Council wants Star of Sea closed, but offers a 2-year reprieve

By Kathleen Ryan
Special Writer

The Star of the Sea parish council on Monday recommended that Star of the Sea High School be closed, as early as this June.

At the same time, it compromised on a request from the Archdiocese of Detroit to operate the school as a regional high school, offering the building to the archdiocese to use for two years.

The archdiocese had authorized the formation of an independent board, headed by parish member Marilyn Lundy and Star pastor Monsignor Dennis Harity, to operate Star of the Sea High School as a regional high school, separate from parish control or responsibility.

As a regional high school, financial responsibility for its operation would rest with the board and the archdiocese. The newly formed board had asked for a five-year lease on the school building.

Lundy, who has spearheaded the drive to keep the school open, stressed to the council that Star is already operating as a regional high school, with only 13 parish members enrolled among the 140-member student body.

"I really feel that this school could make it with proper recruiting and marketing,"

Lundy told the council. "What we are asking for is a five-year lease on the building in order for us to get the school on firm ground."

At the end of that time, the school would move to another eastside location, Lundy said.

More than 100 people attended the meeting, with several parishioners openly disagreeing with Lundy. Many cited the need for additional space for the grade school and other parish programs as the reason they wanted the high school closed. Others stressed financial concerns, with some questioning how firm the archdiocese commitment to a regional high school would be.

A petition had been circulated among parish members asking the council to reject the regionalization proposed by the archdiocese and to close the high school as soon as possible.

Parish member Phyllis DeMars said some 600 people signed the petition.

"We felt that the most important reason for closing the school is financial," said DeMars. "But this parish also needs the space in order to grow both physically and spiritually."

A spokesman for the archdiocese could not say when a decision would be made.

Let the hunt begin!

Farms kids entered the race with enthusiasm during the sixth annual Easter egg hunt at Pier Park last Saturday. The kids not only got candy and had fun, they also were able to get pictures with the Easter bunny. The event was sponsored by the Grosse Pointe Farms Recreation Department.

School board: Student prayer at graduation must be silent

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

Denise Mills sat quietly in her seat Monday night as Grosse Pointe board of education members discussed why they could not support student-led prayer at this year's graduation ceremonies.

Mills, a Grosse Pointe North senior, heads a student group called Students Promoting Equality, Awareness and Knowledge (SPEAK) that pushed for student-led prayer at their commencement.

In early March, SPEAK conducted an informal poll of students and reported that the majority wanted some type of invocation at their graduation.

She and other North seniors addressed the board at its March 8 meeting asking the members to allow prayer despite a 1992 U.S. Supreme Court decision which declared clergy-led prayer at graduation unconstitutional.

The students based their argument, in part, on an appeals court decision in Texas (Jones

... the Supreme Court has ruled on this and I think we are obligated to comply on this matter.

Trustee Carl Anderson

vs. Clear Creek Independent School District), which allowed students to lead their own prayer at graduation if a majority voted approval.

Since that meeting, superintendent Ed Shine sought the legal opinion of school district attorney Doug West.

West submitted a 10-page opinion to Shine last Friday and Shine shared his recommendation to the board on April 5.

"West's rather elaborate but clear presentation concludes with the opinion that the board of education respond to the students' request by stating that there be no student-led prayer, whether or not the student body votes in favor of such prayer," Shine said.

In his opinion, West advised the board that the Texas decision, in the Fifth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, is not binding in Michigan district courts; Michigan is in the sixth circuit.

Board members agreed with West's opinion and Shine's recommendation. Board secretary Linda Schneider suggested the board vote on the matter Monday. But other board members decided to wait until April 19 when trustee Frank Sladen, who was excused from Monday's meeting, will be present to vote.

Trustee Carl Anderson suggested the students seeking a prayer service either before or after their graduation ceremony contact one of the local

Pointer of Interest Joan Ramsdell

By Margie Reins Smith
Feature Editor

Sparky, a wiggly Yorkshire terrier, was the first to spot Grosse Pointer Joan Ramsdell on a warm spring afternoon. Ramsdell is a community health nurse with the Visiting Nurse Association of Southeast Michigan, a 95-year-old non-profit organization that provides health care workers to the community.

She parked in the driveway of Evelyn and Robert Hamilton's Grosse Pointe Woods home.

Evelyn Hamilton called to Ramsdell to come on in as she slowly worked her way through the dining room into the living room. She stepped carefully, aided by a walker, dressed in a lavender sweatsuit and athletic shoes. Secured around her head, trailing behind her, was a thin, clear plastic tube hooked to an oxygen machine.

The two sat on the sofa and chatted amiably in the sunny living room, surrounded by a collection of green plants and framed family photographs. Sparky scrutinized Ramsdell's bag and sniffed her shoes.

Hamilton gave Ramsdell a grocery bag stuffed with clean socks, a donation to the clients at a homeless shelter where Ramsdell works one day a week.

"What hurts?" Ramsdell asked, as she took Hamilton's temperature and blood pressure and checked her heart, lungs and weight.

"Are you taking your medication?"

"How are you sleeping?"

"What did you eat for breakfast?"

"I don't know what I'd do without Joan," Hamilton said. "I had to call her Friday because I was upset and she came jumping over here right away. She's compassionate and caring."

Ramsdell visits from 24 to 40 patients every week in their homes. She began calling on Hamilton once a month three years ago.

"Mrs. Hamilton didn't think she needed any help. She wanted to maintain her independence," Ramsdell said. "But that is exactly what I can help her do."

Since Ramsdell's first visit, Hamilton has had more than a dozen surgeries. Ramsdell now visits twice a week.

"It's a lot better than sitting in a doctor's office until I run out of oxygen," Hamilton said, referring to the portable oxygen tank she has to carry when she leaves her house.

The VNA is funded by the United Way, by private insurance companies such as Blue Cross and by private contributors, Ramsdell said. "Our goal is to increase patients' health and independence."

Visiting nurses will go to anyone who needs their care, she added. "We see people who are indigent, who are on Medicaid, who are affluent, who are middle class. The eastern office where I work has 30 registered nurses and about 100 more people - physical therapists, home health aides, speech therapists, nutritionists, occupational therapists, medical social workers and high tech nurses."

Patients are referred by their doctors, by hospitals, by their families or by the patients themselves.

The nurses work with the patients' doctors.

"When did you take your pills?" Ramsdell asked Hamilton. "If you're having a bad day and your doctor says you can take pain medication every four hours, for goodness' sake, take them," Ramsdell said. "Don't let the pain get ahead of you."

Ramsdell estimated that 75

Tax shift plan means less local control over millage, schools say

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

If voters approve a June 2 ballot proposal that would lower property taxes and raise the sales tax, they also will be signing away their control of school millage rates.

That's the assessment drawn by Chris Fenton, assistant superintendent of business affairs for the Grosse Pointe Public School System.

Fenton and other district administrators were busy last week analyzing the local impact of the measure, should it be approved by voters.

Superintendent Ed Shine said the district will present a report on the impact of the proposal at its April 19 board of education meeting.

House Joint Resolution G, passed by the Michigan House and Senate on March 31, includes reducing local school district millage rates while increasing the state sales tax from 4 percent to 6 percent.

School operating millage rates, in most cases, would be rolled back to 18 mills, and districts could levy an additional 9 mills with approval of local voters, for a total of 27 mills.

... by limiting any district... it's like saying the voters are not smart enough to say yes or no to a millage increase.

Chris Fenton
Assistant Superintendent

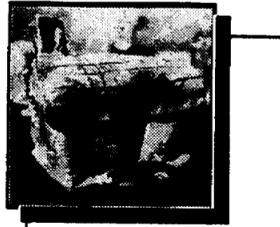

Grosse Pointe schools currently levy 32.3165 in operating mills - 31.0165 for the general fund and 1.3 for the library fund. Because Grosse Pointe's millage rate is more than 27 mills, the proposal allows the district to roll back its millage to that level.

"The problem with us making projections now is that pieces of the proposal have passed the Legislature and pieces have not passed. Senate Bill 146 on property tax reduction, the state equalized valuation (SEV) cap and growth won't be considered until after Easter break," Fenton said.

WE'RE CONCERNED ABOUT YESTERDAY'S NEWS.

News can appear one day and be gone the next. But the paper news is printed on can and should live on.

Last year, more than one third of all U.S. newspaper was recycled. And that number is growing every day.

Recycling is the one way we can all give something back.

Big band

The Community Education department of the Grosse Pointe Public School System will hold a free concert at 1:30 p.m. Thursday, April 15 at Barnes School, 20090 Morningside in Grosse Pointe Woods. The "Name Band Bash" will present Ben Grycan and the acclaimed Grosse Pointe Music Makers, a 15-piece musical group, all of whom are retired and many of whom live in Grosse Pointe. Featured performers are saxophonist Al Bohms, who played with Johnny Long's orchestra, and Jim Harwood who played with the original Glen Miller Air Force Band. For more information, call 343-2178.

Parcells hosts Nature through the Seasons

The Travel Photography Club will present "Nature through the Seasons" by Skip Moody on Friday, April 16, at 8 p.m. in the auditorium on Parcels Middle School at Mack and Vernier.

The program will feature a walk during all the seasons of the year to capture the many wonders of nature through the eye of an award-winning photographer.

The one-hour presentation will include a question-and-answer period during which Moody will discuss photography in general.

He is the president of the Greater Detroit Camera Club

Council, founding member of the West Oakland Camera Club and has many prestigious photography credits to his name.

The presentation is sponsored by the Senior Men's Club of Grosse Pointe, but is open to people of all ages.

The charge is $1 and includes refreshments after the program.

Eggs-actly how many eggs are on the windows on the Hill?

While walking or shopping on the Hill on Kercheval in Grosse Pointe Farms, take a few eggs-tra minutes to count the eggs decorated by the students at Richard School. Guess the correct number of eggs and you could win a gift certificate to the member location of your choice. Entry forms are available at Blossom's, Pointe Pedlar, Brooks Brothers, Kiska Jewelers or The League Shop. The contest ends April 12.

The Easter Bunny is taking time out of his very busy schedule to visit the Hill on Saturday, April 10, from 1 to 3 p.m. Photos, candy and hugs will be available.

7-foot rabbit on Mack

A tall bunny will make an appearance once again at Village Locksmith and Home Repair, 18554 Mack, in the Farms.

This is the eighth year the hare-y guy will hop over to give out chocolate eggs and helium balloons and to pose for pictures.

He'll be there Friday, April 10, from 3 to 5 p.m. and Saturday, April 10, from noon to 3 p.m.

G.P. United to hold kids' Easter service

A special children's program worship service will be held at Grosse Pointe United Church on Easter Sunday, April 11. The program, however, does not include an Easter egg hunt as incorrectly reported in the April edition of To the Pointe, a publication not associated with the Grosse Pointe News. (The church asked that this corrected notice be printed.)

churches to arrange for a baccalaureate service.

"I'm somewhat saddened by this," Anderson said. "There's something to be said for community tradition and values. But the Supreme Court has ruled on this and I think we are obligated to comply on this matter."

West's opinion did allow for students to explore alternatives such as incorporating a moment of silence into the ceremony.

During the public comment portion of the meeting, several residents, including an attorney and a church pastor, commended board members for their courage in considering their decision.

"We cannot break constitutional law," said Tija Spitzberg, a resident of Grosse Pointe Park. "If students by consensus wanted to serve champagne at their graduation, I'd think the answer would be no. We need to be sensitive to other faiths and minorities."

John Mills, Denise's father, also addressed the board.

"I'm obviously at odds with West's opinion," Mills said. "I

After high school I worked in a chemical lab. Then I worked as a secretary to the governor of New Jersey. I came to Michigan with my husband when he was transferred here," she said.

For a while Ramsdell did volunteer work with a variety of organizations: the Cancer Society, Gray Ladies, Girl Scouts, the Salvation Army and others.

In 1978, at the age of 34, Ramsdell went back to school. She earned an associate's degree from Macomb Community College, then a bachelor of science degree in biology from the University of Detroit.

"Then I got a bachelor of science degree in nursing from Wayne State University. I knew I wanted to be a visiting nurse," she said. "Home care is like nothing else I know. I like the individual time with patients. I like being allowed to go into their homes and be part would have suggested the board take a unique approach and ask those at North if there was any consensus to accommodate the participants."

Mills said the school district should have sought the opinion of those affected before delivering a recommendation.

"We so often, as well-meaning adults, do what is best for our kids," he said. "We go over their heads. I would turn it back over to them and let them work it out."

Following the meeting, which was attended by only a half-dozen North students, none of whom spoke publicly, Denise expressed disappointment.

"I feel like a lot of things, fundamental ideas, have been twisted," she said.

Denise said she spent countless hours researching the matter and that she learned a lot in the process.

"I feel more informed than a lot of adults in this situation," she said. Although she was not speaking for the entire graduating class, Denise said she doubted the students would seek an outside church service to meet their needs.

"If we have a prayer service, we'll do it on our own. We don't need help," she said.

of their lives. It's an interesting position — to intervene in family dynamics. I like being autonomous, being my own case manager. The buck stops with me."

She said some days she visits mansions in affluent suburbs and families in the most impoverished areas of the city.

"I see both extremes. But we don't stereotype. We're trained not to make judgments and you can't tell by the outside of a house what's behind the door," she said.

The Visiting Nurse Association of Southeast Michigan recently presented the annual Christopher P. Andrade award to Ramsdell for showing determination and initiative performing her duties as a community health nurse and for her work with Detroit's homeless through Project SPONSOR.

Project SPONSOR was founded by VNA to bring health care to those who need it but are unable to pay. Ramsdell works one morning a week at a homeless shelter at the Fort Street Presbyterian Church and one afternoon a week at the Mariners' Inn, a home for recovering substance abusers.

She praised the Fort Street Presbyterian Church program, which has been around for about 15 years. "Probably 800 people are lined up each morning at 6:30," she said. "The doors open at 9. Most are there for food. Many are carrying brown paper bags with all their belongings. These people sleep on grates. They're truly homeless."

"Everything is very orderly and organized. They can see a doctor, a nutritionist, a nurse, an AIDS specialist for counseling; they can take showers, get clothing, food, medical care and counseling. Most of the medical care involves wounds and requests for medication."

"I really like what I do. Of course we all have to see patients die. We cry. That's only human. But we invest part of ourselves in each patient — in a therapeutic way. We can't bring sadness home. If we do, we aren't professional and we become ineffective."

tem in place to address last-minute budget changes such as these," he said. "In terms of site-based management, the building principals can meet with their advisory committees to develop their budget adjustments."

Fenton's strongest concern about the proposal, should it pass, is the loss of local control of millage rates.

"I'm not opposed to property tax cuts or shifts to help the schools, but by limiting any district, whether it's Grosse Pointe or Kalkaska, it's like saying the voters are not smart enough to say yes or no to a millage increase," he said.

Fenton said his philosophy, not necessarily that of the district, is that if a school system wants to levy 50 mills, and the voters approve that rate, it should be able to levy that amount.

"I believe we are more accountable to our local constituents for property taxes than the state has been accountable to education," he said. "Voters have the right every three years to approve or not approve millages."

Fenton said he was also concerned about the library millage being included in the overall reduction of the district's millage rate.

Grosse Pointe has one of only a handful of public libraries in Michigan that is controlled by a school district; most are under municipal control and would not be affected by the proposal.

In addition, Fenton said putting a cap on school millage rates will force many school districts to seek bond issues to pay for capital improvements and major renovations, which will increase their debt load.

A school district's debt burden is not included in the proposal language and could be increased by the school district, resulting in higher taxes.

Ramsdell has four children. Two are grown. Two are recently adopted Korean-Americans: Chris is 12; Molly is 10. Ramsdell likes to swim and bike on her days off. She and her husband, Jack, who is an attorney, like to spend time near Traverse City at the family's condo.

George Polyzois sizes up every man he meets — he's a master tailor.

Sure, lots of people can measure inseams and hem pants, but few could accurately be called a master tailor — one who can size, cut and sew a suit from scratch.

"Just because a guy walks around with a tape around his neck," Polyzois said, "that doesn't make him a tailor."

Indeed, he pointed out that many people buy a suit off the rack and are measured by the salesperson. Such customers may never know what it's like to wear a properly fitted suit.

And when you've been fitted by Polyzois, owner of Polyzois Clothier & Tailors on Greater Mack in St. Clair Shores, you've been measured by the best.

Polyzois' wife/partner, Allaletta, who buys merchandise and does bookkeeping for the business, said her husband is one of the best fitters in the area and often gets referrals from top department stores when they have hard-to-fit customers — including, once, a football player.

Polyzois is a third-generation master tailor, having learned the craft from his father and grandfather in Greece. He immigrated to Toronto and in 1966 came to the United States, where he worked for Edward Samuels Custom Tailors downtown.

In 1971, he met his wife and, shortly afterward, they opened their own business in Dearborn, where they remained for 15 years. Eight years ago, they relocated to their current St. Clair Shores shop.

"He's proud of being a Greek and he's proud of being a master tailor," his wife said.

Polyzois' sells top-of-the-line, nearly all American-made apparel, including sweaters, ties, topcoats, sports coats and suits. Brand names include Hart Schaffner and Marx, Crickeeter, and Sansabelt. Suits range from $250 to $700, and except during special 40 percent-off storewide sales, alterations are included at no charge.

"We get the better stuff," Polyzois said of his merchandise, "and they don't let a lot of people in the same area carry it."

Polyzois, who can spot a good — and bad — suit instantly, cautions against trying to save money by buying a $150 suit — not only do they lack quality, they don't last.

"If you can't afford to buy my suits," he said, "don't go and buy cheap suits. Wait until they (his suits) are on sale. For the customer who doesn't want to pay $400 for a suit, the best thing is to buy them on sale."

Not only do Polyzois' customers get suits that last, they get suits that fit.

"It must fit perfect or it's not going out the door," Polyzois said. "We're responsible for our suits. We stand behind them."

He said he once replaced a customer's suit after two years because it wore out prematurely.

His wife also pointed out that they have an experienced seamstress on staff and while they don't sell women's clothing, they can expertly alter ladies' apparel.

Of course, if you're spending a lot of money on a suit, you don't want it to go out of style. Allaletta Polyzois said men are lucky because suit styles don't change as frequently, but another plus with Polyzois' line of clothing is that it is conservative, meaning it'll be appropriate for years.

To become a master tailor takes about 10 years' experience, Polyzois said, but there's little need for the full range of skills today. With suits being made as well as they are now, a suit made from scratch (bench tailoring) isn't usually necessary — not to mention that it's prohibitively expensive.

"What we do now is one-tenth of what we know how to do," he said.

But even that bit of an experienced tailor's knowledge can make the difference.

"If you're happy with your tailor," he said, "stay with him. But if you have a problem, come to us. We can fix it."

"Tailors are like barbers — you don't change them much."

Polyzois Clothiers & Tailors is located at 22602 Greater Mack, south of Nine Mile.

Park to spend $125,000 to fix sewer using special technique

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

A $125,000 project to repair the sewer line that runs from the foot of Whittier to Jefferson Avenue was approved by the Grosse Pointe Park City Council at its last meeting.

Using a special technique, the repairs will cost half as much as they normally would, city officials said.

The Park has been planning the repairs for over a year, said city manager Dale Krajniak. The money for the repairs was placed in the 1993 budget last year.

It was decided to repair the sewer line in 1991, Krajniak explained, after the city received a number of complaints about sink-holes along Essex. The city used a special television monitoring system to examine the pipe from the inside.

A number of leaks and cracks were found in the pipeline. The department of public works recommended that the pipe be repaired. Krajniak solicited bids, and received three proposals.

Insituform North of Owosso was the winner, with a bid of $125,000 — $80,000 under the second-lowest bid.

Bruce Kuffer of Insituform North said that the process allows the pipe to be repaired from within, without having to be dug up. Streets, driveways and any trees in the area can remain in place.

Water pressure is used, Kuffer explained, to push a hollow tube with resin on the inside part of the tube through the damaged pipe. The tube turns itself inside out as the water pushes it through the pipe. This exposes the resin-coated inside part of the tube to the inside of the pipe.

"It's like a sock being turned inside out," Kuffer said. "When the tube reaches the end of the pipe that is being repaired, heated water is sent through the tube. This heated water cooks the resin, and it bonds to the pipe, sealing it."

A small remote-controlled robot is sent through the pipe to cut holes from the newly sealed pipe to any feeder pipes that connect with the main pipeline.

"We totally rebuild from the inside out," Kuffer said. "We create a pipe within a pipe. We've been using the technology for the past 20 years. This has proven to be a very successful method."

Krajniak said that Insituform North, in a joint pipe repair job with Detroit and the Park, used the technique to repair a sewer line on Barrington Street four years ago. There have been no problems with the sewer line since, Krajniak said.

"This technique costs about half the traditional way of digging up a street and replacing a pipe," Krajniak said. "It's a technology that has proven itself over the years, and we are glad that we can use it."

Woods looking for sites to ease congestion on Mack

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

In an effort to relieve the shortage of parking for businesses along Mack, Grosse Pointe Woods officials are continuing to look for locations where municipal parking lots can be built.

"We've been seriously looking for space for about two years," said Woods city administrator Phil Belcher. "The last spots we added were behind Mr. C's on Ridgemont in 1990. The merchants on Mack can really use more parking. It's been about 10 years since the city has seriously added parking spaces along Mack."

The main limitations will be money and the willingness of businesses to help defray costs. Belcher said that the city government expects the costs of any lots built to be split 50-50 between the city and businesses most directly affected.

Because money is tight, Belcher said, and since businesses will directly benefit, it makes sense that they help pay for the lots. All lots will be municipally owned and will have city parking meters, he said.

"We started with seven different possible locations for lots," said Belcher. "Right now we are down to five. If we built at all five locations, we would create an additional 130 or so parking spaces, but I doubt that we will build at all five locations."

The Woods currently has 986 metered parking spots.

Several city committees are reviewing the locations, said Belcher. The committees are attempting to contact all the affected business owners to get their input on the lots.

"Right now the city fathers don't want to release the locations where the city is considering putting lots in until they've spoken to everyone they can,"

said Belcher. "I can say the spots that are being considered are in congested areas. We want to put lots in locations where additional parking will free up spaces in a three-block radius."

The city has no timetable for the project, but, said Belcher, the sooner the lots are built, the better.

Farms man indicted

A Grosse Pointe Farms man was indicted by a federal grand jury April 1 on charges of submitting a false document to a United States contractor.

Paul E. Roehl, 53, is charged in the indictment with supplying a government contractor with a false document concerning a part for U.S. Army tanks. Roehl is president of Southern Urethane and Packing Co.

The contractor, Highland Manufacturing Co. of Madison Heights, makes tank brake assemblies. Roehl and his company supplied Highland with a written certificate claiming that a certain part, known as a T-seal, had been manufactured according to government specifications by the Parker Packing Co. of Salt Lake City, Utah. The indictment charges that the certificate was false and that Parker had not made the T-seal.

If convicted, Roehl could receive a sentence of up to 5 years in prison or a fine totaling $250,000, or both. The case was investigated by the U.S. Department of Defense inspector general.

Iron is hot in Park

Wrought iron decorations were the target of thieves twice last week in Grosse Pointe Park.

A home on Windmill Pointe had an iron weather vane representing a trotting horse removed from the garage roof sometime between March 25 and 27. And a home in the 700 block of Whittier had a section of decorative iron fencing taken from the driveway area sometime between March 29 and 30. Police have no suspects.

Versatile Neighborhood Club adapts to changing times

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

The Neighborhood Club of Grosse Pointe has been around for over 80 years, changing with the times, becoming something very different from what was originally imagined.

"The first Neighborhood Club was built by the community in barn-raising fashion," said executive director John Bruce. "Its original location was on Kercheval about where Cottage Hospital is today. It had a gym and they put it up very quickly."

The Neighborhood Club was started by several prominent families in 1911, Bruce said. Mrs. Russell Alger was one of the driving forces in the Club's creation. She and 23 of her friends created the Club as a social, recreation and health center for many of Grosse Pointe's newer residents.

