War Memorial loses court fight to expand to 40 Lakeshore

The lakefront home the Grosse Pointe War Memorial purchased three years ago for $1.3 million cannot be used for a community center, the state court of appeals ruled last

A unanimous decision by the court of Appeals upheld a Wayne County Circuit Court ruling on July 29 preventing dating back to 1941, should the War Memorial from exstand.

Woods names new city administrator, but doubts linger

After heated discussion, the Woods City Council voted 5-2 Monday night to appoint the deputy director of public safety Inspector Peter Thomas to the position of city administrator.

Councilmembers Thomas Fahrner and Peter Gilezan opposed the appointment on the grounds that the city should have used an executive search firm to find a replacement for Phil Belcher. Belcher was appointed from within the city government, and that did not work out, said Farhner.

"In good conscience, I can't support this appointment," Farhner said. "Pete has worked for the city for 34 years. I think he would have to resign from the public safety department. He will get a pension at the same time he will be getting a paycheck as administrator.

"If in six months, it is felt that Pete is not working out, I guarantee that we couldn't find four councilmembers who would vote to fire him. He's popular. If an executive search firm were called in, I would feel more comfortable about the whole thing, and I think Pete would too."(Thomas did not attend the meeting.)

"I feel I must vote against this appointment," said Gilezan. "I am a team player, and will give Pete my support, but look at the Belcher situation. I made the motion, and the council supported that motion, that we hire the best damn recruitment service we could find.

"I have grave concerns as a councilmember and as a citizen about this. Last time we went without an executive search, and a mistake was made. Let's not repeat it. We need the best talent to run the city efficiently, and we haven't looked for it. Pete's a nice guy, but looking for help to ascertain that he is the best man to handle the job is a wise move.

"The city is facing serious problems, like tax assessment, infrastructure repair and financial issues. My conscience tells me that we should proceed with the search."

Eric Steiner, 30, who ran for the Woods City Council two years ago, was appointed to the council Monday night to fill the vacancy created by Ted Bidigare's resignation.

When Steiner ran in 1991, he was defeated by just over 100 votes.

Steiner had strong support from the council and was unanimously elected to fill Bidigare's position. He will hold the seat until the upcoming November council election.

The seat will then become

After completing a rigorous training course that included learning the anatomy of hands, feet and the head, Vitale worked for his sister and some other salons for several years. He opened his own salon in Utica and ran it, until he merged it with the Colseum 15 vears ago.

Back then, the salon was located at Mack and Country Club, and later at Kimberly Korners on Mack in the Woods. Vitale said they decided to move to the Hill to build their dream salon.

They are now able to offer a full range of beauty treatments, including manicures, facials, pedicures, and massages, along with the traditional hair care services.

"It's been a lot of fun, these last 30 years," said Vitale. "I

"I was of course thrilled to be appointed to the council," said Steiner. "I would like to see the city offer the same things to my children that it offered when I was growing up. Good schools, safe streets, - generally a good atmosphere to grow up in.'

Steiner has lived in the Woods for eight years. He grew up in the Farms. He is married to Kathleen Steiner, and has three children. Twins Ethan and Michael, who are 4, and their younger brother Maxwell, who is 18 months old.

Steiner's wife Kathleen works part-time for St. John Hospital as a medical technician for the hospital's heart health program.

A condition of Steiner's appointment to the council is that he resign his position with the Woods public safety auxiliary to avoid a conflict of interest.

In addition to serving on the auxiliary, Steiner was also on the city's beautification committee as a civilian appointee.

"I think it is good that the council appointed someone like Eric," said councilmember Jean Rice. "He has earned his spurs so to speak. He has run for office, and he has put in time as a volunteer serving on city committees. So the public and the council are not getting a completely unknown commod-

If you think you have to live with sinus problems, we'd like to clear something up.

Congestion...Headaches...Post-Nasal Drip...Facial Pressure...Sinus Pain...Allergies...

Unfortunately, many people with chronic sinus symptoms think the best relief is found on the shelves of their neighborhood drugstore. But the truth is, many sinus symptoms can now be easily treated and corrected at their source, once properly diagnosed.

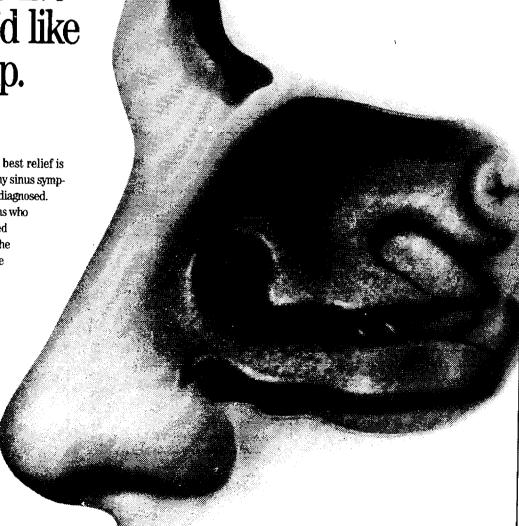

At the St. John Laser Center of Southeast Michigan, there are physicians who specialize in the diagnosis and treatment of sinus problems. Using advanced endoscopic equipment, they can look into your nasal cavities to determine the exact cause of your symptoms and your treatment options. These may include medication or a less-invasive surgical technique, such as sinuscopic surgery, using lasers and other appropriate equipment.

If you're living with chronic sinus symptoms, call for a referral to a laser trained physician at the St. John Laser Center of Southeast Michigan. We believe you'll find this approach to sinus problems a breath of fresh air. 1-800-962-7777

On July 21, he graduated with a degree in computer programming from the State Technical Institute and Rehabilitaion Center near Plainview. This achievement, remarkable for anyone with a handicap, is even more amazing considering Rousseau's severe physical limitations.

Besides spending 16 hours a day in the iron lung, Rousseau has no use of his limbs except for a tiny movement of his left toe and little finger. Until recent years, little could be done to accommodate him. Even sitwheelchair or computer was out of the question.

When the desired command is read, he clicks a control pad with his toe to set the chair in motion. To stop moving, he clicks the pad again.

Rousseau quickly discovered that there are some problems with any new technology that need to be ironed out. When he is in a crowded or noisy area, a mall for example, he often cannot hear the commands coming from the speaker. Also, the toe pad is prone to slipping off during a turn, leaving him spinning in a tight circle until someone is able to help. Once Rousseau was able to sit in a chair and became more mobile, he began to wonder what he could really do in terms of getting training and actually performing a job in so-

"I figured I'm a relatively smart guy. I've got a high school degree, so there must be a class that I could enroll in to get more advanced training,' he said.

Rousseau and his family spoke with counselors at Michigan Rehabilitative Services, where it was determined that by working through computers, he could enroll in classes from his home.

MRS offered to fix Rousseau But Rousseau has done much up with a computer, bought by the state, that could help him accomplish his goals.

After several trials with various systems, Rousseau decided to go with the system called Scanning Whysky. In this system, the computer scrolls through keyboard characters in the right-hand corner of the screen at a set speed. When the letter or number that he wants is highlighted, he clicks the pad with his toe.

Typing a document of any significant length using this method is tedious to say the least. When he began using the system, Rousseau averaged less than a word a minute. After ting upright in a chair was countless hours of practice, he painful, and operating a power now averages almost three words a minute.

For the most part, however, Randy has remained remarkably positive in the face of such difficulties.

"As a willing participant in life," he wrote in an essay for an English class, "I have always accepted the challenge offered and been grateful for the opportunities given to me. In fact, I have always felt advantaged just being here."

Always on the lookout for new technology that could improve his situation, Rousseau remains hopeful about what lies ahead.

"Although the future is uncertain, I'm confident that society, with its ever-increasing awareness of the handicapped, will someday provide the technology and the understanding necessary to include the handicapped in the mainstream of society," he wrote.

Randy feels no bitterness concerning his physical situation. In fact, he welcomes the challenge of being a pioneer, setting an example that other persons with disabilities will be able to look to for guidance.

"I have always thought that I was a very special person," Randy said, "that God spared me for a reason. That reason is to help handicapped people and other people in need to do positive things with their lives by following my example."

Parvo: Vaccination is crucial

A recent news broadcast is the catalyst for this week's column.

There has been an unusually high number of parvo virus cases reported in neighboring communities recently. As newscasters presented this tragedy, I shook my head, saying to myself, "They probably weren't vaccinated."

What is canine parvo virus? For starters, parvo is deadly. It is, as its name implies, a "virus" that can affect dogs of all breeds and ages. This viral disease attacks the intestinal tract, white blood cells and, occasionally, the dog's heart. It's a disease that has been reported worldwide.

How is parvo spread? Canines contract parvo wherever dogs congregate, such as dog shows, obedience training, kennels, pet shops, animal shelters, playgrounds or parks. The odds of infection decrease dramatically if your pooch spends all of his time in the house or yard, reducing his exposure to other Parvo can only be transmitted to dogs and not to other animals or humans. However, the real surprise here is that other animals and humans can unknowingly expose Stimpy to this virus by carrying it on their feet or clothes. The source of parvo is fecal waste from already-infected dogs.

According to the Michigan Humane Society, "Large amounts of the virus may be present in the fecal material of an infected dog. The virus is resistant to temperature extremes and can survive for long rhea streaked with blood. Dogs can easily dehydrate due to excessive vomiting and diarrhea. Some dogs vomit repeatedly and have bloody diarrhea until they die. Others may only show loose feces and recover with no complication.

Most deaths happen within the initial 48 to 72 hours of the start of infection. Puppies suffer most with "shock-like" deaths which occur as early as two days after contracting the virus. High percentages of puppies less than 5 months old dying from this disease have significantly decreased due to widespread vaccination and disease information.

Another type of parvo infection, myocarditis (inflammation of the heart), occurs in puppies less than 3 months old. The difference between the two is the lack of diarrhea because the virus multiplies rapidly in the muscle cells of the growing you suspect parvo. Although there aren't any special miracle drugs that kill parvo, treatment of this infection needs to be started immediately and consists of fighting dehydration, controlling vomiting and diarrhea, and preventing secondary infections with antibiotics. Dogs fighting this violent infection should be kept warm and have good, constant nursing care.

To prevent parvo from attacking your dog, get him or her vaccinated. It is usually recommended that a series of vaccinations be given to provide adequate protection against parvo. Just one vaccine provides protection against parvo, distemper, infectious hepatitis, leptospirosis, parainfluenza and others. Annual booster vaccinations are also necessary. Ask your vet about the vaccines, length of immunity from the vaccine, and the recommended schedule for revaccinations.

Also, keeping kennels and other housing areas well cleaned and disinfected is essential in controlling the spreading of the virus. Remember, parvo virus is capable of existing in the environment for many months unless the area is thoroughly cleaned. For an effective disinfectant, mix one part household bleach to 30 parts water. I store this mixture in a spray bottle and spray the bottoms of my shoes whenever I come home from the shelter or an "animal" event.

It is additionally important to keep your dog away from other fecal wastes while walking in a park, playground, or along the streets. No canine is safe from this highly contagious viral disease. The only hope we have is to have our dogs properly vaccinated and keep their living environments clean.

Cottage Hospital adapts to times by joining Henry Ford Health System

Staff Writer

Changes in the medical industry have altered the way small hospitals do business. That's why Cottage Hospital merged with the Henry Ford Health System in 1986, said Cottage president and CEO Greg Vasse.

'If we hadn't merged with the Henry Ford Health System, we would have been forced to merge with another health group," said Vasse in an interview. "Small independent hospitals that haven't become part of a larger health system have pretty much disappeared. If Cottage were being built today, it could not be built as an independent hospital.

Vasse cited William Beaumont Hospital being built in Troy as an example. It is being built as a part of the Beaumont health system.

By merging, both Henry Ford and Cottage gained, said Gail Warden, CEO and president of the Henry Ford Health System. Cottage gets access to the resources of Henry Ford, and Henry Ford is better able to treat patients on the east side of town using Cottage Hospital, and it's resources.

Cottage is a rung in the Henry Ford Health System's vertically integrated health system, said Vasse. The system allows Henry Ford to provide a wider range of services over a wider area. It allows smaller medical facilities like Cottage access to a much wider range of medical care, and medical personnel.

Henry Ford first began developing outpatient centers away from its downtown facility about 20 years ago. Henry Ford officials were afraid that as Detroit's population declined, the for preventing illness, they get downtown hospital would lose its patient base, said Warden.

In 1988, the Pierson family made a large donation to Henry Ford and Cottage. The money was used to establish the Pierson Clinic, Warden said. The clinic, which started out as a specialist's clinic has been growing into a primary care facility over the past few years.

These efforts by Henry Ford and Cottage, Warden believes, put them at the forefront of healthcare reform. He believes that vertically integrated health systems, systems that offer complete health services over a broad area, are the future of health care.

"A single-payer system like the one in Canada is not realistic in this country," said Warden. "I expect the Clinton plan, when it comes out, to provide for the purchase of health care through alliances or cooperatives at the state or regional level. The state will act as the contracting agent for small employers and those who don't

For health care reform to work, Warden said, the incentives must change. Right now hospitals are paid for the number of procedures they perform. The more tests, the more money. Hospitals don't get paid paid for treating illness.

Henry Ford has been in the forefront of developing Accountable Health Plans, said Warden. Henry Ford is in the process of implementing a plan where large employers pay a fixed fee for health services. Employees in the plan would be treated by Henry Ford.

They would have the option of going outside the system, but would have to pay some of the costs. To keep costs down, Henry Ford would practice more preventive medicine. It appears that the Clinton health plan will make use of AHPs to keep service and keep down costs, Warden said. By emphasizing primary care and preventive care, costs can be kept down. Henry Ford has initiated a program with Case Western Reserve medical school, where after the second year of medical school, students begin training as primary care physicians, Warden said. There are currently 48 students in the pro-

'The Henry Ford Health System, to which Cottage belongs, is the a model of the way medicine is changing," said Vasse. "Henry Ford has been responding to market forces as if legislation were in place. We are making changes ahead of legislation. Costs can be controlled at the source, without the government dictating it."

Neighborhood dispute arises over a portable basketball hoop in Park

Michael Swegles. 10, stands in front of a portable basketball hoop that has become a point of contention among residents of Whittier in Grosse Pointe Park.

Finding the solution to a dispute over a basketball hoop has proven to be more than child's play for Grosse Pointe Park of-

The dispute centers around a portable basketball hoop at the home of John and Mary Beth Swegles, and their two children, Matthew, 17, and Michael, 10, on Whittier in the Park. City ordinances state that basketball hoops are not allowed beyond front houseline.

The Swegles, who have lived in the 900 block of Whittier for three years, have an attached garage, which extends to the front houseline. A tree prevents moving of the hoop to the side of the house when it is not in use, said Swegles.

"We have no concrete in the Swegles. "That it can be called a structure blows my mind. I back of the house," said Swedrives of houses on my block. It is my understanding that these hoops were in place before the ordinance was passed in 1984, so they have grandfather pro-

"It's my feeling that if I where my neighbors can dictate what toys I can have on my City manager Dale Krajniak property, I would have moved into a condominium," Swegles Park resident Jerome Driscoll, who originally complained to Park officials, said that Swegles misses the point.

"I don't want to start a local fight," Driscoll said. "But the fact is that there is an ordinance against these backboards. They bring down the character of the community. That's why the ordinance was originally created. That's what is wrong with this country. Rules are made, then rules are ignored.

Driscoll said that as a Park resident and taxpayer, he has a right to expect that city ordinances will be enforced.

Swegles said he will address the Park council at the Aug. 9 meeting and ask them to reconsider the definition of a structure so that a portable basketball hoop will not be included. He also said that he has spoken with his lawyer, and is considering bringing malicious prosecution suit against Driscoll.

Manhunt conducted in Woods

Police officers from seven departments and K-9 dogs scoured a Grosse Pointe Woods neighborhood July 29 in search of four armed robbery suspects Detroit police had chased into the Pointes.

Woods police were notified at 1:10 a.m. that Detroit police were pursuing robbery suspects in a high-speed chase on eastbound Vernier. The robbery occurred in the 11th Precinct of Detroit.

Occupants of the car jumped out at Mack and Hawthorne and began running. Woods officers joined Detroit officers in the search for the suspects. Officers from Grosse Pointe Shores, Grosse Pointe Farms, Harper Woods, St. Clair Shores and the Michigan State Police joined the search by creating a perimeter along Vernier to Hollywood and Marter to Harper. The suspects were captured and turned over to Detroit police.

Park man foils car theft, possible kidnapping

By Chip Chapman Staff Writer

The shoplifter might have escaped, but a Park man may have prevented a car theft and possible kidnapping.

Shortly before the Pier 1 store on Vernier in Harper Woods closed Monday, July 26, the security sensor went off.

Park resident Matt Saari, an Park officer nabs prowler

An off-duty Grosse Pointe Park public safety officer observed a man prowling in the rear yard of a house in the 800 block of Barrington on July 24.

He called other officers to respond. After a chase, the suspect was located on Alter at Fox Creek. The suspect jumped into the canal but when he realized he was surrounded by police officers, he climbed out of the water and surrendered.

Police said the man has a history of mental illness and was taken to a local crisis cen-

A pair of burglars put out of business

Detectives from the Grosse Pointe Park and Warren police departments worked together to capture two burglars and recover a number of stolen items taken from a home on Bishop.

