School board has until Feb. 4 to sell voters on library plan

The board voted Monday night to set Feb. 4, 1991 as the date when it will ask voters to fund a bond issue to build a $7.6 million library on the site of Brownell Middle School.

Superintendent Ed Shine said that while that date may not be the most opportune time for a vote — because of the tensions in of a recession looming - it's the best time now.

After learning that they would lose in court, Grosse Pointe City officials agreed to allow a house to be built at 547 Neff.

The court case was brought by Gary and Charlene Haberkorn of Grosse Pointe Park. They bought the small lot in April 1989 and wanted to build a home on it for investment purposes, but were denied the zoning variances they requested.

In response, the Haberkorns filed suit in Wayne County Circuit Court charging that the Board of Zoning Appeals' Dec. 18, 1989, denial was an abuse of discretion.

On Nov. 7, Judge Kathleen MacDonald told the attorney representing the city that she was inclined to rule in favor of the Haberkorns. After learning the judge's disposition in the case. the two sides quickly reached a settlement, which was entered into the court records as a consent judgment.

Locals react strongly to Prime Time's anti-Detroit message

Staff Writer

Local reaction was swift and loud to last Thursday's segment about Detroit on the ABC-TV news show, Prime Time Live.

Social agencies, newspapers, television stations and private citizens have expressed as much negativity about the show as the show did about the city.

Burned out neighborhoods were shown. Crack dealers were busted. A man — who later admitted he lied - showed the reporter how many guns he kept in his house to protect himself.

A suburban man, who denied being racist, said that after a few black families move into the neighborhood, gang fighting and prostitution follow. Mayor Coleman Young cursed profusely and terminated the interview.

The Rev. John Corrado, pastor of the Grosse Pointe Unitarian Church, is a resident of Detroit who is involved locally with the Racial Justice Center. He called the report unfair to both Detroit and the suburbs.

Injury accident in the Shores

An Erie, Pa., man suffered a possible broken hip Nov. 9 when his car jumped the median on Lakeshore and came to a rest after hitting a tree in Grosse Pointe Shores.

The man, who is staying at a Mount Clemens address, apparently fell asleep at the wheel while traveling at a high rate of speed northbound on Lakeshore near the Macomb County border at 4:21 a.m.

According to police reports, the man lost control of the car at the curve in the 1100 block of Lakeshore. The car jumped the curb, drove over the median, across the southbound lanes and finally stopped after hitting a tree 35 feet from the road.

The 31-year-old motorist was taken to St. John Hospital.

He was disappointed with only a token nod to the positive developments in Detroit.

"If this represents ABC's journalism, I'll be real leery of anything I watch any more," he said.

Grosse Pointe City resident Stewart McMillin is a teacher in East Detroit who has made a sideline business of studying the history of Detroit.

"The story wasn't too balanced," McMillin said. "There's a lot of neat things in Detroit that weren't shown.'

One thing about Detroit that wasn't allowed to shine, according to McMillin, was its mayor.

"Coleman Young has an engaging personality," he said. 'It's too bad it didn't show. He is more of a balanced person than was showed.'

McMillin felt it was unfair for the program to reiterate old rumors and innuendoes. But even though the charges were unfair. it was not good public relations for Young to use so much profanity, he said.

"The kids could use a better role model.'

State Sen. John Kelly, who was recently re-elected to another term, called the report superficial and unbalanced, but added that Young played it

"I think Coleman Young reflected his own barbarity with the public," Kelly said. "The first thing I would have done is to get in the limo and show the reporter all the good things about Detroit, but I don't think he knows the good things and how he could use them to counteract the story." Kelly once debated Ti Hua Chang, the producer of the segment, when Chang was a local television reporter. He said the segment reflects Chang's viewpoint of the city.

"It did nothing to examine the causal roots," Kelly said. "It lacked analysis and offered no hope. It said 'this is the end' rather than 'this is a city in transition.

It looked at all the negatives as being here to stay, but Kelly said those things are curable, if

Carrie Peebles, a Grosse Pointer who works as a volunteer for several downtown agencies and was one of the founders of the Racial Justice Center, said she hesitated in calling the report distorted, but said it was unbalanced.

"It was a sort of thing where they show the truth, but not the whole truth," Peebles said. "There wasn't a shot of the cul-

"If I didn't live near Detroit and I'd seen the show, I'd be scared for my life to go down there. I spend a lot of time in Detroit and nothing has ever happened to me. It was depressing to watch that show."

An artist's conception of Cottage Hospital after current expansion plans are completed.

Farms approves Cottage expansion

By Dan Jarvis

Staff Writer After months of design refinements and consideration by the city of Grosse Pointe Farms, Cottage Hospital received approval Monday night for expansion of its emergency-care facilities.

Unanimously approved by the Farms City Council, the granting of the request for three variances in the city's zoning ordinance will allow the hospital to increase the size of its emergency-medical-care facilities.

The variance approval along Muir Road allows the hospital to extend the current building, now about 24 feet back from the sidewalk, to within three feet of the

Because the current structure along Muir falls within the city's from the property line.

25-foot setback requirement by just over a foot, the hospital was first required to gain a variance for the zoning nonconfomity. Secondly, the hospital requested and received another variance allowing the emergency-care addition to be placed within three feet of the sidewalk.

The third zoning variance allows the hospital to construct a new canopy over the new main entrance, located at Kercheval and Muir (the site of the current emergency entrance). The new main entrance canopy will extend to within two feet of the Kercheval side property line, and thus required a 23-foot variance from the zoning setback requirement, which requires structures to be placed 25 feet back

Greg Vasse, Cottage's chief executive officer, said the main purpose for the expansion request is threefold.

First, the hospital wants to relocate its emergency room and entrance from the east (Kercheval) side to the west (Ridge Road) side to keep main-entrance pedestrian traffic away from incoming emergency vehicles.

Also, Vasse said, the hospital needs to expand the current emergency facilities to provide better care for a larger number of patients and to provide more privacy to patients and their families, who often are forced to wait in the emergency-care hall-

Secondly, he said, the hospital will undergo a reworking of the main entrance to relieve congestion of both pedestrian and vehicular traffic. A new canopy will be constructed, providing

Lastly, Vasse said, the plan calls for a relief of pedestrian traffic traveling from the hospital's parking deck across Muir Road to the hospital.

This will be achieved through the construction of an L-shaped skywalk originating on the third story of the parking deck and providing walkways to the hospital and to the Pierson Clinic.

The skywalk, proposed from 10 to 12 feet in width, will join the hospital at its new third-floor lobby on the Muir Road side of the hospital.

House parties closed down

Two house parties were closed down and four 18-year-olds were cited last weekend in three separate incidents involving minors and alcohol in Grosse Pointe

Police received a report of a loud party in the 1400 block of Aline at 9:45 p.m. Nov. 10. When officers arrived, they saw two cars driving away and two youths running into the house.

The 16-year-old resident of the home said her mother was out for the evening and that she knew friends would be over and that they would be drinking alcoholic beverages. The youth told officers she didn't see anything wrong with drinking with friends as long as it was in her own home, according to police reports.

While the officer was talking to the resident, he heard aluminum cans clinking together as they were being thrown into containers.

According to the resident, her mother was cited for a similar party last year.

In last weekend's incident, four 16-year-olds, all of Grosse Pointe Woods, were identified and sent home. Some of their parents were notified.

On Nov. 9 at 10:31 p.m., 11 youths from Grosse Pointe Woods and Shores were identified by police when officers broke up a loud party in the 1000 block of South Oxford.

When the officers arrived, they saw several people entering the home and observed youths in the back yard. The 17-year-old resident had invited some friends over. An adult was apparently home at the time and was aware some of the youths were drinking alcoholic beverages, according to police reports.

At 9 p.m. Nov. 9, the four 18year-olds, all of Grosse Pointe Woods, were cited for minors in possession of alcohol when an open case of beer was found in the car in which they were sit-

A Woods police officer was on patrol when he saw the four adults in front of a home in the 21600 block of Centerbrook. As the officer approached, the group turned and quickly walked

When the officer turned around and returned to the area, the group was gone. The officer then saw the four sitting in a station wagon in front of the Centerbrook home.

When the officer walked up to the car to investigate, he shined flashlight inside the station wagon and saw a coat partially covering an open case of beer sitting in the back and within reach of the occupants.

He ordered the four out of the car, and found an open beer on the floor in front of the rear seat. The occupants were cited for minors in possession of alcohol.

Learning disabled program planned

The Learning Disabilities Association of Grosse Pointe (formerly MACLD) will present a program by Dr. C. Suzanne Klein, director of special education for the Grosse Pointe schools, on "The L.D. Student, from Pre-School to High School and Beyond," Monday, Nov. 19, at 7:30 p.m. at Central Library. Klein assumed the post of special education director July 1 after 20 years as a teacher, teacher consultant and administrator for the Grosse Pointe schools.

She has been involved in one capacity or another with the needs of L.D. students at every level of instruction. She taught Developmental Pre-School, and wrote her doctoral dissertation on pre-school screening.

Later, as a teacher consultant, she served elementary school students with learning disabilities, and was an administrator at the middle school level. Currently, Klein is on a state-wide committee looking at ways in which to improve vocational education in Michigan schools, as a means of lowering the high school drop-out rate among high risk students.

She will share her expertise and her ideas for improving L.D. programs in Grosse Pointe. She will also listen to parents' concerns. LDA programs are open to the public at no charge. Refreshments will be served.

Get set for the Santa Claus Parade

The 14th annual Santa Claus Parade, hosted by the Grosse Pointe Village Association, will begin at 10:30 a.m., Friday, Nov. 23, from the corner of Fisher Road and Grosse Pointe Boulevard.

The parade marches down Kercheval through the Village shopping district before ending at Kensington Road in Grosse Pointe Park.

Dick Clark of the Department of Public Safety will lead the parade as he has for the past 13 years. He'll be joined this year by an equestrian color guard as well as one from the U.S. Navy.

Santa Claus will be on the final float. After he has completed the parade, he will accept the key to the city from Grosse Pointe mayors. This year the podium will be located closer to Cadieux to allow space for more people to view the parade in the Vil-

Kercheval will be closed between Fisher and Kensington during the parade. The alternate bus route will be from Kensington Road down Maumee (south of Kercheval) to

This year's theme is Creatures and Critters. The Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles will be the grand marshals. Parts of homecoming floats from Grosse Pointe North and South high schools will be transformed into new crea-

The refurbished nativity float will appear. Queens of all ages will ride in convertibles.

Walking Christmas trees will glide down the street and a new walking Christmas package will be introduced. Vintage and special vehicles will thrill parade-goers. Several of the units will deliver a safety message this year.

More than 700 Brownies, Cub Girl Scouts, Girl Scouts and Y-Indian Guides are expected to march in their uniforms or theme costumes.

Because of the generosity of special sponsors, the parade line-up is extensive with 80plus units. This year's music will include favorites such as the calliope, Celtic Pipe and Drum Corps and the First Michigan Colonial Fife and Drum Corps. Marching bands from Allen Park, Farmington Hills and St. Clair Shores will return, joined by De La Salle and 140-member Troy Athens. Pom-pom units will help keep the beat.

The Grosse Pointe Theatre will bring its big green peoplepowered bug, the Disney heads and Surprise Box. The community organization also does make-up for the clowns and is responsible for blowing up 1,000 red and green balloons that are given away along the parade route.

The announcer in the Village will be Stephanie Samuel, retailer and member of Grosse Pointe Theatre. There will be carolling in the Village before the parade arrives. Members of Ben Walker's Grosse Pointe North High School choral group will lead the singing.

For those who cannot be on hand or who want to see it all again, Grosse Pointe Cable TV will record the event.

Local communities earn pedestrian safety awards

Three Grosse Pointe communities have earned pedestrian safety awards from the American Automobile Association

The awards were presented Nov. 15.

Grosse Pointe Woods earned an Award of Merit, which is given to cities and states for demonstrating combined achievement on pedestrian safety records and pedestrian program activities.

Grosse Pointe Farms was honored with a Special Citation for Outstanding Pedestrian Program

Grosse Pointe Park received a Pedestrian Safety Citation for going four consecutive years without a pedestrian death.

Fifty-four Michigan cities earned honors in AAA's 51st Annual Pedestrian Protection Program. More than 2,500 cities nationally were judged on safety legislation, enforcement, engineering, school safety campaigns and public information and education programs.

Last year, 190 pedestrians were killed and 3,990 injured in Michigan.

State voters oust only one major 'rascal'

Then voter threats to "turn the ras-cals out" failed to materialize except in the governor's contest, most Michigan incumbents representing Grosse Pointe, area and statewide constituencies swept to victory in last week's general election.

In Michigan as well as in other states, the public may have been disgusted with Congress and other legislative bodies in toto but the people still voted to retain most of their own representatives at the local as well as at the national level.

Thus Rep. William R. Bryant Jr. of Grosse Pointe, the ranking Republican in the state House of Representatives, won a lop-sided 3-to 1 victory in the 13th District, Democratic state Sen. John Kelly of Grosse Pointe Woods easily won a third term in the 1st District and Democratic County Commissioner David P. Cavanagh of Grosse Pointe Woods was returned by a margin of just over 5,000 votes in the 1st District.

In Michigan's congressional races, there were no upsets and no party shifts. The Democrats retained the seat of retiring 13th District Rep. George W. Crockett by electing newcomer Barbara-Rose Collins while the GOP kept the 10th District House seat by electing Dave Camp to succeed Rep. William Scheutte who ran for the U.S. Senate. That left the Democrats still leading the GOP 11-to-7 in House

A host of explanations has been offered for the defeat of Democratic Gov. James Blanchard but surely in view of Democratic Sen. Carl Levin's easy victory over GOP challenger Schuette, the upset win by GOP state Sen. John Engler must be seen as the latter's personal triumph.

Contributing factors were the failure of Detroit Democrats to turn out to support the governor; the negative tone of Blanchard's TV commercials right up to the bitter end; the governor's inability to articulate an encouraging view of the future and, according to Free Press political columnist Hugh McDiarmid, the governor's "blah" attempt to be all things to all peo-

Retiring Lt. Gov. Martha Griffith remained convinced the governor lost because he didn't keep her on the ticket while a NOW (National Organization for Women) spokeswoman blamed the upset on women's reaction against the governor's messy' divorce and his first wife's book. Such factors may have offset any gains Blanchard made with pro-choice women on the abortion issue.

Even though the gubernatorial debates were as nasty as the rest of the campaign, perhaps they also helped Engler by making him appear to be more gubernatorial in tone and appearance than the governor himself.

But how would you like to be in Engler's shoes now as he searches for ways to fulfill his campaign promises, including that 20 percent cut in property taxes, an increase in education funding and the required cuts in other state expenditures to achieve those goals?

True, he'll still have the state Senate in Republican hands and on his side in January. Yet Engler, when he tries to work with House Democrats, probably will find them as difficult to persuade as the Democratic governor and House found the Senate majority leader to be in working on legislation in recent years.

Furthermore, we caution the governor not to seek the tough anti-abortion legislation some pro-life people are recommending to him. That action not only could poison the atmosphere in the upcoming legislative session but it also could cost the GOP support from many women in the years ahead.

Yet we wish him well and express the hope that now that he has won the governor's office, he can get Michigan moving again.

Why the Pointes hail Engler

he Republican Pointes welcomed the election of John Engler as the first GOP governor since William Milliken for several reasons.

They not only strongly supported Engler's candidacy with 13,649 votes—which gave him a lead in the Pointes of 6,299 or almost one-third of his victory margin of 19,134 votes — but they see his victory as having important consequences for several major problems the Pointes will face in the 1991 legislative session.

One is a legislative effort, which Engler and the Pointes have opposed, to cap school spending in Grosse Pointe and other out of-formula districts.

A second is the Detroit City Airport expansion which Pointers generally oppose and which Engler has said should be subject to approval by "all people impacted" which obviously includes the people of this community.

As for a third, the reapportionment to be carried out after the 1990 census figures become official, election of the GOP governor should enhance the Pointes' efforts to be reunited in one congressional district.

The Republican Pointes now are split, with the Park and City in the 13th District; the Farms, Shores and Woods in the 14th District, and tiny Lake Township, a part of the Shores located in Macomb County, in the 12th District.

All the Pointes are now represented by Democrats. Reapportionment might not bring any of the three districts under GOP control even if they survive but uniting the Pointes into one district surely would improve the community's political clout.

The Legislature drafts the reapportionment plans for both congressional and legislative districts but with the Senate still Republican, the GOP governor with his veto power can play a strong role in determining the new outlines for both kinds of districts.

From the GOP viewpoint, Engler's victory is especially important because of the necessity of trimming Michigan's congressional districts from 18 to 16. He should have major influence on that reallocation of seats that will remain in effect for the coming decade.

With Engler's election, the Republican Pointes ought to get more consideration than they did in the 1982 reapportionment plan drafted by a Democratic Legislature and ordered into effect by a federal appellate court with little change.

Despite the Pointes' Republican reputation, the Park did vote for the re-election of four Democratic incumbents: U.S. Sen. Carl Levin, Secretary of State Richard Austin, Attorney General Frank Kelley and County Commissioner David Cavanagh. Democrats failed to carry a single contest in the other Pointes.

As usual, the Pointes voted in much larger proportions than the state and nation did. Grosse Pointe Shores reported the highest proportion of registered voters casting ballots with a 60.8 percent rating. The City, the Farms and the Woods were bunched at 57.5 percent, 57 percent and 56 percent while the Park brought up the rear with 44.6 percent.

Lake Township tops voting

ake Township, Macomb County's contribution to Grosse Pointe Shores which had distinguished itself as having the highest per capita income of any community in the nation in 1987, further distinguished itself in the general election on Nov. 6.

It reported the highest proportion of registered voters, 63 percent, who went to the polls in any of the Pointes even though it cast only 43 votes.

As usual, Lake Township went strongly Republican although it did cast a healthy vote for Democrat Rep. David Bonior for 19 votes to 22 for James Dingeman, the GOP nominee.

In Lake Township, Sen. John Engler was aided in his upset victory by a 29 to 14 margin over Gov. Blanchard and Rep. William Schuette got 27 to 15 for Sen. Carl Levin who successfully defended his seat.

Lake Township didn't do as well by Clark Durant, Grosse Pointe's Republican nominee for the state Supreme Court. It gave him only 15 votes which made him third behind the winning incumbents, but Grosse Pointe Township put Durant in a strong second place in its election with 544 votes to 617 for Michael Cavanagh.

Congress. The re-elected Bonior received View from the sidelines rirtuous Minnesota apparently returned to its traditional moral and political values in last week's election when it pulled off two upsets, one in each party.

In one upset, the state's voters defeated a Republican senator, Rudy Boschwitz, who was seeking a third term, and elected Paul Wellstone, a Democratic-Farmer Labor professor from Carleton college who ran as a traditional party liberal with a funny, folksy campaign.

