

Saratoga becomes affiliate of St. John Health System

Officials at St. John Health System (SJHS) and Saratoga Community Hospital in Detroit have signed an affiliation agreement in which Saratoga and its subsidiaries have become a wholly owned subsidiary of St. John Health System.

St. John Health System, the parent organization, will be represented on the Saratoga board of trustees, and Saratoga will be represented on the board of trustees of St. John Health System.

"As a rapidly expanding community-driven health system, we are pleased to gain another community-based partner to help us continue our vision of improving the health of those we serve," said Anthony R. Tersigni, president and chief executive officer of St. John Health System. "Saratoga has gained the trust of the northeast Detroit community for over 60 years. We continue to strive to be a catalyst for health care reform and feel this affiliation will help us strengthen the health resources for the people in northeast Detroit by enhancing services and reducing costs, which we expect will translate into a healthier community."

As an active member of a strong, local, integrated health system Saratoga will have resources and support that were unavailable to us in the past," says Michael F. Breen, president and chief executive officer of Saratoga. "This partnership enhances our ability to meet the future health needs of our community and enables us to offer services that were difficult to provide as an independent, acute-care hospital."

Saratoga Community Hospital, founded in 1934, is located near Eight Mile and Gratiot. Saratoga has 900 employees and 198 licensed beds, 18 of which are designated for physical rehabilitation. Saratoga provides 24-hour emergency care, ambulatory and inpatient surgical services, a full range of laboratory, diagnostic, cardiology and imaging services. The hospital has focused on senior care, with more than 11,000 enrollees in an ElderMed membership program and a dedicated senior care unit.

WE'RE CONCERNED ABOUT YESTERDAY'S NEWS.

News can appear one day and be gone the next. But the paper news is printed on an and should live on. Last year, more than one third of all U.S. newsprint was recycled. And that number is growing every day. Recycling is the one way we can all give something back.

Vane-ity

A new copper weather vane, crafted by Richard Novak, of the Farms, was installed recently atop the high school's lofty tower. The downsized replica of the original 1925 vane that blew down in a storm 10 years ago, and then was lost, was donated by the graduating class of '96.

Park to be sued over June basement floods

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

It's official, declared attorney Phillip G. Bozzo, of Hadden, Bozzo and Ball. A number of Grosse Pointe Park residents will be suing the city in an effort to collect reparations for damages suffered in basement flooding last June 18.

"My firm is preparing a complaint against the city of Grosse Pointe Park right now," said Bozzo. "I expect that this complaint will be filed in Wayne County circuit court within the next week."

Bozzo said under the doctrine of trespass nuisance, Park residents are entitled to compensation if he proves three elements. First he must prove that some sort of nuisance, in this case raw sewage, trespassed onto his clients' property.

Bozzo must also prove the trespass came from government property to his clients' property. And most importantly, he must prove that the government in question, failed to control the trespass.

"I don't believe there's any question that there was a trespass," said Bozzo. "I also don't think there's any doubt that the trespass came from city property, in this case city sewer lines. We are still investigating the incident. I have some civil lawsuits reviewing evidence, and I am talking with an expert who claims to have inside knowledge of Grosse Pointe Park."

Bozzo declined to name the expert, saying it was confidential as well, but once the suit was filed, it would become a matter of public record.

When asked why Bozzo was using experts he's used in the past, instead of seeking out a different engineering firm to review data, he said that it's difficult to get local engineering firms to testify against municipalities for fear of losing future business.

"It is our contention that the city of Grosse Pointe Park failed to operate their sewer system properly, including failing to activate the discharge pumps in a timely fashion and

G.P. schools won't count $6 million chicken prematurely

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

Although Grosse Pointe schools could get a $6.4 million slice of an estimated $500 million pie served up by the state, administrators said they won't believe it until they see it on their plate.

The $6 million is part of what the Michigan Supreme Court has ruled is Grosse Pointe schools' share of what the state owes 84 school district plaintiffs in a 16-year-old lawsuit.

Initiated by the Fitzgerald school district in Macomb County in 1980, the lawsuit now is a consolidation of some 30 separate pieces of litigation involving districts across the state.

The plaintiffs charge that the state education department violated the Headlee Amendment of the state Constitution (see related story) and alleges that the state did not make the appropriate aid payments to government-managed programs such as special education transportation, driver's training and school lunch programs.

In the latest development in the case, the supreme court on Sept. 27 decided in favor of the plaintiff districts and let stand a court of appeals ruling from September 1995 that said the state owes the school districts for money they spent to keep mandated programs running. The judgment, including interest through Oct. 1, 1996, is $532,789,073.

"We've been following this lawsuit and our concern has always been, if the supreme court ruled in our favor, which we thought they would, that's fine. But, how would they pay for it?" asked Chris Fenton, Grosse Pointe schools' assistant superintendent for business. "Where will it come from? Say we do garner $6.4 million, my guess is the state will reduce it or take it out of something else. I don't know how the budgeting process takes place in Lansing between all the different funds. But, if the state doesn't have the money to pay, they'll give us some portion, but that could then reduce some of our per-pupil compensation. We're not going to count that chicken until it's hatched."

The state attorney general's office, which is defending the case for the state department of education, has until Friday, Oct. 18, to apply to the supreme court one last time to hear the case.

"We are looking at filing for reconsideration with the supreme court," said Chris DeWitte, director of communication at the attorney general's office. "If we are denied again, then it will be a matter of looking at paying the money. How will the state do that? I do not have an answer to that. That would be handled by the governor's office and the Legislature."

The state's highest court denied reviewing the case, DeWitte said, because "it was not persuaded that the questions presented should be

Emily Goodell, 12, of Grosse Pointe Farms, tends to the Grace Adams Harrison Garden for Children at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, as part of a program offered by the Grosse Pointe Garden Center that teaches children about cultivating flowers and vegetables. The program meets every third Saturday of the month throughout the year (the next meeting is Oct. 12) and provides an opportunity for children to learn, "through osmosis", how to plant and cultivate and harvest a garden.

Woods prepares road jobs

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

The Grosse Pointe Woods City Council voted Monday night to expand road repairs in the city, which is good news for residents of Hampton Road.

In a memorandum to the council, Woods director of public works Thomas Whitcher said that Hampton Road is in need of repairs and was originally scheduled to be placed on the city's 1996-97 road maintenance list. But efforts were made to work with the asphalt company repairing Hampton in Grosse Pointe Shores in an effort to keep costs down.

A review of costs presented by the Shores contractor indicated, Whitcher wrote, that the Woods' contractor, Cadillac Asphalt, could repair Hampton from Morningside to the city limits at a lower cost.

So Whitcher requested that the council approve spending $22,651 to resurface Hampton, and an additional $6,000 to cover engineering and inspection costs.

The contract calls for milling the asphalt for butt joins so that the joints can be resealed and resurfaced. This, said Whitcher, keeps moisture out of the joints. Moisture getting in the joints and freezing during the winter causes potholes to form.

Councilman Thomas Fahrner asked Whitcher why Hampton was only being resurfaced with asphalt, instead of being redone with a concrete base.

Whitcher said that the city expects within the next 10 years to repair and replace the Hampton Road sewer lines. This will necessitate digging up the street, he said, so it doesn't make fiscal sense to put in a state-of-the-art road, when it will only have to be dug up in the next few years.

Whitcher told the council that there are sufficient funds in the city's asphalt resurfacing account to cover the work. The council unanimously approved the contract to resurface Hampton. The work is expected to be completed before cold weather shuts down the road resurfacing program for the winter.

Absentee ballots being readied

Grosse Pointers who wish to vote by absentee ballot can expect to receive their ballots in the mail within the next week.

The City of Grosse Pointe received its absentee ballots from Wayne County on Monday, Oct. 6, and expects to have them sent out by Friday, Oct. 11. Grosse Pointe Woods also expects to send out its absentee ballots by Friday.

Grosse Pointe Park received its ballots on Tuesday, Oct. 8, and should have its ballots sent out by Saturday, Oct. 11. Grosse Pointe Shores has ordered its ballots from the county, and will send them out to residents as soon as they arrive.

Grosse Pointe Farms expects to receive its ballots on Monday, Oct. 14, and will send them out as soon as possible.

Voters interested in receiving an absentee ballot must fill out an application. The ballot application may be requested by mail.

Voters can also visit their local city hall and pick up a ballot by Friday, Nov. 1. After that date, applications for absentee ballots will no longer be accepted.

G.P. teachers, school board still talking

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

It has been more than a month since the Grosse Pointe teachers' employment contract expired.

While both sides continue to meet and work toward an agreement, Rosalie Bryk, president of the Grosse Pointe Education Association, said she's not as optimistic as she was before Labor Day.

"We are disheartened," Bryk said earlier in the week. "There is still communication but the outlook is not as optimistic as it was in the summer."

Bryk said the bargaining team representing the district's 510 teachers received a financial proposal last week from the school board's team and that they are "in the process of analyzing it." The proposal is the same position the school board has maintained throughout negotiations, she said, "but now we have it all in writing."

Neither the union nor the school district are at liberty to divulge the details of the negotiations or the specifics of the financial proposal.

The teachers' two-year contract, which featured a 2 percent pay increase for each year of the agreement, expired on Aug. 31. Since then, both sides have said the biggest issue preventing them from reaching agreement is cost containment — wages and benefits.

The GPEA team consists of Sherryl Benton, vice president of negotiations, a teacher at Ferry; Wayne Bolden, teacher at Mason school; Ranae Ikerd, vice president, professional rights and responsibilities, teacher at South high; Mike LaBuhn, of the Armada school district, serving as Michigan Education Association, National Education Association Local One bargaining agent; and Tom Whall, president, MEA-NEA, Local One.

The school board's team consists of Gene Washchuk, director of personnel; Leo Warras, principal, Pierce Middle School; Suzanne Klein, interim superintendent; and Chris Fenton, assistant superintendent for business. The school board's subcommittee on negotiations is board president Tim Howlett and trustees John Mills and Steve Matthews.

School district administrators could not be reached for comment at press time.

City of Grosse Pointe resident has the straight dope on women in politics

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

Pensacola, Fla., native Mary Herring, an associate political science professor at Wayne State University, has found living in metro Detroit to be very educational.

"I've always been interested in the role of race in politics," said Herring. "And Detroit is a good place to be if you want to study that subject."

But how Herring got to Detroit from Florida is, as she puts it, an interesting story.

"I was born in Pensacola and received my Ph.D. from the University of Georgia," Herring said. "I was teaching at the University of South Carolina, and went to a job fair for academics where people like me try to get jobs with universities. It's an undignified process. They put up numbered job notices on boards, and potential candidates place their credentials in slots that have a number that matches the one on the notice."

"Then you sit around and hope and wait for someone to call you to schedule an interview for the position. I saw a job notice that was in my field and placed my credentials in what I thought was the right slot. What I didn't know was that the thumbtack holding the job position card to the bulletin board obscured one of the numbers and as a result my resume went to the wrong university — Wayne State."

But it worked out for the best. Instead of going to Slippery Rock College in Pennsylvania, Herring found herself teaching at Wayne State.

"Wayne State needed a teacher," said Herring. "They had an opening in a field of political science that wasn't my speciality, but they needed a teacher, not a researcher. So after a long interview process, I got the job. That was in 1988."

Herring wasn't always interested in politics. She received her undergraduate degree in social work from the

University of West Florida in Pensacola.

Herring performed some community service work in the local housing projects, working with residents. She helped organize them to protest conditions in the face of what she referred to as an apathetic housing board.

said. "That was a part-time job, but as a result I decided to pursue a degree in political science."

Herring met her husband Tim Bledsoe while teaching in South Carolina. He came up to Michigan in 1989, and they moved to Grosse Pointe in 1990.

When city of Grosse Pointe resident and Wayne State University professor Mary Herring isn't at school, she can usually be found at home with her daughter Daisy.

Residents were so successful that the old housing board resigned, and a new, more professional board was appointed. "I decided that work was more political in nature than social work in nature," Herring

"Being from Florida, I never heard of Grosse Pointe," said Herring. "We moved to the City in 1990 from Southfield after comparing school test scores of various area communities. Grosse Pointe scores were among the top three or four school districts, but what sold us was the sense of community."

"People seemed to be willing to talk to us, even though we were just looking for a house. We liked the sidewalks and the trees, the municipal park and the schools, so we moved to Grosse Pointe."

Herring has a grown son, Patrick from her first marriage, and a 5-year-old daughter, Daisy.

"When I'm not at Wayne State, I do the usual mom stuff, which includes taking my daughter to ballet class at the War Memorial," Herring said. "I've also taken up gardening. I love working in the outdoors. I used to hate gardening, but I guess once you turn 40, everything changes."

Her husband loves sailing and recently purchased a 23-foot sailboat named the Kamishak Princess. Her brother-in-law owns a halibut fishing boat in Alaska named the Kamishak Queen.

While Herring is still a teacher, she has also done a lot of research on women and politics.

"Research shows that there isn't a gender gap, there's a gender chasm," said Herring. "It was first noticed in 1980, when more men than women supported Ronald Reagan. Every election since then the gap has widened to the point that Clinton is 20 points ahead of Dole, when it comes to women. More men support Dole, but women, on the whole, vote in greater numbers than men, so this gap can't be ignored."

Herring's research also indicates that women, when they run for office, win as often as men do.

"The difference between men and women is that men will run for office out of ambition, so they run no matter what," said Herring. "When women run, they tend to run when they think they can win. They also delay running for office because of children. Women, on the whole, tend to play it safer. They run less often than men, but when they run they are just as successful."

One of the things that Herring finds so interesting about politics is how a person's values affect his or her political beliefs.

"Politics is about values," said Herring. "There's no 'objective' political truth. People's values color their political beliefs, and that's the way it's supposed to be. That's why I love teaching. My students and I learn a lot from each other."

Herring is also active in her church, Christ Church, Grosse Pointe. She was chairperson of the adult forum program, which brings in speakers to talk about a variety of spiritual issues. She also taught Sunday school.

As for the Michigan weather, when Herring first came to Detroit and started experiencing cold weather for the first time, she was told that it's not so bad, and that it's colder in Chicago.

"We visited Disney World last spring, and it was in the 90s," said Herring. "We couldn't believe how hot it was. I guess we became acclimated to Michigan. I keep thinking I should take up cross country skiing so that I'll have an outdoor activity to do in the winter."

Dole could widen appeal to families

In the less than 30 days left in the 1996 presidential race, GOP nominee Bob Dole still hopes to close the gap between his support and that for President Clinton so that he can win in a close finish.

But as the polls indicated after the first presidential debate Monday, Dole still trails Clinton 50 percent to 30 percent on the basis of who people thought had won that debate.

We thought Dole did improve his appeal in the debate by permitting his humor to pop through his rather stern appearance. Admittedly, however, he was on the offensive and sought to cast doubt on many of Clinton's claims.

Even in Michigan, Dole's prospects are not bright, except in the Republican Pointes which once again are poised to endorse the GOP nominee.

Evaluations made by the Grosse Pointe

News, even though we do not know of any public opinion polls here, indicate that the GOP nominee still will win here and in other strong GOP areas of the state.

It is generally believed that the GOP nominee will sweep all five Pointes, although his margin of victory probably will be largest in the Shores and the Farms but lowest in the Park and the Woods.

But why is it that the GOP can win in the Pointes but not take all of Michigan, since this is now a GOP-ruled state under our second-term GOP governor, John Engler?

One reason is that GOP state rule has tended to benefit the upscale residents of the Pointes more than it has the masses of people in the state.

Secondly, GOP efforts to reform education have not been too popular, even in the Pointes and other GOP areas. And many Republicans are appalled at the governor's attacks on the Michigan Education Association, the teachers' union.

Albert Shanker, president of the American Federation of Teachers, recently wrote in his paid column in the New York Times that Bob Dole ought to read "Making Standards Matter 1996," the AFT review of academic standards in the 50 states.

The review found that the overwhelming majority of states believe that "school reform must begin with higher academic standards." The trouble is that the standards the states have proposed are not clear and specific enough, and states seldom insist on consequences for failing to meet the standards.

There is another reason state standards need to be more content-specific and clearer. Americans are a mobile people. Kids and their parents keep moving around among different school districts.

In fact, one study found one in every five students switches districts each year and the rates are much higher in the inner city than in upper-income districts like Grosse Pointes.

Even here, however, we have frequent changes, as the Grosse Pointe News noted pointing to recent annual increases in student enrollment in the Pointes.

At any rate, teachers ought to know at the beginning of each school year, wherever their students have come from, that they have studied the same material. Vague state standards will not do the job.

In concluding his column, Shanker wrote that if Bob Dole were smart, he would stop blaming teachers for problems in the schools and join him (Shanker) in the fight to raise standards.

Such an appeal would broaden Dole's approach to the problems of the schools and make him a more attractive candidate to many more American parents.

Slicker than a used-car salesman

Guest editorial by Marian Clarke

With less than four weeks to go before the November elections, the polls continue to give Bill Clinton a commanding lead over Bob Dole in the presidential race.

Never mind the shadows that Whitewater and Travelgate and Filegate and the like cast on Clinton's character. Never mind that Clinton promised the middle class a tax cut which he failed to deliver. Never mind that he didn't even seem genuinely inclined "to end welfare as we know it" until the Republican Congress, with widespread public support, passed a bill that does.

And never mind that Clinton's campaign speeches basically focus on soft issues such as education and the environment and ignore unpleasant realities, namely the need to trim the growth of Medicare now and adjust entitlements such as Social Security before the end of the century.

That's a little like dwelling on a couple of frayed tires when your car's entire transmission system is about to conk out. But it doesn't seem to matter much to most folks.

Maybe worrying about what Clinton does — or doesn't — say is irrelevant anyway. As Newsweek so aptly put it, "His blab is not his bond." Never has been.

Besides, the economy is healthy. And, while there may be a few clouds on the foreign affairs front, there's no real trouble there yet. Taken together, that's apparently enough to satisfy this year's voters.

The American people are plainly posed to give Clinton another four years in the White House. Still, we can't help but wonder if anyone would buy a used car from this man.

Civil disobedience

America has a long history of civil disobedience, much of it admired in history books.

Recently, we experienced our own, modern brand of civil disobedience when some 70 Grosse Pointe South students on the afternoon of Sept. 21 poured out onto Fisher Road to protest the school district's new attendance policy.

In the melee, a teacher was injured and required medical attention and another who ventured to intervene feared for his safety. Two students were arrested and 39 were suspended.

The particular criticism leveled by the protesters was the new attendance policy's requirement that after the 10th absence a student would not get credit for the class(es) affected. Another complaint was that students attending a funeral would need to bring back death certificates of the deceased in order to get an excused absence. The latter and other complaints were found groundless.

While we do not find the new policy excessive, that is not the point of this editorial.

Rather, we ask ourselves, "What is acceptable civil disobedience?" Clearly, a protest that endangers property or health is unacceptable.

As we understand it — based on our own investigation and on a fine reporting job in the South High School student newspaper, The Tower — the protest was first initiated earlier in the morning by 15 to 20 students. When school administrators questioned the students and promised no repercussions should the protesters return to class, an agreement was made to discuss the attendance policy after school.

So far, so good. A potentially nasty situation was avoided and replaced with responsible mediation. However, another band of students apparently took advantage of the situation and instigated a less peaceful demonstration later on that day.

A handbill distributed by the ringleaders read, "Do you want your rights????????? Join your peers at 1 p.m. for a walk-out against the NEW Attendance (sic) Policy. Make a Difference!"

At or after 1 p.m., the student renegades and followers surged through South's Halls, banging on doors, gathering less-reflective followers and taking the brouhaha out onto Fisher Road. One teacher, as noted earlier, was injured in this stage of the protest.

Police had to be called before order could be restored, and one of the two students arrested was found to be carrying drug paraphernalia, shedding doubt on the character of the opportunistic protest leaders.

We don't fault the original protesters in practicing their rights to voice objections to what they perceived as an onerous attendance policy. But we do question the motives of the troublemakers who looked to take advantage of the situation.

And that brings to light the biggest danger in any act of civil disobedience: Where will it end? What starts as a noble effort by some may be usurped by others for less-desirable ends.

Fortunately, in this case, no great harm was done — though we do share our concern for the injured teacher — and the matter was handled later with diplomacy. The students may not get their wish, but they will get the respect of a hearing.

With all the problems in the world — Bosnia, Saddam Hussein and lack of food and medicine — some may feel the students' grievances unimportant. But as citizens, they have a right to air their beliefs.

While we acknowledge the original students' "civil protest," we nevertheless find fault with the opportunists who took over the effort for their own questionable motives.

Letters

Thank you

To the Editor:
We are pleased to be writing to thank the seniors at Grosse Pointe South High School for allowing us to be a part of their homecoming festivities.

We were asked to house the Friday night float building party, which under normal circumstances would not be a problem, but because of the rain, many of the activities were moved indoors.

The courteous and respectful behavior of all of the students was greatly appreciated and made us very proud to be part of the party. Thank you again for including us and best of luck in the future.

The whiners

To the Editor:
I read with dismay the continued, pathetic whining from members of a self-serving minority. Enough is enough. I continue to be amazed at the turmoil created in the community by a small group of self-centered homeowners surrounding Grosse Pointe North High School.

The fact is all noise was finished at the football game shortly after 9 p.m. If noise up to that time in the evening causes significant disruption to sleep, then maybe they should be in a "community" with no neighbors within several miles.

I question how many of the disrupted neighbors bought their houses after North was built and were willing to put up with the fact of having a school for a neighbor because they were able to get their homes for a lesser price than comparable homes not in close proximity to a school? Now they want to have their cake and eat it too!

As far as complaining about the school system and city paying to defend themselves in a groundless suit, shame on those continuing to pursue it even though the majority of the voters voiced their support for the lights by electing pro-lights school board candidates and pro-lights council candidates.

I for one am proud that the city and school system stood tall for the children of Grosse Pointe, and I will be in line to donate to any fund established to help pay legal bills to defend and appeal, if necessary, any lawsuits raised by this small band of scrooges.

Stolen skates

To the Editor:
A recent incident has occurred during school hours which I feel needs to be addressed to all parents of students attending Brownell Middle School. My son had his brand new Rollerblades stolen from his locker while classes were in session.

When he realized what had happened, he immediately went to the office to report the theft and to notify his parents. When we went to pick up our son, we were told to come back in the morning and speak to the principal if the Rollerblades were not found before then.

As the parent of this child, I am angry at the person(s) who stole the transportation my son used to get to school everyday. Even though the staff at Brownell were sympathetic with my son's feelings, I feel that they could have worked more with us to try to resolve this problem.

Please talk with your children about being responsible with their personal property at school and that items can very easily be stolen while they are locked. I know the chances are slim that my son will have his Rollerblades returned to him, but I do hope that by writing this letter a very important issue and unfortunately an all too familiar fact of life is addressed to this community that theft can happen anywhere.

Cover-up in vogue?

To the Editor:
With almost four years of Bill Clinton in the White House, cover-up is now on the menu for daily activity concerning constituents. The dispute between Mr. Miller and another teacher where $20,000 on an outside mediation consultant was, in my opinion, wasted.

This was all blessed by former superintendent Ed Shine and smoke-and-mirrored from us by the president of the school board, making me believe this whole thing reeks of a cover-up and smells of wrongdoing.

Mr. Miller is a well-respected teacher, and having had five of my children and an exchange student graduate from Grosse Pointe South, to this I will attest.

It behooves the newspaper to seriously investigate this matter. Vogue in the Clinton administration has never been in vogue in Grosse Pointe, and I hope our standards have not fallen to that level.

