Farms sculptor builds creative, useful works of art for the home

By Chip Chapman Staff Writer

When Andrew Owens came to Grosse Pointe from Philadelphia last year, "I didn't come here kicking and screaming," he said.

That's because with Detroit being an industrial town, many of the raw materials Owens uses in making his furniture pieces is readily available.

"If I had to go somewhere, such as South Dakota, I might not be as happy," he said.

Owens and his wife, Lynn, came to Grosse Pointe last year, after she finished her MBA at the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School of Business, to begin a job with the Ford Motor Co.

"I've been in business for several years, and I can ship my products from anywhere, he said about moving here.

His business is Andrew Owens Designs. A sculptor by trade, Owens creates furniture – tables primarily brass, bronze and steel with tops made of wood, granite, glass and marble.

Originally from Indiana, Owens earned a bachelor of fine arts degree from the University of Cincinnati and a master of fine arts degree from Rutgers University. He was working in Chicago in 1988 exhibiting his works in galleries when a client asked if he

Owens has published a catalog as a guideline to show examples of his work, "but most of my business is custom design work," he said.

He said he prefers to visit a client's home to see where the piece will be displayed.

"It gives me a sense of their tastes," he said. "It also helps in determining size and material parameters.

Owens does not stock finished pieces.

"Everything is made to order," he said.

From concept to completion, it can take Owens anywhere from a couple of days to a few weeks to finish one of his

In addition to tables, chairs and bookcases, Owens has built stools, curio cabinets, wine racks and other items.

Budget OK, health care is '96 issue

he GOP Congress and the White House finally agreed last week on a permanent budget for the fiscal year that began last Oct. 1, almost seven months ago.

Both houses then passed a $160 billion spending bill that reflected $24 billion in cuts demanded by the Republicans and $5 billion in increased spending on health, education, environment and jobs programs sought by the Clinton administration, the New York Times reported.

This obviously represented a compromise, but on the health care issue it is expected to be much more difficult to achieve some kind of an agreement between the parties.

The overall aims of the health care bill, passed in different form by both houses and now in conference, are to make health insurance more accessible and to protect workers who change jobs from losing their insurance.

But Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole wanted to allow people to set up tax-deductible medical savings accounts.

Such accounts could be used to pay basic medical expenses, if the purchasers also bought insurance policies whose high deductibles would not cover the first few thousand dollars of annual health costs.

GOP supporters, including Dole, contend these accounts would help reduce inflation in health care costs by giving the insured persons reason to help keep costs down.

Democrats, including the president, say these accounts would help only the healthy and the rich, and, in fact, would increase costs to the poor by taking an important segment of people out of the regularly insured population.

Some Republicans think the president would not veto the bill over the provision. Others say that if he does, he will have to take the blame from the public for the loss of the basic portability contained in the measure.

The Democrats, however, contend that Dole would have to face the blame for the veto because the issue is a political liability that is being sought by officers of Golden Rule Insurance, heavy backers of the GOP.

Even the budget deal still leaves much for voters and future Congresses to decide.

After all, it now involves only about one-tenth of the $1.6 trillion federal budget and will be in effect only for the remaining five months of the current fiscal year.

In addition, it does not deal with the huge benefit programs, such as Social Security, Medicare, Medicaid and welfare that account for about two-thirds of all federal spending.

In fact, left up in the air is a determination of the disagreement between the Republicans and the Democrats over the ultimate size of the federal government and the question of whether 30 years of government social policy should be undone, the New York Times reported.

All these topics are sure to be revisited during the presidential campaign, and during congressional campaigns in which the GOP will be seeking to extend its control over Congress and Democrats will be trying to reverse the 1994 election results.

Will spending cuts cost votes?

verall, the GOP Congress cut domestic spending for the current fiscal year by about $24 billion, or 10 percent of federal spending, but the cost, in terms of trims in appropriations for federal programs, was heavy.

The GOP thus did take a first step toward balancing the budget, perhaps in seven years, but the question remains as to whether the public will accept most cuts in popular programs.

For example, the National Endowment for the Arts and the Humanities, neither of which counts for much in the total federal budget, were both trimmed sharply.

The arts endowment was cut 39 percent, to $99.5 million from $162.3 million last year, while the humanities lost 36 percent, being cut from $172 million to $110 million.

Rep. Sidney R. Yates, a veteran Illinois Democrat, warned that the 1996 appropriations bill "sounds the death knell for the Endowment for the Arts and the Humanities." The Times reporter said he was "exaggerating only a bit."

However, Jane Alexander, chairwoman of the arts endowment, said that while the cuts were substantial, she was pleased that the agency had survived. She believes the drive to eliminate it has lost nomentum.

Even the agencies for which President Clinton asked special attention and funds in the last-minute political maneuvering also lost funds.

The Education Department was trimmed from $26.8 billion to $25.2 billion, and the Department of Housing and Urban Development got $19.1 billion, down from $24.7 billion.

Even the funds for the Healthy Start program, which offers health care for young children, was cut from $104.2 million to $93 million. The Low-Income Home Energy Assistance program gets $900 million for this year, as contrasted with $1.4 billion last year.

Military spending will go up by $1.9 billion, while appropriations for the Department of Health and Human Services will rise from $179.2 billion to $197.4 billion.

However, the agency that finances research on drug abuse, mental health and alcoholism was cut from $2.2 billion to $1.9 billion.

However, the cuts do not affect Medicare, Medicaid, welfare and other benefit programs with financing set by specific laws. They account for slightly more than half of all federal spending.

How the public reacts to these and other cuts no doubt will depend on each individual citizen's interest in and/or need for specific programs that took a hit from Congress. Such reactions could, in fact, affect the congressional elections in November.

Flower power

The members of the committee organizing the flower sale for Grosse Pointe North High School want to thank the North parents and everyone else in our community who have once again demonstrated their support for students by ordering flowers, volunteering their time and spreading the word far and wide about our annual flower sale.

Thank you also to the businesses that have allowed us to advertise.

We also would like to acknowledge the many senior citizens who so very generously support our

The annual flower sale at North and its companion, the impatiens sale at South high, are the major source of funding for the Grosse Pointe North Parents' Club and the Grosse Pointe South Mothers' Club.

With these funds the students, faculty and entire school community are able to receive vital funding to support enrichment activities and scholarships. With so many cuts to public school funding looming in the future, there will be even more requests coming to our organization for funds. With your help, we will be able to continue supporting the students and others in our school community.

For those of you who have asked to have your flowers delivered, please watch for them on Friday, May 10, and Saturday, May 11. If you are picking up your own order, come to the Grosse Pointe North committee.

Everyone worked together, shared their talents and followed through on every detail. When it all came together our South gym looked terrific, the high school talent was spectacular and the fashions were stunning. We also enjoyed a great lunch, by Silver Spoon, and raffled off many prizes.

We very much appreciate our own talented South students for providing the entertainment for our afternoon. The North/South Jazz Band was lively and spirited. The Pointe Singers was show stopping. The NHS students served us with smiles.

Thanks to our local stores; Bavarian Village; Bikes, Biades and Boards; Dawood; Express; The Gap; La Strega; Lisa's Elegance in Sizes 14-24; Second Skin Swimwear; and Sports on the Hill, for providing all the lovely spring fashions.

Our coordinator, Lisa Baxter of Lisa's Ltd., brought all the fashions together with real style and Bunny Denler provided commentary on the fashions for the afternoon.

Finally, thanks to all our mothers, grandmothers and friends who joined us for the afternoon, as well as all our community supporters. Your support is for a wonderful cause — our South students. We're proud of them.

The ghost of Christmas past

To the Editor:

Recently, I was driving home from dinner and I noticed that several Grosse Pointe residents still think that it's Christmas time. Some people need to be aware of the fact that leaving their Christmas decorations up all year long might irritate other residents.

A number of houses are still adorned with various decorations, such as wreaths and Christmas lights. The weather feels like Christmas, but the holidays were over three months ago. Most of us have moved on.

Some people, like me, leave their lights up all year round but keep them turned off. This is a wonderful solution and it is also cost efficient.

The cold and unpredictable weather has probably kept many residents from taking down their decorations. Spring is here, so maybe my problem will soon be solved.

2 local races attract attention wo local races for Wayne County Commissioner and state representative are the center of Republican political interest in the Pointes this week with one potential candidate pondering a run for commissioner and another potential candidate announcing he will not run for a legislative seat.

In a major surprise, Grosse Pointe Park Mayor Palmer Heenan told a 15th Congressional District GOP rally that he was considering filing for the position of Wayne County commissioner being vacated by Andrew Richner, another Pointer who is running for state representative.

The second announcement came from Peter Ecklund, an unsuccessful candidate for state senator in 1994, who has decided not to run for state representative because he is questioning whether he is in synch with the current GOP leadership. He told the Grosse Pointe News, that

He told the Grosse Pointe News, that while he remains a Republican, he is concerned that "the party of Lincoln is becoming the party of Limbaugh." The latter is a prominent right-wing talk show host.

Ecklund had been expected to file because he was cited by the retiring lst District state Rep. William R. Bryant Jr. of Grosse Pointe as his potential successor when Bryant made his retirement announcement months ago.

Heenan's announcement was a surprise but if we hear him right, what he is saying is that even though there are three candidates already in the GOP primary race, he may run himself unless a candidate more acceptable to him, files for the post.

So will he run or won't he? We dunno.

Policy on letters explained

ith the Grosse Pointe school district election more than a month distant, the Grosse Pointe News already is beginning to get some letters about candidates and their programs.

Thus it is time to reiterate our policy of not publishing letters from candidates or their supporters except in unusual circumstances. Otherwise, we would be inundated with letters supporting this or that candidate or slate, if the five candidates appear to form one or more slates.

While we already have published one letter from a candidate who said she was responding to and taking issue with several opinions in a general editorial, we do not intend to publish any more letters from candidates, unless some unusual or unforseen circumstance arises.

As we have done since 1980, and during some periods prior to that time, we intend to interview all the candidates and then publish news stories about their comments as well as an editorial expressing our own recommendations about the candidates we think would best serve the community.

Later in the year we also will publish interviews and make recommendations for nominees for Wayne County commissioner and state representative prior to the November election.

We probably will also interview candidates for one or both of those offices prior to the primary, depending on the number of candidates seeking the nominations.

State rep job highly recommended

The filing deadline for state legislative races is May 14. As you probably know, I am not seeking re-election. I could only serve for one more twoyear term under the term limits now in effect, and I decided I liked having my last term one in which Republicans are in the majority for a change. We probably will retain the majority, but obviously that is never assured and Democrats do tend to do better in presidential election years.

Also, I am feeling like it is time to move on to other endeavors. The school aid and school code reform efforts of 1993 and last year about did me in. Such major projects tend to sap incredible amounts of energy from the legislator who must lead them, and after a while the energy, the readiness for another huge project, just doesn't return.

Anyway, the filing deadline for candidates to pay their $100 to the county clerk to run for state representative is May 14 at 4 p.m.

While there are three individuals talking about running as Republicans for the Republican nomination, I thought it would be appropriate for me, before the deadline and for the benefit of those three and anyone else who may have or get the itch to run for public office, to tell you a little more about the job and what I feel are some attributes the people of the district do, and should, look for in a state representative.