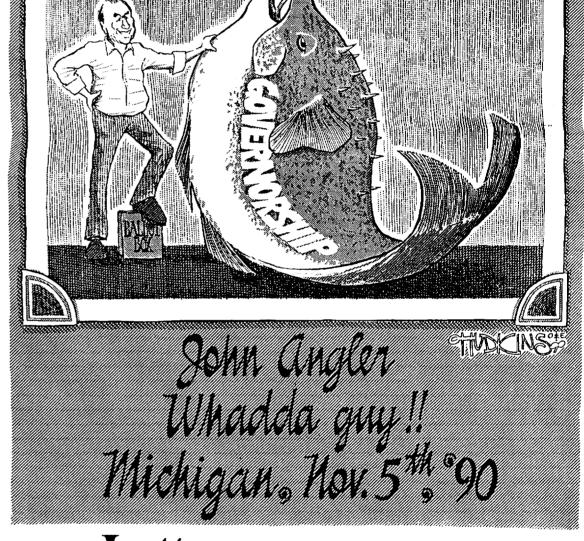

In the other upset, the state elected a late-comer GOP nominee for governor, Arne Carlson, over three-term incumbent DFL Gov. Rudy Perpich, even though Carlson had only a few weeks to campaign as a by Wilbur Elston full-fledged party nominee.

Carlson, who had been running as a write-in candidate, was promoted to serve as the GOP flag bearer after the party's original nominee, Jon Grunseth, withdrew following public disclosure of several sexual improprieties.

The abortion issue played a role in both contests. A Boschwitz radio commercial that falsely accused Wellstone of favoring abortions in the ninth month at taxpayer expense backfired. And Carlson's prochoice stance apparently helped him upset the pro-life governor.

Despite what was said here last week, perhaps this former resident of Minnesota can go home again — at least for a visit.

Proud to be an American

To the Editor:

This is a follow-up letter to let people know how much the soldiers enjoyed the "Care" packages sent by my Lifeskills students at Pierce.

Several of the soldiers have already responded telling my middle school students how much they appreciated the pictures, letters and goodies. They talked about the heat and customs in the Middle East as well as about their families. Kevin Gramling sent the class a Christmas card with a picture of the U.S.S. O'-Brien and told us he will come to visit us at Pierce when he returns home next year. Chris King writes, "And when you say, I'm an American, say it with pride." Chris also sent us a poem, written by a friend in Saudi Arabia, which I would like

American education doesn't

pay

In Switzerland, the starting salary for a teacher in the primary grades in U.S. dollars is $45,000. If that teacher continues to teach at the elementary level, he or she can earn up to $55,000.

Secondary school teachers earn between $55,000 and $60,000 and those teaching in are in school between 180 and universities are paid between $75,000 and $95,000.

Does this surprise you? It did me. The people at the Michigan Education Association and the National Education Association in Washington, D.C., were not surprised, however,

Education is taken seriously in Europe, our Swiss guide told us as we toured Bavaria this summer. Obviously, Teachers are respected professionals and they're paid accordingly. And it's generally conceded that European children are better educated than their American coun-

There's a downside, of course, to the way Europeans educate their children and that is the accepted practice of deciding early I Say Pat Paholsky doing and then moving that child through the system toward a certain profession or vocation.

Despite that, it's obvious they are doing something right. On the whole, the kids are brighter, more mature and more aware of world events. Talk to any foreign exchange student and you come away a little anxious for our own kids.

Michigan teachers earned an

Swiss students and teachers on what the child is capable of average of $34,707 in 1988-89, according to the MEA. More recent figures were not available. Grosse Pointe teachers today earn between $25,167 and $51,399 a year, for an average of $38,238. Last year their average was $35,778, still far below the level of European teachers.

While it would seem simplistic to attribute a cause-and-effect relationship between higher salaries and better education, there is a connection. The higher the salary, the more people who will compete for teaching jobs. Hiring standards are raised and as a result, better teachers are hired. Teaching standards go up and guess who wins? The kids, of course. But in the long run, the country wins.

The subject of teachers' salaries is about as emotional as the abortion or capital punishment issues. Some people go off like a rocket when the topic is brought

Why?

Is it because most teachers have the summer off? And Christmas week and Easter week? I have to admit that has enormous appeal.

Is it because school taxes account for the largest chunk of a property owner's tax bill? That's about the only place that I, as a voter, still have some control but in typical singleminded fashion, analysts pointed out the bad ads and forgot the issues.

One of the local television news shows interviewed John Engler the day after the election and asked him where he would find the money to carry on state government after he cuts our taxes by 20 percent. That's a good question, but why ask it the morning after the night before? Where were the questions and answers before the election?

If there's a lesson to be learned from this election, it is that we must find a way to assert ourselves, something other than staying away from the polls in disgust.

Disgust is understandable. In fact, for the first time in my life, I sympathize with people who refuse to read newspapers or otherwise follow current events. Or Grosse Pointe voters are generally too well-bred to say so, but there's been a feeling in some quarters that the Park and City have been ill-served by being lumped into the 13th District. After all, the Pointes are suburban, affluent, professional; the rest of the district tends to be urban, poor, unemployed and minority.

The hope has been expressed that at least in the 1991 redistricting, the powers that gerrymander will come to their senses and put the five Pointes back together in one suburban district. Don't hold your breath.

Actually, part of that wish is fairly likely to come true: The Pointes will probably end up in one district, but it'll still be the 13th, and it'll still have east side Detroit in it.

That's because the Civil Rights Act of 1965 protects minority districts. There's no way that the 13th will go out of business just because it has lost population. A way will be found to pick up more people, probably from the 14th, leaving Rep. Dennis Hertel out in the cold.

The challenge to Barbara-Rose Collins will be to find a way to represent such a disparate district, bears or no bears. And she will have to find a way, because the new population mix will probably be much closer to an even split between urban and suburban.

Current Congressman George Crockett has generally followed Mies van der Rohe's dictum that Barbara is going to be all right. She suffered bruises and a hairline skull frac-

The officers, Steve and Jeff and John Viviano, were so quick and so kind and so very caring.

Barbara was rushed via EMS to emergency at St. John Hospital. The quick care and concern of everyone will live forever in a most grateful grandma's heart Barbi is just 10 years old. The driver of the van stopped and continued to shield Barbi from other ongoing traffic until the EMS arrived.

A dear and special lady rode with Barbi to the hospital. She has known Barbi from early on and is herself a nurse, Mrs. Jan Morrill.

To Sheila Turney, principal at Defer School, who also came to the hospital to be with Barbi — I can only say from my heart - God will bless you all.

Traffic

To the Editor:

The residents of Moran Road, between Mack and Chalfonte, are being asked to contend with a "temporary solution" to the traffic problem on our street and on surrounding streets. Unfortunately, the problem is far from temporary and requires immediate action.

According to Robert K. Ferber, director of public safety for the city of Grosse Pointe Farms, in his letter dated May 15, 1990 to residents of Moran, McKinley, McMillan, Muir, Lewiston and Fisher roads: The newly implemented traffic barriers were creeted to "improve and expedite the flow of traffic to and from the Hill area and Cottage Hospital from Mack Avenue on the west end of the city, while preserving the integrity of the city's existing major road system to the greatest extent possible." What this has done in actuality is to direct all incoming and outgoing traffic down Moran, forcing this street to absorb all of the traffic in an already highly congested traffic area.

I am only one of many homeowners on Moran who strongly oppose this situation and wish to express my dissatisfaction with the present changes, believing that the plan is poorly designed and only addresses part of the traffic problem. Furthermore, it is being done at the sole expense of the residents and children of this neighborhood, particularly on

Before any change in the traffic pattern can be attempted, there are other issues which cannot be ignored, such as the heavy volume of traffic on Moran as well as the high speed of traffic. I greatly resent being unable or unwilling to allow my young children to play in front of their own home, fearing for their safety when drivers using Moran disregard the speed limit and travel at speeds in excess of 35 miles an hour. I wonder how these same people, possibly parents themselves, would feel in our situation? If it is Mr. Ferber's intent to make Moran a major thoroughfare, similar to Moross or Kerby, these issues must be taken into consideration and an extensive and comprehensive analysis by both the city of Grosse Pointe Farms coupled with the input of the residents on Moran must be implemented. The situation, as it now stands, is simply a tragic accident waiting to happen.

Oakwood is Advanced Medicine

In Vitro Fertilization

In vitro fertilization is one of several new treatments for infertility successfully being practiced at Oakwood today. This highly specialized procedure has enabled hundreds of Michigan couples, who otherwise would not have been able to conceive, to bear children. The procedure involves removal of eggs from the woman's ovaries. the addition of sperm to the eggs in the laboratory, and then placement of fertilized eggs into the uterus where the baby may develop. Physicians currently at Oakwood succeeded in developing the state's first in vitro fertilization pregnancy and have pioneered a number of new reproductive technologies.

At our state-of-the-art facility, couples undergo a comprehensive analysis process involving a team of highly skilled physicians, nurses and technicians. If you would like more information on in vitro fertilization or any of the advanced medicine we offer, please call us at 263-8550.

Oakwood Health Services is one of the largest health care systems in Michigan, with five hospitals, more than 30 local health care and specialty centers and more than 1.000 physicians in every major health care specialty and subspecialty. Oakwood will serve more than the half million patients this year.

Kelly, Cavanagh, Hertel, Collins winners; Pointers mostly stick with GOP candidates

By John Minnis

Assistant Editor State Sen. John Kelly, who was re-elected to his fourth term Nov. 6, said he is looking forward to working with Gov.-elect John Engler.

Kelly, a Grosse Pointe Woods Democrat, had some positive comments and some concerns concerning the new Republican governor.

"He has pledged to me and publicly that he is opposed to City Airport expansion," Kelly said, "and I think we can rely on

Kelly said he favors Engler's goal to cut property taxes, but he cautions that he doesn't want Engler to do the same thing with property taxes that he did with school funding - that is, cut state funds going to school districts in prosperous areas.

Despite some last-minute doubts, Kelly outpaced his GOP challenger, Philip G. Tannian of Grosse Pointe Park, by a 14,659vote margin. Tannian, a former Detroit police chief who now has his own law practice, tallied 20,286 votes to Kelly's 35,045. Kelly failed to carry any of the Pointes, but the Detroit portion of his district pushed him ahead

Among the five Pointes, Kelly received 7,908 votes, and Tannian garnered 12,901.

For Wayne County Board of Commissioners, Democratic incumbent David P. Cavanagh of Grosse Pointe Woods won his third term by some 5,070 votes over GOP challenger David Pochmara, a Harper Woods councilman.

Cavanagh, however, was not the top vote-getter in four of the five Pointes. He squeaked hv with an eight-vote lead in Grosse Pointe Park. Among the five Pointes, Cavanagh got 7,831 votes, and Pochmara received 10.649.

The total vote for the county's 1st District was Cavanagh, 22,532; Pochmara, 17,462.

The 13th Congressional race saw Mayor Coleman A. Young's chosen candidate, Barbara-Rose Collins, overwhelmingly elected to fill the U.S. House seat vacated by retiring George Crock-

Collins' Republican challenger was Carl Edwards Sr., a K mart Corp. manager. Edwards campaigned up to election day but was unable to overcome the power, spending and Democratic advantage of Collins, a Detroit councilwoman.

Collins, however, failed to carry either Grosse Pointe Park or City, the two Pointes in the 13th District. Edwards got 5,256 votes in the Pointes, compared to

Collins' 1,213. See ELECTION, page 17A

Bryant looks forward to working with Engler

By Dan Jarvis Staff Writer

Winning by nearly a 3-1 margin over an unknown candidate, GOP Rep. William Bryant was re-elected to Michigan's 13th House District.

Bryant's re-election was not surprising since the majority of his constituents are Republicans.

His Democratic opponent, Shirley A. Pilette of Harper Woods, declined to talk to media people covering local elections. She received 7,276 votes, compared to Bryant's 19,347 votes.

In the Pointes, he won by more than a 4-1 margin, 15,471 votes compared to Pilette's 3,974 votes. In the Farms, his hometown, he won by more than a 7-1

More surprising to many in Bryant's district was the governor's race, with Republican John Engler edging out Democratic incumbent James Blanchard.

"I felt all along he (Engler) had a good chance," Bryant said, "I never gave up hope. It was encouraging to see the polls indicating his popularity was going up in the final weeks. In John Engler's case, he built up to a crescendo and peaked at just the right time.

'We in the Legislature are looking forward to working with the new Republican governor. It will be exciting. We hope he will keep an open relationship with the Legislature and will be open to all input."

Bryant said his supporters in Grosse Pointe re-elected him because he listens to their concerns and provides good representation in Lansing.

"I was born and raised in Grosse Pointe and they feel comfortable with me," he said. "They don't always agree with me on every issue, but they trust my judgment and my ability to study the issues in a serious

"They also know that I respect and listen to my constituents. There is a level of trust which is built up through years of service.

Bryant supported the countywide referendum providing funds for the expansion of Detroit Metropolitan Airport. The proposal passed nearly 2-1.

"I'm glad it passed and I would have supported it with or without the threat of expansion of Detroit City Airport," Bryant

He said one of the challenges for Michigan lawmakers is solving the state's debt problem. "The budget will have to be cut even with Engler's commitment to a 20 percent reduction in property taxes. It will be a difficult road but it will not be impossible," Bryant said.

"People are going to have to decide whether property taxes will go down or if we as Michigan residents can do without various social programs such as Medicaid-funded eyeglasses and perscriptions, which are only available in Michigan. Some of the programs will be hard to cut while others we can do without.

"The biggest issue before us will be school finance reform.

There is the potential for court decisions that would adversely affect the Pointes. The poorer districts could sue the wealthier ones for equity. We've got to find a way to make school funding more equitable before a negative court decision comes along.

Bryant will keep pushing for a program that will help boost the self esteem of today's students. He may recommend the establishment of a governor's task force operating through the schools to stress the need for such programs. "We need to provide today's kids with a healthy amount of self-esteem," he said.

Bryant added that the midterm election is the last for the current 13th House District. Reapportionment will soon take place and the district will be increased by about 10,000 people, Bryant said. "There is no way of knowing what sort of district will encompass the Grosse Pointes," he said.

"The Democrats may try to split up the Pointes into two or three districts and add those to the surrounding area, which could mean that the Democrats would control the districts and the Pointes. There is just no way right now to know what will happen.'

Chad Allen Crowley

Services for Chad. A. Crowley, 32, formerly of Grosse Pointe, were held Monday, Oct. 29, at St. Clare of Montefalco Catholic Church in Grosse Pointe Park.

Mr. Crowley died Thursday, Oct. 25, 1990, at Waukesha Memorial Hospital in Waukesha, Wis. He was born in Detroit.

Disabled in an automobile accident in 1980, Mr. Crowley devoted his life to the advocacy of the disabled.

According to Pat Wiseman, a social worker at the Zablocki V.A. Medical Center in Milwaukee, he became "a statesman for wheelchair persons. He assumed a leadership role in breaking down communications, attitudinal and legislative barriers. He was a perfect role model for life after spinal cord injury.

He was the national vice president for the Paralyzed Veterans of America, chairman of the Governor's Committee on People with Disabilities, a founding member of the National Spinal Cord Injury Nurse's Association, a member of the President's Committee for Employment of the Handicapped, and the past president of the Wisconsin Paralyzed Veterans of America.

Mr. Crowley was present this year at the signing of the American Disabilities Act by President George Bush.

"Chad had a deep love for his family. We will all miss him very much," said his sister, Ann Crowley.

Survivors include his wife, Betty (Biegemann); a son, Jack Krebbs; mother, Geraldine Crowley of Grosse Pointe; sisters, Mary Di Baso of Mount Clemens, Candace Crowley of Detroit, Ann Crowley of Royal Oak, Susan Crowley of Grosse Pointe and Rosanne Kelly of Harper Woods; brothers, Thomas, Timothy of Grosse Pointe, Dennis, David of Grosse Pointe, Brian, Dana and Jeffery; his grandmother, Margaret Stark; and several nieces and nephews.

Mr. Crowley was the son of the late Francis B. Crowley.

Interment was in Mount Olivet Cemetery, Detroit.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Spinal Cord Research Foundation, 801 18th Street. N.W., Washington, D.C.

Local arrangements were made by the Chas. Verheyden Funeral Home, Grosse Pointe Park.

A memorial service will be held at the Chapel at Wood National Cemetery in Wisconsin at a later date.

Frances Elizabeth Hughes Frances Elizabeth Hughes

Frances Elizabeth (Betty) Hughes, 74, of Grosse Pointe Farms, died Saturday, Nov. 3, 1990, at home. Mrs. Hughes was born in Detroit.

A graduate of the University of Michigan, Mrs. Hughes was a member of the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority, Ibex, E.C.W. Christ Church, Founders Society-Detroit Institute of Arts, the Rehabilitation Institute and the Grosse Pointe Garden Center.

Mrs. Hughes is survived by her daughter, Ann (Tina) Hughes Griffin; a son, Frederick G.; and three grandchildren.

She was predeceased by her brother, Edgar Mark Gregory Jr.

Memorial contributions may be made to Christ Church in Grosse Pointe Farms or to the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Arrangements were made by the Chas. Verheyden Funeral Home in Grosse Pointe Park.

Lang Borden

A memorial service for Lang Borden, 85, of Grosse Pointe Shores, was held Wednesday, Nov. 14, at the A.H. Peters Funeral Home in Grosse Pointe Woods with the Rev. John Corrado officiating.

Mr. Borden died Sunday, Nov. 11, 1990, at Bon Secours Hospital in Grosse Pointe City. He was born in Eden, N.Y.

He was the owner of L.E. Borden Manufacturing Co. in Roseville and a member of the Grosse Pointe Senior Men's Club, the Engineering Society of Detroit and the Metalmasters Associa-

Memories of parade sought

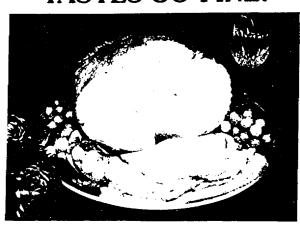

Think back to the first time you saw the Michigan Thanksgiving Parade. Remember that extra something that made the parade just a little bit special? Perhaps it was the year your oldest child recognized Santa Claus for the first time.

WDIV-TV, Channel 4 wants to know about your memories of the Thanksgiving Parade those heartwarming, even silly memories that always come to mind this time of year. Of special interest are those memories that date back to the parade's early years in the 1930s, '40s and '50s.

The station is looking for memories to re-tell during its live coverage of the "64th Annual Michigan Thanksgiving Parade" from 9 a.m. till noon on Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 22.

Viewers can submit their recollections by sending a brief letter to: Thanksgiving Memories, WDIV-TV, 550 West Lafayette, Detroit, Mich. 48231. The letter should contain the sender's name, a daytime telephone number plus a home telephone number. The viewer should also indicate whether he/she has slides, stills, video, or even 16mm home movies of the memory

He might have given a more positive answer except that physicians have reservations about the question. They are concerned that patients might abandon proven methods of treatment. such as chemotherapy, in favor of psychological intervention.

The point is well taken. Who would want to endure the side effects of medical treatment if they could cure cancer by willing it away?

There is also the danger that patients who believe they can will their cancer away may feel they have failed if their condition worsens.

Another view is presented by psychologist David Spiegel of Standord University. He says. "We expected to improve the quality of life without affecting its quantity. We intended to examine the overstated claims made by those who teach cancer patients that the right mental attitude will help conquer the disease.

To his surprise, and that of cancer researchers around the world, he found that patients with advanced breast cancer who received psychotherapy did live longer than those not in such therapy.

Dr. Spiegel is careful to point out that all patients in the study received standard cancer treatment and suggests that one possible reason the psychotherapy

Experts in the field agreed that this sort of promise should not be made.

It is important, too, that patients steer clear of groups that claim to actually increase survival time or improve their prognosis. Patients should also make sure that the group leader is experienced in working with cancer patients and familiar with such treatments as chemotherapy and radiation.

While research still isn't at the point where every doctor should recommend a support group as part of cancer treatment, recent findings make it safe to say:

"It can't hurt - and it may well help.

