

Foes deny 'sabotaging' City Airport expansion, await next move by Young

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

Detroit officials vow that the defection of Southwest Airlines from Detroit City Airport to Metro Airport will not halt efforts to expand city airport despite the "sabotage" efforts of groups opposing expansion.

"I deeply regret the decision Southwest Airlines made, but I understand it," said Detroit Mayor Coleman Young in a statement. "Southwest was forced to withdraw because we have been delayed in our attempts to expand City Airport. We have been sabotaged every step of the way as we have worked to expand the airport, in much the same manner as our attempts to get modern rapid transportation for the city have been sabotaged."

"Young calls what we have been doing sabotage, but all we have done is study the economic viability of expansion," said John King, chair of the Detroit City Airport Study Committee. "We've been saying for years that Southwest could not sustain itself operating out of City Airport."

King believes that Detroit will have to revise its study of the economic viability of expansion. He said it will no longer be able to use Southwest Airlines as a benchmark.

"We've maintained all along that the figures the city has been using to justify expansion have been flawed," King said. "They've been using figures from 1988, when they should be looking at 1992 figures."

The airport committee said that it will continue to analyze Detroit's original December 1992 proposal. But King expects that with Southwest gone, the city will have to revise the December plan.

The Federal Aviation Administration recently approved the city's blueprints for expansion, said Mayor Young's spokesman Bob Berg. He said that means that the plans have met technical standards.

Before actual federal or state approval for the airport expansion is given, an environmental impact study must be done, King said, adding that that will take some time as the government looks at how the airport would affect the environment, as well as how it would affect the local economy.

It will take some time before any study is complete. With Southwest now leaving, it is likely the city will have to revise all its studies. That will delay any decision further, King added.

"I would like to say that this is over," said King. "But I don't think Mayor Young is going to give up that easily."

The special morning is open to the community. The lakeside service honors those who made the supreme sacrifice for their country, and share hopes for a lasting world peace. This year's service will feature a Marine Color Guard, taps, a volley by the VFW, Scouts, American Legion representatives and music.

Bid to save Star on hold till June 4

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

A group of parents and students seeking to keep Our Lady Star of the Sea High School from closing have had their efforts delayed two weeks.

At a May 21 hearing in Wayne County Circuit Court, attorneys representing the Archdiocese of Detroit asked Circuit Judge Cynthia Stephens for an adjournment in order to have more time to prepare their case.

Attorney Donn Fresard, representing about 60 Star of the Sea parents and students, was prepared to ask Stephens to certify their lawsuit as a class-action lawsuit and to grant a temporary injunction against the archdiocese to block it from closing the all-girls school in Grosse Pointe Woods.

The hearing has been rescheduled for Friday, June 4. Fresard said the delay is not of great concern.

Ned McGrath, spokesman for the archdiocese, said attorneys from the Detroit firm of Bodman, Longley and Dahling, which represents the archdiocese, asked for an adjournment because the plaintiffs did not serve legal papers to the defendant in a timely and proper manner.

Parents and students filed the lawsuit on May 4 contending that the archdiocese, which comprises the parish, the parish council, the high school and its employees, led them to believe that the school would remain open until the year 2000.

The lawsuit said the parents relied upon the representations of the archdiocese in enrolling their children at Star rather than selecting another parochial school and want the archdiocese to fulfill its contractual obligation by allowing the presently enrolled students to graduate.

In February, the parish council decided the parish could no longer afford to operate the high school and recommended to Archbishop Adam Maida that unless he could find another source of funding the school should close.

Maida made a counteroffer: If the parish agreed to let the high school building house a regional high school, he would provide financial backing to a group of parents who had pledged to raise the necessary funds to operate the school.

On April 5, after researching the feasibility of establishing a regional school, the parish council decided that Star would cease to be a parish school as of June 30, 1993, and the parish would make space available for a regional school for no more than two years.

On April 15, Maida informed the parish that the offer of a two-year lease for the regional school was too short to expect the school to stabilize itself. Therefore, he said Star would close on June 30.

Bryant, Kelly rap Proposal A

By Wilbur Elston
Staff Writer

Grosse Pointe's two state legislators, Rep. William R. Bryant Jr. and Sen. John Kelly, in separate interviews this week, lambasted Proposal A.

Both men had opposed the legislative actions that were required to get the referendum on the state ballot and now hammer Proposal A because of what they see as its detrimental effect on the Grosse Pointe Public School System and the taxpayers who support it.

Bryant, a co-chairman of the House Education Committee and the senior Republican in the Legislature, has broken sharply with GOP Gov. John Engler, chief sponsor of Proposal A. He did the same over Engler's 1992 "cut and cap" plan, rejected in a November referendum.

In his latest criticism, Bryant adds to his "more than 50 reasons" for opposing Proposal A by citing the differences between the total cost of the state's K-12 operations and the amount to be added by the plan to reimburse local districts for reductions in their millage.

As Bryant sees the picture, under Proposal A, next year's expenditures for the state's school operations would total $9.636 billion — but Proposal A would add only $133 million, or 1.4 percent, in new money.

"So how could it be said that Proposal A saves the schools and cuts taxes at the same time?" Bryant asks.

Bryant also charges that supporters of "A" also play down the fact that under the plan Michigan will be sending an additional $200 million a year in federal income tax payments to Washington.

In fact, he says, the state — because of the cut in property taxes, which are deductible, and the increase in sales taxes, which are not deductible — will ship more money out than it will get in increased revenue for all K-12 state schools from passing Proposal A.

Overall, Bryant's major argument all along has been that "A" reduces local control in the Pointes and all districts over their own spending for the public schools and puts excessive funding power in the state government.

He further argues that while the sponsors talk about locking certain provisions of Proposal A into the state Constitution, in fact the proposal on 23 separate occasions refers to "as provided by law."

That means, he emphasizes, that the Legislature in each of the occasions cited could revise or otherwise change the law to which the Proposal A wording refers.

He contends, further, that Proposal A already has been revised because of the Legislature's failure to enact the 1994 tax assessment freeze that the governor promised as part of the property tax package he advocated. The lack of that freeze will cost the taxpayers another $200 million, he pointed out.

Pointer of Interest Susie Lambrecht

By Chip Chapman
Staff Writer

Describing children as the "driving force" in her life, it was no surprise when Susie Lambrecht was asked to organize a party for the Detroit Grand Prix last year, she quickly suggested that the proceeds benefit Children's Hospital of Michigan.

Leukemia Research Life, a branch of Children's Hospital, received about $10,000 last year through the efforts of Lambrecht and the Grand Prix Sprix committee, and she expects that figure to double this year.

Lambrecht, whose company, Entertainment Designs, organizes corporate events and parties, was approached by Detroit Renaissance's Bob McCabe to organize an event to promote last year's Grand Prix on Belle Isle.

"I thought, if we made money, we should have a charity benefit," Lambrecht said. "I chose Leukemia Research Life as the recipient of the money we made because I really believe in this. Cancer is an endemic disease — one we all hope we will find a cure for."

takes place on June 13 at the Roostertail and the Detroit Yacht Club. Sprix-goers will have brunch at the Roostertail, take a boat across the river to the Detroit Yacht Club, be taken by motorcoach to grandstand seats, then return to the Roostertail for an afterglow party. The event is being sponsored by the Stroh Brewery Co. and Fris Vodka Skandia.

WE'RE CONCERNED ABOUT YESTERDAY'S NEWS.

News can appear one day and be gone the next. But the paper news is printed on can and should live on.

Last year, more than one third of all U.S. newsprint was recycled. And that number is growing every day.

Recycling is the one way we can all give something back.

Holiday deadlines

Due to the Memorial Day holiday on Monday, May 31, deadlines will be earlier this week.

Items for the Features and Entertainment sections must be in by 3 p.m. today, Thursday, May 27, for consideration for the June 3 edition. Sports items must be in by 10 a.m. Friday, May 28. News items, including letters to the editor, must be submitted by 4 p.m. Friday.

In order to get information in the paper in a timely manner, we ask that you observe the deadlines. No submitted items are guaranteed to run in the paper, but meeting the deadlines allows them to be considered for the coming issue as space limitations permit.

Thank you for your cooperation and we regret any inconvenience the early holiday deadlines have caused.

exciting than last year," Lambrecht said, "because we have higher expectations."

The second Grand Prix Sprix will feature live entertainment and a corporate level, where a company can purchase an entire table for the event. Also added this year are the afterglow at the Roostertail, sponsored by Fris Vodka, and a raffle.

Although the Grand Prix Sprix is a one-day event, there are some other activities with which Lambrecht is involved that directly benefit the children with leukemia.

On June 1, the children and their families will take a riverboat ride on the Detroit River. Diamond Jack tours, which will be shuttling Sprix-goers between the Roostertail and the Detroit Yacht Club, is underwriting the boat ride.

"I can't give the Diamond Jack people enough credit," Lambrecht said. "Last year it was very exciting for these children to be on a riverboat. The people who were on the boat not connected with the hospital, who were not the parent of a patient, I think it gave them meaning to the whole project. It showed what a wonderful cause this is."

On June 11, Free Prix day, Detroit Renaissance will provide seating for the patients to see the race.

Lambrecht has organized a number of events but said that this has been one of the easiest she has managed.

"It is so much easier to solicit help when there's a cause that is focused on children," she said. "It's really been kind of a magical event because strangers have called wanting to get involved."

Lambrecht said some people are asking if they can be involved with next year's Grand Prix Sprix III.

The success of last year's Sprix, aside from benefitting LRL, was capitalizing on racegoers' fear of getting on and off Belle Isle.

After 10 years downtown, the venue for the race was moved last year to Belle Isle, and many racegoers worried about getting stuck in traffic both before and after the race.

Last year's event went well, and Lambrecht expects this year's Sprix to be just as smooth. She gives much of the credit to Sharon Fromm, the president of the parents group at LRL.

"Without Sharon and her volunteers from LRL, I truly believe this event couldn't happen," Lambrecht said. "They have worked tirelessly on this event. I have never been more impressed. An event is only as successful as the efforts of everyone involved."

Lambrecht also mentioned the work of committee member Brian McCabe, who on the Free Prix day last year, carried some of the children on his shoulders when they became tired and were unable to walk. She hopes that LRL can get a golfcart or some wagons donated to transport the children on Free Prix day.

"These children taught me a lesson," she said. "Looking at these children and their struggle with leukemia, it's really humbling. You look at one of these children and it puts life in perspective. That's why it is so meaningful to me to be involved in projects like this."

Volunteerism and children have led Lambrecht into other endeavors, including "Dance Celebration '93," an outreach program designed to get children involved in theater. Through her work with Music Hall, she developed an "adopt-a-school" program.

"I found major corporate sponsors to literally adopt a school," she said, "and that allowed inner-city schoolchildren who would otherwise not be able, to attend such a wonderful event as Dance Celebration."

Lambrecht is also developing a new ballet school downtown targeted at inner-city children.

Focusing on the arts, she would like to see all children have the opportunity to participate in Detroit's cultural life.

"There are so many children in the inner city who cannot afford to participate in wonderful cultural events that are crucial to their development," Lambrecht said.

Lambrecht is also a booster of downtown Detroit. In addition to serving on the board of Music Hall, she has been involved in the Central Business District Association and the Detroit Club. Lambrecht is also involved with the marketing of Cadillac Tower and the Book Building.

"I truly think the city needs a shot of adrenaline," she said, "but people shouldn't be afraid of going downtown."

Lambrecht enjoys jogging every morning with her dogs, and has become sort of a dog adoption agency.

"I have found and placed six dogs so far," she said.

She also enjoys skiing, biking and playing tennis, but finds motherhood the most rewarding part of her life, which has led to her involvement with children's causes. With three children, ages 10 to 16, Lambrecht said she can't imagine life without children.

"It's not always easy being an only parent," she said. "It's a tremendous challenge, but a fulfilling one."

Oil museum tour set

Did you know that 90 percent of Canada's oil needs before 1990 were supplied by wells within two hours of Detroit?

The Grosse Pointe War Memorial is sponsoring a trip to the Oil Museum of Canada for the day, which will also host a quilt show and sale that day. Lunch is included at the Oil Rig Restaurant.

The trip departs from the center on Wednesday, June 9, at 10:15 a.m. and returns at 5:30 p.m. Tickets are $32 and include motorcoach, tour and lunch.

For more information call 881-7511.

Rights of kids during divorce

If divorce is the only answer, the most important problem to be solved is the well-being of the children.

Factors that go into the custody and visitation issues and the latest developments with regard to child support will be discussed in "Legal Rights of Children During Divorce" on Thursday, June 3, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

Speaker James Alle will allow sufficient time for questions. Alle is an attorney specializing in family law matters. Cost is $5.

Park dips into savings to balance the budget

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

To keep taxes down, Grosse Pointe Park is planning to balance the city budget by using about $50,000 from its fund reserve.

The Park's general fund budget has been tentatively set at $6.483 million, but general fund revenues are estimated to be $6.440 million.

"We will be making up the revenue shortfall by dipping into the city's fund reserve," said city manager Dale Krajniak. "We have about $700,000 in the fund. The fund will be reduced to about $650,000, if the budget is approved."

The decision to use the reserve fund money was made to keep residents' tax bills as low as possible, said Krajniak. As it stands, property taxes for Park residents will go up about 3 percent.

State law allows the Park to levy a millage rate of up to 14.90 mills, said Krajniak. But the Park is planning to set a millage rate of 13.35 mills, up from 12.92.

"The Park has historically for the past several years had a millage rate under what the law allows," Krajniak said. "We try very hard to keep any millage increase to the rate of inflation. In this case about 3 percent. To do that, we are going to dip into the fund reserve."

The city will also slow down on making some capital improvements, and vehicle purchases, Krajniak said. Over the last two or three years, the Park has made an unusually large number of purchases and capital improvements. This year, the pace has returned to what could be considered average.

"We've reduced our special fund spending," said Park comptroller Peter Dobrzeniecki. "For example, the building fund is budgeted at $202,000, compared with $1.24 million last year. The reason is the new public safety building. We simply don't build new buildings every year."

Dobrzeniecki said that the cost of the public safety building is the main difference between expenditures between the current budget and the proposed budget.

"On paper, it looks like the city will spend a lot less money next year," said Dobrzeniecki. "That's unfair. You must compare the general fund budgets to get an accurate idea of what spending is compared to taxes. The current general fund budget is $6.194 million, compared with a proposed $6.4 million."

Other revenues, like the garbage and rubbish collection fund and the downtown development authority fund have their own revenues, that are determined independently from general fund revenues, said

Dobrzeniecki.

Special funds expenditures are much higher under the current budget because of the public safety building. They will fall to normal levels next year. Overall expenditures proposed for next year are $11.913 million, as with $12.3 million this year.

City approves 1993-94 budget

The Grosse Pointe City Council Monday unanimously passed a budget of $4,856,155 for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1993 — a 2 percent increase over the current year's budget estimate.

The council also approved two sets of tax rates, one if Proposal A passes and one if the measure fails.

If Proposal A passes, the tax rate for operating and capital improvement purposes will be 14.02 mills ($14.02 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation). If the proposal fails, the tax rate will be 13.24 mills.

The tax rate for debt purposes will be 0.14 mills, regardless if Proposal A passes or fails.

Farms millage rate to drop — unless Proposal A passes

By Chip Chapman
Staff Writer

The millage rate for Grosse Pointe Farms will decrease from 10.71 to 10.40 for the fiscal year beginning July 1. However, if voters statewide approve Proposal A on the June 2 ballot, that rate would increase to 11.20.

The Farms council Monday adopted the general fund budget of $7,537,300, down 3 percent from last year, and established the city tax rate which will begin July 1.

The council approved the budget conditionally, pending the outcome of the June 2 vote. The millage rate levied on each dollar of assessed valuation of all real and personal taxable property will increase to 11.20, based on the level of services and expenditures conditionally approved by the council Monday night, if Proposal A is approved.

The equalized valuation of taxable Farms property has determined to be $511,677,200 as equalized by Wayne County.

The council has set aside a public hearing date for June 14 in the event Proposal A passes, to consider ratification of the conditional rate of 11.20, or to seek a lower rate the council deems sufficient to cover the city's costs.

Bryant has continued to circulate his original list of 33 reasons and his revised list of more than 50 reasons for opposing Proposal A. He has sent it, at his own expense, not only to residents of his legislative district but to many other Michiganders who have asked for it.

However, the governor, Bryant says, can continue to help finance the Proposal A campaign out of his own executive office appropriation, an action which is legal but gives Engler and the sponsors a major campaign financing benefit.

In a somewhat more partisan vein, Kelly sees Proposal A as being put together by the governor and a small group of advisers so that he can claim in his 1994 campaign for re-election that he had kept his pledge to cut property taxes.

The senator says the proposal opens the way "for an absolute theft" of Grosse Pointe school millages and in effect redistribution of local funds throughout the state without evaluation of the effects on districts like Grosse Pointe.

Kelly also sees many of his poorer constituents in Detroit, who make up a substantial part of his district, as also taking personal losses if the proposed tax shift passes in Wednesday's referendum.

He cites the fact that any cut in their property taxes will be more than offset in many cases by the increased sales taxes they will pay and their loss of deductibility from federal income taxes of all sales taxes and lesser amounts of property taxes.

Overall, Kelly says the major beneficiaries of Proposal A are larger industrial concerns in Michigan, not the average taxpayers. He fears that this tax shift tactic and its effects are likely to contribute to the growing loss of faith in government expressed by many Michiganders and other Americans these days.

A school news brief on page 19A of the May 20 edition of the Grosse Pointe News should have said that 34 fifth-graders from all Grosse Pointe public elementary schools boarded a plane bound for France on May 20.

A photo caption on page 23A of last week's edition about University Liggett School's dedication ceremonies for its new primary school building should have said that Edsel B. and Cynthia Ford II and family attended the ceremony.

Optimists honor councilwoman Bradley for rescue of woman

By John Minnis
Editor

Grosse Pointe City council member Lisa Bradley was honored by the Lakeshore Optimists during the group's 11th annual Respect for Law Award Breakfast recently.

Bradley, who is a real estate agent for Bolton-Johnston, was recognized for her spur-of-the-moment rescue last year of an elderly woman whose car got away from her.

Bradley was waiting in line three cars behind the older woman at the drive-through mailbox at the Grosse Pointe post office when she saw the older woman holding on to and being dragged along beside and partially underneath her car as it was moving forward.

Bradley, seeing the woman in danger of being seriously hurt, jumped out of her car, ran to the older woman's rolling vehicle, reached in and jammed the shift lever into park.

The elderly woman — and Bradley — escaped serious injury.

Farms public safety director Robert Ferber nominated Bradley for the annual Law Day award, and it was presented to her at the breakfast by Farms Municipal Judge Matthew Rumora.

"This was a life-threatening situation," Rumora said, "and she may very well have saved her life."

"It was just instinct," Bradley said. "I didn't realize what I did."

But she said there always seems to be someone who'll find fault, even with the most heroic acts:

"A guy in the alley yelled, 'You probably wrecked the transmission!'" Bradley recalled.

Also honored at the breakfast was Detroit Ninth Precinct Sgt. Richard Worobec, who was nominated by his commander, Ron Kerwood.

Worobec was recognized for his investigation of a number of armed robberies last year of pedestrians along Seven Mile and other areas in the precinct. Worobec developed leads and came up with a suspect. When he went to make the arrest, he found himself on his stomach in an attic crawl space facing the wrong end of the suspect's gun.

After a few tense moments, however, Worobec and an officer were able to make the arrest and live to tell about it.

Respect for Law Day is an annual event for Optimists nationwide. Yearly, the Grosse Pointe Optimists hold their Law Day breakfast at the Lochmoor Club. As usual, the public safety directors of the five Grosse Pointes attended, as well as the police chiefs of Harper Woods and St. Clair Shores.

The keynote speaker this year was Michigan State Supreme Court Justice Conrad Mallett Jr.

A four-legged masked bandit can be trouble

Did you know raccoons account for more than half of urban wildlife problems? It's their top priority to find food and lodging, no matter where it may be.

I experienced a minor raccoon invasion once while camping, but in the city, it's usually quite a surprise to encounter furry bandits in our own back yards.

Following are some tips on how to prevent unwanted guests:

Cover chimneys with recommended screening to keep squirrels and chipmunks, or birds and bats, from slipping down these "black holes" and ending up in your furnace.

Keep your attic secured.

By Kathleen Ferrilla

Place heavy screens under attic fans. The large air vents in the fans are major points of entry for small critters and bats. Inspect roof eaves for rotting wood or crevices. These are also open invitations for tiny visitors.

Open porches or low patio decks should be kept free of debris and leaves since woodchucks and skunks (although not very common in our area) love these places.

If Stimp's house is outdoors in the warmer months, keep his food in a secure place. Don't feed birds late in the day or evening (left over bread crumbs and seeds encourage other dinner guests). And make sure garbage bags are securely tied and trash can lids are on tight.

Inspect the ground for burrows around the foundation of your house. Check your yard for signs of digging or holes. Chipmunks are partial to playing near garages and porches (both are easily accessible). Close-off any kind of entry point, like holes in screens, loose or missing door moldings, structural cracks, etc.

Keep tree limbs trimmed back from your house. This eliminates one-way for wildlife to reach your roof.

If you should find yourself faced with a trapped bird or squirrel in the furnace, fireplace or elsewhere in the house, or if you let the dog out at night to find a huge opossum waddling around the back yard, get Stimp back in the house, pronto! Then, call your local fire department for instructions (some city officials may help you yourselves). Or, contact your local animal/pest control organization for gentle wildlife removal. Make sure they're state licensed and insured. It's also a big plus if the company is DNR (Department of Natural Resources) approved.

We should remember that urban wildlife intruders are very opportunistic, and 75 percent of them could be eliminated simply if food and shelter possibilities weren't available to these animals in the first place.

It's also smart to remember that these animals have teeth — sometimes very large teeth — and bites could be rabid. Also, not many of them have read Emily Post so, unless you know exactly what you're doing, it's best to let a trained professional "debeast" your yard.

And, finally, a brief suggestion for the upcoming holiday weekend. If you're planning on visiting the huge Grosse Pointe Garage Sale behind Jacobson's, why not stop at the Michigan Humane Society's retail booth and check out the new logo and designs on this year's T-shirts, etc.

Good shopping, and have a safe and happy holiday.

MADD offers scholarship

Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD), Michigan is offering a scholarship to people who have an active interest in the fight to end drunk driving.

The scholarships will be awarded in varying amounts between $500 and $1,000 for the 1993-94 academic year and are to assist students in their education toward their chosen career at a Michigan community college, trade school, four-year college or university of the recipient's choice.

The scholarships will be awarded based on a combination of merit and financial need to those entering, attending or returning to college or a trade school. Recipients must be Michigan residents and high school graduates.

To obtain a scholarship application, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to MADD, Michigan, 910 Eastlawn, Midland, Mich. 48642, by June 1. The completed, returned application must be postmarked no later than June 11.

Memorial Day service in Woods

A Memorial Day service will be held in Grosse Pointe Woods at the Veteran's Memorial Parkway circle of honor at Vernier and Mack. The service will begin at 10 a.m.

Woods councilmember James Alogdelis will give the main speech. Alogdelis served in the Navy during World War II and in the Korean War. The Monteth Elementary School choir will sing a selection of patriotic songs. An honor guard from the military will also be present, along with youths from local Boy Scout troops. The Music Makers under the direction of Ben Grycan will provide the music for the ceremony.

