'Butch' was a mentor, boss and friend

11, the loss is being felt by the many employees at the newspaper, including me, who respected and enjoyed working with him.

I will never forget the day in September 1988 when I drove to the Grosse Pointe News offices on "The Hill" to interview for a reporter's position. I had just returned from a two-year stint in Atlanta working on newspapers there.

We had gone to Atlanta because of a lucrative per diem position my wife had secured with General Motors. Mr. Edgar's first question was, "If your wife gets sent somewhere else, will you be going too?" I assured him that would not be the case.

In fact, when Terry was sent to do the Saturn start-up in Tennessee, I remained at the Grosse Pointe News, and we took turns flying back and forth on weekends.

I have experienced many ups and downs throughout the nearly 20 years since I first started at the Grosse Pointe News, but one constant had always been Mr. Edgar, who preferred

Now you see it; now you don't.

That is the impression that many visitors to the Village shopping district may have felt, as it took only days to level the old Jacobson's parking garage behind Kercheval Place.

The mass of rubble will be removed soon and construction of a new garage to accommodate shoppers at Trader Joe's will begin. It is scheduled to be completed by the end of the year.

To that end, City Manager Peter Dame unsealed six bids on May 14 for the $3.6 million

Woods, Shores, Park eye alternative sources of water

By John Lundberg

A water rate increase has three area communities "dead serious" about severing their ties with Detroit's water system.

A new model contract presented to communities served by the Detroit Water and Sewerage Department has Grosse Pointe Shores and Woods officials investigating tying into Grosse Pointe Farms Water Plant, said Mike Kenyon, Shores village manager.

He added that Grosse Pointe Park City Manager Dale Krajniak is investigating the feasibility of the Park constructing its own water system. Krajniak could not be reached by press time.

The Park cannot tie into the Farms because of the distance between the two communities, Kenyon said.

◆ WOODS PASSES NEW BUDGET: The Grosse Pointe Woods city council approved its 1957-58 budget of $946,441, representing a $21,000 increase in spending over last year.

The increase will not require a tax hike, as the monies are being made up through miscellaneous revenue.

◆ GARAGE BURGLARS PLAGUING POLICE: Police are looking for suspect(s) in the burglary of three garages reported in the past week.

It's not the robberies that have the police most confused, but the items reported stolen. The list includes a fertilizer spreader, 10 window screens and the carburetor and gas tank from a lawn mower. The burglaries all occurred in Grosse Pointe Farms.

◆ TEMPERS FLARE AT WOODS COUNCIL MEETING: Members of the Grosse Pointe Woods city council engaged in some heated discussion at their last meeting after residents of Roslyn, Hampton and Anita implored the council to give their streets priority in this year's paving program.

Councilman Rex Johnston became "incensed" after being called out of order by Mayor Kenneth Koppin and tore his agenda in two saying it "wasn't worth anything."

A spokesman for the residents said their streets were in "deplorable condition" with many potholes. Residents claim that stones are constantly tossed on their yards by passing cars, with some stones sent airborne with enough force to break house windows.

Thirty-one residents from Grosse Pointe Farms sent a signed letter of protest to the Grosse Pointe Farms mayor and city council objecting to relocating the Joy Bells to the Hill business district.

Earlier, the Farms city council approved relocating the old Pointe landmark from its current site on the corner of Grosse Pointe Boulevard and Moross to Grosse Pointe South High School's athletic field. Chief among resident's concerns was the protection of the bells from potential vandals.

◆ STRAY DOGS ON LOOSE IN PARK: Stray dogs have been coming into Grosse Pointe Park since Detroit installed large trash containers in city alleys to ward off the animals. The dogs were commonly a presence in Detroit on trash day, and now come into the Park in search of food.

Park officials are considering copying Detroit's program.

The amendment would restrict the number of video games at five to any video gaming parlor.

What's going on with Sunrise?

By Bob St. John
Staff Writer

Rumors are flying concerning Sunrise Senior Living and Grosse Pointe Woods officials.

Woods councilman Pete Waldmeir is upset with Sunrise, suggesting that it is trying to pay its way into getting its third project in Grosse Pointe Woods approved by donating money to purchase a roof for the Cook Schoolhouse and a contributing $20,000 toward the purchase of a new ambulance for the city.

The allegations have prompted an investigation that is delaying the project.

Sunrise recently had its site plan approved by the Woods Planning Commission by a 5-2 vote. Sunrise officials are waiting to get a use variance approved by the city's Zoning Board of Appeals.

If that is approved, the project will be ready to roll.

"I was informed by our city administrator Mark Wollenweber that this commitment had been made by Sunrise, but that it couldn't be revealed until after the Sunrise deal had been approved or denied," Waldmeir said. "I welcome any investigation into our involvement or Sunrise's involvement in these offers which I find improper if made."

City attorney Don Berschback said Sunrise has not given Grosse Pointe Woods a dime toward either the roof or ambulance.

"Gene Tutag approached me, totally on an act of good faith, asking if we would donate some money for the roof, but I told him it wasn't a good time to do this with the project hanging in the wind," said Laura Hester, Sunrise Senior Living senior vice president of development. "The conversation lasted a few seconds and that was that. Mr. Tutag was fine with my answer and we went about our business."

"We're good citizens and would like to help out the city, but now is not the right time."

Woods City Administrator Mark Wollenweber said Sunrise and the city held a brief discussion about the business donating $20,000 to purchase a new cedar shake roof for the renovated Cook Schoolhouse and $20,000 toward a new ambulance.

Mother coyote, pups removed

A female coyote and her six pups were captured from under a backyard deck near the Country Club of Detroit on Friday, May 11.

Farms resident P.J. Vlahantones said members of the Michigan Humane Society Varmint Police captured the animals after his wife discovered the coyotes at her parent's house the day prior.

"My wife went over there with our poodle," he said. "She became suspicious when the dog wouldn't stop barking. She saw the mother jump the back fence and she grabbed the dog."

Vlahantones went back that night and heard a squeaking sound coming from under the deck. He called the varmint unit and they were able to trap the mother and pups.

Vlahantones was informed by the unit that the animals would be released somewhere in the western half of the state.

"I know a person whose dog was killed by a coyote," he said. "We can't have these coyotes in the Grosse Pointes."

Coyote sightings have been common in the area for the last several months. There have been reports of domestic animals being attacked by the wild animals.

Earlier this year, after failed attempts by the Varmint Police to capture the animals, public safety officers have been ordered to use lethal force against them.

Trustees considering leasing admin space

By Beth Quinn
Staff Writer

Acting on its promise to explore all options to preserve the Central branch's Marcel Breuer legacy, library board trustees recently discussed leasing space long term in a new office/community building Grosse Pointe Park is considering building in front of the Ewald branch library on Jefferson.

According to Park city manager Dale Krajniak, the city discussed with library Director Vickey Bloom, Board President Laura Bartell and At-Large Trustee Ed Frederickson the possibility of moving some of the library's administrative and technical services to the new building.

The ground level would be used as a community center with a lecture hall, galleries and a large atrium for multi-purpose functions.

"We offered the library use of the upper floor of the building so they can maximize the space at Central for community services and mitigate their capital costs," Krajniak said.

He sees it as a win-win situation for all involved.

"It makes sense for both sides," Krajniak said. "It would help facilitate for more space for the library and for the Park."

According to the library's building committee's Web log, this idea shows promise.

"The Central branch is located on a small piece of property. The property is already fully utilized by either the present building or parking. Because the plan is to expand the overall square footage — regardless of whether the current building is used or replaced — any savings from transferring services to another branch or building will ease the overall space concerns. And, since expanding the building size means decreasing parking space, if that expansion can be limited, the parking issues will be easier to solve."

Bloom said the idea warrants further consideration. She agrees that administrative and processing departments which don't normally interact with the public do not need to be located in the libraries.

She added while she did like the proposed building's close proximity to the Ewald branch, she would continue her practice of spending a few hours every week working at the reference desks at each of the three libraries.

"I don't have a problem with administrative offices being located off site, especially if it frees up something like 10,000-square-feet and not mess with the design of Central," Bloom said.

Police 'save life' of Detroit mother

By John Lundberg
Staff Writer

The 911 calls routed to the City of Grosse Pointe police dispatch were frantic.

At 7:11 a.m. Wednesday May 9, a 7-year-old girl living in the 5000 block of Radnor in Detroit reported that her mother was being stabbed repeatedly and needed help.

City of Grosse Pointe police, whose normal policy is not to respond to Detroit runs, made an exception. Their efforts "probably saved the life of the girl and her mother," said Jim Fox, director of public safety.

The 911 calls were routed to the city because the girl was using a cell phone, Fox said. Police relayed the call to Detroit and decided to act when they became alarmed about the desperation of the calls.

When police arrived, they witnessed a "heavily intoxicated" 43-year-old man sitting shirtless on the front porch. He had a knife in his hand and blood stains were observed on his stomach.

He was ordered to drop the weapon and he complied. Detroit police now have him in custody.

Police entered the dwelling and found the mother inside suffering from multiple stab wounds. She was transported to an area hospital for treatment.

The girl was uninjured. "We're very happy that the child had the presence of mind to call 911," said Det. Ron Wiczorek. "Otherwise, someone would have been killed."

Fox said the officers, Sgt. John Alcorn, and officers J.P. Cormier and Dan Eckert will receive commendations for their response to the crisis.

City to buy new stage for fireworks

This year's entertainers performing for the annual Grosse Pointe Woods fireworks display will have a brand new stage to use.

The city will purchase the new Century MSM2800 "Showmaster 2000 Series" mobile showmaster stage from Century Industries for $87,167.

However, $25,000 of the cost will come from the fireworks fund, leaving the city to pay $62,167.

Mayor Robert Novitke and city councilmembers voted 5-2 in favor of the purchase. Darryl Spicher and Dona DeSantis-Reynolds voted "no."

"I think we should wait a year and then bring this issue up again," DeSantis-Reynolds said. "With this tough economy, I think we shouldn't spend this money."

Spicher concurred, saying it's too much to spend for something that is used only a handful of times a year.

"My concern is our funding this stage at this time," Spicher said. "I want to see us get concrete figures for our bond before we spend more money."

"We would like to have it (the stage) in place because our fireworks are coming up," Novitke said. "We feel it is a good investment to the city."

Director of Public Works Joe Ahee sent a letter to city administrator Mark Wollenweber, saying he is in favor of the purchase because the current stage has "deteriorated to an unsafe condition with rusting framework, making ongoing use dangerous."

The city purchased the unit from St. Clair Shores several years ago.

"I have seen the stage and it is not in good condition," Ahee said. "Using it could lead to a catastrophe."

"I'm in full support of a safe, nice-looking stage for us to use," Woods Mayor Pro-Tem Al Dickinson said.

The city would sell the old unit and rent the new one to neighboring communities for $250 per day.

To be human is to connect to others with the intertwined concepts of love and truth.

Farms resident Elizabeth Nye Carpenter, an artist who is fighting cancer, is a religious and incredibly courageous woman who has given solace to herself and reached out to others with prayer, photography and writing.

She has transformed her suffering into healing, and in the process, she has expressed the common human reality of hardship being made into recovery and affection.

"When I write about my experience and pain, I make it universal. To be human is to feel these emotions. You are frightened. You are weary. It's part of the human condition," she said.

Carpenter has been a local and international photographer for more than two decades. She has created Grosse Pointe postcards, posters and calendars as well as Web site images for both the Grosse Pointe Chamber of Commerce and University Liggett School.

One of her great photographic loves has been her work at the medieval Lincoln Cathedral, in Lincoln, England. Starting in 1989, she has taken crisp and supple pictures of every facet of the church which have been included in a widely admired cathedral guidebook.

In the late 1990s, she focused on Roman frieze in the façade of the cathedral. The cathedral is currently planning to publish a book of her photos with added commentary by art experts.

Carpenter said while taking pictures of the cathedral she often closed her tripod and gazed out at the awe-inspiring structure.

Its mesmerizing beauty would touch her and she said she would recite psalms to herself.

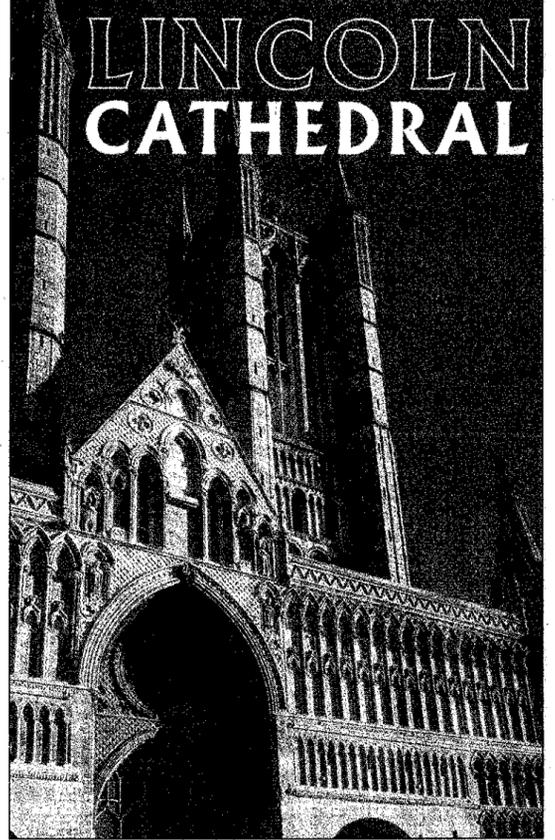

In 2003, Carpenter came back from the Lincoln Cathedral and was diagnosed with cancer.

She went through a painful treatment regimen, to much of which she was allergic. She said she felt depleted emotionally and physically. Yet as has been a characteristic of hers throughout her life, she employed her imagination while in St. John's hospital and beyond to overcome her ordeal.

Feeling terrified at St. John's, Carpenter said she prayed for others and with her mind, she transposed the view from her hospital window into a fertile and bucolic European vista. Medical staff were heartened at her feat of visual imagination.

During further treatment, Carpenter began to ponder phrases of words based on haiku to distract herself from anguish.

"It required intense concentration. You've got to move your mind from the pain. I got through one line and dozed off and would wake up two hours later and I started working again," she said. "I wanted to honor my caregivers and my God."

The completed poem reads: "Sun singed wings fail/Oh such beauty/to be dashed to ground yet/ settled into angels' hands."

While still being treated, Carpenter wrote more poems and keeps a special notebook where she writes.

"I will be lying in bed thinking, and I get out of bed and write," she said. "I will work it until I know it's right."

Rep. McCotter to address Eastside Republican Club

Rep. Thaddeus McCotter will be guest speaker at the Eastside Republican Club Political Action Committee annual fundraiser at 6 p.m. Wednesday, May 30, at Sindbad's in Detroit.

The fundraiser is to benefit local candidates.

Rep. McCotter represents the 11th District of Michigan, a suburban district of Detroit that includes portions of western Oakland and western Wayne counties.

As a 30-year resident of Livonia, McCotter has represented portions of the 11th

Rep. Thaddeus McCotter

District for more than a decade, first as a Schoolcraft Community College trustee, a Wayne County commissioner, a Michigan state senator, and now as the District's U.S. Representative.

In November 2006, McCotter was elected by his colleagues to serve as chairman of the Republican House Policy Committee, a leadership position once held by former President Gerald Ford. McCotter also serves on the House Foreign Affairs Committee and the House Budget Committee.

Elected in 2002 to the 108th Congress, McCotter serves on the International Relations Committee, Committee on Small Business and the Budget Committee. McCotter's leadership experience and legislative record led to his appointment as an assistant majority whip.

In the Michigan Senate, McCotter served as the assistant majority floor leader, and earned a reputation as a tax-cutting, fiscal conservative.

In 1999, the Senate majority leader appointed McCotter to chair the Senate law revision task force where his work helped to repeal more than 50 arcane Michigan laws.

Prior to becoming a State Senator, McCotter was elected in 1992 to the Wayne County Commission, where he was the driving force behind an amendment that required approval by two-thirds of commissioners to put a new tax on the ballot, and 60 percent voter approval to pass the tax.

McCotter has received numerous awards for his leadership and legislative achievements, including the "Legislator of the Year" award from the "Police Officers' Association of Michigan, the "Municipal Achievement" award from the Michigan Municipal League, the "Outstanding Michigander" award from the Michigan Jaycees, and Crain's Detroit Business named McCotter to its 1995 "40 Under 40" list of prominent local figures under 40 years of age.

He is a graduate of Redford's Catholic Central High School. Reservations are required. For more information, visit the Web site Eastside-Republican-Club.org, or call Tom McCleary at (313) 882-2709.

CARPENTER: Photographer is going places

Many of Carpenter's poems are associated with photographs. She has experimented with her photos, making identical pictures into different ones with a rainbow of colors. Caron Wagoner of Speedi Photo helped to make the photos into a colorful spectrum. Flowers comprise some of the photos with verse.

A particularly inventive and beautiful photo and poem is one of pink trees. Details of bark and branches combine with a subtle and meaningful poem. The poem reads:

"Great hart (a deer) wood holes/Mindful such giant seeks, lifts you/ Be shouldered by Him awhile."

Carpenter said she is being healed by her artistic work and believes others have found a respite in it, too.

In addition to being grateful for her medical help and her religious faith, she is glad that people from her family and Grosse Pointe residents have been able to help her. Though she lives alone and says she often feels scared, she has cherished the support of her twin sister, Margaret, her sister-in-law, Lynn, and her niece and nephew, Carrie and Steven.

Carpenter attends church every day, whether it is at her home church, Grosse Pointe Memorial, or Catholic churches in the area.

She says Pointe residents at these churches are very welcoming and have assisted her greatly.

Carpenter has lived in Grosse Pointe since she was a child. Her love of photography began after she worked for Hudson's for more than a decade. She decided photography could reflect beauty in the world.

Her concomitant penchant for writing began as a youth and continued throughout her education at ULS and Wellesley College.

Though she has never taken a poetry class, she has written

Robert G. Edgar

With the passing of Grosse Pointe News Publisher Robert G. Edgar, one week ago, the Grosse Pointe community not only lost a business leader, it also lost a stalwart supporter, defender and devoted friend.

Mr. Edgar, 75, died peacefully Friday, May 11, at home with his wife, Michele, at his bedside. We believe that while he died much too soon, he accomplished all he desired and left this community and world a better place for his having been a part of it.

"Butch," as most of his friends and colleagues knew him, was born Sept. 12, 1931, to Robert B. Edgar and his wife, Geraldine Grinnell in Scranton, Pa. They moved to Grosse Pointe in 1936. Butch's father was a journalist in Pennsylvania and was eager to resume a similar career in his new community. In 1940, with the financial support of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore D. Buhl, the Grosse Pointe News was founded. Its debut issue, Vol. 1 No. 1, was Nov. 7, 1940.

Robert B. Edgar editor, general manager and publisher, founded the paper, and it became the Grosse Pointe community's "paper of record," which it remains to this day. Unfortunately, the newspaper's founder died of cancer in 1979 at the age of 74.

At the time of his father's death, Mr. Edgar, a staunch Dartmouth alumnus, was already a successful businessman, commercial property owner and Realtor. For decades he ran his own real estate agency, R.G. Edgar & Associates, at 114 Kercheval on The Hill in Grosse Pointe Farms. He later merged with Johnstone & Johnstone Realtors and was active in real estate until his death.

Following the death of his father, Butch added "publisher" to his list of titles and responsibilities. It was not as if the newspaper business was unfamiliar to him, however. He actually grew up delivering the Grosse Pointe News door to door before the dedicated Grosse Pointe mail carriers took over the task. After school and during summers until he graduated from Grosse Pointe High School in 1949 and while home from Dartmouth, he worked in virtually every department at the Grosse Pointe News. While in the Army, he edited a West Point Military Academy newspaper in New York.

The easy route for any publisher to take is the popular path, but journalism is not a popularity contest. Often, doing the right thing means standing in opposition to majority opinion at the risk of losing subscribers and advertisers. It takes great courage for a publisher to take a stand when profits and readers are on the line. Mr. Edgar was a man of courage.

