Preliminary census figures show loss in all Pointes

Assistant Editor

The preliminary 1990 census figures released Monday continued a two-decade population decline in the Pointes, which will cost cities tens of thousands of dollars in lost state and federal

The preliminary 1990 census numbers showed all five Pointes with fewer inhabitants than last decade. The decline overall in the Pointes was 5.9 percent from 52,021 people in 1980 to 48,961.

The drop in population will mean fewer federal and state dollars for the already-tight local city budgets.

According to Tom Kressbach, city manager for Grosse Pointe City, a quick estimate of his city's expected annual loss of federal and state funds going to the general and highway budgets would be in excess of $20,000 not counting federal Community Development Block Grant funds.

"It's important," he said of the budgetary effect of the new census figures. "You don't want to lose anything.'

The population drop in the 1980s was half that experienced in the Pointes in the previous decade.

The 1970 census pegged the five Pointes' population at 58,708, which was 11.4 percent higher than the 1980 figure. During the '70s, the City lost 11.1 percent of its population; the Farms, 9.8 percent; the Park, 13 percent; and the Woods, 13.7 percent. The Shores' population grew 1.4 percent in the 1970s.

During the 20-year period from 1970 to 1990, the Pointes' population dropped 16.6 percent from 58,708 in 1970 to 48,961 at this year's count.

The count in the Pointes, according to the preliminary 1990 census, is:

• City - 5,663 • Farms — 10,051

• Park — 12,631

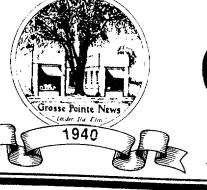

• Shores - 2,948 • Woods - 17,668

The figures are preliminary, and the cities have 15 working days from the time of notification to verify and challenge the numbers.

Children's Home to assist FLEC; services continue

By Ronald J. Bernas Staff Writer

The Family Life Education Council, better known as FLEC, will be able to continue its service to the community, thanks to the Children's Home of Detroit.

FLEC officials announced in early July that the 24-year-old non-profit organization would have to close because of lack of funding.

But from the day the announcement was made, Mike Horwitz, executive director of Children's Home, worked to see what his facility could do.

He contacted all of the Children's Home board members he could, reaching 29 of 34, and they unanimously supported his idea to take over the administrative and financial end of FLEC and let the people who have been running it continue to do what they had been doing.

"I think it's a natural extension of the agency's work," Horwitz said. "My goal is to let them do the direct care and take the funding problems and the administrative problems and assume them over here.'

FLEC will continue to operate out of its Mack Avenue storefront, maintaining all of its services, except for the medical clinic. The organization offers a crisis hotline, legal aid and a Youth Assistance Program which allows first-time juvenile offenders in the Pointes and Harper Woods a chance to avoid Wayne County Juvenile Court and also a criminal record.

Juveniles who are accepted into the Youth Assistance Program attend counseling, often with their parents, and they must perform community service. Upon completion of the program the offender's record is clean. If it is not completed successfully, the offender will be processed through the county's juvenile system. FLEC, and the Youth Assistance Program in particular, has been financed by the cities it serves and grants. The grant money, though, fell through this year, forcing the organization to close its doors.

Horwitz says Home will fund the programming until a way can be found to make it more self-supporting.

In a statement, William C. Rands III, Children's Home board president, said the agency got involved to keep the unique programs, including the Youth Assistance Program and the Center Point Crisis Line, going because they are important to the community. "Our organization is dedicated to serving the needs of young people and their families and we very much want to continue these two programs," Rands said. "The six municipal governments have done a lot for our children by helping to pay for the Youth Assistance Program. and we will need their continued support."

He said the response has been positive and he is optimistic the funding will be continued.

"I'm very, very pleased with the new arrangement," said Colinda Hendricks, FLEC's executive director.

She said volunteers worked hard to find other community organizations which could take over the programs, particularly the Youth Assistance Program, and was surprised at how quickly it all happened, before the volunteer corps had disbanded.

'There were some pretty scary days back in July when we thought we wouldn't be able to continue the programs we had offered the community for so long," she said.

They are looking for an organization to take over the medical clinic the Children's Home didn't pick up.

School administrators form association

By Ronald J. Bernas Staff Writer

Administrators in the Grosse Pointe schools have re-established the Grosse Pointe Administrators Association, a union of administrators which has been defunct for about 10 years.

On Aug. 13, the board of education formally recognized the association as "the sole and exclusive bargaining representative of administrative person-

Association President Donald Messing said the group disbanded several years ago because there was no need for it.

But Messing, who is principal of Brownell Middle School, said and the recent recognition by the board is the culmination of a year's worth of work.

The association was formed partly because of an incident which arose over the synopses of administrator evaluations which were given to the board. Those synopses reportedly were more negative than the evaluations seen by the administrators.

The administrators feel that by uniting, they can prevent such incidents from happening

"I want to state that the formation of this is no reflection on there has been a renewed need Superintendent Ed Shine or on the board voluntarily recognize Messing said. "The board's been extremely cooperative. There is not a negative relationship between the administrators and the board. It's not us against them."

Messing said the primary issue is the present system of merit pay.

"Merit pay breaks the group apart rather than bringing it together," Messing said. "It's not the economics of the system, it's that it's a divisive instrument." He said he would like to see merit pay eliminated.

Shine said he recommended

> He also said that on a day-today basis, he expects no change in the operation of the school

All administrators, with the exception of the superintendent, the deputy superintendent, the assistant superintendents and the directors of personnel and special education, are eligible to join the association.

the Park. The arrests of a man and woman in Highland Park Aug. 7 revealed a mail theft and fraud operation from throughout Detroit. Some four mail thefts from carriers have occurred in the Detroit area recently.

On July 21 at 11:15 a.m., the mail carrier's car was broken into and mail taken. Mail delivery to the streets of Buckingham, Devonshire and Bedford was affected.

Detective Lt. David Hiller said Monday that the man and woman were arrested in Highland Park while trying to cash checks made out using names of Grosse Pointe Park residents.

He explained that the suspects would use information from the stolen mail to make false identification and open checking accounts. In this case, the suspects opened an account at one bank, got checks, then opened an account at another bank to cash checks drawn from the first bank. By the time the checks bounced, the suspects could not be traced because they used stolen names and information.

The suspects use the credit car information obtained from the stolen mail to wire money to accomplices. Three Park residents almost were victimized recently in this manner, Hiller said.

The suspects, using stolen Park residents' information, called Western Union to have money wired to an accomplice, but Western Union called the Park residents to verify. Fortunately, in all three cases, the intended victims asked questions, made phone calls, suspected a fraud and notified police.

"The people in all three cases are to be commended," Hiller said. "They used their heads."

The fraudulent schemes used by the mail thieves with the stolen information are limited only by their imaginations. The arrested man had seven picture IDs on him with a different name on each. The woman had four separate IDs.

Hiller feared, however, that

Non-profit dive-rescue team created; seed money donated

By John Minnis Assistant Editor

The Grosse Pointe Fraternal Order of Police Associates donated $4,000 to help a non-profit dive-rescue team organized by Leon Sehoyan of Grosse Pointe Shores.

"It's the first time in 25 years someone has helped in any way," Sehoyan said.

While the non-profit group was recently formed so that it could receive financial donations, Sehoyan and his dive team have been rescuing motorists and others out of the lake along the Pointes for quarter of a century. The dive team has assisted all of the police departments.

During the years, the divers have furnished their own equipment, which gets very costly. Sehoyan said the $4,000 gift will be used to buy winter diving gear so that more of the divers will be able to assist in the icv water during the winter.

The FOP Associates, Lodge 102, presented a check to Sehoyan while the dive team was practicing Aug. 16. FOP Associates on hand were President Bill Irwin, past presidents Bob Estabrook and Warren Brush and board members Ray Michael and Gay Theuerkorn.

The members of the non-profit dive team are Mark Dupuis, Alan, David and Leon Schoyan, Dan Holly, Farms Public Safety Officer Jack Patterson and Craig Oshnock.

The FOP Associates' role is to help all types of law enforcement activities. Its 250 members contribute to police in many areas and to other organizations, such as SADD (Students Against Driving Drunk).

"Our function is to support the police," Irwin said.

Pointes' dip in population no surprise

o nobody's great surprise, population of the five Grosse Pointes dipped almost 6 percent from 1980 to 1990, according to the preliminary count reported Monday.

The overall decline of 5.88 percent reflected a drop of 3,060 from the 1980 population of 52,021 to a new level of 48,961 with the declines ranging from the low of 4 percent in Grosse Pointe City to the high of 6.8 percent in the Park.

While the population drop in the Pointes was the second in a row in the decennial census, the decline that set in after the community reached the 1970 peak of 58,708 has been leveling off in recent, years.

It has been no secret that the Pointes constitute an aging community of smaller families. The school enrollment in recent years has dropped off dramatically from the peak of more than 13,500 in the 1970s although there has been a slight rise in elementary school numbers for several years.

Last September, for example, the traditional fourth Friday count showed an increase of 81 students over the number at the close of school in the previous June. That total reflected a gain of 146 in the elementary schools but a decline of 8 in the middle schools and a drop of 57 in the two high schools.

The other factor that contributes to the stability of the Pointe population is that the community is just about built with the number of residential building lots still available very few and far between.

That does not mean there may not have been an undercount in the suburbs just as there reportedly has been in the city of Detroit. But it is doubtful that Pointe officials in checking their records and residents in the 10 days before the preliminary figures become find will find enough uncounted Pointers to reverse the downward population trends shown in the reports already made public.

Just as in the big cities, governing bodies in the Pointes will lose some state and federal revenues, although the losses here obviously will not be as large proportionately as they will be in Detroit if that city's preliminary estimates are not substantially boosted.

But in the Pointes, a stable population tends to suit the residents. It means they are not pestered by the traffic, development costs, expansion of public services, construction problems, noise and other kinds of growing pains that afflict expanding communities.

The Pointes are no exception to the current trend in the Detroit metro area that shows a continuation of the population shifts away from older cities and suburbs into newer suburbs in Macomb, Oakland, Washtenaw and even western Wayne counties.

Thus older suburbs such as Dearborn Heights, Birmingham, Farmington and even East Detroit lost population along with the Pointes, while the big gainers in the metro Detroit area included Farmington Hills, Auburn Hills, Novi and Northville and Canton townships.

The expansion of the freeway system affected population trends in southeastern Michigan as it has elsewhere in the United States. In some communities, it cut communities apart and damaged growth potential but the system also has made it possible for many local residents to live farther and farther from their work places.

In most cases, the commuters seek residential communities with less crime and with more open space than they can find in the big cities and with living conditions superior to those that now prevail in some in the older suburbs.

As for the Grosse Pointes, now that they have lost almost 10,000 inhabitants from their 1970 peak population, they appear to be destined to remain as a comparatively stable community in the foreseeable future.

That prospect doesn't hold out hope for a big increase in marketing, sales and services by commercial interests but it does offer assurance of a continuation of the excellent quality of life that Pointers currently prize.

Why Arab masses back Iraq

President Saddam Hussein of Iraq has tapped a vein of popular discontent in the Arab world by his call for the overthrow of all "oil emirs" who fail to distribute their wealth to the people.

The Iraqi dictator would appear to be an unlikely leader of a popular revolution against the oil-rich sheiks but it is true that not all Arabs, and not even all those residing in the oil-rich states, have shared in the oil wealth the Persian gulf produces.

The result is that a widely circulated Tunisian daily, quoted by the New York Times, said last week: "From the Atlantic to the gulf, the Arab man in the street is on the side of Iraq."

on the side of Iraq."

Never mind that President Hussein himself has gobbled up another Arab state in an attempt to increase his already substantial oil resources. His victim, after all, was the kingdom of Kuwait which was never acknowledged to be a democratic state nor one that shared its wealth widely, even though it helped finance Iraq in its long war with Iran.

Evidence that Hussein's appeal fell on fertile ground came from reports that thousands of Arab volunteers signed up at Iraqi embassies in Tunis, Yemen, Jordan and Algeria to support Iraq and from popular demonstrations staged in a number of Arab capitals to back Iraq's leader.

Thus Hussein's shrewd appeal to the Arab masses, including those claiming to have been dispossessed by the creation of the state of Israel, only complicate the actions of the United States in the gulf crisis.

To most Americans and to much of the rest of the Western world, the U.S. government made the right decision in opposing Iraq's grab of a tiny independent state, and, in the process, in seeking to preserve the gulf sources of oil supplies for Western European nations and the United States itself.

Schools wise no

In accepting the Curriculum Coordinating Council's recommendation, Superintendent Ed Shine and the board of education made a wise decision by agreeing not to offer the controversial Channel One news show to the Grosse Pointe public schools.

Shine's report to the school board went to the heart of the controversy over Whittle Communications' proposed 12-minute-aday news show, including two minutes of commercials that in effect finance the program. He said, in part:

"We have to show that the schools have a value system of what is important. If we went ahead, we would be indicating to the community that that is where our values lie. We are not willing to sell the instructional time of our students."

If the proposed contract had been accepted, the 12 minutes would have been taken out of the instructional time for at least 90 percent of the students on some 90 percent of the school days.

Whittle's offer consisted of $50,000 worth of electrical equipment, including a satellite dish, a TV set for every 23 students and other equipment that could have been used in other programs, but the superin-

But to the Arabs who do not share in the profits from the gulf oil, the United States and its allies are seen as imperialist intruders who are carrying on what some term "the new Christian-Zionist crusade against Arab and Islamic lands."

The United States is also seen as having a double standard in the Middle East. Sobhi Taha, chairman of the Writers' Association in Jordan, was quoted by the Times as asking: "Where was this American enthusiasm when Palestinian lands were confiscated by Israel or when Israel occupied parts of Egypt, Syria and Jordan in 1967?"

In the end, even the dispute over oil winds up as part of the continuing Arab resistance to the creation of the state of Israel, another factor that helps explain President Hussein's standing with the Arab masses, if not with many of their rulers.

As is usually the case in the Middle East, the current crisis is even more complicated than it looks and is becoming ever more complicated as well as more threatening. The Iraqi government says it will release the foreigners it holds only if the United States withdraws militarily and politically from the gulf region even though the UN Security Council orders Iraq to release all of the Western hostages.

The U.S. forces enlarge their protecting wing to cover the United Arab Emirates but America's allies appear reluctant to aid in the blockade of the Persian Gulf unless the UN authority is more carefully spelled out. Even the ultimate goal of the U.S. forces has not yet been made clear in Washington.

Yet despite the attempts by Saddam Hussein and his ambassador to the United States to shift the blame to U. S. "imperialism," the fact remains that it was Iraq which created the current crisis by its invasion of Kuwait. No explanations can justify that unprincipled behavior.

not to use TV

tendent and board were correct, in our view, in not wanting any outsiders to determine the use of time in the schools.

While the board didn't say so, we think the schools would be wise to avoid emphasis on TV viewing. Youngsters already tend to spend too much time in front of the tube at home and for the schools to sponsor another 12 minutes of viewing would add an unnecessary emphasis and sign of approval.

The offer of supposedly free equipment appeared to be attractive but a price was to be paid, in effect, by the sale of instructional time. If the schools decide they need more TV or electrical equipment, they ought to buy it to serve their own purposes, not to exhibit programs offered by a profit-making organization, which, not so incidentally, is half owned by Time magazine.

In view of the many critical judgments being made these days about curricula and other school problems, we think the decision was the right one and congratulate the Curriculum Coordinating Council and the superintendent for recommending it and the school board for accepting it.

To the Editor:

We wish to thank the Summer Music Festival Committee, headed by Alex Suczek, Johanna Gilbert, Mark Weber and Jan Arndt, for once again bringing the fine and varied music programs to the beautiful Grosse Pointe War Memorial setting for its lakeside concerts.

This evening's (Aug. 13) was the final concert of the Summer Music Festival, with the Grosse Pointe Symphony making it a grand finale. From the "Light Cavalry Overture" to the Sousa "Semper Fidelis March" to the familiar musicals to the fireworks display, it was a pleasure to the capacity crowd which came to hear and see them.

In such a beautiful setting, on such a lovely night (in spite of "iffy" rain possibilities throughout the day), the last of that series was a truly memorable finale.

Recycling

To the Editor:

Just a note from a proud parent whose son has established a paper recycling program at his place of work. His experience may inspire some other person or company to make an environmental difference.

Steve's employer, Creative Universal, approved his contracting with Great Lakes Paper to collect paper refuse. Great Lakes installed four paper bins (each holds 500 pounds of paper) for free and placed them in separate work areas in the building. The bins are emptied on a weekly basis by Great Lakes and a check is sent directly to an employee fund to an employee fund. The program has been in place for a little more than a year and the benefits are impressive. 58,400 pounds of paper have been collected which has meant $1,177.95 for an employee fund account. They have bought two keg coolers, film for employee parties, five paper containers for sub-station collection points, two sets of horseshoes, a donation to the Sierra Ciub. This still leaves a balance of $717.19 for whatever.