The service, held annually for the for 11 years, is sponsored by the Grosse Pointe Woods Historical Society.

Pointe shops cater to the sporting look — forget about the equipment

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

When people think of the business of sports, they usually think of television deals and attendance figures, not T-shirts.

But the selling of the sporting look — T-shirts, caps and other sports items with college and professional team logos — is a multi-billion dollar business. In fact, there are stores that sell the sporting look, as opposed to selling sports equipment, itself.

Jim Dempsey, owner of the recently opened sports store The Pointe After on Mack Avenue and Seven Mile, cited as an example the sales of licensed major league baseball items. Sales have grown dramatically in the past few years.

"Sales of licensed major league goods have gone from $650 million in 1988 to $2.4 billion in 1992," said Dempsey. "The big companies like Starter, Nutmeg and Salem have gotten very creative in shirt and cap design. Compared with 10 years ago, the variety and quality of items available has greatly increased. It's a growth business."

For the past year, the expansion of baseball and hockey has created a demand for items from the new teams, Dempsey said.

"We get a lot of requests for Mighty Ducks hockey stuff," said Dempsey. "Hats and shirts with Colorado Rockies and Florida Marlin logos on them have also proved popular. These new teams were very smart. The design and the color of the logos were carefully researched so that people living in cities 1,000 miles away would be interested in purchasing them."

The trend in sports items has been to stock the teams that are doing well, instead of buying items from the local teams. So Chicago White Sox hats sell as well as Detroit Tigers caps. That would have been unthinkable 10 or 15 years ago, Dempsey said.

"There is a real sense of fashion in buying clothes," said Dempsey. "I have one customer who has purchased matching shirts and hats for at least six different teams. That is a $300 investment."

Ironically, the team that started the whole trend, the L.A. Raiders, has declined in popularity. Its gear hardly sells at all.

The idea of sports stores like his selling just shirts and caps and coats is new, Dempsey said. But it is also profitable. The sporting look sells.

Marguerite Annessa, owner of Sports on the Hill, sells sports equipment like baseball bats, tennis rackets and athletic shoes. She also sells a lot of sports clothes, but with a twist. They are aimed directly at Grosse Pointers.

"I've designed a number of sweat shirts and T-shirts that have logos of mock Grosse Pointe clubs like the 'Grosse Pointe Polo Club,'" said Annessa. "I sell a lot of Grosse Pointe-related clothing. In the past 10 years, it has become a much larger part of my business."

To keep things fresh, Annessa introduces new designs periodically. The store's "Grosse Pointe 48236" sweat shirts proved to be very popular. Annessa also sells a fair amount of licensed sports wear, but her store is best known for its Grosse Pointe designs.

"People are dressing more casually these days at home and when they go out," said Annessa. "They like to have a logo on their clothes. Whether it's the Pistons or the Grosse Pointe Polo Club, it is very popular."

Family leave: Who can afford to take it

'Family Leave' may sound good in theory, but most employed Americans say they could not afford to take advantage of the new law.

According to an accountant on call (aoc) national poll conducted by the Gallup Organization, the vast majority of American workers (68 percent) say they could not afford to take up to 12 weeks of unpaid leave in case of family emergencies or births. Just three in 10 (31 percent) say they could afford to take this amount of time without pay. One percent of respondents didn't know or refused to give an opinion.

The new survey on Family Leave is part of aoc's ongoing "Profiles of the American Worker" series which summarizes the opinions, attitudes and behavior of employed Americans concerning workplace issues.

For the survey, full- and part-time workers were asked the following: "As you may know, The Family Leave Act has been passed by Congress. If the need arises, could you afford to take up to 12 weeks of unpaid leave in case of family emergencies or births?"

American workers with children under 18 overwhelmingly can't afford to take 12 weeks of unpaid leave in case of family emergencies or births. Seven in 10 (71 percent) say they could not take advantage of family leave, while just 28 percent say they could.

Employed adults without children offer similar responses — only 33 percent say they could afford to take up to 12 weeks of unpaid leave, while 66 percent report they could not. The same holds true for married American workers. Just 34 percent say they could take full advantage of unpaid family leave. Unmarried workers fare even worse — just 25 percent say they could take 12 weeks of unpaid leave in case of family emergencies.

Although the numbers improve slightly as salary increases, even older, well-educated Americans earning more than $40,000 a year can't afford unpaid family leave. Employed adults 40 years of age and over, the college-educated, and those with household incomes of $40,000 and over are more likely than those younger, less educated or less affluent to say they could afford unpaid leave. Still, even among these higher-income groups, three in five report that they could not afford to take full advantage of The Family Leave Act if the need arose.

The survey was based on telephone interviews with a representative sample of 693 adults, 18 years of age or older, who are employed either full or part time. Interviews were conducted by Gallup between March 8 and March 14. The margin of sampling error associated with this survey is plus or minus 4 percentage points.

School board candidates speak out on Proposal A, sale of 389 St. Clair

By Kathleen Ryan
Special Writer

The five candidates for two positions on the Grosse Pointe Board of Education squared off at a public forum Monday evening and all agreed on one thing: Proposal A would be bad for Grosse Pointe schools.

The candidates — Carl Anderson, Clinton Andrews, Steve Matthews, Don Sweeny and Sears Taylor — all felt that Proposal A was not in the best interest of the Grosse Pointe schools. Andrews called it "a bad bill, full of loopholes," while Taylor openly predicted its defeat.

All the candidates said that if Proposal A did pass in the June 2 election, they would work hard to ensure that student programs and services would be impacted as little as possible.

On the question of moving the administrative offices from 389 St. Clair, four of the candidates expressed support for restoration of the St. Clair site and opposed moving the offices to four locations throughout the community.

"It's important to the citizens to have school offices in one location," Matthews said. "And we must look at the possibility of reopening Barnes to students."

Sweeny agreed, adding that his work with the Futuring Committee taught him the importance of holding on to public land. "It would be a mistake to sell the property at 389 St. Clair," he said.

Anderson, the only board incumbent seeking re-election Monday, June 14, did not take a position on the issue, but reminded the audience that he was the board member who asked for a public hearing on the proposed move. That hearing will be held Tuesday, June 1.

"I will listen to what the community says on this issue," Anderson promised.

Other questions from the audience concerned such issues as tracking of students, class size, multi-cultural education, library issues and the qualities that each candidate would bring to a board position.

When asked to comment on the discrepancy between magnet classes for gifted students which are limited to a class size of 25, and some regular elementary classrooms with as many as 30 students in a room, all candidates agreed that class size is not the most important issue.

"Class size is only part of the equation," Sweeny said. "What's most important for success is a partnership between home and school."

Taylor agreed, adding that parent volunteers and teaching assistants should be brought in to assist in conducting larger classes.

While the five candidates agreed on the importance of libraries to the community, Andrews emphasized setting priorities for library expenditures. "There should be more questions, more detail," he said.

About 50 people attended the forum, which was sponsored by the League of Women Voters and was moderated by league member Marlene Harle. A tape of the meeting will be broadcast by Grosse Pointe Cable on Wednesday, June 2, and Thursday, June 10, on Channel 20 at 7 p.m.

Grosse Pointe South celebrates 65th birthday in June 1 gala

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

Mary Ludwig Williams remembers how happy she and her 49 classmates were when the new Grosse Pointe High School building opened for classes in 1928.

The Georgian Colonial structure resembling Independence Hall in Philadelphia was a welcome change from the cramped quarters Grosse Pointe high school students occupied while the building was under construction.

High school classes were conducted in the Cadieux School on St. Clair, current home to the district's administrative offices, Williams said, and students also attended classes in little trailers parked behind the school.

Williams and her husband, James, her high school sweetheart, were among the first students to receive diplomas from the new high school.

Williams grew up in the Grosse Pointes. After she and James married they lived in several cities around Michigan. They currently reside in Marysville.

Williams was busy this week planning for Grosse Pointe South's 65th anniversary party to be held from 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesday, June 1, on the school's front lawn.

Alumni, residents from around the Pointes and students will gather June 1 to wish Grosse Pointe South High School a happy 65th birthday.

"We were quite a class," she said, remembering the days when she and her fellow students acted in school plays and were busy with the Glee Club and the Service Club. "It was one grand party."

Many of the graduates of the classes of 1928 and 1929 kept in touch, occasionally gathering for reunions, she said, although their numbers have been dwindling in recent years.

Williams last visited South at its 50th anniversary. She said the original building had not changed much over the years. The addition of the Wicking Library, the S-Building and Industrial Arts Building and the development of what was once vacant land around the school did jar her memories of the area when she was a teenager.

"It was a plain school when I was there," she said.

Although her husband can't make it due to his health, Williams said she is determined to attend the festivities.

The celebration was organized by the South Mothers' Club and the Grosse Pointe South Preservation Committee.

The evening's events include the dedication of a plaque commemorating the building as a Michigan historic site.

In addition, the class of 1993 will dedicate a brick and concrete marker they donated as a gift to the school.

Guests will be served refreshments and will be entertained by a Dixie Land band and a quartet of Pointe Singers.

Cleminson Hall, the original high school library, has been under restoration for several months and the job is expected to be completed by Tuesday. The public is invited to look around the room, which will house student memorabilia.

"We are encouraging the public to go in and look around," said Mothers' Club president Joan Gehrke. "There is a great deal of restoration. It was really quite stunning what we found under the tarnish through the years."

South is one of nine buildings in Grosse Pointe to earn a listing on the Michigan Register of Historic Sites.

Tish Colett, member of the preservation committee, said South was nominated by the Grosse Pointe Farms Historic Advisory Commission as part of the Grosse Pointe Farms-Grosse Pointe City centennial celebration this year.

To be listed on the Michigan register, Colett said a building has to be at least 50 years old, and have architectural or historical significance to the state.

"South has architectural significance," she said. "It resembles Independence Hall, and more importantly, it's our first high school. I think equally significant are the materials used to construct the school. I don't think you'll see many schools with halls lined in Tennessee marble and with the plaster detail over the doors. For all those reasons, we're working on preserving it."

Mysterious situation

A homeowner who lives on Provencal in Grosse Pointe Farms believes someone entered his house on May 17, deactivated the alarm system and then left without taking anything.

All doors were locked and the alarm was set when the homeowner left the house. When the homeowner returned, the alarm had been turned off. The only room that appeared to be disturbed was the one where the alarm control panel is located.

This was the view of the Flemings' property from Charlevoix when they first bought it in 1991....

Not just trees are sick, couple finds

By Chip Chapman
Staff Writer

Two days after Drs. Pamela and Caleb Fleming closed on the purchase of their home on Lothrop in August 1991, the city of Grosse Pointe Farms tagged one of the trees on the property for removal because it had Dutch elm disease.

Five other trees were marked and removed that summer, and last year, 15 more were tagged.

After spending $21,000, and receiving estimates for another $30,000, the Flemings found a free-lance tree remover in the Thumb area to cut down the remaining trees for $8,500.

To add insult, literally, to injury, three weeks ago the Flemings began to receive threatening letters signed by "neighbors."

Three of the letters were typed, and one, postmarked May 19, was a handwritten postcard which read "you hill-billys [sic] have destroyed the natural beauty of our neighborhood" and called the Flemings loggers.

"We are as equally sad as everyone about the trees," Pamela Fleming said. "The reason we bought this house was for the trees and the land."

Fleming said that the previous owner did not have the trees sprayed.

The Flemings contacted the forestry department at Michigan State University and were referred to Randy Pardee, who specializes in planting mature trees. Over the next month, he will plant different types of trees in the area of their property near Charlevoix.

In addition to the $29,500 the Flemings have spent, a new fence and the new trees will cost another $14,000.

Fleming said she hopes the neighbors are patient while the new trees are being planted. Fleming and her husband lived in the Park before moving to the Farms. In 1991, they won a beautification award from the city for having the most improved property.

Children's Home celebrates 157th

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

The Children's Home of Detroit, which recently celebrated its 157th anniversary, has survived over time by adapting its mission to meet the changing needs of Detroit's children.

The Children's Home was organized by The Ladies' Orphan Association in May of 1836. Thirteen area women of prominent families started the home to care for children left homeless by a cholera epidemic, said home employee Deborah Liedel.

Founders included Mrs. C.C. Trowbridge, Mrs. Thomas Palmer, Mrs. Ruel Ambrose, Mrs. Sarah Macomb and Mrs. Henry Hunt.

The first building built for the Children's Home was located at what is currently 3270 E. Jefferson in Detroit.

The home moved to its location at 900 Cook Road in Grosse Pointe Woods in 1950. In 1957, the home established an on-campus school. In 1973, a summer tutorial program was added.

In 1984, the home's board started a number of programs to meet a broader range of social problems in the community at large.

New programs include an emergency shelter and, most recently, a chemical dependency prevention and treatment program in conjunction with Brighton Hospital.

The chemical dependency treatment program is part of the home's efforts to reach a broader range of youths in the Detroit area, said program coordinator Jane Salkowski.

"We are trying to expand our services so that we can serve the community in which we operate," Salkowski said. "Besides treating chemical dependency, we are starting a parenting workshop summer series. Problem prevention is the goal here."

Many people in Grosse Pointe are professionals, Salkowski said. But just because someone is educated, doesn't mean that person will automatically know how to be a parent.

The workshops will focus on helping parents understand and deal with the issues of substance abuse, self esteem, discipline and communications. The workshops begin July 6. They will be held Tuesdays and Thursdays at 7 p.m. at the Children's Homes' conference room at 900 Cook Road in the Woods.

Anyone interested in attending a workshop should call the Children's Home of Detroit's community services office at 885-3510.

City of Grosse Pointe Woods Michigan

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the City Council, meeting as a Board of Appeals under the provisions of Section 5-14-1 of the 1975 City Code will meet in the Council-Court Room for the Municipal Building, 20025 Mack Plaza, on June 7, 1993, at 7:30 p.m., to hear the appeal of St. John Hospital and Medical Center, 22101 Moross Road, Detroit, who are appealing the denial of the Building Inspector to issue a permit for installation of a stockade fence, 32' high light poles, and waiver of a 15' greenbelt. The permit was denied due to Section 5-9-5 (C-2, High Intensity City Center District) of the Zoning Ordinance of the City of Grosse Pointe Woods. A variance is therefore required. ## Be selective in choosing your retirement goals

As May winds into June, it is the time of year for both beginnings and endings.

Soon young people will leave high school and college with dreams of a promising future. At the other end of the spectrum, retirees will be leaving jobs where they may have spent almost half a lifetime. They have dreams also — dreams of leisure to do all the things they have always wanted to do but never had the time for.

Others will not be so jubilant. Their jobs have been the structure of their lives. They will feel lost without an office to go to every day and definite duties to perform. These folks may be most interested in the book, "The Reality of Retirement," by Joseph Willing, former director of the Duke Institute of Learning in Retirement and now a teacher there.

Willing contends that it is not so much what happens "to" people who retire as what happens "in" people. Using a philosophical approach, he explores the change that comes with the transition to retirement.

Willing writes that he believes it is difficult to accept the fact that we are dispensable, that things for which we are responsible will be handled by someone else. He also raises the question of whether we were essential in the first place, since after we are gone, the operation goes on.

Prime Time

By Marian Trainor

Some retirees equate retirement with aging, he contends, but aging is inevitable. In reality, the retiree is entering a period when he has an opportunity to plan a satisfying life.

Another mistake is to fill the void with almost any goal, the idea being not to achieve but to fabricate an air of purpose and direction.

Another aspect of retirement is how it will affect a wife or husband. The tendency is to view the retiree as the one being uprooted, forgetting there is another person who must be considered.

In the case of a working wife, if the husband is intent on moving to a different area, she would have to give up her job. Even if they do not relocate, her job stands in the way of travel.

Another aspect is when the wife, too, would like to retire, but the husband's retirement benefits are not sufficient to maintain their standard of living. Resentment can arise because she is the wage-earner while her husband becomes a man of leisure.

Travel is usually high on the agenda of retirees, but there is a difference between vacation travel and travel as a retiree.

Willing believes that few people complete the process of adapting to new ways in less than a year or two. "Action" is the key word, he says, not action that takes the mind "off" things but the kind that puts the mind "on" things. One needs interests with meaning, activities that matter, concerns that make a difference in the world, he contends.

An important point to remember also is that we should not expect more of life or of ourselves after retirement. The experience of retirement changes us, but does not transform us into other people.

Life is a constant process of letting go, not holding on. In retirement, we let go of work. As we do, it is well to remember that nothing remains the same. Life is not a process of being, but a process of becoming.

'Lost Wages' insurance: A loser for seniors

By Martha A. McSteen
President, National Committee to Preserve Social Security and Medicare

An auto insurance policy that protects against lost wages is a great idea for working Americans. But for those insured drivers who are retired, it's nothing but a drain on their wallets — and a financial windfall for insurers.

Wage-replacement insurance obviously is unnecessary for those who have left the work force. Yet insurers continue to sell it to retirees who are unaware they are paying for it.

How many seniors are affected by this procedure in how many states is anybody's guess. No one knows, although those familiar with the problem believe it could be a substantial number of seniors in many states.

On the surface, the amount of money a retiree pays for this coverage isn't a whole lot — it averages between $25 and $70 a year. But those individual premiums collectively translate into tidy profits for insurance companies.

The coverage often is hidden deep inside the fine print and technical language of a policy. Sometimes called "lost wage insurance," it frequently is included under "personal injury protection" (which offers back-up insurance for medical expenses) or "uninsured motorist protection" (which covers drivers in collisions with motorists who have no insurance).

There are two important steps retirees should take to avoid paying needlessly for lost-wage protection.

First, ask your insurance agent if your state allows lost-wage protection and, if so, whether you're covered. Remember, it may be difficult to determine just by looking at your policy. Remind the agent that you're retired, then ask him to remove the coverage and request a rebate for the unexpired portion of the policy. Even if your insurance policy clearly shows that you're retired, insurance companies have the right to continue charging you for the coverage unless you specifically ask that the coverage be cancelled. It's unfortunate, but right now, it's legal.

That's why step two is important if you live in a lost-wage-protection state: call your local lawmakers and urge them to change your state's law. Currently, it's not illegal to sell this unneeded coverage to retirees. But it should be. Legislation should require that those over 65 who are retired automatically be excluded from the lost-wages clause.

Most seniors get by on fixed incomes. Paying for insurance coverage they don't need wastes those limited resources.

Check your policy. Call your local lawmakers. The time for change is now.

Woods offers summer-long classes

The Grosse Pointe Woods Community Center will offer summer classes in yoga, tai kwon do, CPR, aerobics fitness and exercise for senior citizens June 2 through Sept. 3.

In addition to summer classes, the Community Center is also sponsoring three day trips, to "Forever Plaid" at the Gem Theatre, to "Showboat" and to a Tiger baseball game.

While priority will be given to Woods residents, all Grosse Pointers are welcome to sign up. For more information, call Sally A. Martin at 343-2408.

Guard against utility impostors

Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. (MichCon) reminds customers to carefully check identification before allowing anyone claiming to be from MichCon into their homes.

"Unfortunately, there are people who use our name or that of another utility to gain access to customer's homes to steal money or other valuables," said John vonRosen, MichCon senior vice president of utility operations.

"There are precautionary measures you can take to protect yourself against utility impostors."

First, request identification. All MichCon employees carry photo I.D. cards.

"We encourage our customers to carefully examine the identification card and match the information and photograph with the person in front of you," vonRosen explained.

Secondly, ask the purpose of the visit.

"If you called for service, the MichCon employee will be able to explain the reason for the call," vonRosen said.

"Lastly, if you're still suspicious of the person, don't admit him or her into your home. Call MichCon for verification."

Utility impostors use several ploys to get into homes, such as cash refunds or meter reads. vonRosen said refunds due customers are credited on gas bills, or by checks sent in the mail.

He also advises customers to know how MichCon reads its gas meters.

"About 95 percent of MichCon meters in the metropolitan Detroit area are read from the outside. The majority of inside gas meters have been converted to outside, remote meter reading devices," he said.

Media blitz tries to sell Proposal A

Sponsors of Proposal A now are staging a last-minute media blitz to try to sell an affirmative vote for the statewide referendum next Wednesday, June 2, despite the opposition of many public school supporters in the Pointes and elsewhere.

The proposal would cut school property taxes, limit local millages in school districts like Grosse Pointe to 27 mills, and raise the state sales tax 50 percent, from 4 cents to 6 cents on the dollar.

True, the most recent public opinion poll gave Proposal A a reduced lead of 45 percent to 39 percent support, but it was taken before the full effect of the late public relations campaign could be measured. That campaign's intentions seem to be:

First, to try to overwhelm the opposition with a multitude of endorsements by respected Michiganians — Gov. William Milliken and 1992 Michigan Teacher of the Year Nancy Flanagan, for example.

Second, at the same time to try to frighten the public with threats about possible "worse" alternatives in the future if Proposal A is defeated.

With plenty of money to spread around in media advertising, the Proposal A campaign directors have had little trouble in getting their message circulated, complete with the "spin" about the threat of what's to come if Proposal A loses.

Yet the Grosse Pointe school board, its administration, its teachers and its supporters continue their strong opposition to Proposal A because of its probable long-term negative effect on the excellent Grosse Pointe system and its threat to local control of school funding.

Proposal A foes are welcoming the backing of the Grosse Pointe teachers who are informally joining the opposition and spurning their statewide union, the Michigan Education Association, which supports it.

The Grosse Pointe Education Association's president, Tom Whall, explains that while his executive board has not taken a vote, his discussions convince him the local teachers know Proposal A is "not in the best interests of the Grosse Pointe district" and also know "which side their bread is buttered on."

The Detroit Free Press public opinion poll reported on May 18 showed that while support had dropped by 5 percentage points and opposition had risen by 5, Proposal A still led by a 45 to 39 margin. The undecideds seem to hold the fate of the ballot issue.

The Free Press story, the lead story on Page 1, ran on for 10 paragraphs on Page 1 and 14 more paragraphs on Page 2 before it finally got around to a foe of Proposal A.

True, it did then quote Tim Hughes, a spokesman for the state AFL-CIO, who said that "the more people are exposed to this, the less they like it."

But while there are many more opponents out there, we fear that some may be overwhelmed by the media blitz.

Fortunately, the blitz hasn't affected Richard Headlee, the perennial tax limitation advocate, who opposes Proposal A despite his friendship with Gov. John Engler.

In a two-page, tightly reasoned statement, Headlee concluded that what had "started out as an effort to rationally reduce the property tax burden in Michigan has turned into a Christmas Tree give-away." Because of its "political compromises and loopholes," he added, he is "unable to support bad public policy and dangerous constitutional revision."

While Proposal A may benefit some taxpayers in Grosse Pointe and in some other districts, it threatens the maintenance of local control of the excellent Grosse Pointe school system.

At the same time, it would cost many local families more than it would save them through the lack of federal income tax deductibility of sales taxes and reduction in deductibility of lower property taxes.

In the long run, we see Proposal A as another Lansing Robin Hood pipe dream to try to benefit poor districts at the expense of wealthier ones — a move that does not support an improvement in educational opportunities but tends to guarantee a leveling of educational quality in districts like ours.

Pointes not only foes of 'A'

Grosse Pointe is not the only school district to oppose the Proposal A referendum but admittedly the foes are in the minority.