Scofflaws: Pedals to the metal

Tightening the chin strap on my crash helmet I wait for the light at Vernier to change. As I adjust my safety belts and zip up my flame-retardant driving costume, I check the rear view mirror. Hmm, a young woman in a Mustang eating a bowl of cereal is directly behind me. To my left an older guy in a mammoth Cadillac revs his engine nervously. The light turns green. This could get ugly.

Eastiders contemplating a visit to Dr. Kevorkian should consider an alternative method of assisted suicide: attempting to drive the speed limit on Lakeshore during the morning rush hour. It's closer to home — you don't have to deal with Geoffrey Fieger, and you can meet your maker in your own car, not one of Dr. Death's rusty clunkers.

Every weekday morning, Lakeshore travelers who dare drive the posted speed limit — or even five miles over — risk a trip to that big construction zone in the sky. Obeying the law is asking to be rear-ended by a makeup-applying woman or being run off the road by a four-wheeling dude with an MTV attitude and a backward-facing cap. The Lexus and Lincoln crowd are equally menacing as they smoke, sip cinnamon hazelnut cafe mocha, bark orders into a cell phone and steer with ... what ... their knees?

Drive 35 and some out-of-control minivan mother, rushing to get the kiddies to school, just might pull up next to you at Moross, drag you from your car, and beat you to a pulp for having the audacity to get in her way.

Southeastern Michigan motorists are quite selective about which traffic laws they obey. They consider turn signals nothing more than annoying little levers to be ignored and the practice of switching lanes every 40 seconds to be a duty, not an option. Their greatest satisfaction is to tailgate so close you can look in the rearview mirror and count the fillings in their teeth. Red lights and stop signs are frequently considered nothing more than meaningless decorative curiosities.

The posted speed limits on the freeways are just busy work — arbitrary numbers stenciled on metal rectangles by overpaid county employees.

The highway department could replace these signs with pictures of fish and they would be as effective at controlling motorists' behavior.

Some mornings, especially Mondays, it seems like everyone on Lakeshore is fleeing the scene of a crime, with the authorities in hot pursuit. One can almost hear bluegrass banjo playing as so many upscale Bonnie and Clydes speed from Vernier to Moross, hopefully to Fisher Road and beyond, without stopping or slowing down. It would take a battalion of police with bazookas and barricades to bust 'em.

If the Hollywood geniuses ever decide to remake "The Dukes of Hazzard" or "Smokey and the Bandit" they can shoot the car chase sequences along the scenic shores of Lake St. Clair. They won't have to hire stunt drivers, either. Just turn the cameras on and join the pack.

I've been told that my Great-uncle Buck had a job directing traffic at the corner of Kerby Road and Lakeshore in the 1920s. But he and Aunt Florence abandoned their little home and truck farm in Grosse Pointe and returned to Massachusetts after a few years. Were the driving foibles of early Lakeshore motorists as hair-raising as those of their progeny? Was he hopelessly frustrated in his attempt to bring order to Kerby and Lakeshore? Uncle Buck left no record describing his traffic-directing career, but he did leave town.

More and more people appear to be disobeying simple traffic laws. Why not? There are so few police that the chances of being observed and caught are minuscule. In fact, why not ignore other pesky laws? I have known of people who boasted about claiming a relative's address as their own to avoid paying city income taxes, higher insurance fees or school tuition. Others buy merchandise they know is probably stolen, collect unemployment benefits or workmen's compensation while gainfully employed or provide false information on loan applications or IRS forms.

Laws slow us down, prevent us from getting good deals and often stop us from doing what we would like to do. Also, when voluntarily obeyed, they help provide civility and cohesiveness to society. Some laws are unconstitutional or outrageous and need to be repealed. But stopping at red lights and stop signs are good laws. Driving under 50 mph on city streets isn't a bad idea, either.

Vote for 'Old Glory' on Nov. 5

By Joseph J. Frank

More than the punctuation of the political campaign season, Election Day should be a reminder to all Americans of the greatness of our nation.

For the right to vote, particularly in a presidential election year, is a reminder that freedom is not free. Our democracy is upheld by the electorate which makes it tick.

This nation represents a 220-year-old experiment in self-government that is an unequivocal success. Consider two relevant supporting facts:

- You have the right to debate the beauty of the United States, but no one, not even Congress, can abrogate your right to express your opinion.

- Although millions of people are trying to come to America, it's hard to find anyone trying to get out.

Since so many Americans fought and died to attain freedom — and many more fought and died to maintain freedom — one must not squander one of the most precious rights of a free people, the right to vote.

Vote on Nov. 5 for candidates who will carry forth a public policy agenda that reflects traditional American values. Your vote is one voice, but a plurality of voices in unison will set the course of this nation for the years ahead.

Our nation is represented by the flag of the United States, "Old Glory." The unifying symbol of our nation waves in support of Americans' zeal for freedom and their collective repugnance of tyranny. Therefore, to trample the flag, to burn it, or to otherwise desecrate it, is to trample on the tenets it represents.

Poll after poll indicates that a super-majority of Americans, nearly 80 percent, support a constitutional amendment to protect the American flag from intentional physical desecration. Protecting "Old Glory" from those who want to burn it to make a point is not merely an American Legion thing. It is an American thing.

Our leaders in Congress should take the sentiments of the vast majority of Americans more seriously. One way to ensure your representatives heed this "values" issue is to put into office those who support protecting the flag.

The 1989 Supreme Court ruling, protecting flag-desecration as a form of free expression, means a constitutional amendment is the only way we can make unlawful such intolerably provocative acts. If your congressional representatives do not support the amendment, then they don't support your flag. It's that simple.

When you go to the polls on Nov. 5, think about what our flag stands for. Think of the brave men and women who fought and, in more instances than we care to contemplate, died for the freedoms which our flag represents. Vote for congressional representatives who will not suppress the will of the people.

The American Legion is non-partisan and its nearly 3 million members recognize that Republicans and Democrats support protecting the flag.

We also recognize that 48 states had flag-protection laws on the books before the Supreme Court usurped the will of the people for the sake of judicial expediency — a 5-4 decision, mind you.

Legionnaires are aware, as are millions of other patriotic Americans, that 49 state legislatures passed memorializing resolutions petitioning Congress to send the proposed amendment to the states.

In the 104th Congress, the flag-protection amendment passed by an overwhelming 312-120 vote in the House. It fell three votes short of the two-thirds required for passage in the Senate.

Bottom line: Your ballot on Nov. 5 will help to determine whether the proposed amendment passes or fails in the 105th Congress. Your vote will help to shape the Congress that will decide the issue.

Vote on Nov. 5. Research the positions of your candidates and make informed decisions. Legionnaires also hope you vote to protect the flag of the United States.

Joseph J. Frank is national commander of The American Legion, the nation's largest veterans organization.

That's where the Park's Nick Atsalakis came in. Nick and his wife, Pam, have a daughter, Lauren, at South and Nick's Atsalakis Painting Company, a family-owned business, has lots of experience with tough jobs.

Wouldn't you know it — Nick volunteered to rent a 175-ton hydraulic crane (don't ask about that hourly rate) and, with a little help from some of his crew, to go up in that cage and do the job himself. "It was very generous of him to donate this," said Joan.

They ran into a few snags on top and it took most of the day to finish, but now you can tell which way the wind is blowing above South High.

5 Pointers among Detroit civic leaders on Langley AFB tour

By John Minnis
Editor

Five prominent Grosse Pointers were among 35 Detroit-area civic leaders who were among those fortunate enough to tour Langley Air Force Base in Virginia recently. The VIP tour coincided with the Air Force's launching of its 50th anniversary festivities culminating in September 1997. Participants were required to pay $125 for food and lodging, while the flight to and from Langley was part of an Air Force training mission out of Little Rock, Ark.

Langley Air Force Base in Virginia is the headquarters for Air Combat Command, which is commanded by four-star Gen. Richard E. Hawley. The tour was put together by Army Col. (Ret.) Jerry A. Stonisch of Detroit, who has put together several military installation tours throughout the years.

Pointers on the tour were Michael Aubrey of Grosse Pointe Woods, president of Park-Rite Inc.; Joseph A. Dewey Jr. of the City of Grosse Pointe, president of Dewey's Lumberville; Paul H. Huth, of Grosse Pointe Farms, a senior partner with the law firm of Huth, Lynett and Scudi; George Simon also of the Farms, chairman of the board of U.S. Equipment Co.; and Ramon D. Zairobi of Grosse Pointe Shores, president of North Bay Machinery Co. Inc.

Other distinguished visitors included Thomas P. Bernasconi, president of Huntington Banks of Michigan; William Leo Calahan, Wayne County Circuit Court judge; Fred R. Elias Jr., executive vice president of Elias Brothers Restaurants, Inc.; Ray Reynolds Graves, U.S. bankruptcy judge; Scott Gregory, president of Gregory Boat Co.; Roman S. Gribbs, Michigan Court of Appeals judge; Joseph W. Muer Jr., owner of Joe Muer's Restaurant; the Rev. Timothy T. Shannon, president of U-D Jesuit High School and Academy; James P. Tellier, co-owner of Jefferson Chevrolet Co.; and Ted A. Stahl, chief executive officer of Stahl's Inc. of St. Clair Shores.

Escorting the tour group out of Selfridge Air National Guard Base was Air Reserve Brig. Gen. Dennis W. Schulstad, of Minneapolis, and who is mobilization assistant to the director of plans and programs at Air Combat Command headquarters at Langley AFB.

Air Combat Command is in charge of U.S. Air Force fighting planes and is a merger of the Strategic Air Command (SAC) and Tactical Air Command (TAC) following the collapse of the USSR.

The tour group left Selfridge on the morning of Sept. 19 aboard a C130 cargo transport plane. The sparse interior was fitted with non-reclining commercial passenger seats, allowing passable comfort for the 1-1/2 hour flight. Ear plugs were distributed because of the noise produced by the four prop-engines. Group members were allowed to spend time in the cockpit, talking to the flight officers and affording a spectacular view of passing landscape through the huge cockpit windows.

Upon landing at Langley, the civic leaders were treated to an honor guard reception in full dress uniform.

After a moment to freshen up, the tour group was treated to an aerial display of the F15 fighter, a plane capable of supersonic speeds, as well as subsonic maneuverability. The tour spectators were astonished to see the F15 barely making headway over the air field and then launching into a vertical climb, disappearing into the atmosphere. During the 15-minute display, the F15 consumed 8,000 pounds of fuel, or 1,200 gallons.

Gen. Schulstad described the F15 as the "best plane in the sky."

where parts and supplies are distributed and accounted for with excruciating detail.

After a change of clothing in their rooms at the nearby Hampton Raddison Hotel, the Detroit visitors enjoyed a semi-formal dinner at the base's officer's club, where diners had the opportunity to talk with Langley officers — including generals — and local civic leaders. Stimulating entertainment was provided by an Air Force musical troupe.

The following day began with an a southern buffet breakfast at the officer's club, followed by an ACC briefing in the commander's conference center, a question and answer session with a First Fighter Wing F15 pilot and lunch again at the Eagle Dining Hall.

Following lunch, the tour group was treated to a surprising presentation by the Langley canine corps, where the guard dogs showed their adeptness in perimeter patrol and other police procedures.

The visit culminated with a briefing by the ACC commander Gen. Hawley.

On the return trip, the consensus among the civic leaders was that the tour was a huge success. Most felt the Air Force personnel they had met — both officers and enlisted — were highly skilled and dedicated.

Pointers spend day aboard Trident submarine — USS Michigan

The State of Michigan can boast of having named in its honor the largest submarine in the U.S. Navy, the USS Michigan.

Recently, 20 Michigan citi-

a dive of several hundred feet. "The USS Michigan is 566 feet long," Sears said, adding, "She is nearly twice as big as the Los Angeles Class Fast Attack Submarine. The interior is is a boat, not a ship. Also in the party were former Grosse Pointers Dr. and Mrs. Robert Everett and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Laenen.

In groups of two or three, to steer. Nearby, sonar screens tracked the movements of other ships and of large fish in the area.

A delicious lunch in the crew's mess gave the cooks a chance to exhibit their culinary skills, honed in a cramped kitchen with limited supplies. Fresh foods are all used up after the first several days of a patrol, which usually lasts two or three months. In fact, food supplies are what limit the length of time a nuclear sub can be submerged.

The USS Michigan makes its own energy, air and water. Every system involved in the sub's operation has at least one backup system should something break down.

Because of the long periods of isolation, the USS Michigan has two complete crews. While the Gold crew is at sea, the 157 officers and men of the Blue crew are taking special courses related to their duties aboard the submarine.

Dr. Stephenson noted, "I was very impressed by the professional expertise of the entire Gold crew, from the senior officers to the youngest of the enlisted personnel. Each man has his own specialty, but all are cross trained in fire fighting and other skills. They never stop learning."

"After we left port, we test fired a water plug to simulate the firing of one of the nine torpedoes," said Mr. McBride. "This is an important training exercise for the crew and also serves to make sure all systems are working."

The guide in the torpedo room explained the mechanics of a torpedo and how it could be redirected from the sub, if necessary, after launching.

The mission of the USS Michigan on patrol is to disappear. She is virtually silent when under way. Should the United States be attacked by a foreign power, the patrolling Silent Service fleet of Trident submarines could launch a missile strike from under water to a land-based target almost anywhere in the world. Once the sub's missiles are launched, her location is no longer a secret. Her duties then become like those of a search and destroy vessel. The USS Michigan and her 14 Trident sisters are the ultimate strategic deterrent.

The Navy Recruiting Command, headquartered in Detroit and responsible for naval recruitment throughout Michigan, made the arrangements for the group members to see for themselves this jewel of the seas. Although there has been considerable downsizing of the military in recent months, the Navy continues to require qualified personnel to man its submarines, aircraft carriers and other sophisticated vessels.

The privileged guests who experienced a touch of life at sea aboard the USS Michigan can attest to the fact that today's Navy offers great opportunities for advanced education and travel experiences to adventurous young men and women, willing to learn and to serve their country.

zens, including several from Grosse Pointe, were invited by the boat's commanding officer, Cmdr. John Sears, to spend a day aboard the nuclear-powered ballistic missile submarine before it sailed from San Diego for a 70-day patrol in the Pacific.

The day's activities included very compact but the standard of living aboard the Michigan is light years ahead of World War II Diesel boats."

Dr. and Mrs. Larry Stephenson and Mr. and Mrs. Frank McBride, of Grosse Pointe, were among those who enjoyed the day sail aboard the boat — and, yes, a submarine they climbed up to the top of the conning tower where they could see the body of the submarine submerged below, looking like a menacing whale on the prowl. In the engine room, they peered through the periscope and sat in front of a wall of dials and gauges that informed the helmsman where

Great Lakes state has new license plate

Secretary of State Candice S. Miller has unveiled Michigan's new commemorative license plate: It is the "Great Lakes Splendor" plate, designed by Richard J. Watkins of Bay City.

Watkins' design features a stunning sunrise over the Straits of Mackinac, the Mackinac Bridge and the slogan "Great Lakes Splendor" in hues of blue and orange. It was among more than 4,300 entries submitted during the Great State Plate Challenge in May. Watkins' design made it through a three-tiered selection process that included Michigan Department of State employees, a panel of nine celebrity judges and Secretary Miller.

"We wanted a license plate that symbolizes the beauty of Michigan and that is what we have in the Great Lakes Splendor license plate," Miller said. "When we think of the beauty of Michigan, our thoughts generally include our beautiful Great Lakes, the Mackinac Bridge and sunny days."

Watkins, 40, is the award-winning art director for The Scott & Miller Group, a full-service advertising agency in Saginaw.

The new license plate will go on sale Jan. 2 for a $5 fee, over and above the annual vehicle registration fee. The plate is an optional purchase for motorists.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the City Council, meeting as a Board of Appeals under the provisions of Section 5-14.6 of the 1975 City Code will meet in the Council-Court Room of the Municipal Building, 20025 Mack Plaza on October 21, 1996, at 7:30 p.m., to hear the appeal of Dr. Thirumoorthi, 640 Canterbury, who is appealing the denial of the Building Inspector to issue a building permit for the construction of an addition to their residence at 640 Canterbury. The building permit was denied due to a deficiency in the required rear yard setback as set forth in Section 5-4-3 (F) (d) of the Zoning Ordinance of the City of Grosse Pointe Woods. A variance is therefore required. All interested parties are invited to attend.

Candid shots are the best shots

One good way to improve and add impact to your photographs is to always be on the lookout for the unexpected. Often, it's right there in front of you. What you need to do is develop your skills at seeing the unusual and then produce the image on film.

Begin by really "seeing" as you look through the viewfinder. A keen photographer's eye can isolate a small detail or a striking natural or man-made design that will produce a photograph of unusual quality.

An early morning or late afternoon backlit shot can turn an ordinary subject into an unexpected and dramatic silhouette. Or a splash of unexpected color may be just the ingredient for that special picture.

For vacationers, put your traveler's vision in high gear and be on the lookout for the unexpected. On a trip to

Photography

By Monte Nagler

Abilene, Texas, I chanced upon this group of seven cowboys, backs to me, engaged in "cowboy" conversation. My photographer's adrenalin started to flow and this unique candid portrait was mine. Their backs proved more interesting a shot than if they had been posed facing me.

Using your camera's controls creatively can add an unexpected element to your picture. Slow shutter speeds can blur the action and give a misty, dreamlike appearance to subjects such as waterfalls and rapids. Fast shutter speeds will, of course, freeze the action at its peak.

Remember, your aperture controls depth-of-field that in turn can be used to obtain an unusual look in your finished shot.

Being on the lookout for the unexpected will reward you with photographs that will carry the stamp of your own individuality.

Monte Nagler unexpectedly chanced upon this group of cowboys in Abilene, Texas. Being alert and ready with his camera rewarded him with this unusual candid shot.

Been around the block? Used luxury vehicles are hot

Hey — want to buy a new Cadillac DeVille sedan at a great price? No, it's not a hot car. Unless, of course, you are thoroughly Republican and wouldn't dream of putting your tush on the leather-covered cush where a Democratic Party official recently reclined.

The Cadillacs, dozens of them, were available through the used-car departments of Chicago-area Cadillac dealers following the Democratic National Party convention in August. (General Motors loaned 300 new cars and trucks to both 1996 conventions, and afterward re-sold the vehicles to dealers at a discount, according to Tom Pyden, GM spokesman in Washington, D.C.)

New 1996 DeVille sedans have a sticker price beginning around $36,000. These slightly-used beauties were priced in the more affordable range and, according to dealers, were doing quite well on the market.

The Cadillacs are players in an emerging segment of the market: used luxury vehicles. Dealers say used models of Cadillac, Mercedes-Benz, Lexus, Infiniti, Lincoln, BMW, Acura and Audi are attracting customers who want the qualities they offer but don't care to buy new and pay full retail — plus perhaps a luxury car tax.

"While the first-year depreciation on luxury cars is probably no greater a percentage than on less expensive models, it has a bigger impact because the original cost is much higher," said Jeff Davis, senior research associate, University of Michigan Office for the Study of Automotive Transportation, Ann Arbor.

"So as late-model used cars, luxury cars are very attractive to many buyers."

In addition to windfalls like the GM cars and trucks returning from convention duty, new-car dealers can buy one-owner, late model used cars at private factory auctions. They take them in trade. They buy at regular auctions open to franchised dealers and independent dealers alike.

These cars have been owned by individuals, they may have been company cars, some have been daily rentals, and many are vehicles coming off one- and two-year leases. The majority likely are still within the limits of the original factory warranty. Dealers can offer a variety of extended service plans.

And the auto makers already have, or are now initiating, used vehicle certification programs. Certified pre-owned vehicles are good-looking, late-model used cars and trucks which have passed rigid bumper-to-bumper, axle-to-axle inspections. They are certified by the manufacturers, who then bestow an additional warranty on them. Often it's a bumper-to-bumper type with no deductible.

"Cadillac only considers vehicles that are not more than 4 years old, have no more than 50,000 miles and have not experienced a serious accident with body damage that exceeds one-quarter of the wholesale value of the car," said Jeff Butzin, Cadillac manager of re-marketing and licensing, in Warren.

"Cadillac offers a six-year/70,000 Cadillac Gold Key Bumper-to-Bumper warranty on certified vehicles in its pre-owned program," Butzin said. And, based on model year, privileges like emergency roadside service, trip interruption protection and trip routing are available to purchasers of certified pre-owned Cadillacs.

But, dealers say, used-luxuries are a price-sensitive market. Many are finding factory-certified vehicles are running a bit high for customers.

"Many of our used-car buyers are people who could never get the (luxury) vehicle new," said Mike Loeber, sales manager at Loeber Motors on North Clark in Chicago.

Autos

By Jenny King

"They also are unwilling to compromise," he said. "If they had a certain model and color in mind, they won't settle for a substitute."

Customers who shy away from factory-certified cars as too expensive often are willing to buy an extended service contract on their purchase, Loeber said.

Loeber Motors recognized the potential of the used luxury market and matched that with due respect for Chicago weather by constructing a separate two-story facility just for used vehicles back in 1988.

Although half the first floor of the building now is dedicated to new cars, the dealership still keeps its 100-vehicle used inventory inside.

Loeber luxury new-car franchises include Mercedes-Benz, Infiniti and Audi. Most of the used luxury cars are only a few years old. A few may go back to the early 1980s, Loeber said, but as a rule the dealership doesn't deal in vintage cars.

So anyone with a hankering for a 1969 Mercedes convertible roadster or a 1961 Rolls-Royce will have to drive to Motor Werks of Barrington, Ill. In fact, said sales representative Basel Tarabein, cars that are in demand include BMW 3-Series and 5-Series, Infinitis, Mercedes and Cadillacs.

"Used cars sell as well as new cars here," Tarabein said. "I would say our average prices are between $18,000 and $25,000." The Rolls was stickered at $30,000, he added.

Tarabein said the dealership provides its own used-car inspections and sells non-factory extended warranties. Customers don't want to be forced to buy factory-certified vehicles.

Used car customers are changing, said U-M's Davis. "Twenty years ago a consumer might not have been especially proud of buying a used vehicle," he said. "Now people are seeing it as a savvy thing to do."

Davis doesn't think luxury cars are held to a higher standard during manufacture. Quality even on the same vehicle varies from plant to plant. Line speeds may be slower at a luxury site, but some of the lower-price high-volume models may have designs that are friendlier to the manufacturing process, he said.

The Democratic delegates' DeVilles were assembled at the GM's Detroit-Hamtramck plant. Thomas Noda, sales representative at Grossinger Cadillac (Buick-Pontiac-GMC-Volvo-Suzuki) in Lincolnwood, Ill., said by the second week in September the dealership had sold 40 of them, many at a savings of $11,000.

"We have some great buys on the lot: a '94 Eldorado with 28,000 miles for $28,000, a '94 Seville STS with 24,000 miles for $28,500," he said. "Each is factory-certified."

"To the second owner, it feels like a new car."

This 1995 Cadillac Sedan DeVille has all the luxury and comfort of a new one at a lower price. And it will say "Cadillac" to the world.

Michigan motorists bear brunt of false auto claims

Filing a false insurance claim for auto theft may not appear to be a serious crime to the average Michigan resident, but is in fact "obtaining money under false pretenses and could be subject to penalty of up to 10 years in prison," says William Liddane, director of H.E.A.T., Help Eliminate Auto Theft, a statewide auto theft prevention program.

Michigan auto insurance holders, however, are facing a double blow — escalating fraudulent insurance claims and a judicial system that has yet to regularly impose serious sentences on auto theft and fraud related crimes.

"We want the public to understand that, aside from being socially unacceptable, fraudulent auto theft insurance claims are against the law and classified as obtaining money under false pretenses," said Liddane of the H.E.A.T. program.

