

County marine patrol explains why boaters are often stopped

By Chip Chapman
Staff Writer

The rules of the road don't necessarily transfer to the waterways. On land, public safety officers need reasonable cause to pull over a motorist. Not so on the lake.

"Under the Marine Patrol Safety Act, we may stop boats at random for safety checks," said Wayne County Sheriff's Marine Patrol Lt. Larry Schmoekel. "We didn't write the law

We just enforce it."

The Wayne County Commission's committee on public safety and judiciary held a public meeting Wednesday, May 8, at the Grosse Pointe Shores village offices to address what some boaters see as harassment by the county marine patrol.

Grosse Pointe Park resident and boater Joe Bourbeau told of occasions in which he had been stopped by the marine patrol and of other times when he had witnessed other boaters being stopped.

"I don't believe, for no just cause, you should stop boats," he said. "There's probably a great deal of good that they (the marine patrol) do. But just to stop a person to search the boat, to me, is wrong. I perceive it as an invasion of privacy. I think you're creating a situation of animosity."

Schmoekel explained the marine patrol's role of educating boaters and patrolling Lake St. Clair and the Detroit River. He said the three biggest problems the marine patrol encounters are lack of knowledge of many boaters, congestion on the lake and river and boaters operating their craft under the influence of alcohol.

"The key to making boating safer is through education," Schmoekel said. "We do put an emphasis on our water safety program. During our boating safety courses people are told they can be pulled over for safety checks."

Schmoekel spoke of an incident when a boat that was pulled over, and was short one lifejacket, ended up capsizing three weeks later.

"Fortunately, they had enough life-jackets then," he said.

Board names Suzanne Klein interim school superintendent

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

The Grosse Pointe school board on Monday unanimously appointed deputy superintendent C. Suzanne Klein as the interim superintendent until a replacement is named for the departing Ed Shine.

Klein will take over leadership of the district on July 1. The school board has hired the Chicago-based firm of Hazard, Young and Assoc. to conduct the superintendent search.

A series of meetings with district employees, residents and community leaders will be held within the coming week to collect input on what the district should look for in a new superintendent.

A public meeting will be held on Tuesday, May 21, at 7:30 p.m. in the Wicking Library at Grosse Pointe South High School.

"We are in good hands with Sue Klein as interim superintendent," said board vice president Tim Howlett. "I met her years ago and have had nothing but the highest regard for her."

Klein came to the Grosse Pointe Public School System in 1987 as the new principal at Pierce Middle School.

In 1990 she was appointed director of special education and in the 1992-93 school year, she was promoted to director of instructional services.

She became an assistant superintendent in 1993 and was promoted to deputy superintendent this year.

Longing for summer

State questions G.P. Taxpayers Assoc.'s campaign spending

By John Minnis
Editor

The Grosse Pointe Taxpayers Association — the self-proclaimed fiscal watchdog of the Grosse Pointe Public School System — now finds itself under financial scrutiny.

The Michigan Department of State has ordered the taxpayers association to file a complete campaign finance report covering its expenditures prior to the June 1994 millage renewal vote for the Grosse Pointe Public School System.

The investigation was initiated by former school board member Carol Marr, who was chairman of the HELP Committee, a pro-millage political action group.

Marr discovered that the taxpayers association, in its statement of organization, had said it did not expect to spend more than $1,000 in any election, thus absolving it from having to file campaign finance reports.

However, her clippings culled during the millage campaign reveal that the taxpayers association placed a nearly two-thirds page ad in a local paper on May 31, 1995, and a full-page ad in another publication in June 1995. (None of the ads appeared in the Grosse Pointe News.)

In response to a Dec. 12 inquiry from Thomas R. McCulloch of the department of state's compliance and rules division, the taxpayers association said it paid $585 for the full-page ad (although the paper's advertising rate card lists the cost of a one-page ad at $1,007.40) and $419 for the ad in the other paper, amounting to a total of $1,004.

"The fact is," said taxpayers association treasurer Phil Gaglio, "we're talking about a dispute over $4. It's not the great political scandal of our time."

The taxpayers association, however, claimed it received a $10 credit on June 22, 1995, from one paper, thus reducing its expenses to under $1,000. But McCulloch pointed out that the credit was awarded after the campaign finance reporting period had elapsed and could not be subtracted from the campaign expenses reported.

Therefore, McCulloch said, "The allegations that the association exceeded the $1,000 threshold was supported by your response..."

Further, according to campaign finance law, if a newspaper offers political advertising at a reduced rate, the candidate or political group placing the ad has to declare the amount reduced as income contributed to the campaign. In this case, the taxpayers association would have had to claim an additional $422.40 contribution in kind from the newspaper, which would have increased the group's campaign costs to $1,426.40.

Gaglio, though, said his group paid the same rate other advertisers were paying for full-page ads and that the taxpayers association did not get a special discount. The newspaper supports Gaglio's claim.

Also, Marr, who herself had to meet campaign finance laws as chairman of the HELP Committee, pointed out that all these expenses do not yet include the costs of the taxpayers association's post office box and checking account fees.

She said she would also like to know who the taxpayers association members are and who donated the funds to cover the group's expenses.

McCulloch has given the taxpayers association until May 23 to file the necessary reports required by state election laws. If the association does not respond satisfactorily, the department of state may request a hearing to determine whether a civil violation of the Michigan Campaign Finance Act has occurred.

Under penalty of the act, any treasurer or other individual designated as being responsible for record keeping and report preparation and filing who is found to have knowingly failed to file complete reports is subject to a fine of up to $1,000.

"The fact is we're going back and forth over $4 or $6," Gaglio said. "We maintain we spent less than $1,000."

Tremendous, stupendous are what they're saying about the minstrel show to be presented in the Neighborhood Club at 8 p.m. on Friday night, May 17. Left to right are Dickie Mitchell, Cecilia Mitchell and Barbara Urquhart, while Gil Carrier looks on from the rear as Cecilia, aged 4 1/2 and a seasoned performer, puts the finishing touches on her brother's "black face." There will be boogie-woogie, tap dances, songs (including "I Want to Dream," composed by Mrs. Lillian Mitchell of the Pointe) and all other attractions of a bang-up minstrel show. SOME OF THE BEST FRIENDS A MOTHER-TO-BE COULD ASK FOR

When you're expecting a new addition to the family, your relationship with a medical professional is more important than ever. The Henry Ford Medical Group Obstetrician/Gynecologists and Certified Nurse Midwives on the East Side provide individualized care during your pregnancy, from prenatal exams and education to the delivery itself and follow-up care.

You can choose the Board Certified Obstetrician/Gynecologist or the Certified Nurse Midwife that best meets your needs and desires with the added confidence of knowing that the entire team is working together for you and your new baby.

"My patients depend on me to help them make the best choices for their delivery. I want all mothers to have a wonderful experience, but each in their own individual way."

Shari L. Maxwell, MD, FACOG

Dr. Maxwell received her post-doctoral training in Obstetrics & Gynecology at Henry Ford Hospital and is particularly interested and skilled in gynecologic surgery.

"It's important to take into account all aspects of a woman's health during pregnancy and childbirth. A healthy lifestyle, including exercise and a well-balanced diet, are good indicators for a healthy pregnancy."

Scott B. Ransom, DO, FACOG

Dr. Ransom is Division Head/Medical Director for Obstetrics & Gynecology for the Henry Ford Health System Eastern Region and also has a strong background in advanced pelvic surgery.

"Sometimes the most comforting part of childbirth is simply knowing what is happening and why. I encourage my patients to ask questions and to attend a Childbirth Preparation class during their pregnancy."

Islam H. Sidky, MD, FACOG

Dr. Sidky also is specially trained in microsurgery.

"I believe that the role of today's Certified Nurse Midwife is to ensure that every patient's experience with health care is safe, satisfying and family centered."

Catherine Collins-Fulea, MSN, CNM

Catherine Collins-Fulea is director of Nurse Midwifery Services for Henry Ford Health System. Midwives provide patient care for healthy women from puberty through menopause, with special emphasis on pregnancy, childbirth and family planning.

For your convenience, these Physicians, as well as the Nurse Midwifery group, see patients at both the Grosse Pointe Farms and the Roseville Medical Center and are associated with Henry Ford Cottage Hospital and its Family Childbirth Center.

Outdoor dining finds home at Lucy's

By Chip Chapman
Staff Writer

If the weather ever heats up, the traffic in front of Lucy's Tavern on the Hill probably will, too. That's because on Monday night the Grosse Pointe Farms City Council granted the restaurant permission to provide outdoor service. Plans call for a fenced, awning-covered area just left of Lucy's front entrance on Kercheval, with seating for up to 36 patrons. The roughly 11-foot-by-30-foot area extends south along Kercheval in front of part of the Rite-Aid building. (Both the Lucy's and Rite-Aid buildings are owned by the same person.) This will leave six feet of space between the outdoor dining area and the curb. ADA (Americans with Disabilities Act) requires just five feet.

The plan has the support of the Hill Association and the Farms beautification commission.

"During the off season months, every component of this will be removed and stored," said the plan's designer Doug Hamborski.

Owners Jim and Tom LeFevre hope to have the new outdoor dining area open by the beginning of June.

Outdoor service is allowed until midnight. Farms officials said that Chianti Villa Lago and Jumps restaurants have made similar requests to install outdoor service.

Household hazardous waste collection day scheduled for May 18

The second yearly Household Hazardous Waste collection day is scheduled for Saturday, May 18, from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Grosse Pointe Park municipal complex (on Jefferson at Maryland).

transmission fluids, antifreeze and coolants, charcoal lighter fluid, fuel oil and gasoline, and propane cylinders.

Please be certain that, when transporting items containing hazardous waste materials, the containers are adequately sealed to prevent accidental spills. This may require the use of a box or other container to assure proper safety. Once you arrive at the municipal complex, personnel from Tringali Sanitation will remove the items from your car's trunk.

Some types or quantities of waste are beyond our capabilities to handle at this time, and will not be accepted. The unacceptable materials include: Unlabeled wastes or containers with unknown contents, waste generated by business or industry, radioactive materials (including smoke alarms), explosives or shock-sensitive materials and asbestos. If your household contains any of these materials and you wish to dispose of them, please contact: the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality (517) 335-2730, the Michigan Department of Public Health (517) 335-8637, or the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service (313) 494-3000.

Residents of the five participating communities — City of Grosse Pointe, Grosse Pointe Farms, Grosse Pointe Park, Grosse Pointe Shores, and Harper Woods — may bring hazardous household materials in their original containers to the municipal complex, entering from Jefferson. The Maryland drive will be used as an exit only.

Accepted materials include: oven and drain cleaners, bleaches and disinfectants, furniture and floor polishes and waxes, expired medications, fluorescent lamps, glues and adhesives, asphalt and roofing tar, oil-based paint, lacquers and thinners, photographic chemicals, varnish and stains, petroleum solvents, fungicides, herbicides, insecticides, rat poison, fertilizers, pool chemicals, brake and Trenton office and one at the Belle Isle Coast Guard station. Last year, the marine patrol logged 854 hours on Lake St. Clair, stopping 735 boats. Of those, 147 were issued violations and 120 boaters were given warnings.

There are 80,000 registered boats in Wayne County, which runs from the Grosse Pointe Shores-St. Clair Shores border to the southern tip of Grosse Ile in the Detroit River.

Wayne County commissioner Andrew Richner, vice chairman of the public safety and judiciary committee, read a provision in the Marine Patrol Safety Act which states that if a boat has a marine safety inspection seal, probable cause is needed to pull over a boat.

"If you have the safety seal, it's just like being stopped in your car," he said. "We thought it would be of service to the residents to know what services are available from the marine patrol unit. Their primary mission is to focus on those boaters who are a potential danger to the public."

Schmoekel encourages boaters to obtain the safety seal, either by visiting the marine patrol station on Belle Isle or by flagging down a marine patrol boat when they see one and asking for an inspection while on the lake or the Detroit River.

Once a boater passes inspection and receives a safety seal, the only reason the boat may be stopped by the marine patrol, Schmoekel said, is to make sure there are enough lifejackets on board.

For more information or to schedule an inspection, call the Wayne County Marine Patrol at (313) 675-2660.

There is no charge for this service; it is paid for and provided to the citizens of the five participating communities. A valid driver's license proving residency will be required.

Pointe mugging case referred to higher court

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

Two men accused in a series of unarmed robberies and assaults in three Pointes were bound over to Recorder's Court at their preliminary hearing on Wednesday, May 8.

Deandre R. Folks, 19, of Detroit, and Jesse James Mason, 20, also of Detroit, had their bonds continued. Grosse Pointe Park Municipal Judge Carl Jarboe ordered the two suspects held on high bonds because of the seriousness of the crimes they are alleged to have committed.

Mason's bond is $50,000 and Folks' is $200,000. They are currently being held in the Wayne County Jail.

"Both suspects were bound over for trial in the Frank Murphy Hall of Justice," said Park police detective David Hiller. "A date for their trial will be set two weeks after their preliminary hearing. But before they go to trial a number of things must happen first."

"A judge must be assigned to hear their case. They must be placed on the Recorder's Court docket. Before the trial the attorney's for the prosecution and the defense will sit down to see if a plea bargain can be arranged."

It is common in cases where multiple charges are filed for the defendants to enter into a plea bargain agreement where they plead guilty to some charges in exchange for other charges being dropped.

Folks is charged with three counts of unarmed robbery and one count of larceny from a person. Mason is charged with one count of larceny from a person and one count of unarmed robbery, said Hiller. The penalty for unarmed robbery is up to 15 years in prison. The sentence for larceny from a person is up to 10 years in prison.

"In a case like this, a trial is months away at this stage," said Hiller. "That's assuming it ever goes to trial. Like I said, plea bargain agreements are common in cases like this, where the prosecution has such strong evidence. Because of the number of charges involved an effort could be made to consolidate the cases."

Hiller said that the two defendants were part of a gang that patrolled the area looking for victims. They chose people who presented, in their eyes, a small likelihood of putting up resistance.

There was little the victims could do, because they weren't targeted after being seen at a bank or an automatic teller machine, said Hiller. They were chosen at random while the defendants were cruising the streets looking for someone to rob. By their own admission, they wanted to get in and out of the crime scene quickly.

"The victims weren't targeted because the robbers thought they might be carrying a lot of money," said Hiller. "The victims weren't doing anything provocative — they were just in the wrong place at the wrong time."

Pointer helps 'sell' Grosse Pointe to new physicians

By Margie Reins Smith
Feature Editor

St. John Hospital is fortunate to have Grosse Pointe as its next-door neighbor.

"The other two hospitals are, I'm sure, lucky too," said Grosse Pointe Woods resident Beth McKeown, medical staff liaison at St. John Hospital and Medical Center.

"Grosse Pointe is beautiful. It's close to the hospital; close to the water; friendly; family-oriented; safe; has excellent schools.

"Grosse Pointe is like a slice of life from the '50s," she added. "You see people walking their dogs; exercising. There are things for kids to do. People don't move away."

One of McKeown's duties as medical staff liaison is to help St. John Hospital recruit new physicians. Once a physician accepts a position at the hospital, she serves as the "welcome wagon" for him or her and the whole family.

"I introduce the new physician to the hospital staff. I tour the hospital with him. I introduce him to our services. I often find a Realtor; arrange a dinner with him and his or her spouse to introduce them to other staff members. I provide information about Grosse Pointe's schools, churches and community activities."

McKeown's background is sales, but the position of medical staff liaison was created because the hospital — and she — discovered a need for smoother transitions and orientations and a better trouble-shooting capability.

"I firmly believe that personal relationships are an extremely important part of a business' success. Not just hospitals," she said, "but all businesses."

POINTER OF INTEREST

McKeown grew up in northwest Detroit and graduated from Redford High School in 1969.

"I was raised by loving parents who taught me and my four siblings to be honest, live life, be non-conformists, respect and love our fellow man and find humor in everything. My father convinced me that I could accomplish anything and that gender should never be an issue," she said.

"As a result, I love people. People are my hobby."

After high school, McKeown worked at a variety of jobs while she attended Wayne County Community College and Wayne State University at night.

"I really wanted to teach special education," she said. "But it became apparent by 1972 that teachers weren't getting jobs. I was discouraged."

McKeown said she has always been attracted to the medical profession. She worked as an oral surgery assistant, a dental assistant and a phlebotomist.

"A phlebotomist draws blood," she explained. "This job opened doors for me. I loved the patient contact."

By 1979 she had moved into a sales representative job with Bio Science Laboratories, a reference laboratory. St. John Hospital was one of the company's biggest clients.

"I always considered the St. John lab as one of the best.

They knew me and asked me to be a rep for their ambulatory services," she said. "The timing was perfect."

As hospitals evolved and became more business-like by selling services and products, McKeown's job evolved also.

"Health care is the most complicated business in the world," she said. "Thousands of people make this big ship (the hospital) move forward. There are thousands of variables and processes and everything is going on at once."

The medical staff liaison position also involves trouble shooting problems identified by physicians and their office staffs.

"There will always be problems," McKeown said. "How you solve them is what makes you an excellent corporation."

"I call on physicians periodically and once a problem is identified, we often put a temporary Band-Aid on it. But we're really working on correcting the problem. I become an advocate for the physician and his or her patients."

"For instance. When St. John's Professional Building II opened, it did not have an information desk. We've grown to be a big campus and we must get involved in way-finding projects. We're soon going to have that information desk."

McKeown lives with her husband, Don Lang, her son, Christopher, 20, and their so-called guest son, Sebastian, 19. "Sebastian is a friend of Christopher's and he's living with us for a couple of years," she said.

McKeown is involved in several volunteer projects, many of them associated with health issues.

"My mentor was Max Silk, a former gangster and a dell owner who I met in the mid-'70s. He introduced me to some of the most interesting people in Detroit and got me involved in my first real fundraiser," she said. "He would take the shirt off his back for a stranger. He told the greatest stories in the world and always had a smile. I want to grow up to be just like Max."

McKeown served as a celebrity waiter for three American Heart Association fundraisers. One year, she dressed up as Groucho Marx.

She volunteers for the American Cancer Society and for Cornerstone Schools, where St. John Hospital supports 10 children. She is a charter member of the Max Silk Scholarship Fund for Most Holy Trinity School and a charter member of the Pope John Paul Hospitality House for the terminally ill.

"My dad died of cancer when I was 18," she said. "I realized then that life is short. My philosophy is that you really have to live life while you have it."

"People are my hobby. I love my job because — guess what? — I get to deal with people all day, every day. I consider myself lucky to know these people and to work for a corporation that helps people."

Secretary of State Candice S. Miller has launched the Great State Plate Challenge, a design contest that will run throughout the month of May to select a license plate design that symbolizes the beauty of Michigan.

The challenge, which is open to all Michigan residents, is being sponsored by the Secretary of State's office, the Michigan Travel Bureau and three well-known Michigan-based companies: Farmer Jack, Kmart and Spartan Stores Inc.

"It is time for a license plate that symbolizes the beauty of Michigan," Miller explained.

"I can think of no better group of people to help us design it than Michigan residents.

"Beauty is in the eye of the beholder and that is why we are inviting anyone and everyone who has an opinion about what makes Michigan the most beautiful state in the nation to submit a design."

The Great State Plate Challenge began May 1 when official entry forms were made available at all Michigan Farmer Jack, Kmart and Spartan stores.

Entry forms may also be obtained by sending a self-addressed envelope to Great State Plate Challenge, Michigan Department of State, 430 W. Allegan, Lansing, MI 48918-1195. Entry forms will not be available at Secretary of State branch offices.

More parent responsibility being debated

The conviction of a St. Clair Shores couple under a local parental responsibility ordinance has aroused wide attention in the nation and in Michigan communities.

The question is whether other communities, including even the Pointes, should adopt similar legislation in order to impress upon parents their responsibilities to their children and to the communities in which they live.

Gov. John Engler praised the St. Clair Shores ordinance, but said he wouldn't advocate a similar state law because he felt the issue should be left to individual communities.

The governor told the Detroit Free Press that "we still have an implication in society that the person best situated to do something is the parent." Then he added:

"I think anything that puts the family on notice about responsibilities of parenthood is a positive thing."

require parental responsibility in some matters. For example, the Grosse Pointe Farms ordinance applies more specifically to house parties.

In such cases, parents are held responsible if one of their children entertains at an open house which becomes noisy, disruptive to the neighbors, and serves liquor to minors.

According to the Grosse Pointe Farms detective bureau, the ordinance has served a useful purpose in warning young people of the possible trouble before it can happen, but it still is applied occasionally.

If police respond to a call and find a young culprit, who may have violated an ordinance or state law, they are authorized to hold that person until a parent or guardian signs him off.

In the St. Clair Shores case, Anthony and Susan Provenzano, who are parents of three other children age 25, 14 and 5, told The Detroit News that they had done

"the best they could" with their son Alex when he began getting in trouble at age 15.

They didn't feel that he would be receptive to counseling if he didn't agree to cooperate. As Provenzano told The Detroit News, "There has to be a receptive mind for it to have any impact."

That family failure to get the young man into counseling proved to be pivotal in the jurors' decision to find the couple guilty of violating the parental responsibility law in deliberations that lasted less than 30 minutes, the Detroit paper reported.

In our view, a major problem with such an ordinance is how the families accused of failing to act responsibly can prove to the law enforcement authorities that they have done "the best they could" to control their law-breaking youngsters.

In the St. Clair Shores case, apparently neither the authorities nor the jurors believed the parents had done so. The evidence was that the family had ignored repeated warnings by police about their son's criminal activities.

But will evidence on a family's side always be available? Furthermore, the constitutionality of such legislation is yet to be tested because it does hold someone accountable for the crimes of another.

Nor can laws impose loving and caring parents on a troublesome child who lacks that kind of a family. Yet the family has always been vulnerable to social and economic change, according to family historian Stephanie Coontz.

Writing in the May-June issue of Modern Maturity, she reminded us that back in 1745, Massachusetts even required that any child who at age 6 did not know the alphabet be removed from the home and placed with another family.

Fortunately, modern society has moved far beyond that stage of its interest in the education and training of children. But do we really need more laws to compel families to police juvenile delinquency in their own homes?

Perhaps the best thing that can be said for parental responsibility legislation is that it ought to serve as a warning to parents to exercise more control when it is needed. And to remind parents to retain proof of their actions if the child proves to be incorrigible.

An impressive school record

With the approach of the June 10 school election, we think it is well to focus attention on the many successes of the Grosse Pointe School system in a wide range of educational activities.

The Grosse Pointes constitute a community that from its beginning has emphasized the importance of quality education, and it still does despite the limitations imposed on funding by the passage of Proposal A.

One result of the maintenance of this tradition of excellence is shown by the Grosse Pointe public schools Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) scores which are more than 100 points higher than national averages.

In a second excellent showing, approximately 60 percent of the Grosse Pointe high school seniors take the SAT tests as compared with a nationwide average of only 40 percent of the student population and an average of 11 percent of the student population in the state of Michigan.