Detectives arrested a 43-yearold Hazel Park man at his home and a 40-year-old Warren man at a Warren pawn shop who were in possession of silverware, jewelry and other items taken from the Bishop break-in and others.

Both men have extensive criminal records. Grosse Pointe Park public safety detective Lt. David Hiller said the matter is still being investigated.

"I had been told to keep an eye on this guy from day one," Saari said. "He would come in every so often. He said once before that his wife was an invalid. He would always go toward the dresses when he came in. Maybe he was trying to get her some clothes.'

Saari confronted the man, who denied he had taken anything from the store. As the suspect got in on the passenger side of the car, Saari informed the driver, an elderly man, that if he left the parking lot, he would be abetting a crime.

The driver said that he was just giving the suspect a ride so that the suspect could "cash a check." The driver said he did not know the suspect, but recognized him from his neighbor-

The suspect had taken a wallet and four packets of incense. Saari said, items that would not have set off the sensor, but he apparently had some other merchandise that had tripped

The suspect produced a stolen wallet thinking the dispute was settled, but Saari would not let him go. The suspect then grabbed a monkey wrench from the utility belt he was wearing. Saari slammed the car door, keeping the suspect inside.

When the driver tried to pull the suspect out of the car, the suspect slid over to the driver's seat and tried to drive away.

Saari, noticing there was a child in a carseat in the back, dove into the car and bent the gear shift and broke the key in the ignition.

After exchanging blows with the suspect, Saari wrestled him to the ground. Again, the suspect grabbed the monkey wrench and threatened Saari.

The suspect was able to escape on foot across Vernier to the Eastland shopping mall. Harper Woods police and Eastland security were unable to locate the suspect.

Harper Woods police said they will not pursue the case because they were unable to determine if the suspect actually escaped with any stolen merchandise.

"Something had to set off the sensors," Saari said. "(Missing merchandise) is not something you can really check. We can determine if something is missing, but since we don't have daily inventory checks, it's difficult to pinpoint when the item became missing.'

Are seaweed-killing chemicals safe for lake's marine life?

There is no need to worry about seaweed-killing chemicals hurting the marine life in Lake St. Clair, according to William Kraus.

Everything we use is EPA and state sanctioned," said Kraus, chief biologist for Aquatic Management Services, "and is not toxic to any marine

That may or may not be true, said David Best of the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service.

"They can be toxic to fish in certain dosages," Best said.

Some Grosse Pointe residents have been alarmed after seeing dead ducks near the lake's breakwall, but this is not related to the chemicals, Kraus said.

Dr. Lawrence Herzog of the Grosse Pointe Animal Clinic personally examined eight ducks last fall that were either dead or dying. Some of the sick ducks recovered and were returned to the lake. The ducks which had died were turned over to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources for further testing.

"The ducks are dying of botulism," Kraus said. "They eat the rotten mayflies, which causes their problems.

"That doesn't sound reason-Best said. "Botulism usually occurs in an anaerobic state. And that doesn't fit any Lake St. Clair condition."

It has been assumed the chemicals are connected with the deaths of ducks because the ailing ducks tend to float toward calm areas of the lake, such as the harbors, and that is usually the only place people see the dead ducks.

The DNR tests last fall did not support this theory, but both Herzog and Best agreed that it is rare for so many sick or dead ducks to be concentrated in one area.

"The one-day 'no swimming' signs are there so that the water doesn't get muddied up," Kraus said. "Residents who use lake water to irrigate are told not to water their lawns for two weeks, because the chemical is a herbicide.'

He wasn't the real thing

A 34-year-old Detroit man driving a red and white Coca-Cola van on July 30 turned out to be less than the real thing. After being alerted by the Detroit police, Grosse Pointe Shores police officers arrested the van driver at Lakeshore and Willow Tree Place on a tip that the van was stolen.

Shores police observed that the van's steering column was damaged and the vehicle was being driven without a key. Police also learned that the van bore a license plate stolen from another vehicle. The van also contained several stolen newspaper boxes.

The driver was being held by Shores police in anticipation of warrants from the Wayne County prosecutor.

The heat is on

The summer of '93 has definitely been a cooker as themonths go by, but 90-degree temperatures don't compare to the heat Michigan law enforcement officers are creating to encourage Michigan motorists to buckle up.

In 1991, more than 60,000 tickets were issued in Michigan to people who were not buckled up. If you are pulled over for any reason and not buckled up, your chances of being ticketed for not wearing a seat belt are very good.

So don't get "cooked" this summer - protect yourself with suncreen, lots of liquids, and your seat belt. Live to see another summer - buckle up!

Youths threaten woman, pelt car with rocks

A bad time for Miller time

Four Grosse Pointe Park teenagers didn't get far when they attempted to steal a case of beer from a Grosse Pointe Woods party store on July 30.

One of the four, a 17-year-old boy, went into the store on Mack and Anita, grabbed a case of beer and walked out the door without paying for it. One of the store owners witnessed the theft, chased the youth outside and watched him get into a waiting car. The owner then got into his car and began chasing the getaway car.

The owner caught the youths and waved down a Harper Woods police cruiser in the area of Harper and Allard. Woods public safety detective Robert Raymond said the department had not determined what charges, if any, will be brought against the boys.

Farms woman faces hearing

A Grosse Pointe Farms woman is scheduled to appear in municipal court this week for a July 3 drunken driving incident in which she lost consciousness and struck a bicyclist on Mack near Oxford.

The 23-year-old woman was arrested and held overnight by Grosse Pointe Woods police. She was released on $100 bond and turned over to her parents.

The bike rider, a 24-year-old man, was taken to St. John Hospital but declined to be treated.

The incident occurred at 2:15 a.m. when the woman was driving southbound on Mack and apparently lost consciousness as she neared Oxford.

Her car struck a curb, knocking the right front hubcap off the wheel and then struck the bike rider pedaling southbound in the curb lane. The woman said she awakened to the sound of the man being thrown onto her windshield.

Woods public safety officers said the woman appeared intoxicated and later registered a .16 blood alcohol level on the Breathalyzer. A .10 blood alcohol level is considered legally intoxicated.

woman and her friends as they were driving eastbound on Moross on Aug. 1.

Two of the four suspects, an 18-year-old Detroit man and a 19-year-old Grosse Pointe Shores man, were arrested and released pending issuance of warrants.

The other suspects, two 16year-old Detroit residents, were questioned and released. Farms police anticipate warrants for non-aggravated assault and throwing missiles - a local ordinance which prohibits the throwing of objects.

The incident began at 5 a.m. when the Troy woman exited I-94 and was facing eastbound on the Moross overpass. Four youths in a black Acura next to ing threatening and sexually explicit remarks toward the woman and her passengers - a 25-year-old Cheboygan woman, a 26-year-old Utica woman and two men.

The youths then began hurling rocks, bottles and pieces of fruit at the woman's car as she drove east on Moross toward Grosse Pointe. The woman attempted to elude the youths and stopped her car at Chalfonte and Belanger in the Farms. At that point the passengers in her car got out and approached the youths. The driver stayed in her car and called police from her car phone.

When Farms officers arrived at the scene, the youths fled on foot. Police captured all four in the area between Kerby and Belanger. Farms police said the woman and her passengers did her 1993 Pontiac began shout nothing to provoke the youths to attack.

Grosse Pointe Woods police officers assisted in the search for the youths.

Dual entitlement occurs when a woman is eligible for a retirement benefit based on her own work history and a higher benefit as a wife or widow based on her husband's work record. When a woman qualifies for her own Social Security benefit, she is always paid that benefit first. If her spouse's benefit is higher, she receives an additional Social Security payment to cover the differ-

A wife qualifies for benefits on her husband's record if she is 62 or older and her husband is entitled to Social Security benefits. A divorced wife may qualify for benefits if she and her ex-husband are both 62 and have been divorced at least two years even if he is not receiving benefits. A woman younger than 62 may receive a spouse's benefits if she is caring for the worker's minor or disabled children.

Widows (including divorced widows) may qualify for benefits at age 60 (50 if they have a disability) or at any age if they have the worker's minor or disabled children in their care.

Another item: Starting this month, employees will be entitled to up to 12 weeks of unpaid leave to deal with a medical emergency. The measure requires employers with 50 or more workers to provide time off for the birth or adoption of a child or to care for a seriously ill child, spouse or parent. Complex laws limit search for financing for education maze of school laws and amendments will serve as major barriers to the search for new financing for Michigan's public school system.

Now that the Legislature has repealed all school property taxes, it is faced with the problem of approving new funding sources before the end of 1993 or facing the prospect of two-thirds votes by the House and Senate to make any plan effective in 1994.

One major deterrent to spending is the provision in the Headlee tax limitation amendment that chiefly limits property tax increases and, in fact, restricts the state's revenues to 9.49 percent or less of its citizens' personal income.

That ceiling, which amounts to $16.6 billion, has less than $4 billion left for expansion over current spending, the Detroit Free Press reported this week. Yet the state would need to raise from $5.7

billion to $6.3 billion to replace the funding lost by the property tax repeal.

Sen. Debbie Stabenow, who authored the repealer that created the current crisis in the financing of public education, has suggested the state might get around the Headlee amendment by creating a new education taxing authority.

But foes of any plan to enable the state to take major control of school financing would surely appeal such a proposal and thus probably delay any action at least until next year.

In defending her repeal proposal, Stabenow did offer three principles "on which we cannot compromise":

One, the property tax cannot be the primary means of funding schools.

Two, inequity in spending per student between districts must be reduced. Three, improvement in the quality of education must be part of this plan. In an appearance on a Sunday TV show on Channel 7, she also cited a 2 percentage point increase in the 4.6 percent state income tax, higher business and cigarette taxes, and a broadening of the sales tax to cover services as possible sources of replacement revenue.

However, nothing has been heard in response to her call, as part of her repealer, for Gov. John Engler to "immediately convene an education summit of top leaders to address the next step of restructuring funding for our schools."

But Engler, who is expected to sign the property tax repealer Aug. 19, this week sent a letter to Michigan newspapers predicting a "simply stunning" improvement in Michigan education that will overshadow the problems of revising public school funding.

He has still not announced any specific replacement plan, although he favors choice for public schools and less taxes than yielded by the property tax. He also says he won't sign any increase in the income tax even if proposed as part of the replacement package.

That's hardly an adequate response to the challenge put by the crisis he helped Sen. Stabenow create.

Sen. Dan DeGrow, R-Port Huron, chairman of the Senate's Transportation, School Aid and Department of Education Committee, has mentioned as an option a 15-mill statewide school millage, with local districts presumably being enabled to levy some additional millage.

It is true, however, that none of the talk heard to date would replace the heavy loss the Grosse Pointe school district sustained when the Legislature repealed the property tax which provides about 95 percent of the local schools' operating revenues.

Just returned from a brief vacation, Superintendent Edward J. Shine sees the financing issue "mired in legal and political problems" with no specific agenda to work out the replacement revenue needed for the 1994-95 school year.

He was meeting Tuesday with the Wayne County School Administrators Association in a session called to discuss ways to coordinate policies in teaching and learning matters. He predicted in advance, however, that the session would quickly turn its attention to the financing problem.

And that's about as far as it has gone even in Lansing, from all reports.

Bike fatality arouses concern

he recent death of a Grosse Pointe Woods executive who became a hitrun victim while riding his bike on a Woods street has revived talk of the need for bike lanes in the Pointes.

We obviously are not passing judgment on the guilt or innocence of the Detroit woman motorist who is scheduled to be arraigned today in Wayne County Circuit Court on three felony charges arising from the hit-run accident.

But when school is out and summer is here, traffic of all kinds tends to increase and with it comes a rise in accidents, especially on some of Grosse Pointe's narrow residential streets.

So it behooves all of us, whether we are bicyclists, pedestrians, or motorists to keep a watchful eye on other people on the street and to obey the instructions of official traffic-control signals, signs and other control devices, except when otherwise directed by a police officer.

Despite our narrow residential streets.

wouldn't it still be a good idea to consider bike lanes on heavily-traveled thoroughfares in the Pointes? Other nearby communities use them, apparently finding them an additional safety factor.

Like the other Pointes, the Farms requires bicycles to be licensed; to be equipped with effective brakes, lights, reflectors, bells or other signal devices; and to be operated in accordance with the other provisions of the bicycle ordinance.

One provision requires that bikes, whether propelled by human or gasoline power, be ridden no more than two abreast, except on special paths or parts of roadways set aside for the exclusive use of such vehicles.

Since that is one of two sections authorizing use of paths when provided, the Farms ordinance apparently expected bike paths might be added in the future. Perhaps the time is now for the Farms or one of the other Pointes.

Bryant raps GOP school plans

ep. William R. Bryant Jr. of Grosse Pointe, senior Republican in the Lustate House of Representatives and co-chairman of the House Education Committee, finds his party's plans to meet the current school funding crisis "wrongheaded" and "dangerous."

With his Democratic Education Committee counterpart, Rep. William Keith, Bryant has offered to work with the GOP minority in the House and the Letters are Democratic majority to seek a solu- on page 8A tion to the current search for funding to replace the property tax for school operations that has just been repealed by the state Legislature.

As outspoken critics of the legislative action, Bryant and Keith probably are not surprised that the GOP and the Democrats seem to be ignoring their education chairmen as they seek ways and means of keeping Michigan's public schools open in 1994.

Bryant has sent letters to the two joint House speakers, Republican Paul Hillegonds and Democrat Curtis Hertel, suggesting that he and Keith would be available in view of their backgrounds and experience in handling education issues.

Up to Tuesday afternoon's GOP House caucus, however, Bryant had received no reply to his offer.

Nor, in fact, had he heard from Gov. John Engler in response to his letter urging the governor to veto the bill repealing the school operating taxes throughout the

In his letter, Bryant warned the governor that the limitations in the Headlee amendment might prevent the state from appropriating enough new state money to replace the local districts' financing by local millages.

Bryant now sees the school revenue losses reaching $7 billion rather than the $5.7 billion to $6.3 billion figures being estimated. If his estimate is correct, he believes the state could appropriate no more than $3.8 billion in replacement funds before reaching the Headlee limita-

The Grosse Pointe representative also believes that the effect of the repealer could be halted through a referendum called by petition, by an improved substitute funding plan, or by threatening the governor and legislative supporters with recall unless Engler vetoes the plan.

Bryant believes that as a result of the limitations imposed by Headlee, the local districts could be required to finance a greater share of their school costs in the coming years.

His own personal preference is a mix of restored property taxes plus an income tax that could be levied locally to supplement or replace the property tax to the extent the local district voters approved. He also would examine a proposed sales tax on property sales as an additional funding source.

Prior to Tuesday's GOP caucus, Bryant was told that the party planned to set up four committees: to study quality issues or how to improve the schools; cost containment, or how to cut school costs; state budget priorities, or how to raise the needed state funds; and tax restructuring, or what mix of taxes will be required to meet needs.

He points out, however, that these points leave out the most important problem from the local districts' viewpoint: How much support does the state supply to local districts and how is it to be paid?

It's no wonder that Bryant, defending the interests of the Grosse Pointe schools and local districts in general, terms such thinking "highly dangerous" and "wrongheaded.

Time for '93 Tigers' obituary?

fter the Tigers' futile efforts against the New York Yankees and the Toronto Blue Jays, many Detroit metro area fans are about ready to write the obituary of the 1993 Tigers.

A season that began so badly in spring training and then suddenly raised hopes in the first half of the season now has turned into the dross of defeat, made all the worse by those excessive early expec-

Despite the ancient baseball axiom, it isn't over until it's over, the Tigers ruined their pennant hopes by falling from 18 games over .500 to an even .500 and winning only two games of seven in the New York and Toronto series.

At last count, they had crashed into fifth place — and were still going south.

Unfortunately, Tiger hitting has suddenly gone on strike and the defense has become exceedingly generous to the Tigers' foes, even though pitching should have won three out of four in Toronto.

Milt Cuyle's fielding cost the team one game and the lack of timely hitting lost another pitching gem. But in the two series even reliable veterans like Alan Trammell made fielding errors and costly mental miscues that too often aided the enemy — or cost the Tigers runs.

Sparky Anderson, alternately trying to be philosophical and raging at the critics, may be justifed in both approaches but when he assails letter writers to newspapers as know-nothings, he is treading on dangerous ground.

In our democracy, letters to the editor serve as an indirect form of dialogue between the people and the powers-that-be, whether in sports or politics. And woe to the recipient of the criticism who doesn't pay some attention to it, even if, like Sparky, he finds little stomach for offering reasonable rebuttals.

As a result, more letter-writers are after Sparky's scalp, too, which might become an acceptable demand if the Tigers don't conclude this season on a higher and winning note.

Correction & amplification

Then the Grosse Pointe News published in its Sports Section last Oct. 29 a story by a native Minnesotan, the writer, who lamented the Gophers' 63-13 loss to the Wolverines, it contained an error that has just been reported to the paper.

In seeking some solace for Minnesota's 1992 loss and its many other defeats at the hands of the Wolverines in recent years, the writer had gone back to his memories of 1934 when the Gophers walloped the Wolverines in Minneapolis by what he said was a 30-0 score.

Unfortunately for Michigan, that score was in error. Instead, the Minnesota victory margin was even larger, 34 to 0.

The correction came from another former Minnesotan who should know whereof he writes. It is Maury Johnson, who was referred to in the Oct. 29, 1992, story as a Minnesota journalism student, who also was a pass-catching end for Bernie Bierman.

