

South to host night football game Friday

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

A tradition ended a few years ago when lights were installed at Chicago's Wrigley Field.

Another tradition will end Friday at 7 p.m. when Grosse Pointe South plays its first football game under the lights.

"This is going to be a great opportunity for our community to participate as other communities do with Friday night high school football," said Boosters Club member Tom Mertz, who has been involved in the light study for more than a year.

"We're excited," said South athletic director Jo Lake. "It's strictly an experiment. We're going to look at all the data we receive from the game and decide what we'll do in the future. I guess you can call this a feasibility study."

South's Boosters Club is renting six sets of lights from Michigan Caterpillar for the contest against Romeo. Five of the sets will illuminate the field, while the other will be used to light the restroom areas.

The lights will be tested Thursday night.

Friday is traditionally a high school football night with Saturday reserved for college games and Sunday for pro contests.

"When I was in school we always played on Friday night," Lake said. "We're losing people to the colleges on Saturday. We're going to take

Mertz pointed out that it wasn't only the college games that might be a factor in the small crowds on Saturday.

"It's a game day for other sports like cross country, plus our coaches and administrators have to work an extra day when we play on Saturday," he said. "And the competition from the colleges is definitely a factor. Last week's game with

Governor Engler declines invitation from school board

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

Gov. John Engler has refused an invitation to attend a town meeting here to discuss how he plans to replace the $6 billion in school funds lost in the repeal of the property tax for schools in 1994.

Board vice president Carl Anderson announced in August that he had invited Engler to Grosse Pointe. The suggestion was part of a board discussion with superintendent Ed Shine on what the district was going to do following the passage of Senate Bill 1 which eliminated property taxes as a source of revenue to schools.

Anderson placed a phone call to Lansing. Then he and board president Timothy Howlett penned a letter to Engler.

The letter dated Aug. 30 said, in part:

"We would like to offer you the opportunity to present your views on educational reform and school funding at an old-fashioned town meeting on a date convenient for you.

"We can promise you an interested, knowledgeable audience, a staff anxious to make your visit as pleasant as possible, and any help you need or want in terms of media coverage, etc."

The governor's office responded with a letter dated Sept. 15 that said:

"Although Gov. Engler does

Schools anticipate help in stalled teacher talks

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

No new progress has been made between the Grosse Pointe school board and the Grosse Pointe Education Association while both sides await the appointment of a fact finder.

Teachers and librarians in Grosse Pointe schools and libraries have been working without a contract since the three-year agreement expired on Aug. 31. Teachers reported to work on Sept. 8 and classes opened Sept. 9.

The fact finder was requested after a state mediator was unsuccessful in bringing both sides together earlier this month.

State law dictates that a school district can use the fact-finding process following the recommendation of a mediator, said Grosse Pointe school superintendent Ed Shine.

The process begins with a letter sent to the Michigan Employment Relations Commission (MERC), Shine said. Grosse Pointe mailed a letter to MERC two weeks ago and is awaiting a response.

Shine said he was not concerned about the delay as it is all part of the process.

The MERC will send the school district a list of potential fact finders. Bargaining teams for the teachers and the school board will make separate selections from the list and these selections will be sent back to MERC.

MERC will make the final decision as to who the fact finder will be, Shine said. The fact finder will then meet separately with each bargaining team and spend a day meeting together with both sides, where each will be able to present facts to support their positions.

The fact finder then has 30 to 45 days to submit a non-binding recommendation to the school district.

Talks stalled before the opening of the school year over salary and cost containment.

Two Grosse Pointe Park men killed in cycle wreck

Two Grosse Pointe Park men died last week from injuries suffered in a motorcycle crash on Moross in Detroit.

The driver, Michael Aaron Rogers, 22, and his passenger, Michael Dean Chambers Jr., 20, were pronounced dead at St. John Hospital around 3 a.m. on Sept. 17. The pair had been eluding Grosse Pointe Farms police officers who attempted to pull over the driver for a traffic violation.

Grosse Pointe Farms police reports indicate that a patrol officer spotted the two men on a 1992 Suzuki motorcycle around 2:30 a.m. at East Warren and Mack. The Farms officer activated the car's overhead lights and attempted to pull over the driver for exceeding the speed limit and riding a motorcycle without a license plate.

The driver did not stop and the Farms officer pursued him westbound on Moross. Officers estimated the motorcycle driver was exceeding 100 miles per hour and backed off the chase in the area of Moross and Kelly. Officers then noticed sparks on the road ahead and when they arrived at the scene, found the cycle had left the road, hit a tree and both the driver and passenger had been thrown from the moving vehicle.

Farms officers summoned Detroit police and ambulances to the scene. The accident is being investigated by Detroit police.

Grosse Pointe Park police detective Lt. David Hiller said both men were known to the police department due to contact on previous occasions.

visit all of Michigan's 83 counties each and every year, he cannot be all places at once. As a result, he will not be able to schedule another event prior to unveiling his education reform package on Oct. 5."

Although the letter had been mailed to the school administration office late last week, neither Anderson nor Howlett had received a copy by press time.

The governor's press secretary, John Truscott, also was not available at press time.

In the event that Engler could not visit Grosse Pointe to discuss his education reform plans, both board members discussed other options.

"If we find out he cannot attend, we will address the question of whether we will have a town meeting without him," Howlett said. "We have nothing scheduled at this point."

Both board members said a meeting would not be scheduled until the district knew what the alternate source of school funding would be.

"My own thought is until we have some definition of what's going to happen in Lansing, I'm not sure how much we could accomplish at a meeting. Once we have the ground rules laid out, we'll know what to address."

"The issue is what are we going to do now," Shine said. "We've been brainstorming on a way to focus on this issue and involve the community."

The administration has been working for the last year and a half on a downsizing plan, Shine said, that will be shared with the members of the school program advisory committees at a November meeting.

Program advisory committees are made up of teachers, principals and parents at each school and gather each year during the budgeting process. These committees will hear what the administration has been working on, along with the governor's proposal, and then discuss the matters separately.

In December or January, the committees will meet again with the administration and share their feedback.

Warren-Mott went head-to-head with the Michigan-Notre Dame game. I'm sure the crowd suffered from that."

There are no plans for additional Friday night games this season, but the administration and Boosters Club have talked about installing permanent lights if the experiment is successful.

"It's a matter of considerable controversy, but it's totally feasible that we might install permanent lights," Mertz said. "The Boosters Club would love to have a project of that magnitude as a goal."

Many possibilities exist. One is that Grosse Pointe North might share a lighted field with South.

"It's something that's been talked about for 25 years — as long as our school's existed — but we have no immediate plans to play our home games at night," said North athletic director Tom Gauerke. "We'll observe (South's experiment) and go from there."

South's Boosters Club began serious discussions about playing a night game last year, but decided to forego the experiment because of expected opposition from residents on Fisher Road, who had already complained about improvements made to the school's football stadium.

Mike McLeod, who is in his first season as head coach at South said his players were excited about playing at night.

"Now we just have to keep them focused on the game itself," he said. "They're all pumped up over this."

Lead levels in Farms still exceed EPA limits for safe drinking water

By Chip Chapman

Although steps are being made to correct the problem, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has required the city of Grosse Pointe Farms to let residents know that lead levels still exceed allowable levels for lead in drinking water.

"Water that comes from the city does not contain lead," said

Watch your wheels in City

Bicycle owners who treasure their wheels had better lock 'em up at all times, cautioned Grosse Pointe City public safety detective Dennis Van Dale.

Bicycle thefts in the City — and around the Pointes — have increased this year, Van Dale said, and the best defense is to lock a bicycle when it is left unattended and to keep it in a locked garage when at home.

"We lost three bikes in a half hour in the Village last week," Van Dale said, noting that none of the bicycles had been secured with a lock.

Mountain bikes are the biggest targets right now, Van Dale said, citing a recent case in the City where a bicycle thief who had just stolen a 10-speed dumped it for a mountain bike. The city plans to install warning signs of the danger of theft near all bicycle racks in the city.

Farms water superintendent Darrel Schuurman. "Lead begins in the service line into homes that have lead water services or copper services with lead soldering."

Still the Farms is seeking ways to treat the water from the plant so that lead will not leach into the water supply from home water services.

Schuurman said the Farms is following the testing that the city of Detroit is presently conducting. This testing should be completed sometime next month and the Farms will pick out the best treatment and implement it in the spring, Schuurman said.

Last March, the Farms exceeded allowable EPA levels with a lead level of 26 parts per billion. The EPA had lowered the allowable level from 50 to 15 parts per billion. The EPA requires cities with excessive lead levels to notify the public every six months.

No samples were taken this time, but earlier in the year samples were taken from the kitchens and bathrooms of 60 residences. Half of the homes had lead water services and the other half had copper services with lead soldering. Lead and lead soldering was banned after 1988.

"The easiest way to rid themselves of this situation is to let the water run for 30 seconds to a minute before using it for drinking," Schuurman said.

Sparky Herbert's owner to begin expansion project in the Park

The renovation of Sparky Herbert's catering building began Wednesday afternoon. The model represents what the building will look like when construction is completed next spring.

By Jim Slickford
Staff Writer

Darrell Finken, owner of Sparky Herbert's, a Grosse Pointe Park institution for the past 14 years, broke ground Wednesday on an expansion project that will increase the size of his catering business by 2,800 square feet.

The building, located on 15112 Kercheval across the street from Sparky Herbert's Restaurant, will house Franken's catering business in the lower level after expansion.

A new laundry facility will be built. In addition, secure parking will be added and the building will be made handicap accessible.

The building's second level living quarters will be expanded. Finken will make his home there. Expansion is expected to be completed by spring of next year.

"I'm committed to enhancing Grosse Pointe and our neighboring community, Detroit," said Finken. "The building is a symbolic force in linking the two cities together."

The project has been named "Above the Treecops" in honor of his late wife Liz's favorite song. The design is meant to evoke Detroit's industrial heritage, with its use of industrial style chimneys and flues, as well as steel frame and concrete block construction techniques.

The building's renovations were designed by the Birmingham firm of Swanson/Swanson. Brown-Schroeder of Richmond will do the construction work.

ISO 9000 standards to be discussed

The Grosse Pointe War Memorial and the Business Management Institute of Marygrove College have teamed up to present "How to Qualify for ISO 9000" in cooperation with the American Management Association Extension Institute. This course is offered on Mondays, Sept. 27 through Oct. 25 from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. and is part of the War Memorial's Certificate in Management program.

Manufacturing suppliers, service industries and exporters are required to utilize the ISO 9000 international standards for quality assurance. The class will cover how to structure your own ISO 9000 quality system, handle the documentation, on-site audit requirements and train your staff in the ISO 9000 process. You will learn how to equip your company for full ISO 9000 certification.

The cost is $150 and includes the textbook. For more information, call the War Memorial at 881-7511, Monday through Saturday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Visa and Mastercard accepted.

ker, suggested he go to London to work for Lloyd's so he could be the prestigious firm's North American representative in the Great Lakes. He jumped at the opportunity.

"The three years I spent there were the best spent ever," he said, "better than going for an MBA. You can't do business with Lloyd's unless they know you."

And know them, he does. He is godfather to a child of Lloyd's CEO.

"I loved every minute I was there," Dupuis said about his London experience. "Yes, we speak the same language, but we can't understand each other."

"The history is incredible. That's what struck me the most."

"I came back with a profession and lifelong friends."

One of Dupuis' companies, Variable Markets Inc., is a reinsurance broker, meaning he sells insurance packages for other agents and companies to sell to individuals. He's sort of like a wholesale insurance broker.

"I put programs together for other people to sell," he explained.

His specialty insurance packages include health insurance for the dependents of Filipino professionals working in the United States while their families remain in the Philippines; HIV insurance for at-risk professionals, such as those in the medical and emergency medical fields; and, of course, coverage of yachts and marinas. He is the biggest provider of marine insurance in the Great Lakes, Dupuis said.

"Everyday is something new," he said of his business.

But Dupuis' interests are not limited to his work.

A lifelong Pointer, Dupuis said he's literally lived in Lake St. Clair — boating, swimming and diving at every opportunity — and he still spends many hours on the lake.

A certified diver, he is a member of the Grosse Pointe Farms Marine Rescue Unit. Dupuis has been pulling bodies out of the lake since he was 15, when a Pointe woman fell off a boat at the yacht club. Though just a teenager, he jumped in to try to find the woman, a grisly task.

He admits he had no business doing it at the time due to the extreme risk to his own life. He's been on many rescue dives since, but there is one big difference today: He and the other rescue divers are all certified and are organized into a professional unit with a master dive instructor.

Most of his diving is for recreation. Because of the zebra mussel, Lake St. Clair is clearer than it's ever been. Dupuis remembers the lake being like chocolate milk, making visibility impossible. Today, the clear water, where the bottom can be seen at 15 feet, makes diving in Lake St. Clair fantastic.

"The water's so clean now we've got the best dive spot in the state," Dupuis said.

The zebra mussels, however, are a bittersweet phenomenon. While they make the lake clearer, they're gobbling all the minute foodstuffs required by small fish and fry, threatening the foodchain from the bottom up. Lake St. Clair is nearly totally encrusted by the barnacle-like mussels.

There's also a lot of history on the lake bottom, such as bottles and other century-old artifacts and shipwrecks, including a sunken barge off Grosse Pointe. But Dupuis is alarmed at how thick the zebra mussels are and how they are encrusting everything on the bottom, including the historic debris. "No matter what's out there, it'll be gone, covered with zebra mussels," he predicted. "Pretty soon, we're not going to find anything."

On a recent dive, Dupuis examined the Grosse Pointe Farms water intake off Pier Park. It was totally encrusted with the mussels.

"Everyone of those buggers was wide open," he recalled, "sucking in the water with their mouths open."

As the zebra mussels multiply, they continually build on the shells of dead predecessors. Dupuis wonders if the "funny taste" of the water in the Farms could be attributed to decaying zebra mussels around the intake.

The mussel infestation is something that has to be dealt with, Dupuis believes, but in the meantime, "We're having a great time diving out there."

Recently, he dived on an 1860s steamship wreck off Tawas in Saginaw Bay. He thinks he may have been the first to dive on the wreck because it "hadn't been picked clean like a Thanksgiving turkey."

When not working, diving or being a dad and husband — he married his wife, Molly, nine years ago — Dupuis restores classic cars as a way of relaxing from his mental job.

"It's not rare that I'll be there at 2 or 3 a.m. in the morning. It's my physical release," he said.

He has a shop on the east side where he stores the cars and works on them. His collection includes a '66 Corvette, '70 GTO convertible and a '69 Firebird, the first one made with a VIN of 1.

He collects only the cars that he grew up dreaming of in the late '60s and early '70s, the cars he knows the most about.

"All the cars I have were from my era," he said. "I take the cars completely apart, right to the frame. I'm always looking for cars, buying and selling them."

Dupuis missed the draft (barely) during the waning of the Vietnam War, but for a while he felt he was in military school.

A 1972 Grosse Pointe North grad and All-American high school swimmer, Dupuis won a scholarship to Texas A&M. When he got there, he quickly learned that the well-known school was not for him.

Of the 17,500 students at Texas A&M, 16,000 were ROTC cadets who "wore uniforms all the time," Dupuis recalled, "and there were only 400 women."

He quickly phoned home to tell his parents the school wasn't for him.

"This was a full-blown military school," he said. "I bolted. I was there for two years and I left."

He completed his education at Eastern and joined his father's insurance business and went to England to launch a career.

Having lived in Grosse Pointe all his life, Dupuis has no desire to move.

"I live in Grosse Pointe because of the lake," he said. "I love the area. It's like 'Cheers' where everybody knows your name. There's a certain comfort in that. Grosse Pointe is a nice community."

Sears closes

G.P. store

By Chip Chapman
Staff Writer

Although it was scheduled to stay open until the end of the month, the Sears, Roebuck & Co. at the corner of Mack and Gross officially closed on Sept. 20.

The store had been targeted to close on Sept. 30, and had the authority to stay open longer to move all remaining merchandise.

"It's kind of a sad day," said unit manager Erle Etzel. "That's the way big businesses are going these days. We want to thank all of the people of Grosse Pointe for their support over the years."

Sears had been at the location since 1952 and had been an outlet store for the past 10 years. As part of a downsizing effort, Sears decided to drop its catalog and close its outlet stores.

Farms couple turn hobby into business, open art gallery in Woods

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

When Farms couple Robert and Jo Ann Barto retired five years ago, they never dreamed that retirement would lead to another business.

The Bartos have opened up the Grosse Pointe Gallery, located at 19869 Mack in the Woods.

"We used to own and operate the Baskin-Robins in the Woods," said Barto. "We retired about five years ago. We have a home in the Farms by the lake. Since retiring, we did a lot of traveling and visited a lot of galleries.

"People would comment on the art we brought back from our travels, and ask us where we got it. After hearing that a lot, we decided we should open our own gallery."

Barto said he considered opening the gallery last year, when the space became available. He and his wife own the building. But Tower Financial Services wanted to move in right away and were willing to sign a three-year lease.

But six months later, they asked to be let out of the lease, so Barto and his wife decided to take the plunge.

"We visited a lot of galleries on the west side," Barto said. "While there, we learned that there are a lot of Grosse Pointers who buy there because there aren't a lot of galleries on this side of town. We will be a part of 'gallery crawl,' along with Grosse Pointe's other galleries in September. We want people to know that there are places in Grosse Pointe as well."

The Grosse Pointe Gallery will specialize in art that is unique and can't be found in other galleries, Barto said. To that end, he and his wife have spent a lot of time looking for new artists.

A mix of different styles of art and different kinds of art will be displayed. Barto has been taking sculpture classes for the past two years, and intends to display some of the work of his teachers.

The gallery will also display lithographs and serigraph art. Serigraph art is a kind of silk-screen art that is produced in limited numbers. The artists he deals with produce their work in Paris and London.

The gallery will also display original oil paintings and watercolors. The idea, said Barto, is to be able to offer a variety of different kinds of art. Grosse Pointers have different kinds of homes and different kinds of lifestyles. Having a variety of different style art will allow the gallery to better meet those needs.

To help run the gallery and offer expert advice, the Bartos hired Peter Cooper as manager. Cooper worked for the Park West gallery in Southfield for the past eight years. Before that, he worked for a gallery in Chicago.

"I've been involved in art for all of my life," Cooper said. "My father painted three official portraits of Winston Churchill. One of them hangs in the headquarters of the Conservative Party."

The gallery, which opened its doors on Sept. 13, has created quite a stir, Barto said. A lot of people have stopped by and offered their encouragement, saying Grosse Pointe could use a gallery like his.

"The art business is sure different from the ice cream business," said Barto. "When someone comes in and looks around here, they don't immediately buy anything. They come in again, and again before making a purchase. I expect Saturday, we will see a lot of husbands here. That's when the purchases will be made."

The cost of art on sale ranges from $350 for an original oil copy of an old masterpiece to $5,000 for an oil original, Barto said.

Sign of the times: Punch & Judy Toyland closes

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

Generations of Grosse Pointers lost a little piece of their past Sept. 18, when the Punch & Judy Toyland closed its doors for the last time.

Store owner Kathleen Burke Harness had been trying to sell the business with the building located at 97 Kercheval on the Hill the past year. When she could not, she sold the building and operated the business on a month-to-month lease.

"I was prepared to operate the business indefinitely," said Harness. "But a leaser was found who would sign a long-term lease. I found out on Sept. 11, and sent out a letter announcing the closing to my preferred customers that very same day."

Harness, who is expecting her second child, decided it was time to sell the business. She was owner and operator of the Punch & Judy Toyland for the past eight years. She said she knows the store has been open for over 40 years, but does not know its exact year of origin.

"I really did want to sell the building and the business together," said Harness. "But that wasn't happening. And that is too bad because it's always been a profitable business. I still retain the name, and who knows, maybe in five years, when my children are older, I'll re-open the Punch & Judy Toyland."

Ironically business was very brisk during the store's last week. Longtime customers visited to take advantage of the special prices of between 30 and 50 percent off all items.

"I've been coming here since I was a child," said Farms resident and mother of two Ann Wilkins. "My grandmother used to bring me here. I was very disappointed when I heard that the store was closing. But I guessed something was happening when I saw the fall sale prices. My mother and I are doing our Christmas shopping early this year. It's a shame because they have toys you can't find elsewhere."

Park resident Jackie Szymanski visited the store during its last week with her 11-month-old daughter. While she didn't grow up in the Pointes, her husband David did.

"We'll miss the store," said

Szymanski. "It was nice to have a toy store like this in town. I must say that I've noticed that a lot of retail stores on the Hill have been closing. That's too bad. I hope they find a new business quickly to take the Punch's place."

Sandy Gillespie, owner of Something Special, will be moving part of her business into the Punch & Judy. The store, which will be called Something Special Too, will feature rubber stamps and her personalization business.

"We will be personalizing shirts and linens with monograms," said Gillespie. "We will also be selling balloons that can be personalized, as well. Our rubber stamp department, which is currently in the upstairs of my original store, will be moved to the old Punch & Judy, as well. We will expand that department."

Gillespie said that she had been considering expanding her business for some time, but decided to take the plunge after attending a rubber stamp convention in Cincinnati in August.

"I saw the possibilities, and decided that now is the time to expand," said Gillespie. "We will be open in time for the Hill Harvest on the weekend of Oct. 16-17. I'm sorry that the Punch & Judy is closing its doors, but I do think that it is good that another retail business is opening in its place. The Hill needs more retail businesses."

Gillespie will use the back of the Punch & Judy store as a delivery area, something she has needed for some time.

Grosse Pointe Cable outlines plans to compete against competition

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

Plans to keep Grosse Pointe Cable competitive in the face of emerging technology and services was unveiled Sept. 14.

John Nicholson, the company's president, told council members from the subscriber cities, that to meet competition from phone companies and satellite services, Grosse Pointe Cable will have to completely revamp its system.

That means spending between $5 million and $6 million installing new fiber optic wires to carry cable signals. Nicholson said he expects that once the project is approved it will take about two years to get updated service to every customer.

The new system would have an 80-channel capacity, up from the current 35 channels. In addition to the 80 channels, the system would have the capacity to expand by either adding more channels or carrying other kinds of electronic signals, like computer information.

"I expect that in the next few years, phone companies will be getting into the television business," Nicholson said. "Last year Michigan Bell laid $90 million worth of fiber optic cable. The cable can carry more than voice signals. It can be used to send television signals as well.

"In the next year or two, Hughes Industries will be launching a satellite that can directly beam 150 different television channels to people's homes. The satellite dishes that will receive the signals will be able to be fitted into people's homes. They won't be those big ones that are for sale now."

In the face of this competition, Nicholson told the council members, that Grosse Pointe Cable must be able to compete. It must be able to offer more stations, and the system must be adaptable to changes in technology. Right now, video and computer technology is growing at a tremendous rate. Nicholson said no one knows where it will lead, but unless Grosse Pointe Cable is ready to react, it will cease to exist.

"It would not surprise me to see in the next five years that Grosse Pointe Cable was either squeezed out of the market or bought out by a larger company," said Nicholson. "The future is not good for small cable companies like ours. This is big business and it will get bigger."

To rebuild the system, Nicholson said, Grosse Pointe Cable's franchise will have to be renewed. That means all five cities — Grosse Pointe City, Park, Farms and Woods and Harper Woods — will have to pass ordinances agreeing to a new contract worked out between Grosse Pointe Cable and the advisory board.

