WE'RE CONCERNED ABOUT YESTERDAY'S NEWS.

News can appear one day and be gone the next. But the paper news is printed on can and should live on.

Last year, more than one third of all U.S. newsprint was recycled. And that number is growing every day.

Recycling is the one way we can all give something back.

School board holds line on 1993-94 taxes

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

To the surprise of residents in attendance, the Grosse Pointe school board voted on Monday to maintain last year's tax rates for the upcoming year.

Superintendent Ed Shine had earlier recommended the board approve a 2.7 percent tax increase to support the 1993-94 budget. But recent developments affecting the district's $69.1-million budget prompted Shine to recommend the board hold the line.

"Two most critical things happened right before the (Sept. 2) public hearing," said board president Timothy Howlett. "The state issued its school aid bill and we had some additional savings. We had a couple of options: We could go ahead with the 2.7 percent increase and build up our fund equity or we could pass on the savings to the taxpayer."

Board vice president Carl Anderson said the district had budgeted $700,000 to pay for employee retirement benefits that the state had threatened not to pay. That threat did not materialize.

In addition, the district realized a $430,000 savings on borrowed money because of a drop in interest rates, he said.

Further, the district has a fund equity balance of about $2.1 million that can be used to cover costs without passing an increase on to taxpayers, said trustee Gloria Konsler.

The board voted 6-1 in favor of the tax rate. Trustee Sears Taylor abstained from voting because he felt the district should have decreased its tax rate rather than maintain last year's levels.

"This is great news for the citizens of Grosse Pointe," said Shores resident Joe Callahan, who was not aware of the no-tax-increase proposal on the agenda Monday and had come prepared to object to a tax hike. "There's a lot of concern about the rapid increases in taxes. There's a lot of people fearful of being pushed right out of Grosse Pointe."

The board's action means that most taxpayers in the Grosse Pointe school district will not see an increase in their tax bill.

"In terms of dollars, the district will be asking for the same amount from taxpayers this year as last year," said Chris Fenton, assistant superintendent for business and support services.

"Taxes have gone up for residents in the form of assessment increases averaging 7.9 percent. If the assessment is higher than 7.9 percent, then the homeowner will see a slight increase in taxes, if the assessment is lower, the taxes will actually go down."

The board's action means the overall millage rate for 1993-94 will be 30.4620, with 29.0250 mills for the general fund; 1.2046 mills for the library; and .2324 mills for the debt fund. Last year's rates were 31.0165 for the general fund; 1.3 mills for the library; and .5257 mills for the debt fund.

The district's taxpayer-voted millage rate is 37.7600 and the maximum authorized rate is rolled back by the Headlee Amendment to 34.0933 mills. The board's levy is 7.298 mills below the maximum allowable rate.

Despite the board's action, a number of residents addressed the school board regarding their concerns about teacher salaries, the district's budget and tax rates.

"There is a lot of looking backward and I think we need to look forward," Callahan said. "There is a need for a learner school system as we have a leaner economic system. We are facing more and more federal taxes and undoubtedly more state taxes."

Some board members defended the district's budgeting process.

"Wherever legally possible, we have done a good job of holding down costs," said treasurer Julie Bourke.

Broadcast school offers to help Park air meetings

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

The Specs Howard School of Broadcasting has offered the Grosse Pointe Park City Council its expertise and services in broadcasting council meetings, said councilmember Dan Clark at Monday night's meeting.

Clark said that David Manheimer, director of contract training for Specs Howard, had contacted him with an offer to let his students broadcast council meetings as a part of their training.

"Mr. Manheimer's interests and our interests have intersected," said Clark. "I indicated that I was interested in following up, but did not discuss particulars with him. I wanted to bring this to the attention of the council first, to see if anyone else was interested in talking with him."

Several council members asked Clark if there would be a cost to the city. Clark said that he did not discuss particulars with Manheimer because he wanted to involve other members of the council in any talks.

Councilmembers James Robson and Robert Klacza said that they were interested in going with Clark to meet with Manheimer to discuss a possible arrangement.

Clark said that no meeting date has been set, but pledged that he and other council members will try to come up with an arrangement that would benefit the school and the council. He said he does not know when an arrangement, or even if an arrangement, could be worked out.

The council would have to vote on any arrangement agreed upon before allowing broadcasting, Clark said.

G.P. News employee, 'a gentle man,' slain

By Chip Chapman
Staff Writer

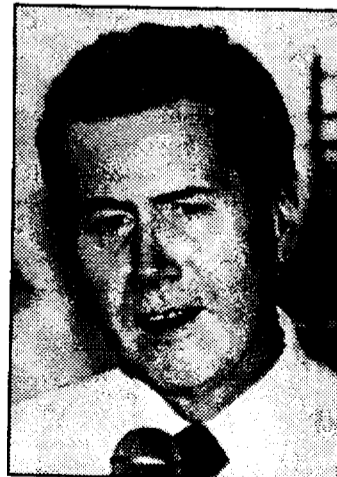

Grosse Pointe News artist and typesetter Robert M. Coe, "a gentle and compassionate person," was killed during a robbery attempt near the corner of Alter and Lozier in Detroit while waiting for a tow truck at about 2 a.m. on Thursday, Sept. 9. He was 47.

Mr. Coe and his brother Thomas had gone to help a third brother, who had experienced car trouble on Alter, about a block west of Mack.

A gunman approached Thomas Coe and demanded money and jewelry. When Robert Coe tried to intervene, he was shot in the neck. He was dead on arrival at St. John Hospital.

Pointer of Interest Michael Patten

By Chip Chapman
Staff Writer

Obstacles have gotten in Michael Patten's way, but he has a way of overcoming them.

Patten, a mobility instructor with the visually handicapped services of Detroit Receiving Hospital and University Health Center, was born blind with cataracts.

He is the only legally blind mobility instructor for the visually impaired in the state of Michigan.

"My parents noticed that when I was about two months old I was not reacting to the Christmas lights," he said. "I had my first surgery at six months old and I've had eight operations. The vision that I have is pretty much what I'm going to get. I now have 20/300 vision."

For the last 12 years he has been teaching people who have lost their sight gain their independence.

Each day Patten takes the bus to work from his home in the Woods to Detroit Receiving Hospital.

Looks at books

The tradition continues Sept. 22-26 when the St. Clare of Montefalco PTO sponsors its ninth annual used book sale at the St. Clare social hall on Mack and Whittier in Grosse Pointe Park. Hours are from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 22; 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday, Sept. 23 and 24; 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturday, Sept. 25; and from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 26. The sale features more than 50,000 titles. Donations will be accepted until the time of the sale and can be dropped off at the carport entrance of the church any day until 2 p.m. Helping to prepare are, left to right, Matt Nelson, Evan Roarty-Collins, John Berschback and Jason Wofford.

A taste of Grosse Pointe's eateries

On Saturday, Sept. 18, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., the Grosse Pointe Village Association is delighted to present "Taste of Grosse Pointe." This newest of the Village Association's community entertainments offers culinary treats for the entire family.

More than a baker's dozen of Grosse Pointe's most popular restaurants — including Cadieux Cafe, Cafe Pavel, Mack Avenue Diner, Parini's Deli, Pizza Chef, Sherwood's, Sierra Station, Silver Spoon Cafe, Subway, Sunrise-Sunset Saloon, T.C.B.Y., Tom's Oyster Bar, and Tom's Steamer — will bring their favorite foods and beverages to the party tent by the Village's Plaza, Kercheval at St. Clair.

St. Clair will be closed between Kercheval and the alley so everyone can roam the booths.

To enhance digestion and help while away a pleasant afternoon, the new grass sounds of the Dennis Cyporyn Band will play on and off throughout the afternoon. The band is sponsored by Jacobson's.

O'Hair to speak

Wayne County prosecuting attorney John D. O'Hair will be the guest speaker at the first fall meeting of the Grosse Pointe Democratic Club at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 21 at the Grosse Pointe Unitarian Church, 17150 Maumee.

The public is invited to attend.

Traveling! Park denies portable hoop variance

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

After weeks of debate the Park City Council voted 6-1 to deny a zoning variance that would have permitted a family on Whittier to keep a portable basketball hoop in their driveway during the outdoor sports season.

Last month John and Mary Beth Swegles of the 900 block of Whittier asked the council to grant a variance for a portable basketball hoop located in their front yard. City officials asked them to remove the hoop after Park residents complained that it violated city ordinances against structures in front yards.

At Monday's hearing, the council acted as the city's zoning appeal board. Swegle asked for a hardship variance. He told the council that because of the way his house is built, he couldn't have a backboard mounted on his garage. The backboard would be in front of the house's front setback, which is also violates city ordinances.

Swegles said that he could not move the hoop to the side of the house because a tree is located between the side of his garage and the property fence, making such a move impossible.

Park mayor Palmer Heenan thanked Swegles for coming, but stated up front that he likes the Park's ordinances that keep front yards free of structures and other objects.

"It's time to cut the Gordian knot," Heenan said. "When John Smucker, a close friend of mine, asked for a variance for a basketball hoop, I turned him down. If the council grants this variance, we will have to deal with nothing but variance requests. The Park has never looked more beautiful. Our property values have risen faster than those of the other Pointes over the past few years, in part because we have made decisions like this. The front yards are for the community."

Maureen Reilly, a neighbor of the Swegles, told the council that while she is sympathetic to the Swegles, she was against granting the variance. She said her two sons played basketball for U-D High, but when she moved to the Park several years ago, she refused to install a backboard on the garage, and refused to ask for a variance.

In the end, Swegles' arguments failed to convince the council. After debate ended, no one on the council moved to call for a vote on the variance request, effectively turning it down.

Councilmember Dan Clark then moved to have the council waive the $75 variance request fee, since the council did not officially give Swegles a decision on his request.

Swegles then asked the council to officially vote on the request. The council agreed and voted 6-1 against granting the variance, with councilmember Robert Klazca casting the dissenting vote. The council's fee waiver remained in place.

Camera Club begins year

The Grosse Pointe Camera Club will begin its 56th season on Tuesday, Sept. 21, at 7 p.m. at Brownell Middle School, 260 Chalfonte, Grosse Pointe Farms, Room C-11. The meeting will feature print and slide competition.

The meetings are usually held on the first, third, and fourth Tuesdays of the month.

Two of the monthly sessions are devoted to a judging and critique of the members' work in prints and slides, both in pictorial and nature categories. The last meeting of the month is program night and may include a guest expert, a workshop, or an entertaining slide program. Light refreshments are served after this meeting when all have an opportunity to visit with other members and guests.

Several Saturday field trips are planned each year with members bringing a brown-bag lunch or gathering at a restaurant. The club year ends with a banquet in June when members receive awards for outstanding work.

The club is part of the Greater Detroit Camera Club Council and is also a member of the Photographic Society of America. High scoring entries are sent to these organizations for further evaluation.

Potential members and other visitors are invited to attend meetings without cost, however, only members can take part in the bi-monthly competitions and have their work critiqued.

Last week's business note on Mary Eady's personal development seminar should have stated that her course is scheduled to begin on Tuesday, Sept. 28.

A business note on Sept. 2 should have read that Martin Petz was elected chair of the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce's entrepreneur forum.

An article on a flower arranging class at the War Memorial should have identified the instructor as Bliss Clark.

"I teach recently blind adults how to travel with a white cane, use buses and be as independent as possible," Patten said.

A large part of his job is helping visually impaired people feel confident in using a cane and help them not to be afraid to ask for assistance.

"The tough part is getting people to deal with their vision loss," he said, "and realize, that hey, life goes on even though you have lost your vision. People aren't going to shun you. They are going to help you."

Patten said that about 90 percent of the people he works with have some usable vision, a figure that is right in line with the 90 percent of all legally blind people who have some usable vision.

People who have lost all their sight range from trauma and accident victims to those who had a difficult time coping with their vision loss and let their sight decrease past the point of legal blindness, until there was no longer any usable sight.

"They take a lot more time to work with," Patten said. "If I were teaching someone to travel, I need to teach them to line up at the curb and make sure they can cross straight from one corner to another. Someone with partial sight might be able to follow the lines across the street."

"Most people I work with have lost their vision later in life, because most people who are born blind or who lose it very young receive training in school."

However, he just recently finished working with a 16-year-old Farms resident who is starting his sophomore year at North High School.

