Don't toss your yellow ribbons; recycle them for Fourth of July parade

By Donna Walker Staff Writer

Remember the yellow ribbons that popped up around the community to support the United States troops in Operation Desert Storm? Well, the Grosse Pointe War Memorial is asking residents to donate their ribbons to the Grosse Pointes' Fourth of July parade.

"It's not that we want residents to take down their ribbons, it's if they're doing it anyway," said Suzy Berschback of the War Memorial.

'We've noticed that a lot of people are taking down their ribbons. For example, Three Mile Drive was filled with ribbons, but they're not there any more. It got back to us that residents just threw them away, and we thought that was a shame.'

Donated yellow ribbons will be used to make floats for the parade, which is being billed as "Salute America: A Tribute to Operation Desert Storm."

Sponsored by all five of the Pointes, Harper Woods and the War Memorial, the parade will start at 9:30 a.m. July 4 on Lakeshore at Moross and end at the War

Drop-boxes for the vellow ribbons are located in all six city halls.

Volunteers are also needed to help build floats, march in the parade, or make contributions to sponsor a band.

President George Bush has designated July 4 as a national day to honor the men and women who served in Operation Desert Storm.

Fifty-nine Grosse Pointers served in Operation Desert Storm.

As of May 10, 23 of them had returned to their home bases, according to the War Memorial.

Those who have returned home are: Air Force personnel Norman J. Arends, John F. Kujat, Becky Roberts, Christopher J. Ross, David Woodrow; Army personnel Anthony J. Esperti, William Denler, Jason Fontella, John Hielscher, Gerald Lee, Jason E. Power, Karen Robertson; Marine personnel Matthew Armstrong, Robert Marsh, Joseph Vadio; National Guard personnel, Alita S. Irwin; Navy personnel, Eric Fordon, Sarah J. Hondrum, Michael Krieg, Myron G. Sherer, John Stickford, Kelly Rae Smith, Ward Szerlag.

In addition to the Independence Day parade, Grosse Pointe Woods will host its traditional fireworks display on June 30, and the War Memorial will host a free concert by the U.S. Air Force Band of the Midwest on Monday, July 1.

For more information about any of these events, call the Grosse Pointe War Memorial at 881-7511, from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., Monday through Saturday.

New service ensures that even minor youth crimes are punished

By John Minnis Assistant Editor

Skipping school, breaking curfew, smoking cigarettes these are all minor offenses that would normally warrant a slap on the wrist, but not in the Pointes and Harper Woods.

Since 1986, the six communities and police officials have helped sponsor the Youth Assistance Program for youthful offenders, such as minors in possession of alcohol or other drugs. The program is now operated by the Children's Home of Detroit.

But the intensive 15-week program was viewed as overkill for truants or park trespassers, for example. Often, these minor offenses went unpunished.

The Youth Assistance Program, however, now offers a five-week Status Offenders Service for youths under the age of as young as 7.

Status offenders are young people who are guilty of an offense primarily because of their status as juveniles. For example, cigarette smoking, truancy and curfew violations are status offenses.

Of course, non-status offenses can be treated through the new offenders service, such as trespassing, malicious destruction of property and skateboarding on the street.

"We don't want the word to go out that you can get away with minor offenses," said Sgt. James Smith, Grosse Pointe Park's youth officer.

Youth Assistance Program director C. Sartor said the purpose of the two youth offenders programs is to ensure that juvenile offenders face swift and sure consequences for their actions. She said eight youths from the five Pointes and Harper Woods have been referred to the 2-month-old Status Offenders Service

When youths are picked up by local police for minor offenses, they are given the choice of going through Wayne County Probate Court or the Youth Assistance Program. Many of the lesser offenses may warrant little more than a letter back from the juvenile court system.

"In all fairness to Probate Court," Smith said, "it is overloaded.

While the Youth Assistance Program requires counseling and 15 hours of community service, families often prefer that route because the offenses do not become part of the youths' records if they successfully complete the program.

Also, some parents may want their children to face the consequences of their actions.

A status offender who agrees to go through the assistance program must first undergo a screening process. Smith and Sartor said the screening helps counselors find underlying problems, such as substance abuse by the youth or a family member. If necessary, the youth or family members are referred to other appropriate programs.

program," Smith said, "is there nursing homes and day care is a screening with Youth Assistance Program officials to look for potential problems."

The screening helps determine whether the youth will use the Status Offenders Service or get more extensive counseling through the Youth Assistance Program. A trespasser in a park after hours may go through the offenders service program, for example, but a trespasser who was also consuming alcoholic beverages might be required to go through the 15-week Youth Assistance Program. He and Sartor said youthful offenders are handled on a caseby-case basis.

Along with getting counseling, offenders service participants are required to complete five hours of community service. Furthermore, they are responsible for finding an appropriate community service work "The nice thing about this site. Some work at hospitals, centers. Smith said one youth performed community service at the school where he committed the offense.

The offenders service couselors will provide the youths with a list of places they could approach for community service, and Sartor said the program is always looking for volunteers willing to work with youths to help them fulfill the community service requirement.

Sartor said the Status Offenders Service was proposed by local youth officers.

"It's a fine program," Smith said. "It really is."

The five Grosse Pointes and Harper Woods all contribute financially to the Youth Assistance Program.

Pointer of Interest Henry de Segur Lauve

By John Minnis Assistant Editor

After more than half a century in the automotive business, Henry de Segur Lauve still gets a charge out of designing cars.

His current endeavor is producing an electric car. 'We modestly call it the best

electric car in the world." said

Henry de Segur Lauve

Lauve, 72, who has lived with his wife, Mary, in Grosse Pointe Woods since the 1950s.

Actually, the car is called the Silver Volt. Twelve prototypes of the car have been built by Lauve and partners through their Electric Auto Corp. based in Troy.

What make Lauve's electric car stand out - besides its body design, which is Lauve's specialty - are the batteries. The special battery design can be fast-charged in 45 minutes instead of eight hours, as is the case with other electric car prototypes, Lauve said.

"They talk about going 0 to 60 in so many seconds," he said, "but then you have no battery left. It's the fast charge that's important."

For a test run of the Silver Volt, Lauve drove to Chicago, a distance of 284 miles from Grosse Pointe. He made one stop to recharge the batteries in Kalamazoo and in less than an hour he was on his way

Spring cleaning set for Mack

Assistant Editor

'Acquaintances" of Park Municipal Judge Kirsten Frank and Farms Judge Matthew Rumora will pick up litter along Mack Avenue Saturday.

The cleanup is part of the annual spring campaign by the Grosse Pointe Business & Professional Association of Mack Avenue. The acquaintances of the two local judges are misdmeanor offenders they sentenced to the Wayne County Alternative Work Force. Bob Mowbray, co-owner of Village Lock and Home Repair in the Park and the organizer of the Mack Avenue cleanup, said the effort is a symbolic gesture to make people aware, at least once a year, of the importance of maintaining the business district. A clean, attractive commercial area is beneficial to the residential neighborhoods as well, he said.

"As goes Mack Avenue, so goes the residences behind it," he said. "It's a two-way street."

This year's cleanup has expanded to cover Mack from Conner in Detroit to Old Eight Mile at the St. Clair Shores

On Saturday, Mack will be cleaned and swept and flowers will be planted by neighborhood clubs, beautification commissions and business leaders. Many of the flowers were ordered through the Mack business association.

But for those needing flowers, the Grosse Pointe Woods Beautification Commission's annual flower sale is Friday and Saturday

Also, business associations in the Hill, Village and in the Park's Jefferson, Kercheval and Charlevoix commercial districts will spruce up their areas, Mowbray said, and in the Shores, flowers will be planted along Lakeshore.

He encouraged residents near Mack to walk along the business area from 9 a.m. to noon Saturday and give the business owners and managers and civic volunteers a pat on the back for their efforts. Residents can do the same throughout the Pointes as well.

For the second year, the Wayne County Alternative Work Force will assist in the Mack Avenue cleanup. The work force consists of misdemeanor offenders, such as drunk drivers or shoplifters,

The second site is the James Kerby House, 116 Kerby Road, Grosse Pointe Farms. The Federal style clapboard house was owned by James Kerby on land owned by the Kerby family from 1792 to 1961. Although the exact age of the house and the architect are unknown, its design and construction suggests the 1870s or 1880s. Recent renovations include the remodeling of the lean-to kitchen and the addition of a side room by the current owner, Mrs. Joseph Hartmann.

The Grosse Pointe Hunt Club, 655 Cook Road, Grosse Pointe Woods, was also honored. The Hunt Club, founded in 1911, is located on the 19th century Augustus Cook farm. The original 1860's brick farmhouse forms part of the club house with additions of a fire-

The Briarcliff campus was designed by James Gibson as the third home of the all-girl Liggett School in 1965. Following the merger of Liggett with Grosse Pointe University School in 1969, this campus became the co-ed middle school for University Liggett.

Each site was awarded a bronze plaque, created by J. William Gorski, which is designed to be prominently displayed. The plaque features the windmill, symbol of the historical society and the windmill that once stood in what is now Grosse Pointe Park.

Farms, Woods to hold budget hearings; both weigh millage increases

By Donna Walker

It's budget time in Grosse Pointe Woods and Grosse Pointe Farms.

The Woods and Farms councils will each hold a public hearing at 7:30 p.m. May 20 at their respective city halls regarding their proposed budgets and tax increases for 1991-92.

The Woods

At the Woods hearing, a .2564 mill increase will be discussed.

One mill equals $1 tax for each $1,000 of a property's state equalized valuation (SEV), or in other words, a tenth of a cent for each $1 of SEV is approximately onehalf of a property's market value.

For the 1990-91 fiscal year, Grosse Pointe Woods levied a total of 11.7395 mills for general operating costs, the emergency medical services program, solid waste disposal and recycling, and the retirement of swimming pool and park redevelopment bonds.

Under the state "Truth in Taxation" law, the city would have to rollback its tax rate to 11.0176 mills for the 1991-92 fiscal year, which begins in

The law says that a city's operating millage has to be rolled back in proportion to the average increase in the city's

For 1990-91, the Woods will have received approximately $5.63 million in taxes (.0117395 x $480 million). Before the Truth in Taxation rollback, 1991-92 city taxes would have totaled approximately $6.05 million (.0117395 x $515 million). After the rollback, city taxes in 1991-92 would total approximately $5.67 million (.0110176 x $515 million).

However, the city cannot maintain its current level of services - such as ambulances manned by advanced medical technicians, recycling, incineration, negotiated salary increases and maintenance of the city's infrastructure - on that amount of money, according to city comptroller-treasurer Clifford Maison.

In order to maintain the current level of services provided by the city, the city council is considering raising the tax rate by .2564 mills after the the rollback, which would bring the total number of mills levied to 11.2750.

Under the Headlee Amendment, the city council has the authority to raise the total tax rate to up to 119.0932 mills without a vote of the people, as long as a public hearing is

If the city did not raise the millage after the Truth in Taxation roll back, it would have to cut approximately $128,000 out of the budget, and "that would not be fiscally responsible," said Woods Mayor Robert Novitke.

Maison said that the average 1991-92 SEV for Woods homeowners is $71.579.

Before the Truth in Taxation rollback, the average homeowner would have paid $840.30 in city taxes for 1991-92 (.0117395 x $71,579). After the rollback. he would have paid $788.63 (.0110176 x: $71,579). With the rollback and proposed millage increase, the resident will pay $806.98.

Grosse Pointe Woods' proposed 1991-92 city budget is $18,742,500, compared to $18.892.220 for 1990-91.

Included in the proposed budget are: $8,164,000 for the general fund; $3,832,300 for the special revenue fund: $1,665,950 for the debt fund: $203,500 for the capital project fund; $390,250 for the enterprise fund; and $926,500 for the motor vehicle fund.

The 1990-91 budget was $18,892,220, and included $7,949,000 for the general fund.

The general fund is used to pay for general government, public safety, public works and parks and recreation expenditures. Also included in the general fund is contingency money for emergencies.

Novitke called it "11 very modest, responsible, proposed budget."

He said it was especially so considering the Woods lost more than $85,000 this year in state revenue sharing funds due to a population decrease of 1,711 people, according to the 1990 U.S. Census. ... s

According the census, the Woods had 17,175 residents in 1990, compared to 18,886 in

The more expensive items in the proposed budget are public safety ($3,742,400), the water/ sewer fund ($3,368,800), public works ($1,681,800), the local street fund ($1,506,150) and solid wastes/disposal/recycling ($1,233,500). On the other end of the spectrum are special training for public safety officers ($8,300) and drug enforcement ($1,050).

Novitke said proposed budget increases were kept at or below 5.4 percent, the rate of infla-

Through careful budgeting and luck, Novitke said, the Woods will have approximately $600.000 left over from the 1990-91 budget to apply to the upcoming budget.

The Farms

Grosse Pointe Farms' proposed budget of $8,070,600 for 1991-92 is $379,600 more than the 1990-91 final budget.

Highlights include $1,926,075 for police service (down from $1,931,800 in 1990-91). $1,843,590 for public works (up from $1,834,400 in 1990-91), $686,100 for general government (up from $647,810 in 1990-91) and $390,924 for sewage (down from $421,000 in

The Farms should have an estimated $840,000 leftover from its 1990-91 budget to apply toward the 1991-92 budget, due to careful budgeting and emergencies that were planned for but didn't happen, said John Lamerato, Farms con-

Like the Woods, the Farms has lost state sharing revenue dollars - about $9,000 - due to its declining population.

According to the U.S. Census Bureau, the Farms had 10,092 residents in 1990, compared to Farms City Clerk Richard G. Solak said the city anticipated the loss in state sharing revenue dollars last year and budgeted accordingly.

For 1990-91, the Farms total SEV was approximately $430 million, compared to an estimated $468.4 million in 1991-

A homeowner who had a SEV of $100,000 in 1990-91 received a SEV of approximately $109.000 for 1991-92, according to Lamerato. Residential assessments rose by 9 percent across the board for 1991-92, he

In 1990-91, the Farms levied a total of 10.75 mills. Under the Truth in Taxation law, the Farms has to lower its tax rate to 9.92 mills for 1991-92. However, to maintain the present level of city services, the city council is considering levying an extra 43 mills. That would bring the total tax rate up to 10.35 mills, resulting in a 4.9 percent increase in city taxes for residential property owners, Lamerato said.

Under the Headlee Amendment, the Farms can raise the tax rate up to 14.788 mills without a vote of the people, as long as a public hearing is

Cities, states fight to meet public's needs

rom New York City to the Grosse Pointes, from Maine to Michigan, the nation's cities and states are seeking ways to finance social services as well as cultural and other public programs threatened by scarce tax dollars.

Michigan's fiscal crisis is unparalleled in the years since the Great Depression. Almost everyone admits the state government has to tighten its belt but few approve of the economies proposed by Gov. John Engler for the state of Michigan.

Detroit, like other aging metropolitan centers, is facing a rough summer with cutbacks in services, including those provided by its police department, at a time of heavy unemployment and high major crime rates.

In fact, the state appears to be bashing Detroit again by axing aid to its cultural programs and cutting back welfare and other programs that benefit Detroit's poor and unfortunate.

