

Schools weigh future under Engler plan, find it loaded with 'if's'

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

If Gov. John Engler's school reform plan passed in its entirety by the Legislature and the voters and if the taxpayers of Grosse Pointe and part of Harper Woods supported a 7.2-mill tax levy, then the Grosse Pointe public schools would be "relatively stable" for the 1994-95 school year.

That's as close to a sure answer as Grosse Pointe schools superintendent Ed Shine can give at this time, one week after Engler delivered his multifaceted plan to restructure Michigan's education system.

"I'm reluctant to say much," Shine said. "Everything is so tenuous. We don't even know if it's possible to get a two-thirds majority to get this on the ballot by next February."

Engler's plan calls for a constitutional amendment to be voted on Feb. 8 by Michigan residents to increase the sales tax by 2 cents, permanently eliminate school operating taxes for all but 35 districts (including Grosse Pointe), earmark all existing and new K-12 revenues to the School Aid Fund and abolish the State Tax Commission and reform the state board of education.

In addition, Engler has proposed that the Legislature approve a half-percent increase in the small business tax, a 4-percent homestead transfer tax, a 50-cent tax hike on cigarettes and other tobacco products, and a 16-mill property tax on businesses, second homes and non-resident property.

Engler's plan is in response to the Legislature's action in July that eliminated property taxes as a source of revenue for school districts.

For Grosse Pointe schools, which currently spend $8,165 per pupil, Engler's plan would provide $6,500 per pupil next year and allow the district to seek an additional 7.2 mills to reach its 1993-94 spending levels. Grosse Pointe and 34 other districts would be allowed one chance to seek the millage.

In years following 1994-95, districts permitted to levy local taxes would be allowed an increase limited to the rate of inflation.

But with so much of the plan based on the Legislature and a referendum, it is a difficult task for local school districts to budget for the upcoming year, he said.

"This is all speculation and it could all change," Shine said.

Park officials riled by media goblins

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

Describing a story appearing in the Sunday Detroit News-Free Press as "ludicrous," Grosse Pointe Park Mayor Palmer Heenan said that the Halloween party planned by the Park is not an attempt to ban traditional trick or treating.

"It is unfortunate that a holiday that's supposed to be for children has been politicized," Heenan said. "We are encouraging people to be their usual generous selves. Grosse Pointe Park residents have probably given away more candy than any other city in the state, but the story of their generosity goes unpublished. The party at Windmill Pointe Park on Halloween is just meant to be an addition to traditional events, not a replacement.

"From my perspective, the Detroit media was inaccurate and treated our city unfairly."

Park city manager Dale Krajniak said that the Park is not trying to ban trick or treating.

The party will be held at Windmill Pointe Park from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 31. Children will be allowed to trick or treat, and a magic show is also scheduled.

The party is open to Park residents only, and tickets are $2.

Krajniak said that the event is similar to ones sponsored by other cities, including Detroit.

"I spent much of Sunday night speaking with members of the media," Krajniak said. "I feel that some of the media and some individuals have given the false impression that Grosse Pointe Park has banned traditional door-to-door trick or treating. We haven't."

The party is just one of several events the Park has sponsored at Windmill Pointe Park, Krajniak said, including an Easter egg hunt and fishing rodeos. The Park will also hold its fifth annual Harvest in the Park on Sunday, Oct. 18.

Tom McPartlin, community center director for Lincoln Park said that his department will sponsor a party on Oct. 30 for children aged 8 and younger.

Redford Township will hold a skating party at the city's skat-

Hours changed

The hours of the Park's Windmill Pointe Halloween party have been changed to accommodate those who wish to attend the party and also go trick or treating.

"We have heard from a number of people who asked us to change the hours of the party so their children can also go trick or treating," said city manager Dale Krajniak. "The Halloween party will begin at 4 p.m. on Sunday, Oct. 31, instead of 5:30. There is only room for about 200 children at the party, so anyone who wishes to attend should be warned that space is limited."

At the Racial Justice Center of Grosse Pointe's regular meeting Monday night, the executive committee decided to send flyers to the community, churches, businesses and members of their mailing list outside the community asking residents to turn on their lights and welcome trick-or-treaters.

"We thought we would turn this into something positive," said Carole Lombardini of the Racial Justice Center's executive committee. "We are delighted with the stance taken by the Park council."

ing rink. Inkster has scheduled a party for Halloween between the hours of 6 p.m. and 8 p.m. for sixth-grade students and younger.

Heenan said that he was misquoted and things he did say were given a slant he never intended them to have.

"I never said that Detroit teenagers came into the city and stole candy," said Heenan. "I said that the Park on rare occasions has received reports of teenagers taking candy. How would I know what city they're from. The 'Detroit teenagers' quote was gratuitously added by the reporter."

The Parks department holds a lot of events, said Heenan.

Two admit they were paid to steal judge's campaign signs in the Park

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

Municipal Judge Kirsten Frank was beginning to think something more than random acts of vandalism were responsible for the disappearance of more than 200 of her campaign signs from lawns around Grosse Pointe Park in recent weeks.

"They were disappearing on blocks and streets at a time," said Frank, who is seeking reelection as municipal judge in the Park. "Normally you lose a couple here and there, but there started to be a pattern. Only my signs were being taken."

The arrest of two Detroit residents at 3 a.m. Oct. 7 may have partially solved the case of the missing campaign signs.

Park police collared a 24-year-old woman and a 21-year-old man at Buckingham and Jefferson who were in the process of removing Frank's campaign signs from lawns and loading them into the back of a van, said Park police detective Lt. David Hiller.

Police were alerted by a resident who called to report "a suspicious-looking van circling the neighborhood, stopping at various houses," Hiller noted.

The names of the arrested pair were being withheld by police until their arraignment on larceny charges this morning in Park Municipal Court.

Following their arrest, the two were questioned by Park detectives. Hiller said the man admitted that his uncle offered to pay him $150 for every 100 Kirsten Frank signs he obtained and delivered to an area near Finney High School in Detroit. The man said he had been delivering signs for about two weeks.

Police recovered 43 Frank signs from the back of the van.

Hiller would not release the name of the person allegedly paying for the stolen signs and said late last week that detectives had been unsuccessful so far in their attempts to contact the man.

Park detectives are still investigating the possibility that others may be involved in the sign thefts. After the two suspects were questioned and released last week, 12 additional Frank signs were reported missing, Hiller said.

Frank's challenger, attorney

John J. Simon, told the Grosse Pointe News that he had no knowledge of the disappearance of Frank's signs and that he, too, has been the victim of sign thieves. He said about 60 of his signs were stolen in past weeks and that police said it was the work of pranksters.

Hiller said Park police have not received any reports or phone calls from any other candidate concerning stolen signs.

Frank said not only were her signs stolen, but they were destroyed so that even if recovered they could not be reused.

"They rip off the top and leave the stake in the ground," she said. "It's not only a theft, it's destructive. I have never been confronted with this before and I am just appalled. This is a judicial race and it should have a higher level of integrity."

Frank is scheduled to arraign the two suspects today and then dismiss herself from the case because of a conflict of interest.

The case will then be referred to the state court administrator, who will appoint a replacement for Frank to preside over the pre-trial hearing.

Pointer of Interest Ruth Coughlin

By Margie Reins Smith
Feature Editor

"Grieving: A Love Story" is a beautiful, tough little book about love and death.

Ruth Coughlin of Grosse Pointe Woods, book editor for The Detroit News, wrote "Grieving" after her husband, Bill Coughlin, a judge and novelist, lost his courageous, 10-month battle against liver cancer.

"When the love of your life dies," Ruth Coughlin said, "you're never the same again. You lose not only the one you loved, but pieces of yourself. You don't lose yourself — but you do lose pieces that you'll never get back."

Coughlin doesn't tippy-toe around the word "death." Euphemisms are not her style. Many of her readers have written to thank her for being brutally honest.

She cuddles Charlie, a new black poodle puppy, and leans forward to speak earnestly and frankly about the pain of losing her best friend and husband, the self-centeredness of despair and grief, the shame of being the surviving spouse and a nagging worry: Did she love him enough?

She's surrounded by books. They march across shelves that flank the entrance to her living room. They're stacked in graduated piles on her coffee table. Her family room is lined with more shelves, all full of books.

Art is everywhere — wall-to-wall — nearly floor to ceiling. A pleasant, eclectic mix of original art, posters, drawings, family photographs and signed prints vie for attention with framed photos of her family, of her friends, and of Bill Coughlin.

Bill Coughlin was a senior U.S. administrative law judge in Detroit. He also wrote 15 successful novels.

In 1978, when Ruth Coughlin was a senior editor at HarperCollins in New York City, she was assigned the task of editing his fifth book, "The Stalking Man."

Their first meeting was as editor and author, at a business luncheon. She was in her mid-30s, never married, a New Yorker. He was older, a widower, the father of six grown children. They liked each other right away. They corresponded. Became good friends. Fell in love. Five years later, they married.

Ruth Coughlin moved to Detroit and they eventually settled in Grosse Pointe Woods. By the time Bill died in April 1992, they had been married nearly nine years, and, according to their friend Michael Dorris (who wrote the introduction to "Grieving") they were not only deeply in love, but were still "absolutely delighted at the good luck of being together."

"They married in midlife and never got over their astonished gratitude in having found each other," Dorris said. "They played off each other's strengths, forgave each other's failings. They could be a wisecracking pair, unsentimental in the Tracy-Hepburn mode ... and they could also be, individually and as a team, heroes."

Ruth Coughlin began writing her book six months after Bill's death.

"Bill always said he was the wrong one writing the books," she said. "I always said I didn't have a story to tell."

Ironically, his death provided her story. "I wrote it for two reasons," she said.

"Bill was such a remarkable, courageous man. I wanted to show people that this (dying) can be done with dignity."

"I also wanted to connect with widows. There are 11 million widows out there. There is a universal language of loss. Nobody knows the language until he or she goes through it. Sometimes you feel like you're losing your mind. I wanted to tell people that no matter how crazy you feel, it's part of the grieving process."

Also, she said, once she began writing, she was able to begin focusing and organizing her life.

"I don't like being in an advice-giving mode," she said. "I'm not a professional. The only thing I know is I've gone through it. I know it's possible to survive and go on. In the beginning, you're on autopilot. But eventually, you can survive, even prevail."

The book zigs and zags forward and back in time. It tells the story of their meeting, courtship and marriage. It tells of the diagnosis of Bill's cancer and the denouement that followed. And it describes the powerful grief that Ruth Coughlin felt as well as how she coped. One story is light, tender; one ponderous and fatalistic because we know that Bill Coughlin died; the other is comforting, companionable, forthright. All three are laced with humor and common sense.

She is occasionally harsh: "What no one ever really tells you about is the one thing that should be the most obvious," she said. "That you will never see him again. He was alive one dismal, rainy Saturday afternoon in April, and then he was dead. Never to be seen again."

She describes the outward signs of her deep depression: once a voracious reader, she lost interest in books and newspapers; she wore Bill's clothes and his wedding ring; she used his toothbrush; adopted his favorite phrases; she slept on his side of their bed; she lost weight; she took out her anger on innocent people and inanimate objects; she bought a dog; she missed menopause.

She got a job in publishing at Harper & Row (now HarperCollins) as an editorial assistant.

When she was asked to edit Bill Coughlin's book, she said, "I knew nothing about him. I had lived in Manhattan for nearly 20 years. He lived in Detroit. We corresponded for a while. We saw each other about two times a year. We became friends. We were married in 1978, when I was 38."

Their nine-years as man and wife were not without snags, she said, but overall, they were the lead characters in a real-life love story.

After moving to Detroit, Ruth Coughlin worked for Metropolitan Detroit Magazine, then for The Detroit News. As The News' book editor, before Bill got sick, she read about four books a week, easily.

With experience as editor and as writer, she appreciates the role an editor assumes in fine-tuning and polishing a manuscript.

"Every writer needs an editor. It's the writer's job to create. The editor is an observant eye, a person who isn't in the writer's head. The editor can say, 'This is a rotten sentence. Change it.'"

Ruth Coughlin's editor changed the pivotal point of "Grieving," suggesting that she focus on how her life changed after the diagnosis of Bill's liver cancer — instead of after his death.

She has received about 100 letters so far. From those letters and from talking to people around the country, she has concluded that the people who buy her book fall into several categories:

"Much of my mail is from widows. They thank me for being brutally honest," she said.

"Many buyers seem to be, interestingly, children who are buying it for their widowed mothers."

"The rest are perfectly healthy people of all ages who have read Bill's books or who knew Bill and were his fans. I thought that might happen, but I was really pleased when it did."

Ruth Coughlin's publisher is eager for another book idea. "I'd like to write another," she said. "Maybe some short stories. Bill always said that writers are wise to keep their day jobs."

"I'm aware now that you should appreciate what you have while you have it. I'm acutely aware of how important that is."

She will keep her day job.

Future

"We want to wait until we have as much information as possible."

Shine has laid out a plan of action that includes inviting PTO presidents and school principals to a Nov. 8 reception on the night of the school board meeting. The district will make a presentation on the planning process, including as much information on legislative impact as is available.

On Nov. 15 or 18, school program advisory committees — expanded to include residents without children in the district — will meet to hear a presentation on budgeting and educational plans for the next school year.

In late November and continuing through January, the district will study issues related to staff reductions and privatization of some services.

By mid-January, the district should have budget projections based upon information available. Budget hearings are scheduled to begin in March, after the state referendum.

As to whether local taxpayers will support a 7.2 mill tax, Shine said he didn't know. Taxpayers, he said, will be faced with a number of things: the municipalities will have an opportunity to increase their local taxes to recoup losses under the Engler plan; the increased gasoline tax; increasing health care costs; a proposed increase in the sales tax; a small business tax; and a real estate transfer tax.

"Whether all of that is going to be so overwhelming that people worry about their future and say no to a school tax, I don't know," he said.

Of the overall plan, Shine said he recognizes that the state has not done anything for 20 years to improve education and that there are a lot of low-spending districts in Michigan that need help. He also said he appreciates that the plan doesn't wreak havoc on districts spending more than $4,500 per pupil.

adding that he did not know the details of the Halloween party because he does not micro-manage city departments.

He said the whole implication that the city changed the procedure for Halloween in the Park is wrong.

"It's quite natural that the parks department would throw a party like this. It is not a change in city policy, which only the city council can do," Heenan said.

Tom Solomon, who planned the party for the parks department, said that she was not contacted by any reporters about the reason for the party.

Super Senior Days at State Fairgrounds

Super Senior Days, at the State Fairgrounds Community Arts Building Oct. 14 and 15, will feature a "super sale" of quality, handcrafted items created by Detroit area seniors, as well as a "humdinger" of a Dance Fiesta.

Presented by the Detroit Recreation Department in cooperation with the Michigan State Exposition and Fairgrounds, with support from the MichCon Foundation, Super Senior Days is open to the public from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 14 and 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Friday, Oct. 15. Admission and parking are free.

The two-day sale offers area seniors a rare opportunity to sell their modestly priced, often unique, always well-crafted arts and crafts. Meanwhile, holiday shoppers get a chance to buy one-of-a-kind gifts for their loved ones.

Dancers and would-be dancers will enjoy two full days of dance entertainment, demonstrations, and workshops. Learn the new western line dances; enjoy square dancing and round dancing; try clogging, the Texas two-step, the hustle, the cha cha cha; or glide across the floor to the big band sounds of ballroom dancing.

"Make and Take" craft workshops and senior services information booths are "must visits" for the two-day event.

Denler program debuts

Grosse Pointe War Memorial program director Barbara Denler debuts her new cable show, appropriately titled, "Things to Do, Places to Go, People to See," on Channel 32 daily at 3 p.m. and on Mondays, Wednesdays, Fridays and Sundays at 8 p.m.

The program will feature timely interviews with instructors, speakers and groups meeting at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. Call 881-7511 for more information.

How to recognize attention problem

As parents know, children can have problems with school work and following directions for a number of reasons.

Learn to recognize the signs and symptoms at an early stage of attention deficit disorder and related problems, such as obsessive compulsive disorders, depression and learning disabilities, on Wednesday, Oct. 20, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

Recommendations about assessment and treatment for these problems will be provided in "Does My Child have an Attention Problem?" Speaker, Terry Rudolph is a pediatric psychologist specializing in attention problems and practices at the Bon Secours Grosse Pointe Center and the Bon Secours Adolescent Mental Health Unit.

The fee is $3 per person. Call 881-7511 for more information.

5th annual Park Fall Harvest

Grosse Pointe Park's fifth annual Fall Harvest is scheduled for Sunday, Oct. 17, at Windmill Pointe Park beginning at 2 p.m.

The event features games for kids and there will be demonstrations of country and Western line dancing for those interested. Booths laden with arts and crafts will be at the harvest as well.

There will also be a raffle, face painting and balloons for children. In case of rain, the harvest will be held on Oct. 24. For more information, call 822-2812.

Local business owner finds key to unlocking profits in Farms

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

For Mike Petkowitz, success in Grosse Pointe means being able to do a lot of things well and avoid overspecialization.

Petkowitz owns and operates Village Lock and Home Repair on Mack in the Farms. The shop is best known for having a mannequin of a woman dressed in a manner appropriate to the season on display outside.

The store was originally a locksmith shop exclusively. It was founded in 1912 on Jefferson Avenue in Detroit and was moved to its present location about 12 years ago, said Petkowitz.

He became partners with Dave Markowitz, the son of the shop's original owner, 10 years ago. There was a third partner, Bob Mowbray, as well. About seven years ago, Markowitz moved to Birmingham, and Petkowitz bought out Mowbray last spring.

"I was not trained as a locksmith when I started working at the shop," said Petkowitz. "My training was in carpentry. Dave, who is handicapped, received a contract from Detroit to winterize low-income housing. That's why I was brought in."

When the Detroit work began to slow down, it was decided to concentrate on doing repairs in the Pointes.

"There is a big need in Grosse Pointe for general services like door repair or window replacing and window frame repair," said Petkowitz. "Grosse Pointe has a lot of old and valuable doors. These doors have old-model locks, and people would often come to the shop to get new locks for their old doors."

"Instead of putting a whole new lock system in an old and irreplaceable door, we are able to repair the lock and restore the door. It was a natural connection."

Repairing doors also led to brass finishing. Many of the old locks, after being repaired, were refinished. As a result, people started coming to the store with brass lamps and brass chandeliers, as well.

"We did this because you can't depend on just one thing in this kind of business," said Petkowitz. "Some days there is no demand for a locksmith, but there is a demand for someone who can hang a door, or fix a single pane of glass. Other days we get a lot of people who lock themselves out of their home or their car."

By concentrating on the Grosse Pointe area, and by offering a variety of services, the staff manages to keep busy. Petkowitz said that if the shop just did locks or just did home repairs they would spend too much time trying to get business.

"A lot of home repair businesses have four salesmen who subcontract the work out," said Petkowitz. "Sometimes the subcontractors have a lot to do, and sometimes they don't. When they don't have a lot of work, it doesn't pay to just do a few jobs, so there is a lot of turnover in the business. We do a lot of different things, so we are always busy."

Petkowitz notes that because Grosse Pointe has so many old homes, residents have different needs compared to other communities. For example, he said, many homes were built 40 or 50 years ago and old-style locks.

With old locks, he said, it's often cheaper to make a replacement part for $35, instead of replacing the whole lock and door handle mechanism for $400.

"It's part of the challenge of working here in Grosse Pointe," said Petkowitz. "Grosse Pointers like good service. In order to provide that, I work hard to keep the same people on staff. When someone needs an air-conditioner taken out of a window sill, it is good to know that it will be done by the same person who put it in six months ago."

Another frequent question is why did he start putting the mannequin up? The answer is simple, the Farms made him do it.

When the store first moved to Mack, a sandwich board was put up on the sidewalk. Farms officials said that the board could not stay on the city sidewalk. When the board was placed on shop property, it couldn't be seen from the street.

The solution was to put up a mannequin with balloons. It was just meant to last a couple of weeks, but the shop received so many compliments, it has become a permanent fixture. When the mannequin was stolen, people called up to ask why it was taken down, Petkowitz said. They were relieved to learn that it was stolen and another one would go up.

While Village Lock & Home Repair is best known as the shop with the mannequin in front, it also provides excellent locksmith and home repair services to Grosse Pointe.

Art firm formed

Grosse Pointe Park artist Arturo Sanchez has formed, along with Barry Harrison, a new firm, Art-Harrison. The company provides murals, paintings and design fabrication services to interior designers and architects. The "Brazil" mural at the Royal Oak Coffeehouse is an example of their work. Art-Harrison is located in Birmingham.

Be the master of your money

Michigan GOP chief optimistic

By Chlp Chapman
Staff Writer

"It's an exciting time to be a Republican in Lansing," said David Doyle, chairman of the Michigan Republican Party, as he addressed last Wednesday's meeting of the Eastside Republican Club. "We are actually getting something good done for a change."

Doyle highlighted the Legislature's accomplishments during Gov. Engler's first 2 1/2 years, noting that Michigan's unemployment rate is less than the national average for the first time since 1978.

"Michigan is leading the economic recovery," he said. "We are at an all-time high in employment (in terms of number of people working)."

Doyle discussed Engler's address to the Legislature last week about education funding.

"He (Gov. Engler) is pushing for this — not because it is popular politically," Doyle said, "but because it's an issue so important it transcends politics."

"You may not agree with every part of this plan — and it will change, but you must agree something has to be done."

Doyle also talked about Sen. Donald Riegler's decision not to seek a fourth term.

"It's a good news-bad news situation," Doyle said. "The bad news is we are stuck with about 5,000 'Dump Riegler' bumper stickers. The good news is that the AFL-CIO, MEA (Michigan Education Association) and the Michigan Trial Lawyers will now have to go out and raise money."

Doyle said he is excited about the 1994 elections and is "convinced Michigan will elect a Republican senator next year."

Doyle urged the Eastside Republican Club to support Republican candidates in all coming elections.

Spencer Abraham, the Republican hopeful for the U.S. Senate in 1994, will speak to the Eastside Republican Club at its next meeting on Nov. 3. Call Andrew Richner at 822-5577 for more information.

The playscape built this summer at the Grosse Pointe Farms Pier Park was officially dedicated on Wednesday, Oct. 6. Students from Richard and Kerby elementary schools were invited for apple cider and doughnuts.

The playscape was built by Engan-Tooley & Co. Inc. and the tables and brickwork were done by the Farms department of public works.

Kennedy seeks council seat in Park

Shirley J. Kennedy has announced her candidacy for a position on the Grosse Pointe Park City Council.

Kennedy has a background of experience in community involvement. She has been a member of the Grosse Pointe Park Planning Commission since 1981 and has been a trustee of the Park Foundation since 1985. She was instrumental in the development of the Tompkins Community Center, the new gatehouse at the Windmill Pointe Park and the Paterson Park boardwalk. In 1991, she was elected president of the Park Foundation.

A resident of Grosse Pointe Park for close to 40 years, Kennedy has been an active volunteer in the community while raising her five children. She is a past president of the Jr. Group of Goodwill Industries and has served as chairman of the annual Antiques Market. Kennedy has seven grandchildren.

As a Grosse Pointe Realtor since 1972, she has been an active supporter of the Park. In 1992, she was named Grosse Pointe Realtor of the Year and in the same year she was selected as a Megabroker of the Midwest by Unique Homes Magazine. She has also served as president of the Grosse Pointe Board of Realtors.

Kennedy's motivation in seeking a position on the council is to maintain and improve the value and character of the community, also to ensure the careful monitoring of the tax dollars. Property values and the continuation of local control of our school system are concerns.

Grosse Pointe cable cuts deal to keep network affiliates

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

Grosse Pointe Cable will continue broadcasting channels 2, 4, 7 and 50, said Comcast senior vice president Gary Mizga.

The cable firm sent out a notice to its customers with their September bills informing cable viewers in Grosse Pointe that there was a chance that come Oct. 6, channels 2, 4, 7 and 50 would be dropped from the company's cable package, said Mary Schultz, Grosse Pointe Cable manager.

"We did that to conform with new federal regulations, which require cable systems to inform customers if there is any chance that stations might be dropped from the schedule," Schultz said.

Thanks to new federal regulations, stations that broadcast over the airways had the choice of whether a local cable system could carry its signal for free, said Mizga. That's why Grosse Pointe Cable began broadcasting Channel 38 out of Mount Clemens.