Another impressive result is that about 90 percent of Grosse Pointe high school graduates continue their education in colleges and universities in Michigan and elsewhere around the country.

In addition, more than 70 percent of the 712 advanced placement tests taken by seniors in 1995 earned high enough scores to qualify for college credits.

Despite critics who claim a decline in writing skills, 57 Grosse Pointe high school students won Detroit Free Press writing awards in 1995.

The schools obviously have other achievements on their recent record, but even the school people themselves concede that there always is room for improvement, which means that adjustments and corrections continue to be made in the system.

It is also true that it will continue to be necessary for the district to keep an eye on spending because of the expected decline in state funds that will be available from state distributions which provide for more than half of the system's revenue.

Overall, however, we think the traditional excellence of the Grosse Pointe School system has been well maintained.

Our response

Three letters to the editor in today's paper raised questions about last week's editorial about the school board and a signed piece on the Op-Ed page by Dr. Victor Bloom, a regular contributor, who discussed school prayer.

We do not assign topics to Dr. Bloom but he tells us "the debate about prayer in the schools and how religious and cultural differences will be presented in the schools has been going on privately, not publicly."

As for the criticisms of the positioning of last week's school board editorial, it was not an endorsement, as it said, and not in the "lead editorial position."

We do plan to comment on other organizations' endorsements brought to our attention.

G.P. library trustees praised

Three Grosse Pointers with records of important public service have been named to fill vacancies on the Grosse Pointe Library board of trustees.

The three were recommended to the school board by a committee of retiring board members, city mayors and library president John Bruce.

They are Robert E. Klacza of Grosse Pointe Park, Vicki Granger of Grosse Pointe Woods and Richard G. David of Grosse Pointe Shores.

The trio replaces Greg Theokas of Grosse Pointe Park, Dorothy Kennel of Grosse Pointe Shores and Florence Miller of Grosse Pointe Woods. Their terms will expire June 30.

Under an agreement signed when the library became independent of the school board, the library board is required to have one trustee from each municipality, plus one at-large trustee.

The new appointments continue the practice of picking people who have been active in community affairs to serve on the library board.

But as the community welcomes the new members, we ought also to tip our respective hats in tribute to the additional community service provided by the retiring members, the first to have served on the new independent library board.

village clerk. The latter was appointed in 1994, and was elected the next year, but must run because his term runs out in May.

In some communities, the lack of competition often is explained by voter apathy, but that does not seem to be the case in the Shores, especially in view of the strong voter approval given to the sewer-separation project in the May 1995 vote.

So new extensions of power are expected to go to the incumbents.

Letters

To the Editor:
In a Grosse Pointe News editorial last week Dr. Bloom states "that issue of prayers in schools is being hotly debated as we are again facing a school board election." I wish Dr. Bloom would have informed us how he came to this conclusion.

I believe his article to be inflammatory and misleading our community. There is no debate on prayers in the schools in our system. Not one school board member advocates prayer in school. There are no candidates advocating prayer in school. There has not been any discussion at all at school board meetings either from the public, administrators, faculty or board members on this subject.

I believe this is just one more example of rumor-mongering in this community, in order to serve one's own agenda. The Grosse Pointe News should not have been a party to rhetoric with no basis.

Cindy Pangborn
G.P. school board

Editor's note: Dr. Bloom tells us that the debate about prayer in the schools and how religion and cultural differences will be presented in the schools has been going on privately, not publicly. It remains to be seen whether these issues will surface in public discourse.

Confusion

To the Editor:
I was perplexed regarding two items in your editorial page of May 9. The first was the prominent and lengthy space dedicated to the endorsement of two school board candidates by a local group. After listing all the glowing attributes allegedly possessed by this group's selections you ended the editorial by saying your paper has not yet interviewed nor endorsed any of the candidates at this time, but will publish your recommendations at a later date.

My confusion is this: if these are not your choices but those of a group, why dedicate your editorial page to their opinions? I can only assume, therefore, you will give equal space (before the election) to any recognized group that endorses certain candidates for the upcoming school board election?

The second item which bewilders me is the 1/4 page allowed guest writer Dr. Bloom on the Op-Ed page. He submits prayer in the schools is a "burning" issue in the coming election. I suggest the prayer in schools is not a "hotly debated" issue as Dr. Bloom states. Dedicating this much space to a non issue can only cause unnecessary discussion and suspicion of candidates. The election process, short as it is, does not currently allow sufficient time and space for the debate and understanding of the real issues, therefore, dedicating space to a phantom issue is a disservice to the public.

John Mills G.P. school board Bad layout

To the Editor:
It is unfortunate that your news article "2 win backing for school board" appeared in the lead editorial position on your opinion page May 9. Although the Grosse Pointe News did state (buried in the last paragraph) that the article does not constitute an endorsement, the positioning of the article on the editorial page offered an implied endorsement.

By an unfortunate layout choice, you have done great disservice to all the candidates, but especially to John Denler, Michele Montagne-Shield and Jim Bordato whose chances have been severely compromised very early in the campaign.

Please be more careful in the future.

Here we go again

It must be spring, because the school election is heating up and becoming its usual nasty self.

Once again we have complete polarization: the Grosse Pointe Community NETWORK in one corner and the Grosse Pointe Taxpayers Association in the other. Members of the NETWORK believe that if a fiscally conservative member gets elected to the board, then education as we know it will end in Grosse Pointe.

The taxpayers association, obviously, believes too much money is being spent on the schools and that the same good job can be done with less. What else is new?

Of course, all kinds of rumors and unrelated issues are being dragged into the no-holds-barred fight. Someone sent in a letter under a false name, bringing to light the "Defer issue," which is currently being handled, rightfully, by the school administration and has nothing to do with the upcoming election.

Prayer in school — though it's not an issue in this race even though it seems people are talking about it — has reared its ugly head.

But, if enough mud is thrown, enough so-called problems are suddenly brought to light, then perhaps non-status-quo members will be elected to the board.

Of course, the NETWORK thinks such an outcome would be the kiss of death for good public education.

But guess what? The schools won't die. They will continue on their own momentum. It's hard to kill a well-entrenched bureaucracy.

But none of this is new. Having gone back through the past 50 years in the Grosse Pointe News, it seems that the public school system has always been a lightning rod. If there was discord in the Pointes, it was almost always over the schools.

Twenty-five years ago, one school board member accused the school administration of "keeping two sets of books." It took the added expense of an outside auditor to prove that only one set of books was kept.

In the past, so-called pro-administration school board members have quit over their frustration with querulous, trouble-making members calling for change and questioning everything.

During this election, the so-called "good guys," members of the NETWORK who like the schools just the way they are, have called on me to not print letters from the opposition — especially not so many from the same man.

The "meanies" of the Grosse Pointe Taxpayers Association, however, have never asked me not run a letter from the NETWORK. They've only asked me to give them equal treatment.

But in this nasty school election, no one is fair or happy. As the messenger, the middleman in the debate, the Grosse Pointe News gets roundly abused by everyone.

Free speech is difficult to maintain, free and fair speech is harder — and free, fair and true speech is impossible. All we can hope for is that in the competition of words and ideas, voters will make their choices and, hopefully, they will be the right ones — whatever they are.

Democracy is nothing if not messy.

Tax freedom day was on May 7

By U.S. Sen. Spencer Abraham R-Michigan

May 7 was America's tax freedom day; a day marking the people's emancipation from government taxation; a day after which the American people begin working for themselves and their families instead of for the government; a day which continues to recede further and further every year. And Michigan's tax freedom day arrived even later—on May 9. Michigan, thanks to its friendly atmosphere for economic growth and investment, is relatively affluent. Thus our citizens pay a significantly larger portion of their income in federal taxes than do citizens of other states.

This seems unfair. But then so does the overall tax burden. A recent Roper poll shows that Americans of all stripes — whatever their race, sex, income level, or political persuasion—felt it was fair for them to pay a surprisingly high 25 percent of their income in taxes. More astounding, however, is the proportion they actually must pay — over 38 percent.

And the trend is toward higher, not lower taxes. In 1995 total taxes as a share of the gross domestic product were the highest in U.S. history. Federal, state and local government receipts consumed a record 31.3 percent of GDP.

This figure is simply astounding. Even at the height of World War II, with America fighting for her very existence, total taxes only consumed 25 percent of GDP in 1992, only four years ago, taxes consumed 30 percent of GDP.

This means that taxes have risen by 1.3 percent of GDP—of the size of our entire domestic economy—since Bill Clinton became president.

And what does our President propose to do about this deplorable situation, in which our economy is operating under the highest tax burden in history?

Recent experience provides little hope for relief. In 1993 President Clinton signed into law the largest tax increase in history: two hundred forty one billion dollars. The President raised taxes on gasoline. He raised taxes on Social Security recipients. He also hit our senior citizens by reinstating the highest estate and gift tax rate of 55 percent. He raised taxes on small-business owners. And he imposed a retroactive tax increase on the incomes of America's working families — not only increasing taxes on their future earnings, but actually taking a portion of what they already had earned. Small wonder the President recently admitted that he "may have" raised taxes too much.

President Clinton's contribution to higher taxes does not end here. When we Republicans sought to emancipate American families from some of their tax burden President Clinton was ready, with his veto.

Americans should judge for themselves the effects of Clinton tax policies on their ability to keep what they earn for themselves and their families. They should ask themselves a few simple questions:

1. Do you have children? If so, President Clinton's veto of our Balanced Budget Act is costing you $500 per child in tax savings—the amount of the tax credit Republicans proposed.
2. Are you married? If so, President Clinton's veto is denying you tax savings from a higher joint standard deduction. Married couples with average incomes of $50,000 who claim the standard deduction are paying $217 more than they would otherwise, because of the President's veto.
3. Are you trying to save for your retirement? If so, and you earn more than $40,000 a year or have a non-working spouse, President Clinton's veto cost you $1,120 in IRA tax savings.
4. Are you planning to adopt a child? If so, President Clinton's veto cost you a credit of up to $5,000 to defray adoption expenses.
5. Do you care for an elderly parent at home? If so, President Clinton's veto is denying you savings from a $1,000 eldercare deduction—that's between $150 and $280 out of your pocket and into the government's.
6. Do you plan to earn taxable capital gains—for example by selling your house when you retire?

If so, President Clinton's veto is preventing you from keeping more of your profits. The GOP reforms would have seen that you were taxed on only half of your net capital gain.

And finally, are you paying off a student loan?

If so, President Clinton's veto is costing you savings from a maximum $2,500 deduction on the interest paid for the first five years of repayment. In short, President Clinton's policies have chained America's working families to ever-higher taxes, making it harder and harder for them to support themselves. His policies have cut the growth of Americans' real personal disposable income. They have hurt the economy and reduced by nearly $2,600 the amount of money every American household can use to support itself.

Americans today are, and have every right to be, worried about their jobs, concerned about their future, and angry that the American Dream of moving up through hard work seems to be slipping out of reach. In one generation the government has doubled the amount of money it takes from the American people. It has severely restricted our freedom from taxation.

What have we gotten in return? Certainly not safer and better schools. Certainly not safer and cleaner streets. Certainly not reduced drug use and juvenile crime. Certainly not lower levels of welfare dependency and hopelessness.

Americans' tax freedom has purchased only increased government control over their lives. And this must end. We must see to it that Americans earn more and keep more of what they earn so that they can do more for their families and communities.

To achieve this goal we must first free American families of the Clinton tax increases by passing the $500 per child exemption. We must reduce the amount Americans must pay for gasoline by rolling back the Charity takes a bow

"I've been taking her cooking class for a long time," said the Woods' Marita Maffesoli, who was sad that Charity Suczek, who's only 97, was hanging up her soufflé pan at Le Petit Cordon Bleu School of

Ken Eatherly

International Cuisine.

The course, which the Pointes' grand dame of good grub has conducted through the schools' community education program since 1979, still packed 'em into the kitchen classroom this final week at Barnes school — and FYI even saw a couple of guys in the crowd.

"She's a wonderful cook and teacher, and an amazing person," said loyal student Marita. "She even came in to teach right after the times she had cataracts removed and double hip surgery."

Charity's son and daughter-in-law, Alex and Marybelle Suczek, have been pitching in to help her teach lately, but Alex says they won't be continuing the class without his famous mom.

"This is her thing," says Alex. "She's actually been teaching cooking — all over the world — since 1956, but working without an assistant, who she can train in her demonstration kitchen at home, tires her out too much."

As Monday's class ended, the Pointe tradition ended too. There was a big vase of flowers, a few tears were shed, and the steamed Carpathian Pudding with red currants, rum and walnuts was delicious, as expected.

Laughing around the Pointes

Paul Mitchell, owner of Grosse Pointe Computer on Mack, is still chuckling over the customer who came in and wanted the tallest tower-type computer he could get.

The reason? He thought it would hold a bigger stack of diskettes.

The Woods' Mary McNair swears she saw this at the 48236 Post Office on Mack Monday morning: On the counter, a box labeled OUT-GOING MALE. (The question is, how outgoing was he?)

Phyllis Reeve, of the Park, reports spotting the following Hawaii (how did they ever drive to Michigan?) license plate: 6PAK2GO. (And the driver probably wonders why he keeps getting stopped for a breath test).

Noted by the wag I live with, the longest-running feature on the marquee of the Woods Theatre: GIFT BOOK ON SALE. It's been up there for years, but I'm waiting for the video.

In a class by themselves

They didn't matriculate from what used to be Grosse Pointe University School (the old G.P.U.S. that everyone called "Guppus,") but members of the Class of '71 of what's now University Liggett School thought it would be fun to get together anyway.

"It was our 25th non-reunion reunion," says Leslie Weller, who joined the private bash Saturday for her fellow non-grads, most of whom left the Pointes for other schools and far-off places. "We got in a majority of the people who never graduated, most of whom were from out of town and birthday party buddies in their formative years."

The Guppusthon was hosted by Mike and Kathy (Mr. and Mrs. J. Michael) Getz, and included Nina McCabe-Bisbee, Douglas Campbell, John Dykema, Andy McCormick-Goodhart, Carol Nutter Myland, Gioconda Cinelli McMillan, Lori Scharfenberg, Marc Schwartz and Sandy Turner.

Mastermind of the event was Tawn Ulbrich (Mrs. John M.) Otrhalek, who did graduate, Leslie notes.

Bread cast upon the ice?

Red Wings octomania continues to slither through the Pointes, with Brownell's seventh- and eighth-grade foods class teacher Lynne Mogk trying a new twist on baked goods.

"The kids are really excited about hockey lately so one day we got the idea to combine Red Wing mania with the unit on yeast dough and baking I was teaching," she says.

The result? Pans and pans of octopus bread, with lots of nice crusty tentacles. They loved the whole project, says Lynne, who admits she's a kid at heart herself.

Incidentally, Lynne and her husband, Bill, (a longtime system teacher and administrator), may have the farthest-away subscriber to the Grosse Pointe News in their family: She's their daughter Susan, stationed with the Department of Defense in Wiesbaden, Germany.

"We got a subscription for her because her roots are still here," says Bill. "Susan spends most of her time traveling in the Middle East and she appreciates the paper because it keeps her current with home."

Forum

To the Editor:

Your May 9th editorial stressed the importance of the Monday, June 10 Grosse Pointe Public School System board election. As you say, this election will determine the makeup of the board, which has been voting 4 to 3 on most key issues in the recent past. Whoever is elected to fill the two majority vacancies may change the future course the board takes.

To learn more about the candidates, your readers are invited to attend the Eastside Republican Club's School Board Candidate Forum on Tuesday evening, May 21, at 7:30 p.m. at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. Four of the five candidates have indicated they will attend.

Each candidate will make a three minute opening statement. This will be followed by a question and answer session with all candidates having two minutes to respond to the same written questions from the audience. This format offers opportunity for voters to directly evaluate the candidates themselves without the rhetoric of their supporting groups blurring the issues.

Due to the importance of this election, we invite all Grosse Pointers to attend the Candidate Forum on May 21. For more information on the Eastside Republican Club Candidate Forum, you may telephone (313) 499-3466.

Vets' dinner was a success

To the Editor:
Sixty-six Grosse Pointe veterans and their spouses sat down in the reception room of the Alger House on Thursday evening, May 9, to enjoy a delicious meal of gourmet chicken, with all the trimmings, which had been prepared for them by the War Memorial's talented kitchen staff.

Preceding the banquet was an hour-long "attitude adjustment period" featuring beverages and tasty hors d'oeuvres. The War Memorial's program director Barbara Denler, who helped coordinate the event, was heard commenting, "Feed them and they will come." Jerry Robinson, the noted piano player who provided background music throughout the evening, is himself a veteran of dozens of B-24 bombing missions during World War II.

After a series of apropos toasts by veterans (many of whom wore their military service caps), Lt. Col. Dennis Kotkoski, Air National Guard, gave a very interesting report on the current status of Selfridge Field and the myriad of military groups that are active there. He was followed by his wife, Cindi, a military recruiter, who talked about the continuing need to teach our children to value patriotism and service to our country.

The next gathering of the recently formed Grosse Pointe Veterans Club will be at 9:30 a.m. Monday, May 27, for the Memorial Day service on the lawn behind the Alger House. And like all of the Veterans Club activities, it will be coed.

Youth programs emphasize creativity, fun

See the War Memorial's latest program of events for a complete listing of enrichment opportunities designed for children of all ages.

New offerings include a seven-week hula dance class for girls 6 to 12, plus an opportunity for children 7 to 12 to experience French or Spanish language and culture.

Jacqueline Fox teaches Hula for Girls Thursdays, May 16 to June 27, from 4 to 5 p.m. The graceful sway and delicate hand movements of the hula tell the stories of tropical Pacific islands. Parents and friends are invited to the last class where the children showcase what they've learned. The class fee is $61. Children are to wear loose-fitting clothing and bring a pair of old socks. Hula skirts are included.

Fun in Foreign Cultures, taught by Dr. Randi Lou Franklin, meets Tuesdays and Thursdays, May 14 to 23, from 4 to 5:30 p.m. The class is designed to introduce youngsters to the language and culture of Spain or France through conversational situations, crafts and music. The class fee is $65. Choose Spanish or French.

Fun in Foreign Cultures is also offered Mondays and Wednesdays, June 17 to 26, from 9 to 10:30 a.m. Also, a three-week session is scheduled Mondays and Wednesday, July 8 to 24, from 1 to 2:30 p.m. The fee for the three-week program is $95.

For details about all War Memorial youth classes, see the May/June program of events or call (313)881-7511.

Farms holds the line on taxes

By Chip Chapman
Staff Writer

For the third straight year, Grosse Pointe Farms residents' tax rate will remain at 11.75 mills.

The Farms city council approved an $8.6 million budget for the 1996 fiscal year, which begins July 1. This is an increase of 4.3 percent from last year's $8.3 million budget.

"Once again, it's a conservative budget," said councilman Ed Gaffney, chairman of the audit and budget committee. "It allows for capital improvements but still keeps the tax rate the lowest in the Grosse Pointes."

For residents wanting to prepare themselves for the July city tax bill, taxes will be $587.50 for each $100,000 of market value ($50,000 State Equalized Valuation) of a home.

In order to keep the millage rate the same, the Farms opted to take $89,700 from the general fund balance. This reduced the general fund budget from $636,500 to $546,800.

"Looking strictly as departmental, that is line-item or operating budgets, the budget has increased by $146,660 or 1.75 percent from 1995-96," said Farms controller James Nash. "Increased state revenue sharing and investment income have helped to offset higher capital expenditures in this year's budget. Planned projects include resurfacing of deteriorated city streets, replacement of a 25-yard rubbish packer, public safety vehicles and equipment and continued improvements at the Pier Park."

Property taxes account for 75.4 percent of the city's revenues. State shared revenues account for the next highest percent of revenue to the city at 9.3 percent.

"It's a bare bones, but a Grosse Pointe-type of budget, meaning it includes funding for things we've come to expect," Gaffney said.

A call for moderation in politics

Special Writer

As we approach another presidential election, campaign issues are in the air and platforms are being built. As we traverse the time to November, debate invariably becomes strident and opinions extreme. The relation between the two major parties becomes adversarial and as a result, the country is divided as the discourse becomes divisive.

The basic divisiveness is of historic origin, it is between the haves and the have-nots. The haves want to "conserve" what they have, and so they are called "conservatives". The have-nots want what the haves have, and so they are called, "liberals" as they want government money liberally spent on them, so they will no longer be the have-nots.

In the past the workers were exploited by the industrialists in free-enterprise, laissez-faire capitalism. Eventually they formed unions and gained entitlements, such as the minimum wage, higher wages, medical and pension benefits. The needy poor obtained welfare entitlements, such as Medicaid, and the retirees got Medicare. Food stamps and school lunches were to ensure that nobody would go hungry. Taxes and the costs of groceries went up to ensure that there would always be a degree of inflation.

With the advent of the sexual revolution and the civil rights reforms of the sixties, there was a breakup of the family, the advent of drugs and babies born out of wedlock. In spite of Roe v. Wade, the number of kids having kids rose exponentially, producing generation after generation of welfare cases. The haves revolted against increasing taxes to pay for a welfare state, and eventually they gained control of both houses of the legislature, after years of Democratic control with Republican presidents. Now we have the reverse situation with a Democratic president who appears to be a shoo-in for re-election and a Republican-conservative Senate and House of Representatives.

The Democrats want to retain control in order, in their mind, to keep liberal reforms and federal control, while the Republicans would like to have the power of a conservative president as well as legislature to enforce state's rights and local control. The Supreme Court has a slight conservative edge, which the Republicans would like to preserve.

Each side would make you think that only their side will preserve the American way of life. Each side would argue that only they will uphold the highest moral traditions and protect your interests. But the case is made, over and over again, that the Democrats care about the poor and the Republicans care about the rich. The rich argue that their best interests are also good for the poor, and the poor argue that they should have the same amenities as the rich, including unlimited medical care and welfare. The rich say that the poor are too expensive, that they cannot compete on the world market with the costs of higher salaries and entitlements. And so it goes.

In between the rich and the poor, is the growing middle class, who realize that it may be exploited by both the rich and the poor. The federal government subsidizes the rich as well as the poor, and the middle class is paying most of the taxes and doing most of the work. The middle class is thereby susceptible to the extreme positions of a Pat Buchanan, who wants to stop illegal immigration, as well as abortion. He talks as if only the return of religious fundamentalism will solve the problems of society. He promotes economic and political isolationism, and he has a significant backing of the electorate.

Our system of government is founded on the principle of the separation of powers, which leads to a certain balance. The founders of this nation did not want the federal government to become too powerful. They wanted the individual to be relatively free from incursions or control by a central power. And so we have the perennial discourse about federal control vs. states rights.

History has taught us that extremism leads to violence and violence leads to pain, suffering and further dissension, with repercussions into the distant future. Violence sometimes leads to war and war to the death of millions of innocents and vows of vengeance. In a time when violence leads to terrorism and terrorism endangers the lives of millions, we must be moderate, and tolerate differences of opinion. The rich, the poor and the middle class are all made up of people like us. We all want our interests to be protected, but at the same time, we must consider the legitimate interests of others.