GOP state Sen. Vern Ehlers, Grand Rapids, in effect confirmed the bashing when he said while "there is no intention to decimate Detroit or the symphony or the DIA, the outstate perspective is that they've had it pretty soft for a number of years," adding that "Detroit has been getting special treatment."

Yet the senator, like the governor, forgets that the state assumed the major support for Detroit's cultural jewels after the city had lost its ability to do so. GOP Gov. William Milliken, who backed state aid to Detroit, argued that Detroit's cultural jewels were state assets and thus state responsibilities.

However, recent news headlines in the Detroit dailies show that the cutbacks, real and proposed, have bashed more than Detroit: "Engler plans deeper cuts for arts in '92," "Engler would shift health care costs," "State cuts create water crisis for welfare recipients," "Prepaid welfare rent to end soon" and "Board ends welfare for 95,000."

But there is little or no agreement in Lansing or elsewhere on ways to avoid such cuts. A majority of respondents to one public opinion poll did favor a small tax increase and some reductions in services as an alternative to Engler's budgetbalancing efforts that rested chiefly on proposed cutbacks in services.

But instead of offering an alternative to the governor's program, the Democrats are claiming credit for the 1992 tax assessment freeze and avoiding tax hike plans as if they were the plague.

One of the latest of many political disputes between the parties to head toward the courts arises from the governor's action in using the little known State Administrative Board, which he and his GOP colleagues control, to end state benefits for 95,000 able-bodied recipients of General Assistance allotments.

Democratic House Speaker Lewis Dodak challenged the action in court on the grounds it was a "blatant and unprecedented" attempt "to usurp legislative au-

The governor said the board action will enable the state to shift funds to continue aid to about 20,000 families and disabled GA recipients; restore earlier cuts in state subsidies for families with foster children and for adoptive parents of special-needs children, and avoid deeper cuts in Aid to Families with Dependent Children and

Much of the current trouble began in the early 1980s when the federal government began to trim its support for the cities and states. Since then, the states have declined in economic health and the cities have further deteriorated so that they've had to cut back on what once was regarded as essential service.

Detroit, which already has cut its services and personnel sharply, is still faced with declining federal and state aid, a shrinking tax base and a continuing heavy burden of social programs.

Yet Detroit now employs only 200 employees per 10,000 population and spends $748 in per capita city funds to pay city expenses. In contrast, the average per capita spending for city expenses in the average American city of more than 300,000 was $972.

But where can Detroit cut further without opening the door to additional crime and population loss? With new cutbacks in the hours of the state highway patrol and in social service programs, the state now faces the same fundamental question. It's obvious the expected economic revival can't come too soon.

U.S. breathes sigh of relief ow that George Bush's doctors have discovered that an easily treated overactive thyroid gland was the cause of his fluttering heartbreat, the American people are breathing sighs of relief.

They are doing so not only because they have good reason to believe the busy president is once again fully capable of continuing his arduous duties but also because they still have some qualms about the capabilities of Vice President Dan Quayle, who would succeed to the presidency in case anything happened to oter satisfaction apparently explains the fact that Grosse Pointe Shores will start the 1991 election schedule in the Pointes Tuesday, May 21, with three incumbents running unopposed for the village council.

The three in the race are John Huetteman III, seeking a fourth term; Rose Garland Thornton, running for a third term, and N. William O'Keefe, candidate for a second term after being appointed in 1988.

Lack of formal opposition to incumbents usually reflects one of two situations: voter apathy or voter satisfaction. In the Shores, the latter appears to offer the best explanation.

In prior years, sticker candidates occasionally emerged to contest the election of formal candidates but at the News' presstime none had been reported. That is further support for the belief that Shores voters are well satisfied with the current

In view of the president's consistent support of his other embattled White House colleagues and staff members, it is unlikely that Bush will replace Quayle on the GOP ticket when he seeks re-election next year. And his denunciation of Quayle's media detractors last week gave no hint of lessening support.

Dumping Quayle would be an admission of error, which no president likes to make. But it also would upset the uitraconservative wing of the Republican Party which has adopted Quayle as their representative in the White House.

The right wing, with some justification, likes to repeat the current ungrammatical slogan, "If it ain't broke, don't fix it." What that means in the current context is that with the polls still showing an extremely high popularity rating for the president, the GOP shouldn't tinker with a winning team as it heads into 1992.

To his credit, Quayle jokes that since the president has an 89 percent approval rating in the public opinion polls and he has 19 percent (but higher in more recent polls), the team wins 100 percent public support.

Yet the question that remains, and was revived in view of the president's brief illness, is whether Quayle is really qualified to serve as president.

If only a minority of the people think he is, doesn't the president have a responsibility to all of the people, rather than only to the GOP right wing, which should require him to review the qualifications of his 1988 choice before he makes his final decision about the 1992 team?

We think he does bear such a responsi-

Editor's note: The writer requested that the following letter, sent to Gov. John Engler, be reprinted here.

Thank you for trying to freeze state employee wages. I note average compensation, with benefits, for state employees is $44.428. This is 29 percent higher than the $34,470 average compensation with benefits for employees of NBD Bancorp, the largest financial service firm in the state.

There may be good reasons to pay public employees higher than the private sector, but I do hope this is not reflected in pay for similar jobs. This would help make our private sector uncompetitive.

Paul who? enters 1992 race

n extremely long shot has emerged as the first announced candidate for the 1992 Democratic nomination for president.

He is Paul Tsongas, a former U.S. senator from Massachusetts, who sees himself as a modern Paul Revere who plans to gallop across the country to warn of a catastrophic economic threat to this country's standard of living.

Tsongas, who as a U.S. senator won support from business for his efforts to invigorate U.S. industry, has pieced together a 10-point program that he has put into a booklet, "A Call to Economic Arms: The New American Mandate," to serve as the basis for his campaign.

Overall, he is quoted as saying that his campaign will be based on economics. But he adds: "I care about other issues like education and environment and women. but that is not what got me into the

Other Democrats are testing the waters, but none of them has jumped in with as firm a commitment and as broad a campaign plan as Tsongas.

If he makes a serious run, Tsongas will bear the burden of two similarities to former Gov. Michael Dukakis, the 1938 Democratic standard-bearer who was swamped by George Bush. Tsongas, too, is a Greek-American and a former public official from Massachusetts, the one-time "miracle state" that now has fallen on hard times. Worse, perhaps. Tsongas is even less widely known than Dukakis who in 1988 was at least a veteran governor when he made the plunge.

Tsongas retired from the Senate in 1984 after one term because of a serious bout with lymphoma, an often fatal cancer, but he feels he might be able to repeat that upset victory over illness by capturing the Democratic nomination.

An unlikely winner of the Democratic nomination or the presidency, Tsongas still deserves a hearing because he departs from his liberal faith to contend that business, government and labor must cooperate to protect America's living standard and its place in the world.

In our view, the candidates and the 1992 campaign ought to deal with the issue that Tsongas raises because it's one that troubles many Americans.

These phones are made for walking

The bell no longer tolls for me. Or for anyone else in my house, for that matter.

The clear, sharp ringing has been replaced by a muted warble. And after one week, we still don't recognize the signal that someone is trying to reach out and touch us.

We decided to replace not one, but two, rotary dial telephones with sleek, space age push button wonders with brains. Well, a memory, anyway. And one of these new smart phones comes without an umbilical cord.

I dutifully read the manual from front to back, filled up the memory with nine numbers of my closest and dearest and then did something I never do - dialed a friend for no reason I had to test the new toy. I sat talking for a few minutes near its battery-charging other half before it dawned on me that I was no longer tethered to a six-foot perimeter. So I began walking aimlessly from room to room, feeling useless and won-dering why I was walking and talking for no reason at all. Later that night my husband's brother called. The phone rang four times before I realized that strange sound was not coming from the TV. I answered the phone and then walked that baby over to my husband in the other room.

This is not bad, I thought. My son came home from work and listened eagerly as I explained the new system. He's of the computer generation the ones for whom those me-

We played with the intercom. walking to other rooms and talking to each other. He went into the bathroom and closed the door and we said things like, "Wow, this is great."

We played with the page/find button, the feature that allows the liberated telephone speaker to send out a distress signal when it's lost. Can't find the phone because someone walked off with it and then laid it down who knows where? Just press the page/find button and that little lost chick will peep until you find it.

After we tested those features, we turned our attention to the other electronic marvel that we bought along with the new phone equipment - what else but a live answering machine, a flashing gizmo with an audiocassette tape that looks like it was made for Ken and Barbie, which is to say that it is very small - 1 inch by 2 inches to be exact. I have fingers fatter than that.

My son recorded a message and rerecorded until he was satisfied.

I had also read the manual on the answering machine thoroughly. Reading both of those manuals took a big chunk out of my Saturday.

I instructed everyone how to save messages and how to access the system from another phone. On separate pieces of paper for their wallets, I wrote down the secret code that would enable them to tap into messages from distant places. Then my husband and I went out for the evening.

When we returned. I went straight to the answering machine to listen to all of the messages. The flashing light that indicates there is a message was not flashing. It wasn't even winking. There was not one message waiting. Talk about disappointing.

The next day was a rerun. We went someplace, came home and found an unblinking, uncaring machine. Had everyone forgotten about us? My anxiety level went up.

The following day when I returned home from work, the machine was nearly dancing with excitement, flashing its light on and off almost brazenly.

It was my friend. She didn't want me to be disappointed again, so she left a funny message and said there was no need to call her back.

Well, that's like your first love or your first car - you have to acknowledge your first message on your answering machine. I called her back to thank her for her thoughtfulness. She wasn't home. I left a message on her answering maching.

And now my worst fear has come true - we not only talk to machines, we have a dialogue with them. We also have a word for that. It's called prog-

Debate on assisted suicide

For a man on trial for murder, Bertram Harper seemed at ease with himself. And why not? The 50 or so sympathetic folks at the Hemlock Society meeting must have looked like the advance wave of change rolling across the country

Even as two tough bills to criminalize assisted suicide are in committee in Lansing, a parallel move to set up a study commission may defer action on the controversy.

In the mere year-and-a-half of its existence, Hemlock of Michigan has grown from 23 members to 757, and that's not counting anyone who signed up last Tuesday when the group met in Grosse Pointe.

Feeling in the right, Harper had declined a plea bargain in which he would get off with probation if he pleaded guilty to manslaughter. His wife, "Ginger," had seen enough difficult deaths to fear her own. he said last week. He was confident that she knew what she wanted and that he owed it to her to help her in her last re-

Now that Harper has been acquitted and his confidence justified, new impetus for and increased opposition to an assisted suicide law might be expected.

Compassion toward the dying is what Hemlock is all about. Founder Derek Humphrey, a former journalist, brought the subject to national and international attention when he published his story, "Jean's Way," about helping his wife to die about 15 years ago. Now the group is devoted to education and lobbying for the concept of legal physician-assisted suicide. or the right to choose a death with dignity.

"Jean's Way" started an avalanche of requests to Humphrey for information and h in dying. "One woman offered me her Cadillac if I would come and help her," he told the audience last week.

But Humphrey isn't in the business of attending deaths and, despite the increased awareness of Hemlock aroused by Dr. Kevorkian's "suicide machine," he doesn't march in lockstep with the maverick doctor, either.

We call him the loose cannon of the euthanasia movement," he said.

The public is ahead of the lawmakers on this issue, with some polls showing 60 percent of the respondents in favor of assisted suicide. Although a California petition to establish assisted suicide failed for lack of signatures, it had been widely expected to succeed, and petitioners are trying again. Assisted suicide is already on the November ballot in Washington state, and six Oregon legislators have approached Hemlock for model legislation.

The Hemlock Society arranged for Harper's lawyer and paid some of the legal expenses, but their real goal is to change the law. But in spite of substantial public support, Humphrey doesn't think it will be easy

"It is part of the history of social change that as reformers start to win cases, the authorities begin to clamp down to show there's no need to change," he said.

There's also some pretty stiff opposition from some religious groups. Like abortion, assisted suicide is surrounded by exceptionally thorny ethical questions

Interestingly enough, Humphrey doesn't think doctors as a whole are opposed to a well-

thought-out assisted suicide

"I'm convinced that 60 percent of the medical profession is behind us - once we change the law," he said. "Some doctors are already breaking the to do that."

People interested in reading more about assisted suicide may send a stamped, addressed envelope for a list of books available through Hemlock to: E.S. McNeil, 27478 Strathmoor, Warren, Mich. 48092.

It is curious testimony to the volatility of the human temperament that I began to feel better when I realized I'd been ripped off.

It had been one of those days. A day when you want to chuck it all, ban bad news, and move to Alaska. With no forwarding address.

And then I discovered that my tapes were gone.

This is not good news, of course, but my sense of irony asserted itself. Here I was at a committee meeting on a Saturday at a church in Grosse Pointe. I was Doing Good in the lowest crime area in southeastern Michigan and somebody went into the back seat of my car and took a box of tapes.

A cardboard box of tapes. Concerti, big band and, fergodssake, John Philip Sousa. Also a speech with lots of static.

So if you see a hip teenager strutting along with Sousa marches pounding on his boombox, you'll know.

But she/he didn't get my Cracker Jacks.

This admittedly minor crime occurred because I didn't lock my car. I know this because Bob has told me about 10

But haven't we all noticed the randomness of crime?

Fisheries researchers are doing several studies to determine how these little guys move, grow, survive and reproduce. It all has something to do with sport fishing in the Great Lakes.

The ones with clipped adipose fins have a microscopic wire tag implanted in their snouts. Anglers who catch these fish are asked to freeze their heads (the fishes') and return them to any DNR district or regional office and also to note the length, weight, location and date these poor guys were caught.

The DNR says it will reward participants with information about the tag they turn in and information on how the data will be incorporated into studies about trout and salmon in the Great Lakes.

Wayne County Executive Edward H. McNamara advises travelers who are expecting to catch planes at Metropolitan Airport to leave earlier, beginning this month. The Michigan Department of Transportation is resurfacing I-94 between Telegraph and I-275 in both directions, and from approximately May 13 through Nov. 1, there will be lanes closed.

This means it will take longer to drive to the airport.

McNamara said the resurfacing contractor is required to maintain two open lanes except between 8 p.m. and 5 a.m., when the road may be reduced to only one lane. Exit ramps to the airport may only be closed between midnight and 5 a.m. Got that?

Just leave earlier.

When I used to park every day in the municipal lot in the Farms, I always locked the car. But in summer, I locked the doors and left the windows open so it wouldn't get too hot. Nobody ever took anything.

But one time (when the windows were shut), someone punched the lock trying to break in. Nothing was taken, but I had to pay to get the lock repaired.

And the repair bill was higher than the value of those tapes.

I've parked my car on the streets of Detroit and Washington and Belize City and never had a break-in. Once we misplaced our car in a Detroit alley and searched on foot for a half-hour in the middle of the night.

No problem. Park in a Grosse Pointe church lot and what happens?

Guess churchgoers are seen as easy targets - naive types who don't take precautions. Guess that stereotype is right. Sheesh!