In the second half of that Minnesota surge, Johnson caught the passes that turned the tide after a 0-0 halftime score and enabled Minnesota to score a convincing victory.

Johnson had recently written to the writer on another matter and, in return, the writer had sent him a reprint of the story. It was that reprint that led to Johnson's correction - and today's report of the error in that Minnesota score.

Sorry, Wolverines.

Magnificent '32s are Meadow Brook focus

The Aug. 8 Concours d'Elegance at Meadow Brook Hall spotlights the magnificent U.S. driving machines from 1932. Planners of the 15th annual affair said they hoped to re-create a scene from the 1932 auto show in New York City, though as recently as late-June they were having some difficulty finding a '32 Jordan and '32 Hudson Terraplane. In addition to the sometimes-outrageous cars from the Depression, there will be a Corvette display (the nameplate turns 40 this year), idea cars from which production models evolved and special fashions from the Somerset Collection in Troy. Meadow Brook now ranks as one of the three top Concours in the world, standing proudly alongside the annual show in France and the Pebble Beach concours held each summer in California. Our local affair is a benefit on behalf of Oakland University's Meadow Brook Hall in Rochester. Gates are open between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. Award presentations begin at 11:30 a.m. The magnificent hall, a palatial home built by Matilda Wilson (a Dodge widow) and her husband, will be open for tours. Parking on the grounds is free and there will be a free shuttle bus to help save legs and feet for prowling among the 250 vehicles on display. Tickets and information: 313-370-3140.

Ziebart Tidy Car offers towing tips

All participating Ziebart TidyCar locations in Michigan, including the Grosse Pointe Park location, are distributing a free brochure, "Towing Tips You Need to Know to be Safe.'

Developed by Ziebart Tidy-Car's accessories group in cooperation with AAA Michigan's community safety services department, the brochure is designed to make trailer use by motorists safer for summer travel. It provides information on selecting the proper hitch system, as well as towing and parking tips. The brochure features a pretrip safety checklist.

"When people hook up trailer hitches after a long winter, they wonder if everything is still operating," explained Tom Walker, product manager, Ziebart TidyCar's accessories group. "This towing tips brochure will help drivers determine if they have the correct type of hitch for their needs and if it is properly connected."

Things that bug me!

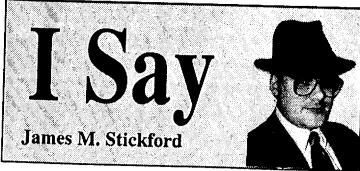

(In a desperate attempt to get a piece of the Andy Rooney audience, the writer will be spouting off on things that bug him. The editors and fans of good writing ask for the readers' indulgence.)

You know what really bugs me? The way the "powers that decided the solution to baseball's woes was to expand the playoffs. It seems a popular plan with the owners, television and players. In fact everyfans, the people the game is played for There's something

When the wishes of the fans are ignored, so that groups of millionaires, owners, players and network big shots don't have to get by on $500,000 a year, I cry foul.

I feel (not that that means anything to millions of other fans) and others I have spoken to feel that we like the playoff system the way it is. Either you finish first in your division, basketball, the regular season or you go home.

That seems to me to be a reward for excellence. It says something good about professional, as opposed to amateur More teams make the playoffs sports. Players are paid to fin-than don't. ish first, not to make it to the playoffs.

is pretty meaningless. The hockey season lasts six months, a long time. When the season is over, the playoffs begin.

How many people do you know who say something like, Think about it; in other pro "I don't follow basketball durone seems to like it except the sports, especially hockey and ing the regular season. For me, it doesn't get exciting until the playoffs; that's when the real season begins."

In football, the notion of parity rules. I get the impression that the ideal season would be where every team finished 8-8. That way they could all go to the playoffs, and the owners networks and players could make more money. Who cares

if the fans are denied quality football, they have quantity

In 1985, professional baseball went to a seven-game system. The idea being that more games meant more television dollars. Well it hasn't worked out that way. It seems that fans don't want to watch more playoff games. In my unscientific opinion, fans don't want more playoffs, they want to get to the big show - the World

Extending the World Series into November is not the solution. Having playoffs that fans can't see is not the solution.

A USA Today poll taken at the time the new system was unveiled showed strong opposition to the plan, which would establish a new tier of playoff gams that would be broadcast regionally. Thus true fans would not have the chance to see all the teams play.

Baseball is a game of tradition, whether TV and owners and players like it, or not. They seem to think fans are unhappy with the game. Well we are not, we are unhappy with the players, owners and TV bigshots. We like the game just Baseball enjoys a large fol-lowing. The fans attend the games, and the local TV broadcasters, in Detroit at least, have no complaints about the ratings. If the owners, the players and the network bigshots got together to work out problems together, instead of trying to prosper at the expense of each other, baseball would be just fine.

That's what I have to say.

Wetlands warriors mobilize

Derek Stratelak is a Wetlander.

Not only that, but he does it for fun.

Wetlanders have been sneaking into the news for a little over a year now, mostly in rural newspapers because that's where their projects are. But Stratelak lives in Grosse Pointe Wetlanders, or more correctly, the Michigan Private Wetlands Project volunteers, work with private landowners to restore former wetland areas on their property. The project is funded through federal programs such as the farm bill or through the Michigan Wildlife Habitat Foundation and Fish and Wildlife Service.

Stratelak isn't your typical Wetlander. Most of the volunteers are like you and me: they're interested, enthusiastic, but nonprofessional environmentalists. They know wetlands are important to wildlife and they've undergone a special training program to help them work with property owners and contractors.

But Stratelak is one of those people who has combined his hobby and his profession. As an environmentally involved duckhunter, as well as through his work, he already had a list of DNR acquaintances and contacts, long before he joined the Wetlanders.

He trained first as a landscape architect, then as a wetlands scientist, is certified by the Army Corps of Engineers, and specializes in wetlands issues for a municipal engineering firm, Giffels Webster.

And he loves it. So much so that when he first signed on as a Wetlander three years ago, he used to cruise the back roads in Macomb and St. Clair counties, looking for potential projects and handing out literature to farmers. They didn't always appreciate the advice.

'Farmers are independent," he said. "They know their land, they know their business, and they tended to view (my suggestions) as government interference, even though I'm a volunteer.

What Stratelak hoped the farmers would do is unplug a unage ditch or interrupt the tiling system that drains their fields, so that occasional small wetlands can re-emerge. The trained eye can see where the ground used to be wet, and all it takes is a renewed source of water for the old seeds to sprout.

"Wetlands have great potential to store seeds," he explained. "All you need is the water. Even in farm fields, the seeds of water-loving plants can lie dormant for years. Take a wet spring when the farmer can't get on the field to plant, so he decides to leave it fallow for a year, and marsh plants start to come up."

Stratelak works a fourcounty area that includes Wayne and Oakland, and Oakland is where he finds his most receptive audience. He believes it's due to the sprawling semisuburban growth pattern.

"Most farmers aren't interested in creating wetlands," he said. "They're interested in getting rid of them. They understand that wetlands are regulated and take away from your ability to develop your property. And you can't blame them, when you look at the taxes they pay.

"But in Oakland, the more affluent country estates can get their taxes reduced through a conservation easement that creates a wetlands in perpetuity. They know that a marsh is also a green space and no neighbors can build there. So there's more interest in not only preserving, but enhancing marshes." The problem facing the project in agricultural areas of southeastern Michigan is the development pressure. Farmers use their land as a retirement fund, selling it at a high price for subdivisions. And they fear wetlands would detract from that possibility.

Outstate, where the development pressure is less, Stratelak he asked me to marry him," says the program has been very says America. successful.

The project started in Michigan with a pilot program in 1991 that trained 33 Wetlanders to work with professional biologists and resource managers to "stretch" the agency's professional capabilities. Michigan has lost an estimated 8 million of its original 11 million acres of wetlands. The pilot program worked with more than 100 landowners who requested restoration assistance, offering them technical and financial help.

Other states had a head start; thousands of small wetrestored since 1987. Volunteers make the contacts with landowners, conduct preliminary investigations, phone contractors. Property owners must agree to keep the restoration intact for 10 years; they don't give up property rights or allow public access.

A wetland doesn't have to be large to be worth restoring.

"Take puddle ducks," Stratelak said. "Why would they sit in these little puddles when they could swim in the lake? The answer is that the shallow water warms up and macro-invertebrates hatch - shrimp, daphnia, hydra. The ducks go in there and chow. It's a super source of nutrients for mallards."

Most urban wetlands are so long gone that there isn't much point in trying to restore them now. The Grosse Pointes, for instance, were once laced with small, meandering streams with marshy edges. They're covered up now, converted to underground drains, with roads and houses above them.

But keep an eye open for telltale land contours that reveal where the streams used to be. Stratelak could show you the exact former floodplain of the Milk River, just by watching where the land dips down, clearly visible as you drive along Mack.

Think of it as wetlands archeology.

Their whirlwind visit included visits to impressive glaciers, museums and mountains, but the real excitement of their stay was attending the beauty pageant where their granddaughter, Rebecca Nyboer, won the coveted crown and the title of Miss Alaska. She will go to Atlantic City in September to compete for the national title of Miss America.

Her prizes included a $6,000 bank account, tuition scholar-ships that will enable her to further her pre-medical studies (she is a 1993 graduate with a degree in biology from Pacific Lutheran University in Tacoma, Wash.), a fur coat, and a new car.

Contestants for the pageant must demonstrate a talent (Rebecca is an accomplished pianist), must be interviewed for nowledge of important issues of the day, and must appear in swimsuits and in evening dress before a panel of critical observers who judge poise and appearance.

The new Miss Alaska will long remember this year as an eventful one which includes not only her graduation and the coveted beauty crown but the announcement of her engagement to a fellow student and longtime friend in Alaska.

Lead in drinking water poses a real threat

To the Editor:

A number of weeks ago national and local media ran a story regarding lead levels nationwide, ranking specific communities. This news article ranked Grosse Pointe Park as having one of the highest lead levels in the nation.

This information brought concern to many of our residents. In response to this news article the Grosse Pointe News ran a story aimed at dispelling these fears by refuting the scientific method behind these findings. It is my hope that residents take the national news item seriously. Because of the age of the homes within our community along with extremely lax building codes, our children are at risk.

My husband and I lived in a flat on Lakepointe between Kercheval and Vernor for about two years. While living there we were blessed with two beautiful children. My youngest was born in December 1992. Shortly thereafter he became very colicky. After many sleepless nights and multiple trips to the doctor we were beside ourselves.

In March, 1993 I discovered an article in Parents magazine detailing the signs of lead poisoning in infants. One of these signs was colic. We immediately had lead poisoning tests ran on my son. The results revealed that he was suffering from elevated lead levels.

We immediately replaced the tap water usage in our home with bottled distilled water for his safety. We are now awaiting the result of lead poisoning tests on my 20 month old daughter. Knowing my son's elevated lead levels after only four months, I fear that my daughter will certainly be affected.

Upon questioning my landlord regarding the sources of lead in the house, be it water pipes or underlying lead paints, she regarded the situation as a non-issue. Although no one can dispute the known health hazards associated with lead pipes and paints, local building codes do not address these risks.

However, I would like to think that landlords of these older homes would feel a moral obligation to tell their tenants up front that they and especially their children are at risk. We have since moved into a house in Harper Woods, but not before having the property evaluated for health hazards. I will not expose my children to any further danger.

Because our landlord did not volunteer these health risks up front, and we relied in building regulations and inspections to protect us, my children have been poisoned. We must now watch our children closely for signs of the related disorders caused by an infants elevated lead level, such as hyperactivity, attention deficit disorder, dyslexia and even retardation.

I am not certain that these disorders will have further affects on my children, but they are now at a much higher risk for these and other medical problems than those children who have not been exposed.

It is imperative that your readers know that the threat of lead poisoning in our community is real. Our local government has not stepped up to its responsibility to protect residents through code requirements. A representative for the Grosse Pointe Park building inspections told me that they do not have codes regarding lead levels because it would be extremely costly to the homeowner.

I don't know what the cost might be, but I do know that it is cheap in comparison to the value of my children's life.

Additionally, I feel that some of the rental property owners within the Pointes clearly feel no moral obligation to their renters or their children regarding safety issues. I can only speculate that their desire for rental income outweighs their concerns for the health and welfare of others.

With all this in mind, the result is that the health of the children in our area is compromised. Our children represent the future and as a community we must protect them.

Bus stop blues?

I am writing in response to the John Minnis "I say" article (Smart to Work? Not!, July 15). In it he was negative about buses and the people who ride them.

Mr. Minnis should be aware that not everyone can drive a car. Some have a health condition, such as epilepsy, that prohibits them from driving. Others may not be able to afford a car, as well as the insurance, maintenance, parking fees, tickets and other expenses that come with car ownership.

Someone that has a car is very lucky and blessed. When people who ride buses get the chance to ride in someone elses car, they can enjoy the ride much more.

There are a lot of good people who use buses as their means of transportation. I have met two wonderful boyfriends through the bus, one of whom had a car in good working condition. We took the bus to work together.

To the Editor:

Imagine my surprise when I read your article, "Surprise recycling fees disturb Park residents," in the July 22 edition. "Disturb" is quite an understatement.

Vintage car races add zest to Meadow Brook

A year ago Gail Yancheck finally took the plunge. The Allen Park resident and businesswoman moved out of the stands and onto the track.

"I have loved auto racing ever since high school when I would hang around the Flat Rock Speedway," Yancheck said from her office at Approved Aircraft Accessories in Romulus.

women in this area interested in the sport.

Former race cars traditionally were sold off to raise money for new ones, said Mike Sheridan, vice president, Special Events, Championship Promotions Inc., Auburn Hills. He was among the Meadow Brook volunteers who steered vintage car racing into the picture.

"My husband, Mike, has been driving vintage race cars for 12 years, and last summer I decided I wanted to do it, too," she said.

Autos

Yancheck took her initial training last fall in a three-day race driving course run by Skip Barber near Indianapolis. It was totally consuming, and exhausting, but well worth the effort, she said. She followed it with the three-day "school" of-fered through the Waterford Hills Road Racing Club at the Waterford Hills track near Clarkston.

That one afforded her more opportunity to go wheel-towheel with drivers like the ones she'll run against at the ninth annual Meadow Brook Historic Races this weekend, Aug. 7-8, at Waterford Hills.

Vintage car racing was kind of an unknown quantity in Detroit when organizers of the Meadow Brook Concours d'-Elegance decided to add it to the growing list of activities associated with the concours. Finding old race cars was at first akin to locating men and

By Jenny King drew thousands of spectators over a three-day weekend. They came to see 100 cars in a variety of shapes and ages, and powered by a range of highdecibel engines, qualify and run against each other on the rolling, twisting 1.5-mile road course at Waterford Hills. This year the number of entries is about the same for the August races, Sheridan said.

"When we decided back in 1985 to expand Meadow Brook to include historic races, finding vintage racing cars in Detroit was just about impossible," he said.

Enthusiasts indicate it wasn't so much a lack of interest as lack of funds. A few cars are worth more than $2 million. Other entries are valued in the thousands of dollars.

"There's a saying, 'the best way to make a small fortune in racing is to start out with a big

'Back in the late 1960s a couple of us had two Corvettes we used to race," Cronin said. "But over the years we ran out of money and kind of got out of

Now, he said, he has helped build a '69 Vette from parts picked up here and there - or, as he put it, "stolen from Tony." With De Lorenzo behind the wheel, the often-rebuilt two-seater with a 454-CID big block V-8 under the hood has cleaned up against vehicles like Mustangs and Camaros.

"I've worked on beauty pageant cars that are just for show, but I personally like to be able to really drive them," Cronin said.

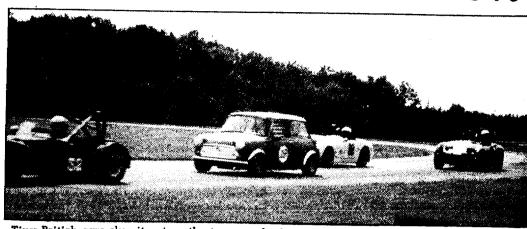

And drivers at the historic races need more than a 1972or-earlier vehicle and some enthiusiasm, according to Championship Promotions' Sheridan. There now is a 17-member Vintage Motorsport Council that produces a total of 86 vintagevehicle races. While it isn't an official sanctioning body, it has hammered out guidelines that affect vehicles and drivers, Sheridan said.

Though the race is aimed at amateurs, all drivers are required to have a license to race," said Don Burry, co-chair of the 1993 Meadow Brook races and an active fan who began sprinting in 1966 in a British-built Mini Cooper.

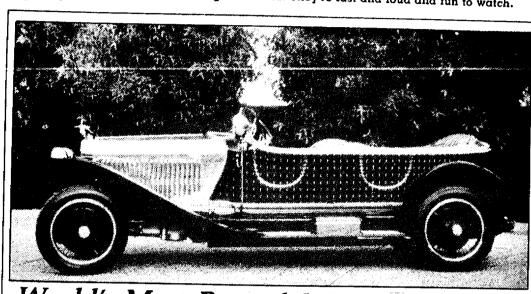

"Cars are placed according to sizes in about a half-dozen categories. We try not to have a preponderance of any one

World's Most Beautiful Car contender

This hand-built, hand-painted Hispano Suiza, delivered to its first owner in France in 1922 and making a special trip to Meadow Brook this year, was purchased by the American Giles Healey in 1933. The story has it Healey paid $1,000 for the fine automobile (plus a few hundred dollars to the owner's chauffeur as a kind of finder's fee) before shipping it to New York City. Healey believed in using his possessions and is said to have driven the Hispano Suiza from the Atlantic to the Pacific in 1947 when the family's Buick was unable to make the trip west. Healey eventually moved to a ranch at Big Sur in California and continued to drive his car for several years before it was put in storage. When he passed away, his daughter sold the vehicle to tomato grower and shipper Robert L. Meyer, of King City, Calif., who had it completely restored. Look for its mix of wood, nickel-plated brightwork, ostrich hide upholstery, wire wheels, polished aluminum hood and cowl and ebony fenders. Hand-painted lines on body panels resemble woven canework, considered very chic at that time. Varnish color combinations blend to match the plumage of exotic birds. It's powered by a singleoverhead-cam 6-cylinder engine derived from the V-8s that powered Allied fliers in World War I.