The monetary rewards are minor when compared with the program's impact on the environment. The following figures are based on material from the Institute of Scrap Recycling. By using this 58,400 pounds (29.2 tons) of recycled paper instead of virgin pulp to make paper products, the following savings could result for the state of Michigan:

• 29.2 tons x 17 equals 496.4 average size trees are saved

• 29.2 tons x 60 equals 1,752 pounds of pollutants that do not fill the air

• 29.2 tons x 7000 equals 204,400 gallons of water not polluted during production

• 29.2 tons x 3 equals 87.6 cubic yards of landfill space not used

• 29.2 tons x 4,100 equals 119,720 KWH of electrical energy saved (119,720 KWH equals 15 homes heated and air-conditioned for one year)

air-conditioned for one year).

Another plus of the program has been the inquiries made by other interested companies and groups. Good will breeds good will.

Our petty problems

I met an amazing young man the other day. And he made me realize just how fortunate I am and how minor my problems are.

Last week I had the opportunity to meet Eric Rentenbach, a Park 16-year-old who is going into South as a sophomore this year. He is like any other teenager: He likes to go to concerts, Tiger games and ride around with his friends.

He would be a perfectly normal teen except for one thing: He has muscular dystrophy.

He was confined to a wheelchair when he was 9. Today he gets around in an electric wheelchair, and he leads an active life. He just got back from camp; he plans to work 22 hours straight on the Jerry Lewis telethon for muscular dystrophy; he's a student senator; president of the Foreign Exchange Club and plans to join the debate team this year.

After graduating from high school, he plans to attend an engineering college and combine that with architecture. He has a full life planned, and he's excited about it.

The only problem is, is that he will probably die prematurely as muscular dystrophy melts away the very muscle tissue that ties his body together and makes it strong. According to the Muscular Dystrophy Association, boys with Duchenne muscular dystrophy, the most common form of the disease and the kind Rentenbach has, are only expected to live 10 to 15 years after being clinically diagnosed.

My intent here is not to dis-

tress young Rentenbach or his talking to you now." family. I'm sure they know and have discussed all this. In fact, as delicately as I could, I asked Rentenbach about how he felt about the inevitability of the final outcome of his muscular disorder. Unless a cure is found soon, he will die before he gets to become the successful engineer/architect he wants to be.

I asked him if he has hope. He said, "If I didn't, I wouldn't be

In my mind, that's courage, faith, the will to live, "the right stuff." I don't think I'm that

All of us who are so-called normal - at least with a full lifespan ahead of us - think our petty problems are important. Let's compare them to Rentenbach's and his family's.

We worry about being too short or too tall, too thin or too fat, too little hair, too few possessions, not a big enough house, not an expensive enough car, too small a boat or too skimpy a paycheck.

How insignificant these problems are.

Older people will tell you, "As long as you have your health," and we youngsters will say yeah, yeah. We take our health for granted. We assume wealth, possessions and status are more important. I guess that's easy to believe when you have that key necessity: good health.

And we think our family has it rough. We don't get along with a brother or sister. We think parents are only meant to interfere.

But just think of the bravery and compassion the Rentenbach family must have.

MDA literature points out that parents of a boy with muscular dystrophy may heap blame upon themselves, or they may lavish so much attention to the special child to the exclusion of the other children. Sometimes one parent may be so obsessed with the muscular dystrophy child to the point of endangering the entire family and the marriage.

The problems of the family affected by muscular dystrophy makes getting along with mom, dad, brother and sister seem like not such a big deal.

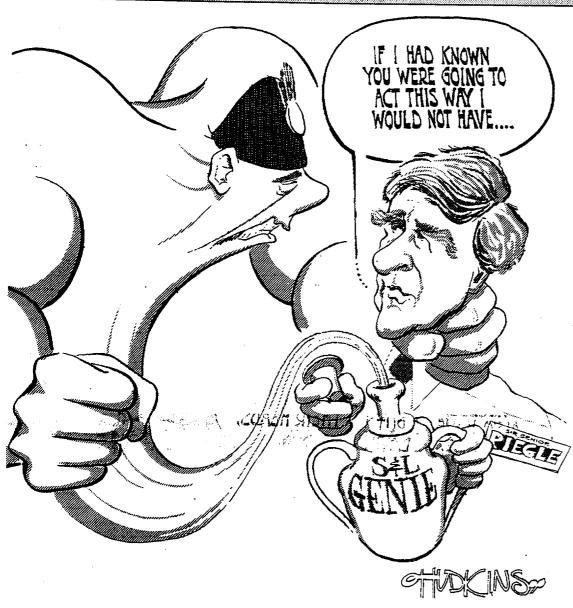

Meeting Eric Rentenbach last week was a timely reminder of how fortunate most of us are. With the annual Labor Day telethon coming up, we can take time to be thankful for our health and do something for those who don't have good health.

I plan on making a pledge, and I hope Grosse Pointe will once again lead the way in generosity. It's the least we can do.

Property purchase To the Editor:

Dan Jarvis' article last week titled "War Memorial answers concerns over recent property purchase," failed on three counts.

First, the article contains nothing to suggest that the War Memorial representative answered anyone's concerns. Second, the rendered story about the Uznis resale of the property is difficult to believe.

Third, the twice-repeated inference that low attendance at the War Memorial's meeting implied support for the property purchase is presumptuous. The people invited may have stayed away because of frustration and despair.

Furthermore, it should be emphasized that many, many Grosse Pointers do not desire increased services from the War Memorial. These Grosse Pointers believe that present services are adequate, especially when confined to Grosse Pointers.

War Memorial

To the Editor:

On Wednesday, Aug. 8, the Grosse Pointe War Memorial and its board invited certain interested persons to attend an informal meeting to discuss the recent purchase of the John Griffin home at 40 Lakeshore. The purpose of the meeting was to allow those so interested to express their thoughts and concerns about this recent purchase and also to allow the War Memorial to present their proposed uses of this property and to unveil their site plan.

The meeting began with an introduction of the board members and the director, all of whom were in attendance to respond to inquiries from the audience. Following the introduction, Ms. M. Jane Kay, the chairman of the War Memorial Association, disclaimed any collusion or deceitfulness surrounding the purchase of the 40 Lakeshore property from Mr. John Uznis.

While such a disclaimer is noted, so are the following facts: On April 24, 1990, the Griffin property was pur-chased by Mr. John C. Uznis. Mr. Uznis sold the property to the War Memorial on May 10, 1990, 16 days later, not "months" as you reported. At the meeting it was learned that the War Memorial paid $1.3 million for this property, which, coincidentally, was the same price Mr. Uznis paid Mr. Griffin. An interesting aspect of this is that Mr. Uznis apparently did not profit from his sale; $1.3 million is

$1.3 million. Further, the purchase of the property by the War Memorial was not subject to any requirement that the property be rezoned for the War Memorial's use. Therefore, the War Memorial has spent $1.3 million for a property they claim they are not sure whether they can get rezoned, although their confidence in so doing was clear. The War Memorial and its board nevertheless assured the audience that they had no contact with the mayor or the council prior to the pur-

Your memorial edition came recently as a gift of Mrs. Henry C. Parsons, my sister-in-law. I've skimmed it but it will take at least two weeks to savor it.

Please choose any bits and pieces below you think will interest your readers. I've enjoyed writing it and will continue it for my own use. My oldest greatgranddaughter will be able to read it in another year or two.

I moved to 947 Berkshire Road in 1925 at age 8. My father was Carl B. Parsons, manufacturer of auto body parts and Swedish vice counsul. My mother, Edith Thoren Parsons, was very active in church and Red Cross.

There was an attractive real estate office on the southwest corner of Jefferson, then only seven houses from there to the lake. I went to Defer School for one year. In warm weather, we hurried over Fox Creek because of the awful stench, the sandflies and mosquitoes.

In winter Dad towed us on our Flexible Flyers over the ice on Glee Club that went to state the lake if it was cold enough. Otherwise he stuck to Fairfax, Essex and Windmill Pointe Drive. I remember when the park opened at the foot of Alter. Before that we had to drive to the village park to swim.

We were so thrilled when the station was opened. Before that we had to rollerskate two miles each way. Across the street we stared at the cafe which straddled the city line. We were too young to know if the stories were true, that it was blind pig with a counter on wheels. When police came in the vestibule, they would roll the bar to the other side.

My brothers and I were active in music and drama. Blanche Dill produced an ancient Greek drama. My brother Henry was Sisyphus and I was Diana. We were patiently taught how to hold each finger as we recited each speech. But then came Axel Gruenberg. My brothers and I retired to backstage jobs. We did have to have a speaking part to be named for Thespians. I had a minor part in "The Cradle Song" and Hank was the voice down the elevator shaft in another play. We made it.

chase of the property, but admitted that since the purchase they have indeed discussed the matter of rezoning with certain members of the council.

These are the facts. They speak for themselves as to whether the War Memorial has been fair to the community in this regard.

The War Memorial believes that rezoning of this property will better serve the needs of the "community." The operative word here is community. The War Memorial presently attempts to serve southeast Michigan and not just the Pointes and Grosse Pointe Farms, which is the host to this institution, and the following questions should be asked.

1) Is it in the best interests of Grosse Pointe Farms to allow rezoning of a residential home in a very unique neighborhood to provide a need for space for small classes, meetings, lectures and art exhibits when there is existing space at the high school, the library and other facilities that are already non-residential?

2) Is it in the best interests of Grosse Pointe Farms to remove from the tax rolls a property that surely pays some of the highest property taxes in Grosse Pointe Farms?

3) Is it in the best interests of Grosse Pointe Farms to have more traffic, parking problems and congestion in a residential neighborhood with further commercial activities associated with the purchase of the 40 Lake-shore property. Certainly it may be in the best interest of the War Memorial to have expanded cultural and educational activities, but the council and the mayor should consider solely the best interest of the residents and the community of Grosse Pointe Farms.

It is interesting to note that Grosse Pointe Woods had the opportunity to have the War Memorial expand its activities into their community by way of the University Liggett campus and the council in Grosse Pointe Woods voted against it. In my opinion, and the opinion of others in the Farms, the beautiful residence at 40 Lakeshore should continue to remain residential and not be rezoned.

On Sept. 10, the council will be asked to vote at a public hearing to rezone 40 Lakeshore property from residential to a commercial use, as requested by the War Memorial. As a concerned citizen and neighbor of the War Memorial, I urge all concerned citizens of Grosse Pointe Farms, to advise the council and the mayor as to your feelings pertaining to this issue. If in fact you are opposed to the rezoning of the property as I am, petitions against rezoning may be obtained by calling 886-

Protect against Lyme disease

Lyme disease, spread by the painless bite of an infected tick, is a growing health problem in the United States today. Cases have been reported in at least 43 states, and most state health officials are predicting an increased incidence of the disease in 1990.

Adults can take steps to protect themselves and their children against the threat of Lyme disease. And, because early diagnosis and medical treatment most often can prevent such serious Lyme disease complications as brain, eye, lung or liver infection, benign skin tumors and birth defects, the public should be aware of how to prevent tick bites and how to detect and deal with them.

"Educating people in the simple process we call 'Protect and Check' is our best answer to the Lyme disease epidemic," said Karen Vanderhoof-Forschner, president of the Lyme Borreliosis Foundation. Here's how to do it: Protect against tick bites by wearing light-colored clothing.

• Wear long-sleeves and tuck pants into socks to reduce exposed skin areas.

• Try to avoid heavily wooded areas and tall grass.

Before going outdoors, use a tick repellent. The Lyme Borreliosis Foundation recommends that you spray a repellent on both clothing and exposed skin areas.

Equally important is to carefully check family members and pets when they return indoors. If you discover a tick, remain calm. Not all ticks are infected with the Lyme disease bacteria. Here's what to do if you find a

• Remove the tick with tweezers by grasping near the skin and pulling with a gentle, steady pressure. Do not twist or rotate the tick. Also, do not crush, burn or prick the tick because this can cause the release of bacteria. Covering the tick with petroleum jelly will not help remove

 After you remove the tick, place it in a closed container with a blade of grass for identification and testing by a doctor. Ticks are hard to kill, so, if you must dispose of it, flush it down the toilet. Do not put it in the trash.

• Be sure to disinfect the site of the tick bite and wash your hands and tweezers. Consult your physician and watch for a rash or flu-like symptoms within days or weeks.

NOTICE OF A PUBLIC HEARING

ON INCREASING PROPERTY TAXES

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE pursuant to Act 5, Public Acts of Michigan 1982, that on Tuesday, September 4, 1990, at 8:00 o'clock p.m. at a regular session, the Board of Education of The Grosse Pointe Public School System will hold a public hearing at the Administration Building, 389 St. Clair Avenue, Grosse Pointe, Michigan 48230 (313) 343-2010 on the levy of a proposed millage rate of 29.6315 for operating purposes.

The present voted millage of the school district of 36.9000 mills for General and Library Funds has been reduced by the "Headlee Amendment" to 33.1962. The Board of Education has complete authority to establish that 29.6315 mills be levied in 1990 for the General and Library Funds from the present authorized millage rate.

The maximum additional proposed millage rate for the General and Library Funds would increase revenues for operating purposes from ad valorem property tax levies in 1990 otherwise permitted by Act 5, Public Acts of Michigan in 1990 in the amount of $4,306,790, or an increase of 9.5% (the increase will be $4,433,429, or 9.5% for General, Library and Debt Funds.)

The figure for increase in revenue for operating purposes is based on the latest estimate of state equalized valuation of property located within the school district.

The purpose of this hearing is to receive testimony and discuss the millage levy. Not less than seven (7) days following the public hearing, the Board of Education may approve any portion of the proposed millage rate.

This notice is given by order of the Board of Education.

Farms hosts simulated shooting exercises

Assistant Editor

You can't give up. You never give up. Even if you're hit, you still have a chance to get a shot off. If you give up, you're dead.

Those are the words of Grosse Pointe Farms Public Safety Officer Jack Patterson as he prepares a shooter for simulation

The Farms hosted the simulated training at the its firehouse all last week for officers from local police departments. Officers from all the Pointes attended, Patterson said, as well those from Harper Woods.

The simulations were provided by the FBI's FATS machine. FATS stands for Firearms Training System. The system is a $47,000 machine with a laser disc, projector, computer and a modified police revolver. Patterson was trained to operate the system, and the FBI generously left it in Patterson's care for a week.

"It's a wonderful piece of equipment," he said. "We're fortunate to get to use it." He said it would cost $40 an officer to use a similar system for 15 minutes at a police academy.

The FATS has 40 different scenarios. The officer stands in front of a projection screen and watches the scenarios unfold. Suddenly action breaks out and the officer has a split second to decide whether to shoot. Sometimes it's a bad guy, other times not.

Furthermore, it could be an armed bad guy, but there is no immediate danger to the officer or others. "You have to have an immediate threat to life to legally and morally shoot," Patterson said.

The modified police handgun emits a laser that hits the screen where a bullet would, and the FATS computer calculates where the laser bullet hit. Holes appear on the screen where the officer's "bullets" struck.

One scenario is where shots are heard in a party store. One

Share a ride

Events in the Middle East are already affecting local commuters as they find higher prices at the gas pump. A disruption of the nation's oil supply means that some commuters will find ridesharing an attractive alternative to the usual solo drive to and from work. Experts note that car and van pools offer the nation its largest immediate energy-saving potential.

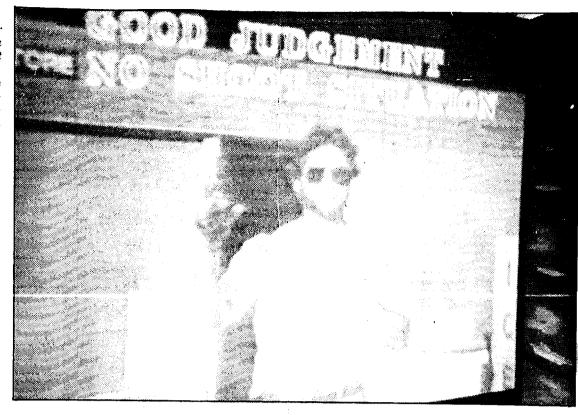

RideShare, a service of SEM-COG, the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments, has been helping commuters reduce their energy consumption and save money for the last 10 years. RideShare employs a state-of-theart computer system to locate compatible carpool partners and vanpool groups for commuters in the seven county region. The matching service is free of Application to the program is simple - interested commuters can call 963-RIDE — the hotline number posted along freeways. A RideShare representative can identify potential matchmates immediately and provide the names by phone, fax or mail.