"He was born totally blind, but he wanted more work and orientation to the school," Patten said.

A lifelong Woods resident, Patten started kindergarten at Monteith and then went to Our Lady Queen of Peace in Harper Woods for first grade. But the school didn't have books with large enough print for his vision or books in Braille, so he attended special education classes in the Detroit Public Schools. The Grosse Pointe school system did not offer special education classes at that time.

His parents did not think he was getting much of an education in Detroit because "they kept taking things away. At one school, they took away all science classes because they said, 'you might spill something on yourself' and then the next year they said, 'we can't have you in gym, you might get hit in the head with a ball,'" he remembered.

From sixth grade through 12th grade Patten went to the School for the Blind in Lansing, graduating in 1973.

"Here I am a native Grosse Pointer, but because I went away to a special school, I really don't know any one here," he said.

Patten went on to Central Michigan University and earned a bachelor's degree in communications.

With his full, deep voice it wasn't surprising to learn that Patten was a disc jockey at WCMU in Mount Pleasant before graduating in 1978. He stayed in broadcasting, moving to WRCI in Midland and WSGW/WIOG in Saginaw.

Automation at WSGW/WIOG forced Patten and four other colleagues out of work in 1980. He then moved back to Detroit to look for work.

"No one wanted to take the chance with somebody visually impaired," he said upon returning home.

Patten decided to visit some friends at his current place of employment.

"I had been a student in this program (at Detroit Receiving Hospital) before attending college," he said. "This is a pre-vocational program. We prepare people to go on to be vocationally active. I was here to gain note-taking, writing and typing skills for college."

Patten liked the mobility classes when he was first there, and he had thought about teaching others how to travel independently. Before college he found that only one school in the state (Western Michigan University) had mobility as a college program and at that time they were only allowing sighted students into it.

"That's when I decided to go to Central and go into broadcasting," he said. "But at Central, I taught any new student who was blind about the campus and how to get around."

Patten soon learned that blind people could teach other blind people.

"Sometimes I would teach someone how to get around the campus and they would tell me, 'Michael, if you had told me this and this, I would have found it easier.' I was learning from people who were blind."

While looking for work, he stopped by Detroit Receiving Hospital to visit some of his friends there on the very day they were throwing a going-away party for the mobility instructor, who was taking a job in Canada.

"You talk about right place at the right time," Patten said. "I would say that God wanted me to have this job."

A number of applications had been received for the job, but the director of the program at the time was totally blind, and was a firm believer that a visually impaired person should have the job, provided he or she could do it.

"Sometimes (blind) people come in and think that a sighted person can't possibly teach them anything," Patten noted.

Patten was hired in March 1981 and has been there since.

"I like what I do and have no desire to go anywhere else," he said.

The Americans with Disabilities Act has brought some other job offers, but Patten has no plans to leave the visually handicapped services at Detroit Receiving Hospital.

The average student Patten teaches spends about an hour a day, five days a week for between six and 10 weeks.

"It all depends upon the amount of vision they have," he said.

Patten has taught people from all backgrounds to learn how to get from place to place.

"Blindness does not discriminate," he said. "I had people with master's degrees to people who dropped out of school in the seventh grade. The variety of people is great."

He has even taught people who are blind and deaf.

It can be exhausting at times, Patten admits.

"I have a really tough time with somebody who has trouble learning," he said, "because I want them to learn so bad."

One of the most difficult things Patten ever had to do for his job was teach an attorney how to get to her office in the Renaissance Center. As any sighted person knows, negotiating that building is not easy.

"She learned everything, and it was fine," he said, "and then she decided to get a leader dog. That was fine except that her leader dog was unable to go on the escalators."

Patten said that some leader dogs are not trained to go on escalators. An untrained dog will curl its toes and risk getting its claws stuck in the escalator.

Patten teaches mobility mostly with white canes. He will, however, help evaluate a person's use of a leader dog.

Patten has met a number of people of similar age and interests, mostly through the Grosse Pointe Woods Lions Club, of which he is the president.

"That's part of why I have really enjoyed getting involved with the Lions Club. It's helped me to socialize with people in our community."

The Lions Club supports a number of charitable organizations including Leader Dogs for the Blind, the Grosse Pointe Woods bicycle safety program, the white cane program, the Foundation for Exceptional Children and Lions Quest.

"Lions Quest skills for adolescents program at Brownell is a self-esteem and anti-drug program," he said.

Patten was honored this summer with the Helen Keller Award, presented to him by the Lions Club of Tecumseh, Ontario. Patten was the first non-Canadian to ever win this award.

"We had a joint meeting with them earlier," he said, "and they found out more about what I did. When they announced my name, you could have knocked me over. It was one of the few times in my life when I have been speechless."

For Patten, lack of sight does not mean lack of recreational activity. His group, the Optical Illusions, goes skiing each winter at Pine Knob. They have also waterskied. Patten and a friend have also skied in Switzerland.

"I love it," he said. "You just have to be able to trust the person behind you giving directions."

Patten has recently taken up the sport of golf and he shoots in the mid-60s for nine holes.

"I've gotten a par and a birdie, so far," he said. "I don't lift my head to follow the ball, so it (being visually impaired) can actually help."

Patten currently serves on the board of the Detroit Institute of Ophthalmology and has served as a past board member of the Optometric Institute and Clinic of Detroit.

Longtime restaurateur establishes presence on the east side

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

After living in Grosse Pointe for 15 years, restaurateur Tony Buscemi decided it was time to open a restaurant in town.

In fact Buscemi, president of the local pizza and sandwich Buscemi's chain started by his father Paul in the 1950s, plans to open two restaurants on Mack in the span of two months.

His first restaurant, the Country Inn, opened in August and is located next to Pointe Dodge at 18051 Mack, formerly the site of a restaurant called The Other Side of Mack. Buscemi co-owns the restaurant with Joe Vicari. Later this year Vicari will open the Trattoria Andiamo, an Italian restaurant, in Grosse Pointe Woods.

The Country Inn specializes in home-cooked food. The soups, gravies, and meats are all prepared from scratch at the restaurant.

"We wanted to offer a homey atmosphere," said Buscemi. "The outside decor was done in a log cabin-style motif. The inside has a stone fireplace and wooden beams. It looks like a place up north."

Grosse Pointer Tony Buscemi has brought a little bit of the country to the heart of Mack. The Country Inn, located next to Pointe Dodge, specializes in homecooked country-style food.

Also important to the success of the restaurant is the cost of the food. Buscemi believes too many people think because a business is in Grosse Pointe, more can be charged for goods and services.

"Grosse Pointers believe in value, and our menu prices reflect that," said Buscemi. "We give big portions, and don't try to charge a lot for them."

Like its predecessor, The Country Inn still offers a wide selection of breakfast fare, but also has lunch and dinner items.

"We're doing very well, better than I expected," Buscemi said. "The biggest problem we had was a fire just after we opened. It forced us to close for two weeks, and caused a $100,000 worth of damage in the kitchen."

Buscemi said his insurance company blames a power surge from Detroit Edison equipment for the fire.

In addition to the Country Inn, Buscemi is opening up a Buscemi's where the Assembly Line sandwich shop used to be on Mack in the Woods. Unlike most Buscemi's, this restaurant will feature sit-down dining.

The menu will include pasta, pizza and deli sandwiches, as well as beer and wine. The decor will be a step up from the usual Buscemi's, he said. It is hoped that customers will have the feeling of being in an old-style neighborhood Italian restaurant.

"We will spend a lot of money redecorating," Buscemi said. "We are raising the ceiling and will put in tin plating like in old-styled Italian restaurants. We will also set up the deli counter to look more old-fashioned, with our meats hanging up where people can see.

"When my wife Ninfa and I wanted to take our two children Paul and Natalie out to eat, we ended up going to the same places over and over. I feel in the past, there weren't as many family restaurants in Grosse Pointe as were needed. By opening Buscemi's, I hope to give Pointe diners another choice."

Buscemi recognizes that there are a number of pizza parlors on Mack, especially in the Woods, but they, for the most part, are take-out restaurants. There aren't that many places where families can sit down and enjoy a pizza, he said.

Buscemi expects his Buscemi's to open by the end of October. Remodeling is beginning this week.

"Grosse Pointe is a wonderful place to live," said Buscemi. "I have really enjoyed living here, and I am glad to have the chance to contribute to the community with my business. I must say that I am really looking forward to working here as well."

Atrium cafe loses bid for tavern license

By Chip Chapman
Staff Writer

Although she lowered her request from a full class C liquor license to a tavern license, Pauline Palazzolo fell one vote short of being able to serve beer, wine and champagne at the Atrium Espresso Cafe on the Hill.

The Farms city council deadlocked 3-3 on the request, with one abstention. Four favorable votes were needed to approve the license.

Councilman John Danaher, who works for Cottage Hospital, did not take part in the voting. Cottage Hospital president and chief executive officer Gregory Vasse had written a letter to the council in July opposing the Atrium's request. Danaher, to avoid any appearance of impropriety, decided to abstain.

Voting in favor of granting a tavern license were mayor Gregg Berendt and councilmembers Terry Griffin and Gail Kaess. Voting against it were councilmembers John Crowley, Edward Gaffney and Bruce Rockwell.

Berendt said he was impressed with the uniqueness of Palazzolo's idea to serve afternoon tea on the Hill and that the council should allow the citizens the right to decide whether such a business idea will work in Grosse Pointe Farms.

Kaess echoed Berendt's feelings, saying, "the council should not be afraid to take a risk."

Rockwell agreed that Palazzolo's idea appeared to be a good one, but he felt that another location would be more suitable. Rockwell, Gaffney and Crowley agreed that the Atrium's location — being in a medical office building — was a sticking point.

Crowley was concerned that children are tutored in the office next door to the Atrium.

Palazzolo was upset with the outcome of the vote.

Firm hired to study senior housing at 389 site

By Chip Chapman
Staff Writer

Following the school board's rejection of the lone bid submitted to purchase the school administration's offices at 389 St. Clair, the City and Farms have hired Weiss Land Development Co. Inc. of Southfield to conduct a study to determine if senior housing would be feasible at the site.

City Mayor Lorenzo Browning and Farms Mayor Gregg Berendt sent a letter to school board president Timothy H. Howlett on Aug. 9 asking for more time to conduct the study. The school board had set a deadline of Aug. 24 for bids on the property.

The City and Farms sent a second letter to the board asking an extension until Feb. 1, to finish the study. The board voted Monday to extend the deadline.

"School officials have been helpful in recognizing the need for senior housing," said Tom Kressbach, Grosse Pointe City manager.

Weiss Land Development, which completed a similar study for Redford, will conduct preliminary site planning and architectural, financial and marketing studies.

"We have to determine how much of the buildings can be reused," said Tom Kressbach. "We also have to see how many units there would be, how much to charge for them, and a number of other things."

The property is zoned R-1B residential for single-family use. The Grosse Pointe City council, which is also the city planning commission, is empowered to change the zoning for the property.

The two cities have formed subcommittees (Browning, Dale Srace and Myrna Smith for the City; Berendt, Edward Gaffney and John Crowley for the Farms) and have set aside $3,000 each from their general funds for the study.

"I'd expect the study would be completed sooner than February," said Farms city manager Richard Solak. "And I don't think the total cost will be much more than $3,000."

Detroit City Airport loses major carrier this week

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

Detroit City Airport lost its biggest customer on Sept. 14 when Southwest Airlines shut down its operations at the airport.

The airline had been using the airport since 1988, flying 15 non-stop flights a day to Chicago and St. Louis. Southwest will continue its Detroit operations out of Metro Airport.

The airline will fly 10 flights a day to Chicago, and six flights a day to St. Louis. A one-way ticket to Chicago will cost $59. A one-way ticket to St. Louis will cost $79, said airline representative Shari Hanrahan.

According to Hanrahan, the airline was satisfied with the services provided by City Airport, and would have stayed there if a longer runway able to handle larger planes could have been built.

Southwest had about 37,000 customers use City in July, said Hanrahan. She was unable to speculate how many of them were Grosse Pointers or east-siders.

In March of this year, Detroit city government proposed expanding City's 5,200 foot runway to 7,200 feet to accommodate larger jets. But the plan ran into opposition from communities around Detroit, including the Grosse Pointes.