Grosse Pointe Safety Town participant Katherine Ball, center, and her friends learned how to play it safe around electricity from Detroit Edison safety mascot Louie the Lightning Bug and Chevis Spratt of the utility's corporate communications staff.

Through the Safety Town program, the group also learned about traffic safety and what to do when approached by strangers. Detroit Edison expects to teach nearly 2,200 children about electrical safety this summer in similar programs throughout southeastern Michigan, including five other Grosse Pointe-area visits.

J.R., a former ULS camper, performed a variety of magic tricks in his two shows at the camp. Campers were astounded at the performances, which were highlighted by two special tricks: the Houdini Mail Bag Escape and the Metamorphosis. J.R. is the youngest person in the world to perform these tricks successfully.

J.R. and his assistant Kelly Rebrand won second place in stage competition during Michigan Magic Day in Grand Rapids in April. The two performers combine magic with comedy, music and showmanship.

Summer reading celebration

The Chataqua Express, a musical potpourri featuring Guy Sferlazza, will perform at the final celebration of the Grosse Pointe Public Library's summer reading program from 11 a.m. to noon on Wednesday, Aug. 11, at the Grosse Pointe Woods Community Center.

The Chataqua Express will delight all ages with stories, music and a variety of stringed instruments including the mandolin, banjolin, lute, ukulele and guitars. In addition, there will be balloons, party favors and the awarding of the branch summer reading grand prizes.

Young readers participating this summer in the "Make-a-Splash! Read!" program at any branch of the library are invited to join the fun.

The summer reading finale is sponsored by the Friends of the Grosse Pointe Public Library.

Not only that, no one asked the residents.

What angered me even further was the fact that the day before the article was published I had to call city hall and ask why my recyclables hadn't been picked up in three weeks.

The woman I spoke with gave me every excuse in the book, quite rudely at that. However, none of her excuses were valid. So why are we paying for bad service?

Also, I rent, and am not responsible for the water bill. However, it was tacked on to my landlord's. This is not fair to people, such as myself, who live paycheck to paycheck and have rent raised because of such unfair practices.

A suggestion to the council: re-think your strategy. As a friend of mine from St. Clair Shores stated after reviewing the article,

What we are concerned with is behavioral patterns and lifestyles, not race. Anyone can live in Grosse Pointe Park, but why should anyone who does not live here claim benefits bought and paid for by our taxes?

You say that Grosse Pointe Park has long shown hospitality to Detroit residents every Halloween. That's a mistake. It's the same mistake I saw in front of the Detroit Institute of Arts recently, when a man and his wife dug into their pockets to give some folding money to two young adult males whose panhandling style was more threatening than imploring. Did they stop to consider what they had paid for? They paid the pair to stick around until their next visit? Rewards encourage the formation of habits. So we must always ask ourselves - what the politically correct never seem to ask themselves - is this behavior what we wish to encourage? What should we

I should think that one look at Long Beach, Calif., would answer that question. Undiscriminating hospitality - like indiscriminate emigration - creates many more problems that it can possiblyo solve or accommodate.

There are already too many hot rods racing around Grosse Pointe Park late at night, squealing tires, radios on full-blast, throwing bottles out of their windows onto lawns, not to mention thefts and burglaries. What is needed is not a relaxation but a further curtailment of through-streets and the traffic they make possible, both north and south, east and west.

Raymond A. Macdonald Grosse Pointe Park 389 St. Clair, school tax repeal linked?

To the Editor: I would like to remind our community of the. school board meetings Aug. 9 and Aug. 16. These meetings are held at the Wicking Library at Grosse Pointe South High School at 8 p.m.

Due to the loss of funding from the 65 percent repeal of property taxes, our schools will be forced to contend with an unprecedented situation. As a community, we must come up with innovative ideas just to maintain the status quo.

In order to keep everything our school system owns and to keep operating with our own set of priorities, we must make sure that we are using all our space wisely. I am afraid under the new state funding that if we do not use our system wisely, we will be told how to use our space and money.

Keep the administration at 389 St. Clair and allow the proposed Historical Foundation time to raise the funds privately to renovate the buildings. Many in our community have already pledged money, time and their organizational skills to reach this goal, but they were turned down by the board.

Our new president of the board, Tim Howlett, had proposed allowing the community one year to come up with funding and if the goal is not reached use a bond issue to make up the difference.

Let's look at this proposal; let's work together and keep the administration together at one site in a historically renovated building.

Sense and nonsense

We are in the seventh month of cleaning out the family home. If the truth be told, there were several long breaks along the way and we have had the luxury of making decisions in a leisure manner. However, I am of two opinions on the situation. If we had attempted to sell the house in haste, we would have been forced to get on with the clean-up and put it behind us. That's not all bad. With no pressure, we have been able to take our time and do a thorough job of sorting and making educated decisions on what to keep, throw, etc. The later method enables us to walk through the grieving process at our own pace and, in time, we trust the final goodbyes will be more comfortable and indeed it might be easier to say farewell to the chore part.

In these past months I've compiled a list of the "stuff" of life that we save and have categorized it into two lists, the Sensible and Non-sensible. Maybe if I read the list often enough, I will be inspired to heed by own advice so that my children wil be spared the tedious job of trying to guess my motives for saving when I am unable to explain or defend myself.

The board is offering portable buildings or redistricting to solve this overcrowding problem. This community does not want portables or redistricting.

Let the nursery school that has been operating out of Barnes school stay there. Its rent covered the utility bills at Barnes. If any rooms are left, allow the community education offices to stay there for maximum use of a building, satisfying many needs.

Let's take this one step further, and look at the "pockets" of space that are available. Empty spaces should be rented to small businesses or foundations that need one room, a phone and a fax. There are many associations looking for this type of space. It is difficult to find small office space, at a reasonable price in this area. These are offices with little or no walkin traffic.

Let's let these rents cover our utility costs. Let our community be the first to show the state how innovative we are.

Let our community be the first to have "utilityfree" school budgets that show that this community is equipped to preserve our educational system and committed to the future by adapting to our new way of financing.

dits who gave us the Kalkaska school disaster. They shut the kids out from three months of school. Then Keith Geiger, NEA head, instead of regrets for these deprived kids, said, "Let this be a warning to all other Michigan school districts. If they don't want a strike, be prepared to cough up - on cue!" That's the threat under which our guys are negotiating. Will they "cough up?" If they take the temperature of the

The NEA is a far greater menace than it appears. Right now they're plotting with Al Shanker and his AFT union of 800,000 teachers to merge into one union of three million teachers coast-to-coast. There goes educational freedom. Geiger's gang has already captured management as our current teachers' contract at tests. Now they're setting their sights to grab curriculum-control.

School strikes in Michigan are illegal. Nobody pays any attention to their illegality. But what if some courageous district did? What if they got NEA into court and ran them right up the court ladder - local, state, federal and Supreme

I'd like to give our guys steroids, or something. They're dealing with the larger, wholly as unconsful than Hoffa's union at its peak.
The NEA doesn't negoti-

City of Grosse Pointe Woods Michigan

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the City Council, meeting as a Board of Appeals under the provisions of Section 5-14-1 of the 1975 City Code will meet in the Council-Court Room of the Municipal Building, 20025 Mack Plaza, on Monday, August 16, 1993, at 7:30 p.m., to hear the appeal of Friends Hair & Nails, 19877 Mack Avenue, who is appealing the denial of the Building Inspector to issue a building permit for Friends Hair & Nails, 19877 Mack Avenue, Grosse Pointe Woods. The permit was denied due to a deficiency in the amount of off-street parking as required in Section 5-3-16(3c) of the 1975 City Code. A variance is therefore required. All interested parties are invited to attend.

Moran seeks re-election to Park council

Valerie Moran

re-election to the Grosse Pointe Park City Council in Novem-

She has been active on the council serving on the Recreation, Personnel, Street Improvement and Public Safety Building committees and is the council representative to the Detroit City Airport Opposition Committee. Moran was instrumental in the search and selection of the opposition committee's legal consultant, James Burnley, the former secretary of transportation.

A lifeskills teacher at Pierce Middle School, she is married to Patrick Moran and has two children, Lauren and Ashley.

Valerie Moran is running for direct lineal descendants of Jimmy Hoffa and his Teamsters. In fact, NEA is cionable, and more power-teachers a 7 percent increase each year for three years — a total of 22 percent. I know of no other unionized group who came even close to that figure. Strangest of all, our softtouch negotiators gave 7 percent when the cutthroat NEA settled elsewhere for only 6 percent!

Our administrators act as if the NEA were a professional organization an "education" association. The NEA cares nothing about kids except as bargaining chips. And they're about as "professional" as a crap game in a saloon. They are a "trade union" and don't forget it.

I've been reviewing the school system's projected 1993-94 budget. They're projecting a cost for every teacher of $65,240, including salary and fringe. But that fringe - it's $7,005 per teacher! Each gets the most expensive health insurance available, at a yearly cost of $4,000 - covering not only the teacher, but spouse, all children even those in college. Is there any other taxpayer

This year, 500,000 kids will learn about bike safety the hard way.

The hard facts

Every year, scores of children are treated for serious head injuries caused by bike accidents. Even a simple fall can result in a concussion, and possibly brain damage.

> The importance of bike helmets A well-made bicycle helmet provides invaluable protection. Encourage your child to use one by wearing one yourself. Kneepads, elbow pads and tough jeans also help absorb impact.

No monkey business

Stress the importance of bike safety to vour child. No curb jumping and no friends on the handlebars. Kids should walk their bikes across intersections. And they should stay off oversized bikes; they're a common cause of accidents.

A final note

To receive a free bike reflector, call our Physician Referral and Information Service at 1-800-237-5646. To learn more about these and other health issues, tune into our HealthWatch program, weekdays at 5:55 a.m. and 5:27 p.m. on WJR, 760 AM.

WHY BUY A HOME NOW?

Don't miss out on the greatest location on the eastside! This is the last site for new residential homes in St. Clair Shores. And what a location, location, location, location! Just one block east is the beautiful Memorial Park right on Lake St. Clair. Only a few blocks west is the golf course even if you don't play golf what a great place for lunch or dinner. Shopping is only a block away with easy access to area expressways and entertainment. This is "country club living" at its finest.

But don't wait. With only a few homes left there will never be this chance again. Look at our low prices for quality custom built home. Next year cost of homes will be more because lumber prices and land costs along with many other factors will increase the prices.

You'll never be able to buy a new home at this low of a price! North Shore Villas is a quiet little community of only 40 homes. A home with a lot of space including a front yard nestled in the middle of a quiet residential neighborhood with little traffic.

There are a lot of great dining places and shopping malls are close by. Come to North Shore Villas and fall in love with a home of your own.

For information call Piku Management Co. 293-6760.

OPEN 7 DAYS Mon. thru Fri. 9 am to 5 pm Sat. & Sun. 1 pm to 5 pm

St. Clair Shores

DON'T WAIT, SEE US TODAY!!

You can still buy a great home that's just a five minute walk from beautiful Lake St. Clair. You can also have the condominium lifestyle while living in a well-kept residential neighborhood.

North Shore Villas on Masonic, (13 1/2 mile), just west of Jefferson, in St. Clair Shores, offers new, spacious "ranch villas," each built with quality workmanship and a sense of personal care by Piku Management Co.

But there are only 4 homes left for sale at North Shore Villas.

Frank Piku and his son Chris are offering a last chance opportunity to own a custom-built home in St. Clair Shores for under $100,000.

And St. Clair Shores is the place to live on the east side, with its easy access to I-94, well-respected schools, beautiful parks, and city services.

I city services. By purchasing now you can take advantage of incredibly low interest rates as well as the builder's final close-out pricing. Move into your brand new home and enjoy the finished landscape areas surrounding your home.

Only 3 one-car-garage and one two-car-garage homes of this 40 home development remain to be sold. When Piku Management Co. bought the five and-one-half acre site for North Shore Villas they received some of the last land zoned for residential development.

If you take the time to visit with either Frank Piku, who has been a developer for 38 years, or his son Chris, who builds the homes, you'll discover the quality construction and high professional standards they bring to all their homes.

The people who have already made the move to North Shore Villas are happy with their decision.

Each home has two bedrooms, a full basement, attached garage, dining and living rooms, kitchen with eating space, the option to include two baths, and a first floor laundry.

Shopping, dining, the Shore's municipal golf course, and a park on the lake are all close by for recreation.

North Shore Villas offers a lot of value for your money, including a recently reduced association fee of $72 a month for a one-cargarage-home, $85 a month for two-car-garage-homes. This fee includes all exterior building & grounds maintenance, water and sewer usage, landscaping, snow removal, underground sprinklers eliminating all of the back-breaking outside maintenance a homeowner contends with.

Let yourself have that home you've always wanted. The price is right.

In addition to the spacious living area, all homes include: G.E. kitchen appliances, central air conditioning, Merrilat oak cabinets, carpeting, no-wax vinyl flooring and much more! All included in the price of the home!

Save $6,000 on Floor Plan A. Regularly selling for $105,900. Save $6,000 and purchase this home for $99,900. Completely deluxe.

With 20 percent down, a buyer can move into a brand new home for $545 a month (based on a 30-year, 7.250 percent mortgage).

North Shore Villas is between Harper and Jefferson off Masonic (13 1/2 Mile) in St. Clair Shores. Piku Management Co. is open Monday-Friday from 9 a.m. - 5 p.m., weekends from 1-5 p.m.

For more information, call North Shore Villas at 293-6760.

"Cullen had the ability to hit winners from the backcourt," Berschback said. "For the first time this year, he was strong enough to overpower his opponents.

Gutow is expecting big things from Levine, who'll be a senior at North this fall.

Levine has been on North's team since his freshman season, but didn't play No. 1 until this year.

'Mark, Craig and Mike McHugh have improved each year, but Mark improved the fastest," Gutow said. "He's totally committed to tennis, and like the other two, his dedication rubs off on the rest of the team.'

Gutow is most impressed with the way Levine reacts to a defeat.

"Whenever he loses he learns a valuable lesson," the coach said. "He lost a three-set match to Eisenhower's Chris Zoller early in the year but when he met him again in the conference meet, Mark took a 6-1, 6-1 victory. If you beat Mark, you'd better watch out the next time you play him."

Wheeler, a junior, moved up to second singles after playing third a year ago, and was seeded fifth in the state meet. He won his first match 6-1, 6-0.

"Jeff's biggest attribute is his speed," Berschback said. "He's one of the fastest players I've seen. You have to place the shots all over the court to beat him. His serve is getting stronger and he's capable of raising his game to another Rogowski played first singles for North as a freshman and sophomore and when he dropped back to No. 2 last year, he excelled in the flight.

'He was a good player at No. 1, but at No. 2 he was awe-some," Gutow said. "Craig has the same kind of dedication that Mark brings to the court."

Rogowski dropped a threesetter in his first match at the state tournament.

South's Power and Halso advanced to the semifinals of the state tournament before losing their first match.

Power, a senior, skipped his junior year of tennis to concentrate on golf, but rejoined the team this spring and was

Power was the most consistent of the two, but Halso made some of the more spectacular shots.

"Jeff has a lot of raw talent, but he also has the intelligence to realize he has a lot to learn," Berschback said. "Paul was every consistent and was the one who took the tough points. They complemented each other very well."

Two Pointers sailing in Texas

Christin Feldman of Grosse Pointe Park and Shera Teitge of Grosse Pointe City are competing this week in the US Sailing/Rolex Junior Women's Championship in La Porte,

The event is the premier national competition for women 18 years old and younger and it tests their singlehanded sailing -skills in radial-rigged lasers, a -high-performance 14-foot sailboat. Six races, ranging from Thre to seven miles, are schedjuled for Galveston Bay from Aug. 6-8.

Sports Sprint fastest in Mackinac race

By Chuck Klonke Sports Editor

John Stevens knew he had a good boat and an excellent crew, but the Grosse Pointe sailor wasn't sure that was enough to beat some of the new 70-footers that were sailing the Bayview Port Huron to Mackinac race for the first time.

"Most people thought that boats like Windquest and Renegade had the edge, so I guess when we came in first overall it was a little unexpected," Stevens said.

Stevens' Sprint III, sailing in the PHRF C class, had a corrected time of 25 hours, 12 minutes, 18 seconds, and set a record for the 69-year-old race.

"There were a lot of factors in our success," Stevens said. We have an excellent crew that has a perfect blend of youth and experience. We had a plan going in that all the major players agreed on. There was no difference of opinion, which we've never had before.

