Williams to stand trial in Park murder

By Kathy Ryan
 Staff Writer

GROSSE POINTE PARK — Myron Williams will stand trial for the May murder of Grosse Pointe Park resident Sabrina Gianino.

Judge Carl Jarboe ruled Thursday, Oct. 10, there was enough evidence to charge Williams with first degree murder, felony murder and unarmed robbery, and scheduled an arraignment on the charges in Wayne County Circuit Court at 9 a.m. Thursday, Oct. 17. Williams is being held without bond in the Wayne County jail. If convicted, he faces life in prison without parole.

In binding Williams, 42, over for trial, Jarboe said while there was no direct evidence linking him to the murder, there was strong circumstantial evidence, including Williams having in his possession items allegedly taken from the victim's home.

At the time of the murder, Williams, his wife and four children lived in the attic in a house next door to Gianino. Gianino, 35, was found dead by her boyfriend shortly after midnight May 16 in a flat they shared on Wayburn. According to testimony from Assistant Wayne County Medical Examiner Francesco Diaz, Gianino was strangled with a ligature "consistent with an extension cord" and suffered blunt force trauma to the head. Ten witnesses took the

Crowd rips DTE

GROSSE POINTE WOODS — DTE Energy representatives met with residents Monday night, and while the utility reps brought charts, statistics and maps, they brought few answers to residents plagued by power outages.

In what has become an annual event, engineers and officials from DTE told residents work is progressing on several circuits in the Woods aimed at improving service.

"DTE is committing nearly $4 million to improving service," Kathy Jordan, a DTE regional manager for corporate and government affairs said. "We're spending $800,000 for line clearance, $250,000 for line maintenance and nearly $3 million for line upgrades."

But while that seems impressive on paper, many residents told Jordan they have yet to see any work being done on lines and equipment near their houses, and, more importantly, they have not seen any improvement in service.

"You told us this work would be completed by now, and it has barely begun," one resident told the DTE reps. "What is taking so long? We're not convinced anything has been fixed."

One resident complained of a two-hour outage that had occurred on his street Monday afternoon, which a DTE engineer said was caused by the failure of a piece of hardware.

One area of the Woods, known by DTE as Sector 1481, has been repeatedly hit with power outages, oftentimes lasting several days.

Public Safety Reports

City of Grosse Pointe

Bedside illmanner

Beaumont Hospital Grosse Pointe security officers removed a 21-year-old Detroit man from the premises shortly before 10:30 a.m. Friday, Oct. 11, for assaulting his girlfriend, a 20-year-old female patient, according to police.

"(She) stated she had a baby and was trying to get back into bed when her boyfriend started arguing with her," said police.

The woman used a telephone to call for assistance.

"He got mad, pulled the phone from her hand and smacked her in the face," police said.

Public safety officers arrested him on Cadieux north of Kercheval.

Fake account

On Sept. 1, identity thieves opened a Kohl's credit account in the name of a City of Grosse Pointe woman and charged two purchases totaling more than $1,900 at stores in Fort Wayne and Anderson, Ind.

Disruptive

A drunken, 17-year-old

The Farms suspect initially refused to take a Breathalyzer test.

"My dad said I don't have to," he reportedly told police.

Officers arrested him and put him in handcuffs. "(He) became upset and began to yell to take him to jail," said a public safety officer.

The suspect agreed to take the test and registered a .14 percent blood alcohol level.

Officers cited him for being a minor in possession of alcohol.

They took him home to his mother.

Dealing

An 18-year-old Harper Woods man, arrested on Fisher the night Grosse Pointe South High School won a home football game against Grosse Pointe North, faces charges of possession of marijuana with the intent to sell it in a school zone.

Police on bicycle patrol pulled over the man, operating a 2001 Oldsmobile Aurora, on Fisher near school property at 9:37 p.m. Friday, Oct. 11.

Officers searching the car reported finding .85 ounces of marijuana, a scale, a warm pipe and $868 cash.

A 19-year-old male passenger in the car lives in Grosse Pointe Farms.

Air soft greeting

At about 8:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 10, a man living on the first block of Lewiston answered knocking on his front door and was shot at by a 12-year-old neighborhood boy with an Airsoft gun.

The man called police, but didn't press charges.

"The (boy's) father was advised of the incident and stated he would take care of it. (Case) closed," said a public safety officer.

Heroin user

A 25-year-old Grosse Pointe Park man didn't leave much doubt prior to being arrested for possession of narcotic paraphernalia at 5:24 a.m. Thursday, Oct. 10, at a service station at Mack and Moross.

A patrolman was at the station filling his scout car's gasoline tank when the man staggered into the customer bathroom and didn't come out.

"I entered the bathroom to find (him) standing in a stupor and mostly incoherent," said the officer. "He had a small syringe, consistent with heroin use, in his left hand. (He) admitted to having just 'shot up' heroin."

Medics took the man to St. John Hospital and Medical Center.

Window broken

A passenger-side window of a 2006 Chrysler

Town & Country van was smashed while parked overnight Wednesday, Oct. 9, in the 200 block of Ridgemont.

The owner said nothing was stolen from the vehicle.

Carjacking

A man returning to his maroon 1967 Ford Galaxy 500 four-door was carjacked 7:38 p.m., Monday, Oct. 7, by two men waiting for him in the back seat.

He'd parked his car near a side take-out door of a restaurant in the 18700 block of Mack.

Upon returning and getting behind the wheel, he saw two unknown men sitting in the back seat.

One man wore a gray hoodie and had a metal object the victim assumed was a weapon. The other suspect had facial hair and wore a baseball cap.

"The suspect with the gray hoodie ordered the victim to look forward," said a public safety officer.

The victim complied. "The suspects ordered the victim to drive across Mack to Mack and Ashley (in Detroit), where the suspects ordered the victim to stop, exit the vehicle and walk away," police said. "The victim complied. The suspects drove off in the vehicle northbound on Ashley from Mack, to where unknown."

The victim described the suspects as black males in their 20s.

AEDs are located in several city buildings and can help set the heart back to a normal rhythm if it's in ventricular fibrillation. Fake scripts

While arresting a 24-year-old man from Taylor at a Hill drugstore at about 4 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 6, for allegedly presenting a fake prescription, police confiscated four prescription slips written to different people for a total of 270 pills of Hydrocodone.

One of the prescriptions was written for a 25-year-old Grosse Pointe Park woman.

Officers recognized her name from a complaint she filed in September about someone at the same pharmacy trying to falsely obtain Vicodin in her name.

Rumora faces challenge by Peck

By Brad Lindberg
Staff Writer

GROSSE POINTE FARMS — The judge elected to preside over the Grosse Pointe Farms and Shores municipal courts serves a four-year term and is paid a combined $25,000 annually.

Judicial candidates in the Tuesday, Nov. 5, election are challenger Matthew Peck and incumbent Matthew Rumora.

Matthew Peck (C)

Matthew Peck was unable to schedule an interview.

Matthew Rumora (I)

For judges, unlike athletes, it's good to spend a lot of time on the bench.

"I've been the Farms judge for more than 25 years," said Matthew Rumora, seeking reelection as Grosse Pointe Farms-Shores municipal judge. "I love the job and I have the same enthusiasm for it as 25 years ago."

He said good municipal judges need to listen and be patient.

"Most people coming into court don't have lawyers," Rumora said. "Some are angry, some are scared, some are confused. They don't understand the system."

"If you listen to what they say, and if you're patient with them, hopefully, when they leave, they'll have a good feeling about the court and of Grosse Pointe Farms and Shores court in particular."

A common theme while presiding over cases, misdemeanor or felony, is showing respect.

"I tell the staff to always try to treat people in court with dignity," Rumora said. "I have to make rulings against people that may upset them. But all-in-all, my court has a good reputation."

A lot of young defendants are first-time offenders.

"We get quite a few cases of younger people who have problems with substance abuse or are experimenting with alcohol or marijuana," Rumora said. "They're good people who have good futures ahead of them. A lot of times, good people make a mistake."

In such cases, Rumora often imposes sentences intended to ensure the defendants are first-and-only-timers.

"I try to get them in an alcohol education program or impulse control program that helps them with information about what alcohol or marijuana can do," Rumora said. "That way, they're not saddled with a criminal record that follows them the rest of their life."

An offense committed during teenage years can hang over a person into adulthood and hurt prospects for meaningful employment.

"We try to help them and, at the same time, not give them a slap on the wrist," Rumora said. "We have very few who come back a second time."

Serious and violent offenders are another matter.

"If I run across a situation where a person breaks into a home, as recently happened to a 95-year-old man on Lakeshore, a person like that is a danger to the public," Rumora said. "I set a high bond to make sure he doesn't walk out of the courtroom a free man until another judge hears the case if and when it goes downtown to circuit court."

Rumora grew up in the Farms and has been in private legal practice for 39 years.

Cottons buy new Park businesses

By Kathy Ryan
Staff Writer

GROSSE POINTE PARK — The Red Crown restaurant, the anchor for the re-development of Kercheval Avenue, will remain open while it undergoes a change in ownership and management.

The Cotton Family, the major developers of the area, have taken over the restaurant from well-known restaurateur Mindy Lopus.

According to Rob Ermanni, project manager for the Kercheval development project, Lopus wanted to spend more time with her family.

In addition to Red Crown, the Cottons have taken over a number of other Lopus projects, the Bona Fide Bakery and a coffee shop, which were built on the site of the old Mulier's Market. The bakery and coffee shop, which were scheduled to open this past summer, remain closed.

According to Jon Cotton, the bakery is ready to open and they are in talks with several people to take over the operation.

"It's turnkey ready, and we're ready to have it open as soon as possible," he said.

But for now, their focus is on Red Crown.

"The last thing I wanted to do was get in the restaurant business," Cotton said, "but we're totally committed to the Red Crown, it's our anchor. We have brought back the former manager and we're looking forward to offering a great dining experience in the Park."

The restaurant remains open for dinner service and lunch service will resume soon.

"We will have a new menu soon, as well as extended hours," Ermani said. "The staff is on board with changes and are anxious to step up the service."

The Red Crown opened to much fanfare in March. It is located in the historic Standard Oil gas station located at Kercheval and Beaconsfield.

The restaurant features American cuisine, including several barbecue-style dishes, dill pickle soup, grits and a full complement of wine and spirits.

Cotton said at least two other restaurants are planned for the area, but nothing has been finalized as of yet. He expects new eateries to go in to the former Janet's Lunch and the building that housed the Full Circle Resale Shop, but declined to provide details.

"We're in very preliminary talks," he said.

He also said the Atwater Brewery, located in the former Grace Community Church, expects to open in March.

