The Grosse Pointe Farms Historic District Commission wants the house 60 Lakeshore, above, preserved, rather than razed to make room for luxury condominiums as proposed by the War Memorial.

Take that, ash borer

Chuck Irish, standing, president of Charles F. Irish Inc., a tree care company founded in 1910, monitors injections to one of 225 ash trees on Lakeshore and Osius Park in Grosse Pointe Shores. Irish has teamed with the Arborjet company to try to save village-owned ash trees from the invasive emerald ash borer. "My great aunt originally planted Lakeshore in the 1920s," Irish said. "We planted the trees again in the 1980s. We felt it was our time to give back to the community. We want to do our part to help preserve the trees."

Trees are being treated with Imidacloprid, said Peter Wild from Arborjet, based in Winchester, Mass. "We're injecting in so there's no exposure to the applicator or environment," Wild said. "We're not spraying it all over the place. We're not dumping it into the soil where it could contaminate the water table." Emerald ash borers, native to Southeast Asia, kill ash trees by boring into the vascular tissue. "This insect is moving fast and furious," Wild said. "Municipalities don't have funding to invest in these trees." He hopes helping the Shores will not only save trees, but also help spread the word on treatments. "This is a good venue for us to do that."

Historic battle begins over 60 Lakeshore

By Brad Lindberg
 Staff Writer

Preservationists are hoping to shield a lakeside mansion from demolition.

Mike Farley, chairman of the Grosse Pointe Farms Historic District Commission, wants 60 Lakeshore saved from being replaced by a condominium project.

The project was proposed earlier this month by the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, which bought 60 Lakeshore and neighboring properties to remove deed restrictions on single family use.

"It's not an historic house," said Mark Weber, War Memorial president, whose supervisory duties include preserving the Alger House, a state and national historic site that has housed the veteran's center for 50 years. "We've demonstrated a long-term commitment to historic preservation. We look forward to meeting with the Historic Commission."

Farley told the city council last week, "We are not opposed to development as long as 60 Lakeshore is preserved."

He said the house is historically and architecturally significant. It was built by the predecessor to Smith, Hinchman & Grylls, a well-know Detroit architectural firm.

"It's a very good example of Tudor revival style with elements of gothic and shingle," Farley said.

If the property were designated a Farms historic district, such as Beverly Road, owners would qualify for a 25 percent Michigan income tax credit on improvements, such as a new roof and kitchen work.

"We think it is particularly inappropriate for the War Memorial to tear down a historic house," Farley said. "The War memorial itself is the recipient of the beautiful Alger House, which was thoughtfully preserved and donated for the benefit of the community."

He denied claims that the property is in poor condition and unmarketable.

"I've been in that house many times," he said. "That house could be preserved and turned into two or three condominiums. The architecture for the rest of the condominium development could be tailored to be complementary toward 60 Lakeshore or other houses in the surrounding neighborhood."

He said the Grosse Pointes have a lot of large, older homes that might be suitable for adaptive reuse as condominiums. He asked for the Historic Commission to be included in deciding the War Memorial's proposal.

"If it's done in a way that preserves 60 Lakeshore, it could bring regional or even national acclaim to the city," Farley said. "We should set our standards very high to preserve what we have in coming up with a very attractive and marketable project."

Weber added, "Our primary interest is to preserve the historic Alger House. So it is important that our efforts consider the financial outcomes of any re-use of 60 Lakeshore."

The Punch and Judy Theater returns to center stage at a Grosse Pointe Farms city council meeting, where police report continued complaints about late-night noise and outdoor drinking associated with punk rock concerts.

Drivers who have been irritated by bone-jarring potholes on Lakeshore may soon get relief as the Grosse Pointe Shores village council agrees to meet the Wayne County Road Commission's terms for resurfacing the deteriorating roadway.

The Shores will pay 8.66 percent of resurfacing costs with the county, or about $40,000.

The decision ends a two-year dispute between the village and county authorities but leaves Grosse Pointe Farms alone to fight its version of the battle against the county.

Grosse Pointe High School's championship baseball team

Under the leadership of Coach Ed Wernet, the Grosse Pointe Blue Devils made history when they finished the Boarder Cities League baseball campaign with a 7-3 record. This is the high school's first baseball title since the league started in 1936. The best the Pointers had ever finished before this season was second, but that was in the Southeastern Michigan League when Coach Wernet was a standout player in 1931. Players who helped the Blue Devils win the crown are, front row from left, Manager Jim Passante, Ken Stell, Charles Mocerri, Art Wible, Don Eugenio, Jim MacMillan, Jim Clyma, Walter Eversman and Dwight Watkins. In the second row from left are Bob Schearle, Steve Horn, Bill Dow, Al Underwood, Sam Mocerri, Bob Ritter and Norm Wolfe. Third row from left are Coach Wernet, Dan Follis, Terry Brown, Tom Ireland, Bill Ross, Frank Billner, Bob Sealy, John Russell, Doug McBride, assistant Coach Ernest Bauer and Jim Garza, manager. # Paint, air guns not OK in the Pointes

Any shooting projectile is against the law

By Bonnie Caprara
Staff Writer

Their function is less than lethal, but their looks may not be.

Air guns and paint ball guns are becoming increasingly popular with children. As the number of these recreational toys increase, so have the number of police incidents.

Since the beginning of the year, Grosse Pointe Woods has recorded six incidents involving air guns being used on a house, cars and people and four incidents of using cars and a house as paint ball targets.

"Using any shooting projectile is a violation of the city ordinance," Woods Public Safety Director Michael Makowski said. "If they use them on somebody, we'll deal with them to the full extent of the law."

According to Makowski, paint ball guns use water-soluble paint ammunition, and the guns do not resemble actual firearms. However, many of the air guns, which fire plastic pellets, replicate the look and feel of many well-known firearms — Glock, Smith & Wesson, UZI — but are marked with an orange tip at the end of the barrel.

"They're not lethal, but they can cause an eye injury," Makowski said.

The authentic look of air guns can pose a risk to users and police, as it did in an incident in Grosse Pointe Farms in March 2003 when an officer drew his weapon at a 12-year-old boy playing with an air gun.

"Some of these toy guns look very realistic, especially at night," Grosse Pointe Farms Deputy Director of Public Safety Dan Jensen told the Grosse Pointe News in April 2003. "Sometimes it's hard to tell if you're dealing with a 13- or 14-year-old boy or an 18-year-old man, and if he has a toy gun or an actual weapon. You don't ask if it's a toy gun first."

Given the growing popularity of air guns and paint ball guns, Child psychologist Dr. William Irving said he hasn't seen an increase in problems.

"We haven't seen an increase in problems with proper supervision," Irving said. "It becomes problematic when the kids aren't supervised."

"Air guns and paint ball guns should be used in an appropriate place where they're allowed," Makowski said.

Stock market holds bottom, recovers in May

Floor traders said that stocks had become oversold in mid-May. Volume, prior to the Memorial Day holiday, was pathetic, but investors were nibbling.

Last week was the first positive week for the Dow and the S&P 500 after four straight weeks of losses. Some analysts said the markets reached their short-term lows in May and will move higher in June.

Technicians, who had kept their eyes on the Nasdaq quadruple lows, were jubilant that the lows held.

Not for us!

Gretchen Morgenson, feature writer for The New York Times, compares (May 23) our scandal-ridden mutual fund industry with Congress' Thrift Savings Plan (TSP), its $130 billion assets and 3.2 million participants, including elected officials, all other government employees and the armed services.

The simplicity of TSP's structure and fees make it the very model of how mutual funds should be run for the benefit of its participants.

TSP participants are offered a cafeteria choice of five index funds, whose total fees in 2003 were 0.10 percent (1/10th of 1 percent) of assets, versus 0.78 percent for the mutual funds' S&P 500 Index Funds, according to Lipper Inc.

Fund G is the Government Fund, with $53 billion assets at year-end 2003, self-managed by TSP's board. It consists of Special-Issue Treasury securities of 4- to 30-year weighted maturities. Interest rates are reset monthly by Treasury with no mark-to-market price adjustments. The compounded yield for the 12 months ended April 2004 was 4.05 percent.

TSP puts the investment-manager contract out for competitive bid annually. The 2004 manager is Barclay's Global, based on its 0.10 percent annual fee.

Fund F is the Fixed Income Index, with $10 billion assets, and is based on the Lehman Brothers Aggregate ABA Index. It yielded 1.77 percent for the 12 months ended April 2004.

Fund C is the Common Stock Index, with $56 billion assets, and is based on the S&P 500 Index. It yielded 22.7 percent for the 12 months ended April 2004. Fund S is the Small Cap Index, with $6 billion assets, and is based on the Wilshire 4500 Index. It yielded 38.7 percent for the 12 months ended April 2004.

Fund I is the International Stock Index, with $2.3 billion assets, and is based on the Morgan Stanley Capital International EAFE Index. It yielded 39.2 percent for the 12 months ended April 2004.

TCP requires its managers to rebate all income received for stock lent-out on a fully collateralized basis. $2.3 million was collected in 2002. Mutual fund managers pocket this cash, even though the shares belong to its shareholders!

Morgenson concluded,

"It's easy to see why Congress feels no need to right the wrongs in the fund industry. Those folks know how to take care of themselves."

Insider selling

LTS wrote about "Insider Selling" last summer (see LTS Aug. 14 and Sept. 18). You'd think with last year's feverish rally (DJI, up 21 percent and Nasdaq up 43 percent) and 2004's flat market, insiders might have slowed their selling.

Not so. Insiders (corporate directors, executive officers and founders' families) have sold over $14.4 billions of their own company stock in the first four months of 2004, versus buying outright only $430 million, a 33-to-1 sell-to-buy ratio!

Since July 1, Larry Best, CFO of Boston Scientific, sold 4 million shares, or 71.3 percent of his holdings, reporting a $140 million profit.

Nigel Norris, former vice chairman and founder of Capital One Financial (a bank card issuer) sold 69.4 percent of his grub stake for a profit of $147 million and then left the company this past April.

If questioned, most executives will say that their selling should not indicate a lack of confidence in the company's future; their

Many executives who plan to sell their option/shares arrange to sell them directly back to the company's stock repurchase plan; so their sale does not depress the public trading market.

This direct sale sounds as if the company's cash is being used to enrich the executives. But the buy back program, recommended by management and the board of directors, was approved by shareholder vote at a recent annual meeting!

Stay fit — let your fingers do the walking

This one is from the "I didn't see that coming" department.

Michigan State University educators are using a video game to improve the eating and nutrition habits of adults.

"The Fantastic Food Challenge" was developed by MSU's Communication Technology Laboratory and MSU Extension's Family Nutrition Program. It's a series of games modeled after non-computer games, such as card and dice games, and television shows like "The Price is Right."

The games are designed to appeal to casual game players, particularly young adult women. Players role-play as a contestant on a futuristic game show where the more they know about food groups, recipes, food cost and food-handling safety, the better their chances of winning.

The project was created in conjunction with the Michigan Family Nutrition Program, which helps low-income Michigan adults acquire the knowledge, skills and confidence to feed their families nutritious, cost-conscious meals. Nutrition instructors provide these opportunities by working with families in their homes or at various community sites.

However (this is instead of our usual "But!"), MSU officials said those instructors are finding it increasingly difficult using traditional means to recruit and retain young adults. The game was created for playback on standard desktop and portable computers running Windows or Macintosh operating systems.

Go to the MSU Web site and follow the links.

Don't forget: It's a great way to get your fingers in shape!

The Food and Drug

Administration has sent warning letters to 16 dietary supplement distributors it said were making false and misleading claims for weight loss products promoted over the Internet. Claims such as "eat all you want" and "watch the fat disappear" must be removed.

"Obesity in America is at epidemic proportions, and we will not tolerate companies making false claims promising easy fixes," said Health and Human Services Secretary Tommy G. Thompson. "There is no substitute for eating well and remaining physically active."

Among the sites targeted by the government were Better Bodz, Evitamins.com and VitaMaker.com.

All right, I've got it. Play video games in my easy chair, take pills and eat all I want and soon I'll have the body of Arnold Swartz...I mean...Arnold Ziffle.

This just in from Southfield:

Radio consultants Jacobs Media had created a new Web site, www.saveradionow.org. Jacobs Media said the site is non-profit and non-partisan and has three goals.

First: To inform Americans about actions of Congress and the FCC that impact free speech rights.

Second: To enable Americans to share ideas and opinions on the topic via chats, blogs and meet-ups.

Third: To provide Americans easy access to their representatives and the FCC and to sign a petition that will be sent to Congress and the FCC.

Jacobs Media also said it had conducted a Web poll of more than 13,000 rock radio listeners with Edison Media Research, the results of which are posted on the site.

The poll showed few listeners are offended by what they hear on the radio. (I wish they had called me!) They are sensitive to governmental involvement in their radio programming. More often than not, they simply change stations when they hear material that bothers them in any way.

"It is also noteworthy that these listeners are suspicious of the politics behind this current environment aimed at ending 'indecent' on the radio," Jacobs said in a statement.

OK, already! I'll just change the station. Oh, wait. My sons already change the station every 10 seconds.

Property cases dominate crime in G.P. Farms

By Brad Lindberg
Staff Writer

Crime in the Grosse Pointes is typically committed against property. Lawbreakers maintained that tradition last year in the Farms.

Property crimes accounted for 99.985 percent of all major offenses reported in the Farms during 2003, according to a year-end summary compiled by the public safety department.

Exceptions — robbery, burglary, larceny and auto theft — amounted to only .015 percent of the total.

Three instances of robbery, all unarmed, were the only major violent crimes reported last year in the Farms. Of those three cases, police solved two.

Overall, however, a rash of car thefts and burglaries sent major crime totals 14 percent above last year.

Fourteen of the city's 20 home invasions during 2003 occurred from March through August. Four of six business burglaries occurred during August and September.

"We were fortunate to apprehend those responsible for a majority of our home invasions," said Detective Rick Good.

"These guys are usually drug addicts supporting their habit," added Mike McCarthy, detective. "They target jewelry because it's easy to pawn."

The Farms was among many eastside communities last year invaded by car thieves.

Cases reached 31, including three failed attempts, a 148 percent increase from 2002. There were only 11 car thefts last year in the Farms.

On average for each of the four years preceding 2003, thieves stole or attempted to steal 18.75 motor vehicles in the Farms. When 2003 statistics were added, the average went up to 21.2.

"The increase in car thefts was our biggest problem," McCarthy said.

A multi-agency task force just wrapped up an investigation of the problem.

Undercover police from numerous jurisdictions — the Grosse Pointes, Harper Woods, Detroit, Wayne and Macomb County — spent hundreds of hours collectively cruising Detroit's eastern districts during overnight interdictions.

Culprits turned out to be fresh faced and streetwise.

"Young kids are stealing cars and using them for transportation, not necessarily stripping them," McCarthy said.

Juveniles also have been caught taking cars for more than joyrides.

"They're little teen gangs hired to steal by professional thieves because (the adults) know that juveniles are not going to go to jail," said Dan Jensen, Farms deputy director of public safety. "It's almost like drug dealers. You arrest three or four, and there are three or four behind them ready to take their place."

During a two-week period in February, the task force made 53 arrests, recovered 41 cars and detained seven juveniles, Jensen said.

"If they're not already back out on the street they will be. They'll go right back at it, or someone will take their place," Jensen said.

Fires

Given the value of residential property in the Farms, it takes only one major house fire to balloon fire losses for the year. That's what happened last February when a house burned down on Tonnancour Place.

Public safety officers from three communities were unable to save the estimated $895,000 dwelling.

Overall during 2003, a variety of fire runs, such as a $100,000 kitchen fire and a marital squabble where a husband tossed his wife's clothing in the fireplace, brought yearly fire losses to $1,140,824. The figure dwarfed 2002's estimated losses of $65,500.

Casualties were limited to five public safety officers who suffered minor injuries, but no burns. A female resident in January suffered first-degree burns on a finger during a Sterno fuel accident.

Traffic safety

Of 333 traffic crashes reported last year in the Farms, 16 occurred on the Grosse Pointe side of Mack and Moross.

Only two other intersections in the Farms were the site of three crashes, those being Kercheval-Moross and Grosse Pointe Boulevard-Moran.

There were no fatalities. Twenty percent of all crashes were hit and run.

The traffic division also responded to citizen complaints. In April, officers clamped down on speeders using Moran between Beaupre and Williams.

Shores puts limits on garage doors

By Brad Lindberg
Staff Writer

There will be no forward-facing four-bay garages in Grosse Pointe Shores.

Village trustees are allowing only three garage spaces to face the street.

"Additional garage vehicle space can be approved by the Board of Appeals upon request for a variance," said Mark McInerney, village council.

Additional vehicle spaces must open to a dwelling's side or rear yard "so they do not open directly on a roadway," according to Ordinance 232, as amended by a unanimous village council.

"In other words, they do not face the front," McInerney said. "They cannot infringe on any setback area."

Trustees also required each single family residence in the village to have either a two or three-car garage.

Single space garage doors were defined as eight to 10 feet wide. Two-car garages can have doors 16 to 20 feet wide.

Trustees accepted the amendment as recommended by members of the planning commission. Four-stall, forward facing garage doors had been a non-issue until a resident recently proposed building one.

"Neighbors were opposed to it," said Mary Matuja, chair of the planning commission. "So, we revisited the ordinance."

Heroin bust

A minor traffic offense in the 19000 block of Mack drew Grosse Pointe Farms police to a wanted felon on Monday, May 23, at 1:37 a.m.

Police said the 39-year-old man from Bay City was wanted in Saginaw for home invasion and two misdemeanor drug crimes. He was wanted in Midland for shoplifting.

Police found a crack pipe in the man's pocket. The car contained a crack pipe and syringes, one loaded with a brown liquid believed to be heroine.

Toasted

Public safety officers manning two fire trucks answered an alarm in the first block of Lakeshore in Grosse Pointe Shores on Sunday, May 30, at 2:51 p.m.

Smoke coming from a toaster was caused by careless cooking, officers said. Officers used fans to clear smoke from the house.

Lightning

Lightning struck a tree in the first block of Vernier in Grosse Pointe Shores on Sunday, May 23, at 7:30 p.m. The tree fell over and cut power lines and cable service to a couple dwellings.

Woods residents mull over direction of master plan

By Bonnie Caprara
Staff Writer

If the people in Grosse Pointe Woods get their way, the city will remain the same, only better.

Ninety-four residents turned out at the Grosse Pointe Woods Community Center on Tuesday, May 18, to give their input on developing the city's master plan. It was a record turnout for planning consultant Dan Wortman, of Carlisle & Wortman, who has worked with 20 other public input master plan sessions.

Residents met in small groups to discuss the things they'd like to see in businesses along Mack, their neighborhoods, traffic, parking, zoning and land use.

Many of the participants said they thought highly of the city and its services and took a high interest in the commercial interests of the city. Offering tax incentives to lure more businesses to Mack, allowing business/residential development on Mack, and eliminating the Colonial theme on Mack ranked high on many lists.

There was also a desire to see more and diverse retail businesses and restaurants on Mack, and some felt there were too many banks and pharmacies on Mack. There was a split in opinion on allowing more Class C liquor licenses. That issue will be decided by Woods voters in the August primary election.

Other high priority commercial issues included limiting the stories of new construction, enforcing window sign ordinances, allowing for two-story commercial development on Mack, limiting the number of stories of new construction on Mack, and rodent control.

Parking along Mack was another critical issue addressed at the brainstorming session. There was much interest in purchasing properties behind the businesses on Mack as they become available to expand off-street parking. Other ideas included vacating alleys to allow for more off-street parking and building parking decks to provide more convenient parking on Mack.

Building a pedestrian-friendly environment on Mack was also highly desired for many residents. There was also a suggestion to build a safe pedestrian walkway on Vernier east of Mack.

Preserving the single-family quality of neighborhoods was the paramount concern of the residents, particularly in the areas of zoning. They said they wanted to see more frequent and stringent code enforcement and inspections of rental properties.

There were many concerns about the city having too many building ordinances, the desire to see more common sense used in developing those ordinances and a suggestion to establish a Zoning Board of Appeals separate from the city council. And as more people renovate and expand their homes, some wanted to see an anti-"Bigfoot" ordinance put in place.

The residents also wanted to see more condominiums and senior housing. They also were concerned about the growing tax inequities as a result of Proposal A and how it may affect people who want to move into the community or those who want to scale down their living quarters but remain in the city.

Overall, the residents in attendance said they would like to see the continued maintenance and quality of the schools, city services and parks.

"Your input will provide direction to our planning commission," Wortman said. "Our job will be to distill this information and bring it back to you in about two to three weeks."

"I found tonight to be invigorating and motivating," Planning Commission Chairman Tom Vaughn said. "This input will be incredibly valuable as we go on with this process."

Village merchants excited about retail consultant

By Brad Lindberg
Staff Writer

Village merchants are excited that a consultant has been charged with seeking a high-quality replacement for Jacobson's department store.

Positive reviews have come from established business shopkeepers and newcomers, both of whom have set their futures in the City of Grosse Pointe's central shopping district.

The consultant, Jim Bieri of the Bieri Company, received exclusive province from the City council to represent the Village to prospective retailers.

"It's extremely proactive and positive that they hired a consulting firm," said Ellen Durand, owner of the Village Toy Company for 16 years and second-term president of the Grosse Pointe Village Association.

"We need to be proactive and this is the right thing," said Beverly Leinweber, the association's director of strategic partnerships.

"I wish they would have done it a while ago," said Allison Haus, owner of Madi Lu & Ethan Too, a children's clothing store that has expanded since relocating to the Village last year from Grosse Pointe Woods.

"Maybe it's a bit late, but better late than not at all, which has been my experience," said Lisa Rennell, who moved her store, Rennell & Co. Creative Gift Design, from the Woods following nearly two years of haggling with Woods officials about zoning issues.

Bieri will do more than use the strength of his national consulting firm to contact well-known department stores to fill the loss of Jacobson's.

Jacobson's, which had stores from Michigan to Florida, declared bankruptcy two years ago. Even though their block-long store in the Village always turned a profit, the building was sold at auction to The Velmeir Companies, developers.

The property has sat vacant ever since, although plans are in the works. Velmeir partnered recently with Sunrise Development to transform the site into a combination of retail and senior living.

The idea didn't go over well at a city council meeting last month attended by more than 300 residents.

"After meeting with some 300 people — such a wonderful attendance from all walks of life to support the Village — they (council members) had their ears wide open," Haus said.

"The City has been patient," Durand said. "The City has said this is a high priority; we're going to tackle it. We're going to go forward and see what we can do."

"We don't want the building sitting there for another two or three years," Haus said.

"My biggest concern is people are beginning to become impatient and feel the Village needs to move forward at any cost," Rennell said. "My feeling is, yes, it needs to move forward, but in the right direction, not just any direction in a long-term direction."

Bieri also will canvass Village merchants, property owners and customers for ideas on the district's strengths and weaknesses.

"That's great," Haus said. "Hopefully, they're going to have him look at different areas of retail, what's underused, talk about development, and try to empower local people who have local retail experience to create something special."

"Citizens and shoppers in the Grosse Pointes have to realize what shopping provides them: It provides good products at a fair price," said Charleen Blondy, who has operated Posterity: A Gallery in the Village for 14 years. "There is a premium on convenience but there's premium for perfect service."

"That's what we need to focus on. We need to know if people want us to carry different products or expand product lines."

Since moving to the Village, Rennell's business has picked up. She took over adjacent space formerly occupied by a shoe repair company.

"It's an investment in the community," Rennell said. "I believe in the Village, or I wouldn't be expanding."

"The power of what's going to happen when the Village is complete again is going to be unbelievable," said Haus.

"I'm excited for my business and from being a member of the community," Durand said. "We're on the edge of really becoming a great destination place."

Rotary aids Realtors' Habitat house

John Maliszewski, president of the Grosse Pointe Rotary, handed over a $15,000 check to the Grosse Pointe Rotary Foundation to Grosse Pointe Board of Realtors member Myrna Smith. The gift, the Rotarians' centennial project, will go toward the board's Habitat for Humanity house being built in Tri-Centennial Village in Detroit. "We're now within $7,000 to $8,000 of meeting our ($60,000) goal," Smith told the Rotarians at their Monday, May 3, meeting.

Price goes up to raze wall

By Brad Lindberg
Staff Writer

Robert Frost isn't the only one to say "Something there is that doesn't love a wall."

But as members of the City of Grosse Pointe council learned this week, the price of not loving a wall isn't what it used to be.

Councilman John Stevens lined up a contractor nearly two months ago who agreed to tear down the largest component of the decorative wall sculpture at Kressbach Place for $9,500.

The money was pledged by the City of Grosse Pointe Foundation, the private group which raised funds for the massive melding of rock and cement in the first place.

Rather than move forward on the project in time for demolition to be finished by Memorial Day, City leaders opted to seek bid proposals, although at the time city funds weren't needed.

Now the construction season has started. Companies are busy. The initial contractor increased his fee to $17,150. Another contractor bid $26,000.

City funds will now have to be used in addition to the Foundation's $10,000.

"They were gracious enough to give $10,000 to tear down their own edifice. I'd hate to go back and ask them for more," said Richard Clarke, councilman.

City officials have approved allocating the additional $7,150.

Stevens doesn't like the wall. He feels it's out of scale and wants the center portion leveled as soon as possible. Smaller sections of the wall will remain.

Stevens plans to pursue negotiations for demolition at the lowest price possible.

"It's a matter of taking a big hammer and working on the contractor," said Stevens.

Demolition can't be expedited by conscripting public works employees.

"If it weren't the busiest time (of year) for our workers, we'd be there," said Brian Vick, assistant city manager.

Municipal workers are already scheduled to play a big role in taking down the wall.

3,000 expected in Arnie's Army at Country Club on Aug. 30

By Brad Lindberg
Staff Writer

Thousands of soldiers will escort their general when Arnie's Army conducts a campaign of nostalgia Aug. 30 at the Country Club of Detroit.

Three thousand spectators are expected to attend when Arnold Palmer returns to the Club in celebration of winning the 1954 United States Amateur Championship.

Palmer called his come-from-behind victory the turning point in his life.

In addition to spectators and millions watching on The Golf Channel, 27 past amateur champions will be in town to play a round honoring an event many golfers regard as opening day of the sport's modern era.

Committed to playing in the Arnold Palmer Turning Point Invitational charity tournament are Phil Nicholson, Mark O'Meara, Craig Stadler and Lanny Wadkins.

Tournament organizers hope to raise $5 million to establish the Arnold Palmer Education Fund. Most of the money will support urban children attending Cornerstone Schools in Detroit.

"The 1954 U.S. Amateur was a turning point in my life," Palmer said in a prepared statement. "I am thrilled that so many other U.S. Amateur Champions have agreed to join me in this endeavor to create a turning point in the lives of these children."

Also benefitting from the tournament will include First Tee of Michigan Foundation to provide youngsters an opportunity to develop, through golf and character education, values such as honesty, integrity and sportsmanship; and Children's Scholarship Fund-Detroit, which gives urban primary and secondary students an opportunity for excellent education; gala fundraiser dinner has been planned for an estimated 1,500 sponsors the night before the tournament.