MichiVan, a van pool program coordinated by RideShare and sponsored by the Michigan Department of Transportation, supplies fully insured passenger vans to groups of nine or more.

Van pool fares depend on gasoline costs, length of commute and the number of passengers. A commuter can expect to pay approximately $60 per month for a vanpool carrying 12 passengers making a 50 mile round trip. The vans are equipped with airconditioning, AM-FM stereo, power steering, power brakes and automatic transmission.

The most economical commuting operation MichVan offers is to become a van pool driver. Drivers of the 15 passenger vans ride free and have personal use of the vehicles evenings and weekends. In return, they collect fares and work with RideShare to find and maintain the minimum number of passengers.

The officer handling this scenario on the FBI's Firearms Training System used good judgment by not shooting at this man, who turned out to be the owner of a store that was just robbed. The FATS machine projects 40 such scenarios on a screen, to which officers respond with a standard, police-issue handgun that has been modified to emit a laser.

unarmed individual runs from the store as the officer approaches. Then a second man comes running out with a gun in hand. If the officer shoots, he's in trouble, because the man with the gun turns out to be the owner of the store who is chasing the robbery suspect.

"This shows there are situations where you will have to use your weapon," Patterson said, "and sometimes you won't."

Even though officers in the Pointes aren't faced with life-

Some of the scenarios are impossible for the officers. There's one where the officer is in a building that is supposed to be secure with no threat of danger. The elevator opens and there stands a man with a shotgun. He immediately fires, killing the officer, who didn't have a chance. Patterson said this scenare dangers that they cannot possibly anticipate or be prepared to handle.

He said the officers all did pretty well on the simulations, and most appreciated the chance to test their reflexes and judgment.

The Farms firefighters even enjoyed the simulations. To some of them FATS was a larger-thanlife Nintendo game, and they were better than some police offi-

Volunteers needed for telethon

Become part of the annual Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon for the Muscular Dystrophy Association. MDA is seeking volunteers from Wayne, Oakland, Macomb and Monroe counties to answer phones and take pledges for the telethon, Sunday, Sept. 2, through Monday, Sept. 3.

More than 2,000 volunteers are needed to work five-hour shifts at 12 pledge centers throughout the metropolitan Detroit area. Interested volunteers, 18 or older, can register by calling 476-2920.

The pledge centers are located at: Mount Clemens VFM, Mount Clemens; Guest Quarters Suite Hotel, Troy; Eastland Mall, Harper Woods; Omni Hotel, Detroit; Alfred Sheridan Community Center, Taylor; Arborland Mall, Ann Arbor; Hyatt Regency, Dearborn; Fairlane Town Cen-ter, Dearborn; Friendly Ford, Monroe; Radisson Plaza Hotel, Southfield; Merrill Lynch offices, Bloomfield Hills; Ypsilanti Moose Lodge, Ypsilanti; and the Sheraton Oaks, Novi.

Saratoga seeks volunteers

Volunteering a few hours a week is a good way to meet people and help an organization at the same time. Saratoga Community Hospital currently has openings for volunteers at the visitors' information desk.

The information desk is a key area of activity at the hospital. It is the location all visitors must report to before proceeding to other areas.

Those who like interacting with people both in person and on the telephone should enjoy being an information desk volunteer. These volunteers answer telephone calls regarding patient information and conditions, hand out visitor passes, put returned passes in room order, check the updated patient list, give directions to visitors, and answer many miscellaneous questions.

Currently, volunteers are needed between the hours of 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. weekdays, and 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. weekends. Flexible hours are arranged according to each volunteer's schedule.

Individuals with a few hours to devote can call 245-1522 for more information on volunteer opportunities at Saratoga Community Hospital.

Saratoga Community Hospital is located at 15000 Gratiot Avenue, between State Fair and 8 Mile roads.

Edward Arnold Jr. joined the Grosse Pointe Public Safety Department as an officer trainee Aug. 20. He immediately began the Wayne County Regional Police Academy.

Chrysler looks to Acclaim to create strong Plymouth image

The Plymouth Acclaim was introduced last year, along with the Dodge Spirit, as successor to the K car. The K cars, the Plymouth Reliant and Dodge Aries, were introduced as '80 models with the mission of saving Chrysler Corp. They did.

The public liked the K cars and bought enough of them that Lee Iacocca was able to reverse Chrysler Corp.'s downward slide. So the Acclaim has big shoes to fill. It fills them well.

When the Acclaim was introduced, some observers complained that it did not look a lot different from the Reliant it replaced, nor did the Dodge Spirit look much different from the Aries it replaced. But they are definitely improved.

The Plymouth Acclaim is, in fact, more K car than the K car was. The K car sold because it was a conservatively styled automobile which would transport a family in comfort, with reliability, economy and reasonable lines and Plymouth's image is performance. The Acclaim does these things a bit better.

Its styling is indeed reminiscent of its predecessor, but the minor changes make it much more attractive. Its appearance is a little more wedge-shaped, its lines are a little more rounded, the bright-medal grille flows nicely into the overall design.

If all this sounds like damning with faint praise, that is not what is intended, for it is high praise. In this day of $11,000 economy cars and underpowered family sedans, balancing performance, economy, comfort, style and price as well as the Plymouth Acclaim does is a laudable achievement. Motor Trend magazine hailed it as "Car of the Year" upon its introduction.

Under the hood, the standard engine is Chrysler's 2.5-liter four-cylinder unit with electronic fuel injection, teamed with a five-speed manual transmission. Optional are a multi-point-injected 2.5-liter turbocharged four rated at 150 horsepower (compared with 100 for the standard four) or a 3.0-liter multi-pointinjected V-6 rated at 141 HP. It may be ordered with three-speed automatic or Ultradrive four-speed electronic transmission.

The test vehicle was an Acclaim LX, which has the V-6 and

By Richard Wright

Ultradrive as standard equipment, along with 15-inch cast aluminum wheels, a very pleasant package indeed.

Just as the K cars were important components of Chrysler Corp.'s recovery in the early '80s, the Acclaim has an important role in Plymouth's efforts to define its role and create a positive image to expand its sales niche. This is a problem, because Plymouth has long shared cars with the Dodge and Chrysler not as clear as in earlier times.

The Plymouth was introduced in July 1928 as a '29 model by the fledgling Chrysler Corp. Just as the K cars were right for the time, so was the Plymouth. The jaunty, high-performing Chrysler was right for the Roaring '20s, but the solid, low-priced Plymouth undoubtedly helped Chrysler Corp. survive the Depression

In July 1928, of course, no one knew economic disaster was coming. The Plymouth was introduced as a conservative, inexpensive family car to compete with the best-selling Ford and Chevrolet. Chrysler Corp. explained that because the new car reflected the "endurance and strength, the rugged honesty, the enterprise, that determination of achievement and the freedom from old limitations of that Pilgrim band who were the first American colonists," it would be named the Plymouth.

The Plymouth was introduced shortly after Henry Ford unveiled his Model A amid much anticipation and hype, so Walter Chrysler played the same game. Dealers dressed up like Pilgrims driven into Madison Square Garden by famed aviatrix Amelia Earhart.

Like the Acclaim, that first Plymouth was evolutionary, not revolutionary. It was developed from a four-cylinder Chrysler model, which in turn had used an engine designed for Maxwell, the failing car line upon which Chrysler founded his empire in

While other nameplates dropped out of existence during the Depression that followed the stock market crash in October 1929. the Plymouth prospered and began to challenge Ford and Chevrolet. By 1931, it supplanted Buick in third place and the so-called "low-priced three" were battling it out.

More than a half-century before Iacocca began appearing in TV commercials, Walter P. Chrysler appeared in print ads (no TV then), urging prospects to "look at all three." Buyers did and as World War II got under way, Chevy, Ford and Plymouth were in a sales class by themselves and no one came close to them into the '50s.

Chrysler entered the very tough buyer's market of the '50s with a General Motors-like marketing structure: Plymouth as the volume lowest-price car (like and the car made its debut Chevrolet), Dodge a step up (like Pontiac), DeSoto another step up (like Oldsmobile) and Chrysler and Chrysler Imperial against Buick and Cadillac.

But the industry was changing and to cut costs, Chrysler cancelled the DeSoto in 1960 and began to build Dodges, Plymouths and Chryslers using the same engines and body platforms. Many former DeSoto dealers were given Dodge or Chrysler franchises and each line has considerable overlap. Plymouth dealers began to find that the local Dodge dealer was their toughest competition. The need of both Dodge and Plymouth dealers for a full line of cars has led to some confusion as to why one should buy a Plymouth. In its effort to create a strong "new" Plymouth image, the corporation is trying to convey the message that Plymouth is "upbeat transportation with great value; cars that look good, handle well, are well-built and reasonably priced."

"Our goal is to interest people in a Plymouth because it IS a Plymouth," said Michael V. Howe, general marketing manager. "Our objective is to improve the image of Plymouth to match that of our current products."

The Acclaim should help. Especially with a base price of $10,395. Base price of the LX V-6 is $13,865.

Gillan said he tries to emulate artist John Stobart, whose work Gillan admires and studies. Stobart is a professional fine artist whereas Gillan's background is in commerical art.

Della Pavlock, who owns The Framing Gallery of Grosse Pointe with her husband, Tom, pointed out that Stobart's prints sell for $300 to $800 apiece, whereas Gillan's first print is selling for $80. Stobart has painted scenes of deep-water ports from all around the world, which may have influenced Gil-

What is MD?

Muscular dystrophy is a name applied to a group of diseases that are, for the most part, genetically determined and that cause gradual wasting of the muscle with accompanying weakness and deformity.

There are 40 types of MD: The most common is Duchenne muscular dystrophy, the type that Eric Rentenbach of Grosse Pointe Park has.

In the population at large the risk of Duchenne muscular dystrophy is one in 4,000 live male births. Currently, there are about 10,000 children with Duchenne muscular dystrophy living in the United

In Duchenne muscular dystrophy, a defective gene is carried by the female and is transmitted to the male offspring through a recessive Xlinked inheritance pattern. Each male child born to such a mother stands a 50 percent risk of becoming a carrier.

Not all cases of Duchenne muscular dystrophy are born to women with family histories of MD. One-third of all boys born with Duchenne muscular dystrophy are "sporadic cases," - those having no history of the disease. Such was the case with Renten-

He is the son of Paul and Jackie Rentenbach and he has two younger sisters: Lauren, 12, and Erin, 8. His father is a lawyer and his mother teaches first grade at Ferry Elementary School.

Rentenbach has his own profession in mind. He wants to be an engineer/architect, though he hasn't decided yet what college he will attend.

With Labor Day coming up, Rentenbach will be very busy getting ready for the annual Jerry Lewis telethon for muscular dystrophy. This year he will be a volunteer at a pledge office in Novi where he will sell sweat-

This year's telethon will be aired on WJBK, Channel 2, from 8:30 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 2, through 6:30 p.m. Labor Day.

While most people know that the telethons raise funds for research to find a cure for MD, few probably realize that a lot of the money raised actually goes directly to help local children with muscular dystrophy.

In Rentenbach's case, for example, Muscular Dystrophy Association funds contribute toward medical expenses that the family's health insurance doesn't cover; special equipment, such as an electric wheelchair and a van with a lift; an electric stairwell, therapy, orthopedic devices and

The funds also support annual summer camps for children with muscular dystrophy. Every summer for six years Rentenbach has been going to the camp, which is held at Camp Cavell near Lexington. He said the camp is a place where everyone can have fun and get crazy.

"It means a lot to the campers," he said, "because it's a place where we're not out of place."

The weeklong, annual August camps are free to the campers.

closely to see if the census makes sense is the Farms.

City Manager Andrew Bremer was surprised the figures showed his city lost 500 residents in the 1980s. He pointed out that the Farms had several new housing projects started and/or completed during the decade, which would have added to the population.

The Farms will be checking the census figures on a block-byblock basis, Bremer said.

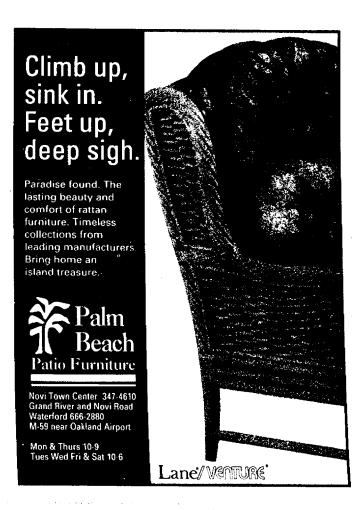

Kressbach said his city will also be going block to block, though he wasn't surprised his city's population declined. He said that although population figures are hard to predict, they are following the general trend to smaller families.

The question was, he said, "If we're going to go down, then how much?'

Park City Manager Dale Krajniak said his city will examine the figures on a block-byblock basis. He said younger families with children are moving into the Park, and he had hoped the families would have offset the shrinkage of family size in general.

The preliminary 1990 census figures are in some cases contrary to a 1988 census by the Grosse Pointe public schools. The school survey showed an increase in population from 1980 to 1988 in the City, Park and Shores, though the increases were slight. The declines in the other Pointes were small, according to the school census.

The state of Michigan lost 0.8 percent of its population in the 80s, while Wayne County experienced a 12.3 percent drop. Detroit lost 19.4 percent of its people, making it a city of less than 1 million.

Elm leaf beetles don't kill

Small 1/4-inch, hard-backed, yellowish bettle looking bugs and soft black and yellow ones larvae, and they're especially fond of Siberian elms.

Sandra Goeddeke-Richards, home horticulturist for the Macomb County Cooperative Extension Service, says the Siberian elm is a quick-growing but otherwise not very desirable tree that used to be planted frequently around new houses.

The adult beetles eat circular holes in the leaves; the black and yellow larvae feed on the mended for home landscapes beundersides, leaving only the cause they are weak-wooded and veins and a thin layer of the upper surface. This feeding seldom kills a tree outright, but it can weaken a tree, especially if it ocare the elm leaf beetle and its curs several years in a row. The tree may then fall victim to attack by other insects or diseases.

Because Siberian elms get to be large trees, spraying the foliage to kill emerging larvae may be a job too big for the homeowner to handle, and the cost of having the tree treated by a commercial landscape pest control firm may be more than the tree is worth.

(Siberian elms are not recomprone to damage from windstorms and ice, as well as pest problems.)

whole tree is to spray the lower trunk and the ground around the base of an infested tree when beetle larvae start moving down the trunks to pupate, usually in late May or early June. This will drastically reduce the number of larvae that grow to adulthood to lay eggs for next year's pests. It doesn't prevent the damage from the first generation, however. A permanent and probably more satisfactory solution to the elm leaf beetle problem is to remove the tree and replace it with a tree with fewer pest problems.

The lab offers a Parents' Day

Wayne State University Dance Lab classes, divided into age groups from tiny tots to mature adults, meet Saturday mornings at Old Main on the main campus, where dance elements of movement, creativity and individuality are stressed.

The Michigan Dance Association suggests informal development as the best approach for children's dance education, with an emphasis on individual exploration rather than formalized techniques or specific patterns. The lab encourages students to develop new movement skills.

But as the children mature, the lab offers more specific preparation for standard dance techniques which includes dance vocabulary and movement sequences. Teen-age groups, for example, are ready for a creative modern dance class. Creativity and technique combine to form a basis for dance instruction.

Lab Director Kay Davis, who is a professional dancer with the Detroit Dance Collective, says that children exercise their minds as well as their bodies through creative dancing. They learn social skills by working in groups or with partners. In addition, their coordination and problem-solving skills are practiced and further developed.

Body awareness and a clear body image facilitate the first kind of control children have over themselves, according to Melissa Miller, assistant lab teacher. She says that this control is the first step toward the development of internal control or self-discipline.

Two charged in pipe bombing

A Park man and a Harper Woods man were arrested and charged for the Aug. 13 pipe bomb explosion in Grosse Pointe Park.

William Bertolino, 18, of the Park, and James Kohrs, 19, of Harper Woods, were arraigned in U.S. District Court last week on charges of possession of an unregistered destructive device, a federal felony.

The bombing occurred at about 12:11 a.m. in an alley in the 1400 block of Lakepointe. The homemade pipe bomb, which contained bullets and nails, was placed under a car owned by Paul Lomax. The shrapnel from the bomb tore through the underside of the car, its tires and through nearby garages and doors.

No one was hurt in the blast. Lomax, co-owner of All Pointes Painting, said he had recently fired Bertolino. Bertolino's mother said her son wasn't fired but quit because he wasn't getting paid.

