Celebrating winter

About 325 people came to Pier Park for the first Winterfest sponsored by the city of Grosse Pointe Farms, according to Richard Huhn, director of parks and recreation. Activities included a fishing derby, ice skating race, hockey puck shooting contest, snowball-throwing contest, ice sculptures and

Drunken driving arrests drop in Pointes 'just not worth it'

By Donna Walker Staff Writer

Three down, one up and one wild card.

No, that's not a poker hand. Rather, it's the trend in drunken driving arrests in the five Grosse Pointes over the past two years.

Three of the Pointes - the City, Farms and Shores - reported a decrease in the number of OUIL and UBAL arrests in 1992, compared to the previous year.

OUIL stands for "operating a motor vehicle under the influence of intoxicating liquor" or a

motor vehicle with an "unlawful blood alcohol content" of .10 percent or more by weight of alcohol.

A person's blood alcohol content can be determined by measuring the amount of alcohol in his breath with an instrument called a Breathalyzer.

A person can be arrested for OUIL and not UBAL, or vice versa. However, usually police officers charge a driver with both offenses at the same time, letting the court determine on which charge the defendant should be tried. (The driver can't be convicted of both UBAL and OUIL for the same incident - it has to be one or

UBAL means operating a

The same penalties apply to both UBAL and OUIL offenses, which is why local police departments count UBAL and OUIL figures together.

Last year, the City had 15 OUIL and UBAL arrests (down five from 1991); the Farms had 32 (down 18 from 1991); and the Shores had 37 (down 23 from 1991).

Meanwhile, Grosse Pointe Woods reported an increase of 12 cases. În 1992, 83 OUIL and UBAL arrests were reported in the Woods, compared to 71 in Grosse Pointe Park is a wild card; it has yet to compile its total for 1992.

William Furtaw, deputy director of the Park's public safety department, said the deSee related story on page 4A partment's computer system crashed last summer, destroying files going back to 1986. Park police still have written records, "and we're going to have to go back and count the number of OUIL arrests by hand," he said.

Shores public safety director Daniel Healy, Farms Lt. Mark Brecht, and City police chief Bruce Kennedy all attributed the decrease in drunk driving arrests in their cities to increased public awareness.

They also said that a state law that went into effect Jan. 1, 1991, has acted as a social deterrent, because it imposes tougher penalities on people convicted of drunken driving.

"It's a tougher law and it's doing its job," Healy said. "People are afraid, and isn't that what we wanted? I know it's what I wanted." Kennedy said in spite of heavy enforcement of the law and increased social awareness, the decline in drunk driving arrests in his city might have been due to luck.

"Maybe five more guys got lucky last year than the year before," he said.

Woods public safety director Jack Patterson said he doesn't have the "slightest idea" why drunken driving arrests were up in his city, but said they are still a lot lower than they were in the 1980s.

"We had 195 in 1985, in 1986 we had 181, and in 1987 we had 134," he said.

The overall decline in drunken driving arrests in the Woods since the 1980s isn't due to a decline in law enforcement, Patterson said. Rather, he said more people are realizing that it's just not worth it to get behind the wheel while intoxicated.

"All told," he said, "drunken driving is an expensive encounter with the law. When you add up the attorney's fee, court costs, having to go to school and other counseling - you're talking thousands of dollars.

"Then there's the cost of your insurance going up, and if you drive for a living, you may not have a job anymore. And even if you don't drive for a living, your license can be suspended or revoked.'

Ellen Bowen

By Ronald J. Bernas

When Ellen Bowen took over the choir program at Grosse Pointe South High School in 1986 she recalls just 30 students were enrolled. Only three of them were boys.

This year, there are more students than that in the freshman choir alone - and there are more boys than girls.

Nearly 100 students competed in last weekend's Michigan School Vocal Association Solo and Ensemble district festival, the same competition choral groups and soloists led by

Ellen Bowen

Bowen have won many times in the six years she's been at South.

Bowen, of Grosse Pointe Park, said she never thought she'd be a teacher. In fact, teaching is about her third or fourth career, but she's just where she wants to be.

Bowen grew up in the small community of Plymouth, Ind., and was surrounded by music as long as she can remember. Her father - who owned the town's drug store — was also a pianist who played with big bands, her grandmother was the town soloist and another relative was a traveling musician who played the violin for Civil War soldiers. Bowen has that violin. So it was natural that she start music lessons at an early age - piano at 5, voice at 11, various other instruments throughout the years and by the time she was in high school, she was the girl vocalist for a band of older musicians who played standards at local Moose and Elk lodges.

"But in high school music was just one of the things I did," she said. "I was class president, editor of the paper, I golfed. So when I went to college I entered as a recreation major. I wanted to be in parks and recreation.'

As a lark she auditioned for the school's top vocal group

Pair sought in driveway assaults

By Donna Walker Staff Writer Police believe that two incidents that happened late Tuesday, Jan. 26, in which people in Grosse Pointe Park and Grosse Pointe Woods were approached by supposed gunmen as they were getting out of their vehicles, are related.

The first incident happened about 10 p.m. in the 600 block of Barrington in the Park.

A resident had just backed his car into his driveway and was preparing to get out when he saw two men approach the Park Lt. David Hiller praised the potential victim, saying, "He took a half a second to look around before he got out of his car, and when he saw he was in a situation he wasn't comfortable with, he quickly considered his options and chose the best one.'

The second incident happened about 11 p.m. in the 700 block of Renaud in the Woods.

A resident had just pulled his mini-van into his driveway, and when he opened the door, he was pulled out of the vehicle by two men.

One of the men struck him in the face, inflicting a cut above his right eye.

They said they'd shoot him, but the victim saw no gun. The thieves took his wallet and fled to a small car, possibly a twodoor, that was parked on the street. They drove off in the car, heading west.

The victim was taken to a local hospital by a family member for treatment.

Shortly after the theft was reported, a Woods officer saw a gold Plymouth Horizon occupied by two black males on Morningside.

The officer stopped the car on Cook Road and held the occupants at gunpoint until other officers arrived. Police learned that the two suspects were custodial employees of a nearby school and were not involved in the incident.

Police released the pair and told them why they had been and, to her surprise, was picked as a member.

"That's when I started thinking that I could major in music," she said.

She also switched schools so she could be with her husband, a student who was attending Ball State.

After 3 1/2 years she not only had a degree, she also had a daughter. Another followed a few years later.

She taught voice and sang in a symphonic choir when her husband's uncle, Otis Bowen, was elected governor of Indiana. During the campaign she formed a vocal group called Generation of Peace ("GOP, get it?") which toured the state creating interest in Bowen's campaign. When he was elected she worked in public relations, planning the entertainment for state functions.

She moved to the department of education where she oversaw distribution of federal money to various arts programs throughout the state. In 1973 her husband, who worked for Ford, was transferred to Michigan and she came with him, giving up her job.

"A friend said to me, 'there's a position open in Chippewa Valley' for a music teacher and I thought 'I don't want to teach, I'm a professional musician.' But I liked eating better than the one paycheck thing and I applied.'

While rehearsing her students one day, a representative of Macomb Community College noticed her and asked if she would like to rebuild the college's show choir, The Macombers. She jumped at the chance.

"When I started we re-hearsed in a basement and we had to take the tiles out of the ceiling so the boys could do the choreography without hitting the ceiling," she said.

With the opening of the Macomb Center for the Performing Arts, the music program expanded, too, and Bowen found herself starting a show choir summer camp, a weekend program for gifted high school students, and founded the musical theater department. That's when she heard about the vocal music instructor opening in the Grosse Pointe School System.

Library wins grant

The Grosse Pointe Public Library was selected as the 1993 recipient of the Grolier National Library Week Grant by the National Library Week Committee of the American Library Association.

The announcement was made Jan. 25 at the ALA Midwinter Meeting in Denver. Applicants from state, community and university libraries throughout the country were considered for the $2,000 award.

Each year since 1975, the Grolier Educational Corp. has awarded the grant to one library to implement a local or statewide public relations campaign that supports the theme and goals of National Library Week. The winning proposal serves as a model and catalyst for other library public relations campaigns.

The Grosse Pointe Public Library has planned a full week of events to celebrate National Library Week, April 18-24. Each day, activities in all three branch libraries and other community locations will reflect the 1993 theme, "Libraries Change Lives."

The third annual Great Grosse Pointe Read Aloud will be a main attraction in a week which will include visiting authors, a book raffle, jazz bands, a fine amnesty, giveaways and surprises. 'We are honored that the American Library Association has endorsed our past promotional activities and demonstrated such confidence in our plans for promoting National Library Week," said Margaret Kitchel, youth services librarian at the Woods Branch Library and coordinator of the campaign. "We're looking forward to involving the community in an exciting week.'

But she liked being around the kids. And she liked the variety of the music she was able to bring to the students.

While she brought the choir program into the modern age with choreography and revuetype shows, she also received flak from some who say she demands too much from her

'I don't demand any more than a coach does of his players, and the monetary commitment - for dresses and stage shoes - isn't too much either,' she said. "And we have choir boosters, too, who pay for a lot of the program.'

And the students get more from the program than a chance to sing, she said.

There are three things Bowen strives to instill in her students - especially in members of the Pointe Singers, the top vocal group. She wants to educate them in music of all kinds from old English to Cole Porter. She wants them to develop self-esteem and feel comfortable in front of others, a skill that is necessary in all fields. And she wants them to know the value of public service, which is why the group performs often at senior citizen homes and for other community organizations.

And she works hard to make said. sure choir is not the class students take to have a break in the middle of the day.

North, South step up efforts to keep school dances 'dry'

By Ronald J. Bernas Staff Writer

At Grosse Pointe South High School's next dance there will be three new rules: No tickets for sale at the door, only 400 students will be admitted, and those students who have tickets must be at the dance by 8:30 p.m. or they won't be admitted.

The three rules are new measures intended to stop the students from breaking one bigger rule: Students are not allowed to drink at school functions.

"It's not a new problem," said South principal John Artis, who has been a high school administrator for 13 years, "but we can't continue to deal with it dance after dance after dance.'

Student drinking is a twofold problem, Artis said.

"First of all, it's a cultural issue that says it's perfectly acceptable for young people to drink," he said. "And secondly, too often they think it's acceptable to come to school events after they've been drinking."

South offers a school-wide dance once a month and attendance this year has been heavy sometimes as many as 700 students - but those who attend the dances after drinking have given the administration pause over whether the dances should continue.

"The problem is that the gym (where the dances are held) gets hot and crowded and students get sick and sometimes fights break out. And then there's the safety factor, and what if students leave the dance and get in an accident on the way home?" Artis said.

That's why he has taken steps to eliminate the problem. Offering only advance ticket sales he hopes will stop the spur-of-the-moment decision to attend a dance by students who have been drinking. Limiting attendance to 400 students keeps the gym from getting too crowded. Moving the entrance curfew to 8:30 p.m. - it previously was 9 p.m. - will give students less time beforehand to drink.

Artis said he has also increased the number of chaper-

Tom Teetaert, assistant principal at Grosse Pointe North High School, said his school has tried those measures from time to time as problems arise, and the school hires an off duty police officer to monitor all North dances.

"We have to take extra precautionary measures and it tends to put us into a real tough position," Teetaert said. "It's easier for us not to have any dances, but what will the kids have to do?

pension and a consultation and followup with the school's substance abuse counselor.

But Teetaert and Artis say the biggest problem is not student drinking, it's that parents

"We, as adults, have to send the message bluntly and clearly to the students that their drinking is not acceptable," Artis said.

"This particular problem is a societal and a community problem," Teetaert said. "Some people are turning their backs. You hate to finger-point, but parents have to monitor their children. Parents aren't sending the no-use message.'

Artis and Teetaert pointed to the most recent North-South hockey game - in the past, an event where inter-school rivalries have spilled off the ice into the stands - as an example of how education and increased chaperons can help the situation.

Students were told that the rink would be cleared of spectators after the second incident of fan misconduct. The game which remained close until the final period when South pulled away and eventually won 5-1 went off without an incident.

North recently brought in a substance abuser-turned comedian to discuss the issue of drinking and drug use with the students in a school-wide assembly.

"We care," Teetaert said. "And that's the message we're hopefully sending to the kids."

Year-old drunken driving law good deterrent, Grosse Pointe judges agree

By Donna Walker

Staff Writer A state law that went into effect Jan. 1, 1992, has made things tougher on people accused of driving while intoxi-

"I think it's made it more difficult on the part of the defendant to win a (drunken driving) lawsuit," said Stan Kazul, Grosse Pointe City Municipal Court judge. "It's certainly not impossible to win, but I do think it's more difficult now."

For instance, drunken driving cases can no longer be postponed for months on end, which sometimes helped the defendant's case. The one-year-old law says drunken driving cases must go to trial within 77 days of the defendant's arrest.

"Sometimes," said Grosse Pointe Farms Judge Matthew Rumora, "it could take six months or longer for a case to go to trial. Because it took so long, witnesses' memories would get fuzzy, and sometimes witnesses would be unavailable to testify."

When the new law was passed by the state Legislature, some people worried it might cause a backlog of other kinds

The revised law also states that when a defendant pleads guilty to OUIL or operating while impaired (OWI) the judge must suspend that person's driver's license immediately.

Before, the judge could wait until the time of sentencing (which could have been weeks after the defendant pleaded guilty) before suspending his or her driver's license.

"It (the revised law) takes a fair amount of discretion out of the judge's hands," said Grosse Pointe Woods Judge Lynne Pierce.

The revised law also imposes stiffer penalties on people convicted of drunken driving offenses, which include operating a motor vehicle under the influence of intoxicating liquor (OUIL), unlawful blood alcohol level (UBAL), and operating a motor vehicle while impaired (OWI).

A person convicted of OUIL for the first time can be sentenced to:

restricted license for the first 60 days of the OUIL sentence.

A person convicted of OUIL for the second time in seven years can be sentenced to:

- A minimum of 48 hours to a maximum of one year in jail (before there was no minimum); and/or 10 to 90 days of community service (before, it was up to 12 days of community service):
- License revocation, with no restricted license.

Before the new law was passed, a prosecutor had to prove that a defendant had prior OWI or OUIL convictions. Now, the proof is no longer on the prosecutor. The judge or court clerk calls up the defendant's record with the secretary of state on a computer.

"That prevents a prior conviction from falling through the cracks," Pierce said.

The new law also makes it a felony to injure or maim someone while driving under the influence of alcohol.

a drunken driving accident in which another party was killed faces a mandatory sentence of 15 years in prison and a fine up to $10,000.