Martin West, a club representative and former councilman of Grosse Pointe Farms, said the invitational and related events will have only slight impact on residents.

Spectators will be transported to the club from parking area reserved at the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House and University Liggett School. Club members will park on site.

"We expect little impact on the city," West said.

Park resident helps Jefferson business district

By Carrie Cunningham
Staff Writer

Tucked on the left side of Jefferson a few blocks from Grosse Pointe Park is the Jefferson East Business Association, a development organization housed in a small, unassuming building that holds passionate employees full of ideas for the growth of Detroit.

One of these employees is a 29-year-old woman named Libby Pachota, a Grosse Pointe Park resident and rookie urban planner who exemplifies the innovative concepts the business association hopes to make a reality.

Jefferson East is working to make Detroit a more attractive, economically vigorous place. It focuses on a four square mile area, with borders that include St. Jean Road on the west, the Park's Alter Road to the east, Charlevoix to the north and the Detroit River to the south.

Pachota's efforts are centered on a 12-block area on Jefferson.

"This particular neighborhood is one of those hidden gems. We've got these gorgeous buildings. It has all this phenomenal potential, and yet it has a lot of challenges," Pachota said.

Pachota and Jefferson East have a template of five principles they adhere to in trying to make Detroit a better place to live and work.

They work on organizing, which involves meeting with property owners and business owners to ascertain their needs and concerns. Jefferson East wants to promote a dialogue that will help people work together and spur progress.

Design involves the physical refurbishment and construction of roads, stores and property. Pachota spends most of her time in this area.

Some projects Jefferson East has witnessed include makeovers of seven storefront facades as well as streetscape improvements.

Libby Pachota is program director for planning and development for the Jefferson East Business Association. She helps property and business owners thrive and prosper in a four square mile area of Detroit.

The area from Alter to Eastlawn Roads has recently been listed on a national registry as a historic place, and consequently businesses and property owners in this area are eligible for a 20 percent historic tax credit.

A third area Pachota and her organization work on is economic restructuring.

The group hopes to retain and attract businesses. They have a database of business names and send out mailing to potential businesses.

They assist nascent entrepreneurs in getting access to capital and credit, including a loan from National City, which will feature two percentage points below the average borrowing rate.

Jefferson East has applied to the state's cool cities program with the expectation of developing an entertainment and technology incubator of businesses where prospective businesses can receive a lower than normal rent as well as advice on business and marketing strategies.

Making the area clean and safe is another priority of Pachota and Jefferson East. They are involved in beautification projects like flower planting and the installment of banners. They also keep in touch with the local police precinct.

Lastly, Pachota and her employer work on promotional events for the area.

At the end of this month, they will host an event called Jazzin on Jefferson which will feature two stages of jazz and blues performers as well as food and art vendors and activities for kids.

"It's really important to me to feel like I am having an impact and making a difference," Pachota says about her work.

While Pachota beams with optimism about the possibilities for Detroit, she realizes people who have witnessed difficult years in the city might not share her enthusiasm.

Making people hope and believe that they will get results from an investment in the area is one of her main objectives.

Increasing the population in the area as well as dispelling false perceptions about crime are related aims.

A one-time social psychology major at Kalamazoo College, Pachota's interest in urban planning grew from family traditions.

Her father, Bob, runs a business called Best Block, which manufactures building materials. Learning about the business piqued an interest in development within Pachota.

Her mom, Marilyn, grew up in Detroit and passed onto her daughter a love for the city.

"Urban planning is the place where both of these worlds meet," Pachota said.

Pachota got a degree in urban planning from the University of Michigan. The program had a specific focus on community and economic development, which are two areas that fascinate Pachota.

Pachota began working for Jefferson East in the year 2000 and hasn't looked back since. Her title is program director for planning and development.

She moved to Grosse Pointe Park the same year she started working. She likes the Park for both its proximity to work and its charming and quaint nature.

She has met many neighbors who used to live in the Detroit neighborhood she concentrates on at Jefferson East and finds it moving that they care about the area.

Pachota has two siblings, Andy, 33, and Mary, 40, who both have families. She grew up in Livonia and attended elementary and high school in that city.

Detroit is where Pachota and Jefferson East's heart resides.

"We want to celebrate the Jefferson business district," she said.

Jazzin on Jefferson will take place on the corner of Jefferson and Chalmers from noon to 9 p.m. on Saturday June 26. If you are interested in volunteering for the Jefferson East Business Association, call Pachota at (313) 331-7939.

Drafty Farms city hall gets new boiler

By Brad Lindberg
Staff Writer

Cooler heads should prevail now that better air conditioning will be installed at Grosse Pointe Farms city hall.

Some $447,000 worth of work has been contracted to Byrne Mechanical, Inc., the same company that did major renovations to city hall in 1988.

Administrators budgeted $365,000 for the work. The shortfall will be made up from money saved for contingencies.

Parts of city hall on Kerby between Kercheval and Grosse Pointe Boulevard date to 1912. The boiler is vintage-1953 and based on a 1912 design.

"The existing boiler is maintenance intensive and inefficient," said Matthew Tepper, assistant city manager.

Paul Byrne, owner of Byrne Mechanical, said he's been patching portions of the rattle old piping system "for years."

He said, "Eight years ago, the boiler was jumping off the floor."

Conditions inside the building often prompt complaints from residents, city council members and employees about being uncomfortably cold in winter and hot in summer.

Byrne's low-bid beat two competitors. The contract includes replacing the boiler, which operates at no more than 60 percent efficiency, with a modern unit.

Installation should be completed by the end of the summer, Tepper said.

"The new boiler will operate at 80-plus percent efficiency, resulting in energy cost savings," Tepper said.

He said the unit will pay for itself in four or five years.

Byrne's workers also will replace cooling and ventilation ducts in city council chambers. The room doubles as a municipal court.

"Currently, even on mild days, the room reaches sweltering temperatures during meetings because of the inadequate cooling system," Tepper said.

Council members chose not to authorize boiler-related upgrades costing $664,000.

The council deferred air conditioning improvements for the public safety department and administrative offices, both of which Tepper said are inadequate.

Pumped up over gas prices

A few things have been bothering me lately, and they all seem to deal with the same topic: The high price of gasoline.

First, I don't understand why so many folks feel that they need to drive around on the paved roads of Grosse Pointe and other surrounding communities in vehicles that are intended for off-road use.

Second, I find it interesting that more and more people who own boats are still using them. However, I see a lot more of them just moored in the harbor rather than firing up the engine to cruise around Lake St. Clair. That, I suspect, mainly is due to the fact that gas is close to $3.00 per gallon at most gas docks in the area.

One gallon of gas on land is up to $2.05 on average across the nation. But I've seen much higher prices in Grosse Pointe, and people can't stop complaining. Ironically, at the same time the numbers of trucks and SUVs continue to increase at a steady rate.

Go figure. The vehicle that gets the worst gas mileage and has the highest price tag is what everyone wants.

We live in Southeast Michigan, where one may need to kick that gas guzzling monster truck into four-wheel drive maybe five times per year. However, the other 360 or so days, two-wheel drive is more than enough to keep drivers and passengers adequately safe.

Another thing that bothers me is the way people justify wasting their money on such a vehicle and the preposterous amounts of gas it consumes, not to mention the kind of pollution the more powerful engines and bigger vehicles tend to create.

SUV owners say things like, "My SUV is the safest car on the road," and "I like to be higher than all the other cars; it makes me feel more secure."

That's true. But in some cases it also makes motorists drive like morons because they feel untouchable and have some kind of power over people in smaller cars.

Ford expects that its truck sales will increase over the next year as it begins production of the new 2005 F-Series trucks. That may be great for Ford, but not so good for the people who will have to pay to fill their gas tanks — not to mention the added pollution they may create.

The new Ford 150 series is being built with two innovative engine options, a Triton V-8 and a 355 h.p. Triton V-10. The new engines are built with new technology, which is supposed to improve both the gas mileage and the emissions rating. At this writing, however, Ford had not yet produced the actual numbers for either.

But then, history has shown that purchasers of these types of trucks normally don't care much about the emissions rating — or their gas mileage, either. They just want a strong truck, regardless of the obvious drawbacks.

As for boaters, most of them understand, too, that owners of Hummers and Land Rovers are feeling the burn of abnormally high gas prices just like everyone else. So what are they doing when they have time away from the office on the weekend? Not much.

I've been out on the water a handful of times already this year, and I've noticed that boat traffic on Lake St. Clair is down. Some may blame it on the less than beautiful weather that Mother Nature has served up thus far this Spring, but I place at least part of the blame on skyrocketing gas prices. "It seems that boating is not a top priority for some people this year. They've got too many other interests, like golf, cottages, soccer games and graduation parties," said Mark Conley, of Len's Gas Dock in St. Clair Shores.

When it comes to gas prices, I feel that we have no one to blame but ourselves. We presently are engaged in an unpopular war that many claim is over oil. We are in dire need of more oil because we drive vehicles that burn more fuel than necessary, and, frankly, we don't care. The Saudis have promised to bump up production and sell more oil to the U.S.

Then what? Lower prices? Doubt it.

Prices will remain high due greatly to the fact that people are in love with their trucks and SUVs. After all, they insist, you can't put a price tag on safety.

When Reid was looking for a college to attend, one that would accept his insouciant disregard for 4-point averages and recognize his other talents, he found Earlham College, a Quaker school in Richmond, Ind.

Points about the Pointes

The arts, classical music and our children... where will the money come from?

Within the next thirty days, the members of our School Board will have to make some very tough decisions as to what goes and what stays in light of a $3.7 million shortfall in funds we are facing for the coming school year. It doesn't take a rocket scientist to figure out that something has to go. No matter what is cut, someone is going to feel the pain.

This chopping of programs doesn't stop at our School Board. There are many enrichment programs which our students enjoy after school which are also on the block. Many of these programs have gone along unnoticed, with all of us assuming that they are parts of our lives that will always be there to expand the minds of our children.

The State of Michigan had previously earmarked $23 million for last year to be distributed through its Art Council to use as a funding mechanism for about 400 grants for the arts. It was originally announced that next year's Art Council funding would be reduced to $11 million. Now, the rumor is that it will be cut to only $1 million!

One of the organizations that depends on these grants is the Detroit Symphony Orchestra's Civic Ensembles.

This ensemble consists of three groups comprised of students, many of whom are from the Pointes. Pointers like Clyde and Helen Wu and Bruce and Marcia Ferguson (to name a few) are passionate about keeping these programs alive. If you have had the privilege of hearing these students passionately perform Mahler or Mozart, you will know why the Wus, the Fergusons and many others are justifiably passionate about keeping these programs alive.

If the sin tax passes, we may see a few more dollars go to programs like these programs. As members of a community who has always taken pride in exposing our children to excellence in a well rounded education, we have to remember that these programs are part of that education. The music that these students play is world history without words. Whether your children play an instrument or not, the programs that the DSO puts on for children such as the one this past Saturday help prepare our children for being global citizens rather than citizens of the protected bubble of Grosse Pointe that was acceptable when job hunting in years past.

In order to save these programs, we as parents have to get proactive. We need to get out there and support them in anyway possible. Grosse Pointe South's Choir will be performing a Broadway Musical Review: A Salute to Seniors this coming weekend. Instead of taking your kids to the movies, take them to the North Performing Arts Center this weekend for the show. We have purchased a block of tickets for the show for the seniors in the community. Contact Sue Kopf at Services for Older Citizens (SOC) at 882-9600 for further information.

Get out there this weekend and make a difference. Write Lansing and take in a touch of Broadway...you'll be glad you did!

Curves for Women throws City one — parking

By Brad Lindberg
Staff Writer

Curves for Women has become a great success in the City of Grosse Pointe. So much so that neighboring businesses are feeling muscled out — of parking spaces.

Members of the city council are trying to make sure the error doesn't happen again.

"That doesn't help us," said Della Pavlock, of the family-owned Framing Gallery on Mack in the City of Grosse Pointe.

"But it might help the next person," said Dale Scraee, mayor.

Pavlock has been in business 33 years at 18140 Mack. She didn't have problems until two years ago when customers of Curves for Women moved in next door and began throwing their weight around.

According to complaints presented to the city council, clients of the popular fitness center hog area parking spots and make too much noise arriving for workouts as early as 6 a.m.

Curves, which touts pound-shedding 30-minute exercise routines, presented a new challenge to city planners two years ago when announcing plans to open on Mack.

"None of our ordinances addressed a Curves-type facility," said Mike Overton, city manager. "In absence of an ordinance, they can go anywhere."

There's nothing Pavlock can do about it.

"This is impacting our business," she said.

"I guess you could say shame on us," said Scraee. He was on the council when Curves moved in.

To make amends, Scraee and other members of the council instructed the chief of public safety to address parking and noise complaints through the nuisance ordinance.

"Anywhere it can apply, it will apply," said Skip Fincham, chief.

In addition, council members amended the zoning ordinance to deal with new breeds of businesses like Curves.

"If someone comes in with a use slightly off of what's specifically permitted in the RO-1 district, they would have to submit a request for special use approval," said John Jackson, vice president McKenna Associates, the City's planning consultants.

Requests would require site plan approval during a public hearing.

"The planning commission can make sure (the request) is compatible with uses permitted in the RO-1 (restricted office) district," Jackson said. "The commission (could) put conditions on it so they can't open before 8 a.m."

"Unfortunately it's too late with Curves," Scraee said. "It happened the first time. It's not going to happen again."

In other action, the council eliminated the RO-1 district's 30-foot front-yard setback. Officials amended zoning rules to require new structures to be built up to the front property line.

"That will free-up some undevelopable space in the RO-1 district," Jackson said.

He said the change is consistent with the existing nature of buildings on Mack.

"Most are built right up to the sidewalk," he said.

Another change reduced the 20-foot rear-yard parking setback to a five-foot buffer between adjacent property lines.

"That more accurately reflects what's on Mack than the 20-foot setback requirement right now," Jackson said.

Anthony P. Bist

Anthony P. Bist

Grosse Pointe Woods resident Anthony "Andie" P. Bist, 79, died Friday, April 9, 2004, at his home.

Mr. Bist was born June 6, 1924, in Iron Mountain, Mich., and while still young his mother moved the family to Detroit. He was double promoted during high school and graduated at age 16; and later, graduated with an engineering degree from Gettysburg College in Pennsylvania.

In 1942, Mr. Bist joined the U.S. Army Air Corps and served during World War II as a ferry pilot and transport pilot assigned to flag officers. He was ranked first lieutenant and was promoted to second lieutenant in the reserves.

Mr. Bist was an engineer and vice president with H.R. Krueger Inc., a machine tool shop.

He was an usher at St. Lucy Catholic Church for more than 40 years, belonged to the Radio Control Club and the Investment Club.

Mr. Bist enjoyed ballroom dancing with his wife, Charlotte, who he met at the Vanity Ballroom in Detroit, and big band music, especially Artie Shaw (he collected every song she recorded except one). He frequented Las Vegas golf tournaments and was in the hole-in-one club. He also enjoyed traveling, including trips to Australia, England, Alaska and Hawaii. His basement was his hobby shop with model airplanes, including Stearman biplanes which he flew.

He is survived by his wife of 57 years, Charlotte; daughters, Beverly (Simon) Cook, Dottie (James) Deneau; sons, Kenneth (Nancy) and Brian (Lisa); grandchildren, Kris (Misty) and Kevin Fowler, Joseph Anthony Shock, Heather (Joe) Leone, Jeffrey Shock; great-grandchildren, Kendall Ellen Fowler, Joseph Anthony Leone, and Haven Kristina Fowler; and half siblings, Gary (Marianne) Bist, Cindee (Bill) Dombrowski, Gloria (Bob)

Krause, Jim (Nancy) Bist, Tom (Christina) Novak, and Audrey (Gerald) Check.

Mr. Bist was predeceased by his brother, Robert (Patricia) Bist; and grandchildren, Jonathan and Holly Shock.

A funeral Mass was celebrated April 13 at St. Lucy Catholic Church with the Air Force Honor Guard in attendance. Interment will be held Saturday, June 5, (in honor of his 80th birthday) at Resurrection Cemetery in Clinton Township.

Merle J. Elliott

Grosse Pointe Park resident Merle J. Elliott died Tuesday, May 25, 2004, at her residence.

Mrs. Elliott was born in Ferndale and attended two years of college. She was a managing partner at Elliott-Elliott and Company and a 40-year resident of the Grosse Pointe area.

She is survived by her husband, Bill Elliott; daughter, Jane (Jim) Walling; five grandchildren; three great-grandchildren; and brother, Jack (Pat) Carr.

Mrs. Elliott was predeceased by her brother, Russell Carr.

Funeral arrangements were provided by Kaul Funeral Home in St. Clair Shores. Interment was held at White Chapel Memorial Cemetery.

Guido Umberto Giordimaina

Grosse Pointe Farms resident Guido Umberto Giordimaina, 72, died Friday, May 28, 2004, at St. John Hospital in Detroit.

Mr. Giordimaina was born in Cairo, Egypt, on April 18, 1932. His father, Antonio, was a fighter pilot for the English army and his mother, Linda, was an Italian immigrant. As a child, he spoke Italian at home and Arabic at school. He completed his university studies in French, majoring in management, and would go on to become fluent in five languages.

In his late teens, he excelled in grueling cycling national tournaments. He also learned to play numerous musical instruments, and together with the infamous Rataplan band, brought smiles to countless audiences in smoky clubs throughout Asmara.

In his early 20s, Mr. Giordimaina was employed as a pilot for Aden Airways. He logged thousands of miles flying pilgrims from Cairo to Mecca, and very quickly climbed to the position of assistant deputy general manager. After a series of positions in more than 29 countries, Mr. Giordimaina became CEO for FIAT, responsible for African and

Gaffney receives safety award

The Michigan Driver and Traffic Safety Education Association has presented state Rep. Ed Gaffney, R-Grosse Pointe Farms, with the organization's Distinguished Achievement Award.

The award recognizes Gaffney for his significant and identifiable contribution to Michigan's driver education program during 2003.

"I am honored to receive this award," said Gaffney, R-Grosse Pointe Farms. "I appreciate the Michigan Driver and Traffic Safety Education Association's support of my legislation. We must continue to do everything we can to help teenagers become safer drivers. It is a terrible tragedy when you see a young person's life end prematurely."

Gaffney was chosen for his sponsorship of House Bill 4600, which amended the Graduated Driver License system to prohibit a first-year teenage driver with a Level 2 license from transporting more than one passenger other than family members.

Studies show that accident and death rates for teenage drivers increase when more passengers are in the vehicle.

"With the prom and graduation season upon us, it is vital that teenage drivers take extra care to drive carefully," Gaffney said. "In addition, parents should make an effort to urge their children to drive with only one passenger and celebrate safely."

A study published in March 2000 by The Journal of the American Medical Association found that death rates per 10 million trips for 16-year-old drivers were 1.99 with no passengers, 2.76 with one passenger, and 3.69 with two passengers.

The study also noted that nighttime driver restrictions are helpful but do not go far enough, as more than half of the fatal crashes involving teenage drivers with passengers occurred during daylight hours.

More than 20 states already have enacted passenger limitations as part of graduated licensing restrictions. Eight states allow only one or no passengers up through the time the driver receives an unrestricted license.

Guido Umberto Giordimaina

Arab nations. His other achievements include Fellowship for the British Institute of Management, member of the British Institute of Travel Agents, president of Travel Agents Association of Zambia and president of the Rotary Club of Lusaka.

After 58 years in Africa, Mr. Giordimaina and his wife moved to the United States where he started a new career as a management consultant and ultimately chairman for TEC.

He enjoyed flying, writing, contract bridge, tennis, racquetball, reading and painting.

Mr. Giordimaina is survived by his wife of 38 years, Elli Giordimaina; daughter, Lorella (Drew); son, Karim (Liz); grandchildren, Massimiliano, Gianluca and Nicolo.

He was predeceased by his brothers, Rolando and Gastone.

A memorial Mass will be celebrated Friday, June 4, at 11 a.m. at St. Paul Catholic Church, 157 Lakeshore, Grosse Pointe Farms. Arrangements were provided by Chas. Verheyden Inc., Grosse Pointe Park.

Memorial contributions may be made to St. Jude's Children's Hospital or Covenant House.

Helen Gregory

A librarian at the Grosse Pointe Public Library, Helen Gregory, 65, died Saturday, May 22, 2004, at her St. Clair Shores home.

Mrs. Gregory was born on Feb. 27, 1939, in Toledo to James and Helen Byrne. She was runner-up for the Miss University of Toledo in 1960, and earned her Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Toledo in 1962. In 1968, she earned her Master of Arts degree in Theater Arts from Pennsylvania State University and an A.M.L.S. in Library Science from the University of Michigan in 1978.

Prior to coming to the Grosse Pointe Public Library, she served as head children's librarian at the Reynolds Corners Branch of the Toledo-Lucas County Public Library and Head of Children's Services at the Albion Public Library. She was a guest lecturer at the University of Michigan, as well as an instructor in Children's Literature at Albion College.

Mrs. Gregory had the distinction of serving on the Newbery-Caldcott Committee in 1979-1980 and the Newbery Committee in 1982-1983 for the prestigious children's literature awards. She had numerous book reviews published in the School Library Journal and was awarded the Friends of the Grosse Pointe Library 2004 Annual Award for enthusiasm, dedication and support.

A mainstay at the library since 1985, Mrs. Gregory served as children's librarian for 10 years, and then moved to adult services. Her reference skills were legendary — with prodigious memory and intellect she could track down the most esoteric of facts. A voracious reader, she was adept at recommending the perfect book for pleasure reading.

Helen Gregory

She was known in the Grosse Pointes for her weekly column "The Book Return," which ran in the Grosse Pointe News from 1998 to 2003.

She enjoyed theater and was a member of the original company at South Coast Repertory Theater in Costa Mesa, Calif., and locally she played the part of Mrs. Laraby in the Grosse Pointe Theatre production of Sabrina. She also enjoyed riding horses, ballet, reading, writing and was an avid trivia enthusiast.

Mrs. Gregory is survived by her sons, Dylan and J.C.

A memorial Mass will be celebrated on Saturday, June 5, at 10 a.m. at St. Paul Catholic Church in Grosse Pointe Farms.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Friends of the Grosse Pointe Library, 10 Kercheval, Grosse Pointe Farms, MI 48236.

Elizabeth Macrae Hammen

Detroit resident Elizabeth "Starr" Macrae Hammen, 88, died Tuesday, May 18, 2004, at Bon Secours Hospital.

Mrs. Hammen was born March 16, 1916, to Kenneth and Geraldine Macrae in Victoria, British Columbia.

She earned a bachelor's degree in chemistry and was the first female chemist to work for Dow Chemical Co.

She belonged to the Grosse Pointe Bonsai Club, the Grosse Pointe Camera Club and the Grosse Pointe Orchid Society.

Mrs. Hammen enjoyed life and was interested in music and reading.

She is survived by her sister-in-law, Laura Belle Macrae; nephew, Stewart; and cousin, Penelope Devlin.

Mrs. Hammen was predeceased by her husband, Jay L. Hammen; brother, Bruce F. Macrae; and brother-in-law, Theodore F. Hammen Jr.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Michigan Humane Society or the Alzheimer's Association.

Bruce A. Kirk

Livonia resident Bruce A. Kirk, 93, formerly of Grosse Pointe, died Tuesday, May 25, 2004, in Livonia.

Mr. Kirk was born on Feb. 15, 1911, in Detroit. He attended Hudson School and the Detroit College of Law.

Mr. Kirk was an attorney with the firm of Kirk, Distin & MacDonald.

He belonged to the Michigan Bar Association, Circumnavigators and the Detroit Athletic Club. Mr. Kirk loved to travel and read and had a quick sense of humor.

He is survived by his children, Joann, Ronald, James, Gordon and Lois; brothers, Kenneth, Donald, Gordon, Emerson and Alvin.

Mr. Kirk was predeceased by his wife, Joan MacDonald Kirk.

A service was held at Woodlawn Cemetery on May 29. Arrangements were provided by Chas. Verheyden Inc.

Memorial contributions may be made to charity of one's choice.

Pointers jumped the gun on Household Hazardous Waste Dropoff day last month at Osius Park, and Brett Smith couldn't have been happier.

"This is a great thing for all the communities to get together for hazardous waste drop off," said Smith, director of public works in Grosse Pointe Shores. "Everybody does his part. We look forward to it."

Ten minutes before the event was scheduled to begin at 9 a.m., a number of residents had already dropped off accumulated waste, such as oil-based paint and garden chemicals.

By 8:55 a.m., a line of cars filled the Osius Park lot. Others were stacked to Lakeshore.

All told, 485 vehicles passed through the drop-off line by the 3 p.m. deadline. Communities taking part were the City, Farms, Park, Shores and Harper Woods.

Fran Schonenberg, former Farms council member, tallied the drop-off as one of many volunteers representing Citizens for Recycling.

"LocalMotion helped by setting up a table to accept household medical thermometers containing mercury and give the household a safe digital thermometer in exchange," Schonenberg said. "One proud Girl Scout leader came with a carefully lidded container of thermometers collected by a Girl Scout troop."

Residents dropped of 325 cans of paint or solvents, 624 containers of household cleaning products, 43 batteries, 95 containers of gasoline and 319 miscellaneous items.

"Paint will be used for fuel blending," said Alex Dawson, a 1987 graduate of Grosse Pointe North High School now living in Kalamazoo as an employee of Drugs and Laboratories Disposal.

"The most spectacular hazardous waste that volunteers saw was 15 pounds of liquid mercury contributed by a retired dentist," Schonenberg said.

According to a survey, most participants deposited waste that had been accumulating for one to five years.

"The oldest hazardous waste may have come from a 90-year-old resident who was clearing out 60 years of living in the same house," Schonenberg said.

Although residents were encouraged to drop off oil-based paint, latex paint wasn't allowed.

"Latex paint is not inherently dangerous," Schonenberg said. "Disposal adds to the cost of the drop-off day."

"It's expensive to get rid of," Schonenberg said. "If residents have latex paint, open the cans, let it dry and put it in the trash. If they have half a can or more, they can save it for the spring building and materials exchange day. Habitat for Humanity will take it."

Schonenberg praised the Shores and Harper Woods for giving residents special notice of this year's drop off. She said the two communities represented the greatest number of first-time participants.

"Congratulations to them. They made a real impact," Schonenberg said.

Ford House landscape architect featured in NY Times

Ford House landscape architect featured in NY TimesThe gardening restoration efforts of Edsel & Eleanor Ford House and its legendary landscape architect, Jens Jensen, are featured in the current New York Times magazine.

In his article, "Native Grounds," New York Times magazine writer Jim Robbins chronicles the personal and professional life of Jensen — called "the dean of the world's landscape architects" in his 1951 obituary — and what Robbins refers to as Jensen's finest work on a private estate, Ford House.

"Jensen conceived the Grosse Pointe Shores grounds as a 'nerve retreat' where Edsel Ford and his family could leave behind the daily anxieties of being America's royalty," Robbins writes in his article. "Virtually every feature, from the topography to the trees to a small peninsula and cove, was meticulously created out of bare dirt."

Visitors are invited to explore the 86-acre grounds of Ford House on their own or with a narrated audio tape rental. Admission to the grounds is $3, and tape rental is $2. Guided house tours also are available all year long. Admission to both the house and grounds is $7 for adults, $6 for seniors and $5 for children 6-12.