H.E.A.T., an 11 year old auto theft prevention program, has been working tirelessly to combat auto theft, carjacking and auto theft related crimes, such as insurance fraud. H.E.A.T. runs a toll-free confidential tip line (1-800-242-HEAT) for reporting information on fraudulent auto theft insurance claims.

Insurance companies, too, are stepping up to the plate. National experts believe 16 percent of every claim dollar goes to pay fraud, and without proper public education, those numbers could increase. Many Michigan auto insurance companies are prosecuting auto theft insurance fraud cases to the full extent of the law.

"In the past, insurance companies have been reluctant to prosecute, fearing lawsuits on the grounds of malicious prosecution," notes Jerry Hinton of AAA of Michigan. Hinton believes crooks are becoming more clever day by day and the insurance companies have no choice but to take action.

"We are taking a very proactive approach and are prosecuting all the cases we are aware of to the full extent of the law," said Hinton.

Lt. Sandy Miller, section commander of the Western Wayne Criminal Investigation Section of the Michigan State Police, sees fraudulent auto theft insurance scams as just the tip of the iceberg.

"These are the crimes that are the precursor to other more serious crimes," said Miller. "Auto thefts or auto theft scams could be part of a complex scheme. Perhaps an initiation into a gang, or as a means to get money for drugs."

Miller has been working in auto theft for over 10 years and is convinced "there are no new schemes, just new people using the old schemes with a new twist."

Miller believes auto theft fraud cases are even more widespread than actual theft cases. "These cases all end up being tied together. A person wanted for auto theft insurance fraud, may also be tied to a drug ring or may be a chop shop operator. Money is obviously a big motivator," said Miller.

Liddane believes that the public needs to understand that auto theft related crimes, such as insurance fraud, affect the comprehensive rates in insurance policies.

"But the way for citizens to fight back and reduce policy premiums is to be aware of auto theft insurance fraud and call the H.E.A.T. tip line with information on auto theft related crimes."

Citizens working hand in hand with law enforcement is a primary objective with the H.E.A.T. program.

H.E.A.T. awards up to $1,000 if a hotline caller's tip results in information that leads to the arrest and prosecution of a suspected car thief or auto theft insurance defrauder. H.E.A.T. will award up to $10,000 if the tip results in the arrest and binding over for trial of suspected theft ring members and/or chop shop operators. H.E.A.T. also awards $2,000 for information leading to the issuance of a warrant for a carjacking suspect.

H.E.A.T. hopes to reinforce to the public and the judiciary system on the seriousness of these crimes.

Miller says that a defendant is more likely to get time for a $50 breaking and entering charge than an auto theft or auto theft related crime.

"What good is a sentence of 10 years in prison, if we do not impose that on the criminals," said Liddane.

Defensive driving takes sting from winter roads

When it comes to winter driving, six seconds can save a lot of grief when Michigan's weather turns nasty, according to AAA Michigan.

That's because the leading cause of traffic crashes on iced, snow-clogged roads is following the car in front too closely. The driver in front stops; you can't.

Along with following some safe-driving techniques, Jerry Basch, AAA Michigan's community safety services manager, recommends increasing your following distance on slippery roads from the good-road gap of 3 seconds to 6 seconds.

A good way to measure the six-second time gap is to pick out a distinct road marking or sign, and then begin counting when the car ahead passes that spot.

Stopping distances on melting ice and snow at the 32-degree freezing point are twice as great as at zero temperatures.

Particularly troublesome are shaded areas and bridges, overpasses and intersections — areas where ice is likely to form first or be slipperiest because the shiny ice surface has either been polished by previous traffic, a thin layer of water covers melting ice below or a temperature difference exists.

Basch offers the following tips to help motorists steer clear of winter driving trouble:

- Improve visibility by clearing all snow and ice from the entire car — hood, roof, trunk, turn signals, lights, windows, mirrors, even fender wells. Also, driving with headlights on low beam provides better road illumination in snow and fog than using high-beams.

- Remember, posted speed limits are set for ideal road and weather conditions.

- Avoid sudden starts, stops and turns. Accelerate carefully so car wheels don't spin.

- Don't brake hard. The best technique for braking on ice or snow is "threshold" or "squeeze" braking. This is done by applying the brakes firmly to a point just short of lock up, and then easing off the brake pedal slightly. Applying steady pressure is better than "pumping" the brakes. If your vehicle has anti-lock braking, continuous firm braking is usually recommended. Check the owner's manual for proper procedure.

- In a skid, ease off the accelerator and don't lock up the brakes. Carefully steer in the direction you want the car to go and straighten the wheel as soon as the car begins to go in the desired direction.

- Anticipate potential danger such as ice on bridges, snow covered lane markings, stalled cars and poor visibility. Adjust speed, increase distance between other cars or change lanes to avoid trouble.

A TIRED STORY

If you are a concerned environmentalist or just plain wonder what they do with all those used tires, you may be interested in the latest news about recycling old tires. With about 950 million scrap tires being generated in this country each year, many states now ban the disposal of tires in landfills and 46 states have laws that regulate scrap-tire disposal. About 60% of the tires currently headed for disposal are rerouted for retreading, recycling, or use as fuel, representing a big improvement over just five years ago. Much of this rubber is combined with asphalt to create a surface that is more durable, quieter, and less given to cracking (owing to higher elasticity) than non-rubberized asphalt. With the federal government's Intermodal Surface Transportation Act now mandating increasingly higher percentages of ground rubber (to a maximum of 20%) for use in highway pavement, this use for recycled rubber is expected to grow.

If you are concerned about environmental matters, be sure to bring your car in for routine inspections. At RINKE TOYOTA, we have a great lineup of new cars at prices you can afford. Car technology is always changing, we stay on top of it. We deliver quality service and quality products—always. We're the ones to call when you need help. Call 758-9000, or visit us at 21470 Van Dyke today! We have the assistance you require. And we have the service that makes the difference!

HINT: Many car manufacturers are using scrap rubber to make such items as seals, air deflators, splash guards, and car seat backrests for their new automobiles.

Memories

The following is an excerpt from a report dated Oct. 1, 1919, issued by the Michigan Department of Public Instruction, addressed to teachers, on the subject of National Better Speech Week, which was observed beginning on Nov. 2 of that year.

On conserving 'our melodious English tongue'

The fighting in Europe is over but there are many battles still to be waged in this country. One of these is a fight for better speech. . . The accompanying (report) will give you information about this work. Begin your plans at once.

English is not generally well spoken in America. Slang, ungrammatical English, careless enunciation and harsh tone quality are heard everywhere.

They are by no means due entirely to ignorance. High school boys and girls, college students and professional people, all of whom have had training in English, are often exceedingly lax in their speech habits.

It is due mostly to the fact that a "pure speech" or "good English" consciousness has never been aroused in the American people. It was for the purpose of interesting Americans in "conserving our melodious English tongue and improving our national speech manner" that the National Council of Teachers of English organized a committee known as the Committee on American Speech, early in 1915.

Goals during National Better Speech Week are to develop respect and loyalty for our national language, to counteract the vulgarizing influence of the bad English of the street and to develop the ideal of clear, forceful and pleasing English.

Suggestions include: Do not leave off the last syllable of a word (especially those ending in "g"). Say "Yes" and "No" in place of "unhu" and "huhun" or "yeh" and "nope."

Avoid speaking in loud, rough tones. Enunciate distinctly in a sincere and pleasant tone.

This is another installment in an ongoing feature commemorating the 75th anniversary of the Grosse Pointe Public School System. If you have a story, an old photograph, yearbook or anything else to share that would be of interest to Grosse Pointe News readers, call (313) 343-5591 or stop by the office at 96 Kercheval in Grosse Pointe Farms.

Violence not a problem at most schools, study shows

Although more than two-thirds of school social workers say that at least one life-threatening incident occurred at their school in the last year, only about one in five report that violence among students is a big problem at their school, says a University of Michigan researcher.

Social workers, much like the rest of society, are aware and concerned about school violence, but tend to report that most schools are safe, with little or no violence problem, according to Ron A. Astor, U-M assistant professor of social work and education.

Astor says, however, that a majority of school social workers do not view school violence from a zero-tolerance perspective, in which even a single potentially lethal incident is enough to portray a school as having a serious violence problem.

"A zero-tolerance perspective would assert that as few as one or as many as five shootings should both be perceived as a big problem, and knowledge of any form of assaultive or potentially lethal violence should be sufficient to view a school as having a big problem," Astor says.

"Multiple assaultive or potentially lethal types of school violence should not be used as the threshold for creating a schoolwide awareness to reduce school violence. We suggest that more common behaviors, such as pushing, grabbing, kicking, punching, fist fights and property stolen by force, be used as a threshold to create a zero-tolerance school environment."

In his study of more than 600 members of the National Association of Social Workers, Astor found that more than 70 percent of school social workers say that at least one lethal or potentially lethal event involving guns, knives or other weapons occurred at their school during the past year.

However, about 43 percent report that violence is little or no problem and 37 percent say that violence is a moderate problem at their school, he says. Only 20 percent cite violence as a big problem.

While school social workers tend to underestimate the extent of the problem, Astor notes that this also may, in part, be due to societal views of violence prevalent in American popular culture.

"Frequently, the causes of school violence are attributed to the individual, community or family — not the school organization," he says.

According to the U-M study, school social workers' perceptions of violence are greatly influenced by the community setting in which they work (inner city, urban, suburban, rural or multiple-community locations) and by the presence of multiple forms of violence at their school.

While the percentages of social workers surveyed who reported at least one potentially lethal event at their school ranged from 70 percent in suburban settings to 87 percent in the inner city, 43 percent of the latter identified violence as a big problem at their school, compared with 29 percent at multiple-community locations, 18 percent in urban settings, 13 percent in rural areas and 10 percent in suburban schools.

Moreover, Astor says, social workers who do perceive violence as a big problem at their school are more likely to report a greater variety of violent incidents, ranging from low-level aggression and intimidating acts to physical assaults and potentially lethal events.

This is especially true for social workers in inner-city schools, he adds.

Mix art with the 3 R's

With children back in school, parents can prepare their child for a successful school year with reading, writing — and the arts.

During the summer, kids may forget things they learned during the school year in skills such as reading, writing and math. Research suggests, however, that the arts can help improve children's learning, comprehension and retention in these areas.

Very Special Arts, which sponsors programs in 50 states and 85 countries worldwide, has produced an educational program called "Start with the Arts" for children, with and without disabilities, ages 4 to 6. This field-tested instructional program is available to school systems throughout the country. For more information about "Start with the Arts," recommended books and other Very Special Arts programs in your area, call 1-800-933-VSA1 or at <http://www.vsarts.org>.

SCHOOL NEWS

Events

University Liggett School will celebrate its homecoming on Saturday, Oct. 19, on the school's playing fields, 1045 Cook Road, in Grosse Pointe Woods. ULS students, parents, grandparents and alumni are invited to participate in the events.

The day begins with a 10 a.m. girls field hockey game against Detroit Country Day, followed by a varsity football game at 1 p.m. against Lutheran Northwest.

An Alumni Cook Tent will be open from 10:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. offering hamburgers, hot dogs, pop, popcorn and candy for sale. The upper school dance will be held from 8:30 to 11 p.m. For more information, contact the alumni relations office at (313) 884-4444.

A concert featuring Ricardo Visus, internationally known Spanish tenor, accompanied by pianist Lucie Marty will be held at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 12, in the Grosse Pointe South High School Auditorium, 11 Grosse Pointe Blvd., Grosse Pointe Farms.

Their repertoire includes chant, classical, folk and modern music of Latin and Sephardic origin.

Visus is internationally known for his interpretation of non-traditional as well as classical works of Spanish musical literature. He has spent 25 years in the United States as vocal instructor and opera director at Moorhead State University in Minnesota.

Marty has accompanied Visus for the last 20 years. She is a graduate of Moorhead State University and has served on various faculties in Austria, Spain, Switzerland and the United States.

Tickets are $4 for students and $7 for adults. A reception with Visus and Marty will be held after the concert in Cleminson Hall.

Reunions

The St. Anthony High School class of 1951 will celebrate its 45th reunion on Sunday, Oct. 20. The day will begin with an 11 a.m. Mass in the church, followed by a 1 p.m. buffet at Andiamo Restaurant on 14 Mile and Van Dyke in Warren. For more information, call Paul A. Saigh at (313) 886-9783.

Fundraiser

The sophomore class at Grosse Pointe South High School is sponsoring a fundraiser in conjunction with McDonald's restaurants from 7 to 9 p.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 16 at the Nine Mile and Mack restaurant in St. Clair Shores. Designated as "McSouth" day, 20 percent of all receipts received between the designated times on Oct. 16 will go toward the sophomore class — which is raising money to offset costs of their junior and senior proms.

Parents: This workshop is for you

The three public school districts in St. Clair Shores are hosting a "Super Saturday" for all eastside parents in which experts will be providing information on parenting and a variety of issues relating to children and teenagers.

"Super Saturday" is from 8:15 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. Oct. 19, at Kennedy Middle School on Masonic at Jefferson. The cost is $3 per family.

All parents are welcome. Registration forms are available in the school offices of the three St. Clair Shores school districts, or call (810) 296-8367.

Adults will have the opportunity to attend workshops on topics such as "What to expect from your preschooler," "Reading and writing start at home," "Identifying ADHD behaviors," "Communicating with your child or teen," "Building your child's self-esteem," "Coping with Sibling Rivalry," "Preparing for Middle School Success," "Positive Conflict Resolution," and "Safe dating in the '90s."

One of the speakers will be Pierce Middle School counselor Barbara Sjolander, who will be

Edison's 'Eyes and Ears' program on the lookout

Detroit Edison crews will keep their "Eyes and Ears" open this autumn and winter as youngsters walk to and from school.

The utility's field employees will use two-way radios to help youngsters seek emergency assistance through the "Eyes and Ears" safety program.

sharing ways to prepare a child for middle school success.

The keynote speaker will be educational expert, Dr. Kathleen Pistono, who will be speaking about the "Three Keys to Reading Success."

The day begins with registration and a continental breakfast; workshops are conducted from 9:30 to 11:15 a.m.

Participating vehicles are marked clearly with the program's name and its logo — an eye and an ear.

The program is designed to provide a safe haven for children until the proper authorities arrive.

Alexandra Elingo

Alexandra (Ellenidou) Elingo

A funeral Mass was celebrated on Thursday, Oct. 3, in Annunciation Greek Cathedral in Detroit for Grosse Pointe Park resident Alexandra (Ellenidou) Elingo, who died in Vencor Hospital in Lincoln Park on Monday, Sept. 30, 1996.

Mrs. Elingo, 88, was born in Thrace, Greece, and was a Greek language teacher for 42 years with the Hellenic Educational Committee.

An active member of the community, Mrs. Elingo belonged to the First Greek Orthodox Church of Michigan and was a member of the Church Ladies Society, Philotochos, and did volunteer work for the American Red Cross during World War II.

Mrs. Elingo enjoyed reading and handicrafts, and touched the lives of many children through her promotion of Greek language and culture.

Mrs. Elingo is survived by her daughter, Mrs. Koula Pervanis; two grandchildren; and six great-grandchildren. She was predeceased by her husband of 53 years, George.

Interment is at Woodlawn Cemetery in Detroit. Funeral arrangements were handled by the Chas. Verheyden Funeral Home in Grosse Pointe Park.

In lieu of flowers, memorial contributions may be made to the Annunciation Greek Orthodox Cathedral, 707 East Lafayette, Detroit, Mich.

Archie Marie Reed

A funeral service was held on Monday, Oct. 7, in the A.H. Peters Funeral Home in Grosse Pointe Woods for Grosse Pointe Farms resident Archie Marie Reed, who died in the St. John-Bon Secours Senior Community Center on Friday, Oct. 4, 1996.

Mrs. Reed, 90, was born in Lugert, Okla., and grew up on a farm obtained during the Oklahoma land rush. She attended Wichita High School and Friends University in Wichita, Kan. She was a teacher in a one room school house in Goddard, Kan., as well as a display advertising layout artist for The Flint Journal.

Mrs. Reed was a member of many local organizations, including the Grosse Pointe Questers, the Daughters of the American Revolution, the National Society of Magna Charta Dames and was a volunteer at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. Her interests were varied, and included genealogy, knitting and gardening.

Mrs. Reed is survived by two daughters, Barbara Marie Burke and Carol Ann Labo; a son, Richard Granville Reed; two sisters, Dorothy Berg and Jewell Elvins; nine grandchildren; and six great-grandchildren.

Interment is at Woodlawn Cemetery in Detroit. Funeral arrangements were handled by the A.H. Peters Funeral Home in Grosse Pointe Woods.

Loretto S. McDonald

A funeral Mass was celebrated on Tuesday, Oct. 8, in the Church of St. Owen in Bloomfield Hills for former City of Grosse Pointe resident Loretto S. McDonald, who died in the North Oakland Medical Center in Pontiac on Sunday, Oct. 6, 1996.

Born in Stratford, Ontario, Canada, Mrs. McDonald, 94, worked as a bookkeeper for Catholic Charities, retiring in 1970. An active member of the community, she was a member of St. Clare of Montefalco Church for 25 years, and belonged to the Rosary Makers and the Legion of Mary, as well as St. Luke's Church Altar Society.

Mrs. McDonald enjoyed sewing, baking bread and rosary making, and just being a grandmother.

Mrs. McDonald is survived by three daughters, Ann McDonald Viditch, Joan K. Pascoe and Barbara D. Heilala; six grandchildren; and three great-grandchildren. She was predeceased by her husband, Joseph; and by a great-grandchild, Alexander.

Interment is in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery in Southfield. Memorial contributions may be made to the Capuchin Community Center.

James L. Babcock

A funeral Mass was celebrated in St. Lucy's Catholic Church in St. Clair Shores for Grosse Pointe Shores resident James L. Babcock, who died in Auburn Hills on Thursday, Oct. 3, 1996 from Alzheimer's complications.

Mr. Babcock, 73, was born in Detroit and received his architectural engineering degree from the University of Detroit in 1949. He was president of C.W. Babcock & Sons Inc., a St. Clair Shores company that built co-op apartments, single family homes and duplexes, as well as rental apartments.

Mr. Babcock was president of the Building Industry of Southeastern Michigan in 1972, and served as a life director and was a member of the organization's Hall of Fame as well. He was appointed by Gov. George Romney to the task force on housing for the aged in 1963, and was appointed by Gov. William Milliken as one of the first commissioners of the state construction code commission from 1973-1977.

Mr. Babcock served as a private in the U.S. Army during World War II, and had a pilot's license. He enjoyed boating and skiing.

Mr. Babcock is survived by his wife, Mareda Witte Babcock; a daughter, Lucy Keough; six sons, James, Harry, Charles, Tom, Leo and John; 18 grandchildren; two sisters, Margaret Murphy and Maylou Closs; and a brother, Charles.

Funeral arrangements were handled by the A. H. Peters Funeral Home in Grosse Pointe Woods. Memorial contributions may be made to the Alzheimer's Association (Research), 17220 West 12 Mile, Suite 100, Southfield, Mich., 48076, or to Marygrove College, 8425 West McNichols, Detroit, Mich., 48221.

Margaret Ann Eickmann

A funeral Mass will be celebrated on Friday, Oct. 11, at 10:30 a.m. in Our Lady Star of the Sea Catholic Church in Grosse Pointe Woods for Grosse Pointe Shores resident Margaret Ann Eickmann, who died in her home on Tuesday, Oct. 8, 1996.

Mrs. Eickmann, 72, was born in Detroit and graduated from St. Mary's High School in Royal Oak in 1942.

She was an active member of the community and belonged to several organizations, including Bon Secours Hospital Gift Shop and Pregnancy Aid Inc., the League of Women Voters. She enjoyed playing tennis.

Mrs. Eickmann is survived by her husband, William J. Eickmann; a daughter, Maryann; three sons, William, Mark and Jeffrey; and one grandchild.

A visitation will be held at the A.H. Peters Funeral Home in Grosse Pointe Woods after 4 p.m. today, Oct. 10.

Interment is at Resurrection Cemetery in Clinton Township. Memorial contributions may be made to the Hospice of Southeast Michigan, or the Michigan Cancer Foundation.

Seniors renew friendships at annual retreat

Residents, companions and volunteers from St. John-Bon Secours Senior Community were invited to reflect on their faith and enjoy the beauty of nature at the center's sixth annual retreat Sept. 5 at Grosse Pointe Farms Pier Park.

The day of reflection, led by Father Robert McCabe, associate pastor of St. Colette Church in Livonia, focused on each individual's unique gifts. To carry out this theme, each resident was given a flower with a tag. On the tag, they wrote down the special gifts that God has given them.

The flowers were symbolic during the celebration of Mass. At the Presentation of Gifts, residents or family members each brought up a flower with the resident's special gift inscribed on the tag. The flowers were set near the altar to show that the residents are all part of God's garden and to thank Him for their special gifts.

"Residents look forward to our annual retreat because it enables them to be in a beautiful outdoor setting enjoying God's gift of nature," said Sister Mary Ellen Wagner, director of pastoral care at the senior community and coordinator of the retreat. Sister Bonnie Motto, of the senior community, also assisted at the retreat. "Volunteers and family members helped make this day possible," said Judith K. Smith, CEO of the senior community. "Residents enjoyed each other's companionship and the special attention they received from those who assisted them."

Pain may be eliminated for millions

(Special) A drug that is exciting researchers in the treatment of pain has been formulated into a new product known as "Arthur Itis™" and is being called a "Medical Miracle" by some, in the treatment of debilitating conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, painful muscle aches, joint aches, simple headache, bruises, and more. Although the mechanism of action is unclear, experiments indicate that Arthur Itis™ relieves pain by first selectively attracting and then destroying the messenger chemical which carries pain sensations to the brain, thus eliminating pain in the affected area. Arthur Itis™ is an odorless, greaseless, nonstaining cream, and is available immediately without a prescription and is guaranteed to work or your money back.

G.P. Historical Society gets furnace

The Provencal-Weir House, soon to be completed headquarters of the Grosse Pointe Historical Society (GPHS), is getting a new lease on life, thanks to the contributions of many, including Flame Furnace Co.

Since 1992, the 175-year-old house has been undergoing interior and exterior renovations to restore it to its original state, and this summer a new heating and air conditioning system was purchased from Flame Furnace, which donated the labor for installation.

"We've been actively restoring the house for several years and we couldn't do it without help from a lot of people," said Lisa Gandelot, administrative vice president of the society. "Due to the generosity of Flame Furnace, we've been able to move much more quickly than we had anticipated. We are very grateful to them."

According to Gary Marowske, president of Flame Furnace and a City of Grosse Pointe resident, the company's contribution to the city, approximately a $2,500 donation, was a means for the company to "give back" to the community.

"We saw it as a way to support the historical interests of the community, and also as a thank you," he said. "Flame Furnace has roots reaching back almost 50 years and it's important to reciprocate — to help out where you can."

The Provencal-Weir house is the oldest existing building in the Grosse Pointe area. Formerly located at Provencal and Lakeshore, it was moved in the early 1900's to its present location at Kercheval and Lakeview. The historical house was acquired by the society in 1988, in anticipation of using it not only as society headquarters, but also for community meetings, tours, educational programs, lectures, etc. The project is funded entirely by donations from private individuals and fundraising efforts.

Flame Furnace has specialized in heating and air conditioning installations and service throughout the area since 1949. Headquartered in Detroit, the company has offices in Troy, Livonia and Wyandotte and is staffed by about 100 employees.

