Surveys praise Pointe courts

By Brad Lindberg
 Staff Writer

THE GROSE POINTES — The community's municipal courts score higher than the children of Lake Woebegone.

The courts aren't just above average, they're near the top of the class.

A statewide survey of court performance, with the public serving as judge and jury, praised all five Grosse Pointe municipal courts as efficient, fair and just.

Most positive evaluations averaged in the upper 90th percentile, a stunning acknowledgement of objectivity and courtesy given roughly half the people appearing in court lose, according to Russell Ethridge, judge in the City of Grosse Pointe.

"Some of these are people I sent downtown," said Ethridge, alluding to sentencing defendants to the Wayne County Jail and forwarding cases to circuit court.

The Public Satisfaction Survey is mandated each year by the Michigan State Court Administrative Office.

Separate ratings cover each court, except the Shores, which is included with the Farms because the courts began operating jointly in 2011.

It consists of six questions about efficiency, courtesy, fairness and clarity of outcome. Responses range from strongly disagree to strongly agree.

The Pointes' combined percentage outcome per question out-paced statewide results across the board.

Pointe overall ratings compared with state results are, respectively:

- ◆ timeliness: GP, 96.2; state, 86;
- ◆ courteous staff: GP, 98.5; state, 93;

- ◆ fairness: GP, 87.5, state, 83;
- ◆ courteous judge: GP, 95.5; state, 90;
- ◆ favorable outcome: GP, 78.75; state, 70;
- ◆ understanding of process: GP, 95.4; state, 87.

Each Pointe judge explained the results:

Dozens of children ran through Windmill Pointe Park during Grosse Pointe Park's annual Easter egg hunt. Fitness trail provides a real workout

By John McTaggart
 Staff Writer

GROSE POINTE WOODS — "I'll be here three times a week," Grosse Pointe Woods resident Dale Foster, 63, said. "It's a really nice feature to have and one I plan on using a lot these next few months."

Foster is referring to the Burke Fosse Fitness Trail at Lake Front Park.

The trail is actually a series of nine fitness stations located at various points along the park's existing 1.4-mile trail.

As the warmer months approach, Parks and Recreation Department Supervisor Nicole Byron anticipates the fitness stations will get plenty of use.

"I think they're going to be very popular," Byron said. "It really compliments the walking trail so nicely. We're very happy to have it at Lake Front Park." The fitness trail opened last fall, at the tail end of the walking season.

"I really didn't get that much of a chance to use it," Foster said. "But I've already used a few of the devices this year and I like them."

The project was made possible by the Grosse Pointe Woods Foundation, nine donors, who are mentioned on each station along the trail, and the Fossee family.

Burke Fosse was an attorney and longtime Woods resident with a fondness for Lake Front Park and fitness.

Stations are positioned along the trail and can be used in circuit or individually along the route.

"My goal is to work myself up to using all of them during my walking," Foster said. "I'm not there yet, but I'm hoping to be there by the summer."

Woods named Tree City again

GROSE POINTE WOODS — For nearly four decades, Grosse Pointe Woods has earned a distinction city officials are very proud of — a Tree City USA distinction.

"It's a real honor," councilman Michael Koester said. "It really is."

Officials received word recently the city earned the distinction yet again, for the 37th time, making it among the longest running recipients in the state.

"Being named a Tree City USA is a real testament to how hard DPW

Bond rating to AAA

By Brad Lindberg
Staff Writer

GROSSE POINTE FARMS — In terms of bond ratings, AAA is the big leagues.

And, on the cusp of the baseball season, city officials are batting 1,000 with a triple-A bond rating.

It's the highest rating possible.

"It's a big deal," said Shane Reeside, manager of Grosse Pointe Farms. "We wanted this for a while."

Standard & Poor's announced the news late Friday, April 3.

"We did a high-five," Reeside said.

The AAA designation reflects the Farms' "extremely strong capacity to meet financial commitments. Highest rating," according to S&P.

The higher the rating, the less a city normally pays on interest for bonds.

Reeside said the new designation, up from AA+ and the highest in the Pointes, saves $100,000 on bonds funding water main and sewer improvements this year in the inland district.

"Each time you go up a rating, it reduces interest 10 to 25 basis points," he said.

"With such a great rating, it will be further savings on future projects," said Councilman Louis Theros, chairman of the finance committee.

He credits the upgrade to "great fiscal management" by municipal administrators and representatives present and past.

Theros cited the late Councilman Terry Davis and his five-year budgets and capital improvements plans, plus municipal improvements funded privately by the Grosse Pointe Farms Foundation.

"It's been a team effort," Theros said, "like storing money away for the new (fire) ladder truck rather than having to pay $1 million at once, doing a good job on pensions, making sure we take care of our infrastructure and making sure people keep property values where we need them to be."

"We live within our means," added Councilman Peter Waldmeir. "The departments manage themselves very well and provide great value at reasonable costs. The citizens help, too."

Pointe bond ratings are:

- ◆ City, AA+;
- ◆ Farms, AAA;
- ◆ Park AA-;
- ◆ Shores AA+; and
- ◆ Woods, AA.

GROSSE POINTE SHORES — Freezing weather during winter is credited with sparking a growth spurt this spring in municipal garden sponsorships.

"People have gotten stir crazy locked inside their homes and are looking for something pretty to come along," said Helen Bai, chairwoman of the Grosse Pointe Shores beautification commission. "We have 17 new garden sponsors who have never sponsored a garden before."

Commission members encourage annual sponsorships of municipal gardens throughout the Shores.

Tax-deductible sponsorships range from $100 to $200.

Money pays for the purchase of flowers and shrubbery planted in gardens on Lakeshore, in municipal parks, around city hall and elsewhere.

Flower planting is scheduled this year May 21 and 22.

Commemorate plaques in each garden acknowledge sponsors.

"Our Sponsor a Garden project is off to its best start ever," Bai said.

She credits winter's cold, snowy weather for pent-up support of spring.

"That's the only good thing I can say about this winter," Bai said.

To sponsor a garden or volunteer to plant flowers in the Shores, call city hall at (313) 881-6565.

sake, said the trail is a wonderful tribute.

"The fitness trail is a wonderful tribute to my father, Burke Fossee," Fossee said in a news release. "In his leisure time away from his practice as a trial lawyer, he pursued a rigorous physical fitness regimen. He also enjoyed much time at the Grosse Pointe Woods Lake Front Park on his sailboat, the Legal Eagle. We know the residents of Grosse Pointe Woods will enjoy the fitness trail for many years to come."

Balance steps, a push-up station, an ab-crunch station and more are all part of what the Burke Fossee Fitness Trail offers.

works to maintain the beautiful trees in the city," Koester, who is the council representative on the city's Community Tree Commission, said. "And how hard the volunteers on the Community Tree Commission work, too. There is such dedication to this in the city. It's really nice to see that recognized with a distinction like this once again."

Public works is tasked with maintaining and planting much of the city's tree population, Koester said.

"A lot of the credit for this goes to them," he said. "It really does. They do such a great job."

The trees within the city, some of which are in excess of a century old, also add to the city's esthetics and appeal.

"They're beautiful," Koester said. "Truthfully, most cities don't have this kind of scenery with canopies and tree-lined streets. It's something I think many of us even take for granted. But the truth is, a lot of work goes into it."