Invasive plants like garlic mustard, diseases such as Dutch elm and exotic insects like emerald ash borer have taken their toll on Jensen's landscape architecture — Dutch elm disease, in fact, has killed more than 100 of the 150 American elms on the home's grounds.

But Ford House has maintained a restoration process that includes replanting hundreds of trees and wildflowers, the removal of multiple invasive plants, improving irrigation systems and a complete restoration of the rose garden.

Between 1926 and 1932, when Jensen designed the Ford House landscape, he drew upon his naturalistic approach to landscaping, which combines woodlands, meadows and wetlands in such a natural way that guests are usually not conscious of any man-made design.

Jensen was known for his use of native plants, the sense of vast open space, the play of light and shadow and the element of time and season's change.

Writes Robbins, "The outcome (of the Ford House grounds) was vintage Jensen, a landscape that begged visitors to discover it."

Edsel & Eleanor Ford House is celebrating 25 years since opening to the public in 1978.

Since that time, Ford House has shared Eleanor Ford's vision of preserving and maintaining the house and grounds for future generations to enjoy through interpretive tours, family activities, lectures, exhibits, and gardens and grounds events. For more information about Ford House, go to www.fordhouse.org or call (313) 884-4222.

Offices closed for holidays

Secretary of State Terri Lynn Land says all offices will be closed in observation of state holidays and for an unpaid furlough day during July and September.

The offices will be closed for Independence Day on Friday, July 2, and Monday, July 5; and Labor Day on Monday, Sept. 6.

Motorists whose driver's license or license plates expire over the holiday should renew early.

Branch offices are open Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. On Wednesdays the majority of offices are open from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. with those in city centers open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Smaller branch offices may close during the lunch hour.

Elect Ismail to school board post

Ahmed Ismail is a passionate supporter of the Grosse Pointe Public School System. Over the years he has attended nearly as many school board meetings and work sessions as an incumbent.

But though he is a school supporter, Mr. Ismail is no yes man. He asks questions. That is why Mr. Ismail will make an excellent addition to the school board.

Two seats are up for election in the Monday, June 14, school board election. One is being sought by an incumbent, while the other has been vacated. This gives voters an opportunity to elect a new member to the board.

Time could not be more critical for new thinking on the school board. With state funding not living up to expectations, hard decisions need to be made. It is a time for creative solutions, for thinking "outside the box."

With a $100 million annual budget, the school board will spend half a billion dollars over the next five years.

Opinion

We think Mr. Ismail, a successful businessman, is needed on the board.

Mr. Ismail owns a number of businesses, all based in Grosse Pointe Woods. He started working at Studio Camera as a stock boy after school while attending Parcels Middle School. He continued to work after school and during summers through high school and was given the opportunity by the owner, Carl Joyner, to purchase the store in 1971. Now called Speedi Photo, the store is still owned and operated by Mr. Ismail and his wife, Mary Ann.

Not only did Mr. Ismail successfully run and expand the business, in 1987, he founded a new company, PHC Construction Corp., which specializes in commercial construction project cost analysis and management.

With all the bond money being spent by the school district, Mr. Ismail's business background makes him ideally suited to help oversee construction projects for the school district.

People who do not know Mr. Ismail may mistakenly believe he is not from the Grosse Pointes, but they would seriously be mistaken.

Unlike the other candidates, Mr. Ismail is a product of our schools. His parents still live in his childhood home on Country Club in Harper Woods. He attended Poupard Elementary, Parcels Middle and Grosse Pointe South High schools. He transferred to Grosse Pointe North, from which he graduated in 1970.

He continues to live in and support the community. He still lives in Grosse Pointe Woods with his wife and sons Jonathan, Scott and Alex. Mr. Ismail also serves as a Grosse Pointe Woods planning commissioner. He is a major contributor to Services for Older Citizens (SOC) and Special Kids, a Pointe-based aid program for families with special-needs children.

Mr. Ismail is a former board member of the Ferry Elementary School PTO. He resigned from the board after he was forced to shame the PTO into helping pay for air conditioning at the school. (He offered to pay the PTO's portion of the bill out of his own pocket.)

Though Mr. Ismail is not the school board's "handpicked successor," he is the best candidate for the board. His endorsements include George and Betty Mikhail, Clyde and Helen Wu, Tom and Mary Marie Berschback, Joe and Beverly Fromm, Peter and Sheila Gormley, Bruce and Marcia Ferguson, Peter and Camille Ecklund, Bob and Lucy Gorski, Margot Kessler, Frank and Betsy Schulte, Chip and Suzy Berschback, Jim and Patti Chylinski, Rodger and Michelle Hunwick, Joe and Pat Bourbeau, Al LaHood and Marquita Bedway, Karl and Cyndi Tech, Greg and Jackie Muller, Kevin and Clarisa Pieuch, John and Terry Lizza, Chris and Laura Wenz, Charlie and Laura Bommarito, Mike and Alice Kosinski, Richard and Pat Benz, Bill and Mary Leonard, Allan and Cindy Koziol, Bob and Susie Hicks and many others.

The Grosse Pointe News is proud to add its name to those endorsing Mr. Ismail, and we urge all school district voters to vote for him.

You do not have to vote for two candidates, even though the ballot says you can vote for up to two. The June 14 ballot provides that you vote for one or two of the candidates, but not all three.

See the light

To the Editor:

I am writing in response to your front page and editorial articles on May 27th regarding the use of the stadium lights at Grosse Pointe South High School. I am surprised and disappointed to read that you are clearly in opposition to using the lights more than the current six times per year.

You accuse the school of being on a "fast track" and wanting to "renege on the lights pact." In fact, G.P. South representatives had a meeting with G.P. Farms representatives in November 2003 to discuss this issue. We also met with the G.P. Farms City Council back in January 2003. And I do so for another 50," you are very naive and myopic in attempt to change any existing agreement as "reneging" if you want.

The simple facts are that "Things have changed" with time. Ten years ago, we did not have lacrosse for boys or girls. We did not have field hockey for girls. There is a thing called Title IX, which requires equality for girls sports. As a school parent and taxpayer in our community, I expect the School to fulfill its responsibility to my student to provide an appropriate and safe setting for athletics. The school is not doing that to the best of its ability because it cannot use the lights when needed.

If you agree with the idea that "daytime games worked well for 50 years and would do so for another 50," you are very naive and myopic in your opinion. We must change!

There were seven varsity sports, all male, when I graduated from South 30 years ago. Today, we have 62 separate athletic teams with 30 varsity sports and more than 1,000 students participating at South!

I do agree that South must be aware of and responsive to its neighbors. I can assure you the issues such as sound, traffic and trash are being addressed and handled appropriately by the school.

I am a proud and active member of our great community. Using the lights is critical to our students and our community. I know that there is great public support to utilize the lights more. Our stadium should be a

Through the darkness an unexpected light

A couple weeks ago, we experienced a brownout. It was early in the evening, and thunderstorms had been predicted but had not yet hit our area.

I called DTE immediately, attempting to get a jump ahead of possible multiple problems later that night. It worked, and within an hour, I received a call from an employee who verified our address and directions.

My husband answered the door when the technician arrived. I joined them in the back yard near the electric meter with a flashlight in hand.

The upbeat service man greeted me with a smile and kind word and asked if my husband had served me breakfast in bed for Mother's Day, adding that was what all men should do for their women. Naturally, I took an instant liking to this fellow.

He went about his business of tracking our problem, and we showed him to the basement where he could inspect the circuit breakers, etc. He quickly determined that we had lost a main "leg" and that he would have to summon a team to fix it.

When the call had been placed, we offered this nice gentleman a soft drink and a chair at our kitchen table. We started with small talk and soon were exchanging philosophies, value systems and commentary on many things including politics and the raising of families in this time in history.

We learned that he was one of 10 children, seven boys and three girls; all had received a college education. Two were doctors, a couple lawyers, and several owned their own businesses. There was an enormous extended family with many prominent members, including a well known movie star, an NFL football player and a pro golfer to name a few.

This lovely man has been married to the same woman for 36 years, held a job with the same company for many decades, fathered five children and lives in a wonderful home in Indian Village. He intends to retire in a few years and will become a full-time minister.

When I inquired about his spiritual education and exposure, he told about how his grandmother would take them all to church and bid them to "come to the table." They sat right up front where the message would be received and learned, a practice he continued with his own family. We feel it would be an honor to attend his church one day.

What a delightful surprise the evening turned out to be. My husband and I agreed that we had been more enlightened than a 1,000-watt bulb could provide that night. We were reluctant to say good night to our new friend and were enriched by the time shared.

— Offering from the loft

Enlightened

To the Editor:

Congratulations to Jennie Miller for telling it like it is in her I Say, "Don't look away" (May 20, Grosse Pointe News), rather than following the naive line of those who choose to not understand the true relationship of terrorism and our actions in Iraq.

Fortunately we have enlightened citizens like Jennie Miller, who refuse to make a self-interested political issue out of the obvious need to attack the terrorist agenda wherever it might appear.

The inexcusable deception that emanates from some of your readers is totally disgraceful and unacceptable. Thank you, Jennie.

Immortalized librarian

To the Editor:

Although she died a week ago, Helen Gregory, long-time librarian at Grosse Pointe Central Library, has immortalized herself in the hearts of those who read her weekly column, "The Book Return," printed in the Grosse Pointe News.

It was a good idea to read the column in private because sometimes what began as a perfunctory laugh-out-loud turned into uncontrollable, uncontainable, throw back your head laughter.

Her insightful intelligence and unique critique of the world around her provided her readers with still another road — one far less traveled than most.

Her readers were fortunate to be able to avail themselves of a writer of her caliber, the quality of which one normally found in the New York Times or the New Yorker.

We loved her, we'll celebrate her, we'll miss her terribly.

Internet poll

To the Editor:

Sixty-three percent of respondents to the May 13 Grosse Pointe News Internet poll ("Library poll gets response," May 20, Grosse Pointe News) registered dissatisfaction with the current method of appointing Grosse Pointe Public Library board members.

We must have direct accountability to the taxpayers while overseeing revenues of $4 million, a fund equity of $5 million, and bond issues for two new buildings of almost $20 million.

We fully support Rep. Gaffney to amend the District Library

Establishment Act so that we may have an elected library board fully accountable to the taxpayers.

We are also deeply concerned that the library staff has been working without a contract for the past two years. It seems disgraceful that our staff is the lowest paid of all the libraries in southeast Michigan according to annual salary surveys issued by the Library of Michigan.

Poor salaries result in high turnover. In the last nine years there has been a turnover of 11 librarians out of a total of 11.5 positions. Health coverage is minimal and there are no pension benefits.

We find this unbelievable because Grosse Pointe ranks third after Bloomfield Township and West Bloomfield for highest median household income. Our employees only have to go as far as Harper Woods, Roseville, Eastpointe or St. Clair Shores to substantially improve their salaries and benefits.

There are sufficient funds to give employees salaries and benefits comparable to other libraries in the metro area. Our teachers and municipal workers certainly compare favorably with other communities, and this should hold true for our library staff as well.

As longtime library users and supporters, we are distressed by the current situation.

Armed robbery

Grosse Pointe Park detectives are still on the lookout for two men who held up and robbed a store in the 15000 block of Charlevoix on Monday, May 24.

The men entered the store at 8:50 p.m. wearing ski masks and armed with a blue steel revolver.

They got away with approximately $1,000. A blue Geo Tracker rag top may be involved.

Stolen bike

A red and silver Trek bike was taken from an unlocked garage in the 2000 block of VanAntwerp in Grosse Pointe Woods sometime between Monday, May 24, and Wednesday, May 26.

'High' school suspension

A 16-year-old Grosse Pointe Woods high school student was suspended from his Woods high school and cited for possessing narcotics paraphernalia.

His teacher found two lighters and a glass pipe in his jacket, which he left in her classroom on Monday, May 24.

He screams for ice cream

A teenage boy filed a complaint with the Grosse Pointe Woods Department of Public Safety on the evening of Monday, May 24, that his adult neighbor had used profanity and threatened to kill him.

The adult neighbor told officers he was upset because the boy had a sound machine in his car that played music that sounds like an ice cream truck.

He further said his young daughter had become upset when she realized the ice cream man was not on her street in the 2000 block of Hawthorne.

No happy hour

Tuesday, May 25, at 8:50 a.m. was no happy hour for a 39-year-old Grosse Pointe Farms man who attempted to walk out of a grocery store without paying for seven cases of beer and other miscellaneous items.

The man thought twice about taking off with his goods when he was spotted by an individual walking into the store in the 20800 block of Mack in Grosse Pointe Woods.

He left the cart in the store but was apprehended by store personnel when he tried to exit.

On Saturday, May 29, a man left the same store without paying for a 12-pack of beer, got into a gray Pontiac Grand Am, and drove northbound on Mack at about 3 p.m. Officers could not locate the suspect.

Attempted armed robbery

A manager of a store in the 19300 block of Mack in Grosse Pointe Woods was approached by a man at knife point demanding money.

The manager was approached by the man holding a 3-inch knife. The man said, "Give me your money," while the manager was loading boxes into his car behind the store at 8:30 p.m. on Monday, May 24. The manager denied having any money, but the man said, "I know you do. I've been watching you for the last five weeks."

The manager backed into the building and closed the door behind him before he called police. Witnesses said the man got into a black, four-door car, which sped westbound on Prestwick.

The suspect is described as being a clean-shaven 17- to 23-year-old male; 5-feet, 8 inches to 6 feet tall with a medium build and short brown hair who was wearing a light blue T-shirt, dark pants and inline skates.

Gassed

Someone poured gasoline on and damaged newly planted sedum on the side of a house in the 19900 block of East Doyle Place in Grosse Pointe Woods sometime between 8 p.m. on Tuesday, May 25, and 8 a.m. Wednesday, May 26.

Basement fire

Grosse Pointe Park firefighters quickly put out a fire in a basement of a house in the 1300 block of Maryland at 2:10 p.m. on Wednesday, May 26.

Car stereo stolen

A car stereo was taken from an SUV parked in the 700 block of Lakepointe in Grosse Pointe Park during the night of Thursday, May 27.

Deadbeat swashbuckler

A Detroit man riding a moped in the 1000 block of Maryland in Grosse Pointe Park at 3:09 a.m. on Thursday, May 27, was pulled over for possessing a 20-inch sword.

A background check of the man revealed a $56,000 child support warrant.

Construction accident

A 25-year-old Waterford man was injured after a large concrete pipe fell on his arm at a construction site at Mack and Huntington in Grosse Pointe Woods shortly before 2 p.m. on Thursday, May 27.

The pipe fell out of an excavator bucket while it was being repositioned.

The excavator operator told a public safety officer that the bucket may be faulty since he did not hit the quick release button.

The injured man refused to release information on his condition. MIOSHA has investigated the accident scene.

Water scam

Two men claiming to be

Grosse Pointe Woods Water Department employees failed to get inside of a house and obtain cash from a resident in the 2100 block of Ridgmont at 3 p.m. on Friday, May 28.

The men said they needed to get into the house in order to shut the man's water off. They also claimed to need a $45 shutoff fee up front.

When the men could not produce city identification, the resident did not allow the men in his house and did not give them any money.

City employees always wear uniforms, carry ID and drive official vehicles when on city business. Neither man was wearing a uniform or driving a city-owned vehicle.

Woods were splashed in white paint in the late afternoon of Friday, May 28.

Public safety officers saw two boys in the area at about 5:20 p.m., one of whom had white paint on himself. He said he was hit by a paint ball.

B&E suspect caught

Grosse Pointe Park public safety officers caught a Detroit man in the act of possibly stealing items from a garage in the 1000 block of Wayburn at 11:32 p.m. on Friday, May 28.

Cheesed

Someone threw a jar of processed cheese spread through the window of a minivan parked at Hampton and Helen in Grosse Pointe Woods sometime between 8 p.m. on Saturday, May 29, and 9 a.m. on Sunday, May 30.

Soup's on (car)

Grosse Pointe Woods public safety officers tracked down two boys who admitted to throwing a bowl of soup at a car parked in a driveway in the 21300 block of Van K on Friday, May 28.

A witness saw one of the boys, a 15-year-old Woods boy, throw the soup at the car and get into a black Mustang at about 8:45 p.m. The resident recorded the license plate number of the getaway car, which was registered to a Woods resident in the 1300 block of South Renaud.

The 16-year-old son of the owner of the car admitted being the driver of the getaway car and his friend admitted to throwing the soup.

Both boys said they did not know the owner of the vandalized car, and did not have an explanation of why they committed the vandalism.

They did, however, offer to clean up the mess. The owner of the vandalized car accepted their offer.

Bad news, good news

The bad news: The driver of a 1996 Chrysler Sebring fled on foot and caused an accident during a traffic stop at Cadieux and St. Paul in Grosse Pointe Park at 5:45 p.m. on Saturday, May 29.

The good news: Public safety officers turned the vehicle over to Detroit, where it was reported stolen.

It's my party

A Grosse Pointe Park female teen tried but failed to keep public safety officers from breaking up a party at her house in the 1000 block of Maryland in Grosse Pointe Park at 12:34 a.m. on Sunday, May 31.

The teen, who was intoxicated and obstructed officers, was taken into custody.

Drunk and disoriented

A house sitter of a house in the 1800 block of Newcastle in Grosse Pointe Woods was awakened at 4:19 a.m. on Saturday, May 29, by a 24-year-old Grosse Pointe Farms man who thought he was having a difficult time getting into his own house.

The house sitter called Woods public safety officers when she heard someone banging on and trying to enter the front and side doors of the house. Officers came in time to see the man trying to gain entry into the house.

The man, who appeared to be highly intoxicated, told officers that he had been out with a friend during the evening, who dropped him off at this particular house. An officer drove the man to his actual residence.

2nd OUIL

A 29-year-old Dearborn man with a history of driving drunk is suspected of doing it again in the City of Grosse Pointe on Tuesday, May 25, at 9:48 p.m.

An officer saw the man in a blue 2002 Volkswagen Jetta speeding 47 mph and straddling the center line on eastbound Jefferson.

Police said the man refused to take a breath test to determine his blood alcohol level, but was administered a blood test administered shortly after his arrest.

City of Grosse Pointe police impounded two bicycles found locked but unattended for three days in the 17000 block of Kercheval.

A red and black Raleigh mountain bike bore a Farms license. A silver and blue BMX model didn't have a license tag.

Memorable Monday

Monday, May 31, became memorable for a 50-year-old Warren man when Grosse Pointe Farms police arrested him on suspicion of driving under the influence of illegal drugs on southbound Moros near Beaubien.

Officers are investigating possible links between items found in the man's 1993

Pontiac Bonneville and a burgled van parked on Cloverly.

The man tested clean for alcohol consumption despite having bloodshot eyes, a flushed face and unsteady balance.

His 39-year-old female passenger from Detroit said the couple had been smoking crack cocaine. Police found crack pipes in the woman's pants.

Officers found a set of Ping golf clubs, a blue golf bag and Kodak Easyshare digital camera in the man's car.

Drive-up service

Grosse Pointe Farms police were knocking on the door of a reported hit-and-run driver in the 700 block of Berkshire in Grosse Pointe Park when the man suspected in the crime drove up in a freshly damaged, black Mercedes Benz CLK320.

Witnesses told police the crash was caused by an older man driving a black Mercedes in the 200 block of southbound Kerby in the Farms.

One stop nets two arrests

On Saturday, May 29, at 1 a.m., Grosse Pointe Farms police arrested a drunken driver and a female passenger who was wanted in Wayne County on a $500 warrant for felonious assault.

The 21-year-old Detroit woman was riding in a brown 1988 Lincoln Town Car driven by a 23-year-old Detroit man on eastbound Mack near Calvin with its high beams on.

Police said the man had a .12 percent blood alcohol level. Police found brandy, champagne and a flask in the vehicle.

Sheriff's deputies took the woman into custody at 3:20 a.m. Two additional passengers were let go.

Kids watched

A woman living in the first block of Moran in Grosse Pointe Farms told police someone has been watching and photographing her children.

Police were told the first incident occurred on Sunday, May 23.

A white male and female were parked on the street in a brown vehicle watching the children play. The strangers sped off when a boy notified his mother.

The mother said an unknown woman in a small white car was seen taking pictures of the daughter in the family driveway on Wednesday, May 26.

Checked out

On Thursday, May 27, at 12:08 p.m., an unknown man wearing a baseball cap reached over the checkout counter of a store on Mack near Moros and grabbed approximately $100 from the cash register.

The man ran westbound in the alley.

Drug couple

While investigating an unoccupied green and beige 1994 Chevrolet Blazer parked on private property in the 100 block of Lakeshore on Wednesday, May 26, at about 1 a.m., a Grosse Pointe Farms patrolman found the vehicle's 18-year-old female driver and 23-year-old male passenger sitting across the street by Lake St. Clair.

Both suspects are City residents.

Officers detected an odor of marijuana and found two marijuana cigarettes in the woman's purse.

A search of her vehicle turned up a small bag of marijuana, rolling papers, marijuana ash residue and an open 40-ounce bottle of beer.

The man was wanted on a $600 warrant in Grosse Pointe Park for larceny. Park police picked him up at the scene.

Runs light

On Tuesday, May 25, at 1:13 a.m., Grosse Pointe Farms police caught a 45-year-old Detroit man rolling his 1995 Oldsmobile Silhouette halfway through a red light on eastbound Mack at Calvin.

He stopped the vehicle in the middle of the intersection.

Police said he had a .12 percent blood alcohol level. An open bottle of beer was found between the front passenger seats.

Ditches drugs

On Monday, May 24, at 3:37 p.m., a Grosse Pointe Farms public safety officer reportedly saw a 17-year-old City male discard a marijuana cigarette while walking on Lothrop near Charlevoix. The officer found a bag of marijuana in the suspect's pocket.

Police cited the teenager for possession of a controlled substance, drove him home and told his father.

Drunk woman runs red light

On Monday, May 24, at 1:42 a.m., a 39-year-old woman from the City of Grosse Pointe was seen driving her silver 2000 Jeep

Three candidates to run in school board election June 14

By Carrie Cunningham
Staff Writer

Three candidates are running for two seats on the Grosse Pointe Public School Board of Education: Ahmed Ismail, Angela Kennedy and incumbent Steve Matthews. They bring with them a wide range of experience coupled with a passion for students and education.

Ahmed Ismail

Ahmed Ismail is running for a seat on the school board for the second time. Unlike the other candidates, Ismail is a product of the Grosse Pointe Public School System. His parents still live in his childhood home on Country Club in Harper Woods. He attended Popard Elementary, Parcels Middle, and Grosse Pointe South High schools. He was transferred to Grosse Pointe North, from which he graduated in 1970.

Ismail owns a number of businesses, all based in Grosse Pointe Woods. He started working at Speedi Photo (when it was called Studio Camera) as a stock boy after school while attending Parcels. He continued to work after school and during the summer through high school and was given the opportunity by the owner, Carl Joyner, to become owner in 1971. After over 30 years, he and his wife, Mary Ann, still operate the business.

In 1987, he founded PHC Construction Corp. PHC specializes in commercial construction project cost analysis and management. PHC past clients include a wide range of firms from Chrysler Realty Services to local orthodontist Richard Dunlap.

Ismail resides in Grosse Pointe Woods with his wife and sons Jonathan (Grosse Pointe North), Scott (Parcels) and Alex (Ferry Elementary). Ismail also serves on the Grosse Pointe Woods Planning Commission.

Ismail is involved with many charitable organizations in the community and is a major contributor to the Services for Older Citizens (SOC) and Special Kids, a Pointe-based aid program for families with special needs children.

Ismail is very involved in the Grosse Pointe Public School System and the Grosse Pointe community. He is a sponsor for the Special Kids program, a Ferry PTO board member and a member of the gifted student advisory committee for the district. He has attended all school board meetings, including the untelevised work sessions, and knows the issues of the district inside and out.

With half a billion dollars slated to pass through the district in the next five years, Ismail wants information on the budget process readily accessible to the public. He thinks board members should have office hours once a month to hear the concerns of residents.

"We have to have a way for people to come at a sane hour to talk to a board member," he said.

To facilitate an effective budget process, Ismail advises a strategic plan be developed by a committee made up of a cross section of the community such as business people, seniors and board members.

"We only have a finite amount of money, (and) unless we have that strategic plan, it's like steering a ship without a rudder," he said.

He also advocates having more town meetings, similar to the meeting he recently held before the sinking fund election.

Ismail believes the MEAP scores are good, but not as high as where they should be.

"They're not where they need to be for us to keep our property values where they used to be," he said.

Ismail thinks the economic outlook for the district is poor and hopes for a zero-based budgeting process in addition to his scheme of a strategic plan to maintain the programs everyone in the community values. He believes the timing of the sinking fund election was a bit suspect. Before the sinking fund election, he distributed absentee ballots to ensure as many people as possible could voice their views on school financing.

Ismail hopes that the list of bond projects is reevaluated in order to make sure the money is being spent wisely.

"That's a discretionary bond. They don't have to buy everything on that list," he said.

One needless bond project, in his opinion, is money slated for a skylight at North. At a cost of approximately $50,000, Ismail thinks the money could be used better elsewhere.

A proponent of a board member listening to the wide variety of people in the community and making them accountable, Ismail believes he has the ideas and the passion to be an effective school board member. With his expertise in construction and business, he could help the district with the capital projects and minutiae of budgeting.

Ultimately, he wants community members to have a voice in what happens in the school district they are financing.

"I just want to see that board so they're open, and we can control what we're doing with some kind of logical budgeting," he said.

Pointers endorsing Ismail include George and Betty Mikhail, Clyde and Helen Wu, Tom and Mary Marie Berschback, Joe and Beverly Fromm, Peter and Sheila Gormley, Bruce and Marcia Ferguson, Peter and Camille Ecklund, Bob and Lucy Gorski, Margot Kessler, Frank and Betsy Schulte, Chip and Suzy Berschback, Jim and Patti Chyiynski, Rodger and Michelle Hunwick, Joe and Pat Marquis, Bedway, Karl and Cyndi Tech, Greg and Jackie Muller, Kevin and Clarisa Piesuch, John and Terry Lizza, Chris and Laura Wenz, Charlie and Laura Bommarito, Mike and Alice Kosinski, Richard and Pat Benz, Bill and Mary Leonard, Allan and Cindy Koziol, Bob and Susie Hicks and many others.

Angela Kennedy

Angela Kennedy has lived in the City of Grosse Pointe for 10 years. Her husband Charles, does legal work for the city. She has two children: Elizabeth Anne, a sixth-grader at Pierce Middle School, and Matthew, a first-grader at Maire Elementary School.

She attended the University of Virginia, where she earned a bachelor's degree in American government, and she has a law degree from Vanderbilt University.

Kennedy's work experience includes clerking for a U.S. District Court judge and serving as a staff attorney for a $7 million employer health and retirement fund. She is extensively involved in the schools and the community. At Maire, she is a classroom volunteer, a Grosse Pointe News subscription coordinator, a lunchroom volunteer, a room mother and a year 2000 member of the Maire Fair Committee. At Pierce, she is a clinic volunteer.

