

Park boardwalk comes together

By Donna Walker
Staff Writer

Thanks to benevolent weather and residents' generosity, the lakeside boardwalk at Patterson Park is about 70 percent complete, said Dr. Roger MacNeil, president of the Grosse Pointe Park Foundation.

"It should be ready by spring," he said. The foundation, a volunteer group that raises money for improvements in the Park, has decided to name the boardwalk after George P. Helm, a member of the city's planning commission for about 35 years, who died last year.

"Mr. Helm was one of the men who came up with the idea for a boardwalk, and his daughter, Gwendolyn Bates, donated about $30,000 for the project in his name," MacNeil said.

The 870-foot-long wooden boardwalk will have child-proof railings and six three-sided balconies jutting over the shore about 8 feet out from the boardwalk, where people can sit on benches and watch boats go by. There also will be three balconies on the inland side, and they will be used as entrances to the boardwalk.

"A lot of people have told me they're excited about the boardwalk because it will be handicapped accessible," MacNeil said. "It seems there's a lot of people out there who use wheelchairs, from 8 to 88."

A short asphalt path will connect the parking lot at the east end of the park with the ramp at the east end of the boardwalk.

MacNeil said residents who donated $5,000 each to pay for the balconies were: Dr. and Mrs. Richard Ferrara; Mr. and Mrs. John Brosnan; Mayor and Mrs. Palmer Heenan; the family of the late Cyril (Butch) D. Korte, who made a memorial contribution in his name in honor of the 47 years he worked for the city; Art Getz; and MacNeil and his wife.

Plaques honoring them and the other large contributors, including Bon Secours Hospital, will be displayed on the boardwalk, MacNeil said.

"I think kudos should also go to the city engineer, Jim Ellison," he said. "He did all of the elevations and engineering plans for us, and that saved us a lot of money."

The boardwalk will cost about $140,000, MacNeil said, and is being funded entirely by donations raised by the foundation. This spring, the foundation plans to install lighting and landscape the area around the boardwalk, which will cost about $30,000, he said.

Following the water's edge, the boardwalk at snow covered Patterson Park is about 70 percent complete.

"I think we have an active, lively, enthusiastic board of trustees on the foundation,"

MacNeil said, "and they deserve a lot of credit."

Patterson Park is located at the foot of Three Mile Drive in Grosse Pointe Park. To contact the Grosse Pointe Park Foundation, call the Grosse Pointe Park city hall at 822-6200.

Parents invited to networking session

The Learning Disabilities Association of Grosse Pointe will hold a Parent Networking Night on Tuesday, Jan. 19, at 7:30 p.m. at Brownell Middle School.

Parents of children with learning disabilities, attention deficit disorder, speech and language impairments or other difficulties are invited to come for an evening of sharing problems, solutions and concerns. There will be parents in attendance who have experience in special education advocacy, as well as parents of older children who can share their experiences.

Topics for discussion will include special education law and advocacy procedures, opportunities for sharing of individual concerns, information on the various disabilities represented, and support for parents who may be having difficulties. Discussion will not necessarily be limited to those who are certified as learning disabled, but will depend on the needs of those in attendance.

LDA meetings are open to the public at no charge. Refreshments will be served.

Corrections

Corrections will be printed on this page every week. If there is an error of fact in any story, call the newsroom at 882-0294.

The obituary for Ursula P.

Barthel that appeared on page 19A in the Jan. 7 issue should have said that a memorial service was held at Grosse Pointe United Church. Memorial contributions may be made to Grosse Pointe United Church.

Gears mesh, jaws drop

He gave her their dream car for Christmas. The word car doesn't really apply here — hot bomb would more accurately describe this sleek hunk of machinery. It looks like a James Bond racer, Batmobile and stealth bomber rolled into one. This machine almost commands that the driver wear black, with leather driving gloves and dark glasses. Of course, she must also be of lithe build and well tanned. Nothing else would look right behind the wheel.

She was totally stunned by the magnitude of the gift and the meaning behind it. However, after the initial shock, reality and terror replaced awe. He informed her that this was the ultimate muscle car, one of the most frequently stolen, one which issues an unwritten invitation to every law officer from coast to coast. "Eat my dust, copper."

He suggested they take "it" for a spin and they made the town, coming in and out of family and friends' driveways — jaws dropped accordingly, she wasn't sure whether from admiration or incredulity. He turned to drive. She slid into the black leather bucket seats that expressed every nuance of her noble form. She turned the key in the ignition and the dash board lit up like opening night on Broadway. She was dazed, but not confused. He reached her from the passenger seat, admonishing her to "slow down, look out and remember this car is longer than your old one."

He suggested they return home and watch the 90 minute videotape that came with the car. To get in the mood, she strapped herself in his leather chair, adjusted her goggles and turned on the tape. They were transported electronically to the factory where the car was built, taking it from the assembly line straight through the car's first careful washing. The camera panned to a test track while two male voices patiently, as if talking to young children, began a tour of the car and its various features.

She was urged to familiarize herself with the myriad buttons on the dash and throughout the interior of the automobile, while learning a new language of abbreviations (see handbook). She knew that said handbook would be her new bible and must be kept within arm's reach at all times. She is now starting to gain confidence and knows when she is finished learning to pilot her new car she will also be qualified to fly a MiG.

There are a few no-nos involved. Never, never have a flat tire. The lug nuts are carefully hidden and the air valve covers are status collectibles, like tempting hood ornaments, for those who are inclined to help themselves. If in trouble, she is advised to stay with the car and send for help. Someone else will have to be the designated driver if more than one friend is involved, and never, under any circumstances, take this piece of machinery to a mall. That would encourage all sorts of criminal acts to be committed.

Did I mention the roof can be removed? It would be advisable to enlist the help of Arnold Schwarzenegger to lift it for you and to be certain the weather intends to hold, because there is no way she could replace it herself.

In truth, she adores her car and her husband, not necessarily in that order. She loves being alone in her new moped as long as the telephone is handy. The stereo is superb and she purrs along, saying that it handles beautifully, is a vacation to drive, and makes her feel very special — younger, thinner, etc. When she notices admiring and envious stares, she just knows it has nothing to do with the car. They must be wondering who she is and what did she have to do to get one of those!

Home burgled in Woods

By Donna Walker
Staff Writer

Sometime between 7 a.m. and 8:05 p.m. Monday, Dec. 14, a burglar broke into a home on the 1900 block of Oxford in Grosse Pointe Woods, police said.

The victim discovered that his house had been ransacked and that several items were missing when he returned home shortly after 8 that night.

Police said the thief entered the home by breaking a rear bedroom window, probably with a log found lying in the backyard, which had been removed from a wood pile.

The burglar conducted a messy search of the bedroom, opening all drawers and throwing some of their contents on the floor. Two sweaters, both had been filled and left on the bed.

A cellular phone was taken from a night stand, a wooden box with money was also taken from the bedroom, and a brown pillow case was missing from the bed.

A 35 mm camera was stolen from the living room and a stack of compact discs was moved from the stereo cabinet but none appeared to be missing.

The burglar also searched the basement and an upstairs office from which 15 to 20 old records were taken.

The thief tried to leave the home through the front door but was stopped by a dead bolt lock that could be opened only with the proper key. He left through the broken window.

Wood detectives are continuing their investigation of the burglary.

Anthony Joseph Slowick

A funeral Mass was held Monday, Jan. 11, at St. Paul Catholic Church in Grosse Pointe Farms for Anthony Joseph Slowick, 78, of Grosse Pointe Farms, who died of heart failure on Jan. 7, 1993.

Born in Detroit, Mr. Slowick was an attorney. He was a foreign correspondent with author and historian William L. Shirer during the 1936 Olympics in Berlin. Because of his athletic stature, he was a tennis player. Mr. Slowick was mistaken for a missing American athlete and was taken to the Olympic stadium by the German police. While there, he was able to get the first exclusive interview with Jesse Owens after he was snubbed by German leader Adolf Hitler.

He is survived by three sisters and many nieces and nephews. Arrangements were made by the Chas. Verheyden Inc. Funeral Home in Grosse Pointe Park. The body was cremated.

Janet F. Moon

Services will be held Friday, Jan. 15, at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church in Grosse Pointe Farms for Janet F. Moon, of Grosse Pointe Farms, who died Jan. 4, 1993, in Galveston, United Kingdom.

Born in Philadelphia, Mr. Moon was a graduate of Melrose High School and Radcliffe College. She married Walter A. Crow and lived in New York City and then Grosse Pointe Park, until his death in 1961. In 1969, she married Charles R. Moon.

She was a member of the board of directors at Mount Palmer, a member of Plained Parenthood and was a board trustee for The Tribute Fund. She served as a deaconess of Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, was a member and officer of Box, the Grosse Pointe Farm and Garden Club and the Mary Thompson Home. She also was a member of The Detroit Club, the Detroit Athletic Club, the Country Club of Detroit, the Detroit Historical Society, the DIA Founders Socety, the Detroit Zoological Society and the Detroit Steamphone Operators Women's Association.

She is survived by her husband, Charles R. Moon, of Grosse Pointe Farms; a son, Charles B. Moon, III, of New York City; and William P. Moon, of Washington, D.C.

Arrangements were made by the Chas. Verheyden Inc. Funeral Home in Grosse Pointe Park. Burial was in Mount Olivet Cemetery in Detroit.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Detroit Steamphone Operators Women's Association, 10000 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich. 48202.

Donald F. Brosnan

Donald F. Brosnan

Funeral services were held Jan. 2 in Newport Beach, Calif., for Donald F. Brosnan, 61, of Newport Beach and formerly of Grosse Pointe Farms, who died Dec. 28, 1992.

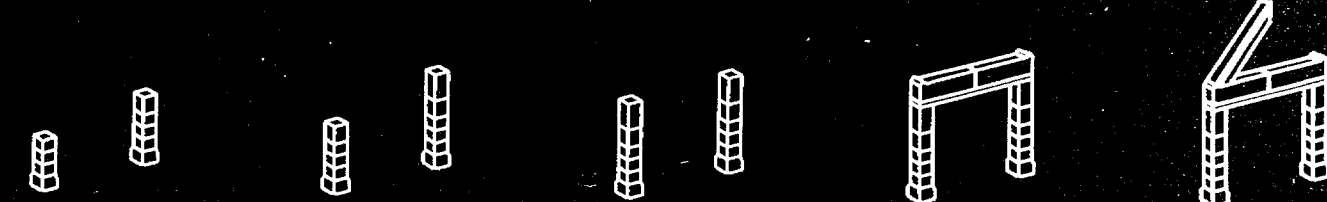

Born in Boston, Mr. Brosnan was a graduate of Tufts University and served four years in the U.S. Navy.

He was president and chief operating executive of Gateway Communications in Irvine, Calif. Before that, he was president and chief operating officer of MSI Data Corp. of Costa Mesa, Calif. from 1976 to 1983, and, prior to that, he was vice president and general manager of Honeywell Information Systems.

He was a member of the Country Club of Detroit, the Newport Beach Country Club and the Balboa Bay Club of Newport Beach.

He is survived by his wife, Kingsley Roney Brosnan; sons, Donald F. Jr. and Timothy; and a daughter, Kingsley. He was interred in the St. Paul Catholic Church Columbarium in Grosse Pointe Farms.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Hoag Memorial Hospital Cancer Program, 301 Newport Blvd., Box Y, Newport Beach, Calif. 92658.

Music scholarship auditions scheduled at Marygrove

The music faculty of Marygrove College has scheduled the Music Department scholarship auditions for the 1993-94 year. Applications are now available for students interested in pursuing a music degree at Marygrove College on a full-time basis.

The awards for full-time students include a $1,000 scholarship, renewable over a four-year period, and two $500 scholarships, renewable over a four-year period.

Auditions are open to voice, piano, organ, guitar or flute students.

Prospective students are encouraged to apply early by contacting the Music Department for an application and audition guidelines.

For more information and an application, call Sue Vanderbeck at 862-8000, ext. 316.

Marygrove College is located at 8425 West McNichols at Wyoming.

As moderate, Clinton faces political tests

President-elect Clinton appears ready and confident as he awaits his inauguration as the nation's 42nd president next Wednesday but the question now is whether the nation is ready for a moderate Democrat.

After taking care of his moving problems, the president-elect must turn his full attention to the problems of state and of Washington. One will be getting acquainted with Congress' largest freshman class in 40 years that contains 110 newly elected House members and 13 new U.S. senators.

