

Star parents say their daughters still suffer pangs of high school closing

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

It has been a little more than three months since the girls at Our Lady Star of the Sea emptied their lockers and said goodbye to their high school.

While all have moved on to other schools, some have been unable to forget the tumultuous months that preceded the closing of the all-girls' school in Grosse Pointe Woods.

It's the little reminders, said one parent. It's the church bulletin or the local newspaper heralding the new middle school housed in the former high school.

It's the comments made to former Star students as they walk the hallways of their new schools, said a former student.

It's finding out that a scholarship from Star doesn't transfer to a non-Catholic school or that classes taken at Star aren't accepted at another school, said another parent.

"Some of our daughters are having problems adjusting," said parent Rose Klusek, whose 16-year-old daughter Sarah is now attending Lutheran High East in Harper Woods. "Our main concern right now is for our girls. My daughter doesn't feel she fits in. She's trying to find another school like Star."

Klusek and other parents who have kept in touch over the summer decided to form a breakfast club/support group for parents of former Star of the Sea students.

The group members meet periodically for breakfast at local restaurants to vent their feelings, talk about how their daughters are doing, swap strategies on how to cope and discuss whether they will pursue further legal action against the Archdiocese of Detroit.

Earlier this year, a group of parents unsuccessfully sought an injunction against the archdiocese to prevent it from closing the 130-student high school.

Wayne County Circuit Judge Cynthia Stephens denied the request, stating that it would be too burdensome for the courts to supervise the operation of a high school.

Feelings about the school-closing are varied. One mother said the experience has challenged her family's faith in the Catholic church. Some parents and daughters have left the church, soured by the experience. Others have drawn upon their faith to help them forgive and move on.

WE'RE CONCERNED ABOUT YESTERDAY'S NEWS.

News can appear one day and be gone the next. But the paper news is printed on can and should live on.

Last year, more than one-third of all U.S. newspapers was recycled. And that number is growing every day.

Recycling is the one way we can all give something back.

Shores survey favors razing Vernier school by 2-1 margin

By Chip Chapman
Staff Writer

Almost two-thirds of Shores residents responding to a survey suggested the 77-year-old Vernier school building be demolished.

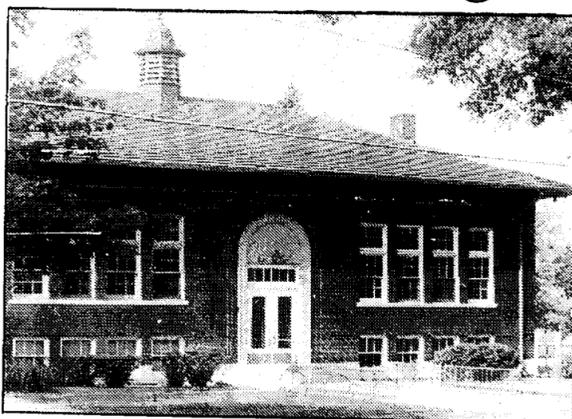

The village council, which will make the ultimate decision concerning the fate of the building, has talked with the Grosse Pointe Historical Society, which wants to save the building for its own use.

The Shores plans to send a letter to the historical society specifying all necessary provisions regarding the society's use and funding of the building's restoration and maintenance.

If the historical society wishes to comply with the provisions, the Shores will give the society until Feb. 1, 1994, to conduct a feasibility study.

The Shores has indicated it will not sell the building.

The building has been largely unused for almost 40 years and the village council decided to gather input from the residents, in the form of a survey, to see how people in the Shores felt about the Vernier school.

Barbara Willett, village trustee and municipal buildings chairman, drafted a letter to Shores residents and included a postcard for them to return with comments.

About 14 percent of Shores registered voters returned the postcards and the responses were divided into three categories: save, demolish and other.

Of the 316 individual responses, 199 recommended tearing down the school, 98 wanted to save it and 19 gave other suggestions, such as moving the building to another site or

Local health care experts like Clinton plan, await details

By Chip Chapman
Staff Writer

People around the country might be treating President Clinton's health care speech with some skepticism, but health care providers around Grosse Pointe view it with cautious optimism.

"I thought he did a great job with the speech," said Henry DeVries, president and chief executive officer of Bon Secours Hospital in Grosse Pointe City. "He's committed to tackling a complicated issue. Unfortunately, he did not go into any specifics."

Gregory Vasse, president and chief executive officer of Cottage Hospital in Grosse Pointe Farms greeted the president's speech "quite favorably."

"I agree with the basics of the plan," he said. "If we can help and support these motives, we have an opportunity that is unequalled."

"We were very excited about the reform opportunity," said Glenn Wesselmann, chairman, president and chief executive officer of St. John Hospital and Medical Center in Detroit.

"We've seen so many patient concerns in our organization, particularly in terms of access — patients not being able to get health care until it's very late in their disease or not having the financial areas to support their expense. So we are very pleased that the president is addressing this issue."

Lynda Clute of Grosse Pointe Woods is the director of provider affairs for Northwood Inc., a managed care network based in Center Line that provides home care products and services exclusively.

She believes the final version of the health care plan will be different than what the president proposed in his speech, but she liked what she heard.

"I believe that it will shift more patients from hospital/institutional settings into home care, which is patient-preferred and more cost effective," Clute said. "We'll be able to provide the services they need."

DeVries agrees. "We are moving toward outpatient care. This plan will create less demand for in-patient services, he said."

DeVries added that the health care emphasis will shift toward primary and preventive care. He mentioned that incentives, like free mammograms and prostate examinations as part of basic health care packages, have already encouraged people to seek preventive care.

Managed competition might appear to be a contradiction in terms, but Vasse and DeVries believe that large regional networks, not individual hospitals, competing against each other will result in improved care and lower costs.

"There needs to be more details on health care alliances and how the rates will be set,"

Suspect held in slaying of News employee

A 19-year-old Detroit man was expected to appear in 36th District Court on Tuesday, Sept. 28, for a preliminary hearing in connection with the Sept. 9 shooting death of a 47-year-old Detroit man and Grosse Pointe News employee.

Richard Baldwin was arrested by Detroit police on Sept. 12 following a tip from a neighbor who witnessed the 2 a.m. incident at Alter Road near Lozier.

Baldwin was arraigned before magistrate Lzetta Bright on Sept. 16 on charges of first-degree murder, assault with intent to rob and use of a firearm in the commission of a felony.

The tipster told Detroit police that the man who allegedly shot and killed Grosse Pointe News employee Robert Coe was well-known in the neighborhood. Apparently, Coe and one of his brothers had come to the aid of a third brother whose car had broken down at Alter and Lozier.

A gunman approached the trio and demanded money and jewelry. When Robert Coe intervened, he was shot in the neck. He was dead on arrival at St. John Hospital.

Auction to benefit wetlands

The Grosse Pointe chapter of Ducks Unlimited will host its 16th annual banquet on Thursday, Oct. 7, at The Gourmet House in St. Clair Shores. Tickets at $60 include game dinner, open bar and membership in Ducks Unlimited. The event will feature a silent and live auction hosted by Dan Stall. Some of the items to be auctioned or raffled include framed art, a special canoe package, premium firearms, sports equipment, fantasy getaways, sports memorabilia and jewelry.

The objective of the auction is to raise $40,000, which goes to the national organization for support and reclamation of wetlands and conservation throughout North America. Through 1992, Ducks Unlimited raised more than $750 million, conserved more than 6 million wetland acres and benefitted more than 600 species of wildlife.

For ticket information, call Hohlfeldt at 882-6811 or 468-2725.

Health care

DeVries said. "The whole issue of rate controls is problematic. Historically, it hasn't worked. We have to allow managed competition to work, but anti-trust laws for hospitals must be relaxed."

"Hopefully, restrictions will be eased for health-related entities," Vasse said. "The element of competition is strong. It will drive systems to save money and increase collaboration between physicians and hospitals."

President Clinton cited ponderous paperwork as a reason for higher costs and inefficiencies. His vision is to have a single form for patients to fill out.

"The single claim form idea is fantastic," Vasse said. "It can be realistic."

However, Vasse added that he didn't think it would change Medicare and Medicaid reimbursement schedules.

DeVries called the single claim form "a dream we must help to actualize." But he added, "It's not going to be easy to get down to a single form."

Clute feels that the president's plan should eliminate unnecessary paperwork placed on physicians and providers.

One concern is the issue of global budgeting — having one cost structure for the entire country.

"Health statistics are different in different places," Vasse said. "Expenses in Detroit may be different than in Des Moines."

"My impression is that this will be a state-directed effort, with national guidelines," DeVries said.

"What concerns me is that if states have jurisdiction, we could end up with 50 different plans," Clute said.

All four are optimistic about the president's plan and are looking forward to seeing it in its final form.

"His efforts are aimed at reducing total costs," Vasse said.

"We're encouraged the president has opened up the debate," DeVries said. "Providers, including physicians, should be part of the discussion."

"We enthusiastically support health care reform that results in high quality care for everyone," Wesselmann said. "We also encourage the reduction of costly duplicative services and we're excited about new opportunities to improve our health care system."

Clute said she attended a legislative conference on health care in Washington just before the speech and was pleased to see the bi-partisan cooperation between members of Congress.

"It is something everyone believes in," Clute said.

"I was raised in the Catholic church and attended Catholic school for all of my educational years," said Shannon Curtis, who now attends Regina High School. "I've always been religious and believed in everything the church said. They said they would do everything they could to support us and they didn't."

While those who are upset by the closing admit they have to accept the situation, they contend the parish and archdiocese did little to help the girls emotionally.

"Where was the church when we needed it?" asked parent Jim Kozlowski. "Where were they to help us find a new school? Who asked us how we felt, how we were doing? All we heard is, 'We'll pray for you.'"

"The biggest problem these girls have had is that no one has ever said 'I'm sorry,'" said parent Margaret Curtis.

Ned McGrath, spokesman for the archdiocese, said the archdiocese had meetings, offered to bring in other schools to make presentations and made available other services, all of which were to be coordinated by the school principal.

"The responsibility of running the school is the principal's and not the archdiocese's," McGrath said. "If there were complaints on how things were handled, the archdiocese was out there quite often offering support in any shape or form. In any situation like that, we don't come in and impose unless we've been asked."

Star of the Sea monsignor Dennis Harrity said the parish and school worked with the families to help ease the transition.

"The school principal and counselors worked with the students and with other schools in the area. The parish council set aside in this year's budget more than $10,000 to provide for scholarships for students who were here last year to continue their education at other Catholic schools," Harrity said.

"I went to all the pastors in the area to convince them of the worth of the school and get them to pledge support of the school. It wasn't until April or May that it was finally decided that the concept of a regional school was not going to fly."

The Star of the Sea parish council voted in February to make Star a regional school to be supported and governed jointly by the archdiocese and an elected board of governors.

In April, the parish council resolved to enter into a non-renewable, two-year lease with the proposed regional school. Furthermore, the council resolved that the high school — as a parish school — should not continue to operate after June

Archbishop Adam Maida then informed the parish that a two-year lease was too short to expect the regional school to stabilize itself. Therefore, the school should be closed.

Administrators at three area high schools verified that they were working with the Star staff to help the girls find a new school.

Bishop Gallagher academic counselor Carol Szuba said her school has agreed to give a Star of the Sea diploma to any graduating former Star student who wishes to have one. The principals at Regina and Dominican high schools said they were offering similar opportunities.

"It is part of our program to meet with transfer students and talk about the problems they are experiencing," Szuba said. "I think (Star) did what it could to help the young ladies. Having been through a school closing myself, it was very difficult. There's always a feeling of, I don't want to say abandonment, but of 'How could they do this to me?'"

"We knew it was painful at the time," McGrath said. "We didn't think it would just go away and we respect the fact that people are still pained by this."

As to whether the school or the archdiocese offered private counseling for the displaced students, McGrath said even if he could track down that information, it is confidential and he could not discuss it.

"(The school's) have been good and have tried to help," Curtis said. "But it just doesn't go away. The parish did nothing to help. Many of the parents thought the girls should have had some way to talk this out, discuss it. They had a lot of anger and bitterness and no chance to express those feelings."

person she met nearly 50 years ago.

The 71-year-old Grosse Pointe City resident never became a household name in the decade she spent singing, dancing and acting on Broadway (her stage name was Elizabeth Early) but those days will always be the best in her life, she said.

Although a clipping from the Detroit Times described Kegley's voice as having "an effortless purity," she said her shyness and self-doubt made her "always the bridesmaid and never the bride."

Kegley performed in four major Broadway musicals and in all but one role she was an understudy.

In 1944 she understudied the role of Laurie in "Oklahoma" and did 50 performances; in 1945, she understudied the part of Julie in "Carousel"; in 1949, Kegley landed the lead role of Fiona in "Brigadoon"; and in 1949-50, she performed the role of Nellie 300 times as an understudy in "South Pacific."

"I was always an understudy," Kegley said. "Always because I never thought I was good enough."

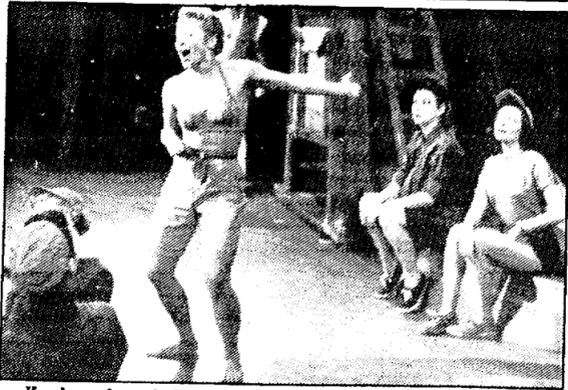

As an understudy, Kegley said she received the same wardrobe and training, and was expected to rehearse as vigorously, as the lead players.

Her greatest moment on stage was during "South Pacific," she said. Mary Martin was playing Nellie. It was the scene where Nellie is telling the nurses she's "going to wash that man right out of my hair." Martin steps into the shower and loses her voice. The orchestra is playing. Martin's voice stops.

Without missing a beat, Kegley picks up where Martin's voice left off, steps onto the stage and continues the role before the audience has a chance to realize something has gone wrong.

Kegley said that is how she paid back the legendary Broadway team of Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein, who hired her for the role.

When she auditioned for the role, Kegley said she was shaking like a leaf.

"I sang 'Cockeyed Optimist,' which is the first song. I had no problem with the singing. Then I started the Nellie role, the pages were shaking and falling onto the stage, tears were running down my face and then I said, 'I'm sorry,' and then Dick Rodgers said, 'Betty, come on down here and sit down.'"

"Oscar Hammerstein took my hand and said, 'We're only ordinary people.' Rodgers told me to take a walk around the block, come back in through the stage door and do it again."

Kegley said she walked out of the theater, onto 44th street, around to Broadway and along the way pleaded with God to let her do it right this time. She walked back in, sang the part again and got the job.

"My dream was to be a singer," she said, remembering how, as a child, she thought it would be the greatest accomplishment to be accepted for the grade-school chorus.

Kegley was born in Flint. After a few moves, her family settled in East Lansing. While there, her family befriended a woman named Elva Schell, whom Kegley remains friends with today.

Back then, Schell was president of the Lansing Theatre Player's Guild, where Kegley received her first dramatic lessons.

Kegley's family moved to Detroit when she was 15 and she graduated from Redford High School. She sang in the high-school chorus and studied classical singing for four years with a Methodist church choir.

Bottle thrown at Woods boy

A 14-year-old Woods boy told police that a teenager driving a GMC Jimmy threw a beer bottle at him at 10:30 p.m. Sept. 24, as he was riding his bicycle along Cook Road.

The boy, who was riding near the Hunt Club with two friends, said the teenagers approached, driving west on Cook, began yelling obscenities at them, turned around in a driveway and then the driver threw a bottle at the boy, striking him in the knee.

Although the boy's knee was bleeding, he did not need medical attention. One of the boy's friends said he recognized the vehicle and knew where the driver lived. Grosse Pointe Woods police are investigating the incident.

immediately after the two men walked out of the store.

Girl reports indecent exposure

A 15-year-old Grosse Pointe Park girl told police that two teenage boys were yelling obscene remarks to her as she walked by the Defer Elementary School playground on Nottingham near Kercheval on Sept. 17.

The girl continued walking away from the school and the boys began following her, riding double on a bicycle.

One of the boys then dropped his pants and exposed his buttocks to the girl. The suspects are described as two black youths in their early to mid teens. The offender had a shaved head.

Sept. 22 that they saw two men pushing snowblowers down the alley between Lakepointe and Beaconsfield.

The callers said they saw the men attempt to conceal the snowblowers when they heard a car approaching.

Responding patrol cars spotted the suspects near St. Paul and Alter Road. The men were arrested and the snowblowers recovered in a nearby yard. They had been reported stolen from houses in the 1000 block of Lakepointe and the 1300 block of Berkshire.

Equipment lifted from idling van

A truck driver for a Madison Heights hardware store reported to Grosse Pointe Farms police that $380 worth of equipment was stolen out of his unlocked van parked in front of Cottage Hospital on Sept. 21.

Reported stolen were saws, drills and grinders.

Farms home hit by stone tossers

A Grosse Pointe Farms woman who lives on Lee Gate Lane told police that someone threw at least 100 rocks at her house Sept. 25.

The woman reported damage to storm windows, a garage door, gutters and a down spout. She gathered about 100 two-to-four-inch rocks scattered on the driveway and lawn. There were no witnesses to the vandalism and police are investigating.

Did they or didn't they?

An employee at the Village Food Market on Mack reported to Grosse Pointe Farms police that two men stole eight cartons of cigarettes from the store on Sept. 21.

The employee pointed out two men who were standing in front of a nearby party store and accused them of stealing the cigarettes. Farms police officers searched the men and did not find the allegedly stolen goods.

Police determined that no one had witnessed the theft and that store employees had noticed the cigarettes missing

Local graphic designer likes the ties that bind him to Detroit

Grosse Pointe Shores resident Dominic Pangborn has added necktie designer to his list of accomplishments. Pangborn is owner and principal of Pangborn Design, a Detroit-based graphic design firm.

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

Detroit doesn't have the world's greatest reputation as a fashion design center, but for Grosse Pointe Shores resident Dominic Pangborn, that's no reason not to start a line of designer ties.

Pangborn, who has a graphic design business on Iron Street in Detroit, is a tie collector.

"I must have 500 or 600 ties," Pangborn said. "I know every kind of tie out there. This is something I've wanted to do for a long time."

Pangborn decided to get into the tie business earlier this year. It took him about four months to go from the idea to producing samples. He designs the ties himself.

"We are a graphic design company," Pangborn said. "We design brochures and annual reports for companies, so this isn't that much of a change for me. I use a computer to design the ties. They are made using a silk-screen process, which isn't that different from how reports are printed."

The ties are 100 percent silk and hand sewn. They are being made in Korea and Canada. Pangborn is also in the midst of arranging for his ties to be made in Milan, Italy, one of Europe's fashion capitals.

"I hope to come out with a new series of ties every quarter," Pangborn said. "I just got back from the 'Magic' show in Las Vegas. There I learned that right now, the best selling ties are colorful and bold, which is what I design."

(Magic is the Men's Accessory Guild of California.)

Pangborn said he's not into gimmick ties, like the Bugs Bunny tie a person might wear twice.

"At $65, that's a lot of money for a joke," said Pangborn. "My ties are imaginative and unique. They don't follow some designer trend."

Pangborn's ties will be sold at Sachs Fifth Avenue in the Fairlane Mall. Two Birmingham men's stores, the Adamo Collection and Executive Custom Shirtmakers and Tailors, will also sell the ties. Pangborn is looking for men's stores in Grosse Pointe to carry his designs.

"I sent out a release to my customers," Pangborn said. "I heard back from a lot of them, and they want to know where they can buy the ties. The reaction so far, has been great."

Right now, fashion dictates that the base of a tie be between 3.5 inches to 4 inches wide. Pangborn's ties are 3.5 inches wide.

He admits that people don't often associate Detroit with graphics or clothing design. It can be hard to sell something to someone from New York or Chicago when they learn about the Detroit connection.

"People ask me why I have my headquarters in Detroit," said Pangborn. "I say why not? When people see the quality of our work, they don't believe that we are based in Detroit. I don't care what they believe as long as they like the work and buy it."

Locals pair up to produce Grosse Pointe poster

Betty Carpenter of Grosse Pointe Farms and Barbara Cavanaugh of Cavanaugh's Office Supplies, 16837 Kercheval in the Village, have put together a Grosse Pointe poster with a new angle.

"It was Barb Cavanaugh's idea," Carpenter said. Purchasers can include a photograph of their own house/boat/office/pet/whatever in a Grosse Pointe poster that also features more than 50 photos of local landmarks.

Carpenter is a professional photographer. She has been marketing photographs of the Grosse Pointes in the form of postcards and calendars for several years.

She went out on a limb, she said, in 1985, by financing the publication of five of her photographs of Grosse Pointe on postcards.

"Those 32,000 postcards were delivered to my home all at once," she said. "I thought, 'What have I gotten into?' But they paid for themselves within 10 months. I'm now down to less than 6,000."

She published calendars with 12 local scenes for two years — 1990 and 1991.

And she published a collage of Grosse Pointe photographs in poster form two years ago.

"The poster is still selling well," she said. It's a collage of more than 50 of Carpenter's photos of Grosse Pointe sites and includes all five Pointes, all seasons, all times of the day, aerial and ground shots, views of private clubs, public buildings, private homes, street scenes, landscapes, Lake St. Clair, and more.

The poster is also available on T-shirts, magnets and sweat-shirts.

The new personalized poster is the same collage, but with an inserted photo of the purchaser's choice — usually his or her home.

"I can take the photo myself," Carpenter said, "or I can use a photo you have."

Carpenter graduated from Wellesley College with a bachelor's degree in art history. She attended the Center for Creative Studies, then went to work for Hudson's as a set designer and eventually manager of the firm's commercial photography department.

She struck out on her own by opening her own business in 1981. She does commercial photographic assignments — brochures, fashions, landscapes, interiors, family portraits, pet portraits and more.

She recently spent time in Lincoln, England, taking photographs of the Lincoln Cathedral which she'll publish in the form of postcards, posters, notecards and T-shirts and sell in England.

"I got into that only because no enterprising photographer in Lincoln thought of doing it. Often we're too close to things and don't think of the obvious," she said.

Betty Carpenter of Grosse Pointe Farms, a professional photographer, boosts Grosse Pointe by publishing photographs of the area in the form of calendars, posters and post cards. Her newest offering is a Grosse Pointe collage which includes the purchaser's house.

Milk River Board turns down most expensive erosion control option

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

The Milk River Drain Board voted 2-1 to go with a less expensive erosion control system over the strong protests of St. Clair Shores residents.

The board met Monday at 10 a.m. in the Grosse Pointe Woods council chamber. The meeting was originally scheduled to be held in the Woods Community Center, but the large number of people attending made it necessary to move the meeting to the council chamber.

The main topic of discussion was what sort of erosion system would be built along the Milk River. St. Clair Shores residents who live along the river were urging the construction of a steel sheet piling system. The steel sheeting would form a wall and completely end erosion along the Milk River.

Steel sheet construction bids ranged between $1.5 million to $3 million. Alternative erosion controls bids, the gabion basket method and ripwrap blocks, were considerably less expensive. The gabion basket from the Ric-Man Construction was $291,000.

Gabion basket erosion control uses thick wire mesh and stones to protect river and creek banks. Ripwrap erosion control uses large concrete blocks to protect river banks.

The Milk River is used by Grosse Pointe Woods and Harper Woods to dump storm overflow. Federal and state authorities mandated that Harper Woods and Grosse Pointe Woods reduce the number of discharges into the river, and that the water they do discharge be clean.

To that end, the two cities have begun a $30 million project to control discharges. A multi-million gallon retention basin is being built to handle sewer overflow, and the water that will be discharged into the Milk River will be chlorinated.

To further prevent sediment from building up on the bottom of the river, lake water is being pumped to the Milk River's outflow point. The water will create a current that makes sediment build-up less likely. This has also created a greater erosion problem.

St. Clair Shores residents maintain that because the erosion is created by Grosse Pointe Woods and Harper Woods' drain system, the two cities should pay all the erosion control costs.

St. Clair Shores residents also told the drain board that erosion over the years has caused considerable damage to their property.

"I've lost 18 inches of land over the past two years," said Ken Kane. "If you put in gabion baskets you take off 20 feet of people's property. What are the maintenance costs. Gabion baskets and ripwrap attract mice and rats. I am paying taxes for the right to live on a beautiful river, but Grosse Pointe Woods and Harper Woods are saying sorry, but there isn't enough money left to build a good erosion system. "You people in Wayne County don't care about us. You don't own the river — we do. The right-of-way can be taken away. If you maintain something, it can be taken away anytime."

James Murray, Wayne County's director of public works and the Wayne representative on the drain board, pointed out that while the drain board had not constructed erosion controls in the past, the board has also not objected when St. Clair Shores residents built swimming pools, sheds and other buildings on the river's easement. The board could have objected, and still can. If it wanted to, it could order all constructs off the easement area.

"We don't have a legal obligation to put in steel sheet piling," said Murray. "It is very clear that the drain board has control of the easement for drain purposes. You people are saying that we need to come in with steel sheet piling to protect your property from nature. Well nature did not put in swimming pools and sheds."

Macomb County's representative to the drain board Anthony Marrocco, spoke strongly for the steel sheet piling.

"I really have to agree with the people," said Marrocco. "Just because something was done wrong 30 years ago doesn't mean we should do something wrong today. The people in Macomb want steel sheet piling because it is the best erosion fighter. They are not the ones dumping into the Milk River. Wayne residents are. Wayne residents should pay for it."

Marrocco's remarks were met with applause from most of the audience. Wayne County commissioner Andrew Richner and Woods councilmember Thomas Fahrner were on hand to speak on behalf of Wayne County's residents.

"It is unfair to place the burden of paying for erosion control on the citizens of Harper Woods and Grosse Pointe Woods," Richner said. "Erosion control is not part of the federal mandate. St. Clair Shores residents now want Wayne County residents to pay for the most expensive erosion control. They receive all the benefits and Wayne residents pay all the costs."