The advisory board consists of a representative from each city and one from the War Memorial. The board has been meeting over the past several months working on the new franchise agreement with Comcast Cable.

The agreement would be essentially the same. Grosse Pointe Cable would have a 15-year pact to provide cable services in the five cities. It would expand its channel capacity to 80 channels. Local access would continue to be run by the War Memorial.

Nicholson said that once the cities approved the agreement, Grosse Pointe Cable could begin the process of installing the new cables. Within 10 to 11 months, the first customers would get the 80 channel service.

Nicholson said Comcast experts expect full customer service to take about two years. He could not say what areas would receive the new service first.

Nicholson told Clark that in order to get the money needed for the rebuilding, the company needs the franchise agreement. No one will lend a company money without an agreement.

The question of whether Grosse Pointe Cable would be carrying channels 2, 4, 7 and 50 were brought up.

"Under the new federal regulations, those stations can ask for payment if we carry their channels," said Nicholson. "Right now we are in negotiations on what we will pay. I don't expect that come October we won't carry those stations. But right now I can't say what we will be paying. Those stations don't want to lose the Grosse Pointe market because of ad revenue. We don't want to lose their channels because of their popularity."

Nicholson went on to say that in the end it is the consumer who usually pays in situations like this. FCC rules, however, prevent the costs from being passed on for a year.

Mark Webber of the War Memorial said the company hopes to have all the cities agreeing to the franchise agreement by Thanksgiving. Details on who will sit on the board of directors have not been worked out yet.

Woods settles lawsuit with Children's Home

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

Grosse Pointe Woods city attorney George Catlin informed the Woods City Council Monday night that an agreement was reached between the Children's Home of Detroit and the city concerning the home's expansion proposal.

Earlier this year the home asked the city planning commission for permission to add on to the Cook Road campus' main building.

Neighborhood residents voiced strong opposition to the proposed expansion at planning commission meetings, and the request was turned down.

The Children's Home then asked the Woods City Council to approve the expansion plan, citing the fact that the proposed construction was in accordance with all city ordinances. On July 12, the council unanimously voted to deny permission for the expansion.

"In my mind, the Children's Home has totally changed focus," said Rice at the time of the vote. "They have gone from just caring for children to a drug treatment place and a parenting academy. To me that is putting something different in a residential neighborhood."

The home's executive director, Michael Horwitz, said at the time that the expansion of the home's facility on Cook Road is meant for current programs so that families could meet with their children during visiting hours, and so that the office space shortage could be alleviated.

The home began a lawsuit with the city as a result of the council's vote. Catlin told the council Monday that he reached an agreement with the home that should satisfy all sides.

Both sides agreed to pay for their own legal expenses, Catlin said. In return, the Woods agreed to permit the home's expansion. The home, in turn promised not to conduct any on-site formal drug counseling treatment and assessment programs.

Catlin explained in a memo to the council that the home could, however, conduct seminars or workshops "with a content that may include information on substance abuse, and they may provide information and advice to children residing on-site or to their parents ... in a manner similar to such programs historically and currently being provided by the Children's Home of Detroit."

Catlin's memo went on to explain that he recommended the settling of the suit "since the anticipated outcome might well be adverse to the city."

Catlin went on to say that in his opinion the agreement reached with the home addressed the concerns of area residents, and avoided "costly and possible unsuccessful litigation ... without further expense to the city of Grosse Pointe Woods."

Catlin's actions did not require any action from the council, but mayor Robert Novitke thanked Catlin for his work, and expressed his pleasure that the matter had been settled to everyone's satisfaction.

Woods' costs continue to mount on Milk River clean-up expenses

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

Costs continue to flow in the Milk River clean-up for Grosse Pointe Woods. Grosse Pointe Woods and Harper Woods residents could be on the hook for an additional $3 million in expenses if a proposal requiring erosion controls to be placed along the river's shores is approved.

The Milk River Inter-County Drain Board will discuss whether or not to build erosion controls along Milk River's banks on Monday, Sept. 27. The meeting will be held at Grosse Pointe Wood's Community Center at 10 a.m. The public is invited.

If the board decides to build, the taxpayers of Grosse Pointe Woods and Harper Woods would be liable for virtually all expenses. The board has three members, James Murray of the Wayne County drain board, Michael Gregg of the Michigan Department of Agriculture and Anthony Marrocco of the Macomb Public Works Commission.

According to Grosse Pointe's representative to the Wayne County Commission, Andrew Richner, St. Clair Shores residents have asked the Milk River Drain Board to approve erosion controls along the river's banks. These controls, depending on which method is chosen, could cost as much as $3 million.

Building a new water-retention basin and upgrading the pumping station have already cost the two cities more than 30 million, said Richner. The cities had no say in the matter, and he would like to see the cities spared further expense if possible.

"The state and the federal government mandated the Milk River clean-up," Richner said. "In order to reduce the discharge of untreated storm overflow into the lake, a new overflow retention basin had to be built, and the pump station had to be upgraded. The cities had no choice in spending $30 million."

"Now St. Clair Shores is asking that the cities spend more money, but there are no state or federal regulations that say they have to. The board can decide, and I want the people to know about this meeting, so they can attend and let their opinions be heard."

Richard Sabaugh, deputy public works commissioner for Macomb County, said that St. Clair Shores residents don't use Milk River, only Grosse Pointe Woods and Harper Woods residents do.

"Right now, there are about 40 discharges a year from the two cities' sewage system," said Sabaugh. "A lot of sediment settles to the bottom of the river after a discharge. To reduce the sediment, a pump is being installed that will pump lake water into a recirculation pipe. Water would exit this pipe by the discharge point."

"This water would increase the river's current, which isn't that great. This additional current would prevent the build-up of sediment at the river's bottom. The problem is that additional current speeds up erosion along the river bank."

According to Sabaugh, land has been eroding at the rate of about one foot every five years. Because Grosse Pointers and Harper Woods residents are the ones who use the river, St. Clair Shores has requested that they pay for any erosion controls.

There are three types of erosion control, said Sabaugh. The first kind is riprap, or concrete blocks placed on the river's bank. That would cost about $900,000. The second, Sabaugh described as gabion baskets, a kind of interlocking net or basket system that would cost about $1 million.

The third alternative, the most effective erosion control and the most expensive, is steel sheet piling. Basically it is a steel wall along the river bank that would completely end erosion. It would cost between $1.5 million and $3 million. St. Clair Shores has asked that this method be one the the board approves.

"The city is opposed to this," said Woods mayor Robert Novitke. "It wasn't contemplated at the beginning of the project, and Woods officials will meet with Jim Murray to see what can be done about this."

Pointer paints the town

Four Southwest Detroit homes have a bright, clean look after 165 Detroit Edison employees and their families volunteered to "Paint the Town" last month.

Grosse Pointe resident Robert J. Buckler, left, senior vice president for energy marketing and distribution at Detroit Edison, cuts lumber for a new porch with help from Roy Purifoy of Detroit, coordinator of the Detroit Edison volunteers.

More than 240 homes were selected for the sixth annual community effort Aug. 21 to paint and repair homes occupied by low-income or disabled people and senior citizens in Detroit, Inkster and Ecorse.

Woods approves plan to float new bonds to reduce bond debt

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

A plan to refinance water and sewer debt with lower interest bonds, saving the city $200,000, was approved Monday night by the Grosse Pointe Woods City Council.

"The city has two outstanding bonds," said city comptroller Clifford Maison. "In 1974, the city floated a general revenue bond, and in 1987, the city floated a water and sewer bond. The interest rates we are paying on these bonds are between 5.5 percent and 7 percent. By floating a new bond at interest rates of between 2.5 percent and 4 percent, we can save a lot of money."

Bond interest rates are much lower now than in the past, Maison explained. His department, along with First of Michigan, have been looking at the bond market for a while. Maison advised the city council Monday that now seemed like the best time to float the new bonds.

"Every day, rates change," Maison said. "We've been waiting for the best rates, and we feel now is that time. The city has a double A rating, so I don't anticipate any problem selling the bonds."

The new bonds are set to expire at the same time as the ones they are replacing, said Maison. The 1974 bonds expire in October of 1997. About $650,000 is owed on them, down from $1.98 million.

The 1987 bonds are set to expire in November of 2006. About $2.08 million is owed on those, down from $2.5 million. Combined savings, after expenses, on both bonds is about $200,000, Maison said.

The plan received strong support from the council, and was approved without objection. Maison said he expected all bonds to be sold on the first day they were offered.

Fellowship group brings older blind people together

Eyes have been referred to as the "windows of the soul," which is probably why when we meet new people we unconsciously make eye contact, looking to find some small clue to the inner person and their feelings.

Characters in novels are described as having laughing, sad, evil or eyes full of hate.

It is with our own eyes that we make contact with others and our surroundings. The faces of dear ones are forever etched in our memory through our eyes, the colors of the changing season, the thrill of seeing a magnificent piece of art.

Our eyes are the tools we use to perform tasks at home and play. They are precious possessions that we take for granted — until we lose them. It is next to impossible for a sighted person to realize the traumatic shock of the loss of sight.

What a loss it is never again to see the faces of loved ones, to have to relearn where things

AARP to host MichCon rep.

Grosse Pointe AARP Chapter 2151 will meet at the Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, 16 Lakeshore, Grosse Pointe, on Monday, Sept. 27, at 1 p.m.

Ron McGarvey, manager of energy conservation for Michigan Consolidated Gas Co., will speak on "energy conservation." He is a member of the Association of Energy Engineers and the American Society of Heating, Refrigeration and Air Conditioning Engineers. He began work at MichCon in 1977, after serving as a chemical engineer for Applied Technology Corp. in Pittsburgh. He earned his BS degree from Carnegie-Mellon University and his master's degree from the University of Michigan.

We must all practice conservation. His presentation should inspire us even more.

that once were casually reached for are, to be afraid to go out on the street alone.

Now blind, but still the same person, they have lost their sight but they have not been rendered helpless. Most want to stay in their own homes. They can if they are willing to learn the skills that will enable them to go on with life as it was before blindness struck.

Anxious to help, Kay Gee, who is blind herself, started a group that calls itself the Bartimaeus Fellowship. Bartimaeus is a biblical character whose sight was restored by Christ.

Gee explains that the fellowship has a unique focus. It is reaching out to blind seniors for two reasons. She knows there are organizations that do great things for the blind but are staffed by volunteers, none of whom are blind.

She believes that it is one

Makeovers for senior citizens

Seniors, pamper yourselves!

Calvary Center will host a cosmetics makeover and skin facial demonstration on Wednesday, Sept. 29, at 10 a.m. The demonstration will be conducted by two qualified skin care analysts from Clarins of Paris.

thing to tell the blind what they need — it is another to let the blind decide for themselves what they need and try to provide it for them. Also, she knows that seniors have needs not common to all blind people. Some of the more elderly are frail, have health problems or are just afraid to go out unassisted.

Many who would like to attend the fellowship meetings held on the second and fourth Monday of the month from 10 a.m. to noon in Miller Hall, Christ Church on Jefferson have no way to come and go.

Gee, a former school social worker, has been blind since 1981. She wanted to continue working but at that time there was nowhere to go for help. She felt helpless and alone. Not one to give up, she joined "Friends of Vision," an organization of volunteers who work with the blind. But she felt that more could be done for older blind people.

Sponsored by Christ Church, she initiated the Bartimaeus Chapter of the Fellowship. There are seven chapters in Michigan. The purpose was and is to bring blind older people together in a group to share experiences, to help each other, and to discuss what they most need to make their life happier.

Obviously, transportation is high on the list. Kay tells of making 50 calls to enlist a volunteer before reaching one who agreed to drive a woman to a meeting.

Another time, Services for Older Citizens helped her out when an 85-year-old woman, who was not only blind, but infirm, and needed to go to Ford Hospital for a treatment.

There are other services that older blind people need, such as someone to read their mail, pay their bills or just get them out of the house for a while.

Many of them have no one to do these things for them. Neighbors have moved away. Most of those who have moved in with their families feel like a burden because both husband and wife work. Friends have passed on and relatives live too far away to help. Volunteers are desperately needed to help those who are trying so hard to help themselves and stay in their own home.

Gee knows that there are many who would help and she is trying to get the word out. She has seen instances in grocery stores where the manager assigns a bag boy to go around with a blind customer and help her shop and times when customers are shopping they will stop and help a blind person find an item.

Gee has just returned from a meeting in Midland of representatives of the other fellowship groups where she gave a presentation.

She traveled by bus and would like to share her experience with other blind older people because many of them are afraid to travel.

When the bus arrived in Midland, the driver couldn't find the hotel where the meeting was being held. She kept driving before realizing they were out of Midland. She couldn't go back but she stopped the bus at a small shop and telephoned the police to ask them to come and take Gee back to Midland. She saw that she was comfortably situated before leaving her. Her kindness and concern were so appreciated and served as an example that travel, no matter what happens, need not be frightening.

Gee would like to point out also that air travel can be facilitated also if the passenger calls ahead and tells them he or she is blind, someone will be waiting to take the luggage and a cart will take the traveler to the gate where he or she will be seated before other passengers are boarded.

Gee would like to see each member empowered as a leader to help themselves and others, and live up to their motto "Vision Impaired Citizens in Ongoing Networking." Kay Gee may be reached at 822-2859.

Suburbs, too, win in Detroit primary vote

With the nomination of the two candidates generally accepted as the best of the 23 in the field, the people of Detroit last week gave a powerful boost to change in their city and better relations with their suburbs.

Whether Dennis Archer, the front-runner, or Sharon McPhail, a division chief in the Wayne County prosecutor's office, wins in November, Detroit will get an administration pledged to improve protection of the security, jobs and health of Detroit's people and revive the vitality of its business community.

In addition, both nominees have expressed support for policies to improve city-suburban relations, pledges which are welcomed by many Grosse Pointers.

In response to a Detroit Free Press questionnaire, Archer said what he liked about the suburbs were "strong advocates of Detroit, like former Oakland County Executive Dan Murphy."

During the campaign, he said that if elected, he will speak in the suburbs frequently and invite suburban officials into Detroit to see what's positive about Detroit. While campaigning, he held fundraisers in the Pointes and other suburban communities.

Replying to the same questionnaire, McPhail said "suburban officials must get involved," and "speak out for the need to get along with Detroit." She added that "the entire region is dragged down by the fact that Detroit and the suburbs can't seem to get along."

To help improve that relationship, she said she would, if elected, initiate such programs as a sister-school project in which city and suburban institutions would be matched to work on projects. Such views contrast sharply with those often expressed by Mayor Coleman Young, now retiring after 20 years in office.

While he also sought support from the suburbs, as both Archer and McPhail did in the primary campaign, he often returned to his own constituency to warn against attempts by suburbs to "steal the city's cultural jewels."

Yet the suburbs were only interested in assuring the future of the Detroit Institute of Arts and other cultural institutions and offered to help support them under a regional plan.

In fact, a regional entertainment tax proposal to support the city's cultural institutions has been backed by both nominees, as well as by many suburbanites.

Of course, Detroit's interests and those of the Pointes will continue to diverge on such matters as further expansion of the Detroit City Airport.

Despite suburban opposition, some Detroit officials still hope to lengthen its runways and obtain another commercial passenger line to replace Southwest Airlines which ended its service on Sept. 15. Archer and McPhail have expressed limited support for expansion.

Both nominees have opposed off-reservation casino gambling in Greektown, a view which many Pointers support, but under the recently signed state compact with the Indian tribes, it still could become a reality.

However, the required approval from the Legislature and the U.S. Commerce Department might become more difficult to achieve with a strong foe in the Detroit mayor's office.

Most Pointers, we believe, would be open to any new and legitimate opportunities for cooperation with Detroit that the next mayor might propose.

Grosse Pointers have many personal and commercial interests in Detroit that would benefit from its renaissance as a business, professional and industrial center under a new administration.

Many Pointers pay Detroit city income taxes as well as property and other taxes in the city. And most Pointers also take advantage of Detroit's many entertainment and cultural advantages as well as its shopping centers.

Most of us who live in the Pointes, in other words, have good reason to hope for and support the renaissance that could come about under a new city administration. And most of us welcome the nomination of the two excellent candidates for the mayor's job.

Engler misses an opportunity

The Grosse Pointe News is disappointed that Gov. John Engler has turned down the school board's request that he take part in a town meeting here to discuss education reform and financing.

However, we thank the governor and his communications director, Rusty Hills, for their cordial response to a Grosse Pointe News editorial urging Engler to accept the invitation so that he could not only present his views but also hear those of the Grosse Pointe community.

We are also grateful for the additional hints the governor offered about the contents of the education reform package he expects to unveil Oct. 5.

We should add that this newspaper and most Grosse Pointers no doubt could agree with the governor's broad aim: "reform that takes what is essentially a 19th century system, boldly restructures it, and prepares our children for the world of the 21st century."

However, what is controversial is the method of translating such aims into realities that will satisfy taxpayers, parents and school people — and still provide the education our children require.

Unfortunately, what Hills identifies as "recommendations" in his letter tend to be little more than the listing of problems which will have to be met before Jan. 1 if appropriate funding is to be available in September 1994.

For example, Engler's comment to us about needing "more options" does not make clear whether he is still asking only for interdistrict as well as greater intradistrict choice.

Does he now support broadening the choice from intradistrict and interdistrict shifts to include private and parochial schools, too, as his backers on The Detroit News editorial page recommend?

The governor does not say, but the question is pertinent and may even become a major issue for those who believe, as we do, that diversion of public tax funds for such a purpose would destroy public education as we know it.

It is always a pleasure for a newspaper to get a response to an editorial comment, even though in this case the governor disappointed us and many Pointers by declining to accept the invitation to a local public meeting which we had urged him to attend.

Yet in this case we hope the limited exchange of views will help inform the public even though we think the governor missed an opportunity not only to express his views but to hear from some Pointers as well.

Governor unable to attend town meeting

To the Editor:

Recently, the Grosse Pointe News ran an editorial encouraging the governor to participate in a Grosse Pointe town meeting to share his thoughts on education reform.

Although Gov. Engler does visit all of Michigan's 83 counties each and every year, he cannot be all places at once (though the opportunity to talk with the governor at his weekly "Open Door" meetings is always available). As a result, he will not be able to schedule another event prior to unveiling his education reform package on Oct. 5.

But the governor does want to take you up on the generous offer to share his thoughts on how best to proceed in the debate on improving education for Michigan's children.

To begin with, the governor wants to achieve five goals:

1. Improve Education — our children must come first. This first point should drive all debate and discussion. We must first focus on what is good for our kids, not "the system."
2. Implement a fair, rational system of school finance. It is time to abandon a 19th century system of finance based on property taxes, and reduce the huge discrepancies of the past.
3. Cut taxes. I want to deliver a net tax cut to the hard-working people of this state and their families.

4. Define just what state government's role in education is.

5. Streamline the relation between state and local government.

In addition to those broad principles, there are several specific recommendations which the governor supports in any comprehensive education reform plan:

More letters on page 8A

1. First, our timetable: We must have a plan pass through both houses of the Legislature before Dec. 31.

2. Parents and students will have more options: Free up our parents to make one of the most important decisions they will ever make for their children — where the best school for them is.

3. I want to see more charter schools — like the Wayne State University middle school that Detroiters were hungering for (over 5,000 applications for 330 openings). The young man who made over a hundred applicants to enter the lottery should have more options.

4. Report card: The administration's building-by-building report card will empower parents with the information they need to make an informed choice for their kids. It will be unveiled this fall, so the state will have a mechanism in place to help parents.

5. Foundation grant is being seriously considered, to overcome decades of the growing disparity between rich and poor districts. "Dollars follow the scholars."

6. Accountability: We must make sure Michigan children are learning the skills needed to work and compete with children all over the world. Consistent with opening up options, the state should insist on results and accountability.

7. Cost containment: I do not think school finance has to be so expensive, especially if non-instructional costs like custodial service, food service, transportation, and health care can be competitively bid out. Government is obligated to provide taxpayers with the best quality service at a competitive price. It is time to rein in runaway costs.

8. The question of local control: We are investigating various options that would allow locals to raise additional revenue above any foundation grant. There might be a local option to raise money for local Bryant key to school reform?

Rep. William R. Bryant Jr. of Grosse Pointe could play a major role in drafting education reform in Michigan this year.

Bryant differed sharply with GOP Gov. John Engler on the repeal of the property tax but will be chairman of the House Education Committee next month when it begins hearings to seek public input on

'No' to Riegle

President Clinton ought to cancel his promise to attend a fundraiser to support Michigan's Democratic Sen. Donald W. Riegle's re-election bid.

Yet the president has agreed to do that on Oct. 18 and, even worse, had even said he would do so knowing Riegle was about to desert him in Lansing last Saturday.

There Riegle sponsored the rally against the North America Free Trade Agreement to which he even invited the major NAFTA foe, Ross Perot.

Riegle is one of the "Keating five," the legislators who pressed federal regulators on behalf of the S & L ventures of promoter Charles Keating, later sentenced to prison for fraud. The "five" were rebuked by the Senate Ethics Committee for their roles in the costly S&L scandals.

True, Riegle is again backed by the United Auto Workers which opposes NAFTA for on the mistaken fear it will cost union jobs at home.

It's also true that Riegle chairs the Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs Committee, a position he earned chiefly by seniority but disgraced by his conduct.

But why, Mr. President, waste any of your precious political clout on a man who several times has proved himself unworthy of it?

proposed tax source replacements and other reforms.

Because of the split leadership resulting from the equal division of Democratic and GOP members, the GOP will control committees in October and the speakership in November. That means the GOP presumably could force action on legislation that Bryant's committee might produce in his month as its chairman.

In early discussions, Bryant is encouraging proposals to give local school districts authority to impose either a local sales or income tax to help replace the revenue lost from property tax repeal.

Despite their earlier disagreement, Bryant and the governor apparently agree on that general approach although the governor has also indicated support for an increased statewide sales tax to make up part of the financing deficit.

Among the other components that Bryant sees as possibilities in the new legislation are the following innovations:

School choice on an interdistrict as well as an intradistrict basis, charter schools, increased parental involvement, increased use of site-based management and adding at least a performance criteria to the post-graduate degree and seniority criteria commonly used for increased teacher pay.

As for action this fall, Bryant contends that some Democrats lean toward not resolving the school issues this year in order to throw them into the 1994 election campaign.

In view of the many contending interests involved in both the school reform and school financing issues, delay of action to 1994 still appears to be a strong possibility even though a two-thirds approval would be needed of any legislation after Jan. 1, 1994.

Local artist to host series of watercolor workshops

Carol Lachiusa, a well-known local artist, will be conducting a series of four watercolor workshops at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

The first workshop of the series will be held on Tuesday, Sept. 28, and focuses on the "Enchantment of Flowers." Students at this workshop will enjoy a demonstration by the instructor followed by individual instruction stressing light on a petal, the delicate texture of flowers, and composition.

The second workshop in the series will be held on Tuesday, Oct. 12, and focuses on "Sky and Water Landscape." Students are encouraged to bring photos of their favorite landscape; and following a demonstration by the instructor, the students will let their imaginations unfold as they interpret the elements of weather and their own impressions of water scenes.

The last two workshops will be held in late October and early November, and they will focus on the "Colors of Autumn" and the "Figure in Watercolor."