It contains a record number of women, African-Americans and Latinos, most of whom already have expressed concern about their own personal agendas which do not always match the agendas of their political parties.

Yet with the Democrats controlling both houses of Congress as well as the presidency, the public expects the party to end the gridlock that has almost paralyzed congressional action on controversial issues for many of the 12 years of the GOP presidencies.

However, there still are divisions among the Republicans as well as among the Democrats. One GOP House member already has quit his leadership post because of the obstructionist tactics being proclaimed by Rep. Newt Gingrich of Georgia, one of the unreconstructed Southern Republican leaders.

Nor are all Democrats of one mind. In the recent congressional session, it was usually Southern Democrats who defected from their party to help the GOP minority uphold President Bush's vetoes of more than 30 vetoes of legislation. Most of those Southern Democrats are not only still in Congress, they are also committee chairmen and in other positions of power.

However, Clinton so far is proving to be the moderate Democrat he proclaimed himself to be during the campaign. On an overall basis, his Cabinet is a moderate one, with liberals balanced out by conservatives. In that respect, it is reminiscent of the "brain trust" that President Franklin Roosevelt enlisted to obtain ideas from all sides of the political spectrum.

The president-elect would be wise to pursue that moderate course. He was elected, after all, by fewer than half of the voters and he did run as a leader of the Democratic Leadership Council which had sought to moderate the liberal image created by the most recent Democratic nominees for president.

But he does face enormous pressures from both Democrats and Republicans, from the left as well as from the right.

Democrats who run most of the nation's big cities seek vast new spending programs. Democrats representing agribusiness object to any reduction in federal farm subsidies. Other Democratic special interests already are demanding their bite of the pie.

On the GOP side, too, many obstructionists scoff at claims that any Democratic president can be a moderate, in view of the liberal views of many Democratic congressional leaders. But such Republicans tend to regard as liberal any departure from their own right-wing views.

As he tackles the country's major problems, Clinton no doubt will quickly indicate whether he will be able to retain his moderate label or whether, indeed, he will be captured by the liberals.

So far, he retains a moderate stance by soft-peddaling talk of immediately trying to fulfill his campaign pledges of a middle-class tax-cut and trimming the deficit by 50 percent in four years. Those go-slow signals followed verification of reports of higher current federal deficits than originally expected.

If Clinton re-reads the election returns, he will see he won as a moderate who made George Bush look like an ultra-conservative controlled by the GOP's right-wing.

The middle-of-the-road stance still wins national elections in this country. Maintaining it in the face of the forces pulling him away from it would serve the new president and the people well, especially on domestic matters.

While Clinton is inexperienced in foreign affairs, he has chosen an experienced team to advise him. Fortunately, there are fewer divisions between the political parties in this field but here, too, moderation and caution would serve the new president and the country well, especially in handling the new crises in Iraq and Bosnia.

100 years in the City & Farms

In observing any anniversary, it is essential to look back to see where we have come from so that we know more about where we are today and where we are likely to go in the future.

It is in that spirit that the Grosse Pointe News plans to publish a series of articles in the next six months as part of the 100th anniversary observance of Grosse Pointe Farms and Grosse Pointe City that will culminate in a week-long series of public events in early July.

This newspaper, for more than half of the past century, has chronicled the news of all the Pointes every week. It will rely not only on its own files, however, but on the collections of the Grosse Pointe Historical Association, the recollections of local people and other sources to cover the early days of the City and the Farms.

The News also invites suggestions from officials and other residents about the people whose contributions ought to be chronicled and the events that ought to be recalled for the benefit of today's Pointers. Without such help and cooperation, we could not adequately provide evidence that, as Shakespeare reminded us, "what's past is prologue."

First inhabited by Native Americans, the area now known as the Pointes was visited by French explorers more than three centuries ago.

Since then, the Pointes successively have served as a haven for French "habitants," especially after the surrender of Detroit to the English in 1760, later as a summer resort for wealthy Detroiters and, with the growth of Detroit and the advent of the automobile, as a year-round residential suburb of 50,000 people.

In the long tide of history, Grosse Pointers have lived under three flags, the French, the English and the American, and under many different local jurisdictions.

The first official recognition of Grosse Pointe as a place apparently came when it was organized as a new township split off from Hamtramck Township in 1848.

Chelsea's choice

A lot of nonsense is being written and broadcast about the Clinton family's decision to send daughter Chelsea to a private school, Sidwell Friends, rather than a public school.

We wonder if it ever occurred to any of the critics that in joining his wife and daughter in the choice of Sidwell Friends, Clinton knew he was making the "wrong" political choice but the "right" family decision.

For having the courage to do so with full realization that he was making an important contribution to Chelsea's future, but not to his own political hopes, we think he deserved commendation.

In addition, Clinton's decision should strengthen his resolve to do something to improve public education and not turn it over to those whose publicly financed choice plan would be likely to destroy it.

Each of the successive waves of settlers has left distinctive marks on the community of Grosse Pointe.

The early French families named the community and lent their own names to many of its streets. The early English and Scottish businessmen who developed Detroit built summer houses in what then was regarded as a resort area and often cruised to work in Detroit in their yachts.

The automobile age and the auto industry executives helped make the Pointes into a permanent community, with later residents joining to build an excellent public school system, the five Grosse Pointe park systems and the other outstanding services that reflect the community's desire for quality living.

With the ongoing years, the Pointes have changed in character. Many of the large estates have been transformed into residential developments and, with little building space left, cluster housing, condominiums and apartments have displaced most of the stately mansions that once dotted the community.

In their earlier days, the Pointes were known for their wealth and even for extravagant living customs, which President John F. Kennedy might have been referring to when he reportedly — and perhaps facetiously — translated the French name into "the fat Pointes."

Today, however, this is a community of quality schools, quality parks and quality services, all of which contribute to the high quality of life in the Pointes.

However, the current study of futurism under the leadership of the Pointe governments also reflects the Grosse Pointe community's desire to prepare itself for the future.

Surely, one way the Pointes can consider their future needs, responsibilities and obligations is to review the community's past, study the contributions of those who have made the Pointes a desirable residential community, and consider the changes and improvements that will be required in the years ahead.

The Grosse Pointe News hopes to contribute to that review through its coverage of the people, businesses and other community assets that make possible the centenary celebrations in the City and the Farms this year.

School waste?

To the Editor:

I read an article in the Grosse Pointe News Dec. 3 edition that should have every taxpayer in the Grosse Pointe area in shock.

I'm referring to the supposed hunt for a new principal for Grosse Pointe North High.

This hunt and all the ones before it probably could have been avoided if the board of education would have looked within the system. The board is supposed to be the guardian of our money, instead of finding new ways to spend and waste it.

I worked for the system at one time and personally know a couple of people that could have filled the position without much of a problem, if any. But then that's the Grosse Pointe School System's way. If you don't fill the bill the way they want, you won't get the job — no matter what qualifications you have.

The board of education had better start to wake up because the bank's money they're wasting won't always be open for them unless changes start to occur with favorable results to the taxpayer. This is a complete lack of interest in how our tax dollars are spent. It makes me sick to think that a board of the stature Grosse Pointe is supposed to have cannot represent themselves any better than this.

Clemency

To the Editor:

Gov. Mario Cuomo's clemency to convicted murderer Jean Harris was rather shocking. A message goes out of justice tempered by mercy, a touching sentiment for the holiday season.

But another message goes out, that if a woman is scorned by her lover, she is entitled to kill him. Her defense that she was trying to kill herself strains credibility.

It is one thing to fantasize killing the apparent source of one's pain, another to act it out. The penal system should strongly discourage acting on one's anti-social impulses.

If Ms. Harris were an ideal prisoner, more to the good. There were and are many other model prisoners. Why are they all not released?

If this is the culmination of the "Year of the Woman," I am glad it's over. Let us get back to reality.

Victor Bloom
Grosse Pointe Park

Nursery

would merely sell indoor and outdoor plants.

Councilman James Robson asked if the outlet would sell Christmas trees, because that might increase traffic problems in the neighborhood.

Sam Randazzo answered, "We don't have plans to sell Christmas trees, but it's a possibility. We sell them at our Westland nursery, but it isn't a high volume thing. Like I said before, we usually average only 50 customers a day (during non-holiday periods). So if it's allowable, fine. If not, we can do without it."

Five people spoke against the variance. Four of them own property on Beaconsfield, and the fifth was Doug Phillips, son of local businessman Diamond Phillips, who plans to build condominiums on Jefferson, next to the former Lakepointe Olds building.

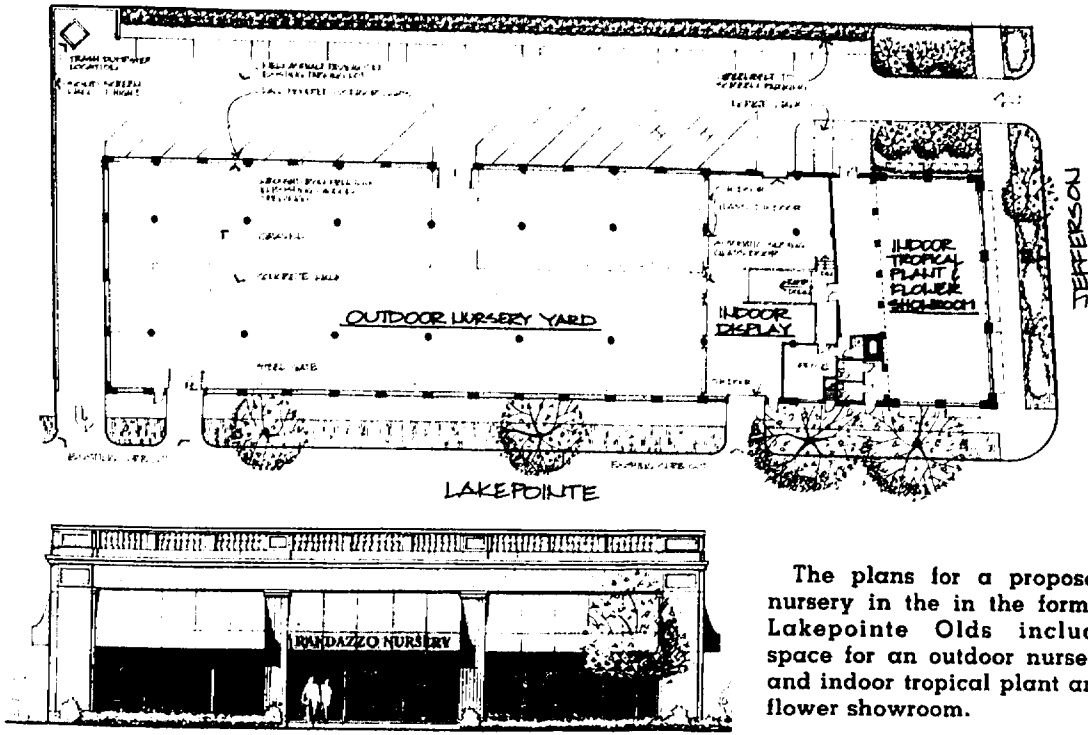

The residents said they opposed the project because they worried it would:

- Increase traffic in the alley between Beaconsfield and Lakepointe and on Jefferson;
- That additional traffic would worsen the parking problem along Jefferson;
- That organic waste matter from the nursery would attract insects and rodents;
- That they'd have to listen to the drone of high-loaders and other equipment all day, as they have for many months while old fuel tanks were removed from the property and the site was cleared of contaminated soil;

And that the project would not fit in with Phillips' proposed condominiums, which the residents said they like because it reinforces the principle that the Park is primarily a residential community.

Mayor Palmer Heenan said to Doug Phillips, "I'm not going to ask you the $64-million question, which is what do you think about this and would this affect your project (the condominiums), because everyone agrees yours is a good project."

Phillips, representing his father, said he was concerned unpleasant odors might come from compost and fertilizer used in the nursery.

Peter Randazzo said no fertilizers would be used at the store, and that there would be virtually no garbage. "The only thing would be a few branches, which we would haul back to our nursery in Westland, which is equipped to dispose of such material," he said.

Mackey said traffic would enter the store's parking lot from Jefferson and would exit on Lakepointe. A left-turn-only sign could be placed at the exit, prohibiting traffic from going down the residential street and sending it instead on Jefferson.