Park resident Christine Flanery, a member of the City Airport Opposition Association, said at the time of the March proposal that her group would oppose airport expansion. She said that the increase in jet traffic would harm property values. She also said most of the jobs created would be low-wage, low-skill positions.

Detroit then revised its runway expansion plans. The new plans call for expanding City's runway to 6,000 feet. This would allow bigger jets to land, but would cost less, and reduce the amount of private property the city would have to annex to expand the runway, The Detroit News reported.

John L. King, who heads the Detroit City Airport Study Committee was unavailable for comment. The committee is funded by a number of east-side governments, including all five Pointes, Warren and Harper Woods.

Bob Berg, Detroit Mayor Coleman Young's spokesman, said that the long-term goal of the city is to ultimately expand the runway to 7,200 feet, but for now, the plan calls for a 6,000-foot runway.

Berg said that the city is doing a feasibility study on the proposed 6,000 foot runway, and he does not have any figures on the proposed cost of such an expansion.

Last year Southwest paid just under $1 million in rents and fees to City Airport.

Detroit mayoral candidate Dennis Archer was quoted in the Free Press as saying he supported airport expansion only if an airline guaranteed in writing that it would serve the airport. Candidate Sharon McPhail was also quoted as saying she supported airport expansion.

Open house, swap shop is Sept. 19 at War Memorial; bring the family

Mosey on down to the Grosse Pointe War Memorial on Sunday, Sept. 19, between noon and 3 p.m.

Entertainment and fun is planned for the entire family at the annual open house and kids' swap shop. Admission is free and food and refreshments will be available for a minimum fee.

The afternoon features pony rides, face painting, music, clowns, a space moonwalk and more. And for the best bargains in town, bring some extra change to the popular Swap Shop on the back lawn. In case of inclement weather the event will be held indoors.

For more information or how to rent a swap shop table, call 881-7511.

The Grosse Pointe War Memorial Open House will include clowns and fun.

Schools get new science curriculum to help prepare for MEAP tests

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

A study committee for the Grosse Pointe school system has emerged from the lab after a year of research on how to improve and update the science curriculum.

Changes have been made to better prepare all students for the Michigan Educational Assessment Program (MEAP) test administered annually by the state.

The following changes were presented to the administration in June and approved by the school board on Monday:

- Revise the kindergarten through fourth-grade and seventh-grade programs this school year.

- Modify the grade five and six curriculum to include physical and Earth science. The new curriculum will be developed this year and implemented next year.

- A new two-year sequence for grades 8 and 9 to incorporate core elements of the present courses of grade 8 physical science, Earth science and introduction to physical science (IPS). The new curriculum will be developed this year. Grade 8 changes will be implemented in 1994-95; grade 9 changes will be implemented in 1995-96.

In addition, the committee recommended that math, technology and science teachers develop an integrated science curriculum that will incorporate the use of technology and include strategies for responding to varying student needs and abilities.

- All ninth-graders will be required to take a science class.

The science curriculum was studied last year as part of an ongoing process within the school district in which a specialized committee takes a year to study one or two courses within the curriculum. This year the district is studying its art and music programs, said Alfreda Frost, assistant superintendent for curriculum and evaluation.

The science committee was made up of 20 representatives from the elementary, middle and high schools, principals and central office administrators.

"One of the reasons for this is the MEAP science test and the upcoming MEAP proficiency exams," Frost said. "We'd like to be in a preventive mode and offer instruction beforehand rather than run the risk of students having to do remediation if they do not do well."

MEAP science tests are administered at the beginning of each school year to fifth, eighth and 11th graders.

Beginning with the class of 1994, high school students who do not receive passing scores on one or more of the tests will not graduate with a state-endorsed diploma. By 1997, all high school students will be required to pass a proficiency exam in order to graduate.

The tougher graduation requirements were enacted by the Legislature in 1991 as part of Public Act 118. A state-endorsed diploma is one that has a sticker or seal affixed to it signifying that a student has met one or more of the following requirements:

- A passing score on a locally developed and state-approved proficiency test.

- A passing score on a general education development (GED) test.

- A passing score on the reading portion of the grade 10 MEAP test; at least 50 percent of the objectives on the grade 10 math test; and at least 50 percent on the grade 11 science test.

Superintendent Ed Shine said it is important, considering all the national attention that has been paid to the American education system being in need of improvement, that the schools constantly be in the process of improving programs.

"We need kids to be able to read, to do math and to be involved in science and to understand scientific principles," Shine said. "The thrust of these recommendations is that kids be involved in scientific experiences and be more proficient in science than in the past."

The current science curriculum has sixth graders taking a full year of Earth science, seventh graders taking a full year of life science and eighth graders taking a full year of physical science, Frost said.

High school students must complete two years of science with no requirement as to when the classes are taken.

Shine said about 90 percent of ninth graders at North high school and about 80 percent of ninth graders at South elect to take science anyway, so the new requirement will only affect 10 percent of the students.

Changes at the elementary level, Frost said, involve students in grades kindergarten through fourth grade getting the background they need to be prepared for the fifth-grade MEAP test.

Fifth- and sixth-graders will have Earth and physical science and a full year of life science in seventh grade so they will be prepared for the MEAP at the beginning of eighth grade.

The succeeding two-year sequence for eighth and ninth graders will better prepare 10th graders for the MEAP test, she said.

The ninth-grade science requirement raised concerns with board trustee Linda Schneider, who thought an additional requirement might overtax students making the transition from middle to high school.

"We did look at this and it is not an addition to the science requirement," Frost explained. "It maintains the two-year science requirement."

Frost said students must take two years of science in high school and many students traditionally waited until 10th grade.

A new course for ninth graders will be developed this school year and implemented in the 1995-96 school year.

Waldmeir leaves City; Dowers takes his place

By Chip Chapman
Staff Writer

Peter W. Waldmeir resigned his seat on the Grosse Pointe City council Monday after taking up residency in Grosse Pointe Farms.

The City charter does not allow councilmembers to continue to serve if they move from the City during their term. Waldmeir is the second City councilmember to resign because of a change of residency. Earlier this year Carl Rashid Jr. resigned when he moved to the Woods.

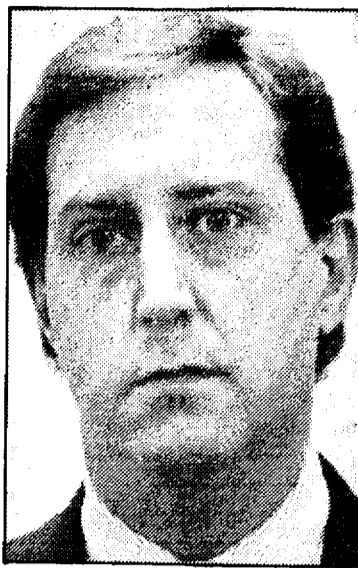

Waldmeir's resignation was accepted unanimously by the remaining councilmembers. The appointment of his replacement Larry A. Dowers, though, passed only by a 4-2 vote.

Councilmember Myrna

Smith did not think it was fair to appoint a new member for two meetings. Dowers will finish Waldmeir's term, which ends in November, and has the opportunity to run as an incumbent for re-election to the council.

Smith and councilmember Lisa Bradley voted against Dowers' appointment.

At press time, none of the three incumbent councilmembers had yet filed for re-election. The terms of Dowers, Bradley and councilmember Dale Scrace end in November. Only Mayor Lorenzo D. Browning, whose term ends in November, and Smith, whose term on the council ends in November 1995, had filed to run for mayor. The filing deadline is Oct. 9.

Peter Waldmeir

Waldmeir, who was in North Dakota on business, sent a letter to Mayor Browning thanking him, the council and the City's residents "for the opportunity to play a role in the City's stewardship."

Businessmen help nab suspect in Park robbery

A 24-year-old Detroit man is being held in Wayne County Jail in connection with a Sept. 9 unarmed robbery of an elderly Park man.

The suspect was arrested at his home on Sept. 11 by Grosse Pointe Park police based on information given by business owners on Kercheval who were familiar with him, said Park police detective Lt. David Hiller.

The robbery happened at 3:40 p.m. when the Park man was parked in front of a business in the 15000 block of Kercheval. He was approached by the suspect, who leaned into the car, placed his hand on the back of the elderly man's head and threatened to harm him if he didn't hand over some money.

The suspect then grabbed the man's wallet from his pants pocket as the man attempted to escape from the car through the passenger door. The suspect fled on foot.

Business owners recognized the suspect's description as someone they had seen in the area before, Hiller said. In fact, the suspect was wearing the same clothing when he was arrested that the victim had described him as wearing.

"This is just another example of the cooperation between business and the public safety department," Hiller noted. "The information obtained from area businesses led us to the suspect."

The Detroit man was arraigned Sept. 12 in Grosse Pointe Municipal Court on a charge of unarmed robbery. He is scheduled to appear before municipal judge Kirsten Frank today, Sept. 16, for a preliminary hearing.

Star open house is Friday

Our Lady Star of the Sea Elementary School is holding a Harvest Night/Open House from 6:30 to 8 p.m. tomorrow, Sept. 17, at the expanded middle school (in the former high school building).

Harvest Night activities will be held from 5 to 10 p.m. and will include a Coney Island dinner, a bake sale, mum sale, craft tables and pumpkin painting. Star of the Sea is located at 467 Fairford in Grosse Pointe Woods. Call 884-1070.

Browning to seek re-election

Lorenzo D. Browning has announced his candidacy for re-election as mayor of the City of Grosse Pointe.

Mayor since 1983, Browning also served as councilman from 1971-83.

Browning views his present term as perhaps his busiest and most productive to date with many new projects, programs and organizations that have evolved during this period.

"The centennial celebration enjoyed this year has provided a wonderful showcase for the citizenry to appreciate our new park landscaping and expansion, new entrance, street name signs and the many beautification projects throughout the commercial and residential areas of our city," Browning said.

"I am most appreciative of the great efforts of the Grosse Pointe City Foundation, the Beautification Commission and the Parks and Recreation Advisory Commission. The volunteer work of our citizens on these groups and on other city boards and committees greatly helps and enhances our community.

"I'm proud of our past accomplishments. We've maintained quality services and upgraded the city's infrastructure, while incurring little debt and controlling our tax increase so it has been less than the cost of living/CPI increase during my 21 years in city government."

"As we plan and build for the future," Browning continued, "I offer leadership, stability and cooperation in working with our citizens, the city council and city staff personnel.

"A fine working relationship with the mayors of the other Grosse Pointes and Harper Woods continues to be a major asset in my administration," Browning said. "We meet regularly to discuss common problems and together look to the future and how we may all best meet the needs of our individual communities and the Grosse Pointes as a whole."

Browning consults with many southeast Michigan officials and has been a member of the Wayne County Community Development Block Grant Advisory Council for many years. Since 1979, the city has received $1,494,374 in block grant funds for housing rehab and repair, senior transportation and infrastructure improvement.

"We have many challenges ahead. I'm concerned about the future financing of local government, state actions impacting both cities and schools, and the cost of federal and state mandates," he said. "But I have faith in the future, and I look forward to working with our citizens, our merchants and school and other governmental officials in meeting these challenges, and that's why I seek re-election as mayor."

Woods home burglarized

A resident in the 19000 block of Fairway in Grosse Pointe Woods reported to police that sometime between Sept. 4 and Sept. 9, someone broke into his house, possibly by using a hidden key, and removed several possessions.

Stolen were a stamp and coin collection and women's jewelry. The resident also found a nearly empty bottle of whiskey on the kitchen counter that had been full when the resident last was home. The hidden key also was missing.

Shores public safety gets new tools of the trade

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

The Grosse Pointe Shores public safety department recently began using two new pieces of equipment that will help them better serve the public.

In August, all public safety officers were certified to carry a chemical spray called Freeze + P, which is supposed to be more effective than traditional chemical Mace sprays without the long-lasting effects.

In addition, dispatchers this month began using a telecommunication device for the deaf (TDD), an instrument that enables the department to receive phone calls from deaf callers.

A TDD is a portable typewriter connected to a special phone line. When a TDD call comes in, the telephone receiver is placed on two couplers on the TDD, where tones and beeps transmitted through the phone line are translated into written messages on a screen above the keyboard.

The dispatcher then can conduct a conversation with the deaf caller by typing responses on the keyboard.