Senior community to host its third annual October MusicFest

St. John—Bon Secours Senior Community will host its third annual October MusicFest on Sunday, Oct. 20, from 1 to 4 p.m. Seniors and adult guests are invited to attend the free event featuring stage performances of musicians and dancers, including the Pleasant Moments Vintage Dancers, Die Rhinelanders and Jumpin' Jim Dandies. Refreshments will be served and facility tours will be available. To RSVP, please call the senior community at (313) 343-8971. The senior community is located at 18300 E. Warren, east of Cadieux, in Detroit. The senior community is a collaborative effort of the Sisters of St. Joseph and the Sisters of Bon Secours and offers a continuum of care, including residential and assisted living, respite care and nursing care.

G.P. Residents can ride information highway to the FCC toll-free

Michigan residents can now call the FCC toll-free at 1-888-225-5322 to get facts about telephone rates or charges on their bills, broadcast services, or to express an opinion about communication issues. (The TTY toll-free number is 1-888-835-5322.)

The toll-free service will be staffed between the hours of 8 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. M-F and will provide automated information 24-hours a day, seven days a week. The 888 service marks the first time that callers outside Washington, D.C., can call the FCC with questions without being charged for the call. The FCC's new centralized call center will respond to queries about specific issues, telephone rates or charges, answer questions about long-distance carriers, or provide information on obtaining a license or form, filing a complaint, or expressing a concern about what a local radio or TV broadcast station aired. Users of the Internet can access the FCC's web site (<http://www.fcc.gov>) for updates of commission issues, access to agency bureaus and offices, and a daily digest.

New Arrivals of 1996

Grosse Pointe News and The Connection newspapers are planning their 2nd annual special edition featuring the babies of the past year. We hope you (and the little one) will participate by supplying us with a photograph of your child (only 1996 babies, please) for publication in this section.

This tabloid will be published in January, 1997. Your child's picture, along with other 1996 area babies, will be the main attraction! News and advertising about clothing, feeding, educating and caring for your child will also be included. It will be very informative as well as a commemorative edition for you!

Please send a cute, clear photo (color or black & white, home or studio produced, preferably smaller than a 5x7) to Grosse Pointe News & The Connection, 96 Kercheval Grosse Pointe Farms Michigan 48236. Attention: Kim Kozlowski, Display Advertising. Complete the information slip with your child's full name, date of birth and hospital and return it with your photo. Dow crosses 6,000 in intra-day trading

Last Friday, Oct. 4, the stock market exploded on the upside, posting a 60-point rise on the DJI Index, to close at 5,992.86!

By Joseph Mengden

It was only three weeks ago that LTS' headline read: "Dow Jones surges to 5,838, a record high — will 6,000 be next?" They say that Wall Street reacted to the Labor Department's jobs report last Friday. The seasonally adjusted payrolls nationally dropped by 40,000, the first decline in eight months. The unemployment rate in September inched up to 5.2 percent nationally, from 5.1 percent in August. But could these numbers merely be a case of statistical "rounding"? Or kids leaving their summer jobs to go back to college?

The reason the market broke new highs in the DJI and the S&P 500 last week is that there were more buyers than sellers. AMG Data Services, which tracks cash flow in and out of mutual funds, reported net purchases of equity funds totaled $3.54 billion during the week ending Wednesday, Oct. 2.

Another very bullish giant, hidden for the most part, is the huge "short interest," created when investors/traders sell stock they don't own! The delivery of the sale transaction is made by "borrowing" the sold shares from a brokerage firm through a margin account. If the stock goes down in price, the short-seller wins! If the stock goes up, the short-seller usually must ante-up more collateral, or buy back the short position (repaying the borrowed shares), adding to the buy-side pressure on the market. LTS will devote more space to this important topic in the near future.

Why do stocks trade in 1/8s?

A question LTS is often asked: "Why do stocks trade in 1/8s?" The simplest answer is: "Because they always have traded in 1/8s!" And that tradition goes a long way back.

There are those who say that the New York Stock Exchange (NYSE) is the oldest continuous crap game in America. But unlike the movie, "Guys and Dolls," the NYSE has never floated from place-to-place. It's been located around the corner of Wall Street and Broad Street near the foot of Manhattan since 1792, the third year of President George Washington's first administration.

A few businessmen, who traded in the securities of the day, decided to appoint a place and a regular time for their meetings. They chose an old buttonwood tree on Wall Street, only a few blocks from the present site of the NYSE.

Originally there were only 24 members of the NYSE, who dealt in "government stock" (as bonds were called in those days) and a few issues of bank, insurance and canal company shares. These members acted as intermediaries between buyers and sellers, on a commission basis. Sometimes, if one side of a transaction was missing, a member would step up and act, as principal, for his own account.

As membership increased, activity moved indoors and the "trading floor" is where all the action took place. Stocks were assigned to certain areas, called "posts" and all trading was conducted in the auction mode, with all bids and offers spoken (yelled) verbally, within the crowd at that post. Later, certain members were appointed as "specialists" to supervise the trading of their stocks.

Today, the Specialist Member has a duty to attempt to maintain an orderly market in the stocks assigned to him. If the verbal auction does not appear to complete a transaction at or near the last trade price, the Specialist should inject himself, as a principal trading for his own account and risk, to complete the trade.

Today's computerized trading has replaced almost all of the "retail" transactions on the NYSE floor, since all trades of 3,000 shares or less are usually executed "off-the-floor" through computerized "black boxes."

So why do they still trade in

1/8s? Because they have always done so! LTS (see June 27, 1996) described the Spanish silver coins of the late 18th century, which circulated in New York City at the time the NYSE began operations. These "Pieces of Eight," could be cut into eight "reales," which passed as minor coinage of "Eighths."

After 200 years, there is no reason to continue to trade stocks in 1/8s, which is 12.5 cents per share. Some "off-the-floor" trades are executed in 1/16s, which is 6.25 cents per share. Why not reduce the "spread" between the bid and ask (offer), and use .05 or 5 cents per share, as they do in Canada on the Toronto Stock Exchange? Sounds like peanuts, but remember that billions of shares are traded every month. Wall Street will probably fight the change, but, in the end, the SEC decides.

If you want to throw in your oar and speak up, write to the Securities & Exchange Commission, Washington, D.C. 20549.

Roy O'Brien Ford to expand

Automobile dealer Roy O'Brien Jr. recently announced plans to build a new $1 million dollar used-car facility at Roy O'Brien Ford Inc. in St. Clair Shores.

Already under construction, the new 7,500 square-foot building is slated for completion in October. The new facility will feature a two-car showroom and service area. Additionally, it will enable the dealership to double its used-car inventory.

"We're proud to be expanding our facility and services while staying in the community we've been in since 1946," said vice president and general manager Mark O'Brien.

Roy O'Brien Inc. is a family owned and operated business. Since it opened, the dealership has undergone eight additions and has grown from a 3,000-square-foot dealership to its current size of 45,000 square feet. The all-new used car showroom will mark the ninth addition to the dealership.

Roy O'Brien Inc. is a member of the Detroit Auto Dealers Association, which supports more than 240 members with legislative and industry representation, educational programs as well as communications and community relations activities. The dealership is located at 22201 Nine Mile in St. Clair Shores.

Chronology:

• November 1978: Voters approve the "Headlee Amendment" to the Michigan Constitution, essentially prohibiting state-mandated programs without state funding.

• May 1980: Taxpayers in the Fitzgerald School District in Macomb County initiate a lawsuit to require the state to maintain the same level of funding for state required services, alleging that the level of funding from the state had dropped since 1978.

• October 1981: The Michigan Court of Appeals dismisses the taxpayers' suit, contending that the taxpayers had no remedy in court for a violation of the Headlee Amendment.

• April 1982: The Michigan Supreme Court reversed the court of appeals decision and ordered it to decide the case.

• October 1983: The appeals court again dismisses the taxpayers' suit.

reviewed."

"We were asking for the court to overturn the appeals court decision on the challenge filed by the plaintiffs," DeWitte said. "We contend that what's involved here is not a state mandate but a federal mandate and therefore not covered under the Headlee Amendment. They are not entitled to any state funds."

St. John Health System is a growing network of community-based health care services and is one of the largest employers in metro Detroit with approximately 9,000 employees. St. John provides access to comprehensive prevention, primary care and treatment programs with more than 1,600 physicians, 32 free-standing medical and specialty centers and several community hospitals which now include: St. John Hospital and Medical Center, Holy Cross Hospital and Saratoga Community Hospital in Wayne County; St. John Hospital-Macomb Center in Macomb County; River District Hospital and Port Huron Hospital in St. Clair County; and Oakland General Hospital in Oakland County. St. John Health System also includes Eastwood Clinics, the largest mental health and substance abuse treatment network in Michigan; St. John-Bon Secours Senior Community, and St. John Dialysis Centers among other services and community partnerships.

St. John and Detroit Macomb Hospital Corp. recently announced a proposed affiliation which may be finalized in the next few months.

isn't as crowded as it used to be, a trial could be 18 months to two years away.

Bozzo said he would deal with the fact that the Park's sewer separation program could be completed, thus ending sewer backups, before the case came to trial if and when that happened.

"The bottom line is whether the city had the ability to control the flooding and whether they did everything in their power to exercise those controls," said Bozzo. "We're just trying to determine what's fair and just. And despite any flaws in the system, it's the best way to settle disputes."

• December 1985: The Supreme Court again reverses the court of appeals decision. The case is remanded to appeals court to take testimony as to the amount of underfunding. The court of appeals remands the case, in turn, to Macomb County Circuit Court for the purpose of taking testimony.

• September 1989: Macomb Circuit Judge George Denewith rejects the state's numerous arguments seeking to justify its decision to underfund local school districts.

The state appeals to the supreme court.

• January 1991: Michigan Supreme Court places the case in suspension, pending the outcome of a companion Headlee

• November 1990: The appeals court accepts part of Denewith's report, but after supervising the case for four years, decided the taxpayers need to use hypothetical costs for purposes of calculating the reimbursement which their school district was entitled to rather than using the actual costs.

The state appeals to the supreme court.

• January 1991: Michigan Supreme Court places the case in suspension, pending the outcome of a companion Headlee case. Fitzgerald schools object on the basis that the ruling on the issues on appeal in the other case would not resolve the issues on appeal in the other case. Supreme Court rejects the argument and persists in its decision to keep the first case in suspension, pending the outcome of the other case.

• September 1992: Michigan Supreme Court issues a ruling in the second case, reaffirming its December 1985 holding relative to the state's constitutional funding obligation. That is, the court ruled that the state must provide each school district for every year subsequent to the 78-79 the proportion of funding supplied statewide in 78-79 for each area of mandated services.

• October 1992: Fitzgerald school district and the state, through the attorney general, request that the first case now be considered by the Michigan Supreme Court, since the ruling on the second case was not dispositive on the issues on appeal in the first case.

• December 1992: Michigan

Supreme Court remand the case to the appeals court for right of the September 1992 ruling in the second case.

In June 1995, 81 of the 84 districts voted to reject the state's settlement offer of $45 million, to be divided among the plaintiff districts. The remaining three voted to accept the offer.

The majority of the districts rejected the state's offer because they felt they were underfunded by more than $45 million — and suggested it was more like $500 million.

Planned Parenthood Holiday Mart to be Oct. 18-20

By Chip Chapman
Staff Writer

Specialty shop owners from California to Massachusetts will converge on the Grosse Pointe War Memorial next week as part of the 1996 Holiday Mart to benefit Planned Parenthood of Southeast Michigan.

"We bring in more than 30 stores — such as toy stores and clothing stores — and set them up all over the War Memorial," said Holiday Mart publicity chairperson Myrna Smith. "The preview party is Thursday, Oct. 17, and the Holiday Mart runs from Oct. 18 to 20."

Grosse Pointe businesses, such as Accents, Little Cottage Designs and Mary Beth Designs, are also participating in the Holiday Mart.

Fourteen percent of the sales from

Over." The computer-programmed doll, which cries at random intervals day or night, is designed to teach teens and young adults what it is really like to care for an infant.

Phyllis Henry, who teaches parenting and child development classes at North and South high schools, will be using "Baby Think It Over" dolls in her course. To prepare, she selected two students from South High School as a trial. Shelly Steiman and John Riley, each took a "Baby Think It Over" doll home for a weekend.

"They were so enthusiastic," Henry said. "They took the dolls home the weekend before Homecoming. They really had to disrupt their lives to do this."

The only way to stop the "baby" from crying is to hold a key in its back turning the responsibility over to someone else."

The dolls are also programmed to let the instructor know how often the doll has cried, for how long, and whether the doll has been abused or neglected.

"A student just can't leave the doll in a closet overnight," Henry said. "I will be able to tell if that has happened."

The students must have their parents' permission in order to bring one of the dolls home.

"Teenagers who have babies usually live at home and their parents share many of the responsibilities,"

Smith said.

"It was hard," Steiman said. "The baby woke up and cried at least four times each night for about a half hour. I lost a lot of sleep."

"It was really annoying. John and I co-parented on Friday night, but we had to stay home. During the day I took mine everywhere. It cried while I was in Kinko's, while I was in the library, while I was in class on Monday."

"I'm glad I did it. I'm not going to have kids until I know what I want to do with my life. It was good experience for a child care class."

Henry will receive additional dolls from Planned Parenthood to use in her classes.

"For now, it is a voluntary part of the class, but most of the students want to do this," Henry said.

Henry plans to have 16 "Baby Think It Over" dolls loaned by Planned Parenthood for her classes this November.

"That way, all of the students will have access to the dolls within a week's time, instead of each student taking turns," she said.

Funds raised during the Holiday Mart will help pay for the dolls, which can cost upward of $500, Henry said.

Members of the 1996 Holiday Mart committee are Lynn Parks, Susan Starr, Ann Hudson, Beth Whitney, Nancy Smith, Helen McKnight, Happy Rands, Debbie Shumaker and Carole Tibbitts.

The honorary chairpersons are Mr. and Mrs. William C. Rands III and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Klein.

The preview party begins at 5:30 and goes until 9 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 17. The cost of this event is $40 a person, and features hors d'oeuvres from Chianti Villa Lago, Europa Market, The Silver Spoon and Tom's Oyster Bar.

The Holiday Mart runs from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday, Oct. 18; from 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 19; and from noon to 5 p.m. on Sunday, Oct. 20. Admission is $5.

For reservations or more information about the preview party, call (313) 884-7624. For information about Planned Parenthood and the 1996 Holiday Mart, call (810) 758-4701.

Shelly Steiman and John Riley care for the "Baby Think It Over" dolls. The two South High School seniors were each responsible for a "baby" over a weekend period last month.

Mental Illness Research Association holds fundraiser

The Mental Illness Research Association (MIRA) held its annual Gold Key Event in September to raise funds for its two-fold mission: to increase funding for brain research and to erase the stigma that blocks funding and incentives for people to seek treatment.

"The event raised money for brain research," said Grosse Pointer Joe Weaver, retired editorial director of WJBK-TV, who, with his wife Angela, helped plan the event.

More than 600 friends of MIRA gathered to enjoy an evening of musical presentations which included the Johnny Trudell Orchestra, Barbara Lewis, and a parade of local media personalities who performed onstage — Devin Scillian, Rich Fisher, Jim Madaus, Colleen Burcar and Dick Purtan, with two of his daughters, Jill Purtan Swoish and Jessica Purtan Harrel.

"You sang your hearts out for MIRA and you won our hearts as well," said Angela Weaver, referring to the media's contribution to the successful musical evening.

Patrick Elwell, MIRA founder and president, reminded the audience that their support was helping fund research on Alzheimer's disease, autism, depression and schizophrenia.

MIRA will host another benefit, a preview of the Michigan Antique Show and Sale, from 6:30 to 10 p.m. Friday, Nov. 8, in the Shotwell-Gustafson Pavilion at Oakland University in Grosse Pointers Joe and Angela Weaver attended the annual Mental Illness Research Association (MIRA) fundraiser in September. The benefit raised funds for brain research.

Rochester. The antique show will be Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 9-10.

Tickets to the preview are $60 and may be ordered in advance by calling (800) 896-MIRA. Tickets will be $70 after Tuesday, Nov. 5, and on the day of the event.

Antique show hours are 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday; 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday. Tickets to the show are $6 and are good for both days.

Shoot for a Cure: Three Grosse Pointers will take part in the fourth annual Henry Ford Hospital and Detroit Pistons "Shoot for a Cure" event, which will take place on Friday, Oct. 11, at the Palace of Auburn Hills.

Proceeds from the event will go to the Henry Ford Hospital Will Robinson Neurosurgery Fund, which supports research and treatment of brain tumors, stroke, epilepsy, head injury and spinal disorders.

"Shoot for a Cure" will begin at 6 p.m., before the opening preseason game between the Detroit Pistons and the Los Angeles Clippers.

Former Grosse Pointer Neal Shine, retired publisher of the Detroit Free Press, will be honored at half time for his years of community service; and Dr. Clarence Livingood of the City of Grosse Pointe will be recognized for his resilience after spinal surgery.

The VIP package, which is $150, includes a pregame buffet and silent auction; lower level VIP suite seating; and a post-game reception that includes a live auction and appearances by the Detroit Pistons at the Palace Club.

For information, call (313) 876-9234.

Jewelry sale

The Gold & Sterling Silver Jewelry Sale, presented by the Gift Shop Guild of the Cottage Hospital Auxiliary, will be held from 7 a.m. to 4 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 17, in the lobby of Henry Ford Cottage Hospital.

Proceeds from the sale and a raffle will benefit the hospital and its health care services in the community. Raffle tickets are $1 each or 12 for $10. The drawing will be at 3 p.m. and prizes include $500 cash, a 14K gold diamond cocktail ring and a mountain bike as well as gift certificates for restaurants, theater tickets, flowers, wine and home accessories.

Shown with the mountain bike which will be third prize, are, from left: Florine Flynn, chairman of the fundraiser; Ruth Schueler; Joyce Jipson; and Del Jennings. Not shown is Darlene Towle.

Marathon: The 19th annual Detroit Free Press/Mazda International Marathon will be held on Sunday, Oct. 20, and organizers expect about 2,000 runners, wheelers and race walkers to accept the challenge of the 26.2-mile course.

The National Multiple Sclerosis Society has been a beneficiary of the marathon for the last 14 years, as runners solicit pledges in the "Run for MS" program.

All runners collecting pledges for MS will get special recognition and a "Run for MS" T-shirt. Those who collect more than $75 are eligible for prizes.

For information about registering, sponsoring runners or volunteering, call the MS Society at (800) 247-7382.

Endangered species find sanctuary in post offices

National Stamp Collecting Month was kicked off on Wednesday, Oct. 2, with the issue of the Endangered Species, a pane of stamps depicting 15 at-risk animals.

"We hope these beautiful images will increase awareness of these at-risk animals and other endangered species," said postmaster general Marvin Runyon. "These stamps continue not only the postal service's dedication to the environment, but its dedication to promoting the educational benefits of stamp collecting to our nation's youth, as well."

With the theme "Collect & Protect," National Stamp Collecting Month encourages people of all ages to get involved in one of the world's most popular hobbies, philately.

The Postal Service is encouraging collectors to get "a little wild" this year and add the Endangered Species stamps to their collections.

The 32-cent stamps include the Black-footed ferret, Thick-billed parrot, Hawaiian monk seal, American crocodile, Ocelot, Schaus swallowtail butterfly, Wyoming toad, Brown pelican, California condor, Gila trout, San Francisco garter snake, Woodland caribou, Florida panther, Piping plover and the Florida manatee.

"Using stamps to heighten the awareness of endangered wildlife is a great way to keep conservation on the minds of the public," said Sydney J. Butler, executive director of the American Zoo and Aquarium Association. "We encourage people to visit their local zoos, aquariums, or post offices to learn about these animals."

Scottish group installs first woman president

Florence Michie Stahl

The St. Andrew's Society of Detroit installed its new slate of officers on Sept. 9, including its first woman president, Grosse Pointer Florence Michie Stahl.

The St. Andrew's Society of Detroit is a benevolent group for people in the metropolitan Detroit area of Scottish heritage. Formed in 1849, the society's goal is to help those less fortunate and to promote the Scottish heritage. Its motto is "Relieve the Distressed."

Stahl was born on the Isle of Skye, Scotland, and moved to the metropolitan Detroit area in 1929. She was raised in Grosse Pointe and attended college in Massachusetts. She moved back to Grosse Pointe, married and raised a family.

Stahl first applied to the society in 1983, but was rejected because it was a men-only organization. Her application was accepted two years later.

She belongs to the Clan Forbes and Clan Buchanan and is a docent at the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House.

Other officers who were initiated at the Sept. 9 meeting were Liam Neery, first vice president; John McIntosh, second vice president; and Mary Jo Krueger, secretary.

The Pastor's Corner

The Leningrad Codex

By Roger Skully
President, G.P. Ministerial Association

Grosse Pointe Memorial Church will host a unique celebration on Sunday, Oct. 27. The church and its pastor, the Rev. V. Bruce Rigdon, have brought about the publication of a facsimile version of the Leningrad Codex, the oldest surviving manuscript of the complete Hebrew Bible.

The Grosse Pointe Community should be aware of this historic event and the significant role played by Rigdon and the staff of Grosse Pointe Memorial. The rest of this article is quoted from Rigdon:

"The original Leningrad Codex, which dates to the 10th century, consists of nearly 1,000 pages and is housed at the Saltykov-Shchedin State Public Library in Leningrad/St. Petersburg. It is the jewel of the Firkovich-Antonin collection. A facsimile version of the Codex was published in 1971, but most of the marginal notes in the reproduction process were lost, and it was of such poor quality as to be nearly unreadable.

"After several years of negotiation in the late 1980s, the library where the Codex is housed approved a project to rephotograph the pages of the Codex. The project was developed by American scholars from a number of institutions.

"The publication of the new facsimile edition is of a level of quality and integrity commensurate with its pride of place among Biblical manuscripts. It constitutes a major addition to the stock of authoritative Biblical source literature available to scholars, synagogues, churches, libraries, and the general public.

"Prior to the eighth and ninth century, C.E., written texts of the Hebrew Bible — the surviving products of religious scribes — were a skeleton of letters containing neither vowel nor accent, not cantillation marks.

"Concerns regarding survival of the knowledge needed to read, pronounce, chant and understand the Bible led to the development of the vowel and other marks, which are now a common part of the Hebrew text of the Bible. These marks, or points, were developed between the seventh and ninth centuries by a group known as the Masoretes, who then began to add these markings to texts of portions of the Bible.

"In addition to the placement of vowels and other markings, the Masoretic scholars added marginal annotations literally — on the margins of each page — which serve as an index and cross-reference for the linguistic features of the Bible. Fully pointed texts, containing both the markings and marginal notes, are referred to as Codex editions.

"The first known Codex of the complete Hebrew Bible dates to the year 1009 C.E. and is believed to have been the work of Aaron Ben Asher, a leader of the school of Masoretes located in Tiberias. Known as the Aleppo Codex, it exists today only in fire-damaged and fragmentary form, with most of its Torah and many other important portions no longer extant.

"The Tiberian school produced another complete Codex modeled after (some say copied from) the Aleppo, and is now known as the Leningrad Codex."

Services of dedication and a dinner will follow the event at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club. Professor James A. Sanders, an internationally recognized authority on the Dead Sea Scrolls, will be the featured speaker.

Further information and tickets for the dinner may be obtained by contacting Grosse Pointe Memorial Church.

Pointer goes to Guatemala on 'mission to mothers'

In a country like Guatemala, where the health care system consists of health workers making personal visits to patients who live in villages inaccessible by car, the additional pair of caring, skilled hands of a health care professional is indeed cause for joy.