He also said the hours of operation for the high-loader could be negotiated with the city. The proposed nursery would be good for the Park for three reasons, Mackey said: it would be a low-intensity use, with an average of 50 customers a day and five to eight employees at the store at any one time; it would serve the immediate area; and it would be more economically viable than an office building, because there is a glut of empty office space on the market in the southeastern Michigan area and especially in the Park.

Councilman Andrew Richner said, "My personal feeling is that every time I drive by Lakepointe Olds, it makes my stomach turn. I'm sick of looking at rubble.

"It isn't an unreasonable proposal for the use, if we can work out some concerns with the residents. I believe the use for this building is limited. We can't eliminate all choices. We have to have something go in there or let the rubble stand."

He made a motion to refer the variance request to the planning commission for further study and recommendation to the council. Robson seconded the motion and it passed unanimously.

The zoning board of appeals will study the issue Feb. 16, and it will come back before the zoning board of appeals Feb. 22. The board could have placed the item on the planning commissions Jan. 19 meeting agenda, but residents said that wouldn't give them enough time to contact other property owners on Beaconsfield and the surrounding blocks — many of whom are absentee landlords — about signing a petition or otherwise opposing the variance. Heenan said the city manager would help them locate the property owners.

The plans for a proposed nursery in the former Lakepointe Olds include space for an outdoor nursery and indoor tropical plant and flower showroom.

Unwatched pots trigger house fires

Two kitchen fires were reported in Grosse Pointe Park on Jan. 3, and both were caused by overheated cooking utensils that had been left unattended.

At 3:16 p.m., Park firefighters responded to a report of heavy smoke in the kitchen of a home in the 500 block of Barrington.

A pan containing cooking oil had been left on the stove and had ignited. While trying to put out the fire with water, a resident received a minor burn from flying grease. Firefighters extinguished the fire with baking soda and used a fan to clear the house of smoke.

At 3:24 p.m., the Park got a call about heavy smoke coming from a four-family residence in the 1200 block of Wayburn.

When firefighters arrived, the building had already been evacuated. They found a burning pot on top of a stove and removed it.

Grosse Pointe City officers helped on the second fire run because some Park firefighters were still at the scene of the first fire.

'Friends' say 'Happy 1993'

A resident of the 1000 block of Beaconsfield in Grosse Pointe Park said he had two friends over to his house New Year's Eve.

He left them alone for a few minutes about 11:35 p.m. and when he returned, they were gone — along with his VCR and money.

SAC² says thanks

To the Editor:

The members of the board of directors of the Substance Abuse Community Council of Grosse Pointe (SAC²) would like to thank all the Grosse Pointe citizens who recently sent a contribution to the council honoring the organization's 10 years of service to our community.

As one of the first grass roots groups to form in the state of Michigan in 1982 in response to the growing concern about alcohol/drug problems, the council has been recognized statewide as a model for community action groups addressing issues regarding the use of alcohol, tobacco, and other mood altering drugs. However, it has been even more rewarding to all of the board members who continue to volunteer their time to this effort to be recognized by the citizens of our own community. The generous response of our 10th anniversary celebration has been heart warming.

The annual meeting of the organization is scheduled for Wednesday, Jan. 13, at 4 p.m. in the board room of the Grosse Pointe Public Schools Administration Building, 389 St. Clair. The meeting is open to the public and all interested citizens are cordially invited to attend.

Any individual or organization who would still like to make a tax-deductible contribution may mail it to: SAC², P.O. Box 36150, Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich. 48236.

Woods tree pruning slammed

To the Editor:

The City of Grosse Pointe Woods' ambitious tree trimming program is a cruel, blatant mockery of its slogan, "Keep the Woods in the Woods."

This overzealous tree pruning every six years has been pushed to neurotic extreme. Proof of this extremism is painfully evident on Anita, Hollywood, Roslyn and Hampton between Mack and Marter where buzz-saw mania decimated several trees.

Large, mature trees have been viciously stripped of huge branches which once supported vital leaf canopy that provided lush greenery, welcoming shade in warm weather and nesting places for wildlife.

Young trees which were just beginning to fill out have been hacked carelessly beyond reason with no thought given to protect their unique growing patterns. Many trees look horribly lopsided after being stripped of important branches 7 to 18 inches in diameter which have taken several years to grow. If they were doing OK in all the years it took to get to the size they were, why were they deemed no longer valuable to the trees?

In spite of the so called "expert's" advice that this brutal trimming is supposed to make the trees healthier, it is pathetically evident that the opposite result has occurred. Anyone with an appreciation of trees and their unique growing patterns can see that after too many repeat hackings over a period of years, what has resulted is sickly, frail looking trees bearing many large bumpy scars where once beautiful, healthy branches thrived. A hideous anorectic, man-made fabrication of deformity is the end result of these once magnificent trees.

Simply compare these trees to the lush, full, healthy trees on private property and in the parks and forests which have been allowed to grow the way nature intended, and anyone with common sense can see that the untampered trees are superior in health and beauty to the sickly abominations alongside the curbs in our neighborhoods.

Healthy tree care should consist of careful pruning of diseased, dead, or sucker branches only. Mother Nature will take care of the rest. This current destructive program is a sham on the taxpayers, a shame for the City of Grosse Pointe Woods, and a tragedy for the trees.

If allowed to continue on its destructive path, the city will have to change its name to the City of Grosse Pointe Plains.

Important exposure

To the Editor:

I want to thank the Grosse Pointe News for selecting me to be Pointer of Interest about two months ago.

And that is because of the exposure it gave to two organizations which are very important to our family and to, we think, the community. They are the National Alliance for Research on Schizophrenia and Depression (NARSAD) and the Alliance for the Mentally Ill (AMI).

The first paragraph of the article mentioned that I was soon to run the New York marathon. Well, another member of our AMI affiliate, a nurse, and I did the marathon on Nov. 1, wearing T-shirts saying MICHIGAN for NARSAD. I have a hope that next year we will have many more states represented.

I am very pleased to report that our running the New York marathon has raised over $75,000 for brain disease research through NARSAD. It makes the effort of the required training and the discomfort of the last five or six miles of the marathon worthwhile.

If anyone wants a NARSAD brochure, to see a NARSAD video and/or to contribute to NARSAD, I may be called at 885-0632. Or checks, made out to NARSAD, may be sent to me at 20644 Maple Lane, Grosse Pointe Woods 48236.

NARSAD is unique in that operating and fundraising costs are paid for by three family foundations. As a result, 100 percent of a donation goes directly to brain disease research.

An eminent volunteer Scientific Council selects the best researchers and research projects to receive the funding available through NARSAD.

NARSAD raised $4 million in 1991 for awarding to investigators in 1992. Much more must be done for these often devastating neurological disorders.

The Alliance for the Mentally Ill-Eastside meets every Monday evening, 7:30 to 9, at the Henry Ford Care Center, 19840 Harper, Harper Woods.

There's a Hands Down Difference Between the Wait Time in Our Emergency Department and Others.

The minutes can tick away — sometimes into hours — when you're waiting for treatment in an emergency room.

But at Bon Secours, we designed our Emergency Department so you spend more time in the treatment room than the waiting room.

We are able to do that with more professional staff, more treatment rooms and an X-ray right inside the Emergency Department.

That means at Bon Secours, you'll be feeling better faster.

Architects to survey moisture-plagued gym floor at South High School

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

Anyone familiar with the main gymnasium at Grosse Pointe South High School knows its wooden floor has had its problems this school year.

In September, excessive condensation under the floor caused it to buckle, making it unsafe for physical education classes and interscholastic sports competition.

The warped boards were replaced and gym activities resumed by the end of September, said Larry Yankauskas, building and grounds supervisor.

The wooden floor, installed in 1955, was built over the old floor with a cork vapor barrier placed between the floors. The barrier is designed to keep moisture away from the wooden floor.

Yankauskas said cool moisture under the floor and heat and humidity in the gym caused the floor boards to expand and buckle. Although the damaged floor was repaired, Yankauskas said the problem will continue to occur as long as the excessive moisture problem exists.

The problem has plagued the gym for the last five years and has occurred to a lesser degree at other district schools, he said.

"This year we had a major eruption (at South) to the point where it was unsafe," said Grosse Pointe schools superintendent Ed Shine.

The board of education discussed the floor problem and possible solutions at a Jan. 4 meeting. But board president Gloria Konsler said the matter, which was to be voted on by the board on Monday, Jan. 11, was pulled from the agenda to be brought back at a later date.

The agenda item had asked board members to award a bid for installation of either an air conditioner or dehumidifier to remedy the moisture problem. But the board's discussion led to other concerns including replacing the floor and vapor barrier and the energy efficiency of the windows and doors in the gym.

"No one wants to do a half-baked job on this," Konsler said. "We don't necessarily want to spend lots of money on this, but we'll spend what it takes to do the job right. We don't want to put a little Band-Aid on a big problem."

Replacing the floor, an expensive proposition, would not solve the matter if the humidity is not regulated and the problem of the damaged vapor barrier under the floor is not addressed, Shine said.

Fenton said replacing the floor would cost between $80,000 and $120,000.

Bids for air conditioning and dehumidification were solicited last fall and prices varied from $39,870 for dehumidification to $75,000 for air conditioning.

The district is seeking the services of an architectural firm to evaluate everything necessary to remedy the problem in the gym, Konsler said. The architects will look at the floor, the temperature controls, windows and doors and then present a total package of recommendations to the district.

Urban culture, other WCCC classes, offered at South — still time to register

A popular Wayne County Community College anthropology class taught without textbooks or tests and featuring field experiences to an American Indian powwow, a Buddhist temple, and a suburban transvestite boutique will highlight a series of college classes to be held again this winter at Grosse Pointe South High School.

The course will be taught by Grosse Pointe Park anthropologist James Saad on Tuesdays from 7-10 p.m. and will include additional field trips to numerous cultural settings in the metropolitan area including a visit to Chinatown in Windsor and observance of the Chinese New Year celebration.

In Anthropology 201: Urban Lifestyles and Cultures, Saad uses field experiences, films, and guest speakers to help class members learn first-hand about the many ethnic, religious and sexual cultures found in urban communities in general and metropolitan Detroit in particular. The first class session will be held at South High School on Tuesday, Jan. 26. Class members must register in advance.

Among the other topics and field experiences that Professor Saad has planned for the upcoming semester are:

- Visit to a Hindu temple and observance of a Hindu wedding ceremony.

- Walking tours and background lectures on such ethnic communities as Greektown, MexicanTown, the Polish community of Hamtramck and the Arabic community of Dearborn.
- The colorful Hungarian Gypsies of old DelRay.
- Field experience at a transvestite boutique in St. Clair Shores to interview and learn about the lifestyle of suburban cross-dressers and transsexuals.
- Attend a worship session at the temple of the Aetherius Society, an international metaphysical and religious group that believes in flying saucers and magic batteries.
- A Native American powwow on Walpole Island.
- A cultural cruise on the Detroit River between Lake St. Clair and the Ambassador Bridge with a lecture on the history and culture of this area.
- A Christian faith-healing church.
- An urban archaeology dig.
- A classroom interview with witches and a suburban witchcraft coven, and a lecture on anthropological and cross-cultural perspectives on witchcraft in other societies.

Saad, who is a member of the American Anthropological Association and the Society for Visual Anthropology, will also show his latest film on China to the class in conjunction with the Chinese New Year celebration. The film, "Silk, Stilts and Snakes," is one of several ethnographic films Saad has produced during his travels and field work on all six inhabited continents around the world.

The anthropology class is one of several courses to be locally held for residents of the Pointes, Harper Woods and St. Clair Shores at Grosse Pointe South High School for the third year in a row.

The courses are three credit hours each and are transferable to four-year colleges and universities throughout Michigan, including the University of Michigan, Eastern Michigan University and Michigan State University. The classes may be taken for college credit, or simply for personal interest and growth. Other classes offered include psychology, biology, and English. The instructors for these classes will be announced before the start of the semester.

Classes for the winter/spring semester begin the week of Jan. 25. Those who were not able to attend the Jan. 12 registration at South High School may register at the WCCC Eastern Campus located at the Corner exit of I-94, Monday through Thursday, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Friday and Saturday until 2 p.m.

All classes in the winter/spring semester at South will be held in the late afternoon and evenings on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Students may also take classes held at the Eastern Campus, which are held Monday through Saturday.