The chemical spray contains cayenne pepper and tear gas, is being used as part of the department's revised policy on use of non-lethal force. The substance, when sprayed at one or two people at close range, makes a person sneeze, draw deep breaths and then renders the person temporarily incapacitated.

Shores public safety chief Daniel Healy said all officers attended a training program on the proper use of the spray. Healy predicted that more and more law enforcement agencies will be using the spray, which can incapacitate a suspect without inflicting injury.

"We will be seeing more use of passive restraints," he said. "People are showing greater disrespect for law enforcement. It seems to be a general attitude and if a police officer is going to have to arrest someone, that person generally is not cooperative."

"If the officer is going to have to use force, he has to do it with the least amount of damage to both himself and the combative suspect."

The department, with help from the village attorney, has revised its rules and regulations over the last year and a half, Healy said. The department periodically updates its rules according to the latest court decisions and legal decrees.

"If there is a major Supreme Court decision you have to change your policy forthwith," he noted. "If a department does not keep up on these things, it can find itself in deep, deep trouble."

The spray is to be used on a case-by-case basis, according to the department's policy, and in situations where circumstances require a degree of force greater than voice command or simple physical strength. The spray can be used, for example, in a self-defense situation, or in the defense of another person, or if a person is physically resisting arrest or attempting to flee from police custody.

The department has not yet had occasion to use the spray, Healy added.

Healy cautioned that it is illegal for anyone outside of law enforcement to carry Freeze + P. If a person is caught carrying the chemical spray, he or she is subject to a maximum punishment of five years in prison under the felony charge of carrying a concealed weapon.

"Use of Freeze + P is a practical answer to physical confrontations where things can escalate," Healy said. "It will help to keep a situation at the lowest level of violence possible."

Shores honors Brady at reception

By Chip Chapman
Staff Writer

More than 200 family members, friends and colleagues gathered last Thursday night at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club to honor Edmund M. Brady Jr., who stepped down last June as Shores president after 18 years in the village government.

Brady had no idea that such a crowd would be honoring him at the Yacht Club that night.

He received 14 proclamations from organizations including the Michigan State Bar, the Detroit Bar Association, the state House, the state Senate, and from people such as Gov. John Engler and Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., as well as from the mayors of the other four Pointes and Harper Woods.

Shores President John

Huettman, his wife Candy, and Shores employees Michael Kenyon, Angela Kenyon and Laurie Duncan helped organize the event.

Brady first came into village government in 1975, when then President Gerald C. Schroeder appointed him as clerk. He was elected to the council in 1980 and was president from 1988 until this past June.

Coe

A suspect was picked out of a lineup and is expected to be charged this week.

Born in Detroit, Mr. Coe attended Cass Technical High School, graduating in 1964. He turned down an art scholarship to Pratt Institute in New York to attend Wayne State University. He earned his bachelor's degree in art from Wayne State in 1968.

When he finished school he joined the U.S. Air Force and was stationed in Turkey. He kept a book of sketches he drew during his time in the military.

He worked at Productive Advertising and City Printing before joining the Grosse Pointe News' production department in 1989.

He had been working on a calendar featuring sketches of Grosse Pointe scenes at the time of his death.

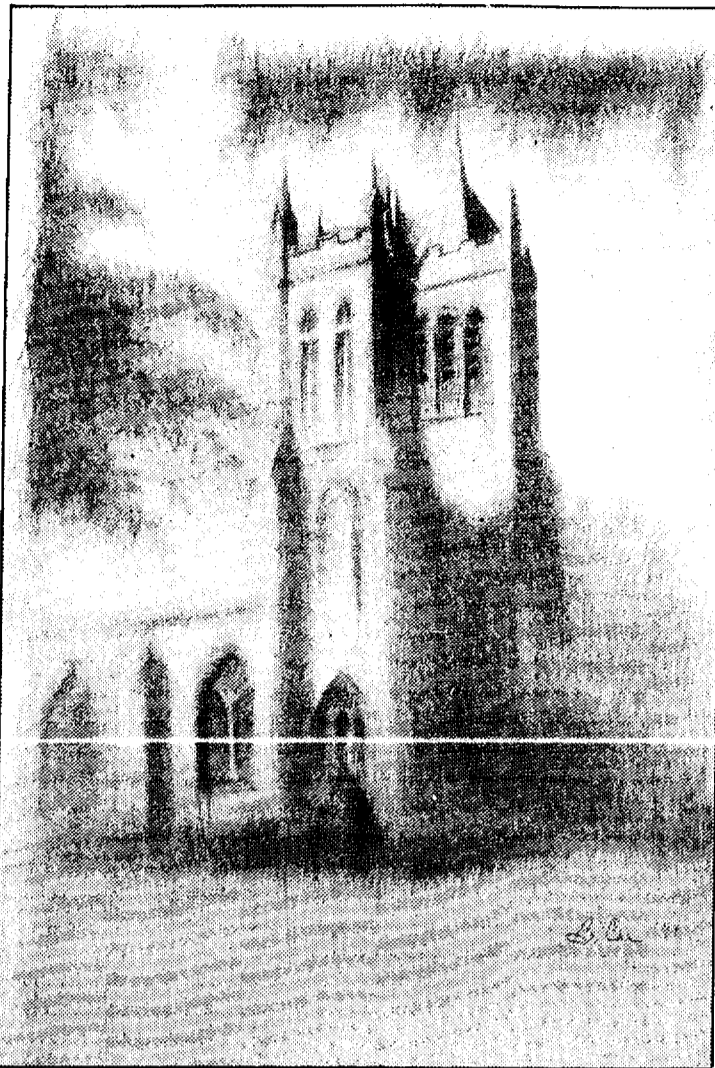

"Bob was a gentle and compassionate person with a witty personality who put others' needs ahead of his own," said associate production manager for the News, Valerie Encheff. "With his own, carefree style Bob was always able to put a smile on your face. He will be greatly missed."

Encheff and her husband, Bruce, saw Mr. Coe socially. She remembered a time when she and Bruce had to stop at Kmart to run an errand. They left their son Kenny in the car with Mr. Coe.

"When we came out of the store, Bob had just given Kenny a ride on the merry-go-round in front of the store," she remembered. "He said that Kenny just wanted to ride on it. That's how Bob was."

"Bob Coe was a man of great talent, intuitive and undisguised," said News co-worker Diane Morelli. "I was fortunate to have known him."

"Anonymous angels sometimes walk among us incognito, easily dismissed as being less than ordinary," News production manager Mary Valentic said of Bob Coe. "But if you disregard the superficial and get close enough to look into their eyes, you are touched by the depth of their soul and are changed forever."

Robert Coe's pencil sketch of St. Paul Catholic Church in Grosse Pointe Farms was one of many to be featured in a community calendar.

"The Bob Coe I knew was a kind, gentle man who would give you the shirt off his back," said another News co-worker, Pat Tapper. "I'm glad I had a chance to know him. God bless you, Bob."

He is survived by a sister, Nancy; and five brothers, Thomas, Frank, Stan, Chuck and Ken.

Funeral services were held Saturday, Sept. 11, at Verheyden Funeral Home in Grosse Pointe Park. Interment was in Mount Elliott Cemetery in Detroit.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Capuchin Mission Association, 1820 Mount Elliott, Detroit, Mich. 48207.

Lawrence W. Walter

Services were held Saturday, Sept. 4, at Our Lady Star of the Sea Catholic Church in Grosse Pointe Woods for Lawrence W. Walter, 62, of Grosse Pointe Woods, who died Thursday, Sept. 2, 1993, at his home.

Born in Detroit, Mr. Walter served in the U.S. Air Force.

He is survived by his wife, Dianne M.; three daughters, Sheila G., Mary V. and Colleen E.; three sons, Brian J., Timothy L. and Leslie A.; nine grandchildren; his father, William Walter; and two brothers, Ronald and John. He was predeceased by his mother, Afra Walter, and a sister, Barbara Walter.

Arrangements were made by the Chas. Verheyden Inc. Funeral Home in Grosse Pointe Park.

James M. Baciulis

Services were held Saturday, Sept. 11, at St. Clare of Montefalco Catholic Church in Grosse Pointe Park for James M. Baciulis, 31, of Harper Woods, who died Wednesday, Sept. 8, 1993, at his home.

Born in Rochester, N.Y., Mr. Baciulis was a former resident of Grosse Pointe Park. He was a partner with Baciulis Design after attending Randolph Macdon College and the Rochester Institute of Technology.

He enjoyed gourmet cooking, gardening and home renovation.

Mr. Baciulis is survived by his wife, Donna Baciulis; his mother, June Baciulis; two sisters, Lois Massar and Marcia Kucmerowski; and a brother, Robert Baciulis. He was predeceased by his father, Robert Baciulis.

Arrangements were made by the Chas. Verheyden Inc. Funeral Home in Grosse Pointe Park.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Michigan Cancer Foundation.

Park's independent probation department draws praise, flak

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

In an effort to save money and increase efficiency, the Grosse Pointe Park Municipal Court system has established its own probation department.

According to Park city controller Peter Dobrzeński, the Park government collected $19,830 in fees under its previous probation program in fiscal year 1992-1993. Unfortunately, its program cost $25,675.

"The Municipal Court judge is responsible for sentencing and probation," said Park municipal judge Kirsten Frank. "Under the Grosse Pointe system there was no direct accountability. The probation department is supposed to provide me with the tools to set the proper sentence. If there is a probation violation, I want to hear about it right away. I have that now; I didn't have that before."

Frank complained that she would not hear of violations until two months after they were committed. According to Suzanne O'Shea of Grosse Pointe probation, the department often will take time to check a violator's story before presenting the information to a judge.

The problem, Frank said, is that if the department is not satisfied with the reason, it takes a judge time to find out about it. Punishment is months after the fact. She prefers to act quickly after a violation occurs. With the Park's new system, she can do that.

For the past 15 years, all five Grosse Pointe Municipal Courts used one probation department. In the case of drunken driving-related offenses, the probation department is required by law to do a screening and assessment report. The majority of her cases are drunken-driving related, Frank said.

The report made by the screener recommends punishment and treatment to the municipal judge. The judge is free to accept or reject what the screener advises.

The probation department is also responsible for reporting to the judge on whether or not those placed on probation are following the terms of probation.

The Park's probation department has been up and running for two months, Frank said. Alcohol screening and assessment tests are given by two contract employees, Jane Gay and Bridget Maple.

Gay worked for the Grosse Pointe probation department for the last 15 years. Maple worked for the 36th District in Detroit's Recorder's Court for eight years as a screener and probation officer.

The Park is also able to offer individual service, Frank said. Probationers are given specific times to report, and see the same officer everytime. In contrast, Grosse Pointe's system requires that everyone report at the same time. Someone might show up on time at 9 a.m., and not see a probation officer for two or three hours.

The probationers are not always interviewed by the same probation officer as they are in the Park's system.

Not everyone is pleased with the Park's actions, however. In a letter to the Grosse Pointe

News, Woods resident Tom Clancy wrote that the Park "has withdrawn its support of the probation department in favor of a computerized system with virtually no human input."

"I hear they have same-day sentencing," said Clancy. "How can you check out everything about someone, whether they are in alcohol treatment somewhere, whether they are on probation somewhere else, whatever, if you sentence someone the same day they plead guilty or are found guilty of an offense?"

Clancy does contract work for the Grosse Pointe probation department, handling cases in Grosse Pointe Woods. He believes that it takes time, sometimes days to check everything out. With same day sentencing, Clancy maintains, the proper follow-ups can't be done.

Frank said that as an attorney as well as a judge, she knows that defendants have attorneys who bring documentation with them. If someone has a job, he brings proof of employment. If someone is in treatment, the attorneys bring proof of treatment.

"If there are too many unanswered questions, I don't sentence on the same day," said Frank. "But attorneys are smart. They know what they are supposed to bring. If they expect sentencing on the day guilt is determined, then they bring what is needed to court."

The Park uses a state-certified computer program to help determine what level of treatment and punishment is appropriate for someone who has been convicted of a substance-abuse related offense, said Frank. But the program is just a tool to help the screener. It does not replace a screener's judgment. Many probation departments across the state use that program.

The bottom-line, said Frank, is that the system set up by the Park is more efficient in terms of time and cost.

