

County commissioners prepare to hold a tax hike hearing

By John Minnis
Editor

Seeking to spend $10 million more than last year, the Wayne County Board of Commissioners has scheduled a Truth in Taxation public hearing.

The county's plan to hike its millage rate by .1730 would raise 1994 revenues beyond the inflation rate and therefore requires a public hearing, which will be held on Thursday, Oct.

20, from 10 to 11 a.m., in the fourth floor commission chambers in the Wayne County Building, 600 Randolph.

Following the hearing, the county board could vote on the tax rate. No vote of the public is required.

The proposed tax hike includes 0.0189 of a mill for the Veteran's Relief Fund, which was revived after some 200 veterans and their families filed suit to force the county to comply with an 1899 Michigan law that says counties shall levy up to 1/10th of a mill for an emergency relief fund for veterans.

While the county is touting the .1730 mill tax hike as only a 2.3 percent increase over what it could levy without a Truth in Taxation hearing, Grosse Pointe county commissioner Andrew Richner doesn't buy it.

"My calculations show it's going up 4.5 percent," Richner said. In 1993, the county raised $213 million in tax revenue. If the proposed tax is approved following the hearing, it will raise $223 million for 1994. That's a $10 million, 4.5 percent increase, Richner said.

"I voted against holding the hearing because we were asking for more than the rate of inflation," he said. "I don't think we should take more from taxpayers than the rate of inflation."

"We're not adding any additional level of services, so why should we ask for more? They increase their levy every year until they're at the maximum allowed. Plus, we should also look for cost-saving measures."

The county tax levy, if approved following the hearing, would be 7.6790 mills for 1994, up from 7.6601 mills for 1993. To prevent windfall gains in excess of inflation, the 1993 tax rate had to be rolled back to 7.5060 mills, which would increase revenues 1.72 percent over 1993. The additional 0.1730 of a mill being sought would bring the county tax rate up to its maximum of 7.6790 mills.

WE'RE CONCERNED ABOUT YESTERDAY'S NEWS.

News can appear one day and be gone the next. But the paper news is printed on can and should live on.

Last year, more than one third of all U.S. newsprint was recycled. And that number is growing every day.

Engler speaks at War Memorial

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

Gov. John Engler was at the War Memorial Monday afternoon to speak to the Grosse Pointe Rotary Club, and his message was well-received by its members.

Engler, a Republican who is running for re-election against Democrat Howard Wolpe, spoke for about 45 minutes to the crowd of Rotarians and their guests.

Engler began his speech by referring to Sunday's debate between himself and Wolpe. After asking if anyone in the audience had seen the debate, he said he was pleased with it because he was able to talk about the issues that concerned him.

Engler also mentioned his wife and the triplets that she is expecting. He said he hopes they will be born at the end of November.

Engler then began his speech in earnest by declaring that the state is growing both economically and in population.

"The 1990 census showed that Michigan gained 33,000 residents in 10 years," Engler said. "Preliminary census figures indicate that the state has gained 233,000 people since 1990. People were writing off Michigan when I was elected. Last month, figures indicated that there were 98,000 new jobs in the state. More people are working in Michigan than ever before."

Engler noted that Michigan has its lowest unemployment level in 21 years, and that the figures have been below the national average for the whole year, the first time that has happened in years.

He added that not all the jobs were due to the automotive industry's recent upturn. He noted that personal income in the state is growing faster than the national average.

"That's not to say that Michigan doesn't have problems," Engler said. "We have a shortage of skilled labor. By the end of the decade, U-M estimates that Michigan will need to replace 90,000 skilled workers who are currently nearing retirement age. We have a need for skilled workers. We are recruiting unemployed engineers from California and Texas."

One way to handle the shortage of skilled workers, said Engler, is to change the way the state educates its children. Only about half of high school graduates go on to college, he said, but most high school curriculums are aimed at the kids going to college. What about those who aren't going to college? Don't they deserve an education that will get them a good job once they graduate? he asked.

That's why Engler said he supports programs that will give students real-life work skills.

"If this sounds like an apprentice program, that's because it is," said Engler. "We must also make sure that those who go to college have the skills they need to succeed there. When I ask college officials how they can save money, they tell me that they could save a lot if they didn't have to teach remedial courses to students."

Engler was enthusiastic about charter schools. He said they are not an effort to get re-

North neighbors cry foul, saying lighted night games are illegal

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

Attorneys representing residents on Sunningdale and Hidden Lane asked the Grosse Pointe school board on Monday to pull the plug on Friday's one-time-only night football game at North high.

David Mauer and Thomas Lizza, who said they were speaking on behalf of 200 residents who live adjacent to North, said they would take legal action if the school district did not cancel tomorrow's 7 p.m. game against Roseville High School.

At press time on Tuesday, the school district planned to play the game as scheduled. Superintendent Ed Shine said he received a verbal opinion from Woods city attorney George Catlin stating that the temporary field lights were not in violation of any city ordinance.

At issue is the use of 35-foot-high temporary lights operated by generators. Mauer and Lizza said use of such equipment is in violation of two city ordinances — one that regulates the use of construction equipment after 6 p.m. and another that regulates the placement of such equipment near residential homes.

"We learned through the Grosse Pointe News that there would be a trial game on Oct. 14," Mauer said. "We were given no notice and the neighborhood is outraged. We feel deceived by the board, the North administration and the Boosters."

Mauer and Lizza said it was their understanding that the school board voted last spring to accept a gift from the North boosters for the purchase of permanent lights, but would let the cities make the final decision.

In July, the Grosse Pointe Woods City Council voted unanimously against the installation of permanent lights on the football field, which is surrounded on three sides by houses.

The North Boosters then consulted with the Woods city attorney and learned that there was no ordinance on the books prohibiting the use of temporary lights if the lights are under 35 feet, said superintendent Ed Shine.

"Since the lights were not going to be above 35 feet and they were not permanent structures, it was the interpretation of the city attorney that the city had no authority to regulate their use," Shine said.

When North administrators learned they could play a one-time-only night game under temporary lights, they promised the neighborhood there would be no rowdiness or vandalism.

"This is not about student behavior; the Grosse Pointe Woods City Council has spoken," Lizza said. "The only other alternative we have is to file a lawsuit."

Lizza also told the school board that, if necessary, the residents will seek injunctive relief against night games and will see that North lives up to broken promises made by the school board 25 years ago — including promises that the school would have adequate parking, greenbelts and brick-walls as a buffer protecting the neighborhood.

"I think you're being threatened," said Terry Kasiborski, former president of the North Boosters. "If it's not this issue, then it will be something else down the road. I think it's ludicrous for Mr. Mauer and Mr. Lizza to suggest that we tricked the Woods city council. This is what the city told us we could do and we took that in good faith."

"If we are in violation of city ordinances, then the game should not go on," said treasurer Gloria Konsler. "I am angered that the Grosse Pointe Woods community would be so mean-spirited to ask that the football game be canceled. I am a Woods resident and I am angered that you are throwing me in the pot with this opposition."

Shine said if the administration learns that the night game is in violation of ordinances, it will be moved to its originally scheduled time of 1 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 15.

Hey, what about us?

Wayne County commissioner Andrew Richner scheduled an Oct. 10 citizens' forum at the Harper Woods Community Center featuring Gov. John Engler without knowing whether the governor would appear, said gubernatorial press secretary John Truscott.

Residents expecting to participate in the forum showed up at the center Monday only to find a handwritten sign over the door that said: "Due to unavoidable circumstances the governor's visit has been cancelled."

City clerk Mickey Todd said he thought the forum had been cancelled Monday morning.

But Truscott said Richner was told as early as last week that the governor might be a no-show.

"He was told not to set up anything or confirm anything until he got a confirmation from our office. This didn't fit the time slot," Truscott said.

Engler did speak to a Grosse Pointe Rotary Club luncheon earlier in the day, but then had to keep a long-standing commitment to the editorial board of Crain Communications.

He said Richner set up the appearance through Greg Brock, who works in Engler's Detroit office. Brock is a liaison between local officials and the governor's main office in Lansing.

Truscott said Brock told Richner to wait for further word from Lansing before scheduling the appearance.

"He got a little ahead of us, before we could say 'yes' or 'no.' We never gave it a definite go-ahead," Truscott said.

Richner could not be reached for comment.

ligion in the schools and that the Noah Webster Academy has not yet been approved. It is just one of many proposed charter schools being considered for approval by the state, he said.

"There are 1.6 million students in Michigan public schools," Engler said. "I want to make Michigan schools the best in the world. But the MEA opposes my efforts. But not all teachers feel that way. I've found that many want flexibility, and that the union is at odds with its own members. The thing that will define the state is the quality of its schools."

Engler said now that Proposition A has passed, Michigan has a great competitive advantage over other states because Michigan has kept the courts out of school finance reform, something 25 other states can't say. He also said that the school of choice program will give schools incentives needed to improve.

Engler answered a few questions from the audience, saying that he has cracked down on crime, and when he has spoken with pastors and other civic leaders in Detroit, he has heard that his welfare reforms and crime bills are popular. People, he said, have told him that welfare to workfare was the right thing to do. He aims to get 25 percent of Detroit's vote next month.

Take a class — it's well worth your time

Don't quite understand all the features on your camera? Having trouble getting everything in focus from front to back in your pictures? Exposures not what they should be?

Maybe it's time to consider taking a photography class. The usually modest cost for a course will pay off handsomely in better, more impact-filled photographs.

A good photography class combined with a good instructor will motivate and stimulate your photography interests. After completing a course, you'll be pleasantly pleased with the improvement in your photos. I have been teaching photography courses for many years and it is extremely gratifying to see people "grow" and get "turned on" to their photography.

Photography classes can be found in all metropolitan areas. Most local communities have adult education programs where a good photography course is always available. Check with community colleges in your area, too. In addition to regular classes, they offer dark-room programs for the more serious camera buff.

Many large camera stores will offer classes or can assist you in finding one. Large companies such as Nikon conduct weekend seminars in major cities around the country. These are excellent and will definitely stimulate your photographic skills.

For the really adventurous, traveling workshops are readily available. These can be as diverse as a weekend workshop close to home or a photo safari in Africa. Learning on location is perhaps the best way to sharpen your photographic skills.

Each year, I conduct a traveling workshop. We've been to China, the Canadian Rockies and many more scenic locations. The resulting photos from the students have been superb.

So whether it's a short course at a local community educational facility or a workshop in one of the world's exotic places, photography classes are beneficial indeed.

Big tax cut awaits self-employed in retirement

The millions of Americans who work for themselves, either full or part-time, are eligible for a valuable tax break. By contributing some of their self-employment earnings to a Keogh plan or a Simplified Employee Pension (SEP) plan, these workers can cut their income tax bill while saving for retirement.

If you're self-employed, the Michigan Association of CPAs (MACPA) says it's wise to contribute as much as you can, as early as possible, to qualified retirement plans. Contributions will decrease your taxable income and your money compounds tax-free until withdrawal. And, of course, the more you contribute, the more you will have for your retirement years.

For 1994, the maximum salary that can be taken into account when calculating a contribution to a Keogh or SEP is $150,000. There are further limitations on Keogh contributions. If you have employees who meet the eligibility requirements for Keogh benefits, you must contribute the same percentage of income for those employees as you do for yourself.

Most Keoghs are defined contribution plans under which you set aside a specific amount of your net earnings each year, untaxed, and invest this amount in a retirement plan.

Defined contribution plans themselves come in two types — profit-sharing plans and money purchase plans. Typically, contributions to a profit-sharing plan are made from a company's profits. Each year you can decide whether or not to contribute to the plan and the amount of your contribution. There is no yearly funding requirement.

Contributions to a money purchase plan are also calculated as a percentage of self-employment income. This type of plan requires you to contribute a pre-set percentage of your self-employment income each year, regardless of whether the company had a profit or loss for the year.

Under a second, more complex type of Keogh plan, the defined benefit plan, you promise yourself an annual benefit amount for your retirement years. Your annual contributions are then calculated based on how much you need to contribute each year to meet your retirement goals.

The size of your contribution can be significant and vary from year to year. This type of Keogh plan appeals primarily to older individuals who are in a position to shelter most or all of their income.

SEPs are also defined contribution plans. They are usually set up by employers to make contributions toward their own (if self-employed) and their employees' retirement. Because SEP plans are more flexible and easier to set up and administer than Keoghs, they enable an employer to make retirement funds available to employees without becoming involved in more complex retirement plans.

SEP contributions are tax deductible and the earnings in a SEP accumulate, tax-deferred, until withdrawn. You may choose not to contribute to a SEP in a given year or change the percentage of your contribution from year to year.

If you want to deduct retirement contributions from your 1994 income, now is the time to consider whether a SEP or Keogh is best for you. Uncle Sam gives you until Dec. 31 to formally establish a Keogh plan.

You then have until the due date of your tax return, including extensions, to actually fund your Keogh plan for the year. With a SEP plan, you have until the due date of your tax return, including extensions, to both establish a plan and make your contributions.

You may invest your SEP or Keogh contributions in a wide range of vehicles including certificates of deposit, stocks and bonds, mutual funds and real estate. MACPA urges you to actively monitor your retirement investments just as you would your personal investment portfolio.

Remember, the retirement benefit you receive is based not only on how much you put away, but also on how well the money was invested.

Tax Tips

Following are examples of common questions people ask the Internal Revenue Service.

Q. How do I correct mistakes I made on my income tax return?

A. Use Form 1040X, Amended U.S. Individual Income Tax Return, to correct Forms 1040, 1040A, 1040EZ, 1040NR, and 1040PC. You can call 1-800-829-3676 to request the Form and instructions.

If you used Telefile for your original return, you can call 1-800-829-1040 for details on how to complete Form 1040X. File a separate Form 1040X for each year you are amending.

Q. When should I file Form

A. File Form 1040X only after you have filed your original Form 1040. Generally, Form 1040X must be filed within 3 years after the date the original return was filed or within 2 years after the date the tax was paid, whichever is later.

A return filed early is considered filed on the day it was due. Please note that it may take 2 to 3 months to process Form 1040X.

Q. What else can Form 1040X be used for?

A. Form 1040X can also be used if you and your spouse filed separately and you now wish to change your separate returns to a joint return.

If you are changing from a separate to a joint return and your spouse did not file an original return, enter your name and social security number first.

You can also use Form 1040X to have $3 (or $1 if you are amending a 1992 return) go to the Presidential Election Campaign Fund if you (or your spouse on a joint return) did not do so on your original return.

This must be done within 20 1/2 months after the original due date for filing the return. For calendar year 1993, this period ends December 31, 1995. For calendar year 1992, the period ends December 31, 1994. A

"Yes" designation cannot be changed.

Q. I discovered that I forgot to put down some deductions on Schedule A. Can I use the 1040X to claim them?

A. Yes. You can use Form 1040X to make any changes needed to make your return reflect your correct income and deductions for the year.

The related schedules and forms may also help you. To get prior year forms, schedules and instructions, call 1-800-TAX-FORM (1-800-829-3676). For more information on claiming refunds, call 1-800-829-3676 and ask for Publication 556, Examination of Returns.

Animal disposal: Act of cruelty or standard procedure in urban setting?

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

As Denise Souligney was driving along Bournemouthe in Grosse Pointe Woods one day last week, she encountered a dazed-looking raccoon wandering in circles in the middle of the street.

The ring-tailed creature appeared disoriented, weak and oblivious to the people and traffic around it, she said.

Having worked in a local veterinary clinic for 10 years, Souligney suspected the animal was suffering either from rabies or distemper. She got out of her car and approached the animal. It didn't seem to notice she was there, she said. After notifying Woods police, Souligney directed traffic around the ailing creature.

An animal control officer soon arrived, snared the animal, put it in a cage and took it away, she said.

Her stint at a local veterinarian's office led Souligney to assume that the officer would take the diseased animal to an animal clinic to be euthanized, although she said the officer never told her what he was going to do with the creature.

When she made a few follow-up phone calls later that day, Souligney said she was upset to hear that the raccoon never made it to the animal clinic. It was taken to the Grosse Pointe Woods public works garage, shot and then incinerated.

"There's no excuse for this. How many other animals has this happened to?" she said. "That animal showed no signs of aggression; it was completely docile. Now we'll never know if it had distemper or rabies."

Souligney said she reported the incident to the Michigan Anti-Cruelty Society, to the Wayne County Health Department and to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

Mike Killian, director of investigations for the Michigan Anti-Cruelty Society, said he is aware of the incident but has not yet investigated it.

"I plan on talking to the local authorities," Killian said. "But what they did would be based on their internal policy. We'd have to determine if the officer had a right to do this. We could ask them to reconsider their policy. My only concern at this point would be if there was some concern about rabies, they destroyed all the tissues for testing."

Woods public safety Lt. Michael Makowski said his officer acted within the department's policy when he shot the animal.

"If we have a sick or injured wild animal and it's not the case where the animal has bitten someone, we destroy it," Makowski said. "If it has bitten someone, we follow the proper procedure of quarantining and euthanizing the animal so that it can be tested for rabies."

The well-established policy at the Woods police department dictates that a sick or injured domestic animal — a dog or cat — is taken to a local veterinary clinic for treatment and shelter. A domestic animal that is involved in a biting incident is taken to a veterinary clinic and quarantined for a specific period of time to observe it for signs of rabies. A wild animal suspected of having a disease or an injury is destroyed — most often by being shot. A wild animal that has had contact with a human or a domestic animal is euthanized and the head is removed and sent to a lab for rabies tests.

"I can see how (Souligney) would be upset," Makowski said. "If she was told the animal was going to a veterinary office, she was misinformed."

Woods public safety director Jack Patterson said raccoons, opossums and squirrels have been an ongoing nuisance to city residents. Raccoons, in particular, have been responsible for chewing through roofs, nesting in attics and chimneys, chewing through wires, destroying gardens and ripping open trash containers.

Patterson was quick to add that not every animal the city captures is destroyed. If the creature is healthy, it is removed from the area where it is creating a nuisance and released in the area around the highway department garage, he said.

They may be cute — but they're not cuddly

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

Raccoons, opossums, squirrels and other back yard wildlife often are a nuisance in urban settings and occasionally become a threat to health and safety. Sometimes domestic animals — such as dogs and cats contract diseases and become just as dangerous.

What is a resident to do? Forget about shooting the creature. It is against local ordinances to discharge a firearm within city limits, said Grosse Pointe Woods public safety director Jack Patterson.

And organizations like the Michigan Anti-Cruelty Society and the Wayne County Health Department consider clubbing and shooting animals to be an inhumane method of animal disposal.

Healthy domestic animals that have wandered from their Grosse Pointe homes are generally captured by local animal control officers and taken to the Grosse Pointe Animal Clinic. Injured or diseased domestic animals also are taken to the clinic.

Sometimes local police departments call on the expertise of Grosse Pointe Park veterinarian Lawrence Parkzog, who may use a tranquilizer gun to corral a distressed animal.

All Pointe municipalities have live animal traps available at their offices for residents to use. Healthy wild animals captured in live traps should be taken to an open space and released. City of Grosse Pointe deputy public safety director Dick Clarke recommends a place like Belle Isle. Grosse Pointe Park public safety director Richard Caretti said squirrels may be released at one of the city's municipal parcs. If rabies is suspected in a wild or domestic animal that has scratched or bitten a human, the animal should be captured and quarantined or euthanized.

The Wayne County Health Department, in conjunction with the Southeastern Michigan Epidemiology Committee, recommends that the affected animal be given a lethal injection.

Domestic animals exposed to rabies are quarantined for 10 days. Dr. Donald Lawrenchuk, medical director at the Wayne County Health Department, said the problem with wild animals, especially raccoons, is that they can carry the rabies virus for years without exhibiting symptoms. Domestic animals affected will die within five days of exposure, he said.

And finally, Lawrenchuk said that the national Centers for Disease Control has identified raccoons as "high-risk" animals because they are leading carriers of rabies.

"Rabies is a life-threatening disease and is 100 percent fatal in humans," Lawrenchuk said. "It is not something to be taken lightly."

Anyone who has been bitten or scratched by a wild animal should seek medical attention within 24 hours, he said. Preventive measures include a series of five injections into the shoulder, costing about $40 a dose, he said.