No matter who is voted into office, everybody deserves consideration and has a voice. We will remain strong as a nation only as we work toward unity, rather than divisiveness. Just as the poor and needy deserve compassion and help, the rich are in a position to provide leadership and power to maintain a status quo that is still the envy of the rest of the world. Of the millions of immigrants that have settled this country, some have gone on to make fortunes and others have slipped down the socio-economic scale. And so it shall always be, as we have not all been created equal. In a world where moderation rules, the poor will serve the rich, the rich will serve the poor, and the middle-class will make it all possible.

A comfortable rut

Each of us should have a special place to which we can retreat to relax, reflect whatever. Sometimes it isn't possible to physically be in that place. However, if we close our eyes, we can travel there in an instant.

I have three or four places that I call up from pleasant memories to help me through a bout of insomnia, or to distract me during a stressful experience or uncomfortable encounter. With a little practice it is an easy exercise with great benefits.

I begin by taking myself to a place or event that has given me great comfort in the past. It might be sitting on a swing at our cottage, overlooking the lake, remembering cool breezes and the lapping of the water on the sailboat as we slip through the waves.

Often it is the remembrance of riding my horse and the rhythm of my heart in tune with the lope of his canter.

Five years ago our family discovered a new refuge in the form of a vacation venue. As a result of business and personal constraints, the vacation time shared with my spouse falls somewhere in April. We had considered visiting the South Carolina coast, but knew the temperatures could be iffy in early spring. Friends convinced us to give it a try, as the climate was excellent in late spring.

We went. We went again after scouting out better accommodations. By the second trip we knew what we desired in terms of space and light. The view was our most important requirement. We wanted to see, smell and hear the ocean from every room, at every hour, regardless of weather. We returned once again to our Mecca.

It has been our "home" for two weeks each year.

I used to think it was silly to return to the same spot year after year. No more. it's wonderful if you are able to have enough vacation time to have the balance of new experiences, too, but there is much to be said in support of the tried and true. We are fortunate to be able to return to a place that makes no demands of us.

We prefer not to own property in the area, as the season is short and the liability concerns are considerable. It's great to leave and not worry about salt water damage, hurricanes and maintenance problems that often accompany beach property.

What draws us to this island each spring? There are facilities for children of all ages. There is solitude for honeymooners or scholars.

One can exercise, recline on a couch or beach chair and feel the warm sand on toes. There are beautiful swimming pools for those who don't prefer salt water. There are homes and condominiums for rent or purchase on lazy lagoons, where the bird and alligator watching provide continuous entertainment.

And then, there is our little spot on the ocean, where we awaken to magnificent sunrises, quiet unspoiled beaches, gentle surf, 10 miles of clean white sand, five golf courses, a tennis center, endless miles of running and bike paths and cozy nooks to settle in with a good read.

There are several decent restaurants within two miles and the farmers' stalls along the road overflow with fresh vegetables and flowers.

There need be no structure to our days. The relentless pulse of the waves soothes us and we no longer need a few days to unwind. The tonic of peace and freedom of choice is an instant tranquilizer. The history and charm of Charleston is 35 minutes from our door. The beach begs us to walk it and offers new gifts and discoveries each hour.

The constant evolutions taking place before our eyes both overwhelm and comfort us. A storm hurls its crustaceous victims on the shoreline as the sun peeks from behind a cloud and tiny bubbles beneath the sand are witness to the miracle of life's cycles.

It is to these scenes from a vacation that I will return by closing my eyes when I seek refuge throughout the coming year.

Calling all Scouts

The War Memorial extends a special invitation to local scout troops interested in participating in the community Memorial Day service on Monday, May 27, from 10 to 11 a.m.

Volunteer activities in which the boys and girls could be involved include recitation of the Pledge of Allegiance, distribution of flags and programs, color guard for memorial wreaths, plus other assignments.

War Memorial marketing and development coordinator Suzy Berschback welcomes a call from troops interested in participating. "It is fitting to have young people, who are involved in community service, participate on this important day of remembrance; to share hopes for lasting world peace by honoring those who died in service to our country," she says.

Call Berschback at the War Memorial, (313) 881-7511 by May 20. Check-in time for volunteers is 9 a.m.

Europe will be a popular vacation spot this summer. This shot is the Parliament building in Vienna. Notice how Monte Nagler paid careful attention to get an unusual composition.

Be prepared: Scout for good vacation shots

Summer is just around the corner and now is the time most of us begin planning for that upcoming vacation.

Part of the planning should be preparing for your photography while on the trip. Listed here are some tips that will help you bring home those winning shots.

- Travel light, but don't leave an important piece of equipment home. In addition to your camera and normal lens, a wide-angle and moderate telephoto will cover most picture-taking situations. You'll find zoom lenses very beneficial on a trip. A small flash unit and collapsible tripod will come in handy and a polarizer filter will add important impact in your scenic shots.

- Film? Take enough to get you through the trip, usually a roll a day. Decide in advance if you prefer print or slide film and select a medium speed that will enable you to cope with a variety of lighting situations. Take along a few rolls of fast film for those special low-light shots you're bound to encounter. Important: if traveling by air, don't let your film pass through X-ray screening machines. Use a film shield bag or request visual inspection of your film.

- Do some planning before you leave. If you're going abroad, study the people, locales and customs. If you're staying in the United States, read up on the national parks or other points of interest you'll be visiting to get some photographic ideas.

- Don't pass up pictures on the way. Many good photographic opportunities are missed by ignoring interesting things en route because it's felt better pictures are waiting at the final destination. Taking pictures along the way also helps to make your trip coverage complete.

Photography

By Monte Nagler

and events.
• Go beyond staged events. Real people and real places are far better subjects than staged events for the tourists' benefit. "Real" photographs will help you to better understand a country and its people.

- Include people in your shots. People at work or play are an integral part of any environment, especially when engaged in traditional crafts

- Look for the unusual. An obscure street scene or other out-of-the-way image should be part of your vacation shots.

After-school job is adventure for teen

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

Jeff Kenyon has a photographic memory. He also has the ability to identify people by their voices alone — even if he has met them only once.

And a childhood interest in police work and years of monitoring a police radio "scanner" have given him the ability to understand and speak the law enforcement lingo.

That is why the 19-year-old Farms resident, who is legally blind, was able, with relative ease, to slip into his job as a public safety dispatcher.

A senior at Grosse Pointe North, Kenyon has been working a three-hour shift, three days a week at the Grosse Pointe Shores public safety department through a high school co-op program.

Throughout the first hour of his shift one day last week, Kenyon answered incoming phone calls and communicated by radio with officers on the road. He accessed information from the Law Enforcement Information Network (LEIN) computer and shared in the good-natured banter with officers during a 3 p.m. shift change.

Most of the time he sat waiting for something to happen.

"It's very low-stress here," he said. The Village of Grosse Pointe Shores is a narrow ribbon of a community lining the shores of Lake St. Clair. It is the quintessential bedroom community; there are no business or shopping districts, no schools and no industry. Incidents of crime are minimal and generally limited to theft of wheel covers and motor vehicle violations.

"The job is interesting because you get to meet a lot of people. On a typical day most of the calls are for directions, officers running plates on a traffic stop. We get our fair share of complaint calls, too," he said.

Karen Haydett, one of the Shores dispatchers who has worked directly with Kenyon since last September, explained how he is able to perform the job. "We read out the information (on the LEIN computer screen) to him and he memorizes it and gives it back out to the officers on the road," she said.

As proof of his abilities, Haydett calls up a plate on the computer and then reads the information aloud to Kenyon. She talks in a normal tone of voice, speaks at a conversational rate and does not repeat any information. Then, as if he has the paper in front of him, Kenyon speaks into the police radio microphone and repeats the information to the officer on the road.

He knows the enhanced-911 telephone keypad by touch.

About three times the size of a business phone, and resembling a switchboard, the enhanced 911 phone also has a small computer screen that displays the caller's name, address and telephone number. Kenyon has one of the dispatchers read that information to him.

"I've always been fascinated with police work," he said, noting that his father, Shores village manager Michael Kenyon, formerly was a Shores public safety officer. His uncle, John Trevillian, has been a Shores public safety officer for 29 years, and his late grandfather, Ignatius Backman, was deputy director of the Grosse Pointe Farms public safety department.

Since last fall, Kenyon said there have been two incidents that stand out.

At 3:30 p.m. Oct. 17 the Shores department was asked to assist the Grosse Pointe Woods department, as part of the Pointes-wide mutual aid pact, in the rescue of a 25-year-old woman who was pinned inside her GMC Jimmy after she was hit head-on by a U-Haul truck on Vernier near Charlevoix.

Kenyon said he handled dispatch protocol, which involves communicating with the nearby hospital that will receive the injured drivers and with the police and emergency rescue officers on the scene.

He did not know at the time that the woman in the car died due to the serious nature of her injuries. "The next day, I criticized myself on my performance and everyone told me I did a good job for someone who had only been on the job for four weeks," he said.

Another time, two intoxicated adults and their two children were brought into the station. The man's blood alcohol level registered .35 on the Breathalyzer, Kenyon said, requiring the department to send him immediately to the hospital, which they did.

"Later, when I was talking to Tom Teetaert and Frans Weits (assistant principals at North) about that, they said that if any one of us had that blood-alcohol level, we'd be dead," he said.

His co-op job at the department ends in June, when he graduates from high school. He plans to attend Northwestern Community College in Traverse City and would like to study computer information systems.

"He's an exceptional young man," said Shores public safety director Dan Healy. "This experience has done him a lot of good and it's done us a lot of good, too. He has shown all of us what a person can accomplish."

Attendance policy a go; campus closing a 'no'

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

The Grosse Pointe school board on Monday delivered some good news and some bad news for high school students.

The good news is that the board didn't vote on either the proposed attendance policy changes or the question of whether to close the campuses at lunch time.

The bad news is that the board took a straw vote and all are in favor of the proposed attendance policy. Trustees will probably approve the plan over the summer so that the new policy will be in place for the 1996-97 school year.

The good news is that the board decided to postpone making a decision on the closed campus debate and referred the matter back to the high school administrators for further research.

Teams of teachers, parents, administrators and students have been studying the situations at both North and South high schools.

North and South have different issues regarding students leaving the campus at the lunch hour. Traffic safety is the biggest concern at North, while at South the issues center on students loitering, littering and smoking around houses and businesses adjacent to the campus.

The board also seemed undecided on whether the majority should be punished for the actions of the minority and most felt that allowing students to leave the campus instilled a sense of responsibility and prepared students for life after high school.

Meanwhile, if the district is to implement a revised attendance policy for the next school year, superintendent Ed Shine advised the board to take action by June or July.

The proposed policy includes a limit of 10 absences a semester, which include illness called in by a parent, vacations, medical/dental appointments, college visitations, family emergencies and unexcused absences (those that are not arranged by a parent or teacher).

Absences not counted include school-approved activities and field trips; funerals; extended illness; counseling and administrative appointments; court appearances; religious observances; and college representative visitations.

Every third tardy will count as one absence. Students will receive a grade reduction upon the third unexcused absence and a drop/fail grade upon the fourth offense.

The proposed policy also includes the formation of an attendance review board, composed of one administrator, two teachers, one attendance professional and one counselor, who will handle appeals.

Board members were concerned whether the policy would accommodate special needs students.

SYNOPSIS: REGULAR CITY COUNCIL MEETING
MAY 6, 1996

The regular City Council meeting was called to order by Mayor Frank J. Palazzolo at 7:30 p.m.

ROLL CALL: All Councilmembers were present.

MOTIONS PASSED

- To excuse Councilman Oreste J. Melardo from tonight's meeting because of a prior commitment.
- To receive, approve and file the minutes of the Regular City Council Meeting held April 15, 1996, and furthermore, receive and file the minutes of the Library Board Meeting held March 28, 1996, the minutes of the Board of Zoning Appeals Meeting held April 15, 1996, the minutes of the Civil Service Commission Meeting held April 17, 1996, the minutes of the Business Retention System Meeting held April 22, 1996, the minutes of the Beautification Commission Meeting held April 24, 1996, the minutes of the Planning Commission Meeting held April 24, 1996, and the minutes of the Special Planning Commission Meeting held May 1, 1996.
- To open the Public Hearing on the 1996 Sidewalk Improvement Program and the Proposed Special Assessment Roll.
- That having heard public comment on the 1996 Sidewalk Improvement Program and the Proposed Sidewalk Assessment Roll, the public hearing is hereby closed.
- To add to the agenda discussion and/or action on submitting a ballot proposal to the electors of Harper Woods that would, if passed, amend the requirements for holding City Primaries.
- That the agenda of the regular City Council meeting having been acted upon, the meeting is hereby adjourned at 9:20 p.m.

RESOLUTIONS PASSED

- To approve the following items on the Consent Agenda: 1) Approve the Accounts Payable Listing for Check Numbers 42235 through 42366 in the amount of $411,406.54 as submitted by the City Manager and City Controller, and further, authorize the Mayor and City Clerk to sign the listing; 2) Approve payment in the amount of $4,800.00 to Bell Equipment Co. for the purchase of a used hopper for the street sweeper; 3) Approve payment in the amount of $10,638.60 to A1S Construction Equipment Corp. for the repairs needed to return the wheel loader to service; 4) Approve payment in the amount of $3,261.00 to IRM for the 1-year renewal of their extended maintenance agreement; 5) Approve payment in the amount of $55,422.40 to Anderson, Eckstein & Westick, Inc. for professional services for the Woodcrest Water main project; 1996 Concrete Replacement project; 1996 Sidewalk Replacement project; Woodcrest & Watermain (Kelly) to Woodcrest project and the Community Center project; 6) Approve payment in the amount of $8,337.06 to Statewide Security Transport for provider transportation and lodging for the month of February, 1996; 7) Approve payment in the amount of $1,563.43 to the Macomb County Library for the purchase of various adult and children books; 8) Approve payment in the amount of $1,608.17 to Wayne County Department of Management and Budget for services performed on our tax and assessment rolls for 1995; 9) Approve payment in the amount of $1,869.00 to Wayne County Revenue and Tax Analysis Division for the lodging and maintenance of processes for February, 1996; 10) Approve payment in the amount of $1,540.00 to Southeast Michigan Council of Governments for the 1996 annual membership renewal; 11) Approve the proposal in the amount of 2,415.00 to B.N.S. Electric, Inc. for repairs needed on the lifts for Senior Diamond #1.
- To adopt the resolution authorizing the 1996 Sidewalk Improvement Program and to confirm the Special Assessment Roll.
- To introduce and place for First Reading an Ordinance entitled: An Ordinance to amend Chapter 2 Article 1, Division 2 of the Code of Ordinances to Provide That a Member of the City Council Serve on the Beautification Commission and to direct the City Clerk to publish a notice of this in accordance with the City Charter requirement.
- To approve the agenda of the 1993-1994 (revised) through 1994-1995 Agreement between the City of Harper Woods and American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees - Council 25, Local 1107 for the period January 1, 1995, through December 31, 1996, and to authorize the Mayor and City Clerk to sign the Agreement.
- To accept the low bid in the amount of $36,919 submitted by Cedron Associates of Utica, Michigan for doors, fascia windows and other repairs to the Community Center.
- To accept the low proposal in the amount of $1,226 plus $2,185 for attachments submitted by Spartan Distributors of Auburn Hills, MI for the purchase of a 1996 Ford Workman 3200 Utility Vehicle.
- To adopt the resolution in support of H.B. 5000 which would standardize safety belt enforcement in the State of Michigan.
- To direct the City Attorneys to prepare ballot language for a ballot proposal for submission to the electors in the City of Harper Woods at this year's General Election that if passed, would amend the City Charter to require more than three times the number of candidates for either Mayor or City Council before a primary election is mandated rather than the existing requirement of more than twice the number of candidates before a primary is mandated. Furthermore, said language for the ballot proposal shall be submitted to City Clerk for final approval prior to forwarding to the Governor's Office.

Off to camp? Pack your sack for safety.

Dear _____ Name _____

It's great to see you so excited about camp. There's so much to do. So many new friends to make. It's going to be lots of fun. To make sure it is a great, safe experience all the way around, please remember:

- ⊗ Never hike alone. Always use marked trails, a compass and a map. Carry your whistle in case you get lost. Wear properly fitting shoes and socks to protect against blisters.
- ⊗ Always follow the rules. You may think you know better, but your camp counselor is the expert.
- ⊗ Always swim with a buddy. Swim only in areas with a lifeguard. Never dive head-first into the water.
- ⊗ Drink plenty of water. This avoids heat illness and dehydration. It can happen quickly. NEVER over-exert yourself in hot weather. Don't forget to use sunscreen every day.
- ⊗ Leave wild animals and snakes alone. If you get bit, get help and medical attention immediately.
- ⊗ Don't eat wild plants. Including mushrooms and berries. They can make you very sick. Never touch poison ivy or poison oak (remember, leaves of three, let it be!).
- ⊗ Douse fires completely. Make sure to extinguish all campfires, lanterns and stoves before turning in.
- ⊗ No horseplay. Always play it safe in the water, in the woods, in the cabin.

The Emergency Department at Bon Secours Hospital reminds you to check with the American Camping Association to help select a camp that is accredited and meets their standards of excellence. And always be prepared, plan ahead and think safety!

These simple tips are the keys to childhood memories that will last a lifetime. Happy Camping!

SCHOOL NEWS

Seeking books

It's never too early to begin collecting books for St. Clare of Montefalco School PTO's 12th annual used book sale, Sept. 18-22. Helping to prepare for the fundraiser are, from left, Vaughn Morrison, Gina Valgoi and Hannah Guaranta. The sale organizers will accept hardcover and paperback books. Do not donate textbooks or magazines. Books may be deposited in the bin inside the car port entrance of St. Clare church, Mack at Whittier in Grosse Pointe Park, any day until 2 p.m. For pickup, call (313) 884-3121. Proceeds from the sale support the school library and enrichment programs.

Busy students

Heather Breedlove of Grosse Pointe Woods and an eighth-grader at Parcels Middle School, won third place in the 1996 Women's History Month Essay Contest sponsored by the American Association of University Women and the Michigan Women's Commission.

She was one of 1,600 students from around the state who participated in the contest. Breedlove wrote her essay, "Inspiration," about Sister Marion M.C., a nun who was born in India and belongs to an order led by Mother Theresa.

Breedlove met Sister Marion through her volunteer work at a soup kitchen and homeless shelter, which is operated by Sister Marion through St. Dominic Church in Detroit.

Breedlove, along with the other winners, was honored in March at an afternoon tea hosted by Michelle Engler, Connie Binsfeld and Trudy Archer at the governor's residence in Lansing. She received a $200 savings bond and a gift certificate.

Fourth-graders from St. Clare of Montefalco School in Grosse Pointe Park are finalists in the SelectStudents Fit for the Future competition to be held on Saturday, May 18, at the Somerset Inn in Troy. SelectStudents is an educational community program focused on improving the health of elementary school students.

The St. Clare students will present their school-wide walking program to the judges. Following the presentations, the students, parents and teachers will be entertained by SelectCare's Cool Cat and singing cast. Awards will be presented at 11 a.m.

Maureen Hindelang, a senior at Regina High School and the daughter of Robert and Paula Hindelang of the City of Grosse Pointe, finished fifth in the state at the Michigan Interscholastic Forensics Association (MIFA) State Championship Tournament held May 3 and 4 at Western Michigan University.

She was among more than 200 students from Michigan competing to qualify for the annual tournament and has qualified for the past three years.

Last year, she placed seventh in the state for her efforts in "sales" speaking, and this year, she placed fifth in the state in the category of "oratory."

Accolades

The following Grosse Pointe North students were inducted into Phi Beta Kappa at an April 29 reception at the Cobo Convention Center. They are among more than 2,400 high school students from more than 180 schools in the metro Detroit area who maintained at least a 3.75 grade point average during their high school career.

They are: Michael Aubrey, Joseph Berger, Yoski Bird, Colleen Burke, Stephen Burlingame, Thomas Catalfo, Meredith Chan, Cara Colaluca, Susan Cornille, Erica Dyer, Kristen Sarowski, Emily Schuch, Jean Seo, Caroline Skiba, Rema Elian, Michael Fairchild, Stephanie Foresman, Theresa Golski, Goran Jancevski, Jason Juif, Elizabeth Karber, Manhew Kazin, Whitney Kedich, Caroline Lee, Virginia Skiba, Valerie Slowik, Molly Thompson, Jeanene Trudell, Stephen Lentine, Kristy Malak, Marcy McCormick, Peter Mellos, Sarah Merz, Sarah Norris, Molly Pesta, Melissa Petzel, Karen Powers, Sima Saberi, Sarah Vandenbussche, Jeffrey Vollmer and Jonathan Weinert.

The following Grosse Pointe South students also were inducted: Kristen Apple, Geoffrey Barbier, Erika L. Beer, Katherine E. Berschback, Christopher T. Browne, Christopher Clay, Margaret A. Durant, Sheri F. Bathorne, Brett France, Emily A. Grenzke, Jonathan G. Itchon, Ryan P. Jahnke, Melanie H. Leis, Meghan M. O'Loughlin, Melissa A. Petersen, Davik Joseph Piech, Kasiani C. Pozios, Andrew L. Schulz, Christy A. Schumacher, Graegar M. Smith, Mark Stekete, Vanessa I. Terrell, Jonathan P. Van Hoek, Jeremy Van Hof, Aimee Vasse, David Votruba II, Michael Weyhing, Robin Wheeler, Jessica Whitney and Julian Zebot.

Five employees of the Grosse Pointe Public School System who are retiring this year were honored at a special reception on May 15 at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. They are: Wally Hatcher, a South high parking lot attendant; Evelyn Paich, a custodian at Monteith; Dorothy Sanford, a Parcels cafeteria worker; Lewis Tabone, a custodian at the administration building; Kenneth Trevena, head engineer at Ferry; and Sandra Yeomans, a classroom assistant at Pierce.

St. Clare of Montefalco students raised $5,699 to donate toward finding a cure for cystic fibrosis by taking part in the recently held Math Challenge.

Events

A forum for the candidates for the Grosse Pointe school board, sponsored by the Grosse Pointe League of Women Voters, will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, May 22, in the Wicking Library at Grosse Pointe South High School, 11 Grosse Pointe Blvd., Grosse Pointe Farms.

The moderator will be Ann Emmerich. The forum will be televised live on Grosse Pointe Cable Channel 6. The public is invited to attend. The forum will be broadcast again on May 23, 24, 27 and 31 at 7:30 p.m.

The case was moot — kids had fun anyway

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

The eighth-grade students at Our Lady Star of the Sea in Grosse Pointe Woods were given an object lesson in the workings of the law last week when they had the chance to participate in special moot court trials presided over by Woods municipal judge Lynne Pierce.

The program was put together by Kyle Metry and Irene Gracey of the Grosse Pointe Lawyer's Auxiliary.