In Grosse Pointe, Kennedy has served as president and fundraising chair of the Cooperative Nursery of Christ Church and a choir parent, logos cook and Sunday School teacher at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church. She is a team manager for the Grosse Pointe Soccer association/FGSA and part of New Friends and Neighbors. She is also a volunteer for St. John Nursing Home.

One of the chief reasons Kennedy wants to be on the school board is to assist with the cumbersome and taxing budget process. She wants

South science class first to tour Rouge plant in 25 years

By Chris Waldmeir
Special Writer

Over the years, field trips have become a regular thing for students in Greg Heffner's science class at Grosse Pointe South High School. With the school year coming to an end, the final bus has been cleared out, and the final trip is now just a memory.

However, this class, composed of mostly juniors and senior students, got to do something different for their last trip of the year, something that had never been done before.

Their final tour was one of monumental proportions: they were invited to be the first group through the Ford Rouge Factory. The plant tour, which opened just a few weeks ago, is the first Ford plant to offer tours to the public in nearly 25 years.

Heffner, a long time science teacher at the school, said, "I was very impressed with the job they did (at the Rouge plant). The responses that I got from the kids were very positive, and so I plan to make this an annual event."

Kyle Bruen, said, "I love field trips, and it's not only because we get out of school. I went on three this year, and they have definitely made an impact on me. I also think I learn more on field trips than I do in class watching movies or doing packets. It is definitely effective."

During the year Heffner tries to get his kids out of the school building as much as possible because he believes that they learn more out in the field than they do in the classroom. Some of these outside activities include: Tree planting and surveying, water quality testing in Lake St. Clair, a tour of the Macomb County medical examiner's office, a trip to a slaughter house, and even a trip to the Detroit Zoo.

"It's a wonderful world out there, and when I can get the kids out to see other parts of life, it broadens their perspective, and that's what life's about," Heffner said.

He added, "Everything has a niche; everything has a purpose here on earth, and it shouldn't be our purpose to kill it, mine it, alter it, cut it down, blow it up, poison it—pollute it, all the things that we do. So, throughout the year that is my theme."

The tour started with two short videos, the first of which, outlined the history of Ford Motor Co., and the second, "The Art of Manufacturing," is a 360 degree film that takes the audience through the process of becoming a Ford truck.

The tour then moved into the factory where visitors walked through the rafters and observed the vehicle assembly line.

Michelle Fikany said, "Our trip out here wasn't all about how cars are made: it is more how Ford conserves energy (while producing the cars) that really ties in well with what we have learned in class. It's cool how the grass roof is in the Guinness Book of World Records."

"It was completely not what I thought it was going to be. I thought it would be a smelly, dirty, old factory," said Peter Hrtanek. He added, "The movie that we watched about Henry Ford was really cool. I liked that a lot."

"I had a wonderful time," said Meredith Scheiwe; "I definitely enjoyed walking around and seeing how all the people worked, and seeing what they were doing and how it all works on an assembly line. It was surprising to see how clean it was. I had no idea; I did not expect that."

Bruen said, "The thing that interested me the most was how it was a lot more manual labor than I thought. I expected to see mostly machines and robots doing everything, but it was pretty much all humans. I thought it was pretty cool that a real person put it together."

Bruen added, "I think it's cool that we are lucky enough to have that plant so close and able to see it. I think everyone should take advantage of it and go check it out."

The school seems to have different goals for the science department, goals that must be reached by including a textbook in the classroom.

"I'm not a book person and I never have been. As a matter of fact this is the first year that we have ever had an environmental science book, and it was not my choice to have it. Books are expensive, and we weren't going to make that an expense for the school if we aren't going to use them, but I have been instructed (by the school) that, yes, we will use it because we spent so much money on it," Heffner said, "The kids haven't been really happy about that. I like to think that we stay a lot more current than text books do."

"I wouldn't mind getting more field trips. Sometimes the administrators raise their eyebrows, but most of them (field trips) are no expenses other than the busses so as long as the kids are willing to go, I'm willing to take them," said Heffner.

Grosse Pointe South High School students, Michelle Fikany, Vinnie Panizzi, Jill Girodat, and Ben Beutel-Gunz take a break after touring the Ford Rouge Plant, which opened it's doors to the public in May.

North, South Latin students excel in studies of the classics

Latin students instructed by David Smith at Grosse Pointe North and Grosse Pointe South high schools performed in an excellent fashion at this year's Michigan Junior Classical League Spring Convention, held on March 19 and 20 at Calvin College in Grand Rapids. In addition to individual efforts, the clubs were awarded third place overall in the state for school spirit.

From North:
Kyle Bird: Latin III, Latin Club President; first place Latin Quiz Bowl, first place in Roman history and culture, first place in Latin grammar, second place in Latin vocabulary, third place in Latin derivatives and elected to MJCL state board as Parliamentarian.
Tawney Fuhrmann: Latin II: first place Latin Quiz Bowl and third place in derivatives.

Robert Ingalls: Latin II: first place Latin Quiz Bowl, second place Latin grammar, second place in Roman history and culture and first place in Latin vocabulary.

From South:

Norman Dueweke ends his HW tenure

By Jennie Miller
Staff Writer

Norman Dueweke looked outside his classroom window at the tree he knows all too well.

"That tree was planted the year I started working here," he said of his 38 years as an English teacher at Harper Woods High School.

He also noticed that the tree is starting to die.

"I think it's a symbol that I'd better go," he laughed.

And so, the famed teacher who dubs himself a "traditionalist," has decided to join the ranks of retirement.

"I'm 62 years old," he said.

"It isn't that I can't do the job anymore, but I think it's time I move on. I'd hate to have them carry me out of here on my desk. I think I'll quit while I'm still healthy and active."

But quitting isn't the word most would use to describe Dueweke's decision. After 38 and a half years in the district, the Harper Woods native has given his all to the English curriculum.

"He has been a fixture for so many years; through at least two generations of students," said Harper Woods School Board president Don Lusch. "His presence here will surely be missed."

His legacy within the community goes back long before Harper Woods even existed on a map.

"I go way back to 1947, before it was even a city," he said, remembering attending kindergarten at Eastwood Elementary School in what was then called Gratiot Township. Four years later, the city of Harper Woods was formed, and the rest is history.

"It has been very good to work with the people I grew up with," he said of the close relationship he has with the staff and parents. "Being a part of the community and teaching within the community have been very nice."

Although he now lives in Macomb Township, Dueweke still considers himself a part of Harper Woods.

"I have connections here; there's so much history here for me," he said.

After earning his bachelor's degree from Wayne State University in 1965, Dueweke was hired in the Harper Woods School District the same day he applied for the job. He has taught English in some form or another for all those years. He even dedicated ten years to developing a journalism department at the school, which later was eliminated due to budget constraints. But through it all, Dueweke has maintained his steadfast dedication to the craft and to his students.

English has always been the subject in which he found his passion; however, he once considered teaching physics.

"I've always like to write, and I enjoy reading immensely," Dueweke said. "And I knew I wanted a career in which I worked with people. A lot of people in my family were teachers, and so it just kind of fell into place."

He fit right into the field and into Harper Woods as well. He enjoyed those first few years so much that he never left the hallways of the district, happy to find a home within a small school.

"The students are great; the staff is nice, and the administrators gave me the freedom to teach what I wanted," he said of a career one would find few complaints. "You really get to know people here and become a family. That is very nice to have in a job; it becomes more personal. That is the major reason why I've stuck it out over the years."

He has also maintained his traditional style of teaching. Dueweke said he sticks to the book and keeps lectures at a minimum. He enjoys reading Hamlet and MacBeth every year with his class of seniors studying Shakespeare, and he relishes his American Literature classes when they role-play the scenes of American plays like "Our Town."

Upon hearing of his impending retirement, Dueweke's former students have been turning up to say goodbye to their old teacher, and let him know how much of an impact he had on them. Even a student Dueweke says caused him a lot of trouble, returned to give advice to his current students.

"I dismissed this boy five times — I've never done that before — but he came back and gave my class a 15 minute talk about how they should behave themselves," he said, pleased to see success in his students. "He told them that anything is possible as long as they stick to their dreams, and I thought that was really nice."

But even in retirement, Dueweke will still have an impact on students as he continues to teach composition courses at Macomb Community College, which he has been doing since 1988. Prior to that, he had been teaching at the Detroit College of Business since 1973.

"I'm going to keep going until my pistons wear out," he said.

Dueweke will also have more time to spend with his wife, his daughter, and their three cats.

"I still have things to do, like putzing around the house," he said, not to mention the novels he is writing.

"I have already written one novel that I'm trying to sell, and I'm in the middle of another one."

So it seems that at 62, Dueweke isn't hanging up his hat altogether. He still has plenty of life left to live.

Perhaps when he looks out his classroom window for that last time, he should stop and notice that there are some green leaves still lingering on that tree's weakened branches.

Congresswoman talks on war costs

Mary Read, of Grosse Pointe Park, a founder of Pointes for Peace, thanks U.S. Rep. Carolyn Cheeks Kilpatrick, D-Detroit, following the congresswoman's presentation to about 100 area residents at a May 24 town hall meeting on "The Economic and Social Costs of War" at the Albanian Islamic Center in Harper Woods. Kilpatrick urged attendees to exercise their right to vote and to contact elected officials at all levels of government about issues that matter to them. "We still live in the greatest country in the world," she said.

For its final educational event this spring, Pointes for Peace will host an Interfaith Forum of regional faith leaders Monday, June 7, at 7:30 p.m. at the Grosse Pointe Unitarian Church, 17150 Maumee in Grosse Pointe. Moderated by Steve Spreitzer, interfaith coordinator of the National Conference for Community and Justice - Michigan Region, the program will feature panelists from Christian, Jewish, Muslim, Buddhist and Baha'i faiths to discuss their respective religions' positions on war and peace.

Pointes for Peace is a community-based group of eastsiders and others who are committed to educating for conflict resolution and other strategies to work for peace on local, national and international levels. Membership is free. All are welcome at Pointes for Peace weekly gatherings Sundays at 7 p.m. at the corner of Kercheval and St. Clair in the Village business district in the City of Grosse Pointe.

For more information or to be added to the Pointes for Peace mailing list, call Carol Bendure at (313) 882-7732 or Mary Read at (313) 822-2702, or e-mail pointesforpeace@yahoo.com.

Purse snatched

While loading groceries into her car on Sunday, May 30, at 8 p.m. in the 19200 block of Harper, a Harper Woods woman was approached by two males, one of whom grabbed her purse. Both men ran off as police were called. One, a 17 year-old male, was found traveling eastbound on Bournemouth toward Tyrone and was promptly arrested. He said he didn't know where the other subject was, although the woman was later notified her credit cards were used at the BP and Marathon near Ashland on Jefferson in Detroit. Harper Woods police are working with Grosse Pointe Park police to obtain video surveillance tapes of the transactions.

Bike theft

A black and blue Huffy bike was stolen from the unlocked garage of the 19944 block of Woodland. The theft could have occurred within the last month, the homeowner said.

Auto larceny

A CD player was stolen from a black 2003 Chevy pick-up truck on Monday, May 17, between 12:10 and a.m. The car was parked and left unlocked in the 8800 block of Woodcrest.

A set of Ping golf clubs valued at $1,200 were stolen from an open garage in the 20300 block of Anita on Monday, May 17, between 4 and 5:30 p.m.

A CD player was stolen from a dark blue 1992 Chevrolet Lumina on Wednesday, May 26, from the 21200 block of Norwood. The driver's side door lock was punched.

Reckless driving, accident

A 23-year-old Harper Woods male was arrested for reckless driving, property damage, and leaving the scene of an accident on Monday, May 17, at 6:09 p.m. in the 20500 block of Holly.

The man, driving a 2000 dark green Jeep Cherokee, was reportedly backing out of a driveway at a high rate of speed when he lost control and hit a tree. He then proceeded to spin the tires of the Jeep and flee the scene, again at a high rate of speed.

Auto theft

A black 1996 Chevrolet Caprice was stolen from the 19200 block of Rockcastle on Tuesday, May 18, between 8:30 p.m. and 4:40 a.m.

A Harper Woods resident had only parked his 2000 Jeep Cherokee five minutes before, but it was stolen from a driveway in the 20300 block of Roscommon on Sunday, May 30, at 8:30 a.m. A neighbor witnessed a black Chrysler pull up next to the Cherokee. Two males and children were seated inside. One of the subjects exited the Chrysler and drove off in the Cherokee.

Attempted auto theft

A Detroit man saw the red minivan flee the scene after breaking into his 2000 Crown Victoria in the 19800 block of Kelly on Tuesday, May 18, at 8:17 p.m.

His driver's side window was broken, and the radio, a purse, jacket and $500 in cash was stolen from the car.

Larceny

Money to purchase a prom dress was stolen out of the hands of a 16-year-old girl in the 18000 block of Vernier on Saturday, May 22, at 8:50 p.m. A man between the ages of 30 and 40 snatched a $100 bill from a girl who was paying for her dress.

Bleachers stolen

Two 15-foot long aluminum bleachers were stolen from a baseball diamond in the 20200 block of Beaconsfield between Friday, May 21 at 3:30 p.m. and Saturday, May 22 at 7:30 a.m.

Recovered vehicle

A 2002 Chrysler Concorde reported stolen out of Detroit early on Saturday, May 30, was discovered later that day parked in the 20000 block of Elkhart. It had a punched door lock and ignition column.

School board names Hedemark as trustee

By Jennie Miller
Staff Writer

Sue Hedemark wants to help unify the Harper Woods School District, and to address the needs of every student in its diverse population. She understands the financial constraints that will face schools over the next several years, and she demands that the district establish some form of accountability.

For these reasons and many more, Hedemark was selected to join the school board as a trustee and replace resigning member Claudia Mahon, who vacated the position in April.

Hedemark was one of three quality candidates for the position, each of whom gathered before the board for a public interview session on Thursday, May 27.

A former teacher and mother of three daughters under the age of 10, Hedemark is already committed to education in the district.

"I want the same for the rest of the kids that I would want for my own," she said as her motive for seeking a term on the school board. "I am in the school every day. I represent different viewpoints as a former teacher and now as a parent. I believe I can really help the board to know what's going on in the community."

Valerie Biro and Susan Dunn Ciechanowski were also seeking a position on the school board. All three were commended for their effort, interest, and credentials. Board members posed seven questions to each of the candidates, who took turns responding. School board president Dan Lusch first asked what the candidates saw as the major issues facing the district. All recognized the financial crises that all schools are facing and the need to better communicate with the community.

"All school districts are facing pretty challenging issues," Hedemark said. "There are a lot more demands on the schools. We can only do with what money we have. We need to help the community understand the cuts. That will be the first hurdle."

Hedemark also demanded accountability, which has been a big issue for administrators following the rejection of two bond issues for capitol improvements and the looming infractions from the Office of Civil Rights.

"We're all good at pointing the finger, but we have to take responsibility," she said, adding that communication is vital if the board expects residents to consider a third bond issue with a lower price tag. "I refuse to believe that everyone in this community voted having all the information. We need to work at that harder."

Hedemark also stressed the importance of the school board operating as a team with more involvement in the schools.

"We should, as a team, know what is going on in every building," she said, something she can already bring to the board. "We all have a job to try to make the best decisions possible. I think it's crucial that we make ourselves a team player. We represent our community. We don't have our own agendas. When you sit on that board and you make decisions on behalf of the kids, you are representing the community."

Hedemark was selected to fill the vacant seat following a silent ballot. She was immediately sworn in and accepted a seat at the table to participate in the remainder of the meeting.

Mahon, who retired for personal reasons after several years of dedication to the district, was present for the entire interview process. She addressed the board and candidates, thanking each one for their own commitment and noted how lucky the district was to have such a high caliber of applicants.

"I would have chosen any one of you," she said.

Dunn-Ciechanowski is an attorney with a private practice in Grosse Pointe Park and has two children in the Harper Woods School District. Biro has six children, three of whom are alumni of the school district, and three of whom are currently enrolled.

Dancing for 20 fun-filled years

Through the Harper Woods Parks and Recreation Department, the dance program celebrated its 20th anniversary last month with its annual spring recital.

POLICE AND FIRE REPORTS

Felonious assault

After pulling a screwdriver on a couple landscapers in the 19800 block of Arthur, a Detroit male was arrested by Harper Woods Police on Tuesday, May 18, at 1 p.m.

The man, a 50-year-old with a record for disorderly conduct, approached two 22-year-old males who were working on a house. He asked if he could help them work for money to buy food. After the boys declined, the man became irate and verbally abusive, and pulled a screwdriver from his pocket. He walked towards one of the workers, pointing the screwdriver at him, saying,

"Go ahead, call the cops. I ain't afraid."

Harper Woods Police were called and the man was arrested.

Car damaged, woman assaulted

A Eastpointe woman noticed the green Pontiac Grand Am next to her when she parked her own car in a parking lot of the 18000 block of Vernier on Friday, May 21, at 8:30 p.m.

But it wasn't until she returned to her car that she knew something was suspicious. She heard a loud pop and saw an unidentified man jump up from her vehicle and quickly enter the Grand Am. She yelled for the man to stop as she ran towards his car. But he backed up into her legs, yelling for her to get out of the way. Witnesses said he did this several times before fleeing the scene, but the woman wasn't seriously hurt. Harper Woods Police caught up with the 24-year-old Detroit male, who was immediately arrested.

OWI, false identification

A concerned citizen notified Harper Woods police officers as she drove behind a woman she suspected of drunken driving on Harper at 8 Mile on Friday, May 28.

Police observed the driver of a white 2000 Oldsmobile Bravada crossing over the center line without a signal. After stopping at a traffic signal, the driver did not respond when the light turned green. Police officers approached the vehicle and found the driver, a 33-year-old St. Clair Shores resident, passed out with her foot on the brake pedal.

After turning off the vehicle, the woman got out of the car and immediately began staggering. Police noted that she reeked of intoxicants although she said she hadn't been drinking. She gave a false name and birth date before failing three field sobriety tests and demonstrating a .08 on a preliminary breath test.

The woman was arrested and taken to St. John Hospital for blood work, and the vehicle was impounded.

Weapon possession

After flashing a pellet gun at an individual in a parking lot in the 18000 block of Vernier on Friday, May 28, at 6:40 p.m., a 14-year-old Detroit boy was arrested by Harper Woods Police.

PARENTAL ESCORT POLICY

As of June 15, Eastland Center will implement a Parental Escort Policy. Anyone under 18 years of age visiting Eastland Center after 5 p.m. must be with and under the direct supervision of, at least one parent or guardian (age 21 or older) or responsible adult (age 21 or older) at all times.

Three Reasons for Parental Escort Policy:

A Comfortable Shopping Environment

Eastland Center is committed to providing a comfortable and inviting shopping environment.

Economic Viability for the Communities Served

Eastland Center plays a vital role in the business community by providing valuable jobs, business investment, and products and services for the nine communities served. With the assistance of this policy, we believe we can increase our role to the communities we serve.

The Well-Being of the Children

Eastland Center is concerned about the well-being of all children who visit, but the Center is not licensed or equipped to supervise them. For the children's well-being, we believe parents or legal guardians must be responsible for knowing where their children are, who they are with, and what they are doing. Eastland Center is private property. We welcome all to the Center, however we ask that all visitors to the Center abide by the Eastland Center Code of Conduct (which includes the Parental Escort Policy) for the convenience, comfort and well-being of all.

to help smooth out the process in a responsible and open way all while maintaining high academic standards and excellent programming. She believes she has the educational and professional background to help deal with budget woes.

Kennedy thinks MEAP scores are comparable to other similar districts, with improvement needed in the social studies area. She is confident teachers like Barb Davis, who was named the Michigan Social Studies Teacher of the Year, can help.

Kennedy sees the economic outlook for the district to be problematic.

"The real question is how can the school district maximize the current tax revenue," she said.

She thinks there are many ways to raise more money for the district such as naming capital projects after people and soliciting corporations to give money to the district. She points to Ford's contribution to The Grosse Pointe Academy's Action Auction as an example of how corporations can help.

Kennedy believes that the passage of the $62.9 million dollar bond was a generous commitment to the schools by the public. Projects like the South swimming pool and roof replacements are worthy in her opinion.

She sees some projects as dubious like the temporary parking lot at South as well as the proposed Brownell outbuilding. She thinks the details of the bond projects need to be disseminated in a more clear and understandable fashion.

Kennedy thinks board members should be focused on overseeing the administration.

"You try to have excellent employees. You use your best professional judgment," she said.

Kennedy believes she would be an able and productive board member. Her work experience and schooling as well as her involvement in the district makes her a candidate who would contribute a lot if elected, she said.

"I know how schools work. I am very committed to the community," she said.

Steve Matthews

Steve Matthews has been on the board for two terms for the past six years. He is running for a third term. He is married to wife Jan and has three sons: Tyler, 22, Zach, 17, at North, and Jake, 15, also at North.

He grew up in New Mexico and earned a bachelor's degree in comparative religion from the University of Washington, a master's in education from Texas Tech University and a doctorate, also in education, from Wayne State University. He has lived in Harper Woods since 1992.

Matthews is the current director of curriculum and staff development for the Troy school district, one of the highest performing districts in the state. He is also soon to be a career and technical education director.

Matthews has been an enthusiastic contributor to both the school district and the community. He was a treasurer of the PTO at Poupard Elementary, a member of the technology committee for the district as well as a member of the high school future study committee. As a board member, he was part of the bond oversight committee.

He was a past member of the library board and has been involved with both Little League and the Red Barons.

Matthews is pleased that Grosse Pointe has performed well on the MEAP, ranking in the top 10 percent in the state. He thinks there are glowing successes as well as areas that are ripe for improvement. Certain schools need to work on certain areas.

One issue that needs to be tackled is how to prepare students moving into the district who have not been prepared as well as other students.

"We need to look at our teaching strategies to make sure they're effective," he said.

Ultimately, he feels MEAP scores are just one piece of the puzzle in determining how students can become successful adults.

Matthews wants to complete a third term in order to see through current problems the board is working on, like the budget process. He also wants to be part of the school community that nurtures his children.

"I find this is a way for me to keep in touch with things going on," he said.

Matthews thinks the economic outlook for the district is unsteady. He believes Proposal A is good in the sense that it reduced the overall tax burden families have to bear, but he would like it to be based on a more stable source of funding than the sales tax. The volatility of the sales tax makes budgeting difficult. Also, he would like to see an inflationary factor added into the hold harmless millage.

Matthews sees the bond and sinking fund as good ways to raise money, allowing for much-needed projects to move forward. Other ways the district can increase revenue in his opinion are through a foundation, booster clubs, naming rights to projects and alumni gifts.

The bond oversight committee on the board is essential to make sure projects fit within the budget, in his view.

Matthews thinks the responsibilities of board members are two-fold: one, to serve as a policy maker to empower staff and to guide the district on a productive path. Second, board members have a fiduciary role to make sure money coming into the district is spent in a responsible fashion.

Matthews believes he should serve a third term because he has been very involved in and cares about the community. His professional background posits him to contribute to important curriculum discussions. He also sees himself as a listener who can absorb concerns and set the district on the right road.

"I don't believe I am a person who has all the answers, but I'm willing to learn and as a result, make good choices. I am a consensus builder," he said. "We have a great district, and I want to continue to build on that strong foundation."

Matthews is endorsed by Harvey Weaver, Mart Weaver, Russ Chavey, Alice Kosinski, Peggy and Vic Ptaznick, Christina Winder, Bill and Debbie Carmody, Joan and Fred Dindoffer, Sandra Lowden, Steve Lowden, Stuart Pettitt, Debbie Pettitt, Jack and Elaine Ryan, Brett Marshall, Jan and Tom McGraw, Jon and Linda Walton, Patrick J. ## G.P. City adds PUD option to zoning

By Brad Lindberg
Staff Writer

City of Grosse Pointe officials have added a new component to the zoning process they said will improve handling proposed developments that don't fit established guidelines.

"It gives flexibility for coming up with what's best for the common good," said Mayor Dale Scrace.

Changes involved the city council's adopting a planned unit development, or PUD, as part of the zoning ordinance.

A PUD could come in handy when discussing developments in the Village shopping district.

"It's a standard tool," said Mike Overton, city manager. "We've been talking about it for a long time."

PUDs lie between the zoning ordinance and master plan.

"The master plan is your big picture blueprint, the vision of what you want to achieve," said John Jackson, vice president of the City's planning consultants, McKenna Associates of Novi. "A PUD is how you achieve it. The PUD is a zoning ordinance in terms of how you achieve it from a zoning standpoint. If someone comes in and wants to do a mixed-use project downtown, this would allow you to do it."

Jackson said a PUD could apply when somebody wants to do a creative mixed-use development that is consistent with the master plan but not the zoning ordinance.

"The worst project you get from a PUD will be better than what you could get from the underlying zoning," said Jackson. "That's the key."

By designating a proposed development a PUD, city planners could go beyond zoning ordinances to achieve more control over site plans. Factors include the development's effect on density, open space, landscaping, parking and how the project would impact utilities and traffic volume.

"It is to encourage higher quality development than we can get under our existing zoning ordinance," Jackson said. "In other words, our zoning ordinance sets the minimum standards required. The PUD can encourage people to do better projects. Setbacks, building heights, density, signage and things like that can be modified to get a better project in the long run."

Establishing a PUD requires a five-step process beginning with a preapplication meeting to determine if the project has enough merit.

The process includes meetings of the planning commission, a public hearing and site plan review.

"The most important part of this process is the public hearing," Jackson said. "The public will come and hear what deviation from the zoning ordinance may be requested."

He added, "You would be looking for something consistent with the principles, goals and objectives of the master plan in terms of an improved physical environment and better range of uses."

FYI

is actually about halfway between 1-75 and Indianapolis. It is not a hotbed of college-age social activity.

In any event, Reid thrived at the 1,138-student school, had some great learning experiences, got a good liberal arts education and graduated in 2003 with a degree in politics.

What do you do in 2003 in a tough job market with a liberal arts degree from a tiny Midwest Quaker institution that not one in 10 folks has ever heard of? Well, Reid had always had it in mind that he would like to get involved in making the world a better place to live. He is interested in issues.

So he figuratively tucked his diploma into his duffel and headed to Washington, D.C., world capital of folks who want to improve the world. And what kind of job did he get?

He found a job with the kind of people who had similar interests in bettering life for those less fortunate at the Elizabeth Glaser Pediatric AIDS Foundation as a "front office administrator." The title is a fancy name for a telephone answerer, receptionist and supply clerk. Not much of a spot from which to place a lever and move the globe.

But Reid didn't sulk because he was a highly educated gopher. He embraced his lowly, but necessary job and decided to have fun in it. Here is a series of e-mail messages he sent to get supply orders in a timely manner and a regular package off to the Pediatric Aids offices in Santa Monica, Calif.

Cavanagh faces Dem opponent in county commission race

By Bonnie Caprara
Staff Writer

Wayne County Commissioner Christopher Cavanagh is expecting some competition in the chance to run for a third term in this year's general election.

Tim Killeen of Detroit, have filed as a Democratic candidate for the County Commissioner's First District seat.

Killeen, the son of former County Clerk James Killeen, is a science teacher at Detroit's Denby High School.