I hope those who are reading this column won't need this recent development in the treatment of cancer. However, "it can't hurt to know" all there is to know about possible treatments not only for our own protection but for anyone close to us who might also benefit from knowing.

Founded in 1984, the Grosse Pointe Park Foundation is a non-profit organization that accepts gifts and contributions for the purpose of undertaking projects for the benefit of all the residents in the Park

The foundation's first major project was the $250,000 renovation of the historic bathouse and recreation building at Windmill Pointe Park. The renovated building is now the Tompkins Community Center. The center is named after the late Tommy Tompkins, a former foundation officer who, along with his wife, Jean, donated more than $50,000 for the community cen-

Another big project for the foundation is the construction of a gatehouse at Windmill Pointe lections

Park. It will have architecture similar to the Tompkins Community Center and will be built in the spring.

Also in the works are new lamp posts with street signs for the new boulevards on Jefferson in the Park business district. The lamp posts will be similar to those along Lakeshore in Grosse Pointe Shores. The foundation would also like to build a boardwalk along the lakefront at Patterson Park.

Staff Writer A recommendation by the city managers of the five Pointes and Harper Woods which details the division of funding for an organized, united opposition to expansion at Detroit City Airport will be presented to the six city coun-

Michael Kenyon, Grosse Pointe Shores village manager. came up with a recommendation which divides the proposed $300,000 cost of continuing the fight. The recommendation came after a study by former Transportation Secretary James Burnley IV that revealed serious flaws in Detroit's proposed $501 million expansion of the airport.

The report was commissioned by the Grosse Pointes-Harper Woods Airport Study Committee. The $25,000 cost was borne by the cities.

In the study, Burnley recommended that his firm, along with a local firm, be retained to prepare a rebuttal to Detroit's expansion plans, showing the flaws. He also suggests hiring environmental and aeronautics experts to study the facts and how they were filed and interNealy, a Detroit school teacher who lives in Madison Heights, received 7,423 Pointes votes, compared with Hertel's 5,620.

GOP challenger, Kenneth Mc-

The funding proposal calls for a division of the cost by a formula that takes into account population and state equalized valuation (SEV), a compromise that divides the cost more fairly.

If the cost were divided by population, Grosse Pointe Woods would pay a substantially larger amount than any of the other cities. If divided by SEV, the Woods would still pay the largest share, but the Farms' share would be only slightly less.

Under the compromise, the Shores pays the least at $21,974, followed by the City which would pay $30,116. The Park's portion would be $53,954, Harper Woods would pay $55,441, the Farms would pay $58,393 and Grosse Pointe Woods would chip in the remaining $80,119.

The funding may change depending on how much money the cities of Warren and Center Line will donate to the fight. Kenyon said they have made a commitment, but have not decided on an amount. Macomb County has also expressed interest in donating.

The mayors agreed in principle to the compromise.

Also on the ballot, Republican Engler easily carried the Pointes with 13,651 votes to incumbent James Blanchard's 7.350 = a - 6.301 margin.

Likewise, the Pointes overall went for GOP secretary of state candidate Judy Miller over incumbent Richard H. Austin though the Park favored Austin by 387 votes.

The Park also voted in favor of Democratic U.S. Sen. Carl Levin. while the rest of the Pointes went with Republican Bill Clark Durant of Grosse Pointe made a good showing in his bid for Michigan State Supreme Court. Statewide, he was the third highest vote-getter, however, there were only two seats up for election. The two incumbents, Patricia J. Boyle and Michael J. Cavanagh, won overall.

Durant was the second highest the six candidates for the state's high court.

The $100 million bond referendum for Metroplitan Airport easily passed in the Pointes, as well as statewide. In the Pointes, 12,854 votes were cast in favor of the bond referendum, while 4,465 were opposed.

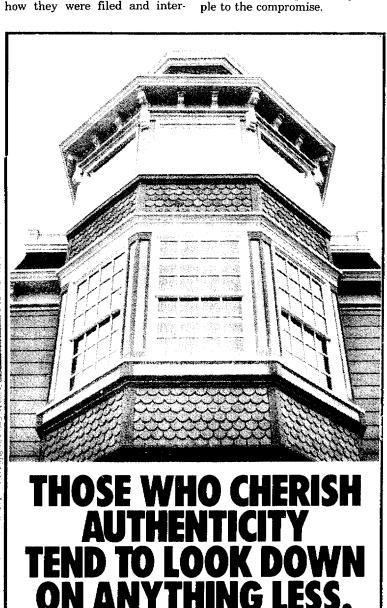

Voter turnout was high, ranging from 45 percent in the Park to 61 percent in Grosse Pointe Shores

Tiny Lake Township, which USA Today reported as the wealthiest community (per capita) in the United States, had the highest voter turnout among the Pointes with 63 percent.

Forty-three of the township's 68 registered voters made it to the polls. And Republicans got more votes than their Democratic challengers across the ballot. Not one Democrat earned more votes than a Republican on the Lake Township ballot.

No, these weren't foreign students. Rather they were four conure parrots who specialize in teaching kids about life for the birds.

Students learned about such things as why birds have hollow bones, why their feet and bills are shaped the way they are, and that 20 percent of all parrots are at risk of extinction, primarily due to loss of habitat.

The students were allowed to put fruits, vegetables, popcorn, raisins and nuts on their desks as friendship offerings for the parrots. Soon, the kids and parrots were the best of fine-feathered friends.

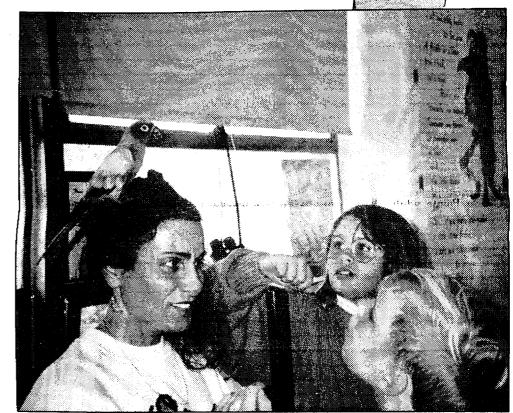

Apkarian stressed that caring for birds is not an easy task. It takes time and patience and birds are a lifelong commitment.

Every year, Apkarian invites the four parrots in for a day, which is one of the most anticipated classes of the school year.

If approved, there will be other changes, too:

• The board offices will move to the current Central Library building at Fisher and Kercheval which will need to be renovated.

• The present administrative offices at 389 St. Clair will be sold and the money used to renovate Central Library.

There will be no change, however, in the two branch libraries. With 10,000 square feet between them, they will remain full service branches.

The $7.6 million bond issue to fund the proposed facility will mean that a property with a home that has a state equalized valuation of $100,000 will pay an additional $40 per year in taxes. The bond will expire in 2011. Currently, the board has only a few bonds outstanding, including one about to expire for the building of Grosse Pointe North High School.

If approved by the voters, the board will have to increase library millage for increased operating expenses once the library is completed. The anticipated increase is 4 mills, which amounts to $3.33 a month for a home with a SEV of $100,000.

To date, the board has $191,425 in building up to the Feb. 4 date, Shine said. If the issue is approved, the money can be recouped. If not, the money will have gone for nothing.

The board spent more than $83,000 on the 1987 proposal which was defeated.

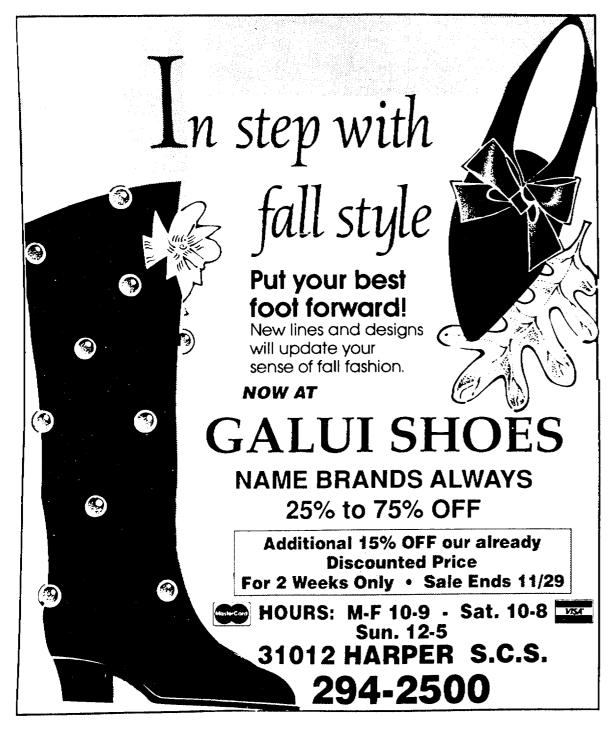

An extensive public information campaign will be launched in the 12 weeks before Feb. 4. Shine has meetings with all the undermine the campaign.

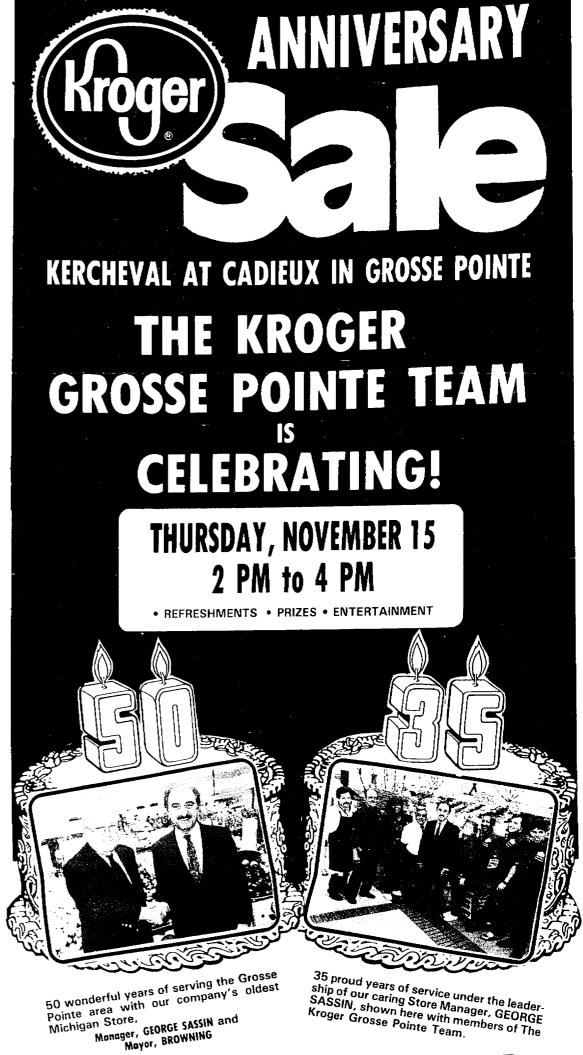

city councils and has asked to meet with each school's PTO or parent group and with local and civic and community organizations.

A series of pamphlets is being produced to dispel doubts, Shine said. He believes if the board is open about all its dealings, there won't be any room for rumors to

On behalf of the Haberkorns, however, Gilbride quoted the "American Law of Zoning," which states that if an applicant can show financial harm would result from denial of an area variance, then the variance must be granted. The only exception would be if granting the variance would be detrimental to the public welfare.

Haberkorn said his request is not harmful to public welfare because he isn't changing the use Gilbride further cited "American Law of Zoning": "The clearest case of hardship due to the literal application of zoning regulations is that of the substandard lot which cannot be used for any purpose without relief from the restrictions.

The passage from the book on "sterilization of the land," then there is "taking without due process of law." In such cases, the zoning board may not only "grant an area variance to recity allowed the Haberkorns to lieve the applicant, but is "re-build a 4,650-square-foot, 1 1/2quired to do so."

Many residents on Neff opposed the house because they believed it was too large and they preferred the lot be vacant if the cottage were torn down. Some residents offered to buy the lot, but Haberkorn refused the offer because it was less than he had paid for it.

Brothers recycle wood and save thousands of trees

By Dan Jarvis Staff Writer

The Toth Brothers of Hamburg, Mich., were in a quandary. On one hand, the world's valuable supply of trees is being cut down by the millions.

On the other, thousands of old dilapidated barns in Michigan are being destroyed and burned, adding to the problem of acid rain and the depletion of the ozone laver.

Then it hit them - almost at the same time.

Kroger celebrates 50 years

The Kroger food store on Kercheval in the Village will celebrate its 50th anniversary Thursday, Nov. 15, with special events including product samplings and live musical entertainment.

"The Grosse Pointe store is the oldest existing Kroger store in Michigan and one of the most successful," said Joel Greenisen, Greenisen said the Grosse Pointe Kroger store — which at 18,000 square feet has tripled in size since opening in 1940 - is among the top-ranked Kroger stores in Michigan in terms of sales volume per square foot of store space. Store manager George Sassin, who has worked for the Kroger Co. since 1948 and has managed the Grosse Pointe store since 1956, says his customers appreciate the "oldfashioned mystique" of his store.

"We still run our operation much like it was run 50 years ago, with the flavor of a neighborhood grocery store offering friendly, helpful service and inventory that meets the specific needs of our customers," Sassin said. "As a result, we know many of our customers on a firstname basis and our staff has developed a fondness for this com-

"Each tree and each barn tells a story," Ted said "Some better than others. Some of the stories are of tall trees which grew at the time of Christopher Columbus. Others are simply tall tales. But the Toths are dead serious about protecting the forests of today

"Why should we be chopping down our valuable rain forests when there is an ample supply of aged lumber right here in our back yards?" Ted asked.

"And the lumber we have is from Michigan's first growth of virgin forests and it's better than anything you can go out and buy," Stephen said.

"After lumber ages about 100 years, it becomes stable." Ted said. It has to do with the crystalizing of the sap, he added.

The oldest barn the Toths have come across was built in 1831 on the Haab family homestead near Ann Arbor. It was constructed of cedar and white pine and put together like an upside down boat.

"Our favorite barns are built by the Dutch and the Germans,' Stephen said. "In the early days of barn building, the workers were former shipbuilders who came over from Holland. They simply applied their craft upside down.

Some of the older barns contained huge beams 60 feet long and 18 inches thick. "That had to come from one hell of a tree,' Ted said, explaining that such beams were not cut from the center of a tree, but off to the side to keep the beam from warping.

One barn belonged to a tool maker of yesteryear. When a descendant of the man called the Toth brothers to tear down the barn, the family learned more about the man than they expected.

"We found out what types of projects he was working on. He formed a horse yoke that was never used and was hung up on the wall," Stephen said.

"His last project was a wooden mallet, which was still in the vice," his brother said. "We find all kinds of neat stuff that helps us date a barn and tell who built it and for what purpose."

One rare find for the Toth brothers was discovered while razing a barn in Dexter. It was a beam of red walnut, which became extinct around 1850, they

They frequently run across old square nails and hand cut wooden pegs, which have long since been replaced by round nails made from wire.

One beam yielded an 18th century 50 caliber musket ball, probably fired into a tree about the time of the Revolutionary War, they said.

Barns first appeared in Europe during the early 1600s, according to printed information on the history of barns. At first, they were covered pits in the ground used to store barley.

The word barn is derived from an Old English combination of "bere" (barley) and "arern" (place). In New England, barns were built up to five stories tall. Early barns of the Great Lakes region had bases of limestone, since it was plentiful and had to be removed from a field before cultivation.

"There is a lot of history each barn can preserve for several generations to come," Stephen said. "Why would anyone want to burn this stuff - it's like gold and plan to keep supplying recycled lumber for floors, furniture, wall panels and ceiling joists.

"There's nothing we can't do with old lumber," Stephen said. "The only thing we can't do is keep the lumber industry from plowing down forests, millions of trees at a time.'

Fundraiser will blend historic sites and 'Sounds of Christmas'

By Margie Reins Smith Feature Editor

The third annual "Sounds of Christmas," a benefit for the Grosse Pointe Historical Society, will take place at two local historic churches on Sunday, Dec. 9.

This year, the fundraiser was designed especially for family participation, said Cynthia Ruffner, one of the organizers of the benefit. The family-style musical entertainment will take place at two churches which are marking significant anniversaries in 1990. Christ Church Grosse Pointe is celebrating its 60th year; and Grosse Pointe Memorial Church is celebrating its 125th year.

The afternoon of holiday music begins at 3 p.m. at Christ Church, 61 Grosse Pointe Blvd., and will feature a program of Christmas carols by the Men's and Girls' Choir, under the direction of Frederic DeHaven.

At 4 p.m., the program continues at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, 16 Lakeshore, with a Christmas sing-along with a group called Musickes Pleasure and the church's new 48-stop pipe organ, under the direction of William De Turk.

An afterglow for benefactors, patrons and friends will take place from 5 to 7 p.m. at the historic Grosse Pointe Academy and will include a light meal and more entertainment by Musickes Pleasure.

According to Ruffner, the costs of "Sounds of Christmas" have been underwritten so that the proceeds (except for a donation to each church) will be used entirely for the restoration of the Provencal-Weir House, which will be the future headquarters of the Grosse Pointe Historical Society.

The Historical Society was founded 45 years ago and was reorganized in 1980. According to Ruffner, the group has provided leadership in recognizing the historical significance of the Grosse Pointes, in enhancing public awareness for recording and preserving Grosse Pointe history and in promoting educational programs about the unique history of the area.

The society's collection is temporarily housed at Poupard Elementary School. The Provencal-Weir House, built about 1819, will eventually serve as a museum and library for the society's collection of photographs, books, manuscripts, maps and memorabilia about Grosse Pointe.

The house was built by Pierre Provencal on the corner of what is now Provencal Road and Lakeshore. Provencal and his wife, Euphemia, had one daughter, Catherine, who married James Weir in 1867. The Weirs used the home as a summer residence until its sale in 1899, when it was moved to its present site at 376 Kercheval.

The Historical Society purchased the home in January 1988 and began restoration the following summer. Last year, the "Sounds of Christmas" fundraiser netted $30,200 for the society.

"We're evaluating bids now for the continuing structural renovation of the house," Ruffner said. "I call it the bones. It's the structural parts to insure the house is safe and sound and can be used for years to come."

General admission for "Sounds of Christmas" is $15 a person; $35 a family; $100 for a friend; $250 for a patron; and $500 for a benefactor.

Tickets are available at Grosse

Pointe Florists Inc., 174 Kerby Road; The League Shop Inc., 72 Kercheval; and Village Records and Tapes, 17116 Kercheval.

Hosts and hostesses for the afternoon are Mr. and Mrs. Paul D. Alandt, Gandelot and Dickson P.C. and an anonymous underwriter.

General chairmen for the event are Mrs. Michael J. Brennan, Mr. Clayton Evans, Mrs. Jon B. Gandelot, Mrs. Patrick J. Griffin, Mrs. Robert M. Malecek, Mrs. Peter E. Ruffner and Mrs. Stephen R. Vartanian.

For further information or for tickets, call 884-7010.

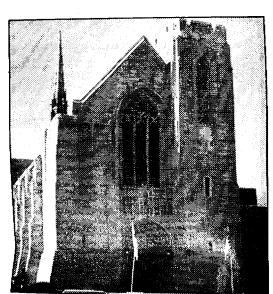

The Provencal-Weir House, above, will benefit from the "Sounds of Christmas," the Grosse Pointe Historical Society's annual holiday fundraiser, which will be Sunday, Dec. 9, at two local churches and the historic Grosse Pointe Acaderay

The house, a typical French farmhouse of the early 19th century, was probably built about 170 years ago. It will serve as the society's headquarters.

Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, left, is celebrating its 125th year. Christ Church Grosse Pointe, right, is celebrating its 60th year.

Daughters need support in daughter-mother caregiver reversal

By Marlys Dee Craig Special Writer

Charlotte is a widow who has lived with her mother in Grosse Pointe for 27 years. Her mother managed the house and assisted in the raising of her two children so that she could continue working. Ten years ago Charlotte left her job to care for her mother after she had a heart attack and several mini-strokes. Now her mother has dementia, which means that she cannot coordinate her thinking as she used to, and she cannot consistently recognize loved ones. Charlotte wants to keep her mother at home as long as possible in order to give her loving care.

Not all caregiving situations grow out of a closeness from years of working together to accomplish the tasks of living. Some daughters assume the caregiving role as a response to the mother's health when she requires care.

Such is the case of Marian, who lives in California with her grandchildren. Her mother is newly widowed and is trying to manage in the old family home not good. A significant number of her husband, her Parkinson's able for caregiving because of condition seems to be growing the shrinking family size. If half worse. Marian is beginning to of the women caregivers are realize how much help her working now, there will be a mother needs. She must quickly likely increase in the future, replan for her mother's care in her ducing their capacity to render relationship manageable, de-Grosse Pointe home.

At Christmas time she wants to take her mother home with her to California, where she will be able to provide more appropriate personal and medical care.

Census reports show there are up to seven million households caring for impaired older adults. Ninety five percent of those over 65 live at home. Ninety percent of the impaired older adults manage to live at home because family members provide most of their care.

Almost 30 percent of all caregivers are daughters. Many of these daughters end up taking care of their mothers because they live longer than fathers.

Today, 1.8 million women are caring for children and parents at the same time. More than half are in the paid labor force and one in five has a parent living in the home, reports the Older Women's League, in Washington, D.C. (National figures describe daughter/parent husband, near her children and care without differentiation between mothers and fathers.) Projections into the future are in Grosse Pointe. Since the death of daughters will not be availcare. At the same time, the demand for caregivers will increase as the baby boomers grow old and life expectancy increases.

Keeping in mind the large picture, we need to look more carefully at some of the conditions that may occur when daughters are caregivers. To begin with, daughters may experience more conflicting responsibilities. Many have responsibilities with husbands, children and employers, munity and state and federal in addition to caring for their

For yet unclear reasons, daughters may feel burdened care, community education, even when adverse conditions are absent (such as disease, men- mental health and family countal confusion, or behavior problems of the mother).

A guess is that the burden of care is aggravated by something in the mother-daughter relationship. It may be because affection, similar values or communication are weak.

For instance, a recent study found that 74 percent of the daughters and 69 percent of the parents receiving their care, reported poor or fair communication when trying to solve problems together.

pends upon a number of things happening in the caregiving situation. The list varies from situation to situation but may include items such as the size of the family helping with the care, the closeness of the family, what the daughter expects of herself as a caregiver, and the community services used. The last item has received the most attention from the comgovernments. Specific services which are familiar include hospital health care and home health housing and transportation. seling.

The daughter's knowledge of in-home services is an important key for their use. Marian has an urgent need for in-home services for her mother. She knows that the services most often talked about and used are through nurses and aides and social and with daughters as caregivers recreational facilities. Yet, access to these services may present stumbling blocks. Finding a reliable aide who will care for a physically impaired and confused, aged mother in Marian's absence is not an easy task. One The extent to which daughters study showed that 24 percent of are able to maintain their level the daughters needed nursing of employment, hold the burden care for parents and were not at a tolerable level or keep the getting it for various reasons.

This is cause for community concern.

Caregivers in the Grosse Pointe community may obtain information and some support services for in-home care through Services for Older Citizens (SOC), Ferry Elementary School, 748 Roslyn, Grosse Pointe Woods, 882-9600.

Sometime ago I was kibitzing one of Michigan's strongest partnerships. Howard Weiner and Bob Crafton had reached this excellent four spade West attacked with the ace, king of hearts and at trick three continued with the five spot trusting her partner would ruff high after echoing. This east did with his trump nine (the usually mortal upper cut) forcing declarer to overruff with his spade king much to the obvious and striking delight of west.

This demonstration didn't go unnoticed by declarer who had now concluded that such joy could only mean that west held the spade jack guarded. Bob realized that appropriate measures were now imperative otherwise he was headed for Gehenna losing two hearts, a diamond and the trump jack. If West's incautious behavior was pure then a finesse of that holding could be executed if she only held three trumps. So at trick four declarer played the ace of spades and was pleased to see both opponents follow. Now a small spade to dummys ten and the defense surrendered when the trump jack fell under dummy's queen.

When the score was unfolded only three of the twelve north/souths had a plus score as many were in three no trump off the first six tricks or four spades

As West left, she said, "You certainly were lucky to pick up my trump jack"... and Bob acknowledged that he was. Let a smile by your umbrella but never at the bridge table.

we could all feel good about," said John K. Conn of Grosse Pointe Woods.

Conn, Michael Grates of Grosse Pointe Woods, and Alex Miller III of East Detroit, formerly of Grosse Pointe, have planned a fundraiser for Children's Hospital of Michigan.

"Hospitals are such scary places," Conn said. "We had a tour of Children's Hospital and we saw how their approach really makes a difference for younger kids.

The three graduates of Grosse Pointe North High School's class of 1982 have put together a fundraiser for Children's which will take place on Saturday, Nov. 24, from 7 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the Roostertail

They're calling it "The Perfect Week - A Holiday Benefit for Children's Hospital of Michigan" and the featured entertainment will be the Chisel Brothers — a group voted Detroit's best R & B band by readers of The Metro Times. Also featured will be volcalist Thornetta Davis and D.J. Rick Crank.

The event costs $10 in advance. Tickets will be $15 at the door

Besides the top-notch entertainment, there will be complimentary gourmet pizza made to order, healthy veggies, imported cheeses and a cash bar. Guests must be 21

"There are many fundraisers." Conn said. "However, many are prohibitively expensive. We wanted an event that would be both fun and inexpensive.'

"The Perfect Week" will also feature drawings for seven different prize packages for a week's worth of such goodies as sleeps, eats, shopping experiences, events, pamperings and automotive doodads

Tickets are available by calling 884-8678 or The Roostertail at 822-1234 (from 11 a.m. to 4

Anniversary party:

Henry Ford Health System celebrated its 75th anniversary recently at a black-tie party at the Dearborn Inn. Nearly 300 people attended

The biggest news of the evening was an announcement of the creation of the Health Sciences Center and $15 million in endowed chairs.

The Health Sciences Center is an umbrella concept which will integrate teaching and research throughout the Henry Ford Health System. Each of the 15 charter chairs, funded by community leaders and supporters of the Henry Ford Health System, represents a $1 million commitment to research and education.

The Health Sciences Center will have three major components: a 150,000-square foot conference center, a school for health sciences and a research institute.

Some Grosse Pointers who attended the 75th anniversary celebration: William Clay Ford Jr. and Martha Ford, both members of the HFHS board of trustees, Benson Ford Jr., Hugo and Slim Higbie, Gail and Lois Warden (he's president and CEO of HFHS), Dave and Mary Benfer (he's senior vice president of hospital affairs for HFHS), William and Mel Cunningham (she's a member of Cottage Hospital's board of trustees), Clarence and Louise Livingood (he was honored with the Clarence Livingood chair in dermatology), Frank and Stephanie Germack, Lisa Ford Kontulis and Dr. Charles P. Shine on: Neal Shine, publisher of the Detroit Free Press, will be the master of ceremonies at the opening night preview party for the 1990 Festival of Trees on Friday, Nov. 16, at 7 p.m. in the Riverfront Ballroom of Detroit's Cobo Hall. A patron reception begins at 6 p.m.

The evening will include an auction of more than 100 professionally-decorated Christmas trees. Proceeds will go to Children's Hospital of Michigan.

Also included in the evening: an auction of works from the gingerbread village, designed by chefs from some of the area's finest eateries; creatively decorated wreaths; entertainment by Mel Ball Productions, the Rochester Catholic Corale and the St. Dunstan Ringers, Christ Church Cranbook; introduction of the fundraiser's major underwriters; awards in 16 different categories; and lots of food and drink.

For information about the preview party, call 745-0178.

The Festival of Trees itself, which is open daily (except Thanksgiving Day) from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., from Saturday, Nov. 17 through Sunday, Nov. 25, still needs volunteers.

Call 886-5357 if you'd like to greet visitors, distribute programs, help set up entertainment, assist with activities at Santaland, supervise displays or help out in the gift shop.

The Pastor's Corner Sharpening the saw

By Rev. Gregory P. Sammons Christ Church Grosse Pointe

Once, a man was hiking through the forest. He came across a lumberjack, cutting down a tree. The lumberjack was covered with sweat and was in a state of exhaustion.

The hiker said, "You look tired. How long have you been working on that tree?"

"Four hours," came the response.

"Why don't you stop and sharpen your saw?" said the hiker.

"Can't you see I'm too busy cutting down this tree?" replied the indignant lumberjack

Most of us are hampered in our lives because we are like that lumberjack. The daily tasks of living clamor for attention so that it's difficult to focus on anything else. And so we lurch from this job to that deadline, scrambling just to stay abreast. We are too busy cutting the tree to sharpen

Effective people know how essential it is to take time to "sharpen the saw." This may mean a variety of things. But at a minimum, it means to spend a few minutes consciously each day with the Center of all things. It means to rejoice in God's love and to place one's weakness and need next to God's boundless energy and hope. It means placing our tasks and cares in the perspective of God's eternity.

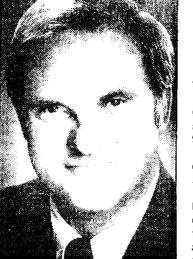

I say this because I know it is important, not because I am terribly good at it. I can tell in my own life when "sharpening the saw" has ceased being a priority — and it isn't pretty. If a person is not opened up to God's grace on a daily basis, sooner or later it becomes plain.

Boxing fans were given a parallel to this truth last week. Buster Douglas was the hands-down favorite to retain the heavyweight title against a younger, smaller boxer, Evander Holyfield. At the pre-fight weigh-in, Douglas was 20 pounds heavier than he thought he was going to be. In the fight the next day, he scarcely landed a punch, and went down meekly in the third round. Clearly, he'd wasted the opportunity to train, and had given preparation for this fight a low priority.

Time given to daily prayer is not time wasted - it is time invested wisely. God will use those moments for our good, making us more effective, hopeful and joyful for the tasks which meet us. This wonderful old prayer is one that expresses all the good that can come to us if only we take time to "sharpen the saw."

> O God of Peace, you have taught us that in returning and rest we shall be saved, in quietness and confidence shall be our strength: By the might of your Spirit lift us, we pray, to your presence, where we may be still and know that you are God. Amen.

Seniors' organizations:

Send us your Wish Lists

The holiday season is revving up. Christmas, just five weeks away, will be a festive display of abundance for many of our readers - an overkill of gifts, food, decorations, activities and family togetherness.

Some non-profit agencies which serve senior citizens need help preparing for the holidays. Some benefactors are looking for seniors' organizations which need assis-

We'd like to introduce you to each other.

We're going to publish a Wish List of items and gifts needed by non-profit senior citizens' organizations and agencies in the metropolitan Detroit area.

Send us a one- or two-sentence description of your agency. Give us an overview of the kinds (and numbers) of people you serve. Give us your Wish List - specific items you'd like to see under your Christmas tree. Include a phone number and contact person for benefactors to call for more information. Also include a phone number and contact person for our editors to call if we need to clarify or check facts.

If you wish, you may write a brief anecdote about a specific person who would benefit from a certain gift. Be sure all the information is in our hands by Thursday, Dec. 6.

"Freedom is more than a political status. It also means being free of restriction and limitation in the form of ill health, limited supply, and opportunity, stress, the pressure of time, and unhappiness. This is the topic of a Christian Science lecture entitled, Divine Truth Frees You From Limitation. The lecture addresses the problem of limitation and how freedom can be gained through an understanding and demonstration of Jesus' admonition: 'Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free' (John 8:32)."

Neal Shine will speak to LWV

Detroit Free Press Publisher Neal Shine will be the featured speaker at the League of Women Voters' annual holiday dinner at the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club at 7 p.m. on Thursday, Nov. 29. The program, "In and Around Detroit with Neal Shine," will start at 8 p.m.

Shine draws his stories of Detroit from a lifetime of experiences in the metropolitan area, ranging from early memories of the World War II homefront to the present.

A native of Detroit's east side, Shine worked up to his present position from the job of a Free Press copy boy in the '50s, when he was attending the University of Detroit. He retired as senior managing editor recently to head journalism studies at Oakland University, but within months was called back to become Free Press publisher.

League members Miriam Schaffsma and Evelyn Montgomery, who are in charge of arrangements, urge members to bring guests to the holiday party. Reservations, which are necessary, should be made by Nov. 23 by calling 881-6343.

The program also will include a brief update by Richard Grady on the league's current study of the Grosse Pointe school system. John Schonenberg will announce plans for the LWV health care program.

The League of Women Voters is a non-partisan organization that promotes education about public issues and candidates and encourages citizen participation in governmental processes. Membership is open to all men and women of voting age. For more information about the dinner or the league, call 885-8077.

Program reassures cancer patients

A diagnosis of cancer challenges the patient and family to cope with more than the physical disease. It may bring shock, fear, anger, anxiety or withdrawal. So it's not unusual for cancer patients to feel lonely and Often patients' lifeline to sanity is simply talking about their disease with someone who can empathize and offer support.

Michigan Cancer Foundation has developed a telephone reassurance program that offers such support. Staffed by trained volunteers, the program puts the cancer patient or family member in touch with a caring listener who makes regular calls, offer ing encouragement and support. Many of the volunteers are current or former cancer patients.

Volunteers also help by informing cancer patients and Support group

A group providing support to adult cancer patients, their families and significant others is under way at St. John Hospital and Medical Center.

The philosophy of the group is that many people can better cope with cancer if they can share their experiences and concerns. Health professionals assist the group in obtaining specific information.

The group meets on the hospital's fourth floor on the third Thursday of each month from 6:30 to'8 p.m. The next session will be Nov. 15.

St. John Hospital and Medical Center is located at 22101 Moross at Mack, one mile east of I- their families of resources that are available to them through MCF or other agencies. As with most of Michigan Cancer Foundation's services, the assistance is free.

The program is not a crisis or emergency line, and the volunteers do not discuss the patient's treatment or attempt to answer medical questions. They never meet unless the patient wishes. This allows for a more open discussion, and the volunteer caller becomes a companion.

MCF's Telephone Reassurance Program is available to anyone in eastern Wayne and Macomb counties out of the foundation's east regional office, 15111 13 Mile Road in Warren. Call 294-4432, Monday through Friday, between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.

The office also provides volunteer transportation to take ambulatory cancer patients to their treatments; sterile and nonsterile supplies and dressings; and an equipment loan closet - all free of charge. For more information on these services, call 294-

"Show Boat."

Two words that changed the course of American musical thea-

Two words that recall music that has become a part of our national fabric.

And two words that flood Donald M.D. Thurber's mind with fond childhood memories, and memories of Norma Terris, the woman who created the role of

Norma Terris

Magnolia for Oscar Hammerstein, Jerome Kern and producer Flo Ziegfeld.

Thurber met Terris later in her life and carried on a 15-year correspondence with the legendary actress. She shared memories of the early days of Broadway, of Kern, of Ziegfeld and of "Show Boat."

Thurber, in turn, recently shared those insights with Jan Juline Leeds, the lyric coluratura soprano who will recreate Terris' role, the same role Irene Dunne played in 1936 and Kathryn Grayson played in 1951 film versions of the play.

Michigan Opera Theatre's version opens tomorrow at the Fisher Theatre.

'Show Boat" is Leeds' first foray into musical theater. Primarily an opera singer who has toured extensively in Europe, Leeds says she has a special affinity for the role and that cast members have told her she's especially believable in the part.

"I'm not quite sure why, but I don't have to think about acting the role," Leeds said. "When I'm on stage, I am Magnolia."

Not long after that comment, Thurber played an audio tape of Terris, who told how she got the plum role in 1927 that all serious musical actresses wanted.

She said Ziegfeld asked her why she thought she deserved the role of the rebellious young girl who becomes a strong, independent woman.

"I told him 'I am Magnolia," and he gave me the role," Terris said on the tape.

She also remembered that she told Kern she was uncomfortable with a song she was supposed to sing to express the depth of her devotion to Ravenal, the gambler. She said the song she was given to sing was too silly. Kern and Hammerstein stayed up all night writing "Why Do I Love You?" The new song suited her and the show just fine.

Thurber made the tape to play at a benefit he chaired which used "Show Boat" as a theme. When Terris was unable to appear, she made the tape which was played over the speakers. It was followed by a tape of her singing "Make Believe," the love song from the show.

'There wasn't a dry eye in the house," Thurber remembered. Thurber always had Norma Donald Thurber and J.J. Leeds, who plays Magnolia in MOT's production of "Show Boat," recently discussed the original Magnolia, Norma Terris.

Terris on his mind after he saw her perform when he was a youth. He watched her as Magnolia, he saw her in "Bittersweet" and in several other opera and operetta productions at Navin Field, now called Tiger Stadium. One day, about 15 years ago,

Thurber, who owned his own public relations firm called Public Relations Counselors, was in New York on business. While looking up a telephone number he came across the name Norma Terris-Wagner and wondered if it could possibly be the same Norma Terris whom he had seen on stage so many times. He remembered that she was married to a Dr. Jerome Wagner, personal physician to people like Irving Berlin and Jerome Kern. He copied the address and when he returned to his Grosse Pointe City home he wrote to her.

"I thanked her for her artistry and for all the pleasure she had given me for so many years,' Thurber recalls. "And my goodness she answered. It was a lovely note and she said it was the first fan letter she had received in years.'

A few years and many letters later, Thurber mentioned Terris to a man he worked with when promoting Metropolitan Opera touring shows in Detroit. The man was a good friend of Terris and it was through him that Thurber and his wife Peggy were invited by Terris to the Ziegfeld Ball, a fundraiser for aging Follies stars who were down on their luck.

It was the first time Thurber and Terris met face to face. The friendship grew and they shared vacations on Terris' Connecticut farm.

"She was always lively and charming, and her letters were never very long, but full of information about theater and her concerns about animal welfare and the problems she had on her farm," Thurber said.

This April, Thurber attended a memorial service for Terris, who died last year at the age of 89. He smiles when he remembers how in her later years, when well into her 80s, she fell in love again and was married.

"She was just like a schoolgirl in love," he said.

Thurber played a videotape for Leeds of an interview with Terris which was shown at her memorial service. He played a tape of Terris singing, and shared with Leeds stories about "Show Boat."

Thurber considers himself an expert on the show, having seen it perhaps hundreds of times.

"I see it every chance I get,"

It reminds him of his childhood, of his grandmother, his mother and the rest of his family who were moved by the show and nearly wore out records of its music on the family victrola. People have said that if there had never been a "Show Boat" there would never have been an "Oklahoma" or a "South Pacific." It was the first time in the history of the theater that music and dialogue were integrated into one cohesive piece. Prior to that the musical theater consisted of reviews and shows where plot and dialogue were considered set pieces to the mu-

On that November day, Terris remembered on the tape that Ziegfeld felt he had a bomb on his hands. The out-of-town tryouts were arduous - lasting 4 1/2 hours — but things were pared down and fell into place.