Only the city of Adrian has earned the designation more than the Woods, with 38 consecutive years receiving the honor.

"Everyone in the city shares in this," Koester said. "It's a reflection, in many ways, on how much the residents and homeowners care about their property, about the trees. They are maintained by the DPW and the tree commission, but the residents take care of the trees, too. It's a true community honor."

Road projects

GROSSE POINTE PARK — Like the sunshine bringing the warmer temperatures, springtime is dawn of orange construction cones.

Park residents are not exempt from the orange-cone invasion.

Beginning soon, the city's contractor, Cadillac Asphalt, will be hitting the streets throughout the city, resurfacing and reworking the roadways, making neighborhood roads more passable and pleasant.

"The city's contractor, Cadillac Asphalt, is geared up to start road improvements in late April," Park City Manager Dale Krajniak said. "Residents will be notified in advance by the contractor to minimize any inconvenience." Among the roadways scheduled to be worked on this season are sections of Harvard, Bishop, Audubon, Three Mile Road, Bedford, Westchester, Beaconsfield, Pemberton and Windmill Pointe Drive, Krajniak said.

"The work will continue throughout the summer and fall," he said, "and additional streets will be included in this year's program."

court, we try to make the experience understandable so they feel comfortable and know they were treated fairly."

◆ "No matter who is in court, they're looking for someone who treats them with respect and tries to handle their case in an even-handed fashion," said Matthew Rumora, on the Farms bench for 27 years and recently, also in the Shores.

◆ "People want to be treated with respect," said Carl Jarboe, Park judge for 20 years. "They want to be heard and they want to understand why I decided the way I did."

◆ "You have to give everybody an opportunity to speak," said Ted Metry, in his sixth year as Woods judge. "Someone may not agree with me, but if I'm logical with them, tell them why I disagree or why they may be in the wrong, they feel better about themselves."

Highest ratings were 100 percent for staff courtesy in City and Farms courts, plus 100 percent understanding in the Woods.

All Pointe judges are practicing attorneys active throughout the metropolitan area. They bring that perspective to their bench.

"Most people coming into court, it might be the only experience they have with the court," Jarboe said. "What happens to them that day in court is going to form a long-lasting impression on the judiciary as a whole. I keep that in mind. There has to be a fair and impartial experience."

"Sometimes we get people in court from outside Grosse Pointe," Metry said. "I may be the only person from Grosse Pointe they interact with. I like to let them see it's a great place, a fair place for them to have their say."

"Courts are one of the most important places people interact with their government," Ethridge said. "It's often adversarial. The fact that we have people agree it was fair and are treated with respect gives people confidence in their government that we're trying to do a good job."

"You have to treat people right, with respect," Rumora said.

Results from more than 26,000 surveys throughout Michigan are posted on courts.mi.gov.

Bitter woman sidetracks force

By Brad Lindberg
Staff Writer

GROSSE POINTE FARMS — Nearly a whole shift of public safety officers got suckered last week into answering a fake report of family trouble phoned in by a woman characterized as a bitter ex-wife.

Officers arrested her for filing a false police report and driving drunk. They also reported enlisting the department drug dog to find marijuana residue in her vehicle.

At least one of seven Grosse Pointe Farms patrolmen involved advised her former husband to keep her at bay with a personal protection order.

A dispatcher answered the 911 call at 10:06 p.m. Thursday, April 2.

A woman presenting herself as a neighbor reported trouble at a house in the 400 block of Belanger, according to reports.

Officer Vince Finn, first on scene, drove up as a woman left in an SUV.

Finn went to the house while Officer George Bloomfield targeted the vehicle, an unlit black 1993 Chevy Tahoe, on eastbound Webster toward Kerby.

Back at the house, Officer James Corbett and Sgt. Antonino Trupiano questioned the 41-year-old male resident, his wife, 41; and their 43-year-old male guest from Birmingham, according to Finn.

They appeared calm, not in "distress," Finn reported.

"It did not appear there was a problem," he said.

"(The Farms man) indicated they have had numerous incidents of harassment from (her. I) recommended (they) consider seeking a protection order against (her)."

At the intersection of Webster and Kerby, Bloomfield stopped the ex-wife, 49, of St. Clair Shores, in the Tahoe.

He noted her slurred speech and glossy eyes.

"(I) had difficulty understanding (her) and advised her she was not making sense," Bloomfield said.

She admitted faking the report, pretending to be a neighbor, he added.

Officer Wesley Kipke conducted field sobriety tests.

She failed, he said. "I observed (her) to be unsteady on her feet," Kipke reported. "(I) smelled alcohol."

Bloomfield said she had a .155 percent blood alcohol level.

Officer Tim Harris and K-9 Duke searched the Tahoe for narcotics.

'The victim stated the suspect has been harassing her husband.'

OFFICER JAMES CORBETT
Grosse Pointe Farms

"Duke indicated on the center console," Bloomfield said. "(I) located small particles of suspect marijuana along with blunt packaging in the vehicle."

Harris and Kipke arrested her for drunken driving and making a false 911 call.

At headquarters, Patrolman Richard Rosati conducted two follow-up tests of her blood alcohol level.

Results measured .13 percent both times, he reported.

Early the next evening, the current wife went to headquarters to press charges against the St. Clair Shores woman for stalking and harassment.

Corbett met her in the lobby.

He reported, "The victim stated the suspect has been harassing her husband and her on social media, has stolen their mail, made fake reports to Child Protective Services (and) used her husband's e-mail address to send e-mail messages pretending to be her husband."

"The victim stated a cease-and-desist order has been sent to the suspect from the victim's lawyer and the order has been ignored."

The man with the familiar face

By Allison Koehler
Special Writer

You're watching a movie and a familiar face comes into the scene: "Hey, it's that guy!"

That guy was probably J.K. Simmons. But recently, seemingly overnight, Simmons, formerly of Grosse Pointe Woods, went from being "that guy" to a household name after winning a Best Supporting Actor Oscar for 2014's "Whiplash."

In the film, Simmons portrayed Terence Fletcher, an abusive music instructor. His portrayal earned him more than 30 accolades during award season.

In accepting his Oscar, he thanked his wife, his "above average" children, the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences and the movie's cast and crew. Then prompted everyone to "call your mom."

"Call your mom. Call your dad. If you're lucky enough to have a parent or two alive on this planet, call them. Don't text, don't e-mail, call them on the phone. Tell them you love them and thank them and listen to them for as long as they want to talk to you," he said.

It was an emotional speech for Simmons, as he lost his mother just a few months prior.

Simmons wasn't aware of the impact it would make, but the speech sent waves around the Internet for days and lots of connections between parents and their children were made.

"It sounds naïve, but ... I've been fortunate enough to make a lot of acceptance speeches this year, and I always kinda went up there with just a general idea of what I wanted to say, without having written a specific speech," Simmons said. "I knew I wanted to go up there and talk about my wife, my kids, my folks, what's most important.

The words came out the way they came out and the response was more than I could've imagined. "Hearing stories from far and wide. People just coming up to me on the street and talking about, in some cases, some dramatic connections that people made with their folks or their kids again. And some funny stories too.