Joining Grosse Pointe in opposition are at least four area school districts — Center Line, Chippewa Valley, South Lake and Lakeview — which are all on the east side and with Grosse Pointe are among the 16 districts in the Local 1 MEA bargaining area.

While Grosse Pointe earlier withdrew from the Michigan Out-of-Formula District Association, which has endorsed Proposal A, a number of other out-of-formula districts are known to be opposed, too.

Most renters are in opposition, because they would get no direct benefit from the property tax cut and would pay higher sales taxes if Proposal A is approved.

Many senior citizens are in opposition, chiefly because of their belief Proposal A could cost them money because of the increased sales tax, its lack of deductibility from federal income taxes and the drop in deductibility of lower property taxes.

A number of seniors showed their attitudes by booing Gov. John Engler, a sponsor of the proposition, at a Senior Power Day in Lansing last Thursday even after he had made a pitch for his plan.

The state AFL-CIO is the largest and best-funded organization opposing Proposal A, and its spokesman, Tim Hughes, has often whacked away at Engler, probably because of the labor union's desire to strike a blow at the governor's re-election hopes.

But probably the single most influential critic of Proposal A is Richard H. Headlee, the GOP tax limitation disciple, who contends that the proposal's 27-mill cap on school taxes "is a fraud" and makes other major criticisms of the plan.

Grosse Pointe's legislators, Rep. William R. Bryant Jr. and Sen. John Kelly, have been in the opposition camp since the beginning. Their latest criticisms are found in the news columns of today's issue of the Grosse Pointe News.

Overall, the opposition is in the minority but still hopes to raise enough doubts to persuade the undecided to vote NO or stay away from the polls. Most Grosse Pointe school supporters and the Grosse Pointe News agree with that strategy.

Gravel killers to face justice

Justice finally appears to have caught up with two members of the youthful gang who murdered Benjamin Gravel, Grosse Pointe Farms businessman, as he left the Bayview Yacht Club to drive home on Feb. 8, 1990.

In overturning the decision of Detroit Recorder's Chief Judge Dalton Roberson to sentence the two defendants, Kermit Haynes and Cortez Miller, as juveniles, the Michigan Court of Appeals returned both young men to the lower court with instructions to sentence them as adults.

Unless the defendants win their expected appeal to the state Supreme Court, both now face the real prospect of being sentenced to life in prison without parole. That is the mandatory penalty for first-degree murder, to which both had pleaded guilty.

However, the reversal still means that four of the six young men who dragged a tree branch into the street to try to stop Gravel's car and killed him when he didn't give it to them have still escaped prison. Two were acquitted and the appeal of the sentence of two others to juvenile court probation is still pending.

True, it is some consolation to this community to learn that two of the killers apparently will be removed from society to protect it from the possibility of any repetition of their crime. Yet neither his bereaved family, his friends nor the rest of the community can forgive the perpetrators of this crime for killing an innocent citizen.

It is a distinct credit to County Prosecutor John D. O'Hair and especially to George E. Ward, the chief assistant prosecutor, who handled the appeal, that justice is being given at least a second chance of being served in this case.

Judge Roberson still defended his original sentence in both cases last week, saying, "I did what I thought was right," adding that "I continue to do what I think is right."

However, in his original sentences, he appeared to blame society for what happened to the young killers, said he was "not concerned about whether or not this (disposition) makes anybody safer or not," and expressed what Ward called "manifest bias and prejudice that should disqualify him from further involvement in the case."

The appellate court now has properly done just that.

Resident offers personal tragedy on Korte

To the Editor:

After reading the article written by Terek Hamada in The Detroit News, I feel compelled to express my views on the closing of Korte street at the Grosse Pointe Park border to vehicle traffic.

I am a former Detroit resident who lived on the east side and graduated from Southeastern High School. I have resided in Grosse Pointe Park for more than a quarter of a century. I live about 350 feet from Korte.

Over the years I have watched as cars race down Korte, some going 60 to 60 mph. Korte ends at Westchester, six blocks from Alter Road. There have been incidences where cars, not familiar with the street ending, have driven over lawns, hit trees and driven the wrong way on Windmill Pointe Drive — in some cases being chased by one or more Detroit police cars.

Several years ago my son, who was 8 years old at the time, was almost killed at Korte and Alter. He was fortunate to have lived after suffering a split head and broken leg when a vehicle turned into his bicycle and dragged him under it for several feet. My son still carries the scars from that traffic accident on Korte.

The comments attributed to Kathy Barrett and Dave

Yntema by Mr. Hamada are somewhat revolting.

Why do they and The News writer turn the street closing into a racial thing? Is it to get their names in the papers? Was the story developed to incite people and sell papers? Whatever the reason, let me comment that racism is not a factor. It is a traffic and safety issue.

In closing, let's get off racism. This is not what closed Korte. Irresponsible drivers and heavy traffic motivated the closing.

Incidentally, the driver of the vehicle that hit my son was white.

P.C. run amok

To the Editor:
I am writing to express my viewpoint on a problem that is rapidly growing out of control in our society: political correctness run amok.

The latest example of this, and one that hits close to home, is the controversy over the closure of Korte Road. I fail to see any reason at all why groups such as the Interfaith Center for Racial Justice should be so up in arms over such an insignificant matter as this.

Let us take a moment for a rational examination of the facts involved in this case. Korte Road was closed to automobile traffic only, (pedestrian and bicycle traffic are not affected). This was done to control an excessive amount of traffic through a purely residential neighborhood in order to protect the many children who frequently play in the area.

The opposition to the barricade, led by William Weld-Wallis, director of the Racial Justice Center claims that the real motive behind the barrier is to keep blacks out of the Pointes. This is especially ludicrous when one takes into account that there are nine other streets between Mack and Korte that directly connect Detroit and the Park.

Mr. Weld-Wallis tries to rationalize his point by stating that he is most concerned that the barricade sends the wrong symbolic message to blacks and that if it is perceived as racist, it must therefore be racist. This proves my contention that this whole uproar of opposition to the barrier, like the rest of the political correctness movement, is nothing more than symbol-

North renews accreditation

Grosse Pointe North High School's North Central Association accreditation has been extended through the 1992-93 school year. The action was taken at the NCA's annual meeting held this April in Chicago.

"Along with hosting periodic on-site evaluations by a visiting team of educators, each NCA school is accredited on the basis of an annual report on conditions in the school and on such supplementary information as the commission on schools requests," said North principal Caryn Wells.

The NCA is the largest of the country's regional accrediting agencies. It is a voluntary coalition of more than 7,000 schools and more than 1,000 colleges and universities in the 19-state region of the central United States. The association works with schools to improve the quality of education through a continuous process of accreditation and evaluation.

ULS students inducted into language honor society

Sophomores Kate Wells of Grosse Pointe Shores, and Angela Casteneda and Stephanie Powell of Detroit, and juniors Rasheen Carbin of Detroit, and Elizabeth Eldridge of Grosse Pointe Shores, were inducted into the Spanish Honor Society.

Newly inducted into the French National Honor Society are senior Mark Waterman of Grosse Pointe Park, juniors Laura Bouwman of Grosse Pointe Park, Nina Heinsohn, a German exchange student, Jed Howbert of Grosse Pointe Farms, and sophomores Erica Denham of Detroit, John McNaughton of Grosse Pointe Park, Becky Simpson of Grosse Pointe Shores and Dena Wright of Grosse Pointe Woods.

Juniors Kai Bikenbach of Grosse Pointe Farms and Natasha Lie of Grosse Pointe Park, and sophomores Behzad Rabbani of Grosse Pointe Shores and Eldra Walker of Detroit have been inducted into the Latin Honor Society. Membership in the society is awarded to those students who have completed four semesters of high school Latin with an average of an A-minus or higher.

Eat well, don't smoke

Puppeteers

Kerby Elementary School students in Janet Thompson's third-grade class brought Aesop's fabled characters to life using handmade puppets and backdrops. Art teacher Lorriane Krentzin helped the students with construction of puppets and sets. The puppeteers were, clockwise, Alex MacKenzie, Tim Baccus, Leah France, Rob Rogers, Jeff Cann and Jordie Owen.

Is Clinton's credibility to be at risk?

The debate over the extent to which the United States should go to the aid of the Bosnians seems to have revived the old argument over isolationism.

Those Midwest natives who grew up in the 1930s recall the passionate arguments in favor of isolationism, based chiefly on the Nye Senate Committee hearings that mistakenly found the munitions makers chiefly responsible for World War I.

Pearl Harbor ended isolationism in that era but it has reared its ugly head periodically, and especially since the Vietnam War. In retrospect, that war makes a powerful argument against excessive involvement in distant international disputes, and especially civil wars.

Today, admittedly powerful emotional arguments urge the United States to join with its European allies to end what has become a new Holocaust as the Serbs kill, rape and torture helpless and now often homeless people.

But many observers contend that the United States, even though it is the only surviving superpower, should not go ahead unless the British, French and Germans, who are closer to the action, take the lead.

Opinion

By rejecting a proposed compromise peace plan, Bosnia's Serbian "parliament" has again challenged the international community but President Clinton's proposal for a limited international military response has been rejected by our allies. A new international plan for safe havens for Muslims then was turned down by Bosnia's president.

So what is this country to do?

Arthur Schlesinger Jr., a liberal Democrat who generally backs President Clinton, issued a sharp warning against intervention the other day in a signed article in the Wall Street Journal which said in part:

"If he (Clinton) leads the U.S. step by step into a Balkan war, he might as well kiss his program of national renovation and reform goodbye. Bosnia will destroy his domestic hopes as surely as Vietnam destroyed Lyndon Johnson's Great Society."

Before arriving at that conclusion, Schlesinger pointed out that the Europeans "are more familiar with the territory and will be more endangered by the result" than the United States. "Yet," he went on, "they do not see their vital interests as threatened."

He ended with a 1961 quotation from President Kennedy:

"We must face the fact that the U.S. is neither omnipotent nor omniscient — that we are only 6 percent of the world's population — that we cannot impose our will upon the other 94 percent — that we cannot right every wrong or reverse each adversity — and that therefore there cannot be an American solution to every world problem."

Yet it was the mindset reflected by Kennedy's inaugural promise to "pay any price, bear any burden, meet any hardship, support any friend, oppose any foe to assure the survival and the success of liberty" that got this country seriously involved in Vietnam in the first place.

In fact, that was the policy adopted by Kennedy and his "best and brightest" advisers, including Schlesinger, until the failure of the attempted Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba. Some critics might say that Schlesinger and Kennedy were tainted by isolationism arising from that experience.

Earlier, in 1945, reporters who covered the Washington hearings preceding Senate ratification of the United Nations Charter thought the UN concept had so much public support that it would kill isolationism for good.

Only two Midwest isolationist senators voted against the ratification, and Sen. Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan had earlier renounced isolationism and supported internationalism and the UN.

But since the UN no longer wins the popular support it first enjoyed, many Americans now see isolationism as a better alternative than either collective action under the UN or NATO or adoption of a go-it-alone policy.

But while isolationism still lives in a modern form, it seems unlikely to prevail over a new president who pledged in his Inaugural Address to act "with force when necessary" to protect this country's vital interests and promised U.S. action when "the will and conscience of the international community is defied."

Yet now, because the Europeans have failed to support his proposals to try to contain the war in Bosnia, Clinton seems to have put on hold even his call for air strikes and lifting of the arms embargo on the Muslims.

The president's vacillation on Bosnia seems to reflect not only the revived national debate over isolationism but his own background: his youthful opposition to the war in Vietnam and his inaugural sympathies for action in concert with the European community.

But his indecision now could cost him credibility at home as well abroad.

Korte and Bosnia — no-win situations

Imponderables in the news: Some issues just have so many hidden and conflicting facets that there aren't clearcut answers.

Local case in point: the closing of Korte Street at the Grosse Pointe Park border. Both those who wanted the street closed for practical reasons and those who opposed the closing for symbolic reasons appear to be right. There are too many cars — and it does look racist.

It's worth noting that several other streets between the Park and Detroit remain open. It's also worth noting that the new upscale residential areas on Detroit's east side not only have limited street access, but fences and guards. And Detroiters themselves wanted streets closed in Indian Village.

But the barrier, while, not surprisingly, attractive, still can be seen as simply a comely version of the Berlin Wall.

So the waters seem sufficiently roiled to preclude easy answers.

For my money, the real insult that Grosse Pointe Park has perpetrated (and continues to perpetrate) on its Detroit neighbors is sewage overflows into Fox Creek. The council's refusal to order Park residents to disconnect their downspouts shows complete disregard for good community relations.

The only winners in these philosophically related border disputes are the readers of the letters to the editor, where all sides have aired their views for weeks. It's that kind of forum that community journalism should be all about.

Global case in point: Bosnia. The lines drawn over proposed intervention in the Balkans have turned doves into hawks and aligned liberals with conservatives. And again the debate hinges on feasibility vs. symbolism.

On the practical side, our

military limitations, the federal deficit, the national interest, and American failure to comprehend ancient blood feuds are brought into play. On the symbolic side, there is talk of preventing genocide and harking back to the bad old days of pre-World War II appeasement. Not to mention the sting of the Serbian thumb in our eye.

Both sides are right. The national media has played an interesting role in the Bosnia issue. For months, newspapers and television have crusaded for intervention.

A good argument could be made that this is journalism's finest face, acting as conscience of a nation, champion of the powerless. But many observers are, in fact, arguing just the opposite — that this is a media event, callous and irresponsible war-mongering.

In my view, the worst thing the press is doing is to frame Bosnia as a test of our president's machismo. Expecting Clinton to solve in three months a complex crisis that Bush — an acknowledged foreign policy wizard — couldn't handle in three years is unrealistic and unfair, especially as intervention has little public support.

Mr. Weld-Wallis must have taken race baiting lessons from Coleman Young and company, for it is painfully obvious that he is merely trying to create a controversy in order to drum up publicity for himself and his organization.

I for one have grown tired of individuals such as Weld-Wallis who are constantly looking for some meaningless, obscure reason to be offended so as to be able to utter the now all too familiar charge of racism.

Let me state in no uncertain terms that I am a lifelong Grosse Pointe resident and I am not now, nor have I ever been, a racist. I welcome wholeheartedly all honest and decent people of all races to visit or move into the Pointes. After all, the only real barriers to living here are those of a financial nature.

It is my sincere hope that Mr. Weld-Wallis and his compatriots in the political correctness crowd will take this letter to heart and concentrate their intelligence and efforts on more important matters.

Proposal A: What loss?

To the Editor:

The "Partners in Learning" publication just distributed by the school system prompts me to question the statistics.

As a retired widower, I come within the example presented of a $100,000 home, $35,000 income and not itemizing taxes. In this presentation, they (school officials) project a tax increase of $131.

Using round figures, a property tax reduction of $400 against a total annual tax of $3,300 will not come near penalizing my $1,200 homestead credit. So, I don't see how they claim a $252 loss.

And a loss of $249 from the 2-cent sales tax increase means they expect almost 40 percent of income spent on taxable goods.

In my retiree position, that's absurd. Even with a new car purchase of $20,000, you keep the car five to six years, so you average.

I estimate my sales tax increase at $100. So I gain $300 instead of a $131 loss.

So much for school board propaganda.

Response to Shine's response

To the Editor:

School superintendent Dr. Ed Shine's letter in last week's Grosse Pointe News addressing my questions of the previous week was a disappointment.

Dr. Shine still has not answered the question: What will the board do if it moves its offices into Barnes School and finds out it has to open it as an elementary school after the census is completed?

Dr. Shine's letter falls short of telling the whole story.

Dr. Shine explains that school officials are trying to downsize the school system, but it always is at the expense of the elementary school children. Why doesn't the board of education try to "downsize" the architectural studies it has done instead of allowing overcrowded class sizes?

Remember this board spent $81,372 for the architects to submit plans that redesigned the Central Library. After the community turned down this proposal, the board spent another $83,988 on plans to build a library at Brownell Middle School, even though the majority of the community spoke out against this path at the public forums.

The schematic layout for remodeling Barnes, North and South high schools and Parcels Middle School (the way in which the board wants to divide the administration building) was $3,768. The board wants to spend an additional $112,000 to complete the architectural portion of the move.

This board has also had the board office remodeled in February of 1990 even though the vast majority of their meetings are held at South High School's Wickling Library. This remodeling cost was $6,366, excluding labor.

As for the seniors, I must have hit a nerve.

For nine years (read the board transcripts or listen to the tapes), the board has stressed "fiscal responsibility" because the retirees demand it. The board listens to a very vocal group of seniors who feel they have paid their share of taxes and no longer feel that they should share the burden now that their children have graduated. These seniors refuse to be educated in the other aspects of education.

If you have noticed, all board public announcements contain a large amount of "numbers" showing financial woes and money-saving solutions. These publications do not deal with the woes of parents not being able to find tutors or having their child tested for learning problems. These publications do not deal with problems of safety on our playgrounds.

These publications do not deal with overcrowded classrooms or the money we have had to raise through parent donations in order to fund computers, playground equipment and even the planting of grass.

The board of education has a monopoly on what information can be obtained. There is not a way for PTOs or other parent groups to contact each other to discuss current board policies unless we raise private funds and publish information through the mail.

All avenues are open to the board members — they may send their point of view home in your child's backpack — but your PTO, if it has an opposing view, may not. This is school policy.

How has it happened that we have evolved to this state? Much of it can be blamed on the elementary and middle school parents. The school board is well aware of this and knows that it will not get much interference.

The board only has to please that small vocal senior minority. The parents of young children have extremely poor voting records. The parents of young children think they don't have time to get involved unless their own child is directly involved. The parents of young people don't get involved in board policy until their children are in high school and they ask, "How did this happen?"

This must stop if we want this community to stay excellent in education. We are losing ground. Our percentage of children going to college is down and our drop-out rate is up.

Parents must attend Tuesday's meeting. The decision on whether the board moves to Barnes and sells 389 St. Clair will have a profound impact on this community's future. What

Kitchen foray's his last

A friend called me the other day with a story about his pal, his pal's new house, and more to the point, his pal's wife's new dream kitchen. It seems the couple had recently plunked down a small fortune for the house they've always longed for. The new palace is located on a lake, surrounded by acres of wooded area, and is on the "other" side of town.

The man of the house had insomnia one night and wandered into the new kitchen, previously uncharted territory for him. In an attempt to nurture himself back to sleep he decided to try warm milk and a piece of toast. Silly boy. No one had given him instructions about how to negotiate this new electronic domain. He located the toaster after several minutes of searching, finding it hidden in a wall. The toast burned and set off the smoke detector. He got up on a stool to disengage the battery.

It was time to heat the milk. The burners on the stove were halogen models and only certain pots and pans would work on them. He imagined his new stove was taunting him. "Try me." Finally, the milk was heated in the microwave and it was time to put the dishes in the dishwasher. However, the dishwasher was so cleverly disguised in the custom moldings that it took awhile to locate it. When he found it, he discovered that it was programmed with computer chips and would necessitate further instructions. Forget clean dishes.

Mr. and Mrs. Homeowner are especially proud of their new granite countertops, which cost a mere fortune, but must be used with caution as they tend to chip china and crystal easily. The husband has decided to leave the kitchen area strictly to his woman; the stress involved in negotiating it is too much for him.

One chilly night the children padded into their parents' bedroom to complain that the house was too cold and they were having trouble sleeping. Papa staggered to the basement where he was confronted with a panel of electrical paraphernalia that totally confused him. There are four furnaces in the house and they were freezing. Turns out there was a circuitry mix-up and the boards were partially burned out. Call for help when you figure out the latest in sophisticated telephone equipment.

The king of the castle is beginning to wonder if he should hire a captain and crew to run the place. The only problem is that they would have to be electrical engineers with master's in plumbing, carpentry, etc. Might not be a bad idea to hire a volunteer fireman to be on standby, just in case.

Grosse Pointe

Mary Parsigian is the mother of two University Liggett School students: Jeanifer, a third-grader, and Mary Taylor, a first-grader. Mary and her husband, Jeffery, have sent their girls to ULS since each child was 3 years old. "Jennifer was 18 months old when we decided that ULS was the best place for her," she says.

Mary goes on to say, "we feel, that in addition to the academics, our children are provided with an extension of what we try to teach them at home -- values and a positive attitude." She says that "if it had not been for the small class size and the way the teacher truly got to know my child, we might not have realized the aptitude our daughter had for art. This was brought out by her teacher."

We invite families interested in quality education to visit ULS at any time. Our new Primary School -- for ages 3 through kindergarten -- is open to the public for visits and tours. If you would like to visit our school, or learn more about ULS, please call Ann Willett at 884-4444.

How much did you lose last year on nondeductible interest?

8.50%<sup>APR.*</sup>

FIXED RATE

Maybe you've noticed it while getting your taxes ready. All the interest you've paid on consumer loans that's not deductible.

Well, now's the time to think of a strategy for next year's taxes. And consider borrowing against the equity in your home.

At First of America, we can lock you into a low fixed 8.50 percent APR loan with terms of up to 7 years. To make the offer even more attractive, all fees will be waived, so there will be no annual fee, appraisal fees, closing costs or points. And you'll have a fixed monthly payment that will never change.

The sooner you take advantage of it, the more you can save on financing home improvements, education, a car or anything else worthwhile. You can even refinance a loan that you have somewhere else.

Be sure to consult your tax advisor to make sure the interest is deductible.

We can give qualified applicants fast approval—usually within 24 hours. So stop by any First of America office or call 1-313-339-5644 to apply today. And make last year's nondeductible interest a thing of the past.

Detroit auto industry owes much to late Michigan artist

America's early love affair with the automobile was fueled by the brush strokes of talented, virtually unknown commercial artists who produced glamorous images of vehicles for consumer advertising campaigns.

Americans came to adore Hudsons, Buicks and Cadillacs in particular because of the artistry of the late Eric Valleau, whose story is told in the May/June 1993 issue of Michigan History Magazine, now on sale. Born in 1896 in Ottawa, Ontario, Valleau loved to draw from an early age; pictures from his high school days reveal painstaking pencil renderings of gears, clutches and gasoline engines. In 1929 Valleau was hired by the La Driere brothers art studio in Detroit and began drawing and painting cars that could be the foundation of his career for 35 years.

"Valleau built his reputation as a 'car man,'" said Secretary of State Richard H. Austin, Michigan's official historian. "He loved the rich colors and elegant lines of his cars and felt a sense of ownership for the ads he helped create."

During World War II, when automobile factories retooled to produce jeeps and bombers, Valleau's work at La Driere changed with the times. Using his familiar pen-and-ink technique, he drew army vehicles and planes for advertisements promoting the automobile industry's contribution to the war effort. Some of his defense-related artwork was completed under a cloak of secrecy at the studio.

Valleau remained happily absorbed in his work through the war years and into the 1950s, the golden age of the American automobile industry. Valleau was especially proud of his work for the prestigious Cadillac jewel series.

In the 1960s the auto industry began using photographs instead of drawings and paintings. In 1964, at age 68, Valleau retired. He died in 1992.

Memorial Day travelers urged to buckle-up, save lives

If more car drivers and passengers buckle-up, the 18 traffic deaths statewide last Memorial Day weekend could be reduced this upcoming 78-hour holiday when motorists are expected to log 965 million miles on state roads, AAA Michigan reports.