Detective Sgt. Walter Paton said agents from the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms assisted in the investigation and are working with federal presecutors. He commended the ATF agents on their quick response and cooperation. "I can't speak highly enough of them," he said. - John Minnis

Garage burglarized

A garage in the 400 block of Moran was broken into and several pieces of yard equipment were taken sometime between 3 p.m. Aug. 16 and 8:30 a.m. the following day.

The owner said the garage door was closed but unlocked the previous afternoon, but the next morning he found the door open and a lawnmower, snowblower, edger, weed trimmer and various rakes, brooms and lawn furni-

University of Michigan News and Information Services

A 30-year look at American family values shows a revolution in attitudes regarding marriage, divorce, sex and other issues during the 1960s and early 1970s, but little change in attitudes on those issues since the middle 1970s. Report littering

Motorists who care about clean Michigan highways can call a toll-free Michigan Department of Transportation number: 1-800-44-TRASH - to report highway litterbugs.

Michigan is the only state with a toll-free number designed to combat litter. The trash hotline number has been posted on signs along freeways since 1988 in the Detroit area, and since 1989 in other locations.

By the end of this summer, every major urban freeway system will display the signs.

"To report a person littering, get the license number and description of the vehicle, location, and note the time of day," said Ernie Savas, M-DOT maintenance engineer for Metro Detroit. "A description of the person is helpful, too.

"We have tremendous cooperation from state and local police who follow up on our reports. Violators can face a $500 fine or 90 days in jail."

The 1-800-44-TRASH operation began two years ago to raise public awareness about the litter problem on urban freeways. The idea was the brainchild of the Macomb. Oakland and Wayne County Task Force on Freeway Cleanup.

Since the program began, M-DOT has received 2,142 calls. Of those, nearly half were legitimate complaints about littering. Four calls were from out-of-state drivers who thought they could report littering outside of Michigan. (The answer is no, you cannot.) All litter-related calls receive a follow-up from the appropriate law enforcement agency. Most calls are made during the warmer spring and summer months. The greatest number of calls were from Macomb, Oakland and Wayne counties.

by individuals. According to Arland Thornton,

The investigation revealed the burglar got into the Severn home through an unlocked rear window. He took two sets of keys and a purse from the kitchen table, and drove off with the residents' 1989 Honda. The purse was found in the stolen car, and all of its contents, including cash and credit cards, were still in it.

Police suspect the same man may have been responsible for an attempted burglary in the same block where a porch screen was cut and a window pried. Officers also believe the stolen car was damaged near Allard and Mack at about 1:30 a.m. when a loud crash was heard, but the car was gone when officers invesmarry and to have children, and ily issues since the 1950s have optimism for success in marriage been broadly reflected in remains high, he said.

However, he said, "There has weakening of the normative imperative to marry, to remain married, to have children, to restrict intimate relations to marriage, and to maintain separate roles for males and females."

Thornton's analysis is based primarily on three major sets of data, including the General Social Survey conducted annually the National Opinion Research Center; Monitoring the Future, a survey of high school seniors conducted by the U of M's Survey Research Center; and the Study of American Families, a panel study of mothers and children begun in 1962.

Thornton's study appears in the November issue of the Journal of Marriage and the Family.

Thornton says the most substantial changes in attitudes toward family issues occurred in the 1960s and 1970s, while the period since 1975 has seen little change except for a continuing increase in support for greater equality for women.

Changed attitudes toward family issues, with decreased emphasis on conformity and an increased emphasis on individual freedom also are consistent with value shifts in other domains of life, including socialization values, religion, abortion, civil liberties and political allegiance. Thornton said. Major changes observed throughout the 1960s and into the 1970s, have been followed by an apparent leveling out after the mid-1970s.

In addition, the trends in changing attitudes toward famchanges in behavior in such areas as birth rates, divorce, cobeen a dramatic and pervasive habitation and premarital sex, according to Thornton, with rapid changes occurring in the 1960s and 1970s followed by a much slower pace of change in behavior in the late 1970s and early 1980s.

Some other findings:

Sex roles. All of the surveys indicate a very substantial and continuing transformation of sex role attitudes in the United States supporting women's equality. In the Study of American families, substantial increases in egalitarian sentiments were found between 1962 and 1977, a trend that apparently has continued through 1985. Among high school seniors, the data clearly confirms a historical shift in attitudes between 1976 and 1981, Thornton found.

Marriage. While the survey of * high school seniors does not suggest any decline during the late 1970s and early 1980s in the importance of marriage, or in their expectations that they will marry, Thornton notes that in national surveys between 1957 and 1976 negative attitudes toward remaining single declined significantly. The same surveys documented an increasing negative orientation toward marriage and a growing emphasis on the restrictive aspects of marriage.

Divorce. "Trends in attitudes toward divorce between 1962 and 1977 are both clear and dramatic," Thornton said, with a substantial increase in the social acceptance of divorce. In 1962, 51 percent of the women in the Study of American Families disagreed with the statement that "when there are children in the family, parents should stay together even if they don't get along." In 1977, 80 percent of survey respondents disagreed with the statement. The rapid change in attitudes toward divorce ended around 1977, with little change from then through 1985, according to Thornton.

Childlessness. While 85 percent of the mothers participating in the Study of American Families in 1962 said that all married couples who can have children ought to have them, the number had fallen to 43 percent by 1980. Despite the growing acceptance of childlessness and less favorable attitudes toward parenthood, there is no indication that young adults do not want to have children, Thornton emphasized. "Apparently, what has happened, has been the weakening of norms so that childlessness is acceptable, but the desire to have children continues." Premarital sex. There was a strong trend toward less restrictive attitudes toward premarital sex in the late 1960s and early 1970s, according to the U of M study. In a 1969 survey, 68 percent said, "It is wrong for people to have sex relations before marriage," while only 48 percent said it was wrong four years later.

Extramarital sex. In 1965, attitudes toward extramarital affairs were strongly negative, with more than 80 percent saying it was always wrong. By 1973, there was a 10 percent drop in the number of men and women older than 30 who said an extramarital affair was always wrong; among younger men and women the decline was twice as large, according to the U of M scholar.

During the late 1970s and early 1980s, however, there was a trend among young people back toward more restrictive attitudes concerning extramaritai.

UNLIKE OUR CARS, THESE FACTORY-ASSISTED LEASE SAVINGS WON'T LAST.

As an automobile, Volvo offers a terrific package of safety engineering, performance and durability. Now, so you can easily drive off in one of our most popular models, we've put together another terrific package: the Volvo Factory-Assisted Lease Program*

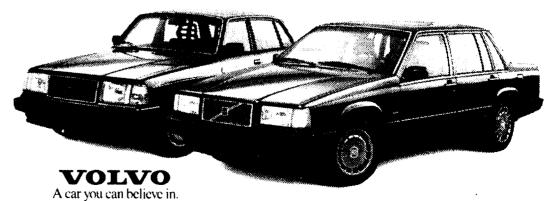

This program combines Volvo's lowest factory-assisted lease rates ever with our other great leasing features: terms of 24 to 48 months, no security deposit and the only money down is your first month's payment and documentation fee.

So see your participating Volvo dealer today. Because an offer like this won't be around for too many more tomorrows.

Sounds of Summer

The rockin' Sounds of Summer series, presented by the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, caused nearly 100 people to get up and shake a leg on the evening of Aug. 16 as Steve King and the Dittilies took to the stage behind the historic Alger House.

Featuring many of the classic songs of the 1950s and '60s, the band presented plenty of humor and good, clean fun. The series, which began Aug. 2, was part of the War Memorial's 33rd Summer Music Festival, which also featured the Grosse Pointe Symphony Orchestra.

Registration for fall classes to begin

Registration for fall classes offered by the Department of Community Education for the fall begins on Tuesday, Sept. 4, with both mail-in and walk-in registration starting.

A 32-page booklet outlining the programs will be distributed to all homes in the school district by the end of this month.

The roster of activities and classes contains a listing of the usual offerings, plus a total of 100 new classes. Included are 61 single-session classes that have proven popular in the past.

They range from serious topics such as "Indoor Air Quality" and "Virginia Woolf: Social Commentator for the '90s" to "Interior Design: Trends for the '90s" and "Pies — Mouthwatering and Delicious."

In addition to community classes, this fall the Department of Community Education will attempt to assist the board of education in informing the populace about school and library issues facing them.

The first of these is "The Manuscript Meets the Word Processor: Information Access at the Public Library — Today and Tomorrow." Dr. Charles Hanson, director of the Grosse Pointe Public Library, will make the presentation at 7:30 p.m., Thurs-

A second program, "Understanding School Finance: A Fascinating Class on the Most Boring Subject in the World" will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 25. Both sessions will be held at Barnes School.

Another new program, "Make the Most of Saturday," has been planned for three Saturdays: Oct. 27, Nov. 3 and Nov. 10. A wide range of activities and classes has been planned for the entire family and will be held at Barnes School, 20090 Morningside Drive, Grosse Pointe Woods.

Another special event this fall is a joint project of community education and the Alliance Francaise de Grosse Pointe. Jacques Bossonney will make a presentation at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 11. The topic is "Europe 1992: the Common Market from a French Perspective.'

Another special event is

'Grosse Pointe Children and their Cholesterol Levels: A Research Report of Significance to the Community, to be presented

Oct. 16. Family Fun Nights will be held on Oct. 12 and Nov. 2.

Two programs of live music, 'A Gershwin Get-Together" and "A Cole Porter Evening" will be held Oct. 23 and Nov. 27.

VISA and Mastercard are now accepted by the Community Education department for payment of fees and materials. Main-in registrations using VISA or Mastercard must include the account number, expiration date, signature and date.

Anyone not receiving a Community Education booklet may obtain one from the Central, Woods or Park branch public libraries or at Barnes School, 20090 Morningside Drive, Grosse Pointe Woods.

(NOTE: Following is the text of Ordinance No. 259 adopted by the City Council of the City of Grosse Pointe at a regular meeting held Appart 20, 1990 August 20, 1990).

City of Grosse Hointe Michigan ORDINANCE NO. 259

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND THE CODE OF THE CITY OF GROSSE POINTE TO PROVIDE FOR THE REGULATION OF THE POSTING OF POLITICAL SIGNS AND THE SETTING OF FEES BY AMENDING SECTION 8.172 AND ADDING TWO NEW SUBSECTIONS AND ONE NEW SECTION WHICH SUBSEC-TIONS AND SECTION SHALL BE DESIGNATED AS, 8.172(3) AND 8.184 OF CHAPTER 105 OF TITLE VIII OF THE CODE.

THE CITY OF GROSSE POINTE ORDAINS:

- That Title VIII of the Grosse Pointe City Code is amended by adding the following subsections 8.171(3), 8.172(3) and Section
- 8.171 Definitions. The following definitions shall apply in the interpretation of this Chapter.
- (1) The term "sign" shall apply to any display board, bill board, screen or structure used as such and having characters, letters or illustrations thereon in any manner.
- (2) The term "banner" shall apply to all signs produced on cloth, paper, fabric or other combustible or non-combustible materials of any kind, either with or without frames.
- (3) THE TERM "NONCOMMERCIAL" SIGN OR BANNER MEANS A SIGN OR BANNER WHICH DOES NOT PRO-MOTE OR ADVERTISE THE SALE OF GOODS OR SER-
- 8.172. Permit Required. No sign or banner shall be erected, altered, or maintained within the City of Grosse Pointe unless a written permit shall have been first secured from the Building Inspector by the person desiring to erect or alter such sign and the payment to the City of A PERMIT FEE AS DETERMINED, FROM TIME TO TIME, BY RESOLUTION OF THE CITY COUNCIL, except as follows:
- (1) A permit will not be required for a sign or banner to be placed or repaired on a vacant lot or building advertising the sale or renting of such lot or building provided such sign or banner does not exceed six (6) square feet in area on any one lot or building or violate Chapter 51 (Zoning) of this Code.
- (2) A permit will not be required for window signs and banners which comply with Section 8.183.
- (3) A PERMIT WILL NOT BE REQUIRED FOR A NONCOM-MERCIAL SIGN OR BANNER WHICH COMPLIES WITH
- 8.173. Application. An application for a sign or banner permit shall be made upon a form provided by the Building Inspector for the purpose and shall contain or be accompanied by such plans, drawings and specifications as are necessary to fully advise the Building Inspector of the type, size, shape, location, construction and materials of the proposed sign or banner and the building or structure or vacant lot upon which it is to be placed. The application, above the signature of the applicant, shall state that the applicant and those whom he represents agree to abide by this Chapter.
- 8.174. Conformance with Specifications. All licensed signs and banners must be constructed and erected in a safe and stable manner and strictly in accord with the drawings and specifications set forth in the application as approved by the Building Inspector.
- (1) No sign or banner shall be over five (5) teet high and seven (7) feet wide, nor shall all signs on a single face or a building cover more than 35 square feet, except as permitted under Section 8.176 and Section 8.183.

- (2) No sign or banner shall be designed, installed or maintained so as to oscillate, rotate or revolve.
- 8.175. Exception to Size Limits. Whenever application is made for a permit for a sign for the purpose of identifying a building and/or business and the application conforms to all the provisions of this Chapter except that the proposed sign is larger than permitted under Section 8.174, the Building Inspector shall refer such application to the City Council and notify the applicant that he has done
- 8.176. Council Determination. Upon receipt by the City Council of an application for a permit referred to it pursuant to Section 8.175, the City Council may, at any regular meeting or any special meeting duly called for that purpose, consider whether the proposed sign, if erected, will serve as identification of the building and/or business and not as an advertisement to attract public attention, and in reaching its determination shall consider, without limitation, at least all of the following
 - (1) Whether the proposed sign is to be erected upon the building to be identified or upon the building in which the business to be identified is operated:
 - (2) Whether the proposed sign is to be erected on top of an extend upwards from such building in such a way as to attract attention of persons using nearby public thoroughfares or side-
 - (3) Whether the proposed sign is to protrude laterally from such building in such a way as to attract attention of persons using any public thoroughfare or sidewalk or public parking area adjacent to such building;
 - (4) Whether the proposed sign is to be electrified or lighted in such manner as to be likely to cause any interference with pedestrian or motor vehicle traffic or distraction of public attention from devices for regulating such traffic;
 - (5) Whether the proposed sign generally conforms to the character of signs in the neighborhood
- 8.177. Grant of Permit. If the City Council determines that the proposed sign will serve principally as an identification of the building and/or the business located within the building, the Council may, notwithstanding the fact that the proposed sign is larger than otherwise permitted by this Chapter, direct the Building Inspector to grant the application for a permit, providing the same otherwise complies with the provisions of this Chapter and providing that the City Council determines that the proposed sign will not otherwise be likely to constitute a hazard to public health, safety or welfare.
- 8.178. Revocation of Special Permit. In each case where a permit for a sign is granted pursuant to Sections 8.175 - 8.177, the applicant shall be conclusively deemed, by acceptance of such permit and erection of the proposed sign, to have agreed with the City that at any time the City Council of the City of Grosse Pointe determines that the sign in fact does interfere with automobile or pedestrian traffic or the effective regulation of the same or otherwise constitutes a hazard to the public health, safety or welfare, the same shall upon five (5) days written notice, be modified at the applicant's expense to the extent required by the City Council to eliminate such hazard, and upon failure to modify within such period, that the City may proceed as contemplated under Section 1.181 to cause the sign to be removed and recover the expense thereof
- 8.179. Electrical Signs. All electrical signs shall, in addition to the requirements of this Chapter, be in accordance with Chapter 101 and rules of the City of Grosse Pointe relative to electrical wiring.
- 8.180. Inspection; Approval. All signs and banners for which a permit is required shall be inspected by the Building Inspector when erected and if found to have been well constructed, supported, braced, minted and safe as regards person and property in accord with plans approved by the Building Inspector and in accordance with the provisions of this Chapter, a certificate of inspection shall be issued reciting among other things the approval of the sign or banner as erected

