The Grosse Pointe War Memorial's list of local men and women who are serving in Operation Desert Storm now comprises 52 names.

Over the past two weeks, 16 people were added to the list:

Norman J. Arends, M.D., is an Air Force reservist, currently serving at Scott Air Force Base in Illinois.

Lt. Dover M. Bell, U.S. Air Force, was stationed in Germany before being deployed to Saudi Arabia in January. A 1984 graduate of Grosse Pointe South High School, he is 24 years old. He and his wife, Laurie, have a 15-month-old son, Jim.

Vito Ciaravino is a Michigan Army National Guard reservist. Ciaravino, 36, was deployed to Saudi Arabia on Jan. 12 and is currently serving in a civilian hospital as a nurse. A 1972 graduate of Grosse Pointe North High School, he has a wife, Evelyn, and five children, ages 12, 11, 8, 5 and 1.

Christopher DeLaere is serving in the Air Force. A 1982 graduate of Grosse Pointe South High School, he is married and has a daughter, Elizabeth.

Anthony J. (Tony) Esperti, is serving in the Army. He was stationed in Germany before being deployed to Saudi Arabia on Dec. 17. A 1985 graduate of Grosse Pointe South High School, he is 24 and has a wife, Chris.

Eric Fordon, 27, has been in the Navy for about five years and is an underwater secialist. He attended Macomb Community College after graduating from Grosse Pointe North High School in 1982.

James F. Gatteno enlisted in the Army in March 1990, and before that, served in the Army Reserves. He was stationed in Germany before being deployed to Saudi Arabia about two weeks before Christmas. A medic, he turned 21 on Feb. 21.

Peter M. Hendrie, a graduate of Grosse Pointe South High School, is in the Navy, stationed aboard the USS McKee. He was deployed to Saudi Arabia on Jan. 18.

Craig Higgins, a 1977 graduate of Grosse Pointe South High School, has been in the Navy for approximately 11 years. He was previously stationed in San Diego and is now aboard the USS Anchorage. He has a wife and two children in San Diego.

Skip Kaal, a 1978 graduate of Grosse Pointe North High School, also has been in the Navy for 11 years. Married, he is stationed aboard the USS Midway and has two daughters.

Joseph Trane McCloud is in the Marines, stationed aboard the USS Missouri.

Jason E. Power, 18, is a 1990 graduate of Grosse Pointe South High School. He enlisted last July and was deployed to Saudi Arabia on Feb. 3. He currently delivers supplies and ammunition to the front lines.

Becky Roberts, a 1982 graduate of Our Lady Star of the Sea High School, is serving in the Air Force.

Ex-Woods man could get 50 years on fraud charges

A former Grosse Pointe Woods man faces up to 50 years in prison after being convicted of fraud and other charges.

John Bruce Hubbard, 45, was convicted Feb. 12 after a twoweek trial in U.S. District Court in Ann Arbor on charges of bankruptcy fraud, mail fraud and causing false statements in a matter before a federal government department.

Hubbard was convicted of four counts of testifying falsely under oath in four creditor hearings held during 1985 and 1986 in connection with his bankruptcy case. The trial evidence established that Hubbard's false testimony during the hearings was designed to conceal his assets from potential attachment by his

Furthermore, Hubbard was convicted of causing his bankruptcy attorney to file two partially false pleadings in the bankruptcy case by supplying his unwitting attorney with false information.

Finally, Hubbard was convicted of three counts of mail fraud regarding his submission of a fraudulent insurance theft claim related to his boat and the submission of fraudulent documents regarding an out-of-state bank loan he obtained through the submission of false and fraudulent documents.

Hubbard's sentencing is scheduled for May 21 before U.S. District Judge George LaPlata in Ann Arbor.

According to U.S. Attorney Stephen J. Markman, Hubbard faces a maximum sentence of up to 50 years in prison and fines totaling $2.5 million.

The case was investigated by the FBI. Hubbard was indicted by a federal grand jury last July, at which time he was a Woods

Schools say no to D.A.R.E.

The decision not to offer D.A.R.E. - Drug Abuse Resistance Education — to students in Grosse Pointe schools has disappointed the Grosse Pointe Woods police, who are touting the program designed to keep kids off

After piloting the program last year, the schools' Curriculum Coordinating Committee reviewed it and while it was a successful trial, they decided not to continue to offer it in the schools.

"It's a good program, and we had a good experience with it, but we had some concerns," said Alfrieda Frost, assistant superintendent for curriculum.

Chief among the concerns was the fact that most of the content in D.A.R.E. is already being taught in the schools through the Michigan Model Health Pro-

"Some schools are using it," she said. "But my guess is they don't have the comprehensive curriculum we have.'

D.A.R.E. is taught in either fifth or sixth grade — whichever grade is the elementary school's last year. The concept is to teach students to say no to drugs. The idea is that if the demand is reduced, the supply will slow

D.A.R.E. is taught by a trained police officer who gives the students information about alcohol and drug abuse resistance, helps them develop decision-making skills, discusses ways to resist peer pressure and gives alternatives to drug use.

"D.A.R.E. is a program that requires the schools use all of it, or none of it," Frost said. "It requires us to use 17 hours of classtime which makes it prohibitive when looking at the elementary curriculum when we already teach the same things."

Susan Pearce was on the committee that decided not to offer the program. Pearce is a student assistance coordinator at Grosse Pointe South High School. There were several reasons, in addition to the classtime issue, that led to the decision.

"While D.A.R.E. has many valuable components, the elementary steering committee and the substance abuse specialists recommend that the curriculum not be adopted in its present form because it fails to meet the elementary substance abuse steering committee guidelines, a report by the committee said. The concerns were:

• While the information was current and appropriate for the age group, it does not address the topics of alcoholism as a disease or issues relating to child-

• There is no staff involvement, although the teacher must be in the room during all presentations. • There is a limited number of officers who are trained to offer the program, so there are a limited number of schools which can take advantage of the program.

ren of alcoholics.

· The lessons are offered in one grade only so they cannot be coordinated or built upon in succeeding years.

The committee suggested the schools use the program as a lunchtime enrichment opportunity, or as an after-school club, but because of D.A.R.E. regulations those are not options.

Basically we decided that we didn't want to take on a program that couldn't be offered in all schools and where we have no control over either staffing or curriculum," Pearce said.

While Pearce said officer Sally Beghin - who taught the pilot program at Mason Elementary School and at Our Lady Star of the Sea - has great rapport with the students and is enthusiastic about D.A.R.E., she may be replaced or get another position and there are no guarantees that her replacement will be as

Additionally, Pearce says that the program was developed for inner city youths and some of it is "not a great fit" for students with the Grosse Pointe socio-economic background.

Beghin and Woods Public Safety Director Jack Patterson hear the concerns, but can't understand why the program wasn't given a chance.

Developed in Los Angeles in 1984, the program has swept the country. More than 1.5 million children go through the program each year.

"People across the country are just crying for D.A.R.E.," Beghin said. "Those school districts who aren't involved in it want to be, but don't have the money."

Patterson said that while teachers have an impact on teaching students self-respect and how to say no to drugs, a uniformed police officer offers a new voice and a voice of authority. Keeping kids off drugs means fewer crimes because most crimes are drug-related, he said.

"We strongly believe in this program," Patterson said. "We, in this community, have always been proactive in fighting crime. We want to prevent crime, not treat it after it happens. It's much less expensive to have Sally here now than to deal with the crime later. We're getting our money and then some out of Beghin considers it an investment in the future of the com-

"And it doesn't cost the school district anything, so if we're willing to go that extra mile, why not let the program go for two or three years, then evaluate it," Patterson said.

But Pearce says the class time spent on information that is already covered is not worth further study.

"We can't just take what we're given and accept the rigid guidelines imposed by D.A.R.E.,' she said. "We believe there is another, better way to get this information across.

City approves curbside recycling; not all residents happy with plan

A curbside recycling plan was approved by the Grosse Pointe City Council Monday night, but not all the residents were

The City joined the Farms, Park and Harper Woods in approving a weekly curbside recycling bid from Waste Management Inc. The bids were sought by the Grosse Pointes-Clinton Incinerator Authority. Waste Management was the lowest bid-

The authority sought the recycling bids on behalf of Harper Woods and all the Pointes except the Woods in an effort to get a lower cost per household than each city could have received by seeking individual bids.

The Woods acted independently last year and contracted its own private garbage hauler and curbside recycling company.

At a special meeting Monday night, several residents among the some 25 who attended balked at paying extra for curbside recycling. Some of the residents also believed weekly curbside collection of recycling was too frequent. They favored biweekly or monthly collection.

Waste Management's threeyear bid for weekly curbside recycling in the City came to 51.46 cents per household per week, or $26.74 a year. By the third year of the contract, the cost will be up to 56.84 cents per household per week, or $29.56 a year.

One resident said he was retired and living alone and does

Another resident said she could not understand why the city has to pay someone to pick up recyclables. She pointed out that years ago the junk man used to collect cloth items and turn around and sell them for profit, and he didn't make residents pay him for collecting the

"Why are we paying them (Waste Management) when they in turn are going to make great profit from this?" she asked.

City Manager Thomas Kressbach explained that the revenue received by Waste Management for the recyclables is not great enough to cover the company's labor, equipment and transportation costs associated with collecting the recyclables.

In response to the request for biweekly or monthly collection, Kressbach said Waste Management's bid was based on weekly collection in the four Pointes and Harper Woods and that deviating from weekly collection would be more expensive.

He indicated that collecting every other week probably would not result in cutting the recycling cost in half.

Another resident favored recycling but he didn't like the hassle of having to prepare the recyclables, such as washing out cans and removing the labels. not generate enough recyclable He said there must be technology that can prevent such has-

Councilman Dale Scrace pointed out that while there may be such technology available, none of the bidders had it, and even if it was available, it would be more costly to residents.

Kressbach and Administrative Assistant Chris Bremer pointed out that federal regulations and state and county laws have mandated that some kind of recycling efforts be in place by 1992 or sooner and that the city has no choice but to go into recy-

The city recently sent postcards to its 2,465 households asking whether they wanted curbside recycling. Some 33 percent of the households responded, and of those, 77 percent favored curbside recycling, 21 did not and the rest returned the survey cards without checking a

There was some discussion as to how the residents would be charged for curbside recycling. Some residents favored paying the $58,000 net citywide cost of recycling with taxes, but Scrace pointed out that owners of expensive homes would be paying several times more for the same weekly pickup than would owners of less expensive properties.

Following the discussion, the council accepted Waste Management's bid for weekly curbside recycling and approved costs to be added to the water bills.

Councilman Peter Waldmeir cast the only vote opposed to the recycling plan. After the meeting he said he believed some of the residents' questions were not addressed and he was concerned that the Waste Management contract does not adequately mandate that the recyclables be actually recycled rather than dumped into landfills.

The Waste Management bid also stipulates that all the City's recyclables be picked up on one day, and not necessarily on a day that the Department of Pubbage pickups.

With the acceptance of the Waste Management bid by the City, Farms, Park and Harper Woods, curbside recycling should begin in the four communities by the end of June or early July. Grosse Pointe Shores originally stipulated in a bid for its city that recyclables be picked once a week from residents' ga-lic Works makes its regular gar- rages, but the bids came back twice as expensive as the curbside recycling bids. The Shores has since solicited new bids based on curbside pickup on a weekly and biweekly basis. The Shores plans to have its new bids back in time to begin curbside recycling by the beginning of July. If so, then all the Pointes should be participating in curbside recycling.

Shores residents want recycling

By John Minnis

Assistant Editor Nearly all Shores residents want recycling and two out of three want curbside pickup, according to a recent survey.

The Village of Grosse Pointe Shores mailed questionnaires to all households recently. The response rate was 70 percent.

Village Manager Michael Kenyon said he was quite pleased with the results. "They want to tell you what they think," he

What the residents think was made quite clear:

1) Pickup of recyclables should be bi-weekly or once a month.

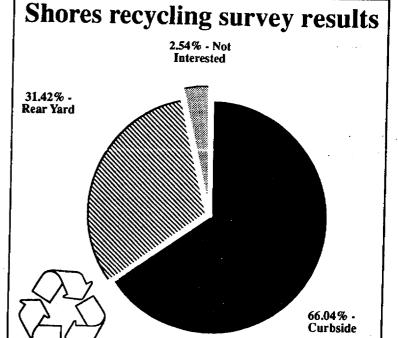

2) The cost for recycling should be added to taxes.

3) Recyclables should be picked up at the curb.

Of those responding to the survey, 66.04 percent (494 households) favored curbside pickup of recyclables; 31.24 percent (235 households) favored rear-yard pickup and 2.54 percent (19 households) did not want any recycling program.

Because the residents overwhelming wanted curbside recycling, the Shores recently rejected bids from Waste Management Inc. for once-aweek, rear-yard pickup of recycl-

So far, the Park, Farms and Harper Woods have approved the bids for weekly curbside pickup of recyclables by Waste Management. The City is awaiting results of its own survey and public input at a special meeting that was held last Monday night.

The Shores is seeking new bids for bi-weekly, curbside pickup of recyclables. Kenyon said the bids should be returned in time for the Shores to join the other Pointes and Harper Woods in curbside recycling, beginning picked up. in July.

The Shores also rejected the Waste Management bids for rear-yard pickup because they curbside pickups. The cost for Waste Management to go weekly into Shores residents' garages to pick up recyclables was $1.63 a week per household. Curbside pickup was 70 cents a week.

The Shores is also seeking to have curbside pickup done on the same day as the regular garbage pickup. No pickup of recyclables would be scheduled on Fridays to eliminate the risk of items for recycling sitting at curbs over the weekend if for some reason they were not

Kenyon said the Shores has not decided whether to pay the cost of curbside recycling with taxes or to charge a fee and, perwere twice as high as those for haps, add it to the water bill.

Tuck fund donates money to CFSM

By Ronald J. Bernas

A new support organization for the Community Foundation for Southeastern Michigan has been formed with funds from the recently disbanded Katherine Tuck Fund.

The Tuck fund, which had been in existence since the 1930s, was disbanded in accordance with the instructions of founder, Grosse Pointe resident Katherine Tuck. The $6 million remaining in the fund at the time of the dissolution was used to create a new foundation, The Grayling Fund, which will be used to support the Community Foundation for Southeastern Michigan.

It is the largest single donation ever given to the founda-

"This is an exciting thing," said Mariam C. Noland, president of the Community Foundation. "There aren't many people who give $6 million to one organization.

The board of directors for the Grayling Fund — which includes Peter P. Thurber as president, Joseph L. Hudson Jr. as vice president, George E. Parker III as vice president, Richard B. Gushee, Dean E. Richardson, Barbara C. Van Dusen, Jonathan T. Walton and Mariam C. Noland as secretary-treasurer has yet to decide how the money will be disbursed.

The long-term plan of the Grayling board is to merge the fund fully into the Community Foundation. Because Tuck wanted her foundation to do its work without a lot of publicity, she instructed that it not be continued indefinitely after her death, said Thurber, a member of the Tuck Fund board of trustees for 25 years.

The Grayling Fund took its name from the now-extinct grayling fish that used to thrive in the Great Lakes, Thurber

"Mrs - Tuck - established - the fund in the 1930s, when it was known as the Katherine Douglas Fund," he said. "During her lifetime she was the moving and guiding spirit of the Tuck Fund. She had definite ideas as to who were appropriate beneficiaries of Those beneficiaries included many educational institutions, such as Julliard, St. Péter's Home for Boys, the Detroit Institute for Children and Leader Dogs for the Blind. The fund also made substantial donations to the arts.

Because Tuck was never interested in publicity, no formal biography of her nor history of the Tuck Fund has been written, but Thurber remembers her as "a gracious, warm person who did a lot of good with this foundation and with a number of gifts she made on her own."

Noland said the fund will be major boon to the foundation and the entire southeastern Michigan community.

With the addition of the Grayling Fund, the financial assets of the Community Foundation exceed $28 million. Since it began, the foundation has made more than 1,500 grants totaling more than $8.5 million to hundreds of charitable projects and organizations.

The foundation is governed by a 45-member volunteer board of trustees

While crime is not as prevalent in suburban areas as it is in the inner city, crime occurs more often than we like to think. The imaginary wall of safety is just that. Crime exists everywhere.

Another proposal has recently come forth. Law enforcement professionals have traditionally advised people under attack to "submit and stay alive."

Spurred by the ever-increasing incidence of crime, however, this theory of submission has been replaced by a cry to "fight back." Some of the measures suggested include pick-proof locks, complex electronic devices, security guards in housing developments, block associations and neighborhood patrols.

Unfortunately, none of these measures are foolproof. Most burglars do not pick locks. They

Such defenses as mace, eye irritants and rolled up newspapers are possibly good weapons, but often the victim never has an opportunity to use them. The victim is not prepared for the attack, the criminal is, and more likely will grab the weapon and use it on the victim.

City vows restraint on tax hikes

iven the current economic conditions in the United States, the war in the Persian Gulf and horrendous budget deficits for both our state and federal governments, the City of Grosse Pointe and other local governments must consider these factors as they determine directions for the year 1991.

The forthcoming City budget will have the typical consumer price index (CPI) cost increases for existing programs. It will also reflect funding already committed such as the City's share of the costs to fight the expansion of Detroit City Airport, the reduction in state-shared revenues due to state budget cutbacks, and revenue cuts due to population census loss.

State equalized valuation (SEV) of properties in the City will increase about 11 percent this year as mandated by the state and executed by Wayne County. This shows property values were still increasing during the measurement period, ending March 1990. Importantly, this means local taxing units (Wayne County, Grosse Pointe Public Schools and the City) must carefully consider their budgets so they do not automatically pass this assessment increase on to the local taxpayer as higher property taxes. The Grosse Pointe Council has consistently shown restraint by adopting budgets and tax rates which have been near and often below the CPI and general inflation rate and also well within the "Headlee moral and legal" tax limitations.