"A friend from back in my summer stock days in Montana texted me the next day. She said that her 17-year-old called her on the phone on the commercial break and said 'Mom, I love you and I'm calling you because J.K. Simmons told me to.' The funny thing was, he was sitting on the couch right next to her." While "Whiplash" is now his claim to fame, the rest of his resume also is impressive. You've seen him on the numerous Farmers Insurance commercials. And despite his show "Growing Up Fisher" being canceled last year after just 13 episodes, the television medium has been more kind to him than not.

Simmons portrayed Dr. Emil Skoda on the popular NBC series "Law &

Order" and its spin-off "Special Victims Unit," popping up on more than 50 episodes during a 10-year span. He is also known for his role as Vernon Schillinger, neo-Nazi leader on the HBO prison drama "Oz," and assistant police chief Will Pope on TNT's "The Closer."

Sprinkled in his TV career are random guest appearances and more than 10 voice-overs for animated series, including J. Jonah Jameson in "Hulk and the Agents of S.M.A.S.H.," Marvel's Avengers Assemble, and, currently, "Ultimate Spider-Man."

Before lending his voice to the animated TV series, he played Jameson in all three installments of fellow Detroiter Sam Raimi's live action "Spider-Man" trilogy. Then was Juno's dad in "Juno," a memorable role that catapulted him to movies like "Burn After Reading," "Extract" and "I Love You, Man."

Simmons enjoys bouncing between mediums. "With television, the structure is pretty much the same from episode to episode," he said. "After doing that for a while, it's always nice to go back and do a movie or two and do a different style of work.

"If I've been doing a cop show, I'd rather go do a funny movie. If I've been doing a sitcom, I'd rather go find something more dramatic to do," Simmons said. "It's great to do both and it's great to mix it up. The pace of TV is a lot of hours at work in any given week, so it's nice to go back and forth."

Born Jonathan Kimball Simmons in Grosse Pointe Woods in 1955, he's known as Kim by his family and friends; the nickname is derived from his middle name, that is his mother's maiden name.

The family moved to Columbus when Simmons was 10. His father was a music teacher at Parcels Middle School in Grosse Pointe Woods when he was asked to join the music faculty at The Ohio State University.

Simmons briefly attended OSU, where he studied to be a music composer and became immersed in its football team, the Buckeyes.

In 1973, the family moved to Montana when patriarch Simmons accepted a position to chair the University of Montana music department.

The younger Simmons soon followed, transferring to Montana, but he didn't leave behind his passion for the Buckeyes.

"We probably don't want to get into my college football thing," he laughed. "It doesn't belong in Michigan."

While Simmons left Detroit at a young age, his love for Tigers baseball remained. Even with all the Hollywood accolades, it's his being selected to throw the ceremonial first pitch on opening day that's really making him smile these days.

"It's a dream come true for a kid who grew up rooting for Al Kaline and Willie Horton and all those guys," he said. Simmons even played in Tigers manager in "For the Love of the Game," starring Kevin Costner.

Simmons brought a couple of mitts and a ball in hopes someone will toss the ball around with him while he's on location in Atlanta.

"I definitely have to warm up a little bit so I don't embarrass myself out there," Simmons said. "I'm not planning on throwing any junk. I'm just going to go with the relative heat."

"If I can get it up there half as fast as Bruce Rondon, I'll be fine," he joked.

Reminiscing, he said, "I remember sitting in the City of Grosse Pointe

Drunk at 61 mph

A man from Grand Rapids was lost when pulled over last weekend for speeding a 2014 Kia Optima 61 mph on westbound Jefferson through the City of Grosse Pointe.

During a sobriety test near the corner of Harvard in Grosse Pointe Park at 3:57 a.m. Sunday, April 5, he registered a .183 percent blood alcohol level, according to police arresting him for drunken driving.

The man thought he was in "the inner city of Detroit" and denied drinking, said the arresting officer.

Tax fraud

A City of Grosse Pointe woman hit trouble last week filing her federal taxes online with TurboTax.

"The taxes were not accepted (because) her Social Security number was already used," said a public safety officer, citing the woman's complaint.

A company representative reportedly advised her to alert the Federal Trade Commission and file an identity theft report with local police.

Vandalism

Sometime overnight

Public Safety Reports

Friday, March 27, the passenger side of a Dodge Stratus sedan parked in front of a residence on Village Lane near Cadieux was scratched.

"This location has been consistent with a series of similar incidents within the last few months," said a public safety officer.

I.D. theft

A female resident canceled her bank account last week because an unknown identity thief fraudulently charged four transactions totaling more than $300 to her credit card.

She discovered the unauthorized transactions Saturday, March 28.

All occurred roughly one month earlier on a website.

Grosse Pointe Farms

Bike stolen

Someone stole a medium-sized mountain bike a 10-year-old boy left on the front lawn of his residence in the 400 block of Touraine.

The theft occurred between 1:30 and 4 p.m. Saturday, April 4.

The bike is orange and made by Trek.

On camera

In-store security video reportedly shows a 31-year-old Detroit man shoplifting at a service station on Mack at Moross shortly after morning rush hour Thursday, April 2.

He tried to steal milk, Cheetos, two breakfast sandwiches and two boxes of Cheerios cereal worth a combined $11.74, according to arresting officers.

Makes things worse

Shortly after 4 p.m. Thursday, April 2, a 25-year-old Detroit woman objected to being questioned about positioning her 2003 Chevrolet Tahoe perpendicular to the westbound lanes of Mack, blocking traffic, to enter a clogged turnaround at Kerby.

Her vehicle contained four children, two unrestrained, police said.

"She refused to surrender the keys," said a public safety officer. "She held them in her outstretched right arm as far away from (me) as she could reach."

Another patrolman added, "(She) ranted that she did not care if we were the police, she did not have to obey and knew what was in (my) mind."

Officers arrested her for violating seven suspensions of her driver's license. They also held her on a misdemeanor shoplifting warrant from Sterling Heights.

Munchies

Figuring authorities can't prosecute for the possession of illegal narcotics if they can't find any, a 28-year-old Detroit man is suspected of ingesting crack cocaine to avoid arrest during a traffic stop, according to police.

An officer pulled him over 12:01 a.m. Thursday, April 2, for driving a silver 2008 Buick Enclave through a red light on westbound Mack at East Warren.

A search of the car revealed scattered loose crack cocaine and marijuana.

"(He) began to vomit and sweat profusely," said the patrolman.

Officers summoned medic "due to the possibility (he) may (have) ingested some of the cocaine."

Asleep at wheel

At least three public safety officers were involved with the drunken driving arrest of a Rochester Hills man, 44, on northbound Moross.

Shortly before 1:30 a.m. Saturday, April 4, a patrolman awoke him sleeping at the wheel of a maroon 2015 Chrysler 200 at the intersection of Mack.

The man drove off slowly. Officers in two cruisers followed until he stopped near the intersection of Sanilac, one block past the I-94 expressway in Detroit.

"(His) speech was heavily slurred," said an officer. "The odor of alcohol became much stronger as he spoke."

The man registered a .144 percent blood alcohol level and had 6 grams of marijuana in a pocket, according to police.

A search of the car revealed 15 tranquilizer pills, prescribed to a woman, police added.

At headquarters, an officer inventorying his wallet allegedly found two counterfeit $100 bills.