Attorney discovers that actor's life suits him better than torts

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

Longtime attorney Peter Bellanca has something a lot more exciting than golf or sailing as a hobby; he's become a professional actor.

"Some of my friends look at the time I spend on acting and the theater, and they shake their heads," said Bellanca. "I tell them they can do what they like, and I'll do what I like, but I'm happier than I've ever been. I wish everyone would find something to do that is as rewarding as I find acting."

He always loved acting and even remembers his first part. He played an elf at his kindergarten Thanksgiving pageant. He even remembers his first line as an actor.

"I had a small part in Mrs. Frikleton's show," said Bellanca. "My first line was 'Pumpkin man, pumpkin man, catch a brownie if you can, yes I will, yes I will, if the brownie will stand still.' That line is burned into my memory."

"I attended the University of Detroit High School, and was involved with the dramatic group there. So when I went to college at Holy Cross in Massachusetts, I got into drama there. We went on a tour of New England and were performing the 'Hasty Heart' at the Red Barn Theater in Stamford, Conn., in '54."

The Red Barn Theater was like a triple A baseball team, one step away from the big leagues, said Bellanca. Marlon Brando starred there, as did others. Bellanca was offered a place at the theater for $40 a week. So he called his father, attorney James V. Bellanca, and told him about the offer. He told me to get home right away.

Bellanca's father convinced him to stay in school because, as he put it, "sons listened to their fathers in those days."

Bellanca then went into the Navy, where he spent two years on an aircraft carrier in the Seventh Fleet. After getting out of the Navy, he attended U-D Law School. In

POINTER OF INTEREST

1960 he joined his father's law firm, Bellanca, Beattie and DeLisle. In 1965, Bellanca's father died, and he took over.

He continued with his law career, and admits he probably wouldn't have gotten into acting if weren't the fact that he has had several bouts with cancer.

"Cancer is a wonderful disease," said Bellanca. "It gives you plenty of warning so you can prepare yourself for the future. Everyone knows they're going to die, but few people really believe it."

So about seven years ago, Bellanca decided to follow his dream of becoming an actor.

"I had spent about a month in the intensive care unit," Bellanca said. "As I lay there, I promised myself that I would pursue my dream. I semi-retired from the law and started studying acting."

He took a week-long seminar in New York taught by Michael Shurtleff, author of the famous book on acting called "Auditions." He also studied with Uta Hagen, who appeared on Broadway in "Who's Afraid of Virginia Wolfe?" when Hagen was in Detroit teaching acting.

"Shurtleff opened my eyes about acting," Bellanca said. "He taught me that acting is nothing more than life, that acting is making the character play you, a process where you rip out that which you have hidden and place it onstage. I think that's why so many actors are eccentric — the process is very unnerving."

Bellanca worked with Michigan actor Jeff Daniels — who recently appeared as Keanu Reeves' doomed partner in the summer hit movie "Speed" — on Daniels' play "Vast Difference" at the Gem Theater.

"The play was written by Daniels and originally performed at his Purple Rose Theater in Chelsea," said Bellanca. "I helped produce it in Detroit, and also acted in it. Jeff was great to work with because he let the actors develop their parts. One of my characters was originally written as a 35-year-old man, and I got to redevelop him as an older man."

Another thrill in being in "Vast Difference" was meeting Tiger great Al Kaline, said Bellanca. Daniels is a big Kaline fan, and a scene in the play had Kaline talking to one of the characters. When Bellanca suggested that Daniels invite Kaline to see the show, Daniels said that he was too nervous to do that and was afraid of offending his idol.

So when Daniels showed up at the Gem one night, Bellanca was surprised. Usually writers don't attend plays once they premiere. When he asked Daniels why he was there, Daniels said that Kaline and Ernie Harwell were in the audience. It seems that Kaline liked the show and the way it was written after all.

About a year ago, Bellanca became a producer at the Gem Theater. He also serves on the board of directors of the Detroit chapter of the Screen Actor's Guild and AFTRA, a television and radio union.

"I'm working with the unions to help provide employment for professional actors and theater people like technicians, costumers and the like," said Bellanca. "It's very difficult, if not impossible, for an actor to make a living in Detroit working solely as an actor. If I didn't have my legal practice firmly established, I'd never have had the guts to become an actor full-time."

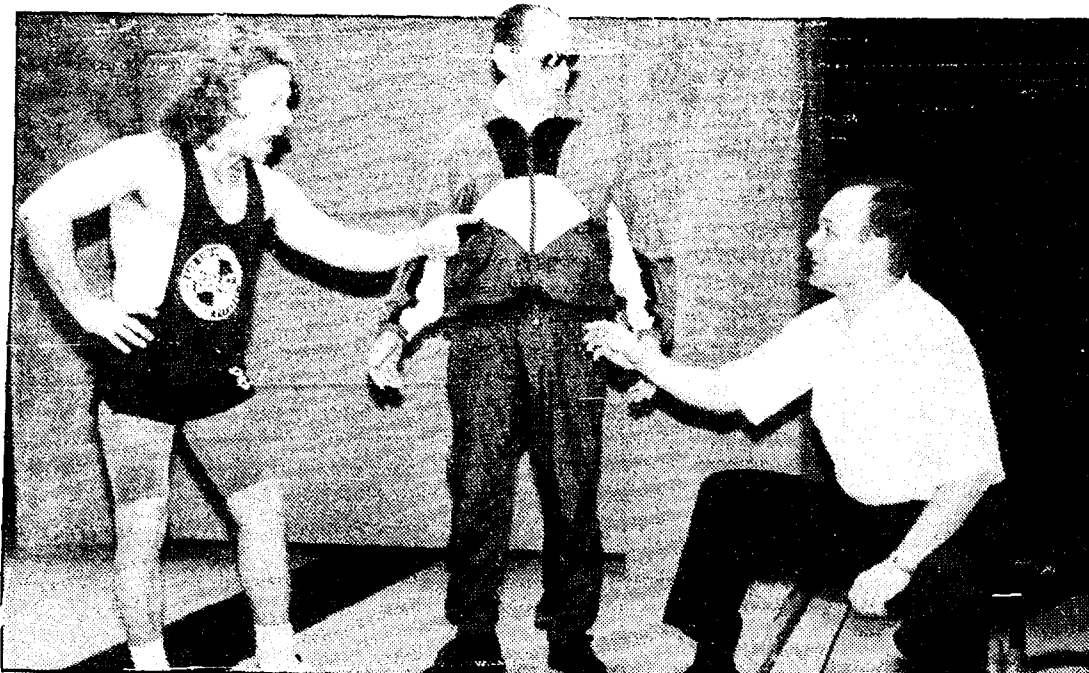

Detroit needs theater, Bellanca said. When the Fox is open and the Gem and State theaters have shows, that part of the city is alive. The restaurants are full, and the people are there.

"It's exciting," Bellanca said. Now that he is one himself, Bellanca said that he has more sympathy for producers.

"I say 'no' so often, I sometimes feel like Simon LeGree," said Bellanca. "But that's the beauty of stage acting. We're forced to be creative. Only in the theater can a garbage can become a Roman column or a burlap sack become a coronation robe."

Bellanca is currently producing "Beehive" at the Gem, a musical of the girl groups of the 1960s, ranging from the Supremes to Petula Clark.

Grosse Pointe Park attorney Peter Bellanca (middle) performs in Michigan actor Jeff Daniels' "Vast Difference" at the Gem Theater, along with actors Wayne David Parker and John Siebert. Bellanca semi-retired from his law practice seven years ago to fulfill his childhood dream of becoming an actor.

Officials impressed, but meeting yields little in quest for cable co-op

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

The big wheel of bureaucracy turns slowly.

Grosse Pointe school board member Sears Taylor attributes that to the outcome of a special meeting he organized on Oct. 6 for several Grosse Pointe city officials.

Taylor extended an invitation to the mayors, city managers and council members of Grosse Pointe Park, Farms, Woods, City and Harper Woods to attend a presentation in the instructional television lab at Grosse Pointe South. The purpose of the meeting was to familiarize city officials with the student-operated programming on cable Channel 20.

Taylor said he hopes that the cities, school system and the cable company can enter into some type of blend of services. He's also hoping that the cities will think of the Grosse Pointe schools when they spend their portion of the $22 million from the Sept. 12 sale of Grosse Pointe Cable to Comcast.

Attendance at the meeting was sparse, at least in part due to a Michigan Municipal League convention held on the same day.

Attending the meeting were City of Grosse Pointe manager Tom Kressbach, Farms city manager Rich Solak, Grosse Pointe Park council members Robert Klaczka and Vernon Ausherman, Taylor, instructional TV lab instructor Julie Corbett and Grosse Pointe school board president Carl Anderson.

"We had a good meeting," Taylor said. "It's a significant first step. Nothing happens quickly when you're dealing with bureaucracy. We agreed that there needs to be more communication and cooperation between the school system, the cities and the War Memorial."

The Oct. 6 meeting was not scheduled or approved by the Grosse Pointe school system administration or school board. It was citizen-initiated and organized by Taylor.

Those who attended watched as students produced a live television show broadcast on cable Channel 20. A brief discussion followed which focused on the possibility of appointing a school district representative to the Grosse Pointe Cable Advisory Board.

Before the cable sale, that panel comprised 11 people: Five War Memorial representatives, one Comcast representative and a representative from each of the five participating municipalities.

"The advisory committee is now strictly Comcast's call," Ausherman said. "They will decide as to what its function will be."

Ausherman said he is in favor of including the school systems — Grosse Pointe as well as Harper Woods — on the advisory panel, which he assumes Comcast will retain for public relations purposes.

None of the city officials said they were given a clear picture of what the school system wanted in terms of a cooperative relationship. Those who attended said they were impressed with the TV lab.

"It's a little premature for this," Ausherman said. "It's too early to define a relationship. The cities, the War Memorial and everyone else involved in the purchase are all going to be faceted with sorting out what they individually plan to do with the proceeds. There are different needs in different cities. Each city will do in their own judgment what they see as the best for their communities."

Kressbach said he has never visited the TV lab before and was impressed.

"It looks like a very good program," he said. "I was truly impressed with the lab, the course content and the students."

Aside from his positive reaction to the students, the equipment and the presentation, Kressbach said he wasn't sure what further purpose the meeting was supposed to serve.

"There was no proposal given to us," he said. "We suggested to Corbett and Taylor that they should spell out what it is they want. If it meets school board approval and has the administration's support, well, then the cities would have something to talk about."

Solak, too, said he was not aware of a proposition from the school system. The meeting was scheduled in conjunction with back-to-school night at South and Solak said he had to leave early because he was not there in an official capacity but as a parent.

"As far as anything having to do with the cable funds received, to my knowledge, the only thing relative to those funds was the invitation I received from Sears Taylor," Solak said. "It's very early — we haven't received those funds yet."

The cities have until June 30, 1995, to spend their portion of the proceeds from the cable sale, he said.

"As far as any decision about a cooperative agreement between the cities and the school district, that would be handled by the policy-makers," Solak said.

Anderson said the school board is awaiting an update from superintendent Ed Shine on discussions between the school system and the cable company. The school board expects to discuss cable broadcasting at one of its November meetings.

Scouts spruce up school yard

The Girl Scouts at Maire Elementary School in the City of Grosse Pointe will be busy planting 1,500 daffodil, tulip, crocus, scilla and snowdrop bulbs on Wednesday, Oct. 19.

The project is part of a landscaping and beautification campaign under way at the school. The girls, with the help of their parents, designed the gardens and have provided half of the funds needed. The Maire PTO provided the balance.

Gourd paint at hoe-down

Ferry Elementary School in Grosse Pointe Woods is celebrating autumn with a hoe-down on Friday, Oct. 21, from 7 to 9 p.m. on the school grounds at 748 Roslyn Road. Admission is $3 a person and tickets can be purchased at the door.

Entertainment includes a square dance in the school gym, a petting zoo, a cake walk, gourd painting, face painting and a pinata. Cider, caramel apples and popcorn will be sold.

They're commendable

Grosse Pointe Farms resident Evan Tanner and Paul Kowalski, of the City of Grosse Pointe, were named commended students in the 1995 National Merit Scholarship Program. Both are students at DeLaSalle Collegiate High School in Warren.

Commended students are honored based on their scores in the 1993 preliminary SAT/National Merit Scholarship qualifying test. Although the test scores of commended students are considered outstanding, they are slightly below the level required to continue in the competition for merit scholarships to be awarded in 1995.

U-M & media pay tribute to Gerald Ford

The University of Michigan, more than 100,000 spectators and TV and radio audiences Saturday paid tribute to the state's forgotten U.S. president, Gerald Ford, class of 1935.

Between halves of that all-Michigan football game between two great universities, the U-M retired the number 48 that Ford had worn from 1932 through 1934 as center and captain of the Wolverines.

In response to the tribute, Ford expressed his appreciation to the university, his coach, Harry Kipke, and his teammates, 13 of whom joined the crowd that gave the former president a standing ovation.

In the 1932-34 era, Michigan won two national championships and Ford himself was named most valuable U-M player in his final year when, unfortunately, the Wolverines fell on hard times.

Saturday's festive occasion in Ann Arbor, however, was the second time in recent weeks that Ford had won belated

The first came when David S. Broder, the Washington Post's syndicated columnist, in mid-September toasted Ford on the 20th anniversary of President Nixon's resignation and Ford's succession to the presidency.

The anniversary of those stirring events of Aug. 9, 1974, had passed with little national or even Michigan attention until Broder recalled them in his nationally syndicated column that appeared in the Detroit Free Press Sept. 12.

Ford told Broder that he and his wife had observed the anniversary at a quiet dinner with some friends at Beaver Creek, Colo., but said, "We agreed we'd have a bigger gathering when we reach the 25th."

Broder wrote that "Time and Chance: Gerald Ford's Appointment with History," a new biography by James Cannon, a Washington newsman who had worked on Ford's staff, is a "vivid reminder of the critical role the quiet man from Grand Rapids played in the greatest constitutional crisis this Republic has faced since the Civil War."

Among other things, the book reminded Broder that Ford became a successful president because "he had built up a huge reservoir of trust and goodwill among members of Congress of both parties."

As for the Nixon pardon, which shattered much of Ford's public support, Ford told Broder that he had "paid a price" but that "it is a price a president has to pay when he thinks he is doing the right thing, whatever the polls show."

The price that Ford paid was his 1976 loss to Jimmy Carter.

With both foreign and domestic affairs unsettled, Ford said he had come to "the conclusion, wholly on my own, that I ought to spend all my time on the business of 230 million Americans and not 25 percent on one man."

Broder's comment today is: "That sensibility is worth celebrating now — and again on the 25th anniversary."

But the columnist also proudly recalled that 20 years ago he had written the following reaction to Ford's famous pardon:

"It seems to me essentially a matter of no great public significance what happens to Richard Nixon, private citizen," so long as "the gross abuse of presidential power" was ended "in a fashion that made it plain our Constitution and our sense of public morality would not tolerate such behavior."

Ford still has his critics, as all presidents and ex-presidents do, but Michigan has many reasons to be proud of Gerald Ford, whose number on a Wolverine uniform now has been retired, and whose record in national office finally is winning recognition.

He served for years as an effective congressman representing the Grand Rapids district, as the leader of U.S. House Republicans, as an appointed vice president of the United States, and as an appointed but "healing president" who was the only chief executive never elected vice president or president.

Rotary Club applauds Engler

Confident and beaming John Engler won an enthusiastic reception from the Grosse Pointe Rotary Club and its guests Monday noon as he continued his campaign for re-election.

"Things are going well for the Englers," the governor said, referring both to his campaign lead and his wife's condition in her 30th week of pregnancy. The Englers are expecting triplets.

Speaking in community that gave him a handsome majority in 1990, Engler reviewed what he regarded as some of his first term's major achievements but also considered the state's future prospects.

He stressed his administration's economic achievements, with the state's unemployment rate heading lower than the national average for a full year for the first time in years, more people employed than at any other time in the state's history, and even the state's population making healthy gains.

Yet he conceded that the state still faces serious challenges. One is the future lack of skilled workers, he said, with the auto industry alone estimated to need another 90,000 such workers by the end of the decade.

As part of that challenge, the governor contended that more improvement is needed in the public schools, especially in terms of high-tech schools and courses for high school students not expecting to attend college.

He also reiterated his support for charter schools, saying at least 13 already have been approved in the state, another 30 applications are pending, and 200 schools will be ready to go in short order.

In answer to a question, he said the administration had issued citations to four communities to halt the pollution of Lake St. Claire that was partly responsible for the recent stench in lakeside communities, including the Pointes.

But he contended that his administration is also seeking the help of the federal government and the Canadian government in tackling the lake's infestations from exotic species, such as the zebra mussels.

In effect, the governor reviewed what he regards as the state's progress in combatting crime, improving education, cutting taxes and improving the business outlook with the friendly crowd offering frequent applause and avoiding tough questions about controversial issues.

Debate II ends in a 2nd draw

With Democratic challenger Howard Wolpe achieving no more than a draw in the second gubernatorial debate Sunday night, GOP Gov. John Engler this week is expected to maintain his big lead in the public opinion polls.

On the attack again, Wolpe did win from Engler an admission that he might consider supporting a constitutional amendment to divert tax dollars to private and parochial schools, but the governor said flatly he would not initiate any such move.

Again, however, Wolpe was criticized by media commentators for not making clear what he and his party stood for in the race for the governorship.

Instead, he remained on the attack against Engler's policies with respect to crime, welfare, taxes, education and other issues while indicating his own approaches would be far different.

In fact, the contest for governor has increasingly become a discussion of two sharply differing ideological and political approaches.

Engler, on the one hand, favors limited government, reduced taxes, putting welfare clients to work and similar GOP conservative measures he has espoused and put into effect as governor.

Wolpe, on the other hand, while refusing to accept the "tax and spend liberal" tag that Engler seeks to hang on him, insists he wants to improve state services and serve the people, rather than the special interests he claims Engler serves.

Even before the debate, the public opinion polls gave Wolpe little chance at upsetting the governor. The most recent Detroit News poll published Sunday gave Engler a commanding 54 to 29 percent lead as the campaign heads toward the Nov. 8 finish.

Big leads tend to decline in the final stages of most campaigns but we doubt that the Sunday night discussion raised any serious new issues that might blunt Engler's re-election drive.

News still trailing Free Press

The required Oct. 1 publication of circulation statements of both Detroit dailies shows that the Detroit Free Press continues to hold a sizable circulation lead over The Detroit News.

The News, which once led the Detroit scene with a daily circulation of about 750,000, now is down to only about half that total. It reported that the average number of copies sold during the preceding 12 months was only 379,801.

The Free Press, meanwhile, reported a circulation of 524,436 subscribers on average during the same 12-month period.

Both papers seem to be losing circulation. On Oct. 1, 1992, the News had reported a circulation of 428,366, while the Free Press had claimed 573,774.

The new statements were published about the time The News also announced that it is combining forces with Channel 50 to present its news and reporters in TV reports on Channel 50.

That plan promptly drew the wrath of Channel 4's newspaper critic, Ric Bohy, a former Detroit newspaperman now a senior editor of Detroit Monthly.

Bohy said he could not understand a plan that gives the TV station the benefit of the News' latest coverage and puts on television print newpeople not trained to appear on the tube.

While we tend to share Bohy's criticism, we will await the outcome of the experiment before deciding whether it offers viewers and readers any benefits.

Letters

North takes 'no' lightly

To the Editor:
It was encouraging to note that the Grosse Pointe News finally devoted space on the front page regarding night football at Grosse Pointe North.

My comment to Mr. Gauerke: He still does not get the point after many meetings and "no" votes by the planning commission and the city council of Grosse Pointe Woods.

Our objection to night football is that the field at Grosse Pointe North is and always has been too small for lighted night events. The lights and noise are right in the neighbors' back yards.

When is a "no" vote a no? What a great message the board of education and the boosters are sending to our children: Don't obey or abide by a governing body's decisions; do your thing regardless of the rights of neighbors.