"They plan on holding some special events at the site, but the grand opening, including the brewery and restaurant, is scheduled for March," he said.

Editor's note:

More election information will be available in next week's issue of the Grosse Pointe News, including a candidate forum sponsored by the League of Women Voters and the Grosse Pointe Farms council race. Next week's issue is the last week for letters to the editor regarding election issues.

Artifact auction set

By Brad Lindberg
Staff Writer

It's a demon wind that sinks a cargo ship carrying good luck charms.

Yet, no talisman could counter the 90-mph storm of November 1913 that blew 12 Great Lakes freighters and more than 250 crew to the bottom.

"The storm of 1913 was the worst storm ever," said Mac McAdam, a member of the Great Lakes Maritime Institute board of directors from Dearborn.

Not even the 249-foot steamer, Regina, carrying horseshoes among her mixed cargo, survived intact.

"I added the combined tonnage of ships lost during the storm," said Robert McGreevy, a marine artist and author formerly of Grosse Pointe, now living in Port Huron. "It added up to eight freighters the size of the Edmund Fitzgerald. Most of the ships sank in lower Lake Huron."

The Regina lay undiscovered, upside down in 80 feet of water about 3 1/2-miles offshore between Lexington and Port Sanilac until found by accident in 1986 by commercial diver, Wayne Brusate, of Port Huron.

"I was looking for a tug boat that sank in that area," Brusate said. "I came across a much bigger wreck."

He swam down the broken hull past a large propeller and rudder to the nameplate on the stern: Regina.

Spilled cargo on the muddy lakebed included horseshoes.

"Think of the Regina as a general store," said Brusate, in charge of the St. Clair County Sheriff's Department dive team. "It supplied towns in the Canadian north with barbed wire, files, champagne, scotch whisky, soap, medicines, bails of hay and sewer pipe on her deck."

About 50 artifacts from Regina are being sold at silent auction during the maritime institute's dinner, 2 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 27, at Blossom Heath Inn, in St. Clair Shores. The dinner commemorates the storm's centennial.

Tickets cost $40 each. "This is a once-in-a-lifetime thing," McAdam said.

According to John Polacsek, retired director of Dossin Great Lakes Museum and an institute board member from Detroit, artifacts include:

- ◆ seven-inch white bowls,
- ◆ wooden thermometer holders,
- ◆ a gallon jug,
- ◆ the bottom half of the ship's compass housing,
- ◆ the brass base for the ship's telegraph, the top half of which was torn off in the storm,
- ◆ a large metal block with a hook attached,
- ◆ a brass door lock made by J. E. Stewart in Glasgow, Scotland, and
- ◆ parts of oil lamps.

The silent auction includes:

- ◆ glass jars marked "Chivers" that held kosher English preserves,
- ◆ white ceramic lotion jars,
- ◆ bottles of lotion produced by the A. S. Hinds Company in Portland, Maine,
- ◆ Heinz 57 ketchup bottles,
- ◆ metal spoons,
- ◆ full bottles of Whyte & McKay Scotch, Dewars Scotch and bottles of Regina, rendered here by Robert McGreevy, sank in the 1913 storm. The wreckage wasn't discovered until 1986.

Mumm's champagne sold only as artifacts.

Before dinner, artifacts, which Brusate salvaged in accord with a Michigan permit, are exhibited at Gifts Afloat, 24601 Jefferson between Nine and 10 Mile, in St. Clair Shores.

The dinner includes presentations by Brusate and McGreevy about the big storm.

"We'll discuss the difficult salvage efforts and eventual rewards," Brusate said. "The audience will see the wreck as we first found it, before zebra mussels covered everything."

McGreevy gives a half-hour presentation about the stranded 500-foot freighter, Howard M. Hanna Jr.

"She's typical of the ships that sank during the storm, but the entire crew survived," McGreevy said.

"Everyone from the captain to the cook left a written account of what it was like in the storm."

He read the accounts to piece together reasons the boat floundered.

"It is probably what also happened to the other eight ships that sank in lower Lake Huron that same day," McGreevy said.

The sinkings were due to a series of physical forces coupled with overconfident skippers, McGreevy said.

"There were problems with the design of hatch covers of ships of that period," he said. "The ships were extremely under-powered."

"When you can't keep your bow into the wind, there's difficulties," Polacsek said.

Tickets to the Great Lakes Maritime Institute's 2 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 27, full-course dinner and silent auction of shipwreck artifacts are available at Gift Afloat, 25601 Jefferson, St. Clair Shores; by calling (586) 777-8300 or through PayPal by visiting glmi.org. Blossom Health Inn is located at 24800 Jefferson, St. Clair Shores.

TRIAL:

stand during the preliminary examination in front of Jarboe, ranging from a loss prevention manager from Abercrombie & Fitch to a crack dealer who sold $20 in rock cocaine to Williams in exchange for a laptop computer belonging to Gianino's boyfriend.

The crack dealer, Antonio Mitchell, testified that "sometime between 10 p.m. and midnight," the night of May 15, Williams came to his house on Alter and gave him a laptop computer, later identified as one belonging to Gianino's boyfriend, in exchange for cocaine. Mitchell also testified Williams left an iPhone and an iPod on a table, but there was no discussion between the two of them about the items.

Under questioning by Assistant Wayne County Prosecutor Molly Kettler, Mitchell said around 3 a.m. he noticed the phone had been ringing steadily, so he decided to answer it. The caller, a Grosse Pointe Park detective, told him the phone was part of a very serious police investigation and he agreed to meet with police, but later changed his mind.

"I decided not to go because I didn't want to get involved," he told Kettler.

He then testified he gave the phone to a friend, telling him to "throw it in the trash." Later that day the friend told him the phone belonged to a dead person, and Mitchell, along with the friend, "encountered police and stopped and talked to them." Mitchell told police who had left the phone at his house, and was taken into custody. He also said Williams was a steady customer who purchased crack from him "about every other day." He didn't know his name or where he lived, saying he only knew him by the name, "TD," or "Truck Driver." Williams had worked as a truck driver, but was unemployed at the time of the murder.

Williams wife, Quashaunda Williams, 36, testified her husband had used crack cocaine in the past, and she could tell when he was using by his behavior.

"He would become paranoid and sweaty," she told Kettler, "and he would accuse me of having other men in the house."

She said the night of the murder she had gone to bed early, but heard her husband come in around 9:30 p.m., and he appeared "sober."

She then testified she heard her husband come in a second time and saw him sitting on the bed, and when she asked where he had been, he told her he had used the bathroom.

"But I had heard the front door open, and I knew the bathroom was not outside," she said. "He didn't leave the attic at night to use the bathroom. At night he would pee in a jar in the attic."

She said she was awakened shortly after that by the sound of sirens outside the house, and it was then she noticed her husband "looked like he had been smoking crack. He was sweating and in a daze."

She then identified several letters to and from her husband while he was in jail.

It was the contents of the letters that would link a key piece of evidence in the murder to Williams.

It was brought out in court that Williams had asked his wife and at least one other person to retrieve his wallet, which was being held in the property room at the Wayne County jail. Based on that information, Grosse Pointe Park police obtained a search warrant and retrieved Williams' wallet. In the wallet they found a gift card from clothing retailer Abercrombie & Fitch. Gianino's mother allowed police to look through her daughter's clothing, where they found a shirt from Abercrombie & Fitch. It was later determined the shirt had been bought using the gift card Williams had in his possession.

Williams' attorney, Ray Paige, told Jarboe the prosecutor had failed to provide enough evidence to charge his client with murder.

"Even if we were to admit he had possession of these items, the question is when did he come in possession of them," Paige told the court. "We don't know if they were stolen before May 15 and even if he did steal them, it doesn't equate to murder. The evidence presented is woefully inadequate."

Jarboe ruled otherwise.

Gianino's mother was in the courtroom, but declined to comment.

Appraiser will hear disputes

CITY OF GROSSE POINTE — An outside appraiser is being brought in to resolve disputes about the value of three commercial properties.

All three properties are in the Village downtown section of the City of Grosse Pointe.

Municipal officials value them at a total of $3,825,400.

Petitioners counter with a combined value of $1,784,000.

The $2,041,400 difference represents the city's appraisal being more than twice the value claimed by the petitioners.

"Because of the amounts involved, and the commercial nature of the properties, it is necessary for the city to retain professional appraisers to prepare the city's valuation disclosures," according to Charles Kennedy III, city attorney.

The properties, their petitioners' claimed true cash values compared with values claimed by the city, are:

◆ Kay Baum, 16822 Kercheval Place; city: $1,435,800; petitioner: $800,000.

◆ Sunrise, on St. Clair south of Kercheval; city: $903,400; petitioner: $386,000.

◆ RBS Citizens, 63 Notre Dame; city: $1,486,200; petitioner: $598,000.

Each outside appraisal may cost the city up to $5,000 for a total not to exceed $15,000.

Work set to begin

GROSSE POINTE SHORES — Upon receipt of 55,000 stainless steel screws at Osius Park, installation begins on new marina decking.

A city administrator dickered down the price of individual screws from 13 cents to 7.8 cents.

Savings totals more than $2,000, Grosse Pointe Shores City Manager Mark Wollenweber said.

New decking is being provided free as part of a settlement for failed planks installed three years ago during marina reconstruction.

"We got $90,000 worth of decking at wholesale," said Brian Renaud, city attorney. "Retail value is $180,000. We (also) got $16,000 in cash."

The only thing worse than finding out you have cancer... is finding out too late.

At some point in life, one in eight women will get breast cancer.

Fortunately, when it's found early, survival rates increase up to 95%. But sometimes, the earliest stages of breast cancer are the hardest to detect. That's why if you're over 40, it matters that you get a digital mammogram – every year.

And it also matters where you get it.

At Beaumont our radiologists are experienced, board certified breast cancer specialists. Doctors who have made finding cancer their life's work.

Maybe that's why, every year, Beaumont detects and treats more early stage breast cancer than any other hospital in Michigan.

Because the only thing worse than finding out you have cancer is finding out too late.

Schedule your mammogram.

DTE owes more answers

The residents and business owners of Grosse Pointe Woods deserve more information from DTE Energy. Answers were scarce at a special meeting with DTE officials Monday night.

City officials again hosted the power company to ask "why?"

Why do residents and business owners have to suffer through unexplained outages? At times for hours. At times for days.

To say it's been frustrating, is an understatement. Dan Curis, a Woods resident and owner of the Big Boy at Vernier and Mack, said he carries more insurance because of power issues with DTE.

"All we want are answers, but we're getting the same answers we got a year ago."

And the year before that.