"This is the first year we've sponsored a moot court for eighth-graders," said Metry. "In previous years, it's just been for North students."

Moot court, said Pierce, is a mock trial where the students play the parts of prosecuting attorneys, defense attorneys, jurors, witnesses and defendants.

"We are having three trials based on a party put together by young people that got out of hand," said Pierce. "One group of students will participate in an under-age drinking trial. Another group will be involved in a minor vandalism trial and another in a minor assault and battery case. I chose these crimes because they are the kinds of cases that come up in a municipal court."

Pierce presided over the trials, offering advice and telling the students what would happen in a real trial. The kids were also prepped and tutored by Woods attorney Eli Muawad.

Student Sean Metry said that he learned a lot about how the law worked.

"I learned how very important it was for a defense attorney to ask a defendant questions that required precise answers," said Metry. "It you ask the wrong question, you could end up helping the prosecution."

Fellow student Justin Fish said that he was surprised to learn how courts ran, about how the outcome of the trial depended not on what witnesses believed happened, but on whether the evidence was strong enough to convince a jury of guilt beyond a reasonable doubt.

Grosse Pointe Woods Municipal judge Lynne Pierce presided over three trials held by and for eighth-graders at Star of the Sea to educate the students about the importance of the law and civil rights in American society. The trials were sponsored by the Grosse Pointe Lawyer's Auxiliary in honor of Law Day, which was May 5 this year. Students Justin Fish, Sean Metry, Kate Briles and Courtney Kaye were just some of the participants.

Elizabeth Griem of Grosse Pointe Shores poses next to the dream bathing suit she designed. She was one of five winners in the Jacobson's midwest region contest open to elementary school girls.

Shores girl's swimsuit is a winning design

"I Dream of Jeannie" reruns and a fascination for middle eastern culture inspired 9-year-old Elizabeth Griem of Grosse Pointe Shores to design an award-winning swim suit.

Griem's "harem girl" style bathing suit, a two-piece navy blue number accented with iridescent sequins, is on display in the children's clothing department at Jacobson's store for the home in the Village. Her design was selected as one of five winning entries from around the state.

Jacobson's midwest division sponsored the contest that challenged 5- to 12-year-old girls to create their dream bathing suit. Entry blanks were on hand at all stores and entries had to be submitted by March 14.

The Grosse Pointe store selected three top designs from the 45 submitted, said Cindy Brown, children's store manager. Those designs were sent to Jacobson's buying office in Jackson, where staff members chose one winner from each store.

"Those 15 winners were sent to a company in New York which then chose five winners. The company actually made bathing suits out of the top five designs," Brown said. "They are not going to introduce a line of suits, but the girls get to keep the suits they created as their prize."

Griem's suit, along with drawings of all the entries sent to Grosse Pointe, are on display at Jacobson's. All the contestants were treated to a pizza party on May 9.

Griem is in the third grade at St. Paul Catholic School and says she enjoys drawing and designing things in her spare time.

Molly Damm of Grosse Pointe Farms and Mary McInerney of Wyandotte were the runners-up in the Grosse Pointe contest.

Police promote 'safe and sober' drivers this summer

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

The letter of the law is often the last thing on the minds of holiday weekend revelers. And area police departments, in conjunction with a statewide effort, are planning a summer safety campaign to refresh motorists' memories.

Michigan Safe And Sober kicks off with the Memorial Day weekend. Stepped-up enforcement begins with the first wave, from May 19 through June 2.

"The campaign's goal is to increase safety belt use in Michigan to 75 percent and to reduce the number of alcohol-related crashes," said Joseph Cardosi, Grosse Pointe Woods traffic safety officer. "We target through education and intensive enforcement periods."

The Grosse Pointe Woods public safety department is the only Pointe area department involved in the campaign, although all departments, by nature of their job description, are continuously enforcing drunken driving laws and safety belt laws.

"This is just an extra reminder to people that we're out there and we're geared up to look out for drunken driving," Cardosi said.

In the Woods, the campaign involves officers visiting local schools and educating students on the consequences of drinking, driving while under the influence of alcohol or drugs and the importance of wearing seat belts.

On the roads, officers will take a "zero tolerance" approach, by keeping a special lookout for intoxicated drivers.

Spring is here, but can you hear it? See it?

Spring, or what passes for spring until the real thing comes along, is traditionally clean-up, fix-up time. Walls are washed, carpets cleaned, furniture polished. Minor repairs are made. Yards and gardens are raked and ready for spring planting. Spring wardrobes are brought out of closets and measured up against current fashions. New hairdos are pondered and different shades of make-up considered.

Spring is a time of rejuvenation for people as well as nature.

Yet with all of this attention focused on appearance, one of the most important inventories is neglected — that of taking a close look at health problems and doing something about them. Winter takes its toll, and those nagging little ailments will not go away unless something is done about them.

That something is best determined by your doctor. Even if there is nothing significant bothering you, a spring check-up will ensure that there are no hidden disorders working against you.

Take, for instance, a ringing in the ears. No big deal. It doesn't hurt, it's annoying but after a while you get used to it. Why bother about it?

It should not be so lightly dismissed. Tinnitus is a clinical name for noises in the ear. For others it may be a buzzing, hissing crackling, ringing. Sometimes only one ear is affected; other times, both ears are affected. Not only that, a person may hear different sounds in each ear. Sounds may appear to come from different locations inside the head or outside the head. They may even come and go.

Sometimes it can be alleviated by removal of ear wax or treatment of ear infection or high blood pressure, if these are the causes.

One of the causes of tinnitus may be continued exposure to loud noises. Another might be a viral infection or head injury. Emotional stress, excessive use of alcohol, tobacco or aspirin could be factors.

Dr. George E. Shambaugh of Northwestern University Medical School, Chicago, conducted a study in which 72 percent of 196 patients were helped by treatment of a low-salt diet, diuretics and, in some cases, allergy management.

A clinical and research audiologist working with a physician found in a study involving 90 patients that 30 had high blood fat levels. These patients were helped by weight reduction.

Among the other 60

Prime Time

By Marian Trainor

patients, some were found to have hypoglycemia. They found relief by going on a high-protein, low carbohydrate, low-fat diet.

Biofeedback techniques were found to be helpful for those suffering from stress.

One of the aspects of tinnitus is that patients aware of the noises in their ear are unaware of diminishing hearing acuity. When this is true, a carefully selected hearing aid affording better reception of external sounds blocks out the tinnitus.

There are roughly 4.5 million people in the United States who have serious hearing impairments. More people are handicapped by hearing loss than the combined total of those with heart disease, cancer, diabetes, multiple sclerosis and blindness. Hearing disorders can be the result of one or more localized symptoms of a disease that affects the person's general health.

The ability to hear high-frequency sounds sometimes diminishes with age. As a result, some words begin to resemble others, or parts of words, or sentences are missed entirely. Unable to communicate, those afflicted will sometimes lapse into depression and withdrawal. This is unwarranted since a hearing aid might correct any of the problems that caused it.

Another area sometimes put off in a program of health maintenance is one that involves vision. In the plan for making spring a new beginning, it should be included.

Vision problems can be, but are not always, the result of aging. But as we grow older, there is a gradual weakening of the ability to focus on nearby objects. Usually this condition occurs around age 55 and can be overcome with the aid of corrective lenses.

The best-known problem that increases with age is that of cataracts, a cloudy condition in the lens which affects vision as it progresses.

While there is no way to prevent cataract formation, not all people require correction of the condition. Only about 5 percent of those over 65 require surgery. Removal of cataracts is only advised when vision problems interfere with daily activities or when the cataract becomes opaque. When surgery is called for, 90 percent of those who undergo it have improved vision.

A more serious eye condition that progresses slowly without warning is glaucoma. Glaucoma causes higher-than-normal pressure in the eyeball with the result that fluids within the eye do not drain properly, causing damage to the optic nerve and loss of vision.

Symptoms include an unexplained blurring of the vision of one or both eyes, occasional headaches on one side or the other and the seeming presence of halos around electric lights.

People over 35 should be checked periodically for glaucoma.

Treatment consists of the use of eye drops and drugs or, sometimes, surgery. In some cases, laser surgery has proved to be an effective treatment. However, medical researchers believe that more conventional treatment should be tried since those treated with lasers experience increased pressure and temporary inflammation.

Because most cases of glaucoma develop in people over 40, experts recommend a medical checkup every two years after 40. For those with a family history of glaucoma, an annual eye examination is a good precautionary measure.

Issues in aging topic of WSU-sponsored conference

A variety of topics relating to care for America's aging population will be discussed by health and human service professionals at the "Issues in Aging" conference May 20-22 at the Management Education Center in Troy. The ninth annual continuing education program is sponsored by Wayne State University's Institute of Gerontology.

"Alzheimer's Disease: New Intervention and Practice Strategies" will be considered May 20. About four million Americans suffer from this disease, and the program will provide updates on research, treatments and interventions with special emphasis on managing behavior problems.

"New Findings on the Assessment and Treatment of Late-Life Depression" will be covered May 21. Although more than 11 million Americans suffer from depression, two-thirds are undiagnosed and untreated. The program will explain depression in older adults, including the influences of gender, medical problems and dementia. Treatment techniques also will be discussed.

"Older Women's Health Issues: Urinary Incontinence and Osteoporosis" will be the topic May 22. Treatment, prevention and new behavior strategies to manage these problems will be discussed.

The registration fee, including lunch, is $95 for one day, $180 for two days and $265 for three days. There is a $5 fee for continuing education credits in social work and gerontology. The sessions run from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. each day.

To register or obtain more information, call WSU's Continuing Medical Education office at (313) 577-1180.

Emergency drill puts staff to the test

The St. John-Bon Secours Senior Community recently conducted a disaster drill to test the response of staff. The drill involved a mock fire staged in a resident's unoccupied room on the third floor wing of the Nursing Care Center.

"The staff responded with common sense. They were very quick and took the drill seriously. I was impressed," said City of Grosse Pointe public safety officer Edward Tujaka. He and Tim Champine, both certified firemen, conducted and evaluated the drill. During the drill, the nursing staff that discovered the fire removed residents from the immediate area, alerted other staff by calling "Code Red" and activated the nearest fire alarm. The mock fire was contained by closing doors to the area.

Designated members of the support staff responded to help evacuate residents while maintenance workers arrived with fire extinguishers to put out the "blaze." Residents were evacuated to a common area where their names were checked off a master list. As residents were evacuated from their rooms, a pillow was placed in front of the closed door to indicate the room was empty. The staff implemented this signal as a safety feature, which saves search time during a real emergency.

The State of Michigan requires that emergency drills be conducted periodically to ensure nursing home staff follows safety rules that can prove life-saving in a real disaster.

Jeanette Edlund Parks

A memorial service will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday, May 18, at Jefferson Avenue Presbyterian Church in Detroit for Jeanette Edlund Parks, 76, who died of cancer Sunday, May 12, 1996, at her home in Saginaw Township.

Born in Courtland, N.Y., Mrs. Parks was a former resident of Grosse Pointe Park. She attended Southeastern High School, Detroit Business College and Wayne University.

Mrs. Parks was secretary to Donald Valley, former chairman of the board of National Bank of Detroit.

She was a graduate of the American Institute of Banking and a past chairman of its women's division.

In 1955, she was awarded the key to the city of Detroit as Secretary of the Year.

Mrs. Parks was a former member of Jefferson Avenue Presbyterian Church.

In 1958, she married Richard F. Parks, now a retired vice president of the National Bank of Detroit.

Since moving to Saginaw 13 years ago, she was a member of First Congregational Church, where she was manager of the SERRV Gift Shop, whose profits go toward the church's local and foreign outreach programs.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Parks is survived by a daughter, Charlotte Cisio; a son, Richard Parks; and three grandchildren. She was predeceased by a sister, Elsie Edlund Benson.

Arrangements were made by the W.L. Case and Co. Funeral Directors and Insurance Agents in Saginaw.

Francis E. Brossy III

A memorial service will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday, May 18, at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church for Francis E. Brossy III, 68, who died of pneumonia Wednesday, May 8, 1996, at Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit.

Born in Detroit, Mr. Brossy was a resident of Grosse Pointe Farms.

He earned a bachelor's degree from the University of Michigan and was a writer for Wilding Inc. and a freelance writer for many years. He was also associated with Ross Roy Inc.

Mr. Brossy served in Japan in the U.S. Army during World War II.

He was a 30-year member of The Players and a member of the Witenagemote Club.

He enjoyed fly fishing.

Mr. Brossy is survived by a daughter, Brandon B. Roisman; a son, Guy S. Brossy; five grandchildren; a sister, Carolyn Russell; and his mother, Agnes Cadwell. He was predeceased by his wife, Joan Hadley Brossy.

Interment is in the Grosse Pointe Memorial Church columbarium.

Arrangements were made by the Chas. Verheyden Inc. Funeral Home in Grosse Pointe Park.

Memorial contributions may be made to The Players, 3321 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207 or to the Joan Hadley Brossy Scholarship Fund, University Liggett School, 1045 Cook, Grosse Pointe Woods, Mich. 48236.

Pain may be eliminated for millions

(SPECIAL) -- A new drug has been approved that is exciting researchers in the treatment of pain. This material has been formulated into a new product known as "Arthur Itis" and is being called a "Medical Miracle" by some, in the treatment of debilitating conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, painful muscle aches, joint aches, simple backache, bruises, and more. Although the mechanism of action is unclear, experiments indicate that Arthur Itis relieves pain by first selectively attracting, and then destroying the messenger chemical which carries pain sensations to the brain, thus eliminating pain in the affected area. Arthur Itis is an odorless, greaseless, non-staining cream and is available immediately without a prescription and is guaranteed to work. Use only as directed.

MAKING A DIAGNOSIS

Prior to 1981, car owners would usually bring their automobiles in for tune-ups when they noticed that their engines were not performing properly. Since that time, however, it has made little sense to subject late-model cars to tune-ups for performance problems because they will usually have no significant effect. When an engine in a newer model car does not run as it should, the culprit is usually a malfunction in one or more of the computer sensors or in an emission-control device. Finding the exact source of the difficulty is made on the basis of a diagnostic checkup, using sophisticated engine analyzing equipment to do the job. Machines such as these can perform dozens of electronic tests to isolate defects in under an hour. A diagnostic checkup is in order whenever the "check engine" light comes on the instrument panel and stays on.

Diagnosis of car problems is no longer an art but a science, given the state-of-the-art equipment available today. RINKE TOYOTA has given top-notch service to this community for over 78 years! Our top-notch technicians are talented and friendly. Quick diagnosis saves you time and money—which we do well. Give us a call at 758-2000, or visit us at 25420 Van Dyke. Hours: Mon. & Thurs. 7:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m., Tues. & Wed. 7:00-7:00, Fri. 7:00-6:00, closed Sat. and Sun. When you deal with us, you'll be treated with respect.

Hint: As part of a diagnostic checkup, the car's computer system may be examined for stored trouble codes.

Like the Pennsylvania turnpike, Maxima offers the usual fare

It's nothing against Pennsylvania, exactly. I'm sure if we got to know it under different circumstances, we would like it very much.

Seems, though, that when we reach the Keystone State, it is either an obstacle en route to the Chesapeake Bay, or, worse, it's the space between a vacation in the East and everyday life, with its days of work to be finished and problems to be solved, in the Midwest.

So we have come to not much like Pennsylvania and the country surrounding the half-century-old Turnpike.

Behind us lie Oysters Rockefeller and inexpensive champagne. Back East are charming towns like St. Michael's and Oxford in Maryland, and the less-gentrified but always pleasing vacation outpost of Chincoteague and Assateague Islands in Virginia.

The buds on the gray and brown trees outside Breezewood are not even open enough to show some green. On the Delmarva Peninsula, the maples were well along in the spectacular flowering of their lacy leaves. Along I-76, the plum trees are a vivid violet, the color of grape bubble gum. In Virginia, the tulips were almost gone, the azaleas and dandelions were in full blossom and the deep green grass on the median on US 50 needed mowing.

Autos

By Jenny King

As we headed north in a Nissan Maxima, alternately opening and closing the power sunroof depending on showers, we noticed several dozen brightly-colored street rods aimed at Salisbury, Md. Some kind of a meet was about to take place, showers or no.

Just south of Easton is an interesting showroom with several beautiful vehicles from the '40s, '50s and '60s. Intent on a second cup of coffee, we forgot to stop this year.

Somewhere on the I-495 loop around Baltimore, we spot another Maxima. It doesn't look very big. This one seems very adequate inside. Room for two up-front and three in the back. Our passengers are items like a camera, a jean jacket, books, a partially-read recent edition of the Washington Post, a couple of bags carrying an odd assortment of food, plastic cutlery, papers and books-to-be-read. Graham crackers and a half-cup of milk in the bottom of a plastic container share space with "The Shipping News" and the phone numbers of computer companies who sell hardware and software to auto dealers. The last represents some reporting that was shunted aside in favor of a turn in the exercise room at the Refuge Motor Inn on Chincoteague. Or a quick trip to the Island Creamery for sweets or to the Family Dollar in town for some forgotten toiletries.

Nissan redesigned its largest sedan, Maxima, for 1995, and brought the vehicle out in early 1994. I'm always surprised in my many conversations with used-car dealers to have them say customers are frequently looking for used Maximas. Popular, well-built vehicle, they say.

The GLE is powered by a three-liter (182-cubic-inch) 24-valve V-6 which can put out 190 hp and prefers unleaded premium, with an octane rating of at least 91. Six weeks ago that wouldn't have mattered. But in the East, premium is selling for over $1.40 a gallon. A fill-up of this 18.5-gallon tank runs a little over $25. Fortunately, it is miserly in its fuel use, getting in the high 20s.

I got several of these numbers from the owner's manual. Amazing all the good stuff that's in there. It earlier had helped us locate a megacupholder in the covered section of the center console. Several days later in this same compartment we discovered leftovers from fast-food outlets — remnants of a strawberry sundae consumed somewhere in North Carolina, a little container of half-and-half and an unused tea bag. Beware center console compartments!

Since the Maxima was all new for 1995 and was excellent, it received few changes for 1996. A four-way power passenger seat is available, a new center console cupholder will hold a Big Gulp, and two new colors were added. Our test vehicle had all the new stuff, except for the color. It was a barely discernible lavender hue called "Platinum." The two new colors are Starfire Blue Pearl and Deep Evergreen.

The Maxima's twin-cam, aluminum V-6 puts plenty of power to the ground through a front transaxle automatic. A five-speed is standard on GXE and SE trim levels, the automatic is optional. This engine is a jewel, providing swift acceleration without penalizing fuel economy.

Inside, the Maxima reminds one of an Infiniti. No accident, since the Maxima serves as the basis for the luxury Infiniti I30.

Base price for the Maxima GLE four-door sedan with automatic transmission is $23,391. Ours stickered out $26,279 and it had all the equipment one could wish. At that price, the Maxima is one of the best values around.

The owner's manual also tells us that Nissan Motor Co. Ltd. was founded in Tokyo, Japan, in 1933. With its affiliates, Nissan has grown to be the fourth-largest auto maker in the world, it says. The company also makes textile machinery, forklift trucks, marine engines, boats and other products.

In the United States, Nissan has manufacturing facilities in Smyrna, Tenn., a styling operation in San Diego, Calif., and a research facility in Farmington Hills.

Make it a safe spring — avoid Michigan's railroad tracks

With more people venturing out to enjoy the warmer weather, railroad tracks can be a dangerous place. While out hiking, fishing, walking, running or bicycling, many Michigan residents and visitors risk their lives by trespassing on railroad property.

"We want to remind everyone enjoying Michigan's beautiful spring of the dangers of getting too close to the tracks. Last year nearly 1,000 Americans were killed or seriously injured while trespassing along railroad tracks," said Patrick M. Nowak, chairman, Michigan Operation Lifesaver.

"Please stay away from the tracks. We want to keep your Michigan spring time safe and fun."

Trespasser prevention is a high priority for Michigan Operation Lifesaver. The Michigan Railroads Association began a public education program in 1994 that continues today with the theme, "Know the Facts, Avoid the Tracks." Michigan Operation Lifesaver has been involved in numerous efforts in the last two years to try and reduce trespassing, including the ongoing production of four public service announcements (PSAs) as part of the "Don't Wreck Your Life" campaign, radio feeds to every station in the state in 1994, a news release to all media last summer, and providing all Michigan radio stations with PSAs on railroad trespassing during winter recreation activities.

"Everyone needs to remember that railroad property is not a playground and is a dangerous shortcut," said Michigan Railroads Association president Bob Chaprunka. "For your own safety, please, only cross the tracks at marked crossings."

Tennis group's investment club seeing some smashing returns

By Chip Chapman
Staff Writer

Every other month, a dozen people who play tennis at the Eastside Tennis Club get together at one of their homes, but it's not to discuss their games.

They meet to decide which stocks the group should buy or sell.

Dave and Raja would watch Wall Street Week before playing their matches," said Fred Castano of fellow club members David Cornillie and Raja Elachkar.

Soon, the interest in following the stock markets spread among some of the other tennis players, and in July 1992 the Backhand Bankers Investment Club was founded.

Almost all of the Backhand Bankers held stocks before uniting as an investment club, but most admit they didn't follow the markets as closely as they do now.

"Most of us didn't have the expertise, but the desire was there," said Ramzi Elachkar. "I owned one stock, but I've learned more as the club has gone on."

The Backhand Bankers Investment Club began with 10 members who each anted up $100 to buy shares of the club's first stock.

Almost four years later, with nine of the original members still on board, the club boasts a portfolio of more than $53,000 and an average annual return of 38 percent.

The nine original members have seen the $2,300 each has contributed during the past four years increase to about 2 1/2 times that amount.

"When we started, each person contributed $100 at each meeting. Now it's $150," said Diane Mathews. "Originally, we bought a new stock at each meeting, but there are no hard-and-fast rules."

"We all come from varying backgrounds," said Mel Riecher. "The stocks we pick usually come from the field of expertise of a person."

The group selects stocks, mostly from the NASDAQ (National Association of Securities Dealers Automated Quotations) market.

"Our objective at the beginning was to go for the blue chippers and build a base," Riecher said. "Since then, it has enabled us to become more adventuresome in the smaller companies."

"The smaller companies have been more rewarding," Raja Elachkar said. "We don't speculate. We look at the balance sheets, the company's debt, who owns it. We prefer to pick companies that are owner-run."

Although they have not ignored companies that trade on the New York Stock Exchange, the Backhand Bankers have concentrated on smaller companies that have faster growth potential than the slow-growth, larger ones.

"In a stock club, you can't hang onto a stock for too long because you start to lose interest," said Dick Ventura. "No one is in the club to get rich. We are here to be social and to learn about the stock market."

The club has yet to take any money out of its portfolio. When a stock is sold (which is decided by a simple majority decision), the proceeds are invested in another stock (also decided by a majority vote).

"We've learned not to be too greedy, TelMex taught us that," Ventura said. "We've learned to take profits as they come."