)pinion

A new program now under consideration is weekly curbside recycling. Early results of an opinion survey show City residents favor this program by more than 3 to 1. Joint bids to provide recycling by a private contractor were taken by the Grosse Pointes Clinton Refuse Disposal Authority on behalf of the City, the Farms, the Shores and Harper Woods. To date, Harper Woods, the Park and the Farms have voted to institute the program. The Grosse Pointe City Council will have held a special meeting on this matter Feb. 25. If initiated, it is anticipated the program would be paid for by a user fee or quarterly utility bills rather than increasing property taxes.

Citizens have asked if the sale of recycled materials would pay for the program. Unfortunately, the answer is no. The cost of recyclables pick up, sorting, transporting and marketing far exceeds the income from the sale of recycled materials. In some instances, the contractor must pay recycling facilities to take the material. Even with some savings from reduced incineration expenses, there is still a substantial net cost to recycle.

Two new advisory commissions are actively at work. They are the Beautification Commission chaired by Frederick Neuman and the Parks and Recreation Commission chaired by Chuck Witzke. Eleven new trustees have been elected to the Board of Trustees of The City of Grosse Pointe Foundation. The 16-member board, headed by Hudson Mead, is working on projects and fundraising activities for 1991.

Volunteer work by the arbitrary commission members and foundation trustees and the tax-deductible contributions to the City of Grosse Pointe Foundation will significantly improve our city's amenities and quality of life.

All in all, 1991 promises to be a busy and interesting year!

Mayor Lorenzo D. Browning City of Grosse Pointe

Woods prepared for federal cuts

he coupled effects of the Persian Gulf crisis, a national recession, cost of the S&L bailout, anticipated additional foreign aid commitment at the conclusion of the Persian Gulf crisis, as well as the trade deficit, will result in less funding by the federal government for both state and local governments. The proposed fiscal year 1992 federal budget proposal reflects this reduction and proposes a shifting of federal dollars to the states to replace federal involvement in local concerns.

Additionally, the proposed reduction in the state budget will most assuredly result in less state funding for local programs. Less federal and state funds for local government will result in a number of municipalities facing a financial crisis in terms of being able to deliver both essential services and preferred services.

The specific impact upon the Grosse Pointes will be far less severe because they have had the ability and the foresight to not rely heavily upon state and federal funds.

In reference to the city of Grosse Pointe Woods, the policy of our city has been to base our budget for essential services only upon revenue sources other than state and federal funds, which means that even without federal and state funds the city of Grosse Pointe Woods foresees no financial difficulties in providing the same standard of services, both essential and preferred. The only federal funding realized by the city of Grosse Pointe Woods is through Community Development Block Grant funds which are not an integral part of our anticipated revenues.

Crime down, here is a good feeling about city services in Grosse Pointe Park. Crime statistics are most favorable - major crime has dropped over 46 percent in the past five years. On every commercial street - Jefferson, Kercheval and Mack attractive new streetscape improvements are most obvious and there is a continuous renewal and restoration of our housing stock. In fact, many homes are far more attractive and comfortable today than when originally built.

In spite of the national and local economy, the housing market in Grosse Pointe Park is strong and active. It will hold values better than most newer suburbs. The Grosse Pointe communities have created a unique niche in the real estate market. When you combine the excellent school system, the recreational facilities, including marinas, and the low incidence of crime, you have a desirable ambience for families with children.

In Grosse Pointe Park, the city's portion of your tax bill has risen far less than the rate of inflation for the past 10 years. We were especially delighted with our positive national publicity in Money Magazine (January 1991) which extolled the virtues of our city and the good value our residents receive.

The residents of the Park have confidence in their council. There is excellent communication between the government and its citizens. For example, at a recent council meeting, our residents filled the council chamber and urged recycling for rubbish. The council and city manager responded with an interim recycling center and are working toward a long-range

Additionally, the city of Grosse Pointe Woods has diligently pursued a Capital Improvement Program which has resulted in its infrastructure (streets, water mains, sewers, etc.) being exceptionally well maintained. The extent of the reduction in state revenue sharing funds will determine how intensely the city of Grosse Pointe Woods pursues its current Capital Improvement Program, but due to the excellent condition of our infrastructure, the city of Grosse Pointe Woods would be in a position to defer some of the capital improvement projects contemplated, if necessary, due to reduced revenues.

From a philosophical standpoint, reduced reliance upon the federal and state governments by municipalities is preferred, provided that the state and federal governments reduce the tax commitment placed upon our residents and return to municipalities the ability to effectively address their own problems, concerns and priorities, without being dependent upon fund-method of recycling. Also, earlier this year there was considerable apprehension over Detroit City Airport expansion. Again, the council chamber was filled to capacity with residents and the council directly considered this concern. Council members are fully involved in quickly addressing local issues and seeing to it that our community environment is preserved.

Another recent example of this is the new "adventure playground" which is being sponsored by a local group of residents with the council's blessing.

Additional significant improvements are in store for both Patterson Park and Windmill Pointe Park. More parking areas and an attractive entrance to Windmill Pointe Park are slated for this spring. Over the past three years we have spent nearly $1 million on park improvements.

As always, our excellent neighborhood schools are of paramount importance to the community. We urge all Grosse Pointe residents to carefully review any current proposals coming out of Lansing that would change the funding or the neighborhood characteristics of our schools.

There are more Park volunteers than ever. They create a community that has a heart for improving and upgrading all its facilities and services. The vigor of the Park Foundation and the various permanent communities on beautification and recreation ensure that our residents will enjoy a better community than ever in the future.

> Mayor Palmer T. Heenan Grosse Pointe Park

The concerns of the Grosse Pointes regarding reduced federal and state funding for the municipalities will be primarily in terms of how it affects the surrounding communities and those communities' response to such reductions in funding. The primary concerns would be in terms of whether the reduced funding would result in increased crime rates in surrounding communities and its effect upon the surrounding communities' infrastructure and property values and its corresponding effects upon the Grosse Pointes.

ing by other governmental agencies.

- Mayor Robert E. Novitke Grosse Pointe Woods

Farms taced difficult issues he Farms City Council was faced with several difficult issues in the last two years. Some were resolved, some will be resolved in 1991, and others will take more time. Pointe voters rightfully had the opportunity to resolve the issue of the proposed new library at the Brownell site on Feb. 4. The proposal was defeated soundly. The Farms council, faced with a site plan legally conforming to all requirements of the zoning ordinance, could not properly consider factors which may have been behind the voters' rejection of the proposal, such as cost, loss of play fields or alternatives, or expansion of the existing library.

On Feb. 14, the courts decided the question of the validity of deed restrictions on the residence purchased by the War Memorial. The property was rezoned from residential to community service by the council last year. Based upon advice of the Farms' attorney that a deed restriction was a private matter, the council was prohibited by state laws from becoming involved.

Although the trial traffic plan for the southern portion of the Farms was to have been resolved in January, traffic counts and comments from residents illustrated the need for further review. Consequently, traffic patterns will continue to be tested and a final decision should be made later in the year. Traffic flow problems are a nowin situation, but decisions must be made in the best interests of the entire commun-

The "Adopt An Island" program to continue the improvements along Lakeshore Road medians is being promoted by the Farms Foundation and will be under way in 1991. Anyone wishing information can contact the foundation at Farms' City Hall, 885-6600.

A new Farms Historical Advisory Commission was approved by the council in 1990 following completion of an extensive study. The commission held its first meeting on Feb. 13.

One trend started about five years ago was greater cooperation between the Pointes and Harper Woods. The mayors and city managers meet regularly to discuss areas of mutual concern. Positive results to date have been the Mayors' Prayer Breakfast, various recycling efforts and opposition to the airport expansion. Expanded cooperation among the Pointes will be necessary in the future for cost-effective operations for all the cities.

Curbside recycling is an excellent example of cooperation. Several of the Pointes and Harper Woods joined together to minimize duplication of effort and to maximize cost effectiveness in soliciting bids from private contractors. Curbside pickup for recycling should begin in the Farms on July

The problems of the Farms and the other Pointes are minor when compared to the problems facing the world with the Persian Gulf war. The lives of Pointe residents in 1991 and beyond will be affected more by external forces such as the war, recession, budget deficits at the national and state levels, school financing reforms and problems facing the city of Detroit.

The Farms council has been starting its meetings with a moment of silence to honor the men and women involved in Operation Desert Storm. Let all of us in the Pointes set aside a moment for silence each day to pray for a swift resolution of the Persian Gulf crisis.

 Mayor Joseph L. Fromm Grosse Pointe Farms

Editor's note: Editorial writer/consultant Wilbur Elston invited the mayors of the five Pointes to write guest editorials. Their responses are on this page.

Edifice complex: National character

The scene on the evening news was disturbing. Some of the spectators watching the event cheered. I cried inside.

I loved that building. It was so mite planted in its innards, all of mammoth and close to the sidewalk, it blocked the icy winds for at least a half block, giving passersby a respite from the frigid

I Say Pat Paholsky In my time there was a cafeteria of sorts on the main floor.

It had some vending machines and tables and chairs and a surprisingly inviting interior. In my mind's eye, I see it bathed in a golden light.

It was my refuge. As an older student on campus attending day classes and forced to hang around for a night class, I wasn't comfortable going into any of the bars or restaurants. So I would retreat there with my sandwich from home and my studies.

There was a street poet who frequented the place. For some spare change, he'd recite his latest work. All of his poems consisted of one word, repeated over and over with a different inflection and such sincerity. He was either one of society's unfortunates or a good con.

The building had once been a hotel and later a dormitory before it became an administration building. Sure it was a monster, but it had character.

So when it was decided it had to be leveled because it was too expensive to renovate, I mourned. Now the site will become a parking lot, for crying out loud. What a telling commentary on our society - tear it down and pave it over.

I was reminded of this when I was in Las Vegas a couple of weeks ago. It had only been two years since my last visit, but the changes are significant.

The strip has been lengthened considerably, the older casinos have had elaborate make-overs and the building boom is unparalleled. I think it must be similar to the gold rush days except now the quest is for silver.

My brother told me it's the fastest growing city in the United States. He pointed out a high rise hotel/casino on the strip - very respectable-looking scheduled for demolition. A developer is putting in a theme park on the site. A theme park in Vegas?

We stayed in a newer hotel that had more than 4,000 rooms and some green dragons and merry maids strolling around.

That's another commentary on our society: Bigger is better and adult entertainment should include the kids because the sooner they learn adult ways, the better prepared they will be to compete later.

I don't like any of it. I think a casino should look like a casino. I don't think buildings should be torn down to become parking lots. I think little boys should wear short pants and knickers before they're allowed to wear long pants and little girls should never wear eye shadow and designer clothes.

And if you want to know what I really think, just let them even consider tearing down Old Main on the corner of Cass and War-

Bill of Rights

To the Editor:

The Feb. 14 and 21 issues of the Grosse Pointe News carried letters critical of peace demonstrators.

In the first instance, the writer said he felt demonstrators were "slamming" and hence weakening the United States; the second writer found the dissenters "disturbing" because he felt they were short-sighted. He considered war enobling and thought the allied coalition was involved primarly to prevent another holocaust. He seemed certain that God is on our side and seemed to advise us that loss of life is a fact of war and recommended that we accept this fact passively,

These are very troubling times. It's not easy to decide what to think and do about such serious matters. Critics of peace advocates and nonviolent demonstrators need to be reminded that such activities are a time-honored

U.S. tradition guaranteed by the Bill of Rights in our Constitution. Thomas Jefferson, one of the framers of the Constitution, wrote "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty."

Like many other peace demonstrators, I consider war barbaric and immoral. It is not enobling or inevitable.

Non-violent measures of conflict resolution have been developed to a sophisticated level such as mediation and sanctions. Please remember that most of the casualties of war are unarmed civilians.

Leadership from most of the mainline churches in the United States are active in the anti-war movement. It's good company, but it's not easy - this confrontation; with one's neighbors and fellow citizens who are convinced that they are also right. Let us at least respect one another's right to express opposing opinions.

Fortunate?

To the Editor:

I have been a resident of Grosse Pointe Woods for the past 25 years. Each year my taxes increase due to an increase in state equalized evaluation, millage or both.

George McEachran, the equalization director for the Wayne County Department of Assessment, tries to pacify taxpayers by stating that, "While this is a big jump again for most people, the thing to keep in mind is that this means property values are still on the rise. Not all communities are as fortunate as the Grosse Pointes.'

Letters

per of municiand or the rate iii page 8A

If property values are going up, that doesn't mean that taxes should go up each year. Taxes should be collected in an amount sufficient to provide the necessary services taxpayers want. Collecting more than is required is taxation without representation. The city fathers and the board of education should reduce the millage rate to offset the increase in state equalized valuation.

Rising home values mean nothing to the retiree or citizen on fixed income. Mc-Eachran says the Grosse Pointes are fortunate. Fortunate? Hogwash. Soon we are all going to be so fortunate that we will be forced to sell our homes due to the continued increase in taxes. There is no reason for an annual tax increase to provide for a surplus. Those who feed from the public trough will see to it that it disappears quickly.

The city administrators and the board of education should lower the millage rates to prevent a tax increase. If they choose not to listen to the taxpayers,

Rotten apples spoil the whole region

There are two kinds of Grosse

One kind is out there in the trenches, joining block clubs, volunteering for the PIA, arguing at the council meetings. These are the people who drop by the newsroom with notices of community meetings or letters to the editor, the people who focus mainly on this community.

Grosse Pointe needs them. They are the people who agitate for better libraries and schools and work against outside influences (like incinerators and airports) that they fear will downgrade the community.

The other kind lives in Grosse Pointe, but treads a larger stage. Community leaders in the metropolitan sense, socialites, international business people, philanthropists, leaders in state government, the people you might read about in the New York Times. Grosse Pointe has rather more of the second kind than most communities. These are your Fords, your Ferrys, your Williamses. They are your Anita Bakers, who brought a little luster to Preppy Town when she won a Grammy last week.

Grosse Pointe needs them, too. They bring a wider world view and some excitement. Grosse Pointe has a third kind of citizen, now that I think about it: the person who works there and takes a participatory interest in what goes on.

People in my town are getting accustomed to hearing me hold up the Hill as a model. Yeah. the Hill, with all its traffic and problems, its possibilities, its potential solutions, and its promise they all apply to my town, too.

That was probably me you saw last spring, pacing off the sidewalk to find out how much space you need for both pedestrians and trees.

With the number of people inside and outside the Pointes who take an interest in matters beyond their geographical boundaries, you'd think we'd all be used to looking at the bigger picture. To put it in our own frame of reference, you'd think that regionalism would be an established fact in southeastern Mich-

Grosse Pointe barely has jostling room for the throng of industrialists and bankers who understand that their own health depends on the health of the region. Grosse Pointe is standing room only for lawyers and politicians who take a statewide view to social problems.

So why is regionalism still such a dirty word?

Last week, leaders from Oakland County, where sprawl is the worst, got together to see what they could do about it.

Talking about it is better than not talking about it; better late than never also applies. But I'm one real discouraged camper when it comes to regional approaches to limiting urban sprawl. I mean, just look around we're in a serious mess.

As long as I've lived in metro Detroit - and that's going on 26 years now - SEMCOG has been trying to wake us up to the benefits of a regional approach to transportation, water, sewers and development. And we have refused to pay attention. Macomb County even shot the messenger by dropping out of SEM-COG for 15 years.

As people in seven counties scream about retaining local control, development careens across the landscape, crowding streets and schools, overloading utilities and sewers, forcing taxes up while, back in the urban center, population drops, industry leaves, taxes rise and the infrastructure deteriorates.

Yikes. Possibly the one incident that awoke metro Detroiters to the mess they are making is the Auburn Mills megamall plan. Court battles slowed the plan for a while, but as things stand now, the developers can start more or less when they feel like it - because there are no laws establishing a regional say-so. Karen Kendrick-Hands, a Grosse Pointer who has taken an abiding interest in trying to stop the megamall, writes about it in the current issue of the newsletter from the East Michigan Environmental Action Council.

She points out that state and federal taxpayer dollars will eventually be spent to provide adequate roads. Less widely understood is what she has to say about pollution:

"The mall's impact on air quality due to auto emissions will be much greater than that of any municipal solid waste incinerator, including Detroit's, but no one is screaming about air pollution from shopping centers. Based solely on miles driven within the parking lot, the site will generate 3,869 tons of CO per year. That is more than the actual emissions from either the General Motors Central Foundry, the Southeast Oakland Incinerator, or Detroit Edison's Monroe Power Plant.'

Air pollution doesn't respect boundaries. And the instant you cross the Grosse Pointe border, in any direction, the problems created by sprawl are obvious. Grosse Pointe knows that it can't exist as an island. It needs viable areas around it.

So far as I can see, the only people doing well in this situation are the developers and the people selling them the land (who, I tremble to think, are often the same officials in charge of regulating the process).

If movers and shakers are starting to talk about the problem, good. That's where Grosse Pointe comes in, home of people who can look at the big picture and wield enough influence to affect it.

Lake St. Clair at the end of January was at an elevation 574.04 feet above the man water level at Father Point, Quebec, or 28 inches above chart datum. This was about 9 inches above what it was a year ago, and about 6 inches below one month

The January monthly mean level of 574.29 feet was about 17 inches above the long-term average for January. The lake, however, remained about 22 inches below the all-time high January monthly mean level, which was recorded in 1985.

The forecast shows that at the end of February, the level of Lake St. Clair will be about 1 inch below what it was at the end of January. The level of the lake is expected to complete its seasonal decline in February. The water level in July 1991 is expected to be about 8 inches above the long-term average for that month, or about 4 inches above what it was at the same

Teens

To the Editor:

I'm writing to you about the article printed Jan. 24, titled "Youth Conference at Westin Hotel." It interested me that teens were getting more and more involved in teen groups and activities teen groups and activities.