Channel 38 station officials wanted their signal to be carried by Grosse Pointe Cable. Grosse Pointe Cable did not have the right to refuse the request.

Cable stations have the right to refuse paying for the signal however. So if Channel 38 had wanted to charge for its signal, Grosse Pointe Cable could have refused.

For the past several months, Comcast Cable, a part-owner of Grosse Pointe Cable, had been in negotiations with the local four network affiliates on whether or not Comcast cable systems would pay for the affiliates' signals, Mizga said.

"I'm pleased to say that we have reached agreements with the local network affiliates," said Mizga. "We reached a non-cash deal that will, in the future, allow us to offer a more diversified menu to our customers. I am glad it's over."

Mizga declined to comment on the particulars of the agreements, but said they involved access for channels that may be launched in the future.

No permanent agreement was reached with Channel 50, the Fox affiliate, Mizga said. But not to worry — an agreement was reached that allows Grosse Pointe Cable to carry the channel for six months while a permanent agreement is hammered out.

Grosse Pointe's cable customers will benefit from the deals because there won't be the pressure to pass on costs to the customer Mizga said. If Grosse Pointe Cable had to pay for the signals, federal rules would have prevented the company from passing on the cost to its customers for a year.

Park council puts off a vote on stricter RV-boat storage ordinance

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

After learning that the Grosse Pointe Park planning commission has recommended the city council enact stricter parking regulations for recreational vehicles (RVs) and boats, RV and boat owners protested the proposal at Monday night's council meeting.

"The city has received a number of complaints from the neighbors of people who park RVs and boats in the side yard portion of the driveway and in the back portion of the driveway," said city manager Dale Krajniak.

"The planning commission has been looking at whether a new ordinance is needed to halt that practice. Hearings were held on Sept. 21, and the commission's recommendation was sent to the council for review at the Oct. 11 meeting."

The commission recommended an ordinance similar to the Farms ordinance, which is designed to allow storage of boats and RVs in garages only.

Longtime RV owner Joe Solomon said a change in current city ordinances would be unfair to people like himself who have lived in the Park and made purchases based on the current ordinance.

"The main objection I have is if they disallow parking at homes, a lot of people will be hurt," said Solomon. "They are changing the rules because of complaints. Well no neighbor has come to me to complain; instead, they have gone to the police."

"I'm reasonable, I want to get along with my neighbors, and if they had a problem they should have come to me. The proposed ordinance will only allow vehicles to be parked in the side portion of the driveway for 72 hours in a month to allow for the loading and unloading of the vehicles. That's not enough time."

Councilmember James Robson, who serves on the planning commission as an ex-officio member, said that most of the people who attended the planning commission hearing were for a stricter parking ordinance.

"I believe it was the intent of the commission to focus on those insensitive people who have huge RVs parked on their property 50 weeks out of the year," Robson said.

"The Park is a residential community, not an RV park. I don't think the city should be in the business of beating up on citizens who have much smaller RVs, absent any complaints by immediate neighbors. But there are a number of these things in the Park and they are eyesores, disturbing the community."

But most attending Monday's meeting spoke in favor of liberal RV and boat storage, saying that the Park is a community of active people who enjoy camping, traveling and boating.

"The Park is becoming a city of houses, not homes," Solomon said Monday. "It's becoming a city of fences, not people. It's wrong for people to tell me where I can or can't park my RV on my own property."

Councilmember Vernon Ausherman of the city's ordinance review committee said the committee had come up with a proposed ordinance that would allow the parking of one boat or RV 32 feet or shorter in the back yard of the vehicle owner. Ausherman told the audience that this proposal meant to address the needs of everyone. It is stricter than current rules, which allow vehicles of any size to be parked on private property, but it is not as strict as the planning commission's proposal, which would ban parking except in a garage, Ausherman said.

After almost two hours of sometimes tense public discussion, the council was prepared to decide which, if any, of the proposals to adopt. Councilmember Dan Clark, who supports the ordinance review proposal, asked that the vote be delayed until a couple of his suggestions could be reviewed by the city attorney.

Clark wanted provisions banning parking of commercial vehicles and large truck cabs on private property. He said that he has received complaints from Park residents about these kinds of vehicles.

In a 4-3 vote, the council agreed to table voting on any proposals until Clark's amendments receive comment. Ausherman said that with council elections coming, it would perhaps be better if the new council took up the issue.

No date was set for reconsideration of the proposals, but the mayor said that it would take about three or four weeks for the city attorney to thoroughly review Clark's amendments and present his findings to the council.

Woods seeks to control day care zoning

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

The Grosse Pointe Woods Council, in the name of home rule, passed a resolution last week calling for Grosse Pointe's Lansing lawmakers to oppose legislation that would allow home daycare facilities contrary to local ordinances.

State Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills, sponsored SB 162, a bill that prevents cities and villages from having ordinances forbidding daycare provided out of people's homes.

"There is a great need for daycare," said Faxon aide Benton Billings. "A few years ago, the Legislature passed a similar bill, but there was a loophole that excluded cities and villages. Counties and townships were not allowed to ban home daycare, but villages and cities could. This is an attempt to close that loophole."

It is hoped that with the passing of the bill, home daycare businesses that are operating illegally will now seek proper state licenses, as required by law.

"Just because it is illegal in many cities to operate a home daycare center, doesn't mean people won't do it," Billings said. "This way, parents will have a much better chance of getting quality care for their children."

The bill has passed the state Senate and is currently before the state House, Billings said. Support for it hasn't been as strong as expected. The trouble has been with the Detroit delegation. The city opposes the bill, and Detroit representatives have been asked not to support it.

Billings does not know if there is enough support to get it through the House.

For Woods Mayor Robert Novitke the issue is not a need for daycare, but rather the right of local communities to decide what is best for themselves.

"This is another example of state government circumventing local control," said Novitke. "This is further erosion of the principle of home rule. The state sets the rules, and then asks us to enforce them. That's not right and it's certainly not fair."

Novitke recognizes the need for daycare, but feels that residentially-zoned neighborhoods are not the place for it. In the past, according to Novitke, the city has received complaints from citizens about traffic problems resulting from daycare at home.

"The concern for children has always been there," said Novitke. "It became a problem when it became invasive. But the city feels the solution is daycare centers in business-zoned areas. For example, the Rainbow Rascals center that recently opened up. It provides the appropriate service in the appropriate place in the appropriate manner."

According to Carole Quarterman, of the Wayne County Child Care Coordinating Council, statistics show that about half of Michigan's children in daycare are in home daycare.

"There are two types of home daycare," Quarterman said. "There is what we call family daycare and there is group childcare. Family care allows up to six children, including the children of the operator, to be cared for."

"Group care permits up to 12 children to be cared for, but there must be at least two adults there, and there must be the space for 12 kids. We are talking about licensed daycare. Rules and regulations are a part of licensed daycare. Anything that encourages people to seek a license is a good thing. It's good for the kids, and it's good for the parents."

Family daycare is very attractive to many people because it is more flexible, and it allows children to stay in their neighborhood. If a parent is going to be late picking up a child it is not as big a deal as it is with for-profit childcare.

In case you forgot, work those memory muscles

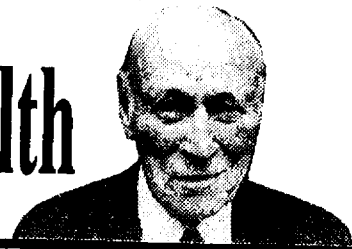

About four years ago, I wrote a column about memory. I think George Brand thought up the title: "Work Those Memory Muscles." I like that title, for it brings into the realm of health self-improvement a new subject which belongs right with the others.

Memory can create the base from which you think and relate. It can fill in so many mental images, make them richer. Some grandparents used to tell stories to their grandchildren, and they filled them in with gleanings from their memories as they went along. Pictures came alive to the children because of the remembered details. In the same way, details remembered enriched the teller's memory.

As you let your memory range over past years, pick up a pencil and start writing — about episodes, people, or places. You will find that the very writing of an episode extends your memory of it. In other words, one remembered glimpse of a person or place or an experience can bring to mind other people, places, and experiences. This not only enriches your life but can do so for the lives of your children and your grandchildren. It may not be until you've died that they will regret not having pushed you further into the memory banks on which you had drawn.

Senior Health

By Dr. Roger O. Egeberg

A few weeks ago, I forgot four names that I should have remembered, people I have known fairly well. It was beginning to worry me just a bit, and then I happened to read an article in a medical journal about the discovery of an organism that was the cause of peptic ulcer.

In one paragraph, there were four words I had never heard before. Why not see how much effort it would take me to remember them? They were: helicobacter pylori, the bacteria causing the ulcer; metronidazole, an antibiotic; cimetidine and ranitidine, medicines that would continue to decrease the formation of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. Those words were new to me; I had never seen them before, and I have written them now from memory.

I admit that it took me five minutes, repeating the words and looking for possible associations, a minute or so to bring those words back again later that same day, and perhaps half a minute in bringing them back once more a week later.

Memory continues to be important to us, but it has to be used and shouldn't be cluttered. Don't waste it. I'm not sure that I would want to spend it on telephone numbers or street addresses, but it is reassuring to remember people's names (at least some of them) or what I did yesterday.

Some of your remembrances should be automatic — such as sliding the deadbolt lock on the kitchen door — and if they aren't, you'd better start practicing.

You meet somebody whom you like on contact. Repeat the name. If it isn't Smith or Jones, you might ask him to spell it for you, and when you have a chance, write it down — for practice, not for reference. It is also useful to recall events of yesterday or of a week ago, and, for instance, to picture in your mind how people were seated around a table at a recent dinner party.

Retirement is for many a time when memory may start tapering off. The absence of stimulation by your daytime associates can be a crucial loss. The absence of a need to remember changed rules, and the sudden disappearance of the office social news and gossip, all without replacement, will surely contribute to a diminishing bank of memories.

So, work those memory muscles!

John Pershing Cushman

John Pershing Cushman, an authority on road and airport law, died on Sunday, Oct. 10, 1993, in his Grosse Pointe Farms home. He was 74.

Mr. Cushman's legal advice was sought on virtually every state and county road, freeway and airport bill by legislators and road commissions for more than three decades. Lawmakers began seeking his counsel in the early 1960s while he was general counsel to the Wayne County board of county road commissioners and, following his retirement in 1979, while he was general counsel to the County Road Association of Michigan.

His contributions to the development of Michigan's state and county road system were honored in resolutions by the Michigan House and Senate, the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, the County Road Commission of Michigan and the Association of Southern Michigan Road Commissioners.

"John was the most trusted dean of county road law," said James Little, director of the County Road Association of Michigan. "His devotion to his profession and the county road industry and his love for its people have secured a lasting place in our hearts."

Mr. Cushman was born on New Year's Day 1919 in Sullivan County, Ind. After graduating from Central Business College in Indianapolis, he served four years in the U.S. Navy during World War II. He moved to Detroit the following year after marrying the former Patricia Carpenter and began his career as a legal assistant with the Wayne County Road Commission while attending the University of Detroit Law School. He was promoted to the legal staff in 1953 and was named general counsel to the road commission in 1961.

During his career, Mr. Cushman served as chairman of the board of trustees of the Wayne County Employees' Retirement System, as well as chairman of the Joint Willow Run Airport Zoning Board. He also acted as the legislative representative to the Michigan Legislature for the road commission.

He was a member of the National Institute of Municipal Law Officers, the Michigan Good Roads Federation, the State Bar of Michigan, Delta Theta Phi law fraternity, the United States Power Squadrons, the Grosse Pointe Power Squadron and St. Paul's Athletic Board.

He is survived by three daughters, Anne VanDervele, Suzanne Fair and Linda Koenig; six grandchildren; a sister, Maxine Gwinn; and a brother, Edward Cushman. He was predeceased by his wife, Patricia.

A funeral Mass was celebrated Tuesday, Oct. 12, at St. Paul Catholic Church in Grosse Pointe Farms.

Arrangements were made by the Chas. Verheyden Inc. Funeral Home in Grosse Pointe Park.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Michigan Cancer Foundation or to the American Heart Association.

Mohammed Bazzi, M.D.

Services were held Friday, Oct. 8, at the Islamic Center of America in Dearborn for Dr. Mohammed Bazzi of Grosse Pointe Woods, who died Wednesday, Oct. 6, 1993.

Dr. Bazzi was an assistant professor of medicine at Detroit Receiving Hospital and at the Wayne State University School of Medicine.

He is survived by his wife, Haifa; four sisters; and two brothers. He was predeceased by a brother.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Islamic Center of America or to the National Kidney Foundation.

Dr. Ferdinand R. (Ferd) Boos

Dr. Ferdinand R. Boos, longtime professor, dean and president of the Detroit Institute of Technology, died Saturday, Oct. 9, 1993, in Detroit of heart failure. He was 83.

Born in Detroit, Dr. Boos was a resident of Grosse Pointe Woods.

He was a fixture in DIT's college of arts and sciences for 30 years and was widely recognized and admired as a beloved teacher and mentor to generations of aspiring doctors, pharmacists and chemists.

Scores of medical professionals in the Detroit area and around the world credited him with making their careers possible.

Dr. Archie Bedell, an east-side practitioner, praised Dr. Boos as "a true champion and my greatest mentor, a caring and loving person who stood head and shoulders above his peers. He touched the lives of many people and will be missed greatly."

Dr. Boos was educated by the Christian Brothers and was a graduate of St. Joseph's High School. He was awarded a doctorate by the Catholic University of America. He was a member of the American Chemical Society, the Association of Clinical Scientists and American Medical Technologists.

He is survived by his wife, Aline; a daughter, Linda Brune; two sons, Thomas and Jack; and eight grandchildren.

A funeral Mass was celebrated Tuesday, Oct. 12, at Old St. Mary's Church in Detroit. Interment is at Mount Olivet Cemetery in Detroit.

Arrangements were made by the A.H. Peters Funeral Home in Grosse Pointe Woods.

It's one hard working dollar, anyway you slice it.

The money you give to the United Way helps fund almost 140 charitable agencies. So every dollar works hard helping to house the homeless, feed the hungry and shelter the abused here in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties. And that's just for starters. Your dollar also helps fund medical care and research, provides family counseling, job training and much, much more. More people than ever before are counting on your dollars. So won't you please give more of them to the United Way? Because, of all the needs we face in the tri-county area this year, the biggest one of all is your support.

Still the best way to show you care.

Judge, cop co-author pamphlet for parents on their kids and the law

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

Let's say two high school buddies decide to have a little fun on a Friday night. One thing leads to another and the next thing you know, they're running out of a 24-hour convenience store with two cases of imported beer.

Before they can crack open the first bottle, they're caught by the police.

One of the teenagers will be detained at the police station until his parents come to take him home. The other will be fingerprinted, photographed and placed in a jail cell for the night. It is possible his parents may never learn of the incident unless he calls them for bail money.

Why should one be allowed to go home while the other is jailed overnight? Is the one behind bars the worst of the two offenders?

No. He's an adult.

"A 17-year-old is an adult in the eyes of the law, and adult actions face adult consequences," said Grosse Pointe Park public safety Lt. David Hiller.

"A lot of parents have a difficult time looking at their children as being involved in criminal behavior," said Grosse Pointe Park municipal judge Kirsten Frank. "Parents will say 'He's an honor student; he's a good kid.' But the court doesn't look at that."

Frank's six years on the bench and Hiller's 21 years on the police force have brought both together on many occasions uttering the same refrain: If only we could have gotten to these children and their parents before they got to us. There must be a way to reach them.

"Around the first of the year we attended a meeting at Grosse Pointe South High School," Hiller explained. "The meeting stemmed from an incident in the Farms where there was an assault on a student. Parents and administrators wanted information as to what was being done about the situation. It became evident to us that the parents didn't understand the legal system."

The questions and concerns of the parents prompted Hiller and Frank to draft a pamphlet for parents of high school-age students called, "As Parents You Should Know..."

The fold-out booklet begins by explaining how a child is handled in the legal system.

Anyone under 17 is under the jurisdiction of the Wayne County juvenile court system. Once a student turns 17, he or she is an adult and is handled by the local and county criminal court system.

That means parents are not notified by police, parents may not know their child was arrested and parents will not be allowed to accompany their children when they are questioned by law enforcement officers.

The pamphlet cautions that defenses like "Kids will be kids," "This is the first time it ever happened" or "I didn't know it was against the law" will not be considered as valid defenses in court.

Frank emphasized that parents need to know that once a case enters the legal system it cannot be interrupted.

"If it is a first offense, after the defendant is adjudicated, the judge can choose to defer the sentence through community service or fines and if the child stays clear of the law for a year, his or her record can be expunged," she said. "Parents are protective and often want to deal with the problem at home. But once it's in the system it has to go through."

Other issues explained in the brochure are curfews, automobiles, mopeds, trespassing, false identification, tobacco, alcohol, controlled substances, fighting, shoplifting, open house parties and renting motel/hotel rooms.

The booklet is currently being printed and will be distributed by the end of October to both Grosse Pointe South and North high schools, all Grosse Pointe, and Harper Woods, police departments and courts.

The pamphlet is endorsed by police chiefs and judges in all five Pointes and Harper Woods. Printing costs were paid by the Fraternal Order of Police Lodge 102.

The text of the brochure was reviewed for clarity by teachers and counselors in the Grosse Pointe schools and by the Substance Abuse Community Council in Grosse Pointe.

Both Hiller and Frank urge all parents to pick up a copy of the brochure, even if their children aren't in high school.

"Well-informed parents can help us," Hiller said.

Parents of North students will receive a copy of the brochure along with the November mailing of the Northern Lights newsletter.

South parents will receive a copy in the October mailing of High Pointes parent newsletter.

Did you know . . .

• Michigan law requires that no one under the age of 12 shall loiter, idle or congregate on any public street, alley or park between 10 p.m. and 6 a.m.

• Any ticket issued against your child while on a moped will be recorded on his or her permanent record with the Michigan secretary of state. This could result in difficulty obtaining a driver's license and affect your insurance rates.

• Shoplifting is a felony under Michigan law. The value of the item does not matter and a child can be charged with retail fraud even if he or she merely assists someone else. Store owners can seek legal action against parents to recover the cost of items taken.

• Parents could be prosecuted if their child has an open house party where alcohol and controlled substances are used, whether or not parents have knowledge of the party. A teenager who hosts such a party can also be charged with a crime. Parents are also open to civil suits for damages and injuries.

Park residents head off crime

Alert residents living in the 1300 block of Bishop called Grosse Pointe Park police on Oct. 6 when they saw two men get out of a car and begin prowling around their neighborhood at 3 a.m.

When police responded, they found that the suspects' car had been reported stolen in Detroit. Officers found one of the men hiding in bushes and, with the help of City of Grosse Pointe public safety officers, tracked and captured the second man. Police later learned the car had been reported stolen, but had been recovered and never cleared from police files.

The two apparently were scouring the Bishop neighborhood for auto tires to steal. Park police released the men while the Park city attorney reviews the case for possible charges of trespassing against the pair.

Halloween party slam a sham

Grosse Pointe Park — and the Pointes in general — can't win, at least as far as the deliberately slanted and sensational Detroit media are concerned.

The Park was the victim of an unwarranted slam in last Sunday's Detroit News in a front-page story about the city's Halloween party, which labeled the event as racist.

As in the past, I've been critical of the Detroit media as being biased, looking for any reason to slam the Pointes, and last weekend's article was just more of the same.

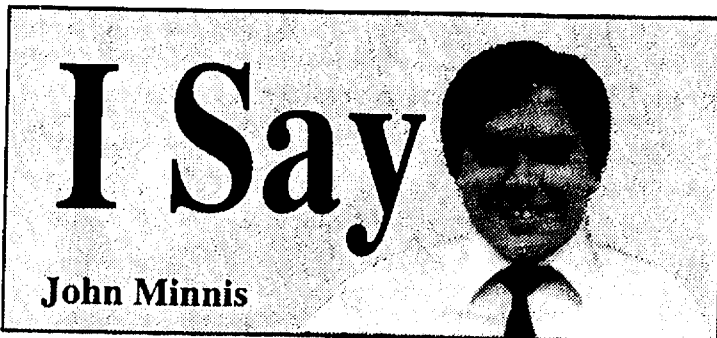

Had any other community hosted a Halloween party, it would not have been subject to criticism. In fact, it would have been lauded. For years, communities have been encouraged to sponsor such parties in an effort to guard against candy tampering.

Also, as Park Mayor Palmer Heenan points out, trick-or-treating is dangerous for children with masks and limited visibility.

But The Detroit News and William Weld-Wallis, director of the Racial Justice Center of Grosse Pointe, took the opportunity to "politicize" Halloween rather than see the benefits of a supervised gathering for kids and parents.

Weld-Wallis' motives are obvious: He's the paid fighter of racism and discrimination. He's just doing his job, one might argue, albeit naively and over-zealously. He had to stretch the facts considerably to construe a Halloween party, no different than those thrown by many communities, as racist. But who knows? Maybe things at the Racial Justice Center were slow.

I Say

The Detroit News, on the other hand, must have definitely had a slow news week. To fabricate a story out of nothing fails to meet the standards of good journalism. Perhaps that's why The Detroit News' circulation figures have hit the cellar and why the paper may no longer exist in the not-toodistant future. According to Heenan, the paper not only misquoted him, but it put words in his mouth.

I'm not surprised. The paper probably had the story written and then decided to selectively seek quotes and facts to support it. And if the facts and quotes weren't forthcoming, make them up.

Even Channel 50 — of the low-brow, sensationalizing Fox Network — got into the act, reporting that Mayor Heenan had banned trick or treating in the Park. Completely false. Begging will go on as usual. There will be no police officers arresting youngsters for engaging in the traditional activity. There will be no barricades on the streets turning kids away.

The only police presence will be the full complement of regular and auxiliary officers who always turn out to help kids across the street and make sure that the Park's excellent record of safe Hallweens continues unbroken.

The Park, to my knowledge, has never excluded outsiders from trick or treating. One wonders if the same can be said for other communities, particularly Detroit.

Take Victoria Park for example, the exclusive compound of $250,000 homes surrounded by wrought-iron fences on Detroit's east side. Will kids from outside the affluent subdivision be allowed to freely march pass the guardhouse there and trick or treat at will? I doubt it.

Yes, there are race problems that Weld-Wallis and The Detroit News can address, but choosing a typical Halloween party that's no different than those sponsored by hundreds of other communities is stretching reality, and as far as The Detroit News is concerned, irresponsible.

But, as any Pointer knows, the Pointes are stereotypically known as the haves — vs. the have-nots — and have always been fair game for the shallow-minded and uninformed. It's a shame the venerable Detroit News is among them.

But what can you expect from a paper that doesn't know the difference between Toni Morrison, a 62-year-old African-American Nobel Prize winner, and Madonna?

Great Lakes are international

The new chair of Lake Superior State University's board of regents is Leonard Jaques of Grosse Pointe Shores, and he's aiming to do something big with the job.

"After all, this state works in the world's international waterways and much of our boat traffic is foreign," he said.

Thus, the former merchant marine sailor and Korean War veteran would like to steer some of his efforts toward a new maritime curriculum in the university and perhaps work on a new merchant marine officer training school.

And this veteran maritime lawyer, with credentials in 22 U.S. and foreign jurisdictions, knows what he's talking about.

Hugh Munce

Friday, Oct. 22, at 8 a.m., when Grosse Pointe Shores residents Art and Mary Ann Van Elslander take top honors again.

It's the Ed McNamara 1,000-place-setting Old Newsboys' Goodfellow Fund Westin Hotel tribute breakfast.

Newsboys' president Chuck MacKinnon will rise early from his St. Clair Shores bed to head downtown. Keith Crain will do the same from the Farms and the UAW's Stephen Yokich, another chair for the event, comes downtown from St. Clair Shores to join television's Roger McCoy and Amyre Makupson for the "No Kids Without a Christmas" award session.

B'nai B'rith's Great American dinner Nov. 11 is a repeat of the Van Elslander honors ceremony. For the $125 breakfast, call 961-9030.

Trade boosters

The scramble for Michigan

industry's share of foreign trade is rampant. In the thick of it is commerce director Art Ellis.

Missions are working in Eastern Europe, Japan and Russia, but now heading to Malaysia and Indonesia (even Hanoi and Ho Chi Minh City) are some area businessmen. Warren's Eric Rehmann, a Washington trade consultant, and Joseph Dillon of Grosse Pointe Farms are heading across South Sea waters.