First, the district consists of the Pointes (except Lake Township, the Macomb County edge of the Shores), Harper Woods and Detroit from Mack to I-94 and from the Harper Woods boundary down to Bedford.

It is about 65 percent Republican, so winning the primary would normally be tantamount to election, unless someone really unacceptable wins the Republican primary. The job itself is terrific, if you like that kind of thing. I tell college kids it's like college bull sessions only you're really supposed to come up with answers. It does involve time away from home, really only two nights a week, if that, and some area legislators drive to Lansing and back each day of session, about 1-1/2 hours each way. The session schedule is about like a school schedule. The pay is not bad, a little less than the average Grosse Pointe teacher makes.

Some of the attributes I feel are called for by the constituency of our 1st District are honesty, independence, a project orientation, openness, a willingness to listen, responsiveness to constituent problems and concerns, an ability to work with others, good problem-solving skills and the ability to put one issue behind and go on to the next. Our communities are blessed with the most stable. moderate, intelligent, rational residents in the state. That's you. Believe me, you are special. All other legislators are green with envy when I tell them how rational and stable my constituents are.

Essentially, the people who live in our area recognize there are some basic responsibilities of government and that there are some in our society who are less fortunate and who need a degree of help from the community at large, and they want their representative to go do his or her work, don't bother them unless it's necessary, don't spend any more money than is necessary and don't waste either their time or money.

I don't think our residents want or should have to suffer anvone representing them who for whatever reason can't or won't vote his or her own conscience. Nor should they have to be represented by anyone who has radical views or an agenda outside of the political mainstream. They don't need anyone trying to rabble-rouse, to stir up trouble, fears or passions for selfish political purposes. They don't need anyone who is going to use taxpayer money to pump out self-serving puff pieces of mail at huge taxpayer expense.

What they want most of all, I believe, is someone whose heart and mind they trust, with whose approach to problem solving and decision making they feel comfortable.

Over the 26 years in which I have had the high honor to be your state representative, the high degree of trust and appreciation you have shown me is indeed astounding and very gratifying and much appreciated. You have basically told me to go do my job and not to bother you. I have tried to do just that. In the process I have probably shorted our communities a little bit in the ceremonial aspects of my job -- I don't like acting important, and I'd rather be working on issues so whoever replaces me should probably do a little more, but

An old ode to spring

With some regularity I am probing the unlabeled cartons in our basement in an effort to salvage my sanity and unclutter the house. We made a bargain with family members that we would be more likely to remain in our home IF we could systematically pitch unused junk and simplify the chaos.

Unfortunately, I have this compulsion to read old papers and once in a while I'm glad I took the time. What follows is an editorial written for this paper some 40 years ago, by its editor. I'm proud to share it.

— Offering from the loft

A delayed decision

Spring was pretty slow in making the decision, but we finally heard her gasp in the general direction of Mother Nature: "It was a tough fight Mom, but I won."

Winter wasn't particularly spiteful this year, but she was certainly tenacious. As a matter of fact, one or two of her venomous spits of fury might have done something to relieve the tedium.

She arrived too soon, like an unwanted inlaw, went away for a short time in November to afford us a most welcome respite, then came back to settle down with all her appalling accoutrements of bonechilling fog, freezing rain and dank overcast. She rarely had the courtesy to don her dazzling white frock for an occasional dinner. She was just plain boring.

Now she has gone ... and spring has tripped in to the tune of a golden song, the notes of which are etched in daffodils and narcissus and the show-stopping forsythia. The patter-chorus is played by the myriad dandelions which twinkle up through the unbelievable green of bright fresh grass struggling sunward.

The music swells as winter's brave cardinals, bluejays and sparrows are joined by their more cowardly feathered friends who fled south last fall, doubtless to protect their lovely voices. In such a setting, we don't even mind the discordant notes of the purple grackles who have returned to waddle our

The shrubs are flaunting their breath-taking plumage. The lilac, dogwood and fruit trees are bursting with promised brillance. The Emperor tulips have already unfolded their flamboyance and millions of their poorer relations are forming the line of march that brings us spring's most glorious parade.

Tulips, dogwood, lilacs the most heavenly combination seen on Earth. Their grandeur causes the intrepid snow-challengers, the hyacinths and daffodils, to retreat in withered shame. Peeping shyly from their sheltered vantage points, the violets and myrtle blossoms watch the passing spectacle.

Peonies and poppies shake off their shackles and rear their heads in preparation for the next act. Standing guard, our greatest benefactors, the stately elms, maples and oaks patiently push open their leaf buds in anticipation of the long hot months ahead.

The rose bushes are uncurling their glossy foliage previewing the show they will stage next month. In the shady corners of the garden, fern fronds unfold gracefully and the iris prepares to have its day in the spotlight.

If there are those who claim to doubt the existence of miracles, how can they answer the advent of another spring? From where do the flowers and the leaves and the grass come? From seeds? From where did the first not much, in the pretty tribute and local parade and fair and ceremony category.

Most of all, what I think the residents of our communities want and deserve is someone who won't take orders from anyone, who will not serve or be beholden to any special interest, who will listen to and respect everyone, who is a fiscal conservative and a social moderate, who is willing and able to see both the big picture and the critically important detail, the now and the long term, and someone who is intelligent and dedicated and has the character and personality to be a leader in the Republican legislative ranks in Lansing.

If any of this calls to you, call me. Let's talk. If any of this makes you wonder about the degree to which one or more of the probable, thus far, candidates may have or not have what it takes, think about whom you would like to see run.

Good luck in your thoughts and, as of May 15, we will soon know the choices that you and I will have in the August primary election. I hope we will have the happy task of choosing the best from among a number of excellent Republican candidates.

nicest thing we get is all the thank-yous.

The spirit of cooperation was infectious Saturday. "I just came to see what was going on and I decided to stay and help," said Michael Wilbort, who's 14 and goes to Parcells. "I helped a man carry out the same toilet that I helped someone else bring in."

One coin in the fountain

For the record: The first coin of the season (a shiny penny), was seen the evening of April 24 in the fountain dedicated to Mr. and Mrs. Edward V. Monahan in the courtyard of the War Memorial.

By the end of summer it's usually full. One September day last year, an unofficial FYI tally counted over $6 worth of assorted underwater pennies, nickels, dimes and quarters. There's no telling how much disappeared along the way.

What happens to the money rest goes into the General memorial's program director, Memorial," she said. Bunny Denler.

Team plots G.P. schools' future course

Destiny is strategic.

That's the guiding principle of the Grosse Pointe Public School System's strategic planning process. Using a broad-based representative team of school board members, parents, teachers, administrators, students and community members at large, the school system periodically reviews its purpose, strengths, weaknesses, opportunities and threats and then develops long-range, strategic plans for future improvements.

Implementation of a massive technology plan, the establishment of a district standard for an educated person, and continual upgrading of the physical plant are three recent successful results of planning and development by the strategic planning process.

This process requires courage, respect, communication, reliable data, a tolerance for complexity and paradox, a spirit of persistence, and most important — a sense of perspective," said Marjorie Parsons, assistant superintendent and strategic planning facilitator. "Results of a recent questionnaire about priority issues, background data about the school district, and highlights of emerging realities from the law, finance, and educational research are among the fundamental items that will be reviewed through this process.

The team meeting is expected to produce a set of clear objectives which will be developed in the months ahead by voluntary action teams. Eventually, a new strategic plan for the district's future will be recommended to the school board for approval.

Follow-up information will be communicated in June through various school and community publications.

A summer vacation

from History can be fun.

A summer vacation from speech therapy can hurt.

School will soon be out for the summer. But children with speech problems often still need help.

That's why Bon Secours created the Summer Speech Program for children ages 3 to 18.

The Bon Secours Staff of certified speech and language pathologists have helped scores of children improve their language skills. And improved speech means improved self-confidence.

The program includes two 50-minute sessions each week from June 24 to August 12. Classes are held at the Unitarian Church which is located at 17150 Maumee (1 block north of Bon Secours Hospital). The fee for the eight-week program is $225. Register your child by May 31 by calling the Speech Pathology Department at (313) 343-1622.

Driver's ed bill in legislature could be move in right direction

For the most part, the Legislature is on the right road with its proposed stricter driver's licensing requirements for teens and the ways in which public schools could operate such programs.

While some details remain to be worked out - Barry Sanders is reportedly not happy with the potential move to blocking back - there is a real possibility that the sizzling senior citizen will be starring in the Silverdome next fall. The Lions had no official comment. However, one high-placed source in the organization not only confirmed that the amazing Speedster had indeed passed the team physical, but also claimed, "This guy's one incredible physical specimen - Gordie Howe, Sachel Paige, and Mick Jagger come to mind - and our scouts say he hasn't lost a step!"

Autos

By Richard Wright

Saab hopes to make "whiplash" a thing of the past when it introduces a new head restraint system in its next-generation models. Together with Delphi Interior & Lighting Systems, Saab is developing Pro-tech, an active head restraint system that should limit occupant head and neck injuries. The head restraint is connected to a pressure plate in the seat back. In a collision from the rear, the occupant is pressed into the backrest, moving the pressure plate toward the rear. This action moves the head restraint upward and forward to meet the head before the dangerous whiplash movement has started. After the head restraint has been activated and has limited the head's movement, it will revert to its initial position, ready to perform its task again. Delphi is a subsidiary of General Motors.

The 1997 Chevrolet Venture Minivan took its first public bow at the New York International Automobile Show in early April. The van replaces the Lumina APV minivan. It will feature a standard 180-HP 3400 V-6 engine with electronic 4-speed automatic; an optional power sliding passenger-side door which can be operated from a keyless remote; a pollen/dust filter; an optional drivers' side sliding door and a theater-style tiered floor which gives rear passengers improved forward view. Production of the new Venture begins this summer. It should be on sale by fall.

WHEN A WARNING COMES TO LIGHT

When the red brake warning light flashes on the instrument panel, some drivers may doubt that they have a problem because their brakes either feel normal or there is only a slight difference in brake pedal feel. The fact is, however, that the red warning light may be indicating a serious problem while the braking system remains largely functional for the time being. This is because modern cars are equipped with a dual braking system. There is a separate hydraulic system for the front brakes and another for the rear brakes. The split may also be between one front wheel and it diagonal rear-wheel counterpart and the other two wheels. Regardless of how the roll is enoughted when diagonal rear-wheel counterpart and the other two wheels. Regardless of how the split is configured, when a brake-fluid leak occurs and there is a drop in brake-fluid pressure when braking, a valve will shut off half the brake system. The red warning light then flashes, signaling that the problem should be addressed immediately because total brake failure could be just around the corner.

Honda will market its own sport utility vehicle, the Honda CR-V, in the 1997 model year. Honda tested the market at key auto shows around the United States and featured the proposed vehicle on its Internet Web site. Feedback indicated buyer interest and enthusiasm from dealers. The new vehicle may be on the market before the end of this calendar year, Honda said. Likely to be priced at less than $20,000, the CR-V will be available in a 4-door model with a 2.0-liter 16-valve engine, on-demand 4-wheel drive, 4-speed automatic, dual air bags, air conditioning, power accessories AND a foldout picnic table (!) as standard equipment.