"It's easier to maintain a conviction this way," Rumora said. "Before, the prosecutor would have to seek a conviction on a manslaughter charge, because there was nothing else to charge them with.'

It was more difficult to get a conviction on a manslaughter charge than on the two new felony drunk driving charges because the prosecutor had to prove gross negligence, he said.

All four judges interviewed said the new law was a good deterrent, but Grosse Pointe Shores Municipal Court Judge John H. Gillis said he would like a little more flexibility in the law regarding first-time OUIL offenders.

"Before the case goes to trial," he said, "I want to see if just being arrested is enough to turn the defendant around. That's why sometimes I'd like to postpone a trial for 60 days.'

The big giveaway

Fifty-four families in the Grosse Pointe area received Christmas gifts and food donations from Grosse Pointe North High School students. All 45 homerooms at North participated, along with the school's secretarial staff, employees at the school system's administration building and local Coldwell Banker employees. The Grosse Pointe Crisis Club contributed Kroger gift certificates to the families. Social studies teacher Don Dungan coordinated the Adopt-A-Family project, which he began in 1966, after his brother-in-law, who taught at Guyton Elementary School in Detroit, told him about the needs of families in the area. Families adopted by the students were referred through the Grosse Pointe public elementary and middle schools.

The Racial Justice Center of Grosse Pointe announces the return of the Martin Luther King Essay and Poster Contest.

Many public and private schools in Grosse Pointe and Harper Woods will participate.

Work on the essays and posters will take place during February, which is desig-

The elementary theme for this year is based on the following quote:

"I have a dream that my four little children will one day live in a nation where they will not be judged by the color of their skin but by the content of their character"

The theme is: "How can I make Dr. King's dream real for me?"

The middle school theme is based on the following quote: "I have the audacity to believe that peoples everywhere can have three meals a day for their bodies, education and culture for their minds, and dignity, equality and freedom for their spirits. I believe that what self-centered people have torn down, other-centered people can build up."

The theme is: "Choose a woman or minority person in the United States who is the kind of 'other-centered person' about whom Dr. King is talking. What are his or her contributions to our society? Why do you value his or her work?"

JUSINESS If a challenge is what you seek, check out Puzzle Works

By Donna Walker Staff Writer

There's more to puzzles than crosswords alone, as is immediately obvious in a visit to the Puzzle Works, located at 97 Kercheval in Grosse Pointe Farms.

Tucked behind the Punch & Judy Toyland at the same address, the tiny 500 square foot store stocks hundreds of "mind games, brain teasers and jigsaws" for people of all ages as its sign out front proclaims.

"Most people are flabbergasted by how many different puzzles there are," said owner Mike Foydel of St. Clair Shores. "And a lot of times we can special-order puzzles. If you have a certain puzzle in mind and we don't carry it, we'll do our best to hunt it down, because we have suppliers all over the world.'

Some of the store's mindbenders include:

- Michigan-made wooden disentanglement puzzles;
- Metal disentanglement puzzles from New York and California:

• "Monkey" puzzles (threedimensional, wooden outdoor scenes) from England;

- Tangrams (a puzzle dating back to ancient China, featuring triangular pieces that are used to make different designs), that are produced in Oregon;
- Giant-size floor puzzles for
- Coke can puzzles plastic sliding puzzles made in Mount Clemens ("Those are really hot right now," Foydel said);
- Three-dimensional puzzles that look like famous buildings.

The store also carries the always popular jigsaw puzzles, "but we try to specialize in unique jigsaws," Foydel said.

Those looking for a really good migraine should try "The World's Most Difficult Jigsaw Puzzle," with the same picture on both sides, but rotated 90 degrees from each other.

Or, they could try a jigsaw puzzle with an irregular border, or a puzzle where all the pieces are perfect squares. Perhaps the most unusual puzzle in the store is an Earthglobe that's made in Canada. At first glance it looks like something you'd find in a school, but the oceans and continents are actually divided into pieces that stay put be-

"The neat thing," Foydel said, "is that when a country undergoes a name change, like what's happening in Europe, the company that manufactures this puzzle sends out new (replacement) pieces with the country's new name.'

He said his favorite puzzles are the kind that are made of wood and that look like smooth, polished boxes. The trick is to get the box apart (which can only be done by pressing on it a certain way) and then putting the pieces back together.

"These are works of art," he said. "You can set these on your coffee table and they won't look out of place. They're also great conversation start-

The Foydels' have worked many of the puzzles themselves, and customers are invited to try them out, too. Most puzzles cost $10 to $15, they said, but they have something in every price range, from $1 to hundreds of dollars.

Most puzzle rings are $8, but gold puzzle rings can sell for more than $200.

Court battle over proposed lot split continues in Park

A fight over a proposed lot split of lakefront property in Grosse Pointe Park is continuing in Wayne County Circuit Court, following a public hearing held by the Park city council last week.

Circuit Court Judge Richard D. Kaufmann asked the city council to determine if a fire hazard would be created if the property at 745 Whittier were divided into three lots.

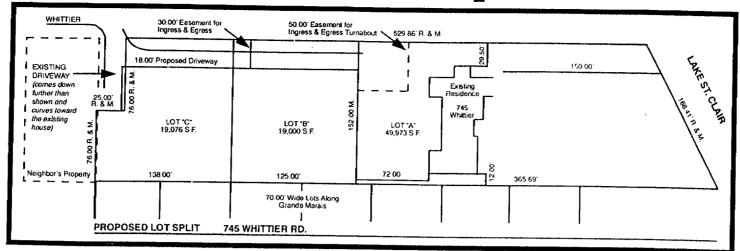

Specifically, Kaufmann wanted to know if emergency vehicles would be able to reach the two new homes planned for the property, plus the existing home, which would remain.

Public safety director Richard Caretti originally told the council last Monday that the lot split would not pose a safety hazard.

He said the city's largest emergency vehicle - its ladder truck - had no problem reaching the existing house via the existing driveway. Since the two new houses would be built in front of the existing house, emergency vehicles should have an even easier time reaching them, he said.

However, residents in the audience said that the driveway would be moved from the south to the north side of the property under the plan. That would create a tighter, "impossible" turn for firetrucks to navigate, they said.

Also, they said the proposed 18-foot-wide driveway could easily become congested with cars, especially during an emergency. If public safety officers were responding to an emergency at "Lot A," it could block the path of rescue workers to "Lot C."

Caretti then said he didn't know if emergency vehicles would be able to respond to all three properties if the existing driveway were moved.

"We can't drive our trucks over that route to test it out," he said, "because there is no driveway there now."

The proposed driveway would be like a narrow street, providing the only ingress and egress between the three properties and Whittier Road. The only lot that would have Lake St. Clair frontage would be the one on which the existing house would remain.

In December 1991, the city council held a public hearing regarding the lot split, which had been proposed by Anne Blake, owner of the property.

Residents at that time objected to the split, saying it would worsen the drainage problems of other properties in the Whittier/Grand Marais area, that it would hurt the character and aesthetics of the neighborhood, and that it would bring additional traffic to the area.

The council referred the proposal to the planning commission for study. The planning commission then recommended the council deny the split, citing residents' objections, the fact that necessary lot dimensions could only be achieved if the proposed driveway acted as a roadway, and that the owner knew at the time of purchase that the council had denied previous lot split requests for that property also said last Monday that they have low water pressure, and that adding two more houses to the water supply system would worsen the problem.

Park city attorney Herold McC. Deason said his office will present all of the city's findings to the judge soon.

Gilbride said that since the Park's ladder truck can navigate the existing 25-foot-wide turn off Whittier, which would not change under the proposed plan (even though other parts of the driveway would), the proposed lot split would not cause a public safety problem.

He also said he doesn't accept the argument that the Park can't tell if a firetruck would have room to access a driveway before the driveway is

Woman assaulted

By Donna Walker

A burglar sexually assaulted 24-year-old Grosse Pointe Park woman after breaking into her apartment in the 1000 block of Maryland about 1:15 a.m. Monday, Jan. 25.

The victim was sleeping in her bedroom when the attacker gained entry to her flat by forcing open a window and climbing through.

She told police she was awakened by the man, who was pressing a pointed weapon against her face.

Park Lt. David Hiller said he could not say what type of weapon was used.

After sexually attacking the ctim, the man took her 19. inch color television and more than $20 in cash.

He then forced the victim to drive him in her car to the area of Kercheval and Marlborough

After he got out of her car, the victim drove directly to the Grosse Pointe Park police sta-

"As traumatic as this was for her," Hiller said, "she was able to give us some detailed information (about the attacker and the area where she dropped him off), which is what we're following up on now. She did an excellent job.'

Detroit police were asked to help with the investigation, and a tracking dog followed the attacker's scent to a two-family building on Phillip, south of Kercheval.

Park officers watched the building while a search warrant was obtained. Police found no evidence of the crime or the attacker inside the building. However, information detectives have received during the investigation suggests that the attacker may have been one of several people who frequented the building, said Park public safety director Richard Caretti in a prepared statement.

The victim received lacerations to the back of her head from the weapon. She was treated at Bon Secours Hospital for those and other injuries sustained during the assault.

The attacker is black, in his mid-20s, 5-feet-9-inches tall, 175 pounds or heavier, with a medium complexion. He was wearing a black ski mask with eye holes and a three-quarterlength, rust-color stadium coat with rope-tie closures.

Hiller said the last time a sexual assault was reported in the Park was in November

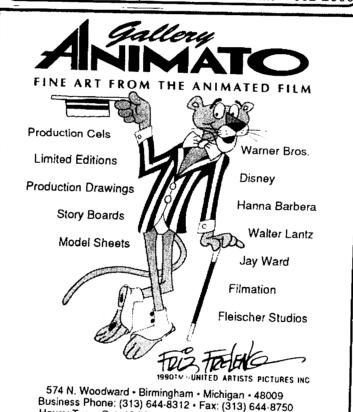

"It's very rare," he said. Asked how residents can protect themselves from such incidents, he said, "Not that our victim did anything wrong, but we can't stress enough for people to use common sense when it comes to security.

"People think, 'I thought I locked the door,' or, 'I thought I locked the window.' We just want people to get in the habit of double checking their doors and windows. But I don't know what this particular victim could have done differently. In fact, she did an excellent job, s expected, residential property tax assessments on the average have risen substantially in the Pointes since the one-year, state-mandated freeze ended Jan. 1 despite last year's decline in average sales prices of Pointe homes.

Assessments up in Pointes despite price decline in '92

Assessment increases in terms of average assessments rose to double digits in two of the Pointes - the Farms at 10.7 and the Park at 14.9 - in the figures released by the Michigan Department of Treasury last week.

The two Pointe municipalities were were among the 653, or 53 percent, of the 1.217 Michigan local units of government that increased average assessments by more than 10 percent, but all the Pointes escaped inclusion among the 128 local units that reported average increases of more than 20 percent.

Opinion

The percentage increases of assessments in the other Pointes were 9.1 for the City, 8.3 for the Shores and 8.2 for the Woods. That means that while the Pointes get some pain in the pocketbook, it is not as severe as the pain in more than half of the state's other communi-

The Treasury Department has warned that some of the data may be revised and that none of the figures include new construction. That could account for further increases, as in the past. In the Shores, for example, new construction boosted its total SEV from 1990 to 1991 by more than $24 million.

Several facts should be noted by individual homeowners as they look ahead to the taxes that will become payable in the

One is that these assessments are average figures, which means that in most communities, some assessments on individual homes are higher, some are lower and some even may be unchanged. Individual assessments set by the Pointe governments will go out to taxpayers later this month.

A second is that taxes will be based on the rate to be set this spring in each municipality as well as the assessment. Several of the Pointes expect to be able to reduce their rates and thus offset the assessment increase in whole or in part.

A third factor that serves as a possible limitation on tax rates is imposed by the Headlee Amendment. It limits windfall tax increases caused by rising property values to the rate of inflation, unless tax rates do not reach the authorized maximum or citizens vote to override the limi-

The five Pointes showed an overall decline of 4.1 percent in housing prices last year, but assessments are based in part on the sales record of the past two years. Prices of housing sold in 1991 were higher on the average than in 1992.

Whether the 1993 session of the Legislature will cut property taxes, as Gov. John Engler asked in his State of the State address, is still uncertain. But so is the fate of several tax shift plans being proposed by the Michigan Education Association, by individual legislators and by other interested parties.

We repeat what we said last year: Any major cut in the property tax without some provision for the reimbursement of local school districts for the revenues they would lose could be calamitous for the Grosse Pointe School District and other out-of-formula districts.

In effect, such a state plan would require local districts either to reduce the quality and cost of their programs or impose higher property taxes or some other tax to replace the revenue lost from the state's action.

That is not the wave of the future that Pointe homeowners prefer.

Later, in Washington attending the National Governor's Association conference Sunday, Engler even said he plans to hire 80 more state troopers by June and would not seek new cuts in Social Services, Mental Health or Corrections or school budgets despite a deficit of $400 million this year.

In addition, the governor for the first time said, according to the Detroit Free Press, that he might consider backing an increase in the state sales tax from 4 cents to 5 cents on the dollar to pay for schools, if his proposed property tax cut passes the Legislature this year.

As he had explained in his State of the State speech, he wants a new property tax relief plan which would call for a 20 percent cut in school property taxes to be phased in over three years and adjusted in later years to keep assessments in line with inflation.

But he did not offer any reimbursement plan, which would mean that school districts and other units of local government that depend on property tax revenues would face two unpleasant alternatives: either cut programs and services or raise

For 1993, however, even legislative adoption of Engler's proposed 10 percent cut in first year assessments would be unlikely to mean much of a tax saving from last year's property tax because property assessments already have been increased for 1993 by an average of 11 percent on state homeowners.

Unless there's a miraculous economic recovery in the state, however, the governor will face difficulty in balancing the budget without some kind of a shift in taxes, such as a hike to a 5 percent state sales tax that he now admits is a possibil-

Snake eyes?

's Detroit in such bad economic shape that introduction of legalized gambling is the last possible refuge for its desperate plight?

Well, maybe it is, as a Detroit News business columnist contended the other day. But the enthusiasm of some Detroit casino backers might cool if they had read a New York Times story last Sunday on Mississippi's Gulf Coast riverboat casinos which just opened for business last August.

It pointed out that the recent flood of entries into Mississippi's casino sweepstakes and into other area casinos guarantees so much competition that only the early entries will make money. Investors in shares in Mississippi's gaming business were advised they may roll snake and a good many other Democrats and Republicans backed his objections.

In view of Detroit's competitors in Windsor, Port Huron and other places already deep in plans, wouldn't the competition bring about the same result in Detroit?