Grosse Pointe Shores

Probable cause

A woman allegedly driving a car with a box on the floorboards containing 16.84 grams of marijuana indicated she knew her rights and that's that.

An officer pulled her over at 2:09 p.m. Friday, April 3, for failing to signal a turn from Stratton to Lakeshore.

Standing at the driver door, the officer detected an odor of unburnt marijuana coming from the passenger compartment.

"(I) asked her to step from the vehicle to talk," reported the officer. "(She) stated, 'I don't have time for this and if you want to search me or the car, you're going to have to get a warrant.'"

The odor gave officers probable cause to search the car, during which Farms K-9 Duke indicated the scent of narcotics coming from the box on the floorboard.

During arrest, the woman reportedly became increasingly demonstrative and vocal until subdued.

"I'm done," she reportedly told police, taking her to headquarters in handcuffs.

On the rocks

If it weren't for getting her 2007 Pontiac G6 stuck on landscape rocks at the foot of a driveway in the 1000 block of northbound Lakeshore, a 26-year-old Grosse Pointe Shores woman would have made it home Friday morning, April 3.

At 8:16 a.m., a patrolman stopped to help.

"The driver (looked) confused and questioned why the vehicle would not move," he reported, asking if she'd been drinking.

"She replied no, not this morning," he said. "However, (she) did eventually admit drinking last night and passing out. When she awoke, she decided to drive home."

She registered a .17 percent blood alcohol level, according to police.

Officers arrested her for drunken driving and having an open container of intoxicants — a three-fourths empty 200 ml bottle of 66-proof Fireball whiskey — in the car.

cheap seats at the old ballpark with my parents and friends, usually right-center field bleachers. I just loved being there, the atmosphere, watching with my binoculars. Like most kids, pretending I knew more than I really did. To come full circle now, it's really something."

After he moved to Los Angeles nearly 10 years ago, he coached his children's baseball teams.

"After the first season, once I had a little seniority, I was able to pick the team logo I wanted. We were always the Tigers.

Anytime the Tigers came to Anaheim, I'd take my son and the other little knucklehead kids and they'd all wear their (Little League) Tigers' gear and we'd root for the Tigers.

"My son and I got some good seats a few rows behind the Tigers dugout and we were rooting loud.

"Marcus Thames was with the team at the time and he hit a few out. We were screaming and yelling, and I noticed (Curtis) Granderson and a couple of other guys turned around, looking at me like, 'I think I recognize that guy'.

"A little while later, then clubhouse guy, Tyson Steele, tapped me on the shoulder, gave me his card, and said to let him know if he could help me out next time," Simmons said.

"We got the V.I.P. treatment after that. My son and some of the other Little League Tigers, we got to go on the field before the game, shake hands, and get our picture taken with Leyland and the players."

It's likely Simmons will be back to his hometown this summer if one of his current projects, "Kong: Skull Island" ("King Kong" prequel), makes a stop in Detroit to shoot, as planned.

I SAY By John McTaggart

Let's hear the stories

Former Grosse Pointe Park Mayor Palmer Heenan and Dave Hiller, Grosse Pointe Park Director of Public Safety.

I've never met the man. I never shook his hand, nor have I had the opportunity to sit down with him and listen to him tell the tales of Grosse Pointe Park.

I'm sad about this, quite honestly. The retirement of former Park Mayor Palmer Heenan brought an era to an end in the entire Grosse Pointe community.

After more than three decades, the face of the Park stepped away from his duties, handing them off to Gregory Theokas at last month's council meeting.

Heenan was not in attendance, but several members of the audience, along with leaders from the other Pointes, took a few moments to share a story, share some praise for the man and, in many cases, share a humorous story.

I don't have any such stories of Heenan. As most of you know, I'm the new kid in town.

A few months ago I took over the duties of covering Grosse Pointe Park and Grosse Pointe Woods for the newspaper.

It's an enjoyable job, for sure. I've already met some wonderful people, both in official positions with each city and residents who call these cities home.

However, Palmer Heenan was not among these fine people.

That said, I'm hoping some of you might take the time to e-mail or write me with stories of Heenan, memories of the longtime mayor.

Not only will this help me get to know the man some, but it will also give residents, acquaintances and friends the chance to pay tribute to Heenan and his storied career in the community.

I want to share these stories in the newspaper as well and will be in an upcoming edition.

Please, save the negative stories — I'm not interested in those.

This isn't a platform for political bashing or agendas. This is about a man who gave decades to enriching the community the best he could.

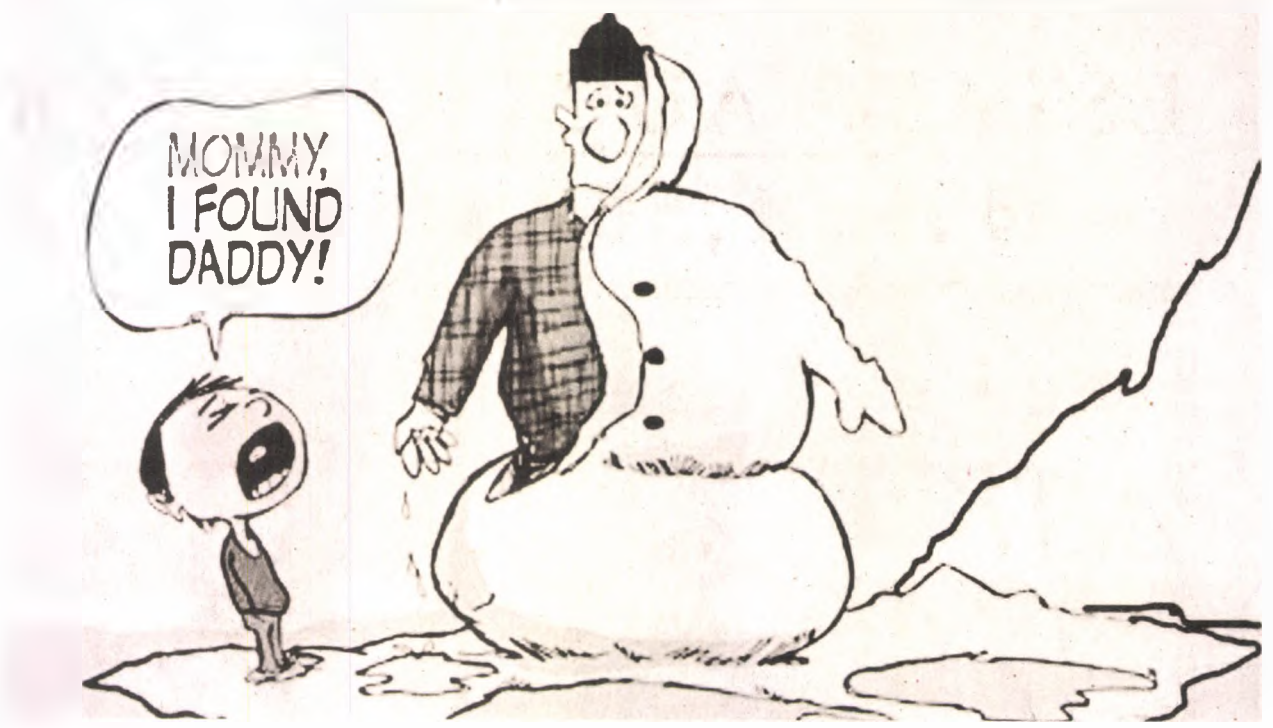

Whether you agree with his political ideology or not, you can't deny his dedication.