Judith Benkert, a member of the Adrian Dominican religious congregation, has been granted one year's sabbatical to minister in the region of Suchitepequez in Guatemala. A certified nurse and midwife, Benkert left last August to serve the nation's indigenous population. She hopes that through her efforts mothers will understand the importance of prenatal care and continue to practice it long after she leaves.

"If you can reach the mothers," she said, "then you can reach the family. Traditionally, women have waited to see a health care professional only after a problem has arisen. I want to encourage women to practice good prenatal care and then pass that value along to their children, who in turn pass it along to theirs."

Partial funding of her sabbatical was provided by Seton Institute of International Development. One of her projects is to make a video in the Mayan dialect of Quiche to explain the basics of prenatal and infant care. The other project is to initiate a program of immunization of infants and children in the villages. There, a four-wheel drive vehicle is a necessity, but even that will only be able to take her so far. The rest of the travel will be on foot to these remote areas to assess health care needs.

Headquarters for Benkert will be Santa Tomas La Union where she will work with sisters of the Blessed Virgin Mary (of Dubuque, Iowa) who staff the "Clinica Maxena" in the region of Suchitepequez.

Her Spanish skills will be an asset. Initially, she will need others to translate to and from Quiche, which she says has a tonal quality similar to the Chinese language.

Benkert has extensive education, certification and experience to bring with her to the Mayan communities throughout Guatemala. She is a registered nurse, received certification as a nurse-midwife from the American College of Nurse-Midwives, was fully licensed in California in 1982, and most recently received certification as a family nurse practitioner.

For the past 15 years, Benkert has worked with low-income women in California and Mississippi. She treasures her one-on-one experience with women. Bringing new, healthy life into the world and teaching valuable nurturing skills to mothers are a source of special joy to her as a woman religious.

"Many people think a vocation is restrictive," Benkert said. "It's quite the contrary. I have the freedom to go to Guatemala because of my vocation as an Adrian Dominican. It's liberating to be able to respond to such basic needs as prenatal care and delivering babies. Also, I'm excited to be exposed to a whole new culture while sharing my own."

Born in Grosse Pointe Farms to Robert and Eleanor Benkert, now deceased, Benkert entered the Adrian Dominican Congregation after graduating from St. Paul Catholic High School in 1961. Her choice of this congregation was based in part on her experience with the Dominican Sisters who taught at St. Paul. She made her profession as a religious in 1966.

She has promised to write regularly to the people of St. Paul, sharing her experiences.

Executive Seminar slates fall weekend in St. Clair

The Executive Seminar, an annual fall weekend event organized by a group of local business and professional leaders and their wives, will celebrate its 12th anniversary when more than 125 participants gather Oct. 18-20, at the St. Clair Inn in St. Clair.

This year's featured speaker will be Richard Foth, college president, Bible teacher, writer, and former talk show host on the weekly radio broadcast "Wake Up and Live."

Foth has traveled the world to speak at conferences, marriage retreats and college campuses. After his 14-year tenure as president of Bethany College in California, Foth moved to Washington, D.C., where he is currently working with congressional and diplomatic leaders on national and international reconciliation efforts.

Organized in 1984, the Executive Seminar's purpose is to provide an opportunity for couples and singles to take time out in a relaxed setting and examine how to apply their faith in meeting the daily pressures of life.

In addition to hosting nationally recognized speakers, participants also share life-changing experiences.

Hosts for the weekend are John and Marlene Boll, Allen and Francis Carter, Ted and Beverly Harris, Jim and Arlyne Lane, Peter and Maureen Mercier, John and Diane Mills, John and Suzanne Nicholson and Michael and Nancy Timmis.

"The setting, the quality of speakers, and the positive impact their messages have had on the lives of those who have attended are what has made the Executive Seminar a success over the years," said Michael Timmis, one of the group's founders. "It has been gratifying to have seen the seminar grow. It is a tribute to everyone involved."

The weekend will begin with a Friday evening dinner and extend through a Sunday morning breakfast. In addition to a variety of presentations, there will be ample free time for participants to enjoy both the ambience and amenities of the setting.

Additional information about the seminar is available by calling Susan Graham at (313) 396-4200, or Joe Gualtieri at (313) 392-1008.

Lay Theological Academy offers two-part series

Monsignor F. Gerald Martin will lead a course exploring the religious poetry of Alfred Lord Tennyson, Robert Browning, Gerard Manly Hopkins and Matthew Arnold.

The two-part series, titled "Victorian Secrets," will be presented from 7 to 9 p.m. Mondays, Oct. 14 and 21, at the Canfield Educational Center. Registration fee is $5 for each session.

Martin will conduct the same course from 11 a.m. to noon Monday mornings, Oct. 21 and 28, and Nov. 4 and 11, in the Undercroft of Christ Church Grosse Pointe.

The course is part of the Lay Theological Academy's Christianity 2000, 1996-97 theme: "Roots and Wings." "Victorian Secrets" is part of a three-course series titled

"Faith and the Arts."

Martin is pastor of St. Paul Catholic parish, a columnist for The Michigan Catholic, and a former English professor at Sacred Heart Seminary in Detroit.

Pre-registration is not necessary, but appreciated. Call Janet Schaeffler at (313) 885-7022 for evening sessions; call Christ Church at (313) 885-4841 for the morning series.

The history of bread

By Allison Boomer
Special Writer

Bread making has been around for a long time, beginning around 10,000 B.C. after the last ice age when the Earth warmed up and grasses and seeds began to grow. The nomadic hunters of the world discovered that they could harvest, dry and grind them to produce a coarse, gritty flour.

The first primitive breads appeared in the eastern Mediterranean as the people of the Middle East established themselves and learned to select and cultivate the wild wheat and barley grasses that grew around them. The toasted and ground grains were first mixed with water, then kneaded into a thick paste or dough resulting in an unleavened bread which became a staple food.

The first real farming methods were developed around 6,000 B.C. Along with the development of new strains of wheat, fermented liquids were discovered. This was the beginning of yeast. Its inclusion in wheat-flour-based doughs was found to make bread rise.

It is thought that the ancient Egyptians, as early as 5,000 B.C., knew about and ate leavened bread. By 4,000 B.C. most countries in Europe were farming countries and new types of wheat continued to be developed. Along with the development of wheat came improved methods of grinding and sifting the grain to produce a finer flour. The first ovens of Europe, called pot ovens, trapped steam inside them and made the bread softer. All these advancements improved the quality and taste of bread.

By 1,000 B.C., the ancient Greeks had devised the first primitive mills to grind the wheat and barley that was grown all over the country. At the time, Greek bread was raised with a leaven made by soaking millet flour in grape juice — a fermentation method that is similar to the modern methods used today.

Later, the Romans invented a new type of mill which used circular revolving millstones. Flour was made finer than it had ever been before. The first bakeries were established and with them came greater distinctions between bread for the rich and for the poor. The Roman aristocracy insisted upon fine white bread, a preference which spread throughout the known world and which has persisted until late into the 20th century.

Around A.D. 1000 the growing and milling of grain in Europe had established a pattern that changed very little in the next 400 years. Mills were owned by the lords of particular villages and poor inhabitants were bound to bring their own grain to the lord's mill and pay for the privilege of having it ground.

Tremendous amounts of bread were consumed by medieval households; however, few recipes were written down. Apprentices learned from master bakers and young girls from their relatives at home.

As towns grew larger, and there were more commercial bakers, guilds were developed to control the price of bread. In France, bread making was reaching perfection and the Corporation des Boulangers was formed to clearly define the rights and duties of master bakers, apprentices and servants.

When Columbus discovered America, Europeans learned of maize or sweet corn from the Indians and, in return, wheat was taken to the New World. America became the world's largest grain producer.

Housewives in America were urged to bake their own bread. However, more bread was being made commercially and the process became increasingly mechanized as the first kneading machines were invented in the late 19th century.

These new methods could yield uniform, mass produced bread and large-scale bakeries in many parts of the world still use a similar process.

Today, handmade artisan breads of an earlier era are popular and are being made for modern households. Americans are discovering the satisfaction that comes from eating a freshly baked loaf of good bread.

Along with enjoying the taste of good bread is the knowledge that bread is a great benefit to our nutritional health.

Contrary to what many people may believe, bread is not fattening. Compare one slice of bread (70 calories and one gram of fat) with a blueberry muffin (115 calories, four grams of fat), an English scone (125 calories, seven grams of fat) or a croissant (235 calories, 12 grams of fat).

Bread also provides complex carbohydrates which are an important source of energy along with vitamins, minerals and fiber.

The nutrition education division of the United States Department of Agriculture, which released the new Food Guide Pyramid, recommends six to 11 servings of breads, cereals, rice and pasta a day. Graphically, the bread group forms the base of the Food Guide Pyramid which represents the foundation of a healthy diet; not unlike the diets of our ancestors in which bread was the cornerstone.

When selecting bread, let your senses guide you. Bread should look good as well as taste good. Any baker who produces a high quality bread takes pride in the appearance of his loaf. The bread should have a well-developed crust which will not only contribute to the flavor of the loaf but will keep the interior crumb moist.

When bread is cut, it should have a definite aroma. A good bread will smell like the grains from which it was made, such as wheat or rye. Bread should not smell of yeast; a yeasty smell implies that the bread has had too much yeast added to it and has been rushed. A good baker uses just the right amount of yeast or, better yet, a sour leaven that requires time. Time allows the bread dough to develop, like fine wine, giving the bread a complex taste and texture that cannot be rushed.

The taste of good bread is what will bring you back again and again. Bread that has this depth of flavor can only be accomplished by the hands of a skilled baker.

Bread in all its variety can be enjoyed any time of the day; it is the most versatile of foods. Have it toasted with preserves for breakfast, alongside a hearty soup for lunch, in a basket served with dinner, as an appetizer with olives and cheese or as a late afternoon snack with tea. Bread can even be eaten as a meal all by itself.

She has studied nutrition geography and worked as a nutrition epidemiologist for the Wayne State University School of Medicine. She is owner of The Upper Crust, a bread and specialty food store in Grosse Pointe Farms.

Free depression screenings available at Cottage Hospital

Depression is a medical condition and effective treatments are available. That's the message the American Psychiatric Association and other mental health organizations want to get across to the public.

Henry Ford Cottage Hospital will hold a free Depression Screening on National Depression Screening Day, Thursday, Oct. 10.

If you feel sad or empty, if the pleasure has gone out of your life, if you have trouble eating and sleeping, you may be suffering from clinical depression. It's more than a case of the blues. The symptoms last for months, and nothing can cheer you up.

The screenings will take place from 7 to 9 a.m. and from 4 to 8 p.m. in the hospital's lower level boardrooms. No appointment is necessary.

At 8 a.m. participants can attend a special presentation by Charlene McPeak, MSN, RN, CNS in child and adolescent psychiatric nursing.

Dr. Dan Guyer, chief of psychiatry at Henry Ford Cottage Hospital, will speak at noon; and Dr. James D. Adamo will be featured at 6 p.m.

Hip, knee replacement surgery to be discussed

An overview of hip and knee replacement surgery will be offered from 1 to 3 p.m. Monday, Oct. 14, and from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Monday, Oct. 21, at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

The speaker will be Dr. Andrew Shinar, an orthopedic surgeon.

He will outline the history of the operations and discuss the risks, how risks can be minimized, alternatives to joint replacement and who may be candidates for the procedures.

The cost of the lecture is $3 a person. For information, call (313) 881-7511.

Pain workshop to be at Woods center

If you are tired of persistent back and neck pain, then you might want to attend a free workshop, "Tired of Pain," at the Grosse Pointe Woods Community Center.

The workshop will be held on Thursday, Oct. 17, at 7 p.m. in the center located next to city hall, at 20025 Mack Plaza.

Dr. Kenneth Hutcheson, a certified applied clinical nutritionist and chiropractic physician, will speak about the causes and cures for pain, which include exercise and nutrition.

American Cancer Society launches web site

The American Cancer Society, Michigan division, has launched its web page on the Internet. As the Michigan chapter of the world's largest voluntary health organization, and as the nation's premier organization, the web site will serve as a major vehicle for the delivery of cancer information to the American public.

The American Cancer Society is currently the largest private source of cancer research dollars in the world and is the nation's most credible source of non-biased, accurate and consistent cancer information.

"We have extensive market research that indicates that the public is aware of the American Cancer Society and trusts us when it comes to providing accurate, up-to-date cancer information," said Cal Morgan, vice president of the American Cancer Society. "This is what makes our web site so exciting — American Cancer Society information is available to consumers 24 hours a day, seven days a week, and they don't even need to leave their homes.

"Because we're a national organization, our web site links to our national office's page to counterpart chapters in other states as well as to other cancer-related organizations. This means data, programs and service information are available to anyone, anytime, anywhere."

Though Michigan is among the first of the ACS state offices, many more will follow. Since its inception in 1995, the national page has received over two million inquiries, or "hits." Each month brings an additional 250,000 hits.

User friendliness was the top priority throughout the page's development. It is compatible with most Internet software currently in use, so virtually anyone can navigate easily through the pages.

Among the web site's many features are a calendar of events, local office information, volunteer opportunities and volunteer leadership. With the click of a mouse, a user can easily identify the nearest local office.

"What's critically important here is that we've made it easy for people to find our local offices if they prefer to phone or visit in person," Morgan said.

Links to the national page include comprehensive information on breast cancer, prostate cancer, the Relay For Life and the Great American SmokeOut, which will be held on Thursday, Nov. 21, this year. Other information includes publications such as 1996 Cancer Facts and Figures and materials from the American Cancer Society's Breast Cancer Network.

Uses of the web page beyond information delivery are also being pursued. High on the priority list is the distribution of products that provide value to American Cancer Society constituents.

The American Cancer Society's Michigan division Internet address is HTTP://WWW.MI.CANCER.ORG. For more information, call (800) ACS-2345, or call the regional office at (810) 557-5353, ext. 112.

IOF Foresters warn: Don't shake your baby

Shaking a baby, even one time, can delay normal development and result in brain damage, spinal injury, retardation, even death.

Shaken baby syndrome is a medical term used to describe the injuries sustained when infants are violently shaken.

Every year thousands of babies are injured and some die from being shaken as part of a pattern of abuse or simply because an adult has momentarily succumbed to the frustration of responding to a crying baby.

The IOF Foresters, a fraternal benefit society that offers family benefits and supports child abuse prevention and parent education, suggest the following tips if your baby cries a lot:

- Feed the baby slowly; burp the baby often.
- Offer the baby a pacifier.
- Hold the baby against your chest and walk or rock him/her.
- Take the baby for a ride in a stroller or car or put him/her in a baby swing.
- Take a break. Have someone else take care of the baby for a while if possible.

• Never shake your baby!

The IOF Foresters will help sponsor the first national conference on shaken baby syndrome Nov. 10-12, in Salt Lake City. The conference will unite national child abuse experts and explore the medical, legal and prevention challenges of shaken baby syndrome. For more information, call (801) 399-8430.

Child abuse is the No. 1 killer of children under the age of 4 in America, with estimates of 2,000 to 5,000 deaths a year and more than 140,000 serious injuries. Head trauma, including suspected shaken baby syndrome, is the leading cause.

A fraternal benefit society with more than a million members, the IOF Foresters is dedicated to helping families through such programs as free fingerprinting for children, care for needy hospitalized kids through the Children's Miracle Network, and child abuse prevention programs.

Bon Secours sponsors lecture on promoting healthier lungs

Bon Secours hospital will sponsor a free lecture on chronic lung diseases and their contributing factors from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 17, in the hospital's Connelly Auditorium.

A pulmonologist and respiratory therapist will discuss how to keep your lungs free from, or minimize the debilitating effects of, disease. After the lecture, respiratory therapists will be on hand to administer free pulmonary function tests.

For more information or to preregister, call Bon Secours Community Health Education at (810) 779-7900 between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. Mondays through Fridays.

New Arrivals of 1996

Grosse Pointe News and The Connection newspapers are planning their 2nd annual special edition featuring the babies of the past year. We hope you (and the little one) will participate by supplying us with a photograph of your child (only 1996 babies, please) for publication in this section.

This tabloid will be published in January, 1997. Your child's picture, along with other 1996 area babies, will be the main attraction! News and advertising about clothing, feeding, educating and caring for your child will also be included. It will be very informative as well as a commemorative edition for you!

Please send a cute, clear photo (color or black & white, home or studio produced, preferably smaller than a 5x7) to Grosse Pointe News & The Connection, 96 Kercheval Grosse Pointe Farms Michigan 48236. Attention: Kim Kozlowski, Display Advertising. Complete the information slip with your child's full name, date of birth and hospital and return it with your photo. Please print your name on the back of the photo so you can pick it up at our office after printing.

Your picture must be received in our office no later than Monday December 23rd, earlier would assist our production schedule. (Late November and December birth photos may be submitted until January 6, 1997.)

We look forward to producing our annual "Baby Edition" and are sure you want your little one included. A limited number of extra copies will be available for purchase to give to family and friends.

The Grosse Pointe News & The Connection require a $10.00 fee to cover production costs. Please include a check, money order or credit card number with your photo.

McNamara gets blame for Vietnam in book by Hendrickson

"The Living and the Dead: Robert McNamara and Five Lives of a Lost War"
By Paul Hendrickson
Knopf, 419 pages, $30.

Before I proceed in reviewing this merciless expose of the Vietnam War, I wish to express, if I can, my naked, sheer fury over this unconscionable blunder into an area in which we had no business in intervening.

Ever since that disaster, I have had the utmost contempt for President Lyndon Baines Johnson, who expanded this terrible venture in Southeast Asia. He did this under the immoral promptings of his secretary of defense, Robert Strange McNamara, an avid numbers-cruncher with a computer brain.

I consider both men equally responsible for the needless slaughter of my youngest nephew in May 1967. Corporal Willard Sherwin Prescott of Rolling Hills, Calif., was a Marine guardsman stationed in the relative safety of Guam. Young Bill, 20 years old, requested a transfer to Vietnam "to see some action." Unfortunately, he got his wish: barely 10 days in Vietnam he was killed by a sharpshooter. Certainly, I do not blame the Vietnamese soldier; he was merely trying to protect his own country from those American interlopers who had no business being there.

Johnson and McNamara consistently lied to the American public. They connived and plotted the tortuous course of a war with no seeming end; therefore, they succeeded in sending thousands of American youth to their deaths for a meaningless cause. Even after the president and his minion concluded they were on the wrong tack, they neglected to correct their disastrous course.

As expected, I found "The Living and the Dead" wrenchingly meaningful. Paul Hendrickson, the author, is a journalist who has written a startlingly candid account of all the nefarious misdirection of the war by those in their safe little pads in the White House.

He examines McNamara with a cold, merciless eye,

By Elizabeth P. Walker

exposing all his tricks and idiosyncrasies, flushing out his monumental ego to the light of day. This is the first book about the Vietnam era which has really struck me, very forcibly indeed, and I am grateful that Hendrickson had the courage and moral integrity to dig out the truth of this calamity.

The author has a wonderful eye-opening description of this dreadful man, McNamara, who is largely responsible for what occurred in Vietnam.

"For there is already in this very attractive man a deep and rigid and almost schizoid but in any case essentially deceitful code of opposites: opposite beliefs and sensibilities and values and ways of living in and dealing with the world. But somehow this deceit is working, working almost magically. Somehow the figures eater in Babylon (it's one of the hallway names they had for him at Ford) has been able to bifurcate his life between all the beady-eyed and hard-driving things he is by day and all the soft-sided and warm-hearted things he seeks to be by night.

"He has done all this as neatly and arbitrarily as you might place a garment on the ground and draw a sword through it. He has done it for a welter of complicated reasons, though mostly for the familiar reasons of ambition and pride. . . . But know this: In his wondrously cost-effective way he has decided he can make the whole thing work. . . . For all his brains, it's such an idiotic idea: a willed and fierce compartmentalization of who you really are."

These inner conflicts took a great toll on him personally.

Hendrickson explains how other lives became involved. "Who could have said in the winter of 1965 that these lives, and others too, would intersect — and sometimes literally — an ex-automaker's life at a kind of 60s bridge of San Luis Rey? That these lives and histories would find circles within circles, make strange arcs within their arcs? Wouldn't the probability of that occurring be something to bet against mathematically? Of course it would. Just as a logical positivist and rational utopian would have said it was nigh on impossible that there could ever one day be sticking up from the Washington earth a gash of glossy black marble with the names of 58,000 Americans on it."

Incidentally, Bill Prescott's name is on that glossy black marble. I have seen and touched it myself.

In Harvard, McNamara came across "such a disarming idea: numbers for management instead of numbers for audit. Think of it this way: historical numbers — that is, bookkeeping numbers — clarify what's past. Those are useful numbers, but they are essentially reactive. They are not inventive or creative. They are the numbers of a financial statement. What they do is impose order on something that by definition is already over.

"But numbers for management, numbers for forecast, ah, what they will do is put high beams on what's up ahead, out beyond the windshield. Those are an activist's numbers. Those are the tools of a rationalist, and if used well, they can be made not only to read the future but even help to fashion it, create it. And the power of that idea might candle the world."

In 1965, President Johnson with his adviser McNamara crossed the Rubicon: "Nsam-328, as the document came to be known, spelled out Johnson's recent military decisions: the two additional Marine battalions to Phubai and Danang, the increase in logistical forces preparatory to larger ground deployments; and the all-important change in troop mission, from base security to active combat.

With these decisions, LBJ had carried the United States, unmistakably, across the line from advisory support to war in Vietnam" as reported by Brian VanDeMark in his "Into the Quagmire."

Hendrickson describes how "in the long-ago just spring of 1965, the Vietnam War transformed itself: from the nice little one-column firefight a lot of folks thought it was going to be a few years earlier into a huge Americanized conflict. In the beginning the transforming was done covertly. But some secrets get increasingly hard to keep. Consider a statistic: At the end of 1964, right after Lyndon Johnson was elected to his first full term as president, there were 23,000 American military personnel in South Vietnam; a year later there were 184,000. Robert McNamara once said with emotional if not historical precision that all the errors in Vietnam had been committed by the spring of '65; after that, there seemed no way out."

ly cornered by the press who demanded answers to this escalation of the war.

"Four times in two minutes, McNamara deflected, dissembled, evaded, misled. To read a two-page transcript of this impromptu conference, to study film clips and audiotapes of it is to feel in touch with every bright shining deceit about Vietnam. It's not an effortless or cynical kind of lying — no. There's the stammer, the shift of eyes. He keeps telling his auditors of the 'logistical support and training and advisory personnel' bound for the war."

Further, Hendrickson tells of McNamara's shaky confidence as the war continues. "McNamara's pushing on the inside for bombing pauses and for new ways of thinking about the war in this period is something that must be paid attention to. The pushings were an act of conscience, I believe. They demonstrate moral courage from a shaken man. But McNamara's subsequent reversals and continued deceptions about the war over the next two years must equally be paid attention to. He would grow more darkly pessimistic, and he would stay. He would serve up the hard truth on the inside, sometimes, and he would go on agreeing to and designing further escalations, sending more platoons of the low-echelon into the elephant grass."

The numbers-cruncher eventually came to the awesome conclusion that his computer mind just was not able to cope with or end this dreadful, endless war. LBJ eased him out as secretary of defense to the presidential chair at the World Bank. Hendrickson's book contains a shocking photograph of McNamara in 1984, already worn, gaunt, and demoralized by his horrendous blunders in Vietnam.

Today, Robert Strange McNamara, now 80 years old, is a stooped lonely widower whose children have grown and left home.

So, he is very much alone with his memories, which, I hope, will bedevil him to the end of his life.

Grosse Pointe Arts Council adds two new groups, offers brochure

Can you believe summer is over already?