Pointers have been able to take college classes at South through WCCC for the past three years, and previously at Grosse Pointe North High School. The classes at South have attracted a wide range of Pointers to the classrooms, including middle-age couples interested in learning about the North 20th reunion set

Hip fractures: Don't let pride goeth before a fall

Some 213,000 people fracture a hip in this country every year. Among the older victims, more than half will die within a year, and many of the others will become permanently disabled.

Provided by the Department of Health and Human Services, these are startling figures, particularly since there is much to be done to lower them.

In recent decades we have emphasized research into osteoporosis, a condition that occurs in older people, particularly women. It is a leaching from the bones of calcium and phosphorus, the minerals that give bone its strength. Many fractures occurring among older people have been blamed on osteoporosis.

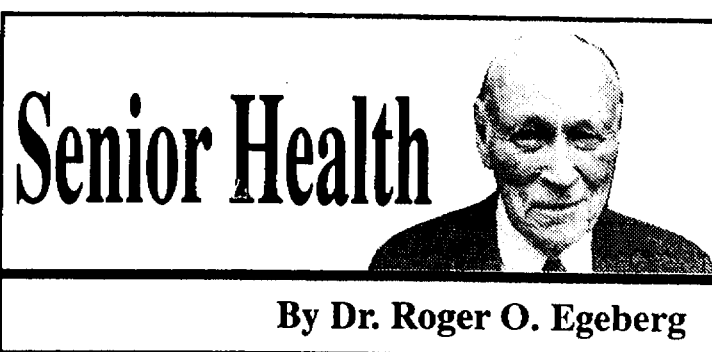

Now, along with the research there is a growing effort to focus on the falls that cause the fracture. They occur primarily among older people. It is important that we learn what we can do for ourselves.

Some falls can be attributed to the immediate surroundings, but most of them can be blamed on the victim. How often do we hear a patient say, "It was just stupid of me." Poor lighting, minor or major obstructions left carelessly about, from toys to tools, or minor work in progress with cables or small hoses in the floor or sidewalk are all environmental causes of falls, but the major responsibility still rests with the person who fell.

I think there comes a time when we have to change our life style with respect to how we get around, and this may be almost as difficult as stopping smoking. A few minor falls resulting in bruises, or when we find ourselves instinctively using handrails in going up or down stairs, can warn us. These are some of the indications that we should sit down and think: "Is it time for me to change a lifetime pattern?"

At least let it be a time to become very much aware of the traps and pitfalls that cause older people to fall all the way down. Perhaps the first resistance to change is pride of appearance. "I don't want to look uncertain or hesitant. They'll think I look older than I am." Give that pride some thought. Become familiar with the common reasons why older people fall more often. The reasons may surprise you, but at least let them settle in the back of your mind and nag at you.

Dizziness and uncertain balance can make us aware of those problems. They are startling and announce themselves in a way we can't take lightly. Dizziness can occur when we first stand up or when we suddenly turn our heads, or for no apparent reason. It is important and should be evaluated by a physician.

However, the most important cause of falls relates to our vision. Even though we read easily with glasses, our estimate of where the next few steps will lie can be inaccurate. Bifocals can be fuzzy this up more.

We may not be aware of bumps or little humps just ahead, such as a one inch rise or fall in the path or sidewalk. This wouldn't have mattered 10 years ago, but now it might. There are also danger spots in rainy or cold weather. A wet leaf can be as slippery as a banana peel, or a small spot of ice not seen can send our feet off into the air. We may be hurried by a younger friend who sees the ground ahead more clearly. This is when we should forget our pride and not try to bluff it out.

Our lessened agility is certainly something we may be aware of at times. In walking, we should be aware of it always. A stumble or a slip can have us on our way down before we can react.

Along with agility, the strength of our muscles is important. For instance, people in their 40s or 50s use only a small part of their strength in walking but a step in walking for a 70- or 80-year-old may use most of their available strength.

Osteoporosis research is very important. There are things to be done that can slow down or stop its advance and our research into its cause and treatment is being emphasized.

Meanwhile, we can focus on falls and what we can do to prevent them. When we feel uncertain, we should not let pride stand in the way of caution.

The 213,000 hip fractures are an astounding number. You can reduce that figure by being careful.

Retiree-hiring common practice, survey finds

How prevalent is the practice of hiring retirees? A study for the American Association of Retired Persons reveals that 46 percent of private sector firms do hire retired persons over 50.

The finding is among several reported by two university professors in Michigan who examined the hiring practices of nearly 1,000 U.S. companies in a broad range of industries. Believed to be the most comprehensive of its type, the study was commissioned by AARP's Andrus Foundation.

Barbara Hirshorn, research professor at Wayne State University's Institute of Gerontology, and Denise Hoyer, professor of management and industrial relations at Eastern Michigan University's College of Business, used mail and telephone surveys to contact private sector firms with 20 or more employees.

They found not only that nearly half of all firms hire retirees, but also that the practice occurs in all industries.

"Although 63 percent of the respondents had fewer than 10 retirees on the payroll," Hirshorn said, "some of the larger firms reported employing between 100 and 2,500 retirees."

The study found that companies with a large percentage of workers over age 40 are more likely to employ retirees than are firms with mostly younger workers on the payroll.

Hirshorn, who directed the project, and Hoyer conducted the research to get a nationwide view of retiree hiring practices. They also obtained information on how the companies were using retirees.

Among findings that surprised them, the two researchers say, was the number of companies that hire retirees on a full-time, year-round basis.

"The conventional wisdom is that retirees are hired mainly as fill-ins for a short time," Hirshorn says. "We found that firms were most likely to hire them on a permanent basis, whether full or part time. Several employers told us they had hired retirees as full-year employees when the company began gearing up again after previous cutbacks."

Hirshorn and Hoyer report that many firms hire back their own retirees on a permanent, part-time basis. Comments such as "Nobody knows that job as well as Bill" were quite common, they say.

"The public is probably most familiar with stories about retirees who are earning extra cash by working in fast food stores," observes Hoyer. "But it's very clear from our research that retirees are at work in all kinds of jobs in all types of industries."

Hirshorn says many employers are only beginning to recognize the advantages of hiring retirees. As a result, those companies are still in the early stages of developing procedures to find and recruit qualified retirees.

Many survey respondents indicated that the retirement status of prospective employees was incidental to their qualifications for the job. "The qualities employers valued most highly in retirees were the ones they tend to value and identify with older workers in general," Hoyer said. "These were experience, commitment and reliability."

To the researchers' surprise, the often contradictory regulations governing retiree income and benefits, as well as employer practices, apparently have little impact on whether employers hire retirees.

"Confusing regulations on how much a retiree can earn and how many hours may be worked present what could be a series of disincentives for the employer interested in hiring retirees," Hirshorn said.

"We anticipated that more companies would point to government regulations as a reason for not hiring retirees. Yet, very few cited this as a problem, even though the survey gave them ample opportunity to do so."

Most firms that hire retirees reported employing fewer than 10, although many indicated a desire to find more older workers who have experience in specific fields.

The bottom line for retirees who wish to work, Hirshorn and Hoyer conclude, is that a large number of companies are employing retirees — but in a relatively small number of positions per firm.

However, they anticipate that the trend toward corporate downsizing and restructuring will prompt more companies to take a closer look at retirees as a good source of flexible, skilled and reliable workers.

Negatives, prints and slides — preserving your favorite shots easy as 1,2,3 with TLC

How many times have you searched for a box of slides or set of prints from that special occasion years ago only to be stymied as to where you last put them?

Do you have boxes of loose slides and drawers full of loose prints that are totally disorganized?

You're not alone. Many photographers regard the filing and storage of negatives, slides and prints as an onerous task to be avoided.

Imagine how convenient it would be to have an organized filing system, to have your prints and negatives orderly, neat and available at a finger's touch. It's easier than you might think.

Cardboard boxes, throughout the years, will emit discernible amounts of gases and peroxides that will tarnish the silver in films and prints, causing fading and loss of picture detail.

The same is true for brown paper envelopes often used to hold prints and negatives. Glue in the seams of many envelopes can cause discoloration if it gets too close to the emulsion of a picture.

Even rubber bands wrapped around a roll of negatives or stack of prints contain compounds that can cause damage.

Here is some advice on how to avoid these dangers and assure the safety of a photographer's most valuable possessions — his or her pictures.

Negatives: Care in preserving your prints must naturally begin with your negatives. This is easily done by storing them in transparent polyethylene holders which in turn can be stored in vinyl binders. Larger negatives can be placed in polyethylene sleeves and housed in small steel cabinets.

Polyethylene will resist moisture and will not decay or grow misty with age. Furthermore, contact sheets can be made of the negatives without having to remove them from the holders.

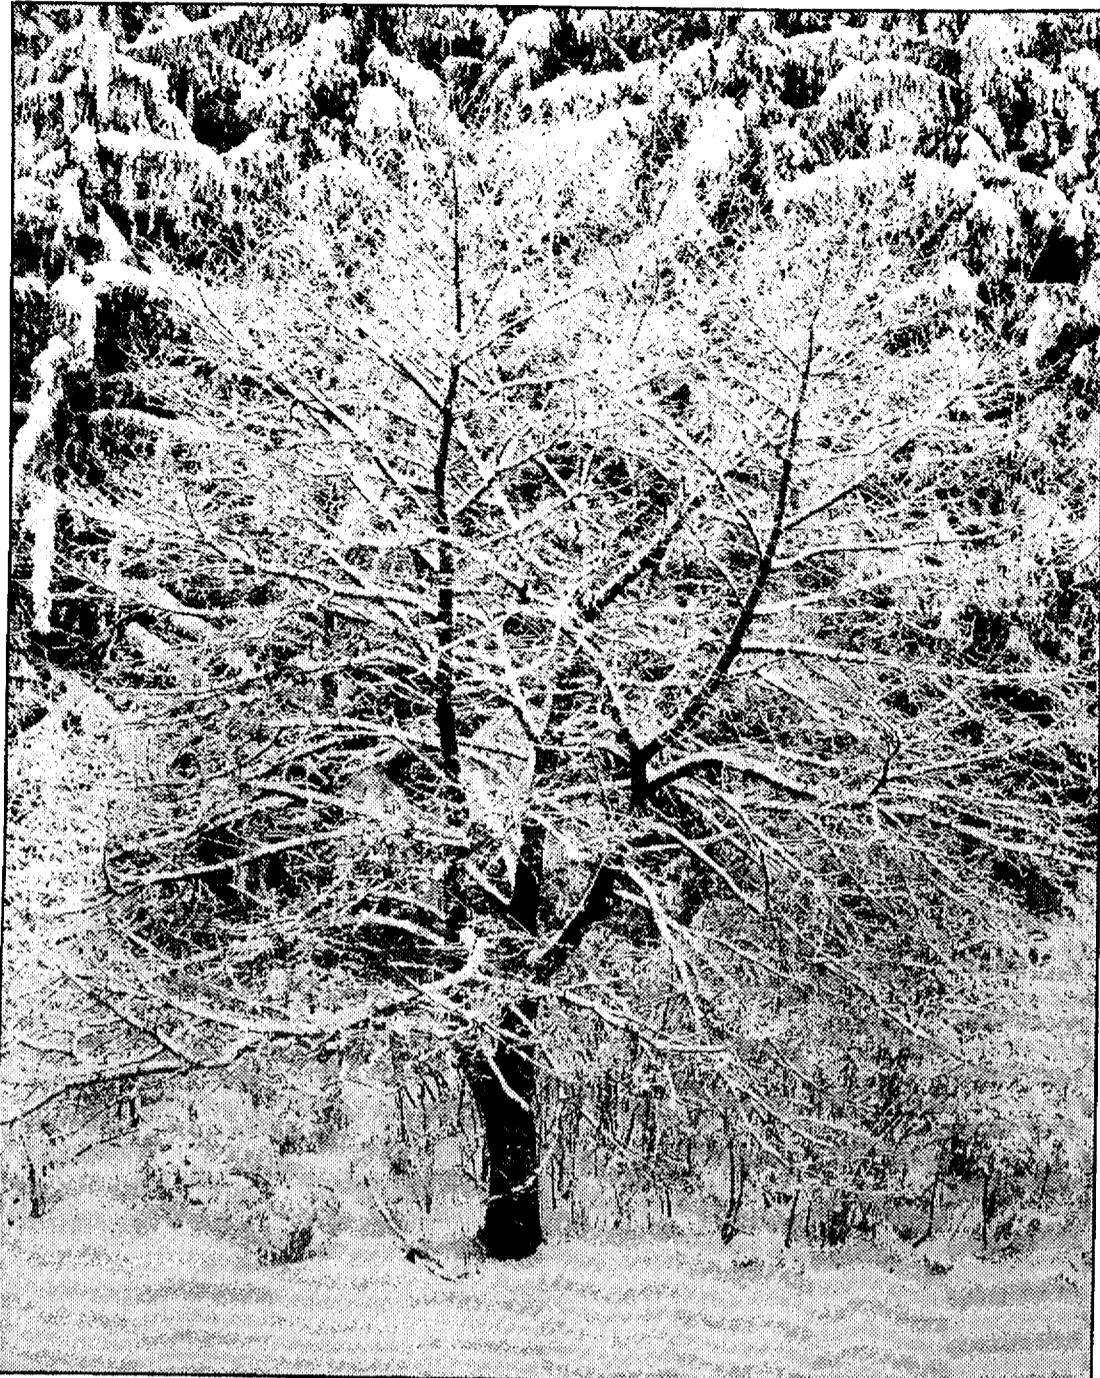

Prints: Sunlight fades and bleaches some color prints. To avoid this, spend a few extra dollars and have a Cibachrome or Fuji "Super Gloss" print made from your favorite slides or negatives. They will last for many years without any fading and will give you prints of superior quality.