Dillon will push for business and oil industry exchanges, particularly joint-partner financing, etc.

Engler's plan wins wordy award

Last week Gov. Engler and I unveiled our proposals for school reform. Words aplenty have already been written about his ideas.

None about mine, darn it. The same wordiness phenomenon accompanies the Clinton health care plan. Pundits are not only analyzing it (which is good), but providing detailed explanations about how it will affect you — only it isn't a plan yet. In both cases, the lawmakers are still having their say.

Far be it from me to contribute to the verbal overkill. But I think it must be said that even from the perspective of one of the favored school districts that would be allowed to levy additional millages under the Engler proposal, that aspect of the plan looks grossly unfair.

What conceivable reason does the governor have to prevent other districts from raising additional money? As I wrote last week, I favor Rep. Bill Bryant's approach, which would allow any district to vote itself a tax.

I'm not nuts about losing the deductibility of my taxes, either.

But the governor did use "my" idea of the statewide millage for businesses and second homes and wants some constraints on teachers' unions. His demand for an end to the closed shop is probably just a dramatic way to achieve the smaller goal of some work rule changes and reduction of union power.

That would be good, tough as it is for me to say. Many of my friends are teachers, I used to teach, and my husband is collecting a teacher's pension this very minute. It's certainly owing to the union that his pension is big enough to be worth collecting.

But the union has also protected a lot of marginal teachers. It and the state certification process have contributed to a professionalism that is sometimes more venerable than substance and has led to a lot of doctorates about nothing. I still know more about gerunds than my son's English teacher.

In the meantime, while attention is focused on what will happen next year, some of the state's poorest districts are in big trouble this year. Recent changes in the state's aid formula could easily put some districts in serious arrears as they start the first year under the new plan.

Up in Oscoda County, the Mio schools have found that cuts passed last month by the Legislature will result in an unexpected $350,000 shortfall — in a budget of only $3.6 million. When Mio was adopting its budget in June, state officials suggested that the state aid formula would remain the same, or even increase.

The Mio schools have tried to do things by the book. They've consulted with the state. They've complied with the order to improve curriculum for accreditation. They've kept a fund equity balance, rather than spending it down as some districts have in these economically tough times.

The last straw is that the state doesn't allow schools to schedule new millage elections after September, so the district is stuck.

Whatever problems pile up now for the state's poor districts could end up hurting all of us.

Just about everybody is drawn to miniatures. Ever since Bob built a dollhouse for Emily, I've been haunting toy stores, entranced by the tiny, accurate home furnishings.

Liz Lubera of the Shores has been making teeny, tiny things for some years. Now, she's chairing a miniatures show in Royal Oak, Oct. 22-23. She and Shirley Cavanaugh of the Woods will both have furnished houses on display — Victorian, of course, full of tiny frills and furbelows, topiaries and flower-boxes, gingerbread trim and even a gazebo set for afternoon tea.

The exhibit will be staged at the Miniature Makers Workshop, 4515 Woodward, on two weekday afternoons. For more details, call Liz at 886-6163.

Well, that survey in the Shores a couple of weeks ago just goes to show you that people are full of surprises. Shores residents who responded to the mailed survey said overwhelmingly that they don't care about the old Vernier School — and it's all right with them if it's torn down.

Just when I thought the only thing that really means something in Grosse Pointe is tradition.

All this time we've followed the official line that the old brick school was something special. But the people at Greenfield Village aren't interested either. Maybe nobody ever cared, but didn't want to be the only one to say so.

Hmmm, do you suppose that the schools could use it for an administration building?

total general fund revenues and 13th in general fund expenditures. (I refer to the Sept. 30 letter to the editor from Harvey Weaver, quoting the Michigan Department of Education Bulletin 1014.)

Mostly, the board needs your attendance and participation at its regular meetings. Your questions, opinions and requests for information are welcomed and appreciated. Your letters are read and receive consideration.

I now know one thing with certainty: The six senior board members whom I have observed this past year have demonstrated time and again their commitment to our community and its children, their support of its families and a disciplined management of our tax dollars.

We cannot afford to depend on the print media or letters to the editor as sole sources of information. The issues are too large and complex.

With funding sources shifting and local control threatened, the current board is confronted with issues that will affect all of us in profound ways. They deserve our thanks and deep respect. They want and need our presence.

G.P. schools aren't Meijer's

To the Editor:

I would like to clarify and put into perspective some facts regarding the custodial/engineer/maintenance staff employed by the Grosse Pointe schools. In 1986, the total staffing was 108.8 employees. In 1993, the total is 94.6, for a reduction of 14.2. During this time, enrollment has increased modestly, and our buildings are being used more by school groups and outside organizations.

During this time period, we have taken numerous cost-cutting measures. We have reduced our summer custodial help from 35 to approximately 24. We have kept our substitute custodian and summer custodian pay rate at the 1990-91 level. We have eliminated our weekend building checks, which resulted in a decrease in overtime, and reduced the number of delivery trucks from three to one.

With all due respect to those who have written to the Grosse Pointe News comparing the Meijer Thrifty Acres to one of our school buildings, I must point out some significant differences. First of all, most of the Meijer's buildings are fairly new while on the average, the Grosse Pointe schools are over 52 years old, with many in the 65-year-old range. The custodial staff at Meijer's does not have to maintain and clean swimming pools, playground equipment, gyms, auditoriums, science labs and art rooms, to name a few. They do not house community education groups, school dances, or other outside civic and educational groups. They are not concerned with asbestos removal, field maintenance and pesticide control.

As a parent, taxpayer and employee, I am keenly aware of the need to continually look at ways of reducing costs, including privatization, where appropriate and cost effective. But let's not ignore the facts to date of our efforts to reduce and control costs, while at the same time maintaining valuable assets to the community.

Elected officials, schools are failures

To the Editor:

I would like to congratulate J.P. Wright of Grosse Pointe Farms for being on target up to and including the fact that every time there is a financial issue to be determined, we are bombarded from teachers, superintendent and the school board with statements like, "Cut the kid's programs; we cannot do this without additional money."

The fact is that we have the most expensive educational system in the industrialized nations, and we have the worst educated children while the teachers have the world's largest pension plan at $125 billion, according to the Oct. 6 Wall Street Journal.

The fact is, our system's lack of educators is selling our future short, which means our kids. Throwing money at a system that is a failure is stupid and ridiculous.

To reporter Chip Chapman I would state, in response to his recent commentary, that we do ask these elected officials their opinions and where they stand; we do vote for them to represent us, this means our point of view also.

Anyone who is elected that arrogantly states that they were elected to represent their point of view is a fool. It is pure evidence of how our system of elected officials is a failure. It is your responsibility to print every single political view to educate your readers, the voters, whether or not an official lied in the election to seek their seat.

Our problem is residents are ridiculed for not participating and some of it is warranted, but the real problem is elected officials who do not deliver what they claim they will do. That is cheating their constituents. There is no other way to read it.

Where are the teacher supporters?

To the Editor:

I am a Grosse Pointe teacher. I came to this community some long time ago to teach, attracted by the good facilities, a reasonable salary and by the well educated and committed staff.

The most compelling reason for investing my professional life here was that I found the people of Grosse Pointe wanted to provide a strong education for their families. Evidence for this was easy to see in the kind of schooling they had provided for their children and that they continued to support.

Now I wonder, has the community changed? Have these goals been abandoned? Certainly as I read this newspaper it would be easy to think so. And if this is not so, then where are those who do still have the vision of a strong education system, and will say so, not with apology but with pride and conviction?

When the teacher bashers speak out — as they do every week in the Grosse Pointe News — where are the other voices?

Magnet program successful

To the Editor:

Contrary to what a small group of protesters would have citizens believe, the Grosse Pointe schools Magnet program for highly gifted students has been successful and widely supported since it was introduced in 1991 at Ferry and Defer schools.

Nobody makes a big deal of it. It costs no more to run than a regular program. Nobody's self-esteem lies crushed in the halls.

A spot in the Magnet program is not something to be coveted like a charge card at Nieman Marcus. It also is not something to be attacked and ridiculed. The Magnet should not be a scapegoat for other problems this tiny group of shrill parents have with their school.

For three years, Ferry school has made my daughters in the Magnet program feel welcome. If Richard cannot do the same for its Magnet students and parents, the program should be moved to another school where it can find refuge from all the hysterics.

Gallbladder surgery now comes in two sizes.

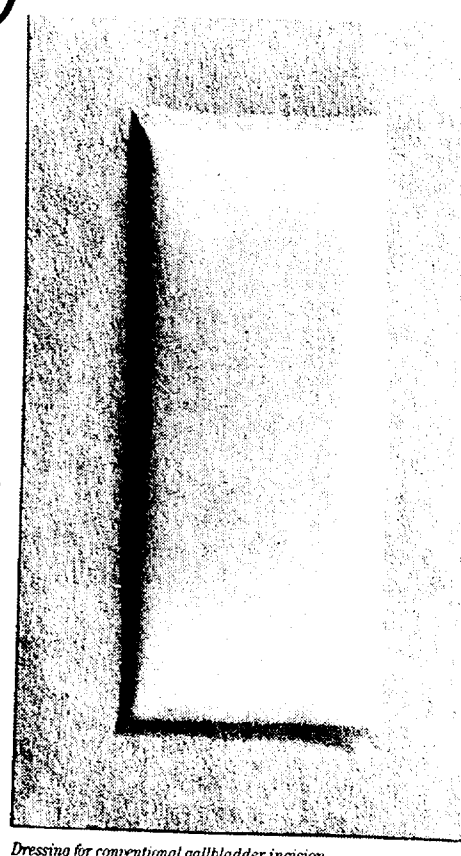

Incisions that can be covered with a tiny adhesive bandage might look like a small reason, but it makes a big difference. In fact, it's one of the major reasons laparoscopic laser gallbladder surgery is fast becoming the preferred alternative to long hospital stays and soaring medical bills.

Conventional gallbladder surgery frequently requires an incision up to five inches long. Those extra inches can represent extra days that you spend recovering from surgery. And, of course, added hospital days can mean added cost and increased post-operative pain.

Unlike other new gallbladder treatments, this is a permanent cure because the gallbladder is removed without need for costly stone-dissolving medications. In some cases, the surgery can even be performed on an outpatient basis. And many laser patients return to work or resume their normal activities within a week of surgery. Conventional surgery may require a recovery period of six weeks or more.

If you'd like to find out more about laparoscopic laser gallbladder surgery, call the hospital where more have been performed than any other hospital in

Kelly could join short list of Pointers in U.S. Congress

By Chip Chapman
Staff Writer

Is the issue of military service (or lack of it) detrimental to a political campaign?

It wasn't for President Bill Clinton or former Vice President Dan Quayle. It won't be a problem for state Sen. Kelly, who is seeking to become only the second Grosse Pointer to serve in the U.S. Senate. Kelly was a military intelligence officer in the Army Reserve from 1972-81.

Raising the issue of military service, however, worked for the one Grosse Pointer resident elected to the U.S. Senate.

Truman H. Newberry, of Grosse Pointe Farms, made Edsel Ford's refusal to serve in the Army during World War II a big issue in defeating Henry Ford in the 1918 Senate election.

Newberry, a Republican, was born in Detroit in 1864. He served in the U.S. Navy during the Spanish-American War and was secretary of the Navy under President Theodore Roosevelt.

At the urging of President Woodrow Wilson, Ford decided to run for the Senate as an independent. Although he did very little campaigning, Ford won the Democratic nomination.

The birth of Edsel's son, Henry II, in 1917 was thought to be the reason Edsel Ford did not serve in the Army, but Henry Ford had said it was because Edsel was too important to the Ford Motor Co. to have him away from the firm.

The accusations against Ford were bitter. Newberry said that Ford had German spies in his company that were undermining the defense effort. Rep. Nicholas Longworth of New York, Roosevelt's son-in-law, said that only seven men went through the war unscathed — Kaiser Wilhelm's six sons and Edsel Ford.

Former President Teddy Roosevelt, who lost a son in the war, was quoted in The Fords: An America Epic by Peter Collier and David Horowitz writing an endorsement letter for Newberry which read: "The failure of Mr. Ford's son to go into the Army at this time, and the approval of the father of the son's refusal, represent exactly what might be expected from moral disintegration..."

Newberry won by a narrow margin and Ford, growing tired of being in the spotlight, retired a month later as head of Ford Motor Co. But Ford was vindicated three years later.

Newberry was convicted in 1922 of what was termed election "irregularities." Although the U.S. Supreme Court reversed the conviction, Newberry decided against retaking his Senate seat and returned to Grosse Pointe.

The only other Pointer to sit in Congress was Louis Rabaut of Grosse Pointe Park.

Born in Detroit in 1886, Rabaut, a Democrat, was first elected to Michigan's 14th Congressional District in 1934 when he was a Detroit resident.

Rabaut served six straight terms before being defeated in 1946 by Republican Harold Youngblood.

Rabaut became a resident of the Park and won back the 14th District seat in 1948. He held the seat until his death in November 1961.

Kelly still has to formally announce his bid, clear the Democratic primary hurdles and defeat his Republican opponent in 1994 to become the third Grosse Pointer resident to serve in the U.S. Congress.

Missing iguana found but, alas, it's too late

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

Remember the emerald green, 3 1/2-foot iguana reported missing in July? The runaway reptile, which was the Gokenbach family pet, had wiggled free of his leash and, after exhaustive searches, the family had given up hope.

Apparently the lizard had been close to home all along. On Oct. 6, three months after his bolt for freedom, the Gokenbach's neighbor Kelly Bowland spotted the sluggish iguana lazing by the back fence of her City of Grosse Pointe yard. The Bowlands live behind and one house over from the Gokenbachs.

Kelly, who was home sick with strep throat, had stepped outside for a moment on the unseasonably warm Wednesday afternoon. When she saw the lizard, she called her father, Bob.

He picked up the dazed iguana and brought him into the house. Remembering the Gokenbach's search last summer, he called the family and let them know their pet had been found.

Because the iguana is native to tropical climes, the Gokenbachs figured their pet, though probably feeding on their neighbor's vegetable gardens, wouldn't last through the chill autumn nights.

While hopes were high last week and numerous attempts were made to raise the body temperature of the ailing animal, it did not survive.

"We had every heating device in the world on him, but he died around 10 o'clock," said Rick Gokenbach Jr.

Rick said he was surprised the iguana had survived outside until early October, considering the cool evening temperatures recorded in the last few weeks.

"I was hoping he would last longer, but he didn't," he said. "At least now we know what happened to him."

Witness catches purse snatcher

Several pedestrians and a motorist came to the aid of a 34-year-old Woods woman who had her purse snatched while she was pushing a baby stroller through the alley behind Mack near Kenmore in Grosse Pointe Woods on Oct. 7.

The woman told police she was with three children around 5:30 p.m. when she saw a dark-colored car pull into the alley. The driver got out of the vehicle and approached her.

The woman said the man began pulling at her purse strap, slammed her into a fence and then continued tugging until the strap broke. The man then began running south on Mack toward Huntington. The victim ran after the man and asked two women pedestrians on Mack to help her catch him.

A 30-year-old St. Clair Shores man driving a van on Mack stopped and asked what was going on and then began chasing the suspect while calling 911 on a cellular phone.

Within minutes, Woods police found and arrested a 31-year-old Detroit man. The woman's purse was retrieved in a pile of construction debris in the area.

The Gokenbach family pet, a 3 1/2-foot iguana, was found three months after it was reported missing, but died shortly after.

Chair burns in Park upper flat

Grosse Pointe Park firefighters were summoned to an upper flat in the 1300 block of Beaconsfield on Sept. 30 when the residents returned to a smoke-filled home.

Firefighters cleared the dwelling of smoke and found that a kitchen chair had caught on fire and burned itself out. No one was injured.

new parking lots along Mack Avenue (Oct. 7, "Grosse Pointe Woods Makes Bid to Expand Parking on Mack"). However, we wish city officials had been more forthcoming about their plans.

For instance, we learned — apparently by accident — that one plan involves tearing down a house on our block, Van Antwerp. Although we understand that the city did notify at least one adjacent property owner, we live just doors away and were not told of the plans. While the city may have been following legal procedures, we believe ethics require that we be notified, too. In neglecting to tell us about this potentially devastating change in our neighborhood, city officials have ignored our rights.

Van Antwerp already is heavily traveled as a shortcut, and a stop sign at Jackson is often ignored. The addition of another parking lot will only add to the very real safety problems that our children already face.

Merchants along the very small strip on Mack that would benefit from a new parking lot should have been well aware of any parking restrictions before they moved in. If their businesses require more parking, they are free to relocate to a larger commercial zone more suited to their needs.

Clinton in history

To the Editor:

We are approaching some significant anniversaries that should be noted:

On Oct. 11, 1992, during the first presidential debate, Clinton said, "We want to give modest middle class tax relief to restore fairness to the middle class people with families with income under $60,000. My program cuts in at $200,000 and above!"

On Oct. 19, 1992, President George Bush said, "Mr. and Mrs. America, when you hear him say we're going to tax the rich, watch your wallets because his figures don't add up and he's going to sock it right to the middle class taxpayers and lower, if he's going to pay for all the spending programs he proposes."

On Feb. 15, 1993, less than one month from inauguration, Clinton said from the oval office, "I have hoped to invest (spend) in your future by creating jobs, expanding education, reforming health care, reducing the debt, without asking more of you, but I can't."

On Monday, Jan. 20, 1997, at noon, Bill and Hillary Clinton will leave the White House.

By then, during the greatest move toward socialism in the history of this country, we will:

- Expand our Somalian adventure and incur massive expense to establishing a new government.

- Send military in insufficient amounts to the Bosnia-Serbia region, which has no strategic value to the United States.

- In the name of humanitarianism, we will squander billions through a corrupt United Nations bureaucracy dominated by Third World countries who dislike us any day we aren't sending aid.

Charity begins at home
President Clinton.

Open letter to Bob Dole

Dear Sen. Dole:

I am writing this letter to you as the Republican Leader to answer the confidential Republican Agenda Referendum and accompanying letter you sent me on behalf of the Republican National Committee. My answers to the referendum, which I have enclosed with this letter, fall far short of explaining my views on a sound agenda for this country.

I was and am a "Reagan Republican." I voted for George Bush both times, but I didn't think he really stood for or believed in Reagan's agenda. If I had had a choice I would have voted for someone else, but Ross Perot was just a little too much; now I wish I had voted for him.

I believe that the Washington establishment is a force unto itself and is completely out of anyone's control. I believe that the lifelong career politicians that make up the Washington establishment — the elected ones, the staffers, the appointees, the bureaucrats, the committee members, the lobbyists, and Washington media, and all the rest — as a group are incapable of any real reform because of the completely unpredictable effect real reform would have on each of them personally. Each one of you knows that your Washington is morally and intellectually bankrupt. Yet no one of you is big enough or strong enough to stand up and really fight for what you know is right for the country.

We must have term limitations; we must have line-item veto; we must have a real overhaul of the whole government apparatus.

You are all participants in the systematic and continuous plundering of public money (taxes) through the continuing trade-offs and compromises with each other to pass new laws on new programs to spend new money you have to borrow from us.

What happened to self-reliance? In the long run, every individual person has to look out for and take care of himself, whether or not he gets it from the government, and that's the way it will be because that's the only way people work. If a person is industrious enough and smart enough to be able to take care of himself and some other people too (we used to call it a family), so much the better, but when and if that person, for some reason, can no longer take care of himself and his acquired responsibilities, he has to cut back, make changes, adjust. Therefore, we're all a little scared of the future, we all want "security," none of us want to have to make changes in our lifestyle.

The people in Washington are no exception. They have all found "the good life" for themselves and their associates. When they retire from government service — whether elected or employed — they can make twice as much income by becoming lobbyists, and they don't leave Washington until and unless they have more than enough for themselves. The trouble is that this rapidly growing machine is 100 percent parasitic — it depends entirely on the moneys it can legally extract from others through taxes or the threat of taxes. Everyone else in the country has to get paid by others who voluntarily pay the prices he asks for the goods or services he provides.

State and local governments cannot follow the excesses of the U.S. federal government because they run out of money. When they go to their constituents for more, they often don't get it and they have to make changes and cut back. Washington doesn't have to cut back yet; they just borrow more.

Washington and the entire U.S. government is, by its very nature, a self-perpetuating growing cancer that, if not treated drastically or removed altogether, will drag this country down to ultimate bankruptcy and destruction.

And I don't think Washington is capable of reforming itself. Even Reagan could not control Congress and couldn't get a sympathetic Congress elected. Congressmen kept getting re-elected because they passed out public moneys to their constituents and voted public moneys to each other and to each other's constituents. Real reform seems to be almost impossible under our present system.

Until and unless we get some leadership that really works for elimination of government waste, term limitations for congressmen, limitation of built-in advantages for incumbents, the line-item veto and all of the other reforms we need, I can't support any existing party. I don't think many Republicans have any intention of really reforming our system. Washington says — quite correctly — that those who are trying are invariably one-term congressmen.

Passing MEAP tests now more important than ever for high-schoolers

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

A number of students in the Grosse Pointe public schools still have not passed the 1992 Michigan Educational Assessment Program (MEAP) test given last fall.

While steps have been taken since last fall to help these students, the need for them to pass the test intensifies, starting with this year's graduating class.

Beginning with the class of 1994, all high school diplomas will show whether the student passed one or more portions of the MEAP test.

North's '96 fundraiser

Once again the Grosse Pointe North Class of '96 is sponsoring the sale of Grosse Pointe News subscriptions. New this year are two- and three-year subscription rates.

Take this opportunity to subscribe to the newspaper that provides current news that affects the community, as well as highlights the accomplishments of North students.

New and renewal subscriptions are accepted, and don't forget to purchase a subscription for your recent North grad attending college.

A portion of the subscription rate will be allocated to the Class of 1996.

To place a Grosse Pointe News subscription through North's Class of '96, call Judy Colaluca at 882-5654.

'Think Pink' class reunion

It's been five years since the "Think Pink" class left the halls of Grosse Pointe South and it's time to reunite for an evening.

Our five-year reunion will be held Friday, Nov. 26, at the Roostertail. The party begins at 8 p.m. Everyone is welcome.

For more details and ticket information, call 483-8766. Reservations must be made by Oct. 21.

Students who pass the test will receive a state-endorsed diploma. The state endorsement, along with a statement of which tests were passed, also will be included in the graduating students' high school transcripts, said Alfreda Frost, assistant superintendent for curriculum and evaluation.

By 1997, a proficiency exam will replace the MEAP test as the tool to measure which students will receive a state endorsement on their diplomas.

It is not known whether the MEAP test will be eliminated altogether or will continue to be used as a measure of a student's understanding of the curriculum, Frost said.

MEAP tests are administered every fall. The Grosse Pointe schools are in the midst of testing the reading and math skills of fourth, seventh and 10th graders. Fifth, eighth and 11th graders are taking the science exam.

Test results will be shared with the public at a school board meeting in late December or early January, Frost said.

High school students who did not pass the exams given last fall were offered the opportunity to enroll in remedial workshops last spring. Retests were given toward the end of the school year. For those who failed the retest, a special summer school course was offered and the student had a final chance this fall to retake the test.

A student has two chances each year to retake the MEAP test.

As of last spring, there are 30 Grosse Pointe North students and 16 Grosse Pointe South students who need to pass the test.

A summary of last spring's retest results show: North 10th-graders (this year's juniors): eight out of 14 passed in reading and 29 out of 53 passed in math. North 11th-graders (this year's seniors): four out of nine passed in reading, 15 out of 40 passed in math and seven out of 11 passed science.

At South, 10th-graders (this year's juniors): 29 out of 44 passed reading and 38 out of 76 passed in math. The 11th-graders (this year's seniors): six out of nine passed in reading, 22 out of 32 in math and nine out of 12 in science.

Frost cautioned that these numbers need clarification. First, they will not add up to the number of students who still have not passed the test because they reflect test scores, not students. Some students may have failed one test while others may have failed all three.

Second, not every student who failed the first time around opted to retake the test. Third, students have transferred in and out of the district, taking away and bringing in new numbers.

Frost also said that remediation is not intended to coach a student through the test in order to pass it. Each year the test questions are changed, although the objectives remain the same. The purpose is to help the student gain the knowledge that is expected upon graduation from high school.