McBrien

constitutional convention

To the Editor:
Every 16 years, Michigan voters are asked whether they want to call a convention to revise the state Constitution. This is one of those years; since there is no compelling reason to reopen the state's most fundamental law, the Michigan Chamber of Commerce urges a no vote on Proposal A on the Nov. 8 statewide ballot.

In general, our 31-year-old Constitution serves the state well. As this year's March 15 vote on the statewide property tax/school finance ballot question demonstrated, individual elements of the Constitution — even the most important ones — can be changed by the voters without an open-ended effort at overall constitutional revision.

The cost to taxpayers of selecting delegates to a constitutional convention could be more than $20 million, according to estimates. These costs include holding a special primary and general election next year in each of the 110 state House and 38 state Senate districts. The convention itself could drag on for nearly a year. Then another election would have to be held to ratify or reject the convention's work. All of this expense is simply unwarranted.

There is danger that single-issue zealots of any ideological stripe could seize control of the convention process and rewrite the Constitution to their own narrow ends. Our state could be thrown into counterproductive turmoil over abortion, capital punishment, assisted suicide or tax schemes. The risks of a new convention far outweigh the potential benefits.

The last time Michigan voters considered a call for a constitutional convention — in 1978 — the proposal was defeated by a margin of 3-1. There's no reason today to hold another constitutional convention. Vote no on Proposal A.

1994 influenza and pneumonia season nears

Each year millions of Americans are afflicted with influenza and pneumonia. Those most at risk are the very young, the very old, those suffering from chronic lung or heart disease and those with weakened immune systems.

This fall, the American Lung Association of Michigan urges all those who are considered high-risk to get a flu shot. You are at high risk if you are over age 65, have chronic lung, heart or kidney disease, reside in a nursing home or other chronic-care facility or if you have other chronic diseases. In addition, health care workers should be immunized to reduce the chances of spreading the flu to high-risk people.

The flu shot is recommended every year because the influenza virus strain changes annually. The ideal time to receive flu vaccine is between Oct. 15 and Nov. 15.

According to the Lung Association, both influenza and pneumonia are deadly. "Influenza is a highly contagious, potentially life-threatening lung disease," said Paul Munzenberger, president of the ALA of Michigan.

"Since 1960, pneumonia has been the leading killer by infectious disease in the U.S. It is both the most common and most deadly complication arising from influenza.

"Combined, influenza and pneumonia are the fourth leading cause of death among all American women and the fifth leading cause of death among all Americans over the age of 65. Clearly this is a health threat that cannot be overlooked. Only a fraction of older adults living in the community receive their influenza shots and pneumococcal vaccine."

As part of its Christmas Seal Campaign, the American Lung Association is working to change those numbers and stress prevention through immunization. Both vaccines are covered under Medicare and other health insurance programs.

For more information on influenza and pneumonia shots, call the American Lung Association of Michigan at 1-800-LUNG-USA.

N'Hood Club cashes in

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

Thanks to a special program sponsored by the Kresge Foundation and the Community Foundation for Southeastern Michigan, the Neighborhood Club recently had $33,000 added to its coffers in a special fundraising challenge.

The Neighborhood Club participated in the Van Dusen Endowment Challenge, a program that gives participating charitable organizations $1 for every $3 raised.

The Neighborhood Club was one of 38 nonprofit organizations to be involved in the challenge. Club development director Mary Zizio said the Neighborhood Club and the Kresge Foundation set a goal of $100,000. That meant if the Club raised $100,000 on its own, the Kresge Foundation would donate an additional $33,000 to the club's endowment fund.

"We joined the challenge two years ago," Zizio said. "According to the conditions, we had two years to reach our goal of raising $100,000. As of the beginning of this month, we had raised $113,000. We don't get anything extra for that additional $13,000."

The Neighborhood Club will be able to spend only the interest on the $126,000 for five years, Zizio said. The idea of the challenge was to enhance endowment funds, which by definition are permanent funds invested to produce income for operations.

"In order to qualify for the project, we presented a proposal that said we would spend the interest money on training and hiring coaches for our various athletic leagues," said Zizio. "The challenge was closed as of Oct. 4. The reason we decided to shoot for only $100,000 because we had just held a major fundraiser, and we didn't want to ask our donors for large sums of money so soon."

The program was named after the late Richard Van Dusen, a Kresge Foundation trustee, and is open to nonprofit organizations in southeast Michigan. Also providing funds are the McGregor Fund, The Skillman Foundation, the Charles Stewart Mott Foundation and the William Randolph Hearst Foundation.

Zizio said the total Neighborhood Club Foundation endowment is now about $320,000. She added the club will continue to enlarge its endowment, but because it has reached its goal of $100,000, it can expect no more money from the Kresge Foundation.

SUMMARY OF THE MINUTES
OCTOBER 3, 1994

The Meeting was called to order at 7:30 p.m.

Present on Roll Call: Mayor Gregg L. Berendt, Councilmembers Danaher, Griffin, Kaess, Gandelot, Kneiser and Gaffney.

Those Absent Were: None.

Also Present: Messrs. Burgess, City Attorney; Solak, City Manager; Reeside, City Clerk; Ferber, Director of Public Safety.

Mayor Berendt presided at the Meeting.

The Minutes of the Regular Meeting held on September 12, 1994, were approved as submitted.

Following a public hearing on the matter, the Council denied the request for Proposed Amendment to the Zoning Ordinance and Ordinance Map Amendment No. 13.

The Council, acting as a Zoning Board of Appeals, approved the Minutes of the Public Hearing held on September 12, 1994; granted the request for lot split, lot #8, Assessor's Grosse Pointe Farms Plat No. 1, formerly 70 Lake Shore, subject to specific conditions.

The Council approved the request for fence permit from Paul Beaupre of 143 Lewiston, to erect a six foot high, heavy cedar fence along the west side of his property parallel to Kercheval Avenue, for a total of 73 feet.

The Council approved the request for assessment and appraisal services of Tim O'Donnell.

The Council accepted the low bid of Chas. Irish Co. in the total amount of $12,280.00 for the planting of trees and shrubs.

The Council scheduled a Public Hearing date for Monday, October 17, 1994 at 7:30 p.m. for the purpose of considering the formal adoption of the proposed Michigan Consolidated Gas Company Franchise Ordinance.

The Council adopted a resolution that immediately following adjournment of the Regular Meeting, a Closed Session shall be held for the purpose of discussing the sale or purchase of real property.

Upon proper motion made, supported and carried, the Meeting was adjourned at 9:25 p.m.

ever recorded in an auction for a GTO. Other record sales included a '58 Cadillac Eldorado Brougham for $78,000 and a '60 Pontiac Bonneville for $54,080.

The highest bid at the auction was $2,132,000 for a 1935 Mercedes-Benz 500K special roadster, but that was not enough to convince the owner to let it go. Two Duesenbergs attracted bids of more than $1 million, but neither bid was high enough. They were a 1935 SJK Rollston convertible, for which $1,248,000 was bid, and a 1929 SJ LeBaron Dual Cowl Phaeton, which brought a $1,014,000 bid.

"This year's Labor Day auction recorded hundreds of new bidders entering the marketplace, which translated into increased bidding activity during the event," Kruse said. "By our observations, this was the best Auburn auction we have conducted in five years. People are in a buying mood. It was encouraging to watch collectors raise their hands at bids near and above $1 million."

In addition to the auction, Kruse said there were more than 2,000 vehicles at the car corral, where owners and auction patrons could buy and sell on their own.

Other celebrity cars at the auction included a 1961 Chrysler 300G coupe which once belonged to Richard Carpenter, of the Carpenters singing duo, which drew a bid of $28,500. It featured wire wheels, leather interior and was in mint condition, but did not sell.

Also a no-sale was a 1950 Rolls-Royce Silver Wraith Sedan De Ville with coachwork by Franay of Paris, used by Jackie Onassis as her personal limousine, as was a '65 Rolls-Royce that had been owned by martial arts star Bruce Lee and had kung-fu weapons built into a special console between the front seats. The $30,000 bid was not enough.

Another no-sale was a '46 ZIS four-door convertible which was used by Joseph Stalin in the opening of a palace of culture in Warsaw. The $90,000 bid was not enough. A '38 Cadillac Formal Limousine Convertible V-16 did not sell for the $125,000 bid it drew.

In the sale column was a '55 Ford Thunderbird featured in an episode of the television series "Route 66," which sold for $20,696. A '69 Chevrolet Camaro Indy 500 pace car autographed by Mario Andretti changed hands for $19,240. A '63 Studebaker Avanti once owned by Ricky Nelson was sold for $14,000.

A '65 Rolls-Royce Phantom V Limousine once owned by John Lennon of the Beatles sold for $200,000.

And the weather was perfect.

A $28,500 bid was not enough to buy this mint 1961 Chrysler 300G coupe, once owned by singer Richard Carpenter.

This '65 Rolls-Royce Phantom V Limousine once owned by Beatle John Lennon changed hands for $200,000.

Interior shot of '65 Rolls-Royce that had been owned by martial arts star Bruce Lee shows kung-fu weapons built into console. The $30,000 bid was not enough.

DISTINCTIVE PERSONAL BANKING

Old Yeller on wheels

I recently learned that a companion of mine, one I have known for almost 10 years, is terminally ill.

I suppose if I had been honest with myself, I would have noticed the signs several years ago. But because the idea of putting a friend to rest, or dumping him on someone else seemed so distasteful, I wallowed in denial.

We met in the spring of 1985. He was just a baby — he'd barely been around the block. I was 20, in college and in need of a good, reliable escort.

I have to admit he wasn't my first choice. My eyes always strayed to the powerful, muscular models. But the handsome ones always came with a high price. So I settled for Mr. Reliable, economical and practical. He wasn't much to look at — a conservative appearance, limited options and a bit slow on the uptake — but he was mine.

While many of my friends cruised in the fast lane with their high-powered performers, I coasted in the slow lane, knowing my friend would be with me long after their fast-paced relationships had crashed and burned.

Looking back on our decade together I realize that my friend was always there for me. He endured the searing heat of summer and the deep-freeze of winter, never complaining that he had to sleep outside. He put my needs before his, making sure I was air-conditioned on hot days and warmed on frosty mornings and always delivered me to work or school without hesitation.

I Say

He put up with many of my wild and crazy friends, who burned him with cigarettes and spilled food and soft drinks on his upholstery. He was there at all the major milestones — college graduation, my wedding. He even was there to give me and my new baby a ride home from the hospital.

It's been said to me that I could have been a better friend. I was neglectful when it came to taking him in for yearly check-ups. Sometimes I would send him out without a proper bath. I would kick him when he didn't do what I wanted and cuss at him when he seemed weary and out of breath.

I've also been told that he was beneath me, that I could do better and that I should get rid of him and find something more appropriate. Friends and family have commented on his bedraggled appearance, his excessive smoking, his loudness and in some cases, his inability to retain vital fluids.

But did I listen? Nope. I justified my procrastination in a number of ways. I didn't have time. I didn't have the money. I just didn't want to deal with it.

When I was feeling particularly nasty, I'd fantasize that one day I'd open the front door and he'd be gone. Perhaps he would die in his sleep or be the victim of a crime. Then I could feign remorse, arrange for a speedy funeral and get on with my life.

Somewhere in the middle of my plotting his demise, he started looking and sounding just a little bit sicker than usual. He coughed and choked in the morning. The cancerous lesions on his exterior seemed to be spreading. Our daily sojourns seemed to be getting harder and harder for him to bear.

So I took him in for a check-up; the diagnosis was not good. Several internal organs had degenerated beyond repair and would need to be replaced. The cost was beyond my reach.

Had I let the old boy suffer too long? Was it time to take him out behind the woodshed and put him out of his misery? Should I call Mr. Goodwrench or make an appointment with Dr. Kevorkian?

Finally, I've decided to let nature take its course. We'll ride into the sunset together and then I'll give him a decent funeral. Until then, I remain vigilant while keeping my options open for a newer, younger and healthier — car.

Moral life and indoor plumbing

What a week. First, my position on Haiti is assailed as (sneer) a "moralist" stance. Why, Newsweek magazine fairly oozed repugnance at the moralist cabal that captured the president.

OK, I'm not Machiavelli. But a real moralist would be a pacifist. Not to split hairs, but I did advocate the use of force as a last resort to back up a principled stand.

Perhaps I'm missing something here. Every time Roper or Gallup do a survey about religion, something like 95 percent of Americans claim to embrace a religion and actually attend church about half the time. Even allowing for massive exaggeration, poll results still suggest widespread adherence to traditional religious ideas. Name one religion that doesn't promote peace and goodwill.

Isn't a moral life supposed to be one of the primary manifestations of religious beliefs? How come every time foreign policy comes into play, the moral point of view becomes ridiculously naive?

The Haiti situation is undeniably messy. History and personalities inevitably intertwine and sometimes prove impervious to good intentions. Frankly, where I think the so-called moral position is weak is in its tendency to arrive on the scene as a know-it-all.

But we have to work with what we've got.

Sigh. Another week when no mail from Jungian analysts poured in. Could they be boycotting my column?

I refer of course to my comments a month ago about synchronicity. Synchronicity is a Jungian concept that describes certain apparent coincidences that are fraught with significance.

I called it New Age.

New Age is actually such a loose idea that hardly anyone can define it (including me — but I know it when I see it). But it seems to me that the umbrella of the New Age movement, which has adopted tantra and Eastern religions and Celtic Christianity and goddess worship and body work has also adopted a Jungian interpretation of life. The mystical, the symbolic, the dream world. And like that, as Kojak used to say.

So synchronicity is New Age. But it's really Jungian.

Several people have asked about the saying chiseled on the fireplace in the lodge that I wrote about at the end of August. It's the saying that wood warms people twice.

It goes something like this: Wood warms a man twice — once when he cuts it and again when he burns it. My neighbor Mary would quibble with it though.

Mary lives in an old log house on the bank of a creek Up North. She has a furnace, all right, but she never uses it. Mary heats with wood.

Every fall when the man comes to fill her big woodshed with newly cut and split hardwood, she stands outside supervising the operation and tells all comers: Wood warms the soul.

It reminds me that Americans are prone to apply the wrong tests of civilization to the rest of the world. Central heating and indoor plumbing are not the primary indicators of the good life. Mary is absolutely not the only person I know who has a perfectly functional furnace, but heats with wood anyway. And I know a few otherwise utterly normal people who heat with wood (or corn) and don't even own a conventional furnace.

Much has been made of Detroit Mayor Dennis Archer's childhood in a home without plumbing. Yet, particularly in rural areas, any number of Americans his age were born in houses without plumbing or electricity. Some rural people still don't have it. But the lack doesn't define their lives.

German friends of mine estimated that half of all Europeans live without plumbing right in their house or apartment (that is to say, the bathroom is down the hall, if not outside).

"Americans make too much of that," they told me. "It isn't that important to Europeans."

I'm inclined to think that if we focused less on heating and plumbing (and cars and microwaves and electric hair curlers) and more on a life of the mind and heart, we'd be better off.

But then, what do I know? I'm the person who backed the invasion of Haiti.

I swear

New Shores trustee Dr. Ronald Laskowski took the oath of office Sept. 20 from President John Huettner III. Laskowski was appointed to the council to fill the vacancy on the council left when trustee James Wright died in June

Road Samaritan smells the roses

The Park's Peggy Strand-Collier has found doing a good deed can give you more than a warm feeling in the general vicinity of your gizzard.

A staff nurse with the Hospice of Southeastern Michigan, Peggy was en route to her job at the Franklin Care Center on the west side one Saturday when she ran into a traffic jam caused by road work near Gratiot.

"I finally came to the problem area where both the left and center lanes were closed," she says. "A semi truck behind me was having no luck in merging since no one would let him in."

"Since we were going nowhere fast, I stopped and held up the traffic and rolled down my window to wave the semi in ahead of my car."

The truck driver gave her a surprised look and then pulled into the center lane in front of her car, she says.

"The next thing I knew, we had stopped again and the trucker had left his truck and was walking toward my car," she goes on. "I opened the window and, much to my surprise, he handed me 10 of the most gorgeous long-stemmed apricot roses I have ever seen."

All the driver said was, "That's for being so nice," she reports.

"I was 30 minutes late for work, but I arrived with the knowledge that ... a little kindness can really make your day blossom," Peggy concludes.

By the way, the logo the Hospice uses on its printed material is, you guessed it — a red rose.

On a winning jag

And some people say there's no justice: Who should win the 1994 Vanden Plas Jaguar at the Oct. 2 University Liggett Antiques Show raffle but a widowed grandma who's on Social Security?

The winner, S.W., sounded a bit breathless when she called, turned out to be so shy I had to promise to only use her initials, but still had a good story.

Her granddaughter, Chelsea Wollard, who's just three, attends the UL pre-kindergarten school and brought home a book of tickets which her mom, Heidi, helped her sell — all but the last three.

"Nobody wanted to buy them, so I did," said S.W.

She learned Sunday that one of the $5 tickets won the car. Out of about 34,999 other tickets that didn't.

"I never won anything in my life, and at first I thought it was a joke," she said, adding she can't afford to keep the very high-powered set of wheels.

FYI's suggestion: Since others shelled out a total of about $175,000 for a chance at

Coffee table books

During the years James Monnig ran his used book store just a few doors from Sparky Herbert's, he was a regular part of the Park scene, and it was the Pointe's loss when he moved operations to Cadieux near Warren in Detroit.

Now his familiar mug is back, across the street from his old location but in a new revision.

Jim and Pointers Frank and Teresa McCarroll have taken over and reopened the old Cup-A-Cino at 15104 Kercheval, and it's now going strong with a literary flavor.

"We're here for fun without alcohol," Jim says. "And the Cup-A-Cino is not just Italian anymore, now it's more an American-European coffee house."

To make his point on a menu topped with the traditional espresso and cappuccino, he mentions mocha, "actually an American drink," and French press, which turns out to be made with French roast coffee.

There are other surprises. Jim hands me some chocolate-covered coffee beans and smiles when my face lights up after tasting them. "The first one is free," he laughs.

Dividing his time between the Cadieux store and the new venture, Jim manages to make the old Monnig touch evident here in a corner library stocked with books to read or buy, and $3 prints on the wall.

There's a stack of more books, all in mint condition, on a back table. "We're having a promotion this week — buy a cappuccino, get a book free," he says.

Just to make sure, I check it out. There's not an Italian book in the bunch.

Woods approves tree plantings around city hall, in the neighborhoods

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

This may come as a surprise to most people, but the best time to plant trees is in the fall, when they're "sleepy," and that's just what the Grosse Pointe Woods City Council voted to do last week, when it appropriated $13,000 to plant trees around city hall and selected residential areas.

"It's best to plant trees in the fall when they're dormant," said director of public works Thomas Whitcher. "To do that we'll need a good frost, which probably won't be until early November. It's better to plant dormant trees because they're not growing; they've shut down for the winter."

"If we had planted last spring, we could have had trouble because there was a period of about four weeks when we didn't have enough rain. It's critical that a freshly transplanted tree have enough moisture to sustain a growing root system."

Woods forester Joe Shock said the plans approved by the council call for 156 trees to be planted in front of city hall on Mack. They will be planted in a pattern of rows that should prove to be highly pleasing to the eye without detracting from the beauty of the Colonial-styled city hall, said Shock.

The city hall planting will consist of 101 flowering crabapple trees and 55 little leaf lindens. The city will have to move some of the trees currently in front of city hall to make room for the new trees.

"We'll be moving some of the old trees into Ghessequire Park, as well as Lakefront Park to replace trees that have been lost due to age, bad weather and disease," Shock said.

The city will also plant 87 trees in residential neighborhoods. Those trees will be autumn flame and October glory maples. They produce a vivid red leaf in the fall and are excellent shade trees.

The city hired Tom's Landscaping to plant the residential trees and Three Cs Landscaping to plant the city hall trees. Three Cs came up with the tree placement design and promised to let the city have the plans for free if the city hired the firm to plant the trees.

Tom's Landscaping submitted the low bid for the residential planting. The city was able to get the funds for the planting from a small business grant from the state, Shock said. The money is meant to give work to businesses with fewer than 100 employees, and Tom's meets that criterion.

