

Defer's teachers spurn 'gift' of voice mail

By Kathleen Ryan
Special Writer

The telephone system at Defer Elementary School in Grosse Pointe Park has gone high tech.

A voice mail phone system has been in operation at Defer since January, essentially giving each teacher and staff member their own answering machine which allows them to individualize messages for their students and parents.

"A teacher had told me about the homework hotline systems being used in some schools in California," said Defer principal Sheila Turney. "But I put the idea on a back burner because of the cost involved."

However, the offer of a year's free service from the U.S. Voice-mail company prompted Turney to install the system at Defer.

"My idea was that it not be used as a homework hotline as such because it would be asking too much to expect the teachers to change messages daily," Turney said. "But I thought a weekly message would be appropriate, outlining activities going on within the classroom and reminding parents and students about homework assignments or upcoming tests.

"That was my expectation," she said.

But to Turney's surprise, and dismay, Defer staff members have had a less than enthusiastic response to it.

A survey of the individual teacher's recordings found only two that gave a description of classroom activities and assignments, while 14 other teachers essentially left the same scripted message, urging callers to dial the main office number if this were an emergency call, but offering to return the call if necessary.

"I'm disappointed at the professional response," Turney said. "I thought of this as a gift to the teachers, where they could not only get messages from parents, but also personal messages during the day. Only the teachers have the code to access their messages.

"Plus it gives parents 24-hour access to a message system for their child's teacher, which is a significant benefit for working parents.

"I know as a working parent myself I would appreciate that access to my children's teachers."

The system in place at Defer was designed by educators for educators, said Turney.

"But it's not intended to take the place of traditional communication vehicles, like newsletters and personal notes," she said. "It's just one more way to keep in touch."

That's a concern expressed by Defer parent Elizabeth Schaefer.

"I'm not in favor of the system if it is going to replace personal communication with the teacher," she said. "I also think that homework is something that is the responsibility of the child, and parents shouldn't be constantly monitoring it."

But Turney disagrees.

"This system is intended to engage the parents even more in their child's education by adding one more communication method," Turney said. "It also could mean there's no excuse missing assignments or for messages not getting home."

First-grade parent Susan Heinan appreciates that part of the system.

"I find it wonderful because I happen to have a child who doesn't always remember to bring home notes or to return things," she said. "And with four children I can't get to school that often. But with the voice mail system I can easily reach an individual teacher and leave a message.

"I'm all for it."

Defer teachers refused to comment on the system, and only one of 14 teachers returned a message left on voice mail by the Grosse Pointe News.

Turney is currently evaluating the system to see if there is enough interest to keep it in place for another year. She said funding for the program has been offered by local businesses.

Turney hopes the teachers overcome their doubts about the system.

"It seems so ironic that with the push for technology in education, something as simple and easy to use as the voice mail system would be so flatly rejected," she said.

"The whole theme of education is that we're preparing students for life in the future, not for life the way we used to live."

Section 1002. Open spaces.

1. Storage restricted. No part of a rear yard located (i) between a side lot line and a line extending from the closest side of a building to the rear lot line, or (ii) within ten feet of a street, no side yard, and no front yard in R-A, R-B, R-C, or R-D Residential Districts shall be used for the storage of boats, trailers, recreational vehicles, busses, trucks, or other personal property, and no more than one boat, trailer, recreational vehicle, bus, truck, or other item of personal property (or combination thereof as a boat or vehicle on a trailer) shall be stored in any other portion of a rear yard outside the confines of a garage. Provided, however, that no boat, trailer, recreational vehicle, bus, truck, or other item of personal property stored outside the confines of a garage (i) shall be of a size in excess of twelve (12) feet high, twelve (12) feet wide, or thirty two feet in length, or (ii) occupy an area (determined by the maximum length and width of such item) which, when added to the area of the lot occupied by buildings, including accessory buildings, exceeds applicable lot coverage requirements.

2. Permit for temporary storage. The Department of Public Service may issue a permit to the owner of any zoning lot allowing the temporary storage of a boat, trailer, recreational vehicle, bus, truck, or other item of personal property on an access drive or in any portion of a side or rear yard for a period of not more than 7 days notwithstanding the restrictions contained in subsection 1002.1. No more than one such permit for one boat, trailer, recreational vehicle, bus, truck, or other item of personal property shall be issued with respect to any zoning lot in any calendar month."

Section 2.

This Ordinance shall take effect on July 1, 1994.

South play offensive

To the Editor:
It is a shame that the outstanding acting and staging of the Grosse Pointe South High School production of "Me and My Gal" was wasted on such a seedy production. Included in the show were usage of profanity and obscene gestures, sexual innuendo, violence, extensive use of alcohol, and numerous portrayals of public drunkenness.

If this type of theatrical insult is appropriate for any high school performance, which is in grave doubt, the damage was multiplied by inviting elementary aged students from several Grosse Pointe schools to view the play as part of an "educational" field trip. It should be noted that parents of the elementary students were not apprised of the play's contents ahead of time.

Right or wrong, schools have a major impact on imparting values to students. If something is billed as a school function, the implicit message is that it is OK. None of the behaviors described above is acceptable in a school or social setting. Therefore, the selection of this material is questionable at the very least. One second-grader's favorite part was "when the man stuck up his middle finger." Others found the drunkenness "funny." The trip, it turns out, was quite educational.

It was clearly inappropriate to expose young children to such antics. One might also reasonably question the training of high school students to, even as theater, act as prostitutes and drunkards, especially given the current drug and alcohol problems being experienced in our schools.

This is not the sort of event that has earned the Grosse Pointe school system its reputation for excellence. In fact, this incident has damaged the credibility of the Grosse Pointe system as a safe, wholesome, and civil place to send children. An apology is in order to those parents and children who were offended, followed by a diligent effort to adjust the future play selections to more closely reflect the values of the community.

Mini pushcarts dangerous

To the Editor:
I have shopped at the Village Kroger for many, many years. As an older citizen, I have raised four sons, and had to shop with them when they were small when it was impossible to do otherwise. But having been practically terrorized this morning by a myriad of small people — some hardly more than toddlers — shoving the new mini-pushcarts you have installed, I will no longer expose my older, arthritic bones again!

You are risking a loss of shopper's loyalty or, worse yet, a hefty lawsuit, if you continue to allow these tiny ones to run helter skelter through your store.

Thanks walkers

To the Editor:
On Sunday, April 10, Grosse Pointers everywhere were much aware of the MS Walk which took place thru the Pointes.

One of our many altruistic projects during the year is to man the lunch station and serve lunch to the brave walkers.

This year was extra special. Over 50 Grosse Pointe Realtors, affiliate members and their families helped make this part of the day happen. Over 2,000 walkers came to MS and we gave food and drink to all of them.

On behalf of the Grosse Pointe Board of Realtors, will you please allow us to publicly say thank you via your letters to the editor page.

We are all proud to be part of this wonderful community.

Women can cut it

To the Editor:
I was disappointed to read in your paper the article describing what a Grosse Pointe barbershop was like. This represented a poor picture to the community of our profession and reeks of sour grapes. The notion that women can't possibly cut men's hair properly was a surprise to me. I have been serving the residents and businesspeople in Grosse Pointe for 16 years. I would like to let the community know that there are female barbers working, very successfully, in reputable, family-oriented shops. I would not be surprised if the majority of men's haircutting is performed by the many women professionals in all the Grosse Pointe communities. I invite the Grosse Pointe News to visit Mc-

Cubbin's Barbershop, 20563 Mack, and see a female barber and the satisfied clients. McCubbin's has been at the same location for over 42 years.

Farms firm finds filling niche fun and financially rewarding

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

Contrary to popular belief, they don't sell mailboxes at Mailboxes Inc. on Mack in Grosse Pointe Farms. Rather, they sell office services for people who don't have offices.

"When I first heard of Mailboxes Inc. I thought they sold mailboxes," said co-owner Leah Dunn. "So when people learn that we don't, I'm not surprised."

The store, Dunn said, is a franchise operation. The headquarters is in San Diego. Dunn describes it as a postal and communication service business. Customers can receive packages and other types of mail, and they can have items packaged for sending at the store.