Richner's comments were not well-received by most of the audience. When the issue was put to a vote, the state's representative on the board, Michael Gregg, cast the deciding vote.

Gregg said that St. Clair Shores residents deserved some form of erosion control, and Wayne residents were obligated to pay for it. But he felt that paying for the most expensive alternative was not right.

"It would be unprecedented to my knowledge, that a drain board would order the most expensive system," said Gregg. "The board is responsible for bank stabilization. The board is also responsible to the people who have to pay for it. It is our job to find the most economical way to do the job."

Gregg said that if St. Clair Shores residents wanted steel sheet piling, the board would probably be willing to give them the money they would have spent on a different system as a contribution toward steel sheet piling. Gregg said that the board would consider alternative erosion control methods and would aim at making a final decision in December.

The next drain board meeting is tentatively scheduled for Tuesday, Oct. 19, at 10 a.m. in the Woods Community Center.

Park toddler summons police

A 3 1/2-year-old Grosse Pointe Park girl was paying attention on Law Day last May when public safety officers demonstrated how to call 911 in an emergency.

Kathleen Maple, daughter of Grosse Pointe Park public safety Lt. Mark Maple and Bridgette Maple, a municipal court probation officer, picked up the phone and dialed 911 on Sept. 17 when her little sister began choking on a piece of meat.

Kathleen's mother couldn't call because she was busy applying the Heimlich maneuver her year-old daughter. When the dispatcher answered the phone, Kathleen didn't know what to say, but because the department has a new display 911 system, the dispatcher was able to determine the address of the caller and send help immediately.

Police and paramedics arrived at the house just as Bridgette Maple successfully dislodged the meat from the baby's throat.

Wayne County seeks to set up health program in Grosse Pointe

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

A representative of the Wayne County Health Department asked the Grosse Pointe Park City Council Monday night to help set up a health advisory board to examine the specific medical needs of the Grosse Pointes and Harper Woods.

Dr. Peter Warner, technical services director for the county health department, told the council that the department is setting up a program to analyze health patterns in specific regions of the county.

The program would be based on other programs across the country. Representatives from the health department will, in the next few weeks, ask the councils of all five Pointes and Harper Woods to appoint representatives to the Community Health Status Advisory Board.

The advisory board would then examine the health statistics of the six cities to see what health areas could be improved upon.

"For example, the eastside has only 5.9 percent of the total population covered by the Wayne County Health Department," Warner said. "But the eastside also has 10.5 percent of heart-related death."

Warner went on to say that when the age of eastsiders is factored in, they fare no better than other communities. The high education and income levels of eastsiders should mean that they suffer lower heart disease death rates.

By studying health factors, the advisory board could better educate the public on how to avoid heart risks, Warner said. For example, eastside restaurants could make heart-smart menus available.

Another example cited by Warner was the possible identification of street intersections with high accidents rates. Perhaps by changing the timing of lights, accidents could be avoided, he said.

"The point is to find areas where eastsiders suffer, health-wise," said Warner. "Then the advisory board could recommend solutions."

Advisory board members would meet once a month for a few hours. They would have the resources of the Wayne County Health Department at their disposal. If they had questions, or needed help in analyzing data, they could ask the health department.

Recommendations would be made after a year. The eastside would be the first area in Wayne County to do this, said Warner. The health department is in the process of identifying other regions in the county for study.

Grosse Pointe Park was the first eastside city council to be contacted. Warner's department will be contacting the other councils in the next few weeks. He would like to see the cities' representatives appointed to the advisory board by Thanksgiving.

"The appointees do not have to have any medical expertise," said Warner. "As a matter of fact, we are looking for people without medical backgrounds because we want people with a different perspective."

The council thanked Warner for attending the meeting, and promised to give the request further consideration. They did not say when or if an appointment would be made.

Woods considers new soccer site at Ghesquiere

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

Grosse Pointe Woods has selected four possible sites for soccer fields at Ghesquiere Park after months of kicking the matter around.

Last June, the Grosse Pointe Soccer Association asked the Woods city council to consider building a soccer field at Lakefront Park. After weighing the idea, Woods officials said that Ghesquiere Park would be a better place for a soccer field.

At last week's council meeting several potential sites were unveiled. At the suggestion of the council, an area by the park's abandoned tennis courts was also placed on the site list. The three other sites are along the park's border with Kenmore Street.

The Ghesquiere sites were selected with several factors in mind. The fields had to be placed far away from the park's batting cages, and other athletic areas. The sites also had to be in relatively treeless areas, so if the fields are built, not too many if any trees would have to be moved or cut down.

This has necessitated placing three potential sites by Kenmore Street. Margaret Potter attended the council meeting and asked if residents who live near the park would be informed of any hearings on construction.

Mayor Robert Novitke asked that city officials contact park neighbors about any further public meetings in which the proposal would be discussed. Potter told the council she was afraid that the trees along Kenmore, which currently act as a noise buffer, would be torn down.

The modified plans call for building two smaller fields for youths 5-years old and younger. The fields would be 150 feet by 90 feet. A standard football field, by comparison, measures 300 feet by 150 feet, not including end zone space.

"There are about 300 Grosse Pointe youths aged 5 and under who play soccer in organized leagues," said John Bruce of the Neighborhood Club. "There is a great demand for more athletic fields of all kinds, including soccer. Many soccer fields are dual-use fields, and during the spring, different sports compete for the same fields."

Bruce is also the chair of the Grosse Pointe field use committee. The committee coordinates the use of outdoor athletic fields between the Neighborhood Club, all the Little League programs, Babe Ruth baseball, the Grosse Pointe Soccer Association, Red Barons football, the Grosse Pointe Girl's Soccer Association and Grosse Pointe's parochial schools.

Charles Michael of the soccer association told the Woods council that the city would not have to foot construction costs and would only have to pay for mowing the field's grass.

A city engineer's report stated that the cost of building the fields would be around $12,000 per field. The land would be leveled and drainage installed under the grass so that the fields would not become muddy because of weather.

Councilmembers were pleased with the plans, and time was set aside at the Oct. 18 council meeting to get further input from the public, and to possibly settle on the two sites for fields.

Shores seeks to set its own cable rates

By Chip Chapman
Staff Writer

In the first phase of a new cable agreement with Comcast Inc., the Grosse Pointe Shores Village Council voted unanimously Sept. 21 to adopt an ordinance that would enable the village to regulate its own cable TV rates.

The Shores, which has a separate cable arrangement than the other four Pointes, is part of Macomb County's system.

Because the U.S. Cable Television Consumer Protection and Competition Act of 1992 states that the rates of cable systems not subject to competition are therefore subject to Federal Communications Commission regulations or to an FCC certified franchise agreement.

The Shores, which falls under the meaning of the act, is therefore able to regulate rates in accordance with FCC rules.

Adopting the rate regulation ordinance is the first step in receiving franchise certification from the FCC.

Had the Shores not acted on this issue by Oct. 1, rates would have been set by Comcast.

The FCC sets a benchmark rate, based on a formula determined by the level of service and the number of subscribers. Comcast then can propose a rate which the Shores can accept, reject or modify.

The Shores will not have authority to regulate rates until certified by the FCC, which should happen in October.

The original agreement between the Shores and Comcast, drafted in 1979, expires next year.

James T. Farley

James T. Farley, a pioneer in the field of hospital administration, died of pancreatic cancer Friday, Sept. 24, 1993, at his home in Hilton Head, S.C. He was 68.

A former resident of Grosse Pointe, Mr. Farley was a founding member of the Caymich Insurance Co., which was created by Michigan hospitals to stave off a then burgeoning malpractice insurance crisis. The project became a model for hospitals in other states.

Before retiring to Hilton Head, Mr. Farley was the president and chief executive officer of St. John Hospital in Detroit from 1968-84. The James T. Farley Concentrated Care Center at St. John was named in his honor in 1989.

Before coming to St. John, he had worked at St. Luke's Medical Center in Chicago and had been executive vice president at Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center in New York.

"Jim was a pioneer in the health care field, as a pacesetter and an innovator," said Glenn A. Wesselmann, president and CEO of St. John. "He was one of the first to view corporate restructuring as it faced health care. He had great vision. He helped the clinical development in our great institution."

An Army Air Corps veteran of World War II, Mr. Farley was among the first ground troops to land in Tokyo to secure an airfield for Gen. Douglas MacArthur to land. After the war, he earned his bachelor's degree from Loyola University in Chicago and his master's in hospital administration from Northwestern University.

Active in church affairs, Mr. Farley was honored as a Knight of Malta in St. Patrick's Cathedral in 1967. He served on the board of directors of St. Vincent's Hospital in Staten Island, N.Y.; Nazareth College in Kalamazoo; Hilton Head Hospital; and the Michigan Hospital Association. He also served as president of the Michigan Hospital Association.

He is survived by his wife, Mary Jean; two daughters, Mary Margaret Mills and Patricia Campbell; three sons, James Jr., Michael and Thomas; eight grandchildren; and three brothers, Thomas, Jack and David.

A memorial mass was held Monday, Sept. 27, at St. Francis Catholic Church in Hilton Head.

Memorial contributions may be made to the St. John Hospital pediatrics department or to Hospice Volunteers of the Lowcountry, 20 Palmetto Parkway, Hilton Head, S.C. 29926.

Louis A. DeHayes Jr.

Services were held Friday, Sept. 24, at the Chas. Verheyden Inc. Funeral Home in Grosse Pointe Park for Louis A. DeHayes Jr., 75, of Grosse Pointe Farms, who died Tuesday, Sept. 21, 1993, at Oakwood Hospital in Dearborn.

Born in Detroit, Mr. DeHayes was a manufacturer's representative for Diamond Cutting Co.

He is survived by his wife, Mary Elizabeth; a brother, John DeHayes; five nephews; and one niece. Interment is at Elmwood Cemetery in Detroit.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Michigan Heart Association or to The Father Solanus Guild, 1700 Mt. Elliott, Detroit, Mich. 48207.

Robert C. Becker

Robert C. Becker, 76, recently of Grosse Pointe Farms, died of cancer Thursday, Sept. 20, 1993, at his home in Naples, Fla.

Mr. Becker managed sales at VISI-TROL Engineering Co. for more than 20 years until his retirement in 1986.

After attending Lawrence Institute of Technology, he built a successful sales network in machine tool automation. He was also the first to introduce robotics to the auto industry in Michigan and Ohio.

He excelled in all things — piloting his own plane, woodworking, mechanics, gardening — and was a music enthusiast who played his own theater organ.

He was an avid sportsman, accomplished at hunting, fishing and boating. In golf, he scored three holes-in-one.

Mr. Becker lived life to the fullest, was always upbeat, generous to others and was devoted to his family and friends.

He was a member of Lochmoor Club, Essex Golf Club, Lost Lake Woods Club, the Motor City Theater Organ Society and the Grosse Pointe Senior Men's Club.

He is survived by his wife, Helen; two daughters, Linda Scofield and Carolyn Skinner; three grandchildren; and two sisters.

Services were held Monday, Sept. 27, at the Grosse Pointe Woods Presbyterian Church. Interment is at Forest Lawn Cemetery in Detroit.

Arrangements were made by the A.H. Peters Funeral Home in Grosse Pointe Woods.

Memorial contributions may be made to Hospice of Naples, 1095 Whipoorwill Lane, Naples, Fla. 33942 or to the Grosse Pointe Woods Presbyterian Church.

Sheila Gerard Kenyon

A Mass of Christian Burial was held on Friday, Sept. 24, in Stamford, Conn., for Sheila Kenyon, 33, formerly of Grosse Pointe Farms, who died Sunday, Sept. 19, in Tampa, Fla.

Miss Kenyon earned a bachelor's degree from Brown University and an MBA from Cornell University. She worked in the marketing division of Johnson & Johnson.

Miss Kenyon is survived by her parents, Victor Gerard and Martha Kenyon; a sister, Katharine Ann Kelley; and a brother, Peter West Kenyon.

Memorial contributions may be made to St. Luke's Community Center, 9 Woodland Place, Stamford, Conn. 06902.

Minerva C. Kunerth

"Min" Kunerth, of Grosse Pointe Park, died Friday, Sept. 24, 1993. She was 89.

Born in Hope, N.D., she was one of the first group of volunteers at Cottage Hospital. Mrs. Kunerth was a member of the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club and the Sarasota Yacht Club.

Along with her culinary and hostess talents, her abilities at the bridge and gin rummy table never waned.

She is survived by a son, Alan Kunerth; three grandchildren; one great-grandchild; and a brother, Robert Rye. She was predeceased by her husband, "Kuney" Kunerth.

A memorial service will be held Saturday, Oct. 2, at East Jefferson Presbyterian Church in Detroit.

Memorial contributions may be made to East Jefferson Presbyterian Church.

Martin E. Welch

Services were held Wednesday, Sept. 29, at St. Joan of Arc Catholic Church in St. Clair Shores for Martin E. Welch, 74, of Grosse Pointe Woods, who died Saturday, Sept. 25, 1993, in Houston.

Born in Chapin, Mich., Mr. Welch was the vice president of Transition Team in Troy. Before that, he was a contract administrator for Huck Manufacturing Co. for 29 years.

Mr. Welch earned a bachelor's degree from the University of Detroit. He was a founding member of the St. Francis Club at the University of Detroit. He was also a member of the Government Contract Administrators Association. Mr. Welch enjoyed stamp collecting.

He is survived by his wife, Josephine; five sons, Martin E. III, Danile, William, Lawrence and Michael; 10 grandchildren; and three sisters.

Interment is at Mount Olivet Cemetery in Detroit.

Arrangements were made by the A.H. Peters Funeral Home in Grosse Pointe Woods.

Memorial contributions may be made to the American Heart Association.

Health care plan greeted by skepticism

A paraphrase of the traditional parental injunction at mealtime appropriately describes President Clinton these days: His eyes, like those of children, seem to be too big for his stomach.

That's a vulgar way of saying Clinton has put on his plate so many major political issues that his administration will not be able to digest them all effectively this year, if ever.

That explains in part the reason the national reception of his health care speech outlining his most important issue was received with so much public skepticism.

Just before the speech, however, the New York Times published a poll that surely was welcomed by the Clinton forces because of its backing for the program's basics.

On one issue, for example, 61 percent of the respondents said they were willing to pay higher taxes to achieve health coverage for all and to guarantee insurance after job switches or medical catastrophes.

On a second, more than half said they were willing to have the government require employers to pay most of the health insurance premiums to cover their workers, a centerpiece of the Clinton plan.

Opinion

And on a third, the public rated health care second only to the economy in national importance with 42 percent saying the nation needs "to completely rebuild" its health care system and another 48 percent calling for "fundamental change."

Yet the start of the health care campaign followed the president's appeal for approval of the North America Free Trade Agreement with Canada and Mexico which, like health care, was in trouble even before it arrived on Capitol Hill.

These two initiatives were proposed only after earlier, partisan battles to win narrow approval of Clinton's budget (a fight which cost him most of the benefits of his energy legislation) and differences with Congress over his nominees for the Supreme Court, the surgeon general's post, and other high offices.

Clinton's health care plan turned out to be so complex that many of its details are still not firmed up, and even the most important part — the financing — will not even be decided until later.

Nor is it yet clear what impact the Clinton plan would have on existing health care and insurance providers, the medical profession, covered workers, families and retirees.

However, the president's health care proposals won support from organized labor, from some big companies which see the prospect of transferring more of their current burdens to employees or the general public, and from some medical organizations such as the American College of Surgeons.

Surprisingly, most Republicans seemed to be in a cooperative mood with respect to Clinton's plan. The main GOP differences were with the financing — the requirement that 80 percent of the cost be borne by employers. But it appears the GOP would go for a more modest health care program.

As the Wall Street Journal said editorially, pricing and queuing remain the two basic ways to ration scarce resources, including health care.

But, the WSJ editorial went on, since people are not particularly comfortable with medical care rationed by either queuing or pricing, "we have tried to provide everything for everyone, and health care now accounts for 14 percent of gross domestic product."

After warning against "a heavier governmental hand," the WSJ recommends that before accepting any one plan, we need to experiment "with a variety of approaches to see what works."

Obviously, the WSJ rejects Clinton's plan and sees it as "one grand scheme subject to vast unintended consequences, and subject to catastrophic failure if its designers are not the geniuses they imagine themselves to be."

We also have doubts that many of Clinton's aims — and especially those anticipating billions in savings to offset the new and higher costs — could be achieved.

However, the president has left room for modifications and flexibility that could satisfy many of the criticisms, even though they also might delay implementation of the plan until the savings could be confirmed.

Overall, Clinton is proposing a monumental change which the public accepts in principle. The major hurdle ahead, however, is to persuade so many diverse and disparate interests to accept compromise and work out an acceptable national health care plan.

When we need a Don Quixote

Sen. John Kelly of Grosse Pointe Woods has recently come up with a useful scheme for publicizing opposition to the proposed expansion of casino gambling in Michigan.

As chairman of the Senate Select Committee on Foreign Affairs, Kelly has held two Lansing hearings to discuss and hear criticism of the recent state compact between Gov. John Engler and seven Indian tribes.

Now he has called a third next Thursday, Oct. 7, from 5:30 to 7 p.m. in the City-County Building Auditorium to hear testimony from a Detroit opposition group, "Detroit's Uniting," and others opposed to casino gaming.

When ratified by the Legislature and the U.S. Commerce Department, the pact would permit expansion of casino gambling, including the proposal for an off-reservation casino in Detroit's Greektown, despite Detroit citizens' four negative votes on casino gambling.

In sponsoring the "foreign affairs" hearings, Kelly accepted the Indians' reasoning that their independent tribes are sovereign entities which happen to be located within Michigan and, hence, their problems ought to be heard by a Senate committee on foreign affairs.

Kelly also believes the Legislature should consider whether the state should try to limit casinos only to reservation lands, because the compact, in authorizing off-reservation casinos, ignored Detroit voters.

Some of Kelly's Lansing critics label him "a bright but ineffective lawmaker with a penchant for grandstanding" and "a history of promoting or defending long-shot, often lost causes," as Detroit Free Press political columnist Hugh McDiarmid recently put it.

But sometimes the public needs a Don Quixote who may on occasion tilt at windmills but usually does it to serve the public interest.

In this case, Don Quixote Kelly surely serves the public interest better than do the politicians and businessmen who for commercial and personal reasons promote expanded casino gambling with little regard for public opinion.

John Hertel is back again

Lo and behold, John Hertel is back in the public eye again through his appointment as general manager of the Michigan State Fair.

Hertel has as many political lives as the proverbial cat. He has been a state senator and Wayne County commissioner representing Grosse Pointe districts; chairman of the Wayne County Commission, and now is a Macomb County commissioner.

He also has been mentioned over the years as a possible Democratic candidate for governor and for appointment as Wayne County sheriff — but in this case three county officials reportedly "double-crossed" Hertel to give the job to Robert Ficano.

GOP Gov. John Engler's appointment of Democrat Hertel aroused some criticism from Republican sources, but Engler spokesman John Truscott said the governor regarded Hertel as the most qualified applicant.

And well he might have been. As state senator, he chaired the Senate Agriculture Committee, and in 1991 was appointed by Engler as head of the state Exposition and Fairgrounds Advisory Council.

Hertel is a Richmond horse farm owner and Percheron breeder who has often exhibited winners at the Michigan State Fair and at area fairs.

One thing is for sure. Hertel is an activist and could be just the person to pull the state fair out of its costly slump in attendance and income.

However, in the Pointes, Hertel has been blamed for blocking efforts of the Grosse Pointes-Clinton Refuse Disposal Authority to obtain an ash waste dump in Lenox Township, part of his district.

Perhaps Pointe Republicans should apply new pressure to persuade Democrat Hertel to withdraw his opposition now that he has won this $62,000-a-year full-time post from the GOP governor.

Doth Engler protest too much?

The announcement that Lt. Gov. Connie Binsfeld had accepted Gov. John Engler's invitation to be his running mate again in 1994 makes the team official.

But Binsfeld's statement at the Republican Leadership Conference did not end speculation that she had been under pressure to leave the ticket.

The governor earlier last week had blamed such reports on WJR Lansing correspondent Tom Greene who had reported a move to dump Binsfeld next year. In a telephone call to WJR's J.P. McCarthy, the governor angrily said that he "sure as hell knew more about it" than Greene.

Greene stuck by his story, denying the governor's charge he had "made up" the report and saying he trusted his source.

In effect, however, the governor added to the speculation by letting his annoyance turn into anger during the radio broadcast, recalling for some listeners the famous quote by Hamlet's mother, "The lady doth protest too much, methinks."

The lieutenant governor, however, said what led her to an early decision was the "excitement of reforming our education system."

Engler, too, was a good political soldier, even if there had been efforts to replace Binsfeld. He said he didn't think he could have "a better partner," and added that together they make "a winning team."

If you say so, Governor.

Schools need facts, suggestions — not demands

To the Editor:

Ten years ago, our family moved from the Chicago suburbs to the Detroit Metro area and elected to live in the Grosse Pointe communities primarily because of the excellent reputation of the school system.

With four children and 28 "student-years" invested to-date, we're very pleased with that decision and greatly appreciate the excellence of our school system. I'm confident there exists a majority within our school district that wish to see us retain the ability to provide excellent education. Unfortunately, there are numerous aspects of our present circumstances causing me grave concerns as to whether we'll be able to do so.

If, as was stated last week in (what seems to me to be) the "Callahan/Pangborn Column" of the Grosse Pointe News, "Mr. Taylor is a harbinger of the future," woe is us. What involvement did Mr. Taylor actually have in any of our schools prior to his election? Has he spent considerable (or any?) time in the schools as a volunteer? I'm not at all sure that he really has an understanding of all the elements comprising educational excellence. I am not sure that his supporting faction truly understand those elements either.

If Mr. Taylor's Aug. 9 memo to the board of education is the document to which Ms. Pangborn referred as "a plan," I'm lost. I only saw a set of assumptions and an example of what I presume is Mr. Taylor's regular business trade: micro-level dissection of an operating budget to identify areas of service that can be provided "more economically through outside sources."

In the early 80s, I served a few years as the district-wide PTA/PTO council representative for the Maire Elementary School. My experiences in the schools have shown that employees who provide clerical and maintenance services do far more than just provide mere clerical and maintenance service — they are visible, caring adult figures with a continuity of presence. They are known by the children and very often involved with the children. Having contracted for temporary services as part of my business responsibilities, my experience shows continually changing personnel focused strictly on the task at hand — and often times ineffective even with that task. Examples of failure in contracting outside services by school systems are readily available.

During my years in Grosse Pointe, I have repeatedly been amazed at the manner in which a relative minority faction is able to consume so much valuable time of our elected School Board and create such an atmosphere of unease. Mr. Chip Chapman's column last week offered some great perspectives for us all to ponder. In agreement with his theme:

a) We the community have elected the board to make decisions on our behalf — not to have their time consumed by an overly vocal minority faction demanding the board's time be focused on micro-level issues and thus inhibiting their ability to focus on the greater goal: continued excellence in education.

b) Misinformation spread at public meetings (or in

Annual Columbus day festivities in Warren — 1,000 expected to march in gala parade

More than 1,000 people are expected to march in the annual Columbus Day Parade on Saturday, Oct. 9. According to parade chairman Russell Gambino (Warren), there'll be Italian clubs and societies from across the metro-Detroit area, including St. Clair Shores, marching in colorful ethnic costumes, floats, high school marching bands and much more.

Parade marshal is Warren Mayor Ron Bonkowski. Participants will assemble at 10 a.m. in the parking lot of Macomb Community College's South Campus, in Warren. At 11 a.m. they will march west on 12 Mile to Imperial Drive, turning south and ending at the Italian Cultural Center, 28111 Imperial.

Emceeding the parade will be Anthony Sanfemio (Eastpointe) and Marlene Baker (Orchard Lake).

The Columbus Day Queen Lisa Rosa Maria Copoccia, a 20-year-old from Rochester Hills, will reign over the parade as well as all other activities.

The 1993 Columbus Day Celebration will be a two-day event beginning with the parade on Saturday culminating with a gala banquet on Sunday, Oct. 10, at Club Venetian in Madison Heights. A Columbus Day Mass and breakfast will be held at the historic Holy Family Church in downtown Detroit on Sunday morning at 11 a.m., followed by a memorial ceremony at the Columbus Monument on Jefferson Avenue.

Dr. Todd Camarata (Sterling Heights) is serving as the 1993 Columbus Day Celebration Committee president.

Serving on the Queen's Court are Florence I. Marossy (Sterling Heights); Ann Marie Passalacqua (Troy); Kimberly Cicerone (Troy); and Jennifer Santi (Rochester Hills).

Receiving the Man of the Year Award at the Columbus Day banquet on Sunday, Oct. 10, at Club Venetian in Madison Heights will be Peter J.

Macaroni, chief circuit judge, 16th Judicial Circuit, in Macomb County.

Members and friends of the Columbus Day Celebration Committee can attend a Memorial Mass in honor of Christopher Columbus at historic Holy Family Church, in downtown Detroit, at 11 a.m. Sunday, Oct. 10.

Following the Mass, there will be a memorial ceremony at the Columbus Monument on Jefferson Avenue, next to the Omni Hotel in Downtown Detroit. A wreath will be placed at the bust of Columbus.

Clown Corps to offer classes

The Grosse Pointe Clown Corps is holding classes for potential clowns at 7:30 p.m. Wednesdays in the Grosse Pointe Woods Community Building basement, 20025 Mack Plaza.

Classes meet through Oct. 20 and will include instruction in the art of applying clown makeup, tumbling, skits, creating balloon animals and magic.

Instructors will be Arthur J. Kuehnel (Happy Art the Clown) and other professional clowns. Students must be in grades 1 through 12 and be residents of the Pointes, Harper Woods or Macomb County. For more information, call Kuehnel at 881-8186.

Learn legal rights of children in divorce

If divorce is the only answer, the most important problem to be solved is the well-being of the children.

Learn all about the legal rights children have during a divorce on Wednesday, Oct. 6, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. Factors that go into the award of custody, visitation issues and the latest developments with regard to child support will be discussed. Sufficient time will be allowed for questions.

