainly something to be said about the taste (or should I say lack of) of the general public.

From now on I'll get my movie information from another paper, thank you.

Grateful for support

To the Editor:

Thank you, Grosse Pointe: The Grosse Pointe War Memorial Association's Board of Directors appreciates your overwhelming support and enthusiasm of the association's acquisition of the adjacent property and residence at 40 Lakeshore. We are confident that it will enable the War Memorial to continue to provide enriching opportunities for our entire community.

For many years, additional space has been a priority and part of the association's Long-Range Strategic Plan. It is well known that the War Memorial has been seeking additional facilities in the community none were anywhere near as appropriate as this one.

The land is contiguous and the existing house is readily adaptable to many selected activities and projected needs of the Center. The funds for the purchase were allocated by the Board of Directors from the proceeds of our sucessful Capital Funds Drive and endowment.

Proposed plans include eliminating access from Lakeshore and increasing the landscape barrier that screens our residential neighbors from activity at the center.

We have also initiated and will continue discussion with members of the Grosse Pointe Farms City Council regarding zoning and our desire to meet all needs and concerns of the community in the acquisition of this property.

The addition of this property and residence will enhance your community center just as the addition of the Fries Ballroom and Auditorium did in 1964 and the addition of the Art Wing did in 1976.

Some of the ideas that we have received from members of the community include a guest room for visiting dignitaries and lecturers; an additional site for small classes, meetings and conferences; an art exhibit area, and a site for the non-profit, local origination community programming for cable television (rather than build onto the Alger House). The possibilities are numerous, and your continuing suggestions for use of the house and grounds that will best serve the needs and interests of all Grosse Pointe are welcomed.

The War Memorial is an organization that makes this community truly unique, and we are certain that this acquisition will preserve and enhance the quality of life for all Grosse Pointe residents.

Thanks for your continuing support and interest.

Cheers or jeers

To the Editor:

As a woman, feminist and a full-time mother of three, I was disgusted by Margie Reins Smith's op ed piece of May 31, "Grow up girls."

It is incredible at best that Ms. Smith believes that the women of Mills College got their way by "crying and whining" to the board of trustees. What the women of Mills College did was to threaten publicly to shut the institutuion down if it went

I doubt they expected to accomplish this by drowning the school with their tears. It was the media that chose to focus of women crying and sobbing. I'm sure with a little effort the press could have found a few individuals to speak to them.

Smith chooses to adhere to the "blame the victim" syndrome in her nasty little article. She seems to disagree with the premise of all girls' schools fostering leadership. Does she also believe that all black colleges and universities have no place in our culture?

The crime of the women's movement has been to emulate male modes of behavior as acceptable and condemn traditionally "female" ones (crying and whining).

There is nothing wrong with crying, Ms. Smith, not even on national television. I have seen many a male athlete shed tears over a lost football or baseball game, something far less important in the scheme of things than a lost way of life.

The women of Mills College deserve our cheers, not our jeers, for accomplishing their goal of reversing the trustees' decision.

As for Joan Rivers, if she is a woman to emulate, we as women are in big trouble. Jessica Daher

Grosse Pointe Park Youth Corps

To the Editor:

I want to commend Senator John Kelly for his recent vote to support jobs for unemployed youth in this summer's Michigan Youth

Senator Kelly believes in keeping his promise to our young people. With your readers' support, the Senate proposal will be rejected following further debate in the Michigan legislature.

Great lakes

To the Editor:

The Great Lakes are a valuable natural resource to the 40 million people who live along their shores and the 26 million who rely on the lakes for daily drinking water. Protecting and preserving the Great Lakes for future generations should be an environmental priority for all of us.

On Thursday, June 14, at 6:30 p.m., the Great Lakes Forum will present a conference at the Detroit Yacht Club titled, "The Great Lakes For The Year 2000: Metro Detroit's Environmental Role."

Lecturers from governmental agencies, the legislature and environmental organizations will address the issues of toxicity levels in the Great Lakes and municipal sewer over-flow.

The Grosse Pointe Branch of the American Association of University Women (AAUW) encourages residents in the Great Lakes area to attend this conference. Additional information about the conference and environmental issues relating to the Great Lakes is available by calling the Great Lakes Forum at 542-4180.

Imprimatur?

To the Editor:

While some believe that the War Memorial's recent acquisition of the John C. Griffin estate was a positive move for that institution, I, along with many of my immediate neighbors, am deeply concerned with further expansion of the War Memorial into the residential neighborhood.

Why was it necessary for the War Memorial to deceive Mr. Griffin by using an intermediary to purchase the home? How are the immediate neighbors supposed to respond to the War Memorial's representations about being "good neighbors" when they can't even deal candidly with their last next door neighbor, Mr. Griffin?

Obviously, the War Memorial has had some very successful fundraisers to allow them to spend $1.4 million for this residence, but, interestingly, they purchased this property without the purchase being subject to their ability to rezone same from "residential" to "community service."

That poses a very interesting question: Did the War Memorial already have the blessing of the mayor and the council before the purchase and, if so, don't the mayor and the council owe it to the citizens to have an open meeting to determine if this residential property should be rezoned?

If the rezoning is approved, does this mean that what was previously a heavily taxed piece of property will now become a tax-free piece of property when everyone else's property taxes are increasing?

Most importantly, what will the War Memorial do with this residential home? In informal meetings with representatives of the War Memorial and what I have read in this, and other, news articles I am advised that part of the home may be used for a cable TV studio to produce and distribute programs for Grosse Pointe Cable TV. This type of activity is surely commercial in nature, especially when one notes that the War Memorial is a large shareholder in that entity.

The mayor has apparently suggested that it would be a nice place to hold the Mayor's Breakfasts and also a convenient location for visiting dignitaries to spend the night. When was the last time Grosse Pointe Farms hosted a visiting dignitary who required overnight lodging? Again, it at least appears the mayor has already 're-zoned" this home.

When one really examines the uses of this residence, one can envision parties in the home, wedding receptions on the lawn, etc. This equates to more traffic, more commercialization and, rest assured, a revisit to the War Memorial's attempt to obtain a public liquor license. While the War Memorial has indicated that this home will serve as a "buffer" to the neighbors, the only way it can do so is if it stays as a residential home - not an annex of the War Memorial.

While the War Memorial serves a wonderful function in this community, it does a disservice to the community to expand into the residential community by purchasing residential homes. Further, how can we be sure of the War Memorial's intentions when they are not even forthright in their purchase of this home?

I would hope that the mayor and the Farms council would keep in mind that this is a residential area before giving their imprimatur to rezoning and further expansion by the War Memorial.

High winds down power wires, trees over weekend

The Grosse Pointes weren't struck by a tornado last week, but they sure did look like it.

Public works departments and Detroit Edison crews worked feverishly Sunday night and Monday to clear away uprooted trees and restore power.

Throughout the Pointes, police began receiving reports of downed wires and trees at about noon Sunday, June 3, and continuing into the early morning hours Monday.

Grosse Pointe City alone received 18 calls of wires down and power outages and numerous reports of downed trees and limbs. The Woods received some 14 reports of wires down, and the Farms had some 18 calls of wires down and many downed trees or limbs.

The Shores received little damage, with only a few reports of downed limbs. Many alarms were set off in the Shores and throughout the Pointes due to the high winds.

As power was restored to Farms residents at about 1:30 p.m. Monday, fire and security alarms kept the police department phone ringing constantly and made work hectic for dispatcher Katie Harrison as she worked to sort out the calls.

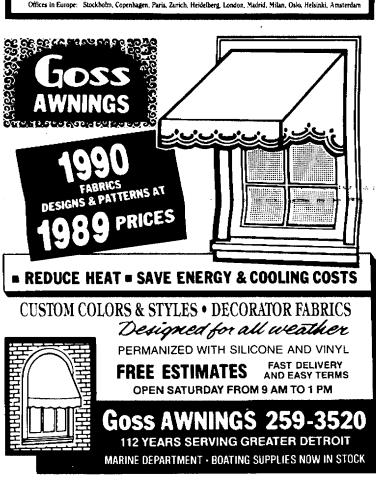

The Farms did put out one fire over the weekend, but not of a Fire Sgt. James Mauck said a wind-downed tree on Lakeview had knocked down a power line Sunday morning. A fire utility truck and a Michigan Bell truck were at the scene. The power line, however, came down on the fire and Bell trucks, causing one of the firefighters to bail out of the truck.

The power line then started a fire on the back of the telephone company's truck, which the firefighter helped extinguish after jumping from the fire rig.

One Lakeview family in the Farms lost its nome. After the wind snapped off a major tree limb, a family of raccoons looked around somewhat bewildered as the roof over its head was suddenly gone.

In the Park, Al Lenneman of the 1100 block of Nottingham was standing at his front door when he heard a sharp breaking noise and saw his sidewalk starting to buckle. He looked up and saw the large elm tree in front of his house falling toward him. He said he ran out the back door before the tree crashed onto the house.

Youth ticketed for pouring beer on police car

A 22-year-old Utica man was ticketed for littering May 3 after he admitted to pouring beer on a Grosse Pointe Woods police car. At 1:47 a.m., a Woods officer observed three young men walking in front of a Woods restaurant and one of the men hastily threw a beer can under a police car that was parked there.

When the officer circled around and investigated, he found foaming beer on the trunk lid and rear window of his fellow officer's car. While questioning the men, the Utica man apologetically admitted he had poured the beer on the car.

Kidnap foiled

A Woods public safety officer was on patrol May 30 when two cars sped by him at 2:30 a.m. The driver in pursuit was flashing his lights, blowing his horn and waving his arm to get the officer's attention.

The officer chased both cars, which were weaving in and out of lanes, until he stopped them at the St. John Hospital entrance drive.

A woman leaped out of the first car, saying the driver had pulled her inside. She said she had been in a restaurant parking lot near Eight Mile and Gratiot when he waved her over to his car. As she got close, he allegedly pulled her inside by the throat.

Meanwhile, the driver, a Detroit man, was shouting at the officer: "She jumped in my car! She jumped in my car!"

The driver of the second car said he was with the woman at the restaurant. They were leaving to get a room at a hotel when he saw her dragged into the car, he told police.