Outages have led to damages at houses and businesses and those affected have lost hundreds or thousands of dollars.

Major storms will always be an issue with so many mature trees, but a recent day-long outage came on a sunny, hot day.

Maintenance on lines and on an aging system need to move faster. Winter is around the corner and Grosse Pointe Woods deserves better.

Will threats of a lawsuit and another trip to the Michigan Public Service Commission help?

We'll see. Hopefully after dark, too.

Great support

Not surprising the Cotton family steps up again to help the Grosse Pointes.

Their purchase of the Red Crown restaurant and others on Kercheval in Grosse Pointe Park came with restaurateur Mindy Lopus saying she wants more time with her family.

The Red Crown, Bona Fide Bakery and a coffee shop, are transferring to the Cottons. Jon Cotton said at least two other restaurants are planned for the area and the Atwater Brewery, slated for the former Grace Community Church, will open next March.

It's exciting to see the growth and investment in the Pointes. The Cottons have stepped up to the plate again.

Cool place

A nice hometown feel and a great place for meetings is at 15324 Mack in the Park. Higher Grounds Coffee Cafe at the corner of Nottingham and Mack offers great coffee, smoothies, coffee cake, soups and more.

Artwork by local artists is featured and sold, with a portion of sales going to Higher Ground Ministries.

Check it out. Free WiFi and a relaxing atmosphere, perfect for meetings or doing homework.

Planning for future

A forum, "Estate Planning for Today's Modern Family," will take place at 6 p.m. Oct. 23, at the Neighborhood Club. The Club is located at 17150 Waterloo in the City of Grosse Pointe.

The free, hour-long event will feature a professional estate planner and certified financial planner, both from the Grosse Pointes.

Estate planning topics will include second marriages, blended families, same-sex couples, large age gaps between children and investing for irresponsible or spendthrift children.

No registration is required.

Rotary show

"Rotary in the Pointes & Around the World," a new cable show sponsored by Grosse Pointe's morning and afternoon Rotary clubs, debuts Monday, Oct. 21, on WMTV.

The first show was taped on Oct. 10, and airs at 6:30 p.m. and 3:30 a.m. Oct. 21 through 27.

The first topic is Operation Warm, Rotary's second annual children's coat drive.

Shows are taped monthly. More information will be available in next week's Grosse Pointe News.

I SAY By Kathy Ryan

If frustration could be measured in kilowatt hours....

It comes as no surprise to most people that in the year 2013 "inventions" such as air conditioning, computers and cellphones are no longer newfangled fads, but rather essential devices in everyday life. Most people don't even give these devices a second thought, just as no one gives it a second thought when they walk into their homes and expect the lights to come on when they flick the switch, expect the food in the refrigerator to be cold and expect the television to click on if you can find the remote and press the power switch.

However, if you live in certain sections of Grosse Pointe Woods no one takes electricity for granted, because on any given day, there's no guarantee certain sections of the city will have power, and if it does, it's a good bet that some homes will be receiving half the juice normally required to run standard 120 volt appliances. Stormy day, sunny day, warm day, cold day, it doesn't matter. There's no rhyme or reason as to why the power goes out.

Residents, understandably, are fed up and have pressed DTE for answers for the past couple of years. They have met with representatives and engineers from DTE and city officials have taken their concerns to the Michigan Public Service Commission. They have placed hundreds of phone calls to...and I'm using the term loosely here....DTE Customer Service. They have heard countless outrageous excuses. Squirrels have chewed through the wires. There was a thunder storm in Ann Arbor. A tree limb came down in St. Clair Shores. It's a hot day and too many people have their air conditioning running. It's a cold day. They have heard it all.

But what they have yet to hear is that their problem is going to be fixed any time soon.

Several residents came to a meeting Monday night at the Woods city hall, where representatives of DTE told them, yet again, they were working on it. As soon as the engineers began the Power Point presentation, one knew the residents were going to be fed a heaping pile of electrical bovine excrement.

This was yet another meeting with DTE, ironically on a day when several residents experienced yet another power outage, where residents were told how many power outages they have had to endure, as if they didn't know already. There was yet another discussion of line splits in various sectors, transformers and cables. And with great fanfare, DTE reminded residents that the company was pouring millions of dollars into the area to upgrade power grids. One couldn't help but envision the scene from "Oliver," where the poor orphan holds out his bowl to Fagan and asks, "Please, sir, may I have some more."

How is it that homeowners who dutifully pay their utility bill every month have been reduced to begging and relying on the largesse of a monopoly? DTE shouldn't be handing out electrical service and upgrades as an elderly aunt would hand out dollar bills to well behaving nieces and nephews. And it shouldn't be offering lame, oftentimes inaccurate, excuses, whether they come from the voice of "customer service" on a phone or someone with a title who actually faces customers in person at these meetings and says, "We try not to have these meetings because everyone is so upset."

And with good reason. Residents, in turn, told DTE the reality of power outages and perpetual brownouts. Flooded basements due to sump pumps being inoperable, spoiled food, damaged appliances. They also spoke of the perpetual run around they receive from DTE. And while they can't count on reliable power, they can count on lame excuses from DTE, a less than reliable estimate of when power might be restored and a 100 percent denial rate on claims for damaged appliances or food loss.

DTE offered little in the way of answers to residents, other than the usual cliches of "feeling their frustration," and "we'll pass on your concerns."

Residents want more than cliches. They want reliable electrical service. And that's not something they "deserve," something they are "entitled to." It's far more than that, it's something they pay for.

There was talk among residents of a class action suit, perhaps setting up an escrow account where their DTE payments could be sent. Better yet, why aren't the officials of DTE being held accountable?

The simple answer is that residents can't buy their electricity from another supplier other than DTE.

And DTE knows that, and that's the residents' real frustration.

As council member Art Bryant said after the meeting, "DTE came to this meeting woefully unprepared."

And that appears to be a perennial problem with DTE.

GUEST OPINION By Matthew R. Rumora

Good Samaritan Statute

The Good Samaritan Statute encourages emergency assistance, giving doctors qualified immunity when they voluntarily respond to a life threatening emergency situation in a hospital, when the doctor does not have an actual duty to respond.

Qualified immunity means the doctor is not liable for civil damages as a result of an act or omission in the rendering of emergency care of a non-patient except for an act or omission amounting to gross negligence or willful and wanton misconduct.

The law originally applied only to the rendering of care at the scene of an emergency outside a hospital setting. However, the law was amended to extend protection to doctors in a hospital setting when they were not under a duty to respond.

The appellate courts have indicated the law was intended to simplify a doctor's decision whether to come to the aid of a person who is not a patient but requires emergency treatment by removing the fear of a potential malpractice suit, unless the doctor is guilty of gross negligence or willful and wanton misconduct.

The immunity provided by the statute comes into play by the doctor's decision to respond. Moreover, a doctor's good faith belief that the situation is a life threatening emergency entitles the doctor to immunity under the Good Samaritan Statute.

This law was enacted to encourage doctors to answer calls for assistance in emergency situations involving nonpatients, without incurring liability unless they are guilty of gross negligence or willful and wanton misconduct in rendering treatment.

Woods resident Dan Curis, owner of the Big Boy restaurant at Mack and Vernier, told the DTE reps residents had a right to be upset.

"I am forced to pay more insurance for no other reason than DTE," he said. "All we want are answers, but we're getting the same answers we got a year ago."

In July 2011 residents met with DTE representatives, and a year later, July 2012, they met with them again. At both meetings, residents were assured the problems would be fixed.

One area of great concern to many residents was the continuing situation of low voltage being delivered to their homes. Many have had to replace or repair appliances that were damaged or destroyed due to not using the proper amount of voltage. Several have used voltage meters to measure the amount of electricity being delivered to their houses, and some have registered as low as 88 to what should be a 120-watt line.

And when one resident asked if DTE could provide voltage meters the company itself could monitor, an engineer said the company only has 10 such meters for the entire service area.

Councilwoman Vicki Granger told residents voltage meters were available through the Grosse Pointe Public Library.

Several residents left the meeting before it was over, expressing frustration with the lack of answers from the DTE representatives.

Jordan did assure residents she would be in touch with a representative from the DTE claims department to discuss residents' concerns over how their inquiries could be handled, and will provide any additional information to city administrator Skip Fincham for distribution to residents.

Following the meeting, Mayor Robert Novitke said the city would follow up with DTE to make certain any plans put forth by DTE are completed.

"I would hope we would not have to go back before the Michigan Public Service Commission, but we will," he said. "They have made some improvements, but obviously not enough."

Maire Elementary School Principal Sonja Franchett speaks during the bike rack sculpture and plaque dedication ceremony in honor of Sarla Sharma.

In memoriam

A crowd gathered near the playground outside Maire Elementary School; students, staff and parents there to pay tribute, as principal Sonja Franchett led a dedication ceremony in honor of the late Sarla Sharma.

Sharma, a crossing guard, playground supervisor and avid bike rider, had become a staple at Maire during the last eight years, dedicating her time in the morning, afternoon and during lunch hour to ensure students' safety when crossing the street or at recess. She passed away last May.

Her family also was in attendance at the ceremony, during which the school community commemorated her years of commitment and service with a bike rack sculpture and plaque in her memory.

Both items were purchased last year from donations courtesy of students, staff and parents.

"We feel very strongly that she made a difference in our school community, and we are very grateful to have had her here," Franchett said.

Several others spoke as well, about Sharma's kindness, her dry wit and sense of humor, her work ethic and that twinkle in her eye she had every day.

"Always," said Elizabeth Tague. "On the hardest days, on the worst-weather days, she had that twinkle in her eye."

The ceremony concluded with music

Field Day fun

Pierce Middle School language arts teacher Jan Brengman cheers on her class during the tug-of-war event.

With this year's sixth grade Field Day at Pierce Middle School, physical education teacher Beth Allan decided to experiment with the scheduling, moving the event from its traditional spring date to the fall.

The change in date, she found out, added an element of fun to the students' introduction to middle school and provided an avenue for them to get to know each other.

"(Pierce principal) Gary (Buslepp) was able to talk to them; we talked a little bit about the history of (the school) inside," Allan said. "Some of the groups out here didn't even know each other before they came out here."

By day's end, everyone knew everyone, and students were cheering each other on in the tug-of-war; running around the Pierce athletic field in groups of three, four, sometimes five students; talking and laughing and having fun together at each of the event's 19 game stations.

For students, the fall fun and funky Field Day was a fantabulous, swagilicious, fun time with friends.

"Field Day is awesome," said sixth grader Delaney Garvey.

For Allan, such positive responses served as validation of her moving the event from spring to fall.

"I kind of like this, as a welcome to Pierce," Allan said.