"There needs to be more communication with the constituents and more visibility in the community," Killeen said.

Killeen also mentioned budget oversight, environmental issues and county mental health needs as being high on his list of priorities.

Cavanagh said he didn't know much about his opponent and said he would "just push full steam ahead" in the upcoming race.

"After four years, there are things I'm able to get done I wouldn't have been able to do as a freshman candidate," Cavanagh said.

"There's a lot of work that still needs to get done. I want to make sure the tax rates are lowered in the Pointes."

Cavanagh, a Grosse Pointe Woods resident, has served as chair of the economic development committee and is vice chair of the ways and means committee.

The winner of the Democratic race in the August primary election will face Republican candidate Harper Woods Councilwoman Cheryl Constantino in the November general election.

The trial court disagreed, ruling that Pine Knob did not have immunity under the SASA and the Court of Appeals affirmed that decision.

The Supreme Court reversed, concluding that the timing shack was the type of unnatural hazard that was inherent in the sport. In reaching its decision, the Court reviewed the illustrative list of examples of unnatural hazards set forth in the SASA that are inherent in the sport, which included ski lift towers and their components, other skiers, or "properly marked or plainly visible snowmaking or snow grooming equipment."

The Court observed that all of these objects inhere in the sport of skiing and are obvious to a skier and necessary to the sport.

Because timing is necessary for ski racing, and a shack is necessary to protect the timing equipment from the elements, the timing shack was a necessary danger on the ski hill.

There was also no dispute amongst the parties that the shack was obvious in its placement at the end of the ski run. As a result of this analysis, the Court concluded that the Legislature, in enacting the SASA, granted Pine Knob immunity from liability for plaintiff's injuries resulting from the collision with the timing shack.

The Court also rejected Anderson's argument that the timing shack was larger and more unforgiving than needed. The SASA did not allow for such considerations, the Court concluded, because the SASA only stated that hazards that were either unnecessary or not obvious would subject a ski operator to liability.

This case was decided by a 4-3 vote.

Two lessons come from Anderson:

First, courts must focus their decision-making on the language of the statute, in this case the legislatively provided examples of unnatural hazards and the words "necessary" and "obvious."

Second, as a result of the SASA, a ski operator is not liable for those injuries occurring from a collision with objects that are necessary to the enjoyment of ski slopes and obvious to the skier enjoying the slopes.

Memorial Day reminds Americans of sacrifices

By Jennie Miller
Staff Writer

"Forty-one million soldiers served the cause of freedom during the course of our history. One million of those soldiers died," said Harper Woods Mayor Ken Poynter. "America is proud to remember." This year's Memorial Day Service at Veteran's Memorial Park in Harper Woods was a somber and retrospective occasion. It served as a chance for those in attendance to take a step back and thank those fallen soldiers who gave their lives for the freedom we as Americans enjoy today. It gave the opportunity to mourn and rejoice the supreme sacrifices made throughout our nation's history. And in addition, it allowed for silent prayer for those still fighting. "America as a society has so much to be grateful for," said Wayne County Commissioner Chris Cavanaugh, D-Detroit, who reminded Harper Woods residents not to take our freedoms for granted. "This is truly the land of the free and the home of the brave." The Memorial Day service has been a long tradition in Harper Woods. The holiday itself has been an even longer tradition in this country.

Cavanaugh spoke of its history, first dubbed "Decoration Day," and only honoring those who fell during the Civil War. After World War II, the holiday was expanded to recognize all American soldiers who had given their lives in battle. "We continue that tradition today," Poynter said, acknowledging this as the 136th Memorial Day.

State Rep. Edward Gaffney, R-Grosse Pointe Woods, roused the crowd by encouraging remembrance.

"This day belongs to our fallen soldiers — not of one war but of all wars," he said. "Our nation's history is marked by war ... from the Revolutionary War to the current heartwrenching struggle in Iraq." Gaffney also placed heavy emphasis on recognizing the 1.4 million veterans of World War II who are still living today, but are quickly passing on.

"We are losing 1,100 per day," he said with sadness. "They truly are the 'greatest generation.' Many of them are among the founding fathers of the City of Harper Woods. If you know a World War II vet, say thank you to them."

Each speaker pleaded with those listening to cherish national unity in our current time of war, regardless of political opinion.

"The ties which bind us together are stronger than those which tear us apart," Cavanaugh said.

"The prize we must pay for peace — it comes with great burden," added Poynter. "While honoring the fallen patriots of the past, we must be inspired to equally acknowledge the heroes of today and not let our political opinions get in the way."

Gaffney sent a message of 'god-speed' to those serving overseas.

"Brave Americans have answered the call to freedom for "It is the veteran, not the preacher, who has given us freedom of religion.

"It is the veteran, not the reporter, who has given us freedom of the press.

"It is the veteran, not the poet, who has given us freedom of speech.

"It is the veteran, not the campus organizer, who has given us freedom to assemble.

"It is the veteran, not the lawyer, who has given us the right to a fair trial.

"It is the veteran, not the politician, who has given us the right to vote.

"It is the veteran, who salutes the Flag, who serves under the Flag, whose coffin is draped by the Flag."

Many Harper Woods residents came out to salute fallen soldiers during the city's annual Memorial Day service on Monday, May 31, which was held at Veteran's Memorial Park.

Cub Scouts celebrate accomplishments

During an annual picnic held at Salter Park, Cub Scout Pack No. 273 celebrated a year of accomplishments.

"This year was a great success," said the pack's assistant cub master Jode Wilber, thinking back to the various activities held throughout the year. "Thanks to all the leaders, parents and Harper Woods Parks and Recreation."

The pack has seen a busy year, full of fun and charitable activities. During last October's popcorn sale, Pack No. 273 was top in the Lakeshore District with sales of more than $17,000, which equaled to more than 10 percent of the district's total sales. Douglas Wilber II was the pack's top seller with more than $1,300. Billy Nocita, Jakob Hook, Douglas Wilber III and Zachary Skerritt II each sold more than $1,000.

In November, Pack No. 273 participated in the Can Do project with the Boy Scouts of America, also placing as the top ranking pack in the district.

During the holiday season, the pack held a bottle drive and collected enough money to host Christmas for three adopted families in Harper Woods. While participating in the Toys for Tots program, several U.S. Marines visited with the scouts with Santa Claus, to collect the toys donated by the pack.

In January, the pack celebrated with its annual winter camping trip at D-Bar-A, followed by attendance at the Red Wings alumni game. March was the time for the annual Pinewood Derby race, during which Andrew Toutant, Billy Nocita, Kenny Stilwell and Jakob Hook took home awards.

This May was the second annual bowl-athon to raise money to fund outdoor opportunities for area handicapped scouts.

The pack is looking forward to its upcoming events, from the annual scout vs. parent baseball game to summer camp at Freedom Hill, from Scouts Day at Comerica Park to the sleep-out at Silversides Submarine in Muskegon.

Cub Scout Pack No. 273 includes Tiger Cubs Kyle Boyer, Matthew Brown, Roberto Fagoaga, Kameron Fekete, Nicholas Gbur, Garrett Gersch, Zachary Guerra, Nicholas Kelly, Zachary Skerritt II, Mikie Smith, Lupe Moreno, Brent Lathen, Jacob Kopp and leaders Mike Gbur and David Guerra.

The Wolf Den includes David Cawley, Kyle Cichocki, Trevon Godfrey, Andrew Toutant and leaders Kevin Cichocki, Jesse Godfrey and David Toutant.

The Bear Den includes Andrew Cyburt, Jakob Hook, Bradley Howard, Brian Jaminet, Ryan Sauers, Kenny Stilwell, Jerry Taylor, Joshua Bryzelak, Wendell Cook Jr., Nicholas McEvoy, Ryan Schmidt, Shawn Smith and leaders Mike Hook, Rob Sauers and Joe Bryzelak.

Nocita also serves as cub master, while Wilber serves as assistant cub master. Dode Cichocki serves as committee chair.

Webeles II scouts Max Bothe, Mitchell Gatzke, Santino Palazzola, Nick Wisby, Johnny Aiken, Gabe Lancaster, Kyle Malone and Zachary Zichi crossed over during the Pack's Blue and Gold ceremony in February. Leaders are Donna Bothe and Paula Lancaster.

Air Force graduate

Air Force Reserve Airman First Class Daniel Duchon has graduated from basic military training at Lackland Air Force Base in San Antonio, Texas.

During the six weeks of training, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and military customs and courtesies; performed drill and ceremony marches and received physical training, rifle marksmanship, field training exercises and special training in human relations. In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

Duchon is the son of Douglas Duchon of Chesterfield and the grandson of Mary Duchon of Harper Woods. He is a 2003 graduate of Harper Woods High School.

District's FAC to hold second public forum

The Harper Woods School District's Facility Advisory Committee will hold a second community forum at the high school on Tuesday, June 8, at 7 p.m.

At the meeting, members will discuss with the public the repairs deemed necessary to improve district buildings and the possibility of once again asking residents to approve a bond issue to cover funding.

The committee is comprised of more than 20 community members who meet weekly to discuss these issues. The committee was formed in February, shortly after the Office of Civil Rights cited the district with numerous infractions that must be completed by the end of 2004. The infractions include bathrooms, classrooms and drinking fountains that are inaccessible to handicapped students. Administrators claim the district did not seek to comply with these infractions over the last several years because it had been in the process of asking voters to approve a bond issue to raze the schools and build anew. But with two failed bond issues, administrators are now at crunch time and are committed to establishing some form of accountability if a new bond issue is approved.

The committee is looking into the possibility of offering a choice to residents as to how much they are willing to fund for the needed repairs. If approved, the school board will consider the establishment of an oversight committee as well as hiring a full-time building manager.

Architect Dan Kritt of Strat Wold will be on hand during the forum to answer any questions posed by community members. Kritt has been conducting thorough analyses of the district's building and works with the FAC on a weekly basis.

American Cancer Society

Relay For Life

4 p.m. Friday, June 4 to 4 p.m. Saturday, June 5
Blossom Heath Park - St. Clair Shores
E. Jefferson, north of Nine Mile Road

You are invited!

Communities go round-the-clock in the fight against cancer

Hundreds of eastsiders from across the area will come together for a celebration of life at the sixth annual American Cancer Society Relay For Life of St. Clair Shores. The event takes place Friday, June 4, through Saturday, June 5, at Blossom Heath Park off Jefferson just past Nine Mile.

Relay For Life, a 24-hour team-based event, is a celebration of survivorship, a memorial for loved ones lost, and a rally for the community to raise funds to fight cancer.

Billed as the area's biggest slumber party, teams of family members, friends, churches and even local businesses camp-out and walk the track all night while enjoying food, music, games and all-night festivities.

Dr. Gordon Klatt of Tacoma, Wash., began the very first Relay For Life in 1985, walking 24 hours by himself to help raise money in the fight against cancer.

Today, Relay For Life is the American Cancer Society's national signature event taking place in more than 4,200 communities across the United States and in nine countries. To date, the event has raised more than $1 billion. And it is easy to see why the Relay For Life is the most successful fund-raising event in America — one in every 100 people across the country has participated in Relay. Last year in metro Detroit, $1.7 million was raised at 22 events.

St. Clair Shores, Grosse Pointe and the surrounding communities have enthusiastically embraced Relay since the first event in 1999, when six dedicated volunteers raised $20,000 at the parking lot of the St. Clair Shores Civic Arena. The following year demonstrated huge growth as the event grew to 25 teams raising more than $65,000. This pattern has continued each year and 2004 holds great potential with more than 45 teams expected to participate.

"Event growth of this magnitude is directly related to the strong leadership of volunteer chairs Colleen Kelly and Cindy Siterlet," said Megan Cyrulewski, community development director, American Cancer Society. "For the past five years, Colleen and Cindy have been passionate leaders with the power to motivate and I am so thankful for their dedication to this event."

Sponsorships are also an essential piece to the success story. Sponsor dollars help cover event costs to ensure funds raised are directly supporting lifesaving research, educational initiatives, advocacy efforts and patient service programs like Road to Recovery, a free transportation program offered to cancer patients needing rides to and from treatment.

While there is much to do and see at Relay, two activities in particular are highlights of the event. The American Cancer Society invites all cancer survivors to attend the Survivor's Victory Lap on Saturday, June 5, at 11 a.m. to be honored by event participants and recognized for their triumph over the disease. The community is also encouraged to attend the Luminaria Ceremony at 9:30 p.m. Friday, June 4. Luminarias are small candle-lit bags, decorated to honor or remember loved ones, which Relay organizers line the track with for the inspirational ceremony. As the track is set aglow, many reflect on the purpose of their involvement.

"The Survivor's Victory Lap and Luminaria Ceremony really ring true to those who have been affected in some way by this disease," said Cyrulewski. "They are perfect examples of what is at the heart of Relay — celebration and remembrance."

The Relay For Life in St. Clair Shores opens with cancer survivors passing a torch through the park until it reaches the flame of hope where it shines brightly throughout the 24-hour event.

Co-chair Cindy Siterlet leads the way in the first lap of the 2003 Relay For Life.

Thanks to sponsors and supporters

The American Cancer Society Relay For Life — St. Clair Shores is sincerely grateful for the support of these community leaders:

- Platinum Sponsor — ALCOS/Fritsch-Kinney Insurance.
- Gold Sponsors — Bon Secours Cottage Health Services and Viviano Flower Shop.
- Silver Sponsors — Comcast, Real Estate One and Wolverine Packing Co.
- Bronze Sponsors — Cambridge Integrated Services, Contours Express, Jet's Pizza and Katch Inc.

"Never doubt that a small group of thoughtful, committed people can change the world," said Margaret Meade, anthropologist. "Indeed, it is the only thing that ever has."

Luminaria honoring or in memory of loved ones who have faced cancer line the Relay path and are lit at dusk in an emotional ceremony. A silent lap provides an opportunity for all in attendance to absorb the true meaning and importance of the Relay.

Relay dollars are working toward a cure

Since 1946, more than $2.5 billion has been invested in breakthrough research, making the American Cancer Society (ACS) the largest private funder of cancer research in the world — second only to the U.S. government. Much of this support comes to researchers early in their careers, giving them the opportunity to develop new ideas in laboratories.

Thus far, 33 ACS grantees have won the Nobel Prize. Among their findings, researchers have:

- Structured and sequenced DNA.
- Found a cure for childhood leukemia.
- Discovered the link between smoking and lung cancer.
- Created the Pap test to screen for cervical cancer.
- Developed the first therapies to attack the genetic roots of cancer.
- Used the first successful bone marrow transplant to treat cancer.
- Identified the link between diet and cancer.
- Showed that tamoxifen can help reduce the breast cancer risk.
- Developed the prostate specific antigen (PSA) test for early detection of prostate cancer.

Because of these combined efforts, today more than 60 percent of people diagnosed with cancer live longer than five years, up from a mere 25 percent in 1946.

Currently, ACS is funding more than $7.7 million in research programs at Michigan State University, Wayne State University and the University of Michigan, among others.

Unfortunately, the fight against cancer has not yet been won and hundreds of intelligent researchers are denied grants because of financial limitations. The generosity of more than 2.5 million Relay For Life participants and volunteers will ultimately see to the funding of more studies and even greater advancements.

Local Relay is a winner

It's only six years old, but already the Relay For Life in St. Clair Shores has garnered more than its share of awards.

In both 2002 and 2003, it received the Terry Zahn Communications Award for the Great Lakes Division, and last year went on to win this coveted prize at the national level. The local Relay has received Honorable Mention in the Student Outreach and Youth Involvement category three years running. Heart of the Relay Honorable Mention awards also were received in the Survivorship and Cancer Control categories.

Many of the trophies and plaques were displayed recently at the St. Clair Shores Public Library and at Bon Secours Hospital in the City of Grosse Pointe. They are visible reminders of the spirit, dedication, and hundreds of volunteer hours of the steering committee, sub-committees and teams.

Volunteers share message of hope, progress and answers

By Lindsay Buhagiar

Though each individual has a different story about why they Relay, the American Cancer Society Relay For Life brings people together for a common purpose. Two local women decided to fight back against cancer, and give back to the American Cancer Society, by becoming volunteers.

Lynne Crissman, 35, of Eastpointe, was diagnosed with cancer three years ago. After undergoing an eight-hour spinal cord surgery to remove a tumor, Crissman awoke to hear it was cancerous. She had the rare form of spinal cord cancer and was bedridden for eight weeks recovering from surgery. Dealing with the emotional impact of the disease, Crissman said she was in immense pain and felt hopeless.

"I thought I was going to die," said Crissman.

While researching her disease on the Internet, Crissman surfed onto the American Cancer Society Web site, cancer.org. On the site, she found information about the Society's National Cancer Information Center (NCIC) — a resource available 24 hours a day, seven days a week to answer cancer related questions from patients and caregivers. NCIC can be accessed toll-free at (800) ACS-2345.

That night, Crissman talked to a Cancer Information Specialist (CIS) for four hours. The CIS not only answered Crissman's questions, but sent her additional information about the type of cancer she had been diagnosed with, e-mailed her articles, and educated her on the treatment success rate.

"I don't think people realize how much ACS does for caregivers or people going through treatment, or how easy it is to dial that 800 number," said Crissman.

Following her diagnosis in 2001, Crissman was urged by a friend to join her Relay For Life team. On the day of the event, it had been just 50 days since Crissman was diagnosed with cancer. She said Relay was a therapeutic experience for her and played a role in her recovery.

"I want to support the research done by the American Cancer Society," Lunch provided by ALCOS on Saturday 11am - 1pm...

We want to thank everyone who is supporting ACS and the relay for life, keep up the good work!

said Crissman. "It helped me and I hope it will help someone else."

Crissman has been cancer-free for two years. Her miracle is not only her own life, but the life of her second son, Cole. Three days after being told by her obstetrician/oncologist that her reproductive organs had been destroyed by radiation, Crissman became pregnant.

This year, Crissman is the team captain for team "Our Friends Care" and is a ceremony chairperson. Cancer has also affected the family of longtime St. Clair Shores volunteer Toni Gerbasi. Gerbasi became involved in Relay For Life because of her husband Kenneth's battle with multiple myeloma. Diagnosed in 1989, Kenneth, 58, had been in remission since 1992. Just recently, Kenneth has been re-diagnosed.

Cancer is no stranger to her husband's family, said Gerbasi. His father and his father's eight siblings died of cancer. Because of this, Gerbasi considers her children to be at "high risk." Her sons, Timothy, 39; and Matthew, 28; and daughter Charlyne, 37, are conscientious of their health and are examined by their physicians regularly.

"You have to be aggressive when it comes to cancer prevention and detection," said Gerbasi.

On Sept. 19, 2002, Gerbasi traveled to Washington, D.C., as an ACS advocacy volunteer at Celebration on the Hill. She was joined by other Relay For Life volunteers as well as cancer survivors from across the nation to celebrate survivorship, remember lost friends and family members and lobby for support of cancer initiatives nationally.

"There were no sour notes while we were there," said Gerbasi.

Gerbasi was moved by a 6-year-old boy she met who had been a cancer survivor for five years. She also met a 90-year-old man who was fighting his fourth bout of cancer in 50 years. Gerbasi also took comfort in knowing she was able to give hope to a person she spoke to who had been diagnosed with the same type of cancer as her husband.

Celebration on the Hill was also a day to educate elected officials on the issues surrounding cancer. Representatives from communities met with their respective officials to explain the concern cancer places on so many Americans. Gerbasi had the opportunity to speak

"They don't just collect money," said Gerbasi. "They collect the money to help people. They really care."

A look at what's happening at the Relay

The Relay For Life is a celebration of hope and triumph over cancer and the culmination of many months of team fundraising activities to support the American Cancer Society's efforts in education, advocacy, research and support services.

Prior to this event, the teams have held bake sales, golf outings, bowling benefits and bingo parties. They sold thousands of candy bars, Relay bears and luminaria bags that honor friends and family members who have been touched by cancer. But it doesn't stop there. The fundraising and fun continue for the 24 hours of the Relay.

As you walk around the park, take part in the activities and enjoy the treats available at the team campsites. A donation is requested for most food items, or to participate in the drawings, games and activities.

The following is a sampling of what you'll find:

- Christian's Crusaders — Casino-themed bake sale.
- Bon Secours Cottage Butterfly Tent — Butterfly tattoos, photo buttons, make a bead and butterfly bracelet 6 to 8 p.m. Friday and 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Saturday, enter drawing for fabulous prizes including a Longaberger basket, professional massage, Coca-Cola collectibles and more.

"Breakfast for Champions" served to everyone in the park at 7 a.m.

Saturday, courtesy of Sodexo Management Services.

• JKW Family & Friends — 50/50 drawings at 8 and 11 p.m. Friday and 9 a.m., noon and 3 p.m. on Saturday. Potted plants available for a $1 donation beginning at noon Saturday. Taking donations for Flower of Hope garden.

• Thumbs Up — Face painting, "paint your own" pet rock, drawing for an afghan, candy-coated pretzels.

• Hope Floats — Wish-n-Fish includes a special wishing well tribute, a fishing game to win a goldfish, French hair-braiding Friday afternoon and Saturday morning; drawing for a mountain bike, weight bench, Creative Memories scrapbooking basket, gift certificates, and more. Also available are cold beverages and homemade goodies including Beth's famous cookies and bars.

Polyp Man, the American Cancer Society's colon cancer screening spokesperson, has agreed to make a special return appearance at the St. Clair Shores Relay For Life. No doubt, he'll be hotly pursued by medical personnel, reminding everyone to "Get the test, get the polyp, get the cure!"

• Aiming Beyond Stars — Mini massage and chiropractic evaluation provided by Complete Care for a minimum donation Friday evening and Saturday morning.

• Legree's Legacy — Customized luminaria created on order for a $10 donation on Friday until the Luminaria Ceremony begins. Slices of watermelon available Friday evening.

• Viviano Flower Shop — Cotton candy and balloons.

• Discovery Shops — Drawing for teeth whitening, massages and a silent auction.

• Fighting Norsemen "E-lemon-ating" Cancer — Enjoy a Lemon Chill and other tart treats, drawing for a mountain bike and Tiger tickets.

• Shooting Stars — Take time out for a Smoothie.

• Angels Among Us — "Viva Las Relay" casino games for prizes.

• Rays of Sunshine — Water; prize drawings, ice cream, novelty items.

• Wings of Hope — Munch on nachos and cheese or a pickle on a stick, prize drawings include a bicycle.

• Our Friends Care — Face painting, bake sale, drawings for quilts and jewelry.

• Great Lakers — Drawings, food, childrens games.

• Contours Express — Drawing for a free membership at Contours Express.

• Our Friends Care — Christmas card sale, quilt drawing, jewelry, glow necklaces, bandanas and face painting.

• Neighbors — Karaoke machine drawing, Mason jar and tea cup birdfeeders, angel bookmarks, record bowls, nachos, kids games.

• Ardmore's Kids That Kare — Water, soda, coffee and tea, nachos, their famous popcorn, and s'mores, bracelets, a special drawing, and more.

• Grosse Pointe Interact Hawaiian Team — Tropical Skittles and Starbursts, Hawaiian Punch and freeze pops, leis, grass skirts, glow necklaces, and a gift drawing.

All this fun and much, much more.

Discovery Shops team up for St. Clair Shores Relay

By Kim Kapelanski

What is more upscale than a department store, and donates all of its proceeds to a great cause? It's the American Cancer Society Discovery Shops and there is one located in your neighborhood.

The Discovery Shops have been rooted within the Grosse Pointe and St. Clair Shores communities for the past several years. The Grosse Pointe Shop at 110 Kercheval Ave. on the Hill in Grosse Pointe Farms, has provided unique and quality merchandise at affordable prices to the community for over six years. The St. Clair Shores Discovery Shop at the Shores Shopping Center at 13 Mile and Harper has also been providing service for four years.

These quality resale shops are owned and operated by the American Cancer Society, and run by volunteers from local communities. Discovery Shops are located throughout the United States, including eight in Michigan.

All of the merchandise in the Discovery Shops is donated by community members who want to support the American Cancer Society. All proceeds raised from the sale of donated items are used to help fund cancer research and local programs and services. Quality donations are always accepted, and a variety of volunteer opportunities are available at all locations.

Discovery Shops offer a variety of merchandise from unique furniture (perfect for those trying to create that shabby-chic look), to seasonal and holiday merchandise, there is something for everyone. Donations of these items are always accepted during normal hours.

Along with raising funds for the American Cancer Society by selling quality merchandise, Discovery Shops also contribute to Relay For Life. This year, both the Grosse Pointe and St. Clair Shores locations will gather volunteers, family and friends to participate and represent the shops.

Anita Sandercott, manager of the Discovery Shop in Grosse Pointe Farms, enjoys volunteering for the event. "Relay is a great opportunity to volunteer my time and services outside the shop," says Sandercott. "I enjoy working with other American Cancer Society employees as well as friends and volunteers from the community in the fight against cancer."

Dawn Symonds, Relay team captain as well as a six-year shop volunteer, is gearing up for yet another great Relay. "Relay is about camaraderie of all teams," said Symonds. "Everyone involved is there with the same goal and just knowing that we are all in it together creates an overwhelming sense of happiness."

Both shops have been fundraising for the upcoming Relay. Customers can donate $10 and receive a Relay For Life bear or can purchase an assortment of candy bars for $1 each. Luminarias can also be purchased for $10.

Train rides around the park are a popular attraction. Fares are added to the final collection total and help to fund American Cancer Society's education, advocacy, research and support services.

Young survivors realize their dreams through scholarship program

Local students are learning that cancer doesn't have to interrupt their dreams of college and career thanks to the American Cancer Society College Scholarship program.

According to Vicki Rakowski, executive vice president of medical activities for the American Cancer Society, Great Lakes Division Inc., the program was launched six years ago to help young cancer survivors rebuild their lives and pursue their goal of higher education.

"The lives of these young students and their families have been shattered by the emotional and financial burden of cancer," says Rakowski. "They have fought and won, and can once again focus on their future. We want to help them get their lives back on track."

The college scholarship program is made possible by generous donations to the American Cancer Society Foundation, Great Lakes Division. At the inaugural American Cancer Society Cattle Baron's Ball in Detroit last year, nearly 100 college scholarships were auctioned off in support of the program and more than $1 million was raised in support of the Society's mission. The increase in scholarships for the 2004/2005 year is unprecedented in metro Detroit — the Ball helped to facilitate a sevenfold increase in the number of scholarships supported.

The need to expand and preserve the college scholarship program is important now more than ever due to the increasing number of childhood cancer survivors. "We have an endowment to provide ongoing funding of the grants and ensure that funds of this type are always available to young cancer survivors," said Rick Whitten, senior vice president, American Cancer Society Foundation.

To qualify for an American Cancer Society scholarship, a student must be an Indiana or Michigan resident diagnosed with cancer under the age of 21. All applications are reviewed by a panel of volunteers and awarded based on letters of recommendation, financial information, grades and a written essay.

For information on the American Cancer Society Foundation College Scholarship program, or to make a gift in support of the program, contact your local American Cancer Society office at (248) 557-5353 or write Rick Whitten at 6030 W. 62nd Street, Indianapolis, IN 46278; phone (800) 233-6303.