"I'm responsible for the quality of probation services in the Park," said Frank. "I am satisfied that Park residents and defendants in the system are receiving quality probation services, and at a lesser cost than previously."

North to hold MEAP meeting

Grosse Pointe North High School will host a Michigan Education Assessment Program (MEAP) parent meeting at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 22, in the high school auditorium.

The purpose of the meeting is to inform parents of students in grades 10, 11 and 12 of the components of the MEAP test. Diploma endorsement requirements, test content and test taking strategies will be discussed by administrators and members of the teaching staff.

The MEAP math and reading tests for 10th graders are scheduled for the week of Oct. 4. Students in 11th grade will be tested in science during the week of Oct. 18. Students in grades 11 and 12 who have not earned a diploma endorsement in these areas will be retested during this time period.

New QB leads Blue Devils to first victory

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

The Drake name lives on at Grosse Pointe South.

Junior quarterback Todd Drake, making his first varsity start, passed for 227 yards and two touchdowns last weekend to lead the Blue Devils to a 21-9 Macomb Area Conference White Division victory against Warren-Mott.

Drake's sister Angela was an All-State basketball and volleyball player at South, and was one of the University of Toledo's top women's basketball recruits last year.

"It was a tough situation for Todd, being his first varsity game and all, but he threw the ball well," said Mike McLeod, who picked up his first victory as South's coach. "He only completed one of his first five passes and that was for only a yard, but then he settled down and completed 11 of his last 20.

"I said all along that it was a real battle for quarterback and the other kid (Paul Gentile) didn't do a bad job in our opener, but we wanted a little different look. And Todd had a bit of an edge in practice last week."

South struggled offensively in the first half, trailing 6-0 at the intermission.

"Mott had eight or nine men within five yards of the football in the first half and we just couldn't run against that defense," McLeod said. "(Assistant coach) Dan Griesbaum, who was up in the press box, suggested a three-wideout formation and that loosened Mott's defense up a little."

The Blue Devils took the second-half kickoff and marched down the field with Drake hitting tight end Joe Vlasak with a four-yard touchdown pass. Key plays in the drive were a and the Norsemen will be looking for their first victory Saturday when they host Cousino in their Macomb Area Conference Blue Division opener. The story of North's game with Chippewa Valley is on page 2C.

Former South standout tries hoops English-style

Andy Ayrault is going to get a taste of professional basketball with an English flavor.

The former Grosse Pointe South and Wayne State star joined the Hemel Royals, a London-based club in the 25-team English league.

"I'm looking forward to it," said Ayrault, who helped the Tartars to a top three finish in NCAA Division II basketball last winter. "It should be quite an experience. I won't have much time to get settled. I'll arrive in London on Wednesday and our first game is Saturday."

The English teams play two games a week and the season ends in March.

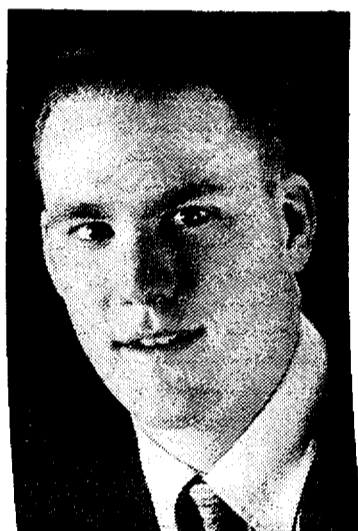

Ayrault, a 6-foot-7 center, is one of two Americans on the Royals' roster. The other is a 6-5 forward from Auburn.

"I've planned on playing in Europe for quite a while," Ayrault said. "My college coach (Ron Hammye) contacted some German and Scandinavian teams for me, but we couldn't get together."

Ayrault then talked to Kirk

Clean out...Clean up with a GARAGE SALE

One man's junk may be another man's jewel! Why not gather those items that you no longer treasure and tag them "For Sale" in a GARAGE SALE! You'll be surprised at how easy it is...and how much cash you can make!

TIPS FOR RUNNING A SUCCESSFUL GARAGE SALE:

• HOW LONG SHOULD A SALE RUN?

Usually two days gives enough time for professionals and amateurs and browsers. The best day to begin is Friday and run through Saturday. At the end of each day, reconsider pricing and make adjustments where needed.

• THE PRICE IS RIGHT:

Always mark prices on everything. Suggested price for good quality used clothing is one eighth the original cost. Check with store catalogues to get an idea of original prices. Clothing older than 10 years may be thought of as "campy" and could be worth more to the right buyers. Usually upholstered furniture costs less than all wood.

• GATHERING MERCHANDISE:

Go through your home...attic, basement, garage... and jot down items as you go. Small items can be displayed in baskets and buckets. Consider clothing, furniture, appliances... anything you no longer want or need. Ask friend if they'd like to run a joint sale and try color coding price tags to keep inventories separate.

• THE DAY BEFORE YOUR SALE:

Go to the bank and get small bills and change. Borrow an adding machine if you don't own one, to help keep sales straight. Always have someone watching merchandise. Keep money box, tags and materials together. Provide a full length mirror if possible for people to try on clothing. Create aisle like rows if possible for easy accessibility.

• And most important, ADVERTISE YOUR GARAGE SALE IN THE CLASSIFIEDS!

Someone's in the kitchen . . . with blueprints and bright ideas

By Margie Reins Smith
Feature Editor

Debbie and Jeffrey Palms' 8-year-old kitchen was . . . OK. But it wasn't their dream kitchen.

Dr. Pamela and Dr. Caleb Fleming's kitchen was too small.

The last time the kitchen in Rosalind and Mike Gietzen's historic 1910 home had been remodeled was the mid-1950s.

Cottage Hospital Auxiliary's annual kitchen tour will offer a chance to see how six Grosse Pointe families created their dream kitchens or customized their existing kitchens to meet the specific needs of their households.

The kitchens will be open for visitors from noon to 5 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 19. Proceeds from the tour will be used for emergency room equipment at Cottage Hospital.

The Palms' dream kitchen, at 395 Lincoln in Grosse Pointe City, has an old-world look: bleached carved oak cabinets, French country print fabrics and bay windows. It also has seating space at the counter and a cabinet to tuck away mundane stuff like coffee makers and toasters.

The remodeled result by Customcraft Inc., is a large, sunny French Country kitchen with limed oak cabinets. The walls are hand-painted to look like stone, including details like a painted robin's nest nestled in a niche above the bay window.

"I wanted a limestone floor, but we were told limestone isn't practical because it stains. We settled for ceramic tile that looks like stone," Debbie said.

The Palms added a bay window in the eating area and sliding glass doors leading to the back yard deck, which floods the area with natural light.

Valences, curtains and decorative pillows are a French blue provincial print with navy and yellow accents.

The Fleming's dream kitchen has a large center island. When the couple entertains, guests generally drift into the kitchen and stay there.

"I'm an old fashioned cook," Dr. Pamela Fleming said. "My spaghetti sauce takes six hours to cook and my baklava takes all day to make. I buy fresh produce. I can. I make blackberry jam."

The Flemings' home was designed by architect Alexander Gerard in a style typical of the southwest. They asked Motor City Modernization to design a bigger room, but specified that it be a smooth blend with the rest of the house.

Ed and Jodi Barbieri, owners of Da Eduardo's restaurant in Grosse Pointe Woods, enjoy cooking at home, too.

When the Barbieris entertain, Ed often makes a tenderloin of veal with bordelaise sauce and fresh porcini mushrooms. Jodi's specialties are roast pork tenderloin with fresh rosemary, grilled salmon or grilled swordfish. Their new Mutschler kitchen at 10

Scherer in Grosse Pointe Farms not only has lots of cooking space, but also offers lots of hanging-around-to-talk-to-and-watch-the-cook space. An adjoining keeping room is equipped with a fireplace, sofa, chairs and TV; and an adjoining eating area is surrounded on three sides by floor-to-ceiling windows.

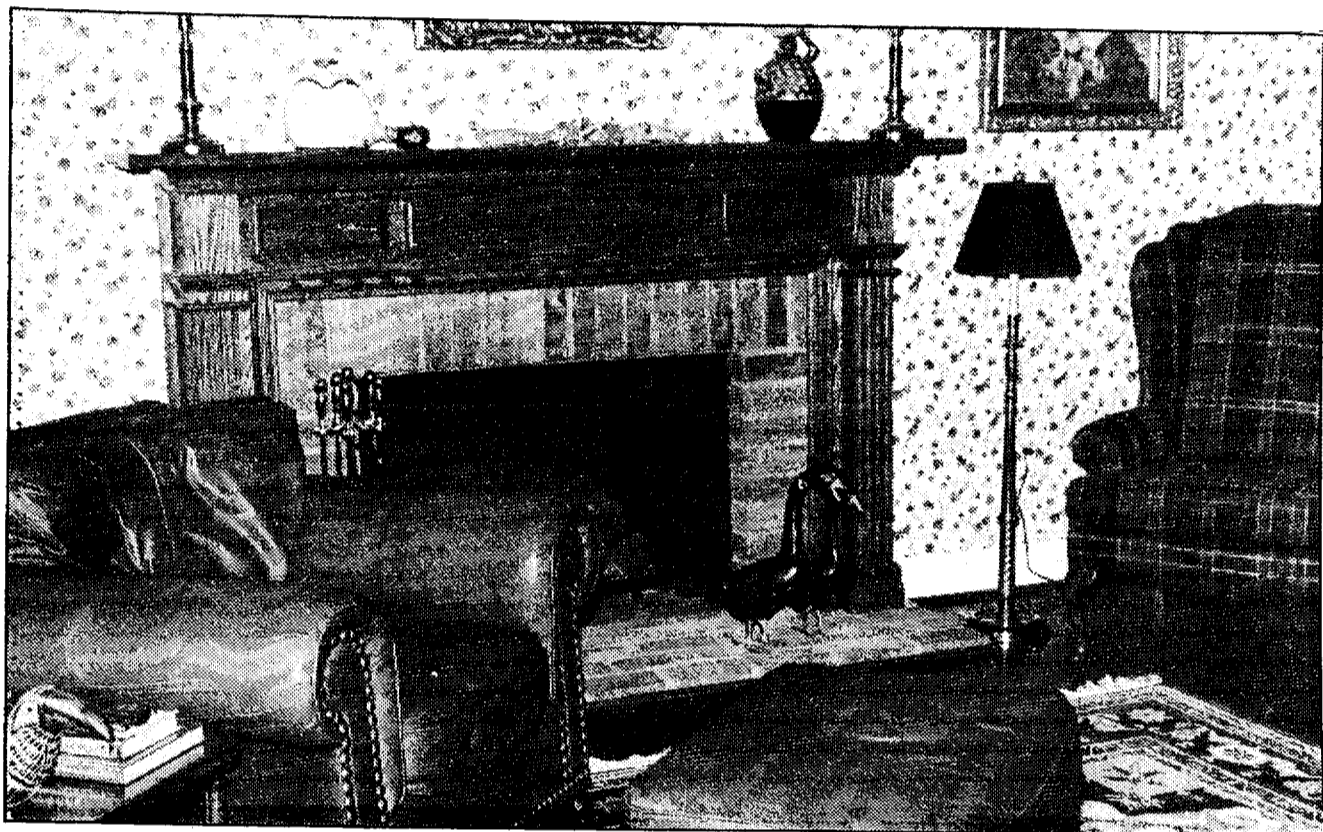

The Gietzens gutted the kitchen of their 83-year-old home at 459 Neff in Grosse Pointe City and replaced it with a Mutschler design which they installed themselves.

Mike Gietzen said the focal point is a raised octagon-shaped cove ceiling in the kitchen area which is softened by low voltage lighting.

Old formica-faced cupboards were replaced with maple cabinets with glass doors to display crystal and silver.

Countertops are black granite and the Gietzens added a peninsula, built-in refrigerator, cook top and ovens, and a traditional breakfast room that includes a picture window topped by a traditional

Ed and Jodi Barbieri's kitchen has an adjoining keeping room, above, equipped with a fireplace, comfortable sofa and chairs, and TV. Guests often hang around to observe the cook's technique. Debbie and Jeffrey Palms added a bay window and a window seat to the eating area in their new French country kitchen, at the right.