Although the conference was sponsored through the Catholic Youth Organization (CYO), I think for future reference a mixed session or sessions would improve relations among teens and alert them also of violent crimes, drug abuse, and other problems that have arisen and will arise, in their community.

ity.

If teens who are easily influenced need to learn useful ways how to "say no," this program and others will enable them to do so. Programs which involve teens can affect their lives and change their lifestyles in major ways.

Some adolescents feel they already know all about the situations that presently face them and will in future occasions. After discussing it among others, they'll hopefully learn they're wrong and accept new ways to cope with the dilemma of being a teen

Deed vs. zoning To the Editor:

As reported in the Feb. 14 Grosse Pointe News, the Grosse Pointe War Memorial Association's attempt to have its Griffin House property at 40 Lakeshore rezoned from residential to community use ultimately may be based on whether the original deed restrictions take precedence over local zoning laws.

On Feb. 15 Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Michael J. O'Connor issued a decision in support of the deed restrictions over the rezoning passed by the Grosse Pointe Farms City Council. Residents of the Grosse Pointes may be interested in similar events which took place 50 years ago in Detroit's Indian Village Historic District.

Indian Village is a national historic district of 350 homes, the first of which was built in 1895. The district was originally platted by the Cook Farm Company, a limited partnership formed by the heirs of Abraham Cook (1774-1847), who had acquired the land in 1805. The Cook Farm Company was led for many years by Cook's grandson, John Owen Jr. (1861-1924), and after his death by his son, John Owen III (1895-1982). He was a Grosse Pointe Farms resident from 1939 until his death and resided at 168 Stephens Road.

The Cook Farm Company's plat plan of 1893 restricted land use to "... a high grade single private resident district." In 1937 the Indian Village Association was formed in response to homes on Seminole and Iroquois avenues between East Jefferson and Kercheval being used as rooming houses. By early 1940, before Detroit had effective zoning laws, the Indian Village Association had initiated five lawsuits against certain homeowners based on violation of the original deed restrictions. The defendants included some prominent Detroiters as listed in the Social Secretary, who had leased their former residences to the rooming house operators.

The suits were joined by a number of Indian Villagers, many of whose surnames should be recognizable to today's Grosse Pointe residents. Those were Frederick T. DuCharme, Henry T. Ewald, Henry A. Haigh, Lloyd L. Hughes, John Kolle, Carlton Mabley, Eugene O'Brien, Dr. Burt P. Shurly and their wives.

Despite the World War II housing shortage, the plaintiffs were sustained at every court level all the way to the Michigan Supreme Court, which made the final decision in 1944. The Indian Village Association still vigorously takes legal action against anyone who would bend the rules.

The ultimate decision over the Grosse Pointe War Memorial's use of the Griffin house will test the good of community usage vs. individual property rights. Since both causes have merit, it will be interesting to see what the outcome is. In the case of Indian Village, the courts' upholding of individual property rights provided for the survival of a prestigious residential neighborhood.

Talking newspaper

To the Editor:

It's such a tragic thing that the war is going on in the Middle East. We are all so proud of our men and women serving there. The thing most people don't realize is that we can all do something to help.

I think the "talking newspaper" is such a good idea. To put the Grosse pointe News on tape, since it weighs too much in the paper form, updates our men and women in the Persian Guar to what's happening at home. What a fantastic way to show support and appreciation for our troops.

Now people know they can do something for our men and women, too. Hopefully, other communities will soon start making "talking newspapers," too.

Grosse Pointe Wo A little sad

To the Editor:

I'm an 18-year-old Grosse Pointe resident in the United States Marine Corps deployed in December in support of "Operation Desert Storm."

I'm a little sad to be hearing of war protesters. I myself am not excited to be at war. In fact, I despise war, but I wanted to do something for my country and signed the contract. And in doing that, I'm obligated to do what's required of me and I will.

Protesting this war or any war just gets our servicemen killed. Every day we have to read about protesters, which demotivates our American servicemen and women in thinking that the American people aren't behind them, which in turn lowers their concentration on the jobs they have to do and in turn gets good Americans killed.

I can see protesting not to go to war, but during time of war, U.S. troops should be supported. Let them know that the U.S. people are behind them and care about them.

How do you think the parents of U.S. troops feel about people protesting what their children are doing? They have enough stress on them by wondering if their kids are safe and if they'll ever get to see them again.

I was amazed that my fiancee, Jennifer Thomas (Davison, Mich.), who I thought would be against war, wrote to me and said she supports the war "as long as we're at war, we should kick some butt" — words I never thought I'd see coming from her. But it makes us servicemen feel good to know we are supported and helps us to stay in good spirits and do the jobs we are paid to do.

Options

To the Editor:

In the Jan. 10 issue of the Grosse Pointe News I found a very interesting article that greatly concerned me. It was titled "Options for learning disabled" and its main point was to give students with learning disabilities extra help and to develop an individualized high school program for each student. I think this is a great idea and I congratulate the developers of the program.

The program, called "Vocational Education or College," prepares students to exercise their options, which are full-time college, work, or any other sort of activity. This way the program is able to discuss these and other options, and combines both college preparatory courses and vocational classes so the students with learning disabilities have a

I think it would be a good

Former Bug owner discovers '60s are gone forever

The subject of small cars elicits no small amount of conversation among car enthusiasts and those of us who might better be called "appreciators." For sound reasons, young people like them and older people say they do, but don't usually buy them.

Econoboxes, the high-mileage, easy-to-park, hard-to-get into subcompacts in which many of us launched our driving years, are one kind of small car. Another kind begin their pedigrees with names like Porsche, Corvette, Ferrari, Maserati and Lotus. But this piece is not about

This is about econoboxes of today and yesterday. And about their drivers.

Among them is one of my favorite Detroit-based auto writers, a gentleman of the press from whom I learned a lot over the years - not all of it good, perhaps, but always interesting. He maintained a pair of econoboxes at his home in Rosedale Park a Chevrolet Chevette and a Dodge Omni. In fact, he owned two Chevettes in succession. which may be something of a local if not a national record (except for the U.S. Postal Service with its fleets of little white Pontiac T-100s).

One of the important journalistic lessons passed down from this colleague reads: "Don't let facts get in the way of a good story." So no effort will be made to discover if it was two Chevettes or two Omnis or whatever.

Suffice it to say that he liked small cars. Same here, beginning with a 1965 Volkswagen Beetle and running through a recent Plymouth Horizon. So I admit I am a soft touch for these little automotive rascals that have their own ways with their drivers and the road.

Over the past couple of months we had opportunities to drive '91 versions of some econoboxes. They included a Ford Festiva, a Subaru Justy and a Geo Storm. Pretty good looking on the outside, spacious inside, they have highly economical, reliable, the owner's driveway.

fuel-injected engines pulling them around town and are able to keep up with the big boys on the freeway. They have incredible amounts of interior room, their little doors are lightweight and easy to open and close and they are great for parking and running errands.

On the other side of the coin! They are noisy, their windows can be impossible to keep clear of steam and ice in bad weather. they have trouble getting up to speed in a hurry and their back seats aren't recommended for anyone over the age of 6-1/2. All in all, they are good, sensible cars and we will discuss them in more detail in coming weeks. But I am in a philosophical mood now and it is not fair to give them short shrift. As I said, my first econobox love was with a VW Beetle. I had longed for one of these cute little fellows for years. So three years ago a colleague and I drove to Battle Creek to see a Bug collection. It was a bright,

A Beetle, a custom pickup and a VW Thing in the snow on a February morning

This black Beetle eventually made its way into a gorge along cold February Saturday, a day or two after a substantial snowfall. My colleague seemed determined to use his checkbook that day. He claimed he had never liked Beetles much, but thought he might be persuaded this day.

Our host had several gleaming Beetles on the premises, plus a rare Karmann Ghia, a VW Thing and a couple of one of akind pieces. He was as equally determined to part with a Beetle as my colleague was to be separated from his money. The stage was set.

I was invited to drive the black Beetle in question - the one on the sales block. Of course well as to relive some personal history out on the open road. Problem was, neither the Bug collector nor his wife mentioned that the snow at the edge of the curving driveway was actually the rim of their own little version of the Grand Canyon.

The beginning of the test drive was extremely short. The black Bug eased over the edge of this cliff, stopping at about a 45-degree angle from the unseen base of the canyon. In the next scene, the Bug collector was behind the wheel and his wife, my colleague Lincoln or a Mercedes-Benz. and I were pushing with all our might to get that shiny little rear-engine, 40-hp rascal back up full-power-equipped car more apon the driveway.

Once on the Battle Creek thoroughfares, the fun couldn't be recaptured. For one thing, we were totally exhausted from our pushing efforts. The little black Beetle was slow and unresponsive. Had mine been like that? No! Well, maybe. Probably, actually.

Anyway, I was just starting a job in Troy and had a 52-mile

I was anxious to be of service as of it in the dark. The thought of getting stranded on a 10-degree February morning on westbound I-696 in this adorable 25-year-old Beetle was not appealing. We thanked the Bug collector and his wife and headed back to De-

Could I live with a Justy or a Festiva or a Storm? There'd be no concern about getting stranded. Fuel-wise they're easy on the pocketbook when it's time to fill up — but their tanks are so small, you're at the gas station just about as often as with a

And as I get older, I find the comfort of an automatic drive, pealing. My friend claims no one buys a second econobox. Except my colleague who bought another Chevette. And that same friend who bought a second VW Rabbit. But I must admit, that cured him and he began buying old Buick Regals and wouldn't look at anything that didn't have a V-8

I'm afraid I have owned my last VW Beetle. Well, the '60s round-trip daily commute, most are gone, I guess, maybe forever.

Michigan child passenger safety fact sheet 1991

Michigan's Child Passenger Safety Law

Michigan's Child Passenger Safety Law, implemented in 1982, requires that all children under age 4 be buckled up regardless of where they are seated in a motor vehicle.

Children under age 16 are currently required to buckle up when riding in the front seat. However, legislation taking effect in April 1991 will require children under age 16 to wear a safety belt in the rear seat at all times

Child Passenger Safety Facts

• Motor vehicle crashes were the number one cause of death for children under 15 in Michigan during 1989 (Michigan Department of Public Health, 1990)

• In Michigan during 1989, 73 children under age 15 were killed and 10,416 were injured in traffic crashes while riding in a motor vehicle. (Michigan State Police, 1990)

• A 1990 direct safety belt observation study in Michigan found that for children through age three, 78.4 percent were protected by a child restraint seat or a safety belt. For children age 4 through 15, overall restraint use dropped to 39.3 percent. The 4 through 15 age group had one of the lowest safety belt use rates compared to other age groups. (University of Michigan Transportation Research Institute, 1990)

 The most dangerous place for a baby to ride in a motor vehicle is in an adult's lap. Even in a minor crash, the child is torn from the adult's arms and can be crushed against the dashborad. The safest place for a child is in the rear seat of a vehicle, correctly buckled into a child safety seat. (National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, 1990)

· Safety belts have been proven to prevent deaths by 40 to 50 percent and reduce serious injuries by 45 to 55 percent in motor vehicle crashes. (National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, 1984)

 Correctly used child safety seats in passenger vehicles are about:

- 71 percent effective in preventing fatalities

 67 percent effective in reducing the need for hospitaliza-

- 50 percent effective in preventing minor injuries. (NHTSA, 1989)- in main

Major crime in City down slightly, hits 5-year low

By John Minnis Assistant Editor

Five fewer major crimes were reported in Grosse Pointe City last year than in 1989 as the incidence of such crimes fell to a five-year low.

Major crimes totaled 221 last year, according to the City Public Safety Department's annual crime report for 1990. There were 226 major crimes in 1989.

"We're gratified to see crime is down," said Bruce Kennedy, public safety director. "We do have high visibility and, of course, luck plays into it."

There were 259 major crimes reported in 1986, and the number has declined slightly each year since.

Major or Part 1 crimes, according to FBI uniform reporting standards, are homicide, criminal sexual conduct, aggravated assault, robbery, burglary, larceny, auto theft and arson.

There has not been a homicide or rape in the city since 1986. Five robberies were reported last year, of which three were armed. Four robberies were reported in

One aggravated assault was reported in 1990.

Despite a surge of burglaries in the summer, breaking-andenterings were down from 23 in 1989 to 20 in 1990. "It was the only rash we had," Kennedy said.

Several of the burglaries may have been the work of the career cat burglar that Park and City police caught and charged in July. The cat burglar is suspected of some 30 burglaries throughout the Pointes, except the Shores. He was found guilty of a burglary in the Park and pleaded guilty to a burglary in from 40 in 1989. the City.

There were 184 larcenies reported in 1990, one more than in the previous year.

Auto thefts declined from 15 in 1989 to nine last year. "They really dropped," Kennedy said. Two arsons were reported last

Total crimes, including Part 2 offenses, numbered 415 last year, down from 419 the year be-Part 2 crimes include fraud, vandalism, drunk driving and disorderly conduct. There were 88 cases of vandalism reported last year, up from 71 1989.

There were 29 drunk driving arrests in the City in 1990, down

Parking meter violations were down from 8,831 in 1989 to 7,381 last year. Traffic accidents were up from 273 in 1989 to 305 in 1990. Traffic injuries, however, were down from 54 in 1989 to 36 people injured last year. There were no traffic fatalities.

Fire runs were up last year, totaling 161. There were 102 runs in 1989. Twenty-one of last year's runs were to assist other departments; eight were actual structure fires; 33 were false alarms; and 60 were miscellaneous outdoor fires.

The public safety department made some major purchases in 1990. In April, the department purchased an FMC, 1,250-gallon pumper truck, replacing the 1964 pumper, which the City had purchased new 25 years ago.

The department also replaced the officers' Smith and Wesson revolvers with Glock 9mm semiautomatic handguns.

The officers were also provided with bullet-proof Vests. Twentyfive vests were purchased at a cost of $400 each. "Bunker pants" - heavy-duty, fire-resistant trousers - were also ordered for officers.

All in all, Kennedy said, the 1990 report is positive.

"The officers are out there trying," he said "Officers are on patrol, and citizens call. We encourage citizens to call in anything suspicious, and we want to continue to make Grosse Pointe City a good place to live.

This is a safe little city to be in. It's really a great little city to

Losing a loved one — a pet

If you have never been a lover of animals, I suggest you stop reading right now, because there is absolutely no way you will be able to relate to what I am about to

What it means to be an animal lover is to know unconditional love. It is to experience the warm pressure of a furry body tucked next to yours when you go to sleep. It is the ego high you feel, subconscious though it may be, knowing that another being is totally devoted and dependent upon you. There is the gratification of feeling loved every time you come home, even if you only went outside to empty the garbage. A pet provides companionship and a friend to talk to whom you know is going to agree with every ingenious thought you utter. He is a wholly accepting friend for the duration of his life, who never questions you, stays out too late, or forgets to return your car, dress, scissors, etc. There is nothing in this world as forgiving and understanding as a creature with trusting eyes, a wagging tail and a soft nuzzle all willing to share with you at the end of a frantic day.

There is a down side to being owned by an animal, but it is almost too negligible to mention. We can deal with muddy paws, stray hairs and an occasional upset tummy. The tradeoffs are worth it.

But, oh the pain of separation! When we lose our pets there is a wrench so deep it is impossible to define. Our pets are our soulmates and best friends. They are the children who are ever kind and obedient, always loyal and loving. Small wonder we still hear the jingle of a collar, see the form lying in its accustomed place, hear a familiar bark for weeks and months after they are gone.

There is no way to diminish the emotions we feel at the death of our pets. They were as much a member of our family as any other, though granted a briefer stay with us. Feel empathy for those friends who have lost their pets. Their pain is very real and those of us who have suffered similar losses know that time will be their best accomplice.

Golden students

The 13th annual Scholastic Olympics were held Jan. 17 at Notre Dame and Regina high schools. Students from the eighth grade were selected by their teachers to compete against 10 area Catholic schools in a specific subject area. Star eighth grade girls took first place overall. Students are, from left, Julia Wit, first place forensics; Noelle Hathaway, first place art; Phillina Mullin, first place math; Maureen Gallaway, second place reading comprehension; Kate Garvey, second place music, and Kim Rendz, third place reading comprehension. The boys' awards went to Marty Leehr, first place forensics. Billy Starrs, third place math.

North-South fashion show is scheduled

Grosse Pointe North High School's class of 1991 and Grosse Pointe South's class of 1992 are co-sponsoring a prom fashion show on March 10. The show will be held in the Community Arts Center beginning at 5 p.m. The cost is $3.

The show will include both prom dresses and modele by North and South students. Ms. Diane Edwards of Elegant Impressions will be providing the dresses while President's Tuxedo and Cusmano's will outfit the boys. Students who purchase or rent from the sponsoring groups will be entitled to a discount.

Tickets may be purchased in advance at either school. Call Mrs. Clein at 343-2196 or Mrs. Moran at 343-2170 for informa-

Relive the '40s

In the mood for a bit of nostalgia from the World War II era? Then the place to be is University Liggett School which will present the musical "1940s Radio Hour" on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, March 8-10, on the school's campus, 1045 Cook Road in Grosse Pointe Woods.

The Upper School Players will present the upbeat look at a radio show and its performers set at Christmas time in the 1940s. Mary F. Bremer directs with music conducted by James Hohmeyer.

Showtimes are at 7:30 p.m. on March 8 and 9 with a 2 p.m. matinee on Sunday, March 10. Tickets are $2.50 for students, $4 for adults and should be reserved in advance by calling the school at 884-4444.

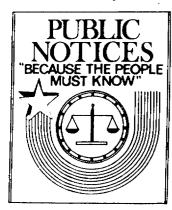

Kristan wins school bee

Jack Kristan, a fifth grader at Richard Elementary School, won the school's geography bee on Jan. 28.