Program in need of volunteer support

The American Cancer Society is recruiting volunteers to help cancer patients when they need it most. Road to Recovery is a volunteer-based driving program that provides free transportation to and from medical centers in the metro Detroit area for cancer patients undergoing treatment.

Currently, more than 100 drivers are needed to support transportation needs in the tri-county area.

Since the American Cancer Society was founded in 1913, it has been dedicated to helping people with their cancer needs. Today, as people are forced to deal with the burden of cancer treatment, the need for transportation assistance has grown and the American Cancer Society has established Road to Recovery to help eliminate these burdens.

"Sadly, patients every day are canceling and postponing their cancer treatment simply because they do not have a ride," said John Burns, quality of life director, American Cancer Society. "Right here in the metro Detroit area, 10 to 20 percent of newly diagnosed cancer patients are not getting the treatment they need simply because they do not have transportation. It is our job to help them get back on the road to recovery."

Right now, the American Cancer Society is recruiting volunteers from throughout Southeast Michigan to help drive cancer patients to and from their treatment at various area hospitals. All volunteers need is a reliable means of transportation and a few hours each month.

"Businesses and organizations are also encouraged to participate as a group," said Burns. "No matter who they are or when they are available, we could really use any and all volunteer support to assist with this great program."

To learn more about Road to Recovery or to volunteer for this program, call your local American Cancer Society at (248) 557-5353.

$4.5 million health complex to open at Detroit Zoo

Chris Waldmeir
Special Writer

Animals at the Detroit Zoo no longer have to worry about long lines at the emergency room.

Thanks to great financial support the zoo has completed its third new facility, out of four planned to be built, with the fourth not far behind.

Grosse Pointe resident Ruth Glancy is one of the biggest supporters of the Detroit Zoological Institute.

She is also the chairman of the Detroit Zoological Society Board, chairman of the Capital Campaign Committee and also a member of the Detroit Zoo Commission.

"The zoo is an important educational and recreational asset for our region," Glancy said. "(Private funding is) absolutely critical, (with goals of) $40 million in private funding and $10 million in public funding. These buildings wouldn't have happened without the incredible private support that we've had."

The campaign has raised nearly $50 million which will fund the construction of four projects, the National Amphibian Conservation Center, the Polar Bear Exhibit, the Animal Health Complex, and the Ford Center for Environmental Conservation and Education. Also, some of the money will go into the zoo's endowment program.

"Private philanthropy is very important. Our zoo is considered one of the best in the country in terms of attendance, quality of programming, and size of animal collection (just to name a few)," Glancy said. "That is thanks in large part not only to public funding, which is important, but also we've got far more private funding than we have ever had before."

The Detroit Zoo has recently completed the new, 18,000 sq. ft., animal health complex, which is equipped to take care of all types and species of animals. The new complex cost roughly $4.5 million.

"This state of the art building will help us better serve all of our wildlife patients, from the tiniest fish to the largest polar bear," said zoo director Ron Kagan.

He added, "Our new Animal Health Complex is a testament to our commitment to offering the most advanced, complete medical care to animals, from diagnosis and preventative care to emergency medicine, pathology, and other medical disciplines."

"Whether performing a routine physical exam on a zebra, determining an appropriate diet for penguins, or administering dental work to a polar bear, the zoo veterinarians are an integral part of keeping our animals healthy and active," Kagan said.

From the surgery room to the intensive care nursery, rest assured, these animals are in good hands as this new facility is one of the top facilities in the country, according to Kagan.

The medical facility has three goals in mind when opening its doors for the first time.

First, it is dedicated to providing the best medical care for the institute's 7,000 animals of 500 species.

Second, it will provide space and resources necessary for conservation, education, reproduction, and research for the current and future needs of the zoo.

"Our new Animal Health Complex is designed to do more than just care for our current charges. Research and educational opportunities abound in this complex of which visitors, students, and medical professionals will be able to take advantage," Kagan said.

Third, it wants to form a center for the veterinary and medical community of greater Detroit to gather in support of the zoo's mission.

"A circular path of hallways surrounds the clinical rooms and allows visitors to view the working areas of the hospital. In addition, overhead cameras throughout the hospital allow up-close views of these same areas through closed-circuit TV monitors," Kagan said.

"The technology and resources of the new Animal Health Complex will enable our vets to treat almost any animal ailment imaginable. It will also give us new capabilities to further our efforts in education and research. We are immensely grateful to all of those who have helped," Kagan said.

Financial support is not the only thing local citizens provide to help the zoo flourish. The zoo also depends on its 900 volunteers, from docents to gardeners; the zoo is always in search of kind people who love animals and understand the mission of the Detroit Zoo.

Grosse Pointe Farms resident, Richard Platt, has been volunteering at the zoo for more than 10 years. His volunteer positions include being the Vice Chairman and Treasurer of the Detroit Zoological Society board.

"They (volunteers) are invaluable for several reasons. By their nature, people who volunteer share an understanding of the zoo's mission; they enhance the experience of all the zoo's visitors by interfacing with them directly and by working behind the scenes," Platt said.

Grosse Pointe Park resident, Ellen Kulie, is a perfect example.

Kulie recently started her 19th summer as a volunteer docent at the zoo.

"It has been a very rewarding experience.

They've given me the chance to learn and grow, and I feel that the mission of the zoo, the celebrating and saving of wildlife, is very important, and the conservation message is very important, and I support that," Kulie said.

As a docent at the zoo Kulie loves to give tours and teach others about the animals. She also enjoys being involved in the outreach presentations.

"I love to give the tours, where you take people around the zoo, and I also like giving the outreach presentations in the community. Some of those can be very rewarding. We have a program where we go out to Children's Hospital, and I love the humane education, which is teaching people about pets; they all are very rewarding," Kulie said.

When asked how much longer she planned to volunteer at the zoo, Kulie said, "Forever. When I can no longer walk around the zoo I will help out in the office or hospital or something like that."

"It would be impossible to run the zoo without volunteers because the type of person attracted to volunteering could never be paid what they would have to be paid if they were seeking compensation," Platt said.

That passion is what keeps the gates open and the smiles glowing on the children's faces at the zoo, which, in a way, is worth more than any financial donation.

If you would like to volunteer at the Detroit Zoo, contact volunteer services at (248) 398-0903 ext. 3724.

Grosse Pointe Historical Society awards plaques

The Grosse Pointe Historical Society awarded plaques to three Grosse Pointe buildings at its annual meeting on May 11. Plaques went to the Grosse Pointe Public Schools Administrative Buildings on St. Clair, a Sears kit home on Notre Dame and the Owen Skelton House on Ridge. Suggestions are taken from the community every year and then reviewed and selected by a committee. The GPHS described the three buildings as follows:

Plaque Number 51: The Owen Skelton House.

The dramatic residence on Ridge Road confidently proclaims a romantic vision of French Norman architecture. It is a wonderful example of American architectural ingenuity from the early 20th century. Constructed in 1928, far from Normandy, this grand, two-story home reflects the ambition and success of its original owner and the yearning for old-world validation of new economic success. The home's unique site arrangement, entry court, bold massing and prominent conical tower feature are complemented by a stone facade, elegant stone details, an additional tower and carefully placed windows with garden views.

Plaque Number 52: Sears kit home

In the early part of the 20th century, Sears, Roebuck and Co. offered for sale a variety of houses as "kits" from the Sears catalog. Home No. 7013 was called The Kilbourne model. The cost of this house was $2,785. The catalog stated that "at the price quoted we will furnish all the material to build this five-room bungalow — mill work, medicine case, kitchen cabinet, lumber, lath, shingles, flooring, finishing lumber, porch ceiling, building paper, eaves trough, down spout, sash weights, mantel, hardware and painting material. No extras, as we guarantee enough material to build this bungalow. Price does not include cement, brick or plaster."

Several options were also available, including an attic to provide three additional rooms, and options for brick facing, oak trim, and clear maple floors.

The current homeowners discovered the history of the house by accident when some interior remodeling revealed a shipping tag from Sears, Roebuck stapled to the underside of a door casing face board. This discovery started their investigation into the history of the house. The house today looks almost exactly as it did when it was built in 1926. The windows have been updated but remain consistent with the original design.

Plaque Number 53: Grosse Pointe Public Schools Administrative Buildings on St. Clair

In 1905-06, Grosse Pointe School District No. 1 built a second school building, a two-story brick structure at 389 St. Clair Avenue in the Village of Grosse Pointe. There were eight classrooms serving 240 pupils. It was named the Cadieux School after the Cadieux family who lived in the Village. Francis Cadieux served as the District No. 1 school inspector for 33 years.

In 1916-18, a north building, 399 St. Clair, was added, due to the increased classroom demand. Students wanting a secondary education were given stipends to attend Detroit's Central and Eastern High Schools.

In 1921, the original five Grosse Pointe Township School Districts were consolidated to form the Rural Agricultural District No. 1, which met state requirements to create a locally administered high school. Despite the defeat, the Board took action to purchase 22.5 acres of land belonging to the Newberry family (originally the Jane L. Fisher farm) at the corner of Fisher and Grosse Pointe Boulevard.

By 1923, the Cadieux School housed all area students from kindergarten through the 10th grade. The same year, an 11th grade was added, and the board of education asked voters to approve the building of a new school. The proposal was resoundingly defeated.

Despite the defeat, the Board took action to purchase 22.5 acres of land belonging to the Newberry family (originally the Jane L. Fisher farm) at the corner of Fisher and Grosse Pointe Boulevard.

In 1924, 12th grade was added to the curriculum. The first graduating class numbered 24. Cadieux School was so overcrowded that double sessions had to be scheduled (34 different classes were being taught there). Finally, in 1925, the public agreed that a new school was necessary, and the planning began. In January of 1927, groundbreaking for the new school took place, and the cornerstone was laid in April.

On February 1, 1928, all students in grades 7 through 12, as well as their instructors, marched from the Cadieux School down the road to the new building on Fisher and Grosse Pointe Boulevard to begin classes there.

To help fill the new school, the offices of the board of education also moved into the new school, but in 1930 the board moved back to Cadieux School. Since that time, the buildings on St. Clair have housed the offices of the Grosse Pointe Public School System.

In 1992, the school board announced plans to vacate the two buildings on St. Clair, but the decision was met with public outcry, and a bid to purchase the property was rejected. In 2002-03, the buildings underwent a major renovation, including a full connection between the two buildings and other major improvements.

The purpose of the Grosse Pointe Historical Society is to preserve and promote the history of the Grosse Pointe community. The Society's historic Provencal-Weir House, circa 1823, is open for tours the second Saturday of each month from 1 to 4 p.m. The Society's Resource Center is open for research on Tuesday and Wednesday, from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and 1:30 to 4 p.m.

Advice for graduates

By the Rev. Timothy A. Holzerland
Christ the King Lutheran Church

Last year while walking on Kercheval on "the Hill," I was asked by a Grosse Pointe News reporter what advice I would give future graduates. I said, "Do something meaningful with your life, and don't forget to have a good time."

If I could do it over again, I would add, "Stay close to the Lord, and He will give you success!"

Graduation involves a major transition in life, and this can be both exciting and frightening at the same time. At these times it is good to remember the words of King David in Psalm 63:8: "My soul clings to You; Your right hand upholds me."

This verse gives me reassurance and strength when I am faced with changes in my life.

As I told the graduates, "Don't forget to have a good time." Well, we rarely forget to do that, because we are all looking for pleasure and enjoyment in life.

We frequently hear of graduates who have too good a time over the summer and end up in trouble with the law, in an automobile accident, or something even worse.

In order to avoid the pitfalls of bad choices, it is good to remember the first part of Psalm 63:8: "My soul clings to You."

When I cling to the Lord, my thoughts and actions will reflect my need to please Him as I enjoy myself this summer.

When I want to do something meaningful, I remember the next half of Psalm 63:8: "Your right hand upholds me."

King David praised God for the security He offered when changes threatened him. As we move from one change to the next in life, we are never alone. When we cling to the Lord Jesus, He promises to give us His presence and blessing as we work to make a difference in our community and in the world this summer. The presence of Christ gives us the peace and confidence to know He will never let us down as we move from one life change to another.

Transitions are a natural part of life, and many of them take place during the summer months. God's blessings to all who will experience these changes and remember Psalm 63:8: "My soul clings to You; Your right hand upholds me."

Local teenagers help

Creekside Community members and teen and adult parishioners from St. Ambrose and St. Paul Catholic churches who are members of River of Life — Detroit River Watershed Project joined forces recently to plant flowers and bushes and spread mulch around the Lenox Recreational Center. The center is at the foot of Lenox Street along the Detroit River in Detroit.

Teens from St. Ambrose and St. Paul parishes worked diligently under the direction of adults. This effort was part of the larger Motor City Makeover Project on May 22.

Mary Burnbreyer and Cormac O'Byrne, members of St. Ambrose, worked with Creekside Community members, assisted by Connie Boris and Virginia Sendelbach of St. Paul.

River of Life is an interfaith group dedicated to environmental stewardship. It focuses locally on the Detroit River and Lake St. Clair.

The group's fall project will include bush and tree plantings along a berm on the shoreline of the Detroit River which will help reduce sediment and debris flowing into the Detroit River.

Pettipointe Questers

Betty Sorenson will host a meeting of Pettipointe Questers No. 243 beginning at 11:30 a.m. Thursday, June 3, at her home in St. Clair Shores. A salad luncheon will be followed by a program of Sorenson's European antiques. Regrets only: (586) 445-1804.

Women's Connection

The Women's Connection of Grosse Pointe will meet at 6 p.m. Thursday, June 10, at a private Grosse Pointe club. Dinner will be at 6 p.m. For reservations or information about the club, call Nancy Neat at (313) 882-1855 or Marcia Pikielak at (313) 884-4201.

Windmill Pointe Questers

Windmill Pointe Questers No. 385 will meet at 11 a.m. Monday, June 14, at the Victorian Tea Parlor, 15212 Charlevoix in Grosse Pointe Park. The program will be followed by High Tea. Guests are welcome. Call Sylvia at (586) 979-2868 for reservations or more information.

Families Anonymous, self help support group, is open to public

Families Anonymous, a 12-step, self-help support program for parents, grandparents, relatives and friends who are concerned about and affected by a loved one's substance abuse or behavioral problem, meets from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. Thursdays at Cottage Hospital, Lower Level, Board Room B.

Families Anonymous meetings are open to the public. The forum is not intended for the individual with the problem, but for concerned friends and family members of a person who is abusing drugs or alcohol and displaying behavior that is destructive to the abuser and those around him or her.

Teenagers 15 and older may attend. The group is not recommended for those younger than 15.

No dues or fees are required. First names only are used at meetings to preserve individual anonymity. Advance notice or registration is not necessary to attend a meeting. Visitors and support persons are welcome. Call (313) 882-1921.

The Rev. Scott T. Davis

Correction

Davis has accepted a call from Second Congregational United Church of Christ, Grand Rapids to become their pastor.

The article also should have said Davis was president of the Lay Theological Academy for two years. The correct photo is at the left.

Spine surgery to be discussed

Bon Secours Cottage neurological surgeon Dr. John Zinkel will discuss "Spine and Brain Surgery: The Incisions Keep Shrinking," at a community lecture from 7 to 8 p.m. Thursday, June 3, in Connelly Auditorium, Bon Secours Hospital, 468 Cadieux in the City of Grosse Pointe.

Reservations are requested for this free community program. Call (586) 779-7900 weekdays, between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Scent, touch, sound, taste showcased in this garden

By Kathy Peabody
Special Writer

Everyone is in the garden. Well, almost everyone. Those of us who don't have Mother Nature-made ponds in our yards from all the rain.

The folks at the Detroit Institute of Ophthalmology last week invited me to join a gardener-led tour through their specially made Sensory Garden.

Volunteer Hedy Coeman began by giving a mini-lecture to a roomful of folks about her love of all things herbal. Coeman is losing her sight, but that didn't stop her from sharing her knowledge with others going through a similar time in their lives. Participants had the chance to touch, taste and smell the herbs that Coeman shared.

Having heard about and visited the Sensory Garden last year, I was eager to see how it was progressing. After Coeman's talk inside, we ventured outside to enjoy and learn more about the plants. Coeman said she simply wanted to be on the committee and share some of what she knew. But that committee work led to advice and plans for the Sensory Garden.

The garden is set up with sedum edges and cedar mulch along the short pathways. A half barrel in the center has white summer snow cascading down its edges and a delightful wind chime. Within the garden are plants filled with fragrance, taste and texture. Soon to come will be signs to let visitors know more about what's planted there.

A few DIO volunteers and staff had an idea awhile back. If someone is a life-long gardener, why should the loss of sight arrest the passion many gardeners share?

No reason, says Marie Perchan, another blind gardener who helped to plan the DIO Sensory Garden.

"Just because you're blind, it doesn't mean you can't enjoy the plants," Perchan said. "When you lose that sense, you use the others." She dispelled the myth that when someone goes blind, the other senses become stronger.

"You become more aware of other senses," she said. Keeping those thoughts in mind, the idea of a demonstration garden went forward to become a delightful addition to the community. Visit the DIO Sensory Garden at 15415 E. Jefferson in Grosse Pointe Park.

"Gertrude Jekyll, like Monet, was a painter with poor eyesight, and their gardens — his at Giverny in the Seine valley, hers in Surrey — had resemblances that may have sprung from this condition. Both loved plants that foamed and frothed over walls and pergolas and spread in tides beneath trees; both saw flowers in islands of colored light — an image the normal eye captures only by squinting," wrote Eleanor Perenyi in 1981 in "Green Thoughts."

If you would like specific information on gardening with a visual impairment, good tips can be found by Larry Caplan at the Vanderburgh County Extension Service site, www2.ces.purdue.edu/ces/vanderburgh/horticulture/gardenblind.htm. He also provides a list of recently released books on the subject.

Perchan recommends a listserv especially for gardeners with sight challenges. Contact them at blindgardener-subscribe@yahoo.com.

Gardening for senses

Many gardeners choose plants for their visual beauty. Consider adding plants to your garden to stimulate other senses as well.

To taste the garden, that's pretty easy. Plant vegetables or culinary herbs. Don't spray your plants with pesticides, and you will be able to munch your way right through your garden. Consider vegetables that become brightly colored when ripe, such as golden zucchini squash, red leaf lettuce, and purple podded beans. These will stand out from the surrounding green foliage and make harvesting easier for the visually impaired gardener.

The numbers of culinary herbs are almost endless. Try nasturtium with its peppery leaves and flowers. Any type of mint is a treat to the palate. Plant a separate raised culinary herb garden to become familiar with the taste and feel of each plant. Marking with Braille signs will help those who are blind learn the various plants.

Smelling flowers is something we learn to do as children. A whole host of plants have a lemon scent. Included are lemon balm, lemon basil and lemon thyme. Consider a plant that's fruit scented, such as Roman chamomile.

Other plants may have the scent of licorice, such as caraway; honey, such as the butterfly bush; or a spicy aroma, such as carnation or China pink. What better scent than that of chocolate like that found in chocolate cosmos or the scented geranium "Chocolate peppermint."

When considering plants that appeal to the sense of touch, be sure to avoid prickly plants or those that may cause a skin reaction. Plants such as lamb's ear or pussy willow are soft to touch. The blooms of cockscorn or poppy feel different from each other, yet both are delightful to feel. Take a tour of your favorite nursery and feel the texture of blooms and leaves.

We don't often think of the sounds of our plants, but Perchan mentioned the sound of the aspen tree as the wind blows through it. Can't you just imagine it?

These delicate sounds made by your garden can create subtle moods for visitors. The whisper of weeping plants, such as willows and birch, has a calming influence. The rustling of ornamental grasses and bamboo can create a sense of excitement and activity, and they make excellent audio signals to help gardeners orient themselves. Also good for orientation is a wind chime.

Whatever sensory plants you discover to put in your garden, remember the words of John Burroughs: "I go to nature to be soothed and healed and to have my senses put in order."

What women know about water may save their skin

(NAPSI) — Here's a quick quiz for women: which part of your body first shows signs of dehydration: your face, hands, elbows, feet, legs, chest or neck? If you answered as nearly half the women (41 percent) did in a recent national survey called "Tap Into Power of Hydration," you also confirm that American women only know half the story on the importance of water and hydration when it comes to maintaining skin's youthful appearance.

While most areas of the body can show the effects of dehydration, it's the skin on a woman's hands and face that tend to make her look older than her years. "Women have numerous skin care options to combat these dehydrating effects and elements," said Dr. Myra Barker. "This survey indicates women also need more information about the importance of adding facial hydration to their daily skincare regimen to add moisture and radiance. It's about knowing your skin and knowing what to do when your face needs hydration — not just your body."

Barker is an executive vice president of marketing/research and development at Mary Kay Inc. The company recently introduced two new hydration products targeted to the specific needs of normal/dry and oily skin. Intense Moisturizing Cream infuses skin with a concentrated moisture boost, resulting in a more radiant look and soft feel, and Oil-Free Hydrating Gel is immediately absorbed. It transforms skin by restoring moisture balance and hydration for up to 10 hours.

Many women have the misconception that oily skin does not need hydration. In fact, oil and moisture are two different things; oily skin can actually be dehydrated just as dry skin can.

According to Barker, the survey was taken to better understand the current perception women have about hydration and the need to supply and maintain the moisture balance in their skin.

The good news: Women have a fairly strong knowledge about the causes and effects of dehydration on skin:

- Eighty-three percent of respondents believe cold air dries the skin.

- Alcohol consumption (77 percent) and smoking (66 percent) were also blamed for drying the skin.

- Caffeine was accurately cited by 71 percent of women as a dehydrating agent that depletes the body of water.

- Sixty-two percent of women believe drinking eight glasses of water daily is enough to hydrate their skin.

- Only nine percent of women said topical hydration would have a lasting positive effect.

"Despite the fact that some women are educated about the effects of hydration, our survey indicates that many are still unclear about the importance of moisture to sustain healthy, radiant skin," said Barker. "A woman knows her skin best and can tell when she needs a little something extra to give it a more radiant appearance. By evaluating her lifestyle she can determine those dehydrating elements, such as stress, hormones or the environment, and personally tailor her skin care regimen. Drinking eight glasses of water a day is only the beginning. Properly hydrated skin is not only healthier, but looks and feels better."

used alone, the effects last only for a short time. If you drink coffee and are seriously sleep-deprived, you still are likely to have "microsleeps" — brief naps that last four or five seconds. At 55 mph, that's more than 100 yards.

2. False — If you're like most people, you believe you can control your sleep. The truth is sleep is not voluntary. If you're drowsy, you can fall asleep and never know it. You cannot tell how long you've been asleep. When you're driving, being asleep even for a few seconds can be fatal.

3. False — The only safe driver is an alert driver. Even the safest drivers become confused and use poor judgment when they are sleepy.

4. False — Chances are good that you really aren't getting all the sleep you need. The average person needs seven or eight hours of sleep a night.

5. False — In fact, teens and young adults need more sleep than people in their 30s. They often get less because they enjoy staying up late or wake up early for school.

Still, when they get up early, they still feel alert in the evening. In turn, they think that means it's OK they don't get enough sleep. Unfortunately, temporary alertness wears off later, and people can end up driving home drowsy.

Keep your eyes open to dangers of fatigue

Sleeping and driving don't mix. When you are behind the wheel of a car, fatigue can slow your reaction time, decrease your overall awareness, impair judgment, and quadruple your chance of being involved in an accident, just like drugs or alcohol.

Are you "asleep at the wheel" when it comes to the facts about fatigue? Find out how you rate by testing your knowledge with the following quiz by the AAA Foundation for Traffic Safety.

True or false:

1. Drinking coffee, tea or anything caffeinated overcomes the effects of drowsiness while driving.

2. You'll always know if you're about to fall asleep.

3. If you're a cautious driver overall, fatigue is not a problem.

4. Most people get the right amount of sleep each night.

5. Teens and young adults need less sleep; so fatigue isn't an issue for them.

Answers:

1. False — Stimulants are no substitute for sleep. Products containing caffeine can make you more alert, especially when used in conjunction with naps. However, when they are

SOC plans Medicare prescription drug benefit community forum

Randy Block from the Detroit Area Agency on Aging will present a Medicare Prescription Drug Benefit Forum on Monday, June 7, at 11:30 a.m. at Services for Older Citizens (SOC). Lunch will be served at 11 a.m.

If you have questions about the new Medicare Drug Cards, this is a presentation not to be missed.

Pulmonary and cardiac rehab

Bon Secours Cottage offers pulmonary and cardiac rehabilitation programs. The following classes are designed for strengthening muscles and endurance training. For information about either class, call (313) 640-2582 between 7 a.m. and 4 p.m. weekdays.

Pulmonary Rehabilitation Program — a physician referral is required for this educational exercise program for people with chronic obstructive pulmonary disease.

Cardiac Rehabilitation Program — a physician referral is needed for this educational exercise program offered to people at risk of developing heart disease and those recovering from cardiac illness or surgery.

The following questions will be addressed: Who can get a Medicare-approved drug discount card? When can you get the card? How do you choose a drug discount card? How do you enroll? Can you enroll in more than one discount card?

Are there any costs involved in getting the card? What happens if you choose a discount card, and your doctor changes your prescriptions? And what should you do if a company that offers a discount drug card contacts you directly?

Other questions to be addressed are whether you can get a discount card if you are in a Medicare Managed Care plan; can you leave a discount card program?

And what happens if the company stops offering the discount drug card?

For more information or to register, call (313) 882-9600, extension 247.

Senior voices are heard

Seniors last year scored a home run with their loud and vehement protest against the new Medicare Prescription Drug bill.

You recall AARP's traitorous action which tipped the scales and convinced legislators that seniors would approve the bill. In fact, without AARP's support, it is highly unlikely the bill would have passed. Loads of seniors didn't like the bill, and according to AARP, 45,000 members dropped out of AARP.

My belief is that many more seniors let AARP know of their outrage. That's what I believe is behind AARP's new foursquare effort to change the bill so government can negotiate with drug companies on the price of drugs. It also now agrees that U.S. drugs should be allowed to be reimported from Canada and other countries.

Do you have any idea how hard it is to change a bill once passed by Congress and signed by the president? Wouldn't it have been more reasonable if AARP had surveyed its members and then informed Congress before the bill was passed that seniors would not support the bill if these elements were not included? But that would not have advanced AARP's special interests.

AARP's new stand demonstrates the power of numbers, and seniors' strongest ally is their numbers. It's important to cast your vote in the November election and urge others to do so. Speaking of prescription drugs, how about the 100 different cards now being offered to help low-income seniors pay for their drugs? The criteria for seniors in selecting the card that's best for them

Senior Scene

By Ruth Cain

is to find what drugs the card covers and what prices are charged for these drugs. I can't begin to imagine going through 100 cards to figure out which is the best card for my needs.

One other disturbing element is that once seniors have made their decision on what card to go with, they are stuck with that card for a full year. On the other hand, the groups offering the cards can increase the amounts they charge at any time without having to obtain permission from the government.

What a boondoggle!

But wait until the Medicare Prescription Drug bill takes effect in 2006. The co-pays and deductibles quoted in newspapers from government experts will be higher by the time the bill goes into effect because of rises in drug costs during the two-year interim. It's also a given that drug costs, and of course co-pays and deductibles, will continue to rise each year as new and expensive drugs come into the marketplace.