In many cases that meant the servants moved to the Pointes to work for the prominent families that were beginning to move out of Detroit and into the Pointes.

The Club offered classes in "manual arts," said Bruce. Women could take courses in sewing, cooking, gardening, and other "feminine" arts. It was the early part of the 20th century after all, Bruce said. Men could participate in what is described in the minutes of the time as "manly" activities like boxing.

There was a major typhoid epidemic in 1917-1918. The Club, which always had a health program, hired a nurse to treat the sick of Grosse Pointe. There were no hospitals in the area at the time and hiring of a single nurse eventually resulted in the building of Cottage Hospital, Bruce said.

"These 24 ladies in 1928 raised money to build the second Neighborhood Club gym on what is now Elworthy Field in the City," said Bruce. "That same year, they also raised the money needed to build Cottage Hospital. For years, the boards of the Neighborhood Club and Cottage Hospital were identical. But as time went on, different members joined the two boards, and they became distinct and separate entities."

"In one year, these ladies raised the money, hired the building firm and oversaw the construction of the new Club gym. It had meeting rooms, tennis courts, paddle ball courts and a kiln. It was an amazing time."

The 1920s were boom times in Detroit. The same can't be said for the 1930s. The Depression was felt even in Grosse Pointe. During that time, the Club became a welfare agency, said Bruce. The role of government was vastly different 60 years ago. There were no state, county or federal agencies to run welfare programs. The Neighborhood Club stepped in to fill that void.

"The Club ran a food co-op," said Bruce. "Families that were homeless slept there. There was a real shift in focus to meet the needs of the times. But at the same time, some of the best women's basketball and softball teams of that era operated out of the Neighborhood Club. It just shows that women's sports didn't begin with Title IX in the 1970s."

In the 1940s, the Club again shifted its focus to meet the needs of the war effort.

"The Neighborhood Club became an official USO center," said Bruce. "There were a lot of military bases in the area that sprang up overnight. GIs were being shipped overseas all the time. There were dances and going away parties all the time."

After the war, the Club decided to change its focus once much of its United Way funding.

That meant that the club had to adjust to smaller budgets. At the same time, the gym built in 1928 was having structural problems, and was condemned.

The Club's solution was to again shift focus. Athletic programs, in many instances, were being operated out of school gyms.

So the land the Club gym was on was sold to the school system for $225,000. That money was used to build the teen center at the Club's present location on Waterloo across the street from the old gym, which became Elworthy Field.

During the mid-1960s, youth culture changed. The Club used to hold dances five nights a week.

"I first started working at the Club in the mid-1960s, and the teen center was a place for teens to go to," Bruce said. "Drinking had always been a problem, but we knew how to handle that. But suddenly we were confronted with drugs, hard drugs like heroin. No one knew how to deal with that."

"The neighborhood club began to get a sinister reputation. Parents would call up and say their kids bought drugs here. The dances became less wholesome. Our response was to start the first drug treatment programs in Grosse Pointe. That angered a lot of people. Their attitude seems to have been that any drug problems should have been handled privately. They blamed the messenger."

In the early 1970s, the Club's board decided to shift its emphasis back to recreation. That coincided with the explosion of sports, including women's sports. Membership grew from just under 1,000 to about 7,000. All kinds of leagues were formed for all kinds of sports and for Grosse Pointe residents of all ages. It became a club for more than just kids. Every gym in Grosse Pointe was booked for Club activities.

The Club grew so fast that another wing was added to the building. Programs were also developed for senior citizens.

"Right now we are keeping that course," Bruce said. "We have over 500 volunteer coaches for all our activities. They do a great job, and we couldn't function without them."

The Club gets 70 percent of its funding from user fees. Another 20 percent comes from the thrift shop which started as a one-time sale in the 1920s, and never stopped. The rest of the funding comes through fund-raising campaigns and a small endowment, said Bruce.

"The Club has a long and proud history in Grosse Pointe," Bruce said. "It has had only three executive directors. George Elworthy retired in 1961, after 43 years. Ed Krattli was director for 10 years. I've been director for 22 years. Continuity and history are very important to us. We want to continue to serve the needs of Grosse Pointers for a long time to come."

The first Neighborhood Club was built at Kercheval and Muir in Grosse Pointe Farms, near where Cottage Hospital is located today. This picture, taken in 1918, shows how the area and the club has changed in 75 years.

again, and concentrate on the needs of families. The club helped start the Little League program and set up athletic leagues. It became a family oriented place.

But by the early 1960s, things were beginning to change. The Club is a non-profit organization, and for years it got much of its funding from the United Way. In the early 1960s, the United Way was shifting its focus toward social programs. The Neighborhood Club, by this time, had moved away from its welfare emphasis, and as a result lost

Stick to candy, not animals, for Easter and avoid unwanted surprises

The magic of Easter is here, bringing with it the Easter bunny, jelly beans and colorful egg hunts. But as you anticipate filling those baskets (no doubt while you're wiping food coloring off your kitchen chairs), keep in mind that bunnies, baby chicks, ducklings or gerbils are not appropriate Easter gifts or basket fillers.

With Eastern Market vendors selling bunnies and chicks dirt cheap now, think before you buy. True, these adorable fuzzy creatures are irresistible, but it's important to remember that pets shouldn't be given as gifts unless a firm commitment is made by the recipient to raising them and providing the very best for them.

Alexis Hagerman of the Michigan Anti-Cruelty Society says, "People don't realize a bunny or guinea pig can live to be 7 years old. They're cute and cuddly, but a week later when the novelty wears off, people end up letting them go in the park or bringing them to the shelter, and small animals are difficult to place in homes."

Ron Blauet, director of education for the Michigan Humane Society, says that very often when people bring home baby chicks or ducks, they don't realize what lies ahead in caring for the animal.

These animals have special needs and require special housing. They're not meant to live in the house like an average pet, and they can't be potty-trained or paper-trained.

Remember the "I Love Lucy" episode where she and Ethel brought home 500 baby chicks to raise? If you do, then you'll remember the problems they encountered as well, primarily when Lucy and Ethel learned "after-the-fact" that baby chicks needed to be kept in incubators for a certain period of time. So, they had to turn up the heat to about 98 degrees, transforming Lucy's house into one large incubator until they figured out what to do with the wandering peepers.

Geese and ducks can present difficulties as well. Little Gosie Gander can win hearts over in an instant, but once he's all grown up, be careful. These guys can get pretty large and generally aren't amused by doting adults, playful children or curious family pets. Geese and ducks often are very temperamental and, trust me, they'll bite — hard.

So — unless you have the appropriate space, equipment and necessities to raise these extraordinary animals — chicks, ducks and sometimes even bunnies aren't recommended as model pet companions. They do, however, love it when you visit them on the farm or at area zoos.

I'd also like to announce the upcoming Michigan Humane Society's 1993 Rosey's Grand Mutt Derby on Sunday, April 25, at the Michigan State Fair

Coliseum.

Canines participating in the derby are registered in specific classes and heats with other dogs of similar size and weight. At race time, owners encourage their mutts to stay at one end of the coliseum while they slowly walk to the other. When signaled, each owner frantically screams and waves bright toys in the air to get their dog's attention — ultimately persuading them to run down the track without stopping to "smell the roses," or anything else, along the way.

The derby brings animal lovers and owners together for a carefree and unrestricted afternoon. This event is wonderful fun for the entire family.

The entry fee is $6 and general admission is $3 (children under 12 are admitted free). Racers must wear a collar (showing a valid license), must remain on a leash at all times except when racing, and must have proof of current vaccinations.

This year, WJR's Jimmy Barrett will be the Chief Barker, and all proceeds assist the society's animal rescue division.

Senior men to discuss gardening

The Senior Men's Club of Grosse Pointe will meet at 11 a.m. Tuesday, April 13, at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, 32 Lakeshore, Grosse Pointe Farms.

The speaker will be Don Jucharts, retired director of the Michigan State Extension Service. His topic will be "Spring Has Sprung — All You Need to Know About Gardening." The presenter will be Joseph Crea.

Speaking of spring, the Senior Men's Club has scheduled a couple of outings.

On Wednesday, April 28, at 2 p.m., members will go to the fully restored Gem Theater downtown to see the "All New Forbidden Broadway 1993."

Main-floor seating has been reserved. Cost is $11.25 and $5 for secured parking.

On Wednesday, May 12, the senior men will travel to Hidden Lake and its surrounding 670-acre landscape arboretum. The bus leaves the Grosse Pointe Memorial Church parking lot at 9:15 a.m.

The tour will include a visit to the famous Hathaway House in Blissfield for a buffet lunch, followed by leisure time browsing in the quaint country town. Arrival back at Memorial Church should be about 5:45 p.m.

Call Sheldon Flynn at 882-8404 for more information and reservations.

Clown Corps enters into centennial

Grosse Pointe City and Farms are celebrating their centennials this year, and the Grosse Pointe Corps want to be part of the action.

The corps has a lot of openings that must be filled. If you're interested in joining the corps, the next meeting is Tuesday, April 13, at 7 p.m. in the Grosse Pointe Woods city council chambers, 20025 Mack. All adults and children in grades 1-12 are welcome to experience the world of clowning.

Also, the clown corps will be collecting canned food for the homeless on Saturday, April 10, in the Woods council chambers.

For more information, call clown corps chairman Arthur J. Kuehnel at 881-8186.

Pointes fear new losses in tax-shift plan

Fears arose this week that the June 2 referendum on a state tax shift would further limit revenues for the Grosse Pointe public schools.

Currently, many taxpayers in the Pointes and elsewhere are disappointed by their inability to get a precise reading on their personal tax gains and losses, assuming approval of the tax-shift package.

But by the time June comes every property owner ought to have a better idea than he now has about how much he would save from the property tax cut and how much the 2-cent sales tax increase would cost him.

At this writing, officials of the Grosse Pointe public schools aren't even sure how much they will lose from the proposed tax shift but Chris Fenton, assistant superintendent for business and support services, is not optimistic.

Opinion

He thinks the new legislation could mean a loss of about $2 million in the first year and as much as $4 million a year thereafter.

He cautions, however, that those are preliminary estimates because effects of the wide-ranging provisions of the complex tax-shift package have not yet been explained to the satisfaction of the local school people.

In addition to the apparent loss of revenue for the Grosse Pointe school district, the new plan also would give Lansing more authority over the spending of the Pointes' own school funds and would take away from the local school board some of its power to make those decisions.

At present, for example, school districts can raise their own taxes to meet their needs if the district is not already at its maximum levy and if the people approve such a plan in a referendum.

But under the new program control over taxes and spending would be reduced by new state caps on assessments and limits on increases in assessments.

That, however, is only one of many matters still not clarified.

In addition, the new limitations cover spending for the local public library as well as the schools, even though the library, while directed and managed by the school board and administration, is supported by its own levy.

Again, the new plan apparently would require the local schools to pay for one-half of the growth in retirement pay contributions for employees, a factor that could cost the district another $40,000 to $100,000 a year.

At best, the local district apparently would be limited to a 27-mill levy for school purposes, as contrasted with the current levy of 32.3165 mills, excluding debt service levy which is not covered by the new proposal.

However, if the tax-shift plan is approved, some districts, including the Pointes, might be forced to borrow to perform major repairs and maintenance and then levy more than the 27-mill limit to finance the borrowing.

The proposal would provide for some reimbursement to the local district for revenue lost from lower property taxes. It would come from revenues from the higher sales tax.

Unfortunately, as Fenton reads it, the proposal guarantees reimbursement from the sales tax revenue only for the first year with the Legislature left to make the reimbursement decision in the future.

All of which raises new doubts about what the tax-shift proposal really would mean to the Grosse Pointe school district and its citizens.

Engler risks reelection bid

Gov. John Engler is going on the stump on behalf of the tax-shift plan to boost the sales tax and cut property taxes but he's also using the issue to promote his reelection in 1994.

His early efforts in pushing his proposal through both houses of the Legislature have won unusual and almost unanimous praise from the Lansing press corps.

But now the question is whether he also can win public approval of the 2-cent sales tax hike and the entire tax-shift program without risking his reelection bid.

Engler himself sees the odds in favor of approval as 60-40 as he told reporters after taping the Friday TV show, "Off the Record," one of his first public appearances to sell the tax-shift program.

Unfortunately, several factors do work against approval of the referendum.

First, is the continuing public mistrust of Lansing politicians. A second is the crushing defeat of two similar referenda in the 1980s. A third is the opposition of some labor unions and the neutral position taken by the Michigan Education Association.

Yet the governor does have important data on his side. Michigan is 30 percent above the national average on property taxes and 29.6 percent below it on sales taxes. Engler's plan would leave Michigan about average on sales taxes and just 0.6 of 1 percent above average on property taxes.

Yet the question remains whether Engler and the other supporters can win the backing of those single-minded voters, including many in the Pointes, who want property tax relief without any ifs, ands or buts and without any increase in taxes on sales or anything else.

That remains the big issue. Unfortunately, Engler himself helped arouse hopes of a property tax cut without any replacement of revenue by his 1992 sponsorship of Proposal C which promised to do just that — but went down to defeat.

One big vote

The state referendum at a special election June 2 will contain all the major elements of the tax-shift proposal that would cut school operating property taxes and hike the sales tax by 2 cents on the dollar.

That means, according to the Michigan Municipal League, that all of the proposed constitutional issues will be taken as a single vote and all will either pass or fail.

The Senate version of the legislation eliminated the 1994 assessment freeze proposed in the House version but may add it later. If left as it is and the referendum is approved, the legislation would limit assessment increases to 5 percent, or the rate of inflation, whichever is less, starting in 1994. If amended to include the freeze, it would impose the 5 percent cap on assessment increases starting in 1995.

Whatever happens, 1993 assessments on individual parcels of property would be rolled back to an increase of 3 percent, the 1992 rate of inflation, and would be applied to the July 1, 1993, tax billings.

A man ahead of his time?

It's never too late to read a good biography and it is especially appropriate to read the 1990 story of the life and times of FDR's favorite curmudgeon, Harold Ickes, in the opening months of a new Democratic president's term.

The biography, "Righteous Pilgrim," by T.H. Watkins, a vice-president of the Wilderness Society and editor of its magazine, Wilderness, is a superb account of the early days of the New Deal and the important role Ickes played as secretary of the interior in FDR's cabinet.

Blue Monday

For Michigan sports fans, it was truly a blue Monday as the Wolverines' Fabulous Five and their cohorts lost the NCAA basketball championship to North Carolina, 77 to 71, and the Detroit Tigers lost their 1993 baseball opener to Oakland, 9 to 4.

It was a sad ending to another fine season for the U of M team, which finished as runnerup to the NCAA champion for the second straight year after a thriller in which it had a chance to win until the final seconds.

With the Wolves trailing by only two points, Michigan star Chris Webber called for a time-out when there weren't any left. That technical foul gave North Carolina two free throws, possession of the ball — and the game.

As for the Tigers, it's enough to report that their pitching failed again.

Blue Monday indeed.

In many respects, Ickes was ahead of his time. He fought the good fight for conservation — expansion of the national park system, protection of the national forests and other environmental programs — long before protection of the environment became nationally popular.

Harold L. Ickes had been a Teddy Roosevelt Republican, who, disgusted with the GOP choices who followed Teddy, had enthusiastically endorsed FDR in 1932 and backed him in 1936, 1940 and 1944, too.

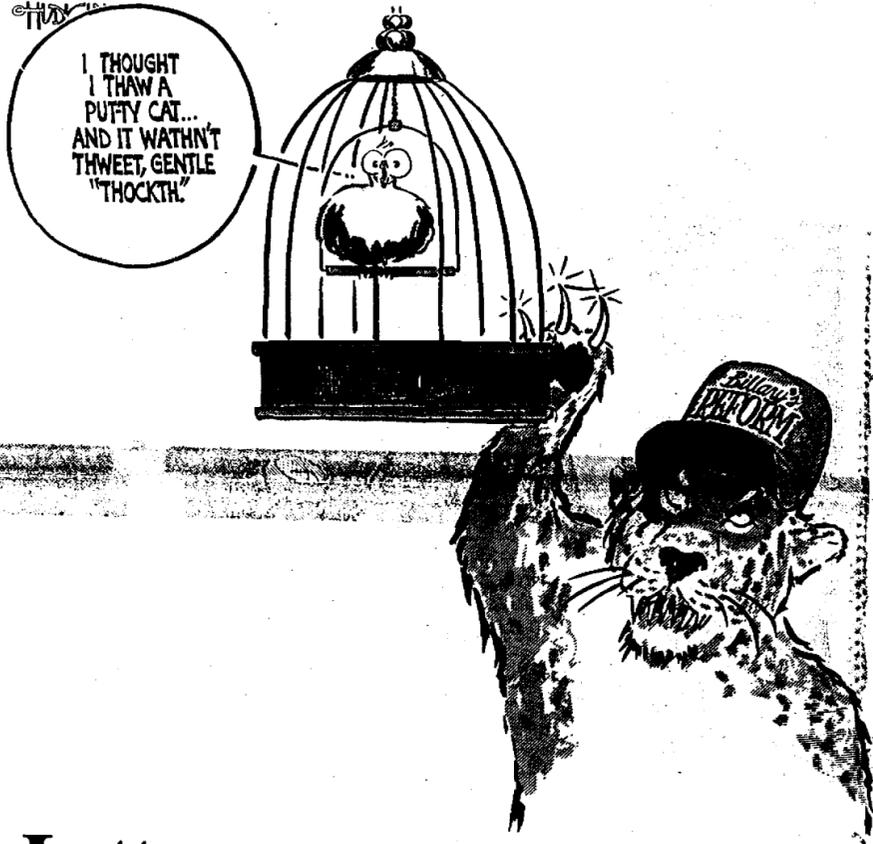

So why should we read about Ickes now after all the years that have passed since the New Deal days?

One reason might be because, with a small army of other Bull Moosers, Ickes "had stood at the head of a middle-class revolution that was to inform most of this country's twentieth century political life," Watkins says.

"At its core was a strain of optimism that was as old and durable as the Republic itself, a conviction that men and women somehow could take hold of their government and shape it to great ends, great deeds."

Those words express Ickes' creed as well as the author's view that the Bull Moosers were the political forebears of the New Deal, and, in some readers' view, of the Clinton presidency as well.

Overall, "Righteous Pilgrim" is an excellent and well-researched biography for anyone interested in the New Deal, FDR's tough reformer, Harold Ickes, and the valuable advice their experiences offer to today's Democratic president, Bill Clinton.

Graduates deserve prayer

To the Editor:

Since the Supreme Court ruling that banned prayer by religious leaders at public school commencement ceremonies has brought about such dissension among our students, it would seem obvious that some peace is needed.

Graduation is a time not just for receiving the coveted paper diploma, but a time for meaningful words.

It is said that "In spite of the horrors and miseries which exist throughout the world, God is present wherever there is beauty and gladness and truth."

For our seniors, the beauty is in their very existence, the gladness in what they have accomplished, and the truth is the world they now will face.

Never could there be a more appropriate time to extend a blessing — a special wish for success and for each of them to be all they can be.

Can there be violation of constitutional rights in sending our young adults into the confusing world with some purpose of direction? I think not. How sad that our decisions are now based on the few who might bring lawsuits against us rather than on the many who welcome our blessings of encouragement and concern.

A simple prayer — non-committal to any particular group — could be easily written by our above average Grosse Pointe graduates without the input of any clergy.

If there be true atheists, let them continue in their blindness as a minority — not exalted and pacified over the majority.

If children are truly the reason for our work and what we are about, why would we send them so coldly from our midst? Or cast them out without even a simple "Peace be with you."

A Good Friday poem

The Prologue

The wife of Pilate dreamed for all
To heed the dream and heed the call.
And every man must keep the trust
To join the mob or join the Christ.

The Dream

In the uncreated world of sleep
The muted moving specters can
With weird and soundless pictures keep
A wordless rendezvous with man.

The unheard thunder rolling high,
As, silently, it shatters dreams,
And lightning forms across the sky

A jagged cross mid muffled screams.

The frenzied wife of Pilate fights
The shadowed specter's mocking stare;
And waking from her terror flights,
She cries in vain for Pilate to beware!

The Epilogue

And everyone who hears in vain
Will wash the hands, but keep the stain.
The angry heavens roar, and valleys sob,
And everyone is on the cross or in the mob!

Park police chief credits community, special patrols for reduced crime

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

Intensive border patrols and community cooperation contributed to the lowest number of serious crimes reported in Grosse Pointe Park in 20 years.

The Park had 489 total Part-One or serious crimes reported in 1992, according to a report submitted to city council last month. The Park reported 596 serious crimes in 1991; 930 in 1981; and 769 in 1971.

Part-One crimes are murder, first-degree criminal sexual conduct (rape), armed and unarmed robbery, aggravated assault, forcible burglary, auto theft, larceny and arson.

The number of arrests made by the department increased to 81 in 1992 over 71 in 1991.

Statistics on criminal activity and arrests are compiled annually by the department and submitted to the Michigan State Police for compilation in state and federal crime reports.

Richard Caretti, director of public safety, said a number of factors contributed to the decrease in crime in 1992.

"We increased the number of cars on patrol, creating a constant presence," Caretti said.

The Directed Patrol unit uses plainclothes officers in unmarked cars that concentrate on trouble areas.

"The unmarked cars patrol high-crime areas with the primary responsibility of investigating suspicious persons," he said.

Other factors contributing to the decreased numbers are the continuing depopulation along the border areas of the city, the department's crime-prevention program offered to the community and the schools, and the confidence the residents have in the department.

"I would like to emphasize the spirit of cooperation between the public safety department and the residents," he said. "They have confidence in the department. That is the No. 1 issue in crime prevention. If they know that there will be an immediate response, they'll call. If they know there won't be, they don't bother."

The department has five cars on patrol per shift, he said, and typically a car is 1 1/2 minutes away from any situation.

While the numbers reflect an overall decrease, there are some areas of concern for the department.

Burglary and theft reports are down, but the number of larcenies has increased.

"There have been a lot of hubcap larcenies," he said. "It's easy to do; wheelcovers are very expensive, with some costing $100 apiece. They can be removed in a matter of minutes and apparently there is a market for them."

The department has also reported an increase in the number of second, third and fourth-degree criminal sexual conduct cases. Many of these incidents involve child abuse, Caretti said, and the numbers would not have come to the department's attention without the cooperation of school, medical and social service workers.

The department's youth officer, Sgt. James Smith, is credited with helping to draw out the facts in these cases, Caretti said.

"In most instances, when you have these reports (of child abuse), there is the tendency (in society) to push them aside," he said. "Through the delicate handling of these situations, we have obtained warrants that resulted in successful prosecution."

The department saw an increase in arrest activity for non-index or Part-Two crimes like stolen checks, narcotic, vandalism, weapons offenses, gambling and violations of the liquor laws.

"In many instances, the officers apprehend people coming into the community and find a gun or contraband on them," he said. "These become statistics that we wouldn't otherwise have if the officers were not out there ferreting these cases out."

No matter how good the numbers appear, Caretti said in his report, the department has not forgotten the murder of Phyllis Lenart on Jan. 16, 1992. Lenart was killed in a random street crime on Jefferson and Wayburn and became the first murder victim in recent Park history.

Jewelry stolen from Park home

A resident who lives in the 500 block of Lakepointe told police that on March 26 someone broke into his house through a back porch door and stole several pieces of jewelry from one of the bedrooms.

The burglar apparently cut the back porch screen, broke the glass and reached through the window to unlock the door. The house was searched, but was not ransacked.

Shame on movies records and TV!

A GRASSROOTS PETITION TO THE ENTERTAINMENT INDUSTRY

We Are Outraged!

Help us get one million petitions!

And We're Not Going To Put Up With It Any Longer!

We're a group of mothers, fathers, grandparents and other citizens who are outraged at how today's movies, TV programs, music-videos and records are hurting our children, our families and our country. For example:

We're DISMAYED that today 1.1 million girls between the ages of 15 and 19 get pregnant each year.

We're SHOCKED when we learn that two thirds of all births to 15 and 19 year old girls are out of wedlock.

We're FRIGHTENED at the way violence and crime are spreading everywhere and threatening our children, our families and our homes.