Then the mail and phone calls began to descend on the capital, perhaps inspired by two factors: first, by the presidential campaign's promotion of debates, talk shows and other forums by which the public could express its views and, second, by citizens, especially older people, who saw it as a moral issue.

As a consequence, GOP leaders planned to attach a rider to any new legislation in order to reaffirm the ban first ordered by President Ronald Reagan.

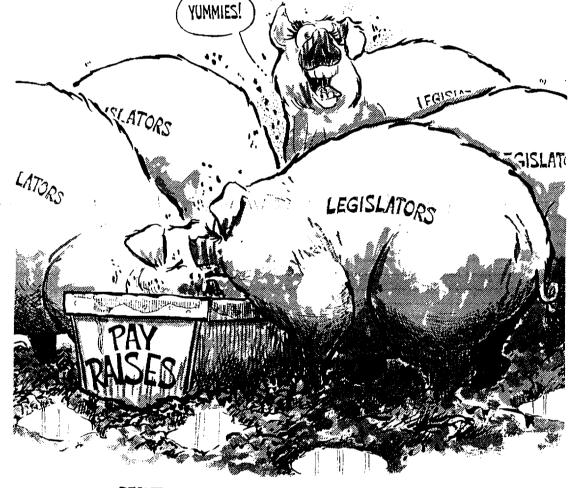

Meanwhile, the religous right got into the act, too. The Free Press identified one source as the Rev. Louis Sheldon, chairman of the Traditional Values Coalition, which said it had dispatched an "action alert" to 25,000 churches to lobby against lifting the ban.

As several political experts have pointed out, Clinton is expending, perhaps unwisely, political capital on a second-level issue that does not rate with the economy in national importance.

Yet Clinton's move can be defended as ending a form of discrimination under which the military of necessity retains "closet" homosexuals unless or until identified - but denies entrance of any open homosexuals to the services.

The question remains whether the public, Congress and the military will accept Clinton's compromise calling for a sixmonth delay during which public hearings would be held. Clinton then plans to issue an executive order emphasizing the military's right to proscribe improper conduct for anyone in the armed forces.

As columnist Anthony Lewis of the New York Times points out, "The Clinton plan does not condone any improper sexual conduct," but "just stops the witch hunt for people who are gay."

Letters

For all people

To the Editor:

In response to Carrie Donaldson's letter last week, "Woman sailor:'

Let me say you are absolutely right. My intentions were never to describe cap-tains as "male" and the ignorant as "female."

Please allow me to stand corrected that this course is for ALL people who sail with captains, i.e., crew, family members, fishing buddies and guests alike.

Saving lives and boating safety is a growing primary concern as year after year our lakes get more crowded and radio channels become more congested. Education for all people is a must. Thank you for your response.

Jonathan Hart

Advice

To the Editor:

Last week, we inaugurated a new president. As patriotic Americans, we all wish him well. As typical Americans, we also offer him some advice.

1. With some of the $20 billion for economic stimulus, purchase a cigar store in downtown Washington. Al Gore can be effective by standing in front, and you won't have to worry about him standing behind you.

2. Pardon William Christopher, secretary of state, in advance. He has lied to Congress before, give him a chance to do it worry free.

3. Give Zoe Baird, attorney general designate, the Haitian boat people problem. She's an expert on illegal aliens.

4. See if Hillary can find the names and addresses of the 17 Nobel Laureate economists quoted as the bible for economic policy. Someone lost touch with them.

5. Make Lloyd Bentsen, secretary of the treasury, give you his wife's cookbook. Imagine a breakfast for $10,000 a plate, that brought people from all over the country to the Bentsen Texas home. Man that's cooking!

6. Since the defense cuts will empty the Pentagon, convert it to housing for homeless. That will free up the Washington benches for destitute generals.

7. Make Ron Brown's, secretary of commerce, law firm the designated lobbyists for the Clinton Administration. They do most of it now. It won't stop the lobbying, but it will all be in one place, and maybe you can tax it.

Wonderful

To the Editor:

Another wonderful experience! It was the fundraiser for the Grosse Pointe Symphony. Our local musical people contributed their talents and, combined with the orchestra, gave a truly beautiful concert.

It is amazing what a reservoir of high quality musical ability and achievement we have. Thank you to all the fine people who performed to help the symphony and to give us a concert lovely to remember.

Ruth Jinks Grosse Pointe Park

The gnome lives — in memory and perhaps in secret recesses of city

One of the many landmarks of old Detroit was, of all things, a gnome. For years he was a major attraction at the foot of Woodward, as the older generation referred to the location.

Outlined in bright lights, he refilled glass after glass of sparkling ginger ale, simulated by lights. It was quite a sight, and also very inviting.

But the gnome is no more. He was taken over by the Pepsi generation.

It was a sad state of affairs for those who were in Detroit long enough to recognize the logo. He was as much a part of the local scene as any number of real-life notables who became synonymous with the city

For the enlightenment of those who never knew him, he was the winsome little fellow in the green suit and matching cap who presided over those casks that contained the world's best soft drink - Vernor's ginger ale.

"Aged in Wood" was its claim to fame and children and adults alike never questioned the statement. In their mind's eye they envisioned the little gnome and all his fellow gnomes manfully rolling barrels of the sparkling essence into a secret recess in a cellar deep in the innermost depths of the city, letting it set until the flavor and color, like no other, developed.

Senior men to meet Feb. 9

The Senior Men's Club of Grosse Pointe will meet at the War Memorial, 32 Lakeshore, at 11 a.m. Tuesday, Feb. 9

Dr. V. Bruce Rigdon, senior pastor of Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, will talk about "Russia Today."

Special events for February will be an afternoon trip to Focus: HOPE, the largest nonprofit organization in metro-Detroit, with an annual budget of $87 million.

The Rev. Bill Cunningham and Eleanor Josaitis, co-founders, will host a tour of the machinist training center for advanced technologies and fast track, all of which are preparing youth for the year 2000.

The cost will be $10, which will cover the bus trip and refreshments. Buses depart from the Grosse Pointe Memorial Church parking lot Feb. 10 at 1:30 p.m. and return about 3:30

For reservations and information, call Sheldon Flynn at 882-8404

Then, and only then, did they tap the barrels.

It was fun to imagine the delight and pleasure they might have experienced at the first taste of the just-right sweetness of the golden concoction. Did they hold a secret ceremony to celebrate the magical essence of the brew?

We were certain that those who partook of the finished product were quaffing more than a soft drink. They were drinking a magical elixir, a drink beyond the human ken to imagine, something born of the mystery of hidden cellars and the power of the Druid of the wood. Out of such conjectures was folklore made.

If the process was secret, the merchandising was not. For all their other-worldiness, those gnomes were down-to-earth merchandisers. They established themselves right in the hub of the city. From that strategic point came innumerable thirsty customers who never passed beyond the intriguing giant-sized glass that slowly filled up.

By Marian Trainor

Parents and children, retirees and those on a holiday would come off the Bob-Lo boat after a day on the island with one thought in mind; to top off the day by stopping at Vernor's.

If you had been careful with your money, you could add to the memorable elixer by ordering a Boston cooler, a drink made rich and creamy with the added pleasure of sweet cream mixed in with the golden sweetness of Vernor's

If you had spent all of your money on rides and saved just enough for a glass of ginger ale, you still felt blessed.

After walking around the island, running from one attraction to another and dancing on the boat, you were ready for this very special refreshment.

If this rhapsody seems to be overdrawn, it should be rememour citizenry was not as indulged as it is now.

Automobiles were a luxury. There were no bargain airfares and there was no television. A trip to Bob-Lo and a stop at Vernor's was often the highlight of a summer vacation.

It was saved for, planned for and even used by parents frazzled from arbitrating back yard disagreements as a threat, such as, "If I have to come out once more to settle arguments — no trip to Bob-lo, and even if we do go, I'm not taking you to Vernor's.

Believe it or not, it worked. Who wants the highlight of a vacation shot over whose turn it was to be up at bat?

It should be remembered also that even in that dark age Vernor's came in a bottle. But everyone agreed that it didn't come up to the high standard of the inimitable drink that flowed from the taps at the foot of Woodward. Even drawn from a soda fountain's tap, it lost some of its essence.

One does not live in a time warp. Progress and economics work their ways even in the caverns of the gnomes. What is prized by one generation as the ultimate is reorganized and streamlined to conform with what is expedient.

And so in the course of events, the glass that so invitingly hung from the porticos of Detroit's most famous drink was dismantled, the gnome disappeared and the operation moved to a more efficient plant farther out Woodward. Ripping this piece of history from the tapestry of Detroit's historical background leaves a gaping hole in the chronicles of the life and times of the city.

But perhaps somewhere in the secret recess of our city where dwell elves and other small creatures, the Vernor's gnome lives on ...

About trees

To the Editor:

The following letter was sent to a Woods resident and is reprinted here at the request of the writer.

The city of Grosse Pointe Woods thanks you for your letter of Dec. 22. It is important to us that we hear from our citizenry whenever they have concerns.

Our city believes the planting, maintenance and protection of our public trees is an important part of the community. In 1978 Grosse Pointe Woods instituted a Community Tree Commission to help plan the reforestation of the Woods Our entire area had been devastated by Dutch elm disease.

As a member of the Tree Commission I can assure you that we spend hundreds of hours each year planning for reforestation. In addition, we spend countless hours educating the people of our community about the importance of

The Tree Commission works closely with the council, city administration and the Department of Public Works to provide the best forestry program possible, and one which we can afford.

Our forestry program includes the planting of trees each fall to replace those that have fallen to storms or disease. This is a monumental task. There have been years when the number of lost trees is double what we can afford to re-

Many trees lost are in poor health or are types unsuitable for street planting. The pruning of trees is essential to keeping as many trees healthy as possible on public as well as private property. Diseased and damaged limbs are not always visible to those on the ground.

Piano workshop planned

Reservations are being taken for the Macomb Community College 1993 Annual Summer Piano Workshop, held at Macomb Center for the Performing

The week-long workshop runs from Sunday, Aug. 1, through Friday, Aug. 6, and is for all pianists 7 through 18 with all keyboard levels and interests.

This year's program, under Director Laura Impastato, includes rhythm and theory clinics, electronic keyboards, master classes, private lessons, concerts, performance opportunities and "How to" seminars relating to competition, practice and preparation for competi-

Those registering before May 15 will receive a $15 discount off the total cost of the work-

Registration, tuition and other information may be obtained by calling the workshop coordinator, Janet Corriveau,

Our city forester oversees the trimming of municipal trees and sometimes must make decisions as to what is best for the tree and what is best for our community.

Trees that lose limbs or topple over are a danger and an inconvenience for our citizens, not to mention a tremendous liability. The power outages of the last few years are a testament to the problems fallen trees can cause.

Our city is divided into eight maintenance areas. On a rotating basis maintenance tasks such as tree trimming are done. Please see your 1993 city calendar, the page above January 1993 for the full schedule. Tree trimming will not be done again in your area for eight years except for emergencies, mostly caused by accidents and wind, ice and snow storms.

Young trees are especially important to us. Each year our city plants nearly 100 two-inch diameter specimens on the tree lawns of our city. These trees must be cared for in such a manner that their lower branches do not do harm nor are harmed by cyclists or vehicles. Therefore, these trees require trimming in a different manner than those on private property.

Enclosed is a picture of a beautiful Norway maple that was struck by a snowplow on Jan. 10. The tree could not be saved and has since been removed by the DPW. This accident could have been caused by any large truck traveling down the street.

The branch that was hit by the truck would have been removed this spring by our trimming crews, thus saving the tree. Nearly 25 years of growing time was lost in this accident.

You are encouraged to call our city forester, Joseph Shock, at 343-2460, if you have further questions or concerns. We also invite you to attend one of our meetings. They take place the first Wednesday of each month in the conference room at City Hall. The times and dates of other commission meetings are listed in your city calendar. Thank you again for your show of concern.

Sacrifice?

To the Editor:

Your editorial "Renewal to require sacrifice" published on Jan. 28, echos President Clinton's call to the American people for additional sacrifice in order to solve the country's current economic problems.

I, for one, am sick and tired of the political, cultural and media elite, who all profited handsomely during the same "decade of greed" which they now condemn, attempt to make the rest of us feel pangs of guilt which can only be relieved by more "sacrifice."

I have been and continue to sacrifice over one-third of my income to the government, and what do I receive for this sacrifice? Combat-zone cities, an ever increasing welfare state supported by fewer and fewer taxpayers, public schools intent on teaching alternative lifestyles instead of reading and writing, confiscatory tax policies, myriad regulations to understand and abide by, and the ever-present threat of a lawsuit if my behavior and actions are not constantly perfect.

Yet those who call for "more sacrifice" exempt themselves from the laws and rules which the rest of us abide by. They exercise school choice while most Americans cannot. And they vote themselves pay raises, at our expense.

During difficult economic times, most of us exercise fiscal restraint by living within our means and making the necessary sacrifices.

Unfortunately, the leadership in Washington has exempted itself from sacrifice, yet they expect us to dig a little deeper and pay more taxes so that their lives are never touched by the shadow of sacrifice.

Shame on the Grosse Pointe News for endorsing such hypocrisy.

Form addresses patient's fear of being kept artificially alive that no one could really say

Most people have heard the story of 32-year-old Nancy Cruzan, who was left in a persistent vegetative state after a shocking car accident. Kept alive by a respirator, her parents battled the courts for years to allow their brain-dead daughter to die, but with no

Nancy had repeatedly told friends and family prior to the accident that she did not want to live if she was ever catastrophically injured. These wishes, however, were never written down, so the court concluded wanted. Being kept artifically alive without any means of communicating one's wishes could be counted among people's worst fears. Yet, it is a fear that can be addressed in Michigan through the Durable Power of Attorney for Health Care form.

what Nancy would have

Letting others know your wishes when you are unable to express them yourself is what the Durable Power of Attorney for Health Care form is all about. It allows a person to appoint another individual to make decisions about their care, custody and medical treatment in the event they are not able to make those decisions for themselves.

It is not the same as a living will, which is simply written instructions. The living will is not recognized under Michigan law, so there is no legal protection for physicians who follow instructions stated in a living

The Durable Power of Attorney for Health Care form, however, ensures that a patient's desire to accept or refuse medical treatment is honored. It is important that the wish is expressed in a clear and convincing manner and that the patient has acknowledged that death could result.

The form gives physicians legal protection for their actions. It applies in all situations in which the patient can't make decisions for themselves, not just when they are terminally

There are, of course, limits to the form. For example, the patient advocate powers become effective only when a patient is unable to participate in medical decisions. Therefore, it is important to make arrangements prior to becoming ill or injured. A patient can revoke their Durable Power of Attorney for Health Care at any time.