Last year there were 16 fatal crashes. In 10 of those in which safety belts were available, they were not used, contributing to the fatal injuries of two drivers and eight passengers. Of the 18 victims, five were drivers, 11 were passengers and two were motorcyclists. Sixteen people lost their lives during the 1991 Memorial Day weekend.

"There is no question that safety belts save lives and greatly reduce injuries," said Jerry Basch, AAA Michigan community safety services manager.

"We could reduce the highway death toll again this year if we can just convince more motorists to buckle-up. The belts do no good if not used."

Basch also noted that drinking was a factor in 10 of the 16 fatal crashes, and in 11 of the 18 deaths. Weather conditions were clear in all but one of the fatal accidents and 12 of the fatal crashes occurred less than 25 miles from the driver's home.

A helpful companion to motorists this 78-hour Memorial Day weekend — which begins at 6 p.m. Friday, May 28, and ends at midnight Monday, May 31 — is the AAA Michigan "Bring 'Em Back Alive" Holiday News Service in which hourly traffic and tourism bulletins will be broadcast over 160 radio stations statewide.

Most state roadwork is suspended during the holiday weekend, but travelers may experience slowdowns on some state roads with construction projects under way. Some possible problem areas:

- West of Kalamazoo, I-94 is restricted to one lane in each direction for four miles from west of Ninth to Oakland.

- In Romulus, I-94 is restricted to two lanes in each direction during reconstruction of the Merriman and Middle Belt interchanges. There will also be intermittent ramp closures, but access to and from Metro Airport will be provided at all times. Northbound Middle Belt is closed with traffic detoured over a signed route.

- In Portland in Ionia County, traffic is reduced to one lane in each direction at the bridge carrying I-96 over Grand River. The I-96 entrance ramp from Kent will be closed as will Market under I-96. Signed detours are provided.

- In Genesee County, on six miles of US-23, from Owen to Thompson, traffic is restricted to one lane in each direction. There will be temporary closures of ramps at some interchanges in the area.

- In Monroe County, on six miles of US-23, from the Ohio state line to US-223, the northbound lanes are closed with two-way traffic carried on the southbound lanes.

- In Port Huron, traffic is detoured in the area of the Blue Water Bridge for construction of a new plaza. There are separate detours for cars and trucks. Motorists should follow posted detour signs when traveling through the area.

dirt tracks with deep ruts and on steeply-banked board tracks. A race like the Indy took up to five hours to finish at the speeds they drove then."

Sixty-year-old newspaper stories detail how drivers trained. Russ Snowberger told reporters that he played handball, rode a bike, skipped rope and used a rowing machine and parallel bars to build strength and stay trim.

"He drives constantly to keep his muscles toughened, and a month before the race he adopts the early-to-bed, early-to-rise maxim... his training table is just as strenuous as that of a varsity football man," reads a story from the May 14, 1932, edition of the Benton Harbor News.

Russ Snowberger, who left home at age 14, taught himself to build and repair cars. He first showed up at the 500 in 1927 as a relief driver, and never left big-time racing. The Blacksmith, as he came to be known, could do — and did do — everything in racing.

By 1932, Snowberger had exchanged his Studebaker-powered racer for this Hupp Comet. On the right is mechanic Warren Hunt.

How legendary designer/driver won Indy pole in $1,500 car

Russell Snowberger was king of the stock-block era in IndyCar racing, according to a former race driver, auto historian and retired engineer. Snowberger also was a very gifted race-car designer, mechanic and driver, added one of his greatest admirers, his son. "Russ bought a Studebaker eight from a junk yard, put it in a car whose total cost was about $1,500 and won the pole position at Indianapolis in the depths of the Depression in 1931," said historian Mike Kollins of Bloomfield Hills. "That's really amazing when you consider a typical IndyCar today runs at least $2.5 million."

Championship Auto Racing Teams Inc. figures corroborate Kollins' estimate. A rolling chassis this year starts at $405,000; engines range from $39,000 to $148,000, with six to 10 engines per race car; wheels are $3,000 each — at least a dozen sets of four are needed; tires run $1,200 a set; spare parts ("disposable") may go as high as $500,000 plus as much as $175,000 for gearbox parts.

"Some of the better-known teams have invested up to $25 million," Kollins said. "In comparison, back when Russell began building and racing, a Miller car cost about $25,000."

Kollins said auto makers were reluctant to have their names associated with race cars because they didn't want negative publicity if anything went wrong on the track.

"Snowberger showed me what he had done with the Packard-powered car he had in the front row around 1935," said Kollins, an engineer who spent a lot of his extra time and energy on dirt and asphalt tracks from 1932-39. "One of the secrets behind its speed was a supercharger. I borrowed that idea and he also gave me an oil cooler for the car I was racing."

Snowberger, who spent much of his adult life in Michigan, drove in 16 Memorial Day Indy races. After retiring as a driver in 1947, he continued to be a major player in race-car building. He was chief mechanic on the Federal Engineering team. One of the cars he built in the 1950s — a vehicle that proved a winner in several Pike's Peak races — was recently restored to like-new condition by another Snowberger with gasoline in his veins — his son John.

"My father died in 1967 when I was still a teenager," said the younger Snowberger, a sales manager at Ed Rinke Chevrolet in Center Line and a person devoted to preserving the memory of this unique figure in motor sports. "I believe

Autos

By Jenny King

he was the only man ever to design and build a car for the Indy 500 so inexpensively and drive it himself."

The $1,456 IndyCar with a Studebaker engine retrieved from the scrap heap did its first 500 miles at Indianapolis back in May of 1930, finishing eighth. In 1931 he returned with the Studebaker engine in a new body, and captured the coveted pole starting position.

That was a couple of years after race officials decided stock blocks should be allowed to compete. It also was a time when racing was in trouble and needed to attract attention for reasons other than the almost-routine fiery crashes associated with the sport, said John Snowberger.

"My father also drove cars powered by Hupp and Packard engines in the 1930s," Snowberger said. "In his career at Indy, he finished in the top 10 five consecutive years."

Snowberger recently recovered one of the Indy-type cars his father had constructed in the early 1950s.

"I inherited some of his mechanical gifts, and have spent countless hours tearing the car down and rebuilding it the way it was when he finished it," he said.

Today the handsome, bullet-shaped, single-seat veteran of the Pike's Peak hill climb is up and running. It will be at the annual Eyes on the Classics fundraiser at the Eleanor and Edsel Ford Estate next month.

Originally built in 1952, it had a Buick 322-CID V-8 and Buick's Dynaflo transmission. "The engine size was increased to 336 cubic inches," Snowberger said. "It has a top speed of 170 mph."

Snowberger said the car had been shortened and modified for sprint racing at a dirt track in Mount Clemens. He had to stretch the aluminum chassis and hand-form new aluminum body panels in his restoration. He had little to go on: His father never worked with drawings. It was all in his head, he said. This same car won the Pike's Peak hill climb seven times in the skillful hands of Louis Unser, uncle of Bobby and Al Unser, who was still racing at age 60.

Russ Snowberger's Studebaker-powered car captured $10,000 in prize money back in 1930 — more than any of the more expensive vehicles, according to Kollins. Repairs for the motor that season totaled $1.25. In 1931 Snowberger again brought the car to Indy — same engine, but a new body, new hydraulic shocks and four Winfield carbs — and won the pole position. His 112.796 mph qualifying time, based on four trips around the brick-and-concrete oval, was 8 mph faster than a year earlier.

"Back when my father first raced, the physical demands were incredible," John Snowberger said. "Guys drove on Driving a Straight "8" Miller, Russ Snowberger won the 100 Mile Race at Langhorne, Pa., in October of 1926.

Snowberger fires up a Cooper Special at the Indy 500 in 1929, a year before he built a complete car for $1,456.

389 St. Clair

To the Editor:
I basically agree with the letter by Philip Gaglio in the May 20 Grosse Pointe News.

I think it would be a clear mistake to divide the administrative staff and locate it in four different locations. This, by itself, is a very poor arrangement.

But, worse, this scattering of personnel will now or in the near future cause overcrowding of students. Students, not administration, should come first.

While your statement in the Grosse Pointe News may be well-intentioned, I still think that in a few years — maybe very few — the board will be pushing for a new building for administration.

The facility at 389 St. Clair is still functional. It can be kept so at reasonable cost. While certainly not new, the facility is still newer than many Eastern "Ivy League" colleges and universities.

As a Harvard graduate, I found these older buildings quite functional and actually having some advantages over "bland new" facilities.

So forget selling 389 St. Clair, do the necessary maintenance and protect against student overcrowding.

Star closing

To the Editor:
Regarding the closing of Our Lady Star of the Sea High School, I would like to address two factions:

To those who say there was any element of surprise, I would say that you have not been paying attention. This decision was years in the making.

To those who have engaged in "racial slurs and threats of declining property values" in the event of a regional school, let me say: You have just distanced yourselves from the official Catholic Church.

Such racist and inflammatory talk has been vigorously denounced by the bishops of the United States as far back as 1958 when they issued their forceful statement, "Discrimination and the Christian Conscience." Read it.

Star closing not racial

To the Editor:
As a member of Our Lady Star of the Sea parish and a grade school parent, I take offense to the false accusations and judgments rendered against our parish and school that I have witnessed of late in the media.

At the start of the school year, our high school principal and our pastor appealed to the parishes who send their girls to our high school. They were met with sympathy concerning our financial conditions but were offered no monetary help.

The suggestion of regionalization was raised but again such issues as capital improvements, etc., could not be resolved. It is a financial situation that has closed Star High School, and I am hurt and confused by this cry of racism that is being perpetuated by the media.

The Star children are of different races, and come from varied backgrounds and family life styles. It is a loving and giving parish to which I belong, and I am proud to be one of its members.

Every president of an organization or chairman of an event would echo my sentiments — the Grosse Pointe News made the difference in raising the public awareness of their groups' efforts.

As out-going president of the Grosse Pointe Symphony, thank you for supporting the symphony's involvement to the cultural life of the Grosse Pointes and surrounding communities.

Reinstate dance

To the Editor:
It is unfortunate that the last youth dance sponsored by the War Memorial has been canceled in response to the rowdy actions of a few boys. Since the identity of these boys was known, wouldn't it have been more effective and fair to press legal charges against them for endangering the lives of many people and to ban them from the dances?

Any organization sponsoring large group events should be prepared for such problems. Over reacting by canceling the last dance of a very successful season of fun for Grosse Pointe children seems to punish the majority of well-behaved youngsters while giving the rowdies the negative attention they were seeking.

It is unrealistic to expect a group of youngsters to police any potential rowdies in the group. This is not expected of adults in society, why should we expect children to be responsible for problems beyond their ability to control?

The practice of punishing an entire group of children for the bad actions of a few destroys morale, damages self-esteem, and causes children to lose respect for adults treating them so disrespectfully — resulting in more rowdiness.

A lot of good kids in Grosse Pointe would like to see the last dance of the season rescheduled. It would restore their faith and respect in adults. It would reassure them adults respect their respectful behavior at these dances.

Perhaps reminders at time of ticket purchase and at the beginning of each dance that their continued cooperation is necessary for the safety and pleasure of all attending the dances, and a final "thank you" for respectable behavior at the end of each dance, would bring about more positive results.

To the Editor:
It is well known at the Centers for Disease Control (CDC) that America has a 95 percent plus vaccination rate for diphtheria, pertussis, tetanus, polio, measles, mumps, and rubella among children entering school. Due to already well-funded federal vaccination promotional control campaigns, the U.S. vaccination system is often used as an example to other countries whose low vaccination rates do not come close to matching our high one.

The Clinton administration's call for a national vaccination tracking system and a "door to door" search for unvaccinated babies under 2 years old is very frightening, especially to parents whose children have died or been left with severe brain injuries following vaccination, sometimes because the vaccine administrator failed to find out the child was at high risk of reacting. And parents, whose child got a disease such as measles, even though the child had been vaccinated, are understandably reluctant to believe that just one more shot will do the job.

Before federal health care workers with syringes in hand start knocking on the doors of homes around this country, there ought to be full public disclosure by the CDC of the safety and efficacy data upon which they base their recommendations to vaccinate newborns with multiple vaccines on the same day, vaccinate babies who are ill, vaccinate without giving a physical exam, and have non-medical personnel administer vaccines without a doctor present. There ought to be full public disclosure of scientific data regarding vaccine failures, particularly with the measles vaccine.

It is sad that after a decade of work to reform the mass vaccination system, including passage of the National Childhood Vaccine Injury Act of 1986 (Public Law 99-660), the National Vaccine Information Center (NVIC) in Vienna, Va. (703-938-DPT3), still receives daily calls from parents whose babies are being injured by the 60-year-old whole-cell pertussis vaccine because the Food and Drug Administration continues to stubbornly refuse to approve a new purified acellular pertussis vaccine for children under 18 months of age. It is sad that the same federal health agencies, who are now calling for more vaccination, do not bother to follow-up on the more than 17,000 vaccine adverse reactions reported to them during a 20-month period ending July 31, 1992.

Before the public is asked to line up and, without question, be injected with vaccines whose effectiveness and safety may not have been adequately studied or disclosed, the request should be supported with something more than a desire to do good.

De-profitize the post office

To the Editor:

I cannot think that I am alone among your readers in wondering how long our legislators will remain blind to the root causes of such terrible tragedies as has occurred earlier this month at the Dearborn post office.

Quite apart from this sad event, two milestones in post office history are commemorated this month. On May 6, 1840, the first postal stamp was issued in Great Britain, and on May 15, 1918, the first regular airmail service began between Washington, D.C. and New York City.

These two historical events show clearly the dual nature of the Postal Service. Is anything more symbolic of boring and meaningless bureaucratic routine than a stamp? And can anything evoke the daring self-sacrifice of rugged individualists better than the image of airmail delivery in an early, open-cockpit biplane?

And, finally, let us not forget the roughneck eccentrics who rode the Pony-Express between St. Joseph, Missouri, and Sacramento, Calif., in 1860-61.

During the pioneering

"I think positive non-equivocal reporting like yours often achieves more than all the strident activism can ever hope for. One always expects and almost gets used to hateful, untruthful, mean-spirited journalism, so it was a real thrill to see your article, especially in such a monied, conservative area... I hope you didn't receive any hate mail for your story." — R.P.

Well, Rick, not this time. Maybe the woman who sent me anti-gay literature the last time was out of town.

The interesting question that this reader raises is, how conservative is Grosse Pointe, actually? Have the years caught up with the Pointes' reputation for conservatism?

stage of any institution, daredevils and social misfits play indispensable roles in breaking through undiscovered territory and untried technology — without them, the institution would never become established. Moreover, these socially maladapted individuals achieve exceptional personal fulfillment.

At a later stage in the evolution of a complex institution, when dull routine, pointless schedules, and rigorous timetables are coupled with incessant demands for greater productivity, the stress on the employees can only be effectively sublimated through patriotic devotion to a higher ideal.

But in 1971, the Post Office Department was replaced by the United States Postal Service, with the mandate to be self-supporting by the 1980s.

Also, during the 1970s, legislators allowed private mail services to enter competition with the USPS, thereby increasing the demands for profitability on the post office.

The unrelieved tedium of effecting a postal delivery dominated by "junk mail" with both accuracy and strict punctuality is much like the routine of life in the military services. Anyone can easily imagine the havoc which would result from placing the Army or the Navy on the same self-supporting and profitability basis as that on which the post office precipitously rests.

In services vital to the welfare of this country, leadership at the highest levels must have a vision that goes beyond the bottom line of profit and loss.

Double-header seminar

An early breakfast meeting was followed by a second lunch session at the Country Club of Detroit, and about 120 men and women listened to brief, non-partisan accounts of local and national economics, politics, schools, taxing and Proposal A.

Scores of questions were flung at the panel, consisting of Federal Reserve economist Paul Ballew, insurance and banking economist Patrick Anderson, and Mackinaw Center "think tank" leader Lawrence Reed.

Guests begged the panel to elaborate on garbled politics and inconsistencies of public and political policies, both national and state, but political and biased data was skillfully avoided, with one exception: Reed reminded voters that June 2, a Wednesday, was purposely picked to deter voting by those accustomed to voting always on Tuesday:

"They knew it would cut the vote, picking Wednesday, so mark your calendar if you're voting," he said.

Lottery, gambling, income tax, Medicaid/Medicare, and other such heady subjects kept the meeting spirited. High praise by the audience brought response from the sponsors, Grosse Pointe investment counselors Chamberlin Davis Rutan & Valk, that more such town hall talks will be scheduled.

Some attendees listed were Dr. Jesse Cardello, Mr. and Mrs. George Vincent, Janet Wisner, Camille Jayne, Charles Parcels, George Nicholson, Dr. William Pollock, James Perry, Dr. Roger McNeill, Brian Molloy, Dr. Kim Lie, William Cudlip, Jay Kennedy, Joseph Lackey, Richard Lambrecht Jr., Clark Durant, James Candler, John Boll, Peggy Begg, Dr. and Mrs. Myron Barlow and hosts Don Chamberlin, Charles Davis, Richard Rutan and Bob Valk.

The five cities are certainly home to old — and new — wealth — as well as a host of lawyers, doctors, and university professors. WASPs still predominate, to be sure, but the minority population, though small, is growing.

The only statistics available relate to political persuasion (two-thirds Republican, one-third Democrat), but political conservatism doesn't necessarily correlate with social conservatism.

This is still a community with a small-town attitude that says if you haven't lived here for a hundred years, you have no right to an opinion. And a pecking order based on wealth, evidenced again only a couple of months ago in the Monteith/Poupard flap.

It's also a place with nearly overwhelming devotion to civic causes. Home of the tightest old-boy network this side of well, Sicily. A town where "tacky" is the worst insult.

You might say it's conservative — but then, one could point to Planned Parenthood, which enjoys great support here — and is hardly a conservative cause these days.

Or one could point to Grosse Pointe Farms, which, as long as five or six years ago, allowed the relationship of two male residents the benefit of civic doubt; the council approved the passing of a city boat well to one partner at the other partner's death. Such an "inheritance" is clearly spelled out as a right accruing only to married couples, but the council accepted the men's attorney's description of their relationship as a marriage.

So you tell me which it is.

Benjamin Franklin was appointed the first post master general of the United States. Is there a Benjamin Franklin anywhere in government today?

In conclusion, the United States Postal Service should be restructured as a non-profit, subsidized government department. In this way, the boredom and stress which goes with automated technology and repetitive routine may be tempered by loyalty and patriotism.

Failure to do this will subject the employees at thousands of U.S. post offices throughout the country to acts of violence at a rate far exceeding the national average.

District, teachers begin informal talks; current contract expires Aug. 31

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

It's that time again. In anticipation of the teachers' union contract due to expire Aug. 31, informal discussions began yesterday between the Grosse Pointe Public School System administration and the Grosse Pointe Education Association.

The GPEA's three-year contract covers 540 teachers and Grosse Pointe Public Library employees. When the contract was ratified in 1990, union members received a 7 percent wage increase for each of the three years.

Other contract features included changes in medical coverage for new hires, instituting the adviser-advisee program and a seven-period day in the middle schools.

"(Yesterday) was the first time both sides sat down to discuss various concerns each of us has," said Thomas Whall, GPEA president. "We have looked at the contract and what would be some of the issues."

The process began last October, Whall said, when the union selected committee representatives from each building to conduct a survey and then study the results in relation to contract issues.

"The first couple of meetings are primarily for listening to some of the information provided by the union and some items we want to discuss at the bargaining table," said Chris Fenton, assistant superintendent for business and support services.

Ron Tonks, director of personnel and labor relations, who normally speaks on district employee matters, was unavailable at press time.

While neither side was at liberty to discuss key issues prior to any formal action, both Whall and Fenton said concerns center on economic matters and contract language.

"We have a pretty good list on both sides," Fenton said. "There'll be a lot of discussion on various issues."

Fenton said Grosse Pointe has the same concerns as any other public school system: keeping costs down.

Whall would not divulge what type of wage increase union members were seeking and would only say that a cost-of-living allowance would be sought.

Smoking in the schools could prove to be an issue during negotiations. At the May 10 school board meeting, a group of North and South high school students asked the district to consider a ban on smoking.

But that issue may prove to be out of the district's hands as lawmakers in Lansing are considering Senate Bill No. 459, which seeks to abolish smoking on all school property. The bill is currently in a subcommittee.

"Smoking will continue to be an issue," Whall said. "This year and in the last two contracts we did have some language. We thought it was resolved three years ago and we understand the students' concerns. But if the state passes a law, then it obviously is no longer negotiable."

Whall said he is hopeful that both sides will reach a successful closing by having as many issues as possible resolved to both parties' satisfaction.

Schools rebid 'confused' Monteith window project

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

The time-worn windows on Monteith Elementary School have raised more concerns than energy efficiency and aesthetic appeal.

In order to replace the weather-beaten windows at Monteith, the Grosse Pointe Public School System advertised for bids this spring and hoped to have the project completed before September.

At its April 12 meeting, the board was expected to award a bid. Chris Fenton, assistant superintendent for business and support services, had recommended the board go with Anderson vinyl-clad wood windows supplied by Charing Cross, a well-known home improvement company in the Grosse Pointe area. The project would have cost the district $387,737 in budgeted funds.

But one concern after another led the school board to reject all current bids and direct the administration to rewrite the window specifications.

Prior to the board taking any action on April 12, president Gloria Konsler opened the floor to public comment.

Three window manufacturers' representatives spoke of concerns about how the district wrote its bid specifications in relation to how the vendors subsequently submitted their bid proposals.

Bill Noecker of International Window told the board that the specifications called for an aluminum-clad window, which he said is not available. He then said the district had recommended a vinyl-clad window and urged the board to rebid the project.

Marshall Noecker also addressed the board on what he called "irregularities" in the bid specifications.

The original bid specifications called for an International Window model and the option to bid on an alternate model, Fenton said. Some of the bidders provided an alternate and others did not, he noted.

"We changed the specifications to be more specific," Fenton said. "We made it clear as to what type of window to expect."

Fenton said he believed the first specifications were clear. But he speculated that the specifications may not have been as clear as far as some of the vendors were concerned.

"There appeared to be confusion with the vendors and that led to the uneasiness on the board's part when they decided to reject all bids and rebid the project," Fenton said.

New specifications were written and completed by May 21. Bids will be opened tomorrow, May 28.

Fenton said he had recommended the Anderson window model, which was the alternate model offered by Charing Cross, because it came in about $100,000 cheaper than the other models.

In addition, the board, administrators and a Monteith school team had inspected several window models installed at the school and found the Anderson window model to fit their needs.

In still an additional twist, Jim Bordato, a Monteith parent and member of the window committee used to help the district evaluate the different window models, informed board members at the May 3 and 10 meetings, that they may have violated Robert's Rules of Order for parliamentary proceedings.

He originally thought the board had a motion on the floor when it opened the meeting up for public comment.

After listening to tape recordings of the April meeting and talking with schools superintendent Ed Shine, Bordato said he now believes the board did not violate Robert's Rules.

"It is normal procedure at our meetings that even before a motion is put on the floor, we open the floor to the public," Konsler said.

But Bordato said he still is concerned about the way the board treated the bidders.

"The representatives of the companies and manufacturers that bid had a chance to speak, then Bill Koczara (of Charing Cross) was told to hold his comments — he did not get a chance to defend himself," he said.

But Konsler said Koczara did not stand to speak to the board until after the motion to reject the bids was made and voted on by the board.