Lightning strikes home on Bishop

A resident who lives in the 1300 block of Bishop in Grosse Pointe Park called the fire department when he suspected that lightning had struck his roof at 2:40 a.m. Oct. 1.

Firefighters investigated and found the attic was filled with smoke. Apparently lightning had struck the television antenna and ignited the roof where the wires were exposed. The fire was quickly extinguished and no injuries were reported.

Stolen car recovered

Detroit police in the Ninth Precinct recovered a 1984 Buick reported stolen from behind a business in the 15000 block of Kercheval on Oct. 1.

Grosse Pointe Park police said the 13-year-old driver aroused the suspicions of police and when they ran a license plate check they learned the car was stolen.

The juvenile was turned over to his parents while police await authorization of warrants through the Wayne County Juvenile Court.

Woods has right idea

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

The Michigan Municipal League recently honored Grosse Pointe Woods with an award for combining its free events calendar with its new resident information booklet this year.

The Woods was just one of 12 cities honored with a Michigan Municipal Achievement Award at the 96th municipal league convention in Dearborn. The awards were presented to communities that instituted innovative projects or provided new services to citizens.

"The 1994 city calendar is distinctive because it includes information about each function of local government," said city clerk Louise Warnke. "Previously, it was city policy to provide this information in a separate booklet which was sent to new residents. We were budgeted for 1,500 booklets a year, and they were available at city hall. We couldn't keep them in stock."

Warnke said that for the last 10 years, the Woods has been mailing calendars to all city residents. The calendars contain the dates of the meetings of such groups as the city council, the planning commission and the parks and recreation committee.

The calendar had a larger budget than the information booklet because it was sent to every home, Warnke said.

Warnke and her department will receive a plaque honoring her achievement at the Oct. 17 Woods council meeting.

investigate. Officers were in the area because residents had reported a number of car break-ins.

The 15-year-old Detroit boy inside the car saw police, climbed out and ran between two houses. The officers called for backup and sealed off the neighborhood. After a 30-minute search, the juvenile was arrested. Park police detective Lt. David Hiller said the youth faces "an extensive package of charges in Grosse Pointe Park."

The youth was also arrested in the Park on Sept. 19 and 28 for breaking into parked cars.

Dealership reports break-in Someone removed a 12-by-14-inch pane of glass from the east wall of a car dealership on Mack in Grosse Pointe Farms on Oct. 3 and entered the locked building.

Inside, the burglar forcibly removed a 4-by-8-foot sheet of plywood that was bolted to an interior wall. When the break-in report was made to police, it was not determined if anything had been stolen. Police are investigating.

Did he get up and walk away?

After sitting for all these years, Rodin's "Thinker" got up and walked away from his Grosse Pointe Farms repose.

A resident of Mapleton reported to police that sometime this summer her statue that usually is displayed on a brick wall in her yard was removed. Police are investigating.

Missing rings recovered

Grosse Pointe Farms police haven't found the jewel thief who's been hitting many houses around the Pointes in search of expensive and treasured jewelry, but they did recover a resident's two diamond rings through the efforts of Grosse Pointe Park police.

Park detective Lt. David Hiller said the department was investigating a larceny report in their city and a 17-year-old City of Grosse Pointe man was the primary suspect. With the cooperation of the suspect's parents, Park police recovered two diamond rings, a radar detector and a shotgun — items which were stolen from houses in the Park, the City and Grosse Pointe Farms.

The 17-year-old City resident was interviewed by police and admitted that he had stolen the rings from a home on Lakeview in the Farms.

The man said he was working with a landscaping crew and went into the house to use the bathroom. He did not have permission to enter the house.

The man showed police the house from which he had stolen the rings and Farms police returned the jewelry to the woman. She told police she had not reported the theft because she thought she knew who did it.

Farms and Park police are awaiting authorization of warrants and expect to charge the suspect this week with breaking and entering.

October is National Breast Cancer Awareness Month

This month, spend some time on yourself.

It's easy for you to overlook your monthly breast self-exam. You're a busy woman. But you should never let your hectic schedule interfere with your health. Starting today, spend some time on yourself. For yourself.

Breast cancer affects one in eight women. Mammography screening is the single best method of detecting up to 90% of early breast cancers. And early detection can mean early cure. So please don't take chances. Call your Bon Secours' physician today. Make an appointment for your breast exam and get a prescription for your mammogram, because only your doctor can order the procedure. Then, call Bon Secours at 810-774-3210 to schedule your mammogram. Our two accredited testing facilities are recognized for providing dignified quality care using high-tech, low radiation equipment. And it only takes a few minutes.

You may also want to attend Bon Secours Hospital's free, three-part Breast Cancer Lecture Series featuring national experts in the war on cancer. Learn about the latest research with Mammography Can Save Lives (October 11), The Genetics of Breast Cancer (October 18), and Could Our Environment Be Causing Breast Cancer? (October 25). Because when it comes to breast cancer, what you don't know can hurt you. So please take the time to routinely self-exam. And get checked. Make it a part of your life. For life.

To learn more about the lectures, for a free self-exam shower card, or for a physician referral, call Bon Secours Women's HealthCare at 1-800-303-7314.

Improved economy sparked brisk sales at classic car auction

Visitors to the Eyes on Classic Design at the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House last summer may remember a display featuring a Duesenberg Torpedo Victoria, a Boattail Auburn Speedster, and a Cord, roughly in the center of the show. All three cars belong to Terence and Mary Beth Adderley, of Bloomfield Hills.

The Adderleys' Duesenberg won what amounted to the "Triple Crown" of the classic car world when it won best of show honors at the Auburn-Cord-Duesenberg Festival in Auburn, Ind., over the Labor Day weekend.

That honor came after it took best of show at the Meadow Brook Concours d'Elegance in Rochester and the Pebble Beach Concours d'Elegance in August before being shipped to Auburn, where it turned in its hat trick at the ACD festival there.

The Adderleys dedicated their car's triumph to the late Gordon Buehrig, who lived in Grosse Pointe Shores until he died in 1992 after suffering a fall while attending the 1991 Auburn Labor Day activities. They invited Buehrig's widow Kay and daughter Barbara to attend the award ceremony. Buehrig was also inducted into the newly established Hall of Fame at the Auburn-Cord-Duesenberg Museum for his many Duesenberg body designs, as well as creation of the 1935-36 Auburn line and the famous 1936-37 Cord 810 and 812.

Adderley, president and chief executive officer of Kelly Services, did not know who was the original buyer of his Duesenberg, but said it was a Wiloughby-bodied limousine when it was delivered in 1929. A later owner discovered that it had armor plate in the body panels, suggesting it might have been owned by a mobster.

The car was returned to the factory, the old body removed and a new Torpedo Victoria body designed by Buehrig was installed, made by Rollston of New York City. The car was retitled as a 1933.

The lesson of this year's Labor Day auction in Auburn was that it's a good place to buy or sell a special-interest car. The cars were unusually fine and sales were brisk, particularly in those cars favored by fans of history and nostalgia. The high-ticket investment cars continued to attract less buying action.

"The collector car market is definitely coming back," said Dean Kruse, chairman of the auction firm. "Only two of the 13 Duesenbergs entered in the auction were actually sold, but bidding was spirited and there were several record prices paid for cars."

Close to $15 million worth of vintage, antique and collector cars changed hands at the six-day affair Sept. 1-6, held in conjunction with the Auburn-Cord-Duesenberg Festival, Kruse said.

The very top ranks of the market — which includes just about all Duesenbergs — have been sluggish for several years. These cars are almost always sold with a reserve; that is, a minimum price below which the seller will not go, and buyers were not willing to pay as much as sellers of these top-tier classics wanted.

But bidding was strong in most market segments and a 60 percent sale is unusually strong.

"The good economy in the Midwest helped sales a lot," said Kruse. "The collector car market is getting better. Sales

Junior Leaguers of the 90s: More diverse than ever

By Margie Reins Smith
Feature Editor

Members of the Junior League of Detroit are active volunteers in the community. More active than ever.

Also older. More diverse. More mobile. And less exclusive.

The 80-year-old organization — once thought of as an exclusive sisterhood of charity-minded post-debutantes and wealthy matrons — has evolved into something quite different.

Today's league members are still devoted to volunteerism. Members of the Detroit chapter are still dedicated to working for the city of Detroit.

Junior Leaguers of the 90s, however, are also likely to be working full time.

"Of our members, 82 percent are employed full time outside the home," said Linda Hutton of Grosse Pointe Woods, president of the Junior League of Detroit.

Hutton has been a member for 12 years. She works full time for Crain Communications Inc. as a corporate administrative assistant. She is married, the mother of three.

Junior Leaguers of the 90s have more varied backgrounds than ever before.

"We have a diversity of women," said Priscilla Wood, public relations chairman. "Housewives, corporate lawyers, businesswomen. They bring an awareness of the city and a variety of viewpoints to the membership."

Wood is senior project administrator for P.M.H. Caramanning Co. She is single.

Junior Leaguers of the 90s are more mobile than ever.

Although a small majority of the JLD's 871 members live in the Grosse Pointes, each year more and more women come from other communities.

"We have members from as far away as Grosse Ile, Southfield and St. Clair," said Joya Harris, membership director, "as well as Detroit and the Pointes."

Harris has been a member of the league for eight years. She is an account executive with Carlson Marketing Group in Troy. She is single; engaged to be married next year.

Junior Leaguers of the 90s are older than in previous generations.

The upper age limit, which has gradually crept up to 45 over the last 10 years, has finally been eliminated altogether. The lower age minimum has been raised from 18 to 21.

The Junior League of Detroit is affiliated with a larger organization, the Association of Junior Leagues International, which boasts a roster of 193,000 women. During the 1980s, when volunteer groups in general were in a slump, Harris said the Junior League took a look at itself and decided flexibility was the key to fitting in to a new generation of women.

The Junior League of Detroit recently added a new membership category to accommodate women of the 90s and their busy lives.

Traditionally, women were divided into provisionals (new members); actives; and sustainers (those over age 45).

Now, instead of becoming sustainers, women can choose a new classification, Active Gold, which preserves the privileges of active membership but eliminates some requirements, such as attendance at meetings.

"Women over 45 have the experience, the knowledge and the time to bring to volunteer activities," Harris said. The Active Gold category allows them more flexibility.

Junior league members are also more mobile than ever, said Lynne Cameron, communications/marketing director. Cameron has been a member for 14 years. She is a housewife, married and the mother of two young children.

The Junior League of the 90s is also less exclusive, Hutton said.

Gone is the Lady Bountiful image — the perception of Junior Leaguers as wealthy white-gloved suburbanites planning charity balls, luncheons, fashion shows and teas and volunteering for charitable community projects.

Gone is the rule that new recruits be proposed by a member and be sponsored by three more members.

The Junior League of Detroit has even dropped the word "exclusively" from its mission statement.

"The Junior League of Detroit Inc.," it says, "is a non-profit, volunteer organization of diverse women committed to improving our community through effective action and leadership. Our purpose is educational and charitable."

"Junior League women are serious volunteers," Harris said. While they may have less free time than their mothers, they're still dedicated to volunteerism and are willing to devote some of their available free time to projects beneficial to the city of Detroit.

Hutton emphasized the "Detroit" in the organization's name.

"All of the money we raise is put back into the city of Detroit. Our projects are Detroit-based. And most of our meetings are held in Detroit," she said.

One of the league's major projects is a two-year commitment to the Pediatric Mobile Team, a pilot program associated with Children's Hospital of Michigan. The traveling team of professionals and volunteers provide on-site medical care for children on the east side of Detroit.

The league is also involved in an ongoing project to restore Detroit's historic Sibley House.

Done In A Day projects are popular with Junior League volunteers — especially those whose free time is at a premium.

"These are hands-on projects that can be completed in a day," Wood said, "like assembling Easter baskets for children. One day we had 30 or 40 volunteers planting and painting for Grateful Home, an east side shelter for women substance abusers and their children.

The Detroit league also continues its tradition for more than two decades of providing Christmas parties for clients of Detroit's Adult Well-Being Services and Goodwill Industries.

And the league provides community assistance awards, which are grants — typically $1,000 to $1,500 — made to worthy programs that have trouble raising funds or need a temporary boost.

The Junior League of Detroit raises money for these projects with a variety of charitable events. Its major source of funding is a biennial Designers' Show House. Last year it raised $320,000.

Another major fundraiser is an annual Holiday Preview Benefit, which has raised between $15,000 and $20,000 each year for the last seven years. The evening is co-sponsored by Jacobson's in the Village and includes food, entertainment, fashions and merchandise, celebrity guests and a raffle.

"The Junior League empowers women through training, education and service to the community," Hutton said.

For information about membership in the Junior League of Detroit, call the office at (313) 881-0040 for an application.

The Junior League of Detroit has changed over the years to fit in with the lifestyles of women of the 90s. Its members are more diverse, older, more mobile and busier than members of their mothers' generation. Standing, from left, are Joya Harris, Lynne Cameron and Priscilla Wood. Linda Hutton, 1994-95 president of the Junior League of Detroit, is seated.

One woman who made a difference for doctors.

Elizabeth Blackwell was the first woman to receive a medical degree in the United States. However, no hospital would let her practice because of her gender so she chose to open a small clinic in a slum district of New York City. Just four years later, she and two woman doctors she had hired opened the New York Infirmary for Women and Children. In 1868, Elizabeth Blackwell founded the Women's Medical College of the New York Infirmary so other women could more easily choose to become doctors of medicine.

great choices

One doctor who makes a difference for women.

"In many ways, Family Practice is like old-fashioned medicine - the community doctor that everyone comes to for every kind of health problem. And now we have all the benefits of modern medicine to go along with that personal attention. I think it's the absolute ideal in health care."

We created WomanWise to enhance the connection between you and the many services available through Henry Ford Health System on the East Side. But we believe the most important relationship in your health care is between you and your doctor. Doctors like Susan Schooley - the first physician her patients come to when they need medical attention.

"Family Practice is personal, primary care. I get to know my patients and they get to know me. We understand each other better. I don't just specialize in a part of their health care ... together, we look at the whole picture."

Doctor Schooley joined our Family Practice staff in 1991. As a primary care physician, Susan is specially trained to diagnose and treat a wide variety of health problems. Because she develops long-term relationships with her patients, she is more able to understand their lifestyles and spot potential health risks. The focus of Family Practice is communication - promoting health to prevent sickness before it starts. The care is comprehensive, covering all members of the family throughout their lives.

"I really enjoy building a lasting relationship with my patients. I recently delivered a baby at Cottage's Family Childbirth Center with three other generations of the family in the room, all of whom are my patients. That's something that is truly unique to Family Practice medicine - the ability to be the primary care physician for an entire family."

Susan was educated at the University of Massachusetts and is Board Certified in the specialty of Family Practice. Today, she is both a practicing physician and a teacher of physicians training for careers in her field. Because Susan is a part of Henry Ford Health System, she is able to refer her patients to over 2,000 physicians. And like most of our primary care physicians, she practices in conveniently located neighborhood primary care centers so her patients can visit her easily.

"I believe in Family Practice. It's what I've always thought was the best kind of care. It's the reason I became a doctor. And it's what I choose for my own family."

the bizarre ending. If the audience has time to think — and the Hilberry audience did — the play is its own kind of nightmare.

As George, the accountant, new member Troy Scarborough doesn't muster up enough frustration with all that's happening around him. The other actors are merely competent in roles that call for them to be over the top. Only Dwight Tolar as Henry Irving seems to know what's expected of him.

The second offering, Peter Shaffer's ingenious farce "Black Comedy," is better, but not by much.

The play, which takes place in a London apartment during a blackout, is everything a farce should be — silly, loaded with schtick, and with a happy and unexpected ending.

But Shaffer, the playwright who also gave us "Equus" and "Amadeus," throws in a twist.

The play is about an artist and his fiancee who are giving a dinner party to impress her father and an art collector. Suddenly their apartment building's power goes out, and the evening is thrown into chaos.

What makes the play so clever, is that the stage lighting is exactly opposite of what's happening in the play. The scene opens, before the blackout, in complete darkness. But when the power goes out, the stage lights come up, allowing the audience to see the actors stumble, plot, and try to make things right in what to them is complete darkness.

It's silly, yes, and it's a great deal of fun. Most of the humor comes from physical comedy, well done by David Young as Brindsley, the artist. The highlight is when he has to return all the nice furniture he borrowed without permission from his neighbor to impress the father, while those on stage attempt to sit back down on furniture that's no longer there.

Young and Lynnae Leffeldt, as his former girlfriend, offer strong, comic performances.

The rest of the cast is also quite good, but they have to stop adopting the blank stare actors always use when they play the blind. They can't see, true, but they're not blind.

And again, the lagging pace puts too much time between laughs. Both plays were directed by Blair Vaughn Anderson, who bears most of the fault for their shortcomings. With more attention to detail, this billing could have been one where the audience left tired from laughing. Not just tired.

"The Actor's Nightmare/Black Comedy" runs in rotating repertory through Dec. 1. Tickets range from $9 to $16. Call (313) 577-2972.

PBP to present 'Peter Pan'

Paper Bag Productions proudly announces the opening of its fourth season with a production of the classic musical, "Peter Pan."

The show will run Saturdays and Sundays through Dec. 18, with a special performance on Friday, Nov. 25.

PBP performs at the Historic Players Club, 3321 East Jefferson in Detroit (across from Harbortown).

On Saturdays, lunch begins at noon and the show begins at 1 p.m. On Sundays lunch begins at 1 p.m. and the show begins at 2 p.m. Tickets are $6.50 and include lunch. A discount will be given to anyone who brings in a new or in-good-condition children's book. (One book per full-priced admission.) All books will be donated to Focus: Hope.

Produced and directed by C. J. Nodus with costumes by Diane Paul, this production features the classic songs popularized by Mary Martin, including, "I've Gotta Crow," "I'm Flying" and "I Won't Grow Up."

We began to appreciate how rough the interior of Australia is as we were transported over some incredible dirt roads to the Oasis Lodge, just about a mile from the entrance to the national park. The only other accommodations in this area are park campgrounds.

This nature lodge consists of 23 "safari cabins," which are actually large structures constructed of cypress pine with walls and interior ceilings of canvas — like spacious tents. My cabin was No. 21 and called "Peawaddy," named after a local station (i.e., ranch). It had two twin beds fitted with down comforters and electric blankets, a large seating area and a modern bath. But what I most appreciated was the broad veranda which faced, not the common walkway, but rather back into a gully. From my comfy deck chair, I was able to observe many animals, but my favorites were a feisty raven and a family of pretty-face wallabies that grazed here unafraid.

The activities of the lodge left little time for deck chairs, however. During the high season, from April to November, and school holidays, Oasis Lodge runs a full schedule of activities, led by a team of naturalists. The main activity, obviously, is hiking.

Our guide, the aforementioned 24-year-old Angie, was assigned to our group for the duration of our stay. This is her third season at the lodge and her experience and training are obvious: She can tote a full backpack all day and never weary.

That afternoon, we made our first venture into Carnarvon National Park, the heart of which is a 32-kilometer gorge, a series of sinuous crevasses topped by high escarpments. It takes us only about an hour to reach the Moss Garden, where a waterfall and streams create just the environment for a marvelous collection of ferns and mosses. It is here that we are introduced to "billy tea" — the water is heated in a gallon tin can called a billy over a sterno flame. It was a civility we would come to appreciate: Each morning and afternoon we would stop for a fresh-brewed "cuppa."

Because it was our first day, there was a treat: A real Devonshire tea with scones, jam and clotted cream. As we munched and sipped, John Stoddart, who manages the lodge with his wife Linda, and who has accompanied us, gives us a bit of background:

Carnarvon Gorge actually rises on the Great Dividing Range, about 4,000 feet above sea level. A permanently flowing creek runs down its middle and the main walking track follows it, crisscrossing it with large stepping stones. Most of the gorge's attractions can be reached from this path.