The grass is still green, due to the late summer heavy rains. It looks wonderful but, as all Michiganians know, when Mother Nature — indeed, a member emeritus of the Grosse Pointe Arts Council — paints her breathtaking landscapes, no place rivals the Michigan mitten with our trees and Great Lakes.

We in Grosse Pointe are blessed with easy access to these waters. This is truly a wonderful place to raise a family, because of our unique "village" atmosphere, compared to the subdivision and mall lifestyle.

We are really five unique villages with five separate governments. There is no

COUNCIL CORNER

Carol LaChiusa DiSanto
ARTS COUNCIL

Grosse Pointe Chamber of Commerce, as such.

We need to promote our own activities. To this end, the Grosse Pointe Arts Council was formed. In our endeavor to help small groups, we have printed a brochure listing cultural organizations that you can join and businesses that specialize in the arts. This brochure is now available at all the Grosse Pointe libraries and city halls.

Two new groups have joined the Arts Council. They are The Craft Guild and The Jazz Forum.

The Craft Guild is an informal club that meets the second Wednesday evening of each month. The group is open to anyone who enjoys the love of traditional and nontraditional crafts. A different craft is presented each month and worked on by all members with hands-on instructions by an experienced member.

Past crafts have included smoking, paper making, knitting and pumpkin carving.

The group seeks people with "old" craft skills, or those who just enjoy trying something new. The goal is to pass on many of the "lost" arts to the next generation.

For more information, call Judy Bontleon at (313) 881-3306, or Shirley Spaczkowski at (313) 885-9034.

Grosse Pointe will play host to The Jazz Forum. These concerts are well known among jazz connoisseurs, because the forum sponsors the creme de la creme of the jazz world. They are open to everyone.

The next concert will be Wednesday, Nov. 13, and will feature alto saxophonist Phil Lasley, along with a trumpet and rhythm section, plus vocals by Barbara Ware.

The George Benson Quintet will be featured at the Wednesday, Dec. 4 concert. Pretty impressive line-ups.

The concerts are held at the Unitarian Church, 17150 Maumee, and start at 8 p.m. You can order tickets or get more information through Jim or Trena Ruffner at (313) 961-1714. Individual concerts are $10 in advance; $12 at the door.

I hope you were able to attend the League of Women Voters' Candidates Forum Oct. 9, at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. Being an informed voter is important.

And the Grosse Pointe Community Chorus is practicing for its Christmas concert now. Rehearsals are held every Tuesday at 7 p.m. in the choir room at Grosse Pointe North High School. New members will be accepted until Tuesday, Oct. 15.

Call Donna Sprague for more information at (313) 521-4488.

Detroit Concert Choir performs at Woods church

By Johanna Gilbert
Special Writer

They came in droves. On a beautiful autumn Sunday afternoon — perfect for sailing or walking — people streamed into the Grosse Pointe Woods Presbyterian Church to hear a concert.

Chairs were quickly set up to accommodate additional seating with an audience of 700 already in place.

"If only we had this problem on Sunday mornings," said the Rev. Jack Ziegler, pastor of the church, as he welcomed the guests.

What drew such an audience? The Detroit Concert Choir was celebrating winning the title of "Choir of the World" at the Llangollen Wales 1996 competition.

In existence for nine years, drawing people from 35 communities (Grosse Pointe, Ann Arbor, Albion, Detroit and surrounding areas), the members share a passion for music that originated for many in high school while singing under Gordon Nelson's direction.

A reverent, soaring "Star-Spangled Banner" opened the program, followed by two songs from the Wales competition: "Svete Tihly" (Gladstone Light), sung in Russian, by Gretchaninoff, and "Brazilian Psalm" by American composer Jean Berger, sung in Portuguese. Both songs were sung a cappella, showing the versatility in dynamics, rhythm and interpretation. In the "Brazilian Psalm," notes in the high range were topped effortlessly by the sopranos and Walter McLean's tenor rang with the purity of crystal.

Other examples of the Detroit Concert Choir's fine performance included "Knut Nystedt" (Seek Ye the Lord). The line "my thoughts are not your thoughts . . ." was sung hauntingly and later "for as the rain and snow fall" the voices were staggered and the sound of rain/snow was sensed. The word "joy" created an exuberance of sound and the passage "all the trees of the field shall clap their hands" was accompanied with rhythmic applause. It was stunning.

The Detroit Concert Choir Women's ensemble in the "Kyrie Eleison" spun the line on endless breath. As they entered the "Gloria," the altos produced a rich melodic line that played well against the energetic rhythm of the soprano section.

It is difficult to resist sharing the entire program because each grouping deserves recognition. Yet we would be remiss without remembering who had the vision, skill and passion to make this choir a reality — Gordon Nelson.

Joe Wanchik, president of the board, thanked the enthusiastic audience and reminded them of the continual need for financial support as the choir does not have major corporate or individual sponsors. He closed by saying: "Will you come again?"

The answer is a resounding "Yes."

War Memorial sponsors trip to Detroit Opera House

The Grosse Pointe War Memorial will sponsor an excursion to the newly restored Detroit Opera House on Sunday, Nov. 17, for a matinee performance of the Michigan Opera Theatre production of "West Side Story."

The day will begin with a lunch at 11:30 a.m. at the War Memorial, hosted by Bernard Reilly, who will offer insights into the production of the modern version of Romeo and Juliet set to the music of Leonard Bernstein.

After lunch a motorcoach will take theatergoers to the Opera House, where main floor seats have been reserved. Return to the War Memorial will be about 4:30 p.m.

Tickets are $82 a person and include lunch, speaker and ticket. Reservations are requested before Tuesday, Oct. 15. Call (313) 881-7511.

Entertainment books for sale

The 1997 Entertainment Book is filled with hundreds of money-saving coupons redeemable at restaurants and businesses in the metropolitan Detroit area.

The National Alliance for Research on Schizophrenia and Depression (NARSAD) is selling the books as a fundraiser. Books are $40, with $8 going to brain disorder research. For information, call Dr. Thomas Coles at (313) 885-0632.

Detroit Garden Center offers 'Cooking with Herbs'

The Detroit Garden Center will present "Cooking with Herbs and Spices" and a fall tea, "Frost on the Pumpkin," beginning at 1 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 24.

Members of the Grosse Pointe unit of the Herb Society of America will demonstrate how to make a cornucopia of fresh herbs for a centerpiece and how to make a variety of herb-flavored baked goods.

Tea will follow the presentation. The center is located at 1460 E. Jefferson. The $15 admission includes tea and recipes. For information or reservations, call (313) 259-6363.

DetroitReview Club

The Detroit Review Club will celebrate its 105th anniversary at its annual philanthropic party Saturday, Oct. 12, at the Gourmet House. Proceeds from the event will go to several charitable organizations.

The party will begin at 10:30, with boutique shopping for arts and crafts, children's learning toys, handbags, stationery, cosmetics, used books, children's clothes and more.

Cocktail hour begins at 11 a.m. and will include entertainment by Helen Ruda, pianist, and Dorothy Ignasiak, singer. Lunch will be served at noon, followed by a fashion show by Joani's Fashion

Boutique. "We realize that all of us are not size 6 or 8," said Bernice Dabous, who will provide commentary about the clothes. "Therefore we shall present a variety of sizes to emphasize that clothes which fit properly can help anyone appear stylish and fashionable."

Current president of the club is Geraldine Santangelo. Sarah Barger is chairman of the party. Other committee members include Jessie Kanehl, Elaine Stephen, Jeanette Walker and Ida Mae Massnick.

The Detroit Review Club's purpose is to further philanthropic interests of members and to provide opportunities for their social and cultural fulfillment. Monthly programs feature speakers on a variety of Norsemen win crosstown soccer clash

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

If Grosse Pointe North soccer coach Sam Steinhebel had to write a script for beating crosstown rival Grosse Pointe South he would have done it exactly the way it happened last Friday. "We knew going in that, like every North-South game, the first goal is the key one," Steinhebel said after the Norsemen's 2-0 victory in the Macomb Area Conference crossover game.

"The players on both sides elevate themselves so much for this game — they get so keyed up — that it's tough to come back from one goal down." North got that all-important goal only a minute and a half into the contest. Richmond

Inger took a pass from Steve Drader, came down the right flank, ran to the near post and shot the ball just inside the far post.

A few minutes later, the Norsemen were up 2-0. Stopper Rich Grosfield forced a restart and David Dwalby got the ball to Dimitri Karabetsos, who headed it into the net.

After that it became a matter of not making mistakes.

"This was a team effort from our goalkeeper, Joe Petkwitz, who played a real solid game and made some good decisions, to the defense, to the midfielders and to the forwards," Steinhebel said.

"All 11 players stepped it up when they had to. One of our problems lately has been that we're beating ourselves with mistakes. That's how we lost to Lakeview and tied Lake Shore and South Lake. If we play error-free we can win games like this."

Steinhebel was surprised by the two-goal margin.

"I thought it would be a one-goal game, whichever team won," he said. "If we can play like this the rest of the way we'll stay in contention for our division title."

North leads the MAC Blue Division with a 5-1-2 record, while South is atop the MAC White standings with an 8-0 mark.

Steinhebel said he didn't plan any different strategy for the Blue Devils.

"We didn't do anything special for this game," he said. "All the kids on both teams are from the same feeder system so everybody knows who has what. We know we have a good strong core of kids and South has a nice team, too."

"A game like this all comes down to who wants it more and I don't think anybody could want it more than our kids. We had a team dinner Thursday night and I could see in their eyes how much they wanted to win."

Earlier, North played a 2-2 tie with South Lake. The Cavaliers tied the game on a late penalty kick.

"We just fell asleep and South Lake capitalized on our mistakes," Steinhebel said.

Petkwitz and Karabetsos scored the North goals, while Petkwitz and David Herrmann shared the goalkeeping duties.

"We got a good effort from John Choike," Steinhebel said. "Our defense was struggling and he stepped up to get us going again."

North then beat L'Anse Creuse 3-1 in a Blue Division game.

Drader scored two goals and Kerabetsos notched the other one.

"We seem to play at the level of the opposition," Steinhebel said. "We played one of our better games against South and they're one of the best teams we've faced."

North got strong performances from Grosfield, A.C. Collinson and Andy Gwinnell.

"L'Anse Creuse plays on a short field and Grosfield had a good game at stopper," Steinhebel said.

The coach also praised the efforts of Brad Collinson and Peter Marks.

"Brad has stepped in at left fullback and done a wonderful job, while Peter stepped in at sweeper for (former All-Stater) Sean Schotthoefer and has played well," Steinhebel said.

"And guys like Mike Tymrak and Craig Hodges have played well when they've come in to spell one of the starters. That's a tough job."

North's offense hasn't been overpowering this season, but the attack is balanced.

"We haven't had a real potent offense but a lot of kids have stepped up," he said. "I think all of our forwards and midfielders have figured in the scoring at one time or another."

The Norsemen are 10-1-2 overall.

It's a battle for the ball between players from Grosse Pointe North and Grosse Pointe South during last week's crosstown battle. The Norsemen posted a 2-0 victory.

South stays atop MAC White division

Adam Bramlage scored two goals Monday to lead Grosse Pointe South to a 6-0 victory over Port Huron Northern in a Macomb Area Conference White Division soccer game.

The win improved the Blue Devils' record to 9-0 in league play with three games remaining.

Steve Andris and Steve Howson.

Robert Euashka recorded his fifth shutout of the season.

Earlier, the Blue Devils beat MAC White rival Warren-Mott 1-0 on a goal by Yeskey.

Euashka chalked up his fourth shutout as South improved its overall record to 11-2.

Highlights

The Reds came out of the losers' bracket to win the championship in the Neighborhood Club's men's hardball league.

The Reds beat Remax in the Pointes 13-7 in the first game of the double-elimination final and came back with a 7-4 win in the second game.

"We came on strong with solid hitting in the first game," said the Reds' Richard Reynolds. "We got every hit that we had ever missed all season."

Larry Stamos, Mike Montreuil and John Dombrowski each collected three hits in the first game, while Rico Mayne hit a triple and walked three times. Gordie Kobus was the winning pitcher.

In the second contest, winning pitcher Mark Bieszki hit an RBI triple and Phil Hannah had a two-run homer.

Rustic Cabins dominated the Neighborhood Club's men's softball leagues this year, winning championship in each of the three divisions.

Rustic beat Grumpy's 6-5 on a two-run single by John Zarembski in the bottom of the seventh in the title game of the 30-and-older Monday league.

Rustic Cabins came out of the winners' bracket, but lost the first game of the finals to Grumpy's.

"This was a repeat of last year's playoff game with opposite results," said Grumpy's Mike Titterington.

Grumpy's got excellent pitching from Ed Fleming to hold Rustic scoreless for 12 innings. Overall strong play from Grumpy's Jeff Mills, Terry Fleming, Vince DeLorenzo, Brad Brys and Lionel Good forced Rustic Cabins to work hard. Bill Jamieson, who founded the team in 1966, is the senior member of the Rustic Cabins squad. Buzz Morris has been on the team since 1971.

"This was a good year that we thoroughly enjoyed," Morris said.

The Rustics Brew Crew beat Tewes Company for the championship in the Tuesday 18 and older league.

Like the Monday Rustic team, the Brew Crew started in the winners bracket and lost the first game 6-5 in extra innings. But the Brew Crew left no doubts in the second contest, winning 22-2.

"We hadn't play for a few weeks before we took the field for that first game," said the Brew Crew's Dan Cimini.

When asked what the team's strategy was, Cimini replied "to score runs."

Members of the Tewes Company squad were Rocky Blazny, John Carillo, Kurt Higley, Joe Mac, Paul Mattes, Joel Patterson, Mark Schneider, Carl Tewes, Tony Tewes, Marty Wayman and Nick Yaccabucci.

The third Rustic Cabins championship came in the Wednesday 18 and older league with a 15-13 win over Fikany Real Estate in the final game.

Tom Ostrowski's grand slam in the bottom of the seventh produced the winning runs.

Fikany started with an eight-run first inning, but Rustic began chipping away with a couple of runs in the next few innings.

Togetherness carried University Liggett School's cross country team to a pair of Metro Conference victories.

The Knights beat Hamtramck 15-49 and defeated Lutheran North 22-33.

U.S. sophomore Joel Parrott finished second overall in the double dual meet, while freshman Blair Foust was just a few steps behind in third place. U.S. Sonny Ford was fourth.

"We don't have one dominant runner, so I tell the guys to stick together during the race," said coach Phil Langford. "We can't afford not to consecutively place at least three runners."

Ford battled with Lutheran North's No. 2 runner throughout the race.

"He threw in several surges but (Sonny) couldn't break him until the final 60 yards," Langford said.

Kurt Niemi and Clark Durant came on strong to finish sixth and seventh for U.S.

Later, the Knights were fourth at the Center Line Schoensee Invitational. The finish illustrated how much U.S. has improved this season.

"It was our best finish ever," Langford said. "We've never finished higher than 12th, but we were flat. The guys were together until about one and a half miles and them most of them began to struggle."

Parrott was the leading U.S. runner with Foust finishing a second behind.

North swimmers sink South

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe North's girls swimming team might be a year away from being a state title contender, but now the Norsemen are setting their sights on the Macomb Area Conference Red Division title.

"We've got a couple of outstanding freshmen coming in next year," said coach Mike O'Connor. "Cortney Piper and Rachele Atrasz are 2-3 in the state in the 200 and 500 (freestyle events) and they'll be back, along with Jennifer Reck, who's doing a nice job as a freshman this year."

The Norsemen took a big step toward a MAC Red dual meet title last week when they beat crosstown rival Grosse Pointe South 116-70.

Reck won the 200-yard individual medley and the 100 freestyle, while Michelle Vasapolli had firsts in the 50 freestyle and 100 backstroke.

Piper set a school record and achieved a state qualifying time in the 500 freestyle with a 4:59.59. Atrasz won the 200 freestyle with a 1:56.02, also a state qualifying time.

"That's the first time Cortney's broken five minutes in the 500 in a high school meet," O'Connor said.

"When you're as good as she and Rachele it's tough to have big drops from meet to meet. It usually happens only twice a year — before the state meet and again before the nationals."

Piper was second in the 200 freestyle and Atrasz was runner-up in the 500, with both achieving state qualifying times in those events, too.

They both had their best times of the season in each of the two freestyle races.

Jaime Taylor was North's other individual winner with a first in the 100 butterfly.

North won all three relays. The team of Vasapolli, Atrasz, Piper and Reck was first in the 200 medley relay (1:58.58).

Reck, Kim Feikens, Jane Kopf and Piper teamed up to win the 200 freestyle relay in 1:46.51 and the team of Vasapolli, Liisa Bergmann, Feikens and Atrasz won the 400 freestyle relay in 3:54.52.

South's Elena Callas was first in the 100 breaststroke in 1:14.74 and Blue Devils' teammate Carmie Tocco won the diving with a score of 230.20 points.

Reck, Mary Cornillie, Katey Schaden, Nicole Saleno and Isa Salvador posted best times in the 200 individual medley.

Other best times came from Vasapolli, Kopf, Kelly Flemlion and Kristen Simon in the 50 freestyle; Taylor and Jennifer Ballew in the 100 butterfly; Reck, Kopf, Flemlion, Kelly Aitken and Simon in the 100 freestyle; Theresa Northey, Julie Paavola, Vasapolli, and Bergmann in the 500 freestyle; and Sara Vollmar, Ballew and Salvador in the 100 breaststroke.

Divers Rebecca Dube and Brook Burden posted their best scores.

"Theresa Northey did a great job in the 500 and her split on the 400 free relays was outstanding," O'Connor said.

South wins Heritage meet

There's no stopping the Grosse Pointe South girls cross country team.

The Blue Devils won their third major invitational of the season last Saturday when they finished first at the Saginaw Heritage Invitational. South had 33 points. Shepherd, which was ranked fifth in the state in Class B, was runner-up with 61 and Mount Pleasant was third with 68.

Jonnie Vasse of South, who has finished first in all four invitationals the Blue Devils have participated in, had a winning time of 18:44. She became the second runner in South history to run five kilometers in under 19 minutes.

The Blue Devils' top four runners finished in under 20 minutes.

Following Vasse, were freshmen Beth Auty (19:46) and Heidi Crowley (19:50). Kate Crowley was sixth (19:56) in the 108-runner field.

Rounding out South's varsity were Elizabeth Borowiec, 23rd in 21:04; Janel Zuidema, 43rd in 21:46; and Lauren Mardirosian, 62nd in 22:46.

A total of 51 Blue Devils raced to season-best performances.

South dominated the junior varsity race, taking 15 of the top 20 places in the 131-runner field.

Dara O'Byrne led the way at 21:55, followed by Kristin Nickel (22:01), Sara Crowe (22:10), Ashley Cahill (22:15), Erica Hill (22:21), Marie Maurer (22:22), Melissa Balok (22:29), Kate Aiken (22:31), Brigit Molloy (22:33), Christina Werthmann (22:35), Kim Smale (22:36), Erin Smialek (22:58) and Celeste Brecht (23:11).

Earlier, South beat Sterling Heights 21-38 in a Macomb Area Conference Red Division meet to improve to 5-1 overall and 4-1 in the division.

The Blue Devils compete in the Oxford Invitational Friday at the Oxford Hills Golf Course.

North has a consistent pair

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Chris Hirt and Sachin Shah have been models of consistency for Grosse Pointe North's boys cross country team this year.

"They've won medals in all of our invitationals so far," said coach Pat Wilson after they made a strong showing at the Ypsilanti Invitational.

"They get out in pretty good position. In our last invitational they made their move after the first mile. In this one they were about 30th at the halfway mark and then made their move and got up to 16th or 17th. That's when the real racing starts."

Hirt finished 16th and Shah was 18th in the Ypsilanti meet.

North also had a good effort from Matt Mikula.

"He dropped 15 seconds on a tough course," Wilson said. "Matt's been improving. That gives us four kids that are running real well."

Other major drops came from Van Martin and Mark Chasteen.

Earlier, the Norsemen split a pair of Macomb Area Conference White Division dual meets.

North beat Fraser 20-42 but lost 25-32 to Port Huron.

Hirt finished third overall, Shah was fourth and Mikula came in seventh. The Norsemen's top runner, Tom Smyly, missed the meet with an injury.

Ted Huebner and Chasteen rounded out the North scoring, while Mike Novitke and Bob Kettel also ran in the varsity race.

Wilson was encouraged by the performance of Serilla.

"He had his best time," the coach said. "The course at Port Huron is a tough one. Scott is running well for a freshman."

Norsemen nip Big Reds runners

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Scott Cooper knew that his Grosse Pointe North girls cross country team's meet with Port Huron would be close and he wasn't disappointed.

The Norsemen came away with a 27-28 victory over the Big Reds in the Macomb Area Conference White Division meet. North also beat Fraser 15-42.

"Port Huron placed one place ahead of us in a couple of invitationals so I knew it would be a close meet," Cooper said. "That's a meet where every place was important. If any of the girls had finished a place back we wouldn't have won."

Katie Daniels led the way for the Norsemen with a first-place finish. She was followed by Erin Lenahan, Beth Genger, Andrea Veyser, Betsy Huebner, Tracy Secord and Katie Horn.

Daniels was in second place until the two-mile mark when she passed the Port Huron runner and took over the lead.

North finished fifth in last weekend's Ypsilanti

Invitational and all five Norseman scorers finished among the top 30 to earn medals.

Lenahan led the way for North with a 12th place finish. She was followed by Julie Mielke, Veyser, Ginger and Huebner.

"Four of our top five had their best times," Cooper said. "And it's a tough course."

A total of 28 North runners posted their season-best times in the Ypsilanti meet.

Andrea O'Boyle was North's top junior varsity runner and had her best time, while Heather Breedlove ran a strong race and knocked nearly three minutes off her previous best effort.

Earlier, North hosted its annual Senior meet and the Norseman's team of Daniels and Kristin Davison took fourth place overall.

North also had a good showing from the team of Rebecca Pranger and Susie Gebeck.

A University Liggett School player flies high to head a ball during the Knights' 7-0 victory over Lutheran East last week in a Metro Conference soccer game.

Campbell is tough in the clutch

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Jason Campbell is becoming Mr. Clutch for University Liggett School's soccer team.

When Campbell tallied the Knights' only goal in a 1-0 victory over Cranbrook Kingswood last week, it was the third straight game in which he's scored the winner.

"He's on a roll," said coach David Backhurst. "He had scored only one goal before getting those three winners in a row."

Campbell's goal came with 23 minutes left in the game. Ralph Harik, returning to the Knights' lineup after missing eight games with an injury, sent a corner kick to Peter Birgbauer. Birgbauer sent the ball to Campbell, who headed it past the Cranes' goalie.

The first half was one with little excitement. ULS had four shots in the half and Cranbrook only two.

"I had a talk with the team at halftime and they responded well," Backhurst said. "I told them the (Metro) conference championship was on the line. We played much better in the second half and outshot them 8-2."

Freshman goalie Dan Ferrin recorded his eighth shutout of the season.

"He had only three saves, but they were three tough ones," Backhurst said.

It was a lot easier in the Knights' next outing as they built a 4-0 halftime lead and cruised to a 7-0 win over Lutheran East.

The win improved ULS' Metro record to 9-0.

Birgbauer led the Knights with three goals, all in the first half. Jonathan Kish scored twice and Campbell and Harik added a goal apiece.

"It's good to have Ralph back," Backhurst said. "We missed his experience."

ULS can sew up the Metro Conference title today, Oct. 10, when the Knights visit Lutheran North for a 4:30 p.m. game.

ULS doing well in field hockey

University Liggett School's field hockey team won all four of its games on an Eastern trip and the Knights have been just as successful since their return home.

