Park taps Jarboe as municipal judge

By Jim Stickford

One month after learning that the Park would need a new municipal judge, the city council voted Monday night to appoint Carl Jarboe to the job, replacing Kirsten Frank, who resigned to become a Wayne County Circuit judge.

Mayor Palmer Heenan began Monday's council meeting by announcing that the council had decided upon a replacement for Frank. He said that after much deliberation, it was decided to appoint Jarboe.

Heenan then reviewed Jarboe's qualifications. He said that Jarboe attended Michigan State University and graduated in 1978 with honors. Jarboe then attended Wayne State's law school where he edited the law review from 1979 through

After graduating from law school, he clerked for Michigan Court of Appeals judge Michael Kelly from 1981-1983. For the past 11 years, he has been with the law firm of Abbott, Nicholson, Quilter, Esshaki & Youngblood, where he is a partner.

Election day draws near for a pair of millage proposals By Shirley A. McShane Staff Writer

The Grosse Pointe school district is asking voters on Feb. 7 to renew its existing millage rate, which expires in June.

The millage renewal, which is composed of two separate ballot proposals, essentially asks voters to maintain the district's current level of spending and services. School administrators say the proposals do not mean a tax increase

Even though taxpayers - especially homestead property owners -- enjoyed a significant reduction in school taxes this year - how can voters be certain the millage renewals will not increase their overall

"There have been several assumptions made by the public regarding school finance reform," said superintendent Ed Shine. and second homes) for five The state requires all school districts to ask voters to approve this amount to ensure that the district will receive its state-funded foundation grant.

 Additionally, the school district is asking voters to approve 8.5 in "gap" mills for five years to bring per-pupil spending up from the state-guaranteed $6,500 to current spending levels of approximately $8,300.

The school board probably will not levy the maximum 8.5 in the first year, said Chris Fenton, assistant superintendent for business. In fact, the school district cannot levy any more than is necessary to maintain the $8,300 per-pupil spending level, Fenton said.

The district's operating millage authorized by voters in February 1992 was 29 mills. Voters in that same election also approved 1.3 mills for the public library. One mill generates about $2 million for the school system.

Statements

The following are the Vision, Philosophy and Mission statements adopted Jan. 19 by the Michigan State Board of Education:

Vision

We, the Michigan State Board of Education, grateful to Almighty God for the blessings of freedom, do earnestly desire to secure these blessings undiminished for our children. A blessing of freedom is to reaffirm an important truth. Religion, morality and knowledge are necessary to good govern-ment and the happiness of mankind, so therefore schools and the means of education shall forever be encouraged. Good government entrusts citizens to conduct a great experiment in freedom to seek excellence in providing a quality education for their own families and other children in their communi-

Philosophy

We, the Michigan State Board of Education, believe that to teach a child created by God is a noble calling; that throughout life, parents are a child's first teachers with the primary right and responsibility for their child's education. A quality reducation is rooted in character and academic excellence. It seeks to help a child de-velop to his or her fullest potential in heart, mind and body. It encourages a child always and everywhere to seek truth, to know what is good, to develop a disciplined mind and a wise kind and discerning heart and to be a self-responsible citizen who leads a full and good life as a productive and contributing member of a free society. Mission

We, the Michigan State Board of Education, united in vision and philosophy, empowered by our Constitution to respond with leadership, humbly serve to enable, promote and inspire a new spirit and birth of freedom, self-government, excellence and accountibility in our local communities for all who are there involved in the lifelong education of students. In working to achieve this mission, we recognize that a quality education is the first responsibility of par-ents and students, then of teachers, administrators, school boards and others in the local community; we support public education; we support school choices for parents; we encourage the development, support and recognition of quality teachers; we support local accountibility that enhances excellence in education; we advocate for the removal of barriers that constrain efforts to open, sustain and/or expand quality schools and other quality educational opportunities in the marketplace of a free society; and we pray for wisdom in all decisions that impact the lives of the students we

In August 1991, Durant helped found the Cornerstone Schools, three ecumenical, Christ-centered schools at two sites in Detroit. A strong supporter of charter schools, he said his position on the state board of education would only be a conflict of interest if the Cornerstone Schools received state funding, which they do

Although Gov. John Engler asked Durant to run for a seat on the board and, after the election, for Durant to seek the board's presidency, Engler played no part in forming the vision, philosophy or mission statements, Durant said.

"I spoke with the other school board members for their input," Durant said.

King resigns; Airport study committee gets a new leader

By Jim Stickford Staff Writer

After many years of service, John L. King has stepped down as chairman of the Detroit City Airport Study Committee.

King, an attorney and former councilman and mayor of the City of Grosse Pointe, had chaired the committee for the past seven years. The committee was formed by several eastside communities, including the five Grosse Pointes, Warren,

Park woman robbed in lot

A 74-year-old Grosse Pointe Park woman was robbed of $10 by two men who approached her in a parking lot at Wayburn and Jefferson on Jan. 19.

The robbery occurred at 7:45 a.m. as the woman was carrying an armload of packages through the parking lot. The men walked past her and stopped at a public telephone and then turned around, approached her from behind and demanded her wallet. The woman complied. The robbers did not appear to be armed. Rowdies smash window

Police were called to a house on McKinley in Grosse Pointe Farms at 9:45 p.m. Jan. 21 when a group of teenagers began creating a disturbance that led to a broken front window.

When Farms police arrived, most of the teens had fled the area on foot. The remaining teenage boys said they did not know who threw an object at the house that smashed a 9inch-by-4-inch window pane.

Woods, Shores hold suspects in burglary

Shores and Woods police responded to a report of suspicious activity in the parking lot at Our Lady Star of the Sea church on Jan. 18 and arrested a man in connection with a home burglary in Grosse Pointe Shores.

Farms resident Michael David Tringale, 28, also known as Michael David Patsy, stood mute to the charge of seconddegree home invasion at his Jan. 20 arraignment in Grosse Pointe Shores Municipal Court. He is being held in Wayne County Jail on a $50,000 bond.

The incident began at 1:57 p.m. when police went to the church parking lot on Morning-side and Fairford. They found two men sitting in a pickup truck. Then one of the men got out of the truck, grabbed a mountain bike from the truck bed and pedaled east on Fair- emy in March.

While Woods police questioned the passenger inside the truck, Shores police ran a li-cense plate check on the truck and learned it was registered to Tringale.

Shores police, acting on a tip. went to a house on Sheldon in Grosse Pointe Shores, where they found the mountain bike lying on the front lawn and saw the man who had fled the church parking lot coming around the side of the house. When the man saw police, he hopped on the bike and fled through adjoining back yards.

After a chase and a search of the neighborhood, Shores police were initially unable to locate the man. A search of the house on Sheldon revealed a back door had been forcibly opened and an alarm panel dismantled. It also appeared that a bedroom had been searched and a safe pried open.

Woods police, meanwhile, had questioned the other truck passenger and, after learning he was wanted on several outstanding warrants, placed him under arrest. The passenger told police he had purchased the truck from Tringale and that the transaction had taken place earlier that day at a house in Harper Woods.

Shores police waited at the house in Harper Woods and arrested Tringale a short time

PUBLIC SAFETY REPORTS WDET host offers a musical mixture ature Editor The host of WDET-FM's "Martin Bandyke Program (1 to 4 p.m. weekdays at 101.9 FM) picks the music for each day like most of us choose what to wear in the morning.

"It's not predictable. It depends on the weather; my mood; the day of the week," Bandyke said.

"If it's Friday, for instance, I might play something with an end-of-the-week party feeling. If it's raining, I'll play something gloomy and dark."

Bandyke, a resident of Grosse Pointe Park, enthusiastically offers his listeners a musical mixture that he knows they won't find anywhere else on their radio dials.

"I play rock, jazz, blues, folk, bluegrass, alternative, film soundtracks, indiginous music from all over the world," he said. He emphasizes new releases and features plenty of live, in-studio interviews and performances. He mixes in a few film reviews and live and phone interviews with various performers for good measure.

On the day of our interview, he noted that National Public Radio's "Morning Edition," which airs on WDET-FM from 6 to 10 a.m. weekdays, was running a week-long series of interviews on human sexuality.

He held up a copy of Ravel's "Bolero," which he planned to play on that afternoon's show.

Also booked for that same afternoon: Throwing Muses from Newport, R.I., who would perform live in the studio, which is near Wayne State University's Bandyke grew up in Dearborn, graduated from Dearborn High School and earned a bachelor of arts degree in radio, television and film from the University of Michigan in 1976.

'I started working on a master's degree in communication at Wayne State University," he said, "but I soon ran out of money and motivation. I have six or eight more classes to take and a major paper to

"The Martin Bandyke Program" airs on WDET-FM weekdays from 1 to 4 p.m. Bandyke offers a mixture of music (classical, rock, jazz, blues, folk, bluegrass, alternative, film soundtracks and more) as well as interviews, film reviews and live, instudio performances.

Bandyke started playing when he was 7 or 8 drums when he was 7 or 8 years old. "My parents were very tolerant people," he said.

Growing up in the 60s, Bandyke's favorites were the Rolling Stones, Frank Zappa, and the Beatles, especially John Lennon.

He said he grew up steeped in Detroit's wonderful Motown scene, which included more favorites like Bob Seeger, MC5 and Iggy Pop.

In the mid-60s, Bandyke recalls listening to local radio stations. "WKNR-AM had a diverse playlist," he said. "And WABX-FM was part of the un-derground scene. That was the beginning of the free-form radio scene in Detroit with original free-thinking DJs.'

Bandyke played drums in a band, Zooks, with some friends he met in high school.

"The most serious band I was part of was Retro, from 1979-82. We were part of the punk/new wave heyday of the late '70s and early '80s," he We played at a place LPs — everything from Van said. "We played at a place Cliburn playing Prokofiev's called Bookie's on McNichols west of Woodward. It was a dingy little club. You never knew whether your car would

"Retro also served as the opening act for nationally known artists like Iggy Pop, John Cale, Robert Fripp, Simple Minds, Gang of Four and Pere Ubu.'

Bandyke earned a living as a buyer for several retail record stores. In 1983, he got a chance become a program host at WDET-FM with former Retro bass player Ralph Valdez. They were hosts of "Dimension," a two-hour weekly program that featured alternative music and often covered happenings in the world of film, literature and

1990, Bandyke began working full time at WDET-FM. Since 1991, he has been a program host five days a week. Currently, the "Martin Ban-dyke Program" airs from 1 to 4 p.m. Mondays through Fridays.

"I enjoy playing discs, but live interviews are my favor-ite," he said. "Last summer I interviewed an LA band, Los Lobos. I've interviewed Joan Baez live; Dave Brubeck by phone; Charlie Watts of the Rolling Stones by phone.

'One of my favorite interviews was with Angelique Kidjo, an artist from Benin in Africa. She had an interesting story to tell and was one of the most lively, vivacious, energetic people I've ever met - full of spirit.

"But she kept swearing. This was live. No tape delay. This was just the way she talked, her vernacular. Every time she did it, she'd stop and put her hands over her mouth.

'I was torn between stopping the interview, or continuing because she was so fascinating

Bandyke said that WDET-FM, because it is a fairly large radio station, won't be greatly affected if the federal government cuts funds for public radio and television stations.

"Corporation for Broadcasting funding than 10 percent for us. We always run a tight ship, but we'll survive. Our signal is powerful - 79,000 watts. It goes out to about a 60-mile radius. Our budget is $1.8 million and more than 50 percent of that is from listeners. Other funds come from co-sponsorships and some major underwriters. Cuts are worrisome, but smaller stations are in more trouble than we are."