The school-level bee, at which students answered oral questions on geography, was the first round in the third annual National Geography Bee, which is sponsored by the National Geographic World, the society's magazine for children, Amtrak and Kudos Snack.

The school winners will now take a written test and up to 100 of the top scorers in each state will be eligible to compete in their state bee on April 5.

Top prize of the national competition is a $25,000 scholarship. Finals will be in May.

The following thoughts about the war were written by Sampati Perlmutter, a first grader at St. Paul's Catholic School. He is the son of Daniel and Anupee Perlmutter of Grosse Pointe Park.

War

I heard about the war and I don't know why Saddam does not want to get out of Kuwait. I do not know why they do have to start a war. Peace is better, but for Saddam you have to have a war. Peace is a lot better. I hope that America wins. Please, God, make the world peaceful from the big war.

Hunt to vie for academy

Michigan Democratic U.S. Sen. Carl Levin announced the nomination of Matthew C. Hunt, son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Hunt of Grosse Pointe, to the Air Force Academy.

Hunt is a senior at Grosse Pointe South High School and actively participates in student government, the Civil Air Patrol, church youth group, the Community Concerns Committee, the National Honor Society, and is an all-state band nominee.

Levin, a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, nominates 10 young people for the one vacancy alloted him for the class which will enter the academy in July 1991. The final decision on offers of appointment will be made by the academy's Board of Admissions.

The 10 are nominated on a competitive basis. It is possible, however, for the academy to appoint more than one member of the group of 10 nominees.

Any high school junior who wants to apply for a nomination for the class entering 1992 should send a letter to the senator's Detroit office at 477 Michigan Ave., Suite 1860, Detroit, Mich. 48226.

New heating system should cool down Brownell Middle School's bills

By Ronald J. Bernas Staff Writer

"I'm in Room 52-A," says a teacher at Brownell Middle School. "It's cold in here, I think there's something wrong with the heat."

Ted Reaume, sitting in his office down the hall, can check room temperature, determine the problem and what is needed to fix it and schedule a time for repairs - all without moving from his chair.

Reaume, head engineer at Brownell, is learning the new computer-run heating system installed last year in the three middle schools. After 21 years in the school district, he says he never thought he'd ever have to use a computer, but with the display terminal in front of him, he can check and adjust the temperature of any room in the school, the pool water, the boilers and even the temperature in the walk-in freezers.

"I've never worked with anything like this before," Reaume said. "It's very different."

Before the installation of the new system, if a teacher said her room was cold Reaume would have to find a time when the room was empty, take the heat vent apart, determine the problem, then go find the part he needed. The new system cuts down on that frustration.

The computer screen shows a floor plan of the building by section with the temperature of each room displayed. Each room can have its temperature set individually, and therefore heating and cooling can be turned off when not in use.

The school has heavy night usage and previously sections of the school that were unused still had to be heated or cooled so the sections that were being used after school hours would be comfortable. Now, rooms can be heated or cooled on an as-needed

The computer constantly monitors the outside air and tells the system how much it should heat the air. It monitors the temperature of the outgoing air, too, to determine if heat is being wasted, and then it adjusts.

Each room is set with a daytime high and low and a different high and low for the nighttime. If the temperature in a room for some reason gets too low or high there is an override that adjusts the temperature.

The air in the natatorium and the water in the pool are also monitored constantly and the pressure in the boilers can be checked with the push of a but-

Reaume said the new system has reduced the amount of operating pressure in the two boilers. School holidays can be programmed into the computer so heating and cooling is adjusted for the time the school is closed. Before, Reaume or an employee would have to turn the heat on and off manually.

A flick of the switch will show Reaume if the outside lights which are run on a light-sensitive photocell - are on.

The system has a battery back-up in the case of a power failure.

The system cost $160,607 for installation at Brownell. The total cost for the system in the three middle schools and the administration building - which has yet to be on line - cost $415,036 and was paid for by a 1987 energy bond.

Larry Yankauskas, supervisor of the building department, said it is difficult to determine exactly how much in heating costs the district will save, although he has been told it will be about 10 to 15 percent.

Last year the district budgeted $120,000 for heating and electricity for Brownell Middle School, meaning savings could be between $12,000 and $18,000 compared to last year.

"A lot of work went into this, a lot of wiring," Reaume said. "We got to use all the existing equipment and we worked hand in hand with the company, which was a great experience. Now we're at the fine-tuning stages. It's great."

How to treat burns

Each year about 2 million people are burned in this country. Some are minor incidents touching a hot pan, a grease splatter. Others, like the burns from a house fire, can be lifethreatening.

Dr. Steven Rossmore, an emergency physician at St. John Hospital and Medical Center, says that the first step in treating a minor burn at home is to cool down the skin.

"It's recommended that the patient or a family member place something cold on the skin, run it under cold water or wrap it in towels that are soaked in cold water," he said. What this does is provide some comfort. and it also literally stops the burning. The tissue burns just like when you take a turkey out of the oven and it's still cooking even though it's removed from the heat source."

It's best not to put ointments, creams or butter on a burn. Avoid breaking any blisters that form, as this might increase the risk of infection.

In more serious accidents, the priority is to douse or smother any flames on the person. Do not try to remove clothing that is stuck to the burn. Again, cool down the burned area, and seek medical help.

"With any serious fire," Rossmore adds, "we're always con-cerned about the patient's ability to breathe. If someone's in a house fire, or if they happen to get their clothes caught on fire while in a closed area, the chance of developing respiratory problems is significant. So those people should be brought to a hospital right away.

Verdi's "La Traviata" is based on the Alexander Dumas tale "The Lady of the Camellias." Set in Paris in 1850, the opera tells the story of courtesan Violetta Valery's tragic love for a young man from the country. The story is the basis of the 1937 motion picture "Camille," starring Greta Garbo.

Produced by MOT Director of Community Programs Karen DiChiera, the 1991 Opera-In-Residence tour features a cast of MOT veterans including soprano Maria Cimarelli, tenor Thomas Laine, baritone Richard Lewis in the lead roles. Other performers include Karl Schmidt, Alicia Hunter, Larry Henkel and John Riley. South's Pointe Singers and some community members will make up the chorus.

The production is under the direction of Grosse Pointe resident Suzanne Acton. A committee of South parents, staff and students are providing assistance and muscle in the areas of stage management, lighting, costumes, make-up and props.

LCE throws bash for Dvorak

On March 3 at 3:30, the Lyric violinist James Van Vanken- which he joined in 1974, and has Chamber Ensemble closes its Grosse Pointe War Memorial series with "Happy Birthday Dvorak!", an all-Dvorak program dedicated to the composer born 150 years ago in the Bohemia area of what is now Czechoslovakia. The program will feature his String Quartet in F Major, Op. 96, and the Quintet for Strings in G, Op. 77.

Dvorak's music is a clear reflection of his own Bohemian life, of musical trends during his lifetime and of the major political movements of the time. One can hear in his music the influence of the Bohemian folk idiom, based on tunes he learned from his father - an amateur composer himself. One also hears the nationalist influence which was so much a part of the political movement of his day, when the Czech people sought to establish their own nation. But in Dvorak's String Quartet in F, named the "American," one hears the influence of American idioms such as negro spirituals and American Indian music to which the composer was exposed during his three-year tenure as director of the National Conservatory in New York City from 1892 to 1895.

Performing the works of Dvorak in this concert will be DSO principal second violinist Geoffrey Applegate; DSO assistant principal cellist Marcy Chanteaux; DSO assistant principal

There were 409 major crimes reported in the Farms last year, according to the Public Safety Department's 1990 annual crime report. That's 16 fewer than the 425 major crimes reported in Major or Part 1 crimes, according to FBI uniform reporting standards, include homicide, criminal sexual conduct, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, larceny, auto theft and arson.

There were no homicides or incidents of criminal sexual cona duct in the Farms last, year. In & a 7 1989, one homicide and one criminal sexual conduct incident were reported.

Robberies were up last year from five in 1989 to nine in 1990. Of last year's robberies, seven were armed. In 1989, one of the robberies was armed.

The number of aggravated assaults remained the same. There were four aggravated assaults in 1989 and four more in 1990.

Burglaries were up from 43 in 1989 to 53 last year. Of last year's burglaries, 45 involved homes and 17 were solved. Some of the burglaries may have been committed by the career cat burglar who worked the Pointes early last summer and was subsequently arrested by Park police in July.

Larceny, the most frequent major crime reported, was down last year. There were 282 larcenies in 1990, compared with 316 in 1989.

Four more autos were stolen in the Farms last year than the year before. In 1989, 55 autos were stolen; in 1990, 59 vehicles were taken.

Two arsons were reported last year. None were reported the year before.

Of the Farms' 409 major crimes reported last year, 179 were cleared - or solved. That translates to a clearance rate of 43.8 percent, according to the annual crime report. The average clearance rate in the United States was 21.1 percent in 1989, according to the FBI Uniform Crime Report for 1989.

But while major crime was down overall in 1990, Robert Ferber, public safety director. remains concerned with the increase in burglaries.

The Farms' 1990 crime report states that residential burglaries increased by 44 percent during the past two years and that robberies almost doubled. Current law enforcement forecasting indicates burglaries and robberies are expected to increase, according to the crime report.

Ferber said that the cat burglar caught by Park police last summer is suspected in 17 of the Farms' burglaries last year.

"Our main concerns are robbery and burglary," Ferber said. "There's no scarier feeling than someone invading your privacy.'

rious because they can easily result in great bodily harm.

Robberies also may become more prevalent as a result of new technology or services, such as outdoor automatic teller machines, which were not as common 10 years ago, Ferber said.

Did you know that children are the most photographed of all subjects? What, other than a photograph, can provide an enduring record of the growth and activities of a child

And because these pictures will grow more meaningful as time goes by, you, the photographer, must utilize the utmost care and attention in capturing the precious times of childhood.

Most important is obtaining a child's spirit on film. Some kids are natural "hams" and will respond delightfully in front of the camera. Others are shy and will not react well to posing directions. Stiff, artificial expressions will tend to replace a natural look and it is only after the camera is put away that the child's naturalness returns.

But if a child is enjoying a toy or an activity of his or her own choosing, the child will become unaware of the camera and capturing the child's "spirit" will be candids. The unplanned and the unexpected provide the opportunity for that exceptional photograph of your child. The objective in candids is to capture the fleeting expression and spontaneity of the moment.

However, if you are shooting in a more controlled, posed environment, let the child "do his own thing." Let him assume positions or facial expressions that are a reflection of his own per-

Here are some specific pointers that will help you to get children's pictures with impact. First, it is very important to get on the child's level, even if it means lying down on the floor. Photos looking down on kids simply aren't flattering. Children live in a world of giant adults and huge surroundings. By getting low, you can share the child's perspective and greatly improve your pictures. Try using a telephoto lens. A

G.P. Woods wants seat on Milk River drainage board

Staff Writer

The Grosse Pointe Woods City Council thinks the city should have a representative on the Milk River Drain Intercounty Drainage Board.

After all, about 60 percent of the waste water and sewage that flow into the drain comes from the Woods, and the city must therefore pay 60.49 percent of the drain's operation and repair costs, according to city attorney George B. Catlin.

The Woods share of operating costs exceeds $600,000 a year and DNR-mandated improvements to the Milk River Pump Station could cost as much as $26 million by the time they are in place, said city administratorclerk Chester Petersen.

"To me, this is just flat out taxation without representation, and I thought we settled that at Boston Harbor years ago," said Councilman Paul E. Beaupre.

So, at its meeting Monday, the city council unanimously adopted a resolution that asks the Michigan Legislature to amend the state Drain Code to allow each municipality that pays for the Milk River Drain to have a representative on the drainage board.

"It would have been nice to have something like this years ago," said Mayor Robert E. Nov-

The city council plans to send copies of the resolution to Gov. John Engler, state representatives and senators, Wayne County executive Ed Mac-Namara, the Macomb County board of commissioners and members of the Milk River Drain Intercounty Drainage

Established in 1956 to oversee Free resume writing the operation and maintenance of the Milk River Drain, the board consists of three members the state director of agriculture or his designated representative, and the acting drain commissioners of Wayne and Macomb counties. In Wayne County, the acting drain commissioner is Jim Murray, public works director, and in Macomb County, it is Thomas C. Welsh, public works commissioner.

If the Woods city council had its way, Grosse Pointe Woods, Harper Woods, and St. Clair Shores would have representatives on the drain board, because the Milk River Drain lies within their borders and they are the cities that pay for the drain.

"I have no quarrel with them wanting a say on the board, but they are already adequately represented by the Wayne County public works director," said

Having three extra representatives on the board from Grosse Pointe Woods, Harper Woods and St. Clair Shores "wouldn't affect us either way (positively or negatively)," Welsh continued.

Murray was unavailable for comment Tuesday morning. The Milk River Pump Station collects and processes storm and sanitary draw that Grosse Pointe Woods, Harper Woods and a small portion of St. Clair Shores. However, the basin often overflows during heavy rains, sending untreated sewage into Lake St. Clair.

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources says the overflows are a health hazard and has ordered the drainage board to clean up the Milk River and improve the pump station.

Necessary improvements include the "acquisition, construction or installation of disinfection facilities, an approximately 18.8 million gallon retention basin, sanitary flow routing and rerouting, river circulation system and clean-out and removal of excess infiltration," according to a petition authorized by the Woods city council at its Feb. 4 meet-

The petition also was signed by the mayors and city clerks of St. Clair Shores and Harper Woods.

In the petition, the cities asked the Michigan Department of Agriculture to allow the Milk River Drain to be improved, and acknowledged that the cost of the improvements would be assessed against the three cities and the other public corporations that have a stake in the Milk River Drain, including Wayne and Macomb counties.

The petition was one of the formalities the cities had to observe in order to receive low-interest loans (2 percent) for the project from the state.

Major crime in the Park cut in half since 1986

By John Minnis Assistant Editor

Major crime in Grosse Pointe Park last year was roughly half what it was in 1986.

Richard J. Caretti, public safety director, said that there were 881 major crimes reported in 1986. Last year, reported major crimes totaled 494.

"We're just really pleased with the downward trend," he said. "We're on a positive, upbeat high right now."

Caretti said the merger of the police and fire departments into a single public safety department has increased the number of officers on patrol and decreased the response time for all emergencies - police, fire and medical.

But Caretti said it would not be possible to give any specific reason for the decline in crime over the past five years.

"No one really knows," he said. "If they did, they would be following the formula. There's no patented formula."

According to the Park's 1990 crime report, there were 449 major crimes last year, down from 525 Part 1 crimes in 1989 - a 14.5 percent drop.

1 crimes include homicide, criminal sexual conduct, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, larceny, auto theft and arson.

There was one homicide last year when a 33-year-old man shot a 52-year-old woman last May in her apartment on Trombley. The man reported the incident as a suicide, but his actions and statements did not fit the evidence, and he was arrested. He was charged with second-degree murder and committing a felony with a firearm. A jury found him guilty of the charges.

There were six cases of criminal sexual conduct in 1990. One incident occurred in November when an 86-year-old woman was confronted in the basement of her apartment building on Maryland by a 33-year-old man, who later was identified as a "career criminal.'

The woman was assaulted and robbed. While fleeing the scene, the suspect ran into the woman's 85-year-old husband, who was assaulted and robbed. Police linked the robbery/assault suspect with a purse snatching at a local church a few days later.

Through intensive interviewing of the suspect's known associates, detectives were able to recover some stolen jewelry. The suspect was traced to several locations and eventually gave himself up to police, stating he had 'nowhere to hide.'

The suspect has been charged with criminal sexual conduct, two counts of armed robbery and larceny (theft) from a person.

Four aggravated assaults were reported last year, down from 12 in 1989.

Robberies were up from 12 in 1989 to 18 last year. Half of last year's robberies were armed.

Despite a rash or breakingand enterings in the Pointes in July, there was one less burglary in the Park last year, compared with the year before. Sixty burglaries were reported in the Park in 1990. There were 61 burglaries the year before.

Larcenies were down from 399 in 1989 to 320 last year. Of the larcenies, 258 involved amounts more than $50.

There were 40 auto thefts reported last year, the same number reported in 1989. In 1988, 75 cars were stolen, and in 1987, 96 cars were taken.

Narcotics arrests totaled 11 in 1989, down from 20 in 1989. Last year, 67 drunk drivers were processed. In 1989, there were 93 drunk drivers arrested.

Park public safety officers responded to 8,798 calls last year. Of those calls, 541 involved violent crimes; other crimes totaled 517; accidents amounted to 270 calls; there were 529 ambulance runs and 44 fire alarms.

The department logged 9,825 hours in fire, police and emergency medical training last year. That amounts to 228 hours of training per officer, Caretti said.

SECURITY GUARDS ON DUTY 7 NIGHTS A WEEK

Conference to spotlight Great Lakes, environment

An environmental enforcement conference covering the Great Lakes is scheduled for Saturday, March 2, at Lawrence Technological University in the architecture building.
The Great Lakes Environmental Enforcement Conference intends to bring citizen groups and government agencies together to network and mesh common strategies in the fight against environmental violators.

For more than a century, the Great Lakes have been assaulted by a burgeoning population whose disposal of waste, much of which is poisonous, threatens the very balance of life in this delicate ecosystem in which we live. Over the past 20 years the governments of Canada and the United States have enacted numerous laws to reduce water pollution, like the Clean Water Act and the Fisheries Act.

The Great Lakes Water Quality Agreement is a model for international environmental cooperation. It calls on both governments to seriously restrict their permissable release of toxins with the ultimate goal of "zero discharge.'

Although these principles have been largely crafted at binational and federal levels, 80 to 90 percent of the burden of enforcement fall on state and local governments.

Traditionally, a state's most prevalent monitoring strategy has been based on a "self-policpermit system supplemented by inspections. The main limitation to the success of a state's enforcement program is lack of will and allocation of resources. Because of this resource limitation the general public must become "environmental watchdogs.'