Bordato said he is paying close attention to how the district goes about selecting the windows this time around and how the board conducts its meetings.

"The board got a lot of information that raised a level of concern," he said. "But the board got nothing to clear it up. I say the process has been painfully extended."

Atrium Espresso Cafe seeks liquor license

By Chip Chapman
Staff Writer

The Grosse Pointe Farms City Council postponed a decision on whether to grant the Atrium Espresso Cafe one of the city's three remaining Class C liquor licenses. A decision is expected at the June 14 council meeting.

The Atrium, located on the Hill at 131 Kercheval, submitted its application for a license to the Michigan Liquor Control Commission on April 27. The Class C license would permit the sale of beer, wine and spirits on the premises.

Owner Pauline Palazzolo told the council she has no plans at this time to serve spirits.

Although she told the council that her plans have the support of the Hill Association, the council wanted to hear directly from some of the association members before making a final decision.

The Atrium currently serves exotic coffees, soft drinks, juices, rolls, pastries and light lunches Monday through Saturday, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Palazzolo, who co-owns the Atrium with Bernard Licata, said the hours of business would be extended to 11 p.m. and live classical music would be added during the evening hours if the license is approved by the Farms council.

The council can OK or deny the request, or do nothing. The Atrium is the third Farms applicant since 1985 to ask for a liquor license. The other applications, submitted by Amigos Restaurant and the War Memorial Association, have been rejected.

Palazzolo hopes to bring afternoon tea to the Hill, and wants to be able to offer her customers champagne and wine. She was the afternoon tea director of the Townsen Hotel in Birmingham, before opening the Atrium.

The council can also approve a tavern license, which would allow beer and wine, but no spirits, to be sold. If the council denies the request, the matter is closed.

"Liquor licenses are not just a commodity, but a message to the community," said Farms Mayor Gregg Berendt.

The option of doing nothing could be taken away from local governments in Michigan. A bill recently introduced by state Sen. Gil DiNello, R-Clinton Township, would require a municipality to approve or deny an application for a Class C liquor license in writing within 90 days because "(a business) can apply to the city, and the city sits on it. They don't have to do anything for years and years and years," he said.

Park assists Detroit in collaring suspects

Following a yard-by-yard search on the city's northwest end May 24, Grosse Pointe Park public safety officers assisted Detroit police in arresting three men who had fired their weapons at Detroit police officers pursuing them before they crossed the border into Grosse Pointe Park.

The men, one of whom suffered several gunshot wounds when police officers returned fire, was taken to St. John Hospital, and turned over to Detroit police custody, said Park public safety detective Lt. David Hiller.

The incident came to Park public safety officers' attention around 1 a.m. when Detroit officers reported on the police radio that they were being shot at by occupants of a car they were chasing in the area of East Warren.

The car crossed into Grosse Pointe Park at Mack and Lakepointe and one of the occupants jumped out. The car continued on Lakepointe and then turned into an alley, where the other three men got out while the car was still in motion.

The car rolled into a garage but no damage was reported. Detroit was assisted by Park and Farms public safety officers who sealed off the area.

Three of the men were found hiding in the neighborhood bounded by Mack, Lakepointe and Charlevoix. Public safety officers recovered two handguns, which were turned over to Detroit police.

Athletes who drive

Athletes come in many shapes and sizes, yet constant visions of physically superior "super-beings" pushing themselves to the limits seem to plague the minds of most Americans. This fallacy has led to the exclusion of many deserving athletic groups, one being race car drivers.

The argument is a test of athletic ability? The car expends all of the energy, not the driver. The rationale becomes clear when you examine the word "athlete." An athlete is someone who takes part in competitive sports. No one can deny that racing cars is a competitive sport. So although race car drivers like Scott Brayton, for example, may not be able to run a mile in under five minutes or bring in the winning run in the ninth inning, they can make hundreds of life-threatening decisions throughout a challenging three-hour race, displaying a level of concentration worthy of any athletic event.

Brayton set his sites on car racing early in life. The son of former Indy car driver Lee Brayton, Scott has been racing cars since he received a go-cart for his fifth birthday. Scott moved up from racing go-carts to open-wheel formula cars and the Formula Ford series. In 1981, Brayton, who hails from Coldwater, Mich., began racing

King rules regional but North, South close

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Detroit King ruled the Class A track regional at Grosse Pointe South last weekend, but all four of the Grosse Pointe teams made strong showings in the meet.

Grosse Pointe North's boys were led by senior hurdler and sprinter Hayko Ekmekjian as they finished second to the Crusaders, while South's girls set a pair of school records en route to a runner-up finish.

North had 74 1/2 points to King's 98 in the boys meet. Grosse Pointe South's boys were third with 71 points.

Ekmekjian qualified for the state meet in Grand Rapids on Saturday, June 5, in both hurdles races. He lowered his own school record to 39.9 in winning the 300-meter lows and posted a 15.3 while taking second in a photo finish with Fraser's James Gehrke in the 100 lows.

"Last year Hayko finished third in both races and just missed going to the state meet, but he's worked very hard to improve," said coach Pat Wilson. "He's a tremendous competitor. He earned this. He's one of those athletes who realizes that just because you're a year older doesn't mean you're going to be better. He made the commitment to work hard and improve."

Ekmekjian, who ran a 14.8 in the preliminaries for the lows, was leading through seven hurdles in the finals.

"Then somebody clipped his foot and that let the rest of the pack back into the race," Wilson said. "He can do better in the lows, too."

In the longer race, Ekmekjian was running step-for-step with South's Pete Gillespie until he pulled ahead with three hurdles to go. Gillespie finished second in 40.3 and also qualified for the state meet.

Ekmekjian also anchored both of the Norsemen's second-place sprint relay teams which qualified for the state.

"We weren't in second when he got the baton," Wilson said. "He came from way behind in the 800 and caught the kid from King. He beat the King runner in the 400, too."

Detroit Kettering won both the 800 and 400 relays with times of 1:29.4 and 43.4. North had season bests of 1:32.4 in the 800 relay and 44.0 in the 400 relay. Jon Rapp, Eric Peters and Geoff Grant ran the first three legs of the 800 relay for North, while Hosea Peters replaced Rapp on the 400 team.

Bill Stevenson finished second in the 1,600 run in 4:35.7, dropping five seconds off his personal best time.

"Bill ran a perfect strategic race," Wilson said. "He made his move at the halfway mark and stayed ahead until the end when the De La Salle kid (John Geis) caught him. Bill's a young sophomore and (Geis) was just a little bit stronger. "Bill learns from every race. It'll be a good experience for him to go to the state meet, but he won't just go for the experience, he'll go to compete. He takes advantage of every good situation."

North's John Ament won the pole vault with a personal-best effort of 12 feet. "He's turned into a very good pole vaulter," Wilson said. "He really worked to turn himself into one and he got some valuable tips from Bruce Bentley and Tom Gauerke."

Ament was also fourth in the high jump, clearing 5-8. North's other state qualifier was Eric Peters, who finished second in the long jump with a leap of 20-8 3/4. The performance was his best by two inches.

"He and Hosea were tied for fifth going into the finals, but Hosea had to run the 400 and Eric was fresh," Wilson said, explaining the duel between the Peters brothers. Hosea was fifth with a 20-1.

Other scorers for North's boys were Tom Fennell, sixth, shot put, 41-10 1/2; Matt Dube, fourth, discus, 134-9; Bill Clark, tie fifth, high jump, 5-8; and Rapp, fifth, 200, 23.6.

Dube's improvement has been a pleasant surprise for the Norsemen.

"Before Saturday his best throw was 121.8 but on Saturday he was over 130 feet on five of his six attempts," Wilson said.

South's girls finished in the top two teams in the regional for the ninth consecutive season. The Lady Devils had 80 points to 95.5 for King.

Once again, South's depth paid off. The Lady Devils didn't win any events, but they placed in 12 of the 16.

One of South's top performances came in the 3,200 relay, where the team of Rachel O'Byrne, Shannon McGratty, Heidi Wise and Amy Balok took second in 9:49.7, knocking two seconds off the school record set in 1985.

In another record performance, sophomore Amy Zanglin became the second female runner in South's history to break 60 seconds in the 400 dash. Zanglin was second in 59.2, breaking a record that had stood since 1986.

Balok qualified for the state meet in two other events. She was fourth in the high jump but her 5-0 effort exceeded a second set of standards that qualifies athletes who didn't finish first or second in the regional. Balok also teamed with Katy Lupo, Kristine Mueller and Zanglin to run South's third fastest 1,600 relay (4:06.7).

South's 400 and 800 relay teams of Lupo, Becca Walter, Mueller and Zanglin recorded season-best times of 52.5 and 1:49.4 while finishing third. Freshman Lisa McCurdy had a season-best 49.3 to finish fourth in the 300 hurdles.

O'Byrne completed a fine day with a third place in the 100 hurdles and a fourth in the 800 run.

The Lady Devils took four of the six places in the 1,600 run and three of the top six spots in the 3,200. Katie Weed was third, Mary Rowe fourth, Eileen Lang fifth and Wise sixth in the 1,600. In the 3,200, freshman Aimee Vasse was third, followed by Rowe in fourth and Sandy Dierkes in sixth place.

Lupo completed a four-medal day when she was fifth in the 400 dash (61.4) and Jenny Mangol placed sixth in the shot put with a throw of 30-6.

Earlier in the week, South's girls defeated L'Anse Creuse North 95-33 in a Macomb Area Conference White Division meet to finish the dual season with a 9-0 mark. It was the Lady Devils' seventh league title in eight years and their third straight perfect season.

South's boys third place in the regional was highlighted by Tim McGahey's winning leap of 6-2 in the high jump.

The Blue Devils' Dan Quinn was second in the 3,200 with a 10:13. De La Salle's Philip Sobeck was first in 9:54.2.

North's girls had two firsts from Linda Krieg and a pair of seconds from Jessica McLalin in taking fifth place in the regional with 54 1/2 points.

Krieg won the discus with a throw of 119-10, more than five

Carson takes a bigger role in hockey school

By Chuck Klonek
Sports Editor

Jimmy Carson remembers how much fun it was to attend hockey camps when he was a youngster. That's why the Los Angeles Kings' star wants to provide the same kind of thrills for young Grosse Pointe hockey players. "I remember going to Yvon Cournoyer's hockey camp in

Montreal when I was 7 or 8," Carson said in a recent phone conversation from Los Angeles while he was waiting to find out who the Kings' next opponent would be in the Stanley Cup playoffs. "It was the first time I was away from home. My mom and dad went along, but I stayed in a dorm while they visited friends. I remember getting my picture taken with some of the Canadians' players, which was a big highlight for me because they were the top team in the league in those days." Carson, who lives in Grosse Pointe during the off-season and attended University Liggett School, has teamed with a longtime friend and fellow Pointer in the Jimmy Carson and Costa Papista Great Lakes Hockey Skills School.

The school will be held Aug. 16-20 at the Grosse Pointe Community Rink and is open to all youngsters ages 4-13. There will be divisions for Mini-Mite, Mite, Mite Travel, Squirt and Pee Wee players. "I've worked with Costa at the school for several years, but this is the first time I've been involved with the administration," Carson said. "I've often thought about having a camp, but I didn't want it to be one of those factory-type schools where they run kids in and out. I wanted it to be on a smaller scale where kids would get individual attention. Grosse Pointe is the ideal place for me because most of the kids know me and it's where I grew up. It's a way I can give something back to the community, too.

Carson will be the on-ice coordinator, working with Papista, who has been director of the school for its four years, and associate director Jim DePuy. "I've played for several coaches and I have some ideas for drills that could help the kids," Carson said. "It doesn't matter if you're a professional or an 8-year-old. The fundamentals of the game are the same. But the most important thing is for the kids to have fun. There's so much pressure to win at all levels these days. We want the kids at our school to have fun and learn something at the same time." Unlike many name players who visit hockey camps, Carson has played a major role in Papista's school. "He didn't just show up for one day and sign autographs," Papista said. "He was on the ice working with the kids almost every day. I'm delighted he's taking an even bigger role this season." Carson also has a major role in the Kings' bid for their first Stanley Cup. He joined Los Angeles in the mid-season trade with Detroit that brought Paul Coffey to the Red Wings. Many observers felt Coffey was the ingredient Detroit needed to challenge for the Stanley Cup, but instead the Red Wings are on the sidelines and the Kings are still alive. "Things have really turned out well for me," Carson said. "I would have loved to win a Stanley Cup in Detroit, but it wasn't meant to be. "It's such a treat to play on the same team with Wayne Gretzky. He's such a great player and you realize it even more when you see him every day. We have a very talented team and the future looks bright for me here because I'm still one of the younger guys on the team."

Carson broke into the NHL with the Kings and became the youngest player in league history to score 50 goals in a season, but he was traded to Edmonton in the blockbuster deal that brought Gretzky to Los Angeles in 1988. Trying to replace Gretzky in the hearts of the Oilers' fans was an impossible situation and Carson was traded to Detroit in 1989. The Red Wings were overloaded with centers so Carson wound up playing on the third line and didn't get the ice time he needed to match his scoring totals in Los Angeles and Edmonton. That's why going back to the Kings could be the boost his career needed. Among the unique features of the Great Lakes Hockey Skills School is a strong lecture/video program to go with the on-ice training. "The video sessions are a key instructional tool for us," Papista said. "The kids learn a lot from seeing their own mistakes. The only ones who use videos as much as we do are the residential camps. "We also have an excellent student-instructor ratio. We try to have five students for each instructor on the ice, so there's good individual instruction. And our core people are there every day of the school. All of our instructors are highly qualified."

Los Angeles Kings' star Jimmy Carson, right, joins longtime friend and fellow Grosse Pointer Costa Papista in operating the Great Lakes Hockey Skills School which will be held Aug. 16-20 at the Grosse Pointe Community Rink. Carson, who got his start in hockey with the Grosse Pointe Hockey Association Mite travel team in the 1970s, will serve as on-ice coordinator for the school.

MAJOR LEAGUE

Red Sox 8, Brewers 7

Mike Follis pitched well and Matt Lambrecht and David Saylor provided key hits for the Red Sox. Sean Casleman, Stephanie Shepard and Brian Denton played well for the Brewers.

Braves 7, Red Sox 4

Paul Buscemi and Tom Jahnke combined to four-hit the Red Sox. John Drake scored two runs for the Braves. David Spicer hit a solo homer for the Red Sox.

Cardinals 3, Braves 2

The Cardinals won the tight defensive struggle when Robbie Budai walked with the bases loaded to force in the winning run. Jarrod Champine singled and scored one of the Braves' runs.

Brewers 5, Braves 1

Kevin Barry and Kaitlin DeVries combined on a two-hitter for the Brewers. Geordie MacKenzie had two hits and scored two runs. Brad Lepczyk singled and scored the Braves' only run.

Braves 5, Giants 2

J.P. Champine and Paul Buscemi pitched a combined four-hitter for the Braves. Jarrod Champine hit a bases-loaded triple in the fourth inning to put the Braves ahead to stay. Chris McKeon hit a solo homer for the Giants.

Brewers 4, Cardinals 0

Braves 7, Blue Jays 5

Paul Buscemi had two hits, including a home run, and Andrew Glancy hit a triple and knocked in two runs to lead the Braves' attack. The Braves got strong pitching from Buscemi and Tom Jahnke. Mike Miller had three hits and Russell McMillan had two for the Blue Jays, who got fine pitching from Eric Wood and Calder Gage.

Blue Jays 4, Red Sox 3

Trevor Schulte singled home the winning run in the well-played game. Calder Gage and Eric Wood did a good job on the mound for the Blue Jays, who also had good games from Max Marl and Stuart McMillan. Mike Follis homered for the Red Sox, while Blair Wills and Matt Lambrecht added key hits. Richard Marsh and Chris Jacobi pitched well for the Red Sox.

CLASS AAA

Rockies 15, Cubs 5

Bo Leins pitched two strong innings for the Rockies. Nick Schloff reached base safely four times for the Rockies. Allison Schmidt had two hits for the Cubs.

CLASS C

Richmond 19, Albany 9

Kevin Krease hit a homer, triple and single, drove in two runs and scored three times for Richmond, while Patrick Schafer had a homer and three singles, knocked in two runs and scored four. J.T. Gage collected a triple and single and four RBI and Jeffery Beil added three singles and three RBI for Richmond. Drew Bedan had four RBI and Ian North drove in three runs for Albany. Tony Krall made three excellent defensive plays and had two doubles and a single and Andrew Sweeny homered and scored two runs.

Newark 27, Toledo 22

Newark scored six runs in the top of the sixth and shut out Toledo in the bottom of the inning. Andrew Ettawageshik had five hits and Tom Card and Lance Carroll collected four apiece for Newark, which also had three hits, including two triples, from Andrew Critchell. Blair Sutton, Danny Reinhard and Adam Mullen each had four hits

Braves 9, Tigers 6

The Braves scored six runs in the first inning, highlighted by Dave Chapman's double, a single by Paul Kaye and Eric Przepioraka's three-run homer, to back the strong pitching of Devon Peters. Chris Maks led the Tigers with a two-run triple and Jay Minger had two hits and pitched five strong innings.

Dodgers 11, Athletics 7

Brandon DeGuvera had four hits and Frank Lutfy, Jeff Sterr and Sean Hendrick added two hits apiece for the Dodgers. Paul Thursam pounded out three hits for the Athletics. Jimmy Cristman of the A's and Jimmy Spath of the Dodgers each made diving catches.

Orioles 19, Tigers 11

Gene Baratta had two hits in the Orioles' 11-run rally in the sixth inning. Will Solomon had four hits, including a homer, and Alex Thomas had three hits for the Orioles. The Tigers were led by Michael Sorgeloos with three hits and Richie Rozycyki with two.

Blue Jays 10, Reds 8

Aaron Senter singled to start the Jays' eight-run third-inning rally. James Marchetti, Dan Griesbaum and Kevin Diederich each had two hits and Jeff Hiller pitched all six innings. Michael Kasiborski had three hits, while John Trupiano, Matt Topper and Brad Drummy collected two apiece for the Reds.

Blue Jays 9, Dodgers 1

Anthony Curis led the Jays' attack with four hits, while Danny Griesbaum, Andrew Mellos and Kevin Diederich had two hits each. Kevin Schubnell made two good defensive plays in left field for the Dodgers.

NOTICE OF SPECIAL ELECTION To Be Held WEDNESDAY, JUNE 2, 1993

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a Special Election will be held on Wednesday, June 2, 1993 from 7 o'clock in the forenoon until 8 o'clock in the afternoon, at which time qualified registered voters may vote for the following:

PROPOSAL A

A PROPOSAL TO LIMIT ANNUAL INCREASES IN ALL PROPERTY TAX ASSESSMENTS, REDUCE MAXIMUM SCHOOL OPERATING TAXES, INCREASE THE STATE SALES AND USE TAX RATES FROM 4% TO 6%, CONSTITUTIONALLY DEDICATE FUNDS FOR LOCAL SCHOOLS AND SET A PER-PUPIL FUNDING GUARANTEE

The proposed constitutional amendment would:

- 1) Limit for each property parcel (excluding new construction) annual assessment increase to 5% or the inflation rate, whichever is less. When property is sold or transferred, adjust assessment according to current market value.
- 2) Reduce maximum school operating taxes to 18 non-voted mills. Permit districts to levy up to 9 additional voted mills.
- 3) Reduce 50-mill maximum property tax limit to 40 mills.
- 4) Increase state sales and use tax rates to 6%. Dedicate this additional revenue and lottery proceeds to schools.
- 5) Establish a minimum state/local per-pupil funding guarantee, annually adjusted for revenue changes. Provide a minimum 3% per-pupil funding increase in 1993-1994.

SHOULD THIS PROPOSAL BE ADOPTED? YES _____ NO _____

Lady Knights take title

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Looking ahead is University Liggett School coach David Backhurst's major concern this week as his girls soccer team begins Class B-C-D district play.

"We've beaten Lutheran East twice this year and if we play well we should beat the winner of the Star of the Sea-Bishop Gallagher game, but we can't look too far ahead," Backhurst said. "That's when you get into trouble."

If ULS wins its district, the Lady Knights, who finished the regular season ranked third in the state, will probably face second-ranked Bishop Foley in the first round of the regionals. "We had Foley on the schedule, but they had to cancel the game in order to make up one of their league games," Backhurst said.

The girls soccer team, which took a 15-1-1 record into district play, gave the school its first Metro Conference championship in any sport since 1979 when the Lady Knights beat Lutheran North 3-1 last week.

ULS jumped ahead before the game was a minute old when Carrie Birgbauer fired a shot into the corner of the net from 20 yards.

Freshman Shera Teitge made it 2-0 on another hard shot from the left side into the upper corner of the net and Julianne Cassin gave the Lady Knights a three-goal advantage when she knocked in a rebound that North's goalie failed to cover.

"We never thought we'd be up 3-0 at halftime, so we went into a defensive mode in the second half and (North) just swarmed all over us," Backhurst said. "They were fighting for their lives and had us back on our heels several times, but sweeper Beth Paul and goalkeeper Beth Mozena did a great job."

The Mustangs finally scored on a penalty kick with 20 minutes left, but couldn't get any closer.

ULS completed its league season with a 10-0 record when it beat Lutheran East 5-1 in the finale.

The Lady Knights struggled a bit in the first half and were tied 1-1 at the intermission on the first of Heather Heidel's three goals.

"It was tough to come back with the same kind of emotion we had against Lutheran North, but we finally got it going in the second half," Backhurst said.

Two goals by Heidel and one apiece from Teitge and Birgbauer in the second half broke the game open.

"This team has lost only two games in two years and several players have been on the team for three seasons," Backhurst said.

Three-year members include Mozena, Paul, Birgbauer, Lauren Gargaro, Katie Frederick and Amy Shanley.

"They're all very good friends and support each other, which is very important," the coach said.

South netters nip North

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Last weekend's Class A tennis regional turned out to be just like another dual meet between Grosse Pointe South and Grosse Pointe North.

And when it was over, the Blue Devils had another hard-fought victory over the Norsemen.

South beat North in five of the seven championship matches and edged the Norsemen 26-23, but each team qualified for the state meet in Midland on June 4-5 in all seven flights.

"The difference was third doubles and second singles," said South coach Tom Berschback.

The Blue Devils' No. 3 doubles team of Todd Scallen and Andy Schumaker lost the first set of the finals 6-0 to North's A+++ Sarnaik and Brent Kast-and were trailing 4-0 in the second when they roared back win 7-5 and 6-3.

"If there's been a better comeback, I don't remember it," Berschback said. "It was a remarkable recovery. My assistant, Jeff Hodges, who is one of the premier doubles coaches around, said as they were going through that ordeal, 'Let's see what happens when they get on the board.' Once we got the first point, Scallen was more aggressive at the net and we stopped making errors. A change in momentum can be important, especially in third doubles."

Another key win for South was in No. 2 singles where South's Jeff Wheeler beat North's Craig Rogowski 6-0, 6-0 to avenge a three-set defeat in the Macomb Area Conference Red Division tournament a week earlier.

"A couple critical matches didn't go our way this time," said North coach Ken Gutow. "But we had several kids play well. Our No. 2 doubles team (Jeff Barlow and Sean Brady) played a terrific match and should be seeded in the state and Mike McHugh is making a nice comeback from missing most of the season with a broken bone in his foot. He's not full strength yet, but he's getting there."