Many individuals frightened by the prospect of a future on life support may have looked to physician-assisted suicide as an answer. Now that legislation has passed making physicianassisted suicide a felony, it is more important than ever that patients let their doctors, families and friends know their wishes in advance by filling out this form.

Durable Power of Attorney Health Care forms are available at most hospitals and from many physicians. You may send $2 for two forms to: Patient Advocate, P.O. Box 950, East Lansing, Mich. 48826.

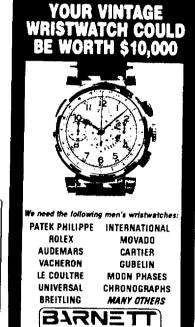

The above article was written by Thomas C. Payne, M.D., president of the Michigan State Medical Society, headquartered in East Lansing, representing 11,000 physicians throughout the state.

Auto analyst gives two thumbs up to Chrysler, Harley-Davidson

Ronald Glantz, Dean Witter Reynolds Inc. senior vice president and domestic auto industry analyst based in San Francisco, last week gave Chrysler Corp. the ultimate endorsement.

Remember the ad jingle, "Chrysler, Your Next Car is Chrysler"? While he didn't actually croon the little slogan from the past, Glantz was certainly singing the praises of the No. 3-and-growing automaker in his Jan. 28 talk before investors at the Ritz Carlton in Dearborn.

"As soon as the lease is up to my current car, I'm getting an LH," he told several hundred men and women gathered in a large conference room at the posh hotel.

It was one of several forums arranged for investors, business people and the press by Dean Witter, according to Joseph Jennings, Dean Witter associate vice president who a day earlier had accompanied Glantz to an interview with the editorial staff at Automotive News.

"This is the fourth time I've heard him," he said in Dearborn. "While his presentation is basically the same, he adds new things with different groups, and of course the question-and-answer session is never the same twice.'

And if Glantz isn't observed soon in the city on the bay in a Concorde, Interpid or Vision, try looking for the analyst on a Harley. He loves Harley-Davidson's performance - in the market, anyway.

At a similar round of talks in Detroit last winter, Glantz had painted a gloomy picture of Chrysler's economic condition. Now, he said, he "wholeheartedly recommends" Chrysler.

"Just because I track these companies doesn't mean I recommend them," he said, adding that a cautionary "hold" rating on Ford and General Motors "is bullish for me about these guys.

A few days earlier, on a difafterent occasion, a Chrysler observer said that once LH had been thought to mean Last Hope. Now, he said, it means "Latest Hit."

Glantz agreed. The company's product lineup is strong. The new Grand Cherokee is selling well. The LH sedans are off to a good start. The PL replacements for Sundance and Shadow look excellent and a revised mini van and some trucks will complete the pack-

General Motors, he said, doesn't have any new product waiting in the wings. The General does, however, have a management team Glantz himself would have picked. "These are people with a great sense of urgency who are running General Motors," he said. "But there seems to be a new problem under every rock.

Look for announcements of GM production cuts by early February, he said. Sales so far this calendar year have not matched output, said Glantz, who predicted 14.1 million cars and trucks will be sold in the United States by 1993.

GM is suffering the ill-will of unhappy dealers and cynical customers, he said. The new top management team is composed of "mavericks," guys who earlier would have been shunted off to Saturn Division, he said. GM is not modernizing itself adequately, he said. There's confusion within the corporation.

Glantz thinks another problem is GM's unwillingness to listen to non-GM owners. He said he has suggested to the company that it survey people who don't own its cars to find out what they'd like. To date, he hasn't won the suggestionof-the-month award.

"I love the Windstar, Ford's replacement for the Aerostar,' he said. But, he said, it's late in the cycle of both Ford and General Motors stocks.

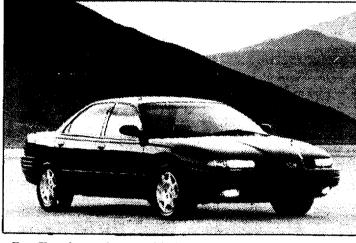

"There are 225 public companies related to the auto industry," Glantz said. "I don't follow all of them, but I do have some favorites, including Excel (glass), OEA (air bag components) and Amcast (aluminum wheels).

Aftermarket parts makers especially those who produce non-crash parts — face a weak market. Cars are being built better and better. Consequently, they don't require as many replacement parts as they once did, Glantz said.

With driver and passenger air bags required in all new passenger cars by 1998, components producers face a rosy future, he said. And OEA, a wellestablished aerospace company that started working with Mercedes-Benz on air bags for cars over a decade ago, is one of his favorites. Not only will front bags be mandatory, some makers are including side and rear bags in future product designs.

Modular windows, which require no last-minute assembly on the line, also are showing up in designs in greater numbers. And, he said, Excel Industries is still on his recommended list.

But Harley-Davidson? Glantz said if a Harley buyer goes into a dealer and is willing to settle for any color, he or she might take delivery in four months. Favorite 1993 models already are sold out, even though they haven't been assembled by the Wisconsin-based builder.

Several people in the audience had Harley stories to share with the group during the question-and-answer session. All said Harley owners today can ride for nothing: buy it, use it and then sell it for more than you paid for it.

Glantz said the company hasn't been in the investor limelight yet. But it won't be a secret much longer, he said.

"Once it has a five-year record, more people will be interested in it." A third Harley assembly line is under consideration, he said.

And a Toyota truck plant in the United States is a certainty, he said. Honda probably will, too, if protectionists prevail with continued and increased tariffs. Many see protectionism as a bail-out for the UAW, Glantz said, adding that he is in favor of the North American Free Trade Agreement, even though he believes it will hurt workers in the north. The benefits will outweigh the costs, he said.

The stock market in general will do well this year, Glantz predicted. "Now that we've accepted a new administration suddenly, after the election, Bush was the bad guy, we got rid of the wicked witch and the new president was going to do this and going to do that — the market is poised to grow."

To remind parents to "Buckle Up for Love" by using child safety seats or safety belts whenever they transport children, AAA Michigan joins the nation in observing Child Passenger Safety Awareness Week, Feb. 8-14.

In Michigan, 21 passengers under the age of 5 were killed and 2,636 injured on state roads in auto accidents during 1991. Three-fourths of all passengers under 4 use child restraints, but the older the child, the lower the percentage of compliance. In fact, a recent University of Michigan study indicates that young people 4 to 15 have one of the lowest safety belt use rates (39.3 percent) of all age groups.

According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, as many as 49,000 injuries and 455 deaths could have been prevented in the United States during 1991, if every child 5 or younger had been correctly secured in a child safety seat.

Currently, each of the 50 states has some type of child restraint law. In Michigan, all children under 16 must wear some type of safety restraint when riding anywhere in a vehicle. Specifically, the current Child Passenger Safety Law (enacted April 1, 1991) requires

• Children under 1 must be in an approved safety seat whenever they are seated. If under 20 pounds, they should face the rear of the seat;

• Children 1 to 4 must be in an approved safety seat in the front seat. When riding in the back, they must be protected by an approved safety seat or safety belt:

Children 4 to 16 must also be protected by a safety belt, wherever they are seated.

Regardless of the make or model, a safety seat must be used correctly if it is to provide adequate crash protection.

If a second-hand seat is used. make sure it was manufactured after Jan. 1, 1981, when child safety seats were required to meet federal standards. For information regarding recalls or defects in child safety seats, call the NHTSA "Auto Safety Hotline" at 1-800-424-9393, between 8:15 a.m. and 4:15 p.m.

AAA Michigan, in conjunction with the Office of Highway Safety Planning, maintains a list of agencies across the state that will rent or loan child safety seats. Costs range from free to $25 a year. Nearly all agencies require a deposit ($6-$35), which generally is refunded when the seat is returned. For more information, call 336-1410.

There's a Big Degree Of Difference Between Our Emergency Department and Others.

That difference can be seen on the walls of our Emergency Department — in the credentials of board-certified physicians and nurses specially trained in emergency care.

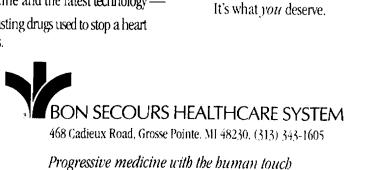

More importantly, that difference can be felt by our patients who receive the most advanced medicine and the latest technology —

Like clot-busting drugs used to stop a heart attack in its tracks.

Or, highly advanced CT scanners, which produce faster images to detect everything from orthopedic injury to tumors.

And treatment by staff who specialize in saving lives.

It's what we expect.

Fishy friends may be just the pets you need

Thinking of getting a pet but aren't quite sure what kind would best suit your lifestyle? The key to choosing the perfect pet for you lies in considering the pet's needs first.

Because a pet depends on its owner for survival, if the owner can't adequately provide for the pet's needs due to schedules, finances, etc., the pet becomes the innocent victim of human selfishness.

There are many different types of pets to choose from dogs and cats aren't the only ones who make great compan-

Sometimes the best pets are fish. Fish are low maintenance pets, but because they require less time and attention than the average non-aquatic pet, doesn't mean fish can survive in unhealthy conditions.

Care must be given to setting up and maintaining your fish's house. Generally, a pet fish, like a goldfish, can be kept in a clear fish bowl, but when acquiring a greater number and variety fish, an aquarium is the best home. Make sure to check whether different species can live together harmoniously in the same aquarium.

Common fishy hazards to avoid when setting up Gill's house and caring for him and his pals are overcrowding, overfeeding and changing water temperature.

A trick to determining what size fish tank or aquarium to put your aquatic friends in is to allow one gallon of water for every inch of fish. This prevents overcrowding. For example, let's say you buy a 10-gallon tank. Then the maximum number of fish that could com-

Tax relief will hurt

The governor has set forth, in his State of the State message, a new property tax relief measure, but it is one which would take away our school tax base with no reimbursement of the loss.

I cannot support the proposal as made. If we can add a provision to provide reimbursement or to tie the proposal to legislation which would give the reimbursement, then I could support could also support the Headlee initiative proposal of last year, for property tax relief. That proposal would cut property tax but replace the lost revenue.

Really, though, as I have said many times, I do not feel it is necessary to provide property tax relief to everyone. Why not provide it just to those who need it? We can do that by raising the property tax credit limit to where it should be. The limit is now $1,200, and should be $2,500.

And if it is determined the state budget cannot withstand further lost revenue, since it is already in difficulty even though the economy and state revenues are beginning to turn upward, we could scale the relief down to where we could pay for it with a tobacco tax fortably populate the waters would be 10 one-inch or 20 half-inch adult fish.

Feeding Gill and his tankmates is easy if you apply this simple rule: Feed adult fish once a day and only provide as much food as they can eat in a five-minute period. Adding too much food usually means leftovers, which can cause water contamination.

It's important to avoid varying water temperature in the tank. Test the water daily to make sure the temperature remains constant. Âbrupt changes in water temperature can have a negative, and sometimes fatal, effect on fish. You can buy a tank thermometer for easy daily readings. Most fish are comfortable in water anywhere from 72 degrees to 78 degrees Fahrenheit, but ask the sales person for specific information on whatever fish you purchase. .

Fish are quite active and often flop and jump, so make sure you cover the tank to keep Gill and his friends from tossing themselves out of their house. Also, covering the tank helps control water evaporation and shields the water from dust and dirt. And it helps discourage curious creatures like landloving pets or tiny people from accidentally harming Gill.

Bringing new fish friends home can be traumatic - for them. Get them accustomed to their new home slowly. Don't just open the container and dump them into the tank. This will shock their system and actually make them sick. Try floating your fish first by gently lowering the bag they come in into the tank. This gradually balances the internal and external water temperatures, decreasing the possibility of shock to Gill's system.

Although you may be eager to reap the soothing rewards of watching a tankful of fish at play, it is wise to build your fish population slowly. Only add a few fish to the aquarium at first, allowing the proper water environment to develop for the fish. Ask about including "scavengers" in your fish tank. Scavengers, such as catfish and plecostomus, help keep the tank clean by eating the algae that builds up in the tank, and they also eat any leftover food, giving it less chance to contaminate the water.

The recommended place to purchase your fish and supplies is at a store specializing in fish and aquatics. There are other places that sell fish, but you may feel more comfortable knowing the fish you're investing in are healthy and were taken care of properly before you bought them.

Your nearest aquarium or pet shop can provide you with all the information you'll need to raise healthy fish and live happily with your new scaly

By John Miskelly

Bob Bopp's first experience with the Grosse Pointe South-Grosse Pointe North hockey rivalry was just what the Blue Devils' coach expected.

"I thought it would be like Bopp said after South beat the Norsemen 5-1 last week before a loud, but wellbehaved crowd at the St. Clair Shores Civic Arena.

The kids on both teams did a great job. It was a good hockey game," Bopp said.

The large crowd was reminiscent of the days when Lakeview and Lake Shore were high school hockey powers and the two crosstown rivals played before packed houses.

North's newest swimmer takes role in stride

Anita Warner just wants to be one of the guys on Grosse Pointe North's swimming team.

But that's going to be difficult because the junior transfer student from University Liggett School is the only girl to swim on the Norsemen's boys squad.

"She's going to be a good addition to our team and she's eligible just in time for our two biggest dual meets in the (Macomb Area) conference against Ford and (Grosse Pointe) South," said coach Mike O'-Connor.

Michigan High School Athletic Association rules prevented Warner from competing for North during the fall girls swimming season. Students must sit out one semester after transferring - unless it involves a move to another school district - to discourage recruit-

Warner doesn't consider herself a groundbreaking feminist with a point to prove. She says she's just a swimmer grateful for the opportunity to compete.

"I tried not swimming last summer and did not like it at all," she said.

As far as being the lone female among 30 male swimmers on the North squad, she says with a laugh, "It's no big deal."

Warner moved to Michigan from the Philadelphia area in 1986. She has been swimming competitively since age 7. Her events are the 500-yard freestyle, 100 butterfly and the 200 individual medley and she usually finished first or second for ULS' coed swimming team.

Warner was a state finalist in the 1,650 freestyle, 100 butterfly and 200 butterfly in United States Swimming (USS) competition.

"Anita will be a big help in our attempt to win the dual MAC as well as the (conference meet) championship," O'Connor said. "She'll be a great asset to the girls team next year. She's a hard worker and a good stu-

With a grade-point average of 3.9, Warner is a potential Academic All-American.

Warner credits swimming with helping her in other phases of her life.

"Swimming has taught me a lot about responsibility," she said. "To be able to work out twice a day - before school at 5:30 a.m. and after school until 6 p.m. - and still get all your school work done, you must budget your time and be organized. Swimming has disciplined me in that respect."