"The schools are working very hard to give support, tutoring and remediation," she said. "I'm certain some of the students are discouraged, but we have made a commitment to help them overcome these hurdles."

Star ace

Vishal Srivastava, an eighth-grader at Our Lady Star of the Sea Middle School, created a fool-proof voting mechanism for the student council election this year. His program identified each student with a random number and if the number was typed incorrectly or used a second time, the computer would catch the error. The program also tabulated the votes. Srivastava has created other programs for the school.

ULS headmaster selected for seminar series

University Liggett School headmaster Matthew H. Hanly has been selected as a participant in Leadership Detroit XV, a seminar series designed to inform, educate and sensitize existing and emerging community leaders from metro-Detroit businesses and community organizations.

Leadership Detroit was initiated in 1979 by the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce. In its 14 years, more than 800 people have successfully completed the 10-month curriculum. Graduates are involved with hundreds of community organizations that impact the quality of life in southeastern Michigan. Because community leadership is a lifelong commitment, participants and graduates are expected to get involved and stay involved in community activities.

Maire fundraiser

Maire school will sell subscriptions to the Grosse Pointe News as a fundraising project running Oct. 18 through Nov. 5.

Order forms will be sent home with students on Oct. 18. A portion of the subscription cost will be allocated to Maire.

Schmidt named top science teacher

University Liggett School science teacher James F. Schmidt has been selected as the Michigan Outstanding Earth Science Teacher for 1993 by the Michigan Earth Science Teachers Association (MESTA).

At the MESTA annual conference Oct. 1-2, Schmidt received an award and honorarium in recognition of his accomplishments. Schmidt, a resident of Harrison Township, has taught at ULS since 1974. He holds bachelor of science and master of arts degrees from Western Michigan University.

A science teacher at both the middle and upper schools, Schmidt also serves as dean of student activities at the middle school. He is an active faculty participant in the school's outdoor education and ice hockey programs.

Park student wins scholarship

Albion College senior Michael Montagne of Grosse Pointe Park is the recipient of the Carl A. Gerstacker Liberal Arts Program in Professional Management scholarship for the 1993-94 academic year.

Montagne is a 1990 graduate of Grosse Pointe South High School. Scholarships are awarded on the basis of a superior high school academic record and are renewable for four years based upon performance and involvement at Albion.

Students are chosen annually for the Gerstacker Program through a highly selective process based on academic achievement and demonstrated leadership abilities. Gerstacker students are majors in economics and management.

Academy student wins top award

Cornelius Guiney, an eighth-grader at the Grosse Pointe Academy, was one of two metro-Detroit students honored recently by the American Society of Heating, Refrigerating and Air-Conditioning Engineers Inc.

Guiney also received recognition for his science project — "Our Future: Solar Energy" — at the Science and Engineering Fair of Metropolitan Detroit.

In cooperation with the Engineering Society of Detroit, ASHRAE chose two projects in the fair for their outstanding achievement awards. They later described Guiney as a "budding young engineer."

The group invited Guiney and his family to their annual meeting in September which was held at the Detroit Yacht Club. Guiney spoke briefly about his project to the group before he was presented the award and a check for $100.

Ten-hut!

Members of Boy Scouts of America Troop 86 of Grosse Pointe Park recently attended the 10th annual Scout Militia at Fort George in Niagara-on-the-Lake in Ontario Sept. 17-19. The scouts experienced militia life in a regiment in the year 1813 with drills, parades, mock battles and even a court martial. Approximately 400 scouts from Michigan, New York and Ontario participated. Pictured are, back row, left to right, Jordan Grover, David Zerega, Mike Goldsby, Dan Clark and John Huseltine, assistant scout master. Front row, left to right, Chris Goldsby, Bob Dindoffer, David Clark and Jon Rosberg.

Richard learns about art world

Fourth and fifth-graders at Richard Elementary School recently were given a brief history of early 19th century American art. Students then grabbed their art supplies and headed for the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House on Oct. 4 and 5, where they painted a landscape.

The students participated through the year-long art enrichment program. This year's theme is American art history.

It's deja vu in City mayoral contest

By Chip Chapman
Staff Writer

Four years ago, it was a dispute over whether the City of Grosse Pointe's centennial was in 1989 or 1993. This year's race between incumbent Mayor Lorenzo Browning and councilmember Myrna Smith focuses on weightier issues, such as the possibility of replacing lost property taxes if Gov. John Engler's school reform plan is approved and the future of the school system's administration buildings at 389 St. Clair.

Browning beat Smith in 1989 getting 57 percent of the vote. As was the case four years ago, should Browning beat Smith again, she will still retain her council seat.

If Smith should defeat Browning, the council would appoint someone to serve the remaining two years of Smith's council term.

Lorenzo Browning

Lorenzo "Red" Browning has served in the City of Grosse Pointe government for 22 years. In 1971, he was appointed to fill a vacant council seat and in 1983 he was appointed to fill the vacant mayor's seat. He ran unopposed for mayor in 1985 and was challenged by Smith in 1989.

A City resident since 1960, Browning is a retired businessman who was executive vice president of the T.S. Browning S.S. Co., president of the Island of Bob-Lo Co., assistant division manager of the Lake Division of Republic Steel Corp., executive vice president and chief financial officer of Datavision Inc. and an executive committee board member of Macabees Mutual Life Insurance Co.

"I think I have shown the leadership required for the job," Browning said.

He cited the City's expansion of Neff Park, the updated water plant and infrastructure improvements as accomplishments during the current term.

"And the tax rate has held to the cost of living," he added.

Under Gov. Engler's plan in its present form, the City stands to lose about $80,000 in property taxes and revenue sharing. Browning is against imposing a local income tax or raising other taxes. And he does not want to cut any services or personnel.

"It all boils down to what happens in Lansing," he said. "They (the Legislature) tell you what to do and you have to pay for it, but you aren't allowed to raise your millage enough to pay for it."

Browning and the City council, along with the Farms council, asked the school board to give the cities until Feb. 1, 1994, to explore the possibility of senior housing at 389 St. Clair, the administration buildings the schools want to sell.

"It's in our city and we are trying to prepare ourselves, depending on which way it goes," Browning said. "We are looking at senior housing because there seems to be enough pressure from the people to have it."

The two cities have hired an outside firm to conduct a study to see which type of senior housing would work best at the site. Browning said that if it becomes a reality, state and federal funding would not be accepted so that local control could be maintained.

In the past six months, the City has had to replace two councilmembers who moved, filling the vacancies with appointees approved by the remaining councilmembers. There has been some criticism that appointing councilmembers undermines the elective process, taking the choice away from the people. Browning, originally an appointee himself, disagrees.

"If there's a vacancy on the council, I think appointing a replacement is the way to go," he said. "That way you are able to carefully choose the person with the best credentials."

Myrna Smith

Myrna Smith was first elected to the City council in 1987. She challenged Browning in the mayoral race in 1989, losing by a 57 percent to 43 percent margin. She was able to keep her council seat, however, and was re-elected in 1991. Her father was elected mayor of Birmingham in 1973, and she hopes to follow in his footsteps.

A 28-year resident of the City, Smith is a graduate of the University of Michigan. She has been a Realtor in Grosse Pointe for 15 years, currently working at Johnstone & Johnstone. She is a past president of the Family Life Education Council (FLEC) and she is on the advisory board of the Youth Assistance Program (YAP).

Four years ago she outlined a list of things that needed to be accomplished during the following four years. Some of these things were done through her involvement on the council, including the formation of the beautification committee, recycling and saving the Cadieux farm house. Even though she still believes the City's centennial was in 1989, she was instrumental in getting the 1993 event off the ground.

"What has not been done is enforcing the certificate-of-occupancy laws," Smith said. "The City should inspect rental properties. The Park does it."

"I would also like a quarterly news letter for the citizens."

Like Browning, Smith is concerned over the loss of property tax revenue if Gov. Engler's plan passes.

"We might have to cut staff," she said. "Things like trash collection could be affected." But she added that "education cannot be funded by local governments."

Smith feels that senior housing is needed in Grosse Pointe and that 389 St. Clair could work as a site. Smith, Browning and councilmember Dale Scrace serve on the senior housing study committee for the City.

"Senior housing is a need," Smith said. "More than 25 percent of Grosse Pointe is over 60."

Smith would like to see rental units built on the property with no state or federal funding.

Unlike Browning, Smith opposes council appointments if a councilmember leaves close to an election. Such was the case in September when Peter Waldmier resigned from the council, two months before he was to run for re-election. Smith opposed the appointment of Larry Dowers to fill Waldmier's seat, not on personal grounds, she said, but because it gives him the advantage of running as an incumbent next month.

"I think we should stop appointments unless it is absolutely necessary," she said.

"The Emergency Department at Bon Secours is great for kids. My young daughter was very frightened — we all were. But, everything went so smoothly. And Shannon got such special care. We wouldn't dream of going anywhere else..." Maurben Leehr, mother of three, Grosse Pointe Woods

Nine year old Shannon Leehr plays for keeps. She also tries to keep pace with her older brothers, on and off the field. But playing in the "big leagues" often leads to sprained ankles, sore knees, bumps and bruises. Usually, they're not too serious, but, on Saturday night, July 31, everyone feared that Shannon had broken her wrist. A hospital with board-certified emergency medicine physicians and an on-site pediatrician was in order. Bon Secours Hospital fit the bill.

At Bon Secours, we offer pediatric emergency services to nearly 4,000 kids each year. And, unlike other area hospitals, we have a board-certified pediatrician on site all the time, day or night. So, whether your child has a sprained ankle at 8 p.m., or an unusually high fever at 4 a.m., we can help.

Pediatric experts in ophthalmology, orthopedics, and other specialties work with Emergency Department staff to treat your child. Our pediatric nurses have an average of 10 years experience caring for children and pediatric advanced life support training. Plus, our X-ray and lab on-site in the Emergency Department mean fast, convenient care.

The next time your "slugger" needs emergency medical care, come to Bon Secours Hospital. Any time day or night. At Bon Secours, we treat your kids like our kids.

Today, Shannon is back in action — batting 1,000 with brothers Marty and Danny

Bricklin to DeLorean: Men who would build their own cars

In the 1970s, the outside world caved in on Detroit. Washington began telling it how to build cars and Middle East politics put the fear of gasoline shortages into America.

Washington, in its search for solutions to the knotty problems of air pollution, safety and fuel economy, stirred hopes anew of men who would build their own cars in defiance of the automotive establishment. As is often the case with intractable problems, public relations played a major role.

Difficult challenges confronted the auto industry and many private inventors tried to meet them. Washington, ever distrustful (with some reason) of the auto industry, encouraged newcomers and rekindled dreams of glory.

Many congressmen preferred to believe an unknown inventor who told them his steam car would work and would solve the air pollution problem as opposed General Motors engineers who said the physical laws which set limitations that made steamers die out in the '20s were still there.

It is significant that despite all the interest in exotic engines, the cars that were actually built by independents were quite conventional.

And one of these conventional (in its power train, not its appearance) cars that created quite a stir was built by a most unconventional auto maker, Malcolm Bricklin. Before his dream of building a car with his own name on it ended in a flurry of legal actions in late 1975, some 2,875 of the sleek plastic-bodied safety/sports cars were built.

Of these, 790 were '74 models, powered with American Motors V-8s. For '75, Bricklin shifted to Ford V-8s and 2,083 of that model year were built. Only two '76 models had rolled off the line in New Brunswick when Bricklin Canada defaulted on loan payments and was placed in receivership.

Bricklin was not a typical auto executive. He favored blue jeans and cowboy boots and came on more as a high-rolling gambler than a smooth Wall Street type. Nonetheless, he managed to raise more than $20 million to build the Bricklin.

A college dropout, Bricklin made his fortune in the retail hardware business. He started with three small A-frame stores, turned to franchising and within two years sold his interest in the 174-store Handyman chain for $1 million. He was not quite 22.

He went to work for Innocenti, an Italian firm which had a 15-year supply of Lambretta motor scooters sitting on lots in the United States (30,000 of them, with sales of 2,000 a year). "I sold 'em all in 60 days," Bricklin said.

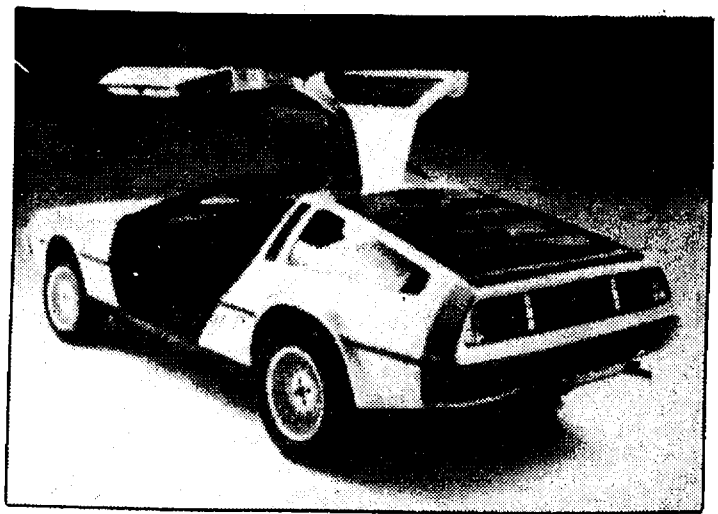

He began distributing the Rabbit, a scooter built by Fuji Heavy Industries. Just as Bricklin was starting to roll, Fuji quit making the Rabbit. Bricklin went to Japan to try to persuade Fuji to change its mind. He had no luck with the Rabbit, but Fuji officials showed him the Subaru 360 and tried to interest him in selling the odd little car in the United States.

In 1968, Bricklin formed Subaru of America and was in the auto business. He stayed with the company until it went into the black in 1971. He kept his 9 percent interest, but left management to build his own car.

With a design for a low, sleek sportster with gull-wing doors, Bricklin raised more than $20 million and acquired an almost-new plant in Saint John, New Brunswick.

When production began in 1974, the car was not quite what Bricklin had intended. It had a V-8 instead of a four and it cost $7,500, not "less than $3,000" as had been the goal. But one of Bricklin's highest priorities was that it look like a world-class car. It did.

After production ended, the price of Bricklin cars was quickly bid up to $11,000 and more. They now sell for upward of twice that. It was a popular car with its fans, but the maker went bankrupt.

This 1981 DeLorean had a stainless steel body, gull-wing doors and a rear-mounted Renault V-6 and cost about $25,000.

Bricklin got back into the auto business after Fiat pulled out of the United States. He began importing the Fiat Spider 2000 as the Pininfarina and the X-1/9 as the Bertone. But these cars had not sold well as Fiats and their new names made no difference.

Then Bricklin started a company to import the Yugo, a warmed-over Fiat model built by Zastava in Yugoslavia, which has stirred up a great deal of public interest. Why did the Yugo capture the public's imagination while the much more elegant Pininfarina and Bertone have not? The Yugo's advertised price started at $3,995.

You get what you pay for and nobody bought a second Yugo. The rather primitive car became a joke and died of low sales. Import ceased. Then, of course, Yugoslavia broke up after throwing off Communist rule.

Bricklin was not the only would-be car maker. He was just one in a new wave of automotive messiahs.

William Lear, of Lear jet fame, tried a number of times to develop a workable steam car, but never got it off the ground.

Wallace Minto devised a steamer which used fluorocarbon fluid instead of water and interested Nissan in it. But it never saw production.

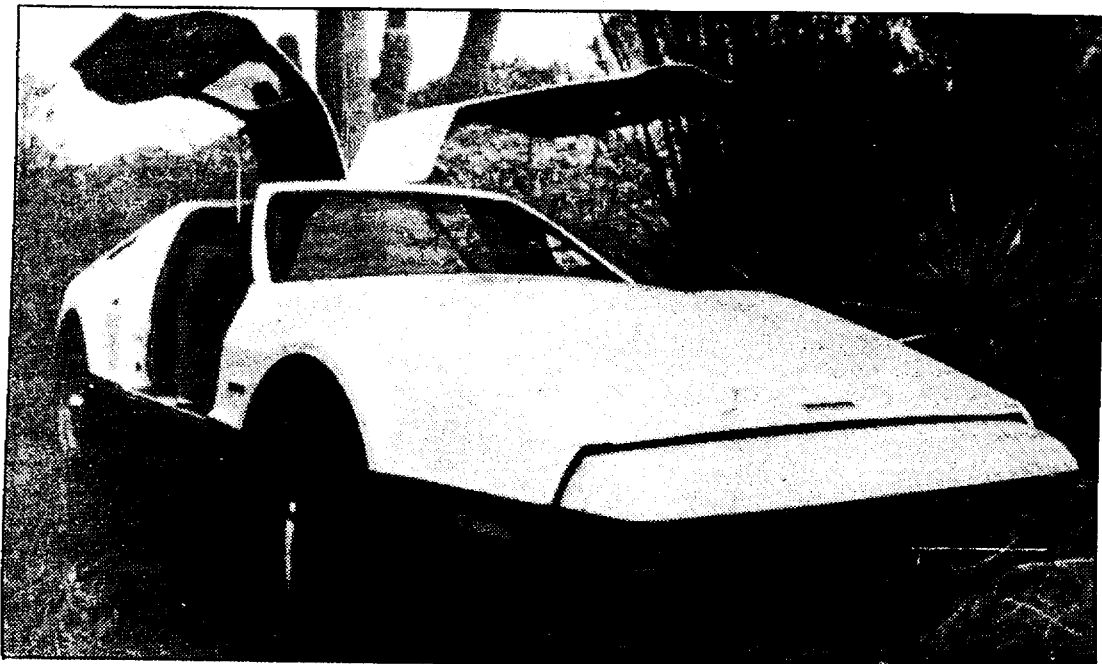

Sam Williams, of Williams International, tried valiantly with turbines and put a few in American Motors cars.

The most bizarre episode was the attempt by Liz Carmichael, a six-foot, 200 pound transsexual born Jerry Dean Michael, to build a three-wheeled car called the Dale.

The Dale, designed by Dale Clift, was to be powered by a two-cylinder engine, get 70 mpg and sell for under $2,000. A sleek, rather egg-like prototype was built, but production never began.

At Carmichael's trial on charges of grand theft, fraud and securities violations, Clift said he still believed in Liz Carmichael. He claimed he stood to receive $3 million in royalties once the Dale went into production. In all, he received $1,001, plus a $2,000 check which bounced.

We support almost 140 charitable organizations that deal with the elderly, the illiterate, the abused, the unemployed and the disabled, just to name a few. The money we raise here stays here in the tri-county area—distributed after a careful review that assures the money will go where it is needed most. Across all three counties. This year, more people need your help than ever before. So, please, won't you give more? Because, of all the needs we face in the tri-county area, the biggest one of all is your support.

Deflating those old tire myths can enhance safety, save you money

Myth (mith) noun: A popular belief or tradition that has grown up around something or someone.

That's the way Webster defines myth and there are plenty of them floating around — some for a long time. Robin Hood, King Arthur, even Babe Ruth pointing to a spot in the stands and hitting a home run there in the World Series are all myths which have grown over time. Believing them is fanciful and entertaining; certainly causing no harm.

There are many myths regarding tires. Compared to the storybook-type myths above, misinformation about tire care can lead to safety problems and unnecessary expenses.

"Tires can provide riding comfort and safety and add value to your vehicle," said Stan Cooper, marketing manager for Firestone consumer products. "It pays to know the dos and don'ts of tire care."

Attempting to dispel some tire fiction, Firestone has produced a list of common tire myths, along with corresponding tire facts.

Myth: I can tell my tire is correctly inflated just by looking at it.

Fact: Today's modern radial tires may look properly inflated when in fact they could be dangerously low — especially high performance tires because their sidewalls are typically low profile or shorter. Low air pressure results in poor handling and shorter tire life and reduced fuel efficiency. Remember, no matter how good the tire, it's useless without air!

Myth: I only have to check the tire pressure when the tire appears low.

Fact: Tire pressure should be checked weekly — before the car is driven. The pressure should be adjusted to the vehicle manufacturer's specifications. Look in the owner's manual or on the inside of the door for figures. Pressure changes as often as the weather; when it's cool, tires lose pressure and when it's warm, they gain pressure. On an average, if the temperature remained the same, tires would lose one pound per month. Also, don't forget to check the spare tire.

Myth: My car will perform the same with any tire on it.

Fact: Tires are designed to perform specific functions, providing the personality of your vehicle. Tires designed for luxury cars will provide a smoother, quieter ride; tires designed for performance-oriented cars provide higher levels of responsiveness and traction; and tires made for sport utility vehicles and pickup trucks offer increased durability, all-season and/or all-terrain traction.

Myth: Correcting vehicle alignment problems will correct irregular wear tires.

Fact: Misalignment can quickly cause irregular wear patterns in tires. Once damage is done, it cannot be corrected. Proper alignment can prevent future irregular wear but will not remedy existing irregular wear. You should rotate the tires when alignment is done.

Myth: The steel belting in radial tires prevents punctures and flats from nails and other debris.

Fact: Any tire can be punc-tured by debris. Steel-belted tires are certainly durable, but they're not indestructible. The best safety measure is avoiding debris on the road. Regular visual checks of your tires will allow you to detect air loss problems.

Myth: I can drive as fast and as long on a temporary or compact spare tire as I can on a regular tire.

Fact: No way! The temporary or compact spare tires is constructed to allow you to get to the nearest tire dealer or service center for repair or replacement of your flat tire. Temporary spares aren't designed for long-term or high-speed use. The temporary spare should be replaced by a regular size tire as soon as possible and not driven faster than 50 mph. "Tires are some of the most important components of your car. In essence, they provide the connection of the vehicle to the road," added Cooper.

Carmichael went to prison. Frederick M. Guilfoyle, London, Ont., proposed to build a car powered by a fuelless engine with two-way pistons operated by compressed air. The air would be compressed by windmills.

The man who came the closest to success, the man who seemed to have everything it took to do it, was John Z. DeLorean.

DeLorean had been a fast-rising star at General Motors from the time he joined Pontiac in the late '50s to play a major role in the remodeling of Pontiac into a high-performance car maker. He was a key man on Semon "Bunkie" Knudsen's team and followed him quickly up the ranks to general manager of Pontiac division and then of Chevrolet.

When DeLorean left GM in 1973 as vice-president and group executive in charge of all car and truck divisions, he was considered a favorite to be the next president of GM. But he wanted to build his own car, his own way.

His car was to be a gull-wing safety/sports car with Lamborghini-like styling — similar in concept and looks to the Bricklin. ItalDesign helped with styling of the stainless steel body and Colin Chapman, of Lotus fame, was called in to help with engineering.

With financing from dealers, celebrities and the British government, DeLorean began production in 1980 in a plant in Northern Ireland. Within 17 months, the plant was closed. Fewer than 9,000 cars were built.

The DeLorean saga took a bizarre turn in 1982 when he was arrested in Los Angeles and charged with drug dealing. The government had the deal on videotape, but DeLorean was acquitted. Creditors and federal agents continued to try to track down millions of dollars they believed to be hidden in the tangle of DeLorean organizations.

DeLorean's story may not be over. And he still, from time to time, professes dreams of building his car.

North booters get back in the title picture

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor
Grosse Pointe North soccer coach Guido Regelbrugge compares his team's plight to that of a fish that was thrown back into the water. "You're not sure if you want to keep the fish so you throw it back in the water and for a few moments it just sits there. Then the tail starts to wiggle and it swims away. That's how our soccer team was a couple of weeks ago. We looked like we were dead in the water, but now, after three big wins, we're back in the race," Regelbrugge said.

Even though the Norsemen have seized control of their own destiny with last week's victories over Utica, Warren-Mott and Grosse Pointe South, the road to the championship is far from an easy one.

"We have three very huge games with Romeo (on Friday), Lake Shore (Oct. 20) and Anchor Bay (Oct. 22) and we can't afford to lose any of them if we hope to win the league," Regelbrugge said. "But that's the way it should be. It's a lot more fun than if somebody is 10 points ahead with three games to go."

North and South each have two defeats and a tie in Macomb Area Conference White Division play, while Lake Shore has two losses and two ties.

South had one league game remaining — with Anchor Bay on Oct. 20 — after playing Utica on Wednesday.

The Blue Devils took command early in their game with North, but the Norsemen scored late in the first half and added two more goals in the second half to post a 3-0 victory.

"In the first game we played with South (a 2-1 victory by the Blue Devils), they wanted it more than we did, but in this game I thought we wanted it more," Regelbrugge said.