General admission for the conference is $25. Food and refreshments will be served. Seats are limited, so make reservations before Feb. 28. For more information, call Tom Leonard at 288-

Letters from the front

Undated

I would like to express my deepest thanks to the Grosse Pointe War Memorial Association and all the people involved in the effort to support us who are participating in Operation Desert Storm.

I've included a photo of myself and of our Christmas tree. The ornament the Girl Scouts of Troop 2226 sent me is also hanging up near the top. It looked very nice hanging up, I might add.

... Aboard ship we have close circuit television capabilities (CCTV). The news is read off nightly by one of the Marine sergeants.

Newspapers are a good source of information, like the copy of the Grosse Pointe News I received.

You asked if there are any items that I needed. There are, in fact, some items that would make life a little more comfortable while we all wait for the Middle East crisis to end. They include: beverage mixes, newspapers, gum, toiletries, AA batteries (for personal headsets), music tapes - anything current, writing paper, large envelopes, reading material magazines, crosswords, etc.

The items I named above would come in handy and be very much appreciated.

. I am 22 years of age, and I joined the Marines back in the summer of '87.

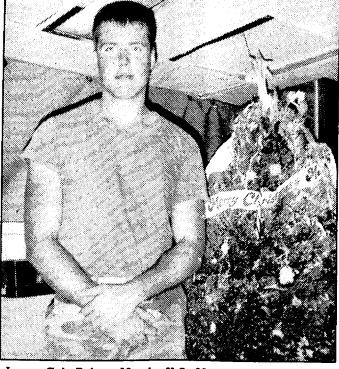

This is my first time on a ship for me and many others. It took some time to get used to at first, but everything is for the most part routine now.

Our living spaces are small, the food isn't the greatest, and anybody who's ever been aboard a Navy ship or spent any time in the Navy can probably relate to what I'm saying.

I think I might be painting a very grim picture? But it's not all bad. Boredom is our worst enemy right now. For entertainment, movies are shown nightly and the ship's got some weights to lift, when it doesn't rock back and forth too much.

For both Christmas and New Year's Day, the Navy sponsored a cookout on the ship's flight deck. To include hot dogs, hamburgers, beans, soda pop and just about everything else one would find at a cookout.

... Morale is high, even though the future is uncertain, and we all wish we could have been home for the holidays. That is why it is so important to keep busy the best you can out here.

So far we've conducted three training excercises in the country of Oman, which is part of the United Arab Emirates (U.A.E.). The desert was a very harsh and desolate place while there. Intense heat during the day, cold at night. All three training excercises were a success and showed that the Marines could perform in any clime and place.

I hope that this letter gave all of you there a better idea about me and the conditions of ship life.

Until our return we can only wait and hope for the

Again, I want to express my thanks for the support you have given us.

I have been receiving your letters, packages and newspapers for several months

I am truly sorry for not getting back to you sooner. I will tell you a little about myself.

First of all, I am a helicopter pilot in the U.S. Army. My rank is chief warrant officer two (abbreviation CW2). I fly UH-1H Iroquois or "Huey" as it is commonly known. It is a utility helicopter which is used for transporting troops, VIP's and supplies.

I have been in the Army for six years.

I take college courses at night back in the States. I am currently working for my bachelor of science degree in professional aeronautics (PA) with Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University based in Daytona Beach, Fla. I currently have the equivalent of an associate's degree in PA.

I have received several letters from children of your (War Memorial) association. I try to return all letters to children.

I am married. I have been for a little over two years. I have a son, Calvin Lawrence Rock, who will be 1 year old Feb. 6th.

I am stationed at Fort Bragg, N.C. My family and I live in Fayetteville, N.C. I am 30 years old.

My father, Calvin C. Rock, is a judge, lawyer and retired Naval captain who resides in Grosse Pointe Shores.

Obviously you know war has broken out and that keeps me very busy. So it is difficult to write. But I will attempt to answer all correspondence.

I must go now but I will try to tell more about what is happening here in future

Deadline for exchange. student applications near

AFS Intercultural Programs their experiences have made will accept applications from high school students who want to be international exchange students until April 1, 1991. Students must be at least 15 years old by June 15, no older than 19 by Aug. 1, and must be able to obtain travel documents to leave and return to the United States.

Students may go for a year to one of 24 countries in Asia, Europe and South America, or for the fall semester to Honduras, Portugal or Thailand. A 2.6 grade point average is required for applicants who will be attending high school abroad.

All students live with volunteer host families, becoming part of the surrounding culture. Former AFS students from around the world have found them more observant, more culturally aware and more flexible - useful advantages in this shrinking world.

Six to eight week summer programs are available in 27 countries for students who would like an intense cultural family-oriented experience, but for a shorter time. A few placements are now available in Czechoslovakia and Hungary; the cultural minister of Czechoslovakia is a former AFS student. Applicants will be placed in their country of choice as long as openings re-

For information on exchanges to specific countries and for applications, call AFS Grosse Pointe Chapter President Ann Nicholson at 884-4637.

Gain experience through volunteer work

Finding a summer job can be challenging in a competitive market. Young people can plan for tomorrow by exploring the future today through Red Cross volunteering.

The Southeastern Michigan Chapter of the American Red Cross offers young people ages 14-17 an opportunity to enhance their resumes while serving the needs of others.

Valuable hands-on experience in hospitals, child care programs and nursing homes allows youth to develop leadership skills essential to success in any field. In addition, active youth volunteers are eligible to apply for one of two $1,000 youth scholarships to support post-high school education.

Most volunteer programs require a 30- to 60-hour commitment on a regular basis over the course of the summer. Interested youth should call 494-2858 in Wayne County, 778-5600 in Macomb County, or 334-3575 in Oakland County.

"We're Saving An Extra 39% On Our Homeowners Insurance With Citizens Best"

If you're a member of any qualified retirement association, you may be eligible to save an additional 39% off Citizens standard homeowner rate, too. CITIZENS BEST is a special group insurance program for mature adults from Citizens Insurance Company.

And, if yours is a non-smoking household, you can receive an extra 10% Non-Smokers Discount from Citizens. That's a total of nearly 50% off your homeowners insurance!

Call today for all of the money-saving details available with CITIZENS BEST. And, while you're at it, check out the discounts for CITIZENS BEST automobile, too.

kelax, join the party — let Pointe firm do the planning

By Ronald J. Bernas Staff Writer

Now that you've decided to have a party, what next?

Do you serve your guests food. and if so what kind and where do you get it? And what about decorations? Should there be entertainment?

The questions go on and on, but the most important may be "When will I have time to do it

Carol Dornan has the answer. Celebrate! opened in September to take the hassle of party planning off your shoulders so you can just enjoy the party.

"In the '90s, service businesses are going to be big," Dornan said. "And I know of no other service in this area that does what we do."

Out of a tiny office in the Dodge Center on Kercheval on the Hill, Dornan has planned holiday parties for as many as 100 guests and teas for 40. She's organized business luncheons and children's parties. All, she says, for less than what you might pay to do it yourself.

"When someone calls me, we make an appointment and sit down and discuss what they want to do and what their budget is," she said. "Then I make plans and sketches based on their ideas and we meet again to discuss them."

She provides plates, silver, glasses, serving trays, trained servers and bartenders, decorations and linen. And what's more, she cleans up after herself.

She is not a caterer — "You wouldn't want me to cook for you," she jokes - or a baker or an entertainer. Instead, she pulls all the parts together, finding the best prices, so her clients save money.

All labor is contracted, except for her assistant, Donna Baxter.

"People automatically think that it's going to be expensive," she said. "It's surprising people don't understand how inexpensive I can do a party for them."

As an example, she points to the holiday party she organized for 100 people where she provided hot hors d'oeuvres, decorations and two servers for six hours. The price was about $11 a person.

She receives discounts from the caterers and bakers she uses, but charges her customers what they would pay if they did the work themselves, and that's how she makes a profit.

A memorial mass for Grosse Pointe Woods resident Antoinette Kalthoff Nowak, 99, will be held at noon, March 1, at St. Paul's Catholic Church in Grosse Pointe Farms. She died Feb. 23, 1991, in Fraser.

Mrs. Nowak was born on Dec. 14, 1891, to Mathilda and Robert Kalthoff in a section of Detroit called Leesville. Her father was the mayor of the small community in the Conner Creek area of the city.

Mrs. Nowak graduated in violin from the Detroit Conservatory of Music and played in the Detroit Concert Orchestra, a forerunner of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

An avid horsewoman in her younger days, she boarded her horse on Belle Isle where she rode daily.

During her long life, she was a devoted wife, mother and grandmother, a caregiver to her parents and enjoyed friends of all

She is survived by her daughter, Antoinette Nowak Roesch; daughter-in-law, Jane Black Nowak; and six grandchildren. She was preceded in death by her husband, Frank John Nowak, and son, Frank Joseph Cremation took place at Mount Olivet Cemetery in Detroit. Arrangements were made by the Chas Verheyden funeral home in Grosse Pointe Park. Memorial contributions may be made to the Father Solanus Guild or the Dominican High School Endowment Fund.

James Ross Marshall

Services were held Feb. 21 for Dr. James Ross Marshall, 95, at the Chas Verheyden funeral home in Grosse Pointe Park. A resident of Grosse Pointe Farms, he died Feb. 18, 1991, at his home.

Born in Scotland, Dr. Marshall came to the United States with his family as a young man. He earned his medical degree from the Detroit College of Medicine in 1922, and had an office in Grosse Pointe Park for many years. He retired in 1985.

Dr. Marshall is survived by his wife of 15 years, Helen Hammer Marshall; six grandchildren; and six great-grandchildren. He was preceded in death by his daughter, Sally Long, and son, Dr. James R. Marshall Jr.

Burial was in Grand Lawn Cemetery, Detroit.

Auxiliary members work hard to keep small-town, community feeling at Cottage Hospital

By Margie Reins Smith

Feature Editor Nanette Quinones is serving her second term as president of the Cottage Hospital Auxiliary. Her first term was exactly 20 years ago. "We've faced many changes due to the climate of health care today," Quinones said. "As auxiliary members, we've had to adapt to changes so that we can serve as volunteers in ways most useful to the hospital.

"It's stimulating to be involved again with a hospital I care about a great deal.'

Quinones may have a 20-year gap between her presidencies, but she has been involved with the auxiliary for more than those 20 years.

The group was founded in 1954 and some of the charter members are still active in the organization.

The hospital itself was founded in a small cottage on Oak Street, now Muir Road, during the world-wide influenza epidemic that marked the end of World War I. The core of the present-day facility at 159 Kercheval was dedicated in 1929.

The Cottage Hospital Auxiliary, which has 349 members, is divided into several smaller groups, or guilds.

"Some volunteers can't cope with working with people who are ill," said Isobelle Sayer, chairman of the Patient Service Guild. "We have lots of other things to do, too."

The approximately 90 members of the Patient Service Guild assist the hospital staff by working in the surgical lounge, doing clerical work, delivering flowers and mail, serving as escorts for clients who are taking executive physical exams, grading CPR tests, transporting patients and working in the therapy depart-

"We are the only one (of the three Grosse Pointe hospitals' auxiliaries) that is service oriented," Quinones said.

Nancy Lepley is chairman of the Gift Shop Guild. She said the group has about 140 members; about 100 of these are active. They serve as buyers and staff members in the gift shop, which is open daily.

"We sell items such as lingerie, small gifts, toys, jewelry, cards, sweets, flowers, and infants' items," Lepley said. "We also have a gift shop cart that circulates."

Peg Noble is in charge of an exhibit of baby items that will be available in the gift shop when the hospital's new OB unit opens in mid-April.

Charlotte Moreland is chairman of the boutique, which is part of the gift shop. The 15 active members of the committee meet every Monday to work on handmade items to sell in the boutique.

"Everything is handmade," said Suzanne DeBruyne. "And 100 percent is donated. We also take orders." She said she works at the hospital one day a week and spends countless hours on projects at home.

"It's so fulfilling. I get a lot of satisfaction from this. I look forward to the days I work," De-Bruyne said.

Eileen Hunt is chairman of the Sunshine Guild, a group of 10-12 women who use donated greeting cards to make tray favors and items to add a bit of tender loving care to patients' days. Many members of the Sunshine Guild are in their 80s.

Hazel Kaiser is chairman of the Patient's Library Guild. Members take magazines and books to the hospital lounges and to patients' rooms.

A newer group is the Retirees Guild. About 25-members strong, the group is composed of retired hospital employees. They work on fundraisers.

Loretta Cross is chairman of the General Guild, a group of people who support the hospital when they're called upon — for special events, special occasions, fundraisers and so on.

The auxiliary holds two sometimes three - fundraisers a

Occasionally, the auxiliary holds a benefit fashion show and they're planning a professional musical review to be presented in spring, 1992.

All of the funds raised in 1990 went to the renovation of the hospital's emergency room.

Quinones said members of the auxiliary work hard to maintain the small town, friendly, community-hospital atmosphere for which Cottage Hospital is known.

"In a small hospital like Cottage, I think I know everybody, from the basement up, " said Mary Nolan, chairman of the Ways and Means committee.

"We have a family feeling," said Noble. "Many of us had our children here. My daughter became a doctor because of her association with Cottage Hospital."

Some things have changed during the last 37 years, Quinones said. "We now have about a dozen men who are members. Some couples work together in the gift shop. The retirees' guild is new. The gift shop is bigger and better.

"We work very hard to find stimulating things for our volunteers to do. And we're always looking for new, younger mem-

HAVE A PLEASANT TRY AT PERFECTION BRIDGE BY WOODY BOYD ♠ ♥ ♦ ♣

Since 1929, the Jacoby name has been synonymous with the brilliance the game manifests and the dignity of its' greatest performers. First, father Oswald (1902-84) and then that majestic reputation was bequeathed to son James (1933-91) who was eminently qualified from his years of exceptional success to carry the family mantel until early this February. Jim's sudden death cut short a master crafted playing career that some felt may some day eclipse his father's glory, but God has obviously not intended that to happen.

I was very fortunate to know both so well. Everything Ozzie did and emulated by Jim was spurred by a tremendous desire to be pre-eminent and do it with dignity and glory for the game and its participants. It would take a twelve foot role of golden scroll to recount their world class, national and regional victories. No family in bridge history have come close and there seems to be none on the horizon.

I think Jim's greatest moment was when he accepted posthumously his father's World Bridge Federation citation for Ozzie's contributions and excellence in bridge. Jim spoke eloquently and with humility about his father who he admired and loved so well. As I look back upon that moment, it was really a tribute to both. Long live their exceptional memory for they will reign no more. Many great bridge hands have been attributed to Ozzie, but few to Jim for he played at an efficiency rate near perfect and made the game look a lot easier than we know it really is. Such an uncommon talent as this is rare. He thoroughly enjoyed playing with his pupils and took many of them beyond the rank

When together at the prestigious Regency Whist Club in New York, they voluntarily played at separate tables as the chance of success against two Jacoby's presented the membership who wished to play stake bridge with an appalling handicap. On just one occasion, I can remember them together, but in competing partnerships. This time the famous son got the best of his exalted father. It was an olympian sized confrontation that had a dozen kibitzers in breathless suspense awaiting the outcome.

When Ozzie saw the dummy, he chilled, but no one could notice for he was expressionless. It wasn't the first time he made the best of a partner's bad bid, but this contract was obviously a high risk venture.

Jim's lead gave his father nothing which was won by dummy's jack. #2 the heart six to Ozzie's jack lost to West queen. #3, Jim continued with the diamond nine won by dummy's king and the club ten to the queen successfully. Ozzie could now count six minor winners which necessitated three more from either hearts or spades. This mandated a super spade speculation and the same astuteness in hearts. #5, Declarer next played the heart king won by West's ace. Jim now rationalized that if he played a third diamond, his father would win in his hand and play a spade toward dummy theorizing he couldn't make the contract if he didn't guess the ace. Then a club to the jack and a heart toward dummy's ten-eight. From bitter past experience, Jim knew the more cards played the better feel his father had for the hand. Best to make him guess now so at trick #6 he played the heart deuce! Declarer's electronic mental sense gave this play some thought, like twenty seconds, and that's a lot for Ozzie, who then guessed wrong inserting the heart eight. Everyone was quick to congratulate the young Jacoby which father acknowledged, but all Jim was heard to say, "We were very lucky." You see Oswald Jacoby was almost eighty when this hand was played and even at that age this remarkable legend of bridge rarely guessed

Motherhood at thirty-something

By Ezra C. Davidson Jr., MD President, The American College of Obstetrics and Gynecologists

Not long ago, women who put off childbearing until their 30s were a unique breed. Today, waiting past age 30 to have children is becoming a popular (and growing) practice.

One reason for the trend toward later motherhood is the desire of many women to postpone marriage and a family to fulfill career and educational goals. Some also want to wait to have children until they feel settled and financially secure. In addition, divorce and remarriage have led some older women to start second families.

While thirty-something mothers have maturity, wisdom, and stability on their side, they do face some risks with pregnancy not as common among their twentysomething counterparts. The most serious risk for older mothers is having a child with a birth defect, a risk that increases gradually with age. While women in their early twenties have a 1 in 500 chance of having a child with a genetic disorder, women age 30 have a 1 in 385 chance, women age 35 have a 1 in 192 chance, and women age 40 have a 1 in 66 chance.

Another concern for women who delay childbearing is declining fertility with increasing age. A decrease in the frequency of ovulation, blockage of the fallopian tubes, and endometriosis are some causes of infertility.

In addition, some medical conditions such as high blood pressure and diabetes are more often present among 30-plus women and may increase the risk of complications during pregnancy. Also, the risk of miscarriage is slightly more common in women over 30.