Warner hopes to make the Michigan Interscholastic Coaches Association cutoff for the 500 freestyle and place among the top six in the MAC American Division meet.

Her long-range goal is to make the Junior National cut in the 200 butterfly and 500 freestyle before graduation.

Last week, North split a pair of non-conference meets. Sophomore Brett Collins, junior Steve Williams and senior Rusty Milne were triple winners in the Norsemen's 97-89 victory over U-D Jesuit.

All three were on the 200 and 400 freestyle relay teams that finished first. Collins won the 200 freestyle, Milne was first in the 100 freestyle and Williams took the 500 freestyle with a state-qualifying time.

North had personal bests from Jeff Shelden in the 100 individual medley (2:10.19), Chris Cooper in the 100 butterfly (1:12.28), Jeff Gillman in the 500 freestyle (5:57.17) and Matt Rector in the 100 frees-

In a 98-88 loss to Catholic Central, Williams won the 200 individual medley, Collins took the 200 freestyle, Milne won the 100 freestyle and Shelden was first in the 500 freestyle. Those four also made up the winning 400 freestyle relay

Shelden's 5:02.86 in the 500 was a personal best. Dan Schmaltz' winning score of 188.45 points in diving was a season's best. Other best times were posted by Rector, 100 freestyle, 59.80; Tibor Szabo, 500 freestyle, 6:00.01; Dennis Lex, 100 breaststroke, 1:18.6; and Cooper, 100 butterfly, Anita Warner is Grosse Pointe North's newest distance swimmer, joining, from left, John Finkelmann, Steven Williams, Brett Collins and Jeff Shelden. Warner was not eligible for North's girls team because she had to sit out a semester after transferring from University Liggett School so she began competing with the boys team this week.

South newcomer doing well

By Chuck Klonke

Sports Editor Geoff Prysak has been a welcome addition to Grosse Pointe South's swimming team this

"He played basketball and was out of the water for nearly was out of the water for nearly were each double winners in three years, but he's helped us the Utica meet. Vandeputte a lot by coming back," said Blue Devils' coach Fred Mihalik. "It's hard to be away from swimming for that long, but Geoff has a lot of talent.'

Prysak won two individual events in South's 115-66 victory over Utica in the Macomb Area Conference American Division last week, then qualified for the Class A state meet in the 100-yard breaststroke with a 1:03.08 in the Blue Devils' 106-77 non-league loss to powerful Dearborn.

South, which is 4-0 in the MAC and 4-2 overall, swims against Grosse Pointe North tonight, Feb. 4, at 7 p.m., in a meet that could decide the division's dual meet champion.

Prysak was also a member of the 200 medley relay team that posted a state qualifying time of 1:43.19 against Dearborn. Other members of the team were Brenn Schoenherr, John Peabody and Tim Harmount.

Mike Vandeputte and Prysak won the 200 freestyle in 1:59 and the 500 freestyle in 5:20.08. Prysak was first in the 200 individual medley (2:16.05) and the 100 breaststroke (1:03.29).

"I didn't know for sure if Vandeputte was ready because he's had a sore shoulder, but he swam well against Utica," Mihalik said.

Peabody, a freshman, won the 100 butterfly in 59.97 and Ryan Milligan was first in the 100 backstroke in 1:02.41.

Chad Hepner broke the varsity record in diving with 311.95 points.

"He's really been doing a su-per job," Mihalik said. "Now he's going after the pool record

Grosse Pointe North's Mike Brown set the pool record at North, which is the home pool for both schools, more than 20 years ago.

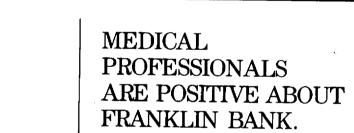

South's 200 medley relay team of Schoenherr, Prysak. Peabody and Harmount was first in 1:44.67, while the 200 freestyle relay team of Harmount, Schoenherr, Chris Jeffries and Rob Docherty had a winning time of 1:37.

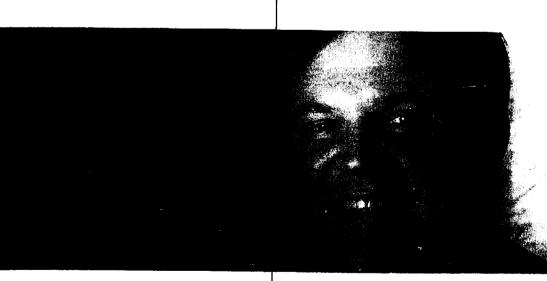

Mihalik also praised the efforts of freshman Nat Spurr, who took third in both the 200 and 500 freestyle events in 2:06 and 5:37, and Bob Tiede, who was second in diving with 184.45 points.

In the Dearborn meet, Hepner won the diving with 293.3 points and the 200 freestyle relay team of Peabody, Jeffries, Milligan and Docherty was first in 1:41.

South also had excellent swims from Rob Lloyd in the 100 butterfly (1:07.55); Spurr in

Knights chalk up their first victory

By Chuck Klonke Sports Editor

University Liggett School's basketball squad didn't look like a team trying to hang on to its first victory when it headed down the stretch against Harper Woods last

"We played with some confidence," said coach Chuck said coach Chuck Wright after the Knights ended their 10-game losing streak with a 62-51 Metro Conference victory over the Pioneers. "When Harper Woods scored a few points we didn't panic.

"Naturally, we're pleased at winning our first game, but we also believe we're capable of winning many more."

ULS scored eight straight points to break a 6-6 tie and the Knights never let Harper Woods get closer than six points the rest of the way. ULS led by 21 after outscoring the Pioneers 19-7 in the third quarter.

Vernon Pernell had what Wright called a "career game" as he scored 23 points, pulled down 13 rebounds and played well defensively. Joe Grant and Steve Nanovski also had double-doubles. Grant collected 12 points, 11 rebounds and six assists, while Nanovski added 10 points and 10 rebounds.

One of the Knights' most impressive statistics was the 28 assists dished out by the team.

"We average about 15 a game, so I was really happy with the 28," Wright said. "We've been trying to improve our offense because we've scored in the low 40s a lot of games. We've stressed getting a good shot even if it takes a lit. tle longer to work the ball around. We want a good shot whether it takes one pass or Earlier, ULS fell to Hamtramck 61-40 in a league game that was much closer than the final score indicates.

The Cosmos jumped out to an early 16-6 lead, but the Knights cut the margin to 34-32 after three quarters. ULS tied the game at 36-all before the momentum switched to Hamtramck.

"Their press destroyed us the last five minutes of the game," Wright said. "We couldn't get the ball up the floor. It was frustrating because we handled Lutheran East's press so well.' ULS committed 26 turnovers in the game. Grant led the Knights in scoring with 19 points.

ULS visits Lutheran Westland on Friday.

Fencing finalists

Meredith Moore, left, of Grosse Pointe Park and Elaine Dennehy of Grosse Pointe Farms, both 15-year-old sophomores at Grosse Pointe South, have been selected as finalists from Michigan in the 1993 Junior Olympic fencing championships. Dennehy and Moore finished second and third, respectively, in the Under 17 womens' foil qualifier at the Grosse Pointe Neighborhood Club, which has the oldest active fencing program in Michigan. They will compete in the Junior Olympic championships on Saturday, Feb. 13, in Colorado Springs. Points and standings achieved in that event are the criteria for selection of the United States entries in the International Junior Olympics and the International Junior World championships. The other Grosse Pointer who competed in the qualifier was Angela Bokano, 17, of Grosse Pointe City. Bokano, a junior at South, was fifth in Under 20 womens' foil and is an alternate for the event in Colorado. All three girls have been fencing for a year and a half and are coached by Bryan Collins of Grosse Pointe Woods at the Grosse Pointe Condottiere Fencing Club.

South sparkles in volleyball defeat

By Chuck Klonke Sports Editor

It's a wonder West Bloomfield had enough energy left to beat Fraser in the championship match of the University of Michigan-Dearborn volleyball tournament after what Grosse Pointe South put the Lakers through in the semifinals. 'It was a brutal two-hour match," said Lady Devils' coach Cindy Sharpe. "Both teams were great defensively. Neither one of us could put the ball down on the court.'

South won the first game 15-8, but West Bloomfield came back to win the last two 15-12, 17-15.

"In that third game we each had 27 sideouts and with the 32 points, it means there were 86 rallies," Sharpe said. "My girls put forth such a team effort and worked so hard. I just wish I had that match on tape. Everybody was so into the game and so focused on not letting the ball hit the floor.'

Several South players battled through injuries.

'Stephanie (Coddens) was on the floor in pain at least three times and always came back," Sharpe said. "It was really a heroic performance. Angela (Drake) and Kelly Baker both were playing with sprained an-

Drake had 20 kills, Coddens picked up 11 and Kathy Schrage, who played excellent defense, added five. Susie Faremouth had 32 assists. Jeneane Farr came off the bench to contribute some key blocks. Amanda Defever also played

Lacrosse meeting

The Grosse Pointe South lacrosse club will have a parent/ player/coach signup meeting on Tuesday, Feb. 16, at 7:30 p.m. in Clemenson Hall.

The Blue Devils will compete in Division II of the Michigan Scholastic Lacrosse Association for the first time this season.

"This will allow us to be more competitive and to compete against local rivals Grosse Pointe North, University Liggett School and Notre Dame, said coach Hank Lewandowski, who thinks his team's experience will make it a contender for the Division II champion-

The Lady Devils won both of their Macomb Area Conference White Division matches in convincing fashion to improve to 7-0 in the league.

Drake and Coddens each had eight kills in a 15-4, 15-3 victory over Ford. Defever had four kills and Heather Dalby served nine points. Schrage played well in the back row.

ULS third in tourney

University Liggett School's volleyball team capped a successful week with a third-place finish in the Detroit Country Day Invitational.

The Lady Knights opened the week with a disappointing 15-2, 15-6, 9-15, 15-5 loss to Country Day.

"The girls just couldn't score offensively," said coach Ann Belloli. "Country Day just dug up everything we put over the net."

It was a different story two nights later against Hamtramck when ULS won the Metro Conference match 15-4, 15-7 with a strong effort from start to finish.

ULS finished second by a point in its pool and took third overall at the Country Day tournament with an 11-15, 15-9, 15-4 victory over Bloomfield Hills Sacred Heart Academy. It was the highest finish ever in a tournament for a ULS volleyball team.

"The girls really pulled it together as a team," said assistant coach Mike Brozowski. "It's the best they've played all season.'

In pool play, the Lady Knights beat Oakland Catholic 15-6, 15-5 and downed Kingswood 15-4, 15-4. ULS split its games with Country Day, losing 12-15 and winning 16-14.

The Lady Knights played well in the quarterfinals but lost to Redford St. Agatha 15-4, ULS is 6-4-1 overall.

Florida's park wars: Mickey against E.T.

It is a sight to see. Mickey Mouse and E.T. duking it out. King Kong going up against Miss Piggy. Indiana Jones battling against a high-speed mo-

And all of this is happening in the middle of Florida. Call it the battle of the movie theme

In recent years, two attractions have opened in the Orlando area, capitalizing on the huge crowds visiting Walt Dis-ney World. One is Universal Studios Florida and the other is the Disney-MGM Studios Theme Park.

Each was built by a major film studio and, in addition to housing an entire complex of studios and offices, is a full theme park complete with rides, food, live shows and stu-similar attractions focusing on movie classics and more. The most popular ride is "E.T. Adventure" where you actually climb onto a bicycle (well, sort of) and ride off to save E.T.

Aladdin's entrance to Agrabah is a big draw at Disney's MGM theme park in Florida.

The Disney-MGM Studios park is located in the massive Disney complex, not far from Epcot Center. Universal Studios is located in Orlando near the junction of the Florida Turnpike and I-4. Daily admission at both parks is $34 for adults and $27 for children ages 3-9. The hours and show times vary with the season.

Here is a run down: The Disney park features both great MGM and Disney films, so there is an interesting mix. The big hit at this park is the new and not-to-be-missed "Muppet Vision 3-D" show which will charm kids of all ages. This gimmicky presentation in its own theater takes 3-D to new dimensions (bad pun).

Also well worth seeing is the "Indiana Jones Stunt Spectacular." My husband, in particular, enjoyed this show which not only featured spectacular stunts, but demonstrated how they are done.

The newest technology in attractions seems to be action simulators. That is, you sit in some kind of room or "vehicle" and then it "moves" in such a way as to make you feel like you are traveling at great speeds. For example, Epcot Center uses one of these to take you on a trip through the human body in its Wonders of Life pavilion.

At the MGM park, simulators are used in the "Star Wars Thrill Ride" and at Universal they are used for the "Back to the Future . . . The Ride." In both cases, the effects are pretty spectacular and can shake you up a bit. There is little wonder that pregnant women, heart patients and small children are warned off.

Also at MGM, you will see lots of Disney characters. Right now they are heavily into promoting the studio's newest release with a daily paradestyle show called "Aladdin's Royal Caravan" which depicts the prince's grand entrance into the city of Agrabah. There are also live shows featuring "Beauty and the Beast" and "The Little Mermaid."

There are backstage and special effects tours and the opportunity to be in the studio audience for the filming of such television shows as "Full House," "Siskel & Ebert" and "The Mickey Mouse Club" this spring.

For details, call Walt Disney World Guest Information at (407) 824-4321 or write Guest Letters, Box 10040, Lake Buena Vista, FL 32830-0040.

Grapes are fun, fresh healthy treats

While the origin of grape cultivation is obscured by time, scientific evidence indicates vines were propagated as long ago as 4,000 B.C. near Bronze Age dwellings in Switzerland.

The Bible includes numerous references to grape growing, including the cultivation of vines by Adam and Eve.

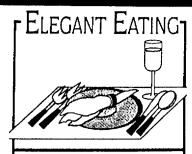

Experts speculate that cultivation of grapes spread to Europe in a number of ways over the centuries. Initially, knowledge of grape cultivation is thought to have spread from Asia Minor to Greece and Italy, while the seafaring Phoenicians brought grapes to France, and the expanding Roman Empire brought grape cultivation to the rest of Europe.

The first European visitors to North America, the Norse voyagers, found native grapes so abundant that they called the country Vinland. Settlers in Virginia found great vines climbing over the trees, particularly near the streams. But because of the poor quality of the wild grapes, every effort was made to transplant exceptional European vines. Research indicates that most of the grapes produced in America today are of the European grape stock.

Although early Americans grafted the European stock to the hardier native American vine stock, today's species are direct descendants of those same vines grown in prehistoric

Grapes are prominent in paintings through the ages and have appeared in Egyptian tomb paintings, in 19th century still-lifes such as Caravaggio's Bacchus, and in the "fractured" cubist grapes of Braque.