South dominated play during the first 20 minutes, but North goalkeeper Chuck Schervish made several outstanding saves to keep the game scoreless. Nick Verruyse then scored for the Norsemen and some of the fire seemed to leave the Blue Devils.

"I knew we were in trouble when they scored the first goal, because in my four years here the team scoring first has never lost," said South coach Mark Christensen. "We had our chances early, but couldn't capitalize. Then you could see the frustration start to take over in our kids and what happened is something I've never seen happen at South."

There were several altercations in the second half, resulting in red cards to players on both teams.

"I've never been associated with anything like this and I can assure you it won't happen again," Christensen said. "It's one thing to lose a game, but I'm much more disappointed that we lost our integrity and composure and with the way we represented this program. We instigated it and that will not happen again."

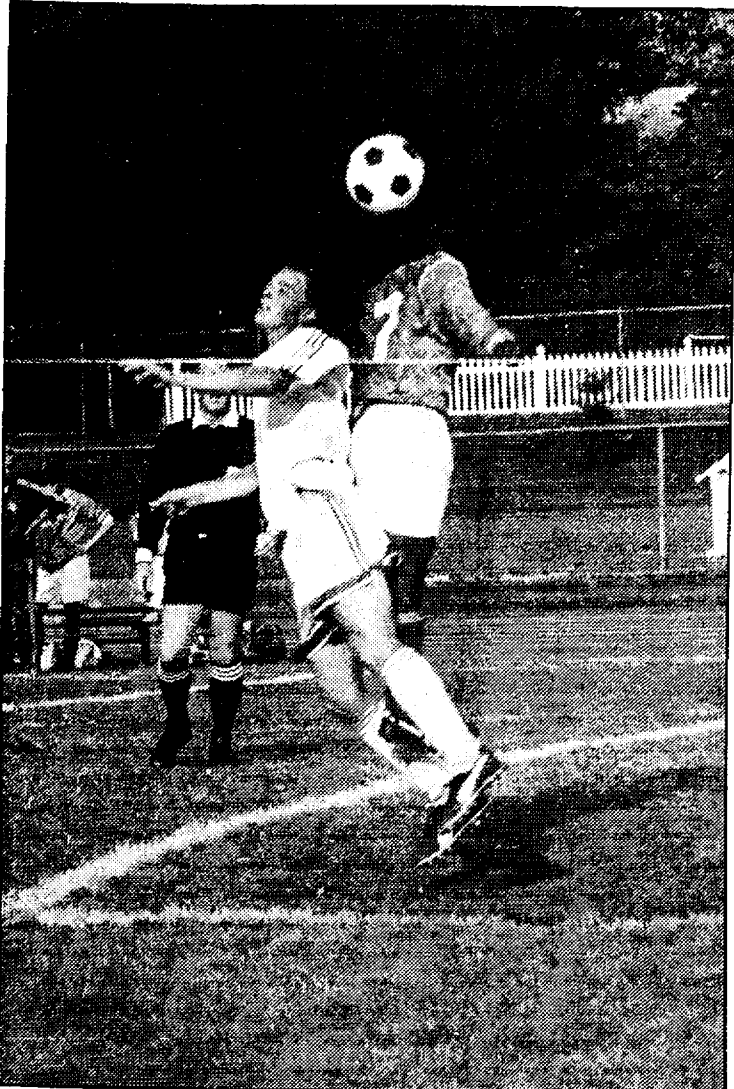

Christensen said that letters of apology would be delivered to North's players and coaches. "The instigation did not start with us," Regelbrugge said. "The only thing we can be accused of is leaving the bench during the third altercation. And when I went on the field, it was only with the purpose of getting my kids back to the bench. I didn't even look at the South players. I was afraid things might really get out of hand."

South goalie Jeff Goudie made two excellent saves early in the second half, deflecting a shot by Scott Semple and making a key stop on Verruyse.

Knights' booters discover that killer instinct

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

One might have thought David Backhurst was a boxing trainer instead of a soccer coach when he spoke to his University Liggett School squad during halftime of its games with Notre Dame and Lutheran Westland last week. "I implored the kids to jump on those teams at the start of the second half and deliver the knockout punch," Backhurst said after his fifth-ranked team in Class C-D improved its record to 9-2-2 overall with three lopsided victories.

"It's like a boxing match. When you have your opponent staggered, you need that killer instinct to deliver the knockout. We haven't had that, but we seem to be developing it. If we do, it bodes well for the rest of the season."

A week earlier, ULS dropped a 5-4 decision to Lutheran North — a game in which the Knights held a 2-1 halftime lead. That same week, Cranbrook scored twice in the final two minutes of the game to tie ULS 3-3.

"We could have won both of those games," Backhurst said. "The loss to Lutheran North hurt the most because it probably decided the league championship."

The Mustangs are unbeaten in the Metro Conference with one tie, while ULS has a loss and a pair of ties.

The Knights jumped out to an early 2-0 lead in their 9-2 win over Notre Dame as Matt Spicer scored the first of his two goals at the two-minute mark on an assist from Pat Moltane, and Omar Sawaf came down the left wing and beat the Irish netminder before the game was 10 minutes old.

Notre Dame scored twice to tie the game at 2-2, but with about five minutes left in the first half Henry Ackerman passed to Tom Simmonds and Simmonds beat the goalie on a shot just inside the post.

The second half was less than a minute old when Frank Tymrak slipped a pass to Moltane, who one-timed the shot into the net for a 4-2 lead. ULS then got goals from Chris Corneau, Alex Dale, Spicer, Simmonds and Eric Lindauer.

It was a similar scenario in ULS' 8-1 victory over Lutheran Westland. The Warriors dominated the first 30 minutes but Sawaf scored for the Knights and moments later set up Spicer's goal for a 2-0 halftime advantage.

ULS came out strong in the second half and Sawaf notched his second goal of the game at the five-minute mark. Ackerman, Moltane, Peter Anthony Brown, Corneau and Dale followed with goals to complete the rout.

The Knights had little trouble in their 12-0 victory over Lutheran East. Tymrak scored three goals, while Ackerman, Lindauer and Spicer added two apiece. Spicer now has 20 goals in the Knights' 13 games.

Other ULS marksmen were freshman Mike Gressman, Brown and Sawaf.

"We totally dominated that game," Backhurst said. "East didn't have one shot on goal."

In the Lutheran North game, the Mustangs pulled into a 2-2 tie on a penalty kick at the 18-minute mark, then scored two more goals for a 4-2 advantage.

With ULS trailing by two goals, Backhurst moved Corneau up front as an extra attacker and the Knights mounted a furious comeback to tie the score with two minutes left, but North tallied the winner on a corner kick in the final minute.

Spicer had two goals and Tymrak and Scott Lanzon each notched one for ULS.

Two goals by Spicer and one by Sawaf staked the Knights to a 3-1 halftime lead against Cranbrook, but the margin slipped away in the final two minutes.

"We didn't play well defensively in those two games," Backhurst said. "We had allowed only four goals in our previous eight games."

North golfers win division crown

By Beth Caramagno
Special Writer

Grosse Pointe North's golf team ended the regular season with a first-place finish in the Macomb Area Conference

White Division tournament at Oak Ridge golf course.

The Norsemen had a score of 335. Pete Devine was medalist with a 79.

North ended the season with a 12-2 record in dual matches.

nis team has played well this year with victories over Port Huron Northern, Troy, Troy Athens, Holly and Warren-Mott.

ball team is off to a fine start, posting a 5-1 record.

Offensive leaders are tailback Jon Rapp, who has scored 19 touchdowns, and quarterback Mike Aubrey, who has thrown for five touchdowns and passed for 360 yards.

A strong offensive line is anchored by center Kevin Halicki, guards Ryan Ruttan and Mike Lucido and tackles Andrew Huige and Mike Schuster.

North's defense has allowed an average of only 140 yards per game. Defensive leaders are linebacker Dan Shefferly, with nine tackles a game, tackle Mike Magri and ends Goran Jancevski and Tom Zorwick.

Men's hoops leagues form

The Neighborhood Club is forming two men's open basketball leagues that will begin play the week of Nov. 15.

There will be an 18-and-over division and a 30-and-over division. The registration deadline is Wednesday, Oct. 20 at 4:30 p.m.

Teams will play at Brownell Middle School and Grosse Pointe North. There will be new backboards and rims at Brownell.

The team fee is $485. Seven to 10 players usually make up a team. An individual wishing to play, who does not have a designated team, may register for $60 and the Neighborhood Club will form teams for those players. Each team is also responsible for paying $16 to the officials.

Some 25 teams participated in men's basketball last year. This season, teams will have the option of choosing which night they want to play. A Sunday afternoon league will also be offered.

Register in person or by mail at the Neighborhood Club, 17150 Waterloo, Grosse Pointe. A current club membership is required. For more information, call 885-4600.

Girls cross country

North's girls cross country team continued to run well as it finished first in the Regina Invitational last week.

Cara Colaluca took first place overall, while Katie Daniels, Argie Floyd, Julie Crociata and Katie Donahue also had strong finishes.

North also swept its Macomb Area Conference Blue Division meets with Mount Clemens and Clintondale as Carolyn Pruitt and Colaluca led the way. The Lady Norsemen finished sixth at the Schoensee Invitational in Center Line.

Girls tennis

North's girls tennis team took third place in the recent Macomb Area Conference Red Division tournament.

Two second-place finishes led the Lady Norsemen. Dawn Frontera was runner-up at No. 2 singles and Heather Hollidge and Kelly Bernhardt took second in their doubles flight.

North has received strong singles play from Frontera, Anne Corona, Tricia Morrow and Liz Norris. Sara Granda and Alysia Venettis have turned in solid doubles performances.

North football players a happy bunch again

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

The smiles have returned to Grosse Pointe North's football program.

"We've been a lot happier the last three weeks," said coach Frank Sumbera after the Norsemen posted their third straight lopsided victory, beating Macomb Area Conference Blue Division rival L'Anse Creuse North 39-0.

"We've really enjoyed the last three games," he said. "We've played some excellent football on both sides of the line."

North, now 3-3 overall, hasn't allowed a touchdown in its victories over L'Anse Creuse, Roseville and LCN. The only blemish was a field goal by Roseville in a 40-3 triumph.

North set a school record with 417 rushing yards against LCN. Fullback Steve Meathe, who scored two more touchdowns to increase his total to 14 for the season, had 223 yards in 17 carries. Hosa Peters, who replaced his brother Eric at tailback, added 148 yards in 11 tries. Eric missed the game with a deep gash in his hand, but he's expected to play in Saturday's homecoming contest against East Detroit.

The yardage total eclipsed the old mark of 361 yards against Wayne Memorial in 1972.

"The offensive line has been doing a great job," Sumbera said. "They're making good things happen. We felt that was our strong suit at the beginning of the year and they've been improving steadily."

Members of that line include Zac Hubbell, Donny Tocco, Tom Fennell, George Christensen, Fred Lovelace and tight end Rob Dallaire.

It took the Norsemen only two plays to score their first touchdown. Peters went 34 yards for the TD the first time he's touched the ball on offense this season. Mark Brewster added the first of his three extra points.

Meathe scored on a 53-yard run early in the second quarter and the Norsemen took a 19-0 halftime lead when Emmett DeGuvera passed 24 yards to Dallaire shortly before the intermission.

North continued its domination in the second half. A 32-yard pass from DeGuvera to Dallaire set up DeGuvera's one-yard touchdown run early in the third quarter. Moments later David Keenan recovered a fumble and on the first play from scrimmage, Meathe broke loose on a 78-yard touchdown run.

Mike Collins' interception — North's third of the game — set up the final TD when backup quarterback Steve Champine hit Dallaire with a 15-yard scoring strike.

North's defense held LCN to only 15 yards passing and the Crusaders added 56 yards on the ground. In addition to Collins' interception, Keenan and Wayne Ford also picked off passes.

Brandon Hacias and Nick Chapie each had eight tackles, with Chapie getting three behind the line of scrimmage.

Tim Northey had seven stops, while Ford, Dan Vormelker and Collins made six apiece.

"Most of the tackles were made by the linemen and linebackers," Sumbera said. "They seldom got a runner into the secondary. Our DBs could have almost taken the day off."

East Detroit poses an interesting problem for the Norsemen because of the Shamrocks' size.

"They're huge," Sumbera said. "They run a jumbo offense. It's nothing fancy, just power football. I think they're better than their 2-4 record."

The homecoming contest begins at 1 p.m.

Ford back has a better idea

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe South's football team knew what it had to do to beat Ford II last week, but the Falcons' Brian Krenzel had a better idea.

"We were well-schooled in their offense, but Krenzel wouldn't let us do what we had planned to do," Blue Devils' coach Mike McLeod said after Ford's 39-7 victory had spoiled South's homecoming.

Krenzel ran for a school-record 223 yards and scored three touchdowns, including one with 25 seconds remaining in the first half that broke the Blue Devils' backs.

"It seemed like we were an inch away or five yards away, depending on the play," McLeod said. "I couldn't believe how strong that kid is."

Krenzel had been Ford's starting quarterback during the first five games of the season, but he switched to tailback when the Falcons' starter at that position, Pat Shannon, was unable to practice last week because of a broken finger.

"We had planned on making the switch for our next game, but when Pat got hurt we did it a week earlier," said Ford coach Butch Wagner. "I think we're going to stick with the two-back formation."

The Falcons scored on two of their first three possessions. Ryan Arena opened the scoring on a six-yard run that was set up by Krenzel's 29-yard burst. The 65-yard drive from the opening kickoff took seven plays.

An interception by Ford's Eric Gerling set up the Falcons' second TD. He picked off Ryan McCartney's pass on a reverse at the Ford 28. Krenzel had runs of 26 and 24 yards before going up the middle for the final 10.

The crushing blow occurred when South fumbled at its own 13 and Ford's Mike Ruffino recovered with less than a minute to play in the first half. Three plays later, Krenzel scored on a nine-yard run and he passed to Gerling for the two-point conversion and a 20-0 halftime advantage.

"As long as we were down 12-0 I wasn't that concerned, but when they scored the touchdown just before the half, I knew we'd have trouble coming back," McLeod said.

South quarterback Todd Drake passed for 153 yards and now has thrown for 1,030 yards this season, but his effectiveness has been curbed by the Blue Devils' failure to stop the opposition early.

"When we get behind, everybody knows we have to throw the ball. That's going to hurt your passing game," McLeod said.

Ford built its lead to 26-0 on Brian Patalon's 48-yard touchdown run early in the second half.

South finally got on the scoreboard with 39 seconds left in the third quarter on an 11-yard pass from Drake to tight end Joe Vlasak, who made a leaping catch in the end zone.

Ford scored on a one-yard run by Krenzel midway through the fourth quarter and Shannon capped the scoring on a 54-yard scamper with 2:50 remaining.

There were some bright spots despite the defeat that left South with a 2-4 record.

"I thought John Wortman played a great game at middle linebacker," McLeod said. "He just never let up. And Paul Gentile has been real steady in the secondary in each of the last four games. Offensively, Eric Dahlstrom has been steadily improving in the offensive line. On one play he checked the linebacker when they faked a blitz, then picked up the defensive end. It was a heads-up play."

Running back Mike Hendrie had two long runs late in the game and McLeod said he would like to see more of him in that role. Bob Kazma also picked up some tough yards for South.

The Blue Devils hope to end their three-game skid Friday night when they visit Port Huron. The Big Reds provide a new challenge with their single-wing offense.

"It's tough to tell where the ball is on the film," McLeod said. "Sometimes you have a tendency to make too many changes when you play a team like that. I think the biggest mistake you can make is to get out of your basic stuff. They're 1-5 so they've beaten themselves a lot of times."

Silver medalists

Skipper Mike Uznis, left, and crew Mike Bianco, both of Grosse Pointe Park, won the silver medal at the U.S. Sailing/Rolex Junior Championships in Kemah, Texas. The 10-race regatta was hosted by the Texas Corinthian Yacht Club. Uznis and Bianco, who represented Bayview Yacht Club, sailed a 420 in the doublehanded division.

North chalks up two more wins

By Chuck Klönke
Sports Editor

Maureen Zolik wouldn't have to score a point to be a valuable member of Grosse Pointe North's girls basketball team, but since she does, Zolik adds a dimension that has made the Lady Norsemen the team to beat in the Macomb Area Conference White Division.

"She's a great defensive player and she takes care of the ball so well as our point guard, but we've had point guards before who could take care of the ball," said coach Gary Bennett after North beat two more MAC White rivals last week to improve to 4-0 in the league and 8-1 overall.

"What sets Maureen apart is that when she penetrates, she can finish off the play so well. That was the reason we were able to compete so well against Regina in the state tournament last year."

Zolik scored 12 points and had three assists and three steals in North's 50-31 victory over Anchor Bay. Earlier in the week, she had 10 points and eight steals when the Lady Norsemen rolled past Ford II 58-32.

North's victory against Anchor Bay featured outstanding performances by several players off the bench. Tanya Hamilton, Erin Peters, Jenny Champagne, Tanya Latinis and Molly Peters each made a significant contribution in a reserve role.

"I had just planned on playing them a few minutes because our starters weren't doing that well, but they did such a great job I left them in," Bennett said.

North led 12-6 at the end of the first quarter and extended the margin to 24-12 at halftime.

Sue Karber added 10 points, six rebounds and three steals for the Lady Norsemen.

Karber, North's 5-foot-11 center, had an excellent game against Ford II when she went head-to-head with the Falcons' 6-3 center and scored 15 points and grabbed 10 rebounds.

"Sue moves around real well," Bennett said. "And she got her points and rebounds in the first half and the first three minutes of the second half."

North jumped out to a 16-6 lead at the end of the first quarter and the Lady Norsemen were never challenged.

Kristen Loeher had 12 points, four steals and three assists and Erin Peters collected three steals and two assists.

Julie Grant, right, of University Liggett School has been one of the reasons the Lady Knights are battling for first place in the Metro Conference girls basketball race. Grant had an outstanding week as she scored 46 points in ULS' league wins against Hamtramck and Harper Woods.

Red Barons win two from Green Hornets

The Grosse Pointe Red Barons won two of their three games with the St. Clair Shores Green Hornets last Sunday, taking the freshman and junior varsity contests in the East Suburban Football League before the varsity lost 28-6.

Grosse Pointe's varsity fell behind 22-0 as St. Clair Shores was able to break several long gains and the Green Hornets stopped a Red Barons' drive at the Shores 12.

But Grosse Pointe didn't give up. After St. Clair Shores' third touchdown, Bronson Gentry had runs of 40 and 15 yards to take the Red Barons inside the Green Hornets' 15. Gentry later plunged in from the one to cut the halftime lead to 22-6.

The Red Barons mounted two sustained drives in the second half, but each time came up short on key plays and had to give up the football. St. Clair Shores scored its last touchdown in the final minutes of the game.

Offensive highlights for the Red Barons included three passes from quarterback Jimmy Louisell to end J.J. Kinkel. Gentry handled most of the ball-carrying duties, with help from Ted Swarthout and Danny Griesbaum.

Jon Paquin played well at center and also got off a couple of excellent punts. Helping out in the offensive line were Jeff Green, Jess Thibodeau, Joe Brennan, Bryan Kupets, Brian Granger, Shane Conlan and Cam Lovelace.

On defense, Will Solomon made a fine tackle on a fourth-down play to stop the Green Hornets. Grosse Pointe also had tackles from Larry Selvaggi, Ricky Pesta, Charlie Ingrassia, Adam Maloof, Jack Lucido, Joe Slavik and Jeff Janisse.

Grosse Pointe's junior varsity squad fared better, rolling up a 20-0 halftime lead on the way to a 26-0 victory.

Scott Koerber rushed for the Red Barons' first touchdown, then completed a 63-yard pass to Josh Lorence for the next score. Eric Dunlap and Lorence scored on runs of 15 and 11 yards, respectively, for Grosse Pointe's final two touchdowns. Koerber and Lorence converted extra points.

Grosse Pointe got strong blocking from Andy Delmege, Don Northey, Mike Cataldo, Mike Prieur, Matt Bedan, Jeff Tiede and Ray Andary. Noah Cheek played well at end, while Jeremy Linne and Eric Nichols each made several good runs. Quarterback Andy Hill had a good day and completed a 15-yard pass to Eddie Ahee.

Defensively, the Red Barons got tackles from Dunlap, J.T. Laga, P.J. Moir, Dean Cataldo, Nathan Richardson, Mark DiMambro, Steve Gotfredson and Ryan Fried. Devon Peters recovered a fumble.

The freshman team, consisting of fourth and fifth graders, posted a 34-21 victory. A critical play came early when Brian Malloy recovered a fumble at the Grosse Pointe five-yard line to stop a St. Clair Shores scoring threat.

K.C. Cleary scored four touchdowns and kicked a two-point conversion. Joe Herrmann got the Red Barons' other TD.

Matt Phillips and Kyle Hacias blocked well out of the backfield and Grosse Pointe got more good blocking from linemen Brian Schrage, Romel Askew, Marc Mathews and Barry Novak.

Haider Samhat played well on defense, Matt Jarboe recovered a fumble and Robbie Crandall intercepted a pass.

fer added a goal apiece. South suffered its first league setback last week when it dropped a 4-2 decision to Lake Shore.

"I was out of town and wasn't able to attend the game, but from what I hear it could have been 10-2," Christensen said. "I've said all along that Lake Shore might have the most talent in the league."

Travis Conlan scored all four goals for the Shorians, who led 2-0 at halftime. Ryan Messacar and Tim Reynaert tallied the South goals.

ULS is thriving in second period

By Chuck Klönke
Sports Editor

The second quarter has gone from doom time to boom time for University Liggett School's girls basketball team.

A disastrous second quarter led to the Lady Knights' only Metro Conference defeat when they played Lutheran East, but the second quarter was the key last week when ULS recovered to beat Metro foes Hamtramck and Harper Woods.

The Lady Knights trailed Hamtramck 7-5 after the first quarter, but outscored the Cosmos 16-6 in the second period on the way to a 38-27 victory.

"Hamtramck has improved quite a bit since last year and we weren't ready for them at the start," said ULS coach Mike Brozowski. "Once we got our wakeup call we played a lot better."

Senior Magda Chojnacka led the second-quarter outburst with eight of her 10 points.

Julie Grant, who led all scorers with 19 points, ignited a late spurt that sealed the win for the Lady Knights. She hit a three-point goal, then stole an in-bounds pass and scored on a layup to turn a seven-point lead into a 12-point advantage.

Grant also had eight steals and four assists. Jamila Hoard played an excellent defensive game against the Cosmos' leading scorer. Chojnacka and Sarah Childs each collected five rebounds.

The second quarter was also the turning point in ULS' 75-31 romp over Harper Woods.

The Lady Knights were clinging to a 15-14 lead after one quarter, but outscored the Pioneers 19-8 in the second as Grant tallied 11 points and Chojnacka added six. ULS kept rolling in the second half, scoring 27 points in the third quarter and closing with a 14-1 burst in the final period.

"We made some adjustments in the second quarter because their coach, Bob Ostrowski, was ready for our 1-3-1 defense," Brozowski said. "They worked the ball down the sidelines, so we adjusted to give us more coverage."

Grant turned in one of her top high-school performances.

"Julie had an unbelievable game with some college scouts watching," Brozowski said. "She missed only four shots all game. She did most of her scoring in the first half and then set up her teammates in the second."

Grant finished with 27 points, 14 steals and 11 assists. Chojnacka scored 17 points, Childs had nine, Stacey Corbin eight and Hoard six. Sarah Burnham added four points and a team-high six rebounds.

ULS, which is 4-1 in the Metro Conference and 7-3 overall, returns home tonight, Oct. 14, to play Lutheran Westland after five straight road contests.

ULS heads to regional as favorite

This is the weekend when the University Liggett School girls tennis team finds out if the tough competition it faced throughout the season will help the Lady Knights earn a trip to the state Class C-D championships.

ULS tuned up for the regional with a 4-3 loss to Birmingham Seaholm, which was ranked fourth in the state last week in Class A.

Friday's regional, which the Lady Knights will host, begins at 9 a.m. Other schools competing are Allen Park Cabrini, Ann Arbor Richard, Ann Arbor Greenhills, Bishop Gallagher and Riverview Richard.