So, send your stories, please try and keep them as to-the-point as possible since they may be published in the paper, and don't forget to sign your name to them and the city in which you reside.

E-mail them to me at jmctaggart@grossepointenews.com.

Honest business man

To the Editor:
I would like to tell you what happened to me and my wife, who is 87 years old.

We have drapes that needed to be cleaned, but being 90 I cannot put them up or down.

I was going on Mack and saw Goedertier Cleaners and stopped to ask if they will do the work. Would you take them down and put them up. (The man I talked to) said "yes" and added the curtains needed to be cleaned, but not the drapes. In two days time, he took them down, cleaned them and put them back up. He wished us a Happy Easter.

Dear sir, the point is in our area we have a businessman here who looks out for the old folk and the area should know him.

I would like to thank his cleaners this way.

Cartoon comments

To the Editor:

A quick look at your World Series of Poker cartoon, April 2, might give the impression that Force is the only available tool in international relations. History shows us otherwise. War is rightly seen as the failure of diplomacy, and even a cursory study of the Civil War charges or the WWI trench warfare demonstrate that truly "war is hell". The Greatest Generation is widely and rightly acclaimed for the decisive victories over Germany and Japan.

Perhaps the most outstanding achievement of this generation was the rebuilding of our vanquished foes through the Marshall Plan. This was truly American Exceptionalism. Never had a victorious nation had the foresight and courage of conviction to act so wisely. And what did it get for America? Germany and Japan have long been two of our most reliable Democratic allies helping us build the post WWII Era of peace and prosperity.

The present world situation is far murkier and more complex than WWII. Germany and Japan were clearly our enemies and their actions were undiluted evil. Today we are confronted with multi-faceted conflicts, and shifting alliances. Arms supplied to one group wind up in the hands of another and are used against us. There are often multiple enemies fighting each other, and our correct course of action is not always easily defined.

In 1991 George H. W. Bush masterfully combined negotiation and force in the First Iraq War. The heavy lifting occurred long before the rapid success of Operation Desert Storm. President Bush put together a coalition of the major world powers, devised a winnable and clearly defined objective, and included an exit strategy. He did not solve all the problems in the Middle East, but he did solve one and created no more.

Our dealings since then have not been nearly as successful. Hussein in Iraq and Kaddafi in Libya were certainly ruthless dictators but removing them has ushered in anarchy and terrorism. Going forward American world leadership might best be employed by working with other world powers to slowly bring about long lasting change and stability. Another

President put it well at his Inauguration, we should never negotiate out of fear but neither should we fear to negotiate.

Food drive thank you

To the Editor:

During the month of March, Grosse Pointe Rotary in partnership with the Chamber of Commerce and the Beaumont Community Health Coalition conducted a food drive to provide assistance over spring break to families with children in our district on the National School Lunch Program. The response was overwhelmingly generous and I would like to thank the following businesses for their support: Belding Cleaners, Beaumont Vein Center, Big Boy Restaurant, our five city halls, The Edsel & Eleanor Ford House, Eastside Tennis & Fitness, the Mack Ave. Fifth Third Bank, three-Flagstar Banks, Flashpoint Photography, First English Lutheran Church, H3 Counseling, the Junior League of Detroit, our three libraries, Living Waters Yoga, Memorial Church, Mr. C's Carwash, the Neighborhood Club, Northeast Guidance Center, SOC, UPS, Village Food Market, the War Memorial, Wells Fargo, Wild Birds Unlimited and Wayne County Community College.

In addition several preschools were supportive: Assumption Preschool, Barnes Early Childhood Center, Christ the King Lutheran Preschool, the Cooperative Nursery at Christ Church, Grosse Pointe Cooperative Preschool, the Grosse Pointe Baptist Nursery School, First English Lutheran, Neighborhood Club Preschool, St. Clare of Montefalco and Sunny Days Cooperative Preschool.

Brownie Troop 70950 from Monteith, Daisy Troop 71293 and the Interact Club at South High School donated food. STAND and the Stable at Brownell Middle School each donated $100 food gift cards. As well Grosse Pointe Congregational Church donated $750 in food cards to be used by the families.

On behalf of Grosse Pointe Rotary, thanks to all those who supported our neighbors struggling to meet their family's food needs.

DIANE STRICKLER

Organ transplant

To the Editor:

The Children's Organ Transplant Association was founded in 1986 when residents of Bloomington, Ind. rallied around a toddler who needed a life-saving liver transplant. In less than eight weeks, the community raised $100,000 to place the boy on the organ waiting list. But the child died before an organ became available. Those community volunteers, along with his parents, turned tragedy into triumph by using the funds they raised to help other transplant families. That was the beginning of COTA.

Since that time, COTA has assisted thousands of patients by helping to raise funds for transplant-related expenses. COTA has built extensive volunteer networks across the nation in an attempt to ensure that no child or young adult needing an organ or tissue transplant is excluded from a transplant waiting list due to a lack of funds.

COTA needs your help to make sure that tragedies, like the one that was the catalyst in founding COTA, are not repeated.

Every day 21 people die waiting for an organ transplant here in the United States. April is National Donate Life Month. One organ donor can save eight lives. Please register today to become an organ donor by going to donatelifenet.org and registering to be an organ donor in your state.

You can do more. Find out how you can help a COTA family living nearby who needs your help by visiting cota.org and clicking on the COTA Families link at the top of the page.

RICK LOFGREN

GUEST OPINION By James M. Hohman

A brief look at the cost of Proposal 1

When voters take to the polls May 5 to approve or reject a constitutional amendment and a package of related bills, they may want to know the price tag for their decision.

The proposal increases sales and use taxes from six to seven percent, creates a new and higher fuel tax and increases vehicle registration fees, generating a projected $2 billion in its first year.

There are two proposed changes that would affect the price of gas we see at the pump.

How much a household will pay in higher taxes depends on the price of fuel. But if gas is selling at $2.39 per gallon (the projected national average) the day before the tax is implemented, people will pay $2.49 the day after.

The state currently gives vehicle owners discounts the first three times they renew their passenger-vehicle registrations. The proposal would stop this discounting.

Taxpayers would get something in return for their $2 billion in increased taxes. They'll get better roads in the future and more.

If voters approve Proposal 1, these constitutional and legislative changes will go into effect. A rejection of Proposal 1 would likely send legislators back to the negotiation table.

Paddling Michigan's waters

By Ann L. Fouty
Community Editor

Join the fun of paddling across Michigan's waters and raising funds for local charities.

The noncompetitive Paddle Relay kicks off June 1 at Belle Isle sweeping across southeast Michigan waters, up the western shoreline, across the tip of Michigan in July and down the eastern shoreline during August.

The 1,100 mile coastline route has been divided into 13 80-mile segments, during which entrants are raising funds for a captain-selected charity and drawing attention to the Alliance for the Great Lakes.

The alliance is an environmental organization dedicated to Great Lakes protection through education, policy and citizen involvement.