Today, an estimated 8,000 varieties of grapes are cultivated, although only 15 to 20 of those are grown extensively as table grapes.

Grape growing is America's largest fruit industry, with grapes grown in every state in the nation, and are second only to apples as the top-producing fruit crop in the United States. California is by far the country's biggest producer growing 97 percent of the nation's table grapes. In fact, California outproduces every grape-growing country in the world.

California has also taken the lead in developing new varieties of commercial table grapes. Recent developments include not only grapes that mature earlier and later to extend the fresh grape season, but development of a number of delicious seedless varieties.

Eaten fresh or tossed into salads, entrees or desserts, grapes add flavor, color and texture to every meal. Creative snacks are easy to make just by adding grapes to foods already on hand. And remember, grapes are a source of necessary vitamins and minerals and have only about 100 calories per cup.

Try these grape ideas:

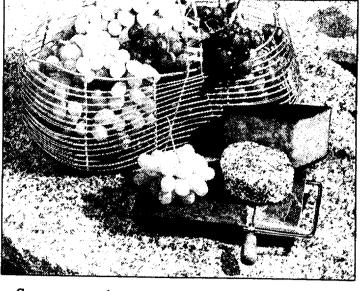

• Add grapes to cereal (hot or cold) or granola for flavor in the morning.

• Top a homestyle waffle with sour cream and grapes as part of a leisurely breakfast, or an indulgent afternoon snack.

• Stir grapes into regular yogurt, or plop onto frozen yogurt for a cool, fresh crunch.

· Add fresh grapes to any gelatin mixture for a fun tex-

• Stir grapes into a bran muffin mix and bake. Freeze the muffins for later use, or eat them fresh from the oven.

Grapes are good any time of the year.

 Dip seedless grapes into melted chocolate or caramel for a fast fondue.

Or try the following ideas.

Peanut Chocolate Grapes

1/2 cup each chunk-style peanut butter and dry milk powder

1/4 cup miniature chocolate chips 2 T honey

California seedless grapes

Powdered chocolate flavoring or cocoa, optional. Combine peanut butter, dry milk and chocolate chips; mix well. Work in honey, 1 tablespoon at a time. Form peanut butter mixture around individual grapes, covering entire surface before rolling in the palms of both hands to form balls about 1inch in diameter. Roll balls in powdered chocolate if desired.

Makes about 18 to 20 balls at 72 calories per ball. To store: Refrigerate in flat, covered con-

Grape Pita Toast 2 pita bread

2 T olive oil 1 cup shredded monterey jack or medium cheddar 1 t dried basil, crumbled 1 t minced shallots

1 cup California seedless

Split pita bread into 2 rounds; brush rough surfaces with olive oil. Cut each round into 4 to 6 triangles. Toss cheese, shallots and basil until well mixed. Toast pita triangles at 400 F about 2 minutes. Place 3 or 4 grapes on each toasted triangle. Sprinkle cheese mixture over grapes. Bake 5 minutes longer at 400 F until cheese melts. Makes 16 to 24 snacks at 74 calories per triangle.

Grape Yogurt Delight 2 cups vanilla-flavored lowfat yogurt

1-1/2 cups California red, green, or blue/black grapes, halved and seeded if necessary

1 T grated orange peel 1/2 t ground cinnamon

Combine all ingredients, mix thoroughly and refrigerate. Spoon into serving dishes for snack or light dessert. Or serve over hot or cold cereal. Makes 3-1/2 cups.

Abused, neglected teenage girls learn Barat House: self-respect through 'loving discipline'

Jannie Hicks is a "Mom" as well as a cook for the girls at Barat House.

By Margie Reins Smith

Feature Editor
Jannie Hicks stirred a huge pot of homemade chicken noodle soup that simmered on the back burner of an institutional-size stove.

Hicks prepares three meals a day for two dozen hungry girls at Barat House, a home for abused and neglected teenage girls in Detroit's cultural center. Her kitchen door is always open.

The girls call her "Mom," and she is the heart of Barat House.

"I tell the girls 'when you come in my kitchen I get a hug first," Hicks said. "These shoulders are wide enough for 24 girls to cry on."

Barat House is one of two programs under the umbrella of Barat Human Services, a private nonprofit agency dedicated to preventing and breaking the cycles of abuse, neglect and delinquency.

It is a residential program for neglected, dependent and/or emotionally disturbed girls between 13

"We try to provide a home-like atmosphere," said Jeannine Gant, director of development and marketing for Barat Human Services. "Many of the girls have no concept of what a family is like, except what they see on TV.'

Barat girls live in dormitorystyle rooms, each with one or two roommates. Their own personal space is decorated with typical teenage girl "stuff" such as bulletin boards, boom boxes, stuffed animals, baskets of cosmetics and hair accessories, books, plants and pictures. Every bed is neatly made and covered with a colorful bedspread.

They gather for meals in a communal dining room next to Hicks' kitchen with its wide-open door. Those who want to can help prepare meals and accompany her on grocery shopping expeditions.

"They learn a lot. I make them feel at home, because it is their home. We all work together," Hicks said.

All the girls attend school during the day. During study hours, they use Barat's two study rooms and Detroit schools provide tutors five days a week, year-round.

Girls are referred to Barat House by the Department of Social Services. The average length of stay is 10 to 12 months.

"They stay here until they can be placed in a positive environment," Gant said. "Sometimes that environment is the girl's own home; sometimes it's with a relative or in an approved foster care home; and some girls are old enough and ready to live independently.'

"Our goal is to work with the girls and reunite them with their families — or a responsible family member - whenever possible,' said Diane Bostic Robinson, executive director of Barat Human Ser-

Gant said the facility has successfully placed 78 percent of its former residents.

Barat House is not a lock-up, she added. Residents aren't delinquent, but many have problems dealing with authority.

"There's a lot of acting-out behavior," she said. "The problems they have are the kinds of problems to be expected from abused and neglected children.'

"Many of the girls haven't learned what loving discipline is," Hicks said. "I tell them, 'You have to respect yourself. You're at home. Treat each other with respect."

"Some are runaways," Robinson said. "Some are angry; some have low self-esteem; some are having trouble academically. Often they come from families with unrealistic expectations and lots of communication problems. We recently began a parent support group that's very successful.'

Every girl has chores and each earns points toward special privileges by completing those chores, attending school and cleaning her room, said Dorothy Howard, senior child care coordinator.

Howard and other staff members consider themselves role models. The staff includes a program director, two senior child care workers, nine child care workers who work in shifts, several relief workers, an educational coordinator, two social care workers, a psychologist, a housekeeper and a cook (a.k.a. "Mom").

Hugs are dispensed freely and often at Barat House.

"I like the 'Mom' role best," Hicks said.

The other program under the Barat Human Services umbrella is Barat Family Center, which provides outreach programs for children and parents and is designed to prevent and treat abuse and neg-

Both programs are funded by the Michigan Department of Social Services, the United Way of Southeastern Michigan, charitable contributions and private donations.

Recent funding cutbacks have hurt deeply.

The Friends of Barat Human Services, co-founded by Grosse Pointer Beth Crane, is a voluntary organization that helps raise money for Barat by holding benefits and special events and soliciting contributions of money, time and equipment.

Darlene Soave of Grosse Pointe Farms has been actively involved with Barat for three years. She was honorary chairman for the charity preview parties for the 1990 and 1991 Detroit auto shows. The most recent preview raised $75,000 for Barat.

Soave and her husband also donate tickets and a private room for Barat girls to attend special events at Joe Louis Arena and the Palace.

Mary Barton of Grosse Pointe Farms is a board member of the Friends and works on the group's fundraiser, Brunch for Barat.

'At last December's brunch at the Country Club of Detroit," Gant said, "a former resident came back to speak to the group. She's 21. She's going to go to college. She

"She planned to talk just a few minutes about what Barat House meant to her. But she tossed her notes aside and told us about how she had been neglected; how she had attempted suicide; about her pregnancies. Then she described how Barat House helped.

"There wasn't a dry eye at the club," Gant said.

The Pastor's Corner We need each other

The Rev. Robert E. Neily St. Michael's Episcopal Church

A person who had always wondered what the real difference was between heaven and hell prayed for some sort of curiosity revelation, and one day God answered his prayer.

Churches

The person first visited hell and was absolutely flabbergasted to find no fire, no flames, no pointed-tail devil - only a crowd of angry, grumbling people seated around large wooden tables. At each place was a large wooden bowl of food and a 10-foot-long wooden spoon. By pushing and shoving and banging elbows, the people somehow managed to get their long spoons into the bowls, but they were completely unable to turn the spoons around to get them into their mouths. That frustration and the accompanying bitterness and bickering were apparently the hell of it.

The person was then allowed a glimpse of heaven and was amazed to discover the same massive wooden tables, the same huge wooden bowls of food, and the same 10-foot-long wooden spoons. But in heaven there was a spirit of peace, thoughtfulness - even joy. In heaven the people were feeding each other.

Now, obviously, if we are planning to spend an eternity in heaven, we had better start learning now how to feed and care for one another. Or perhaps we can continue fighting for what we want, without ever getting it, in the hellish alternative.

We need each other. That's one of the basic tenets of the Christian faith. St. Paul uses the analogy of the body. The body, he says, does not consist of one member but of many. There are many members, yet one body. If one member suffers, all suffer. If one organ of the body is sick then the whole body is diseased. If one is in pain the whole body is in pain.

A modern version of the body analogy is that of a space ship — the spaceship Earth — with limited resources, limited space, which means that we must all help each other. We are all members of the crew. We must cooperate or we aren't going to make it.

We need each other. Another analogy is that of a family thrown together for a reunion. We are all related. We are all cousins, we just haven't met each other before. We need to get acquainted and start acting like a caring family.

Or — we are like an orchestra, with beautiful music to play. We need to learn to play together, contributing our uniqueness, our knowledge, our skills and talents. These are all ways of saying what the Bible says: We need each other.

Bristow fizzle helps Barber symphony shine

By Alex Suczek Special Writer

In another artfully programmed concert, Neeme Jarvi treated the DSO audience to several contrasting treats and a lesson in musical quality. All the while, watching him and the orchestra interact was a lesson in symphonic unity.

It was most evident in the opening "Adagio for Strings" by Samuel Barber. This is a work of such clean and simple lines that there is no hiding behind big orchestral effects. The work is filled with suspensions that offer many pitfalls for the superficial conductor to lead his performance into bathos.

Jarvi negotiated the work with consummate skill, however, giving it not only immense dignity and power, but overwhelming drama. He gave full rein to the emotional content and carried its development without hesitation to a moving conclusion. The effect was overwhelming.

Turning then to overlooked American music, Jarvi offered Symphony No. 3 by George Frederick Bristow. The composer and the work are reflective of their mid 19th century origins and the opening movement reveals some debt to the great classical composers. Moreover, it has the glamorous touch of a prominent role for two harps strategically placed front stage right. If the first movement echoed of Beethoven and Schumann, the third did even more so of Mendelssohn.

Yet Bristow showed his own style and ideas and the work was extremely well orchestrated. Only the ideas, while interesting, lacked conviction or grandeur and their development was neither strong nor consistent. Jarvi and the orchestra probably gave the piece a better performance than it deserved.

But the maestro, it appears, had other uses for the prominently placed harps and a dramatic plan for a moving contrast in musical mastery. Barber's Symphony No. 2 was next on the program and here was an exciting contrast with the indifferent Bristow work. While Barber seems to have lost the courage of his inspiration when, after 20 years, he withdrew the work from circulation and destroyed the scores, it is fortunate that one copy survived.

It is some of Barber's most exciting music. Original thematic ideas and original developments of them abound and there is a cohesion and consistency to the piece that puts it in the class of great masterworks. Moreover, the performance seemed inspired. If there is room in the schedule, this should be a candidate for a CD.

It is not easy music, however, nor is it very familiar and so, once again, artful programming capped the evening as Jarvi closed with a crowd pleaser — Ravel's "Daphnis et Chloe, Suite No. 2." This sensual mu-sic, played with Jarvi's most ardent abandon, and enriched by the rippling harps, culminated the concert in an orgiastic frenzy that roused even the dignified Thursday night audience whose long applause and cheers got their reward. It was an encore performance of De-bussy's "Claire de Lune" played with exquisite delicacy and purity. One might claim that no strings ever produced a more silken, airy tone.

The mood will be totally different tonight and for three more performances this weekend. On the program are the whimsical "Don Quixote" tone poem by Richard Strauss and the pictorial symphony, "Har-old in Italy" by Hector Berlioz. Featured soloists are cellist Franz Helmerson and the orchestra's principal violist, Alexander Michnaevsky. For tickets and times, call 833-3700.

And perhaps most important, this recording is a highly engaging performance of music that is purely American, synthesizing native material into a work that will surely live as a valuable expression of North American culture.

It is often said that all the subtleties of performing most forms of jazz defy truly authentic reproduction through musical notation. But this is probably true of even the most purely classical works, as well. The interpretive power and insight of the performer is always essential. What is more significant is that the interpretation of jazz is uniquely different from the interpretation of the classics and not many musicians do both well.

This CD, especially in the Duke Ellington work, is a convincing demonstration that the members of our orchestra have an exceptional feeling for the jazz idiom. Together with their maestro, they have bridged the gap in style and produced a performance that amply satisfies the soul of at least this classically oriented listener. As for approaching it from the opposite side, jazz aficionados will have to speak.

Suffice it to say that these are immensely engaging performances that are enjoyable on both counts - as expressions of the great jazz and folk music traditions of this land, and as well-constructed, highly interesting works in classically based musical form.

And they receive performances that should command respect and admiration everywhere that Chandos discs are circulated which is around the Peter Toran (top) is Cyrano, Tami Evans is Roxane, and Thorsten Kaye is Christian in the Hilberry Theatre's production of Edmond Rostand's "Cyrano de Bergerac." The romantic drama will be performed in rotating repertory Feb. 12-April 1.

Rostand's 'Cyrano de Bergerac' opens at Hilberry

"Cyrano de Bergerac," Edmond Rostand's heroic masterpiece, opens at the Hilberry Theatre at 8 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 13, following a preview at 8 Friday, Feb. 12, and plays in rotating repertory through April 1.

The play is based upon real occurrences and true characters of early 17th-century France, and Rostand's research was meticulous in its detail. The real Cyrano de Bergerac, poet and duelist, was born in 1619, and was destined to survey the world over an enormous nose. Rostand uses many historical details, but the well-known romantic triangle that develops between Roxane, Christian and Cyrano is his own.