His mettle was tested when the Grosse Pointe News backed the school board and superintendent's decision in 1983 to close four elementary schools due to plummeting enrollment. The entire community was divided over the issue. As Mr. Edgar once recalled, "The entire town was against us."

A product of the Grosse Pointe Public School System from kindergarten through 12th grade, he was a passionate advocate for excellence in education. On June 11, 1984, the school board — and the Grosse Pointe News — was soundly vindicated when voters by a 2-1 margin rejected a recall attempt and supported the closing of Barnes, which today serves as a community education and early childhood center.

More recently, Mr. Edgar's leadership was again tested with the paper's opposition to the original Kercheval Place development plan for the former Jacobson's site in the Village commercial district of the City of Grosse Pointe. Many believe that had the Grosse Pointe News not come out early and forcefully in opposition to the original proposal, City of Grosse Pointe taxpayers would have been saddled by an onerous tax burden for decades.

Mr. Edgar's legacy to the community is his commitment to excellence. He left us with a quality newspaper due largely to his stewardship. His father would be proud. It is our goal to continue this legacy and maintain the Grosse Pointe's "paper of record" for decades to come.

North revisited

We had planned to print a detailed rebuttal of the letters last week from the Harper Woods and Grosse Pointe North High School administrators. Needless to say, more important matters captured our attention.

Nevertheless, we will continue to monitor the situation at the high school.

Grosse Pointe acceptance

To the Editor:

I am writing today in response to the May 3 Grosse Pointe News article "H.W. Students attack North" and the related editorial, "North incident tests schools, police" (May 3 Grosse Pointe News), that brought race into the equation.

I am a Grosse Pointe resident of eight years and I am black. I do not refer to myself as African American, as my ancestors immigrated to the United States in the 1840s from Europe — much before most of my neighbors. So, I guess I should be referred to as European American.

Having lived in seven different cities during my adult life, I can unequivocally state that in our experience Grosse Pointe is by far the most un-accepting.

I was new and unfamiliar with the area when I registered our children in the school system, when there I was asked by a school employee "Where in Harper Woods I lived?" It wasn't until later I realized why I was asked this question. Many times people have drawn the conclusion that we were either "non residents" sneaking into the schools or we lived in Harper Woods.

During the recent school wide re-enrollment, my children were asked on many occasions, twice by teachers, "if they would still be attending school here after the re-enrollment." The fact is that many blacks that attend our schools are residents of Grosse Pointe and not Harper Woods.

It was clear that many people that were pushing this re-enrollment were doing so to purge the blacks from the schools.

I pay almost $10,000 per year in city taxes and I do not want non-residents attending our schools. I can also say that of all my children's friends, most of whom are white, it is the ones from Harper Woods — both Harper Woods and Grosse Pointe North students — who are the most polite, intelligent, unpretentious and well-mannered young people.

When we moved into our home several other homes on our block unexpectedly went for sale. It was later confirmed, by our remaining neighbors, that this was indeed "white flight." And, on at least three occasions, the former residents have admitted to their friends that they "probably made a mistake."

Every community now has a measurable population of black people and you will have a hard time escaping crime entirely.

The fact is the percentage of blacks living in Grosse Pointe is increasing and is very inaccurately portrayed. Incidents of crime are frequently "swept under the rug" to perpetuate the belief that both crime and blacks are very rare in the Pointes — when in fact both are here to stay.

I believe that Grosse Pointe is a wonderful and very safe community but it has a long way to go in being accepting. I believe that most Harper Woods students — white and black — probably feel the same way.

My family looks forward to the day when we don't have to feel like second-class citizens living in Grosse Pointe.

Implementing Zero Tolerance

To the Editor:

One topic related to the "North High Incident" was to institute "Zero Tolerance" rules for students involved in violence.

We should treat students as human beings by considering their past performance, future potential, and the factors in play at the time of such an incident. I am not talking about preferential treatment for influential families or squeaky wheels. I believe in finding positive solutions.

Don't throw out the baby with the bath water. Don't abandon a child for a single mistake. Instead, give them the tools to clean up a mess and make penance.

Put trust in your school officials to make decisions in the best interest of the student body. The schools should be empowered to require rehabilitation, counseling and/or punishment for a student at fault, but worthy of an opportunity to return to the classroom. Those same officials should be trusted to expel or suspend students whom they feel pose a threat to school safety.

Zero Tolerance rules conflict with the ideals of tolerance. That's a big red flag.

You can try to throw a bad apple out of the bushel, but our "bushel" isn't just school property. In or out of school, these kids still live among us. They are part of society. It is better to help them straighten up than to beat them down.

Some parents may feel it's OK to sacrifice someone else's child for their own peace of mind. But it is not in the best interest of the community. Some day, it could be their child who steps out of line. If that hap-

OFFERING FROM THE LOFT

Brother 'Butch' remembered

He was my brother, named Robert Grinnell Edgar at birth. He was 6 months old when our father called him Butch. The moniker stayed through his lifetime.

Five years separated us, he being the oldest of four, and me, the baby in the family. Our parents worshipped him. In their eyes, he could do no wrong, and his three younger sisters kept him on the pedestal they constructed for him. As young girls, we looked to him to lead us and to protect us. In our teen years, we tagged along as often as we could, enjoying his popularity and his gang of friends. We loved watching him compete in sporting events, but especially the track meets at "The High," now Grosse Pointe South. We were a vociferous support team. As the years passed, the age differences became moot. We dated each other's friends, and the years between us melted away.

Because he was the only boy in the family and the eldest, he was our hero. We followed in his footsteps as he guided us. He taught us to sail, how to accept victory and defeat in sports and how to shoot a beer can off a log at our summer home in Pennsylvania.

And then we grew up. We went off to school, and he joined the Army after graduating from his beloved Dartmouth College. After two years, he was discharged and started his own business in real estate. We had careers, married and raised children. Although he traveled a great deal and enjoyed the company of many friends, Butch almost always shared the holidays with family. His many nieces and nephews adored him and those festive gatherings laced with joy, laughter and mutual respect.

Butch loved and appreciated people, tennis, skiing, Aspen (Colo.), animals, music, dancing, nature's gifts, art, reading and travel. You might say he basked in life's goodness. He was an enormous sponge, and it was difficult to find a subject in which he wasn't conversant.

He was a good listener and an active participant in life, which opened doors for adventures and the legions of friends made along his personal journey. His humor was one of his most endearing traits.

When our father died, my brother took over his position as publisher of the newspaper he had founded, the Grosse Pointe News. Butch was able to juggle both business passions, as his offices were a few doors apart. He was savvy in the world of business and made profound improvements in the paper with his vision.

Although he remained in the real estate business until his death, his passion for journalism continued to energize and challenge him. He never shied from an issue and was always aware that the mission of this paper is to inform with facts to the best of its ability. He willingly took the slings and arrows of opposing views and responsibility for his actions and viewpoints. Butch always stated that the Grosse Pointe News is the people's paper, your community paper, not the mouthpiece for any special interest group, nor any family.

In a move that delighted their many friends, Butch married his one great love, Michele Rambour. They had been inseparable for 15 years.

Everyone who knows Michele, has been overjoyed and comforted that they were able to have so many years together. It was wonderful to witness the playfulness and exchanges of humor in their relationship. She filled Butch's life with sunshine.

A devastating lung disease made it necessary for Butch to slow his pace these past few months, but never his lightning-quick mind. Michele has been his constant companion, her strength and courage astonishing. She was by his side always.

Until the end he was curious, asking questions and making his wishes known. The last thing I heard him say was, "So many wonderful people, so many good friends." His family is so grateful for every one of you and your many kindnesses. Bless you.

Pistons, Red Wings fans set for parades?

I hate to jinx myself, but I feel two sports championships are on the Detroit horizon. Our Pistons' basketball team is one win away from advancing to the NBA's Eastern Conference Finals.

They won the first three games of the series against the rival Chicago Bulls, but lost game four on Mother's Day. Game five was played Tuesday, May 15, at the Palace.

We will know if the Pistons won that game when this column is printed.

It is academic because the Pistons will not become the first-ever NBA team to blow a 3-0 series lead. I give the Pistons a six-point win in game five.

The Pistons will face the winner of the New Jersey/Cleveland series in the Eastern Conference Finals that might not begin until either this weekend or early next week.

Detroit is pumped to bring home another NBA title, which would be the franchise's fourth.

Losing to eventual NBA champ Miami in last year's Eastern Conference Finals seems to be a motivating factor for the Pistons' focused run through the playoffs.

The game four loss to the Bulls was Detroit's first after seven consecutive victories.

The addition of Detroit-native Chris Webber has given the Pistons new life. He is a big man who can score and rebound from the lowpost, but can also pass.

Neither New Jersey nor Cleveland should offer much opposition in the conference finals. New Jersey does have outstanding guard play with Vince Carter and Jason Kidd.

Richard Hamilton and Chauncey Billups, who should have been the NBA's most valuable player this season, even out the guard play.

Cleveland has one of the top three players in the league, LeBron James.

However, one man can't beat the Pistons.

Detroit will be heavily favored over either foe due to their depth and front court dominance.

Our Red Wings are currently battling the Anaheim Ducks in the NHL's Western Conference Finals. The winner advances to the Stanley Cup Finals.

Wings goaltender Dominik Hasek has been outstanding. His stellar play was the difference in the team's 2-1 game one win over the Ducks.

What is the difference between this team and the one that was ousted in the first round of the Stanley Cup playoffs the past few seasons?

Grit. The Wings didn't have the gritty player it takes to grind out wins in the playoffs. They had those players during the Stanley Cup championship years, but they have disappeared until now.

Forward Todd Bertuzzi has been a physical presence, which has allowed fellow forwards Pavel Datsyuk, Henrik Zetterberg and Valtteri Filppula to do what they do best, score goals.

Ageless Chris Chelios and

Nick Lidstrom are two of the league's top defensemen.

Role players Kris Draper, Kirk Maltby and Tomas Holmstrom are playing well, which gives the Wings multiple scoring threats.

The Ducks' defensive duo of Scott Niedermayer and Chris Pronger is as potent as Chelios and Lidstrom.

Forwards Ryan Getzlaf, Samuel Pahlsson and Chris Kunitz are the Ducks' best offensive threats and goaltender Jean-Sebastien Giguere is outstanding.

Giguere single-handedly beat the Wings in the playoffs a couple of years ago when current Detroit head coach Mike Babcock was their head guy.

Many sports writers around the U.S. and in Canada pick Anaheim to beat Detroit in a low-scoring, physical series that will go six or seven games.

I say our Wings beat the odds and win in seven games to make it back to the Stanley Cup Finals against Ottawa, which should beat Buffalo in the Eastern Conference Finals.

With a little luck, Detroit sports fans can celebrate twice with two parades down Woodward.

We can't count our chickens before they hatch, but our Detroit teams are on fire in their playoff runs.

If you haven't noticed, the Detroit Tigers found their groove and are once again in first place in the Central Division.

Can it get any better for us sports fans?

Go Pistons!
Go Red Wings!

Schoolkids shower centenarian with love

Mary Rose Nelson, director of volunteer services for Services for Older Citizens, had an idea for Irene Eisenhart's 100th birthday on May 8. SOC, which has been delivering meals to Eisenhart's Grosse Pointe Farms home for the past five years, would ask Grosse Pointe school children to make 100 cards celebrating the centennial event.

However, the school kids produced 350 special cards, and they were delivered along with a cake provided by Kroger in the Village.

"It was a community event," Nelson explained.

On hand were Dottie Deneau and Katie Gagobelli from the Farms Public Safety Department, who call Eisenhart each morning to check on her well-being; Farms Mayor James Farquhar, who used to pedal his bike past Eisenhart's home on his way from South High School to his father's florist shop; Shane Reeside, Farms city manager and president of SOC; Sharon Maier, executive director of SOC; and Meals on Wheels volunteer Don Witt and his granddaughter Zoe.

Eisenhart, who has lived in her Farms home for more than half a century, said: "I love this area, and I can't think of any place I would rather live. Bless you all for remembering me. I hope you all find as much joy as you brought to me today."

A number of other SOC volunteers also take time to visit her, and she is one of the favorite seniors on the Meals on Wheels route. "This has been a lot of fun, and I can't wait to do it again next year for her 101st birthday," Nelson said.

Now how does that saying go: "It takes a village to raise a child?" Perhaps it should also say: "It takes a great community to care for its elder citizens."

3 homes awarded

"It's a labor of love," admitted one of the three homeowners recognized for their preservation work at last week's Grosse Pointe Historical Society's annual meeting at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

Historical plaques No. 59, 60 and 61 — cool, round, brass-looking affairs featuring a windmill that used to grind local grain for early settlers — went, respectively, to Mariam C. Noland and James A. Kelly, Jennifer and Todd Callewaert and Marlene and Kenneth Harle.

The historical society has been recognizing the efforts of local property owners to preserve the area's heritage since 1986. The plaques come complete with No. 12 screws for mounting.

No. 59, the Noland-Kelly home at 203 Cloverly in the Farms, was built in 1940 by Charles and Ingrid Koebel and is one of only two houses in the United States outside of the Cranbrook campus designed by the famed Finnish father and son architectural team of Eliel and Eero Saarinen.

It has 5,600 square feet, five bedrooms and a library with a built-in book case. The 45-foot-long living/dining room has two 13-foot double-paned window walls that "make the rear lawn and garden seem almost part of the interior," according to the historical society.

No. 60, the Callewaert home at 71 Lakeshore, started life as a "pretty Queen Anne cottage." It was called "The Poplars" because of a row of Lombardy poplars and an osage orange hedge on the property. It is called the William A. McGraw House for a member of the family that owned one of the most successful Detroit mercantile firms. He was married to a niece of John S.

Newberry. The McGraw House dates to 1884 and was part of a ribbon farm that extended from the lake to Grosse Pointe Boulevard.

It was extensively remodeled in 1927 for Percival Dodge and is now a 14-room, two-story home with seven fireplaces, historic gardens, high ceilings and a carriage house. It was cited by the historical society as "an excellent example of adaptive reuse."

Jennifer Callewaert said the original osage orange hedge has grown into trees that are still there.

No. 61, the home the Harles bought in July 1966, is called the Backman House and dates to 1894. The lot at 194 Moross in the Farms was purchased by Charles and Kate Backman for $410 in 1893, and the pair opened a grocery store that sold produce, candy and children's shoes.

Behind the store, the living quarters had eight bedrooms and 1 1/2 baths. A pot-bellied stove provided heat for the store, and there was no central heating. The store was converted into a home in 1940.

Ken Harle's "labor of love" has been in maintaining, fixing up and re-plumbing the one-time general store. He recounted how all of his repairs, much like the experiences all of us do-it-yourselfers go through, did not go smoothly.

Once when he was doing plumbing in an upstairs bathroom, he went to the basement to turn on the water and then rushed back upstairs to view his handiwork only to discover steam rising from the toilet at the end of the hall.

Of course, without such disasters we wouldn't have funny stories to tell in later years. So the next time your pet project turns into a nightmare, remind yourself that one day you will have good material to amuse your friends.

MSA celebrates five years

By Bob St. John
Staff Writer

Grosse Pointe Woods City Administrator Mark Wollenweber was among his peers taking part in Michigan Suburbs Alliance's annual meeting last week in Southfield.

Alliance Executive Director Conan Smith addressed mayors and city administrators of the 28 charter members which include the Woods and Grosse Pointe Park.

"Joining the MSA has been a bonus for us," Wollenweber said. "The MSA has helped us show everyone that even small developed cities such as ours can still find ways to bring in new business and redevelop."

Smith and Melanie Piana, the group's associate director, worked with Wollenweber and the Woods' building officials to earn the city a certificate of Redevelopment Ready Community.

During the alliance's first five years, it has been influential in helping cities collaborate such entities as public safety dispatch services.

"We are working to create public policy that not only resolves the root causes of the challenges facing inner suburbs, but rewards practices that produce healthy communities and create opportunities for growth in our region," Smith said.

Guest speaker Dan Pocek,

Grosse Pointe Woods City Administrator Mark Wollenweber, above, attended the Michigan Suburbs Alliance's fifth annual meeting. He is an alliance board member.

mayor of Bedford, Ohio, talked about the importance of regionalism.

"We, as a group, have to use strength in numbers to be effective when it comes to being a driving force in the community," he said. "Unity goes a long way toward creating better services."

Bedford, a small town incorporated in 1837, has the same concerns as the Grosse Pointes and other small cities in the tri-county area.

"We have a serious problem in Cleveland and we need to act now to turn it around," Pocek said. "It's going to take a collaborative effort to fix the problems."

"Cleveland was doing well until the mid 1990s when all of sudden the growth stopped and the city started to become stagnant. I see similarities between our region and Detroit and its suburbs."

Pocek said one reason why Cleveland can get back on its feet is the effectiveness of the Cleveland Clinic, one of the top medical facilities in the Midwest. The creation of jobs, Pocek said, will be an asset.

Nashville, Minneapolis, Louisville and Indianapolis participate in regional collaboration.

"These four major cities worked together on many aspects of city government, public safety and other entities," Pocek said. "Collaboration has been a leading force in helping these cities thrive."

The alliance has looked into helping with intergovernmental collaboration, transportation, affordable housing and municipal finance to bring businesses together between the corridors between Ann Arbor to Detroit, as well as Detroit to Pontiac, via Woodward.

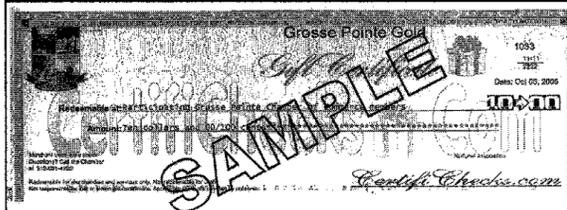

"Our job is to market our communities through our programs such as RRC, Golden Spike and regional collaboration," Smith said. "We have made some nice strides during our first five years and we now have a presence in the state capital; so that will give us more notability."

Wayne State University has thrown its hat into the ring, teaming up with the Detroit Regional Chamber to create the Regional Redevelopment Summit, a conference that brings together southeast Michigan civic and corporate leaders to discuss strategies for accelerating redevelopment in metro Detroit.

Other area universities are conducting academic research into public administration and urban development strategies to enliven the business and residential climate in the area.

Besides Grosse Pointe Woods and Grosse Pointe Park, the other charter members of the MSA are Berkley, Center Line, Dearborn, Dearborn Heights, Eastpointe, Farmington, Ferndale, Hamtramck, Hazel Park, Highland Park, Huntington Woods, Lathrup Village, Lincoln Park, Melvindale, Mount Clemens, Pleasant Ridge, River Rouge, Rockwood, Roseville, Southfield, Southgate, Taylor, Warren, Wayne and Ypsilanti.

BUTCH: Good boss, good friend to be called Butch.

He expected a lot from his employees, but he was also fair. He was impatient with those who did not try their best, but supportive when your best efforts did not work out. I have had my share of screw-ups over the years, and it was difficult to look Butch in the eye and "fess up."

One of Butch's favorite sayings was, "A leopard doesn't change its spots." But that did not mean he wouldn't give you a second chance. It meant that he judged people by their actions. He offered accolades when warranted.

I have always prided myself on being an acceptable writer and editor, but Butch showed me that everyone's copy can use improvement. Many times, he would go over an editorial cutting out needless words and redundant phrases and suggesting better ways to say things. Like the good businessman that he was, he was thrifty and precise with all things he touched, including the English language.

Those of us who came up through the editorial department often spent too little time considering the financial aspects of the newspaper business. Too little instruction in undergraduate journalism school addresses the reality of working in a for-profit enterprise. It was not until I was a graduate student that I learned that without a profit, newspapers cannot do all that is necessary to promote an informed democracy. Butch reinforced those classroom lessons with real-life experience.

If I suggested raises for the staff or the purchase of new equipment, I would have to justify our expenses and show how we would pay for them. There is a cost for everything in business.

Butch had many interests — sailing, skiing, golf, aviation, travel, history and fly-fishing. He could speak on almost any topic. It was not unusual for him to sit and have a lengthy conversation with any Grosse Pointe News employee he found working after hours. The employee would be the beneficiary of the encounter.