TelMex, Mexico's largest phone company, is an example of a stock the club felt it stuck with too long. It was purchased by the Backhand Bankers at $57 3/4 a share and sold for just $30 a share.

"Sometimes we've been lucky," Cornillie said, "as we did with Zeos."

Zeos International, a mail order computer company the Backhand Bankers bought for $3 1/8 a share was sold at $12 1/2 a share. The company's stock price dropped just after the club sold its shares.

Raja Elachkar, called the guru of the club by the other members, researches and charts many of the companies in which the Backhand Bankers invest.

"Raja's interest and research is really what brought the group together," Mathews said.

He has even been known to call the chief executive officers to get additional information.

"A company's track record is very important," he said. "We like to see consistent growth. We've avoided cyclical businesses, such as auto companies."

The Backhand Bankers' current holdings include 15 companies. Each member has been assigned one or two stocks to follow; however, all of the members keep an eye on all of the club's holdings. "When I looked at a newspaper, I used to turn right to the sports section," Castano said. "Now I go to the business section first."

Although, as Ventura said, no one joined the club to get rich, the Backhand Bankers don't mind seeing the club's annual rate of return outperform the Standard & Poors 500

Index, NASDAQ, most mutual funds and the Beardstown Ladies' Investment Club, the Iowa-based investment club which has gained attention for its 23 percent annual rate of return.

"Our group has an annual cruise on Lake St. Clair," Riecher said. "In 10 years, we hope to have it in the Caribbean."

Area's first cigar lounge to host grand opening Monday, May 20

You won't find a "No Smoking" sign here. At Churchills Ltd. in St. Clair Shores, the Midwest's newest gathering place for cigar and pipe smokers, patrons are encouraged to light up.

"We were just thinking of a retail store for cigars, but then we decided that you need a place to smoke them," said City of Grosse Pointe residents, the Martinelli family, owners of Churchills.

On Monday, May 20, from 7 to 10 p.m., Churchills will host its grand opening.

The event, which benefits the Detroit chapter of the Alzheimer's Association, will feature premier international cigars, liqueurs, wines and fresh seafood hors d'oeuvres provided by Tom's Oyster Bar.

A special cigar roller from the Flor de Copan factory in Santa Rosa, Honduras, will allow people to see how cigars are rolled at Monday's grand opening.

Churchills boasts many amenities which cannot be found in other cigar retail stores in Michigan, including the state's first cigar lounge, complete with a natural fireplace, a television, gifts and accessories, daily newspapers and current business publications.

Churchills will also have two modem ports for laptop computers.

In addition, 30 mahogany cigar lockers lined with Spanish cedar are available on a yearly lease to accommodate those individuals who wish to store their personal cigars in a humid environment.

Churchills will offer a relaxing atmosphere for its clientele, with luxury furniture, gourmet coffees and teas and domestic and imported cigarettes.

"We don't have a problem with people who are opposed to smoking," said the Martinellis.

"We just want a place where people are able to smoke."

Churchills' regular hours will be Monday through Friday, 7 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Saturdays from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m.; and Sundays from noon to 6 p.m.

For more information, call Churchills at (810) 775-3181. Churchills is located at 21425 Greater Mack.

Split funding can be the right strategy for a care-free retirement

By Sam Ventimiglia

We get only one chance in life to retire, and too many of us mess it up. Eight of 10 people retire with less than 50 percent of the income they will need to maintain a comfortable lifestyle.

Even those who follow a disciplined retirement planning strategy often become too risk-averse as they approach retirement. As a result, they may outlive their retirement income.

One solution is called split funding, a variation of a widely accepted strategy called life-cycle planning. Life cycle planning recognizes that people's financial needs change as they age, and that their investment strategies should change as well.

Simply stated, the earlier a person is in the life cycle, the less conservative the investment strategy should be. Stocks and stock mutual funds can be volatile, but over periods of 10 years or more, they historically outperform all other investments (Keep in mind that past performance is not indicative of future results).

That's why financial planners often recommend aggressive investments in stock mutual funds during early years of retirement planning and increasingly conservative investments as individuals approach retirement.

At retirement, individuals tend to be more concerned with capital preservation. If they follow retirement planning strategies, they should already have made enough money to support themselves during retirement.

This approach assumes you can invest all your life, then roll your money into a great big ball and live off the interest. But there are good reasons to "split fund" retirement investments, putting half into investments that will preserve capital and produce income, such as conservative bond funds and money market funds, and half into wealth-accumulating investments, such as growth-stock funds.

One reason to split fund is that people are living longer. And the longer they live, the more inflation eats away at the purchasing power of their income.

Let's assume someone lives 20 years after retirement — not an unreasonable expectation today. During the past 20 years, the price of mailing a letter has increased from 8 cents to 32 cents.

If retirement income were to follow the same trend, a dollar of income at age 65 would be worth less than 25 cents at age 85.

In addition, because the retirement cycle is longer than it used to be, the short-term volatility of stock fund investments is less of an issue. Most retirees live through both bear markets and bull markets.

Finally, retirees need to invest actively because it is becoming increasingly difficult to produce enough income for retirement.

Experts estimate that retirees who want to continue their pre-retirement lifestyles will need income equal to at least 60 to 80 percent of their last working year's earnings. In the past, savings, pension income and Social Security benefits often produced enough income to meet those requirements.

Today, people are saving less than even before, traditional pension plans are being eliminated and the Social Security system is being overburdened.

If these trends continue, retirees could be left with two options. Split funding — or working.

ABS trials — they're all about quickly coming to a halt

By Leslie Weller
Special Writer

I've always wanted to test drive cars — to zoom them around test tracks on different road surfaces and stomp on the brakes to see how they skid.

That opportunity arose recently when I was invited to the Bosch test tracks in Flat Rock to test the difference between anti-lock braking systems (ABS) and regular

What's new at the War Memorial

Spring is in full bloom at the War Memorial.

Not only are the gardens beginning to burst with color, but the just published May/June Program is blooming with fresh, new activities for children and adults.

Copies of the program are sent bimonthly to all homes in the Grosse Pointe school district.

The latest edition is in the mail and contains complete details of classes, lectures, special events, entertainment opportunities, day trips and extended travel opportunities.

May/June program highlights include the following special events:

Limousine Scavenger Hunt presented by the Friends of the War Memorial, Saturday, May 18; Memorial Day Service, Monday, May 27; Baby Animal Day, Sunday, June 2 and the annual Spring Ballet Performance, Thursday, June 20.

Joining the War Memorial's extensive line-up of on-going and special interest classes are several new programs designed to stretch the mind as well as the body.

Among first-time offerings are classes in Creative Visualization; Chi Gong, an ancient Chinese healing art; a Reiki workshop; hula dancing for children and adults, and a comedy workshop for students ages 6-11.

In addition, the program includes the 1996 Summer Music Festival schedule, which has been expanded to nine lakeside concerts held Monday and Wednesday evenings in July and August.

This popular outdoor concert series is a Grosse Pointe family tradition, premiering this year with Grosse Pointe Symphony, Monday, July 8.

Advance registration for most classes and events is recommended to avoid disappointment as some class sizes are limited.

Registrations and ticket orders are taken by mail, in person at the War Memorial front desk, daily except Sundays until 9 p.m. or by phone (313) 881-7511.

MasterCard and Visa are accepted for all programs, except overnight trips.

If you have not received your copy of the program, call the War Memorial.

brakes.

Anti-lock brakes are designed to prevent skidding and to help drivers maintain steering control during an emergency stopping situation.

When used properly, they prevent the wheels from locking and give drivers the ability to steer around hazards if they are unable to stop in time.

A safety device, anti-lock brakes are increasingly becoming standard equipment. As yet, they are not mandated by the federal government.

More than 38 million cars and light trucks equipped with ABS were built in North America between 1990 and 1995.

By the year 2000, according to industry estimates, ABS will be offered on virtually all American-made cars.

Skeptical at first of this industry-promoted demonstration, I can now unabashedly say that I am a test drive/test track junkie and firmly in the cheering section for ABS.

The ABS Education Alliance, a coalition of the four companies that represent anti-lock brake manufacturers in the United States (Robert Bosch Corp., Delphi Chassis Systems, ITT Automotive and Kelsey-Hayes) hosted the driving event.

The Alliance's goal is to educate the public about how to use this braking system.

Needless to say, the group faces the daunting challenge of undoing decades of driver education for an estimated 175 million motorists.

The old way: pump the brakes and steer in the direction of the skid.

The new ABS way: keep a firm foot on the brake and keep steering.

The brakes do all the work, pumping at a rate (appropriate to each tire to maintain stability) faster than the fastest human foot and leg.

After a brief introduction, we were given the rules of the road, as it were, of our test drives — mainly, don't drive faster than 35 mph.

A half-dozen or so new models of foreign and domestic makes, all equipped with ABS on-off switches, served as the test cars.

We had co-pilots, all of whom were technical engineers and systems analysts for Bosch.

There were two tests. The first involved stopping on a surface that was half normal road surface and half simulated ice-glazed bathroom tile sprayed with water, which was slicker than any ice on which I've been.

The second test involved steering around a barrier — a stand of pint-sized traffic cones.

In the same car, we would do each test twice — once with the ABS and once without.

There was also a challenge.

Could we stop a muscled-up Ford Cobra Mustang (300 hp engine) with ABS in a shorter distance than did Phil Recht, a deputy administrator from the National Highway Transportation Safety Administration (NHTSA). The catch was that we test drivers had to keep the car within the designated stopping lane.

I jumped into a car at the first available chance. It was a new Toyota Camry with co-pilot Karl Dresen, an applications engineer from Bosch.

Barreling down the straightaway, I felt like an airline pilot taxiing for take-off.

The orange cones I had to steer into seemed light years away, impossibly small and the distance between them ridiculously narrow.

"There's no way I'm going to make this," I thought.

Finally, we were in the lane. I did as instructed and jumped on the brakes with all my might.

The brakes shuddered and pumped, but that was all. I was still firmly in control. "Piece of cake," I thought.

Now came the time to repeat the test without ABS.

Full of confidence from my earlier run, I figured I wouldn't spin-out based on the facts that this was a new car and that I thought I was a pretty good driver.

After all, how good could some fancy braking system be?

We barreled down the track once more and once more I jumped on the brakes.

Only this time we were greeted by the screeching of skidding tires and locked wheels as the Camry spun in seemingly endless circles to the cheers, whistles and hoots of colleagues looking on.

On to the barrier test. The goal — jump on the brakes and try to steer around to the left.

With the ABS, it was just like making a slight move to the left on a dry road on a sunny day.

Without the ABS and despite my best efforts, the car would not budge to the left. We plowed right through the barrier, ultimately wedging one of the mini-cones underneath the chassis.

Finally, it was my turn for the Mustang.

With Scott Dahl, a technical engineer for Bosch as my co-pilot, I charged down the track to the stopping lane and once again jumped full force on the brakes.

The car came to an easy stop and stayed in the lane.

I thought I had done fairly well in the stopping challenge until I saw the results.

Recht, from NHTSA, an experienced ABS driver, brought the car to a standstill in 84.9 feet.

I clocked in at 134.8 feet. The best of our group managed 122.5 feet, and the worst, a whopping 187.6 feet.

At the end of the day, I knew one thing for certain — I did not want to navigate the expressways home in my non-ABS equipped car.

For information and a brochure on how to "brake and steer," call 1-800-ABS-8958.

Leslie Weller is a Grosse Pointe area freelance writer and member of the Automotive Press Association.

Anti-lock brakes can prevent skids like this that can be dangerous to drivers and passengers, along with any pedestrians who might be in the area.

'Night of Heartfelt Jazz' benefits Heart Association

By Margie Reins Smith
Feature Editor

Jazz entertainment — four different groups, in fact — will provide background music for "A Night of Heartfelt Jazz," from 6 to 10 p.m. Wednesday, May 22 at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. Proceeds will be earmarked for the Grosse Pointe division of the American Heart Association's new Junior Council.

Also on the evening's agenda: food from some of Detroit and Grosse Pointe's best-known restaurants, a silent auction and a cash bar.

Grosse Pointe Jerry Valente, chairman of the benefit, said ticket prices are lower this year and he hopes a big group of jazz-lovers and supporters of the Heart Association's work will make the event a memorable one that can be repeated year after year. The fundraising goal for the evening is $20,000.

"Proceeds will be used to support a new group of young people that just formed in Grosse Pointe," Valente said. "The Heart Association's new Junior Council is helping spread the word about how young people can decrease their risks of heart disease."

The Junior Council, a group of two dozen teenagers from Grosse Pointe North and South high schools, University Liggett School and the three public middle schools, gets together about once a month to plan ways to influence their peers on a practice they are strongly against — smoking.

The American Heart Association is a community-based organization with about 2,200 state and city affiliates nationwide. About 3.7 million volunteers help fight heart disease and blood vessel diseases and strokes by raising funds, training people in CPR, educating children and adults about the benefits of exercise and nutrition and the risks of not paying attention to weight, cholesterol level and blood pressure.

The Grosse Pointe division is a 33-member board composed of doctors, health care administrators, bankers, lawyers, a school principal, two mayors and other community leaders as well as its teenage representatives. Board chairman is Henry DeVries of Grosse Pointe Farms.

Valente got interested in the Heart Association because of some health and heart problems in his own family.

"Basically, I got scared," he said. "I had a problem. Dr. Ronald Laskowski at Bon Secours Hospital gave me some insight into things I could do to decrease my risks. I changed my program — how much I exercise; what I eat. I lost 50 pounds and now my heart is better because my weight is down."

Laskowski will be one of two community leaders from Grosse Pointe to be honored at "A Night of Heartfelt Jazz." The other is Sgt. Christopher Powell of the Grosse Pointe Park Public Safety Department. Both will be honored for their years of service to the Heart Association through emergency medicine.

Ron Laskowski is medical director of the Bon Secours Emergency Department," DeVries said. "He was one of the first physicians to recognize the need to train EMS providers in some pre-hospital services. He initiated a training program with Grosse Pointe Park that has been very successful.

"Chris Powell, a sergeant in the Grosse Pointe Park police department, stepped forward early on, recognizing how beneficial this could be to our community," he added. "Being able to provide more services in the field help a person's chances of recovery once they get to the emergency room."

Both men will receive their awards during the evening's festivities.

Jazz groups to perform include:

Boulevard, a group of Grosse Pointe South High School students directed by Ellen Bowen. The jazz singers perform both a cappella and with piano accompaniment.

• April and Dennis Tini, a piano and voice jazz duo.

• Chuck Shermetaro, jazz piano.

• John Denomme and Alex Rogowski, jazz guitar and bass.

Grosse Pointe restaurants participating in the event include Trattoria Andiamos, the Upper Crust, the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, Tom's Oyster Bar, Chianti Villa Lago, Lucy's Tavern on the Hill and Caribou Coffee.

Some of the more than 100 silent auction items include jewelry, dinners at local restaurants, wine, a vacation trip to Boyne Mountain for 10 people, a car lease, Red Wings' tickets, a commissioned painting by a local artist, carpeting, a crystal Tiffany vase, a crystal bowl, a cruise for six people on Lake St. Clair, a hand-knit sweater and a four-hour trip on the mail boat delivering mail to Great Lakes' freighters.

Tickets for "A Night of Heartfelt Jazz" are $40 a person ($10 lower than last year). For tickets or more information, call Missy at (800) 557-9501.

Be Strokewise

By Karen Mihelich
Special Writer

Stroke is the third largest cause of death in America, after heart disease and cancer. It is also the leading cause of permanent disability in adults and leaves approximately two million survivors with some degree of handicap. But many people don't know much about stroke, its warning signs or the importance of seeking medical attention immediately once these signs appear.

The public has received much education regarding heart attack, its warning signs and risk factors, yet much needs to be learned regarding stroke, commonly known as a "brain attack."

Stroke is a sudden and usually severe impairment of body function caused by an interruption of blood flow to the brain. A stroke occurs when one of the blood vessels to the brain becomes clogged or bursts. When this happens, part of the brain does not receive the oxygen and nutrients it needs to survive and, as a result, the brain tissue dies.

There are two types of stroke. The most common occurs when blood clots form on blood vessels that have already been scarred by fatty deposits or atherosclerosis. Stroke also is a common occurrence when clots carried by the bloodstream get caught in an artery leading to the brain.

The second type of stroke is caused by a blood vessel in the brain rupturing and bleeding around the brain and into the tissue or skull.

People can protect themselves or loved ones from the devastating effects of stroke by learning warning signs that indicate a stroke has occurred or is in the process of developing.

These warning signs include a sudden weakness or numbness of face, arm or leg; difficulty speaking or understanding speech; a sudden temporary loss of vision or unexplained dizziness; unsteadiness or a sudden fall.

If you should experience any of these warning signs, you should seek medical treatment immediately. Just as with heart attack, the sooner you get to the hospital, the better your chance of recovery and less chance of losing body function.

The best way to prevent a stroke is to reduce the factors that cause one. The American Heart Association breaks risk factors into several categories.

Risk factors that can't be changed are genetically determined — getting older; being male; being African-American; having diabetes; having a prior stroke; and having atherosclerosis or fatty buildup in the carotid arteries in the neck.

Other risk factors can be changed by medical treatment and regular follow-up consultations with your physician. These risk factors include high blood pressure; heart disease; transient ischemic attacks, which are temporary strokes in which symptoms resolve within minutes or hours with no residual body function deficits.

The last category of risk factors is caused by lifestyle. These risk factors are in our control, yet are the hardest changes to make. They include: cigarette smoking, elevated blood cholesterol, physical inactivity, obesity, drinking too much alcohol and certain types of drug abuse.

There are many programs available through community education classes sponsored by hospitals or public associations such as the American Heart Association or the National Stroke Association. These classes offer information and support for risk reduction, including support groups for stroke survivors and their families.

Bon Secours Hospital, in conjunction with National Stroke Awareness Month, is sponsoring three events to help increase public awareness of stroke and to motivate individuals to take action to reduce their risks. The stroke education events planned by Bon Secours include:

May 17: "What is Stroke?" This lecture from 7-9 p.m. in the Bon Secours Connelly Auditorium, 468 Cadieux, will discuss warning signs, how to change risk factors and a discussion of possible treatments for stroke.

May 23: Stroke Symposium. This five-topic program for health care professionals will be from 7-9:30 p.m. in Connelly Auditorium. Discussions will include pathophysiology, neuroradiology, medical treatment, surgical treatment and advances in the treatment of stroke.

May 29: Free Stroke Screening. Participants can determine if they are at risk for stroke at a free screening from noon to 4 p.m. in the Bon Secours Connelly Auditorium. Cholesterol testing also will be available for $10.

For more information, or to register for any of these programs, call Bon Secours Community Health Education at (810) 779-7900.

Blood drive will be May 23

The Grosse Pointe Community Blood Council will hold a blood drive from 2 to 8 p.m. Thursday, May 23, at the Grosse Pointe Woods Presbyterian Church, 19950 Mack in Grosse Pointe Woods. Babysitting and transportation are available on request. For information or an appointment, call (313) 884-5542. Walk-ins are welcome.

Nurses at Henry Ford Hospital launch bereavement committee

Grief is a normal emotion that accompanies death, not only for loved ones, but for caregivers as well.

To help deal with the grieving process, nurses in the medical intensive care unit (MICU) at Henry Ford Hospital recently launched a bereavement committee to help them cope with their own grief and to support the families of patients who have died.

"After caring for a patient for a long period of time, it's natural for nurses to develop bonds with the patient and his or her family," said Kathleen Vollman, founder of the bereavement committee. "Until now, there's never been a way for our staff to really express their sorrow when a patient dies."

"Dealing with death and dying has always been a part of my cancer and critical care nursing practice," said Glenda Craft, committee chair. "But when the patients died everything just stopped. We never knew how the families were doing and wondered how we could support them in some way."

But Craft had another, more personal reason for heading the committee. She knows firsthand the anguish that follows the loss of a loved one.

Her son David, a 20-year-old U.S. Navy medical corpsman, died three years ago in a car accident.

"Part of the reason I was so attracted to this project was because David's friends contacted me by letter and phone following his death. It just really touched my heart," said Craft. "I knew how much it would mean to the families of our patients to know that we too cared and grieved for the loss of their loved one."

Beverly Moore, whose husband Arnold died in February, appreciated the committee's support.

"I don't know how the nurses do what they do on a daily basis in such a kindly manner. They are not just sympathetic but empathetic," said Moore. "The feelings of families don't just stop when the patient dies."

"It takes extra special people to handle the vigil of a dying person and to break the news of his or her death to the family. These nurses not only shared the pain of my husband's death, they supported me through it all."

The majority of MICU nurses have joined the committee, which is now being initiated in other units throughout the hospital. The goals of the committee are to:

- Provide emotional comfort to the family members of patients who have died by contacting them regularly through notes, cards and phone calls for a minimum of one year afterward.

- Help facilitate family members' progress through the stages of grief.

- Offer referral services, such as support groups and suicide/crisis hotlines, to family members, as needed.

Grosse Pointe Sunrise Rotary presents annual race

The Grosse Pointe Sunrise Rotary Club's fourth annual Sunrise Stampede, a morning jam-packed with racing events, will be held on Saturday, June 1. Events will include a one-mile fun run, a 5K walk and run, a 10K run and (new this year) a one-mile inline skate.

Proceeds will go to Grosse Pointe elementary schools, the Neighborhood Club and the YMCA.

Racers, walkers and skaters will follow a Lakeshore Road course from Neff Park in the City of Grosse Pointe to Grosse Pointe Farms and back to the finish line at Neff.

The Sunrise Rotary Club has 40 members who meet at 7 a.m. Tuesdays at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club.

Proceeds from last year's fun run went back to the community to fund projects like: scholarships for students at North and South high schools, the Cornerstone Schools partnership, the Richard Elementary School playground, a class trip to Washington, D.C., for Parcels Middle School students, the American Heart Association, Grosse Pointe South High School's Safe Rides program and the Cafe, an ecumenical teen night club.

The first race will begin at 8:30 a.m. at Neff Park. Trophies and medals will be presented in age classifications that range from 14-and-under to 50-and-over.

Members of the Lakeshore Striders will help Rotarians with race organization and timing. All runners will get a T-shirt with the Sunrise Stampede logo. Advance registration (before May 18) is $12 for adults; $10 for children under 11. After May 18, registration will be $15.

For more information, call Chris Flynn at (810) 244-6020 or Steve Basile at (810) 774-7600.

Take a hike: The Michigan Humane Society will hold its annual Mutt March on Sunday, June 2, on the grounds of the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House in Grosse Pointe Shores. Proceeds from pledges collected by walkers will benefit the more than 53,000 homeless animals cared for by the MHS each year.

Marchers and their pets can begin walking any time between 8 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. Cat owners who want to participate will receive a MHS "I'm a Cat Purrson" sticker. Participating dogs will get a special "I'm Steppin' Out for the Michigan Humane Society" bandanna.

Dog owners who attend with their pets should bring proof of rabies, distemper and parvo virus vaccinations. Dogs must be leashed.