Barlow and Brady beat South's Tom Rhoades and Andy Giraldo 6-3, 6-2 and McHugh posted a 6-2, 6-1 victory over the Blue Devils' M.J. Morris, who was subbing for the injured Sean Coyle at No. 4 singles. Coyle has shin splints, but is expected to be ready for the state meet.

South's Cullen McMahon, who has been fighting injuries and illness the last two weeks, was back in top form as he beat North's Mark Levine 6-2, 6-2 in first singles.

The Blue Devils' other regional winners were Andy Loredo, who beat North's Mark Gregory 6-4, 6-2 in No. 3 singles, and the first doubles team of Paul Power and Jeff Halso, who beat the Norsemen's Kyle Foresman and Jon VanAssche 6-2, 6-4.

"Halso and Power are playing their best tennis of the season," Berschback said.

Both coaches are looking forward to the state meet.

"We could have seeds at all the flights for the first time since 1990," Berschback said. "In fact, we could be the fifth seed in all four singles flights."

The final seeding wasn't decided until after South's match with Brother Rice on Wednesday.

Gutow plans to keep his team sharp by playing some top competition.

"We'll try to set up a couple scrimmages with other teams in the area who have qualified for the state like Brother Rice, University Liggett and Troy," he said.

The regional championship was the fifth in a row for South, which has qualified for

Woods golfer shoots ace

Joan Stewart of Grosse Pointe Woods was on her way to an excellent score in the Thursday Ladies League at Gowanie Golf Club when her game fell apart on the final two holes.

But Stewart had a good reason for not doing well.

She became the first woman in the club's history to shoot a hole-in-one on the 158-yard seventh hole.

"Everybody started celebrating and they brought out the champagne," said Stewart, who began golfing 12 years ago. "It's no wonder I didn't play well the last two holes."

Stewart used a driver to shoot her first ace.

the state meet for 14 straight seasons.

"I can't imagine there being a state meet without us going," Berschback said.

Earlier, the Blue Devils dropped a 5-2 decision to second-ranked Ann Arbor Pioneer and played a 4-4 tie with West Bloomfield.

"We lost three three-set matches which could have swung the other way," Berschback said of the Pioneer match. Rhoades and Giraldo won impressively in No. 2 doubles to improve their record to 14-1. Victories by Power and Halso in first doubles and Rhoades and Giraldo in second doubles highlighted the West Bloomfield match for South, which is ranked fourth in the state.

Rob Hostetter, filling in at fourth singles, lost a tough three-setter.

Last week North beat sixth-ranked Grand Blanc 4-3 and moved up to seventh place in the Class A ratings.

The Norsemen swept the three doubles matches and Gregory won at third singles.

101 PRAYERS

THANKS St. Jude for favor received through Novena. W. & M.M.

PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

Holy Spirit, you, who make me see everything and who shows me the way to reach my ideal. You, who gives me the Divine Gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me and you who are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great the material desires may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones in your perpetual glory. Amen.

Thank you for your love towards me and my loved ones. Pray this prayer three consecutive days without asking your wish, after third day your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Then promise to publish this prayer as soon as your favor has been granted. Thank you for favors received. G.D.

THANK you St. Jude for granting my wish. M.L.P.

PRAYER TO ST. CLARE

Pray nine Hail Mary's once a day for nine days. On the 9th day, publish this Novena and 3 wishes will be granted. Even though you don't have faith, your prayers will be answered. G.D.

101 PRAYERS

NOVENA TO ST. JUDE

May the Sacred Heart of Jesus be adored, glorified, loved and preserved throughout the world, now and forever. Oh, Sacred Heart of Jesus, pray for us. Worker of miracles, pray for us. St. Jude, helper of the hopeless, pray for us.

Say this prayer 9 times a day. By the 8th day your prayer will be answered. It has never been known to fail, never. Publication must be promised. Thanks St. Jude for prayer answered. Special thanks to our Mother of Perpetual Help. J.S.

Art on the Pointe: It's only an artbeat away at nearby Ford estate

By Margie Reins Smith
Feature Editor

Art on the Pointe, a juried art fair held on the grounds of the Edsel & Eleanor Ford Estate, will mark its first decade by doing what it does best: presenting 170 artists (the most ever) from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, June 12 and 13, at its outdoor festival of art, entertainment, music and special events on the grass, beside Lake St. Clair.

The annual fundraiser is sponsored by the Assistance League for the Northeast Guidance Center. The 170-plus members of the Assistance League are anxious to top last year's attendance, which was close to 10,000 visitors.

The benefit usually raises about $50,000 for community mental health programs such as counseling and therapy, adult aftercare, special programs for schools, and support groups for children, adolescents, adults and senior citizens.

"The artists like this show because of the setting," said Betty Loehner of Grosse Pointe Woods, co-chairman of artists. "The grounds of the Ford estate are perfect for something like this — for the artists and the visitors."

"Artists get to sit on grass, by the water, not on hot pavement."

Many people don't know what a juried show is, said Beth Moran, co-chairman of artists. "Each artist who applies must submit three slides of individual work and one slide of his or her booth set-up."

The jury of three artists assesses entries and selects the best according to excellence and variety of media. Booths this year will feature paintings in oil and watercolor, pottery, photography, hand-crafted jewelry, sculpture, etchings, fiber arts, basketry and mixed media. Prices for art range from $3 to $3,000.

"There's even a maker of teddy bears," said Flo Kliber, publicity chairman. "She makes teddy bears from old fur coats. Other one-of-a-kind artists will be showing iron weathervanes, personalized cartoons, and lots of jewelry, watercolors and ceramics."

This year's three jurors sorted through 300 applications from artists who wanted to participate in this increasingly well-respected festival, Loehner said.

Jurors were T.R. Carbone, a potter who studied at the San Francisco Art Institute and Pewabic Pottery in Detroit and works in a home studio focusing on functional wheel-thrown pottery; Carol A. Sinclair, a watercolor artist and pen-and-ink illustrator who graduated from the Center for Creative Studies and is a member of the Grosse Pointe Artists Association, the Detroit Society of Women Painters, the Michigan Water Color Society and the Art Director's Club of Detroit; and Barbara S. Gruenwald, a graphic designer who attended the University of Connecticut School of Fine Arts and graduated from Eastern Michigan University with a bachelor of fine arts degree. She teaches art in the Grosse Pointe schools.

Awards will be presented to six artists judged as outstanding in the show.

Tours of the Edsel & Eleanor Ford house will be available both days of Art on the Pointe. The Cotswold style home was built in 1927 for Edsel and Eleanor Ford and their four children: Henry II, Benson, Josephine and William Clay. The home was designed by Albert Kahn and is one of the few mini-mansions left from the heyday of the automotive industry in the Detroit area. Tours of the Ford house begin at noon and leave every hour. They last 1 1/2 to 2 hours. The price is $4 for adults; $3 for senior citizens; $2 for children 12 and under.

"You can bring the whole family here and easily spend four or five hours," Loehner said. "The kids will be able to participate in craft projects, watch a magician and play games. You can sit by the water. You can tour the Ford house. You can browse around the artists' booths. It's a mentally healthy weekend."

There will also be clowns, face-painters, games with prizes and a raffle.

Food stalls will sell light luncheon fare, ice cream, lemonade, beer and wine.

General co-chairmen of the event are Kyle Clor, Kerry Smale and Therese Cardoze, all Grosse Pointe residents.

Geraldine Lacombe and Carla Palfy are in charge of the children's tent which will include craft and art projects for kids to try. The Olive Garden restaurants are sponsoring pasta art crafts for children.

Lacombe and Palfy said the children's tent has a twofold purpose: it fosters youngsters' creativity — and gives them something to do at the art fair while their parents cruise the booths.

Anne Graves and Alane Ross are in charge of the food concessions. Andrea Mattei is in charge of the beverage tent.

Diane DeForest, special events chairman, said the sounds of dulcimer music (which captured the interest of many who attended last year) will return to a special stage which will also include music played on the harp, pan pipe and flute.

Other committee chairmen are Charlotte Cislo, raffle; Ellen Cooke, parking coordinator; Flo Kliber, publicity; Lynn Panin, finance; Cathy Leverenz, corporate sponsors; Laurie Jensen, scheduling; Phyllis Schueller, T-shirts and memorabilia; Toni Stewart, awards; and Dorothy Filkin, secretary.

The Assistance League will hold a patron party, "The Dixie Riverboat Shuffle," on Saturday evening in the Activities Center of the Ford estate. The party will include supper, a live auction, casino games and music. Tickets are $45 a person. Reservations are limited. Call Jane Innes at 824-5641.

Hostesses of the patron party are Jane Vallee, JoVona Cisco and Mary Murray.

Admission to the art festival is $2 for the day; children under 10 are free. Parking will be available for a nominal fee, which will go to the Shorewood Kiwanis Club and the Northeast Guidance Center. For more information, call 824-5641.

St. John Hospital seeks donations of children's books

New or used children's books are needed for a project aimed at getting St. John Hospital pediatric patients hooked on reading. The books will be distributed free in waiting rooms at the Outpatient Pediatric Clinic in St. John Hospital and at the St. John Family Medical Center in St. Clair Shores.

"Helping improve literacy gives children a valuable head start in educational and social development," said Dr. Josephine Chen, a family practice resident. "Every time children come in for care, we hope to send them home with a book they can keep and enjoy."

Books for children up to age 8 are needed. Drop boxes are available in the lobbies of the hospital's main campus, 22101 Moross at Mack. For more information, call Chen at 777-2050.

Lyric Chamber Ensemble offers new summer music camp opportunity

The Lyric Chamber Ensemble's newest outreach project, "Summer Music Experiences," is a two-week summer music camp for youths 12-17 years old, scheduled for Aug. 9-20.

The camp will be held at the Tollgate Educational Center in Novi, and is open to students of woodwinds, brass, percussion, strings, and piano. Students will be provided the opportunity to expand their knowledge of chamber music, be inspired by one-on-one teaching by some of Detroit's finest professional musicians, and gain confidence in their performing skills.

The camp is being supported by Hudson's, Detroit Edison, Ford Motor Co., and the Michigan Council for Arts and Cultural Affairs.

The camp will include classes in music theory and history, jazz improvisation, private lessons, master classes, coachings, ensemble rehearsals and concerts by professional musicians. In addition, participants can hike over wooded trails and explore ponds on the lush grounds of Tollgate. Inner-city students will attend tuition-free and will receive free meals and busing.

Prominent musicians, athletes and community leaders will share their ideas with students about the role of discipline and motivation in learning an instrument. Speakers will include businessman Forest J. Farmer, currently president of Acustar and formerly a professional athlete and educator; and Leslie B. Dunner, associate conductor of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

Angela Thomas of Cass Tech High School is acting as director of the camp, with the assistance of Victoria Miller of Spain Middle School and Patricia Terry-Ross of Cass Tech.

Detroit composer Lettie Beckon-Alston, professor of theory and composition at Oakland University, will teach music theory classes. Instrumental teachers will come from area middle and high schools, and from the pool of professional musicians who perform regularly with the Lyric Chamber Ensemble, including members of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, the Michigan Opera Theatre Orchestra, the Detroit Chamber Winds and Golden Rain Percussion Ensemble.

Auditions will be held for suburban students on Saturday, June 5, at Hammell Music in Livonia, and for Detroit public school students on Friday, June 4, at Cass Technical High School and Spain Middle School. Students must register for an audition time.

For more information regarding auditions, contact the Lyric Chamber Ensemble at 357-1111.

Marygrove College offers 12th annual sacred music workshop

"The Perfect Communion: Children, Music and the Church" is the theme of the Marygrove College 12th Annual Sacred Music Workshop to be held Tuesday, June 15, through Thursday, June 17, from 9 to 3 p.m. on the campus, 8425 West McNichols at Wyoming.

The workshop, designed for persons presently working with young singers in church, school or community settings, will feature noted clinician Janeal Kneibiel, founder and director of the Lawrence Children's Choir.

Kneibiel has directed children's and junior high choirs at many camps and festivals and frequently holds seminars for directors throughout the United States. She has taught preschool through senior high school music and currently teaches grades 7-9 at South Junior High in the Lawrence public schools.

The three-day all-day workshop mixes lectures with demonstrations and lunch-time mini-recitals. Participants will have an opportunity to observe Kneibiel working with a demonstration choir during the sessions.

Cooking with grapes? A tasty treat

As the size of the California fresh grape crop has grown, farmers have added international marketing to their endeavors and the overseas marketplace has proved an unexpected boon to the California grape business.

Offshore export sales now total over seven million boxes a year, representing nearly 14 percent of the fresh grape crop.

Since 1984, exports to Taiwan have increased 320 percent; Great Britain, 1,868 percent; and New Zealand, 429 percent. On a per capita basis, consumers in Hong Kong eat more California table grapes than do consumers in the United States.

Why has the export market grown so quickly? The California grape crop nearly doubled during the last decade and domestic markets did not expand fast enough to absorb the added production.

With local markets satisfied, offshore markets were a logical place to turn. Shippers quickly expanded their overseas sales efforts, aggressively promoting grapes. Farmers adopted a more export-oriented attitude,

ELEGANT EATING

By Irene H. Burchard

adapted packaging to meet international demands and began to develop and grow varieties designed to satisfy foreign palates.

While once a single table grape variety commanded the lion's share of the export business, today's diverse crop makes grapes more popular to international markets.

Improvements in shipping and handling allow varieties to be in offshore markets soon after harvest, with California table grapes available around the world as early as May.

California grapes are picked ripe, fully sweet as they are clipped from the vine, and are packed by nature into neat, bite-sized portions for a convenient full-bodied snack.

Braised Chicken with Grapes

2 to 2-1/2 pounds cut-up chicken
1/4 to 1/2 cup flour

Salt and pepper to taste
3 to 4 T vegetable oil
1 clove garlic, crushed
1 medium onion, sliced
4 medium carrots, julienne
1/2 cup sliced mushrooms
1 T chopped parsley
1/8 to 1/4 t dry rosemary, crushed

1/2 cup each dry white wine and chicken broth
1 cup California seedless grapes

Cooked rice (optional)

Rinse and pat dry chicken pieces. Combine flour, salt and pepper, mix well. Dredge chicken in seasoned flour. Heat oil and garlic in heavy skillet. Remove garlic and brown chicken over medium heat on both sides (10 to 15 minutes total time). Remove chicken. Add onion and carrots and saute until carrots are crisp-tender. Add mushrooms, parsley, rosemary, wine, chicken broth and browned chicken. Cover and simmer 10 to 15 minutes or until chicken is cooked. Remove chicken and vegetables to serving platter; keep warm. Turn heat to high. Cook and stir liquid until reduced to 1/2 cup. Stir in grapes; heat thoroughly. Pour over chicken and vegetables. Serve over rice.

Grape and Shrimp Rice Salad

2 cups water
1 cup long-grain regular rice

1 t salt
1/2 cup vegetable oil
1/4 minced Bermuda or green onion
3 T lemon juice
1/2 t dried dill weed
1/4 t pepper
2 cups cooked shrimp
2 cups seedless California grapes

1 cup diced cucumber
1/2 cup mayonnaise
Crisp iceberg lettuce
Bring water to boil in 2-quart saucepan. Add rice and salt. Cover and simmer about 20 minutes or until rice is tender and liquid absorbed. Combine oil, onion, lemon juice, dill weed and pepper; toss lightly with hot rice. Refrigerate. Add shrimp, grapes, cucumber and mayonnaise to cold rice; toss lightly. Serve on crisp lettuce. Makes 6 servings. Variations: Cooked crab meat or fish may be substituted for shrimp.

Grape and Vegetable Sauté

3 cups thinly sliced carrots, zucchini, pea pods or celery
2 T water
1 cup seedless California grapes
1/2 t grated orange peel dash salt, pepper and ground nutmeg
2 T butter or margarine

1 T minced parsley
Place carrots in water in 1-1/2 to 2 quart microwave-safe dish. Microcook covered at high 7 to 8 minutes or until carrots are barely tender; stir once during cooking. Add remaining ingredients except butter and parsley; microcook at high 2 minutes or until grapes are thoroughly heated. Add butter and parsley, let stand 2 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

'Sleeping Beauty' leaps onstage May 27

One of the world's most popular and lavish ballets leaps from the pages of fairy tales to the stage of the Masonic Temple when Michigan Opera Theatre presents its premier production of Tchaikovsky's "The Sleeping Beauty."

Six performances are scheduled Thursday, May 27, through Sunday, May 30.

With direction and choreography by Detroit area ballet master Jacob Lascu, the production features four principal dancers from the internationally renowned National Ballet of Canada, including prima ballerina Karen Kain as Princess Aurora. Associate conductor of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra Leslie Dunner makes his company debut at the podium. Performances are sponsored by Hudson's.

Kain performs May 27 at 8 p.m. and May 30 at 2 p.m. Also featured in the production are Kimberly Glasco and Margaret Illman who alternate with Kain as Princess Aurora. Serge Lavoie, who made his MOT debut with Cynthia Gregory in "Swan Lake" (1990), returns for all performances except the student matinee as Prince Florimund.

Michigan state Sen. Jack Faxon will make a cameo appearance as the King and Margo Cohen dances the role of the Queen. Both Faxon and Cohen have appeared in the annual "Nutcracker" performances at the Fox Theatre.

First performed in 1890 at the Mariinsky Theatre in St. Petersburg, "The Sleeping Beauty" almost fell into obscurity because its enormous scope and opulence made it too costly to perform in most theaters of western Europe and America. Not until it was revived for the Sadler's Wells Company in 1939 with Margo Fonteyn as Aurora did the ballet in its entirety become standard fare for the West.

The opening night performance is preceded by a fairy tale fantasy party for the whole family in the Masonic Temple beginning at 6 p.m. For ticket information, call the MOT development department at 874-7850.

Tickets range from $12.50 to $63.50; children's tickets are $10 for any seat in the house with the purchase of two full-priced adult tickets (offer subject to availability). For ticket information and purchases, call the Michigan Opera Theatre box office at (313) 874-SING.

Audition Notices

Auditions will be held for tenor and alto positions with the Macomb Community College vocal ensemble.

Two openings are available for the 12-member adult show ensemble First Class. Auditioners between the ages of 22-32 should have previous experience in dancing and singing both classical and popular music.

Auditions will be held Tuesday, June 8. Call 286-2044 for an audition appointment.

Detroit Dance Collective open auditions will be held on Friday, June 11, from 10 a.m. to noon, in Room D206 at the Royal Oak Campus of Oakland Community College, located at Washington and Lincoln. Contracts will be offered for a 26-week season scheduled between Oct. 1, 1993, and May 31, 1994. Contracts include payment to DDC members for all rehearsals, performances and teaching duties. All dancers are independent contractors and are paid bi-weekly.

Dancers must be 18 or older, experienced performers, and trained in modern dance and ballet. Experience in teaching creative dance for children is helpful. Dancers who audition for this position must be available for all scheduled activities. Company classes and rehearsals are scheduled on Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Performing/teaching residencies in schools, extra rehearsals, and other DDC activities are scheduled during the day on Tuesday and Thursday.

Formal concerts, both day and evening, usually take place on the weekends. Tours are also scheduled and require the company to be away for several days at a time. A resume and professional letter of reference must be provided on date of audition. Call 544-5550 for information.

The West Bloomfield Youth Theatre will hold auditions for "Alice in Wonderland" from 4 to 8 p.m. Friday and Sunday June 4 and 6 at Church of Our Savior, 6655 Middlebelt, near Maple. Children age 5 to 18 are welcome. Registration is $30 for the first child in the family and $10 for every subsequent child. All auditioners should be prepared to sing. Performances are in July. Call 1-800-824-8314 for more information.

Vacation costs stable in 1993

Good news for travelers' pocketbooks — the average 1993 vacation cost for a family of four increased only 2.7 percent over last year — $5 more a day, according to AAA Michigan.

The suggested lodging and meal budget for a family of four — two adults and two children — is $188 a day, plus $9.20 per 100 miles for gas, oil, tires and maintenance.

The average daily cost for meals is $99, not including tips and cocktails. Food costs can be reduced by having the meal at midday, to take advantage of lower lunch prices at restaurants. An increasing number of restaurants offer children's menus and "early bird" dinner specials at reduced prices. Eating at fast-food restaurants and packing a picnic lunch also provide savings.

The average cost for lodging is $89 a night, based on rates charged by approved accommodations listed in AAA Tour-Books.

For a free copy of "Your Driving Costs," contact AAA Michigan at 336-1500.

First showing

Enjoy a dramatic weekend and we'll put the stage right at your doorstep. Take in all the excitement our theatre district offers and return to the comfort of a luxury suite. Just minutes from downtown Detroit events and showplaces like, the Fox and Gem Theatres, Masonic Temple, Detroit Symphony, Tigers and more. Packages start at $159. ## War Memorial plans Shaw Festival trip

Travel with the Grosse Pointe War Memorial to the Shaw Festival at Niagara-On-The-Lake, Ontario, and attend the Wednesday, July 7, evening performance of "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," one of the most captivating musicals ever written about the '20s.

Then, on Thursday, July 8, see "Saint Joan" by George Bernard Shaw at the Festival Theatre.

The trip is $305 a person double occupancy; with $100 single supplement. The price also includes two lunches, one dinner at the Prince of Wales Hotel, two nights' lodging at the Prince of Wales Hotel and round trip motorcoach to Niagara-On-The-Lake, Ontario.

Ninth annual Christ Church Antiques Show to be June 5-6

The Christ Church Antiques Show will begin with a preview party for patrons from 7 to 10 p.m. Friday, June 4. Partygoers (dubbed Archangels) will get first dibs on the wares of 44 dealers from 13 different states.

This year's preview, "Festa Italiana conVino, Antipasti e Musica," (translation: "Italian Festival with Wine, Antipasti and Music") will offer the sights, sounds and tastes of Siena, Italy.

Decorations will include authentic banners from Siena, which will be one of the stops on this year's three-week tour by the church's Boys' Choir, financed in part by the antiques show. Several Detroit charities will also benefit from the proceeds of the annual fundraiser.

"The show is designed to have something for everyone," said Wendy Jennings. Jennings and Susie McMillan of Antiques Network Inc. are show managers. "The price range assures that everyone can pick up that special little something for a graduation, wedding or birthday present."

Also part of the two-day event: a lecture by Steve Levine of Steve and Mimi Levine Inc., specialists in antique ceramics. The breakfast lecture, "Ceramics: Collecting for Fun and Profit," will begin at 9:30 a.m. Saturday. Levine will appraise up to three pieces for each of those who attend.

Hal McClane of H.P. McClane Antiques, a dealer in silver, American and English furniture from Darien, Conn., will give a guided tour of the dealers before the show opens at 10:30 a.m. on Sunday.

Representatives of Scribner, Jean Floral Co. will demonstrate floral European hand ties in the garden tent at 2 p.m. Saturday. Garden items for sale will include herb baskets, hanging flower baskets and statuary.

Show hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday; noon to 5 p.m. Sunday. General admission is $5. The Levine lecture and the McClane tour are $10 each,

Grand Prix Ball

The 11th annual Grand Prix Ball, a benefit for the Music Hall Center for the Performing Arts, will be Thursday, June 10, in the Renaissance Ballroom of the Westin Hotel. More than 1,000 guests are expected to attend the Music Hall's most important fundraiser of the year.