I will miss Mr. Edgar — Butch — very much and already do. As editor and general manager, I was comforted to know I had Butch and his wealth of knowledge and experience behind me. My goal is to embrace and use all he taught me and to never cause him or his family to regret the faith they've placed in me.

Rest in peace, Butch. You were a good man, boss and friend.

bond issue that will cover construction costs. Officials were "very pleased" because the interest rates of the lowest bidder, Morgan Keegan & Co. Inc. came in at just over 4.1 percent, well below the current Bond Buyer 20-year index of nearly 4.25 percent. The low rate will significantly reduce the interest paid on the bond.

By contrast, the city of Ann Arbor, which recently received bids for a similar project, ended up with a bond interest rate of 4.22 percent.

In fact, five of the six bids came within a .5 percent difference. Dame has recommended the city council approve the bid by Morgan Keegan, which is expected to be decided at a council meeting in the very near future.

Earlier this year, a bond issue formula presented to the city council factored in an interest rate of 4.5 percent. City officials conceded that formula was at the higher end of the interest spectrum, but they didn't want to draft a repayment schedule based on conservative figures.

SUNRISE: Mayor not happy

"We have discussed these items, but no decision has been made," Wollenweber said.

"I don't see Sunrise doing anything wrong and I'm not happy with our officials asking a developer to donate money," Woods Mayor Robert Novitke said. "We are going to sit down and find out exactly what happened, but what I know now is that I don't think Sunrise did anything wrong."

"We want to get everything cleared up with this investigation so we can move forward with this project," Hester said. "The project will be an asset to the city of Grosse Pointe Woods and we want everyone to know we have done nothing wrong."

The project would be a $25 million investment in the city. It would replace the Vernier Terraces apartment complex on Vernier between Vernier Circle and Fairway.

Sunrise currently has two facilities in Grosse Pointe Woods and is constructing another in the City of Grosse Pointe.

WATER: Double-digit increases

Under the new contract, all three communities are facing double digit increases in water rates. Pointe officials say the contract assumes communities are going to max out in water consumption during peak hours, even if they efficiently conserve water during that period.

"I am very disappointed (with this new contract)," Kenyon said. "We do a very good job in conserving our water."

Phone calls to the Detroit Board of Water Commissioners went unanswered.

Farms City manager Shane Reeside confirmed that officials from the Shores and Woods have contacted him about tying into the Farms water plant. Kenyon said the three communities are going to sit down to crunch numbers with Plante Moran, an auditing firm that serves all three communities.

Mark Wollenweber, Woods city manager, said the Woods approached the Farms two years ago about tying into the plant at Pier Park. He said that because the Woods typically uses higher water pressure, which would be reflected in rate charges, the discussions didn't amount to much.

If the numbers do look favorable to both communities to switch over to the Farms, minimal digging will be required. Kenyon and Wollenweber said a relatively new process called directional boring allows the communities to tie in with little disruption to landscaping.

Wollenweber said it is the same technique used when the Woods replaced its water line on Mack a few years ago.

In addition, a pilot program would be required for water testing by the state's Department of Environmental Quality before any formal contractual agreement between the communities could be consummated.

According to the new model contract sent out by the Detroit Water Board, Grosse Pointe Shores will see more than a 20 percent increase in water rates. It is followed by the Woods with a 13.3 percent increase and a 10.8 percent increase in the Park. By contrast, Harper Woods will see a 2.3 percent decrease in water rates.

Safety is a priority. Abandoning young people at risk with Zero Tolerance isn't the answer.

Richard Charity Carnival applauded

To the Editor:

I recently volunteered at the Richard Elementary School Charity Carnival on April 26 hosted by Ms. Flanagan's second-grade class.

As the mom of two future students, I was amazed and heartened at what I witnessed.

K.T. MOWREY
Grosse Pointe Woods

I thought the community should know and appreciate the philanthropic spirit that was exhibited in such small children.

The class hosted a school-wide carnival for their second grade business to raise funds for chosen charities: Michigan Humane Society, Greening of Detroit, Make a Wish Foundation and Richard's own school air conditioning project.

I watched in amazement as 19 second-graders ran games such as duck pond, mammal march, basketball and milk-bottle knockdown. They also manned a raffle, book swap and bake sale with many donated products from their families.

All these tasks were accomplished with minimal help from parent or adult volunteers. I also watched the Richard Elementary school teachers volunteer to be pounded with wet sponges, all in the name of charity.

What great school spirit and camaraderie. The kids were also well informed of their purpose and mission. I found out later that the Village Kroger donated 2,000 bags and cookies to assist in the event's success.

Though I am not sure if any photos of this event will surface in the future, I wanted to make sure the families of Ms. Flanagan's class were acknowledged for all their hard work.

In this time of possible budget cuts and a slumping economy, congratulations to the families of: Courtney Calcaterra, Jack Campau, Zane Draper, Jack Flowers, Emma Foy, Jack Holme, Taylor Laney, Oliver Livingston, Caleb Marion, Abby Martin, Maddie Paolucci, Meghan Richardson, Michael Rivard, Matt Roberge, Luigi Rodino, David Scupholm, Tommy Sine, Calyx Turco, and Jackson Walkowiak, for going the extra mile and remembering charities that need the support now more than ever.

Paint the Window Contest

To the Editor:

On behalf of the Grosse Pointe Village Association, I wish to thank all those involved in the 2007 Paint The Window Contest.

Every year the Village comes alive with color and creativity as Grosse Pointe elementary school children paint wonderful pictures throughout our shopping district. Young, creative artists — 280 of them — came to brighten up The Village and the results were outstanding.

We congratulate all of the participants and the winners.

A great big thank you goes out to our major sponsors: The Village Toy Company and Print Xpress.

Thank you also to our loyal sponsors: Mr. Bill Rands; Dr. Edward Vermet D.D.S.; Chase Bank; Kramer's Bed Bath & Window Fashions; Posterity Gallery; Ace Hardware; Kroger; Detroit Red Wings "Red Alert" marketing group; and the City of Grosse Pointe. We could not produce such a great event without their support.

As always, our dedicated volunteers deserve a big thank you: Claudia Corrado, Terri Berschback, Nancy Marsteller, Charlene Blundy, Celia Krausmann, Sherri Harder, Suzanne Prohaska, Jared Howel, John Denomme, Linda Jensen, the staff of Village Toy Company and the staff of Posterity Gallery.

Thank you to our outstanding judges: Danielle Harris, Terri Berschback, Wendy Jennings and Sara Dykstra.

Finally, I wish to thank the entire Grosse Pointe community as you continue to support our Village events with such loyal enthusiasm.

Fair and balanced reporting

To the Editor:

Regarding the April 19 Grosse Pointe News editorial, "Custodians kept on board," I find the closing remarks unwarranted and unfair.

Why is the editorial questioning the sincerity of the Grosse Pointe Board of Education's intentions and strategy in negotiating with the beloved janitors and plant engineers?

I find the last sentence of the editorial disturbing. Why doesn't the writer cut the school board a little slack?

Grosse Pointe North High School musicians made their mark last month on New York City. Members of the Full Orchestra, top right and Symphony Band, above, performed at the 2007 National Freedom Festival. Adjudicators awarded both groups first place, with superior ratings. The symphony was named festival grand champion. "North also brought home a record number of Most Outstanding Soloist awards," said David Cleveland, North band director. Winners were Alex Sikorski, marimba soloist; Jenny Barger, piccolo soloist; William VandePutte, euphonium soloist; Peter Dong, violin soloist; and Frank Serraiocco, trumpet soloist. # South pool ground breaking next week

SOURCE: EHRESMAN ASSOCIATES

By Brad Lindberg
Staff Writer

Ground breaking on the South High School swimming complex is scheduled for 2 p.m. Wednesday, May 23.

The date was announced almost two weeks before the final group of 17 subcontractors were scheduled to be chosen by the board of education. A unanimous board on Monday night awarded those remaining bids, totaling $564,401 among five contractors. Two weeks ago, bids of $8,587,682 were awarded to 12 subcontractors.

Contracts were approved in two batches according to the respective company's place in the construction schedule. A contract to clear the construction site, for instance, was awarded in the first batch.

Winning companies, their trades and bids approved this week consist of:

- ◆ Magnum Arch. Building Group, gypsum and acoustical ceiling, $190,711,
- ◆ Empire, hard tile and terrazzo, $186,000,
- ◆ Star School, wood flooring, $65,300,
- ◆ Rayhaven, metal lockers, $28,990 and
- ◆ Simplex, fire protection, $93,400.

Total construction costs, including design fees and estimated contingencies, are slated to reach $11.6 million.

Net costs to the district dip to $11.3 million due to a $320,000 donation pledged by pool boosters organized as Friends of the New Pool at South.

Fees are being paid from a $63 million capital improvement bond voters approved

The new pool will replace the largely underground communication technology addition, nicknamed the bunker, built along the campus' Fisher Road boundary in 1978 primarily for vocational education.

The 12-lane, 25-yard pool and diving well will be the first major addition to South's campus in 30 years.

Upon opening in August 2008, it will replace the school's original four-lane, 20-yard pool, built in 1928 that became obsolete — too short, not enough lanes and too shallow for diving off starting blocks — for interscholastic high school competition.

Board members have been stung by critics complaining the project is too costly and ill-timed.

Cuts from almost every part of the district's roughly $100 million annual budget, except classroom assets, are being forced by pressure from three main fronts:

- ◆ Michigan's economic downturn,
- ◆ less-than-expected state education funding and
- ◆ unfunded state mandates for school employee retirement accounts.

In partial response to criticism, school trustees have eagerly reminded people that bond money can't be used for general operations and that the 50,000 square foot addition will be more than just a pool.

Also approved for construction is a full-size gymnasium and basketball court, in part to accommodate increased girls athletics, locker rooms and rooms for general instruction and use, including club activities. The former girls gym will be renovated for fine arts instruction.

Four one-act plays shown May 17-18

The Pointe Players of Grosse Pointe South High School present two evenings of four "One-Act Plays" at 7:30 p.m. Thursday and Friday, May 17 and 18.

Performances are at the South auditorium, 11 Grosse Pointe Boulevard, Grosse Pointe Farms.

Tickets cost $8 and $6 for students and senior citizens. Tickets are available at the door. Seating is general admission.

Genres being performed include drama, fantasy and comedy. Students selected and directed the plays, chose the cast, and worked with technical support regarding sound, set, costumes, lights and more.

North-South high concert on May 24

This year's Grosse Pointe North and Grosse Pointe South Outdoor Instrumental Concert is scheduled for 7 p.m. Thursday, May 24.

This free concert is a long standing tradition in Grosse Pointe.

This year's concert will be hosted by Grosse Pointe North. The performance will be held in front of the Grosse Pointe Performing Arts Building at Grosse Pointe North.

In case of rain, the concert will be held in the Grosse Pointe North Gymnasium.

Works performed will include pieces by Tchaikovsky, Sousa, John Williams, Berlioz and Karl King.

Pool site being cleared

By Brad Lindberg
Staff Writer

Next week's ground breaking for South High's swimming and gymnasium complex is for show and tell. Work has already begun.

Field offices for the construction manager have been set up on the site. Portions of the underground communication technology structure, on which the pool will be built, have been torn down.

"We're starting this week with wall and floor removal," said Robin Block, project superintendent for Barton Malow Co., retained as construction manager for the $11.6 million, 50,000 square foot project.

The building will contain a swimming pool, gymnasium, locker rooms and rooms for general use.

"We have contractors coming in (through) Thursday to set up fire walls and start selective demolition (to get) ready for new foundations," Block said.

At the end of the school year, fences will be erected to cord off the construction zone.

Supplies will be stored in left field of the baseball complex. Block has met with Grosse Pointe Farms and City public safety representatives to arrange supply and equipment delivery schedules intended to minimize traffic interruptions.

'We have contractors coming in to start selective demolition (to get) ready for new foundations.'

ROBIN BLOCK,

Equipment and materials will be stored so as to maintain public safety access to campus.

Construction will displace about 40 staff parking places in a lot off of Fisher Road adjacent to the school. Eight municipal spots will be lost on Fisher, as will 10 spots in the school lot along Fisher near the football field.

"During summer, we will be making a temporary staff parking area in left field of the (baseball) diamond," Block said.

Construction of a temporary lot for students was ruled unnecessary due to overflow space available in a lot bordering the softball outfield. Those arrangements will continue through the following school year.

Construction isn't expected to impact South's graduation ceremonies, scheduled for 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, June 13, on the school's front lawn.

Pointe's loss is Chi's win

By Brad Lindberg
Staff Writer

At 54 years old, Larry Lobert is still a young man, and he's going west.

Lobert, Grosse Pointe public schools assistant superintendent of human resources and labor relations, is leaving the system effective June 30.

He's heading for a similar job at New Trier, a seven-city high school district in the Chicago north shore suburb of Winnetka. Enrollment is about 4,000 students.

"It was a phenomenal opportunity," Lobert said. "This is another premier district."

He said he and his wife enjoy Chicago and frequently visit the area.

"It's a vibrant economy," he said.

He said he'd been contacted about jobs in the Windy City which lead to the New Trier offer.

"I hope to serve there 10 years, the remaining third of my career," he said.

Lobert came to the Pointes five years ago from Farmington schools. He hasn't ruled out returning to the Pointes.

"We're retaining our home in Grosse Pointe Park for two reasons: the (real estate) market's bad and this is a wonderful community," Lobert said. "It's not out of the question that we would retire here. I love the community."

He said Pointe parents deserve major credit for making the district what it is.

"A factor that runs across great school districts is parent involvement," he said. "Then, you have great resources and attract talent. The physical beauty of this area, the phenomenal friendships — Grosse Pointe in a lot of ways is the way it should be for everyone."

Praise for Lobert came from across the school board.

President Brendan Walsh said Lobert did a "wonderful job. (His) leadership and professionalism will be sorely missed."

"He's a class act," added Trustee Ahmed Ismail.

"There's very few of those in this world."

Trustee Alice Kosinsky feigned anger while planting her tongue in cheek.

"I'm not speaking to Mr. Lobert because I can't believe he's leaving," she said.

Kosinsky praised Lobert's ability to perform his duties with compassion.

"The hardest things to leave are the people, harder than the job," Lobert said.

Board members are preparing a resolution in his honor.

Helping hearts

A spring skate-a-thon by University Liggett School students raised $3,335 for the American Heart Association.

"It was great," said Dan Cimini, ULS's middle school boys' athletic director and high school varsity baseball coach.

Cimini took to the ice with more than 150 ULS students who helped raise funds for the association.

Cimini coordinated the effort, which combined fundraising and physical fitness.

"We may not have raised as much as in previous years," he said. "But the kids got more exercise skating than shooting baskets and the American Heart Association benefited, as well. More importantly, our kids are learning about the importance of good heart health."

Every sixth-, seventh- and eighth-grade student participated in the fundraiser.

Students were bused from the middle school campus to skate for about 90 minutes at ULS's McCann Ice Arena. Students sought donations and took pledges for their efforts.

Over the years, ULS's middle school has held a variety of physical fitness related events to raise money for the heart association.

GROSSE POINTE PUBLIC LIBRARY

Past attempts to expand, save Central

As the Grosse Pointe Public Library Board of Trustees wrestles with expanding the Marcel Breuer designed Central branch without compromising its architectural integrity, perhaps they can take comfort knowing others faced the same dilemma.

According to Pete Winkler, about 25 years ago there was a movement to convert the Central branch into office spaces for the Grosse Pointe Public School System. The library was considered too small to accommodate the community's needs.

Winkler said Hawkins Ferry asked him to devise a plan to both enlarge and save the library the Ferry family had donated to the community.

A 19,500 square foot addition was planned for the north end of the building. It mimicked the original space both in design and material used.

"Mr. Ferry warmly approved a series of sketches I had prepared," Winkler wrote in a note to the Grosse Pointe News. "The entire front elevations remained exactly the same plus a 65' X 100' three-story addition was to be completed for under $1 million for the architectural work. It's actually two stories plus a full basement."

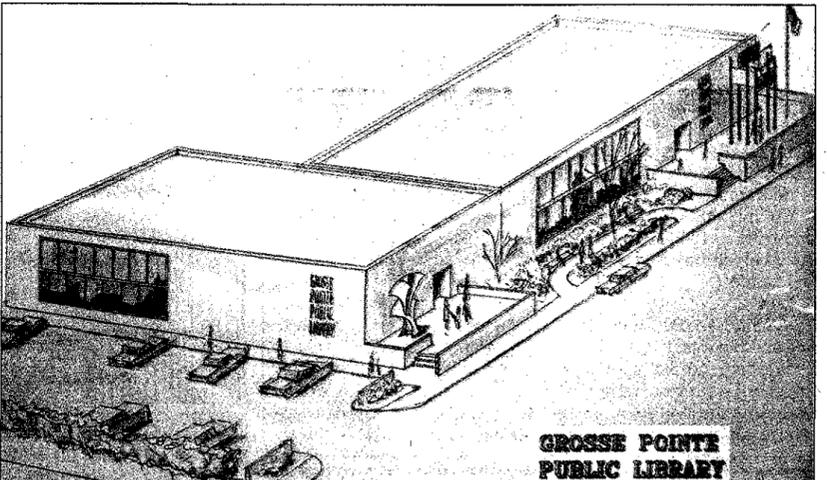

Winkler pitched the idea to library representatives.

"They thanked me for my effort and told me they weren't interested in it," Winkler said.

Another design adding an auditorium to the back of Central made it through all the bureaucratic channels, including receiving a variance by Grosse Pointe Farms to encroach onto South High School's property, only to be defeated by residents in a November 1987 vote.

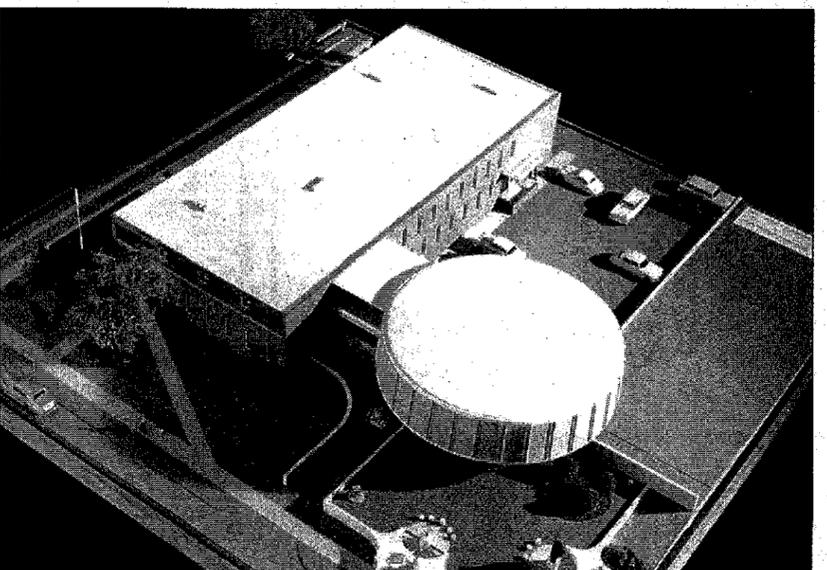

The Grosse Pointe News reported at the time voters were concerned about the economy and growth on the Hill.

—Beth Quinn

Hawkins Ferry approved the above plan conceived by Pete Winkler for a 19,000 square foot addition to the Marcel Breuer-designed Central branch library which the Ferry family donated to the community.

Voters rejected a 1987 bond issue which would had funded a pendulum-shaped auditorium attached to the back of Central, below.

The 2007 Jeep Wrangler features choice of roof system, trail rated capability and a five star safety rating. Wranglers Rubicon offroad package makes it the most capable trail ready jeep.

Wrangler: For added fun, read manual

A respected colleague once said if you could safely carry a cup of coffee in the cup holder of a vehicle without spilling, it had an acceptable suspension and ride.

The 2007 Jeep Wrangler Rubicon 4X4 recently passed Roger's test. At least the part about "carry...in the cupholder." This very sprightly, short-wheelbase, turn-on-a-dime sport truck is OK for transporting a beverage. But don't drink the water, or coffee or soda, especially if you are wearing something that has to be dry-cleaned. Our lumpy roads and the Wrangler's tight-wound suspension guarantee you'll wear at least as much of your drink as you'll swallow.