Model behavior

 Staff Writer

Like millions of others around the world, Kathleen White has seen the infamous video of Miley Cyrus. The one of Cyrus stripping and grinding and twerking and tongue-wagging her way through her performance at the 2013 MTV Video Music Awards.

After hearing all about the media firestorm in the days and weeks that followed the performance, White, a nun of 25 years and the new principal at St. Paul on the Lake Catholic School, had to see it for herself.

Not surprisingly, her reaction, like many others, was that of shock and awe. But beyond the initial shock, she had feelings of frustration and disappointment, mostly in knowing the negative repercussions such a video could have on the minds of youths, many of who have grown up idolizing Cyrus from her Disney days as Hannah Montana.

"This is who, at one point, people held up as a good role model for students," said White, a native eastsider who attended and later became an administrator at both St. Thecla School and Regina High School — during its Harper Woods years. At St. Paul, she replaces Mary Miller following Miller's retirement after eight years as a Laker.

"I'm not a prude. I like music; I grew up with Madonna," White said. "I get that. But, at what point do we expose our children and give them the knowledge of what is right and what is wrong? Or what's make-believe or what is real?"

It's that moral understanding of right and wrong that White has strived to instill in her students, both as a teacher and as an administrator. It's also the most important virtue she wants her students to learn before graduation.

"If anything I could have my students graduate, that'd be it," White said, adding it's been her philosophy that every child is born inherently good, and it's the examples adults set and the values they instill that help shape children into the people they become.

Teen composer set for world premiere

Ladies and gentlemen, we bring you "Symphony No. 1," a piece to be heard for the first time ever Saturday, Oct. 26, when it is performed by the 60-piece symphony orchestra of Grosse Pointe South High School. This new piece is light and lively; a score that should be exhilarating for the listener.

At least, that's what the teenaged composer is hoping for.

Connor Reinman, a senior at South, has dabbled in composition and melody writing for years. But the seven-minute Symphony No. 1 is his piece de resistance... for now.

The double bass player plans to major in music composition at either Rice University in Houston, Texas, or McGill University in Montreal, Canada. He has written pieces for string quartets, piano, as well as a piano, violin and cello trio.

His quartet piece was well received last year at the Composers' Concert of Tri-M, South High School's Modern Music Masters honor society.

Also, a choral piece Reinman wrote at a 2012 summer camp at Interlochen Academy for the Arts was honored in a competition hosted by the Michigan Music Educators Association.

South's concert is billed as an OktoberFest event with German refreshments, desserts and beverages.

General admission tickets are $15 for adults; $5 for students. Tickets are available at Posterity: A Gallery, 17005 Kercheval in the Village, or at the door of the South auditorium, 11 Grosse Pointe Blvd.

The concert is at 7 p.m., with doors opening at 6 p.m.

"It is a rare feat," said James Gross, South orchestra director. In the 10 years that Gross has been with South, he's never had a student compose a complete orchestra. "It is a sophisticated and mature piece. He put a great deal of thought and work into it."

Reinman credits Gross for encouraging him.

"Mr. Gross is a wonderful man," he said. "I couldn't ask for a better person to encourage me as I begin what I hope to be my future career. He has put forth numerous opportunities for me, especially allowing me to conduct various pieces."

Reinman will conduct the world premiere of Symphony No. 1 at the Oct. 26 concert — it's just two days after the tall, lanky, curly-topped young upper-classmen turns 17 years old.

"It's a great birthday present," he said.

Reinman said Gross encouraged him last May "to write something that we can perform for your 'Senior Showcase' next year."

At shocking speed, Reinman was done with the first movement of the symphony just two months later. He would like for this piece, described as neoclassical by Gross, to eventually have four movements.

"I came home from a family vacation in July, and found in my front door Connor's score and a note from him asking me to look it over. I am so very proud of him, and each and every one of these kids," Gross said, sweeping his hand toward the 50-plus student musicians who were tuning up in the school's band room on a crisp morning in late September.

Gross, a viola player and graduate of the University of Michigan's music school, offered to mark up Reinman's score with the bowings and fingerings for the string players.

Using Finale music software, Reinman then typed his handwritten score in order to print sheet music that delineated the instrumentation for the 14 different instruments for which he wrote.

For six instruments — violin, clarinet, French horn, bassoon, trumpet and trombone — he wrote both "first" and "second" section parts.

Reinman earned a perfect score on the Advanced Placement Music Theory exam in May 2012.

His aptitude with writing music in treble, bass and C-clef, as well as transposing the key signatures so that, for example, the B-flat clarinet, trumpet and tenor saxophone, and the F-major scale tuned French horn, do not sound discordant to each other, highlights his thorough understanding of music.

He admits that the French horn parts were the toughest.

"There were some wonky transpositions for the French horn," he said. "I'd pause and ask myself, 'Let's see, I want the French Horn to play a 'C' here, so what note do I write? Oh yeah, a 'G.'"

"I can hear pitches in my head, so I started jotting down melodies during some of my other classes last May," he admitted, a little sheepishly.

Ever prudent to do his best, he attended a week-long composition writing workshop at Oberlin College and Conservatory in Ohio last summer to gain additional reviews of his already finished draft.

The 336-measure symphony has a 10-measure quote from the second movement of Beethoven's 7th Symphony.

"It's one of my favorite symphony pieces," Reinman said. "It is a gorgeous funeral march. The counter melody of the fugue in the second movement was something I knew was going to blend nicely with what I was writing. I was excited to include the quote."

While Reinman's piece includes the nod to Beethoven, his conducting style has his friends and Gross teasing him that he is in full "Carlos Klieber mode". Klieber, the German-born Austrian conductor, who died in 2004, had more than five decades on the podium and was considered one of the greatest conductors of the 20th century.

Reinman rehearsed daily with his string instrument friends, and was joined by brass, woodwind and percussion classmates on Wednesday evenings.

He describes his symphony as "very accessible, light and even skippy." But, that's not to say, at times, the music didn't challenge his classmates.

"I know these measures stretch the trumpets," he said, pointing to his score where the trumpets are asked to hit high-range notes, accomplished with only a flawlessly stable and firm embouchure of the mouth.

Several minutes into rehearsing the middle of the piece, Reinman paused. With clarity — coupled with friendliness and respect — he told his fellow musicians, "See where there's a dotted eighth note followed by a 16th note? Give those 16th notes a snap into the next beat, or else the rhythm sounds like it's been changed into a triplet."

Cellist Janey Degnan, a senior, said that rehearsing Reinman's symphony piece has been really fun, calling the piece upbeat.

"It's amazing how different it sounds when just the strings alone play it, versus when the full orchestra rehearses it," she said.

Violist Spencer Korejwo, also a senior, said that it's been a different adventure to play Reinman's piece. He, along with violinists Hannah Adams and Chenoa Gachupin, a senior and junior, respectively, explained that usually Gross, with each piece of music he wants to introduce them to, plays some of it himself, or he plays a recording of it, or even finds a video clip on YouTube for them.

"But, Connor's piece is original, of course, so there's no previous recording or YouTube video. I remember sight reading it for the first time in September and thinking that this was something special," Korejwo said.

Like Beethoven's works, maybe "Symphony No. 1 by great American composer/conductor Connor Reinman" will be remembered two centuries later.

the other schools she taught, she had an opportunity to cultivate that virtue within the 25 students in her classroom.

Now as a principal, she's cultivating it and modeling Christ's values for about 450 students.

"I believe that, by putting forth the values of Jesus Christ, I'm affecting 450 students and having them learn His ways," she said. "I try to be a good model."

Poupard Elementary School Principal Penny Stocks gives a thumbs up to students before starting the walk from the Harper Woods Police Station to Poupard.

Walk to school day

On the morning of October 9, 2013, more than 115 students, staff and parents from Poupard Elementary School met at the Harper Woods Fire Department to participate in International Walk to School Day.

While this has become an annual event for Poupard, in support of a healthy lifestyle and healthy earth, they decided to incorporate another initiative as well, joining Pacer's National Bullying Prevention Center in recognizing the day as Unity Day.

To show their support, Poupard students and staff were encouraged to wear orange, the official color of Unity Day, and classroom discussions were held to inspire students to be united in making Poupard the best school it can be.

Students will be participating in activities throughout October to create their vision of what they want Poupard to be and how everyone can unite together to continue to make Poupard the school it is.

South senior named scholarship semifinalist

Grosse Pointe South High School senior Jordan R. Spratt was named a semifinalist in the annual National Achievement Scholarship Program.

As a semifinalist, Spratt has an opportunity to continue in the competition for approximately 800 scholarships worth more than $2.5 million to be awarded in the spring.

The National Achievement Scholarship Program, conducted by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation, is a privately financed academic competition that operates without government assistance. Initiated in 1964 to recognize academically promising black students throughout the country, it provides scholarships to a large number of participants.

More than 160,000 high school juniors who took the 2012 Preliminary SAT/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test were considered in the program. Of them, about 1,600 were designated semifinalists; meaning, they were the highest scoring participants in their respective states.

About 1,300 semifinalists will qualify as finalists based on abilities, accomplishments and potential for success in rigorous college studies. The NMSC will release a list of scholarship winners early April 2014.

PASTOR'S CORNER

By Rev. Ben Van Arragon

God provides the success

Seventy years after the fall of Jerusalem, survivors of the exile return to God's Promised Land. They're led by Nehemiah, a civic employee of Babylon, whose boss gives him a leave of absence to go back and rebuild the ruined city of his ancestors. Nehemiah makes the trip; sets up camp; and one night goes out to inspect the city. It's far worse than he imagined.

The walls are completely broken down and overgrown.

It looks less like a city than a pile of rubble. Nehemiah goes back to the camp.

And he says to his leaders: "You see the trouble we are in: Jerusalem lies in ruins, and its gates have been burned with fire. Come, let us rebuild the wall of Jerusalem, and we will no longer be in disgrace." (Nehemiah 2:17)

But Nehemiah adds that God has miraculously paved the way for them to be right here, right now. And God will not abandon them at this point in the project.

In response, his leaders say, "Let us start rebuilding." In spite of the odds against them, they engage the good work. (Nehemiah 2:18)

They don't do the work alone. A whole crowd of haters appears on day one of the reconstruction.

They stand around all day — not helping, of course — telling the workers how their endeavor is impossible. Telling them they're fools to believe the ruins can be rebuilt.

But they don't do the work alone. Nehemiah tells his detractors,

"The God of heaven will give us success. We his servants will start rebuilding, but as for you, you have no share in our city or any claim or historic right to it." (Nehemiah 2:20)

Our God is a God of rebuilding. A God who restores ruined hearts; reconciles ruined relationships; redeems ruined communities.