To learn from Carol Lachiusa, participants should reserve their spot soon as space is limited. The workshops will be held on Tuesdays, beginning Sept. 28, and are $20 for a single session or $70 for the series of four sessions.

To make reservations or obtain more information, call the War Memorial at 881-7511.

Neighborhood club to offer fencing classes

Looking for something new and exciting to do this fall? Learn the sport and art of fencing that has been around for centuries. Classes for beginners and intermediate/advanced fencers will be available at the Neighborhood Club.

Classes for beginners will take place on Mondays, Oct. 4 through Dec. 6, from 7:15 to 8:45 p.m. Bryan Collins will instruct participants on basic fencing moves.

Intermediate and advanced fencers will meet on Wednesdays under the instruction of Maestro Jerzy Radz, head coach of the Wayne State University fencing team. Classes are from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m., and run Oct. 6 through Dec. 15.

Also for intermediate and advanced fencers is the Grosse Pointe Condottiere, Detroit's oldest active fencing program. Fencing club members can spar on Mondays from 8:45 to 10:15 p.m., and Fridays from 8 p.m. until 10 p.m. The Monday sessions run from Oct. 4 through Dec. 6, and the Friday sessions will be held from Oct. 8 through Dec. 17.

The Grosse Pointe Condottiere encourages fencers to improve their skills and prepare for competitions. College fencing scholarships are offered, and club membership also allows a fencer the opportunity to compete nationally with the United States Fencing Association (USFA). In addition, members have been involved in film and stage choreography, and they can participate in the Michigan Renaissance Festival.

The director of the club is Joel Stone, and checks for this program should be made payable to the Grosse Pointe Condottiere Fencing Club.

Chevrolet rolls dice on new '94 models in Vegas

The rake of the windshield on the teal 1994 Camaro convertible had a couple of observers wondering if it would be possible to get into the handsome car without picking up a souvenir bruise or two. But the 45-degree slant of the glass didn't scare off reporters anxious to shift for themselves on the busy streets of Las Vegas in the sleek new softtop.

Chevrolet may have picked Caesars Palace, the Sands and Vegas for the site of its short-lead press preview of the 1994 models, but the General Motors division is not relying on luck to pull it out of a sales slump.

Its aces are cars and trucks and customer service. Real vehicles for the new model year and a few non-production fiberglass 1995 models were on display in a cavernous over-air-conditioned new exposition building at the Sands Hotel convention center for both Chevrolet dealers and members of the automotive press to see.

Autos

By Jenny King

Chevy public relations chief Ralph Kramer extracted a no-photos promise before scribes were escorted back to view the 1995 Geo Metro sedan, the next generation S-Blazer, a '95 Monte Carlo, a re-designed Cavalier for '95 and the re-do of the Lumina Sedan which will go on sale late next spring as a 1995 model.

For '94 there's a re-designed S-10 pickup. More rounded than its predecessor, and featuring increased equipment on the base model. Larger 15-inch wheels, power steering, a more powerful 118-HP fuel-injected 4-cylinder engine, heavier shock absorbers and a full-size spare tire characterize the base models of the '94 compact pickup. It starts at $8,745, Chevrolet said.

There were several S-10s behind the tennis courts at Caesars Palace waiting to go out on the highways clogged with early-morning business and tourist traffic. They were selected by the auto writers, as were the Camaro convertible, an open-air Corvette, a '94 S-Blazer and sometimes a Caprice. The little Geo Metros sat untouched; likewise the Lumina sedan. Its replacement is a tight, well-trimmed 4-door due to go into production as early as February.

The Lumina coupe returns as the Monte Carlo. Division General Manager Jim Perkins told reporters Monte Carlo owners have been bugging dealers for a new model ever since the beloved sport coupe was dropped from Chevy's lineup back in 1988. He indicated there would be a special powerplant available but wouldn't give any details. Production of the Monte Carlo also begins in early 1994.

A spokeswoman at the Chevrolet dealer display at the Sands said the Geo Metro 5-door station wagon will be replaced in 1995 by a 4-door sedan built in Canada. The sapphire-blue fiberglass model on the turntable looked more substantial than the current wagon. She said people have expressed some concern about the safety of station wagon rear-seat passengers in the event of a rear-end collision. The sedan intends to alleviate those fears. The Metro 3-door runabout, known for its incredible interior capacity (as much as a Caprice's, some say) and extraordinary fuel economy, will stay in the lineup.

Chevy is bringing back its beloved Impala SS nameplate this fall. The high-performance full-size sedan will have a Corvette 260-hp LT1 V-8 engine. It's the first time the nameplate has been used since 1969, and the first time the name has been placed on a sedan. Impala SS models were sold as performance coupes beginning in 1961. The modern version features black paint and emblems, a new grille, deck lid spoiler and 17-inch aluminum wheels.

Chevrolet's Lumina All Purpose Vehicle has some exterior styling changes which give it more character, and a new name: Minivan. The former APV has a rounder front end, a hint of fenders, an automatic power sliding door option and a driver-side air bag.

The next generation Cavalier looks like a hybrid of the current model plus a Geo Storm. The division's best-selling nameplate needs a boost in the marketplace. But dealers and buyers will have to wait until next fall to feast on this one. Everyone's talking customer satisfaction and Chevrolet said its dealers are doing something about it. Beginning with the new model year, Chevy officially will offer free courtesy transportation to buyers of 1994 Chevrolet and Geo cars

Impala SS fans will have a chance to own a '94 model this fall. Derived from the Caprice, the new black-on-black sedan will have a hot 260-hp 5.7-liter V-8 to help it get around town. The Impala SS badge was first used in 1961 on a performance model of an Impala coupe.

Chevrolet hopes to gain some percentage points in the tough compact pickup market segment with its 1994 line of restyled S-10s. Available in 2-wheel and 4-wheel drive, regular and extended-cab versions and with regular or long bed, the rounder, stylish truck goes on sale this month around the country.

and trucks when these owners bring the vehicles in to dealerships for warranty service. Many outlets have been doing this on their own for years. Now it's official Chevy policy.

The new courtesy transportation program includes a loaner car, rental car or alternate public transportation reimbursement to the customer whose vehicle must be left at the dealership overnight. Shuttle transportation from the dealership up to a distance of 10 miles is available to owners in the case of same-day repairs.

Camaro adds two new convertible models in 1994 - in base and Z28 packages. The standard engine in Camaro is a 3.4-liter V-6; there's a 5.7-liter small-block V-8 under the hood of the Z car. Dual air bags and ABS brakes are standard in all Camaros.

Lumina APV became the Lumina Minivan this year and it features a rounder front end and shorter overall length. A driver-side air bag has been added this year. Integral child seats are available as an option, as is a power sliding door.

Driving school has rocky course

Beginning the middle of last month, owners of Range Rover and Defender 110 vehicles had a chance to go back to school. A special one-week off-road driving academy allows owners of Land Rover vehicles to learn advanced driving techniques including those appropriate for rocks, steep shelves and breathtaking ascents and descents. Maryland-based importer Land Rover North America said. Tuition for the academy, which includes accommodations at Aspen's Jerome or Little Nell hotels, with one overnight in the field plus proper gear, is $4,500. Enrollment is limited to 14 per one-week session. Interested? Call Garrett Bailey at 301-731-9040.

Kia Motors introduces new price-leader

Korean auto maker Kia Motors is preparing to bring its little Sephia (pronounced SEH-FEE-uh) to the United States the end of this year. Already on sale in Korea, the 4-door compact sedan will be powered by an 88-hp 1.6-liter 16-valve single-overhead-cam engine. It should be priced under $9,000. There will be three trim levels. With an overall length of 170 inches, the new sedan is about the same size as a Dodge Shadow or Ford Escort. Kia Motors has been building the subcompact Festiva since 1987 for sale by North American Ford dealers.

Perotistas of Grosse Pointe

Grosse Pointers have been slammed a lot in the daily papers recently, usually by people who know little about what they are writing, or people who don't even live here.

It's time someone on the inside said something.

Since I am qualified to take a shot at some people in this town, I thought I would do so.

I have lived here on and off for 29 years, have gone through the public school system here for all but two of my adolescent years, etc., etc.

When the school board first suggested selling its administrative office buildings at 389 St. Clair, many thought, and still do think, it's a bad idea.

Different groups, with different ideas, scrambled to see what could be done to prevent the sale or demolition of the two buildings.

What I find curious is that there was a school board election shortly after the board's announcement of the sale, and candidates were asked specifically about this issue, but only 3,500 people out of more than 40,000 registered voters cast ballots in the election. However, a group opposing the sale of the buildings was somehow able to collect nearly 5,500 signatures to have the issue of the sale of the buildings put to a community-wide vote.

It may be easier to sign a petition than to show up at the poll, but if this group had this much support, it could have easily filled both school board seats in the last election with its own candidates.

Living here almost all my life, I know hundreds of people in the Pointes. Yet not one person I have asked has been asked to sign a petition regarding 389 St. Clair.

But what's worse is the misinformation that is spread at some public meetings.

One member of this group informed audience members at the school board meeting last week that the City and Farms had talked specifics with a developer as to the feasibility of having senior housing on that site.

The only problem was that the City and Farms had only met with the architect from the development company two hours earlier and had not talked any specifics.

City councilmember Myrna

Smith, a member of the City's subcommittee, was present at the school board meeting to help set the record straight, but still the misinformation is out there.

I am curious why all of this concern, purportedly reflective of the community's views, never shows up at election time.

There are council elections coming up on Nov. 2 for the City, Farms, Park and Woods. Last May's council election for the Shores drew only 12 percent of registered voters. Council elections in November 1991 had turnouts of 22 percent for the City, 23 percent for the Farms, 30 percent for the Park and 36 percent for the Woods.

Why not ask candidates their views before the election, or even run candidates of your own? Better still, get these 5,500 people to the polls.

Otherwise, what we have is an equivalent of Ross Perot and his followers, a group of uneducated people muddying up the water, offering no means to pay for their ideas, or offering no solutions at all.

I happen to disagree with some of the school board's decisions. And I think it sounds arrogant when they respond, "You elected us to make these decisions for you." But they are right.

Just remember how each school board or city councilmember voted on a particular issue when election time rolls around. If you are unable to attend the meetings, the Grosse Pointe News reports votes on issues of importance.

In the meantime, if you disagree with what the board or a council is doing, make a suggestion, not a demand.

Small wetlands add beauty

It's just a little wetland. You've probably driven past it many times, especially if you keep a boat on the Clinton River or drive a bargain at the Gibraltar Trade Center. But you might not have noticed it.

It's a modest little cattail marsh beside the on-ramp of I-94 — and last week it was on its way out.

The marsh is notable for two things:

Environmentally speaking, it's practically a miracle that it has kept its identity as a native cattail marsh and hasn't been invaded by aliens like fragmites (a tall, heavy-handed grass) or purple loosestrife.

Politically speaking, it was the catalyst for the debut of a local environmental organization. The Blue Water Wetlands Foundation is cutting its teeth on the mighty Macomb County Road Commission, which was filling the little marsh with mud and trash from roadside ditches.

Armed with signs and flyers and high spirits, about 10 people from the six-month-old group stood at the site Saturday waving at drivers and responding excitedly to their honks of support.

One of them was Fritz Dunlap of Harper Woods. He works in an office five days a week, but likes to get his feet wet watching ducks on the weekends. Some years ago he joined the (ultimately successful) fight to save Algonac's St. John's Marsh and now he's spearheading the battle for some smaller, but lovely, spots.

At this writing, it's too soon to tell whether the newborn David will slay the road commission's Goliath, but Dunlap is energized and looking for members. If you're interested, call (313) 748-3705. (It's a Har-sens Island number).

The group is gathering information to try to protect another duck hot spot — a former sewage lagoon along the same expressway at 21 Mile Road, rumored to be under the development gun. These places may lack the drama of Yellowstone, but it's the small refuges dotting an urbanized area that can mean the difference between survival and local extinction for some species.

News and views from readers' letters — with the usual mixed reviews:

Here's one who thinks I'm wasting my time trying to discern differences between Bill Clinton and George Bush. But not for the reasons one might assume. This reader says they're both communists — and the proof can be found on Channel 38 every Sunday morning.

My kingdom for access to Channel 38! It isn't part of my cable company's lineup.

Here's one from a regular penpal who always stuffs his missives full of nifty clippings and cartoons. Among the gems is this food for thought: "A hundred years from now, all new people."

I don't know whether to feel heartened or discouraged at that idea. If the new batch is anything like the old one, why bother? Anyway, you can bet the new batch will be a lot bigger — and that's the scariest thought I've had today.

The two or three kids each of us has doesn't seem like such a lot — till you add them up. It's just like saving little marshes. The filling of small places here and there by homeowners and farmers and builders and road commissions doesn't seem excessive (in fact, the regulation of such little places seems excessively heavy-handed to many), but it all adds up.

In Michigan, we've lost half of our wetlands since European settlement. But it didn't seem excessive at the time.

Perspective has a way of ambushing you when you travel. A recent trip to Colorado Springs typically introduced a new way of looking at things.

Item: Colorado is digging in against adolescent violence and crime. The mountain state isn't known for teen street crime, and it doesn't want to be. Gov. Roy Romer called a special week-long session of the legislature right after Labor Day to deal with a package of bills to (among other things) reduce handgun possession among teenagers.

In Detroit (and other big cities), on the other hand, we have lived with a worse version of the problem for so long that we're actually used to it. We've all grown accustomed to reading about gun deaths with our morning coffee.

When I was in Germany last fall, everybody asked if I was afraid of the crime at home. (And that was well before Floridians began to murder foreign tourists).

But, like lots of people, I always felt that street violence was happening somewhere else, and, terrible as it was, it really didn't mean anything in my life. I mean, I still have to remind myself to lock my car doors when I park.

But, arriving home from the West, I learned that a co-worker had been murdered on the street by a would-be robber. Nor was that all. Geographically closer to home, the television soon informed me, a man who lives near me way out in the exurbs has been patrolling the roads with a loaded shot-

Honor service award

Planned Parenthood League volunteer Bethine S. Whitney II of the Farms has received the Governor's Honor Roll award for board service to the group and 23 years of active work. It was part of the United Community Services National Volunteer Week celebration, singling out leaders in many charity groups for longevity and dedication.

"Beth" reminded FYI that the League has a new in-prison group assisting women re-entering society.

"They need updated sex and HIV education and friendly counseling," she says.

She asked to mention the special 35th anniversary meeting Oct. 14 (Thursday), kicking off the giant Holiday Mart preview of December gift shopping, a gigantic fundraiser.

gun — and has finally, and fatally, shot somebody.

If any place has a tradition of gunslinging or keeping a gun for personal and property protection, it's a western state like Colorado, with its cowboys and gold miners and history of fierce independence. So if Colorado can look at reducing guns, you'd think we all could.

But down in Louisiana, the host parents of the Japanese exchange student who was shot last spring on his way to a party are circulating a gun control petition. It matches the one going around Japan, where people are shocked at our violent ways. So far, the Japanese have collected two million signatures. In our great country, 30,000.

He is a North High grad who went to Kalamazoo College, Georgetown University and Wayne State's Medical School (Kresge Institute) in ophthalmology. St. Clair waters add problems

For 20 years many friends have aspired to owning real "boating" property, like those on streets running from the Lake St. Clair to Jefferson, between Marter Road and 10 Mile.

There's a problem now, which nags boat owners. Canals are getting gunky from growth which clogs boat props and it's blamed on the zebra mussel.

Optometrist Dr. Clifford Dulian is quoted by St. Clair Shores city manager Mark Wollenweber and Mayor Ted Wahby as wanting city, state and federal funds to clean canal water.

"The DNR in Lansing has asked for funding, but it's really private property," seems to be an answer, not accepted by hundreds of home/boat owners.

Question: If the mussel was brought here by foreign ships, whose responsibility is the cleanup? Federal, state, local or owner? Good point. Could congestion on the lake be the real problem?

cal schools. But remember: You cannot get any more local than parents. They are the ultimate in local control. From now on, our school finance will put kids first, not the system.

9. Constitutional limitations: The state cannot fully replace $6 billion. Because of Headlee, the state can only raise about $3.8 billion. We are investigating a number of revenue options; everything is on the table.

10. Deregulate: Get bureaucracy out of every micro-managed decision. Reduce the paper blitzkrieg our teachers and administrators must deal with. Free up teachers and let them be more creative. Free up administrators and let them be more creative.

Schools need competition

To the Editor:

In his bill-signing ceremony at Greenfield Village's one-room schoolhouse, Gov. Engler said that with $9 billion now spent on Michigan schools, "we already pay for a world class education. Now it's time to deliver one to our children."

Amen, governor. Later he said, "The power and control the teacher unions have had over education in Michigan ended this morning."

We should be so lucky. It's a tragic fact that a host of people — many in our own community — confuse quality education with paying more money to teachers. This is a fraud that is perpetuated by the National Education Association which exists not to improve education for our kids, but to get ever more money for its teachers — and increased dues for the NEA, of course. Forbes estimates NEA's dues "take" at $750 million a year.

The Forbes report says, "As the National Education Association has gained in monopoly power, the cost of education has increased while its quality has decreased. But monopolies are by nature unstable, and this undemocratic labor union may have met its match in the movement for school choice." NEA spent some $4.2 million fighting school choice in 1992.

The move toward "choice" and the "voucher plan" is real throughout the country. It was the subject of a debate between a Milwaukee mother (Milwaukee has the choice-voucher plan) and Keith Geiger, NEA president. She shook her finger in Geiger's face and charged that he cared only for teachers and money, and not a whit for school children. This was on David Brinkley's Sunday "This Week" show. Geiger failed utterly to effectively deny it.

Addressing the controversy surrounding schools of choice and the voucher plan, professor George C. Leef, writing in The Detroit News notes: "The education establishment has been doing all that it can to thwart the outbreak of competition... (the measurably superior results achieved by private schools — usually with less money — is itself powerful evidence for the efficacy of competition.)" Then later he continues: "I challenge anyone else to produce a convincing argument that when it comes to education, we are better off with a government monopoly than with marketplace competition."

I remember a school superintendent of a large city school district speaking of the voucher plan declaring indignantly, "They've got no business paying for school vouchers and taking it away from our public school money!"

"Our" public school money? What a sad travesty. I know a family of five kids who sent all five through private school K-12, that's 13 years each. Grosse Pointe budgets around $9,000 per year for every student, K-12. Those 13 years cost the Grosse Pointe school system $117,000 per student. With this family's five kids going K-12 to private school, and with those cost numbers, this family saved the Grosse Pointe system $585,000 in money budgeted but not spent.

During this family's years of residence in Grosse Pointe, it, of course, paid school taxes. This factors out to about $135,000 in direct payments to the public school system. The $135,000 in taxes paid plus the $585,000 budgeted but not spent represents from this one family a contribution of $730,000 to the public school system.

Any other school superintendent want to speak about "our" public school money?

Further, the largest voucher plan payment I have heard mentioned is $2,600 per child per year. Subtract that $2,600 from the $9,000 per year Grosse Pointe schools budget and you'll find our school system would save $6,400 for every Grosse Pointe kid whose parents opted for and put to use a voucher plan.

Incidentally NEA president Geiger, the teacher's pet, refers to kids who leave the public school system for private education as "escaping" from the system.

What does that say to you?

Sears Taylor appreciated

To the Editor:

Congratulations to the Grosse Pointe News, and especially reporter Shirley McShane, for your timely and accurate report on the incredible announcement that the Grosse Pointe school board will not be increasing school taxes in the coming year. Many of my friends refuse to believe it.

But this is great news (and, hopefully, the beginning of a trend), and the Concerned Citizens of Grosse Pointe, Trustee Sears Taylor, the Grosse Pointe News and surely many others deserve credit for this achievement. The board did a fine job.

However, I'm concerned about the bashing of Sears Taylor that's going on, primarily it seems from people who have benefited from the soaring school costs and taxes in Grosse Pointe.

I firmly believe that Mr. Taylor is a harbinger of the future. We have a first-class school system and we want a first-class school system. But it has become much too costly.

The rapidly soaring school taxes that my family and thousands of other families have faced for several decades is largely the product of one organization — the Michigan Education Association (MEA), which has had a monopoly grip on this school district and the 500-plus districts throughout Michigan.

The Grosse Pointe system, like practically all these other districts, has the cock-eyed situation in which the monopolistic MEA invariably negotiates its great wage and fringe-benefit increases from their local administrators. Then, the administrators and the boards turn around and give equivalent increases to the administrators.

This is a serious conflict of interest and one that should be changed.

Three years ago, the local MEA won a contract that provided the Grosse Pointe teachers a 7 percent wage increase for each of three years. Compounded this amounts to a 22.4 percent increase in just the short time since the 1990s began. I wonder how many senior citizens and other taxpayers got increases that generous.

Much of the bashing of Sears Taylor comes from people who are benefitting greatly from their membership in the monopolistic MEA.

This is understandable because he's a threat who's waking up the community. Our kids (my two graduated here) are getting a good education. But as TV's Andy Rooney said on "60 Minutes," this is happening because we have smart, basically good kids who are being raised by smart, responsible parents.

Periodically, I work as a volunteer mentor in Detroit schools where two thirds of the children are illegitimate. Believe me, the difference between kids from functional families and those from dysfunctional families is substantial.

Major changes are coming to the Grosse Pointe school system, as well as those throughout the state. Sears Taylor wants a good, more economical school system. I'm glad he's around to help in this metamorphosis. Grosse Pointe taxpayers badly need the representation he provides.

To the Editor:

Last week's editorial page contained several letters disagreeing with Sears Taylor's budget proposals. They have all missed the point. Mr. Taylor is the only board member who has suggested a plan. By showing initiative he, of course, must take the criticism.

It is too early in the game to start to criticize. We must all be deciding the same question. Who is going to be cut? It is no longer a question of personalities or how we feel they are doing their job. It comes down to money and numbers. Who are you going to cut?

Our school system employs more than 1,800 people. Less than one-third of the school employees are classroom teachers. There is no reason why our teaching staff and our educational programs should not stay intact. Our system will succeed with the integrity we have in the classroom now. All cuts must be made from the administration and support services.

What we must not forget is that we must retain our property values while this reorganization is taking place. The only way to do this is to keep our neighborhood schools, fully staffed with teachers and with all programs intact. If we decrease our teaching staff and programs, the private and parochial schools will have a field day. Those who can't afford the existing schools will create new ones. This community will not stand for cuts in teaching staff nor will they accept overcrowded classes.

Grosse Pointe has remained prestigious because of our schools. It is what goes on in the classroom that keeps our property values high.

How shall our high schools prepare for the future? Study offers ideas

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

After six months of intensive study and probing discussion, a committee studying the high school of the future has presented its findings to Grosse Pointe school administrators.

The findings — or 15 principles — are a collective sense of the future of Grosse Pointe's public high schools. Some of the principles are already in place. Some could be implemented this year and others might take years to incorporate.

But the principles are merely suggestions, not blueprints for immediate change, said superintendent Ed Shine, who recommended the study in the fall of 1992.

With the school board's approval, a team of 49 K-12 teachers, students, parents, counselors and administrators from around the district met from January to June for discussions on literature and information about education reform.