Speaker James Alle is an attorney specializing in family law matters and speaker Andrew Maltz, Ph.D., is director of Bon Secours/Grosse Pointe Center for Individual Family Therapy.

Call 881-7511 for more information.

Learn the business of writing

Joseph S. Ajlouny will be at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial to share his expertise in "The Business of the Writing Business," on Tuesdays, Oct. 5 through Nov. 9, from 7 to 9 p.m. or on Saturdays, Oct. 2 through Nov. 6, from 10 a.m. to noon.

Ajlouny is a licensed attorney, literary agent and a signatory of the Writers Guild of America.

After the course, you will possess the determination to succeed, specific knowledge of appropriate markets, a thorough understanding of publishing industry practices and a general familiarity with the rights and duties of the parties to a publishing contract.

The course is $95 for six sessions. Call 881-7511 for more information.

Watercolor workshops with Lachuisa

If you have ever thought about trying your hand at watercolors, this is the time to start.

Local watercolor artist Carol Lachuisa returns to the Grosse Pointe War Memorial to teach Beginning Watercolor on Tuesdays, from 12:30 to 3:30 p.m., Oct. 5 and 19, and Nov. 2.

This is a basic course. Classes will begin with explanations of materials and development of color charts and palette choices. Students will build confidence as they study values, washes, and composition; and the subject matter will vary and expand with each individual's progress. Demonstrations by the instructor in each workshop will be geared toward needed themes and problem areas.

Each session is $20, or $55 for all three sessions. Call 881-7511 for more information.

Country western dance planned

Yahoo! Here's the lowdown on the hoedown. Put your spurs on and learn the two-step, Western line dance and the Cotton-eyed Joe! You're invited to a Country Western round-up on Sunday, Oct. 3, from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. Come on your own and meet other country fans or swing your partner 'round the lake-side ballroom. Tables of eight will be cabaret style. First come, first serve.

Dance tickets are $8; soft drinks and ice will be available. For more information, call 881-7511.

Painted furniture workshop offered

Do you have an old piece of furniture such as a flower pot, picture frame, mirror, chair or small table that needs your artistic touch?

Instructor Linda Soberman will demonstrate techniques to paint designs on furniture including priming and finishing on Saturday, Oct. 2, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

For the one-day workshop, the article primed must be primed with either Kilz latex or Mercolac latex and base coated with white semi-gloss latex. The workshop fee is $40 and includes some supplies. Students will need to bring the following items to class: brushes (including foam), rags, sandpaper and acrylics if desired.

For more information or to make reservations, call the War Memorial at 881-7511.

War Memorial slates review

The Grosse Pointe War Memorial Association's board of directors cordially invites the community to participate in a review of the last fiscal year.

A brief business meeting, which includes the election of new directors by members of the association, will follow. All are welcome to attend the 8 p.m. meeting at no charge. Reservations for the 6:30 p.m. dinner are required by Monday, Oct. 4. Dinner is $12.50 a person.

Call 881-7511 for more information.

Park holds skate party

Grosse Pointe Park will hold a roller skating party at Windmill Pointe Park beginning at 5:30 p.m. Bikes, Blades and Boards will be on site to offer free skate rentals. Helmets and knee pads are recommended. The party ends at 7:30 p.m.

James T. Farley Remembered

James T. Farley, former Grosse Pointer, and health care industry pioneer, passed away Friday, Sept. 24, 1993 in Hilton Head Island, South Carolina.

He distinguished himself in Michigan during his tenure at St. John Hospital from his arrival in 1968 until his retirement in 1984 as President and Chief Executive Officer of the hospital and St. Clair (now St. John) Health System — the hospital's parent holding company.

Mr. Farley developed St. John from a community hospital to a major medical center and the corporation into one of the models of restructured health care organizations.

"Jim was known as a pioneer in the healthcare field, as a pacesetter and an innovator. He was one of the first to view corporate restructuring as it faced health care. He had great vision. He helped the clinical development in our great institution," says Grosse Pointe Shores resident Glenn A. Wesselmann, St. John's Chairman, President and Chief Executive Officer.

"Jim was always challenging his staff, always challenging everyone who had contact with him to be ready for change. That's been the history of his whole career. So we have a special thanks to Jim for that," he adds.

In 1989, the hospital named its newest addition, devoted to intensive medical and surgical care, emergency and support services, the James T. Farley Concentrated Care Building — part of a $117 million renovation and construction project under his leadership.

Throughout a distinguished career, Mr. Farley's peers recognized his contributions and expertise. In 1979, he was elected Chairman of the Michigan Hospital Association (MHA) Board of Trustees. He served as Chairman of the Capital Task Force on Malpractice and was founding Chairman of the MHA Mutual Insurance Company established to underwrite hospital insurance. The company reduced premiums to hospitals leading to millions of dollars in health care savings.

In 1982, Mr. Farley was presented with the MHA Meritorious Key Award for outstanding service. He had been a delegate to the American Hospital Association and was named Michigan Hospital Administrator of the Year.

He served as a member of the Greater Detroit Area Health Council's Nominating, Finance and Executive committees.

One honor that exemplifies his career devoted to serving others through healthcare was bestowed when he became a Knight of Malta — one of only a few in Michigan.

The Knights of Malta were founded about 1300 in Jerusalem to provide hospital care for pilgrims. He was nominated for the order by the late Francis Cardinal Spellman as a result of his work for St. Vincent's Medical Center of Staten Island, New York, where he served as a member of its board of trustees.

Prior to coming to St. John Hospital, Mr. Farley was vice president of New York's Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center, where he had overall responsibility for master plan development as well as planning and construction programs, and was administratively responsible for all operating divisions.

His professional career began in 1950 as Internal Auditor of St. Luke's Hospital in Chicago (his hometown). Through 1956, he was also Systems Manager and Director of Methods Improvement.

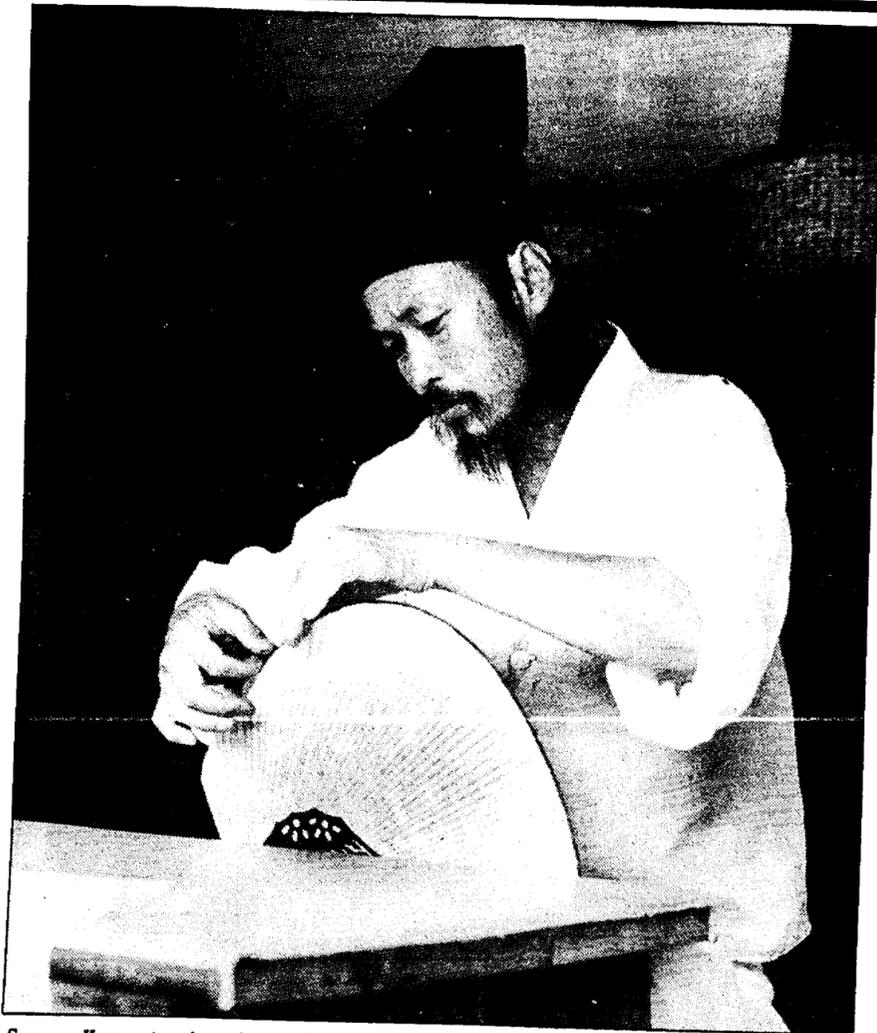

He authored and co-authored numerous articles and is listed in "Who's Who in America."

Mr. Farley's career of highly honored and dedicated service in healthcare has touched the lives of untold hundreds of thousands of people who may never have met him, but have benefitted through his years of caring and leadership.

The family has asked that contributions be made to the St. John Hospital and Medical Center Pediatric Department or to the Hospice at Hilton Head. All contributions can be made to or through the Funds Development Department, St. John Hospital and Medical Center, 22101 Messis, Detroit, MI 48236.

Suwon, Korea, is where Monte Nagler came upon this fan maker. A telephoto lens enabled Monte to keep his distance yet "move in close" for a photograph showing not only the work itself but the concentration of the worker.

Candid treasures: People at work

Work goes on all around us, and even if we're not doing it ourselves, it touches our lives constantly. From early morning newspaper deliveries to late night factory shifts, people are earning their livings in ways that can be observed and photographed and subsequently shared with others.

The fascination everybody has for the details of how others work and are employed in a productive task means a whole range of exciting subject matter is available to anyone with a camera.

People working offer good subjects for photography because their attention most likely is directed towards their job and not at you. This is a great opportunity for candid. A telephoto lens will enable you to "move in close" for an impact-filled shot while not being observed by the worker.

Try to fill the frame with your subject so that the task being performed is clearly shown. This is exactly what I did in the photograph shown here taken on a recent trip to Korea. The fan maker was absorbed in his work, so with a telephoto lens at a comfortable distance, I was able to make this picture of the skilled artisan.

Photography

By Monte Nagler

People in foreign lands often have unusual jobs not seen in America which present fine opportunities for your camera. Such pictures help you to bring home a more complete story of your vacation abroad.

There are other people at work photo possibilities. Move in close for a shot of a potter's hands as clay spins on the wheel. Visit a construction site to photograph steel workers on beams silhouetted against the sky. Snap a police officer directing traffic through a busy intersection. Or stop by a fishing wharf as the day's catch arrives. All of these and many more offer endless photographic material.

Try some wide angle shots of people at work, too. This way, you can bring the environment into view to show the worker in his or her surroundings.

Whatever your choice, take advantage of the photographic possibilities of people at work. Go to work on it!

Too many cats? Help's available

As I continue my research on the horrific conditions of the greyhound, I would like to address a letter I received from Arlene Sparrow of St. Clair Shores. She writes, "Last spring a cat appeared on our porch. I started feeding her but couldn't catch her. Later, she had four kittens so we brought them in the house. We only found a home for a male and had the other three females spayed."

"We caught the mother and had her spayed; unfortunately it wasn't until after she had her second litter of kittens. To make matters worse, not only did we find a black and white cat on our porch one day, but she also went on to deliver kittens. We have advertised in countless newspapers, put up signs, and displayed pictures at stores but have had no success."

"We have and are always, trying to find homes for the strays, but we are going bananas. Do you have any contacts or leads, or know of anyone who could help us? We certainly feel like we've picked up the slack for a lot of irresponsible pet owners. Any suggestions will be appreciated, except we do not want to turn them over to animal control."

Well, Arlene, my first response is, "Thank you." Thank you for having such a generous heart and so much concern for these animals. I'm sure they are deeply grateful for the compassion and kindness that you and your family have already bestowed upon them. You have gone beyond the call of duty, as few would, especially in taking these animals (who weren't even your own house pets) to have them spayed or neutered. More than anything, you've helped in the endless fight against pet overpopulation.

You most certainly have "picked up the slack," for a few "irresponsible" pet owners, although stray animals are just as hungry, lost and, of course, homeless.

Though you've put forth a tremendous effort already, I can imagine how disconcerting and overwhelming it would be to confront such a dilemma. I hope the following suggestions will assist you in your search to find good homes for these or any other future "dependents" who may suddenly show up in that proverbial basket on your doorstep.

Advertising is definitely a huge step in the right direction. Signs with pictures posted on cross streets, in stores, and if you can afford to do so, as Arlene has, in area newspapers, will surely increase the chances of connecting with the owner of a lost pet.

Place calls to neighborhood and other surrounding area police departments, advising them of your recent acquisition. You may also periodically call them to inquire about any recent reports of missing pets. Contact your local veterinarian to make the same inquiry. Most vets will allow you to hang pictures or post signs on their office bulletin boards to advise of lost or found pets.

However, when it all becomes too much for you to handle, the Michigan Humane Society and the Michigan Anti-Cruelty Association are both very reputable and highly recommended organizations dedicated to finding warm, loving homes for all abused and homeless animals (regardless of circumstance).

Adoption rates in these organizations, (especially the MHS with three shelter locations) are incredibly successful. These people dedicate themselves and work diligently toward finding a home for the wayward animal, as opposed to simply picking it up and doing away with it.

Address pet care questions or comments to Kathleen Ferrilla, c/o The Grosse Pointe News, 96 Kercheval, Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich. 48236.

To Father with love

I had planned to write this column about my recent visit to a Star Trek convention, but on Sept. 14, something happened, Father Richard Polokowski, my high school English teacher, died of cancer.

When I was in college, I liked to say that students didn't have teachers who taught, they had professors who professed. Or in many cases, they had professors' graduate assistants who professed on behalf of the professors.

I attended the University of Detroit High School, a Jesuit school in Detroit. Looking back over the years, I now realize more than ever, how lucky I was to have the teachers I had.

While the school was Catholic, I experienced none of the insulting stereotypes people associate with Catholic schools. I, and to my knowledge, no other students were beaten. We were not taught to feel guilty about everything, lest we go to hell.

Rather, a great deal of time was spent teaching us to think. To think about God, our responsibilities to God and to each other. The excellent instruction in reading, writing and arithmetic was important, but it was not what the education was all about.

I remember a teacher saying that we were not being taught so that we could make a lot of money, retire early to Florida and die of a heart attack on a golf course. We were being taught so that we could go out and make a difference in the world.

Fr. Polokowski was a large part my high school education. For my sophomore, junior and senior years, Polo, as he was called by the wits of U of D, taught me at least one semester of English.

Grammar and spelling were taught in our freshman year, so

I Say

James M. Stickford

Polo's classes were about style and ideas. I can still remember his passionate talk about language and poetry, about being able to smell the earth after reading the phrase, "plowed down sillion." (Sillion, apparently is freshly plowed earth. I couldn't find it in the dictionary.)

I remember Fr. Polo talking about the meaning of "Huck Finn," — you don't treat your friends like dirt. The meaning of "A Thousand Clowns," — teaching someone to be a free man, not a chair.

I remember Polo talking about "Gulliver's Travels" and the shelf-life of satire. Good satire lasts the ages. It can apply to King George III or Mayor Young and President Jimmy Carter. (Yes I was in high school during the Carter administration. For those who can't remember, it was a lot like the Clinton administration, but with disco. Come to think of it, disco is making a comeback, but that's another I Say.)

Polo taught me that every good book or story has a theme running through it. The Bible's is God loves us. The play "Our Town" is about simple things making up the meaning of life.

I admit being stumped on

Thomas Wolfe's "Look Homeward Angel." Sorry Polo, sorry Dad, 15 years later, I still don't get that book, and I am still sorry I read it.

Like most people, I have a lot of high school memories, some good, some bad. My memories of Polo's classes are good. I enjoyed the classes. I learned to write. I read a lot of good books, and learned to appreciate the American idiom.

Most importantly, however, I learned that ideas count. The expression of ideas through the written word can affect people in the most profound way.

I always knew that Polo was a good teacher. But it wasn't until I left high school and made my way into the world that I realized how much of what he taught stayed with me, and became a part of me.

I last saw Polo about 18 months ago at a school function honoring another teacher I had in high school. We chatted briefly, and updated each other on our lives. I said it was good to see him again, and went on my way.

I never told Polo about how I appreciated what he taught. I don't even know if he remembered me as a student. I do know that his death saddens me. The idea that he is no longer out there telling students to "read a book, to be a free man and not a chair" hurts a little.

We owe so much to the people who have come before us. We may not see them for years at a time, or we may not see them ever again. But they are a part of us, hopefully the best part of us.

Seldom do people in this busy, cynical time sit and talk about great ideas, or great books. "Beavis and Butthead" is about the speed of literary conversations I've had recently.

It does me good to think about Polo, and the time in my life in which I read and talked about great ideas, and how these ideas applied to me and my life. Thanks Polo, you made a difference in one life.

Not all Mexicans support NAFTA

NAFTA. Everybody's talking about it.

Or pandering, rather.

A couple of years ago, our government signed a free trade agreement with Canada with very little public discussion. Not enough public discussion, in fact.

Oh, the Canadians fit and fought about it, but then, they saw themselves as the party with something to lose.

Lots of them still think so. Inject Mexico into the mix and everybody's upset. The Canadians are so upset that Prime Minister Kim Campbell signed the side agreements last month in virtual secrecy so as not to rub salt in the raw-tempered voters right before an election.

The consequences of the pact are still nebulous, but so far the discussion hasn't been edifying. Michigan's congressional delegation is more interested in getting re-elected than in sharing genuine information.

Legitimate questions arise about including two wealthy nations and one poor one in a free trade pact. Especially a pact made in relative haste and with a short phase-in period. The European Community has worked for 30 years to integrate such disparate economies.

How much are stereotypes playing into the discussion? Mexicans: those lazy people with big hats who sleep all afternoon. Or thieves who will steal our jobs by working for 60 cents an hour. The mix isn't a consistent stereotype, but neither is it flattering.

What may come as a surprise is that not all Mexicans are aching for the pact any more than we are. In spite of the fact that their government is spending the largest amount of money in American lobbying history to influence Congress to approve it, some Mexicans, particularly intellectuals, are scared of the far-reaching consequences.

Hard as it is for us to imagine, not every Mexican wants to become Americanized. Some of them see us as money-grubbing and materialistic, always in a hurry, over-scheduled, power-hungry, self-indulgent, and flaunting a superiority complex. Who wants to be like that?

One of my old friends from high school has lived in Mexico most of her adult life. She just shakes her head at us now. Looking at the American lifestyle from the outside, even though a former insider, she can't see the advantages. To her, life south of the border is more gracious and pleasant, more leisurely, less dependent upon consumer goods for gratification.

Of course, she isn't one of the people who will work for 60 cents an hour.

But even for Mexicans who want more consumer goods (and our current trade record shows that they do), there's the issue of who we are: a big, bad neighbor who interferes in their business. They even have a museum to document it.

Last spring a Mexican university professor spoke in Michigan as part of the Michigan Global Awareness Consortium put together by Michigan State. Explaining their fear of losing their cultural identity, Dr. Sergio Quesada-Adlana, professor of anthropology and history at the Autonomous University of Queretaro, told a little story to illustrate our gringo overbearing ways.

To set the stage, think of the Texas-Mexico border disputes — and remember the Alamo, with its heroic myths of American tough-guy patriotism: hand-to-hand fighting in the mission church, Jim Bowie defending himself in his deathbed, armed only with a knife.

The Mexicans have a story like that, too. It stands for courage, for willingness to die for a cause greater than oneself, for the kind of patriotism we celebrate in Nathan Hale or Davy Crockett.

Their story is called "los ninos heroicos," or the heroic boys. In its bare bones, the story tells of three young men defending an indefensible place against the Americans, whose armies advance inexorably. Ultimately, all their tactics fail and the Americans seize their position, killing two of them. The last surviving boy throws himself off the cliff to his death rather than be captured by the enemy.

Not particularly different from the Alamo story.

The difference is that not long ago, according to Quesada-Adlana, our government leaned on the Mexican government to cut that patriotic story out of school textbooks because it fosters anti-Americanism. I have not heard that we reciprocated by abolishing the Alamo.

Obviously hasn't led the Mexicans to sink the pact, but that sort of heavy-handedness leaves plenty of people disgruntled. Perhaps more to the point

The world turns so turn with it

"On the Road to Mandalay" may be just a song to some, but to this Grosse Pointe Farms resident of nearly 30 years it is music and an ambition.

Last month Betty Teeg went to far-off Indonesia, visiting Kuala Lumpur, Singapore, Borneo and the glamorous port of South China Sea's "richest nation on Earth," Brunei.

"Oilwell drilling continues, though derricks stand close as cornstalks when viewed from the air, and big, expensive cars carry well-dressed native Moslems through busy streets, though ritual requires covered faces and bodies, and you see little smoking, never alcohol-drinking in this tightly-controlled tiny nation on the northeast tip of Borneo," says Teeg, who visited her daughter Susan and Sue's husband Dave.

Sue and Dave met and married at the Upper Peninsula's Michigan Tech, attended by all the Teeg family through the years. Sue graduated from Grosse Pointe South High School in 1975, then majored in geology and engineering at Tech, finally working with Amoco and Shell. Sister Kathy followed here in a few years, moving to Kenneco after graduating in petroleum engineering.

Two other sisters, Vicki and Rebecca, left South, following much the same path in chemistry, engineering and technical fields. Vicki is now in New Hampshire and Becky lives in Flint.

Yes, this close-knit group followed a chalkline. Even mother Betty is a chemistry grad of Tech, and she ran her husband's chemical company following his death. We also note that Sue's father-in-law, Dr. Bruce Sharpe, is a noted University of Michigan engineering professor.

John, Charles: Move over

It was a luxury that is rare these days, time to kill. I had been granted a precious gift, a few days for myself, to squander or wander. My husband and I had headed east for our annual summer vacation. Knowing that our grandchild was due to be born at any time, we were flexible in our schedule. The days passed, my spouse returned to work and I lingered in the East awaiting the call.

Our son had plans for a house party over Labor Day and a mother type chaperon was not on the agenda. He was generous and didn't nudge me out of my secure nest, but I knew it was time to move on. Boy oh boy, time to visit with old friends and meander in a part of the country that has always enchanted me. All I had to do was stay near the phone, no problem in this day. I made a few phone calls and plans fell into place. With offers of hearth and lodging in several places, I packed my bags and headed out.

I was thinking of John Steinbeck and Charles Kuralt as I traveled back roads and pulled off the highway when the spirit or curiosity struck. There was time to follow impulses, talk with the locals, ask questions and ignore deadlines. No one was punching a time clock. Each day I told my prospective hosts that I would arrive in the later afternoon, thus affording ample time for exploration. Circumstances permitted me to stay an extra night with one old friend who was without husband and son for the weekend and genuinely urged me to extend my visit.

The extra day made it possible for us to lunch on Long Island Sound, visit with her aging parents who are dear to me and my family and to meet my friend's grandchildren and acquaint myself with her children. We still had time to linger over coffee for two mornings, visit the new home they were purchasing and talk long into the night. It was at this friend's house that I received the call informing me of the birth of a grandson. How nice it was to share the news at 3 a.m. with one who had walked a similar path.

It was time to move on to the next stop and to adhere to my instructions that a grandmother should remain on the fringes until the baby and parents had shared the first 48 hours "bonding." Fine. I went shopping for boy clothes and drove three hours to the other side of Connecticut to stay with more old friends.

Fortunately for me, I was spoiled by the hosts and cozy in my digs, when "The Bug" attacked with the attendant high fever, chills, etc.

By the third day of the bug, the pediatrician had given permission for grandma to come, with mask, to play nurse and to see the grand prince. By that time, the new parents were more than ready for an extra pair of hands. After another leisurely five-hour drive, I arrived in a magical pocket of Vermont that our daughter and her family call home. We had a delightful week together and I was able to dispel the myth that all babies look alike. Our two grandchildren, born eight weeks apart, couldn't be more different. I am intrigued and amazed at how early the individual personalities emerge.

An entire month was a long time to be away from home, but it was a wonderful mosaic of experiences and time spent with friends and family members. If you ever have the chance to take unstructured time, do yourself a favor and grab it. I even enjoyed the 12-hour trip home, with taped books and music, and quiet. And no one once told me to stop singing.

Letters

letters to the newspaper) are a great disservice to us all. For those preferring factual data, I suggest you obtain the Michigan Department of Education Bulletin 1014 for the 1991-92 School (or for '92-93 when available). In contrast to some of the figures bandied about lately (and the $9,000 per student figure so appealing to Mr. Wright in his letter last week), the following facts regarding the Grosse Pointe Public Schools were extracted from this bulletin:

	Per pupil	State ranking
• Total general fund revenues all sources	$7,815	11th
• Total general fund expenditures	$7,207	13th
• Average salary support services	$1,894	24th
• Average salary per teacher	$48,721	23rd

c) Suggestions are a far more adult and educated approach to working with our school board than are demands to that board.

Let's support the overall efforts of our school board in ensuring we can move forward with whatever funding structure is put in place for the coming years. Let's help them strive to continue a focus on excellence in education.

Response

To the Editor:

I feel I must respond to Chip Chapman's article, even though he did not mention my name, because he inaccurately paraphrased my presentation to the school board.

The board should not have given an extension on the 389 St. Clair bid to the Grosse Pointe City and Farms mayors. The information in its preliminary form was available from the mayors several days before the board of education meeting and it should have been presented.

I met with Mayor Browning the Thursday before the board meeting and that same day had a lengthy phone conversation with Mayor Berendt. At this time, the mayors were looking at the feasibility of a 50-unit rental apartment complex with options of one or two bedrooms. This proposal would house less than 100 residents.

Mrs. Smith was not there to set the record straight but to tell the board that the plan had been presented to the whole council that evening. The mayors long ago could have shared their intentions.

What has not been worked out is a bid for the St. Clair property, if the Cadieux School would be left intact, how the cities would determine which Grosse Pointe residents could live there, do the cities really support such an expensive venture for the benefit of so few people.

To enlighten Mr. Chapman's view on backing school board candidates, we did and he won.