When conditions for full human flourishing are being rebuilt, God is at work. When we step out in courage to join God in his work, we cannot fail. Don't stand back and hate. Instead have the courage to jump in.

And if you are engaged in the daunting and difficult task of rebuilding — a relationship; a community; a city — don't listen to the haters.

The God of heaven will give us success.

TEST DRIVE By Greg Zyla

2014 Hyundai Equus Signature

This week, we're driving Hyundai's upgraded luxury 2014 Equus Signature sedan, with "Equus" standing for the Latin word horse — base price: $61,000; price as tested: $61,920.

Introduced in 2011 to American markets, Equus extols opulence in a "re-think everything you know about luxury" slogan in hopes of attracting the luxury class consumer.

Hyundai is successfully establishing both its core philosophy of lower price cars for buyers of all economic classes, including the sometimes finicky upper level buyer. To date, Equus is successfully impacting the market and looks for future luxury class sales growth.

The Equus exterior is enhanced for 2014, thanks to a new grille and bumper layout, along with the addition HID headlights, LED turn-signal indicators, improved fog lights and revised LED tail lamps. Also new for 2014 are BlueLink telematics and blind-spot rear cross-traffic alert systems. The motif is highlighted by 19-inch multi-spoke alloy wheels, making for a luxury and performance statement that is both soothing to the eye and exciting when your drive it.

Our Equus had zero options on the window sticker, meaning when you pay $61K for an Equus, everything a luxury consumer demands and then some comes with the deal.

Equus owners will enjoy leather seating, lane departure warning system, 100,000-mile powertrain warranty, pre-collision warning system, nine air bags, 4-wheel disc ABS traction control brakes, smart cruise control with automatic braking, rear safety back-up camera, wood trim interior, Lexicon 17-speaker 7.1 discrete surround sound DVD/Stereo system with navigation and much more.

Equus now features a larger 5.0 liter, 429 horse V8. An 8-speed automatic replaces the original 6-speed, resulting in 23 miles per gallon highway.

The ride is quiet and sure footed, thanks to an electric air suspension dual mode continuous damping control setup that allows traction administration via its rear drive setup.

The 5.0 V8 delivers 376 pound-feet of torque, up 43 pound-feet versus the 4.6 engine and is able to motive Equus to 60 mph in less than six seconds.

Important numbers include a wheelbase of 119.9 inches, 16.7 cubic feet of cargo space, 4,553-pound curb weight, 20.3-gallon fuel tank and 15 city and 23 highway EPA.

Likes: Power, interior, warranty, looks, amenities. Dislikes: No all wheel drive, city mpg.

WARNING: Creepy characters ahead

By Ann L. Fouty
 Features Editor

Glen Williams sleeps very well despite a multitude of holiday house guests.

Ghosts, pirates, witches with bubbling cauldrons, skeletons rattling chains, mad doctors, screaming prisoners, spiders dangling from rafters, Dracula, zombies, rats and just plain creepy characters are gathered in his Grosse Pointe Woods house, garage and yard at 19520 Mack and his parents' neighboring yard.

For more than 30 years the Grosse Pointe Public Schools elementary physical education teacher has been collecting, decorating and, in the past few years, hosting fundraisers during October in a spirit befitting the month's major holiday.

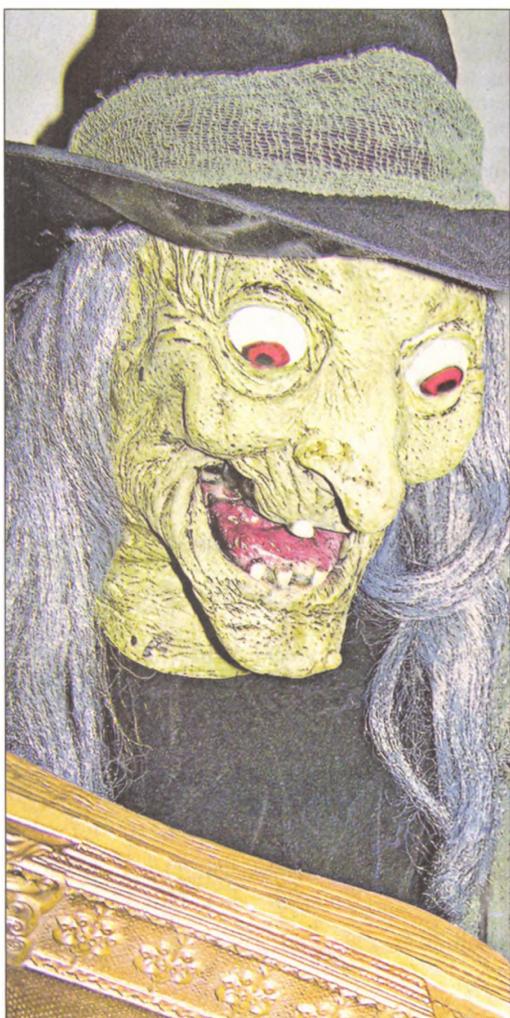

"I'm a collector," he said carrying corn stalks to set beside straw bales in the driveway. "They (Halloween decorations) have become more available. I started purchasing them and it became more of a habit. I have one of a kind animatronics, and a good friend, Gary Lumas, who is a good builder."

He points to the water wheel, one of the new additions this year.

"Whether we'll have water is questionable," said Williams, who estimates he and his father each spend more than 400 hours putting the season's displays together. Beginning in August, Williams has the inside of his 1,300 square foot house completely decorated. While the outside decorations are set up after school and on weekends from September until the last minute before guests arrive. Also just before 300 to 400 guests arrive, Williams takes 45 minutes to turn on all the lights, sounds, animation motion switches and completes a battery check on all the devices.

Then it's show time for Haunted Garage Productions, as Williams has dubbed his enterprise.

He doesn't do it alone. Williams credits friends Ray and Joan Williams, animatronics builder Lumas, set builder Jim Wieme, ticket takers and helpers Dawn, Andy and Zachary Magnuson, Liz Fildew, Robby and Jon Whaley and Jacob Malbouef for making the production possible.

This week they are working feverishly for time has arrived for the fundraisers benefitting all the elementary public school PTOs. Ferry and Trombly children were the first group to tour the nearly acre of haunts. Poupard and Mason children wrap up the month, the early evening of Oct. 27, viewing more than 70 characters in nine different scenes and being offered cider and freshly-made doughnuts.

Williams said he always liked Halloween and would trick-or-treat with his friends. By the time he was in sixth grade he had grown to more than 6-foot tall and was denied treats because people thought he was older.

"After the fifth house I went home crying," he said.

That experience resulted in Williams hosting Halloween parties for his friends until the guest list topped 100 to 150 guests. More than 40 years later, he is still in the Halloween mood.

As the guests enjoyed the ever-expanding Halloween scenes, Williams began to wonder what more he could do with his party idea. The Grosse Pointe Public Education Foundation was the first to take him up on a Halloween-themed fundraiser.

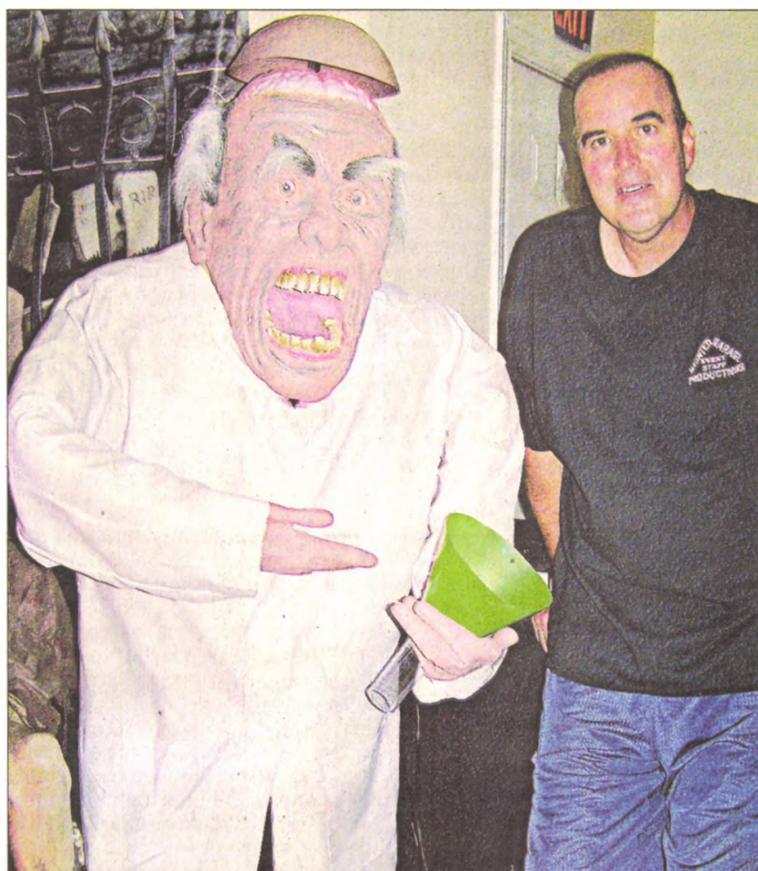

"I then decided to do a tour for the Maire children," he said. "It raised money for the PTO. For over 30 years I've been teaching at Maire; they (the PTO) have been generous to me supplying equipment. This was an easy fundraiser for them. There was not a lot of planning and no money up front. Then two years ago all nine elementaries have been coming."

Admission is $9. The proceeds are donated to the PTOs.

He emphasizes all actors are sensitive to the children, noting fourth and fifth graders like being scared as do younger children. "This is age appropriate haunting. If they (actors) see a nervous child, they pull their masks off. All the actors are former students or (their) families. They do a good job seeing who is nervous," he said. "We are also putting a blinking light on any child that is nervous this year. Once our 'entertainers' see this, it becomes a no haunt group."

Haunting venues have popped up across the metro area and the state. Williams is proud his site is where it is.

"This is family time," he said. "It's another fun Grosse Pointe event and (families don't) have to travel a number of hours and spend a ton of money. We make sure the families will have a good time. They look forward to it every year."

And every year, Williams rearranges, adds and subtracts from the rubber characters and scenes.

Because 2012 October weather was so bad, the commercial haunting sites did poorly financially. As a result, Williams was able to pur-

A LA ANNIE By Annie Rouleau-Scheriff

A cookie for any time of day

I'm bringing you a special recipe this week called Koulouraki [KOO-LOO-ra-Kia]. A Grecian butter cookie that traditionally is rolled into logs then into three different shapes (circles, twists and stacked rope) and topped with sesame seeds. This not too sweet wafer makes for breakfast fare (or with your afternoon coffee).