Bandyke is engaged to WDET-FM's Kim Silarski, former news anchor for Na-tional Public Radio's "Morning Edition." They plan to marry this summer. He is a film buff, and writes about films, books, music and art as a freelancer for local publications like Metro Times, The Detroit News and the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

His hobbies include auto racing, particularly Indy Car and Formula One races; attending all kinds of musical performances; and going to art exhib-

Is tax revolt ready to clip local schools?

Till the continuing tax revolt affect the outcome of the Grosse Pointe school district's millage renewal vote Feb. 7?

It is difficult to answer that question because little opposition has been publicly expressed to renewal of the authorization of an 18-mill levy on non-homestead property and an 8.5 mill levy on homesteads.

However, on school issues critics sometimes are reluctant to express public opinions in letters to the editor, in direct conversations with school officials or in other

In addition, the reorganization of public school funding under Proposal A and other legislation approved in 1994 contains complicated language, has been subjected to different interpretations, and, to be honest, is difficult to understand.

One specific consequence of repeal of property tax levies that formerly financed the local schools and their replacement by new financing is the confusing language of the two millage proposals.

Both are worded as if they were increases in levies, even though they are basically renewals. The wording is required because last year's repeal left the school system without any replacement, which means the new levies legally start from zero.

Under these circumstances, some people may decide not to vote at all or to vote against the five-year extension of what are, in point of fact, renewals that will help cut overall school property taxes.

To counter the critics and reassure other people having questions, Parent-Teacher Organizations and other school supporters have been mobilizing to make sure the facts about the renewal vote are known and that those favoring the continuation of the two levies go to the polls on

As a retired president of the school board said in one of four letters endorsing the levies in last week's Grosse Pointe, News, the vote on renewing the levies will give the district's taxpayers the opportunity to make another investment in the future of their school system.

As she reminded us, every school district in the state is required to seek authorization of an 18-mill non-homestead tax, which in the Grosse Pointes will raise about $5 million for the local school

Voter approval of that authorization will assure the $5 million for the schools but if it fails, the state also will reduce its foundation grant from $6,500 to $5,900 per student per year.

In addition, a second ballot item seeks authorization for an 8.5-mill levy on homesteads, which, along with the state's own 6-mill levy, will provide another 14.5 mills, about half of the total levied before approval of Proposal A.

It is encouraging to renewal backers that Rep. William R. Bryant, Jr., of Grosse Pointe Farms, in his column elsewhere in today's issue of the Grosse Pointe News, wrote that he "wholeheartedly" supports the millage requests, adding,"They are absolutely needed.'

He also explained that that he and former Sen. John Kelly persuaded the Legislature to approve a $2.4 million leeway to enable the district's funding to keep pace with inflation.

In another letter to the editor last week, a frequent school critic apparently did not realize that closed sessions of school boards are authorized to consider labor negotiations and reach tentative agreements but public sessions are required for final votes on union contracts.

He also erred in stating that "around 25 people spoke, of which at least 20 spoke against the raise" for teachers. The school board's minutes show seven people spoke against the raises and six in support of them.

As for the critic's contention that the school board should not sponsor a vote on a five-year renewal unless it had a fiveyear budget, the state requires annual budgets and does not link them to votes seeking new or renewal levies.

Despite the critic's complaints, the teachers' contract for the 1993-94 school year called for a 2.75 percent pay increase, while the majority of comparable districts granted wage boosts of 3 percent, and the two-year contract approved last July set a 2 percent increase for each con-

Maintaining teachers' pay at or possibly even below the inflation rate surely is preferable to the 7 percent increases in the previous three-year contract, which, we emphasize, was negotiated at a time of high inflation.

We think the low rate of increases in the 1993-94 and 1994-96 contracts for Grosse Pointe's senior teaching staff represents success in last year's negotiations and reflects a responsible board's efforts to control school spending.

Overall, we believe voters who support the levy renewals will be investing in the Pointes' most valuable asset, its young people, by offering them excellent educational opportunities to help them face the challenges of the 21st century.

Beyond that, it has been widely believed for years in the Pointes, and still is, that maintenance of the excellent quality of our school system helps protect the values of homesteads and other Pointe

These are among the reasons the Grosse Pointe News backs the renewal of both millages on Feb. 7.

Did GOP hear Engler appeal?

id national GOP leaders hear Gov. John Engler's appeal for national attention during his State of the State speech in Lansing last week? And if they did, what do they think of Engler as a GOP candidate for president or vice president in 1996?

We don't know, although the easily reelected governor, already a national GOP figure because of his welfare and education policies, did feature in his talk a $1.5 billion tax cut over five years — at $300 million a year - plus new welfare and education reforms.

Like his GOP counterparts in Washington, the governor recommended cutting taxes by $187 million a year for business and individuals. In fact, the governor practically ordered the Legislature to take action on his proposed tax cuts in 30 days when he added, "Just do it."

Michigan ran a surplus of about $300 million in the past year, which, if maintained, would be sufficient to finance the $1.5 billion cut over five years.

Democrats and other critics, however, have questioned whether the surplus can be continued if a slight economic downturn occurs. They also emphasize that the $200 million the governor promised for more new prisons will be an addition to the budget that will have to be financed.

As a consequence, critics question whether it was wise for the governor to recommend specific tax cuts on a permanent

The governor's speech suggested further downsizing of government, such as elimination of many time-consuming state requirements now imposed on the public schools, including repeal of the 172-page state school code and its replacement with local school codes.

However, Engler apparently did retain for Lansing the centralized power over local school spending that was acquired through approval of Proposal A a year

That shift still worries many educational and civic leaders in Michigan who believe local communities can better maintain accountability and control over financing and other educational problems than the state can.

In addition, several superintendents were critical of the abolition of the school code because, as they told the Detroit Free Press, some mandates in the state school code now apply pressure to districts to move ahead and make needed

Both individuals and business interests will welcome further state tax cuts, but welfare clients and other needy people who face new reductions in services will have more causes for complaint if Engler carries out his announced aims.

But the State of the State message focused on the bright side as Engler and the Republicans continued to celebrate their big November victory.

public schools God and the lark Durant of Grosse Pointe, newly elected president of the state Board of Education, created a mild controversy last week by persuading his board to adopt a new mission statement for the state's public school system. In an interview, however, Durant explained that the statement, the first ever issued by the board in its 32-year history, grew out of discussions he had with his fellow board members and some friends in business and education.

The purpose, he said, was simply to provide a framework for public discussions about the problems confronted by children, parents and the schools in delivering education in a modern era.

In fact, the statement already has provoked debate about the purposes of education, its reliance on freedom, and the broad role of government.

However, it also has prompted criticism because it mentioned God at least four times, even though the citations were taken from the state Constitution and other historic documents.

Some observers who faulted these citations support the current ban on organized prayer in the public schools and see a conflict between the statement and the principle of separation of church and

Durant himself sees no conflict of interest in the fact that while he is president of the state board of education, he also is one of the founders of the Cornerstone Schools, three ecumenical, Christ-centered private schools in Detroit, which he said would be unlikely ever to seek state aid.

In answer to a question, Durant conceded that Gov. John Engler's proposed abolition of the state school code "had been part of the broader discussion" he had with the governor after the election.

They are in accord on the statement, too. Both Engler and the state superintendent of education, both ex-officio board members, signed the document.

In Durant's view, the statement offers ways to improve character training in the public schools, even though some words alarm civil libertarians who seek to protect the constitutional separation of church and state.

The statement also offers strong backing for the charter school movement which other critics see as a threat to the future of the traditional public school sys-

Letters

GP SCHOO

To the Editor: The school millage election scheduled for Tuesday, Feb. 7, is of utmost importance to our community. Twenty-eight percent of our school system's budget is at stake. The loss of such a substantial amount of money would drastically change the educational system our community has built and supported over the years.

Our school taxes will not go up if this millage passes. In 1994, a home with a SEV of $100,000 was taxed at a rate of 14.6 mills to support the schools. The homeowner paid $1,460 in school taxes. Under current law, our school millage rate cannot exceed 14.5

In 1995, we will pay a separate library millage, which voters approved in September. No millage rate has been set by the district library board yet, but we will probably pay the same amount we paid in 1993 to support the library. Some residents consider this an "increase" since we paid no separate library tax in 1994. Our school system agreed to fund the library using $2.4 million of its operating funds for one year while the library made the transition to a district library.

Because the library will once again have its own separate millage in 1995, the board of education had to decide whether to reduce the gap millage request by 1.2 mills ($2.4 million) or earmark that money to provide badly needed technology for our students over the next five years. We decided it was more cost effective to earmark the money rather than ask voters to approve a bond issue, which would include thousands of dollars in interest. All seven members of the board endorsed this set-aside plan.

The board of education has always followed conservative fiscal policy in funding the schools. As a result our school system will be completely debt free in July 1995, a claim very few districts in this state can make.

On Feb. 7, I urge you to vote yes to preserve our schools and maintain our property values without increasing our school property taxes.

Carl Anderson President Grosse Pointe Board of Education

In the millage campaign for 8.5 "hold harmless" mills, a question has surfaced concerning the amount that formerly was library millage, before the library was spun off and voters approved separate millage for the new district library.

Our district, like some others which had operated their local public libraries, had legally and properly reported that library millage and revenue to the state as part of the school district's "operating" millage and revenue. I fought in the Legislature to allow our voters to maintain our buying power, our program, to be able to fully meet cost increases caused by cost of living increases. I did not prevail.

I fought to allow us, at least, to be able to count the library millage, as it had always been counted, as part of our 1993-94 operating revenue, whether or not we later spun off the library to stand on its own. On that issue, Sen. John Kelly and

Why did we seek the ability for our school district to have that $2.4 million leeway, that "extra" money it could ask voters to approve? Because, without that leeway, our excellence, inescapably, would be dissipated over time as we were prohibited, otherwise, from keep-ing pace with inflation. Without this $2.4 million leeway, the only amount we can increase our per pupil revenue by from one year to the next is by the dollar amount the foundation grant increases.

The foundation grant is now $5,500. For ease of giving an example, let's assume our present expenditure is half again more than that, $5,500 plus $2,750, or $8,250. If inflation is 3 percent and state school aid fund revenue increases mirror

Buc Naked' Hey, Florida is one quirky place - or is it just that a newcomer notices the oddities that familiarity might cause one to overlook? The owner of a nude dance club is running for Tampa City Council - although city fathers say he isn't qualified because he hasn't voted recently, having been convicted on cocaine charges. He's the same guy that local sports writers floated fake-but-zany rumors about a few weeks ago when everybody on Earth was offering to buy the Tampa Bucs football franchise. They said he'd closed a deal and the team would now be called "Buc Naked." Well, maybe you had to be there.

I don't know what Tampa will do for city officials. Also not running, although she badly wants to be mayor, is bikini-and-fruit-wearing Bonita Conchita Martita Havana Banana-Pulovsky. She hasn't been exercising her voting rights, Meanwhile, Sanford Harper can't qualify for the ballot because of his conviction for attacking a cop.

Apparently these two are giving up the struggle, but the nude dance king says he'll be back, perhaps running for the state Legislature. He just might fit in up in Tallahassee - when it gets over its fixation on he-coons. Political buffs may remember that, during last fall's campaign, Florida's governor, Lawton Chiles, galvanized his supporters with his cryptic remark that "the he-coon walks at light of day." Probably not even Chiles knows what he meant, about to give up the gimmick. During his inauguration earlier this month, Chiles showed up in coon regalia, a coat with raccoon heads, tails, and claws still attached. He-coon stew was served to the hangers-on along the parade route. Not satisfied that. Chiles got out a homemade launcher and bombarded the parade, the voters, and finally the governor's mansion with potatoes. Not mashed, just raw bakers.