In their most recent outing, ULS blanked Ann Arbor Huron 2-0.

Whitney Gage opened the scoring with an assist from Abby Tompkins and Tompkins tallied the Knights' second goal.

"We really dominated play," said coach Monica Dennis. "The girls worked well together and our passing game was excellent. Emily Crenshaw was outstanding on defense and we also had good games from Karine Polis, Megan Watkins and Michelle McGoey."

ULS began its trip with a 1-0 victory over Buckinham, Brown and Nichols School in Cambridge, Mass. Gage scored the only goal of the game.

Tompkins scored three goals and Gage added a pair in ULS' 5-2 win over Milton (Mass.) Academy. Naeha Dixit and Alexia Williams assisted on Tompkins' last two goals.

Tompkins scored an unassisted goal and Gage tallied from Ariadne Lie and Melanie Buhalis in ULS' 2-1 victory over Portsmouth (R.I.) Abbey School.

The Knights wrapped up the trip with a 4-0 victory over St. George's School in Newport, R.I. Tompkins led the way with two goals and an assist, while Lie and Crenshaw also scored.

Gage, Kelly Gallagher, Crenshaw and Watkins also collected assists.

ULS returned home to blank Dearborn 7-0 as Gage scored four goals and Tompkins notched a pair and had five assists.

Heather Olson opened the scoring for the Knights. Polis and Gallagher each had two assists.

"The girls were able to move the ball quickly around the field and then they were able to finish with the ball in the net,"

Dennis said.

Grand Rapids Ottawa Hills handed ULS a 4-0 defeat.

"At times we dominated, but in general we were beaten to the ball," Dennis said. "Ottawa Hills had great stick work."

The Knights bounced back with a 4-2 win over Cranbrook Kingswood. Tompkins had two goals and an assist, while Gage scored once and set up both of Tompkins' goals.

Lie also had a goal and an assist for ULS and Polis had an assist.

"The girls returned to their quick passing game," Dennis said. "Emily Crenshaw, Alicia Dempz, Melanie Buhalis and Kira Hinds did a great job on defense."

ULS and Detroit Country Day hosted a four-team tournament that included out-of-state foes Laurel and Hathaway Brown and the Knights won both of their games.

Tompkins scored twice and set up Gage's goal in ULS' 3-1 win over Hathaway Brown. Buhalis and Crenshaw also had assists.

"We stayed strong even though Hathaway Brown had numerous penalty corners," Dennis said.

The Knights also posted a 3-1 victory over Laurel. This time Gage had two goals and set up Tompkins' tally. Polis also picked up an assist.

"The girls played very well," their coach said. "We had two more goals that were called back. Mieke Teitge had a great game in goal. McGoey and Kelly Gallagher made great runs and led the team offensively."

Gallagher had two assists, while Rachael Arabi, Lie, McGoey and Buhalis collected one apiece.

"The girls battled the wind and cages blowing over to get a win," Dennis said. "Ariadne Lie and Karine Polis led the offense and the defense."

A trip to Ohio resulted in a 4-1 loss to Maumee.

The host team dominated the game and received 12 penalty corners to only one for ULS.

"Mieke Teitge had an awesome game," Dennis said. "She made some incredible saves. Emily Crenshaw kept the defense alive."

Norsemen nip Big Reds runners

By Chuck Klonke

Scott Cooper knew that his Grosse Pointe North girls cross country team's meet with Port Huron would be close and he wasn't disappointed.

The Norsemen came away with a 27-28 victory over the Big Reds in the Macomb Area Conference White Division meet. North also beat Fraser 15-42.

"Port Huron placed one place ahead of us in a couple of invitationals so I knew it would be a close meet," Cooper said. "That's a meet where every place was important. If any of the girls had finished a place back we wouldn't have won."

Katie Daniels led the way for the Norsemen with a first-place finish. She was followed by Erin Lenahan, Beth Genger, Andrea Veyser, Betsy Huebner, Tracy Secord and Katie Horn.

Daniels was in second place until the two-mile mark when she passed the Port Huron runner and took over the lead.

North finished fifth in last weekend's Ypsilanti

Invitational and all five Norseman scorers finished among the top 30 to earn medals.

Lenahan led the way for North with a 12th place finish. She was followed by Julie Mielke, Veyser, Ginger and Huebner.

"Four of our top five had their best times," Cooper said. "And it's a tough course."

A total of 28 North runners posted their season-best times in the Ypsilanti meet.

South wins a thriller at L'Anse Creuse

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe South's 20-13 victory over L'Anse Creuse last Friday was the kind of win that can turn a football team's season around.

The Blue Devils were staring their fourth loss in five games in the eye with about 2 1/2 minutes remaining when their fortunes took a turn for the better.

"The kids are starting to believe in themselves and a win like this really helps," said coach Mike McLeod after the Macomb Area Conference Gold Division win. "My assistant coaches have done a great job in preparing the team and giving the kids the confidence they need to win a game like this."

L'Anse Creuse was clinging to a 13-12 lead and it looked like the Lancers might be able to run out the clock when their outstanding running back, Len Rancilio fumbled at the South 35.

Steve Gayman picked up the loose ball and raced 65 yards to the end zone. It looked like the game-winning touchdown for the Blue Devils, but there was a yellow flag at midfield.

One of Gayman's teammates made an illegal block on the return and the touchdown was called back. Now South had the ball on its own 32 with 2:07 remaining.

To make matters worse, the Blue Devils had an offensive pass interference penalty on their first play from scrimmage and they were pushed back to the 17.

"I think the kids were just trying too hard," McLeod said of the penalties. "They were so fired up at the start of the game that we had two penalties on the first drive."

But all the adversity wasn't going to affect South.

Sophomore quarterback Mike Kaselitz passed 24 yards to Bill Lerner to get back a big chunk of the lost yardage. Then Ryan Ermanni broke loose for 11 yards and a first down at the Lancers' 48.

A pass to Josh Nyenhuis picked up nine yards and an incomplete pass stopped the clock. Then Ermanni went up the middle for 18 yards and a 13-yard pass from Kaselitz to Gayman took South to the Lancers' eight.

Ermanni took the ball to the one on the next play and Kaselitz capped the 68-yard drive with a one-yard quarterback sneak with 33 seconds remaining.

Ermanni gave South some breathing room with a two-point conversion run.

The winning drive featured some excellent clock management by the Blue Devils, who ran the eight plays in 1:34.

L'Anse Creuse got the ball back with 28 seconds remaining, but couldn't get past the South 47 before time expired.

The Lancers opened the scoring early in the second quarter on a seven-yard keeper by quarterback Joe LaVigne. The touchdown capped a 46-yard drive that was set up by Gabe Fournier's 36-yard punt return. Vince Frabotta kicked the extra point.

South cut the L'Anse Creuse lead to 7-6 with 48 seconds left in the first half. The Blue Devils marched 75 yards in 10 plays with Kaselitz hitting Gayman with a 19-yard touchdown pass. The extra-point attempt was blocked.

The key play in the drive was a 30-yard run by Ermanni on a draw on fourth and 10 from midfield.

South did a good job of alternating tailbacks Ermanni and Josh Lorence.

"Josh sets up the defenses with his speed and ability to get outside. Then Ryan comes in and gets some yardage inside with his power running," McLeod said. "And our fullback, Jason Lorence, didn't carry the ball much but he did a great job of blocking."

A short punt gave L'Anse Creuse the ball on the South 37 late in the third quarter and the Lancers capitalized on the good field position with an eight-play drive that was capped by LaVigne's nine-yard pass to Fournier in the corner of the end zone.

This time the Lancers' extra-point attempt was blocked.

The Blue Devils came right back and marched 68 yards in 10 plays. The touchdown was a seven-yard pass from Kaselitz to Gayman. South attempted to kick the extra point but it was wide and L'Anse Creuse was clinging to a 13-12 lead with 4:08 remaining.

Key plays in the Blue Devils' scoring drive were two 17-yard runs by Ermanni, who had 16 carries for 114 yards, and a 19-yard pass from Kaselitz to Lerner.

"Lerner stepped up and made two real big catches," McLeod said.

"The offensive line played well, too. We got Al Missant back and that helped. David Jennings and Thatcher Sloan also had good games."

McLeod also praised the play of Eric Dunlap, who was called up from the junior varsity for the game.

"The kids played well and didn't quit. That's all I can ask for," McLeod said.

Kaselitz finished with 141 yards passing, including 90 of them in the second half.

Harris posts third straight 200-yard game

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

There's no stopping Grosse Pointe North's Leonard Harris.

The senior running back posted his third straight 200-yard rushing game and scored four more touchdowns Friday night to lead the unbeaten Norsemen to a 41-6 victory over Cousino in North's first Macomb Area Conference Blue Division game.

"He really broke some nice ones," coach Frank Sumner said of Harris' performance. "He got a little bit of room and took advantage of it."

and finished with 456 yards in total offense.

Harris has 17 touchdowns, including 13 in the last three games, to close in on the school record of 20 set by Duane Johnson in 1971.

ULS improves in second half

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

It's too bad University Liggett's football team wasn't playing under Continental Basketball Association rules last week in its game with Lutheran East.

If they had been, the Knights would have had more than just personal satisfaction to show for their efforts in the second half against their Metro Conference rivals. In the CBA, points are awarded for each quarter won.

"The second half was the best half of football we've played this year," ULS coach Gary Hills said after the Knights' 41-19 loss to East.

The same couldn't be said of the first half.

"Everything that could go wrong did," Hills said. "We couldn't stop them and we stopped ourselves with mistakes — we had a couple of fumbles and a bad snap on a punt. And they ran through our defense like a hot knife through butter."

"We're not good enough yet to make mistakes and when we play a team as good as East, we pay full price for our mistakes."

The only thing the Knights had to cheer about in the first half was Brian Bruenton's 82-yard kickoff return that tied the game at 6-6. Bruenton broke several tackles on his way to the end zone.

That didn't faze East, however. With two minutes left in the first quarter the Eagles held a 34-6 lead.

"I looked up at the scoreboard and thought to myself 'if this keeps up they could score 120,'" Hills said.

But it didn't. ULS allowed only one more touchdown in the first half and that was the extent of the Eagles' scoring for the game.

Trailing 41-6 at halftime, Hills was hard-pressed to come up with a pep talk for his team at the intermission.

"I was afraid this could have been the end of us going in the right direction with this program," Hills said. "The kids were stunned. We were all stunned. Finally I told them to forget about the scoreboard. I didn't even want them to look at it until the end of the game. I told them to go out and play one down at a time. When that down was over, I told them to forget it and concentrate on the next one."

"I think the kids bought into it, because they played a great second half."

The second half improvement started with a 82-yard touchdown run by Kevin Espy on the first play of the half. Espy got the game ball for carrying 11 times for 183 yards.

Espy also scored ULS' third touchdown when he capped a 61-yard drive with a two-yard run. Espy also had a 40-yard run during the scoring drive which was helped by some strong blocking from fullback Jeff Kenzie.

There were several standouts for the Knights.

A.J. Stachecki made the start at quarterback and did a good job of running the option. Bruenton received the bone award for the hardest hit, but also played a good all-around game.

"Scott Simpson was a madman on kickoffs and played some at end and did a good job," Hills said. "He's a junior playing football for the first time."

"Andrew Legree, our freshman left guard, didn't miss a trap block all game and he was giving away about 15 pounds to the guy he was blocking. Kyle Denham continues to play outstanding football and Jimmy Wood, our 175-pound defensive tackle, recovered two fumbles and had a tackle for a five-yard loss."

Hills also praised the play of Will Watson, who made some good catches to keep second-half drives alive.

"Even though we lost we've got something to be proud of," Hills said. "The kids were down, but didn't quit. They walked off the field with their heads held high."

ULS hosts Harper Woods Friday at 4 p.m. in a Metro Conference game. The Pioneers are coming off a 47-0 loss to Benzie Central last weekend, and that gives Hills more cause for concern.

"They're a much better team than that and I'm sure that loss is going to put them in a wonderful frame of mind to play us," Hills said.

Knights netters beat the best

By Chuck Klonke

University Liggett School's tennis team is getting ready for the stretch run and the Knights are taking a bit of a breather before it starts.

"We've had a long eight days, but it was a satisfying stretch," said ULS coach Chuck Wright. "The girls have been competing well and it's a close team."

"Now we have the regional and the state meet coming up and I think we're ready to have a good two weeks. Right now they need a little rest. They have to tone down in order to turn it back up for the state meet. We'll have to be at our best because North Muskegon is going to be tough."

ULS will be looking for its third straight state Class C-D championship. Last year, North Muskegon was runner-up to the Knights.

ULS won three of its four dual meets last week, defeating a pair of state-ranked Class A squads.

The week started with an 8-0 shutout of Detroit Country Day in which the Knights dominated the Yellowjackets. The closest match was Leah Killen's 6-2, 6-4 victory at No. 1 singles.

"Country Day has a good first singles player," Wright said.

ULS then nipped Bloomfield Hills Lahser 4-3, lost 5-3 to Ann Arbor Huron and capped the week with a 6-2 victory over Birmingham Seaholm.

Huron and Seaholm were ranked sixth and seventh, respectively, in Class A when the Knights played them.

"We're 7-3 in dual meets and we've played the No. 1 and No. 2, along with the sixth, seventh and eighth-ranked teams in Class A and the No. 3 team in Class B," Wright said. "We've faced some pretty tough competition."

The matches were closer against Lahser and the victory wasn't secured until Christina Oney walked off the court with a 6-4, 7-5 victory at No. 4 singles.

The Knights' other winners were Kim Wattrick and No. 2 singles, Stephanie Roehl and Allison Ricci at second doubles and Melissa Berger and Amy Silverston at No. 3 doubles.

Huron's depth was the difference in ULS' only loss of the week. Killen and Wattrick won their first two singles matches and Brooke Wright and Kendall Wrigley won at No. 1 doubles.

Roehl and Ricci dropped a tough 7-6, 6-4 match, while Berger and Silverston just ran out of gas in a 6-2, 4-6, 6-0 loss.

"Roehl and Ricci played a great doubles match," coach Wright said. "There were some outstanding points — a lot of good volleying."

ULS capped the week with the victory against Seaholm.

Killen remained undefeated with a 6-1, 6-0 victory. The doubles teams of Wright and Wrigley and Roehl and Ricci also posted convincing wins, but after that it became more tense.

Wattrick rallied for a 6-0, 4-6, 6-2 win, while Berger and Silverston won 6-4, 6-4. Rachael Tansuche and Alaina Powell completed the ULS scoring with a 6-3, 6-2 victory at No. 4 doubles.

"Rachael and Alaina have been playing a lot better," Chuck Wright said.

Local sailors in match race

Eight youth sailors representing the Bayview and Grosse Pointe yacht clubs participated in the first Partner Yacht Clubs Youth Match Racing Championship in St. Petersburg, Fla.

The Bayview crew includes skipper Nathan Hollerbach, Nathan Marshall, Matt Shrilla and Brian Cach. The Grosse Pointe crew is headed by skipper Drew Bossler with John Sullivan, Mike Rutledge and Eric Nix.

The race was sailed by four-person teams in Sonar Class sailboats and followed the round-robin, semifinals and finals format used in the America's Cup.

The teams were made up of crew members between 12 and 18 years old and a skipper between 15 and 18. Nine teams were entered.

ULS golfers consistent

Consistency marked the end of the regular season for University Liggett School's golf team.

The Knights closed out the year with consecutive 166 scores to beat Lutheran North, Lutheran East and Oakland Christian.

ULS wound up ranked fifth in the state in Class D.

"With individual scores averaging in the low 40s for the last six matches, we have the consistency essential for success in the state regional," said Knights coach Bob Buescher.

Co-captains Blair Ridder and John Staniszewski led the way as ULS played its best golf of the season.

Bo Brink, the only Knight to have his score count in every match, was a major contributor, along with Tim French, Paul Huebner, Andy Adamo and Christian Auty.

"With these seven playing so well it will be difficult to select five to play in the regional tournament," Buescher said.

fourth quarter. Goalies on both sides made several excellent saves, including a stop on a penalty kick by Nottingham Forest netminder Curt Mumaw. Herman opened the scoring, but Brooks and Jendrusina teamed up to tie the game shortly after. Danny Sauer and Matthew Ballew of Tottenham Hotspur played well. Jendrusina played well defensively for Nottingham Forest, while Robert Bashara and Christopher Salters had good all-around games.

Crystal Palace 6, Queen of Peace 0
Goals: Robert Barker, Tom MacEachern, Danny Sax 2, Brian Sullivan 2 (Crystal Palace).
Comments: Lenny DiMarco played well for Queen of Peace.

Arsenal 7, Manchester United 1 Goals: William Dickson, Alex Dudley, Spencer Logan 2, Griffin Wagner, Adrian Guerrero, Parker Marshall (Arsenal); Nick Dinverno (Manchester United).
Assists: Dudley 2, Dickson 2, Barrett Young, Wagner, Tom Porter 2, Chris Stodola, Guerrero (Arsenal).
Comments: Strong defensive play by Fred Gaddy, Sean O'Donnell-Daudlin and Young powered a speedy offensive attack led by Dickson, Dudley, Logan and Porter. Wagner played well on offense, defense and in goal. Stodola had his first assist. Spectacular goal-tending by Willy Beierwaltes, Alex Breitmeyer, Porter and Wagner kept Manchester off the scoreboard except for Dinverno's first-quarter goal.

Arsenal 4, Leeds 2
Goals: Sean O'Donnell-Daudlin, Spencer Logan, William Dickson 2 (Arsenal); Brendan Russo, Mike DePirro (Leeds).
Assists: Tom Porter 2 (Arsenal).
Comments: Porter's ball-handling and the scoring of Dickson highlighted Arsenal's performance in the defensive battle between two skilled squads. Arsenal goalie Barrett Young made several key saves late in the game. James Wilhelm and Dustin Delpierre anchored a strong defense.

Arsenal 4, Leeds 2
Goals: Sean O'Donnell-Daudlin, Spencer Logan, William Dickson 2 (Arsenal); Brendan Russo, Mike DePirro (Leeds).
Assists: Tom Porter 2 (Arsenal).
Comments: Porter's ball-handling and the scoring of Dickson highlighted Arsenal's performance in the defensive battle between two skilled squads. Arsenal goalie Barrett Young made several key saves late in the game. James Wilhelm and Dustin Delpierre anchored a strong defense.

Westham 5, Queen of Peace 0

Goals: Tom Diebel, Bob Alexander 2, Kristen Caretti, Adam Dziuba (Westham).

Comments: Bobby Diehl, Philip Black and Michael Maus were outstanding on defense for Westham. Ben Candea and Eric Werling played well defensively for Queen of Peace, while Sarah Russo had a good game at midfield.

Wimbledon 5, Aston Villa 1

Goals: Karl Baumgarten, Matthew Leverenz 3, Andrew Blodgett (Wimbledon).

Assists: Leverenz 2, Baumgarten, Timmy Denton, Thomas Day (Wimbledon).
Comments: Wimbledon avenged an earlier loss to Aston Villa. Kyle Valade led the attack from the right wing with persistence and excellent passing. Baumgarten scored his first goal of the season. Aston Villa's defense was outstanding, but the offense couldn't get past the Wimbledon defense and the goaltending of Rebecca Biske.

Coventry 5, Everton 1

Assists: Alex Middleton, Saylor, Mike Laciura, Davis Smith, Eric Stiller (Coventry); Andrew Loosvelt (Everton).
Comments: Saylor got his first hat trick of the season and Thomas and Miller scored their first goals of the year. Toby Huang and Middleton played well defensively for Coventry, while Eric Stiller and Kyle Duker stood out in goal. Everton's goal was on a left-footed shot by Fischer. Lindsay Ruthven played an excellent all-around game for Everton.

Coventry 0, Crystal Palace 0

Comments: The wide-open game featured excellent goaltending. Davis Smith made several good saves for Coventry, while Jamie Handley, Tom Mott, Chris Wilson and Chris Swenson played excellent all-around games.

Danny Sax and Peter Stevens stood out in goal for Crystal Palace and teammates Tom MacEachern and Patrick Whelan had strong all-around efforts.

Purple Haze 5, Arsenal 0

Goals: Stephen Schaugg, Dan McGraw 2, Jonathan Zalenski, Michael Topper (Purple Haze).
Assists: Eric Benson, Colin Utley 3 (Purple Haze).

Purple Haze 6, Headhunters 1

Goals: Bryan MacKenzie, Jonathan Zalenski, Colin Utley, Patrick Scerri, Dan McGraw, Stephen Schaugg (Purple Haze); John Greiner (Headhunters).
Assists: Utley, Scerri, Schaugg, Colin Cassidy, Michael Weingarten (Purple Haze); Ethan Smith-Esgobue (Headhunters).

Arsenal 7, Jaguars 0

Goals: Vincent Viola 2, Eric Knoll, Kyle Klanow, Robbie Uppliger, David Micallef, Whitney Ryan (Arsenal).
Assists: Mike Fayad, Lenny Stoehr (Arsenal).

Purple Haze 7, Hurricanes 1

Goals: Colin Utley 4, Bryan MacKenzie 2, Danny Mintern (Purple Haze); Brekan Kohlitz (Hurricanes).
Assists: Patrick Scerri 4, Michael Topper (Purple Haze).

Comments: Brandon Still was the defensive player of the game for the Purple Haze as he was instrumental in keeping the ball out of his team's half of the field. Hurricanes goalie Mark McCallum made 21 saves before the Purple Haze scored on him.

Arsenal 2, Headhunters 0

Goals: Robbie Uppliger 2 (Arsenal).
Assists: Vincent Viola, Mike Fayad, Eric Knoll (Arsenal).
Comments: Arsenal got excellent passing from Whitney Ryan and Judah Weber, good saves by goalie David Micallef and excellent defense from Dimitri Kerasiotis, Ryan Kovalcik and Lenny Stoehr.

Falcons 9, Headhunters 1

Goals: Jimmy Brescoll 2, Mark Parchment, Jeff Gurney, Ryan Steiner, Trevor Mallon, Patrick Burke, Tim Robinson, Andrew Adams (Falcons); Cal Bruin (Headhunters).
Assists: Brescoll (Falcons); Kristen Inger (Headhunters).

Comments: Adams and Steiner each made diving saves for the Falcons, while Ethan Esgobue-Smith had several good stops for the Headhunters.

Mustangs '85 chalk up two more wins

Mandi Marsh, Suzanne McGoey and Laura Fisher scored the goals as the Mustangs beat the Canton Comets 3-0.

Stephanie Rose and Beth Sanders had assists, while goalkeepers Amanda Marinello and Meghan Brennan shared the shutout.

Jillian Karlick led an outstanding defensive effort by the entire squad.

Marsh scored from Sanders to give the Mustangs a 1-0 win over the Ann Arbor Arsenal.

Marinello posted the shutout, while McGoey and Beth Mumaw were outstanding on defense.

UNDER-11

The Mustangs '86 got their first division win of the season with a 2-0 victory over Vardar.

Emily Griffin and Lindsay Potthoff scored the Grosse Pointe goals, while Natalie Waelchli assisted on Potthoff's tally.

The game featured strong offense from Brittany Paquette, Emily Rouls and Ann Campbell, while Julie Howe played a good defensive game.

Megan Switalski was outstanding in goal as the Mustangs played a scoreless tie with the North Macomb Thundercats.

Sweeper Erin McLeod had an excellent game on defense, while Danica Day and Griffin were strong offensively. Jennifer Marsh and Kristen Padilla had good all-around Fullbacks Burke of the Falcons and Andrew Hall and Erick Johnson of the Headhunters played well.