The high costs of both the interim card benefit and the new Medicare Prescription Drug bill are difficult to understand, especially when compared to a prescription drug plan recently offered to low-income seniors in Oakland County.

The plan could cover as many as 100,000 working poor residents of Oakland County. They are defined as individuals making $16,000 or less a year and families with an income of $25,000 or less.

Oakland County offers the plan through Prescription Relief, a Columbus, Ohio, nonprofit company. The group works with more than 100 pharmaceutical companies' charitable units to supply prescriptions to individuals for $7 a month. In return, the drug companies get a tax write-off and an avenue to get rid of drugs that are nearing their expiration date.

Prescription Relief has 44,000 clients in Ohio and is starting a program in Washoe County in Nevada.

Under the Oakland County program, enrollees pay a $25 application fee, in addition to the $7 per prescription.

The program comes at no cost to Oakland County, according to Oakland County Executive L. Brooks Patterson, because the $25 enrollment fee pays the costs of management and enrollment.

Some 1,400 drugs are covered under the program, and Patterson says that includes Viagra. Can the new cards match that?

The information above confuses me. The new Medicare Prescription Drug bill specifically bans government from negotiating drug prices with pharmaceutical companies. The drug companies claimed this could lead to price controls. Yet here is a what is apparently a private nonprofit group negotiating with pharmaceutical companies for lower prices based on a quid pro quo basis. Strange.

Aging can cause ear, nose, throat problems

By Douglas Kubek, D.O.
Special Writer

The aging process leaves no part of the body untouched. We do not, however, have to accept every ache, pain and inconvenience associated with aging.

Severely arthritic joints can be replaced, cataracts can be removed, and many of the ear, nose and throat problems common in the aging patient can be treated or even eliminated.

The following are some of the more common age-related ear, nose and throat (ENT) complaints and various treatment options:

• Hearing loss — The gradual loss of hearing as we age is common. In fact, as many as one-half of individuals older than 75 have some degree of hearing loss. This most often is due to heredity, long-term exposure to loud noise and a build up of ear wax.

In heavy manufacturing cities like Detroit, noise-related hearing loss is common in older individuals who have spent many years working in factories and stamping plants before labor laws regulated such exposure. Also, the generations of soldiers who saw live combat in WW II, the Korean War and the Vietnam War may have some noise-related hearing loss.

Within the inner ear are thousands of tiny hairs that help transmit sound vibrations into electrical signals that are read by the brain. Most hearing loss is a result of these tiny hairs breaking or becoming damaged and losing their ability to efficiently transmit signals. With this damage, higher pitched tones, such as women's and children's voices, become difficult to hear, especially if there is background noise. Unfortunately, many individuals suffer with inadequate hearing because of their reluctance to wear a hearing aid. But some hearing aids today are so small they fit entirely in the ear canal. Also, most insurance plans pay for at least some of the cost of a hearing aid.

For some individuals hearing loss can be the result of a gradual build up of ear wax in the ear canal, which restricts sound waves from entering the ear. Cerumen glands in the ear produce this waxy substance. Most individuals' ears are self-cleaning. However, some people's ears produce large amounts of sticky wax that should be removed by an ENT physician on a regular basis. Trying to remove ear wax yourself with a cotton swab may only push the wax further into the ear canal and can injure the eardrum.

• Voice changes — Another widely held belief is that once a person reaches a certain age his or her voice will become weak and gravelly. Some common causes of voice changes are aging muscles in the larynx, bowed or thinning vocal cords, Parkinson's disease, stroke, certain medications and reflux of stomach acid into the upper throat. Many of these are treatable and need not be tolerated because of advancing age.

For persons who do a great deal of public speaking, singing or who rely on their voice for their profession, treatment options may be as simple as lifestyle changes and might include voice therapy, injections to plump up vocal cords and sometimes surgery.

If the cause for voice changes is not apparent, an ENT surgeon may suggest examination of the vocal cords using a flexible endoscope. This thin tube is inserted through the nose and allows the physician to closely examine the vocal cords to check for abnormalities.

• A common cause of hoarseness and gravelly voice in the elderly population is laryngeal reflux disease. This happens when stomach acids reflux into the throat causing tissue injury and symptoms like hoarseness, throat clearing, increased phlegm and cough. If lifestyle changes like raising the head of the bed and avoiding certain foods does not help, certain medications, which reduce the amount of acids produced by the stomach, can be prescribed.

• Balance problems and dizziness — Problems with balance can be incapacitating to the aging patient since it affects one's ability to move about and to drive. Dizziness is often diagnosed by excluding possible causes, which commonly include medications, decreased blood flow to the brain, neurological diseases or heart disease.

Within the inner ear is a receptor organ for balance called the utricle. Inside the utricle are sensory hair cells that are surrounded by a gelatinous layer in which tiny stone-like particles are embedded. When we bend down, the particles drop downward in the gelatinous layer, pulling the sensory hairs down. This tells our brain where our head is relative to the ground.

When these tiny particles become dislodged, they send misinformation to our brain causing dizziness.

In one or more outpatient procedures, an ENT physician can maneuver the position of the head to move the loose particles in the ear to a place where they won't cause dizziness. The success rate of this procedure is very high.

DWIs: You drink, you drive, you lose

Criminal defense attorney Dave Ayers of St. Paul, Minn., tells his children the same thing he tells his clients and the many student and parent groups that he has lectured to over the last 25 years: "Don't get behind the wheel if you've been drinking. It's much cheaper to call a cab or your parents than to pay me and the state and risk losing your license, your job, and more."

He delivers this message even more passionately this time of year, when young people are gearing up for proms and graduation parties.

Whether your state calls it DWI (driving while intoxicated) or DUI (driving under the influence), the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration sums it up best in its impaired driving campaign: "You Drink & Drive. You Lose."

According to NHTSA, in 2002, 17,419 people were killed and 258,000 injured in alcohol-related motor vehicle crashes. The vast majority of deaths — 15,000 — occurred in crashes that involved at least one person who had a blood alcohol concentration of at least .08, the legal limit for drivers in most states. Last year 2,000 young people ages 15-20 died in alcohol-related crashes.

Ayers said parents and students are shocked to learn what is at stake for people who drive while impaired by alcohol, especially young people with just small amounts of alcohol in their systems. He said that in Minnesota — one of just a few states that still has a BAC limit of .10 — a first-time DWI is a misdemeanor offense that can result in:

- Up to 90 days in jail
- A fine of up to $1,000
- Probation of up to two years with a $180 probation fee

- Chemical assessment of $150 required by state statute to determine if there is an alcohol problem
- Chemical dependency treatment if needed, which can cost thousands of dollars

- Attendance at a MADD (Mothers Against Drunk Driving) victim impact panel, where you hear from families of people whose loved ones have been killed or from victims who have been severely injured by a drunken driver

- Attendance at substance abuse education classes, which can cost about $150

- Driver's license revocation of 30-90 days

- Driver's license reinstatement fee of $700

- Cancellation of automobile insurance, requiring you to buy risk insurance, which costs about twice as much as regular insurance

- Attorneys' fees of about

$2,500-$3,000

- Towing fee of $133-$175 and storage fees of $18 per day.

In all, that DWI can easily cost $5,000, not to mention the time and effort to address non-monetary penalties and requirements. Ayers said if a Minnesota police officer arrests you for DWI, the vehicle is impounded and an "inventory search" is conducted. If drugs or other contraband are found, you can be prosecuted for that too, and your vehicle can become the property of the police.

"All of a sudden, the DWI has led to a big felony, and you are in major trouble," Ayers said. The consequences are much worse for repeat offenders or for drunken drivers who crash a car or cause injuries or death.

for underage drinkers

Minnesota has a "zero tolerance" law for underage drinkers called "Not a Drop," which means there is no legal BAC level for drivers under 21 (some states allow up to .02 BAC). That means that in St. Paul, Minn., for instance, just a few swallows of alcohol for a 17-year-old driver can lead to an "underage drinking and driving" offense with penalties similar to those for a first-time DWI.

In fact, the young offender loses his or her license for six months, at least twice as long as that for DWI drivers 21 and over.

According to NHTSA, thousands of young lives have been saved since enactment of zero tolerance laws.

Adults need to understand they also risk jail time and a fine if they supply alcohol to minors — whether or not the minor drives. If an underage drinker kills or injures another person, the person who supplied the alcohol could be charged with a serious crime — felony for a death or gross misdemeanor or misdemeanor for injury — and face a civil lawsuit.

Know Your Skin

by Lisa A. Manz-Dulac, MD

Tinea versicolor is a skin disease whose incidence increases during the summer. Caused by a yeast-like fungus, the condition is noted by small, scaly spots and blotches most commonly scattered over the upper arms, chest and back.

Infected areas usually appear lighter in color on patients with dark skin, and darker in color for those with pale skin. There may also be some itching, most notably when the patient is very hot.

Tinea versicolor is easily treated with medicated creams, shampoos, powders and/or oral medications. Once the fungus has been eliminated, the uneven skin coloring may take several months to return to normal.

To learn more about tinea versicolor, contact your dermatologist, or call us at Eastside Dermatology, Dr. Lisa Manz-Dulac and Associates.

Remembering . . .

If books had hearts they would be breaking. For they've lost a tireless champion this week. Helen Gregory, librarian at the Grosse Pointe Library and author of The Grosse Pointe News "Book Return" column, passed away on May 22, 2004.

With wit, grace and humor, Helen demonstrated, week after week, that reading connects intricately with everything we do, from politics, love, entertainment, illness, pets, even sex . . .

Equally at home with William Blake and Dr. Phil, her columns were a joy to read, a kick to read, and they promoted literacy and the library steadfastly. Her down-to-earth humor disguised the weight of her literary knowledge and talent.

Helen had been too ill to write the column for the last half year. But we would like to run one last Book Return column as a tribute to her, with some favorite quips from former columns on a wide array of topics.

Media

Night-night, Nightline (March 14, 2002)

It's been a while since I lost sleep over a man. Lately, however, I've realized sleep is impossible before I've found out what Ted Koppel wants to talk about. For 20 years, Koppel has been encouraging us to think.

Taxes

GPPL is ready for a taxing situation (January 3, 2002)

Doing taxes is about as much fun as brushing a cat's teeth. Even so, while the rest of the world was celebrating the holidays, a few of you came to the library to find out when we'll put the tax stuff out . . . There's lots of information out there, brave souls. On the other hand, you could come to the aid of the economy by hiring an accountant. President Bush will thank you. Alan Greenspan will thank you. Most of all: your accountant will thank you.

Murder

Who's up for a cozy little murder? (April 18, 2002)

Spring in Michigan means a lot of rainy nights; possible thunderstorms! What better time for a cup of tea with a little light-hearted bloodletting on the side? . . . Some people work puzzles to relax. Murder gives the puzzle urgency. Cozy mysteries offer the comforts of fantasy in the guise of reality. Justice will be served, possibly with a recipe for cookies on the side.

Plastic bimbos

Barbie's in trouble again (May 30, 2002)

Early on the Wednesday morning before Memorial Day, a radio newscaster announced that Barbie is being confiscated from Iranian stores for, I quote, "her un-Islamic sensibilities." What? This was news to me. I mean to say, I have known that girl for years and — for a fact — she had no sensibilities whatsoever. She was too busy changing clothes. If you've been given a brain, use it. If you haven't, use whatever you've got.

GROSSE POINTE PUBLIC LIBRARY The Book Return

Sex and interlibrary loan

Inappropriate sex (now that I have your attention) (October 3, 2002)

The other day a newscaster announced that a certain politician admitted to having "inappropriate sex with a woman other than his wife." It distracted me from the rest of the news as I speculated on what might be inappropriate with his wife. What might be appropriate sex with a woman other than his wife? Librarians have been using jargon for years. Take for example the term "interloan."

Guilty pleasures

Guilty pleasures: Peek into private lives, letters (May 2, 2002)

The last taboo is reading someone else's private papers without their knowledge or permission. Nothing is worse than having our diaries or love letters broadcast to the world at large. If they're scandalous, we're reviled. If they're not, worse. We're boring. Diaries have been popular from Pepys to Bridget Jones.

Ethics

The good, the bad and the difference (January 2, 2003)

There are benefits to being flawed. I have a much easier time with the New Year than the near-perfect people. While they're ferreting about for a few good resolutions, I can rattle off a Top 10 list in less time than it takes to lose money in the stock market. I could opt to write a kinder, gentler column. But what fun would that be?

Canada and travel

Can you go home again? (November 29, 2001)

I love Canadians. For starters, I hear the cutest turns of phrase from them. They say things like "Don't be daft," and "Are you barking mad?" So I crossed the border yet again, looking forward to that engaging chitchat. Getting into Canada was easy — easily accepting my voter's registration card as a second ID and proof of citizenship. When she asked if we had any weapons, I said, "Not even a nail file. There is not much one can do with an emery board." My friends reminded me, later — please refrain from flippancy. Don't do as I do; do as I tell you. Adios and au revoir.

Goodbye Helen. The pearly gates have just become a much more literate and glamorous place. We will miss you.

— G.P. Central Library staff

Grosse Pointe North's baseball players line up to congratulate teammate Jon Zalenski after one of his two home runs in the Norsemen's 14-2 win over Grosse Pointe South.

Norsemen have a strong finish

Grosse Pointe North's baseball team had a strong start and an impressive finish in the Macomb Area Conference White Division this year.

Unfortunately, a lull in the middle of the year, was costly for the Norsemen.

"We lost three straight league games," said coach Frank Sumbera after North's 14-2 win over division champion Grosse Pointe South in the league finale for both teams. "That knocked us right out of the race."

South finished 11-3 in the MAC White, Utica Ford II was 10-4 and the Norsemen were third at 9-5.

The Blue Devils jumped ahead with a run in the top of the first inning on Drew Bedan's RBI single, but North came back with three runs in the bottom of the first.

A single by Adam Miller and a walk to Josh Lewis started the rally. The next two batters made outs, but Lawrence Briski drove in two runs with a single, and Zac Matthews followed with an RBI single.

North made it 8-1 with five runs in the second. Singles by David Shiell and Miller around a walk to Michael Kaiser loaded the bases. Lewis drove in two runs with a single and Jon Zalenski followed with a three-run homer.

"He really crushed that one," Sumbera said. "The cars four rows deep in the parking lot weren't safe."

South picked up a run in the third when P.J. Janutol singled and scored on a bases-loaded walk to Ben Schrode.

Zalenski hit his second homer of the game after a single by Kaiser in the third inning.

North capped the scoring with four runs in the fifth. Matthews homered after Briski reached base on an error. Xander Wagner doubled, Kaiser walked and Miller was hit by a pitch to load the bases. Lewis drove in one run with a sacrifice fly and the other one scored on a wild pitch.

Andrew Shanley and Jon Tibaudo combined on a two-hitter for North.

"We're hitting on all cylinders right now," Sumbera said. "Now we have to keep it up."

North finished the regular season with a 24-9 record.

North played Detroit Finney in a pre-district game. The winner was scheduled to play Detroit Kettaring at South at 10 a.m. Saturday, while the Blue Devils played Detroit King at noon. The district championship game will be at South at 3 p.m. Saturday.

North boys win league meet

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe North senior Dave Selak put quite an exclamation point on the end of his high school track career.

Selak, who wrapped up his career at the Michigan Interscholastic Track Coaches Association team state meet in Ypsilanti last weekend, posted personal records in both the shot put and discus.

"He capped off his senior season in tremendous fashion," said coach Dan Quinn. "It was his last opportunity and he certainly made the most of it."

Selak threw a personal record of 125-feet-1 in the discus. He then had a throw of 40-1 in the shot put, which was also a PR. It was also the best throw by a North shot putter in five years.

"We've been trying for a long time to get a 40-footer, and Dave did it at the last possible moment of his career," Quinn said.

North finished sixth, but Quinn was excited about the Norsemen's performance.

"We used this to prepare for the state meet (on Saturday at Rockford High School), and we had a good day," Quinn said.

Grand Rapids Forest Hills Northern was first, followed by Canton, Ypsilanti Lincoln, Pinckney and Saline.

Marcell Maxwell got a taste of state competition and finished third in the 100-meter dash with a time of 11.33.

"A run like that equates to about 11.0 for a hand-timed race, which is what Marcell had to do to win the regional the week before," Quinn said.

Quinn was encouraged by the performance of his middle distance runners. North's 3,200 relay team of Mario Sexton, Robbie Fisher, Mike Pokladek and John Bremer ran an 8:13.64, which is two seconds off the school record.

"It was a good meet for those guys because they were able to see some of the best runners in the state, and to get an idea of how close they are to breaking the record," Quinn said.

"They should have a solid chance of breaking it (at the state meet) if they run like they can."

State finalist Spencer Channel finished fourth in the discus with a throw of 138-3.

Earlier, North added the Macomb Area Conference Gold Division meet championship to the MAC Gold dual meet title that the Norsemen won with a 6-0 record.

North finished with 143.75 points to 134.75 for runner-up Marine City. Fraser was third with 85 points, followed by Marysville 73.75, Warren Woods-Tower 34, Lakeview 31 and Cousino 24.75.

"The boys ran well," Quinn said. "We were coming off a high point at regionals, and it is often tough to come back and run your best."

The Norsemen placed three runners in the 100, 1,600, 800 and 3,200 and won the 800 and 3,200 relays.

"It came down to a lot of the same issues as the dual meet—with Marine City," Quinn said.

Maxwell had an outstanding day. He won the 100 in 10.6, which was .05 off the school record, and he was first in the 200 in 23.3. He also anchored the winning 800 relay and was part of the second-place 400 relay team.

Maxwell, Robert Bailiff, who was second in the 100, and Cam Cecchini, who was sixth, all had PRs.

Fisher also won two events, and his 4:29.3 effort in winning the 1,600 run was the best ever by a North freshman.

"He outprinted a good senior runner (Fraser's Steve Cullen)," Quinn said. "Then he came back and had a nice race against Bremer and Cullen in the 800. They let him stay in the race and he was able to pull ahead of the veterans."

Steven Joseph was fifth, and Stefan Cross was sixth with a PR in the 1,600.

In the 800, Bremer was third and Nate Loree came in fifth for North.

Sexton won the 400 dash in 53.4 and Pokladek was third with a PR of 54.0.

Sexton, Bremer, Pokladek and Fisher won the 3,200 relay in 8:31.5, while the 800 relay team of Bailiff, Kevin Kwiatkowski, Cecchini and Maxwell had a winning time of 1:35.5.

Dan Minturn gave the Norsemen some important points with a third in the 200 dash.

North took three places in the 3,200 run. Cross was third, Joseph finished fourth and Eric Burton came in sixth with a PR.

The Norsemen's team of Bailiff, Kwiatkowski, Cecchini and Maxwell was second in the 400 relay, while the 1,600 relay team

North sending six individuals; two relays to girls state meet

Grosse Pointe North will have a good representation at this weekend's Division I girls track and field championships at Rockford High School.

Six individuals and two relay teams from North qualified out of the regional meet held at Grosse Pointe South.

The Norsemen finished a close second to the host Blue Devils in the team standings. South had 113 points to 109 for North.

The Norsemen won five regional championships.

Emily Schleicher, who was second in the pole vault, won the shot put with a throw of 34-feet.

Elise Nagel won the discus with a throw of 108-9.

North had a 1-2 finish in the 800-meter run. Melissa Anderson was first in 2:23.6, and Patty Winterfield was second in 2:24.2. Both times were personal records.

North's team of Winterfield, Anderson, Betsy Graney and Jennifer DeFauw won the 3,200 relay in 9:46, which was also a season-best. It was the second-best time in school history.

The Norsemen also recorded their best time of the season in winning the 1,600 relay in 4:15.5. Members of that team were DeFauw, Winterfield, Jessica Anderson and Melissa Anderson.

Graney qualified for the state meet with a second place time of 12:17 in the 3,200 run. It was also a PR for Graney.

DeFauw had a PR of 58.8 as she finished second in the 400 dash.

The top two finishers in each event qualified for the state meet.

North's Korene Jones and Jessica Anderson had third places in the hurdles. Jones had a PR of 17.0 in the 100 high hurdles, while Anderson ran a 50.7 in the 300 hurdles.

Christine Bourgeois was fourth in the discus with a personal-best throw of 103. Kelly Szymorski was fourth in the 3,200 run, and Cara Miserendino had a PR of 5:35 as she took fourth in the 1,600.

Sixth-place finishes came from Nagel in the shot put and Jones in the long jump.

North also had fine performances from Katie Horne, Danielle Hubler, Rebecca Pollard, Margaret Schichtle and Kelly Gallagher.

South girls stay perfect in lacrosse

Grosse Pointe South's girls lacrosse team picked up three more victories recently to improve to 9-0 in league play.

Pearce Pavle and Alexis Pavle each scored four goals in a 16-5 win over Grosse Pointe North.

In a 14-5 win over Cranbrook Kingswood, Casey Scavone and Allison Ambrozy had four goals apiece to lead the Blue Devils.

Ambrozy scored five goals, while Page Louisell and Pearce Pavle added three apiece in a 15-4 romp over Birmingham United.

Krystin MacConnachie, Kristin Inger and Natalie Relich led the Blue Devils' defense. Jessie Pogue was outstanding in goal.

South also competed in the Midwest Schoolgirls Lacrosse Association Tournament in Buffalo, N.Y., and the Blue Devils advanced to the championship game where they lost 10-7 to Mount Lebanon, Ohio.

Scavone, Alexis Pavle and Ambrozy scored two goals apiece and Jami Morris had one for South.

MacConnachie and Alexis Pavle made the Midwest all-tournament team.

South quickly advanced to the semifinals with wins against two Michigan teams.

In the semifinals, the Blue Devils beat previously-unbeaten Hathaway Brown from Cleveland, 9-8 in sudden death overtime.

Alexis Pavle scored the winning goal — her second of the game. Louisell, Pearce Pavle and Scavone also had two goals apiece and Anna Millich scored once. Ambrozy had four assists.

Maggie Collison hands off to Sam Mackenzie in the 1,600-meter relay. Collison also won the 1,600 run at the state team championship meet in Ypsilanti last weekend.

South girls fifth in state team track meet

Grosse Pointe South's girls track team finished fifth at last weekend's Michigan Interscholastic Track Coaches Association state team championship meet.

South's Maggie Collison won the 1,600-meter run. Collison pulled away from the field in the final 300 meters to win in 5:20.

Collison teamed up with Megan Zaranek, Liz Petit and Sarah Petit to place second in the 3,200 relay.

Freshman Sam Mackenzie gave the Blue Devils a second in the high jump.

Others placing in the top six were Kara Trowell and Kristen Morici in the long jump, Stephanie Royer in the pole vault, Christina Jacovides in the 100 hurdles, Jill McLaughlin in the 1,600, and McLaughlin, Kat Carmody and Jessica Palffy in the 3,200.

All three of South's sprint relays placed in the top five. Team members included Kelly Connor, Trowell, Morici, Mackenzie, Crystal Coates, Iris Alao, Michelle O'Donoghue and Julie Zaranek.

Others who did well in the state meet were Carly Czajka, Megan Smale, Sarah Dionne, Madelyn Mollison, Sam Carr, Sarah Hansen, Elsidia Konakciu, Mackenzie Whims, Leigh Wedenoja, Andrea Grunberger, Emily Franchett and Liz Baxter.

Blue Devils defeat Eisenhower to win outright MAC Red soccer championship

It was a day of firsts for Grosse Pointe South's girls soccer team when it beat Utica Eisenhower 2-0 in a Macomb Area Conference Red Division match.

The win clinched the outright division title for the Blue Devils, giving coach Gene Harkins his first conference championship. It was also South's first win over the Eagles since 2000.

The Blue Devils started slowly as both teams were tentative for the first 10 minutes, but after that South was in control.

Eisenhower coach Chris Corteg, who hadn't lost to South since he was coaching Stevenson, was effusive in his praise of the Blue Devils.

Corteg said that he "never saw a South team play so well, and, while I pulled out all the stops in my repertoire, it was to no avail."

The Blue Devils controlled the midfield with Whitney Cahill, Hilliary Inger, Jessica Leonard, Lauren

McLaughlin and Margi Scholtes. Liz Ridgway, Stephanie Kostiuik, Anne Cunningham and Laura Danforth made speedy attacking runs from both sides.

Defensively, the outstanding play of stopper Megan Switalski, sweeper Liz Galea, and defenders Sarah Stanczyk, Molly Burns and Kelly Springborn thwarted all of Eisenhower's offensive thrusts.

Goalkeeper Ali Morawski made 11 saves to earn her third shutout.

South's first goal was nullified by an offside call, but that provided only momentary relief for the Eagles.

The Blue Devils continued to press the attack, and Cunningham's perfect crossing pass was sent home by Ridgway with 12:36 to play in the first half.

It was Ridgway's team-leading 11th goal.

At halftime, Harkins praised his team for winning the 50-50 balls, playing the ball to the outside and beating the opponents physically. He correctly predicted that Eisenhower would change its formation for the second half, and alerted his players to make the necessary adjustments on defense.

Inger's line drive shot gave South its second goal 15 minutes into the second half. It came off an excellent pass from Kostiuik.

Also contributing to the victory were Lisa Repicky, Jessica and Jennifer Marsh, Greta Schaltenbrand, Jackie Madison, Jae March and Allison Fennell.

South finished 6-1-1 in the MAC Red and ended the regular season with a 11-5-1 record.

Norsemen suffer another tough loss

Grosse Pointe North's girls soccer team suffered another one-goal defeat in the Macomb Area Conference Red Division last week when ninth-ranked Stevenson beat the Norsemen 1-0.

The scoreless first half featured strong play by North in all areas of the field.

Alexa Kaminski challenged the Titans defenders from her striker position for much of the game, along with Erin MacLeod, Jill Kronner and Joyce Ann Mazzei.

Anna Staperfenne led the midfielders and received support from Melissa Carron, Rachel Zurek and Kelly Ritter.

Sarah Kurtz provided relief for the North starters.

In the MAC Red finale, the Norsemen dropped a 4-0 decision to Utica Ford II.

Since the match didn't affect the league standings, both coaches used it as a tuneup for state district play.

Trailing 4-0 at halftime, North coach Chip Stencel juggled his lineup in the second half in an attempt to spark the team.

Theresa Lleshaj saw her first varsity action in goal, allowing Betsy Schrage to spend some time at forward. Schrage has played so well in goal this year, that her field skills have been overlooked. Defenders Jeannie Taylor and Poletis also saw their first action at striker.

Megan Warren and Anna Alschbach played at stopper and midfield, respectively, in the second half.

HW diamond teams fall in tourney final

Harper Woods' girls softball team lost the Metro Conference Tournament championship game, falling 6-0 to Macomb Lutheran North.

It was North's 11th straight conference championship.

"We played poorly against a good team," head coach Carol Arthmire said. "North went at us. We didn't play well offensively or defensively in a big game."

The Mustangs scored three runs in the third inning to break open a close game.

Junior Maria Mahon suffered the loss, striking out eight, while junior Jade King had two of the Pioneers' five hits.

The Harper Woods softball team fell to 9-2 in the Metro Conference (both losses came to Lutheran North) and 16-6 overall.