The next day we hike for a full day. As promised, we cross the creek many times. We visit the Amphitheatre, which is actually the bottom of a large crevasse filled with logs and tree ferns, reached by climbing a 30-foot ladder. We have lunch at nearby Alton Falls, a tiny little waterfall reached by walking through Ward's Canyon — which can only be photographed around noon, when the sun is on it for 20 minutes. We pass a king fern (Angiopteris evecta, to you botanists) which is called a living fossil because the plant form hasn't changed in 300 million years. This specimen is taller than I am.

From here we head to the Art Gallery for what will be our first chance to see aboriginal rock paintings. Under an overhanging rock face, a wide variety of forms is on display. Most common is handprints but there are others: outlines of boomerangs, leaves and feet.

That evening we learn more about this from a slide show presented by Graham Walsh, an expert on aboriginal rock art who lives about 20 miles down the road and across a gully from the lodge — a close neighbor, hereabouts. Walsh studies rock art all over the Australian continent and is able to explain much about its origin. Like most locals, he is a frequent visitor to the lodge — the only dining room and bar for miles around — and his wife Polly works at the park.

The next day we face two challenges: to see a platypus and a final hike to the top of Boolimba Bluff. We actually accomplish both. About 7 a.m., our group walked along a small stream where platypus (platypus?) are known to nest. We had to be silent. We had to be patient. It paid off. We saw two of the little critters slip out of the reeds and into the water. That's it, but sightings are rare and all the more memorable for that fact. Fortunately, we understand this because displays at the lodge contain much information about this rather amazing animal species.

After lunch, we head to the bluff: our chance to see the gorge from its highest edge. About half of the walk is a gentle slope until you reach the steep climb, up steps cut into the rock face. Somehow I managed it and the view from the bluff was memorable: all the way to the Great Divide.

Throughout our hikes, Angie would point out to us the unique birds, animals and plant life. We became familiar with casuarina trees, acacias, date palms, spotted gums and the ancient macrozamia trees which can be thousands of years old. We saw a huge hair-plant that looked like a beanstalk Jack might have climbed. We learned to identify the sight and cry of the kurrawong (a large black and white bird with yellow eyes), the majestic kingfisher and the flocks of cockatoos.

And, of course, we became

If you go to Australia...

Time: It takes a long time to get to and from Australia so allow yourself at least two weeks, preferably three. You can buy a packaged tour but it is not difficult to put different segments together. For example, our trip included a stay at a national park, at a cattle station and on the Great Barrier Reef, three days each. However, it is wise to use a travel agent for a trip this complicated.

Airlines: Several airlines service Australia including Quantas, Air New Zealand, Northwest and United. You can cut your costs significantly if you can use frequent flier or companion tickets to get yourself to your U.S. gateway. Be careful of your routing: My trip went through Los Angeles, Honolulu airport and Auckland, New Zealand (8 hour layover) and took over 24 hours. Try to fly direct whenever possible and avoid Honolulu unless you plan to stay over for a few days. On the return, I did the smart thing, overnighing in a motel at the Los Angeles airport and flying home the next morning, fresh and rested. A couple of my friends caught red-eye flights and arrived home exhausted.

Requirements: A visa is required, obtainable free of charge by mail or in person from the nearest Australian consulate (Chicago).

Itinerary: Be aware that Australia is nearly as large as the United States and flying from Sydney to Perth is like flying from New York to Los Angeles. Most of the interior of the country is undeveloped so most people live on the coasts, far apart. Try to keep your visit to one region and it will be much more satisfying. My trip was planned out of Brisbane and focused on the northeastern part of the country. If you must include a city, focus on one.

Costs: The exchange rate is very favorable to Americans and so expenses in Australia are generally quite reasonable. Do take into consideration the cost of airfares within the country. Most lodges and resorts require a private flight (unless you have the time for extensive driving) and these can be costly. Look for discounted airfares that you can purchase before leaving the United States.

Information: Always write ahead for the free maps and brochures offered by tourist offices. They are invaluable in your planning.

An excellent general reference is the "Destination Australia" guide available from the Australian Tourist Commission, 100 Park Ave., 25th Floor, New York, NY 10017; phone (800) 333-0262. For information on Queensland, write to the Queensland Travel and Tourist Corp., 1800 Century Park East, Suite 330, Northrop Plaza, Los Angeles, CA 90067; phone (310) 788-0997.

familiar with kangaroos and wallabies. The fact is, that if you visit Melbourne and Sydney, you just aren't going to see these symbols of Australia, except in zoos. That is why it is so important that you visit the countryside.

At the Oasis Lodge, a large colony of Eastern gray kangaroos hangs out in the central courtyard. Wallabies, which are smaller and have stripes on their faces, are a bit more timid and tend to stick to the edges of gullies and hedgerows. During the day, when most lodge visitors are out on hikes, they venture onto the grounds to graze and sun themselves. They are basically gentle animals, and we soon get used to each other.

The Oasis Lodge is operated by a private company called Nature Australia Limited. It is managed by John and Linda Stoddart and a staff of 12. Many visitors buy a package from Brisbane that includes round-trip airfare, two nights' lodging and all meals and activities for about $684 for 2-3 people and $550 for 4-5 people. Of course, extra days are available. The average daily rate is about $110 U.S., including meals and activities but not airfare. Rates are significantly lower during the off-season, from December through March; however, there are no organized activities.

The lodge can also be reached by car. In fact, while we were there two couples from Dallas pulled in. They said they were on a five-week auto trip and "get lost every day and see what happens. If we see something interesting, we stop."

For further information, call S.H. Enterprises, the American booking agent for Oasis Lodge, at (800) 225-9849.

Don't be stingy with yourself; stay at least three nights so that you will have enough time to see the sights and to kick back on your veranda.

The Pastor's Corner Lesson from a child

By the Rev. Fred Harms
St. Paul Lutheran Church

As an adult, I have found that some very profound messages have come to me from the mouths of children. Listening carefully to what they have to offer can often give us a fresh, new insight into our view of life. A recent story I encountered reminds me of this fact.

At the conclusion of the first-grade Sunday school class, the teacher prepared the children for attending worship with the finger play, "Here's the church, here's the steeple, open the doors, and see all the people."

The session of instruction had gone well. The youngsters were now eager to engage in this familiar ritual. Just as the children started putting their hands together and repeating the rhyme, the teacher noticed the newest student in the class, a little girl who had only one hand.

Feeling compassion and concern, the teacher panicked. In all of her years of teaching, she had never encountered a situation like this. Momentarily paralyzed in thought, she was relieved to see a little boy seated across the table reach his own hand over to the little girl and say, "Here, let's make a church together."

Let's make a church together.

Yes. Out of the mouths of babes sometimes come words for us to live by. Just as the little boy reminds us, we can heed the call to working together in positive ways through our churches and communities, making this a more compassionate world.

The compelling call of Christ's gospel is to embrace the world in its brokenness as we ourselves have been embraced in our brokenness by Christ. This is the call to accept as we have been accepted; to forgive as we have been forgiven; and to be at peace with one another.

Have you heard anything profound lately from the children in your midst? Pause and listen.

Fall craft show

The women of First English Evangelical Lutheran Church will hold a fall craft show from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 15, at the church, 800 Vernier in Grosse Pointe Woods.

Proceeds from the show will be used for missions and other church projects.

Items for sale include holiday gifts and decorations, dolls, aprons, jewelry, handpainted china, quilts, lingerie, picture frames, children's books, baby clothes, home-canned goods and baked goods. Admission is 50 cents.

Bishop Alex Brunett, newly appointed bishop of the Catholic diocese of Helena, Mont., recently returned to his home parish in Grosse Pointe Park.

The Rev. Tim Pelc, pastor of St. Ambrose, presented Brunett with a hand-crafted crozier (staff) as a remembrance of his visit. The crozier was carved from Michigan cherrywood and features an embedded Petoskey stone carved in the shape of the Lower Peninsula.

Bear hugs

Grosse Pointe United Methodist Women participated in the Detroit East District of Methodist Women Ingathering Project by contributing 27 new, plush 15-inch Teddy Bears. The bears are distributed to Detroit policemen and firemen, who pass them along to children in crisis situations who need something comforting to hold.

Executive Seminar helps couples apply faith in daily situations

The Executive Seminar, an organization of local business and professional men and their wives, will mark its 10th anniversary at a fall weekend event Friday through Sunday, Oct. 21-23, at the St. Clair Inn in St. Clair.

More than 130 participants will gather for a weekend that includes speaker Richard Poth, a former radio talk show host, college president, Bible teacher and writer; and Ann Shields, author and international evangelist.

"It is especially gratifying to know that, over the years, the Executive Seminar has had such a positive impact on the lives of those who have attended," said Michael Timmis, one of the group's founders.

"The goal of the Executive Seminar has always been to provide a meaningful and insightful experience for those who attend," he said. "We look forward to continuing to fulfill that goal for many years."

Hosts for the weekend are John and Marlene Boll, Allen and Francis Carter, Bryce and Melissa Gray, Ted and Beverly Harris, Jim and Arlyne Lane, Peter and Maureen Mercier, John and Diane Mills, John and Suzanne Nicholson and Michael and Nancy Timmis.

For more information about the seminar, call Susan Graham at (313) 396-4200.

Author to teach Book of Acts

Zane C. Hodges, author and former professor at Dallas Theological Seminary, will teach a five-day seminar, "The Book of Acts," Oct. 24-28, at Grace Community Church, 21001 Moross.

Hodges is known for his extensive knowledge of Scripture. He taught New Testament Greek at DTS for 27 years. He is currently teaching and preaching at Victor Street Bible Chapel in Dallas.

The sessions will be held nightly, Monday through Friday, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. A question-and-answer session will be held from 9 to 11 a.m. Saturday. The cost for the entire week is $15 a person and includes light refreshments before each session. Child care will be available nightly for children age 5 and under for a nominal fee.

For more information or to register, call Grace Community Church at (313) 882-3000.

Singles plan panel on single parenting

Eastside Singles will present "Paula's Panel on Parenting," a question and answer discussion of issues related to single parenting, step-parenting, custody, remarriage and dating. The panel of parents and their kids will be led by Paula Puleo, a local counselor.

"Paula's Panel on Parenting" will be at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 21, at Grosse Pointe Baptist Church, 21336 Mack in Grosse Pointe Woods. An afterglow follows. Child care will be available for infants through age 12 at a cost of $1 a child.

For additional information, call (313) 881-3343.

Women will visit Presbyterian Village

Presbyterian Women of Grosse Pointe Memorial Church will travel to New Baltimore on Tuesday, Oct. 18, for a luncheon and program with residents of Presbyterian Village East.

Reservations must be made by Friday, Oct. 14. Call the church office at (313) 882-5330.

Four pianists offer two top musical nights

Between the DSO celebrating the 75th anniversary of Orchestra Hall and Pro Musica opening its season at the DIA, last weekend was a feast of piano music in rich diversity.

For the hall's birthday, Jarvi duplicated the DSO's first program at the hall in 1919. Following a sprightly rendering of Weber's "Overture to Oberon," Detroit bred pianists Ruth Laredo and James Tocco joined the orchestra to play Mozart's youthful Concerto for Two Pianos in E flat major.

This deceptively simple music has a conversational interplay. The two parts echo each other with variations and banter in bright musical ideas. This was enhanced by the personalities of Laredo and Tocco reflected in their playing. Laredo phrased with more accents and emphasis; Tocco took a forthrightly poetic approach. The effect was complementary and a complete delight.

They were joined then by Robert Conway in Bach's Concerto for three Claviers in C major. In contrast to the ingenuous music of the young Mozart, this concerto has the often surprisingly modern harmonies of the mature Bach.

The fugue-like development in the second movement with themes introduced in turn by each pianist, was performed with particular grace. It was rewarding, in fact, to see three soloists forgo individual display to achieve excellent ensemble with each other and the orchestra. Beethoven's 5th Symphony followed and as we have come to expect from Jarvi, this was no routine repeat of an old cliché. He ignored the traditional bombast to focus on the flow and cohesion of Beethoven's ideas. Jarvi's insights are inspired, always bringing new understanding. Adding his driving energy, he made this fifth an extraordinary experience.

Following the applause, the audience sighed with pleasure and surprise as it recognized the encore — Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" from "Midsummer Night's Dream."

Van Cliburn winner shines

Meanwhile, on Friday evening, Van Cliburn competition winner Armen Babakhanian gave a piano recital in a totally different artistic vein. Perhaps because of the rhapsodic quality of both the music and his playing, it was a standout performance.

His Hayden sonata was crisp, clean and movingly introspective, while the Cesar Franck "Prelude, Chorale and Fugue" was filled with passion on the verge of ecstasy. Babakhanian has a concentration that creates the uncanny feeling that the piano is a part of him, united and inseparable. His amazing mastery of his technique frees him totally to pour his soul into the performance. And he does.

Moreover, with hardly a blink he moves from Franck romanticism to the modern idioms of "Six Pictures for Piano" by fellow Armenian Arno Babajanian and then the contemporary "American Ghost Waltzes" by Morton Gould. Unerringly he switches mood and style, winning fascinated attention. He paints vivid pictures as well, in a monumental performance of Modest Mousorgsky's "Pictures at an Exhibition." Splashing the colors from his keyboard palette with breathtaking assurance, he made the Old Castle loom ominously, the Tuileries Gardens glitter in the sunlight and life in the chicken yard vivid and amusing. In terms of the Pro Musica society's goal to debut artists expected to win world class status, Babakhanian is a likely prospect, indeed.

Starting tonight, the DSO this weekend offers more Armenian music with concertmistress Emmanuelle Boisvert performing the Khachaturian violin concerto followed by the complete "Daphnis and Chloe" by Ravel with the Choral Union of the University Music Society. Jarvi conducts. For tickets call (313) 833-3700.

Pro Musica continues on Feb. 3 with the brilliant Austrian baritone, Wolfgang Holzmair, in a recital of art songs. For more information on that event, call 886-7207.

Streep navigates the 'River'

By Marian Trainor
Special Writer

Who says women can't do it all?

In the tough, lean thriller "The River Wild" Meryl Streep does.

She plays Gail, a good-natured, caring mother who puts up a gallant fight to save her marriage to her workaholic husband, Tom (David Strathairn). In the process, she becomes a female hero who performs daring deeds usually reserved for macho males.

Being physically tough is new for Streep, who is more often cast as being refined and cultured. But she is equal to the task mentally, physically and emotionally.

She plays a working mother who teaches deaf students. Concerned about her marriage to Tom, who has substituted work for his family, she arranges a rafting trip to the northwest for herself, her 10-year-old son, Roarke (Joseph Mazzello) and their golden retriever.

Gail loves the challenge of rafting. She and Roarke are in high spirits as they prepare for the trip but Roarke's enthusiasm is dampened when Tom decides to join them. Roarke resents his father because he has let him down so many times.

As they are about to shove off, two strangers appear, Wade (Kevin Bacon) and his red-neck friend, Terry (John C. Reilly) who are also preparing to shoot the rapids. They approach Gail and ask to ride with the family because they have a problem with their raft. Wade is a charmer. Gail agrees to take them along. As they make their way down the river, everyone is enjoying the trip except Tom, who is sitting in the back of the raft watching Wade flirt shamelessly with Gail and how she responds to him.

Later, several incidents occur that indicate that Wade is not the nice guy he insists he is.

Actually, he is a dangerous criminal. He and his pal Terry are wanted for robbery and murder and have chosen the waterway as a quick means of escape.

The tension that builds is relieved by several personal details that are introduced: the family's fluency in sign language, its attention to Native American stone etchings, a Swiss Army knife Roarke receives as a gift. These details are not just thrown in but later serve to help the family in its attempts to escape its captors. Even the dog serves a purpose.

Director Curtis Hanson ("The Hand That Rocks the Cradle") and writer Denis O'Neill have fashioned a tense and satisfying story enhanced by breathtaking shots of Montana's mountain gorges.

But the power of the movie comes from Streep. She is smart and energetic. She is more than equal to the demands of the action genre. She does very dangerous work in the film, effectively portraying the fierce and courageous Gail who is determined to bring her family through the ordeal alive.

Boyish Bacon cast against type as the bad guy makes his gradual change into an eerie villain who shoots a ranger dead without reason or qualms, making the act even more reprehensible.

However, the main attraction of "The River Wild" remains Streep, who is nothing less than sensational and perhaps a contender for an Academy Award — again.

Grosse Pointe Cinema League tours Argentina

The Grosse Pointe Cinema League will present a 35mm slide presentation, "Argentina," by Irene Allen at 8 p.m. Monday, Oct. 17, in the Fries Auditorium at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

The film takes viewers to the land of the pampas and the gauchos, to see the skyscrapers of Buenos Aires, and the birthplace of the tango.

Allen has traveled extensively in Africa, Asia, Australia, and North America for educational and personal enjoyment and is currently working in the department of teacher education at the Eastern Michigan University college of education.

Guests are welcome; admission for non-members is $4. Call (313) 881-7511 for more information.

Halloween fun is planned at Ford House Oct. 19-20

The Edsel & Eleanor Ford House invites children and their families for two nights of Howl-O-Ween Hocus Pocus on Wednesday, Oct. 19, and Thursday, Oct. 20.

Featuring Detroit Free Press music critic John Guina, the performances explore music's power to conjure up the thrill and chill of Halloween.

The evening begins at 6 p.m. as guests ride the Boo-Mobile to the Play House for a visit with tricksters and to receive Halloween treats. The performance follows at 7 p.m.

This is the fourth annual Halloween haunt at Ford House. Admission is $6 a person, reservations are required and space is limited.

The Edsel & Eleanor Ford House is located at 1100 Lakeshore, Grosse Pointe Shores. For information and reservations, call (313) 884-4222.

FILUMENA

by Eduardo de Filippo
English adaptation by Willis Hall & Keith Waterhouse

In this warm, delightful comedy, Filumena, a strong, proud woman, has lived with Domenico for 25 years without benefit of matrimony while he pursues affairs of the flesh with abandon. Revenge is sweet when she pretends to be dying and inveigles him into a "deathbed marriage." A charming cat-and-mouse game ensues as Filumena then reveals a long-kept secret.

Hilberry gets off to a slow start

By Ronald J. Bernas
Assistant Editor

The Hilberry Theatre Company, with a slew of new faces, got its 1994-95 season off to a shaky start with a double bill of "The Actor's Nightmare" and "Black Comedy."

"Nightmare," by Christopher Durang, which opened the evening, is intended to be a silly, very funny play-within-a-play about an accountant who finds himself suddenly thrust on-tage as a replacement for Edwin Booth.

The problem is, he doesn't know what play he's doing nor has he ever rehearsed.

And the people around him — legendary actors Sarah Siddons, Ellen Terry and Henry Irving — come in and out of "Private Lives," "Hamlet" and "Checkmate," expecting him to play the other roles.

During intermission, several people were heard to ask why that piece was chosen to open the season. It wasn't funny, Kathleen Kaiafas of Grosse Pointe Shores has joined the Hilberry Repertory Theatre Company and appears in the first production of the 1994-95 season.

Kaiafas will play the role of the famous 19th century actress Ellen Terry in Christopher Durang's parody, "The Actor's Nightmare," running in rotating repertory through Dec. 1.

A native of Michigan, Kaiafas is the daughter of Peter and Josephine Kaiafas of Grosse Pointe Shores. She is a gradu-

The play is 30 minutes of images, one-liners, imitations and best-of scenes from plays by giants in the theater world.

What the Hilberry gave us is 45 minutes of slow-moving, under-directed theater.

The play is written to be a nightmare, where things don't make sense, and aren't supposed to unless you hunt deep enough. It needs a momentum that carries it non-stop until

Well done, but 'Fiction' can't live up to the hype

By Ronald J. Bernas
Assistant Editor

Quentin Tarantino's much awaited "Pulp Fiction" will open tomorrow across metro-Detroit and is already being hailed as one of the best films of this year, maybe even this decade.

It's not. It's a movie that misfires as often as it hits the mark.

Much like "Reservoir Dogs," Tarantino's remarkable first film which he wrote and directed, and "True Romance," which he wrote, "Pulp" blends high humor with the lowest form of human behavior, creating a bizarre, but undeniably entertaining film.

But Tarantino's are also unsettling films. While less in-your-face violent than his two previous films, "Pulp" still finds the most gruesome ways to entertain. One wouldn't think there's much humor in someone accidentally blowing a friend's head off, yet you can't stop yourself from laughing.