But wow, is it fun to drive. In many parts of town, our street surfaces resemble the jagged off-road planes the Jeep is famous for conquering. So without actually doing a "lawn job" anywhere, you can sense the capabilities of the Wrangler.

In fact, it was such fun to take out, with its six-speed manual transmission and superior visibility, that it was tempting to remove the canvas convertible top. Had the weather been maybe 40 degrees warmer, we may have removed the doors too for a true open-air experience.

Jeep Wranglers come apart, something like a LEGO project. It's OK to try this at home, provided you have tools and someone to guide you through the directions. I suspect putting the components back together again is next to impossible.

Checking the owner's manual, one discovers 70 pages devoted to instructions for stripping this rascal down to a kid-mobile.

An initial worry came at seeing the rear "windows" flexing and slightly flapping in the wind once you remember they are not glass.

A note in the manual warns the convertible Wrangler should not be taken through an automatic car wash. Rear windows may be scratched and wax can build up, it says. The scratching part strikes one as odd when this nimble truck is designed to go up, down and sideways and presumably have the heck beaten out of it. So what's a scratch or two, no matter where?

The Jeep, even with its vinyl top and unscathed plastic rear windows, is quite cozy inside. Heat comes almost immediately from the 3.8-liter V-6 up front and the fan speed appeared to be infinitely variable, which makes it easier to control temperatures.

Getting into the Wrangler is another matter altogether. Without running boards, or a fold-down ladder, occupants must step up some 20 inches, using the steering wheel or instrument panel grab bar. A mid-size dog, even an energetic and willing one, can't do it in this two-door truck. You will soon be in excellent condition after you've lifted first your pet and then yourself into the Wrangler day after day.

The driver's seat did not slide forward enough for a passenger to climb into the back seat on that side. The front passenger seat does move farther on its track, but the room available for accessing that rear seat could become the site of great embarrassment if one becomes wedged in.

The 2007 Wrangler features an all new frame, exterior and interior design, engine, and safety and convenience features. Jeep said it has increased interior space and comfort. It gained 5.5 inches in overall width and offers larger wheels and tires (16, 17 and 18 inches).

Inside, the new Wrangler has close to 5 inches more hip room than the 2006 model and 5 inches more shoulder room. There's an added inch of leg room for passengers lithe enough to get into the back seat, and a couple of extra inches behind that second seat for storage.

Jeep said Fold-and-Tumble rear seats can be stowed for greater cargo space, which otherwise is very limited.

Offered in three two-door models, Wrangler X, Sahara and Rubicon, the 2007 Jeep Wrangler is built down the street — Interstate 75, that is — in Toledo, near where the landmark Overland historic factory stack recently was dismantled.

That 3.8-liter V-6 is a new engine and delivers 202 horsepower and 237 pound-feet of torque. It has a towing capacity of 2,000 pounds. Brakes are discs all around and features on anti-lock system. Jeep said the frame of the 2007 Wrangler is 100 percent more rigid in bending stiffness than that of its predecessor. The 2007 has added two inches to the wheelbase; its track is 3.5 inches wider.

The top-of-the-line Wrangler Rubicon 4X4 has a base price of $26,595. That includes traction control, electronic roll mitigation, heavy-duty front and rear axles from Dana, electronic front and rear locking differentials, a "Rock-Trac" part-time 4-wheel-drive system and an "easy-folding" soft top.

Options for the Rubicon include power windows and door locks; a Sunrider soft top; six disc CD player; trailer tow group; front seat mounted side air bags; satellite radio, and full screen navigation system.

With its convertible top and go get 'em tendencies, it's little wonder but still a surprise that there are no vanity mirrors on the sun visors. Best you not know exactly how you look after rock climbing or doing a lawn job.

Wrangler's EPA mileage numbers look like this: 17 miles per gallon average in the city and 19 mpg out on the highway.

Jeep Wrangler, which has been around with one name or another for some 65 years, is purchased by men three-to-one vs. women. Buyers have a median age of 42. Half are married, Jeep said, and they mostly are college educated.

Jeep redesigned its 65-year-old truck for 2007, making the Wrangler longer and wider. A 3.8-liter V-6 is crouching under the familiar hood.

Year-round radiator maintenance

Maintaining your vehicle's radiator and cooling system is important for keeping your car in good working order.

Regardless of the temperature outside, a vehicle's engine produces enough excess heat to quickly damage or destroy the engine if it is not properly cooled by the cooling system. Fortunately, there are a number of ways you can keep your car's radiator and cooling system in top shape.

Try these tips:

◆ Always make sure that the coolant is topped up. If your coolant level is consistently low, the radiator and cooling system could be damaged. Having to top up the coolant more than a couple times per year means that you probably have a leak and should have your radiator professionally inspected.

◆ Keep an eye on the engine temperature. If you notice the temperature rising more than it usually does, that probably means that your vehicle's radiator isn't performing at peak efficiency.

◆ Visually inspect the system. Look for corrosion or breaks in the radiator cores, find cracked hoses and rusted clamps, check the gasket on the radiator cap, and watch for drip stains underneath the car.

If your radiator needs to be replaced, you could save some cash by doing it yourself. Try visiting the Web site Radiator.com.

Have a professional inspect your radiator at least once every two years, especially if your vehicle is more than five years old. Checkups should include:

◆ A thermostat test to make sure that it regulates the coolant flow properly.

◆ A pressure test on the system to make sure it does not leak under pressure.

◆ A fan test to make sure that the engine fan and any other fans are working properly.

TEST DRIVE By Greg Zyla

The 2007 Saturn Vue Hybrid is powerful, gear friendly and has plenty of towing capacity. With rollover sensing system, this SUV bears a five-star safety rating.

Saturn Vue Hybrid takes the spotlight

This week we test-drive Saturn's 2007 Vue Hybrid, a newcomer to the expanding "green" market that now includes some 50 models — base price: $22,370; price as tested: $23,750.

It felt right that part of our weeklong test was spent traversing the scenic wilderness of the northern tier of Pennsylvania, fully aware that the emissions from our Vue Hybrid were lower than gasoline-only engines. And, with gas stations few and far between, 32 miles per gallon highway, 27 city, was comforting.

The Vue, which Saturn dubs as the least expensive SUV hybrid available, has more to offer than your standard sedan in terms of ground clearance, storage and the like. However, keep in mind this is only a front-wheel drive vehicle, not all-wheel drive — although an all-wheel drive model is available with a non-hybrid six cylinder. Also, the hybrid's 2.4-liter I-4 engine makes a modest 170 horsepower, so it's not made to power up unpaved trails.

Still, Vue is a good looking, functional, safe option for anyone from a soccer mom to a weekend outdoorsman, and the ride is smooth on its four wheel independent suspension.

While the alternative fuels market expands significantly, Vue is one of only a handful of SUVs with hybrid gasoline-electric power, the other notable from this class being the Ford Escape Hybrid, which, for 2007, has slightly better fuel mileage numbers than Vue at 36 and 31 mpg highway and city, respectively. However, it gets slightly less peak horsepower (155) from a 2.3 liter four cylinder, and has a considerably higher MSRP of $26,320.

Saturn's Green Line Hybrid System works much like other gas electrics, using a battery and electric motor to cut down fuel consumption, while generating its electricity through "regenerative braking."

When the four-speed automatic transmission isn't pushed, such as when traveling downhill or stopping at a red light, the gasoline engine shuts off, the electric motor kicks in and the "Eco" fuel economy indicator lights on the dash. Otherwise, you won't know it's a hybrid, and there is no special maintenance required.

Beyond its hybrid functionality, Vue is an attractive competitor in the crowded small SUV field, where not only the Escape, but also the Toyota Rav4, Honda CR-V and others fight for sales. The hybrid alternative pushes Vue's cost higher than most, but the fuel savings make up some of the difference.

We found Vue's exterior design simple yet attractive, featuring dent-resistant body side panels, 16-inch alloy wheels and chrome skid plates.

driver and front seat passengers sit high and tall with a clear view of the road. We enjoyed the well-placed arm rests, and counted seven storage nooks within reach of the front seats, including a thin slot on the left side of the console, at the driver's right knee — good use of space.

Notable standard features include air, power windows and locks, ABS, traction control, compass and temperature, cruise, driver seat adjuster, fold-flat passenger seat back, 70-30 split folding rear seats, and remote keyless entry.

One of Vue's features that we're not fond of is the orange dash lighting. Also, we had some trouble with the windshield wipers on our tester Vue, the driver's side blade catching and bouncing at times.

Safety features include front air bags with passenger sensing system, automatic headlamps, traction control, rear window defogger, wiper blade defogger, theft deterrent system, battery rundown protection and a tire inflator kit.

The only option on our Vue was a $755 leather appointments package. A $625 destination charge was applied to reach the final cost.

Other important numbers include a 16.3 gallon fuel tank, 3,466-pound curb weight, 30.8 to 64.0 cubic feet of cargo space, and 106.6-inch wheelbase.

Although not outstanding in any single category, Vue's value is created through a solid combination of hybrid benefits, pleasing looks and solid performance. We definitely enjoyed it, and offer a strong 8.5 rating on a scale of 1 to 10.

Likes: Fuel mileage, low hybrid emissions; perfect size and functionality.

Dislikes: Orange dash lighting; poor acceleration, rear drum brakes.

Conflicting stories

At 9:29 p.m., Thursday, May 10, Grosse Pointe Woods police received a call of a fight taking place at Ghesquiere Park on Mack.

When police officers arrived, six youths were rounded up and questioned.

Two victims, a 16-year-old boy and a 14-year-old boy, both from Harper Woods, told the officers they were sitting in the park's gazebo when the three suspects walked up and started to taunt them.

The suspects, ranging in age from 14 to 16 from Harper Woods, according to the report, instigated the melee. One of the suspects slapped a victim in the face and hit him over the head with a skateboard before he was struck in the face by two drumsticks.

The report also said the suspects pulled out two razor knives.

The suspects told the officers the opposite story, saying they were harassed first.

Police officers confiscated a silver and a pink razor knife and contacted the boys' parents.

After questioning everyone involved, the boys went their separate ways in the custody of their parents.

Gym class scuffle

At 1:31 p.m., Thursday, May 10, Grosse Pointe Woods police received a call from the Parcels Middle School principal, saying that several boys were involved in an assault during gym class at 1:22 p.m., Monday, May 7.

The suspects, Harper Woods residents ranging in age from 13 to 14, were accused of punching the victims, a 12-year-old Harper Woods boy, a 12-year-old Grosse Pointe Woods boy and a 13-year-old Grosse Pointe Woods boy, during a basketball game that got too heated. The assault continued in the locker room after the class.

The report said the suspects were suspended from school until the principal's investigation was completed.

Bad license

At 10:06 p.m., Wednesday, May 9, a 36-year-old Detroit woman was pulled over for having defective equipment on her 1992 white Pontiac Grand Am.

A LEIN (Law Enforcement Information Network) check revealed the woman had a suspended driver's license. The woman gave the officer her driver's license, registration and an expired proof of insurance.

During a search of the vehicle, the officer found a small bag of suspected marijuana.

The woman was arrested. She was released after posting an $85 bond.

Impounded vehicle

At 1:45 a.m., Wednesday, May 9, a 35-year-old Harper Woods man stopped at the red light at Harper and Allard was pulled over after a LEIN check revealed the car he was driving was listed as impounded by the Detroit Automobile Recovery

Unit.

He provided a registration and proof of insurance, but told the Grosse Pointe Woods police officer he did not have his driver's license.

The LEIN check also revealed the man had a warrant out of Detroit for drug charges and four current driver's license suspensions.

He was arrested.

Impala stolen

At 10:25 p.m., Monday, May 7, a 27-year-old Detroit man driving a silver Chevrolet Impala was stopped at Harper and Allard after a Grosse Pointe Woods police officer performed a LEIN check, which reported the vehicle as stolen from Metropolitan Airport.

The officer notified a Wayne County airport police officer, who said the vehicle is a rental car and the business representative said he just wants the car back and will not press charges.

The driver told the officer his friend loaned him the car and he had no idea it was stolen.

The LEIN check also revealed the driver had two warrants out of Detroit for failure to appear in court and one out of Port Huron for driving with

Ordinance cleaned up

By Bob St. John
Staff Writer

Everything dealing with accessory buildings is now set in stone.

Grosse Pointe Woods city council put its official stamp on the issue, which they say will help bring cohesiveness throughout the community.

City attorney Don Berschback said, "The new ordinance adheres to the city's master plan."

The ordinance change began with an idea several months ago and filtered through the planning commission, an initial reading by city council to the final OK.

City Building Inspector Gene Tutag was instrumental in cleaning up the ordinance language after his department was involved with dozens of variance requests from residents.

The ordinance singles out garages, sheds, carports, gazebos, pool houses and storage buildings.

"The idea of changes to the zoning ordinances will make things more cohesive concerning any new construction," said Planning Commission member John Vitale when the issue was brought before the body last month.

Some general requirements the zoning ordinance designates are:

- ◆ No accessory building shall be located in whole or in part on or over an easement for utilities, drainage, access, communications, or related purposes.

- ◆ No accessory building shall be permitted unless the principal building has been previously erected or is being erected simultaneously.

- ◆ When erected as an integral part of the permitted principal building, a structure shall comply in all respects with the requirements of this ordinance applicable to the permitted principal building.

- ◆ The architectural character, design and the construction materials of all accessory buildings shall be compatible with the architectural character of the principal building.

- ◆ In the residentially zoned districts, accessory buildings are only permitted in rear yards.

- ◆ Accessory buildings shall not be used for temporary or permanent dwelling, lodging or sleeping.

Police to enforce seat belt use

Law enforcement officers will be out in southeast Michigan during the next few weeks to ensure motorists make the life saving decision to buckle up.

More than 560 law enforcement agencies will participate in the Buckle Up or Pay Up, Click It or Ticket mobilization from May 21 through June 3. About 240 of those agencies will conduct grant funded safety belt enforcement traps.

The Michigan Office of Highway Safety Planning administers federal funding for these zones in 55 counties to increase safety belt use across the state.

Grant funded counties in southeast Michigan are Lapeer, Lenawee, Livingston, Macomb, Monroe, Oakland, St. Clair, Sanilac, Washtenaw and Wayne.

While the state's 94.3 percent belt rate is second highest in the nation, crash reports indicate that belt use falls in the evening and late night hours. Safety belt use in daytime fatal crashes is 85 percent, but that figure falls to 62 percent between 10 p.m. to 5 a.m. In 2005, 100 vehicle occupants died in nighttime crashes.

"Michigan has achieved a great safety belt use rate, but we're finding that fewer people buckle up at night," said Michael L. Prince, director of the organization.

In a pilot effort, at least 63 agencies in 11 counties will put additional officers on nighttime safety belt roving patrols Thursday, May 24. During these patrols, officers will place special emphasis on looking for and ticketing unbelted motorists.

Michigan law requires all drivers and front seat passengers to be buckled up and children under age 4 to be in an approved child safety seat. It also requires passengers 15 and younger to be buckled up in all positions.

A list of planned safety belt enforcement zone times and locations can be found at michigan.gov/ohsp.

There is much to take pride in Michigan, including the Mackinac Bridge, the world's longest suspension bridge which was completed 50 years ago. Therefore this summer, the bridge and its builders will be honored.

Bridging the gap

The face of the ironworker is etched with detail by the hands of sculptress Janice Trimpe.

Janice Trimpe sits beside her clay creation of an ironworker. After being bronzed, the statue will be dedicated in St. Ignace's Bridge Park during the Mackinac Bridge's 50th anniversary celebration on Saturday, July 28.

By Ann L. Fouty
Acting Features Editor

The stalwart men who built the Mackinac Bridge confidently walked into history.

They strung 42,000 miles of wire weighing 11,840 tons; built towers that reach 552 feet above the water's surface and 210 feet into the bedrock, and installed 31 expansion joints.

This year, the four-lane suspension bridge and those who built it will be honored during the Mackinac Bridge's 50th anniversary festivities in July. In particular, the ironworkers will be recognized for their part in making the 5-mile span sturdy enough to carry thousands of vehicles each year and to withstand frigid winds, ice floes and the occasional run-in with a freighter.

Walking hundreds of feet above the icy Straits of Mackinac during the bridge's three year construction, the ironworker will be memorialized in a bronze statue created by Grosse Pointe Park sculptress Janice Trimpe. The 6-foot-1-inch man she fashioned from 600 pounds of clay and later had cast in bronze is posed as if walking on a 9 inch rail. He will stand on a 4 foot marble pillar in St. Ignace's Bridge Park.

At 4:45 p.m. Saturday, July 28, Trimpe's creation will be dedicated to the men who made one of the last riveted bridges, whose towers are 552 feet above the water at a cost of $99.8 million.

Trimpe realizes those men, five of whom died building the bridge, were a special breed as they walked the rails, wearing three layers of clothing year round and carrying 50 to 60 pounds of equipment.

"Mac" or "Iron Man," or whatever he will be dubbed, is a tribute to the working man, which is Trimpe's specialty.

"I was meant to do this," she said in her well-lit 2,000 square foot studio. "My artwork is the common man; the every day people we live with," she said. "I love the details. I am excited about this piece."

Early this spring, Trimpe revealed him — in his raw clay stage. Modeled after Brenden Kelly of Bloomfield Hills, the ironworker is carrying a sledge hammer, wearing his tool belt and a bag which, 51 years ago, would hold hot bolts.

Rivets were red hot, nearly at the point of melting, said one ironworker. The bolt would be placed into a hole and air hammered from one or both sides until it formed a "button" head on both sides. As it cooled, it would shrink, pulling the iron together. It took a team of four men, a forge, two rivet guns, a catch can, two sets of tongs, and an air impact and a cutting torch for the riveting process.

Just as the ironworkers had to be conscious of the temperature of their materials, Trimpe paid close attention to the temperature and consistency of the wet clay with which she worked, wrapping it every night.

"I must take good care of it during the day," she said.

Trimpe said she sprayed the man of clay with water to keep the clay pliable. Unlike the figure, tools are made of wax. This worker carries a sledge hammer, a tape measure, a

Free lecture

While much has been written about Edsel & Eleanor Ford's working relationship with famed architect Albert Kahn, few know about their work with 20th Century Detroit architect Leonard B. Willeke. At 7 p.m., Tuesday, May 22, local art and architecture historian Thomas W. Brunk will explore Willeke's work with the Fords as the couple made alterations and additions to the interiors, furnishings and gardens of their homes prior to moving to their Grosse Pointe Shores estate.

Brunk will also share insight into Willeke's work on several other local homes, some of which are still standing, including the Tudor home designed for Oscar and Marjorie Webber, Henry and Clara Ford's Fairlane estate, and homes in Indian Village. The presentation will include original photographs, carvings, plaster models and pencil drawings of Willeke's work from Brunk's collection.

Brunk is a guest curator at Pewabic Pottery, adjunct professor at Wayne State University and an instructor at College for Creative Studies. He is also curator of an upcoming exhibit at Marshall M. Fredericks Sculpture Museum entitled Pewabic Pottery: Patronage, Private Residences, Public Buildings, Sacred Spaces. Among his published works is Leonard B. Willeke: Excellence in Architecture and Design.

Admission to the lecture is complimentary; however, reservations are requested and can be made by calling (313) 884-4222. The Ford House is located at 1100 Lakeshore, Grosse Pointe Shores.

Library speaker

Harlow Giles Unger will be the featured speaker at the 7 p.m., Tuesday, May 22, Friends of the Grosse Pointe Public Library annual meeting, at Grosse Pointe Farms Pier Park Community Building.

Unger is the author of 15 books and will speak about his newest book, "George Washington — His Private Life." Well known for his biographies of our founding fathers.

Unger has written a first-ever close-up of the warm, human soul behind the cold, presidential portraits. Little is known of the private Washington.

More than Franklin, more than Jefferson, Unger said,

Washington was a genius: a scientist, inventor, architect, scholar and entrepreneur.

Drawing on letters, diaries and neglected primary sources, "The Unexpected George Washington" portrays the glorious, passionate, private person most Americans don't even know existed.