In his proposal to the board last year, Shine said "our school system's motto in the last seven years has been 'Excellence in Education — Our Proven Tradition.' By all commonly accepted standards we have been and we remain an excellent school system. The question is: Can we be better?"

The goal of the study was for members to look at ways to improve student learning. Members were charged with making recommendations on the content and structure of the learning program, changes needed to institute improvements and evaluation to verify improvement.

Committee members accomplished their task by developing the 15 principles.

But the study is far from over. Now Shine would like to spend the next six months gauging the public's reaction to the 15 principles.

Shine is hoping the principles will be read at PTO, faculty and parent meetings and that reactions will be shared with the administration.

"There is no sense in going ahead with a plan that the school system and the community is not in agreement on," Shine said, noting that further developments in the process will not be made until the district has a better idea of the public's response.

Committee members are optimistic about the experience and walked away feeling they accomplished an important task.

"There was a general feeling of satisfaction with our high schools," said Harper woods resident Steve Matthews. "There are a lot of things we are doing right, but we found there was a level of dissatisfaction with things like the inflexibility in structure by breaking the day into six periods. The dissatisfaction wasn't about learning or that the students

G.P. South plans all-class reunion

The Grosse Pointe High School Alumni Association hopes to begin a tradition by holding its first homecoming party for alums who graduated from two to 50-plus years ago. "The Emergency Department at Bon Secours is great for kids. My young daughter was very frightened — we all were. But, everything went so smoothly. And Shannon got such special care. We wouldn't dream of going anywhere else..."

Maureen Leehr, mother of three, Grosse Pointe Woods

Nine year old Shannon Leehr plays for keeps. She also tries to keep pace with her older brothers, on and off the field. But playing in the "big leagues" often leads to sprained ankles, sore knees, bumps and bruises. Usually, they're not too serious, but, on Saturday night, July 31, everyone feared that Shannon had broken her wrist. A hospital with board-certified emergency medicine physicians and an on-site pediatrician was in order. Bon Secours Hospital fit the bill.

At Bon Secours, we offer pediatric emergency services to nearly 4,000 kids each year. And, unlike other area hospitals, we have a board-certified pediatrician on site all the time, day or night. So, whether your child has a sprained ankle at 8 p.m., or an unusually high fever at 4 a.m., we can help.

Pediatric experts in ophthalmology, orthopedics, and other specialties work with Emergency Department staff to treat your child. Our pediatric nurses have an average of 10 years experience caring for children and pediatric advanced life support training. Plus, our X-ray and lab on-site in the Emergency Department mean fast, convenient care.

The next time your "slugger" needs emergency medical care, come to Bon Secours Hospital. Any time day or night. At Bon Secours, we treat your kids like our kids.

Today, Shannon is back in action — batting 1,000 with brothers Marty and Danny.

Scholarship deadline nears

The H.T. Ewald Foundation, which awards four-year college scholarships to graduating high school seniors, is now accepting applications for qualified metro-Detroit area students. Successful applicants must demonstrate financial need, high overall scholastic record, personal character and willingness to share their talents with the community.

The amount of the scholarship varies with each recipient, from as little as $500 to several thousand dollars a year. Students may attend the college or university of their choice. The scholarships are for four years of undergraduate study.

The H.T. Ewald Foundation was started in 1928 by H.T. Ewald, a founder of the Campbell-Ewald Advertising Co. (now Lintas: Campbell-Ewald). The foundation's scholarship program, with headquarters in Grosse Pointe, was instituted in 1956 by its president, Ted Ewald, and is the oldest privately funded scholarship foundation in Detroit.

Write for applications to the H.T. Ewald Foundation, 15175 E. Jefferson, Grosse Pointe Park, Mich. 48230. Completed applications and supporting material must be received no later than April 1 for consideration.

Brosteaux named assistant at Star

Our Lady Star of the Sea Elementary School in Grosse Pointe Woods has appointed Lorraine Brosteaux as administrative assistant — a position developed when the school was expanded to include a middle school building.

Brosteaux is a veteran teacher with 44 years' experience. She has taught for 17 years at Star. She has held administrative positions at St. Alphonsus in Springdale, Pa. and at St. Isaac Jogues in St. Clair Shores.

Along with her administrative duties, Brosteaux will continue to teach math. Her students have been scholastic olympic winners for the last five years.

Boosting books

The Grosse Pointe public libraries have outgrown their ability to hold book sales inside their buildings. Room 110 at Barnes school is now filling with books in preparation for the Friends of the Library used book sale, Oct. 13-16. Books are being sorted by volunteer library boosters, who meet Mondays and Fridays from 9 to 11 a.m. Donations of books are accepted at any branch of the Grosse Pointe public library. Call Sally Giacobbe at 343-2077.

Mum's the word

University Liggett School junior class president Stacey Corbin, right, and class officer Alexandra Blatt, will sell garden mums Sept. 24 and 25 at the annual ULS mum sale. Flowers will be sold at the field house on the ULS campus, 1045 Cook Road in Grosse Pointe Woods. Sale hours are from 3 to 6 p.m. Sept. 24, and from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Sept. 25. Mums are $8 pre-ordered and $9 on the day of the sale and will be sold in a variety of colors. Pre-orders can be made by picking up an order form at the upper school office during business hours. All mums must be picked up by 2 p.m. on Sept. 25. Call 884-4444.

PSAT set for Oct. 16 at North

The PSAT will be administered at North High School at 8 a.m., Saturday, Oct. 16. This is the only time it will be given this year and school administrators encourage all juniors to take the test.

The cost is $9. Students should sign up in the counseling center beginning Oct. 4. The PSAT/NMSQT provides practice for the SAT and possible entry to National Merit Scholarship Corporation programs. Students should see their counselor for more information.

Merit scholarship finalists named

David Eisenbrey, son of Dr. and Mrs. Bradley Eisenbrey, and Michael Kim, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ik Kim, have been named semi-finalists in the 1994 Merit Scholarship competition. Both students now have an opportunity to continue in the competition for more than 6,500 merit scholarships worth more than $25 million, to be awarded next spring.

This nationwide semi-finalist pool includes about half of one percent of each state's high school graduating classes.

More than one million juniors in more than 19,000 U.S. high schools entered the 1994 merit program by taking the 1992 preliminary SAT/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test. The number of semi-finalists designated in each state is allocated according to the state's percentage of the national total of graduating high school seniors.

Winners of three types of merit scholarships to be awarded in 1994 will be selected on the basis of professional evaluations of finalists' abilities, accomplishments and personal attributes considered important for success in rigorous college studies. Every finalist will be considered for one of 2,000 national merit $2,000 scholarships to be allocated on a state representational basis.

HEALTH WATCH

Why such a treatable cancer often goes untreated.

A ticklish situation

If it's treated early, it has a high success rate. A simple blood test can often detect it. And yet every year, thousands of men risk the chances of undetected prostate cancer.

It's a sensitive issue for men. They aren't usually in the habit of annual checkups, and they're uneasy about rectal exams. So prostate cancer often goes undetected until it spreads to other parts of the body, when the success rate with treatment drops significantly.

A simple solution

To catch prostate cancer early, men 50 and over should see a physician every year. At these checkups, a digital rectal exam can detect the possibility of cancer. A PSA blood test can also flag prostate cancer, and should be performed every year in men after age 50, or every year after age 40 for black men or men with a family history of prostate cancer.

Prostate cancer, in its early stages, is one of the most treatable cancers. But only if men overcome their resistance to the exams that can detect it.

Free classes and screenings

To attend our Sept. 28 class on prostate cancer, or one of our free prostate cancer screenings, call our Physician Referral and Information Service at 1-800-237-5646. This information was excerpted from WJR's HealthWatch program, which airs weekdays at 5:55 a.m. and 5:27 p.m. on WJR 760 AM.

Say nice things about Detroit

Stewart McMillin won't let people give up on Detroit. For those who would like to be convinced that Detroit is still alive with cultural activity, join McMillin on Oct. 2 for a Detroit Black History and Cultural Tour.

The tour, which will run from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. is in anticipation of the 25th anniversary of the Focus: Hope walk to be held Oct. 10.

Tourists will visit The Afro-American museum, the Motown Museum and many other historical sites, learn about Phyllis Wheatley, Dr. Ossian Sweet and Elmwood Cemetery — 34 points in all to help those in attendance better understand the black contribution to American culture and history.

McMillin is a resident of Grosse Pointe City, teaches in the East Detroit public school district and has been guiding people on tours around Detroit for two decades.

He began Detroit tours after the 1967 riots when he was concerned about attitudes of suburban residents and the imagined walls along Eight Mile and Alter Road.

McMillin also hosts tours of Macomb and Oakland counties. Registration fee is $17. Make checks payable to East Detroit Community Education, 19200 Stephens, Eastpointe, Mich. 48021. Be sure to include name, address and telephone number. Call 445-4416 for more information.

Cricketeers

Grosse Pointe school students Peter Van Dyke of Harper Woods and Matt Beardsley of Grosse Pointe Woods, were featured as winners in the June 1993 Cricket League International writing competition sponsored by Cricket magazine for children.

Van Dyke placed third and Beardsley received an honorable mention for their poems about misjudged animals. The two students' names will appear in the September 1993 edition of Cricket.

Gather 'round St. Clare school

Everyone is gearing up for the annual fundraising auction for St. Clare of Montefalco School — Round-Up '93 — scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 6. The fourth-annual PTO-sponsored event features such items up for bid as boat parties, dinners, gift certificates, jewelry, vacations, art objects and more.

All proceeds will enrich education programs at St. Clare and will help purchase new textbooks and computers, replace outdated and unsafe furnishings and pay for teacher enrichment.

Auction organizers are now looking for attractive quality goods and services. Call Debra Brady, auction chairperson at 886-7360.

Benefit choir

Local musicians, left to right, Sharon Babcock, Barbara Pierce, Jennifer Fitch and Jeff Bruning will perform from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 26, at Grosse Pointe South High School auditorium. The performance will benefit South's Sophomore Select Choir. The concert will be followed by an hors d'oeuvres and dessert reception in Cleminson Hall. Tickets are $10 and may be purchased from members of the Sophomore Select Choir or Third Coast Booksellers, 15129 Kercheval.

Strike up the community band

The Grosse Pointe Community Band began its fall season on Sept. 21 at Parcels school auditorium. New musicians who would like to play concert band music are encouraged to attend Tuesday night rehearsals.

Interested musicians may call the Grosse Pointe Community Education office at 343-2178 or band director Ralph Miller at 343-2240.

Schools begin population study

A school census form is being mailed tomorrow, Sept. 24, to approximately 11,000 families and businesses in the north end of the Grosse Pointe Public School System to monitor population growth and movement in that area.

The north end of the school district encompasses the area of the Grosse Pointes and Harper Woods served by Grosse Pointe North High School. Recently that portion of the school district experienced a high growth rate in the number of school-age children, and the new census is an attempt to get more accurate information for school enrollment projections.

This is the first time the Grosse Pointe schools has used a mail-in census instead of conducting a door-to-door count. All residents are encouraged to fill out their forms and return them by Friday, Oct. 15. Any forms not returned will require follow-up calls. Forms returned on time will save the school system money.

The Grosse Pointe school district traditionally conducts a census of the entire district every two years. The next complete census of the district is scheduled for May 1994.

Swingin'

The Giving Tree Montessori School held its annual back-to-school picnic for new and returning students and their families on Sept. 10 at Patterson Park in Grosse Pointe Park. Students, like three-year-old Sarah-Winston Smith, enjoyed the playground, were entertained by a clown and had their faces painted.

It's one hard working dollar, anyway you slice it.

The money you give to the United Way helps fund almost 140 charitable agencies. So every dollar works hard helping to house the homeless, feed the hungry and shelter the abused here in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties. And that's just for starters. Your dollar also helps fund medical care and research, provides family counseling, job training and much, much more. More people than ever before are counting on your dollars. So won't you please give more of them to the United Way? Because, of all the needs we face in the tri-county area this year, the biggest one of all is your support.

Still the best way to show you care.

Health Care Reform What's happening in our own backyard?

Last night, we heard the President of the United States outline his plan for health care reform.

Today, Bon Secours of Michigan Healthcare System wants to let you know what we are currently doing and what we plan to do to ensure that you continue to have access to the care you want and the high quality you expect from our health care organization.

President Clinton's plan emphasizes the need for primary care physicians. Bon Secours has a long-standing reputation as a primary health care provider with:

- 122 internists, 50 family practice physicians and 33 obstetrician/gynecologists;
- Physician residency programs in family practice and internal medicine that educate and train dozens of new doctors each year;
- Family practice centers in St. Clair Shores and Warren, and an internal medicine center in Grosse Pointe Park.

Currently, we are working with our primary care physicians and our specialists to not only improve the quality of services that we provide but to reduce unnecessary costs.

Another major point in the health care reform proposal is the need for accountability. Annual performance reports, covering both patient satisfaction and quality of care, would be available to all consumers. The Sisters of Bon Secours have always believed that accountability to the people we serve is a top priority, and for the last few years we have had a comprehensive patient satisfaction survey system in place. Although our evaluations consistently rank among the highest in the nation, our staff continually works to improve services and develop programs from the patient's perspective.

One of the goals of reform is to control costs. Bon Secours has been rated as one of the lowest cost hospitals in Southeast Michigan. We believe that by combining the right mix of technology, appropriate staffing levels and wise use of resources, we will continue to be a low-cost provider attractive to health alliances, business and consumers.

In this new model for health care, collaboration among health care providers is key. At Bon Secours, we have a history of collaborative efforts through such efforts as the St. John Bon Secours Senior Community and two MRI centers operated jointly with three other area hospitals. We are also working hard to develop new alliances and to join forces with existing health care plans so that Bon Secours and its medical staff can be an option to all residents of eastern Wayne and Macomb counties.

The plan proposes the creation of a National Health Board that would require all health providers to demonstrate improved health status of the communities they serve. Ultimately, that is the reason Bon Secours exists. In fact, we are currently developing a process to identify the unmet needs of our communities with the goal of improving the overall health status of the people we serve. In the meantime, Bon Secours continues its commitment to education and prevention with one of the most comprehensive community health education programs in the country. A calendar of all of our screenings, seminars and fitness programs is available by calling Community Health Education at 779-7900.

If the President's American Health Security Act is passed, most Americans would be enrolled in regional entities called health alliances, which would offer a range of health plans to members. What we've heard from our publics is that the most important aspect to them is maintaining freedom to choose physicians and hospitals. We whole-heartedly agree. That's why our primary goal over the next year is to become part of a regional health care network to ensure that people who want to choose us as their provider have the opportunity to do so.

The coming months will be a very challenging time as the members of Congress work with all of their constituents to determine the final components of health care reform. At Bon Secours, we will do our best to keep you informed through mass communication and educational seminars. Our first seminar is already scheduled as part of the hospital's 55Plus lecture series. Henry DeVries, Bon Secours' chief executive officer, will address the Implications of Health Care Reform at 7 p.m. on Oct. 4 in the ballroom at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. Call 776-6991 to register. Or you can always ask questions or share concerns about health care reform by dropping a line to Mr. DeVries at Bon Secours, 468 Cadieux Road, Grosse Pointe, Michigan 48230.

The bottom line is no matter how reform changes health care, we want to continue to be the best at meeting the health care needs of our community. We are committed to it. You can count on it.

If the President's plan is passed, most Americans would be enrolled in regional entities called health alliances . . . by collaborating with other local health providers, Bon Secours intends to become part of a regional health care network to ensure that people who want to choose us as their provider have the opportunity to do so.

property and buildings housing the Grosse Pointe school administration and the board of education.

We feel that the board of education should not have granted this extension.

We feel the mayors should not be looking at the home of the Grosse Pointe school system as a site for senior housing. They should be looking elsewhere.

We would like to remind the board of education and the mayors that 5,460 voters signed petitions opposed to the selling of the property and buildings at 389 and 399 St. Clair and to have the administration offices remain at their present location that they not move into Barnes, North and South high schools and build a maintenance garage on the property at Parcels.

We further requested to have this issue placed on the next ballot and let the voters decide.

Don't you, the voters, agree that an issue of such great magnitude and importance and one that will affect the property values, students, parents and taxpayers for many years to come should be on the ballot.

Basic cable and the law

To the Editor:

The new federal law regulating the cable TV business has enough loopholes to enable the cable companies to more than recoup any reductions which may be "passed on to the customer."

The Grosse Pointe Cable Co. insists that the programming for channels 2, 4, 5 and 7 (WJBK, WDIV, WKBD and WXYZ) should be freely available to cable subscribers without the cable company having to pay a fee for their programming. According to the new law, these stations can deny the cable company permission to carry their programming unless a fee is paid. If required, said fees will be passed on to the customer after Oct. 1.

However, on the itemized billing from the cable company, there is a charge of $8.47 for what is shown as "Limited basic." Further, a note of explanation at the bottom of the billing states, "Limited service at $8.47 includes 2-WJBK, 4 WDIV, 6-WXON, 7-WXYZ, 9-CBET/HSN and 12-WTVS."

So, despite the claim that there should be free transmission from the Detroit stations, we the Grosse Pointe Cable customers, are already paying a fee for the programming from these stations. Does this mean that after Oct. 1 we could be paying an additional fee? You bet.

I feel that all subscribers to Grosse Pointe Cable should be made aware of this apparent discrepancy in policy because that was the answer I was given when I called the Grosse Pointe Cable billing office.

Insufferable G.P. Cable

To the Editor:

The old admonition "sock it to me" from the once popular "Laugh In" show on television a few years back might well serve as the motto of Grosse Pointe Cable — after receiving its latest billing.

Despite the purpose of Congress to reduce the inflated charges of cable television, the opposite occurred. There were no reductions for Grosse Pointe Cable users — an admission made by the firm, almost with glee.

The party line was "We are complying with regulations set down by the federal regulators." Strangely enough, a check with other cable services got the same response, which means the cable industry got together and worked out a common response.

I'm sure, too, their lawyers looked for every loophole they could find, another admission by Grosse Pointe Cable when I called and demanded an explanation.

Unlike other cable outlets, Grosse Pointe's system offers the fewest number of channels for some of the highest prices.

Its interruption of services occurs all too frequently. We can understand when a bad storm hits and down trees and electrical wires. But too often there are equipment failures, which means they have shoddy transmission gear and/or incompetent repair crews. I remember once when I inquired why a delay in repair, and was told their repairmen had to come from Mount Clemens — and they had no control over where employees live. Anything to inconvenience the customer!

When there are interruptions, it is extremely difficult to get through to the company. At best, you might reach an answering service which can't tell you what is wrong, but will take your name and phone number, which is a waste since there is never any response or explanation, not even on the inflated billing form. Once my service was out 22 hours, but I was told in no uncertain terms the service had to be down 24 hours to be eligible for any sort of refund.

When I complained about the firm's shortcomings the other day, the billing clerk said she didn't have to listen to my complaint since it wasn't part of the billing procedure, which I cite as a blatant case of arrogance.

Each city has a representative whose only interest seems to be to assure the company of its unconscionable gouging.

Our day will come. The cable industry is having a fit because the various telephone companies have won approval to provide TV cable service over their lines, a move some of us will welcome to provide something now lacking — competition to curb the present insatiable greed.

Also, some of us wouldn't mind paying top dollar if we could just get rid of the insufferable incompetents of the present regime at Grosse Pointe Cable.

James L. Kerwin
Grosse Pointe Park
Cable law and consumers

To the Editor:

The new cable rate law that just went into effect tells the public just who our elected officials in Washington are really representing, and it is not the public who elected them, but the special interest groups, the networks.

It is totally ridiculous that we should have to pay for the major channels if we have cable, when they are, and always have been, free to non-cable subscribers.

It would appear that a simple solution to the problem would be for the cable companies to offer the major channels — 2, 4, 7, 50, etc. — but black out the commercials. This would result in one of two decisions: Either the sponsors would insist on a 30 to 40 percent reduction in their advertising rates due to loss of market, or the sponsors would pressure the major networks to provide their programming free to cable, either way, the consumer is the winner.

Pickpockets strike in grocery aisles

A 73-year-old Grosse Pointe Park resident said he had his pockets picked by two suspicious men while shopping in Krogers on Mack on Sept. 7.

The man said he was approached by the two suspects while in the food aisles. One of the men began asking him questions about a number of products on the shelf, while the other repeatedly brushed against him as he reached for the products.

The routine continued for a few minutes and then the two men mysteriously walked away.

The Park man said when he attempted to pay for his groceries, he discovered $135 had been taken from his pants pocket.

It's not that cold

Grosse Pointe Park police arrested a Detroit man they saw pushing a snow blower across Mack at 1:30 a.m. Sept. 13 after emerging from bushes in the Mack and Balfour area.

After running a criminal background check on the suspect, Park police learned he was wanted on a fugitive warrant by Detroit police. The suspect was turned over to Detroit police but Park police cannot find the rightful owner of the snow blower.

All hands on little creatures

Children 5 and up are encouraged to see for themselves "Little Creatures Need Love" on Saturday, Sept. 25, from 1:30 to 3 p.m. at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial with instructor Dan Briere.

The program will intrigue and inform children about the characteristics and habits of Anyone who has noticed a snow blower missing is urged to call the Grosse Pointe Park Public Safety department at 822-7400, ask for the detective bureau and provide a description of the missing machine.

Park officers help Detroit

Grosse Pointe Park public safety officers on Sept. 1 helped Detroit police capture a motorcycle rider they had been chasing and then lost sight of in the area of Alter and Vernor.

Park officers observed the rider in an alley north of Kercheval, chased him and caught him in the area of Van Dyke and Outer Drive, where the suspect was turned over to Detroit police.

Resident helps find bike thief

A resident in the 1400 block of Beaconsfield in Grosse Pointe Park witnessed the theft of a neighbor's bicycle and immediately called police.

Officers were able to locate the suspect based on the detailed description of the suspect and bicycle given by the witness. The suspect, a 32-year-old Detroit man, was charged with breaking and entering and larceny. He is scheduled to appear in Park municipal court today for a preliminary hearing.

Auto thieves nabbed in Hamtramck

Grosse Pointe Park police believe that a pair of car-theft suspects arrested Sept. 14 in Hamtramck may be responsible for a rash of attempted and successful car thefts on the city's south end.

The two juvenile boys from Detroit were spotted at 1 a.m. Sept. 14 in Hamtramck driving a 1992 Jeep Laredo stolen from the 1300 block of Three Mile Drive. The pair were in the process of stealing another Jeep when Hamtramck police arrived.

In what may be a related incident, a 1992 Ford Explorer was reported stolen from the 500 block of Pemberton on Sept. 16 and recovered by Detroit police on Philip street in Detroit. The vehicle had been partially stripped for parts.

Also, police recovered in Detroit a partially stripped 1993 Ford Crown Victoria that had been stolen from the 700 block of Barrington.

And a resident in the 800 block of Pemberton told police a car alarm scared away car thieves who had punched the door lock of a 1993 Pontiac Bonneville.

Hamtramck police are handling the investigation and pursuing charges against the two suspects.

Park home burglarized

While the resident slept, an unknown intruder broke into a home in the 1400 block of Maryland in Grosse Pointe Park and stole a VCR, television and video games.

The burglar gained entry to the house through an unlocked dining room window.

Resident helps Park police

An alert resident of Grosse Pointe Park called police on Sept. 19 when he saw a grubby-looking man carrying a power mower and edger in the area of Maryland and St. Paul.