Woods police arrested the first man, towed his car, and ticketed him for reckless driving. Then they turned him over to Detroit police.

Would-be burglar caught in Park

A suspect attempting a forced entry into the rear of a home in the 900 block of Nottingham was arrested by Park police May 27.

The burglary attempt was reported to police, who responded and found the suspect in the alley. He was dentified by wit-1108808

While the damage looked bad, Lenneman said he may have lucked out. He said that he may be able to get by with replacing the porch roof and fixing cracks in the plaster ceiling at the front of the house. He pointed out that a new sidewalk had been put in front of his house, and speculated that during the work, the tree's roots had been cut, which weakened its foothold.

Another elm was uprooted on Beaconsfield south of Jefferson in the Park and fell onto a house. The damage did not appear to be extensive.

Wind gusts reached up to 50 mph Sunday, causing power outages throughout the Detroit area. Late Monday and early Tuesday, the power company was finishing up restoring power and city public works employees were continuing the cleanup. As of Tuesday morning, 400 houses in the Pointes were still without power, according to Detroit Edison spokesman Marty Bufalini.

Kerby School's fourth-graders have some promising playwrights in their midst. The 10 students in Judy Schroeder's Flights I reading group have written and produced a play, which they are preparing to present to the fourth- and fifth-graders at the school. After reading "My Brother Sam is Dead," a historical novel about the Revolutionary War, the students each took a chapter and re-wrote it into a script. The children have been working on the play during their regular reading periods and will present it on Friday, June 8, at 10 a.m. The authors are front row from left, Willie Glass, John Kurap, Garrett Heffner, Kenny Schmidt, Matt Rudnick, and back row from left, Judy Schroeder, Maya Rhodes, Shannon Giroux, Lisa Fortuna, Mike Koueiter and Kevin Hall.

Public schools to offer summer academy

What if there were no music in the world? What if Lake Michigan dried up? What if up and down were reversed? Students interested in solving problems such as these can do so in the Grosse Pointe Public Schools' Summer Academy for the 21st

The Academy, an imaginative, experimental summer school offering, will run from June 25 through July 26 at Grosse Pointe North High School. Enrollment is open to all qualified 7th through 12th graders.

"The program's objectives arparticipants to stretch their minds and creatively pursue an area of great interest to them," said Eva Koch, Grosse Pointe South English teacher.

Opportunities will be available for students to develop, design or complete an extensive project to present in a symposium or to use in a 1990-91 high school or college class. They will be able to ments, plan a city, write, produce and perform in a musical play, design, write and produce a magazine, or create a portfolio of creative writing or art.

Students will have the opportunity to work with some of Grosse Pointe's best teachers and students, utilizing library facilities, multimedia resource centers and labs.

The first meeting of the Academy will be held Monday, June 25, at 10 a.m. in Room B211-216 conduct their own science experi- at North High School. Subsequent meeting times and hours will be determined. Tuition is $130 for Grosse Pointe residents, $195 for non-residents.

The Summer Academy for the 21st Century is partially supported by a grant from the Foundation for Academic Enrichment. Application forms are available at both North and South high schools. For more information about the program, call Eva Koch, Grosse Pointe South High

Nintendo World

I was playing one of my Nintendo games (1942) on a cold, rainy Saturday night. The sound of the plane firing missiles really made me feel like I was inside of it, but in my case all Nintendo games make me feel like that. Only this time the feeling seemed even more real than I had ever imagined it.

I looked around for a moment and realized I wasn't in the TV room playing Nintendo anymore; I was inside the Nintendo! Don't worry, I didn't die (in Nintendo World you can never die; the game player just thinks so).

Whenever you die in a Nintendo game, you get zapped into a different one. I got zapped into Super Mario Brothers 2 after I died in 1942. "I hope the guy who is playing this game is a pro," I said to myself. Because when you die in a Nintendo game you may still be alive, but you get a heck of a lot of bruises!

Well anyway, here is what happened to me while I was in Super Mario Brothers. I was walking along the grass when all of a sudden an enormous bird starts to chase me! I thought it was all over, but luckily this game player knew what he was doing, so I got out of that problem but there was only a trillion more to come!

mind, and that rarely ever happened. I thought since I've won this game before, maybe I could give this kid a few pointers. Not OUT!

John Fitzgerald Jr.

only would that help the kid win the game, it would also get me back to the real world! (In the Nintendo Rule Book, it specifically states that once a game player has won the game, you are stuck in, you are set free back to the time and place you were at when you were sucked into the Nintendo, as if no time has passed and you will have no memory of this experience.) If you don't believe me, then look

It is on page 234,678, third paragraph, lines 4-8. About 4 1/2 hours later, this kid was on the last board, thanks to all my helpful hints. All he had to do now was to defeat the last enemy boss and win the game.

I love the sound of that word "WIN," don't you? Now instead of telling you all of the gruesome events during the last battle, and I mean last, I'll tell you the outcome of it all. The stupid little brat killed me because his parents were going to take him to Major Magics, and they couldn't just wait one more second. Then he would have won, I'd be free, and the little squirt Then an idea popped into my could go to Major Magics. Then everyone's happy, right? WRONG! I'm still stuck in this little box - somebody get me

His youngest son, Scott, 16, is a sophomore at Grosse Pointe South. Oldest son Rick, 22, is following in his father's footsteps, majoring in industrial education at Central Michigan University. Middle son Marty, 20, is also at CMU and planning a career in advertising and art. His wife, Sandy, is employed at Grosse Pointe's Poupard Elementary in Harper Woods teaching firstgrade, the most important grade, Van Almen said.

He earned a bachelor's degree in industrial education from Bowling Green University in Ohio. He taught a couple of years in Bay Village, Ohio, and then came to the Detroit area to get a master's degree in industrial education. He said he intended to get the degree and move back to Ohio, but in 1968 he finished the course work and never made it back to the Buckeye State.

Van Almen, whose work is more than just a job, has strong views on education and America's global competition, particularly against Japan.

He points out — as Chrysler Chairman Lee Iacocca has been doing - that U.S. high school seniors are already four years behind their Japanese counterparts. The school year here is 180 days, whereas in Japan students attend school 240 days a year, Van Almen said. The 60day difference over 12 years of school means the Japanese have had four years worth of more schooling than our kids.

"They're beating us by 60 days every year," Van Almen solve problems with technology said. "We've got to realize we're short-changing our kids. We're they are required to make rings not giving them enough days."

Almen said he would like to see the school year lengthened through them. What is learned "We're in trouble in this country if we don't schedule more school days," he said.

He also believes technical education can be beneficial to everyone and would like to see it become more than an elective in most schools. Why? First, technology is something we all face every day, and second, the problem-solving skills necessary in industrial/technological settings can be used for problem solving in all occupations.

"The idea is to teach these kids to think of the future." he said.

All his students say they want to go to college, he said, but many for one reason or another won't be able to. Especially for them, learning technology, gaining a skill, is important.

His concern for education isn't limited to the classroom. He is also on a 10-teacher, 10-engineer panel through General Motors Chevrolet-Pontiac-Canada group to coordinate industry's needs with education.

Van Almen has also served on a technical education strategic planning committee for the Grosse Pointe school district.

Also in Grosse Pointe, he is involved in baseball this year, though not as a coach. He is currently trying to raise funds for the local traveling baseball teams for boys and girls.

It costs $125 to $150 per player in the Mickey Mantle and Connie Mack divisions for boys ages 15 to 18. The goal of the fundraisers is to subsidize each player's cost so that it won't cost the players more than $50 or $75 each to participate. Contributions, from individuals or businesses, must be made out to the Neighborhood Club.

Those who would like to help out the fast pitch leagues for girls 14-and-under, 16-and-under and 18-and-under should also make out donations to the Neighborhood Club. Be sure to identify the contribution for "Summer Fast Pitch Softball."

Van Almen said sports are good and necessary. Everything in this country is competitive, he said, whether it's on the playfield, in the classroom or in the workplace.

"Education's got to be competitive, just like athletics," he said. "It's now a global competition for our kids.'

Health fair scheduled June 9

Her red-wing summer is for the birds

Staff Writer

Some people might think that summer spent traipsing through the swamps of Alberta, Canada, is for the birds.

Take, for instance, the summer occupation of Grosse Pointe North graduate Linda Whittinham. She has just received grants from Canada and the United States to study the redwinged blackbird in Alberta.

A doctoral candidate at Queen's University in Kingston, Ontario, Whittingham recently received a $1,000 award from the Society of Canadian Orinthologists and a $600 award from the American Museum of Natural History for her research project.

Whittingham, a biology student, will spend much of her summer waist-high in the marshy waters of Alberta studying the parenting habits of nesting red-winged blackbirds.

"I do long hours of observation, watching what the parents do and how often they feed their nestlings," Whittingham said. "I find the nests and watch them to see how much time the birds spend finding food, or eating, singing and other things that aren't parental," she said.

Whittingham also catches insects (for bird food), to study how food availability affects the redwings' breeding patterns. She said the tendency of the males to take care of their offspring varies from nest to nest and from year to year.

Linda Whittingham holds a model red-winged blackbird, the species she will spend the summer studying. She is a graduate of Grosse Pointe North High School.

"The nice thing about that area (Tofield) is that there are extreme ecological environments," Whittinham said. "I have two types of marshes. One is surrounded by agricultural fields and the other is an aspen woodland area.'

She said the red-wings division of time between parental and non-parental duties is more crucial in Canada because the shorter warm season limits the birds' breeding period.

"In that part of Alberta, the breeding season is really short," she said. "I can look at their behavior under more constrained circumstances."

As part of her studies, Whittingham will do some flying of her own. In August, she will travel to Sweden to present a paper on bird mating systems.

Whittingham enjoys trading information at conferences and has already had one paper published in a scientific journal.

She hopes to be a professor one day and currently studies the red-wing because it's one way to learn about the animal world.

