

Shores awards sewer separation bid to Ric-Man Construction Inc.

By Chip Chapman
Staff Writer

"Sixteen months from now, this will be a different community," said Grosse Pointe Shores village manager Michael Kenyon after the Shores council voted unanimously to accept a $2.9 million bid to separate the village's sewer and storm water systems. "We're on top of the ball."

The bid, the lowest of 18 received, was awarded to Ric-Man Construction Inc. of Sterling Heights. Last May, by a 10-to-1 margin, Shores voters approved a $2.7 million bond issue to separate the village's sewage and storm water systems.

The Shores will pay $2,748,219 for the work and the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club will chip in $172,328 for its share of the project.

Work should get under way in April beginning at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club.

"This will divert the water from their parking lot into the lake," Kenyon said. "It will also allow the Shores more time to earn interest on the bond money."

Toward the end of April, work is scheduled to start north of Vernier along Lakeshore. Once the storm sewer line along Lakeshore is in place, streets north of Vernier will be tied into the Lakeshore line.

In the late summer or early fall of 1996, work will be done on three streets south of Vernier — Oxford, Lakeshore Lane and Shoreham — along with any road repairs associated with the project. The entire project is scheduled to be completed by 1997.

"(Ric-Man Construction) is an experienced underground contractor and has successfully completed a number of major projects designed by this office," said Thomas E. Biehl, executive vice president of Hubbell, Roth &

Clark Inc., consulting engineers for the Shores in a letter to the village, "including most recently the Minnow Pond drain project in the city of Farmington Hills, a $5 million storm drain."

Separating the two systems accomplishes two main objectives — complying with possible changes in Department of Natural Resources

WE'RE CONCERNED ABOUT YESTERDAY'S NEWS.

News can appear one day and be gone the next. But the paper news is printed on can and should live on.

Last year, more than one third of all U.S. newsprint was recycled. And that number is growing every day.

Recycling is the one way we can all give something back.

"This is purely political," said Wayne County commissioner Andrew Richner referring to county executive Ed McNamara's Feb. 14 letter to residents in Richner's district. "...after reading one day's newspaper where county commissioner Andrew Richner made phony charges that I was trying to keep buses from Metro Airport and then reading the next day's paper where Mr. Richner tried to portray himself as an opponent of pay raises, I decided a reality check was long overdue," McNamara said in the letter.

But it's McNamara, Richner said, who needs the reality check.

"The facts speak for themselves," Richner said, mentioning the Jan. 19 Detroit Free Press article about bus service to which McNamara was referring.

The subject of the Free Press article was the fact that SMART buses were not allowed to take passengers to the terminals at Metro Airport.

Passengers riding SMART buses are dropped off at a kiosk a mile away from the terminal. There, they can pick up a free shuttle to the terminals. SMART riders cannot be taken all the way to the terminals because, in 1995, Wayne County officials gave Commuter Transportation Co. exclusive rights to take bus passengers to the terminals.

Richner said in the article that "not having public transportation at a public airport is nonsense."

In his letter to Richner's constituents, McNamara said, "before the first article ever appeared, SMART and county officials had settled the matter, and with no help from commissioner Richner. Here's what really happened: Following the successful millage vote last May, SMART connected six different routes to Metro Airport, effective last December. Then in January 1996, we revised a 10-year-old vendor contract (with Commuter Transportation Co.) signed by my predecessor (former county executive Bill Lucas) so that SMART can service Metro."

However, the Free Press article quoted deputy airport director Steve Economy who said at the time there were no immediate plans to allow SMART buses to drive to the terminals.

"Right now we don't have any more room at the terminals," he said in the article.

"I checked with the Free Press and they stand by their story," Richner said. "McNamara is accusing me and the Free Press of lying. He sends a letter to my constituents, but he won't write a letter to the Free Press doing the same."

David Migoya, the Free Press staff writer who wrote the Jan. 19 article, said a letter was sent by the county executive's office to the Free Press and was published which disputed some of the facts in the article. However, Migoya stands by his story.

"If the buses were going to start going to the terminals, why didn't anyone at the airport know about it?" Migoya asked. "Why didn't anyone at SMART, the county commissioners or the bus drivers know about it?"

Richner said he never tried to claim credit for helping change the contract to allow SMART buses to go all the way to the terminals. "I just was concerned about public transportation to the airport and why we didn't have it for 10 years," he said.

Greg Theokas, the eastside representative to the Wayne County Transit Authority (WCTA), spoke with county deputy executive and then-SMART interim general manager and deputy county executive Mike Duggan on Jan. 9 at a WCTA meeting, 10 days before the Free Press article appeared.

"Duggan told me that provisions in the (Commuter Transportation Co.) contract prohibit SMART service to the terminals and that there was nothing in the works to change it," Theokas said.

McNamara's letter also charged that Richner tried to shut down SMART service in Grosse Pointe, "first voting against putting a millage question before the voters, and then urging Grosse Pointe communities to opt out of SMART service." McNamara credits Woods Mayor Robert Novitke for pulling "local officials together and negotiated an

(DNR) regulations by not discharging raw sewage into the lake and reducing the price the Shores pays to Detroit for sewage treatment. (The Shores presently has a DNR permit to discharge combined sewage overflows into the lake.)

The Detroit treatment plant can process only so much waste at a time. With a combined sewage system (which the Shores currently has), during heavy rains storm water is added to raw sewage and can exceed what the Detroit plant can handle. The excess storm and raw waste, combined sewage overflow, is then emitted into Lake St. Clair through four outfalls along Lakeshore. A separated system will allow rain water to flow directly to the outfalls and into the lake while only raw sewage will be sent to the Detroit plant. Cost savings will be realized by not sending storm water to Detroit to be treated.

Sewer repairs and maintenance take roughly $450,000 out of the Shores' general fund budget each year, Kenyon said.

"This project should save us some of that money," he said.

The number of crimes reported in Grosse Pointe Farms last year increased slightly over 1994, but overall the statistics remain consistent with previous years. The major offenses — or part one crimes, as classified by the FBI — increased slightly in the Farms last year, particularly the number of robberies and car thefts.

The part two crimes, the less violent or property crimes, which account for 94.8 percent of all crimes reported in the Farms, also increased slightly in 1995.

Each year law enforcement agencies compile their annual crime statistics to report to their city councils and to be submitted to the FBI for inclusion in its Uniform Crime Report. All numbers reflect both attempts and actual incidents.

"The crimes of violence, especially robbery, have gone up all over the Pointes," said Farms public safety director Robert Ferber. "The burglary numbers are artificially low and unfortunately, they won't hold. Although all the Pointe (public safety) departments do an excellent job working in unison and exchanging information and we all participate in the apprehension of perpetrators of crime."

In 1995, the number of robbery and auto theft incidents doubled. Burglaries were down by 10 incidents from 1994.

"Last year was a good year in the Farms and around the Pointes. We have changes every year in the categories and in the total numbers, but overall, the numbers are still low," Ferber said. "The only thing that stands out in my mind is we had a couple of big fires. But, there was a lot of good police work and a lot of good arrests."

Richner

agreement that brought the Pointes back into the SMART system."

That is not exactly the way it happened, according to Theokas.

"Both commissioner Richner and Grosse Pointe Woods Mayor Robert Novitke played key roles in amending the county executive's original transit authority package and assuring a rational solution to SMART's problems.

"For example, Mayor Novitke and other Grosse Pointe officials strongly opposed the proposed 5-mill tax authorization for the transit authority. In response, commissioner Richner and commissioner Thaddeus McCotter (of Livonia) co-sponsored and obtained passage of an amendment that reduced the tax authorization of the transit authority from 5 mills to 1/3 of a mill — 15 times less than the original proposal."

Novitke said he was aware that Richner alone was claiming responsibility for Grosse Pointe officials coming together on the SMART issue, as McNamara contended in the letter.

"It was a concerted effort among a number of people — Andy Richner, the mayors and the city councils. I'm the one who spoke with Duggan, but with direction from other people. It shouldn't be portrayed as Bob Novitke saving SMART for the Pointes."

In addition to SMART bus service to the airport terminals and the SMART millage vote last May, in his letter McNamara raised the issue of pay raises for county officials.

"The final straw that prompted this letter was when I saw Mr. Richner trying to take credit for voting against recent pay raises for elected officials," McNamara wrote. "It was this same Mr. Richner who, one year ago, on Feb. 16, 1995, quietly passed an ordinance to make it much easier to get his pay raise...Mr. Richner successfully authored and passed County Ordinance 95-74 making it impossible to reject a pay raise without the agreement of two-thirds of the commission. Since it would be nearly impossible to persuade 10 out of 15 commissioners to vote against their own pay raise, Mr. Richner's ordinance made elected officials' pay raises almost automatic."

"I'm happy he brought this up," Richner said, "because the record needs to be set straight."

In 1989, County Ordinance 89-951 provided for automatic pay raises. Whenever the governor received a pay raise, the Wayne County executive, commissioners and other county officials would also receive a pay increase, calculated as a certain percentage of the governor's salary.

For example, the county executive's salary is 97 percent of the governor's salary and a county commissioner's salary is 40 percent, according to this ordinance.

"This was introduced by Bernard Kilpatrick, who was a county commissioner in 1989 and is now a member of McNamara's staff, making more than $100,000 a year," Richner said. "On Dec. 15, 1994, I introduced an amendment that there has to be a vote on pay increases, to put the commissioners' votes on record. The language was later changed by commissioner Arthur Blackwell to say that a two-thirds vote was necessary to reject a pay raise. I only said that there should be a vote, that pay raises shouldn't be automatic."

McNamara's Feb. 14 letter to eastside residents is not the first time he has gone straight to constituents with charges against a county commissioner.

On Jan. 22, he sent a letter to residents in downriver communities responding to their county commissioner, Bill O'Neil. McNamara had not liked what he had read in the Free Press regarding county audits of airports and other county operations. A response letter was also sent to the Free Press by Duggan.

McNamara's letter to eastside residents begins: "The last couple years, many of my friends have been advising me to answer directly when false charges are made against me." It ends: "From now on, I hope you don't mind if I communicate with you directly to let you know my side of the story."

His letter to downriver residents reads: "In the last couple years, I've gotten frequent advice from those I consider my friends that I don't do a good job of responding to false attacks on me or my administration."

This letter ends: "I just didn't want this attack on my integrity to go by without taking a minute to write you and set the record straight."

McNamara writes these letters, Richner said, because he knows county commissioners do not have the means to respond to them.

The letter to eastside residents contains the words: "Not printed at taxpayer expense" on the letter and envelope.

"There are questions about what taxpayers paid for and didn't pay for," Richner said. "He mentions my candidacy for state representative and campaign financing law states that 'a billboard, placard, poster, pamphlet or other printed matter having reference to an election, candidate or ballot question shall bear upon it the name and address of the person paying for the matter.'"

"He probably spent between $7,000 and $8,000, not including staff time, to mail these to residents in the Pointes and Harper Woods."

Richner doesn't believe McNamara's letter will hurt the support Richner has on the eastside.

"He underestimates the constituency of the eastside," Richner said. "We have a well-educated constituency who sees through the gutter tactics that might work elsewhere."

"Twice, I have told the voters what I stand for. And twice I have been elected. I believe I have done what I said I would do. Ed McNamara just doesn't like my agenda."

Woods woman has patients for career

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

Madelyn Kleitch wears many hats: She's a registered nurse. She sells real estate. She's a single mother of a high-school-age son. She's a patient advocate and volunteer.

The Grosse Pointe Woods resident said she has always had an overwhelming desire to learn as much as she can about as many things as possible, and is fueled by the need to help others.

"I am an advocate for all human beings," she said. "Everyone, regardless of his or her station in life, deserves respect. People get angry when they are ignored. We all deserve to be listened to."

In a thick three-ring binder she keeps copies of her accomplishments, her credentials, her memberships and certifications, and letters from families of patients she has helped. In addition to her professional accomplishments, Kleitch also is a certified wine taster, has won a blue ribbon at the Michigan State Fair for one of her recipes and is a member of the Kiwanis Club and the American Red Cross disaster team.

"I like to know about things," she said. "But I don't need to be an expert."

While the Dearborn native has spent the second half of her life helping others, the first part was spent on the other side of the equation.

By the time she was 10 years old, Kleitch's mother, father and one of her two older brothers were dead. She was raised by her surviving brother and his wife. Following high school graduation, Kleitch enlisted in the U.S. Army and worked as an X-ray technician.

After her military service ended, she earned an associate's degree in culinary arts, got married and had a child. When her marriage ended, she found herself a single mother who needed to make ends meet.

A neighbor, who was a pediatric nurse at Children's Hospital of Michigan, suggested she go to nursing school. Kleitch said she scoffed at the suggestion, but her neighbor insisted that Kleitch had the qualities necessary to become a nurse.

When her neighbor took up a collection around the neighborhood and presented her with enough money to pay for her first semester, Kleitch decided to apply at Henry Ford Community College.

She earned an associate's degree in nursing and promptly paid back her neighbor.

"If not for her, I would not have gone back to school," she said. "It was the best thing that ever happened to me. I have been able to make a career for myself and a life for my son and I didn't have to beg."