This film is not for the squeamish or the easily offended; it brings political incorrectness to new depths. Several people left, many within the first 20 minutes.

It's also not for the easily confused — a group of young women sitting behind me couldn't grasp the concept of flashing back and forward in time. The film's four seemingly unrelated stories are interwoven, but in the process, stray threads hang in the air, waiting to be brought back into the pattern. Quite often the storylines take long tangents that don't make sense or fail to be even interesting, but just as often, the tangents are brilliant plot twists that leave you amazed at the fullness of the story.

The main storylines involve Vincent Vega (John Travolta) and Jules (Samuel L. Jackson), two thugs who work for mob boss Marsellus Wallace. They are to retrieve a briefcase from some amateur double-crossers. Jules is at a turning point in his life and is ready to go straight.

Vincent comes to his own turning point when he is supposed to take care of Marsellus' wife Mia (Uma Thurman), to whom he becomes attracted.

That is the weakest story, mostly because there's no chemistry between Travolta and Thurman.

Another thread is that of an aging boxer (Bruce Willis) who double-crosses Marsellus, then puts off his escape and risks his life to retrieve a family heirloom. This story takes some disgusting turns, and would have benefitted from a better acting.

The film begins and ends in a diner where a couple of two-bit thieves decide that they should stop robbing liquor stores, and start holding up restaurants. Their reasoning — that nobody who works at a restaurant is going to fight back — is hilarious and is part of what makes "Pulp" so entertaining: the dialogue.

It's witty and insightful in a twisted way and allows audiences inside the minds of the characters. It's easy to see why the actors clamored for these roles — they're meaty, they're watchable, they're real. Every one of the actors gives all they have to their roles with Jackson head and shoulders above the rest and Tarantino, who has a cameo, on the low end.

But are they people we want to watch?

They are horrible people doing horrible things. They make you wince and they make you laugh, often at the same time.

And they also make you wonder: Aren't we, as a society, beyond laughing at drug abuse? And why are we at the point that such horrific violence is considered humor?

It shouldn't be considered entertainment, either.

Getting next to nature down under at Carnarvon Gorge

Grosse Pointe News travel columnist Cynthia Boal Janssens recently spent two weeks in Australia. The following is the first of three reports.

The hour is early, too early. My eyes twitch. My head thumps. My brain says "Go back to sleep." A quick glimpse at the clock confirms what I fear: It is 5 a.m. Worse, I am seriously contemplating getting up.

It is our third day at the Oasis Lodge, on the edge of Carnarvon National Park in Queensland, Australia. For the past two days, we have been hiking...to see waterfalls, aboriginal rock paintings, fern gullies and even climbing to the top of a very tall bluff. We have learned much about the unusual flora and fauna of Australia and my toes are tuckered.

Get up before dawn? You gotta be kidding.

After all, we all know by now that our enthusiastic guide, Angie Gzell, is a liar.

If she says that the hike today is easy, we know it is pretty tough. If she says it is only a mile, plan on more than two. But you have to give her credit, she keeps pushing us, and in doing so enables us to see so much more than we might have attempted without her prodding.

Today we are up early so that we can see the sun rise over the Gorge. I have declared — judiciously, I believe — that they can count me out.

But I set an alarm just in case, and when it rings I can't resist — I haul myself out of the sack, brew a quick cuppa (thank God for the universal Australian custom of an electric kettle and coffee/tea makings in every room), throw on a sweatshirt and jeans and astonish everyone by showing up.

Again, Angie runs true to form. Our "short walk" turns out to be a 40-minute trek up a steep incline. But, to be fair, it is a great vantage point. Angie settles in to make "billy tea" (more on that later), we set our cameras for a timed-release photo — then we kick back, sip our steaming tea and contemplate the pink, orange and purple shades of a lovely sunrise.

I must admit, I wouldn't have missed it.

Of course, beautiful scenery anywhere in the world can have that effect. But in Australia, the countryside has special meaning to visitors for it is here, rather than in the cities, where one can see how very different this country is from ours.

We arrived in Brisbane, in Queensland, on the eastern side of Australia, after an arduous 24-hour plane trip. Fortunately, the city was refreshing, with a vibrant downtown, stylish Colonial architecture and the distinctive Moreton Bay fig trees. However, it didn't strike me as being very different from American cities, except that the people speak English with that distinctive Aussie accent.

So it was with anticipation when, the next morning, we boarded a small plane for a two-hour flight to our first stop: Carnarvon National Park. As we touched down on a grass landing strip, I began to notice that everything seemed askew: The tall trees were different but I couldn't figure out why. Soon I was to learn it is because they are all some variety of eucalyptus, with distinctive leaves and bark.

Julie Lynn Harbold
Harbold-Aliaga

Don and Jeanne Harbold of Grosse Pointe Park have announced the engagement of their daughter, Julie Lynn Harbold, to Antonio Abel Aliaga, son of Domitila Aliaga of Greenville, S.C., and the late Eduardo Aliaga. A December wedding is planned.

Mrs. William Schudlich of Dearborn, on June 18, 1994, at Christ Church Grosse Pointe.

The Rev. Bryant W. Dennison Jr. officiated at the 4 p.m. ceremony, which was followed by a reception at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club.

The bride wore a blush pink silk satin gown that featured a portrait neckline, a Basque waist, short sleeves and a chapel-length train. Her headpiece, three matching silk satin flowers, held a chapel-length veil and she carried a round bouquet of ivory, blush and pink roses.

The maid of honor was Kelly Cunningham of Grand Rapids.

Flowergirls were Alison and Whitney Couzens of Grosse Pointe Farms.

Attendants wore champagne colored floor-length silk gowns and carried round bouquets of bright pink roses. The flowergirls wore blush pink silk dresses and carried small rose topiaries.

The best man was Michael Boland of Walled Lake.

Groomsmen were the groom's brother, William Schudlich of Santa Fe, N.M.; Craig Wolter of Dearborn; and Peter Schreiber of Royal Oak. Ushers were the bride's brothers, T. Kirk Lowry and Adam Lowry, both of Grosse Pointe Shores.

The mother of the bride wore a floor-length sapphire blue silk sheath accented with crystal buttons.

The groom's mother wore a black and white floor-length suit accented with black beading on the jacket.

Carillonneur, organist and music director was Frederic DeHaven, conducting the Choir of Men and Boys of Christ Church. Trumpeters were Jeff Markwick and Mike McCowan. French horn players were Harry Patten and Connie Hutchinson. Scripture readers were Kirk and Adam Lowry.

The bride graduated from Michigan State University. She is a manufacturer's representative with T.K. Lowry Sales Inc.

The groom also graduated from Michigan State University. He is a manufacturer's representative with Lowry Sales Engineering Inc.

The couple traveled to Bermuda and Harbor Springs. They live in Grosse Pointe Woods.

Tuesday Musicale presents concert

Tuesday Musicale will present its second morning concert at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday, Oct. 25, at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. The concert will include music by Schubert, Schumann and Prokofiev, and performers will include a harpist, a flutist, a soprano and a pianist.

Guests are welcome. There is no charge, but donations to the scholarship fund are welcome.

Tuesday Musicale was founded in 1885 for women pianists to improve their skills. Soon other instrumentalists and singers were included. The group was active before the inception of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra in 1914.

Tuesday Musicale sponsors 10 Tuesday morning concerts each season and contributes to major musical organizations in the metropolitan Detroit area. The group gives two scholarships annually to the University of Michigan as well as several awards to members of its own Student League.

For further information, call president Lawrence LaGore at 885-0744.

Alpha Xi Delta plans coffee

The fall coffee for alumnae of Alpha Xi Delta will be held at the home of Margaret Wittwer on Saturday, Oct. 15, at 10 a.m. Wittwer recently celebrated 50 years of dedicated service and will be awarded the Order of the Rose.

All alums and collegiate members are invited to attend. Call (313) 884-4586 for reservations and directions.

Questers to meet

Grosse Pointe chapter No. 147 of Questers will meet on Friday, Oct. 14. A tour of Detroit's historic churches is planned. Mrs. Manuel Papista will be hostess, assisted by Mrs. Vincent Galbo.

English-Speaking Union will meet Oct. 19

The English-Speaking Union, an organization founded to further understanding and friendship among English-speaking people around the world, will meet for dinner and a speaker at 6 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 19, at the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club.

The speaker will be James Thomas, director of the Wayne State University theaters.

The English-Speaking Union was founded in 1920 and the Detroit branch was formed in 1923. The group sponsors educational programs such as teacher exchanges, scholarships, a national speakers program, a travel service and more.

Tickets for the evening are $25. For more information about the organization, or to make reservations, call Mary S. Irwin, president, at (810) 773-9269.

G.P. Woman's Club will meet

Members of the Grosse Pointe Woman's Club and their guests will meet at 12:30 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 19, for tea and a program in the Crystal Ballroom of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

After a social hour, Dr. Richard Ferrara Sr., dermatology specialist, will speak. His topic will be "Skin Cancer: Prevention and Treatment."

Members planning to invite guests must make reservations by calling the hospitality chairman by noon Saturday, Oct. 15, at 885-8232 or 885-4994.

Grand Marais Questers to meet

Members of the Grand Marais Questers No. 215 of Grosse Pointe have planned a trip to the Romeo-Armada area on Friday, Oct. 14.

"It's fun to search and a joy to find," is the motto for the Questers, an international organization devoted to studying antiques.

Newcomers Alumni plan Oktoberfest

The Grosse Pointe Newcomers Alumni will hold its Oktoberfest on Saturday, Oct. 15, at the home of Wanda and Bill Leith, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Entertainment will be provided by Walter Wnuck, accordionist. Featured will be dancing and prizes for the best German costume, the best German hat, best polka and best odeling. Couples who live in the Grosse Pointes are welcome. For reservations, call Allen or Pat Freiwald at 823-3952.

The next party will be the traditional Christmas buffet at the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club on Sunday, Dec. 11. For information on membership, call Betsy Boynton at 343-0570.

Josiah Harmar celebrates 56 years

The General Josiah Harmar chapter of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution will celebrate its 56th birthday at noon Saturday, Oct. 15, at the Detroit Boat Club on Belle Isle.

Members will celebrate the founding of the General Josiah Harmar chapter in June 1938 by a small group of friends who lived in or near the Grosse Pointes. Honored guest and speaker will be Mrs. Kenneth J. Brown, former regent of the DAR's St. Clair chapter.

Recycling group plans meeting

The Grosse Pointe Citizens for Recycling's annual meeting will be at 7 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 13, at the Grosse Pointe Farms City Hall, 90 Kerby. North's boys snap South's long win streak

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

One week made a world of difference in coach Pat Wilson's outlook on the remainder of Grosse Pointe North's boys cross country season. That week included the Norsemen's thrilling 27-28 victory over Grosse Pointe South that marked the Blue Devils' first dual meet loss since North beat them four years ago.

"That was a big meet for us to establish ourselves as a regional contender," said Wilson. "It was good racing all the way by both teams."

North got a huge boost from Bob Stevenson and Jeff Henson, who had been fighting injuries and illness much of the season and were slow rounding into top form.

"We needed that big jump from our third and fourth runners and last week we got it," Wilson said. "A week ago Saturday (in an invitational at Center Line) there was a gap of about a minute and a half between our second and third runners. In the South meet it was 20 seconds. Everybody from third through 12th was only about a minute apart."

North had its Macomb Area

Conference Blue Division showdown this week with L'Anse Creuse and Cousino and the Norsemen will run at the Oxford Invitational on Friday. The next two Saturdays will feature the division meet and the regional.

"I'm a lot more optimistic going into those meets now than I was a week ago," Wilson said. "This is a pretty stable group of kids. They're a mature bunch and I think we can stay where we are. We won't be going into the big meets on a hope and a prayer."

Bill Stevenson was an easy winner in the South meet, while the Blue Devils' Matt Debski came in second. North's Kevin Grant was third, followed by South's Jon Van Hoek and Tim Nicholson. Bob Stevenson was sixth, Henson seventh and Paul Serilla came in 10th to decide the meet.

The battle for the final scoring position was the most exciting part of the meet. South's Chas Carrier was unable to hold off the North trio of Serilla, Nick Miotke and Tom McGrane at the finish line.

"Carrier really battled our three kids for two miles," Wilson said. "I was really impressed with him. If it had been one-on-one with somebody, the outcome might have been different, but when you're trying to hold off three guys it's tough. I feel bad for him because he ran a good race, but we got a great effort from our three kids in staying with him."

Time to celebrate

Grosse Pointe South quarterback Todd Drake (10) is one of the first to congratulate receiver Matt Agnone (12) after he caught a touchdown pass to give the Blue Devils a 14-0 lead in their game with Romeo last weekend. Coming up to join the celebration is Peter Messacar. South beat the Bulldogs 24-19 for their first victory of the season. Complete details are on page 3C.

South girls on schedule

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe South's girls cross country team looks like it's right on schedule to earn another trip to the Class A state meet.

The Lady Devils have been a fixture at the state meet the last 14 seasons. They'd like nothing better than to make it 15.

"We have the longest streak in the state, boys or girls," said coach Steve Zaranek. "We're gearing up for the last Saturday in October. I think we have a good chance to win the regional."

South hosts a Class A regional at Metropolitan Beach on Oct. 29.

"Our whole team has run well the last two weeks," Zaranek said. "We've been hoping for this breakthrough. Everything we do from now on is pointing to the regional."

Last week was a successful one for the Lady Devils. They beat Grosse Pointe North 19-42 in a dual meet, then took first place in the Saginaw Heritage Invitational.

South runners posted 37 season-best times in the North meet. That came on the heels of 43 best efforts in an invitational at Center Line the previous weekend.

"The kids were ready for North," Zaranek said. "It was a good day and all the kids were represented by family on Parents' Day. The number of spectators for a dual cross country meet was overwhelming."

The Lady Devils needed a strong effort to beat North because the Lady Norsemen are an up-and-coming squad. "They've improved so much as a team," Zaranek said. "They're getting better and better."

South's Katie Weed took first place overall in the North meet, followed by teammates Amy Zanglin and Jonnie Vasse. North took the next two places, but Elizabeth Borowiec, Laura Stuckey and Lisa McCurdy were sixth, seventh and eighth, respectively.

Zaranek was pleased with Weed's performance.

"She's been injured all season," the coach said. "It's been a tough situation for her with training and meets. She's been running only in the key meets and training only when she's

A pleasant surprise has been the development of freshman Jonnie Vasse.

"She's done a wonderful job," Zaranek said. "Our first seven runners have been very consistent and that's what we strive for. And right behind them is a group of about 10 others who are real close to breaking into our top seven. We spend the season changing around and experimenting in hopes of finding the seven most consistent runners."

South didn't slow down at the Heritage Invitational, placing five runners in the top 12 to post a convincing win in the 13-team field. It was the Lady Devils' fourth invitational title this year.

Aimee Vasse led the South contingent with a fifth-place finish overall. She was followed by Zanglin in sixth, Weed seventh, Borowiec 11th and Jonnie Vasse 12th.

South dominated the junior varsity race, taking 13 of the 15 medal positions.

Sophomore Kate Crowley, who had been one of South's top five runners last season, took first place in 21:25 in her first race of the season. She had been sidelined with an injury.

Crowley was followed closely by Stephanie Keim in second place and Rebecca Padilla in third.

South's other medalists were Sarah Gordon, Dara O'Byrne, Yvonne Krywyj, Kate Dougherty, Nicole Pettit, Dayna Bourbeau, Kate Callas, Kate Hempstead and Janel Zuidema.

Other season-best times came from Sarah Krueger, Chrissy Bossler, Elizabeth Black, Kathleen Clark, Abby DeFrance and Katie Bossler.

Among those South runners posting season-best performances in the North meet were Maureen Ryan, Chris Litt-mann, Megan Steele, Danielle Slavik, Kyle Murphy, Allison Alt, Monika Zielinska, Jenny Pailla and Sarah Handley.

South golfer shoots an ace

Fifteen-year-old Ben Debski of Grosse Pointe Park has something that many older golfers can only dream about.

Debski, who is a sophomore on Grosse Pointe South's golf team, shot a hole in one during a recent round at Chandler Park. Debski aced the 146-yard seventh hole, using a 9-iron.

GPSA Roundup

Hurricanes do well in travel

The Grosse Pointe Soccer Association Hurricanes have been blowing up a storm in the Under-10 Minor travel league.

Andy Godoshian scored twice and Brian Gatliff, Jeffrey Osaer and Jonathan Zalenski added a goal apiece in a 5-2 victory over the Mustangs '86.

Zalenski notched five goals and Godoshian had three in a 9-1 win over the GPSA Dragons. Chase Mitchelson had the other Hurricanes' goal, while Molly O'Loughlin tallied for the Dragons.

Gatliff and Osaer were the marksmen in the Hurricanes' 2-2 tie with Genesee Star United '85. Defensive standouts were Colin Cassidy and Lucas Coffman.

Gatliff and Stephen Schaugg scored the goals and Zalenski and Michael Weingarten collected assists in the Hurricanes' 2-1 win over the Mustangs.

Godoshian scored two goals and Osaer had one as the Hurricanes played a 3-3 tie with Genesee. Danny Majeski had an outstanding game for Grosse Pointe, while Matt Caramagno and Joseph Kotwick were the top defensive players.

Under-11

Robert Rogers, Mike Chamberlin and David Neveu scored goals as the GPSA Phantoms blanked the Fraser Crusaders 3-0.

Jeff Roulo, Andy Lapish and Trevor Schulte collected assists. The Phantoms got outstanding defensive play from Geordie Mackenzie, Peter Sullivan and Jason Gruenwald, while David Black was brilliant in goal. Bill Tuthill and Brad Van Sickle had strong offensive performances.

Under-13

Jason Coffman, Eric Krauss, Brad Drummy and Adam Budday had the goals in the GPSA Salvo's 4-2 win over the USL Gunners.

Good midfield play by Steve Buhalis, Blake Ellis, Mark Gotfredson and Mike Tymrak keyed the Salvo's attack, while defenders Justin Schoenherr, Harry Gaggos and Matt Lapish played well in front of goalie David Smith, who also played a strong game.

Coffman scored three times and Krauss tallied twice in the Salvo's 7-0 romp over the Birmingham Burners. Budday and John Schott scored Grosse Pointe's other goals, while Krauss had two assists and Coffman, Budday, Tymrak and Aaron Campbell each picked up one.

Smith recorded the shutout as the Salvo's attack was led by the speed of Coffman, Schott, Ken Potenga and Drummy and the fine passing of Campbell, Ellis and Nick Rondo.

Former Pointer breaks record

Former Grosse Pointer Peter Bolos, now a St. Clair Shores resident, continues to set age-group running records.

Bolos, 81, broke his own mark when he ran the recent Grosse Pointe 10-kilometer run in one hour, two minutes and 15 seconds. He received an outstanding achievement award for his efforts.

Bolos is now training for the Detroit Marathon.

Grosse Pointe South receiver Matt Agnone gathers in this pass from quarterback Todd Drake for one of his two touchdown receptions in the Blue Devils' 24-19 victory over Romeo.

South takes bite out of Bulldogs

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Last Friday was a night of firsts for Grosse Pointe South's football team.

The Blue Devils played their first night game of the season, they wore blue pants with blue jerseys for the first time, they had their first lead of the year when quarterback Todd Drake hit split end Matt Agnone in the end zone in the opening quarter and most important, they defeated Romeo 25-19 for their first victory since 1993.

"You can't imagine how good this feels to everyone associated with our program," said Blue Devils' coach Mike McLeod. "When you keep losing the kids start to doubt what we're trying to do. We start doubting ourselves. This gives everyone a lot more confidence."

South didn't pick on any weak sister in posting its first win. Romeo is a solid club with a 3-3 record and the Bulldogs came into the season as one of the top contenders in the Macomb Area Conference White Division.

This week the Blue Devils host Country Day in another Friday night game.

"It's a non-leaguer and we'll just try to have some fun," McLeod said.

One thing is certain. South will be wearing its all-blue ensemble.