Unger will sign copies of his book.

The Friends will also honor the distinguished service recipient followed by a brief business meeting.

IRONMEN:

rope of wire, pliers, a wrench and bag for bolts.

The bridge is a mighty sight to see, connecting two peninsulas and reducing travel time for tourists and business men and women, time that was once spent waiting on the docks for ferries to take them across the watery expanse. Without the ironworkers, the carpenters, operators, concrete masons, rod busters, electricians and other tradesmen, the engineering feat would have not been accomplished.

Trimpe was contracted by iron workers representing Local 25 Detroit, Local #0 Battle Creek and Local 8 Milwaukee to create a likeness of a 1950s ironworker wearing overalls and layers of shirts to keep warm as they waded high above the cold wars, waters that never warm up, even during the hottest of August days.

Trimpe understands how hard the bridge builders worked. As a single mother of three, she supported her family as an oil painter and potter.

"I started out as a potter, taking lessons continually," she said. Trimpe moved into pottery, sold a few pieces and began studying sculpting. Her instructors urged her to take lessons, but she didn't see how she could fit them into her schedule.

"I can't go to school, I have kids," she said to her teachers. Trimpe was given her own studio and she hasn't stopped learning since it all began in the 1970s.

"This is what I'm supposed to do," she said of her sculpting. "With every piece, I learn something. It's a never ending process. This one, I learned you must have an engineer's mind."

She will be standing side by side with ironworkers during the dedication; both having worked with their hands to leave a mark on Michigan's history.

Hosting a party has its responsibilities

My daughter is a senior in high school. We have agreed to host a graduation party for her at our home. Do you have any information on the laws with regard to drinking and driving and parents hosting parties etc.? I want to make sure I know my responsibilities.

This time of year is exciting for graduates — lots of parties and celebrating, but the potential for accidents is greatly increased. Parents play a major role in their children's choices about alcohol, tobacco and drugs. In a recent national survey of parents and teens by the National Center on Addiction and Substance Abuse at Columbia University, one-third of teens have been to parties where teens were drinking alcohol, smoking pot, or using cocaine, Ecstasy or prescription drugs while a parent was present. By age 17, nearly half (46 percent) of teens have been at such parties.

Drug-Free Action Alliance has developed the "Parents Who Host, Lose the Most: Don't be a party to teenage drinking" public awareness campaign to provide parents with accurate information about the health risks of underage drinking and the legal consequences of providing alcohol to youth. The campaign encourages parents and the community to send a unified message at prom and graduation time that teen alcohol consumption is not acceptable. It is illegal, unsafe, and unhealthy for anyone under 21 to drink alcohol.

We recently sponsored a program about this very topic at the Harper Woods Public Library called "What's a Parent to Do?" Officer Walker, a public safety officer and liaison to Harper Woods High School gave a great presentation about the legal aspects of underage drinking.

It was eye opening for the parents attending. According to Walker, teenagers are not the only ones that can be held accountable for underage drinking.

If kids are under 21, parents can be held responsible as well.

Here are a few interesting facts Walker presented from the Office of Highway Safety Planning:

◆ Parents who give alcohol to their teen's friends under any circumstances, even in their homes, are breaking the law.

◆ Parents who knowingly allow a person under 21 to remain in their home or on their property while consuming or possessing alcoholic beverages can be prosecuted and are legally responsible for anything that might happen to a minor who has been served alcohol in their home.

◆ Parents can be sued if they give alcohol to anyone under 21 and they in turn hurt someone, themselves or damage property.

If a minor gets caught with alcohol in their possession penalties for the first offense include: fines up to $100, and substance abuse screening/assessment at your expense. If under 18, parents will be notified, and community service must be completed. The second offense is the same as first except fines are doubled and driver's license is suspended for 90 days.

If a minor gets caught driving with any alcohol in his body the first offense is 30 to 90 day driver's license suspension, $125 license reinstatement fee, four points on his driving record, fines up to $250, and mandatory community service. The second offense includes a 90 day to one year suspension of his driver's license, community service, fines up to $500, $125 license reinstatement fee, and substantial insurance rate increase or cancellation.

Besides the fines and potential lawsuits, the really scary part is to think of adolescents driving under the influence. Their brains are not fully developed with regards to reasoning and logic, they are more apt to take risks, less likely to wear safety belts, and lack experience behind the wheel.

Motor vehicle crashes are the leading cause of death for 15 to 20 year olds in America. In fact, young drivers between 15 and 20 years old account for less than 7 percent of America's licensed drivers, yet are responsible for more than 20 percent of crash fatalities. Some 31 percent of the 15 to 20 year old drivers who were killed in fatal crashes had been drinking.

Some 25 percent had a blood alcohol concentration level of 0.08 percent or above. The fatality rate is compounded because young drivers and their passengers are much less likely to wear safety belts.

So parents, protect yourself and your teens by following these guidelines when hosting parties:

◆ Host safe, alcohol-free activities and events for youth.

◆ Refuse to supply alcohol to children or allow drinking in your home or on your property.

◆ Be at home when your teenager has a party.

◆ Help make the guest list and limit the number to be invited. Send invitations to avoid the dangers of "open parties."

◆ Put your phone number on the invitation and encourage calls from friend's parents to check on the event. Invite other parents to come.

◆ Talk to other parents about not providing alcohol at youth events.

The bottom line is to enjoy the season, but not put our kids at risk.

They have a life full of promise ahead of them — let's make sure they have the ability to enjoy it! Congratulations to all of our graduates — and to the parents.

Evening pays tribute to thousands of smiles

The 11th Annual Journey of Smiles fundraiser hosted by Operation Smile Southeast Michigan will be from 6 p.m. to midnight, Saturday, June 9, at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel in Dearborn.

The evening includes a reception, dinner, silent and live auctions and dancing.

The event will pay tribute to the 25 years Operation Smile has been in existence.

Operation Smile is a world-wide children's medical charity dedicated to helping children and young adults born with facial deformities such as cleft lip and cleft palates.

To commemorate its milestone year, Operation Smile will conduct a week long "World Journey of Smiles" in November to include 43 simultaneous medical missions in 25 countries with a goal of treating 5,000 children with facial deformities.

In 25 years, Operation Smile's medical volunteers have provided free reconstructive surgery for more than 100,000 children and young adults worldwide and currently has programs in 25 countries.

Additionally, thousands of healthcare professionals have been trained globally. During a typical Operation Smile Medical Mission, 300 to 500 patients receive free medical evaluations.

Operation Smile partners with local physicians and institutions to build a legacy of trust, hope, health and dignity for patients hoping for a chance at a normal life.

Journey of Smiles speaker will be Wayne Zinn, Operation Smile chief operating officer and chief information officer.

The Corporate Humanitarian Award will be presented to WJBK-TV FOX 2 News. FOX 2 sent a news crew to Honduras and filmed a medical mission. The station also covered "Mercy's Story," which featured an Operation Smile World Care patient from Kenya, the year she was here for medical treatments, a subsequent visit by a physician to her village and, in 2006, when she was brought back to Detroit for was for a holiday.

"Operation Smile changes lives, one smile at a time," said Terri Klimke, the organization's southeast Michigan chapter chair and medical volunteer. "This year, the southeast Michigan chapter is honored to be able to recognize and celebrate the organization's achievements over its 25 years and the selfless work and commitment of all the organization's volunteers."

Klimke, an anesthetist for the Department of Anesthesiology at the University of Michigan Health System, has volunteered on 13 Operation Smile medical missions since 2000.

"People often ask me why I give up my vacation to go and do these missions. When you see the look in the eyes of the children and their parents, watch their faces the first time they look in a mirror after surgery, you know you have truly done the most gratifying thing you can do with your profession," she said. "You stay grounded and remember what really matters in life."

Keynote speakers are Brian and Jenn Ellis of Farmington Hills, who will share the life-changing experience of surgery and aftercare their own child received after being born with a cleft lip and cleft palate.

They will discuss how fortunate they felt to live in a country where this type of medical care like this is readily available.

Auction items include a full-length fur coat, two tickets for a Celine Dion performance in Las Vegas, University of Michigan football tickets, a 50-inch plasma television and trips to Manhattan and San Francisco.

For more information on sponsorship opportunities, or to purchase tickets, call (248) 347-3659.

Grosse Pointe Farms woman turns 100 years

Irene Eisenhart turned 100 years old on Thursday, May 10, and her birthday turned into a community event.

Kroger's in The Village donated the cake. More than 350 cards were made by Grosse Pointe school children and flowers were delivered by Meals on Wheels volunteers and a local florist.

Irene Eisenhart observed her 100th birthday on May 10 with a surprise visit from members of SOC and the Grosse Pointe Farms mayor.

Grosse Pointe Farms Mayor James Farquhar also stopped by to wish Eisenhart a happy birthday in her home.

Eisenhart moved to her house in 1953. She has one son and remembers when her house was surrounded by woods.

The centenarian also remembers seeing Farquhar riding his bike after school from Grosse Pointe South High School toward his father's florist shop to work after school.

"Bless you all for remembering me, I hope you all find as much joy as your brought to me today," Eisenhart said.

The party was organized by Services for Older Citizens, Director of Volunteers, Mary Rose Nelson.

"Irene is definitely one of our favorite seniors on the Meals on Wheels route. We have been looking forward to this day for some time now," Nelson said.

Newborn hearing tests

Each newborn at St. John Hospital and Medical Center receives exceptional care from Holley Ear Institute Audiologists, staff, and volunteers. The Holley Ear Institute deploys volunteers weekdays, Monday through Friday, who conduct newborn hearing screens. This is an unusually significant volunteer position, which requires training by our audiologists. Well trained, reliable volunteers are key factors to our very successful program that has been in place at St. John Hospital for over 10 years.

With the advent of newborn screening in the United States, the average age at which hearing loss is confirmed has dropped from 24 to 30 months to 2 to 3 months. Infants who begin remediation within six months are able to maintain language and social and emotional development that is consistent with their age, in striking contrast to those whose hearing loss is first detected after six months of age.

The HEI Audiology Department is accepting volunteers interested in screening newborns for hearing. If you are interested in volunteering or learning more, please call Jill Wells, at St. John Hospital and Medical Center, Department of Audiology (313) 343-4436.

Senior driving tips keep drivers safe

It is estimated that by the year 2020, one in five drivers will be 65 years old or older.

Experts agree that knowing the warning signs of driving impairments, adjusting to physical and mental changes and developing transportation alternatives are critical to the safety of older drivers, their passengers and others on the road.

"With old age come changes that can greatly impact the ability to drive," said Ray Palermo, director of public relations for national car insurer, Response Insurance. "Unfortunately, it's borne out by the fact that older drivers have higher rates of fatal crashes than any other age groups, except teenagers."

Palermo offers the following tips for older drivers to consider:

- ◆ Vision: As they age, older drivers should be cognizant of their ability to see clearly, particularly at night; the discernment of contrasts; peripheral vision; the ability to adjust to changing conditions; and depth perception, all of which impact safe driving. To avoid oncoming headlights, focus on the right side of the lane and speak to your doctor about yellow night driving glasses. Have a wide angle rear and side view mirrors to increase your view and to reduce blind spots.

- ◆ Hearing: Hearing should be checked regularly. If a hearing aid is needed, be sure to ask about its effect on separating out background noise.

- ◆ Motor skills: Advancing age is often accompanied by a reduction in strength, which can impact the ability to brake or steer in an emergency. Stiffness in joints or arthritis can also limit a drivers' ability to turn his or her head sufficiently or to steer properly. Regular exercise will enhance flexibility, strength and stamina.

- ◆ Keeping limber will expand the overall range of movement.

- ◆ Reaction time: Often a person's reaction time slows with age, which increases the possibility of accidents and reacting to road hazards. Keep a longer distance between you and the car ahead to compensate for slowing reflexes.

- ◆ Medications: The effect of all medications taken should be addressed by a doctor.

- ◆ Mental acuity: Aging often results in a decrease in the ability to multi-task. Limit the use of the radio and have passengers handle directions and map navigation.

"One of the most important things is recognizing when it's time to give up driving altogether," Palermo said. "It's often a painful and difficult decision, but absolutely necessary if you are putting yourself or others at risk."

Palermo recommends that older drivers speak openly with their family, friends and doctor.

Prepare for the possibility by researching the availability and cost of taxis, public transportation and any government or nonprofit transportation alternatives before it is needed.

Observe better hearing and speech month

Since 1927, the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association has observed Better Hearing and Speech Month each May to raise public awareness of speech and language disorders that affect 14 million Americans.

Speech and language disorders can take many forms and can limit academic achievement, social adjustment and career advancement. An individual may be born with a speech or language disorder or it may be caused by accidental injury or illness.

"Fortunately, most people with speech and language problems can be helped," said Jo Ellen Cumpata, speech language pathologist in the Grosse Pointe Public Schools. "Even if the problem cannot be eliminated, we can teach people with speech and language problems, strategies to help them be as independent as possible.

Speech-language pathologists are the professionals who treat all types of speech, language and related disorders. They hold at least a master's degree and are certified by the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association. Speech-language pathologists work in schools, private practice, hospitals, clinics and other health and education settings.

FAMILY DAZE By Debbie Farmer

The passing of a mother brings tear to the eye

Warning: if you're feeling gloomy and want to read something happy and cheerful about Mother's Day, move along down the page.

You won't find that sort of thing here. Not today. Why? Because, you see, there are two different categories of people in this world: those lucky enough to have mothers around, and those who don't.

And depending when you read this, we're coming up to, or have just passed, the first Mother's Day that I don't.

So this year, instead of calling or buying a card, I've made a list of Things-I-Wish-I-Could-Tell-My-Mom.

Maybe it'll help some people come up with their own lists of things that they can still tell their mothers.

OK, it here goes.

Mom, all those times you told me to wear a jacket and I didn't, I froze.

Thanks for getting me a flute in fifth grade and making me practice.

I finally hemmed my own pants.

Thanks for walking me to school in the rain even though you made me wear those ugly red rubber galoshes over my favorite Mickey Mouse tennis shoes.

I have your singing voice.

Thanks for going to all of my school band concerts.

You were right; it was really me who broke your expensive glass vase, not the cat.

Your granddaughter made the honor roll this quarter.

Thanks for talking me out of dropping out of college, buying a VW van, and following the Grateful Dead.

Remember the time you told me to get rid of the "hootchie-cootchi" clothes in my closet? I didn't.

I finally made biscuits from scratch.

Sorry for all those times you wanted to take my picture, and I either closed my eyes or stuck out my tongue.

I found your favorite chocolate chip cookie recipe.

Remember all those country music concerts that you took me to that I said I hated? They weren't really that bad.

Your Elvis record collection is safe.

Remember when you said never to trust guys who ogle women? You were right.

Thank you for never telling me I needed to lose weight.

The Thanksgiving turkey didn't turn out dry this year.

I missed hearing you sing to me on my birthday.

Thanks for not getting too mad the time I tried to baptize the cat with toilet water.

You were right about the prune juice thing.

Thanks for teaching me how to get grass stains out of white pants.

The kids hung up your Christmas stocking.

Sorry about all those times I was short tempered or impatient or too busy with my own life to come to see you.

Thanks for the braces.

Sorry about the time I said, "I hate you," when you punished me for going to the mall with heavy black eyeliner and Kleenex stuffed in my bra. I didn't really mean it.

Your grandkids miss you.

I used to trade the tuna sandwiches you packed in my lunch for Twinkies. Sorry.

Thanks for making a homemade dinner for me every night, even though I complained about the meatloaf.

Sorry I didn't stay longer when I visited you in the hospital, but I couldn't face seeing how sick you were.

Remember the Iron Maiden concert you forbade me to go to when I was 14? I went.

I wish I could talk to you one more time.

The dog is fine.

Sorry I spent your last morning running errands instead of going to see you. But I didn't know you were going to die that day.

Happy Mother's Day, Mom. I love you.

Window art will benefit education

The works of two artists with Grosse Pointe connections will be featured in "Windows to the Future," an auction of artistically transformed windows.

Urban Alchemy, sponsored by the Architectural Savage Warehouse of Detroit and the Contemporary Art Institute of Detroit, features the work of 19 well-known Detroit-area artists. Funds raised at the 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. Thursday, May 24, auction at 4885 15th Street, Detroit, will help finance educational activities for area students and university level programs.

The exhibit opens to the public Saturday, May 26, and runs through June.

"The collaboration with CAID is an exciting one," said Carolyn Mosher, a Grosse Pointe resident and executive director of ASWD, a non-profit organization dedicated to salvaging and repurposing usable materials from old buildings. "The facility is only a few blocks from our location, allowing both organizations to conveniently showcase their activities."

A memorial tribute to architect, Douglas McIntosh of McIntosh Poris Associates AIA will be included in the evening's events.

The auction features the creations of participating artists who used old windows to create new art pieces. Also included in the auction are birdhouses created by students at Ralph Bunche Elementary School and George Crockett Academy.

Artists participating include, Jeanne Bieri, Sandra Cardew, Frank English, Mark Esse, Anne Fracassa, Marco Garcia, Maurice Greenia, Jr., Gabriel

Hillebrand, Anne Harrington-Hughes, Scott Hocking, Robert Quentin Hyde, Gail Mally-Mack, Eric Mesko, Teresa Petersen, Mike Richison, Clinton Snider, Jack O. Summers, Vito Jesus Valdez, and Jean Wilson.

Bieri, of Grosse Pointe, is known to peruse the streets of Detroit on trash day searching for discarded household items which she transforms into works of art described as mysterious, provocative and sometimes bizarre. Bieri said she loves looking at things as they randomly occur and reordering them in ways that make sense.

Summers, a former drawing, painting and photography teacher at Grosse Pointe South High School, uses those disciplines along with digital art, collage, and assemblage in his current work.

His education began in the Detroit Public School System and continued at the Tyler School of Art, The New School for Social Research, Wayne State University, and the College for Creative Studies. In addition to Grosse Pointe South, he taught part time at the College for Creative Studies and is currently an adjunct instructor at the International Academy of Art and Technology in Troy.

Much of Summers' work contains a figure or a figurative element. He said he is concerned with the visual, political, religious, mythological use of and representation of the human body and how the human form has been used by cultures as metaphors in mythologies and art.

Tickets for the auction are $85 and can be purchased online at aswdetroit.org/alchemy.

Youth can learn what life was like on a ribbon farm

Children aged 7 to 11 can experience "Life on the Ribbon Farm" during a four-day camp this summer.

The term ribbon farm refers to Grosse Pointe's early farm property that included up to 500 feet of lakefront property and extended inland for one to three miles. Prior to 1900, this property usually began at the lake and included a farmhouse and garden, barn with animals, a fruit orchard, wheat and corn fields and woods.

Sponsored by the Grosse Pointe Historical Society, the classes — geared toward boys and girls — will be held from 1 to 4 p.m. Monday July 16 through Thursday, July 19, at the Provencal-Weir house, 376 Kercheval, Grosse Pointe Farms.

The schedule includes: Monday, July 16: Picnic foods and lawn games. Participants will make checkerboard sandwiches and butterfly cookies, have a picnic, catch bugs and participate in old-fashioned lawn games and crafts.

Tuesday, July 17: Habitant fun and games. Explore Grosse Pointe's early French roots and make French crepes and apple cider. Have a scavenger hunt and learn about the French Provencal family.

Wednesday, July 18: Early American Theatrics. Explore the lives of early American boys and girls through theatrical escapades. Participate in opportunities to hone acting skills, learn about props and stage directions. Bring a shoebox to make a set.

Thursday, July 19: Good of summertime picnic. Participants will make their own chicken, salad, potatoes and cakes. While supper is in the oven, participants will pot herbs to take home to start a garden.

The fee is $120. Register in advance by sending a check to the Grosse Pointe Historical Society, 381 Kercheval, Grosse Pointe Farms, MI 48236.

Note a home phone number and the child's name and age.

Historian to discuss architect's work

While much has been written about Edsel and Eleanor Ford's relationship with architect Albert Kahn, few know about their work with Detroit architect Leonard B. Willeke.