When police arrived at the scene, they found the gardening equipment abandoned on the sidewalk and returned it to its rightful owner.

Bike theft averted

Grosse Pointe Park police officers became suspicious when they saw a 31-year-old woman carrying a girls' bicycle through an alley in the 1000 block of Lakepointe at 9 a.m. Sept. 15.

Officers questioned the woman as to what she was doing with the bike. When the woman could not identify the bike as her own, police confiscated it and held it until it was reported stolen the following day.

Park police are seeking an arrest warrant against the woman.

Dryer burns in Park home

Firefighters extinguished a fire Sept. 16 at a home in the 1400 block of Lakepointe when a clogged vent caused a clothes dryer to overheat and catch on fire.

No injuries were reported and damage was limited to the dryer, which was destroyed by fire.

Grosse Pointe Park public safety detective Lt. David Hiller reminded all homeowners to periodically check dryer vents for lint clogs which typically collect in vent pipe bends.

By disconnecting sections of the pipe and using an industrial-type vacuum, lint can be removed. The same periodic maintenance should be given to the area under the refrigerator and under the water heater, places where excess dust and lint can easily ignite.

Inline race at Belle Isle

Some of the Midwest's top inline speedskaters will compete in the Roces/American Airlines Michigan State Championships on Saturday, Sept. 25, at Belle Isle.

The race is the last in the City Rollers Inline Grand Prix Series. There will be a 10-kilometer experienced division and a 5K novice race. Tim Swift of Team Rollerblade will attempt to win the inline triple crown after winning the first two stages of the Grand Prix series — the Can-Am Cup in April and the regional championship in July.

Spectators and novice racers are eligible to win a pair of airline tickets and they can attend a free barbecue party after the race.

Bikes, Blades and Boards, located at the corner of Mack and Cadieux in Grosse Pointe Park, will provide spectators with free demo skates.

Late registration begins at 7 a.m. and closes 30 minutes before the start of each race. The 5K novice race starts at 8:30 a.m. and the 10K experienced event begins at 9.

Improvement continues for South's gridders

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

The Grosse Pointe South football team that will face Romeo in the school's first home night contest Friday isn't the same squad that opened the season with a 34-0 loss to Rochester.

"We've improved 1,000 percent since the Mott game and in the Mott game we improved 1,000 percent over Rochester," said Blue Devils' coach Mike McLeod after South held on for a 28-26 victory over Sterling Heights last Friday in a Macomb Area Conference crossover contest. The victory gave South a 2-1 record.

"Our blocking is getting better," McLeod said. "We're not an I-formation team. That's asking our linemen to hold the blocks too long. We do have the ability to come off the ball quickly and that's what we've been doing."

The Blue Devils showed much more effectiveness in running the ball against the Stallions as they rushed for more than 200 yards after picking up only 19 on the ground against Mott the week before. Corey Geer, Peter Mertz, Bob Kazma and John Wortman each made significant contributions to the ground attack, while junior quarterback Todd Drake had another fine game. Drake completed 12 of 21 passes for 239 yards and two touchdowns.

Ryan McCartney's 53-yard counter up the middle in the fourth quarter, along with Mike Hendrie's fourth extra point turned out to be the difference for South. Sterling Heights scored with 25 seconds left and Geer led the charge in stopping quarterback Vito Fazalera's try for the two-point conversion that would have tied the game.

"We swarmed him, just like we did when they tried for two in the third quarter," McLeod said. "We knew they were going to run the veer at us."

The two teams traded touchdowns throughout the game. Browe Merriweather hauled in a seven-yard scoring strike from Drake in the first quarter and Kazma scored on a four-yard run in the second.

McCartney scored the first of his two touchdowns on a pass from Drake in the third quarter. He had five receptions for 100 yards.

Although South yielded 35 points, McLeod was pleased with the effort of his defense.

"Except for the big play, I thought we played well on defense," he said. "Their quarterback is a magician in running the veer. That's a tough offense to simulate in practice. It's difficult to see game-like situations when you don't run that yourself."

Wortman had his second straight outstanding game at linebacker, while defensive linemen Hendrie, Tyler Brown-scombe, Dan Fortune, Dave Misch, Brian McCluskey, Eric Dahlstrom and Jesus Graham also played well, collecting four sacks and two knockdowns of Stallion passes.

"At the end of the first half we stopped them with a first down inside our five," McLeod said. "Twenty-six points weren't indicative of how our defense played."

McLeod praised his entire staff, and particularly offensive coordinator Pat Schaldenbrand, who devised the game plan.

"It was a pivotal game for us and they all spent a lot of hours in preparation," he said.

Knights break into top 10

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

University Liggett School's girls basketball team had a history-making experience last week.

"We won the (Ann Arbor) Greenhills tournament for the first time and we moved into the state ratings for the first time," said new coach Mike Brozowski.

The Lady Knights started the tournament with a 49-27 romp over Allen Park Inter-City Baptist and finished with a 51-43 triumph over the host team, which came into the weekend ranked ninth in Class D.

Magda Chojnacka led the way against Inter-City Baptist with 21 points and Julianne Grant dished out 16 assists. ULS received strong defensive play from forwards Stacey Corbin and Sarah Burnham and center Sarah Childs.

Grant went from playmaker to scorer in the Greenhills contest, pouring in 20 points.

"She's always scored more against the better teams," Brozowski said. "Against the weaker teams, she loves to pass the ball and set up her teammates, but when it's a big game and the pass isn't there, she steps up and scores her points."

Cousino's Paul Van Sickle trips up Grosse Pointe North tailback Eric Peters after a long gain in last weekend's Macomb Area Conference Blue Division football game. The Norsemen dropped their third game 21-19. The three defeats have come by a total margin of 17 points.

Turnovers have bitter taste for North

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Turnovers are fine when they top off a meal and are filled with cherries, apples or blueberries, but excuse Grosse Pointe North's football team if it doesn't order them for dessert anytime soon.

The Norsemen have had their fill of turnovers for a while — the kind that loses football games.

"We've had nine turnovers in our three games this season and most of them have been costly," said North coach Frank Sumbera after Cousino edged his team 21-19 in its Macomb Area Conference Blue Division opener last Saturday.

"We could be 3-0, but instead we're 0-3. We're not playing that badly, but we're having trouble getting into the end zone. If we can't do it with the run we have to do it with an air attack."

While the Norsemen have lost the ball nine times, they've benefitted from opponents' turnovers on only three occasions.

"We're in a tizzy," Sumbera said. "It's time for a gut check and we need it now."

North visits L'Anse Creuse on Saturday and the 2-1 Lancers provide a formidable opponent.

"They have good size up front," Sumbera said. "They're more geared to a running game this year than they were last

L'Anse Creuse's ground attack is paced by 6-foot-2, 180-pound Pat Murphy.

Cousino jumped ahead on the second play of the game when Brian Mendell raced 55 yards for a touchdown. North's first series produced a 29-yard touchdown run by Steve Meathe, but the Norsemen's extra-point attempt was blocked, leaving the Patriots ahead 7-6.

"That missed extra point doomed us for the whole game," Sumbera said. "It forced us to try for a two-pointer the next time we scored and it gave them a lift by keeping them ahead."

Late in the first quarter, Cousino intercepted a North pass and returned to the 20, where a personal foul penalty against the Norsemen gave the Patriots a first down at the nine. Mendell scored on the next play.

North drove to Cousino's six on its next possession, but was stopped on downs. The Norsemen got the ball back, but the Patriots' Jim Candela then picked off a pass and returned it 27 yards for a touchdown and a 21-6 lead.

North marched to the Cousino 10 on its first possession of the second half, but was stopped on a fourth-down play.

The ball finally bounced right for the Norsemen when Cousino got a bad snap on a punt attempt and Tom Fennell grabbed the ball on the four. It squirted away from him, but he regained possession in the end zone for a touchdown. North tried for a two-point conversion, but the pass fell incomplete.

A third interception stalled a North drive in the third quarter. The Norsemen got the ball back with 4 1/2 minutes left in the game and drove from their own 36 to score with less than a minute to play on Emmett DeGuvera's eight-yard pass to Rob McLeod. Mark Brewster kicked the extra point.

North's Brandon Hacias recovered an onside kick at the Cousino 45 with 24 seconds to go, but the Norsemen failed to get in field-goal range before time expired.

North had several fine performances in the defeat. Hacias led the defense with 12 tackles from his linebacker position, Dan Vormelker made nine tackles and Dave Pierno had a good game at tackle with seven stops.

The Norsemen's passing game got a boost from Nate Freska, who had four receptions.

North had 143 yards rushing, with Eric Peters picking up 75 in 17 carries and Meathe gaining 61 yards in nine attempts. The Norsemen had 81 yards passing. Cousino had 164 yards rushing and only 14 pass-

North's press is impressive

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Roseville got a first-hand look at what's been making life miserable for Grosse Pointe North's girls basketball opponents for years.

"They didn't like our pressure," said coach Gary Bennett after the Lady Norsemen beat the Panthers 48-43 for their second straight victory. "We came out playing excellent defense right from the start and it bothered them. We're not as quick as we were last year, but we've been making up for it by playing together very well."

North led 14-6 after the first quarter and kept Roseville in single digits until late in the first half when the Panthers cut the deficit to 25-15 at the intermission.

"We also did a good job on the boards," Bennett said. "Roseville has two good players over 6-feet, but we got some offensive rebounds and we didn't give them a lot of second shots. It was just a matter of our kids making the extra effort. This was a big win for us. Roseville is one of the better upper division (Macomb Area Conference Red) teams."

Kristen Locher gave the Lady Norsemen some unexpected long-range shooting as she hit four three-point goals

ULS booters bounce back from opening loss

By Chuck Klonek
Sports Editor

A 2-1 loss to Oakland Christian was like an alarm clock for the University Liggett School soccer team.

"It was a good wakeup call for us," said coach David Backhurst, after his team bounced back with three wins and a tie in its next four outings. "We might have been looking beyond that game and then when we scored in the first minute our heads really got big."

Pat Moltane scored the Knights' goal on a cross from the left flank by Eric Lindauer, but that was the extend of ULS' offense. Oakland Christian tied the game late in the first half and scored the winner with about 15 minutes remaining in the match.

The Knights came back with a 1-1 tie with Metro Conference rival Lutheran North, then beat Lutheran Westland 4-0, Lutheran East 7-0 and capped a productive week with a 3-1 triumph over Lutheran Northwest.

ULS fell behind early against Northwest, which beat the Knights twice during the league season in 1992.

"They scored in the first minute but I told the kids there was no need to panic," Backhurst said. "I thought they might think it was easy, just like we did against Oakland Christian."

Six minutes later, Matt Spicer tied the score. Then freshman Berc Backhurst put the Knights ahead to stay when he converted a crossing pass from Omar Sawaf 27 minutes into the first half. Spicer added his second of the game with about a minute to play in the half.

ULS held a 26-5 edge in shots, but sophomore goalie Ian McMillan, who has played well in place of the injured Chris Adamo, made a key save on a free kick in the second half.

"It was a cannon shot and he got his hand up and deflected it over the net," David Backhurst said.

ULS got steady defensive play from Tom Simmonds, Scott Lanzon and Mike Gressman.

"The offense was a little slow coming around the first two games, but the defense came together a little faster," Backhurst said. "Now people understand their roles and know what the offensive game plan is."

Earlier, Lutheran North took a 1-0 lead seven minutes into the second half, but Spicer headed in the tying goal off a corner kick about six minutes later.

"It was a very even game," Backhurst said. "Our sweeper, Simmonds, and McMillan each had big games."

Sawaf scored ULS' first two goals against Lutheran Westland, while Peter Anthony Brown and Simmonds notched the others. The Knights had another strong defensive effort keyed by Simmonds and Chris Corneau.

ULS built a 5-0 halftime lead against Lutheran East with Spicer scoring three times in the first 17 minutes before leaving the game to rest an injured leg.

Moltane scored twice and Henry Ackerman and Frank Tymrak added a goal apiece for the Knights, who outshot the Eagles 27-3.

South comeback beats Shorians

By Chuck Klonek
Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe South's soccer team's staying its act together just long enough to do some damage in the Macomb Area Conference White Division.

When it came a matter of minutes, North's Scott Spicer was the hero. Spicer scored twice in the second half to lead the Blue Devils to a 2-1 victory over the Lady Devils. Spicer's goals were the result of a cross from Matt Spicer and a header from Spicer. Spicer's second goal was the result of a cross from Spicer. Spicer's third goal was the result of a cross from Spicer. Spicer's fourth goal was the result of a cross from Spicer.

sacar after a pass from Tim Reynaert to cut the Shorians' lead to 2-1.

Reynaert tied the game on a penalty kick nine minutes into the second half and Karl Davids put the Blue Devils ahead to stay about eight minutes later in an unassisted goal. Lake Shore's goalkeeper and a defender each went for the ball and they fell into a heap along with Davids.

The ball just sat there and any of the three could have gotten it but Karl went after it and kicked it in just under the crossbar," Christensen said. "It was good determination on his part."

Messacar sealed the victory with a goal from Reynaert with 15 minutes to play.

South got an excellent defensive performance from Andy Ostrowski, who marked the Shorians' Bruce Conlan and kept him from doing serious damage to the Blue Devils.

"Scoring just before the half was a big lift for us because the kids knew they didn't have as big a mountain to climb," Christensen said. "Then when we tied the game, Lake Shore went helter-skelter."

Earlier, South beat Warren-Mott 3-0 and played a 3-3 tie with Romeo.

Paul Long, Messacar and Davids scored for the Blue Devils.

against the Marauders. In that contest, Christensen started sophomores Long and Jeff Case and freshman Mac Nutter and all three played well.

The game with Romeo was a back-and-forth battle with each team answering the other's scoring plays.

Davids opened the scoring off a cross from Joe Dragovich 14 minutes into the game, but the Bulldogs tied the game less than two minutes later. South regained the lead with two minutes left in the half when Davids headed in a pass from Jake Howlett, but Romeo got the equalizer in the final minute of the half.

Romeo took the lead early in the second half, but Reynaert tied the game with about 15 minutes to go on a free kick from 25 yards out.

"Romeo has an exchange student from Norway and he was a big factor in the game," Christensen said. "He scored two goals and set up their third. He scored nine of their first 12 this year."

South had some excellent chances to win the game in the final 15 minutes.

"We really put the pressure on," Christensen said. "We hit a couple posts and their keeper made a couple reflex saves. It was the best soccer we'd played to that time."

North's soccer foes have a blank look

By Chuck Klonek
Sports Editor

The breathers are over for Grosse Pointe North's soccer team.

There aren't likely to be any more 9-0 or 5-0 victories for a while.

"We're going into a crucial week," said coach Guido Regelbrugge after the Norsemen beat Utica 9-0 and posted a 5-0 triumph over Warren-Mott in Macomb Area Conference White Division games to improve to 4-1 overall.

"We play (Grosse Pointe) South, Romeo, Lake Shore and Anchor Bay in our next four games and any of them can give us trouble if we don't play well. We'll know how we stand when we finish this stretch of games."

North played an excellent game against Utica.

"(Utica) is a much better team than they were a year ago," Regelbrugge said. "They're not as bad as we made them look. Everyone on our team played well."

Gus Ramos led the offensive attack with three goals and Nick Vercruyse scored two. Scott Semple, Mike McHugh, Steve Chevalier and Jeff Barlow added a goal apiece for the Norsemen.

North got off to a fast start against Mott, struggled a bit late in the first half, but recovered to play better in the second half.

"We scored on virtually the first play of the game and I think that might have sent the wrong message to our team," Regelbrugge said. "After that we felt we could just stand around and watch and any team looks good when you just watch them. They dominated the last 20 minutes of the first half, but we did better in the second half."

North, which got three goals from Vercruyse and two from McHugh, held a 2-0 halftime lead.

Lady Devils conquer tough course

Grosse Pointe South's girls cross country team shut out its first two dual-meet opponents and finished second in Chippewa Valley in the tough De La Salle Invitational.

South took 17 of the top 20 places, including the first six, in the combined meet with Anchor Bay and Fraser, beating both Macomb Area Conference White Division rivals 15-50.

Katie Weed, Aimee Vasse and Rachel O'Byrne crossed the finish line together to lead the Lady Devils.

Vasse and Weed finished in the top five at the De La Salle meet. Vasse was second to Sterling Heights Stevenson's two-time state champion Christy Goodison in 21:12. It was the fourth-best performance ever on the tough Stony Creek course.

Goodison set a meet record in 19:59. Weed was fifth overall in 21:27 and had the eighth-best time ever recorded at Stony Creek. Freshman Kate Crowley was 18th for South and O'Byrne, who was 20th, and Laura Stuckey, who was 28th, also earned medals.

While South was nine points behind Chippewa Valley, which had 64 points, the Lady Devils finished ahead of Stevenson, Shelby Township Eisenhower and Redford Union. The Lady Devils dominated the junior varsity race, taking seven of the first 15 places.

Freshmen Sandra Hammel and Dayna Bourbeau and sophomore Stephanie Keim gave South a 1-2-3 finish in the JV race. Other medalists were Dara O'Byrne, sixth; Darby Brownscombe, 13th; Yvonne Krywyj, 14th; and Mary Ronan, 15th. Season-best performances were turned in by South's Becky Padilla, Monika Zielinski and Carolyn Stars.

Scoring slump straps South

By Chuck Klonek
Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe South's girls basketball team is doing everything right except for putting the ball in the basket. Unfortunately, that can be crucial to winning games.

Last week's 38-30 loss to Chippewa Valley typified the shooting woes that have plagued the Lady Devils this season.

"We shot 19 percent," said coach Peggy VanEckoute. "We had to shoot from outside because (6-foot-6 Michelle Van Gorp) was blocking everything inside. I can't be displeased with the way we've played."

Hoops

The Lady Knights followed their tournament triumph with a 45-34 victory over South Lake. Grant had 15 points and Chojnacka tossed in 10. Jamila Hoard had eight points and six rebounds for ULS.

"We were all a little nervous at the start of the game, because this was the first time we've been rated in the top 10 in the state," Brozowski said.

The Lady Knights started slowly and trailed 8-3 at the end of the first quarter, but they began pressing in the second period and outscored the Cavaliers 21-4 to lead 24-11 at halftime.

ULS closed out the week with a 36-33 loss to Bloomfield Hills Roeper.

The Lady Knights held an 11-4 advantage after the first quarter, but couldn't sustain it.

"It was a Friday night game and I think the girls were just tired," Brozowski said. "We had a lot of turnovers and when we tried to pass for the fast break, we seemed a half-second slow."

Grant led ULS with 21 points.

The Lady Knights opened the season with a heartbreaking 33-32 loss to an experienced Lakeview squad. The Huskies hit two free throws with two seconds remaining for their winning points.

Chojnacka led ULS with nine points and Grant tossed in eight.

We're doing all the right things. If we could have shot better, we'd have beaten Chippewa because we outplayed them."

South led the Big Reds 17-14 at halftime, but Chippewa Valley moved ahead 26-23 after three quarters and stretched the lead to 11 points with 3:44 remaining in the game.

Katy Leins and Shannon McGratty led South with six points apiece. Katy Lupu added five points and grabbed eight rebounds.

"Amanda Defever did a wonderful job defensively on Van Gorp," VanEckoute said. "She was giving away at least six inches to her and held her to 20 points and made her work for them."

The Lady Devils picked up their first victory earlier in the week when they beat Mount Clemens 46-43 in overtime.

McGratty scored 19 points, including three in the extra period, and pulled down 15 rebounds. Becky Soltis had six points and 10 rebounds, while Lupu had four assists and four steals in a fine all-around performance.

South led 17-15 at halftime, but each team took turns making runs in the second half. The Lady Devils had a chance to win in regulation, but couldn't hit the basket.

"We're starting two sophomores and three juniors and Shannon is the only returning starter," VanEckoute said. "Last year we could count on Angela (Drake) and Stephanie (Coddens) to take care of the scoring, but now we have to find people who'll step up and put the ball in the hoop. Shannon has tried, but that puts a lot of pressure on her."

"We're not going to panic. I knew it would take time. As long as we keep doing the other things right, the scoring will come. We're young and we're going to keep improving."

South opened the season with a pair of defeats in the Regina Invitational. The Lady Devils lost 47-23 to the Saddletes in the opener. McGratty led the way with six points and four rebounds.

with a 60-39 victory. McGratty had 11 points, 10 rebounds and five steals for South, while Lupu had six points, four rebounds, five assists and five steals.

on the way to an 18-point performance that included four steals and a pair of assists.

"I know those are the first three-pointers Kristen has hit in a game. I don't remember that she's ever taken one before. But whenever she hit one from the top of the key, it gave us a big lift," Bennett said.

Sue Karber scored 10 points and had 11 rebounds, while Maureen Zolik collected 10 points, three assists and three steals. Keri Muccioli had four assists.

"Maureen played nearly the whole game, handled the ball all the time and had only one turnover," Bennett said. "Keri does a nice job of helping us spread out the floor a little more. It might not always look like it from the final statistics, but she has a big effect on the game."

North also got strong performances off the bench from Jennifer Champine, Tanya Hamilton and Erin Schneider.

North led by as many as 13 points in the second half, but Roseville was able to cut into the lead when the Norsemen made only six of 15 free-throw attempts.

Earlier, North picked up its first victory of the season by rolling past Port Huron Northern 50-29.

The Lady Norsemen led 24-11 at halftime and went on a 16-0 run during the first three minutes of the second half.

"The second-half starters — Zolik, Karber, Locher, Muccioli and Lindsay Mergos — did a great job on defense to help us put the game away," Bennett said.

Karber led North's scoring with 16 points, while Zolik ran the offense well and played strong defense. Champine came off the bench to hit a couple key buckets in the first half and played solid defense.

Phantoms are first

The Grosse Pointe Soccer Association Phantoms began their season on a high note as they took first place in the Romeo Peach Festival Under-12 Division I tournament.

The Phantoms beat the Lapeer Steelers 3-1 in the championship game. They qualified for the final with victories over the Rochester Shockerz (2-0), the Brandon Hawks (5-0) and the Clawson Strikers (1-0) and a scoreless tie with the Steelers. In the Clawson game, Eric Krauss scored the only goal on a pass from Mike Tymrak with less than a minute remaining.

Jason Coffman led Grosse Pointe with five goals in the tournament, Ken Potenga had three and Nick Rotondo, Krauss and Steve Buhalis added one apiece. Beth Howson had three assists; Potenga, John Schott and Tymrak each collected two; and Mark Gotfredson and Matt Lapish added an assist apiece.

The Phantoms were sparked by the excellent defensive play of fullbacks Brad Drummy, Justin Schoenherr and Aaron Campbell, goalies Lapish and Krauss and midfielder Adam Budday as they allowed only one goal, which came on a penalty shot.

South is fourth

Two flight champions in doubles gave Grosse Pointe South fourth place, while Grosse Pointe North finished tied for fifth last weekend in the girls tennis tournament hosted by the Lady Norsemen.

"We're both rebuilding this year," said North coach Karen Cooksey of the cross-town rivals. "We always have a strong field in this tournament. That's why teams like playing in it."