It's a good thing the Buccaneers are finally sold. Plenty of people around here were tired of hearing about potential deals. The Bucs have the worst record in the league, and one of the lowest attendance records. Nevertheless, the media was in a frenzy over the sale, which, as you've probably heard, set its own record for most money paid for a sports franchise.

The great mass of fans were voting "ho-hum," however. When the St. Pete Times call-in question asked about Connie Chung and Newt's mom, 5,500 people phoned in. For reaction to the Bucs' sale, only 54 went to the trouble.

My favorite moment (well, maybe second, after Buc Naked) was when the owners of the National Enquirer said they wanted to buy the team. The Times came out the next day with this front-page headbut it did the trick, and he isn't line: "Wealthy aliens want to buy Bucs!"

Meanwhile, George Steinbrenner has been griping about the way the deal was handled. He and some partners who included Lee Iacocca and Jimmy Nederlander came in at the last minute in a sort of whiteknight bid to keep the team in

School board's arrogance

To the Editor:

Here we go again. When Proposal A passed, increasing the sales tax for school tax reform and reducing the millage homeowners would have to pay, knew we would eventually be required to pay both.

The millage upon which we will vote next month is not the same as we paid before, but it is just the beginning of the poverty plea we hear from the schools, and I should know since I've lived here since 1930 and graduated from these schools as did my children. The quality of education is not the same, but the hue and cry for more money is.

The arrogance of the school board astounds me. Last year we separated the library from the schools and the school board found more than a million dollars in their grubby hands which had earlier been approved for the use by the library when it was a part of the schools. What did the school board do? They didn't give it to the library. Nor did they give it back to the taxpayers. They decided to keep it even though it was not intended for the schools.

the superintendent when I wrote him about the negotiations with the teachers union is also a case in point. The negotiations apparently were conducted on the basis of a percentage wage increase. I suggested that he and the board consider negotiating on a realdollar basis, because 14 percent (as I recall) of $30,000 is more in real dollars than 14 percent of $20,000. Apparently, he didn't want to understand that the Grosse Pointe school teachers were paid considerably more than the teachers in our surrounding school districts, but they still wanted the same percentage wage raise.

It has recently been published that the Grosse Pointe teachers are the second-highest-paid group of teachers in the state. No wonder the schools are always crying poverty. I would hate to think that our school board thinks this tax money is funny money and that there is an endless well thereof.

If the school board continues to be irresponsible in such a simple concept, I am not sure the millage increase it has requested is really needed. The school board's published justification for the increase is not convincing.

I am, therefore, going to vote no on the millage increase and urge everyone else to do likewise. Somewhere reason must prevail over arrogance.

Board member says vote no

To the Editor:

I recently contributed to Save the Children. I received a brochure that had, as one would expect, a touching photo of a deserving child on the cover. But on the back flap was a pie chart that showed how 85 percent of money went directly to the children with only 15 percent for administration and fundraising.

The appeal on the cover reminded me of the emotional Blitzkrieg campaign being waged by the school system seeking our approval of the millage. How many mailings from 389 St. Clair have you received? Remember, you are paying for these. In addition, administrators, teachers, school employees and PTO members are being organized into a very effective political machine designed to get out the vote for the children and our future.'

Unfortunately, along with all the organizational hype and the emotional "for-the-children" spin in support of the millage, the school administration has forgotten what is really good for our children and our future.

I urge you to vote no on this 8.5 mill homestead, five-year millage. I recommend a 6.43 mill homestead, three-year millage. This 6.43 gap millage will fill the gap and fund all programs that we now have, fully.

Why do your school administrators want 8.5 mills? So they can generate over $20 million in surplus funds in five years. This money should remain with homeowners. $2.4 million used to go to the library for which we now have a senarate millage, and the other $1.6 million comes from the savings we taxpayers were supposed to receive the very generous program that cost us 104 of some of our most experi-enced people like Bernie Lemieux and Bob Button.

The school administration wants to build in a yearly surplus that raise your taxes 32 percent over what your school and library taxes should be. If the administration wants $20 million, it should submit solid spending proposals that pass the test of a bond issue. Now you have no guarantees where this money will go.

By deliberately inflating the school and library budgets by 32 percent, we will be quickly approaching our Headlee state spending levels. The administration refuses to take advantage of even easy cost-reduction opportunities. When 11 clerical people recently took advantage of early re-tirement buyouts, the administration refused to look seriously at reorganization or out-sourcing options like ADP for payroll, for example. They took out a help wanted ad for 12 people in this very newspaper!

The bloated 50 percent overhead side of our school dollar will soon begin choking out our children's classroom and other activities. None of our tax-and-spend administrators will admit to this. They want your taxes for schools and libraries higher.

Please deliver the message that you want responsible spending and cost con-trols. Vote no on this millage. By the way, the administration has already scheduled two more votes in case you don't buy into this one.

Speaking of "the new year," I read with great in-terest the Jan. 5 edition of the Grosse Pointe News, particularly the article on "triumph and tragedy" in 1994. Mr. Minnis did his usual excellent piece of reporting the top stories of 94. But I do believe he may have overlooked another significant event that took place in "the Pointes" in 1994, namely the retirement of over 100 highly skilled, highly professional educators.

I believe that when any organization, but particu-larly a school system, experiences the loss of over 20 percent of its professional staff, this becomes a noteworthy event. I suspect that one could view this occurrence as both "triumph and tragedy.''

Triumph in that these wonderful educators combined have devoted over 3,000 years of teaching, learning experiences to the young folks of Grosse Pointe now have an opportunity to become involved in other life endeavors. Triumph in that an influx of young, energetic, creative educators will apply their skills and knowledge to the growth and development of our young people. Triumph in that those of us who have retired can look back upon our years in the Grosse Pointe school system with fond memories of a job well done and of an opportunity to give our best to the students of this wonderful community.

But, I suspect that there is a little bit of tragedy in this story — the loss of these experts, their wis-dom, their skills, their knowledge of youngsters' needs, wants, and desires. This will take time and patience on the part of the community to regain what was, yet it will happen. Yes, "school will keep" but as educators (I will always be that) we do want more for our children than just "keep school." We want school experiences to be aligned with the future; we want our students to be ready to face the "triumphs and tragedies" of life, ready to contribute to soci-

Accountability is the issue

To the Editor:

By a 37-3 vote at its January meeting, the Eastside Republican Club adopted a resolution encouraging voters of the Grosse Pointe school district to vote no on the proposed millage at the election on Feb. 7.

This millage vote is not about good schools; we all want good schools.

This vote is not about investing in technology for our schools; if wisely made, such spending would bene-fit our students and our community. This vote is not about selfish or greedy taxpayers vs. teachers and students.

This vote is not even about whether or not there will be a supplemental millage to add to the state revenues now provided by sales taxes; there will be a supplemental millage.

This vote is about accountability of the school district's administrators to the voters and taxpayers of the district, and whether a school district should establish a millage rate for a period longer than the terms of its board members.

This vote is about process and whether a school district should decide how to spend a major windfall without subjecting their plans to the voters' approval and without a mechanism to bind the school board to its spending proposals

Finally, this vote is about substance, and whether professional education bureaucrats - with a clear conflict of interest, and demonstrating a greater loyalty to their unionized employees than to the tax-payers of the district should have the only effective voice in deciding the nature of the education our children receive and the quality and quantity of school spending and taxes.

As citizens, taxpayers, and parents, we simply want our public school tax dollars spent wisely and subject to control and scrutiny by the voters. We urge the voters of the Grosse Pointe school district to vote no on the millage proposal on Feb. 7 (using absentee ballots if necessary).

Retired teacher knows secret

To the Editor:

The Jan. 12 issue of the Grosse Pointe News contained a letter from Gail Frederick, a new staff member of the local school system, who wrote from a position of experience and a concern about the effects of a millage defeat on another school system. She urged support for the Feb. 7 millage based on a frank concern for her own job and a concern for the longrange effect on our com-munity should it fail.

I understand Ms. Frederick's concern as an active, involved local teacher. As one who speaks from the relative tranquillity of retirement, I can only echo her sentiments about the importance of the Feb. 7 millage.

I taught in Grosse Pointe for 33 years, the last 27 of which were at Grosse Pointe South High. Those 27 years were made fulfilling for me by a team of dedicated, skilled colleagues; by students, the vast majority of whom were most responsive to my instruction; by parents, who were at once demanding of the best for their offspring and supportive of me; by administrators, who were understanding and aware; and by taxpayers, who ultimately have had to pay the cost of a quality school system. Frequent talks with colleagues in other school districts have made me realize that this combination of professional dedication, parental support and a demand for excellence has made our school system an outstanding one when compared with many districts in the area. It's a combination that has been attained over the whole 70-plus years that the school sys-tem has existed. It's a combination that deserves voter support.

For the above reasons, I plan to vote "Yes" and urge my fellow Grosse Pointers to vote "Yes" on the Feb. 7 millage.

Millage request a 22% hike?

To the Editor:

In reading the material being provided to the Grosse Pointe taxpavare there is a serious mistake.

You are receiving a 22 percent increase in taxes if you approve the 8.5 mills the school board is calling for. The school calls the library millage a renewal, but it did not tell you that it segregated it from the 8.5 they are asking for now. This means that if you approve the 8.5 mills, you are now paying 10.2 mills for the schools and libraries.

As voters, this issue shall arise a minimum of three times, if defeated. Vote no three times and ask your superintendent of schools to put away his smoke and mirrors and seriously address the high cost of administrating and maintaining the Grosse Pointe schools. Also, call for a three-year plan to reduce taxes while at the same time increasing the ratio of dollars spent on Grosse Pointe schoolchildren.

As voters of Grosse Pointe, we have a golden opportunity to take back our schools and to act more responsibly regarding its financing. Please believe the information in this letter is accurate, but if you do not, check it out and, hopefully, you will have the wisdom to vote no until you see a millage proposal that is responsible.

Robert J. Duquet Grosse Pointe Shores

Retired principal backs millage

To the Editor:

The letter by Gail Frederick (physical education teacher at Monteith school) in your issue of Jan. 12 reminded me of some basic facts about school elections.

I came to Grosse Pointe in 1940 and was a teacher and principal in our fine school system. Many school elections were held over those interesting years of rapid growth and development. Almost all the millage elections were successful, though a few did fail. School elections do not attract a large vote. A minority of voters, usually dedicated parents, organize to clarify the issues, get people to the polls and secure a positive vote to maintain our schools. We owe so much to them!

The language and process of school financial support have been changed by the state. This may cause some confusion as residents approach the election of Feb. 7. Briefly, there are two issues and, while the language of the ballot reads otherwise, there is no increase in taxes. Since all locally voted millage expires in 1995, a ballot proposal must legally be worded as an increase. Both issues are renewals.

Gail Frederick's cuthusiasm for her colleagues and school system are shared by me Though retired many years, my memories are of an outstanding school system serving a community which placed a high value on education.

'95 Eldorado looks tough in luxury car market

Cadillacs is that they are easy to park. Not that they are small or highly maneuverable. The Eldorado is a two-door coupe, but it is not small. It feels heavy and it is.