"We shouldn't have too much trouble in the regional, but the state will be tougher with Country Day," said ULS coach Sarah Mayer. "We lost 4-3 in a dual meet with them earlier, this year, but I think we can beat them if we play well."

The highlight of the Seaholm match was sophomore Rachel Calderon's 6-2, 6-0 victory over the Maples' Shannon Koss at No. 3 singles.

"Calderon played with a lot of patience and determination," Mayer said. "She has improved so much from last year."

The Lady Knights also got a strong effort from Nicky Dalal and Allison Ridder at first doubles. They posted a 1-6, 6-3, 6-4 victory.

"This doubles team is improving with each match," Mayer said. "In this match, they both kept their feet moving and played with enthusiasm."

ULS' other victory came at No. 2 doubles where Katy Spicer and Dena Wright won 6-4, 6-0.

The Lady Knights were scheduled to play at Ann Arbor Huron last week, but the match was cancelled because of problems with the ULS van.

Knights' golf team reaches state meet

University Liggett School's golf team is headed to the state Class D finals for the first time in 10 years.

The Knights won the regional at Woodland Hills golf course in Sandusky with a 388 total score in windy, cold and rainy conditions.

ULS edged runner-up Carsonville-Port Sanilac by one point and was two strokes better than third-place Oakland Christian.

Knights' co-captain Tom Delisle tied for second among individual scorers with a 90. Kip Gotfredson shot a 92 to finish sixth. Gustaf Malmfors, Steve Fitzgerald and Dean Hartley rounded out the ULS scoring.

This weekend's finals will be held in Lansing. The first 18-hole round will be at the Groesbeck golf course on Friday. The second round will be at Michigan State's Forrest Akers golf course on Saturday.

Earlier, the Knights beat Cranbrook 172-174, as Delisle took medalist honors with a five-over-par 41 on the tough Wabek Country Club course. Gotfredson, Steve Pillon and Hartley also turned in good performances to help ULS post its first victory over Cranbrook in more than five seasons.

ULS also beat Oakland Christian 167-182 as Delisle shot a one-over-par 37, while Gotfredson and Pillon carded a 40 and 43, respectively.

Delisle also led the Knights with a five-over-par 42 in a 178-196 victory over Lutheran Northwest. Malmfors, a senior exchange student from Sweden, chipped in from 60 yards on the last hole for a 45, tying Pillon for second place in the match.

minutes remaining and Ver-cruysse beat Goudie on the short side with a hard shot from 15 yards out to ice the victory with 7:50 to play.

"We've been playing much better defensively in the last few games," Regelbrugge said. "When you fall behind early you're forced to do things you don't like to do. When you score first, you can play your type of game."

Semple scored twice in North's 5-0 victory over Warren-Mott, while Jeff Barlow, Ver-cruysse and Sean Schotthoe-

Lady Devils swim well in defeats

Grosse Pointe South's girls swimming team had some impressive performances in a pair of non-league defeats against perennial state powers.

Ann Arbor Pioneer beat the Lady Devils 108-78, but South's Megan O'Loughlin achieved a state-qualifying time of 2:18.62 in winning the 200-yard individual medley.

South also had firsts from Stephanie LaFond in the 50 freestyle (26.14), Kathryn Tusa in the 100 breaststroke (1:13.6) and the 200 freestyle relay team of LaFond, Elizabeth Bourke, Megan O'Loughlin and Erin O'Loughlin (1:45.95).

Bourke was second in the 200 freestyle (2:04.7) and third in the 500 (5:30.9). LaFond was runner-up in the 100 butterfly (1:05.4), Megan O'Loughlin was second in the 500 freestyle (5:29.2), and Andrea Perez took second in the 100 backstroke (1:04.3).

Lauren Beckenhauer was third in the 100 backstroke (1:07.7), while Kathy Storen took a fourth in the 100 butterfly (1:08.2) and Becca Walter was fourth in the 100 breaststroke (1:16.4). South also had a good performance from freshman Lindsay Adams in the 200 individual medley.

Farmington Mercy won the final relay to edge South 95-93 in a non-league meet.

Perez won the 100 backstroke in a state-qualifying time of 1:03.42.

South's other individual first came from LaFond in the 50 freestyle (25.86).

The Lady Devils won a pair of relays. The 200 medley team of Perez, Tusa, LaFond and Megan O'Loughlin had a first-place time of 1:59.82, while the 200 freestyle team of Lauren Rashid, LaFond, Bourke and Erin O'Loughlin won in 1:46.38.

Three freshman divers made a good showing for South as Carmie Tocco was second, Abby Burrows fourth and Missy Panizzi fifth.

Local facilities celebrate National Mammography Day

By Elizabeth Tallent
Special Writer

October has been designated Breast Cancer Awareness Month, and this year there will be an important new event — National Mammography Day, Oct. 19.

Area hospitals and centers will offer reduced rate mammograms to help encourage preventive care. Women who can't afford the total cost of a mammogram will find prices more affordable during the month of October.

Now, officials say, there is no real excuse for not getting checked for breast cancer, especially if you're over 35.

"At age 35 every woman should have a regular breast physical exam," said Dr. John H. Burrows, who practices in St. Clair Shores.

A mammogram can indicate to the doctor the health of the breast. A woman in the extremely low risk group doesn't have to have another until age 50, according to Burrows.

Risk parameters — how likely a woman is to develop breast cancer — will determine how often a mammogram should be done, Burrows said.

Two high risk parameters are: a family history of breast cancer (a mother, sister or maternal grandmother or aunt) and breast tissue that is firm or lumpy.

He also believes women should learn the correct techniques of breast self-exam.

Burrows said breast self-exam should be done at least three or four times a year when a woman is about mid-point of her menstrual cycle.

Bon Secours Hospital staff members will demonstrate breast self-exam with a realistic breast model (complete with identifying lumps) and give a certificate for a reduced-price mammogram at the hospital in the City of Grosse Pointe and their center in St. Clair Shores. The $75 certificate and the free demonstration will be at Jacobson's in Grosse Pointe, from 6 to 9 p.m. Thursday, Oct.

21, in the intimate apparel department.

Grosse Pointe Physicians X-ray Center is offering reduced rate mammograms on Tuesday, Oct. 19, National Mammography Day. The cost is $45. Appointments can be made between 7:50 a.m. and 8:30 p.m.

by calling 881-0411.

Lakeshore Mammography Center is accepting appointments for reduced-price mammograms on Oct. 19 from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The cost is $65. To make an appointment, call 884-3133.

Information about accredited mammography centers offering reduced rates can be obtained through the Susan G. Komen Foundation at 1-800-I'M AWARE.

"I have already gotten 30 calls about almost everything that has to do with breast cancer," said Mary Gratz, a Texas volunteer for the foundation.

Gratz said Susan Komen died of breast cancer in 1980 at the age of 36. Her sister, Nancy Brinker, started a foundation in Susan's name. Brinker is a breast cancer survivor.

The Susan Komen Foundation's mission is to eradicate breast cancer as a life-threatening disease by advancing research, education, screening and treatment.

The foundation has raised $13 million since 1982 and has funded 137 grants in basic science, clinical research, and educational screening projects.

Women with a history of breast cancer or who are over 50 should have a mammogram every year.

"There is an indication that breast cancer is on the rise," said Burrows. "Whether we are just catching it or whether it is because the population is aging and life expectancy is into the 70s — there is definitely an increase."

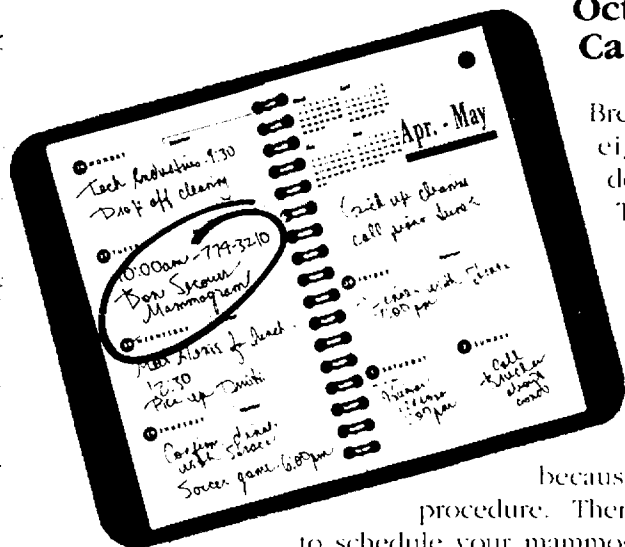

Burrows said that what is of concern is the suspected increase in the younger population.

"Everybody thinks they are not going to get it," said Donna Rademacher, Burrows' office manager. "They might not find a nodule, but the longer you go from the point where it could have been detected, the worse off you may be. Women don't think about it until they see someone else go through it."

Make An Appointment. Not An Excuse.

October Is National Breast Cancer Awareness Month

Breast cancer is a reality facing one in eight women today, a fact that demands your attention at any age. The mammogram is the single best screening method available, detecting up to 90% of early breast cancers. And early detection can mean early cure. Call a Bon Secours physician today for a breast exam appointment and a prescription for your mammogram, because only your doctor can order the procedure. Then, call Bon Secours at 313 774-3210 to schedule your mammogram. Each of our two accredited testing facilities offers dignified care using high-tech, low radiation mammography equipment.

Education, and taking personal responsibility for yourself, are key to your wellness at every stage of life. Because when it comes to breast cancer, what you don't know can hurt you. So please, empower yourself. By getting educated. Getting prepared. And getting examined.

For more information, and a physician referral, call Bon Secours Women's HealthCare at 1-800/303-7314.

Murray-O'Connor

Caitlin Anne Murray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Murray of Grosse Pointe Farms, married Paul Kennedy O'Connor of Seattle, son of Dr. and Mrs. Daniel O'Connor Jr. of Acton, Mass., on June 26, 1993, at St. Paul Catholic Church.

The Rev. James Bilot officiated at the 11 a.m. ceremony, which was followed by a reception at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club.

zer lilies, white sweetheart roses, Queen Anne's lace, stephanotis, baby's breath and ivy.

The bride's sister, Bridget Murray of Grosse Pointe Farms, was the maid of honor.

Junior bridesmaids were Nicole Freund of Farmington Hills and Jennifer Stockwell of Franklin, Tenn.

Attendants wore tea-length pink floral print dresses with navy blue backgrounds and straw garden hats. They carried sprays of pink roses, baby's breath and ivy.

The groom's brother, Daniel O'Connor III of Chelmsford, Mass., was the best man.

Groomsmen were the groom's brother, Joseph O'Connor of Acton; the bride's brother, James Murray of Grosse Pointe Farms; Patrick Murray of Cincinnati; Whitman Knapp of Brookline, Mass.; Thomas Proctinow of New Haven, Conn.; Peter Hopkins of Natick, Mass.; and Michael Cooney of Bloomfield Hills.

The mother of the bride wore a pale pink silk suit with pearl and braid trim and carried a long-stemmed white rose.

The groom's mother wore a gray silk dress and carried a long-stemmed white rose.

Scripture readers were the groom's sister, Christine Barrett O'Connor, and Margaret Khayat. Musicians were Barbara Ogar, flute; Karolyn Yerville, harp; Gordon Simmons, trumpet; David Wagner, organ; and Gail Mitchell, soloist.

The bride graduated from Harvard University with a bachelor of arts degree. She is a management consultant with Deloitte & Touche.

The groom graduated from Harvard University with a bachelor of arts degree and is an MBA candidate at the University of Washington.

Geist-Keller

Julie Anne Geist, daughter of Patricia Raynal of Grosse Pointe City, married Brett James Keller, son of Marion Jolly of Sydney, Australia, on May 21, 1993, at the Grosse Pointe Academy Chapel.

The Rev. Bohdan Kosicki of St. Lucy's parish officiated at the 5 p.m. Mass, which was followed by a reception at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

The bride wore a white satin gown with a portrait neckline, sheath skirt and a detachable cathedral-length train. Her full-length veil was held in place by a headband of white satin roses. She wore full-length white satin gloves and carried a bouquet of white tulips, roses, stephanotis and ivy.

Mr. and Mrs. Brett James Keller

Bridesmaids were the bride's sisters, Susan Geist of St. Clair Shores and Christine Geist of Virginia Beach, Va.; and Alex Kelly Hauser of Los Angeles.

Chrissy Lamberti of Petoskey was the flowergirl and Anthony Reda of Virginia Beach was the ringbearer.

Attendants wore black lace street-length cocktail dresses with long, sheer sleeves and carried bouquets of white roses, peach tulips and ivy. The flowergirl wore a tea-length white dress accented with a peach ribbon belt.

The best man was Ross Macdonald of Sydney.

Groomsmen were Dr. Michael Charles of Sydney; Ian Macdonald of Tokyo, Japan; and Mark Saurbier of Royal Oak.

The mother of the bride wore a black satin and lace tea-length gown and carried a bouquet of peach and white roses and ivy.

Readers were Miga Rossetti of Portland, Ore., and Bayard King of Grosse Pointe.

The bride graduated from Wayne State University with a bachelor of science degree in fashion design and merchandising. She is the manager of The Starters Shop at Birch Run.

The groom graduated from Wayne State University with a bachelor of science degree in electro/mechanical engineering. He is the assistant chief engineer at Michigan Sugar Refinery in Saginaw.

The newlyweds honeymooned on Mackinac Island with their visitors from Australia. They live in Saginaw.

Metry-Brace

Tracey Anne Metry of Ann Arbor, daughter of Frederick and Alice Metry of Grosse Pointe Park, married Charles Loring Brace V, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Loring Brace IV of Ann Arbor, on July 31, 1993, in Ann Arbor.

The Rev. Steve Auerbach of Ann Arbor officiated at the ceremony, which was planned by the bride and groom. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents on Aug. 7.

The bride wore the wedding gown of her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Salim Metry, and a crown of flowers. The gown featured a lace shawl-style bodice, dropped waist, and a tea-length skirt with a lace handkerchief-point hem.

The bride's attendants were Lisa Duncan and Pat Calderone.

Groomsmen were Drew Hart and Dan Calderone. The groom's son, Charles Loring Brace VI, was the ringbearer.

Dollars for ducks

The Theatre Arts Club of Detroit opens its 83rd season Oct. 22 with a comedy, "Opal's Million Dollar Duck," by John Patrick. The play centers on a work of art that is worth a fortune and what people will do to inherit it. Before the curtain rises, Marie Carpenter, president of the club, will welcome members and their guests. The cast consists of Mary Belanger, Ann Diebel, Jean Dickinson and Nancy McCullough. The director of the play is Gigi Gigani. The producer is Margaret Guertler. Holding the book is Irene Blatchford.

The Theatre Arts chorale ensemble, under the direction of Audry Jennings, will open the program singing the traditional Theatre Arts Song.

Gardening through the ages explored

Interior Landscapes: Gardens and the Domestic Environment

By Ronald Rees

The Johns Hopkins University Press. 190 pages. $32.95

Ronald Rees, adjunct professor of geography at Mount Allison University in New Brunswick, has undertaken the absorbing task of investigating the nature relationships between various buildings and the outdoors.

His introduction reveals that "the objective of this book, then, is to show how persistent landscape has been as a motif in decorative art and to explain the significance of this."

Further, Rees states: "In essence, 'Interior Landscapes' is an extended essay based on a wide-ranging survey of the evolution of landscape and decorative art in the Mediterranean, continental Europe, and especially Britain and North America. As a motif in decorative art, landscape has persisted to the present, but with diminished vitality. Abstract tendencies in art have discouraged naturalistic representation of landscape. Nature, too, has lost much of its symbolic and emblematic meaning. And because we can now create interiors that are warm and well lighted, we no longer feel compelled to bring the outside inside."

Decorative art, Rees writes, is chiefly a product of cities or of urbanized societies. In Europe it began in Crete. By the beginning of the second millennium before Christ, the cities of Minoan Crete were large enough to set people apart from wild nature, and, protected by the sea and a powerful fleet, they were secure enough for the practice of decorative art. No fortress walls restricted views of the countryside, and by framing those views, the openings of doors and windows and the angular lines of streets and porticoes enhanced them.

At the same time, walls of alabaster in the courts and palaces presented settings well enough defined to invite decoration.

Early Roman civilization was strongly influenced by Greek culture. Not until then "were there consistent expressions of feeling for landscape."

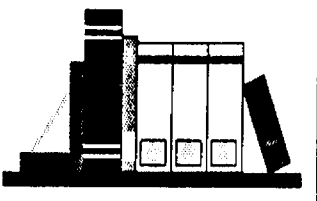

Also, for them, "the ideal habitat was one in which a house, garden, and large landscape were connected. Town houses were built around gardens and courtyards, and the rooms opened onto them." Clement weather, therefore, allowed "distinctions between inside and outside (to be) deliberately broken down, and where symbiosis was not physically possible, it was achieved by illusion."

During the Middle Ages, monks were the foremost practitioners of gardens: "The life of monastic communities centered on the cloister, where the monks gathered, meditated, and studied. To make the space pleasant, they turned it into an ornamental garden by creating minor Edens the monks sanctified the space and at the same time prepared themselves for the heavenly gardens in the world to come."

In the same era, "by present day standards, castles and fortified manor houses were cold, dark, and comfortless." So, "from tentative beginnings with trails of leaves and sprays of flowers, decoration eventually encompassed trees and entire gardens." Tapestry now emerged as the prime decorative art. The growing skill of weavers and needleworkers were able to capture lovely scenes of all aspects of nature, abounding with domestic and wild animals along with plants to enliven the bare, white-washed walls of manors and castles.

As the Tudor era was ushered in, more changes were made in gardens and decorative art: "A decorative extensions of the house, gardens were dressed to match the mood of the entertainments" which regaled peers and the upper class alike. "Skilled gardeners and handymen could easily make out-door 'rooms' that resembled

BIBLIO-FILE

By Elizabeth P. Walker

the chambers, and even the long galleries of Elizabethan houses. High green hedges spangled with blossoms or trellis-work hung with greenery and flowers substituted for tapestries, and quaint topiary shapes for high-standing furniture." The Victorians especially appreciated the combined graces of nature and art. As Virginia Woolf pointed out in her novel, Orlando: "Brightly colored Berlin woodwork was spread over tables, chairs, stools, pianos, screens and walls in an effort to dispel the great cloud that during the 19th century seemed permanently suspended over the British Isles. Cold, moist air found its way into every house, and to defend against it, walls and furniture were covered with woven or embroidered cloth, rugs were strewn on floors, and beards grown on faces; nothing was left bare."

was also a favorite American subject. Just as English tastes in landscape crossed the Atlantic, so too did the English sense of property and prospect. But in North America the same forms did not always carry the same associations. Whereas in England sweeping lawns and extensive pastures were in part nostalgic reminders of a pastoral golden age, in the United States they were symbols of material progress. In a continent where the forest was thick and rank, a clearing was a hard-won luxury, a successful transformation of the wilderness."

In conclusion, Rees indicates that "disenchantment with technology and the current interest in ecology and the environment have also heightened enthusiasm for both outdoor and indoor gardening."

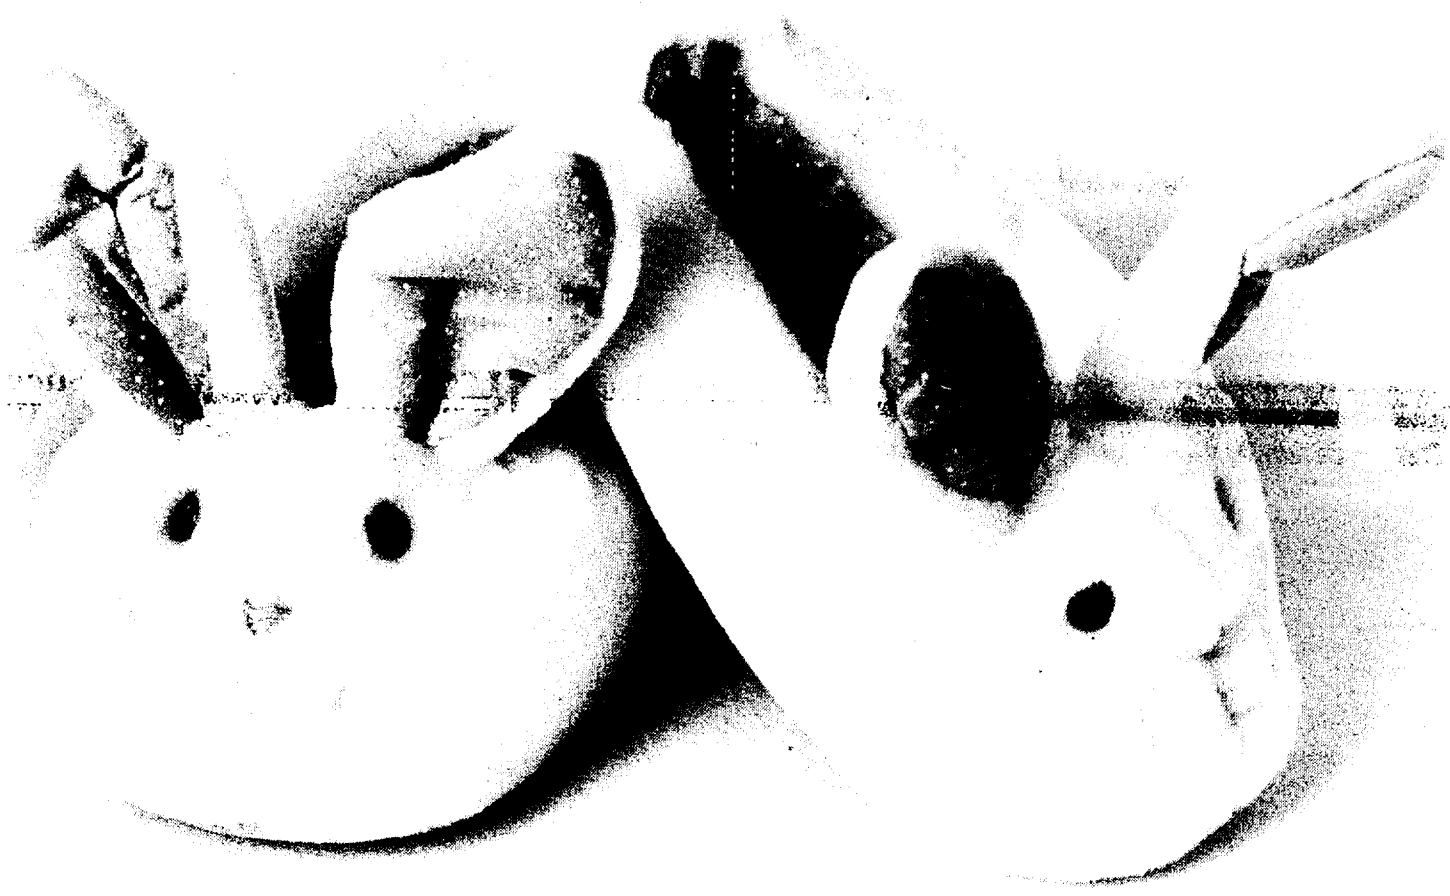

While this book is generously illustrated with many black-and-white photographs, the lack of color pictures is a real flaw. Not to see some of the beautiful tapestries, wall paper, other hangings, gardens, and dwellings in magnificent color is a serious lack in this otherwise estimable book. That is my only quibble of a fine publishing effort.

Old world jewelry

Sergio Barcena of Grosse Pointe Park will demonstrate making Mexican design jewelry, and sell his work at the Original Old World Market held at the Southfield Civic Center Friday through Sunday, Oct. 15-17. Ethnic entertainment will also be onstage at the festival which includes more than 40 import shopping booths and international food. Call 871-8600 for more information.

Few things you can wear feel this good.

When you wear this pin it means you have chosen to contribute generously to the United Way. It means your money is working hard to help 1.7 million people in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties. Unemployed people. The elderly. The abused. Troubled youths. Homeless people, too. By contributing to the United Way, you help all of them—and many more—make their lives just a little better. And nothing else feels as good as that except, perhaps, your favorite pair of slippers. So please give generously to the United Way again this year and wear your pin with a grin.

Cottage Hospital Auxiliary's Holiday Mart is Oct. 22-23

The Gift Shop Guild of the Cottage Hospital Auxiliary will hold its annual Holiday Mart from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday, Oct. 22, and from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 23, in the lower level boardrooms of Cottage Hospital, 159 Kercheval in Grosse Pointe Farms.