The boat was well-prepared. It's a lot like a race car where a mechanical breakdown can cost you the race. We take great care to prevent technical

"Then there's the matter of place overall. luck. The wind this year came at just the right angle where it favored us more than some of the other boats in the fleet. Our boat is excellent for close reaching and the wind gave us the maximum speed."

Stevens said this year's race reminded him of the 1986 race in which Sprint I took first

"And we'll be back again the only one who has sailed on next year," Stevens promised.

Velero keeps record, wins its class

By Chuck Klonke Sports Editor

Sometimes your best friends are your toughest competitors.

That's why Velero VI skipper John Barbour was going to do everything in his power to keep his pal Larry Oswald from winning the IMS class at last week's Bayview Port Huron to Mackinac race.

'Our closest competitors are Larry's Disruption and Sonny Tisdale's Assail and Disruption had won the last three races," Barbour said. "Larry was trying to match our record of four straight wins, so I told him before the race, T'm going to do all I can to see that you don't win.

"We're a pretty close-knit group," Barbour said of the three skippers of North American 40 boats. "Most of the time we're racing in one-design races."

Barbour, a Detroit attorney who lives in the City of Grosse Pointe, won four straight Mackinac races while sailing Velero VI for Doug and Maggie Wake. He purchased the boat from the Wakes in 1989 and has been very successful in his own right.

Since 1990, Barbour has two seconds and a first in the IMS class. This is the fifth time he's been on a winning boat in the Port Huron to Mackinac race. As expected, Disruption gave Velero VI its toughest competition in the fastest Mackinac race in the 69-year history of the event.

"We started together and were never more than 100 yards apart for the first 200 Barbour said. miles," swapped positions several times, but were never out of sight of each other.'

Some 50 miles from the finish line the wind picked up and Velero VI took advantage of the conditions more effectively than Disruption.

"I mentioned to one of my crew members that one of us might break away when we put the spinnakers up," Barbour said. "Larry caught a bad wave and rounded (spun) out and we put four miles on him before he got turned around. We were able to keep our spinnakers up while he had to take his down. Those last 50 miles to the island were the fastest I've ever gone in an NA 40."

Barbour's crew on Velero IV includes two women, Sandra Thompson and Catherine Cost.

"When I sailed with Doug he always stressed a family crew and there was always at least one woman because Maggie sailed with him," Barbour said. "Sandra is my secretary and Catherine's husband Nick sailed with me for 10 years before he defected to Assail. I tell everybody that I kept the better half because we've finished ahead of Assail in the Mackinac races.'

Other crew members are Dennis Fornal, Jim Keller, John Kucherczyk, David Klein, Jack Wildermouth and Frank Piku.

"It was one of our easier races," Barbour said. "We never tacked on the first leg. We started starboard and stayed starboard until Cove Island. Then we tacked to the port side and stayed there to the finish.'

The race wasn't without won a championship when she some difficulty, however.

"The last 50 miles we had some hose trouble so we took turns hand pumping," Barbour said. "That was a new experience for almost everyone in the Barbour started sailing when he was a college student in the late 1960s and this was his 25th Port Huron to Mackinac race, earning him the rank of Old Goat.

He came by sailing naturally. His mother, Marian Clark of Grosse Pointe Shores, was sailing out of Toledo. He also had good teachers in the

"I started sailing with Dr. Wake in 1975 and he's to sailing what Muhammed Ali is to boxing," Barbour said. "Eventually I became his main guy and like an adopted son. I sailed 15 Mackinacs with Doug and Maggie. When they moved to Florida, I'd do all the preparation and they'd come back a day before the race."

Obviously, Barbour learned his lessons well.

Pointers do well in Belle Isle race

Two Grosse Pointe residents took the first two places in the Men's Novice division and a former Grosse Pointer won the Ladies Novice Division at the recent Inline Skating Association regional championship on Belle Isle.

Jaqueline Farnen, 13, who now lives in Switzerland, was more than a minute ahead of her closest competitor in Ladies Novice and she was seventh overall.

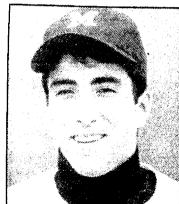

Rick Teranes, a manager of Bikes, Blades and Boards in Grosse Pointe Park, finished first and another employee of the store, Frank Miller, was second, five-tenths of a second behind Teranes in Men's Novice. Teranes and Miller broke away from the lead group midway through the last lap of the five-kilometer race and sprinted head-to-head over the last 200 meters. Teranes' winning time was 11:12.7.

Teranes also won the Novice Men's Under 30 title and Miller captured the Novice Men's Under 19 crown.

Farnen, Teranes and Miller are all sponsored by Bikes, Blades and Boards.

Mike Levan, a managing partner of Bikes, Blades and Boards, won the Novice division of the Can-Am Cup in May.

The regional championship was hosted by the City Rollers Inline Skating Club. The final race in the Grand Prix series, the state championships, will be held on Belle Isle on Sept.

ULS grad finishes third year at U-M

Kevin Crociata will be one of two returning seniors on Michigan's baseball team when he reports for fall practice.

A Big Ten All-Academic selection, the former University Liggett School standout, is working for Procter & Gamble in the Cleveland area on an internship during the summer.

Crociata played shortstop as a freshman, moved to left field in his sophomore season when he won the squad's Most Improved Player award, and shared time at third base this

Wood to get

The honors keep rolling in for University Liggett School athletic director and boys tennis coach Bob Wood.

He recently became one of five recipients of the Michigan High School Athletic Association's Allen W. Bush award. The award honors service in high school athletics as coach, administrator, official, trainer, doctor or media member.

Wood has been athletic director at ULS for 25 years and has held several coaching positions at the school.

Since he became athletic director in 1968, the ULS program has increased from 13 to 21 sports teams in a school that had 273 students last year.

In 1986, Wood was inducted into the Michigan High School Tennis Coaches Hall of Fame and five years later became a member of the Michigan High School Coaches Assocation Hall of Fame.

He was a founder of the Michigan High School Tennis Coaches Association, co-founder of the Metro Conference and codirector of the Detroit and Chicago Tennis Coaches Workshop.

Earlier this summer, Wood received the Dwight T. Keith award from the National High School Athletic Coaches Association. The Keith award is presented annually to a person who has made an outstanding contribution to high school interscholastic athletics in a noncoaching role.

Barracudas win ninth straight

The Grosse Pointe Farms Barracudas swim team won its ninth straight dual meet by defeating the St. Clair Shores Lakers 293-178.

The Barracudas won 33 of 43 events and had six double win-

Winning two individual events were Katie Amaro in the girls 8-and-under freestyle and backstroke; Julie Mazer-Schmidt, girls 10 ind-under backstroke and but fly; Erik Knudson, boys 10-and-under freestyle and backstroke; Amanda Dumler, girls 12-andunder backstroke and butterfly; Kenny Mazer-Schmidt, boys 12and-under breaststroke and butterfly; and Matt Elich, boys 14-and-under freestyle and but-

Farms golfers shoot aces

A pair of Grosse Pointe Farms golfers recently shot their first holes-in-one.

Jeffrey Kraussman aced the 141-yard 15th hole at Plumbrook golf course in Sterling Heights.

He used a seven iron and shot 90 for the round while playing in the Chrysler Old-Timers League.

Kraussman has been golfing seriously for about two years.

"I didn't realize it was that big a deal until I got to the clubhouse and everybody started congratulating me," he said. "A lot of people have been golfing a lot longer than I have without getting a hole-in-one. I didn't think it was going in, but it landed about a foot from the pin and rolled into the hole.

Charlie Roby got his ace on the 110-yard eighth hole at Pointe Aux Barques near Port Austin.

Roby used a pitching wedge.

Other individual winners were Marc Mathews, boys 8and-under freestyle; Chris Roosen, boys 8-and-under backstroke; Ashley Simon, girls 10and under breaststroke; Marc Kaplan, boys 10 and under breaststroke; Mike Mathews, boys 10-and-under butterfly; Katherine Klienert, girls 12and-under freestyle; Jaime DeHayes, girls 12-and-under breaststroke; Bill Lloyd, boys 12 and under backstroke; Lindsay Adams, girls 14-and-under backstroke; Jenny Rolka, girls 14-and-under breaststroke; Martin Mathews, boys 14-andunder backstroke; Marty Eaton, boys 14-and-under breaststroke; Kathie Schrage, girls 17-andunder breaststroke; Sarah Booher, girls 17-and-under butterfly; and Topher Ollison, boys 17-and-under breaststroke.

The Barracudas' winning relays were the boys 12-and-under medley team of Lloyd, Justin Bosley, Kenny Mazer-Schmidt and Mike Lavalle; the girls 12-and-under medley team of Katie Critchell, DeHayes, Dumler and Klienert; the 8and-under mixed freestyle team of Roosen, Marc Mathews, Caroline DiVirgil and Amaro; the 10-and-under mixed freestyle team of Kaplan, Mike Mathews, Maya Palmgren and Kenny Mazer-Schmidt; the boys 57-year freestyle team of Martin Mathews, Scott Vande-Vusse, Eaton and Elich; and the girls 57-year freestyle team of Amy Booher, Allison Eaton, Adams and Leah Kaplan.

Warriors win tinale

Warriors wound up the Lakefront Swimming Association season with a 235-231 victory over the St. Clair Shores Lak-

The Warriors, who finished 4-1, won 20 of 35 individual events but the Lakers stayed close by winning four of the seven relays.

A pair of 1-2 finishes by 10year-old twins Kevin and Scott Paavola highlighted the Warriors' effort. Scott edged Kevin in the 50-yard freestyle and also nipped his brother in the 25 butterfly. The Paavolas were also on the winning 10-and-under mixed 100 freestyle relay.

Other double winners were Steve Williams, boys 17-andunder 50 freestyle and 50 butterfly; Melissa Jamerino, girls 8-and under 25 freestyle and girls 10 and under 25 butterfly; and Brent Nielubowicz, boys 12-and-under 50 freestyle and 50 butterfly.

City lifeguards test techniques

Lifeguards and swimmers from the City of Grosse Pointe recently assisted the American Red Cross in field testing lifeguard training skills.

Diane Zedan, the water safety instructor for the Southeastern Michigan chapter of the Red Cross and the director of the City swim program, assisted in the program along with lifeguards Peggy Francis, Blair Hess, Mary Rowe and Chris Marston.

City swimmers who participated were Craig Wilson, Cory Wininger, Jenny Failla and Liz

Results of the testing will help determine which techniques will become part of the lifeguard training course taught by the Red Cross.

The Grosse Pointe Woods tyle; John Finkelman, boys 14and-under 50 freestyle; Michael Fox, boys 8-and-under 25 backstroke; Noah Fox, boys 10-andunder 25 backstroke; Brian Granger, boys 12-and-under 50 backstroke; and Liisa Bergman, girls 12-and-under 50 back-

Also, Laura Hoffman, girls 10-and-under 25 breaststroke; Mark Kelly, boys 12-and-under 50 breaststroke; Holly Brys, girls 12-and-under 50 breaststroke; Mike Jamerino, boys 14and-under 50 breaststroke; Sean Granger, boys 17-and-under 50 breaststroke; and Therder 50 breaststroke; and Theresa Northey, girls 12-and-under prep award 50 butterfly.

After an opening loss to Grosse Pointe Farms, the Woods won four straight dual meets, including a 242-228 victory over defending league champion Grosse Pointe Park.

Zaharias event at Great Oaks

The 18th annual Babe Zaharias golf championship and auction to benefit the American Cancer Society will be held Monday, Aug. 30, at Great Oaks Country Club in Roches-

Shotgun times for the tournament are 8 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. Dinner, awards and auction will be at 6:30 p.m.

The tournament is open to women in the tri-county area. A team package costs $175 per participant and includes 18 holes of golf, carts, continental breakfast and lunch for four, prizes for the winners and four dinner-auction tickets.

Foursomes from the tournament's three divisions will play a scramble format. Division winners will represent the Metro Detroit area in the state championships. State winners will advance to the national championship in Florida.

For more details, contact the American Cancer Society at 557-5353 or Dru Perkins at 263-8000

500 ANIMALS ADOPT A PET

PLEASE DON'T DELAY! SPAY or NEUTER YOUR PET TODAY!

An altered pet is a healthier and happier companion. Also, it spares you the grief and pain of having puppies and kittens destroyed when no homes can be found. Countless numbers of sweet, innocent little ones are euthanized every day in shelters across the country because a pet wasn't spayed or neutered. If we cut down on the numbers of unwanted litters being born, we will also cut down on the number of abandoned. lost and unwanted animals to destroy.

WE WILL BE HAPPY TO PROVIDE ADVICE as well as a LIST OF ECONOMICAL

Youth Assistance Program gives good kids who've made bad choices a chance to start over

By Margie Reins Smith Feature Editor

Marcie is your fresh-faced seventh-grade next door neighbor. She plays her radio a tad too loud, babysits for the young couple across the street, sneaks an occasional cigarette on the back porch when her parents aren't around, and loves dogs.

While shopping in the Village with some new girlfriends, Marcie tried on a terrific pair of designer jeans. On a dare, she left her ratty old jeans in a heap in the dressing room and walked out of the store wearing the new ones.

The store called the cops. Fifteen-year-old Scott lives down the street and used to deliver your afternoon newspaper. He can hardly wait until he's 16, old enough to get his driver's license. He spends several hours each week driving the family car in and out of the driveway. Scott and two of his friends were arrested for breaking into parked cars. The boys took radios and tape decks and items they found in the cars; they even pried the emblems off some of the cars.

In the Grosse Pointes and Harper Woods, kids like Marcie and Scott (who are fictitious, but based on fact) and their families may get a break.

The Youth Assistance Program, a division of the Children's Home of Detroit, offers an alternative to Wayne County Juvenile Court for teenagers in trouble for the first

"It's for good kids who have committed a minor crime or made a poor choice," said Jane Salkowski, coordinator of community programs for the Children's Home of Detroit.

Jane Salkowski

It's strictly voluntary, said Jennifer Christians, Youth Assistance Program coordinator. "First-time offenders get the opportunity to participate in this program instead of going downtown to the Wayne County court. We get referrals from the youth officers of each Grosse Pointe and Harper Woods, from local schools, and we get some self-referrals from families.

The program is unique because there's no counseling and no therapy involved, Christians said.

Instead, trained volunteer mentors work one-on-one with the youngsters. Mentors serve as positive role models, provide support and a caring adult to talk to about setting goals and changing behav-

"It's enriching and rewarding for mentors too," said Bob Chapelle of Grosse Pointe Farms, one of a group of newly trained mentors in the program. Chapelle is in his early 30s, is single, and works in the National Bank of Detroit's human resources department.

"I was born and raised in Grosse Pointe and wanted to give something back to the community," he said. "I like talking to teenagers, working with them to set goals and define values, meet challenges."

Youngsters must participate and successfully complete all three parts of the program, Salkowski

 Community service. Kids must spend 15 hours volunteering in the community. Some work at Bon Secours Hospital. They deliver mail to patients or help with clerical duties in the hospital's office. Others opt to volunteer at Henry Ford Ĥospital's Belmont Center. They read to blind patients, play cards or games, and make themselves useful - like, for instance, painting patients' fingernails.

Others cut the grass at St. Clare of Montefalco Church or shelve books in the public library.

"This lets kids know there are consequences for their behavior," Christians said. "We have strict guidelines for absenses."

 Mentoring. Teens must participate in eight one-hour mentoring sessions at the community services office.

"Mentoring is nearly always a very positive experience," Salkowski said. "Often this is the first time a youngster has had a chance to talk to an adult who isn't judgmental. Who listens. And some kids are amazed when they learn that their mentor is a volunteer that he or she really cares.'

• Project Impact. Teens must spend 10 hours participating in a peer interaction group. The groups are made up of about six teenagers and a facilitator. They discuss things like problem solving, communication, responsibility, peer pressure, self-esteem and other issues important to adolescents.

Parents of kids in the Youth Assistance Program must attend two parenting workshops sponsored by the Children's Home of Detroit. The seminars, which are also open to other parents in the community, deal with topics such as discipline, substance abuse, teen suicide and

The Children's Home of Detroit, an independent non-profit treatment center for children who are troubled, provides 50 percent of the Youth Assistance Program's yearly budget. The other half comes from the five Grosse Pointes and Harper Woods. The Youth Assistance Program's annual budget is $80,000.

Christians said there are currently 10 active volunteer mentors, men and women from their 20s to their 50s who have taken 30 hours of training to prepare themselves for working with troubled teenag-

Approximately 30 youngsters are currently in the program. Ninety percent are boys.

It's all free, Salkowski said. "I want more people to know that we have a program here in the community to assist adolescents and their families. And it's free."

For those who successfully complete the program, Christians said, the charges are dropped.

"But it's a one-shot program. The next time — he or she must go down to Wayne County Juvenile Court," she said.

In 1992, 82 youngsters partici-

Puppies need foster families

Paws With a Cause is a national non-profit organization that develops mutually beneficial working relationships between people with disabilities and dogs. Dogs are trained to help people who are hearing impaired, for instance, or who have limited mobility.

Paws With a Cause is looking for families to raise potential Paws' puppies until they are about 18 months old.

"Raising a foster puppy can be one of the most rewarding things you may ever do," said Mike Sapp, Paws' CEO. "To know that you are playing an important role in bringing independence to people with disabilities is a wonderful feeling.