"We are not in competition with the post office," Dunn said. "We offer a service, but we use UPS as well as other delivery services, including the post office. Our advantage is that we offer an address not a post office box."

When people rent post office boxes, the address is a P.O. box, said Dunn. If her customers use the store's mail receiving service, letters and packages are sent to the store's address, 18530 Mack. There is no post office number.

"We have a lot of manufacturer's representatives, who get all their business mail through us. Small businesses run out of people's homes also use our service. It saves neighbors having to put up with delivery trucks coming and going all day, and mail can be collected during vacation," he said.

Customers use the mail receiving service for all kinds of reasons other than business, said Dunn. Some customers don't want bulk mail coming to their home. They are always available to receive packages, and for customers with day jobs, that's a blessing. Some customers shop through catalogues and want to keep it a secret from their spouses. Some customers — well she doesn't want to know why they use her service. It's none of her business.

The store also has several fax machines and photocopiers. Customers who don't own faxes can use the machines to send and receive faxes. The copiers are very useful for those who have to make a limited number of copies.

"The Kinko's that has opened up near here hasn't affected us," Dunn said. "We don't get many customers who need to make 7,000 copies at 3 a.m. Kinko's does. We appeal to different market segments."

The store, in addition to sending and receiving mail and offering other office services, has recently moved into really big bulk sending.

"We recently started a service that sends large items anywhere in North America," said Dunn. "It's easier to move an entire house's worth of furniture 2,000 miles, than it is to move one couch across the state. The problem is that we have moving companies for homes, but they don't want to transport one couch or piano. So we recently started a service that allows Grosse Pointers to send large items anywhere in North America. We have NAFTA to thank for that."

The store also has an answering service for customers, said Dunn. People often dislike having to leave a message on an answering machine, so people can use call forwarding to have their calls routed to the store, where employees take messages. It's a service that has survived voice mail.

Dunn and her partner Willa Levin bought the store in 1987. It has been in the Farms for about 10 years. Being a store that caters to local businesses, it's open from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday-Friday, and from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturdays.

Dunn learned that in the beginning mailboxes were sold there, but they stopped because customers were much more interested in services, not mailboxes.

Leah Dunn, co-owner of Mailboxes Inc., gets ready to send a fax for a customer. The Grosse Pointe Farms business specializes in offering business services for those who can't do them at home. In addition to having fax service, the store has photocopiers, an answering service and a mail receiving service.

City approves outdoor cafe behind Jacobson's

By Chip Chapman
Staff Writer

Those who enjoy outdoor dining will be able to do so in a familiar place.

The City of Grosse Pointe council gave its approval last week for Jacobson's to use D'Hont Way, the alley behind the store and the parking structure, as an outdoor cafe during warm weather months.

"Technically, the alley is owned by the City," said Jacobson's store manager Bill Hebert. "Since we lease it from them, we needed their approval."

Pending approval from the Michigan Liquor Control Commission, Jacobson's will extend its tavern license, which permits the sale of beer and wine, to the outdoor cafe.

"We will serve food outside either way," Hebert said. "We will meet with the liquor control commission in the next 10 days and be open outside, hopefully, by mid-June."

Customers will have to enter the outdoor cafe from inside the restaurant, not from the street or parking structure. Seating capacity outdoors will be 25 patrons.

"The cafe has to be in a designated area with some kind of fencing," City police chief Bruce Kennedy said. "There is also a 'hold-harmless' agreement for the City which means that Jacobson's assumes liability."

A temporary picket fence will be put up during the summer months, Hebert said.

The cafe will be open from 10 a.m. through 4 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday, and until 8 p.m. on Thursday and Friday.

"We may have a buffet dinner on Thursday evenings," Hebert said.

Senior angry over toy carts at Kroger

By Chip Chapman
Staff Writer

About five months ago, Kroger in the Village purchased some toy shopping carts so that youngsters could emulate their parents.

But at least one shopper is not happy with the store's decision to add the miniature carts: "... Having been practically terrorized this morning by a myriad of small people shoving the mini-pushcarts, I will no longer expose my older, arthritic bones again," said Mary M. Harwood in a letter to Kroger and the Grosse Pointe News.

Following a suggestion from a parent, Kroger decided to add the little shopping carts.

"We've had no complaints at all," said manager Jerry Baecke, who had not yet seen Harwood's letter. "In fact, we've had a lot of favorable comments."

"You are risking a loss of shopper's loyalty," Harwood said, "or worse yet, a hefty law suit, if you continue to allow these tiny ones to run helter-skelter through your store."

Board of Commissioners approves 911 for the Pointes, Harper Woods

By Chip Chapman
Staff Writer

The Grosse Pointes and Harper Woods officially have their own 911 emergency phone district following a unanimous vote April 12 by the Wayne County board of commissioners.

could take as long as 18 months before we get the service because their billing procedure is not built on political boundaries, but on phone number exchanges," Richner said. "Eighteen months is still a legitimate estimate," said John Hunt, product manager for 911 services for Ameritech. "We will have to revamp and revise our billing system. "We are doing everything physically possible. We would like to get this done sooner. The money is of critical importance to the communities. This is a priority project for us."

The creation of the district of Eastern Wayne, which includes the five Pointes and Harper Woods, will mean more money for each city to enhance its own 911 services.

"It provides a means to upgrade 911 service for the Pointes and Harper Woods," said county commissioner Andrew Richner.

Last December, the board tentatively approved the creation of the new district. Before the county board's action, the Pointes and Harper Woods were part of Detroit's district.

"We now have a separate agreement," Richner said, "but haven't approved a fee."

The county board can levy up to a 4 percent fee on a customer's base phone bill, or a little more than 40 cents a month, without voter approval. Up to an additional 16 percent fee may be added, but only with the approval by the voters.

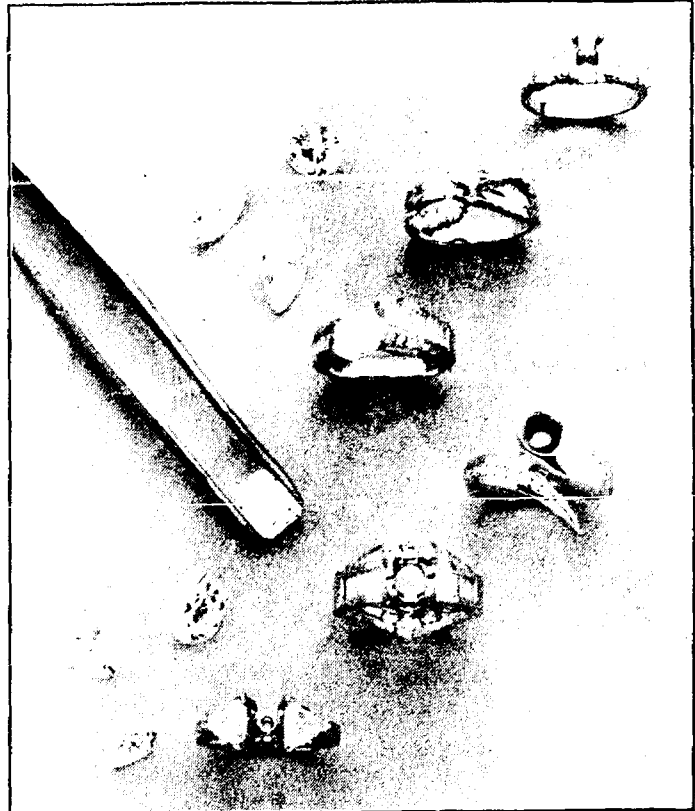

The revenue collected by Ameritech and distributed to each PSAP (Public Safety Answering Point) could be used to enhance the existing 911 service.

Even at 4 percent, the fees collected could be substantial for the six communities.

Until Ameritech determines the number of exchanges in each of the communities, exact dollar figures cannot be estimated.

Cleaning up Detroit

People from across metro Detroit got together last Saturday to help clean up the city. Grosse Pointers got into the act as well. Volunteers from the Park gave a hand to Detroiters in cleaning up Maheras Park and Recreation Center in the city with the help of several city street cleaning machines like the one pictured. The Park also donated a load of asphalt to patch potholes in Maheras Park. The Grosse Pointe Park government was just one of many organizations that helped in Saturday's clean-up, as St. John Hospital and Medical Center also sponsored a clean-up at Moross and Mack.