Although the potential for problems during pregnancy increases with age, we now have ways to identify and avoid or treat many of these problems. Prenatal testing (such as amniocentesis and ultrasound) enable doctors to detect birth defects and other problems before birth. When a disorder is identified, couples can plan for treatment for the baby or choose to terminate the pregnancy. Other medical conditions, such as diabetes, can be monitored and treated to offset the risks to the fetus.

We also have many new techniques to treat infertility. For couples with problems that can't be corrected, there may be other options, such as in-vitro fertiliza-

Despite the increased risk of some conditions for 30-plus women, most women over 30 have low-risk pregnancies, except for age-related genetic risks. Remember that you play the most important role in having a healthy pregnancy. Getting early and continued prenatal care and following your doctor's guidelines will help ensure that your baby is born normal and healthy.

Single, free copies of "Pregnancy After 30" (APO60) are available by sending a stamped self-addressed, business envelope along with the name of the booklet to: The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, Resource Center, 409 12th Street, SW, Washington, DC of Grosse Pointe Shores, and Mary Tipp of Grosse Pointe Park.

A new feature this year will be the presentation of HEART awards, (Helping Eton Academy Realize Tomorrow), in three categories. The corporate award will go to Pat and Jan Hartmann; the sports award will go to Lynn and Isiah Thomas; and the advocacy award will go to Jackie Stewart.

Eton Academy is Michigan's only non-profit accredited private school for children with specific learning disabilities.

The Pastor's Corner Construction yard grace

By Rev. William DeVries Frist Christian Reformed Church

It probably was not a very high fence. It just looked that way to a 10-year-old. The owner of the small construction firm had put the fence up to keep thieves away from the equipment yard.

We were not thieves. Nor were we vandals. We were children. And to a child's eyes, old wooden forms and rusted metal cement mixing troughs looked tempting beyond resis-

Especially when seen through the narrow slits between the tall vertical shafts of the fence.

And so we climbed. We wedged feet in slits, and boosted each other, and grabbed and pulled. All we needed was one person over, then we could be aided by whatever he or she could drag to the fence. We knew what the fence meant. It meant "keep out" and "danger" and "this is not yours."

Mom had warned, Dad had threatened. Huge burly construction workers had yelled. But like the proverbial mountain it begged to be climbed. After all it was there.

And once inside, it was every delight of a child; strange metal shapes, huge pieces of wood, piles of sand and brick. But most of all it was a stack of cement forms 10 or 12 feet high and a couple overturned cement troughs. We would jump from this dizzying height and land on the hollow metal with a deafening "thwang." With flailing arms and kicking legs we flew. We laughed. We fell. We hurt. We climbed. We flew again.

The child on top of the stacks was to always keep an eye out for trucks turning in off the street. But we forgot. Forgot where we were. Forgot to look. Forgot the consequences of breaking and entering and whatever unwitting damage we were inevitably causing.

And then suddenly the gate flew back and there he was, all muscle and size and frown. A worker had driven up,

It's been a long time and I don't remember who got away. It probably was Don. He seemed to always get away. I got caught. I always got caught. His iron grip had my arm and the tears of guilt and fear began to flow. Suddenly I remembered how wrong all of this had been. We had no business there. We were breaking and wasting what did not belong to us. Further, we were seriously endangering ourselves as well as our friends.

And then he let us go. I can't say why. We weren't particularly cute ordinarily, certainly not covered with cement dust, dirt and rust stains. We weren't good kids, not then, not that he could see — probably not at all.

He just let us go. I still shudder to think what my Dad would have done, let alone my Mom. I can't even imagine what the owner of the yard would have loosed upon my Lent is a traditional time to get ready for Easter. And Easter is, according to Christians, God's great shout of grace across the passing of time and the events of our lives. That afternoon in the gateway of the fence, with the hard See PASTOR, page 6B-

comic strip elevates the ordinary to the extraordinary

By Ronald J. Bernas Staff Writer

It's a skewed view of life and the little things that happen every day that unite Lance Aldrich and Gary Wise.

It's the little things like noticing that a person will tear the living room apart looking for the television remote control when it would have been much quicker to turn the set on manually.

Or the fact that the only other two people in a movie theater will sit directly in front of you.

The two are united by a burning need for answers to questions like what is the use of calendar watches? They wonder: "If you don't know what month it is, how can you possibly care what time it is?"

The two met at Ross Roy.

"I'm an associate creative director," Wise said. "And he's a 'real' creative director.'

The two combined their talents on award-winning advertising projects for several years and found that not only do they work well together, they also have the same sense of humor.

So they thought, "Hey, what about creating a comic strip?

'We thought it would be a fun thing to do that we wouldn't be bad at," Aldrich, of Grosse Pointe Farms, said.

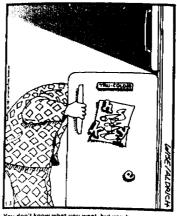

Real Life Adventures, a one-panel strip with a caption, was their creation.

"We wanted a strip that people could look at and say 'Boy, that's me," Aldrich

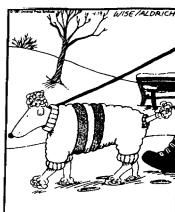

After deciding to create the strip, the two produced 12 panels which they sent to syndicates for their response. A couple expressed interest in the strips and one, Universal Press Syndicate, asked them to create some more.

'They wanted to see if we blew all our humor in those 12 panels," Aldrich said.

They created more panels and UPS decided to represent them. They're in good company. UPS represents strips like Calvin and Hobbes, The Far Side, For Better or For Worse and Doonesbury.

Basically, the only thing that makes us superior to dogs is that we look better in sweaters than they do

"That's one of the reasons we sent our stuff to them," Aldrich said. "We like the other stuff they offer."

Aldrich and Wise carry small notebooks in which they jot down words or phrases that come to their minds that can be used for strips. They get together to expand the ideas and come up with pictures to accompany them.

"When we get together to do these strips, we don't know where the time goes," Wise said. "We have a lot of fun."
The ideas are fleshed out with thumbnail sketches and are sent to an editor. Once they get approval the actual panel is created and the final product is shipped back to UPS where it is distributed.

Not all ideas are accepted. Some that they think are funny - like the one questioning what event led to a proctologist's career choice - are rejected.

"They tend to frown on scatological humor," Aldrich said.

Although Wise does most of the drawing and Aldrich does most of the writing, they don't pigeonhole themselves.

"I can draw a dog," Aldrich said. "But only from the front.'

"If I went down in a plane crash tomorrow all the panels would have a dog pictured from the front," Wise said.

"I can adapt it, though," Aldrich counters. "I can make it a beaver."

Real Life Adventures is the only new strip UPS is offering this year.

Aldrich has been told it's difficult to sell single-panel strips, but in less than a month, nearly 30 papers have picked it up. It's selling in the small towns as well as the big cities and is carried in major markets by the Atlanta Constitution, the Baltimore Sun and the Sacramento Bee.

'Because small towns are buying it, too, it must mean that we're doing what we set out to do," Aldrich said. "We're appealing to the widest possible audience. What they like about it is the fact that this is one of the rare one-panel strips that's not a rip-off of The Far Side."

The pair feels that doing the comic strip is merely an extension of what they do at Ross Roy - selling an idea.

"We were attracted to this business, the advertising business, because it's fun," Aldrich said. "Doing the comic strip is doing what we know best, but in a purer form. I think it makes us better at both."

Ideas come at any time on any day and each say that they notice things more acutely since starting the strip. "It's a survival skill now," Wise said.

Aldrich is 45 with two grown children and Wise is 33 and has a toddler. Between the two of them, real-life experiences are wide-ranging and fresh.

"We're different enough so that we don't come up with the same sorts of things," Wise said.

They have been told that the critical time for a comic strip is one year. Afterthat it either expands or levels off. They have 11 months to go.

Until then, they're still coming up with ideas, and hoping that one day their proctologist panel might get the OK.

Gary Wise and Lance Aldrich (seated) have created a new comic strip being distributed across the country by Universal Press Syndicate.

DSO report:

Classical Roots Concert is too studied to offer any inspiration

By Alex Suczek

Special Writer "Lift Every Voice and Sing," widely regarded by black Americans as their anthem, was the inspirational opening of last week's Detroit Symphony Orchestra program. It set the tone for the DSO's second annual Classical Roots Concert, an occasion to present classical compositions by African-Americans.

A stirring piece, originally performed at a Lincoln's Birthday celebration in 1990, the anthem's persistent rhythm is reminiscent of gospel singing, lending a clear identity to the performance by massed choir and full orchestra. It obviously had great meaning to its audience in Orchestra Hall which rose respectfully for the performance. A number who, like ourselves, were not fully aware of the anthem's significance, were politely encouraged to stand, and musical ideas and encouraging tinction that might be possible. did so appreciatively.

The combined Brazeal Dennard Chorale, Community Cho-mance, however, idea developbeautifully with obvious dedica- assess. tion and DSO Associate Conducance between orchestra and chorus and an air of too much studied care kept the performance from taking inspirational flight, a feeling that persisted throughout the program.

A startling and impressive contrast followed in the premiere performance of the winning selection from the Composers' Forum, "Transversion I, Opus 6" by Muhal Richard Abrams. The work commands attention with its opening tone clusters by the piano, percussion and winds, before moving to sustained phrases by the strings. It has intriguing passages with interesting orchestral effects. In this first perfor-

For the second half, the program departed from its special purpose with the Symphony No. 5 in E flat major by Jan Sibelius. Yet there was linkage in the sense that Sibelius' homeland, too, has fought for its liberation and freedom which gave rise to a strong ethnic and nationalistic feeling in his music as well.

Saturday kid concert series begins

The Grosse Pointe War Memorial will begin a new "Koncerts for Kids" series on Saturdays to enhance the musical offerings available in the community for

"We are very excited about this new program," said Mark Weber, president of the War Memorial "We feel there is a strong demand in the community for a musical series geared toward children that the whole family can enjoy. There are a couple of Saturday children's programs offered in Detroit, but we wanted to offer a program which is both outstanding and close to home at the same time."

The audience can sing-along to well-known children's songs as the series kicks off on March 9 with Skylark, a traditional, swing, folk and country group. Skylark is an acoustic trio featuring Betsy Beckerman on hammered dulcimer, guitar and tin whistle; Anne Jackson on keyboards, guitar and autoharp; and Tom Wall on keyboards, guitar, mandolin and ukulele.

On March 16, a show the Michigan Touring Arts calls one "of the finest professional touring performing artists" will perform. Chautauqua Express Children's Program entertains parents and children of all ages with songs, stories and audience participation, drawing on elements from American folk music, popular music and native American stories. A wide array of stringed instruments is used including mandolin, banjo, lute, violin and various guitars.

The series continues April 20 with a world of music and stories presented by the Storytellers. The Storytellers create new and exciting timbres by blending the sounds of ancient and modern instruments that are rarely, if ever, played together. Their instrumentation includes balafones, steel drums, berimbau, vibraphone, m'biras, tabla, rainmaker, cuica, gongs, bass, donno drums, rhumba box, congas, ocarinas, shakers and others.

The final concert in the series features the SongSisters on April 27. The SongSisters, Chris Barton and Julie Austin, perform children's music on a variety of folk instruments. They accompany their clear voices with guitar, bongo, hammered dulcimer, autoharp, recorders, flute and homemade rhythm and folk toys. Their presentation is a colorful mixture of songs, stories, humor and movement.

All concerts are from 11 a.m. to noon on Saturdays. Tickets for adults are $16 for the series of four and $12 for children, or can be purchased individually for $5 for adults and $4 for children 12 and under. For more information please call 881-7511.

'Plaza Suite'

The Greasepaint Players will present Neil Simon's "Plaza Suite" March 7-9 at 8 p.m. at the Grosse Pointe South High School auditorium. The three-act comedy tells three different stories about people who stay in the same suite on different occasions. Above, Larry Grillo and Paula Rink star in the first act about a marriage on the rocks. The second act involves a Hollywood producer hitting on his married ex-girlfriend and the hilarious final act deals with a wedding where the bride has locked herself in the bathroom and won't come out. Tickets are $6 in advance and $7 at the door. Seniors and children are $4 in advance and $5 at the door. For more information, call 774-0309 or 774-4054.

Sherlock's back at The Golden Lion

Dennis Wickline Productions, Inc.'s third world premiere production, "Murder at the Golden Lion or Sherlock Holmes Is Coming to Dinner" opens on Friday, March 1 at the Golden Lion and runs Friday and Saturday evenings through Saturday, April 6.

The show is an audience participation mystery evening which features the classic characters from Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's books and stories about Sherlock Holmes, the master detective.

The play is set at the turn of the century and takes place in Professor Moriarty's hidden, grotto estate. The professor and Holmes have established a truce, and Moriarty has invited Holmes, Mrs. Hudson, Dr. Watson, and Inspector Lestrade to dinner to discuss a lasting peace.

The audience will be cast as Baker Street Irregulars and Moriarty's henchmen during every performance. Their role is to observe the dealings between Holmes and Moriarty to make sure that everything is handled "above board." Unfortunately, murder and mayhem begin shortly after dinner and the audience is confronted with choices as to "whodunit?"

The original script for "Murder at the Golden Lion or Sherlock Holmes is Coming to Dinwas written by Dennis Wickline. Wickline's other mystery, "The Dinner Theatre Murders," has been produced in several areas around the country, and was seen at the Westgate Dinner Theatre in Toledo. Jane Vreeland, who directed the premiere production of "The Dinner Theatre Murders," is the director of this show as well.

Price for the evening is $23.95 per person which includes dinner, show, tax, and gratuity. Cocktails begin at 7 p.m. Dinner is at 7:30 p.m., with the show following dessert. Gift tickets are available. Group rates are also available, and special senior citizen group rates are offered for Friday performances only.

The Golden Lion restaurant is located at 22380 Moross, near Mack, in Detroit across from St. John Hospital. For further information and reservations, call 886-2420.

Deregulation, yuck

The Airline Deregulation Act of 1978 is on the brink of becoming a teenager. Before the act was passed, the U.S. commercial air transport system was the envy of the world. Mile for mile, our air fares were lower than almost anywhere, and the service levels were superb. The airline industry provided flights to large cities and small towns. It 'wasn't broke," and yet the act set out to fix it. As we reflect on the last twelve years in the airline industry, we see a lot of changes - some good, some awful and many pretty Frequent Flyer magazine, published by the Official Guide Publishing Company, celebrated its 10th anniversary in September 1990. In honor of this event they beefed up their annual readers' survey to include questions about the state of the airline industry over the past decade. No one was surprised at the respondents' negative reactions to the wonders of deregulation.

When asked to complete the statement, "When all is said and done, deregulation is: The best thing since the Wright brothers" - 2 percent opted for this description; "A decided improvement, though with its own problems" - answered 57 percent; "A failed though interesting experiment" — was the choice of 28 percent of the respondents; and finally "A disaster" - was the feeling of 13 percent of those who responded. And, when asked about the state of air travel these days, these same respondents replied: Safety - worse 54 percent, better 46 percent; service - worse 86 percent, better 14 percent; routes - worse 45 percent, better 55 percent; fares - worse 79 percent, better 21 percent.

The hope of the Airline Deregulation Act was that it would lead to new carriers offering lower fares, new routes and improved services. The actual result is a fiercely competitive struggle pitting airline against airline. Whether the consumer or the industry has benefited is questionable.

Fares have been reduced in many sectors. The traveler who makes a trip in these sectors gets from place to place for less money. Economics dictate that to make up for the losses on these high-density sectors, airlines must raise fares on less-traveled sectors. Across the board, air fares in the United States have not been greatly reduced.

Improved service? Well, there certainly are more flights in the busy sectors. The end result is an overcrowding of airport facilities, crowded skies and flight delays at levels that would have been unheard of 10 years ago. Passenger service at air terminals and in flight is minimal. Meals in first class are similar to coach meals of ten years ago. Coach meals are now similar to the tourist class sandwich and soup meals of the early 1950s. The airlines simply cannot reduce fares to the levels generated by deregulation and provide good service. With few exceptions, service is sad.

At least 12 major airlines have disappeared since the advent of deregulation and competition is getting narrower, not wider. In 1989, just eight airlines carried 89 percent of the airline industry's traffic. Competition is shrinking, not growing. Projections of airline financial performance for 1990 indicate a new - and unwanted - record will be set. The U.S. airlines will probably suffer about $2 billion in losses, more than double the previous record loss of $778 million during 1982 - the last period of major recession in our country.

The Airline Deregulation Act of 1978 has created many suarcies among the established proneering airlines of the United States and has brought service and comfort levels to new lows. When you take the next trip with a wonderfully low fare, think about what the tradeoffs have been. As with the S&Ls and the banks and with Chrysler, eventually the taxpayers take up the slack on major American business failures. Somebody will have to pay for the airlines also. As they say, there is no free lunch.

'One of the ten best films ever' opens at the Detroit Film Theatre

The Detroit Film Theatre (DFI) of the Detroit Institute of Arts presents the exclusive engagement of French director Jean Vigo's 1934 classic, "L'-Atalante," shown for the first time in its complete, newly restored version. "L'Atalante" will be presented for one weekend only, March 1-3.

Known for its freewheeling, exuberant style and its remarkably natural performances, the lyrical love story set in and around Paris is one of only two films created by the brilliant Vigo before his untimely death at age 29.

After first encountering the film in the 1950s, director Francois Truffant wrote that "L'-Atlante" is a "masterpiece ... one of the ten best films ever made." When this carefully restored definitive version was released in 1990, The New York Times' Vincent Canby called it "a one-film archive of cinema riches . . . hypnotic, funny, aston-

"L'Atalante" will be presented on Friday and Saturday, March 1 and 2, at 7 and 9:30 p.m., and on Sunday, March 3, at 4 and 7 p.m. Tickets are $5 general admission; $4 for students with full-time ID and are available in advance at the DIA ticket office or at the door. A five-admission coupon book is available for $17.50.

The DFT's Cyrstal Gallery Cafe is open one hour prior to each performance for light snacks and a complete beverage and bar service. All cafe proceeds benefit DFT programming.