As to the petitions, the reason your 100 friends did not see them being circulated was because we obtained 1000 more signatures than was necessary, early on, so there was no reason to continue the drive.

Rubber stamp for MEA?

An open letter to Superintendent Dr. Shine:

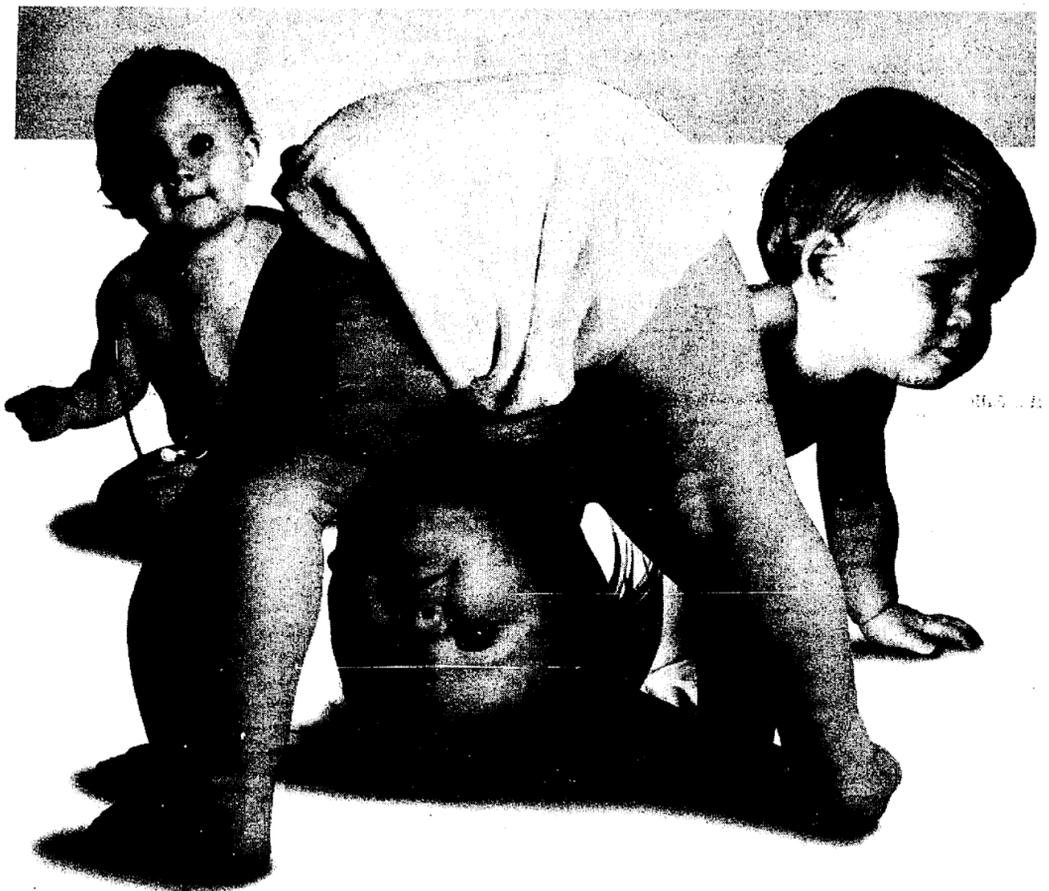

Will you please help me understand if I've got the numbers right or close?

The papers tell us that the median teacher salary is $55,600, but the benefits package brings the taxpayers' cost per teacher up to $72,000 per year. Dividing the $72,000 by 36 weeks (180 days) it would appear that the MEA has gotten the teachers $2,000 per week or $50 per hour.

Please tell us it isn't so. This does seem like a lot of money for a part-time job.

An important reason we like to shop at Meijer Thrifty Acres is the place is always sparkling clean. The cafeteria and toilets are spotless and everything always smells fresh. Remember, Meijer's is open 364 days a year to the general public and 24 hours a day. Their cleaning costs are, according to Michael L. Mills, 47 cents per square foot while the Grosse Pointe School system is spending in the range of $2.50 per square

New addition

St. Paul Catholic School welcomed its newest and youngest members with the opening this month of a preschool program for 3- and 4-year-olds. The program has been in the works for two years and came to fruition through the efforts of Farms resident Judy Hurford. The program features new equipment paid for primarily through a donation from the class of 1993. Contributions also were made by the teacher-parent guild and several private donors. An open house for the 1994-95 program has been tentatively scheduled for January. Anyone wishing to be put on the mailing list should call the school at 885-3430.

It's MEAP time for grades 4, 7, 10

Beginning Monday, Oct. 4, learning and doing. Parents through Friday, Oct. 22, the Grosse Pointe Public School System will administer the Michigan Educational Assessment Program test to students in elementary, middle and high school.

Fourth, seventh and 10th-grade students will be tested in reading and mathematics. Fifth, eighth and eleventh-graders will be tested in science. Each school in the district will determine its own testing dates. Parents of children who are being schooled at home and who wish their children to take the MEAP tests should contact Dr. Alfreda Frost at 343-2022.

The MEAP tests provide information on what students are and students will receive the results later in the fall. Teachers and administrators will use the school and district results to review the curriculum and to focus instruction on areas where students are having difficulty. Parents can help their child prepare for the MEAP tests by making sure he or she gets plenty of rest the night before the test, has breakfast on the morning of the test, and knows that the parents think he or she will do well on the test. Beginning with the graduating class of 1994, all Michigan students must have passed the MEAP tests to receive a state-endorsed diploma.

"The Emergency Department at Bon Secours is great for kids. My young daughter was very frightened — we all were. But, everything went so smoothly. And Shannon got such special care. We wouldn't dream of going anywhere else..." Maureen Leehr, mother of three, Grosse Pointe Woods

Nine year old Shannon Leehr plays for keeps. She also tries to keep pace with her older brothers, on and off the field. But playing in the "big leagues" often leads to sprained ankles, sore knees, bumps and bruises. Usually, they're not too serious, but, on Saturday night, July 31, everyone feared that Shannon had broken her wrist. A hospital with board-certified emergency medicine physicians and an on-site pediatrician was in order. Bon Secours Hospital fit the bill.

At Bon Secours, we offer pediatric emergency services to nearly 4,000 kids each year. And, unlike other area hospitals, we have a board-certified pediatrician on site all the time, day or night. So, whether your child has a sprained ankle at 8 p.m., or an unusually high fever at 4 a.m., we can help.

Pediatric experts in ophthalmology, orthopedics, and other specialties work with Emergency Department staff to treat your child. Our pediatric nurses have an average of 10 years experience caring for children and pediatric advanced life support training. Plus, our X-ray and lab on-site in the Emergency Department mean fast, convenient care.

The next time your "slugger" needs emergency medical care, come to Bon Secours Hospital. Any time day or night. At Bon Secours, we treat your kids like our kids.

Today, Shannon is back in action — batting 1,000 with brothers Marty and Danny.

Dedication ceremony

More than 600 alumni and friends attended the dedication of a marker Sept. 26 naming St. Paul Catholic School and Convent a Michigan Historical Site. The school and convent were designed by Smith, Hinchman & Grylls and constructed in 1927 at 170 Grosse Pointe Blvd.

Monsignor F. Gerald Martin of St. Paul Catholic Church gave the invocation and welcome. Remarks were by Elizabeth Burns, principal of St. Paul School, and Gregg L. Berendt, mayor of Grosse Pointe Farms.

Esther Gordy Edwards of the Michigan Historical Commission dedicated the historic marker.

Alumni, students and friends returned to St. Paul School to witness the dedication of a historical marker, above, on the school's lawn. Alums came from as far away as South Carolina, Indiana and Ohio.

Admiring the new historic marker, above, on the lawn of St. Paul Catholic School are, from left, Esther Gordy Edwards of the Michigan Historical Commission; Gregg L. Berendt, mayor of Grosse Pointe Farms; Elizabeth Burns, principal of the school; and Monsignor F. Gerald Martin of St. Paul Catholic Church.

foot a year for its part-time operation. It appears we are overpaying by about 500 percent.

H. L. Mencken said, "The cynics are right about 75 percent of the time."

I think the taxpayers of Grosse Pointe should face the fact that the MEA is calling the shots and Dr. Shine and company are rubber-stamping their approval. We should thank God for a person like Sears Taylor, who has the brains and courage to ask the hard questions and show us what's going on in the school board and why our taxes are escalating so rapidly.

We should listen to Sears Taylor and start privatizing the cleaning and food operations. Then we should start taking a hard look at the number of administrators and reduce their numbers by an immediate 50 percent or more this year.

When Mayor Palmer Heenan privatized the rubbish and garbage pick up in Grosse Pointe Park, he took a lot of heat, but the savings have been substantial. The service has never been this good.

When the police and fire services were combined, there was terrible pressure from the unions, but Palmer Heenan stuck to his guns like the fighter he is. Response time in fires is down over 50 percent and our crime rates have declined seven years in a row with less expense to the taxpayers.

We will support our schools, but not the administrative excesses.

Hold fast, school board.

To the Editor:

It looks — finally — as if we are at least getting the school board's attention. So far it has stuck to a freeze on pay and for a teacher co-pay of some kind on health insurance and other benefits.

We're not out of the woods yet. Both sides have agreed to call in a fact-finder, who will examine the issues from both sides and recommend a suggested fair settlement. The teachers want a reported 1 percent pay raise, a cost of living adjustment, and no reduction in benefits.

Neither side is bound by the fact-finder's recommendations, and any proposed settlement has to go back to the union — Grosse Pointe Education Association.

Hold fast, school board, this time we're with you — so far at least.

in this case is to what extent the Mexicans will let us tell them how to run their country.

Can we tell other countries to clean their water or pay their workers fair wages or have fewer children? If we can, can they tell us to stop performing breast implantations or overpaying our top managers?

Conservatives like William Buckley believe the side agreements were insisted on by labor and environmentalists not for their benefit, but to clutter up the pact so that no one could support it. Others fear that the pact is solely for the benefit of megacorporations that are already so global in nature that they can barely be identified by nationality.

Bill Clinton is probably right when he says opponents refuse to recognize the de facto globalization of trade. At the same time, nobody wants to go back to the bad old days of tariff barriers.

But if we're going into this marriage, maybe we should have a longer engagement.

South football, memories

To the Editor:

After reading your front page story on the first night game at "The High" (now South), I thought it might be fun to go and watch my first high school event since I graduated from The High back in the '60s.

I can't believe living just a few blocks away from The High, all these years have past and I have missed out on so much fun. It was more fun that I can tell you to sit in the bleachers and look around at the school grounds in a way I have not done in years.

When the Blue Devils came out of the school and rushed onto the field, I felt like a high school kid again. I'm very sorry our team lost by the score on the score board, but for me a great victory had occurred. The victory was knowing the old way of life many people often say will never be experienced was relived again, at least for me, that Friday night on The High's school ground.

At half time, I ran into one of my old classmates who had a boy playing for the Blue Devils and it was great talking to him, remembering many happy times from long ago.

I'm sorry I was not able to cheer for the boys and a victory last night, but I will make every attempt to be with them for the next game and cheer their victory.

Thanks Grosse Pointe South High School and the fighting Blue Devils for a great night at a great school.

Casino gambling, City Airport

To the Editor:

Grosse Pointers who oppose City Airport expansion are strongly encouraged to write state legislators requesting they not approve Indian-run off-reservation casino gambling in the City of Detroit. Such casino gambling is currently being proposed for both Greektown and theater district locations.

Gov. Engler recently signed a "gambling pact" with Michigan's seven Indian tribes to approve such off-reservation gambling. Legislative approval is now required before U.S. Department of Interior approval is sought, the final step before casinos can be developed. Because tribal gambling suppliers have initiated an active letter-writing and lobbying campaign with state lawmakers seeking their approval of the pact, opposition views need to be expressed.

Should casino gambling be approved, the City of Detroit will undoubtedly utilize the casinos as further justification for expansion of City Airport. Although Southwest Airlines' last flight left City Airport on Sept. 14, Detroit continues its expansion plans. Current "first step" for the latest expansion plan submitted in August calls for a 6,000 foot runway length at a cost of $175 million. Eight hundred homes and 100 businesses would be removed.

Airport director John Clark III notes this runway length would still allow for planes as large as 737s to utilize the airport. Per Clark, Detroit still hopes to attract other commercial air carriers to City. They then plan to "...let demand drive the remainder of expansion" at the airport.

If you oppose airport expansion, which will adversely affect the Grosse Pointes and other eastside residential areas, please write your state legislators immediately. Encourage them not to approve the off-reservation casino gambling in Detroit.

Support Village merchants

An open letter to the Grosse Pointe community:

Village Records & Tapes is closed. It is still difficult for me to say it and to hear it. But as I reflect on our years in the Village, what occurs to me foremost is what a privilege it has been serving this community.

If support and consolation are any measures of success, then we were very successful indeed. I now realize that Village Records & Tapes was never really my record store — it was our record store. This realization also captures the essence of our village.

The Village is not a shopping center, a shopping strip, or a mall — it is a unique retail community. This is not some developer's concept, but rather it is a fact rooted in 70 years of tradition — our tradition.

There is a well-worn path to business failure in these changing times. Let's clear that path and preserve this sense of community by supporting all of the Village merchants — it's never too late.

City Airport: Who needs it?

To the Editor:

Since Southwest Airlines went out to Metro Airport, the air traffic over the residential area has improved a little; we can get a good night's sleep.

Detroit still wants to expand Detroit City Airport. That should never happen. Hopefully, Mr. John L. King, as well as others involved, will see to it that it never happens.

These politicians stay up late at night trying to figure out how much more they can get out of the taxpayer to pay for these projects. In these times — and they are tough — who needs another airport?

It's one hard working dollar, anyway you slice it.

The money you give to the United Way helps fund almost 140 charitable agencies. So every dollar works hard helping to house the homeless, feed the hungry and shelter the abused here in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties. And that's just for starters. Your dollar also helps fund medical care and research, provides family counseling, job training and much, much more. More people than ever before are counting on your dollars. So won't you please give more of them to the United Way? Because, of all the needs we face in the tri-county area this year, the biggest one of all is your support.

Still the best way to show you care.

Rain doesn't dampen spirits at annual Shores picnic

Grosse Pointe Shores grandparents were the stars of the fourth annual Grosse Pointe Improvement Foundation (GPIF) community picnic held Sunday, Sept. 9, Grandparents' Day.

The picnic began in the early afternoon mist and ended in brilliant late summer sunshine. Gathered for Coney Island hot-dogs, home baked cookies, Good Humor ice cream, children's games with Sue Gaidica, antique cars, antique boats, a Moonwalk, and Joe Vitale's lively music were Shores residents and their family members.

Children and adults alike had an opportunity to "escape" from a smokey house, learn about advanced life support, "play" in the new Toddler Play Area, and just spend time visiting with their family, friends, and neighbors. GPIF president Fred Schriever, Village President John Huettelman, and picnic chair Bruce Vollmer welcomed Shores residents and their families to the annual event and thanked them for their support and participation.

The new Toddler Play Area, funded in part by the Merz family and the foundation, was officially opened by trustee Dr. Richard Mertz and honored for the day was retired Village president Edmund M. Brady Jr.

Master of ceremonies Chuck Gaidica recognized, in turn, the youngest grandparent, the most "senior" grandparent and the grandparent with the most grandchildren. Raffle tickets were drawn for prizes donated by foundation trustees and from businesses in the community; prizes included tickets to sporting events, gift certificates, mountain bikes, a television set, electric tools, and wrist watches.

GPIF trustees actively involved in the event were John Boll, Frannie Book, Pat Cardel-

Merit scholar finalists named

Semi-finalists in the 1994 National Merit Scholarship Program were announced by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC). These academically talented secondary school seniors have an opportunity to continue in the competition for more than 6,500 merit scholarships worth more than $25 million.

Grosse Pointe area students in the semi-finals are: Niamh E. Comerford, Robert P. Hostetter, Katherine M. Hupp, Stacey E. Schulte, William F. Stephens, Bonnie E. Voigt, and John B. Wei, of Grosse Pointe South High School; David B. Eisenbrey and Michael E. Kim, of Grosse Pointe North High School; and Lisa E. Amatangelo, Christopher J. Dobranski, John E. Howbert, Anastasia L. Hryhorczuk, Eric R. Lindauer and Liam P. Ryn, of University Liggett School.

NMSC is a privately financed, non-profit organization that receives grants from about 600 independent merit program sponsors to underwrite scholarships in each annual competition.

More than one million juniors in more than 19,000 U.S. high schools entered the 1994 merit program by taking the 1992 preliminary SAT/national merit scholarship qualifying test (PSAT/NMSQT), which served as an initial screen of program entrants.

The number of semi-finalists designated in each state is allocated according to the state's percentage of the national total of graduating high school seniors.

Semi-finalists are the top scorers in each state and they now must advance to the finalist level of the competition in order to be considered for merit scholarships.

To qualify as a finalist, the semi-finalist must fulfill additional requirements. The semi-finalist and an official of the high school must complete a detailed scholarship application that provides information about the student's education interests and goals, as well as participation and leadership in school and community activities. The student must have an outstanding academic record, be endorsed and recommended by the high school principal and submit SAT scores that confirm his or her earlier PSAT/NMSQT performance.

Winners of three types of merit scholarships to be awarded in 1994 will be selected on the basis of professional evaluations of finalists' abilities, accomplishments and personal attributes considered important for success in rigorous college studies — without regard to gender, race, ethnic origin or religious preference.

Every finalist will be considered for one of 2,000 national merit $2,000 scholarships to be allocated on a state representational basis.

NMCS's funds will underwrite 80 percent of these awards, and grants from corporate organizations will sponsor the remaining 20 percent of the national scholarships.

Corporations, foundations, and other business organizations also will support about 1,200 merit scholarship finalists who meet a sponsor's preferential criteria.

Most corporate-sponsored awards will be provided for children of employees of the grantor organization, but some will be offered for residents of communities that a company serves, or finalists whose career goals a sponsor wishes to encourage.

More than 3,300 merit scholarships will be financed by colleges and universities. Winners of college-sponsored merit scholarships will be chosen from among finalists who will attend the institutions financing the awards.

Early birds

Brownell Middle School students were well-prepared for the opening day of school Sept. 8. A streamlined registration system allows students to register for their classes, walk through their schedules, practice their locker combinations and have their class pictures taken before classes begin. The practice helps cut down on interruptions to class time.

Song central

Grosse Pointe central library will be a lively place for grade school children Wednesday afternoons from 4-4:30 p.m. Oct. 6 through Nov. 17. Youth librarians Gloria Sheridan and Helen Gregory, who is pictured above, are looking for enthusiastic youngsters to join them for songs, stories, puppets and other surprises. No registration is required.

Pointers win Rensselaer Medal

Four Grosse Pointe area high school students have been awarded the Rensselaer Medal for their academic work in science and mathematics.

The recipients are Bobak T. Rabbani of Grosse Pointe Shores, a student at University Liggett School; Randall DeFauw of Grosse Pointe Woods, a Notre Dame High School student; Lawrence F. Drummy of Grosse Pointe Farms, a Grosse Pointe South High School student; and Jeremy J. Cieslak of Grosse Pointe Woods, a student at Grosse Pointe North.

The medal is awarded by the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute and has been given to high school juniors since 1916. Medal winners are chosen by local high school program coordinators.

St. Clare needs auction items

The Parent Teacher Organization of St. Clare of Montefalco School is seeking donations of goods and services for its annual auction on Nov. 6.

Large and small items are needed — tickets to sporting events, theater tickets, concert tickets, sports team memorabilia, gift certificates for local restaurants and businesses, sporting or exercise equipment, jewelry, paintings, posters, lawn care services are just a few of the possibilities.

Proceeds from the auction will benefit St. Clare School.

The deadline for receipt of auction donations is Oct. 15. All donations are tax deductible as allowable by law.

St. Clare of Montefalco church and School are located on Mack at Whittier in Grosse Pointe Park.

For additional information, call Debra Brady at 886-7360, or the St. Clare School office, at 886-1440.

North hosts open house

Parents of all students at Grosse Pointe North High School are invited to attend back-to-school night on Wednesday, Oct. 6, from 7:20 to 9:30 p.m. From 6:45 to 7:15 p.m. in the cafeteria there will be a presentation of North's annual report covering the 1992-93 school year. All community members are invited to attend.

Students have completed filling out their daily schedules and their parents are encouraged to follow these schedules, attending each of their son's or daughter's classes for 10 minutes rather than the 48 minutes that classes normally meet.

All North faculty will be present to tell parents what the objectives of each of the courses are and how the class is set up. In addition, the planetarium, writing and reading consultant room resource centers and the library will be open for parents who wish to visit them.

The study hall on a student's schedule will be held in the cafeteria, where parents may take a break.

If you think you have to live with sinus problems, we'd like to clear something up.

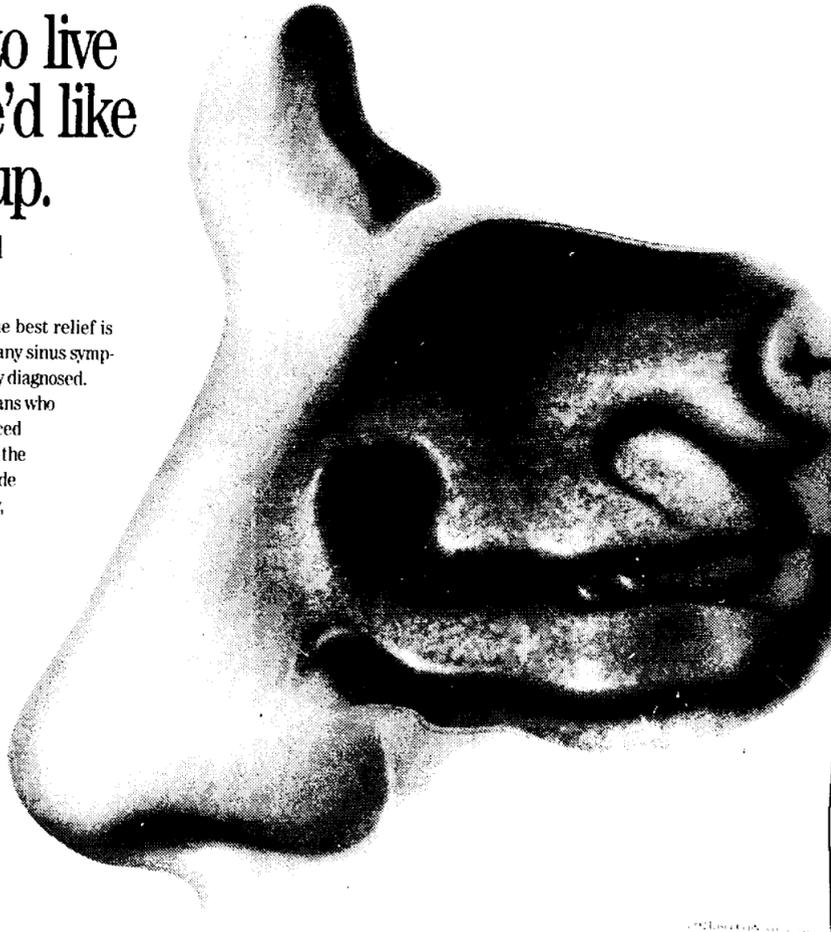

Congestion...Headaches...Post-Nasal Drip...Facial Pressure...Sinus Pain...Allergies...

Unfortunately, many people with chronic sinus symptoms think the best relief is found on the shelves of their neighborhood drugstore. But the truth is, many sinus symptoms can now be easily treated and corrected at their source, once properly diagnosed.

At the St. John Laser Center of Southeast Michigan, there are physicians who specialize in the diagnosis and treatment of sinus problems. Using advanced endoscopic equipment, they can look into your nasal cavities to determine the exact cause of your symptoms and your treatment options. These may include medication or a less-invasive surgical technique, such as sinusoscopic surgery, using lasers and other appropriate equipment.

If you're living with chronic sinus symptoms, call for a referral to a laser trained physician at the St. John Laser Center of Southeast Michigan. We believe you'll find this approach to sinus problems a breath of fresh air. 1-800-962-7777

Andra Tusa

Each week in this column we focus on the work of a student. It can be a poem, a drawing, a short story, a picture of a scientific experiment, a woodworking project or a book review.

Andra Tusa is a fourth-grader at Richard Elementary School. She wrote this essay as an assignment for her third-grade teacher Christine Hea. Andra is the daughter of Susan Tusa and John Ozburn of Grosse Pointe City.

Uranus: The Baby Planet

Once upon a time there was a baby planet named Uranus. Her mother's name was Mars. They lived in a place called the universe. Uranus had lots of friends like Saturn, Jupiter and little Pluto.

One of Uranus' mom's friends was Earth. Earth was really nice to Uranus. She gave Uranus a couple of star candies to eat and she gave Uranus' mom a handkerchief with stars sewn onto it. It was beautiful!

One day Uranus saw a star. It was a very pretty star. It was very bright. It was so bright that Uranus flinched when she saw it. She went and got her star-catching net.

Her mother saw her and said, "What are you doing with that net?"

Uranus said, "I'm going to catch an unusual star. It is brighter than the brightest star I've seen, mother."

"OK," said her mother. So Uranus went and caught the star. It just so happened that the star was the North Star. Everybody knew that the North Star was a very powerful star and it was the most powerful star in the universe.

After Uranus caught the star, unexpectedly, the star yelled, "What is your wish?" Uranus nearly jumped out of her pants because the star yelled so loud.

"Did you talk?" asked Uranus.

"Of course I did, dummy!" the star shouted.

Uranus asked, "How many wishes do I get?"

"You get two wishes," the star said.

Uranus thought and thought and thought. All her friends suggested a wish. Little Pluto suggested that she wish for lots and lots of candy stars. Saturn said Uranus should wish for lots of handkerchiefs. But neither of those wishes suited her.

She thought for three days and nights. And then she knew that the wishes were going to be that each and every planet would live in peace and that everybody could have as many star candies as he or she wanted.

That night Uranus wished upon the North Star and her two wishes came true: Every planet lived in peace for the rest of their lives.