- 8.181. Order to Remove. Should any sign or banner at any time be found by the Building Inspector to be unsafe, insecure, improperly constructed or not in accordance with its plans or requirements of this Chapter, the owner, tenant, person in charge of premises or the one to whom the permit was granted shall be immediately so notified in writing, at the address stated in the application for the permit or at the last address on the books of the City of the owner of the property upon which the sign or banner is erected, by the Building Inspector. Unless the necessary changes or repairs are made within five (5) days after notice, or the sign or banner removed within (5) days after notice, or such shorter period as safety may require, the Building Inspector shall immediately cause the sign or banner to be removed, and the City of Grosse Pointe shall be entitled through the proper court of law to recover from the licensee the cost of so doing or to assess against the property upon which the sign or banner was constructed as part of the next tax to be collected the cost of such removal.
- 8.182. Encroachment; Bill Posting. No sign or banner shall be permitted to project or be suspended in whole or in part more than eighteen (18) inches across or over any public sidewalk or street or alley; nor shall any sign or banner be placed in or over any public sidewalk, street, alley or in any public park or upon any public property excepting only if erected by the City of Grosse Pointe; nor shall any sign, banner, advertisement, notice or card of any kind whatsoever be placed or caused to be placed upon any curbstone, flagstone, sidewalk, tree, lamp post, telegraph post, telephone post, hydrant or any similar structure or in or upon any public property within the City of Grosse Pointe; Provided, however, that nothing in this Section shall apply to any notice required by this Code, or the laws of the State of Michigan to be posted by any official of the
- 8.183. Limitation on Window Signs and Banners. No sign or banner shall be permitted to be affixed on the inside, outside or within three feet of any glass window or any similar transparent window within the City of Grosse Pointe if said sign or banner occupies more than ten percent of the total area of said window or if, when considered with other signs or banners in connection with said window, the total area of the several signs or banner exceeds ten percent of the total window area. If more than one pane of glass or other transparent material are placed together so as to create the effect of one window, they shall be treated in the same manner as one window for purposes of this Section.
- 8.184. NONCOMMERCIAL SIGNS. NONCOMMERCIAL SIGNS AND BANNERS MAY BE ERECTED OR MAINTAINED ONLY AS PROVIDED IN THIS SECTION.
- (1) A NONCOMMERCIAL SIGN OR BANNER MAY NOT EXCEED SIX (6) SQUARE FEET IN AREA.
- (2) A NONCOMMERCIAL SIGN OR BANNER MAY NOT BE ERECTED OR MAINTAINED SO AS TO OBSTRUCT ANY PEDESTRIAN'S, BICYCLIST'S OR DRIVER'S VIEW OF ANY STREET OR SIDEWALK.
- (3) A NONCOMMERCIAL SIGN MAY NOT BE ERECTED OR MAINTAINED IN ANY PUBLIC PLACE (INCLUDING ANY STREET OR RIGHT-OF-WAY).
- (4) MORE THAN ONE NONCOMMERCIAL SIGN MAY BE ERECTED OR MAINTAINED BY A FAMILY, AS DEFINED IN SECTION 5.7(1), AT ITS DWELLING; BUT FOR ANY ONE CANDIDATE, ISSUE OR EVENT, EACH FAMILY MAY ERECT OR MAINTAIN ONLY ONE SIGN, UNLESS THE DWELLING IS LOCATED ON A CORNER LOT, IN WHICH CASE. FOR ANY ONE CANDIDATE, ISSUE OR EVENT, EACH FAMILY MAY ERECT OR MAINTAIN TWO SIGNS.
- (5) ALL NONCOMMERCIAL SIGNS RELATING TO A CAN. DIDATE OR ISSUE IN AN ELECTION SHALL BE RE-MOVED WITHIN TEN (10) DAYS AFTER THE ELECTION.
- 2. The effective date of Ordinance No. 259 shall be ten (10) days after the date of publication thereof.

'Flatliners' explores a new frontier: Death

By Marian Trainor

Special Writer

The search for new frontiers is never-ending. What lies beyond what is known is an irresistible challenge for those impelled to break down the barriers of a new and exciting frontier.

The New World, the West, space, all once unknown, became a reality because of the restless inquiring urge to know by those determined to push forward.

It is this kind of impetus that drives five daredevil medical students in "Flatliners" to try to go

Crockett film to preview

The life and career of Congressman George W. Crockett Jr. will be the subject of a new videotape film to be previewed at the Detroit Historical Museum, Saturday, Aug. 25, at 1 p.m. Filmmaker Tom Lonergan will be available to discuss the video biography, which is still in prog-

Interviews with Crockett, his family, friends and professional colleagues are interspersed with photographs as well as current historic film and video footage. The film traces the congressman's life from his Florida childhood, his civil rights and union activism, to his political career throughout his tenure in the U.S. House of Representatives.

The preview is shown free of charge. Parking in the museum's lot on Kibry is also available without charge.

Madrigal auditions

The Madrigal Chorale of Southfield, under the direction of Robert A. Martin, will hold auditions for male singers Tuesday, Sept. 4, from 4:30 p.m. to 9:30

Auditions will be held at Southfield-Lathrup High School, located at 12 Mile Road between Evergreen and Southfield Road.

Those who audition should be prepared to sing a brief solo and demonstrate sight-reading skills. An accompanist will be available. Female singers may also audition, but openings are limited.

Members of the Madrigal Chorale throughout Southeastern Michigan (currently there are some members from Grosse Pointe) represent a diverse group of age, background, talent and livelihood. The group rehearses every Tuesday evening at Southfield Lathrup High School. Rehearsals will begin in preparation for the ninth annual Holiday Concert at Old St. Mary's Church in Greektown.

Call Pat Duensing at 646-2937 to arrange an audition time.

where no one has been before: void life into the mysterious beyond to search for answers that religion and philosophy ask to be taken on faith.

Inspired by the experiences of those who have died and been revived, five medical students, Kiefer Sutherland, Kevin Bacon, Julia Roberts, William Baldwin and Oliver Platt, participate in a deadly experiment. They will be put to death (signified by a flat line on the electrograph that measures electric currents in the heart) and then revived so they can relate what they experienced.

Taking turns, they have their heart, lungs and brain shut down for two or three minutes at a time. What they discover is not as euphoric as described by those who were emergency room patients. Their trip is more akin to that which suicides supposedly experience - a frenetic and frightening encounter.

Each student has his or her reason for opting to make the eerie journey. Sutherland wants to make a name for himself. Bacon will help others. Baldwin ance to relate his experiences. volunteers because he is not one to be outdone by others. Platt sees it is an opportunity for groundbreaking research and Roberts hopes to come to terms with the guilt she has because of her father's suicide.

Well suited to present this macabre material is Director Joel Schumacher who has a flair for glossy ensemble pieces in which young people are threatened by adulthood as were the college friends in "St. Elmo's Fire" and the teenage vampires in "The Lost Boys." In "Flatliners" the characters have a peculiar death wish and prove that the most commonplace memories can prove sinister.

Sutherland, who is hyped up and confident, is the first to go. Suspense builds as we watch the anxious faces of his friends who are preparing him for death. Death hovers in the air like a shroud and when Sutherland closes his eyes, the terror and fright are apparent as they watch the line flatten on the electrograph.

The three minutes seem forever before they begin their efforts to bring him back to life. With all their medical skill, it's a frantic operation as they work to get his heart pumping and scan the electrograph for signs of

When Sutherland awakes, the others are puzzled by his reluctAlthough he recalls green fields and romping children, that idyllic scene is not what it appears

As the others take their turns, each for a longer period of time, the odds of losing one increase dramatically.

"Flatliner" is a pop parable that really gets to the viewer. It captures a generation (the writer and the characters are all in their 20s) who really might try flatlining, because as one character puts it, they loved life so much they thought they were immortal or, "It is as though we were already dead and thought we had nothing to lose by

The impact of the film owes much also to its haunting atmosphere. The experiments take place in the murky lights of a makeshift laboratory where halfcovered statues are ominous observers. After his death, Sutherland walks down a street where steam from construction sites billows in the background, bright street lights create a shining foreground and a bag lady in a dark alley warns, "In the end we all know what we have done."

"Flatliners" hits the mark as a psychological horror film with suspense and the theme of idealism. Its most pervasive impression is its moral viewpoint that transgression demands reparaEVERYONE IS WELCOME TO THE

ack Nicholson as director, actor is superb in 'The Two Jakes' mystery

By Marian Trainor Special Writer

In the making for five years, it vas generally anticipated that The Two Jakes" would be a sequel to Roman Polanski's 1974 classic, "Chinatown."

While many of the characters and situations of that film are either present or recalled in retrospect, "The Two Jakes" is more a companion piece than a sequel.

It has the same texture and style but operates from a different plane. Greed and incest were the driving forces in "Chinatown." In this film, greed alone provides the motive for a crime enmeshed in a tangle of complications that are slowly unraveled to reveal the omnipresence of the past.

As Jack Nicholson, who plays the part of Jake, again muses: 'You don't forget the past any more than you can change it."

The film starts on a surrealis-

made ridiculous. What emerges

is a comic ballet that never tic note. As the credits roll, we hear Peggy Lee sing "Don't Smoke in Bed" and see sepiatoned suggestive images floating in the background.

When the story begins, Nicholson is sitting at his desk. He is now a private investigator who makes a specialty of divorce cases. He is the same Jake who Evelyn Mulway (Fay Dunaway) hired to investigate the murder of her husband in "Chinatown." She was shot by a cop at the

The Rackham Symphony Choir, which has been entertaining for 41 years, will hold open auditions Tuesday, Sept. 4, for experienced choral singers from

The auditions, conducted by the choir's director, Frederic DeHaven, will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Wayne State University School of Music, Cass at Putnam in Detroit.

The choir will also hold an open house for interested singers and the public at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, Sept. 18, at the Wayne State School of Music. Since 1949, the focus of the Rackham Symphony Choir has been major choral works performed with orchestras. The choir is equally at home with lighter works, as evidenced by its annual Spring

To arrange auditions or for the disappearance of Katherine, the product of incest between Dunaway and her father. Right now he is coaching a client, Jake Berman (Harvey Keitel) on what he is to say when he breaks into a motel room and finds his wife (Meg Tilly) with her lover. Nicholson accompanies him with a tape recorder, which is standard procedure.

What happens is not. The situation gets out of hand when someone is fatally shot and questions arise. Was this a crime of passion or a set-up for premeditated murder? Has Nicholson been used as a cover or has he been set up?

Mixed with the voices of the lovers and the gunshots, there is something on the tape that puzzles Nicholson and sends him on a search for its relevance.

It is a search that takes him and the viewer on a spectacular tour of Los Angeles scenery. Nicholson plays two key roles in the film: Nicholson the star and Nicholson the director.

As the director he has a real end of the movie while fleeing artistic sense of location, lighting with her daughter from her and framing that provides for corrput landowner father (John that breathtaking scenery we see Huston). Nicholson is haunted by as he drives through the backroads into the setting sun.

Robert Towne, who wrote the screenplay for "Chinatown" and won an Oscar for his efforts, was chosen by Nicholson to write 'The Two Jakes.'

When Nicholson inserted some passages of his own into the script, Towne became miffed and walked away, leaving Nicholson to rewrite all night before acting and directing the next day. Not an easy task but it did give Nicholson an opportunity to clarify plot points and reassess the events of "Chinatown" which relate to the major mysteries of the new film.

The film has other points to make as well - California earthquakes are featured, postwar housing, gay bars and the persuasive lure of oil and the riches it brings. In "Chinatown," water was the touchstone. In this film, it is oil and oil rights.

The cast of "The Two Jakes" is first rate, beginning with Nicholson who gives a subdued but top-notch performance as the now successful Jake Gittes who has never recovered from the earlier film's tragic events.

Keitel is called upon to go through many changes as the emotional Jake Berman and handles them all well. Others who add quality are Meg Tilly, Berman's bored wife, Ruben Blades, Eli Wallach and Richard Farnsworth.

Audiences may be attracted to "The Two Jakes" because of its relation to "Chinatown," but it stands on its own as a psychological mystery with philosophical overtones, stunning shots of the Los Angeles environment and its insight into the troubled minds of the main characters.

And then there's Jack Nicholson, one of the top actors of our time, in a role deserving of his Theatre Grottesco will present its 1989-90 hit "Wenomadmen" (we-nomad-men) in three final performances on Thursday, Sept. 13, through Saturday, Sept. 15, at 8 p.m. at the Players Theatre, 3321 Jefferson Ave., 1.5 miles east of downtown.

The play returns to Detroit from a 12-month tour through 14

"Wenomadmen," the latest excursion into the "Grottesco Galaxy," is the story of four citizens of a future society who abandon their home to search a desert for water to rebuild a broken destiny

Ensemble member Paul Herwig describes the avant-garde piece as, "Four members of different castes who are thrown together by the chaotic events of the future. Forced to flee their city, they embark on a fantastic voyage through a desert world where each one tries to retain their identity while battling for survival with the great leveller — nature."

Managing Director Randall Rutherford said, "Theatre Grottesco takes the audience into an outrageous counter-world, which has a skewed poetry all its own. By watching the characters create their own new world, the audience sees the acts of everyday living exaggerated and

"Farther West" began with a newspaper clipping describing an actual crime in which a Calgary prostitute, May Buchanan, and her lover barricaded themselves in a hotel room and killed themselves.

The play became an epic set in the last decades of the 19th century. It takes May Buchanan west from Ontario to British Columbia and is the story of her continuing search for self-discov-

Influenced by opera and infused with music, "Farther West" shows the playwright's strong affinity to Chekhov. Murrell is the author of new versions of both "Uncle Vanya" and "The Seagull," written for the Stratford Festival. He is also the author of "Waiting for the Parade," "Memoir" (a play about Sarah Bernhardt) and "New World."

"Farther West" was first produced by Theatre Calgary, and was directed by Robin Phillips and starred Martha Henry. The Hilberry production opens Nov. 24 and plays through Feb. 1, in repertory with "Twelfth Night" and "Peer Gynt."

Young carpenter blends Old World art with new materials

By Dan Jarvis

Staff Writer Since Grosse Pointe is home to many beautiful structures filled with ornate detail, owners are understandably reluctant to hire just anyone to maintain and renovate them.

One finish carpenter, Mike Kelly, whose workday keeps him hopping from the Park to the Farms and back again, has made a career out of refining some of the most impressive homes in the area.

Kelly, a native of Grosse Pointe Park and a 1977 South High School graduate, said his secret of success is making sure his customers get the most for their dollar.

Whether it's a large handmade boardroom table in the Detroit Medical Center or a custom designed wine cellar for the head of a major corporation, Kelly said his discriminating customers always appreciate an eye for detail.

One person ordered a customfitted cherry dashboard for a 1973 Fiat Spider. Another ordered hand-crafted, wooden walls similar to those found in the historic Edsel & Eleanor Ford House and the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

In both cases, Kelly's "no problem" attitude paid off as customers spread the word to their friends.

With an advertising expenditure of zero dollars, Kelly's reputation spreads through word of mouth and customers quip that he should have a clone just to meet demand.

"All of my work comes through referrals," Kelly said. "I do every job as if I'm doing it for my own home.'

Kelly said his specialties include custom cabinets and special millwork, "things that you can't go out and buy," he said.

Kelly learned a bit of woodworking from his father and uncle, but is primarily self-taught through Old World examples of fine woodworking. Some examples of his work in a home in Grosse Pointe Farms.

can be found in the Henry Ford multi-level decks surrounding Museum in Dearborn and the historic Fort Wayne Military Museum.

When museum planners at Greenfield Village were setting up an exhibit titled "The Automobile in American History,' they commissioned Kelly to do the custom millwork on an authentic old-fashioned Texaco sta-

Curators at Fort Wayne had Kelly build several custom display cabinets, which now sport antique military uniforms.

He's also built large-scale, swimming pools as well as brass display cases for a jewelry store.

Though there is little he has not done in carpentry, most of Kelly's time is spent renovating homes in the five Pointes.

Gary and Lorraine Dillon of Grosse Pointe Farms, whose home has the Kelly trademark in nearly every room, are among his many appreciative advocates.

"The thing we like most is his temperament and easy-going attitude," Mrs. Dillon said. "The renovation of our house has been very frustrating. Mike came in and made everything work. He has incredible skills as a carpenter and he's very attuned to fine details

Her husband said the home has undergone major renovation from the ground up, including a restructuring of the roof that buckled after a heavy rainstorm.

Kelly was hired to rebuild a large roof window, a bedroom andbathrooms, a large wooden mantle piece and a first-floor family room, complete with large sliding glass doors.

"He's very honest and very fair," said Mrs. Dillon, who heard about Kelly from a friend. Gary Dillon added, "When other contractors say something can't possibly be done, he always the family in a sense.' As one concerned with both the environment and preserving the planet's lumber resources, Kelly is experimenting with the latest development in the building industry — plastic wood.

Featuring materials made from recycled plastic products, Kelly said the new generation of building supplies will not only reduce the number of trees cut down each year, but are more durable and will last longer than traditional lumber.

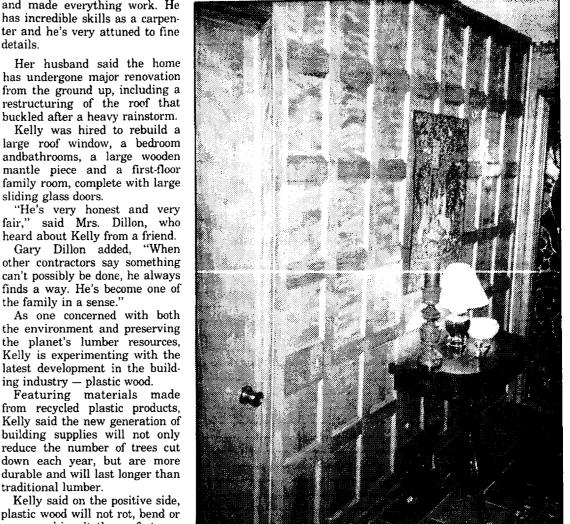

Kelly said on the positive side, plastic wood will not rot, bend or warp, making it the perfect material for boat docks.