She worked as a nurse at Henry Ford Hospital for 4 1/2 years, in the medical/surgical and intensive care units.

"I realized I didn't like to work for others," she said. "I am a leader and I can't follow someone who can't lead. That's why I got into home care, private care and advocacy work."

Having had plenty of experience dealing with death on a personal as well as professional level, Kleitch felt she should help people who are faced with a medical crisis — when family members are thrust into a situation where they have to make big decisions in a short amount of time — and don't really understand what is going on.

"In a hospital setting, doctors and nurses are telling you what your choices are; most people don't understand this foreign language," she said.

Kleitch is referred to clients on a word-of-mouth basis and will act as an interpreter for the families. She will explain to them what is going on and what their choices are. They, not she, are the leaders, she said.

"I help them do the dance of death as gently as possible," she said. "I say 'I'll be married' to them until whatever happens happens, whether it be that the patient gets back to good health or dies. But, I tell people up front, don't hang on me like a board in the middle of the ocean, they need to be able to take care of themselves when this is over."

Kleitch said she got her real estate license and joined some civic organizations because she also needed to spend more time with "upright" healthy people.

And as if Kleitch isn't busy enough, she and her son also cleaned up a five-acre piece of property near Lexington that had evolved from a farm to a dump.

The property is owned by her family, but had been left unattended for many years.

When she visited it, she was shocked to find that squatters had taken over and had turned it into a junkyard.

After taking the matter to court, Kleitch and her son cleared out more than 300 tires, 40 vehicles and a ton of miscellaneous trash.

All the items were taken to a legitimate county-operated landfill.

"To this day my son hates to see anyone throw trash on the ground," she said.

Park approves CDBG funds for 1996

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

It's pretty much more of the same for Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) spending in Grosse Pointe Park for 1996.

On Monday night the Park city council approved the spending $96,480 on various CDBG projects for the year.

The money will be divided among three projects — improvements to city hall,

Services for Older Citizens and the Pointe Area Assisted Transportation Service.

Park city manager Dale Krajniak said CDBG is administered by Wayne County. The money comes from the federal government, and is distributed to local communities based on population.

The renovations to city hall are meant to bring the new building in compliance with the recently enacted federal Americans with Disabilities Act. The money will go toward providing wheelchair access to the top floors of the building, said Krajniak. This is the lion's share of the CDBG funding, $72,480.

The money approved for SOC, $14,000, will go toward SOC's minor home repair and its informational referral service programs.

PAATS will receive $10,000 for its program, which provides transportation service for senior citizens.

THE GROSSE POINTE PUBLIC SCHOOL SYSTEM NOTICE OF AVAILABILITY OF NOMINATING PETITIONS FOR BOARD OF EDUCATION

THE ANNUAL ELECTION of the School District will be held on Monday, June 10, 1996. Two members of the Board of Education will be elected for a term of (4) years (July 1, 1996 - June 30, 2000).

Park firefighters were called to put out a pump fire at a gas station in the 15300 block of Jefferson on Wednesday, Feb. 21.

Apparently the fire started after a 69-year-old Detroit resident forgot to remove the gasoline nozzle from his car. He drove off, pulling the pump off its mount and starting a fire.

The fire spread from the pump to the pipe leading to the underground tank. Quick thinking employees shut down the pumps and used a fire extinguisher to put out the fire in the pipe.

Fire engine crew #1 put out the fire in the pump. No injuries were reported. A hazardous materials assessment showed no contamination risk.

Phone thieves disconnected

Grosse Pointe Park public safety officers were on hand Thursday, Feb. 22, to arrest three suspect in a van seen driving away from crime scenes in Grosse Pointe Farms and Grosse Pointe Woods.

At about 12:20 p.m. Park public safety officers received a radio report telling them to be on the lookout for a van believed to have been used to help steal cell telephones from cars parked in the Woods and Farms.

The report said that an unmarked car was following the van and it was heading west.

A patrol officer saw the van on Charlevoix, and after following the vehicle, the officer stopped it and took the driver and two passengers into custody.

After a brief interrogation, the suspects were handed over to Farms and Woods officers. They were arraigned in Woods municipal court and are free on $1,000 personal bond pending a preliminary hearing on two counts of breaking and entering into a motor vehicle.

Partyers caught

Grosse Pointe Woods police, responding to a report of a loud party on Feb. 23, found at least 25 juveniles, along with beer and alcohol, suspected marijuana and an empty cylinder suspected to have contained nitrous oxide, hidden in the basement of a house in the 19000 block of Holiday.

The 17-year-old man hosting the party told police that his parents were out of town. After obtaining permission to look around the house, police found at least three cases of empty beer cans and bottles; detected the odor of burning marijuana, but did not locate the controlled substance or its paraphernalia; confiscated a cylinder believed to have contained nitrous oxide; and poured out several bottles of liquor.

The juveniles were taken to the police station and turned over to their parents, who were called and informed of the incident. The party host was turned over to his grandmother who lives in Eastpointe and said she did not give him permission to go to his parents' house. He was issued a citation for having a disorderly and loud house party and is scheduled to appear in Woods municipal court on April 24.

Was he or wasn't he?

After a Grosse Pointe Woods patrol officer stopped the driver of a burgundy-colored Chevrolet Caprice speeding on Mack on Feb. 23, and found a loaded 40-caliber Glock handgun in his car, he wondered for a moment: Is this guy a cop?

The man, a 29-year-old Detroit resident, said no; he said he was a businessman and had a concealed weapon permit, although he wasn't able to produce the paperwork.

The driver was spotted by the patrol officer heading north on Mack near Colonial Court, and minutes later, spotted again heading south on Mack, both times traveling well over the posted 35 mph speed limit.

With a Woods patrol car in pursuit, the driver continued speeding on Mack and didn't stop until he reached Detroit city limits. He was issued citations for reckless driving and fleeing and eluding a police officer. His car was impounded and towed and he was released on $100 bond. Woods detectives have referred to case to the Wayne County prosecutor's office for consideration of additional charges.

Woman robbed at Mack plaza

A 47-year-old Oxford woman was robbed and assaulted in front of Mack Plaza at 7:20 a.m. Feb. 22.

The woman said she had just parked her car in the parking structure overlooking the shopping center and was crossing the roadway when she saw two men approaching her. As she reached the doorway to the plaza, one of the men brandished a semi-automatic pistol and held it near his waist.

The woman screamed and the man with the pistol raised his weapon and struck her on the right side of her face, breaking her jaw and six of her teeth. She then handed him her backpack containing money, identification and other items. The woman screamed again and the man raised the pistol and pointed it at her face.

When the two robbers were out of sight, the woman ran into the shopping center, reported the incident to a security guard and was taken to St. John Hospital for treatment of her injuries.

Woman linked to purse theft

Employees at St. Paul Catholic School and the Grosse Pointe Academy reported on Feb. 22 a suspicious woman in an older model gold Cadillac who may be responsible for the theft of a purse at the academy's early school.

The woman is described as being in her mid-20s, wearing a Charlotte Hornet's jacket and a knit cap. She was last seen in the Cadillac, which had a lot of rust and a loud muffler.

The woman whose purse was taken told police that she encountered the woman around 7 a.m. in the vestibule of the early school building and asked her what she was doing.

The woman said she was there to observe a teacher's classroom, but then said she wanted to leave a note for the teacher in the principal's office.

After going to the principals' office, the woman left the building. Twenty minutes later, the early school principal ran into the woman outside the building and asked her if she needed help. The woman said she had already taken care of what she came to do and left.

Forty five minutes after that, the teacher went to get her purse and found it missing. An employee at St. Paul's, which is right next door to the academy, said she also saw the woman with the gold Cadillac, in a classroom and in the principal's office. She said she saw a young girl in the Cadillac, along with the woman.

When the woman whose purse was stolen went to her bank to report the loss, she learned that a $200 check had already been written and cashed against her account at a McNichols and Davidson branch of her bank. Police are investigating the incident.

Parenting a child creatively

By Victor Bloom, MD
Psychiatrist/Psychotherapist
Grosse Pointe Park
(This is the third and last of a series of columns on parenting.)

The preschool child is 3 to 5 years of age. If he or she is not yet toilet-trained, the social pressures of the preschool would encourage efforts in this direction.

The present tendency to postpone toilet training is the result of many overly permissive tracts on child-care and is facilitated by modern diaper technology. It is simply too easy for caregivers to discard disposable diapers. If the caregiver had to launder diapers, there would be motivation for getting the child to use the potty earlier.

At 3 years of age, most children are ready to be toilet trained. The child may be encouraged to sit on the potty for a significant length of time if the parent would read the child a story or show an appropriate child video. The child should be praised for sitting on the potty and rewarded for depositing something there.

This is called positive reinforcement, and it is more effective than scolding, disapproval and punishment. It is OK to say "yuk" about a messy diaper, making sure to differentiate for the child which is the mess. It is not good for the child to get the feeling that he or she is disgusting or repugnant, but the beginning of health and hygiene is to teach the child what is clean and what is dirty.

Your child will be more socially approved at the preschool nursery if he or she does not require many diaper changes. Of course there will be accidents at this age, but they should not be treated harshly. Rather, the child should be directed repeatedly to the potty. Eventually, they will get the message and it will be the first of many concessions toward polite society.

Delaying toilet training excessively transmits the message that the parents do not care about conformity to the expectations of society and opens the door to being an exception and breaking the rules.

Every child is unique and an individual, but personal freedom can be carried too far. There has to be a balance between freedom and self-control. The creative task for each parent is to find the ideal balance for that child, in the context of that family, in the context of a larger community.

Similarly, a child of this age should be taught table manners. It is no longer appropriate or cute for a 3- or 4-year-old to play with his or her food, to bang the utensils on the plate, to drop or throw food.

Preschoolers need to be taught to consider the feelings and requirements of others. They should be taught not to hit or take another child's toy. They will do these things, of course, but they should be taught the difference between right and wrong.

This is the time when good lessons will be imprinted and carried out throughout life. They should be encouraged to cooperate and conform to group activities, which may be singing or dancing or in gymnastics, running and jumping and climbing.

This is the transition of the child to the larger outside world, and the teacher is a parent-surrogate, an adult with authority. I think it is useful to get your child to respect other adults and those in authority.

Often the child will look to the parent for guidance, and the parent should tell the child, "do what the teacher says." Otherwise, the pattern will develop that the child will resist learning and education, much to the child's detriment.

The child does not know better than the teacher and will get along better if he or she follows orders. There is plenty of time later to "question authority."

This is also a time when a child is particularly prone to become imprinted by television. I cannot stress too strongly that this should be prevented.

There is too much eye-catching manipulation on television, and you don't want your child to get every toy advertised on TV.

There are some good programs for children, and those involve the basics of learning and socialization. It would not be excessive to suggest that the preschooler not watch more than one hour of TV a day.

This is a good time to reinforce the preschool exposure to letters and numbers, shapes and colors and, especially, storytelling at home. The day from morning to night is full of opportunities to teach words and concepts, and answer their endless questions as much as possible.

They should have wholesome food and a regular schedule which includes a nap. It is good to have an evening ritual which includes dinner, a bath, a story and then to bed.

If it is early enough, the parents have a few hours to themselves for adult talk and recreation, which are necessary. Otherwise the parents get burnt out, and that is not good for anybody.

The preschool years can be hectic and difficult, but they are mostly joyful. They are full of precious moments which should not be overlooked. In a flash, the years go by and your children are not babies anymore.

TV broadcasting of Grosse Pointe school board meetings, the old way: One video camera balanced on top of a stack of books on a desk at the back of the library. What you got: One stationary shot of the board table — for the duration of the meeting.

School board meetings on television, the new way: A 10-person crew of instructional television students at Grosse Pointe South High School, three professional quality cameras strategically placed in the Wicking Library, and an electronic field production truck parked outside and from which the students are running the show.

"We are hoping that more and more people will be watching us now," said board trustee Cindy Pangborn, who is relieved that the meetings are now being taped by those with some professional training. (It was Pangborn's camera that sat atop the books.)

"I am so excited about this," she said. "Before you couldn't see or hear everything going on; (the production) was of such poor quality. I had been taping it for the last three years and have been doing everything I can to get this to come to fruition."

The instructional television studio at South received its much-anticipated mobile TV production van last December after the school board last fall accepted a $41,000 bid from Roy O'Brien Ford. The truck was then outfitted with the necessary mobile production equipment, a generator, a heating and cooling system, and the outside was painted, identifying the unit as being from "WGPS Channel 6, Grosse Pointe Public School System."

Since taking delivery of the new vehicle, the instructional television students have broadcast the Feb. 12 school board meeting and the Feb. 23 South varsity basketball game against Fraser High School.

The program is under the direction of TV broadcast instructors Julie Corbett and Bob Hertel and technician Rob Skuras. "Everything we can do here in the studio we can now do anywhere," said student Todd Graham. "In a matter of minutes we can grab some cable and cameras and go anywhere. In the past, we would spend hours setting up and getting everything together."

Pointe songbirds flying south for prestigious national contest

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

The Grosse Pointe South Pointe Singers are rehearsing for a really big show.