I sympathize with Nickie McWhirter's attempts to get a variance from Grosse Pointe Farms on her Meadow Lane property, as reported in the May 2 Grosse Pointe News

However, I find it somewhat incredible that, with reference to a possible column in The Detroit News on the situation, she states. "I take my responsibility (at the News) very seriously and I would not use it as a forum to vent my views on such a personal issue.

Is she not the same columnist who alternates regularly with Laura Berman in using their columns to push their personal prochoice viewpoints?

Deficit?

To the Editor:

I read your May 2 front page story on the Engler budget cuts with great interest.

Englernomics is in reality Reaganomics repackaged by the conservative think tank Mackinac Center in Midland. Those folks view supplyside economics as the gospel and Engler's vow to downsize government as a liturgy. Even Engler's appointees admit the "people are going to need to learn to be survivors" after social services programs are gutted.

Engler's view of the 100,000 general assistance people who could lose their support is: "They should go to work." That's easy to say — but where are these people going to get jobs when our unemployment rate is growing and Engler keeps adding to the number.

The big question which underscores the center's and Engler's current direction is: What is the basis for the budget deficit Engler keeps discussing and who computed it?

Is the budget deficit artificial, just smoke and mirrors so that Engler can introduce the disastrous supplyside economics to Michigan? Former Gov. James J. Blanchard and Treasurer Robert A. Bowman both claim the projected deficit is a phony issue. They claim the deficit is arrived at by a deliberate underestimating of projected revenues.

Would anyone really be surprised if Engler magically solves the deficit problem and ends up with a balanced budget?

The true bottom line

A wonderful thing is happening within the congregation of our church. There has been a great deal going on in the background for many months. People have put in countless hours garnering facts and statistics concerning all the numbers necessary to determine our capabilities for giving according to income, etc. The reality is that in the final analysis, what we feel in our hearts can make liars out of the most sophisticated studies. Potential is not always assessed through logic.

I have watched with amazement over the years how the parents at the Grosse Pointe Academy produce at their annual auction. A small nucleus of people with supreme optimism took positive aim at a goal and each year they have surpassed their own expectations. Their energy has been fueled not solely by a desire to raise funds, but also by a gut-level hunger for success and with a great deal of hard work.

Our congregation has banded together, spearheaded by a clergy they respect and believe in and supported by generous members of the church. These people have given of their time and energy and have spened their pockets along with their hearts to show the rest of us what we are capable of. Members of the church are caring and responding and the energy is almost palpable.

The bottom line may not turn out to be the numbers. although I am confident that our goals will be met. The true bottom line is in the knowledge we are gaining about ourselves and how deep we are willing to reach to proclaim our faith and our responsibility to the future of our church. It is to be hoped that we will learn a lesson of patience and realize that what we are willing to do today will impact on future generations.

The dictionary tells us that the word sacrifice means to give up something cherised without return. No one can convince me that to give until we hurt a little is wrong. The returns on this particular gift can be astonishingly rewarding for years to come.

The instant gratification society in which we live would do well to revise its thinking and look ahead down the road. After asking ourselves some questions about commitment we will no doubt realize there is much more at stake here than dollars.

"An eight-hour charge would have been an extended lunch," he said.

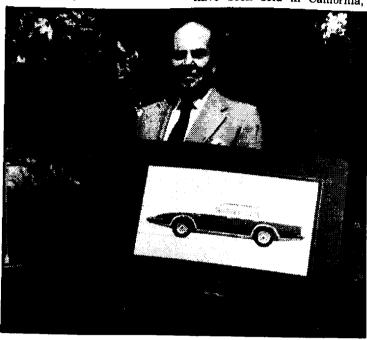

He hopes to make money to build cars by first selling the quick-charging batteries and power stations. While the batteries can be charged overnight using a home's 220-volt outlet, special power station is needed for the 45-minute fast. charge.

The batteries and power stations could be purchased for golf carts, lift trucks and any. where battery-powered electric motors are used. In the Bahamas, where Lauve intends to build a car plant, there are plans to produce converted golf carts as passenger vehicles.

"These could be used all over the Caribbean," Lauve said.

Already, 24 power stations have been sold in California,

Automotive designer Henry Lauve of Grosse Pointe Woods shows an illustration of his electric car, the Silver Volt, which he hopes to market soon.

where a certain percentage of cars must be electric-powered.

Because of such governmental mandates for electric cars, Lauve believes there will be a market for the company that comes out with more convenient batteries, and he thinks his Silver Volt is just what's needed.

And battery-powered cars don't mean motorists will have to go without options. Lauve's cars have air conditioning and are fully loaded with power everything. He hopes to market the five-passenger car for $30,000.

Lauve got his automotive design experience under the tutelage of General Motors' legendary designer, Harley Earl. In fact, Earl is one of two designers being honored at this year's Eyes on the Classics festivities June 29 and 30.

The fourth annual car show will be Sunday, June 30, at the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House, and Lauve has been asked to say a few words about Earl.

Last year, two of Lauve's car designs - the 1948 Buick Roadmaster and the 1972 Citroen SM - took top awards at the Eyes of the Classics.

Lauve worked for GM for about 18 years, from 1939 to 1957. He held the positions of chief designer fo. Buick; chief designer for all GM interiors, paints and materials; and staff assistant in charge of automotive design for all GM car divi-

After leaving the United States' No. 1 carmaker, Lauve became a consultant designer with Citroen-Maserati, where he spent as many years as he had with GM. He became affiliated with the European automaker after he was asked by the French consul general to be an interpreter when the head of the car company visited the United States.

Lauve earned his bachelor of arts degree in France at the University of Paris. He studied design at the Kunstgewerbschule, Vienna, and art at the Rijksmuseum, Amsterdam.

He wanted to be a portrait painter and even did a self-portrait at the age of 17, but he quickly learned that getting started in the business was nearly impossible.

"It's a vicious circle," he said. "You have to paint someone prominent to be noticed, but you can't paint someone prominent unless you've painted other prominent peo-

He has painted a general and an actress, he said, and does get portrait work from time to time. He was commissioned by a Virginia bank to make portraits of famous Virginians from history, such as George Washington, Thomas Jefferson,

James Madison and James Monroe.

He has also painted scenery from around the world during travels with his wife, Mary. They first met while students in Paris, and he moved to New York when they decided to be married.

After answering a New York Times ad for a bilingual designer at General Motors, the Lauves moved to Michigan and soon bought their Grosse Pointe Woods home, where they still

"I'm from New York," Mary Lauve said, "and I think it's beautiful here. For a New York City girl, this is country.'

While Henry Lauve continues to look forward to the challenges of the automotive future and his electric cars, he realizes he's seen the best of times for the American automakers. "They tell me those were the good old days," he said.

Motorist flees Farms officer

A man who Farms police attempted to stop because he was driving slowly down Mack Avenue with no lights on at 2:35 a.m. May 5 avoided capture.

A Farms patrolman came up behind the slow-moving car on westbound Mack at Moran. The officer activated his overhead lights and siren, but the motorist refused to stop and swerved from lane to lane.

The driver then went south on McKinley, west on Chalfonte and south on Lincoln. He then turned west on Charles voix, and as he was approaching Washington, he accelerated and lost control of the car. He bailed out of the vehicle and fled on foot.

Officers chased the man, but lost sight of him when he went over a fence in the 700 block of Washington. A search of the area failed to turn up the suspect.

Police learned that the car the man was driving was registered to a Detroit woman. She said she had let her estranged husband borrow the car, but he had failed to return it.

Furnace room fire extinguished

A fire in the furnace room of a home in the 700 block of Lakepointe in the Park was quickly put out May 4, preventing it from spreading to the rest of the house.

Firefighters reponded to the fire at 7:59 a.m. They found the furnace room was in flames. The cause of the fire was an overheated boiler-furnace. A second alarm went out to Grosse Pointe City.

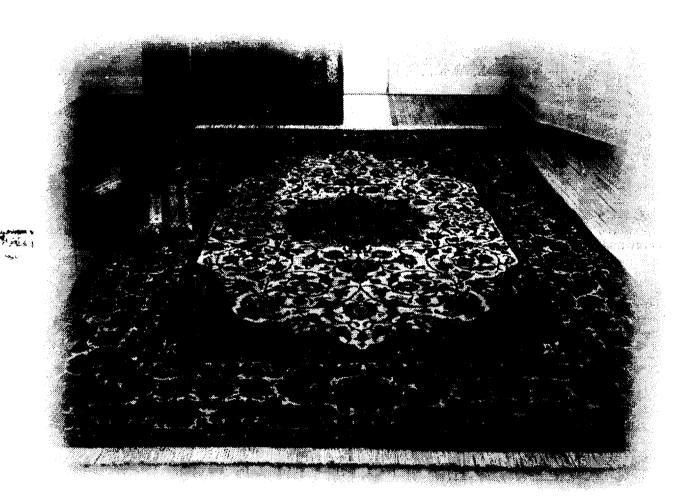

According to a Park public safety report, the fire was quickly brought under control and limited to the furnace room. A Grosse Pointe City command officer commended the Park firefighters on a job well done.

Free skin cancer tests available

Young artists transform Village store windows

The Village, on Kercheval between Cadieux and Neff, became an open air art gallery Saturday as 200 youngsters between 5 and 12 painted store windows.

The theme this year, "I Love America," evoked yellow ribbons, the flag and national symbols like the Statue of Liberty, Mount Rushmore, the Washington Monument and the Liberty Bell.

Artists Ruth Whipple and Sister Matsu judged the results and awarded 49 prizes.

The Grand Theme prize went to fifth grader Laura Cassin for her portrayal of the Statue of Liberty set within a stars and stripes background.

Other honors went to:

Kindergarten — first, Mary-Kate Shine; second, Brendan Butler; third, Nathaniel Berke; and honorable mentions to M.G. Weber, Marcie Todhunter, Leigh Jankiewicz, Jennifer Passage, Nicole Jaatoul and Justin Rock.

First grade — first, Bridget Scallen; second, Erin Burke; third, Raechel Szymanski; and honorable mentions to Elizabeth Shipman, Jacquelyn vandenBerg, Rob Weber, Clara Ignich and Erin Ginger.

Second grade — first, Chris Hartemayer; second, Casey McFeely; third, Hans Gehrke; and honorable mentions to Dana Etheridge, Alexa Ducsay, Sarah Schultz, Julie Alvin and Jonathon Hobstetter.

Third grade — first, Dusty French; second, Suzanne Piech; third, Ryan Cordier; and honorable mentions to Natalie Brewer, Andrea Elich, Annie Garvey and Julie Berschback.

Fourth grade — first, Jeanine Varga; second, Molly Bourbeau; third, Christina Fiedler; and honorable mentions to Maggie McGrath, Amy Baumanis, Peter Haarz and Moira Speer.

Fifth grade — first, Tim Jenkins; second, David Velik; third, Mike Garza; and honorable mentions to Patrick Howe, Gigi Serra, Sara Vollmer, Melissa Wilde, Anna Rose Shaheen and Holly Dolsa.

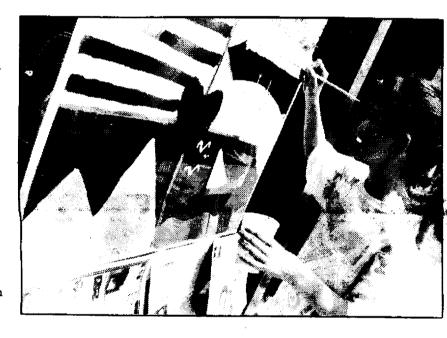

Damman's underwrote the paint and brush kits, Jacobson's donated bags, Notre Dame Pharmacy gave tongue depressers to stir paint, and the Village Toy Co., J.P.'s Hallmark and Danielle's provided everything else except the Grand Theme prize — a day at the Capitol in Lansing donated by state Rep. Curtis Hertel.

BirthCare at Bon Secours.

It's a child's game, but it's also good advice.

Bon Secours was the first hospital in the Detroit area to offer single-room maternity care. This alternative to traditional childbirth allows the mother-to-be to stay in the same warm, comfortable room throughout her delivery. We call it BirthCare, and when we first introduced it, other hospitals were still wheeling their laboring mothers from one room to another.

We thought it was a good idea to design a delivery around the mother, not a delivery around the hospital. That's why BirthCare has become so popular. And that's why a lot of women have chosen Bon Secours as their hospital. Maybe you should, too.

For more information about BirthCare, a tour of the unit, or referrals to qualified obstetricians who can answer questions about your pregnancy, call 779-7911.

Nobody does it better. Nobody's done it longer.

odge Viper prototype to pace 75th Indy 500

first Indianapolis 500 in 11. the Memorial Day race s been motorsports' answer the World Series, the Kencky Derby, the Army-Navy me and that Johnny-comeely, the Superbowl. Eventually, Harroun retired m racing to join the new rvsler Corp. as an engineer d right from the start, Indiapolis and Detroit have been ked by that classic race - by technology that goes into it comes out of it. Many of features we take for anted today on our automoes were developed first to n a race and more often than t that race was the Indy 500. Harroun averaged 75 mph in at first Indy race. Now the cers can do well over 200 ph and the pace car, this year prototype Dodge Viper pow-ed by a V-10 engine, can eashit 75 mph in second gear. There has been a lot of speclation lately about the fate of hrysler Corp. Maybe the fedal government should not ave bailed out Chrysler, but hould have let it die, some obrvers have said recently in e press, perhaps to be merged to and strengthen Ford Motor o. But the people who so specate have no sense of Detroit of the auto industry. Nash. udson, Studebaker, Willys all ad their fans. But Chrysler is ifferent. Those long-dead naeplates were interesting cars, many ways superb cars, but hrysler Corp. has been a leadng player in Detroit since its ounding in 1924. Witness the 991 Indianapolis 500.

(That so-called bailout of thrysler should to be kept in erspective. It did not cost the axpayer a dime. Compare that with the bailout of the savings nd loan industry, in which the onnie-and-Clyde activities of nany of our leading citizens vill impoverish generations to

When the Dodge Viper paces e 75th running of the Indy 00 May 26, it will be only the second time a prototype has been selected as a pace car. The first prototype to pace an Indy 500 was also a Chrysler product, the 1941 Chrysler Newport Phaeton, a very handsome fourdoor open sedan, of which six were developed. World War II intervened and the Phaeton never went into production.

The last prototype to pace the Indy 500 was this 1941 Chrysler Newport Phaeton, which never made it into production.

This year's prototype pace car will, however, and the 1992 production version of the Dodge Viper will be very much the same as the pace car. The allnew engine is an aluminumblock V-10 which churns out more than 400 horsepower and delivers it through a six-speed transmission.

Chrysler had originally intended to use its Dodge Stealth as the pace car, but decided to go with the Viper when the Speedway officials relaxed the requirements so that a single prototype could be used.

"The Stealth is a great car that is selling well," said Martin R. Levine, Dodge Division general manager. "We can't keep them on our dealers' lots, even in times like this when overall sales aren't especially good. The Stealth has been a rare exception.'

But Levine said the Viper is the most appropriate choice, "an all-American phenomenon comeback of the American auto industry."