Local art and architecture historian Dr. Thomas W. Brunk will explore Willeke's work with the Fords as the couple made alterations and additions to the interiors, furnishings and gardens of their homes prior to moving to their Grosse Pointe Shores estate. He will also share insight into Willeke's work on several other local homes, some of which are still standing. Those homes include the Tudor home designed for Oscar and Marjorie Webber, Henry and Clara Ford's Fairlane estate, and homes in Indian Village.

The 7 p.m. Tuesday, May 22, presentation at the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House, 1100 Lakeshore, Grosse Pointe Farms, will include original photographs, carvings, plaster models and pencil drawings of Willeke's work from Brunk's own collection.

Brunk is a guest curator at Pewabic Pottery, adjunct professor at Wayne State University and an instructor at College for Creative Studies.

He is also curator of an upcoming exhibit at Marshall M. Fredericks Sculpture Museum entitled Pewabic Pottery: Patronage, Private Residences, Public Buildings, Sacred Spaces.

Among his published works is "Leonard B. Willeke: Excellence in Architecture and Design." He is currently completing three books related to the history of Pewabic Pottery.

Admission to the lecture is complimentary; however, reservations are requested and can be made by calling (313) 884-4222.

Detroit, Grosse Pointe sponsor summer youth program

Summer may be more interesting for the 60 area youth accepted into a performing arts camp taught by members of the Mosaic Youth Theatre of Detroit.

Students can either interview and pay the full $150 tuition or audition for merit-based scholarships.

The Detroit-Grosse Pointe Summer Performing Arts Institute is restricted to 10- to 14-year-olds who want to improve their acting and dancing skills.

The camp is held from noon to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday beginning July 16 through Aug. 3, at Grace Community Church, 21001 Moross, Detroit.

Students must choose either acting or dance and prepare one of the following:

- Acting — memorize a one minute poem or monologue from a published play
- Dance — prepare a two minute choreographed dance.

For more information or to schedule an interview or audition, contact Renee Gilmore at (313) 408-4852.

DOWN TO EARTH By Kathleen Peabody

Violets adorable, delicious, nutritious

All right. I'm going out on a limb with this topic. But I can't resist. It's about those little purple, yellow, white or color combination flowers that are either blooming right now or just completed their cycle.

You know the ones. They're a native plant found in our gardens but also found in our lawns. It's that cute little violet.

Yes, I'm a sucker for the cute factor. When I see violets, I think adorable. And, how can you beat a flower that is cute, fragrant and edible? Only 1/2 cup of violet flowers offers as much vitamin C as four oranges. Or as Newman Flower wrote in "Through My Garden Gate," "It gives you all you need — colour, perfume, glory."

In reality, the violet family includes 200 species. Some are native to Europe, Northern Asia and North America, with five natives of Great Britain. The violet family includes pansies, violas and, our local moniker of Johnny-jump-ups, which have found their way into our hearts and gardens. The blue version in our lawns is known as Viola papilionacea or common blue violet.

With our rather strange spring this year, we may still find violets blooming in wooded areas where filtered sunlight hits the forest floor. The sweet scent will grab you. And, picking the flowers is not a problem as the seeds are produced in completely separate seedheads. Think of gathering a few and enjoy them in a glass on your windowsill. They'll last up to four days in water. Or if pansies are more to your liking, choose from three varieties based on the size of bloom and color combination. The large blooms are 3 to 4 inches, medium 2 to 3 inches, and multiflora are 1 to 2 inches. Large bloomers include the Accord series with large blooms on short sturdy stems; Majestic Giant series, a 1966 All-America Selections winner, withstands heat and cold particularly well and has six colors and a mix from which to choose, all with faces; Swiss Giant is an old-fashioned European pansy bred in Switzerland and are good for cut flower bouquets.

Medium varieties include Imperial series, prized for its non-fading color and vigorous growth; Joker series the velvety purple with orange face; and Springtime series with 17 colors and are reliable growers in heat or cold.

Multifloras consist of the Universal series with masses of early blooming flowers in 13 colors and a mix and are heat tolerant in northern summers.

Pansies are used for color massing, edging, containers and window boxes during the fall, winter and spring, and thrive in cool weather. They will bloom any time that the temperature is above freezing. Their peak bloom is in the spring. To enhance fragrance in your garden, grow or buy the most aromatic pansies. Yellow or blue pansies seem to have the strongest scent. Or, grow these colors in mass plantings in a patio container.

For the violet clan, seeds can be started indoors or purchased bedding plants. Select stocky plants with dark green foliage. Go with a plant with fewer blooms and more buds. If you haven't added organic matter to your soil, use of time released fertilizer when planting provides a good source for long term performance.

In the spring, there should be enough rain to provide adequate moisture for pansies (about an inch of water once a week). Never water pansies in the late afternoon or evening since this encourages disease. Mulch around the pansies with 2 inches of organic material to conserve moisture and reduce weed growth. Remove old flowers for longest bloom. Pansies will decline with hot weather and can be replaced with summer-flowering annuals.

Visit The American Violet Society at americanvioletsociety.org for recipes and history about this delightful little plant. Or get a copy of Roy E. Coombs' "Violets: The History & Cultivation of Scented Violets" for beautiful hand painted illustrations and researched information.

Here are two recipes from author, herbalist and photographer Pat Crocker. Use violet flowers as a garnish or sparingly as too many can have a laxative effect.

Violet Lassi

Lassi is the name given to frothy drinks made with yogurt in place of milk. They are a sour-tart alternative to milk drinks and milk shakes.

- 1 cup natural yogurt
- 1/4 cup fresh or frozen raspberries
- 2 Tbsp. chopped fresh violet flowers and leaves (unsprayed)
- 2 Tbsp. honey
- 1/3 cup sparkling mineral water

In the jug of a blender, combine the yogurt, raspberries, violets and honey. Blend on low speed for 30 seconds, then increase speed to high and blend another 10 seconds, until smooth.

Pour violet mixture into two glasses and stir in mineral water to taste.

Sweet Violet Vinegar

Sweet purple or blue violets impart their brilliant color and scent to vinegar, making it a perfect spring vinaigrette ingredient.

The quantities below only serve as a guide for all kinds of herbed vinegar.

Homemade white wine vinegar is the most delicately flavored vinegar for this or any flavored vinegar, however cider vinegar may be used.

- 4 cups blue sweet violets
- 1 cup white wine vinegar

Stuff a clean, wide-mouthed jar with the violet flowers. Pour vinegar over, leaving a 1/2 inch head space, cap and allow to sit in the sun two weeks.

Strain off the herbs, discard and add fresh flowers to the jar if the color and fragrance is not strong enough. Allow to sit another 2 weeks.

Go ahead ... Show off your mussels

Mussels are one of my favorite foods from the sea. They are tasty little morsels that sit nicely with a wide variety of sauces. I picked up a heaping five pound bag of mussels and dug up a recipe that I've been meaning to try for quite some time. This simple sauce cooks up in a snap and relies on lots of minced onion and white wine for flavor. The sauce is finished with creme fraiche (French sour cream) and seasoned with fresh thyme. Yummy.

Mussels in White Wine and Creme Fraiche
 3 tablespoons butter
 3 tablespoons olive oil
 3/4 cup minced onion
 1/2 cup minced shallots
 1 tablespoon fresh thyme leaves
 2 bay leaves
 3 cups white wine
 1 1/2 cups water
 5 pounds mussels, thoroughly rinsed, cracked mussels discarded
 1/3 cup creme fraiche (or sour cream) salt and pepper to taste

chopped fresh parsley for garnish (optional)
 Melt the butter with the olive oil in a large (5 quart) deep skillet over medium heat. Add the onion and the shallot and cook and stir until soft and golden, 5 to 7 minutes. Stir in the thyme and bay leaves. Add the water and the wine and bring the mixture to a boil. Add the mussels, cover and cook over high heat for about 5 minutes. Transfer the mussels (using a slotted spoon) to a serving bowl and cover tightly with foil to keep warm. Continue to boil the liquid, uncovered for another 5 minutes.

Lower the skillet heat to very low and whisk in the creme fraiche. Taste and season with salt and pepper. Pour the sauce over the mussels and top with chopped fresh parsley. Serve the mussels with crusty bread or over fresh cooked pasta. The sauce boasts a fresh flavor that's a nice change from the usual white wine and garlic.

North hands South first loss

Norsemen now 5-0 in MAC White

Betsy Graney couldn't have picked a better time to return to form for Grosse Pointe North's girls track team.

Graney, who holds several track and cross country records at North, has been hampered twice by injuries this season but she was at her best last weekend in leading the Norsemen to an 82 1/2-54 1/2 victory against Grosse Pointe South in a Macomb Area Conference White Division meet.

The victory gave North a 5-0 record in the MAC White. South, which completed the busiest week in the team's history, wound up 5-1 in the division.

"North has huge talent and earned the win," said South coach Steve Zaranek. "We fought as hard as we could in all 17 events and were able to keep the score close until just three events to go. Our girls were awesome competitors and even though we lost, we felt very good about what we

South wins third tourney

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Just call Grosse Pointe South's baseball team the "weekend warriors."

"We won all three of the Saturday invitational tournaments we've hosted this year, and we're 9-1 in those games," said Blue Devils coach Dan Griesbaum.

South has the final four-team tournament this weekend, and many of the state tournament games will be played on Saturdays.

In last weekend's tournament, the Blue Devils beat Grosse Pointe North 10-5 in the championship game. In the first two games, South defeated University Liggett School 3-1 and Madison Heights Bishop Foley 9-5.

The Blue Devils' victory against North was a comeback victory.

"It was a typical North-South war," Griesbaum said.

North took the early lead with four runs in the first inning.

Sean Stevenson singled, Jon Chapel walked and Nick Cullen was hit by a pitch to load the bases. Robert Briski drove in two runs with a single, and Tim Tibaud and Jeff Rohrkemper followed with RBI singles.

South erased the lead with six runs in the second.

Two walks and a single by Buzz Palazzolo loaded the bases. A walk to Max Pearson forced in the first run. Pat Lewandoski followed with an RBI single, and Ryan Abraham drove in two runs with a single. Another run scored on an error, Chris Stephens singled home a run and the final run scored when James Bertakis hit into a fielder's choice.

Mike Herzog doubled home a run in the third, and three North errors helped the Blue

ULS perfect in Metro action

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

University Liggett School's soccer team completed a perfect Metro Conference season, but the Knights met their match against crosstown rival Grosse Pointe North.

"We didn't play as well as the score would indicate against North," ULS coach David Backhurst said after his team's 4-2 loss to the Norsemen. "They were all over us. I really thought we'd put up a better fight."

It might have been more of a romp for North except for ULS goalkeeper Grace D'Arcy, who set a school record with 24 saves.

"They had 33 shots and 28 of them got to the goal," Backhurst said. "Grace had to be very active. She had an outstanding game."

"North is a very good team. They were quicker and stronger. They have two superstars and several other very good players. We learned a lot from this game."

The superstars Backhurst referred to were Chelsea Detrick and Olivia Stander.

"Detrick controlled the midfield, and she'd get the ball through to Stander," Backhurst said. "I remember Olivia from my soccer camp several years ago, but I didn't realize she was so fast. She has great moves and a heavy shot."

"I don't think any of the teams we'll face in the (Division IV) playoffs will have two players like those two."

Stander opened the scoring four minutes into the match when she scored off a corner kick on a lob to the upper left corner of the net.

"When they scored that early, it took a lot out of us," Backhurst said.

Twenty-five minutes later, Sami Filippelli scored into the right side of the net.

"Those were both seeing-eye goals — beautiful shots that Grace couldn't do anything about," Backhurst said.

ULS got a goal with about three minutes left in the first half, when Rachel Goldberg scored off a throw-in by Jessica Leonard, but North answered quickly on a breakaway goal by Stander to make it 3-1 at halftime.

Filippelli scored, assisted by Stander, 29 minutes into the second half.

ULS completed the scoring with six minutes left. Kate Fridholm beat her mark to the right side, went around the goalie and sent a pass to Jillian Twardowski, who tapped the ball into an open corner of the net.

Earlier, ULS wrapped up the Metro Conference regular season championship with a 5-0 victory against Lutheran North.

"They packed it in defensively," Backhurst said of the Mustangs. "There were times they had all 11 players on the defensive end of the field."

That didn't seem to bother the Knights.

"We passed the ball beautifully," Backhurst said. "It was our best passing game. We linked up well. We made three, four, five nice passes every time. I had hoped that would carry over to the (Grosse Pointe) North game."

ULS opened the scoring 18 minutes into the match when Goldberg sent a cross to Leonard, who booted the ball into the net.

Five minutes later, it was Leonard who set up Goldberg for the Knights' second goal.

Nine minutes into the second half, Goldberg's crossing pass found Fridholm and she scored to make it 3-0. Goldberg then dribbled through three Lutheran North players to score her second goal of the game.

ULS outshot the Mustangs 28-4.

"They had a good goalie," Backhurst said. "She was probably their best player."

In its other game last week, ULS rolled past Clarenceville 8-1 in a Metro Conference game.

The Knights opened the scoring 13 minutes into the first half when Leonard fed Fridholm with a perfect crossing pass and Fridholm converted for the goal.

Leonard set up Goldberg for the second goal and Leonard scored on a penalty kick to give ULS a 3-0 halftime lead.

ULS, which outshot the Trojans 11-3 in the first half, continued the onslaught in the second half with a 20-1 shot advantage.

Leonard scored the first two goals of the second half, the first on a throw-in from Charlotte Waldmeir and the second on a pass from Fridholm. Fridholm made it 6-0, assisted by Goldberg.

After Clarenceville scored on a penalty kick, Paige Counsman and Fridholm completed the ULS scoring.

North defeats league leader

Grosse Pointe North's soccer team has won four straight games, but none was bigger than Monday's 2-0 shutout of Macomb Area Conference Red Division leader Eisenhower.

The Norsemen played a solid, well-rounded match. Play went back and forth for much of the first half, however North seemed to control the tempo from the start. The Norsemen won most 50-50 balls and aggressively controlled the midfield.

Goalkeeper Holly Spencer kept the Eagles off the scoreboard until North got a pair of goals from Olivia Stander.

North defenders started the first scoring opportunity. Megan Herbst and Paula Kennedy passed the ball nicely up the middle of the field to Stander, who was able to break away from several Eisenhower defenders before she scored on a low shot to the left of the goalie.

Minutes later, Stander received a perfect pass from freshman midfielder Sami Filippelli, faked a pair of Eagles defenders and scored on a solid shot from within 15 feet of the goal to give North a 2-0 halftime lead.

North's defenders took over in the second half and made sure that Eisenhower wouldn't have any quality scoring chances.

Allison Everitt made several strong defensive plays, including a spectacular play when she ran down a sprinting Eagles forward to break up a threat.

Chelsea Detrick consistently beat the Eisenhower midfielders to the loose balls, and she was instrumental in controlling and stealing many passes to put pressure on the Eagles forwards.

Nikki Capizzo, Hannah Clor, Danielle Prespiorka, Christina Schucker and Sarah Kinnear all played well offensively and defensively for the Norsemen.

South beats two MAC Red rivals

Grosse Pointe South's soccer team looks like it's back on the winning track.

Last week, the Blue Devils avenged an earlier loss to Chippewa Valley and on Monday, South dominated Utica Ford II to win 6-0.

Ford has lost its two best players to injuries and illness and the Falcons were run ragged by South's short passing game.

With 16:18 remaining in the first half, Erika Kay scored off Amy Hathaway's quick pass after her interception of a Ford clearing pass. Moments later, Lindsay Krall had to jump to control Anna Cunningham's cross but with one touch, she made it 2-0 with a short shot.

Just before halftime, Emma Brush's pass toward Kara Trowell resulted in a tussle for ball control. Trowell won the battle and in one motion kicked the ball into the net for a 3-0 lead.

Less than four minutes into the second half, Krall made a nice run, faked the oncoming goalkeeper and scored her second goal of the match. Katie Galea hit Krall with a pass to earn the assist.

Moments later, it appeared that Krall had a hat trick, but her speed put her offside and the goal was disallowed.

Two minutes later, Stephanie Garbarino made amends by stealing the ball from a defender and scoring on an outstanding 18-yard shot. In another minute and a half, Cunningham made her patented quick turn on a perfect pass from Krall to score South's final goal.

Coach Gene Harkins then rested his starters as Katie Orlicki, Amanda Marsh, Liz Lightbody, Erin Hughes, Katherine Corden and Michele Arthur played the final 30 minutes.

Kathryn Tietjen made four saves in the first half and Lauren Jacob had two second-half stops to preserve the shutout.

Hathaway was the only South player with more than one shot in the second half, and she had three near misses.

Earlier, South beat Chippewa Valley 2-0. In their first meeting, the Big Reds won 3-2 for the first time since Harkins became coach and he took the responsibility for the defensive strategy that didn't work.

South gets three convincing wins

By Bob St. John

Grosse Pointe South's lacrosse team rebounded from a heartbreaking triple-overtime tournament loss with three convincing victories last week.

The Blue Devils beat L'Anse Creuse North 10-4, L'Anse Creuse 13-5 and Utica Eisenhower 15-6. The Blue Devils lost to L'Anse Creuse and Eisenhower earlier this

"The guys put the tournament final loss behind them and played very well in each of the three games," head coach Don Wolford said.

"Our offense was very effective and I was happy to see our guys get assists on most of our goals."

Everyone chipped in against L'Anse Creuse North and cruised to the win.

In the L'Anse Creuse contest, Matt Naber had six goals and Tim Shield recorded five assists.

"We had 10 assists on our 13 goals against L'Anse Creuse and 10 more assists on our 15 goals against Ike (Utica Eisenhower)," Wolford said.

Alex Langton had three goals and one assist against Eisenhower, while Brian Greiner and Michael Blazoff each had two goals and one assist.

Grosse Pointe South improved to 11-4 overall.

ULS rallies for Metro season title

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

No matter how talented a baseball team's underclassmen are, it always helps to have some solid senior leadership.

University Liggett School is getting that from Joe Conway.

"He's been phenomenal for us," coach Dan Cimini said. "We can always rely on him, and that's what you need from your seniors. He's 5-0 and has two saves. He's not overpowering but he throws strikes."

When ULS needed a victory against Lutheran North last week to clinch the regular season championship in the Metro Conference, Conway shut down the Mustangs in relief and picked up the victory when the Knights scored five runs in the eighth inning to win 8-3.

Conway also got the call on Monday when ULS opened the Metro Conference tournament, and he responded once more.

He pitched a two-hit shutout and struck out seven as ULS beat the Cosmos 2-0.

"We played perfect defense behind him," Cimini said. "We made every play and even turned a couple of double plays."

D.J. Henderson drove in the only run Conway needed with a single in the third inning. The Knights added an insurance run in the fifth on Clarke Dirksen's groundout.

"We hit some balls hard, but right at people," Cimini said.

In the Lutheran North game, ULS led 3-0 but the Mustangs came back with three runs in the fifth inning to tie the contest.

That's when Conway came in and shut the door.

A pair of walks around a double by Tommy Graves loaded the bases for ULS in the eighth. Yates Campbell was hit by a pitch to force in the first run. Dirksen followed with a sacrifice fly and Patrick Gustine hit an RBI single before Curtis Fisher and Michael Thomas drew bases-loaded walks to force in the final two runs.

ULS lost to Grosse Pointe South (3-1) and Grosse Pointe North (17-5) in a tournament last weekend, but the Knights beat Madison Heights Bishop Foley 13-10.

"That was good for us to play teams like North and South, and it's great for Grosse Pointe baseball to have three teams that good," Cimini said.

In the Foley game, the Ventures scored four runs in the first inning but ULS came back to take a 13-5 lead.

Graves hit a three-run homer in the fourth, and Gustine hit a two-run shot.

Jeremiah Manning was the winning pitcher and Conway came on to get the save.

There were several strong performances in the tournament for the Knights. Fisher was 7-for-10 with five doubles, and Henderson went 9-for-11 with a pair of walks.

Gustine pitched a strong game against South.

Kayla Womack with a sixth in the 200 dash.

South also used the Dakota meet as a tuneup for Friday's Division I state regional meet that the Blue Devils will host.