"What do you think?" McLeod said with a smile when asked if that would be the Blue Devils' attire again this week. "I don't think our coaches will be changing their underwear or socks."

South made its presence felt from the opening kickoff. The Blue Devils marched from their own 23 to the Romeo nine when the drive stalled. A 26-yard field goal attempt sailed wide right, but it was only a momentary setback.

Romeo's quarterback fumbled on the next series of downs and South's Nelson Ropke, who played a strong game, recovered on the Bulldogs' 20. An apparent touchdown run by South's Bob Kazma on the first play was nullified by a holding penalty, but three plays later Drake hit Agnone in the corner of the end zone and Agnone kicked the first of his three extra points to give the Blue Devils their first lead of the season.

"It was so important for us to get on the scoreboard first," McLeod said. "That was our second goal. The first was to hit with Romeo. Ever since Dennis (coach Dennis Zbozen) has been there, Romeo has been one of the hardest-hitting and best-coached teams in the league. If we could hit with them, we knew we'd do all right."

It was three plays and out for Romeo on its next possession. Sophomore Zach Meyers deflected one of quarterback Tim Czarnik's passes and on third down, Rob Zurschmiede tackled Czarnik for a 10-yard loss.

The Bulldogs punted and South began a 73-yard, 12-play march that culminated in Drake's six-yard pass to Agnone with 8:16 left in the first half.

The Blue Devils drove to the Romeo five the next time they had the ball and it looked like South would leave the field at halftime with a 14-0 advantage, but a razzle-dazzle play by the Bulldogs that resulted in a 54-yard touchdown on the final play of the first half cut the margin to 14-6.

Czarnik completed a pass over the middle to Anthony Bonner, who was hit immediately, but lateraled to Clint Rodger, who raced into the end zone untouched.

"That's a play Romeo likes to use," McLeod said. "They beat Fraser with it two years ago. When we came into the locker room we told the kids, 'Just forget about it. It happened, now concentrate on the second half.' We didn't want to make a big deal about it."

The stunning touchdown didn't seem to bother South, which stopped Romeo on its first two possessions of the second half. On the second, sophomore Kyle McCartney intercepted a pass and returned it 25 yards to the Romeo 11, setting up a 31-yard field goal by Agnone.

It looked like the Blue Devils had the game safely in hand when Kazma raced 82 yards for a touchdown on the first play of the fourth quarter to give South a 24-6 lead. Key blocks by tight end Kevin Schroeder and Agnone helped spring Kazma.

Romeo wasn't about to give in. The Bulldogs drove 58 yards in seven plays with fullback Kurt Rienas ripping off huge chunks of yardage. Rodger went in from the four for the touchdown. A pass play for the two-point conversion fell incomplete, but Romeo still had nine minutes to catch up.

An illegal procedure penalty backed South up to its own 15 and when the Blue Devils were forced to punt, Romeo took over on its 45 with seven minutes remaining. The Bulldogs took 10 plays to score, with Rodger going in from the two. Kris Selke's extra point cut South's lead to 24-19 with 4:20 left.

The Blue Devils ate some valuable time off the clock on their next possession. A key play was a 15-yard pass from Drake to Agnone along the sideline. Agnone stayed in-bounds to keep the clock running.

"That was a heads-up play because the natural tendency is to go out," McLeod said. "Matt is a very heady player."

When the drive stalled at midfield, Romeo got the ball back at its 21 with 1:23 remaining. The Bulldogs managed the clock well and ran nine plays before time ran out on a Hail Mary pass into the end zone that was batted around by several players before falling harmlessly to the ground.

After the game, McLeod was ecstatic.

"Everybody came to play," he said. "Our seniors took it upon themselves to step up and we got outstanding efforts from our two sophomore tackles, Chris Campbell and Zach Meyers."

Drake, who completed 12 of 19 passes for 148 yards in the first half finished with 13 for 24 and 163 yards. Kazma rushed for 156 yards in 21 carries.

"Todd was on tonight," McLeod said. "He didn't have a good game against Fraser, but he started coming back last week against Mott. He made some excellent throws today and he had the protection he needed."

Among South's defensive standouts were Bill Starrs, Pat Worrell, Ryan Ermanni, Zurschmiede, Ropke, Brian McCloskey and Browe Merriweather.

Norsemen triumph despite key losses

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe North is not a one-man football team.

The Norsemen were missing co-captains Eric Peters and Donny Tocco for last week's homecoming game with L'Anse Creuse North, but still beat the Crusaders 21-6 in the Macomb Area Conference Blue Division contest.

"The kids played a real solid game," said North coach Frank Sumbera. "We were confident that we could hold Eric and Donny out and still win the way we've been playing. Brandon Hacias filled in for Eric at tailback and had 126 yards in 19 carries. Mike Lucido did a fine job at guard for Tocco and Steve Fennell played quite a bit at linebacker because Hacias was playing on offense and he had eight tackles."

Peters, who scored 13 touchdowns in North's previous three games, was accidentally poked in the eye during last Tuesday's practice. He suffered a slight detachment of the retina and had laser fusion surgery the following day.

"He's OK," Sumbera said. "We had a shield made to protect the eye. He was ready to play last week, but the doctor felt it was best for him to sit out a week."

Tocco has had a nagging shoulder injury and the week's rest should help him, too.

"He's had the problem with his shoulder for about three weeks," Sumbera said. "He was dressed, too, but didn't play a down."

Sumbera wants his whole team in top shape for Friday's game with Roseville which will match the two remaining unbeaten teams in the MAC Blue Division. Last weekend, Roseville handed Cousino its first division loss 10-7.

Friday's 7 p.m. contest will also be the first night football game ever played at North.

Temporary lights have been installed.

"Roseville has a lot of looks that are like our own," Sumbera said. "All 11 starters are seniors."

Key players for the Panthers are lefthanded quarterback Robert Wilson, tight end Steve Schmittler, wide receiver Adam Robbins and running back Tony Rich.

North, which had its first drive stalled at the LCN 14 by an interception on a deflected pass, scored on its second possession of the game.

A pair of sophomores hooked up on a six-yard touchdown pass to cap the 55-yard, 10-play drive. Quarterback Steve Champine found wide receiver Frank Sumbera IV in the end zone for Sumbera's first varsity touchdown. Champine added the first of his three extra points for a 7-0 lead.

North stopped the Crusaders on downs after the kickoff and the Norsemen marched to the LCN 29 before the drive was stalled. Once again, North's defense held and it got the ball on the Crusaders' 30 after a bad punt. Four plays later, fullback Dan Shefferly, who had 90 yards in 19 carries, scored from the one.

Neither team scored in the third quarter, but North picked up its final touchdown early in the fourth quarter on a two-yard run by Champine to end a drive that started at midfield.

LCN spoiled North's bid for its third straight shutout when the Crusaders scored on a 24-yard pass from Tom Mette to Andre Laverdiere with only 35 seconds left in the game.

North controlled the ball most of the game and finished with 236 yards rushing and 45 passing.

LCN faked punts four times and was successful on two of them and the Crusaders also

Knights take tumble

After taking a step forward the week before against Hamtramck, University Liggett School's football team took a step back last weekend when it was beaten 40-8 by Lutheran North.

"We didn't execute as well as in the games with Hamtramck and Cranbrook," said coach Bob Newvine.

The defeat left the Knights with a 1-5 overall record and a 1-4 mark in the Metro Conference. Lutheran North is 3-3 overall and 3-2 in the league.

ULS will play Friday at Lutheran West at 4:15 p.m.

The Leopards are coming off a 22-16 loss to previously-winless Harper Woods. The Knights' only victory came against Harper Woods.

"I think we have a good chance to win (against Lutheran West)," said Newvine, whose team dropped a 20-0 decision to the Leopards last year.

The Knights will have to be wary of another fine running back in West's Thomas Mills, who carried 19 times for 150 yards and two touchdowns in the Harper Woods game.

The first quarter of the Lutheran North game was even, but ULS had to dig out of a hole when quarterback Brian Legree was sacked for 16 yards on the Knights' first play from scrimmage.

The Mustangs' first touchdown came after they recovered a ULS fumble — one of four turnovers committed by the Knights, which led to 27 points. Brandon Wright scored on a 12-yard run and Kevin Gruebner kicked the extra point.

Wright ran for 143 yards on 25 carries and scored North's first three touchdowns. He was a workhorse, carrying the ball 21 of the Mustangs' first 23 rushing plays.

South's McGratty cracks carom mark

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

There's a new rebounding queen at Grosse Pointe South. Shannon McGratty pulled down a school-record 23 rebounds last week in the Lady Devils' 49-37 victory over Romeo in a Macomb Area Conference White Division girls basketball game. She and Angela Drake, who's now starting for the University of Toledo, shared the old mark of 22 rebounds.

"Shannon was getting great position," said South coach Peggy Van Eckoute. "She had nine offensive and 14 defensive rebounds, so she was doing the job on both ends of the floor."

Romeo's fast break offense, similar to the one used by Paul Westhead when he coached Loyola Marymount, also helped. When South was at the free throw line, only two Romeo players were lined up in the paint area.

The Bulldogs stayed with the Lady Devils for three quarters, but South wore them down in the final period, outscoring Romeo 16-7.

"We pulled the pressure off with about six minutes left in the game and packed them up half-court," Van Eckoute said. "That took (Romeo) out of the flow of the game."

"They kept running, but I think their legs were getting tired and it was affecting their outside shooting."

Reagan Allen, who led the Bulldogs with 11 points, was shut out in the final eight minutes.

South's three-point lead after three quarters quickly became a 12-point advantage and Van Eckoute changed strategy again.

"We started to hold the ball and forced Romeo to come out of its zone," she said.

Molly McKenzie scored eight of her game-high 17 points in the fourth quarter, while McGratty collected eight rebounds in the period.

McKenzie, who also had five rebounds and three assists, has picked up her scoring since South began division play.

"She has 11, 10 and 17 points in our three league games," Van Eckoute said. "She's been scoring on drives and pull-up jumpers and in this game she had a steal and went the length of the court to score."

McGratty finished with 11 points, Katy Lupu collected seven points and eight rebounds and Becky Soltis finished with six points, 10 rebounds and three blocked shots.

South held a 55-35 edge in rebounding.

The Lady Devils, who were locked in a 20-20 halftime tie, did a better job of taking care of the ball in the second half, cutting their turnovers from 17 to nine.

"We're an up-tempo team and we'll have some turnovers, but I don't like to see more than 15 a game," Van Eckoute said.

South has a key division matchup this week with Grosse Pointe North, which is also unbeaten in league play.

"There won't be any room for mistakes against North," Van Eckoute said.

Grosse Pointe North's Christine Jamerino is in some select company.

Jamerino became only the second female swimmer in state history to qualify for the state meet in every event for four years when she achieved a state cut in the 500-yard freestyle during the Lady Norsemen's 120-64 victory over Fraser last week.

The win also clinched the Macomb Area Conference dual meet championship for North.

Michelle Vasapolli had two state cuts, winning the 200 freestyle in 1:59.41 and taking first in the 500 in 5:17.63. Jamerino's second-place time in the 500 was 5:19.54.

Freshman Melissa Beck won the 200 individual medley (2:23.71) and the 100 butterfly (1:07.71).

North's other winners were Lauren Flemion in the 100 backstroke (1:13.58) and diver Leah Reynolds, who had 156 points.

The Lady Norsemen swept the three relays. Melissa Moursis, Jamerino, Betsy Gebeck and Madeline Emery won the 200 medley relay in 2:02.95; Vasapolli, Emery, Molly O'Toole and Jamie Taylor won the 200 freestyle relay in 1:52.76; and the team of Jamerino, Beck, Taylor and Vasapolli won the 400 freestyle relay in 3:58.21.

The Grosse Pointe Red Barons won two of their three games with the Northeast Detroit Shamrocks in last week's East Suburban Football League action.

The varsity posted a 32-7 victory, while the junior varsity won 18-7. The freshmen dropped a 7-6 heartbreaker.

In the varsity game, Josh Lorence scored on runs of 17 and three yards and Ted Swarthout had a 42-yard touchdown run. Jeff Hermann scored on a 62-yard kickoff return to start the second half. Andrew Hendrie kicked four extra points.

The defense, led by Rickey Pesta and Eric Dunlap, held the Shamrocks to one touchdown. Brian Granger, David Hirt, Curtis Marsh, Dean Cataldo, Mike Goldsby and Joe Slavik each had tackles.

In the junior varsity contest, K.C. Cleary scored on runs of 83 and one yard. Quarterback Andy Hill scored from a yard out and passed 23 yards to Andrew Ellis to set up the touchdown.

Defensive standouts were Jason Rusko, Brian Krall, Mike Mathews, Tony Gatliff, Mark DiMambro and Hobbie Schleicher.

The freshmen's only touchdown was a one-yard run by quarterback Kyle Hacias, which was set up by Haider Samhat's 30-yard run. Scott Schaft also played well in the backfield.

Defensive leaders were Joe Frazzitta, Boomer Urisko, Ryan Rogers, Danny Raider, A.J. Staniszewski, John Schubeck and Tony Krall.

The Red Barons visit the Shelby Lions on Sunday.

North looks for a spark

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe North's girls basketball team is in need of a pick-me-up and there's nothing like a battle with crosstown rival Grosse Pointe South to provide the spark.

"We're a little stale right now," said North coach Gary Bennett. "We're at the point of the season where it's not fresh anymore and the end is nowhere in sight."

The Lady Norsemen played only one game last week — a 47-29 victory over Fraser in the Macomb Area Conference White Division — and the respite came at a perfect time.

"If it wasn't that I was worried about conditioning we'd have given them the whole week off," said Bennett. "Sometimes the season wears on you more mentally than physically."

Bennett and co-coach Ray Ritter gave the Lady Norsemen last Thursday off and had a short practice Friday. Saturday and Sunday were also off days.

Bennett admitted he was concerned about hosting South tonight, Oct. 13, at 7 p.m. in a game that matches the two remaining unbeaten teams in the MAC White.

"They'll play extremely hard against us," Bennett said. "I remember when Peggy (South coach Peggy Van Eckoute) had those great teams a few years ago. We didn't have to say anything to our kids to get them ready to play South. If we don't have a good night, we'll be in trouble. South is closer to us than a lot of people realize."

North had another excellent defensive game against Fraser last week.

"Fraser's JV coach was impressed with how our girls stopped the penetration in the seams so consistently," Bennett said. "It's a combination of having quick kids and practicing defense all the time. We spend more practice time on defense than we do on offense."

North's team defense gave Fraser standout Shana Lynch one of her most difficult games of the season. Lynch, who is averaging more than 25 points a game, was held to 14.

"We didn't go out with a plan to stop Shana," Bennett said. "It was just our team defense. If she beat the person who was guarding her, somebody else would slow her down. That's just our normal defense. We have a lot of respect for Shana and we might have put added emphasis on stopping her if we needed to, but we didn't."

Senior Kristen Loeher had an outstanding game for the Lady Norsemen, collecting 14 points, six assists and three steals, but some of her most important contributions can't be measured statistically.

"She played very well defensively and did a great job of passing the ball to the other post," Bennett said. "Kristen's a real competitor and always gives her best effort."

Sue Karber led North with 16 points and 10 rebounds.

Another standout for the Lady Norsemen was Robyn Maples, who came off the bench to score four points and also contributed to the defensive performance.

"Robyn did a great job defensively," Bennett said. "She always shows tremendous hustle. She might not have the offensive skills some of our players do, but she plays great defense."

Knights

much," Newvine said. "They beat us with the ground game."

North had a 20-point second quarter with Wright scoring on runs of 16 and one yard. Legree blocked one extra point, but the second was good.

Both of those drives were set up by ULS mistakes. A five-yard punt, followed by a fumble on the kickoff after Wright's 16-yard touchdown, provided the Mustangs with all the help they needed.

North scored twice in the fourth quarter, while ULS spoiled the shutout bid when Legree hit freshman wide receiver Brian Bruenton on a 47-yard scoring strike. The two-point conversion was successful.

North

attempted outside kicks on each of their kickoffs.

North got a solid defensive effort. Linebacker Wayne Ford was the leading tackler with 15, including five solo stops. Nate Pierantoni, Dave Keenan, Mike Magri and Dan Vormelker each had five tackles.

The only disappointment from a North standpoint was an injury to Vormelker, who was returning to action for the first time since the second week of the season when he injured his leg.

"He was doing a great job with five tackles and two sacks in the first half and then just before halftime, he reinjured his leg," coach Sumbera said.

Mustangs '85 shade PGSA counterparts

The Mustangs '85 nipped the Mustangs '86 2-1 in a battle of Pointe Girls Soccer Association Under-10 teams.

Jillian Karlik and Beth Sanders scored the winners' goals, while Jenna Cassisi tallied for the younger squad.

The first half was scoreless thanks to outstanding goaltending by the Mustangs '86's Renee Russo and strong defensive play by Molly Zeller, Emily Rous, Nicole Dupes and Mary-Kate Shine.

Stephanie Rose had an outstanding defensive game for the Mustangs '85, while teammates Meghan Brennan and Samantha Martinez were excellent in goal.

Lindsay Potthoff, Emily Friffin and Colleen Shirilla played well offensively for the Mustangs '86.

Lauren Moloney-Egnatios scored the Mustangs '85's only goal in a 4-1 loss to USL Halfbacks Maria Vaigo, Heather Doughty and Hillary Miller had strong games for Grosse Pointe.

Under-12

Tracy Johnson scored both Mustangs '84 goals in a 2-2 tie with Clarkston. Goalies Erica Muncy and Meghan Scallen played well for Grosse Pointe.

Laura Vorgitch scored three goals and Amy Socia had one in the Mustangs '84's 4-0 victory over the Port Huron Storm. Lisa Leverenz had an assist.

Jamie Keller and Meredith Farmer shared the goaltending and Ashley Kirk had a fine game on defense.

Under-13

Mustangs '82 goalkeeper Lindsey White played an outstanding game in a scoreless tie with the GSSC Storm.

Defensive standouts for the Mustangs were Jessica Harrell, Amanda Lindow, Molly Weaver and Sarah Fox.

Comments: Kristin Inger, Erik Johnson and Erika Muhlberg each played well for the Vipers, who scored three times in the first quarter. The Screaming Eagles had good performances from Jonathan Maltz in goal and Jack Stephens on defense.

South golfers sweep in MAC

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe South's golf team was only one stroke away from achieving a clean sweep of its pre-season goals, but coach Jon Rice isn't complaining.

"We weren't sure what kind of a team we'd have at the beginning of the year," Rice said after guiding the Blue Devils to the Macomb Area Conference Red Division dual meet and tournament championships.

"But we set three goals for ourselves — to win both league championships, to win the Evans-Gill tournament and to qualify as a team for the state meet. We accomplished the first two and missed the third by one stroke. It's a disappointment to be that close and not make it, but we had a fine year."

South finished in a three-way tie for third place in the Class A regional at Partridge Creek, but lost the tie-breaker. Three teams from each regional qualify for the state meet.

Grosse Pointe North won the team championship, Troy was second and Royal Oak Kimball, De La Salle and South tied for third, but Kimball got the nod because its fifth man had a lower score than De La Salle's or South's.

One consolation for the Blue Devils was that Alex Bieri qualified for the state meet as an individual after shooting a one-over-par 73.

Rice said he came into the season with several unknowns.

"The only one I knew about for sure was Alex, because he was all-league last year," Rice said. "Two big surprises were juniors Ryan Miller and Mike Gehrke, who really improved a lot over last year. Peter Feldman was another who showed a lot of improvement. All the returning players improved three or four strokes from last year. They spent a lot of time during the summer working on their game, but that's what you have to do."

"And then we got a boost from freshman Brandon Joyce and sophomore Ben Debski.

They were among our top five."

South won the dual meet championship with a 7-1 record. A turning point in the season was a 159-164 victory over crosstown rival North.

"We thought we'd be pretty good when we were able to beat them on their home course at Lochmoor," Rice said. "Then when we beat 20 teams at the Evans-Gill meet at Gowanie it was a big confidence booster."

South golfers finished 1-2 in that meet with Bieri shooting a 76 and Gehrke carding a 77.