"I felt like a thoroughbred racehorse feels before the bell. I was totally sure of myself," Terris said on the tape. "When it ended, there was no applause, there was no curtain call, the audience was silent. They walked out in a daze. They had just witnessed the birth of a new form. The notices were mixed thank heavens mine were good - but the next day there was a line around the block to buy

Leeds has a lot to live up to in Thurber's eyes, but after meeting her he said he knows she will be just fine.

'Detroit Aglow' ushers in holiday season

By Gary L. Jurkiewicz Special Writer

Many people have been to The Fox Theatre for a play or concert and many have attended a performance of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. But how many can say they sang with the DSO at the Fox?

They can do so at the sixth annual Detroit Aglow Symphony Sing-Along. The annual tradition of turning on thousands of holiday lights in celebration of Thanksgiving, Hanukkah, the Swedish Festival of Lights, Christmas, and the New Year will be observed at the Fox Theatre on Monday, Nov. 19 at 8 p.m. Music will be provided by the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

"Detroit Aglow is a time when all Metro-Detroiters can come together and become 'one' during this wonderful time of year," says Detroit singer Kim Weston who will sing with Detroit producer Lewis Dahle von Schlanbusch and a variety of other entertainers during the show.

"For those people coming down who don't sing - they can just sit back, listen, and enjoy the show," Schlanbusch says. "Many local businesses will be sponsoring a choir which will be sitting with the rest of the audience and participating in the singing.'

Schlanbusch, who has appeared in the show as a vocalist for the past five years, is also the producer for the second consecutive year.

The Central Business District Association (CBDA) has sponsored this traditional event since its inception forty years ago. This year's evening festivities will include the lighting ceremony at Hart Plaza with a simultaneous lighting ceremony at the Bagley Memorial Fountain located on the Kern Block.

"This fountain is being permanently lighted in honor of John Lambrecht, a former chairman of the board of CBDA who passed away in December, 1989," says Martin. The Sing-Along will be later in the evening, after the lighting ceremo-

Richard Hayman, one of Americas favorite pops conductors, will be making his sixth appearance with the DSO in the sing-along. "I enjoy doing the Detroit Aglow — it helps me get in that holiday mood," says Hayman. Last year was the Sing-Along's first appearance at the Fox since the theater's restora-

This year's Sing-Along will have an international flavor, Schlanbusch said.

One part of the show will have children of various nationalities from the Burton International School of Detroit performing pantomine vignettes to some Christmas carols.

To maintain the international holiday spirit, Russian pianist Vladmir Karminskiava will make his first appearance in the Detroit Aglow. He will perform a fantasy of jazz saxophonist Charlie Parker, and also a Russian holiday song with the children. Karminskiava, originally from Moscow, now lives in Oak Park.

Katherine Terrell, a soprano from Chicago, will also perform. She has performed locally in pop concerts with conductor Eric Kunzel.

Of course the event wouldn't be complete if there wasn't a visit from Santa Claus. Arrangements have been made to bring the jolly old elf to Detroit. There will also be a special "out of this world" guest. Tickets are priced at $15 for main floor and mezzanine; $12 for galleries A, B and C; children's tickets (12 years and under) are $7.50 and $6. Tickets are on sale at the Fox Theatre box office, any TicketMaster location, or by telephone in advance. Charge tickets by phone at (313) 645-6666. Special discount rates for choirs are available. For 20 people or more the rate is $11 each.

DSO report:

Oboist plays like an angel and Jarvi wants to record

By Alex Suzcek Special Writer

It is rare enough to hear the oboe as a solo instrument but to hear it played with brilliant technique and lyrical beauty by Swiss virtuoso Heinz Holliger at last week's symphony concerts was an exceptional experience. It lent force to Maestro Neeme Jarvi's personal hand-written plea to the audience (inserted in the program) for financial support to start making records with the orchestra.

If Jarvi can continue to deliver musical treats as he has over the last three weeks, he deserves the opportunity to show off the Detroit Symphony to the entire world through the medium of CD recordings. Our city and orchestra could stand the good press this would bring.

Last week's program demonstrated again the maestro's penchant for presenting unfamiliar music and making it highly palatable. Cases in point are the Two Swedish Folk Melodies by the Norwegian Johan Severin Svendsen and the concerto by Bohuslav Martinu.

We already know from the music of Edvard Grieg how lovely Scandinavian melodies can be. While Svendsen's brief pieces are not the least derivative, his musical kinship to Grieg is obvious and the pleasure is equal. Jarvi led the orchestra through a tender treatment of this rich orchestration of two lovely, uncomplicated songs.

Czech composer Martinu wrote his very unusual Concerto for Oboe and Orchestra in 1955 near the end of his life and it brings into play most of his lifetime of musical influences from a fascination with the Baroque concerto form to jazz. What is probably most interesting is the way the composer has pushed the oboe, normally relegated to brief assignments of moody melody, into a demanding solo role. After an opening segment where the orchestra holds back, the oboe's cerie voice is made to compete with the ensemble's full power, even trumpets and horns.

But the work and Holliger's remarkable virtuosity took advantage of the instrument's distinctive sound to spin an otherup images of woodland satyrs and pagan rites.

Notwithstanding the considerable technical difficulties of the oboe, Holliger invested the performance with expressive phrasing that captured the listener's soul. Especially wonderful were the extended sonata-like segments accompanied only by piano continuo. The length and fluidity of oboe passages often made one wonder when the oboist found time to breathe.

Back to back in more than one sense, was the Variations in F Major for Oboe and Orchestra by Johann Nepomuk Hummel, whose facility with classical form and style once earned him equal billing with Mozart and Beethoven. Following the concerto, it was a total contrast. In substance, this is really a trivial work. Nonetheless, it perfect classical style of Holliger's playing. In fact, one didn't want to miss a single note of the worldly melodic web. With brief fast moving variations. Maestro phrases suggesting that folk Jarvi did a remarkable job of tunes were a resource, it called keeping the orchestra in perfect sync and sympathy with Holliger's expressive liberties in tempo and phrasing - musical acrobatics at their best.

For his finale, the maestro at last gave a true measure of his ability as a conductor of standard repertory. In such a familiar masterpiece as Brahms' Symphony No. 1 in C minor, the true quality and ability of a conductor is unavoidably apparent.

Jarvi's attack was direct and without affectation but not routine. He was all for Brahms and gave full vent to the composer's well known depth of feeling. But he took the allegros at an unusually brisk pace and brought new vitality to this very familiar work.

Jarvi also showed that he knows when to stay out of a good orchestra's way and let its musicians exercise their musigained charm and stature from cianship and insight. That was the consummate delicacy and amply evident as the players, without exaggerated signals from their conductor, eloquently fulfilled the dynamic scope of Brahm's score.

It must have really touched the hearts of old-timers who remember when the main theme of the last movement was signoff for the Ford Sunday Evening Hour broadcasts by the Detroit Symphony 40 years ago.

It also lent force to Jarvi's plea for donations to launch a new series of DSO recordings with him on the podium. His message in the program called attention to collection boxes in the lobby, but anyone wishing to help in this important campaign can make a tax-deductible donation by sending a check to the DSO Recording Fund, 400 Buhl Building, Detroit, MI 48226. The last three weeks' concerts have demonstrated he merits the sup-

Maestro Jarvi will return to the DSO podium in January. Meanwhile, the orchestra will be offering Michigan artists in recital, Weekender Pops and its Christmas Festival. For full information, call 833-3700.

on the concert stage, but too often they are more interesting as a performing curiosity than for their artistry. However, when they combine exceptional rapport at a genuinely high artistic level, they are very special, and rare indeed.

The venerable Pro Musica Society in its 64th season presented such a pair at the Detroit Institute of Arts last Friday. It was the opening concert of this small but prestigious three-concert series.

Katja Cervosek is a 21-yearold concert pianist who has been playing second fiddle to her younger bother, violinist Corey until this year at least. But both qualify as prodigies and their achievement last Friday was indeed prodigious.

As artists, they are end products of the eminent Music School at Indiana University where Corey, studying with Josef Gingold, has earned master's degrees in both music and mathematics and is now completing attack with power to spare, and Katja has her master's degree Pressler of the Beaux Arts trio. While last Friday's concert headlined Corey as violinist, it had the feeling of a joint recital and Katja's star shone brightly, too.

This was easily the case in the Beethoven Kreutzer Sonata. The work is so monumental for both instruments that it could be put with orchestra and presented as a double concerto. The youthful duo played it with mature musical insight and perfectly shared interpretation; it was easy to imagine that the orchestra was really there.

It was that much more of an achievement to do so with a work so famous and familiar that even long-established virtuosos shy away from putting it Fritz Kreisler. on their programs. This performance, however, could stand up against any - live or recorded.

Moving from duo to solo, Katja played Balakirev's exotic musi-cal picture "Islamey." Along with demonstrating a high-speed precise control of a double glissando, she brought lyrical grace and is studying with Menahem and beauty to the distinctive tone poem.

The pair's remarkable ensemble playing — described best by the unique German word "einsatz" - was undiminished in the concert's biggest challenge for players and audience alike. That was Arnold Schoenberg's stark and often discordant "Phantasy, Opus 47." Even in the otherworld of 12-tone exploration, Corey and Katja played with total assurance and convincing expressiveness.

With a brief remark about turning to "a quite different Viennese school of music," Corey displayed his quiet humor as they turned to the lush violin delights of Vienna's legendary

And how agreeable it was to hear the lesser known Menuett in the style of Porpora. Corey gave it a crisp performance, not yielding to the sentimentality that violinists often feel obliged to indulge in Kreisler's concert pieces. He played it with elegant troduction" and "Tarantella," restraint adding a flourish just where it was needed.

Perhaps he was saving his sense of abandon for Ravel's "Tzigane" - the French impressionist's study of wild gypsy fiddling. Corey took the work at a pace of controlled frenzy bringing both brilliant virtuosity and a haunting mood to this show-

A great addition to the pleasure of the evening was the Cerovseks' outgoing, unaffected stage presence. It even seemed perfectly natural for Corey to explain that they would announce the encore as soon as Katja brought her piano parts from the dressing room to see what they had with them. It proved to be Sarasate's "Inplayed with undimmed style and

All was not over, however. The audience members who stayed afterward continued their enjoyment of Katja and Corey in the society's traditional conversation time with refreshments in the museum's Romanesque Hall and Kresge Court.

Pro Musica now pauses for a few months before its two other programs of this season: The New World String Quartet with clarinetist David Shifrin on March 15, and flutist/composer Gary Schocker - a highly successful fill-in for Jean Pierre $Rampal = on \ April \ 12.$

Jacob Singer (Tim Robbins) fights to hold on to reality and discover the truth behind the terrifying events invading his life in "lacob's Ladder."

Climb is better than view from 'Jacob's Ladder'

By Michae! Chapp Special Writer

'Jacob's Ladder" is, for the most part, a very entertaining and well-done movie.

It takes us to a world in which time is relative, as is the sanity of the center of interest, Jacob Singer (Tim Robbins). Both time and sanity are in a constant state of flux, keeping audiences on edge.

For the most part, this makes for a memorable, if not slightly disconcerting, experience at the

Singer is a post office worker: a normal guy in most respects. He's divorced and living with a pretty young co-worker. But he's also haunted by his past - the death of his young son and, especially, a particularly gruesome battle he fought when he was a

The film switches back and the demons - we're slightly disforth in time, sometimes showing us glimpses of the Vietnam experience, sometimes showing us memories of Singer's married life, but usually showing us Singer's present-day battles.

Chief among those battles and the basis for the movie's theme - is Singer's belief that he's being pursued by demons. He sees them on subway trains, in passing cars and at parties.

He believes he's being chased by them. But he doesn't know why. All he can figure is that there's some connection between these demons and the experiences in Vietnam.

That's more than the audience can figure for much of the film's running time. Indeed, we spend long periods wondering what's going on, and how each of the pieces we're seeing fits with the pieces we've already processed.

This is acceptable, of course. The most successful psychological suspense films usually leave the audience wondering what the real story is much of the time.

The problem is, once we do find out the explanation for what's going on - the source of appointed at the simplicity of the explanations. Indeed, that simplicity makes the convoluted proceedings we've subjected ourselves to for most of the movie seem unnecessary.

On a purely visceral level, "Jacob's Ladder" is as good as it gets. The visions of hell and the general aura are as frightening as anything we're likely to see on the screen this year.

Robbins is also very convincing as the normal guy suffering from extraordinary circumstances. We find ourselves pulling for him, even if we don't completely understand why.

"Ladder" is definitely a worthwhile diversion from the usual slasher-type movies that pass for horror these days. It's stylish, intellectual and pleasing, even if it is a little confusing.

Kaleidoscope display opens

"Kaleidoscopes: Reflections of Science and Art," an exhibition at the Detroit Science Center, gives an enchanting look at the creativity, design and mathematics of kaleidoscopes.

The exhibit was organized by the Smithsonian Institution Traveling Exhibition Service (SITES) and the Willamette Science and Technology Center.

Along with more than 20 interactive displays, the exhibition includes four antique scopes, 21 over-sized kaleidoscopes and a teleidoscope which turns the world into a kaleidoscope. Handheld prisms, mirrors and pyramid forms are used to explain the scientific principles behind kaleidoscopes.

Sir David Brewster (1781-1868), recognized in the scientific world for his ground-breaking research into light and its angles of refraction and polarization, is more familiar to the public for creating the kaleidoscope. This simple machine is the product of mathematical and physical prin-

While writing a thesis on "burning instruments," Brewster conceived and created a lens, which eventually developed into the prisms that create the brilliant illumination for lighthouses. Based on that prism, he designed the kaleidoscope. The new object was acclaimed by the scientific community and became a favorite parlor toy of the general public.

Today, kaleidoscopes are experiencing a renewed popularity. More than 100 American craftspeople are currently employed in the design and construction of attractive scopes. Several of these are on view in the exhibi-

MacLaine, Garr provide the watts for 'Light'

By Marian Trainor Speical Writer

Moving along with the years, Shirley MacLaine has enlarged and adapted her considerable talents to play roles far different from those that won her acclaim as a young and vibrant actress. Having reached the "Auntie Mame" age, she now is cast as someone's mother or, as in "Waiting for the Light," someone's aunt, spicing the roles with her eccentric touches. In the process she has become a brilliant character actress. You now expect, and get, witty, outspoken remarks, a lift of the eyebrow that speaks volumes and an utter disregard for convention.

In "Waiting for the Light," she plays that character to the hilt as Aunt Zena, a sexy harridan, crazily dressed, sporting clanking jewelry. Her-hair is dyed an orangy red and ratted. Her makeup is gaudy. She draws attention when she teeters down the street in her metallic shoes. Impervious to the stares she attracts, she moves about in her own world with confidence and ease. Aunt Zena is a happy woman. She likes herself.

Retired from the circus where she worked as a magician, she now lives in messy harmony with her neice Kay (Teri Garr) and Kav's two children. Eddie (Colin Baumgartner) and Emily (Hilary Wolf). The children love her and regard her as a role model to the extent that they get into trouble in school when they try out some of the tricks she has taught them.

Money is short in the household and Aunt Zena tries to help out by performing magic at children's birthday parties.

Things begin to look up when Kay receives a letter from a lawyer informing her that she has inherited a diner in Buckley, Washington. To everyone's surprise, Kay decides to move the family there and start a new life.

Kay goes to work cleaning the dilapidated old place and (only in the movies) succeeds in turning it into an attractive eating spot.

In the meantime, the kids amuse themselves roaming

Cab Calloway at Orchestra Hall

The legendary "Hi De Ho Man," Cab Calloway, comes to Orchestra Hall for 1990-91 Detroit Symphony Orchestra Weekender Pops Series concerts on Friday, Nov. 16 through Sunday,

Under the direction of DSO associate conductor Leslie B. Dunner, Calloway and the orchestra will perform many of the hits that have become synonymous with Calloway, including his classic, "Minnie the Moocher." The Orchestra opens the program with selections by Gershwin, Copland, Grofe and Duke Ellington.

Indisputably one of the twentieth century's show business greats, Calloway still has incredible energy after 50 years as an entertainer. George Gershwin modeled the character Sportin' Life in Porgy and Bess after Calloway's colorful personality.

The concert will be at Orchestra Hall unless otherwise indicated. Tickets for all DSOH concerts are available at the Orchestra Hall box office (3711 Woodward Avenue, Detroit, MI 48201) or by calling (313) 833-3700; at Hudson's, Harmony House, and Ticketmaster outlets or by calling the Ticketmaster charge line at (313) 645-6666.

Artistic directors involved in love story at attic

When "Frankie and Johnny in the Clair de Lune" opened at the Attic Theatre last night, it reflected the mutual efforts of two of Detroit's leading directors.

"Frankie and Johnny" begins with the waning pants of lovemaking After the sexual intimacy of lovers, Frankie and Johnny start to get to know each other as people in an afterglow that lasts until dawn.

In this searing, costumeless production (the principals sport only sheets, towels and underwear) the audience vicariously partakes of a relationship happening at two levels at once.

Lavinia Moyer, artistic director and co-founder of the Attic Theatre, is directing this modern love story by Terrence McNally.

David Regal, artistic director of The University of Detroit's Theatre Company, portrays the persistent, sometimes obnoxious. but always compelling Johnny. the short-order cook who woos night in her one-room apartment.

Regal was last seen at the Attic in "True West," where he also directed "Back in the Mary Bremer plays Frankie, the waitress who is reluctant to get involved with her co-worker just because she has spent the night with him.

Bremer has been seen at the Attic in "Sand Mountain," and appeared with Regal in "Strange Snow" at The University of Detroit two years ago. For the latter performance she received the waitress Frankie throughout the Detroit Free Press award for Best Actress.

"In 'Strange Snow," Moyer said, "their characters show the beginnings of a romantic interest. However, the starting point of 'Frankie and Johnny' is the consummation of a relationship and its aftermath.

"This will complete an interesting body of work thematically for Mary and David.'

Although the three have known each other for 15 years, this is the first project they have worked on together.

Moyer admits a bias toward love stories. She directed last year's volatile "Burn This" and starred in "A Fool For Love' several years ago.

This very funny and touching encounter between two fortysomething people who have failed at love before presents a naked display of the human need for companionship, trust and acceptance — and the fear, awkwardness and risk that must be faced to find them.

"McNally's play has tremendous wit and sympathy for his pair of aspiring lovers," said Moyer. "I expect the audience's main response to be laughter and empathy."

"Frankie and Johnny in the Clair de Lune" runs through Dec. 9 at the attic.

Regularly scheduled shows are on Wednesdays at 7 p.m., Thursdays and Fridays at 8 p.m., Saturdays at 5 and 9 p.m., and Sundays at 2 and 7 p.m. Senior and student discounts are available.

For tickets, call the Attic box office at 875-8284.

'Grottesco Shorts," which showcases many of the fantastic theatrical styles the company works in, opens Nov. 21 and runs through Dec. 9.

Theatre Grottesco company members are trained in classical European styles of theater, ranging from the Italian commedia dell'arte (which the Marx brothers used) and the "theatrical clown" style of Buster Keaton and Charlie Chaplin to Greek tragedy, melodrama, and bouffon. The company has an international reputation for remolding these styles into a fresh, contemporary theater that is truly unique.

Company member Paul Herwig describes the evening as "a throughly entertaining collection of cutting edge theater pieces."

'Grottesco Shorts'' includes the esemble's version of a live cartoon family, the magical urday, Dec. 1, from 1 to 5 p.m. counter-world of outcast bouf- The audition will be a four-hour fons, performance poetry on a rooftop, and a dance/theatre must participate in the entire piece choreographed by Whitley Sterakian of People Dancing in Ann Arbor.