But for some reason, in a Cadillac you always find a good parking spot. We have noticed this over the years. Cadillacs always find spots near the door.

With this in mind, we confidently entered the crowded lot when we returned the car and drove confidently to the door. There was the one spot open in the lot, right next to the door. Aside from this mystical quality - which Cadillac for some reason has never included in its advertising — the 1995 Eldorado is a Cadillac in the tradition of old. Big, comfortable, powerful and a pleasure

Winter braking distances

from 20 mph

This body style took a little while to get used to when it first came out. The Eldorado looks different, with an oddly angular roofline that becomes elegant as you get used to it. The Eldorado is not as rounded as most cars on the market

now. It does not look like a Lexus coupe or a Buick Rivi era. It is more of a wedge. It is distinctively Eldorado.
Powering the Eldorado is the Cadillac Northstar 4.6-liter double-overhead-cam 32-valve V-8. It is rated at 300 hp, up five from last year due to better intake runners for its port fuel injection. The Eldorado Touring Coupe's Northstar is tweaked up to 300 hp, again a gain of five from the preceding year.

Despite the power output difference, Cadillac says the Eldorado in either form can go 0-60 mph in 7.5 seconds. although the Touring Coupe is allowed to achieve a higher top speed of 140 mph, while the Eldorado is restricted by computer to 112 mph.

Since top speed is, for most drivers, an academic question, Eldorado drivers who do not have "ETC" on their trunk lids need not feel inferior. Zero-to-60 in 7.5 seconds is very impressive, especially in a car that is almost 17 feet long and weighs close to two tons. The Touring Coupe is also distinguished by a body-color grille, while the regular Eldorado has a chrometrimmed grille.

The Northstar's engine output was improved by refinements in the intake manifold, part of the Northstar's revised fluid induction system. The new lost-core thermoplastic intake manifold with improved intake runner geometry increases the engine's breathing efficiency, allowing for smaller intake plenum volume which improves idle stability, Cadillac

The Northstar engine also features a "limp-home" mode that keeps the engine operating even without vital engine coolant in emergency situations.

ity. Cadillac says no tuneup is needed for 100,000 miles.

The Northstar V-8 is linked to Cadillac's 4T80 four-speed electronically controlled automatic transmission with a viscous converter clutch, resulting in hesitation-free shifts. Lifetime Dextron III transmission fluid is utilized on all '95 Cadillac models.

The engine and transmission are linked electronically by the Powertrain Control Module, two 64-kilobyte computers which monitor numerous engine and transmission functions. The transmission calculates engine torque output to determine how much pressure is required in the transmission to ensure a smooth shift. The 4T80-E also features equallength drive axles which minimize angle differences from side to side as the car accelerates, limiting torque steer. Torque steer, which has plagued other high-performance front-drive cars in the past, is not noticeable in normal driv-

Cadillac's Integrated Chassis Control System improves stopping distances, increases braking stability in turns and reduces activation of the traction control system in low-speed tight turns.

The Eldorado is quieter and more powerful than before and its body is a bit stiffer, which makes it a much stronger contender in the very tough luxury coupe segment. If creature comfort is high on your list of automotive desires, you will like the Eldorado's leathered interior. Seats have enough adjustments to satisfy all but the most unusual physiques and probably most of those.

A console houses the automatic's T-bar shift lever. Its gate provides a notch for each forward gear, but the shifter release may test your little finger

Easy-to-read analog gauges are set in an attractive instrument panel and controls are

The rear seat is roomy and wide enough for three, very comfortable for two with the swing-down armrest swung down. The trunk is sizable, well finished, and fitted with counterbalanced hinges that allow you to lift the lid wide with one hand while holding a bag of groceries in the other.

Cadillac enjoys advantages in power and price over its Japanese and German rivals and the Eldorado should be a tough competitor in the luxury coupe

It looks good and feels good, a very nice package for base price starting at $38,220. The Touring Coupe starts at $41,535. There is no gas guzzler tax on the Eldorado as EPA rates it at 16 mpg city and 25 highway. Not bad for a car that is most definitely not an econobox.

The 1995 Cadillac Eldorado is a package of automotive virtue in distinctive wrapping.

port the efforts of fellow Grosse Pointe citizens who do attend these meetings, who do express their opinions and devote many hours of their free time to address important matters and represent the taxpayers and citizens of the Grosse Pointe communities. What makes voters sit

Do they realize how many Americans have given their lives and how many more are maimed and living in veterans' hospitals and homes so that voters can step into the booth and cast their votes? that increase, so that the state increases the foundation grant by 3 percent, the foundation grant increase and our allowable increase would each be 3 percent of $5,500, which equals $165. But that $165 would be only a 2 percent increase for us

- $8,250 times 2 percent equals $165. We would lose buying power in that year. Inflation would have made each

$1 of cost now cost $1.03 and we would only have $1.02. Over the years that erosion in buying power will be serious and its effects will be cumulative. The worst erosion will occur when the rate of inflation exceeds the rate by which the foundation grant increases. In our example, suppose state aid revenues and thus the foundation grant went up 3 percent but inflation was 5 percent, then our 2 percent allowable increase would be much less than the 5 percent rate of inflation at which our costs would have increased. The escape valve, the only escape valve, is the $2.4 million. In time, even that money won't be enough to keep us from having to cut programs, but it will help. It will help protect us. And we fought hard to have the right to vote to approve that protection.

The school board has said it can get by next year without using the extra $2.4 million for programs, that it will use it only for technology and equipment and such. That is appropriate in the short term, but in the long run, we will have to vote for those funds simply to maintain necessary instructional programs at the level of excellence.

There is absolutely no sympathy in Lansing for higher spending schools districts. There was none in 1993, and there is none now.

If we think, as residents of the Grosse Pointe school district, that we can fail to protect our schools and yet maintain and increase the value of our homes, we are wrong. We should not attempt to deceive ourselves. We are a close-in suburb, bordered on two sides by a giant and, for the foreseea ble future, crumbling city. The only reason we are a viable community is that we have cared about our schools and have been willing to support them, with our yes votes on millages, with our hard-earned tax dollars, at the level of excellence. Excellence is never cheap. Losing that excellence, however, would be far more expensive.

So, please, vote yes for the 18 mills on non-homestead property and the 8.5 mills on homesteads.

And guess what? Even then, your taxes are about to go down, again, when the Republican Legislature enacts the governor's new tax cut package, including a cut in the single business tax, the income tax and, yes, finally, a repeal of our least favorite tax, the Michigan Intangibles Tax.
Vote yes on Feb. 7. Vote to maintain our communities as great places for families to live. You'll be glad you did.

Governor sees cuts in State of the State

Lansing — In his State of the State speech, Gov. John Engler laid out many new proposals, including a $1.5 billion tax cut over the next five years. Engler also called for cutting $400 million from the 1995-96 budget, which he will offer early next month. On other issues, the governor wants to spend an additional $200 million for prisons. The old Newberry hospital will be converted into what the governor referred to as a "punk prison" to deal with the escalating problem of youth violence in the state.

On educational issues, the governor called for returning more authority to parents: "It's time to stop controlling education from Lansing or Washington. It's time to start transferring full authority to parents and the schools they pay for."

Hillegonds said it is an award that "should go to all the members of the House who served during the 87th legislative session." Hertel added that the "last session was far more productive than anyone would have anticipated it could have been with a 55-55 split between

Volunteer says vote no

To the Editor: As a co-sponsor of nine classes for Grosse Pointe Community Education, as a PAC member and Math Pentathlon volunteer, as a co-chairman for acquisitions for South's all night graduation party, as a cochairman for reservations for Grosse Pointe South's Spring Benefit, as a founder of the Grosse Pointe South Alumni Association, and as one of the leading volunteers with this school system for the past 19 years, it is with great concern that I must urge our community to vote no against the proposed millage.

I am very concerned with the fear tactics used by the school administration concerning this vote. We will not lose our quality schools if this does not pass, and there is no reason why programs should be cut or class sizes elevated.

Only 50 percent of our school budget is spent on the students. This 50 percent covers all the supplies and textbooks, etc., and all the faculty salaries, includ-ing those of the special teachers.

A whopping 24 percent of our budget is spent on administrative costs, with no program in place to reduce these costs. As for the proclaimed cut in administrative staff, you can find these jobs under the new heading, non-instructional personnel.

I am very concerned with the people in this community who feel that there may be retribution against them and their children if they take a stand against the

I am mostly concerned that this millage is being "sold" as a stop-gap millage when in fact it is an increase.

The 8.36 mills the administration is using is not the true figure. The 8.36 mills also included the operation costs of the library system before it became a district library. You must subtract 1.15 mills for li-brary costs, if you want a true comparison.

The "gap" they want to fill is not 8.36 to 8.5, but rather 7.21 to 8.5.

This is not stop-gap but a true tax raise, and I urge you to vote against this millage until a program of cutting administrative costs is issued.

where will your SAT score stand?

When the recentering of SAT scores comes up, it's usually a hit or miss. Some people get it, some people don't.

The College Board is adjusting the curve or "recentering" SAT scores this spring. Average SAT scores will be reset to 500 math/500 verbal.

You'll still be getting the same number of questions right and wrong, but the curve will change, so your score will be higher. Since colleges know about this we figured you should know too. After all, college guidebooks might not be up to date with the changes. These changes are targeting everyone's scores in the same way. If you have any questions, please give us a call. PRINCETON

Once recentering hits where will your SAT score stand?

When the recentering of SAT scores comes up, it's usually a hit or miss. Some people get it, some people don't. The College Board is adjusting the curve or Trecentering SAT scores this spring Average SAT scores will be reset to 500 math/500 verbal.

You'll still be getting the same number of questions right and wrong, but the curve will change, so your score will be higher. Since colleges know about this, we figured you should know too. Mier

New Year is a time of hope throughout the world

As "Merry Christmas" blended into "Happy New Year" there came the euphoric feeling that all is right with the world. We touched base with all of our friends by way of cards and notes. We renewed and strengthened ties with our loved ones as we gathered to celebrate Christmas. We gave and we received, and it is difficult to decide which made us happier. It was wonderful to have loved ones think of us in a special way, and it was grati-fying to see the happy, pleased look on the faces of those to whom we gave gifts. Now it is over and we look forward to a new year with hope and, of course, resolutions. We look back once more and pray that no matter what lies ahead we will all be together next Christmas.

We know that modern technology has shrunk the world to the point that the one we once knew no longer exists, and the one that we now know must survive on different strategies than those which once worked. We know too, that our future exists at a political level, but we hope that those in charge will look beyond ambition and live in peace and equanimity.

They do not want to send their young people off to a no-win war or to live in fear of annihilation. They have the same hopes and desires we do. Our common beliefs and practices are nowhere more apparent than in our celebration of the New Year.

In fact, the New Year has been called the grandfather of all other festivals that have been held the world around.

In almost every country of the world, the New Year has become a time of feasting and fun. People are thankful for the blessings that have come to them during the year. They feel kindly toward their fellow men as they look forward to the promise of the New Year.

While customs differ in other countries, the same spirit pre-vails as the New Year is welcomed. In Russia, New Year's is a child-centered affair. It is the favorite festival of all the through Jan. 10. There are skating parties, hockey and ski parties and rides over the snow in sleighs pulled by horse teams. There are gaily ornamented trees in homes, schools and public buildings. The most elaboratedly decorated and the tallest tree of all is installed in the Kremlin's Tainisky Garden, where children gather to watch ancient Russian fables come to

Closer to home, in Mexico, people celebrate the event much as we do. But they have some customs that differ

In the small towns and cities, Jan. 1 is celebrated as one great carnival-like fiesta. Streets are decorated with paper streamers and flowers. If the birthday of a town's patron saint falls on New Year's, there is a double celebration.