The choral ensemble of South juniors and seniors will perform on March 22 in the prestigious Showstoppers International Invitational at Epcot Center in Disneyworld. They will be among 15 high school groups from around the country competing and the first-ever group from Michigan to enter the competition.

"The Pointe Singers have never done anything like this before," said Ellen Bowen, director of choral activities at South. "You have to win a regional competition first in order to be considered."

The Pointe Singers won a five-state regional competition held recently in Indianapolis, and then submitted a videotape of the ensemble's last three seasons.

The vocal group will perform selected vignettes from Cole Porter's musical "Anything Goes," Bowen said, including "Bon Voyage," "D-Lovely" and "You're the Top." Solos will be performed by Craig Wilson, a senior, and the son of Donna and Phil Wilson of the City of Grosse Pointe, and Jack Tocco, a junior, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Vito Tocco of Grosse Pointe Park.

Six ensembles will be selected to perform in the final round. If the Pointe Singers win the final round, they receive a trophy and have a prestigious award to include on their resumes. It is, in a way, Disney's way of recruiting, she said.

"It's a national honor," Bowen said. "Even if they don't win, it's an honor to be chosen to perform."

The Pointe Singers is the top choral group at South, with members chosen through auditions. They have been state finalists every year for the last eight years, Bowen said, and came in fourth in the state in last year's finals.

"Some of the groups competing are specifically show groups and some are after-school groups," she said. "At South, it's a class as well as an after-school group, making it a co-curricular activity. We have put in countless hours of rehearsal."

In order to prepare for their performance, Bowen said the school has brought in Andy Haines, a choreographer from the Washington, D.C., opera company, and have technical designer Dan Vickery building the props.

A sneak preview of their performance will be held on Tuesday, March 5, at 7:30 p.m. in the Grosse Pointe Performing Arts Center at North high, 707 Vernier, Grosse Pointe Woods.

Tickets are $12.50 for reserved seating; $8 for general admission; and $5 for seniors and students. Proceeds will go toward travel expenses to the Epcot Center.

Into the Woods

The University Liggett School department of creative and performing arts presents the award-winning Sondheim musical "Into the Woods," Thursday, March 7 through Sunday, March 10. Show times are 7:30 p.m. March 7-9, and 2 p.m. March 10. Reserved seats are $10; general admission is $4. For more information, call (313) 884-4444.

Gloria

The University Liggett School upper school chorale will perform Vivaldi's "Gloria" at 2 p.m., Sunday, March 3, at the First Evangelical Lutheran Church, 800 Vernier, Grosse Pointe Woods. Under the direction of James F. Hohmeyer, the ULS Chorale will be joined by choirs of the Roper School and Royal Oak Shrine High School.

ence with television production, operating the former educational local channel 20 (before the recent cable upgrade changed it to Channel 6) out of their studio in the basement of the industrial arts building at South. ## It's live one thing to shoot something in class and have the buffer zone of having it on tape. With it being live, it has to come together and it has to be right. It's tough to perform under pressure."

Fellow classmate Michael DeCorte agreed. "It's a little more stressful doing something more important than sports - which is the only other thing we have done live. This is something that involves the whole community. We have to make sure we are doing our best."

"There is a greater amount of pressure," Graham said. "We now have this great new truck and we have to show everyone what we can do with it. Before, if something went wrong, we could blame it on the equipment. Now, if something goes wrong, it's hard for us to place blame. We have to be on our best behavior. I think we are taking our production skills to the next level."

School board members along with district administrators have been discussing and exploring the possibility of broadcasting board meetings.

But until the TV truck and equipment became a reality, the other options available were deemed unsuitable. The board had discussed having the students lug all the studio equipment from the IA building on one side of the campus to the Wicking Library, which is on the opposite end of the building. That would be too rough on the equipment, Corbett had told the board at the time.

Another option was to conduct the meetings in the instructional TV studio, but district administrators felt there wasn't enough room for audience members or easy access for persons with handicaps.

"They (the students) were very unobtrusive," said Carl Anderson, school board president. "But, I haven't heard anything about the broadcast and I haven't seen it. I live in the Woods and we haven't gotten our cable upgrade yet. So, maybe others have missed it as well."

Eight students qualified for the state DECA competition March 15-17 at the Hyatt Regency in Dearborn. The South finalists were among the 200 students who competed in three events: competency, occupation and participatory (role playing).

Students qualifying were: Dave DeGutis, Rob Euashka, Matt Isbell, Courtney Krueger, Andrew Lian, Jay Lytle, Aubrey Moir and Jason Trombley. Pat Kelley and Kent Scheiwe also earned medals. Carrie Geer and Meghan Lamont also competed in the event.

Three students from St. Clare of Montefalco School in Grosse Pointe Park have been named local winners in the 27th annual America & Me Essay Contest sponsored by Farm Bureau Insurance.

Survey
The Grosse Pointe Public School System is currently studying its curriculum and instruction in language arts/English K-12. It is interested in receiving feedback from high school graduates of Grosse Pointe North and South high schools, classes of 1993-95, on the experiences they had in language arts preparation, particularly in reading, writing, researching and making oral presentations.

The curriculum and evaluation department is conducting the survey over the Internet. The on-line questionnaire is brief and succinct; it asks 12 questions.

Parents of recent North or South graduates who are away at college are asked to help by sending the student's Internet address to Marjorie S. Parsons at 389 St. Clair, Grosse Pointe, Mich. 48230; or call (313) 343-2024; or e-mail CURREV@GPS.GP.K12.MI.U

AIR APPARENT
By simply paying close and regular attention to tire inflation, car owners can prolong tire life and improve the handling quality of their cars. If tires are overinflated, they will tend to wear out prematurely and unevenly in the middle of the tread. As a result, the car will ride roughly. Overinflated tires are also more prone to picking up sharp objects that can cause a slow leak or blowout. On the other side of the ledger, underinflated tires tend to wear more rapidly on the outside of the tread, as well as hamper fuel economy. They also heat up more rapidly and cause sloppy handling by failing to grip the road properly. Tire inflation should be checked monthly with a gauge. It is not possible to estimate how much air is in tires merely by looking.

Don't wear your tires out prematurely by driving your car with insufficient pressure. At RINKE TOYOTA, we will set up maintenance for your car as part of the service we provide for our customers. # Cafes lend continental touch to auto shows

The fragrance from the cappuccino was so enticing. So were the trays of biscotti, bowls of fruit and displays of iced fruit drinks.

The little bistro was crowded, and for good reason. Not only was there plenty of the above — and sandwiches, too, but it was free. In some instances, free for the price of a story. For many, just plain free.

The scene was the Chrysler Cafe in the midst of the corporation's finest hardware at the North American International Auto Show in Detroit last month. It was Friday, the last of several press preview days and the annual industry supplier day. The show floor was alive with enthusiastic-looking men and women whose companies feed the auto makers with everything they need: from door hinges to publicity.

Inside and around the cafe, people were just feeding their faces. The two-tier display piece was new for the Detroit show. A similar display sat 2,500 miles to the west at the Los Angeles auto show. But in LA there was only room for a one-story module. Same is true at Chicago's McCormick Place this year.

Special refreshment centers and places for conducting business or interviews, or just plain schmoozing, are beginning to take hold at the bigger North American auto shows. In Detroit, Mercedes-Benz, BMW, Volkswagen, Cadillac, Buick and Chrysler had sites where customers could get sparkling water, tea and cakes, a glass of wine or some special marketing attention.

As it turned out, the Chrysler Cafe was transformed into an information center for the public days following the Charity Preview. TV monitors replaced the cappuccino machines and fruit bowls. In groups of 10, visitors could visit the second level where they were shown how to get product information — prices, options, models — electronically from Chrysler's World Wide Web site on the Internet. There was food for thought, but nothing for the belly.

The idea of sophisticated show hospitality, the kind with fresh espresso or chilled Piesporter and something to nibble, seems to have originated in Europe. Bill Black is an executive with George P. Johnson Co., the Oakland County-based international display builder with offices in Chicago, Los Angeles and Frankfurt, Germany. He said this customer perk appears to be a very important aspect of European marketing plans.

"They put a lot more emphasis on shows," said Black. George P. Johnson built the Chrysler Cafe which debuted in Detroit, and its shorter (one-story) version which bowed in Los Angeles.

Chrysler spokesmen stressed the information aspect of their attractive center. Even while reporters were chomping and sipping, they could conduct interviews with company personnel. Volkswagen of America seemed unashamed of the gustatory nature of its pre-show hospitality. While the VW display came from a previous engagement at last fall's Tokyo auto show, the cooks were imported from Germany, a VW spokeswoman said.

VW's menu for journalists and suppliers ran the gamut from fresh soft pretzels to stuffed pork chops, wine soup, trout, red cabbage and sweet, thick waffles. There were German-recipe plum tarts, hot beverages and good German wines and beers.

"It would be cost-prohibitive to serve this to the public," she said.

On the north wall of the Detroit's Cobo Center, BMW offered a second-level VIP lounge during press days. It served as office space and a mini refreshment center for selected customers during the show itself. Some show visitors were invited on the spot, she said. Most received printed invitations in the mail.

Influenced by the continental (German) origin of its new 1997 Catera, Cadillac arranged for a special lounge for likely sales prospects at the Detroit auto show. It was Cadillac's first hospitality center during public days at the show.

"We decided we wanted to have a European flavor to our display and to highlight the new Catera," said Doug Comb, assistant branch manager, marketing, for Catera. "That led to our second-level lounge. There, away from the noise and traffic of the show, prospective buyers could spend more time getting to know the product."

Cadillac sent out about 10,000 invitations in advance to current owners and potential buyers. "We were hoping for maybe 500 positive responses," Comb said. "We actually had about 1,500."

Comb was particularly pleased because luxury car buyers aren't always auto show buffs. "Some who came to the Cadillac lounge said they would not have attended the show if it weren't for our invitation," he said.

The U.S. Postal Service also helped Buick round up customers and potential buyers to visit its new display in Detroit. Buick invited them to stop by and see its 1997 products. A second tier at the display provided a place to talk away from the crowded show floor, said Mary Roberts, of Buick's communications staff. As far as she knew, only sparkling water was available to those who made it upstairs. During the press days it was the site of luncheons and internal meetings.

Roberts said there wasn't room for this type of display for this year's Chicago auto show in the present McCormick Place.

Another problem in Chicago is the short move-in time allotted, said Pat Keegan, director of merchandising and special events for Chrysler Corp. These larger displays take longer to assemble. Keegan was involved in the final design of what became the Chrysler Cafe. Working with George P. Johnson, he and the Johnson staff developed "four or five iterations" of the display before settling on the final one. This is Chrysler's first one with "decking," or a second level, he said.

"We looked at all our competitors' exhibits at shows in Frankfurt, Paris, Tokyo and Geneva," Keegan said. Some of the luxury car makers had obviously spent far more than Chrysler intended to invest — "tens of millions of dollars, I'd guess," he said, deftly sidestepping the question about the final cost of Chrysler's new displays.

Mercedes-Benz reportedly had a seven-story display at the Frankfurt auto show last fall. In Detroit, it was pared to a good-size ground-level section filled with vehicles including the charming, rounded AAV sport utility. On three sides of the area on a second level, black tables of various sizes were decorated with glass vases filled with fresh flowers. Enclosed cases displayed M-B mementos, including a Mercedes necktie. A long bar-buffet along one side was serving hot drinks, real drinks, rich-looking layer cakes and veggies and dip.

During the public days, entry to the second level was by invitation only, said Mercedes spokesman Chuck Johnsen. Invites who forgot theirs could show a car key and get in, he said. Plans were in motion for some kind of customer hospitality in Chicago. Then, the third week in January, it was decided it was more important to devote the limited floor space to product. "We have the AAV and three sport cars to display," Johnsen said. "Mercedes has 10 new cars coming in the next three years."

Many veterans are unaware they qualify for benefits

Although over $42 billion was paid out in veterans benefits last year, billions more went unclaimed in the past few years.

Every year, eligibility for benefits and the array of available benefits are changed and very few veterans or their survivors keep up with the latest rules.

Because of this, and changes in their circumstances, many veterans, their families and survivors are now entitled to money and other benefits from the government even though they were not eligible in the past.

A study group of the Consumer Education Research Center, a 25-year-old national nonprofit consumer group found that over one-fourth of the money paid in veterans benefits goes to persons who never served in the armed forces of the United States. Most of these were related by blood or marriage to veterans but many were not.

Others were members of the armed forces of countries who fought with us against our enemies.

Each year the center compiles a book describing the latest rules on available benefits and how to qualify for those benefits. The 240-page "Complete Guide to Federal and State Benefits for Veterans, Their Families and Survivors," with a foreword by Sen. Robert Dole, is $18.87 (plus $3 postage and handling) from Consumer Center, 1980 Springfield Ave., Maplewood, N.J. 07040, or by calling 1-800-872-0121 with a credit card.

Robert L. Berko, executive director of the consumer group, says that many survivors of veterans are unaware that they might be eligible to receive money, medical care, educational assistance, help in buying a home or other benefits.