"Birds are easy to handle and relatively easy to observe," she said. "Red-wings are a good vehicle for studying for studying animal parenting behavior in general and that is really my

Playscape meeting scheduled

Organizers of the $50,000, 10,000-square-foot playscape at Patterson Park are having an organizational meeting Monday, June 18, at the Tompkins Community Center in Grosse Pointe

The playscape, designed jointly by Park kids and Leathers and Associates of Ithaca, N.Y., will be paid for by funds raised throughout the Park, and it will be built with all volunteer work-

The target date for building the playscape, which has been featured on "Sesame Street" and other national television programs, is the first two weeks of May 1990.

Organizer Gigi Wyman said a few volunteers will be needed to do a lot and a lot of volunteers to do a little. Volunteer work varies from the actual construction to making snacks and providing beverages to donating materials to raising funds. Tools will also have to be borrowed for the construction.

Those interested in volunteering time, money or materials or those just interested in the playscape are invited to the organizational meeting at 7:30 p.m. The Tompkins Community Center is at Windmill Pointe . . rk.

Those interested but unable to attend the meeting can call Wyman at 884-4634.

Board members believe that opposition to the plan is currently splintered among a number of different groups and that it should be more focused toward those people in government who can be effective in defeating the proposal.

President Nanci Bolton said,

"We are committed to opposing the airport expansion through the use of accurate, well-reasoned arguments directed toward our legislators and the FAA. We believe an approach to the problem must be credible and directed to those in government who can effectively defeat the proposal.'

The board is also concerned that local publicity about the problem has become ineffective and could in itself result in a decline in property values.

"Future efforts should be directed toward obtaining signed petitions and hiring a professional governmental contact person who can direct the opposition toward those in government who are in a position to do something about it," Bolton said.

Wacky waiters serve laughs — for a good cause

The Grosse Pointe Yacht Club was the setting for a wild and crazy luncheon May 23 that raised about $10,000 for the Leukemia Society of America.

It was the first time that the event, the Grosse Pointe Celebrity Waiters Luncheon, was held here and organizers hope it will become an annual fundraiser. About 17 such luncheons have been held in other areas throughout the state.

Waiters and waitresses dressed in costume and performed for tips. They swallowed chocolate covered worms, sang, told jokes, danced with the belly dancer and auctioned some of their favorite useless objects. They had no shame. They sold knives to guests who were unable to butter their rolls and generally behaved outrageously.

The celebrity waitstaff included Suzanne Rabideau as a French maid, Pete Waldmeir as Grosse Pointe Charles, Al La-Hood as a barbershop singer, Mic Bossler as Mr. Hard Rock Cafe, Terri McLauchlan as Miss Grosse Pointe, Bill Lafer as a commodore, Diane Kryszak as an Oriental lady, Dr. Ray Genick as Mr. Man, Patricia Galvin as a nun, Bob Smith as an Indian, and Ralph and Wayne DeFour, a pair of rapping nuns.

Hosts were Dale Austin, Beline LaHood Obeid and Suzanne Rabideau.

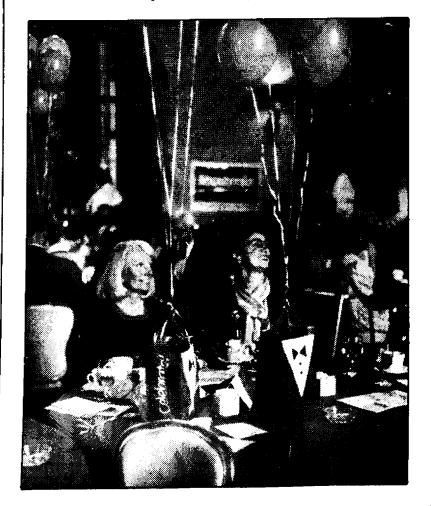

Suzanne Rabideau shows fine form as she tries to keep  $\alpha$  hula hoop airborne. Pete Waldmeir, in the background, watches.

This fun-loving group got into the act at the end by donning some fake noses and glasses and getting on top of their chairs to sing

Below, Angie Weaver and Karen Pyle, executive director of the Leukemia Society of America, enjoy the shenanigans.

Emcee Joe Weaver of Channel 2 starts the program under the watchful eye of a professional belly dancer who helped raise money for leukemia by dancing with some limber — and not so limber — partners. Note the goldfish in the bowl at the right. They, too, helped raise money for leukemia programs when members of the audience offered $25 or more to have their waiter or waitress swallow one (or two).

Pete Waldmeir gets a pie in the face from Brian DeFour who obviously thinks the money he donated to the leukemia society for the privilege is worth it.

For a $100 donation, Mic Bossler got on top of a table and stripped down to his muscular chest and fluorescent shorts. He kept his headband on as well.

Below, Ralph and Wayne DeFour, nuns on the run, take care of their table properly.

Greed, civic responsibility butt heads in 'Other People's Money'

Special Writer

A serious situation is given a comic edge in "Other People's Money," a melodrama that offers an inciteful presentation of a struggle to reconcile corporate takeovers with civic responsibil-

The battle begins when Larry "the Liquidator," Garfinkle arrives in a small Rhode Island town to take over New England Wire and Circle Co. Fighting him off is Andrew Jorgensen, the aging president of a company that is the largest employer in the community. It is true that all is not well with the company, but Jorgensen, a man of traditional values, is determined not to abandon the workers who depend upon it for a liv-

Thanks to William Cole, the chief operating officer, who has brought in earnings from such diversifications as plumbing supplies, the company is debt-free but the stock is selling for $10 a share, a lot less than the $60 it once commanded.

When Garfinkle, a loud-mouth panies worth more dead than alive, consults "Carmen," his computer, and discovers the situation, he starts buying up the stock. His plan is to get control of the company, scrap the wire and cable business and sell the divisions off for six times the cash flow. "Restructuring," he explains, "means never having to say you're sorry."

Stepping into the fray is Kate Sullivan, a brilliant and bubbly young lawyer. She is the daughter of Bea Sullivan, Jorgenson's secretary, who dotes on him.

With all players on board, it's welcome to the world of takeovers and high finance. The interplay of these five persons and the forces and trends they represent create drama that is sometimes jovial and sometimes ferociously humorous.

Confronting each are not only two opposing economic policies but also a man and woman: Larry, whose gargantuan love of money and power is something larger and more basic than greed, and Kate, whose need to beat him involves a complex set New York takeover artist who is of motives that results in a con-

Neither he nor Conway are prepared for Larry Garfinkle, who comes on like gangbusters, brushing aside all the amenities usually associated with first meetings. Instead, he presents in no uncertain terms his intention of taking over the company and selling it off piece by piece for

The play begins with Conway admits he loves money. When asked why he chose Jorgensen's factory for a takeover, when he doesn't need the money he would realize on the deal, he answers, "Because it's there!"

Once on stage, Garfinkle never leaves it. > However, Garfinkle comes up against a worthy adversary in Kate Sullivan, so admirably played by Julia Boyd. She is his female counterpart as far as being intelligent and an expert in the field. It doesn't hurt her cause that she is also pretty, bubbly and sexy or that she knows how to use her sexiness to her advantage. Even as the sparks fly when she and Garfinkle shout back and forth at each other over compromises and threats, the attraction between them is evident.

With Jorgenson refusing to move from his moral stance of protecting his workers and Garfinkle extending control by buying a majority of shares, a last ditch resolution is agreed upon. They will let the stockholders decide.

When the time comes, each man approaches center stage determined and confident.

Both sides present their cases with conviction and eloquence in a highly dramatic scene. Who wins the debate? It would not be fair to say.

Tony Lo Bianco, a consummate actor, knows how to work an audience. As Larry "the Liquidator" he grows on us with his histrionics. Julie Boyd is a dynamic Kate who plays her role to the hilt and appears to have a

Summer Shakespeare auditions

"West Side Story," the beautiful, contemporary version of Shakespeare's tragedy "Romeo and Juliet," will be cast from local talent.

Summer Shakespeare 1990, an outreach program of Richmond Community Theatre, will hold open auditions on Monday, June 11. and Tuesday, June 12, from 7 to 10 p.m. All interested actors, singers, dancers and technicians are invited to the Utica Community Schools Administrative Center at these times. Utica Community Schools Administrative Center is located on the northwest corner of Shelby and 23 Mile Road.

Summer Shakespeare 1990 will present "West Side Story" and "Romeo and Juliet" throughout the summer at Stony Creek Metropark. "West Side Story" will be performed at 8 p.m. on July 27, 28 and 29 and Aug. 3, 4 and 5.

Alice Morin, director and producer of Summer Shakespeare 1990 notes that these are open auditions for any person 16 years or older. Morin can be reached at 752-7871 for additional information. The program's musical director, Fran Darling, asks that singers prepare 16 bars of music, not from "West Side Story." Singers may call Darling at 468-7831. Summer Shakespeare's choreographer, Jennifer Bulgarella, suggests that dancers wear comfortable, loose-fitting clothing; dance wear and character shoes if possible.

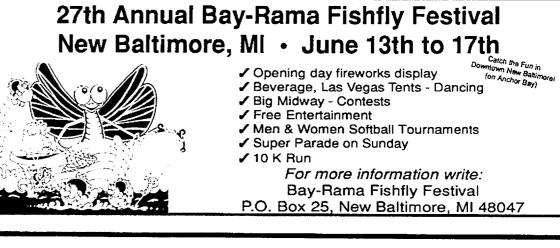

Summer Shakespeare 1990 is made possible by support from the Michigan Youth Corps and partially funded through a minigrant from Macomb Arts Council, a regranting agency of the Michigan Council for the Arts.

Tickets for both "Romeo and Juliet" and "West Side Story' will be available June 1 by calling 781-4242 or 1-800-47-PARKS.

Remodeled kitchen yields deja vu for builder

Staff Writer

It was just another day for Bill Jenzen.

As a building contractor in the area, he sees his share of old Grosse Pointe homes. But when Jenzen, a Grosse Pointe Woods resident, received a call for a kitchen remodeling job on Yorkshire in the Park, he never would have guessed that he would walk into his family's past.

Recently, the owners of the home on Yorkshire came into Jenzen's office and asked if he was a part of Jenzen Brothers. They added that the former owner of the house, an aunt, specified that any repairs on the house should be done by the Jenzen Brothers contractors.

But when Jenzen heard this, he thought it was strange that they even knew of Jenzen Brothers because it has been 50 years since his grandfather was a coowner of that company.