'Nothing But Trouble' is nothing but bad

By Chris Lathrop

Special Writer
You've heard of the Brat Pack. Now meet the Over the Hill Gang, with charter members Chevy Chase and Dan Aykroyd.

Moviegoers have fond memories of the days when alumni of the Saturday Night Live and SCTV comedy troupes got together and actually made funny movies like "The Blues Brothers," "Stripes," "Caddyshack" and "Ghostbusters." But in the past seven years, these washedup clowns have churned out more garbage than anyone cares to remember.

The latest piece of trash. "Nothing But Trouble," could be the worst yet, a complete mess of a movie that contains almost no legitimately funny scenes or situations. And although Chase's performance is by no means above criticism and scrutiny, Aykroyd is responsible for the creation of this dog and therefore deserves most of the blame.

Chase plays an investment publisher who, along with a shapely lawyer (Demi Moore) and a pair of South American screwballs, takes a detour off the New Jersey turnpike, coasts through a stop sign and is incarcerated in a bizarre village called Valkenvania.

The place looks like a salvage yard and is home to a strange bunch of characters - an ancient justice of the peace (Aykroyd), his grandson and granddaughter (both played by John Candy) and a grotesquely obese blacksmith (Aykroyd, also in a dual role). The remainder of the film revolves around Chase and company's hapless attempts to escape Valkenvania's evil clutches.

behind many of the previously mentioned successful comedies. Avkroyd decided to work with his brother Peter, who obviously possesses the sense of humor of a 10-year-old. The sophomoric gags include such things as police friskings, passing wind, feet stuck in bedpans and animal excrement. "Nothing But Trouble" is appropriately rated PG-13, except in this case, anyone above the age of 13 is strongly cautioned about the content of this

As trite as they are, though, the jokes aren't half as bad as the performances themselves. Chase can only deliver a tired assortment of smart-aleck comments and pratfalls, although he has one hilarious scene in which he struggles to say "I do" during a forced marriage to Candy in drag. On that score, Chase fares better than his co-stars; Aykroyd and Moore provide no laughs whatsoever

Candy's talents also are wasted. Most of his time on screen is devoted to his role as the mute granddaughter. This forces him to rely on physical humor which was never his spe-

"Nothing But Trouble's" only redeeming qualities are imaginative set design and makeup, which makes Aykroyd almost unrecognizable. Now, if only someone can figure out a way to make him disappear.

Aykroyd's talents have deteriorated to the point where they are virtually non-existent. Quite simply, he isn't funny anymore. and he shows no signs of ever being funny again. Chase hasn't completely lost it, but he's getting there. Fortunately, Cand \bar{y} is still capable of good comedy, as long as he dissociates himself from has-beens. "Nothing But Trouble" is so bad, it makes "The Great Outdoors" and "Spies Like Us" look like side-splitters. To those who have seen those two bombs, there's really nothing more to say. To those who haven't, spare yourselves - don't bother finding out what that means.

In the romantic, fanciful comedy, "L.A. Story," writer-pro-ducer-star Steve Martin does for Los Angeles what Woody Allen did for New York in "Manhattan." But with a difference. Allen glossed over the realities of New York and presented it as a romantic place.

In an accumulation of gags, jokes and parodies, Martin zeros in on all the drawbacks of living in the City of Angels: the smog, the traffic and the high voltage life styles — yet he still manages to portray it as a great place to

Outside the studio, Telemacher's life is not that exciting either. He is seeing Trudi, a birdbrain who is more interested in hitting the high spots to show off her wardrobe than she is in him. All his friends are wrapped up in themselves, so much so that they barely take time out from talking about themselves when an earthquake rocks the restaurant where they are eating. Only one observant character stops long enough to remark, 'I'd give that a four.'

Life begins to look up when Harris meets and falls in love with Sara Victoria Tennant who is Martin's wife in real life. She is a beautiful, brainy young Englishwoman who shares his affection for the city.

The role of the wacky weatherman suits Martin. Tennant fills the bill as the intelligent and sweet English girl who steals his heart. Sarah Jessica Parker is a riot as the spaced-out sales clerk who bounces and dances all over the screen, never seeming to touch ground.

Where in the world is that? If you drive southbound on I-75 you can get there. You could take I-94 to I-75 to the Eureka Road exit, or you could jump in your boat and cruise down the Wyandotte is not hockey's haven, but it gets the job done. Wyandotte's Ÿack Arena is home for several teams, including North and South, during the state hockey playoffs. The arena serves the finest cuisine, including hot dogs and fresh popcorn, a slice of pizza or even nachos. It's a fine rink with bleachers tucked behind both goals, but no bleachers behind the benches.

The regional tournament got under way Feb. 25 with Southgate Anderson whipping Wyandotte Roosevelt, and then North and South battled in the 8 p.m. game. North, which had lost to South twice in the regular season, couldn't manage to stop the losing streak to the Blue Devils, losing 6-4.

Perhaps last week's comments from South coach Jim McCauley sparked the Norsemen to make it a close game. Perhaps the Norsemen were tired of getting stepped on and something to prove.

McCauley, after his team beat North 5-4 Feb. 14, said, "I don't think North should have given us a one-goal game. Not to be degrading to their kids, but they don't have the talent we do."

McCauley may have used those words to fire up his own team, but the remark also raised the ire of several Norse-

North finishes 4-16-1

Blue Devils end Norsemen's season

All things pointed to an upset in the Feb. 25 playoff hockey game between North and South.

North hadn't beaten South in two regular-season games this season. South hadn't won at Wyandotte's Yack Arena on two occasions this season, and the Blue Devils hadn't won a postseason game in three years.

Plus, it's difficult to beat a team three times in one season. The upset didn't happen, though, as the Blue Devils prevailed to take a 6-4 decision from the Norsemen in the first round of the Region 4 playoffs.

"We were looking for Cinderella's slipper," said North coach Mike Manzella, whose team lost five straight games to end the season 4-16-1 overall. "We believed we had a shot at the upset and a shot at being the Cinderella team of the tournament, but we're going home."

South, 14-7-2 overall, will play the winner of the Trenton-Livonia Churchill game (Tuesday, Feb. 26) on Thursday, Feb. 28 at 8 p.m.

In the tournament's first game, Southgate Anderson beat Roosevelt and will play Livonia Franklin Feb. 28 at 6 p.m.

"We wanted this one pretty bad," said South's Jim Mc-Cauley, who saw his team almost blow a five-goal lead. "Now the kids can hang onto the bragging rights in Grosse Pointe."

And South did hang on barely.

South took a 2-0 lead after one period on goals by Marcel Chagnon and Steve Tucker, and extended that lead to 5-0 in the second period on goals by Todd Frederickson, Chagnon and Peter Bourke. But, just when it looked like South was about to bury the Norsemen, Manzella's team fought back with three goals in less than three minutes.

"We're used to playing games in which we're down by three goals," he said. "We figured it was 3-0, that we'd start playing, but then we went down 5-0 and things didn't look good at all." But North got on the board with Ryan Oliver's unassisted goal at the 12:19 mark, and subsequent goals were notched by John Ferguson, his first of two on the night, and Brian Quinn.

"The last thing I told the kids before the game started was to stay out of the penalty box," said McCauley, whose team took five penalties in the second period. "As soon as we started going to the box we were out of sync and really lost our rhythm.' And almost the lead.

"In between periods, we just told the kids to get back to fundamentals and gather their thoughts," McCauley said. "The kids were really bent out of shape after giving up three straight goals, so we had to relax. I reminded them that half of this game is played from the shoulders up, and if they weren't riod we'd be in trouble.' Maybe South relaxed too much to start the third period, because Ferguson converted a pass from Scott Nesom and Gary Corona to cut South's lead to 5-4 with just under 10 minutes to play.

Nesom finished with three as-

South then withstood some pressure from North, and with 6:57 to play Brad Warezak sealed the Devils' victory with a power-play goal, making a winner out of goalie Jason Hall, who turned back 24 shots.

"We were lucky Warezak got that goal," said McCauley. "If he had missed that one, well, let's not think about that.'

McCauley wanted to get an early lead to start the game by attacking North in its own zone. It worked to perfection, not just because of South's outstanding forechecking, but because North was shooting itself in the foot.

"We wanted to go with a 2-1-2 with a heavy pinch on defense and at the blue line," McCauley said. "We weren't finishing the early opportunities, but we \bar{k} new that if we stayed in their zone long enough we could wear them forcing North to go up the middle.

"We kept telling the kids to dump the puck up the middle or skate it out through the middle," Manzella said. "But they kept trying the boards. We couldn't beat South to the outside, plus we didn't handle the puck very well in our own zone.'

Until the second period when the Norsemen scored three

"We just weren't doing the fundamental things we were doing in the first period and at the start of the second period," McCauley said. "North really made great efforts and took it to us a bit, but fortunately we got out of the period without further

"South controlled the puck in our offensive zone and beat us to it in the neutral zone," Manzella said. "We were caught standing around looking at the puck too long and didn't stop them. We watched too much of the game and didn't go to the puck.'

North did finish with a flurry of shots on Hall, but he was equal to the task.

"In order to beat our next opponent we really have to be sharper," McCauley said. "We'll take this one and run, and in order to win again we have to keep guys out of the box.'

Whitfield to play football for Wayne State

Sports Editor

Kevin Whitfield was heavily recruited by several major colleges for his football abilities, and he heard a lot of promises.

But the Class C all-stater from University Liggett School decided to stay home and play football at Wayne State University next fall, after major colleges dropped him from their recruiting list. That's when he became vayne State's No. 1 target in what most are calling the Tartars' finest recruiting season.

Whitfield signed a national letter of intent Feb. 6.

In his career for the Knights, Whitfield rushed for 1,453 yards and 18 touchdowns. He had two touchdowns on punt returns and two on kickoff returns. In his senior season, he set a school record with 190 tackles, and doubled as the team's No. 1 fullback and captain.

The 6-foot 1-inch, 185-pound senior linebacker/fullback isn't upset that most of the promises were unkept. In fact, he's very content to join Coach Joe Horan's program.

"It's funny how all the stories you hear about recruiting really are true," said Whitfield, who finished with 388 career tackles and five interceptions. "I really wanted to go to a big school, but after being let down, I turned to Wayne and I know I'll be happy there. I am very pleased with my decision.'

Whitfield now has something to prove to all the "former" recruiters.

"I am going to show them exactly what they passed up and exactly what I can do," he said. "I know I have to get bigger and lift weights more, but I am ready to do that. I'm going to Wayne where I can help them gain more respect for their pro-

Eastern Michigan, Cincinnati, Missouri and Iowa State were among the colleges recruiting him, and most didn't follow through Whitfield said.

"I was scheduled to go to Missouri for a visit and I got a call from the coach one night," said Whitfield, who runs the 40-yard dash in 4.4 seconds. "I thought he was calling to remind me about the visit, but instead I was surprised to hear him say the final scholarship went to a defensive back in state. He also told me I was no longer being recruited so he canceled the trip.

"That really didn't bother me but I picked up the paper about a week or two later and discovered that Missouri had recruited a guy from Detroit King, and that's what bothered me. I felt Missouri lied to me. Although they did tell me I could be a walk-on."

"Kevin was told a lot of things by a lot of schools," said ULS football coach Bob Newvine. 'But the schools weren't there in the end. I'm happy to see him go to Wayne because he can fill in and play right away.'

Cincinnati had wooed Whitfield since his junior season, but for one reason or another, dropped its offer, too.

"I was all set to go there, but I don't even know what happened," Whitfield said. "They were always in touch with me and sending me letters, but all of a sudden the coach called and said I was no longer being looked at. It's amazing how many things can be said, and how many things are never real. think recruiting should be out-

But all that bitterness turned sweet when Horan gave Whitfield the nod.

"I like Coach Horan and Wayne's program," said Whitfield, who will study engineering. "I never really got upset or dwelled on it too much. I just kept telling myself to work hard and someday all those guys (recruiters) would see exactly what I can do.

'Wayne State is where I'm going and I am very happy. I think I can make an immediate impact. I know I have to get stronger, especially in my legs, but I'm ready for that chal-

South looks for swim title; North to play spoiler role

South's Ted Stedem will be shooting to win the breaststroke event when he competes in the MAC divisional meet at North March 1-2.

When North meets South March 1-2 at the North pool in the Macomb Area Conference American Division swimming and diving championships, don't expect the Norsemen to win it, but look for them to be a thorne in the sides of many.

However, look for South, coached by Fred Michalik, to challenge for the championship.

North, which finished the dual-meet season 6-6, is coached by Les Roddis, who feels his team will not contend for the hardware, but will be noticed.

event, and we're not to that be the most disruptive team in deciding what happens between Ford and South."

Utica Ford is the favorite because it has beaten North, the third place team, and South, the second place team, during the regular season.

We're going to disrupt things and play a spoiler role," Roddis

But for Michalik, the strategy will be far different.

"We've got to go after it," said

Michalik, who sports four of the top 10 swimmers in the league in Ted Stedem, Andy Walter, Tim Jogan and Jim Bellanca. "The key for us will be where we can place our second or third guys in the events. I feel we have a good shot at winning it, but it depends on how we can place. We stand a good chance at taking our share of first places, but even if we win every event we still won't win the championship because we have to collect the points by scoring in the top Michalik, like all the coaches. will shuffle a lineup that will exploit the weaknesses of the other teams, and make South more competitive in other events. The relays include the 200 and 400 freestyle, and the 200 medley.

"We're probably going to weaken up one of the relays, just to try to sweep them," said Michalik. "We'll put some guys in different spots and see what

"Fred's got a good team, as does Utica." said Roddis. "But they had better not forget about us. We aren't as deep as some of the other teams, but we're going to be ready to do our thing.

The diving competition, which will be highlighted by the diving of South's Chad Hepner, will be held at 5 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 28. The swimming preliminaries will start at 5 p.m. Friday, March 1, and the finals begin Saturday, March 2 at 1 p.m.

"I don't think we can win it," he said. "It's going to take two good kids to place high in each Lady Norsmen, Lady Devils event, and we're not to that point yet. We'd like to finish no lower than third, and we could look to knock off Regina

By Rob Fulton

Sports Editor Grosse Pointe South volleyball coach Cindy Sharpe is tired of being such a gracious host; that's why she's pleased with playing at Regina March 2 in the district tournament.

Regina waltzed in and out of South the past two seasons with the district championships, but this year Sharpe and North coach Leslie Harwood hope the Saddlelites' reign is over.

They are a very good team, but they're not unbeatable." said Sharpe, whose team won the Macomb Area Conference White Division championship. "They've won it in our place, so now maybe it's our turn to win it over there.'

Harwood wouldn't mind taking the hardware, either.

We have to face Regina in our first game, and we better be prepared," she said. "We have the physical capabilities of beating them, but if we don't come prepared and ready, then we'll make a quick exit. Sure I'd like to win it, but that's up to the girls and the way they approach the tournament.'

Sharpe's team is tournamenttested and that's why she may go home a winner. The Lady Blue Devils are also 28-4 (two regular season games were played after the paper's deadline). North is 13-11-2, with one game played Wednesday, Feb. 27 (after deadline).

South, which finished second at the first Wayne State Invitational of the year Jan. 26, returned to Wayne State Feb. 9 and won it.

"We play in tournaments during the year just to get ready for the state tournament," Sharpe said. "We know what we have to do and we just have to do it.''

South, North and Regina are the favorites going in because Southeastern and Finney are traditionally weaker teams. It also appears that South should walk right into the 12:30 p.m. finals because it drew Southeastern in the first round at 9 a.m., and if it wins will play Finney at 11 a.m.

"I would say the draw was a good one," said Sharpe. "It looks like we'll have two warm-up games before the finals, but any thing can happen. We know Southeastern and Finney are not strong teams, but we have to be ready.'

And those warm-up games should allow South the time it needs to prepare for Regina or

North, which play at 10 a.m. "It's going to give us time to get in sync and get our offense Sharpe said. "I don't think playing weaker teams will hurt us - if anything it may give us the momentum we

North and Regina both drew first round byes and scooted right to the semifinals, where North is more than capable of knocking off the defending

"Physically, I know we have the ability to stay with them,' said Harwood. "If my girls really want to win they have to keep their passes off the net and we must get better blocking.

"We haven't had a solid blocking season, and it has cost us in some matches. Also, we have this tendency to pass the ball right into the net, giving the opponent the chance to slam it right back in our faces. If we can stay away from those two things, we should be in it the whole way.'

If North beats Regina, and South beats the two Public School League teams, North and South would meet for the fourth time this season.

'We haven't beaten South in those three matches," Harwood said. "It would be great to play them again, and it would be even better to have a win."

Sharpe's got other plans.

"Physically, we're probably the toughest team, but if we're out of it emotionally, we won't prove our worth," she said. "If we play with guts and emotion, we'll win. I don't think we have to play totally out of our minds physically to win, but we have to be mentally geared up.

"We've had a few slip-ups emotionally during the season and we can't afford one in this tournament.'

That's because it's a one-game elimination tournament.

Coach Les Roddis' swim team at Grosse Pointe North made great strides this season, but didn't improve enough to knock off its No. 1 foe, Fraser.

After beating Utica Eisenhower, 102-68 on Feb. 19, the Norsemen lost to Fraser, 105-82, for the second time in as many meets.

At home vs. Eisenhower, the Norsemen were led by Jeff Dungan, who finished second in the 200 freestyle and third in the 100 freestyle. Jon Schmaltz was fifth in the 50 freestyle and the 100 butterfly, and J.P. Gamrat was second in the 100 backstroke and fourth in the 50 frees-

Chris Ditty was fourth in the 200 individual medley and third in the 100 breaststroke.