Park mayor Palmer Heenan said Grosse Pointe Park was very supportive of Detroit's efforts at civic improvement and the Park would continue to support such efforts in the future. Wayne County commissioner Andrew Richner organized the Park's volunteers. Heenan said.

Hairstyles of the rich and famous a learning experience for Park man

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

Jonathon Purslow says he doesn't miss his days as a hairstylist to the rich and famous in midtown Manhattan. Sure, it was exciting working with actresses like Demi Moore and styling hair for supermodels like Paulina, he said, but after while it became like any other job.

Purslow now is perming, cutting and coloring heads of hair at Aroon James Salon in Grosse Pointe Farms and enjoying family life with his wife and two sons.

The 31-year-old Grosse Pointe Park resident said he didn't always want to be a hair stylist. In fact, after graduating from Royal Oak Dondro High School in 1980, he considered a career in the military.

After three years in the U.S. Army, Purslow decided military life was not for him. While in the armed forces stationed in Germany and then in Texas, Purslow began cutting hair for fun. One of his friends suggested he do it for a living.

Being at a point in his life where he didn't know what to do when he left the military, Purslow decided to take his friend's advice.

He studied at David Presley's school of cosmetology in Royal Oak, passed the state board to become a certified hair stylist and then got his first job at a Grosse Pointe salon.

After becoming proficient at the basics — perms, colors, cuts and blow drying — he decided to educate himself further by going to New York and studying under a high-profile hairdresser. Purslow felt that if he didn't educate himself regarding the cutting edge techniques of hair design, he would be doomed to working at chain salons.

"I knew I'd be a little fish in a big pond," he said as he recalled his decision to relocate to New York. "But I knew it was time to move on and get an education. I had come across a picture of one of my former employers with Brooke Shields and I thought it would be fun to work with him and have that kind of clientele."

When he arrived in New York, Purslow looked up his old boss and soon was hired as his assistant. That allowed Purslow the opportunity to meet and get to know regular clients like Farrah Fawcett, Brooke Shields, Jaclyn Smith and Claudia Schiffer.

POINTER OF INTEREST

"It was a lot of fun," he said. One thing he learned about many of the famous women he worked with was that they are not as recognizable in person. Many of the women are much shorter in person, he said, than they appear on screen and some are not as strikingly beautiful.

He said it didn't take long to get over the excitement of being around famous people on a daily basis.

"It was interesting to see how they interacted and most of them were really down-to-earth," he said. "But then again, it was New York, which is a melting pot anyway. You see famous people all the time."

Once the excitement faded and Purslow felt he had mastered what he came to New York to learn, he returned to Michigan. He missed his family and wanted to settle down.

He came to Grosse Pointe because of the abundance of hair salons. "I think there's about nine salons in a six-block area.

It's amazing. They all seem to be getting good business. I think the American public is extremely conscious of its appearance and always looking for something new."

While hair salons traditionally have been a woman's domain and men sought haircuts at the corner barber shop, attitudes are changing and more men are going to salons to get a customized hair style, Purslow said.

"I think most men of the '90s are beyond the stereotype and are concerned about their appearance," Purslow said. "Men want to look good — especially men in high visibility positions."

Although attitudes may be changing regarding who goes to a hair salon, Purslow said stereotypes about hairdressers are harder to break.

"Male hairdressers are stereotyped," he said. "No matter what I tell people, they have their ideas about me. In my younger years, I'd say I was a craftsman and that's it, change the subject."

Another misconception about the hair-styling business, he said, is some people think they can log in the required hours in beauty school and instantly become a professional stylist with a large client base and a high salary.

"Not everyone can be in this business," he said. "It is not a quick fix. You get out of beauty school and you are not a professional, you're a beginner. You have to go to seminars and educate yourself."

Purslow laughs as he recalls an embarrassing experience in beauty school. An 8-year-old boy was seated in his chair for a trim. A few snips into the haircut, Purslow accidentally nicked one of the boy's ears.

"When we finally got the bleeding to stop and everything under control, I cut his other ear," he said. "When it was over with, my teacher said it was the worst haircut she'd ever seen."

Purslow said there's no such thing as bad hair, only bad hair styles. One coif that makes him cringe is the "mall do" in which a teenage girl isolates a few strands of hair at the front of her head and hair sprays and teases them until they stand on end.

"It must be something left over from the punk era or else it came out of New Jersey," he said. He also shudders at the sight of bi-level cuts on men in which the front is cut short and the back is left to grow long.

"A hot look from the late '70s and early '80s — but you still see it today," he said.

His advice for those unhappy with their hair: Find a stylist you're comfortable with and stick to that person. And don't get too used to one hair style. Go for a change once in a while — don't stereotype yourself.

Board members school themselves on education issues in special classes

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

A number of school board members in Grosse Pointe have gone back to the classroom to better understand the workings of Michigan's educational system.

Classes on legislation, school policy, law, curriculum and labor relations are offered to all Michigan school board members through the Michigan Association of School Boards (MASB).

Board members Gloria Kinsler and Julie Bourke received awards last week for their participation in MASB classes. Bourke received the Certified Boardmember Award for successfully completing the necessary courses. In addition, she received the Award of Merit for earning additional points in the program. Kinsler, who was certified in 1992, was honored with the Award of Distinction for points she earned in the program.

The certification program was established by the MASB in 1990, said Gail M. Braverman, MASB communications director.

"The Legislature was considering a bill that would mandate training for all school board members," Braverman said. "We wanted to keep training on a voluntary basis and we thought board members would voluntarily avail of themselves the opportunity for additional training."

Braverman said the classes are targeted at freshman board members who may not be fully informed on all the legal and policy issues involved in education.

"I don't think new board members are often aware when they run of how much there is to know," she said. "In the last two years we've had primarily first- and second-year board members. There's been a lot of turnover in recent years and we target the new board members as soon as they are elected."

In Grosse Pointe, Sears Taylor, elected last June, is the newest board member. Since then, he has had the opportunity to attend two seminars offered through the MASB.

"They were excellent classes," Taylor said. "One of the benefits is meeting other school board members in southeast Michigan."

Taylor said he plans on taking board certification classes once the school district has a clearer picture of how Lansing will finance school districts.

"The classes help you understand the legal ramifications of policies, board decisions and so on. They help you become a better board member," Bourke said. "Even if you've been in the school system your entire life, it's so much different being on the board."

Kinsler said she too was surprised at how much she needed to learn when she was elected to the board in 1988, even though she had served on the PTO for eight years and knew a lot about education.

"What I found out was that I knew a lot about Grosse Pointe schools and I didn't know a lot about education," she said.

Kinsler regularly attends workshops, conferences and seminars to expand her knowledge.

Board secretary Frank

Sladen and trustee Linda Schneider both have just finished the seven classes required to obtain board certification.

Schneider said the classes on curriculum and policy helped her gain a better understanding of both issues. She learned how to examine the district's curriculum to see if the schools are delivering what they say they are and she said she also learned how to examine policies for possible pitfalls.

Other board members, because of their occupations, already have a solid background on issues that regularly are presented to a school board for a decision.

Board vice president Carl Anderson is an assistant principal at South Lake High School in St. Clair Shores. He said he is aware of the issues facing school districts and has plenty of experience as a board member, now serving his third term of office. Although he has not taken any MASB classes, he is considering it.

Board president Timothy Howlett is a labor relations attorney with the law firm of Dickinson, Wright, Moon, VanDusen & Freeman. He represents management in labor matters. He said the MASB does a good job of providing the board with materials on relevant issues. He has not taken any board certification classes and does not feel this hampers his effectiveness as a board member.

Board members in Grosse Pointe are not required to attend MASB classes, Howlett said.

Shores council OKs $40,000 bid to raze landmark Vernier school

By Chip Chapman
Staff Writer

By the end of next month, a landmark on Vernier Road will be no more.

The Grosse Pointe Shores village council voted last week to accept a bid of $28,400 to level the Vernier school. Asbestos removal, which will take a couple weeks to complete, will put the total price over $40,000.