Jenzen went to the house to provide an estimate and the homeowner handed him an old envelope and said, "This belongs to you.

Curious, Jenzen opened the envelope and was shocked, he said, to find the original contract to build the house. It was signed by his grandfather, Paul, and dated Aug. 5, 1918. When the contract was drawn up, there were only three houses on the block, Jenzen said. The cost? About $13,000, which included heat and water.

"I was holding part of my family's history in my hands," he said. "I just couldn't believe it." He went to leave, and a strong feeling of deja vu overtook him. Jenzen turned to take another look at the house and it happened. Jenzen, who grew up a few blocks away, noticed that the house was an exact duplicate of his grandfather's house on Buck-

The feeling was so strong that Jenzen went to his mother, aunt and uncle and told them about the house and arranged for the Jenzen family to walk through the Yorkshire house.

"My aunt knew exactly where everything was, each closet, all the details," Jenzen said. "Even before we went upstairs, they knew the exact layout. We all felt a sense of wonder. It was as if we had all stepped back in time for a while. "It was exciting to be back where the three generations of Jenzens had begun doing work. My grandfather began building houses around the turn of the century after coming from Germany. Jenzen said all the things his father told him about his grandfather when he was growing up seemed to fall into place since learning the house's origin.

Woods resident William Jenzen, of the H.F. Jenzen Building Co. in St. Clair Shores, stands in front of the house on Yorkshire in the Park that his grandfather built in 1918.

Chevy hopes to overtake Ford dominance with new Caprice

Less is more is what we are constantly told in regard to the automobile and, in fact, we are now given a choice of small, smaller and smallest cars, all of which cost more.

But in disregard of the gevernment, environmentalists and others who know best what is good for us, a sizable segment of the car-buying public still likes big cars. Like the 1991 Chevrolet Caprice.

If you are in that segment that likes big cars, then this car's for you. The new Caprice has the soul of the '50s, of a bathtub Nash or a pregnant Packard. But in fact, it is not as big as an early '60s Impala, that Chevrolet in which we saw the

But it is big enough to please any fan of heavy Detroit iron and besides that it is a state-ofthe-art modern car with a V-8engine and that is nothing to

The new Caprice will test the theory that big Chevy sales were off because the previous Caprice looked too old-fashioned, was not stylish enough, not because it was too big.

Ford was first with the superslick, stylish aero look in the intermediate car field with the Taurus, but Chevrolet has beat it to the punch in the big-car field. Ford is preparing an answer in its redesigned Crown Victoria, which spy photos indicate will look a lot like the Cap-

By Richard Wright

Styling has always been the most important single factor in a car's success or failure with a large part of the buying public not performance, not quality, not comfort - styling. And styling is reflected closely in sales trends over the decade.

After Henry Ford introduced the Model T in 1908, Ford dominated sales until 1927. Many years Ford accounted for more than half of the car sales in the United States - and there were hundreds of car makers in those days. Cars were not really "styled" in those days, they were largely functional.

Chevrolet began closing in on Ford in the sales race mid-'20s, after General Motors President Alfred P. Sloan launched a policy of annual model changes and hired Hollywood custom car designer Harley Earl to "style" (stylists prefer "design") the corporation's cars.

In 1924, Ford accounted for more than 50 percent of U.S. car lead to 42-20 in 1925 and 35-28 in 1926. The reason was that the Model T was an old design and GM was putting out better-looking, more modern cars.

In 1927, Ford halted production to switch over to the thoroughly modern Model A and GM beat Ford in sales for the first time. The Model A was an instant success and Ford regained the sales lead, but the handwriting was on the wall and in 1931 GM again passed Ford, which would never again outsell GM.

In 1933, upstart Chrysler Corp. passed Ford and the sales race was on. Walter P. Chrysler suggested in a historic ad campaign that buyers "look at all three," referring to what became known as the "low-priced three," Ford, Chevrolet and Plymouth.

The beautifully styled Fords of the '30s could not make headway against the equally stylish and technologically advanced Chevrolets and Plymouths of sales, compared with 19 percent that era. In the corporate sales for all of GM. GM cut Ford's race, GM held the lead from Both Chevrolet and Ford had their best sales years ever in 1973, when Chevy topped its rival 2,455,063 to 2,058,676. After the first oil crisis that year, steady sales gains by Japanese makers eroded both sales leaders' edge, but they are still No. 1 and No. 2.

The new Caprice is part of Chevrolet's strategy for retaking the No. 1 spot in passenger car sales. The 1991 Caprice is built upon the same platform as its predecessor, but it is much more aerodynamic, has a lot more glass and for some reason looks bigger than its two inches of extra length and width.

Standard engine is a 170-hp version of Chevrolet's tried-andtrue 305-cubic-inch (5-liter) V-8. A 350-inch (5.7-liter) V-8 is offered for police use and is already a popular item, a vehicle capable of high-speeds that looks more like a police car than the 5-liter Mustang now used by a number of police departments, including the Michigan State Po-

Chevrolet says customer surveys indicate the new design appeals not only to the traditional Caprice buyer, a male in his early 60s, but also to young couples with growing families.

So if you are a traditional Caprice buyer (i.e., old guy, like me) or a young couple, take a look at this car. You may find it very interesting.

Newcomers' Club welcomes new couples on the block

By Margie Reins Smith

Feature Editor
The Newcomers' Club isn't new.

And its objective is to find new members; get them active and involved; then kick them out.

The Newcomers' Club is celebrating its 45th anniversary this year. Its purpose, as it was in 1945, is to acquaint new residents with the Grosse Pointe area and with other newcomers and to promote social functions.

Members are allowed four years of fun then they're politely invited to move along.

The current membership of 105 couples is about the largest the club has ever been. according to co-presidents Bryan and Kimberly Lane. "Hopefully, after four years, people won't need the club anymore," Bryan

The club isn't totally heartless. There's a 45-member alumni group which joins the Newcomers' Club occasionally for social functions.

"The founders really wanted this to be a newcomers' group," said Bryan.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennett Burgoon are credited as the founders, he said. According to the club's written history, the Burgoons

They contacted the Grosse Pointe News. The newspaper prepared an article which invited couples to meet at the Burgoons' home. Five couples showed up, and the charter meeting of the Newcomers' Club was held on Nov. 2, 1945. They made plans for a pot-luck supper.

Within a year, the group had an executive board, a constitution, by-laws, and a diversified program of social events and activities.

During the last 45 years, club parties have been varied and frequent: bridge parties, boat trips, dinner dances, mystery trips, picnics, tennis parties, golf outings, square dances, road rallies, Christmas parties, cross country ski weekends, progressive

The most popular parties the last few an annual Christmas party, according to Kimberly. "We had 80 couples at the progressive dinner in April," she said. "It included 10 appetizer houses, 14 dinner houses, 10 dessert houses and an afterglow at the Tompkins Community Center in Grosse Pointe Park. The Christmas party attracted more than 60 couples." The club meets for a social event once a month from September to June and has a family picnic in July. Most of the events are theme parties, she said, and the planners try to vary the locations, to help new people become acquainted with Grosse Pointe and the metropolitan Detroit area.

"We have events at private clubs. We've gone to Sibley House, Pegasus Restaurant, a tour of the Fisher Building, a cruise on the Detroit River. It's a chance for people new in the area to see these places."

Dues are $15 a year per couple.

"Our toughest job is getting the word out to new people," Bryan said.

"We find members through Welcome Wagon, through Realtors, through referrals from other members and through articles in local newspapers."

Newcomers' Club members must be married and one of the couple must not have lived in Grosse Pointe for the previous two years. If the couple lived in Grosse Pointe before, they must have been away for at least four years. Members' ages range from the late 20s to the 50s and 60s.

When a couple has been in the club for four years, they attend the last party free of charge.

"The effect is that you get your dues back at the end," said Bryan.

The Newcomers' Club's 45th anniversary party will be Saturday, June 16, at the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House Activities Center. Cocktails, hors d'oeuvres and tours of the Ford House begin at 6 p.m. Dinner is at 8 p.m. The after-dinner program will include a presentation of the club's history and a skit prepared by the alumni group.

Cost for the party is $50 a couple; $25 for singles. Reservations should be made by June 9. Call 885-3574 or 884-4222.

The party planners are trying to locate all alumni for the celebration.

Anyone interested in learning more about the Newcomers' Club should call 881-6930.

HAVE A PLEASANT TRY AT PERFECTION BRIDGE BY WOODY BOYD THE PASTEBOARD PASTIME

Last week's column was devoted to an inferior slam I bid with Mark Lair, one of this country's giants of the bridge world. We succeeded because west, the leader, had little defensive foresight and got off to a lead that allowed me to guess right.

Here's another big one played with Mariam Rycus a few Saturday's back in Southfield. It was our first partnership and I was greatly impressed. She had forgotten nothing from her days of successful play as a regional champion. Great card location imagination, superb confidence and a ferocious, but disciplined, winning attitude. These are notable qualities.

What's your opinion of this one? Would you like to be where we got or not?

I like Mariam's last bid. She came to play and expected me to give her her money's worth.

The play to the diamond suit you can see is critical. If you lose two there, the clubs don't matter. Hold trumps to one loser and the club queen becomes a formidable female! West's spade lady lead suggest that it is the top of an honor sequence. Reasonable to conclude, therefore, that east's opening bid is armed with at east the spade king, heart king-queen and the diamond ace. Where is the diamond knave and club lady? West didn't sound heavily ladened with high cards over my two diamonds. There are only eighteen H.C.P. missing and east must have twelve or thirteen of

I won the spade in dummy and played the diamond eight to my king safely. Now a small trump toward dummy's queen-nine and west played low. So far I'd seen the three missing low diamonds Mariam KQ864 Ж 2Н W. leads spade queen E/W Vul.

and my opponents had played in tempo. The tension had reached a crescendo that made me shaky. With a shudder and in a semihesitant manner I called for the nine which the ace captured with air... It was a good day for guessing. East got out with the club eight which looked cunning, but hard to tell. I won with ace, played a diamond to the queen picking up west's jack and played a second club. East followed with the seven, but that in itself was no clue to my right play. Four out cards play three/one 50% of the time and two/two 41% of the time so I went with the best probability and won.