North and South tied for the league tournament championship and Debski's fifth-place score gave the Blue Devils the title. Bieri, Gehrke, Joyce and Feldman were South's top four in the MAC Red tourney.

Rounding out the Blue Devils' squad were Aaron Lindauer, Tye Otto and Chris Mili-kier. Bieri averaged 38 for nine holes and he and Gehrke were named to the all-MAC squad. South finished 11-2 overall with its only losses coming to North and Notre Dame.

each posted personal bests, while Carrier chopped 30 seconds off his previous best.

"He really hung in there and gave it the best he had," South coach Tom Wise said of his sophomore runner.

Wise had no complaints about his team's performance.

"We were really proud of all the kids," he said. "We had a lot of nice drops. We've been wary of North since last spring."

"We wanted to make it five straight seasons without a dual-meet loss, but now we'll have to start another streak. We wanted to get between their first and second runners and we did, but they pulled off some other surprises."

The last time South lost a dual meet it was also to North and by a single point.

"That time they were a big favorite and we nearly upset them," Wise recalled.

Other North runners posting personal bests were Henson, Rob Tomassi, Jim Kettel, Suchin Shah, Nate Richardson, Chady Haurani, Chris Hirt, Eric Argel, Ted Huebner and Andrew Schubeck.

Turning in top efforts for South were Liang Way Chu, Joe Suski, Jeff Pilley, Brian Steele, Josh Bosley, Brad Gould and Dave DeGutis.

"Pilley and Steele are freshmen who broke 19 minutes for the first time," Wise said.

Earlier, South beat Fraser 16-46 and downed Romeo 19-41 in MAC White Division meets.

Van Hoek and Debski led the way for the Blue Devils, who also got strong performances from Justin Owen, Matt

Weaver and Chris Goldsby.

South finished fourth overall and third in its division at the Center Line Schoensee Invitational. Debski was 13th overall, followed by Van Hoek 19th, Nicholson 26th, Nat Spurr 36th and Carrier 61st.

Others who ran well for South were Gabe Slimko, Mike Louwers, Matt Larisey and Brandon Barefield.

101 PRAYERS

THANK you Holy Spirit, Blessed Mother and all the Saints, P.A.L.

THANK you St. Jude, St. Lucy and Blessed Virgin, L.S.

NOVENA TO ST. JUDE
 May the Sacred Heart of Jesus be adored, glorified, loved and preserved throughout the world, now and forever. Oh, Sacred Heart of Jesus, pray for us. Worker of miracles, pray for us. St. Jude, helper of the hopeless, pray for us.

Say this prayer 9 times a day. By the 8th day, your prayer will be answered. It has never been known to fail, never. Publication must be promised. Thanks, St. Jude for prayer answered. Special thanks to our Mother of Perpetual Help. R.D.

101 PRAYERS

PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

Holy Spirit, you, who make me see everything and who shows me the way to reach my ideal. You, who gives me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me and you who are in all instances of my life with me. In this short dialogue, want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you, no matter how great the material desires may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones in your perpetual glory. Amen.
 Thank you for your love towards me and my loved ones. Pray this prayer three consecutive days without asking your wish, after third day, your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Then promise to publish this prayer as soon as your favor has been granted. Thank you for favors received. A.B.

500 ANIMALS - ADOPT A PET

ALL Breed Rescue - Want a purebred? Call 313-278-4317.

NORTHERN Suburbs Animal Welfare League - 754-8741. Kittens only. 773-6839.

PLEASE DON'T DELAY! SPAY OR NEUTER YOUR PET TODAY!

An altered pet is a healthier and happier companion. Also, it spares you the grief and pain of having puppies and kittens destroyed when no homes can be found. Countless numbers of sweet, innocent little ones are euthanized every day in shelters across the country because a pet wasn't spayed or neutered. If we cut down on the numbers of unwanted litters being born, we will also cut down on the number of abandoned, lost and unwanted animals to destroy.

WE WILL BE HAPPY TO PROVIDE ADVICE as well as a LIST OF ECONOMICAL SERVICE SOURCES. Call us at: 891-7188

Liquid vegetable oil will cut down 'bad fat' in your diet

Q. If a woman has small breasts can she still produce enough milk for her baby?

A. Yes. The size of the breast is related to the amount of fat tissue present and fat tissue has little to do with milk production. Milk production is based on signals from various hormones which affect the milk secreting glands in the breasts. The amount of milk that is produced depends on how much the baby needs. The more the baby suckles the more the milk will be produced and secreted. The only women who need to be concerned, which are few, are those whose breasts don't enlarge during pregnancy and those who aren't sure their milk has come in in a few days after giving birth. If breasts don't enlarge during pregnancy, this could signal that the milk-secreting glands haven't developed during pregnancy, perhaps because of a mix-up in signals from various hormones.

Q. Does vegetable oil contain cholesterol?

A. No. Cholesterol is found only in animal products. The human body produces its own cholesterol. Cholesterol is used in the body for coating nerves and for the production of steroids so your body can produce estrogen, progesterone and testosterone and other hormones. So, ideally, a person doesn't even need cholesterol in the diet because the body produces its own. Cholesterol is not a fat, but since cholesterol is only found in animal products, usually where there is cholesterol, you will find saturated fat. So when you see a claim on a vegetable oil container or other non-animal product that claims "contains no cholesterol" that is because it is not an animal product.

Q. I heard that some margarine contains a fat that can raise your blood cholesterol level. Is this true, and if so what fat is in it that causes this?

A. I believe you are talking about fats called "trans-fatty acids." These are formed when margarine makers harden vegetable oil into tubs or solid sticks by a process called hydrogenation.

It is true that trans-fatty acids increase blood cholesterol levels, but the research that shows that butter increases cholesterol is much stronger. Margarine, even with the trans-fatty acids, is a less saturated fat than butter. In the American diet, saturated fat already makes up about 30 to 50 Percent of the fat in our diets. If you have cut down on your consumption of high fat foods then you probably have cut down on the amount of the trans-fatty acids in your diet. This is because these trans-fatty acids are found in other products too, as well as margarine. Any product which contains hydrogenated vegetable oil, such as cakes, cookies and fried foods, contains trans-fatty acids. If you want to cut back on the amount of "bad" fat in your diet even more, try cooking with liquid vegetable oil instead of margarine. Because the liquid oils have not been hydrogenated to make them more solid, they do not contain trans-fatty acids.

Also, margarine that is softer, as in tubs or liquid, is generally lower in saturated fat and trans-fatty acids. The more solid a fat is at room temperature the more saturated it tends to be. The exception to this rule is coconut oil and palm and palm kernel oil. These oils are saturated fats.

MANICURE — For those who polish their nails in the evening and find the polish gets crinkles from the sheets, here is an ideal solution. Wait about 15 minutes after applying polish, put some oil (baby or olive) over the polish and wrap each nail in plastic wrap. It keeps the polish nice and smooth. Regina K., Seattle, Wash.

OUNCE OF PREVENTION — The best thing my mother taught me was to always put things back where they belong as soon as I was finished with them; that way the clutter doesn't build up. It certainly works! Now I'm trying to pass it on to my family. Kimberly W., Wallingford, Conn.

Home Tips

FAST I.D. — This tip concerns how to manage refrigerated leftovers.

I buy a grease pencil and write the name of the leftover on the lid of the plastic container I store it in. It is easily removed with warm water and a little kitchen cleaner.

I also keep a roll of masking tape handy, and if there is no place on the lid to write, I put the name on a small piece of tape.

Either method marks each container individually and works much better than a list hanging on the refrigerator or freezer door. Mandy R., Brooklyn, N.Y.

her knees clean and protected as she crawls around. It also makes wash day easier and keeps those little outfit-looking brand new. Mary Anne G., W Nyack, N.Y.

ORGANIC ANT CONTROL — For some reason this year, I had a problem with large black ants. They began swarming into our home and we couldn't seem to get rid of them. We bought all kinds of ant baits and traps but we couldn't seem to get rid of them. Personally, I hate the thought of spray because of our pets and children. Also most of the ants were concentrated in the kitchen where I prepare the food. I hated the thought of using chemicals in that room. In despair, my husband and I thought about hiring a professional exterminator.

When I happened to mention this to my father in a phone conversation, he told me to fill a spray bottle with white vinegar. He said whenever I see an ant, spray it directly with the vinegar and spray whatever surface the ants were on. I did exactly that and my father was right. The ants were eliminated and my home was once again bug-free. This sure beats using chemicals and spending money on an exterminator. Thanks, Dad! Diana A., Hopewell Jct., N.Y.

STAIN-REMOVER USE — Here's a tip for those who have trouble getting gum out of hair. My daughter had gum down at the roots of her hair and I rubbed a stain remover stick in her hair. I then let it sit a little while. It then came out very easily. Lana B., Brooklyn, N.Y.

DAINTY DUDS — Those perfumed pages in magazines are useful to me. I open the pages so the perfumed paper is exposed and place them in the folds of my newly laundered towels, lingerie and handkerchiefs. Betty H., Philadelphia.

ODOR ABSORBER — A few years ago, my wife and I had a problem with odor in our new refrigerator. We tried many solutions, including throwing out opened and leftover foods. When nothing worked, we contacted the manufacturer's representative. He said to put several flat trays of deodorized catbox filler in the refrigerator and leave it there for several days. That did the trick! Hal M., Jersey City, N.J.

NO MORE SKINNED KNEES — I have a solution to skinned and grubby knees on babies who are just starting to crawl. My husband wears out the toes of his tube socks before the tops, so I cut the tops off and put them on my daughter as knee pads. The different colors match her outfits and keep

August home sales stabilizing, head for near record year

Sales of existing single-family homes in August were up from a year ago but down slightly from July, according to the National Association of Realtors.

The association recorded a seasonally adjusted annual sales rate of 3.9 million existing single-family homes in August, up 1 percent from the same month a year ago, when the resale rate was 3.86 million units. The August rate was down 1.78 percent from July's pace of 3.97 million units.

"Actual sales remain strong. Sales of existing single-family homes have been high for the last year. Based on our forecasts, we are right on track toward finishing out the year with the second-best on record for existing single-family home sales," said NAR president Robert H. Elrod.

"Good affordability conditions, and an array of financing tools available to consumers in the market, continue to encourage both first-time and move-up buyers to purchase."

The Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp. reported that the national average commitment rate for 30-year, conventional, fixed-rate mortgages was 8.51 percent in August, down from 8.62 percent the previous month.

August's national median existing single-family home price was $112,500, up 3.4 percent from one year earlier, when the price was $108,800. The median is the midpoint in the price range — half the homes sold cost more, half cost less.

NAR chief economist John A. Tuccillo said the slight dip in home sales between July and August is too small to imply that the housing market is headed for a slowdown.

"Clearly there is strong demand in the existing-home sales market. Sales between July and August remained relatively stable across the board, indicating, if anything, that fluctuating mortgage interest rates are having little impact on overall market performance," Tuccillo said.

Regionally, the West led in annual increases in home sales, posting a resale rate of 870,000 units in August, up 4.8 percent from one year earlier. The median price in the West was $149,700, up 5.1 percent from August 1993.

The Midwest recorded a sales rate of one million units in August, a gain of 3.1 percent from the pace one year earlier. The median price was $88,700 last month, up 3.9 percent from one year earlier.

The Northeast posted a resale rate of 600,000 units in August 1994, unchanged from a year ago. The Northeast's median price of $145,000 in August rose 2.5 percent from a year ago.

The South meanwhile posted a resale pace of 1.43 million units, up 2.1 percent from August 1993.

The median price for existing single-family homes in the South was $97,600 last month, up 0.4 percent from one year earlier.

Currently, NAR is predicting existing single-family home sales to total 3.95 million units in 1994, representing a 3.9 percent increase from the 1993 total, and the second highest recorded since 1978, when existing single-family home sales totaled 3.99 million units. The median price for existing single-family homes is expected to be $110,600, 3.6 percent above the price recorded last year.

The National Association of Realtors, "The Voice for Real Estate," is the nation's largest professional association, representing nearly 750,000 members involved in all aspects of the real estate industry.

Antiques

Hearts and children have been popular decorations on ceramics for centuries. In the 18th century, a family of potters named Pratt, working in Staffordshire, England, began to make a distinctive type of pottery, featuring thick pitchers and mugs with raised decorations that were colored in pale shades.

Pratt ware sold well, and many other factories made similar products, which remained in style until about 1840. Almost 100 years later, they were copied; collectors today sometimes find these confusingly similar 1930s pieces.

Many of the original designs were based on pictures that had appeared in sporting magazines and other printed sources. One valentine-like design was known as "Mischievous Sport and Sportive Innocence." One of the pitcher featured two children and a frightening mask. The other side pictured two children, one with a doll and the other with a dog. Each raised picture was colored green, orange, blue and tan. The rustic-looking Pratt ware has gained steadily in price.

Q. My old ceramic duck is 6 inches long and has a removable top. It is gray, blue, green and brown. On the bottom it says "Norstrand," with a backward letter B above the name. Can you tell me about it?

A. You probably have a piece of Norstrand pottery or porcelain from Lidkoping, Sweden. The company started in 1726 and is still operating.

Q. My Victorian chest with five drawers has a name on the back, Mudge, Cincinnati, Ohio." The chest locks in a unique way. A long hinged board on the right side can be closed over the edges of the drawers. It can be locked so none of the drawers can be opened. I purchased it three years ago from a neighbor for $35.

A. You made a buy. Enoch Mudge was a cabinet maker and manufacturer working in Cincinnati from 1839 to 1857. Mudge joined William Clawson and made a new type of bed that could easily be taken apart. This led to a large factory that made 130 beds every day. When Mudge died, his wife carried on the business as H.B. Mudge. The side-lock dresser was made in the 1850s and after. It was a very efficient and attractive way to lock drawers in a home that had servants. Your dresser is worth at least $500.

TIP: For emergency repairs to chipped pottery, try coloring the spot with a wax crayon or oil paint. It will look a little better.

Design kits available for multi-level homes

Design plans for the Hines take full advantage of a side-to-side slope to create a home with four separate levels, each a half-flight up from the last.

The garage is on the lowest level. Most of the family living area, including living room, dining room, kitchen and utilities, are on level two. The family room is on level three, and sleeping rooms are at the top. All four levels center around a lofty skylit entry foyer, partially encircled by railed stairways and open to the ceiling at the top.

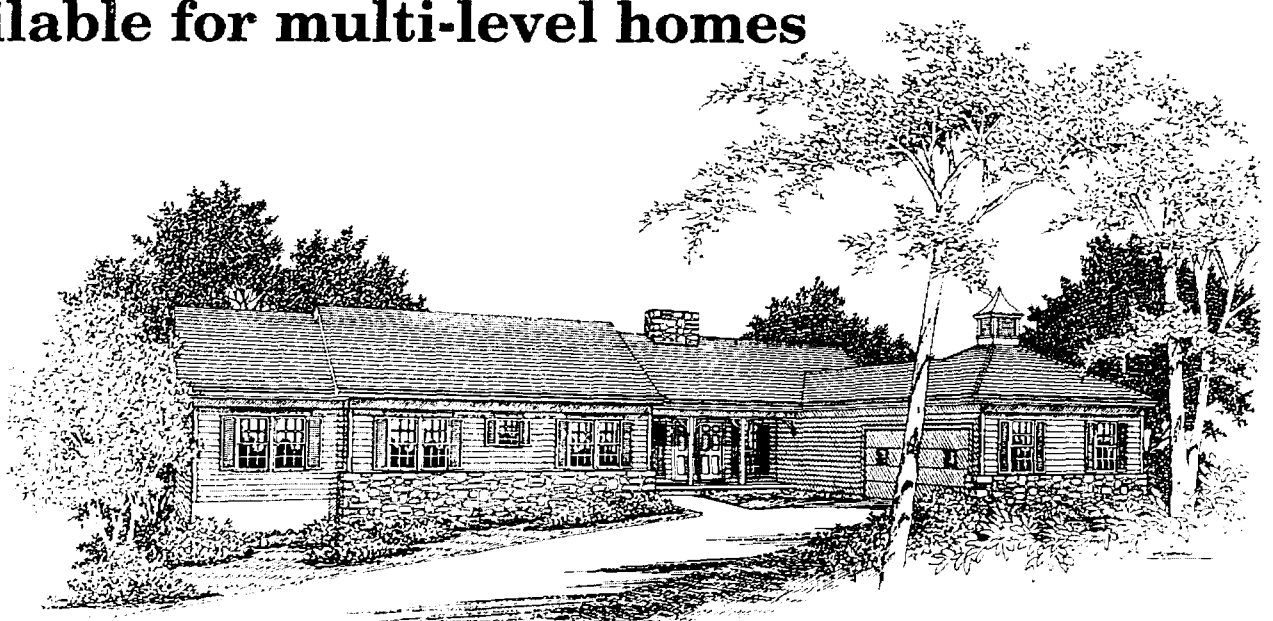

A dining bar that angles out from the kitchen work island offers an open invitation to sit and chat with those working in the kitchen. For more formal meals, this counter doubles as a buffet. A lazy-susan, built into the lower corner cupboard, provides easy access to its contents. Both a powder room and a small utility room are conveniently close to the kitchen.

The 14-by-20-foot family room has its own storage closet, and opens onto a wide balcony that runs the length of the room — a natural spot for catching a few rays.

In the front corner of the owners' sleeping room, a uniquely designed pop-out dormer could serve as a window seat, or be left open for a sewing machine and easy chair. Other features in the master suite include a walk-in closet, oversize shower, and twin lavatories. Two other bedrooms share a bathroom with compartmentalized water closet.

For a study kit of the Hines (400-35), send $9 to Today's Homes, P.O. Box 2307-NE48, Eugene, OR 97402 (be sure to specify plan name and number). For a collection of books featuring Landmark's most popular home plans, send $20 to Landmark.

MORE ON VINEGAR — I have found another use for vinegar. I have oily hair and hair conditioners seemed to make it get dirty sooner.

I made a hair rinse using two cups of water and one cup of white vinegar. Shampoo and rinse as usual, then pour the vinegar and water solution on your hair. Do not rinse it out.

The vinegar smell will go away as your hair dries. My hair is soft and shiny and there were no tangles in it. Deb G., Levittown, Pa.

CLEAN IT UP — I have a ceramic-top stove in my kitchen which burned on top when I cooked, even though I didn't make spills. We ran out of special stove-top cleaner one day so I dampened the top of the stove, sprinkled on some baking soda and let it stand for about five minutes. I then wet a sponge and wiped up the dark stains without even having to use the plastic scraper.

The next time I cooked, the rice boiled over. It left a brown stain which curled up when it cooled. I simply picked up the curls and wiped the stove top with a damp sponge — no scraping or scrubbing.

I know for certain that baking soda is the only cleaner that will touch my stove again. Harsh chemicals don't have a place in my home. Louise H., Jacksonville, Fla.

Water heater maintenance

Most water heaters today provide years of trouble-free service, with or without maintenance. But you still can extend the water heater's life and cut down on energy consumption.

Drain a new hot water heater every two months for the first year of operation, then every six months after that. Doing this rids the tank of sediment, which builds up over time.

To drain the water heater, first stop the water supply by turning the shut-off valve at the top of the heater or at the meter. Next, place a bucket under the tank's drain valve, or fasten a garden hose to the valve and run it to a drain. Now open the drain valve and let off water until it runs clear; then close the drain valve and open the supply valve.

You should periodically check the heater's pressure-relief valve to be sure it's capable of letting off steam if pressure builds up in the tank. Note: Be sure you have a pipe that comes off the relief valve and goes to about five inches off the floor before you test valve. This has to be done to prevent any burns to yourself. Now just lift the valve's handle; if it's functioning properly, hot water will be released through the pipe overflow to the floor.

Inspector

If you have a gas heater check the flue pipe for any pitting; also check if the mortar around the pipe as it penetrates the chimney or wall is intact. (The flue pipe is the largest diameter pipe coming off the top of the water heater.)

If you have problems with any of the following you may want to call a professional:

- Water won't heat
- Water tank is leaking
- Water supply pipes leak
- Gas burners are clogged
- Gas flame burns yellow
- Heater smells of gas