It's back-to-school time for Cadillac dealership personnel who will be selling the new Cadillac Catera entry-luxury sedan. They'll be attending Catera College, a $ar{2}$ 1/2-day session at a facility north of Detroit. It is designed to be an intensive learning process for Catera dealers and their management. The goal is to help them better understand entry-luxury customers and prepare for the arrival of these demanding new customers at their dealerships — along with the cars — this fall. Classes and seminars will focus on Cadillac and competitive product information, on consultative selling, on reaching women buyers and on providing world-class ownership experience. As of late March, Cadillac said it had commitments to sell and service Catera from some 675 of its 1,580 dealers.

JLD Show House is ready for its close-up

By Margie Reins Smith Feature Editor

If the Junior League of Detroit's 1996 Designers' Show House were a barometer for hot new decorating trends, what would it indicate? What tucked in the corner of one of two themes would emerge?

And what — if not the biennial Designers' Show House - could better serve as a barometer for Detroit's ;decorating trends?

After all, 34 of Detroit's top design firms were winnowed from a field of 125 which submitted plans to a league committee. And each designer strives to transform his or her portion of a spectacular 9,400-squarefoot Tudor architectural gem into the best space it can possibly be.

"These themes were not thought lout in advance," said Julia Keim, one of four co-chairmen of this year's show house. "They just . . emerged."

"Every room has great original art too," said Ann Baxter, co-chairman. "And orchids are everywhere. We noticed these themes after the rooms were completed."

Hellfire and brimstone

By the Rev. David H. Wick Grosse Pointe Baptist Church

"Heaven's Gates and Hell's Flames," a drama which vividly presents the judgment of God on sinners, drew 4,672 people to seven performances at the Temple Baptist Church in Lodi, Calif., last January.

Even Super Bowl Sunday failed to keep people away. Overflow crowds watched the drama by remote video; hundreds were actually turned away.

Temple Baptist of Lodi has 950 members. The large attendance represented community interest. Members of the congregation staged the drama themselves, under the direction of a professional production team.

In one week, more than 1,000 people made first-time decisions to receive Christ as their Savior. Most of these people were adults. Community response was so strong that Temple Baptist rescheduled the drama for next Hellfire is not usually thought of as a popular topic; it's old-fashioned. Jonathan Edwards preached "Sinners in the Hands of an Angry God" 250 years ago.

Revival meetings of the 19th century frequently included two parts: a series of sermons on the law, intended to produce conviction of sin and fear of judgment, followed by a series of Gospel sermons proclaiming God's forgiveness and grace.

We've come a long way from ominous messages of judgment preached in sawdust floored tents on hot summer nights.

Today, psychologists warn against "shame-based" thinking and living. On the cusp of the 21st century, our wisdom is to emphasize the importance of having a good self-concept, a positive self-image.

The concepts of sin and judgment don't mesh comfort ably with our taboos against shame, guilt and low selfesteem. Evidently we've outgrown such archaic concepts as sin, guilt, and judgment.

Our sophisticated maturity about sin, guilt, and judgment explains why everything is so wonderful today, why everyone is so happy and mentally wholesome, why our prisons are empty, why violence is increasingly rare, why integrity characterizes our culture, and why our biggest problem will soon be what to do about all the unemployed policemen and locksmiths.

No, wait. That can't be right! Here's our problem. As I study the Bible, I can't find shame, guilt or low self-esteem on any of the lists of sins which God abhors and says quite clearly He will

In contrast, I find plenty of the kinds of things people do all the time on God's list of condemned, abhorrent behaviors (see, for example, Galatians 5:19-21).

There are, after all, such things as appropriate shame, deserved guilt and just judgment. Sinners are for real, and God will judge sinners.

That means us. That's the bad news.

The good news is that Jesus came into the world not to condemn it, but so that the world, through Him,

Hell's flames and heaven's gates are crucially linked realities. Perhaps we sinners know, deep down, that we need reminding about the bad news, so that we can appreciate and respond to the good news about God's

Perhaps that explains turn-away crowds in 1996 — 250 years after Jonathan Edwards — at a drama about hellfire and brimstone.

Shaping up for spring

Special Writer

It's that time of year when weekend athletes who have hibernated during the long winter return to the softball diamonds, tennis courts and bike paths. Those who have forgotten to undertake a proper conditioning program before returning to sports may find themselves in the waiting room of the nearest emergency center or doctor's office.

Spring and summer sports can be fun and injury-free if you take the time to get in shape first. The key to avoiding injuries is building strength, flexibility and cardiovascular fitness before you hit the field, courts or links.

Athletic trainers with the Cottage Hospital Athletic Medicine Program (CHAMP) recommend starting a conditioning program at least four weeks before beginning active or competitive sports.

Don't jump right into a sport. Gradually get into it starting with a stretching When program. stretch, don't bounce. Hold the stretch for a good 20 to 30 seconds and repeat each stretch three to five times apiece for all the major body muscles.

If you don't know what stretches are appropriate or how to do them, consult an athletic trainer or go to the library and check out one of the many good books that tell and show the right and wrong ways to increase your flexibility through stretches.

Warming up the muscles by stretching is just the beginning. After stretching, you'll have to work on strengthening all those areas. Use weights, soup cans or exercise bands - whatever's available. Start building up your cardiovascular endurance by walking or jogging or whatever activity you enjoy, to get your heart rate going.

And forget about the phrase "No Pain, No Gain." Always avoid pain in your workouts. If pain persists for three to five days, see a doctor or stop in at the CHAMP injury clinic between 2 and 7 p.m. Tuesdays or Thursdays at the Henry Ford Cottage Hospital Emergency Center.

Working closely with the CHAMP injury clinic is Dr. Terrence Lock, a board certified orthopedic surgeon who also is trained in sports medicine and serves as team physician for the Detroit Tigers.

If walking or running are your passion, start your conditioning program today, so you'll be in shape for the 16th annual Henry Ford Cottage Hospital Fun Run & Walk on Sunday, May 19. Entry forms for this 5-kilometer race are available by calling (313) 640-2456.

The event also includes a free Dinosaur Romp mini-race and Dinosaur Health Club for kids, as well as free health and fitness screenings and information for adults.

Jeb Sheidler is a physician assistant and athletic trainer, heading up the CHAMP Injury Clinic, a service of the Henry Ford Cottage Hospital Emergency Center.

Art on the Pointe

Art on the Pointe, an annual juried art show and family fair sponsored by the Assistance League to the Northeast Guidance Center, will be held on Saturday and Sunday, June 8 and 9, on the historic grounds of the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House.

Proceeds benefit the community mental health programs of the Northeast Guidance Center.

The 13th annual art show has a new logo, created by nautical artist and Grosse Pointe resident Greg Tisdale.

Madeline Socia of Grosse Pointe Farms, Debbie Dubay of Grosse Pointe Woods and Lynn Panin of St. Clair Shores are co-chairmen.

The ALNEGC is seeking corporate sponsors for the event, which will feature more than 150 artists and draw more than 10,000 visitors during its two-day run. For information on sponsorship, call (313) 885-

No faster than his conducttechnique, however. Following the serene opening dawn scene in Respighi's musical pictures of the Fountains of Rome, Eddins was a whirlwind of action. It was not always of evident purpose but did elicit from the orchestra a vivid and exciting effect. The sounds of the jets of the Triton Fountain were so realistic and penetrating that it was almost like being showered with the spray. Some details seemed lost in the excitement, but Eddins never lost the overall form and flow of the work. More time on the podium and more opportunities to restudy and conduct works like this will obviously

Opera house opening night first-rate

By Alex Suczek

A new opera-house in this day and age is something of a miracle and yet Detroit now has one thanks to the inspired leadership of Dr. David DiChiera, head of Michigan Opera Theatre.

Along with satisfying the opera loving souls of thousands of area residents, the new opera house is also showing the way for other signs of renaissance in Detroit. With the arts leading the way, as they often do, more jobs, factories, hotels, residential developments and even a new Tiger stadium are more likely than ever to follow.

A capacity audience attended the inaugural performance last Saturday and found itself in a first-rate theater for the opening of Puccini's "La Boheme." While the hall is still a long way from completion, it is fully functional. The stage is ample, the sight lines from every seat are excellent and even in the Margot Livesey, who wrote this vastly unorthodox novel, now divides her time between Cambridge, Mass., and London. She has written two other books, another novel and a collection of short stories. "Criminals" is an excellent example of contemporary fiction with its remarkable language and insight, powerful enough to portray obsession and misdirection in such an illuminating fashion that readers are charmed as well as appalled.

Cruise the Baltic via film

The ancient ports of the Baltic Sea, home to the Hanseatic League from the 12th to 16th centuries, are featured in the final Grosse Pointe Adventure Series presentation of the season on Wednesday, May 8. The Grosse Pointe Adventure Series is co-sponsored by Bon Secours Hospital.

The travelogue adventure will be shown at 8 p.m. in the Fries Auditorium of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. Tickets are $5.25. An optional dinner precedes the film at 6:30 p.m. in the War Memorial's Crystal Ballroom. Dinner is $15 and must be reserved by Monday, May 6, at 9 p.m.

During the 12th century, a group of German merchants formed a trade consortium, known as the Hanseatic League, to protect their ships and cargo from pirates as they plied their trade around the Baltic Sea. As time went on it became an economic monopoly with powerful political and military overtones.

This film is a modern look at some of the towns and cities where vestiges of the league are displayed in the houses, churches and lifestyles of the people. The film visits ports in Denmark, Sweden, Finland, Russia, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Poland and Germany from the vantage point of a comfortable cruise ship, which is in stark contrast to the mode of travel used by the ancient traders.

On hand to personally narrate the film is its producer, Rafael Green. Accompanied by his wife, Jocelyn, Green has been traveling the globe for more than 25 years in search of adventure and human interest stories for their travelogue audiences. Combining his early college training and his audio-visual skills, his films are visually appealing, informative and entertaining.

Call the War Memorial, (313) 881-7511, for more information.

Arbor Day founder grew up in Michigan

Last Friday marked the 124th anniversary of the first Arbor Day observance, held in treeless Nebraska in 1872.

J. Sterling Morton, the founder of Arbor Day, was born in a small town in northern New York state but grew up in Monroe, Mich. After his marriage he and his bride settled in Nebraska Territory where he published a newspaper.

He eventually became secretary of the territory, acting governor and a member of President Grover Cleveland's cabinet as Secretary of agriculture from 1893 to 1897.

Remembering the forests of his childhood, Morton urged people to plant trees on the miles of open prairie. He instituted Arbor Day, upon which any organization planting the largest number of trees was to be awarded $100 by the state.

More than one million trees were planted on the first Arbor Day in Nebraska.

Arbor Day in Nebraska became an important event. The once treeless state (only 3 percent was covered with timber) became so well endowed with trees that it grew to be a leader in practical forestry.

By Ellen Probert Williamson

Meantime, the idea of Arbor Day spread to every state in the country, as well as to France, Norway and the British Empire. Arbor Day is now worldwide in Morton's birthday, April 22, is Arbor Day in Nebraska. In Hawaii, it's in November. In Alabama, it is in the last week in February — but when you think about it, Arbor Day is any day upon which you plant a tree.

Anything you want to know about Arbor Day can be obtained by writing the National Arbor Day Foundation, Arbor Lodge 100, Nebraska City, Neb. 68410.

Last month also included another important day. Earth Day was first observed in 1970. Like Arbor Day, it has become more and more important as the years pass. Our awareness of the importance of ecology, conservation and saving our environment grows.