Some of the small villages of Mexico celebrate New Year's Eve with a festival called Noche de Pedinenton, the Cross of Petition. Here they make their wishes for the coming year and build miniature reproductions of their wishes, which they set up on the ground surrounding the cross

An exciting fireworks display is the grand climax of every fiesta in Mexico. On New Year's night, the display lasts for hours. The most beautiful and intricate displays are called castles and are sometimes 100 feet high. These are made in sections to represent crosses, exotic flowers, colorful birds with gay plumage, swimming fish of every description and animals of all kinds. Each section is made to go off separately, the whole castle taking 20 minutes to a half hour to self-destruct.

It is surprising to us that in some countries New Year's takes precedence over Christmas as a holiday. For instance, New Year's is the big holiday of the year in Scotland. In Wales and England, New Year's is not an official holiday and people go to work on Jan. 1. New Year's Eve in Scotland is known as Hogmanay, meaning New Year with Mistletoe. Families traditionally gather on Hogmanay eve in the home of the older member of the family, who holds an open house. As the clock strikes midnight, someone dashes quickly to the front door and opens it to hurry the old year out and to usher the new year in. Toasts are drunk and all the family and friends link arms and sing

'Auld Lang Syne.' Ringing bells on New Year's Eve is an old English tradition. In some parts of the country bells are muffled shortly before midnight so they may sound a mournful tone to show the grief for the passing year. It was this custom that inspired Tennyson's lines:

"Ring out wild bells, to the wild sky/The flying clouds, the frosty light/ the year is dying in the night/Ring out wild bells, and let him die."

In western Ireland, on the last night of the year, it is an old custom for the head of the household to take a large Christmas loaf, speecially prepared for the occasion, to the outside of the house and hammer it against the barred doors and windows. As he does so, he repeats an old Irish rhyme bidding famine to keep away from the house during the coming

Hike in Social Security tax

Beginning with tax returns due for the taxable year 1994, a new two-tiered method of computing taxes due on Social Security benefits will be used that may mean more tax for higher earners.

Staff members from the Wendy's restaurant in Harper Woods served burgers and fries to the residents of the Henry Ford Belmont Continuing Care Center in Harper Woods last week. The restaurant's management wanted to thank the community's senior citizens who patronize Wendy's on a regular basis. "This is just one way for us to give something back," said Tanya Callands, general manager of the restaurant. Wendy's employees decorated the center's dining room for the occasion. "We recognize that our residents' social needs are as important to their well-being as good medical care," said Belmont Center administrator Phyllis DeYonker-O'Mara.

Bon Secours nursing center celebrates decade of care

It was a decade ago that Bon Secours Nursing Care Center (NCC) opened its doors and accepted its first resident.

December starts a year-long celebration of the NCC's 10th anniversary. Festivities began Dec. 10 with the annual Candlelight Dinner for residents and their families. Nearly 200 people were on hand when Anne Sadler, NCC's administrator, made a formal presentation commemorating a decade of quality caring.

"We have established our reputation in the community with 10 years of providing the quality healthcare that follows in the tradition of the Sisters of Bon Secours and Bons Secours Hospital," said Sadler.

A number of events are planned during the upcoming year including a communitywide open house next summer.

"We want to extend the celebration to include residents, their families, employees and the community," Sadler said. "Our theme is '10 Years of Giving' and we are looking forward to continuing to strengthen our commitment to our residents and the commun-

It's tradition; Millage information meetings draw few interested voters

By Shirley A. McShane Staff Writer

Citizens working to get the tax rate renewed for the Grosse Pointe school district are worried that voter complacency may defeat their efforts.

The district is asking voters on Tuesday, Feb. 7, to approve two proposals: renew 18 mills on non-homestead properties and renew an additional "gap" millage of 8.5 mills to retain the district's per-pupil spending

"Our last school millage pro-posal passed by only 300 votes," said Carol Marr, a said Carol Marr, a former Grosse Pointe school board trustee and current chairman of the Homeowners for Eduction and Local Property Values (HELP) Committee, which has launched a campaign to get the millage propostold a gathering of four parents Jan. 17. "If you look at who turns out to vote, it's only 20 percent of the registered voters in Grosse Pointe tend to be older residents of the community. Many young families and new families in the school district have not yet registered to vote.

The school system hosted seven meetings in the last week at various schools around the district in an effort to educate the public on the upcoming millage election. Most of the meetings were sparsely attended.

School administrators say that informational meetings traditionally are poorly at-tended and residents who are seeking information about the millage election are placing calls directly to the administrative offices. In response, the school district has a series of fact sheets it will mail to interested residents. The central office has received about 400 "We are very nervous about the turnout on Feb. 7," Marr election.

The meetings were hosted by at Mason school on Tuesday, a central office administrator and a school board member. At the Mason meeting last week, the four parents in attendance who go to the polls in local elec- heard a presentation on what tions. And the frequent voters the proposals mean, why there are necessary and what the dis trict faces if they should fail.

The parents said they have heard only positive remarks about the school disrict and the upcoming election and that most people they know believe the millage proposals will be approved.

But Marr said she isn't sure that is a good sign. "My concern is that if people don't sense the urgency, they won't vote," she said. "If everyone thinks this will pass, they won't think there's a need to go out and vote. I don't think any one wants to go through this again. I was on the school board when a millage failed. Then everyone asks us, 'Why didn't you tell us this was so important?""

February 1992 asked voters to renew 27.55 in operating mills and 1.3 in library mills. About 20 percent of the registered voters in the school district went to the polls and the operating millage passed by 309 votes. The library millage passed by a wider margin of 984 votes.

nancing laws prohibit school districts from levying separate millages for public libraries

And even though school financing changed dramatically in 1994, the Grosse Pointe school system's millage rates had not yet expired in 1994, so the board was allowed to continue to levy taxes under the new lower rates without voter approval.

Before school finance reform, homesteads and non-homesteads were taxed at the same rate. Now, those who own a business, rental property or a second home in Grosse Pointe are levied 18 mills for school operations and an additional 6 mills imposed by the state on all properties for a total of 24

Homestead taxpavers were levied 14 mills this year, about 50 percent of what their school taxes were for 1993-94.

The school district cannot levy more than 8.5 mills, Fenton said. If property assessments increase (and they are capped at 5 percent or the rate of inflation, whichever is less, according to the new laws) the "gap" millage must be rolled back so that the district contin-

Shine emphasized two points: The "gap" millage and the 18 mills on non-homestead property account for about $20 million or 28 percent of the 1994-95 budget. The extra $2.4 million explained

roved a request by the Grosse Pointe library board for a maximum of 1.7 mills to fund the library system, which last year ended its longstanding relationship with the public school sys-

The library board expects to set a tax rate of 1.3 mills when it approves its 1995-96 budget.

The school system last spring reported to the state its reve nue sources for the 1993-94 school year and included in those sources the taxes it collected for the public library.

Those numbers, according to state Rep. William R. Bryant Jr., R-Grosse Pointe Farms, were collected to set limits for future allowable expenditures for high-spending districts.

"I fought to allow us, at least, to be able to count the library millage, as it has always been counted, as part of the 1993-94 operating revenues, whether or not we later spun off the library to stand on its own," Bryant said in a column in the Grosse Pointe News.

Bryant emphasized in his column that the additional revenue - about $2.4 million - is money the school system is going to need over time to keep pace with inflation.

"Without this $2.4 million," he said, "the only amount where we can increase our perpupil renvenue from one year to the next is by the dollar amount the foundation increases."

The operating millage and revenue reported to the state and levied by the school district, with the voters' approval. is reflected in the "gap" mill-lage request of 8.5 mills, said Chris Fenton, assistant superintendent for business.

The $2.4 million paid to the district library this year and to be retained by the school system in subsequent years translates to about 1.15 mills of the 8.5 "gap" mills, Fenton said.

In 1995-96 and beyond, that amount will go toward a fiveyear plan of technology and infrastructure improvements throughout the school district.

Fenton said the 1.15 mills or $2.4 million - could be construed as money collected by the school system for the li-brary, but it is not an accurate interpretation of the numbers or the situation.

"There is nothing designated for the library. It's not written anywhere and it's not in any budget. We are not obligated to pay for the library," he said.

A school finance specialist for the Michigan Department of Education told the Grosse Pointe News last fall that many school districts in Michigan that operated public libraries are continuing to receive revenue that reflects money previously collected for the libraries. Grosse Pointe schools superintendent Ed Shine said the district needs to replace outdated computers and aging boilers and windows and he saw the $2.4 million as a fiscally responsible alternative to floating bonds.

District administrators noted that all bond debts will be paid by the end of the fiscal year and beginning with the 1995-96 year, the district will be debt-

All are welcome

COME ON IN AND HAVE A PEW

By Margie Reins Smith

Feature Editor
The Rev. Jack Ziegler, pastor of Grosse

Parkutarian Church, think Pointe Woods Presbyterian Church, thinks signs in front of churches are generally hohum; boring; unimaginative.

"Most say: 'All are Welcome," he said, "which is a wonderful message, but it isn't very creative."

A small sign directly in front of the church at 19950 Mack in Grosse Pointe Woods lists the pastors' names and the topic of the next sermon. Hardly anyone notices it.

Woods Presbyterian Church has another, larger sign, however, that gets plenty of notice. The horizontal glass-enclosed case stretches diagonally across the southwest corner of the church's property and faces northbound traffic on Mack Avenue at the corner of Torrey Road.

"It gets noticed because of its location," Ziegler said, "and its angle. And because there's a traffic light there. People have to stop for the light and there's nothing to do but read the sign. They can't miss it. Plenty of people notice it.

Plenty comment on it, too. Ziegler has an inch-thick file folder stuffed with letters, postcards, notes, comments and scribbled suggestions for future signs.

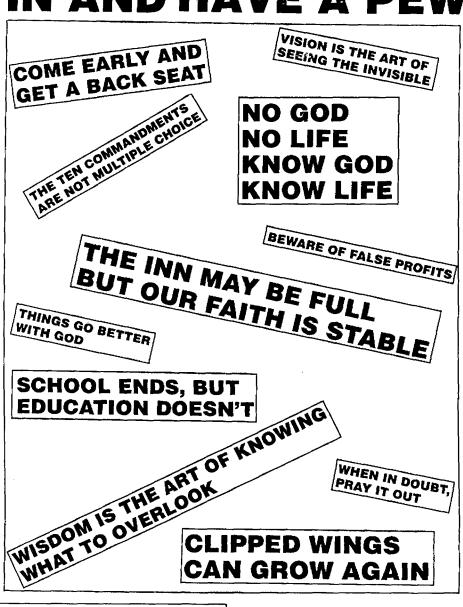

"Our church sexton Jack Lucas changes it about once a week, usually on Fridays. Sometimes I do it," Ziegler said. "It's fun because people will stop and talk, toot their horns, whistle and wave.

Written comments come from members of other churches, residents, passers-by, non-residents and others.

He gets phone calls, too. Two or three a week, he said. And plenty of verbal feedback from members of his own congregation and their guests.

Nearly all comments are positive.

"Once a lady called," Ziegler said. "She said, 'I don't have a church. Your sign is my church."

The Rev. Jack Ziegler

"A 74-year-old woman who passes by the sign every day has been collecting these words," he said. "She's a member of Star of the Sea Catholic Church. She said, 'Keep up the good work. You and your beliefs are a blessing in our neighborhood."