Easy isn't it when you're guessing well, but once again it wasn't a very good slam.

Mariam, my dear, let's do it again.

MichCon reps will speak to SOC

Staff persons from the Michigan Consolidated Gas Company will be assigned to work at the office of Services for Older Citizens on Wednesday, June 13. MichCon representatives will answer questions from customers and try to resolve problems. Representatives will speak with customers on an appointment basis. Contact the SOC office at 882-9600 to arrange a time.

Older adults who wish to speak with a MichCon representative should bring identification and a copy of their current gas bill. Customers who want to change the name on their accounts from that of their deceased spouse to another name must also bring the death certificate with them.

Although MichCon will not accept payments while at the SOC office, their representative will make arrangements for customers to receive energy analyses, to enroll in the senior citizen program and to resolve problems. The gas company plans to assign staff to the SOC office on a monthly basis as long as there is interest.

THE PIPE SYSTEM

One problem with draw-CREATIVE ing trees is the inability of WORLD® many artists to understand the foreshortening of branches coming toward, or going away from, them. The use of the stove pipe system can help overcome this problem. It can also be used in the same way for figure drawing.

DRAWING BOATS AND SHIPS

Some people may find it difficult to draw boats and ships. A simple way is to use the figure 8 regardless of the viewpoint of the artist. This figure is a basic guide whether you are drawing a rowboat or an oceanliner.

Detroit Artists Market's outdoor fundraiser will be June 12

The annual Detroit Artists Market sale will be Tuesday, June 12, from 4 to 7:30 p.m. in the garden of Jane and Ken Meade in Grosse Pointe Farms. If Tuesday is rainy – the sale will be Wednesday, June 13.

Patron contributions and a percentage of art sales go to the Detroit Artists Market, a downtown gallery dedicated to exhibiting and selling the work of artists who live in southeastern Michigan.

The Meade's garden is a work of art itself, according to Janet Mueller, garden sale publicity chairman.

"It's full of surprises," she said. "As you enter through a forest path, keep a sharp eye out for elfin deer watching you from deep in the underbrush. When you come to the awning-covered patio, note how the trunk of a huge old sycamore grows through the patio floor through the awning.'

A path at the bottom of the garden leads to a rustic log cabin with a wonderful, wide, open fireplace along its far wall, she said. The cabin is completely authentic, brought down from the Upper Peninsula via flatbed truck in the 1930s by the former owners of the Meade's property. There's another log cabin, at the far end of the garden, half-hidden in the trees behind the swimming pool. There's also an outdoor spa with its own patio.

"I believe that art should be everywhere," said Jane Meade. "I believe that nature is art." The garden is punctuated by works of art purchased by the Meades at previous garden sales.

More than 70 exhibitors will display their work, including Grosse Pointe artists Anna Platt (watercolor), Carolyn Moser (mixed media) and Carole Beach (handmade paper.)

Chairman of the sale is Kathy Rines. In addition to Mueller. committee chairmen include Anna Platt, Ginna Ives, Dottie Westfall, Pattie Sirvaitis, Sheila Ingwersen, Mary Smart, Carolyn Mosher, Jean Candler, Tami Wagner, Heather Jones and Jean

Stroh. The annual sale attracts more than 1,000 people from the metropolitan Detroit area. It's open to all members of the Detroit Artists Market. Memberships start at $25.

Ethnic auction: The Hall of Nations of the International Institute will be the site for the fifth International Auction on Friday, June 8, from 6 to 9 p.m., to raise funds for the institute's growing social services programs.

The highlight of the auction, according to party planners, is Detroit cabaret pianist singer Jo Thompson and her show, "This is My Life - Melodies and Madness," a performance which will be presented at New York's Carnegie Hall on June 15. The show will go to the highest bidder.

Other items/performances/ events which will be on the auction block: a concert duet by DSO cellist Marcy Chanteaux and pianist Lawrence LaGore and performances by jazz vocalist Harvey Thompson and classical jazz pianist Keiko; and a bunch of trips (to London, to Athens, a 7-day cruise of the Greek Islands); vacation homes in Arizona, Florida and northern Michigan; ethnic art and jewelry; sports events; oriental rugs; weekend packages at the Westin

The Detroit Artists Market's annual garden sale will be Tuesday. June 12. Anna Platt, left, patrons chairman for the sale and one of the exhibiting artists, is shown with Jane Meade, who has donated the use of her garden for the event. They're holding a sculptured ceramic bowl, one of the Detroit Artists Market pieces which is now part of the Meade's private collection. Rain date for the sale is Wednesday, June 13.

Hotel and the Ritz-Carlton; and meals at local restaurants.

The ethnic menu will feature Greek, Scandinavian, German, French, Middle Eastern and Polish foods and wines.

On the honorary committee are Ben J. and Beverly Hall Burns, Stephen and Tula Economy, Frank and Stephanie Germack, Dr. Kim and Mado Lie and Patti Knox, Cochairs are Teryl Minasian Asher, Rosemary Bannon and Barbara Rom.

Grosse Pointers also on the committee include Julia Darlow, Tom and Diane Schoenith, Michael Mengden, Robert Ramsey, Margot Parker, Herbert Schervish, William Tangett and George and Suzanne Bashara.

Tickets are $25 per person; $30 at the door. Tickets may be ordered by calling the International Institute, 871-8600.

The Pastor's Corner

Love letter

By Rev. Tom Schomaker Jefferson Avenue United Methodist Church

WT.S: geneity, not swersity. That's only natural Birds of a feather flock together! It's an ancient long-recognized truth of civilization

This postcard will go into a file labeled "love letters." The card responds to a Detroit Free Press article about the Racial Justice Center of Grosse Pointe. In the article I was quoted as one who celebrates the rich pluralism contained in Grosse Pointe.

More polite than most such mail I receive - even signed by the writer, it nonetheless represents a significant viewpoint within my Grosse Pointe community. I find that view hostile to me. My reaction at this time to that viewpoint is not anger but sadness.

My sadness comes from the loss the writer of this card experiences as he/she builds walls around his/her life where doors ought to be. It recognizes that the more exclusively homogeneous one tries to be, the smaller one's world becomes. Homogeneous communites breed sterility and narrow thinking. They are not mindsets for one to hold to or strive toward. They are neither natural nor healthy.

More sadness comes from the awareness of the experiences the writer would deprive to others. Exclusivity has not served our community well. The drive toward quality education, recreational facilities and safe neighborhoods becomes attractive when it reflects facilities and activities available to all. The conclusions for a democratic society lean toward the justice God calls for throughout history.

Even more sadness comes whenever those with racist views think they have refuge in Grosse Pointe. History is on their side, but Grosse Pointe is no longer what it was. It behooves us to firmly, solidly and loudly refute racism whenever it shows itself in Grosse Pointe. To keep silent is to side with ignorance and bigotry.

Finally, the longing for homogeneity denies the reality of our lives in Grosse Pointe. Whatever we may have been, we are not now the exclusive bastion of white wealth. While everyone may not rejoice in that with me, it cannot be denied. We are a pluralistic community — and will become even more so.

Forgive my glee and gloating satisfaction with this change. I do relish this new reality - both for my friends and for those who dislike it. And it sure beats the sadness some viewpoints create!

Jazz concert series to be at Unitarian Church

The Great American Songbook series continues at the Grosse Pointe Unitarian Church with vocalist Nancy Wood.

Wood will be accompanied by the Dennis Tini Quartet, featuring trumpeter Johnny Trudell. The concert series is being sponsored by a recently formed jazz support group, the Jazz Forum.

"I've really had a lot of fun choosing material for the con-cert," said Wood. "The concept is really an all-star band," she for the series is great, featuring said. "Dennis Tini is one of the songs from the '30s, '40s and '50s, with a jazz interpretation. The composers were all so good - Gershwin, Cole Porter, Ellington, Jule Styne. We're really looking forward to the performance.

developers of the Jazz Studies Program at Wayne State University, and Johnny Trudell has led bands in the top clubs in the city for over 20 years now. The concert on June 13 will be the third in the Great American

... an annual outdoor art fair sponsored by the Assistance League for the Northeast Guidance Center, will be this Saturday and Sunday, June 8 and 9, on the grounds of the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House, 1100 Lakeshore.

Among the artists from Grosse Pointe who will be displaying their work at the annual fundraiser are Michael Derbyshire at the left and Paula Smolenski, below. Derbyshire will have watercolors on display and Smolenski will be showing her baskets.

Admission to Art on the Pointe is $2 per person. Parking is $1.

AAUW begins collecting used books for sale

Sharing books and raising funds for women's scholarships are the twin aims of the 28th annual Used Book Sale of the Grosse Pointe branch of the American Association of University Women. The committee for this event hopes to sort and price 50,000 items by opening day, Oct. 2.

Receptacles are already in place at six locations: Damman's Hardware in the Village; Perry Drugs on the Hill; Kroger's on Marter Road; and at three Farmer Jack markets: Mack near Vernier, Harper and Moross and Nine Mile near Mack.

The AAUW welcomes the taxdeductible donations of any books in good condition. The categories include paperbacks and hardcovers, novels, mysteries, literature for children, biographies, histories, encyclopedias, how-tobooks, cookbooks and recent textbooks. No records or magazines will be collected this year.

"We're already getting great books contributed, and with the barrels in position we expect a whole lot more," said Kay Kirby, who shares the co-chairmanship of the sale with Lynn Rask. "For mystery buffs, we have a complete set of Wilkie Collins, the father of the mystery genre. That's a nice start.'

If it is inconvenient to take school, either to complete dedonations to the various drop-off points, a pick-up service is available by calling these numbers: in June: 885-8646; in July: 343-0241; in August: 881-6343. No books will be accepted after August 31.