Nowhere is all this more important than in the world of the dedicated gardener.

Sometimes it seems as though there is a new kind of gardening every time we turn around. We have barrier-free gardening, defensive gardening, therapeutic gardening, hydroponic gardening and many more. However, genetic gardening is the one attracting a lot of attention right now.

In a way, hybridization is genetic gardening. It has been around for a long time, but now scientists are isolating the genes in fruits and vegetables that cause defects and are able to grow picture-perfect crops by altering or removing such genes.

Also in the works is the possibility of adding genes that will soon make it possible to get vaccines against cholera, diarrhea and hepatitis B simply by eating potatoes or bananas.

The ultimate goal is to get vaccines into bananas that would be grown locally in developing countries.

The next step will be to achieve higher doses of vaccines in plants, ensure that the human immune system recognizes the vaccine and develop vaccine-producing trees. It is hoped that within five years, such bananas will be ready to peel.

One of the first genetically adjusted fruits was the tomato, followed by the potato. Scientists in Australia have isolated the gene that causes discoloration and have perfected a substitute gene.

Potatoes can now be produced with no brown spots, which saves a fortune for the food industry, which formerly had to reject huge amounts of produce because of discoloration.

For gardeners on any scale, from window boxes to plantations, there is always an interaction with birds, beasts and bugs along with the aesthetic blossoms. Putting all this on the plane of art is a nice change. This is what happens at the wonderful exhibition now on display at the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House gallery. The East Asian collection includes ceramics, paintings, tomb objects, ivory, jade, lacquerware, textiles and bronzes, all with marvelously detailed motifs from nature.

This show is from the permanent collection of the Lowe Art Museum in Coral Gables, Fla., and is on loan through June 9. Call (313) 884-4222 for more information.

Window Boxes Add Curb Appeal to Homes

Consider window boxes. They're small investments that yield big returns in color and curb appeal for the home. Change the plants with the seasons, and give your home an instant face lift.

Traditional wooden window boxes are rectangular in shape and painted to match or complement the house colors. However, it is perfectly acceptable, and often more fun, to use your imagination and create a window box that fits your personality and abode - whether it be a cottage, castle, condo or cabin.

Consider using plywood cutouts of rabbits, geese or cows to decorate the window box of a child's playhouse. Stencil carrots, radishes or herbs on a window box of a garden shed. Add sailboats or starfish to the design of a window box for the beach house.

If your retreat is a shady mountain cabin, why not design window boxes using fishing creels? Decorative molding can be glued directly onto a plain window box for instant pizzazz.

When building your own window box, it should extend the entire width of your window. Attach the window box to the house using wood

Be sure that your window box has drainage holes to allow excess water to move away from delicate plant roots. Cover the drainage holes with fine mesh to keep potting mix from draining out.

To show off your creation, just call 1-800-665-4592, and ask for the free brochure, "Creative Ideas for Window Boxes From Sunshine." This brochure includes planting tips and details on how to enter the Sunshine Creative Windowbox Contest™. Grand prize in the contest is a trip for two to Venice, Italy. More than $10,000 in prizes will be given away.

The Gardener's Palette

By ellen henke, Ph.D., America's Plant Doctor

When planting flowers, think of the garden as your canvas and the flowers as your palette of colors. You might choose a rainbow of hues planted in carefree abandon, carefully planned schemes of pastel tones or even a monochromatic theme.

Neighboring colors on the color wheel can supplement a monochromatic color scheme without affecting its tranquility. For example, a red salvia or petunia goes quite well with a monochromatic blue scheme. Reds, oranges, yellows and lime greens produce a bright, cheerful color scheme; pinks, crimsons, violet blues and purples create a cooler, more restful garden tapestry.

Colors within any semicircle on the color wheel will combine successfully. Related colors create harmonious color partnerships; for example, any three successive colors, like green, yellow green and yellow, are perfect partners. Dramatic garden color schemes use colors that are opposite on the color wheel. For example, blue salvia complements coral zinnias. Neutral colors, like gray, white or matte green, will unite contrasting colors

Although you have many other plant characteristics to consider — height, texture, annual versus perennial flowers, season and length of bloom — color should be your first consideration. It may take several attempts to achieve a color scheme that completely pleases you, but each year is a new opportunity to try again. Even if your garden does not fit your perfect vision, flowers are always pleasing, and as time goes by, your talent as a garden artist will grow.

Drifts of color dress up the simplest garden. While many flowers are easily grown from seeds, it is practically foolproof to grow them from transplants purchased in nurseries in spring. Annuals flower for one season and provide color all season long if faded flowers are removed before they form seeds. The sole objective of annuals is the formation of seeds. Once they achieve their objective, they fade away. Your objective, then, is to prevent seed formation and, in the process, keep them flowering in your garden for a long time. In addition to removing faded flowers and watering your plants, it is important to fertilize them weekly with a fertilizer, water-soluble Miracle-Gro All Purpose (15-30-15). This care and feeding will produce lush new growth and an abundance of colorful flowers.

Most perennials have specific seasons of bloom and generally provide color for a month or so. They will repeat their performance for many years if provided with humusenriched soil, appropriate light, mulch and adequate water. Many must be divided regularly. Perennials thrive on regular applications of a water-soluble fertilizer, like Miracle-Gro All Purpose (15-30-15) during the growing season. Some perennials can be encouraged to rebloom if they are trimmed back after flowering and then fertilized with a water-soluble fertilizer. The objective is to grow healthy plants and, in the process, promote maximum color display from your palette.

Backyard Gardener Breeds Award-Winning Rose

A new variety of hybrid tea rose, St. Patrick™ has received the nation's highest award for roses, having been named an All-America Rose Selection for 1996. What makes this rose unusual is not its beautiful hybrid tea form, not its unique green color and not even its value as a long-lasting cut flower. What makes this rose truly amazing is the fact that it was bred by an amateur hybridizer in his backyard.

St. PatrickTM was developed by Frank Strickland of San Bernardino, Calif. Strickland is a retired project engineer who has a wonderful rose garden at his home. He began experimenting with rose breeding only a few years ago and on a very small scale. While professional rose hybridizers cross-pollinate many varieties of roses to produce many thousands of seedlings from which they choose one or two new roses that may have potential, Strickland made only a few crosses and chose from among tens of seedlings.

Genetically, it is most unusual that a rose that has fabulous color, pest and disease resistance, good growth habit, and some fragrance would be produced from so few crosses. That's what makes St. Patrick™ so amazing. It is a beautiful, large, pale-yellow hybrid tea (one flower on a long stem) that has an unusual green tint in hot weather. It is a truly remarkable rose that gardeners will love to grow and arrangers will love to cut.

As a 1996 All-America Rose Selection, this rose has been tested in gardens across the United States and has proven to be outstanding in all climates. For gardeners who want a rose plant that is easy to grow and produces beautiful, large, perfectly formed flowers on long stems all summer long, St. PatrickTM is the rose to plant this spring.

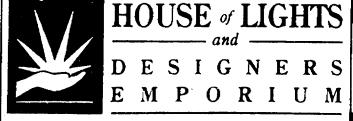

Available at nurseries and garden centers nationwide, St. PatrickTM is a 1996 introduction from Weeks

Keeping the Lawn in Shape Makes a Yard Look Beautiful

With the return of spring, homeowners begin to work on their yard, planting everything from beautiful floral borders to huge vegetable gardens. However, if their lawn doesn't look lush and green, the yard can lose its appeal and all of the work put into it could be for naught.

To help homeowners maintain a healthy lawn, The Lawn Institute recommends that they have a lawn-care program that works.

Many lawn-care experts believe that a majority of lawn problems are a result of not mowing at the proper height and not keeping the lawn-mower blade sharpened throughout the mowing season. Every type of grass has a specific height for optimum performance. Keeping grass at its best growing height will increase a lawn's density and attractiveness—and reduce problems.

A simple rule of thumb to follow when mowing is to never remove more than one-third of the leaf surface each time the lawn is mowed. Leaf surface, or cutting height, refers to the length of grass above the soil. Cutting below the optimum height impedes root development, which is essential to having a dense, healthy lawn.

Also, homeowners don't have to collect the grass clippings after they finish mowing. These clippings decompose quickly and put nutrients back into the soil. It's a built-in fertilization program, according to the institute.

When it comes to watering a lawn, the institute says that the best lawns grow when they are watered heavily at infrequent intervals. On average, the lawn needs about 1 inch of water a week, either from rain or irrigation during the growing season. This inch of water normally will soak the soil to a depth of 4 to 6 inches, which allows the water to reach deep into the root system.

Homeowners should determine the rate of application of their sprinkler system to set up any irrigation program. An easy way to do this is to set out a series of cans if they have an underground sprinkler system or a couple of cans if they use a single sprinkler. After running the system for 30 minutes, they can measure the water in the cans and determine the length of time it will take to apply 1 inch of water.

The best times to water a lawn are in the early morning or early evening, when there is generally less wind and heat. The least desirable times are in the heat of the afternoon, when water evaporates too quickly, and very late in the evening, which can cause the lawn to stay wet all night.

With these tips, homeowners can be well on their way to a healthy, lush lawn — and a beautiful yard.

Disease-Free Rose Is Outstanding For Landscape Plantings

Every gardener is looking for bedding and landscape plants that are easy to grow, require little maintenance and bloom all season long. If these plants could be winter-hardy perennials, so much the better.

A new variety of rose, Livin' EasyTM, is a disease-free floribunda that is the first in a new era of low-maintenance roses that are perfect as bedding plants or landscape specimens. As its name suggests, Livin' EasyTM allows gardeners to reap all the benefits of growing fabulous roses without the expenditure in time and effort that previously was required to maintain them. Not only is this variety easy to grow and care for, it continuously produces an incredible display of large clusters of apricot-orange flowers throughout the growing season.

A truly sturdy plant, Livin' EasyTM can be used in difficult landscape areas. It is suitable for foundation plantings or as a single specimen to brighten a boring corner. Where this rose really shines, however, is in mass plantings where the concentration of eye-catching, car-stopping, glowing color will be the envy of the neighborhood.

A 1996 All-America Rose Selection, it has been tested in public and private gardens across the United States and has proven to be outstanding in all climates. Even in northern areas, Livin' Easy™ survives the coldest win-

Miniature Rose Breakthrough — Fragrance

In recent years, miniature roses have enjoyed a surge in popularity as more and more people have realized that these wonderful plants are hardy perennials that bloom throughout the growing season, are easy to grow, and provide great spots of color in landscape and other plantings.

In the last 20 years, miniature rose hybridizers have concentrated on breeding for flower form and color, pleasing growth habit, floriferousness, and pest and disease resistance. Fragrance has been incidental to these other characteristics, and only a few miniature roses have any fragrance at all.

World-renowned miniature rose hybridizer F. Harmon Saville, of Nor'East Miniature Roses Inc., has spent the last 10 years breeding for significant fragrance, and the results of his work are considered a remarkable achievement in the miniature rose world. The first rose in his ScentsationTM series of intensely fragrant miniature roses is called ScentsationalTM and will be available to home gardeners in the spring of Delightfully easy to grow, Scentsational™ is a hardy perennial that flowers continuously throughout the growing season. The flowers have petals of pink-edged light mauve with a cream reverse. Buds are urnshaped, unfurling to perfect exhibition form. The plant grows to about 30 inches and has medium-green, disease-resistant foliage, and the flowers grow one bloom to a stem, making Scentsational™ a wonderful cut flower. A bouquet will perfume an entire room.