"We thought it would be up near $70,000," said village manager Michael Kenyon.

The Shores council voted in February to raze the 78-year-old building, despite a request by the Grosse Pointe Historical Society to allow more time to find necessary funding to restore the Albert Kahn designed building.

The Shores purchased the property from the Grosse Pointe school system in 1962 for $25,000. Since then the building has remained, for the most part, unused.

The renovation and maintenance costs were estimated at roughly $2 million.

Green Earth Environmental Specialists Inc. will conduct the demolition, with Soil and Materials Engineers Inc. overseeing the asbestos removal.

"We've already removed the Peawick tiles from the fireplace," Kenyon said. "We will save about 2,000 of the bricks for use around the village and the bell will be placed next to the tree former students donated a couple years ago."

The school is expected to come down by the end of May.

Summers' art in MOT benefit

Grosse Pointe South art teacher Jack Summers has a piece of art work displayed in a fund raiser for the Michigan Opera Theater. More than 100 artists were asked to submit work for this benefit. The theme is "happily ever after." This fund raiser is to benefit the upcoming production of

"Cinderella."

The exhibition opened April 8 and will continue through May 7. Exhibition hours are Monday through Saturday, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Sunday, noon to 5 p.m. The exhibit is located in the Galleria Office centre on 12 Mile near North-western Highway.

Poppy the Clown, public safety staffers Penny Caretti, Sgt. James Chopp, Lt. David Hiller, Judge Kirsten Frank and McGruff the Crime Dog urge Park residents to attend the city's Law Day activities this Sunday. In addition to child identification, fire safety demonstrations and vote registration, Parks residents will have a chance to see a Coast Guard mock rescue beginning at 2:15 p.m.

First Mother's Day.

In 1907, Anna M. Jarvis chose to crusade for a specific day honoring mothers. She initiated an extensive letter writing campaign. And just one year later, her home state of West Virginia, along with Pennsylvania, began observing the special day. She continued her efforts, and within six years, almost every state in the country was recognizing the event. In 1915, President Woodrow Wilson gave his authorization and the second Sunday in May officially became Mother's Day.

If, indeed, as I fear, the vehicle for their weekly forum has become the Grosse Pointe News, I have no option but to cancel my subscription. I am writing this letter in a constructive manner and I hope that one less subscription does matter. I have contact with many educated and professional people in this community and many feel as strongly as I do about the continual simplistic bantering of the "Concerned Citizens." You are not helping the community by constantly printing their articles and I assure you there are many like me who are ready to give up reading the Grosse Pointe News.

I hope this letter and my cancellation of your paper serve a constructive purpose. Dr. James Spillan

Negative reporting unproductive

To the Editor:

What warning! As Dr. Fiedler stated in her opening comments on April 12 before presenting her final report on Grosse Pointe Gifted Program Evaluation, individuals, including news reporters, tend to listen with filters. I am disappointed, yet not surprised, by the continuing biased reporting regarding the Magnet controversy.

The small number of Alliance members continue to be vocal and overly represented in your reporting. Your inflammatory headline, like the one two weeks earlier ("flak"), does nothing but exacerbate the division.

Dr. Fiedler stated "the controversy surrounding the Magnet program has drawn a great deal of attention, and this has resulted in the diversion of a great many resources. Instead of perpetuating adversarial relationships, all stakeholders need to make a commitment to working together to improve educational programs for Grosse Pointe students." Further, Dr. Fiedler stated "The results of the program evaluation indicate the Magnet program is providing appropriate and valuable educational opportunities for the gifted students who are participating in it. Differentiated Programming in regular classrooms is serving students well and is having a positive impact on their learning experiences."

Her report further clarifies the need to continue expansion of differentiated programming, especially at the middle and high school level. Superintendent Shine, central staff and the Grosse Pointe school board have repeatedly reaffirmed their commitment to progressing our schools forward toward the "no walls, no ceilings" philosophy. While this course of action is allowed to further develop, it is counter-productive to continue negative reporting about the Magnet program, which Dr. Fiedler stated "had been doing an excellent job of serving gifted students."

The Magnet program may need "refinements" while the further expansion of differentiated programming is fostered. But there is no mistaking that the independent evaluation, by an expert approved of by Alliance representatives, has stood soundly behind the Magnet as an appropriate means of educating gifted students.

It is time for this community to join together in advancing the educational programs to effectively meet the needs of all students. It is time to put aside, as Fiedler stated, "the climate of distrust...to allow the district to move forward in its efforts to provide for the educational needs of its students." David W. Perry

Who's hiding behind Alliance?

To the Editor:

I read, with interest, the article on the Grosse Pointe schools gifted program consultant's report in your last issue.

Among other things, I noted that "Alliance" is credited with a statement, without any indication of who made the statement, whether it is representative of a group position, and if so, who the group consists of. As far as I have been able to discern, "Alliance" consists of perhaps 10 families, supported by a rotating cast of school district naysayers who attempt to draw credibility from each other and to represent themselves as being more than they are.

At the request of some members of "Alliance," the school district has reviewed the program in question, audited program resources, issued an extensive public statement and commissioned a consultant. Everything has been found to be in order, based upon competent direction and decisions, ethical and equitable. Even the outside consultant recommends only updating of the program. Other observations - the issues of the regular program and the dissention in the community - are just that, and not defects of the magnet program.

According to the Grosse

Pointe News article, "Alliance" has issued a response to the consultant's report. It is interesting that the consultant has not received a copy of said response and neither have any of the six school board members who talk to each other. (I wouldn't know about the uncommunicative seventh.)

The school superintendent, the administrator in charge of the program and the magnet parents also have not seen the "Alliance" response. The consultant has advised all parties to resolve their differences. I don't understand how "Alliance" intends to do so, if they continue to communicate only with each other and the Grosse Pointe News.

Perhaps their intent never was clarification and understanding, but rather chaos and the harassment of a group of innocent children. Lois Seyler

Raise is a farce

To the Editor:

The recent approval by the Grosse Pointe board of education of a 2.75 percent raise for teachers is a farce.

Their explanation for approving the raise is that everyone else is approving a similar raise. I am sure that everyone else didn't follow Grosse Pointe's lead by granting 45 percent salary increases to the teachers over the past two contracts. The board also will not tell us how the Grosse Pointe salaries and benefits compare with other schools which leads one to believe that the other districts' salaries are lower.

The board apparently isn't looking past its nose. The present millage in the Pointes will expire in a couple of years and the recent defeat by a 2-1 margin of a millage in Southfield is an indication of the Michigan taxpayers' mood regarding approving millages.

Regarding their anticipated large savings on lower health care costs for new teachers, this will only be realized if many teachers retire or take a buy-out; will this happen? The board also stated that it felt the district could lose teachers if it didn't approve the raise. With an average teacher salary of $57,000, plus a benefit package that won't quit, where would the teachers go and be better off?

Since all board members except Sears Taylor voted for the teacher raises, it is past time to replace the board members who voted for the raise.

Woods approves $425,000 for repair of streets, sidewalks and sewers

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

With winter over and summer on the way, the Grosse Pointe Woods City Council voted last week to spend about $425,000 to repair the city's streets, sidewalks and sewers.

The repairs are a part of the city's regular maintenance program, said director of public works Thomas Whitcher. The city is divided into eight repair districts and each year the city does repairs in one district. It takes eight years to complete the cycle.

"We will be repairing the portions of sidewalk and curbs that need repairing in district four," Whitcher said. "District four begins at Kenmore and extends to Brys Drive west of Mack. This portion of the maintenance project begins when the city's fiscal year starts in July. It should take about 60 days to complete."

The city has already earmarked the curbs and sidewalks that will be repaired, Whitcher said. The survey is done in the fall so that contractors will have an idea of the square footage involved in the repairs.

The council also voted to repair a portion of the city's sewer system. The sewer line on Morningside near Lakeshore Lane was found to be collapsed when the public works department used a robot to inspect the sewers earlier this year.

"We should begin repair of this line before May 1," Whitcher said. "In order to correct the problem, we will have to dig up the street between the manhole at Morningside and the first manhole east of it - about 354 feet of line. We will replace the collapsed pipe with new pipe the same size as the old one."