We say it's time to put the blame where we think it belongs:

SHAME on the music industry for letting singers who are the idols of our children put out RECORDS and MUSIC-VIDEOS which blatantly encourage sex and 'say' to our children that sex is proper at any age . . . that everyone is 'doing it' . . . and abstinence is old fashioned.

SHAME on Hollywood for an endless stream of films filled with PROFANITY, NUDITY, SEX, VIOLENCE and KILLINGS. For example, the giant hit "Basic Instinct" features murders during orgasms, setting a new standard of perversion even for today's movies.

SHAME on NBC TV for allowing "Saturday Night Live", which is a favorite with young people, to put on skits about masturbation, morticians having sex with dead people etc., etc., ad nauseam.

SHAME on TV programmers whose desire for ratings and profits results in the average child of 16 having seen more than 200,000 ACTS OF VIOLENCE AND 33,000 MURDERS. Is it any wonder violence is epidemic?

SHAME on the film industry which long ago stopped reflecting the values of most families and has now abolished the "X" rating, replacing it with "NC-17" so sex-filled, erotic, bloody films will no longer be barred from community movie houses.

SHAME ON TV Soap Opera producers whose standards of decency have sunk so low one of them tells his writers, "Hot, make it hot", and another admits they are trying to see "just how far they can 'push it' on daytime" . . . when they KNOW that during afternoon hours more than two thirds of all TV viewers are children!

Yes, we are OUTRAGED at all this . . . and a great deal more. We say the tragic price our children, families and country are paying demands something be done to end what's going on. Alone we can't stop it. But together we think we can.

The REAL CAUSE of the sex, violence, filth and profanity is with the writers, directors, producers, singers, actors, etc. But THEY can be controlled. All it takes is for the Boards of Directors of their companies to order them to stop! Remember when movies were wholesome family entertainment? That's when people at the top SET STANDARDS AND ENFORCED them. We're going to insist that happen again.

Together We Can Make It Happen

We're asking every reader of this ad to help us run it all over America . . . AND send in the petition on the right. Every 2 months we're going to send every member of the Boards of Directors of the entertainment companies a copy of the ad and tell them the total number of petitions received. They're going to KNOW American families are outraged.

Most Board members are not in the entertainment business. They are good, decent, respected people with children of their own. But they have been shutting their eyes to what's going on. We're going to get them to SPEAK UP.

Spare us the censorship lecture — you in the entertainment industry. And this is not an appeal for prudery. All we want is to get the movie, TV and record industries to act responsibly. Our children, our families and our country are being hurt too much for us to remain silent.

Right now mail the petition on the right. Please enclose a contribution to help pay for another ad like this. We'll do the rest.

All it takes is for enough of us who are outraged to ACT. Can we count on YOU? Mail the petition NOW!

Yes, I am outraged with the way TV, movies, music-videos and records are destroying traditional family values and promoting violence. By sending in this signed petition I am showing my support. I want to help run this ad all across Michigan. You agree to let the Directors of the entertainment companies know every 2 months of the progress of this effort and you agree to use funds from this ad to run it in many other papers. I am enclosing a tax deductible contribution of $ _____ to help pay for ads and to get those in charge to SET HIGHER STANDARDS AND TO ENFORCE THEM.

P.S. We will not give your name to the members of the Boards of Directors or sell, or rent your name to any other organization. It is the total number of petitions that we receive that is important.

This project is very important. If you can't send a contribution please mail this petition to add to the total number we receive. Thanks for your concern!

Surviving the storm of 1993

It wasn't supposed to be a luxurious week at the Ritz-Carlton. It wasn't Outward Bound either. Or anything akin to being marooned in the Smoky Mountains with wet socks and frozen toes. Or crash-landing in the Andes and scrutinizing your companions to determine which one looks like an hors d'oeuvre and which one looks like an entree.

It was just Stephanie's and Sandy's Excellent Adventure. Just as we forty- and fifty-somethings remember where we were when John F. Kennedy was assassinated, my two oldest daughters will remember where they were when The Storm of 1993 sashayed through the southeastern states, because they were in the middle of it.

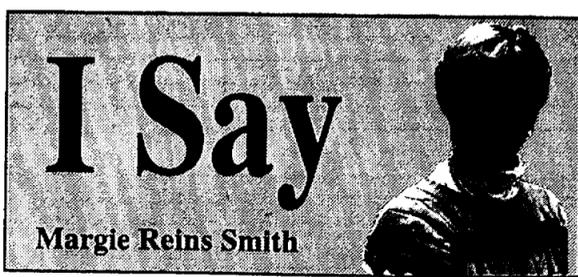

On Friday, March 12, Day One of the Storm of the Century, they rolled up their sleeping bags and stashed them in the car. They packed a bunch of bathing suits, shorts, T-shirts, sandals and a collection of half-full bottles, tubes and spray cans of suntan lotion — an accumulation representing two dozen different sun-protection factors, a half dozen after-tan products and several sunburn treatments.

They signed an anti-sororicide pact, gassed up the car, checked the oil, kissed the dog, and rumbled away, southbound on I-75.

Destination: Florida. Goal: The best tans ever.

My two twentysomething daughters returned safely from a vacation that, while it wasn't as much of a downer as the Donner Party's less-than-excellent trip over the Rocky Mountains in the spring of 1847, nevertheless had its disappointments.

Frontier women wore their sunbonnets faithfully, to preserve their delicate complexions while they rattled slowly over rutted trails in leaky Conestoga wagons. They worried about being attacked by angry Indians, running out of food and water, surviving raging rivers, and conquering diseases, floods, blizzards, drought, and accidents.

On the frontier, death was Mother Nature's way of saying "slow down."

My daughters had to spend two nights and two days in a motel in Loudon, Tenn., a town they described as "so small, it didn't even have a 7-Eleven."

They whiled away the blizzard of the century watching TV talk shows, playing cards, sleeping and fretting about their pale, fluorescent-colored skin.

They spent another night parked beside a southbound I-75 exit ramp, tucked inside their sleeping bags. Hundreds of sidetracked travelers shared their plight in a 100-mile-long parking lot on I-75 north of Atlanta.

Unlike the Donners, who didn't get a chance to call ahead to cancel their reservations, my daughters at least eased my fears by calling from a cellular phone in a car next to them in the expressway gridlock.

"We're OK," they assured me. "But we haven't showered or washed our hair for two days."

Cannibalism probably wasn't even considered, but Daughter No. 1 complained that spending 72 hours in a compact car and a tiny motel room with her sister was like sitting next to a sack full of six-week-old puppies.

"She hopped back and forth from the front to the back seat. She wiggled and fidgeted and jumped around and flipped up and down and bounced to the music on her Walkman constantly," Stephanie said, exasperated.

They limped into a motel in Key Largo during a rainstorm two days and one night after leaving Loudon — unshowered, unshampooed, unhappy and untanned, feeling only slightly more attractive than half-full buckets of lukewarm dog drool.

"Lighten up," I said, "pioneer women bathed only when the weather was warm, in streams. Great-grandma took a bath and washed her hair once a week in a big tub behind the kitchen stove, in the same bathwater the rest of the family used."

Their reaction: "Gross."

They arrived in Key West long before the sunshine. They waited another two days, wistfully examining, shaking, shifting and rearranging their collection of sun protection products.

When the sun finally appeared, they stretched out like limp pieces of raw bacon and fried themselves crisp.

On the way home, a Florida patrolman stopped them for exceeding the speed limit.

Normally, this would have been upsetting, they said.

"By that time, we didn't care about tickets," they said. "It was a minor glitch. We told the cop all about our vacation — being stuck in Tennessee and marooned on I-75 and sleeping in the car and not finding any sunshine."

He felt sorry for them.

"We promised never to drive over the posted speed limit for the rest of our natural lives," they said.

They got off scot-free. That was the excellent part of the adventure.

Clinton's albatros: Gays in the military

It looks like Bill Clinton is getting ready to make a hash of the gays-in-the-military issue. His famed penchant for compromise is looking more like waffling that will make both sides mad.

He probably misjudged the amount of opposition to his plan. But, once started, he should have gone ahead and lifted the ban back in January. Sure, opponents would have screamed, but they did anyway and now the uproar will last at least six months, if not much longer.

His latest mistake was the curious comment that he would consider segregating gays. Sorry, Bill, that's just stupid.

It's odd how bathrooms become the focus of these discussions. All this talk of funny business in the showers reminds me that fear of unisex bathrooms sank the Equal Rights Amendment.

It certainly suggests some deep-seated male fear. It's OK guys, women and gays will manage to restrain themselves in your presence. We're already working alongside you in offices and keeping our cool.

Europeans are ga-ga over American Elvis stamps. A friend here sent her English love a valentine stamped with three Elvises, but it never arrived. When he inquired at the post office, they said most likely someone, probably a postal worker (!), had cut the stamps off as a souvenir. It's the latest fad.

I can't get used to the idea

that American stars are as big — or bigger — across the waters as they are here. (It's quite sobering, actually, driving one to reflect deeply on the future of civilization.) When I took a little tourist boat in Germany, the first thing they pointed out was the hotel where Michael Jackson always stays.

Yikes.

OK, everybody ready for your Chinese lesson? What do you mean, you don't want to learn Chinese? You must! — we have to prepare ourselves for a global economy.

But I'll make it easy on you. Today, we'll only learn one word: Shu.

It means:

Book, express, uncle, comb, different, extremely, special, stretch, leisurely, distant, sparse, disperse, dredge, transport, lose, vegetables, ripe, hear, tree.

Got it?

Chinese is voiced and inflected, the ups and downs of expression creating different meanings. So when you go to the market and tell the vendor "wo yao" ("I want"), be careful you don't inadvertently tell him "wo yao" ("I bark and snap"). Vendors hate when you do that.

At first blush, Gov. Engler's tax shift plan looks all right — as a tax shift plan. But it isn't an answer to Michigan's school problems.

The benefits of the property tax cut are unevenly spread, and the increased sales tax would doubtless wipe out any savings. The sales tax hike would bring Michigan more or less in line with most other states. Yes, it's regressive; yes, an income tax increase might be fairer; no, it won't cause people to stop buying. And it would plug the gap caused by lowering property taxes.

But that said, the results to the majority of the state's school districts look like a wash. Only the poorest districts would see any improvement. Even districts now spending as little as $3,800 or $4,000 per pupil would probably not see much real improvement because of having to pick up retirement costs for employees.

State treasurer Doug Roberts has been quoted as saying that "we have made the judgment that on $4,800 per pupil, you can run a school system." But is it any good?

We still need school reform.

The debate (now thankfully settled) surrounding the selection process for attorney general was a reminder of a lingering anti-woman bias in this country — the same kind of feeling I noticed during the home day care debates in Grosse Pointe about four years ago. In spite of the fact that America educates her daughters, a pervasive opinion remains that, once educated, women should stay home and stay quiet.

I don't mean only the nanny issue. I mean the gleeful way some leaped on the disclosure that an applicant had once trained as a Playboy Bunny, the insistence on asking unmarried Cabinet appointees if they were lesbians, the obvious relief when Clinton found a plain-jane old maid in Janet Reno (though she, too, had to swear she likes guys).

Smart, good-looking, careerist moms like Kimba Wood and Zoe Baird just made people uncomfortable.

News from the consumer safety front: Ten makers of china have agreed to reduce the lead content of their glazes. It's only been recently that scientists realized that the amount of lead in china and crystal was high enough to cause real health concerns.

The Environmental Defense Fund (the same folks who brought us recycling at McDonald's) sued the china manufacturers in California. Under the agreement, manufacturers must put a bright yellow warning label on any product over the lead limit.

Since consumers aren't likely to choose a pattern with a warning label, the effect will be to switch to low-lead glazes — and, since California is such a large market, the low-lead effect is likely to be worldwide, according to the manufacturers. Good news, for a change.

B&B winners

All the loyal friends of Billie and Ronn Serba are chuckling as they savor lavish plaudits heaped on their Harbor Springs Bed & Breakfast, the sumptuous Kimberly Country Estates.

It was converted from an 8,000-square-foot colonial horse farm to the overnighters' home — not only one of five suites, but a den, rec room, alcove, library, dining room, snack nook.

The inn is the pride of 37 years together for these two former Kimberly Corners folks, now B&B proprietors.

They were lauded in the prestigious Country Inns magazine and were selected spring 1993 Inn-of-the-Month winners.

Gilmore's 75th

The 75th birthday gathering held for respected federal Judge Horace Gilmore of the Park turned out scads of Pointers and a ton of big political/judicial/social brass last Sunday.

Toasts were heaped upon toasts, mostly heralding his semi-retirement from the bench (federal court calls it "Senior Status"), though he'll stay at work and on the payroll for the lifetime appointment. Judge Gilmore's public service spans four decades, with honors galore.

Redcoats at GPYC

It was a big turnout at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club last Wednesday, March 31, for The Marine Corps' Redcoats — vets of four wars banded together for camaraderie, perpetuating traditions as Ye Knights of Olde.

They meet about 10 times a year, and hold a huge gala celebration every spring at the GPYC, called Mess Night. The affair attracts loyal corps folks to toast international leaders and the men and women of the USMC.

The luncheon rotates by locations — this year's sponsored by Trombley Road retired Col. Minert (Tommy) Thompson. Some locals present: George Coughlin, John Malzewski, Col. Rich Scott (current head of Marine activities at Brodhead Armory), Whit Ballew and Russ Paquette.

Waitresses love all those uniforms and medals, but disappear when bawdy stories begin among whispering clusters of old buddies, reliving days of yore — WWII, Korea, Vietnam, Kuwait.

Other local Red Coats: Walter Gibbs, William (Whit) Ballew, Ralph D. Fagge, Jr.,

By Hugh Munce

Frank McBride Jr., and William Draper.

Domestic violence addressed

A new standing committee on domestic violence has been created by the State Bar of Michigan — the Lansing-centered base for our 28,000 lawyers — and the chair is the Park's Dawn Van Hoek.

The vital child-spouse unit will work with the Task Force for Children in the Justice System in child-spouse activity, promoting knowledge of individuals, police, lawyers, assistance, and access to aid.

Van Hoek cited abuses which turned to real crime when ignored at the first sign, when beatings and death resulted from conflicts and arguments within families:

"It's not something that just happens to other people and early symptoms must be spotted and behavior brought to the attention of authorities. Getting attention, help, legal advice and protection is the key, which must be quick, cheap and sound."

She is a bar commissioner and chairs the representative assembly, the governing body of the lawyers. Both she and husband, Peter Jon, work for the State Appellate Defenders' office, studying, altering, criticizing legal procedures in the public interest, as checks on courts, their procedures and processing.

Letters

Dear Chief Justice:
The (appellate) court's recent opinion on forbidding "prayers" at commencements or other functions at schools appears rather inconsistent with the general attitude of the more than 200 years' existence of the United States.

The first paragraph of our Declaration of Independence speaks of the "Laws of Nature and of Nature's God."

The First Amendment to the Constitution, ratified in 1791, prohibits Congress from making any law respecting the establishment of religion or the free exercise thereof.

In 1814, Francis Scott Key wrote our national anthem — "The Star Spangled Banner." In the fourth verse are the words "In God is our trust." For more than 100 years, our currency has carried the words "In God We Trust."

The pledge of allegiance speaks of "One nation under God."

In courts of law, people giving testimony are asked to take an oath that they will "tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, so help me God."

I would appreciate your explaining these, apparent to the layman, inconsistencies.

Media not to blame

To the Editor:
Your article on teenage drinking in the opinion column of the Grosse Pointe News of March 4 was very fair.

I think the article showed what happens when an incident is blown out of proportion. Teenage drinking is a problem; "out of control" behavior is a problem, but banning the media from a public meeting is not the answer.

I believe that the media should not have been banned from the public meeting on teenage drinking at Grosse Pointe South High School.

The media was not responsible for the strong language which the school administrators chose to use in their letter to the students' parents. My parents read the letter and assumed that all students were either drunk or out of control at school dances.

I don't think that the school should blame the media for trying to obtain the whole story. Their job is to report the news.

Very few people complain when the media covers "out of control" behavior in the Detroit schools, because it does not affect Grosse Pointe's image. Grosse Pointe South is a public school and the letter was sent to the public, so the media had the right to be there under the First Amendment.

If the media had been allowed to stay at the meeting, South may not have received all this publicity. Teenage drinking has been covered several times before by local newspapers such as yours.

I believe that the school's administration should accept some of the blame for the media circus because of the strong, general language which it used in its letter to the parents.

Hopefully, everyone has learned something from this experience.

Emmett Hynous

TV camera ban OK

To the Editor:
I am writing to you about the article printed in your paper titled "Teen Drinking Coverage Irks Local Parents," on March 4.

I agree with the article that the public should be aware that some Grosse Pointe teens do have a drinking problem. I do not agree that the media's cameras should have been in the meeting that South held mainly for the students' parents.

The citizens of Grosse Pointe should be aware that some teens of their neighborhood have drinking problems. Parents should know about this problem so they can be able to protect their children.

If adults know about the alcoholism problem, then they will not leave alcohol around. If adults who sell alcohol to underaged people become more aware of the consequences of selling to them and decide not to sell to the underaged, it would help the problem of alcoholism. With people putting the alcohol away and not selling to the underaged the problem will be reduced.

If the police departments of Grosse Pointe become more aware of the problem, then the safety of the public would be greater. The school should stay in contact with the police so they can work together. The police should know when there are school events. If people around school hear that there is going to be a big, unsupervised party, those people should call the police and warn them. These actions would, hopefully, help with the drinking problem and with public safety.

I strongly agree with the administrators, parents, and students who decided they did not want the TV cameras in the meeting. The meeting was held to try to resolve a drinking problem at my school. If the cameras were in the meeting, people would be reluctant to speak freely in fear of the media.

MADD: Sports stars

accountable

To the Editor:
Dead is dead.
Drugs are a dead end.
Drinking and driving is a deadly crime, and we're dead tired of preferential treatment and selective arrests depending on whose name is on the license.

Drinking and driving in any vehicle is like a team with a goalie who can't stand up, a pass caught out of bounds, a pitch to a catcher who can't glove a strike — there are no winners.

Our treasured sports figures must live up to the role they present to our youth. When they fall short, every arrest, every crash produces a mixed message, a double standard, an unsettling questioning of trust. When celebrities "drop the ball," it is front-page news. When a person with no star status is killed or arrested, we read it on page 10F or not at all.

We cannot say it enough. Justice will only be served when the scales of the system and when prevention and support are equalized

Know your enemies; could add 20 years to your life

The other day I got into a discussion with a friend of mine about what threat lies ahead, ready to pluck us off after we have passed the magical year of 65. We were guessing — and he perhaps was more serious than I — so the next time we had lunch together, he brought along a medical reprint containing some statistics. You might be interested in them.

Starting with the decreed year of 65, there is still very much that can be done which could add 10 to 20 years to our average life expectancy. Here is a list of the eight most important diseases or conditions that will eventually lead to our demise:

1. Diseases of the heart, 44.7 percent
2. Cancers, 16.8 percent
3. Cerebrovascular diseases, 14.1 percent
4. Influenza and pneumonia, 3.3 percent
5. Arteriosclerosis, 2.5 percent
6. Diabetes, 2.2 percent
7. Accidents, 2 percent
8. Bronchitis, emphysema, asthma, 1.5 percent

This adds up to more than 87 percent. The other 13 percent is covered by all the other causes of death. I give you this list so

Senior Health

By Dr. Roger O. Egeberg

you can think a little more objectively about your own health.

I have discussed this topic in earlier columns, but presuming that you would like to stay well and live longer, I will tell you what your real enemies are. You can do much about avoiding or postponing some of these, and by the time you're 65, if you haven't done so 20 years earlier, you can still make a big difference if you take action now.

The question is: What creates these enemies? For instance, smoking plays a part — a very large part — in numbers 1, 2, and 8, and to a lesser degree has some small influence on the others.

What you eat plays a very important part in causing numbers 1, 3, and 5, and in controlling number 6.

Exercise, moving your body around, plays a significant part in number 1, can play a part in numbers 3 and 5, and may influence number 8.

Immunizations take care of number 4, and influence number 8.

Common sense plays a large part in number 7. Early discovery is still our best overall means of preventing death from cancers.

Your doctor, in his/her evaluation of you, will tell you if any of these diseases or conditions are beginning to make themselves known. He also will suggest how you may prevent or postpone them.

Cancer is a cue word of public interest. We're all afraid of it, so anything new about it would seem to be worth printing. However, you might want to question your doctor about the importance of an item heralded by the newspapers which points to evidence of an association between something that you've been eating all these years, and cancer.

Often the importance of eating a particular food that has recently been found to be related to the incidence of cancer is so slight that it should carry only one hundredth, or even one thousandth, of the value of walking a mile a day.

How to achieve new success at 60

For some, the prospect of retiring in comparable ease made possible by Social Security plus a pension and returns on investments looks good. According to statistics you have anywhere from 15 to 20 years left to do all of the things you've looked forward to doing when you retired.

But suppose you are a person who likes work and its challenges. Leisure time activities to you are just that. What to do?

To answer that question and to provide suggestions, plans and blueprints and examples of how to remain active after retirement, Albert Myers and Christopher P. Anderson have written "Success Over Sixty; How to Plan It, How to Have It, How to Live It." (Summit Books, N.Y.)

Myers is president of the Success Over Sixty Institute. He writes from experience: He founded his own travel agency, launched a hot-air balloon company and started a coal-exporting business.

He contends that men and women over 60 are creative and productive and have something young people do not experience.

The result is a compendium

Prime Time

By Marian Trainor

of carefully aimed facts that result in a convincing argument that it is possible to achieve new successes after what was once regarded as retirement.

"Retirement," Myers says, "is a word that by its very nature implies letting go, dropping out, giving up." Which gives you some idea on how he stands on that subject.

He then goes on to the five C's, five keys to success over 60. They are change, curiosity, communication, confidence, and commitment.

Change, even if it is only for its own sake, he believes, can jolt you into realizing that no matter how long you've lived, there is something new and interesting that you have not done or experienced.

"Maintain curiosity and a sense of wonder to stave off cynicism and defeatism," he advises.

After explaining the five C's, Myers then moves to the practical and tells you how to match your experience with a new career and sets up questionnaires for self-assessment and charts and guides for matching skills and opportunities.

The chapter on going into business for yourself is detailed and informative. Advice is given on the need for professional guidance, research regarding your proposed services and the best location, the legal aspects, whether to buy an established business or start your own, and how to establish goals for growth, financing and managing.

The advantages and disadvantages of buying a franchise are thoroughly explained. To assist the reader who might be interested in buying a franchise, Myers lists sources of where information may be obtained. The list included in a separate chapter is extensive and contains names and addresses and the costs of various kinds of franchises.

Though primarily aimed at the reader who is interested in continuing work after retirement, the author does go into the rewards of volunteerism and the importance of a healthy body and mind.

Cadieux School public property

To the Editor:
The following letter was sent to Grosse Pointe school superintendent Edward Shine on April 3.
Dear Administrators:
It has come to my attention that the fate of the Cadieux School is to be addressed at your meeting Monday, April 5.
I urge you all to take a responsible posture in regard to the sale of one of our community's oldest public buildings, to weigh not only the financial terms of the sale, but to consider the highest and best use of the property as it affects the community at large.

As one involved in the current futuring process for the Grosse Pointes and Harper Woods, I am encouraged by the conclusion drawn by each of the separate task forces: that our buildings are our most valuable asset, now and in the future. Therefore, we must preserve and protect the most significant of them.
In addition, there are many needs not being met in the community at present, e.g., senior housing. These needs and the priority of preserving our significant buildings can meet in the adaptive reuse of a building like the Cadieux School.