Ann Arbor Pioneer took first place with 31 points by defeating Birmingham Seaholm, which was second with 28, in a head-to-head battle in the finals. Rochester Adams had 26 points, followed by South with 18, North and Troy 10, Birmingham Groves eight and Ann Arbor Huron seven. South's No. 2 doubles team of Missy Kordas and Robin Wheeler won its flight by defeating Adams in the finals. The Lady Devils' No. 4 doubles team of Tracey Summers and Katie Pine beat Seaholm in the championship match.

North's best performances came from Liz Norris, who was runner-up in No. 4 singles, losing to a Pioneer player in the final, and from the No. 2 doubles team of Kelly Bernhardt and Heather Hollidge, which beat Pioneer 7-6, 6-3 in the consolation final to take third place. The only loss for Bernhardt and Hollidge came in a three-setter with South's Kordas and Wheeler.

"Liz is a senior who played JV last year," Cooksey said. "She had been playing doubles before the tournament. The thing I like about her is that she works so hard in every match."

Red Barons ground the Jets

The Grosse Pointe Red Barons built a two-touchdown lead last Sunday, then made key plays on each side of the line of scrimmage to hold on for a 12-7 victory over the Warren Jets.

The little league football team's junior varsity squad rolled to a 40-12 victory over Warren, while the freshman team lost 14-12.

In the varsity contest, Grosse Pointe took a 6-0 lead in the second quarter, mounting a sustained drive after Danny Griesbaum recovered a fumble on the Warren 40-yard line. Loyd Gentry scored the touchdown on a one-yard plunge.

Late in the quarter, Charlie Ingrassia tipped a Warren punt that was then snared by an alert Ricky Pesta on the Jets' 23, setting up another scoring opportunity. But after quarterback Jimmy Louisell completed a 17-yard pass to J.J. Kinkel, time ran out before the Red Barons could run another play.

After a scoreless third quarter, Grosse Pointe stopped Warren near midfield on key tackles by Bronson Gentry, Jack Lucido and Joe Slavik. Five plays later, after another Louisell-to-Kinkel pass, Loyd Gentry broke loose on a 52-yard touchdown run, giving the Red Barons a 12-0 lead.

The Jets weren't beaten yet. They scored a touchdown and an extra point with less than three minutes left in the game, then pinned Grosse Pointe deep in its own territory after the kickoff.

On fourth down, Louisell completed a 25-yard pass to Kinkel for a first down with less than 30 seconds remaining to preserve the victory. Louisell's other completion was to end Donnie Liamini.

Ingrassia had 12 tackles and Lucido made eight. The Red Barons also had tackles from Ted Swarthout, T.J. Mooney, Mike O'Sullivan, Martin Harms, Greg Grosfield, Larry Selvaggi and Rory Cleary. Andrew Hendrie did the kicking.

The junior varsity was led by Josh Lorence, whose four touchdowns included runs of 50 and 20 yards. The other scores weren't a 30-yard pass from quarterback Andy Hill to Eddie Ahee.

Jeremy Linne and Eric Nichols also ran well behind the blocking of linemen Mike Cataldo, Josh McEachern, Mike Schumacker, Don Northey, Andy Delmege, Jeff Tiede, Ray Andary and Andy Stevens.

The Red Barons had fumble recoveries from Tom Davis, Brian Krall, Pete Paterek and Clark Peters. P.J. Moir and Brandon DeGuvera each forced a fumble. Dean Cataldo, Justin Urso, Eric Dunlap, Devon Peters, Tyler Mathews and J.T. Laga made tackles for Grosse Pointe.

In the freshman game, K.C. Cleary got two second-half touchdowns, the last with 30 seconds left, but the Red Barons failed on each of their extra point attempts.

Grosse Pointe had good blocking from linemen Steven Rhodes, Larry Feola, Robbie Crandall and Romel Askew, along with back Steve Rusko.

Ryan Kelly intercepted a pass, while Steve Marone and Scott Schaft made key tackles. Brian Malloy and Maggie Dillon also played well on defense.

Lady Knights are doubles trouble

Excellent doubles play has been one of the keys to University Liggett School's success in girls tennis this year.

Doubles teams notched victories in each of the Lady Knights' three meets last week and the No. 3 doubles team of juniors Anne Petz and Laura Somogyi has a 5-0 record in dual competition.

"This is the first time they've played together," said ULS coach Sarah Mayer. "They really communicate well on the court and enjoy playing as a team."

Somogyi, a transfer from Star of the Sea, and Petz came back from a 6-0 loss in the first set to beat Cranbrook Kingswood's third doubles team 7-6, 6-4 in the last two sets of the Aardvarks' 6-2 victory over ULS. The Lady Knights' other victory came from sophomore Rachel Calderon, who beat Jerilyn Jareunpoon 6-4, 6-3 in third singles.

"Kingswood has an excellent team," Mayer said. "Their first three singles players are super."

The highlight of ULS' week was a 5-3 victory over Toledo Notre Dame, which had lost only once in eight previous matches. Calderon won 6-2, 1-6, 6-4 in third singles and freshman Natalie Levy posted a 3-6, 6-1, 6-1 win in No. 4 singles.

"Calderon's consistency and steadiness played an important role in her match," Mayer said.

ULS' No. 2 doubles team of freshman Katy Spicer and junior Dena Wright dominated the net to win 6-7, 6-4, 6-4. Petz and Somogyi took a 6-2, 6-4 victory and the No. 4 doubles team of freshman Dana Howbert and junior Erica Denham won 6-2, 6-7, 6-4.

ULS wound up the week's action with a 6-2 victory at Birmingham Marian. The highlight of that match was a 6-1, 7-5 victory by the No. 1 doubles team of Allison Ridder and Nicky Dalal.

"They're improving with every match," Mayer said. "They've learned that the game of doubles is won at the net."

Junior co-captain Kelli Haarz played well, despite losing 6-0, 6-2 to Marian's Courtney Johns in first singles.

"Haarz is trying her best to compete with all the strong No. 1 singles players she faces," Mayer said. "Despite her loss in this match and in others, she is playing well and competing with great sportsmanship."

ULS hosts Grosse Pointe North today, Sept. 23, and plays Saturday in the East Grand Rapids Invitational.

Fourth quarter is ULS' downfall

By John Miskelly
Special Writer

Lutheran North and University Liggett School battled on even terms through three quarters last week before the visiting Mustangs landed the decisive blow and marched to a 21-6 victory in the Metro Conference football game.

The defeat dropped the Knights to 0-3, but coach Bob Newvine can see progress.

"We see the improvement," he said. "Things are coming together."

Hamtramck visits ULS for a game Friday at 4:15 p.m. The Cosmos are coming off a 22-12 victory over Lutheran East, which equaled their win total from 1992.

"This league goes up and down," Newvine said.

He doesn't expect any surprises from Hamtramck.

"They'll run it down your throat," Newvine said.

Junior running back Ken Talton leads the Cosmos' offense. He had 55 yards and one touchdown against East. He's joined in the backfield by senior fullback Lek Dedvukaj.

ULS scored first in the game with Lutheran North. Jaavon Kuykindall intercepted a pass and returned it 75 yards for a touchdown with 2:15 left in the first quarter.

It took only 19 seconds for the Mustangs to take the lead on a 38-yard pass from Scott Carden to Kyle Simmons. The extra point gave North a 7-6 lead.

The Knights' ground game controlled the first half and ULS outrushed the Mustangs 95-38 for the game. Offensive linemen Brent Jahnke and John Skinner opened huge holes on the left side for Kuykindall, who had 73 yards in 26 carries.

A battle within a battle was between 6-foot-3, 290-pound lineman Andrew Partridge of ULS and 6-5, 255-pound Marty Hage of Lutheran North. The two faced each other all game, with neither gaining the upper hand.

North's passing game got rolling in the second half, while the Knights' air attack was grounded.

"We have to improve our passing," Newvine said. "We need to keep Brian (Legree) in the pocket more."

The Mustangs fumbled at the ULS 11 early in the third quarter, but the Knights returned the favor in the fourth quarter and North recovered at the ULS 28. Moments later, Carden and Simmons connected on a 28-yard touchdown pass.

Carden threw his third scoring strike with 41 seconds left in the contest.

South tops MAC foes

Grosse Pointe South's boys cross country team has been running so well this year, it was something of a disappointment when the Blue Devils finished fifth at the De La Salle Invitational.

"We came down to earth in that meet," said coach Tom Wise. "It's always been a tough course for us, even though we train for it, and I think some of the guys might have been a little psyched out. We had a few kids come up sick and injured. But even with our full lineup, I don't think we'd have finished much higher than fourth."

Wise was happiest with the performance of sophomore Nat Spurr, who earned a medal by finishing 25th in 18:49.

"He moved up to our No. 3 man," Wise said. "It looks like he's really ready to make his move."

Another sophomore, Tim Nicholson, was South's first runner across the line, finishing 20th in 18:39. Matt Debski was 23rd in 18:45. Rounding out South's scoring were Ben Butler and Chris Alf.

De La Salle won Division II with 39 points. Sterling Heights Stevenson was second with 68, followed by Rochester 112, Redford Union 129 and South 142.

Chris Johnson ran well for South in the junior varsity meet, finishing seventh in 19:23.

Earlier, the Blue Devils opened the Macomb Area Conference White Division season with a 17-46 victory over Fraser and a 15-50 shutout of Anchor Bay.

"We thought they would be our toughest competition in the league because they made the best showing at Algonac a week ago," Wise said. "Now Utica is the only unknown we face in our division."

Nicholson was first for South in 18:14, while Adam Rhodes finished second and Butler took third place. Alf, Debski, Jon Van Hoek and Spurr rounded out the Blue Devils' top seven.

"The difference between our first and seventh runners was only 12 seconds, our best effort in running together," Wise said.

North alumni invited to celebrate 25th year

By Margie Reins Smith
Feature Editor

Memo to all 12,541 Grosse Pointe North High School graduates:

Come back. Bring your spouses; your kids; your memories.

A bunch of North alumni have organized a combination all-class reunion and 25th anniversary celebration on the weekend of North's homecoming: Friday and Saturday, Oct. 15 and 16.

Committee members are urging alums to stir up some old memories.

Like ... the time the class of 1975 cleaned out local Kroger's and Farmer Jack stores of flour, preparing for a gigantic flour fight.

"Mr. Cooper got wind of our plans and marched up and down senior hall confiscating bags of flour," said a '75 alum. "He sidetracked our big plans. The flour fight wasn't nearly as spectacular as we intended."

Like ... the time the class of 1976 filled the courtyard with water, which froze solid during the night.

Bob Bashara, class of '76, invites graduates to bring their children to see the display of basketball, football and band uniforms from the 70s and 80s; majorette hats and football helmets; the original floor plan of the school; team photos; sweatshirts; photos of former teachers; yellowed Northpoints (school

The display includes a collection of old campaign materials: "Karyn Painter for treasurer," "Lipstick with Lipson for Parliamentarian" (sic), "Don't be on the Hook, vote for Brook for treasurer."

The room and the whole school will be open for tours on Saturday afternoon of the homecoming weekend.

"We want to celebrate the fact that we're a close, active community," Bashara said, "and we want to celebrate the continuing prosperity of a fine learning institution."

The committee has planned an alumni dance and auction from 7 to 11 p.m. Friday, Oct. 15, in the cafeteria.

and the community are all invited to dance to the music of a DJ, bid on auction items and renew old friendships. Tickets are $5 and will be sold at the door.

North's choir will sponsor a pancake breakfast from 8 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. on Saturday, before the homecoming game. Alumni and students are invited. Proceeds will help finance the choir's European trip.

After the parade Saturday morning, alumni and their families can participate in a family fun day on North's practice field. A $3 ticket includes the football game and the fair, which will feature jugglers, clowns, a moon walk, cotton candy, popcorn, carmel apples, a barbershop quartet, a bake sale, a demonstration of the community's fire-fighting equipment and more.

"The fair was designed especially for alums and people with young families," Bashara said. "I want to emphasize that it's a community event, however. This school is part of the community."

The whole school — and the alumni room — will be spiffed up for tours from 3:30 to 5 p.m. Saturday.

"Alumni can come back and show their kids where they went to school," Bashara said.

The committee raised money for the celebration by holding a car wash several weeks ago. Ticket sales, donations and the sale of 2 1/2- by 2 1/2-foot message boards will help finance the rest of the weekend.

Bashara said he hopes donations can be used to finish the Commons area in the school.

"Our main goal is to have fun. Our secondary goal is to celebrate Grosse Pointe North High School's 25th anniversary. We also hope to raise $15,000 for the Commons area."

Committee members include Bashara, Jim and Janet Hammer Fisher, Stacey Merideth Fischer, Steve Knowlton, Carol Sobieski Kelly, Patty Ford Rugiero, Margaret Sobieski and Nancy Grady Hames.

To order a sign, to donate memorabilia for the alumni room, to donate an item for the Friday night auction, or to find out more about the 25th anniversary celebration for North High School, call Bashara at 824-2010.

HAVE A PLEASANT TRY AT PERFECTION BRIDGE BY WOODY BOYD ♠♥♦♣

You cannot define talent; all you can do is build a greenhouse and see if it grows. - Anonymous

Three years ago, "Womens Daily," one of our more popular national magazines said there were more than 33 million active bridge players (who played at least once a week) in North America. The American Contract Bridge League has some 400,000 members who play duplicate in club games, sectionals, regionals and national tournaments. There are a couple of smaller associations like the ABA, but most of this game's play (party bridge) is among family and friends. We have eight duplicate games on the east side which generate some 140 tables of play each week. At-home play may be 10 or 12 times greater.

One of Grosse Pointe's oldest and most eclated party bridge games is Judy McMullin's Win Malchie Charity Bridge Marathon comprising a couple dozen of our loveliest fair ladies who play for fun and to support The Children's Home of Detroit. I'm not sure whether your ancestors had to come over on the Mayflower to be eligible for this game's roster, but I know the play is above average, the competition is considerable and attrition is minimal; therefore the same women have been playing for many years.

One among them is my dear friend Emily Turner who's been a mainstay of the game since her move from Lake Forest 46 years ago. Unlike the duplicate troops who fortify their bidding style with a gallery of gadgets, this practical group sticks pretty much to the Stayman and Blackwood conventions and the simplicity doesn't seem to affect their technique adversely.

A fortnight or so ago, Emily gave me a hand she had played from their marathon that immediately became destined to appear here. She was sure I wouldn't like the bidding. "We keep it simple," she said.

But I found it quite adequate under such competitive pressure. It was typically conflictive and East/West have an excellent save even at the seven level and considering the vulnerability. "I got to the unmakeable spade slam, but the defense faltered and allowed me to succeed," Emily said.

I asked Emily to explain her play. "As you can see I had a club and a heart loser and there was nothing I could do but play my high cards and hope the defense made a mistake and discarded a winner. I trumped West's club queen continuation at trick (2) and played three rounds of spades ending in my hand. At trick (6) I played the ace, then the king of diamonds. At trick (8) thru (10) I played two more spades and the heart king. At (11), West goofed by playing the heart jack on my last spade." Here is a diagram of the position at trick (11):

The preceding diagram reflects what actually happened. West didn't goof. Emily has her in a squeeze when she plays her last spade six. If West discards the club ace, dummy's heart ace and club jack would win trick (12) and (13) and if West throws the heart jack, Emily throws dummy's club jack and the heart ace, nine wins the last two tricks. You see, West had to play before dummy.

Take note marathon members - your Emily performed a simple, but dramatic squeeze. Congratulations Mrs. Turner, you now qualify at the expert level.

We need you.

music makers' ability to be powerful yet not pompous, and to control the grandiosity of Beethoven's imperial style.

Jarvi, true to form again, found his own way, eschewing traditional tempos and dynamics with his unique, spontaneous approach. While slower tempi in the inner movements might have produced more majestic efforts, there was a greater cohesion and inner logic to the performance.

Again, in the mighty choral movement, a slower pace might have avoided some ragged moments between chorus and soloists. Instead, Jarvi avoided the ponderous effect that creeps in too many performances and achieved a sense of unity to this sprawling work.

Some particularly thrilling moments were provided by mezzo soprano Kathleen Segar and tenor Jon Frederic West whose duet flowed with rich expression and fine ensemble. And all soprano Camellia Johnson had to do was start to sing to send thrills down listeners' spines. Everything else dimmed in the glow of her rich, expressive voice.

Bringing this second, totally different concert to a close, Jarvi turned out yet another encore with the U of M Choral Union showing off at its absolute best in Mozart's tender "Ave Verum Corpus." To have gone out for dessert and coffee after that would have been excess.

Better to return to Orchestra Hall tonight, tomorrow morning or Saturday evening for those remarkable Labèque sisters playing Poulenc's sprightly Concerto in D minor for two pianos, flanked by Jarvi and the orchestra playing Schubert's Third Symphony and Nielsen's Second subtitled, "The Four Temperaments."

For tickets and times call 833-3700.

gether to present the highs and final low of their life together, all attended by Che's comments.

As a shadow falls on her goddess image, so also does the shadow of death. As the end of her life nears, the Latin beat fades. In a heart-breaking scene we see her carried to the mike to broadcast her message, "Don't cry for me Argentina, I am with you always." Her death is a triumph over her enemies. Only her goodness is remembered. She remains the people's saint.

There is much to note in "Evita;" the clever use of door frames to indicate shifting scenes, soldiers marching in precise unison and adding a little skip to show contempt for a woman with so much power, socialites in full dress drifting in unison across the stage, disapproval on their frozen faces, generals playing musical chairs as they vie for top job, a pair of Latin dancers in the background and a magical interlude when Mistretta sings, "On This Night of a Thousand Stars."

With all that, the most memorable scene of all is the one with Evita in her Cinderella ball dress standing on the balcony, her arms raised on the night of Peron's election with the crowd below cheering and chanting her name.

Evita surges with energy as does Donna Marie Asbury whose ability to show Latin spice and, when needed, convert it to a sophisticated stroll in designer suit is outstanding. She has an extraordinary vocal range that infuses every number she sings with energy. Cooney's big vocal chords serve him well in his role of narrator. David Brummel is stately and impressive as Peron.

The cast should be commended both for their acting and ensemble numbers.

Try not to miss an opportunity to see this production of "Evita" which will be at the Fisher Theatre through Oct. 3. It's one of the best this city has seen.

The fourth annual Thunder Bay Literary Conference this month, which features such luminaries as Judith Guest, William Kienzle and Patricia O'Toole, reminds me that many other writers with Michigan roots exist here and elsewhere.

Michiganers, both of whom deserve recognition for their high literary skill.

Ronald Clair Roat grew up north of Ludington along Lake Michigan, and from there he served his writing apprenticeship in a number of newspapers. Eventually, he landed in Dayton, Ohio, where he became a consumer advocate. From that position he gained invaluable experience in white collar crime investigation. He is also a flying enthusiast who pilots his own plane. Now living in New Harmony, Ind., Roat teaches journalism at the University of Southern Indiana.

"A Still and Icy Silence" is Roat's second mystery starring intrepid private eye Stuart Mallory. This is a fast-paced and entertaining tale of how Mallory is hired by enigmatic Sandra Goodman to find her father, Danny Goodman, who has unaccountably disappeared from Lansing's seamy underside.

Various thuggish characters emerge, all involved, one way or another, with Goodman's disappearance. Muscle men, land developers, arsonists and politicians become entangled in a massive nefarious plot to build a new shopping mall, using illegal means whenever necessary.

Mallory, and his friend Matt Wiley, ultimately find themselves in the middle of a winter storm racing northward to Mackinac Island in desperate pursuit of the criminals.

Roat clearly knows his Michigan well. His book is filled with vivid descriptions of Lansing, the state capital, and its many faces along with gripping pictures of Mackinac Island caught in the icy clutches of a merciless winter where Mallory finally battles and outwits his enemies. Also, Roat's character portrayals lead us to hope for more Stuart Mallory action-filled books — all of which will be of special interest for Michigan readers, not to mention those from out-of-state.

Robert C. Wilson is another Michigan writer with a gifted pen, who is particularly familiar with the area around Lake Superior. His third novel, "Second Fire," is a blazing and fiery tale of how strongly the restless spirits of Native American Indians continue to haunt and motivate certain tribes to this very day.

It concerns Christopher Fielding, a young associate professor of archaeology at the University of Michigan who is summoned to a court in northern Michigan to testify as an expert on the proper handling of ancient Indian artifacts and human remains.

His opponent is comely Jean Shawshequay, an anthropologist from Oklahoma, who testifies on behalf of the Ojibwa tribe to prevent desecration of revered Indian burial mounds by professorial groups digging around in their research.

Fielding is attracted to Shawshequay and in spite of their original adversarial positions, soon they are united in their search for those who are deliberately using fire as a means to control further probing.

Bravely continuing his research in libraries and field trips around the evil black pit in which charred remains are gathered, Fielding nearly becomes a victim himself, thanks to the wily machinations of superstitious Indians, clad in animal skins, who strive to prevent the professor from unearthing the grim answer to this archaeological mystery:

"As he moved into the field of fire, as he smelled the burning leaves and black soil being turned to ash, he watched the action of the flames. Arching curls of jagged light snapped at the air, rising higher with each upward lunge, reaching toward the trees, toward new tinder, catching on dead branches, racing on tiny legs along the bark, carrying themselves into the crowns of oaks, the pyramidal peaks of pines, turning leaves into a network of veins and needles to slender brown cinders. It was a display of power and primal energy, an inferno building, as fire does, on its own heat and spreading into new sources of fuel. He looked for repeated patterns; he expected them, but Fielding could see no suggestion of hidden form. He could see no beasts of Dantean description seeking to take control of the flares and bulges, the spikes and soaring tongues. He could only see the fire, the flickering, flashing, gyrating madness of the fire, as it should be. As it would be, released to follow its own course. Released from the power of the otherworld. Released from the core of evil that had stained this place for so many years."

Never again will I gaze upon a harmless bonfire with equanimity. I know too well now how dangerous and malevolent a fire can be, especially if certain spirits need to be appeased.

These 37 intimate and beautiful paintings are favorites from the extraordinary private collection of Richard and Jane Manoogian, but for just a short time they're on public view, at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Lyric Chamber Ensemble opens 1993-94 season

By Kathleen Ryan
Special Writer

A celebration of Edvard Grieg's 150th birthday will open the Lyric Chamber Ensemble's 14th season this Sunday at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

Entitled "Northern Exposure," the program will feature the works of Grieg, along with songs and lyrics by Hans Christian Andersen. Grosse Pointe cellist Marcy Chanteaux, assistant principal cellist with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, will be featured.

"We're so looking forward to our new season in Grosse Pointe," Fedora Horowitz, the LCE's director said. "The War Memorial Ballroom is such a beautiful setting for our performances. It creates an ambiance and intimacy that is hard to duplicate in other settings."

In addition to the series of four concerts at the War Memorial, a holiday concert at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, the ensemble's 14th season, will feature concerts at Orchestra Hall and a Sunday brunch program at the Gem Theater.

"We're very excited about the diversity and quality of our programs this year," Horowitz said. "We have an outstanding selection of performers."

The theme of this year's season is "Discovery."

"We're inviting audiences to discover the music of the Far East," Horowitz said. "There is such a fascination with the Far East these days, with the popularity of such works as 'The Joy Luck Club' and 'M. Butterfly.'" The Oct. 10 War Memorial concert, "The Magic of the Far East," will feature western composers influenced by Oriental music, including Verdi and Puccini.