"In our full length plays," ays Herwig, "we must adhere to the story line, characters, and one given style or synthesis of styles. 'Grottesco Shorts' allows us to take risks; to explore characters and styles that we cannot do in the larger pieces. It's tremendously exciting for us, and we are pleased to offer this special collection of plays to our home audience.' Over the past three years, Theatre Grottesco has performed short works at benefits for the Attic Theatre, the Performance Network in Ann Arbor, Greenpeace International, the Michigan Gallery, Positive Living Network, and others. Herwig states that, "Because of the success of these short works, and as an opportunity to show our home-town audience another side of the company, voila: 'Grottesco Shorts, an evening of surprises and wonderment - physical the-

'Farther West' opens at the Hilberry

"Farther West," a fiery ro- most respected and prolific playmance by Canadian playwright John Murrell, opens at the Hilberry Theatre on Friday, Nov. 23, and runs in repertory through Feb. 1.

The show takes us back one hundred years to a time when most women had two career choices: teaching or prostitution. In the play you meet May Buchanan, an uncompromising woman of great passion caught in an equally uncompromising world of men's rules. Her quest for liberation takes her farther west in search of a place where there are no rules, no laws, no judges. Innocence meets corruption, freedom meets obsession, love meets death in this play of human wills by one of Canada's

Travel Trends

By Phyllis Hollenbeck

Getting there by the book

There is a saying among travel professionals — "you can't possibly know all the answers; but, you'll be okay if you know where to find them." Between the "how to" books, the destination books and the travel guides, there are hundreds of travel publications on the market today. Many, targeted at the general public, are aimed at helping you find your way around airline schedules, airports and foreign

"The Airline Passenger's Guerrilla Handbook," by George Albert Brown, is one of the most highly touted of the current travel books. It gives advice on topics such as which airlines overbook the most, the cheapest fares, frequent flyer program, airline food and which airports to avoid when changing planes. The book brings the non-frequent flyer practical information that usually is learned through bitter experience.

If you frequently travel by air, you might subscribe to the OAG Pocket Flight Guide. A monthly publication, it lists flight schedules between major cities in the United States, Canada and the Caribbean. It is a convenient size and will easily fit into a briefcase or purse. When en route, you will find it easier to get flight details from the guide and then call a specific airline, rather than having to call several airlines to find out what the choices are. Individual issues are available at newsstands in larger airports; subscriptions are available by calling 1-800-323-3537.

The "Economist Business Traveler's Guides" are handy pocket-sized guides detailing the business conditions, culture, customs and economies of 10 important nations and areas. There are guides for Britain, China, France, Japan, the United States, West Germany, the Soviet Union, Italy, the Arabian Peninsula and Southeast Asia. Offering information that isn't normally found in tourist guides, these guides help eliminate the mystery of doing business in foreign lands.

If you are looking for information on the best there is in travel, consider subscribing to "Edward Carter's Travels." A monthly publication, "Travels" introduces you to very special destinations and accommodations around the world. "Travels" accepts no commercial support or advertising and Carter accepts no commissions, fees, tradeoffs or any other remuneration from the places he writes about. It is a unique publication for those who love to learn about the hidden travel treasures of the world. Subscription address is, Edward Carter's Travels, 1276 North Sweetzer, Suite 6, Los Angeles, CA 90069. A three month trial subscription is

There are books on virtually all of the visited nations of the world. Many are available by phone order through a company called Book Passage. The catalog is well organized and its inventory contains books on such varied subjects as home exchanges, international schools, the world's best diving locations, owning and operating a bed and breakfast facility, hundreds of destination guide books and children's travel books. The Grosse Pointe Symphony Orchestra opened its 38th season on Sunday, Nov. 4, at the Parcells School auditorium with a timely program conducted by Maestro Felix Resnick, now in his 32nd year with the orchestra. Each of the selections paid homage to the various countries in eastern Europe which have recently experienced newly found political and artistic freedom after years of domination and oppression.

The program opened with an exciting reading of the "Festival

Russian master, Dimitri Shostakovich. It was an effective curtain raiser for the concert, and the audience, somewhat smaller than hoped for, knew that it was in for an afternoon of musical delights.

New York.

Andrew Mellen will perform his one man show, "My Life as Kim Novak," at Trumble Theater, at 8 p.m. Nov. 14-18, Thursday through Saturday. Trumble Theater is located at 4210 Trumbull, Detroit.

The theater is located behind and connected to a Victorian style house. Perry Mallette, owner and artistic director, promotes plays and shows held on a regular basis. Local professionals make up the talent. Theater goers are encouraged to travel Grand River to Canfield.

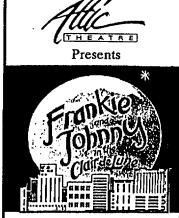

"My Life as Kim Novak" is a series of monologues on subjects ranging from gender to fame and fishnets, as two characters struggle for control of the same body. Some serious subjects are touched upon during his act, but are lightened by the addition of song and dance.

Overture" by the 20th century tra, as the soloist in the first of two works with the orchestra. Violists are heard all too rarely in solo roles, so it was a pleasure to enjoy the artistry of this fine musician.

Valkenburg draws a deep, rich tone from his instrument, and his technique easily transcends the challenges of the "Romanze," as well as the "Rhapsody on Folk Songs of Bela Bartok," which was played later in the program. This latter work, which pays homage to Romania, fully exploits the many resources of the viola as a solo instrument.

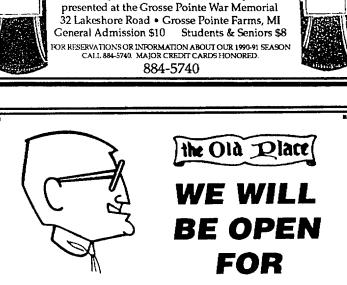

The popular Beethoven overture, "Egmont," was extremely well played by the orchestra, as Maestro Resnick showed great attention to balance and detail throughout. Poland was then represented by the "Polonaise" from "Eugen Onegin" by Tchaikovsky. Although written by a Russian, the composer brilliantly captures the mood and spirit of this Polish national dance form.

The orchestra and Maestro Resnick are to be commended for programming the rarely heard Sarka, from the set of six tone poems "Ma Vlast" (My Country) by the Bohemian (now Czecho-slovakian) composer, Bedrich Smetana. This dramatic work vividly depicts in sound the exploits and events of an Amazon of Czech origin.

The program came to a brilliant conclusion with the famous 'Hungarian March" of Hector Berlioz. It was a most satisfying afternoon of fine music making, again demonstrating the high calibre of this excellent orches-

No playoffs, but football season was fun

nce again we take a look back on what could have been and what should have been in the 1990 high school football

Despite the new Michigan High School Athletic Association playoff structure, North, South and University Liggett School failed to qualify for the postseason tournament.

However, that doesn't mean the season was a wash. It's no easier to make the playoffs just because more teams can qualify. The MHSAA expanded to eight classes just for the football North season. North and South competed in Class A, while larger schools (in enrollment) participated in Class AA. ULS was a strong team in Class C.

North and South both competed in the Macomb Area Conference White Division, and finished in a third-place tie. ULS, looking to make the playoffs for the first time in Coach Bob Newvine's six years, got off to a 5-0 start, but couldn't win the big games against Country Day and Birch Run.

Here's a last look at the three high schools' football seasons:

By Rob Fulton Sports Editor

From beginning to end, the North football team was in constant search for some offensive power and consistency.

The defense was intact with nine players back from a 1989 5-4 performance, but the young and immature offense needed some grooming. And after game six, a quarterback change.

North, the defending cochamps of the Macomb Area Conference White Division (tied with Romeo), finished the season

North beat, 7-0, in game eight.

"During the course of the year out of the league race," said Norsemen coach Frank Sumbera. "We honestly felt, going into the season, that it would be Haskell. us and Romeo vying for the championship.'

Instead, it was Romeo and Fraser battling in the eighth week, with Romeo winning. It was Romeo's fourth straight league title.

North's offense looked powerful and hungry in the first two games, but after that the inconsistencies settled in. Meanwhile, the defense was recording two straight shutouts.

North beat South Lake, 17-0, and Roseville, 22-0, to post a 2-0 overall record and a 1-0 league mark.

"We were off to such a good start because we had a great preseason camp," Sumbera said. 'We had great confidence in what we could do, and that carried over into the first couple of games. We knew that our de-

5-4 overall and 4-3 in the league fense would be sound; we were to tie for third with South which just concerned about getting our offense untracked.'

Behind quarterback Gary Cor-I never thought we were really ona, who in five games threw for 183 yards and one touchdown, were two outstanding running backs in Paul Straske and Mike

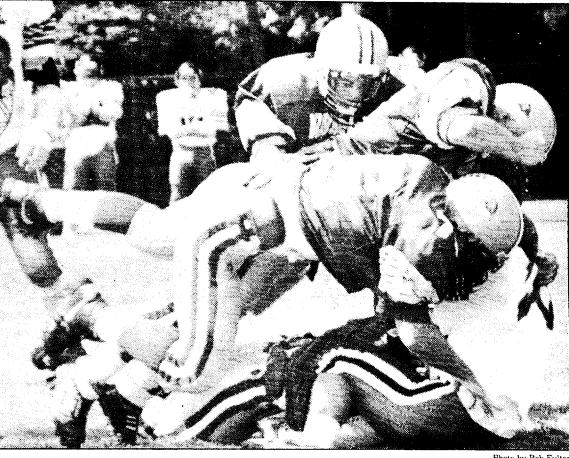

> Haskell, who rushed for 487 yards on 101 carries and scored four touchdowns on the season, led the rushing assault over South Lake with 125 yards. Straske, who scored two touchdowns and rushed for 799 yards on 140 carries, had 124 yards on 17 rushes.

Each scored a touchdown in the win.

After Haskell and Straske showcased North's running game in game one, it was off to the air in game two, North's home opener against Roseville. Corona completed six of 13 passes, ran for a touchdown and added a 28-yard field goal as the Norsemen shelled the Panthers,

"We were very balanced," Sumbera said. "We were rolling See FOOTBALL, page 2C on the ground, but we went to the air. Thirteen times was more than I thought we needed, especially with the way the ground game was going, but we hit some big passes in that game."

And at 2-0 and 1-0 in the league, the early-season showdown between North and Romeo was set for week No. 3.

"We were very ready for this game and played very well," Sumbera said.

But Romeo won, 21-18.

"That was the 'big' game," said Sumbera. "We didn't do a bad job, but we had a breakdown on two big plays that really hurt

But the defense, despite giving up its first points of the season, played well. The Noresmen limited the Bulldogs to 218 total yards, compared to North's 243 yards and 11 first downs. Haskell (102 yards, two touchdowns) and Straske (126 yards) rushed for more than 100 yards for the half. third straight time.

1-1 in the league. "We had some trouble concentrating the next week and really didn't focus on Anchor Bay a whole lot."

Concentrating or not, Norsemen traveled to Anchor Bay and came away with a 3-0 win when Corona, who booted four of five field goals on the season, kicked a 20-yard field goal in overtime

Led by Scott Nesom's 19 tackles, North's defense shut the Tars down at the North 4-yard line early in the game. Adam Korzeniewski had 15 tackles in that game.

Korzeniewski led North with 98 tackles, and Nesom had 59. Both made the MAC first team, along with Leo Salvaggio and safety Marc Adams, who led North with three interceptions. Salvaggio finished with 65 tackles and Adams had 67.

At 3-1 overall and 2-1 in the White Division, North headed back home for a match-up with Offensive center John Bomier pounced on a Haskell fumble in the Utica end zone and Corona added an extra point that gave North a 7-3 halftime lead. But, Utica scored on two Mike Reagar touchdowns in the second half and added both 2-point conversions.

Quarterback Reagar ran 62 and 58 yards, and the North defense gave up more than 300 yards of total offense to Utica.

The loss pushed North two games off the league pace, and quickly changed things

"We were no longer a contender, so we had to readjust our thinking," said Sumbera, "Especially because there were only three league games left. We were now looking for help from other teams and that wasn't a very comforting feeling. Also, we just had to look out for ourselves and take care of our own busi-

Sporting a 2-2 league mark, North, without defensive end Nesom, took on L'Anse Creuse North in the sixth week.

"We were hit with a few injuries and going up there I was very concerned," said Sumbera. "We really needed a strong game from a lot of people. We had to shuffle some things around and put some guys in different spots, so we were looking for everyone to turn his game up a notch.

Especially junior quarterback Sam Sanom, who was getting the call for the first time this season after backing up Corona.

We felt it was time for a change," Sumbera said. "Let's face it. We weren't really burning up the scoreboard with a lot of points, plus Sam had worked hard and deserved a chance."

Sanom and the rest of the Norsemen remained inconsistent as they took a 22-7 loss. North's only score came late in the fourth quarter when Straske popped in from the 5. North's defene shut L'Anse Creuse North down in the first half, but gave up all 22 points in the second

Korzeniewski led North with 20 tackles and Adams and Matt

At 3-3 overall and 2-3 in the league, Sumbera and his coachbera, whose team had slipped to to do. So, he decided it was time to put the fate of the season into the players' minds.

"We were at a crossroad and really didn't know which way we were going," Sumbera said. "In a team meeting we told the kids they could finish the season with three wins or three losses and it was time to play for Norsemen

Into town strolled league-leading Fraser for game No. 7, North's homecoming.

This was the game in which North decided to turn right instead of left on the crossroad.

"It was very evident that we were in a spoiler role," Sumbera said, "and the kids came out and played the part with a fine game.'

North dropped the previously unbeaten Ramblers, 21-20. The loss moved Fraser into a firstplace tie with Romeo.

Sanom, starting only his second game, rallied the troops and scored a 9-yard touchdown to tie the score at 7-7. North then trailed by 13 points in the second half, but with stingy defense and a persistent offense came from behind to win.

"Fraser had just gone up by 13 with the chance to go up by 14 with the extra point, but missed the conversion," Sumbera said. "I turned to the kids and told them that missed extra point would open the door for us and allow us to win.

And sure enough, it did. Craparotta, playing at fullback, carried the burden of the rushing game and responded with 136 yards and two touch-

Craparotta's first touchdown run of 1 yard and a Corona extra point cut Fraser's lead to 20-14, and in the fourth quarter, after a Jim Kutscher interception, Craparotta carried three straight times from the Fraser 16 to score the game-winning touchdown from six yards out. Corona's PAT gave North the edge.

"We could have just gone through the motions but we didn't," Sumbera said. "It was a great come-from-behind win.'

And it gave North the momentum it needed to move into a confrontation with South in week eight.

The North/South game has traditionally been played in the regular season finale, but because they were in the same league it was scheduled for the eighth game at North.

"In that week of preparation we cut the practices down and kept them short because there are some things you don't have to do because it is the North/ South game," Sumbera said. "Kids are always anxious to play this game, so you just try to slow them down a bit because the week is long.'

After a scoreless regulation game, in which the North defense held South's offense inside the North 20-yard line twice, North took the ball first in the overtime period. Craparotta banged in from a yard out and Corona's kick gave the Norse men a 7.0 lead, which held up for a North victory.

Adams batted down a South pass on third down, and Fowler intercepted it, ending South's chance to tie the game and force a second overtime.

"After that win we were in position for a playoff spot," Sumbera said. "But I don't think a lot of the guys believed we could still get in.

And after a 23-0 shutout loss at home to Port Huron Northern in the final week, North wasn't going anywhere.

"All we needed to do was win that game and we would have been into the playoffs," said Sumbera, whose team hasn't qualified since 1986.

"We learned a lot this year. I felt our young offensive line did a great job in maturing through the season, and our defense was really strong. We knew we'd have a strong defense, but we had trouble getting some consistency in our offense.

"Defensively, we gave up the big play too many times. But, we also gave up only one solid drive and that came against L'Anse Creuse North. For the most part, this season was fun and enjoya-

South

Don't look at the 4-5 record. Look deeper than that because if you don't, you'll miss the true character of this team, which at one point during the season vied for the league championship.

Despite finishing below .500 for the first time in Coach Jon Rice's four years, this year's team was as successful as previous teams, according to Rice, even if the numbers don't show

"Throughout the course of the season, no matter how bad it may have seemed, these kids never quit," said Rice, who has guided two of his last four teams to the state playoffs. "We probably worked harder this year than last. We were always trying to find the right formula and help the kids achieve our

"The kids played to the best of their abilities. It was never a question of quitting or giving up and we were never disappointed because the kids continued to work hard.

The defense gave up 106 points and yielded an average of 204 yards a game, while the offense scored only 84 points and averaged 210 yards a game.

Things looked bleak to start the season as the Blue Devils were winless after two games. Rice hasn't won an opener in four years, but this was the first time one of his team's had lost two straight to start the season.

South lost at Clintondale, 14-3, and at Romeo 28-15. Clintondale went on to win the Macomb Area Conference Blue Division, and Romeo won its fourth straight White Division title.

"We had to play two of the better teams on our schedule right away and that made it tough," Rice said. "Plus we had a young and inexperienced offense that needed some shaping.

At Clintondale, Jay Berschback's 25-yard field goal was all the South offense could get. Quarterback Tim Gramling, who finished the season with 562 yards passing and 23 yards rushing, threw for 144 yards and Nick Johnston rushed for 60 yards to pace South. Johnston finished with 157 rushing yards on the season.

The defense kept Clintondale in check, but a late score extended the Dragons' lead from 6-3 to 14-3.

"If you look back on this season it's easy to say 'what if," Rice said. "But you can't worry about what you did the week before or the day before. That kind of attitude is what we try to implement here and it kind of emulates life; we didn't concern ourselves with what would have

Instead, South went to work against Romeo in the season's second game. That game was also South's baptismal into the MAC. The Blue Devils had just come off a 1989 Eastern Michigan League championship and a playoff berth, but because the EML folded South joined the MAC.

The Devils' offense showed signs of coming out of its slump, but inconsistencies were really killing the Devils, who racked up 280 yards of offense. Five turnovers certainly hurt, too.

The defense, which traditionally prides itself on shutouts, gave up 400 yards to Romeo.

South trailed Romeo 28-0 before getting on the board with a Steve Wisniewski 2-yard run, and later added a Gramling touchdown from 5 yards out.

"Our kids were always believing in themselves even when we were 0-2," Rice said. "Everybody who starts out 0-2 feels a little bit of doubt creep in and wonders, when are we going to win that first one, if at all.' Going into the season we knew we'd be in a struggle every ballgame, but we also felt things would have a way of balancing themselves out.'

Plus, it was time to get in off the road and head home.

In its home opener in game three, South beat up on Anchor Bay, 21-7, despite a slow start by the offense.

During the week of prepara-

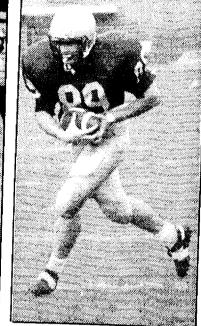

The night before (Friday), Romeo lost so a South win would move the team into a first-place tie. But despite outplaying Fraser, the Devils lost, 13-6, dropping South from a potential first place spot to third.

"We had just gotten back to 3-2 and gave ourselves a chance to be a league champ and things were looking good," Rice said. "But that loss was very pivotal to the season.'

Especially with only two league games remaining.

South gave up 10 points in the final two minutes of the first half, to trail 10-0 at half. Harwick's 6-yard run was South's only score, but the game was by far South's finest team effort of the season.