Steiner-Downing

Anne Elizabeth Steiner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred A. Steiner Jr. of Grosse Pointe Farms, married Patrick James Downing, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Downing of Buffalo, on July 31, 1993, at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church.

The Rev. Michael Foley officiated at the 5 p.m. ceremony, assisted by the Rev. John Costello of Rochester, N.Y., and Monsignor John Conniff of Buffalo. A reception at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club followed the ceremony.

The bride wore a silk shantung gown with a sweetheart neckline, off-the-shoulder sleeves and a chapel-length train. The bodice was trimmed with Alencon lace appliques. Her heirloom cathedral-length veil of Belgian rosepoint lace was first worn by her maternal grandmother, Louise Johnstone, in 1927. She carried a cascade of white roses, stephanotis and ivy.

The maid of honor was the bride's sister, Sara Steiner of Grosse Pointe Park.

Bridesmaids were the

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick James Downing groom's sisters, Julie, Amy and Bridget Downing, all of Buffalo; and Linda Gaglio of New York City. Honorary bridesmaids were Amy Chouinard and Katie Deuben, both of Chicago; and Suzanne Bayer, Dana Ludwig and Jill Spinner, all of Buffalo.

Attendants wore tea-length pink silk shantung dresses with off-the-shoulder necklines and short, white-cuffed sleeves. They carried cascades of stargazer lilies, pink and white roses and ivy. Honorary bridesmaids carried long-stemmed pink roses.

Brian Downing of Arizona was the best man.

Groomsmen were the groom's brothers, Tom and Sean Downing of Buffalo; the bride's brother, Eric Steiner of Grosse Pointe Farms; and Jim Kirkpatrick of Washington, D.C.

The soloist was Danica Randall, the trumpeter was Jeff Markwick and the carillonneur was Phyllis Webb.

The bride graduated from John Carroll University with a degree in elementary education.

The groom also graduated from John Carroll University and is an account representative with Waste Management Inc.

The newlyweds traveled to North Carolina. They live in upstate New York.

Goodnow-Ciano

Amy Elizabeth Goodnow of Chicago, daughter of Daniel T. and Susan T. Goodnow of Grosse Pointe Farms, married Phillip Anthony Ciano of Chicago, son of Mario C. and Constance M. Ciano of Wickliffe, Ohio, on June 26, 1993, at St. Paul Catholic Church.

Monsignor Gerald F. Martin officiated at the 3 p.m. ceremony, which was followed by a reception at the Country Club of Detroit.

The bride wore a silk-faced satin gown that featured a portrait neckline, a fitted bodice, a full skirt and a cathedral-length train with a satin flounce. She carried a cascade of white roses and greens.

The bride's sister, Mary Anne Goodnow, was the maid of honor.

Bridesmaids were the bride's sister, Jennifer Goodnow of Grosse Pointe Farms; the groom's sisters, Dina Vanjo and Anna and Angela Ciano, all of Wickliffe; Camey Walker of Chicago; Laura Boyd and Cynthia Emkey, both of Bethlehem, Pa.; and Mary Lee Spangler of Wilton, Conn.

The bride's sister, Sarah Goodnow of Grosse Pointe Farms, was the junior bridesmaid. Megan Goodnow of Akron, Ohio, was the flowergirl.

Attendants wore full-length black silk shantung suits with

Mrs. Phillip Anthony Ciano

of Grosse Pointe Farms; and Thomas Mylott, Eric Arcadi, John Jaeger, Christopher Motola, Timothy Fitzpatrick and Harold Arrowsmith, all of Cleveland.

The bride's mother wore a silver and white cocktail suit decorated with silver beads and a gardenia corsage.

The groom's mother wore a blue silk suit and a gardenia corsage.

Scripture readers were George Haggarty, Daniel M. Goodnow and Sarah Goodnow.

The bride graduated from Denison University with a bachelor of arts degree in economics. She is a commercial loan officer trainee at NBD Bank in Chicago.

The groom graduated from Wittenburg University with a bachelor of arts degree in English. He attends John Marshall Law School in Chicago.

The couple went on a Caribbean cruise. They live in Chicago.

Light and airy as cotton candy, "Calendar Girl" is an enjoyable treat. It's rich in nostalgia, a refreshing visit back in time to 1963 before the world was darkened by the assassination of John F. Kennedy.

Set in a small town in Kansas it relates the story of three star-struck boys, Roy (Jason Priestly), Ned (Gabriel Olds) and Scott (Jerry O'Connor) who grew up together, and tells of their trek to Hollywood to meet the girl of their dreams, Marilyn Monroe.

They are an engaging trio, bright, enthusiastic and by today's standards, naive. They believe that they will have no trouble walking up to Marilyn's home and that she will welcome them because of the many letters they have written to her.

Scott, the most sensitive of the three, has a notebook filled with stories and pictures of her which he hides between the covers of a Bible. The most prized photo is the famous nude calendar, which one of the boys filched from his father's desk drawer.

Through the years their adulation never wanes. When they graduate from high school and before they go off in separate directions, they decide to have one last fling. They will go to Hollywood and pay a call on Marilyn.

Roy leaves behind a father who wonders where his car is and two irate loan sharks played with great comic flair by Stephen Tobolowski and Kurt Fuller. Ned says goodbye to his girlfriend, whom he plans to marry, and Scott locks the door of the toy store where he was left in charge.

Carefree and happy, they tool down the highway in Roy's father's car.

The boys have no trouble locating Marilyn's house as befits

AMERICAN PAINTINGS FROM THE MANOOGIAN COLLECTION

THE DETROIT INSTITUTE OF ARTS • SEPTEMBER 11 - NOVEMBER 14, 1993

A Private View affords a public glimpse into one of the greatest private collections of American art. John Singer Sargent, William Merritt Chase, Childe Hassam and other 19th century masters are represented by informal portraits, domestic scenes that record a now vanished way of life, and light-filled impressionist views of city and country life. These 37 intimate and beautiful paintings are favorites from the extraordinary private collection of Richard and Jane Manoogian, but for just a short time they're on public view, at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Related Offerings
GALLERY TALK on Sunday, September 26 at 2 p.m.; free with museum admission.

CLASS ON STILL-LIFE PAINTING on Saturdays, October 2-16 at 12:30 p.m.; call 833-1426 for information.

Recommended Admission
$4 general public; $1 children; members free (pay what you wish, but you must pay something).

Museum Hours
Wednesday-Friday 11 a.m.-4 p.m.; weekends 11 a.m.-5 p.m.
Closed Mondays, Tuesdays and holidays. The Detroit Institute of Arts, 5200 Woodward Avenue, Detroit, Michigan 48202, (313) 833-7900.

The exhibition was organized by the DIA and the Yale University Art Gallery. In Detroit, exhibition funding was made possible by the state of Michigan, the city of Detroit and the DIA Founders Society.

Pewabic Pottery marks its 90th year with black-tie benefit

Pewabic Pottery, a national historic landmark and a non-profit ceramic arts center, will celebrate its 90th anniversary with a black-tie gala on Friday, Oct. 8, at the newly renovated Detroit Yacht Club.

Co-chairmen of the committee are Cameron and Rosanne Duncan of Bloomfield Village and Dominic and Delia Pangborn of Grosse Pointe Shores.

Other organizers are Grosse Pointers Barbara and Dean Richardson and Ann and Richard Rohr.

Cocktails and hors d'oeuvres will be served in the DYC's Peacock Alley, which is decorated with Pewabic tiles. Dinner and dancing to the music of the Johnny Trudell band will brighten the club's grand ballroom.

Media personality Dayne Eubanks, a member of the Pewabic board of trustees, will be mistress of ceremonies.

Sponsor tickets are $150 a person; benefactor tickets are $250 a person. Proceeds will support Pewabic's exhibition and education programs and assist in the preservation of the pottery.

Pewabic Pottery was founded in 1903 by Mary Chase Perry (later Stratton) and Horace Caulkins. The pottery offers classes and workshops for children and adults and exhibitions of work by emerging and established artists.

For information or to reserve tickets for the gala, call 822-0954.

Adoption option: The Michigan Humane Society and the Detroit Zoo will team up from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 19, to help families adopt homeless animals.

The animals are not residents of the zoo, but are the usual domestic variety: puppies and kittens, dogs and cats. More than 100 homeless animals will be looking for new homes, and adoption counselors will be on hand to help individuals and families make this important decision.

Meet the Maestro: A Musical Feast, one of a series of benefits for Detroit Symphony Orchestra Hall, will be hosted by DSO executive director

Mark Volpe and his wife, Martha, of Grosse Pointe. Maestro Neeme Jarvi and his wife, Lilia, will be the guests of honor for an evening of food, conversation and music.

Music will be provided by DSO flutist Ervin Monroe and DSO harpist Patricia Masri-Fletcher.

The price is $150 a person. For information or reservations, call 851-6691.

tions, call 851-6691.

Encore: The Detroit Symphony Orchestra Hall Designers' Showhouse, a major fundraiser for the symphony, will be open to the public Oct. 2-24.

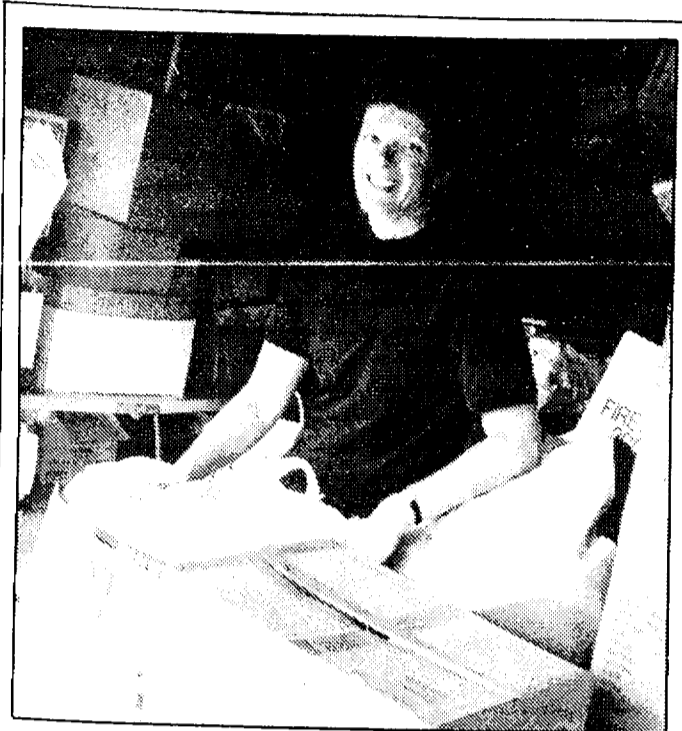

The home is an old-world mansion in Bloomfield Hills, "Villa Barona."

Twenty-four of the Detroit area's top interior designers have enhanced the rooms of the 13,000-square foot lakeside villa at 3376 Franklin Road, which is west of Telegraph, between Long Lake and Square Lake roads. Villa Barona has six bedrooms, nine fireplaces, 10 bathrooms and an interesting variety of architectural details.

The showhouse will be open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesdays through Saturdays and 2 to 6 p.m. Sundays. It will be closed Mondays.

Tickets are $12 at the door; $10 in advance; $8 for groups of 20 or more. Free parking will be at Kirk in the Hills Church, 1340 W. Long Lake in Bloomfield Hills, with a free shuttle to and from the showhouse. For more information, call 962-1000.

The Pastor's Corner

A loving God

By the Rev. John Corrado
Grosse Pointe Unitarian Church

I am part of a religious movement that almost worked itself out of a job. That same movement, I believe, calls on all of us to deal with some difficult "jobs" before us today. When Universalism first came to America 200 years ago, it was hardly a new idea. Though sometimes scattered or in hiding because of the consequences of proclaiming a "heresy" (which, by the way, literally means "making a choice"), centuries-worth of religious pilgrims were Universalist in their thinking. There were those who believed in the universal nature of humanity: we are one despite differences of geography, race, creed or any other matter of circumstance. There were those who believed in our oneness with the universe. Some ancient Greeks sought the one universal element which bound all others. By the 19th century of the Christian era, Universalism came to mean "universal salvation." Universal salvation means that each and every child comes into the world unique, precious and without the need to be "saved" by some religious conversion or rite. Imagine how this point of view was accepted in frontier America two centuries back. While many preachers were preaching hell, Universalists were preaching hope. While many preachers painted verbal pictures of a punishing God who condemned and burned his children, Universalists told of a loving God who, rather than torturing his children, would drag the vilest sinner kicking and screaming into heaven. The message of a large and loving God became incorporated as part of the religious belief of many Americans of various faiths. That the Universalist Church grew in the 19th century and dwindled in the 20th century is tribute to the effectiveness of its message. The belief in a loving rather than punishing God is mainstream, Main Street belief today. Hellfire and brimstone theology has taken a back seat.