Friends Are a Rainbow When Together

My friends are all different. They have different reasons for being my friends. Even though we are not always on the same side of things, we tough it out and make up. I feel the color Red when this happens because Red makes me think of hurt. My friends can hurt me but we always make up. When we make up I feel the color Yellow. When this occurs I feel I've made a new friend out of an old enemy.

Two years ago my best friend moved away. I felt Blue because I had lost my friend and I didn't know if I'd see him again. Blackness and Greenness swirled around me and I'd feel lost and sad without a best friend.

However, I remembered then that my friend told me that I could still go to his house and see him every month.

My hope was renewed and the Black and Gray were swept away; but my heart sank when I realized I didn't know where he lived or his phone number.

Then I got a call and my heart was filled with joy; my friend called and told me everything that happened and said I could come to his house during the weekend.

When I arrived and saw him I felt all colors of the rainbow.

I felt Red for love, Orange for the sun shining on a cloudy day, Yellow for happiness, Bright Green for contentment, Blue for openness of our friendship and Purple for the fact that we would never be sad about not being together ever again.

So from now on when my friends and I are together we will be like a rainbow.

Give your coppers to Safety Town

In conjunction with the "Be Fire Safe" festival on Oct. 10, Coldwell Banker Schweitzer Real Estate is conducting its second annual "Pennies for Safety Town."

As part of national fire prevention week, Oct. 3-9, Coldwell Banker Schweitzer is teaming up with the Grosse Pointe Woods fire department for the first fire safety festival on Oct. 10 on the vacant lot at Mack and Aline across from Schweitzer's Woods office.

The Woods fire department will attend the festival with fire trucks and with firemen teaching fire safety to children and adults.

Safety Town will donate Smoke House, a portable trailer designed as a house filled with smoke from a simulated fire, for the event.

Police officers from Grosse Pointe Farms, Grosse Pointe Woods and Harper Woods will also be at the festival to answer questions and issue police identification tags. There will also be an EMS unit on hand where local paramedics will demonstrate what to do in an emergency.

The Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts will be there to assist the firemen and policemen.

Collection jars for "pennies only" have been placed in all Grosse Pointe elementary schools, Coldwell Banker Schweitzer's three Grosse Pointe offices and in other local businesses through Oct. 8.

The money will be donated to the maintenance and educational programs of the Smoke House, located at Barnes Educational Center's Safety Town.

Last year Coldwell Banker Schweitzer helped raise more than $800 for the Smoke House.

All the pennies collected will be on display Oct. 9 at the Coldwell Banker Schweitzer Real Estate office at Mack and Aline.

Wires spark fire in City

Grosse Pointe Farms firefighters assisted City firefighters in extinguishing a Sept. 25 house fire in the 400 block of Rivard.

Investigators said it looks as though the fire started with an extension cord near an electrical outlet on the second floor. It took firefighters three hours to put out the fire that caused extensive damage to the second floor stairwell and bedrooms.

Although the home was occupied when the fire started, no one in the house was injured. One firefighter suffered minor injuries.

donating it to Greenfield Village. Greenfield Village officials said they weren't interested in the Albert Kahn-designed building.

In order to save the Vernier school, the Shores would have to place a bond issue before the electorate for approval. Most survey respondents said that no taxes should be spent saving the building.

It currently costs the Shores about $10,000 a year to maintain the building, which is used to store equipment for the department of public works. Director of public works Brett Smith reminded the council that another storage site must be found if the council votes to raze the building.

In 1985, Shores residents were surveyed to determine what should be done with the building. Of those responding, 61 percent wanted the village to lease the building, 32 percent said the village should renovate it and only 6 percent wanted it torn down.

The Vernier school was built in 1916 and was used as an elementary school until 1952. The Grosse Pointe school system vacated the property in 1956 and sold the school building to the village in 1962 for $25,000.

Cost of renovating of the building has been estimated between $1.2 million and $1.6 million. The council wants to make sure the historical society is able to afford this and other maintenance costs — knowing that the Shores will still maintain ownership of the building and property — before having the society go ahead with a feasibility study.

Pointes are rare places on Earth

Jean-Pierre Makeyev, president of a California hi-tech firm, visited Detroit two weeks ago, stopping for breakfast at the Woods' Mack Avenue Diner. A big transaction with Chrysler was being discussed in half an hour, "...and I left my fat wallet, with valuable credentials and papers on the counter. The people phoned my banker, finding that number inside, then my wife phoned a colleague, who intercepted me and then they delivered my wallet, intact, to my business meeting at Chrysler." To Tammy Wilberg, the honest finder, and Megan Spicer, owner and diligent locator and messenger, hats off — Makeyev says your service, your meal, your charm are only matched by your honesty.

Under the bridge

Since Malcolm and Marian Johns moved to Windsor they fear being forgotten by hundreds of Grosse Pointe friends made over the nearly 40 years living here.

"Sunday, Oct. 3, marks our 51st wedding anniversary, and Mac's 60th year as a major church organist, now with Assumption Roman Catholic Church, just under the Ambassador Bridge. We played 35 years with the Grosse Pointe Memorial Church. Don't forget the wonderful times we all had," writes Mac.

Goes over 40

Wanna great party? Call Mary Ann Bury. This Harvard Road woman wanted a "different" 40th birthday party for husband Bob Bury.

First, she gathered 40 friends (family, children, neighbors) and off to Patterson Park. Food, coffee, soft drinks, then a run/walk/bike/skate round of the neighborhood, visiting checkpoints to gaze on early pictures of Bob, vacation album-shots and lifetime snapshots, then back to the park for more fun and games, with a big backyard barbecue that evening for about 100.

Autumn in Detroit looks good for collector-car sales

The specialty-vehicle market is coming back.

Encouraged by strong sales of collector cars and trucks at the Labor Day weekend extravaganza in Auburn, Ind., last month, local dealer Bill Ziegenbein is betting Autumn in Detroit also will succeed.

This is the annual early-autumn auction Ziegenbein, Bob Seroka and Kruse International put on in Troy to the delight of Detroit-area collectors and automotive fans.

"Close to 50 percent of the 1,600 cars at auction in Auburn sold this year," Ziegenbein said. At a more recent sale in North Carolina, the percentage was high and a Rick Cole auction in Monterey, Calif., recently had sales rates of up to 94 percent of all vehicles.

"Selling 30-40 percent of the inventory is considered acceptable," said Ziegenbein, owner of Prestige Motors in Madison Heights.

Talk of the market coming back refers to the fact that collector-car prices were out of control in the late-1980s, driven sky-high by speculators who bought with the intention of making a killing in near-future sales. Suddenly the market softened, and these owners were stranded with vehicles they had paid too much for in anticipation of raking in even more. Some owners remained hopeful they wouldn't have to sell vehicles at losses. Mostly it has been a wait-and-see period, particularly for people wanting to get into collecting but needing to start modestly.

Autos

By Jenny King

The tents will be up Oct. 2-3 and open for business at the Northfield Hilton in Troy.

Vehicles like country-western singer Hank Williams Jr.'s charming 1949 green Studebaker pickup with green-and-tan interior which will be for sale at Autumn in Detroit.

And vehicles like the three being sent to the auction block by Mark and Paula Bedsole of Rochester Hills. The Bedsoles are thinning their collection and are planning to sell a 1948 Chevrolet Fleetline coupe, with dealer-installed wood sides. The Bedsoles also are offering up a 1934 Chrysler Airflow Brougham and a 1929 Packard roadster with custom Dietrich body.

"I just finished having a 1929 Mercedes-Benz limousine restored up in St. Clair, and I needed to pare down my collection to help pay for the work," Bedsole said. He bought the Mercedes about five years ago, sight-unseen, he said. He flew to Holland to fetch it; the vehicle was literally in pieces. It has taken the patience of several saints, and enough gold to pave the streets of heaven, to pay for its restoration and re-assembly. But it was a good investment, Bedsole figured. Only days after the restoration, the car won ribbons at a couple of concours.

Bedsole said he bought the Fleetline Chevrolet down in Auburn a few years ago. "The Country Club wood sides were a dealer-installed option," he said. "We think there were only about 50 ever delivered."

The 1934 Chrysler Airflow Brougham, with the avant-garde lines that ultimately had a significant effect on auto design even though Chrysler stopped producing them within a few years, was from the Crawford collection in Cleveland. Held in March of 1990, it was the first automotive auction undertaken by Sotheby's, a renowned London-based auction house.

Bedsole, Ziegenbein and Bernard Gliberman flew down to this first auto auction run by Sotheby's. Bedsole said he had remarked on the beauty of the Airflow to his companions. Then he noticed Gliberman raising his hand when the car was on the auction block. "He was bidding for me," Bedsole laughed.

The Chrysler, which has been featured at the Detroit Institute of Arts and is on a DIA-produced poster and postcards, is one of some 200 built, Bedsole said. He anticipated putting a $20,000 reserve on the sedan. The Chevy Country Club Fleetline will carry a $25,000 reserve, he said.

Bedsole's 1929 Packard, however, comes with a $250,000 reserve.

Other offerings Oct. 2-3 include: two American LaFrance fire engines, vintage 1954 and 1957, once on duty in Plymouth, Mich.; a red 1954 Chevrolet Corvette convertible; a 1955 Mercedes-Benz 300B 4-door convertible; Gliberman's 1948 Tucker sedan; a V-8-powered 1950 Ford 1.2-ton pickup; a black 1954 Cadillac convertible with red interior, and lots and lots of Porsches and Jaguars.

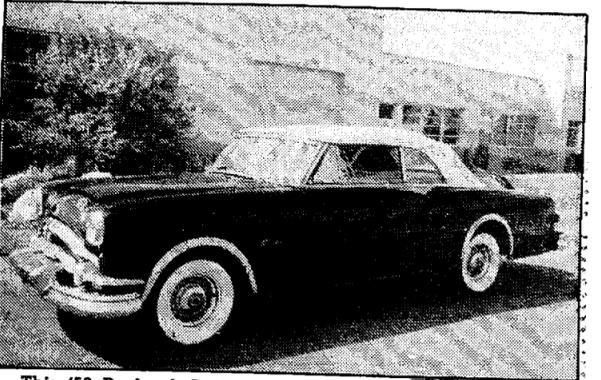

There is an admission charge to the auction. Entry fees for sellers range from $150 to $250 per vehicle.

This 1953 Cadillac Eldorado convertible has the lowest known serial number for this classic dream car.

A real collector's item is this '54 Buick Skylark convertible.

For muscle car fans, this Mustang GT 350 H will be an attraction at Autumn in Detroit.

HEALTH WATCH

We'll teach you to look for something we hope you'll never find.

What to look for

It's something one out of every ten women will discover about themselves. And for those who do, the sooner the better. Because there's no better defense for breast cancer than early detection. If breast cancer is detected in its earliest form, 90% of the cases can be treated successfully. That's why we're offering women a free seminar to learn more about prevention and treatment.

What we'll teach you

Unfortunately, all women are at risk when it comes to breast cancer. Not just those with a history of it in their families. That's why it's important to learn about what's covered in our seminar.

- Results of recent studies on breast cancer
- How to perform a monthly breast self-exam
- Methods for the treatment of breast cancer

Where to turn

To help women learn more about breast cancer and what they can do to reduce their risk, we're offering a free seminar on October 12th. It's something all women can benefit from, and hopefully set them on their way to finding nothing at all.

To attend our class, or set up a medical appointment, call our Physician Referral and Information Service at 1-800-237-5646. This information was provided by oncologists on staff at St. John Hospital and Medical Center.

Park nurse has fond memories of mission to Africa; finds life changed

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

Though she has been back in the United States for more months than she spent in a small mission village in Cameroon, West Africa, Roberta Wahl speaks as though she is still there.

As the 24-year-old Park woman reminisces about her January-to-May experience as the only American nurse in a remote mission hospital, she speaks of "our hospital" and "our patients."

"It really is still a part of me," admitted Wahl, a registered nurse at St. John Hospital who took a leave of absence earlier this year to volunteer for the National Evangelical Church of America.

"When I came back here, people said 'Welcome back to reality,'" Wahl said. "And I thought: This is definitely a different reality from what I came from. But I wondered which was the real reality. I don't really know. I guess you choose your environment and your reality."

The brief stint transported Wahl to a world where electricity is only used 10 hours a day, refrigerators are powered by

The 150-bed hospital in which Wahl worked was primitive by modern standards. Prep and recovery areas were the hallways. The delivery room was a bed with stirrups.

The people of Cameroon, mainly nomadic herders, live a simple existence and expect no miracles. Wahl offered an example.

"My favorite story is of a woman who walked to the hospital — at least a mile or two — got there at 3:13 a.m. and delivered a baby at 3:35 a.m. Twenty four hours later, she packed up her belongings, had her baby tied to her back and walked home," Wahl said. "It's a difference in what they expect in their medical care. The woman didn't expect us to take the pain away or speed up the delivery. It's just natural and that's the way they do it."

Many Cameroonians, because of their religious beliefs, do not condone extensive medical treatment and explain a child's death or other tragic occurrence as the will of God, she said.

"That is so different from the way we are," she said. "We are trained to believe we can save anybody from anything. I questioned what I was there for. And a lot of times, I thought when I saw someone come through with the minimal amount of care and technology, what are we doing back home? Why are we sustaining people for six months on a ventilator? What is real medicine? Is it this way of life or is it all the machines back home?"

Although Wahl did not come up with answers to her questions, when she returned to Michigan she concluded that everyone lives within the reality of their environment; there is not a definitive right way that applies to all environments.

The experience also made her realize how much more she wanted to learn about medicine. While working in the Cameroon mission hospital, Wahl was able to diagnose and treat patients. Nurses in the United States generally are not given that much latitude, she said.

"I enjoy my job now, but there's so much I want to know and there's a lot more I'd like to do," she said. "Having had a taste of what I could do, I want to go back to school and learn more."

She has applied to several medical schools in the midwest and is awaiting replies.

Wahl is a 1987 graduate of Grosse Pointe South High School and earned a bachelor of science degree in nursing from the University of Michigan in 1991. Before settling in to her career, Wahl said she longed to travel and experience other cultures. She wasn't ready for the commitment of the Peace Corps or long-term missionary work, so when she heard about a four-month opportunity in Africa, she applied.

Wahl filled in while a full-time missionary took a leave of absence to the United States.

To prepare for her trip, Wahl was vaccinated against yellow fever, typhoid, hepatitis and cholera.

She also educated herself on the climate, culture and customs of Cameroon, a nation on Africa's western coast.

"I tried to leave here with the view that the less I expect or try to anticipate the less I'll be surprised or disappointed," she explained. "I was always sure I really wanted to go, but I did have a whole day of anxiety before I left. I was thinking, what am I doing? Am I prepared for this?"

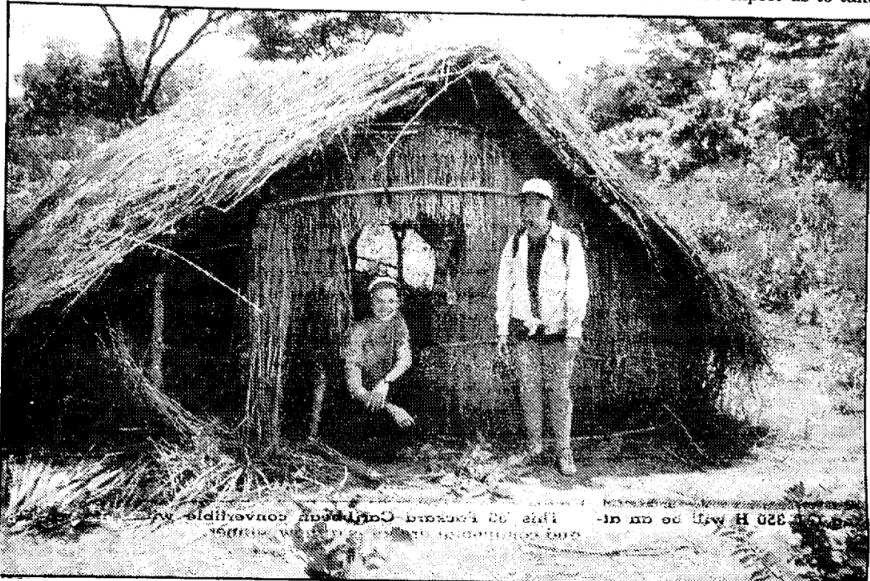

Wahl said her first shock came when she opened the door to her quarters and startled a four-inch-in-diameter spider that went scurrying up the concrete wall. She and the spider kept a respectful distance and learned to live with one another.

A typical day began at 7 a.m. with a half-hour Bible study, followed by patient rounds in the hospital. Wahl said most of the patients were being treated for malaria and filaria, sexually transmitted diseases and malnutrition.

Afternoons were spent stocking medical supplies, assisting in surgery and seeing patients in out patient clinics.

Leisure time was spent visiting with others in the mission village, volleyball games on Sundays and occasional visits to other parts of the country.

Roberta Wahl, left, and a Peace Corps worker found a migrant farmer's hut while hiking in the northern region of Cameroon, West Africa.

Can Detroit's mean streets be changed to main streets?

By Margie Reins Smith
Feature Editor

Can Detroit — with the nation's second highest homicide rate (per 100,000 people) in 1992 — become the safest major city in the United States?

"Yes," said Grosse Pointer John Broad, with a level, no-nonsense, no-kidding gaze.

Unequivocally. Definitely.

"Yes." Broad is chairman of The Alliance for a Safer, Greater Detroit, a coalition of business, community and law enforcement agencies that are working to improve the quality of life in Detroit.

And life in Detroit will improve when crime is drastically reduced, Broad said.

"This is achievable bit by bit, by taking small bites out of the elephant. It can be achieved neighborhood by neighborhood," he said.

The Alliance for a Safer, Greater Detroit is a year-and-a-half-old coalition of metro Detroit leaders and agencies. The most remarkable difference in this pull-up-Detroit-by-its-bootstraps organization, Broad said, is the heavy involvement of law enforcement agencies.

Members of the alliance include: the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce, Detroit-NAACP, the Detroit Urban League, New Detroit Inc., the Wayne State University Center for Urban Studies, the Warren/Conner Development Coalition, the Citizens Coalition Against Crime, the U.S. Attorney's Office, the Drug Enforcement Agency, the U.S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, the U.S. Marshal's Office, the U.S. Secret Service, the FBI, the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office, the Wayne County Sheriff's Office, the Michigan State Police and the Detroit Police Department.

"The alliance came out of the Detroit Strategic Plan's task force on crime," Broad said. "People have recognized that law enforcement by itself won't solve the problem."

The alliance got rolling in May 1992 by identifying its first four anti-crime initiatives. In its first 17 months, he said, the group has made measurable progress toward achieving these four early goals and has added another dozen or so initiatives to be achieved in the future.

The alliance's four-person executive committee meets once a week. It consists of Broad, a businessman; John O'Hair, Wayne County prosecutor; Horrace Sheffield Jr. of the Detroit Association of Black Organizations; and James Trent of the Citizens Coalition Against Crime.

The remaining 150-or-so people who are actively involved are a mixture of urban and suburban civic leaders. They meet once a month at the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce offices.

The first meetings resulted in the identification of four specific anti-crime initiatives the alliance wanted to tackle with gusto:

- Reduce the number of crack houses and dangerous properties in the city.
- Establish drug-free, gun-free school zones.
- Remove the most dangerous at-large felons from city streets.
- Reduce the number of vehicle thefts.

Progress is measurable on several of these projects, a successful conclusion is near on one, some modifications have been made on others, and about a dozen new initiatives have been identified.

For instance, About 18,000 fugitives are at large in Wayne County alone, according to Broad.

"They're out there — committing more crimes," he said.

One of the alliance's first projects was to put together a fugitive task force.

"Five law enforcement agencies came together," he said. "They cross-deputized each other and focused their efforts toward apprehending the worst of the worst."

Several weeks ago, the Sunday Detroit News printed a full page ad featuring photographs of a dozen of Detroit's most-wanted, most dangerous fugitive felons.

"The ad was free, thanks to Bob Giles," Broad said. "Law enforcement officers got 20 leads as a direct result of the ad. They captured two murderers, and one of those was apprehended because someone saw the ad."

Feedback about the ad was 100 percent positive, he added, and WDIV-TV is also running public service announcements spotlighting Detroit's most-wanted fugitives.

Another of the alliance's objectives came out of a breakfast meeting with two of downtown Detroit's prominent restaurateurs, Joe Muer and Jim Kokas of Opus One.

"These men said that many of their customers perceive Detroit's freeways as dangerous places to be," Broad said. "According to statistics, the perception of danger on the freeways is far worse than realists' assistance program similar to the Minute Men of Chicago's Cook County. Within seven minutes of having a problem on the freeway, motorists will be able to get help. It may be changing a flat tire; or getting fuel; or getting the car off the freeway. The trial program will begin next April and will cover an eight-mile portion of I-75 between Eight Mile and Outer Drive."

Another of the alliance's goals is to board up the approximately 20,000 abandoned houses in Detroit.

"Crime — and the perception of crime — is furthered by the existence of open, abandoned houses," Broad said.

work on a project to install fences on all freeway overpasses.

"The job will be complete by the end of this year," Broad said.

"We're also working on a motor-ity. Our freeways are actually very safe places to be."

Nevertheless, the alliance got to "The committee picked an area in southwest Detroit. We did some surveys. Erb Lumber donated some plywood. We did some measuring and went in on a Saturday morning with several teams of volunteers and boarded up all the abandoned houses. About 100 people were involved."

Garden Center teaches composting

The Detroit Garden Center will present a compost-making workshop from 10 a.m. to noon Saturday, Oct. 2. Learn in the classroom and Moross House back yard how to transform leaves and grass clippings into a valuable soil amendment. Barbara Hayes, master compost, will be the instructor. Call 259-6363 to preregister. The fee is $5.

The Detroit Garden Center is located in historic Moross House, 1460 E. Jefferson, 1/2 mile east of the Renaissance Center.

Shores branch of Garden Club meets

The next meeting of the Grosse Pointe Shores branch of the Women's National Farm and Garden Association will be held at the home of Mrs. Wyman Barrett on Friday, Oct. 1. Mrs. Stewart Cammett, Mrs. Gilbert Mack and Mrs. Bernard Whitley will assist the hostess. Following the business meeting and lunch, Virginia Snyder of the DIA will speak on "Flowers in Art."

New Friends and Neighbors Club

New Friends and Neighbors will hold its monthly luncheon meeting at 11:30 a.m. Friday, Oct. 1, at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. The guest speaker will be Mark Volpe, executive director of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. He will discuss the development — past, present, and future — of the orchestra as well as the history and renovation of Orchestra Hall. Call 881-6117 for information and reservations.

Alliance

The Alliance for a Safer, Greater Detroit is also working on a project for teenage boys in the city who would benefit from a sports camp at the University of Michigan during the summer.

"The kids are identified by neighborhood leaders and they can qualify by doing community work," Broad said. "This year, we sent 11 youngsters to the camp. They lived in the dorms. They got to see the university first-hand. They gained self esteem. We'll have a monitoring system, through neighborhood groups, and some of these boys will get to attend again next year."

"We hope to send 100 kids next year."

Funds to pay staff of the Alliance for a Safer, Greater Detroit comes from the Chamber of Commerce, Broad said. Individual projects are self-funded. This is where sponsors of each initiative can get creative. Sometimes, sponsors rely on corporate appeals. Some projects — the freeway fencing, for instance — came from state funds. In some cases supplies and manpower are donated. The sports camp project solicited individual sponsors for each child.

Broad grew up in Mount Clemens and earned bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Michigan. He is chairman and CEO of Broad, Vogt & Conant Inc., a structural steel renovation company based in River Rouge. He lived in Birmingham for many years, but moved to Grosse Pointe eight years ago.

He's a member of the board of the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce, chairman of the chamber's public safety committee and past chairman of its drug-free workplace committee. He's also a member of the board of Project Pride Inc., and chairman of the ad hoc committee on abandoned houses. He serves on the board of trustees for WTVS Channel 56.

Broad is the first chairman of home of Mrs. George Grenzke, with Mrs. George Malley serving as co-hostess.

Following the meeting, guest speaker Judith Biggs will present "Putting Your Garden To Bed." Biggs is a master gardener and has been in charge of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial's Trial Gardens.

New officers for the 1993-1994 year are Mrs. Bruce Feighner, president; Mrs. Daniel Beck, vice president; Mrs. Roger Garrett, treasurer; Mrs. George Malley, recording secretary; and Mrs. Craig Brown-Borden, corresponding secretary.

Women of Wayne

The Women of Wayne, Grosse Pointe chapter, will present a discussion and slide presentation by Dr. Helen Suchara of the Peace Corps in Poland on Wednesday, Oct. 6, at 7 p.m. at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church.

The fee is $10. Proceeds will go to the Women of Wayne Incentive Scholarship Fund. Refreshments will be served. Send checks to Rose Houck, 20211 Old Homestead, Harper Woods, Mich. 48225.

Fox Creek Questers

The Fox Creek chapter of the Questers will meet at 11 a.m. Thursday, Oct. 7, at the home of Catherine Waters for a brief business meeting and sandwich lunch. Co-hostess will be Mary Anne Draper.

Members and their guests will form car pools for a visit to Elmwood Cemetery for a lecture by Chancey Miller on "Civil War Generals," and a guided tour of appropriate monuments. Arrangements for the occasion were made by Georgie Le Duc.

Eggplant: It isn't just for baba ganoush

Aubergine or eggplant so much belongs to the rapture of Mediterranean food that it is surprising to learn its original home was in India.

Originating in India, the aubergine was cultivated in Italy in the 15th century. It spread to the south of France in the 17th century. The eggplant, a subtropical plant, thrives in warm weather and does poorly in cooler climates. Temperatures dipping below 50 degrees retard its growth; a whole crop can be wiped out by the lightest of frosts.

It is a staple — almost a staff of life — in the Far East, Near East, northern Africa and southern Europe, yet is hardly used in northern Europe.

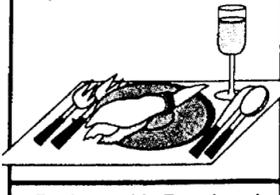

Eggplants are available to us almost 12 months of the year. By far our biggest domestic producer is Florida, which ships eggplants to market nine months of the year. When the Florida crop goes out of season, those from New Jersey make up for the reduced supply from Florida. California and the Carolinas also have big crops.