As taxpayers we "own" the school properties, and it should be for the benefit of the entire community, its needs and its priorities, that the sale of the Cadieux School be negotiated.
I hope you will consider this in your discussions on April 5.
Patricia R. Colett
Grosse Pointe Farms

learned that parents at Ferry are justifiably proud, too. Well, I am now proud to be a part of the Monteith community. I just want all of my children and all of my neighbors' children to be a part of that same community.
Ken Butts
Grosse Pointe Woods

forementioned route.
That comment is about the sensitivity of the school superintendent when he disregards innovative and responsible input from the school community. That comment is about having the necessary funds to move the school administration, but no extra funds to try an innovative solution for our children.
That comment is about the senselessness of taking action before the state funding level is known. That comment is about the injustice that open-enrollment students attend my neighborhood school while my children do not.
That comment is about the empathy for families who will be suffering through all these feelings when, in the future, Dr. Shine re-addresses the overcrowding problem at Monteith. That comment is about the reality that the Monteith school community is being split apart for no justifiable reason.
For you see, Dr. Shine's proposal does not solve the overcrowding problem at Monteith.
I am new to this process of public debate. I now know that it is not appropriate to make even one flip remark during a 20-minute presentation. I now know that these remarks can be misconstrued and used to deflect attention from the issues at hand.
That Monteith community is being split apart, yet the community has restrained emotion and presented a very cohesive, responsible, and compelling case to the board. The board now must assess its budgetary priorities relative to its commitment to neighborhood schools and community involvement.
In the past few weeks, we have read that the parents, teachers, and students at Poupard are justifiably proud of their school. More recently, I have personally

Pheasant's death unnecessary

To the Editor:
I witnessed the horror of seeing a driver run over a male pheasant. It happened on Grosse Pointe Boulevard between Vendome and Touraine about 10:45 a.m. on Friday, March 26.
Two male pheasants were in combat in the middle of the road and the driver of the vehicle had no traffic around and clear visibility. There appeared to be plenty of time to swerve, brake, honk, or stop. The driver didn't do any of these things and I heard the fatal crunch. I am grateful that one pheasant flew away in time.

The driver is likely a resident of this community and what I witnessed made me angry. We feed pheasants in our yard, and there are other neighbors who feed and enjoy these lovely birds.
I am writing out of concern for these birds and to plead for more alert drivers in our neighborhood.

Who are those people?

Who am I? No, this is not one of those heavy questions. However, it's only fair that I answer those who have inquired as to who is writing this column. My identity is known to many and the only reason the column remains unsigned is not to protect me, but to protect my family. Much of what I write pokes fun at family members and occasionally is embarrassing to them. When this column began a couple years ago, it was decided that I could have more latitude if I remained anonymous.
I do, however, answer phone calls and mail. Nobody's identity is that big a secret! For those precious few who are curious, a scant profile would tell you that: I am a 56-year-old female, married for 35 years, with four children (two girls, two boys, all perfect). I am a lifelong resident of Grosse Pointe and was educated in both the public school system as well as the private, for my high school years.
That's probably more than you ever care or need to know about my personal life. However, recent events have led me on a curiosity kick and I hasten to pass along some advice. In the course of dismantling our parents' home I have been detoured many times. This weekend I stumbled upon a family album consisting of the strangest collection of human beings, my relatives. The most recent picture was taken over 100 years ago. No one ever smiled in these things. Those over 30 look like ax murderers and even the children look like something out of "The Exorcist." Some have names under their pictures. The majority don't. They are a scary bunch.
Now that we are happily awaiting the births of our first grandchildren and feeling our own mortality, we are grateful for the times we live in. We will be able to bridge generations and share so much more than our forefathers were able to do. If we are typical of the generation that has almost forgotten how to take pen in hand, today we have no excuses with the benefits of video and audio tape. We can send messages to our friends and family to see and hear. Long after we are gone these testaments will live on to taunt, haunt, inform or entertain our progeny. We have the capability to leave all sorts of messages and information to new generations. How I wish my grandparents had this technology. I only know my maternal grandparents through related stories and an occasional old letter.
Who am I? Well, I may never know all of the answers to that question, but it would be interesting for me to know who those people in the album were. I think I'll start cranking up the video camera and tell our grandchildren our side of the story, straight from the horse's mouth you know what. That way I can edit, delete, splice and choreograph the material that grandma thinks is pertinent. And, should I choose to leave out certain things, well, Mom always said a little mystery was desirable.
Offering from the Loft

Monteith debate revisited

To the Editor:
Regarding any ill will that my comment at the March 29 school board meeting. ("I get the message that if I want to keep my child in the neighborhood school, I have to keep it mediocre so it doesn't become desirable") may have caused:
That statement is in no way a comment on the quality of education at Mason or Ferry schools, or any other school for that matter. That comment is about the frustration of working hard at my neighborhood school and being denied access.
That comment is about the incredulity that my children are expected to simultaneously attend two different elementary schools. That comment is about the divisiveness of having neighborhood children of the same age attend different schools depending on their birth order.
That comment is about the absurdity that my children are to walk 1.1 miles to school (mostly along Mack and Vernier) when my neighborhood school is 0.7 miles down Holiday. That comment is about the worry that my children are walking the

HEALTH WATCH

How to tip the scales in your favor during pregnancy.

Important gains
At one time, pregnant women were encouraged to gain very little weight for fear they might develop high blood pressure. Unfortunately, low weight gains often resulted in low birth weight babies who were at risk for complications. The "don't worry how much you gain" theory has also wandered in and out of favor. Doctors have now settled on effective guidelines to ensure the health of mother and child.
In general, pregnant mothers should follow these guidelines:
■ If you're a normal weight person ..... Gain 25-35 pounds
■ If you're overweight ..... Gain 15-25 pounds
■ If you're underweight ..... Gain 28-40 pounds

Pounds of prevention
As anyone who's ever been pregnant knows, it's easy to gain more than the recommended pounds. To stay on course, try to eat only 250 more calories a day than you did before becoming pregnant. That's only an extra half sandwich or a cup of yogurt. Eating for two doesn't mean eating twice as much.
Keeping your weight under control helps prevent back pain, stretch marks and varicose veins. It also makes it easier to return to your pre-pregnancy weight. Breastfeeding may help you lose weight faster, too.

A royal exchange

Ariel Day, a second-grader at Trombly Elementary School, visited England with her family earlier this year. She was so taken by her visit she decided to write a letter of thanks to Queen Elizabeth II. Here is her letter, dated Feb. 7, 1993:

*Dear Your Majesty:
I was in London last week. I would like to tell you how beautiful your palace is. I would also like to tell you that I am sort of a big fan of yours. I am also a big fan of your mother. I love your city, too.*

While in London, I visited the Royal Albert Hall where I saw the Bolshoi Ballet. I also saw the Egyptian exhibit at the British Museum and the dinosaur exhibit at the Natural History Museum.

My mom and I also went to a play of "Goldilocks and the Three Bears" at the Wimbledon Theatre. We then went to the National Theatre and saw "Carousel." They were wonderful plays.

I am sorry that all those bombs went off. I did not like it at all.

I still had a wonderful time and hope to visit again soon.

Love,

Ariel Leonhauser Day

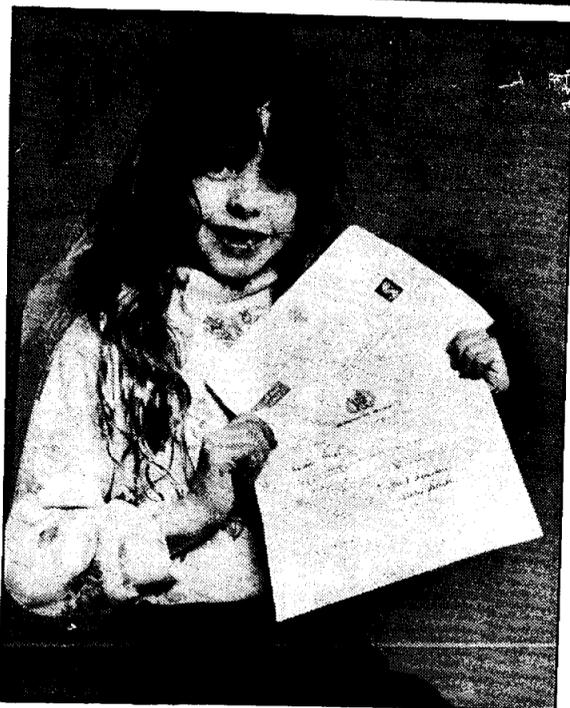

Ariel was surprised when she opened her mailbox last month to find a response, dated March 3, 1993:

*Dear Ariel:
I am commanded by The Queen to thank you for your letter and drawing.*

Her Majesty was so pleased to hear how much you enjoyed your recent visit to London, and she thought it was very kind of you to write as you did.

Yours sincerely,

Lady-in-Waiting

Ariel Day

North and South meet, make music

Grosse Pointe North and South high school instrumental music students participated in the state solo and ensemble festival March 27 at Eastern Michigan University. The event was sponsored by the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association.

Rated on a scale from one to five, with one being the highest, South and North events earned 11 "one" ratings and three "two" ratings. North "one" ratings went to students Paul Kuszynski and Jean Garscia. South "one" raters were Meg Sippey, Peter Jacobs, Lisa Ritter, Erin Patrick, Cynthia Gordan, Mike Weyhing, Rob Esler, Georgia Panagos, Laura Birnbryer, Pat Butler, Ben Butler and Carrie Mleczko.

Earning "twos" were South students Eleni Matsis and Tom Coyle. All the students who participated in the state-level competition qualified by earning a "one" rating at district solo and ensemble festivals in February.

Reading for pizza

The Chapter One reading students at Poupard Elementary School enjoyed a pizza party following the completion of a five-month book-it reading incentive program sponsored by Pizza Hut restaurants. The students collectively read nearly 500 books and were given awards, pizza coupons and posters. Chapter One teacher Sandy Van Almen plans to enroll next year's students in the national book-it program.

In memory of Lyndsey

Michigan Historical License Plates to expire; renew at state offices

All Michigan Historical License Plates issued before Jan. 1, 1988, will expire this April 15 and owners of antique vehicles or motorcycles should obtain new plates before driving their vehicles again, said secretary of state Richard H. Austin.

"After issuing Michigan Historical License Plates for more than 35 years, the time has come for us to place them on a regular renewal cycle," Austin said. "This allows us to keep more up-to-date computerized records, to streamline processing and improve our assistance to law enforcement officers."

"Since 1956 Historical License Plates have been non-expiring, until the Legislature changed the law in 1987. Any historical plate issued between 1956 and 1988 will expire April 15, 1993."

The revised Historical License Plate program improves convenience by allowing customers to submit Historical License Plate applications and pay registration fees in secretary of state branch offices. The actual license plate is mailed from Lansing and is not issued by the local office.

Some summer car care tips

"Summer's heat, dust, and stop-and-go traffic can take their toll on your vehicle. Add the effects of last winter, and you might be poised for a breakdown."

This caution comes from a brochure available free to motorists from the National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence (ASE) — the non-profit organization that tests and certifies the competence of automotive repair technicians.

"Getting Your Vehicle Ready for Summer," which is written in simple, non-technical language, lists and describes the components and systems that should be checked either by the owner or a qualified automotive technician.

The first step is the easiest, according to ASE. Motorists should read their owner's manual and follow the manufacturer's recommended service schedules.

- Correct problems with hard starts, rough idling, stalling, etc. before hot weather sets in.

- Flush and refill the cooling system (radiator) every 24 months. A 50/50 mix of anti-freeze and water is usually recommended. The level, condition, and concentration of the coolant should be checked periodically. Never remove the radiator cap until the engine has cooled.

- The tightness and condition of drive belts, clamps, and hoses should be checked by an auto technician.

- A marginally operating air conditioner will fail in hot weather. Have the system examined by a qualified technician.

- Change oil and oil filter as specified in owner's manual.

- Replace other filters (air, fuel, PCV, etc.) as recommended.

- Check the condition of tires; don't drive on worn tires; make sure that the spare is okay and the tire jack is in good working condition. Let tires "cool down" before checking their pressure.

- Inspect all lights and bulbs; replace burned out bulbs.

- Replace worn wiper blades and keep plenty of washer solvent on hand.

- Emergencies: Carry some basic tools — ask a technician for suggestions. Also include a first aid kit, flares, and a flashlight. Consider buying a CB radio or car phone.

If you are not a do-it-yourselfer, don't worry: a section is included on how to find a certified technician who will do the work.

Whether you do your own maintenance or not, the lesson is simple — you can reduce the likelihood of mechanical failure through periodic maintenance. Your vehicle should last longer and command a higher resale price, too.

For a free copy of the brochure, send a self-addressed, stamped business-sized envelope to: ASE Summer Brochure, Dept PR-SB, P.O. Box 347, Herndon, Va. 22070.

Renewal by mail also continues to be an option.

The new Historical License Plate will be identical in color to the current plate, with a navy blue background and yellow lettering. The new Historical Plate bears a year tab, indicating it expires April 15 the fifth year after renewal. The cost for a Historical License Plate is $15 for a five-year registration period.

Michigan also allows owners of historical vehicles to register an authentic Historical License Plate, if the owner holds such a plate. An authentic license plate must be a Michigan plate issued the same year as the historical vehicle was manufactured. Many car club enthusiasts collect and swap authentic plates, which must be registered with the Secretary of State's office by mail if used on a vehicle.

To qualify as a Michigan

Historical Vehicle, a motor vehicle or motorcycle must be at least 25 years old; owned solely as a collector's item; and used only for historical club activities, parades, car shows and other limited special events. It may not be used for routine transportation.

When registering a historical vehicle, a motorist must present proof of ownership, preferably a title; proof of Michigan No-Fault Insurance; a completed application; and the $15 fee. If applying for an authentic license plate, a photocopy of the actual plate must also be enclosed.

A single Historical License Plate, year tab and proof of registration will be mailed from Lansing to the registration address within two weeks after the application is received in Lansing. Authentic Historical License Plate applicants will receive proof of registration and year tab only. Secretary of State branch offices may not issue temporary registrations, so vehicle owners should plan well ahead of special events.

The new "Application for the Michigan Historical License Plate" is available in all 180 Secretary of State branch offices. Applications or additional information may also be obtained by telephoning the Direct Mail Unit in Lansing at (517) 322-1473.

Famed Studebaker aficionado coming to Detroit — next year

These days at the A & M Garage in the Bronx the proprietor himself answers the phone.

Once a large, bustling operation, the business now only fills orders for Studebaker parts, or directs inquiries to other sources. And the boss, or his daughter, handles the telephone.

But as recently as 1989, Tony Caralla's New York garage required a larger staff as it was still repairing Studebaker cars and trucks under a factory-authorized blue-and-white sign — probably the only service place of its kind in the world.

Caralla, 86, may well be the most famous Studebaker guy in the world. He cheerfully answers reporters' questions, puts

Watch out, they're coming

That's right, they are coming! Soon we will begin to see motorcycles on Michigan roadways again.

As the warm weather approaches, motorcyclists across Michigan start revving their engines. That means that those of us who drive four-wheel vehicles need to brush up on our driving skills.

You might be saying to yourself, "What difference does my driving make? Motorcyclists need to watch what they do since they have control over their motorcycle."

The truth of the matter is that two-thirds of motorcycle-automobile crashes are the fault of the automobile driver. As a matter of fact, the most common type of motorcycle crash in Michigan last year involved a violation by a passenger car driver.

Bikers are 20 times more likely to die in a traffic crash than are occupants of an automobile. Keep an eye out for motorcyclists and help make Michigan roadways safer this motorcycle season.

his daughter Louise Morris on the telephone as if strangers were family, then returns himself to say he'll send copies of other stories written about him and Studebaker and the A & M Garage.

Caralla's clips would have made a Studebaker senior executive envious. The slight-built gentleman, born in Italy and raised in New York's Finger Lakes region, has been featured in USA Today; Smithsonian, Star and Inline magazines; Paris Match, New York Post and the Evening News of India (Bombay).

Readers and editors alike are intrigued by the fact that Caralla began his career in wheels on wheels. In 1928 he hired in at Studebaker, at $23 a week, as a parts boy at a large warehouse on Manhattan, where he and his colleagues covered the distances between shelves on roller skates.

This, incidentally, is how he came to be featured in the hip periodical "Inline," a magazine in which old photos of Caralla and his white-coated peers on their four-wheelers are on pages facing ads featuring athletic-looking '90s guys wearing body-hugging Lycra outfits, hunched over and screaming down the street on their expensive in-line rollerblades.

This was one year after the 1927 introduction of a couple of important new Studebaker models. The President bowed as the top nameplate, and it survived until 1942. A 1928 model featured the first 8-cylinder engine available in a Studebaker. The Erskine also had its debut as a 1927 model. Named for the Albert Russel Erskine, company president from 1915 to 1933, this entry-level companion car was unable to make enough of an impact in the market to be profitable for its maker.

In 1930 a larger version was introduced. This "Dynamic Erskine" soon was renamed the Studebaker Six, and the former nameplate disappeared altogether.

Tony Caralla moved quickly up the ladder at Studebaker. He shed his roller skates in a manner of days to wait on customers at the counter. Months later he was managing the warehouse. In the summer of 1944 Caralla bought the A & M Garage near Fordham University. He stayed at this Webster Avenue location until he decided to close his service operation a couple of years ago.

"We were busy all the time," he said. "We worked evenings, weekends and holidays."

Louise Morris, Caralla's daughter, is his senior staff person. Then only 14, Morris began working at the A & M Garage as a bookkeeper. Today she continues to handle orders, typing forms and labels on a 1930s-vintage Underwood in Caralla's office on 226th Street. "It does the job nicely," she said.

"My two sons both worked for their grandfather, too," Morris added. "They inherited golden hands, and were able to work on cars."

Caralla's first Studebaker was a 1925 Standard Six. Although it looked like its predecessor, the Light Six, the new ER model had a slightly larger, higher-compression (4.5:1 compared with 8:1 in many of today's cars) engine under the hood, one able to crank out 50 horsepower. Today Caralla's fleet include a 1963 Land Cruiser, a 1962 Lark, a 1965 Commander, a 1963 station wagon and a 1955 Packard.

Although he doesn't drive himself there anymore, he still attends national meets of the Studebaker Drivers Club, where he has attained icon status. The club claims, with 12,000 members, is open to both Studebaker owners and fans.

"We'll be out on the West Coast for this year's SDC meet, and in 1994 we are planning to be in the Detroit area at Greenfield Village," he said.

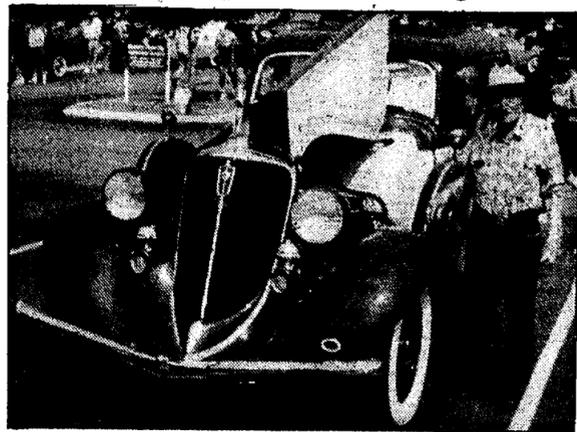

Larry Swanson of Oswego, Ill., is the editor/publications director for the Studebaker Drivers Club. He's also fanatic, willing to travel half-way around the globe to attend owner functions. In 1991, Swanson followed members of the Studebaker Car Club of Australia to Launceston, Tasmania.

"Forty-nine cars were judged at a park on the Tamar River," he said. "Twenty-two Americans attended that meet, including the Schnetlages from California, who delivered a Studebaker to an Australian buyer in Tasmania for the gathering."

Ray Windecker is a collector and former Studebaker employee who moved to Ford Motor Co. around the time the South Bend, Ind., company founded in 1966. A 1953 Studebaker Champion Regal coupe is in pieces in his Livonia, Mich. garage. He's doing a ground-up restoration, he said, and over the years has ordered several parts from A & M Garage.

Windecker didn't think it odd that Australians and New Zealanders love and own Studebakers from the Midwest.

"There are 900 Studes still on the road in Australia," said Windecker, who retired from crunching numbers at Ford a couple of years back. "They were good, strong, rugged vehicles."

And, he stated, they were readily available with right-hand drive. "Any number of right-hand drive cars have been made in the U.S. over the years since the early days of the industry. In fact, many of the first models built for this country were right-drive cars."

One needn't go back that far, according to editor Swanson. "I've been researching two groups totaling 96 cars that were shipped in crates and assembled in New Zealand during the last years of Studebaker production, 1963-66," he said.

Swanson also is a founding member of the Antique Studebaker Club, a smaller group focused on older models. It was for their publication, The Antique Studebaker Review, that he wrote about his adventures on Tasmania in 1991 and at a national meet at Eastertime in New Zealand a year ago.

Swanson said Studebaker owners and club members that he has met in both hemispheres reflect the people for whom they originally were built. "The product was a good value, it was affordable and owners tended to be middle-class, hard-working folks who liked to fix their own cars," he said.

Windecker recently suffered a setback in the restoration of his Champion Regal. UPS somehow lost two hard-to-come-by outside mirrors he was shipping to a plating company after spending untold hours finding them and piecing them together. "They were a beautiful Raymond Loewy design," he mourned.

Surely Tony Caralla can help.

Teen says driver hit him then drove away

A 16-year-old Harper Woods boy who works at the Mack and Vernier Big Boy Restaurant told police that on April 4 that he was struck by and thrown onto the hood of a white, four-door Cadillac as he was taking out the trash behind the restaurant.

The boy said the driver, a balding, heavy-set man in his 60s or 70s, got out of his car after hitting him, told him he looked OK and drove away. The boy did not report any injuries to police.

Each week in this column, we focus on the work of a student. It can be a poem, a drawing, a short story, a picture of a scientific experiment or a woodworking project, a book review.

Amy Squire is a fourth-grader at Maire Elementary School. She is the daughter of John and Beverly Squire.

there are rules. So of course, there are rules at Storer Camps. Bimbola was at the Frontier Lodge to explain the rules and regulations.

Lunch that day consisted of barbecued beef, yuck! When our leftover food was measured, we had 11 1/2 pounds. No one liked that meal.

Many of our classes taught us teamwork. For example, we had to face problems, other people had or have in life, like losing the use of your legs. We had to solve our problems in a group. The day flew by fast. After a dinner of pizza, we had a fun "Dutch auction" and then heard stories of the woman who used to own the camp in the 1800s.

I went to bed that night and I heard the pitter-patter of the rain on the roof. So, of course, we had a lake outside our cabin the next morning! Slip-slop-slop-slop went the mud under my feet all day. That day, we had survival class. We did not build a very good fire!

Most of the days after that were pretty much the same.

By Friday, I did not know if I wanted to stay at camp or come home! As you can see, I am at home, writing this story. Being away makes you miss your own bed! Oh yes, I almost forget to say... I may go back this summer!

The Lake Outside My Cabin

Bus number 19," yelled Mrs. Peck to me as she pushed me out the gym door. "Hurry, hurry! Don't wait for your friends. Load the stuff and take a seat."

Reluctantly, I found a seat. I kept an eye on the door of the coach, hoping Erin would walk in. I looked out the smudged window at my dad waving to me. Suddenly Erin put her hands on my shoulders and yelled, "Boo!"

Erin slumped down next to me and panted, "My back is about to break!"

The bus ride was loud and noisy, but well worth the long trip. All the kids cheered when we saw the sign reading: YMCA Storer Camps. North Center. Welcome!

"Breedlove, go to Cortez!" belated Julie, a staff member, after we unloaded the luggage. I walked to my cabin, selected a bunk, and was soon on my way to the Frontier Lodge. At any camp, Suzanne Foreman is an eighth-grader at Parcels Middle School. She is 14 years old an an honor roll student. She wrote this poem about her 90-year-old grandfather.

Grandpa

I remember the times we had together.
Feeling warmth under a blanket in cold weather.
But today, it's a nursing home.
Lonely, and all alone

Sometimes he sits and looks in the mirror,
And I can see his terrible fear.

Getting old is really a scare, Becoming weak and growing gray hair.

I can't believe how weak he got.
His old memories even he forgot.

He is changing and getting more frail,
His bones are brittle and his skin is pale.

I can still recall his happy expression,

Now all I see is depression.
I wish he was still able to walk,
See, laugh, hear and talk.