Whitcher asked that the council approve giving the $71,000 contract to the firm of Salvatore and Sons instead of seeking competitive bids because asking for bids would take too long. The city's engineering firm of Pate, Hirn and Bogue suggested to Whitcher that the city act right away because of the condition of the pipe and the soil conditions around the pipe.

The city will also perform miscellaneous street repairs this summer, said Whitcher.

"We'll be fixing portions of Woods streets that were dug up to repair broken water and sewer mains over the past year," Whitcher said. "These areas were fixed on a temporary basis and it's time to repair them on a more permanent basis. We'll be doing this during July and August and the repairs should be complete by September."

No millage election in Pointes this year, schools prepare for 1994-95

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

Voters won't be going to the polls this year to renew the Grosse Pointe public schools' operating millage, but district administrators are preparing for next year — when the voter-approved millage rate expires.

The school district is in the midst of its annual budgeting process, which began in January, and is gathering information as it trickles in from Lansing. While the spending plan won't be adopted by the school board until June, the district is looking at an estimated $71 million budget for the 1994-95 school year.

To support those figures, the district may levy anywhere from 13.7 to 14.5 mills, said Chris Fenton, assistant superintendent for business.

For the 1993-94 school year, the district is levying 30.4620 mills — 29.0250 for the general fund, 1.2046 for the library, and .2324 for debt retirement.

The numbers for next year are loose because the school district has not received final figures from Lansing on which properties in the Pointes are homesteads and which are non-homesteads. All property owners had to file an affidavit of homestead form with their local municipality by May 1.

Depending on how these numbers come out, Grosse Pointe schools can levy between 7.7 and 8.5 mills above the 6 mills on homestead property in order to maintain current levels of per-pupil spending in the district.

"The state's original calculations of what our homestead properties were are much lower than it actually is," Fenton said. The state originally estimated the Grosse Pointes and a portion of Harper Woods' homesteads to be about 75 percent of all properties in the school district. Fenton said the numbers are closer to 90 percent.

Under Proposal A approved by voters on March 15, all homesteads will be taxed 6 mills by the state. In addition, the Grosse Pointe school district is one of only a handful of districts allowed to levy additional "hold harmless" mills to maintain current levels of per-pupil spending.

Fenton said the school district has not decided whether it will ask for enhancement mills — a maximum of 3 additional mills may be sought under Proposal A. Whatever the district asks for in terms of a millage renewal and additional mills, will affect the 1995-96 school year, Fenton noted.

"Taxpayers should see their school taxes drop by about 50 percent," Fenton said.

Woods delays cable vote in surprise move, will try again May 2

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

In a move that surprised Grosse Pointe Cable president John Nicholson, the Grosse Pointe Woods City Council delayed approving a package of ordinances that would have finally completed the lengthy franchise renewal process.

The council's concern centered on certain changes in the agreement that were recently added, said Mayor Robert Novitke. Last month, the council sent some amendments to the franchise agreement to Grosse Pointe Cable officials. The officials sent back a revised agreement, and the council wanted time to review it to make sure it was acceptable.

The stumbling block involves provisions dealing with letting competing systems come into Grosse Pointe Woods.

"Even though the Woods has a financial interest in Grosse Pointe Cable, we would not be serving the people's interest by limiting competition," said Novitke.

He is concerned that with advances in cable technology happening every day, the potential for future improvements coming to the Woods would be limited because a new cable company would have to provide the same services as Grosse Pointe Cable, deterring the newcomer from coming into the city.

So the council delayed approving the franchise agreement with Grosse Pointe Cable. Novitke said that the council will meet as a committee of the whole with Nicholson and other Grosse Pointe Cable representatives to make sure that every one's questions are answered.

The council is expected to vote on the cable ordinances on May 2.

"I don't believe we are far apart," Nicholson said.

Bevy of beauties awaits buyers at Novi classic car auction

Ontario-based RM Classic Car Productions will run its first U.S. auction this weekend at the Expo Center in Novi. More than 380 cars and trucks are slated to go on the block April 29 through May 1. They'll range from a 1960 Cadillac Eldorado Biaritz to a 1953 Oldsmobile Fiesta convertible; a 1932 Packard 903 convertible Victoria to a 1937 Rolls-Royce PIII Hooper Sedan De Ville; a 1955 Mercedes-Benz 300SL to a 1939 Mercury coupe.

"We've spent $80,000 on advertising, and the Expo Center is running another $40,000," said Mike Fairbairn of RM Classic. "We know we'll lose money, but eventually it will be a success."

RM Classic has contracted for the services of the international auction operation Kruse International, out of Auburn, Ind. A year ago, Kruse worked with local entrepreneurs Bob Seroka and Bill Ziegenbein to set up the Spring in Detroit sale under the big top at the Northfield Hilton. Seroka and Ziegenbein recently sold their interest to RM Classic, the company that recently bought 85 cars from Richard Kughn's collection.

Going back indoors — Spring in Detroit was at the Expo Center in 1992 — should increase traffic, Fairbairn said. Michigan's spring weather is too capricious for tents, and what is basically an outdoor sale. In fact, last April it was cool and gray, and potential buyers stayed away from the Northfield Hilton in droves.

According to RM Classic's Bill Howitt, one of the more unusual cars up for auction this weekend is a 1949 ZIS 110 convertible.

"It was Joseph Stalin's parade car," Howitt said. "The story is that his chauffeur had

Autos

By Richard Wright

it hidden away for 40 years, and when the Soviet Union disbanded, he brought it out.

"The car actually got to this country intact," Howitt continued. "We were told there might be some vandalism — pieces missing and so forth. But to our delight it arrived with everything intact. There even are little parade flags for the front fenders and a large oil painting of Stalin himself."

Howitt said the ZIS, which looks like a 1941 Packard, may be worth $90,000.

Another must-have is the red 1949 Cadillac customized for MGM Studios by Bohman and Schwartz.

"It was one of five built to transport movie stars from one location to another," Howitt said. "Four were destroyed in a bad fire years ago. This one happened to be off location being repaired."

With its alligator and MGM-monogrammed interior, the Cadillac is valued at $100,000-plus, Howitt said.

Here, then are more beauties looking for new homes this weekend in Novi. Bidder's fee is $35. A minimum of 10 percent cash deposit is required at the time of sale. Sale hours are 4-10 p.m. Friday, 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday, and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday. Start making space in your garage.

Mustangs and good ol' boys

Ford Motor Co. earlier this month staged a multi-venue 30th birthday party for its popular Mustang. It turned out to be a public relations dream as the nation's No. 1 good ol' boy, President Clinton himself, showed up at the Charlotte (N.C.) raceway in a '64 Mustang he once owned.

Detroit-area auto writers were invited to a party at the Indianapolis 500 Speedway, where they got to drive '94 Mustang pace cars around the famed oval, which is quite a thrill all by itself.

But in addition, Parnelli Jones was there to drive the writers around the track at frightening speeds (with Jones driving) speeds. We all had to sign waivers on our lives, but there were no problems and no one hesitated to sign.

A fine parade of vintage Mustangs cruised around the speedway, with representatives of all five incarnations of the Mustang represented — the original classic, the larger muscle car that followed, the downsized Mustang II and the boxy Mustang of the past decade-plus, along with this year's version.

It occurred to me that unique among nameplates now in production, the current Mustang model may be the best and the best-looking of all.

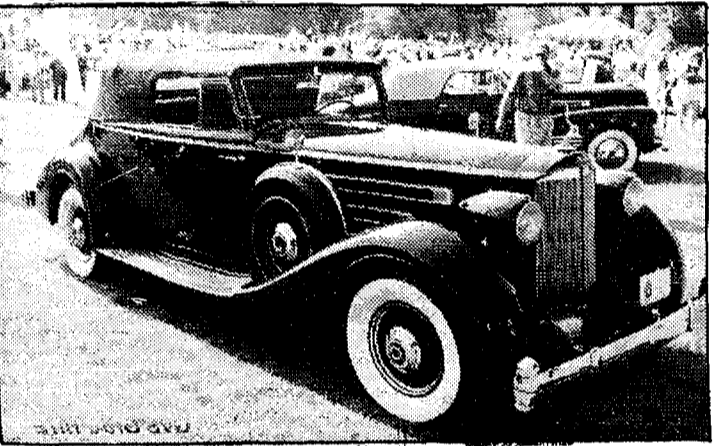

When I found that Clinton had been at one of the other Mustang parties, I at first felt a little slighted. But Parnelli Jones may well be a good ol' boy who even outranks the president.