When mounting your prints, be sure to use acid-free rag board. Acids in regular mounting boards will eventually

Photography

By Monte Nagler

Proper and careful storage of Monte Nagler's negatives assures him success each time he makes a print. This wintry scene was made at Cranbrook.

cause discoloration both to the board and your print.

When buying a photo album, make sure the pages are made of an acid-free material.

Finally, never hang photographs (or any artwork) where direct sunlight will strike them.

Slides: The biggest enemy to color slides is moisture. In an atmosphere of more than 60 percent humidity, fungus can form on your slides and damage them. Storage methods for slides should therefore provide for circulating air. Most slide trays and metal slide storage boxes are specifically manufactured to permit air circulation and thus reduce moisture.

Preserving your photographic memories is easy. A few simple measures will ensure that they'll be around to enjoy for a long time to come.

You can't do better than all A's.

No surge likely in area HIV cases

By Donna Walker
Staff Writer

Under the federal government's new definition of AIDS, the number of people who have the incurable disease in metro Detroit is expected to double, but it will not affect the number of new HIV cases that are reported each year, said Randy Pope, chief of the HIV/AIDS prevention section of the Michigan Department of Public Health.

"We usually have a 5 percent increase in the number of new cases (of people who have been infected with HIV) each year," Pope said.

However, there was a 17 percent increase in the number of new cases reported in 1992 over the number of new cases reported in 1991, he said.

"The reason we had such a large increase," Pope said, "was because back in January, February and March, we had a strong surveillance push to identify people with HIV" so that Detroit would qualify for funds given directly by the federal government under the Ryan White Act.

Funds under the act are supposed to be used for drug assistance, case management, hospice care and other prevention and treatment programs to fight the HIV/AIDS epidemic.

Detroit, in this case, includes most of southeastern Michigan, as far north as Lapeer and as far south as Monroe, including Livingston County but not Washtenaw County, Pope said.

In this region, about 750 new cases of HIV infection were reported in 1992, compared with 642 cases in 1991, he said.

Based on the number of new cases reported, the Detroit region received about $950,000 in funds under the Ryan White Act in 1992, and may receive $1.4 million more by summer, he said.

Even if the health department conducts another surveillance push this year, the number of new HIV cases should be only about 5 percent more than last year's figure, because last year's number was unusually high, Pope said.

"A conservative estimate is that there are between 10,000 and 15,000 people infected with HIV in Michigan right now," he said.

In the Detroit region, there were about 750 new cases of AIDS diagnosed in 1992, he said. This year, because of the new federal guidelines for diagnosing AIDS, that figure is expected to rise to 1,300, he said.

"It's important to note," he said, "that the definition change won't affect the number of new cases of HIV that are reported, because people who are diagnosed with having AIDS already have HIV."

Rather, he said, the new definition — which deals with, among other things, the number of T-helper lymphocytes in the bloodstream, — allows doctors to make an AIDS diagnosis sooner than they otherwise would.

HIV (human immunodeficiency virus) destroys the cells that defend the body against disease and infection. The virus invades blood cells, and when those blood cells replicate, the new cells also contain the virus.

Symptoms of HIV include fever and diarrhea, swollen glands that won't go away, and unexplained weight loss. However, only a doctor using certain blood tests can determine if these signs are HIV related.

AIDS (acquired immune deficiency syndrome) is a progression of HIV infection. An AIDS diagnosis means the body's defense system has been severely damaged by HIV.

Grosse Pointe Park resident Kevin O'Connell had a very personal Elvis sighting at the Grosse Pointe Farms Post Office on Jan. 8 when Sherman Arnold, Elvis impersonator, appeared and sang in the lobby, plugging the new Elvis commemorative stamp.

Elvis

was asked.

"There's his image, his reputation, all the media and the hoopla surrounding him, people want to be in on things," O'Connell replied.

The U.S. Post Office printed 500 million Elvis stamps and expects the issue to bring in millions of dollars.

At the Grosse Pointe Farms Post Office branch, Elvis fans began lining up at 11:30 a.m. to purchase the stamps which went on sale at noon. Nearly all the 24,000 Elvis stamps the Grosse Pointe branch was issued were purchased that first day, according to acting manager Gwendolyn Mulkey.

For those who missed their chance to get first-day-of-issue postmarks, there's still a chance. Mail a self-addressed envelope and 29 cents in check or money order by Feb. 7 to Elvis Presley Commemorative Stamp, Postmaster, 555 S. Third, Memphis TN, 38101-9992.

Fire quickly doused in Park's garage

A plastic garbage can in Grosse Pointe Park's municipal garage caught fire shortly before 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 6, and the flames damaged a counter top and a wall in the lunchroom before they were extinguished. The fire happened during an employee shift change, and public safety officers put it out immediately, using the water can and hose from a fire engine parked in the garage, public safety director Richard Caretti said. One officer received a broken finger in the incident.

Caretti said the fire apparently started when public safety officers finishing their shift emptied an ashtray into the garbage can. The matter is still under investigation.

The garage is located at 1009 Wayburn.

Overeaters Anonymous: Battle against food addiction is waged with 12-step program, group support

By Margie Reins Smith
Feature Editor

Ruthie consumed thousands of calories while watching television each evening. "I would binge on chocolate sundaes. I'd eat two pints of ice cream at one sitting. Or I'd make four peanut butter and jelly sandwiches and eat one after another," she said.

Ruthie's peak weight was 150 pounds, packed on a petite 5-foot-1-inch body.

Alan used to eat in his car. He also hid food under the bed. He ate secretly, then denied having eaten.

He toted 330 pounds around on a 5-foot-6-inch frame.

Susan had chronic headaches and couldn't say "no" when a piece of cake was offered. "If I said no, I'd sneak a piece later. Sometimes a second piece, too," she said.

Alan and Ruthie attend an average of three Overeaters Anonymous meetings a week. Susan goes once a week, minimum.

All prefer using only their first names. They said anonymity is one of OA's strong points.

"I lost nearly 120 pounds in a year and a half," Alan said. "I still have 50 to lose."

Ruthie said she lost 10 pounds. "It doesn't sound like much," she said, "but the program is about changing your thinking style. I had put on a lot of weight all of a sudden. I couldn't fit into my clothes. I was depressed about that. Before Overeaters Anonymous, I tried pills and Weight Watchers and a liquid diet, but with no success."

Susan lost 40 pounds, gained 20 back, and plans to lose another 30.

"I denied that overeating was my problem," Susan said. "But I learned through OA that overeating is an addiction just like alcohol, like gambling and narcotics."

Overeaters Anonymous is a 12-step program similar to that used by Alcoholics Anonymous. It offers non-critical support and encouragement to people who want to lose weight and develop better eating habits.

"The first three of the 12 steps are basically a surrendering process," Alan said.

"You admit you have a problem you can't handle yourself and you allow a greater power to help.

"Steps 4 through 9 are the action steps that show you how to work the program. You take an inventory of your problem; you let someone know your story; you list the people you've harmed; and you make amends to these people.

"On steps 10 through 12, you're working every day with prayer and meditation to keep you in contact with what's happening and you help others recover."

Alan said the program sounds religious, but it isn't. "I'm as close to an agnostic as anyone can be. It's not religious, but it is spiritual.

It helped me see that I'm not alone. Something out there is helping me."

OA is a mental, physical and spiritual program, Ruthie said. "I learned a way to live with peace and happiness. I learned to accept things I can't change — people in my life; financial problems; things that caused me worry and anxiety. I call it my free therapy."

Marsha is the program director for Overeaters Anonymous in the Detroit area.

"Food is a symptom," she said. "We deal with the cause.

The 12 steps help people change so they no longer need to eat."

She said OA is a worldwide program with hundreds of thousands of members.

Susan learned that sugar was a "trigger food" for her. She gave up eating sugar and found she is no longer obsessed with eating. She has also given up flour. "It has given me serenity," she said. "It's a miracle."

Meetings of Overeaters Anonymous are held at several nearby locations — Bon Secours Hospital on Saturday mornings; Ruthie's house on Tuesdays; a Grosse Pointe Woods location on Thursdays; and at the Church of Today in Warren on Saturdays at 10 a.m.

"There are meetings mornings, afternoons and evenings all over the city, Mondays through Sundays," Alan said.

Overeaters Anonymous doesn't promote a special diet. Alan said he doesn't diet. He has a food plan that was designed especially for him by a nutritionist.

"I eat no sugar; no flour; no juices. I eat only complex starches, like beans, potatoes, rice and corn. I weigh and measure everything before I eat it," he said.

"When I went out for dinner, I used to take a scale and a measuring cup to the restaurant. I don't do that anymore — not because I'm embarrassed, but because it's not convenient.

"I'm a food addict. I'm not embarrassed to weigh my food. It was much more embarrassing being 330 pounds."

OA meetings are informal. There is no teacher or boss, Ruthie said.

"Leaders are volunteer members of the group. The leader goes through some readings about the program at the beginning of the meeting. Then he talks about how the program has affected him. This gives others hope. Then the group breaks up into smaller groups and everyone gets to talk and to share his or her thoughts," she said.

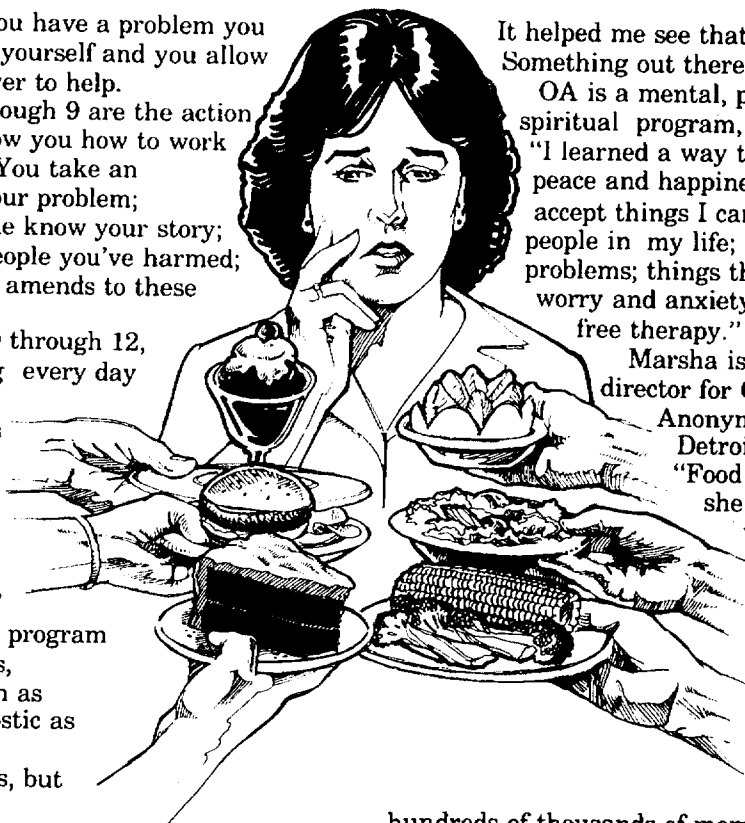

"The sharing is the most important part of the program," Alan said. "The individual gets to talk without interruption, without comments or responses from others."

"It's an unwritten code that we don't interrupt each other," Susan said.