The first segment in June takes the paddler from Belle Isle to Wyandotte, 19.3 miles. The second day of this leg, June 2, is 27.5 miles from Wyandotte's Elizabeth Park Landing to the Sterling State Park Boat Launch in Newport. Both a morning and evening paddle are scheduled for Friday, June 5, with event organizer James Dagg as captain. The morning's event is 11 miles and the evening's length is yet to be determined. Paddlers can participate in one, a couple or all of the weekend segments.

Each segment between June 1 and Aug. 30 has local captains, raising money for charity. Ulli and Myron Sherer of Grosse Pointe Farms are co-captains of the Aug. 23 section at Lexington. The charity they have chosen is Grosse Pointe Animal Adoption Kayaker Ulli Sherer of Grosse Pointe Farms will be part of the 2015 Paddle Relay.

Society, said Ulli Sherer, a surfski enthusiast. Instead of making a donation to GPAAS, she said, a donation to the alliance is welcome and it is all done online.

A surfski is a long, narrow, lightweight kayak with an open cockpit. The paddler sits on top with legs extended.

"It's pretty fast," she said, "Surfskiing is huge in the world."

Ulli Sherer is excited about her segment saying paddlers will be getting special treatment with a private tour of the Port Sanilac lighthouse. Port Sanilac officials, she has been told, are planning welcome and send off parties for the group in which the community is to be involved.

The flagship of the entire relay is the plastic Epic V7, measuring 22 inches wide, 17 feet long and is to be paddled by different men and women during different legs of the relay throughout the summer-long event.

The relay is open to all kinds of paddlers, she said, those in canoes, outriggers, kayaks and row boats — anything that is powered by a paddle. Entrants must be 4 1/2 feet or taller, be able to manage a boat, wear a life jacket on the water and pay a one-time fee of $40. The fee allows entry into any or all segments of the relay and a high performance shirt.

She said sprint kayaker and Olympic champion Michigan native Greg Barton has indicated he will be paddling a portion of the event, as will South African Oscar Chalupsky, a sprint canoer who competed in the 1992 Summer Olympics in Barcelona. Barton competed in three Summer Olympics, winning two gold medals and two bronze.

Ford's and Rivera's influence on Detroit art

Illuminating the unique relationship between artist Diego Rivera and automotive scion Edsel Ford, Edsel & Eleanor Ford House unveils "The Studio: Edsel & Diego," a new immersive space created to coincide with the Detroit Institute of Arts exhibit "Diego Rivera and Frida Kahlo in Detroit."

The Studio creates a space for visitors to explore the era of the mid-1930s when designers, architects and artists worked with Edsel and Eleanor Ford on their home, Ford Motor Company and in the arts community, including the Fords' support of Rivera's "Detroit Industry Murals" at the DIA.

"We are so fortunate Edsel Ford and Diego Rivera understood one another, respected one another and appreciated one another," said Kathleen Mullins, president of the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House. "By working together, they created one of the world's most remarkable works of art. The Studio: Edsel & Diego experience is designed to give visitors a chance to be part of that world, as well as provide a deeper look at the artists and designers who helped build Ford House."

The Studio, located in the south cottage at the estate, includes four interactive spaces: The Lounge, The Design Studio, The Craft Studio and The Artist Studio. These spaces offer visitors an opportunity to imagine the types of places where Edsel Ford and Diego Rivera may have exchanged perspectives and shared their unique vision.

The Lounge, the centerpiece of The Studio, presents a 1930s living room with designed modernist furnishings. It is a place where people can sit, talk, read, play games from the 1930s and listen to music or view film clips from the period while enjoying a cup of coffee.

The Design Studio brings life to Edsel Ford, Albert Kahn, Jens Jensen and Walter Dorwin Teague, key contributors to the creation of the Fords' house. Visitors can design a car of the future on the same style of chalkboard used by 1930s automotive innovators, write on a 1930s typewriter, investigate early architectural and landscape plans for the Ford estate and review the automotive designs of Edsel Ford and hear his voice as he shares his views on the importance of design.

The Craft Studio focuses on Maija Grotell, a ceramic artist, whose work adorned many Detroit houses, including the Fords'. Visitors can view original 1939 film footage shot by Charles Eames when he and Grotell taught at Cranbrook, imagine themselves as an artist sitting at a potter's kick-wheel and handling ceramic tools true to the period.

The Artist Studio focuses on Rivera and Kahlo. Visitors can create a magnet board mural of Detroit, sketch a self-portrait and borrow a sketchbook and find inspiration on the Ford House grounds.

Industry murals, Edsel and Diego

In 1932, Edsel Ford commissioned painter Rivera to create the "Detroit Industry" murals for the DIA. A second mural, commissioned by the Rockefeller family, was destroyed when the artist refused to remove a portrait of Soviet Vladimir Lenin from his studio. Rivera refused to remove similar items from the mural. When local figures and institutions called for the murals' destruction, Edsel Ford stepped in to ensure its survival.

Rivera considered the "Detroit Industry" murals the best of his career; today they are recognized around the world as a masterpiece. Rivera also painted a portrait of Edsel Ford, the original of which is part of the DIA exhibition, a reproduction is on view in the main house. The portrait depicts Edsel Ford at the design table. In the background is a large-scale blueprint of a modern automobile.

Special events

The Studio entry is free with admission. Visitors can sit in the lounge with a cup of coffee and flip through magazines from the 1930s, explore design objects and games from the period or experiment with the tools of each artist's trade. During open studio Sundays from 1 to 3 p.m. Sundays, April 26 through June 14, visitors can drop by to explore a different artistic medium through simple hands-on art projects, such as painting, pottery, metal smithing and drawing.

Lewy body dementia: Mysteries unveiled

My 71-year-old husband was diagnosed with Lewy body dementia. He is still able to recognize me and make his needs known, but he is experiencing sleep problems and is seeing things that are not really there making him angry and depressed. I want him to be able to stay at home for as long as possible. What help is there for this?

You mentioned sleep issues and hallucinations. Individuals with Lewy body dementia can also experience symptoms similar to Parkinson's, depression, poor regulation of body functions and fluctuating attention, among other things. These symptoms, along with other forms of dementia, present significant behavioral problems that can be challenging for those who have never experienced them before. Skilled services provided by home health care specialists can assist your loved one to stay at home while dealing with these problems, and can assist you in ways to manage their care.

When you decide to begin the search for professional help, look for a home health company that has a comprehensive psychiatric nursing program and will serve patients in their homes.

You and your husband will need services provided by specially trained psychiatric nurses and designed to help prevent hospitalizations.

Hospitalization can sometimes be prevented by increasing access to mental health services and follow up treatment.

More importantly for you, these types of agencies can also assist families in maintaining community living and improving their loved one's quality of life.

Beaumont HEALTHY POINTE

You have cancer. Those three little words can change everything. Although your medical team is critical in caring for your body during treatment, it's equally important to remember your emotional and social needs. Managing your stress while battling your diagnosis involves support, social and self-care activities.

Connecting with others who have or have had cancer is a great way to relieve stress. Joining a support group will allow you a safe, comfortable space to talk with others who have walked the cancer journey and can prepare you for unexpected hurdles. Cancer's roller coaster of emotions and challenges is far less intimidating when you have a friend to ride beside you.