The negative side, at this point, is the weight and the cost. He said the future for building and carpentry is bright, but newage materials are not used very much because they require changes in the way they are cut and formed.

Above all, Kelly said communicating well with his customers is the key to making them being happy with the outcome.

'If people see a picture in a magazine, they should cut it out and show it to me," he said. "I've built several pieces that way. The good part for the customer is they get exactly what they want, and that's really the goal of any of my jobs.'

The possibilities are endless for Kelly, who custom-crafted and assembled this custom-designed maple paneled wall in the library of a home in the Park.

Beware credit repair credit services organizations separate offense. doing business in Michigan are required to be licensed by the Michigan Financial Institutions Bureau.

An amendment to the Credit Services Act of 1988, signed into law by Gov. James Blanchard on May 25, targets organizations previously unregulated. These organizations, sometimes called "credit repair companies," must demonstrate net worth over $50,000, post a bond of at least $10,000 with the commissioner of the bureau and pass a background investigation before being licensed.

Exempted from these new requirements are financial organizations already regulated under other laws. Examples of exempt organizations are banks, savings and loan associations, credit unions, credit reporting agencies, debt management companies, registered broker-dealers and investment advisers

Credit services organizations covered by the act are prohibited from doing business without a license, and from conducting business at the same location with any other business. These companies may not charge for referring customers to retailers to obtain the same terms of credit available to the general public.

They also may not require customers to buy or rent merchandise from anyone as a condition of receiving credit services. Credit services organizations are barred from misleading or defrauding the public regarding their services and charges, from making false statements about a customer's credit, and from advising a consumer/client to falsify information about his or her credit standing. Among other prohibited activities, customers cannot be required to waive their legal rights.

Violation of the act is a misdemeanor punishable by up to 90 days in jail and a $500 fine. Each transaction that violates the act, and each day that a vio-

This amendment to the 1988 Credit Services Act reflects concern of consumer advocates and the Michigan Legislature over reported credit repair abuses. such as unconscionable charges for services, and failure to deliver services as contracted.

Credit repair companies are sometimes confused with debt management firms, which plan and manage the financial affairs of debtors, and which may be non-profit. Debt management companies also perform budget analysis and financial counseling, negotiate payment agreements for debtors, and receive funds from them for payment to their creditors.

Credit repair companies offer to improve a client's credit to help the client find credit. They may refer the client for a loan or credit card, offer to report the client's credit purchase from them as credit history and challenge the accuracy of a client's file at the Credit Bureau.

"Consumers should know that convenience is the commodity they are purchasing from credit repair companies," said Commissioner Eugene W. Kuthy. "These companies offer services that informed consumers could perform for themselves.'

He added that no credit services organizations have been licensed under this act to date.

Credit services organizations seeking to be licensed should contact The Financial Institutions Bureau immediately at (517) 373-8674 for the appropriate forms and procedures.

Consumers are advised not to do business with unlicensed firms, which are without authority to operate in Michigan. Consumers with questions or complaints may contact the above number.

Anyone who is aware of a credit repair company that needs to be licensed under this act should notify the Financial Institutions Bureau immediately.

Hamtramck Festival set

The 11th annual Hamtramck Festival will fill more than half a mile of Jos. Campau in the heart of the ethnic enclave during the Labor Day weekend.

More than 100 booths offering food, beverages and games will line both sides of the city's main thoroughfare from Caniff to Carpenter streets. Continuous entertainment is provided on three stages and midway rides anchor the north end of Jos. Campau. Admission and parking are free.

The festival opens at 6 p.m. Friday, Aug. 31, and runs to 11 p.m. Hours for Saturday through Monday are 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. Labor Day the Polish Day Parade begins at 1:30 p.m. starting at Holbrook Street, moving north on Jos. Campau to the festival area.

This year the parade's theme is: "Poland Leads Freedom's Fight" to recognize Central and Eastern Europe's renunciation of Communist rule. The parade includes bands, several fire and drum corps, marching units and dignitaries.

Continuous entertainment on three stages will feature The Gaylords, who started their career in Michigan; Polish Muslims; The Laredos; Street Corner; Misty Blues; Soundaires and Sparks of Fire and others. Music ranges from polkas to jazz and

The four-day festival traditionally attracts huge crowds - several hundred thousand people from all over southern Michigan and northern Ohio.

Bess Bonnier

Jazz concert in the Park

Grosse Pointe Park's third and final summer concert of 1990 at Patterson Park will feature the Bess Bonnier Quartet.

Since the late '50s, Bonnier has released albums, played in nightclubs, created a jazz history video for Wayne State University, coordinated the Detroit Institute of Arts Jazz Series and has a non-stop schedule of private engagements and teaching workshops.

The quartet will play Sunday, Aug. 26, at 7 p.m. Admission to the park is free with any Grosse Pointe community pass.

Pack a picnic and enjoy a musical evening with your neighbors.

The concerts are sponsored by the Grosse Pointe Park Recreation Commission and City Council as a service to residents.

G.P. Theatre plans open auditions

Grosse Pointe Theatre has scheduled open auditions for the musical "Of Thee I Sing," the first show of the 43rd season.

Auditions will be held Saturday, Aug. 25, from 1 to 5 p.m. and Sunday, Aug. 26, from noon to 4 p.m. at rehearsal studio, 315 Fisher Road, Grosse Pointe.

"Of Thee I Sing" is the hilarious Pulitzer Prize winning musical written by George S. Kaufman and Morris Ryskind with music and lyrics by George and

A long-running hit on Broadway in 1931, the play is a zany spoof of American politics with contemporary, timeless themes including a presidential couple elected because they are lovable, dirty campaign tactics, longwinded senators and an invisible vice president.

There are parts for seven men and three women plus a mixed chorus of 18. Some chorus members should dance well and all should be able to sing.

Everyone will be asked to sing selected works from the show and to dance a piece that will be taught at the audition.

Performance dates for "Of Thee I sing" are Oct. 30 through Nov. 10. Rehearsals are scheduled for Tuesday and Thursday evenings and Sunday afternoons.

Annual kitchen tour will be Sept. 13

By Margie Reins Smith

Feature Editor Cottage Hospital's annual kitchen tour is an all-Grosse Pointe show. The annual fundraiser organized by the Cottage Hospital Auxiliary will take place on Thursday, Sept. 13, from noon to 5 p.m.

All the kitchens are in the Grosse Pointes. All the sponsors are in the Grosse Pointes.

Chairmen Nanette Quinones and Mary Nolan said the auxiliary expects about 500 people to tour the seven kitchens. Quinones is president-elect of the Auxiliary as well as Ways and Means chairman. Nolan is past president and assistant Ways and Means chairman of the 383-member organization.

"This annual tour earns about $4,000 for the hospital," Quinones said. "It's not a big money-maker. We do it for the community involvement and because it's good public relations for Cottage Hospital.'

All the money from the event will go toward renovating Cottage Hospital's emergency room, Nolan said.

The kitchens include:

• The Smith residence on Lochmoor in Grosse Pointe Woods - an example of a kitchen that was designed with an eye for easy clean ups and lots of space for two cooks to work at the same time. It features solid cherry kitchen cabinets with formica interiors for easy clean-up. Both ovens are self-cleaning. And the Corian counters and ceramic tile floor were selected with an eye for easy maintenance.

 The Kay kitchen on Fair Acres in Grosse Pointe Farms consists of a remodeled kitchen and an adjoining family room.

Functional features include granite countertops, oak flooring, up-todate lighting, and white, all-wood cabinets. The family room includes a wet bar and features cherry pan-

• The Spina home on Lothrop in Grosse Pointe Farms was featured on the cover of Professional Builder magazine. It's a warm, contemporary, unique design with a poured terrazzo floor, a slab granite island. a sunken cooktop, a suspended glass snack bar and ash wood cabinets. Natural light from a massive skylight bathes the eating area.

• The Tipton kitchen on Rathbone Place in Grosse Pointe City is a nice example of a modern kitchen of the 1990s enhancing a classical home of the 1920s. The modern/ traditional kitchen features allwood cabinetry with a durable white paint finish and Corian countertops and state-of-the-art appli-

• The Guevara kitchen on Washington in Grosse Pointe City is a custom U-shape with oak cabinets in a warm autumn finish and Corian countertops. Tile backsplashes in subtle shades of almond add texture to the traditional design and appliances are built in.

The Horton kitchen on Moross

in Grosse Pointe Woods is an Lshaped custom design with an island. The raised wood-edged snack bar separates the newly relocated kitchen and the new family room addition which looks out over the golf course. Imported white tiles with mauve and blue floral accents highlight the cooking island which includes an indoor grill and a fourburner white glass Euro cooktop. More features are a custom pantry and broom closet, angled base cabinets and lots of wood trim.

 The Rahaim kitchen on Saddle Lane in Grosse Pointe Woods features cabinets in a frosted oak color, Corian countertops with ceramic tile backsplashes, a ceramic tile island counter and randomwidth oak floors in a frost stain.

Kitchens on the tour were designed by Customcraft Inc., H.F. Jenzen Building, Mutschler Kitchens Inc. and Pointe Kitchen Center.

Providing the floral arrangements for the kitchens on the tour are The Arrangement, Blossoms (Fresh Flower Market), Charvat the Florist, Grosse Pointe Florist Inc., Kimberly Floral & Interiors, Naturally Silk and Viviano.

Place settings are by The League Shop.

Tickets are $8 per person. A group rate for 15 or more is available at $6 per person.

Tickets may be ordered in advance by mail. Address a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Cottage Hospital Auxiliary Kitchen Tour, 321 Ridge Road, Grosse Pointe, 48236. Make checks payable to Cottage Hospital Auxiliary Kitchen Tour.

Tickets are also available at the Cottage Hospital gift shop, Village Records and Tapes, Customcraft Inc., Mutschler Kitchens Inc and H.F. Jenzen Building.

In one area, a particularly huge baobab named Sabu has been made into a shrine. Since ancient times, these trees have been considered a sanctuary for African spirits and gods and in many places are revered as fertility deities. People sometimes travel long distances to offer animal sacrifices to Sabu. The Bantu people believe that the trees harbor the spirits of their ancestors. Many legends and superstitions have grown up over the centuries about the massive trees, and traditions from Angola to Zambia imbue them with powers to settle differences between tribes and to control rainfall and drought.

The huge trees also cast great areas of shade. Sabu has a canopy of branches 115 feet across, and during periods of drought, people tap the trees for the water that they store in their

In central Africa, some people believe that the spirits of their ancestors live in the fig trees and offerings are often made to them, although it is sometimes not quite clear whether it is to the tree itself or to the spirits inhabiting it that the offerings are made.

There are species of fig trees native to almost every geographical area. Since the dawn of history, figs have been cultivated for their sweet fruit and this is mentioned frequently in the Bible. Fig trees grow slowly and can be very decorative house plants if you have space in your home for a very large pot. Sometimes fig trees are made into bonsai, with careful pruning and training, but it seems unlikely that anyone has ever had even a very young baobab in a pot.

HAVE A PLEASANT TRY AT PERFECTION BRIDGE BY WOODY BOYD THE PASTEBOARD PASTIME

I have been asked if I know Omar Sharif's colleague from the nationally syndicated newspaper column. The answer is affirmative and fortunately for me Tannah Hirsch is an arresting, venturesome and extremely successful businessman. He came to America via South Africa and Israel some twenty-five years ago and became President of Goren International in 1978. He's a gifted writer and author of many excellent bridge works. His daily newspaper column with Omar is his pens able testimony of that talent and it has been acclaimed by his peers to be the best bridge article published today. Tannah's knowledge, experience and bridge ability is almost unequaled. Daily he reviews an endless amount of material and hands from the game for he probably knows more world class players, their circumstances and styles than anyone writing about the game. Coupled with this expertise and creative excellence is a constant search for successful investments in entertainment and travel pleasures.

It's always a pleasure for me to visit with or write about him, but I must admit that today there is a by-product purpose as I wanted to pic his intellect.

3NT 4D N/S Vulnerable *Gerber for Aces E Leads H 10

For some time now I have wanted to write about some of the great declarer plays of today. I can tell you my favorites, but I can't speak with authority nor have I witnessed many of them being executed as they are rare. Tannah has and that is what today's topic is about.

Certainly the squeezes are among the leaders and Australia's Tim Sere's three suit squeeze was by far the most complex uncovered yet. Dummy reversals and some of the endings are pretty too, but my idol, and Tannah agrees, is either "the trump smoother" play or the "devils coup" which is also called the vanishing trump trick play. It is rare for such a card combination to be the instrument for a play the nature of a "devils coup". Even less frequently can these types of jewels be recognized and then to add to these odds are the limited number of players who have the merit to master such a manipulation.

Tannah actually witnessed Omar successfully executing this play in a Riviera stake game some years ago. As the reader can see, Omar's partner got a little overzealous with his slam bid of six clubs, but there wouldn't have been this script without his extravagance.

Declarer loses the heart lead to east queen. East's diamond is won by the king. South's spade ace wins trick three. South's spade six won by dummy's king. Dummy's heart six ruffed by Omar's club deuce. Declarers spade jack over-taken by dummy's queen. Dummy's heart seven ruffed by dethree. Omar's diamond ace wins trick eight. At trick nine a diamond ruffed in dummy. At trick ten the heart king ruffed with declarers club seven. Here is the three card ending and note how Omar eliminates a trump loser.

If West ruffs Omar's diamond nine high, dummy overruffs and plays the trump ten finessing East's jack. If West ruffs declarers diamond nine low, dummy's trump ten wins. Then the club king at trick twelve and the ace of trump at trick thirteen. Hard to believe that two known losers can become only one, but that's what this "devils coup" so appropriately named and properly executed can accomplish . . . Thank You Tannah.

ST-"ART" TIPS PREPARING THE FORMAT

Selecting an expressive and decorative arrangement for a picture is an important part of creating a composition. These basic formats may help you in your selection. A rectangle with horizontal dominance is typically used for landscapes. To create visual weight, the horizon line should be placed 1/3 of the way from the bottom of the picture. When drawing figures, a rectangle with vertical dominance is often used.

RECEDING PLANES

To achieve unity in a painting or drawing, overlap the different shapes and forms to create a series of receding planes and a feeling of depth.

Faces É places Renaissance Festival continues through Sept. 30

For those interested in traveling back in time, the Michigan Renaissance Festival will give you a chance to try out the 16th century.

The 11th annual festival began Aug. 18 and will continue on weekends and Labor Day through Sept. 30.

The festivities take place during the harvest celebration in an imaginary European village, Hollygrove, when King Edward and Queen Katheryne join the villagers in a holiday jubilee.

Guests are treated to the revelry with costumed peasants, craftspeople, minstrels, the Royal Court and a passel of magicians, jugglers, knights, maidens, wenches and a 9-foot-long dragon.

The whole fantasy is held in the midst of 200 wooded acres, one mile north of Mt. Holly Inc. in Holly, between Pontiac and

Among the more than 200 costumed entertainers and the 600 costumed participants is Mary McCarthy of Grosse Pointe Park. She'll play the part of Queen Beatrice, the king's mother.

Also included in the festivities: a bustling bazaar with craft shops selling pottery, jewelry, weaving, woodworking, blown glass and herbs and full armor contact jousting performed three times a day - on horseback.

Adult tickets are $9.95 at the gate; $8.75 in advance at Great Scott supermarkets, Kessel Food Markets, participating Total Gasoline stations and the festival office. Tickets for children are $4.95 at the gate; $4 in advance. Children under 5 are free.

Call the Michigan Renaissance Festival office at 645-9640 for information.

Of note: Three Grosse Pointe women performed at the international conference of Delta Omicron international music fraternity at Converse College in Spartanburg, S.C., during the first week in August: Eldonna May-Wessells, Dolores Peckham and Mary Ann Pillette.

The three are also active in the Grosse Pointe and Detroit area as musicians. Peckham is an organist, Pillette is a vocal music teacher and May-Wessells is an instrumental music teacher and an oboist with the Grosse Pointe Symphony Orchestra.

Tinsletown gala: The stars of Hollywood will be the focus of Under the Stars XI, the Detroit Institute of Arts 11th

The DIA has recognized film as an important art form since its first cinema project in 1927. It's also home to the Detroit Film Theater, a successful nonprofit film program.