Wear and Tear or Simple Boredom Woos New Furniture Buyers

When American families decide to replace their furniture, it's not because of exciting new styles, eyecatching advertising, great sales or any other industry-inspired motivating factors.

Instead, the main reasons people give for replacing furniture have to do with wear and tear, comfort, and simply becoming tired of their current furnishings.

"People aren't buying new furniture because there's something out there they absolutely have to have in their homes," says Britt Beemer, founder and chairman of America's Research Group at a news conference at the Fall International Home Furnishings Market, "They're only buying when they're sick and tired of the furniture they own."

Beemer's analysis of attitudes toward new furniture purchases was based on a survey of 1,000 consumers conducted by America's Research Group. Those surveyed had either purchased a sofa, living-room table, recliner or master-bedroom furniture in the last two to three years or planned such a purchase in the coming year or two. with almost four in 10 saying that this consideration was definitely a Those interviewed were strong influence on their buying given a number of condecision. siderations for replacing their furniture, When it came to purchasing a including comfort, retailnew living-room table, the top store appeal, new style reasons for replacing the old from manufacturer, change table were: "I just in home decor, wanted someunexpected thing difextra ferent" income (44.3 perand ≉cent); "I wear got tired of due (34.3)⁺it" usage 🗲 percent); over the and "the years. table had nicks and In every dings in it" single product (29.2)category, consideracent). tions inside the home dictated the timing of new furniture purchas-

Of those who had purchased or planned to buy a new sofa, the desire for something different was listed by nearly one in two as the chief cause of their decision. Simply getting tired of the sofa and worn fabric followed, In choosing to replace a recliner, again "the desire for something different" topped the list — chosen by 45.2 percent of those surveyed. "The old recliner is no longer comfortable" was the reason given by 37.6 percent, while 36.3 percent said "their recliner fabric is worn and no longer lookes nice."

Just wanting something new and different also ruled the purchase of bedroom furniture, with nearly half saying that is what motivated their new purchase. Growing tired of the bedroom furniture was cited by 45.6 percent, and the desire for bigger bedroom furniture was given by 30 percent of new bedroom-furniture purchasers.

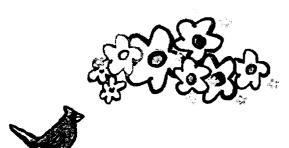

"When the furniture industry is asking someone to spend $500 to $1,000, there must be a good reason," Beemer says. "Without a strong and compelling reason, consumers are simply postponing the purchase until they have to replace old and worn furniture."

(The survey was conducted by telephone from America's Research Group's headquarters in Charleston, S.C. The margin of error is plus or minus 4.3 percent.)

Beautify Your Yard With an Easy-to-Build Pond

If you really enjoy being in your yard and would like to give it that extra dimension to make it even more enjoyable, as well as the envy of the neighborhood, here's a great suggestion — put in your own yard pond! Too much trouble? Don't know how to do it? Through new technology, all these worries are needless.

Installing your own garden pond is simple, maintaining it is easy, and best of all, your pond will provide years of trouble-free enjoyment.

PONDS AROUND THE WORLD

European gardens, particularly in Great Britain, southern France, northern Italy, Holland and Germany, almost always feature a yard pond.

Nine years ago, a German company, Tetra Werke, known best in the United States for its home aquarium products, developed a bonded, twopiece, heavy-duty (32 millimeters thick), flexible rubber pond liner. This liner allows homeowners to free-form a yard pond efficiently and easily, in whatever shape is best suited for the terrain or the homeowner's needs.

This liner can withstand the warmest summers and the coldest winters and is available in sizes big enough to create ponds almost 10 feet in diameter.

Through Tetra Werke's U.S. distributor, Tetra/Secondnature, a full line of products and complete information on constructing a yard pond are now available.

How do you construct a garden pond? Start by selecting a location on your property where the ground is fairly even, although, because of the flexibility of the liner, some leveling can be achieved when digging your pond. The pond should be placed where it will get approximately six hours of sunlight per day.

While you can place your pond anywhere, it is not recommended to place it directly under trees, since falling leaves can foul the water and tree potted plants, like lilies.

The deep area will provide security for your fish and protect them from birds and small animals. Depending on your climate, the deep area of your pond should be anywhere from 24 to 40 inches, and the shallow area from 4 to 12 inches.

After digging out your pond location, line the ground with sand, carpet padding or even old newspapers before installing the liner. This will protect the liner against sharp, protruding objects like roots and rocks.

To create that professional look, build a rock border around your pond, allowing the rocks to overlap the edge of the pond by 1 or 2 inches. You can landscape back around the pond and even build a patio, if desired.

EASY MAINTENANCE

Maintaining your pond is very easy. Tetra has an economical, permanent pond filter and air pump, as well as a full line of water chemicals and foods, to ensure that your fish will prosper. If you want to add the grace and beauty of a waterfall or fountain to your pond, Tetra even offers a powerful and reliable water pump.

What kind of fish should you put in your pond? The hardiest are large common or Comet goldfish. Depending on the size of your pond, these hardy fish will grow rapidly and can withstand the worst climates. As long as the water in your pond does not freeze to the lowest depths, these fish can survive the cruelest winters.

If you live in a warmer climate, you can select from the most prized pond fish — beautiful and exotic Koi, from Japan. These are increasingly available throughout the United States, and although not quite as hardy as the common goldfish, they are treasured pond fish that have the potential to live for decades.

What should you do in the winter? Nothing! After the first frost, remove your filter and leave your pond alone until the onset of spring (as soon as the water temperature reaches 50 F).

Never feed your fish during the winter, as their metabolism directly relates to the water temperature, and when it drops below 50 F, the fish will not eat. In the spring, reinstall your filter and begin feeding your fish. A Tetra Koi pond thermometer will provide you with the proper guidance in feeding your fish according to temperature. Your yard pond will provide years of enjoyment and truly make you the envy of your neighborhood. For further information, Tetra/Secondnature, 3001 Commerce St., Blacksburg, VA 24060-6671, or contact your local pet store or lawn and garden center.

GIVE YOUR YARD that extra dimension. Yard ponds are easy to construct, easy to maintain, beautiful to look at and will provide years of trouble-free enjoyment.

roots will make digging difficult.

Using a heavy garden hose or a rope, free-fo r your pond design to conform to vour landscaping scheme.

When constructing your pond, dig both a shallow area and a deep area. Fish will feed on insects in the shallow area, and it is the ideal place for

Four Steps to a New Lawn

A lovely new lawn could be just two weekends away if you follow this checklist of steps to take. Like any big project, breaking the job down into manageable chunks will smooth out the problems of when to do what. Extend this guide into four weekends if your new lawn is going to be quite large, and speed things up to just a two-day project if you're adding lawn to a small area.

Before You Begin

Measure the area where you want to lay sod or seed, and calculate the square footage by multiplying the width by the length.

If using sod, call and reserve the amount you'll need, and schedule delivery on the day you will finish soil preparation.

Check with local rental services about reserving a tiller, roller and landscaper's rake for the next two weekends. In the busy spring season, these tools may be checked out every weekend - get a jump start, and reserve now.

Stockpile the supplies you will need for the project: fertilizer, peat moss, sprinkler and grass seed.

Necessary Supplies

- · Large rake (can be rented as a landscaping rake)
- Rototiller
- Peat moss to amend soil

- Wide board or old ladder to drag and level soil
- Fertilizer for new lawns
- Seed, hydroseed or sod
- Sprinklers or irrigation system to keep new lawn well-watered

First Saturday

Prepare your soil. Remove big weeds and rocks, and then rototill the area to a depth of at least 6 inches. The deeper you can loosen the soil, the deeper the roots will grow and the less care from you the lawn will need.

First Sunday

Improve your soil. Work 2 to 3 inches of Canadian sphagnum peat moss or a peat moss/compost blend into the top 6 to 8 inches of soil. Organic matter like peat moss helps sandy soil to retain moisture and loosens and improves drainage in clay or hardpacked soil.

Second Saturday

Level and rake. Drag a ladder or wooden plank across the new lawn area to make sure the bed is level and free of dips. If you rent a landscaper's rake, go over the ground twice to smooth out the rough spots. Another tool the professionals use is a roller. These are also available for rent and are used to break down small lumps of soil just before seeding.

Second Sunday

Once the soil is tilled, amended and leveled, it's time to add fertilizer. Make sure you spread a lawn food especially formulated for new lawns.

At last you're ready to spread seed or sod the area. Hand seeding or seeding with a drop spreader is the least expensive. After sprinkling the soil with seed, top it off with a thin layer of peat moss (no more than 1/4 inch deep). This will help keep the seed from blowing away or drying grass carpet, there is less trouble with invading weeds. After you lay sod, be sure to fill in the cracks between the sections with peat moss. This will help the sod sections to knit together

Sodding gives instant gratification, and because you start with a thick

Once the seed or sod is down, all you have to do is keep the new lawn well-watered until established. The soil should be moist at all times, but not wet. This could mean watering twice a day in hot weather or once a week if it rains.

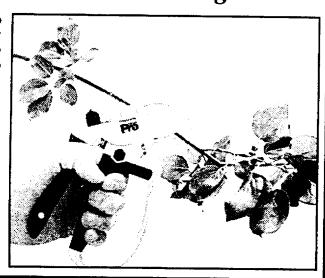

Taking the extra time to prepare the soil before planting will give your new lawn deep roots and a vigorous, healthy future.

Here's How to Choose Vinyl Windows To Block Unwanted Heat Flow

By DEAN JOHNSON, host of the popular home-improvement television show, HOMETIME®, now in its 10th season on PBS

If you're building or remodeling a house and have noticed deterioration of your window frames, you'll soon have to make a decision about new or replacement windows.

You'll find a multitude of styles, shapes and sizes from which to choose in a variety of material systems.

Your first step is to shop among reputable building-products brands, brands that stand behind their products.

You'll find a wide selection of windows sold through building-materials dealers and home centers. You'll want to look for windows that feature solid construction, energy efficiency and low maintenance for your busy lifestyle. Your choice is critical in ensuring beauty, as well as performance.

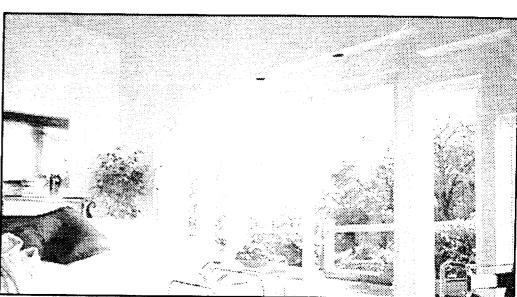

For a number of reasons, many homeowners are choosing window frames made of vinyl over those made of primed wood, wood with vinyl or aluminum cladding, or aluminum. Often, vinyl windows are less expensive than traditional wood or wood windows with vinyl or aluminum cladding. Vinyl windows also effectively block heat escape, which occurs through gaps and cracks in wood frames. Unlike wood, vinyl windows don't require painting, saving you time during installation, as well as costly maintenance down the road.