First-place winners included Steve Williams (200 and 500 free); Charlie Roddis (50 free, 100 butterfly); Peter Ellison (200 I.M., 100 breaststroke); and Rusty Milne in the 100 free and 100 back. Dungan, Ellis, Williams and Milne teamed to win the 400 free relay.

North finished the regular season 6-6 in dual meets.

It took three games, but the Lady Norsemen managed to dump L'Anse Creuse North, 15-11, 6-15, 15-6, Feb. 20 on the North was led by Katie Loeher's 12 service points and one ace. Defensively, Loeher had eight passes, four saves and was 15 of 16 on sets, inleuding two that went for kills.

Jenny Shapiro was perfect on eight serves, and had six service hits and four kills, and Bonnie Krieg had three blocks. Tricia Campau was perfect on 16 sets and Lori Haskell had five sets, one for a kill.

Gymnastics

Paula Herodote led North with a 7.95 on the floor and a statequalifying score of 7.5 on the beam, but the team fell short to Fraser, 137.3-114.3

Herodote also had a 7.8 on the vault.

Meagan Gray had an 8.2 on the vault for North and Debbie Stevenson had a 7.6 on the bars and a 7.9 on the floor. She will also be competing in the state regional meet on the bars.

Torrey Teetaert needs only two more qualifying scores to compete in the regional meet on the vault. Her score was 7.7 against Fraser.

"The kids read those quotes in your paper and immediately began talking about it," said Manzella. "These kids had lost to South twice before, and didn't want to lose again - especially after reading his (Mc-Cauley's) comments. However, they really were quiet about his comments. They just felt they would prove him wrong on the ice."

But that, too, was wrong. Perhaps what McCauley said is true, that North isn't as talented. Manzella would agree with that, to an extent. Manzella has said that he has many "house" players who had to play a travel-league schedule this season.

North had only one patsy (Ann Arbor Huron) on the schedule, and that was evident by its lackluster 4-15-1 record going into the tournament. But, the Norsemen aren't that bad. Any successful season, as the University Liggett School hockey team that won the Class B-C-D state title a season ago will agree, relies on some breaks and North didn't get

Big deal, North struggled all season long. Parents and fans were down on the team, but. they didn't understand what was going on. All they could see were the losses piling up, but a win over South would have washed all that away.

In the past three years, the Norsemen have sent five guys on to play college hockey. Manzella and his staff of Joe Pontone and Jeff Henchel are not to be condemned or ostracized for their losing record. Sure they didn't always have the answers to why there were three four-game losing streaks during the season, but they constantly tried to correct the mistakes and didn't give up.

Behind the fine playing of John Ferguson, who finished second in the league in scoring, and the repeated efforts of the coaching staff, the Norsemen are winners. Don't look at the record, and don't look at the off-ice problems a couple kids had. Look at the hearts and minds of these kids who constantly had their teeth kicked in game in and game out, but persevered and salvaged a season with pride and class.

The Roseville Panthers needed only one more victory in their last four games to clinch the Macomb Area Conference White Division championship, and South's basketball team was more than accommodating.

South, which has split its last six games, took its worst pounding of the season Feb. 21, losing to the Panthers, 82-49, at home.

'There's really nothing from that game to reflect on or worry about any longer," said Devils' coach George Petrouleas. "We've got to move on and concentrate on our next goal.'

South, 7-5 in the league and 12-6 overall, would like to catch second place Utica, and then move into the state tournament at Notre Dame with wins in its final two games.

"That game was a bad one like many teams have during the season," Petrouleas said. "It didn't come at a great time because we'd like to be rolling right now, but we've still got a couple guys hobbling around and we're not at full strength.

"But, take nothing away from Roseville because they played a strong game."

Co-captains Bill Leins and Tim Gramling are both nursing sore ankles, but both played in

"We had to play them and get their minutes in," Petrouleas said. "Basically, it was just a workout for them, but they are making progress."

Landlords, tenants: Know your law, know your lease

Before signing a lease on an apartment, duplex or house, tenants and landlords had better do their homework.

That means brushing up on the law, according to attorneys.

"My experience in 21 years of practice is that there are a lot of amateurs out there on both sides of the fence," said St. Clair Shores attorney Wayne Shehan. "And I think it's particularly dangerous to be an amateur landlord because they don't have the foggiest notion that there's a security deposit law and other laws that they have to follow."

The most important things that landlords and tenants should be aware of are the Michigan Security Deposit Act (MCLA 554.601), the terms of the lease, and the conditions for terminanting tenancy, according to Shehan and attorney Tom Lizza, of the Lizza, Mulcahy, Berg & Casey law firm in Detroit.

Enacted in 1972, the Michigan Security Deposit Act applies to all rental agreements, even those which are oral, Lizza said. According to the act, landlords cannot ask for a security deposit that is more than one and a half times the monthly rent. And once a landlord gets a security deposit, he must handle that money in a certain way.

If the landlord wants to use the security deposit money right away, he must file a cash security bond with the Michigan secretary of state, to ensure that the money will be there when the lease ends.

Otherwise, the landlord must deposit the money in a regulated financial institution, and the account must be used solely for the security deposit. "Technically, the security deposit is supposed to be kept in a second account, but I think a lot of people don't do that," said Lizza.

a good relationship with the tenant. You don't have to do everything to the nth degree if there's a good relationship. But if the relationship should sour for some reason, the landlord could find himself in a lot of trouble."

The Security Deposit Act also states that a landlord must provide a tenant with two blank copies of an inventory checklist when the tenant moves in. The tenant must complete one copy, noting the condition of carpeting, draperies, windows, walls, etc., and return it to the landlord within seven days. When the tenant moves out, he must complete the second copy of the checklist and give it to the landlord before leaving.

It's a good idea to have the landlord present when filling out the checklists, Lizza and Shehan say, to make sure that the tenant and landlord agree about the condition of the property. However, the law does not require the landlord to be present.

The tenant also is allowed to look at the last checklist filled out by the previous tenant.

Landlords use the checklists to determine if the tenant has caused any damage to the prop-

The landlord must mail an itemized list of damages and estimated repair costs to the tenant within 30 days after the expiration date of the lease. And, if the cost of the damages is less than the security deposit, the landlord must mail a check for the difference, along with the

If the landlord fails to do this, he forfeits his right to seek damages, Shehan and Lizza said.

"It's a real tight timetable that some people don't realize they have to follow," Shehan

Tenants also have to act quickly under the Security Deposit Act. Within four days of moving out, a tenant must give his new address to the landlord, so the landlord can send out the list of damages and/ or the refund check. Otherwise, the tenant forfeits his claim to the security deposit.

If the landlord and tenant disagree over the amount of damages, the landlord may file a civil suit in district court within 45 days of the date the tenant moved out. If the landlord fails to do either within that allotted time, he must pay the tenant double the security deposit. Landlords should also know that the law requires them to use a certain type size on some written agreements and correspondence with tenants, Shehan said.

Some stationery stores and title companies have preprinted forms landlords can use, and most libraries have books to help the novice landlord, Shehan said. People who are thinking about renting out more than one residential property, or renting out property on a long-term basis should consider consulting an attorney, he said.

In addition to the Security Deposit Act, tenants and landlords should make sure they understand the terms of the lease - when it starts and ends, the amount of rent and when it is due, and who pays for utilities. If it's not in the lease, the tenant should also ask the landlord who is responsible for maintenance, including lawn care and snow removal, and if subletting is al-

The landlord may collect a non-refundable cleaning fee in addition to the security deposit, as long as it is stated in the lease or agreed to by both parties, Lizza said.

Tenants also are protected by the Truth in Renting Act, MCLA 554.631, Lizza said. The statute lists 13 provisions that are prohibited in residential leases. According to the statute, the tenant and landlord cannot make each other forfeit the right to a jury trial, the landlord cannot alter the lease without the consent of the tenant, and the landlord's lawyer fees cannot be assigned to the tenant.

In addition, the landlord must make sure the property is kept in reasonable repair and that it complies with local and state health and safety laws for the term of the lease, Lizza said.

The tenant has a right to report any safety or health violation to the government and the landlord cannot kick the tenant out or raise the rent in retalia-

Also, the landlord cannot enter the tenant's premises without permission from the tenant, or without giving the tenant notice of the need to enter the premises to perform repairs, Lizza said.

When it comes to repairs, tenants have to be patient. After asking for something to be repaired, the tenant has to give the landlord a "reasonable" amount of time to make the re-

What is a reasonable amount of time?

"That depends. If the water heater or furnace blows up, obviously that's more serious than if you need a shelf fixed in your closet. It depends on the facts and conditions of the situation," Lizza said.

If the repairs are not made after repeated requests and within a reasonable amount of time, the tenant may have the defect repaired and deduct the cost from the rent. However, if the landlord disagrees with the amount spent on the repairs, or thinks he wasn't given a reasonable period of time, he may begin proceedings to evict the tenant.

"So, it's best to try to work these things out before withholding rent," Lizza said.

A tenancy can only be terminated early if the lease is breached by one of the parties, according to Shehan.

For example, a tenant may move out if the landlord failed to provide basic services in the lease, such as water. And a landlord may begin proceedings to evict the tenant if he is late with the rent.

"I've had people call me, asking how they can break their lease, because they've got another job and have to move somewhere else," Shehan said. "I tell them there isn't any way you can break a lease — it's a legal contract. Their best bet is to go to the landlord and say, 'I'd like to move out, will you let me out.' Usually, if there's a waiting list, or if the place isn't hard to rent, the landlord will let them out of the lease. Other than that, the only thing a tenant can do is sublet, if the lease allows subletting, or rather, if there's nothing in the lease prohibiting subletting.

The landlord has the right to approve the person who will be subletting the property; however, the landlord cannot discriminate on the basis of religion, race, color, nationality, origin, age, sex, marital status or a physical or mental handicap.

If a landlord wants a tenant out, he can't lock the person out, or use threats or force or cut off essential services (such as running water, electricity) to get that person out, even if the tenant is late with the rent, according to Michigan law.

To have a tenant evicted, the landlord must obtain a judgment for possession and and a writ of restitution from a district court judge. If done correctly, this can be accomplished in about a month, Shehan said.

Before beginning such legal proceedings, a landlord should read up on the subject or consult a lawyer, Shehan said.

House plans features alternate elevations

Alternate elevations provide the Gentry with two unique contemporary styles. Elevation A features impressive gable ends which project a tall and dominating plan, while Elevation B has a soft shed roof design that blends the home into a variety of settings.

An elegant entry is the introduction to the Gentry. The floor is tiled, and the ceiling rises the full two stories to take advantage of the light from the clerestory windows. Ahead, a wide switch back stairway adds grace to the welcome.

A half wall allows a view of the large, sunken living room, with its vaulted ceiling. A guest closet and powder room contribute to entertaining with ease and style. Bifold doors in the powder room hide the utility.

The double door entrance to a luxurious master suite is situated at the base of the stairway. Furniture placement is easy in this room, due to its size and the several uninteruppted lengths of walls. Sliding glass doors open to a protected deck.

A dressing area includes a double vanity, with sidelight windows offering natural light, and a huge walk-in closet. In a separate compartment are the shower and commode.

The family room features a brick fireplace, recessed into a

Study compares home prices

A Home Price Comparison Index, conducted by Coldwell Banker Residential Group, reveals that a 2,200 square-foot single-family home could have been bought in the last quarter of 1990 for as little as $82,338 in Corpus Christi, Texas, or for as much as $1,491,667 in Beverly Hills, Calif.

The survey compares the average sales price of at least three similar houses sold during the last quarter of 1990 in each of 219 markets in the United States, Canada and Puerto Rico. The property studied for this year's index is typical for a corporate middle-management transferee; approximately 2,200 square feet with four bedrooms, 2-1/2 baths, family room or equivalent and two-car garage.

Chandler Barton, chairman and chief executive officer of Coldwell Banker Residential Group, said, "The survey shows that you get the most for your money in the central United States, where in 10 markets the subject property was priced under $100,000, including Fort Smith, Ark.; Evansville, Ind.; Kansas City, Kan.; Jackson, Mich.; Omaha, Neb.; Oklahoma City and Tulsa, Okla.; Memphis, Tenn.; and Corpus Christi and San Antonio, Texas.

The median price of all homes in the study was $199,036. In addition to studying the prices of the property, Coldwell Banker also calculated the average days the homes were on the market before they sold. One-half of the markets surveyed said it took less than 90 days (category A) for the homes to sell, while less than 10 percent of the markets

Home & Leisure Show at Cobo features home security exhibits

Even homeowners who dislike shopping will find it hard to resist. The first-ever "Security Mall" at the Home & Leisure Show set for May 18-27 at Cobo

Many of the newest and most sophisticated home security products will be on sale for the first time, all in one place. Products will include closed-circuit TV entry systems, electronic pistol protection systems, and gun safes.

According to Larry Williams, show director for the Security Mall, a significant promotional effort is being conducted by the Home & Leisure Show itself toward attracting the buying pub-

"The show organizers are spending $200,000 to promote this show on radio, TV, and in publications," Williams

"The idea of a Security Mall is long overdue. Most homeowners don't know what they need, what's available on the market, or where to go to find out. The Security Mall provides them the opportunity to become more aware of the concept of security, as well as the products, and how to go about acquiring the right product or system they really

Study for a builders' license

The Michigan Builders Institute, in cooperation with Grosse Pointe Community Education, will offer a 16-hour evening seminar to prepare people to pass the Michigan state builders' licensing examination.

The seminar will be held on Mondays, April 29 through May 20, at Barnes School, 20900 Merningside Drive, in Grosse Pointe Woods.

The course is designed for people in the building trades who are now working without a license who want to obtain one, as well as for those who want to build their own homes. The cost of the seminar is $150 per person and includes all materials.

Pre-registration is required no later than Friday, April 26, to Grosse Pointe Community Education. Call 343-2178 to register during school office hours.

The course instructor is a consed builder with extensive experience teaching builders* pre-licensing classes. The coowner of a residential building company, he is able to answer questions related to all facets of home building.

ADOPT A PET

PLEASE DON'T DELAY! SPAY or NEUTER YOUR PET TODAY!

An altered pet is a healthier and happier companion. Also, it spares you the grief and pain of having puppies and kittens destroyed when no homes can be found. Countless numbers of sweet, innocent little ones are euthanized every day in shelters across the country because a pet wasn't spayed or neutered. If we cut down on the numbers of unwanted litters being born, we will also cut down on the number of abandoned, lost and unwanted animals to destroy. WE WILL BE HAPPY TO PROVIDE ADVICE as well as a LIST OF ECONOMICAL SERVICE SOURCES Call us at:

ADVERTISERS:

Newspapers Tip the Scale In Your Favor

You be the judge. When you weigh the differences, other advertising mediums just don't carry the weight that newspaper advertising does:

BILLBOARDS - You'd have to stop traffic in order for customers to read your ad. Driving by at the speed limit doesn't leave much time to get your message across.

DIRECT MAIL - An open and shut case. Does your message get read or thrown away?

RADIO - Are your customers listening at the exact time and tuned in to the same station your message is airing?

TELEVISION - Will your customers still be in the room when your commercial comes on? If they're like most folks, they'll probably be raiding the refrigerator. And even if they do happen to catch your message, will they remember it ten minutes later?

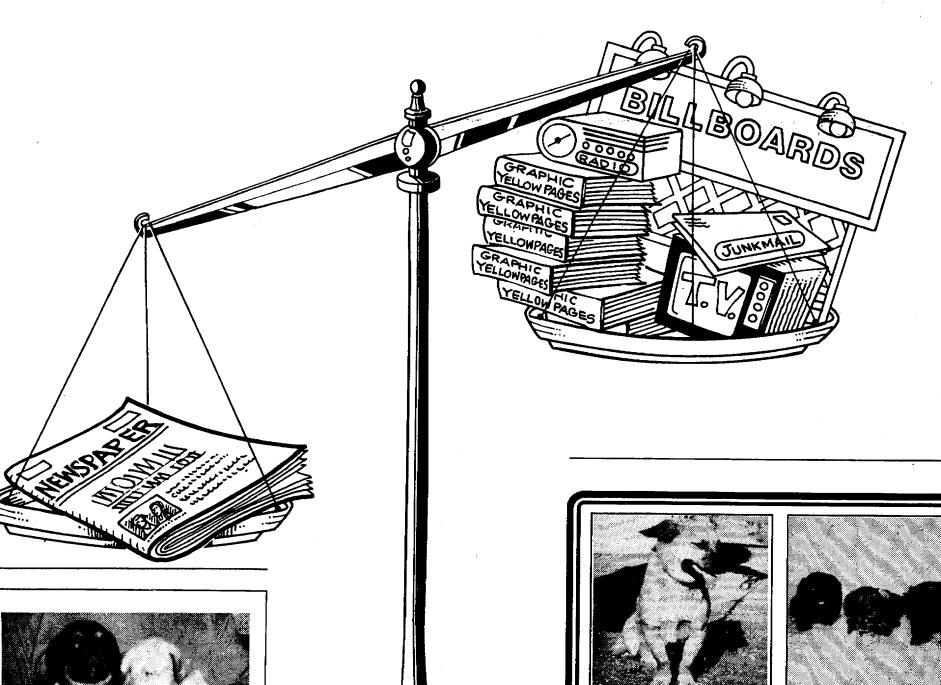

YELLOW PAGES - There's your ad on page 735, sandwiched in among 15 other businesses just like yours. And there it sits all year long. Maybe someone'll see your ad, but if they're not looking for it, who knows?

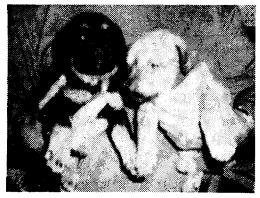

NEWSPAPERS - Customers turn to newspapers for the advertising as well as the news. Your ads are current, visible and they'll be seen by our entire circulation. You'll get more mileage from your advertising, at a cost that's comparatively lower than any other medium.

Your advertising dollars are just too precious to waste, so put them where they'll get the best results!