Sapp said that in order for puppies to become Paws dogs, they must grow up in stimulating and caring environments. To learn more about becoming a Paws foster parent, call the corporate office at 1-800-253-

Herb Society holds weekly workshops

An informal meeting of the Grosse Pointe unit of The Herb Society of America will be held in the Trial Garden at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial on Tuesday, Aug. 10, at 7:30

Judy Decosmo will discuss attracting butterflies to an herb garden and Mae Spitzer will discuss the plants that have been placed in the existing butterfly section of the garden.

Other summertime activities include workshops every Wednesday from 9-11 a.m. Items such as rose and lemon balm jelly, shadow boxes with dried herbs, pressed herbs in picture frames and tussie mussies will be made in the workshops, which are designed to enhance creativity and knowledge of herbs.

Members who are interested should call Ann Eatherly for more information.

Fundraiser for at-risk infants

Detroit Riverview Hospital's annual benefit dinner, "A Night to Care '93," will be held on Friday, Oct. 29, at the Roostertail Catering Club.

Proceeds from the black tie-optional event will be used for services at the hospital which benefit high-risk newborns.

Mannequins and Michigan residents are saving lives

More than 5,000 mannequins will provide vital hands-on CPR practice time for 200,000 Michigan residents this year.

Because mannequins provide essential practice for learning cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) skills, and because CPR is one of the most important steps to assure survival in a cardiac arrest, additional mannequins have been presented to the American Heart Association of Michigan.

The new CPR mannequins, donated by the National Automobile Dealers Association and the Detroit Auto Dealers Association, will be placed in certified training centers at Crittendon Hospital in Rochester and in the Addison Township Fire Department in Leonard. New mannequins allow more people to enroll in CPR training. One model per student provides the maximum time to practice chest compressions and breathing techniques.

Each year more than 500,000 people die in North America from cardiac arrest. Two out of every three of these deaths occur before the victims reach the hospital. If more individuals learned CPR, more lives could be saved.

There are 250 AHA certified training centers where Michigan residents can learn CPR skills. The Basic Life Saving course taught by AHA-certified instructors takes four hours. Most CPR classes are free; a few may charge $5. There are no tests and each student has a mannequin for ample practice time. All ages may enroll. Even 8-year-olds and younger children have saved lives. Instructors offer a video, lecture, demonstration and coaching during CPR practice time on the mannequins. Yearly refreshers are encouraged.

"Because of advances in technology, many people are not sure of the importance of CPR today," says Peg Yakel, chairperson of AHA's basic life saving committee. "CPR is without a doubt one of the most important steps in assuring survival Tyler Cosmas Hoffman

> It is estimated that 70 percent of cardiac arrests occur in the home. Statistically, CPR skills are most likely going to be needed to save a friend or relative - someone close.

AHA suggests that if 20 percent of adults were trained in CPR, mortality and morbidity from out-of-hospital cardiac arrest could be significantly reduced. It is estimated that only 10 percent of Michigan residents know CPR.

Intelligent life is near, according to Americans other worlds? Does it resemble the cuddly, tear-shaped creature of Steven Spielberg's "ET"? Or the 9-foot-tall, gasbreathing Psychlos of L. Ron Hubbard's "Battlefield Earth"? If aliens decide to visit Earth, will they come as friends or foes?

A nationwide poll of nearly 1,500 people - including a number of leading astronomers and astrophysicists ducted by the nationally syndicated television show "Dateline: USA" found that more than 70 percent of those surveved believe that there is intelligent life elsewhere in the universe, perhaps even in our own Milky Way galaxy.

Opinion was evenly divided on whether aliens would be hostile or lovable if they came here, but nearly 80 percent extraterrestrial shapes and were convinced that alien technology would be more advanced than ours. It would have to be, to permit them to cross millions of light years of space.

Sixty-five percent of the "Dateline: USA" respondents felt that we'd be conquered or annihilated if an alien race invaded Earth, while 25 percent were sure we would ultimately defeat the intruders, no matter how technologically superior they might be. Ten percent had no opinion or felt they 'wouldn't be around" to find out how such a confrontation turned out.

Producers of the television show said the national survey was inspired by three current developments: the $100 million NASA/SETI (Search for Extra Terrestrial Intelligence) project; the new edition of Hubbard's international science fiction best-seller "Battlefield Earth"; and the release of the film 'Fire In The Sky" depicting Travis Walton's account of his abduction by alien beings.

Yoji Kondo, an astrophysicist at Goddard Space Labs, told a "Dateline: USA" that we "can't assume that the thinking processes of another intelligent

Is there intelligent life on species on another planet, revolving around an alien sun in some distant galaxy would be similar to ours. If they are technologically advanced, we can't be sure they'd even think it worthwhile to attack and plunder a chemical wasteland.'

Astronomer and Physicist Kevin J. Anderson said that despite the current view of biologists, "Who is to say that totally alien forms of life - not based on our carbon-cycle cannot be born in a sea of magnetic fields on the surface of a star, or that civilizations of carbon-based life similar to ours could not develop under oceans, flying high in clouds, or burrowing underground?'

Virtually all of the people surveyed agreed that alien beings from other worlds will not look like us. Opinions on sizes varied widely from tear or pear-shaped creatures and furred, taloned giants to winged lizards and intelligent light-forms.

Tips For Perfectly Grilled Beef

 Grill all beef cuts at medium to medium-low temperature.

• Use well-trimmed beef to avoid flare-ups.

• For safer and more convenient grilling, use long-handled utensils and heavy duty mitts. · Always use tongs for turning beef. Forks pierce the meat, allowing flavorful juices to escape. · Marinades and rubs add unique flavors to beef for the grill. Marinades impart flavor, and in some cases, help tenderize less tender cuts of meat. A rub is a highly concentrated blend of herbs and spices which flavors the exterior of meat as it grills.

Cool cooked marinades completely before adding to the Marinating longer than 24 hours can cause the meat fibers on the surface to break down, resulting in a mushy texture.

 Doneness of steaks is determined by making a slit near the bone and checking color; for boneless cuts, make a slit near the center. An instant-read thermometer can also be used to gauge doneness for thick steaks (at least 1 inch thick) and roasts.

-Sailing — the original marine experience

One of the newest spectator sports on any number of Caribbean islands this season will be to sit on the shore and watch incredibly beautiful tall ships come over the horizon under

But why should someone sit on shore when he or she can share that experience?

Sailing vacations are gaining in popularity. In the past, those with nautical abilities could charter their own sailboats, with or without a crew. But now anyone can go, whether they know a jib from a boom or a winch from a cleat.

This winter six companies with a dozen ships are offering sailing vacations in the Caribbean. They vary from the 617foot Club Med 1 with nearly 400 passengers to the 165-foot Sir Francis Drake with only 34.

Advantages: These ships are small enough that you can meet just about everyone on board. They offer open dining - no set time or table. Because they can enter shallower harbors, their itineraries are apt to be intriguing. Shore excursions are optional, as many passengers decide to explore on their own. Water sports are conducted right off the boat. Passenger/crew ratios are very favorable. And the atmosphere is casual - leave the ties and tuxes at home.

Disadvantages: These ships are smaller and can become a bit tight in inclement weather. Amenities such as pools, saunas and gyms are likely to be minuscule or non-existent. Movie buffs will have to rely on VCRs instead of movie thea-

But so what? Pretend it's a private yacht and it all fits.

What is particularly special is that most of these ships really are moved by the wind. No rumble, no vibration. They actually heel a little (that's the nautical term for leaning sailboats are supposed to do this). And, with the smaller ships, passengers are welcome to participate in the actual sailing process.

Here is a roundup of ships in the Caribbean this season. Prices generally do not include airfare. There are generous discounts for booking early:

Windstar Cruises has been a hit since it entered the luxury cruise market in the late 1980s catering to the upscale, sophisticated traveler. Each of its three 440-foot, four-masted sailing cruise ships can accommodate 148 passengers in spacious outside cabins (185 square feet) which have all the amenities: two portholes, two berths which make a queen-size bed, a television/VCR, mini-bar and ship-to-shore phones.

Technically, these ships are 'sail-assisted, power-driven" because the five sails actually do not do a whole lot of work. As a result, there really isn't "hands-on" experience for passengers.

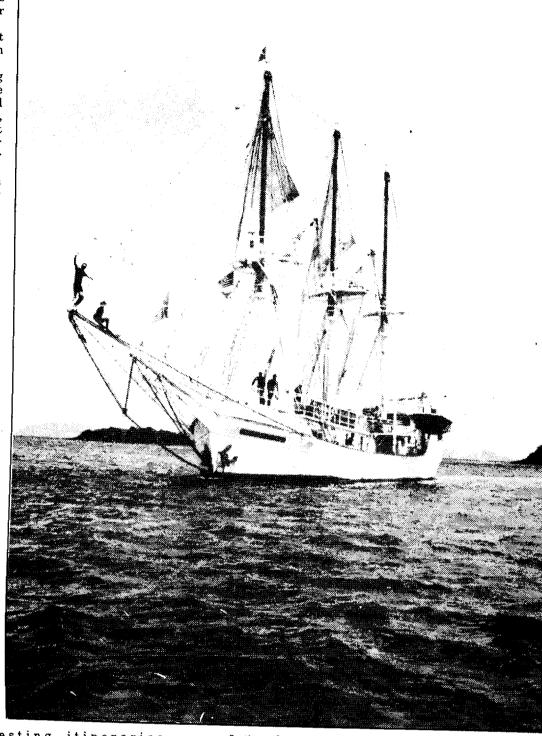

However, the typical Windstar client is more likely to appreciate the large rooms, interesting itineraries, unregimented schedules, open dining and free 24-hour room service. The Windstar ships have casinos, piano bars and small nightclubs. Water-skiing, snorkeling and windsurfing are offered. Scuba diving is available for $50 a trip.

The ship offers a full range of shore excursions. The rate is $370 to $415 a day and the crew/passenger ratio is 1 to 1.6. The ships have a no-tipping policy. Seven- and 14-day packages are available.

The Wind Star will sail alternating northern and southern from Barbados irom Nov. 6 through April 9. (The Wind Song sails year-round in Polynesia and the Wind Spirit will be in southeast Asia.) Call (800) 967-8103.

Club Med, which operates all-inclusive vacation villages throughout the world, is entering its fifth cruise season with the Club Med 1.

It is 617 feet long with eight decks and carries 386 guests. All staterooms are outside (188 square feet) and include TV. phones, mini-bar and 24-hour room service (for a charge).

If you have been to a Club Med village, then the format will be familiar: the primary language will be French and activities will be led by G.O.'s (gentils organisateurs, i.e., recreational staff).

Club Med 1 caters to the sports enthusiast with its supervised fitness center, sauna and massage facilities. A "marina" unfolds from the ship's stern where wind-surfing, sailing, water-skiing and snorkeling are offered. Certified divers will appreciate the two scuba trips each day at no additional Club Med offers both casual and formal dining options and house wine and beer are complimentary with meals. There are also five bars, a casino, and a bit more evening entertainment than on most such ships. However, the ship is run by computers so there's no "handsexperience. Shore excursions are offered.

The cost is $250-310 per day and the crew/passenger ratio is 1 to 2.1. A savings: Club Med has a stringent no-tipping policy. From Nov. 20 through early May, the Club Med 1 is based in Martinique and offers five different weekly itineraries which can be combined for longer trips. (A sister ship, the Club Med 2, sails in Asia and the Pacific.) Call (800) CLUB

Star Clippers boasts the two Flyer and Star Clipper. Both, largest personal yachts at 360 feet in length, are the tallest and largest sailing clipper ships ever built, and the first new ones in over 90 years.

The 172 passengers can participate in a real sailing experience. Each ship flies 36,000 square feet of sail and can reach 15-17 knots; however, the heel is kept to under six degrees for passenger comfort.

Informality prevails. Guests are encouraged to stroll onto the bridge at any time, just as if they owned the yacht. The ships are identical: There are 86 cabins in six categories. Amenities include television and ship-to-shore phones.

Water sport offerings include windsurfing, sailing, waterskiing and snorkeling. Scuba gear is provided to certified divers ($40 an excursion). There are two sunning pools on deck.

is the center of much of the evening activity. There is an elegant dining salon and stately library.

The daily rate is $180 to $360 a person and the crew/ passenger ratio is 1 to 2.6. Tipping: standard. The Star Clipper is based year-round in Antigua. After Nov. 7, the Star Flyer will sail from St. Martin. Between them are offered three different weekly itineraries (especially fine is the Windwards route) which may be combined. Call (800) 442-0551.

Tall Ship Adventures is unique: it only has one ship, but what a beauty it is.

At 165 feet, the Sir Francis Drake is the smallest of the historic tall ships carrying cruise passengers. It has only 14 cabins.

A three-masted schooner built in 1917, the Drake is among the less than 100 remaining authentic tall ships. She is owned by international entrepreneur Eckart Straub and his partner, Bryan Petley of New Zealand, who is the ship's captain.

Extensively refurbished, the ship sails three-, four- and seven-day cruises in the United States and British Virgin Islands from her home base in St. Thomas. Worth noting: She is the only one of the restored tall ships that is certified by the U.S. Coast Guard to visit U.S. ports.

Life is simple aboard the Drake, but not without amenities. The ship features wood paneling and is fully carpeted inside. There is an elegant salon with full bar, stereo. video, TV and library which also serves as the dining room. Complimentary; Pirate's Punch is served each day at sunset and wine is included in the Captain's Dinner.

Each cabin has a private bathroom; however, three have upper/lower berths.

Water sports include sailing, windsurfing, water-skiing and snorkeling. Scuba can be ar-ranged for certified divers. No shore excursions are offered.

The rate is $142 to $200 per day. The crew/passenger ratio is 1 to 2.4. Tipping: Standard. Call (800) 662-0090.

Special Expeditions. The Sea Cloud is one of the most remarkable sailing ships ever built. The four-masted, 29-sail vessel was originally commissioned for heiress Marjorie Mernewest ships afloat, the Star E.F. Hutton and was one of the riweather Post by her husband built. She is 316 feet in length and her masts reach the height of a 20-story building.

The Sea Cloud's elegance is unsurpassed. The interior is paneled in carved oak, fitted with Italian marble and furnished with period antiques. Original oils hang throughout the ship and each of the 41 cabins has a view of the sea (capacity is 68). No two staterooms

The Tropical Bar at midships are alike. Accommodations range from modern cabins with upper/lower berths to some of the original suites.

Special Expeditions has chartered the Sea Cloud from January through March 1994 for Caribbean sailings. The ship has been booked by groups for January; and February; so the only sailings available to the public are 10-day cruises beginning March 5, 14 and 23 from Antigua.

All shore excursions are included. The rates are $537 to $935 per day. The crew/passenger ratio is almost 1 to 1. Tipping: Standard. For information, call 800-762-0003.

Windjammer Barefoot Cruises hardly need an introduction. This company is still doing what it has done since 1947: offering extremely casual, adventure vacations at remarkably low prices on lovely, restored tall ships. It continues to be owned and operated by the Michael Burke family.

The company has a fleet of five tall sailing ships plus a supply ship. These include the flagship Fantome (282 feet/98 passengers), the Mandalay; (236 feet/72), the Polynesia (248 feet/ 126), the Yankee Clipper (197 feet/64) and the Flying Cloud (208 feet/76).

Each ship has a different look and personality, but all stress a very laid-back kind of trip. Meals are family style. Shoes really are optional. There are no televisions or phones.

Cabins are likely to be pretty tight, with upper/lower berths and pegs for clothing. However, they all have private baths and are air-conditioned.

Windjammers tend to be busy cruises with activities such as costume parties, limbo contests and crab races. Passengers are also welcome to hoist sails, take the helm and learn to navigate by the stars.

Some drinks are included: Bloody Marys at sunrise, Rum Swizzles in late afternoon, wine with dinner and champagne and cordials at the captain's dinner. Water sports are primarily swimming and snorkeling. Shore excursions are offered.

Windjammer offers 13-day and six-day itineraries. The daily rate is $100 to $170 a person plus $35 to stay on the ship the night before departure. Tipping: standard. The crew/ passenger ratio varies from 1 to 2.3 on the Yankee Clipper to 1 to 3.2 on the Polynesia. Call (800) 327-2600.

One of the best Windjammer buys may be the little-known Amazing Grace (254 feet/96) service ship which is a power vessel. For as little as $60 a day, passengers will visit virtually every island south of Florida and north of Grenada as this "elegant workhorse" stocks the entire Windjammer

Fontbonne's ball chairmen make Christmas plans in July

No, it's not too early to think about Christmas. Not for the movers and shakers of St. John Hospital's Fontbonne Auxiliary, anyway.

Gayle Boutrous of Grosse Pointe Woods, chairman of the auxiliary's large and lavish annual benefit, the White Christmas Ball, has been getting her committee chairmen together and making plans for the ball since the beginning of the year.

The ball has been moved this year to the Ritz-Carlton in Dearborn and will be held on Friday, Dec. 10," Boutrous Committee chairmen for the 40-year-old benefit attended a luncheon recently, held at Neiman Marcus in the Somerset Collection. Nearly 40 women lunched and looked over a collection of ball gowns presented by designer Michael Casey of San Francisco.

Boutrous said that the funds raised from the 1993 White Christmas Ball will be designated for the hospital's expanded diagnostic center and magnetic resonance imaging unit. MRI is the latest technological device available for the precise detection of diseases and other abnormalities. Unlike conventional CAT-scan or X-rays, MRI provides detailed images of the body without subjecting the patient to radiation.