It's also important to just have fun with peers who understand. Art, music, crafting and writing provide a creative outlet for your cancer experience, especially with others who have similar interests.

Happiness is the cure for stress. Spend time with people and at places that keep you smiling and laughing.

Self-care, both physical and mental, will help you stay balanced throughout your treatment and into recovery. Activities like yoga, Zumba, meditation, massage and Reiki will help your mind and body achieve wellness.

Fend off stress by allowing yourself to feel good, both inside and out.

No matter how cancer has affected your life, you are not alone in the stress it brings. Support groups, social activities and self-care will keep that stress at bay. Give yourself the love you deserve.

At The Lake House, our mission is to provide a safe harbor to support, educate and empower those touched by cancer. For more information about The Lake House, call (586) 777-7761.

A LA ANNIE

Celebrate spring with strawberries

It appears spring is finally springing. Strawberries are coming into season in many parts of the country, driving the price down and the flavor up. Having some extra strawberries on hand, I turned to my old church cook books searching for a home grown recipe.

I decided on a dessert that was popular (in more than one of those cook books) called strawberry pretzel Jell-O. You have probably heard of it and most likely have sampled it at a family get together some time in your life.

Strawberry Pretzel Jell-O

- 2 1/2 cups crushed pretzels (your choice)
- 1 1/2 cups butter, melted
- 2 1/2 tablespoons sugar
- 1 - 8 oz. package cream cheese, softened
- 1 - 8 oz. container extra creamy whipped topping, thawed
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 large box (6 oz.) strawberry gelatin
- 2 cups boiling water
- 16 oz. fresh strawberries, sliced or roughly chopped

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Combine pretzels with butter and 2 1/2 tablespoons of sugar. Press mixture into a greased 9-by-13 inch glass bake dish. Bake at 350 for 10 minutes. Remove from oven and allow to cool completely.

Beat softened cream cheese together with whipped topping and one cup of sugar.

Spread mixture over cooled pretzel layer and chill in refrigerator for an hour.

Dissolve strawberry gelatin into 2 cups of boiling water. Set aside to cool for 10 minutes.

Combine gelatin with strawberries and carefully ladle over chilled cream layer. Cover and chill in refrigerator until set, a couple of hours or overnight.

This yummy dessert is perfect to make a day before serving. You will need to allow a bit of time in between preparing each layer.

My pretzel choice was a honey-wheat variety. Fresh strawberries can be substituted with frozen.

Celebrate spring with the opening of strawberry season.

CHURCH EVENTS

Men's breakfast

The Grosse Pointe Men's Ecumenical breakfast begins with coffee at 7 a.m. Friday, April 10, at the Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, 16 Lakeshore, Grosse Pointe Farms.

A buffet breakfast is served at 7:15 a.m. followed at 7:45 a.m. by the speaker, the Rev. Krister Ulmanis, interim minister of First English Lutheran Church, Grosse Pointe Woods.

The meeting adjourns at 8:15 a.m. Men of all faiths can attend.

For more information, e-mail grossepointeinterests@comcast.net.

St. Clare

St. Clare of Montefalco hosts the Motor City Chorale singing its spring concert at 7:30 p.m. Friday, April 10.

The church is located at 1401 Whittier, Grosse Pointe Park. The public can attend.

Unitarian

The drama, "White People," can be seen at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, April 18, at the Grosse Pointe Unitarian Church. It examines issues of prejudice, racism and white privilege revolving around the experiences and prejudices of a college professor, housewife and successful attorney. Written by playwright J.T. Rogers, it was nominated for both the John Barrymore Award and L.A. Drama Critics Circle Award for Best Play of the Year.

GPUC is located at 17150 Maumee, City of Grosse Pointe. Parking is located behind the building with side entrances off St. Clair and Neff.

Senior and student tickets cost $10 and general admission is $15. Tickets are available at gpuc.us, eventbrite.com, Posterity Gallery in the Village or at the door.

Memorial church

Grosse Pointe Memorial Church continues its 2014-2015 Music at Memorial concert season with a 3 p.m. Sunday, April 12, concert for cello and piano.

The featured performers are cellist Mario DiFiore and pianist and Memorial Church's minister of music James Biery.

DiFiore retired from the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, where he was a member of the cello section for 52 years. Born and raised in Detroit, he began cello studies in the ninth grade. Currently a member of the Ventura String Quartet, DiFiore is a chamber musician in the metropolitan area.

DiFiore is a Grosse Pointe resident and a board member of the Italian Heritage Society, a concert co-sponsor.

Biery is Minister of Music at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, and is also a Grosse Pointe resident. He received his education at Northwestern University and studied piano with concert pianist Clarke Mullen. He is well-known as an organist and church music composer.

General seating admission for Music at Memorial concerts is $10 at the door.

Those under the age of 25, with valid student ID, are admitted free.

Parking is available behind the church.

The next Music at Memorial concert is a performance of Handel's Messiah, Parts II and III sung by the Lakeshore Chorale and Orchestra at 7:30 p.m. Friday, May 8.

Mayors deliver lunches

Once a year, mayors from the Grosse Pointes and Harper Woods and Wayne County Commissioner Tim Killeen brown bag it.

Robert Novitke, Dale Scrace, Jim Farquhar, Ted Kedzierski, Greg Theokas and Ken Poynter take time to deliver a Meals on Wheels bag to residents of their particular communities. They take time from their schedules to bring awareness to Services for Older Citizens service to the home bound and how important it is to take care of the community's older citizens.

Some 13,000 meals are delivered annually to the home bound in the five Grosse Pointes and Harper Woods, said David Dieter, Services for Older Citizens executive director. The balanced meals are funded by Detroit Area Agency on Aging, as well as SOC's fund raising efforts.

These are full and nutritious meals. Meals are delivered year round by an "active core of volunteers. They stop and visit and socialize with the seniors. To anyone home bound, the meals are free. We do accept donations," Dieter said.

This particular Wednesday, the dignitaries were delivering both a hot meal of beef chili, corn and mashed potatoes, and

The benefit of home delivery of food is so citizens can keep their dignity and stay in their homes, Dieter said.

"This enables people who have lived here for many years to live in dignity and self esteem," said Grosse Pointe Park Mayor Pro Tem Greg Theokas. "For them to have a facility like this (SOC) shows we believe they are an important element of the community."

PASTOR'S CORNER By Rev. Michael Varlamos

Classical past encourages students

As a theologian, classicist and historian, I've come to appreciate the importance of our Biblical and classical past in human and educational development. The Athenians of antiquity (and later Romans) believed children must exercise and edify the three aspects of our human nature: mind, body and soul. This is why part of their curriculum included math, grammar, rhetoric, philosophy, poetry, music and athletics.

Each of these disciplines appealed to at least one of the three aspects of their human nature and resulted in affecting the entire person.

We, of course, would add to this curriculum the study of the teachings of Jesus Christ and his church.

As our children depart for school every morning throughout the school year, perhaps a word and a phrase from our classical past will sum up what I've been trying to recommend: good advice for our youth.