In fact, eligibility and benefits change constantly and some people ineligible in previous years are now able to start receiving money.

The study found that many people are unaware that they are considered dependents or survivors of veterans.

These include those involved in illegal marriages, those who remarried after the death or disability of a veteran, children born out of wedlock to a veteran, parents of a veteran and even dependent grandchildren. Any of these may be eligible for benefits.

Berko says that the study questioned veterans about benefits and found that the majority were unfamiliar with most of the benefits now being granted under federal and state laws.

Even veterans now collecting were unaware of other benefits for which they were eligible and could be collecting.

For instance, disabled veterans can receive apparel allowances if they use wheel chairs, artificial limbs or any prosthetic device that can wear or damage clothing and, if they have a spouse in need of care, they can receive an allowance to pay someone to provide that care.

Few knew that the Bureau of Veterans Affairs is required to send veterans any requests for bids on supplies or labor that are mailed to any other suppliers.

Other benefits the consumer found that were little known are:

- A veteran (or dependent) can receive up to $837 (40% in advance) if he or she will assist the VA in a workstudy program while in an educational program.

Federal agencies are required to establish affirmative action plans to facilitate employment and advancement of veterans with any degree of disability.

In fact, some job classifications must be filled by eligible vets.

Family members of veterans buried or mentioned on commemorated tablets of the missing overseas are eligible for free passports if they say they want to visit these sites.

Disabled veterans can obtain extra compensation of hundreds of dollars per month in addition to their 100 percent disability if they have certain specified disabilities.

In addition, the book includes a complete list of VA facilities and help to secure the information needed with VA applications.

"Even though the Congress and the various state legislatures have provided for money and services to be given to veterans and their dependents," Berko said, "unless the people know they are eligible and apply they will not collect anything. Especially, now that benefit eligibilities are probably going to be changed by Congress, it is important to apply and establish eligibility for benefits right now."

As Dole, a decorated veteran and one familiar with the bureaucracy, says in his foreword, "Mr. Berko's book goes a long way in helping America's veterans cut through the red tape so they can receive the benefits they earned and deserve."

What do we read?

By Margie Reins Smith
Feature Editor

Grosse Pointers are interested in murder, courtroom drama and political thrillers. They're also taking an interest in books on tape and CD-ROMs, according to librarians at the three branches of the Grosse Pointe Public Library.

The author of the most-asked-for book at all three libraries is Anonymous. "Primary Colors," a best-selling novel based on the 1992 Clinton bid for the presidency, was written by an author who prefers anonymity. Readers can not only try to guess who the characters are in real life, but they can also speculate about who wrote the novel.

Priscilla Burns, youth services librarian, said "Primary Colors" is the most requested book at the Park branch of the Grosse Pointe public library. Connie Roberts, adult services librarian at the Woods branch of the Grosse Pointe library, said 56 people are currently on the waiting list for the book. The library has 18 copies.

"We had to buy more," she said.

Christine Paschen, adult reference librarian at the central branch, said the book is popular at the central library too, as is "Absolute Power," a political thriller by David Baldacci; "The Poet," by Michael Connelly, which is about murder and journalists; and "The Judge," by Steve Martini.

"Often we get a lot of requests after the Detroit Free Press or The Detroit News runs a review of a book," Paschen said. "It becomes popular after people read about it."

All three librarians said that CD-ROMs have become extremely popular lending items. The Park has about two dozen titles for children and adults, including a couple of road atlases, an encyclopedia and "Herstory," a collection of biographies of women.

Paschen said the central library has 75-100 CD-ROMs. "They've become very, very popular within the last year," she said.

Roberts said the Woods has a growing collection of CD-ROM titles, close to 50 or 60, which are well-used. Another well-used format at the public libraries is the books on tape. "Some people come in and make a beeline for these," she said. "Usually, the popular titles are the same as the most popular books because the talking books come out at about the same time."

Some of the central library's busiest: "My Name is Mary" by Mary Fisher; "So Far..." by Kelsey Grammer; "Horse Whisperer" by Nicholas Evans; and "Lost World" by Michael Crichton.

Roberts said many library customers borrow talking books to play while they're commuting, to play while they're on long car trips or to listen to while they're exercising.

The unabridged versions are especially popular, Paschen and Burns agreed.

Videos are doing well at all three libraries. "Travel videos as well as travel books are always in demand," Paschen said. Roberts said other in-demand books at the Woods branch are "Intensity," by Dean Koontz; "Hide and Seek" by James Patterson and a book that they don't even have yet: "Rush Limbaugh is a Big Fat Idiot" by Al Franken.

Children are demanding books in a series called the Goosebump books, designed for kids from about second to fifth grade, by R. L. Stine. "They're paperbacks," Burns said.

"Paperbacks are popular with children." The Babysitters Club series — which has about 90 titles — is popular with elementary school girls.

Other popular books with Grosse Pointers are Charles Kuralt's "America," and "Midnight in the Garden of Good and Evil" by John Berendt, even though they've been out for awhile; and Sue Grafton's "L is for Lawless."

"Time Present, Time Past" by Bill Bradley; and two mysteries (always popular with Grosse Pointe readers, all three librarians said) "The Cat Who Said Cheese" by Lillian Jackson Braun and "The Web" by Jonathan Kellerman.

What's coming up? On order is John Grisham's newest legal thriller, "Runaway Jury," which isn't even out yet, Paschen said. So far, the library has 27 people on the waiting list for it.

The author of the most-asked-for book at all three libraries, "Primary Colors," is Anonymous.

Preludes East concerts to begin at War Memorial

Music — the language of the gods — and of all nationalities, will fill the Grosse Pointe War Memorial beginning at 2 p.m. Friday, March 15, at the first Preludes East event.

Presented by the Detroit Symphony Orchestra musicians and the Detroit Symphony Orchestra Volunteer Council, the Preludes' programs are designed to bring DSO musicians to various regions of the metro Detroit area.

There's a Preludes Downriver, Preludes West and Preludes Downtown, as well as the series of concerts on the east side, at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

The March performance will include selections from Renaissance to jazz interpreted by trumpeters Ramon Parcels, Kevin Good, Steve Anderson and Bill Lucas. Craig Rifel will play bass; Sam Tundo, percussion. Maria-Paule Parcels will accompany at the piano. Doors will open at 1:30 p.m. High Tea, with all its delectable morsels, will be served at 2 p.m., followed by the performance.

The origin of the musical selections will be explained, and there will be time to chat with the artists.

Grosse Pointer Marian Impastato is chairman of the Preludes East. Her committee includes Dorothea Vermuelen, Marie Carpenter, Maureen Allison, Judith Langenbach, Mahie Skaff, Flo Kliber, Beatriz Budinsky Staples and Barbara Czamanske.

The first Brolly Day was 10 years ago, when artists were invited to paint umbrellas (brollies) to be auctioned. The funds were used for Cranbrook art scholarships.

As the years passed, brollies have given way to scarves, circles, timepieces and the 1996 theme: "Reflections at Cranbrook."

Artists, students, faculty, alumni and friends of Cranbrook have contributed pieces of art with a reflective character, which will be placed in the silent and live auctions.

The event gives guests an opportunity to visit the academy's studios and purchase original art.

New this year: a $35 "Studio Crawl Only" admission, which includes wine, beer and hors d'oeuvres. Patron and benefactor tickets are $75 and $150, and include dinner.

Norah Paul of Grosse Pointe Woods is involved in the benefit.

The Pastor's Corner

The light of Lent

By the Rev. Colleen F.S. Kamke
St. Paul Ev. Lutheran Church

During that short week between Christmas and New Year's, which seems an eternity ago, I had the joy of traveling with my husband and children to visit with family up in Wisconsin.

While driving along those old familiar roads, I was reminded of the childhood trips our family took on Friday nights to spend the weekend with my grandparents.

I can remember looking into the thick darkness as we drove. Especially hidden were those roads which had pine trees lining both sides. The only place I could see anything besides the blanket of night was right in front of the car where the headlights lit the path for our two-hour journey.

But, our destination was always Grandpa's and Grandma's farm. Mom or Dad drove the car down the right roads. Each mile was lit for us along the way.

On many of the trips I find myself making these days, I do not know my exact destination. The direction in which I should turn the car, if you will, is not always clear, and sometimes it even seems like the car just does not have any headlights to turn on.

In other words — perhaps this has been your experience as well — on some of the trips we take in this journey called life, we might feel lost and totally in the dark.

In this past week the Christian church has begun a particular trip called Lent in the journey of the Liturgical Year. Lent leads us to the cold shadows of Jesus' crucifixion on the cross and on to Easter's springtime of light and life given to us by Jesus' resurrection.

Though at times it may seem like we are still driving or walking or dragging along in darkness, that darkness does not have the final word. We look to Easter with the hope that allows us to take another step.

We are not always going to know where we are headed on some of our trips, but because of the news we hear in Lent's journey to Easter, we have the assurance that we are walking with that Someone who does.

St. Paul hosts World Day of Prayer

St. Paul Catholic Church, 157 Lakeshore in Grosse Pointe Farms, will host the World Day of Prayer services for the area at 1 p.m. Friday, March 1.

The brief ecumenical service is open to men and women of the community. A reception at St. Paul's Parish House will follow the prayer service.

For 109 consecutive years, women around the world have gathered to pray, worship and study the Bible with other Christians of all denominations on one day designated as "World Day of Prayer."

Currently, women from 107 countries participate and money raised is used for national and international projects in support of the empowerment of women, human rights, justice and peace.

This year's theme, "God Calls Us To Respond," was selected to inspire people to become more informed, involved and engaged in peace and justice struggles.

Co-chairmen of this year's event are Peggy Gerlach of Grosse Pointe Shores and Irene Gracey of Grosse Pointe Farms.

For more information, call the church at (313) 885-6523.

Evensong at Christ Church

Stop a silent thief — osteoporosis

By Sandra C. Raymond
Special Writer

Do you ever think about bones?

When you do, what's your mental picture? The dinosaur in the museum of natural history? An animal skull in the desert — something lifeless and unchanging?

In fact, bones are living, ever-changing tissue and therefore can be affected by disease. Osteoporosis is the most common bone disease. It is a silent thief that robs bones of their strength and people of their independence and vitality.

The National Osteoporosis Foundation (NOF), founded in 1986, is the leading nonprofit organization in the country dedicated to reducing the widespread prevalence of osteoporosis through research, education and advocacy.

What is osteoporosis?

Osteoporosis literally means, "porous bone." It is a disease characterized by the exaggerated loss of bone mass, which silently weakens bones over time, causing fractures of hip, wrist or spine.

Each year, osteoporosis causes 1.5 million fractures and affects an estimated 25 million Americans. Between seven and eight million people have osteoporosis and an additional 17 million are at high risk for the disease.

Osteoporosis makes bones so weak and fragile, even simple actions like sneezing can cause them to break. Health care costs for osteoporosis care and treatment exceed $10 billion annually and the cost is rising.

Prevention, detection and treatment

Osteoporosis can be prevented, detected, and effectively treated. The key to prevention is a balanced, calcium-rich diet, weight bearing exercise (jogging, running, weight training), not smoking and avoiding excessive alcohol consumption.

Fortunately, early detection of osteoporosis is possible thanks to a quick, painless test that measures bone density. A bone density test is a reliable way to determine the status of your bone health today and predict the risk of having bone fractures in the future.

What is being done about osteoporosis?

NOF marks its 10th anniversary in 1996. It has been an exciting decade that has seen osteoporosis move from a disease that had received little or no attention and few resources, to one that now is recognized as a major public health threat. During the next 10 years, NOF's efforts will be focused on developing the osteoporosis programs and policies necessary to bring this disease under control.

To launch this expanded effort, the NOF is conducting a National Osteoporosis Action Campaign. The centerpiece of this campaign is a grassroots petition drive to urge Congress to:

- Improve the availability and accessibility of bone density testing. Bone density tests can accurately and reliably predict risk of future fractures. Unfortunately, the tests are not always covered by insurance. Medicare's coverage of bone density testing is inconsistent. For these reasons we need national legislation to ensure that coverage for bone density testing is provided both under Medicare and private insurance, including managed care settings.

- Support a national public education program to reduce the risk and incidence of this crippling disease. A recent survey found that most women are not talking to their doctors about osteoporosis and millions of Americans are not getting enough calcium in their diets to build and maintain strong bones. American girls and women of all ages must be educated about osteoporosis and how to prevent it.

- Increase funds for osteoporosis research. The National Institutes of Health spends between $70 million and $80 million on osteoporosis research — a fraction of the $10 billion annual cost of this disease. An expanded federal research program is necessary to more fully understand and address the causes of osteoporosis.

The National Osteoporosis Action Campaign has the support of organizations and individuals across the country who are signing petitions as well as distributing them to neighbors, co-workers, family members and friends for their signatures. The signed petitions will be delivered to Congress in conjunction with NOF's public policy leadership forum in June.

You can help stop the silent thief called osteoporosis. For more information, call (202) 223-2226 or write to the National Osteoporosis Foundation, Attention: Paige Berry, 1150 17th Street, NW, Washington, D.C. 20036.