The Stealth will be highly visible at the Indy 500. A pearlescent yellow Stealth R/T Turbo will serve as Official Car and will pace the drivers during yellow-flag caution laps. With its 3.0-liter, dual-overhead-cam, 24-valve, twin-turbocharged V-6, the Stealth needed no modifications to meet USAC performance requirements.

The Official Truck, used to haul people and supplies around the track, will be a Dodge Dakota V-8. The red Dakota will get its moment of glory whenever the track needs maintenance or a driver needs assistance after an accident. And if towing is required, a Dodge Ram wrecker powered by a 5.9-liter Cummins turbo diesel will do it.

Rounding out Dodge's Indy chores, about 50 Shadow convertibles are scheduled to lead the Indy 500 Festival parade on Saturday before the race. The Shadow convertible, introduced as a 1991 model, is one of the lowest-priced convertibles available, with base prices starting around $13,000.

Any convertible is fun, but if you want to go first class at bargain rates, then get a Shadow convertible outfitted festival queen in the parade. Under its hood is a 2.5-liter fuel-injected turbo engine.

Updated classic

The concept which guided development of the Dodge Viper was one of a car that harks back to the smooth, sensuous sports cars of the '60s with the technology and refinement of the '90s. And the '60s sports car that served as a model, according to Tom Gale, Chrysler Corp. vice president of design, was the Shelby Cobra. So it is fitting that Carroll Shelby, onetime chicken farmer-turnedracing legend, will drive the pace car.

Shelby captured three national championships, set records at the Bonneville Salt Flats and had won numerous races in Europe, including the 24 Hours at LeMans, when he was forced to retire from racing by heart problems in 1960.

But he is probably even better known for his Cobra sports car, a roadster that mated a European chassis with a big Ford V-8. Shelby also collaborated with Lee Iacocca, then at Ford, to develop the Shelby GT350 Mustangs, built at Shelby's facility in Los Angeles, where the Cobras were built. The Shelby Mustang was very successful in racing and is now a collector car.

As the muscle car faded around 1970, Shelby turned to other ventures, including marketing of "Carroll Shelby's Original Texas Brand Chili" and a men's deodorant named "Pit Stop."

After Iacocca moved to Chrysler, he got Shelby to do some more high-performance specials. The results included the Shelby GLH-S, based on the Dodge Omni.

Last year, Shelby underwent a heart transplant operation and says he feels better than he has in years. Today, he works for Chrysler as a consultant on high-performance cars. including the Dodge Viper.

Shelby was born in Leesburg. Texas, in 1923. As a young man he tried raising chickens. 'Fortunately, I was a rotten chicken rancher," Shelby says. "I figured if I was going to be broke, I'd rather be broke doing something I liked. So I borrowed a friend's car and started racing." The rest, as they say, is history.

American alternative

The Indy 500 is a patriotic event held in the American heartland and Chrysler clearly intends to market its highperformance Dodge Viper and Stealth as all-American products. At the other end of the price scale, I recently drove the Dodge Shadow America and, in its way, it is also a strong argument for buyers to consider an American car. It is a comfortable, adequately performing four-door sedan that provides good fuel economy (25 miles per gallon city and 31 highway), offers a lot of room in a small package and is stylish in appearance. (The Plymouth Sundance is exactly the same except for the name.) The Shadow/Sundance America is also available as a two-door hatchback.

Standard are a 2.2-liter fourcylinder engine with five-speed manual shift, power steering and power brakes. A threespeed automatic transaxle is optional. The Shadow handles well, with its front and rear sway bars and revised suspension geometry resulting in reduced lean during cornering, which in turn results in quicker response to steering

Most interesting, perhaps, is the Shadow/Sundance America's base price of $7,999 for the four-door sedan, well below base prices on comparable Honda, Mazda and Nissan mod-

The leading recruiters for the work force in the Pointes are Judges Frank and Rumora.

"They're really super," work force director Patricia Kukula. a Woods resident, said of the two local judges. "They're real supporters.

Mr. (Wayne County Executive Edward) McNamara is my boss, but I consider Judge Frank and Judge Rumora my bosses, too."

Rumora said misdemeanor offenders cannot be sent to Wayne County Jail because of overcrowding, so in cases where a jail sentence is required, he can either send them to another county jail to the north and pay transportation and lodging costs, or he can sentence them to the alternative work force program.

"It is definitely a sentencing alternative when the person should go to jail," Rumora said. "In effect, it's a jail sentence but they can work it off."

He said those sentenced to the alternative work force program pay for its costs, and the completion rate is good because he gives it as an option only to people who are relatively stable, such as those holding down

Birthday begins with accident

The driver was conscious but pinned behind the steering wheel. The windshield was shattered and smashed outward. The driver was not wearing a seat belt. There was a lot of blood on his face and head.

The car door had to be pried open to free the driver. He was taken to St. John Hospital and a blood sample was taken and sent to the state police crime lab for analysis.

Three unopened beer bottles were found in the car.

The driver was unable to tell police how the accident hap-

"I use it quite a bit," Rumora said. "It's a pretty good program.

Kukula can dispatch a crew of workers anywhere in the county, but she sends them only to communities whose judges take advantage of the program.

"Those people who get sentenced in Grosse Pointe Park," she said, "work in Grosse Pointe Park."

She explained that the judges have the discretion of sentencing misdemeanor offenders to jail or the work force. For example, someone who gets 10 days in jail may have the option of serving 10 days on the work force.

Offenders can schedule their hours with the work force around their regular employ-

They're here . . . Those little demons known to medicine as "allergens" are here to take control of your body. They'll make your nose run. your eyes itchy, they may even surprise you with hives all over your face.

But one way or another, they're going to get you.

Caused by pollens or molds, animal dander or house dust, allergies are nothing more than an abnormal reaction to ordinary, garden-variety substances.

While researchers still don't know why allergies affect some and not others. the diagnostic techniques and treatments now available are better than ever.

School board nears completing budget with larger tax bite

By Ronald J. Bernas Staff Writer

The Grosse Pointe Board of Education is nearing completion of its 1991-92 school budget. Although there are still many issues to be decided before a budget is approved, it is going to be a tight one, according to Chris Fenton, assistant superintendent for business af-

The board has been discussing a budget totaling $60.7 million. Nearly $54 million is general fund expenditures, $2.4 million is earmarked for the libraries, $1.6 million goes to school services such as athletics and the cafeteria programs and $1.4 million is debt reduction. Last year's budget was $57 mil-

"The reason for that," Fenton said, "is that we had to pick up $1.7 million in FICA taxes that the state used to pay." Now, he said, the district pays for all but some $500,000 in FICA taxes.

That money would have been used to boost the school's fund equity, or reserve funds. Currently the board has $1.7 million in reserve. Sometimes, interest rates for loans to the schools are based on how much they have in reserve - the lower the fund, the higher the interest rate. Last year, the the Grosse Pointe Board of Education, members of the board gave Superintendent Ed Shine more direction in preparing his budget. But even the board is not unanimous in what message it's sending to Shine.

Take for instance the question of whether $1.5 million is enough in the school's fund equity (reserve funds).

While virtually the whole board agreed that the more fund equity, the better, they weren't sure they could afford cuts elsewhere to achieve that goal.

If the board were to increase the fund equity to $2 million, suggested cuts would come from planned ing and site improvements.

Overall the schools are getting more money than last vear, and the central budget is at last year's level," Fenton

Big ticket items in the budget are:

• $720,000 for instituting a seven-period day at the middle schools. The move is part of a recommendation for massive changes at the middle school level which the board adopted last year after a year of study. New teachers will need to be hired to institute the changes.

• Nearly $100,000 for improvements to the Central Library and some $60,000 for improvements at the two branches. Other building and site expenditures include roofwork on several schools, new seats or new carpeting at the Performing Arts Center at North High School (whichever isn't done this year will be completed the following year).

According to Tom Whall, president of the Grosse Pointe teachers union the board has given layoff notices to 16 teachers, primarily at the high school level, because of declining enrollment. Because those teachers are not all full-time teachers, it amounts to 11.35 full-time positions being eliminated. An additional seven people will have reduced assign-

But due to the changes in the middle schools, the district will end up with 10 more teachers than they have this year.

If the budget is adopted, the schools would be levying fewer mills, but because the SEVs rose 10.7 percent, taxpayers will be paying approximately 10 percent more. Currently the board levies 30.31 mills and next year would levy 30.1.

"That's the tentative plan that," Fenton said. "They don't set that until September.'

By law, the board must adopt a budget by June 30, but there are still several things hanging in the air, Fenton says, that may alter any budget the board

Among issues the board is watching closely are state legislation which may allow for sharing of industrial taxes statewide; the bill which would limit SEV increases each year to 5 percent or the rate of inflation, whichever is less; the new Headlee Amendment; and the schools-of-choice debate. "There's a lot of unknowns and we're not sure how they're going to affect us," Fenton said.

Greater longevity means profound changes for society those who reach 65 have a whole new set of options to consider.

Not long ago, age 65 and retirement were synonymous. One day you were an active and valued member of an organization. Twenty-four hours later and a day older, you were out the door. Never mind that you didn't feel any different physically or mentally. You were 65 and you were old.

To add insult to injury, you were stereotyped as old by your family as well. Attitudes changed and you got the feeling that you had not only been retired from work but from life as well. You felt as though you had been placed in custodial care. Those around you began to urge you to take life easy. They planned your day. They decided what you should eat and when.

Some retirees welcomed the release from work and responsibility. They were glad to sit back and let the world roll by Others fretted and fumed. They missed the patterned day of going to work in the morning and returning home at night. Then there were those who filled their time with hobbies cultivated over a lifetime.

How the timetable has changed. Sixty-five is no longer regarded as "old" in the sense that it once was. We have added a new dimension to life's span. What was old is now young-old (ages 65 to 75). And what was once elderly is now 75 and older. I suppose a centenarian could be considered eld-

The phenomenon of the growth of the older population is one of the most significant trends of the 20th century and will continue into the 21st century. In just 20 years the 65plus group grew twice as fast as the rest of the population. By 2010 one-third of the population will be over 55. The fastest growing segment is 75-plus. Four-generation families are increasingly common as people live longer.

The longer life span has a significance to all segments of society. Advertisers are beginning to realize that "over 65" is a big market for their products. Unlike the teen market that flourished in the '50s, seniors have money to spend their own.

thors Greg Kearsley and Marv Furlong write: "Teaching seniors to be computer literate was not significantly different than teaching any other age group about computers."

They found that older adults were more interested in learning programming, word processing and budgeting. Their interest in educational aspects of computers fits with the national trend. Not long ago 90 percent of all software was aimed at entertainment; now 50 percent is education or home productivity oriented.

In Menlo Park, Calif., more than 100 members of the Little House Senior Adults Community Center take computer classes. They use the computer to pursue their interest in graphics, finances, stocks and real estate.

Pioneering is not easy and that is exactly what this newly created young-old group of seniors must do. The opportunity to partake of life actively is a welcome gift. It is also a challenge. The idea of older people moving into areas formerly considered to be open to younger groups takes some getting used to. But it happens. Hardly a day goes by that a newspaper or magazine doesn't tell of the achievements of older persons distinguishing themselves in competitive sports or making it big as entrepreneurs. What it takes is confidence, enthusiasm and dedication.

Proposed City budget up 6.5 percent; taxes up 7.9 percent

By John Minnis Assistant Editor

While the Grosse Pointe City 1991-92 proposed budget is up 6.5 percent from the year before, city tax revenue will carry a larger increase.

According to the proposed budget presented at a public hearing Monday, total expenses and revenues for the fiscal year beginning July 1 are expected to be $4.49 million, up $272.445 from the 1990-91 budget.

City property-tax revenue is expected to total $3.1 million in 1991-92, an increase of $221,475, or 7.9 percent, from the year before.

The proposed city tax rate for the coming year is 12.96 mills, which is a reduction from the current rate of 13.36 mills. However, the state Truth in Taxation law requires that the tax rate be rolled back to 11.94 mills to account for the 10.8 percent increase in state equalized valuation, or assessments, to city residential property this spring.

The 12.96 mills, if approved, would mean taxpayers would pay $12.96 in city taxes per $1,000 of SEV. The owner of a home with a $100,000 SEV ($200,000 market value) would pay $1,296 in city taxes for the 1991-92 fiscal year.

Last year, assuming the average assessment increase of 10.8 percent in the city, the same homeowner's SEV was $90,243 and he would have paid $1,206 in city taxes.

According to the Headlee Amendment, the city can levy a maximum of 15.77 mills. which has been whittled down since 1978 from the charter-approved 23 mills, which includes 3 mills for rubbish collection.

Of the 7.9 percent property tax increase, 2 percent is designated for capital improvements at City Hall. According to City Manager Thomas Kressbach's budget message, additional space is needed for city offices, the public safety department and the municipal court. Also, more off-street parking at City Hall is needed.

Other budget highlights in-

• A loss of $28,700, or 6.5 percent, in state revenue sharing funds due to a weak economy and a population loss of 220 residents, according to the 1990 census.

• A 40 percent increase in worker's compensation insurance premiums and an increase in health insurance premiums of 11 percent to 14 percent.

• A 28 percent ($65,180) increase in refuse disposal costs, including a 10 percent increase in landfill ash-disposal charges and a $38,000 underestimate in disposal costs from this year.

• A proposed $7-per-quarter charge for weekly curbside recycling to begin in July. The recycling fee will be collected with the water bill.

•$10,000 for hiring or sharing an assistant assessor or assessing consultant.

• More contributions to the fight against Detroit City Airport expansion. The City expects to spend a total of $25,000 battling the expansion.

• A $20,000 decline in interest earned on invested funds due to lower rates.

"As presented," Kressbach wrote in the budget message. "the proposed city budget continues a quality level of municipal service and adds a new pro-gam for curbside recycling." Except for the 2 percent increase for improvements at City Hall, Treasurer Dennis Foran called the budget conser-

"In the long run," he said, "it'll prove to be conservative. Other than recycling and capital improvements, it maintains services.

"I don't think our residents want any services cut."

The city council will consider the budget for final adoption Monday, May 20, at 7:30 p.m.

I listen and I keep my agenda quiet. So when I go into a project, it's not about me. It's a collaboration. It's the client's concepts and my concepts; what emerges is a self-expression of my client.

ON CARING & RELATIONSHIPS

Probably the main quality that I can bring to a project is taking care of my clients. The service and the commitment to the project emanate from that care. It's being there; with the painter on a touch up, on delivery. It's all of that attention and developing a relationship of trust, which is fundamental for a project to even get off the ground. It's an integral part of a successful design.

ON WHAT DESIGNERS OFFER

I can create a vision out of what a client says to me. Secondly, I have a source of materials not available to the client. What I bring to the party is my availability, materials, artists, workrooms, tradespeople and sources. I come with baggage.

Store's new owner drops 'Stitches' but will still tend to her knitting

Staff Writer

The "In Stitches" store on Fisher across from Grosse Pointe South High School in Grosse Pointe Farms, has a new name and owner.

Recently purchased by Jean Candler of Grosse Pointe Farms, it reopened as "The Wool & The Floss" on April 22.