South's medal winners were Mackenzie, high jump; Steen, long jump; DeBoer, 100; and Hollerbach, 1,600.

The Blue Devils had top three finishes in three of the relays.

McLaughlin, Lanza and the two Nelsons earned a medal in the 3,200 relay. Medaling in the sprint relays were Jenzen, Christine Nelson, Grambo, Mackenzie, Frazier, Bowman and Megan DeBoer won in 52.0.

The 1,600 relay team of Larissa Petrovic, the two Nelsons and Jenzen finished second but had their best time. Jenzen and Colleen Manardo finished 1-2 in the pole vault for South.

Sarah Hansen placed in the shot put and discus, Jeannie Hollerbach placed in the 1,600 and 3,200, Petrovic earned points in the long jump and 400, and Emily Franchett placed in both hurdles races.

The Norsemen didn't have much time to enjoy their victory against South, because on Saturday they competed in the Dakota Invitational. Graney defended her championship in the 1,600 run with a winning time of 5:21.7.

Flanagan posted a season best of 110-9 in winning the discus.

Bush won the 300 hurdles in 49.4, and Jones was third in the 100 hurdles in 17.27.

North took first in the 400 relay with the team of Peoples, DeFauw, Abessinio and Marshay Daniels winning in 52.34, and the 800 relay team of Peoples, DeFauw, Abessinio and Raymond had a winning time of 1:49.7.

Rounding out the North medalists were Katie Graves with a fifth in the 800 run and Michele Miller.

in front of the goal at 16:01. Kay, only 10 minutes into her first varsity action, earned the assist with a crisp pass.

Ten and a half minutes later, South's bench strength came to the fore as Lightbody and Trowell positioned themselves in front of the goal and converted a loose ball into a score. Trowell got her first goal of the season, while Lightbody notched her first assist.

Krall had South's only other shot on goal in the half.

Sarah Stanczyk led her defensive corps of Hannah Orlicki, Meryl Ethridge, Danika Stone, Katie Orlicki and Marsh in a complete wipeout of any Big Reds offense, holding them to one shot in each half.

Stephanie Skowneski, who figured in all three Chippewa Valley goals in the first match, was covered by Stone and rarely touched the ball.

ON SAIL By Sandra Svoboda

America's Cup arouses interest

and who couldn't want the cup back in the stunning setting of Auckland? They have American Terry Hutchinson among the brain trust. He once made sails in northern Michigan and sailed with plenty of Grosse Pointers.

A number of sailors are doing the equivalent of Red Wings and Pistons fans who are dormant during the regular season but now are donning team jerseys during the playoffs.

I'm among the guilty. After giving only cursory attention to the "Acts" leading up to this spring's America's Cup, I this week find myself reading daily reports from the challenger semi finals and listening to live webcasts of the races in my office.

Just what I need: another Internet distraction involving sailing.

But it's down from the original 11 challengers who prepped for years for the chance to race for the auld mug. It's just four teams now sailing for the Louis Vuitton Cup. That's a manageable number to follow and remember.

And they're all different. There's the slick Luna Rossa syndicate, backed by the Prada fashion house. They're facing BMW Oracle Racing and have split in their first two meetings in the do-or-die challenger semifinal.

The other match has "local" Desafio Espanol 2007, the Spanish syndicate, squaring off against Emirate Team New Zealand, with its core of long-time Kiwi sailors.

Both are great story lines. Luna Rossa has been at this since the 2000 series when they beat America One, a San Francisco-based syndicate, to unsuccessfully face Team New Zealand in the finals. BMW Oracle is the product of billionaire Larry Ellison who sails with the best money can buy.

In the other match, the two most nationalistic teams face each other: Underdog Desafio Espanol started the semifinal series with the king on board. Emirates Team New Zealand sailors carry the hopes of that tiny island nation with them

The semifinal winners of the best-of-nine series will meet and that winner will face defending champion Alinghi in the finals.

While my allegiances aren't strong, I find myself publicly pulling for BMW Oracle. Their win would bring the Cup back to the United States for the first time this century. Secretly I'd like the Kiwis to take it home.

As I'm writing this, live commentary of both semifinal matches is booming through my computer and I've got the "Tracker" function streaming text updates of the boats, positions and wind. I tried to get the 3-D animation of the matches, but my office firewall prevents that. Good thing, from the employer's perspective!

I'm actually finding work to do during the broadcasts so that I can listen to the race. A lot of papers get filed. My desk has never been so clear and organized. I dread answering the telephone. I can't multitask that well to hold a professional conversation and determine whether an AC boat is on a favored shift a continent away.

Even when racing isn't live, I'm checking out the cup home page at www.americascup.com. I'm also on www.sailingscuttlebutt.com, where there is a nice index of links to other sites, blogs and articles about the races, or www.sailingworld.com, where the magazine's staff always has well-written work.

Truly, I wish I could work at home so I could watch the races live on the Versus network which is available on Grosse Pointe cable service.

Now that would be perfect. Live television on a big screen and multiple websites with commentary in several languages, the animated tracking and weather reports. A glass of Sangria and I'm there.

It almost makes me forget that unlike hockey, I can actually play this sport.

Graney won the 800-meter run in 2:27, the 1,600 run in 5:25 and the 3,200 in 12:14. She also combined with Kelly DeFauw, Haley Abessinio and Anitra Peoples to win the 1,600 relay in 4:14.

Several of Graney's teammates also made huge contributions to the victory.

DeFauw and Abessinio went 1-2 in both the 200 and the 400 dashes. DeFauw's winning times in each event were personal bests. She was clocked in 26.12 in the 200 and 59.95 in the 400.

Freshman Katie Raymond completed a 200 sweep for North.

Kiyonna Jones and Janae Micou finished 1-2 in the 100 hurdles, while Peoples and Raymond took first and third, respectively, in the 100.

North also did well in the field events.

Lauren Flanagan won the shot put with a personal-best throw of 35-feet-4, and she was also first in the discus with a throw of 104-9.

She also tied for second in the pole vault.

Freshman Ariel Braker provided a pleasant surprise for North when she won the high jump with a personal-best 5-2. Christine Klein tied for second in the high jump when she cleared 5-0.

Braker also won the long jump in 15-2 and was third in the discus with a throw of 80-6.

Grosse Pointe South's baseball team celebrates after beating Grosse Pointe North 10-5 to win the four-team tournament hosted by the Blue Devils.

SOUTH: Also wins two in league

Devils score a fourth-inning run. South got its final two runs in the fifth on an error with the bases loaded on a ball hit by Lewandoski and an RBI single by Evan Pearson.

South opened the tournament with the 3-1 win against ULS, which is coached by one of Griesbaum's former players, Dan Cimini.

"Cimini has done a great job with that program," Griesbaum said. "They'll do well in Division IV."

ULS opened the scoring with a run in the first inning. Curtis Fisher led off with a walk, stole second and came around to score on groundouts by Michael Thomas and D.J. Henderson.

South tied the game in the bottom of the first. Stephens singled with two out, took second on a wild pitch and scored on Bertakis's single.

The Blue Devils broke the tie in the third, also with two out when Evan Pearson doubled and scored on Stephens's single. South added an insurance run in the fourth. Brian Barclay singled, stole second, moved to third on Max Pearson's bunt single and scored on the over-throw to first base.

Evan Pearson pitched a four-hitter and struck out seven for South.

Knights' pitcher Patrick Gustine also pitched a strong game, scattering seven hits.

"He kept our hitters off balance," Griesbaum said.

Lance Lucas tripled and Tyler Viarnes hit a two-run homer in the first for the Blue Devils.

The Ventures took the lead with three runs in the second inning, but South erupted for six runs in the third. After a single by Eric Allison, two Foley errors let in the first run of the inning. Lucas doubled home two runs, and after a walk to Viarnes, Mike Cytacki hit a grand slam.

Winning pitcher Tommy Carion hit an RBI single in the fourth for South's final run.

In its two Macomb Area Conference White Division games last week, South posted victories against L'Anse Creuse North and Fraser.

The Blue Devils trailed LCN 5-2 going into the bottom of the seventh inning. Paul Brosnan started the rally with a walk and Abraham singled. Stephens doubled home the first run. After an intentional walk to Bertakis, Evan Pearson and Carion followed with RBI singles and Barclay brought in the winning run with a sacrifice fly.

Evan Pearson picked up the win in relief.

South improved to 5-3 in the league with a 7-3 victory against Fraser.

The Blue Devils scored three runs in the second inning. Max Pearson singled home the first run of the inning and Evan Pearson hit a two-run double to cap the inning.

South scored twice in the third on a walk to Bertakis, a single by Barclay, Herzog's sacrifice fly and Max Pearson's RBI single. Consecutive singles by Herzog, Max Pearson, Lewandoski and Abraham produced the Blue Devils' final run in the fifth.

Bertakis pitched a two-hitter and struck out nine.

North softball keeps rolling

Grosse Pointe North's softball team continued its success last weekend with four more victories to improve to 23-1 overall.

The Norsemen overwhelmed L'Anse Creuse North 11-1 as pitchers Brittany Bate and Michelle Kuznia combined to strike out eight.

Madie Kent went 2-for-2 with two RBIs and Carrie Kaufmann, Keri Gallagher and Alex Cheolas also collected two hits apiece.

North won all three games at the Romeo Invitational.

The day began with a 14-0 romp over Rochester Stoney Creek.

Bate was the winning pitcher and she went 3-for-3 with two RBIs. Alyce Kulek, Gallagher, Rachael Lentz and Cheolas each hit doubles.

Bate and Kuznia combined on a two-hitter and nine strikeouts in a 9-4 win against L'Anse Creuse.

Kulek hit a double and triple and drove in three runs. Kaufmann had three hits and three RBIs.

Sam Matthew went 3-for-3 and drove in the game's only run as North edged Romeo 1-0.

Kaufmann and Kulek each collected three hits Monday as North beat L'Anse Creuse North 5-1 in a Macomb Area Conference White Division game.

Katelyn Vargo had two RBIs. Bate fanned 11 in picking up the victory.

Earlier, Bate recorded her 19th win of the season with a four-hit shutout and 11 strikeouts in a 4-0 victory against Lake Shore.

Kuznia, Lentz and Sam Wild each drove in a run for North. The Norsemen had a triple by Kuznia and a double by Matthew.

Bate struck out 12 and drove in two runs to lead North to a 4-0 win against Marine City.

Kaufmann had three hits, including a double, and drove in a run, while Lentz had a hit to drive in the other run for North. The Norsemen are ranked No. 2 in the state in Division I.

North beats Fraser, 27-10

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

This is not a misprint. It isn't an old Grosse Pointe North-Fraser football story that was accidentally placed in this space.

North did beat Fraser 27-10 in a Macomb Area Conference baseball game on Monday.

"When I called one of the other papers I said, 'Grosse Pointe North football score,'" coach Frank Sumner said with a laugh.

Believe it or not, the 27 runs and 22 hits aren't Norsemen records.

"We've scored that many runs in some of our tournament games against PSL teams," Sumner said.

The first inning set the stage for the game.

North scored three times in the top of the first on a three-run homer by Karl Tech, but the Ramblers came back with three unearned runs of their own in the bottom of the frame.

Fraser added four runs in the second to go ahead 7-3, but North picked up three runs in the third to cut the lead to 7-6.

The Norsemen finally went ahead to stay with seven runs in the fifth inning. They added five runs in the sixth and broke the game wide open with a nine-run seventh.

"We were on the verge of ending the game on a mercy rule and Fraser came back to score in their half of the inning to keep the game going," Sumner said.

Sean Stevenson hit a three-run homer for North and Robert Briski had three hits, including a solo homer, and four RBIs.

Mike Doak, who pitched the middle four innings in relief, got the victory. Dan Malfouris pitched the seventh.

"We didn't play real well," Sumner said. "It seems like that happens a lot after we've played South."

North dropped a 10-5 decision to Grosse Pointe South in the championship game of a tournament last Saturday.

In its other two league games last week, North split a pair of contests with L'Anse Creuse North.

The Norsemen overcame a 7-2 LCN lead in the first game and won 8-7.

Mike D'Agnes and Matt Koppinger led North's offensive attack with three RBIs apiece. D'Agnes had three hits, including a double, while Koppinger hit a pair of doubles and walked twice.

Phil Dilone also had two hits for the Norsemen.

Tim Tibaldo pitched four scoreless innings of relief to earn the victory. He allowed four hits.

A few days later, the Crusaders handed North its first defeat in the MAC White when they scored three runs in the bottom of the seventh to win 6-5.

LCN took a 3-1 lead into the top of the seventh but three straight pinch hitters reached base for North. Jeff Rohrkemper walked and scored on Jon Chapel's double. Robert Briski followed with a two-run pinch homer to put the Norsemen ahead 4-3. D'Agnes walked, stole second and scored on Nick Cullen's single to give North a 5-3 lead.

However, in the bottom of the inning LCN scored three times with the winning run crossing the plate on a bases-loaded walk.

North won its first two games in the tournament.

The Norsemen rolled to a 13-1 victory against Madison Heights Bishop Foley. Cullen, who had two hits, set the stage with a three-run homer in the first inning.

D'Agnes had three hits, including two doubles, and three RBIs. Koppinger went 3-for-3 with a double and Marc Reno had two hits, including a triple, and drove in two runs.

Marshall Ochylski blanked Foley through the first four innings to pick up the win. Pat Oliver pitched the final inning.

North beat University Liggett School 17-5 in its second game.

Chapel led the offensive attack with three hits, including a pair of three-run homers and a double, and eight RBIs. D'Agnes went 4-for-4 with a double and two RBIs.

Mike Stevenson had three hits, including a triple, and drove in two runs. Briski also homered.

Doak started and got the win. Malfouris and Ryan Dewberry pitched in relief.

"We hit the ball well, but I can see why ULS is one of the best teams in the state in their division," Sumner said.

North is 19-5 overall and 7-1 in the MAC White.

Illness, injuries plague Blue Devils

Grosse Pointe South's tennis team has outstanding depth once again, but even that couldn't overcome the loss of the Blue Devils' top two singles players.

"It was a rough week with injuries and illness," said South coach Tom Berschback. "Ben Hartman is still weak from a bad stomach flu, and Alex Parker, our No. 2 singles player, has a sprained ankle."

Berschback is hoping that Hartman will be back to full strength by the time the state finals roll around on June 1.

Port Huron Northern took advantage of South's misfortune in the Macomb Area Conference Red Division tournament. The Huskies finished with 30 points to South's 25 to end the Blue Devils' streak of 19 straight division tournament titles.

South was undefeated in MAC Red dual meets.

The Blue Devils' division-meet champions were Kevin Jones at No. 3 singles and the No. 1 doubles team of Jimmy

See TENNIS, page 5C

Several ULS players perform well

There was one common denominator in University Liggett School's two recent dual meets.

Each of them had victories from singles players Matt Witkowski and Mike Zukas and the doubles team of Steven Saurbier and Derek McLaughlin.

"Matt has been playing well lately," coach Chuck Wright said of his No. 1 singles player.

Witkowski posted a 6-3 6-1 victory in the Knights' 4-4 tie with Riverview Gabriel Richard and he had a 7-5 6-4 win in ULS's 5-3 loss to

"Zukas has been playing smart tennis," Wright said after his wins against Richard and Armada.

The No. 3 doubles team of Saurbier and McLaughlin was dominant in the two dual meets.

They won 6-1, 6-3 against Richard and 6-1, 6-1 against Armada.

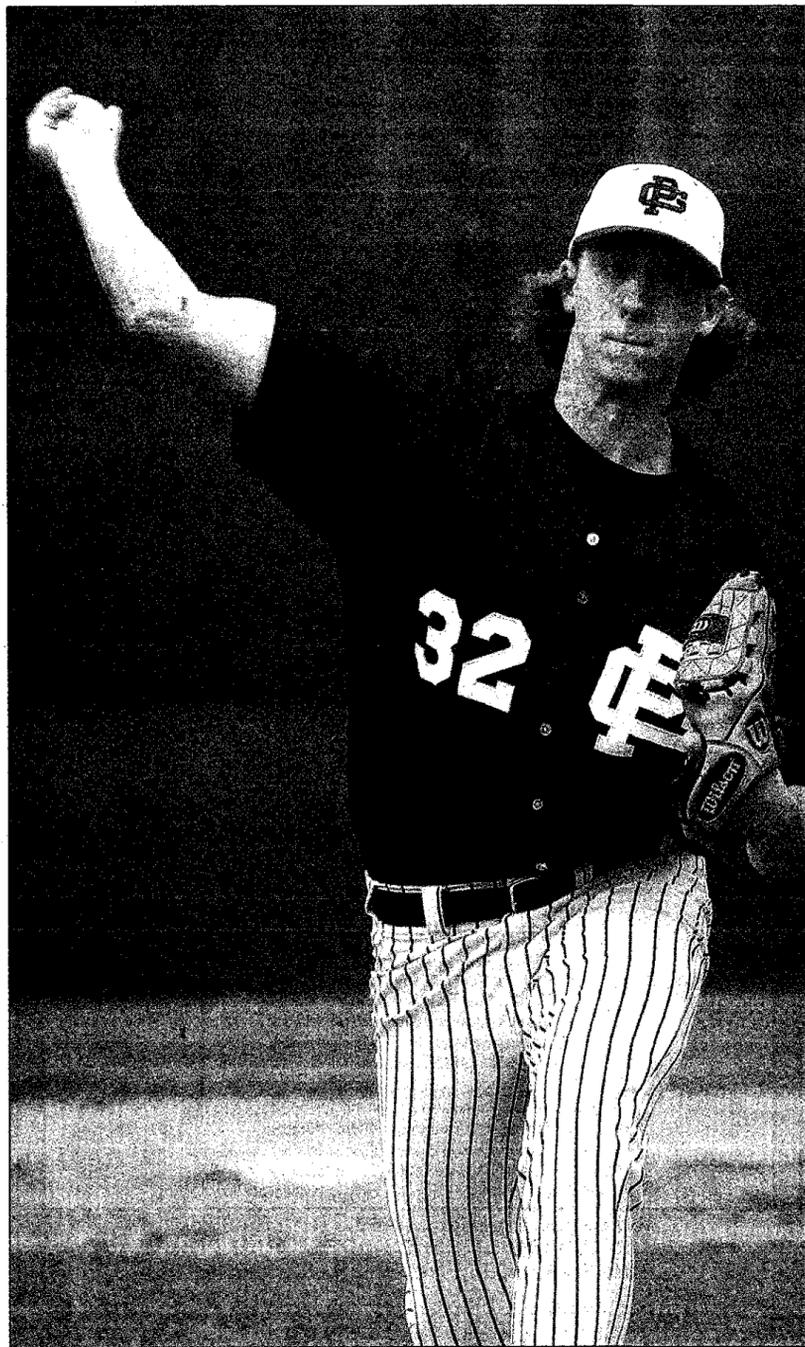

"They started slowly, but they've been getting better all the time," Wright said.

ULS's other win against Richard came from Billy Costello at No. 4 singles.

In the tournament the Knights hosted last week, Andrew LaLonde at No. 2 singles and Zukas posted victories against Dearborn Fordson, while Costello had a fourth singles win against Grosse Pointe North.

Wright had to substitute at No. 3 doubles and the junior varsity team of Aziz Jan and Blake Chouinard lost a pair of three-set matches to Dearborn and Dearborn Edsel Ford.

"We've been having trouble winning tiebreakers and three-setters," Wright said. "We're 1-8 in both of those."

Evan Pearson pitched a four-hitter for South in its 3-1 victory against University Liggett School in Saturday's tournament opener.

Dreyer & Reinbold Racing team member Scott Erickson assembles Buddy Rice's race car a few days before qualifying for the Indianapolis 500.

Third hat for Indy

Buddy Rice and Sarah Fisher will be in the middle of rush hour when the Indianapolis 500 starts at noon Sunday, May 27.

Both drivers qualified near the center of the 33-car field. Rice will start in 16th position; Fisher in 21st.

Rice and Fisher compete in the Indy Racing League for Dreyer & Reinbold Racing, co-owned by Grosse Pointe native Robbie Buhl.

"So far, so good," said Buhl.