It was a perfect day at the Brickyard, we paid proper homage to a great automotive nameplate and I felt very American about the whole thing there in the middle of Indiana — even if the president wasn't there.

— Richard A. Wright

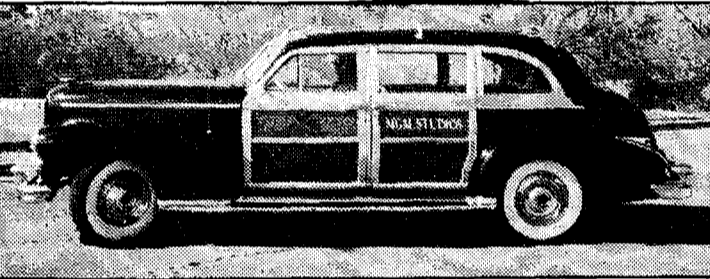

Billed as a car "for the amateur collector," this 1956 two-tone green Nash sedan has been restored from the ground up. Valued at up to $15,000, it will be sold as a no-reserve vehicle, going to the highest bidder.

For the buyer with a little more money to spend, this black-on-black 1935 12-cylinder Packard convertible is said to have a rumble seat. It's valued at about $175,000.

A black-and-white 1956 Ford Crown Vic, with glass roof, fender skirts and industrial-strength chrome, is thought to be worth $35,000.

Hollywood freaks can indulge their fantasies with this custom red-and-wood 1949 Cadillac limo built for MGM Studios. While five were delivered to the movie makers, this is the only survivor. It's valued at about $100,000 — that would buy a lot of popcorn.

The 1994 Mustang Indy 500 Pace Car, third in the line to do the honors at the Memorial Day Classic.

The first Mustang was introduced April 17, 1964, at the New York World's Fair. Dealers were immediately swamped with orders.

Getting the love you want — — avoiding the divorce you hate

By Margie Reins Smith
Feature Editor

Even as the final chords of Lohengrin's "Wedding March" reverberate through the church rafters, newlyweds of the 90s are looking over their shoulders, nervously aware that 50 percent of them will eventually be humming the chorus of "Achy Breaky Heart."

Divorce is as common as TV talk shows.

Half of all married couples will split. For those who remarry, the statistics are even more dismal.

Many feuding couples try to avoid the devastating effects of divorce by seeking marriage counseling.

"In traditional marriage counseling, therapists are guides," said Carole Kirby, a therapist who works with individuals, couples and children.

Kirby is a certified Imago therapist. She is currently working with about 10 couples, using theories developed by Harville Hendrix, therapist, author and founder of the Institute for Relationship Therapy in New York City.

Hendrix' books, "Getting the Love You Want: A Guide for Couples," and "Keeping the Love You Find: A Guide for Singles," form the basis for Imago therapy. He also writes a regular column about marriage for Family Circle magazine.

Traditional marriage therapy often involves making bargains — he promises to do this if she promises to do that — and so on. The therapist acts as guide and mediator, Kirby said. The therapist uses knowledge and techniques of which the couple is unaware.

Michigan therapists have been trained in Imago therapy, which claims 90 percent success for partners who commit themselves to its principles. Traditional therapy has about a 30 percent success rate.

Couples marry for both conpected to play out to a successful resolution.

No wonder couples can't get along, Hendrix says.

Alexandra and Michael

Alexandra and Michael, a Grosse Pointe couple married four years with no children, seemed to argue most of the time.

"She was overpowering," said Michael, a clean-cut twentysomething engineer with a straightforward, level gaze. "I felt I didn't have any say. I was not heard. What I wanted, needed, didn't count."

Michael reacted to marital tension by retreating to his office, working longer and later.

"When he put in lots of time at work, it made me hurt even more," said Alexandra, a slim, well-dressed woman with long, streaked blond hair and a self-described logical, analytical approach to relationships.

She also had a lifelong fear of being abandoned, something Michael didn't know about.

After several years of circular arguments, they decided to seek marital counseling.

Alexandra approached the challenge by getting referrals, interviewing therapists and reading. After reading Hendrix' "Getting the Love You Want," she looked for a certified Imago therapist.

"We were in what is generally called a power struggle," Michael said. "Each of us had our own agenda. We were arguing all the time about dumb things. The defense mechanisms I used (working longer and later at the office) were created to deal with my father. I blamed her."

After nearly a year of weekly therapy sessions and a weekend Imago therapy workshop with about 100 other couples, they have successfully repaired their relationship and are more in love than ever, they said.

Ralph and Cheryll

Ralph and Cheryll, an attractive Grosse Pointe couple in their 40s, are both in their second marriage. They've been together for five years. Cheryll has two teenage daughters from her previous marriage. Ralph has a son in elementary school.

"My childhood wound was emotional abuse by parents who didn't know how to do anything else," Ralph said. "My reaction was to become an angry person."

"Cheryll is an Imago match

"Imago therapy is much more empowering for the couple," she said.

Imago therapy is based on the premise that childhood experiences form unconscious images (imagoes). These images play a dominant role in each person's choice of a partner. The images may also be the source of conflicts and struggles that develop within the relationship.

Imago therapy teaches couples how to discover the unconscious feelings and motivations that brought them together in the first place. And it teaches communication skills to help them resolve their conflicts. The goal of Imago therapy is what Hendrix calls, a "conscious marriage."

Kirby and a dozen or so scious and unconscious reasons, Hendrix says. Most people unconsciously choose partners that possess some of their parents' negative traits — usually the traits that caused them to feel wounded and unfulfilled when they were children and continue to cause them pain.

Then, Hendrix says, each partner unconsciously expects his or her spouse to heal these open wounds of childhood. The partner is expected to tie up the loose ends and finish the business of childhood. And — finally — to do it right.

The partner, however, is unaware of these childhood wounds and the drama he or she is ex-

Concerning Michael's long absences: "My reasons for doing this came from my childhood. To deal with conflict, I taught myself to take off and make myself better."

Alexandra's childhood wound was a fear of emotional and physical abandonment. "I needed affection that was not being fulfilled. This comes from my father," she said. "Even now, my father and I don't have a close relationship. He doesn't show affection. He doesn't show feelings."

"Imago therapy is very logical. Systematic. It also made us see that we're normal."

"Being normal was important," Michael said. "We had a fear of being freaks for going to marital counseling."

lowed, in yet another dramatic contrast.

The performances were absolutely vibrant throughout the concert which may be attributable in part to the excitement of the venue. But a most fascinating sidelight was the opportunity to hear the same concert on Thursday in Orchestra Hall and then on Saturday in Carnegie and try to compare the acoustics.

This is not an easy task. The internal space of Carnegie is smaller than Orchestra Hall and the proportions are somewhat different, yet Carnegie did not seem to gain a great advantage in volume and intensity of sound. Most frustrating is the reality that the sound in both halls varies according to where you sit. For crispness and clarity to hear the inner voices of the orchestra, sit close. For a rich reverberation and fuller sound, sit farther back.

Many find these qualities especially satisfying in Orchestra Hall's balcony. The blend and balance there are outstanding. This was true as well in Carnegie Hall, although the shallower balcony has less feeling of the wave of orchestral sound. In Carnegie, on the other hand, the tone of the piano seemed exceptionally brilliant and projected with unusual power. Nonetheless, the experience left a clear impression that the two halls, while somewhat different, are peers in the realm of truly remarkable and highly satisfying acoustics.

Anyone who cares can breathe a sigh of thanks to Isaac Stern and the Friends of Orchestra Hall who saved these two treasures. We can also thank Neeme Jarvi and the DSO for the exceptional artistic standards they are setting.

North wins soccer showdown with South

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe North's 2-0 victory over Grosse Pointe South not only gave the Lady Norsemen sole possession of first place in the Macomb Area Conference White Division girls soccer standings. It also saved coach Guido Regelbrugge from some embarrassment.