"Cyrano de Bergerac" first opened in France in 1897 and was an instant success. It has since established itself in Europe and the United States as one of the most popular plays of all time.

The cast of "Cyrano" includes Peter Toran in the title role, Tami Evans as Roxane, and Thorsten Kaye as Christian de Neuvillette.

Margaret Spear, promotion director of the Wayne State University Theatres, will direct. The set is designed by Larry Kaushansky, from the former Soviet Union, with costumes by John D. Woodland and lighting by John S. Montgomory. Incidental music is by Michael Plowman.

'People' will touch your heart

By Marian Trainor

'Used People," a comedy drama, has all the power of a top-notch soap opera eminently performed by a star-studded

The script, adapted by Todd Graff from his off-Broadway hit "The Grandmothers," tells a heart-warming story of the power love has to rejuvenate tired lives.

It is directed with sensitivity and insight by Beeban Kidron.

Heading the cast is Shirley MacLaine as Pearl, an unhappy wife who, early in the film, becomes a sharp-tongued widow. Kathy Bates is Bibby, one of her daughters, and Marcia Gay Hayden is Norma, the second daughter. Both are divorced and miserable.

And there is Marcello Mastroianni as Joe, who has been in love with Pearl for 23 years, and Jessica Tandy as Frieda, Pearl's 80-year-old mother. Part of the charm of the movie is following the camera down the busy streets of the Queens neighborhood in 1969 and seeing the sights, scenes and the people. The lives of each of the characters and their often stormy relationships with each other change in the course of this very human, touching film.

Bibby and her two children live with Pearl. Bibby is fat, unhappy and resentful of her sister Norma, whom she thinks her mother has always favored. Norma has one son, Sweet

Pea, who thinks he is immune to danger because his deceased Grandpa is watching over him. His problem is the result of his mother's spacey behavior;

out in public dressed as famous movie stars. She has quite a repertoire, including Marilyn Monroe and Audrey Hepburn. Her best one is her takeoff on Anne Bancroft's Mrs. Robinson. Out of nowhere comes Joe, the Italian bon vivant who shows up on the day of Pearl's husband's funeral to woo her. Pearl is not receptive but Joe is not easily put off. He wins the confidence of Bibby and befriends Norma's young son.

"Used People" endears itself to viewers in many ways. Some wonderful scenes featuring Tandy and her friend, Sylvia Sidney, two old friends with enough differences to make their arguments funny and enough memories and wisdom to make them lovable.

MacLaine, in her best role since "Terms of Endearment," gives a wonderful performance. She brings to the role the ability to let us glimpse the happy woman she once was and could be again. Mastroianni infuses his role with an irresistible charm that should make him the idol of a generation of middle-aged Pearls. Tandy, who never fails to please, enhances the story with charm and wit; Bates is wonderful and Hayden is amazingly funny in her fantasy movie star roles.

"Used People" is a many splendored portrayal of ordinary people as individuals who endure and live to celebrate personal victories.

'Alive' is uplifting, intense

By Marian Trainor Special Writer

Based on a true incident that was translated into a best-seller by Piers Paul Reed, "Alive" tells the story of the harrowing struggle for survival of the Uruguayan rugby team whose plane crashed in the Chilean Andes mountains in 1972. Of the 45 passengers aboard, only 16 survived.

How they made it back to civilization under the most rugged circumstances is told in wrenching sequences that are fused with the triumph of the human spirit.

From the time the plane crashes, viewers get no respite from the grueling hardships and the inspiring, courageous efforts of the young victims to meet their greatest challenge.

We are with them for the 72 days of their ordeal during which they must improvise shelter, ration food and make tough decisions - such as whether to eat the flesh of those who perished so the living can

It is a tense moment when the leader moves toward one of the frozen bodies, cuts a small piece from it and puts it in his mouth. One after another, the others follow. The act takes on a mystical significance for the Roman Catholic boys raised in the belief that consuming the body of Christ in communion is life-giving.

The film opens on a joyous note with the boys laughing, talking and throwing the ball over the heads of the other passengers aboard the plane. The pilot is winging through cloudless skies. But 20 minutes from his destination the sky begins to darken and screeching winds whip up. Visibility is zero. Frantically the pilot tries to rise above the turbulence, but crashes into the side of a mountain. In one of the most terrifying and lifelike scenes ever filmed, bodies are sucked through the missing tail section and the cabin slides down the mountain slope like a toboggan. Limbs are crushed, projectiles pierce bodies and agonizing screams attest to the enormity of the disaster. Confident that they will be rescued when word of the crash is broadcast, the survivors set about making beds from seat covers and rationing food until help comes.

All around them are snowcovered mountains with no signs of life anywhere.

The harsh beauty of the frozen setting alternates with sequences of nature's fury as avalanches hurtle down the mountainside with crushing

It is truly a glorious moment when they are finally rescued.

Director Frank Marshall has done a magnificent job of alternating the boys' ordeal with scenes that highlight the indomitable spirit of youth. Screenwriter John Shanley ("Moonstruck") has taken what could have been a grisly story and made it into an uplifting experience aided by an intense young cast.

Marlo Thomas will star in 'Separation'

Marlo Thomas will star with John Cunningham, who reprises his Broadway role, in the first national tour of John Guare's award-winning comedy, 'Six Degrees of Separation."

A fast-paced, funny and profound megahit, it won the 1991 New York Drama Critics Award for best play. It will be directed by Jerry Zaks, who won a Tony Award for best director in the original Broadway production.

Thomas, who has been honored with four Emmy Awards, seven Emmy nominations, a Golden Globe and the George Foster Peabody Award, has starred in Mike Nichol's London production of "Barefoot in the Park," and on Broadway in "Social Security," again under the direction of Nichols, and in Herb Gardner's "Thieves."

"Six Degrees of Separation" is the story of a young man who says he is Sidney Poitier's son and cleverly invades the lifestyles of the rich and selfinvolved. The play hilariously scrutinizes such serious social situations as white liberal guilt, the gulf between generations, alienation and the need to belong, loveless family relationships, upscale greed, the power of education, and celebrity-mania.

Ever-popular wreaths complete the eternal circle

How interesting it is to travel around Grosse Pointe and note the number of houses featuring decorative wreaths on the front door.

Of course, during the holiday season wreaths of evergreen and holly are everywhere, but the rest of the year all kinds of wreaths adorn our houses. Grapevine, straw, dried flowers and herbs, and wreaths made of ribbon bows, lace ruffles and even such unlikely materials as pretzels and macaroni make their appearance, not to mention straw hats wreathed with ribbons and blossoms. One wonders whether the residents of those homes realize what an ancient tradition they are following.

The circle is an ancient symbol for eternity because a circle has no beginning and no end. Wreaths — and wedding rings — express this symbolism.

In ancient times, Pliny wrote a book called "Natural History" and from that we learn that the many market gardens of Athens supplied the city with flowers and vegetables. The flowers were raised mainly for the garland and wreath makers who formed a distinct trade. Wreaths were an important part of every festive occasion. They were used to adorn statues and altars and were awarded to public servants, worn as emblems of office, and bestowed upon military heroes, poets and athletes, and the phrase to win one's laurels (laurel wreath) has become part of modern speech.

Wreaths in ancient Greece were exchanged between lovers, worn at weddings, and used as funeral decorations. When hung in a doorway, they announced the birth of a son.

During the chaotic centuries of the Dark Ages, monasteries founded in the fourth century and after became important centers of learning and the preservation of history and tradition. Because they also had to be almost completely self-sufficient, they maintained gardens for the cultivation of medicinal herbs, vegetable plots and vineyards and the growing of flowers for the decoration of the church.

It is a strange paradox that while Christian laymen considered flowers in a church to be pagan, the monks decorated the altars with them and on feast days the priests wore chaplets, or wreaths, of flowers on their heads. This conflict arose because the laity were recalling the wreathed Roman carouser and the monks were evolving a system of floral symbolism associated with the Virgin Mary and with Christ.

In England in the 15th and 16th centuries, garlands and wreaths were used to decorate houses and were worn on festive occasions. The so-called knot gardens, or mazes, which were popular in England in the 16th century were first designed to simulate wreaths laid on the ground, but later became more complex in design. This later led to a revival of the ancient art of topiary in which shrubs and trees were cut and trained into fantastic shapes of all kinds, including wreaths. Topiary wreaths are still popular.

In America, wreaths were widely used for decoration at Christmastime, especially in the southern states, during the 18th century and were often made of fruits and leaves, as well as evergreens and holly. In Victorian times, garlands and wreaths were very popular and were used throughout the year as decorations for parties and weddings. A wreath of purple or lavendar flowers on the front door of a house indicated that there had been a death in the family, and a white wreath announced the birth of a child.

The wreath motif is as widely used today as it has been for centuries in many aspects of the decorative arts, including ornamental carving on furniture, surrounding picture frames and award plaques, and in plaster work and stone carvings in architectural design. Wreaths are printed on fabrics and wallpaper and often used in designs for jewelry.

While wreaths and garlands are frequently depicted in paintings of ancient Persian gardens, they do not appear in any form in the gardening lore of any of the Oriental countries. Gardens of China, Japan and Korea never use wreaths, and they are never shown in Oriental paintings, even though the circle, the age-old symbol of eternity, is often displayed.

In the Scandinavian countries, holiday wreaths are often made of straw in commemoration of the straw of the stable where the Christ child was born.

Wreaths made of grapevines are immensely popular right now and are used as they are, or are ornamented with fresh or dried flowers, leaves and herbs. When the grapevines are cut to make the wreaths, they are green and pliable and may be easily wound around and intertwined, with their own tendrils helping to hold them together. As they dry, however, the vines turn dark gray-brown and stiffen and lock in place, ensuring a grapevine wreath will last for years, with its intertwining branches going around and around in a circle with no beginning and no end - like the circle of etern-

Household Help by John Amantea

Q. I own a state-of-the-art stereo, home entertainment system. My main concern is how to obscure the wires from my speakers, other than attaching them to the walls and baseboards. Do you have any helpful hints? By the way, I have wall-to-wall carpeting throughout the house.

A. There are many innovative ways to discreetly hide your speaker wires. The major consideration is where your sound equipment is located in your living room.

For example, if one of your speakers is positioned near an archway, then you can install the wire beneath the rug itself. The easiest way to do this is to unravel an ordinary metal clothes hanger and bend it at one end into a small letter "i." Next, carefuly lift the edge of your rug, attach the free end of the wire to the coat hanger with masking tape and slowly pull until the wire appears on the opposite side. You will, of course, need to open the other end of the rug at the archway and pull the speaker wire through. Secure the wire snugly to the border or base moulding (if any) and connect to your unit.

Another possibility to consider is to run the wire just below the surface of your rug along the baseboard. Do this with a blunt object, only submerging the line just below the nap of the rug. Again, follow it to your stereo receiver or unit.

Vital winter tips

• If your home has aging roof shingles, try to remove any large amounts of snow or ice (if at all possible) to prevent interior leaks.

 Always keep your walkways and house entries clear of winter precipitation

• Use caution not to damage your home's exterior or driveway when shoveling snow.

 Inspect for any possible damage that heavy ice may cause to your home.

• Use 3/4" felt weatherstripping around the perimeter of your doorways to prevent any drafts and wasted energy.

 Avoid using commercial rock salt around the outside of your home as much as possible. Sand or a commercial "speedy-dry" product is a good substitute to use.

 If you are overweight or don't exercise much, use snow blowing power equipment to clear snow and avoid health risks.

Mortgage interest rates have a profound effect on housing alfordability. As rates increase, the number of families able to purchase a home decreases as shown in the following example. H.W., 2 Pointes see double-digit assessment hikes

By John Minnis

More than half the state's communities, including Harper Woods and two of the Pointes, will experience double-digit residential property assessment increases this year.

Grosse Pointe Park led the pack locally with a 14.9 percent average residential assessment increase, according to figures released by the Michigan Department of Treasury.

Following Grosse Pointe Park with double-digit increases are Harper Woods (10.8 percent) and Grosse Pointe Farms (10.7 percent).

Grosse Pointe Park city manager Dale Krajniak said the city will apply the assessment increases on an area-by-area basis, with some sections receiving hikes less than the average and some exceeding it.

He added that commercial assessments in Grosse Pointe Park will go up an average 20.9 percent this year.

'It's actually a positive indication that the value of property is increasing in this community.'

Dale Krajniak City Manager Grosse Pointe Park

"It's actually a positive indication that the value of property is increasing in this community," Krajniak said, adding that the assessment increases will be offset by significant rollbacks of the millage rates.

Harper Woods city manager James Leidlein said his city's increase will be assessed across the board on all homeowners, adding that commercial assessments will go up 3 percent this year. The new assessment notices will be mailed in March, he said.

Grosse Pointe Farms controller John Lamerato said the city was divided into five "neighborhoods" last summer during a citywide reassessment. He said a few homeowners may actually see their assessments decline, while others will be below or above the city's average increase.

Assessment notices will be mailed in Grosse Pointe Farms by the third week in February at the latest, Lamerato said.

The average citywide residential assessment increases are set by county equalization departments and are determined by the selling price of homes in an area over a 24-month period. Michigan homeowners will receive their new assessment notices this month or in early March.

Statewide, 53 percent of the 1,217 city, village and township reporting communities will see average residential assessment increases of more than 10 percent.

"These are very significant numbers because they indicate that more than half of all property taxpayers in Michigan will see double-digit increases in their property assessment this year," said state treasurer Doug Roberts. "Assessment increases translate into property tax increases at the same rate."

Roberts' statement assumes that the tax, or millage, rates would remain the same and levied against the higher assessments, but it fails to take into account the Headlee Amendment and Truth in Taxation law, which require millage rates to be rolled back so tax-levying authorities — such as schools, counties and cities — do not receive windfall revenue gains due to rising property values exceeding the rate of inflation.

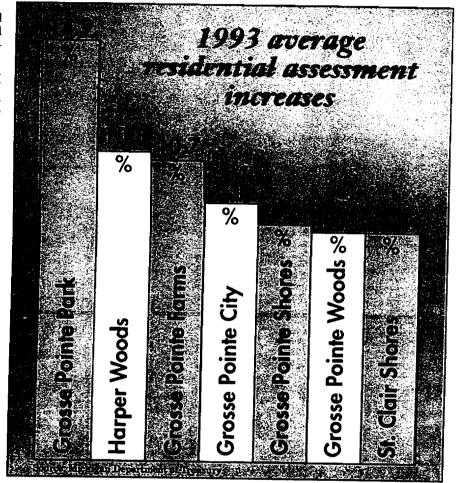

Assessment increases were expected to be much higher this year because they follow a statewide one-year assessment freeze.