"We share where we are; our problems; what we're thinking; all without advice and interruption," Ruthie said. "For some people, this is the first time anyone has listened to them. Newcomers sometimes cry."

Susan said she was bewildered after the first meeting she attended. "I didn't get it. They talked about peace and serenity, not

OA open meeting

Overeaters Anonymous will hold an informational meeting about its 12-step program at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 19, at North Congregational Church, 26275 Northwestern Highway at Civic Center Drive in Southfield.

Speakers will include someone who has lost more than 100 pounds, a recovering bulimic, a person recovering from a relapse and someone who is recovering from multiple addictions of drugs, alcohol and food.

All meetings are free. For more information, call Marsha at 642-4622 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.; or Cora at 541-3500 or 528-2023.

A Harbor Place Cluster Home Has Everything You Need On One Floor... And Then Some

The "Some" we refer to is the entire second floor which consists of two large bedrooms and a full connecting bath. This floor may be used on a daily basis or utilized occasionally when family or friends come to visit.

There's "some" thing else too, a large unfinished storage area and additional optional storage.

First floor accommodations are totally complete. A great room with an 11' ceiling, master bedroom suite with walk-in closet, luxurious bath, kitchen with top-of-the-line appliances and cabinets, breakfast room, library, first floor laundry room, and a two car garage. Total one floor living with a little extra built in.

"Some" more things to be considered are an old world style courtyard entry and rear yard with all the privacy you desire.

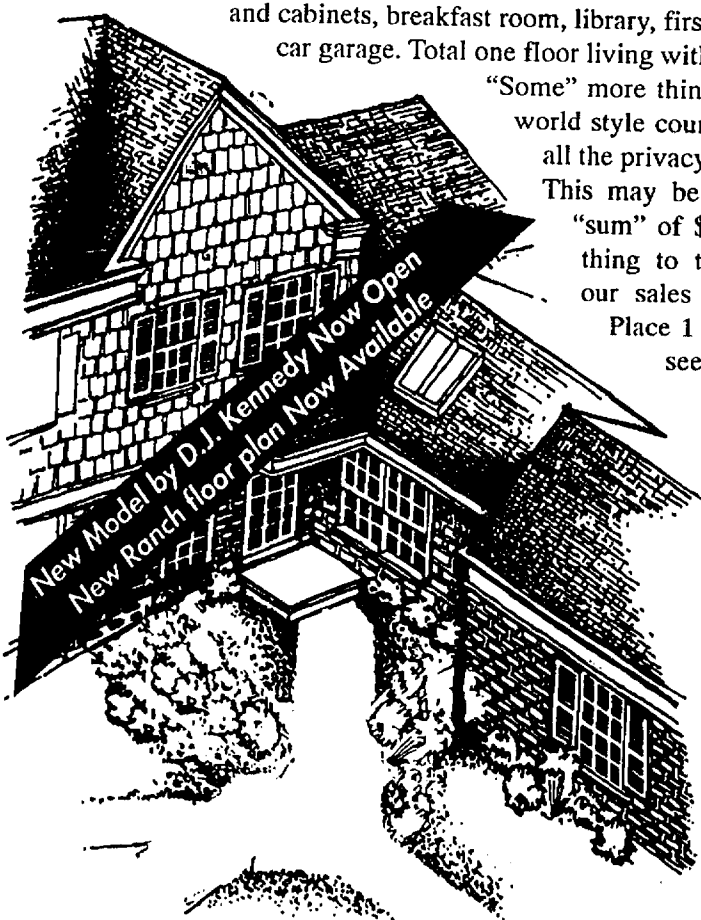

This may be purchased for the affordable "sum" of $264,000 to $284,000, "some" thing to think about. Visit our sales office at Harbor

The Pastor's Corner Christ is the creator

By the Rev. Ronald W. Schmidt
Faith Lutheran Church

We have recently come through the Christmas season in which we celebrated the birth of Jesus the Messiah. The miracle of Christmas is that in Christ, God became a human being and entered human life just as we do, as a baby born of a human mother. The wonder is that God became so small that he could be cradled in a mother's arms and so vulnerable that he was dependent upon Mary and Joseph for all his needs.

More than that, having lived here for about 33 years, he was killed by the very humans he came to help. "He came to his own and his own received him not." (John 1:11). Our God, as he was in Christ, even died - not for himself but for us - and thereby the offense of our wrongdoing was taken away and we could become friends again with God.

All this we know, but what we may not realize is that the hands of Jesus that were clenched in a baby's fist, the hands that helped and healed, the hands that were pierced for us were also the hands that created the universe.

Jesus, Son of God, is also the Creator. Through Him the creation was accomplished; the Scripture is quite clear on this point. In the prologue of the Gospel of John we read: "In the beginning was the Word (Jesus Christ) and the Word was with God and the Word was God. He was with God in the beginning. Through him all things were made; without him nothing was made that has been made. . . . He was in the world, and though the world was made through him, the world did not recognize him." (John 1:1-3,10).

In St. Paul's letter to the Colossians, he speaks of the supremacy of Christ. "He is the image of the invisible God, the first born of all creation. For by him all things were created; things in heaven and on Earth, visible and invisible, whether thrones or powers or rulers or authorities; all things were created by him and for him." (Col. 1:15-16).

Jesus Messiah was both the creator, that is the agent of creation, and it seems, the object of creation. "All things were created by him and for him."

Finally, in the book of Hebrews we read: "In the past God spoke to our forefathers through the prophets at many times and in various ways, but in these last days he has spoken to us by his Son whom he has appointed heir of all things, and through whom he made the universe. The Son is the radiance of God's glory and the exact representation of his being . . ." (Hebrews 1:1-3a).

To sum it all up, Jesus is not only the Son of God, Savior, Lamb of God and coming again Messiah but also Creator of the universe as well.

New officers

The Grosse Pointe Ministerial Association has elected new officers for 1993. They are, from left, the Rev. Ron Corl, program chairman; the Rev. John Corrado, president; the Rev. Colleen Kamke, vice president; the Rev. Bob Fisher, secretary; and the Rev. Peter Wittstock, treasurer.

'Medicine and Morals' is topic for Lay Theological Academy

The Lay Theological Academy will present John Inesch, house attorney, Bon Secours Hospital, and Monsignor Francis X. Canfield, former pastor, St. Paul Catholic Church and chairman of the medical ethics committee at Bon Secours. They will speak on "Medicine and Morals" at Christ Church Grosse Pointe on Tuesdays, Jan. 19 and 26, from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

Medical science and technology continue to make strides in the care and cure of people with physical and emotional problems. Many of us will have to make decisions about our own and others' care. The factors involved in these decisions will be discussed in the course.

The mission of the Lay Theological Academy is to provide ecumenical educational opportunities for adults of all ages and backgrounds in order that they might develop in faith, grow in Christian knowledge and become equipped for participation in ministry in the world.

For further information, call the Rev. Gordon Mikoski at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church at 882-5330; or Sister Janet Schaeffler or Sandy Fisher at St. Paul Church, 885-7022.

CSM offers parenting program for adult children of alcoholics

"Discovering Normal," a six-week program for parents whose lives have been affected by family alcoholism and want to learn what is "normal" or typical child or teen-age behavior begins Tuesday, Jan. 19, from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Warren office of Catholic Services of Macomb, 12434 12 Mile.

Specialist Tracey Chartier will help participants learn skills to break the cycle of intergenerational alcoholism, family problem-solving, decision-making, goal-setting, discipline techniques and ways to help children develop self-esteem.

Fee is $16 a person. Pre-evaluation is required. For information or registration, call 558-7551.

Eastside Ministry to Singles presents 'Making Peace with Your Past' Jan. 15

There are situations in the lives of some children, teens, adults or families which are difficult to deal with. Sometimes old skills and ways of doing things just don't seem to help anymore. People get stuck in self-defeating behavior, negative thinking, addictions, depression, abuse and so on.

If an individual or family chooses to get "unstuck" and chooses to get healthier, life can be more peaceful, balanced and harmonious. In short, one can choose a better way of life.

Paula Puleo, counselor, will present "Making Peace with Your Past" at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Jan. 15, at the next meeting of the Eastside Ministry to Singles at Grosse Pointe Baptist Church, 21336 Mack Avenue in Grosse Pointe Woods.

Group discussion and an aftertglow will follow the talk. Child care will be available at $1 a child. For information, call 881-3343.

Presbyterian women will hold 'Day of Renewal'

"A Day of Renewal" on Tuesday, Jan. 19, will offer the Presbyterian women of Grosse Pointe Memorial Church a chance to explore ways to grow spiritually. The Rev. Nancy Mikoski and the Rev. Michael Foley will lead a series of discussions and experiential exercises at the home of Sally Van Dusen from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m.

Prayer in daily life and in the life of the Christian community will be the focus of the day. Reservations for the day and for the subscription luncheon may be made by calling the church office, 882-5330, by Friday, Jan. 15.

CSM to offer program for working mothers

"Can We Talk?" an evening for working mothers, will be held at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 20, at the Utica office of Catholic Services of Macomb, 45100 Sterrit, Suite 103.

Margaret Dimond and Robin Cronin will help others share common problems and insights, present tips to help working mothers identify and build their strengths, establish priorities, focus on goals and develop strategies to deal with their busy schedules and their children.

The cost is $5. For information and registration, call 254-2900.

Catholic Alumni Club of Detroit

The Catholic Alumni Club, a singles club for Catholics who are college graduates and are free to marry in the Catholic Church, will hold its general meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 20, at St. Nicholas Byzantine Church, 19130 Beaconsfield in Detroit. Refreshments will be served. For more information, call Pat at 288-4248 or John at 247-8426.

The group plays volleyball twice a week at 7:30 p.m. Mondays at Vandenberg Elementary School, 16100 Edwards in Southfield and at 7 p.m. Thursdays in Mount Clemens. All skill levels are included. The cost is $4. Call Pat at 939-1558 or Don at 879-1429 for more information.

Couple to Couple League to hold family planning series at St. Joan

The Couple to Couple League, a non-profit, interfaith organization for natural family planning, will sponsor a program on family planning from 2:30 to 5 p.m. on Sundays, Jan. 24, Feb. 21, March 21 and April 18 at St. Joan of Arc

Catholic Church in St. Clair Shores.

A registration fee includes materials. Private counseling will also be available. For information, call Jim and Carol Berch at 778-4980.

Chaplin is too little of too much

By Ronald J. Bernas
Staff Writer

The trouble with biopics is the same as encountered in real life — there are lots of ups and downs but no forward momentum nor a long, slow crescendo to a climax. You just plod along until you're dead and when it's over "The End" flashes on the screen.

That's just one of the problems with Richard Attenborough's "Chaplin." In many ways it's a remarkable achievement, with a Class A performance by young actor Robert Downey Jr. But it's also like an iceberg — cold, too big, with most of the important stuff unseen.

The almost Dickensian life of legendary comedian and filmmaker Charlie Chaplin is the perfect subject for a book where themes and relationships can be explored and detailed — the movie is based on Chaplin's autobiography — but in a film, too much has to be sacrificed in the interest of time. If anything, the movie will encourage people to visit the library and read the book to fill in the many gaps and missing pieces.

The problem is that the subject is so immense that the story comes across piecemeal. Attenborough, in attempting to touch on everything, loses the bigger picture. He never allows us to see how the events affected Chaplin. We don't see any pain, we don't see any reaction. Everything passes in slow motion, encouraging no emotion from the audience.

Chaplin is presented in god-like fashion; we are to adore him, because he was a genius. But his famous routines, his silliness, his classic comedies are meant to be laughed at — not revered.

The story — told in flashbacks, framed by Chaplin's conversation with his biography's editor — touches on his childhood spent in poor houses, his early years as a vaudevillian, his taking Hollywood by storm with his character the Little Tramp, his four marriages, his feud with megalomaniac FBI director J. Edgar Hoover directing, starring in, and scoring all his own films, so why did he feel his control was stifled? How was he affected when he was thrown out of the country, the only place he ever called home? What was his fascination with teen-aged women — he married four of them.

Reading between the scenes is the only way to get answers to those questions, and Attenborough helps by casting Moira Kelly as both Hetty Kelly, Chaplin's first love, and Oona O'Neil, the teenaged daughter of playwright Eugene O'Neill, who becomes Chaplin's last wife, the only two women he says he ever truly loved.