The name is a takeoff on the George Eliot novel, "The Mill on the Floss," Candler said.

"I wanted a name that would describe exactly what we offer,' she explained.

A haven for needlecrafters, the store carries a large variety of yarns, threads, canvases and patterns for knitting, weaving and needlepoint projects.

Non-needlecrafters are welcome to order custom-made products, such as sweaters, and take crafts classes at the shop.

Candler buys yarns, canvases and patterns from all over the world, as well as from local artists. She even makes some of the knitting patterns herself.

"I want to offer lots of choices in knitting yarns and knitting canvases and want input from customers." Candler said. "I want to listen to what they want and then buy accordingly.'

Born in Detroit and raised in Grosse Pointe Farms, Candler, 47, said she learned how to knit from her mother, Virginia McKinnon, when she was 4 years old.

"I can't remember what I made," Candler said. "All I remember is sitting on a stool in the kitchen, knitting."

She stayed with the hobby through her high school years at Sacred Heart Academy (now the Grosse Pointe Academy), Sixteen hundred square feet in size. The Wool & The Floer carries a large variety of yarns, canvasses and other items for needlecraft projects, only some of which are shown here.

She has attended and taught numerous needlecraft classes, and about six years ago, attended a week-long knitting camp in Wisconsin.

"People from all over the country were there," Candler said, "and it was wonderful because I found out that I wasn't the only crazy person out there who was obsessed with this."

Candler said she began making her own patterns and reher own store about 12 years

She said she wants to keep the basics of the former "In Stitches" store intact, but broaden the selection of craft materials and services offered.

For example, she has installed a knitting machine at wan line of English yarns to her selection.

"The Wool & The Floss" has projects to fit almost any budget. A knitter could make a baby sweater for $10 to $12 (yarn and pattern included), or needlepoint an eyeglass case for $11. Candler said. At the upper end of the price scale, a person

Literacy program:

By Margie Reins Smith Feature Editor

A modest tutorial program for the children of Guyton Elementary School in Detroit got off the ground, very inauspiciously on Jan. 22. The program to promote literacy was the brainstorm of a literacy task force formed by People in Faith United (PIFU).

The task force folks had a vision: a small corps of volunteer tutors would work a few hours a week, one-on-one, with 30 or so first- and fourth-graders who needed individual attention and special help.

The program would be lowkey, would begin slowly, would gradually gain momentum. Eventually it would involve the children's parents and families.

Just four months into the program, 79 children are being tutored regularly; 70 percent of each school day finds tutors and children working earnestly together in the halls; students from the kindergarten, second and fifth grades were included; and PIFU trained 22 tutors, even had to cut off applications from prospective tutors because the program had begun.

'The students are extremely responsive," said Sharon Schmidt, coordinator of the program. "It's fun too. It's a way for

especially kids who aren't necessarily getting positive strokes in Schmidt

PIFU is a coaliti n of Christian churches and other organizations in Grosse Pointe and nearby Detroit who are committed to the improvement of the Jefferson-Chalmers neighborhood. PIFU is currently involved in a half dozen neighborhood projects, including Crossroads; a senior food and fellowship program; the PIFU Housing Corporation: Uplift Youth, an after-school youth program; a soup kitchen; and the Guyton school literacy pro-

Anne Roberts of Grosse Pointe Farms has been tutoring four children at Guyton since the program began in January.

"I can't express how enthusiastic I am. There's no doubt in my mind that it's been a positive experience for the children. We have not gone unnoticed," she said.

Russell Peebles of Grosse Pointe Park tutors four children for a half hour every Tuesday morning. A former Chrysler engineer, Peebles retired in 1986. He served on the Grosse Pointe school board from 1963-

"When I began (tutoring) I thought I would get some students who were ... well, inept," he said.

"Instead, I have four bright young kids. They're a delight. We work on reading mostly. I read to the second-graders. The fourth-graders read to me.

"It's so important for them to be able to read and to appreciate reading."

Beulah McCain of Grosse Pointe Park, a former nurse and a former teacher of nursing, has been working with two youngsters since January. She also volunteers in the tutoring program at Jefferson Avenue Presbyterian Church. She works after school with children from nearby Nichols Elementary School.

McCain is often amazed at how quickly the children pick up concepts.

"One day, after reading a story about the environment with a fourth-grader, I said, 'What did you learn today?'

"I learned what an environmentalist is,' he said. I was astounded that a fourth-grader learned this word - and how to spell it - in such a short time.

All three volunteers said they will continue with the program when school begins next

"This program is different," Schmidt said. "It's extremely structured. Volunteers fill out applications and are interviewed by a task force member. We were looking for volunteers who were committed and who were not going to be out of town for an extended period during the school year. We were hoping to build relation-get together to read and learn ships between children and tutors so the children would learn to trust and would see success and build self-esteem.

'We had a six-hour training program for volunteers. The teachers tell the tutors what the children need to work on and the tutors have a manual with suggested activities they can choose from.

Schmidt said the program began with a $500 grant from PIFU and a $500 grant from the Detroit Public Schools. The money was used to buy books and materials such as scissors, paper and stickers.

She said the group is starting to plan for the 1991-92 school year and needs more volun-

"Tutors don't need teaching backgrounds," she said. "The only prerequisite is a desire to make a commitment to get involved in these little people's lives for the entire school year.'

Volunteers range in age from young mothers to retirees. Some are former teachers, retired principals, homemakers or retired businessmen and women.

Adult volunteers and children

If Schmidt could have her wish fulfilled, she said she'd like to see the program continue to grow. She'd liké to see parents and families of the

Casa Maria Family Services' annual benefit raises $36,500

Casa Maria held its annual fundraiser on April 19, and raised $36,500 for Casa Maria Family Services, a community center in downtown Detroit which has been specializing in youth and family services since

Children in Casa Maria's programs made paper flowers for each of the women who attended the benefit, which drew 240 supporters.

Co-chairmen were Lilia Sims-Horn, Debbie Saros and Carol Cavazos. Honorary chairmen were Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Ahee.

More Grosse Pointers who attended: Mr. and Mrs. Bradford Lundy, Diane Schoenith, Mrs. Edward Frolic, Mr. and Mrs. James Giftos and Gloria Murphy. Jose Mendoza, consul general of Mexico. and his wife, Olga, introduced the new consul, Federico Moreno Santos.

Casa Maria is an agency of the League of Catholic Women. Grosse Pointer Marilyn Lundy is president of the league.

Opera Ball: More than 500 guests attended Michigan Opera Theatre's 1991 Opera Ball on May 3 at the Ritz-Carlton in Dearborn.

Grosse Pointers Dale Austin and Carolyn Ross chaired the event, the primary fundraiser for MOT. Honorary chairmen were Mr. and Mrs. Philip E. Benton Jr.

Sponsored by the Ford Motor Co., the ball was the climactic event of the "Mozart Magic in Motor City" festival, a series of events commemorating the bicentennial of Mozart's death.

Guests at the Opera Ball were entertained by Elizabeth Hynes and Hans Ashbaker. members of the Madame Cadillac Dance Theatre and danced to the music of the Lester Lanin Orchestra.

Grosse Pointers who attended the Opera Ball included Judith and Randy Agley, Bettejean and Edmund Ahee, Dr. Andaya Lourdes, Sandy Baer and Rick Ruby, Marion and J. Addison Bartush, John Broad, Mr. and Mrs. Don Cook Jr., Charles and Marianne Endicott, Barbara and Alfred J. God's promise of 'spirit' baptism

By Rev. Peter A. Wittstock

This was the same Holy Spirit who had invisibly accompanied Jesus and his followers during his few years of earthly ministry, but was now to reside within each of them individually to console, strengthen, ignite, and empower them as his witnesses. They were to receive the Holy Spirit's presence as the guarantee that eternal reward was awaiting them in heaven. Jesus had told them not to depart from Jerusalem, but to wait for the promise of the Father, which he said. "You heard from me, for John baptized with water, but before many days you shall be baptized with the Holy Spirit."

The celebration of the young church's baptism in the Holy Spirit marked the passing of God's direct ministry through his Son to God's direct ministry through his Spirit. The administration of heaven's grace was changing hands, and the base of its operation being expanded to the ends of the Earth.

What a moment it was as the Spirit came to reside within the first believers on that Jerusalem morning so long ago. The manifestation of his coming produced great amazement in everyone who saw and heard it. The popular movie "Raiders of the Lost Ark" may have approximated in its climactic scene what it was like on that Pentecost morning (minus the wrath): the sudden sound of a rushing, mighty wind filling the house with heaven's fire following. The second chapter of the New Testament's Book of Acts appears to have served as the film's climactic inspiration.

Not only is the supernatural manifestation of God forever our fascination, but it must also become our responsibility. T. S. Eliot writes of our present responsibility to the supernatural:

To believe in the supernatural is not simply to believe that after living a successful, material, and fairly virtuous life here one will continue to exist in the best-possible substitute for this world, or that after living a starved and stunted life here one will be compensated with all the good things one has gone without: it is to believe that the supernatural is the greatest reality here and now.

Even in our day of PCs and CDs; IRAs and ATMs; BMWs and BLTs; the presence of the Holy Spirit within us - acting out the life of Christ, yet again is still God's plan for everyone who has come to trust in his Son as Saviour.

Let us, therefore, approach our respective places of worship this Pentecost Sunday with a new and reverent expectation. God's promise of "Spirit" baptism has never been revoked, and still stands available to all who belong to him today.

Bridge

HAVE A PLEASANT TRY AT PERFECTION BRIDGE BY WOODY BOYD ♠ ♥ ♦ ♣

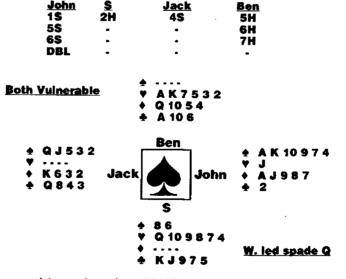

"The schlemiel (pronounced shleh-meal, to rhyme with "reveal") falls on his back and breaks his nose." Famous Yiddish proverb... In the world of bridge that is a player who is a born loser and never wins because he hasn't the talent to do so. There is also the failure who falls in the class of "Fast Play Harry or "Hard Luck Charlie." His adversity more often than not is caused by haste, the force that authors failure. Most of us are one or the other because we don't take the time required to work out the problem. The polite way to put it is we lack the concentration which generates good judgement and that is a transgression most can overcome with discipline.

It was my splendid pleasure one Saturday this past March to sit once again with an ageless group of dear bridge bums in the men's grill and grumble game in Grosse Pointe. On this particular occasion, we enrolled one of the back-gammon champs, Ben Paddock, to fill out our foursome. It was my good fortune to partner him for four golden moments on four sets of deals. That translates into a truth we hold dear and that is to hold cards and this day we did. As I sorted today's unusual two suiter sitting south I had no expectation that this hand from that game would once again magnify my, "Fast Play Harry" malady. Of course this was Caesar's March and such Ides should have cautioned me to be more prudent, but such I wasn't and I wasted a moment to star. This was particularly painful as our noble adversaries, John Reindel and Jack Danaher had shown every intention of "givin' us a whippen."

It's hands like this one that puts players in intensive care at the family infirmary. As you can see, seven spades down one for a -200 is a much more comfortable score for E/W than seven hearts doubled and making for a -2470. Ben's seven heart call was a well calculated save that could be no worse than -500 for N/S as opposed to six spades making for ---1430.

With the lead and the dummy in full view, I knew the Red Sea was about to open to me. There were more than thirteen tricks if I could find the club queen and that was better than a fifty/fifty shot in my favor for many reasons. First I ruffed the lead in dummy and played the heart ace. Whoever was void in hearts wouldn't also be in clubs. Sure enough it was West and that suggested East could be void in clubs or mighty short. At trick three, the club six from dummy with the absolute intention of winning the king and another club back to the acc/ten finessing the queen if that card didn't show. John Reindel was too good to bid six spades vulnerable with three losers.

Something happened on the way to the bank! John's club deuce clouded my reasoning and I pulled a "Fast Play Harry" and inserted my jack! I should have stopped and reconfirmed my logic which I knew was correct yet I didn't and paid for my delicate sin.

CCS prepares to tap its way into your heart again

By Ronald J. Bernas Staff Writer

Get out your tap shoes, Frances, the Center for Creative Studies is doing a show!

Well, you won't have to audition, but for those who say "you don't see much tap dancing anymore" every time they see a tap number on television. Detroit is where you should be May 22 and 23 when CCS hosts its second National Tap Dance Day celebration.

In 1989, at the request of Michigan Rep. John Conyers, Congress declared May 25 National Tap Dance Day. The date has significance - it's the birthday of one of the first and perhaps best tap dancers - Bill 'Bojangles" Robinson.

CCS's Lloyd Storey, 67, is one of tap's final pioneers. It is - along with jazz - the only truly native American art form. Not only did he dance with Bojangles as part of his famedtroupe, Storey knew him as a mentor and friend

It is that friendship and Storey's dedication to his art that inspires him to pass his craft to the next generation of tappers. National Tap Dance Day is one way of doing that. As Bojangles passed it on to him, Storey intends to pass it on to another.

"There's only a few of us

Tap is a fusion of the Irish jig and Spanish flamenco dancing." "During vaudeville, almost every act had a tap dance in it. Then it began to lose its place to TV and other forms of entertainment. I - and a lot of other people who loved tap was concerned about the loss of an art form. America doesn't have a lot of things that are strictly indigenous to the coun-

So he looked around and noticed there aren't many public schools teaching tap as part of their curriculum. He volunteered to put on performances in Detroit's schools as part of Black History Month and was heartened by the kids' re-

"They loved it," he said. So he doubled his efforts and today some schools in Detroit have tap dancing groups. And tap is experiencing renewed popularity across the country. thanks to people like dancers Gregory Hines and Paula Abdul.

"We're just mainly trying to keep tap alive," Storey said. "And there's been a resurgence of tap, like, well, a renais-

Last year's celebration of National Tap Dance Day was a one-night performance at Orchestra Hall featuring Storey and his partner Frank Colvard. who together form "The Sultans," and other national tap talents.

Orchestra Hall was standing room only.

"Last year when we planned the day we weren't sure if we would be able to sell tickets but we did," said Kathleen Straus. one of the event's planners. 'And it was the most enthusiastic audience I've ever seen anywhere. And when they left they had the biggest smiles on their faces and they asked us to do it again next year."

This year's event runs two days and includes one free day of all the tap you could possibly want. On Wednesday, May 22, from noon to 9 p.m. Hart Plaza will be the stage for hundreds of tappers at a state-wide festival. Dancers of all ages from across the state will participate in the free program. The day was made possible in part by a grant from the Knight Founda-

Then on May 23, Storey and his partner and other nationally known dancers will perform at Orchestra Hall accompanied by jazz great Marcus Belgrave.

Honorary chairman of the two-day event is Hines. He has been invited to perform at Orchestra Hall, but recently began filming a new movie and scheduling may not permit it. Last year Hines sent a tape recorded message which was played during the performance. All money raised by the event goes to support dance scholarships at the Center for Creative Studies, where Storey teaches part time.