The assessment increases are averages and do not included new construction or commercial properties. Individual homeowners may see assessment increases that are higher or lower than the stated averages.

Even without the freeze, Grosse Pointe communities in the past have seen in some cases year-to-year double-digit assessment hikes.

Grosse Pointe City will see an average 9.1 percent increase in home assessments, followed by Grosse Pointe Shores at 8.3 percent and Grosse Pointe Woods and St. Clair Shores at 8.2 percent.

In releasing the assessement-increase figures, Roberts urged support of Gov. John Engler's call for a 20 percent rollback in property taxes paid to schools.

"It is essential that the Legislature and the administration work in partnership to relieve the burden on property taxpayers of runaway assessments and unbridled property tax increases," Roberts said.

The only way schools, cities or other tax-levying authorities can override the Headlee Amendment roll-back or Truth in Taxation disclosure of windfall gains is to hold a public hearing on increasing the levy if they already have voter-approved mills remaining that they haven't levied or, if extra voter-ratified mills are not available, asking the voters to override the Headlee limitation.

Homeowners who experience assessment increases greater than the average, however, will likely pay higher taxes regardless of mandated rollbacks.

Statewide, the average residential assessment increase was 11 percent; in Macomb County, it was 9.4 percent; and in Wayne County, it was 10.5 percent.

Homeowners can challenge assessment increases by going before a board of review in their city in March.

Some tips when preparing for a review are:

- Examine the records of your property at the assessor's office for discrepancies, such as type of garage, siding and other cost-adding features.
- Compare the value of your house against the selling price of other similar properties in your area. The Detroit Free Press offers this information for a small fee.
- If you're not happy with the board of review's reponse to your case, which is usually handed down within a few weeks, you have until June 30 to file an appeal with the Michigan Tax Tribunal.

Billions available for home repair grants, subsidized loans

Most homeowners are unaware that regardless of their income there are federal, state, and local programs that will help them repair and remodel their homes.

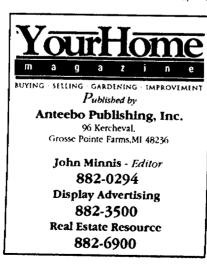

Government at all levels recognizes that neighborhoods are the basis of life in our country. When a neighborhood deteriorates, many things happen both physically and socially. When the homes look shabby, a neighborhood seems more attractive to crime and criminals. An area in decline is like a spreading cancer. As homes become shabby looking and in need of maintenance, the residents lose their desire to keep up the neighborhood. Streets become receptacles for trash, schools lower their standards and very quickly the selling price of homes in the area drops sharply. This accelerates the cycle of degeneration.

To keep and maintain the nation's housing and neighborhoods, government at all levels have programs to give homeowners money (that does not have to be repaid) for repairs or to lend them money at below market levels or at no interest. In many areas utility companies will either do energy conservation work free or at low cost and in other places will lend homeowners money at no interest to pay the contractor or their choice for the necessary work. In addition there are tax incentives to promote efficient energy use.

These programs are not restricted to low-income people, slum areas or urban neighborhoods. Owners of single- or multi-family dwellings are eligible for some programs regardless of income. Most of the loans offer long terms and low payments.

Some of the other home improvements covered under these programs are attic and wall insulation, new windows, outerwall siding, security doors and locks, window guards, sidewalks and masonry work, bathrooms and kitchens, electrical and plumbing work, new roofs, gutters or downspouts.

The Consumer Information Agency, a national consumer publishing group has released its "Consumers Guide to Home Repair Grants and Subsidized Loans," a 240-page book which lists more than 7,000 sources of loan and grant programs offered by all levels of government in addition to utility companies and others, typical programs offered and eligibility requirements. Form letters for inquiries to these loan and grant sources are included as well as detailed instructions on determining your debt-to-income ratio for eligibility. The book can be obtained for $15.95 plus $2 shioping and handling from C.I.A./Grants, 60 Evergreen Place, East Orange, N.J. 07016 or by calling (1-800) PUB-LIST toll free for credit card holders.

Monroe Spiegel of C.I.A./Grants said, "Some of these programs have no income ceiling and others allow income of as much as $100,000 per year. There are even programs for which tenants are eligible and many allow loans or give grants to poor credit risks. In many areas, people with disabilities can receive grants to pay for needed repairs such as access ramps and widening of doorways."

Since it is important that the work be done properly, the book includes a section showing how to pick a reputable contractor, negotiate a contract and ensure that the work is done properly and for a fair price.

Survey of executive home prices finds most affordable cities

Middle-level executives earning an $80,000 annual salary will discover affordable home prices in a surprising variety of international locations, according to a new survey of 48 prominent housing markets by Century 21 Real Estate Corp.

Several cities in the southern and western United States, including Memphis, Orlando, Boise and Salt Lake City, revealed the least expensive home prices. Honolulu and San Franciso, however, were the most expensive U.S. cities in the new survey — and the most expensive in the world for this executive income bracket — while Toronto and Dusseldorf, Germany, ranked as the most expensive international cities. Worldwide, the average home price in the survey was about $235,000.

The Century 21 International Executive Home Price Survey is based on actual real estate listings and compares average listing prices, square footage and styles of homes typically purchased or rented by a relocating executive. Markets surveyed were chosen based on the top relocation areas served by Western Relocation Management Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of Century 21 Real Estate Corp.

This year's Century 21 survey focused on mid-level executives who, according to Western Relocation Management, are transferred more frequently than senior level executives.

"Senior level executives making $100,000-plus salaries are a more permanent part of a company's head-quarters, and they don't relocate as often," said Patrick Cacho, chief executive officer of Western Relocation Management. "A mid-level executive, however, with an average salary of $80,000 will transfer about three times during his or her career"

Memphis ranks as the least expensive housing market worldwide in the survey, and includes some of the largest homes in its price range. A relocating executive should expect to pay between $115,000 and $140,000 for a typical 2,500-square-foot brick home with three bedrooms, two baths and a two-car garage.

"Federal Express, International Paper and Sharp are only a few of the larger companies in Memphis. The combination of affordable home prices, a high standard of living and a good job base has made Memphis a popular city for relocating executives," said Robert Morris Jr., of Century 21 Prestige Properties Inc.

Besides Memphis, the survey revealed several other areas in the southern United States with affordable home prices. For example, a relocating executive could expect to pay $175,000 for a 2,800-square-foot home in Tampa, Charlotte and Newport News, Va., and only $150,000 for a slightly smaller home in Orlando.

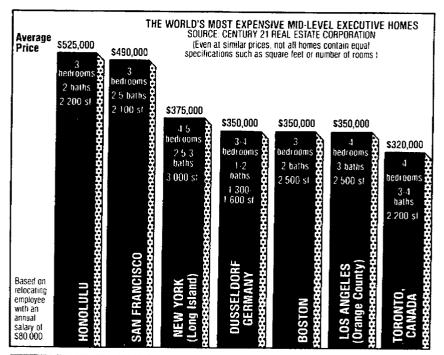

The Century 21 survey also indicated a handful of areas in the western United States as having affordable homes for this income bracket. For example, middle-level executives can purchase a newer 3,000-square-foot home in Salt Lake City with 12 total rooms for only $150,000. Low unemployment and a high standard of living make this market another popular location for relocating executives

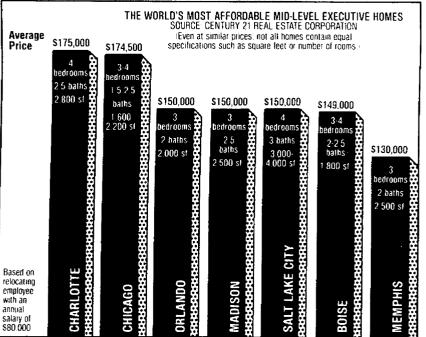

The Century 21 survey rated Honolulu and San Francisco among the most expensive housing markets in the world for those making $80,000 a year. According to the survey, the average cost of executive homes in San Francisco was $490,000 and $525,000 in Honolulu. Century 21 brokers in both cities, however, commented that many buyers relocating to their areas use a substantial down payment or receive assistance from their companies.

"It is not unusual for a buyer to place more than $150,000 down on an executive home in Honolulu," said Jerry Sprinkle of Century 21 Kahala Hale Inc. "Often, a relocating executive's company will assist with the sale of its employee's current home before the relocation takes place. I've worked with many executives whose employers 'buy down' an interest rate."

Among the six international cities surveyed, the suburban neighborhoods of Paris and London boasted surprisingly affordable home prices compared to those in the cities. Homes in central London, for example, can range from $420,000 to $500,000 in price. An 1,800-squarefoot home with three bedrooms in the suburban South Woodford or Nightingale Estate areas of London, however, costs an average of $260,000. Similarly, the suburbs 15 to 25 miles east of southeast of Paris, such as Chelles and Melun, offer affordable homes at an average cost of $215,000. According to Century 21 France, an executive making $80,000 a year could not afford a house inside Paris city limits without additional assistance from his or her company.

According to Western Relocation's Cacho, a typical international transfer can end up costing a company more than $150,000 compared to an average $45,000 for a domestic relocation. In addition to the increased housing costs, most companies will have higher shipping of household goods and travel costs, incur increased costs for food and lodging expenses, pick up the tuition for children's private schooling, offer automobile differentials or provide a car and driver. Most companies also offer extensive training orientation and counseling programs.

A TV star: It runs in the family — Charlie McCarthy has had an unusual amount of publicity this year because of the TV show, "Murphy Brown." Candice Bergen, the actress who portrays Murphy, is the daughter of the ventriloquist, Edgar Bergen, the creator of Charlie McCarthy. Young TV fans probably do not know that Charlie was a popular star of radio, movies and television, and he even appeared with Candice on a few shows.

The Marx toy company made at least five different lithographed tin toys picturing Charlie in the 1930s. An 8-1/2-inch walking Charlie waddles across the floor while his mouth moves open and shut. The toy sold for 25 cents in 1938. Today, it is worth more than $250.

Q. I re-covered a chair that I purchased at an auction. The man reupholstering the chair said it was padded with pig's hair. I have heard of horsehair padding, but never pig's hair. Was it used in the United States or Europe? Does it indicate the age?

A. Upholstered furniture was covered with padding to make it more comfortable. Today, we use springs with foam rubber, but in the 1850s, almost all padded furniture was made with horsehair or plant materials like Spanish moss, wood shavings or cotton. It was used over the oiled metal springs.

Before the 1850s, seats were made with wads of curled animal hair or other springy materials. A woven webbing and fabric covered the piece. Pig's hair could have been used, but we have never seen examples stuffed with it. The date of the chair is easier to determine by the type of webbing and whether springs were used.

Q. My old china pitcher is marked "E.P.P. Co. Marquette, E. Palestine, O."

A. The mark was used by the East Palestine Pottery Company in East Palestine, Ohio. The company started making yellowware and brown-glazed wares in 1880. The company name was changed by 1909.

To fill in your set of flatware or goblets, send for a copy of the Kovels' booklet, "China, Crystal and Silver Matching Services." Send $2 and a long, self-addressed, stamped (52 cents) envelope to Kovels, P.O. Box 22900, Beachwood, Ohio 44122.

Home Tips

Stretch it out — I make my rubber gloves for dishwashing last twice as long by using super glue to repair small punctures and cuts. It works every time!

Hazel E., Rolla, Mo.

Emergency rations — Before my daughter left for college, we went shopping in the baby-food section of the supermarket and picked up jars of fruits, puddings, baby finger foods (meat sticks) and the ever-popular peanut butter and jelly. These things need no refrigeration.

When she missed dinner or didn't like what was being served, she still had something to eat. It worked well for her until she got her own apartment.

Delia T., Beaumont, Calif.

Coupon sense — To speed checking out at the grocery store when using a lot of coupons, arrange them according to value — all 50-cent, 25-cent and 10-cent coupons together. Tell the cashier that you have done this, then she can multiply 7 x 50, 10 x 25, etc. I've had cashiers express sincere appreciation for this, and I have an idea the person behind me in line is happy about it, too.

Georgia S., Dover Del.

Picture this — I have a collection of rare books which fills a large bookcase, and I have several other bookcases that are filled with less valuable editions. Before a recent move, I took instant photos of each bookshelf so I would be sure to arrange the books back in their original order. This worked out perfectly, and I now have the pictures put away for insurance purposes in case of theft or fire.

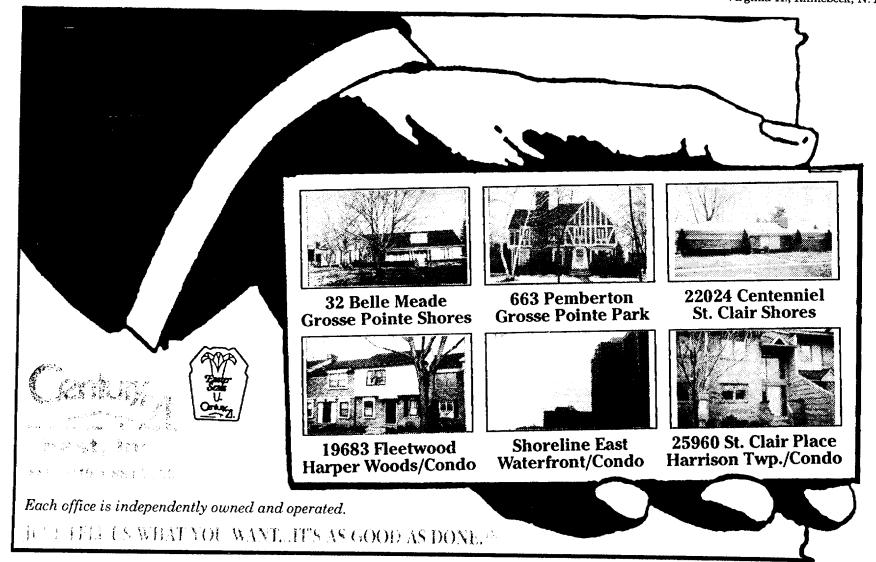

Jill W., City of Industry, Calif.

Fireplace odor — I have a woodburning stove insert in my fireplace and have soot odor from the inside of the stove. I have a ventilated ceiling fan, and when I turn it on, it draws the odor into the whole house.

I got the idea of sprinking a little strawberry scent (used in candle making) on pine cones and putting a few in the stove. (Any scent can be used; I had strawberry on hand). The scent is very concentrated, so don't use much. It's a bit expensive, but it really does the trick. It can be bought in any craft store.

Now when I turn the fan on, I have a strawberry scent throughout the house instead of the soot odor.

Virginia H., Rhinebeck, N.Y.