Sandy Fulgenzi of Grosse Pointe Woods is the newly elected president of the Fontbonne Auxiliary.

Pioneer award: Former chairman of Detroit Edison Walker Cisler of Grosse Pointe Park was honored as the first "pioneer" by the Greater Detroit Interfaith Round Table of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

The designation of "pioneer" is intended to honor early board members of the interfaith and interracial group. Cisler joined in 1948 and served as its Protestant co-chairman from 1969 until 1982.

The present co-chairmen, Barbara C. Van Dusen of Bingham Farms and Dale Austin of Grosse Pointe, presented the award to Cisler at a luncheon at the Detroit Club recently.

"We are truly blessed to have a giant of a man like Walker as one of our guiding lights," Van Dusen said.

'I was amazed at the scope of his involvement in world energy and with the round table," Austin said.

The Pastor's Corner

What do you want?

By the Rev. Joseph P. Fabry Christ the King Lutheran Church

What do you want most out of life?

Ask any eighth-grader or teenager that question and the answer will probably be "I want to be popular!" Ask any adult and the answer is likely to be, "I want to win the lottery!" - like Leslie Robins, the 30-year old high school teacher from Fond Du Lac, Wis., who won the $111 million Powerball lottery last month, the biggest payoff in the nation's history for a single ticket.

But what do you want most out of life? What is your ultimate goal? Answers to those questions will vary to some extent. In fact, even the experts do not agree on what is the fundamental need for happy and purposeful living. Some stress the physical needs of the body. Some emphasize our emotional needs. Others insist that our basic need is a feeling of individual security.

Our Lord Jesus Christ insisted that our first and foremost need is not physical or emotional — but spiritual.

"A man's life does not consist in the abundance of his possessions," He said, and He admonished people to "seek first the kingdom of God and His righteousness," promising that God will richly supply all the material things we need.

That does not mean that if you take care of the needs of your soul, you will become rich or famous. But it does mean that when you are in the right relationship with God, you will have the inner resources to live happily and confidently day after day before God and before other people.

A little parable that Jesus once told during His earthly ministry illustrates the supreme value of making God's kingdom our highest priority in life. He said, "The kingdom of heaven is like a treasure hidden in a field, which a man found and covered up; then in his joy he goes and sells all that he has and buys that field." Matt. 13:44.

With a little imagination we can easily supply the details of this snippet story. The scene opens in the country with a sharecropper doing his spring plowing. The soil is poor and so is he. To improve the field's fertility, he has set his plowshare a little deeper than usual. Suddenly there is a grating sound as the sharp point of the blade scrapes across a hard surface. The farmer looks back into the freshly-turned furrow and notices a long bright scratch on a metal surface.

Quickly he digs into the loose dirt with his bare hands and uncovers the top of a metal chest. Feverishly he pries off the rusty lid and there before his disbelieving eyes is a king's ransom in gold, silver and precious jewels.

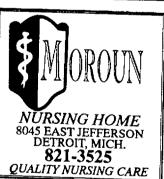

Now the man's heart is pounding with excitement and anticipation. His brain is racing in high gear. What a discovery. The contents of that rusty chest will change everything for him and his family. But wait . . . the field is not his. It is for sale. He is a tenant farmer, a sharecropper. What should he do?

Quickly he covers up his find and carefully marks the place. Bursting with joy, he goes home and turns everything he has into cold cash. All that he owns he lays on the line in order to buy the field. And when the transaction is finally closed he owns the field and the treasure he found in it. His ecstasy and excitement know no bounds. "The kingdom of heaven," Jesus said, "is like that treasure."

Why did Jesus tell this exciting little story? Because He wants to teach us one great truth. This is not a lesson in honesty. In fact, the integrity of this sharecropper is open to question. Nor is it a lesson in ambition or industry: work hard and someday you'll strike it rich. That's not the point.

Instead, Jesus is teaching us that a treasure may be so valuable, so precious, that any sacrifice we make to possess it is absolutely worthwhile. And now comes the point of the story: possessing the kingdom of heaven is just such a treasure. Nothing in life can compare to it. Of course, not everyone will agree with Christ.

That's because by our weak, sinful nature we are more readily attracted to the fleeting things of this world than to the eternal joys of heaven.

There's a strange story about a thief who broke into a supermarket one night. He wasn't really a thief, because he didn't steal anything, but what he did created absolute chaos and confusion for the manager and the check-out clerks. His "crime" was that he went up and down the aisles switching price tags from one item to another. And the next morning shoppers found a can of beans, for example, selling for $4.99 and choice Tbone steak going for 49 cents a pound.

That's the way Satan works in our lives. He's the great deceiver, the arch-distorter. He is always trying to switch price-tags on us so that things of eternal value take second place in our thinking and things that are here today and gone tomorrow become consuming priorities for us.

Jesus said: "What shall it profit a man if he gains the whole world and loses his own soul or what shall he give in exchange for his soul?"

This parable also prompts the obvious question: What is the "kingdom of God" that Jesus refers to?

God's kingdom is not a remote concept or a vague idea. It is a genuine reality. Jesus says it is a "treasure" that can be found, it can be discovered by people and when that happens their lives are completely changed. They experience a new level of contentment and purpose more thrilling and exciting than anything they've ever known before.

Jesus came into the world to establish the kingdom of God, which is God's gracious rule in our hearts. To accomplish that mission, He first had to overthrow the kingdom of Satan. Jesus triumphed over the devil in a way that looked like sure defeat. He gathered us into the Kingdom of His heavenly Father by stretching out His arms on a bloody cross to redeem us from sin and death. By calling us into His kingdom, God meets our greatest needs - He restores us to Himself, He forgives us our sins and He makes life possible again the way He always intended it to be - happy, joyful, purposeful in service to Him and in service to people all

Think of it this way: life is basically a treasure hunt. People spend their time and money, ultimately themselves, desperately looking for something. Jesus says the kingdom of heaven is life's greatest treasure. You know when you have something that is a real treasure. You know because it's tangible, it's useful and it is immensely valuable.

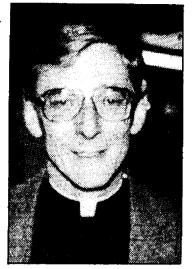

Don't let anyone rob you of life's supreme treasure. It is yours by the sheer grace of God. It has been won for you by the merits of Jesus Christ and bestowed upon you through the work of the Holy Spirit. Tell others of the treasure of God's kingdom. The offer holds for them, too. Share it with someone in your family or at work and you will discover that no earthly joy compares to that of having the kingdom of heaven!

St. Clare Parish pastor named vicar of Detroit-Grosse Pointe

Archbishop Adam J. Maida announced the assignment of the Rev. Frederick H. Taggart as vicar of the Detroit-Grosse Pointe vicariate. Taggart is pastor of St. Clare of Montefalco Parish in Grosse Pointe

The archdiocesan vicar is a priest appointed by the archbishop to share his pastoral leadership within a vicariate.

A vicariate is a geographical area consisting of a cluster of Catholic parishes where support, pastoral planning and resources may be identified and shared for the benefit of those within its boundaries. The Detroit-Grosse Pointe vicariate includes the parishes of St. Clare of Montefalco, St. Ambrose, St. Paul, Our Lady Star of the Sea, St. John Berchman-St. Juliana, St. Philomena, St. Matthew and Our Lady Queen of Peace as well as Bon Secours Hospital, St. John Hospital, St. John-Bon Secours Senior Commun-

Music Hall continues comeback

By Ronald J. Bernas Assistant Editor

As the Detroit theater scene continues to grow, an old star is making a come-

The Music Hall, which has nearly completed a $4 million renovation project, is creating a season which will offer a variety of entertainment - the only thing it won't have on a regular basis is, ironically, music. It has created a season which will attract everyone from children to adults and from theater lovers to dance aficionados.

And one of the people who will help create the new Music Hall is former Grosse Pointe resident Melissa Mengden, who is the center's sales and marketing man-

For Mengden, the position, which she's held since March, is exciting and challenging. It's made more so because of the confusion over the Music Hall's current sta-

"People aren't sure that the Music Hall is open, or what we offer here," Mengden said.

What they offer is:

• The Youtheatre — a season of children's theater productions that used to be presented at the Detroit Institute of Arts. During a two-weekend run of "Cinderella" earlier this year, more than 22,000 people came through the Music Hall.

• Dance '93 - a series of modern dance performances featuring internationally renowned companies that was successful enough to warrant a Dance '94.

 Black-oriented theater a series of gospel plays, bringing in the nation's top black-oriented traveling productions.

• The Metropolitan Ballet Theatre - beginning in October, Detroit's newly formed ballet company will make the Music Hall its home for its inaugural sea son of full-length ballets and repertory evenings. The Music Hall, like many local arts organizations, operates on fundraisers and corporate contributions. The biggest moneymaker for the center is the Grand Prix Ball, which for 11 years has raised a large percentage of the yearly operating budget. This year, one of its most successful, 999 people paid $300 each to attend the ball.

Major companies sponsor evenings, which helps raise money for the center, but Mengden is offering other ways for smaller businesses to get involved.

One of the more innovative approaches is a school sponsorship program. All the acts booked - this year all three dance companies must perform a matinee for students. For what Mengden calls a "palatable" fee, a business can sponsor a school of its choice for that matinee performance. Pointe Dodge, for example, sent a group of Defer Elementary School students to a Friday afternoon performance.

"It's been very successful," Mengden said. "We had this place packed with students. The dancers gave an abbreviated performance and then asked for questions from the audience and the kids practically danced out of here.

The Earl Beth Foundation, based in Grosse Pointe, also helped make the school sponsorship a success with financial contributions.

The sponsorship program is important, Mengden feels, because it introduces students to the arts at an early

"Now we're an educational outreach program and that's important," Mengden said. "When I was young my mother thought it was important to expose us to new things and now, when someone says 'let's go to a dance concert' and I don't really know anything about dance I go because I was taught at an early age to be openminded and try new things. You never know if you'll like it until you try.

"These kids are starved for something new and you want to reach them before they are lost, because they are the Music Hall audience of the future."

The Music Hall is also available for special events, company-sponsored dinners and evenings of entertainment.

This is a wonderful, won derful, wonderful job and it's a pretty incredible time to be here in Detroit," Mengden

For more information on the Music Hall, call Mengden at 963-7622.

'Dream Catcher' performed by Summer Stock

Grosse Pointe Summer Stock will present "Dream Catcher," an original script by Edward M. Nahhat, Aug. 12-14, and 19-21, at The Grosse Pointe Performing Arts center.

GP Summer Stock is in its third year, and was founded by Grosse Pointe South High School teacher Mary Martin. It is a theater company that is geared primarily toward college theater majors.

Last year summer stock presented the musical "Do Black Patent Leather Shoes Really Reflect Up?" and in the summer of '91 they had success with Neil Simon's "Biloxi Blues."

This year's production, "Dream Catcher," is the story of a man, half Native-American, who discovers that there is more to life than just getting ahead, and more to himself than his ethnic identity.

An attorney who works for a senator, "dream catcher" learns that his boss favors bringing casino gambling to the reservation where he was born. Forced into a homecoming with his people, he finds that time and success have alienated him from his roots. He confronts his people, and himself, in deciding which direction to take in life.

Playwright Nahhat has had his plays produced in New York, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, and Ann Arbor. Presently, he is developing his plays with Jeff Daniels' Purple Rose Theatre Company in Chelsea.

Nahhat has also assisted Martin in directing at Grosse Pointe South High School. The cast consists of theater majors Derek Hunter, Robb Chichester and Suzie Mikiel from Wayne State University; Carey Crim, a recent graduate of Northwest-hat holds a BFA in theatre Blake Arnold and Scott Wilcox.

Nahhat is also an recent South graduate who will study theater at The University of Utah this fall; Richard Coven, a Ph.D. candidate in directing from Wayne State; and Harry F. Command, a director and social worker for American Indian Services Inc., who is a member of the Leech Lake Chippewa Tribe. Martin and Nahhat are also Wayne State alumni. Martin completed her attorney.

The technical side of the production is led by professionals as well. Set design is by Dan Vicary, and the lighting designer is Joe Grigaitis. Both have worked on productions and training students at both South and North high schools. Assisting in leadership in the technical area are Grosse Pointe residents Robert Laurie, Several current South students will also contribute their time, serving as the backstage crew.

Tickets are available by calling 885-8592. Adults are $9, and students and seniors are $7. Grosse Pointe Summer Stock is also kept alive through sponsorships, contributions, and advertisements from anyone who will support their efforts. All are tax deductible. Jokes are stretched thin in 'Tights'

By Ronald J. Bernas Assistant Editor

Mel Brooks has made a career out of repeating himself.

His latest, "Robin Hood: Men in Tights," is no exception. In fact, it's the rule.

It's almost as though Brooks and his friends were bored one evening and they rented "Robin Hood: Prince of Thieves," the Kevin Costner snorefest, and filmed all their realized he couldn't stretch that into a full-length movie, he padded it by stealing from all his previous films.

Frankly, it wears kind of thin. When cheap gags worked in "Young Frankenstein," and "Blazing Saddles" they did so because brilliant comedians like Madeline Kahn, Gene Wilder, Cloris Leachman and Harvey Korman delivered them. Only a few in this film approach that level.

There's no plot, just a stream of parodies, sight gags and bon mots. Then, when Brooks puns hung on a thin story line Dom DeLuise's take off on Marabout Robin of Loxley (played lon Brando in "The Godfather." with aplomb by Cary Elwes) Of course it doesn't fit in, but

'Coneheads' delivers pointed humor

By Marion Trainor

For those who were fans of "Saturday Night Live" in the 70s, "Coneheads" is a great nostalgia trip. They will enjoy spotting characters old and new from that popular show.

Among them are: Chris Farley and Michael McKean who have supporting roles, and cameo appearances by Kevin Nealon, Julia Sweeney and Garret Morris in this extended skit that has been bolstered by special effects.

For others, it's a mildly funny excursion into why viewers back then stayed up to watch those extraterrestrial travelers from the planet Remudak try to adapt to life on Earth.

Bard was much appreciated — but also much exploited

The now-traditional concert series called Words & Music opened at Stratford on June 3 with a program researched and devised by festival artistic director David William.

Under the title "My Shakespeare," it brought together selected comments and reports about the poet, his life and works and related musical selections.

In all, it amounted to a stimulating conversation that illuminated the poet's work and his impact on the life and culture of our world.

The program should, in fact, be called "Our Shakespeare," for every writer, actor, critic and hanger-on quoted in the readings lays claim to the Bard of Avon in one way or another.

Some were humorous for the pompous and arrogant misjudg ments of the Georgian and Victorian eras that they expressed. Others, including contemporaries of Shakespeare, glowed in their appreciation of the man and his art. All added to our understanding and gratitude for the 18-year-old youth from Warwickshire who went to London to go on the stage and stayed to create the greatest body of literature in the English speaking world.

George Bernard Shaw and Ben Johnson indulged in sarcasm. Actor David Garrick exploited the plays for his own glory. Theatrical producer Sir

Radon guide answers consumer concerns

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's new radon publication addresses the health risks, testing methods and prevention strategies for home buyers and sellers to deal with this naturally occurring radioactive gas. In areas where radon has surfaced as a concern, it is more frequently being discussed in real estate transactions, according to the National Association of Realtors.

"Sellers have an obligation to disclose any known material fact about a property, including elevated radon levels," said George F. Peek, chairman of the NAR's environment committee.

Radon originates in certain underground rock formations found in every state and can seep into homes and buildings through foundation cracks and openings.

The good news is elevated radon levels can be corrected simply and economically, within the range of normal household repairs," Peek said.

The EPA estimates the average cost for a contractor to reduce radon levels is $1,200. Simple do-ityourself projects could cost under $200; with contractor, costs range from $500 to $2,500 depending on technique and home size.

Simple test kits, often costing under $20, are widely available. The EPA recommends all homeowners test their homes for radon. Especially in areas where it has become an issue, people planning to sell their homes who have not previously tested for radon should do so as far as possible in advance of the sale.

Copies of EPA's "Home Buyer's and Seller's Guide to Radon" are available from the U.S. Govern-ment Printing Office. Credit card orders can be placed by calling (202) 783-3238 and asking for stock number 055-000-00428-5. The cost is $1.50, with a 25 percent discount on orders of 100 or more. Home completed at Diamond Cove

Jim Butlin, a well-known St. Clair area builder of high-quality homes, has built a real dream house at Diamond Cove, the luxury living development just south of St. Clair. This spacious home, which is available for purchase, faces the St. Clair River and abuts the sparkling on-site marina.

The large master bedroom, located on the first level for convenience, has an attached, ceramic-tiled bath with whirlpool tub. The other three spacious bedrooms, all on the upper level, also have attached, ceramic-tiled baths.

The house contains 3,400 square feet of finished living area with an additional 2,100 square feet on the walk-out lower level that is framed in, allowing the purchaser to finish as desired. There are three fire-places, one each in the library and family room on the upper level, and another on the lower level. The library, family room and kitchen overlook the on-site marina and are connected on the exterior of the house by a wooden deck which wraps around one side and the rear of the hosue.

The large two-car attached garage provides entry to the house through the laundry area for convenience. But perhaps the most attractive aspects of this house may be found in the kitchen and the wet bar off the family room. The kitchen is designed for a gas cooktop with electronic exhaust system, side-by-side refrigerator/freezer, dishwasher, double oven and microwave. The wet bar contains a refrigerator with icemaker. All appliances are optional. "I'm excited about the Cove and all the work that's being done (by fellow builders)," Butlin said.