Sandra C. Raymond is executive director of the National Osteoporosis Foundation, the only nonprofit organization wholly dedicated to the prevention, detection, and treatment of osteoporosis.

Midwives deliver more

Midwives don't just deliver babies. In fact, more and more women beyond their childbearing years are choosing midwives for their ongoing care.

Henry Ford Health System Nurse Midwifery Services places special emphasis on education, prevention and listening to patients, helping them to manage life changes through menopause and beyond.

Tish Roeske, a certified nurse midwife, will talk about the special relationship women of all ages can have with a nurse midwife as their caregiver in a free community program, "Why Older Women Want Midwives," on Tuesday, March 12, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. The program will be held in Boardroom A in the lower level of Henry Ford Cottage Hospital, 159 Kercheval, one mile south of Moross in Grosse Pointe Farms. Free parking is provided in the deck; bring in your parking ticket for validation.

Find out if a midwife could be right for you. For free reservations to this or any other Henry Ford Cottage Hospital Community Program, call (313) 640-2425.

"Why Older Women Want Midwives" is one of the services of WomanWise health information programs designed to address the concerns of today's women. To receive the WomanWise newsletter, call (800) 746-WISE, and ask to be put on the mailing list.

Hearing impaired hotline

When Roxanne LaPradd's father suddenly went deaf, her family was devastated until someone suggested calling the cochlear implant information hotline. Within days, a package of information arrived.

"Because of this resource, we were able to find a cochlear implant center in our state to test and evaluate my dad," said LaPradd of Roanoke, Va. A cochlear implant is a surgically implanted device that bypasses the damaged inner ear, allowing recipients to understand speech and sound.

Many severe-to-profoundly hearing impaired people are not aware that there is an alternative to deafness for those who have difficulty understanding conversations and who have trouble hearing speech on the telephone. The FDA recently released the Nucleus 22 to an extended range of hearing-impaired adults, allowing those who are severe-to-profoundly hearing-impaired with limited hearing aid benefit to take advantage of this technology.

More than 12,000 hearing-impaired adults and children worldwide have received the Nucleus 22 channel cochlear implant.

If you or someone you know could benefit from knowing more about cochlear implants, call the cochlear implant information hotline for free background information about the device, as well as eligibility criteria and a list of medical centers throughout the United States.

The hotline (800) 458-4999 (voice) and (800) 483-3123 (TDD), operates weekdays from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Semkow conducts a polite hiccup

Jerzy Semkow was welcomed back last weekend for the first of two guest conducting appearances with the DSO this season.

He is a meticulous conductor, as evidenced by the precise baton and hand technique with which he signals the crisp and well modulated performances he elicits from our orchestra. It was certainly in evidence last weekend as he led two of the greatest symphonies in the mainstream repertoire: Beethoven's No. 2 in D major and Rachmaninoff's No. 2 in E minor.

Once again he showed the DSO off to great advantage, enabling the strings, for example, to demonstrate their most scintillating tone quality and precise ensemble skill. As they moved into the first movement allegro of the Beethoven, the performance glowed with vigor and bright expression.

Given the homage that Beethoven paid to his classical predecessors, Hayden and Mozart, in this score, one can observe that as conductor, Semkow is as much a classicist as they were. But Beethoven was already pushing the limits of classicism and Semkow's performance gave recognition to this, too.

Romanticism was evident in the heavenly Larghetto second movement. It was like a love story reflecting tenderness, affection and joy that hardly seem consistent with the anguish the composer must have been experiencing over his growing deafness when he composed it.

The last movement, however, engenders some entertaining imagery that also provides insight into Semkow's style. Beethoven himself revealed that the abrupt, slurred phrase that opens and themes the entire movement was inspired by his own internal sounds of indigestion.

In rendering it with the orchestra, Semkow was like a discreet dinner guest putting the serviette to his lips. He exercised restraint in having the orchestra play it more as a hiccup than an out-and-out belch, as a more ebullient conductor might do. The turbulent finale, on the other hand, got the overt display it rightly deserves as it completed the metaphor.

From a DSO chauvinist point of view, Semkow also allows our orchestra to sound its best which, these days, is pretty wonderful.

By Alex Suczek

spection of the Russian soul shone as they occur in Rachmaninoff's mood-filled music, and Semkow's baton work brought a degree of clarity to this complex score not always achievable when performing with abandon.

The performance was equally effective throughout. The agitated second movement, the lyrical third, sometimes contemplative and sometimes climatic, and the festive, ever-jubilant fourth transported the audience with the work's overwhelming romantic appeal.

Semkow brings special attributes to a performance that make his conducting always a rewarding experience. He has a combination of distinctions uniquely his own — elegance, clarity and the greatest integrity in rendering the score.

From a DSO chauvinist point of view, he also allows our orchestra to sound its best which, these days, is pretty wonderful.

Continuing his visit, Semkow opens this weekend concerts tomorrow (Friday) evening with an all Mozart program featuring violinist Joshua Bell, and violist Catherine Basrak. The program, to be repeated Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon, includes Sinfonia Concertante for violin and viola (K. 364), Adagio for violin and orchestra (K. 261), Rondo for violin and orchestra (K. 373) and the Symphony No. 36 in C Major (Linz).

2 mysteries separated by the big pond

"Icewater Mansions"
By Doug Allyn
St. Martin's Press. 247 pages. $21

"Oxford Exit"
By Veronica Stallwood
Scribner. 184 pages. $20

What do Doug Allyn and Veronica Stallwood have in common? Plenty! Both are mystery writers. Their heroines are young amateur sleuths. Furthermore, Allyn's and Stallwood's writing styles zip their plots along smoothly; their latest offerings seem to promise continuing adventures starring their main characters.

Here is where their paths separate. Allyn is our own home-grown talent who lives in Michigan, and Stallwood is a Britisher who calls Oxford home. While Allyn describes the vast icy reaches of Lake Huron, Stallwood dwells on the alluring ambience of an ancient university town. Their intrepid detectives are far apart in personality but quite similar in their determination to uncover certain malicious evil-doers in their territories.

"Icewater Mansions" introduces Michelle "Mitch" Mitchell, a hardy survivor of the 1990s, who arrives in Huron Harbor which is obviously Alpena. After toiling underwater on the oil rigs of the Texas Gulf, she has quit her dangerous job because of the strange death of her father from whom she has long been estranged.

Moving into her father's shuttered cabin on Thunder Bay, Mitch assumes control over his popular bar in town. There she rubs shoulders, sometimes pleasantly but often with some heated clashes when certain denizens object to her probing the circumstances of her father's death. Break-ins and other sinister threats fail to dampen her resolve; in fact, these incidents only embolden Mitch's determination, come what may even though her own life may be in jeopardy.

Allyn paints a glowing picture of the scene outside Mitch's living room window: "Ice. My God. Thunder Bay was a crystalline, glimmering ice field that stretched unbroken to the horizon, and probably five hundred miles north to the Canadian shore. There was no spotlight out there, only the moon, three-quarters full, beaming through scudding snow clouds, refracted by a billion prisms, setting Lake Huron aglisten in a cloak of shattered diamonds."

In another stunning scene, we see how Mitch "swept the drapes open and stared out into the glittering dark, stunned, absolutely mesmerized. Ten years of diving in tropic seas, Florida, the Caribbean, the Texas Gulf" and she thoughtfully muses:

"I'd almost forgotten how the dead hand of winter transmuted the Great Lakes into thousands of square miles of jumbled ivory flees and fields as lifeless and magnificent as the valleys of the moon."

Allyn's book is an enjoyable read for many reasons. Not only does he create an interesting character in Mitch, intrepid and hardy, the author's pace and tempo carries the reader along swiftly in wonderment. Too, it is fun for us to read about and recognize certain landmarks of the Thunder Bay area.

Stallwood's second mystery, "Oxford Exit," features Kate Ivory, a young novelist, now "between books," who is persuaded to help a librarian friend.

A computer crime is being perpetuated at the Bodleian Library in Oxford by which valuable books disappear from the catalogue and then sold to other institutions. This master criminal is clever, covers up his tracks, knows the library well, and is able to elude detection.

Ivory is given the job of cataloguing, ostensibly as a temporary hired hand but in reality researching the files to find out how the thief succeeds in his nefarious scheme.

Stallwood captures the essence of her character beautifully.

"Kate Ivory chewed on the end of her pencil and told herself to stop day-dreaming and get on with her work, but the only ideas coming to her involved murdering the neighbours. Perhaps she would give up for the rest of the morning and walk into Oxford and buy the new biography that she wanted to read. Reading other people's books was so very much easier than writing her own. She stretched and tipped her chair back. At this time of year she awoke from her winter lethargy and dreamed of gambling in meadows starred with daisies in the company of an attractive man. She squashed the pleasing picture and let her chair right itself" as she switched off the computer.

The mastermind criminal is, of course, another important character. In alternate chapters concerning Ivory, this misfit who is enrolled in a writing class relates of his own life and desires. Obviously, he is quite intelligent in his own twisted mind, and in one passage he indicates that "most of all, I wanted to belong in these libraries, to have the right to study their leather-bound books, to sit under their painted ceilings and breathe in the dust of several centuries."

The elusive criminal manages to win a job in one of the Oxford libraries where he becomes perfectly situated to hunt books wanted by other prestigious organizations.

Then it becomes an easy matter of simply deleting the record of the book from his library's computer, picking it up from stack, and walking out with a package under his arm. With no questions asked, top money is paid to the mastermind from grateful librarians. A lucrative career, indeed.

Ivory, while frantically trying to track down the mystery of the absconded books, is faced with another problem — that of Jenna Coates, a young library trainee, who disappeared a year ago. After she is found brutally murdered, Ivory is convinced that there is a strong connection between this death and the vanishing books.

Ivory scurries to unmask this mastermind before any further book abductions and murders occur. A reader is royally treated to wonderful sniffs of the scent of bound books, and to basking in the marvelous ambience of a large library. To be surrounded by endless shelves of books is a true book-lover's dream.

Four North wrestlers are state qualifiers

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Art Roberts was one happy fellow after last Saturday's individual Division II regional wrestling tournament in Algonac.

Grosse Pointe North's Derek Phillips and Dan Shefferly each won championships in their weight classes, while two other Norsemen — Kevin Brandon and Gary Bordato — also qualified for the state individual tournament in Battle Creek on March 8-9.

Four state qualifiers matches North's best showing since Roberts became coach in 1988. "I thought all the kids wrestled great," Roberts said. "Our other two regional qualifiers — Jeff Kalkhoff and Ed Ball — lost their two matches on decisions, but they both wrestled well. They just got beat by good kids. Once you get to the regional, there are no pushovers."

That's why the performances of the four state qualifiers are even more impressive.

"Derek just walked through his weight class," Roberts said of his sophomore 112-pounder. "And that might have been the toughest weight class of the regional. Derek beat three of last year's state qualifiers."

Phillips pinned Gibraltar Carlson's Jason Mazzei at 4:37 of the championship match. In earlier rounds, he beat Brian Nadeau of Monroe Jefferson 7-0 and defeated Carleton Airport's Tim Busenm 6-3.

Busenm was fourth in the state Class B meet at 100 pounds last season.

This year the wrestling classifications have been changed to divisions I, II, III and IV, replacing the Class A, B, C and D of previous seasons.

Roberts and Shefferly got a surprise when the North 189-pounder had to face Center Line's Matt Mulawa in the title bout.

"We figured he'd face the (Don) Holden kid from (Warren) Lincoln, but Mulawa pinned him in the semifinals," Roberts said. "Holden beat Sheff in the district final last week so we spent all week preparing for him."

It didn't really matter because Shefferly was in control of his match with Mulawa and finally beat him 9-6.

Shefferly began the tournament with a 12-1 victory over Tim Barron of Redford Thurston and a pin in 2:33 of Ypsilanti Lincoln's Jim Stowe.

Kevin Brandon finished second to Warren Lincoln's Todd Costello at 125, but it was an impressive second, despite getting pinned in 2:52.

"Kevin got Costello on his back and if it was anybody else but Costello, Kevin would have pinned him," Roberts said. "One Lincoln parent said he'd pay to see those two wrestle again and Costello's mom told me that he'd been wrestling since he was 6 and that's the first time he was on his back." Costello was third in the state in Class A at 106 pounds last year and is one of the favorites to win a state championship in Division II this year.

"It was a fantastic match," Roberts said. "Kevin went out with the idea of winning. I thought it was over when he got Costello in a headlock, but Todd rolled through it."

Brandon reached the finals by pinning Thurston's Remy Haddad in 1:48 and posting a 10-9 decision over Ryan Nadeau of Monroe Jefferson.

Bordato who has been one of the most pleasant surprises of North's season, was fourth in the tough 152-pound class.

He started with a 7-4 win over Jason Davis of Romulus. Davis had pinned Bordato at the Romulus tournament earlier this year.

Bordato then lost to Carlson's Brett Labate 13-4, but bounced back with a pin in 2:02 of Royal Oak Dondero's Seth Burgess. That gave Bordato a rematch with Davis in the consolation final and this time Davis won 3-0.