Kerby recycles

Students Andrew Sweeny, left, and Amelia Burke, helped Kerby Elementary School celebrate its first successful year of recycling polystyrene lunch trays. The project, headed by the Kerby Brownie troop to commemorate the 75th anniversary of Girl Scouts of America, has been so successful that the PTO established a permanent recycling committee that will also collect classroom papers. Recycling bins are now in every classroom and the contents are collected each Monday. These efforts have reduced the school's trash volume by one-half.

Woods budget is uncertain thanks to tax reform proposal

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

If the property tax reform bill recently placed on the ballot by the Michigan Legislature passes, it could cost Grosse Pointe Woods $180,000 in tax revenue, said city administrator Phillip Belcher.

"The tax reform bill, among other things, limits this year's property tax assessments at 3 percent," said Belcher. "We just had assessments frozen for two years. The average increase in the Woods after two years of no increases is 7 percent. If the public votes for the reform bill, we will lose 4 percent in assessment increases."

That loss equals about $20 million in assessed property values, said Belcher. Woods millage rates adjusted to reform proposal levels equals about $150,000 in lost tax revenue.

"What really makes planning a budget difficult is that we must have some sort of budget ready in May," said Belcher. "The vote on the tax proposal is June. You can see the difficulty."

The city would lose an additional $30,000 in school administration fees, said Belcher.

"The city receives 1 percent of collected school revenues generated from property taxes," said Belcher. "That money goes to the city to help finance the assessment office. City officials are responsible for assessing the property values that determine school income. This money defrays those costs."

A reduction in school millage rates to 27 mills would cost the city about $30,000, Belcher said. That would leave the city with only three ways to balance the city budget. Cut services, lay off staff or raise taxes.

"It would take an increase of an estimated .35 mills in city property taxes to make up the $180,000 we would lose if voters approve the tax bill," said Belcher. "The tax proposal would also put a cap on future assessment increases. Increases would be limited to the rate of inflation if that is under 5 percent. If inflation is greater than 5 percent, increases would be limited to only 5 percent."

For communities that are rapidly growing, these assessment caps would limit the amount of revenue cities could take in. That would make it more difficult and more expensive for cities to raise the money needed to build new sewer lines, and other civic improvements, Belcher said.

"The city council will be meeting on April 12, 13, and 26 to discuss the budget," said Belcher. "The final budget will be presented at the May 3 council meeting. Public hearings will be held at the May 17 meeting. We have a long way to go before we will have a budget for next year."

Farms couple decides against splitting property

By Chip Chapman
Staff Writer

David and Shelley Livermore, of 42 Moross Road, have withdrawn their appeal to split their property for the purpose of building a new house on the Lakeview Avenue end of their lot.

In a letter to city clerk Richard Solak dated April 2, the Livermores wrote: "After consultation with neighbors and thoughtful consideration of others, it is our desire to withdraw our appeal for splitting our property..."

The Livermores had sought a variance from the Grosse Pointe Farms zoning board to divide their property into two parcels so they could build a new family home on Lakeview. Had the variance been approved, they would have been the only residents on the unpaved block of Lakeview, which extends from Mary Street to Carver Street.

At a meeting of the zoning board on March 1, more than a dozen neighbors voiced their opposition to the variance. No one at the meeting supported the plan.

Unaware of the amount of opposition that existed, the Livermores asked the board for a month before a final decision would be made. Five of seven board members needed to approve the variance for it to be allowed. Two members, councilwoman Gail Kaess and Mayor Pro Tem John Crowley, went on record March 1 against the variance.

The division of the property would have created two lots, neither of which met the zoning ordinance's minimum requirement of at least 15,000 square feet in area.

Another stumbling block for the Livermores was the cost that would have been incurred by the city. It would have cost the Farms more than $51,000 in paving and water main costs. The additional cost of street lights would have been determined by Detroit Edison.

The Livermores felt having a residence on Lakeview would reduce problems (which they documented from 1960) that have plagued the street, such as people drinking in cars, speeding and dumping of trash by landscapers.

The zoning board was to consider the variance at the April 5 meeting when the Livermore's letter cancelling the request was received by the city clerk.

Park votes to close Korte

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

Four years after a petition was submitted requesting that Korte Street be barricaded at Barrington Road, the Park City Council unanimously voted at its last meeting to permanently close off the street.

"We received a petition with 170 signatures," said Park council member James Robson. "I believe at that time, it was the largest (response) the council had ever received. The petitioners asked us to close off Korte to motor traffic at Barrington."

The reason, Robson explained, was the sharply increased traffic on Korte after Windmill Pointe Drive was closed at Alter Road four years ago.

"Detroit rebuilt their bridge to Angel Park," said Robson.

"That had the effect of ending traffic to and from Detroit along Windmill Pointe. That in turn increased the traffic on Korte. The citizens who live along the road became concerned about the traffic, and how it affected the neighborhood."

The city council turned the matter over to the planning commission. The commission studied traffic flow and concluded that traffic was excessive.

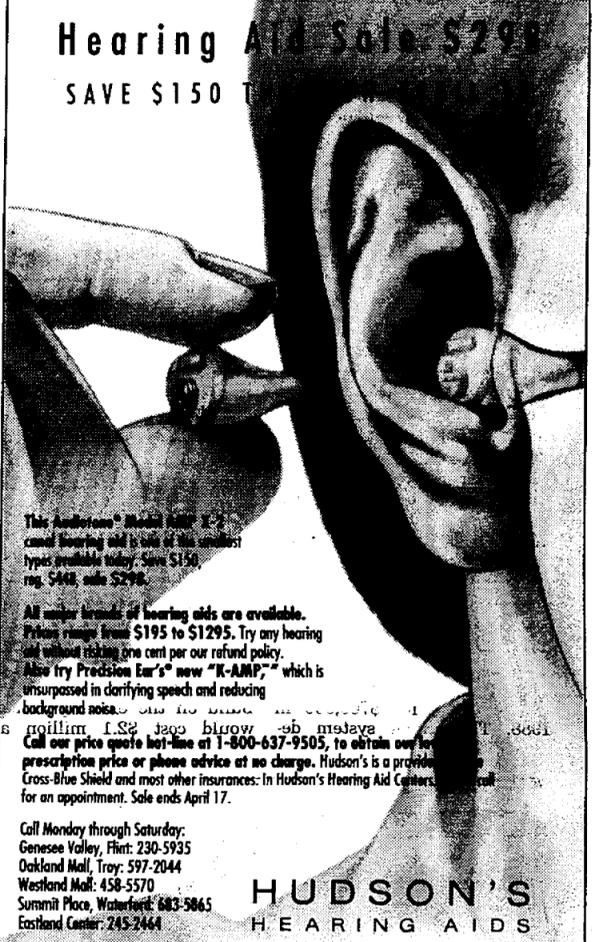

Last year Korte was temporarily closed. Before-and-after closure studies showed a 46 percent decrease in traffic when Korte was blocked.

"The council felt it was time to act on the legitimate concerns of people living off Korte," said Robson. "The street had been closed off for several months and we didn't receive complaints. It was time to make it permanent."

Robson was quick to emphasize that this was not done to close off the Park from Detroit. It was construction on the Detroit side of the border that created the traffic problem, he said.

"There are still 26 streets that connect Detroit with the Park," Robson said. "By contrast there are only seven streets that connect the Park with Grosse Pointe City. So there is still plenty of access between the Park and Detroit. This is not a move designed to keep Detroiters out of the Pointes. It is a response to a traffic situation created by Detroit when it closed off Windmill Pointe to rebuild a bridge to Angel Park."

Two historic Pointe school buildings face uncertain futures

July deadline set for St. Clair bids

By Chip Chapman
Staff Writer
Citing maintenance and renovation costs, the Grosse Pointe school board recommended a plan Monday to move school administrative offices from their present location at 389 St. Clair and to sell the buildings on that site.

The board is considering moving offices to Barnes school and using space at South and North high schools for information processing and business and support services.

A vote on these recommendations by the board is scheduled for April 19. A vote to approve a resolution for the sale of the buildings and property at 389 St. Clair was also scheduled for April 19, but the board decided to extend the deadline for accepting bids to sometime in July after receiving a letter Monday from City Mayor Lorenzo Browning, asking for time to consider other uses for the facilities.

Renovation costs over the next decade for the 87-year-old and 78-year-old buildings at 389 St. Clair are projected to be $785,000. The board estimated an additional $618,000 in custodial and maintenance costs will be saved by vacating the St. Clair site.

Moving to and renovating offices at Barnes, South, North and using Parcels for vehicle storage are estimated to cost just under $900,000. Additional custodial and maintenance costs at the four schools were not factored into the cost estimates.

The administration office buildings were appraised in January 1991 at $283,000. This does not reflect the building's potential value to Bon Secours Hospital, who offered to buy the buildings for $700,000 in 1988. The school system decided not to put them on the market then.

The Vernier School, built in 1916, has remained largely unused since the Grosse Pointe Public School System vacated the property in 1956.

The Cadieux School, built in 1906, is one of two administration buildings at 389 St. Clair that will be sold by the school system. Administrative offices will be moved to Barnes school and the two high schools.

For the past two years, the board and school administrators have discussed the future use of the buildings at 389 St. Clair. A year ago, the board told the administration to make plans to move from the site. The board hopes to vacate its current offices by July 1, 1994.

In addition to maintenance and renovation costs, garage and storage needs are reasons cited for moving the administrative offices to other facilities.

Given the options, based upon economic and political feasibility, superintendent Edward J. Shine has recommended spending $360,000 to replace windows, remove asbestos, remodel the entrances, and make the buildings handicap accessible.

Total renovation would cost $1.2 million and take a year and a half to complete. To rebuild on the existing property would cost $2.1 million and temporary facilities would be needed for two years.

In 1991, voters defeated a bond issue that would have provided $7.7 million for a new library to be built at Brownell Middle School. Had the bond issue passed, the school's administrative offices would have been moved to the Central Library building on Kercheval and Fisher, with costs covered by the sale of the St. Clair buildings.

Citing the sales of property at Richard school and the Vernier school some members of the community voiced concern at the meeting about the school system selling more school-owned property.

Elaine Hartmann of the Grosse Pointe Historical Society agreed with Browning's letter, which suggested the buildings could be used for senior housing. She said she would present more ideas at the City council meeting on April 19.

Shores vote on Vernier School delayed

By Chip Chapman
Staff Writer

An advisory vote that was to appear on the Shores election ballot this May to determine the fate of the Vernier School has been pushed back to November, adding to speculation about what will become of the 77-year-old building.

Shores voters would have had the opportunity to decide whether to approve restoration costs. The fate of the school building remains in the hands of the village trustees, who can choose to lease it, tear it down or leave it as it is.

The Vernier School, designed by Albert Kahn, was an elementary school from 1916 to 1952. The Grosse Pointe school system vacated the property in 1956 and sold the school in 1962 to Grosse Pointe Shores for $25,000.

Since 1962, the building for the most part has remained unused. The Shores once used it as temporary village offices and for storage. It was once used as a voting precinct, but since it is not accessible to the handicapped, the Americans with Disabilities Act now prohibits its use for that purpose.

Village officials estimate the restoration cost at $750,000. Demolition of the school would cost the village $110,000. Village manager Michael Kenyon said the building "is not for sale. Period."

The cost of maintaining the building is low. The Shores pays for insurance and for enough heat to ensure the pipes won't freeze.

In the fall of 1985, a poll was conducted to determine what should be done with the school. About a third of the 1,050 eligible voters responded to the survey. Of those, 61 percent wanted the village to lease the building. About 32 percent said the village should renovate it.

Six percent wanted it torn down and 1 percent said to leave it as it is.

"Adaptive reuse" is a term often used when discussing older Grosse Pointe buildings.

"Anyone would be pleased and delighted to call it home," said Olivia Mandel, president of the Grosse Pointe Historical Society. "It would be a lovely building to have, but I do not want the people of the Shores feeling the historical society is pushing them to approve a renovation."

"If you tear down a building in one community, it affects other communities," said Tish Colett, a member of the historical society. "Aside from the lake, our building stock is the most important asset we have."

Kenyon agreed. "We spent $1.3 million to renovate the village offices, also designed by Albert Kahn. We're committed to preserving historical buildings," he said, "but they have to be used for something."

Theodore Pappas, a member of the Futuring Committee's historical preservation and beautification sub-committee, said the school could be used for senior housing or as a museum for Grosse Pointe history.

"Any solution can work if it's designed properly," he said.

South seniors say farewell with a flourish

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Don't look for numbers 1, 5 or 8 on any of Grosse Pointe South's volleyball players next year. The digits are going into semi-retirement.

"Those uniforms are tired from a lot of hard work over the last three years. I want them to rest for at least a year," said Lady Devils' coach

Cindy Sharpe.

The "retirement" is a tribute to seniors Sue Faremough, Stephanie Coddens and Angela Drake, who helped put South on the volleyball map the last three years as they won league, district and regional championships in each season.

The three capped their careers by being named to the Michigan High School Volleyball Coaches Association All-State team. Drake and Coddens were named to the second team, while Faremough received honorable mention.

Although Drake and Coddens were certainly deserving of their spots on the All-State squad, Sharpe was disappointed that Faremough didn't place higher, too.

She was a second-team selection a year ago, and this year was the Most Valuable Player in the Macomb Area Conference White Division.

Sharpe prepared a tape of her top three athletes to show the committee that picks the All-State team, with the idea of pushing Drake and Faremough for top honors and hoping that Coddens, who missed several matches with a knee injury, would get some mention, too.

"The selectors just raved about Steph and put her and Angela on the second team and Susie had to settle for honorable mention, but that's often what happens with a setter. If you notice the setter, she's not doing the job," Sharpe said.

Coddens and Drake both recognize the contribution of their less-heralded teammate.

"We wouldn't be as good as we were without Susie," Coddens said. "She always set me perfectly."

Drake and Coddens will be playing basketball in college at Toledo and LaSalle, respectively. Faremough plans to attend Kalamazoo College and play volleyball.

Faremough is going to major in pre-med or pre-vet and hopes to follow in her father's footsteps and become a veterinarian.

Faremough assumed an increased role in South's offense this season. In addition to her setting, she also did some hitting.

was a good athlete and I expected her to make an impact as soon as she got some experience."

One of Sharpe's hardest jobs this season was keeping Drake and Coddens healthy.

"They want to play so hard and do so well that it's sometimes more than the body will allow," the coach said. "The mind says, 'Do it,' but the body says, 'You can't.'"

In addition to volleyball, Drake and Coddens also played AAU basketball during the winter and Coddens even found time for soccer.

"They just can't sit still," says Sharpe, who was an outstanding and versatile athlete during her high school career at Mount Clemens and can understand what makes her players tick.

The Lady Devils will have to do some rebuilding next year because they won't have their Big Three to count on.

"The best thing our returning players can do for these kids is to step up a notch and carry on the legacy," Sharpe said.

Stephanie Coddens

Drake agreed.

"She makes our life a lot easier by putting the ball just where we want it," Drake said.

The unassuming Faremough downplays her importance to the South machine.

"I think they'd hit it no matter where I set the ball, but I try to give it to each of them where they want it," she said.

Faremough gets as much enjoyment setting up her teammates as she does scoring points, although it doesn't afford her the recognition they get. She was also the point guard on South's very successful girls basketball team.

"I don't mind letting the others score," she said. "I get a lot of satisfaction in setting Angela or Stephanie up."

South's three All-Staters have contrasting personalities.

"Susie's the stoic one, Angela wants to kick butt every time she's on the court and Stephanie's all showtime," Sharpe said.

"They're all different, but they all have great attitudes and always want to do better. They're rare athletes."

Angela Drake

"It was important for her to score points in our quick offense so that other teams couldn't key on Angela or Stephanie," Sharpe said.

Coddens, Drake and Faremough have been on the varsity since their sophomore season, although Coddens, who was a setter on the freshman team, didn't play a lot that first varsity year.

"I put her on the varsity in order to keep her interested," Sharpe said. "Steph wasn't as far advanced as the other two in volleyball, but I knew she

Local team reaches final

By Bob St. John
Staff Writer

The St. Joan of Arc varsity boys basketball team lost 50-38 to Farmington Our Lady of Sorrows in the recent Catholic Youth Organization (CYO) championship game.

The Chargers, who have several Grosse Pointers on their roster, fell behind 14-2 early in the first quarter and couldn't overcome the deficit.

"It was a rough first quarter for our team," head coach Kevin Adamo said. "But, we played even the last three quarters. I am proud of the team. They played hard every game this season."

The Chargers defeated Berkeley Our Lady LaSalette 39-32 in overtime in a CYO semifinal at Regina High School.

The Chargers made eight of nine free throws in the overtime to seal their semifinal victory and advance to the CYO championship game.

In addition, the Chargers won the CYO East Regional after defeating St. Veronica's 32-29 at Notre Dame High School.

The Chargers almost blew a 15-point third quarter lead, but hung on to beat St. Clare of Montefalco No. 2 62-56 in one of the regional semifinals.

Adamo's basketball team advanced to the regionals after winning the CYO East side districts. They defeated St. Anne's No. 2 44-20 and Holy Family 47-43 at Warren DeLaSalle High School.

Furthermore, the Chargers won the CYO East Division title with a 9-1 record.

"We're one of the smallest teams out there, but we play with a lot of heart," Adamo said. "We play a tenacious defense and our press picks up the pace of the game. Our bench play has also been a big reason why we won the league title."

St. Joan of Arc's lone loss came at home to Detroit St. Matthew 46-45, but the Chargers came back and defeated St. Matthew on the road 37-29.

The Chargers are led by eighth-grader Steve Champine who averages 13 points a game. Champine's support group includes Nick Aubrey, Frank Orlando, Adam Rouls and Keith Smith who all average six points a game.

Adamo's team, along with winning the CYO division title, won the Our Lady LaSalette Thanksgiving Tournament in Berkley, and was the consolation champions of the Notre Dame Christmas Tournament at Notre Dame High School.

Other members of the Chargers' squad are Champine, Aubrey, Orlando, Rouls, Smith, along with Mike Ciaramitaro, Jason Scrivo, Brett Orlikowski, Tim Hansen, Joe Ellis, Nathan Elliot and Al Duzzie.

The Chargers finished the season with a 21-5 overall record.

ULS winter standouts honored

University Liggett School recently honored its most valuable and most improved athletes for the winter sports season.

Following are the players honored in each sport:

Boys JV hockey: freshman Club offers pre-school T-Ball program

Aspiring baseball and softball players who have been considered too young for the regular baseball and T-Ball programs in the area won't have to watch from the sidelines this year.

The Neighborhood Club is establishing a special T-Ball league for children who will be 4 years old by Aug. 1.

Equipment used in the program has been selected to ensure maximum safety for the players. Emphasis will be on having fun and learning baseball fundamentals.

Games will be played Saturdays at Brownell Middle School from 9:15 to 10:15 a.m. The season begins May 1 and ends on June 12. The registration fee is $25 per player.

The deadline to enroll is April 23. All players must have a current Neighborhood Club membership. Registration may be made in person or by mail at the Neighborhood Club, 17150 Waterloo, Grosse Pointe. For more information, call 885-4600.

JV volleyball: freshman Katherine Riddle and freshman Rebekah Camm, most valuable; freshman Leah Kaplan and freshman Maggie Durant, most improved.

Header woes stop Buhl

Robbie Buhl's first IndyCar oval race last Sunday had a good news, bad news scenario for the Grosse Pointe driver.

Buhl qualified 23rd for the Valvoline 200 at Phoenix International Raceway and had moved up to 15th place by the 116th of 200 laps when a broken header knocked him out of the competition.

"We were just settling into the second half of the race when I heard this terrible noise from the back of the car," Buhl said. "I tried to ignore it at first, but it kept getting louder."

"The guys (on the crew) worked very hard this weekend to give me a consistent car and they succeeded. I hope we can give them better results in Long Beach."

Buhl wound up 19th in the 25-car field. Only 13 cars were still running at the end of the race, which was won by veteran Mario Andretti.

The Toyota Grand Prix of Long Beach, Buhl's next race, will be televised on Channel 7 at 4 p.m. on Sunday, April 18.

Soccer team seeks players

A new team representing the Croatian Soccer Club is looking for players 17 and older.

"We're looking for younger players to develop for our top team," said coach Fred Talan, "and we know the Grosse Pointes have very strong youth and high school programs."

The Croatian reserve team will compete in the Michigan-Ontario Soccer League which begins play April 24.

Interested players should call Talan at 366-1677 during the day or at 791-1457 evenings after 5 p.m.

Baseball tryouts

Tryouts for a St. Clair Shores Baseball Federation team for players 12 and under are being organized.

For information, call Neil Page after 6 p.m. at 773-3654.

Even the best have bad days

Michigan's Chris Webber had just called the timeout that will live forever in NCAA Final Four history when my daughter piped up, "That's like Dave running on a popup with one out."

It seems like kids never forget their siblings' most embarrassing moments, even if they happened nearly 10 years ago.

And Webber's blunder just proves again that even the best athletes have moments when they go temporarily "brain dead."

While the CBS broadcast crew was analyzing Webber's critical mistake, which might have cost the Wolverines the NCAA title because they were two points down with possession of the ball when the fateful timeout was called, my kids and I were recalling Dave's moment of infamy.

All the details have become a bit foggy during the last several years, but he was 10 or 11 at the time and his team was playing an important game. It was the last inning and Dave's squad was trailing by a run with one out when he singled. The next batter hit a popup and Dave was off with the crack of the bat. He had rounded second by the time the ball was caught and was easily doubled off first for the last out.

I was ready to disown him, at the very least, when my wife grabbed me and told me I'd better not say anything under the threat that I'd have to eat chicken every night for the next week.

Dave later explained that he thought there were two out, just as Webber thought Michigan had another timeout remaining.

As soon as North Carolina had put the finishing touches on its victory over Michigan, we switched to the Tigers' opener in Oakland.

Dave and I stayed up through the wee hours of the morning watching them lose, and the way they did it was disgusting.

The A's were leading 5-2 in the seventh when Cecil Fielder and Kirk Gibson led off with singles and both advanced on a wild pitch. Rob Deer then hit an easy bouncer to third. Fielder apparently thought he was Rickey Henderson and decided he could score on the play. Oakland catcher Terry Steinbach had enough time to analyze the league president's signature on the ball before Fielder arrived at the plate.

Mickey Tettleton followed with a single that would have scored Fielder and Gibson easily. To make matters worse, the potentially big inning ended with only one run scoring when the Tigers wound up with both Tettleton and Scott Livingstone on second base after Deer had been caught in a rundown.

Of course, my son had to remind me of my baserunning exploits during a softball game last summer.

For some unknown reason, I decided to forgo my usual pattern of taking it one base at a time, and attempted to go from first to third on a single to right. With my speed it would have been a risky move 20 years ago, but at 45 it was just plain dumb.

One of my teammates told me afterward that the third baseman took the throw, went to the bench, got a drink of water and strolled back to the base in time to tag me out.

I guess there's a moral to all this. Parents should be easy on their kids when they do something stupid on the field or the court. If the parents have played a sport, they've probably gone "brain dead" themselves one time or another.

Mite playoff champions

Lady Devils run away from foe

Grosse Pointe South's girls track team literally ran away from Regina in its dual-meet opener last week.

Coach Steve Zaranek's squad took 11 of the 12 first-places in the running events and outscored the Saddlelites 26-1 in the distance races as the Lady Devils posted a 92-36 victory.

Melissa Wise won the 800-meter run, Katie Weed was first in the 1,600 and Mary Rowe outran the field in the 3,200 to complete South's distance sweep.

Kristine Mueller won the 100 and teammates Amy Zanglin and Amy Balok took firsts in the 200 and 400, respectively. Zanglin also won the long jump.

Freshman Lisa McCurdy gave South its other individual first when she won the 300 hurdles.

The Lady Devils won all four relays. Katy Lupo, Zanglin, Becca Walter and Mueller won the 400 and 800 relays. McCurdy, Marla Cummings, Clair Schrom and Gretchen Carter won the 1,600 relay, while Shannon McGratty, Rachel O'Byrne, Wise and Balok finished first in the 3,200 relay.