"St. Clair has always been a great area for living. I have people come up to me all the time and talk about how they've been coming here for years (as tourists) and now they're ready to stay," he said.

"I built this house with those kind of people in mind. I think the purchaser of this house is getting a good investment in a quality home."

Asking price for the house (unit No. 15) is $440,000 with the adjacent boat slip optional.

Diamond Cove is a project of DSLT Development Co. located in St. Clair.

Household Help

With more than 10 million decks constructed in the United States over the last decade alone, preservation measures have come into sharp focus as homeowners seek to protect these substantial investments.

"Annual maintenance is far cheaper than complete deck replacement," says Joanne Senko, director of marketing services at Melnor Inc., a leading manufacturer of sprayers used to apply sealants. "That ounce of protective sealant in spring/summer and fall literally returns pounds of cure in preserved wood."

The same is true for concrete. Sealing driveways and walkways preserves the surface and helps minimize cracking and spalling. An annual application of water-resistant sealant can be especially effective.

Nature is not a deck's best friend. Water warps the wood while

John Minnis - Editor 882-0294 Display Advertising 882-3500 Real Estate Resource 882-6900 the sun dries it out and causes it to crack; sunlight alters the color of the surface. So, when choosing a sealant, look for one that repels water, resists mildew, blocks the sun's rays and conditions the wood.

When applying sealant, Melnor offers the following tips:

- Be sure the surface is dry and clean.
- Test a small area to assure color-fastness.
- Apply when air, product and surface temperatures are above 50 degrees F. and at least five degrees above the dew point. Dew and condensation are likely to form later in the day, so avoid application at
- that time.
 During application, work in a smooth, back and forth motion to avoid puddling.
- When treating vertical surfaces, work from the bottom up.
- Two coats generally are recommended for maximum protection. Allow first coat to dry at least 24 hours before applying second coat.
- Allow 24-48 hours for drying. Wait at least 30 days before painting or staining with an oil-based paint.

Decks are not the only structures that need protection. Fences, wooden shingles, outdoor furniture, even concrete and brick, are susceptible to the same type of damage due to moisture penetration.

"Applying sealant doesn't need to be a big chore," says Senko. "By using a compressed air sprayer, the task is accomplished quickly and more conveniently than by using conventional methods."

Prayer rugs: Symbols of Mecca at Ford House

Surrounded by lakes as we are in Michigan, it is hard to realize how important water — and the oasis gardens it makes possible — is in the arid, desert regions of much of the world.

In Persia (not present-day Iran, but a larger area that included Turkestan and Iraq), as far back as the seventh century, a part of the Islamic faith was that the garden represented paradise, or heaven, where water was abundant and there were gardens filled with trees providing shade from the merciless sun and flowers that would never fade.

Because the garden provided so many of the comforts and delights of living, the Persians reminded themselves of this through the long winter with garden carpets. In geometric patterns, many carpets depicted pools and water channels with borders of trees. Flower beds, fountains and birds, fish, insects and animals are often found. Garlands of flowers or plants in pots are often included, sometimes naturalistic, but often very stylized, and always in the glowing, muted colors of natural dyes made from plants, such as madder or indigo, and softened and blended by exposure to the sun.

By Ellen Probert

As the trading caravans and camel trains crossed the deserts from city to city over time, patterns typical of particular regions often blended and new patterns were created. How welcome the shaded gardens and flowing fountains of Tabriz or Kerman must have seemed to the arriving traders. Many rugs and carpets were created for trade or sale and often these were made of silk and embellished with gold or silver threads to enhance their patterns of flowers and fountains.

The largest carpet, tradition has it, that was ever created was made for the palace of King Chosroes. We are told that it represented a pleasure garden with brooks, interlacing paths, and flower beds and the blossoming trees of spring, embellished with precious jewels and gold. The carpet was reportedly 150 by 75 feet.

All these carpets we have been talking about are for comfort and adornment, for piling on the floor to provide comfortable seating, or to hang on the wall to delight the eye.

Prayer rugs are a different matter entirely.

Prayer is a very important part of the Muslim faith. The prophet Mohammad directed the faithful to pray five times a day, and to follow the ritual of kneeling, then prostrating themselves while facing in the direction of Mecca, the Holy City.

The devout Muslim must also avoid contact with the ground or the floor as he prays, as this is unclean. So he carries his prayer rug with him wherever he goes so that he can kneel and pray on a clean surface wherever he is at the time to pray. To face Mecca is never a problem because every prayer rug has at one end a design depicting an arch, or mihrab, which symbolizes the worshipper's own small prayer niche, or mosque, and which points toward the Holy City.

Much of the design of prayer rugs is similar to the designs of the more secular carpets in that decorative borders indicative of the region where the rug was made, the stylized, or naturalistic flowers, the depiction of courtyard fountains and trees are all there.

But prayer rugs never include representations of people or animals since this is seen as idolatry. The Muslim belief is that only Allah can create a living being, even pictorially. But flowers of all kinds and the flowing water and shading trees of the oasis garden are all there, along with the hanging lamps, the arches, the architectural forms and beautiful calligraphy reminding the worshipper of texts from the Koran.

Currently, there is an impressive exhibition of Islamic prayer rugs from the Huntington Museum of Art in West Virginia on display at the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House. It will remain through the month of August and makes a wonderful addition to a tour of the gardens of the estate, designed by famed landscape architect Jens Jensen, which are at their best in midsummer. The cutting garden and the rose garden, now in full bloom, provide arrangements for the house just as they did during the years of the Fords' residence there. For more information, call the Ford house at 884-4222.

Value of manufactured homes tied to location

"Location, location and location" are the three main factors determining the value of manufactured housing, just as they are for other types of real estate.

According to a new University of Michigan study that refutes many negative stereotypes about "mobile homes," modern manufactured homes, particularly "double-section" homes, tend to hold and often increase their value.

U-M architecture and urban planning researchers examined prices of new and previously owned manufactured homes in Michigan from 1987 to 1990 and found that the value of factory-built housing is affected by the same supply-and-demand forces that affect other housing prices.

In addition, houses built in factories cost about the same to maintain as "site-built" houses and have a negligible impact on the value of adjacent properties, the study found.

"It's time we started treating manufactured housing simply as housing," says professor Kate Warner of the U-M College of Architecture and Urban Planning. "It's a form of housing that is comparable to 'site-built' homes."

Warner and U-M professor Robert Johnson directed a two-year study of manufactured housing in Michigan, including research on performance and durability, comparative costs, market-value trends, impact on the value of adjacent properties and other issues.

Because of its lower cost, manufactured housing can be especially attractive to first-time home buyers. Between 1980 and 1990, manufactured housing represented 14 percent of new housing built in the United States and nearly 30 percent of all new single-family homes. In Michigan in 1990, manufactured homes accounted for 28 percent of all new home sales — the highest proportion yet recorded. Warner notes that manufactured homes are estimated to account for more than homes selling for less than $50,000. Location is the primary factor in the value of a manufactured home, the study found through an analysis of sales of 20,000 new and existing manufactured homes between 1987 and 1990 in Michigan.

80 percent of new single-family

Statewide, average prices of existing single-section manufactured homes decreased by 1.9 percent between 1987 and 1990, while the average sales price of the more conventional-looking multi-section homes increased by 15.1 percent.

But Warner notes that "when the sales data are analyzed on a regional basis, statewide averages turn out to be somewhat deceptive." For example, in southeastern Michigan, the average sales price of existing single-section manufactured homes declined about 10 percent over the three years of the study, while the average sales price of similar homes in the Grand Rapids market area rose 8.2 percent during the same period.

Those two markets account for about 75 percent of all single-section pre-owned manufactured home sales in the state. Elsewhere in Michigan, the average sales price of similar single-section manufactured homes increased 13.2 percent over the three years.

For existing multi-section manufactured homes in southeastern Michigan, the average sales price rose 17.8 percent in 1987-90, while in the Grand Rapids area, the average price rose 5.5 percent. In the rest of the state, the average sales price of existing multi-section homes rose 18 percent during those three years.

"Historically, manufactured housing has been regarded as personal property and not real estate, more like a car than a house," Warner says. "From this perspective, depreciation was assumed to be inevitable, but our research has shown that, in fact, manufactured homes frequently do appreciate and respond to the same conditions that determine the values of site-built housing."

This fact was evident when the U-M study looked at prices for 455 manufactured homes that have been sold twice between 1987 and 1990 — 240 (about 52 percent) were sold at higher prices the second time around and 15 were sold at the same price.

The 240 homes that sold for more than their original price increased in value an average of 19.3 percent. The 200 that sold for less declined in value an average of 14.7 percent. On average, the sales price of all of these homes rose 3.7 percent over the three years.

"These figures indicate that the value of manufactured housing, like other forms of real estate, is dependent on unique supply-and-demand forces of local markets, rather than on whether they were manufactured in a factory or built on the site," Warner says. "Manufactured homes, like site-built housing, can be viewed as an investment with probabilities of appreciation and equity accumulation."

In addition, the U-M study examined the impact of manufactured homes, and more particularly, manufactured housing rental communities, or "mobile home parks," on the value of adjacent residential properties.

The U-M scholars studied three locales, two in which conventional subdivisions were developed after the manufactured-home communities appeared, and one where the manufactured-home community was developed later.

"In all of the cases we reviewed, adjacent residential property values showed rates of appreciation that were similar to the appreciation of comparable properties in the same market that were not adjacent to the manufactured-home communities," Warner says.

The U-M researchers interviewed public officials to see how nearness of manufactured-home communities affects assessed housing values.

"In all jurisdictions, the assessors indicated that they do not consider proximity to a manufactured-home community to be a negative factor in determining the equalized value of other homes," Warner says.

"The findings of this research should be useful in refining federal, state and local regulatory policies and codes; in defining the market potential of manufactured housing for population groups like the elderly and moderate-income families; and in clarifying images of this form of housing among consumer groups, the financial community and local government offices."

In addition to Warner and Johnson, research assistants Victoria Basolo, Azza Eleishe and Jeff Scheuer participated in the study, which was sponsored by the Michigan Department of Commerce.

Copies of the study are available from the manufactured housing division of the Michigan Department of Commerce, Corporation and Securities Bureau, 6546 Mercantile Way, Lansing, Mich. 48910; (517) 334-6203.

Home Tips

Keeping tabs — My teenage children have a lot of friends. In my indexed directory, I keep a card under each child's name, such as "John's friends" or "Pam's friends." I list their friends and their phone numbers. This way, I always know right where to look for a phone number when I need to get in touch with them.

Ruth M., Charlottesville, Va.

Removal reminder — Air travelers should be certain to remove old baggage-destination tags from luggage upon returning from each trip. If the tags are not removed, you may find that your luggage has been routed to the destination code on an old tag from your last trip instead of the one on the new tag.

Sue P., Cape May, N.J.

Outdoor grill cleaning — Cleaning my outdoor grill was a time-consuming and tough job. Removing all the black gook took lots of elbow grease. To eliminate this job, I spray the grill with a generous coat of non-stick vegetable spray. This makes cleanup a snap.

Marie T., Hamilton, Ohio

Dill pickles — I like dill pickles, and there is always a lot of brine left in the jar when all the pickles are eaten. I thought of a way that it could be recycled. Put cucumber spears or fresh-snapped green beans in the brine for three or four days. You'll then have lightly pickled cucumber spears or green beans. There are no doubt other vegetables that could be used also. We enjoy doing this, and it's not wasteful.

Jill W., Morris Plains, N.J.

Energy saver — This tip may save a few pennies as well as the life of the refrigerator. Instead of opening the freezer door every time I have something in my hand to place inside, I line up all of the items next to the fridge and put them all in at one time.

This cuts down on excess operation, saves electricity, and the food does not cool off that quickly.

Kim C., Mobile, Ala.

Who's that? — I'd like to share my husband's way to have identification on him while he's jogging. We made a reduced copy of our medical insurance card, and on the back, we listed (in order to be called) the name and phone number of whom to contact in the event of an emergency.

We laminated the card, and he carries it in the pocket of his jogging shorts. A hole could be punched in it so it could be worn dog-tag style if necessary.

Laverne T., Gaithersburg, Md.

Alarm clock — Do you want to get some sleep while your teenagers are out for the evening? Simply agree on a time to be home, and then set the alarm clock for that time. Then, go to bed and sleep! When they come home, they turn off the alarm. If the alarm rings, it's time to get up and find out why they are not home. Occasionally, they may be delayed; then it is their responsibility to call.

June home sales foretell strong summer selling season

Sales of previously owned homes rose in June, kicking off what is expected to be a strong summer selling season, according to the National Association of Realtors. Healthy activity was posted in all regions.

The association recorded a seasonally adjusted annual sales rate of 3.69 million existing single-family homes last month, up 11.1 percent from June 1992, when the resale rate was 3.32 million units.

NAR president William S. Shee said the resale increase in June reaffirms previous predictions that the summer selling season will be active.

"Smart buyers are continuing to take advantage of low mortgage rates and sellers are pricing their homes more realistically than they have in previous years," he said. "Clearly, this activity shows we are well on our way to a solid recovery."

Activity in the resale market is being generated by both first-time and move-up buyers, Chee noted. Traditionally, summer has been noted as one of the busiest selling seasons of the year because many families try to make planned moves before the school year begins, he noted.

"Buyers see they can get more house for their dollar. In addition, many are surprised to find that a bigger house does not necessarily mean a bigger monthly payment in light of the market's low mortgage rates," Chee said.

Low mortgage rates are continuing to make home ownership very affordable. The Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp. reported that the national average commitment rate for 30-year, conventional, fixed-rate mortgages was 7.42 percent in June, down from 7.47 percent the previous month, and down from 8.51 percent in June 1992. The current rate is the lowest it has been since October 1972, when rates for 30-year, conventional, fixed-rate mortgages was 7.42 percent.

Last month's national median existing single-family home price was $108,900, which was 2.6 percent higher than one year earlier, when the price was $105,500. The median is the midpoint in the price range — half the homes sold cost more, half cost less.

NAR chief economist John A. Tuccillo said home values are expected to rise at a moderate rate over the next several years, compared to the surge many markets experienced during the 1980s.

"We expect appreciation to be steady and slow. Generally, home prices likely will stay more in line with consumers' incomes than they did in years past," he said.

"Compared to earlier in the year, the past two months have really taken off. Based on the pace we are seeing now, we anticipate a very good year for real estate in 1993."

Through June, 1.78 million existing single-family homes had been sold nationwide, representing a 3.1 percent increase over the total for the first six months of 1992.

On a regional basis, the South posted the greatest gain in resales. That region recorded a rate of 1.41 million units in June, up 13.7 percent from the June 1992 pace. The region's median price was $98,700 in June, up 6.1 percent from a year ago.

Ranking second was the Midwest, which posted a resale pace of 960,000 units, up 11.6 percent from June 1992. The median price for existing single-family homes in the Midwest was $85,800 last month, up 4.1 percent from one year earlier.

The Northeast also experienced strong gains with a resale rate of 570,000 units in June, up 9.6 percent from one year earlier. The median price in the Northeast was $144,000, up a slight 0.2 percent from June 1992.

In the West, the resale rate was 740,000 million units in June 1993, 4.2 percent higher than June 1992. The median price in the West was $142,700 in June, down 2.2 percent from the same month one year ago.

Currently, NAR is predicting existing single-family home sales to total 3.57 million units this year, representing a 1.5 percent increase from the 1992 total, and the highest resale rate since the 1979 total of 3.82 million units. The median price for existing single-family homes is expected to be $106,200, rising 2.5 percent above the price for last year.

New construction rebounds

"Residential construction starts should continue to rebound in the second quarter, after a first quarter that was slowed by the March blizzard and skyrocketing lumber prices," said Mike Hofer of Welcome Homes in Clarkston, 1993 president of the Michigan Association of Home Builders (MAHB).

Aided by 4,027 new housing starts in May, Michigan's residential construction market reflects a 13.4 percent increase compared to April. Compared to 1992, the housing market reflects a modest gain.

Hofer said mortgage interest rates, already at 20-year lows, dipped slightly last week to about 7.25 percent. "There's still plenty of pent-up

"There's still plenty of pent-up demand from consumers who wanted to buy during the first quarter but didn't because of the bad weather or the higher new home prices brought on by the hike in lumber prices," he said.

Low rates and strong demand should fuel starts throughout the second quarter and the rest of the year, he said.

What's new, what's old?

Designers claim to have created new and different styles, but often their newest fashion is just a revival of old ideas. The original Renaissance Gothic designs were first used in the 14th to 17th centuries. The Italians, inspired by the classic designs of ancient Rome and Greece, created the massive, curved furniture. The style spread to England and France. In the 1850s a modern Renaissance style appeared in England and the United States. The carvings were used on legs, arms and cabinet fronts.

Even more elaborate pieces were made from 1865 to 1875. Beds, dressers, dining room buffets and sofas were made of heavy wood, were a massive size, and were decorated with carvings of all types. It was not unusual to see a room by the 1890s that looked as if it had been removed from an early castle. Walls, fireplace and ceilings were made to imitate an earlier look. Claw feet, trestle tables and other old forms reappeared. Collectors decorated with authentic European antiques or American copies. They wanted the room to look old even if it contained new furniture. Revivals continued into the 20th century when Gothic designs inspired pieces from the 1920s and 1930s, and again in the 1980s.