Regelbrugge represents the area in voting for the state rankings, but when he attempted to call in his recommendations last weekend, no one was available to take them.

Much to Regelbrugge's surprise, when the state rankings came out Monday his Lady Norsemen were ranked 10th.

"I was going to suggest that South be put in the top 10, but I guess when they looked at the scores they saw our 1-0 loss to Troy Athens and put us there," Regelbrugge said. "I told that to South's coach (Tom Caranicholas) before the game and said, 'I guess we'll decide now who belongs there.' If we hadn't won, I'd have been red-faced. Now we don't have to be embarrassed."

Regelbrugge admitted he was worried before the game.

"South scored three goals against Troy, two against Rochester Adams, five against Romeo and they merced Lake Shore. Nobody was even close to shutting them out and as good as our defense is, I couldn't help wondering if we could stop them," he said.

"I felt we could score one, maybe two goals against them but we weren't going to get three, four, five or six."

That's why Regelbrugge was relieved and happy when his team ended the first half in a scoreless tie.

South had a strong wind at its back in the first half, but North managed to keep the Lady Devils off the scoreboard.

"We told the girls before the game to make sure they weren't out of it before we had the wind advantage," Regelbrugge said. "Our goal in the first half was to keep the ball in the mid-field and keep it out of the box where the shots can be lethal."

"Then at halftime we discussed how we could get the ball into the net."

North dominated play in the second half and the Lady Norsemen broke the scoreless tie at the 20-minute mark. Robyn Maples took a corner kick that hit the crossbar and deflected to the side where Joanna Catalfio had an open corner.

"Once the goalie went up for the ball, she didn't have a chance to recover," Regelbrugge said. "Because of the wind, it was a very difficult ball to handle."

North got an insurance goal when Maples passed to Maureen Zolik, who went around the defense and sent a crossing

North ends South's reign in boys tennis

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe North's 7-1 victory over Grosse Pointe South in boys tennis this week ended a couple of streaks the Blue Devils have been building for several seasons.

"South hasn't lost a league meet since 1980 and it's the first time North has beaten South since 1988 when I was an assistant coach at South," said Blue Devils' coach Tom Berschback, who personal 59-match league winning streak was also snapped, but was a gracious loser.

"It was a good win for North and I congratulate them. My kids played well, but on paper this year North has the stronger team."

North coach Ken Gutow admitted his team was tested more by its crosstown rivals than the final score of the Macomb Area Conference Red Division match would indicate.

"We were behind in four of the seven matches," Gutow said. "But my kids did a nice job of coming back, especially in first singles where South had two match points in the second set."

In that battle, the Norsemen's Ajit Sarnaik and Jon VanAssche dropped the first set 6-3 to South's Todd Scallen and Andy Giraldo, but came back to win the last two 7-5 and 6-3.

North's only loss came in first singles where Mark Lev-North received excellent performances from goalkeeper Erin Schneider and defenders Alison VandeGinste, Gretchen Szama, Carla Legwand and Tanya Latinis.

"That's the first time we've had the whole defense together and they played very well," Regelbrugge said.
Earlier, North beat Warren-Mott 4-0 and the Lady Norsemen defeated Utica 3-1 in MAC White contests.
In the Mott game, North scored all its goals in the first 20 minutes. Catalfo tallied on a beautiful header, Zolik scored twice after beating the defender one-on-one and Maples completed the scoring.
"We're still in the process of building the team so we put the subs in after 20 minutes," Regelbrugge said. "We spent most of the rest of the game experimenting."
Against Utica, North got goals from Tara Chevalier and Catalfo — both set up by Szama — in the last 12 minutes to break a 1-1 tie.
Zolik tallied North's first goal against the surprising Chieftains.

Unbeaten squad

The sixth grade girls basketball team from Pierce Middle School was undefeated in round-robin competition with teams from Brownell and Parcels middle schools. The highlight of the tournament was a buzzer-beating 25-foot three-point shot by Jenny Sigler that beat Brownell. The team, coached by Glenn Williams, Kurt Kuehn and Vito Tocco, used aggressive defense and hustle. Leading scorers were Beth Howson, Maria Tocco, Anne Sullivan, Christina Bakalis and Sigler. Shelly Hancock, Silvia Tremonti, Scarlett O'Keefe, Nicole D'Hondt and Amanda McLeilan were the leading rebounders. Top playmakers were Colleen Trybus, Molly Weaver and Stephanie Tyler. Kneeling in front, from left, are Weaver, Jennie Lech, Tyler, Sigler and Howson. In the middle row, from left, are Lindsay Risk, Erin Weston, Liz Valandingham, McLellan, Maria Tocco and Elena Callas. In back, from left, are Kuehn, Katie Handley, Erin Rentenbach, Emily Ross, Amanda Bankovic, Lisa Davis and Vito Tocco.

Coca-Cola came out of the losers' bracket to win the Thursday night championship in the Neighborhood Club men's winter volleyball league.
In the final playoff match against Vita Pac, Coca-Cola swept the best-of-three series, with the second game going into overtime.
Good blocking, some excellent saves and teamwork were the factors in Coca-Cola's success.
"Everyone did their job to help us win the championship," said player Marty McMillan.
It was the second championship in less than a year for the team, which also took first in the fall league.
"The tenacity of the team was overwhelming. We never gave up," said player Ken Mackool.
The team has been in the league for five years and the present core of players has been together for the last three.
The squad received a trophy and each player got a championship shirt.
Co-rec softball
There's still time to get a team together for the Neighborhood Club's co-rec 16-inch softball league, which is open to persons 18 and older.
Participants form their own teams and each squad must have at least five males and five females.
Teams will play eight league games between June 3 and Aug. 5. Games are played on Fridays at 6:15 and 7:30 p.m. Helmets are mandatory and must be provided by each team.
The cost is $215 per team plus an umpire fee of $7 per game. Registration is accepted through May 5.
Registration may be done in person or by sending a complete team roster, along with payment, to the Neighborhood Club, 17150 Waterloo, Grosse Pointe 48230.

Craig Rogowski beat the Blue Devils' Andy Loredo 6-1, 7-6 in second singles; Mike McHugh posted a 6-4, 6-1 victory over Andy Schumacher at No. 3; and North's Tom Keller beat Brian Granados 6-0, 7-6 in fourth singles.
North's Sean Brady and Jeff Barlow posted a 6-3, 6-1 win in No. 2 doubles; Brent Kastner and Todd Schorer outlasted South's Jay Disser and Ryan Parshall 4-6, 6-3, 6-3 in third doubles; and Chad Whistler and Peter Dennecker won 6-3, 6-4 at No. 4 doubles.
"We knew if we were going to do anything this would be the year," said Gutow, who came out of a brief retirement to coach this year's squad. "Seven of our top 10 players are seniors and most of those have been with me for four years."
"In league play, we've won all 31 of the matches we've played. If we can do that in our last two matches against Eisenhower and Port Huron Northern it will be quite an accomplishment."
Berschback was pleased with the efforts of several of his players.
"Andy (Loredo) played well, but Craig was just fantastic and I was real pleased with Disser and Parshall, who are first-year starters. Our first doubles team also did well against North's excellent team," the South coach said.
Last weekend, North finished second in the East Grand Rapids Invitational by only three points to Okemos, which is ranked No. 1 in the state.
"Kastner and Schorer played super in their first major tournament and Aijt and Jon lost to Okemos in the finals," Gutow said. "Our other kids all won two points out of three."
North, which is ranked fifth in the state in Class A, has beaten MAC Red foes Sterling Heights, Chippewa Valley and Stevenson 8-0 and topped University Liggett School 6-2 in a non-league match.
South also made a good showing in the Grand Blanc Invitational last weekend.
"Jeff Wheeler and Andy Loredo each won their flights against a strong field of teams that included Grand Blanc, Midland Dow and Country Day and Matt Galnor had a big win over a Country Day player in fourth singles," Berschback said.