The offense, which scored only 84 points on the season, com-

South's rushing attack was led by the tandem of Steve Wisniewski (left) and Chris Harwick. Harwick had 668 yards and Wisniewski had 253.

tion, however, Rice and his staff piled 290 yards behind Gramlcould see it was time for a change, not just a win. Junior Chris Harwick, who finished with 668 rushing yards and five touchdowns on the season, was moved from tight end to fullback. Kelly Graves and Brett Brownscombe stepped in at the tight end spot.

"It was a tough decision to make," said Rice, "but we felt it was time to move things around a bit, still looking for the right formula.

"We had trouble getting confidence in our offense. Our kids were playing hard and executing as well as they could, but it just wasn't working out."

And at 6 foot 4, 225 pounds was logical to put Harwick in the backfield.

"In the offense we were running, we just felt we needed a bigger fullback," said Rice. "We needed him for his size not only in running the ball, but for blocking.'

And it worked. Harwick ran for 96 yards on 19 carries. Defensive back Charlie Lickfold, who finished with 45 tackles on the season, returned an interception 41 yards for South's first score, and Johnston added a 2-yard touchdown run in the second half, which was set up by Lickfold's second interception of the game.

With the offense clicking now - and the defense maturing each week, it was time for South to make its traditional run at the league title. With the Anchor Bay win, South was 1-1 in the league, just one game behind Romeo filled skies. South gave up two safeties in the first half and trailed 40 at the intermission, but Harwick rambled 72 yards on the second play of the second half to give South the 6-4 win; its second straight.

But it was back to the road, this time at Utica under rain-

Both Don Leal and Brownscombe thwarted Utica drives with fumble recoveries inside the South 10.

We were really beginning to play some very strong defense,' Rice said, "and that got us untracked. We were also generating some offense and things were going well.'

In fact, they were going so well that South earned a 13-6 win at home over L'Anse Creuse North in game four. The win moved South to 3-2 overall and 3-1 in the league, still one game behind league co-leaders Romeo and Fraser

And now it was the showdown in week six - Fraser at South.

ing's 100 passing yards and Harwick's 120 rushing yards. Week No. 7 pitted South against Roseville. Harwick's 5-yard touchdown run in the third quarter, set up by a Kelly Graves fumble recovery, was the only score as South walked away with a 6-0 victory. The win pushed the Devils to 4-3 overall and 4-2 in the league. "The week before the Roseville game was very tough for us," said Rice. "The weather was very bad so we really only had one day outside. We just worked on polishing some things, but the biggest thing we had to get over was the emotional loss to "We played hard against Roseville, but emotionally we were down a bit from the Fraser game. We were glad to get out of there with the win.

Generally, week No. 8 brings on another league opponent, and this year was no different. However, because North and South were in the same league, the crosstown rivalry was set for the eighth week.

At North, Rice felt his team dominated play, but just as in the Fraser game it came up empty. North got an overtime touchdown to take the win, 7-0, knocking South to an even 4-4 overall record.

With the loss, South tied North for third place in the league standings at 4-3.

That was probably the hardest loss I've been involved with around here," said Rice. "We felt we dominated North and should have won the game.' South had the ball inside

North's 20 twice, and failed to score. The North defense stuffed South at the North 1 two straight times. "That loss was tough on the kids and really hard on the staff," Rice said. "After that loss I told the kids to feel good about themselves and enjoy it for 24 hours.'

Because one day later the Blue Devils would have to prepare for the season finale at home against Sterling Heights.

"Our first goal is to try to win five ball games," Rice said. "We had a great week of practice before the Sterling Heights game. We reminded the kids of our first goal and told them we were playing for pride and five."

But 20 first-half points by Sterling Heights, and zero for South, proved fatal. The Stallions went on to win, 27-14.

Matt Recht took over for Gramling to start the second half, and completed 10 of 21 passes for 139 yards, including a 19-yard touchdown pass to Wisniewski. Defensive tackle Joe Wood scored South's first touchdown when he returned a fumble 50 yards.

"Sure we wanted to win five football games, but we didn't," Rice said. "This team had a lot to be proud of because not once did it fold in the tent. If you look back we could have been a 7-2 team or a 2-7 team. We were in every game and had a shot to win each of them.'

All-league selections included Jason Bedsworth, Brett Brownscombe and Brian Burrows. Bedsworth was also voted the team's Most Valuable Player and Burrows was Most Improved Player. Frank Voelker and Brion Czaiczynski were recognized for outstanding line play, and Brian Blake was the outstanding underclassman.

University Liggett

By Rob Fulton Sports Editor

Bob Newvine has turned the University Liggett School football program around after six varsity seasons, but he has vet to get his troops past the big game.

ULS, ranked as high as No. 4 in the Class C polls this season, finished 7-2 for the second consecutive season, but it was also the second straight year the Knights couldn't handle the schools they needed to beat.

"We could have made the playoffs if we had won just one of those two big games," said Newvine. "But we didn't win, so we didn't really deserve to get

Newvine's troops, behind the powerful running of Chris Carroll and Kevin Whitfield, jumped out to a 5-0 start and ULS football was finally on the map. "We got off to a great start because we knew we had the confidence and ability to do so,' said Newvine. "We had great senior leadership. We didn't have to teach a lot of the kids the system, so we didn't need to spend a lot of time on that. We went into the season gearing for the playoffs. ULS dumped some patsies from its schedule because it felt it had the horses to compete at a higher level, but perhaps it bit off too much by facing Birch Run and Detroit Country Day School (DCDS) in back-to-back weeks.

"We felt we had enough talent so we upgraded our schedule,' Newvine said. "We felt we had to showcase our football team and let other teams out there know that ULS is a strong football school."

And a lot of people were convinced with the 5-0 start.

ULS opened at Harper Woods and after a sluggish first half waltzed to a 29-0 victory. Whitfield, who finished the season with 563 yards and 10 touchdowns, rushed for 137 yards and one touchdown. Carroll had 81 yards and a touchdown.

In its home opener in week two, ULS needed a big game and got it, beating St. Agatha, 30-7.

"A couple years ago we finally got over the hurdle of beating Harper Woods and St. Agatha was a hurdle for us now," said Newvine. "That win proved a lot and really put us on our way and gave us even more confidence.

It also gave Michael Fox the chance to score his second touchdown in as many games, and kicker Mike Whelan was well on his way to kicking 27 extra points on the season. Whelan had six field goals for the year, and tied a state record by booting four in one game. The win over St. Agatha also marked the second time assistant coach Jim Glovac's defense had held an opponent to under 100 total yards.

On the year, the ULS defense gave up only 10 points a game, while the offense produced an average of 30.3. ULS scored 273 points in nine games. ULS had weaker opponents in weeks three, four and five, but knew what was ahead in weeks six and seven.

But, first things first. ULŚ beat Kingston, 28-7, in week three and moved to 4-0 one week later with a 44-8 victory over Lutheran Westland.

In the win over Kingston, Whitfield returned a punt 80 yards for a score and quarterback/defensive back Jason

The win over Lutheran Westland was sparked by Drook, who led ULS with six interceptions for the year.

Drook rushed for 82 yards, threw for 64 yards, had two rushing touchdowns, a passing touchdown and two intercep-

"Because we don't have a lot of guys on the team we have to have guys going both ways,' Newvine said. "Jason has done a good job for us at quarterback and cornerback and the best thing about him is that we get him back for another season.

A 4-0 record was something completely unheard of at ULS. People began checking out the team. Fans and players began looking to the playoffs, but there were still five weeks to play.

"This was a pressure packed season for this team," Newvine said. "To start the season there were a lot of people who said we'd make the playoffs. Then the state rankings put us fifth and we moved to fourth, and all that adds pressure.

were handling it as best we could.'

The Knights hung in there with a 27.0 win over Memphis in week five, but weeks six and seven proved fatal.

ULS had to travel to Birch Run, which had won only once in five tries, but was dangerous. ULS tied the game at 14-14 in the second half, but gave up a late touchdown and ended up losing, 22-14.

"That game really took the wind out of our sails," Newvine said. "We knew that if we won that game we could finish - at worst -8.1 and still get into the playoffs. We even turned the ball won, but we didn't."

And the following week of practice was tough as well.

'We had to prepare for Country Day, but mentally it was difficult on the kids," Newvine said. "We felt our season was just about over with that loss. We needed to get that game and

And then Country Day marched in just five days later and pasted the Knights, 40-7.

"After that loss we decided just to have fun the rest of the season and let things happen," Newvine said. "We weren't in the playoff picture any longer so we started playing more kids

Game eight was great fun for Whelan, as he tied the state record with field goals from 27, 29, 31, and 30 yards in ULS' 45-0 win over Lutheran Northwest.

Carrying a 6-2 record into Hamtramck to close the season, ULS continued to focus on having fun. It may have had fun, to open ski season The Snow Birds Ski Club has been busy with preparation for the ski season, and has hired two new supervisors and expanded the Junior Instructor Program.

The annual ski sale, featuring new and used equipment and clothing, will be held over the Thanksgiving weekend.

The Junior program consists of mature teenage skiers who have progressed in their skiing proficiency. Returning instructors are Aimee Bonneau, Dan Conroy, Pat Hayes, Tom Kleiner, Erin McHugh and Katie Stroble.

Megan Moran, who has attained the black patch and has been with the club a number of years, will join the Instructor program this year to work with the Snow Bunnies. Keith Golinski, Amy Bauer, Mark Brewster, Jason Wikenczy, Sara Leith and Amanda Brown have also shown interest in working with the younger skiers and will be given special attention by Nancy Mahoney, club director.

The Snow Birds has also added two new supervisors to the staff. Andrea Andrzejczak will be in charge of the 5through-7-year-old Snow Bunnies. Larry Hage will also be on staff.

The Snow Birds have many skiing dates planned, including:

At Utica Nov. 6, the South girls' varsity basketball team almost pulled off an upset.

However, the league champion Utica Lady Chieftains escaped with a 51-49 win.

South was led by sophomore Angela Drake and senior Emilie Ayrualt, who each scored 12 points. Ayrault had 12 rebounds and Drake added 11.

Two days later in the regular season finale, South beat L'Anse Creuse, 44-35, behind Drake's 12 points, 12 rebounds and two blocked shots.

With the win, South finished 8-12 overall and 6-8 in the Macomb Area Conference White Division. Only two teams, Utica (13-1) and North (10-4) finished above .500 in the tough White Division.

Ayrault had 10 points to go with 12 rebounds in the win over L'Anse Creuse, and Stephanie Coddens had nine points, four assists and three blocked shots. Erin Lalley and Suellen Garr also played well.

South took on Regina, the Catholic League champion, Monday, Nov. 12 (after press time).

hevrolet Beretta GTZ drives, feels like a fast European car

The most surprising thing about the Chevrolet Beretta GTZ is how European it feels. But it isn't, of course; it is a see-the-U.S.A. Chevrolet. And how expensive it feels. But it isn't, of course; it is above all else a

It is hard to drive the Beretta GTZ for very long without the thought "BMW" coming to coming to mind. There are a lot of differences between a mid-range, highperformance BMW and the Beretta GTZ, but except for the price and the snob appeal, they are relatively minor.

The Beretta GTZ is a strong reminder that the auto market has become segmented into models. Back in the '50s, it was possible to talk about an entire line of cars, to compare the '54 Ford, the '54 Chevrolet and the '54 Plymouth and make some sense.

Then these lines were chopped up into nameplates which included cars as different as the Ford Falcon and the Ford Galaxie 500 or the Chevrolet Corvette and the Chevrolet Impala. Now, individual models in a line may be radically different from others with the same nameplate.

The GTZ shares a body and much of an interior with the rest of the Beretta line, but in its mechanics, its performance and its personality, it is in a different class. Driving it does not make you think of other Chevys. It makes you think of BMWs. And it costs less than half as much.

"Man, that is a red car," commented a colleague looking over the regular Beretta buyer, who the test car. "It's a new color called 'Torch Red,' " I informed

"Looks like 'arrest-me red," he said, and he was right. You must watch yourself in a Torch Red GTZ because it will do zeroto-60 in less than eight seconds. You can sense its embarrassment on interstates at less than ticket-time speeds; it looks like it's going fast even if it isn't and it practically glows.

And this GTZ is powered by just a four-cylinder engine. Well, not "just" a four. It is GM's famed Quad 4, a four-valve-percylinder 2.3-liter four with 10:1 compression which churns out 180 horsepower, well above the one horse per cubic inch (about 1.3) in vogue during the '60 muscle-car era.

Standard transmission is a five speed manual with revised ratios to give it more acceleration from a stop. It works. The GTZ sprints from the line like a V-8, but without the grabbiness. The shifter's short throw is an important part of the GTZ's upscale European feel.

Other new functional items which give the GTZ an upscale European character include map pockets in the door panels, express-down power windows, folding rear seats, a trunk cargo net. a direct-acting front stabilizer bar with gas-charged deflected disk struts and shocks for improved ride and handling and stainless steel exhaust system for longer wear. Two retractable cup holders reflect the high level of civilization of the GTZ.

New for '91 is an optional V-6 with automatic, but it sounds a bit boring compared with the five-speed Quad 4.

Unlike many high-performance front-wheel-drive cars, there is no noticeable torque steer in heavy-footed acceleration

A Chevrolet spokesperson said the GTZ buyer profile tends to be male and more affluent than is more likely to be female (and presumably underpaid).

A set of knockout 16-inch aluminum wheels, painted in the same Torch Red as the body and wearing P205/55VR16 Eagle GT Gatorback steel-belted tires, lets everyone know this car is something special, as do the body-col-

Also standard are performance seats with four-way tilt, leatherwrapped steering wheel and a full package of easy-to-read instrument gauges, including a tachometer

The GTZ has a driver's side air bag installed in the steering wheel hub and redesigned seat belts for more comfort and easier latching and unlatching. EPA fuel economy rating for the Quad 4 GTZ is 22 miles per gallon city and 31 highway, which is better than the standard Beretta V-6, not as hot a performer.

And for those of you who like the upscale European feel, but don't like to spend as much on a car as you used to on a home. the GTZ has a base price of $14,550 and that includes a lot of equipment. The lavishly equipped test car had a sticker price of $16,034, including $455 destination charge.

Just for comparison, the base price of a BMW M3 four is $34,950, and the BMW 325i series sedans range from $24,650

ELECTRIC AUTOMOTIVE WAXER/POLISHERS, sold under brand names like Master Mechanic, Craftsman

Waxing and polishing your car is the first step in fall and winter car care

Your car faces many enemies during the hot summer months. Sun, birds, tar and tree sap can cause a car's beautiful finish to fade. Fall is the perfect time to renew the showroom shine and protect it against winter enemies such as slush, ice, road salt and repeated winter car washings

The first step in any fall car care regimen should be a thorough wax and polish of the car's finish. Only thousandths of a millimeter thick, a coating of wax protects not only the car's paint, but its resale value as well.

Cut waving time in half

Until now, the job of washing and waxing a car meant spending at least half of a beautiful fall day hard at work applying and removing wax. But now there are a number of electric automotive waxer/polishers on the market which cut waxing time in half. By using a random orbital motion which duplicates gentle hand-polishing 2,500 times a minute, automatic waxer/polishers produce a showroom shine without burning the paint or wearing out your arm!

Use retreaded tires and help the environment

Every year millions of scrap tires add to the billions of tires already overflowing at our landfills. The use of retreaded tires can help to reduce this growing problem. And retreads help conserve oil since tires are mostly petroleum-based. Thanks to retreaded tires. America is able to save over 400 million gallons of oil every year.

Retreaded tires have the same safety and performance characteristics as comparable new tires, which is why retreads are used by every major air line, fire engines and other emergency vehicles, school buses, taxis, all kinds of trucks and millions of automobiles.

Underbody metal components need protection

Henry Ford once said he could produce any car in any color as long as it was basic black.

Early vehicles were equally simple and featured heavy frames, heavy steel components, heavy engines and large free-rolling tires...more for durability than passenger comfort.

Advanced automotive technology has produced new generations of lightweight underbody components. All vehicles on the road today are susceptible to underbody problems, among them compact import cars and light trucks from Japan and other Asian countries, commercial trucks and vans and school buses.

Stones and other highway debris can damage components like floor and truck panels, stamped metal brackets, tie rods, steering linkages, brake lines and unprotected powertrain units.

"The average car owner doesn't see this type of damage because it's out of "notes Dan W. Janssen, president of Ziebart Corporation. "If left unattended, these nicks and scratches could result in costly repairs to the underbody.

What many people also don't realize, Janssen warns, is that the manufacturers recommend underbody maintenance in order to keep their corrosion warranties valid.

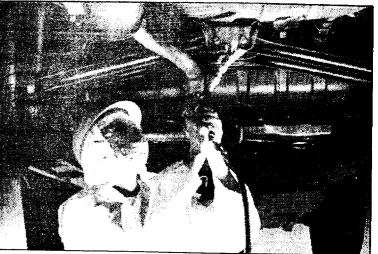

Ziebart recommends professional application of specially formulated undercoating as the best method to eliminate underbody structural damage from flying stones and debris. In addition, undercoating significantly reduces the intrusion of outside road noise, shielding the passenger area from sound.

The company blends natural resins with fillers and special additives to produce a tough, resilient undercoating compound that will not become brittle in extreme cold temperatures nor flow in hotter climates

The compound is applied professionally at specific thicknesses to give maximum protection of critical under-

Janssen says Ziebart undercoating is designed to reduce damage from road abrasion, not to serve as a replacement for rust protection.

"There's some confusion among consumers that undercoating and rust protection are one and the same," he states. "Each process is capable of extending the useful life of a vehicle, however, and we urge vehicle owners to get professional advice to determine the merits of the two applications.

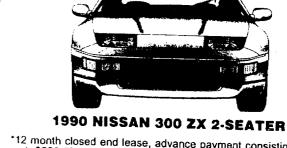

UNDERCOATING protects easily damaged underbody components on vehicles from road abrasion and costly repairs.

Beat the cold by winterizing from the inside out

It's mid-November and the December and January chill is right around the corner, waiting to seep into cracks and crevices.

Those same leaks that let in the chill, let out the heat and literally push heating costs right through the roof.

According to home experts, heating bills during the winter months can be reduced by as much as 30 percent by sealing windows and doors and by installing proper insulation

According to the CertainTeed Home Institute in Valley Forge, Pa., publishers of the "Energy Checklist for Home Comfort and Savings," homeowners across the United States need to learn more about saving energy and need to make extra efforts to improve the energy efficiency of their homes.

At the top of the institute's list is upgrading attic insulation to meet new recommendations by the U.S. Department of En-

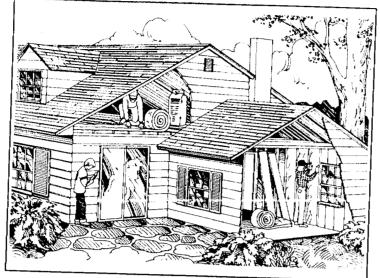

With the proper type and amount of insulation, the strain on home heating (and cooling) equipment can be reduced by as much as 20 percent.

That translates into a reduction of heating costs by roughly the same percentage, depending on the type of home heating system involved.

Unheated areas such as crawl spaces, basements, garages and storage spaces are among the worst heat-loss offenders. If these areas are insulated, cold drafts can be eliminated, making the living spaces more comfortable while using less fuel.

According to the Owens-Corning Fiberglass Corp. of Toledo, the attic is often the most important area to insulate.

This is best done by first installing a six-inch layer of faced insulation, face-down so that the

from reaching the ceiling below.