The phrases are like headlines, Ziegler said. Or bumper stickers. They pique one's interest with word play, puns, odd phrases, interesting combinations of words to relay a message that may be religious or secu-

"When in doubt, pray it out," for instance. Or "Angels fly because they take themselves lightly.'

'Vision is the art of seeing the invisible." Or "The Ten Commandments are not multiple choice." During the Olympics: 'Worship is an event of Olympic propor-

Sources for the phrases vary, Ziegler said. He makes some up. People suggest some. He finds some while reading or listening or conversing.

"I find myself listening with a third ear for these things," he said.

"Things go better with God" is his creation. So is "Beware of false profits."

In case anybody needs to be reminded even though the sign doesn't say it - Ziegler said, "All are welcome."

HAVE A PLEASANT TRY AT PERFECTION BRIDGE BY WOODY BOYD 🏚 🕈 💠 💠

I am seasoned enough to recognize I have accomplished very little at the bridge table and yet shrewd enough to understand that I can still learn much with determination if I apply myself in the time left that I have been allotted.

Today I want to tell you about an amazing pair from this community who recently had a noteworthy impact upon opposite ends of life's spectrum.

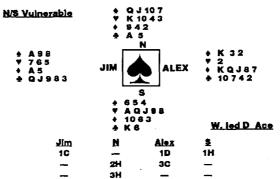

On Sept. 15, James Beattie of Beverly Hills observed his centennial birthday upon this earth which makes him, I believe, the oldest living active bridge player in Michigan. Two months later, on Nov. 17, Dan Hirschman of Southfield became, at the tender age of 10, the youngest life master in A.C.B.L. history.

In time, much will be written about Dan because of his early start and wonderful comprehension. So today I will devote the rest of this script to our distinguished centurion.

Jim's embarkation into our wonderful game followed the first great war in 1919 and he has been playing steadily ever since. In those early days they played "Auction" which was the forerunner of "Contract Bridge" created by Commodore Vanderbilt in his eulogized Panama cruise of 1925. Jim distinctly remembers his first playing date with Detroit's bridge legend, Russell Roosen, in 1927 and the list of his partners since it is impressive. He's played with many of Detroit's celebrated residents who aspired to the game and nearly all of our outstanding players of the past 70 years.

In 1947, he started playing more often than this favorite priority of his should have allowed him, but he feels it has been especially worthwhile in keeping his mind vibrant and he attributes this exercise to his still exceptional comprehension. It has only been the past five years that his driving privileges were seized (much against his wish) and that has curtailed his play considerably. Yet he still enjoys his Wednesday neighborhood game, often with his daughter JoAnne Gruschow and his Saturday afternoon game at the golf club. Even so, two weeks ago here was Jim playing at Dave and Judy Boskirk's Saturday evening Summit Place game and that 24 board ordeal keeps one thinking until well past 11 p.m.

I had the pleasure of an hour-long visit with him a while back and it was an extraordinary event. Of all of his favorite partners of the past, Ira Reindel was his special choice and that was a man of rare talent on the tennis court or at the table. In Jim's opinion, the changes in the game, especially the bidding, have improved the game dramatically. What your partner's cards were used to be a guess, but the new conventions have been helpful in conveying partners' high cards and shape. The real test is defense, for that, in his judgment, is where the awards should go for great play. He had a hand from the past to prove his point. "I was much younger and sharper then," he said. (He was 91 or 92) and it was played at the golf club with his friend Alex

At trick (2), Jim continued a small diamond which Alex won and played his queen, West pitching the spade nine. At (4), East played a small spade, Jim winning his ace and returning the eight. Now East won the king and gave his partner a spade ruff. The defenses damage report was a plus-500 and in this one's opinion, that's pretty fine bridge. Note that Alex avoided trying to give Jim a diamond ruff at trick (4), which would have failed because he had no trump high enough to succeed over declarer. So the defense brilliantly transferred the ruff to spades, which declarer had no power to control.

The Pastor's Corner

Holy rest

By the Rev. David H. Wick Grosse Pointe Baptist Church

The sight was unusual: six Baptist pastors, sitting quietly erect, their feet flat on the floor, their hands folded loosely in their laps, their chins on their chests, their eyes closed, each engaged in the ancient Orthodox practice of hesychastic prayer, praying silently, "Lord Jesus Christ, Son of God, have mercy on me, a sinner," or some other meditative prayer.

This hour-long prayer experience was only a small part of a course called "Living the Spiritual Life in Contemporary Society," taught by Dr. Stephen Brach-low, professor of church history and spirituality at the North American Baptist Seminary in Sioux Falls, S.D. The course profoundly challenged my thinking about my spiritual life.

I saw how much I emphasize defining myself by what I do, rather than by who I am. This cultural emphasis on doing vs. being seems to be a pervasive and unfortunate part of our American culture.

Surely I am not wrong in wanting to put my faith in action? No, that is the right thing to do, and it has plenty of biblical support. But there must be space, which (in Luke 10:40f) Mary discovered and Martha did not, for just sitting at the feet of Jesus, doing the one needful thing. Surely it is valid to find serenity on the busy pavement, to hear the lapping of the waves on Galilee's shore "in the deep heart's core."

But there must also be time to come apart, to be silent, to become rather than to merely do. I am not spending myself enough on what Jesus called the one needful thing. I am focusing too much on doing, not enough on being and becoming.

> The woods are lovely, dark and deep, But I have promises to keep, And miles to go before I sleep. And miles to go before I sleep.

Robert Frost's poem "Stopping by Woods on a Snowy Evening" seems at first like a rationalization for avoiding contemplation. But what did he mean by repeating the last line?

The contemplative process was already going on. The snow would continue to fall; he would watch; the promises would be kept a little later and the miles covered. in due time.

Frost also wrote, "I have been one acquainted with the night." Frost was drawn to contemplation in solitude and silence. But there is always a tension. Promises must be kept and the miles must be covered, and there never seems to be time enough for both contemplation and action.

Then I remember that Martha, too, had promises to keep. Mary could have helped her. Mary should have helped her

But no, that is not what our Lord said. He said few things are needful, indeed only one; and what Mary had chosen would not be taken from her.

Contemplation seems to be, therefore, a spiritual right, or to use a modern cultural paradigm, an entitlement.

Celebrate Super Bowl with nutritional game plan

It's an event celebrated annually that, in many places, has become larger than the game itself — Super Bowl Sun-day. Fast on the heels of holiday partying and new year resolutions to lose or control weight, Jan. 29 might be a real test for some people.

There are tips to consider: "Have a light snack before you in control," said Cori Fa-gan, a dietitian and instructor in the Healthy Habits Weight Management Program at St. John Hospital and Medical Center. She said to adopt a game plan.

Jarvi shows sorcery in concert

Brass set the tone at last veekend's DSO concerts as Neeme Jarvi opened his program with a fanfare and a trumpet concerto.

The first was a welcome sample of music by Paul Dukas, otherwise known almost exclusively for "The Sorcer's Apprentice." The spine-tingling sounds from the combined horns, trumpets, trombones and tuba revealed sophisticated musical craftsmanship that generated curiosity to hear the rest of the ballet score of "La Peri." Given a rousing treatment by Jarvi and the brass it also whet the appetite for what followed.

The DSO's principal trumpet, Ramon Parcells, stepped out to perform a concerto by the contemporary Armenian composer Alexander Arutiunian. It's a work rife with trills and riffs - enough to thrill trumpet fans and challenge the best of players. It is also filled with harmonies and fragments of melodies reminiscent of the native Armenian music that has become familiar in Katchaturian's many popular symphonic works

But Arutiunian has his own idiom and as interpreted by Parcell's exuberant performance, it was rousing and impressive. His sweet, full tone in the adagio, combined with utterly clear articulation of the cascading notes, were a thrill to hear.

This was only prelude, however, and the ligh-thearted mood turned to anguish and introspection with the Seventh Symphony of Shostakovich composed during the infamous siege of Leningrad and Hitler's invasion of the Soviet Union.

The historic context is especially important here. The impact of the war and Stalin's oppression of creative artists like Shostakovich is often read into the music.

Moreover, it is possible that the patriotic message attributed to the music is a complete misinterpretation. The composer gave conflicting in-

Jarvi's treatment of this gigantic hour-and-10-minute symphony gave it a convincing sense of reflecting the composer's inner tension and unhappiness. The notorious march theme, lampooned by Bartok in his Concerto for Orchestra and played with bombast by many other conductors, became an echoing intrusion here, temporarily interrupting with melody the major theme of the symphony - its mood of sombre introspection.

In emphasizing that this is a work of mood and tension in which melody is only incidental, Jarvi brought great force to it and made it a deeply moving experience. Moreover, he avoided the trap of making it a piece of program music about the siege of Leningrad. His achievement was to demonstrate that, in fact, this symphony encompasses one of the peaks of torment and suffering in the entire 20th century with compelling im-

This weekend's concerts begin tomorrow at 10:45 a.m. and present Jon Kimura Parker playing Moz-art's Piano Concerto No. 20 and Craig Rifel with Saint-Saen's Organ Symphony (No. 3). One problem with the film is how director Marc Rocco overuses dark colors like blues and greens. The majority of the movie is overloaded with dark colors. It isn't necessary. The subject - about a man's fight to regain control of his life — is dark enough. The movie's lack of any bright colors can be annoying at times.

Grapefruit's not just for breakfast anymore

Grapefruit was introduced to Florida in 1823 by a good friend of Napoleon Bonaparte.

Originating in the West Indies, the term "grapefruit" was coined by explorer John Lunan in Jamaica in 1814 when he noticed that the fruit grew in clusters like grapes.

In 1823 Count Odet Phillippe, a great grand-nephew of King Louis XVI and a close friend of Napoleon, brought grapefruit to Florida where it was thought to be useful in treating illnesses such as influenza. This prompted Florida grapefruit growers to market the fruit to people living in the northern United States, making Florida the first area in the world where grapefruit became commercially important.

Experts agree that grapefruit and grapefruit juice can play an important role in weight management.

"Citrus products, such as grapefruit and grapefruit juice, are smart choices when dieting," says Lawrence Cheskin, M.D., director of the Johns Hopkins Weight Management Center in Baltimore. "They are sodium-, cholesterol- and fat-free, low in calories, and high in vitamins and minerals."

As part of a national Five-a-Day Program, several government agencies, including the U.S. Food and Drug Administration and Department of Health and Human Services, recommend that Americans eat five daily servings of fresh fruit and vegetables for better health.

"Few people get their five-aday requirement of fruit and vegetables," Cheskin said. "But by including citrus and citrus juices in your diet, which can be conveniently eaten throughout the day, people are more likely to meet these requirements.

Research shows that regular exercise and a balanced diet, high in fruit and vegetables and low in fat, helps to maintain an ideal weight.

Including grapefruit or grapefruit juice as part of a balanced breakfast also may contribute to weight loss. According to Cheskin, eating a healthy breakfast can curb one's appetite throughout the day and "Eating a healthy breakfast is a much more natural way to diet," he says." It's not a good idea to skip breakfast and deprive your body of food until later in the day. This may cause people to eat more at the end of the day, when their body doesn't need as many calories."

Eating light, healthy treats throughout the day, such as fresh grapefruit, can help provide a steady supply of energy, and may lessen the urge to eat excessively during the day.

Grapefruit is also a portable snack. In fact, a whole grapefruit can fit easily in a briefcase, and fresh grapefruit segments can be conveniently brought to work in a plastic sandwich bag.