The softball team reached the finals by beating University Liggett School 7-

4. "It wasn't pretty, but we won," Arthmire said. "It was tough playing in the rain and tough for both pitchers because the mound was very slick, but we were able to get a win."

Mahon struggled on the mound but picked up the win.

The host Pioneers trailed 3-0 before scoring six runs in the bottom of the fourth inning to regain control of the semifinal.

During the six-run outburst, the Pioneers had just two hits but benefited from three walks and three ULS errors.

Juniors Ann Marie Solomon and Sally Smolinski each had two hits, while junior Natalie Barranca had a run-scoring single in the fourth inning.

In the conference quarterfinals, the Pioneers beat Lutheran Westland 4-2 as Mahon struck out 15 and gave up only one hit to post the victory.

The Pioneers also played a nonleague game against Clawson last week, coming from behind to win 10-5.

"The girls don't quit," Arthmire said. "We seem to fall behind early in games, but the girls find a way to win."

Junior Bridget Wagner started, and Mahon pitched in relief, picking up the win.

Offensively, Solomon had two hits and five stolen bases, while Smolinski doubled twice and drove in two runs.

Arthmire's squad trailed 3-0 before exploding for seven runs in the bottom of the third inning to take the lead for good.

Coming up for the Pioneers is a Division III district tournament on Saturday, June 5, on their home field.

Baseball

The Harper Woods boys baseball team was upset in the Metro Conference Tournament championship game early last week, losing 5-1 to Rochester Hills Lutheran Northwest.

North

of Sexton, Pokladek, Will Utley and Bremer also was second.

David Klein, who tied for fourth in the high jump, was also fourth in the 110 hurdles.

Channel was fourth in the discus, while Selak was sixth with a PR.

Utley cleared 11-0 to finish fourth in the pole vault. In the MITCA state meet, Utley set a freshman record of 12-0.

"I'm excited about having a 12-foot freshman pole vaulter," Quinn said.

Other PRs for North came from Jacob Masinick, Selak and Jacob Nellis in the shot put, and DeAndre Henderson in the 110 and 300 hurdles races.

"We came out flat, and the guys never played with any enthusiasm," head coach DeAndre Cooper said. "We played so well a few days before, playing tough against tougher competition, but for some reason they didn't have the same passion against Northwest."

Senior Frank Pietrangolo pitched the first five innings, suffering the loss. The offense took the afternoon off as they collected only a few hits, and they struck out 12 times.

"He (Northwest's No. 1 pitcher) handed it to us not once, but twice this season," Cooper said. "We got lucky to beat him the first time we faced him, but he got the best of us today."

The loss dropped the Pioneers to 10-1 in the Metro Conference and 17-6 overall.

"We have to regain our focus before the state playoffs begin," Cooper said. "We can't play like this and expect to win."

Earlier, the Pioneers posted wins in the Metro Conference semifinals and quarterfinals, crushing Bloomfield Hills Cranbrook Kingswood 12-2 and Livonia Clarenceville 15-0, respectively.

"The guys want to be challenged because it makes them better ballplayers," Cooper said. "These kids enjoy playing baseball, and they want to win."

Junior James Slago earned the win against Cranbrook Kingswood, despite struggling with his control in the first inning.

"The ball was wet from the rain, but once he calmed down he was terrific," Cooper said.

The game was tied 2-2 after the first inning, but the host Pioneers put two runs on the board in the second inning and eight more in the third to make it a route.

Slago helped his own cause, getting two hits and two RBIs, while junior

North netters win Holly tournament

Grosse Pointe North's tennis team won three of the four singles flights in taking first place at the recent Holly Invitational.

However, the victory was a costly one for the Norsemen. Brandon Still, one of North's captains and a member of the No. 1 doubles team, suffered a serious knee injury in his second match of the day at No. 2 singles and had to retire.

Still easily won his first match and was winning his second when he was injured.

Robbie Barlow was the tournament champion at No. 1 singles, Michael Savalle won the third singles flight, and Robbie Sessions was the fourth singles champion. Sessions has lost only three matches all season.

ULS lacrosse team gets impressive win

A recent victory over Notre Dame had University Liggett School lacrosse coach Zac Hubbell smiling for several reasons.

"This was probably our most complete game so far this season," Hubbell said after the 12-10 win.

"This was an important win for us. We avenged the loss in the Grosse Pointe South tournament, plus this was a league game."

Joe Burchi had three goals and four assists to lead the Knights' attack. Tommy Russell, Adam Rock and Chris McGriff each scored two goals. Russell also had an assist.

Joey Cobb, Yash Prasad and Barré Mackie added a goal apiece.

Freshman Ryan Deane continued to play at a high level in goal, and he had 22 saves. Defensively, Greg Jones and Mike Giancarlo played well.

ULS played an undefeated East Lansing (15-0) squad and lost 7-1.

Russell scored the Knights' only goal, assisted by Burchi.

"We started out bad and were down 4-1 after the first quarter," Hubbell said.

"After that we settled down, and played them pretty well."

The ULS defense of Barret Young, Giancarlo and Jones held the Trojans' leading scorer to one goal.

"Mike Olsen also played very well in his first game at a new position," Hubbell said. "We switched him to a long-stick middle, and he played very well."

ULS turned in another fine performance in a 6-4 victory over L'Anse Creuse North.

"This was a very good game for us defensively," Hubbell said. "Greg Jones, Mike Giancarlo, Barret Young, Mike Olsen and Jack Gray all played very well on the defensive end."

The Knights held the Crusaders to 22 shots. Deane made 11 saves.

Hubbell said that Peter Altshuler and Mackie both played strong two-way games.

"All in all, it was a very strong effort for our team," Hubbell said. "We were able to shut them down, and control the ball near the end of the game when we needed to, and not let them back in the game."

Buhl's driver gains 10 spots to finish 15th at Indy

By Brad Lindberg
Staff Writer

An Indianapolis 500 winner and former Indy Racing League champion has compared the circuit's newest team owner to one of motor sport's living legends.

The compliment came from Buddy Lazier shortly before starting the 88th Indy 500 as a driver for Robbie Buhl's Dreyer & Reinbold Racing.

"Robbie is going to be excellent in his new role," said Lazier, winner of the 1996 500 and 2000 IRL series champ. "He reminds me a lot of Roger Penske."

Like Penske, Buhl drove race cars before retiring from the cockpit to become a full-time owner. Penske stopped driving in 1965 and led Penske Racing to its first of 13 Indys in 1972. Buhl, a Grosse Pointe Farms native, made the switch last month.

"I don't think Robbie fully grasps how much potential he has in his role," Lazier said.

Buhl handled race strategy last Sunday for Lazier's No. 91 LifeFitness DRR/Hemelgarn/Dallara/Chevrolet/Firestone.

Lazier started the race in 28th. He had a flat tire on the back straight, lost a lap, got it back and finished 23rd. He pulled out of the rain-shortened, 180-lap race on lap 164 with fuel system problems.

"We had a top-10 car," Lazier said. "The car was making intermittent noises down the backstretch for the last 15-to-20 laps, and the dash kept blinking."

Lazier joined Dreyer & Reinbold in May to drive the team's second car at Indianapolis.

Felipe Giaffone, a former IRL rookie of the year from Brazil hired in April to replace Buhl as the team's driver of the No. 24 Team Purex/Dreyer & Reinbold/Dallara/Chevrolet/Firestone, started 25th and finished one lap down in 15th.

"I missed our pit box on the next-to-last stop and had to go around another lap, which probably cost us three or four spots," Giaffone said. "I'm looking forward to the rest of the season."

Buhl joined at least six

As rain delays the start of the 88th Indianapolis 500, Robbie Buhl, above, reviews race strategy with driver Buddy Lazier in Dreyer & Reinbold Racing garage on Gasoline Alley. Discussion continues during team co-owners Buhl and Dennis Reinbold, right, during staging on the front straight. Lazier, winner of the 1996 Indy 500, was hired specifically to drive the team's No. 91 car for this year's race. The team's permanent driver, Felipe Giaffone, took over cockpit duties in May when Buhl retired from the No. 24 Team Purex/Dreyer & Reinbold/Dallara/Chevrolet/Firestone. Giaffone, top, speeds through turn one to finish 15th in Sunday's race. Lazier's day ended early with fuel system problems.

other drivers-turned-owners for this year's Indy. The list included Bobby Rahal, the retired 1986 Indy 500 winner whose driver, Buddy Rice, won this year's outing from the pole.

"We were strong," Rice said. "In racing, anything can happen, but this is great."

Michael Andretti, another former racer, fielded cars that finished second through fourth.

Buhl's former teammate (and employee) of last year, Sarah Fisher, finished 21st for Kelly Racing. As rain clouds camped around the Indianapolis Motor Speedway during a caution period late in the race, a fan tuned into Fisher's radio frequency and crooned "Singin' in the Rain," said race monitors.

"Fisher politely asked the fan to stop singing and hasn't heard from the fan since," according to an event summary.

Buhl drove eight consecutive Indy 500s before retiring. Sunday was his first race as a fulltime owner and team strategist.

"It's a new responsibility," Buhl said. "That's kept me concentrated and focused. I was thinking I'd have a little extra time this month to get caught up and spend more time with people. I've been as busy as ever."

"For me, it's excellent," Lazier said before the race. "It's like having two race car drivers' minds in one."

Buhl stopped driving to focus on building his team.

"I want this team to be competitive day-in, day-out and 10 years from now," Buhl said. "I have mixed emotions, but I don't have any regrets. If I had regrets, I wouldn't have made the decision."

"You can see a distinctive difference in the team in just the last several weeks," Lazier said. "They've stepped up. This team is growing. It's a team of the future. It's exciting to be part of it. This team is capable of winning this race."

Giaffone and his new teammates are adjusting to each other.

Jeff Dickerson, who spotted for Buhl during three seasons and is now assigned to Giaffone, sees a fundamental difference between the two drivers.

"Robbie was a lot smoother with the wheel than Felipe," Dickerson said. "Robbie drove the corners smooth. He didn't like to put a lot of input into the wheel."

Giaffone is more aggressive, requiring more handling of the steering wheel.

"There's different ways to skin the cat," Dickerson said.

In racing slang, Giaffone's "a gasser."

"He's a pro's pro," Dickerson said. "I don't think he's been comfortable with the car this whole month. But when the curtain went up for qualifying, he was on the gas. When it was time to go, he went."

As with many Indy crew members, Dickerson, 28, is from Indianapolis. He studied political science at a local college, but while still in high school started working for a neighbor who drove sprint cars.

"I washed the car," Dickerson said. A few years later, he was on the circuit "living the dream."

In addition to spotting for Buhl since 2000, Dickerson works for a company that manages race car drivers. He enjoys spotting but misses keeping an eye out for Buhl around the track.

"With Robbie, I didn't just want the team to succeed," Dickerson said. "I wanted Robbie to succeed."

Notre Dame's Jones, Dudley get spot in state track finals

By Bob St. John
Sports Writer

Notre Dame's Chris Jones and Alex Dudley qualified for the Division II state finals, which will be held this weekend.

Jones won the 110-yard high hurdles and the high jump with a time of 15.3 and a mark of 5-feet, 10-inches, and was second in the 300-intermediate hurdles with a time of 42.5 to get to the finals.

Alex Dudley was second in the 110-high hurdles with a time of 15.7.

"Chris and Alex have been in this spot before; so they know what it would take to get to the finals," head coach Stan Wegrzynowicz said. "All of our kids did a nice job, but only two of our guys made it through."

Pat Williams and Justin Bensett just missed making the finals after finishing third in the shot put and discus.

The top two in each event earned a spot in the June 5 state championship meet.

The Fightin' Irish's 800-yard relay team also came close to making the finals, placing third.

Aaron Gant also had a good meet, making the semi-finals of the 100- and 200-yard dashes.

The Irish finished fifth in the team standings with 55 points. Hazel Park was first with 98, followed by Detroit Central with 92, Detroit Renaissance with 63 and Center Line with 58.

Earlier in the week, the Irish earned a share of the Catholic League Double-A Division title, beating Detroit St. Martin dePorres by a forfeit.

"It was a rainy afternoon, and dePorres' coach finally called me and said that only half of his kids were ready for the meet," Wegrzynowicz said.

"It's a shame because we really wanted to run against a good team such as dePorres. We're happy with our share of the title."

The Notre Dame track and field team finished its season 5-0-1 in the Double-A

Lacrosse

Notre Dame's lacrosse team won one of its three recent games to end its regular season 5-11 overall.

"We played pretty well, and that is a positive sign even though our record isn't the best," head coach Kevin Coyro said.

The Notre Dame tennis team finished in the middle of the pack in the Division III regional tournament. St. Clair and Crosswell-Lexington were the only two teams that earned a spot in the finals, finishing with 30 and 18 points, respectively.

The Fightin' Irish were led by Bill Dokianos, Dan Krgovic, Marcus Bell, Jonathan Fells, Alex Strobehn, Dan Mlynarek, Mike Radke, Jeff Simmons, Eric Babecki, Brian Shea, Matt Babecki and Derek Jonston.

"We had a chance to win both of those games but fell short," Coyro said. "We have one week of practice before the state playoffs begin."

Tennis

The Notre Dame tennis team finished in the middle of the pack in the Division III regional tournament. St. Clair and Crosswell-Lexington were the only two teams that earned a spot in the finals, finishing with 30 and 18 points, respectively.

Baseball

The Notre Dame baseball team ended its longest losing streak in 14 years, beating Pontiac Notre Dame Prep 10-1 in the second game of a doubleheader.

The Irish lost the first game 7-2 as they stand at 9-22 overall.

Regina track and field team takes third place in regional

By Bob St. John
Sports Writer

Head coach Gregg Golden guided the Regina track and field team to one of its best-ever state regional finishes, placing third with 48 points. Last year the Saddlelites earned only 15 points in the same regional.

"It's the best season we have had here at Regina during my coaching tenure," Golden said.

Host Grosse Pointe South won the regional with 113 points and Grosse Pointe North was second with 109.

Liz Stone made the state finals for the Saddlelites, winning the high jump with a mark of 5-feet, 2-inches, and Sarah Frontczak made the finals by placing second in the long jump with a mark of 15-feet, 1 1/4-inches.

The 400-meter relay team of Sarah Moore, Anita Blount, Kellyn Mackerl-Cooper and Stone placed second with a time of 51.6 to earn a spot in the state finals.

Other placers were

Rhonda Crittle in the discus (sixth), Moore in the high jump (fifth), Ashley Couture in the long jump (sixth), Emily Delmotte in the high hurdles (fifth), Kiki Barkovic in the 400-dash (fourth) and Stone in the 200-dash (fourth).

Cheyenne Schultz, Xiomara Okonkwo, Katie Eisen, Renee Keefe and Blount also ran well in the 1,600-run, the 400-dash, the 400-dash, the 800-run and 200-dash.

The 3,200-relay team of Shaina Buhl, Keefe, Eisen and Barkovic placed fourth, while the 1,600-relay squad of Okonkwo, Barkovic, Stone and Couture was third.

"It's great that we were able to get several girls to the finals," Golden said. "We had a very good meet against some good competition."

Earlier in the week, the Saddlelites beat Farmington Hills Mercy 77-51, finishing second in the Catholic League Central Division with a 4-1 mark.

Dearborn Divine Child was the champ at 5-0.

"This was our best season by far in quite a long time," Golden said. "The girls have really come together, and it's not over yet."

Softball

Regina's softball team earned another spot in the Catholic League Central/Double-A Division playoff championship game after edging Livonia Ladywood 1-0.

"It wasn't pretty, but it was a win," head coach Diane Laffey said.

The game was scoreless until the bottom of the sixth inning when senior Melanie Dupont led-off with a walk.

She advanced to second on a passed ball and scored on a fielding error by the catcher and an error by the centerfielder.

"It was a weird way to win a game, but we will take it," Laffey said. "Neither team hit the ball, and the pitching was great. It is amazing that one run won the game."

The Regina softball team improved to 26-2 overall.

Soccer

The Regina soccer team ended its league schedule, losing 6-0 to the top-ranked squad in the state, Birmingham Marian.

"We played one of our best games of the season the first time we played them (a 1-0 loss), but the girls didn't have the same output this time around," head coach Matt Naidow said. "Marian hasn't lost this season, and I can see why. They are a very complete team."

The visiting Saddlelites nearly played Marian to a draw in the first half, thanks to an offense that generated several shots on net.

Marian made some adjustments at the half and outscored Naidow's squad 4-0 in the final 40 minutes.

"We can put our league season behind us and prepare for the state district playoffs," Naidow said.

The Regina soccer team finished 1-9-2 in the Catholic League Central Division and fell to 3-9-2 overall.

Golf

It took a few more days than anticipated to complete, but the Regina golf team finally finished its Division II regional tournament.

The tournament started on Friday, May 21, but heavy rains and lightning forced everyone off the course with three holes remaining.

Head coach Bob Artymovich and his Saddlelites finished their two holes on Monday morning, placing third with a season-low score of 381 to advance to the state finals.

"The girls have been playing their best golf of the season during the past couple of weeks," Artymovich said. "Now we will see what the girls can do at the state finals."

Dana Zak was fourth overall, earning all-regional honors with an 89.

The Saddlelites' other scorers were Courtney Kersich with a 94, Jenny Gwinn with a 96 and Katie McCarroll with a 102.

Earlier, the Saddlelites placed third in the Catholic League Tournament at St. John's Golf Course.

Livonia Ladywood won with a 356, followed by Farmington Hills Mercy at 362, Regina at 391, Pontiac Notre Dame Prep at 426, Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard at 430, Dearborn Divine Child at 444 and Madison Heights Bishop Foley at 503.

Kersich finished fifth overall, shooting a 90, while the rest of the scorers were Gwinn at 95, McCarroll at 102, Zak at 104, Katie Artymovich at 108 and Breanne Chodkiewicz at 110.

Trinity track and field runs well in state regional meet

By Bob St. John
Sports Writer

A dozen members of Trinity Catholic's boys and girls track and field team earned a trip to this weekend's Division IV state championship meet.

"Our kids had a really good meet," head coach Michelle Batten said. "I'm happy with our results, and now we have to practice for another week so we can try and win some medals at the state finals."

The Lancers' boys team finished second with 84.33 points, while New Lothrop won with 110.33 points in a regional meet hosted by Webberville.

Ron Hildreth made the state finals, placing second in the high jump, clearing 5-feet, 10-inches by using the old-fashioned scissor-kick method.

Lance Caldwell made the finals by winning the long jump and 400-meter dash, posting a mark of 18-feet, 8 1/4-inches and a time of 54.3.

Caldwell was also a member of the 1,600-relay team that made the finals, along with Shannon Scott, Nick Jones and Kyle Williams, who placed second with a time of 3:43.

Quentin Washington also made the finals in the 100-dash, finishing third with a qualifying time of 11.4.

The 800-relay squad of Washington, Greg Frye, Jamal Gause and Ernest Cornelius made the finals with a time of 46.9 (second place), while the 400-relay quartet of Washington, Frye, Cornelius and Terrence Johnson made the big meet by taking second with a time of 46.9.

Others who came close to making the finals were Williams in the 400-dash; Jones in the 300-intermediate hurdles; Washington in the 200-dash; Cornelius in the 200-dash; and Ahmad Gause in the discus.

The girls finished fourth with 39 points. Lutheran Northwest won with 124 points, followed by New Lothrop with 88 and Burton-Atherton with 73.

Krystle Wilson made the finals, winning the 100-dash with a personal best time of 12.4 and the 200-dash with a personal best time of 25.9.

"Krystle had a very good meet for us," Batten said. "We didn't get the results we were looking for, but overall all of our kids did a nice job." Annica Brown was third in the discus with a throw of 96-feet, 11-inches and was third in the shot put with a personal best throw of 32-feet, 9 3/4-inches.

Lauren Franklin was sixth in the 100-high hurdles with a time of 19.8, while Margarie Washington was eighth in the 200-dash with a time of 30.1.

The foursome of Tierra Lodge, Franklin, Washington and Wilson finished fourth in the 800-relay and fifth in the 400-relay.

Earlier in the week, the boys earned a share of the Catholic League Double-A Division title by blasting Madison Heights Bishop Foley 100-9, and the girls followed suit, winning 68-41.

"It's always nice to win a division title," Batten said. "The boys and girls worked hard to achieve their success."

Softball

The Trinity Catholic girls softball team is taking a breather before beginning the important stretch run.

"We need to pick up a few nonleague games before the districts start," head coach Julie Becker said. "The girls need to play a little more consistently if we're to win a district title."

The Trinity Catholic softball team is 11-9 overall.

Baseball

The Trinity Catholic boys baseball team beat Detroit Finney 5-2, improving to 9-12 overall.

"The kids played a good game after losing a couple of tough ones," head coach Larry Geromin said.

Senior Joe Williams earned the win, striking out 13 and giving up only one hit in seven innings.

"We need to get on a little roll as the state playoffs begin," Geromin said.

Soccer

The Trinity Catholic/Detroit Dominican girls soccer team blasted Bloomfield Hills Jewish Academy 8-0.

It was the Lancers' largest margin of victory in more than a decade, and the win ended the squad's Catholic League schedule on a positive note.

"The girls played their best game of the season," head coach Al Velasco said. "All of the girls are doing the little things they weren't doing earlier in the season."

Notre Dame track continues to cruise

By Bob St. John
Sports Writer

Notre Dame's track and field team inched closer to sharing a division title, beating Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard 90-38.

"Our kids have improved a lot during the season, and today they had a pretty good meet against a team that lacked numbers," head coach Stan Wegrzynowicz said. "We had a much larger team, which helped us earn some points because Gabriel Richard didn't have the kids to fill some of the slots."

Chris Jones and Alex Dudley tied for first place in the high jump, clearing 5-feet, 8-inches, while Jonathan Denys won the long jump, and Justin Bensett placed third.

Pat Williams was first in the shot put, and Bensett set a personal best with a throw of 124-feet, 11-inches to win the discus.

Quentin Trotter was second in the discus, and Dudley took first place in the 110-yard high hurdles.

Jones won the 100-yard dash with a time of 11.8, followed by Aaron Gant and Vince Mazzocco took second in the 1,600-yard run with a time of 5:10.

The 800-yard relay team of Paul Nielson, Troy Mitchell, DeRon Gordon and Martin won, as did the 400-relay squad of Matt McDaniel, Jones, Gant and Terry Brown.

Martin was first in the 400-dash, and Mark Winfield was first in the 300-intermediate hurdles.

Other top performances were turned in by Max Mattei (second in the 300-hurdles), Denys (third in the

The 1,600-relay team won a photo finish as Denys, Bensett, Paul White and Dudley were one step ahead of the Gabriel Richard quartet.

"That 1,600-relay was close through the entire race," Wegrzynowicz said. "Each of the four runners never had a lead of more than a foot or two. It was that close."

Lacrosse

The Notre Dame lacrosse team played its worst game of the season, losing 13-1 to rival Pontiac Notre Dame Prep in a Catholic League playoff semifinal.

"We were horrible in every phase of the game, and that showed in the final score," head coach Kevin Coyro said. "We fell behind early (4-0 after five minutes) and never could get into the game. The guys weren't focused from the start, and that was a disappointing finish to our Catholic League schedule."

The loss dropped the Fightin' Irish to 4-9 overall.

"The guys have to get back the edge they lost against Prep," Coyro said. "We're a much better team than we showed today."

South softball gets a pair of victories

Elise Baksis turned in a pair of strong pitching performances recently as Grosse Pointe South's softball team won twice in the Macomb Area Conference White Division.

Baksis pitched a four-hit shutout in the Blue Devils' 2-0 win over L'Anse Creuse.

Sara Crandall and Jenny Evans hit RBI singles for South, while Colleen Buckley, Stacey Ash and Katherine Buchholz also contributed singles.

Baksis allowed only two hits in South's 4-2 win over Utica Ford II.

The Falcons tied the game in the bottom of the sixth inning but the Blue Devils broke the deadlock with a pair of runs in the top of the seventh.

Singles by Kara Peters and Crandall and a walk to Kristen Caretti loaded the bases. Mary Kate Peltz singled home Peters, and Crandall scored when Buchholz reached base on an error.

Baksis retired Ford in order in the bottom of the seventh.

Crandall finished with three hits and two RBIs.

Earlier, South dropped a 5-3 decision to Anchor Bay.

The Blue Devils scored all of their runs in the first inning. Peters led off with a double, and Buckley, Caretti and Ash followed with RBI singles.

In a 15-5 loss to Fraser, Buckley, Crandall, Buchholz and Evan had two hits apiece for South.

ULS baseball shows much improvement

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Dan Cimini didn't know what to expect from his University Liggett School baseball team when the season started.

"We won one game in the Metro Conference last year, so I thought it would be a great accomplishment if we could finish 500 in the league," Cimini said.

"We won two of our three games in the Metro Conference tournament, so we finished fourth in the tournament and had a 6-5 record in the league."

ULS wrapped up the league tournament with a 7-5 win over Lutheran North. Mike Posby pitched a four-hitter and struck out 13.

Antonio Evangelista had two hits and four RBIs, while Jonathan Wright and Posby also had two hits apiece.

"We beat (North) twice this year after not beating them at all in about 10 years," Cimini said.

Wright and Posby were both selected to the all-conference first team, while Evangelista was a second-team selection.

Wright batted .430 and was 17-for-17 in stolen base attempts. Posby was 4-1 in the Metro and had a 2.00 ERA. He struck out 56 in 32 innings.

Evangelista led ULS with a .436 batting average and was also valuable behind the plate.

"His leadership behind the plate was so important," Cimini said. "He was so good with our pitchers the way he blocked balls and framed the pitches."

ULS took an 11-10 record into this week's district play. "One of the bright spots is the way the pitchers came on at the end, and they're so young," Cimini said. "I'm so excited about the future."

Griesbaum school opens on June 15

The third Dan Griesbaum Baseball School will be held at the Defer Elementary School fields beginning June 15.

There will be a general skills session from June 15 through 17. Specialty schools for hitting, pitching and catching will be held on June 23 and 24, and June 28-29.

Each of the sessions will run from 9 a.m. until noon.

The camp is open to players between the ages of 8 and 17.

Griesbaum, who has been the head varsity baseball coach at Grosse Pointe South for 21 seasons, and Matt Reno, who was an assistant at South for four years and has coached youth baseball for 18 seasons, are the co-directors of the school.

The objective of the school is to provide detailed instruction in the fundamentals of baseball by teaching proper mechanics in a safe and positive atmosphere.

The emphasis will be instructional, not recreational.

Enrollment will be limited in order to maintain a proper instructor-student ratio.

The registration fee for the general skills school is $110. The fee for the specialty schools is $85.

Registration forms have been mailed to last year's students. They are also available at the main office at South or by contacting Griesbaum at (313) 884-7834 or Reno at (313) 886-5537.

All players must pre-register. No registration will be accepted on camp day.

Pioneers-

Bryan Mueller had two hits and three RBIs.

Other standouts were Pietrangelo and Jesus Melendez.

In the Clarenceville game, Jake Bertges earned the win, giving up only one hit in the three-inning mercy win, and hit a home run to go along with his four RBIs.

Alex Curcuro was 2-for-3 with five RBIs, including a three-run homer.