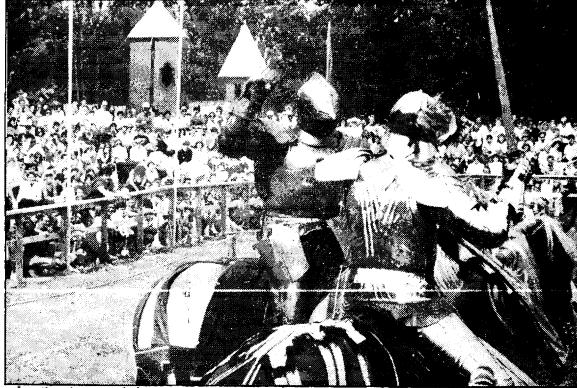

Co-chairing this year's gala are Mary Kay Crain of Grosse Pointe, Suzy Farbman of Huntington Woods and Melissa Franco of Bloomfield Hills.

Musical entertainment for Under the Stars XI will include the Tommy Dorsey Band and the Contours, known for their music in the 1987 movie "Dirty Dancing.

Patron tickets are $400 a person and will include a cocktail reception at the ball and a guaranteed reservation. Gala tickets ($300) and late-night tickets ($75) will be sold only after the formal invitations are mailed in October.

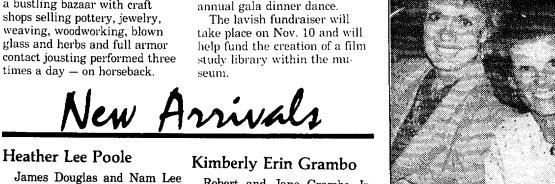

For information, contact the Founders Society Special Events Office at 833-7969 weekdays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Mirror checking

By Rev. Linda Jean Slaughter Jefferson Avenue United Methodist Church

There's a radio commercial that states: "Summer has exactly 94 days. Nothing more; nothing less.

"Whoever made that statement never skipped rope, walked barefoot or drank summertime lemonade . . .

... and I would like to add: "Or faced September in the life of the local church.'

Whether you drink summertime lemonade or not — time

September 1 challenges every church and each member to confront its mirror image and respond with renewed commitments of time, gifts and service.

In Cecil B. DeMille's movie "The Ten Commandments," Charleton Heston, as Moses, reminds Ramses:

"Slaves make bricks. The strong make many; the weak make few; the dead make none.

I'd like to paraphrase that and remind everyone that commitment of all resources enables discipleship:

"Strong commitment makes many; weak commitment makes few; dead (or nonexistent) commitment makes none.' Whatever our mirrors reflect, September allows us a new opportunity to see and perfect the image reflected of what is

(or was) to what it ought to be, as envisioned by Christ. Keep checking the mirror.

Eastwood Clinics have program for women substance abusers

A program designed exclusively for women who have problems with substance abuse is available now through Eastwood Clinics. Called CHOICE (Choosing Healthy Options, Investing in Cocaine Elimination), the program is located at Eastwood's Woodward office in Royal Oak, 2801 N. Woodward, Suite 200, Royal Oak, 48073. CHOICE is a four-level step-up program that began in late spring and is geared to working with women with dependence on cocaine and other mood-altering substances. It is designed to help women make changes in lifestyles and self-concepts.

Frequentley women seeking treatment have multiple problems. Eastwood, through CHOICE, has sought to address itself to those problems by providing funding for those who need it, along with child-care, transportation and lunch while the woman is in the program.

Women 18 and older are eligible. Besides a desire to enter treatment, there should be no evidence of severe depression, suicide risk or psychosis. Someone close to the woman (a friend or relative), also should be willing to participate in the treatment.

There are few women-centered substance abuse programs available in the tri-county area. While Eastwood's program is primarily interested in cocaine addiction, it will accept women addicted to other mood-altering substances.

Information is available by calling 288-9333 during regular business hours. Rosalie Schwartz, A.C.S.W., is the program director. Tammy Dines, M.S.W., and Linda Stadler, M.S.W., are the program coordinators. The program is funded through a state grant adminis-tered by Oakland County Office of Substance Abuse Services and is available to women in the tricounty area who are eligible for public funding. Birthcare follow-up program is popular

Bringing a new baby home time for parents, but those first tum depression, worries about ask about the mother.' her new role as a mother or being home for mothers that work are common trials that women face.

To help new moms through that first month, the Bon Sebegan a follow-up program last year. Twelve months of surveys showed that the program is a success, and gave nurses information on what women need after the baby is born. Approxicontacted and surveyed.

The patients tell us that they really appreciate hearing from us after discharge," said Mary Klawitter, R.N.

The BirthCare follow-up program consists of a phone call at home to the mother three to five days after discharge. All calls are conducted by registered nurses in the BirthCare Unit.

Nurses spend an average of 20 minutes talking with each mom. 'What I usually do at first is to introduce myself and start out with a few basic questions," says Klawitter. "At first they're a litthey usually open up after a few minutes.

"The two things that most women have the most difficulty with are breastfeeding and the blues. Postpartum blues are a very real thing. The vast majority of women experience some depression after delivery. And it's not just the first-time mothers, it's everybody."

Angela Collinson, R.N., says that helping women through this postpartum time is one of the biggest values of the program.

Postpartum depression usually occurs two to three days after birth; that's when it's the worst," says Collinson. "Women used to be in the hospital at that time, but now with shorter stays, they're at home. We don't get the chance to help them through this time. That's when the call is really important.

"We call and tell them it's from the hospital is an exciting perfectly normal for them to feel this way. Usually they just need few weeks can also pose some someone to talk to. And they tell new problems for mom. Postpar- us that it's nice to have someone Klawitter adds that some of about how siblings will react to the contributing factors in dethe new baby, and adjustment to pression are sleep deprivation and expectations that women have. "First of all, the mother is losing sleep because the baby is not sleeping through the night. That tends to wear new mothers cours Hospital BirthCare Unit out," she says. "Also, women always have certain expectations about the birthing process and the baby, and those expectations might not be met. For instance, perhaps they had to have a Csection and weren't prepared for mately 1,600 women were it. Or, maybe they really wanted a boy and got a girl. All types of things can cause depression when you've just delivered."

"We let them know that most women have these doubts," says Collinson. "It's not just new mothers, it's everyone. Even if you've had three children. Those who are dealing with a new baby and still have to take care of the siblings at home.'

Klawitter does say that sometimes older first-time moms that work have a more difficult time.

"We do find that many of these women have some problems adjusting to being at tle bit shy about talking, but home," she says. "They're used to being independent and making decisions, and suddenly that all changes. That can be tough."

The program has not only helped many mothers through those difficult days, it has also impacted on the way care is delivered at the Bon Secours BirthCare Unit, according to Collinson and Klawitter.

'We really learn about the type of information and instruction that new mothers need from these calls," says Collinson. "We pass that information on to all the nurses on the BirthCare Unit. For instance, we know that breastfeeding is a big issue, so we tell them to try to give the new moms as much information as possible.

"That's one of the reasons we started our Focus: Breastfeeding classes," she says.

National Eye Care Project is for senior citizens

Since the National Eye Care Project started four years ago, more than 5,635 needy older adults have been referred to volunteer eye physicians and surgeons (ophthalmologists) for diagnosis and treatment. Qualifying adults must be 65 and older and U.S. citizens or legal residents. They must no longer have access to an eye physician or surgeon that they have seen in the past.

The four-year period highlighted an enormous number of potentially blinding eye diseases in Michigan and nationwide. Michigan records alone show 3,185 patients diagnosed and treated for cases of cataract, glaucoma, macular degeneration and diabetic retinopathy.

The elderly are particularly vulnerable to eye disease and those who are economically dis-

Job placement help is for seniors

The Detroit Area Agency on Aging opened its new Job Development Placement Assistance Center for seniors on Monday, Aug. 6.

According to executive director Paul Bridgewater, this will be a new experience for senior citizens 55 and older. The center has been designed to assist seniors in finding employment that will match their transferable skills within today's work world.

The center has a computer room for those who need practice, a video room to study the newest methods of job seeking and a phone bank for contacting employers. Counseling and upgrading of skills will be provided through the job search classes. These classes teach resume writing, telephone techniques and motivation for getting into the job world again.

The program has income and age guidelines. If you are 55 years of age or over and are interested in getting back into the work force, call the Detroit Area Agency on Aging, 222-5330, to see if you are eligible.

advantaged are encouraged to call the toll-free help line number, 1-800-222-EYES. Ophthalmologists have volunteered to provide eye care for disadvantaged elderly persons at no outof-pocket costs to the patients. According to a project spokesperson, economically disadvantaged is defined as any person 65 or older who believes he or she would have to forgo a visitation with an ophthalmologist for a suspected problem if out-ofpocket expenses for the examination were to be incurred. When you dial the help line, you will be matched with an ophthalmologist in your area.

For older adults with Medicare or other health insurance, the ophthalmologists in this project have agreed to accept the insurance assignment as payment in full. If the patient has no medical insurance, the care is free. The help line operates weekdays, 11 a.m. to 7 p.m., Eastern Standard Time. The National Eye Care Project is sponsored by the Michigan Ophthalmologist Society and the Foundation of the American Academy of Ophthalmology. In all, some 8,554 Michigan residents have called the help line and more than 5,635 needy elderly persons in the state have been referred to volunteer ophthalmologists. The program is not for older adults whose sole need is for eyeglasses. Prescription drugs and hospital care are not provided. The National Eye Care Project is designed to detect and treat eye disease, which is prevalent among the elderly.

Longer lives mean second careers for many retired seniors

Since we have only one life to live, it is not surprising that we wish to make it a long one.

Thanks to advances in medical science, each generation has seen their life span extended beyond that of the previous one. It is not uncommon for men and women to reach their 100th birthday. And the added years are often unburdened by infirmi-

This giant step forward in longevity, hailed as a breakthrough for medical science, is regarded as a mixed blessing by sociologists and economists.

What are people going to do with these added years which amount to roughly a third of a lifetime? Of particular concern is being assured of enough income for a comfortable retirement and what to do with the additional

For those who have made work the focus of their lives, looking ahead to doing nothing is a dreary prospect. But retirement does not have to mean doing nothing. If the retiree chooses to keep active, it can mean doing something else.

individuals take on another job after retirement, they are faced with the realization that the second career will be neither equal in pay nor status to the one that was a lifetime career. Many of the job opportunities pay minimum wage and are service-oriented. If the retiree is just looking for something to do and some added income, these jobs

Working at substandard pay at a substandard job can present such problems as loss of self esteem. learning new patterns of work and adjusting to new working conditions.

To avoid this, it is much better to plan ahead while one is still employed. Research your skills and interests and decide what kind of work you would like to do after retiring from your present job.

Farming was not just a whim. His parents were farmers. He knows what he is doing now and what he will do when retirement comes.

Leaving a job as assistant vice-president is a major change in employment for another retiree. At one time in his career he had been a welder and had learned to work with his hands.

When he saw that the only shoe repair shop in his hometown was for sale, he decided to buy the shop on the condition that the owner remain with him until he mastered the craft. It was a good decision. Because shoe prices are soaring, shoe repair is a growth industry. There is a national trend toward repairing, not replacing shoes.

Another example of an afterretirement career is a 74-year-old ex-music teacher who got hooked on running and established a second career for himself as a road-race consultant and organizer. He organizes road races and fun runs for joggers who crowd the streets to raise money or to compete. In one year he handled more than 100 races and many thousands of runners, getting

For those retirees who just don't want the aggravation of learning new skills, a part-time job with a former employer or in the same field of expertise with another company may be the so-

Traveler's Insurance of Hartford altered its pension plan so that retirees can work nearly six months without losing any pension benefits. It started as a job bank for retirees - offering them part-time jobs at hourly rates that had been previously filled by outside temporaries.

The chairman of the board of Traveler's explains: "Today's worker has an average of 14 retirement years and this may increase to 20 years or more by the year 2000. Meanwhile, declining birthrates are diminishing the supply of younger workers, possibly creating shortages of qualified labor. At the same time, more older workers want jobs. This gives us a clear employment alternative and an invaluable source of trained manpower."

Utilization of the technical skills of retired workers is becoming more and more common. In California, Interek Services Corp. claims to be the world's largest technical services organization and leading recruiter of retired personnel. Interek supplies major companies with technical specialists on a full or parttime basis.

Retirement doesn't mean you have to give up if you would rather not. Dust off those dreams and try something else.

Living wills program offered at Saratoga Hospital

Living wills and durable power of attorney will be the topics at a free program offered by Saratoga Community Hospital on Thursday, Sept. 6, from 10 to 11:30 a.m. or Tuesday, Sept. 11, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. The presentation is sponsored by Saratoga's ElderMed America organization, a free membership program for adults age 50 and up.

Those attending the "Living Wills & Durable Power of Attorney" program will learn the answers to these questions:

- What is a living will? · Why is there a need for a
- living will? Is a living will valid in Michigan?
- What is durable power of attorney?
- What powers can be given through a durable power of attorney?
- · Will durable power of attorney still be useful if a couple owns everything jointly?

The program will be presented by Duane Weed, attorney and counselor-at-law. After the presentation, he will answer individual questions.

Reservations are necessary; call 245-1230. Refreshments will be served.

Saratoga Community Hospital is located at 15000 Gratiot Avenue, between State Fair and Eight Mile roads. Free parking is available. The program will be held in the Karl E. Schmidt Center, located on the first floor, just outside the main lobby.

Woods musicians are finalists in competition

Carl Fernstrum of Grosse Pointe Woods and William Sheldon Bomar of Grosse Pointe Park are among 80 young musicians and singers who have been selected as quarterfinalists in the Quest for Excellence musiccompetition.

All the semifinalists will compete before live audiences and a panel of judges at the one-hour quarterfinal rounds beginning Wednesday, Aug. 29 at Smith Theatre, Oakland Community College, Orchard Ridge Campus, in Farmington Hills.

The quarterfinals will run every Wednesday from Aug. 29 until Nov. 14, with the exception of Oct. 3 and Nov. 14, which are the two-hour semi-final rounds. All shows begin at 8 p.m.

Fernstrum, a 21-year-old pianist from Grosse Pointe Woods, will compete in the pop category on Sept. 12. He will perform Stephen Sondheim's "Send In The Clowns." On Oct. 17, Bomar, a 19-year-old flutist from Grosse Pointe Park, will compete in the classical category. He will perform the Allegretto Scherzando from "Sonata No. 2 in D Major" by Sergei Prokofiev.

More than 300 audition tapes were submitted during the audition round. The contest consists of three categories: classical, jazz

Of the 80 quarterfinalists, 62 are from Michigan. The others come from 10 other states including California, Texas and Louisiana and from Ontario, Canada.

The semi-final rounds will each have twenty constestants competing for the grand finals, which will be held on January 8, 1991, at the Fisher Theatre in Detroit. Holding out

Where do these kids get off trying to financially rape the National Football League, the Major Leagues and the National Hockey League?

Established professional athletes have a right to ask for cash, but it should all be based on performance.

If Jose Canseco has a poor season, his salary ought to be decreased the following season. However, he shouldn't be able to surpass his established contract, but should, in some way. be paid a lower price for a lower performance.

Professional athletes are being paid beaucoup bucks because of television revenues and because of you and me.

That's right, we're to blame as well. We sit and complain when we see a mediocre player take advantage of the freeagent market, but we pay the ticket price in order to see a game. Are those players really worth one to two million? If we're willing to pay it, despite our irrational thoughts, then I guess the athletes are worth it.

But why would the NFL, NBA or any other major league structure allow kids to "own" them. Andre Ware has yet to play an NFL down, yet he's holding off an organization that could — and should — play without him.

Heisman Trophy or not, no college player should make more than $100,000 per year. Sure, that's more than the average college student would earn at his/her first job, but we have set the precedent to pay athletes unheard of amounts. However, without establishing themselves as professional players, those athletes who are drafted should not be allowed to dicker.

We've got to establish a new foundation. Many players are now allowed to forfeit a final year of college eligibility to join the pros, but that means they haven't fulfilled their first obligation — a college degree.

Not only are we allowing kids to come out and earn big bucks, but we're allowing them to do so without a full college education. Wasn't that the premise for going to college? Oh, no. It must have been football first and academics second.

Ceilings continue to rise on salary caps, but why? Unions, players' pensions? It's disturbing to think that a superior athlete makes more than a superior court judge or the presi-

There are those athletes who deserve a lot of money, but somewhere, somehow the increase must stop. NBC, CBS, ESPN, ABC, TNT must all stop the bidding wars for the exclusive rights to particular leagues. It's costing the consumer too much, and it's rewarding a ho-hum athlete.