Registration forms are available at any Michigan Humane Society location, or call (313) 872-7300.

Christ Church Antiques Show

Mr. and Mrs. Hugo S. Higbie will host a party this month for Archangel sponsors of the 1996 Christ Church Antiques Show. The annual benefit for the music program of Christ Church will be held on Saturday and Sunday, June 1 and 2, in the Grosse Pointe South High School gymnasium.

For information about becoming an Archangel (patron) for the event, call (313) 885-4841, ext. 117.

Fame awards luncheon at 11 a.m. Sunday, May 19, at the Detroit Athletic Club. After lunch and a program, guests will attend a performance of "La Traviata" at the new Detroit Opera House.

New inductees to the Hall of Fame include the late William H. Schervish.

Schervish was active in the Lebanese community. He launched the building of the current International Institute in Detroit's Cultural Center.

Tickets to the luncheon and performance of "La Traviata" are $135; for lunch only: $90. To order, call (313) 824-9011.

Gratitude

By a member of the Christian Science Church

While hurriedly eating breakfast in a noisy, crowded restaurant I noticed an older couple doing something I had neglected to do, something one rarely sees in public.

They were saying grace.

It didn't take long. Their heads were bowed only for a moment. But certainly these few seconds of thanksgiving helped them establish a more spiritual, God-centered outlook for their day.

Gratitude to God is an acknowledgment of His existence, power and place in our experience. It focuses thought on God, and helps us understand and love Him. In James (1:17) we read: "Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of lights."

Thanking God for our blessings — even the simple expression of gratitude for a meal — is profound spiritual thinking.

Christ Jesus said, referring to the basic necessities of human life: "Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you." (Matthew 6:33)

Here we are not instructed to petition God for the blessings of His kingdom, but to actively seek His kingdom. This suggests a direct link, a cause and effect relationship between spiritual understanding and a more harmonious, abundant, healthy life-experience.

When we gratefully acknowledge God as the source of all good, we open our thought to inspired, God-revealed discernment.

We 20th century Christians are blessed with a wealth of theological and denominational writings and biblical translations and reference works to help us "seek the kingdom of God."

Jesus expected his followers to study the Scriptures (Matthew 22:29; John 5:39; etc.). Paul prayed that the Christians at Colossae "might be filled with the knowledge of [God's] will in all wisdom and spiritual understanding." (Colossians 1:9).

In her book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," Mary Baker Eddy, the discoverer and founder of Christian Science, defines God as "The great I AM; the all-knowing, all-seeing, all-acting, all-wise, all-loving, and eternal; Principle; Mind; Soul; Spirit, Life; Truth; Love; all substance; intelligence."

For well over 100 years, Christian Scientists have found that faith and gratitude are strengthened and quickened by daily spiritual study and prayerful contemplation of the Scriptures. At our Wednesday evening meetings, individuals express gratitude to God and tell how spiritual understanding helps them handle everyday problems.

The world desperately needs more kingdom of heaven-seekers and more gratitude-givers of every religion.

Organizers look over plans for the 100th anniversary celebration of First English Evangelical Lutheran Church, 800 Vernier in Grosse Pointe Woods.

Christian Science church offers lecture

The First Church of Christ, Scientist in Grosse Pointe Farms will offer a free public lecture at 3 p.m. Sunday, May 19, in the Crystal Ballroom of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, 32 Lakeshore.

The lecturer will be Robert W. Jeffery, a member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship. Jeffery's topic will be "Commitment Liberates Instead of Limits when Impelled by Prayer," a discussion of how universally shared values can be adopted and promoted by everyone.

Centennial Festival at 9:30 a.m. Sunday, June 2.

A coffee hour will follow the service, and a family-style dinner and program will begin at 1 p.m. at Fern Hill Country Club. Festivities will feature a talk by Dr. Dennis Anderson, president of Trinity Lutheran Seminary in Columbus, Ohio.

Also speaking at the anniversary event: Bishop Philip Wahl and Dr. Carl Thomas of Lutheran Social Services of Michigan.

First English Evangelical Lutheran Church was founded in 1896 on the east side of Detroit, on Mount Elliott at Mack. It was the first Lutheran church in Detroit that featured regularly scheduled services in the English language. Other Lutheran churches held services in German.

The Rev. Walter Schmidt and the Rev. Barton Beebe are senior and associate pastors, respectively. For more information about the 100th anniversary celebration or to make a reservation for the dinner, call (313) 884-5040.

Gaspé trip a whale of a time

It was an exceptionally chilly morning, and we were bundled up in several layers with hoods tied tightly under our chins. We were not about to let this lousy weather keep us from our whale-watching expedition.

It was early June, but you would hardly know it here in Percé — way at the tip of Quebec's Gaspé peninsula. But a sure sign of the time of year was the fact that the whales were passing by and we were determined to see them.

Travel Trends

By Cynthia Boal Janssens

And see them we did. Although they did not put on the dramatic displays that we sometimes see in photos — full-body breaches and such — we were satisfied. On this particular dreary day, it was humpbacks — distinguishable not by huge humps, but by a small hooked back fin.

The way you spot whales from afar, we learned, is to watch for them to spume water into the sky through their blowholes. Whenever one of us would spot such activity, we would alert the crew and our inflatable boat would speed in that direction in an attempt to be close to the whale when it surfaced to breathe (whales are aquatic mammals that breathe air).

We succeeded in getting close to several of these majestic creatures but rarely saw more than the hooked fins and the big tails — but it was enough. And it more than made up for the mist and cool temps.

Our base for this trip to Gaspé (pronounced gas-pay) was the tiny village of Percé (per-say), once a thriving fishing community and now a tourist colony that only really flourishes for two months a year, July and August, when sun is plentiful. The rest of the year, it slumbers and is a most enjoyable site for a low-key but extremely interesting

You may not realize it but you have probably seen pictures of Percé as it is dominated by a huge rock in its harbor called Le Rocher Percé (Percé Rock). This much-photographed geographic feature, which is accessible to visitors on foot at low tide, is but one of the charms of Percé.

Just getting here was an adventure. This trip began with a flight from Windsor to Montreal, then a two-hour train ride to Quebec City (where we got off to spend a day in the Old Town) then we reboarded Via Rail for the final rail trip to the Gaspé. It had been years since I had over-nighted on a train; the Chaleur route was a fun experience. (I should note that it is possible to take the train all the way from Windsor.)

Percé is one of the easternmost points on the North American mainland and because there is so little in the way of "civilization" between Quebec City and Percé, you really do feel as if you have come a long way. Plus, everyone speaks French, so you really do feel like you are in a foreign country.

Of course, you can get here by ferry or air from other provinces of Atlantic Canada (New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island are all nearby) but do consider taking the train if you can manage the time. Most hotels in Percé offer shuttle service from the train station. You can rent a car in town, or sign up for organized day trips.

It is hard to imagine how Percé manages to thrive on such a short season. It has a population of just 4,660. This area was settled in the 16th century by French Protestants (Jacques Cartier landed here in 1534 and claimed the land for France). An elegant restaurant, L'Auberge Au Pirate, is located in a building that dates back to 1775, one of the oldest in the village. It had belonged to a company that sold fish oil and dry goods and was established in 1766.

The current owner, Jean-François Guite, explained that the structure was moved back several feet from the shoreline in the mid-1800s because of the threat of a flood. The neighboring building was never moved back, has withstood all manner of weather, and survives today as an attractive and popular hostel.

The early settlers soon discovered that there was an abundance of fish in this area and that the climate was perfect for drying and salting cod. So for a couple of centuries, that was the main industry of the summer months — cod was caught, dried and salted here and sent around the world in large wooden barrels. However, over-fishing eventually ruined that enterprise and it is only in the 20th century that tourism has replaced it as the area's main industry.

Whale watching is one of the most popular tourist activities. A half-day excursion is usually sufficient. That season runs from April to late December and during that time blue, fin, humpback and minke whales, porpoises and dolphins and seals are present in the productive feeding areas around Percé Rock, Bonaventure Island and Forillon National Park.

We were told by the locals that we should watch the bay because whales could often be spotted passing by. I managed to convince myself that I was seeing a whale from my window in La Cote Surprise motel, but it turned out to be a large rock. However, I was rewarded the next day by a genuine off-shore sighting at Forillon.

Forillon National Park is located on the shores of the Gulf of St. Lawrence at the very tip of the peninsula. It was interesting to note that it marks the end of the Appalachian mountains which run up the entire East Coast of the States. There are a number of rock formations in the park and wide pebbled beaches. It is a great spot for observing sea birds. Hiking, cycling, fishing, swimming and scuba diving are all offered.

To learn more about the history of the area, which was called Grande-Grave, you can visit the Anse-Blanchette homestead in Forillon, where you can see how the people lived at the turn of the century (your children can even gather eggs). At the Hyman Store, be sure to visit the upper level, where a most interesting exhibit explains how the life of the people was linked to the seasons. There are three campgrounds in the park.

Park naturalists offer many interpretive programs, many of them in English. One of the most popular is "The Underwater World at Grande-Grave," which is given twice a week on Wednesday and Sunday mornings. Divers collect specimens directly from the sea and discuss them with visitors on the main pebbled beach.

Another of the interesting day trips one can make from Percé or Forillon is to Bonaventure Island, famous for its seabird colonies. Bonaventure Island was once settled by fishermen; documents show that in 1831, 35 families lived on the island. However, the decline of the fishing industry saw an exodus of inhabitants and in 1971, the Quebec government bought the island to convert it into a national park. Many buildings still exist on the island.

A number of companies conduct boat trips to Bonaventure and they all pretty much do it the same way: They first take you on a ride around the island so that you can observe and photograph its famous seabird colonies and then it will drop you off at the pier at Anse à Butler. You can stay on the island as long as you want, for hikes or picnicking, and then return on any boat — just remember that the last one leaves at 5 p.m.!

You will long remember the spectacular colony of gannets. With over 55,000 of these majestic birds (which are a symbol hereabouts, you'll see impressions of gannets on all manner of objects), it is one of the largest such colonies in the world.

Back in Percé, take some time to poke around the town. You'll discover a pleasant mix of old and new. Take in the town cemetery next to St. Michel Church, a local landmark. Visit the new shopping complex next to town pier (my favorite gift shop was Bleu Marine). Spend a half hour in the Musée Le Chafaud, a new art museum of which the townspeople are deservedly proud, and don't miss the several art galleries. There are numerous patisseries (don't forget the French influence!) and a flower shop located in what was once a garage. A small Sears sign was also on the front, but I did not have time to find out which of that company's products were available.

Behind the city of Percé there are two mountains, Mont Joli and Mont Sainte-Ann. There is a 3-km trail which begins behind St. Michel Church that leads to a cave on Mont Sainte-Ann. Also on the mountain is one of the area's best restaurants, L'Auberge du Gargantua, located in what was once an abbey.

I would be remiss if I did not mention how impressed I was with the quality of cuisine to be found in Percé. There are several excellent restaurants (I've already mentioned two of them) and lobster usually tops the menu, as it is caught locally. For a good look at the local seafood, stop in the Poissonnerie Le Petit Gaspésien. Here Marc Moreau showed me some interesting specimens — a reminder that Percé really once was a fishing village.

There are many interesting rock formations around Quebec's Gaspé peninsula on the Gulf of St. Lawrence, such as Percé Rock, above, but getting there is an adventure in itself. Percé is one of the easternmost points on the North American mainland.

Forillon National Park is located on the shores of the Gulf of St. Lawrence at the very tip of the peninsula. Park naturalists offer many interpretive programs, many of them in English.

Armenian orchestra world class

Tours by major symphony orchestras are rare these days, which made it a double treat to hear the Armenian Philharmonic Orchestra at Orchestra Hall last week.

Along with the pleasure of a first-rate performance by a fine visiting ensemble, the audience experienced a moving example of nationalism in symphonic music at its best. Predominantly members of the Armenian community, it was an audience with special appreciation of the ethnic emphasis.

To an extent, even the energy and drive of the ensemble and its conductor had a nationalistic character. Loris Tjeknavorian, principal conductor and artistic director, has provided dynamic leadership that not only helped elevate the orchestra to world class in spite of political upheaval in its native land but, most importantly, lent a high level of artistic energy to all works on the program, Armenian in character or not.

That was evident from the first notes of the "Festival Overture" by Shostakovich which opened the concert. This unsophisticated march-like piece has broad, unsophisticated appeal and gained distinction in the orchestra's vigorous treatment. It displayed above all the technical polish of the orchestra and the panache of its playing style.

One high point of the program was the performance by young Armenian cellist Alexander Chaushian of the Saint-Saens Cello Concerto No. 1. This fine young (he is only 19) musician played with considerable abandon yet was fully disciplined. His technique is outstanding and he brought a lovely tone and expressive phrasing to Saint-Saens' melodious concerto. He, the conductor and the ensemble, also gave this 19th century French music a subtle but unmistakable

State of the Arts

By Alex Suczek

Armenian accent that enlivened considerably what is otherwise a somewhat dated work.

It was with the final work, Khachaturian's Symphony No. 2, and the encores, that the ethnic character of the concert came into sharpest focus. Khachaturian has his own unique musical idiom which is greatly enriched by his use of popular song and dance material of his native Armenia. The rhythms and modalities have strong national identity as well as being very reminiscent of the overall near eastern musical tradition. They are powerfully appealing. All of which shows through even the formal Russian tradition in which the symphony was composed for performance in the Soviet Union.

It is a work of tremendous stature and received a reverent performance by the ensemble. The third movement, based on the timeless Dies Irae theme, was particularly majestic and filled with foreboding as the orchestra produced a rich and deep-throated string sound. The brass choir distinguished itself with a ringing tone and clear-cut phrasing, helping to bring the symphony to its powerful and optimistic climax that anticipated the victory of the Soviets over the Third Reich in their "Great War."

The nationalistic enthusiasm of the audience reached fever pitch with the encores, however, which included a collection of Armenian music in absolutely smashing arrangements and played with authentic ethnic gusto.

Yo Yo Ma, Seaman pull out stops

The much anticipated appearances of cellist Yo Yo Ma and guest conductor Christopher Seaman with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, were clouded by a disturbing announcement and revised program last Thursday. "A moderate case of tendinitis" occasioned a program change.

All fears were dispelled by the performance, however. Sir Edward Elgar's somewhat morose Cello Concerto in E minor came alive with the cel-list's superbly lyrical playing. He brought so much creative expression to Elgar's conservative themes and development that the concerto sounded twice as beautiful as it is, even for as fine and well constructed a work as it is.

Seaman's collaboration with and support of Ma was also impressive. Considered one of Great Britain's leading conductors, he leads the orchestra with a minimum of histrionics and a maximum of inspiration. Along with providing the cellist with an accompaniment in perfect accord with his solo playing, Seaman contributed to the energizing of the score and joined with Ma in conveying a sense of the joy of making great music.

As though to dispel any lingering concern about his tendinitis, Ma then played two encores which only added to the spirit of musical enthusiasm. His unaccompanied partita by Bach was impeccable, for the purists. The nostalgic romantics had their moment, too, as Seaman brushed a hand held snare drum. Ma played bass line in the background and the DSO cello section gave a rendition of Glenn Miller's "Moonlight Serenade" that spanned several generations in its appeal. It was an act that is hard to top.

But Seaman's work with the orchestra was impressive, too. With "Fantasia on a Theme of Thomas Tallis" by Vaughan Williams, he captured the contemplative, even mystical spirit of the Tallis early music as reinterpreted by his modern fellow Englishman. Its religious origins in the 16th century book of English psalms was effectively delineated, reaching an eloquent power in a musical prayer played with special feeling by the four principal string players.

In Schubert's Unfinished Symphony, coming after Ma's solo, Seaman must have been moved to pull out all the stops. He did, but with discretion in a well modulated performance with smooth flow and impassioned expression. The work is dominated by an ominous sense of foreboding, perhaps from the impending tragedy of Schubert's affliction with syphilis, but Seaman always let the irrepressible sunny side of the composer burst through in the changing moods of the music.

The mood changed to mischief and merriment with Strauss' "Till Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks" and here Seaman displayed a special flair for vitality and humor in orchestral performance. The Germanic practical joker came to life in the music as he escaped from punishment for his tricks in the vividly rendered performance. Seaman's conception and drive to bring the story to its conclusion was unerring and never faltered and once again reflected a sense of joyous music making.

Neeme Jarvi returns to the podium tomorrow (Friday) morning with Gennady Zet, balalaika soloist, who will perform a Balalaika Concerto by Estonian composer Eduard Tubin. The concert will also offer the "Suite from Hary Janos" by Kodaly and Symphony No. 5 by Sibelius. It will repeat Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon. For tickets and times call (313) 833-3700.

'Cindy' ends Fine Arts Society's run

As the grand finale of a superb season, the Fine Arts Society of Detroit presented at the Players Playhouse the musical, "Cindy," under the direction of Susan Davis and starring Lisa Chamberlin as Cinderella and Chris Austin as the Prince. Margaret Lindner played the wicked stepmother, Sharon Conti and Ann Diebel the ugly stepsisters, and Heather Denler the Fairy Godmother.

Supporting cast in order of appearance included: Suzanne Wrobel, Geno Pirrami, Jim Conti, Jack Petz, Sue Petz, Irene Gracey, Phil McCallister, Jonathan Davis, John Diebel, Charles S. Davis, III, Wally Troniano, James Schuler, Paul Gracey and Yolanda Turner. Chorus members were: Judie Bailey, Al Berteel, Phyllis Brewster, Bob Phillips and Karen Quarnstrom.

"Cindy," based on the classic love story of Cinderella, was written by Charles S. Davis III, who adapted the characters from the English movie, "The Slipper & the Rose." Susan Davis and John Diebel assisted him in the editing of the story.

The music from "The Slipper & the Rose" was written by the Sherman brothers and Davis and Diebel chose to incorporate into "Cindy" some of the Sherman music along with those of Disney and the Rodgers & Hammerstein television production. They collaborated on new lyrics for a number of the songs and Diebel created the original, "When I Close My Eyes," for the Prince. The task of orchestrating and sequencing the entire score was handled by Matt deRaad, who had the added challenge of no available sheet music from "The Slipper & the Rose."

The Fine Arts Society of Detroit is a private organization founded in 1906 for the promotion of the arts. Productions are only open to members and their guests.

For questions or more information, call Marianne L. Shrader at (313) 894-4440.

Lisa Chamberlin played Cinderella and Chris Austin portrayed the Prince in the Fine Arts Society of Detroit's season finale, "Cindy."

Saturday, May 18 Tour traces auto industry

On Saturday, May 18, Preservation Wayne presents a bus tour that traces the auto industry's 19th century roots in Detroit. The tour will help provide an understanding of how and why Detroit became the Motor City, and transformed from being a citadel of anti-unionism to a Labor Town and is now meeting the challenges of a global automotive industry. The tour begins at 10 a.m. with a video at the Detroit Historical Museum and then travels from the river front to Milwaukee Junction and includes the Diego Rivera murals at the DIA, the Rouge Plant of Ford Motor Company and other famous sites in the development of the labor movement. Tickets are $25 for Preservation Wayne members and $30 for non-members. Lunch is included in the ticket price. The Tour lasts approximately five hours. Reservations are required. For reservations or more information call Preservation Wayne at (313) 222-0321.

Walking tour of theater district

Preservation Wayne hosts walking tours of Detroit's theater district on Saturday, May 18. The newly restored Detroit Opera House, the Music Hall, the State, the Gem, and the Fox are just a few of the stops on the tour. In addition many of the recently announced developments within this historic district will be highlighted. Tours leave the lobby of the State Theater every 20 minutes beginning at 9:30 a.m. with the last tour leaving at 11:30 a.m. Tours last approximately three hours. Tickets are $15 for non members and $10 for members of Preservation Wayne. The Ashley-Chris Gallery of Grosse Pointe presents the works of Susan Alexander Shipman, Sharon Sims, and Ric Geyer. Shipman's art uses mixed media on handmade paper. Sims' sculptures and reliefs are influenced by myths, symbolism, and her own spiritual idealism. Furniture designer Ric Geyer is influenced by the Shakers and the Arts and Crafts movement and is known for his use of purple heart wood in his designs. The Ashley-Chris Gallery is located at 15126 Kercheval, Grosse Pointe Park and is open Tuesday through Saturday from noon to 6 p.m. For more information call (313) 824-0700.

North-South soccer battle ends in a deadlock

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

The games are often like that Christmas tie — they're not what you're looking for.

But this week when Grosse Pointe North and Grosse Pointe South played to a 1-1 deadlock in girls soccer, both coaches seemed pleased with the result.

"It was a typical North-South game," said Blue Devils coach Tom Caranicolas. "We played a super second half. I was proud of my team."

North coach Sam Steinhebel, who took over as head coach this year from the retired Guido Regelbrugge, was just as happy.

"It was a wonderful game," he said. "We did what we wanted to do. We know South has more talent and experience than we have now — they have All-Staters returning — but we wanted to earn their respect.

"Our first goal this year was to continue the tradition of never having a losing season. And the second was to win the division championship. Of course, we knew that might not happen, being in the same division with South."

"You don't want to beat some of the teams 7-0 and then lose by three, four or five goals to the good ones. That's when you lose respect. But we lost 2-1 to South and now we tied them."

Neither team scored until South's Molly McKenzie ended the drought with about 8 1/2 minutes remaining in the game.

"She was playing striker in this game and it was a beautiful goal the way she brought the ball from left to right and then put it in the opposite corner of the net," Caranicolas said.

"Molly had a lot of help from Katy Spicer, who played a marvelous game, and Melissa Brown. North dominated the first half, but we played our touch-and-go, move-the-ball game in the second half."

The Blue Devils had 13 shots on goal in the second half, but North's defenders — Liz Tymrak, Claire Kotwick, Julia Rouls, Christine Spada, Erin Schmidt and Robyn Maples — along with goalkeeper Marcy McCormick kept South off the scoreboard until McKenzie's goal.

Two minutes after McKenzie put the Blue Devils ahead, North's Andrea Muncy scored the equalizer when South was unable to clear a rebound.

"I thought coming back like we did showed tremendous character by our girls," Steinhebel said. "They're starting to believe in themselves. They understand they're playing for pride and respect for our school."

Caranicolas said he was much happier with the way South played against North than the way they played last Saturday in a 4-2 non-league loss to Rochester Adams.

"We were very flat," he said. "We scored two goals for us and one for them. And it took us half a game to get ready to play North, but I was very proud of the way we played in the second half."

"One of the reasons we might have played poorly against Adams is that we didn't play for nearly a week and we weren't even able to practice because the fields were in bad shape. We need some practice time and we'll be in good shape for the tournament."

The Blue Devils are 5-0-1 in the MAC White.

North takes a 3-1-2 league record into its final two division games.

"We've received outstanding leadership from our three captains — Robyn Maples, Angela Trupiano and Jennifer Schmidt," Steinhebel said.

"Angela and Jennifer don't play as much as Robyn, but they're hard workers and always willing to fill in where they're needed."