North also competed in the dual meet regional last Wednesday at Warren Lincoln. The Norsemen beat Warren Fitzgerald 50-24 in the semifinals, but lost to the host Abes 48-16 in the championship match.

"It was a lot closer than that score would indicate," Roberts said. "Lincoln was ahead 15-12 when we forfeited at 140 and 145. After Bordato won at 152, we lost three decisions at 171, 189 and 215."

"There was some excellent wrestling and the gym was packed on both sides. When we started the season, I thought there was no way we'd have a strong dual-meet team, but we made it to the regional final.

I'm really pleased with the way the kids came together."

North's winners against Lincoln were Phillips, who pinned Tim Pabst in 2:26 at 112; Brandon, who won a 9-6 decision at 125; sophomore Eddie Wright, who pinned regional qualifier Mike Stadler at 135; and Bordato, who won 14-5 at 152.

"That might have been Eddie Wright's best match," Roberts said. "Stadler was a No. 1 seed in the regional and finished third at the regional. I think this proved to Eddie that he's a better wrestler than he's showed at times this year."

Shefferly dropped a 3-1 decision to Holden at 189 when the Lincoln wrestler got a take-down in the final seconds and Ryan Ruttan bowled 3-2 to Tim Larsh at 215 when Ruttan was assessed a penalty point for a body slam.

North's winners against Fitzgerald were Rick Pesta (112), Phillips (119), Brandon (125), Kalkhoff (130), Wright (135), Joe Brennan (160), Ball (171), Shefferly (189) and heavyweight Mike Benedettini.

Bordato won on a void and Ruttan forfeited at 215 so that he would be fresh for his match with Larsh in the finals. "We had the Fitzgerald meet clinched by that time," Roberts said.

North's coach was pleased with sophomore Brennan, who beat the Spartans' John Clifton 9-3.

"That was Joe's best match," Roberts said.

"Clifton was a regional qualifier who was second in the district. It was a real nice win for Joe."

North finished the dual meet season with a 12-3-1 overall record.

Jocelyn Lorenger, left, of Grosse Pointe South and Andrea O'Boyle of Grosse Pointe North were two of the medalists in last weekend's Great Lakes Gymnastics League tournament hosted by North.

Young gymnasts encourage coach

Grosse Pointe South finished fifth at last weekend's Great Lakes Gymnastics League meet, but coach Al Trombley saw encouragement for the future.

"There's a lot of potential on this team and the girls have a lot of energy," Trombley said after the Blue Devils finished with 117.75 points.

Junior Jocelyn Lorenger made the best showing of the South competitors when she finished fourth in vaulting and sixth in all-around.

Courtney Schafer was seventh in vaulting and balance beam and eighth in floor exercise, while freshman Lindsay White was seventh in all-around.

Earlier, White took first place all-around, but South dropped a 115.05-108.95 league dual meet to Trenton. Lorenger was fourth overall and Schafer fifth.

Other Blue Devils who turned in good performances were Stefani Smith, Andrea Formolo, Julie Champion and Adriana Costache.

South beat Plymouth Salem 116.10-103.25 and bowed to Fraser 118-102.95 in other recent dual meets.

The Blue Devils finished the dual meet season with a 1-4 league record and 2-5 overall mark.

This weekend South will host a state regional tournament with action scheduled to begin at noon.

Joining the Blue Devils in the 16-team field are Grosse Pointe North, Berkley, Birmingham Groves, Birmingham Seaholm, Bloomfield Hills Lahser, Clarkston, Dearborn Edsel Ford, Fraser, Livonia Clarenceville, Rochester Adams, Rochester, Royal Oak Dondoro, Royal Oak Kimball, Troy Athens and Troy.

Norsemen clinch a title tie

By Chuck Klönke
Sports Editor

When Grosse Pointe North's basketball team looks back on its Macomb Area Conference Blue Division championship season, the Norsemen will reflect on how they've been able to maintain a lead down the stretch.

"We've done a marvelous job of taking care of the ball in the late stages of games and we've made our free throws," coach Dave Stavale said after North wrapped up a share of the division title with a 45-43 victory over Warren Woods-Tower.

Earlier in the week, the Norsemen bounced back from their only league loss to Clintondale with a 55-44 win over L'Anse Creuse.

One victory this week will give North the outright championship.

Stavale felt lucky to escape with the victory against Woods-Tower because the Norsemen almost let a 29-14 halftime lead slip away.

"There was a huge momentum swing in the third quarter when they outscored us 16-6," Stavale said. "It was like we forgot how to shoot. We made our first seven shots of the game and the same kids who hit those were missing in the third quarter. All of a sudden, we were in a war."

North finally got a six-point lead with 50 seconds left after two free throws each by Pete Mellos and Dave Hermann.

"I was so happy to get back to the locker room after that game," Stavale said. "I felt like I was in the twilight zone. I thought we'd just go out and finish it off during the first half of the third quarter, but John (Titans coach John Buszka) made some good adjustments at halftime."

North led 15-2 after the first few minutes and it looked like they were going to win easily.

"We had three possessions late in the first half where we didn't score or we could have had 39 points at halftime," Stavale said. "That's how well we played in the first half."

Andy Maniaci led North with 12 points and Steve Champine and Hermann added 10 apiece. Hermann and Maniaci each grabbed four rebounds.

North fought off a fourth-quarter rally by L'Anse Creuse to beat the Lancers for the second time this season.

The game was tied after three quarters, but the Norsemen jumped ahead by seven points early in the final period only to have L'Anse Creuse take a one-point lead with about four minutes left.

Then Mellos hit a three-point basket with 2 1/2 minutes left to give North a two-point lead and Champine followed with another triple on the Norsemen's next possession.

"It seems like Pete is always making a shot at a crucial time and Steve is there to make the big play, too," Stavale said. "Those were two huge shots."

They gave North a five-point edge and the Norsemen were able to maintain the lead by hitting their free throws down the stretch.

"We really haven't been able to put teams away early, but when we win by 12 or 14 points it's due to our free-throw shooting," Stavale said.

Champine led North with 21 points, while Hermann and Maniaci added eight apiece and Mellos finished with six.

Leonard Harris came off the bench and turned in an outstanding performance with seven points and 13 rebounds.

"We needed to do a better job rebounding," Stavale said. "We had been giving up too many second and third shots because we weren't blocking out, but Leonard came in and gave us a big lift on the boards."

North also got a good effort off the bench from Nick Aubrey, David Stavale and Joe Slomski.

"I've stayed with my starting five more in the last two games so the other kids haven't seen as many minutes as they did earlier, but they played well when they were in," coach Stavale said. "I just feel that the five starters deserve the chance to decide their season because they've worked so hard and gone through so much to get where they are."

North is 11-1 in league play and 14-4 overall. Clintondale is second in the MAC Blue with a 9-3 mark.

Devils feel at home on the road

By Chuck Klönke
Sports Editor

The road has become friendlier to Grosse Pointe South's basketball team than the Blue Devils' home court.

That's why coach George Petrouleas isn't worried that South closes out the Macomb Area Conference White Division season at Warren-Mott and Romeo.

"Both of our league losses and five of our six losses overall have come at home," Petrouleas said after the Blue Devils split a pair of league games last week but remained a game ahead of second-place Fraser in the standings, despite a 45-43 loss to the Ramblers last Friday.

"The kids have some confidence playing away from home. We're still in a position to determine our fate and all we have to do is take care of business."

Victories in their final two games would assure the Blue Devils of their second straight outright MAC White championship, while a win in one of the two contests would clinch at least a tie.

South's 49-46 win at East Detroit last Tuesday was as gratifying as the Fraser loss was disappointing.

"That was a big game for us," Petrouleas said. "They were five points ahead with 3 1/2 minutes to go. We could have folded our tents, but we didn't."

"We had some trouble scoring, but we played some real hard defense when we had to and we showed a lot of poise down the stretch."

East Detroit led 42-37 after Shatell Edwards hit a pair of free throws, but a pair of free throws by Charlie Wascher and a putback by Joe Kaiser cut the Shamrocks' lead to 42-41 with 2:38 remaining.

Derrick Gossard put East Detroit back in front by three points on two free throws, but Wascher hit a free throw and then scored on a layup after a perfect pass from Matt Agnone to tie the game at 44 with 1:40 left.

East Detroit regained the lead on an offensive rebound by 6-foot-11 Dan Pettit with 1:11 to go, but Wascher sank two more free throws with 44 seconds remaining. On the Shamrocks' next possession, Wascher deflected a pass and it was recovered by Kaiser.

Pat Worrell then scored on a reverse layup off a feed from Wascher with 14 seconds left to give South a 48-46 lead. Worrell sprained an ankle on the play and had to miss Friday's game with Fraser.

Pettit missed a short jumper and Kaiser gathered in the rebound with one second left. He was fouled and made the first of two free throws to seal the Blue Devils' victory.

"Joe's a battler," Petrouleas said. "He works hard on defense and on the boards."

Wascher led South with 20 points and he and Kaiser collected four rebounds apiece to lead the Blue Devils in that category.

"Charlie's game is improving all the time," Petrouleas said. "He recognizes that he doesn't have to do it all himself. We have some other people who can score, too."

Mike Gotfredson scored 12 points and Kaiser added nine for South.

East Detroit, which handed South its first league loss, led 22-19 at halftime. The Blue Devils took a 34-32 lead into the fourth quarter.

Gossard, who scored nine points in the first half, finished with 11.

"He got tired in the second half because we made him work on both ends of the court," Petrouleas said.

Pettit led the Shamrocks with 16 points and five rebounds.

Fraser got its winning points on a basket by Jeff Verkeyn with 11 seconds remaining. South had a chance to send the game into overtime, but Kaiser's reverse layup sat on the rim for what seemed like several seconds before it dropped off as time expired.

"We had one defensive breakdown that allowed them to score the winning basket," Petrouleas said. "Everything we did wrong, they did right down the stretch. We just didn't execute well enough during crunch time."

South led 24-20 at halftime and the Blue Devils stretched their lead to eight points early in the second half. But Fraser kept chipping away at the lead.

"We didn't take good care of the ball in the last couple of minutes and we only shot 38 percent for the game," Petrouleas said. "Fraser shot 50 percent, but we did a very good job defensively. Overall, our defense has held up well and has carried us for a good portion of the year. When we've lost it's because of our inconsistency on offense."

Fraser did a good job of defending Wascher in the second half, holding South's senior center to single-digit scoring for one of the few times this season.

"Charlie wasn't 100 percent physically, but we should have gotten him more involved in the offense," Petrouleas said. "I'll bet he had only six or seven touches in the whole second half. We weren't looking to get the ball to him and because of that we didn't put enough interior pressure on our opponent."

Gotfredson led South with 12 points, while Steve Howson did a good job off the bench and Agnone and Kaiser each turned in steady performances.

South is 12-6 overall and 10-2 in the MAC White. Fraser has a 9-3 division record.

North second, South third in MAC Red swim meet

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Ford II swimming coach Dennis Schriber knows he has a good thing going with a group of juniors who've helped the Falcons win two straight Macomb Area Conference Red Division titles.

And Grosse Pointe North coach Mike O'Connor can't help being a little envious of Schriber's situation.

"We've got the talent, but we don't always have the work ethic the Ford kids have," O'Connor said after the Norsemen finished second to the Falcons in last Friday's division championships at Ford.

"We have some kids whose attendance at practice is only 90 percent. If I had 90 percent attendance at work, I'd get fired. I understand that they might have other commitments that would cause them to miss a practice, so we let them make it up in the morning, but they don't always do that either. The good Ford kids do double workouts every day. That's why they've won the league the last two years."

The Falcons' depth was the difference in this year's division meet as they finished with 335 points to 308 for the Norsemen. Grosse Pointe South was third with 250 points, followed by Fraser 184 and Eisenhower 131.

North senior Jeff Shelden, who won the 200-yard individual medley and the 100 butterfly, was named the meet's outstanding performer for the second year in a row.

Shelden's teammate, junior Mike O'Connor, was the other double winner in the meet with firsts in the 500 freestyle and the 100 backstroke. O'Connor's time in the 500 was a meet and pool record.

The highlight of the meet for South was taking three of the first four places in the diving competition. C.J. Hurd, who had a winning score of 417.40 points, missed former Blue Devil diver Chad Hepner's league record by less than three points.

"This group of kids works real hard," Schriber said. "And the juniors are exceptional. They've been a dream group for three years. They're really competitive and they train hard together."

Although Ford's juniors were instrumental in the team victory, one of the Falcons' seniors stepped up in a crucial situation.

"Kevin Clements showed a lot of leadership when he stepped up and won the breast-stroke for us," Schriber said. "That wrapped it up for us because if North had finished 1-2, it could have put some pressure on us."

Clements came into the finals with the fourth-best preliminary time, but beat North's Tony Atrasz with a strong finish in 1:01.53. Both Clements and Atrasz, who was clocked in 1:02.84, had state qualifying times.

"Tony swam a real strong race, too," coach O'Connor said.

The closest race of the meet came in the 400 freestyle relay, where Ford's team of Steve Paruszkiewicz, Chris Hall, Shawn Canole and Gered Doherty nipped North's quartet of John Finkelmann, Shelden, David Nielubowicz and O'Connor.