South, which hasn't dropped a dual meet in three seasons, has set several goals for the 1993 season.

"We want to win the league title, place first or second in all of our invitationals, challenge for the state regional title and qualify for the state finals in at least 10 events," said Zaranek, who has guided South to a 112-6 record since 1980.

This year's turnout of 100 girls is the largest ever for the Lady Devils, who have won league championships in six of the last seven seasons and last year defeated eventual state Class A champion Detroit Cass Tech in the regional.

Zaranek figures South's toughest competition in the Macomb Area Conference White Division will come from Romeo, Utica and Warren-Mott.

Mueller, Zanglin, Lupo and Schrom are expected to be the Lady Devils' top sprinters this season, while the distance leaders are likely to be Heidi and Melissa Wise, Balok, O'Byrne, Sandy Dierkes, Rowe, Katie Weed, McGratty and Aimee Vasse. O'Byrne, Rebecca Schultz and Walter are the Lady Devils' top hurdlers. Top field events performers are Jenny Mangol and Stephanie Spinney in the discus and shot put and Balok, Zanglin, Lupo, Walter and Kathy Bardeen in the long jump and high jump.

Bulldogs capture Mite crown

It was all Bulldogs in the Little Caesars Mite A hockey league this season.

The Grosse Pointe Hockey Association travel squad capped an outstanding year with a 4-2 victory over the Wyandotte Warriors in the playoff championship game at Joe Louis Arena.

The Bulldogs, who finished with a 36-4 overall record, also won the division's regular-season championship.

Mike Barger, who was named Most Valuable Player in the championship game, scored three goals against Wyandotte and Chris Barger added the Bulldogs' fourth goal.

Mike Hackett, Todd Lorenger, Rich Giffin and Neal Gram collected the assists.

Defensive standouts for the Bulldogs were Brent Franklin, Trevor Mallon, Johnny Matteson, Nick Thomas, Phil Mannino and Jimmy Coates.

Ryan Kramer was the winning goalie with another fine effort.

John Hackett is head coach of the Bulldogs. He's assisted by Brian Schulte, Paul Mallon, Mike Barger and Rick Gram. The team is sponsored by Don Giffin of Giffin International.

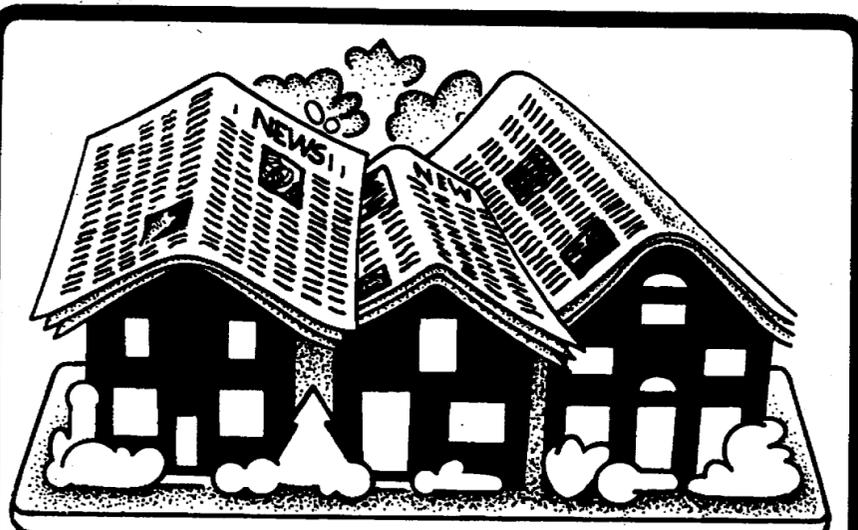

Bulldogs 6, Woodhaven 1

Goals: Chris Barger 3, Todd Lorenger 2, Mike Hackett (Bulldogs). Assists: Hackett 3, Lorenger 3, Trevor Mallon (Bulldogs).

Comments: Mallon, Jimmy Coates, Nick Thomas, Brent Franklin and Johnny Matteson played well defensively in front of goalie Ryan Kramer.

The Grosse Pointe Bulldogs celebrate at Joe Louis Arena after beating Wyandotte 4-2 in the Little Caesars Mite A playoffs. Mike Barger scored three goals and was named Most Valuable Player in the game.

Arbor Day took root in treeless Nebraska

J. Sterling Morton, the founder of Arbor Day, was born in a small town in the dense forests of northern New York state in the early 19th century.

He grew up in Monroe and at age 22 settled with his new bride in the Nebraska Territory. He was a newspaper man and eventually became secretary of the territory, acting governor, and secretary of agriculture in President Cleveland's Cabinet in 1893.

From the beginning, Morton loved Nebraska but missed the lavish forests he had known as a child. Nebraska was an almost treeless state. In 1872, with the help of the state board of agriculture, he started Arbor Day and that year more than a million trees were planted in Nebraska.

Prizes were awarded to the organization and individual who planted the most trees. Now Nebraska is a leader in practical forestry where once only 3 percent of the state was covered with trees.

The concept of Arbor Day spread rapidly to other states and is now observed not only nationwide in this country but also worldwide.

The date of Arbor Day varies from region to region because of differences in climate. The National Arbor Day Foundation is headquartered in

Garden Shed

By Ellen Probert

Lincoln, Neb., where Arbor Day is celebrated on Morton's birthday, April 22. In Michigan it is observed April 29.

In Hawaii, Arbor Day is also Lei Day when Hawaiians commemorate pride in their heritage.

Exchanging leis is a serious event. Imperishable leis made of whales' teeth, shells, and seeds and are family heirlooms are handed down from one generation to the next with great ceremony. Perishable leis made of fragrant flowers and foliage which are hung over someone's head with a kiss are more fun and much less serious. A lei made of dollar bills can be a welcome present.

Soon it will be nesting time for birds, and their territorial instinct is very strong. It is not unheard of for a pair of robins to have territorial feeding rights under a tree while another pair has nesting rights in the same tree and neither pair will encroach on the other.

Male birds violently defend their territories. If a male robin catches sight of himself reflected in a window he will dash to drive the intruder out and will battle this phantom rival for days at a time.

Only windows with darkened rooms behind them, turning the glass into a mirror, attract the attention of birds. Thus, a bewitched bird can be freed from its obsession by having someone turn on a light in the room or pull a light colored shade down, thereby breaking the enchantment. When the reflection disappears, the robin will think it has vanquished its rival and will go happily off to other pursuits.

It is recorded that when Cadillac first came to Detroit in 1701 he brought with him from Quebec a gardener whose duty it was to lay out orchards and gardens. But in early spring in woods and fields and along the shore of the lake, thousands of wildflowers provided a natural garden which must have been very beautiful.

Violets and columbine, dogwood and shadbush and many other plants abounded. The Indians gathered the fern shoots, called fiddleheads, which they cooked and ate not only as a spring tonic but also because they thought they would then smell like ferns and would be able to surprise and capture small game more easily.

The Detroit Recreation Department, founded in 1914, has provided far more than recreation for thousands of people over the years. It has participated in the revitalization of Detroit's riverfront area, restored historic monuments, and implemented beautification projects to plant and replace trees, flowers and other flora around the city.

The department's forestry and landscape division is responsible for the upkeep of more than 400 sites covering more than 6,000 acres of land. It maintains 94 city flower beds, 22 greenhouses, three gardens, nearly 200 parks and playgrounds, 36 neighborhood recreation centers, 45 athletic fields, 318 baseball diamonds, 257 tennis courts, 19 swimming pools, eight ice rinks, six golf courses, two marinas, and two boat launches.

The department annually plants and tends more than 190,000 miscellaneous plants and flowers, 4,122 mums, 4,050 poinsettias, 200,933 seasonal plants, 40,250 tulip bulbs, 1,500 narcissi bulbs, and 900 hyacinth bulbs.

The forestry and landscape division also oversees and produces special events, including the annual Builder's Home and Garden Show.

On the cover...

A taste of the old with the many conveniences of today! This lovely English home has had loads of loving care recently and every square foot of living space is cheerfully decorated. Add in the newer kitchen, hardwood floor, spacious rooms and windows everywhere you look and it brightens the interior even more.

Some of the homes many first floor amenities include the unique living room with room to spare for your baby grand or conversation area and French doors leading to the dining room. The second floor has four family bedrooms with a sitting/study room and two full baths. If you have a growing family or just entertain a lot of out of town guests, then the three extra third floor bedrooms will be an extra bonus.

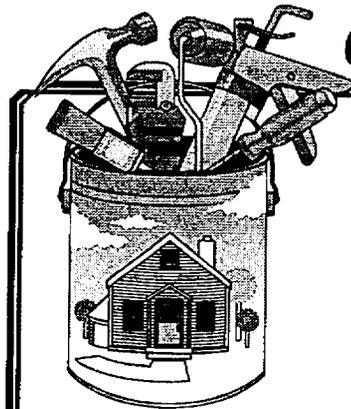

The garden room opens to a large summer screened/glassed room overlooking the private walled yard that is landscaped for your private enjoyment. With its large size (100x175) you could enjoy a pool in the summer or maybe a ball game? How about a large skating rink in the winter? There is plenty of room to do most anything!

With approximately 3500 square feet of lovely and manageable space in a neighborhood that lends itself to convenience. Located between the "Hill" and the "Village", the home is also near schools, the Neighborhood Club and transportation.

The price on this beautifully cared for home has been reduced. Plan to visit 430 LAKELAND on the Sunday after Easter, April 18th between 2 and 4 p.m. For more information, please call R. G. Edgar and Associates at 886-6010.

Grand gardening advice from Grand Hotel

Spring is right around the corner, so now is the time to start planting the seeds for beautiful lawns and gardens. And who better to help you prepare your garden for spring than the superintendent of grounds for Mackinac Island's Grand Hotel, Stephen S. Bernard.

Known for its beautiful gardens, Grand Hotel plants and maintains hundreds of thousands of flowers and plants each year. Bernard lends his expert advice on how you can have a "grand" garden this year.

Let's start from the ground up

Good gardens start with good soil. On Mackinac Island, we have very little top soil, so we must continually improve the soil, which is a good idea for everyone. To grow outstanding plants, you need a soil that is rich in organic matter, well-drained and able to hold the nutrients and water that plants need. Every year we shred and pile all the annuals and perennials we take from our gardens, sod, the leaves and all garden clippings and combine them with manure to make our compost. Not too scientific, just whatever we have available. By turning the pile monthly these materials break down and a rich humus full of nutrients is created.

We add the compost mixture liberally to all our beds in the spring and sometimes in the fall as well. After raking it flat, we turn it into the soil. For annual beds where there is no danger of damaging nearby roots, a rototiller is used to turn the compost deep into the soil. But for perennial beds, we simply add a topping, taking care not to smother any newly emerging growth.

If you didn't have your soils tested in the fall, now is the time. Our samples are sent to the state testing lab every year, but once every several years is sufficient for residential gardens. These tests are important because they tell us what nutrients, if any, to add to our soils. A good, mild fertilizer to use on flowers of all kinds is a 5-10-5. Scratch or rake it into the top 2-3 inches of soil in your beds, where plant roots can find it, and you could be on your way to a fast spring start.

Quality plants for season-long beauty

Unfortunately, good soil alone won't guarantee you'll have a beautiful garden. To ensure a good beginning, start with quality plants. Who has the time to fix problems brought into the garden? Shop for a reliable plant source — whether seeds or plants — and stick with that source for the majority of your plant purchases. When checking for healthy plants, look for vigorous, white roots and a disease and pest-free tops. Also use quality-plant varieties with a history of good performance. If you aren't sure of what these are, ask your neighbor.

Roses — care and pruning

When the buds of your roses begin to swell, rose care begins. At Grand Hotel we have two basic types of roses: hardy shrub roses and climbing roses. For each type, start by pulling back the 12 to 18 inches of compost used to protect the crown of the plant during the winter months. As spring is when we do all major pruning of our roses, examine the plant closely and then remove all dead and weakened stems. For shrub roses, remove branches thinner than a pencil in width, cutting them back to an outward facing bud. Branches that rub are next, and then only stems to keep your rose bush in bounds. Try envisioning a shrub with a somewhat open center, then prune to achieve that look. Climbing roses we prune much less. Once established, shorten only the lateral branches to encourage bushier growth and to keep them contained.

Now is a good time to feed your roses to encourage that summer flush of growth. Sprinkle a handful of fertilizer around the base of each plant, keeping it away from the rose's trunk. While any good garden fertilizer will work, we look for one formulated especially for roses. It should contain roughly equal amounts of nitrogen, phosphorous and potassium; you'll find many varieties at your local garden store.

Next we add some sulphur and then scratch it all into the soil to help with absorption and to keep it in place. Once deeply watered, your rose bushes should be set for the warm weather to come.

Spring bulbs

If you planted bulbs last fall, spring is the time to give them that little bit of extra care to ensure their success. Grand Hotel planted 24,000 tulips, daffodils, anemones and chionodoxa last fall, adding to the thousands already in the ground. Care is easy — recover them with soil if they've become exposed over the winter, water when dry and fertilize after bloom. That's it! If you want good blooms next year, let the foliage yellow before cutting it down. Many of the bulb crops can be quite long-lived if given just a small amount of care.

Winning the turf wars

It is often discouraging to find your once healthy lawn brown, dry and damaged by the snow. Don't worry; returning your lawn to that deep green appearance simply starts with a good, hard raking. Raking, we've found, awakens the turf by loosening the soil surface and removing suffocating thatch. Air, water and nutrients can now reach the roots. An application of fertilizer at this time will also help speed recovery. We use a slow-releasing fertilizer so our turf gets a more even supply of nutrients throughout the growing season. We only fertilize our lawns once in spring and once in fall, usually with a balanced fertilizer.

If large areas of your lawn are damaged, spring is an excellent time to take on some of the major lawn projects that can both quickly bring back that green color and improve the overall quality of your entire lawn. Aerating compacted areas, top-dressing with a sand/top soil mix and seeding should all be tackled at this time of the year. If seeding, use a blend of grasses rather than one type to ensure better overall success in the varying conditions your lawn areas may present.

Final tips

Spring is the time to prune late-summer flowering shrubs, including most clematis varieties, hydrangea and mahonia. If you wait until later, you'll be trimming the buds as they form. Most plant material can also be planted successfully now, especially bare-rooted material such as roses and ground covers. Root growth prefers the cool, moist days spring so often provides. Keep an eye on these newly planted materials and make sure they have the water they need. With proper care and maintenance, your lawn and garden can easily mirror the beauty of our grounds at Grand Hotel.

Magazine examines home inspections

A growing emphasis on seller disclosure has led to a rise in the use of home inspections in the real estate industry. But also on the rise are tensions between real estate professionals and home inspectors caused by questions about credibility and professionalism that could be eased through state licensing of home inspectors, according to an article in the March issue of Real Estate Today, published by the National Association of Realtors.

In a round table discussion conducted by Real Estate Today, four Realtors and one home inspector, talked about the increasing tension between home inspectors and real estate professionals in an industry where the two sides increasingly are relying on each other.

Their comments, contained in a question-and-answer article titled "The Guiding Light?" provide insight into the common practices of home inspectors.

Participants in the round table discussion were Sharon Bowler, owner/broker of Realty World Home & Investment Property Inc., Diamond Bar, Calif.; Glenn Burgess, president of the Burgess Inspection Group, Richardson, Texas; Richard Fricker, owner/broker of Realty One, Milwaukee, Wis.; Glenda Philpot, vice president and relocation director of Higgins & Heath, Inc.-Better Homes & Gardens, Orlando, Fla.; and Lawrence Story, a salesperson with The Prudential Connecticut Realty, New Canaan, Conn.

According to the participants, home inspections are good because they protect both the broker and the seller, but the inspectors sometimes lack credibility and professionalism, in part because no state, with the exception of Texas, currently requires mandatory licensing and continuing education of home inspectors.

Burgess, the only inspector on the panel, said he feels more education would help increase the credibility of home inspectors and the overall profession.

"The problem is that most inspectors don't understand the real estate market," explains Burgess, who also holds a real estate license.

"That's why they get labeled as deal killers. There's no association in this country ... that has a training program to teach them about the real estate business. They (only) teach how to inspect the house and how to avoid a liability problem."

Other panelists said that either their state legislators or state associations of Realtors are planning to push for the licensing of home inspectors in the near future.

"The inspectors themselves are the ones pushing for licensing in Florida. The good inspectors, the ones who are going to be there in the long run, realize it will reduce competition and lend them more credibility," Philpot says.

While all panelists agreed that home inspectors can often help avoid lawsuits, they blamed the adversarial relationship between the two sides on reasons ranging from a feeling that some inspectors scare prospective buyers with tactless presentations, to annoyance with home inspectors who give estimates for repairs when they're not experts in making those repairs.

Story says one of the difficulties in looking for ways to ease tensions between the two industries is in defining what exactly can and should be expected from a home inspector. "If the law is written too rigidly, nobody will be able to do home inspections," he says.

Household Help by John Amantea

Q. I recently purchased an old china breakfront from a garage sale. This antique hasn't been used for quite a while. The problem I'm experiencing is hard-to-open drawers which slide on a wooden track. Do you have any tips on this?

A. Most probably, the culprit here is the lack of everyday use you described. However, freeing sticking drawers which travel on wooden guides is fixable.

First, forcibly remove the drawers and check the top edges for any scraped or shiny areas. Sand those spots with a heavy-grit sandpaper and test the condition of the drawers' operation at this point. If more sandpaper is needed, then do so until the drawer opens and closes with virtual ease. Next, apply ordinary soap or paraffin to the tops and bottoms of the drawers. You should have long-lasting, trouble-free use of your antique for a good while.

Q. I live in a modest New England style "Cape" home near the coast. During the previous two winter seasons, I have experienced some damage to the shingles on my roof and other minor problems. It appears that ice builds up and causes an obstruction preventing water from flowing easily into the gutters. I would like to remedy this situation by chopping at the ice, but I'm afraid I'll do damage. Can you suggest a safe and easy solution to this problem?

A. While this is a fairly common problem, you should be aware that there are several factors involved which are causing your headaches. One example is that when a mass of ice forms at the roof's edge, any water runoff is hindered and will eventually cause exterior and interior damage to your home.

There are a few preventive measures you should follow to avoid any future weather-related problems. Installing the proper amount of insulation to what's already existing will greatly improve the warmth to the roof itself. Another important measure is to improve the attic ventilation, making sure there aren't any blockages preventing air from flowing freely. While there are probably more culprits causing your problems, keeping abreast of common repairs will surely help prevent problems. Tasks such as re-nailing shingle, using ridge vents, roof louvers, etc., will definitely help, too.

Your home and hardware centers can assist and direct you to products that will provide the proper repairs.

Be sure to avoid any efforts to climb on your roof to remove ice and snow. Not only is it hazardous, but you can cause extensive and unwanted damage.

Standard Federal introduces 10-year mortgage with a lower fixed rate

Standard Federal Bank has announced that it is offering a new mortgage lending program for home buyers — the 10-year fixed-rate mortgage with an interest rate of 6-1/2 percent.

The bank's 10-year mortgage loan benefits home buyers by locking in a historically low interest rate and at the same time building equity more rapidly. By paying a somewhat higher monthly charge, a customer can save thousands of dollars in interest over the life of the loan.

"As a result of lower interest rates, stable housing prices and a growing trend toward reducing debt, we believe the 10-year loan will become a very attractive option in today's lending environment," said

Thomas R. Ricketts, chairman and president of Standard Federal Bank.

"This new, shorter-term mortgage product will also have great appeal to established homeowners looking to refinance smaller balances on their present mortgages."

1960s.

To obtain the lower interest rates, the borrower will pay a 2 percent loan discount fee plus the bank's normal application fee, closing fee and out-of-pocket expenses, such as title insurance. Interest rates and fees are subject to change without notice.

Windows illuminate baths that are in the 'future zone'

If the house down the street currently has two full bathrooms, with a master bathroom featuring a whirlpool tub, separate shower and a bidet in the corner, it just entered the "future zone," according to a recent survey issued by the National Association of Home Builders (NAHB).

The NAHB survey found that the bathroom will be the luxury center for new homes of the future. A typical home in the year 2000 will sport two full and two half baths and will be increasingly stylish and opulent with high quality flooring, marble vanities, linen closets, and an abundance of natural light.

Patrick Bushey, territory sales manager of Pella Window Store, isn't surprised. Windows have become increasingly important as people remodel their existing baths or design new baths for their homes.

"Windows are an essential feature in bathroom design. If someone is searching for ways to add character, interest, or flair to a bathroom design, consider a window or windows with unconventional shapes such as round, elliptical or octagonal. The smaller the bathroom, the greater the design impact of a special window shape. A bathroom is the most personal room in the house. Make it express a mood that makes people comfortable. Color, pattern, and light play a role in creating the mood," Bushey said.

When it's necessary to balance privacy and the desire for fresh, lively natural light, use high-mounted awning, casement or fixed windows. Also, some windows can be fitted with blinds or shades tucked out of the way, yet these items provide solitude with a quick pull or twist.

Realtors: Clinton real estate tax package should be enacted

The Clinton administration has proposed a useful, well-balanced housing and real estate tax package that should be enacted quickly — that was the message expressed recently by the National Association of Realtors in testimony before the U.S. House Ways and Means Committee.

"The Clinton plan corrects some imbalances that exist in the present system, but it does not undermine justifiable reforms that were enacted in the 1980s," Robert H. Elrod, NAR president-elect, said in a statement before the committee.

"The package, when enacted, will not create opportunities for abusive tax shelters, and does not carry the potential for reigniting the go-go market that led to overbuilding and see-through buildings," he said.

Elrod, a Realtor from Orlando, Fla., told committee members that while Clinton's plan for real estate "needs a few refinements," it would help to stabilize property values and to mitigate the harsh impact current federal tax policy has had on real estate markets. Among the NAR-endorsed tax provisions in the Clinton plan are reforms to the passive loss tax law, permanent extensions of key affordable housing programs and removal of barriers for pension fund investments in real estate.

Elrod expressed support for Clinton's proposal to change the current passive tax laws allowing all individuals who spend at least 50 percent of their time in the real estate business to deduct rental property losses against real estate business income.

However, he recommended an enhancement of the Clinton proposal on debt restructuring, which is contained in H.R. 749, the Real Estate Stability and Recovery Amendments Act of 1993. This provision would grant some relief to property owners who are unable to support their existing properties and who face the loss of those properties.

Regarding the Clinton administration's proposal to permanently extend the low-income housing tax credit, mortgage revenue bond and mortgage credit certificate programs, Elrod said:

"We wish to join the chorus of support. . . . Making the programs permanent removes uncertainty from the states that ably administer these programs, and assures that funds and programs will be available for families of low and moderate income who seek decent, reasonably priced homes."

In the interest of paying for some of the improvements to real estate taxation, Elrod said the association is supporting Clinton's real estate depreciation provisions. Although the president's proposal to extend depreciable lives for real estate is onerous to commercial developers who attempt to amortize the costs of tenant or leasehold improvements, Elrod said, "we accept the changes . . . with the understanding that they are the means of paying for the president's proposals to improve real estate taxation."

Elrod urged Chairman Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., and the committee to work with NAR to craft a solution to the problem that would fit within Congress' revenue restraints.

The Orlando Realtor praised the Clinton administration's proposals to attract pension capital to real estate markets. He noted that these proposals mirror recommendations made by Congress and the Bush administration last year.

However, Elrod said the "fine-print" in Clinton's plan reveals a key missing ingredient regarding Real Estate Investment Trusts (REITs). Changes proposed last year in H.R. 4210 and H.R. 11 would have modified the so-called "five or fewer" rule for REITs. These modifications should be included in the Clinton plan, he said.

Currently, a U.S. pension fund that invests in a REIT is treated as one investor. That makes it difficult for a U.S. pension to invest in a REIT, because the large block of capital held by the fund could cause the REIT to violate the rule prohibiting five or fewer investors from holding more than half of a REIT's outstanding stock. Oddly, a foreign pension is not treated as a single investor; each beneficiary is counted separately. Therefore, a foreign pension can more easily place a large block of capital in a REIT without violating the "five or fewer" rule.