Proceeds from the book sale, which is scheduled for Oct. 2 - 6 at Salem Memorial Lutheran Church, Detroit, will help support AAUW national and international fellowships for outstanding women scholars and also fund scholarships at local col- Morawski, Julia Read,

The large committee for the event includes: Fran Sultzman, Kay McDonald, Evelyn Montgomery, Judy Livingston, Heidi Denler, Ann Schumacher, Carolyn Sullivan, Aralynn Vinande, Margot Finkelmeier, Sandi Jorgensen, Claudine Herodote, Dottie Holcomb, Lenore Marshall, Elizabeth Schaefer, Anita Unger, Kay MacKay, Laura Rodin, Libby Van de Putte, Connie Kienle, Ellen Chapin, Lesley Nanne

Lesley Morawski, left, and Ellen Chapin, right, with the assistance of Colin Morawski and Laura Chapin, prepare to deliver familiar drop-off barrels to collect used books for the annual AAUW Used Book Sale. The sale will take place Oct. 2-6.

Women's Economic Club

The Women's Economic Club will present Felice N. Schwartz as its luncheon speaker at the WEC annual luncheon on Tuesday, June 12.

Schwart's controversial "Mommy Track" article appeared in the Harvard Business Review last January. The lightning rod was her recommendation that companies respond to predicted labor shortfalls in the '90s by giving women a choice of two tracks: A fast track into management for women who put their careers first and a track allowing slower career development for those who want flexibility to accommodate family needs.

Schwartz will speak on, "The ment Women." She has probably spent more time studying women's career issues than anyone else in the United States, according to Christian Science Monitor magazine.

Schwartz is president and founder of Catalyst, an organization established in 1962 to help women enter or re-enter the work force. Today, the organization's mission is to promote and help manage change in the work force to benefit women, men and business by addressing issues such as leadership development, women on corporate boards, child care, and more.

Tickets are $16 for members; $20 for guests. Call the WEC of-Corporate Response to Manage- fice at 963-5088 for information.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

QUESTION: What effect does the current Tax Reform Act have on capital gains tax when I sell my home?

ANSWER: One of the biggest changes introduced by the latest Tax Reform Act was the elimiation of the tay favored treat. ment of net long-term capital gains. Prior to the latest tax law, tax was required to be paid on only 40% of the capital gain. Today, alas, no matter how long you own the property, when you sell it, the capital gains profit is treated just like ordinary income. However, this will not ex-

Rivalry makes sports interesting

Since 1968, Grosse Pointe North and South have fought for bragging rights, newspaper ink and respect.

Personally, I think they've got it all.

Rivalries and on-court battles are what highlight high school athletics. Most of the kids who compete at North and South have grown up together, been teammates but were immediately separated when the new school boundaries were drawn some 22 years ago.

Since then, many hearts have been broken when North beats South, or South beats North. Grosse Pointe has long thrived on the fact that there are two high schools battling to be one better than the other

South won the Eastern Mich igan League All-Sports banner for 10 straight years before losing it to Port Huron Northern, and North, now a member of the Macomb Area Conference, ruled the Bi-County League before divorcing that in 1987. And, after three seasons in the MAC, North has won 36 of a possible 54 division champion-

North and South will enter the same league next season, but the rivalry won't die. North and South games generally redefine sports, but when someone loses, it gives the winner a year of bragging rights.

News is made easy when a North vs. South baseball, soccer, tennis or football game takes place. However, no matter who wins, it seems there is a particular feeling of animosity when the newspaper comes

At the Grosse Pointe News, we don't look at the community as two parts - North and South. We concern ourselves with equal justice because this community is one. A whole. Unified, but separated.

It's sad to think North or South athletes feel slighted by this newspaper. It's difficult to balance the superiority of both schools, while handling some sensitive issues with tact.

What makes reporting on local events enjoyable is the high level of talent, the respect both schools have for one another, and the support they lend to each other. However, if an article is perceived as lopsided or biased, that tradition is forgotten and feelings are hurt.

Both schools win a great deal of their games, but when North plays South in anything, someone must lose. It's too bad, but it's a reality about athletics. Every one of those clashes is highlighted by pure athleticism, and sometimes that does not come across in a game report some read in the paper. It's difficult to get everything about the game in, but the essence of it generally capsulates the event.

This job I have is a no-win situation, but I enjoy it.

For every article written, there is an unhappy reader at one end of town, but a happy one at the other end. Before I got here in 1987, I heard that several calls would come in and people would complain that, The South article had three more inches than the North article," or, "The North picture was bigger than the South

Don't you think this is a minute point that should die after 22 years? It was not the fault of the Grosse Pointe News that the schools were sepa-

It's insignificant to worry about who gets the best, or most coverage. The point is that whether it's South or North in the state finals. league championship game or playing one another, it's a com munity news event we should all revel in.

ULS believes in miracles; wins 20th title

Sports Editor

Even if Ripley were on hand, the University Liggett School tennis team still couldn't believe it pulled off one of sport's biggest tennis upsets.

Sports

ULS successfully defended its Class C-D state tennis title by nipping No. 1 ranked Detroit Country Day School, 32-31, in Battle Creek June 2. It was ULS' 20th title in 25 years. The team also has four runner-up finishes.

"Do you believe in miracles?" asked ULS head coach Bob Wood, who's been at the helm for all 25 years. "We stole one from a good team. I told the kids after the tournament that we could play Country Day 100 times and we may only win once.'

But only one team win was needed to take the trophy.

ULS, ranked No. 2 all season, had lost to Country Day, 5-2, in a regular season dual meet, and finished second to the Yellowjackets in the regional tournament. Those are two major reasons Wood didn't think his team could pull off the upset.

Based on what happened during the season, I didn't think we'd beat them," Wood said. "But in the state meet anything can happen. I have said before that on paper we stand no chance of beating them, but the matches aren't played on paper."

ULS, which only got wins at No. 1 doubles and No. 4 singles against the Yellowjackets, knew it had to hold those two victories and turn two more flights around to get the hardware. That was not as easy as it looked, but ULS did win four of the seven finals flights.

ULS and Country Day facedoff in every finals flight.

"After the regionals and presenting the trophy to Country Day on our courts," said Wood, "we talked about remaining positive over the next two weeks and I told the kids we'd tee it up one more time on June 1-2 and see what happens. Fortunately the best possible miracle occurred."

But, there were three major miracles that were needed to pull this thing off.

Miracle No. 1

Sean Byrne, ULS' No. 1 singles player, beat Country Day's Scooter Place, 6-4, 6-2, for the first time in an outdoor tourna-

At No. 2 doubles, Lars Schneider and Jason Go, who had lost to Country Day, 6-1, 6-3, in a dual meet, and 6-2, 6-3,in the regionals, held on to win the state

After losing the first set, 6-2, Schneider and Go bounced back to win the second set, 6-4. In the third set, the ULS tandem faced a 3-0 deficit, but turned it up a notch to take the set and match,

Miracle No. 3

Ken Prather and Sam Khatib, playing at No. 3 doubles, won a semifinal match, 2-6, 6-4, 6-4, after losing the first match, and trailing in the second match, 4-1. Cheo Ramsey, ULS' No. 4 sin-

The University Liggett School boys' tennis team has won its second consecutive Class C-D state championship, and 20th title in 25 years.

gles player, got a state championship, as did the No. 1 doubles team of Doug Wood and Bill Schervish.

"The first title is always special," Wood said. "But these kids will never forget this big upset. Each one of the 20 titles has its own meaning, but this one would have to be No. 1A because it was so unexpected."

Norsemen can't support D'Angelo; exit from postseason tournament

By Rob Fulton Sports Editor

North senior right-hander Lou D'Angelo could file a lawsuit for the lack of support.

D'Angelo didn't receive much offensive or defensive support from his Norsemen teammates, and that lack of production was evident in North's 4-1 loss to East Detroit in a pre-district baseball game.

out of the tournament, gave the Norsemen an overall mark of 13-17 on the year.

"It's upsetting to see Lou pitch a decent game and not get any help," said Norsemen coach Frank Sumbera. "It's really unfortunate we had to play that poorly behind such an established pitcher. We're supposed to win games when he pitches

D'Angelo scattered five hits and struck out nine to finish 4-5 on the year.

D'Angelo gave up three of those hits in the third inning when the Shamrocks pushed four runs across, but the Norsemen also committed two errors.

Although that inning crushed North, the crucial inning was really the first.

North's Paul Straske singled to open the inning, but quickly got picked off by East Detroit ace Tom Silva. Eric Merte then drew a walk, but was picked off. Both runners being erased surely stopped any threat, because the next hitter, Steve Craparotta, doubled.

"Instead of being up perhaps by one if not two runs, we were deadlocked at 0-0," Sumbera said. "We knew he had a good move, but not that good."

Silva wasn't done, however. In the second inning Tim Sacka singled, but was picked off.

North finished with eight hits, two by Craparotta and two by Dan Watkins, including a dou-

"We hurt ourselves and those are the kinds of mistakes young teams will make," Sumbera said. "But it's still no excuse. We had something going a couple of times, but stopped ourselves."

In the seventh inning, Mike Haskell scored North's only run after smacking a double.

"We've got to look to the future because our season was a learning situation," Sumbera said. "These kids will turn it

By Rob Fulton

Sports Editor Just hours before most of them were to get gussied up for the senior prom, the Grosse Pointe North girls put the first feather in their caps by winning the state district softball title at Harper Woods.

The Lady Norsemen softball team, behind the no-hit pitching of senior right-hander Kerri-Sue Kelly, beat No. 10 ranked East Detroit, 3-0, to advance to this weekend's regional tournament at Royal Oak.

North will play Fraser at 10 a.m. North and Fraser split their season series. If North wins, it will play the winner of the Pershing-Marian game at 2 p.m.

North advanced to the district finals after beating South, 4-1, and East Detroit made it after shelling Osborne, 21-0.

The win was significant in many ways: • It gave the Lady Norsemen their first district title since • With an overall record of 19-5, the Lady Norsemen set a new school record for winning percentage (.791). • It avenged a 1-0 district loss a year ago.

This was the best and biggest team effort we got all season long," said Norsemen coach Bill Taylor, whose team finished third in the Macomb Area Conference White Division (7-3). "We knew going in we had to play two perfect games in order to beat both South and East Detroit, and we did. The girls did a hitter to beat South.

great job."

Starting with Kelly and finishing with Stephanie Gore, Erica Barr, Melissa Champine, Kelly Kunkel, Pam Thomas and Kim Senter.