Storey, a constant ambassador for tap, will continue teaching and performing and next year will travel to Mexico as part of a cultural exchange. He's been to Japan, also under a cultural exchange program.

"We have to keep tap alive," he said.

For more information on the CCS tap dance celebration events, call CCS at 872-3118.

Meadow Brook announces season

Artistic Director Terence Kilburn of Meadow Brook Theatre announced recently a sevenplay schedule for the 1991-92 season. The new, shorter season will be reflected in reduced season ticket prices and opens Oct. 3 with "Inherit the Wind," a show postponed from the current season.

The Jerome Lawrence-Robert E. Lee courtroom drama, based on the Scopes Monkey Trial of 1925, will feature Meadow Brook favorites Arthur J. Beer and Booth Colman. The Agatha Christie mystery "Ten Little Indians" will follow on Oct. 31.

Charles Dickens' "A Christmas Carol" goes into its 10th vear at Meadow Brook with a five-week run starting Nov. 29. "A Christmas Carol" has become a holiday tradition for many families and performances are often sold out months in advance.

"The Gin Game," the Pulitzer Prize-winning D.L. Coburn play that starred Hume Cronyn and Jessica Tandy on Broadway, opens Jan. 9.

Lee Blessing's new play, "Cobb," about Detroit Tiger Hall of Famer Ty Cobb, will be presented Feb. 13. Meadow Brook is negotiating with Detroit native and Tony Award winner Lloyd Richards to direct this Midwest premiere.

"Private Lives," the sophisticated Noel Coward comedy, opens March 19, and the new Fats Waller musical "Ain't Misbehavin'," conceived by Richard Malthby Jr., will close the season.

For ticket information about meadow Brook's 1991-92 season, call the box office at 370-3300.

Detroit Institute of Arts opens exhibition of Tanner's work

The Detroit Institute of Arts will present the work of Henry Ossawa Tanner in a major exhibition through Aug. 4.

Tanner (1859-1937) is recognized as the foremost African-American artist at the turn of the century. With more than paintings and drawings, the exhibition represents the artist's entire career.

The exhibition and its catalogue were made possible by Ford Motor Company

The exhibition was organized by the Philadelphia Museum of Art. Additional support was provided by The Pew Charitable Trusts and the National Endowment for the Arts.

In Detroit, the exhibition is made possible by additional funding from Ford Motor Company, the state of Michigan, the city of Detroit and the Found-

He began to exhibit at the annual Paris Salon in 1894. and was soon winning awards and selling his paintings to museums and private collectors. Two of Tanner's most famous canvases, "The Banjo Lesson" and "The Thankful Poor," were original and moving depictions of the life of African-Americans following the Civil War. Later, he gained renown for his portrayals of biblical subjects which were endowed with the same human dignity that characterized his scenes of everyday life.

Tanner's long and distinguished career was recognized by the French government in 1923 when he was made a chevalier of the Legion of

DSO report:

Electronics impede the artful playing of the guitar

By Alex Suzcek

Special Writer
Maestro Jarvi concluded the season last weekend with yet another example of his talent for unusual but nicely balanced programming.

Not only did he treat his audience to a preview of another soon-to-be recorded work, he programmed three non-traditional pieces, presented a novel solo instrument (the guitar), programmed vocal sound effects by the musicians and made use of a sound system. While not all of it was fully successful, it made an interesting and enlightening evening.

Walter Piston's "Suite from The Incredible Flutist" opened the concert. Notwithstanding the programmatic character of this ballet score, it is beautifully crafted and engrossing music that reawakens interest in the long neglected work of this American composer. The themes are tuneful, original and contemporary to Piston's time (he studied in Paris with mance truly sparkled. Jarvi's penchant for a little fun was also evident, to audience delight, as crowd sounds were shouted by the musicians to add verismo to the lively cadences of the circus march in the middle of the "Suite."

The performance of Rodrigo's 'Concierto de Aranjuez" was more of a topic for debate. The work is a blatantly romantic guitar extravaganza utilizing popular and ethnic styles of Spanish guitar music in a classical format. Rasgueados borrowed from flamenco gypsy music, plaintive melodies and rhythmic strums recall earlier but still recent traditions.

It was only at the start of this century, when Francisco Tarrega created a classical technique capable of rendering more than gypsy strums and the scales of baroque music, that the artistic genius of Andres Segovia could win status for the guitar as a classical concert instrument.

Even so, the guitar is limited dynamically and is at a disadvantage playing with large orchestras in big halls. Accordingly. Rodrigo scored the "Concierto" for reduced orchestra. And soloist Christopher Parkening chose to play with amplification. This altered the character of the sound and balance and emphasized percussive and harsh aspects of Parkening's playing. It also neutralized the very expressive delicacy and tenderness of tone (made possible by Tarrega technique) that are the instrument's most endearing quali-

Recognizing this undesirable trade-off, other performers (and guitar makers) focus much effort on producing more volume without electronics and achieving a good natural balance with the orchestra. Some have excellent success which should be attainable in the acoustics of the DSO's hall.

The adagio second movement transcended these problems to some extent. It is certainly the best music in the "Concierto" and Parkening performed it with style, never forcing the tone of his instrument.

Elsewhere, however, he con-, tributed to the difficulties. While Parkening's performance was often exciting, even technically dazzling, at times it was labored.

Finally, a generous pair of encores were played so indifferently as to seem trite. Not for lack of technique; it was the focus and tenderness that were missing.

But Jarvi has an uncanny knack for bringing concerts to a triumphant conclusion and his choice of the Roussel Symphony No. 3 was another coup. Also long overlooked, the music is ready for re-discovery. It will be included by Jarvi in a forthcoming CD of French music.

This post impressionist

French composer, sometimes dismissed as a neo-classicist. was an original whose ideas can be enjoyed today. He also provides pyrotechnics in this symphony by making lavish use of percussion and brass which open and close the work with a breathtaking rhythmic

While the extraordinary polish evident in the performance of the Piston work was lacking here, Jarvi gave the Roussel a sprightly and highly enjoyable reading that whetted the appetite to hear more of this composer's works.

The ovation tribute that followed, winning another encore, must have been music to Jarvi's ears. His love affair with the DSO audience appears more passionate than ever.

We can look forward to its continuation this summer at Meadow Brook where the innovative programming includes a continuation of Jarvi's creative ideas. For more information, call 833-3700

A pie isn't the only delicious reason to cook up some rhubarb

In the United States rhubarb is grown either in a hothouse or outdoors, with the latter considered more flavorful and deeply pink in color. It is a hardy perennial plant, originally from northern Asia. The English first introduced rhubarb to the kitchen in the nineteenth century. The etymology of the word goes back to the Greek, rha, which probably derived from the former name for the Volga River, Rha, where rhubarb was grown.

Rhubarb pie, first mentioned in print in the United States in 1855, was to become one of the two most popular preparations of the food; the other was stewed, sweetened rhubarb served as a dessert. Rhubarb pie became so popular that the plant was called the "pie plant." (The leaves contain a large amount of oxalic acid and should not be eaten.)

The average rhubarb growing season lasts from May to July and it has a calorific value of only 16 calories per 100 g. Rhubarb is very sour and therefore must always be sweetened. It contains phosphorus, potassium, magnesium, iron and vitamins.

There are many types of rhubarb, with stalks ranging from green to varying shades of mauve. The stalks should be firm, thick, and crisp and release sap when snapped.

Often lemon zest or ginger add flavor to rhubarb compotes and jams. The compote may accompany fish or chicken dishes.

Rhubarb Sauce

Cut enough rhubarb into 1inch pieces to measure 4 cups. Heat 3/4 to 1 cup sugar and 1/2 cup water to boiling, stirring occasionally. Add rhubarb; simmer about 10 minutes or until rhubarb is tender and slightly transparent. If desired, stir in a few drops red food color. Makes 5 servings.

Orange Spice Rhubarb 1 cup fresh orange juice 1 cup sugar 1/2 cup water 2 T grated orange rind

Elegant Eating

By Irene H. Burchard

1/2 t cinnamon

1/4 t ground cloves 1/4 t ground ginger

1 pound rhubarb, cut into one inch pieces (4 cups) 3 T cornstarch

1/4 cup Tawny Port

In a stainless steel saucepan combine the orange juice with the sugar, water, grated orange rind, cinnamon, cloves, and ginger and bring the mixture to a boil over moderate heat, stirring. Add the rhubarb and simmer, stirring occasionally, until the rhubarb is tender but retains its shape. Increase the heat to moderately high and bring the syrup to a boil.

In a small cup dissolve the cornstarch in the Port and add the mixture to the pan, stirring. Cook over moderate heat, stirring for 1 minute. Transfer the rhubarb mixture to a bowl and let cool. Garnish with the julienne orange rind and serve with sour cream and brown sugar, if desired. Serves four.

Strawberry Rhubarb Pie

3 cups fresh sliced rhubarb 1 cup fresh sliced strawber-

1 cup sugar

1/4 cup orange juice 2 T quick-cooking tapioca 1/4 t nutmeg

1/4 t salt 1 T butter

Preheat oven to 450 degrees. Make a pastry dough. Roll out 1/2 of the dough to form 9 inch pie shell.

Mix rhubarb, strawberries, sugar, orange juice, tapioca, nutmeg and salt together in large bowl. Turn into prepared pie shell.

Dot filling with butter. Roll out remaining dough to form top crust. Place over filling. Moisten, seal and flute edges. Cut slits in crust in several places. Bake at 450 degrees for 10 minutes. Reduce temperature to 350 degrees, and bake for an additional 30 minutes, or until top crust is lightly browned. Makes one 9-inch pie.

Rhubarb Crisp 1 pound rhubarb, trimmed and cut into 3/4 inch pieces (about 4 cups) 1 cup granulated sugar 1-1/4 cups all-purpose flour

MOT's 'Madama Butterfly' continues at Masonic Temple

As the finale to Michigan Opera Theatre's 20th anniversary season, the company will present Giacomo Puccini's Oriental masterpiece, "Madama Butterfly," for three more performances May 17-19 at the 4300-seat Masonic Temple The-

Sung in Italian with English surtitle translations projected above the stage, Michigan Opera Theatre's production of "Madama Butterfly" features two outstanding casts of singers, including renowned Japa-nese soprano Yoko Watanabe and American soprano Elizabeth Hynes alternating in the title role, and distinguished American tenors Jonathan Welch and Hans Gregory Ashbaker as Lt. B. F. Pinkerton. Metropolitan Opera mezzo-soprano Gail Dubinbaum sings the role of Suzuki in all performances. The production is sponsored by Royal Maccabees Life Insurance Company.

Performances are scheduled for 8 p.m. Friday, May 17, and Saturday, May 18 (performance sponsored by ANR Pipeline Company). One matinee performance is scheduled for Sunday.

May 19 at 2 p.in. The last performance will be American Sign Language-interpreted for the hearing impaired.

Watanabe has been lauded around the world for her protrayal of Puccini's beloved herione, Cio-Cio-San, a role in which she triumphed in Florence, Milan's La Scala, Covent Garden, the Metropolitan Opera, Canadian Opera Company and Opera Pacific.

Of her portrayal of Butterfly for The Washington Opera, the Washington Post proclaimed her to be "a Butterfly of convincing dramatic presence and depth as well as impressive vocal qualities."

The production is under the musical leadership of American conductor Louis Salemno in his company debut. Maestro Salemno made a successful debut with the New York City Opera this summer, conducting a new production of Lucia di Lammermoor and a revival of Tosca.

The settings and costumes of turn-of-the-century Nagasaki were created by Ming Cho Lee and Zack Brown, originally for The Washington Opera. Lighting has been designed by Ken Smith. Suzanne Acton as chorus master completes the creative team.

Tickets for "Madama Butterfly" are available at the MOT ticket office, 6519 Second Avenue, Detroit, or by calling 874. SING and using a major credit card. Tickets are also available at all TicketMaster outlets, including Hudson's, Harmony House and Sound Warehouse, or dial 645-6666. Why not San Antonio?

Visiting a place that seems to have something for everyone - but no one talks about - creates a feeling of discovery. Visiting San Antonio is something like that. You rarely hear anyone say, "Well, next spring the family is off for two weeks in San Antonio." Yet San Antonio is a place the whole family will enjoy.

San Antonio is celebrating its 300th anniversary this year. Founded for three primary reasons - water, religion and military defense - all three remain important to the San Antonio of today. With a population of 1.3 million, San Antonio is the tenth largest city in the country. It's four primary industries are the military, tourism, medicine and agribusiness. Yet, its contrasts keep it from being just another big city. It is charming, friendly and easy to get around in. Many of the major attractions are within walking distance of the famous Paseo del Rio - San Antonio's famous River Walk.

San Antonio seemingly sets the standards for a universal city. Millions are attracted annually to ride the river barges and stroll the flagstone pathways that border the water. There are trendy boutiques, out-of-theway antique shops and wonderful art galleries.

Located much closer to Mexico's capital city than to Washington, D.C., San Antonio remains culturally tied to Mexico. This tie is particularly reflected in the offerings of San Antonio's art museums. Recently, the San Antonio Museum of Art proudly unveiled one of the most comprehensive exhibits of Mexican art ever shown in the United States. The exhibit, which includes more than 400 objects and spans 3,000 years of Mexico's art history, will run through August 4.

"The Mother City of Texas" endears itself both to the people who are lucky enough to live there and to its visitors by welcoming each to experience the city's multi-ethnic heritage - Hispanic, German, French, African, Asian and Anglo-American. San Antonio's warmth and vitality are celebrated year round with a smorgasbord of international cuisines and an endless lineup of festivals and special events reflecting its diverse population.

San Antonio has far too many "special" attractions to list them all. The Rivercenter, a festival marketplace and hotel complex that features outdoor entertainment and 135 specialty shops - the Alamo, the River Walk, the Southwest Craft Center, the Plaza Theater of Wax, Ripley's Believe It Or Not Museum, the Hemis Fair Park, the Institute of Texan Cultures, the King William Historic District, the Spanish Governors Palace and the Arneson River Theatre are a few in the "must-see" category.

The international airport is located an easy 20-minute drive north of downtown San Antonio. Served by all major airlines as well as regional carriers and Mexicana Airlines, San Antonio is easy to reach by air. Amtrak passenger trains also pass through San Antonio several times a week. The city boasts the VIA Metropolitan Transit Service, which operates more than 90 bus routes and streetcars, making it possible to use public transportation to visit virtually all major attractions in the area.

Though certainly not a preplanned "amusement park" city, San Antonio truly offers something for everyone. Perhaps a long stop on your motor trip between east and west, or a fly-in four-or-five-day weekend visit make more sense than an extended vacation. Whatever the amount of time you can spend in San Antonio, you will be glad you went.

For additional information on San Antonio, its events, theater, art offerings and special attractions as well as its hotels and eating places, contact the San Antonio Convention & Visitors Bureau, P.O. Box 2277, San Antonio, Texas 78298.

'Oscar' won't win one, but it's still fun

By Marian Trainor Special Writer

Life is full of surprises. Who would have thought that Sylvester Stallone would shed his money-making, he-man Rambo image or his tough-guy role as Rocky to become a dot-ing father in "Oscar," a comedy? But then no one ever expected The Terminator to take on the role of a kindergarten teacher, either.