Elrod also discussed capital gains provisions in his testimony and reiterated NAR's opposition to direct or indirect attacks on the mortgage interest deduction.

"While we expressed our displeasure with the cap that was imposed on mortgage interest in 1987, we nonetheless deeply appreciate Chairman Rostenkowski's leadership in holding the line on that cap," Elrod said.

He noted that NAR opposed the so-called "Pease limitations" in 1990, which curtailed itemized deductions, including those for mortgage interest and state and local taxes.

"We find this kind of backdoor rate increase particularly odious," he said.

"Similarly, our grass roots rallied in just the last two weeks to oppose the Senate Budget Committee's attempt to . . . limit itemized deductions," Elrod continued.

He urged the committee to follow the lead of the president and leave mortgage interest deductibility alone so the housing industry can continue to lead the nation's economic recovery.

Home Tips

Thoughtful remembrance — When my husband passed away recently, I didn't know what to do with his solid-gold wedding band. I didn't want to leave it in a box just to look at or wear it on a chain. Then I thought I'd have earrings made out of it. I asked a jeweler if it could be done, and he said yes. He cut the wedding band in half and attached a gold post to one end of each half. This made a beautiful pair of earrings that I now wear with pride and love. I think this is a wonderful way to get use as well as sentiment out of a ring that meant so much.

Gina P., London, Ohio

Safety first — Dry cleaning bags can be dangerous if left hanging around. Put them in their place by tying a knot at the perforated end and placing the bag in the trash can to be used as a garbage bag.

They can also be doubled by placing one bag inside the other.

Purchasing a condominium: Is it right for you?

By Doug Stranahan
Regional Director
Century 21 of the Great Lakes

Condominiums are becoming popular alternatives for homebuyers, mainly because they offer the amenities of apartment living with the advantage of owning a home. However, if you're in the market for condominium living, you should be aware of the possible limitations and pitfalls of purchasing and owning a condo.

First, work with a real estate broker or agent experienced in the condominium market in your area. The agent can be very helpful in targeting a complex suited to your needs. Also, a particular agent might be more familiar with a certain building's history, association fees and requirements. Look around the building or complex you're interested in and contact the agent who has done the most business there by talking to the condo association or current residents.

In most states, hiring a real estate attorney to go over all documents is as essential in purchasing a condo as it is in purchasing a home. The attorney should review the condominium declaration extensively to interpret many pages of information into layman's language. Also, the "fine print" will be deciphered for you. Since a condominium declaration guides the day-to-day living of the community, it is important to get a feeling of the lifestyle you're buying into.

The buyer is entitled to ask for copies of all declarations, association rules and bylaws. Remember, you have to live within the limitations set up by the condo association. Make sure you can abide by the guidelines listed.

Also, make sure you pay attention to the status of the association reserve fund, which is set up by residents for maintenance of the building or complex. If the reserve fund is low and the building is in need of repair or extensive upkeep, be aware that you'll be asked to contribute money above and beyond your regular association fees for those projects in the near future.

Because your home is also an investment, pay attention to the rules involving resale of the unit. Some condo complexes limit the use of "for sale" signs, don't allow owners to rent out their units, and have a right to approve or screen potential buyers.

It's always a good idea to request an interview with the condominium board before you make a final decision. This allows a buyer to get a feeling for the community, people and general atmosphere before making an irreversible decision. Look for any association rules that may hinder your lifestyle. If you own a recreational vehicle that needs to be parked in a driveway or garage, or if you own a pet, you don't want to live someplace that doesn't allow this.

Moving into a condominium can provide many advantages, but buyers should be aware of the many details involved. By working with qualified professionals, you can be sure that your condo living experience will be a happy one, and that you've made a good investment.

Magazine looks at the great debate — facilitators

The debate is growing among real estate professionals about the effectiveness and feasibility of facilitators — sales people who serve as intermediaries in a transaction and have no fiduciary duties or agency relationships.

Some of the arguments and issues surrounding the concept are addressed in the April issue of Real Estate Today, published by the National Association of Realtors.

In a round-table discussion conducted by Real Estate Today, five Realtors discussed their feelings about the facilitator concept.

Their comments, contained in a question-and-answer article titled "The Great Debate," provide insight into how those in the industry view the role of facilitators in terms of what this practice could and could not bring to the profession.

Participants in the discussion were Don Harlan, partner and managing broker of Harlan, Myles & Douglas Ltd., Denver; Tom Hathaway, president of The Buyer's Agent, Germantown, Tenn.; Dave McEachron, regional sales manager for Buyer's Resource Inc., Wolfeboro, N.H.; Sharon Millett, president of Millett-Potvin Realty, Auburn, Maine; and Michael Wietor, owner/broker of Country Squire Inc. Realtors, Davie, Fla.

According to the participants, the facilitator concept has evolved for a number of reasons. Hathaway, for example, said it's an effort to "shed the legal problems of being a disclosed dual agent," while Millett believes the concept is part of a natural progression that began with disclosure.

"We started asking, 'Whom do you represent?' Now we have a new question: 'Whom do you want to represent?'" she said.

The participants also discussed the actual duties of a facilitator and how those duties would be determined. The group agreed that state law probably would dictate duties, and that it would be difficult for states to pass legislation recognizing facilitators and their roles in the marketplace if state real estate commissions are opposed to the concept.

"The job of regulators is to protect consumers, and they're going to look for the facilitator to offer the same kinds of protection and services to the consumer as the agent," Millett said.

Harlan added that while the facilitator concept may develop, "we will not be relieved of our liability and responsibility."

McEachron posed the question: "Is the philosophy behind the facilitator movement one of consumer protection or one of practitioner protection? I can see how practitioners might benefit if they could perform all the duties they perform now but with none of the liability of true agency. Yet I can't see how that would benefit consumers."

Wietor expressed doubt about sellers picking up liability for a subagent in transactions where the facilitator concept is used.

"Subagents can be negligent when they show property; they can make misrepresentations that can come back to haunt the sellers," he said.

On the issue of whether limited liability would result in limited service, the panelists' opinions varied, as well.

"If we're not held accountable for our fiduciary duties, I can't imagine how we wouldn't diminish the service we'd render," McEachron said.

"The way I've seen the concept described, the facilitator would be nothing more than an intermediary who crafts the transaction or brings people to a meeting of the minds. But practitioners do a lot more than that — they market homes, show them, and negotiate. None of that would disappear if fiduciary duties were eliminated," Wietor added.

In their discussion, the panelists also addressed when it would be feasible to use facilitators, how facilitators could change the way the industry works, and what the chances are that this concept could become a reality in the real estate profession.

"I think legislatures will be very reluctant to pass laws that would reduce our liability. We can't go back to caveat emptor and a total release of our liability," Harlan said.

Added Wietor, who believes laws will change to recognize facilitators:

"I don't know whether it will be in Florida, Oregon, Wisconsin or Colorado, but it's going to happen somewhere and once one state does it, it's going to gain momentum."

Antiques by Ralph & Terry Kovel

Q. My very old doll can sort of talk. She has a Victrola in the back that plays cylinder records such as "Rock-a-Bye Baby." The doll is marked "Madame Hendren original."

A. The phonograph doll was an idea created by Thomas Edison in 1878. The doll was not made until 1889. A small record player was placed inside the tin body of the doll, and it was marked "Edison Phonograph Toy." Others soon copied his idea. Your doll was made by the Averill Manufacturing Co. of New York City about 1915-1925.

Oswald the lucky rabbit a rare find — You probably have never heard of Oswald the Lucky Rabbit, but it is only a twist of fate that gave his fame to Mickey Mouse. Oswald was a cartoon character created by Walt Disney in 1927; the cartoons were distributed by a contract with the Universal Pictures Corporation.

Oswald became very popular, and when it was time to negotiate a new contract, Disney was upset because he was offered less, not more, money. The rights to Oswald went to Universal, and Walt Disney began a new series of cartoons with a new hero, a mouse named Mickey. The Oswald cartoons continued for years with a new animator. Collectors treasure early Disney-Oswald toys and games. The keywind rabbit toy made in the 1930s sold at auction for over $5,000.

Nutritious breakfast should be step one in a strategic plan for a successful day

By Margie Reins Smith
Feature Editor

Mom was right after all. Nutritionists, dietitians and overachievers agree: A good breakfast is a sure-fire way to charge up for a productive day. "Breakfast is important because your energy level is low in the morning, after your long fast while sleeping. If you don't eat breakfast, you could feel tired and hungry before noon," said Janet Moustakas, a registered dietitian with St. John Hospital.

Teenagers and young adults frequently say they skip breakfast to control their weight, Moustakas said. The trouble is, they get so hungry they're apt to choose inappropriate food the whole rest of the day.

"When we're hungry we're apt to choose food that is high in fat, high in sugar, high in calories. We pick food that needs no preparation, which is usually high in fat, sugar and calories," she said.

Brenda Taylor of Grosse Pointe Woods gets up at 5 a.m. on school mornings to prepare breakfast for her seven daughters and husband, Jim.

"That old adage our mothers told us — that breakfast is the most important meal — is right," Taylor said. "It gives everyone a good start."

Daughters Jennie, 17; Julie, 16; Jeannette, 15; Jaime, 14;

Jeannette, 12; Jackie, 10; and Jeannie, 5; usually have bagels with cream cheese or cold cereal or eggs. "Sometimes I fix pancakes," Taylor said. "On weekends we're a little more relaxed. We get up at 8 or 9 a.m. and have pancakes or something more."

Other anti-breakfast arguments come from people who claim they feel hungry long before lunch time only if they eat breakfast.

"This is temporary," Moustakas said. "If you haven't been accustomed to eating breakfast and then begin eating breakfast, it will take a few weeks for your body to adjust. Then you won't feel the hunger."

Moustakas emphasized that traditional breakfast choices are not set in stone. It's important to eat nutritious breakfast food, not traditional breakfast food, she said. Some suggestions: low-fat muffins or bran muffins, plain bagels, high-fiber cereals, whole wheat toast, skim milk and some source of vitamin C such as orange juice, grapefruit juice or a bowl of strawberries.

Mal Sillars of Grosse Pointe Farms, chief meteorologist for WDIV-TV, gets up before the sun on weekdays.

"I put two bananas in the blender and slurp it down," he said. "I take some cold cereal with me to work — usually a mixture of shredded wheat and grape nuts, which I eat a few hours later, with milk. At 9 a.m., after the morning show is over, I go out for breakfast with the whole group. Then I have some oatmeal."

Sillars drinks two cups of coffee before noon. More important, he said, is water. "I drink two quarts of water by noon each day."

Pat Pompei of Grosse Pointe Park teaches lifeskills at Pierce and Parcels middle schools. She's high on breakfast.

"Your metabolism is still going while you're sleeping. Calories are still being burned," she said. "It's been eight or more hours since you've eaten. Your blood sugar is low. When you wake up, your body needs some protein, some complex carbohydrates and a little bit of fat."

"Actually, in America we have our meals reversed. Breakfast should be the most important meal, not the evening meal. Our calorie consumption should be divided more equally throughout the day."

Pompei has two children, Lauren, a fifth grader, and Brian, a first grader.

"I've discovered that if something nutritious is available — and it's easy to grab — they'll grab it. So I put good things out. I usually cut up some oranges and put some bananas on the table," she said.

Does eating breakfast make you feel hungry before lunch?

Sure, Pompei said: "When you eat, it increases your metabolism. That's why you get hungry. But it's OK to eat something healthy."

Pompei offered two muffin recipes and three fruit shake recipes as examples of nutritious breakfast fare. One muffin and glass of a fruit shake would be the perfect way to a successful day, she said.

Peanut Butter-Banana Shake

- 1 medium ripe banana, peeled
- 2 T. creamy peanut butter
- 1 C. yogurt
- 1 t. honey
- 1 t. vanilla extract
- 1 C. milk

Place all ingredients in blender and blend until smooth. Pour over cracked ice, if desired. Serves 2.

Apple-Yogurt Shake

- 2 C. plain yogurt
- 2 apples, peeled and quartered
- 3/4 C. apple juice
- 2 t. lemon juice
- 2 t. honey
- 45 dates, pitted and coarsely chopped

Combine all ingredients in blender and blend until apples are finely chopped and ingredients are thoroughly combined. Serves 4.

Fruit Smoothie

- 1/2 C. strawberries, washed and hulled (or peaches)
- 1/2 C. plain yogurt
- 1 C. low fat milk
- dash of cinnamon
- 1 t. honey or sugar, to taste

Place ingredients in blender. Cover and blend until combined. One serving.

Pat Pompei's Banana Oat Muffins

- 1 C. oats (not quick or instant)
- 1/2 C. skim milk
- 1 C. whole wheat flour
- 1/2 t. salt, if desired
- 1/2 t. cinnamon
- 1/4 t. nutmeg
- 1 well-beaten egg
- 2 T. oil
- 1 t. vanilla extract
- 1 C. mashed ripe bananas
- 1/4 C. raisins (rehydrated in hot water)

Soak oats in the milk for 15 minutes. Combine dry ingredients and spices. Add to the mixture.

Combine egg, oil, vanilla, and mashed bananas. Stir liquid mixture into dry ingredients just until moist. Fold in raisins.

Notes: To rehydrate raisins before adding to the batter, place them in a small glass dish with 1 T. water. Cover dish with plastic wrap and microwave on high for 45 seconds. Use cooking spray to grease muffin tins.

Bon Secours Hospital to offer programs on breast cancer awareness in April, May

One out of nine American women will develop breast cancer during their lifetime, but progress is being made in the early detection and diagnosis of the disease. Bon Secours Hospital's Community Health Department will sponsor a series of free seminars to heighten the awareness of breast cancer.

Selected speakers will disregard the myths, discuss the risks and present the facts concerning this potentially deadly form of cancer. Any woman can develop breast cancer, but some are more at risk than others. A woman has a higher-than-average risk of developing breast cancer if she is over 50 years old, if her mother or sister has had the disease or if she has had breast cancer before.

The cancer series calendar:

- April 13: "The Latest Developments in Breast Cancer Research" by Dr. Sofia Merajver, associate research scientist at the University of Michigan Medical Center, division of hematology/oncology.

- May 4: "Therapy Options When Breast Cancer is Detected" by Dr. Eugene Agnone, Bon Secours oncologist.

- May 12: "The Mind-Body Connection When You Have Breast Cancer" by Carole Kirby, psychotherapist.

- May 19: "Early Detection and Possible Prevention of Breast Cancer" by Dr. Robert Leonard, Bon Secours Oncologist.

- May 25: "Mammography Can Save Lives" by Dr. Thomas Barbieri, Bon Secours radiologist.

All cancer awareness programs are held from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial Library. For more information on the programs or to register, call 779-7900.

Experience "Jubilation" at the newly renovated Music Hall on Friday, April 30, from 6:30 to 10:30 p.m. with the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

Based on a seamless and unique style, this grass roots dance company uses contemporary, ballet and jazz that's rooted in traditional African dance. The performance reflects the urban African-American experience.

The music of Quincy Jones, Nina Simone, Roberta Flack, Ramsey Lewis and Stevie Wonder permeates the work that pays tribute to African roots, Broadway traditions, the extended family and Mother Earth.

See for yourself how the magic is back as the Music Hall Center hosts a full spectrum of dance companies: contemporary, ethnic and ballet. The $4 million renovation has improved the acoustics and sightlines to enhance the experience.

A light dinner at the War Memorial is included followed by a motorcoach trip to the Music Hall for an evening of entertainment. Seats are orchestra and front mezzanine.

Tickets are $43 and include motorcoach, light dinner, performance ticket and a contribution to Music Hall restoration fund. Reservations are required by April 5.

For more information, call 881-7511.

Queen Elizabeth visits

Have tea with Queen Elizabeth I on Wednesday, April 21, from 2 to 3 p.m. at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. Dressed in costume and in character, Harriet Berg, founder and artistic director of the Mme. Cadillac Dance Theatre, will tell about Elizabeth I's role in history and provide an insight into life during the time of this powerful woman.

Prudden has own show

Grosse Pointe artist Bette Prudden will have a one-artist exhibit in the lounge of the Scarab Club through April 17.

The exhibit will consist of portraits, flower paintings and her "water series." The Scarab Club is located at 217 Farnsworth on the corner of John R and Farnsworth behind the Detroit Institute of Arts. It is a fellowship for the arts in the Cultural Center and is host to many exhibitions throughout the year.

Unvarnished tales of often overrated locales

Natural Opium: Some Traveler's Tales

By Diane Johnson
Knopf, 234 pages. $21
Diane Johnson, the peripatetic author of "Natural Opium," is already an established, well-seasoned writer with seven novels, two biographies, and a collection of essays under her belt.

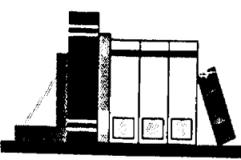

Accompanying Dr. John Murray, her physician husband, Johnson attends the meetings of the International Infectious Disease Council in countries around the world. As a result, she has a unique opportunity to observe close hand such widely divergent locales as Singapore, Australia, Pakistan, and Switzerland, to mention just a few.

Johnson's pen is sharp. While she recognizes the best each country has to offer, she never hesitates to wield her rapier. For a tour of the Great Barrier Reef off the east coast of Australia, she rather reluctantly boards a rickety ship: "As is so often the traveler's fate, nothing on the cruise was as promised or as we had expected. The seedy crew of six had tourist-baked smiles and warmed-over jokes. There was a little faded captain who climbed out of his tower to greet us now and then; a sort of Irish barmaid, Maureen, helped Murray serve the drinks. The main business of the passage seemed to be not the life of the sea nor the paradise of tropical birds on Pacific shores nor the balmy water but putting in at innumerable islands to look at souvenir shops."

During a stopover in India, Johnson and her husband managed, after many tiresome delays, to visit the famous Taj Mahal: "Then at length we had seen it — a glorious, lacy, pale building, its exquisite Moghul domes reflected in an unswollen long pool — a tranquil and otherworldly oasis in the horrid Indian countryside, more beautiful than we had imagined, but with a splendor so tomblike that it could not produce in either of us any reflections about mortal marital arrangements. Instead it made us think of death — of dead India, and of the people's complicity with the suicide of their land, and how hard it was for us as Americans to understand what the end of the world would be like."

In Africa, Johnson goes with a group of professional people to visit the Serengeti region. One of the party, a Danish filmmaker, was not eager to photograph the wildlife roving the plain: "I could understand this, was myself at first a little bored by the animals. I had seen the sophisticated humane zoos where all had been made to look like Africa, and these had spoiled me, so that in the beginning it was hard to feel the difference, really to feel the frisson of danger and distance the sight of a wild lion, smeared with gore, eating his kill ought to bring. But now after a week I had begun to see the scale of the animals' estate, the Serengeti plains more vast than Nebraska, and I began to feel the cruelty of zoos."

Then there's this about Switzerland: "From the first, I had not felt quite at ease in (Grindelwald), this German part of Switzerland; despite the vaunted comfort of their hotels, the appearance concealed an essentially puritanical edge of discomfort; the pool in our hotel, advertised as 'indoor,' was nonetheless kept two degrees below a temperature that human beings could find tolerable; and the skis I had rented had proved at the top of a glacier to be completely without edges, obliging me to sideslip fearfully down more than a mile of ice field as a crevasse above us emitted frightening, strange creaks of moving snow and the menace of avalanche. In the shop windows, which I scrutinized for amusing artifacts for presents, I found only figures of unpleasant-looking little dwarves and witches, and people with twisted Brueghel faces, or displays of gleaming cutlery and sinister steel dental implements. There seemed to be nothing pink, luxurious, no concept of decor, the food an endless succession of veal cutlets of a midwestern plainness."

Then in China Johnson and her husband "learned to eat whatever was served, without inquiring, depriving our hosts of the pleasure they seemed to feel in shocking Westerners with the revelation that they have just eaten bat or snake. Anyway, it seemed to me, once cut up in little pieces, all things, whether badger or toad, tasted remarkably alike."

The Murrays also visited a renowned professor and his wife in their minuscule apartment: "Professor Wang, the greatest professor of medicine in all of China, lived in two rooms, and his dining table was made from boards set atop the television set. A bed was pushed into the corner. The Wangs had four books only — one a photo album, with cuttings of Western reviews of a novel written by Mrs. Wang's grandmother in the '30s. They had saved it by hiding it during the Cultural Revolution, when it could have been dangerous having a grandmother who wrote books."

Johnson is a shrewd and skilled observer, and she never fails to skewer preconceived notions of exotic foreign places; thus her book is a highly entertaining and informative expose for all travelers to enjoy and marvel at, whether they be of the active or armchair variety. She sees things with wide-open eyes, unvarnished by travel-agency brochures, and by exposing the facts and fallacies therein she opens up a whole new world to explore.

May is Museum Month

Art and activities await visitors at the DIA in May.

In recognition of Museum Month, the Detroit Institute of Arts has planned a variety of special programs and events for visitors of all ages.

Polish Day at the DIA (May 1) and Cinco de Mayo (May 2) begin the schedule of activities. Beginning Wednesday, May 5, and continuing every Wednesday in May is the DIA Shop and Shuttle, which provides express bus shuttle service from the Somerset Collection, Twelve Oaks and Eastland malls to the museum.

The festivities continue with Art for the Young at Heart

(May 6), for the older members of the community; a Mother's Day Brunch (May 9); Cap & Brunch (May 23), for recent graduates; and Family Day at the DIA (May 16), with activities for the whole family.

The DIA is open Wednesday through Sunday, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Beginning May 8, the weekend hours will be extended from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. The museum is closed Mondays, Tuesdays, and holidays. Recommended admission is a donation of $4 for adults and $1 for children. DIA Founders Society members are always admitted free. For more information call (313) 833-7971.

Griffith breathes new life into 'Yesterday'

By Marian Trainor
Special Writer

It's not easy to step into a role that won an Oscar for the actress who created it.

When Judy Holiday played Billie Dawn in the 1950 production of "Born Yesterday" she became as closely identified with that role as Vivien Leigh was to Scarlett. While not a Holiday, Melanie Griffith does just fine as Billie the bimbo who comes to Washington, gets the Pygmalion treatment and becomes a fair lady.

Wisely, Griffith avoids imitating Holiday. She puts her own spin on the part and in so doing creates a '90s version of Billie as she blossoms from a dim-witted chorus girl into a crisp and confident woman.

The story, adapted by Douglas McGrath, is essentially the same as the original Garson Kanin play. While not all of Kanin's lines are there, most of the new ones retain the Kanin spirit.

The story begins as Harry Brock (John Goodman in the Broderick Crawford role), a crude industrialist, gets off the plane in Washington where he has come to bribe senators into not closing military bases.

He brings with him his companion, a former Las Vegas showgirl who is long on looks but short on brain power.

Brock realizes that if he's going to succeed with his plan his little gem will need some polishing. He hires Paul Verrall (Don Johnson) to tutor her. Paul is a writer who has been assigned to write Brock's biography. It turns out not to be a good choice, as Paul gets too close a look at Brock's nefarious operations and spends too much time alone with Billie.

As part of her education she reads "Democracy in America." It's tough going that sends her to the dictionary on every page, but she hangs in there and later delights a group of worldly guests by demonstrating how she remembers the constitutional amendments. She sings them in the tune of "The 12 Days of Christmas." It is a delightful sequence.

In the meantime, Brock puts his holdings in Billie's name to escape tax penalties and Billie and Paul have gone beyond a pupil-teacher relationship.

From the beginning, Griffith's Billie shows promise of an emerging butterfly. Her performance as the newly cultured Billie is pure gold, reminiscent of her role in "Working Girl."

We can't help but feel sorry for Goodman's Harry Brock. He truly loved Billie. A master of facial expression, Goodman puts that talent to good use, and you haven't seen anything until you see him dancing up a storm in a local bar. It's a show-stopper.

The 1950's "Born Yesterday" rebirth in the '90s owes no apologies to its parentage. It retains all the wit and humor of the original. It's entertainment that pleases.

Overtures hosts April event

Overtures and the Harlequin Cafe have the cure for what ails you on Sunday, April 18.