But the success of the past is not good enough for modern Universalists. The world today seems shattered into shards of despair. The brokenness lies everywhere. Only the most numbed spirits are oblivious to its touch. There is, for example, a hunger and thirst for justice — not merely justice for some, but universal justice. There is despair that so many men, women and children live in poverty. What we need is a universal view of economics, one which includes all the children of Earth. There are the fractures of racial prejudice. Universalism declares that there is one race: the human race. Sadly, there are those who, while professing and posturing religious piety, condemn those who are in some way different. You may be OK to them — unless you are gay, or a feminist, or a liberal, or believe in choice on the matter of abortion; or unless you hold a different religious belief, or avow no religious belief at all.

When this difference is identified, you are deemed not OK at all. At that point some passage of Scripture is used — or misused — to vilify you and justify the scorn of the villifier. What a job we still have, all of us churched and unchurched. The fractured world begs that we declare hope, share hope, live out hope, bring hope. It is not hell but hope the world needs. The best issues forth from the widest expanse of human vision; the largest thought of God — the Universalist vision. It is a vision which, while not denying our differences, proclaims a unity in which, through the dearest, deepest graciousness of life, we are all held.

Champagne tea

The Jesuit Seminary Association, St. Peter and Paul unit, will hold its annual champagne tea from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 26, at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Bader Cassin of Grosse Pointe Park. Funds raised at the event will go to support seminarians and retired priests. Organizers of the benefit include: Mrs. John E Young, chairman of the association; Mrs. Patrick McKeever, chairman of the tea; Mrs. Hal Massacar and Mrs. Charles Rutherford, co-chairmen of the tea; Mrs. Marcellus Sweeney, recording secretary; Mrs. Brian J. Molloy Jr., financial secretary; and Mrs. John Nolan, publicity chairman. Standing, from left, are Rutherford and Messacar; seated, from left, are Sweeney and Young. For more information about the benefit, call 881-4041 or 886-7829.

First English Lutheran offers education evenings

An Education Evening will debut at First English Lutheran Church this fall, beginning on Wednesday, Sept. 22, from 7:30 to 9 p.m., and it includes children. "Parenting Adolescents: Ease The Way to Adulthood," will be the subject of the class offered by pastor Elaine Gommulka for six weeks. It is designed to be an interactive course to be supportive as well as affording an opportunity to search Scriptures for insights into parenting adolescents. The course will look at pressures and changes in teenagers, how to communicate, love, nurture and promote self-esteem, and how to deal with crises and pass on the faith. A different idea in evening classes will offer a new club for kids 4 years old through the fifth grade called "Kids of the Kingdom." It will include stories, movies, activities, singing, crafts, snacks and more, all coordinated by Karen Ford. To preregister for "Kids of the Kingdom" call Ford at 776-5624. Register for adult classes by telephoning the church office at 884-5040. The only cost is for materials. First English is located at 800 Vernier in Grosse Pointe Woods.

Lay Theological Academy course is on works of Frederick Buechner

"The Gentle and Transforming Wisdom of Frederick Buechner," a new course, will be offered by the Lay Theological Academy from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Mondays, Sept. 27, Oct. 11 and Oct. 25 at Christ Church Grosse Pointe. Tuition is $15. The public is encouraged to attend. Grosse Pointer Doris Brucker, book reviewer of current and classic literature, will lead the study and discussion of Buechner's Christian beliefs, as revealed in his autobiographies and selected works. Buechner is a respected and widely read writer of more than 28 published works of fiction and nonfiction. He is a Presbyterian minister living in Rupert, Vt. He's a lecturer, preacher and teacher at Harvard, Princeton and Yale universities. Required reading for the course will be "The Sacred Journey," "Now and Then" and "Telling Secrets," Buechner's three autobiographies. They may be read prior to or during the course. The autobiographies affirm that each life is not just a journey through time, but a sacred journey where here and there in the world and now and then in ourselves is a New Creation. Brucker plans an exciting exploration of Buechner's faith and beliefs. All members of the class will have an opportunity to participate in the discussion. For the past 20 years, Brucker has presented reviews of current books for book clubs, church and civic organizations. She is an elder, a Stephen Minister, and a past president of the board of trustees of Grosse Pointe Memorial Church.

Jewish holiday services slated

The religious committee of the Grosse Pointe Jewish Council has arranged for the Jewish holidays of Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur to be celebrated on Detroit's east side. Rosh Hashanah services began at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 15, at the Grosse Pointe Unitarian Church, 17150 Maumee. Services will resume at 9:30 a.m. today, with a children's service at 1 p.m. Rabbi Jonathan Plaut, director of community outreach and involvement for the Jewish Federation of Metropolitan Detroit, will conduct the services, which are held under the auspices of the religious committee of the Grosse Pointe Jewish Council. The Council's objective is to preserve and promote the heritage and traditions of the Jewish religion and culture for the benefit of its membership and metropolitan Detroit's east side, and to offer an educational and social forum for its members. The council welcomes attendance at these services. For more information and reservations, contact Alan Harris at 885-5225.

Stabenow discusses school funding

The Grosse Pointe branch of American Association of University Women will begin its 1993-94 season with a program featuring state Sen. Debbie Stabenow, who will speak on "Funding for Education." The event will take place at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 22, at Christ the King Lutheran Church in Grosse Pointe Woods. The community is invited; there will be no charge.

Stabenow was born in Gladwin, raised in Clare, and now lives in Lansing with her two children. She began her public service career when she was elected to the Ingham County board of commissioners at age 24. After two years on the board, her peers elected her chairperson. Following her service as a county commissioner, Stabenow served for 12 years in the Michigan House before being elected to represent Ingham County in the Senate in 1990. She is vice-chairman of the Senate Education Committee and is a member of the Finance and Government Operations Committee.

For information about AAUW or on becoming a member, call Judy Stark at 884-9250.

League of Women Voters to meet

The Grosse Pointe League of Women Voters will hold its first meeting of the 1993-94 season on Thursday, Sept. 23, at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. Coffee and conversation begin at 7 p.m., followed by a meeting at 7:30 p.m. The evening is especially for new and prospective members.

Mary Koch, past president of the LWV-Detroit Metropolitan Area, will be the speaker. She is executive director of the Brightmoor Community Center in Detroit and represents the league in areas of public concern such as transportation and funding of county and municipal projects.

The LWV-DMA was founded Sept. 14, 1973, in the ballroom of the University of Detroit. Grosse Pointers Marion Hugos, Peg Hodak and Eleanor Tacke were part of the original group.

The purpose of the Grosse Pointe branch of the LWV is to promote political responsibility through informed and active participation of citizens in government; and to act on selected governmental issues. It does not support or oppose any political party or any candidate.

Recent local studies involved the Grosse Pointe library system; the Grosse Pointe schools; national health care delivery and financing; and land use.

Membership is open to all women and men in the area. For more information, call Rachel Webers at 821-5059 or Marion McCarthy at 372-8899.

Fort Pontchartrain-Elizabeth Cass DAR to meet Sept. 17

The Fort Pontchartrain Elizabeth Cass Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution will meet Friday Sept. 17, at Selfridge Air National Guard Base at 10:30 a.m. for a bus tour of the base followed by luncheon at the base officers' club.

The program will be "Operation Desert Storm," by Major John Theisen, chief of base security police.

The 93rd state conference of the D.A.R. will be Sept. 23-25, at the Troy Marriot Hotel in Troy.

The chapter will hold a genealogy workshop on Saturday, Jan. 15, at Grosse Pointe South High School. Anyone needing help tracing their background will be assisted.

For more information, call regent Sarah Jane Boyd at 881-8142 or Beverly Harrison at 371-0505.

Honors recital

Participating teachers include Jean Curtis, Alice Ellison, Patricia Fletcher, Patricia Junker, Irene Muse, Joyce Nufer, Virginia Shover and Barbara Whistler.

Historical Society moves to Barnes school

The Grosse Pointe Historical Society has relocated its headquarters for the seventh time since its founding in 1945.

Most recently, the society was located in an unused classroom at Ferry Elementary School. Because of Ferry's increased enrollment this fall, the society moved its collection on short notice, with the help of volunteers, to room 108 in Barnes School, 20090 Morning-side in Grosse Pointe Woods.

The society was established in 1945 with 30-40 members and a small collection of documents which were housed in the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

Because of space and security problems, the society moved its collection of 43 items to the Grosse Pointe Central Library in March 1960.

By 1979, the ever-increasing collection of documents and artifacts was returned to the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. A part-time curator was hired in 1980.

By 1982, the expanding collection was moved to Monteith Elementary School. By 1986, increased enrollment at Monteith forced another relocation, this time to Mason Elementary School.

Delta Gamma alums to meet

The Grosse Pointe alumnae chapter of Delta Gamma will hold its annual fall brunch to welcome new members and renew old friendships at noon Sunday, Sept. 19, at the home of Robin Mullinger Dyle. All Delta Gammas are invited. R.S.V.P. to Barbara Trost at 884-3955.

Delta Gammas will resume vision screening for pre-school children in October. If you are a Delta Gamma who is interested in contributing to this program, call Ann Baxter at 886-0538.

Questers No. 385

Windmill Pointe Questers will hold its first fall meeting at 10 a.m. Monday, Sept. 20, at the home of Claudine Watt.

Guest speaker Mary Lou Borresch will present a program on flowers in history: roses, lilies and fascinating superstitions. A business meeting will follow the program.

Questers No. 147

Members of Grosse Pointe Questers chapter No. 147 began the new season at the home of Andrea Rasmussen on Sept. 10. Rasmussen presented a program: "Herbs, Tonics and Bananas in the Apothecary Shoppes of Olde."

Co-hostesses were Eleanor Durno and Patricia Martin.

In 1987, the society moved to Poupard Elementary School and in 1991, to Ferry.

As part of its long-range plan to establish permanent headquarters, in 1988 the society purchased the historic Provençal-Weir House on Kercheval in Grosse Pointe Farms. The house is being renovated and considered as a possible permanent home for the society's collection.

The society's phone number, 884-7010, has not been changed.

American Business Women's Association plans meeting

The Grosse Pointe chapter of the American Business Women's Association, in conjunction with the Silver Oaks chapter, will celebrate the 1993 national American Business Women's Day on Wednesday, Sept. 22, at Penna's of Sterling, 38400 Van Dyke in Sterling Heights.

The theme for the evening will be "The Many Faces of Women." The guest speakers will be Michigan's business ombudsman Judy Miller, national ABWA president Louise Spicer, and the ABWA district vice president Karen Hall.

The evening will begin with cocktails, networking and craft shopping at 5:30 p.m. Dinner will be served at 7 p.m. The price is $28 a person. For further information and reservations, call Jan Gardner at 228-5981 or Judy Roarty at 777-5070.

Nancy Diehl will address Women's Republican Club

The kick-off program for the Women's Republican Club of Grosse Pointe will feature the assistant prosecuting attorney for Wayne County, Nancy Diehl. Diehl is a Women of Wayne headliner award winner and is known for her accomplishments as director of the child abuse unit of the Wayne County prosecutor's office.

Diehl will speak at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, Sept. 22, at First English Lutheran Church. She will discuss domestic violence. The community is invited to meet the speaker and members of the club. There is no charge; refreshments will be served. First English is located at 800 Vernier in Grosse Pointe Woods.

Diehl was appointed an assistant Wayne County prosecutor in 1981, and since 1986 has headed the child abuse unit. She presently serves on the governor's task force on children's justice. She has lectured extensively in the area of child abuse and family violence to groups of judges, police officers, prosecutors, social workers, health professionals, therapists, victim advocates, teachers and parents. She has co-authored "It Is Good To Tell The Truth," "Kids Go To Court" and "Kids And Secrets," three booklets that assist children who have been abused.