During the winter months, huge quantities of eggplants are imported from Mexico. I am happy to say that during this fall season Michigan has a delicious supply of its own.

These miniature varieties, which are wonderful and tender, are known as Italian eggplants. Sometimes they are stuffed with meat or cheese and bread crumbs and are baked whole.

Eggplants come in a variety of colors and sizes, and shapes. Most of those sold in North America are of the purple, almost black-skinned, varieties. These eggplants are oval, pear-shaped, and about the size of a small baseball. Some varieties are more round than oval, and there are some grown in home gardens that are thin, elongated and almost a foot long. The color range of the different varieties of eggplant goes from deep purple-black to white. The

ELEGANT EATING

By Irene H. Burchard

(see below)
1 - 1 pound eggplant
Salt
1/8 cup olive oil
approximately 1/3 cup pesto (see below)
1 small red pepper, chopped
1/2 pound low-fat mozzarella cheese, grated
2 ounces low-fat Parmesan cheese grated

Peel eggplant and cut into 1-inch cubes. You will have about four cups of cubes. Place in a strainer over a bowl, sprinkle with salt, and let stand for an hour to drain.

In the meantime, prepare dough according to recipe. Let rise.

Discard eggplant juices and pat cubes dry with a paper towel. Heat olive oil in a large skillet and saute cubes over medium-high heat for 6 to 8 minutes stirring constantly, until they are lightly browned and tender. Set aside.

When dough has risen, preheat oven to 450. Roll out dough and place in pan according to recipe. Spread surface of crust with pesto and top with eggplant cubes and pepper. Sprinkle with cheese. Bake for 20 to 25 minutes, or until crust and cheeses are golden brown.

Pesto

The amount in the recipe below can be used with 2 pounds of cooked, drained spaghetti or other pasta. It is equally good on pizza. Pesto freezes well, indefinitely, but should be brought to room temperature before tossing with hot pasta.

3 cups fresh basil leaves, tightly packed
1 garlic clove, cut in half
4 T (1/2 stick) butter
1/4 cup olive oil
1/4 cup fresh parsley, chopped
1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese
1/4 cup pine nuts

Wash the basil and pull off the leaves, discarding any tough stems. Dry in a salad spinner.

Place all ingredients in a food processor and process, scraping down sides with spatula if necessary, for 2 or 3 minutes until a puree is formed.

Basic Pizza Dough

Pizza dough is quick to make in a food processor. The only element that takes time is the 1 1/2 hours it takes for the yeast dough to rise. To get the crispiest crust possible, bake it on a baking stone or unglazed tiles in your oven.

1 package dry yeast
1 t sugar
2 cups presifted flour
1/2 t salt
2 T olive or vegetable oil corn meal as needed

Stir yeast and sugar into 1/4 cup warm water. Let stand for 5 minutes; mixture should become frothy.

Using a food processor, combine flour, salt, olive or vegetable oil, 1/2 cup additional warm water and the yeast mixture. Process on and off for a few seconds until the dough forms a ball.

Remove dough, knead for a few seconds to evenly blend and then place it in a lightly oiled bowl. Turn dough over to coat the entire surface with oil. Cover with a clean towel and place in a warm, draft-free area for 1 1/2 hours to rise.

Preheat oven to 450. Punch down dough and roll out on a floured surface to a diameter several inches larger than your pan. Rotate the dough as you roll it out to make a perfect circle. Sprinkle pizza pan with some cornmeal. Sprinkle a little flour over the top of the dough, fold in half and then in half again. Place the wedge-shaped dough on pizza pan and unfold. Dough will overhang pan. Roll up the excess to form a rim around the edge. Brush dough with some olive oil and add toppings.

Bake for 20 to 25 minutes until crust and cheeses are golden brown. Serve immediately.

Stuffed Eggplant

Prepare 6 small eggplants for stuffing. Sprinkle each hollow shell with salt and a tablespoon olive oil and arrange in an ovenproof dish. Cook them at 425 degrees for 7 to 15 minutes. Place all the diced flesh in another dish, cover and cook it in the oven at the same time. Meanwhile, take 4 ounces of pitted black olives and chop finely. Place them in a large bowl.

Heat 1 tablespoon of olive oil in a skillet and add 6 anchovy filets; mash them to obtain an oily puree. Pour this puree in the bowl of olives and add the cooked crushed eggplant flesh together with a crushed large clove of garlic and add a dash of thyme. Season with pepper and mix well.

Fill the eggplant shells with the mixture and flatten them with a fork. Heat thoroughly in a hot oven before serving. (Reducing the olive oil in this recipe will lower the calories.)

University Liggett School presents annual Antiques Show

University Liggett School's Antiques Show will be open to the public Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 9 and 10, at the middle school campus, 850 Briarcliff in Grosse Pointe Woods. Thirty-nine nationally known antiques dealers from 15 states will showcase their finest wares, starting at a gala preview party from 6 to 10 p.m. Friday, Oct. 8.

Proceeds from the show will be used to enhance the school's computer technology program.

"This year is shaping up to be one of our more successful and exciting shows," said Liz Brown, general chairman of the annual fundraiser. "Excellence is the name of our game — we have more high-quality antiques dealers; a nationally renowned speaker, Clement E. Conger, special consultant to Christie's; exciting exhibits by Pewabic Pottery and Tiffany & Co.; a demonstration by prominent floral designer Charles Phillips; and an extraordinary preview party opening — and that excellence is mirrored in the quality of education which can be found at ULS."

Dealers will present examples of English, American, Federal, Shaker and period furniture and decorative accessories; majolica; jewelry; paintings, prints and maps; porcelain; silver; boxes; Oriental rugs; and more.

The preview party will feature a dinner buffet from ONE23, entertainment by a piano and string ensemble from the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra, and an opportunity for guests to browse among and purchase antiques from some of the best dealers in the country.

Conger's speech will be at 1:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 9, in the Kresge Auditorium of the middle school campus. Besides serving as a special consultant to Christie's, he was curator of the White House from 1970-86. His topic will be "Masterpieces of Americana in the Diplomatic Reception Rooms of the Department of State, Washington, D.C."

the Alliance for a Safer, Greater Detroit. He said it will probably be a three-year position.

How did he get involved in working for a safer city? "I was driving to work every morning down Charlevoix or home on Vernor, going through Detroit, seeing kids looking hopeless and helpless, waiting for school buses beside burned out buildings," he said.

Also, he said, after a particularly violent Devil's Night in Detroit, "People were ranting and raving about the media fostering the violence. I thought blaming the media was a cop-out. I'm convinced it's not the media's fault. We can't blame anyone else. We need to get to work. To improve things. To get on with it."

"For the first time in my life, I'm making a contribution. People's lives are being saved. I'm seeing something can be done."

Broad has strong feelings about guns.

"I want to keep handguns away from kids," he said. "It's illegal for adults to give kids alcohol and drugs. It should be illegal for adults to give handguns to kids."

He also has strong feelings about drugs.

"Crime is largely due to the business of drugs. Large quantities of people are involved in drugs. Statistics show that the overwhelming majority of arrests involve drugs and it's overwhelming our criminal justice system. I often say that the only business that's hiring in Detroit is the drug business," he said. "The pay is great. At the entry level are young kids who probably won't be prosecuted."

"And I'm convinced that the business of drugs is far more deadly than using drugs."

Suburbs are not immune from Detroit's problems, according to Broad. "Whatever is hap-

Topiary centerpieces will decorate tables at the preview party for University Liggett School's annual Antiques Show. The party will be Friday, Oct. 8. The show itself will be Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 9 and 10. Displaying the centerpieces are, from left, Mary Anne Petz, preview party co-chairman; Liz Brown, general chairman of the show; and Thumper Haggarty, preview party co-chairman.

Tickets for Conger's presentation are $15 and are available in advance or at the door.

As part of Pewabic Pottery's 90th anniversary celebration and to mark its distinction as America's oldest continuously operating art pottery, Pewabic will host a special exhibit at the ULS show. Another special exhibit will be hosted by Tiffany & Co., and will feature 11 selected items from its permanent sterling silver collection.

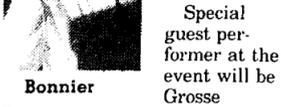

The ULS show will again offer a raffle, with such prizes as a 1994 Lincoln Mark VIII in the winner's favorite color, tickets for four to the 1994 Super Bowl in Atlanta, a 36-inch strand of 8 mm cultured pearls, a custom needlepoint area rug and a 32-inch Sony color TV. Raffle tickets are $5 each; six for $25.

Other features during the two-day event include a demonstration of floral arranging, a presentation by ULS performing arts students and food from the Pineapple Express, featuring goodies, sandwiches, pasta salads, desserts and gourmet coffees from the Silver Spoon and the Atrium Espresso Cafe.

Show hours are 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday; 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday. Admission is $5.

Preview party tickets are $50 for friends; $150 for patrons; $250 for benefactors. For reservations or information about the party, the show or the school, call 884-4444.

Jazz at the Ritz: The Steinway Society of Michigan will hold its fourth annual dinner musicale, "Puttin' On The Ritz," at 6:30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 1, at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel.

Bonnier

Pointe jazz pianist Bess Bonnier, who also is artist-in-residence at Grosse Pointe North High School.

The Steinway Society of Michigan is a non-profit organization founded to raise funds for monetary awards to deserving young musicians and to encourage their piano studies. Since its founding in 1989, the society has presented nearly $7,000 in such awards.

Tickets for the benefit are $60 each. Call Alex Hanway at 427-0040.

Volunteer opportunity: The Junior League of Detroit will hold an informational meeting for prospective members at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 7, at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

Women between 18 and 45, who have an interest in and a commitment to voluntarism, are invited to attend and to learn about the history of the league, its projects and programs and requirements for membership.

The Junior League of Detroit is an organization of women committed to promoting voluntarism and to improving the community through the effective action and leadership of trained volunteers. Its purpose is exclusively educational and charitable.

The Detroit league was founded in 1914 and is one of 283 leagues in the United States, Canada, Mexico and Great Britain, representing about 190,000 women.

Advance reservations are required for those who want to attend the meeting. Call the league's office at 881-0040 Mondays through Fridays between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Family Service meeting

Grosse Pointers Catherine Saurbier, left, and Marianne Battani greeted each other at a recent meeting of Family Service of Detroit and Wayne County, a United Way agency that provides family-focused counseling, education and training.

Battani, a Wayne County circuit court judge, gave the keynote address at the meeting: "The Role of Counseling in the Court System."

Saurbier, a health care consultant, was recently elected to a one-year term as vice chairman of the Family Service board of directors.

Timothy Howlett of Grosse Pointe was elected secretary of the board. Other Pointers serving on the board include Thomas P. Rhoades and Elizabeth C. Sullivan.

The Pastor's Corner

Roller coaster thrills

By the Rev. William C. DeVries
First Christian Reformed Church

Bravery is a quality that is genetically controlled. Foolhardiness is acquired through repetition. The sensation of thrill has very little to do with the central direction of human living.

OK. I don't have clinical proof for any of the above statements. It just seems to me that the first two are self-evident from our common experience, and the third is a sensible deduction from the first two.

We have all met children who are unafraid. Some would call them naive, but those of us who have raised such youngsters can attest that knowledge often does little to hold them back. It is not that they don't know they may get hurt, they just don't worry about it. I have been told that bravery in the face of great danger does not come from some reasoned assessment of the relevant factors. It is just there. It rises from deep within the human spirit.

On the other hand, I can attest to the fact that repetition can erase normal hesitancy and caution. I do not like heights. Not at all. But this summer I was willing, even eager, to ride the dizzying speed of the wooden roller coaster. I had been there before and the feeling of rushing down and around was anticipated and not avoided. Now, some might say, I had learned the ride was safe. Not really. I had come through before and just sort of assumed I would again. The thrill felt good and I was willing to sidestep my caution to experience the thrill.

There is no thrill to bravery. It is the unreasonable process of risking self for the pursuit of a worthy result. We can see its seeds in children. But it reaches full flower in the actions of adults who sacrifice self for others. The higher human values are not pursued for the thrill they will produce. In fact, pursuing thrills is most often a path to foolish, often downright stupid and disgusting behavior.

Why is it then that so much of our religious search has become a seeking after thrills? In one form or another we religious seekers at the end of the 20th century have come to evaluate our religious gatherings according to the emotional thrills they produce. Evaluating what is going on in our churches and synagogues seems to be like comparing the roller coasters at various amusement parks. Whether at our weekly worship or in small group gatherings we seem to ask only how high we went and how fast we came down.

Religion is not a "feel good machine." Our faith and its practice are meant to clarify what is wrong with us, what our true potential is, and how to minimize one and maximize the other. My religion, in addition, is about a force outside me that not only made me, but now has acted to bring to my life a person who gives me true human life. The thrill of all this is purely incidental. The heart is a committed search for the very best that a human being can be.

It's time to quit looking for the church with the newest roller coaster. We're beginning to look pretty foolish.

Pet blessing at St. Paul

St. Paul Catholic Parish will hold its annual Blessing of the Animals at 11 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 2, on the lawn of the parish house.

Prizes will be awarded to the youngest and oldest cat, dog, bird, gerbil and fish and the most unusual pet. Christine Fiedler, her cat, and her father, Douglas Fiedler, are shown at last year's Blessing of the Animals.

Adult Children of Alcoholics support group meets Sundays

An eight-week group designed to offer support and recovery to adult children of alcoholics, as well as to those impacted by other family dysfunctions, will begin Sunday, Oct. 3, at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, 16 Lakeshore Drive.

Sessions will run from 3:30 to 5 p.m. each Sunday for eight consecutive weeks in the second-floor lounge.

An informational group, it will utilize the Alcoholics Anonymous 12-step approach from a Christian perspective. While open to all interested persons in the community, the program will be closed to newcomers after the first session, in order to preserve continuity. Leaders will be Tia Foley and the Rev. Gordon A. Mikoski, associate pastor.

Interested persons should pre-register by calling 882-5330.

Learn to handle anger and stress

Explore the triggers of anger and learn coping mechanisms in a four-week workshop from 6:30 to 8 p.m., beginning Thursday, Oct. 7, at the Utica office of Catholic Services of Macomb, 45100 Sterritt, Suite 103, north of Hall Road and west of M-53.

Patricia Breston will teach new, healthy ways to deal with anger. Cost is $10 a session. For information and registration, call 254-2900.

Interfaith Peacemaking Conference to be at Grosse Pointe Memorial

Christians, Muslims and Jews will gather at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church from 3 to 5 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 10, for an Interfaith Peacemaking Conference.

"From Prejudice to Appreciation" is the theme. Participants will work on finding a common ground within religious and cultural differences.

An interactive drama will be presented by the Talk to Us repertory theatre group from the University of Michigan, a group of students who create and perform original scripts dealing with contemporary social and personal themes.

During performances, actors "freeze" at specific dramatic points and characters face the audience to facilitate discussion between audience and characters. The audience can question, challenge and talk with the characters.

'Julian' to be performed at G.P. Memorial

"Julian," a one-woman drama based on the life of Julian of Norwich, will be performed at 7 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 24, by clergywoman Linda C. Loving in the sanctuary of Grosse Pointe Memorial Church.

Julian was a mystic, writer and spiritual guide who was born in 1342 and was the first known Englishwoman whose writings survive. She experienced the Hundred Years' War, three outbreaks of the Black Plague, the violence of the Peasants' Revolt and the Great Western Schism.

Loving is an associate pastor at the Fourth Presbyterian Church of Chicago and brings to the role of Julian a background in theater and theology. Her undergraduate degree is in theater, from the University of Michigan. She graduated from McCormick Theological Seminary and has traveled around the country performing the play.

The public is invited. For more information, call the church at 882-5330.

Sponsors of the conference are the Greater Detroit Interfaith Roundtable, the Muslim American Alliance, the Jewish Community Council and Grosse Pointe Memorial Church. Tickets are $5 a person; $15 a family. Call the Rev. Gordon Mikoski at 882-5330 for more information.

Lay Theological Academy offers 'Gospel of Mark'

The Lay Theological Academy will offer a four-week course, "The Gospel of Mark," from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Wednesdays, Oct. 6, 13, 20 and 27, at St. Paul Catholic Church.

The Rev. John Castelot, adjunct faculty member at Sacred Heart Major Seminary, will present the course. The gospel of Mark is believed to be the earliest written account of the life and death of Jesus, and the book is a fast-paced drama recounting key events in Jesus' life and ministry.

The cost is $20. The Lay Theological Academy is an ecumenical educational organization made up of six local churches — Christ Church Grosse Pointe, Jefferson Avenue Presbyterian Church, Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, St. Paul Catholic Church, St. Paul Evangelical Lutheran Church and Our Lady Star of the Sea Catholic Church. For more information about the academy or the courses, call 882-5330.

Music festival to be at First English

The choirs of nine local Lutheran churches will gather at First English Lutheran Church to ring and sing favorite anthems and hymns at 7 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 3.

Individual choirs and massed choirs will perform and the congregation will be invited to participate. Refreshments will be served after the festival in the fellowship hall. There will be no charge. First English is located at 800 Vernier in Grosse Pointe Woods. The community is invited.

Three distinct periods and styles of music made up the well-balanced program of last weekend's Detroit Symphony Orchestra performances.

From the classically based melo-dist Schubert to the distinctively individual, 20th century music of Frenchman Francis Poulenc and Dane Carl Nielsen, the musical idioms covered a wide and fascinating range, and music director Neeme Jarvi demonstrated fluency in all of them.

The opening Symphony No. 3 by Schubert begins with a Mozartian flavor. This quickly gives way to Schubert's consummate skill as a melo-dist as tuneful themes develop. Jarvi brought out both the melodies and the formal clarity of the classical structure with insight and sensitivity. The music expressed a loving gentility to a degree that is probably unique to works of the Viennese school in Mozart's and Schubert's time.

Jarvi's exceptional rapport with the orchestra was particularly evident in the allegretto where the musicians responded to his retards and holds as though wired to his baton. And the transition to the gemlike, cheerful finale was like a sunburst concluding this musical jewel with a bright sparkle of joy.

DSO report

Converging styles make for a stylish, inspired concert

What a refreshing contrast then to move to Poulenc's mischievous Concerto for Two Pianos performed by the vivacious Katia and Marielle Labecque.

This concerto must qualify as one of the greatest works for two pianos, for Poulenc has taken the difficulties that beset most two-piano performances — percussiveness and excessively rigid rhythm — and converted them to assets by either making intentional and very artistic use of these effects or avoiding them completely by creating two piano solo parts that interweave and alternate.

Added to this is the composer's playful style, obviously heir to the traditions of Rachmaninoff, Prokofiev and jazz. The results are stimulating and highly entertaining — especially as played by the French sisters.

The Labecques are noted for their ability to play like a single soloist, blending their phrasing and interpretation seamlessly. Moreover, they displayed a shared exuberance and flair as they performed. Their eyes shone and teeth flashed in smiles as they seemed to exult in particularly delightful passages.

As a result, the offbeat rhythms and witty musical quotes that ranged from carnival to pastoral in feeling had a brightness and excitement that could only be conveyed in live performance.

Here again, Jarvi and the orchestra were totally "with it," providing superbly coordinated backup, especially with the colorful sounds of the percussion section.

The two pianists responded to the generous applause with a performance of Milhaud's sprightly, jazzy piano portrait, "Scaramouche." It revealed even more clearly the quality of the pair's ensemble playing.

The mood became more serious for the last half of the program. Nielsen's Symphony No. 2 is the composer's musical portrayal of mankind's changeable moods identified for us as the Choleric, the Phlegmatic, the Melancholic and Sanguine. It is an opportunity to compare one's individual feelings with those expressed musically by a great artist, and the interest never flags.

Neilsen's expression of sadness, for example, might seem more wistful and even a little playful. His Phlegmatic is serious and thoughtful and his Sanguine distinctly lively and enthusiastic. There remained, however, an air of mystery and grandness to Jarvi's beautifully sustained pacing of the work.

For the second week in a row, Jarvi ended the evening with a second encore. This time concertmistress Emmanuelle Boisvert was featured as violin soloist in Svendsen's "Romance" (as heard in Jarvi's over-the-shoulder announcement from the podium). Her special talent for tender, lyrical phrasing and evocative tone quality were beautifully displayed to wind up a totally satisfying concert experience.

Given the double encores of the past two weeks, it will be interesting to see if this practice is repeated again tonight and the next three evenings as violinist Nadja Salerno-Sonnenberg performs the Bruch Violin Concerto No. 1 with the DSO. Completing this weekend's program are Rachmaninoff's "Variations on a Theme of Corelli" and four segments from Smetana's suite "My Fatherland."

Leap for joy

The Metropolitan Ballet Theatre, Detroit's first full-scale dance company, will offer "A Midsummer Night's Dream," the first performance of its inaugural season at 8 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 7, at The Music Hall. The show was choreographed for Karl Condon, the MBT's artistic director, above, who will dance the role of Puck. "A Midsummer Night's Dream" runs through Oct. 10. There are three other performances scheduled for the season, they are: "The Ballet Masters," two one-act ballets, "Allegro Brillante" and "Carmina Burana" Nov. 10-14; an evening of work by contemporary choreographers Bill T. Jones, Alonzo King and Ralph Lemon, Feb. 10-13; and "Giselle," April 7-10. Season subscriptions are still available. Call 963-5858.

Wherefore art thou? At the War Memorial

The Grosse Pointe War Memorial offers a lakeside dinner prior to the National Shakespeare Company's performance of "Romeo and Juliet" on Oct. 5 and "The Tempest" on Wednesday, Oct. 6.

"Romeo and Juliet" is perhaps Shakespeare's most well-known work showing famed lovers racing toward their tragic ends, and detailing a growing rift between the nobility and the powerful merchant families. The church is caught in the middle of this friction, tending to the needs of all its flock.

"The Tempest" is one of Shakespeare's most beautiful and powerful dramas. This play depicts the utmost extremes of human action and emotion: violence and peace, tyranny and freedom. It is the contrast between these opposing principles that gives "The Tempest" its most touching and universal qualities.

Tickets are $15 for the performance only and $27.50 for dinner and the performance. Call 881-7511 for reservations or more information.

Jazz Forum offers fourth season of the area's best

Three concerts featuring the best of the local jazz scene are included in the Jazz Forum's fourth season.

The forum concerts are presented at the Grosse Pointe Unitarian Church, 17150 Maumee in Grosse Pointe City.

This year's fall series includes:

- Wednesday, Oct. 6 — Bess Bonnier Quartet featuring vibist Rob Pippo. Bonnier is the reigning queen of the Detroit-area jazz scene.

- Wednesday, Nov. 3 — The Steve Wood Quartet with Shahida Nurallah and Kenn Cox. Wood's saxophone and flute playing continues to amaze jazz lovers. Nurallah's interpretations of such tunes as "Lush Life" are unforgettable.

- Wednesday, Dec. 1 — The Jazz Divas, Judy Cochill, Marla Jackson and Ange Smith sing accompanied by a rhythm section which includes such artists as Don Mayberry, Bill Meyers and Oliver Nevells.

All concerts are at 8 p.m. Tickets are $9 for individual concerts in advance; $10 at the door. A subscription to all three concerts is $22. Mail ticket orders to Jazz Forum, 1347 Bedford, Grosse Pointe Park, 48230. Call 961-1714 for more information.

Fisher Theatre presents the prize-winning 'Somebody'

The Pulitzer Prize play "No Place To Be Somebody" by Charles Gordone returns to Detroit for a limited engagement opening Tuesday, Oct. 5 at the Fisher Theatre.

"No Place To Be Somebody" directed by the playwright and starring Philip Michael Thomas of TV's "Miami Vice" and Antonio Fargas of "Starsky and Hutch," explodes with blistering theatrical force — funny and profane — pathetic and tough.

A black bar owner in New York's Greenwich Village wants to outwit the white Mafia that runs things in his neighborhood. The colorful characters that frequent Johnny's Bar including an ex-con, call girls, a Mafia hood, Gabe Gabriel, an itinerant actor and writer played by Philip Michael Thomas, all seek a "place to be somebody" — a place, an identity, a reason for being, for breathing, for living.

The play opened in 1970 and after rave reviews, a successful run of 560 New York performances and winning the Drama Desk Award and the Pulitzer Prize, "No Place To Be Somebody" toured nationally. The Detroit production was an overwhelming success in 1971, so much so that there was an equally successful subsequent production the following year.

Thomas, best known for his starring role in "Miami Vice," is an accomplished film and stage actor.

Fargas, Huggy Bear in the long-running TV series "Starsky and Hutch," has been seen in many films and television productions including "All My Children."

Special discounts are available for groups of 20 or more. Call Amy at (313) 871-1132. For information call (313) 872-1000.

Feld Ballet

Visit Detroit's Music Hall to see what has so many classical dance fans so excited on Saturday, Oct. 2, from 1:15 to 4:30 p.m. This outstanding innovator continues to display the most daring and original mind in contemporary American ballet. Feld holds a secure niche in 20th-century dance as one of the most vibrant and original ballet choreographers the nation has produced. He is a true American original. Tickets are $32 and include roundtrip motorcoach from the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. Call 881-7511 for more information.

The company also performs Oct. 1. Call 963-2366 for ticket prices and showtime.

North's Gauerke enters prep coaches' shrine

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Tom Gauerke had just finished talking to his Grosse Pointe North track team and divided it into smaller groups to practice when one of the athletes stayed behind to talk to the coach.

"You missed your calling," the youngster said.

Gauerke was taken aback. He had been a successful track and cross country coach for several seasons and was at the top of his profession. He didn't know what this boy was getting at.

"You should have been a preacher," the runner continued. "You spend more time telling us about doing the right things than you do telling us how to run."

Gauerke smiled. He had gotten his point across to his athletes.

"I took that as the highest compliment," North's athletic director said recently when talking about his induction into the Michigan High School Coaches Association Hall of Fame last Sunday at Central Michigan University. "These kids weren't going to make their living jumping over hurdles. I wanted to teach them the work ethic and that if they gave 100 percent effort in whatever they did, everything would turn out OK for them.