Both Ford (3:20.13) and North (3:20.51) broke the meet record of 3:20.89 set by South in 1991.

O'Connor felt that his team still had a chance to beat Ford if the Norsemen could win the 200 freestyle relay, but the Falcons' team of Hall, Mike Faustich, Canole and Chris Barber won another close race.

The younger O'Connor turned in an outstanding 22.975 anchor split, but couldn't quite overtake Barber.

"That pretty much did it for them, because it was a 12-point turnaround," coach O'Connor said. "By not winning the 200 freestyle relay, we would have had to finish 1-2 in the breast-stroke and win the last relay."

"The Ford kids swam well, so I can't feel too badly about it. Their medley relay and 400 free relay teams are ranked in the top three in the state."

North came into the meet with a 12-point lead after last Wednesday's preliminaries, but that quickly evaporated when Ford won the 200 medley relay with a meet record time of 1:39.94.

"With only a couple of exceptions, we did a great job on Wednesday," coach O'Connor said. "What hurt the most was having Ford get three kids into the finals of the 100 fly."

Shelden won the 200 individual medley in 1:59.85, nearly a seven-second margin over Ford's Dan Miarka, who was the runner-up. Shelden was also an easy winner in the 100 butterfly with a time of 54.95.

Both of his times were state cuts.

O'Connor was clocked in 4:43.83 in the 500 freestyle, beating runner-up Canole by nearly 17 seconds. O'Connor's time was a state cut and shattered the old meet record of 4:45.34 set by South's Tim Jogan in 1992.

O'Connor pulled away from Fraser's Bryan Pippen in the last 15 yards of the backstroke to win the event in 56.40 — also a state-qualifying time.

South coach Fred Michalik, whose team finished second to Ford last year, was pleased with the performance.

"My kids swam well," he said. "Our senior captains, Nat Spurr and Paul Dykstra, did a good job and I was really pleased with our freshmen. Charlie Gauss, Donald Dawson, John McLellan and Justin Bosley did a super job and John Sullivan has been coming along well, too."

"We should do well next year because we only lose two seniors."

South really sparkled in the diving. In addition to Hurd's domination of the event, Tom Leto was second with 344.15 points and Joe Gehrke was fourth with 324.90. Freshman Clay Vanderpeal was eighth with a score of 232.40.

"We have a lot of talented divers," Michalik said. "We had a couple other kids who could have placed, but you're only allowed to use four divers."

"They're all kids I've had at Brownell (Middle School) and I've been able to talk them into staying with it. It's too bad we didn't have these divers when we had some of our best swimmers a few years ago."

Some other North swimmers also earned the praise of their coach.

"Three of our freshmen — Chris Damman, Paul Simon and Rory Cleary — did a great job and senior Jim Malinowski swam well in the 200 IM and the 100 backstroke," O'Connor said.

Following are the winners of each event and the North and South swimmers who finished in the top 12.

Growing pains continue for ULS

This has been a year of growing pains for University Liggett School's basketball team.

The Knights dropped two close Metro Conference games last week when they bowed 62-61 to Lutheran Westland and lost 56-53 to Lutheran North.

"It's disappointing to lose these close games but I'm encouraged for the future," said ULS coach Chuck Wright. "We're understanding our roles better and we're trusting each other more."

"The effort is there. The kids all want to do better."

The Westland game was especially disappointing as the Knights led by seven points with a minute to play and they still had a four-point lead with 24 seconds remaining after two free throws by Joel Parrott.

Two fouls on three-point shots cost ULS six straight points. At the other end of the floor, the Knights missed the front end of one-and-ones three straight times.

After Parrott's free throws, the Warriors hit a three-point basket, then stole the inbound pass with five seconds left, were fouled and hit two free throws to win the game.

"We gave the game away," Wright said. "We played beautifully for 31 minutes and then fell apart. We have improved so much this year it's a shame we don't have more victories to show for it."

"But I'm very proud of our attitude and work ethic. We compete with class."

Parrott led the Knights with 19 points. Calvin Martin had 16 and Brian Bruenton added

15. Charley Strong had seven rebounds and Kevin Espy made five steals.

ULS jumped on Lutheran North early, building a 20-12 first-quarter lead. But the Mustangs chipped away and tied the game at 53-53 with 50 seconds remaining.

After a North free throw, the Knights had a chance to go back in front but a traveling call nullified the layup.

Bruenton led ULS with 15 points and Martin had 13. Espy collected nine assists and Strong again grabbed seven rebounds.

The Knights close out the regular season at home Friday with a non-league game against a strong Ann Arbor Greenhills squad.

Highlights

Following are some game results for the Neighborhood Club third grade basketball leagues.

BOYS GRADE 3

Duke 22, Kentucky 12
Scott Thursam and Jonathon Hinz led Duke with eight points apiece. Thomas Ciotti had five blocked shots and four points, while Joey Shaheen and Cameron Cecchini combined for six steals. J.D. DeFour, Matt Kocsis and Joe Kisch combined for 21 rebounds.

Kentucky, which had only six players, trailed 12-8 at halftime on the strength of a fine team effort.

CMU 23, Michigan State 16

Zachary Hacias led the CMU scoring, while Mark Hempstead, Andy Wolking, Vinnie Panizzi and Derrick Hacias also contributed. Brennan Brophy, Sean Grabowski and Luke Richard provided solid defense and strong rebounding. The undefeated CMU squad has averaged 32 points per game on offense, while allowing an average of 11.

Michigan State kept the game close until the final quarter. Matthew DePaz and Eddie Barclay handled the ball well against a strong press. Their passes set up baskets by Stephen Saylor, Derek Trombley and Jonathan Schultes. Jake Vega played excellent defense and Michael Jerger rebounded well. Ariel Wagner led Michigan State with six points.

Penn State 15, Northwestern 2

Chase Mitchelson led Penn State with nine points, while Ben Fischer, Devon Glenn and Dan Campbell added two apiece. Penn State had good rebounding from Conor O'Bryan and fine defense from Peter Doyle and Tommy Daguanno. Alex LaGrasso has also played well.

Chris Baugh scored Northwestern's points. Jimmy Cotzias was a standout defensively and Michael Atsalakis led in rebounding.

Michigan 22, Iowa 4

Although Michigan was missing Tommy Peltz and Eric Palmer because of illness, several other players picked up the slack. Ryan Gunderson scored 14 points, while Brett Alderman had four points and several steals. Alex Middleton and Dan Till scored two points apiece and blocked the middle defensively. Stefan Smolenski and Phillip Black each collected several rebounds and played tight defense.

Iowa's Matthew Bates, Andrew Blohm, Antonio Evangelista, Brian Evanski, John Gillis, James Martin and Edward Perry worked hard in the game but couldn't crack Michigan's tough defense.

Kentucky 30, K.L. McCoy Swishers 12

Stefan Cross, Robert Fine, Joseph Levigne, Michael Moncrieff, Sean Scott, Donald Thill, Andrew Tobin and Sammy Ventimiglia combined their talents to pull out the victory for Kentucky, which got off to a quick start.

Forward Nathaniel Brennan has been a strong rebounder and defensive player for the Swishers. Jim Manganello is a strong forward with an improving shot. David McCoy ran the offense well. Tim Mulheron's passing at guard was a help to the team, while Andrew Roa did an excellent job of rebounding on both ends. Christopher Schwartz was a defensive presence in the middle and an important offensive rebounder. Joshua Weld-Wallis played point guard and was the Swishers' leading scorer. William Dickson is second in scoring as a swing player between guard and forward.

Ohio State 34, UNLV 10

Ohio State players Michael Bramos, Kyle Kwiatkowski, Zachary Matthews, Mark Mondalek, Christopher Rizzo, David Sheill and Ryan Walsh were hot from start to finish and all contributed to the victory.

UNLV players Alfred Arriola, Jeffrey Bove, Joshua Busch, Brandon DePetro, Nicholas Dinverno, Jacob Masinick, Ryan Stephens and Josh Uniewski worked hard in the game.

GIRLS GRADE 3

Lightning 8, Wolverines 6
Elizabeth Andary scored all eight points for the Lightning. Strong defense by Mary Arbanas, Kristen Bertelsen, Katie Curis, Lindsay Ruthven and Melissa Watz was the key to the victory. Andary hit the winning basket with 35 seconds left. Other players who've contributed to the Lightning's success are Elle D'Angelo, Emily Schleicher and Catherine Solomon.

Wolverine players Jessica Boyd, Jillian Girodat, Candice Keith,

Lindsay Montgomery, Margaret O'Connor, Michelle O'Donoghue, Alexis Pavle, Kelly Payne and Ann Stavale worked well together, making a lot of smooth passes.

Pistons 28, Colts 9

Caitlin Bennett scored 20 points for the Pistons. Megan Warren collected four points and five steals and Betsy Schrage and Jennifer DeFauw each added two points. Schrage and DeFauw also made some fine passes. Anna Staperfenne and Mary Simon played unselfishly and had two steals apiece. Carrie Morawski had her best game of the year, pulling down several important rebounds. Jenny McGraw and Lindsay Cassidy have also provided solid support all season.

Colts players Kathleen Alvin, Caitlin Boll, Katie Butler, Jennifer Cotzias, Danielle Marantette, Celia Mengel, Rachel Sullivan and Meghan Vandelinder worked hard, but couldn't keep up with the Pistons' offensive power.

Blizzard 12, Blues 12

The Blizzard had balanced scoring from Grace Butts, Dayna Hohlfeldt, Colleen Conley and Erica Coates and aggressive defense and rebounding from Christine Bourgeois, Mary Embree, Julie Feikens and Maria Feldpausch. Ashley Rogers has also been a solid contributor.

Maggie Collison, Anne Dalby, Angie McGinnis, Laura Nicholl, Emily Samra, Leslie Schott, Dani Shealey and Rachel Diehl played well for the Blues.

Lightning 16, Mustangs 14

The Lightning's leaders were Elizabeth Andary, Mary Kathryn Arbanas, Kristen Bertelsen and Katie Curis, while Elle D'Angelo, Lindsay Ruthven, Emily Schleicher, Catherine Solomon and Melissa Watz also turned in solid efforts.

Devon Crawford and Jessica DiVirgil led the way for the Mustangs, who also had some fine plays from Natalie Humphrey, Chrissie Keersmaekers and Jordan McIlroy and strong support from Kara Peters and Natalie Relich.

Drake is MAC's best

Former Grosse Pointe South standout Angela Drake was named Mid-American Conference player of the week in women's basketball after scoring 49 points in Toledo's victories over Akron and Western Michigan.

Drake was nearly perfect for Toledo in its 110-70 victory over Akron.

The junior forward hit 11 of her 12 shots from the field and made her only free throw attempt to finish with a game-high 23 points. Drake also had six rebounds and three assists.

In the Western Michigan game, Drake scored 26 points, connecting on seven of 10 field-goal attempts, had seven rebounds and two assists.

Earlier, Drake scored 30 points and collected 14 rebounds in the Rockets' 88-63 victory over Bowling Green.

North, South will host state districts

It's state district tournament time for high school volleyball and basketball players and Grosse Pointe North and Grosse Pointe South will each host a district.

South hosts a Class A volleyball district Friday. North plays Regina at 6 p.m. in the first semifinal match, while South meets Detroit Southeastern at 7 p.m. in the other semifinal. The championship match is scheduled for 8 p.m.

North will host a Class A basketball district next week. North and South will meet Monday at 6 p.m., followed by a game between Detroit Public School rivals Denby and Finney.

The North-South winner will play Detroit Southeastern on Wednesday at 6 p.m. and the Finney-Denby winner will play East Detroit at about 7:30 p.m.

The championship game will be Friday, March 8, at 7:30 p.m.

Athletes visit Mason

Several female varsity athletes from Grosse Pointe North and Grosse Pointe South recently visited Mason Elementary to speak about the importance of sports.

It was part of Mason's celebration of National Girls' and Women's Sports Day.

The all-girls assembly was attended by Mason's second through fifth graders.

"What a treat it was to have high school students come and talk about how they got started in sports, who encouraged them, what sports they tried out for and what sport they finally enjoyed doing at the varsity level," said Deborah Ann Raab, physical education teacher at Mason.

South athletes participating were Alexis Ashley, track and field; Deanna Raab, basketball and softball; and Molly McKenzie, basketball, volleyball and soccer.

Attending from North were Beth Janutol, swimming; Jean Seo, track and field and volleyball; and Molly Pesta, softball.

Knights beat Irish in regional

By Chuck Klonko
Sports Editor

The third time was a charm for University Liggett School's hockey team in its meetings with Notre Dame this year.

"If we're going to beat them, this is definitely the time to do it," said Knights' coach John Fowler after his team skated to a 6-1 victory over the Irish in the first game of the Class B-C-D regional at Cranbrook Kingswood.

In two earlier meetings during the Michigan Prep Hockey League season, the teams skated to a tie and Notre Dame won by a goal.

A three-goal second period was the difference for the Knights.

"They outshot us (17-14) but we outscored them," Fowler said.

ULS led 1-0 after the first period on Peter Birgbauer's low snap shot, but the Knights scored twice in the first four minutes of the second period.