Kaulourakia (Greek butter cookies)

- 1 lb. butter, room temperature
- 1 1/2 cups sugar
- 4 eggs
- 2 teaspoons vanilla
- 1/2 cup Mazola corn oil
- 1/2 cup orange juice, room temperature
- 7 1/2 cups flour
- 1 tablespoon baking powder
- 4 egg yolks (or more)
- sesame seeds for garnish

Beat together the butter with the sugar until fluffy, about 5 minutes. Beat in the eggs followed by the vanilla, corn oil and orange juice.

In another bowl combine the flour with the baking powder. Working in batches add the flour mixture to the wet ingredients, stirring well. Turn the dough into an airtight container and chill overnight.

Divide the dough into quarters, working with one at a time (keep the other quarters in the refrigerator until ready to roll).

Working on a lightly floured surface, cut the dough in half again then cut off a piece at a time.

Roll the dough to create a 1/2 wide log that's about 6 inches long. Transfer the log to a greased bake sheet

Greek cookies topped with sesame seeds.

then form into a circle, twist or stacked rope. (Shaping the cookies was easier on the bake sheet than the rolling surface.)

Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Place the egg yolks in a small bowl and add a small bit of water.

Brush the cookies with the egg yolk then sprinkle with the sesame seeds.

Bake the cookies at 325 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes. The cookies will be golden on the bottom.

This recipe makes lots and lots of delicious (cake-like) cookies. Over 7 dozen. If making the proper shapes gets to be too much simply bake the dough in 4 inch logs. Great for dunking.

You can purchase these yummy cookies at the Festival of Tables boutique from 1 to 4 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 27, at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

South conquers North, 21-10

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

It was billed as "The Game" and city rivals Grosse Pointe North and host Grosse Pointe South lived up to the hype in last weekend's division game.

With everything on the line, Grosse Pointe South pulled out a 21-10 win. It is the Blue Devils' fourth straight win over the Norsemen.

"We had to control the ball and keep it out of their hands because of their explosive offense," South head coach Tim Brandon said. "We played great defense and were methodical on offense."

"Our kids won this big game and kept on track for achieving our goals of beating North, winning a division title and making the state playoffs."

Grosse Pointe South improved to 3-1 in the Macomb Area Conference Blue Division, tied with L'Anse Creuse North for the top spot, and 4-3 overall; Grosse Pointe North fell to 2-2 and 4-3.

"Both teams played a good game and I thought we had the momentum at the half after kicking the field goal," North head coach Frank Sumbera said.

Brad Centala kicked a 34-yard field goal on the last play of the second quarter to give the Norsemen a 10-7 halftime lead.

Each team had a first-quarter touchdown. South scored on an 82-yard pass from quarterback Richie Kish to wide receiver Jordan Spratt, and North scored on a 74-yard run by quarterback Dan Robinson.

Both defenses played a strong game and each benefited from quarterback sacks to keep the game 10-7 after three quarters.

The Norsemen's defense was stout as they only gave up the one long play. They had momentum heading into the final quarter.

The tide turned when the Blue Devils converted a fourth-down fake punt as Sam Blanzly threw a strike to his brother, Brian Blanzly in the flat. The play covered 19 yards and gave the Blue Devils a first down at the Norsemen 36-yard line.

"We worked on that play in practice," Brandon said. "Sam came in and said No. 42 would either blitz or drop back, leaving the flat open. I picked the right time to use the play and that was the time.

"Sam threw a great pass to Brian and we finished off the drive with a score. It was a big play, that is for sure, but our kids still had to execute after that."

After the successful fake punt, Kish went to work, connecting with wide receiver Tony Moore on a 6-yard gain and with Spratt for another 9-yard gain.

Sam Hunter gained 15 yards on a run and Kish threw a 7-yard pass to Moore, getting a first-and-goal at the Norsemen 9-yard line.

On the next play, Hunter ran 9 yards for the go-ahead touchdown with 8:08 left in the game.

Andrew Fabry kicked the extra point, giving the Blue Devils a 14-10 lead. Tristan Russano sacked Robinson on a third-down play to force another punt and the Blue Devils used their next possession to ice the game.

Hunter ran 28 yards on first down, getting to the Norsemen 17-yard line, and three plays later the Blue Devils had it on the 3-yard line.

Fullback Ryan Liagre bulldozed through the line to score an insurance touchdown with only 2:55 left. Fabry's PAT made it 21-10.

Robinson was intercepted by defensive back Josh Gray on the ensuing possession, but the Blue Devils were forced to punt with a minute left.

The Norsemen benefited from a South 15-yard penalty, but Robinson's final pass was once again intercepted by Gray to seal the victory.

Kish took a knee on the last play of game and South fans stormed the field, celebrating the huge victory.

Kish played with poise and finished 7-of-14 passing for 135 yards and one touchdown and one interception, and Hunter did it on the ground, gaining 137 yards on 23 carries with one score.

Spratt had three receptions for 101 yards and one touchdown and Moore had four catches for 34 yards.

Sam Blanzly was 1-of-1 for 19 yards and Brian Blanzly had the reception.

The defense limited the Norsemen's explosive offense to only the one long run by Robinson, who finished 3-of-15 passing for 50 yards and two interceptions and 12 carries for 89 yards with one score.

Tod Long had a couple of big runs early, but the Blue Devils shut him down in the second half and limited him to only 49 yards rushing on 13 carries and two receptions for 19 yards.

Lawrence Bryant ran the ball three times for 20 yards.

Both South and North need to win its final two games to automatically qualify for the state playoffs.

South hosts L'Anse Creuse at 7 p.m. Friday, Oct. 18. If the Blue Devils win, they gain at least a share of the MAC Blue Division title and would win it outright if LCN loses to Fraser.

"We know we need two wins to make the playoffs, but our focus is on L'Anse Creuse and trying to win at least a share of the division title," Brandon said. "This will not be an easy game. L'Anse Creuse will be ready to play."

North hosts Port Huron Northern at 7 p.m. Friday, Oct. 18. It can also gain a share of the title if South and LCN lose, leaving three teams at 3-2 in the MAC Blue.

"We have to focus on Northern and come out ready to play," Sumbera said. "These are tough losses, but we can't hang our heads because we have a lot to play for."

Knights win on Homecoming

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

University Liggett's football team welcomed its annual Homecoming in style last weekend, whipping Lutheran Westland 42-20.

"They're a run-first football team which grinds out possessions," head coach Dan Cimini said. "We were able to limit their effectiveness, while our offensive line, for the second straight game, dominated by allowing our offense to run the ball.

"It's a nice win on Homecoming and guaranteed us second place in the division. Not bad for such a young team."

With alumni, faculty and students packing the athletic grounds, the host

Knights put on a show which started with sophomore Tommy Jackson returning the opening kickoff 98 yards for a touchdown.

Jackson also scored on a 33-yard run in the second quarter to help the Knights build a 14-0 lead. Freshman Connor McCarron kicked both extra points.

Lutheran Westland scored right before the first half ended, making it a tight game at the half.

Each team scored a touchdown in the third quarter. The Knights scored on a 70-yard pass from McCarron to wide-open sophomore wide receiver, Nick Gawel. He outran the defensive backs.

The Warriors came right back and used a 13-play, 57-yard drive to score and get within six points, 20-14, with one full quarter left to play.

The Knights put their game into overdrive in the final quarter, scoring three touchdowns.

Senior Darryl Lewis scored on a 3-yard run and added the two-point conversion run, making it 28-14. He scored on the Liggett freshman Connor McCarron kicked a few extra points, handled the kickoff duties and quarterbacked the Knights to a Homecoming victory.

Knights' next possession with McCarron's PAT giving the home team a comfortable 35-14 advantage.

The final TD was scored on a 25-yard run by Jackson and McCarron's extra point put the finishing touches on the Homecoming game.

Jackson ran for 160 yards on 14 carries with three touchdowns, and Lewis had 31 yards rushing on 11 carries with two touchdowns, plus caught one pass for 12 yards.

McCarron completed 3-of-5 passes for 89 yards with the one TD. Senior Lordanthony Grissom, Gawel and Lewis had the receptions.

With the win, Liggett finished its Michigan Independent Athletic Conference 4-1, second place to 5-0 Southfield Christian. Liggett also improved to 4-3 overall and now has its sights set on trying to make the state playoffs.

"We have to take it one game at a time and the next one on the schedule is Harper Woods," Cimini said. "It's a big game for us and we have to find a way to slow down their explosive offense and continue to do what we have been doing offensively."

By Bob St. John

The University Liggett boys' tennis team won its Division 4 regional tournament last week with host Almont taking second to also qualify for the finals.

The Knights finished with a near perfect 23 points and Almont had 12. Sandusky was third with 10 points to also make the finals.

Flint Powers was fourth with six points, followed by Algonac with two, Imlay City with two, Burton-Atherton with one and Mount Morris with zero.

Head coach Drew Mascarin guided his Knights through a tough schedule and wanted his players to be at their best at the end of the regular season.

"I like the way the guys are playing as we head into the regionals," Mascarin said earlier in the week. "We are ready to go."

Mascarin was right as the Knights won seven flights and finished second in the other to dominate the regional tournament featuring Almont, Sandusky, Algonac, Burton-Atherton, Clawson, Flint Powers Catholic, Imlay City and Mount Morris.

At No. 1 singles, T.J. Dulac beat Almont's Mitchel Bulger in the title match 6-1, 6-2, and Patrick Diaz lost his No. 2 singles championship match to Sandusky's Tyler Wedge.

Steven Kneiser won the No. 3 singles flight, defeating Sandusky's Trevor Wedge 6-2, 6-3 in the title match, and at No. 4 singles, Jeffrey Shell won with a win over Almont's Ben Wright 6-4, 6-1.

The Knights' No. 1 doubles team of James Jurcak and Neil Sekhon won the title, and the No. 2 doubles squad of Alan Jurcak and August Bonacci took care of business, winning the championship match.

Norsemen defeat Roseville

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe North's boys' soccer team opened the Division 1 district playoffs Monday afternoon with a 7-0 home win over Roseville.

It was 3-0 at the half, but the Norsemen pulled away to win big.

"We had a horrible first half, but the guys played much better in the second half," head coach Skipper Mukhtar said. "We earned the first win and now we have to play a good game to beat Cousino."

Chris Bahr led the Norsemen with two goals, while Carter Bock, Will Colborn, John Kusch, Alex Blunden and Joseph Garvin tallied a goal apiece.

Nathan Steinkampf recorded his fifth shutout of the season as North improved to 7-10-1 overall.