McCormick's development as a goalkeeper has also been instrumental in the Norsemen's success.

"She pretty much stepped in at the last minute," Steinhebel said. "I watched her play volleyball and noticed she had very quick hands. So we worked for an hour a night after volleyball practice to improve her technique. She was willing to work extra and she stayed with it. Now it's paying off."

Both teams begin tournament play Monday. South is at Fraser, while North visits Warren-Mott.

First-round winners play Wednesday — the North-Mott winner against either Regina or Roseville and the South-Fraser winner against East Detroit or Cousino.

The district championship is scheduled for 5 p.m., Friday, May 24, at Fraser.

"It could be another North-South game," Caranicolas said.

Highlights

The Hawks beat the Jazz 62-57 to win the championship in the Neighborhood Club's seventh and eighth grade basketball extension league.

The Jazz took an early lead, but the Hawks were ahead at halftime. Both teams played with intensity in the second half.

"This game was nip and tuck all the way," said Hawks' coach Dante Rotondo. "We were down near the end but caught up with three minutes to go and held on for the win."

The Hawks' Jeff Butler, Matt Muer and Adam Elbenni were outstanding defensively. Scott Boynton and Chris Frendo led the Hawks' offensive attack, while Nick Rotondo also contributed.

Louis Ciotti handled the pressure well and made several free throws down the stretch, while Miles Mayle played well offensively and defensively at center.

Jack Tocco and Paul Lochiro led the Magis with 18 points apiece, while Mike Alvin and Jared Plasky triggered the offense with their three-point shooting. Phil Griesbeck, Pat Ryan, Noah Cheek, Steve Weryley and Eric Johnson played excellent defense.

Kevin Carroll, G.J. Kordas and Kofi Kumi showed good ball-handling skills for the Pistons, while Paul Lored, Cameron McCoy, Sean McLeod, Jonathan Rice, James Van de Putte and Jon Roebig also played well.

Jazz 59, Hawks 49
The Jazz finished the regular season undefeated as Dave Slowik scored 21 points and Rob Higbee added 20. Mark Borushko had three three-point goals and Brian Gorski handled the ball well. After a slow start, Mike Naughton, David Maki, Mike Mann and Mike Battjes ignited the Jazz comeback with good defense and rebounding.

Nick Rotondo and Miles Mayle led the Hawks with 15 points apiece and Chris Frendo added nine.

Around the league
The Knicks developed their skills throughout the season and exhibited fine sportsmanship. Team members were Sam Alnajjar, Brandon Bayer, Christopher Bryant, Dan Howard, Scott Koerber, Ryan Mach, Ryan Michael and Richard Rozycki.

The Bulls were strong-willed and played hard, while displaying fine teamwork. Members of the squad were Brandon Birmingham, Brad Drummy, Sean Edwin, Steve Gallagher, Tony Gatloff, Jeffrey Hiller, Peterson Moore, Mike O'Neill and John Sawicki.

The Cavs improved throughout the season and kept their spirits high. Jesse Basil, Robin Basil, Alan Borrelli, Eric Borrelli, John Halpin, Nicolas King, Justin Kreger, Mark Peppier and Richard Schott played for the Cavs.

The Bucks had a strong unit on offense and defense. The well-rounded club was made up of Brian Asher, Aaron Bayko, James Burns, Christopher Colson, Matthew O'Brien, Jason Rusko, Brian Vandenberghe, Andrew Vlasak and Geoffrey Weed.

Girls softball

Registration is being taken for the Neighborhood Club's girls summer softball league, which is open to girls in grades two through eight. Games will be played evenings, Monday through Friday, beginning Monday, June 17. The season will conclude July 26.

Teams will play once a week with extra time allotted for pre-game practice.

The fee is $35 and the deadline for registration is Friday, May 31.

Participants must also have a Neighborhood Club membership, which may be purchased at registration.

Register in person or by mail to the Neighborhood Club, 17150 Waterloo, Grosse Pointe, 48230. Call 885-4600 for more information.

Sunrise Stampede

The fourth annual Sunrise Stampede is sponsored by the Grosse Pointe Sunrise Rotary Club and helps support the Neighborhood Club's many programs.

A one-mile fun run, one-mile inline skate, five-kilometer walk and run, a 10K run and 5K and 10K wheelchair races will be held Saturday, June 1, along Lakeshore Drive.

Race day registration and packet pickup will be held from 7 to 8:15 a.m., with events starting at 8:30 a.m. at Neff Park, 17350 East Jefferson in the City of Grosse Pointe.

Age groups between 14 and under and 50 and over are eligible.

The Grosse Pointe Sunrise Rotary Club will distribute proceeds to local charities and community service organizations.

The fee for registering by May 18 is $12 for racers 11 and older and $10 for youngsters 10 and under.

After May 18, the registration fee will be $15 for racers 11 and older and $12 for the younger group.

Trophies or medals will be awarded to winners in all of the races and all participants receive a T-shirt.

Registration forms are available at the Neighborhood Club. For more information call Chris Flynn at 810-244-6020 or Steve Basile at 810-774-7600.

Robbie Langlois of Grosse Pointe made a good showing at the recent state championships for level 8 gymnasts.

Langlois posted one of her best scores of the season to finish seventh in floor exercise. She also placed fifth on balance beam, eighth on vault, 10th on parallel bars and seventh in the all-around competition.

Tripp Tracy earns top Harvard hockey honor

Goalie Tripp Tracy of Grosse Pointe Farms has been named the winner of the John Tudor Memorial Cup by the Harvard hockey program.

The award is presented by members of the Porcellian Club who were classmates of Tudor, the captain of the 1928-29 hockey team, to the squad's most valuable player.

Brad Konik was a co-winner of the MVP award with Tracy.

Tracy concluded his career on a high note, leading the Crimson to a quarterfinal upset of St. Lawrence University in the Eastern College Athletic Conference.

He played goal in a semifinal upset of ECAC regular-season champion Vermont, which went on to the NCAA semifinals.

During his final season in Cambridge, Mass., Tracy set several records.

He became the second goalie in the more than 100 years of Harvard hockey to record 2,000 saves during his career.

Tracy was the recipient of the George Percy Award, presented to the outstanding freshman, in 1993.

He is also a nominee for the Outstanding Male Athlete at Harvard.

The results of that will be announced during commencement week.

A 1993 draft choice of the Philadelphia Flyers, Tracy is evaluating a career in professional hockey.

Knights adapt to Catholic League style

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

University Liggett School's soccer team got a taste of the way the Detroit Catholic League plays the game and it took some getting used to.

"We're not used to the physical play that's characteristic of the Catholic League," Knights coach David Backhurst said after his team's 1-0 non-league victory over Regina.

"They're big and physical and it was one of our toughest games. Regina plays well in the midfield, but they had some trouble finishing against our defense."

ULS' Shera Teitge scored the only goal of the game five minutes into the second half. She took an excellent crossing pass from Jessica Papa and drilled a shot from 15 yards.

Once the Knights took the lead, goalkeeper Melanie Buhalis and her defense corps of Brooke Wright, Abby Tompkins, Karin Salden and Sarah Trombley preserved the slim margin.

"The defense played real well — like it has all year," Backhurst said. "That was our seventh straight shutout."

The shutout string continued through ULS' two Metro Conference games as the Knights rolled past Cranbrook Kingswood 7-0 and crushed Lutheran Northwest 8-0.

The three shutouts gave ULS nine in a row to set a record for girls soccer at the school.

ULS' game with Cranbrook was its second against the Cranes in four days and it wasn't one of the Knights' better efforts.

"We were flat and uninspired, but sometimes that happens after you've beaten a team 6-0 a few days earlier," Backhurst said. "It was a frustrating game to coach."

Tompkins moved to forward from sweeper to provide some offensive punch in place of Shera Teitge, who missed the game because of illness, and she scored four goals.

Tompkins opened the scoring on a penalty kick four minutes into the game and tallied again shortly before the end of the first half with an assist from Kristin Byron.

Jessica Papa fired a shot through the Cranes' goalie's hands early in the second half and that touched off an outburst that saw Tompkins score twice and Mieke Teitge and Papa complete the scoring.

"Our defense didn't have to work too hard in that one," Backhurst said.

Shera Teitge returned to action and scored from Erica Brammer at the 4:30 mark. Two minutes later, Shera Teitge set up Brammer for a goal.

Brammer scored from Mieke Teitge and Shera Teitge and Jessica Papa completed the first half scoring with goals on penalty kicks.

"They turned to desperation to slow us down and they wound up pulling us down," Backhurst said.

Mieke Teitge, Shera Teitge and Jessica Papa scored in the second half, while Ariadne Lie, Casey Papa and Shera Teitge had assists.

ULS is 10-1 overall and 6-0 in the Metro Conference. The Knights, who are ranked sixth in the state in Class B-C-D, will try to clinch the conference championship Friday when they host Lutheran North.

It's a long time since Grosse Pointe South's girls track team lost a home dual meet.

Darryl Rogers was still coaching the Lions, the Red Wings didn't have a Russian on their team, Cecil Fielder was a backup first baseman for the Toronto Blue Jays and the Pistons were still trying to beat the Boston Celtics in a playoff series.

The Blue Devils made it 10 years without a home dual-meet defeat last week when they rolled past previously-unbeaten Port Huron 87-41 in a Macomb Area Conference White Division meet.

South improved to 6-0 in the league and is assured of at least a tie for the MAC White title.

The Blue Devils' victory was highlighted by Aimee Vasse's career-best effort in the 3,200-meter run. Her time of 11:27 was only three seconds off the school record set in 1983.

"She ran it pretty much on her own," said South coach Steve Zaranek. "We'll give her another shot at breaking it (the record) in our last dual meet, because in the league and regional meets she'll be tripling (running three events)."

Lisa McCurdy again dominated the hurdles, winning the 100 high in 17.5 and taking the 300 lows in 50.0. McCurdy was second in the long jump with a leap of 15-feet-2.

Gretchen Carter won the 400 in 1:02.

Victories also came from the freshman trio of Katy Kraft in the 800, Erin Smialek in the long jump and Isabel Roa in the 200.

Jonnie Vasse ran an outstanding time of 5:30 to win the 1,600, while Monique Fekin and Kelly LaBash finished first and second, respectively, in the high jump.

Two of South's discus throwers recorded season-best efforts as Sarah Krueger threw 92-0 feet and Katie Drabecki had a throw of 83-0.

Other excellent distance performances came from Dara O'Byrne, Chris Littmann, Sarah Crowe and Kim Smale, while Maggie Lucas had career bests in both hurdles races.

Other top efforts came from Ashley Schwikert, Julie Upmeyer, Dana Galinato, Elizabeth Kwiatkowski, Katie Berschback and Melissa Balok.

South will host a Class A regional Saturday. Events begin at 9:30 a.m. The finals are scheduled to start at 1 p.m.

South drops a pair in the seventh inning

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

This baseball season has Grosse Pointe South coach Dan Griesbaum shaking his head in bewilderment.

"As the old saying goes, if we didn't have bad luck we wouldn't have any luck," Griesbaum said after the Blue Devils lost their last two Macomb Area Conference White Division games in the seventh inning.

Last week, Romeo rallied for three runs in the seventh to beat South 10-9 and Monday, lightning struck again as Warren-Mott used a six-run seventh inning to beat the Blue Devils 11-8 despite three homers by South.

"We're just not closing things out," Griesbaum said. "It's difficult when you're scoring eight and nine runs and not winning. And it's not a lot of just one thing that's hurting us. Maybe it's walks one time. Another time it's hits, or errors, or a bad call by an umpire. Mistakes have hurt us."

South was leading Romeo 7-4 going into the bottom of the fourth inning, but the Bulldogs erupted for five runs to take a 9-7 lead.

The Blue Devils came back with three runs in the fifth with the aid of some Romeo miscues, but the Bulldogs made up for them in the seventh.

South scored three times in the second, with one run scoring on Mike Gehrke's single and another coming home on a bases-loaded walk to Terry Brennan.

An RBI single by Chris McGratty and a suicide squeeze by Gehrke — his fourth in five attempts — produced two of the runs.

Paul Yeskey had a run-scoring double in the fourth for the Blue Devils.

Joe Schmitt was the only South player with two hits.

South started well against Mott when Brennan led off the game with a home run.

The Blue Devils picked up four runs in the third. Two scored on an error and Chris Nelson capped the inning with a two-run homer.

Kyle McCartney hit a solo homer in the fourth for South.

The Blue Devils got two more runs in the seventh on a double by Yeskey, but the rally fell short.

Brennan and Nelson each had a single to go with their home runs.

The two defeats — South had the rest of the week's schedule rained out — dropped the Blue Devils to 4-5 in the league and 13-8 overall.

Babe Ruth Prep Division highlights

PREP DIVISION
Rockies 8, Rangers 0

Furgal pitched a three-hit shutout for the Rockies, while Kelly and Parsh each had two hits. Lopetrone hit a double and scored twice. Heath Schollenberger pitched three scoreless innings for the Rangers, while Paul Stevens went 2-for-2.

Rangers 7, Mets 4

Ranger pitchers Heath Schollenberger and Chad Gohlke combined on a two-hitter. Matt Elias walked three times and scored twice for the Rangers and Jack Tocco hit a double. Champion reached base four times and pitched a complete game for the Mets.

ULS teams second in triangular meets

University Liggett School's boys track team held off one Metro Conference rival, but couldn't quite catch another in a triangular meet last week.

Clarenceville was first with 57 points, while ULS had 52 and Lutheran East was a close third with 50.

Strength in the relays and distance races was instrumental for the Knights.

The 3,200-meter relay team of Kurt Niemi, Sonny Ford, Matt Nowak and Masseha McDonald was first in 9:47 and the 800 relay team of Mark Jones, Jumah Hamilton, Nowak and Jonathan Kish had a winning time of 1:42.

McDonald and Nowak tied for first in the 1,600 in 5:18, while McDonald won the 3,200 run in 11:57.

Ford was first in the 800 in 2:19.

Jones won the long jump with a leap of 16-feet-10 and Jim Fortune took a solid fourth in the 400 with a 1:03.

ULS is 2-1 in the conference and 6-5 overall.

Girls track

University Liggett School's

Merz leads North to win

Sarah Merz had a hand in four first-places last week as she led Grosse Pointe North's girls track team to an 83-45 victory over L'Anse Creuse in the Macomb Area Conference Blue Division.

girls track team won three of the four relay races and finished second in a triangular meet with two other Metro Conference schools.

Lutheran East was first with 77 points, followed by ULS 53 and Clarenceville four.

The 400-meter relay team of Keli Bonner, Karissa Feucht, Jasmine Beale and Lisa Brown was first in 56.1.

Beale, Feucht, Brown and Theresa Oney won the 800 relay in 2:04.1 and the 1,600 relay team of Beale, Feucht, Brown and Alaina Powell closed out the meet with a winning time of 5:07.

Jennifer Silverston won the high jump when she cleared 4-feet and Powell was first in the 400 dash in 1:17.

The Knights are 2-2 against conference foes and 5-5 overall.

Both ULS teams will compete Saturday in the Class C regional at Almont. Preliminaries begin at 10 a.m. Finals are scheduled to start at 1 p.m.

Jean Seo and Karen Powers were each involved in three firsts for the Norsemen.

Katie Powers and Michelle Peleman were double winners.

Blue Devils nip Irish in lacrosse

Grosse Pointe South's lacrosse team bounced back from a loss to Troy to nip Notre Dame 11-10.

The game was close in nearly every statistical category. The Blue Devils outshot Notre Dame 30-26, South had 14 penalties to the Irish's 12 and Blue Devil goalies Matt Isbell and Rodgers Fox made 16 saves to 19 for the Notre Dame netminders.

It was the best performance of the season for South's attackers as they scored seven of the 11 goals. Scott Gallaher led the way with three goals and Chris Terry had two. Attackers Bill Sumner and Kent Scheiwe each tallied once.

Midfielder Jason Donohue, the team's scoring leader, scored twice against Notre Dame. Midfielders Mike Bianco and Matt Moran had a goal apiece.

Teamwork was a key to South's success.

The Blue Devils had eight assists, their highest total of the season. Bianco and Moran collected two assists apiece, while Chris Provenzano, Donohue, Martin Mathews and Adam Whitehead each had one.

Earlier, South dropped a 10-6 decision to Troy.

The Blue Devils started slowly, taking only five shots in the first quarter, but ended the game with a flurry of 15 shots in the final period.

The Colts jumped ahead 2-0 early in the game and never relinquished the lead.

Troy held a 53-28 shot advantage, with the midfielders taking all but six of the Blue Devils' shots.

Moran and Donohue each scored two goals for South and Bianco and Whitehead notched one apiece.

Donohue, Scheiwe and Ryan Robson each had an assist.

City sets summer schedule

The City of Grosse Pointe will open Neff Memorial swimming pool Saturday, May 25 at 10 a.m.

Neff Park's entrance has been renovated. It has a circular drop-off drive with many plantings and trees. This will improve the safety and congestion for park patrons.

The Neff pools will have shortened hours until June 13.

The abbreviated hours will be Monday through Thursday, 3:30 to 8 p.m.; Friday, 3:30 to 9 p.m.; Saturday, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.; and Sunday, 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Beginning June 14, the pools will be open from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

ULS offering four summer sports camps

University Liggett School will be offering several summer sports camps.

There will be a one-week baseball camp, beginning Monday, June 17.

Contact Glynn Conley for more information.

Lacrosse camp begins Monday, June 17 for a one-week session.

Contact John Fowler for more information.

Registration for the first session of swim and tennis lessons will be held June 15 and 16 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Neff pool office.

American Red Cross swimming lessons will be offered for pre-school, parent/tot, and levels I through VII.

Other lessons will be offered in aerobics, synchronized swimming, diving and introduction to competitive swimming.

Tennis lessons are offered at the Elworthy Field tennis courts.

Lifeguard training will be offered to anyone 15 and older. The five-week course runs from June 18 through July 23 on Tuesday and Thursday events.

The course includes skills in lifeguarding, first aid, CPR-PR and waterfront safety. Registration is June 15-16.

The City swim team — the Norbs — will have their first parent-swimmer meeting Wednesday, May 29, at 4 p.m. at the Neff park pavilion.

Team registration will take place at that time. The meeting will include shirt orders, meet schedules, activities planning and volunteer requests.

To be eligible to join the Norbs, a swimmer must reside in the City, be between the ages of 6 and 17 and be able to swim a length of the pool.

All those interested should attend the meeting.

Swim practice begins Thursday, May 30 and will be held Monday through Friday from 4 to 5:30 p.m. and Saturday from 8 to 11 a.m.

Reservations for Elworthy Field tennis courts will be required on weekends, beginning May 25.

Daily reservations will begin June 14 and continue through the summer. Reservations will be taken from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. for $3 per hour. They are available to all Grosse Pointe Schools residents.

Any questions about the City's summer activities can be directed to parks and recreation director Diane Zedan at 313-343-5257, beginning May 25.

101 PRAYERS

NOVENA TO ST. JUDE May the Sacred Heart of Jesus be adored, glorified, loved and preserved throughout the world, now & forever. Oh Sacred Heart of Jesus, pray for us. worker of miracles, pray for us. St. Jude, helper of the hopeless, pray for us. Say this prayer 9 times a day. By the 8th day, your prayer will be answered. It has never been known to fail, never. Publication must be promised. Thanks, St. Jude for prayers answered. Special thanks to our Mother of Perpetual Help. L.P.

Prayer Of The Blessed Virgin
Oh most beautiful flower of Mt. Carmel, fruitful vine, splendor of heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in my necessity. Oh Star of the Sea, help me and show me, herein you are my mother. Oh Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart, to succor me in my necessity (request here). There are none that can withstand your power. Oh Mary conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse. Holy Mary, I place this prayer in your hands. Say this 3 times for 3 days, publish it. It will be granted to you. T.U.J.

THANK you, St. Jude and Sacred Heart, for prayers answered. F.B.

Their mistress passed away a short time ago. The cats are spayed, de-clawed and totally house cats. One is short haired and weighs ten pounds. Coloring is Tortoise shell and is eight years old. The other is long hair, weighs 13 pounds, has calico coloring and is 9 years old. They are both very loving and quite smart. They have been used to one owner taking care of them but have adapted very well to another person taking care of them in the last month. They will be free to the right home and need to be kept as a "set" as they are very used to each other. They will also come with food, dishes, litter box, toys, brush and comb and of course cat "taxi". If would like to be the new caretaker of these two adorable, loving cats please leave a message at: 810-795-9866. All calls will be returned. PUPPY OBEDIENCE 10 weeks-4 1/2 months. Salad has enjoyed a long and varied history

Everyone knows how important vegetables, greens and fruits are to our nutritional well-being.

We should give ourselves credit for having this knowledge and for having the good sense to make salads an important part of every good dinner. However, the ancient Romans felt just as smug about their nutritional expertise since they also felt that a salad was an essential part of a good dinner. In fact, it was a matter of law. Romans were compelled to eat salads and greens.

Though its beginnings are unknown, lettuce has had a very long period of cultivation. Botanists say it was developed from wild lettuce and the compass plant. Aristoxenes in the fifth century B.C. was so proud of his garden lettuce that he had it watered with honey and wine.

In ancient times lettuce was valued for its medicinal qualities.

The story goes that emperor Augustus Caesar of Rome became ill. Since his physicians did not seem able to cure him, he summoned an astrologer. The astrologer cast his horoscope, then went into the garden and lay on his back in a bed of lettuce to study the planets. Here, inspiration came to him. The emperor was to take no medicine, food or drink but was to consume great quantities of lettuce.

He recovered and in gratitude erected a statue of the astrologer holding a great handful of lettuce, and an altar to acknowledge his thanks for lettuce.

Lettuce was grown for salad in Garden Shed

By Ellen Probert Williamson

the famous Hanging Gardens of Babylon, the wonderful terraced gardens famous throughout the known world of the time.

One of the most amazing productions of this time was a series of Assyrian clay tablets compiled in the seventh century B. C. which list more than 100 plants and specify more than 250 vegetable medicines. Lettuce was an ingredient in many of them.

Lettuce comes in a variety of forms and colors. It is an annual which can be quite easily grown in most areas.

Seeds for all kinds of lettuce can be readily obtained. Growing lettuce is most rewarding. Nothing quite equals the crisp salad that results from gathering fresh leaves, crisping them in cold water and serving them immediately.

The doctors of the 15th century, never having heard of vitamins, were still on the right track when they recommended salads as part of a healthful diet and suggested goutweed as an additional ingredient for preventive reasons.

Salad greens were popular in Colonial America. A "sallet" of several kinds of lettuce embellished with nasturtiums was popular. The French were probably the first to improve on the ancient Roman idea of salads by mixing herbs into them and adding other ingredients to the point where, in 1500, a complete salad bowl contained 35 ingredients.

Salads, which are really vegetable mixtures, have steadily grown in popularity in recent years. Centuries ago there were raw herbs found in field and forest, then dressed with brine, oil and vinegar, and became medicinal prescriptions.