Del Jennings, chairman of the benefit, reports that buyers have collected oodles of holiday merchandise, including toys, wreaths, ornaments, decorations, infant items, cards, stationery, baked goods and "treasures-n-trifles."

The group's popular Holiday Mart Raffle boasts a top prize of $500 cash; second prize is four box seats for the 1994 Detroit Tiger season; third prize is a mountain bike. Raffle tickets are $1; six for $5; or a book of 12 for $10. They're available at the Cottage Gift Shop or from any auxiliary member.

Proceeds from the 1993 Holiday Mart are earmarked for the emergency enhancement and patient services lobby development project. The new lobby, which is scheduled to open at the end of October, will include a new, bigger and better gift shop.

Sing along: The Michigan Opera Theatre Volunteer Association, a new group of opera supporters, will be governed by a board-appointed volunteer association committee led by Grosse Pointer Gloria A. Clark.

The organization will build upon the company's strong volunteer base, Clark said, and anticipates the launch of the Detroit Opera House. Under Clark's leadership are several dozen volunteer sub-groups, including the Opera League of Detroit, Friends of the Ballet, a general event support group, an education and outreach committee, the Opera Boutique, the MOT Movers, opera house ambassadors and ushers and more. Each group will have both a "fundraising" and a "fun-draising" function, Clark said.

Events already planned for the 1993-94 season include an opening night dinner Friday, Oct. 29, a mid-winter fashion show, a mystery party in March, another opening night dinner in April and a Cinderella celebration luncheon in May.

For more information about these events or any other MOT volunteer activities, call the MOTVA office at 874-7850.

Magical evening: The Metropolitan Ballet Theatre, Detroit's first professional dance troupe, offered a fairy tale evening last week with its premiere performance, "A Midsummer Night's Dream" at the Music Hall Center.

More than 1,200 people watched the opening night performance which was preceded by a short piece, "Pas Classique Hongrois."

The evening began with a gala at the Detroit Athletic Club hosted by John and Marlene Boll and Art and Mary Ann Van Elslander, all of Grosse Pointe Shores. Co-chair of the event was Grosse Pointer Sandra Baer. Also in attendance were Leonard and Sybil Jacques, Kim and Mado Lie and Mary Beth and John Jagger, all Grosse Pointers.

The season will continue Nov. 10-14 with "Allegro Brillante" choreographed by the legendary George Balanchine and "Carmina Burana," an evening of contemporary ballet Feb. 10-13; and the beloved "Giselle" April 7-10.

Call 963-5858 for more information.

U of D Mercy award:

Art and Mary Ann Van Elslander of Grosse Pointe Shores received the University of Detroit Mercy's President's Cabinet Award, given for their lifetime of commitment to philanthropic and community causes.

The award is among the highest bestowed by the university. Other honorees were the Most Rev. Adam J. Maida, archbishop of Detroit, and Dr. Charles F. Whitten, program director of the Wayne State comprehensive sickle cell center.

Goodfellows tribute:

The Van Elslanders will be honored again at 8 p.m. Friday, Oct. 22, at the Westin Hotel, at the Goodfellows Tribute Breakfast IV. Art and Mary Ann Van Elslander will receive the 1993 Goodfellow of the Year award in recognition of their outstanding contributions to Detroit and the community.

The event also will raise money and kick off the fundraising drive for the Old Newsboys' Goodfellow Fund of Detroit, which, for 80 years, has worked to be sure there is no child without a Christmas. The Goodfellows' goal this year is $1.1 million to provide 44,000 holiday gift packages to be given to approximately one out of three Detroit public school kids.

So... that's why tickets for the breakfast are $125. For ticket information, call Bill Coudriet at 961-3355 or Sidney Lutz at 961-3030.

Bravo: The Detroit Symphony Orchestra and conductor Neeme Jarvi have released a new compact disc, "Encore!" For now, it's available exclusively through the Detroit Symphony Orchestra Hall Volunteer Council and proceeds will benefit DSOH. CDs are $18; cassettes are $12.

To order "Encore!" send a check or money order to DSOH,

Among the Grosse Pointers who attended a gala at the Detroit Athletic Club Oct. 7, celebrating the Metropolitan Ballet Theatre's first performance, were, from left, Joseph Valentic, Marlene and John Boll, and Mary Ann and Art Van Elslander.

400 Buhl Building, 535 Griswold Street, Detroit, 48226. Include $2 for shipping and $1 extra for each additional item ordered. The recording may also be purchased at the Music Box Boutique at Orchestra Hall during concerts. For more information, call 962-1000.

Thank you note: A check for $250 was donated to Dominican High School by Hudson's in honor of the outstanding volunteer service rendered to the school by Grosse Pointer Betty Magee, a sales consultant at Hudson's Eastland.

Hudson's Volunteer Involvement Program recognizes the volunteer commitments made by its employees. Magee has spent the last four years teaching a one-hour-a-week class on social etiquette to Dominican High School students.

See Second City first:

Laugh-seekers can help children and families of the Ronald McDonald House of Detroit and see Detroit's new Second City comedy group at the same time.

A benefit for the Ronald McDonald House will begin at 5 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 6, with a full course dinner at Risata, a new restaurant in the Second City building. The Second City performance will begin at 8 p.m. Tickets are $150. Parking will be provided.

Ronald McDonald House of Detroit provides lodging and support services for families of sick children at Children's Hospital of Michigan.

For tickets to the fundraiser, or for more information, call 745-5911 by Friday, Oct. 22.

Ride 'em: Pony rides at Allemon's Landscape Co., 17727 Mack Avenue, on Sunday, Oct. 17, will benefit the Children's Home of Detroit.

Stop smoking

Cottage Hospital's pulmonary services department is now providing an opportunity for people wishing to quit smoking. The "Staying Stopped" program is for individuals who desire to quit smoking and may be considering using "patch" nicotine replacement therapy.

Classes are Wednesdays at 7 p.m. in Room 213 of Cottage Hospital, 159 Kercheval in Grosse Pointe Farms.

People can enter the program on any Wednesday — whenever they are most motivated to quit.

St. Joseph's Home plans fall bazaar

St. Joseph's Home for the Aged, 4800 Cadieux in Detroit, will hold its annual fall bazaar on Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 16 and 17. Sponsored by the St. Joseph's Carmelite Guild volunteers, all proceeds help the sisters maintain and improve the home, which houses 104 aged residents.

Items for sale at the bazaar will include estate jewelry, attic treasures, Christmas decorations, better-quality used clothing, small furnishings, home-baked goodies, fashion jewelry, painted pumpkins and plants.

The Pastor's Corner Windows and mirrors

By the Rev. Jack Ziegler
Grosse Pointe Woods Presbyterian Church

Sunday: As one who loves nature and admires Thoreau, taking a long walk in the woods on a beautiful day seems to me at first blush a splendid alternative to worship. But then I chanced upon these lines from Clifton Wolters: "(Worship) . . . is not the pleasant reaction to a celestial sunset, nor is it the perpetual twitter of heavenly birdsong. It is not even an emotion. It is the awareness of God, known and loved at the core of one's being." So I go to church.

I also take long walks in the woods.

Monday: Another funeral. And with each one my confidence in the love of God for all God's creatures deepens. Yet, the anguished grief of loved ones always wounds me in a way that never heals. "The crisis of the sorrow of so many years is all that tires me." — Emily Dickinson

Tuesday: "As our addictions progress, our values regress." This quotation from Anne Wilson Schaefer jumped out at me today. Addictions, in their many forms, seem to lead one from the high road to the low road, to the lower road, to the lowest road.

Wednesday: In the midst of the most trying times one needs a good laugh. Somehow the following saying, though having a serious side, always makes me laugh: "What you have become is the price you paid to get what you used to want."

Thursday: How did I not know that Van Gogh was an astute theologian as well as a brilliant artist? It is so humbling to discover in the midst of an information explosion that one knows so little. How wonderful it would be, however, if there were also a wisdom explosion to keep pace with that of knowledge.

Friday: Words from a poem by Lois Wyse greeted me on a little-worn path of my memory recently:

And found a lonely shell
Scatched by seas and Sands of time. I, too, am a lonely shell.
Hold me close
And you will hear
The ocean roar.

Saturday: A family in my congregation gave me the newly released work of Henry Thoreau entitled, "Faith in a Seed." It is filled with the rich language and wonderful insights for which Thoreau is known:

"Though I do not believe that a plant will spring up where no seed has been, I have great faith in a seed. Convince me that you have a seed there, and I am prepared to expect wonders."

Someone else said something about having faith like a grain of mustard seed. And He expects great wonders of us.

St. Paul Altar Society plans fall fashion show

The St. Paul Altar Society will present its 46th annual fashion show and luncheon on Thursday, Oct. 21, at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club.

This year's theme, "Fashion Flashback," was chosen because St. Paul Catholic Church was recently designated a historic site. The Theatre Arts group and members of the parish have loaned fashions to provide a retrospective look at clothes worn in the early decades of the 20th century.

Walton Pierce and Young

Clothes will present a show of the latest fashions for women and children.

Raffle and door prizes will include a diamond and amethyst ring, weekend trips, a gold watch, a painting of your home and more. Monsignor F. Gerald Martin, pastor of St. Paul Church, will give the invocation. Mrs. Roger Hull is chairman of the show. Mrs. Walter B. Fisher is president of the Altar Society.

St. Paul Church plans Memorial Mass

A Memorial Mass honoring the Rev. Patrick Peyton, internationally known "Rosary Priest," will be at 3 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 17, at St. Paul Catholic Church, 157 Lakeshore in Grosse Pointe Farms.

Peyton died June 3, 1992. His successful radio program, begun in 1947, led to a weekly "Family Theater Radio" series which featured many Hollywood stars. He also began the first Family Rosary Crusade, which eventually spread across six continents: His often-quoted message: "The family that prays together, stays together."

Bishop Walter J. Schoenherr of the Archdiocese of Detroit will be the main celebrant at the Memorial Mass and the Rev. Robert Brennan, national director of the Family Rosary Organization in the United States, will share news of projects and plans of "Family Rosary." A reception will follow.

For more information, call 885-6219 or 468-5298.

Grace Church marks anniversary

Grace United Church of Christ, 1175 Lakepointe in Grosse Pointe Park, celebrates its 69th anniversary at 10:30 a.m. Sunday, Oct. 17. A pot luck will be served.

Executive seminar to be held in St. Clair

The Executive Seminar is an opportunity for couples and singles to take time out in a relaxed setting to examine how to apply their faith while facing life's daily pressures.

The group will hold its ninth annual fall weekend event Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 22-24, at the St. Clair Inn in St. Clair.

Speakers will include Bart Tarman, faculty member at Westmont College in Santa Barbara, Calif. Tarman has worked extensively with high school students, providing spiritual guidance and leadership.

The other speaker, Ann Shields, is an author and international evangelist. Shields has lectured all over the world. Her books include "Fire in My Heart" and "God Answers Prayers."

The Executive Seminar was organized in 1984 by a group of local business and professional leaders and their wives. In addition to listening to nationally recognized speakers, participants also share experiences that have changed their own lives.

Hosts for the weekend are John and Marlene Boll, Allen and Francis Carter, Bryce and Melissa Gray, Frederick and Beverly Harris, James and Arlyne Lane, Peter and Maureen Mercier, John and Suzanne Nicholson, Richard and Donald Roberts and Michael and Nancy Timmis.

For more information about the seminar, call Susan Graham at 396-4200.

Christ Church Solo plans dinner

Solo, a social group for mature singles at Christ Church Grosse Pointe, will hold its second annual Blanket Party beginning at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 21, at Miller Hall. Dinner will be served at 7:30.

The party has a dual purpose. It's a dinner and social gathering for local singles. And the collection of blankets, sheets, pillows, comforters, mattress pads (new and used) and cash will be donated to Crossroads.

Solo is open to single adults from the Grosse Pointe churches that are members of the Lay Theological Academy: Christ Church, St. Paul Catholic Church, Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, St. Paul Evangelical Lutheran Church and Our Lady Star of the Sea Catholic Church.

Prepaid reservations must be received at the Christ Church office by Tuesday, Oct. 19. For more information, call 885-4841 or 885-7851.

Life after Divorce series is for women

The life-changing experience of divorce will be the topic of a seven-week support group for women, "New Directions: Life After Divorce," which will begin Wednesday, Oct. 20, at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, 16 Lakeshore.

Sessions will be from 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesdays in Room 304 of the church and the program is open to all women in the community. Participants will exchange experiences and concerns and learn and pray together as they tackle life as singles. A follow-up program will begin after the Christmas holidays.

Presbyterian Women to hear speaker

The next meeting of Presbyterian Women of Grosse Pointe Memorial Church will be at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday, Oct. 19, at the church, 16 Lakeshore in Grosse Pointe Farms.

The speaker will be Dr. David V. Esterline, a lecturer on biblical studies who is currently on leave from Pacific Theological College on the Fijian island of Vitu Levu.

Ann Raphael will lead the day's devotions and Linda Gregg will offer the blessing before lunch. For luncheon or child care reservations, call 882-5330.

Classes to discuss family relationships

A four-week program for people who want to learn to deal with the causes of family conflict, get along better and maintain good relationships began Monday, Oct. 11, from 6:30 to 8 p.m. at the Warren office of Catholic Services of Macomb (CSM), 12434 12 Mile, east of Hoover.

Linda Tansil will discuss issues of rivalry, jealousy, praise and discipline. The cost is $10 a session. For information and registration, call 558-7551.

Free stop-smoking classes at St. John

at 7 p.m. at St. John Hospital and Medical Center, 22101 Moross at Mack. To register, call 1-800-237-5646.

Celebrate Oktoberfest and pork out

Guten appetit. Oktoberfest is here. And that means plenty of good German food, tradition and drink can't be far behind.

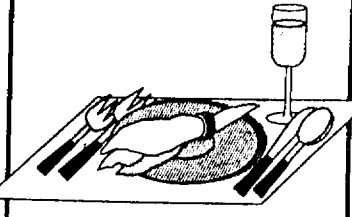

It's the perfect time of year to start cooking with a German accent because the best part about Oktoberfest is that you don't have to be German to experience gemütlichkeit.

The celebration began in 1810 with a horse race in honor of the marriage of Crown Prince Ludwig of Bavaria to Princess Therese van Saxe-Hildburghausen.

Over the years it became a tribute to the beer brewed in southern Bavaria. It usually begins in late September and continues into October. As soon as the lord mayor of Munich opens the first barrel of beer, the 16-day festival begins.

Thousands of citizens and tourists drink beer and participate in the folk costume parade in which brewery horses draw the bandwagons, floats and decorated beer wagons. This festival draws more than 10 million visitors from throughout Germany and abroad. Munich's great fairground, the Theresienwiese (named after Prince Ludwig's bride Therese) is crowded with gigantic beer tents, furnished with long tables and devoted to fraternal drinking, singing and dancing to the sounds of Bavarian bands.

During the 16-day orgy of beer and food the revelers consume 13 million 12-ounce glasses of beer, more than a million sausages, more than 400,000 roast chickens, 50 tons of fish, pork and scores of whole oxen roasted on spits.

There are ways to get a taste of the tradition without having to dress the part or partake in the polka. The flavor of Oktoberfest can easily be captured around the dinner table.

Pork has always been a delicious part of the cooking in Germany. Ribs can make a tasty transition from summer grilling to full meals. For an authentic German flavor, try simmering them with some sauerkraut, onions, apples and brown sugar.

potato salad, dilled cucumber salad and a fresh loaf of rye bread.

Oktoberfest Ribs

- 2 pounds pork spare ribs
- 2 jars 32 oz. sauerkraut, drained
- 2 yellow onions, peeled and cut in half
- 2 tart green apples, cored and wedged
- 1/4 c. brown sugar

8 juniper berries or 1 T caraway seed

Layer ingredients into a large Dutch oven in this order: sauerkraut, onions, apples, brown sugar (sprinkle evenly over) and ribs. If using juniper berries or caraway seed, bury them evenly in sauerkraut layer.

Bring to a boil, lower heat, cover and simmer gently for 2-3 hours, until ribs are very tender. Serves six.

Audition Notices

Audition

The Detroit area district auditions for the Metropolitan Opera Theatre will be held Saturday, Nov. 6 in the Community Arts Auditorium of Wayne State University. Young singers are encouraged to compete for the opportunity to advance to the national competition at the Metropolitan Opera in New York.

The national auditions take place at the Metropolitan Opera during the spring season. At that time regional winners will be brought to New York for several days of coaching under the guidance of the Metropolitan Opera's artistic staff. They will then audition (with piano) before members of the Metropolitan musical staff. Each finalist will be awarded $1,000. National winners will continue to coach with the Met's artistic staff and will appear in the winners concert on the stage of the Metropolitan Opera before an audience. The finalists can perform duets, ensembles or solo arias. National winners will receive $10,000.

The Detroit area district auditions are being sponsored by the Michigan Opera Theatre, The Arnoldt Williams Music Company and Wayne State University. For more information, call 477-8629.

Harris returns in benefit

Tony- and Emmy-winning actress Julie Harris will perform in "Dear Liar" at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Oct. 18, at the Fries Auditorium at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. The performance is a benefit for the Sesquicentennial Drive of Christ Church Detroit. Alvin Epstein will co-star in the play which is based on the correspondence between George Bernard Shaw and his favorite actress, Stella Campbell. Harris, a native Grosse Pointer, said her family's long association with Christ Church Detroit prompted her return to the War Memorial.

Patron tickets are available for $75 which includes an afterglow with the two actors. Sponsor tickets are $50 and general tickets are $25. Call 259-6688.

DSO report:

Moving concert of elegies is tribute to Tchaikovsky

By Alex Suczek
Special Writer

There was a rare and touching unity to last weekend's performances by Maestro Jarvi and the DSO.

Both works on the program related to the death of Tchaikovsky and expressed powerful sentiments regarding the composer's turbulent life and the void he left, especially for his protegee, Sergei Rachmaninoff.

The first work was "Concerto Elegiaque" which has been orchestrated from a trio that Rachmaninoff composed to celebrate his mentor's memory. Pianist Alan Kogosowski, who did the orchestration, also performed the work.

The music reflects the composer's youth at the time (he was 20) and only anticipated the glorious melodies and passionate harmonizations for which audiences love his later works. It is, nonetheless, a beautiful piece of music and fascinating in its anticipation of Rachmaninoff's great creativity. It is filled with a sense of tragic loss and lush expressions of the romantic tradition.

Kogosowski's performance was rich in feeling and tastefully in keeping with the sentiments of the music, totally free of display or histrionics. It made an apt prelude to the performance that followed.

The "Pathetique" Symphony, Tchaikovsky's sixth, premiered only eight days before his death and is viewed by some biographers as having been composed as his own requiem. The work is a panorama of life with many periods of foreboding and unease, several gorgeous, lyrical melodies and episodes of excitement and brief joy. It is easily one of the greatest masterworks of the romantic era.

It is also Jarvi's metier. His superb command of the orchestral forces combined with an inspired interpretation of this symphony produced a performance that brought this exceedingly familiar music a new freshness, vitality and conviction.

The third movement, with its driving energy and, for a short time, upbeat mood, was so exhilarating that it prompted a spontaneous outburst of applause, interrupting the soulful opening of the Adagio. Inappropriate, perhaps, but a clear expression of how deeply the Friday morning audience was touched.

The concert was ultimately an eloquent memorial to the emergence of one great composer and the passing of another. Maestro Jarvi closed the thought with a sensitive encore performance of Rachmaninoff's well known "Vocalise."

This weekend's concerts begin tomorrow morning with guest conductor Paavo Berglund leading the orchestra in "Mother Goose" by Ravel and the Symphony No. 2 by Brahms.

Two different violin concertos make the rest of the concerts. On Friday morning, principal second violinist Geoffrey Applegate will perform the "Vieuxtemps" violin concerto. On Saturday and Sunday evenings, Itzhak Perlman will play the Sibelius violin concerto. For times and tickets, call 833-3700.

Youtheatre at Music Hall announces season

Youtheatre at Music Hall Center opens its 1993-94 season of live performances for young people and families with the antics of The Potato People on Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 16 and 17.

It is the first of 12 different weekend shows Youtheatre will present at Music Hall, while Youtheatre's Puppets at the DIA series is scheduled for six Saturdays at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Youtheatre's 30-year commitment to quality shows has made it a center of professional live performances on weekends for the general public and, during the school week, a choice destination for school field trips. Total attendance at Youtheatre programs last year exceeded 170,000.

All the season's shows are chosen to captivate and challenge the imagination of young audiences, whether they involve the monkey business of "Curious George," the mystery of "The Lion, the Witch & the Wardrobe" or the Ishangi Family's authentic music and dance of West Africa to celebrate Black History Month. Other shows range from the excitement of achieving goals — "Little Women," "Ugly Duck," and "Young Abe Lincoln" to the glittering musical fantasy of Prince Street Players' "Aladdin."

Youtheatre's public performances are grouped by appropriate age range into three series of six shows each. The series are the Wiggle Club (age 3 and older), the Movin' Up Club (recommended for age 7 and older) and the Puppets at the DIA (recommended for age 5 and older).

Season tickets for any six-show series are $24, while single performance tickets are $6; groups of 10 to 29, $5 each; 30 or more, $4 each. Season tickets are now available by mail or credit card phone order to Youtheatre at Music Hall Center Box Office, 350 Madison

The joys and perils of going camping for the first time become a hilarious saga when the "Potato People" take the stage Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 16-17, to open the Youtheatre season at Detroit's Music Hall Center.

Ave., Detroit, Mich. 48226/ telephone (313) 963-2366.

Wiggle Club shows are specially chosen for the youngest theatregoers age 3 to 6 (no children under 3 are admitted). They are presented at Music Hall Center at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. on Saturdays and at 2 p.m. only on Sundays.

The Movin' Up Club is the new name that distinguishes shows with special appeal for Youtheatre audiences 7 years and older (children under 5 are not admitted). Performance times are Saturdays at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. at Music Hall.

To maintain a long tradition of puppetry at the Detroit Institute of Arts, Youtheatre will present six puppet shows on Saturdays at 11:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. in the DIA Lecture Hall. The shows are recommended for youngsters age 5 and older;

3 years is the minimum age for admission.

Throughout the season, Youtheatre designates special Salute Days to honor young people and adults involved with scouting who are in the audience. The honorees have an opportunity to meet and talk with the performers following the show. The dates this season are Oct. 23, Feb. 19 and May 21 for Girl Scouts; Nov. 6, Feb. 19 and April 23 for Boy Scouts.

Another way to enjoy Youtheatre is through the gala birthday party package for 10 or more youngsters at $6.75 per guest which includes invitations, tickets, gift, balloons and other treats.

Youtheatre continues to serve Michigan's educational community. Teachers may schedule weekday field trip performances for their classes at Music Hall Center or take advantage of two Youtheatre satellite locations for field trips — Macomb Center for the Performing Arts in Clinton Township and Mercy High School in Farmington Hills. Youtheatre also offers curriculum-related shows to tour statewide Michigan schools and communities.

For additional information on Youtheatre programs or a complete season brochure, call Youtheatre offices at (313) 963-7663.

Youtheatre, a nonprofit organization, is supported in part by the following foundations and corporations: DeRoy Testamentary Fund, The Jack and Clarence Himmel Foundation, Hudson-Webber Foundation, Michcon Foundation, Skillman Foundation, Matilda R. Wilson Fund, Arts Midwest, The Michigan Council for Arts and Cultural Affairs, Dayton Hudson Foundation and Sony Corp. of America.

'Bronx Tale' offers several great debuts

By Marian Trainor
Special Writer

The mean streets of "Goodfellas" come alive again with a different perspective in the humorous and sometimes tough "A Bronx Tale."

It is a shining triumph for Robert DeNiro as a first-time director and one that reaffirms him as an adroit and talented film star.

Actually, he is the only star in the film. The rest of the cast is composed of amateurs and unknowns.

Chazz Palminteri, who has experience as a stand up comic, wrote the film story based on his own experiences growing up in the Bronx and agreed to sell it on condition that he play the role of slick mob boss Sonny. He so inhabits the role that it would be difficult to imagine anyone else doing it better.

Besides Palminteri, DeNiro draws memorable performances from two amazing newcomers, Francis Capra, who plays the part of 9-year-old Calogero, and Lillo Brancato, who plays Calogero at age 17.