ULS booters off to a fast start

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor
Coach David Backhurst is as surprised as anyone that his University Liggett School girls soccer team is off to such a good start.
"I didn't expect to do so well so early," Backhurst said after the Lady Knights improved their overall record to 3-0-1 with a 6-2 victory over Lutheran Northwest in a Metro Conference match.
"We have only seven returning players after losing 11 seniors and another player who transferred. I literally had to walk up and down the halls recruiting players and some of them have never played the game before."
Backhurst quickly points out that there is a fine nucleus of players to build around.
"Potentially, we have some of the best players this school has seen," Backhurst said. "Right now, the newer players are learning and the better, more experienced ones are playing outstanding soccer."
Shera Teitze opened the scoring against Lutheran Northwest when she tallied off a corner kick. The play was one that ULS had been working on in practice — without great success.
Teitze got the corner kick to Melanie Buhalis, who gave it back to Teitze, who gave the Lady Knights a 1-0 lead with the game only three minutes old.
"(Northwest) wasn't looking for her to take the shot," Backhurst said. "It's funny. The day before we couldn't get it right in practice. The first time we tried it in a game we scored a goal."
The Crusaders tied the game at the 20-minute mark of the first half, but Teitze broke the deadlock nine minutes later and Elizabeth Eldridge gave ULS a two-goal cushion in the final minute of the half.
Eldridge made a fine play as she side-stepped a defender, who lost her balance and fell. The Lady Knights' co-captain then fired a shot from 20 yards that eluded the Northwest net-minder.

ULS, which outshot the Crusaders 24-15, scored the first three goals of the second half. Julianne Cassin tallied twice on crossing passes from Teitze and Kim Rendz came off the bench to complete the scoring.
Goalkeeper Melissa Buhalis had a strong game and defenders Katy Spicer, Laura Haggarty, Brooke Wright and Karin Salden turned in excellent performances.
ULS opened the Metro Conference season with a 10-0 rout of Lutheran East.
Teitze scored two of her four goals during the first six minutes of the game, both on assists from freshman Abby Tompkins, who added three goals of her own.
Spicer, Cassin and Salden each scored once for the Lady Knights.
ULS opened the season with a scoreless tie against Ann Arbor Greenhills in which Melissa Buhalis made several outstanding saves. Spicer and Haggarty also sparkled on defense.
A goal by Spicer off a free kick broke a 4-4 tie and helped the Lady Knights beat South Lake 6-4.
"She was about 35 yards out when she took the shot," Backhurst said. "She has such a strong leg."
Tompkins scored four goals and set up another by Melanie Buhalis in the game that was tied 4-4 at halftime.
ULS has an important Metro Conference game, Friday at 4:30 p.m. at Lutheran North.

Little League has 40th anniversary
A reception from 10 a.m. until noon at the Grosse Pointe Woods city hall and a parade starting at 1 p.m. will highlight the 40th anniversary celebration of the Grosse Pointe Woods-Shores Little League.
Among those honored during the opening day ceremonies will be members of the state championship teams from 1966, 1978 and 1979 and past presidents and board members of the organization.

Knights capture first lacrosse league victory

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor
University Liggett School boys lacrosse coach John Fowler picked the wrong time to leave the squad in the hands of his able assistant, Hal Belanger.
By doing so, he missed his team's first league victory.
With Fowler attending a conference in Minnesota, Belanger took the reins and led the Knights to a 6-3 victory over Notre Dame in the AA Division of the Michigan High School Lacrosse Association.
"The team played very well in the second half of the game," Fowler said after getting the briefing from Belanger. "We had better ball control in the second half and gave Notre Dame very few offensive opportunities."
Fowler was also encouraged by ULS' balanced scoring. Hank Ackerman scored two goals and Steve Fitzgerald, Ken McIntyre, Pat Moltane and John McNaughton added one apiece.
"We had one goal from each of our starting attackers (Moltane, McIntyre and Fitzgerald), which is what we like to see," Fowler said. "It's important to have the offense be more than one guy."
The victory gave the Knights a 1-2 record in the division that includes Troy, Troy Athens, L'Anse Creuse, L'Anse Creuse North, Grosse Pointe South, Grosse Pointe North and Bishop Foley.
Earlier, ULS dropped a 7-1 decision to Troy and lost 10-7 to L'Anse Creuse in league outings.
The Knights won their two non-league games. ULS opened the season with a 6-4 victory over Lansing Waverly and beat Grand Rapids Forest Hills Central 4-3 on McIntyre's goal from Lifelong partners since kindergarten, Stan & Dave would like a chance to become lifelong partners with you!

Dave Levy and Stan Schwartz, the owners of Classic Window & Siding, have been friends and partners in business ever since they were little kids. Though, as youngsters, back in the days of Kool-Aid stands, they probably never suspected that they would grow up to be the men behind the East area's most respected name in windows and siding. On the other hand, if their Kool-Aid was any indication of what was to come, on a hot summer day, they knew even then what it meant to be in demand.

Connect cold-air return directly to the outdoors

Now that spring is here and we will soon be opening the windows and doors, it's time to think about fresh air makeup and negative pressures in your home.

During the long cold winter, while you think your house is sealed tight, it's not. Every time your furnace, hot water heater, kitchen or bath fans turn on, you exhaust air to the outside. This air must be replaced somehow. Where does it come from? It comes in through windows, doors, cracks in the walls, holes in your roof and down to your fireplace chimney.

Has your home ever emitted odors from the fireplace when it is 30 to 40 degrees outside and overcast and a day or so after having a fire in the fireplace? Do you feel a "breeze" around windows and doors? This is the "make up" air coming into your home.

When this air sneaks into your home, it is unheated (or uncooled) and unfiltered. There are several ways to greatly reduce these drafts. The first is to install a high-efficiency furnace and hot water heater that use the outside air for combustion and do not use conditioned air in your home. This will reduce much of the problem by not using any of your pre-existing inside air.

The best solution is to install a make up air unit that is connected directly to your heating system. The most popular and recommended unit is the Skuttle 216. This unit mounts on your cold air duct with an insulated pipe running to a dryer-type vent to the outside of your home. Inside, the Skuttle has a mechanical damper (non electric) with two weights. Once installed, these weights are adjusted for your home by turning on all possible exhausting appliances at the same time; it is then adjusted to the proper amount of air you are exhausting.

Now, when an appliance comes on, the air that is needed in the home is drawn in through the Skuttle unit, instead of the windows, doors, etc. By the air coming in through your cold air return, it is immediately filtered by your furnace filtering system and then conditioned or dehumidified. You also, as a bonus, know that you are periodically bringing new, clean fresh air into your home.

The Skuttle 216 is readily available. My firm, Flame Furnace Co., handles it, as do most other heating and cooling companies. The installed cost typically runs between $250 and $325.

If you have any heating or cooling questions, contact me at Flame Furnace Co. at 527-1700. Next month we will talk about starting up your air conditioner.

'Crab'-related topics to be concerned about in spring

Q. Last year my crabapple tree lost its leaves prematurely because of a disease called apple scab. What should I do to avoid the problem again this year?

A. Apple scab is a common fungal disease which will winter over on fallen leaves and debris around the tree, so the first thing to do is clean up in the fall. Spring should begin with a spray program with one of the following fungicides: captan, benomyl or mancozeb. Spray all leaf, blossom and fruit surfaces to the point of runoff. And always follow label directions.

When to spray:

- 1) As leaves just begin opening (half inch green).
- 2) Just before bloom.
- 3) When blossoms are open.
- 4) After most of the petals have fallen.
- 5) 10-14 day intervals after petals fall until summer dry weather persists.

Q. Is it time to apply a pre-emergent crab grass control to my lawn?

A. Before you decide to treat, try to recall whether you really had a problem with crabgrass last year. If not, you may not need to treat your lawn this year. Crabgrass seedlings can be crowded out by a thick, vigorous lawn. Crabgrass is a fibrous rooted annual weed, which lies flat on the ground and is usually a lighter color green. It is rarely a problem in shaded areas and it can easily be pulled if you notice a few plants trying to take hold. Although open and weak turf areas promote crabgrass infestations, it does not cause poor turf.

If you have decided that your lawn does need treatment for crabgrass, now is a fine time to apply a pre-emergent herbicide labeled for crabgrass control. The treatment should be made before the forsythia (the early yellow flowered shrub) reaches full bloom. Or when we have had five to seven consecutive nights of 50-degree temperatures.