Ian Fines made it 2-0 at 2:57 and Tom Delisle gave ULS a three-goal lead 17 seconds later. ULS killed off three penalties during the period and then dealt Notre Dame a death blow on a rebound goal by Jason Santo with only eight seconds left in the period.

Birgbauer and Chris Ford came down the ice on a 2-on-0 break and when Notre Dame goalie Reuben Gay saved the initial shot and tumbled into the net, Santo lifted the puck over a pile of players.

Good effort from Devils' wrestlers

Grosse Pointe South got another good effort from its four Division I regional wrestling qualifiers, but it wasn't quite enough to get the Blue Devils to the state meet.

"All the kids wrestled well," said South coach Larry Carr. "I told them afterward that once you get to the regional, everybody's tough."

Zach Meyers beat Royal Oak Kimball's Randy Goldworthy 5-1 in his first match at 189 pounds, but then lost 5-2 to Juan Blythe of Brother Rice and 5-3 to Jeff Bonacchi of Fraser.

"The loss to Bonacchi was the one that hurt the most because Zach handled him in both the dual meet and individual districts," Carr said.

Joe Dwaiby dropped both of his matches at 119, losing 9-3 and 6-0 decisions.

James Hall lost 18-4 to Berkley's Scott Losey at 140, then earned a 6-4 decision over Iyad Fakhouri of Troy before dropping a 15-3 decision to Andy Perry of Roseville.

Kris Cernok lost his first match at 152 on a pin by Zack Sanom of Berkley, then bowed 6-0 to Tom Vallone of L'Anse Creuse.

The penalty-killing was also a major factor.

"We had their power play scouted pretty well, so our defensive rotation kept them bottled up most of the time," Fowler said. "And when they did beat our defense and got a shot, Paul Huebner made a great save."

Huebner played an outstanding game, turning away 43 of the 44 shots the Irish fired at him.

"If there were three stars named, Paul would have been No. 1," Fowler said.

ULS increased its lead to 5-0 on a shorthanded goal by Delisle with 10:22 left in the third period. Notre Dame's Matt Knowles scored a power-play goal during the same penalty.

Ford completed the scoring at 10:56 with a power-play goal on a hard shot from the point after firing wide on two previous attempts.

Although Fowler used three lines throughout the game, the unit of Birgbauer, Santo and Delisle accounted for most of the scoring. Delisle had two goals and two assists, Santo had a goal and three assists and Birgbauer collected a goal and two assists.

Andrew Ricci had the other ULS assist.

The Knights completed the regular season with a 6-1 loss at Port Huron Northern, but Fowler was pleased with the effort against the Huskies, who were unbeaten in the Michigan Prep league this year.

"We left five players behind because of the flu and then (Ian) McMillan and (Ian) Watt left the game with injuries so it was a game for the younger players," Fowler said. "We played a very good team game."

"We licked our wounds Friday, Saturday and Sunday and I think we benefitted by not having a game over the weekend. We drank our orange juice and got healthy again, worked on some things in practice and came out and played a good game against Notre Dame."

ULS' only goal against PHN was scored by Birgbauer from Jim Wood and Jason Capen.

A victory over Detroit Country Day Wednesday would send the Knights into Friday's 7 p.m. regional championship game at Cranbrook Kingswood.

GROSSE POINTE NEWS & THE CONNECTION      FEBRUARY 29, 1996

The hard facts about colds

"Don't go out with wet hair. You'll catch a cold," mom always said. This is just one of many 'old wives' tales" about how colds are caught.

According to Paula Kim, MD, family practice physician and director of Medical Education at Bon Secours Hospital, cold air, drafts, and damp weather don't cause colds. Viruses do.

"There are more than 200 different viruses, in several different families, that can cause colds," Dr. Kim said. "Some are most active in the fall, spring and summer, others thrive in the winter."

But why does it seem like we're sicker in the fall and winter? One of the reasons, Dr. Kim says, is that people stay inside more during that time of the year, which increases their chance of being exposed to a virus.

We are in much closer contact with people because we are indoors, and the air we breathe isn't well ventilated," she explained.

Viruses generally are transmitted through nasal secretions and saliva. They can be expelled into the air when someone sneezes or coughs or passed by hand contact (shaking hands or touching infected objects). That's why hand washing is the best line of defense.

"If the virus is 'caught,' the white blood cells, which are part of the body's immune system, begin their defense plan," Dr. Kim said. If the body is well rested

As the virus tries to make its home in nasal passages, specialized white blood cells race to the rescue, causing symptoms such as swelling and inflammation, as well as fluid leakage and mucus, to trap the virus and carry it out of the body. If the virus escapes, it enters healthy cells and reproduces.

So what can you do to help your body cure itself of the cold?

Nothing. It's hard to believe that we have accomplished such things as sending men to the moon, but there still is no magic pill or serum we can take to miraculously cure the cold," Dr. Kim said. An exception is the annual flu shot, which protects against prevalent strains of influenza."

There are some things you can do to help treat the symptoms, however. Dr. Kim recommends that you:

- Get plenty of rest. The first stages of fighting a cold are hard on the body and require a lot of energy.

- Get some relief from your responsibilities at home so you can get to bed earlier.

- Take Tylenol or Ibuprofen to help reduce fever or muscle aches (NOTE: never give children under 18 years of age aspirin.)

- Take an antihistamine or a decongestant, which will reduce stuffiness by opening the nasal passage and drying the secretions.

- Keep the air humidified. This will keep the nasal membranes from drying out.

- Take extra vitamin C (500 to 1,000 milligrams). While taking vitamin C will not prevent getting a cold, it can help reduce the duration and severity of symptoms once you have one because it improves the way white blood cells help defend the body. Some people may experience diarrhea from taking too much vitamin C, and pregnant women should not stay on large doses for a prolonged period of time.

- Drink lots of fluids, especially juices which are rich in vitamin C. This helps the system flush the virus out and accommodates the loss of moisture from breathing through the mouth.

If after seven to 10 days the cold does not get better, it's time to call the doctor. The cold may have developed into a sinus infection.

"Sometimes, if the sinus area is blocked long enough, it can become infected," Dr. Kim said. "Then symptoms include facial pain, thick nasal discharge and a fever."

You also may have contracted bacterial infection (strep throat, sinusitis, pneumonia or an ear infection). Prescribed antibiotics can help fight off the invaders.

Other symptoms for which you should call your doctor include: a fever of more than 100 degrees for two or three days; severe pain behind the ears or eyes, in the jaw or sinuses; an extremely sore throat or swollen neck gland.

Home-Based Businesses: Fully Insured?

-If you're one of the more than 25 million Americans whose home is where your small business is, you could face going out of business because of improper insurance coverage.

The reason? In many cases home-based businesses rely on standard homeowners or renters policies to cover their business property. But, reports the Independent Insurance Agents of America (IIAA), many homeowners and renters policies specifically exclude losses from business activities.

Some home-based businesses decide to pay a higher homeowners or renters premium to override those exclusions, but industry experts say that's still insufficient for home-based business needs.

"The bad news is that homeowners policies—even those with special endorsements—often just don't do the job," said Peter van Aartrijk, IIAA vice president of communications.

Standard homeowners policies also exclude liability coverage for at-home businesses. The good news for home-based businesses is that independent insurance agents have been encouraging insurers to develop in-home business policies. Insurance companies are responding by providing products specifically tailored to in-home businesses.

If your office is in your home, your homeowners policy may not sufficiently protect you against loss.

In fact, some in-home policies offer comprehensive coverage for business personal property; as much as $1 million in business liability protection; theft coverage on-and-off premises; coverage for loss of business income; a standard $100 deductible; and minimum premiums as low as $150.

Prostate Cancer: Choosing The Best Treatment

-Prostate cancer is one of the most common cancers in men, with more than 244,000 new cases expected in 1995. African Americans are especially at high risk of developing the disease.

Radiation therapy and surgery are the two standard ways to treat this disease if the cancer is confined to the prostate. If the cancer is found before it has spread, the patient has a better chance of survival.

"In an era when early prostate cancer is being diagnosed more frequently with the prostate specific antigen (PSA) blood test, it is important that men understand the true benefits and risks of different treatment options," says Dr. Lester J. Peters, chairman of the American Society for Therapeutic Radiology and Oncology (ASTRO).

Both surgery (prostatectomy) and radiation therapy offer excellent survival rates for patients with early stage disease.

However, a number of studies indicate that patients who are treated with radiation therapy are much less likely to lose control of their urine than those undergoing major prostate surgery. Radiation therapy is no more likely than nerve-sparing surgery to cause sexual impotence.

External beam radiation therapy, which typically requires seven weeks of daily treatment, is usually well tolerated. The treatment takes very little time and is done as an outpatient procedure. Most patients can continue with their daily routine.

Radiation therapy is a treatment option for some prostate cancer patients.

Some radiation oncologists are implanting radioactive seeds directly into the prostate in an effort to destroy cancer cells. This procedure is called brachytherapy. Early results of recent studies on brachytherapy for prostate cancer indicate it may offer the same cure rate in properly selected patients. However, long term followup needs to be done before physicians know for sure if it is as effective.

Patients with advanced prostate cancer also may benefit from radiation treatments. Radiation therapy is an effective way to treat pain and other symptoms that are caused by the spread of cancer to a patient's bones.

Injury Clinic helps keep you active

Congratulations! You finally broke par on the golf course. Unfortunately, your trophy seems to be a nagging, painful shoulder. Now what?

If an activity-related injury is keeping you from participating in your favorite sport or other physical activity, you may want to jog over to the CHAMP injury Clinic at the Henry Ford Cottage Hospital Emergency Center, 159 Kercheval Avenue in Grosse Pointe Farms.

A special service of the Cottage Hospital Athletic Medicine Program (CHAMP) and the Emergency Center, the CHAMP injury Clinic is available to the community every Tuesday and Thursday, from 2 to 7 p.m. During these hours a Physician Assistant, who also is a Certified Athletic Trainer, will assess your injury, prescribe treatment and make referrals for therapy or to an Orthopedic Surgeon when appropriate. No appointment is necessary. Just come to the Emergency Center and tell the receptionist you're there for the CHAMP injury Clinic.

Injury Clinic fees are similar to a doctor's office visit rather than the more costly "Emergency" care. X-rays or other diagnostic tests are additional, if required.

The injury Clinic is part of a sequence of services that comprise the goal of CHAMP: to provide fast, efficient and complete care to active members of the community, whether they are high school football players, corporate joggers, mall walkers, aerobic exercisers or recreational tennis players. CHAMP meets the demands for injury prevention, recognition, conditioning, evaluation, medial and surgical treatment, counseling and rehabilitation for the physically active person.

Jeb Sheidler, P.A.-C., A.T.C., runs the CHAMP injury Clinic. As an experienced Athletic Trainer, he uses a step-by-step approach to address injuries, taking ample time with each person to discuss the problem and how it might be prevented in the future.

"We put special emphasis on education and prevention," explains Sheidler. Many of the action injuries we see in the Clinic result from not warming up properly before a strenuous activity. Even if someone is stretching to warm up and cool down, they might not be doing the right stretches for their particular activity. It often helps to demonstrate the appropriate stretches to make sure a client understands and is doing them correctly," he adds. "And, I also instruct the client

After a consultation with an Athletic Trainer in the CHAMP Injury Clinic, an athlete may be referred to the Cottage Athletic Medicine and Physical Therapy Center for ongoing, professionally supervised therapy.

Sometimes a neoprene brace is recommended which constricts the muscles and tendons, providing comforting warmth to the injured tissue. Sheidler shows the client specific exercises for an in-home therapy program to relieve pain or strengthen the muscles. If ongoing, professionally supervised physical therapy is needed, the client is referred to the Cottage Athletic Medicine and Physical Therapy Center or, in the most severe cases, to an orthopedic surgeon for further evaluation.

Many of the injured athletes come to the Clinic by way of the CHAMP Trainers who are on the field at local high school athletic events. If an injury occurs during track practice, for example, an immediate assessment is made by the Trainer who then may suggest the injury Clinic for further evaluation and follow-up. Quick action and attention can keep an injury from becoming more serious threat to a young athlete.

Typical injuries seen in the Clinic include foot, knee or ankle pain from runners, wrist and ankle sprains from basketball players, shoulder or low back pain from golfers and ruptured Achilles tendon from racquet-ball action.

"If the pain or swelling from an injury persists or increases after a few days, you should seek professional advice," says Sheidler. "The CHAMP injury Clinic is a convenient way to get to the bottom of the problem, then get the appropriate level of care to get you back into the game as soon as possible. It puts you immediately in touch with medical professionals trained in all aspects of athletic medicine, orthopedics and rehabilitation."

For more information about the services provided by CHAMP, the injury Clinic or the Cottage Hospital Athletic Medicine and Physical Therapy Center, call (313) 640-2200 for a brochure or ask to speak to an athletic trainer.

Students who plan to be active in school sports should mark their calendars for Monday, May 20, when CHAMP will provide the required Athletic Physicals at a special, low cost to the Grosse Pointe community. Athletes should contact their school Athletic Director for more information.