"The thing about Kerri this year is that she knows she doesn't have to do it all alone," Taylor said about his ace, who threw her first no-hitter of the season. "Kerri pitched a tremendous game, but the rest of the team did the job defensively. On every play the defense was ready and that's what really helped Kerri out."

Kelly faced 22 batters, only one over the minimum, striking out five. However, in the seventh inning Gore (shortstop) scooped a hard-hit ball and rifled it to first to preserve the no-hitter and the shutout. Barr (center field) and Champine (second base) made several key plays throughout the game to stop any East Detroit

"Kerri did her job and the others did theirs," Taylor said. 'It's pretty simple sounding, but the fact is they did the job.'

Thomas, Kelly and Barr were named to the all-district team, and catcher Alicia Lynch was an honorable mention.

"What I think really geared us for the East Detroit game was the emotional victory we got over a strong South team," Taylor said. "That really got us in the swing of things and we just carried it over to the finals.'

Kelly, who retired 16 straight batters after walking East Detroit's first batter, threw a two-

In the first inning of the finals, Champine was hit by a pitch, moved to second on Thomas' sacrifice, and went to third on a Kelly ground out. She scored three pitches later on a wild pitch, giving North a 1-0 lead. "That was a key run, but the real key in the first inning was the heads up play by Kelly (Kunkel)," said Taylor. "We could have allowed East Detroit to start its game plan, but we took them right out of it.'

Kelly walked the first batter, but on an attempted sacrifice, Kunkel rushed in from third base and caught the bunt, threw to first and doubled up the run-

North mounted threats to pad its 1-0 lead in the third and fourth innings, but stranded two runners in each frame. However, in the sixth the Norsemen got two runs to send East Detroit packing.

Lynch, who along with Thomas and Kunkel had the only North hits, started the sixth inning with a bunt single and moved to third on a Senter sacrifice. Kunkel then smacked a run-scoring single and moved to second on the throw, and eventually scored when Barr's infield hit was muffed, giving North the 3.0 edge.

"We executed very well offensively and that was the key for us," said Taylor. "This team understands what it takes to win and they just do it. At the start of the season we struggled to find a winning chemistry, but

The overwhelming pressure and atmosphere at the state meet in Midland may have spooked the Norsemen a bit.

"It was a different atmosphere than most of the kids are used to," Gutow claimed. "There are a lot of fans up there and plenty of pressure for the kids to handle. I'm not saying they didn't play their best, but it was difficult for a young team.

South tennis team upset in tourney

Sports Editor

Back in January the Grosse Pointe South Blue Devils' tennis team was the early favorite to win the Class A state title. But now in June Ann Arbor Pioneer is atop the rankings.

South, ranked No. 1 all season long, was upset by Pioneer, which scored 28 points to South's 23 last weekend in Midland, where the tourney took place. Birmingham Brother Rice (22) took third.

"What happened is something that will probably never happen again in 100 years," said Devils' coach Tom Berschback. "The draw really was the deciding factor and eventually it caught up to us. That, however, is no ex-

A champs, didn't figure in the championship scoring, but did knock South from the No. 1 spot.

"Two unseeded Okemos teams made it to the No. 2 and 3 doubles finals and beat us," said Berschback. "When that happens you can't figure on winning the state title.'

Although being the favorite and losing the title shouldn't spoil what this year's Blue Devils squad has accomplished.

"I'm not disappointed in this team, but I think we're all disappointed we lost the tournament," Berschback said. "Unfortunately a lot of people look at this tournament as the entire season, but they shouldn't do that. This team went 11-0 and beat some very good teams in dual meets."

South beat both Ann Arbor Okemos, the defending Class Pioneer and Brother Rice handily in dual meets.

Craig Kostecke and Bill Wundram (No. 2 doubles) and Brian Disser and Chris Schilling (No. 3 doubles), drew a second-round bye and waited for Okemos teams to finish up. That wait, according to Berschback, proved

"The worst scenario that could have happened, happened," he said. "It's unfortunate we had to draw that particular team after sitting around, but that's the way it goes. We should have won those because we were seeded No. 2 and 3 in those brackets, but Okemos played well to beat

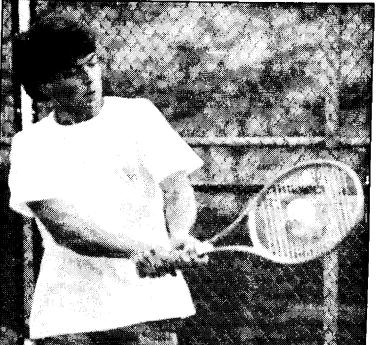

Jeff Giraldo (No. 1 singles) and Nick Lorenzini (No. 3 singles) won state championships. Giraldo beat Northville's Mark Schwagle, and Lorenzini, who hasn't lost a set in the finals in two years, beat Peter Pusztai of Pioneer, 6-2, 7-6.

"The neatest thing to happen was that we had guys playing in five finals matches," Berschback

The No. 1 doubles team of Cullen McMahon and Matt Smucker beat the No. 1 seed of the tourney to get to the finals, but lost to Pioneer, 7-6, 7-6. Emiliano Lorenzini (No. 4 singles) and Lee Lorenzini (No. 2 singles) reached the finals, but lost.

"All in all this was a very successful season," Berschback said. 'We held the No. 1 ranking all season, didn't lose a dual meet and finished second in the state. Nobody should be disappointed in this team. I'm very proud of these kids."

South's Nick Lorenzini won the state championship at No. 3

Devils burned by Irish luck

By Rob Fulton Sports Editor

For the second time in as many seasons the South baseball team was knocked from postseason play by the Fightin' Irish of Notre Dame.

The Blue Devils, who managed only one hit off Irish righthander Matt Ziolkowski, couldn't get untracked offensively and suffered a 5-0 loss.

One year ago, Notre Dame beat South 4-3 and went on to win the state Class A title. After beating South, Notre Dame went on to beat East Detroit, 3-2, to win its second straight district championship.

"I'm a little disappointed on how it ended," said South coach Dan Griesbaum. "You can't really say we beat ourselves. We didn't hit the ball and that's all we can say. We ran into a very good pitcher and a strong team on that particular day and took

South's Mark Jungwirth, who was only supported by Nick Johnston's infield single, left the game after 2 1/3 innings and the

his first relief appearance of the season, gave up two runs that were charged to Jungwirth, but then got South out of a tough

"Brian came in and really threw well," said Griesbaum. 'He hadn't thrown in relief all season, but he came in and got us out of it with minimal dam-

Downs took over with South trailing 2-0, and fell behind 5-0 at the end of three innings. Downs, who led South with a 1.86 ERA, finished with five strikeouts, including fanning the side in the sixth. Jungwirth, who finished 6-3 on the season, gave up four runs, five hits and walked three.

"Mark really didn't pitch a bad game," said Griesbaum, whose team finished 17-12 overall. "We had a couple of plays where we could have gotten some outs for him, but we didn't and that hurt us.'

Notre Dame got one run in each of the first two innings with a couple of key doubles.

"The difference was pretty simple," said Griesbaum. "We could look back and analyze a bases loaded. Brian Downs, in lot of things about the game, but the bottom line is that we had only one hit. You don't win any games with only one hit.'

South also had three errors.

"In a tight game you can't make any mistakes; even one will kill you," Griesbaum said. 'That wasn't what hurt us though."

The hitting was.

Brian Letscher, who led South with a .370 average, and Matt Wysocki, who led the team with 21 RBI on the season, were held in check by Ziolkowski, who fanned five batters.

"We put the bat on the ball and hit the ball hard, but we hit it right to someone," Griesbaum said. "We were swinging at some bad pitches early on, and late in the game we were taking some we shouldn't have been. Ziolkowski kept us off balance, but we still should have touched him for some runs.

"We played hard and we can't say we blew it. We were beaten by a better team that day and that's all there is to it. It's disappointing, but overall we had a great season. This was a great bunch to work with."

South didn't, but North did. The Lady Norsemen beat South, 4-1, behind the two-hit pitching of Kerri-Sue Kelly, to advance to the district championships, where it beat East Detroit, South finished its season 11-16 overall and fourth in the Eastern Michigan League.

"I thought it was a very well played, competitive game that was determined by excellent play," said South coach John Bruce, whose team got hits from Tina Higel and Laurel Wolfe.

"We didn't lose the game, we were beaten by an excellent hander who has become South's all-time strike out leader, scattered eight hits, two by North's Pam Thomas, and fanned two. She finished this season with a 9-9 mark.

South's only run came when Kelly muffed Jenni Wysocki's infield hit. Wysocki moved to second on the overthrow by Kelly, and rambled home one hit later when Becky Wysocki's hit between third and short was ruled

"It was a clear case of North executing very well, and we didn't," said Bruce. "North had six sacrifices and that's what it takes to win this game.'

Bruce was not, however, disappointed in the loss.

"Over the last few years we have lost to teams who have gone on to play in the Final Four and I hope this is the same situation," he said. "I'm proud of the girls from both schools and I hope North can get to Battle Creek (the site of the Final green Road. Other items that will be auctioned off include sticks and shirts from Steve Yzerman and Gerard Gallant of the Red Wings, and a pair of skates from Yzerman. Jerseys from Alan Trammell, Jack Morris and Anderson will be included, as will hundreds of lower-priced items children at the two Detroit area between $5 and $25.

CATCH is a charity organization founded by Anderson in 1987 to help sick and disabled hospitals. A $10 donation will be required at the door. For more information, call 1-800-688-CATCH.

Cottage's Fun Run & Walk attracts enthusiastic crowd

On Sunday, May 20, 471 con jobs such as collecting registratestants lined up to participate in the 10th annual Cottage Hospital Fun Run & Walk and Fitness Fest, and faced a mixture of weather along the 5K (3.1 mile)

The runners left the starting line in steamy sunshine, but when Kevin Backus of Sterling Heights broke the finish line at 16 minutes, 26 seconds, dark clouds were gathering overhead.

Rain threatened as the first female, Laura Cichowski of St. Clair Shores, crossed the finish line at 19:21, and only about half of the 163 walkers had made it to the finish line and the shelter when the rain hit.

Many of the race participants, their families and friends took advantage of the Fitness Fest, held in conjunction with the race. Offerings included cholesterol screening, body composition analysis and blood pressure screening.