At 1 p.m., the Harlequin serves a European-style brunch while the live music sets the tone for the afternoon Detroit Symphony Orchestra concert.

At 3:30 p.m., world-acclaimed violinist Midori takes Orchestra Hall's stage with Neeme Jarvi and the DSO, performing Sibelius' Symphony No. 3 in C major, Brahms' Concerto for Violin and Orchestra in D major and Chadwick's "Noel: Symphonic Sketch No. 2." Also included is the world premiere of Walker's "Sinfonietta No. 2."

Tickets are $35 and include the pre-concert brunch at the Harlequin Cafe and a DSO concert ticket. Tickets may be purchased from the Orchestra Hall box office at 833-3700. For best seats, ticket orders must be received before April 9.

Overtures also produces a series of "Musical Chats" — informal gatherings with speakers from the area's classical music community. DSO has the soonist and historian Paul Ganson will be the group's special guest at the May 21 Musical Chat at downtown Detroit's Sibley House.

Ganson will speak on the intertwined history of the DSO and Detroit's Sibley family. Light hors d'oeuvres will be served at 7 p.m., with Ganson speaking at 8. Tickets are $15. Call 833-3700.

Wine seminar

Zinfandel seems to be increasingly popular again and the Dry Creek Valley in Sonoma county produces some excellent wines. A "Zinfandel and Dry Creek Valley" wine tasting seminar is scheduled for Wednesday, April 14, at 7:30 p.m. at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

Taste six wines from various producers looking for that Dry Creek flavor stamp.

Explore a wide and varied selection of wines through tastings, lectures, films and group discussion with instructor Bonnie Delsener. Fees vary due to the cost of the wines. Advance registration is required. The zinfandel wine tasting is $17.50. For more information, call 881-7511.

Morning Mist, Redwoods

Grosse Pointe resident Carol LaChiusa will have a show of her watercolors at the Troy Art Gallery in Royal Oak, including the painting above. The show runs April 17-May 15 with an opening reception from 2 to 5 p.m. Saturday, April 17. Call 548-7919.

Cinema League visits Ireland

The Grosse Pointe Cinema League will present a 35mm slide presentation, "Ireland: Friendly Island of Surprises," by Lida Mattman at 8 p.m. Monday, April 12, in the Fries Auditorium of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

Mattman's pictures will answer questions such as: What beautiful and valuable animal runs wild but may enter your car? What is it like living in a 13th century abbey? Can we rent a castle, complete with servants? What part of Ireland did Cromwell not desire to conquer? Why are 125 Belfast children flown to North Carolina each summer?

'Fuente Ovejuna' opens at the Bonstelle April 16

The Wayne State University Department of Theatre will present Lope de Vega's classic "Fuente Ovejuna" at the Bonstelle Theatre April 16-25.

"Fuente Ovejuna" takes its name from a Spanish village which rebels against its military tyrant. Although the most famous and widely performed of de Vega's plays, it is rarely seen in this country. It is a true story about the triumph of the human spirit.

This new translation by Adrian Mitchell was commissioned by the British National Theatre, which produced it to great acclaim. According to the Evening Standard, "Fuente Ovejuna is a great play by a great writer... This inspiring play, in a robust new version by Adrian Mitchell, affirms the power of love over brutality."

The Bonstelle production is directed by WSU faculty member Robert Emmett McGill, assistant chairman of the department of theatre.

Tickets are $8 and may be purchased by calling the Bonstelle box office at 577-2960.

'Magical Evening in the Middle East' to raise funds for DIA

A benefit for the Detroit Institute of Arts will be held on Wednesday, April 14, at the opening of a new Hagopian World of Rugs showroom, 850 South Woodward in Birmingham.

The theme will be "A Magical Evening in the Middle East." Nobody has promised magic carpet rides, but the evening will feature Middle Eastern food, music, wines and entertainment.

All proceeds will go to the DIA's endowment fund. In addition, the Hagopian store will turn over to the DIA 10 percent of any sales to those who attend opening night.

Edgar Hagopian, left, discusses how to evaluate the color, texture and design of an Oriental rug with Grosse Pointers Diane Schoenith and Bill Zoufal. They are planning a benefit for the Detroit Institute of Arts beginning at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, April 14, in conjunction with the grand opening of the new Hagopian store in Birmingham.

"I feel the Detroit Institute of Arts is one of the most important cultural institutions in Michigan," said Edgar Hagopian, president and CEO of the family-owned company since 1976. "During my formative years... and later as a student at Cass Technical High School, my trips to the museum were always awe-inspiring, not to mention educational."

Committee members for the fundraiser include Grosse Pointers Henry and Melinda Earle, Dr. Reginald and Anne Harnett, Henry and Liz Kuhlman, Sy and Miriam Schaafsma, Tom and Diane Schoenith, Bill and Chrissie Zoufal and Joseph J. Walker III.

Tickets are $25 and may be reserved by calling 399-2323 or 833-0247; tickets may also be purchased at the door.

Bridge

HAVE A PLEASANT TRY AT PERFECTION BRIDGE BY WOODY BOYD ♠♥♦♣

A player who stands with one foot on ice and the other in fire, on averages, should have a comfortable body temperature. Practicing these kinds of extremes in duplicate bridge though just doesn't, on averages, win many events. I would like to believe that I have completed my tour of the peaks and valleys country in my quest to play better competitively, but I'm not sure my education is yet complete. In duplicate as my readers appreciate, it is imperative to be with the field or above and that requires sound judgement, excellent technique and enough opportunity to do so. Anything less and you're "an also ran!"

I can't tell you how many garden variety players have stood before themselves and asked, "Mirror, mirror on the wall, what must I do to win over all?" Naturally my answers to this aren't patently sanctioned, but I have a few suggestions.

- Cultivate the basic standards of the game before you try and acquire too much system sophistication. This phase of your education you might succeed at yourself, but better to get well trained help.
- Play and play and read and play some more, but establish some priorities. If you're anything like me, you'll find that advancement is pleasurable and playing to achieve a goal is entertaining.
- Listen to the proficient, not the imposter!
- At some stage, you'll start winning then upgrade the competitors you're playing against. To beat the mediocre builds ego; to beat the best builds recognition.

If you've gotten this far and are truly enjoying your advancement, then I would suggest you're ready for a playing date with a professional. It's not for everyone, but for those who truly want the taste of a gifted and exhilarating experience, it is a profound and memorable moment. I have done so and it has dramatically flattered my game.

This spring, a number of the finest players in North America are expected to attend our SOMBA Wolverine Regional that will be staged at the Southfield Pavilion May 18-23. The great Italian world master Benito Garozzo is expected as will our own North American star Zeke Jabbar and they will be available for a limited number of playing dates. Two of our favorite local medalist with significant reputations, Steve Landen and recent transplant Canadian star Mark Moulson have been playing by appointment these past few years with readers of this column and I am told by some who have that it was eventful and worth doing again. This bodes well for the high calibre of our local bridge and one of the significant reasons Oakland County play is far above the average.

Sometimes even the most brilliant find themselves with a foot on ice and the other in fire, but it shows to go you that even the stars of our game are human for the slam that Mark and Steve got to in a recent sectional was precarious and in considerable danger of failing. It should be emphatically stated that neither support the theory that 24 H.C.P. slams are a sane way to gain victory, but once there declarer gave it a superb play.

Mark later stated that six diamonds was heroically bold, but all of his points were working and he was sure Steve was void in spades.

When the curtain came up on dummy, Steve was sure it was the eve of doomsday, but maybe there was hope if the heart king, ten or queen, ten were with West and the clubs were no worse than 4-3.

Expecting what he predicted to find, victory, he commenced his play. (1) He won dummy's diamond king and played the exposed club king. (3) Dummy's diamond eight to his ace and ruffed a low club with dummy's queen. (5) A spade ruffed with his diamond nine. His heart seven to dummy's heart nine and jingle bells East had to win with his queen. (7) He ruffed East's spade return and drew the opponents last trump. Tricks (9)-(11) his club ace, queen, eight. (12) A heart to dummy's jack and the heart ace.

You say Steve was lucky. I agree, but luck usually compliments expert play.

The Pastor's Corner

The eternal Passover

By the Rev. Ronald W. Schmidt
Faith Lutheran Church

As we enter the month of April, we observe and remember the great acts of God on behalf of each one of us in redemption. These acts center on the suffering, death and resurrection of our Lord Jesus, the Messiah.

The last meal Jesus shared with His disciples was the Passover, a meal of remembrance. When Jesus and the disciples reclined at the table, they were remembering the great act of God in delivering His people, Israel, from the physical bondage of Egypt 1,200-1,400 years before.

In that first deliverance of long ago, a year-old male lamb without defect was killed on the 14th day of the month and its blood splashed on the top and two sides of the front door frame (symbolizing for the future the top and arms of a cross. Jesus' head wounds and blood flowing from the nails in His wrists would have left identical marks on the cross).

The blood of the passover lamb spared each Israeli house from the death of the first born.

Among the Egyptians, however, there was not a house where there was no death. This massive plague of death frightened the Egyptians to the point of desperation and broke the will of the stubborn pharaoh; the Israelis were free. The blood of the Passover lamb was the sign of deliverance from death and bondage.

But God on high was signaling to the Earth that He had another plan in which a Passover lamb would die and His blood would deliver not only Israelis but all the human race from spiritual death and from the spiritual bondage of our sins.

We can put names on the sins that would hold us captive: lusting and lying, cheating and coveting, murder and hypocrisy, cruelty and deceit.

So the Lamb of God, Jesus Messiah, died in the spring of the year at Passover time and we were free. "God laid upon Him the iniquities of us all."

The first Passover has been observed by Israelis for some 3400 years; the Passover of Jesus Christ has been observed by Christians for nearly 2000 years as Holy Thursday, Good Friday and Easter come around each spring. But Passover is eternal, for the deliverance of the human race from death and the tyranny of our sins has been in the mind of God from the beginning, just as the first Passover was prelude to the second. In the heart of God the Lamb was slain from the creation of the world.

God gave the prophet Isaiah a glimpse of His plan some 700 years before Jesus came:

"Surely He took up our infirmities and carried our sorrows . . . He was pierced for our transgressions, he was crushed for our iniquities; the punishment that brought us peace was upon him, and by his wounds we are healed. We all, like sheep, have gone astray, each of us has turned to his own way; And the Lord has laid on him the iniquity of us all."

— Isaiah 53:4a, 5-6

A very special art show

By Ronald J. Bernas
Assistant Editor

The Grosse Pointe Woods Community Center last week was the site of a special art exhibition.

Several rooms were filled with statues, drawings, cutouts, paintings, portraits, weavings, still lifes and just about anything else one thinks of when discussing art.

The exhibit was the culmination of the elementary level art enrichment program sponsored by the Grosse Pointe public schools.

Four teachers — Nikki Killian, Elaine Connors, Gabriella Moustardas, and Mary Francis — were hired to teach the after-school program. Students with a special interest or talent in art were encouraged to participate.

"Each teacher had the same supplies but it all depended on how they wanted to use it," Killian said.

The teachers used the art materials that the schools normally use, but with 90 minutes of uninterrupted time, the students were able to stretch their creative horizons.

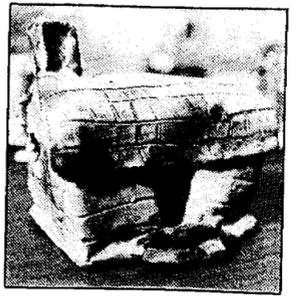

They studied Matisse, then imitated his cutouts. They studied Picasso's collages, then made their own. Egyptian jewelry was studied, then reproduced. The kids studied automobile design, then made their own cars out of clay.

More than 500 kids participated and all had something on display at the show.

Cory Johnson, 7, brought her proud dad to the exhibit to see her clay sculpture. He said he felt the program is excellent.

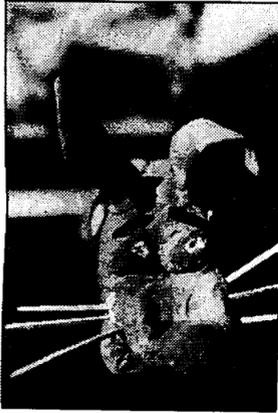

"I thought it was nice because it's brought out her own creativity," he said. "And that's what school's all about, exploring everything in the world."

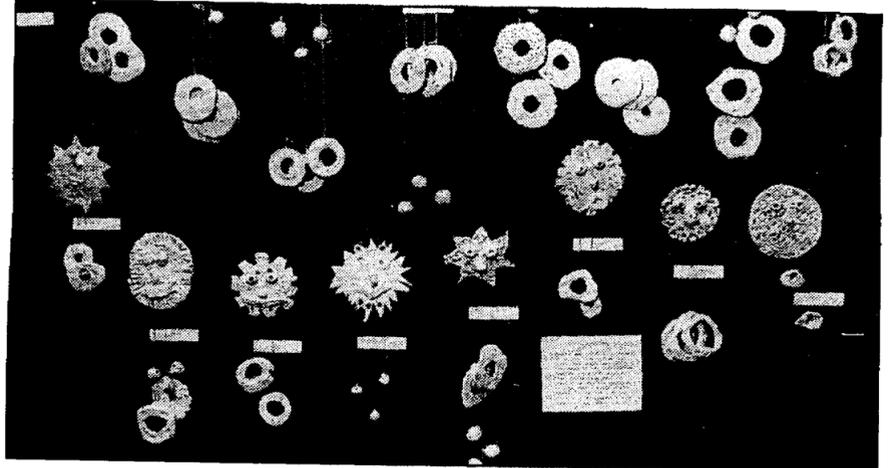

Poupard Elementary fifth grader Sarah Nosis built her house of clay.

Trombly second grader Katie Marr points to her stained glass window project.

These wind chimes are another clay project by done through the art enrichment program.

Grosse Pointe Theatre spreads 'Rumors'

Neil Simon's hit Broadway comedy, "Rumors," will be Grosse Pointe Theatre's April presentation.

The show opens Wednesday, April 14, and runs each evening through Saturday, April 24, except for Monday, April 19.

"Rumors" is a contemporary farce in Simon's zaniest vein. Four couples are invited to a black-tie anniversary party. Instead of the pleasant evening they'd expected, they find that the hostess has disappeared, the host has tried to shoot himself, there are rumors of sexual affairs, there's an accident in the kitchen, a visit by police, and, of course, slamming of doors.

Playing the four couples are Terri Turpin-Amato and Tom Kern as Chris and Ken Gorman; Emmajean Evans and David Luther Glover as Claire and Lenny Ganz; Jane Vreeland and Clarke Scholes as Cookie and Ernie Cusak; and Jennifer Carmichael and Pat Bushey as Cassie and Glenn Cooper. The two police officers are played by Bill McCarthy and Virginia Large.

The production is directed by Pat Villegas, director of last year's "Noises Off." The show's staff includes John Guadagnoli, producer; John Casey, stage manager; and Val Sisto, technical director and set designer.

Other staff members are Theresa Selvaggio, costumes; Peter Walilko, lights; Mickie Pizzimenti, makeup; Carol Samuel and Gwenn Samuel, properties; Marie DeLong and Larry White, set dressing; and Ed Thomas, sound.

Performances of "Rumors" are at 8 p.m., except Sunday, April 18, when showtime is 7 p.m. The play will be performed at Fries Auditorium in the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

Tickets are $10. Special group rates are available for Tuesday evenings only. The War Memorial also offers a candlelight buffet dinner for $12.50 before most performances. For dinner reservations, call the War Memorial at 881-7511.

For information about tickets, call the Grosse Pointe Theatre at 881-4004. Tickets are also available for the spring musical, "Mack and Mabel" (June 8-19).

Psst. You hear about dinner?

Enjoy dinner in the Crystal Ballroom overlooking Lake St. Clair at 6:30 p.m. prior to the 8 p.m. Grosse Pointe Theatre performance of "Rumors" by Neil Simon.

Buffets are offered Wednesday through Saturday, April 14-17, and again Wednesday through Friday, April 21-23, at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. The dinner menu for the evening includes French country chicken, Hungarian beef stew noodles with parsley, peas with pearl onions, and corn souffle. Tickets are $12.50 and include tax and tip. Dinner tickets are limited, so order early. Checks for buffet dinners should be made out and mailed to the War Memorial. Be sure to indicate date desired.

For more dinner information, call 881-7511. Performance tickets can be ordered through the theater at 881-4004.

'Kiss Me Kate' opens

The classic Cole Porter musical "Kiss Me Kate" will be presented by Grosse Pointe South High School April 27-May 1 at the Grosse Pointe Performing Arts Center located at North High School, 707 Vernier.

The cast includes Jenni Andary as Kate, Andy McKim as Petruchio, Heather Bossler as Bianca, Brian Young as Bill, Erin Tusa as Hattie, Greg Miller and Erik Dahlstrom as the gangsters, Ian Deason and Toby Roberts as the suitors, Greg Sharrow as Paul, Joe Calarco as Baptista, and Britt Stebbins as Howell.

The understudies for Kate, Petruchio, Bianca, Bill, Hattie, Paul and the gangsters are Lucy Ament, Aaron Riccinto, Tracy Ganem, Brian McCloskey, Michele Ritter, Geoff Button, and William Conway, respectively. There is also a large chorus of dancers and singers, and a fantastic orchestra.

"Kiss Me Kate" is directed and produced by South choir director Ellen Bowen and drama director Mary Martin.

Fisher Theatre offers 4 shows

The Fisher Theatre is offering a spring series of four Broadway shows. Tickets are on sale now by calling 645-6666.

"Buddy, The Buddy Holly Story" runs April 13-18. The Tony-nominated musical celebrates the songs that fueled Holly's meteoric rise to stardom.

"Catskills On Broadway" follows April 20-25 with its hilarious tribute to the Catskills resort area that spawned some of America's funniest people.

Set design and construction is led by Dan Vicary. The choreographers are Andy Haines and former South student Laura Stephens. The accompanist is Jeff Bruning, and the acting coach is Ed Nahhat.

"The students benefit greatly from working with professional designers, actors, choreographers and musicians, and the audience will benefit from a first-class production," Martin said.

Show times are 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, April 29, 8 p.m. on Friday, April 30, and 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. on Saturday, May 1.

Tickets are $8 adult and $5 student/senior for the evening performances, and $5 adult and $3.50 student/senior for the Saturday matinee (the lead roles will be understudied).

There will also be a special senior citizens performance on Tuesday, April 27, at 7:30 p.m. Tickets for this performance are $3.50, or free with a Grosse Pointe Gold Card. Tickets may be ordered by calling 885-8592 or may be purchased at Village Records and Tapes.

"The Secret Garden" runs April 27-May 16. Inspired by Francis Hodgson Burnett's classic children's novel, the musical won three Tony awards, including best book of a musical.

The winner of six Tony awards, including best musical of the year, "The Will Rogers Follies, A Life in Revue" will play June 1-19 starring Keith Carradine and Dee Hoty who originated the roles of Will Rogers and his wife Betty Blake on Broadway.

Sixth graders study Jewish Passover

Sixth graders at St. Paul Parish have been studying the Hebrew Scriptures. In order to give students a first-hand appreciation of the Jewish religion, Fran Pearlman, director of religious education at Temple Israel in West Bloomfield, spoke to the group. They also toured Temple Israel, led by Judy Miller. Finally, the sixth graders celebrated the traditional Passover Seder under the leadership of Pearlana Bodzin, board member of the Ecumenical Institute for Jewish and Christian Studies. Above left, Norma Lundsford and her sixth grade class remember the plagues that befell Egypt during a celebration of the Passover Seder. Above right, Bodzin facilitates a traditional Passover Seder with the sixth graders of St. Paul Catholic Church's religious education program.

St. James Lutheran plans Holy Week services

St. James Lutheran Church, 170 McMillan in Grosse Pointe Farms, will hold the following services:

- Maundy Thursday, April 8: a solemn Holy Eucharist at 7:30 p.m. Fifth and sixth graders will make their first communion.
- Good Friday, April 9: a combined service with St. Paul Lutheran Church of Grosse Pointe Farms will be held at 1 p.m. at St. James Church for the veneration of the cross, the reading of the St. John Passion and a sermon by the Rev. Fred Harms of St. Paul.
- Good Friday, April 9: The Rev. William Kahlenberg will lead in the Tenebrae, a service of diminishing light ending in darkness and based on the crucifixion of Jesus, at 7:30 p.m.

- Easter Sunday, April 11: A festive Eucharist will be held at 8 and 11 a.m., with special music by the choirs, bell ringers, and instrumentalists.

Easter brunch will be served by the Women's Guild starting at 9 a.m.

For brunch reservations or more information about the services, call 884-0511.

Community Chorus presents concert

The Grosse Pointe Community Chorus will join the Dearborn Ecumenical Chorus and the Children's Choir of Sacred Heart Church for a concert at 3 p.m. Sunday, April 25, at Parcels Middle School's auditorium.

and the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

Other soloists will be tenors Michael Johnston and Carl Angelilli of Grosse Pointe.

Tickets are $4 for adults; $1 for children. A reception will follow the concert. For tickets, call Wolf at 278-4654 or Virginia Gardiner at 881-0909.

The 110-voice group will perform selections of classical and show tunes under the direction of Robert Wolf.

The featured soloist will be soprano Mary Callaghan Lynch, who has performed with the Michigan Opera Theater

Christian singles play Walleyball

Christian singles are invited to join The Single Way on Fridays, April 9 and 23, for walleyball. Adults and teens are welcome. The group will meet at 7:45 p.m. at the Warren Racquetball Center, 29901 Civic Center Drive near 12-1/2 Mile and Van Dyke in Warren. A courtesy reservation is required by the day before each event. The group will play for two hours and the cost is $6 a person. Christians of all ages are invited to join this activity. For more information or a calendar of other group events, call 776-5535.

Anxiety support group at St. John

A self-help group for people who experience anxiety, particularly in the form of panic attacks or agoraphobia, now meets at St. John Hospital on the second Monday of each month. The next meeting will be Monday, April 12, in the Medical Education Building, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Parking is free behind the hospital. For further information, call 343-7000.

Don't be bothered with glasses this summer! RK's the answer.

If spring comes...as it surely will... can summer be far behind? Along with losing those last few pounds so you will look smashing in your new bathing suit, maybe now is the time to think about having the new radial keratotomy surgery so you won't be bothered with your glasses and contact lenses this summer. Many people don't need to wear glasses at all.

Metropolitan Eye Center, right in your neighborhood on Mack north of Eight Mile at Shady Lane, is a national trendsetter in the new surgical procedure to help people with astigmatism and nearsightedness see better without their glasses.

It's safe, it's almost painless, and the surgery is performed in our fully equipped surgical facility on an outpatient basis. To find out if RK surgery might be an answer for you, call 774-6820.

- To request information in the mail.
- To schedule a complimentary consultation.
- To reserve a seat at a free RK seminar.

How Do You Remember The Whittier?

Mr. & Mrs. Robert Heiss • Southfield, MI Married at The Whittier Hotel in 1948.

Memories ... remembrances of significant times from our past ... each one evokes a different image. Often, they trigger good feelings for our us now, and help us to prepare for our future.

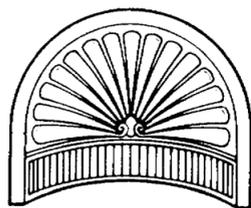

For the Heiss', their Whittier memory is special indeed. The Whittier is an historic part of many metro-area residents' memories. Daily, visitors tell us of the indelible experiences shared at The Whittier. Whether it was a party in the Gold Cup Room cocktail lounge, an exciting day at the yearly hydroplane races, or trying to catch a glimpse of one of our famous guests, each generation has a story to tell.

Today at The Whittier, our residents create new memories everyday! Mature adults, both working and retired, graduate students, and temporary residents enjoy their lives to the fullest.

We would like you to become a part of our history!

In 1993, The Whittier will celebrate its 70th Anniversary. We are collecting photographs, letters and memorabilia to display during our various special events. If you have a cherished Whittier memory, please send us an item for our archive. We promise its safekeeping and return. For further details, please contact the Marketing Department.

The Whittier ... for almost 70 years ... continuing a tradition of excellence.