"That's why high school sports are so critical to the total curriculum. It's a place where the kids can learn right from wrong and the value of hard work and discipline. A coach has a big responsibility to these young people because during a season he'll spend between 15 and 20 hours a week with them."

Gauerke is a member of the first group of track and cross country coaches who entered the hall of fame. And he belongs with that elite group. In 11 seasons at North his track teams were 98-1 in dual meets and set a state Class A record with 96 consecutive victories. During that same span his cross country squads were 89-4 in dual competition.

"I'm thrilled as can be to go in with people like Kermit Ambrose and Norm Badar," Gauerke said. "Kermit had retired by the time I started coaching, but I coached against Norm many times and I learned a lot from him. His Flint Northern teams were always one of the teams we'd shoot for in track and field. Coaches share a lot of information and I picked Norm's brain many times."

Gauerke began his coaching career in 1961 as an assistant in football, track and field and swimming at Grosse Pointe High School. He became the school's head track and field coach in 1968, posting a 13-2-1 record in that first season. That fall North opened and Gauerke followed his mentor, Ed Wernet, to the new school.

One of the first things Gauerke did was start a cross country program.

"You won't have a good track program without good distance runners and quality distance runners have to run the year-round," Gauerke said.

The theory worked because the Norsemen became a power in cross country and track under Gauerke. The cross country team dominated the old Bi-County League, winning 10 championships in 11 years. Gauerke also guided the squad to nine regional titles and three state championships. North was also a powerhouse in track and field, winning nine league titles in 11 years and seven regional championships. There were also three top 10 finishes in the state meet.

Gauerke was a three-sport athlete in high school in Waukesha, Wis. He excelled in track where he was a state qualifier in the sprints. He also ran track at the University of Wisconsin-La Crosse.

Although Gauerke was an outstanding athlete, he doesn't think there's any correlation between being a good athlete and a good coach.

"I think that when you don't specialize in a certain area, you force yourself to study and pick others' brains and learn more about it. We always had good pole vaulters here. It wound up in my hands because it's hard to find people who are pole vaulting experts. I had to really study, but I learned a lot about vaulting," he said.

"I used to recruit the best athletes I could find and trained them to be vaulters. You need the upper body strength of a gymnast, the speed of a sprinter and the fearlessness of a kamikaze. I'd find a kid in the ninth grade gym classes and if he had those qualities and showed an interest in vaulting, that was his position on the team."

When Gauerke built his

Norsemen end victory drought

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe North's football team gave coach Frank Sumbera an early birthday present last Saturday.

"The kids sang Happy Birthday to me on the bus ride home," Sumbera said after the Norsemen completely dominated L'Anse Creuse in a 31-0 victory in the Macomb Area Conference crossover game. "I think we got rid of three weeks of frustration in this game."

North, which lost each of its first three games by eight points or less, led 21-0 with about a minute remaining in the first quarter. The Norsemen made it 28-0 at halftime and wrapped up the scoring with a 28-yard field goal by Mark Brewster in the fourth quarter.

Fullback Steve Meathe was the offensive powerhouse for North as he ran for four touchdowns and gained 191 yards in 16 carries. The Norsemen rushed for 288 yards as tailback Eric Peters added 84 in 14 attempts.

North's defense was just as dominant, holding the Lancers to 15 yards rushing and 14 passing.

"We finally put it all together," Sumbera said. "Everything clicked at once. The kids were all business throughout the week and once they got off the bus you could tell they were ready to go."

North took the opening kickoff and marched 66 yards in eight plays with Meathe going 17 for the touchdown. Brewster

Tough schedule is hard on South

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

There aren't many high school girls basketball teams playing a tougher non-league schedule than Grosse Pointe South faced this year.

"This would have been a tough schedule with last year's team, starting out with Regina and Flint Powers and then playing the upper echelon teams in the other divisions of the MAC," said coach Peggy VanEckoute. "And we did it with an inexperienced team."

South lost five of its first six games, but had chances to win several of them.

Last week's 49-34 loss to Sterling Heights and 35-32 defeat by Lakeview were typical of the Lady Devils' problems.

South rallied from a 22-7 deficit to take a 26-24 third-quarter lead against Sterling Heights, but the Stallions outscored the Lady Devils 18-8 in the final period.

"We were breaking their press, which gives a lot of teams problems, but we couldn't buy a basket," VanEckoute said.

Shannon McGratty led South with 11 points, 11 rebounds, four assists and four steals. Katy Lupo had six points and five rebounds and Katy Leins added six points and four rebounds.

The Lakeview game was even more frustrating. South outscored the Huskies 7-1 in the fourth quarter and blanked Lakeview until it hit a free throw with 1.2 seconds remaining, but couldn't overcome a horrible third quarter.

The Lady Devils led 25-19 at halftime, but were outscored 15-0 in the third quarter.

"We had a complete mental breakdown in the third quarter," VanEckoute said. "But we still had every opportunity to win it in the fourth quarter. We can count on Shannon to score points every game, but we're never sure who else will step up to help her."

McGratty, South's only returning starter, had 10 points, 12 rebounds and two steals. Jeneane Farr came off the bench and played well with six points and six rebounds. Sophomore Molly McKenzie had four points, three rebounds and four assists.

South began MAC White Division play this week with games against Grosse Pointe North and Anchor Bay.

Romeo darkens South's day

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Everything was bright except for the final score last weekend when Grosse Pointe South's football team played its first home night game.

"It all went really well, no problems at all," said athletic director Jo Lake. "We had several positive comments. The Boosters Club did a great job in helping put this all together."

A crowd of more than 2,000 fans packed the stands for the Macomb Area Conference White Division game. Crowds like that usually don't turn out except for homecoming or Grosse Pointe North-Grosse Pointe South games.

"We're very appreciative of (Romeo athletic director) Jerry Barr and his team for being willing to help us by moving the game from Saturday," Lake said. "And to Mike and Jim Dempsey for putting an officiating crew together on short notice."

The only ones who didn't cooperate with the festivities of the evening were Romeo's players, who built a 21-0 halftime lead and rolled to a 28-6 victory over the Blue Devils.

"It was by far our best game of the season," said Bulldogs' coach Dennis Zbozen. "We finally put everything together."

Romeo scored on its first possession of the game, marching 81 yards in 10 plays after forcing South to punt. Quarterback Tim Czarnik sneaked in from the one and Sean Wynn kicked the first of his four extra points.

The Blue Devils were trapped deep in their territory after a mixup on the kickoff return and three plays later, Romeo's Curt Rienas intercepted a pass and the Bulldogs took over at the South seven. A running play gained four yards and on the next handoff, Clint Rodger scored from the three.

South marched to the Romeo 26 and 38, but each time was stopped on fourth-down plays. The Bulldogs took over with four minutes left in the first half and drove 62 yards for a touchdown, with fullback Joe Rossell going the final three yards.

South scored on its first possession of the second half when Todd Drake passed 34 yards to Ryan McCartney for the touchdown. McCartney caught the ball between two defenders at the 10 and broke away for the score.

Romeo got that back early in the fourth quarter on Rossell's 17-yard run.

"Their third-down efficiency hurt us," said South coach Mike McLeod. "We'd stop them on the first two plays and then they'd get the first down."

Romeo was so effective in moving the ball that the Bulldogs didn't have to punt once in the contest.

South, which is 1-1 in the MAC White and 2-2 overall, plays at division foe Utica Saturday at 1 p.m.

ULS rolls past first Metro foe

University Liggett School's girls basketball team had little trouble opening the Metro Conference portion of its schedule last week with a victory.

The Lady Knights rolled past Lutheran West 52-15 after building a 16-2 first-quarter lead and stretching the margin to 25-6 at halftime.

"We're a pressing team and they just weren't able to break our press, especially against our starters," said ULS coach Mike Brozowski.

Center Sarah Childs, a transfer from Star of the Sea, led the Lady Knights in scoring with 15 points and tossed in her first three-point goal.

"She might be our best three-point shooter," Brozowski said. "She reminds me a little of Bill Laimbeer the way she fires it up over her head."

Julie Grant had another fine all-around game with 10 points, 11 steals and six assists.

Magda Chojnacka and Stacey Corbin each had nine points for ULS, while Corbin added seven steals.

ULS, which is 4-2 overall, plays an important league game tonight, Sept. 30, when it visits Lutheran East.

"We've never beaten East," Brozowski said. "One of our three goals this year was to get a win against them."

Lady Norsemen win an overtime battle

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Stevenson might have had the edge in experience, but Grosse Pointe North's girls basketball team had more poise down the stretch as the Lady Norsemen nipped the Titans in overtime in the Macomb Area Conference crossover.

"They have almost all seniors and we're a predominantly junior team, but when it counted we made the plays," said North coach Gary Bennett after the 45-44 victory. "Our girls might be younger, but they have experience, too. Most of them have played on the varsity before this season."

Although North failed to break the deadlock during the final seconds of regulation, the Lady Norsemen took control quickly in overtime. Baskets by Kristen Loehner, Sue Karber and Maureen Zolik — the latter two on offensive rebounds — gave North a six-point edge in the first minute of the extra period.

Karber had 18 points, 10 rebounds and five steals. Zolik played an excellent game at point guard and had 11 points, two assists and two steals.

In its next game, North came out strong in the third quarter and rolled to a 51-36 victory over L'Anse Creuse North.

"Our full-court pressure was good in the first half, but our half-court defense wasn't as effective as we'd like," Bennett said. "We played much better in the third quarter when we held (LCN) to only six points and pulled away."

North held a 29-22 halftime lead.

Loehner led the Lady Norsemen with 13 points and five steals. Zolik had 10 points, eight assists and seven steals and Karber added 11 points and seven rebounds.

"One of the nice things about this team is that we have excellent balance," Bennett said. "Teams can't concentrate on stopping one person."

North has won four straight after dropping its opener to Regina.

Gauerke

"If you have enough people, the cream will eventually rise to the top," he said. "We had 120-plus kids out for track and usually about 75 on the cross country team. Now, obviously, when you have that many kids they won't all be medal winners, so we'd build on self-improvement. We'd publish a kid's time and comment on his improvement over the last week or the last month. We'd try to involve as many kids as possible in the conference meets and let the better kids compete in the bigger invitations."

Gauerke said track was more difficult to coach than cross country.

"In cross country you'd have two or three workouts — one for the best kids, another for the average ones and another for the freshmen just starting out — but in track you'd have workouts for the sprints, hurdles, middle distances, distances, pole vault, high jump, shot put, long jump and the relays. You'd have eight to 10 workouts and each of those would be graduated," he said.

"You're always making adjustments. I'd be jotting notes all the time, making suggestions on what might work better for the following year."

Gauerke had three selling points when recruiting athletes for his teams.

"A big part of our program was that athletics provided an opportunity for the kids to have fun," he said. "It also increases physical fitness and it's a tremendous vehicle for values that remain for the rest of your life. We really worked on that."

Gauerke is quick to recognize other folks who helped make him a successful coach.

"It took a lot of people," he said. "I don't think you could find a better assistant coach than Jack Edwards. Jack's job description was track assistant, but he worked with the cross country teams on a volunteer basis because he enjoyed it."

"You need the support of the parents for a successful program. When we needed drivers for our weekend meets we had so many parents volunteer that we had to be careful that we didn't offend anyone by telling them we didn't need them because we had enough."

"The Timettes were a vital part of our program. We started that because it involved more kids and we wanted to be able to give our runners more scientific answers when they asked how they could improve. We had 24 girls who kept track of all the splits. They could answer any track question you'd have."

"And I always had the support of my wife, Barb. There are a lot of long hours, week-

Norbs honor top swimmers

The Grosse Pointe City Norbs swimming team capped a fine season by taking the high-point trophy in the 17 and under age bracket at the Lakefront Swimming Association meet.

Chris Jeffries of the Norbs broke the championship meet record in the 60-meter breaststroke with a time of 42.81 seconds.

Attendance trophies were awarded to Mike Mullinger, 8 and under; Megan Mullinger, 10 and under; Ben Semmler and Charlie Dabrowski, 12 and under; Liz Cugliari, 14 and under; and Cory Wininger, 17 and under.

High-point trophies were won by Marty Schnurr and Jessica Graffius, 8 and under; H.J. Richardson and Kelly Rau, 10 and under; Semmler and Kelly O'Hara, 12 and under; Tom Leto and Jenny Failla, 14 and under; and Wininger and Anita Warner, 17 and under.

Norsemen pass a test

Grosse Pointe North's boys cross country team passed its toughest Macomb Area Conference Blue Division test when the Norsemen beat L'Anse Creuse 27-30.

"Three of our guys — Craig Stanley, Justin Fines and Joe Haurani — passed two of their runners in the last mile to win the meet for us," said North coach Pat Wilson. "There was some real hard running over that last mile and a half."

The Lancers grabbed the first two places in the meet, but North's Bill Stevenson, Marty Bogen and Bob Stevenson were the next three finishers. L'Anse Creuse took the sixth spot, but Stanley, Fines and Haurani were the next to finish, sealing the victory for North.

The Norsemen had it a little easier in their next two division meets, beating Warren Woods-Tower 20-41 and shutting out Lake Shore 15-50.

Nearly every North runner posted season or career best times.

Bill Stevenson was second overall with a 17:26 clocking, followed by Bob Stevenson (17:52), Bogen (18:03), Dave Bonkosky (18:11) and Jeff Henson (18:13) in the next four positions. Kevin Grant was 10th and Joe Haurani 11th.

Other personal bests were turned in by Randy Larrabee, Nick Accardo, Jim Kettel, John Gleason and Chad Haurani.

North

added the first of his four extra points.

On L'Anse Creuse's third play from scrimmage, Nick Chapie intercepted a pass and returned it 16 yards to the Lancers' 25. On the first play, Meathe broke away for a touchdown.

North held on downs the next time L'Anse Creuse had the ball and took possession at midfield. Six plays later, Meathe scored on a 41-yard run.

A blocked punt by North's Mike Collins and Wayne Ford gave the Norsemen the ball on the L'Anse Creuse 16 and Meathe eventually scored from the one.

Sumbera praised the work of offensive linemen Zac Hubbell, Donny Tocco, Tom Fennell, George Christensen and Fred Lovelace and tight end Rob Dallaire.

Ford led the defense with 10 tackles and Tim Northey had eight tackles, including three sacks. Defensive tackle Dave Perno and defensive back Glosa Peters also had excellent games.

ULS netters keep improving

Illness prevented Sarah Mayer from coaching her University Liggett School girls tennis team last week, but the Lady Knights did all they could to make her feel better.

ULS beat Grosse Pointe North 6-2 in a dual meet, then won six points in two flights at the East Grand Rapids Invitational before the tournament was halted by inclement weather.

"This is the first varsity experience for a lot of the girls, so I'm very pleased with the way they've been playing," Mayer said.

ULS won three of the four singles matches against the Lady Norsemen. Kelli Haarz beat Dawn Frontera 3-6, 6-4, 6-0 at No. 1. Rachel Calderon downed Liz Norris 6-1, 6-3 at No. 3 and freshman Natalie Levy beat Kristin Gregory 6-2, 6-0 in fourth singles.

North's singles win was a 6-2, 6-3 victory by Anne Corona over freshman Brooke Wright at No. 2.

The Lady Knights also captured three doubles matches. Katy Spicer and Dena Wright beat Heather Hollidge and Kelly Bernhardt 4-6, 6-3, 6-4 at No. 2; Laura Somogyi and Anne Petz took a 6-3, 4-6, 6-2 win over Tina DiLaura and Kerry Witting in third doubles; and Erica Denham and Dana Howbert defeated Nina Orlando and Blair Bellard 6-4, 6-2 at No. 4.

North's Sara Granda and Alysia Venettis beat Nicky Dalal and Allison Ridder 6-2, 6-3 at No. 1 doubles.

At the Grand Rapids meet, ULS trailed leader Grand Rapids Forest Hills Central by seven points when the match was suspended. The tournament's final score will not be official but individual match play scores will be included in the players' records.

Haarz lost to Kristin Flink of East Grand Rapids 6-1, 6-1 in her first match at No. 1 singles, but came back to beat a Portage Northern player 6-0, 6-1. Brooke Wright lost to Sturgis' Kim Roeser 6-3, 6-3 before posting a 6-2, 6-2 win over Grand Rapids Catholic Central's Kara Murphy in No. 2 singles.

Calderon topped Catholic Central's Liz Zainea 6-0, 6-2 in third singles before losing 6-2, 4-6, 6-3 to Holland Christian's Kristin Kooyer. Levy bowed to Forest Hills Central's Sarah Soderman 6-0, 6-2 in her only match at No. 4 singles.

In No. 1 doubles, Ridder and Dalal beat Portage Northern's Allison McClelland and Jennifer Abraham 6-2, 6-1, but lost 6-4, 6-3 to Holland Christian's Becki Gritter and Kelli Teerman. The No. 2 doubles team of Dena Wright and Spicer lost to Cranbrook's Allison de Windt and Alyssa Cooper 7-5, 5-7, 6-4, then bounced back to top Catholic Central's Laura Myers and Megan Watts.

Somogyi and Petz lost both of their matches at No. 3 doubles and Denham and Howbert dropped a pair of three-setters at No. 4 doubles.

The Lady Knights host Country Day today, Sept. 30, and play in the Cranbrook Invitational on Saturday.

Another runner steps on Knights

By John Miskelly
Special Writer

University Liggett School's ground game has been excellent so far this season, but it seems as though the Knights' opponents have had a rushing attack that's just a little better.

Despite another good game by ULS, which had 153 yards rushing in 36 carries, Hamtramck posted a 28-14 victory in the Metro Conference football game.

The defeat left the Knights 0-4 overall and 0-2 in the Metro's East Division. Hamtramck, which picked up its second straight win, is 2-1 in the Metro East and 2-2 overall.

Saturday the Knights visit Harper Woods for a 1 p.m. contest. The Pioneers are 3-1 overall after losing 16-12 to Lutheran East last week.

ULS will face another good ground game as senior tailback Jeff Kummer leads Harper Woods.

"I see Harper Woods trying to push the ball down our throats again," said ULS coach Bob Newvine.

Other key players for the Pioneers are tight end-linebacker Rob Primo and offensive guard nose tackle Alex Brinker, both four-year starters.

Hamtramck opened the scoring when senior fullback Lek Dedvukaj went 56 yards for a touchdown on the final play of the first quarter. Dedvukaj finished with 173 yards in 10 carries.

Fumbles littered the field in the opening period. The two teams combined for five in the quarter and nine for the game. ULS lost one fumble and the

Hamtramck increased the lead to 14-0 with 3:47 left in the first half. Junior quarterback Tom Nuculaj passed 12 yards to junior halfback Ken Talton for the touchdown and Dedvukaj dove in for the two-point conversion.

The Knights drove the length of the field to score with 50 seconds remaining in the first half on a 15-yard pass from Brian LeGree to Brad Espy. Key plays were a 32-yard run by Jaavon Kuykindall on fourth down and a yard to go and a first down on a reverse by Espy with third down deep in Hamtramck territory.

Legree also passed to Espy for the two-point conversion.

Hamtramck showed its composure by answering with 17 seconds to go on a 74-yard scoring strike from Nuculaj to Bill Grabowski. The two-point conversion failed, giving the Cosmos a 20-8 halftime advantage.

"They beat us with the big play," Newvine said. "We've run into three fullbacks who have killed us."

Neither team did much in the third quarter, but at 8:22 of the final period ULS junior Matt Corona scored on a two-yard run. The Knights converted a fourth and seven play at the Cosmos' 18 to set up the touchdown.

Hamtramck crushed ULS' chances on a 58-yard run by Dedvukaj with two minutes left in the game.

Kuykindall continued to play well for ULS, rushing for 95 yards. In the last two games he has 168 yards on 43 carries.

Comments: Chad Blackburn did well in his first game as goalie for the Red Team. Teammates David Clark and Brandon McRill played well in the field.

Knights keep winning

By Chuck Klonek
Sports Editor

Soccer teams that score against University Liggett School this season have accom-plished a rare feat.

"We've gone nearly four games without giving up a goal," coach David Backhurst said of his Knights, who are ranked fifth in the state in Class C-D with a 6-1-1 overall record. "We haven't been scored upon since Lutheran Northwest got a goal in the first minute. Our defense is playing very well."

"Freshman Mike Gressman has been very solid and Tom Simmonds, Chris Corneau and Scott Lanzon have played excel-lent soccer."

ULS opened a successful week with a 7-0 romp over Hamtramck in a Metro Confer-ence game. Matt Spicer scored three goals and had three as-sists, while Omar Sawaf scored two and Henry Ackerman and Eric Lindauer added a goal apiece.

Sawaf, who moved back to an attacking position after starting the season on defense, has given the offense a spark.

Sawaf scored twice and Lin-dauer and Spicer added one goal apiece as the Knights beat Ann Arbor Greenhills 4-0 in a rematch of last year's state semifinal game in which the Gryphons ousted ULS for the tournament.

"They lost nine seniors from that team so they aren't as strong as usual," Backhurst said.

Midfielders Ackerman and Lindauer played strong games against Greenhills and Chris Adamo, who has returned from an injury, played the first 65 minutes in goal.

ULS ended a long victory drought against Southfield Christian with a 3-0 victory. In the previous three meetings, two ended in ties and the other was a Southfield victory.

Ackerman opened the scoring 11 minutes into the game on a goal off a corner kick and Sa-waf and Berc Backhurst added goals in the final eight min-utes.

ULS held a 30-5 edge in shots.

Blue Devils unbeaten in division

Grosse Pointe South soccer coach Mark Christensen ex-pected big things from junior midfielder Tim Reynaert when the season started and now he's delivering.

"Tim started a little slowly, but in the last four or five games he's been our most consistent player," Christensen said after the Blue Devils im-proved their Macomb Area Conference White Division record to 5-0-1 with victories over Grosse Pointe North, Utica and Warren-Mott.

"He plays midfield so none of his goals are cheap ones. He's worked hard for all of them."

Reynaert set up Ryan Messa-car for the first goal in the 2-1 victory over North, then scored the second on a penalty kick with eight minutes left in the first half.

Reynaert scored twice in the 3-0 victory over Utica and notched both goals in South's 2-1 win against Mott.

Both goals in the Mott game came in the final 20 minutes after the Marauders took a 1-0 lead after a scoreless first half. Each of Reynaert's goals came on restarts.

"Nine of our 22 goals this season have come on restarts," Christensen said. "It's a part of the game that we work on a lot in practice. Little things like that can make a difference."

South dominated the Utica game, allowing the Chieftains only one shot on goal in each half. Dan Wolking had an outstanding game on defense for the Blue Devils. Paul Long had South's third goal.

"We didn't play with much emotion, but I guess that can be expected when you play the day after a North game," Christensen said.

After Messacar and Reynaert had given South a 2-0 halftime lead in the North contest, the Blue Devils got a strong perfor-mance from goalie Jeff Goudie to preserve the margin.

"They just ran us over in the second half," Christensen said. "It was like we were sitting on the lead, but we never dis-cussed that. It was a typical North-South battle."

Nick Vercurysse scored North's only goal.

Barons' varsity ties Tigercats

The Grosse Pointe Red Bar-ons varsity battled the East Detroit Tigercats to a 6-6 tie this week after the East Subur-ban Football League team's junior varsity and freshman squads rolled to solid victories.

Grosse Pointe's seventh and eighth graders were smaller than most of their East Detroit counterparts, but what the Red Barons lacked in size they made up for with intensity.

The Red Barons nearly scored in the first quarter after Danny Griesbaum pounced on an East Detroit fumble on the Tigercats' 15, but a Loyd Gentry touchdown run was called back because of a holding pen-alty and the game was score-less at halftime.

East Detroit scored a third-quarter touchdown to go ahead 6-0, but Bronson Gentry broke up a pass on the conversion at-tempt.

Midway through the fourth quarter, Steve Allor intercepted an East Detroit pass to give Grosse Pointe the ball on its own 22. Three plays later, Loyd Gentry took a pitchout from quarterback Jimmy Louisell and scampered 75 yards for the tying touchdown.

On the conversion attempt, Andrew Hendrie's kick fell inches short of the crossbar, leaving the score tied.

After the kickoff, East De-troit marched into Grosse Pointe territory but the Tigercats were stopped by Charlie Ingrassia and Griesbaum on a fourth-and-one play.

Two plays later, a Grosse Pointe fumble gave East De-troit another chance. But the defense held again, with key tackles by Ricky Pesta and Jack Lucido. Grosse Pointe got the ball with just seconds re-maining, but the game ended after two more plays when a Red Barons' pass fell incom-plete.

Grosse Pointe had several de-fensive standouts. Ingrassia made 10 tackles, Loyd Gentry nine, Pesta eight, Adam Maloof and Lucido seven, Griesbaum six, Allor and Ted Swartout five, T.J. Mooney four and Larry Selvaggi two. Mark We-ber, Martin Linclau-Miller and

The Barons got solid offen-sive line play from Jess Thibo-deau, Matt Tocco, Jeff Green, Jon Pacquin, Donnie Liamini, Jeff See, Cam Lovelace and Jeff Kalkhoff. Pacquin's punts and Hendrie's booming kickoffs gave Grosse Pointe good field position most of the game.

The deciding factor in the junior varsity game was a drive that consumed nearly eight minutes in the fourth quarter and produced a Grosse Pointe touchdown with one second re-maining to seal a 19-7 victory.

The Red Barons scored two first-half touchdowns. One was a halfback option pass from Scott Koerber to Josh Lorence. Lorence then scored on a three-year run. The key play in the second drive was a 35-yard run by Lorence that was set up by a great downfield block by Jer-emy Linne.

East Detroit scored a touch-down and an extra point in the third quarter to close the gap to 12-7 and was driving toward the go-ahead touchdown in the fourth quarter. That drive stalled when Eric Dunlap re-covered a Tigercat fumble in the end zone for a touchback.

The Red Barons' offensive line then took over to spear-head the final drive. Grosse Pointe got dominant blocking from center Mike Cataldo, guards Andy Delmege and Mike Prieur, tackles Ray An-dary and Matt Bedan and ends Jeff Tiede, Eddie Ahee and Eric Nichols. Lorence used his block-ers to rush for first downs on three fourth-down plays to keep the drive alive.