Attenborough spared no expense recreating the period — the costumes, the sets, even the actors playing legends like Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks (played with remarkable elan by Kevin Kline) look strikingly like the originals, but then Attenborough does something very odd: He intersperses the realism with slapstick. It's a jarring, unnecessary effect.

At the end, when real footage of Chaplin's movies is shown, one gets a feel for what Robert Downey Jr. stars as Charlie Chaplin from age 19 to 83.

Chaplin was — but it's too little and it comes too late. Had that footage been shown earlier, allowing the audience to know what he was doing, the rest of the film might have been more compelling. Chaplin talks about and is possessed by his work, but we never see any of it. That's where the film fails.

One interesting bit of trivia for the buffs — Chaplin's daughter Geraldine (perhaps best known for "Dr. Zhivago") plays Chaplin's nutty mother, Hannah. You wonder how she felt playing scenes with her "father." And then you think, well, if I'm wondering things like that, the movie isn't holding my interest.

And that's the main fault of the film: It should have been like the man it chronicles; fascinating, hilarious, touching. It's only intermittently any of the three.

Moira Kelly plays Charlie's two loves in "Chaplin."

(played with proper venom by Kevin Dunn), the bizarre, unjust paternity suit brought by an off-center Joan Barry, his eventual banishment from the United States and his triumphant return to accept a special Oscar in 1972.

What it doesn't show is why he formed United Artists, which gave the creative minds, not the bean counters, control. He was one of the most powerful men in Hollywood, writing,

'Two Into One' is a whole lot of fun

By Marian Trainor
Special Writer

The laughs just keep coming in Ray Cooney's riotous comedy "Two Into One" at the Birmingham Theatre through Jan. 31. It's inane, hysterical and crazy, or as one critic remarked, "it's a hand-cranked laughter machine."

More slapstick than drama, it even features a series of Mack Sennett pratfalls. Nothing is too outrageous — not even hiding a young wife cheating on her husband on the lower tray of a tea cart where she gets stuck.

There are a series of similar hilarious situations that keep the audience in stitches waiting for the pot to boil over and someone to get burned.

Originally an English play that poked fun at British officials whose private lives were less than illustrious, "Two Into One" has been relocated to Washington D.C. Director Ron Holgate makes sure we understand the location; acts are separated by a darkened stage as a commentator speaking from a tour bus points out the sights of the nation's capital. It's a disconcerting device. But while we don't see the bus or its passengers, they don't get the inside view we do.

The capers begin in the lobby of the Capitol Hotel in Washington, D.C., during the Reagan administration, a place frequented by government officials who come to lunch, meet lobbyists or to have a drink before going upstairs for an afternoon of fun and games.

It is here that we meet Congressman Richard Willey (Terence Gaza) and his wife Pamela (Mary O'Brady), who hints that it might be fun to go upstairs for the afternoon. Richard has other plans and they don't include going back to the "Hill." George Pigden (Anderson Matthews), Willey's assistant, arrives with full agenda of appointments, including a meeting on sex and pornography.

Also stopping by is fiery Congresswoman Lily Chatterton (Dorothy Stinnette), a watchdog over virtue and sponsor of an anti-pornography bill. Add to that a call girl, an overwrought hotel manager, a belligerent waiter, double entendres and a lot of slamming doors and you have an evening of hilarity.

"Two Into One" has the tang of tabloid journalism — it's not theater that's meant for the ages, but as sophisticated farce it fills the bill.

North wrestlers second at Troy

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe North wrestling coach Art Roberts knew his colleagues at the Troy Invitational would pay for not seeding the Norsemen's Dave Zoltowski in the 125-pound division.

"I told them, 'He's going to beat some of the seeded guys if he gets the chance,' and he wound up beating two of them," Roberts said after Zoltowski became one of six medal winners for North as it finished second behind the host school in the 25-team tournament.

Zoltowski, who was named the Norsemen's outstanding wrestler for the week, pinned the tournament's sixth seed in 1:11 in his second match. He lost to Madison's Dave Grobbel in a close bout, but came back to record a pin of the seventh seed in 3:45. Zoltowski then dropped a 6-4 decision to the tournament's fifth-seeded wrestler and wound up sixth.

Dan Skuce, wrestling at 130 pounds, pinned his first three opponents and then won a 16-0 decision in the semifinals. He gave North its only championship when he beat a Marlette wrestler 5-4 in the title match.

"The Marlette kid was fourth in the state in Class C last year," Roberts said. "Dan did a good job of riding him out in the third period and Dan's not a rider so it was a good experience for him. He needs some close matches to get ready for the state."

Dave Sandercott at 103 pounds and Jeff Rizzo at 119 earned second-place medals. Sandercott suffered his first defeat of the season in the championship match against a wrestler from Goodrich, who is a two-time national AAU freestyle champion.

"He just took the match to Shorty and it was like fighting off a bee for six minutes," Roberts said. "He never let Sandercott get control of the match."

A takedown in the last 20 seconds gave the Goodrich wrestler an 8-6 victory.

Rizzo dropped a 7-3 decision to a Waterford Kettering wrestler in the 119 final, but the score was 5-3 until Rizzo had to gamble on a reversal and wound up losing two points on a near fall.

Duane Leininger finished fifth at 189 pounds, winning four of his five matches, and Tim McPherson also took fifth at 112. McPherson won three of his matches on pins.

"They could probably have finished higher, but under state rules you can only wrestle five matches in a day and they couldn't wrestle back to third place," Roberts said.

"I was very happy with our performance. We had 17 pins and only got pinned three times. Six kids placed and the six that didn't each scored six points for us, which was the difference between second and third place."

Earlier, North rolled past two dual meet foes, beating Lake Shore 52-9 and overpowering Bishop Foley 50-15.

Skuce and Zoltowski each won their two matches on pins and Rizzo and Leininger each posted a lopsided decision and won by a fall in their two matches.

Norsemen lose thriller

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

It's only a matter of time before Grosse Pointe North coach Dave Stavale will be able to measure success in victories, but for the time being improvement will have to do.

"We've improved 80 percent in the last month," Stavale said after the Norsemen dropped a 71-65 decision to Fraser in double overtime last week to fall to 0-5. "The kids are learning the system, they're gaining confidence and they played basketball right to the end."

"Even though we didn't win, it was a fun game and we came out of it with a good feeling because it was well-played by both teams."

Neither team held more than a five-point lead through regulation, which ended in a 56-all tie. Both teams had opportunities to win in the final 30 seconds, but neither could cash in.

Matt Peters, who played an outstanding game with 22 points and five assists, put North ahead on a three-point basket with 52 seconds left in the first overtime, but Fraser's Jason Donkin answered with a triple of his own to tie the score at 62.

The Ramblers jumped ahead in the second overtime and padded their lead when the Norsemen were forced to foul.

Rob Dallaire collected 14 points and eight rebounds for North and Mike Haskell played a strong all-around game.

Stavale was also encouraged by the varsity debut of sophomore point guard Ryan Rouls, who scored nine points and did a good job of running the offense.

Blue Devils doing well on the mat

Grosse Pointe South's wrestling team scored an impressive victory against L'Anse Creuse in its Macomb Area Conference National Division opener last week, then followed that effort by splitting four matches in a quadrangular meet at Royal Oak Kimball.

Victories by Mark Francese, Nick Joseph, Scott Cairo, Len Cugliari, Rob Sharrow, John Cugliari, Jesse Culver and Aaron Baker highlighted the Blue Devils' 50-24 victory over the Lancers.

Steve Buncek, Cairo and Joe Khalifah each posted three victories for coach Larry Carr's squad in the Kimball meet.

Buncek, Khalifah, Francese, James Hill, Len Cugliari, Culver and Baker were South's winners in a 44-24 victory over Royal Oak Dondero.

South rolled past Orchard Lake St. Mary 63-12 with wins from Buncek, Khalifah, Cairo, Len Cugliari, Sharrow, Dan Klaasen and Baker.

The Blue Devils' 37-27 loss to East Detroit was highlighted by wins from Buncek, Cairo, Sharrow and Culver.

Khalifah, Francese and Cairo had South's wins in a 55-18 loss to Kimball.

The Blue Devils host Grosse Pointe North Thursday at 6:30 p.m., and then compete in the West Bloomfield Invitational on Saturday.

South seeks reward for basketball effort

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

A victory would be most welcome for Grosse Pointe South's basketball team.

"The kids are working hard and it would be nice to see them rewarded with a victory," said coach George Petrouleas after the Blue Devils dropped a 51-39 decision to Fraser and suffered a 75-43 setback against Sterling Heights last week to fall to 0-6.

"We just have to learn how to win. We haven't found the formula yet, but we're going to stay positive. It certainly isn't that we aren't trying. We just aren't executing and taking advantage of situations," Petrouleas said.

South had a cold shooting night in its Macomb Area Conference White Division opener with Fraser. The Blue Devils made only 28 percent of their shots from the field, but were still within striking distance of the Ramblers early in the fourth quarter.

South jumped out to a 9-4 lead after a three-point goal by Jim Dailey and the Blue Devils led 14-13 at the end of the first quarter.

Two straight three-point goals by Jason Donkin triggered a 14-3 burst by Fraser that put the Ramblers ahead to stay.

Center Rob Moore led Fraser with 15 points, most of them in the paint area, and Donkin finished with 11, including three triples.

Paul Motley led South with 14 points, including 10 straight for the Blue Devils late in the second period and early in the third quarter. Lee Rupert came off the bench to score 13 points for South.

The Blue Devils were sharper against Sterling Heights, but they were still no match for the hot-shooting Stallions.

"We shot about 40 percent, but we could have shot 50 and still lost because Sterling hit 58 percent from the floor," Petrouleas said. The Stallions connected on seven of their 14 three-point attempts.

South, which trailed by nine points at the end of the first quarter, cut the lead to six midway through the second period, but then disaster struck.

"We turned the ball over four times in our next six possessions," Petrouleas said. "We have to do a better job of taking care of the ball."

Sterling Heights took advantage of South's mistakes and built its lead to 19 points at halftime.

Dailey was one of the few bright spots for the Blue Devils as he scored 19 points and played a strong all-around game.

Hockey

when he gloved the puck at the Huron blue line, beat the last defender and stuffed the puck into the net.

North scored three more times in the second period. Dave Ferguson made it 4-0 with an assist from Megler, and Sucher scored twice in less than a minute.

Schervish stopped 19 shots in the first two periods before giving way to Rob Wiczorkowski in the third period.

Sucher, with assists from Zac Hubbell and Bryce Kenny, tallied North's first two goals of the third period. Megler and Quinn capped the Norsemen's scoring.

North's other scheduled game last week against Southgate Anderson was postponed when the Titans were unable to make the trip because their bus broke down. The teams are attempting to reschedule the league game, but no date has been set.

ULS skaters bow

University Liggett School's hockey team dropped all three of its games last week, but coach John Fowler wasn't terribly disappointed with the performance.

"I felt we played pretty well, especially on the trip to Culver," Fowler said. "All the games were close after two periods. We're coming back from a long vacation and we have to start with the basics and regroup."

The Knights began the week's action with a 7-3 loss to Port Huron Northern, then dropped 7-2 and 10-3 decisions to Culver Military Academy.

ULS built a 3-1 lead against Northern with goals by Jay Ricci, Omar Sawaf and Eric Kisskalt, but the Huskies came back with three goals late in the second period to go ahead 4-3.

"Northern is a very physical team," Fowler said. "They took nine penalties to our two."

John McNaughton, Nick Giorgio, Kip Gotfredson, Jim Bologna and Sawaf picked up assists for the Knights, while Tom Best played well in goal.

Another spurt late in the second period turned the first Culver game around. Goals by Kisskalt, from Ricci and Giorgio, and Giorgio, from Ricci and Kisskalt, pulled ULS within a goal, but the Indiana school answered with two quick goals to take a 5-2 lead into the final period.

Chris Eldridge and Best split the goaltending and did a good job against a heavy barrage of Culver shots.

It was much the same story the following afternoon when Culver erupted for six goals after taking a 4-2 lead into the third period. Eldridge played the entire game and faced 40 shots.

"He was outstanding in the first two periods," Fowler said. "Culver is a good shooting team; they pass the puck well and their points do a good job of crashing in. It was a good game for us."

Kisskalt had two goals and an assist for ULS, while Ricci had a goal and an assist. McNaughton had two assists and Matt Spicer picked up one.