The historic Music Hall Center was built in 1928 and is a non-profit institution supported by individuals, corporations and foundations.

Bill Chapin, left, Henrietta Fridholm and Eric Dueske, all of Grosse Pointe, are involved with plans for the fundraiser, whose major sponsors also include Chrysler Corp., Detroit Diesel Corp., Ford Motor Co., ITT Automotive, PPG Industries, AlliedSignal, Philip Morris and Siemens Automotive.

Corporate tables for 10 are $3,000. Individual tickets are $300. Call the Music Hall at 963-7622 for information.

which includes admission to the show. Reservations are requested for the lecture and tour. Call 343-0529 or 885-4841.

Preview party tickets are available in advance or at the door. Archangels are $250, which includes 6:30 p.m. admission to the party and tickets to both days of the show, the lecture and the tour. Gold angels are $60, which includes everything except early admission to the party; and silver angels are $30, which is admission to the party only.

Golden gala: For the last 50 years, Vista Maria has helped troubled young women toward brighter futures. The private, not-for-profit, multi-service agency provides treatment, education and care for more than 500 girls from ages 11 to 17 and their families each year. Most of the girls have emotional and behavioral problems that result from abuse and neglect.

In honor of the 50-year milestone, Vista Maria will host a Golden Gala Celebration beginning at 6 p.m. Wednesday, June 2, at the Detroit Golf Club in Detroit.

Diana Lewis of WXYZ-TV will be the emcee. Three awards will be presented: the St. Mary Euphrasia Award to Richard F. Brennan; the Good Shepherd Award to Emmet and Frances Tracy of Grosse Pointe; and the Vista Maria Award to Dr. Marjorie Peebles-Meyers.

Grosse Pointers on the honorary committee include Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Agley, Dr. and Mrs. Donald Austin, and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Jaques.

Tickets are $75. Call Donna Biess at 271-3050, ext. 185.

Garden party: The St. Vincent and Sara Fisher Center will hold its sixth annual fundraiser to help abused and neglected children, "La Fete au Jardin," from 2 to 6 p.m. Sunday, June 6, on the grounds of the center, 27400 W. 12 Mile in Farmington Hills.

Proceeds will provide residential care and treatment for abused and neglected children.

The party will feature gourmet food from 55 of the area's best eateries, 100 wines from around the world, entertainment by jazz flutist Alexander Zonjic, and a wine auction.

On the honorary committee for the party are Grosse Pointers Dana Lozniskar, Marie Vanerian, Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Fisher III, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Nick and Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Tracy.

Tickets are $90. Call 626-7527.

Children welcome:

Opening night of the Sleeping Beauty ballet on Thursday, May 27, at the Masonic Temple will include some off-stage magic for children.

Michigan Opera Theatre will hold an alcohol-free fantasy party for the whole family before the performance.

Beginning at 6 p.m. in the Crystal Ballroom of the Masonic Temple, the event will feature soft drinks and hors d'oeuvres, a buffet dinner and a ballet demonstration by members of the Sleeping Beauty cast, the story of Sleeping Beauty read by a princess and a tour of the theater's backstage area to see dancers warming up and technical crewmembers preparing for the performance.

Members of the planning committee include Grosse Pointers Marilyn Connor, Gloria Clark and Mary Ann Van Elslander.

Children's tickets are $40 ($30 with previously purchased performance ticket); adult tickets are $100 ($80 with previously purchased performance ticket). For more information or to order tickets, call the MOT development department at 874-7850.

Cats beware: The Michigan Humane Society's annual Mutt March will be from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. Sunday, June 6, at the Edsel & Eleanor Ford Estate in Grosse Pointe Shores. It's held in memory of Laura Lee Greer, and proceeds will benefit thousands of homeless and injured animals sheltered by the Michigan Humane Society annually.

All ages of people and mutts are invited to participate in the five-mile march or a special one-mile stroll. Pets are invited, but must be vaccinated.

Human participants are encouraged to ask their friends to pledge a specific amount of money for each mile walked. Special T-shirts will be given to marchers who collect more than $100 in pledges.

Mutt March registration forms are available at Johnstone & Johnstone Realty, 82 Kercheval, and at the MHS' four locations.

Recognition: Grosse Pointers Virginia Lambrecht, Gwendy Lambrecht and Derrick StaRosa were recognized as outstanding volunteers at Rehabilitation Institute of Michigan's annual volunteer appreciation banquet.

Virginia Lambrecht of Grosse Pointe Shores became a Golden Club award recipient as a volunteer serving for more than 20 years. She was one of the founding members of the hospital's auxiliary and has been a board member for several years.

Gwendy Lambrecht of Grosse Pointe Farms was named Auxiliary Member of the Year for her involvement in the pet therapy program. She coordinates volunteers who bring puppies and kittens from the Michigan Humane Society for weekly visits with patients.

StaRosa of Grosse Pointe Park was one of five people recognized as a pacesetter volunteer for providing leadership and service to patients. StaRosa volunteers weekly, assisting with evening patient recreation programs.

For information on volunteering at Rehabilitation Institute of Michigan, call 745-9850.

The Pastor's Corner Prayers at graduation

Grosse Pointe Memorial Church

I did not plan for it to be this way. It just happens. I suppose it was inevitable. I seem to break a lot of stereotypes. I am a woman, and I am a pastor. I am young, having been born just before President Kennedy was assassinated, and I am a pastor. Breaking these stereotypes has become a regular part of my life.

But recently, I have found myself breaking another stereotype. I favor the removal of spoken prayers from graduation ceremonies, and I am a pastor. I have come across people who assume that, as a pastor, I would be offended or at least disheartened by decisions banning spoken prayers from graduation ceremonies. How could a person of the cloth oppose prayer at such a wonderful community event?

I believe that many Christians are struggling with how to be publicly Christian in a pluralistic world. This is an important part of the graduation prayer debate as well as other public debates.

For me as a Christian, the heart of the graduation prayer issue is one of justice and love. I believe it is unjust and unloving, as a Christian majority, to impose our faith expressions on those of other traditions during a public event.

The Golden Rule of Christianity, "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you," is a rule of love. How many Christians would support spoken prayer at graduation if the population were 95 percent Muslim and the prayer was addressed to Allah? Many Christians, if not most, would be very uncomfortable in such a situation. Our desire to include God in a graduation celebration causes us to ask our friends and classmates of other faith traditions, or no traditions at all, to accept being put in this uncomfortable position.

It is very important for young people of faith to find ways to acknowledge God and express gratitude at the time of graduation. At Grosse Pointe Memorial, we hold a banquet to honor our graduating seniors. This is a time of food, fellowship and prayer.

On Sunday, June 13 at 7 p.m., the Grosse Pointe Ministerial Association will host a Graduation Prayer Service at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church. This ecumenical service is for seniors and their families and friends who would like to worship God together as they mark this milestone. Young people from six congregations have planned this service from start to finish so that it will truly reflect their faith and commitment.

We must be creative in providing times and places for Christian worship around the time of graduation. But for the sake of love and justice, let us not choose the public schools' graduation ceremony for that purpose.

Honored

Graduating seniors to hold prayer service at local church

The Grosse Pointe Ministerial Association will host a graduation prayer service for all seniors graduating from Grosse Pointe high schools and their families, at 7 p.m. Sunday, June 13, at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church.

The service is being offered because prayer is not allowed at formal graduation ceremonies, said Amy Buckler of Grosse Pointe South High School, a member of the planning committee.

Others on the committee are Heather Dalby, Carrie Buhl and Ben Scrace, all of South; and Kristen Potter and Stephanie Liebold, both of Grosse Pointe North High School.

Committee chairmen are the Rev. Nancy Mikoski of Grosse Pointe Memorial Church and the Rev. Peter Wittstock.

Invitations have been mailed,

Buckler said, but anyone who didn't receive one is welcome. Reservations would be appreciated by June 1. Call 882-5330.

Most Holy Trinity to hold smelt fry

Most Holy Trinity Church's smelt fry will begin at 5 p.m. Tuesday, June 8, at Jacoby's bar, 624 Brush in Detroit. Proceeds help Holy Trinity provide for the people of the Corktown area in Detroit. Last year, the event raised $7,000.

Organizers of the fundraiser are Joe Hartmann, Ed Jacoby and Herb Levitt, all Grosse Pointers. The smelt is donated by Joe Muer's restaurant and the beer is donated by Stroh's, Miller's and Budweiser.

For tickets, call 882-2128.

HAVE A PLEASANT TRY AT PERFECTION BRIDGE BY WOODY BOYD

Some sweat blood and produce rubbish. Others with enthusiasm coupled with common sense create wonders. In bridge, these two latter attributes are of limited value if one isn't well trained.

In the past four years, I have had a marvelous opportunity to evaluate and compare suburban play surrounding Detroit. The west and northwest siders have we easterners beat and principally because they are better trained and disciplined.

As South Vulnerable

♠ A 10 7	N	E	S	W
♥ Q 4	1H	-	1NT	-
♦ 8	2C	-	3C	-
♣ K 10 9 8 7 3 2	3D	-	?	-

I'm rigid about responder never bidding a new suit at the two level without 10 H.C.P. When you therefore bid three clubs over partner's second suit, you're telling him you're on the top of your limit bid with a superb club fit. Otherwise you'd pass or return him to hearts. Three diamonds by North is an advanced cue bid. Obviously he's got a good hand and looking for more even though he knows your limit. Cooperation is required by you. I prefer four diamonds (second round control) to three spades as that cue bid can come later. North has a marvelous hand. 8 AK 10 9 8 AJ A Q 6 4. Your heart queen is a real bonus.

In a recent Southfield Pavilion game, two pairs found the grandy in clubs and nine more made the small slam in clubs out of eighteen tables.

As South Vulnerable

♠ AK 10 6 5	N	E	S	W
♥ J 7	1D	-	1S	-
♦ K Q 8 6	2C	-	?	-
♣ 10 5

This is an awkward hand to bid in this sequence. If three diamonds is forcing in your partnership style then bid it, but most play it invitational. If so, you have to create a forcing bid and the best at your disposal is two hearts. New suit at two level by responder is a total force. Max Hardy calls it fourth suit forcing. North has a modest, shaggy 13 H.C.P. J 8 7 Q 8 A J 10 9 2 K Q 9 8. Most pairs at the bridge connection found the spade game when North bid two spades over your last call, but it was a shaky contract; yet those who dropped the trump queen doubleton won ten.

As North No One Vulnerable

♥ K 9 5 4	1C	-	1H	2D
♦ 7 6 4 3 2	2S	-	3C	3D
♣ A 5 4	3S	-	?	-

You should now take strong preferential action. Your spade king and three clubs to the ace are magnificent cards. Bid five clubs. Partner must be 5116 or even 5206. North's hand gets you to a club slam. A Q J 9 6 Q J . . . . K J 10 9 8 6. Many in Troy's Friday night game were there, but only if you have confidence in partner and bid the hand correctly.

Battling bands: War Memorial show proves music lovers of a feather Floc together

By Jason Meisner
Special Writer

The second consecutive Battle of the Bands competition was held Sunday at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. The event, which resumed last summer after a six-year hiatus, is part of an effort to bring young people to the War Memorial.

It was sponsored by YES, the Youth Enrichment Society, a group of students which plans programming at the War Memorial that will interest youths in the community.

Featured in the contest were the local bands — Optimum Will (which did not compete) Delta Nine Connection, The Gnomes, Floc, Unseen Shadow, Ferly and The Product — with each allowed a 30-minute set to show the crowd their best stuff.

The music ranged from hard rock and heavy metal to rap and "grunge," and included original material as well as some popular Billboard hits.

The music, which began with the hard driving metal of Optimum Will, was enhanced by strobe lights, fog machines, and a wall of amplifiers.

The audience was relatively calm through the first three sets, but when Floc took the stage the crowd grew rowdier and many fans streamed down the aisles to slam dance in front of the stage. They quickly dispersed, however, following a plea from Justin Frahm, lead singer for Floc. "Please go back to your seats," he shouted between lyrics. "We wouldn't want to be disqualified, would we?"

Ferly, a band from Grosse Pointe South High School, came out for their set dressed for Halloween. One guitarist wore a Spiderman costume, the other was dressed as Superman, and the lead singer wore a wetsuit.

Another crowd favorite was The Gnomes, who did their own renditions of "Franklin's Tower" and "Fire on the Mountain" by the Grateful Dead. The long-haired, tie-dyed band was highlighted by an extra percussionist, who banged ferociously on a set of bongos.

The final band to perform, The Product, also hails from Grosse Pointe South. Dressed in GQ garb and Atlanta Braves hats, they belted out three raps, including one they wrote themselves.

Following the last performance, there was a 20-minute voting period in which the audience chose its favorite band. Grey, yet another local band, entertained while the ballots were counted.

After the break, Floc was declared the overall winner. As a prize, the band will receive a half-day of recording time with White Room Studio, voted best studio by the Detroit Metro Times Poll and the 1993 Motor City Music Awards.

Chuck Ruirok, a representative of YES, said the event was a great success.

"It was a tremendous experience in terms of the audience and the bands involved," he said. "We had more than 500 people show up."

It's hard to say whether there will be a Battle of the Bands III next year because most of the students in YES will have moved on to college. But Ruirok said with all the excitement generated, over last night's event, he's certain the event will be repeated.

'Yonkers' still packs a punch

By Marian Trainor
Special Writer

It's not often that a Pulitzer Prize-winning play comes to the screen with the same emotional impact as the stage presentation, but in "Lost in Yonkers," Neil Simon's poignant family comedy, it happens.

The film, with a screenplay also written by Simon, offers more latitude than the play. Added scenes give the viewer more insight into this sad-sweet story of domestic love and conflict.

Another change is an increase in the focus on Bella (Mercedes Ruehl), who won a Tony playing the part of a 35-year-old slightly retarded woman.

Jay (Brad Stoll) and Arty (Mike Damus) provide the shape of the story. They enliven it with their humorous observations of the goings-on in a household ruled by iron-fisted Grandma (Irene Worth), act as a catalyst for Bella's rebellion and as straight men for Uncle Louie (Richard Dreyfuss), a small-time gangster.

When the story begins, Jay and Arty are on their way to Yonkers to stay with Grandma while their father Eddie (Jack Laufer) goes on the road as a salesman to earn money to pay off the expenses of his late wife's illness.

The boys are not happy over the move. Grandma makes it plain that they are not welcome and their father is reluctant to leave them, fearing that this bitter, unhappy woman, who has so damaged her own children's lives, will wreak emotional havoc on her grandchildren. The "why" of her behavior is explained, but not condoned, by Uncle Louie, who tells the story of how she saw her husband killed in Nazi Germany and how, when she tried to save him, a horse stepped on her foot, mangling it.

It's ironic that such a sour woman should run a candy store where the boys work but don't dare touch, after being warned that Grandma knows if a grain of salt is missing from one of the pretzels.

Life becomes easier with the arrival of Uncle Louie, who sneaks in during the night to hide from thugs. Uncle Louie has a well developed sense of fun which he shares with the boys. "It's like having Jimmy Cagney move in," says Arty.

But the light of their lives is Bella, who fusses over them and confides her secrets about sneaking out to the movies where she meets Johnny (David Straithairn) who ushers there. Johnny is also retarded. Their romance is a sweet and delicate affair.

Worth, who won a Tony for her performance onstage, is outstanding as the steely Grandma. Dreyfuss gives an energetic and comic portrayal of the hyper Uncle Louie, and the boys are great, both when they are giving running comments on the action and maneuvering to outwit Grandma. Straithairn is credible as the confused Johnny who would like to lead a normal life but, unlike Bella, hasn't the courage.

But the star who shines the brightest is Ruehl. She lights up the screen whenever she appears. She may be flighty but she radiates joy and exuberance. Close-ups of her expressive face and shots showing her prancing down the street have the effect of sun breaking through clouds.

Stylish director Martha ("Rambling Rose") Coolidge's special flair for delineating character is once again noteworthy.

You won't want to miss this film. It's special.

Life is a cabaret

The Shoreline Concert Band will present big band medleys, music of Andrew Lloyd Weber, selections from Broadway musicals, marches and a sing-along at its Cabaret '93 Concert scheduled for 8 p.m. Friday, June 4, at the Shores Banquet Club, 24225 Harper in St. Clair Shores. # Country two-story plan has large master suite

By W.D. Farmer

The first floor of this plan includes a separate formal entrance foyer. The large great room to the left is shown with a bay window and a fireplace. It is separated from the formal dining room by a cased opening. The breakfast room is an extension of the modern kitchen that includes excellent cabinet space and counter top work surface. The deck is accessible from this area.

Storage space in the garage is provided for this no-basement plan as the foundation is for crawl space. A powder room is central for day-time use.

There are three bedrooms and an unfinished (or finish it if you prefer) bonus room on the second floor. The master bedroom suite is enhanced by a tray ceiling, walk in closet and a private bath with garden tub and separate shower. A central bath services the remaining two bedrooms. The second floor laundry area is centrally located in front of the open rail stair.

The country exterior is shown with a real wood rail front porch, horizontal and vertical wood siding, gable and shed roof combination and two separate garage door entries.

The plan is No. 2071. It includes 2,013 square feet of heated space. It is a computer generated plan. All W.D. Farmer plans include special construction details for energy efficiency and are drawn in accordance with FHA and VA requirements. For further information write W.D. Farmer, P.O. Box 450025, Atlanta, Ga. 30345.

Household Help by John Amantea

Not installing a new indoor evaporator coil when replacing a heat pump or central air conditioner can cost homeowners up to 15 percent more on their monthly electric bill, according to the Carrier Corporation.

Carrier warns homeowners that a central air conditioner or heat pump is a "split" two-part system which should be properly matched to ensure maximum energy savings and comfort.

"Homeowners need to be aware of the benefits of changing the indoor evaporator coil when replacing the outdoor unit," says Derrick Marris, senior director of residential products for Carrier Corp. "It's just like replacing your car's oil filter during an oil change — it may cost you more in the beginning, but you'll save in the long run."

In many cases, the contractor will not mention the indoor coil to the customer for fear of losing the job to a competitor.

"When comparing bids from different contractors, homeowners need to be sure they are comparing apples with apples," advises Marris. "By leaving an indoor coil that's presumably 15 to 20 years old in place, the homeowner and the utility are being cheated out of energy savings, sometimes by as much as 15 percent."

Marris added that consumers need to be concerned about replacing the evaporator coil in central air conditioning systems only, and not small, single-cabinet room air conditioners that are typically installed in windows.

Carrier's studies show that when a typical central air conditioner of today, with a Seasonal Energy Efficiency Ratio (SEER) of 10.0, the minimum according to Department of Energy standards, is combined with a 15-year-old indoor coil, there is a five percent drop in capacity, and 11 percent loss in efficiency, and a 20 percent increase in compression ratio, which could lead to premature compressor failure.

The study compared two clean, identical units, one with a matched indoor evaporator coil, the other with an older indoor coil typical of those manufactured in the 1970s. The older coil was devoid of the dirt and grime that would be found on a normal coil that had been operating for 15 years, factors that are sure to lessen capacity, efficiency and durability even more.

Today, virtually all indoor coils are rated for efficiency by the Air Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute (ARI), and can be relied upon to work in tandem with the outdoor unit.

"Changing the indoor coil increases the upfront cost of replacing a system," says Marris, "but when you consider the total effect of the gains in energy savings, comfort and reliability, a homeowner simply cannot afford to change both halves of the system."

Soup's on!

The covered soup tureen probably originated with the formal table service of the Middle Ages. By the early 18th century, it was proper to serve the soup in a large covered tureen that was placed on the table. The kitchen was often far from the dining room, and a covered bowl of soup retained the heat. The round tureen was usually used for stew, and in those early days, the oval tureen was for soup.

The very rich used tureens made of silver. They often had small feet, a decorated body and a lid with an elaborate knob. Porcelain tureens were made in similar shapes by most of the major factories. The soup tureen remained popular through Victorian times and into the early 20th century. When servants became scarce and the kitchen was moved near the dining room, the tureen became less useful. A set of dishes today rarely includes one.

Q. My son just gave me an electric glass coffee maker with a glass container for the ground coffee. It is marked "Coleman Lamp and Stove Company, Electric Brew." It looks very old, but we have not been able to learn the history.

A. We spoke to the Coleman Company, and their historian solved your mystery. Coleman first made electric percolators in 1931. Your Model 70 Electric Brew was made in 1934, the last of the glass-bowl coffee makers. It sold originally for the then-high price of $9.90. This was one of the early automatic pots that "stopped the pumping when the coffee is done." If you plan to use the pot, be sure the rubber gasket is still pliable enough to avoid leakage. The original silk-wrapped electric cord may not be as safe as a new cord.

Q. Our school just rediscovered a large plaster statue of "Winged Victory" that evidently was kept in the hall at the school over 60 years ago. It is marked "P.P. Caproni & Bro." Should the school give it to the trash man, or could we sell it?

A. Perhaps you should consider keeping the statue at the school as an example of the older ways of teaching. The life-sized reproductions of Greek and Roman statues and architectural parts were popular decorations in many schools in the 1920s and 1930s.

"Winged Victory" or "Nike of Samothrace" is an ancient stone carving discovered in 1863. A plaster cast like yours would have cost about $300 from P.P. Caproni & Bro. It was a Boston firm that made many of the figures in the 1920s. The plaster replicas were usually gifts from graduating classes. There is a demand for these old figures. You should be able to sell it for about $500.

Color Wizard: How to blend colors in existing homes

This week's column is in response to a letter from Mildred of St. Clair Shores.

Congratulations on your new home!

Your question of how to blend your colors with the existing home colors is one that faces every new homeowner. There are two answers: work around them or start from scratch. But how?

Considering your color preferences, budget and time constraints, here are some basic guidelines that may help you with some decisions. Good luck and keep in touch!

Wisdom: Always begin with an overall home color plan whether you are making changes now or next year. Create a "color blueprint" now and build on it. You can't cut corners when it comes to color. This is what adds beauty as well as value to your investment.

If you have to live with a color you dislike, blend it with neutrals and slowly bring in your new colors as your plan allows. If you are starting from scratch or would like to add to the existing colors, the "Wizard" suggests that you look into your crystal ball and "see" your dream home complete. Find a ready-made color combination that makes you comfortable.

You may find it in a piece of fabric, a vase, your favorite scarf, a plaid shirt, tie or even a poster or a painting. Like magic, this becomes your guide for an overall home and room color scheme. The designer or artist has already done the work for you by blending the right colors. All you have to do is follow these easy steps.

1. Match the colors in your scheme to paint color strips and glue them into a folder to begin building a color file. You will be using them in tints and shades with patterns and textures.

2. The largest area of a room is the walls. Paint them the lightest of the colors in your "found scheme."

3. Select the carpeting color next from the next darkest color on a deeper shade of the walls.

4. Your furniture and window coverings can be the next darkest color in solids, and or patterns and textures of all the colors or, finally, the fabric you are using as your guide.

5. The next darkest color can be used for your accents, such as throw pillows, lampshades or small pieces of furniture.

6. Accessorize with pictures and floral arrangements including any of the colors.

The "uncolors," as I call them, such as black, grey, white, and brown in various tints and shades,

Virginia Ficarra
The Color Wizard

are good "anchors" for any room scheme. Wooden furniture and hardwood floors do this naturally. Brass, pewter, and silver are also welcome.