Of the two, Stallone is better. Schwarzenegger hammed it up more, often resorting to playing the clown for laughs. Not so Stallone as Snaps Provolone, a Prohibition racketeer who tries to go straight. He generates laughs with gestures, facial expressions and a lofty attitude that befits his station as head

It is comical to see him snap his fingers and send his minions running; to watch his facial expression when his accountant casually informs him that he has swindled him out of $50,000, and his frustration when he tries to control his headstrong flapper daughter. Another plus for "Oscar" is the large cast of Runyonesque supporting characters, the crazy situations based on mistaken identities and the confusion over a black bag.

John Landis, who directed "Trading Places," repeats that motif in "Oscar" by having Stallone change places with himself. He evolves from a mobster to gentleman at the request of his dying father (a cameo by Kirk Douglas) who revives long enough to give him a hard slap and declare, "Atsa so you don't forget."

Determined to keep his promise, Snaps decides that the most respectable career he can adopt is banking.

To impress the director of the bank, he hires an elocution coach (Tim Curry) and a pair of tailors (Harry Shearer and Martin Ferrero) to dress him as befits his new station in life.

Their Laurel and Hardy routine adds to the fun of the film as do Snaps' two household goons, Connie (Chazz Palmuntero) and Ace (Joey Travolta) who make all the wrong moves and enliven the dialogue with exchanges like: "I'm tellin' ya a leopard don't change his stripes." "You mean Spots." "I mean Snaps" or, "Please, not in front of the help." "Trust me, he's no help." Such gems come fast and furious.

The story line is pure farce and is not intended to make much sense. It revolves around mistaken identities, switched suitcases and the premise that a crook has a hard time going straight in a world where he is surrounded by supposedly trustworthy people who are bigger crooks than he is.

Listen to the 'Heartbeats' — they're America

By Marian Trainor Special Writer

They've got rhythm, talent and soul. They are a fictional group of black musicians who star in "The Five Heartbeats."

They emerged in the late 60s with a suavely sexy dance routine and a sound that blended the emotionalism of classic soul with a slick and upbeat facade.

The film is crammed with characters and sub-plots. It's got comedy, drama and smartly produced musical numbers.

The story follows the group members from their early beginnings in inner city talent shows, the exciting days that followed their hit-single in the '60s, their comeback in the '70s and finally their retirement.

In the passing years, we follow them as widely acclaimed artists but also come to know them as individuals, each of whom handles success in his own way.

There is Eddie (Mirhael Wright), the lead singer, who wants to show his father, who tried to disuade him from joining the group, that he could make it in the music world; Duck, played by Robert Townsend, the songwriter who turns out songs by the dozens but never gets the girl; his brother (J.T. Matthews) who plays Leon, always gets the girl; Choirboy (Tica Wells), the group's most religious member who has an angelic falsetto; and Dresser (Harry Lennix), a dancer who polishes his routine with the help of gruff, old pro Sarge (Harold Nichols). It's a group that resembles the Motown ensembles — the Temptations, the Four Tops, the Miracles - the crooning poets of romanticism. The theme of the film is show biz but it is backed up by a strong narrative that grabs our attention and makes us care about the characters, which gives the saga substance and appeal.

Robert Townsend, producer and director, who wrote the movie and also stars in it, is a traditionalist. His commitment to the old Hollywood movies, apparent in his first movie "Hollywood Shuffle," still holds. "Heartbeats," while it has comic moments, is reminiscent of Frank Capra. The same romanticism that permeated the Capra movies lights up "Heartbeats."

When first we meet the five they are singing their hearts out trying to win an amateur contest. They catch the eye of Chuck Patterson, who recognizes their immense talents and becomes their manager.

Patterson, who has had some bad experiences managing groups, is looking for a comeback. He works hard to polish their act and get them bookings, not only because he knows they're good, but also because he has come to like them personally.

They are young, enthusiastic and willing to work hard and accept the travail of trying to make it to the top. One hit song does it for them, "Nothing But Love," and they are on a

Summer events lure boaters to Great Lakes harbors

If the lure of the lakes, sunshine and fresh air can't entice boaters to cast off for a cruise, AAA Michigan has assembled dozens of other incentives for a Great Lakes voyage.

Boaters won't have to cruise far to find tempting summertime festivals because state-sponsored facilities have been developed so skippers are generally no more than 15 shoreline miles from a Great Lakes

The scheduled festivities are as varied as the settings. Boaters can kick back in front-row seats for a fireworks display in downtown Detroit or a passing parade of lighted vessels in Charlevoix. They can stretch sea legs during bridge walks in Mackinaw City and Sault Ste. Marie or stroll among Michigan-made arts and crafts in St.

Most activities listed on the AAA Michigan 1991 Harbor Guide are within walking distance of the harbor, but a few require land transportation. In addition to the events, restaurants, grocery stores, beaches and picnic areas are a short walk from most harbors.

Boaters will be able to dock at two new state-sponsored facilities this summer in Bay City and Baraga.

But it will cost more to tie up for the evening at all state docks. The Michigan State Waterways Commission's new fee schedule ranges from a flat rate of $15 for boats less than 24 feet in length to $1.09 per foot for boats 60 feet and longer. Last year, rates were $14.50 and $1.04, respectively.

Also new in 1991 is a $5 charge for temporary daytime moorage. Pumpout charges remain at $4 per connection.

Dock space is rented on a first-come, first-served basis. However, Detroit's St. Aubin Park will accept reservations on a trial basis this year. If successful, the reservation system could be expanded to other sites in 1992.

The majority of harbors maintain pumpout facilities. rest rooms, showers and fuel docks. Other services can be obtained at commercial marinas.

Same old guys

It had been almost eight months since we last celebrated a victory.

We hadn't seen one another since we lost in the championship game last August.

Except for one guy, who is now running with a little limp after breaking, a leg playing hockey last winter, none of us had changed much.

A few players got married. a couple more became fathers and others are walking beside new girlfriends.

One guy had a neon-colored batting glove. Another guy was sporting a neon golf hat, and another had to finally break down and get pads for his aging, and obviously aching, knees. He claims he purchased them for when he slides he doesn't scrape the skin, but we all feel that once you get older, you need to cover up the soft spots (that's why a few extra large shirts were ordered).

Softball is the last fling for many men and women to play some sort of team sport.

Tommy, Johnny, J.B., Fic, Johnny B., Greg, Pete, Steve, Mark, Jerry, Steve and Gary make up the family this time of year. We get together twice a week to live a fantasy, and remind ourselves how out of shape we are. We have developed a friendship, a love for one another, and softball season rekindles the old flame.

Playing softball is a way for us to continue to feel young, especially Fic, who turned 40 last week.

"It was always my dream to still be playing when I'm 40," said Fic. Don't we all share the same dream?

Even though running the bases becomes more of a task, or the throw from right field to second base seems longer, we still go out every spring and fool around in an adult sandbox.

Most of the time we don't care if we win. We can still enjoy being around one another while playing a mindless game. Wives, girlfriends and kids are just as much a part of our program as the players. We strive to make every outing a family affair and it works; even for the guys who don't have kids, because they have taken such a liking to the "little leaguers."

Everything we do has one purpose: fun. We don't ridicule with a harsh tongue. We keep a loose mood and that's what promotes our camarade-

Everyone should belong to a club, organization or team. I often wonder what it would be like if my wife and my son, Robbie, didn't have these friends. It's not like this is the missing link. It's just another one of life's experiences that is needed to complete the chain.

Playing softball allows us to be kids. We can act goofy, release some pressures and forget about the office for an hour or two. Getting out to the park is like escaping to a different world, and it's particularly enjoyable when you can share your life in a different capacity.

It appears we do appreciate and enjoy the simpler things in life. Playing softball wouldn't be as much fun if I wasn't playing with such a diverse bunch, including a journalist, a couple advertising wizards, a few teachers, an entrepreneur and a corporate real estate salesman.

Gee, I love this time of

North, South tie one on at Barnes Field

By Rob Fulton Sports Editor

Midway through the first half of the North-South soccer game May 8, South coach Tom Caranicholas yelled to his team, "Girls, you are playing so well I'm in love with you."

Forty minutes later he couldn't help repeating those sentiments after his team had tied Grosse Pointe North, 2-2.

"I didn't think I said it that loud." said Caranicholas, who is in his first year at South. "But when you believe it, you've got to say it."

North coach Guido Regelbrugge didn't voice his affections, but he did commend his team for an outstanding defensive front that allowed the Norsemen to keep a commanding two-point edge over the Devils in the race for the Macomb Area Conference White Division championship.

The tie gave North an 8-0-1 league mark and an overall record of 10-1-1, and South moved to 7-1-1 and 10-2-1.

"In my opinion, South's objective should have been to win it," said Regelbrugge, whose team has the inside track to win its fifth straight league title with only three conference games remaining. 'Our objective was to win or tie, and not to lose. Going in we had a two-point lead and South needed to beat us in order to potentially tie us for the league championship. We had to protect our lead.'

And the Norsemen did just that despite blowing two onegoal leads.

"As soon as I saw how quickly goals were being scored I told the kids we were going to start sacrificing offense for defense," said Regelbrugge, "particularly because all we needed to do was tie in order to stay on top in the league."

All four goals were scored in a seven-minute span. North's Holly Brooks lofted a corner kick toward South goalie Allison Lang and the ball bounced off Lang's hands and into the net, giving North a 1-0 lead. Ashley Moran then countered with a goal for South just three minutes later when she converted a crossing pass from Stephanie Coddens. Felicia Paluzzi then fed Amy Shepley with a pretty pass and Shepley quickly beat Lang for a 2-1 North lead. Coddens then tied the score on a free kick that beat North goalie Julie Hielscher.

The first half ended in a 2-2

The two goals by South were the most North has given up have recorded seven shutouts in 11 games and have given up only six goals on the season.

"After we got our first goal to tie the score I told the kids we were going to have a great day," said Caranicholas, whose team's only loss was a 4-1 decision at North. "When we got the second goal I felt we were going to win because we were carrying the play."

In the second half, North continued its defensive stand.

"This was the game we needed to get closer to our objective," said Regelbrugge, "so I told the girls at half time to concentrate on stopping them from scoring. If we do that, we win. But we were prepared to go back on the offensive attack if we were to give up a goal. We knew all we needed was a tie, so we had to play not to give up the goal."

North's three remaining games are against Roseville. Lake Shore and Anchor Bay, all teams it has beaten handily. South plays Romeo and Anchor

"We feel good about our-selves," said Caranicholas. "We were one shot away from winning the game, but we just didn't get the goal we needed. I still love them, though.

After years of ruling the Eastern Michigan League, the South varsity tennis team reigned supreme again, this time winning the Macomb Area Conference Red Division championship.

South, unbeaten in dual meets this season, won six out of eight flights en route to the league title in the first year South has competed in the MAC.

Emiliano Lorenzini (No. 1 singles), Cullen McMahon (No. 2 singles), Matt Smucker (No. 3 singles) and Brian Disser (No. 4 singles) made it a clean South sweep in all singles competition and all are individual league champions.

Bill Wundram and Chris Schilling won the No. 1 doubles flight, and the No. 2 doubles team of Shawn Coyle and Paul Jeff Huntington and Chad Yates lost a three-set match at No. 3 doubles, and the No. 4 doubles team of Rob McLaren and Brian Forster lost to North, 4-6, 7-5, in the finals.

> Drake then came back to long jump 15 feet, 11 inches, O'Byrne and Sandy Dierkes ran season-best times in the 1,600 and 3,200, respectively.

South will host the regional track meet at Grosse Pointe North, Saturday, May 18 beginning at 9:30 a.m.

Baseball

After handily beating Roseville (11-1) and Utica (14-2) in five-inning games, the Blue Devils were upended by Romeo (4-0) and Lakeview (8-7) last week. Despite losing to Romeo, the Devils are still in first place in the Macomb Area Conference White Division, just percentage points ahead of Fraser.

South is 8-3 in the league and Fraser is 7-3.

Against Roseville, South had little trouble with the Panthers' top pitcher Brian Sikorski. South got nine hits, led by the two-RBI performances of Brian Blake and Colm Moore, and the three-RBI day of Matt Recht. Bill Leins, who leads the team with a .414. batting average, and Tim Gramling each singled, and Nick Johnston had an RBI double, making a winner out of pitcher Lance Debets.

Debets, now 2-1 on the season, struck out two and gave up three hits.

Against Utica, South struck for four runs in the first inning and three in the second. Recht had a two-run double in the first, and three straight singles by Blake, Leins and Kelly Graves in the third got home two runs. Recht finished the day with two hits and four RBI.

Kevin Brennan picked up his fourth win against no defeats, scattering three hits and fanning four.

Mike Oliver's three-run double in the fifth put Utica away. On May 10 at home, South's Brian Downs (3-2), who leads the team with a 1.56 ERA, got the 4-0 loss, but he was only supported by four hits.

Three of the four runs Downs gave up were unearned.

The same night, South played Lakeview under the lights at Kyte and, despite having 14 hits, got tagged with its ninth loss of the season.

Leins had a double and triple, and Scott VanAlmen, Johnston and Gramling had two hits apiece.

South was beaten by the long ball, giving up three homers on the day, including two by starter Brian Campbell. Jay Berschback tossed two relief innings and was tagged with the loss.

Softball

Senior right-hander Tina Higel recorded two shutouts and two three-hitters last week as the Lady Devils won three games and lost one. South's only loss was an 8-1 decision at home against Romeo.

Higel, now 11-4, got her first shutout May 6 when she mowed down North, 1-0. Patty Provenzano got the game-winning RBI with a sacrifice in the first inning.

Against Roseville, South rode the arm of Higel again and won, 8-2. Besides tossing her second straight three-hitter, Higel had two hits and two RBI. Lisa Leavell chipped in with three hits and one RBI.

On May 8 against Utica, Higel was supported by Jenny Wysocki's two hits and two RBI and won going away, 10-0.

The streak came to an end May 10, however, when South got only three hits.

South is 8-3 in the league and 13-6 overall.

Lacrosse

Still ranked No. 5 in the state, the South lacrosse club team shutout Ann Arbor Huron, 7-0, but was really no match for No. 1 ranked Cranbrook, losing 11-2. Kevin McCracken had two goals and an assist, and Cameron Craig had one goal to lead South over Huron. Matt Mogk. Tom Dinverno, Jay Boyer and Dave Cogan had one goal each.

Tuna softballers take three

Our Lady Star of the Sea's varsity softball team took three out of four games last week, upping its regular season record to 6-10. Star beat Immaculate Conception, 16-2, 12-2, and split a doubleheader with Cardinal Mooney, winning the first game 5-0, but losing the nightcap, 12-11.

In the first game against Immaculate Conception, Star was led by Andrea Zysk, Kathy Star and Emily Faber, each going two-for-three. Zysk was he winning pitcher. In game two, Kim Baranke had two hits, including a bases-loaded double that knocked in three runs. Emily Faber had three hits in five trips, driving in two to seal the victory for Cathy Colby.