Don't incompetent, or notvery-efficient people get fired, paid less or never hired? Then why, why, why do we do it for athletes?

If I could answer that question, I'd bottle it and sell it.

I do believe that Isiah Thomas, Wayne Gretzky and Joe Montana deserve the cash because they've earned it. As far as Ware and all the others, pay them a base salary - like the rest of us in America and let them get yearly evaluations and reviews that would eventually increase or not increase pay.

Sports Fitness. Classified. Role Boaters finish optimistic Fulton run on Lake St. Clair

By Rob Fulton

For years Lake St. Clair has been the hub for junior sailing, but it's going to be difficult to top what took place Aug. 14-16 off the shore of the Grosse Pointe Little Club.

The largest one-class fleet, which consisted of 98 Optimist dinghys, sailed Lake St. Clair for three days during the United States Optimist Dinghy Association National Championships. The U.S. Team Racing Championships took place Aug. 17.

The USODA is the U.S. class of the International Optimist Dinghy Association, and sports sailors from 8-15 years old.

The Nationals were sponsored by the Lakeshore Optimist Club and Ford Motor Company.

The Optimist dinghys are nothing new to the boating industry. Many boaters who sail in oceans and endurance races got started in the Optimist racing and today it is the largest onedesign fleet in the world. Currently more than 250,000 boats are registered Optimists.

In 1947, Clark Mills, of Clearwater, Fla., originally designed the boats that were later modified by Denmark's Axel Damgaard.

Each boat, which is sailed by one person, is 7 feet, 8 inches in length. The hull weight is 77 pounds and the beam is only 3 1/ 2 feet.

Sailors must also use the most of the 35-square foot sail area.

The kids who race in the nationals are truly exceptional sailors," said George Uznis, the event's general chairman and a trustee of the USODA. "Some of the kids in the fleet can be very intimidated by the waters, but for most of them this is the ulti-

Formula One cars race through Montreal, Mexico

By Doris A. Goleniak Special Writer

The magnificent Formula One machines, that once raced in Detroit during the Grand Prix, roared into North America for two of the finest events of the World Championship season.

The first stop was Montreal, the Quebec city that built a racetrack on Ile Notre Dame, a manmade island in the St. Lawrence River named for the late Canadian hero Gilles Villeneuve.

Two weeks later, the F1 circuit turned up in Mexico City for a race also run on a high-speed circuit built in a large urban park used for past Olympic events. This track is named after the late local F1 drivers Ricardo and Pedro Rodriguez.

Tickets for the Molson Gran Prix were easy to buy. The best racing views are at either turn one or the famous hairpin on the opposite end, with tickets costing $165 (Canadian)) for the threeday weekend, which this year included entertaining Formula Atlantic and Honda Civic support races. The grandstand seats across from the pits were priced at $185 (Canadian) and provided good chances to see the teams and drivers at work.

For those who want a total F1 experience, visitors to hotels like Le Grand, Le Nouvel, or Bonaventure may find themselves mingling with the likes of Riccardo Patrese, Jean Alesi, Sandro Nannini and other drivers. Downtown Montreal is loaded with good hotels and fine restaurants, with prices comparable to those in New York and Toronto.

The track comes equipped with a decent cafeteria plus the usual concession stands. There is even shuttle boat service along the rowing channel that runs the length of the circuit.

After a wet qualifying session the first day, Sunday's race also started on a wet track with more rain likely. But, fortunately, the rain held off and the drivers dashed into the pits for slick tires. However, a few who later ventured onto the still wet areas managed to leave the race in spectacular fashion.

Ayrton Senna, who won the pole, easily won the race and was aided by the fact that Mc-Laren-Honda teammate Gerhard Berger of Austria jumped the start and was assessed a one-minute penalty. Berger, who started second, actually drove the distance 45 seconds faster than Senna, but finished fourth, behind Nelson Piquet in the Ford-sponsored Bennetton, and Nigel Mansell's Ferrari.

South of the border, it was rainy season in the Mexican Federal District, but all the F1 action took place in dry weather. On race day, spectators were treated to new speed records for race distance and fastest lap; both set by defending World Champion Alain Prost of France, who drives for Ferrari.

But, the 1986 pole record held up, with today's normally aspirated 3.5 liter engines still no match for yesterday's turbos at even 7,000 feet.

Nevertheless, the track is one of the faster on the circuit, and it gives North Americans a good chance to see what the technically advanced cars can really do compared to what one sees on a city ctreet like Detroit or Phoe-

This year's race took an amazing turn of events when leader Senna, in tire trouble, began slowing about 20 minutes from the end. The pro-Ferrari crowd went wild when Prost and teammate Mansell, of Britain, finished first and second, respectively. Berger's third place saved the day for the McLaren-Honda team. The Mexican fans are probably the most enthusiastic and put on quite a show themselves.

The Mexican autodromo appears to have been modelled after Monza in Italy, but with an interesting variation of curves and esses. The huge fast curve before the pits, called the Peraltada, is regarded by many as the toughest in Formula One. Mansell's pass around Berger in the closing laps of the race will surely become legend.

Grandstands across from the pits offer good views of team activity and cars flying around the bend.

Weekend tickets were a good value at $115 (U.S.).

Turn one, after an incredibly long, fast straight, is where most of the passing occurs, and grandstand seats there run about $80 (U.S.). There are also excellent spots along the other areas of the circuit for similar prices. Many of the teams and drivers stay at the Fiesta Americana Hotel near the track and airport. The official hotel, the Aristos, is in the European-like Zona Rose, and the hotel runs free shuttle buses during race weekend.

Race tickets and Aristos Hotel reservations can be purchased through their office in Texas, and they take U.S. dollars. Mexico City has excellent world-class restaurants, museums and shopping. Taxis are plentiful and cheap, but the Metro goes almost everywhere for the equivalent of 11 cents. With the current low value of the peso, a visit to Mexico is a real bargain.

Americans are indeed fortunate to have these two great Formula One races in neighboring countries. The Montreal and Mexico City events have the best of all possible worlds, which include the amenities of sophisticated cities combined with the fast tracks (with great views) and beautiful urban parks. What more could anyone ask for on a race weekend?

There were 19 teams which played on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings on two new sand courts.

Other team members were Mary O'Donnell, Kevin Daudlin, Teresa Marin, Tish Mackool, Donna McMillan, Marty Mc-Millan, Ann Schwarz and Debbie Friedman.

A family affair

Good health is a true family

The quest for good health has been going on for centuries. As far back as 400 B.C., Hippocrates, the father of modern medicine, stated: "A wise man should consider that health is the greatest of human blessings.

Because good health affects the overall quality of life, it's surprising people don't strive harder to attain this valuable possession. But they often take better care of their cars than they do their health. The car gets regular mechanical maintenance and most of us would not consider leaving for a trip with little or no gasoline in the car, yet we expect our bodies to often function without proper nourish-

Fortunately, even with such negligence, the body will run longer than your automobile. But, at the same time, you are depriving yourself of the full benefits of good health.

What is good health

Many people mistakenly believe good health simply means that they are not sick. But the World Health Organization defines health as "the state of complete physical, mental and social well-being, not merely the absence of disease or infirmity."

Such a definition may, at first, be overwhelming. Yet, surprisingly, all three elements are intricately connected. If you are taking good care of yourself physically, you will feel good about yourself in all other aspects of your life.

This feeling significantly contributes to both social and mental well-being. Consider it as telling you that you are worth the time and effort necessary to attain good health.

As an adult, you have the responsibility to yourself to enjoy the benefits associated with good health. And, if you're a parent you have the added responsibility to help you children develop habits that will contribute to a lifetime of good health. The key word is help, not dictate.

Eat Smart

By Mary Busse

Take inventory

The first step on the road to better health is to establish where you are. Then you can make the necessary decisions concerning what you will have to do to improve your status.

1) Do you consume a wide variety of foods, mainly fresh foods in their most natural states?

2) Do you avoid overconsumption of processed and refined foods?

3) Do you limit the amount of sodium in your diet?

4) Do you limit the amount of saturated fat in your diet? (Less than 30 percent of total calories per day?).

5) Do you maintain your ideal goal weight? (Based on your height and your frame, do you know what your ideal weight really is?)

6) Do you take at least 15-20 minutes per day to relax and rid yourself of the day's tensions? It's like brushing your teeth everyone has 15 minutes to put a relaxation technique into practice. Just do it.

7) Do you get the rest that your body requires?

8) Do you get a regular physical examination?

Incorporating good health

When planning menus which provide good nutrition for all members of your family, careful consideration must be given to each age group. But, this does not have to drive you crazy. Try involving your children in the menu-planning stages. Allow them to experiment with new foods.

Everyone should participate in family discussions that emphasize the importance of healthy eating in relation to their physical and mental capabilities. Parents should also stress that kids can and do perform better both mentally and physically when they follow a menu that consists of fresh vegetables, fruits, healthy grain products and sufficient amounts of protein to help build a stronger mind and body.

The exercise extension

People can experience relatively good health without an exercise program, but actively participating in a consistent regimen can enhance overall physical health and mental well-

Exercise helps maintain and improve the functioning of all systems of the body such as digestive, nervous, muscular and circulatory. Keeping a high profile of wellness will further help in the fight against the development of a virus or infection.

Studies have shown that regular exercise can reduce tension, fatigue, anxiety and enhance the ability to deal with stress. Does this mean that you have to go "all out" when you exercise? Not at all.

It has been proven that those who follow a routine of 15-20 minutes of exercise every day can and do improve their general health within 30-60 days. Again, the key element is daily exercise.

With this short time span, you don't need to think about it or argue with yourself about it. Just do it!

Eat right and exercise with your children. And, even if your children appear to have gone "off the edge" during their teen years, rest assured that you have established a solid basis for them to emulate in the years following. Try the formula and you will experience a healthier and happier life.

Cross-training

Most people who workout establish an aerobic workout preference. There are the dedicated and disciplined joggers, but there are also the recreational athletes.

What many of these enthusiasts have discovered is that there is pleasure to be found in trading sports occasionally.

What this means is crosstraining. Cross training is a process of selecting two, three or four cardiovascular sports that one may enjoy and alternating the participation, depending on which one you're fired-up for.

Cross or interval: there's a difference

Another form of cardiovascular or aerobic conditioning is referred to as "interval training," and there is a distinct difference from crosstraining.

The process of interval training was originally developed for the more serious athlete. It is a matter of alternating periods of work with brief periods of rest or relief. Another term for this is speed work, because the pace of the work/exercise is higher than that used in a normal period.

The physiological principal is that the exerciser is overloading the energy systems for short periods of time. The recovery is more rapid and so another bout of heavy exercise can begin after only a short relief period. With shorter relief periods, the intensity of the workout is, of course, increased.

It is very important to maintain some form of movement or light exercise during the rest period to prevent blood from pooling in the large muscle groups.

There are certain disadvantages involved with this form of training. It can be easy to overtrain and there can also be an increased frequency of injuries. Nevertheless, with the proper spacing of exercise and rest-relief periods, a significant amount of cardiovascular work can be achieved.

C.T. is fun

When we enter the world of cross-training, the focus is on the changing of "vehicles" as opposed to time intervals.

More people are finding that it's more exciting to be able to take a week off from jogging and tour their rural areas on a 10-speed bike. It can also be great fun putting one's energy into swimming for two weeks and not worry about a readjustment on the hand brakes.

We're even seeing the more adventurous people flying down the side streets on a pair of rollerblades, the equivalent of one-wheeled rollerskates. Indeed, more people are seeking more intriguing and unique workouts every day.

Dr. Joseph Femminineo, physiatrist and medical director of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation for St. John Hospital and Medical Center, agrees with the trend.

"Absolutely. There is no question cross-training produces a more complete fitness level," he said.

Out of the 20 percent of Americans who exercise regularly, only one third choose running as their main fitness source. It is important to choose the aerobic exercise that is right for you.

However, more and more fitness devotees are saying one is just not enough. The routines can even be varied from one day to the next. The exerciser could run/jog on Monday, swim on Tuesday and hop on a bike on Wednes-

One of the advantages to alternating the fitness regimen is the care and prevention of injuries. It one sustains even a minor running injury, the temporary switch to swimming for a week may be the best therapy. If the wear and tear of the 10-speed has you down, a simple switch to a cross-country ski trainer could actually be fun. The point is that cross-training presents dynamic benefits to staying healthy and injury free while pursuing aerobic Femminineo states: "People are now using different muscle groups and different muscle patterns." This results in a complete musculoskeletal conditioning process which can, in the long run, prevent acute injuries.

Variety

As the aging process continues, the importance of staying active becomes even more the golden rule.

In a recent study at San Diego University, two groups of senior adults were tested. Both had been involved in regular aerobic exercise. However, the first group consisted of lifetime exercisers with more than 20 different recreational activities, besides their regular training.

One of the findings of the first group was that the gradual rise in blood pressure over time was forestalled by a maintenance of body weight and physical training. Their pressure was actually comparable to that of young men.

The non-exercisers' group went through an 18-year period of detraining before taking up their new aerobic fitness routine.

During those 18 years, the non-exercisers developed mild to moderate risk factors. They had an average 26 percent body fat, gained approximately seven additional pounds and lost 40 percent of their aerobic power. Sixty percent became hypertensive.

In a much larger scale study out of the University of Toronto's Department of Rehabilitation Medicine, a group of more than 750 athletes were evaluated. This group with ages 30-79 demonstrated peak power output and oxygen use that was close to the readings for sedentary 25-year-olds.

The real bonus in crosstraining is improved quality of life and stimulating life-activity routine. If you have started to ponder how to expand your own exercise routine, just lead with your interests and abilities.

The next time you're at the street corner on your 10 speed or on your rollerblades, just remember to use the "cross" walk.

101 PRAYERS PRAYER TO THE

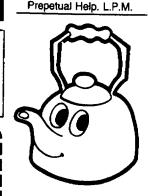

HOLY SPIRIT

Holy Spirit, you who make me see everything and who shows me the way to reach my ideal. You who give me the Divine Gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me and you who are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how the material desires creat may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones in your perpetual glory. Thank you for your love towards me and my loved ones. Pray this prayer three consecutive days without asking your wish, after third day your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Then promise to publish this prayer as soon as vour favor has been granted. Thank you for

The Missing LINC

LINC is a non-profit organization whose purpose is to place goods no longer needed by individuals and businesses into the hands of metropolitan Detroit charitable agencies. If you have any items no longer of use to you, Operation LINC knows who can and will use them. Please call LINC at 882-

Summer is in full swing, and so are the summer programs for our member agencies. Several have special needs to help make their activities complete. Take a peek at the following and see if you might be able to make a contribution.

COOL IT with beverage coolers. Northeast Guidance Center has a lot going on, but they need a few more things to ice it! An OUTDOOR ICE CHEST or COOLER, 2 large BEVERAGE COOLERS (5-8 gallon capacity), and an AM-FM PHONOGRAPH or TAPE PLAYER (one that is simple to operate would do nicely). The center would like to acquire a free standing CLOTHING RACK with wheels.

More Summer fun going on over at Antonio Santos Elk Lodge. They need things for their childrens summer program like EDUCATIONAL GAMES, educational COLORING BOOKS, CRAYONS and WASHABLE MARKERS.

C.O.T.S. would like a DOUBLE STROLLER. Many other agencies are always in need of childrens items from GAMES to GALOSHES, CRIBS to CLOTHES, and SOCKS to SWINGS.

Detroit Public Schools has asked for a 5' x 7' area

LINC wants your clean, usable odds and ends. There are many organizations who can put these things to a creative use. Uses have been found for misprinted calendars and drapery fabric scraps. Be inventive and call LINC.

SPAY or NEUTER YOUR PET TODAY! An altered pet is a healthier and happier companion.

Also, it spares you the grief and pain of having puppies and kittens destroyed when no homes can be found. Countless numbers of sweet, innocent little ones are euthanized every day in shelters across the country because a pet wasn't spayed or neutered. If we cut down on the numbers of unwanted litters being born, we will also cut down on the number of abandoned, lost and unwanted animals to de-

BEARDED COLLIE RESCUE

MURRAY HAS A SONG IN HIS HEART.

This mature, English import loves to kick back by the piano and sing to your favorite tunes, wagging his tail to the beat. Murray loves to snuggle, is neutered and is great with kids, dogs and cats.

KATIE PRAYS FOR A NEW HOME.

This little girl, abandoned by a broken home, needs your love and care to mend her broken heart. Katie should be wonderful in any home, having been raised with children, cats & dogs. Katie, a world-class snuggler, would be a loving and loyal pet.

These pure-bred Collies are available for adoption to a qualified home through the BCCSEM Bearded Collie rescue. For more information, call Mark or Deborah at 881-0004.