While aluminum windows are generally the least expensive windows, their disadvantages are aesthetics and energy efficiency. Heat flows readily through the frame from indoors to outdoors, making the indoor side of the window feel cold. This problem applies even to aluminum frames that are "thermally broken," i.e., have insulation between the interior and exterior parts. (Aluminum is fine, though, to reinforce horizontal members of large windows.)

If you decide the low maintenance and energy efficiency of vinyl windows appeal to you, check out the following details. And, remember, not all vinyl windows are created equal:

- · Welded corners are airtight and watertight and won't pull apart after exposure to heat and cold.
- For increased energy efficiency, look for Low-E/Argon glazing, which helps keep the house warmer in winter and cooler in summer.
- · Consider double-pane windows, which also slow heat flow through a window, nearly halving the heat loss that can occur through a single pane.

- R-value measures a window's resistance to heat flow, so the higher the R-value, the greater the insulating performance.
- U-value measures the actual heat transfer through a window's frame and glass, so a lower U-value means the window is insulating more efficiently.
- · The new single-hung and doublehung tilt windows make cleaning a breeze, and many casements open a full 90 degrees. Check the tilt features out on a couple of different brands.
- Installation ease may be a factor if you're doing the replacement work yourself. Look for a frame depth of at least 31/4 inches or one that may not be as deep but is offered with an accessory — a drywall return or wood return — that snaps on to the frame and brings drywall or wood flush against the window, so you won't have to caulk or trim.

· Check the warranty. Ten years for glass and lifetime for vinyl are reasonable. The warranty should be nonprorated.

Choosing windows is often a complicated exercise. Following these tips should help you through the purchase process and ensure your new windows will contribute to your comfort and savings throughout the year.

Search for the Simple Life Drives Demand for Low-Maintenance Surfaces

Time at home is becoming more of a luxury than ever. People constantly are searching for ways to simplify their lives to provide more time for family and fun.

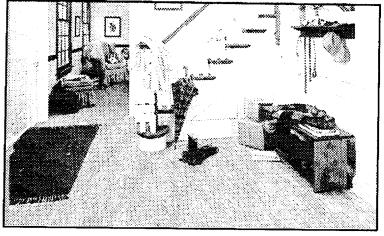

This move toward simpler lifestyles is spilling over into home design, creating a demand for carefree surfacing options. Renewed interest in easy maintenance is driving the resurgence of decorative laminate as a preferred surfacing option.

"Everyone wants to make life simpler. Products that are easy to maintain mean we spend less time doing household chores and more time with our families," says Lynne Wilde, consumer specialist for Wilsonart International. "For years, laminate has been used on counters and cabinetry for its durability and low-maintenance characteristics. And, for the same reasons, laminate is now traveling onto our floors."

Laminate flooring has been popular in Europe for many years, but the U.S. market is just now beginning to note its benefits, Wilde says. Recently introduced Wilsonart® Flooring, with a surface of high-pressure decorative laminate, provides the same wipeclean maintenance as laminate countertops.

"It is a great alternative to traditional flooring options, such as wood, tile and vinyl, in areas where impact-resistance, wear-resistance and easy maintenance are a must," she comments. "Kitchens, entries, children's rooms and playrooms are all natural choices for laminate flooring.'

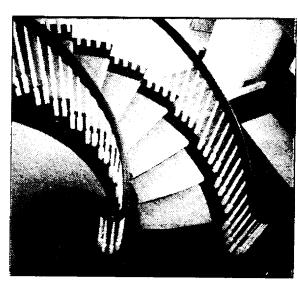

For more information on Wilsonart Flooring, call 1-800-710-8846

LOW-MAINTENANCE FLOORING offers one more way to simplify your life. This laminate flooring from Wilsonart® Flooring is as easy to clean as a countertop and is durable enough to resist wear and scrapes.

Avoid Disputes:

Asphalt Roofing Shingle Warranties Differ in Many Ways Manufacturer Is Not Obligated to Cover Poor Workmanship or Inferior Accessory Materials

Most homeowners know that it's important to check the manufacturer's warranty carefully when purchasing any building products. However, many homeowners planning a roofing project don't know that they should check the roofing contractor's warranty, as well as the shingle manufacturer's warranty, carefully before signing on the dotted line.

Unlike a new washer or dryer, the purchase of a new roof involves both purchased products and services. Because the end result, the new roof system, is a combination of both services and products, it is very important that the homeowner understands where the role of the manufacturer stops and that of the roofing contractor starts, as well as who is responsible if something goes wrong. Warranty provisions may apply to both products and services.

The real benefit of a product warranty is that, if a problem does arise, the warranty creates a relationship between the homeowner and the manufacturer, who is typically responsible for repairing or replacing any defective product. However, a contractor's warranty on workmanship provides an added benefit in the event a perfectly good shingle roofing product is made ineffective due to poor or incorrect installation.

CONTRACTOR'S WARRANTY: A GUARANTEE OF PERFORMANCE

In the matter of services or workmanship, the signed agreement between the homeowner and the contractor generally contains, among the contractor's promises listed in the document, a warranty on workmanship. In short, this warranty should state that the contractor, as well as each of his employees, is qualified and competent to install, and will install, the agreed upon roofing product according to the manufacturer's specifications.

Contractors can reduce the likelihood of warranty disputes with homeowners and manufacturers by limiting the number of roofing manufacturers they do business with. This approach allows the contractor to become more familiar with the product and its application requirements, develop a better relationship with the supplier and manufacturer, and better assess the manufacturer's track record for handling warranty issues.

Contractors' warranties contained in job agreements typically cover a period of one to five years, but the duration of the warranty is less important than the reputation of the contractor for doing the job right and correcting any installation errors. The reputable roofer understands that his reputation is his most valuable asset. A workmanship warranty obviously is of little use to a homeowner if the contractor leaves town or goes out of business.

Choosing a reputable roofing contractor is the single most effective way to avoid potential problems. Neighbors or previous customers are the best sources of referrals, though building-materials distributors and lumberyards also can provide good, solid recommendations.

After checking out the contractor, the homeowner can reduce the likelihood of future disputes over warranty terms by negotiating a written job agreement, prior to the contractor starting the job, that defines each of these issues:

- Products to be used
- Work start and completion times
- Work-site appearance
- Insurance coverage in case of property damage
- Insurance coverage in case of personal injury
- License, code and permit requirements
- Price
- Payment terms and conditions
- Change order procedures Exclusions

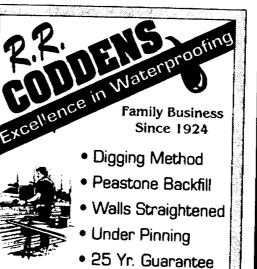

Some of these terms are defined differently depending on who is asked. The definition depends heavily on the skill and attention to detail of the parties making the agreement. Most terms are defined and agreed upon quite easily. The term that seems most important before the job starts is "price fairness," but unwritten job changes and allegedly "understood" representations are often the most serious points of disagreement after the job is finished.

Some roofing contractors make little or no reference to the manufacturer's warranty terms. This could lead to confusion should the homeowner need to file a claim for defective material. Homeowners should ask what manufacturer will supply the quoted materials and should review the contractor's reference to the manufacturer's warranty terms. Needless to say, this means that the contractor should make an informed decision about the manufacturer he will recommend.

For example, the Roofing Products Group of CertainTeed Corp., which has manufactured asphalt shingles for more than 90 years, has a Consumer Service Division, specifically formed to handle contractor and homeowner questions and claims. This type of customer service, as well as knowing that the manufacturer will stand behind its shingles, is an important resource to the contractor and the homeowner.

ASPHALT SHINGLE PROD-UCTS AND WARRANTIES

Homeowners are sometimes overwhelmed by manufacturers' warranties and even more so by those that extend over long periods of time — as long as 20 to 40 years or even a "lifetime."

However, the manufacturer's warranty cannot be negotiated or altered by the homeowner or the contractor.

So again, the homeowner must rely on the contractor and do the necessary homework to assess the stability of the company offering the warranty. Ask the same critical question you asked about the roofing contractor, "Will this roofing manufacturer be around to fulfill its warranty promises?"

Also, it is critical to determine the manufacturer's obligation in the event shingles turn out to be defective. For example, many shingle manufacturers' warranties cover the cost of furnishing replacement shingles and, under certain circumstances, labor to install replacement shingles, but exclude costs to remove and dispose of defective shingles. Other warranties may not, under certain circumstances, cover any labor costs whatsoever.

Both parties should read and feel comfortable with the provisions of the manufacturer's warranty. Some of the more common shingle warranty disputes are related to these issues:

 Appearance of the finished roof — All manufacturers warn against reliance on printed materials for color specifications. Before proceeding with the work, the homeowner should see actual shingles as they have been applied to a full roof.

 Installation instructions and ventilation requirements - Problems caused by improperly installed or inadequately ventilated roof decking are excluded from coverage on most manufacturers' warranties.

Be sure your contractor follows proper installation instructions and roof ventilation requirements in compliance with the manufacturer's warran-

Methods of installation — The manufacturer's installation sheet should be attached to the job agreement, noting which approved installation method will be used by the con-

The shingle fastening system to be used — nails or staples — should be specified. Also, understand how installation will affect the limits of warranty protection against wind damage.

 Protection in the first few years following shingle application Because manufacturing defects usually appear in the early years after installation of the shingles, homeowners should consider manufacturers' warranties that provide added protection during this time period.

Certain Teed Corp. follows this policy, adding SureStartTM protection to its shingle warranties. SureStart states that if there is a manufacturing defect, CertainTeed will pay labor costs, in addition to the cost of the replacement material, without prorating, for the first three, five, seven or 10 years after installation, depending on the shingle.

Knowing the differences between a service or workmanship warranty (the contractor's) and the shingle warranty (the manufacturer's) can help homeowners better understand who is actually responsible in the event of a claim. More important, the homeowner will know what to look for before signing a contract and can make informed decisions about roofing projects.

For more information on this and other roofing-related topics, write to CertainTeed Corp., Roofing Products Group, P.O. Box 860, Valley Forge, PA 19482, or call 1-

'Vinyl Carpentry' Adds Color And Texture to American Homes

Every homeowner knows the value of good carpentry. It's that special touch of artistry that enhances the beauty of a home. Yet, today, a growing movement is changing this ageold craft by adding a new material to the palette: vinyl. Yes, vinyl.

A new generation of vinyl siding and decorative trim is taking the place of wood on millions of American homes. Through their versatility, workability, and innovative colors and textures, these materials are opening up new worlds of design.

THE SPITTING IMAGE OF WOOD

In years past, vinyl siding gave away its identity with a flat appearance and narrow J-channel trim pieces. Today, CertainTeed, the world's largest producer of vinyl siding, has created a family of vinyl-siding and decorative-trim products molded from real wood siding, shingles and trim pieces. It's a system of products with natural textures, colors and character.

Because of this breakthrough, homeowners who may never have considered vinyl siding before are taking a closer look — and liking what they see.