Earlier in the week, North lost 4-0 to Fraser, the Macomb Area Conference White Division champion.

North finished 4-7-1 in the MAC White.

Blue Devils drop tough one to DLS

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

The Grosse Pointe South boys' soccer team was up against a state juggernaut in its Division 1 district first-round game Monday afternoon, Warren DeLaSalle.

The Pilots entered the game with five state championships under their belt and looking forward to a district semifinal game two days later against unbeaten Fraser.

However, South head coach Stefan Harris and his players watched game film of the Pilots and practiced a game plan to upset the favored Catholic League foe.

The game plan nearly worked, but in the end South lost 1-0 on a goal scored with 22:05 left in the second half.

In the final 40 seconds, the Blue Devils had a solid scoring chance, but the ball never made it over the goal line.

"I'm so proud of my players," Harris said. "We had to play above our best game to win and we almost pulled it out. I know DeLaSalle was looking past us, but we still played hard and played a great game."

"Our seniors laid a solid foundation for this program and now it's up to the returning players to start working hard to keep it going."

South finished the season 7-8-3 overall.

Harris loses seniors Murray Sales, Anthony Carrier, Eric Addy, Daniel Bukacel, Noah Erickson, Chaz Bilderbeck, John Kanan, Jackson Yezbeck, Andrew Cornwall, Wade Penman and Stuart Daudlin to graduation.

By Bob St. John

The Grosse Pointe North boys' tennis team made it to the state finals after placing second in last weekend's Division 2 regional tournament at Lakefront Park.

"We made our goal, which was to make it back to the state finals," head coach John VanAlst said. "I thought the guys played some great tennis, but in the end U-D was better than we were today."

"They're a good team, but now we have to focus on practicing hard to prepare for the state finals."

U-D Jesuit, ranked No. 3 in Division 2, won the title with 23 points, with Grosse Pointe North earning 17.

St. Clair Shores Lakeview was a distant third with six points, followed by Port Huron with five, Eastpointe East Detroit with two, Warren Woods-Tower with two and Sterling Heights with one.

The highlight for the Norsemen was the No. 1 doubles team of Connor Olzem and Nick Cusmano. The duo won the regional championship, beating U-D 6-4, 4-6, 6-1.

The No. 2 doubles team of Mitchell Zacharias and Josh Champney played well, but lost to U-D in the finals 6-4, 4-6, 6-2.

North's Matthew Kain played well at No. 2 singles, until losing in the finals to his U-D Jesuit foe.

The other six matches were over in straight sets.

By Bob St. John

The Grosse Pointe South boys' tennis team played well in its Division 1 regional tournament last week and earned a spot in the state finals for a second straight year.

The top two teams automatically advanced to the finals as Troy won the regional with 28 points and host South was second with 24.

Troy Athens also made it, earning more than the qualifying number of 18 as it ended up with 20.

"The boys did an excellent job today and won the matches they were supposed to win and surprised some people in a couple of others," head coach John Willard said.

The Blue Devils had two flight champions and four runner-ups.

Patrick Willard pulled off a stunning upset as he beat Troy's Tarun Kalyanaraman 4-6, 7-6, 7-5 in the No. 3 singles championship match. The freshman stayed focused after dropping the first set and never got rattled against the favored Kalyanaraman.

The other champion was the No. 1 doubles team of Victor Flynn and Will Norris. They beat their Troy foes 6-3, 7-5 in the title match.

Nick Paolucci made the finals at No. 1 singles before losing 6-3, 6-0 to Athens' Richard Zang.

Knights get lethargic

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

The University Liggett boys' soccer team limped to the finish line in its division slate last week.

The Knights, playing three games in a five-day period for the second straight week, finished 0-2-1.

They opened the week with a 2-2 tie with Plymouth Christian, and followed with a 2-1 loss to Southfield Christian and 2-0 loss to Auburn Hills Oakland Christian.

"That game with Allen Park Inter-City Baptist took a lot out of us and it was evident with our play this week," head coach David Backhurst said. "We didn't have the energy we needed to win these games."

In the tie with Plymouth Christian, Warren Purvin scored an unassisted goal to give the Knights a 1-0 lead.

With only six minutes left in regulation, PC scored to send the game to overtime. PC scored the first goal in overtime, but Adante Provenzano tallied later in the extra session to leave it a 2-2 tie.

Provenzano scored on a penalty kick to give the host Knights a 1-0 lead over Southfield Christian. However, it went downhill from that point and the Knights couldn't sustain any momentum in the 2-1 defeat.

The lack of momentum carried over to the Oakland Christian game. It was Liggett's Homecoming, but OC didn't care as it took the play right at the host Knights.

Liggett ended its regular season 8-5-1 in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference and 11-6-1 overall.

the finals, but the team did not.

Grosse Pointe South's girls' golf team qualified for the Division 1 state finals tournament after finishing in the top three in last weekend's regional tournament at Dearborn Country Club.

Head coach Mike Rennell watched his captains, seniors Lily Pendy and Tenley Shield, finish first and third in the tournament field, shooting a 73 and 76, respectively.

However, it was Troy which won the tournament with a 333, with South taking second at 337 and host Dearborn sophomores Lucy Buzolits and Ally Dalman shot a 93 and 95, respectively, while senior Mia Adams had a 109.

All five of Troy's golfers shot 90 and below with sophomores Naomi Kim and Jennifer Cui shooting a 78 and 79, respectively.

Other teams in the regional were Bloomfield Hills, Athens, Dakota, West Bloomfield, Fraser, Utica Ford, L'Anse Creuse North, Sterling Heights Stevenson and Utica.

Grosse Pointe North's girls' golf team ended its season last week, finishing sixth in a Division 2 regional tournament at Heather Highlands Golf Club in Holly.

The top three teams advanced to the state finals, which were Birmingham Seaholm, Fenton and Auburn Hills Avondale. The top three fired a team score of 331, 353 and 367, respectively.

For head coach Brian Stackpoole and the Norsemen, they finished with a 396. Birmingham Marian was fourth with a 388 and Holly placed fifth with a 391.

Other teams competing in the regional were Berkley, Ortonville-Brandon, Royal Oak, Port Huron, Lakeview and Birmingham Groves.

For the Norsemen, sophomore Liz Gallagher led the way with a 93 and senior Madison Vens had a 99 in her last high school round of golf. Senior Jordyn Parent, also playing her last round on the team, shot a 100, followed by sophomore Olivia Benoit with a 104 and junior Leesie Paglion with a 121.

Despite not making it to the finals, Vens and Parent helped the Norsemen win back-to-back Macomb Area Conference White Division regular season titles.

Both squads played well in the first half and it looked like the rivals would battle to a 2-2 tie. Goalies on the both teams played well, making fine saves to keep the game tied. However, the Knights scored the go-ahead goal with 5:29 left and added an insurance tally with 3:20 left.

In other action last week, Liggett finished its Division II slate with a 4-0 win over Warren Regina, and ended its regular season with a 1-0 loss to Ann Arbor Greenhills.

As for North, it lost 5-1 to Birmingham Detroit Country Day and won 1-0 against Dearborn Edsel Ford. Liggett finished the regular season 7-2-2 in the Michigan High School Field Hockey Association Division II standings and 8-4-2, while Grosse Pointe North is 2-8 in the division and 3-9.

City rivals Grosse Pointe North and University Liggett met in field hockey last week. It was a 2-2 game until late in the second half when the visiting Knights scored twice to win 4-2.

"We played very well and this was a very well-played game with North," Liggett head coach Tamara Fobare said. "This was a big win for us and we're still alive for the division title."

Hall of Fame inductees

University Liggett School inducted five people who made Liggett athletics great over the past century into the school's Alumni Athletics Hall of Fame. The Alumni Athletics Hall of Fame was created in 2011 to commemorate the long, winning history of athletics at University Liggett School and its predecessor schools, and the people who wrote that story. This year's inductees include four athletes whose graduation years range from 1906 to 1997 and a beloved former faculty member.

Inducted this year were:

David Rentschler

Rentschler was on the varsity baseball, basketball, football and track teams all four years of Upper School. He was president of the Athletic Council and held the H e a d m a s t e r s Scholarship. After graduation he played football for the University of Michigan where he was second string to the great Ron Kramer.

Gene Overton

Overton worked at University Liggett School for 37 years and during that time he was a tireless supporter of Liggett athletics. In addition to work in the classroom, he worked 36 of his 37 years teaching as the scoreboarding official for both boys and girls home and away games. He was also a starter for the track team. He also recorded University

Overton has continued to film games even after his retirement and filmed this year's Final Four in Battle Creek and the all-star game.

George Perrin

Perrin was on the varsity football, basketball and baseball teams at GPUS. He was the school's starting quarterback for three years, and led the team to break nine school records. He alone set three school records in football. Perrin was the MVP of the Maumee Valley Invitational Tournament for three years. In basketball, he set the school record for most points scored in a single game (40 points). He also led the GPUS baseball team his senior year with a .405 batting average.

He held state and national records in the hurdles and is still No. 2 on the Liggett Top 10 high hurdle rankings, even though the hurdle height was 42" tall in 1934 and today it is only 36". Job well done

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

Don't look now, but the University Liggett girls' volleyball team has its "A" game.

The Knights played well on the road earlier last week, beating Southfield Christian, and returned home two nights later and crushed Sterling Heights Parkway Christian 25-16, 25-23, 25-19.

Head coach Joe LaMagno said his team could get on a roll if they focused and that is exactly what the girls did on the court.

Everyone chipped in during the easy win in game one. Junior Olivia Wujek was a hitting machine, collecting several kills. Junior Courtney deRuijter dished out the assists and the Knights had good outings from juniors Carina Ghafari, Zarine Minwalla and Kacie Wutrich; senior Natalie Caramagno; and sophomores Emily Kanakry and Nycki Eschenburg.

Game two was nip-and-tuck throughout with each team taking a multi-point lead until late in the game.

It was tied at 22 and 23 before the Knights scored the final two points with Kanakry ending the game with a kill.

In game three, Wujek and Kanakry posted a potent duo at the net. They were an offensive machine Parkway Christian couldn't stop.

Minwalla served several points to get the Knights back in the game and when it counted the most, Wujek and Kanakry went to work. Senior Sarah Edmonds and junior Jacqueline Kopicki played well in the back row, and Caramagno had a couple of good serve receives to keep the Knights in the game.

LaMagno said the Knights still had a shot to win a division title if they stay on course, which they have during their three-game winning streak.

Liggett improved to 4-3 in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference and 8-12-2 overall.

Cross country

Blue Devils beat MAC foe Mott

The Grosse Pointe South girls' cross country team raced to a perfect shutout score (15-50) over MAC rival Warren Mott early last week.