Jeanne Calois struck out seven batters and tossed a twohitter as Star beat Mooney. Faber, Zysk, Colby and Kim Smith each had two hits.

Track

By winning all four relays, the 400, 800, 1,600 and 3,200, the Lady Norsemen overpowered Utica Ford, 80-43.

Noelle Cormier won the 100 and 200 dashes, while Katie Loeher took the 800 run. Anne Scallen cruised to a first in the 400 run, and Alyssa Zepke won the 3,200.

In the field events, Anne Maliszewski won the long jump and Hope Fenton sealed a first in the discus.

On May 7, North continued its winning ways, beating Anchor Bay, 89-39.

Fenton dominated the throwing events with a 28 feet, 2 1/3 inch throw in the shot put, and a toss of 78-1 in the discus.

Maliszewski won the long jump (14-4), while Cormier won the 100 dash (13.1). North also won the 400, 1,600 and 3,200 relays.

Other winners included Jennifer Trachy (high jump, 4-3; and 300 hurdles, 50.8); Peggy Finkleman (1,600, 6:10); Loeher (800, 2:32.1); Monica Rhee (200 dash, 28.4); Rebecca Clor (3,200 run, 12:54).

On May 6, ULS hosted Lutheran North. North broke a 6-6 tie with two runs in the sixth, but the Knights fought back to take a 10-8 victory. Senior Greg Akers led the offense with three hits, including a two-out, game-winning double in the sixth. Pitcher Tom Best walked only two and retired the last six hitters to pick up

ULS then played Southfield Christian May 9, taking a 1-0

ULS' David Martin led off the first inning with a single, stole second and third, and raced home on an Akers ground-out. Andrew Van-Deweghe got the completegame shutout.

On May 11, ULS won twice to earn the trophy in the South Lake Tournament. Best allowed four hits and struck out four as ULS beat Lake Shore,

Junior Jason Drook gave the Knights their fourth win and fourth complete game of the week in the tournament's championship game, beating South Lake, 12-5. Drook fanned David Darby had two hits and three RBI, and launched a solo homer in the first inning.

Want to buy a home? Check your affordability index first

By Ronald J. Bernas Staff Writer

The dream of every man woman and child is to own their own home. But with prices skyrocketing, the nation firmly entrenched in a recession and less government funds available to get you started, it's become an impossible dream for most people.

Or has it? Several state and national studies show that with a little planning, just about anyone can own a home. A recent National Association of Realtors study said that despite increases in home costs. most families in the United States are making enough money to afford a home.

The January Housing Affordability Index was 114.4, one of the highest recorded. The index measures the ability of a typical family to purchase a median-priced resale home.

(the last month figures are available) a family earning the national median income of $35,700, had 114.4 percent of the income needed to qualify for conventional financing covering 80 percent of a home priced at $94,200, the median existing-home price in January. Got that?

What it means in other language is that a family earning $20,000 would have enough money to qualify for a home valued at $60,300, using a 20 percent down payment and a $48,200 loan. A family with a $50,000 income would qualify for a $150,600 home using a 20 percent down payment and a $120,500 loan.

But people in the Detroit area have an even better chance than that, according to another study by the NAR.

Using census data that shows median household incomes are higher in the tricounty area than they are elsewhere in the country, it stands to reason that families have even more money to invest in a

So, how do you know what you can afford before you go out looking?

Begin with this rule of thumb: Your monthly housing expenses - including mortgage, utilities, taxes and insurance should not exceed 28 percent of your gross income. So if you make $50,000 a year, you should be able to spend $1,166 a month on housing.

How much of that amount will be an actual mortgage payment depends on the size of the loan and the interest rate. The down payment is generally between 5 and 25 percent.

Say you fall in love with an $80,000 house and are able to make a $10,000 down payment with a 30-year fixed-rate mortgage of $70,000 at 10 percent. That will require a payment of $613 a month. Add monthly home expenses and remember, you must stay below that magic 28 percent. Any lending institution will make similar calculations.

Well, you've figured that out, now you have to figure out where the money is going to come from. Loans come in all shapes and sizes and it's smart to determine which is best for you before getting into a contract.

Fixed-rate mortgages are usually offered for a term of either 15 or 30 years. They have a monthly payment amount that will remain the same for the term of the mortgage. Each payment includes a portion of the principal and interest on the loan with the principal amount applied per payment increasing as the loan

Adjustable rate mortgages are more complex. They begin at a given interest rate, but the terms fluctuate periodically. There is usually a cap on the amount of fluctuation that is tied to an indicator such as the U.S. Treasury Bill index. But don't forget about FHA and VA loans. You might quaiify for these special programs.

The Federal Housing Administration insures loans which are originated by participating institutions. You pay an insurance fee, either at closing or as part of the monthly payment. One advantage to these loans is that, because they're insured, the lender may accept a lowerthan-normal down payment.

> The Veteran's Administration also offers insured loans which are usually less expensive due to restrictions on processing. The restriction being, of course, that only military veterans qualify.

> Once you buy your house, then you can start reaping the rewards of homeowners — like breaks on taxes.

But that's another story.

Welcome summer by planting a tree — just for the green of it

What better way to welcome the bright colors and the fresh smells of spring than by planting a tree?

It may sound like a big project, but if you follow the steps recommended by the American Association of Nurserymen, you will soon be watching your little bit of spring flourish into a lasting treasure for all seasons.

First, locate a clear, open site for the tree. There should be ample room for the tree to form its root system. Your site should also allow for good drainage.

Next, loosen and blend the top 6 to 10 inches of the soil in the entire planting area. The hole should be at least 6 to 12 inches wider than the width of the root ball.

When planting a balled and burlapped tree, place the root ball in the hole, and remove any string or twine from around the trunk. Peel the burlap part way back so it will be buried as the hole is filled.

With container-grown plants, remove the plant from the container. If you see roots circling on the cut side of the root ball, take a sharp knife and make two or three shallow cuts, from the top to the bottom of the ball, to encourage new roots which will grow out into your

Make sure that the root collar (the place where the tree's main stem meets the roots) is slightly above the surrounding grade.

Next, backfill the hole. If you are planting in soil composed of heavy clay or light sand, you can mix the backfill soil with up to one-third organic matter, such as peat or compost.

Lightly pack the soil into place around the tree. Spread a 2- to 3-inch layer of mulch in

The Address Speaks For Itself

In the heart of the Grosse Pointes. stands Pointe Plaza. This unique business environment is recognized as one of the area's most distinguished addresses.

Contemporary, yet classic. Pointe Plaza's exceptional design is a setting of quiet beauty with its premiumquality finishes of imported marble and polished brass. Stunning in its elegance and good taste, Pointe Plaza combines 5-story executive office buildings, upscale shops and dining, and extensive covered and reserved parking.

Located at the prominent intersection of Moross and Mack Avenue, and adjacent to the renowned St. John Hospital Medical Center, Pointe Plaza offers over 120,000 square feet of distinctive office space.

The convenience of working in your neighborhood and the easy access from I-94 and I-696 allows this dynamic location to serve businesses and shoppers from the immediate areas as well as the surrounding areas of Metropolitan Detroit who have the desire to create a golden opportunity for your business.

> Space is now available from 1,000 square feet. We invite your inquiries.

Pointe Plaza is a joint venture of Schostak Brothers and the St. Clair Health Corporation.

MAJESTIC

Rambling home on standard lot

The Majestic efficiently assembles the features of a rambling suburban home into the space of a standard city lot. A covered walkway, vaulted ceilings with high windows, and sliding glass doors give the house a feeling of space and light.

It's not illusion. The Majestic contains separate living, dining, and family rooms; a two car garage; a large master bedroom with attached bathroom/ spa and sun porch; and two smaller bedrooms with a second bath. The vaulted space includes the family room and dining area, and can include the kitchen.

Considerable attention has been paid to convenience fea-The master suite contains a walk-in closet. Additional closets are found in the hall, family room, and back

Washer and dryer are tucked into a utility space accessible from both the front hall and can organize tools and supplies in a garage storage area, while cooks will appreciate the kitchen's large enclosed pantry.

Locating the master suite and utility space so near the front entrance is unconventional, but allows all the adult activity areas to be accessible from the long leg of an Lshaped hall. The short back hall, the back bedrooms, and the family room can then be a separate children's domain or possibly a work area for the

Selling your home in a soft market Looking for some magic formakes a one-time payment to mula for selling your home in a soft market? Well, you can stop looking. Market conditions have not altered the rules for selling your home, according to the Michigan Association of CPAs. On the other hand, they have made it more important for you to put a little extra muscle - and compromise into the process.

Set a realistic price

The right price is probably the single most important factor in a timely sale. Unfortunely, these days you may have to accept the fact that your home is worth less today than it was worth just a few years ago.

The value of your residence is generally based on four factors: your home's age, location and condition, as well as the condition of the real estate market in your area. To arrive at a realistic price for your home, you can hire an independent appraiser to determine your home's current market value. Or you can request estimates from real estate agents familiar with your community.

If you need to sell your home quickly, start with a realistic price. In a soft market, the common tactic of listing a house at an elevated price with the intention of lowering it later can backfire. Remember. your house appeals most to brokers when it first comes on the market. If you set your list price too high, you may miss out on the initial rush - exactly the time when brokers are most likely to show a new listing to all prospective buyers.

Offer creative incentives

To entice potential buyers, you may need to resort to creative incentives. Generally, creative financing is the most attractive lure, particularly for first-time buyers. To assist a buyer, you can offer to pay all or part of the buyer's points, title insurance or closing costs.

Mortgage buy downs that help a buyer qualify for a mortgage are also popular. With the typical buy-down, the seller the lender that will lower the interest rate on the buyer's mortgage for the first few years, making monthly mortgage payments more affordable.

Buyers who are trading up may be more interested in a $1,000 redecorating or landscaping allowance. Or you may offer to include in the sale one or more of the items that your listing indicated was not included - draperies, carpeting or even furniture.

Select a good Realtor

To maximize the profit on vour house, you may be tempted to try to sell your house on your own and avoid paying a real estate agent's commission. Most experts do not recommend that sellers attempt this course during a slow market. In many cases, you can improve your chances of successfully selling your house by selecting a professional who will carefully and enthusiastically market your home.

By most estimates, more than 90 percent of all home sales are accomplished through professionals - and for good reason. A good broker can help you price your home realistically, advertise and show it skillfully, and negotiate the sale professionally. Another major advantage of listing with a Realtor is that he or she can put your house on the multiple listing service for your area, providing your home with much broader exposure.

Selecting the right real estate agent takes time. Start by obtaining recommendations from friends and neighbors. You should also scan the real estate pages in your local newspaper.

The next step is interviewing various brokers. For example, find out how familiar they are with properties in your neighborhood. How do they plan to market your house, and to whom? Do they plan to schedule an "open house" for your property - and if so, when an how often? Where will your home be advertised? Does the broker expect to have an exclusive listing and if so, for how long?

You should also find out whether an agent works with a relocation company, which can be a valuable source for potential buvers.

When you are ready to sign a contract, request one with a relatively short term so that the agent is motivated to perform quickly. If your house has not been sold by the end of the contract period, but you are satisfied with the agent's service, you can always extend or renew the contract.

Finally, do not assume that all brokers charge a set rate of commission on the sale of real estate. The commission paid to brokers is negotiable.

Of the factors that influence the price of your home, your home's condition is the only one over which you have substantial control. In today's market, a home that is poorly maintained and in need of repair doesn't stand a chance. Most real estate agents agree that "curb appeal," your home's first impression, is of critical importance. A fresh coat of paint and a neatly manicured lawn can put buyers in a favorable frame of mind for viewing the interior.

WHFTHER YOU EED A MORTGAGE REFINAN(

The cost of a house is one thing. The cost of getting into a house—the mortgage application and loan documentation fees - can be something else altogether. And that goes for refinancing, too.

But right now, with interest rates at their lowest in recent years, it's a great time to get a mortgage or refinance. And at First of America, for a limited time, we're making it even better by waiving our $200 mortgage origination fee.

As always, we have competitive rates and we'll help you find just the right terms and payment plan for your budget. We start by offering an array of mortgage and refinancing options. Including fixed and adjustable rates. FHA loans and other flexible payment plans. And we'll reply to your application fast.

If you're buying or refinancing a home, contact your Realtor, call our mortgage department at 1-800-735-1196, or stop by any one of our 75 convenient First of America Bank-Southeast Michigan branches.

Beware of hit-and-run pavers

Each year, traveling criminals come to Michigan to do hit-and-run 'paving work. Homeowners and business owners are urged by the Michigan Asphalt Paving Association and local law enforcement agencies to be especially cautious when approached by people selling asphalt paving and sealing products.

Traveling criminals were especially active in Michigan last year. They are expected to return in force during the spring, summer and fall this year. If suspicious of fraudulent activity, consumers should call the nearest local law enforcement agency or the Michigan State Police immediately.

Traveling criminals usually leave their customers with a driveway or parking area that will eventually reveal poor workmanship. Poor work is not always evident immediately. Problems may not appear for several weeks or months.

Traveling criminals traditionally have no real local business address. They are even known to use the name of a reputable local asphalt supplier in order to win customer confidence.

They sell asphalt paving material door-to-door after having scouted neighborhoods for their best targets. Their sales pitch is designed to appeal to those who are especially susceptible to the offer of a so-called bargain and their victims are often senior citizens.

If there is any doubt about the reputability of a paving firm, consumers should take the time to check local businesses and bank references. Most importantly, they should insist on a written contract before work is started. Consumers must be alert.

For helpful hints on dealing with paving contractors, consumers may call toll-free 1-800-292-5959 and request the free pamphlet, "Asphalt Driveway and Parking Lot Paving: Helpful Tips on Getting the Best Pavement for Your Money."

Redecorating With Wallpaper?

Hanging wallpaper in a room will make you feel like you have a whole new room. It takes a special knack to wallpaper, and the more you do it, the better you get. That's why professionals get the best results. But if you're trying to save a little money, you can save by doing the job yourself. Below we've given you some tips to help you get professional results:

 If you're papering over painted walls, sand them down and cover the walls with an oil-based primer-sealer. You might want to use a compound called sizing which is a primer that seals the surface and also makes it more receptive to the new paste and wall covering.

 It is best to remove old wallpaper when possible. Most professionals and do-it-yourselfers use a steamer, which loosens old paste. Tool-rental stores usually stock steamers.

To remove vinyl wallpapers you will need to spray a chemical compound that loosens the paste. You'll need to puncture the paper carefully so the chemical can get to the old paste.

• If you can't get the old paper down and are papering over the existing paper, make sure the existing paper is in good shape. You don't want any tears, bubbles or lumpy seams. Coat the surface with an oil-based primer-sealer to create a better surface for the new wallpaper and to keep the fresh paste from reactivating the old paste.

• Getting paper straight is the most important skill in wallpapering. If your wallpaper rolls are 26 inches wide, mark a point 25 inches from the corner where you want to start. Use a level and draw a straight vertical line through the 25-inch mark. Set one edge of the paper along that line. Let the extra inch overlap in the corner. This will make your job easier when you return to that corner at the end of the job.