Jane and Ken Meade were on hand to award the Olympic-style medals to the winners. This was the seventh consecutive year the Meades have supported this community fitness event. Their contribution allows entry fees to go directly to Cottage Hospital to benefit Emergency Services.

The race is co-sponsored by the Cottage Hospital Athletic Medicine Program (CHAMP).

The event was produced by more than 100 employees of the tions, staffing the finish line and cooking the hot dogs. Members of the Optimist Club of Grosse Pointe also assisted in traffic control. Exercise instructors from Vital Options led a pre-race stretch and manned the water stations. Yogurt was provided by N. Leone and Sons.

The first 50 walkers to finish the fun run received specially designed and created pin-ribboned medals. The runners were awarded neck-ribboned medals which also displayed the familiar Cottage Hospital logo.

Runners were divided into female and male classifications, and five-year age groups beginning at 14 years and under.

The winners were: 14-andunder, first place, Amy Vasse and Jared Schmidek, second place, Jonnifer Vasse and Todd Goodwin, third place, Hannah Merz and Eric Brem; 15-19 years old, first place, J. ## Eat smart when traveling a natural consequence of travel-

In fact, many of us view vacations as a time to abandon all rules of healthy eating. But, too much calorie-laden, fat-infested food can destroy the dream vacation, not only because of unwanted weight gain? but also because it causes a tiredness and fatigue that accompanies overeating.

Choosing foods wisely will not only prevent those unwanted pounds from creeping up, but will help make the vacation fun and enjoyable. Achieving success depends in part on your ability to plan ahead and carry through with those plans. Don't leave your behavior to whims and that it be prepared without the low you food substitutes or a added dressing. Some offer a chicken salad, but don't order it with their dressings (that could add unnecessary calories and sodium).

When you eat is as important as what you eat. Staying on a regular eating schedule will go a long way toward avoiding that over-hungry, "I'm starving" feeling. Three moderate meals a day, with one or two fruit snacks are much better than one or two large ones. And, if you plan to eat at regular intervals throughout your trip you will feel better and sleep better, too.

Once you have arrived at your destination, discovering new restaurants is often a prime activity. Just remember, you can enjoy exotic, new foods without over-indulging.

Sometimes a taste is all you need to satisfy your curiosity. charge of that plan. Often the better restaurants are choice in the cooking method. Higher quality foods also tend to be much more satisfying.

A perfectly grilled and seasoned chicken breast may be more satisfying than deep-fried chicken. Foods high in saturated fats often add to your feelings of sluggishness. They are difficult to digest and have a tendency to just "sit" in the stomach.

Your vacation can be all that vou anticipated - beaches, perhaps a trip to the mountains, touring new cities. Eating healthy foods will allow you to enjoy these activities to the maximum.

Remember, you don't have to become a victim of circumstances. There really are no victims, just volunteers who let others or the situation control them. Plan ahead and then take

It's a beautiful day and you teresting and injury free? can't wait to take your fitness program to the great outdoors.

You skip your aerobic class, slip on the running shoes and hit the pavement for a brisk three-mile run. You've been working out all winter and this should be easy — right?

So, why did you find yourself out of breath after only two blocks? And, even after you cut the run short by a mile (and that's OK because the intention was there) the next morning you were positive that during the night a truck ran over your legs and came back for a second pass. What's happening here?

You may or may not remember the training principles I covered in a previous column, but it is appropriate to review one of them now.

The law of specificity states that physiological adaptations (that's the strength or endurance you acquire from any exercise) are specific to the systems which are stressed with exercise. What that boils down to is that if you want to be good at running, then you must train to run.

Conversely, if you want to build muscular strength in your upper body, you must train your upper body against resistance to see desired changes (adapta-

So, all of you year-round runners who got a chuckle from the Mack truck story try an aerobic class on for size and "revenge of the Mack truck" will be playing in your room that night.

How does an average exercise buff keep a fitness program inThe answer is simple - cross-

Cross-training is combining a variety of activities to achieve an increased level of fitness. Most people are single-mode exercisers (runners, swimmers, cyclists, aerobic dancers), and unfortunately a large number of these exercisers will end up with chronic injuries associated with their specific activity.

Studies have shown that crosstraining produces better training results, fewer injuries, greater overall resilience, body tone and cardiovascular fitness. So, if you only run or attend aerobic classes five days a week, you would be better off substituting another activity twice a week.

The best thing about crosstraining is that you can use it to fight off the exercise boredom

Choose exercises that are right for you. Ask yourself: What activities do I enjoy? What facilities are available to me? Does my current physical condition limit my choices? Your answers should lead you to the right exercises.

Recent studies show that people who burn 2,000 calories or more per week doing physical activity have a lower risk of cardiovascular disease. That breaks down to about 286 calories per day, or about 578 calories every other day expended in exercise to maintain optimal health.

This is an appropriate time to review another important training principle - reversibility.

Very simply stated, it means if you stop using it, you start losing it. Try cross-training because it provides variety, effectiveness and a safer means to maintain a fitness lifestyle.

Twenty-six Cottage Hospital employees took time out on Sunday, April 1, to work at the Kerby School rest stop in the Super Cities Walk for Multiple Sclerosis.

The hospital staffers destributed beverages, fresh fruit, water and encouragement to the walkers, who were earning pledge money for every mile walked. Among the workers were Linda Steigerwald, Luella Trentacosta, Jim LaPratt and Connie Es-both numbers.

Mosquito bites can be deadly to your dog. Mosquitoes can be carriers of heartworm disease, a potentially fatal disease that's been reported from almost every state in America.

And unfortunately, your dog can have the disease for a long time before any signs are even noticed. Treating advanced heartworm disease can be dangerous and difficult.

Prevention, however, is surprisingly simple. Just take your dog to the veterinarian for a heartworm test. And ask about heartworm prevention and how convenient

★★ JUNE ★ ★ ADOPT-A-CAT MONTH

DOES A HOME AWAY FROM HOME REALLY EXIST? Not for the millions of lost and abandoned cats that arrive at animal shelters each year. June is ADOPT-A-CAT MONTH, and Morris the 9-Lives Cat, once a stray himself, is "spokescat" for the month-iong campaign, and he asks that you open your hearts and homes to a new feline companion.

Since ADOPT-A-CAT MONTH began 16 years ago, it has helped save the lives of some 1.4 million felines who might have otherwise been euthanized.

Share your love, adopt a cat from the Anti-Cruelty Association, 13569 Jos. Campau, Detroit, MI 48212, Telephone: 891-7188. Adoption hours are:

> 10:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Monday through Saturday

JUNE IS ADOPT-A-CAT MONTH TROUBLE

SNOWBALL

Larry & Lucy

HELP! We are being swamped with abandoned and unwanted cats and kittens - we literally don't have enough room for these sweet animals, who, through no fault of their own, have no where

SNOWBALL is a beautiful pure white Persian/mix female. spayed, about 2 years old. She is sweet and gentle, waiting to be

CASEY has PERSONALITY PLUS. A one and a half year old male orange Tabby shorthair, he would make a wonderful companion.

TROUBLE does not live up to her name. She is actually a very sweet, pretty, spayed and de-clawed black & white female shorthair, about two years old.

LARRY & LUCY are delightful 10-week-old black/beige Tiger Tabby kittens, a male and female, that would make perfect family cats.

PLEASE COME AND ADOPT US AT: THE ANTI-CRUELTY ASSOCIATION 891-7188

Builders and Home Improvement Companies Note:

With spring upon us, builders and home improvement contractors are increasing their advertising aimed at homeowners who may be considering repairs or improvements to their property.

The Better Business Bureau reminds all builders and contractors that state law (Michigan Residential Builders Act -R338-1532) requires that you include your address in all advertising (print, radio, television, etc.) The sole use of a telephone number or post office box is prohibited.

The above notification was issued to the Grosse Pointe News and therefore must be acted upon immediately. A classified ad representative will be contacting all builder and home improvement advertisers so that adjustments can be made with all ads to conform with the state law.

Thank you for your patronage...

. .and several years to go.

The Grosse Pointe Gymnastics Club completed its first season after competing in three levels (V, VI, VII) at the state competition. The GPGC had 19 girls competing in compulsory routines. The level VII girls earned two trophies and many ribbons and medals. Placing sixth on the vault was Marla Cummings, who attends University Liggett School, and has qualified for the optional level for next year. Jocelyn Lorenger, who attends Trombley, placed 10th on the floor and 13th on beam at level V.

Swim for Sports

The top five money earners were Laethem ($725), Freidline ($498), Charles Roddis ($327), Ashley White ($273), and Konsler ($250); these students were awarded cash prizes for their ef-Chevalier, Campau and Grant won CD players. The North athletes raised $16,000.

Park's Summer Program begins

The City of Grosse Pointe Park is beginning its Summer Program.

Registration for all classes will be held at Windmill Pointe

This year, the Park is offering two three-week sessions for swim classes, and four two-week sessions for tennis

Besides painting in the Park, there will be Jacki's Aerobic Dancing on Tuesday and Thursday mornings, and Jane's Aerobics on Tuesday and Thursday evenings. Call 822-2812 for more information.

The tennis tournament will begin Saturday, July 21, and end on July 28. An awards party for all who participated will be held Sunday, July 29.

tourney before July 2.

The grand Fishing Rodeo is noon, with the event open to all residents, 15 years or younger.

The rodeo will be held on the main pier facing Lake St. Clair and the fishing will be held at 8:15 a.m., and conclude with an awards ceremony. Deadline to enter is June 15.

Team tennis is also being offered Monday evenings from June 18 until mid-August at Windmill Pointe Park. Play begins at 7 p.m. and continues until 10 p.m.

Teams should be composed of both male and female adults,

You can register for the tennis with sufficient players to participate in the following events: women's singles and doubles, set for June 23 from 8 a.m. to men's singles and doubles, and mixed doubles.

> Four players are required, two males and two females, to make up a team.

Team tennis is designed to be an adult mixer, where players get to meet new people and cheer for their friends, as well as play tennis.

Applications must be submitted by June 12, and entry is restricted to the first eight teams that apply.

Call 822-2812 for further information on any of the programs.