Buhl followed through this week on plans to add a third driver for Indy. The team brought back Roger Yasukawa, a Los Angeles native and four-time Indy veteran and runner up for the 2003 IRL rookie of the year. Yasukawa drove for Buhl during the 2005 season.

This is the first time Dreyer & Reinbold has fielded three cars.

"We took the gamble," Buhl said. "Now we have to make it work."

Rice won the 2004 Indy 500. Last Sunday, he drove his No. 15 A1 TEAM USA/Dreyer & Reinbold Racing Honda Dallara to a four-lap average speed of 222.826 mph.

"I have been here enough to know that you need to have a good car in traffic," said Rice, in a statement released by the team. "We have a car to contend in this year's Indy 500."

This is Rice's first year with Buhl.

Fisher is the only American woman to win a podium finish (second and third) in the IRL. She qualified her No. 5 AAMCO Transmissions/Dreyer & Reinbold Racing Honda Dallara at 221.960 mph.

"That's all she had," Fisher said. "We didn't trim it out much for qualifications because we really want a great car for race day. We'd prefer to have a faster car for 200 laps rather than for four laps."

Yasukawa will try to qualify his car, sponsored by Wellman-Corbier Custom Homes Honda Dallara, on Saturday.

"We're excited to work on the race setup and definitely will be the quickest of the second week group," Yasukawa said. "The best qualifying we can hope for is 23rd, but that's not going to matter too much for the race as I know DRR has a really good race setup."

Fisher drove for Buhl during the 2002 and 2003 seasons, then left the team to try stock cars in a NASCAR development league. This is the first season she and Rice have worked together.

"The mix between them has been very good," Buhl said. "They get along. They want to help each other."

It's almost old-home week for Yasukawa.

"I worked with Buddy [Rice] when he won the race here and have known him since I was a kid," said Yasukawa, fluent in English, Japanese and Italian. "I got to know (Fisher) pretty well when I ran for (Dreyer & Reinbold) in 2005. I'm really looking forward to working with both of them and I think we will have good chemistry."

Buhl said Fisher matured a lot during her hiatus from open wheel competition.

"She has a lot of drive and desire," Buhl said. "Then you have Buddy. He's really impressed me with his technical feedback. Sarah knows the advantage of Buddy's experience. She's willing to tap into that, respect that, and add what she can."

"(Buddy and I) work together on everything," Fisher said. "Not one of us is more important. I don't know how you can't get along with that guy."

During last year's Indy race, Fisher worked on the sidelines. Duties included holding a marketing banner for another team. Her absence from the action made her heart grow fonder.

"I tell you what, there is nothing like driving here," Fisher said. "Indianapolis means so much, especially when you're not here and have a normal job. To carry my helmet in last Monday (opening day, May 14) was an incredible feeling. I wouldn't let anyone else do it."

South laxers beat Norsemen again

By Bob St. John
Staff Writer

Grosse Pointe South's girls lacrosse team continued its mastery of arch rival Grosse Pointe North last week, winning 15-11.

"We came out and really played a good lacrosse game," South head coach Erin Stewart said. "We were able to pass the ball effectively to get open shots in front of the net and our girls didn't miss too many of those opportunities."

"I was very pleased with our performance against a rival."

"South outplayed us and it deserved to win this game," North head coach Bill Seaman said. "We had our chances offensively, but defensively we didn't make the plays when we needed them."

The host Norsemen led 1-0 with a goal 13 seconds into the game as Christine Rabaut scored.

The Lady Blue Devils responded with a four-goal flurry as Ashley Thibodeau scored three of the four tallies.

The squads traded goals until the end of the opening half when Phelicia VanOverbeke and Kate Zemenick scored to bring the home team within two goals, 7-5.

Zemenick and Lauren Nixon scored to tie it 7-7 early in the second half, but once again the Lady Blue Devils forged ahead, scoring three straight goals.

Anna Basse, Jeanne Janutol and Thibodeau tallied.

Seaman's team cut the deficit to 10-9 as Zemenick and VanOverbeke scored, but for a third time South used a scoring spurt to take command of the game for good.

"We battled and battled the entire game, but South was a step ahead of us today," Seaman said. "I hope we get an opportunity to play them again."

If North and South square off a second time this season, it would be in a regional championship game.

Thibodeau led the Lady Blue Devils with six goals, followed by Janutol with four.

VanOverbeke and Zemenick paced the Norsemen with four and three goals, respectively.

In other action last week, South tied Birmingham Detroit Country Day 11-11 and North defeated Livonia Ladywood 8-7.

The tie was both a heart-breaker and a relief for South, which was a heavy favorite and led 6-3 in the first half but trailed 9-6 at halftime.

Thibodeau had five goals and two assists, while Kelly Breen added three goals and three assists and Liz McCaughey had two goals and two assists. Basse had a goal and two assists.

South's defense, led by Michelle Martinelli, Melissa Oddo and Torie Palffy improved in the second half, forcing several turnovers.

Grosse Pointe South improved to 7-3-1 overall; North dropped to 9-2.

North hurdler sets record

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

DeAndre Henderson shouldn't have any problem clearing the next hurdle in his track career.

"I think he'll be a good college hurdler," Grosse Pointe North coach Pat Wilson said of Henderson, who has signed a letter of intent to run track for Miami (Ohio) University. "He's tall and flexible, so the extra three inches they add to the hurdles in college shouldn't be any trouble for him."

Last weekend at the Dakota Invitational, Henderson broke Brian Vier's North record in the 110-meter high hurdles that had stood since 1981.

Henderson first broke the record in the semifinals when he ran a 14.20. He lowered that to 14.17 in the finals.

"He was very impressive," Wilson said. "The timing was fully automatic, and that sometimes results in a slower time."

Henderson started running the hurdles when he was a freshman, and he has improved steadily each year.

"He has physical skills and technique, which is a nice combination," Wilson said. "DeAndre is a year older and stronger this year, and he put in a lot of time during the off-season. He worked a lot on his technique. He's really smooth."

Henderson's time was also a meet record.

Henderson was one of several North winners at Dakota. Blest Norris leaned out an Anchor Bay runner to win the 100 dash in a meet record time of 11.02. Norris's time in the preliminaries was 10.94.

Robbie Fisher, who'll join Henderson at Miami next year, set a meet record in winning the 800 run in 2:00.38. Teammate Sean Bourke also placed in the 800.

Paul Bramos won the 400 dash and Wes Raynal placed.

DeRon Pines set a meet record of 6-feet-3 in winning the high jump. Pines was second in the long jump.

North also won two relays. The 4x200 team of Norris, Henderson, Theron Carter and Adam Devine set a meet record of 1:32.4. The Norsemen's 4x100 team of Norris, Carter, Aaron Price and Henderson also took a first.

Steve Joseph was third and Matt VanEgmond fifth in the 1,600 run. VanEgmond knocked five seconds off his personal record.

Edwin Whitfield was third and Corey Foglesong fourth in the 300 intermediate hurdles.

Andy VanEgmond took third place in the 3,200 run, while the 4x400 relay team of Devine, Fisher, Bourke and Bramos was also third. Devine was sixth in the 200 dash. North got fourths from Austen Ditzhazy in the discus and Paul Chabot in the pole vault.

The Norsemen got a pair of firsts from their junior varsity relay teams. The 4x400 team of Raynal, Rashad Boyce, Pat Houin and Foglesong was first, as was the 4x200 team of Price, Boyce, James Mason and Jamar Henderson.

Dan Surmont was second in the JV 1,600 run, and Mark Miotto placed. Corey Rapala and Mark Balle each scored in the 800.

Earlier, North remained undefeated in the Macomb Area Conference White Division with a 113-24 victory against Grosse Pointe South.

Other individual winners for North were DeAndre Henderson, high hurdles; Norris, 100; Fisher, 1,600; Bramos, 400; Surmont, 800; Alex Kopacka, 3,200; Chabot, pole vault; and Jack Poole, discus.

The Norsemen swept the relays. Bourke, Surmont, Joseph and Fisher won the 4x800; Norris, DeAndre Henderson, Carter and Devine were on the winning 4x200 team; Joe Elliott, James Graney, Mason and Jamar Henderson won the 4x100 relay; and the team of Rapala, Graney, Shauib Raza and Balle won the 4x400 relay.

Relay for Life Grosse Pointe

Grosse Pointe Pier Park • May 19 - 20, 2007, 10 A.M. - 10 A.M.

Come join us this year at Pier Park

Grosse Pointers go round-the-clock in the fight against cancer

Relay for Life is an overnight celebration of life dedicated to present and former cancer patients, their families and friends.

This is a unique opportunity for people from all walks of life to come together to honor those who are battling the disease, remember loved ones lost to cancer and band together in the fight against cancer.

For 24 hours, teams of family, friends and co-workers camp out, each taking turns walking the track. Each team has a representative on the track at all times, a reminder that cancer never sleeps. During this time, a number of events will be held, including the Opening Ceremony, Survivor Victory Celebration, Luminaria Ceremony of Hope and the Closing Ceremony which recognizes the fundraising accomplishments.

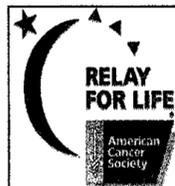

Hundreds of people throughout the Pointes will get their motors running when it comes to preparing for the annual Relay for Life benefiting the American Cancer Society.

The charity event begins at 10 a.m. Saturday, May 19, and ends at 10 a.m. Sunday, May 20, at Grosse Pointe Farms Pier Park. It is the third year in a row Pier Park hosts the

2 | RELAY FOR LIFE

Relay For Life changes lives

Relay For Life, the American Cancer Society's signature activity, brings men, women and children together for an overnight gathering of celebration and remembrance.

The relay raises funds for the fight against cancer, a disease that will affect one in three Americans in their lifetime and will result in more than one million new diagnoses this year.

The American Cancer Society Relay For Life is one important way to make a difference in the fight against cancer. This year, three million Relay For Life participants in 4,200 communities across the country will raise millions of dollars to help fulfill the American Cancer Society's mission.

As the nationwide, community-based volunteer health organization, the American Cancer Society is dedicated to eliminating cancer as a major health problem by preventing cancer, saving lives, and diminishing suffering from cancer through research, education, advocacy, and patient services. All of this is made possible because of activities like Relay For Life of Grosse Pointe.

How are the funds spent? Here are a few examples:

Finding a cure — To date, the American Cancer Society has spent more than $2.5 billion on research. That research has led to advances such as the Pap test, bone marrow transplants, and drugs such as Tamoxifen and Gleevec, which have positively affected and even saved the lives of many people with cancer.

Spreading the word — Volunteers help educate their community about cancer prevention and early detection — two things that save lives.

Calling for change — American Cancer Society volunteer advocates work with elected officials to make cancer issues a priority. Their work has helped expand Medicare benefits for cancer screenings and get clinical trial coverage legislation passed in 16 states. In fact, 10,000 volunteers nationwide will travel to Washington, D.C. this September during Celebration on the Hill to have their voices heard.

Lending support — For those who have been diagnosed with cancer, knowing the facts and having the resources to get through treatment and recovery are essential.

The American Cancer Society is available to help anytime, day or night. Last year more than one million people got help by phone, and each month 400,000 people use the American Cancer Society's Web site, cancer.org.

Scholarships support young cancer survivors

Since 1997, the American Cancer Society Great Lakes Division Foundation Young Survivor Scholarship Program has presented young cancer survivors $1,000 scholarships as they pursue their career goals.

This scholarship program is made possible through donations, and is one way the society is helping to improve the lives of those touched by cancer.

More than 680 scholarships have been awarded to students of Indiana and Michigan to date.

University of Michigan student Sara Zak, a Grosse Pointe native, is a three-time recipient. Zak's community involvement was factored into her scholarship win. The chemical engineering major has volunteered at a free camp designed for children, teens and young adults affected by cancer. She also joined the Pre-Med Club in raising funds to send children to camp.

"I just want to help out in any way I can," said Zak.

Each year, tuition scholarships are awarded based on academic performance, community service and other criteria. Scholarships may be renewable for up to three additional years.

To qualify for the scholarship program, applicants must be age 20 or younger as of the designated deadline date, and a legal U.S. citizen residing in Indiana or Michigan. Applicants must be full time

RELAY: Come join us this year

Last year, more than $65,000 was raised at the Relay For Life of Grosse Pointe, surpassing the goal by more than $20,000 and doubling the funds raised in 2005.

"Looking back at our steady progress, I'm confident the Grosse Pointe community can reach, if not surpass our team and fundraising efforts from the previous years," said Dorothy Busignani, community representative.

The event includes an uplifting cancer survivor Victory Lap which kicks off the relay and an emotional Luminaria Ceremony to remember and honor those who have been touched by cancer. Last year, 30 survivors participated in the victory lap and 646 luminaria bags were purchased to honor loved ones.

All of the festivities benefit current cancer patients and survivors, as well as honor those who have died from the disease. The volunteers help celebrate life and those men, women and children who have won their battle with cancer.

The event is also a way for the community to show appreciation for the courageousness displayed by cancer patients who endured chemotherapy and radiation treatments; who endure the emotional roller coaster associated with the disease.

Money raised will go for cancer research and support programs. The ultimate goal is that one day cancer will be eliminated.

The relay teams have been hard at work planning "camp-site" fundraisers designed to entertain and provide food for all ages. While a visitor will be able to find lunch and all the trimmings, fun and games will not be hard to spot.

More than 50 metro Detroit communities have taken up the fight against cancer, including the Grosse Pointes. Relay For Life is a public event, and everyone is welcome to attend the free festivities, including families, children and cancer survivors.

The Tug of War challenge was played into the night by teams raising money for the American Cancer Society at the 2006 Relay for Life Grosse Pointe.

History of the American Cancer Society Relay for Life

The American Cancer Society Relay For Life has been a huge part of the society's efforts to raise funds and awareness to fight cancer, contributing more than $1 billion to cancer research and implementing programs assisting cancer patients across the country.

The Relay For Life tradition began in 1985 when its founder, Dr. Gordy Klatt, ran for a strenuous 24 hours at a local high school track in Tacoma, Wash. with the idea that cancer never sleeps. He raised $27,000 that year for the American Cancer Society, proving that one person really can make a difference.

Through his vision, the first team relay took place in 1986 at the historic Stadium Bowl, with 19 teams and 200 supporters raising $33,000.

Today, Relay For Life is the most successful not-for-profit event in America, providing a platform for raising cancer awareness and connecting communities to the programs and services of the American Cancer Society. There are currently more than 5,000 relay events held across the country, as well as international expansion spreading out to 25 countries.

One out of every 100

Americans participates in Relay for Life, helping the American Cancer Society achieve its mission of saving lives and diminishing suffering from cancer.

In 2007, Relay For Life celebrates its 22nd year.

Blue Devils 'Putting a Pitchfork in Cancer'

The "Mr. Relay" event challenges all relay teams to enter a member or two who, dressed in their best lady-like getup, race around the park for 15 minutes, collecting cash donations from onlookers. The contestant who gathers the most money in the allotted time is crowned "Mr. Relay." Nicholas Provenzano, far right, as "Mr. Relay 2006."

Grosse Pointe South High School teacher Nicholas Provenzano was looking for a community service project for his freshman civics students.

In past years, his fiancée, Jennifer Eubanks, was a team captain for the Relay For Life in Canton. She introduced him to the concept, and the "Blue Devils" team was formed. It was Eubanks who also thought of the Blue Devils' new slogan "putting a pitchfork in cancer." According to Provenzano, the team needed to replace last year's slogan "Let's Veto Cancer!"

"There are a lot of Grosse Pointe teams with high energy and the strong desire to eliminate cancer," said Dorothy Busignani, community representative. "The Blue Devils is a great example of one of those teams."

This is the team's second year participating in the American Cancer Society Relay For Life of Grosse Pointe. The team set a goal of $2,000, but ended up raising almost $10,000 last year. Because of their success, the team has set a $10,000 goal this year.

"I have never felt more proud of a group of students in my life," said Provenzano. "Just seeing the kids participate in an event that really means something showed me a side of the students that, as a teacher, you do not normally see."

Last year's goal was surpassed simply by having students ask for donations from friends and family. In order to raise funds this year, the students put together an acoustic lounge at their school, where bands performed for ticket holders. All of the money raised through the charity performance went to the team's total.

Additional funds were also raised through the "Mr. Relay" contest, a fundraising competition in which male team members perform impromptu tasks and collect donations, all while being dressed up like a woman.

"I won 'Mr. Relay' last year and intend to win it again," said Provenzano.

For more information on Relay For Life, visit the Web site cancer.org or call (248) 557-5353.

Research in action

When the American Cancer Society began its research program more than 60 years ago, only 25 percent of cancer patients lived after five years of diagnosis.

Today, through research funded in part by Relay For Life, more than 60 percent live longer than five years.

Currently, the American Cancer Society is funding research totaling more than $12 million at Wayne State University, Karmanos Cancer Institute, Michigan State University, Van Andel Research Institute and the University of Michigan. It has also funded the work of 40 Nobel Prize winning researchers.

Some major health advances through society-funded research include:

- ◆ Structure and sequencing of DNA.
- ◆ Curing childhood leukemia.
- ◆ Establishing the link between smoking and lung cancer.

The Luminaria Ceremony of Hope is a moving event when, come nightfall, the decorated luminaries are lit along the path. The decorated luminaria honors cancer victims and survivors.

Relay supports local programs

Community efforts through fundraising such as the Relay For Life have allowed the American Cancer Society to employ programs and services at the local level, connecting the recently diagnosed with essential tools needed to cope with the disease.

Some local programs include:

- ◆ Reach to Recovery: offers comfort and support to people living with breast cancer through face-to-face or phone conversations with trained breast cancer survivors.
- ◆ The Cancer Survivors Network: a Web-based support service for cancer survivors to share stories and connect with others who have traveled the cancer journey.
- ◆ Road to Recovery: provides cancer patients free transportation to and from treatment.

◆ Look Good, Feel Better: helps restore confidence and positive self image in female cancer patients by offering beauty tips and techniques.

◆ The National Cancer Information Center, (800) ACS-2345, connects those facing cancer with a live cancer information specialist 24 hours a day, seven days a week. This service is also available in more than 300 languages.

◆ Visit the Web site cancer.org for the latest information on research, symptoms and risk factors, resources and local activities.

Relay For Life camp

For 24 hours, teams of family, friends and co-workers camp out, each taking turns walking the track.

Sunscreen more than once a day

The use of sunscreen on a daily basis is a good practice for reducing skin cancer risk.

The problem with it is that it can sometimes give a false sense of security. Sunscreen needs to be reapplied, and even then it still only offers a certain amount of protection.

Mistakes in sunscreen use are common and may indicate that people don't understand the importance of protecting themselves from skin cancer.

Visible symptoms of skin cancer don't show up for many years, and not long ago a tan was considered healthy. A sunburn will fade in a few days — out of sight, out of mind. The problem is what people don't see can hurt them. Sun damage remains in the deep layers of the skin. It's cumulative and can eventually cause cancer.

More than 1 million cases of the curable basal cell or squamous cell cancers will be diagnosed this year. The most serious skin cancer, melanoma, is diagnosed in about 60,000 people each year.

Shield your skin

To insure your skin is safe from UV rays, make sun protection a daily habit, especially when going to the pool, beach or park. Keep hats, long sleeved shirts, sunscreen and other supplies near the door in a small duffel bag or in your car.

Other protective methods include:

- ◆ Cover up. Choose shirts and pants to protect as much skin as possible.
- ◆ Use sunscreen. Choose a sunscreen with a Sun Protection Factor (SPF) of 15 or higher.
- ◆ Wear a hat. Choose one that shades the face, neck and ears.
- ◆ Wear sunglasses. Protect your eyes with sunglasses that block UV rays.

◆ Limit sun exposure. Stay out of the sun between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. when the UV rays are strongest.

For maximum effect, generously apply sunscreen 20 to 30 minutes before going outside. About a palm-full of sunscreen should be used to cover the arms, legs, neck, and face of the average adult.

If swimming or perspiring, reapply sunscreen more often.

Products labeled "waterproof" provide protection for at least 80 minutes even when swimming or sweating. Products that are "water resistant" may provide protection for only 40 minutes.