One Roman contribution was the hot salad — largely green vegetables blanched with herbs. It was the French who first improved on Apicius' Roman recipe by mixing fresh greens with herbs.

Untraveled Scots still refer to salads as "those uncooked greens."

France makes oily salads, Germany vinegary ones. English salad has been critically termed "the infancy of mixed pickles." American salads seem to incorporate several of these ideas.

Very old papyrus scrolls found in Egypt list medicinal herbs used by many physicians, among them lettuce. Some historians go so far as to conjecture that references to lotus in these papyri really mean lettuce.

It has been suggested that we owe the idea of "pot gardening" to the Greeks who planted quick-growing seeds of lettuce in small pots for the festival of Adonis. After their quick growth the plants faded quickly, symbolizing the early death of Aphrodite's young lover Adonis.

The potted plants decorated statues of Adonis and were placed on the flat housetops during this summer festival. This custom, which originally had signified the reproductive life cycle of all plants, came to represent impermanence and the fleeting pleasures of life.

Many new varieties of lettuce have been developed in recent years. One kind which has been used for many years in China is the Chinese stem lettuce, a variant in which the stem rather than the leaves is the edible part.

It is used in Chinese cookery somewhat like the water chestnut, which it rather resembles in taste. Although it is easy to grow, it is rarely found in this country. More familiar is a close relative, celtsuce, which has a high vitamin C content.

Go fly a kite — but do it safely

People have been seriously hurt and electrocuted when their kites tangled with overhead power lines, especially when their kite string was laced with metal fibers.

Metal and wire act as conductors of electricity when they come in contact with electrical equipment, and Detroit Edison reminds its customers to take heed of kite-flying materials and the surrounding area.

Detroit Edison offers a few simple rules to help stay safe while having fun:

- Use strong, dry cord for kite string. Don't use kites containing metal or wire parts. In addition, watch for exposed nails and pins that may injure hands and arms.

- Select a good, level, open space. Wires, poles, trees, large stones, ruts and ditches can cause injury.

- If a kite becomes lodged in a high tree, utility pole or wire, don't try to remove it. If kites or other objects are caught on Detroit Edison wires or poles, call the utility at 1-800-477-4747 with the location.

- Don't fly kites in threatening weather. If a kite is hit by lightning, its wet string will conduct the electricity to the person flying the kite.

- Use light-weight wood for kite frames.

- Be cautious of sudden wind gusts that can knock you off balance. Also, wind gusts can pull the kite cord quickly through your hand, causing burns.

- Avoid traffic areas such as streets, highways and railroad rights-of-way.

- Don't fly kites from rooftops or other elevated structures unless they are protected by enclosures high enough to prevent a fall.

Now is the time to prepare for home shopping

So you've decided to act on that New Year's resolution to start the exciting search that will end with the purchase of your dream home. Or, on the other hand, you're ready to take the plunge and seriously pursue the sale of your present home.

Whether you have chosen to buy or sell, now is the time to begin your adventure. Don't get left behind. When the season peaks in late spring, most of your work should be nearly complete.

Here is a valuable checklist to set you on the right track.

For buyers:

Before you pile into the family wagon to visit the communities in which you will concentrate your search, get pre-qualified. Find out from your local mortgage broker how much you can actually afford to spend on a new home. This eye-opening visit can take less than an hour, and it will determine your spending limit. This is important because it will protect you from falling for an object of obsession — the expensive home you "must have," but sadly cannot afford.

At the same time, start assembling your "search set" — a kit that contains a still camera or video camera, detailed street maps of your targeted communities and checklists on each listing that you visit. In today's buyer's market, better-informed and far-ranging home buyers visit an average 15 to 20 houses for sale. (Some buyers check out many more than that.) This is a big increase over the five to 10 listings that a prospective buyer sees in a "grab 'em up" seller's market. Be prepared to take detailed notes.

Glass block installation class offered at Barnes

Grosse Pointe Community Education in cooperation with Oakland Builders Institute, a leader in builders' education, will offer a three-hour, one evening workshop on Monday, May 20, from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. at Barnes school in Grosse Pointe Woods to learn how to install glass block.

The course is designed to instruct people in the techniques and materials needed to install glass blocks to replace basement windows or create beautiful new vistas and special effects in the home.

Most real estate professionals ask their clients to make three lists of home features; a "wish list" that includes the woodburning fireplace and an extra guest room; a list of "must have" features; and a third list of "deal breakers" — those totally unacceptable and objectionable characteristics that no amount of guarantees will overcome, such as a damp basement.

When you are ready to venture forth, practice the art of the "streetwise" observer. Every neighborhood and every home has its distinct, "make or break" characteristics. A quick look at a house should reveal whether the rooms are large enough and whether there is adequate light and air. A realistic overview of a neighborhood you like should show you who is out on the streets at different hours; whether well-concealed train tracks or waste treatment facilities are out of sight, but not out of mind.

Remember that only you, the buyer, are responsible for finding these detrimental aspects. Most important, rely on professional help. Although prospective buyers use various sources to search out a home, real estate brokers and sales agents are still the most important, according to a study by the National Association of Realtors.

In 1993 (the latest year that figures are available) more than eight in 10 buyers turned to agents during their home search, up 20 percent from 1991. Newspaper ads, yard signs and open houses also were viable sources, but the consensus remains clear. Only a real estate professional can deliver the level of service you need when you shop for a new home.

Many Realtors have a number of helpful, free publications that explain in detail how and why you should consult with a broker or sales associate. In addition, a home inspector will thoroughly survey a property for hidden defects. (Indeed, this is a tip for sellers, as well. Both parties to a sale should know beforehand whether serious repairs are in order.) A real estate lawyer can also be of tremendous assistance — and not only at the critical closing stage — because he or she can explain all the details involved in an ongoing negotiation.

Finally, don't become infatuated with a home you shouldn't buy. There will be others you will want just as much

For sellers:

Most real estate writers agree that buying and selling a home are essentially the same adventure. It's just two sides of the same equation.

For this reason, buyers and sellers alike can benefit from many of the same tips, such as employing the services of a home inspector. Sellers will be ahead of the game if you are certain that your property is defect-free and ready for sale. Nonetheless, there are a few cardinal rules just for sellers:

First and foremost, set a reasonable price. Even better, set a realistic price. Experts agree that "pride goeth before a fall" when a seller sets an unrealistic price. The professionals have a saying, "There's a buyer for every home and the right price will cut the competition in half." Professional relocation services get two appraisers to estimate a reasonable asking price, then take an average of the two. Very few homes sell for more than appraised value.

Clean your home and then clean it again. Nothing turns off a prospective buyer more than an unkempt home that's in a state of disarray. Other hints: Reseal the driveway, paint the exterior (or at least the entranceway and the trim), install a few elegant exterior fixtures such as a brass door knocker and lock set, a tasteful mailbox or exterior light fixture. This will improve your "curb appeal."

For the interior, pack away personal collectibles and hobby paraphernalia. Don't send a message to buyers that your home will never be theirs. Make the interior as clean and bright as possible; mirrors can help enlarge and brighten smaller rooms.

Never attempt to conceal a leaking roof, an overburdened septic system or a furnace near the end of its useful life. Undisclosed defects can destroy a closing, or worse, result in a lawsuit afterward.

Prepare a resume for your home — a one-page fact sheet with a photo that outlines your best selling points such as dimensions, tax amounts and average utility bills.

Find a listing broker with a respected firm. Check to be sure he or she has a good reputation. When you work with a real estate professional, you gain the capabilities of the multiple listing service (MLS) that places your home in front of hundreds of agents, who, in turn, represent many other prospective buyers. This is in addition to advertising services offered by the broker's firm.

Experienced agents can easily separate qualified buyers from tire kickers (and con artists). Regarding the latter, your agent will always accompany a prospective buyer through your home and will guard against wasting your valuable time with an unqualified visitor.

Finally, enjoy the process! It's challenging, and even daunting at times, but finding that perfect home is a tremendous source of satisfaction.

It's a rewarding experience that will bring you and your family enjoyment for many years to come.

Extreme color shifts are not in fashion

New colors that match the old favorites are in.

More home-based functions are sparking the color trends for 1996 and well into 1997.

Experts agree that because of more home-based functions, our focus on design has changed.

We are feathering our nests with exercise areas, home entertainment centers and home offices.

This has stimulated a "dress-down Friday" look not only in our dress but in our decorating.

We are looking for things that remind us of grandma's house — comfortable, over-stuffed chairs and livable, long-lasting fabrics in nostalgic colors and durable textures.

Virginia Ficarra

tures.

The trend is really no trend at all. It's just getting back to or adding to what we have.

Color Tips

So what do you do with all those "mauve" things?

Just accent them with fresh hues, such as berry tones and plum.

Gone are pale white and strict beige. Instead, you'll find neutrals with much stronger and warmer base tones:

- beiges with base colors such as pink and pale green.
- grayed and weathered browns, khaki and clay.
- greens with yellow and gray bases.

• denim colored blues, a weathered green-blue and an aged turquoise.

• corals in a variety of shades from a Georgia clay brick hue to a tropical coral and copper.

Meadow Brook Landscape & Garden Show June 7-9

New discoveries await adventurers who journey to the fifth annual Meadow Brook Hall Landscape & Garden Show June 7-9 with its 21 expertly landscaped gardens surrounding Meadow Brook Hall in Rochester.

"In addition to the musical water garden and some of the other classic displays showgoers look forward to, this year we have new feature gardens and the latest in garden art," said Larry Wright, chief executive officer and president of the Metropolitan Detroit Landscape Association (MDLA). "Those who take the time to stop by and smell the flowers won't be disappointed."

Featured show attractions include a spectacular water garden display with flowers provided by the Metropolitan Detroit Flower Growers Association and accompanied by music in Meadow Brook Hall's front center court; garden seminars from PBS' Victory Gardens with guest host Jim Wilson and other garden experts; a new and notable garden featuring award-winning annuals and perennial plants; a garden railroad with "G" gauge model trains complete with European scenery, bridges, tunnels, streams and people and perennial plants and a garden filled with ornate birdhouses.

The Children's Garden which surrounds Knole cottage, the three-quarter scale playhouse of Frances Dodge, will be the location for face painting and children's garden craft activities.

A miniature maze garden and butterfly shaped flower garden will complete the display. The path leading to Knole cottage will be the site for the "Wildlife Walk" with live mounts of native Michigan animals.

In addition, a full-size maze garden will be created near Meadow Brook Hall using 380 five-foot evergreens to form a network of paths and passages for children. The evergreens will be for sale after the show.

Marshall Fredericks sculptures will be on display along with pieces from Pewabic Pottery's collection of garden art, which includes bird baths, vases and tiles.

Several plant societies, including the Rose and Herb Society, will sell books and plants and answer garden questions for visitors. Trees on the grounds will also be identified according to species.

The Garden Marketplace will feature dozens of exhibitors who will display the latest in statuary, fountains, garden services, lighting, planters, tools, lawn furniture, wind chimes, bird feeders, books and an array of other products for the landscape and garden lover.

Plant sales will be held throughout the show, which is co-sponsored by the MDLA and Meadow Brook Hall, a self-supporting cultural institution of Oakland University.

Meadow Brook Hall, the former home of Matilda Dodge Wilson, is listed in both the Michigan and National Registry of Historic Places.

Meadow Brook Hall is located near I-75 and Exit 79 (University Drive) and its entrance is south of University Drive on Adams Road.

Admission is $7 a person at the gate; $3 for children 6 to 12; and free for children under 6.

Show hours are Friday and Saturday 10 a.m. - 8 p.m. and Sunday 10 a.m. - 6 p.m. Free parking is provided.

For more information, call (810) 646-4992.

Apartment Association meets

The Property Management Council of the Apartment Association of Michigan will host a communication seminar on Tuesday, May 21.

Barbara Davis, director of training and development at The Fourmidable Group in Farmington Hills and author of the "Win/Win" communications course, will present effective communication techniques. The seminar will be held from 8 a.m. to noon at the Northfield Hilton, 5500 Crooks Road, in Troy. Registration fees, including continental breakfast, are $39 for PMC members and $49 for AAM members and BIASM members and $59 for non-members.

Some tips on growing award-winning vegetables

Home&Garden Features

Everyone loves a ripe juicy vegetable, especially one grown in your own back yard. Does the prospect of cultivating a bounty of tomatoes, cucumbers, green peppers and carrots sound scary? Time-consuming? Not worth the effort? Well, think again.

Gone are the days when a gardener had to spend hours and hours toiling in the garden in order to grow a couple of less than impressive vegetables. Now, thanks to the introduction of several cost-effective, time-efficient and chemical-free solutions, anyone can create a salad-worthy vegetable garden that's easy to start and maintain, and that will reap a bountiful harvest.

According to the experts at Easy Gardener, a manufacturer of numerous vegetable gardening products, step one on the road to great vegetables is choosing the vegetables you wish to grow. Lettuce, carrots, peas and potatoes do best in slightly cooler weather, while cucumbers, squash, and eggplant thrive in warmer weather. Corn and peppers crave hotter temperatures.

The next step is to choose and prepare a planting site. Bear in mind that all vegetables grow best in soil that's drained well, airy and filled with nutrients. This is because the plants' roots are able to spread down deep into the soil, thereby securing them firmly in the ground and allowing them to soak up as much moisture as needed.

Bad soil will lead to a bad harvest, so be certain to amend soil, especially compacted or dry soil, with compost to supply nutrients. Also, try adding a balanced fertilizer to keep plants well fed.

If you intend to grow plants that climb, such as cucumbers, tomatoes and peppers, try installing a plant support such as the Easy Trellis. A sturdy, reusable 70-inch-high netting for vegetables, fruits and flowers, the Easy Trellis can be secured to wooden or metal posts positioned about six feet apart, with plants tied onto the netting with Trellis Ties. As a plant reaches higher, more Trellis Ties can be used to allow the plant to grow unimpeded.

Now that the bed has been properly prepared, the hour has come to plant seeds or place seedlings into the ground. Should you be planting seedlings, set the roots deep into the soil, according to the directions on the plant's container. Handle seeds carefully, as they often suffer transplant shock. If starting from seed, read the packet directions for information on planting depth and the spacing of seeds.

Nothing can thwart the potential growth of vegetable plants quite like weeds in the garden bed. Why? Weeds battle with plant roots for moisture, and it's a battle weeds usually win. The key is not to pull weeds out once they pop up, but to prevent them from popping up in the first place. Some people use sheets of black plastic laid atop the soil to deter weeds. However, plastic does not let air or water reach the soil, and it can lead to soured soil which will kill the vegetable plants. One new product, BioBlock, is an environmentally friendly and easy way to control weed growth. Made from 100 percent recycled fibers and available in easy to use rolls, BioBlock is designed to block weeds and then biodegrade. Thus, it never has to be removed. Further, thousands of tiny "MicroChannels" permit water and air to pass through the thick paper-like material to the plants' roots.

To use BioBlock, just lay overlapping strips of the material over the prepared planting site, then cover the edges with soil. Next, use a knife or scissors to cut holes or X's in the appropriate spots and place plants through the opening, right into the soil. At the end of the growing season, by which time the BioBlock will have done its job and begun to biodegrade, simply till it into the soil.

Even after a garden bed has been aerated and fertilized, and plants staked and protected from weeds, plants can still use a little help — the kind of help that will result in an increased vegetable yield. Floating row covers, sheets of clear plastic laid over seedlings, are just the kind of help plants can use.

A product such as Fast Start, for instance, serves as a physical deterrent to insects and animals and, more importantly, creates a "greenhouse effect" that keeps plants warm and moist. While a row cover should not be used at peak sun hours or in extreme heat, it's perfect come fall, when temperatures drop and frost threatens a second or third harvest.

A little knowledge can go a long way toward making gardening an enjoyable, time-efficient and a delicious experience.

TWO HOUSES - ONE PRICE!

Plagued by a damp and musty basement? Why?

Basement water can be a problem; it softens mortar joints, peels paint, promotes mold growth and chases everyone except the ghosts out of the basement.

Ground water accumulates around the house and tries to infiltrate the basement walls. Gravity is on the water's side and it has all the time in the world to find a tiny little crack to seep into.

However, most older homes and all of the newer ones have an underground drain tile system built around the basement floor.

This prevents water accumulation, hence basement leaks for at least the first 35 years of a normal horse.

During and after a rain, water accumulating around the house seeps down the basement wall past some stone and tar paper into loosely fitting crocks of pipe. These pipes are connected to the household sewer system.

Every 100 gallons of water flowing down carries a pound of dirt with it until the crocks fill up. How old is yours anyway? How can we fix it?

If our house is taking on water and the drain tiles are no longer working, let's not let the water get in there.

First check the gutters for leaks and make sure all your downspouts are discharging at least five feet from the house.

Make sure that water is not coming back toward the house. Most, but not all, of our surrounding city's require removal of downspouts from crocks into basement drains and extending them into the yard.

Now to assist those gutters, get some dirt, maybe with a little clay, and spread it around the house to raise the grade so water will be deflected away from the house into the yard. My desired pitch is to have six inches of rise in six feet from the house.

Do not use stone or sand because water draws them right back to the house.

That's not to say once a nice grade is made, it can't be covered with stone or anything else. Just give me that pitch first.

A metal window well will allow you to fill the dirt higher than your basement windows.

Quit bellyaching and order three yards of dirt, if you are low, it's the cheapest way to dry up a basement. However, one house I fixed up took 11 yards! Still cheaper than $50 a foot to have it water-winter.

The more water that gets in the soil below the concrete, the more the winter frost will heave or lift it during the winter, up to two inches.

So let's waterproof on the outside and keep the rain away. And don't forget to touch up with tar or cement caulk this fall.

Send any questions to Mr. Hardware, c/o Gilbert's Hardware, 21920 Harper, St. Clair Shores, Mich. 48080 proofed, and I got new flower beds at the same time.

Is there a concrete driveway, cement patio, some unmovable thing that is funneling toward the house? Are we bumming? Could be. Grab a level and check to see if it is sloping away from the house or not. It's not? Start investigating ways to get that water away from the house,

If you can't afford to "mudjack" the cement slab (approximately done for $100 per slab), rebuild the patio or install a new driveway, the cheapest solution I know is to fill the crack where the cement meets the house with that expandable foam. That stuff is great. It will prevent water from entering our basement all summer long, and be flexible when the winter frosts lift the cement in the

Smart ways to save for your new home

Chances are, if you're looking to buy a house, you have a mental image of the type of home you want. But do you have a clear picture of how you plan to pay for it?

Failing to devise and follow a smart savings strategy is one of the biggest impediments to home ownership. The Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants (MACPA) says that people who want to buy a home need to take a long, hard look at their financial situation, determine what they can realistically afford, and then develop and stick to a savings plan to accumulate the necessary down payment and closing costs.

If you're like most prospective home buyers, you'll need one to five years to save enough money. However, you'll want to do more than keep your money in a typical passbook savings account.

Here are some investment strategies that CPAs suggest:

Treasury notes

One of the safest investments, "treasuries" are government-insured securities which offer a yield that is usually 2 to 3 percent higher than that of passbook savings accounts.

Since these notes have one- to 10-year maturities, you can synchronize the maturity of the note with your plans to purchase a home. The notes are usually available in minimum denominations of $5,000, but some can be purchased in $1,000 units.

Municipal bonds and funds

Municipal bonds offer income that is free from federal income tax and, sometimes, state income tax as well. Depending on how long you plan to save for your down payment, consider short- or intermediate-term funds. Participating in a fund, as opposed to buying individual bonds on your own, offers instant diversification and access to a professional money manager who may be able to guide you toward high returns.

Although there is slightly higher risk with intermediate-term bond funds, if you can afford to wait until the maturity date before withdrawing your money, these funds are likely to offer you a better return on your investment. Keep in mind that the longer the average maturity of bonds owned by a fund, the more the share price will drop if market interest rates go up.

Bank Certificates of Deposit (CDs)

Although lower interest rates in recent years have made CDs less attractive for long-term investors, they still are a smart investment choice for individuals who have short-term savings goals. The key is to look for the highest-yielding CD possible. Of course, the longer you are willing to keep your money in a CD, the higher the return on your investment. These are among the safest investments because most CDs are insured for up to $100,000 by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation or the National Credit Union Administration.

Money market mutual funds

Don't confuse money market mutual funds with bank money market accounts. The latter offer a comparatively small return on your investment. Money market mutual funds reflect higher short-term interest rates more rapidly than bank CDs — which means if rates go up, you're more likely to reap the benefit. They're a good place to put your cash if you're just a year or two away from purchasing that new home. However, if you have more time to save, switch to higher-yielding investments.

Stocks

Investing in stocks offers the potential for the greatest return of all, but it also carries the greatest risk. Although CPAs recommend that you allocate a portion of your savings to long-term growth stocks, you may want to limit how much you invest in the stock market until you get the down payment for your home. Keep in mind, however, that the younger you are, the more you should "power" your portfolio with stocks. You may find yourself more financially secure 10, 20 or even 30 years from now.

Finally, CPAs recommend that you stagger the maturities of your investments. Doing so gives you the flexibility to shift investments into vehicles offering higher yields. It also frees up cash for a down payment in the event you find your dream house and meet your savings goal sooner than you anticipated.

New back yard cooking — No grill is required

By Dr. Ellen Henke

Thanks to my father, who was a professional gardener, I've always been avid about flower and vegetable gardening.

Outdoors, I've enjoyed combining them to create beautiful, edible landscapes, while indoors I've experimented with many culinary concoctions and decorative arrangements.

From the start, my father encouraged an organic approach, insisting that I return to the soil at least as much as I took from it to produce my stunning flowers and plump juicy vegetables. Creating enriched earth through compost is an easy way to do just that.

Building a compost pile can be fairly simple. First, find a place for your compost. Then drive four 5-foot wood or metal stakes one foot into the ground. Fence in the sides with chicken wire — leaving one side open for easy access. If you'd rather, you can purchase a prefabricated compost unit.

Your compost pile should be at least 3 feet in diameter and 4 feet high in order to build a hot internal temperature that gets it "cooking." Fill the composter with chopped leaves, grass clippings, straw and other disease-free vegetable matter. Never use meat or bone — they attract flies and create odors.

Also avoid adding diseased plants and lawn clippings that have recently been treated with herbicides or weedkillers. Wait at least four mowings after the lawn's been treated before composting grass clippings.

Build your compost pile in five- to 10-inch layers for best results. Sprinkle a 10-10-10 fertilizer — that's 10 parts each of nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium — on top of each layer, and add a dusting of lime to prevent odor. Cover each layer with soil.

In order to keep "cooking," your compost must remain moist, so leave a depression in the top of the pile to catch rain. During dry spells, water your compost. And turn your compost regularly so that the drier outside portion is folded inside where the internal heat and microbial action can break it down.

Composting is really quite simple, and the reward makes all the work worthwhile. By composting, I convert my yard waste to highly enriched soil. This is my "gardener's gold" which helps to promote an abundance of beautiful blooms and tasty vegetables.