A second layer (unfaced) should then be installed with insulation strips overlapping in the opposite direction to seal air passages and prevent heat loss.

Attic floors should have a full 12-inches of insulation with an insulating R-value of 19 (6 1/4 inches thick). For exterior walls, R-11 (3 1/2 inches thick) insulation can be installed with the face, or moisture barrier, facing in toward the living space.

Most local building codes require insulation, including the faced variety, to be covered with a wall material such as paneling or drywall.

For more information on insulating, contact Owens-Corning, Fiberglass Tower, Toledo, Ohio, 43659.

Weatherizing, the other 10 percent of the energy saving equation, can be done by caulking and weatherstripping windows and doors.

Much easier than insulating, caulking and weatherstripping are relatively inexpensive and quick to apply.

Because of their location near

> These processes throughout one or more seasons, can cause openings which can let heat out and the cold in.

Begin on the outside, where the outer window frame meets the brick or siding. If a gap is noticeable, use a commercial caulking sealant to plug the opening.

Next, check the putty or glazing to make sure the glass window pane seals against the actual window frame.

If re-glazing is necessary, allow the compound to dry thoroughly and use exterior paint to cover and protect the newly installed putty.

From the inside of the house, check for drafts around windows and, if necessary, use a weatherstripping material to seal the openings.

Some material comes in a pre- $75, Cullen said. formed roll and can be pressed into cracks and removed next

Other types of weather stripping include a felt strip that seals the sill plate and the bottom of the window.

Another way to keep the cold wind out is to install a plastic or temporary storm window.

There are several types of plastic window coverings including the 3M Indoor Window Insu-

Conserve fuel this winter, save money

The average cost of home heating oil has shot up 43 percent since the end of the last heating season, primarily driven up by the Persian Gulf crisis. For those heating with oil this winter, it's time to take some simple steps to conserve fuel and save money.

"One way to reduce fuel consumption up to 10 percent is to have an oil furnace serviced annually," said Robert V. Cullen, AAA Michigan Community Safety Services manager. "A service technician will replace filters, adjust air flows, remove dirt and soot, and clean ignitions and contact points to improve furnace efficiency.

A service call costs around

Other energy and cost saving tips provided by AAA Michigan and the Michigan Public Service Commission include:

Furnaces that operate at less than 70 percent efficiency may be improved up to 15 percent by purchasing a retrofit. A retrofit involves replacing the old burner with a new high efficiency flame retention burner, replacing the combustion chamber lining and sealing air leaks into the chamber. A retrofit costs $500 and up. Current levels of furnace efficiency can be checked by a service technician.

 Insulation can reduce the load on heating equipment by as much as 30 percent. The benefits of investing a few hundred dollars in insulation can last for years. Homeowners should buy the thickness of insulation that provides the best R-value, a number which indicates the amount of resistance the insulation will provide against winter heat loss or summer heat gain. Fiberglass blanket insulation retains an R-factor of 3.1 per inch.

Insulating walls with 3.5 inches of insulation creates an acceptable insulating factor of R-11. (One-inch styrofoam retains a factor of R-5 to R-8, depending on the type.)

· Caulking and weatherstripping doors and windows can save up to 10 percent in annual energy costs. Do-it-yourself materials cost about $25 for the average home.

 Woodburning stoves and fireplaces, which cost between $700 and $2,000, are a popular supplement to oil furnaces. Savings in energy can be as high as 80 percent. "Before using either of these heating sources, however, homeowners must take precautions to avoid home fires." Cullen said. Last year in Michigan, woodburning stove, fireplace and chimney fires were responsible for nearly $8 million in dam-

Over the years their homes have become too large and difficult to maintain and until now, the Grosse Pointe area has offered very few alternatives to people who want to change their homes, not their lifestyle.

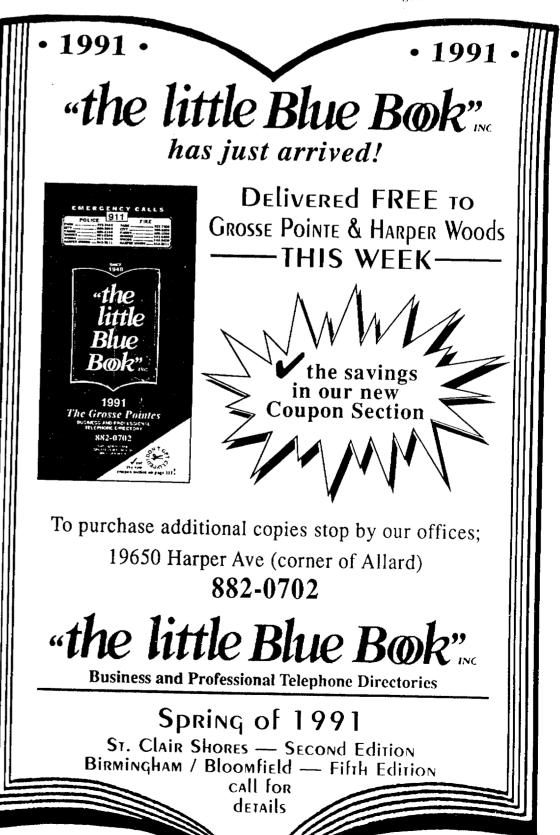

The Blake Company has created the alternative, Harbor Place: a luxurious condominium community located on the shore of Lake St. Clair, near everything you hold dear.

Designed with traditional New England architecture with an emphasis placed on privacy, security and scenic beauty. The Blake Company ... the new Grosse Pointe tradition.

First Thanksgiving feast included native-grown foods

Plymouth Colony was a man of many abilities. Somehow, one does not expect him to be a poet as well as the hardboiled leader of a diversified group of people.

But poet he was, and in a verse written about 1640, he describes the first years in this country: "Famine we had most sore, but other things God gave us in full store."

It is, in all, a rather remarkable poem. In rhyme, and with somewhat doubtful meter, it lists all the fish, game, fruits, vegetables, nuts and everything else edible he could think of which this country provided its first settlers.

It is common knowledge that Thanksgiving began in New England and was a celebration of gratitude by the Pilgrims for being alive and prospering after the first year of starvation and disease. The first Thanksgiving was a party lasting several days during which the Pilgrims and their Indian guests feasted on fish, game (including wild turkeys) and deer that had been cooked in the open air. Tradition has it that the Indians introduced popcorn to the American

The Puritans were opposed to the observance of Christmas, which they regarded as a Catholic custom. During the Colonial period, therefore, Christmas was not a New England holiday except in Rhode Island. For the Orthodox Puritan, Thanksgiving took the place of Christmas as a time of festivity.

By the end of the 17th century. Thanksgiving had become once wrote his daughter, Sarah, a regular annual holiday. (Later, in Victorian New England, New Year's Day was the time for giftgiving rather than Christmas, which was only for religious observance.)

Cider was the most common beverage in the early colonies and inheriting barrels of cider was as common as inheriting furniture or other household items. Every family made its own cider, as apples were plentiful, and a small cider press was standard equipment in most

The origin of the name "turkey" for our holiday bird has many explanations. One of the most reasonable is that it comes from the Indian name for this bird, turkee. Benjamin Franklin that he wished the bald eagle was not our national bird. "The turkey is a much more respectable bird and withal a true native of America," he wrote.

Garden SHED

By Ellen Probert

It seems fitting that cranberries, the inevitable accompaniment to Thanksgiving turkey, should come from New England where both the holiday and its food originated. Cranberries were well known to the Indians of the region who used them in a variety of ways. Many kinds of nuts were also found there and were a valuable source of protein to the early settlers. Butternuts, not often found anymore, were a special treat. Harvesting butternuts today is done exactly the same way it was done by the Indians and the early colonists. The nuts are gathered in baskets, spread out to dry in a warm, dry attic or garage, and then stored in a squirrel-proof place. They will keep nicely for several years.

Sometimes butternut trees were tapped in the same way that maple trees were, for the sweet sap which could be boiled down into syrup or sugar.

November, in the Indian calendar, is known as the month of the mad moon, when, as the poem says, "The north wind doth blow; and we shall have snow; and what will the poor robin do then, poor thing?"

Most of us know perfectly well what he will do. In fact, he has already done it, and is even now enjoying the sunny southland.

All the birds have not left us. Many remain all winter and all of them appreciate the seeds and grains we provide in our bird feeders or scattered near our back doors. They also enjoy the lumps of suet tied to tree branches in our gardens.

If you have a garden, you ought to give the winter birds a regular gift of food as a thankyou offering for the good service they provide during the summer. This is the time of year when we often have an interval of balmy, sunny weather known as Indian summer. Inquiries as to the origin of this name bring out a remarkable variety of explana-

One is that this lovely time of year, called St. Martin's sum. mer, or Martinmas, in England had its name changed to Indian summer by the same New Eng. land Puritans who objected to Christmas because the English name sounded popish. Another theory is that this was the favorite time of year for marauding bands of Indians to sally forth on scalping raids and massacres. since they could be well camouflaged by the changing colors of autumn foliage.

In the Chinese flower calendar the gardenia is the flower for November. Gardenias, or cape jasmine as they are sometimes called, originated in China and are also native to Japan and South Africa. They are named for Dr. Alexander Garden, who developed the variety most used by florists for its velvety white petals and sweet, heavy scent.

Sept. home sales fall

The sales pace for previouslyowned homes fell in September to the lowest level since early 1988, reflecting growing consumer skepticism over the nation's economic stability, according to the National Association of Realtors.

The association recorded a seasonally adjusted annual sales rate of 3.22 million existing single-family homes last month, the slowest pace since January 1988. when the pace was 3.20 million units. The September rate was 8.0 percent below the revised August rate of 3.50 million units, and 8.3 percent below the September 1989 pace. Month-tomonth resale rate declines were recorded in each of the regions except the Northeast, which posted no change in activity.

According to NAR President Norman D. Flynn, economic turmoil has been fueled by uncertainty over the impact of federal budget legislation, compounded by the Persian Gulf situation.

"Consumers don't know what to expect. When people don't know what's coming, they tend to delay big-ticket expenditures. Many of them put their home buying plans on hold," Flynn

The Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp. reported that the national average commitment rate for 30-year, conventional, fixedrate mortgages hovered between 10.19 percent and 10.22 percent during September. In general, rates remained higher than during the first half of the year.

A drop in the national median home price between August and September shows that the people who stayed in the market purchased homes in a lower price range, Flynn noted. The national median existing-home price was $94,300 in September, down 2.9 percent from August.

Flynn pointed out that the slowdown in home sales activity, coupled with lower prices, has created favorable buying conditions in many of the higher-cost areas. "Consumers who are in a position to buy should not be leaving the market. You don't leave the table when you're holding all the good cards. Sellers have adjusted their prices and are willing to bargain." he said.

The national median existinghome price for September remained 0.5 percent above that for one year ago. Year-to-year median price declines in the northeast and west held the annual increase for the national price to a minimum. The median is a midpoint; half the homes sell for more and half sell for less.

A key contributor to the national resale pace decline was a significant sales drop in the South, reflecting depressed activity in markets with a large military population. The deployment of vast numbers of U.S. military troops from Southern bases to the Persian Gulf has directly decreased demand and upset the local economy in those areas, said NAR Chief Economist John A. Tuccillo.

In the South, the resale pace for September was 1.26 million units, down 10.0 percent from August, and down 4.5 percent from one year earlier. The median home price there was $85,900, up 1.9 percent from September 1989, but down 1.2 percent from August.

The midwest posted a resale rate of 920,000 units in September, falling 7.1 percent below the August pace of 990,000 units, which was the highest rate recorded there so far this year. The September rate was 4.2 percent below the pace for September 1989. The median existing-home price there was $74,000, up 2.5 percent from September 1989, but down 1.7 percent from Au-

In the northeast, the west also posted a resale pace of 520,000 units. The September rate was down 8.8 percent from the previous month and was 16.1 percent below the September 1989 pace. The median home price in the West was $134,700, dropping 5.9 percent from one year earlier and falling 3.9 percent from August. The lower median price in the west is indicative of a general shift in activity, from the costly coastal markets in California to less-expensive inland mar-

Sales of existing single-family homes are expected to total 3.31 million units this year, dropping 4.6 percent from 1989.

Family heirloom brass plate to be engraved free with owner's name and date of purchase. Included with all grandfather clocks.

Winterhalder. Reproduction of treasured Miller family heirloom, finished in Sheffield Cherry with crotch mahogany overlays. Cherry with crotch mahogany pediment overlays and mid-base panel. Stunning dial of solid brass is faced with overlaid plates that are deep drawn and etched. These plates are then gold plated, antiqued and polished to a rich bronze patina. Beautiful etching on the dial is repeated on the lyre pendulum and special bands on the weight shells. Beveled glass lower door and upper and lower sides. Howard Miller industryfirst sequential chime movement plays Westminster, St. Michael and Whittington chimes in sequence, or solely. 871/2" tall.

Shelbourne. Oak Yorkshire finished case with bonnet pediment featuring mirrored profile molding and embossed shell overlay. Beveled glass lower door and sides. Decorated glass crystal pendulum. Lighted case features glass-mirrored back. Howard Miller industry-first sequential chime movement plays Westminster, St. Michael and Whittington chimes in sequence, or solely. 821/4" tall.

Milano. Sleek solid cherry cabinet finished in Delaware Cherry. All beveled glass. "Floating" soft-white dial features finely detailed black Roman numerals and is edged by a brass bezel. Case interior features cherry facing and half-round molding. Triple chime movement plays Winchester, Whittington and Westminster chimes with a nighttime silent option. 781/4" tall.

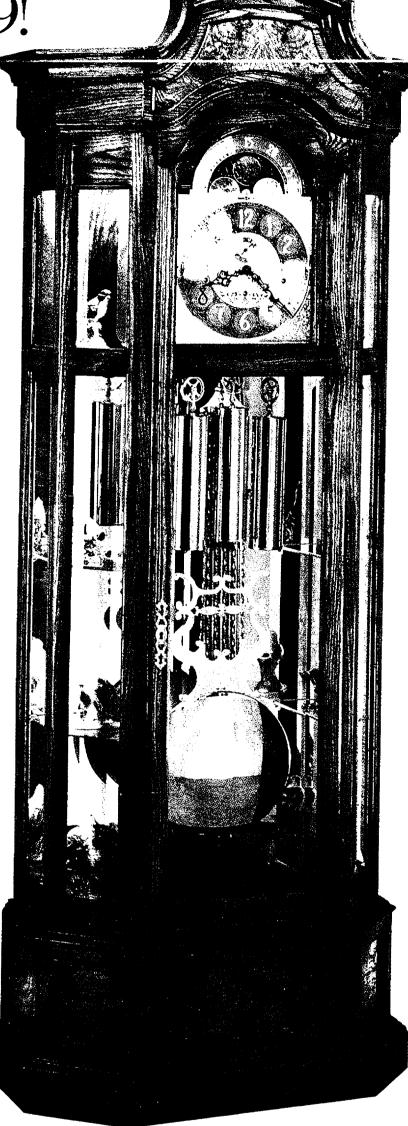

Hartly 64. Handsome 64th anniversary clock finished in Delaware Cherry with fan overlay on cut-out base. Reeded columns capped in brass on top and bottom frame the double grooved glass door and beveled glass side panels. Anniversary dial features astrological blue moon phase with handapplied raised numerals and new etched pattern in center and corner spandrels. Polished brass lyre pendulum lighted by illuminated case. Howard Miller industry-first sequential chime movement plays Westminster, St. Michael and Whittington chimes in sequence, or solely. 80" tall.

RO.TEC.INC.

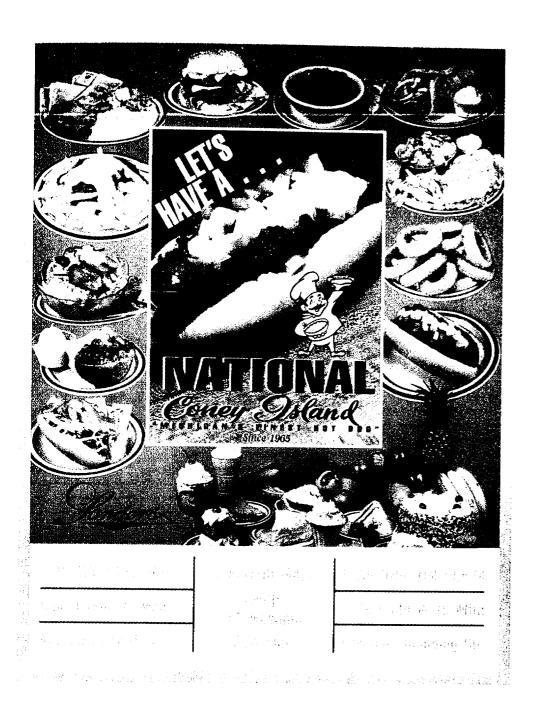

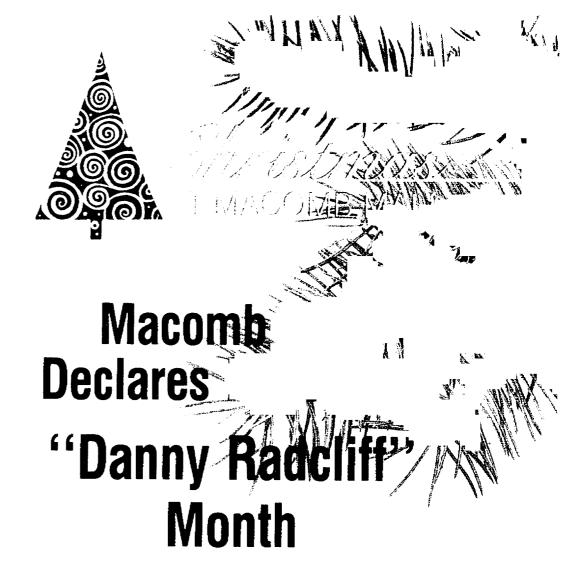

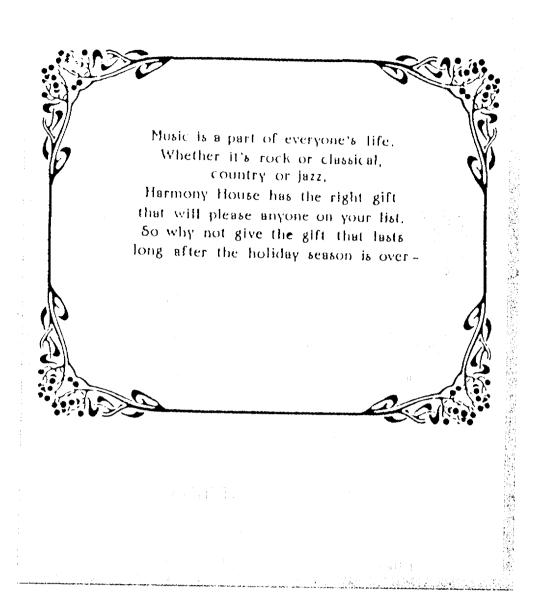

Roseville — Danny Radcliff is a 12 year old Roseville resident, who was diagnosed with Leukemia two years ago. Danny now needs a bone marrow transplant to save his life. To help fight the cost of searching and testing for possible donors, Macomb Mall has declared November as "Danny Radcliff Month at Macomb Mall".

In support of Danny Radcliff Month, Macomb Mall will place canisters in each store to help raise the necessary funds for Danny's search. In addition, Danny will be the special guest of Macomb Mall during the Annual Tree Lighting Ceremony, scheduled for Friday, November 16th at 7:00 p.m.