Tips and tricks

Let one color dominate in each room and use the others in lesser amounts for stability and balance. This is especially true when using an all-neutral color scheme.

To unify a home repeat colors from room to room. For variety, reverse the dominate color in one room to a secondary position in the next, and only an accent in the third.

A smaller home appears larger when the wood trim, floor coverings or walls are the same color throughout. Remember light colors visually increase space and dark colors can decrease it.

When shopping for color, take along your color folder for matching.

Virginia Ficarra is a home-color specialist with Smart Home Moves, a do-it-yourself home-color service that does not sell products or materials — just good advice to color your home inside and out.

A designer for more than 20 years, she is the author of "The Color Wizard: Tips, Tonics and Tricks," a simple, user-friendly handbook chock full of "wizards" for every home. It will be available in August.

The response to the first column was overwhelming. When writing, include as much information as possible. Send letters to: The Color Wizard, P.O. Box 104, St. Clair Shores, Mich. 48080.

Realtors face challenges in 90s

An aging baby boom generation, a growing number of singles and minorities in search of suitable housing and a shortage of affordable homes will create a series of challenges and opportunities for real estate professionals throughout the 90s, economist Anthony Downs told Realtors at a residential symposium recently.

"A big challenge for Realtors in the coming years will be finding buyers for the homes of trade-up sellers," said Downs, a senior fellow at the Brookings Institute.

Many potential first-time buyers will come from minority groups in this decade, and Realtors should channel their marketing efforts toward these people, he said.

"You need the patronage of minority households," he advised.

Downs also told Realtors at the session, which focused on economic issues and trends for residential real estate professionals, that singles and one-parent families, are likely to represent a larger percentage of potential home buyers over the next decade.

Additionally, Downs challenged Realtors to take initiatives in their communities to improve public schools in order to make the housing markets there more desirable.

"We need drastic reform in our public schools if we are to attract new residents," Downs said.

On the issue of affordable housing, Downs predicted that pressures for deficit reduction and slower growth in personal incomes will decrease the availability of subsidized housing.

"To expand the number of households who can buy or rent homes in your markets, you need to make it possible for developers to build lower-cost units — often multifamily units. This is vital to provide housing for many of the workers that your own community cannot live without," Downs said. "As Realtors, you should work with your state associations to pressure state lawmakers for actions that will force local governments to reduce the costs of developing affordable housing."

Although many current home owners will choose to upgrade and remodel their homes, rather than move up to bigger, more expensive ones, Downs told Realtors they could meet the challenge by keeping up with the demographic and economic trends at work in the marketplace.

National Association of Realtors chief economist John Tuccillo, who also addressed the symposium, said Realtors should expect mortgage interest rates to continue sliding downward over the next year. With 30-year, fixed-rate mortgage rates averaging 7.75 percent now, he said they should be about 7 percent by year-end.

Mint: A natural to repel what bugs you

Now that the picnic-and-cookout season is approaching, we should perhaps give some thought to discouraging those uninvited guests which persist in attending these functions — flies and mosquitos.

There are lots of commercial insecticides, of course, but a more environmentally friendly and nicer way is by the use of insect repellent plants.

There are a number of them, and every serious gardener knows how to plant them in vegetable gardens and near rose bushes to protect the plants he is nurturing. But two of the most effective ones for picnic purposes are citronella and mint.

Citronella is a hybrid plant that exudes citronella, a natural, lemony scent which people like and insects don't. It's completely safe and harmless and the bigger the plant grows the more citronella it exudes. A citronella bush can grow to 4 feet high and a bush that big would repel insects up to 100 feet away.

Mint can be a mixed blessing. Sometimes we become so exasperated at the way mint tends to take over our gardens that we threaten

Garden Shed

By Ellen Probert

to do away with it entirely. In actuality, we seldom do, because mint has so many uses and the scent is so refreshing on a hot summer day.

Herbals are filled with references to the virtues of mint. Chaucer speaks of it in several instances and Gerard, in his famous "Herbal," writes, "the smelle rejoiceth the heart of man, for which cause they strew it in rooms and chambers ... it quieteth mad dogs ... they lay it on the stings of wasps ... the smelle of Mint doth stir up the mind and the taste." It also repels insects.

Mint is an ancient species and is mentioned many times in the Bible. It originated in Egypt and Israel. It was once a biblical tithe and St. Matthew writes, "Woe unto you ... for ye pay tithe of mint and omit weightier matters of the law."

In ancient times, mint was a major ingredient in medicines and perfumes, and to this day it is used in the Near East as a condiment, in salads, and for flavorings and medicines, just as it was in ancient Greece and Rome. Mint has been used as a "strewing herb" for centuries, and considered to clear the head and soothe the senses.

The generic name, mentha, was applied first by Theophrastus, a Greek philosopher-scientist and herbalist who succeeded Aristotle as head of the Lyceum in 322 B.C. In mythology, mintha was a nymph of great beauty who was loved by Pluto, god of the underworld. Persephone became jealous of Pluto's infatuation and changed the nymph into the fragrant but lowly mint. Since that day, mint has been grown in the shady areas of Pluto's world.

Because mint repels flies and mosquitos it is often used for bouquets on sidewalk cafe tables in many European cities, and no doubt this was why it was popular as a strewing herb in the Middle Ages. We might learn from this and add a centerpiece of mint to our picnic tables.

In ancient times, hostesses rubbed the tables with mint before the guests arrived for a dinner party, and in India, as it has been done for centuries, bunches of mint are hung in archways and doorways where a breeze will release the scent and send it through the house.

There are many varieties of mint, all of them fragrant and useful in salads, summertime drinks, potpourris, sauces and bouquets.

They range in size from Bowles mint, which grows to six feet high, to mentha requienii, the smallest, whose leaves are the size of the numerals on a postage stamp and whose flowers are the size of the head of a pin.

In astrology, mint is the plant dedicated to Jupiter, and in the language of flowers it signifies violent love, and consolation.

Mints are included in the fragrant and interesting array of plants in most herb gardens. Basic herbs for a beginning garden might include basil, thyme, chives, savory and parsley, all of which like full sun. Rue, sweet cicely and most of the mints like shade. Sage is easy to grow. All of these will spread, so don't plant them too close together.

Realtors in the News

Beline LaHood Obeid, a Realtor with The Prudential Grosse Pointe Real Estate Co., has been awarded the certified residential specialist (CRS) designation by the Residential Sales Council of the Realtors National Marketing Institute, an affiliate of the National Association of Realtors.

Those receiving the CRS designation must complete the required courses offered by the Residential Sales Council and must demonstrate specific expertise in applied real estate marketing. Less than 2 percent of all Realtors hold this designation.

Obeid is a member of the Grosse Pointe Board of Realtors. She is a resident of Grosse Pointe Woods, a member of the board of directors of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial and the Exchange Club of Grosse Pointe/St. Clair Shores and is involved in many local civic organizations.

Married and the mother of four children, Obeid joined The Prudential Grosse Pointe Real Estate Co. in 1989 and has consistently ranked among the company's top producers.

Four members of Johnstone &

Johnstone Inc., Realtors were awarded the certified residential specialist (CRS) designation at the annual meeting of the Residential Sales Council held recently in New Orleans.

This raises to 13 the number of salespeople at the company who have earned this designation.

Those receiving the designation are Ann Chapelle, Pam Gladstone and June Kinney, all with the company's Hill office, and Kristina Ziebron with the Grosse Pointe Woods office.

Walking Tour of New Center Historic District set

On Saturday, June 5, the New Center Community Council will present a Walking Tour of the New Center Historic District. The tour features both interiors and exteriors of one of Detroit's most unique residential areas.

These homes, built between 1890 and 1920, represent the diversity of architectural styles of the period. Also featured is the art deco lobby of a 1920s apartment house and the stately elegance of the English gothic style Metropolitan United Methodist Church.

Tours leave every 15 minutes during the hours of 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. from Metropolitan United Methodist Church, 8000 Woodward Ave. (four blocks north of West Grand Boulevard). Tickets will be available at the church for $10, or may be ordered in advance for $8 by phoning 972-1398.

The first homes in this north Woodward area were constructed in the 1890s, shortly after developers subdivided the farmland. A number of prominent Detroiters were involved in the real estate speculation, including J.L. Hudson, William Burroughs and Harry Van Husan.

As individuals purchased lots and retained their own architects, the neighborhood acquired its diversity of styles, evident even though homeowners were required to build from brick or stone with a minimum expenditure of $5,000. These rules helped create a prestigious community in what was then the city outskirts.

By 1925 the city had grown north around the neighborhood, bringing both additional residences and businesses up along the bustling thoroughfare of Woodward Avenue, changing the quiet bucolic tenor of the area. These new businesses included the John Ivory Warehouse just south of Seward Street, which was used for storage by bootleggers during Prohibition. Nearby, large art deco influenced apartment houses rose up, attracting such clients as Bing Crosby, Blaze Starr and members of the Purple Gang.

While the New Center community did not develop into a large upper-class enclave like the Grosse Pointes or the nearby Boston Edison District, it did remain one of the most prestigious addresses in the city well into the 1950s and 1960s. That time period saw the decline of the area as some of these large homes were turned into boarding homes and foster care facilities. Like much of Detroit, the area suffered a loss of many of its affluent residents.

In 1979, General Motors began an ambitious restoration of this neighborhood, which is directly north of its world headquarters. Many of the homes were completely restored, encouraging individual restorations by private homeowners.

PARTY DOWN... HYDRO-STYLE

Detroit
APBA Budweiser
GOLD CUP

As of press time, there are at least four area nightclub parties on the race week schedule. Get ready to put on the dancing shoes and share the Gold Cup fun at these area hot spots:

PLAYER'S
Wednesday, June 2, 8 p.m.—The finest in gentlemen's entertainment will be the setting for this one-of-a-kind race party. Expect to see a favorite hydro display boat along with Detroit radio celebs. Their address is 13710 East Eight Mile Road, Detroit. Phone: (313) 371-6970.

CJ. BARRYMORE'S

C. J. BARRYMORE'S
Saturday, June 5, 8 p.m.—While C. J.'s popular eastside spot is undergoing a club renovation, owners plan to host a "Great Outdoor Thunderbash" on the outside deck. You'll enjoy drink specials, great music and hydro-talk. The club is located at 21750 Hall Road, Clinton Township, 3 miles east of Lakeside Mall. Phone: (313) 463-4768.

RACE ROCK MOTOR CITY DINER
Thursday, June 3, 8 p.m.—Co-sponsored with the Winston-Eagle Race team, this party will be the place to "see and be seen" with drivers, owners and team groupies. Great food, music and give-aways will kick off the race weekend... hydro-style. Located at 34901 Groesbeck at 15 Mile Road. Phone: (313) 792-RACE.

RIVER ROCK

RIVER ROCK
Thursday, June 3, 8 p.m.—Downtown revelers can enjoy great "live" music and thundering drink specials at this multi-decked Rivertown spot. Ticket give-aways and radio promotions will create a lively rock 'n' roll night. They're located at 673 Franklin, just off E. Jefferson, one block east of the RenCen. (313) 259-6676.

Winston Eagle

Hydro-fans know the best way to have a great evening is to "Know When to Say When." Please designate a sober driver, if you plan to drink.

For the second year, Gary Marowske, vice president of Flame Furnace Company, will be presenting this year's hottest trophy to the fastest unlimited qualifier at the Detroit Budweiser APBA Gold Cup. Last year's winner — Miss Budweiser's Chip Hanauer — was clocked at an amazing qualifying speed of 168.937 mph. Qualifying laps are scheduled for Thursday and Friday, June 4 & 5. Flame Furnace has been keeping homes and businesses comfortable since 1949.

DETROIT.. GOLD CUP CITY!

APBA Detroit Budweiser GOLD CUP

Exciting news was broadcast throughout the Detroit area in January when Mayor Coleman A. Young announced that Detroit had been named the permanent home of the Detroit Budweiser APBA Gold Cup, the most prestigious event in all of powerboat racing.

Both the Board of Directors of the American Powerboat Association (APBA) and the Unlimited Racing Commission (URC) ratified Detroit's new status.

"Seating the Gold Cup event in Detroit is indeed a special honor for the people of the City of Detroit," commented Mayor Young. "It is a designation that recognizes the significant and leading role that our city has played in this exciting sport for over 70 years."

Since 1904, the Gold Cup has been hosted by the City of Detroit 28 times, far more than any other competing city on the circuit. For the last three years, Thunderfest — the all-volunteer organization that stages the annual Detroit hydroplane race — had been petitioning the APBA & the URC to seat the Gold Cup event in Detroit, in recognition of this city's rich history with the Cup and its commitment to the preservation of the sport of hydroplane racing.

"Detroit is Gold Cup City", commented Jim Garza, chairman of the board of Thunderfest. "It is the unique and exceptional support of the City of Detroit and its people that has enabled Detroit to receive this great honor."

Detroit-area sponsors also provided significant support to this effort. "No other corporation has provided more support to seating the Gold Cup in Detroit than Anheuser Busch," continued Garza.

"Budweiser's contribution to this sport and our community has been exceptional." Detroit Gold Cup sponsors also include Elias Brothers Restaurants, RJ Reynolds, the Tri-County Pontiac Dealers, the Detroit Newspaper Agency and WLLZ Radio.

"It is the Kentucky Derby of hydroplane racing," commented Steve David, senior vice president of the APBA and driver of the T-Plus unlimited hydroplane. "This is the most important race on the entire circuit. This is the race you dream about winning."

The 1993 Detroit Budweiser APBA Gold Cup will be held June 3 - 6. For further ticket or event information, please

98.7 WLLZ ROCKS THE BOAT AS OFFICIAL GOLD CUP RADIO STATION

Detroit's Only "ROCK & SPORTS" RADIO STATION, 98.7 WLLZ, has been named the official radio station of the '93 Detroit Budweiser APBA Gold Cup. WLLZ will broadcast powerboat racing's "superbowl" live from the shores of the Detroit River all race week.

On June 6, Henderson Park off E. Jefferson will be transformed into the WLLZ ROCK & SPORTS PARK, bringing spectators great viewing and on-land fun at the Detroit APBA Gold Cup.

"We are convinced that the station will provide an innovative and cutting-edge approach to broadcasting the Gold Cup."

reported Tavi Fulkerson, the Spirit of Detroit Association's Public Relations Director. "It's an exciting match."

WLLZ participation will go beyond broadcasting the race itself. It will be transforming the event's largest spectator area, Henderson Park, into "WLLZ ROCK & SPORTS PARK" on race days for the fans of hydroplane racing and listeners of 98.7 WLLZ. It has also arranged for $1 of each walk-up ticket sold at the gate to "WLLZ ROCK & SPORTS PARK" to be donated to The Beaumont Hospital Children's Miracle Network fund.

"WLLZ ROCK & SPORTS PARK" offers perfect viewing of the race course, grandstand seating and beach and lawn seating. Expect to see some energetic and lively activity in WLLZ PARK on race day. Free tickets will be offered to 98.7 listeners.

WLLZ will bring racing fans the latest skinny from Hydroplane racing drivers, owners and crews. For highlights and insight on the final results of the BIG BOY GRAND PRIX HYDRO CHAMPIONSHIP and DETROIT BUDWEISER APBA GOLD CUP be sure to listen on race weekend to 98.7.

And stay tuned from now to race week to hear more of what's in store for the fans in "WLLZ ROCK & SPORTS PARK" and how to win tickets.

ELIAS BROTHERS & GRAND PRIX HYDROS...

A WINNING 'BIG BOY' COMBINATION!

This year marks the beginning of Elias Brothers Big Boy Restaurants serving as the proud sponsor of a class of hydroplane races named in its honor — the Big Boy Grand Prix Hydroplane Championship held in conjunction with the annual 1993 Detroit Budweiser APBA Gold Cup, June 3-6 on the Detroit River.

"We are honored to be a sponsor of one of Detroit's favorite hometown sports, hydroplane races on the Detroit River," said Tony Michaels, vice president of marketing for Elias Brothers Restaurants, Inc.

"We are equally proud to have a championship race named after our restaurants. After all, Elias Brothers Big Boy Restaurants and the Budweiser APBA Gold Cup are both hometown favorites."

Elias Brothers Big Boy Restaurants has been involved with the Budweiser APBA Gold Cup since 1986, serving as the exclusive concessionaire of food, beverages and souvenirs. Based in Warren, Elias Brothers Restaurants is the exclusive worldwide franchisor of 925 Big Boy restaurants in the United States, Canada and Japan.

"Headquartered in metropolitan Detroit, and one of the world's largest restaurant systems," Michaels added, "Big Boy Restaurants is a major Detroit booster. Every year we participate in a host of family entertainment and sporting events."

In addition to the Budweiser APBA Gold Cup, Elias Brothers Restaurants also is concessionaire for such other well-known Detroit-area events as the LPGA Oldsmobile Classic in Lansing, June 3-6; ITT Detroit Grand Prix, June 11-13; Michigan International Speedway in Brooklyn, June - August; the PGA Buick Open in Grand Blanc, August 2-8; and the Miller Lite Montreux Detroit Jazz Festival, September 2-8. Elias Brothers Restaurants, Inc. is also the exclusive concessionaire at the Silverdome and operates the stadium's Main Event Restaurant.

ON COURSE WITH THE GRAND PRIX:

Up to 18 Grand Prix boats are expected to compete for the Big Boy Grand Prix Hydroplane Championship. The championship final will begin at 11 a.m. on Sunday, June 6. More than 500,000 fans are expected to attend the four-day Budweiser APBA Gold Cup event.

Hometown fans can cheer on last year's Grand Prix champion Jimmy King of New Baltimore. King is rushing to finish a new boat to defend his championship.

King will be challenged by a formidable cast of competitors from the United States and Canada.

Summit Auto Parts, piloted by Tom Baker, will be a strong contender. Rookies Mike Weber of Grand Blanc and Ted Dudley of Southfield will enjoy their first Grand Prix hydroplane race on the Detroit River this year.

The defending national Grand Prix championship boat, The Edge, will be driven by Frank Richardson who replaces the retiring Bo Schide.

Elias Brothers Big Boy Restaurants is the sponsor of the Big Boy Grand Prix Hydroplane Championship this year at the Budweiser APBA Gold Cup, June 3 - 6. Big Boy himself will be on hand to present the winner with a trophy. The boat pictured will be driven by Mike Weber, owner Huey Newport.

A strong contingent of Canadian entrants is expected, including GP-929, piloted by Jean Theoret, and Export A, driven by Jeff Richards.

Elias Brothers Big Boy Restaurants wishes all the Grand Prix racers the best of luck and Big Boy himself will be waiting at the finish line on Sunday, June 6, to congratulate the winner.

Local Charities Share in BIG BOY Concession Profits at the Budweiser APBA Gold Cup

The concession stands at this year's Budweiser APBA Gold Cup on the Detroit River, June 3-6, will do more than provide food, drinks and souvenirs for the hundreds of thousands of fans in attendance. A percentage of the concession sales will go to several metropolitan Detroit charities.

Volunteers will work in the concession stands, which are operated by Elias Brothers Big Boy Restaurants, to raise funds for their groups or charities. In fact, more than 60 organizations raise funds by working in Big Boy concession stands at other popular Detroit-area events. These organizations include Scout groups, churches, hospitals and clubs.

Tony Michaels, vice president of marketing for Elias Brothers Restaurants, Inc., said volunteer groups began raising funds through Big Boy concessions in the mid-1970s.

Marty Heide, president of the Armada Men's Club, said his group began working concessions at the Silverdome in 1976.

The club also works at the Budweiser APBA Gold Cup, the ITT Detroit Grand Prix and the PGA Buick Open.

"We raise between $15,000 and $20,000 a year through concessions," said Heide. "The money is used by local booster clubs to purchase athletic and band equipment for school children." Heide said selling concessions is a fun way to raise money because of the excitement of the events.

Sharing in concessions' profits with local organizations is one of the ways Elias Brothers Restaurants demonstrates its commitment to the various communities it serves.

On June 3, Detroit Gold Cup opening day '93, at the corner of Hot Pit Row and Roostertail Lane, and the top of the Dodge Pit Building, you'll find two brand new flashing neon "GRAND OPENING" signs. There will be a couple of sets of upholstered grandstands out there, bedecked with people who set styles and stay a step ahead of the rest of the world. They'll be sipping brew, bubbling vino and noshing on lunch catered by Big Boy as the Big Boats roar by. What they will tell you is that the old question as to which is the best neighborhood on the course with the best view has finally been settled. It is the all new . . .

RAVE WAVE PARTY—THE LATEST BUZZ

AND the rumor is true!

There really is a THUNDERFEST spectator viewing area that looks surprisingly like any business district watering hole on Friday at 5 p.m. — or like any student hangout, in any burg, at 3 p.m. on weekdays — except of course, for the amount of skin that's showing.

What started out in the 80's as a small group of young fans — backed up by a DJ with a great hard rock collection — has grown into a "Rock Concert with Boats" designed to attract the pierced and fringed crowd from all across Detroit Metroplex.

"Although it's worth my head on a tray to say so, I think Owens Park is the place to be on race day," said spectator services chairman Eilene Hamel. "It's the hottest, coolest spot on the course — a classic catch of freshness."

That is, it's the place to be if you're one of the "ready for anything" crowd — or even think you are — and are not too fainthearted to watch 12 tons of raucous Thunderboats simultaneously trying to hurdle the treacherous "Whittier Hole."

The place to meet and greet, where "anything goes race week" is RAVE WAVE PARK (Owen Park), just east of the Belle Isle Bridge, off E. Jefferson. Tickets are $20 at the gate.

There's none of that old "down time" stuff in Owens Park either; what with the rockin' music, volleyball tournaments and frisbie tossing. Hey, all that people watching alone is enough to keep any 16 to 36 year old worth his stock in hormones busy. (Is that Elvis or John Kennedy in the torn jeans and "RAVE WAVE" T-shirt?)

So, if you can handle the ticket price of $15 in advance or $20 at the gate, try a little RAVE WAVE PARK this year. Wear your wildest! (And who says grunge is out?) Have lunch at the Big Boy concession stands or "bring your own," and don't forget the . . .um...baked goods. (It's a joke, man!) Do check out the hot new souvenirs. Enjoy the scads of easy-in/easy-out on-site parking and no ticket lines. (Owens Park is limited to 1,500 hard bodies.)

'Hope to catch you at the RAVE WAVE PARTY June 6. And, just maybe, if that other rumor is also true — the one that says there's going to be a wedding in Owens Park between the roar of the heats on race day — you'll be the one to catch the spray.

GOLD CUP EXPLOSION!

THE 1993 UNLIMITED LINEUP

Now that Detroit has been named the permanent home of the Budweiser APBA Gold Cup, 1993 is shaping up to be a special year for the City and its favorite thunderboat race. A fleet of at least 10 unlimited hydroplanes are expected to arrive in the Horace E. Dodge Memorial Pits for Detroit's 78th powerboat regatta, June 3 - 6.

● Spectators can expect to see defending champion Chip Hanauer driving the Miss Budweiser as well as 1991 Gold Cup champion Mark Tate piloting the Winston Eagle. Strong showings are expected from the new 1993 entrant, Miss Circus Circus, and the returning Miss Tide. For the 30th consecutive year, the all-volunteer Spirit of Detroit Thunderfest organization will be staging and hosting this dramatic event, the most exciting race in powerboating.