Fowler was also encouraged by the play of his White unit — forwards Matt Hambricht, Jeff Backhurst and Chris Abiragi and defensemen Bill Burns and Chris Ford.

Knights drop two games

University Liggett School's basketball team is 0-6, but the Knights have a clean slate in the Metro Conference, which begins play this week.

"The kids are playing hard, they have a great attitude and they're not feeling defeated," said coach Chuck Wright after ULS lost a 71-69 heartbreaker in double overtime to Bloomfield Hills Roper and suffered a 64-43 setback against Detroit Country Day.

"We make mistakes, but everyone's supportive of each other. I still think we can be a good team. We just have to keep doing the best we can. Last year, when we were independent, we broke the schedule into segments. This year we have the league season and we're going into Tuesday's game (with Clarenceville) 0-0 in the conference," Wright said.

In the Roper game, ULS fought back from an eight-point deficit to lead 63-60 on a three-pointer by David Martin with 15 seconds left in regulation. But the Roughriders got a three-pointer from Martin Jihad, who finished with 35 points, to send the game into overtime.

Neither team had more than a two-point lead in either extra period, but Roper scored with three seconds left in the second overtime to gain the victory.

Mike Fox led the Knights with 16 points and 10 rebounds. Vernon Pernel had 15 points and 14 rebounds and Martin added 14 points.

ULS hit three of its first five shots against Country Day, but the Yellowjackets countered with four three-pointers and built an early 12-6 lead. The Knights trailed 23-12 after the first quarter and never really threatened again.

Sophomore Joey Grant led ULS with 17 points and 10 rebounds.

"Despite not winning, four of our losses have been by 10 points or less," Wright said. "In three of those games we were ahead in the fourth quarter. We simply have to do the little things to win, especially in the clutch."

PLEASE DON'T DELAY! SPAY OR NEUTER YOUR PET TODAY!
An altered pet is a healthier and happier companion. Also, it spares you the grief and pain of having puppies and kittens destroyed when no homes can be found. Countless numbers of sweet, innocent little ones are euthanized every day in shelters across the country because a pet wasn't spayed or neutered. If we cut down on the numbers of unwanted litters being born, we will also cut down on the number of abandoned, lost and unwanted animals to destroy.

Wrap your windows in style with this handsome valance

Look through any home decorating magazine today and you'll soon discover valances have established their place in home decorating.

Simple or ornate, stained, painted or covered with fabric, window valances are enjoying a surge of popularity with nearly every style of home decor. With or without other window coverings, a simple valance provides a nice finishing touch for either traditional or contemporary settings. Made of handsome softwood lumber, valances can be stained or painted to match your color scheme, or covered in fabric with padding to soften the contours.

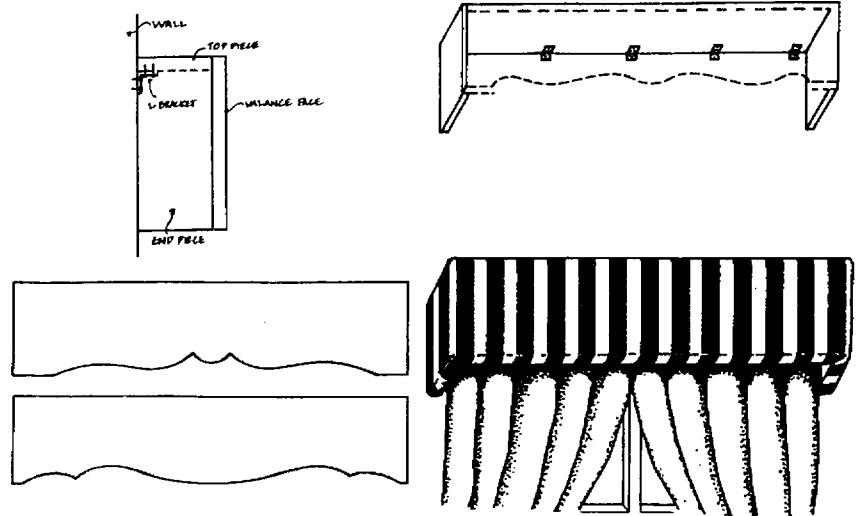

Valances are exceptionally easy to build. The ones shown here consist of the valance face and end pieces made from standard 1x12 lumber plus a top piece made from a 1x6 board. The styles shown can easily be adapted to any length.

If the valance is to be used with another window covering, such as curtains, draperies or blinds, first measure the curtain rod, then add at least two inches at each end for clearance. Cut the 1x12 face board to that length. Also cut two 5-1/2-inch lengths of 1x12 for the end pieces. Using a saber saw or jigsaw, shape the bottom edge of the valance board in a style to complement your decor. It needn't be fancy to add a nice touch to your room. Straight-edged valances are quite popular — and simple to make.

Before assembling, sand the front and end pieces, rounding and smoothing the edges. For an easy-to-finish surface, first use a medium grain sand paper, then sand again with a fine grain paper. The top piece should be sanded for ease of finishing but the edges should be left square. To assemble, glue and nail the front piece to the end pieces using four 2-inch (6d) finishing nails at each joint. Attach the top piece just below the top edge of the valance, using glue and 6d finishing nails. Use four nails where the top meets the end pieces, but minimize the number of nails attaching the face board to the top piece (one nail about two inches in from each end will probably suffice). For a more finished look, countersink the nails and fill the holes with wood putty. Finish with stain or paint. Or, for a fabric covered valance, pad the outside faces and lower edges with batting, stretch fabric over both the inside and outside of the valance and secure using tacks or staples on the hidden portion of the valance.

To install, position the valance on the wall, centered above the window, and mark the location on the top and ends. Avoid visible marks on the wall by marking the inside edges of the valance. Draw a line on the wall marking the inside top edge of the valance, making sure the line is parallel to the top of the window. Using the line as a guide, attach 1-1/2-inch L-brackets to the wall every 16-24 inches, making sure there is a bracket at each end. Attach the brackets to the wall at studs or use molly screws. Position the valance atop the brackets, center it above the window and mark screw holes on the underside of the top piece. Pre-drill the holes and attach the valance to the brackets using 1/2-inch wood screws.

Create a fashionable new look for your windows with just a couple of lengths of versatile Western softwood lumber and only a few hours of your time. You'll find these valances go together quickly and require no special skills or fancy tools.

Materials list:

- One length of 1x12
- One length of 1x6
- A half pound of 6d finishing nails
- Wood putty (optional)
- About four 1-1/2-inch L-brackets
- Enough molly screws or 1-1/2-inch wood screws to attach the brackets
- Enough 1/2-inch wood screws to attach the valance to the brackets

Your choice of finishing materials (paint, stain or fabric)

Tools list:

- Saber saw or jigsaw
 - Hammer
 - Screwdriver
 - Nailset (optional)
 - Electric drill

November home sales swell as economy improves

Sales of previously-owned homes surged to the highest level in nearly six years, as a rise in interest rates prompted buyers to enter the market while economic conditions remain favorable, the National Association of Realtors reports.

The association reported a 19.2 percent leap in last month's seasonally adjusted annual sales rate to 3.85 million existing single-family homes, compared to 3.23 million units in November 1991. In December 1986, the resale rate was 3.89 million units.

NAR president William S. Chee noted how resale market conditions affected first-time home buyers.

"Many decided to buy after seeing a spike in interest rates during a time of economic recovery. This release of pent-up demand shows consumers are closely watching the market to gauge the best time to buy," Chee said.

Existing-home sales volume for the first 11 months of 1992 continued to exceed the volume for the first 11 months last year. The association recorded 3.22 million home resales from January to November this year, compared to 3.0 million units for the same period in 1991, an increase of 7.5 percent.

The Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp. reported that the national average commitment rate for 30-year, conventional, fixed-rate mortgages was 8.31 percent in November, compared to 8.09 percent the previous month. November's rate was the highest since June, when the rate was 8.51 percent, but registered lower than last November's rate of 8.71 percent.

NAR's chief economist, John A. Tuccillo, emphasized that for growth to continue in the housing industry, a long-term outlook remains the best course a new administration could take.

"Peaks in home sale activity should be seen in light of economic valleys the country has journeyed through recently. Overall growth remains encouraging, but the industry sees its continuance based on legislative incentives. Allowing the application of 401(k) funds or Individual Retirement Accounts to a down payment on a home would give more Americans an alternative to renting," Tuccillo said.

The national median existing single-family home price for November was $102,900, a 5.1 percent increase from the same month in 1991, when the price was $97,900. The median is the midpoint in the price range — half the homes sold cost more, half cost less. NAR executive vice president Almon R. "Bud" Smith said the uptick reflects steady growth in the overall economy.

"As housing markets recover with the economy, bursts in resale activity will complement slight increases in home prices. These spurts of growth should send a signal that incentives for the growth of the housing industry can only lead to further economic improvement for related industries as well, and this cycle bodes well for the future of the country," Smith said.

NAR is forecasting sales of existing single-family sales to reach 3.44 million units in 1992, the best rate since 1988's level of 3.44 million units. For 1993, the association believes the resale pace will total 3.67 million existing single-family homes, a level not seen since 1979's rate of 3.83 million units.

All regions of the nation posted year-to-year increases in single-family home sales. The Midwest led the nation for November, with a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 1.07 million units, a 24.4 percent jump from last November's home resale rate of 860,000 units. Last month's median sales price for existing single-family homes in the Midwest was $82,300, up 5.4 percent from last November's sales price of $78,100.

The resale rate in the Northeast also posted a strong showing, with 560,000 units in November, a 21.7 percent rise over last November's rate of 460,000 units. The region's median sales price was $137,800 last month, down 0.4 percent from $138,300 last November.

In the West, the resale rate registered at 820,000 units, an increase of 18.8 percent over last November's rate of 690,000 units. The West's median sales price for last month was $137,900, dipping 0.6 percent from last November's median resale price of $138,800.

The South recorded a seasonally adjusted annual resale rate of 1.4 million units for November, 1992, up from 1.23 million units in November 1991. The median sales price in the South rose 5.5 percent to $92,000 from $87,200 last November.

Household Help by John Amantea

Q. I have an old-style toilet in my home that is not operating up to par. I visually examined all the moving parts and waited for the tank to fill to see if anything was abnormal. The problem appears to be with the internal parts, and water continues to run after the toilet is flushed. Can you determine what might be the cause of this malfunction?

A. Without actually seeing the problem, I can only suggest you follow these simple steps:

Before doing anything, turn off the water supply and then closely examine all of the moving parts such as the ball cock mechanism that controls incoming water. Look at the rubber flap at the floor of the tank itself to be sure there aren't any obstructions or corrosion from the valve seat. In addition, check the chain and guide arm, making sure the ball falls straight down. If the ball rubs against the tank wall, that will cause water to run continually. Simply bend the float ball arm slightly inward to correct this problem. Make sure the metal rod is not higher than the overflow tube, or it may allow water to flow over.

It's possible other problems may exist, in which case, you may need the assistance of a professional. However, more times than not, low-cost toilet tank repair kits are your convenience at plumbing supply and hardware dealers. These replacement parts can give you headache-free performance, depending on the problem, instead of replacing some major parts.

Q. I need to know if there is some kind of treatment which can be used on the surface of a snow shovel to prevent snow weight build-up. It seems that the chore of removing snow is doubly hard when what you are removing clings to the shovel itself. Do you know of anything I can use?

A. I know that the use of an industrial all-purpose silicone spray will prevent sticking and repel water. However, keep in mind that this product will work best on a fairly new shovel with a surface that is not scratched or worn. Otherwise, silicone spray will only be absorbed into a porous metal surface.

You can also use this versatile spray on an ice chopper, and even on the rotating blades of a snow blower. Be sure that the power is off when you do this to your blowing machine to avoid being hurt by the blades.

Finally, if you are removing snow with any of your equipment for any length of time, you will need to reapply the spray periodically.

Q. I have a recurring problem with the entry lock on the front door of my home. The problem seems to occur around wintertime with cold weather. There doesn't seem to be any mechanical problem with the lock. Can you advise me what to do, short of having the lock replaced?

A. Just about any item or device that is used often will eventually need repair or maintenance. The first thing you should do is to simply remove the knob plate screws and remove the lock. Apply either a graphite product or a penetrating fluid, specifically for freeing "stuck" locks. Use either of these items generously and also check for any obviously visible malfunctions.

In reference to cold weather, I can only suggest that moisture is the culprit here. By applying the above methods periodically, you should have trouble-free use of your door lock.