CUSTOM-HOME STYLING

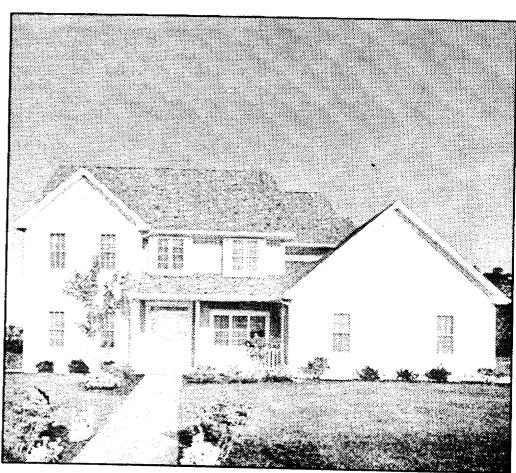

Now, homeowners can create oneof-a-kind looks. It's a more ornate exterior style with multiple textures, shapes and colors. And, it's catching on across the country.

The key to this "vinyl carpentry" is the use of two or more types of vinyl-siding styles on one structure. This presents a dynamic pattern of texture and color and imparts a unique character to the structure— a custom home without a custom-home price.

You can choose from clapboard, shiplap and vertical profiles of CertainTeed MonogramTM siding, which replicates solid-stained cedar siding in 20 coordinating colors. Another option is Meridian® siding, which provides the rich, natural appearance of semitransparent-stained cedar in five wood tones. There's also Cedar Impressions®, which offers the look of cedar perfection shingles or half-round shingles.

For the details that really make the look authentic, choose from a wide range of decorative-trim pieces. CertainTeed's advanced designs eliminate telltale J-chan-look like wide wood trim around doors, windows and on corners.

COLOR VARIETY WITHOUT ANXIETY

As homeowners embrace two- and three-tone exteriors, vinyl carpentry also offers a unique solution to the challenges that these color combinations present.

First, vinyl materials solve the dilemma of endless experimentation with paint chips and samples. Instead, you can choose from a vast palette of colors that CertainTeed designers carefully have assembled for contrast and complement.

Second, vinyl completely eliminates painstaking painting of architectural details. Vinyl products retain their vibrancy and beauty for a lifetime and are virtually maintenance-free.

TALK TO YOUR DESIGNER OR SIDING CONTRACTOR

Who can give your home the look of vinyl carpentry? Virtually any designer or contractor who works with siding. And, you'll be glad to know that the differences in material costs between an ordinary vinyl residing job and one that has the appeal of vinyl carpentry is as little as 2 percent of the total job.

For more information on CertainTeed's complete line of siding products, call the CertainTeed Home Institute at 1-800-782-8777.

Add Hardwood Mouldings to Dress Up a Room

"Moulding provides elegance, surprise, unexpected detail," declares New York designer Stan Hura. "It's like pearls — it dresses up a room."

Affordable and easy to install, hardwood mouldings transform an ordinary room into one rich in character, depth and definition. A touch of moulding establishes mood, emphasizes architecture and creates a focal point.

"Mouldings are an easy way to add character, and they don't have to be used traditionally," notes Atlanta designer Charles Gandy. "I just designed a bedroom with traditional moulding, but I let it float away from the ceiling to create a space for cove lighting."

Mouldings and decorative woodwork direct the eye, add pleasing changes of scale within a room, and can unify or divide a space. "Setting off one area with different mouldings can give you definition between 'rooms' where you may not have any walls," says Chicago interior designer Marlene Rimland. "All it may take is a change of moulding on the ceiling or at floor level."

When shopping for hardwood moulding, you'll find a wide range of choices to fit any budget. You can custom order decorative hardwoods through your architect, contractor or interior designer or through millwork houses, specialty shops and custom cabinet shops. You can find them, too, at local lumberyards and home centers or through mail-order specialty catalogs.

Oak, alder, ash, beech, birch, cherry, maple and walnut are among the most popular choices for hardwood mouldings. Poplar is a particularly affordable option, since it's painted easily to flatter wall color, window treatments or upholstery.

reatments or upholstery.
FAVORITE DECORATING TIPS

 Moulding choices depend on the size and scale of your room. Crown mouldings, for example, work best in rooms where the ceilings are 8 feet or higher. Choose narrower mouldings for smaller rooms, wider ones for larger rooms.

• Mouldings should be widest at the floor level, becoming progressively narrower as they approach the ceiling.

• If you want visual continuity and flow, continue the same moulding pattern in adjacent rooms — especially if there's an uninterrupted view from room to room. For example, extend the entryway mouldings to your formal living room.

 Hardwood mouldings add a touch of class even to a plain drywall ceiling.
 For example, crown moulding in classic dentil design embodies sophistication and elegance.

• Running from 32 to 42 inches above the floor, chair rails protect walls from chair backs and can signal a change in wall covering. For instance, the upper half may be painted while the lower half is wallpapered.

 Go ahead and mix grain patterns, tones and colors in your mouldings, flooring and furnishings. A variety of woods and finishes adds drama to a room.

For free information on decorating and caring for solid hardwood furnishings, call 1-800-373-WOOD, or write to Hardwood Manufacturers Association, Dept. ME3-95, 400 Penn Center Blvd., Suite 530, Pittsburgh, PA 15235.

slave to its maintenance and care. Gardening is America's Numbe One pastime, but overdoing it can cause physical strain and exhaustion. How can you maintain your yard and to drought, insects and disease. You also might consider planting a different type of lawn grass. There are several good choices that need less water and fertilizer, and are still have time to enjoy it?

Follow these tips to reduce your time and labor spent watering, mowing, pruning and fertilizing.

Having the most beautiful lawn on the block is something to be proud of

- but not if you become a weekend

• Reduce H20. Whether by sprinkler system or garden hose, watering is a must for keeping lawns in tip-top shape. To reduce time and money spent watering, try planting native plants and flowers in your landscape—or those that have proven durability.

Group plants according to their water requirements, and plant thirsty ones close to a faucet or hose. This way, you can water these groups without saturating the entire land-scape.

- Spread out. To reduce time spent pruning, don't crowd plants together give them room to breathe and grow. Choose plants with dense growth patterns, which look great without pruning. Indian Hawthorne is an excellent plant choice in the South; in Northern regions, try juniper or dwarf mugho pine.
- Go with the flow. Free-flowing, curved or rounded beds are much easier to care for than square or rectangular beds. Make use of large, homogenous beds they're more attractive and easier to fertilize and water.
- Avoid the "mow" trap. As freshly mowed grasses look crisp and stylish, you might find yourself mowing every weekend, or more. Take care not to mow too often, because mowing at low levels can result in poor root growth. Without strong roots, grasses are more susceptible to drought, insects and disease.

You also might consider planting a different type of lawn grass. There are several good choices that need less water and fertilizer, and are excellent resistors to wear and disease. In cooler regions, try red fescue, tall fescue and improved perennial ryegrass; improved Bermuda, improved zoysia and Bahiagrass are good for Southern lawns. Check with your county extension office for the best choices in your area.

• Fertilize naturally Heavily

• Fertilize naturally. Heavily fertilized lawns are often green and lush, but are also prime targets for pests. To reduce the amount of fertilizer you use — and the amount of time required for application — try slow-release fertilizers, which nourish the landscape evenly over a longer period of time

You also can save time and money by using a mulching mower and recycling lawn clippings rather than bagging them for disposal. Clippings left on the lawn will enrich the soil and create a natural fertilizer for the grasses.

For more information about caring for your lawn and landscaping, call Cypress Gardens, America's tropical showplace, at 1 800-282-2123 (if calling from Florida), or 1-800-237-4826.

How To Select A Lawn Care Professional

Time is in short supply for most Americans. When it comes to lawn care, 17 million U.S. households prefer to save time by calling in a professional, according to a recent Gallup survey.

Lawn and landscaping companies offer services ranging from fertilizing and pest control to aerating, mowing and ornamental and small-tree care. Property values, the environment and community all benefit from a healthy, thick lawn.

Experts at the Professional Lawn Care Association of America suggest homeowners think quality as well as price when calling in a pro. When selecting a lawn and landscape firm in your area, ask for the following:

A detailed list of services and

- A written estimate and length of service.
- A list of references.
- Evidence that the company meets any state licensing requirements
- Information about professional association and community involvement.
- The "Symbol of Good Practice" showing PLCAA membership.

Seven Habits of Highly Effective Gardeners

You can grow healthier lawns and beautiful flowers by following these seven habits of successful gardeners.

They also will lead you down the garden path toward less maintenance and more time to enjoy a healthier, more beautiful landscape and garden.

- 1. Amend soil annually. Add 2 inches of Canadian sphagnum peat moss or a peat moss/compost blend, and work this into the top 6 to 8 inches of soil. Use peat moss to amend the soil when planting trees, adding a lawn or transplanting. The better your soil, the healthier your plants and the easier it is for you to garden.
- 2. Water regularly, and feed when necessary. Feel the soil to decide when your plants need more water. Fertilize when your plants need it not just when you get around to it. Too much fertilizer causes as much harm as too little, resulting in a scorched or burned look to the foliage or fast, rank growth more susceptible to insects and disease. Read and follow label instructions.
- 3. Mulch is a must. Mother Nature never intended the soil to be naked. A mulch is like frosting on a cake - you could do without, but why would you want to? A few inches of an organic mulch will conserve moisture, block weeds, equalize soil temperature and slowly feed the plants.

- 4. Be picky about your plants. Choose varieties that offer more than one season of interest: spring-flowering trees with interesting bark in the winter or blooming shrubs with the added bonus of winter berries or autumn-foliage color.
- 5. Compost. Nothing else does so much for so little. By layering green material (a source of nitrogen), like grass clippings, weeds and pruning crumbs, with brown material (a source of carbon), like fallen leaves, peat moss or soil, you can create a rich, black compost perfect for adding to poor soil or as a feeding mulch.
- 6. Walk your garden frequently. This will encourage you to deadhead, pick weeds, and appreciate the small details and tiny miracles that make gardening so satisfying.
- 7. Garden and learn. Avoid costly mistakes by reading, talking to other gardeners and sharing information. The education of a gardener can be just as enjoyable as the hobby itself. After all, they're both about growing.

Need Money?

You Have Treasures in Your Trash Pile

Your redecorating could cost you nothing, claims author Tony Hyman, if you're careful when you clean house.

"Nearly everyone owns a few old things that can be sold to help cover the cost of the new," he says.

When parents clean out the junk their children left behind, Hyman warns not to discard toys just because they're not very old.

Five of the 10 most valuable base-ball cards date from the 1950s. Transistor radios from the 1960s have reached the $300 mark. So have calculators, dolls, model kits and rock 'n' roll posters, some of which have soared to $10,000.

The key to getting these outland prices is finding the people willing to pay them. There is only one good buyer of cigar boxes in the whole country, and finding top buyers of things like cap guns can be equally difficult.

David Welch, in Illinois, says there are 50 items from the 1960s that he will pay $1,000 or more for. If you have one of those items, how do you find Welch to tell him?

That's where Hyman enters the picture. Twice weekly, his syndicated radio show tells what to do and where to go to sell everything from alarm clocks to yo-yos. In 16 years, Hyman has put tens of millions of dollars in people's pockets. Now, by popular demand, his inside information is in print.

Trash or Treasure contains names, addresses and phones/faxes of reputable people ready to pay cash for a million different items you might own. It includes 576 pages of what collectors want to buy, who wants to buy them, where to go for free appraisals, and numerous tips on how to get top dollar for china, records and everything else you want to sell.