For something different, try dipping grapefruit segments in honey and low-fat granola or wheat germ. It is a tasty, nutrient-packed snack that is low in fat and calories.

It is possible that fruit juices, such as grapefruit juice, may have a filling effect, and cause people to eat less. A recent study conducted by Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah, found that drinking a glass of natural fruit juice 40 minutes before eating a meal can help reduce caloric intake by 30 percent.
"The concept of drinking fruit juice before a meal to reduce calorie intake is similar to the concept of drinking several glasses of water before a meal," Cheskin said. "The more full you feel, the less you will eat."

Finally, grapefruit juice can play an important role in an exercise regimen, which is critical in ensuring the success of a weight management program. Breaststroke lifts North swimmers past South

Sports Editor
Mike O'Connor hopes that will get as much out of his and they didn't let him down. Grosse Pointe South swimming team when it meets Ford II on Feb. 2 as Michalik did last week when the Blue Devils faced O'Connor's Grosse Pointe North squad.

"Fred's kids can beat Ford if they swim like they did tonight," O'Connor said after North's 99-87 victory over South in a Macomb Area Conference Red Division show Michalik agreed.

"If we stay healthy, we could beat them," he said.

A South victory against Ford II would probably create a three-way tie for the division dual meet championship between North, South and the Falcons, who nipped the Norsemen by a point a couple of weeks ago.

South had several excellent performances against North and the Blue Devils trailed by only two points, 79-77, after John Spain, Scott Van de Vusse and Chris Harwood went 2-3-4 in the 100-yard backstroke.

Freshmen spark Norsemen

By Chuck Klonke Sports Editor

There's a bright future for Grosse Pointe North wrestling if Derek Phillips and Gary Bordato are any indication.

The two freshmen each posted key victories last week as the Norsemen beat Grosse Pointe South 34-27 in a Macomb Area Conference Blue Division meet. Both teams are now 1-1 in division action.

"These freshmen are going to keep me going for a few more years," said North coach Art Roberts. "There's a lot of potential there."

The match between Phillips and South sophomore Joe Dwaihy at 100 pounds was a classic high school bout. Both are excellent wrestlers and Phillips came away with a 6-4 off to a good start.

While the Phillips-Dwaihy falls bout was a tossup, Bordato's 14-8 victory over Aaron Fraser at 142 pounds was more of a surprise

"Bordato did a great job," Roberts said. "I was figuring Hill and Sharrow each pinned times. that weight was going to his opponent. South. It was the turning point of the match."

North won three matches on pins and South coach Larry Carr said that was also a factor in his team's defeat.

Five Grosse Pointe South wrestlers reached the championship round and two of them finished first to help the Blue Devils finish fourth in the 16team Lake Shore Invitational last weekend.

James Hill won the championship at 142 pounds with an 8-3 decision over Ford II's Caesar Gonzalez in the title bout. Hill won his first two matches on pins.

Dwaihy was pinned by Anchor Bay's Nick Trombley in the finals, Bunchek lost a 4-0 decision to another Anchor Bay wrestler and Meyers was pinned by Birmingham Seaholm's Chris McQuiston.

Grosse Pointe North's Christian Leinninger won his third tournament championship of the season to highlight the Norsemen's performance at the Romulus Invitational.

Sophomore Kevin Brandon took fourth place at 112 pounds. He pinned Battle Creek Central's Mike McKeen at 1:15 of his first bout, then got a fall at 5:45 against Eric Coburn of Plymouth Salem.

Brandon lost to top-seeded Graham Cisler of Lansing Sexton 16-7 and dropped an 11-4 decision to Walled Lake Western's Rob Fritz in the consolation final.

Derek Phillips and Bill Pollard each finished fifth for the Norsemen.

'If you lose your first match you can't finish any higher than fifth," Roberts said. "Derek and Bill each lost to seeded opponents in their matches, but won the rest.'

Phillips lost to Bay City Western's Matt Rivard, the eventual runner-up at 100 pounds, 10-6 but won his next four matches. He had two second-period pins, a 15-1 decision and a 15-2 decision over Portage Central's Andy Hedgspeth

Pollard dropped a 4-0 decision to Walled Lake Western's Steve Atwell, then won three straight matches, including a pin at 4:20 against Farmington's Chuck Jaeger in the consolation final at 119 pounds.

University Liggett School's volleyball team got back on the right track last week after dropping its first two Metro Conference matches the week

"Coming off two straight tough losses, this really pumped us back up," coach Ken Klenk said after the Lady Knights beat Sacred Heart Academy 15-6, 1-15, 15-13 and downed Detroit Country Day 15-13, 15-7 in a pair of non-conference dual matches.

ULS then made a good showing in the 12-team Wayne State Invitational last weekend, advancing to the quarter-finals of the mostly Class A tournament before losing 15-6, 15-8 to Windsor (Ontario) Brennan.

"We played a whale of a match against Brennan," Klenk said. "We were up 6-0 in the first game. We might have bit off a little too much in this tournament, but we were happy with the way we played. It showed us what we have to do against good teams."

"Those first two games were two of the finest I've seen," Klenk said. "We've been playing a very strenuous schedule and we just ran out of steam in that third game."

The Lady Knights' other Metro Conference setback was ULS beat Ford II twice in a 5-15, 15-7, 15-3 loss to Lu-col play, but dropped two theran Westland.

Blue Devils set for showdown

Sports Editor
Grosse Pointe South's 7-3 victory over Southgate Anderson last week was just what coach Bob Bopp was looking for as a tuneup for this week's first-place showdown against Allen Park Cabrini.

"We were missing some players, including our leading scorer Terry Brennan, and I was anxious to see how some of the kids who had to step up and fill in would do," Bopp said.

He didn't have to wait long. Alex Fedirko and R.J. Wolney each scored his first varsity goal during the first period to get the Blue Devils' rolling toward their seventh win in nine Michigan Metro Hockey League East Division games.

South led 2-1 after the first period and 14 seconds into the second period Jamie Whitehead gave the Blue Devils a two-goal edge when he knocked his own rebound into the net.

Anderson came back to within a goal a little more than a minute later, but defenseman Justin Braun scored on a slap shot from the point at 4:02 to make it 4-2. Then South's John Graffius took over the game. Graffius scored twice within a 2:49 span of the second period and completed his hat trick with 1:33 remaining in the third period.

"Graffius had a great week," Bopp said. "He's really stepped up his play. We moved Geoff Kimmel back to center and he's playing well. Bill Starrs, Braun and Josh Prues are also doing well. It's been a team effort."

Prues had three assists against Anderson, while Braun, Jason Donohue and Starrs collected two apiece. Kimmel, Graffius, Wolney and Ryan Robson each had one assist.

South had an easier time rolling past Ann Arbor Huron 9-4 as Graffius and Starrs led the way. Starrs had three goals and three assists, while Graffius collected two goals and four assists. Defenseman Bill Faber also had two goals.

It didn't take long for the Blue Devils to take control of the game. Graffius scored at the 19-second mark and Braun made it 2-0 at 1:56. Graffius notched his second goal at 3:05 of the first period, but Huron scored two quick goals to cut the lead to one before Starrs scored his first at 11:22.

South kept rolling in the second period, boosting its lead to 7-2 midway through the period.
Terry Brennan had South's final goal. Kimmel had three assists, Terry Brennan two and Nick Linn, Whitehead, Prues and Braun added one apiece.

South won its first crosstown battle with Grosse Pointe North 5-1 as Braun and Terry Brennan each scored twice and goalie Todd Dunlap had an excellent game.

"Both teams played well," Bopp said. "And we had two of the best goalies in the league in Dunlap and Chuck Scher-

Mapping circuits and stripping wall covering

Most electrical panel breakers or fuses are not marked to show what they operate. This article will help.

To identify which receptacles and fixtures are on each circuit, you will need only a pencil, paper, and a voltage tester or a small lamp.

Make a rough drawing of your home's floor plan and mark each permanent electrical feature. Then turn off the first 120-volt breaker or fuse in the panel and plug your tester or lamp into each outlet. Also operate each wall switch that controls a mounted fixture. On your map, write the circuit breaker or fuse number next to the symbol for every dead outlet or fixture that you find.

Now turn on the breaker, turn off the next one, and repeat the process. Do the same to map each of the other circuits. When you are finished, total up the number of openings on each circuit.

To determine if a circuit is at or near capacity, assign each outlet a value of 1.5 amps. At that rate, a 15amp circuit will accommodate 10 outlets, a 20-amp circuit 13 outlets.

How you go about removing old wallcovering depends in part on what's underneath it. Strippable materials, usually vinyl's, are the easiest of all. You simply work a corner loose with a knife and peel the covering off the wall. If this doesn't work you're going to have to dry strip the paper off the wall, providing the walls are composed of gypsum board.

With a razor knife, make horizontal cuts spaced 8 to 10 inches apart horizontally and vertically. Work a slitter tool into a slit at an angle and gently loosen the covering. Peel the paper upward.

Wallcovering on plaster walls can be removed by slitting or scoring or perforating the surface and soaking it. Or use a rented steamer. Do not use water or steam to strip covering from drywall; moisture will soften the gypsum board's face.

First slit the wallcovering with horizontal cuts, or score through with a serrated scraper. Then spray with water or liquid paper remover. After about 10 minutes, try scraping off the covering with a wide knife. If necessary, wet again.

Use steam to remove stubborn wallcoverings from plaster. You can rent a steamer. It consists of a boiler connected by a hose to a perforated plate that you hold against the wall. Steam is forced through the pores of the paper, softening the paste behind. After you've steamed a 6-foot section of the wall, scrape off the covering with a knife. If the wall covering resists steaming, slit or score through the surface and steam a second time.

Jump on remodeling bandwagon at Novi Spring Home & Garden Show

The third annual Spring Home & Garden Show will be in full bloom once again from Feb. 2 - 5 at the Novi Expo Center — just in time to help homeowners jump on the remodeling bandwagon.

Nationally, residential remodeling expenditures are projected to have increased almost 9 percent over the past two years. The top three home remodeling projects are kitchens, bath/powder rooms and remodeled or added decks or patios.

Our show features products and services for these top remodeling projects as well as a multitude of others," said Janet L. Compo, president of the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan (BASM) and chief executive officer of James D. Compo Inc. of Farmington Hills. "A survey of real estate agents shows that a high percentage of the cost of these jobs is recouped when homes are sold."

BASM is the sponsor of the event.

Everything under the sun in home and garden products can be found at the show from brass beds to brick pavers, doors to decks, gazebos to greenhouses, kitchen cabinets to carved fireplace mantels, log homes to lighting, sauna rooms to security systems and whirlpool baths to windows.

WXYT radio's Glenn Haege will broadcast "Ask the Handyman" live from the show Saturday and Sunday. He will be available following the broadcasts to answer home improvement questions.

Metropolitan Detroit Landscape Association members will design gardens to give showgoers ideas from the pros. Stone and brick paver pathways, indoor and outdoor ponds for water gardening, retaining walls and colorful flowers to delight the senses will be found in these expertly created gardens.

Floral arrangements based on spring and holiday themes will be on display courtesy of local Professional Allied Florist shops.

Demonstrations and how-to workshops on decorating, home repair and remodeling will be held continuously throughout the show. Some of the demonstrations include wood preservation on gazebos, the "quietest dishwasher you never heard," a multi-functional ladder system, the making of throw coats, stenciling and faux finish basics, basket weaving with natural materials, sewing tricks, attracting blue birds and back yard birds, home theater systems and exercise equipment.