Defensive standouts were Dunlap, Ryan Fried, Steve Gotfredson, Justin Urso, Dean Cataldo, Devon Peters, J.T. Laga and Brandon DeGuvera. Brian Krall recovered a fumble.

Grosse Pointe won the fresh-man game 26-13 as K.C. Cleary ran for three touch-downs and passed to Chandon Waller for another. Quarter-back Jack Tocco and tailback Steve Rusko also turned in solid performances.

The offensive line was led by Sean O'Sullivan, Anthony Pier-no and Anthony Allor.

Robbie Crandall broke up a pass, Chris Gray made a touch-down-saving tackle, Kevin Pesta made several tackles and Steve Marone and Darell Yand-le each made key defensive plays.

Signup for youth basketball

Youth basketball, the most popular sport sponsored by the Neighborhood Club, is now tak-ing registration for youngsters in kindergarten through eighth grade.

Children in grades kinder-garten through six must regis-ter by Oct. 19. The registration deadline for seventh and eighth graders is Dec. 6.

Youngsters in kindergarten and first grade meet once a week. They are taught the fun-damentals of the game for the first part of each session, then scrimmage for the remainder of the period. A reduced-size bas-ketball is used.

The season for boys and girls in grades two through six con-sists of eight games, with first practices in December held two evenings a week. Games begin in January with one practice a week. Children in grades four through six attend evaluations before teams are picked so skill levels are evenly distributed.

Seventh and eighth graders also participate in evaluations for team placement. Children in that league play weekend games and attend one practice a week. There is an eight-game season.

The Neighborhood Club em-phasizes equal participation in sports so each child enrolled in basketball will play a mini-mum of half of every game.

The fee for youth basketball is $40 for kindergartners and $60 for the older children. Reg-ister in person or by mail at the Neighborhood Club, 17150 Waterloo, Grosse Pointe. All participants must have a cur-rent club membership. For more information, call 885-4600.

101 PRAYERS

NOVENA TO ST. JUDE

May the Sacred Heart of Jesus be adored, glorified, loved and preserved throughout the world, now and forever. Oh, Sacred Heart of Jesus, pray for us. Worker of miracles, pray for us.
St. Jude, helper of the hopeless, pray for us.

THANK YOU St. Jude. E.L.M.

NOVENA TO ST. JUDE

PRAYER TO ST. CLARE

Pray nine Hail Marys, once a day for nine days. On the 9th day, publish this Novena and 3 wishes will be granted. Even though you don't have faith, your prayers will be answered. D.M.

PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

Holy Spirit, you who make me see everything and who shows me the way to reach my ideal. You, who give me the Divine Gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me and you who are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great the material desires may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones in your perpetual glory Amen.
Thank you for your love towards me and my loved ones. Pray this prayer three consecutive days without asking your wish, after third day your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Then promise to publish this prayer as soon as your favor has been granted. (Thank you for a very special favor received J.B.G.)

203 HELP WANTED DENTAL/MEDICAL

and DAVE

Lifelong partners since kindergarten, Stan & Dave would like a chance to become lifelong partners with you!

Dave Levy and Stan Schwartz, the owners of Classic Window & Siding, have been friends and partners in business ever since they were little kids. Though, as youngsters, back in the days of Kool-Aid stands, they probably never suspected that they would grow up to be the men behind the East area's most respected name in windows and siding. On the other hand, if their Kool-Aid was any indication of what was to come, on a hot summer day, they knew even then what it meant to be in demand.

For years, Classic Window and Siding has been providing Eastside neighborhoods with the best in sales and installation of vinyl windows and siding. They also specialize in hand-crafted, custom-designed bay and bow windows. With each sale they make, they provide the customer with the "complete package." There are never any hidden additional costs on materials and labor which are covered by Classic's famous 30-year guarantee.

But Dave and Stan will tell you "an excellent product alone does not make a great business." What distinguishes Classic Window and Siding from the pack is their unwavering commitment to their customers. Dave, Stan and the staff at Classic make themselves available to their customers on a 24-hour basis to answer any questions or to assist with any service.

Classic's experience in serving homeowners has enabled them to anticipate the concerns of new customers. Often, they can answer questions before they're even asked. For example, to assure their new customers they are getting the finest in windows, siding and service, they maintain a computerized list of all their previous customers to be used as references. Once the work on a house is completed, Dave and Stan inspect it themselves to insure that the job not only meets the customer's expectations, but lives up to Classic Window and Siding's reputation as well.

In the past year alone, Classic has earned the total satisfaction of over 1600 residential customers. In addition to quick, responsible and dependable service, much of their success is due to making their windows and siding affordable to almost every budget. "We believe that the bottom line is providing our customers with exactly what they want, at a price they can comfortably handle," says Dave.

Add a tree or some annuals with this oversized planter

It may look complicated, but this handsome planter is exceptionally easy to build. Its generous dimensions — more than a foot-and-a-half square — make it large enough to accommodate a shrub or small tree, or to showcase an extravagant display of colorful annuals on your deck or patio.

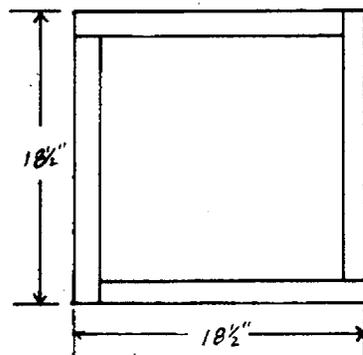

The container is made entirely from pressure-treated softwood lumber for years of carefree use.

To build the planter you will need one 12-foot, 2x6, one 8-foot 2x6 and one 6-foot 2x4 of lumber western pressure-treated for ground contact. For the sides, cut the 12-foot 2x6 into eight 17-inch lengths. (Or sides can be made from four lengths of 2x12.)

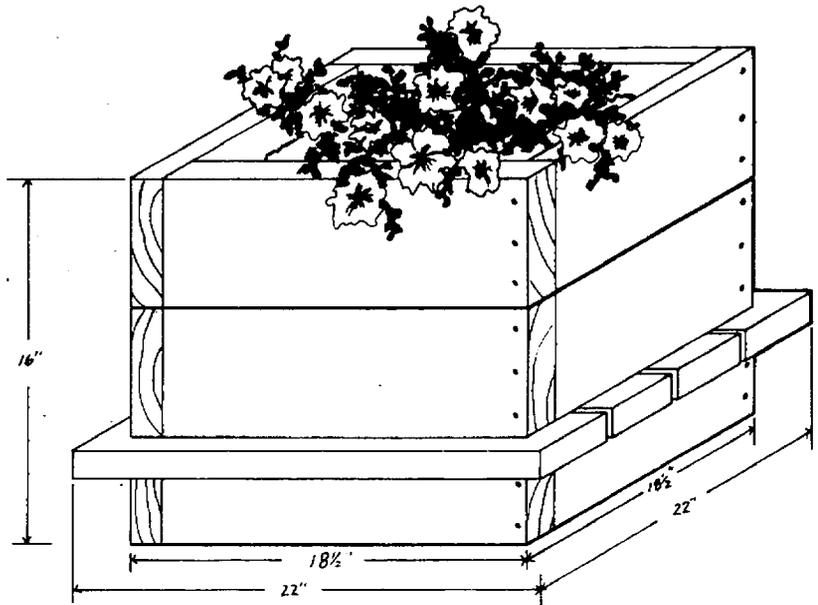

Before gluing or nailing, apply a generous coat (brushed on or dipped) of wood preservative to all cut ends to prevent decay. Using waterproof glue and three 10d galvanized nails per joint, fasten at the corners to form two 18-1/2-inch squares. (Pre-drill the nail holes to avoid splitting the wood, or for longer-lasting joints, fasten with 2-1/4-inch galvanized wood screws.)

To join the two squares, stack one atop the other, then nail 11-inch lengths of 1x1 or 1x2 to the four inside corners.

Cut the remaining 8-foot 2x6 into four 22-inch lengths. Turn the planter box upside down and arrange the pieces so they extend beyond the box evenly on all four sides. Use a nail to space the pieces about one-eighth inch for drainage and nail to the bottom of the planter with 10d nails.

TOP VIEW

For the base, cut the 2x4 into four 17-inch lengths. Arrange them on edge to form an 18-1/2-inch square (see top-view drawing), securing the corners with glue and two 10d nails per joint.

Center the base on the 2x6 platform; attach with glue and toenail (drive nails at an angle) in place.

Pressure-treated lumber needs no further finishing. It may be stained or painted to match your decor, or left to weather naturally. To make the container easier to move after it has been planted, you may want to attach casters to the base.

If you'd like more plans and ideas for outdoor planters you can build with wood, send $1.50 to Western Wood Products Association, Dept. HI-893, Yeon Building, 522 SW Fifth Ave., Portland, Ore. 97204-2122.

To complete this project, you will need:

Law helps protect American dream of home ownership

Michigan consumers now have greater protection when buying or selling a home with the passage of mandatory sellers' property condition disclosure law.

Bo Broock, president of the Michigan Association of Realtors, explains, "This new consumer-oriented law provides a greater level of consumer comfort and confidence in buying or selling a home. It ensures that everyone is satisfied after the closing of a home sale and helps prevent the American dream of home ownership from turning into a nightmare."

The law is effective Jan. 1, and all home sellers, whether they are working with a real estate agent or selling their home themselves, will be required to provide buyers with a property condition disclosure form.

Consumers not only expect, but demand high quality products and services. Michigan's new sellers property condition disclosure law provides consumers with the service they deserve. The law helps ensure that one of the largest single purchases consumers make in their lifetime, their home, meets their expectations.

"Mandatory sellers property condition disclosure is in everyone's best interest," Broock said.

Sellers benefit because by focusing on the condition of their property, they are less likely to overlook a defect or material fact for which they could later be held liable. Also, this procedure serves as a checklist for buyers so their concerns about the property's condition are addressed on the spot.

"When making the commitment to purchase a home, the buyer will find comfort in knowing that all known material defects on the property were disclosed before making the purchase decision. And the seller will find reassurance that they haven't overlooked an item that they may be held liable for later," Broock explained.

The buyer who is provided with a disclosure form before making an offer on property is able to make a more informed purchasing decision. In real estate litigation, buyers tend to sue sellers when they do not get what they bargained for and their expectations are not met.

"Disclosure begins the process of addressing expectations," Broock said. "If full disclosure is given, the buyer can make a knowledgeable decision and is much less likely to sue the seller."

"Sellers are better protected against claims by unhappy buyers when they have fully disclosed the condition of the property."

"The seller completing the form not only can limit potential future liability, but can also identify last-minute home improvements that need to be made to help generate the highest price possible for the property."

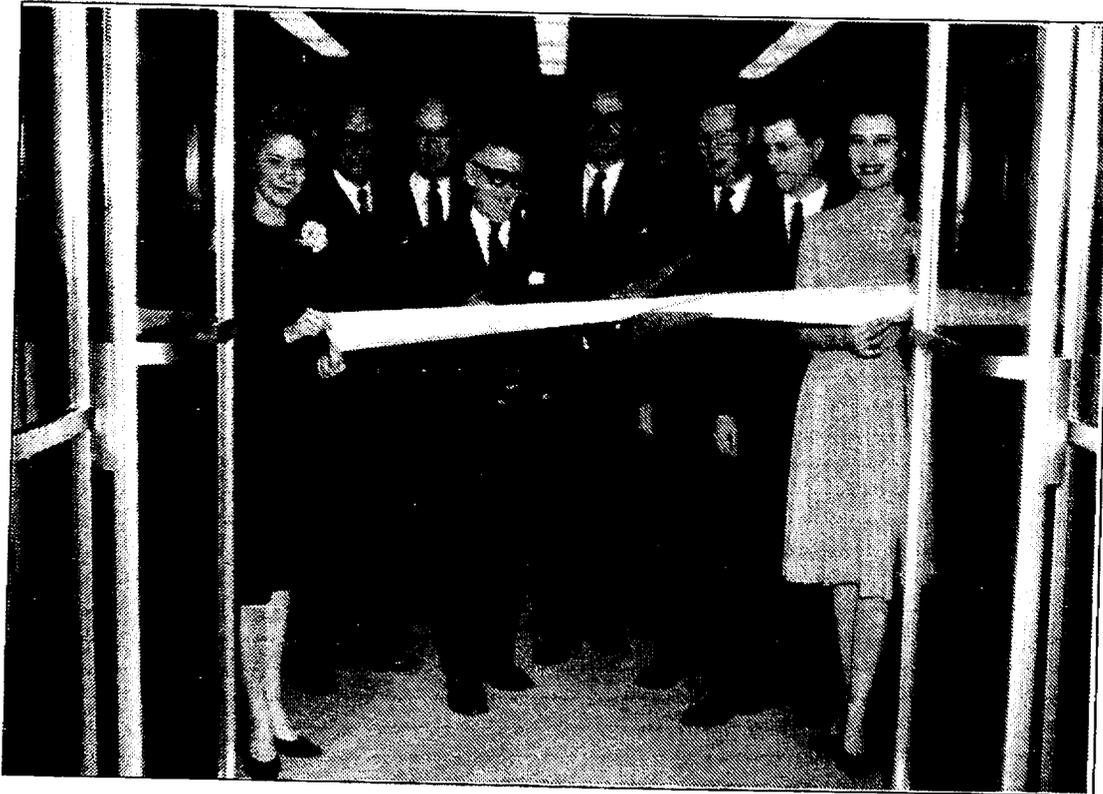

Since buyers know the seller had to make fairly detailed disclosures about the house and pledged to tell everything, the home may be more likely to sell faster. And, ultimately since most sellers become buyers, they are beneficiaries of disclosure a second time when they purchase their next home.

"Mandatory seller disclosure completes a circle of protection for the Michigan consumer," Broock noted. "While the use of disclosure forms does require sellers to disclose information about their homes, Michigan Realtors, many of whom have already been using voluntary disclosure forms, are still obligated to perform all the duties that are presently required by law and their strict Realtor Code of Ethics."

State law requires a real estate licensee involved in a residential transaction to disclose all known material defects about the property. The Realtor Code of Ethics states that "Realtors shall avoid exaggerations, misrepresentations or concealment of pertinent facts relating to the property of the transaction."

Sellers property condition disclosure provides greater consumer protection by placing the buyer, seller and agent on a level playing field, by providing them with the information necessary to complete a well-informed, well-documented real estate transaction," Broock explained.

Great Moments In Grosse Pointe History

The Punch and Judy Theater on the Hill in the Farms entertained generations of Pointers. Today, the theater has been turned into an office building, retaining much of the original architecture.

Raise the flag

The centennial flag for Grosse Pointe City and Grosse Pointe Farms now flies from Jacobson's flagpole in the Village. The two cities had two weeks of events this summer to celebrate their first 100 years.

History of City, Farms

May 20, 1879: Village of Grosse Pointe incorporated to include the property known today as the Farms, bounded by Lake St. Clair, Fisher Road, Mack Avenue and Weir Lane.

June 21, 1889: The 10-year-old Village of Grosse Pointe re-incorporated to include the land west to Cadieux Road, which today is known as the City.

May 20, 1893: After a failed attempt by a few Lakeshore landowners to create a much smaller village between Fisher Road and Weir Lane to be called Grosse Pointe Park, the Legislature passed legislation creating the Village of Grosse Pointe Farms with roughly the same boundaries as today. The Village of Grosse Pointe Farms continued to exist, bounded Cadieux and Fisher, as it is now.

1934: The Village of Grosse Pointe is re-incorporated as the City of Grosse Pointe, and is known today by Pointe residents as the "City."

Cook School, built in 1906, still rests on its original site on Mack in Grosse Pointe Woods. It now houses the Woodward Co., a merchant banking firm.

Hangin' Out

The Metcalf cottage on Lakeshore was typical of the summer cottages dotting this area in the late 19th century and early 20th. This cottage was built in 1894 and was located at the Edgewater stop in the interurban line. The house was later used as the first Lochmoor Club. Standing in front of the house is owner Charles Metcalf, with his black cocker spaniel, Smut.

NBD's Mack at Moross Office Begins Saturday

Lobby Hours: 9 a.m. - 2 p.m.

NBD: Committed to its customers, the community

NBD Bank is as much a part of Grosse Pointe's past as the auto barons and Lake St. Clair.

More than a mere presence, NBD has established itself as part of the community, with branches serving the banking needs of thousands of residents for over 60 years.

But NBD also wants to be a part of Grosse Pointe's future, that's why the Mack Moross branch will now offer Saturday lobby hours.

"What we're finding is that more and more families have two wage earners and they can't get to the bank by 4 p.m. during the weekdays," said Joyce El-Ali, branch manager. "There was a time when one person would work and the other would be able to take care of important things like banking needs during the week. But that's no longer true, and we have to adjust to meet those needs."

The bank is currently open for lobby banking Monday through Thursday from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Friday from 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. with drive-in banking hours until 7 p.m. on Friday and from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturdays, but NBD found that those hours don't seem to be enough to fit into customers' busy schedules.

"NBD has a real commitment to the communities it serves and Saturday hours is a result of us identifying the needs of the community and satisfying those needs," El-Ali said.

Starting Saturday, Oct. 2, the Mack-Moross branch will be open for lobby banking from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

"That means everything — opening

"That means everything — opening and closing accounts, consumer loan processing and accessing safe deposit boxes," El-Ali said. Everything you would normally do during the week, but until now couldn't do on the weekend."

And with its easy access from both Mack and Moross, her branch is the perfect location, she says, to serve the

"I think where this branch is located we really pull from all of the Pointes," she says. "Although we're in the Farms, we're centrally located so we can serve the surrounding communities effectively."

She continued: "We're becoming something of a little financial district here, with Pointe Plaza across the street and all the stores and shops up and down Mack, it's really convenient for our customers."

Area merchants have supported NBD's efforts and are participating in a money-saving coupon booklet for Pointe shops and restaurants. The booklet will be available at all the Pointe NBD branches.

NBD has additional branches in Michigan with the new Saturday hours and the response, El-Ali says, has been phenomenal.

"Because two-income households are becoming the norm, we need to adjust our services to meet those changes," she said. "Banking customers are becoming a lot more astute, and with the amount of competition in the banking business, it makes good sense to show our customers that we're responsive to their needs. People will go where the service is good, where it's convenient and where the price is right. We do all that at NBD. Our customers love it and it's good for our employees too. We get to know our customers and that makes it nice for our customers and for us."

NBD is just as committed to serving its community as it is to serving its customers.

"Grosse Pointe City and Grosse Pointe Farms recently celebrated their centennial. Many of the banners you saw congratulating them were sponsored by NBD," El-Ali said. "And we continually improve our facilities. In fact three of our four branches have received beautification awards from the cities they're in. And plans for remodeling the Grosse Pointe Farms office on the Hill is scheduled for later this year. Not only are we here to serve the customers, but we also want to reflect the true Grosse Pointe ambience."

In 1955, NBD acquired the Grosse Pointe Bank which consisted of three offices - Grosse Pointe Farms, Jefferson - Rivard and what is now known as the Kercheval - St. Clair location which moved to its present site in 1973.

NBD's commitment to quality is shown, El-Ali says, in the services offered, the friendly and qualified employees they hire and the smiles on the faces of happy customers.

"We like what we're doing," El-Ali said. "That's why we do it so well."

Home buyers missing out on best-ever market

Despite nearly perfect buying conditions, home buyers around the country are missing out on a possible once-in-a-lifetime opportunity. Mortgage interest rates are still at 20-year lows. In addition, an abundance of homes have been on the market for some time, making it a great time to find bargains.

So what's holding back the buyers?

"Confidence in the economy is an enormous factor when you're talking about a purchase as big as a home," said Patrick Berns, branch manager for GMAC Mortgage's office in Detroit. "People are simply uncertain about their jobs, tax increases and even the budget deficit. The problem is that while people are busy worrying, they may well be missing an opportunity that they'll never see again."

So far this year, the mortgage business has been busier than ever before. GMAC Mortgage, one of the nation's largest lenders, has already originated more than $4 billion in loans which is a record for this point of the year. However, the business is coming not from home buyers but from homeowners refinancing their mortgages. Nearly 60 percent of these loans were refinances.

In the meantime, home sales are running at a stronger pace than last year, but not strong enough given economic recovery and outstanding buying conditions.

Mortgage interest rates have hovered around 7 percent this year. On a $100,000 30 year home loan at 7 percent, a buyer would have a payment of $665 a month for principal and interest on the loan. Two years ago when rates were around 9 percent, that same loan would have cost $805 each month. Back then, 9 percent was considered a breakthrough after years of much higher rates.

Fall colors remind us of importance of trees

We are beginning to think about color tours to New England and northern Michigan to see the brilliant fall foliage, but it won't be long before a color tour around Grosse Pointe will be possible, too.

Trees are more important to our well-being than you may realize. Think, for instance, of how much tree-produced food we eat. Nuts and fruits are the most common, but there are also such products as maple sugar and olive oil and many spices. Dyes are also made from the bark of some trees.

Without trees to absorb rainwater and return it to the air as vapor, the climate of the world would be much drier and farming would be much less productive. The cooling effect of trees in hot weather is amazing. A single tree can equal the cooling effect of 10 room-size air conditioners running 20 hours a day.

Land erosion control is an extremely important function of trees. Without forests covering the slopes of the eastern mountains, they would soon be as bare as the Grand Canyon. Noise and air pollution are eased by trees. In Los Angeles, the trees are such effective dust traps that the city washes them periodically.

Garden Shed

By Ellen Probert

cally. Tree belts on highways have been found to be very effective smog fighters.

People have a natural affinity for trees. Tests have shown that people respond emotionally to trees, and that they relax and feel much less anxiety and stress in tree-rich places.

And at this time of changing colors and fall beauty, we can really appreciate them, even though it won't be very long before we have leaves to rake.

We almost automatically think about apples and cider when fall days arrive, but how about pears and perry for a change? Perry is pear cider, and it's very good.

Pears have a venerable history going back 35 or 40 centuries. Originating in western Asia and around the Caspian Sea, they have been known as far back as the Stone Age.

Homer, writing in Greece around 580 B.C., calls pears "the gift of the gods." Some centuries later, Theophrastus, Plato and Pliny recorded many varieties of pears and gave lengthy descriptions of methods of grafting and pruning as early as 300 B.C.

Nicholas Hardenpont, a priest in Mons, Belgium, in the early 18th century, refers to pears as "butter-fruit." Since that time, more than 5,000 varieties have been listed. Some of them occur worldwide, some only in one country or region. Pear seeds are known to have been sent to the Massachusetts Bay Company in March 1629, and by 1711, the Prince Nursery, the greatest of the Colonial nurseries, listed 42 varieties of pears.

Fireblight, the worst enemy of pear trees, was first described in 1770, and continues to be a menace to this day. It can be controlled by the antibiotic streptomycin, which, of course, was unknown in the 18th century.

Pears contain large amounts of vitamins A, B, and C, and a considerable amount of iodine, necessary for the proper functioning of the thyroid gland. Beautiful skin and hair have for centuries been attributed to the regular consumption of pears. What a pleasant way to acquire beauty!

The oldest living things on Earth are trees.

The famed cedars of Lebanon are still as the Bible describes them. But the oldest trees of all are the bristlecone pines native to the American southwest, which have been dated back 5,000 years.

Oldest isn't biggest, and if you are thinking of girth rather than height, the African baobab takes the prize. These gigantic trees are the size of a modest house and are more like monuments than trees. Early travelers in Africa considered them landmarks and often carved their names and dates into the bark, creating a cryptic record of early Western exploration of the continent.

Sequoias, native to the American Pacific coast, are the tallest trees in the world, often attaining a height of over 400 feet. The age of these huge trees has been estimated at about 4,000 years.

Feature-filled kitchen makes this design special

The creative interior angular design offers a corner entrance to the breakfast room, kitchen or family room. The breakfast room lets the sun shine in through the high vaulted ceiling.

A formal dining room and living room are sequestered from everyday traffic and are private for elegant entertaining.

A large laundry room and a powder room connect with the garage access hall.

Upstairs, the master suite is unusually impressive, with its large sleeping area, tray ceiling, private intimate sitting room and walk-in closet from the luxury bath. The suite utilizes more than half of the second floor space. Undoubtedly an extra special suite fit for a queen

Two additional bedrooms are shown on the second floor and share a central bath that includes two vanities.

The interesting angles inside take this design out of the ordinary. The stately exterior style features multiple roof breaks, ornate window treatment and hip and gable roof design.

The computer-generated plan is No. 2269. It includes 2,413 square feet of heated space with the master sitting room or 2,283 square feet if you choose to leave this area out. All W.D. Farmer plans include special construction details for energy efficiency. For further information write W.D. Farmer Residence Designer, Inc., P.O. Box 450025, Atlanta, Ga. 30345.

Home Tips

Handy Recycling — I have been using the waxed paper liners from cereal boxes for food storage, refrigerated leftovers, etc. This saves the expense of those plastic zipper-type bags. They also come in varied sizes, depending on the size of the cereal box you purchase. H.C., Syracuse, N.Y.

Keeping track — We receive the weekly TV listings and cut out all the information we need (title, stars, length of show, etc.) on whatever we're going to videotape. Then we tape it to the box. I've done this for years, and it works great. I've found it's a foolproof way of knowing exactly what's on the cassette. It's also more space-efficient than the labels provided. Jill H., Colxico, Calif.

Spread out — Years ago, I was short of kitchen cupboard space, so I bought a pegboard, painted it the color of the wall and hung it in an appropriate space. It was a winner! I could put anything I wanted on it and rearrange it when necessary. Esther W., Hallock, Minn.

Easy cleanup — I use a chamois cloth to wipe the tiles in the bathroom after a shower. It's much more efficient than a squeegee, and it does a great job without streaking. Vicki O., Long Branch, N.J.

Salad magic — I like to take a salad to work for lunch, but finding a way to take dressing without a mess was always a problem. Then I thought of washing out the small plastic yogurt containers I'd normally discard. They hold just the right amount and are small enough to put in my covered bowl with the salad, and I don't worry about a spill. I just toss it back in to take home again. Katy N., Birmingham, Ala.