The win earned the Blue Devils a final dual meet mark of 15-0 and a six-year streak of undefeated seasons.

With the MAC Red Division championship in hand, the Blue Devils now focus on the MAC Championships (racing all 35 MAC schools from all four divisions) and the upcoming (Oct. 25) state regional. Both meets are held at Metro Beach.

Against Mott, South runners took the first 8 positions (a perfect score is when the first seven spots are taken).

South was led by the first place tie of Kelsie Schwartz and Ersula Farrow, posting a time of 20:24.

"Our top eight girls ran a very strategic race and followed our plan well," head coach Steve Zaranek said. "All eight stayed together and pushed one another until the 2.5 mile mark. They were then on their own to finish strong. All eight were very successful."

Also running under 21 minutes were Alexa Calas, Anna Piccione, Mary Spencer, Megan Sklarski, Sarah O'Neill and Kamryn Leonard.

"We were hoping for a

"Our practices have been going very well and we are focused on a strong October finish. The MAC Championships will provide an excellent tune-up for the state regional over the next two weeks."

"Our varsity wants to be on the starting line at the state finals in early November. I am very confident our entire team is ready to race at the highest level and also achieve personal success."

Many South runners raced to season-best times against Mott and included Katie Kuhr, Megan Dziedzic, Caroline Forster, Lizzy Langenburg, Eryn VanDerHoeven, Christy Finkenstaedt, Rachel Martinez, Elise Koelsch, Carmella Goree, Mary Panagos, Vicky Beacham, Elizabeth Baratta, Margaret Sohn, Olivia Baratta, Gretchen Cozad, Alessandra Lai, Gracie Pellegrino, Jillian Kouayara and Ashley Nihem.

With Homecoming distractions behind it, the Grosse Pointe North girls' volleyball team showed why it is playing its best volleyball of the season.

Last week, the Norsemen blasted Port Huron Northern 25-16, 25-19, 25-18, and Fraser 25-16, 30-28, 25-15.

"The girls played two great matches this week and this is the effort I expect from here on out," head coach Kim Lockhart said. "The girls were focused in both matches and did the little things it took to win."

On the road against Northern, junior Christa Raicevich had 15 kills and three aces to lead the Norsemen.

Other offensive leaders were senior Caitlin Gaitley with eight kills, junior Maddy Bessert with seven and sophomore Erin Armbruster with seven.

Defensively, junior Vita Aluia had 24 digs, followed by Raicevich with 16 and senior Colleen Reveley with 11. Reveley also had three aces and 33 assists.

The host Norsemen repeated the three-game sweep against Fraser. It's the second time this season North took three straight games from the Ramblers.

"We really played the first and third game, but Fraser was on its game in the second game," Lockhart said. "Our girls were blocking everything in the second game and I could see our girls hitting the ball hard tonight. They had some nice kills."

Raicevich once again led the hitting, collecting 22 kills. She was followed by Bessert with eight kills and Armbruster with seven.

Gaitley had an all-around solid game, with six kills, four digs, three assists and two aces.

Junior Katie Roy had 16 digs and junior Kelsey Parafin had nine. Reveley had eight digs to go along with 24 assists.

Grosse Pointe North improved to 4-2 in the Macomb Area Conference Red Division and 18-7-5 overall.

The Norsemen were only 10 points out of first place as Clarkston won with 66 points, followed by Brighton with 71 and North with 77.

The Norsemen's top runners were Julia Rustmann, 20:11.00; Sarah Rustmann, 20:12.10; Katelyn Carney, 21:02.80; Maddy Denison, 22:32.10; Alaina Streberger, 23:25.70; and Keri Hryciuk, 23:42.30.

Rustmann squared and Carney all earned medals, according to head coach Scott Cooper.

"Julia and Sarah finished 2, 3 in the overall standings," Cooper said. "They are running with fire in their shoes and should finish their high school careers on very high notes, and together. It is amazing to watch them both run these races side by side, pushing each other on."

Blue Devils split

By Fletcher Sharpe
Special Writer

The Blue Devils of Grosse Pointe South rebounded from a tough loss against Romeo with a dominant straight set victory over Henry Ford II, 26-24, 25-17, 25-18.

Head coach Kevin Nugent was pleased with his team's effort, "I was worried about our focus, with the loss at Romeo, and this week being "North vs. South" week, but we managed to get through it."

"Henry Ford is always competitive, but this match wasn't always pretty."

Nugent's comments refer to the first and last sets where the Blue Devils looked a little out of sorts.

Ford jumped out to a 7-6 lead over South until senior Hannah Adams' received the ball to serve. The Blue Devils scored five straight points, including two service aces by Adams.

South later scored an emphatic kill when junior Carina Bertakis found senior Grace Metry who sent a vicious spike into Ford's zone.

Ford did lead a come back however, tying the set at 22 all, and then 23 all, before South scored three out of four points to take the first stanza.

Coach Nugent did something a little different this match, as he inserted some of his younger players into the match, and they began to spark the Blue Devils offense and defense.

Sophomore Kayli Johnson lead the team in digs with 12, and freshman Lexi Kohut lead the team in kills with 15, and blocks with 10, for a double-double.

Nugent was pleased, "Freshman Emma (Andreasen) was great in service, and Lexi bailed us out a lot. (Senior) Katie Murphy was also great, hitting very well. The exchange between Paige and Lexi was great...they did a lot to shut down the other hitters."

The game wasn't entirely peachy, however, as the Blue Devils came out flat their last set, getting down 11-4 to Ford, behind too many errors.

Grosse Pointe South is 5-1 in the MAC White Division and 21-10-3.

FROM THE SPORTS DESK

Verlander: the Tigers' ace

Up until the playoffs, the question of "What's wrong with Justin Verlander?" has appeared often this season, in newspapers, on websites, on talk radio and television, and in daily conversations between fans.

After two dominating years, the Tigers' ace pitcher had a sub-par regular season, with a record of 13-12 and an ERA greater than 3.5. No consensus has been reached for his drop in performance, with most explanations involving fatigue or advancing age - Verlander turned 30 in May.

But is this fair? It is not unusual for players in any sport to have a down year where certain breaks go against them and they just don't perform as well, and in many cases the players return to form the following year.

Verlander might simply not be pitching enough. With a 5-man rotation, the standard for Major League teams of this era, Verlander and every other pitcher are barely getting 33 or 34 starts in a year. All starting pitchers are on a 5-day rotation, often times described as pitching "on four days rest."

But off-days, travel days, and rain-outs result in almost half their games being pitched on five days rest - that is, they are starting a large number of games every six days instead of five. One might think more rest is better.

Practically, this is rarely the case. If a pitcher is ready to pitch on one day, waiting another day is not necessarily going to make him better, and an altered routine could, in theory, have the opposite effect on some athletes.

So let's look at Verlander's starts this year and ask if he pitches differently on four days of rest compared to five days rest. In 2013, he has started 34 games (counting his "relief" appearance in the last game).

Taking out opening day, which did not involve a regular season between games rest session, he started 33 games. Eighteen of these were on four days rest, and 15 were on five days rest. His record on four days of rest was 6-7, and his record on five days rest of 6-5. So it's the same, right?

Not so fast. His ERA on four days of rest was 3.16, and his ERA on five days of rest was 4.00, a difference of 84 ERA points, a little less than one run per game.

He therefore pitched much better on four days of rest than five. Even the won-lost record is deceiving because on four days of rest Verlander had five no-decisions, and in three of those gave up no earned runs, only to leave the game without a lead, or with a lead the relief pitchers gave up.

He also had three wins involving 7-inning stints in which he shut out the other team. So in a third of his 18 games started on four days of rest, he gave up no earned runs. Pitching on five days of rest, Verlander gave up at least one earned run in 14 out of 15 appearances. Looking only at the games Verlander started on four days of rest, 2013 has not been that bad. He pitched shutout ball in 6-of-18 games, but won only three of them. He lost 5 other games in which he gave up three runs or less.

With reasonable run support and relief pitching, he could have easily had 10-12 wins in those 18 starts. His record in games pl ayed on five days of rest, on the other hand, is not very impressive, as the 4.00 ERA would indicate. Despite winning 6 of those 14 games, he did not shut the other team out until the last game of the season, and he gave up 4 or more runs 5 times. Is it possible Verlander is not pitching enough, that his physical and mental make up allow him to perform better on less rest than on more?

So both he and the Tigers are aware of this difference, and choose to keep pitching him frequently on five days rest regardless. But looking at this table, I would imagine that Tigers opponents might prefer to face a very well rested Justin Verlander.

And FYI, in his game 5 masterpiece against the A's, he was pitching on regular four-days rest.

South Red Barons victorious

The Grosse Pointe South Red Barons defeated the Sterling Heights Mustangs 30-16 last weekend.

The Red Barons opened the game with a 65-yard scoring drive, with multitasking utility back Jordan Rush carrying most of the load. Quarterback Davis Graham completed the drive with a 14-yard pass to Brett Thalgot and an 18-yard scoring strike to Rush.

On the first play after the Barons score, Rush deflected a pass that was intercepted and returned 40 yards by linebacker Wally Kinni-Adebayo.

The offensive line, comprised of tight ends Brennan Zihlman and Armani Williams, as well as interior players Max Cervantes, Evan Bolles, Anthony Ramsey, Lawson Wohlfarth and Truman McKay, spearheaded both of the Baron's first half scoring drives.

Running back Darrick Hollowell ran for 15 yards and covered the final 10 yards with a scoring pass to Rush.

The Barons stumbled to open the second half, giving up a series of scrambles by the Mustangs' outstanding quarterback, culminating in a score. However, the Barons offense countered with a third long drive of their own behind the strong run blocking of Ed Kotula, Miles Dearing, Tanner Belanger, Parker McKowen, Lawrence Peavy, Presley Kaleta, Grayson Kennedy and Davon Gaines.

Rush opened the drive with runs of 7, 13, 15 and 8 yards. Hollowell connected with Thalgot for an 11-yard pass and Rush took it the final 10 yards for the touchdown.

Two plays later the Mustangs broke a 60-yard scoring run to pull within eight points, 24-16.

But the Baron defense, led by linebackers Cam Sparkman (13 tackles), Max Stricker and Kinni-Adebayo, shut the door on the Mustangs offense in the final stanza.

Defensive backs Joey DiMamabro, Jack Ratsek, Rush and Hollowell played shut down pass coverage, and quarterback Graham ran for more than 60 yards and a touchdown in the final quarter.

Kicker Cam Shook added 6 points to the Baron's margin of victory.

The Red Barons play this weekend.