The Orchestra Hall series which begins Oct. 24 will feature the world premiere of composer Kevin Scott's "Memories of My Youth" in a tribute to the 25th anniversary of the Spaulding for Children Agency, an adoption agency for special needs children. Scott, a young African-American composer, was the winner of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra's composer competition in 1991.

The Ensemble's Gem Theater Sunday Brunch series begins Nov. 14 with a salute to music from the movies, featuring pianist Sasha Burshtein. Future Gem concerts will feature music from Broadway shows, George Gershwin, and music of the Caribbean.

"An English Christmas" will be celebrated by the Ensemble at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church on Sunday, Dec. 5, and will feature works of Handel and Rutter, as well as the traditional holiday sing-along.

The Lyric Chamber Ensemble was founded in 1980 and its season featured three concerts at the Edsel and Eleanor Ford House. This year the season includes a series of 13 concerts at four different locations. Funded by grants from the National Endowment for the Arts, the Ensemble is committed to providing a showcase for Michigan artists and composers.

In addition, it sponsors a music outreach program for young people through its "Chamber Music for Youth" project which takes professional musicians into the schools. In August of this year it hosted its first "Summer Music Experience," a two-week camp for gifted and underprivileged Detroit youth.

But for all its diversity of programming, the Ensemble holds Grosse Pointe audiences in special regard, according to Horowitz.

"Grosse Pointe is where we began," she said. "The audiences there are wonderful and it's so exciting to play for them. This is our 14th season, and

Information on the Lyric Chamber Ensemble can be obtained by calling 357-1111.

'Fancy Grosse Pointe People:' A little murder among friends

By John Minnis
Editor

"Fancy Grosse Pointe People," the small, hot-selling novel by former Pointer J.D. Owens, isn't a literary masterpiece but it's fun — just as long as you don't take it seriously.

"It's college humor," said Owens, 68, who was in town last week for book-signings at real people, trying to read too much into the story.

"It's all fiction," he said. "I worked with a number of big agency CEOs." Rather, Owens agreed, the similarities between the book's main character and career and his own are merely due to the fact that he did what all writers are told to do: Write about what you the fact that O'Brien and his wife, Joan, have cottages or vacationed in Leland, Lexington and Key West — all places frequented by Owens and his wife, Mary, who taught at Richard Elementary School for 20 years.

"That's the background you draw on," Owens said about the similarities between the book and his life. "I had no ax to grind.

"I had a better time in the agency business than any human has a right to have. I traveled all over the world and worked on a film that won an Academy Award.

"It was a terrific life, and it ain't that good anymore. Everybody's too budget conscious. I wouldn't go back for a lot of money, even $10,000," he joked.

The book is straight-forward and doesn't get bogged down in literary puff. The prose is salty and washed down with all too much liquor, but perhaps that's the business as Owens recalls it.

"That's really the way I am," he said. "It's college humor. I'm a great dirty joke teller. I adore them. It's the way I write, the way I talk."

Of course, the story has the obligatory sex scenes and affairs. "A novel had to have sex scenes, didn't it? Even if they were made up ones," Owens wrote.

The book is littered with Grosse Pointe references, including the Yacht Club, Little Club, Walton-Pierce, Sparky Herberts and a bow to Grosse Pointe's excellent public school system.

Of course, the local angle was deliberate. This is not a book that would sell well in Peoria, but among Grosse Pointers, the familiarity makes the book a worthwhile read. Owens also has a sense of humor and pokes fun at Pointers, including himself. It is not meant to be critical of the Pointes.

"What the hell," he said, "I wrote it for fun. And I think Former Pointer J.D. Owens, author of the hot-selling book, "Fancy Grosse Pointe People," stopped by Sparky Herbert's last week, one of many Grosse Pointe landmarks mentioned in the book.

Grosse Pointe is a community that can afford to have its chains rattled once in a while. It's a great community."

The ending is, perhaps, a surprise unless you recall an earlier reference in the book. Owens calls the conclusion an allegory and besides, he admitted, it lends itself to a sequel, which is already in the germination stage.

So far, more than 3,000 copies of the self-published novella have been sold under the name Pinque and Greene Productions. Most of the sales have been in the Pointes, but the book has also been in demand in Leland.

"It's been the best-selling book in Grosse Pointe for several weeks," Owens said. "The book's been selling well, better than I have a right to expect."

Why did he write the book? "Just plain fun," he said. And that's a good reason for Pointers to read it as well.

"Fancy Grosse Pointe People" is available for $4.99 at Barnes & Noble at Pointe Plaza, Waldenbooks in the Village and Third Coast Booksellers in the Park, as well as other stores throughout the Pointes.

'Evita' still has her old magic

By Marian Trainor
Special Writer

A solid historical musical, "Evita" is at the same time a mesmerizing theatrical experience.

A splendid production, it encompasses brilliant choreography, Hal Prince's documentary-like original staging — superimposed on live actors are images of the real-life Evita, Peron and Argentina of the day. These flashes on a screen add much to the understanding of the woman as her image is photographed leading parades, holding babies and meeting with European leaders.

Andrew Lloyd Webber's score and Tim Rice's lyrics outline the life of Evita (Donna Marie Asbury) from a poor lusty Argentina girl to the exquisite wife of the country's president, Juan Peron, a transformation that Webber and Rice achieve in a style that is a benchmark for all other attempts.

While there are no numbers (with the exception of "Don't Cry for me Argentina" that will send you away humming, the music is appropriate to the show. It so fits the scenes that they would be inappropriate out of their made-to-order content.

The opening score is a flashback to 1932. Che (Daniel C. Cooney), a revolutionary, is among the audience in a Buenos Aires cinema when the announcement is made that Eva Peron, the spiritual leader of the nation has died.

Che is not one of her admirers. A critic, he also serves as narrator, observer and at times a device to relay the message that she has detractors among the well-to-do and the Army.

We are introduced to Evita in an Argentine nightclub where she is a singer. She is determined to move on to better opportunities. She persuades a cheap singer, Augustin Magaldi (Sol Mistretta) to take her to Buenos Aires. Once there she goes through several influential men who help her to fame and fortune.

It is not long before Evita meets Peron (David Brummell) at a charity concert.

Evita's fame and Peron's political success are choreographed in a series of stunning vignettes seemingly randomly presented but which mesh to-

DSO report

Jarvi, DSO thrill in season opener

By Alex Sucek
Special Writer

True to music director Neeme Jarvi's tradition of opening the season with a superb soloist and a thought provoking performance, the DSO launched 93-94 in grand style last weekend based on Saturday evening's concert.

In fact, one could have been satisfied with the first half alone as the truly remarkable 13-year-old violinist from Los Angeles displayed both artistry and authority far beyond her years.

Tamaki Kawakubo performed the showy second concerto of Henryk Wieniawski with a level of virtuosity and tasteful style that few violinists achieve. Given the risks of immature blandness and excess display that every prodigy faces, credit must also go to her teacher who must have helped this amazing young lady avoid those pitfalls. They lurk everywhere in this romantic concerto but while rendering the most difficult runs and double stops with superbly accurate intonation and technique, she shaped and shaded the music with a sensitivity and elegance that would do the most famous performer proud.

Jarvi and the orchestra were at their best, too, holding their volume in perfect balance and allowing the solo violin to ring through. They blended, followed and enhanced her exquisite playing without ever overwhelming the fragile violin showpiece.

Having totally dazzled the cheering crowd, Kawakubo then joined a great Jarvi tradition with an obviously carefully planned and equally beautiful encore performance of Massenet's "Meditations from Thais." In a sense, one concert ended right there. It was perfect. And then another one began.

Totally different.

Beethoven's vaunted 9th Symphony, with its forceful, even overpowering musical sermon on brotherhood and love puts every performer at risk of descending into bombast and bathos.

Friedrich Schiller's "Ode to Joy" used as text for the choral fourth movement is heavy stuff and so is Beethoven's music. It was the style of the time.

So while the work generally generates wild enthusiasm among fans of Beethoven and of choral music, it poses a severe test of the

LWV assists local teachers

Teachers of government and civics at 10 local high schools have received special information kits this week from the League of Women Voters.

The league took on this project to help teachers help students sort through the complicated rhetoric of today's political climate, said Rachel Webers, co-president of the LWV with Marion McCarthy.

"It's important to spark interest in political affairs during the high school years," McCarthy said. "Education will help provide informed, responsible voting citizens in the future."

Publications in the kits cover topics such as the history of public funding for education, how to assess public opinion polls, how to pick a candidate, how to judge a debate, how to understand the budget deficit, and information about how the government works.

Members of the publications committee are Kay Kirby, Kay McDonald, Rachel Webers and Evelyn Montgomery.

The LWV is founded on the belief that democracy depends on the informed, active participation of citizens. Membership is open to all men and women of voting age. For information about joining the league, call 881-6666.

Cottage professionals offer insight into mental illness

The National Institute of Mental Health estimates that one in five Americans have some form of mental illness in any given six-month period. Between 30 and 45 million people suffer from symptoms that can be treated effectively. Only one in five with diagnosable mental disorders seek treatment.

"Everything You Wanted to Know About Mental Illness (but were afraid to ask)" is the title of a community program sponsored by the Cottage Hospital Behavioral Services department from 7 to 9 p.m. Monday, Oct. 4, in Cleminson Hall at Grosse Pointe South High School.

Three mental health professionals will speak:

- John Ryan, Ph.D., will discuss "The Impact of Mental Illness on the Family."

- Dr. Daniel Guyer will present "Treatment Options for the Mentally Ill."

- Another speaker will discuss "Women and Depression." In addition, a special guest will share a personal story about mental illness within a family. A question and answer period will follow; refreshments will be served; the program is free.

The presentation is part of several activities planned during National Mental Illness Awareness Week, which is Oct. 3-9.

Cottage Hospital and Bon Secours Health Care System will co-sponsor a community education program including free depression screening at Cottage Hospital on Thursday, Oct. 7, which is national Depression Screening Day.

Adolescents and adults may complete an anonymous self-inventory of depression symptoms and get an opportunity to discuss the results with a mental health professional. Screening times are 7 to 9 a.m., noon to 3 p.m., and 6 to 8 p.m. and no appointment is necessary. Participants can park in the hospital's parking deck and bring their tickets for validation. Refreshments will be provided.

For more information, call Cottage Hospital at 884-8600, ext. 2537, or Bon Secours Hospital at 343-1910.

Program will focus on caregivers

As the American population grows older, more adults find themselves in the role of caregiver to an elderly person. It's a tough job, complicated by emotions on both sides as the caregivers struggle to deal with their own needs as well as those of the person in their charge.

Cottage Hospital psychiatrist Antoun C. Manganas, M.D., will present a frank discussion focusing on the problems and emotional issues encountered when caring for the elderly from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 29 in Cottage Hospital, 159 Kercheval in Grosse Pointe Farms.

Fundraiser to be a pleasant walk through the Detroit Zoo

Grosse Pointer Mike Howe is chairman of the second American Heartwalk, a 10K non-competitive walk through the Detroit Zoo on Saturday, Oct. 2, sponsored by the American Heart Association. Routes will vary from two to six miles.

The event is one of 22 similar walks in Michigan and more than 800 nationwide. Participants collect donations from family and friends in advance.

"We anticipate that there will be 2,000 walkers this year," Howe said. The group hopes to raise more than $200,000 for the fight against heart disease, the No. 1 killer of Michigan residents.

Detroit's Kenya Moore, who was crowned Miss USA in February, will lead walkers in a series of warm-up exercises at 8:30 a.m., before the walk begins.

"Fifty-five percent of Michigan adults do not exercise regularly, which is a major risk factor for heart disease," Howe said. "This American Heart Walk not only funds research and community education programs, but it also helps Michigan children get up, get out, and start walking."

Honorary chairman of the fundraiser is Richard Headlee, chairman, CEO and president of Alexander Hamilton Life Insurance Co. of America. Headlee had a heart transplant six years ago. "It was successful because of heart research funded by the AHA. I want to encourage regular walking as one type of exercise to help prevent heart disease."

Howe is president and CEO of Young & Rubicam Detroit, an avid athlete in golf, tennis, sailing and handball.

To sign up for the American Heart Walk — either as an individual or as a corporate walking team — call the AHA of Michigan at 557-9500.

Tickets to the preview are $75 a couple, and include complimentary hors d'oeuvres from well-known local restaurants and a chance to get a jump start on Christmas shopping.

Most shops represented at the mart are outstate and out-of-state, offering specialty items and gifts that are not available locally. Consumers discover options at Michigan Design Center Color, texture, accessories and creativity reigned at the third annual Design, Live! interior design event at Michigan Design Center (MDC), Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 21 and 22.

Open to the public, more than 1,200 visitors were dazzled by the twenty 8x10-foot vignettes created by metro area designers with merchandise from the showrooms of MDC. Warm rusts, bold blues, rich blacks and creamy neutrals formed the backgrounds for the room designs that ranged from "Manhattan Contemporary" to "Tudor Traditional."

"There was definitely something here for everyone's taste," said Susan Zinger, MDC's general manager. "The designers' talents were superbly represented in their imaginative use of furnishings and accessories. There was such a broad range of looks including antiques, sleek contemporary, a touch of the Orient, Victorian, opulent European, eclectic and just plain fun rooms.

"We hope this exposure to so many looks and choices will help the public understand just how much a design professional has to offer, and how beneficial it is to work with an interior designer, even in the smallest places. You don't need to be re-doing your whole house, or building a new one to benefit from a designer's skills."

Visitors participated in "The Peoples' Choice Awards" by casting votes for their favorite vignettes. Winners included: Best of Show and Best Traditional Theme, Maureen Allison, A Design Studio, Grosse Pointe; Best Contemporary Theme, Julie Ford, Random House, Novi; Most Creative, Karen Gagne, Gagne & Gagne, Pontiac; and Most Livable, Gloria Tellis, Hudson's Design Studio, Southfield.

In addition to the room settings, consumers were invited to attend hourly seminars on home and design, and they could register for a complimentary one-on-one 20-minute consultation with a professional interior designer.

An important contribution was made to Rainbow Connection, with a portion of the proceeds from the event going to benefit this organization that grants the wishes of children with life-threatening illnesses.

The next consumer event at Michigan Design Center will be a four-week Home and Design Lecture Series beginning Tuesday evening, Sept. 21. Featuring top professionals in the design industry, they'll give advice, information and answers to homeowners' questions. For further information, call 649-4772.

Maureen Allison of Grosse Pointe had the vignette voted Best of Show and Best Traditional Theme by visitors to Design, Live! at Michigan Design Center.

vinyl siding over all types of existing surfaces such as stucco, wood, cement block and brick. The class costs $45.

Registration is required no later than Friday, Sept. 24, to St. Clair Shores Community Education. Those interested should call the school at 296-8384 to register during office hours.

The vignette voted Most Livable was done by Gloria Tellis of Hudson's Design Studio.

Home Tips

Bread box — I don't use one of my bread boxes, so I now put paper cups on the top shelf, and on the bottom, I put the 9-inch plates and the 6-inch plates. It's so handy when I need them.

Bernice M., Destin, Fla.

Cupcake batter — I think I have the perfect solution to the problem of pouring cupcake batter into the pan. When making cupcakes, pour the batter into an appropriate pitcher. I use my quart-size plastic measuring cup with a pouring spout. It works fine for filling pans with no mess, and is a real timesaver.

The Maintenance Free Fence Solution

Maintenance-free Vinyl Fence—The perfect combination of value and style

The fence for the 1990's is made from maintenance free (PVC) vinyl. This modern material offers the consumer the perfect combination of value and style. Vinyl fencing can provide privacy or protection, it can define boundaries and even enhance property value and appearance. Being maintenance-free, means it will not chip, fade, peel, rot or rust; and it never needs painting.

Vinyl fencing has safe smooth surfaces. There are no sharp edges, surface screws or nails. Children and pets are safe from splinters, cuts, and scrapes. Unaffected by moisture, temperature, and weather resistant, vinyl offers superior performance in all climates and seasons. The initial cost of a vinyl fence may be more than some wood and chain link fence, but with its long lifespan and maintenance-free benefits, the true cost is often less than other types of fencing. It saves you valuable time, money, and gives you the freedom to relax and enjoy your holidays and weekends.

Bufftech, Inc., a leading manufacturer of vinyl fence systems, offers a wide selection of distinctive fence designs including traditional picket, ornamental, privacy, and post & rail styles in white, tan or grey colors. They also manufacture yard and garden accessories to complement your outdoor setting. Accessories include arbors, trellises, planters with bench seats, picnic tables, gazebos, and more. Bufftech guarantees the quality and durability of their products with a 20 year non-prorated warranty.

To learn more about Bufftech Maintenance-Free Vinyl Fence, contact your local fence dealer, call Bufftech at 800 333 0569, or write Bufftech, Inc., 2525 Walden Avenue, Buffalo, NY 14225.

Dirty filters can lead to larger, costlier problems

By Gary Marowske Flame Furnace Co.

The importance of maintaining clean furnace filters — both winter and summer — can't be overstated if you want to avoid those unforeseen major repairs.

There are three types of filtration systems normally found in duct systems. They are:

- 1) Conventional "throwaway" fiberglass
- 2) H.E.P.A., which are a particle-catching media
- 3) Electronic (not electrostatic) ionizing cells

The most common is the throwaway filter which only captures about 5 percent of the particles in your home. Media type filters tend to be a glorified throwaway unit with a much higher replacement cost. For the best results and highest capture of particles, the electronic units are recommended. The two best electronic brands are Trion and Honeywell.

There are a few very simple steps that a homeowner can take to help ensure an easy winter, not only for your furnace, but also on your wallet. One of the most common oversights with regard to maintenance is in not changing the filter once a month when the duct system is in use (both winter and summer).

Although the filter may not look dirty, air flow may be restricted and could lead to a burned out blower motor. Also, a dirty filter will create a low heat exchange which in turn can cause carbon deposits in the burners and result in premature aging of your heat exchanger.

The filter can also cause problems during the summer months — such as low air flow and icing up of the coils. If you have a media type filter, which is a thicker, more effective type of material, it is extremely important that the media be changed at least twice a year. These filters are commonly available at most hardware stores.

The third type of air filtration uses electronic cells which unlike conventional glass fiber and media filters that remove only the largest pieces — about 5 percent of the total airborne particles in your home — an electronic air cleaner can remove up to 96 percent of all the particles in your home. These include dirt, smoke, pollen, grease and micro-organisms that circulate inside a typical home.

The cells must be removed and cleaned at least once a month in order to enjoy maximum efficiency and a cleaner home. This can usually be done by simply placing the filter cells in your dishwasher and running them through a complete cycle. Several companies will pick up the cells, clean them and reinstall them.

Remember, as the furnace gets older, its efficiency level drops significantly. For example, a typical gas furnace installed in 1970 probably operates at less than 60 percent efficiency, even lower with dirty filters. By properly servicing your system, or having a qualified professional service it for you, major repairs may be avoided and your operating costs will be more reasonable.

Should there be a specific topic relating to your home or business heating and cooling system on which you would like more information, call the Grosse Pointe News or myself at Flame Furnace Co., 527-1700.

Basic roofing instruction offered

Grosse Pointe and St. Clair Shores community education programs, in cooperation with Michigan Builders Institute, will offer evening classes on the basic techniques for applying roofing materials.

The Grosse Pointe class will be held on Thursday, Oct. 7, from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. at Barnes Center, 20090 Morningside Drive, Grosse Pointe Woods. The St. Clair Shores class will be held on Tuesday, Oct. 5, from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. at Lakeview High School, 21100 11 Mile.

Participants will learn the basic methods for applying roofing materials to the house through classroom lecture and hands-on demonstration using a mock-up. The class covers estimating, types of roofing materials, working with roofing valleys and provides information on installing proper venting to prevent damage resulting from poor circulation of air under roofs. The class costs $45.

Pre-registration is required no later than Tuesday, Oct. 5, at Grosse Pointe Community Education. Those interested should call the school at 313-343-2178 to register during office hours.

The instructor is a licensed builder with experience in all aspects of roofing. He will be able to answer any questions about roofing and its application. Michigan Builders Institute teaches builders' education in 70 school districts in lower Michigan. For a free brochure and more information about all classes, call 313-651-2771.

Window dressings 'dress up' a room

A trick of the trade known to all interior designers is that the addition of luxurious looking window treatments can create a sense of elegance in even the simplest room decor. The full folds of curtains and draperies not only soften the hard edges of windows, walls and furniture, they can transform the total effect.

The good news is, now, products for the window that look as though they came out of custom workshops can be purchased ready-made and easily hung within minutes on conventional curtain rods.

and open, window dressings shown here add great distinction to a small, eclectically furnished dining room. The treatment combines Cameo Interiors' full-length "Valencia" lace curtains underneath a double-cascade valance with mid-length jabot side panels from its European-style floral "Recollections" collection. The "cascade-jabot" is an excellent choice in a small room; it creates the effect of draperies but, in reality, frames a window rather than covering it.

Correlated table-top accessories and chair pads give the room a finished "decorator" look.

ADD VALUE AND BEAUTY to your fine home with the proven Rustic Shingle aluminum shake roofing system.

Distinctive roofing for your home

About one-half of your home's exterior is roof. It is a very visible part of your home that provides great protection for the structure and your belongings.

It is necessary, then, to seek out a roof that will highlight your home's appearance while providing worry-free protection. A very proven way to do this is with a beautiful Rustic Shingle roof, which combines the distinction of wood shakes with the durability of aluminum.

Proven since 1959, this rust-free metal roof carries a Lifetime Limited Warranty for the original owner with a valuable 50-Year Transferable Warranty for all owners. The baked-on Glidden Halomet Kynar coating is available in seven colors designed to coordinate with a variety of residential color schemes.

An added benefit with Rustic Shingle is its reflection of radiant heat, which keeps homes naturally cooler during hot weather. Even in its darkest color, Rustic Shingle has been proven to reduce attic heat gain by 34 percent. Aluminum Rustic Shingle is also fire-resistant and well-respected in areas prone to windblown fires.

The unique design and low weight of this product allow it to be installed over most existing roofs. A four-way interlock between the 12-by-24-inch panels holds tight even in hurricane-force winds. All of these benefits add up to increased home value.

AT BEDTIME, THERE'S NO NEED to go from room to room checking windows, doors and appliances. TotalHome does it for you. A system mode — perhaps called "good night" — secures your home, turns off appropriate lights and appliances and adjusts the temperature to a comfortable energy-saving level.

Protect your family using flexible home automation

As temperatures begin to fall and days grow shorter, there's an easy way to keep your family safe and comfortable. Installing a home automation system will put home control at your fingertips and provide peace of mind as the fall and winter seasons approach.

With the TotalHome system from Honeywell, your family won't have to come home to a cold, dark house. TotalHome will greet you with a well-lit, comfortable home. The system controls a home's temperature, security system, lights and appliances — all at the touch of a button, and is customized to match your individual lifestyle. So when the kids return to school in the fall, TotalHome can be adjusted to fit the family's new routine, including after-school football practice or early-morning band rehearsal.

The flexibility of Honeywell's TotalHome system means that during those early fall evenings, you can feel safe about opening your windows or sitting out on the patio to enjoy a cool breeze without compromising the security of your entire home. With TotalHome, homeowners can select the areas they want to secure, such as the front door, while leaving others — such as the patio door — unarmed.