The film is set in an Italian section of the Bronx in 1960 where Calogero lives with his father (DeNiro) and his mother in an apartment over a bar. The street teems with people coming and going, standing around on corners, with peddlers hawking their produce. Calogero is fascinated by all the action and particularly with Sonny, who owns the bar and is leader of the mob which gathers there.

Sitting on the steps of his apartment one day he watches Sonny kill a man in an argument over a parking space. When the police arrive, they line up Sonny and the rest of his mob against the wall of the bar and command Calogero to identify the killer. Calogero says it's none of them. Afterward, Sonny invites Calogero to the bar and they become friends, much to his father's displeasure. Later, after he has been around a while, Calogero carries coffee to the gamblers in the basement where Sonny even lets him throw the dice.

Calogero's father becomes increasingly worried over his son's association with Sonny. He is a hard-working bus driver who wants to save his son from the temptation of the streets. He is a devoted father and a decent man who has built a strong father-son relationship with Calogero, who loves and respects his father, but cannot resist the lure of Sonny's glamorous life.

At this point, the film jumps to 17-year-old "C," the name Sonny calls him because he doesn't like the name Calogero. A zoot-suited teenager, Calogero spends a lot of time with Sonny, who has become, strangely enough, a good influence.

"This is my life" Sonny says, "but it's not for you." He still looks up to Sonny but is puzzled when Sonny tells him that he trusts no one. Later Calogero finds this out the hard way.

"A Bronx Tale" is a coming of age gem. Brancato brings a refreshing innocence to the role of a boy dazzled by the facade of Sonny but committed to his father's example of what a truly good man can be. DeNiro gives a luminous performance as Calogero's devoted father.

A Bronx Tale

Starring; Robert De Niro, Chazz Palminteri, Lillo Brancato.

5 1 - Don't Bother
2 - Nothing Special
3 - It Has Moments
4 - Better Than Most
5 - Outstanding

"A Bronx Tale" is a great period piece that teams with characters and neighborhood details, all accented by dynamic '60s music. It is funny, brutal, poignant and bitter-sweet. It is first class entertainment.

Big Band Beat

Grosse Pointe resident Chet Bogan will play in the style of Glenn Miller, Harry James, Tommy Dorsey and Bob Crosby with his big band, above, at 8 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 21, at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. Although he's well known for his Dixieland Jazz Band, his big band has performed at special weekends at the Little Harbor Club as well as at many private dinner dances, weddings and benefits. The evening will offer an opportunity to dance to such tunes as "Pennsylvania 6-5000," "String of Pearls," "Stardust" and even "Achy Breaky Heart." Admission is $9. Call 881-7511.

Woman's Club plans tea Oct. 20

Members of the Grosse Pointe Women's Club and their guests will meet at 12:30 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 20, in the Crystal Ballroom of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial for tea and a program. Lifelong partners since kindergarten, Stan & Dave would like a chance to become lifelong partners with you!

Dave Levy and Stan Schwartz, the owners of Classic Window & Siding, have been friends and partners in business ever since they were little kids. Though, as youngsters, back in the days of Kool-Aid stands, they probably never suspected that they would grow up to be the men behind the East area's most respected name in windows and siding. On the other hand, if their Kool-Aid was any indication of what was to come, on a hot summer day, they knew even then what it meant to be in demand.

For years, Classic Window and Siding has been providing Eastside neighborhoods with the best in sales and installation of vinyl windows and siding. They also specialize in hand-crafted, custom-designed bay and bow windows. With each sale they make, they provide the customer with the "complete package." There are never any hidden additional costs on materials and labor which are covered by Classic's famous 30-year guarantee.

But Dave and Stan will tell you "an excellent product alone does not make a great business." What distinguishes Classic Window and Siding from the pack is their unwavering commitment to their customers. Dave, Stan and the staff at Classic make themselves available to their customers on a 24-hour basis to answer any questions or to assist with any service.

Classic's experience in serving homeowners has enabled them to anticipate the concerns of new customers. Often, they can answer questions before they're even asked. For example, to assure their new customers they are getting the finest in windows, siding and service, they maintain a computerized list of all their previous customers to be used as references. Once the work on a house is completed, Dave and Stan inspect it themselves to insure that the job not only meets the customer's expectations, but lives up to Classic Window and Siding's reputation as well.

In the past year alone, Classic has earned the total satisfaction of over 1600 residential customers. In addition to quick, responsible and dependable service, much of their success is due to making their windows and siding affordable to almost every budget. "We believe that the bottom line is providing our customers with exactly what they want, at a price they can comfortably handle," says Dave.

August home sales soar as buyers snap up low rates

Sales of previously owned homes jumped in August from one year earlier, as consumers continued a crush of buying triggered by extremely low mortgage rates, according to the National Association of Realtors.

The association recorded a seasonally adjusted annual sales rate of 3.81 million existing single-family homes in August, up 14.1 percent from August 1992. The resale rate increase came on the heels of a 14.2 percent annual increase in July. Strong year-to-year increases in home sales were posted in all regions of the nation.

NAR president William S. Chee said low mortgage rates, combined with improved economic conditions, have kept buyers in the market.

"This summer was very busy in markets across the nation. Buyers are out in force, and we have not yet seen any signs that activity is cooling off," Chee said.

Although the trade-up market was active, purchases by first-time buyers continued to dominate many markets, Chee noted.

Low mortgage rates have made home ownership very affordable. The Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp. reported that the national average commitment rate for 30-year, conventional, fixed-rate mortgages fell to 7.11 percent in August, the lowest monthly rate ever recorded by the corporation. The August rate dropped from 7.21 percent in July, and from 7.98 percent in August 1992.

Last month's national median existing single-family home price was $109,200, which was 4 percent higher than one year earlier, when the price was $105,000. The median is the midpoint in the price range — half the homes sold cost more, half cost less. The year-to-year price increase reflects steady demand, Chee said.

Through August, there were 2.5 million existing single-family homes sold nationwide. The year-to-date total was 6.1 percent higher than that for the first eight months of 1992.

"The market is in better shape now than it was at this time last year," Chee said.

On a regional basis the largest year-to-year increase in resales was posted in the South, where the existing-home sales rate was 1.42 million units in August, jumping 15.4 percent from the August 1992 pace. The South's median price was $98,300 last month, up 3.3 percent from one year earlier.

The heavy river flooding that occurred earlier in the Midwest did not appear to hamper sales in August. The resale rate was 960,000 units, which was up 11.6 percent from one year earlier. The median existing-home price in the Midwest was $86,400, up 4.9 percent from August 1992.

The West also recorded a surge in resale activity. Existing homes there sold at a rate of 820,000 units in August, up 12.3 percent from August 1992. The median price in the West was $142,700, up 3.0 percent from one year earlier.

In the Northeast, the pace for August was 600,000 units, up 13.2 percent from August 1992. The median price for existing single-family homes in the Northeast was $141,300, slipping a marginal 0.5 percent from one year earlier.

NAR chief economist John A. Tuccillo said much of the activity in the Northeast continues to fall in the lower end of the price range. "The market in the Northeast has turned the corner. But, there still are bargains to be found," he said.

Tuccillo noted that this year probably will be "exceptional" for home sales and predicted, "1993 will be one of the five best years on record, and we expect the strong showing to continue."

Currently, NAR is predicting existing single-family home sales to total 3.675 million units this year, representing a 4.4 percent increase from the 1992 total. The median price for existing single-family homes is expected to be $106,500, rising 2.7 percent above the price for last year.

Q. I read your column last week about how to go about choosing a contractor to do the big repair jobs around the home, such as new kitchens and siding. I'd like to relate my own horror story on the subject.

When I moved into my home, it needed some major work, most notably, a new bathroom and a new kitchen. I knew this at the time of purchase, so I wasn't overly concerned.

When I eventually hired someone, I took the lowest bid. I thought I was being quite the shrewd cookie, but it soon became apparent that I had made a huge mistake. The workmen were sloppy and inconsistent. I found myself at the end of the day going over what they'd done to correct their mistakes. That's saying a lot since I'm not particularly handy!

They also took forever to finally complete the work. I didn't have a working kitchen for over three months. I now realize the lowest bid wasn't necessarily the best choice, as your column pointed out. I can only hope that others will benefit from my sorry experience.

A. Let me just say that I'm sorry for what happened to you. However, as it was happening, you could have contacted your local consumer protection agency to see what alternatives you may have had. As it is, you can still register a complaint with the Better Business Bureau. People should know about that awful company you had the misfortune to hire!

Let me just say one thing in defense of contractors: No job can go without a hitch. There are always unforeseen problems that will crop up as a job is in progress. However, it is the manner in which the contractor deals with the situation that makes all the difference. That's where quality counts!

Q. I own a four-bedroom colonial style house that is over 60 years old. The dilemma I am faced with almost every year is cracked and pitted caulking around my windows and doors. The wood trim and frames are in good condition with no peeling paint. Do you have any helpful suggestions?

A. First, the job of caulking and even weatherstripping should not have to be repeated every year. Also, it is not recommended to caulk over an existing bead or joint.

There is a variety of caulking from which to choose and a huge difference in prices. Some of the more basic types of caulk are the latex, oil-based and polyvinyl sorts. These are generally inexpensive, and may not last a very long time. The oil-based type can be used almost anywhere, but is very short on durability and longevity. The other two are more commonly used and will give you your dollar's worth.

The top of the line compounds are butyl rubber and silicone caulking. These two are in a group of their own and will give you countless years of weather-related protection. This is a clear-cut case of "getting what you pay for," and it's certainly worth the extra cost.

If you choose silicone caulk, remember that paint finishes will not adhere well to it, but there are many colors of this material from which to select.

A few final pointers to consider when you caulk again:

- Be sure that the surface is wire-brushed clean and is free from any foreign debris;
- Remove any old caulking that is dried, cracked, and/or has shrunk;
- An ordinary popsicle stick or even your index finger will make a perfect bead when caulking.

Q. Re: Air conditioner for 11'x11' professional office that must be installed through an exterior wall (cannot be window-mounted). Would you please advise the quietest air conditioner for my office? Is it possible to get a 20 electrical unit that can either operate on air conditioning to filter fresh air in, or recirculate and freshen air in the winter from the office?

A. It is possible to purchase an air conditioning unit that will meet all your needs. However, I cannot recommend any particular brand in this space. My advice is to shop around. Generally, big-brand names are reliable and energy efficient, so you really can't go wrong. Do be sure that the unit you purchase is sufficient for the space you're cooling. The dealer can help you with this.

Here's another compact plan for a narrow lot

By W.D. Farmer

Once you have entered the open foyer of this home, your line of vision follows the U-shaped stair up to the balcony that overlooks both the foyer and the activity room.

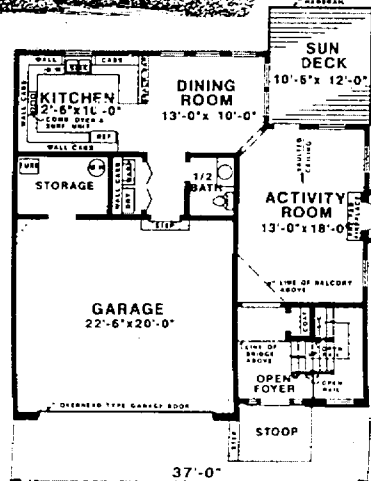

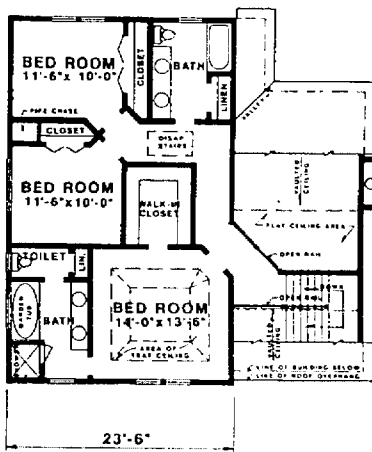

The activity room soars to a vault, giving an open air feeling to the room. Access to the sun deck is from the rear of this room. Also situated to the rear are the kitchen and dining room. A snack bar is housed in this area as well. A short hall provides passage to the double garage, and both laundry facilities and a half bath are accessible from this hall.

There are three bedrooms and two full baths on the second floor. The master bedroom is at the front of the home and includes a tray ceiling and an impressive oversized walk-in closet. The garden bath connected to the master bedroom contains twin lavatories, linen closet and separate garden tub and a shower stall. Access to the two remaining bedrooms is somewhat secluded from the master suite. These two bedrooms share a central hall bath with double sinks and a large linen closet.

The exterior of this home is combination frame and brick with arched-top windows highlighting several areas of the home.

This plan, No. 698, is computer generated and drawn in accordance with FHA and VA requirements. It is available with crawl space or slab foundation. The home measures 1,663 square feet. For further information on this plan, write W.D. Farmer Residence Designer Inc., P.O. Box 450025, Atlanta, Ga. 30345.

Woodworkers' expo comes to Metro-Detroit Oct. 22-24

The room will ring with the music of woodworkers — the sounds of routers, planers, table saws, drills and other machines — as The Metro-Detroit Woodworking Show runs Oct. 22-24 at the Michigan Fairgrounds Community Arts Building.

More than 7,000 of the over 80,000 woodworkers in the Metro-Detroit area are expected to attend the woodworking show to see and test the newest and best hand and power tools, machinery and supplies for woodworkers, homebuilders and do-it-yourselfers. The show will have five exhibits representing more than 100 different manufacturers.

"Many of our visitors spend more than one day, so they can visit the exhibits several times, see tools and machinery in operation and learn from factory reps," said show director Irene Devine. "They can purchase everything right there on-site at special show prices and take it home to use in their shops that evening."

Local woodworkers will be featured in 14 free workshops on a variety of topics, including "Beginning Woodcarving," "Using Hand Tools," "Build a Chest," "Weekend Projects," "Dimensioning Stock," "Cabriole Legs" and "Carving in the Round."

Several area woodworking clubs will be represented with displays showcasing the wide range of talent in Metro-Detroit. The Michigan Woodcarvers Association will display various types of carving, including birds and wildlife, caricatures, high and low relief, ornamental chip carving and sculpture in the round. Everything from napkin holders to full-size furniture will be shown by members of the Michigan Woodworkers Guild.

All visitors will be eligible to enter a prize drawing for a new Ford Escort.

Admission to the show is $7 for adults, with children 12 years and under free. Tickets will be sold at the door. Show hours are Friday, noon to 7 p.m., Saturday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Home Tips

OVEN MITTS — Don't throw out old, badly-soiled oven mitts. They can be used as safety covers for sharp objects when transporting them. My husband used one to cover a sharp drill and another to cover the slicing knife in the picnic box. Sandy J., Cottonwood Falls, Kan.

MORE OVEN MITTS — I was removing shoulder pads from a blouse and decided to keep them in case I wanted to use them later. One day I needed a pot holder and, by mistake, grabbed a shoulder pad. It did the job just as well. Now I use shoulder pads as pot holders instead of discarding them. They can be decorated and are washable. Linda M., Arlington, Va.

The ABCs of choosing a mortgage institution

By Doug Stranahan
Divisional President
Century 21 Great Lakes Division

How will you choose a lender for your mortgage when you decide to buy a home?

There are four types of mortgage institutions, and they each offer different advantages. Commercial banks and savings and loan institutions are traditional mortgage lenders, while mortgage bankers and mortgage brokers are becoming increasingly popular.

Commercial banks use a depositor's money to originate new mortgage loans. Banks also sell existing mortgages in the secondary market to generate money for continued lending. Banks collect money on loans through interest charges and origination and application fees.

Savings and loan institutions have lending patterns similar to those of commercial banks, and they originate and hold the majority of mortgages in the United States. Like banks, savings and loan institutions use depositors' funds to generate mortgages. They also sell existing mortgages to the secondary mortgage market and investors. A savings and loan institution charges a borrower an origination fee for a loan as well as interest.

A borrower will have a greater chance of being approved for a loan through a commercial bank or savings and loan if he or she has deposits in that institution. Sometimes, however, these institutions may be short on capital and simply not able to justify continued lending for a period of time. This is when the borrower is wise to turn to a mortgage banker or a mortgage broker.

A mortgage bank is not an actual bank and does not collect deposits. A mortgage banker usually has a line of credit with a commercial bank from which mortgage loans are generated. The mortgage banker collects a group of mortgages and then sells them to large investors like insurance companies. Money received from investors is used to pay down the mortgage banker's line of credit and is pocketed as profit.

Loans are sometimes more readily available from mortgage bankers than from commercial banks if the lending pattern in a certain area has slowed. Consumers should remember, however, that a mortgage banker will eventually sell the servicing rights to the loan to another lender. While this will not change the borrower's monthly payments, customer service will be provided by a different institution.

Mortgage brokers are similar to mortgage bankers by serving as middlemen, but they do not actually hold the mortgage. A mortgage broker works on behalf of a borrower by locating an appropriate lender and processing the borrower's application. Once a suitable lender is located and the application is accepted, the borrower receives the loan from the lender after the mortgage broker has been paid.

The mortgage broker is compensated in one of two ways. Usually, the broker collects one or more points on the loan, which is paid by the borrower. If there are no points on the loan selected by the borrower, the lending institution pays the broker to sell the borrower a loan with a higher interest rate. Consumers should keep in mind that while the mortgage broker seeks the best loan programs in the market, the broker is working on behalf of the institution as well as the borrower.

Commercial banks, savings and loan institutions, mortgage bankers and mortgage brokers are all regulated and licensed by the state and federal governments. You should thoroughly examine each lender and, according to your individual needs, choose one carefully. Your real estate broker probably has experience working with one or more of these lenders in your area and may be able to provide a recommendation.

10 free shade trees available

Ten free shade trees will be given to each person who joins the National Arbor Day Foundation during October.

The free trees are part of the nonprofit foundation's Trees for America campaign.

The 10 shade trees are red oak, weeping willow, sugar maple, green ash, thornless honeylocust, pin oak, river birch, tuliptree, silver maple and red maple.

"These trees were selected to provide shade and beauty, and a variety of forms, leaf shapes, and spectacular fall colors," said John Rosenow, the foundation's executive director.

The trees will be shipped postpaid at the right time for planting between Nov. 1 and Dec. 10 with enclosed planting instructions. The 6 to 12-inch trees are guaranteed to grow, or they will be replaced free of charge.

Members also receive a subscription to the foundation's news magazine, Arbor Day, which includes regular features about tree planting and care.

To become a member of the foundation and to receive the free trees, send a $10 membership contribution to Shade Trees, National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Ave., Nebraska City, Neb. 68410, by Oct. 31.

Antiques by Ralph & Terry Kovel

Q. If I turn my cut-glass dish just the right way in the light, I can see a small mark etched in the bottom. It looks like a three-leaf clover with the initials CGB in the leaves. There is blurred writing above and below the clover, perhaps the word "Vancouver." Can you tell me who made the dish?

A. The mark was used by Gundy, Clapperson Co. of Toronto from 1905 to 1931. The writing above and below the mark is the name of the store that sold the dish, probably a store in Vancouver, British Columbia.

Q. I paid $2 for an old buttonhook at a house sale in February. It has a hole in the handle that I thought was meant for a cord for hanging. Recently, light glinted strangely through the hole and I peeked with one eye to see what was inside. There was a scene showing a waterfall and above it were the words "Souvenir from Catskill." What can you tell me about the buttonhook?

A. You bought a bargain. The buttonhook has a Stanhope in the handle. That is a special type of photograph, invented by the English scientist Lord Stanhope, made to be viewed through a tiny hole. He developed a lens that magnified a tiny picture. These were hidden in pipes, watch charms, rings, canes and even buttonhooks like yours. The pictures were usually scenes of tourist attractions like a waterfall or well-endowed bathing beauties. The opening to a Stanhope picture is 1/8 inch in diameter. The magnification was so good that as many as eight separate photographs could be shown at once.

Who represents buyer, seller in a real estate transaction?

Michigan law now requires real estate licensees who are acting as agents of sellers or buyers of real property to advise the potential sellers or buyers of the nature of the licensee's agency relationship. The law takes effect on Jan. 8.

"Before a buyer or seller discloses confidential information to a real estate licensee regarding a real estate transaction, there should be an understanding of exactly what type of agency relationship there is with the licensee," said Bo Broock, president of the Michigan Association of Realtors.

Growing interest in buyer brokerage has generated a great deal of confusion among home buyers and sellers as to who actually represents each party in a real estate transaction and what specific responsibilities does a real estate agent owe the buyer and seller.

Renters should have insurance

Renters shouldn't overlook the need for home insurance.

"The renter needs a policy to protect his/her personal belongings and liability exposures," said Terry Buckles, president of the Michigan Association of Insurance Companies (MAIC).

If the renter's building is destroyed, the insurance policy purchased by the landlord or property owner will cover the structure only. To recover for the loss of personal effects, including furnishings, the renter must have his/her own policy.

There is a policy tailored to fit the needs of renters, Buckles said. The renter's policy or HO-4 covers damage to possessions which results from perils such as explosion, fire or lightning, windstorm or hail, riot or civil commotion, theft and vandalism. It is similar to the package policy which is purchased by the owner of a house. The primary difference is that the renter's policy doesn't include coverage on the dwelling structure.

Normally, the renters policy reimburses losses on an actual cash

"This new law is founded on the principles of informed consent and freedom of choice," Broock said. "Better informed consumers expect, and rightfully so, to be able to select from a range of options a relationship which best meets their needs. Agency disclosure leads the way for this process of informed consent when establishing an agency relationship and the responsibilities real estate agents owe both home buyers and sellers."

Under the new agency disclosure law, all licensees must provide timely, meaningful, written disclosure to consumers of all possible agency relationships available under state law and the most significant implications of choosing one type over another.

In addition to disclosure, the prospective buyer or seller should be advised that the following duties are owed to them:

1) promoting the best interests of the seller when acting as the seller's agent or sub-agent;

2) fully disclosing all facts that might influence the buyer or seller's decision with respect to the transaction;

3) keeping confidential the buyer or seller's motivations, as applicable, with respect to the transaction;

4) presenting all offers to the seller or to the buyer, depending on who is representing whom;

5) disclosing all information about the willingness of the buyer or seller, as applicable, to accept an offer or counteroffer.

According to the law, the various agency relationships are defined as follows:

Seller's agent: A seller's agent, under a listing agreement with the seller, acts solely on behalf of the seller. A seller can authorize a seller's agent to work with sub-agents, buyer's agents and/or transaction coordinators. A sub-agent is one who has agreed to work with the listing agent, and who, like the listing agent, acts solely on behalf of the seller. Seller's agents and sub-agents will disclose to the seller known information about the buyer which may be used to the benefit of the seller.

Buyer's agents: A buyer's agent, under a buyer's agency agreement with the buyer, acts solely on behalf of the buyer. Buyer's agents and sub-agents will disclose to the buyer known information about the seller which may be used to benefit the buyer.

Dual Agents: A real estate licensee can be the agent of both the seller and the buyer in a transaction, but only with the knowledge and informed consent, in writing, of both the seller and the buyer. In such a dual agency situation, the licensee will not be able to disclose all known information to either the seller or the buyer.

Transaction coordinator: A transaction coordinator means a real estate licensee who is not acting as the agent of either the buyer or the seller. This situation could occur when a listing broker (seller's agent) has offered "cooperation and compensation" but not sub-agency. Another real estate licensee may have a customer interested in that particular property but the customer does not wish to enter into a buyer's agency agreement. At that point, the real estate licensee makes full disclosure to all parties in the transaction that he or she is acting as a "transaction coordinator."

When entering into any agency relationship, the seller or buyer should ask the real estate licensee: What type of agency do you offer? What type of relationship is available to me? Do you cooperate with buyer agents (seller's agent)? Do I need to sign a contract (buyer's agent/transaction coordinator)? Explain your method of compensation — what are my obligations? Do you practice dual agency? Please explain. What is the extent of your services? What other types of professionals will I need to contact?

The agency disclosure law was part of an overall bill that included several other changes in the license law for real estate agents. Several other issues of interest to home buyers and sellers contained in the law include clarification of issues when a real estate licensee is not required to disclose to potential buyers.

The real estate license law now stipulates action cannot be brought against a real estate broker, an associate broker or salesperson for failure to disclose to a purchaser or lessee of property that a former occupant has, or is suspected of having, a handicap as defined under the Federal Fair Housing Act; and for failure to disclose that the property was or was suspected to have been the site of a homicide, suicide or other occurrence prohibited by law which had no material effect on the condition of the property.