The Treasure Chest contest will award prizes daily along with many exhibitor offerings including a natural gas grill; gift certificates for beds and customized space planning solutions; a decorating spree; installed transparent window films; a basic security system; a high-efficiency furnace; carpeting for a 12 foot - x - 12 foot room; a ski machine; an acrylic backboard and rim; an 18-inch satellite dish system; a fireplace; custom window treatments; and a central vacuum cleaning system. In addition, most exhibitors offer show specials.

More than 200 exhibitors will show the latest technology, products and services for yard/gardens, doors, windows, kitchens, baths, remodeling, furniture, arts and crafts, decorative accessories, electronics, appliances, heating and cooling.

NAR: Real estate must be part of new legislative agenda

As the new U.S. Congress gears up for the 1995 legislative session, the National Association of Realtors will strive to ensure that measures beneficial to real estate owners are included in the public policy agenda.

According to NAR president Edmund G. Woods Jr., legislation affecting real estate has a ripple impact on the entire economy.

Everything that touches real estate is tied to other industries," Woods said.

Woods noted that the Republican takeover of the House of Representatives and Senate, combined with federal agency restructuring proposed by the Clinton administration, has caused some uncertainty about public policy priorities for the coming year. However, he said NAR looks forward to working with the new Congress and the administration on issues related to the real estate industry.

Several tax provisions beneficial to real estate are included in the Republican Party's "Contract with America." The plan contains a NAR-supported provision to cut in half the tax rate charged on long-term capital gains. The maximum rate would be 15 percent. The capital gains measure would treat real estate equally with other assets.

Another measure, designed to encourage long-range investment, would permit a property's basis to be adjusted for inflation, for purposes of determining capital gains. In addition, a new method for calculating property depreciation is being proposed that would have long-term benefits.

Both the Republicans and the Clinton administration are advocating penalty-free withdrawals from individual retirement account and 401(k) plans for home purchases by first-time buyers. Such proposals have long been supported by NAR as a practical way to encourage investing in home ownership.

Although some proposals have been floated within Congress to reduce the deductibility of mortgage interest, the Clinton administration remains committed to preserving the deduction in its current form. NAR opposes further reductions in the mortgage interest deduction, because it is a key benefit for home owners that spurs movement up the housing ladder.

The Clinton administration wants to transform the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) into a "streamlined, market-driven enterprise" that would provide mortgage insurance in partnership with other organizations, including private mortgage insurance companies, state and local housing finance agencies, the Federal National Mortgage Association (Fannie Mae) and the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp. (Freddie Mac). FHA's partners would be required to share the risk on any insurance delivered.

Although NAR supports the concept of risk-sharing, the proposal has raised concerns that scaling back FHA's insurance operations in this manner could shut out low- and moderateincome people most in need of the program. As FHA restructuring develops, it is crucial to ensure that the agency continues to meet the needs of those not served by the private market, according to NAR.

It is possible that banking deregulation legislation could resurface in 1995. Although no details have been disclosed on what such legislation may cover, it is possible that a provision allowing banks to enter into real estate brokerage could be included.

In addition, the comptroller of the currency has issued a notice stating it will propose a regulation permitting real estate brokerage by subsidiaries of banks with a national charter. NAR analysts are reviewing the notice to determine the potential impact on the real estate industry.

In general, NAR opposes real estate development and brokerage activities by financial institutions.

Three pieces of environment-related legislation — the Clean Water Act, Endangered Species Act and Superfund — are scheduled for reauthorization this year, any of which could contain provisions affecting private property rights.

NAR strongly supports the preservation of private property rights and believes property owners must be compensated fairly in cases involving regulatory takings.

"Real estate plays a vital role in keeping the nation's economy strong," Woods said. "Issues affecting all facets of the residential and commercial real estate industry must be at the forefront of our national priorities."

The National Association of Realtors, "The Voice for Real Estate," is the nation's largest professional association, representing nearly 750,000 members involved in all aspects of the real estate industry.

Builders Association reports best year in well over a decade

Single family home permits issued in 1994 for southeastern Michigan increased 20 percent over 1993 and are expected to maintain this level in 1995, said Janet L. Compo, 1995 president of Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan (BASM) and chief executive officer of James D. Compo Inc. in Farmington Hills.

Total single family permits issued for 1994 were 14,541 in Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, Washtenaw, Monroe, St. Clair and Livingston counties, compared with 12,075 for 1993.

"This was the best year the building industry has had since the 1970s, Compo said. "The economy has picked up and interest rates are still low compared to the early '80s when they were in the double digits."

The hottest areas for new construction in 1994 were in Canton, Macomb and Shelby townships and Troy, she reported.

Southeastern Michigan is a very stable market in terms of housing prices and number of permits issued on a year-to-year basis, Compo said. The number of permits issued has been between 10,000 and 15,000 for the past nine years.

"The stability of prices in our region keeps us an affordable and active market," Compo said.

"Home buyers in 1994 were taking advantage of the rates and upgrading of new homes that include the latest luxury features, such as master bedroom suites, fitness areas, home offices and sophisticated technology for security and home entertainment."

The average square feet of a new single family home being built in the Midwest increased from 1,540 in 1971 to 2,075 in 1993, according to the U.S. Bureau of Census. Two-car garages or larger were built in 85 percent of new homes in 1993 as compared to only 53 percent of homes in 1971. Airconditioning is installed in 78 percent of new homes vs. 25 percent in 1971 and 2 1/2 baths or more are found in 48 percent of 1993-built homes while only 16 percent of homes built in 1971 had that many baths.

Builders remain concerned about the shortage in the labor supply.

"We're in a growth period now," Compo said. "In fact, the housing market is doing amazingly well. Our labor supply has simply not kept pace with the demand for new home construction."

Residential construction stimulates the economy directly by generating jobs, wages and tax revenues and indirectly as the demand for goods and services created by the construction of new homes "ripples" through the economy.

BASM will sponsor the third annual Spring Home & Garden Show in 1995 at the Novi Expo Center, Feb. 2 - 5; the 77th annual International Builders Home, Flower and Furniture Show at Cobo Conference-Exhibition Center, March 18 - 26; the Parade of Homes throughout southeastern Michigan, March 18 - April 9 and the third annual Fall Remodeling Show at the Novi Expo Center, Sept. 28 - Oct. 1.

Smoke detectors double your chances of survival in a fire

The statistics say it all. Occupants of a home with at least one smoke alarm are twice as likely to survive a fire.

"Smoke detectors provide an early warning which can allow residents to escape before the house is fully engulfed in flames," said Terry Buckles, president of Michigan Association of Insurance Companies (MAIC).

In 1993, the last year for which complete data are available, there were 233 fire-related deaths in Michigan. Almost 40 percent of these occurred in residences where there were no smoke detectors in use. Most victims die from inhalation of smoke and toxic gases, rather than from flames.

Aside from saving lives, smoke detectors reduce fire injuries and help control property losses. It is vital, however, that the devices be properly installed and maintained.

Buckles said smoke alarms should be tested at least once a month to ensure that they are working properly. Under most circumstances it is recommended that batteries be changed annually.

Alarms should be installed on each level of the dwelling. The most important locations are near bedrooms and stairs, in hallways, and in the living room. The units should be affixed to the ceiling at least six inches from the point where it meets the wall.

The state fire marshal's office recommends the use of smoke detectors, rather than heat detectors. The latter respond to a certain temperature; however, smoke alarms detect the visible and invisible products of combustion.

"Normally, there is detectable smoke before there is detectable heat," Buckles said. "Therefore, smoke units almost always provide a faster warning."

Buckles also suggests planning and practicing use of alternate escape routes in case of fire. Also, family members should agree upon a safe place to meet once they are outside the burning structure.

MAIC is a non-profit, public information organization representing 54 property/casualty insurance companies in Michigan. The association sponsors a number of consumer education and information programs.

Home Tips

COOKIE TIP — When I was in a hurry one day, I discovered a shortcut for making peanut butter cookies.

Instead of chilling the dough, I sprayed the palms of my hands with cooking spray to keep the dough from sticking. It worked great!

In addition to being able to bake the cookies immediately, I didn't have to grease the cookie sheet since the cookies already had cooking spray on them. Betty C., Fayetteville, N.C.

EASY ACCESS — I keep a small plastic container filled with one-tablespoon slices of margarine.

When a recipe calls for a tablespoon of margarine, I don't have to fuss with cutting or measuring. I simply take as many slices as I need out of the container. It works wonderfully with no mess. Karen G., S. Euclid, Ohio

PICKLED BEETS — I was recently reading a recipe for sweet dills and it reminded me of something Pve been doing for years.

Save the juice from sweet pickles. Open a can of sliced beets, drain, and add to the jar of sweet pickle juice. Put them in the refrigerator for about 24 hours.

They taste great and last as long as pickles do. They go well with so many things that need a little zing to wake them up. Rosa N., Papillion, Neb.

SHOULDER PAD USE — I take the shoulder pads out of most blouses I buy (they never seem to fit properly).

I put them in my rag bag and use them for cleaning chores. If they get too dirty, I just throw them away; if not, I wash them and back to the rag bag they go.

The shoulder pads with selfgripping fabric tape make good scrubbies. Elisa K., Del Mar, Calif.

TAPE DISPENSER — I was constantly fighting with rolls of tape. The end of the tape would always disappear into the roll, especially on the clear packing-tape roll.

stick a penny on the end of the tape so it doesn't stick to the roll and can be found easily. Roger F., Chicago Heights, Ill.

THOUGHTFUL CALENDAR — A tip that helps make my wheelchair-bound mother's days brighter is a family calendar.

I put the month and day on 365 4x6inch plain index cards. I then divide them equally among family members. Each person in the family wrote a message, quoted a verse of poetry or Scripture or wrote just a short note. The young children even drew pictures.

The cards were all sent back to me and assembled and then put in a holder to let Mom know she is thought of each day.

It was entitled "A Year of Love and Hugs." Mom loves it and looks forward to see what each day's message is.

It helps to make those long days away from the family a little brighter. Emily D., Sunnyside, N.Y.

soap sliver. When bath soap gets to be a sliver, lay it on the new cake when both are wet. Let it sit until the next day and they will adhere. You'll never again waste that sliver! Gina R., Snyder, Texas

HOT WATER BOTTLE — When in need of a cheap hot water bottle, I find you can use any two-liter pop bottle or even a dish soap plastic bottle. However, make sure the top is screwed on tightly and it's wrapped in a thin cloth if it's too hot to the touch. Be sure you don't squeeze it too tightly when using it for the comfortable heat. T.R., Mansfield, Ohio

RACK IT UP — When we bought our new dishwasher, I saved the rack from the old one. I attached it to the wall in my sewing room and use it for spools of thread and bobbins. Fran V.,

FRESH SCENTS — I take the fragrance sample cards that come in magazines and put them between the pad and the cover on my ironing board. When I'm ironing, the heat releases the fragrance and adds a sweet smell to the clothes. Kimberly R., Washington, D.C.

SHOWER FRESHENER — To wipe down shower stalls and walls, I use a little squeegee. Then I hang it backward on the faucet knobs. It's easy and fast. Barbara M., Rochester, N.Y.

SODA CLEANER — I had ugly black scuff marks on my kitchen floor and I couldn't remove them. My mother showed me how to use baking soda to do the job: Use a damp cloth to pick up the baking soda, then rub the cloth and baking soda on the area. The scuff marks disappear in minutes. Julie V., Fort Myers, Fla.