Along with falling temperatures and shorter days, fall and winter bring an increase in home burglaries. According to FBI Uniform Crime Reports, home break-ins peak in December as homes are filled with holiday gifts or are left empty by winter vacationers. Electronic alarm systems, such as the security component in TotalHome, provide the best defense and the strongest overall protection against burglars. And TotalHome can even be enhanced to guard against freezing pipes and water leaks while homes are unoccupied.

With TotalHome, you can rest assured that your family and possessions are safe whether you're at home or away. In the case of a medical emergency, homeowners can summon help quickly and easily by pressing one of the system's emergency buttons. To enhance security when the home is empty, TotalHome creates a "lived-in" look by turning on and off lights and appliances randomly. And TotalHome systems are monitored 24 hours a day, 365 days a year by trained Honeywell professionals.

Call 1-800-345-6770, ext. 2039, for more information or to request a no-obligation visit from a Honeywell representative.

A TRIGGER CLAMP works as a "third hand," holding a guide in place while cutting work with a circular saw.

Home improvement jobs often call for a 'third hand'

Home improvement tasks are often delegated to one person — usually the one with the time and the inclination to get the job done.

In many instances, a "third hand" is called for to steady an object or hold it in place until adjustments are made, says David H. Jacobs Jr., avid do-it-yourselfer and author of the upcoming books Home Improvement Tools & Equipment and Workshops & Outbuildings from TAB/McGraw-Hill (800-233-1128). That extra appendage often takes the form of a trigger clamp such as the QUICK-GRIP® Bar Clamp from American Tool.

"I carry a couple of these clamps around with me on every home improvement job because I know I'll need them sooner or later," Jacobs says. "I've used them to hold wood in place while sawing, to put new walls together for nailing, to hold a level in place while adjusting new walls to plumb, and to hold wide sheets of plywood in place for nailing."

Among the other applications Jacobs has found for the clamp are:

- holding cabinet doors in place while installing hinges;
- holding guides or jigs in place while cutting with a circular saw;
- holding wood pieces together while drilling a hole through both at same time;

- holding portable lights in place;
- pulling cabinets together while gluing shelves;
- assembling fiberglass components.

"I'm sure there are situations where other styles of clamps might work better, but I haven't been able to come across any," Jacobs says.

The unique pistol-grip handle of the clamp lets the user hold the clamp and adjust the jaw pressure with just one hand. A click of its trigger releases the clamp immediately for readjustment.

Trigger clamps also feature soft, pliable pads on the jaws, allowing them to clamp wood or plastic without marring or damaging the surface, thus eliminating the need for separate wood pads. The trend toward high-quality, expensive woods in do-it-yourself projects makes attention to the clamping surface important, Jacobs says.

Trigger clamps are available in spans of 6, 12, 18, 24 and 36 inches. Smaller versions of the clamps, available in 6- and 12-inch spans, are ideal for tighter work areas or hobbies. A hold-down trigger clamp mounts to any stationary or portable workbench for quick, secure clamping, and a spreader clamp version is perfect for cabinet-making and furniture restoration. Accessories that allow the clamp to hold corners for drawer assembly are also available.

TRIGGER CLAMPS may be used to hold objects in place, such as a level (above), while freeing hands for adjustments and other work.

Your home's the color of money — color it happy

Nobody ever talks about it. Nobody even thinks too much about it, until you are ready to sell your home. Then everybody sees it, and everyone talks about it. It's the exterior of your home.

All we ever hear about is decorating the inside, yet the outside is initially more important. My experience in color consulting with homeowners preparing their homes to sell is that color is the major issue. Either too much color, "color clutter," or not enough of the right colors in the right places.

Happy homes sell faster. The exterior is the outward expression of you and your lifestyle. It is a clue to what's inside. No matter how beautiful and comfortable the interior, it will never be seen if the outside is not inviting or well maintained. It is the wrapping that says, "Welcome, come on in." The whole idea is to have a better "wrapper" than the house down the street.

We all know enough to keep our lawns manicured and windows sparkling, but what about the color of the house itself? Whether you are planning to sell today or tomorrow, it is also important to maintain the outside appearance of your home.

Since most home colors are predetermined by the roof and facade, you must work around them when selecting new colors. And painting is the most effective and inexpensive way to give your home a "facelift" and revive it instantly.

Here are some tips from "The Color Wizard":

The simplest low cost way is to start with your front door. It is the focal point of your home. Either paint it a color in contrast to the facade or match a color in your roof. You may even want to consider staining it and let the natural beauty of the wood show through.

Next, select color for the shutters. They can match the front door or be just a little darker or lighter. Stay away from bright or whimsical colors, they belong on a cottage or in the tropics. Always use grayed-down or muted tones, they carry more visual weight and give the home a more sturdy and durable look.

Trim colors — these include windows, downspouts, gutters and garage doors. They are those things that are not the most attractive. By contrasting them to the facade, they only draw unnecessary attention. Rather, paint them to blend into the facade. Garage doors are usually overbearing when painted a contrasting color. They take away from the focal point, your front door. This is especially true with smaller homes.

For color continuity and balance, repeat your contrasting color in your plantings, flower pots or accents. By the way, speaking of landscaping, mature, well-maintained trees can add 15 percent to the value of your home. Also consider the color of deciduous trees to blend with your house colors.

So, before the leaves fall and the snow flies, attack the outside of your home and keep it happy looking. Whether you are selling or not, put a smile on your face and money in your pocket. Choose the right colors in the right tints and shades for the right spaces.

For more color tips to "color your home happy," inside or out, contact The Color Wizard for a house call at 885-8772, or write SMART HOME MOVES at P.O. Box 104, St. Clair Shores, Mich., 48080.

WHETHER YOUR NATURAL WOOD HOME is sided with cedar clapboards, shingles, rough-sawn pine, barnboard, or made of solid white pine logs like this one, it must be protected with a properly applied quality finish.

Whether your home is sided with cedar shakes, rough-sawn pine, Western red clapboards, barnboard or made of solid logs, long-lasting protection against weather and ultraviolet light takes proper preparation and correct application of a quality finish product.

To help customers, Northeastern Log Homes — one of the nation's oldest manufacturers of log and post-and-beam houses — and The Continental Products Company — maker of WeatherSeal wood finishes — have teamed up to help homeowners and builders solve this problem.

"As a home manufacturer for more than 20 years, we've evaluated scores of wood-finishing products and developed application techniques to help consumers get the greatest protection and longest life from these products," says Jim Gildart of Northeastern Log Homes in Kenduskeag, Maine.

Northeastern now offers a free guide to maintaining the beauty of your natural wood home that is filled with practical advice. For example, "Ventilate attics and crawl spaces to eliminate stagnant humid air. Cover soil in crawl spaces with a vapor barrier. Plant bushes away from the house."

Northeastern also offers a complete line of WeatherSeal wood finishes delivered by UPS.

WeatherSeal finishes are available in one-gallon containers at $22.90 each, or in economical, 5-gallon containers at $109.50 each. Colors range from transparent Sunlite, Golden Honey and Rustic Pine to deeper tones, such as Cabin Brown, Autumn and Pioneer Gray. Visa and MasterCard accepted.

For the free "Consumers' Guide to Maintaining the Beauty and Value of Your Home and WeatherSeal" color chart, send a stamped, self-addressed business (#10) envelope to: Northeastern Log Homes, Inc., P.O. Box 460, Kenduskeag, ME 04450, or call: 800-624-2797.

Advances in technology add value to the home

From the comfort of an easy chair, a homeowner pushes a button on a remote control — but it is not the television set or the VCR that responds. It is a gas-fueled fireplace. Technology is making the hearth more convenient and more efficient. Homeowners who have not looked at stoves or fireplaces lately are surprised at the developments.

Vermont Castings of Bethel, Vermont, introduced the remote control that makes it more convenient to regulate the company's gas-fueled units.

"By applying technology, we have dramatically improved the efficiency of stoves and fireplaces and have made it easy and inexpensive to install them in any room," says Dennis Dillon, president of the company.

Wood-burning and gas-fueled fireplace systems can be installed in any home, and one gas-fueled fireplace doesn't even require a chimney. The GoldenWarm, a direct-vent fireplace, requires only a small vent to the outside and can be installed on any exterior wall. Homeowners can have a fireplace in locations, such as under a window or in a basement family room, that would not be possible with traditional units.

New technology also permits the homeowner to improve the efficiency of an existing open fireplace. Recent studies have documented the extreme inefficiency of open fireplaces. They exhaust huge quantities of air up the flue, resulting in drafts that pull additional heat out of the home. These studies place the efficiency of an open fireplace at only 5 to 6 percent.

The homeowner can dramatically increase the efficiency of an existing open fireplace by installing a gas-fueled or wood-burning fireplace insert. Inserts fill the existing fireplace opening and connect to the existing flue.

Wood-burning fireplace inserts use a catalytic combustion system, ensuring clean burning and 78-percent efficiency. A fan provides natural convection heating and a thermostatic control ensures steady, even heat. Gas-fueled inserts offer the added convenience of a remote control for the ultimate in hassle-free fireplace enjoyment.

Stoves have also changed for the better. Today's wood-burning stoves are equipped with glass, fire-viewing doors and can be fitted with a screen to allow for open-fire viewing.

Installing a stove or fireplace also increases the value of the home. According to recent statistics compiled by Remodeling magazine, a fireplace can return as much as 140 percent of the homeowner's investment.

Additional information on new hearth product technology is available from Vermont Castings. For a free copy of the Fireside Advisor magazine call 1-800-227-8683. A Fireside Advisor videotape is also available for $9.95.

Bring the beauty of birds to your yard this fall

Different feeders will attract different birds. A wooden platform or hopper feeder will attract most species of birds. The cardinals and blue jays feel comfortable on this type feeder as do the smaller birds. Wood feeders add a pleasing look to the yard and can become the focal point of your feeding station. They hold more seed than other feeders and the seed is well protected from weather exposure.

Tube feeders attract smaller birds exclusively unless you add a tray which acts as a welcome mat for the larger birds. Tube feeders can be hung in many places around the yard so that they can be seen from the house for your enjoyment. In this area, house finches and chickadees are frequent visitors to tube feeders offering mixed seed. Another type of tube feeder holds thistle, a seed that is imported from Nigeria. Thistle is the favorite of goldfinches and is also enjoyed by house finches and in colder months, by purple finches and pine siskins.

The type of seed that is used in a feeder is critical to the type of birds that you can attract to your yard.

Seed eating birds prefer black oil sunflower and striped sunflower. The ground feeding birds prefer white proso millet. By combining these seeds, you can attract a broader variety of birds to your yard. Mixed seed is appropriate in both wooden and tube feeders.

There are other specialty seeds that will please the birds in your yard. Safflower is enjoyed by cardinals especially and is not enjoyed by squirrels. Putting straight safflower in a feeder will eliminate a squirrel problem. Peanuts, both in and out of the shell, satisfy a wide variety of birds also.

In this community, we are fortunate to have the water so close by and to be situated along a migrational route. Those two factors ensure that we get seasonal migrants visiting our feeding stations. Keep your eyes open - the bird who blends in with the crowd at your feeder may be a seasonal visitor.

Make your home enjoyable and relaxing with a whirlpool bath

What do microwaves, hand-held video cameras and whirlpool baths have in common? Just ask Roy Jacuzzi, president and CEO of Jacuzzi Inc., and he'll tell you they are among the most popular items found in today's homes nationwide.

As the inventor of the first whirlpool bath 25 years ago, he has seen his invention evolve from a small niche business to today's position as a standard amenity in bathroom remodeling and new construction projects.

"People are looking for ways to make their homes more enjoyable and relaxing," says Jacuzzi. "Our daily lifestyles are very demanding, both physically and mentally. America's workforce has discovered that whirlpool bathing is an ideal way to unwind from a hectic day."

As cooler weather approaches, there is no better time to make your home as cozy and comfortable as possible than with the addition of a whirlpool bath. Most manufacturers offer a variety of sizes and shapes in order to accommodate your bathroom space. Units specifically designed to replace traditional bathtubs enable you to avoid expensive room expansions.

One idea from Jacuzzi Whirlpool Bath is the Eura™, which measures 6 feet long by 3½ feet wide. It comes completely preplumbed and self-contained for quick and easy installation. Four fully adjustable jets provide a therapeutic and relaxing massage, just what you yearn for — and deserve — after a long day.

NEW HAND-DECORATED apron-front sink from Kohler is ideally suited for the kitchen in which personal style is freely expressed.

For some homeowners, a "dream kitchen" is not glossy, perfectly matched cabinetry, neatly arranged along the walls, complemented by expanses of laminate countertops and coordinating wallpaper.

These rugged individualists see a kitchen differently — as a place where personal style is freely expressed — where work spaces are arranged to suit their own preferences, and collectibles are proudly displayed.

These so-called "unfitted kitchens" are distinguished by unmatched furniture-like pieces that are arranged into free-standing, functional work spaces — for meal preparation, baking, cleanup and storage, according to Jim Dase, a certified kitchen designer at Kohler, a leading plumbing products manufacturer.

Today's appreciation for all kinds of collectibles and new product offerings with a period look — such as Kohler's traditionally styled apron-front kitchen sinks — make it easier to create a classic, unfitted kitchen.

And while an air of casualness surrounds an unfitted design, it actually requires careful planning. A well-thought-out design will put necessary appliances, supplies and utensils within easy reach for each work area and ensure that all work areas are convenient to the others. An added benefit to well-defined spaces is that it's possible to accommodate more than one cook in the kitchen, Dase says.

The key to making this type of kitchen work is having a large room in which to arrange the furniture/function groupings, the designer says, so there is sufficient space between the areas. And although many homeowners will envision a country kitchen, the unfitted style will work in contemporary settings, too.

"An unfitted kitchen is a derivative of the kitchens that were commonplace a century or more ago," he explains. "Essentially, anything goes."

"Your wonderful old furniture finds — hutches, pie safes, hoosier cabinets, sideboards and breakfronts — are perfect for storage and work spaces. And varied colors and wood types are okay, too. They suggest a room furnished with the accumulated treasures of generations of cooks."

With an eclectic mix of pieces, you can have work surfaces of varying heights and materials to suit your needs and preferences, Dase says. And don't forget a movable work table for big baking projects.

Select natural materials, such as tile or stone, for floors and counter surfaces, he suggests.

As many collectors know, it's not always possible to find all of the old pieces that will give the room just the "right" look. But increasingly, new products on the market are credible substitutes for the real thing.

For example, install one of the new apron-front sinks in a favorite cabinet, and equip it with an antique-style wall-mounted faucet, or a gooseneck faucet with ceramic handles, Dase suggests. Then, add ceramic tiles with a hand-crafted look or synthetic solid surface materials that mimic natural stone, to create an easy-care cleanup area.

Complete the look with such practical decorating touches as racks for hanging anything from pots and pans to dried herbs; cabinets with glass fronts, or "chicken wire" mesh, to display collectibles; and storing supplies and utensils in plain view in big glass jars, interesting crockery or on open shelves.

THE SIDING used on this Victorian-style home is remarkably faithful to the texture and dimensionality of hand-split cedar shingles. CertainTeed Corporation's Cedar Impressions™ is manufactured in molds patterned after real cedar shingles.

Capture the look of wood

When vinyl siding was introduced 30 years ago, there was some reluctance among both industry professionals and homeowners to accept this new building material. Today, however, continuing advances in vinyl formulations, manufacturing techniques and product designs have helped vinyl siding capture more than 40 percent of the market for all exterior siding materials used in residential buildings — and has become the dominant choice among materials used for re-siding.

Most homeowners are already aware of the practical benefits of vinyl siding: It never needs painting and requires very little maintenance, is relatively easy to install, and is both durable and affordable. Add to that the wide variety of vinyl siding colors, styles and accessories now available, and you've got one building material that's earned its popularity.

Perhaps what surprises homeowners most about vinyl siding is its ability to replicate the look of natural wood. Even those homeowners who in the past have used only cedar or redwood siding have responded favorably to vinyl's newest generation of wood-like panel designs.

Many vinyl siding manufacturers have tried to duplicate the look of wood by embossing panels with wood-like patterns based on artist renderings and photographs. While this marked a significant early step in the replication of wood patterns, further advances have even more closely reproduced the authentic texture and dimensionality of real wood. Today, in fact, homeowners no longer have to compromise the natural look of wood for the performance benefits of vinyl. Grades of siding have been produced that are hard to distinguish from real wood, even upon close examination.

At the forefront of these developments is CertainTeed Corporation, the first vinyl siding manufacturer to use real wood in developing a pattern for its siding panels. In creating Monogram™, a siding line with an authentic woodgrain texture, CertainTeed design and marketing specialists went right to the source — Mother Nature. They searched lumberyards for cedar panels with distinctive patterns (minus the knotholes and other imperfections). Then, using rubber molds and a unique transfer process, engravers created master tooling that duplicated the texture of the original cedar boards — on both the rough-sawn and smooth sides. Embossing rolls were etched with these finely detailed grains, and the resulting finishes helped usher in a new generation of wood-like vinyl siding products.

CertainTeed has also replicated the craftsmanship of split cedar shakes in its newest siding line, Cedar Impressions™. As its name suggests, this 7-inch exposure siding panel is manufactured in molds patterned after real cedar shingles, offering surface detail that is remarkably faithful to the texture and dimensionality of cedar. Panels are constructed with durable polypropylene, providing both protection and durability comparable to vinyl.

With its durability, low-maintenance requirements and long-lasting beauty, the advantages of vinyl siding have always been apparent to cost-conscious homeowners. And now, with continuing developments in the recreation of authentic woodgrain finishes and textures, vinyl siding has an aesthetic appeal to match.

For more information on Monogram, Cedar Impressions and the complete line of CertainTeed siding products, please write to CertainTeed Corporation, VBPG, Siding Division, P.O. Box 860, Valley Forge, PA, 19482.

Heat Pump Uses Earth For Energy

Vertical pipe layout

Horizontal pipe layout

A new electric technology—the ground source heat pump—now uses the earth's energy to heat and cool a home. The ground source heat pump offers year-round energy savings compared with other systems. And, many electric utilities offer their customers cash back when they install this new system, according to the Edison Electric Institute and the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association, two national electric utility trade associations.

Electric utilities do this because ground source heat pumps have high energy-efficiency ratings. These heat pumps also return a more even year-round demand on utility power plants. Both of these factors can help a utility delay the need for building more plants.

Air and ground source heat pumps can provide heating and cooling from a single unit. They do so because they transfer heat instead of creating it. For this reason, electric heat pumps can return more in heating or cooling comfort than it costs in electricity to operate the system.

The now traditional air-source heat pump, which dates back to the 1950s, exchanges heat with the outdoor air via the familiar compressor unit that sits in the background. Instead of an outdoor compressor, the relatively new ground source heat pump exchanges heat with the ground via underground plastic piping.

Energy Savings

Ground source heat pumps work less to exchange than air-source heat pumps do. That's because the ground's temperature in most parts of the country remains a year-round 55 to 60 degrees, while the air temperature can fluctuate much more widely. The earth's stable temperature translates into bigger energy savings for the home owner. In fact, you can get up to $4.00 in heating or cooling from each dollar of electricity.

Other Advantages

Ground source heat pumps offer other advantages as well. Some systems can provide year-round hot water. During the air conditioning mode, the water heating is "free"; the system takes the house's heat, and puts it into the water heating tank.

The compressor is permanently sealed, like your refrigerator, and normally doesn't require refrigerant refills. Since it has no outdoor compressor, you and your neighbors will appreciate its quiet operation. A ground source heat pump's piping configuration can be laid out in a horizontal trench, or a vertical hole, depending on soil conditions. The cost to install either ground-source heat pump makes the system costlier than a regular air-to-air heat pump, but the energy savings will pay you back the difference in 3 to 5 years.

For more information on this exciting new technology, contact your electric utility.

Natural Gas Dryers Reduce Laundry Costs

Natural gas clothes dryers cost from one-half to two-thirds less to operate than all-electric dryers, depending on local utility rates, according to the American Gas Association.

In fact, a gas dryer can save a household more than $500 over a 13-year appliance lifetime. Any additional purchase or installation costs can often be recovered quickly through lower operating costs, A.G.A. says.

Today's natural gas dryers use less than half the energy of some older natural gas models. This is in part because many natural gas dryers now available light automatically and no longer need a continuously burning pilot light.

Natural gas clothes dryers can feature advanced controls that enable consumers to conveniently dry a wide variety of fabrics without worry. In addition to the customary timer, many now offer automatic electronic sensors that can stop the dryer when the correct temperature or moisture level is reached.

Sensor-controlled drying involves less guess work and uses energy more efficiently. Many of today's natural gas dryers also have automatic cool-down capability. This is a five- to 10-minute period at the end of each cycle

Natural gas dryers are available in compact, regular and extra large sizes, with drum widths ranging from 24 to 29 inches. Compact dryers often can be stacked on top of compact washers. They are ideal for consumers living in small homes, apartments or condominiums because they take up less than five square feet of floor space.

Regular-sized natural gas dryers are designed to handle average loads, but are less efficient than large volume units when handling extra large loads and bulky household items. Average energy input ranges from 18,000 to 25,000 Btu, or British thermal units, per hour. Full-sized washers and dryers are also available in stacked units.

Extra large dryer drums are usually over six cubic feet in size. Energy input into one of these models ranges from about 18,000 to 30,000 Btu per hour.

Consumers purchasing natural gas appliances should look for the Blue Star Design Certification Seal from the American Gas Association Laboratories or a similar safety certification from another nationally recognized testing agency, A.G.A. officials say.

Restaurant-Style Gas Ranges Now Available For Home Use

The growing popularity of home entertaining and gourmet cooking is spurring interest in restaurant-style natural gas ranges for the home, say consumer specialists at the American Gas Association.

Amateur chefs across the nation are discovering that the added control, speed, capacity and versatility of professional-quality natural gas ranges can greatly enhance their ability to create and enjoy gourmet-quality meals right in their own kitchen.

Several manufacturers now market these commercial-style natural gas ranges specifically designed for household use. The units offer the option of cooking on a greater number of burners, the ability to control temperatures with great precision and the capacity to generate high heat outputs when necessary.

These professional gas ranges for the home also offer important safety features, such as extra insulation and child-proof knobs. Because these ranges are capable of producing large amounts of heat, it is necessary to install a vent hood. However, a sprinkler system isn't required as it would be with a standard commercial range.

Many of these home ranges can be installed with "zero clearance," which means they can be placed next to walls and cupboards without the 6-inch clearance or insulating material required for commercial ranges.

Consumers considering the purchase of a professional-type range should also keep in mind the size and weight of the unit, experts say. A standard residential range weighs about 200 pounds, while home gourmet ranges can weigh 450 pounds or more. Additional floor joists may be needed to support the extra weight. Since professional-quality gas ranges are much larger than standard gas ranges, they require more space in the kitchen. In addition, because of the high heat output of the ranges, heavy-duty, commercial-grade cookware should be used.

The A.G.A. certifies natural gas appliances for compliance with national safety standards. The Association recommends that consumers look for its Blue Star Design Certification Seal or other nationally recognized safety certification on all natural gas appliances. Although commercial ranges are not A.G.A.-approved for home use, the association has certified professional-type ranges from several manufacturers that are designed specifically for residential installation.

A.G.A. also recommends checking local building codes and requirements before purchasing any equipment.