The Women's Republican Club is affiliated with the Women's Republican Clubs of America, and will shortly publish its schedule of programs

Josiah Harmar DAR to meet Sept. 18

The General Josiah Harmar chapter of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution will meet at noon Saturday, Sept. 18, at the home of Sarah Davis of Lakeville. Mildred Skaglin will be the assistant hostess.

The speaker will be Mrs. Florence Davis, chairman of Constitution Week, which is Sept. 17-23. She will discuss the importance of constitutional amendments, particularly the 27th amendment.

Ruth Szabo is chapter regent of the General Josiah Harmar chapter.

Nancy Diehl

for the year. Alice Baetz of Grosse Pointe Farms is president of the organization. Eugenie Durant of Grosse Pointe Park is chairman of the program committee. For information on joining the club, call Marti Miller at 886-3785.

School of Government

The School of Government Inc. will hold the first meeting of its 53rd season Wednesday, Sept. 22, at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

The speaker, Detroit News editorial writer Bill Johnson, will discuss "The Future of the City of Detroit."

School of Government president Ida Mae Massnick of Grosse Pointe Shores will preside at the meeting. Catharine McMullen will be chairman of the day.

The Grosse Pointe Garden Center and the Grosse Pointe War Memorial will sponsor a lecture from 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 22, at the War Memorial. Speakers will be George Vincent and Harold Lee. The topic: "Putting the Garden to Bed for the Winter."

They will discuss composting, mulching and fall garden chores and will answer questions from the audience. The lecture is free to garden center members; $3 for guests.

One-year memberships are $10 and include admission to several garden center events. For reservations or more information, call 881-4594.

FINEST OF KITCHEN COOKWARE

Lifelong partners since kindergarten, Stan & Dave would like a chance to become lifelong partners with you!

Dave Levy and Stan Schwartz, the owners of Classic Window & Siding, have been friends and partners in business ever since they were little kids. Though, as youngsters, back in the days of Kool-Aid stands, they probably never suspected that they would grow up to be the men behind the East area's most respected name in windows and siding. On the other hand, if their Kool-Aid was any indication of what was to come, on a hot summer day, they knew even then what it meant to be in demand.

For years, Classic Window and Siding has been providing Eastside neighborhoods with the best in sales and installation of vinyl windows and siding. They also specialize in hand-crafted, custom-designed bay and bow windows. With each sale they make, they provide the customer with the "complete package." There are never any hidden additional costs on materials and labor which are covered by Classic's famous 30-year guarantee.

But Dave and Stan will tell you "an excellent product alone does not make a great business." What distinguishes Classic Window and Siding from the pack is their unwavering commitment to their customers. Dave, Stan and the staff at Classic make themselves available to their customers on a 24-hour basis to answer any questions or to assist with any service.

Classic's experience in serving homeowners has enabled them to anticipate the concerns of new customers. Often, they can answer questions before they're even asked. For example, to assure their new customers they are getting the finest in windows, siding and service, they maintain a computerized list of all their previous customers to be used as references. Once the work on a house is completed, Dave and Stan inspect it themselves to insure that the job not only meets the customer's expectations, but lives up to Classic Window and Siding's reputation as well.

In the past year alone, Classic has earned the total satisfaction of over 1600 residential customers. In addition to quick, responsible and dependable service, much of their success is due to making their windows and siding affordable to almost every budget. "We believe that the bottom line is providing our customers with exactly what they want, at a price they can comfortably handle," says Dave.

For more information, call them at 776-0060.

Home Tips

Safety first — While attending a class on travel safety, I learned to never, ever put my home address on the outside of my luggage. There are gangs that check luggage tags at airports, then notify their partners that you are out of town so they can rob your house. I usually put a friend or neighbor's address outside, and my current address on the inside.

Karen M., Pocatello, Idaho

Clever bolster — My sleeper sofa is very old. It still looks good, but the foam mattress has become compressed in the center due to years of heavy sitting. I solved the problem by pulling out the bed, laying a sleeping bag, sheets and folded blanket down the center length of the mattress and enclosing them in the bed. It works great. You'd never know the difference.

Carolyn J., Kingston, N.Y.

Flower magic — To extend short stems on flowers, insert the stem (freshly cut at an angle) into a plastic straw. Next, cut the straw to the desired length. Make sure that the stem of the flower is below the water line in the vase.

Robin N., St. Joseph, Mo.

Two for the price of one — (1.) Being an infrequent traveler, I use my suitcases for storage in between trips. They're great for storing curtains, sewing fabric, rolls of shelf-liner paper, etc. However, it's best not to store the suitcases in basements where they might get mildewed.

(2.) If you have dry lips, apply a coat of lip balm under lipstick during the day. It feels great.

Lea K., Lexington, Neb.

Handy container — Take a gallon plastic milk container and cut a four-inch hole on one side. Roll up the plastic grocery bags from the market and put them through the hole. This will store 50 plastic bags. You can keep one in the garage, one in the basement and another under your kitchen sink for easy access.

Eleanor A., Bellwood, Ill.

Brown sugar — Brown sugar would not soften in the microwave or by placing a piece of fruit on top. Keeping it in a heavy, clear plastic container with a tight lid was my solution. The sugar became soft, and I could dip out the amount I needed for my baking.

Jill T., Memphis, Tenn.

A FANTASY COME TRUE

Enjoy the contemporary floor plan; Great room offers a vaulted ceiling, balcony, natural fireplace and full wall window design. Library/Den is a good size and can easily be used as a professional home office. Dining room is formal and features a custom designed carpet. Kitchen is spacious offering a center island, oak hardwood floors, a doorwall to the deck and access to the laundry room and garage through an adjoining hall. The second level also has an exceptional floor plan, featuring a balcony over the great room, four bedrooms and three full bathrooms. Master bedroom features a window seat, a large walk-in closet, full bath with an oversized tub, shower stall and double sink. "Guest" bedroom is private from the other three bedrooms and has its own private full bath and walk-in closet. The very contemporary facade is a typical for Grosse Pointe. The circular front drive, landscaping and raised stone garden accent the home nicely, plus covering most of the rear of the house is a huge multi-level custom deck built to accommodate a hot tub and is excellent for summer entertaining. The floor to ceiling Anderson windows provide for an abundance of natural lighting, as well as energy efficiency. These are just a few of the highlights of this magnificent and very popular style home, for additional amenities call,

Household Help

The last two weeks in August are among the year's most popular vacation times. As millions of families prepare to leave home for a final stretch of leisure before Labor Day, it's important to think about home security. The FBI estimates that 360 burglaries occur per hour in the United States, with even more taking place during the prime travel season. And crime is no longer a concern only of city dwellers; rural and suburban residents need to exercise caution as well.

Fortunately, there are a number of simple things that can bolster the security of your home without turning it into a fortress. Several essential pointers are discussed in the current edition of Buying, Selling, & Owning Your Home:

1. Keep mail and newspapers from accumulating at your door. Have a trusted neighbor or relative pick them up daily. Stop subscriptions if you plan to be away for extended periods. Make arrangements for upkeep of your property, including the lawn. Have a friend park in your driveway every few days.
2. Burglars need darkness and privacy to do their work. Use electric timers to turn lights on and off to make it look as if you are at home.
3. Make entry difficult. Install high quality dead-bolt locks and tamper-proof window locks. Consult a locksmith regarding the best method to secure sliding patio

- doors, which are particularly vulnerable.
4. Be particularly vigilant concerning garage doors and basement windows, which are often less well maintained and secure than the rest of the house.
5. Safeguard your valuables. Jewelry and cash can be kept in your bank's safe deposit box; if that is inconvenient, consider a safe, which will deter most thieves.
6. Install a security system. The prices and options vary greatly, from doorstop buzzers costing $10 to professionally installed systems costing several thousand dollars. Get advice from your local police department or your home owner's insurance agent.

Decorating is easy when you use coordinated fabrics

Are you thinking about refreshing a room setting and giving it up-to-the minute pizzazz? Fortunately, there is design hope. Not only do fabrics add affordable vitality to tired rooms, they also make the place you call home extra special.

Wondering where to begin? First of all, let a favorite fabric be your decorating guide. Use it to set the tone, then build a room's entire color scheme from there — keeping in mind what you want the room to say and the kind of look you want to create. Whatever your particular taste dictates, leaders in the industry like Calico Corners, located at 21431 Mack in St. Clair Shores, suggest a wardrobe approach to decorating, which is versatile, efficient and virtually mistake-proof. Manufacturers now offer fabric collections that let you mix a variety of textures, colors and patterns to adapt to your personal style and living environment.

According to Jan Jessup, vice president of marketing services for Calico Corners, today's fabrics offer consumers an unprecedented variety of realistic designs, harmonious textures and distinct styles.

"When designers create a room setting, they mix patterns and textures in exciting ways that stand the test of time. Jay Yang has applied this important decorating concept to his new Country Manor collection. Best of all," adds Jessup, "these complementary fabrics are available in a rich color spectrum so anyone can mix, match, or layer patterns and textures easily and get professional-looking results."

The new Country Manor collection from designer Jay Yang provides several options to make decorating choices as easy as coordinating the right shirt and tie — running the gamut from formal to informal elegance — dressed up or dressed down.

And because the colors, designs, scales and textures of the Country Manor patterns are compatible, you'll find everything you need in one convenient place — saving you time and helping you get a beautiful designer look without having to run all over town.

In any case, there's a wide range of simple-to-blend design choices that eliminate decorating dilemmas before they begin. While the fabrics

Our Country's Symbol

The bald eagle has been an important symbol of the United States since the First Continental Congress introduced it in 1782. The main symbol used by the colonies was an Indian maiden with a feathered headdress, a tomahawk, a scalping knife and occasionally a rattlesnake. Sometimes she rode on an eagle. By the 1780s the Indian maiden was clothed in Grecian robes and her weapons and headdress were transformed into a spear and plumes or a helmet. She had become Liberty. That symbol evolved from European tradition, and the new country wanted a unique symbol, so the eagle was finally chosen. Earlier suggestions included Pharaoh in a chariot, a soldier in buckskins and Hercules with Virtue and Sloth.

Antiques by Ralph & Terry Kovel

The eagle on the great seal held an olive branch and arrows. Craftsmen soon made other versions of the bald eagle to represent the country, and carved wooden eagles appeared as figureheads for ships, weathervanes or decorative statues. Textiles were printed with the eagle designs, and pottery was decorated with simple sketches of eagles or elaborate three-dimensional models.

Q. I have a small cup decorated with pictures of Uncle Wiggily and Grandpa Goosey Gander. They are near a house labeled "Ovaltine House." Can it be over 50 years old?

A. Uncle Wiggily was a character in a popular children's story. Ovaltine ads collected today usually show Orphan Annie. Uncle Wiggily and friends were part of a promotion in the 1920s. The mug was part of a set — bowl, mug and plate — made by Sebring Pottery Co. of Ohio. It is worth about $50.

The updated paperback edition of "Kovel's Know Your Collectibles." This illustrated guide for beginning collectors interested in 20th-century collectibles includes bibliography and listings of specialized clubs and publications. At your bookstore, or send $15 plus $2 postage to: Know Your Antiques, Box 22900, Beachwood, Ohio 44122.

Fabrics

you choose should clearly originate from your own likes and dislikes, they should also take their cue from the room's overall color theme.

Keeping this in mind, Calico Corners offers these inspiring tips on how to revitalize your room setting with fabric:

- Do Your Homework. Start with the fabric you like, then experiment with ideas you've seen in books, magazines, friends' homes, house tours, or model rooms at home furnishings stores. Find a look that you're most comfortable with given color, design, weight and budgetary restrictions.

- Begin With Basics. Choose a pattern you love and build a whole room around it. For those on a budget, splurge on more luxurious decorative fabrics used in accent pillows, small seating areas, and table rounds. They'll add visual interest to the room setting.

- Play With Textures. Add an exciting new dimension to a room by contrasting a charming floral stripe chintz with a sophisticated plaid moire', or a nubby cotton/linen blend with a delicate floral chintz.

- Sample The Goods. Take a big sample of the fabric home or buy a yard and see how it looks.

For a look at the new Country

Manor collection and an extensive selection of decorative fabrics, affordably priced, visit the Calico Corners store at 21431 Mack Avenue in St. Clair Shores or call 775-0078.