Hyman says you need his book because you can't sell most things locally for more than a fraction of their real value. He says it's easier, faster and far more profitable to dispose of your stuff over the phone or through the mail.

Toys from the 1960s aren't the only valuables you might own. An Ohio woman sold two greenish-blue pottery vases at her yard sale, charging $65 each upon the advice of a local antique dealer.

The man who bought her vases contacted pottery expert Riley Humler, of the Cincinnati Art Gallery, who helped him resell his vases for $39,000. How did he find out about Humler? Humler, like Welch, is one of the 1,200 expert, reliable buyers recommended in Trash or Treasure.

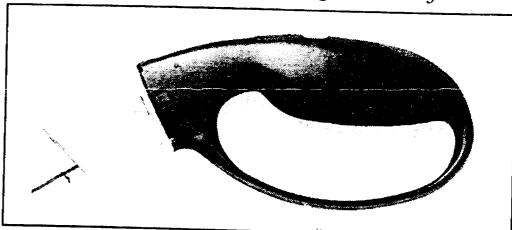

Trash or Treasure is available exclusively by mail. Send $24.95, plus $5 shipping and handling, to Trash or Treasure, Box 3028-CD, Pismo Beach, CA 93448. Include the banner name of this newspaper, and the publisher will include a free pad of form letters to use when writing to buyers. Prompt orders also will receive, at no charge, The World's Most Accurate Antiques and Collectibles Price Guide, an $8 To purchase value. MasterCard/Visa, call 1-800-549-7500 (you won't hear it ring). A 30day money-back guarantee is given.

Should you check out your stuff before throwing it away? Judge for yourself. Two summers ago, a home in Nova Scotia was sold for $55,000. In that attic was a pile of comic books that the new owner sold for $79,000 — enough to pay for the house and then some. Could that happen to you?

Don't underestimate the value of some rather ordinary-looking things, Hyman warns. Items don't have to be old, rare or expensive to be valuable.

PEZ dispensers have brought $1,500, and some Happy Meals boxes are worth hundreds of dollars. A Charlie's Angels pillow will put $300 in your pocket. The G.I. Joe nurse doll is worth $2,000 if still in her box. And, if you can find Mike Strauss, there's a toy Hot Wheels Volkswagen for which he'll pay you $3,500

10 Critical Items to Fix Before You Sell

Knowing the 10 most critical items to fix before you put your home on the market can result in earning thousands of extra dollars, claims consumer advocate and author Bob Easter. Many sellers fix the wrong items when trying to get the most benefit for their hardearned money. Certain items bring a larger return than others, and some items really don't cost any money, just some work.

There are two types of homes in every marketplace: 1) the home people live in on a daily basis and 2) the home people make ready for sale and present to the public.

There are at least two major mistakes that owners overlook when selling their home. 1) They never look at their home through the buyer's eyes. 2) Sellers seldom realize home buyers will drive through neighborhoods and make a snap decision to call about a home based upon their impression of the home from the street.

Some exterior mistakes that most sellers make include:

- garage doors open and showing a messy garage
- · cars parked in the driveway and in front of the house
- · car repairs in the driveway, along with bicycles, lawn mowers and equipment in the yard
- boats or campers parked in the driveway

The more attractive your home shows from the street, the more likely it will sell quickly, particularly if the price is competitive, says Easter.

"The 14 Home-Selling Secrets, The Mistakes Everyone Makes' is the best little straightforward house-selling book we have seen ... It's full of gems of inside information. Easter tells you what any house seller should know," writes Judy Rose, Detroit Free Press.

Mark and Diana Wood, of Seattle, Wash., found the book extremely beneficial when selling their home. "It was the best selling experience we've ever had. We can barely believe how smoothly and quickly our home sold. It was 35 hours from listing to fullpriced contract and 28 days later to a hassle-free closing. Amazing! Your step-by-step marketing plan and straightforward advice would definitely benefit anyone who wants to

To see your home through a buyer's eyes, send for the free checklist of "The 10 Critical Items to Check Before You Sell." Send a selfaddressed, stamped envelope to the address below. To order "The 14 Home-Selling Secrets," call 1-800-848-5593, or write to 4212 Lostridge, Suite 900, Austin, TX 78731. The book costs $9.95 plus $3.50 for shipping and handling, and credit cards are accepted.

Easter's new book, "Home Buying Power: Inside Tips, Tricks and Trends for Buying the Home of Your Dreams," already has been adopted by consumers. "I am a recently retired college administrator having read many books, but none as informative as 'Home Buying Power.' In the process of buying my seventh home, I feel totally in charge and confident in every detail," says Elliott R. Chambers, Ed.D., of Lodi, Calif. To order this book, which costs $12.95 plus $3.50 shipping and handling, call 1-800-848-5593, or write to the above address.

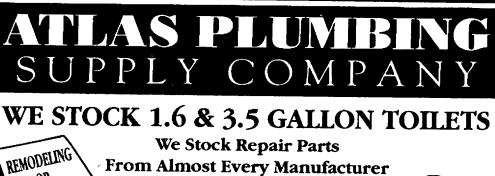

Homeowners Should Have Air Conditioners Checked Now Before Summer Arrives

Homeowners should have their air-conditioning system checked now - before the peak cooling season — by a qualified contractor or service technician to ensure the system will work efficiently this summer, according to the Air-Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute (ARI).

If your air conditioner is no longer cooling properly, it could involve something as simple as replacing a fuse, resetting a circuit breaker or checking to see if the thermostat is set properly. If an electrical problem isn't the cause, the refrigerant may be low if the system still runs but doesn't cool enough. However, if the problem involves any major part, like the compressor, says ARI, you would hear strange noises similar to those of mechanical equipment not running correctly.

When your air-conditioning system starts giving you more problems than seem cost-effective to fix, you should consider replacing your system. Because newer equipment usually is much more energy-efficient than older central air-conditioning or heat-pump systems, you might actually save money by replacing your old system before it completely wears out. In some cases, the money you save in reduced utility costs might pay back your purchase price of a new system years earlier than you think.

For more information about the basic rules to follow for keeping cool this summer at minimum cost, send for ARI's free pamphlet, "How to Keep Your Cool and Save Cold Cash." Send a stamped, self-addressed, businesssize envelope to ARI, Department 96-HT, 4301 North Fairfax Drive, Suite 425, Arlington, VA 22203. No phone orders are accepted.

Create a New Look With Easy-to-Sew Decorating Projects

When you think of spring and summer, it's hard not to think of the outdoors — bright-yellow sunshine, wildflowers, crystal-blue waters. Now, you can bring this warm feeling indoors by giving your home a seasonal face lift. Whether it's for the kitchen, bathroom, living room or bedroom, there are many ways to incorporate items you have sewn into your decorating scheme.

Sewing is a fun and creative way to express personal style in the home, according to the Sewing Fashion Council for the American Home Sewing and Craft Association. A few simple sewn items can make all the difference by turning an ordinary home into an extraordinary one.

Visit your local fabric store to get a better idea of the wide selection of fabrics, patterns and notions available for home decorating. Color, texture and print should be taken into consideration when choosing fabrics to create an atmosphere. Bright, strong colors, like yellow or orange, create a cheerful room, while print fabrics add a cozy effect. Textured fabrics add dimension and interest. Mixing solids, stripes and floral fabrics is very popular this season and leaves a lot of room for creativity. If you are having difficulty deciding on a style, bring a selection of fabric samples home, and drape them around the room to get a sense of how the fabrics work together with other items, like carpeting and wall coverings.

BATHE YOURSELF IN LUXURY

The latest trend in home decorating is the designer bathroom set in which everything coordinates — wallpaper with shower and window curtains, towels, seat cushions, and just about every accessory imaginable. These sets are beautiful, but expensive when purchased separately. Create your own designer accessories by sewing matching fabric, ribbon or trim on to a plain hand towel for a fashionable look. A shower curtain can be made with buttonholes sewn at the top for easy attachment to hooks. Some other easy decorating ideas include adding fabric or ribbon to mirror frames, wastebaskets, tissue boxes or any of your own innovative ideas.

KITCHEN CAPERS

Small details can make a big difference. With just a few yards of fabric and basic sewing skills, it is very simple to give your kitchen a new look for summer. With your kitchen's current color scheme in mind, try incorporating a new color that will "rejuvenate" the room. For example, add yellow, red or green to a blue and white color scheme to brighten it up. Replace plastic place mats with serge-sewn quilted mats or plain appliance covers with some sewn in a fruit print. Gingham, calico and chintz are great fabrics for napkins, chair covers, stool cushions and aprons. Also perfect for the kitchen are fabrics with barnyard prints featuring roosters or cows. Conversational prints, like teacups, are another showstopper in the kitchen. Your family and friends will be impressed at this summer's party when their hostess "seams" to have it all together.

LIVING ROOM OR SUN ROOM?

If you weren't blessed with a room that catches the afternoon sun perfectly or has just the right touch of comfort, create it yourself. Add style and comfort to the living room by sewing throw pillows or recovering old pillows with a bright, colorful fabric. Create the illusion of a garden inside your home by using a fabric with a nature-inspired print when redecorating. Throw pillows, which can be sewn in a variety of shapes and sizes from simple to elaborate, add a touch of comfort to any room. Another great way to give a room an updated look is to cover the walls with fabric. Choose the fabric for the walls first, and then build the rest of the room around it, since wall coverings are such a dominant feature in any room.

BEDROOM BEAUTIFUL

Wake up and open your eyes to all the exciting patterns, fabrics and notions available for redecorating the bedroom. A duvet cover allows you to recover an old comforter with a refreshing new fabric. Not only is it simple to sew, but at the end of the season, it can be removed, leaving the original comforter and giving the bedroom two completely different looks. Duvet covers allow you to utilize a variety of fabrics, so there's no need to choose just one. Don't forget draperies, valances, dust ruffles and lampshades, which are also easy decorating projects to sew.

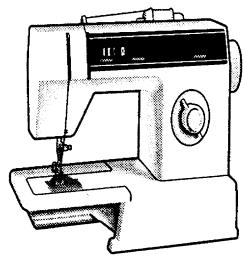

Following are decorating tips from the Sewing Fashion Council for sewing at home:

- If you are new to home sewing, buy a basic "how-to" book, and keep it close by for easy reference. It will come in handy for measuring and determining yardage and for clarifying instructions.
- Start with one project, and use it as a focal point around which to build your decorating scheme. Leftover fabrics can be used to make additional small coordinating accessories.

- When shopping for fabrics, bring samples of your current wall colors and carpet to help you see how the fabrics will coordinate with the colors already in the room.
- Keep in mind that colors can change the mood of a room - traditional dark colors, like hunter green and maroon, evoke a cozy feeling, while pastels and neutral colors create a calming atmosphere and bright colors, like lipstick red and orange, stimulate the senses.
- Consider the amount of sun exposure the room receives when selecting window treatments. A sunny room, for example, may require lined curtains to ensure colorfastness and prevent fading.
- · When purchasing fabrics, buy all the yardage from one bolt as dye lots can vary. Check your measurements carefully to make sure that you buy enough fabric to complete the project.
- To change the look of your furniture without having to purchase new pieces, sew new slipcovers and pillow covers in coordinating patterns and colors.

For more information about easyto-sew decorating projects, write to the Sewing Fashion Council, P.O. Box 650, Madison Square Station, New York, NY 10159-0650.