UNDER-10

Stephanie Kostuik scored two goals to lead the Mustangs '87 Gold to a 6-3 win over the Berkley Storm.

Jennifer Bohannon, who is usually a defensive player, had a goal. Alexa Kaminski, Amanda Kleisinger and Holly Huth also scored.

Stephanie Hawley, Ann Stavale and Lauren Wolcott provided goalkeepers Whitney Hughes and Liz Baxter with excellent defensive support.

The Mustangs '87 Gold dropped a 3-0 decision to the Oxford Lobos.

Goalie Melissa Sleeman played well after two quick goals by the Lobos and Kleisinger was in the nets for the second half.

Sleeman, Kaminski, Kostuik and Hughes worked well bringing the ball up the wings. Bohannon and Wolcott had excellent defensive games and Baxter, Hawley, Stavale and Huth had good performances at forward.

Elizabeth Galea scored all three goals as the Mustangs '87 beat Berkley 3-1.

The Mustangs also had good performances from Hillary Inger, Kristen Jost and Jeannie Taylor.

Alexandra Ford scored the Mustangs' goal in a 1-1 tie with Oxford.

Kaitlin Caputo, Page Louisell and March had strong defensive games in front of goalies Meghan Potthoff and Fortune.

Simmon leads North to two wins

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

A year ago, Grosse Pointe North's Lindsay Simmon found herself getting pushed around under the basket.

This year, Simmon is the one making her presence felt for the Norsemen's girls basketball team.

In victories over Ford II and Utica last week, Simmon averaged 24 points and 16 rebounds.

"She's been our most consistent player," said coach Gary Bennett. "Lindsay is vastly improved from last year, especially in terms of fending off the contact under the basket. She couldn't handle it last year. Now she's smarter and stronger and is better able to finish."

Simmon scored 12 of North's 16 first-quarter points in the Norsemen's 43-38 victory over Utica in the Macomb Area Conference Red Division.

North led 18-4 early in the second quarter and allowed the Chieftains to make only eight field goals in the game. Utica scored 21 points from the free-throw line, while North made only five of 20 attempts from the line.

"We played exceptionally well in the first quarter," Bennett said. "It was like a carryover from the fourth quarter against Ford in our previous game."

In that contest, North outscored the Falcons 21-4 in the final period to win 55-36. The Norsemen were clinging to a 34-32 advantage after three quarters.

"We really executed well," Bennett said of the fourth-quarter eruption. "Our full-court pressure wore (Ford) down and they were tired. Finally, they just couldn't handle our pressure."

The Falcons scored 15 points in the first quarter but managed only 21 points the rest of the way.

North played without Molly Peters, who had a sprained ankle.

"She could have played if we needed her, but since we were staying close to them without Molly, we decided that resting would be best for her," Bennett said.

Simmon collected 23 points and 16 rebounds, while Claire Kotwick had 10 points, four assists and three steals.

Becky Iskenderian was also a factor in the North victory with six steals.

"That was Becky's best game of the year," Bennett said. "She was real active on defense and caused Ford a lot of problems. In the third and fourth quarters she had a couple of big fast-break baskets, too."

In the Utica game, Simmon finished with 25 points and 14 rebounds. Kotwick had four assists, while Peters and Michelle Champine each had three assists and two steals.

Kotwick's defense also earned Bennett's praise.

"Claire is starting to play real well," he said. "She did a great job on Utica's point guard. She didn't get a field goal against Claire. On offense she's taking care of the ball well and showing more poise with every game."

The victories over Ford and Utica improved North's MAC Red record to 5-1 and its overall mark to 6-2.

"We're starting to play better on both ends of the floor," Bennett said. "The defense is tightening up and we're taking care of the ball better."

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

The Wayne County Commission will hold a public hearing on the following:

An Ordinance to establish the duty of a parent whose child has been remanded to the Juvenile Detention Facility, but has been granted personal bond by the juvenile court, to immediately take custody of the child and remove him or her from the Juvenile Detention Facility; and to direct the Chief Executive Officer to pursue collection of residential costs from parents who fail to take custody of their child.

At its meeting held:

Bring art to bath

The practical use of ceramic tile in the bathroom need not inhibit your creativity. The hand-painted tiles shown here are placed against high-gloss white walls to create an eye-catching mural. Some hand-painted tiles are then used as borders on the walls to frame the mirror and on the edge of the blue-tiled vanity tops.

Not seen are blue and white floor tiles in a two-in-one combination. The smaller blue tiles are inserted into the larger white tiles, then framed and accented by their own narrow grout line which provides greater slip resistance.

For a free booklet, The Art Of Ceramic Tile, call the Tile Promotion Board at 1-800-210-8453, ext. 902.

Glass block installation course

Grosse Pointe Community Education in cooperation with Oakland Builders Institute, a leader in builder's education, will offer a three-hour, one-evening workshop on how to install glass block on Tuesday, Oct. 22, from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. at Barnes school, 20090 Morningside Drive in Grosse Pointe Woods.

The course is designed to instruct people in the techniques and materials needed to install glass blocks to replace basement windows or create beautiful new vistas and special effects in the home.

The instructor will demonstrate how to remove old windows and measure and install glass block. Tools, mortar, preparation and finishing techniques also will be demonstrated.

The seminar costs $45 and includes a step-by-step brochure.

Pre-registration is required by Friday, Oct. 18. You may register in person or by mail; there is no phone registration. Call (313) 343-2178 for more information.

The instructor is a licensed builder with experience in installing glass block and can answer questions related to all facets of the craft.

Windows on remodeling

Homeowners want more — more rooms, more square feet and more space. According to the U.S. Census Bureau, during the 1980s the typical single family home grew in size by 20 percent, due in large part to remodeling projects. The lesson? Today's homeowners find greater value in renovating their current home, rather than moving to a new residence.

This trend has gained momentum over the last 10 years and is still a strong factor in American home-buying circles. But while homeowners want additional room, they do not want the high utility costs associated with additional space.

Many residents are saving on remodeling expansion costs and increasing home value by incorporating energy-efficient products in their remodeling plans. Energy-efficient windows have had significant technological upgrades in the past several years. According to a recent report in Home Energy magazine, the thermal performance of windows has improved dramatically over the last 20 years.

"Adding energy efficiency to a room is one of the biggest concerns for today's remodeling homeowner," said Patrick Bushey of Pella Window & Door Co., the local representative of Pella Windows and Doors.

Bushey says those who do not have a lot of experience with remodeling are left with a lot of questions about energy-saving product selection.

"When it comes to selecting new windows, for example, many homeowners are unsure how to make the best use of their money," he said.

Bushey suggests that several factors should be considered when selecting window products. First, consider the decor of the home. Many people prefer wood windows because they can easily match the wood trim of a home, while maintaining the highest level of natural insulation.

Also, Bushey recommends that homeowners evaluate a window's U value. For maximum energy efficiency, a window's total-unit U-value, a measurement of the amount of heat lost through both glass and window frame, should be as low as possible. A U-value of approximately 0.40 indicates good energy efficiency.

For free information, call 1-800-847-3552, or visit Pella Corp. on the World Wide Web at <http://www.pella.com>

C.L. of St. Clair Shores asks: Can a ceiling fan's airflow in a basement bring the cool, damp air into the heat ducts?

C.L., a ceiling fan's purpose is to move the air around in a room, making it the same temperature all over. It will make the air in a basement's return vent draw in a more consistent temperature and help eliminate dampness in a basement.

Now if I wanted to spread this cool damp air around my house I would have to check if my furnace had a basement cold air return vent to begin with. Its location is at the base of the furnace and measures around 7 1/2 inches by 13 1/2 inches. The furnace sucks air from all over the house and this is usually the only basement air intake.

Cool damp air is heavy and if the return is low to the floor, I will prefer not to stir up the air with a ceiling fan, rather I will let the furnace draw up the low cool air first.

Now if this vent is open, the furnace will draw more basement air in and send it around the house. Many homes have a fan on switch on the thermostat, this allows you to circulate the air around the house without affecting the regular heating or cooling the furnace is doing at that time. Now, C.L., you are moving the cool damp air from the basement through the whole house.

Mike G. of St. Clair Shores inquires: What do you suggest for fall window cleaning?

Mike, I'm glad you asked. This, believe it or not, is one of my favorite fall chores. Nothing nicer than looking out nice clean windows, especially if your job can be done in less than a few hours.

Armed with a plastic pail, soft brush, hose with a nozzle and a solution of Mr. Hardware's window magic. Window magic is simply a gallon of water with 2 tablespoons T.S.P., 1/2 a cup vinegar and one drop of liquid soap (any kind). This is not my recipe, nor is it new — window washers have been using this formula or variations of it since the '40s.

I attach my soft brush to a broom handle so I can reach the whole window from the ground, why work off a ladder or get my hands wet unless I have to? I spray the window with water first then apply the mixture, now I leave it and go to the next window and repeat the application, then go back to the previous window and reapply the solution this time also washing the trim. What I have found is the product works better if it is on the surface for about 10 to 15 minutes. Rinse with the hose and let dry the same as after a summer rain. Using a squeegee now is required by only the perfectionists.

Washing the screens on the driveway with the same procedures as above gets the spider crud and dirt for a clean start into the winter.

Antiques

Milk glass was very popular just after the Civil War, and hundreds of different pieces were made. Perhaps the most popular with collectors are figural covered dishes. These dishes pictured dogs, rabbits, deer, cats, lions, elephants, horses, camels, squirrels, bulls, chickens, ducks, owls, fish, frogs and even boats and military men. The dishes range in size from small for covered salts, larger for candy dishes and still larger for fruit and other foods.

One of the rarest of these covered dishes is the boar's head dish. It was designed and patented May 1, 1888, and manufactured by the Atterbury Co., of Pittsburgh. The date is on the cover and the base. The boar recently brought $1,800 at an auction of over 200 figural milk glass dishes.

Q. My grandmother had some real leather postcards that are marked with the trademark W H S. Are they worth more than sentimental value?

A. Leather postcards were made in large numbers in the early 1900s. A surprising number have been saved because of the novelty of a leather card. Sometimes cards were laced together to form a pillow cover.

The cards are not of great value. They sell from a dollar to about $10, depending on the age, condition and the picture on the card.

Q. We have a small amber-colored bottle shaped like a pig. On one side it says "Suffolk Bitters." On the other side it says "America's Suffolk Bitters Life Preserver." How old is it?

A. Suffolk Bitters were a medicinal drink made of vegetables, roots and herbs in the 1870s. The ad on the label said, "To the dyspeptic, the bilious, and debilitated they have no equal. As an appetizer the invigorating properties of this tonic are unsurpassed."

Since most bitters medicines contained a very high alcohol content and often had cocaine, opium or other drugs as part of the ingredients, it is no wonder it was invigorating. The original bottle had the name of the maker, Philbrook & Tucker, on the side. Your bottle may be a copy made in the 1980s and sold in gift shops.

Do-it-yourself remodelers update kitchen and bath

In a recent national survey of homeowners, nearly half indicated they have already or are planning to remodel their kitchen or bathroom this year. A surprising 82 percent of homeowners who plan on remodeling report they'll fund their project through savings rather than take out a home equity loan or obtain money from other sources. Not only are these homeowners saving before remodeling, a review of their purchasing patterns shows a high awareness for the overall value of their remodeling investment.

"Homeowners are much more careful with their money," notes home improvement expert Beverly DeJulio. "And, as the survey shows, they tend to invest in projects that can update or modernize a room without breaking their budget."

Updated faucets in both kitchen and bath

The most popular reason for starting a kitchen or bath remodeling project, cited by nearly 60 percent of the remodelers surveyed, is the need to update or modernize the kitchen or bathroom. And the preferred way to do that? New faucets—cited by nearly 50 percent of those surveyed.

"Nothing dates a room like an older faucet," DeJulio explains.

"Whether it's the kitchen or the bathroom, there are so many modern faucet designs to choose from. In the bathroom, I like the look of Moen's Monticello series. For the kitchen, I'd recommend Moen's One-Touch. If you want to update a room a step at a time, this is the best place to start."

Semi-custom cabinets in the kitchen

Another popular kitchen update, cited by over a third of the kitchen remodelers surveyed, is semi-custom cabinets. Providing homeowners the flexibility to express their personal taste, semi-custom cabinets offered by Decora provide a wide variety of molding, cabinet facing and handle styles. More important, they offer this design flexibility at a reasonable price.

"Semi-custom cabinets are really the way to go," DeJulio says. "Homeowners can get the look they want without paying custom prices."

Another kitchen remodeling trend is the addition of cabinet accessories such as spice racks, wine racks or double wastebasket roll-outs offered by cabinet manufacturers such as Aristokraft. Twenty-eight percent of the kitchen remodelers in the survey said they plan to make better use of their cabinet space with accessories. Thirty-four percent of homeowners intending to remodel also want to include separate workstations for preparation, cooking and cleanup.

Saving water and other bathroom trends

As for bathroom remodelers, the most popular trend after new faucet installations is water conservation. Efficient shower, tub and faucet fixtures made the plans of nearly half the bathroom remodelers surveyed.

"There are several efficient showers available today," notes DeJulio. "For example, several shower models come with flow control features that keep your shower pressure at about 80 pounds per square inch while using about 2.5 gallons per minute."

Moen also offers a new feature for both tub/shower and lavatory lever handle faucets: an adjustable temperature limit stop, which enables you to preset a maximum hot water temperature. This is especially important for children and the elderly.

To receive a free brochure full of easy remodeling ideas, call Moen Incorporated at 1-800-553-6636 and ask for Moen's Kitchen And Bath Guide To Remodeling. To receive Aristokraft's Kitchen Planning Kit, send $7.95 payable to Aristokraft, Inc., to Kitchen Planning Kit, P.O. Box 420, Jasper, IN 47547-0420.

The national survey of homeowners was conducted in April 1995 by Opinion Research Corporation of Princeton, New Jersey, on behalf of MasterBrand Industries.

Household Help

Q. I have been collecting and repairing old wooden furniture and antiques for several years. Recently, I bought a veneer-finished, heavy old wooden table from a dealer. I examined the table's surface and noticed one cigarette burn on one side and a peeling effect on the other. I would like to repair the table and keep it in the music room in my home.

A. If you decide to patch the two damaged veneer spots, you'll need a few unusual tools. One is a veneer punch and it does exactly that job. Although most veneer surfaces are bonded to the wooden items with an adhesive glue, the punch will cut through the "skin."

This technique does take a bit of skill because you don't want to create more damage by splitting or tearing the existing veneer. Once the damaged spots are punched out, you must replace the piece with a patch of matching veneer. If this method seems a little difficult, you may want to replace the entire veneer surface of the table.

When a veneer surface is badly damaged, it is time to replace it. In this situation, you'll need a heat gun or similar device to soften and reactivate the original adhesive. If you proceed slowly, you will be successful in extracting the veneer. It is always wise to start at any corner of the table and peel the veneer carefully. Once removed, ask your local paint dealer for a specific mineral spirit that will remove the glue residue.

After the table top is completely clean and dry, sand it with a fine sandpaper grit and clean again. When buying sheets of veneer, ask your home decorating dealer what is suitable for your needs and also how to score and cut it. You will also need to buy a good adhesive and several wooden block clamps.

After the veneer is cut to size, lay a large piece of cardboard on the table top and glue both the underside of the veneer and the table's surface. Last, position several large pieces of plywood around the perimeter of the table and clamp all in place. Do not remove the clamps until the adhesive is fully cured.

Autumn care brings lush lawns

Fall may bring a reprieve from mowing grass, but there's still other lawn work to be done. Autumn is the best time to fertilize for a healthy, lush and green lawn in the spring.

However, be careful to balance that desire for healthy, attractive lawns with an awareness of the dangers of using fertilizers that contain hazardous chemicals and pesticides. New, more natural products contain ingredients that government agricultural and environmental authorities generally acknowledge can be handled, walked on and played on without danger.

Interestingly, the ingredients in these products sound very much like those in a multivitamin.

Most fertilizers have always contained three main nutrients: nitrogen to help create greener grass and plants, phosphorus to maintain balanced root and leaf growth, and potassium for stress-resistance to drought and heat.

To these basic nutrients, a new "natural" line of lawn and garden fertilizers known as Toro Nurture adds calcium, sulfur, iron, chlorine, manganese, magnesium, zinc and copper.

Invented by scientists at The Toro Company—best known for its line of lawnmowers—Nurture's ingredients are intended to supplement the soil's natural food supply without the use of any animal wastes or pesticides.

Available in dry or liquid form, the product is a bio-fertilizer, meaning it contains natural biological ingredients.

The purpose of the user-friendly fertilizer is simple: "The basis for the product line is to improve the soil, the place where plants live," said Rob Beachy, director of Toro's research and development.

The Toro Nurture mixture is the result of 18 years of research on agricultural and golf course turf, Beachy said.

Even the best fertilizer can come up short, however, if it is not spread evenly on the lawn.

Beachy has come up with a solution to those uneven lawn patches with a patented device called Mow and Feed. It is a spreader designed to attach to Toro and Lawn-Boy brand lawnmowers. The spreader allows the user to follow the cut grass as a guide.

Finally, for that last cutting of the fall, Beachy recommends not to cut the grass short, leaving it normal length.

Q. On the front of my old wooden washboard it says "The Glass King — Top Notch Soap Saving Sanitary Front Drain." On the back it says "National Washboard Co. Chicago, Saginaw, Memphis." Does it have any value?

They made washboards, breadboards and other wooden pieces.

In 1898 the company moved to Rhinelander, Wis., and in 1900 to Minneapolis. Another factory was built in Memphis, Tenn.

A. The National Washboard Co. made many of the old washboards found today. The company started working in 1885 in Wabash, Ind., as Wabash Novelty Woods Inc.

The company is no longer in business. Your washboard is worth about $30.

Pierced ears — My daughters talked me into getting my ears pierced. I began to have problems with my left ear lobe getting infected all the time. The only earrings I could wear were gold, but I couldn't afford to buy gold earrings every time I wanted a new pair, so I worked out a solution for myself.

Every time I change earrings, which is at least once a day, I coat the posts of the earrings with an anti-bacterial ointment and then put them in my ears.

This way, the properties that cause one to be allergic to the more economical earrings will not cause a problem anymore. The only drawback is that you have to do this every time you change earrings.

Of course, if infections persist, it's best to check with your doctor. Katie T., Agoura Hills, Calif.

Caught short no more — Have you ever opened your checkbook and realized you had written your last check and forgotten to replace it with a new book? This generally happens at the worst possible times, such as at the grocery checkout with lines of people waiting.

To avoid this situation, each time I go to my box of checks to replace a book, I take the book I need and tear off the first check of the next book and stick it in my wallet.

This way, if I accidentally run out of checks, I always have an extra one from the next book. And the numbers stay in sequence in my record book. Georgette L., Oakwood, Texas

Easy clean — When I'm working in my kitchen and I know I'll be doing a lot of peeling, or work with flour or bread crumbs, etc., I always put newspapers down on the kitchen floor. That way, instead of having to sweep or vacuum when I'm through, I simply pick up the newspapers and throw them out. Lisa D., New York City.

Window seals — A house inspector taught me a way to prevent broken window seals. Always raise the window by pulling from the bottom and close the window by pushing on the top. This rule also applies for sideways windows. Martin V., Destrehan, La.

Let's hear it for fire safety: Test your detectors!

Fire Prevention Week is Oct. 6 - 12, and the "Let's Hear it for Fire Safety: Test Your Detectors" theme serves to remind people of the importance of testing home smoke detectors.

Fire Prevention Week is observed each year in North America and several European countries in remembrance of the Great Chicago Fire of 1871, which killed 250 people, left 100,000 people homeless, and destroyed more than 17,000 buildings.

The "Test Your Detectors" theme is fitting, even though smoke detectors aren't new. In fact, the single-station, battery-powered smoke detector became available to consumers in the 1970's. Since they were introduced, smoke detectors have saved many lives. Estimates from the National Fire Protection Association show that 93 percent of U.S. homes have at least one smoke detector. However, there are still major problems.

Thousands of people still die each year in home fires where smoke detectors aren't present. There are now more homes with smoke detectors that don't work than homes without detectors at all. Almost one-third of homes with smoke detectors that experience fires have smoke detectors that are not working, and hundreds of people die in these fires.

Capt. Wade Schaefer, state fire marshal and head of the Michigan State Police Fire Marshal Division, remarked, "Poorly maintained smoke detectors create a false sense of security among occupants. Many people make the mistake of borrowing a battery from a smoke detector and never replacing it. Others forget to test their detectors monthly. Batteries should be replaced every year. A good time to do it is when you change your clocks in the fall."

There were 60,076 fires in 1995 reported by Michigan fire departments, an average of one every eight minutes and 45 seconds.

These fires resulted in 919 serious injuries and the deaths of 212 Michigan civilians and two firefighters. The total dollar loss from Michigan fires in 1995 is estimated at $404.9 million.

A working smoke detector cuts the chance of dying in a home fire nearly in half. It's extremely critical that a detector be placed on every level of the home, including the basement. The placement of detectors outside of sleeping areas is most critical. Since smoke and deadly gases rise, detectors should be placed on the ceiling at least 4 inches from any wall, or high on a wall 4-12 inches from the ceiling.

"Now that detectors have been around for 20 years, we are starting to see detector failure as a result of the sheer age of the unit," added Schaefer. "One of the things we want to stress to people now is that all smoke detectors over 10 years in age should be replaced with a new detector."

The state fire marshal reminds everyone to TEST YOUR DETECTORS! By assuring that a smoke detector is working on every level of the home, needless deaths and injuries will be prevented.

Attention owners of homes with polybutylene plumbing

If you own a house, mobile home or another structure with polybutylene plumbing (including underground yard service lines) your rights may be affected by a class action lawsuit and proposed settlement now pending in court.

The class action settlement proposes an $850 million settlement program to pay repair costs, property damage costs and provide replumbing for qualified home and building owners with polybutylene plumbing which has leaked.

The class action, Cox v. Shell Oil, Co. et al., alleges that Shell Oil Company and Hoechst Celanese ("Defendants"), in conjunction with other companies, supplied raw materials used in polybutylene plumbing systems that may leak. The defendants have denied all liability.

Class members

You may be a part of this class if you:

(1) own real property or structures in the United States in which there was installed between January 1, 1978, and July 31, 1995, polybutylene plumbing with acetal or metal insert fittings or a polybutylene yard service line;

(2) own or previously owned such real property or structures and have already incurred any cost or expense, by reason of leakage from or from failure, repair or removal of, all or any portion of polybutylene plumbing or yard service line which was installed between January 1, 1978, and July 31, 1995; or

(3) will own such real property or structures during the term of entitlement to relief under the Settlement Agreement.

Polybutylene pipe

Polybutylene pipe ("PB") is a non-rigid, sometimes curved, usually gray (or possibly silver or black) plastic pipe used in drinking water supply plumbing systems.

- When used in the underground service from the water company, PB pipe is blue, gray or black.

- PB pipe is not used for drains, waste or vent piping.

- PB pipe is not PVC or CPVC, which is rigid white or off-white plastic pipe.

Identifying acetal insert or metal insert fittings

- Fittings are used to join pipe.

- Insert fittings are fittings where a portion of the fitting is inserted into the pipe and clamped with a metal (aluminum or copper) crimp ring.

- Metal insert fittings are made of copper or brass.

- Acetal insert fittings are made of hard gray (sometimes white) plastic. They are not black.

- Insert fittings are not grabber, flair or compression fittings which often use a plastic or metal nut to secure the seal.

To learn more about the settlement approval process, your rights as a class member, and how to make a claim, call 1-800-876-4698, or write: in Re: Cox v. Shell, et al., P.O. Box 175, Minneapolis, MN 55440-0175.