Coincidentally, they have become the brand names of popular athletic wear, Nike and Asics. Nike is the Greek word for "victory." As Christians, we believe "victory" ultimately means to overcome the ignorance, materialism and injustices of this world in anticipation of the world to come. And this can be achieved beginning with the other brand name of Asics, which stands for the Latin "anima sana in corpore sano," "a healthy mind (or, spirit) in a healthy body." We rely on our schools and the church that exists in the home to embody teachings such as these so our children may grow in knowledge and grace.

I leave you with the immortal words of the ancient Greek epic poet Homer — everyday tell your children, before they leave for school, "always excel."

May our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, the light of the world, inspire you all to manifest his presence in your homes so he may dwell there and in the hearts and minds of our children.

The Rev. Varlamos is the minister at Assumption Greek Orthodox Church.

Kathryn Ash

Former longtime Grosse Pointe resident Kathryn "Kitty" Ash, died Saturday, March 28, 2015, at her residence in Richmond, Va.

She was born Sept. 18, 1922, to Claude and Ora (nee Standefer) Anderson, and grew up in Chattanooga, Tenn. Mrs. Ash was a Chattanooga socialite who graduated from Chattanooga City High School in 1941 and attended the University of Chattanooga. After college, she modeled fine clothing, worked at the Veteran Affairs Administration and the Tennessee Valley Authority in various administrative roles.

In 1961, she married Dr. Arthur Ash and they moved to Detroit, where her husband and his partner founded Ash Stevens. Mrs. Ash actively supported her husband in the early years performing a variety of administrative duties while being a loving and devoted mother to her children. After her husband died in 1994, Mrs. Ash was elected and served on the Ash Stevens Board of Directors.

Mrs. Ash was a member of the Nomad Travel Club, where she took many trips, including a trip around the world. She also participated in bridge, gourmet and investment clubs and played in multiple golf leagues. She was an active volunteer with parent teacher associations, PBS Public Television, the Grosse Pointe Woman's Club and Junior League of Detroit.

Mrs. Ash is survived by her daughter, Linda Kathryn Ash; son, Roy Arthur Ash (Jill Ash); stepdaughter, Susan Ash (Alan Kaniarz) and grandchildren, Lottie Ash, Jacob Ash, Maxwell Vogel and Bennett Vogel.

In addition to her husband, she was predeceased by her sisters, Evelyn Oakes, Claudia Lee Clark, Elizabeth Sewell and Mary Alice Young and brother, Jim Anderson.

Mrs. Ash was known for her elegance, southern charm, sweet disposition, loving heart and gratefulness for everything and everybody.

Visitation will be from 2 to 7 p.m. Saturday, April 11, at Chas. Verheyden Funeral Home, 16300 Mack, Grosse Pointe Park.

The funeral service will take place at 1 p.m. Sunday, April 12, at the funeral home.

Donations may be made to the Alzheimer's Association, 4600 Cox

Road, Suite 130, Richmond, VA 23060 or at alz.org.

William J. Beeby Jr.

Grosse Pointe Woods resident William J. Beeby Jr., 64, died Sunday, April 5, 2015.

Mr. Beeby was a devoted family man — a loving husband and father. He grew up in and was a lifelong member of Grosse Pointe Memorial Church. He enjoyed traveling, collecting watches and golfing and boating. Early on he spent time fishing and hunting, was a pilot, and flew his own plane.

Mr. Beeby is survived by his beloved wife, Sharon; adored daughter, Mary Jo Beeby and sisters, Karen Beeby-Bunge, Susan Beeby-Kennedy (Neal), Barbara Palazzolo, Donna McCarthy and Patricia Dueweke (Ray).

He was predeceased by his parents, William J. Beeby Sr. and Corinne Beeby.

Visitation will be held from 3 to 8 p.m. Friday, April 10, at A.H. Peters Funeral Home, Grosse Pointe Woods.

A memorial service will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday, April 11, at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, 16 Lakeshore, Grosse Pointe Farms.

Donations may be made to the charity of the donor's choice.

Thomas Campbell

Former Grosse Pointe Park resident Thomas Campbell, 69, died Saturday, Jan. 10, 2015, at Sparrow Hospital, East Lansing.

He was born in Detroit to Elizabeth Jane Newcomer and John Thomas Campbell and graduated from Grand Valley State University and Thomas M. Cooley Law School. He was an attorney at multiple law firms in metropolitan Detroit, including most recently Fausone, Taylor and Bohn LLP.

Mr. Campbell enjoyed practicing law, fostering local youth hockey programs and playing tennis during his time in Grosse Pointe.

He was a member of the Michigan State Bar Association, Grosse Pointe United Methodist Church, Grosse Pointe Hockey Association, Indian Village Tennis Club and Eastside Tennis & Fitness.

Mr. Campbell is survived by his son, Tom Campbell (Becky); daughter, Stacey Campbell; grandchildren, Thomas and Penelope Campbell; sister, Elizabeth Lamange and brother, Robert Campbell.

A celebration of Mr. Campbell's life will be held at 11:30 a.m. Saturday, April 18, 2015, at Atwater in the Park, 1175 Lakeshore, Grosse Pointe Park.

Herbert Alan Henchel

A memorial Mass for Al Henchel will be celebrated at 10 a.m. Saturday, April 18, at St. Paul on the Lake Catholic Church, 157 Lakeshore, Grosse Pointe Farms.

Mr. Henchel, 77, passed away Wednesday, Dec. 3, 2014.

Herbert Alan "Al" Henchel was born June 5, 1937, in Detroit, to Herbert and Mary Constance "Ce Ce" Henchel. He was raised in Grosse Pointe and graduated from Gilmour Academy in Ohio. Following high school, he attended Michigan State University where he met Patti, also an MSU student, at the 1956 Rose Bowl. The couple married June 11, 1960, at St. Paul on the Lake Catholic Church.

Following his collegiate days, Mr. Henchel joined the U.S. Air National Guard and then worked for his grandfather's company, United Forge Inc., in Detroit, and stayed with the company until his retirement, rising to vice president and treasurer.

When not working, Mr. Henchel was a devoted husband and dedicated father. He and his wife enjoyed dancing, golfing and raising their three boys.

Mr. Henchel spent many winters coaching his sons' hockey teams and building backyard rinks so they could hone their skills. He almost never missed one of his sons' hockey, baseball or soccer games, track meets or other sporting events.

Mr. Henchel's other love was golf. He loved teeing it up with family and friends and spent many an hour at Lochmoor Club telling tales of the day's round. He was also a loyal Detroit sports fan and enjoyed attending many Tigers and Red Wings games with family and friends.

His family said his kindness, generosity, patience and sense of humor will be missed immensely.

Mr. Henchel is survived by his loving wife of 54 years, Patti; children, Jeff,

Kathryn "Kitty" Ash

William J. Beeby Jr.

Thomas Campbell

Greg (Elizabeth Kessler) and John (Kristin Messing Henchel); grandchildren, Katie, Alan "A.J.," Jack and Lilly; brother, John Gifford Henchel and many loving relatives and friends.

In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, 262 Danny Thomas Place, Memphis, TN 38105 or the American Diabetes Association at diabetes.org.

John Charles VanHecke

Grosse Pointe Farms resident John Charles VanHecke, 48, passed away Friday, March 27, 2015.

He was born May 8, 1966, in Primghar, Iowa, to Charles R. and Gail (Gannon) VanHecke.

Growing up, he lived with his family in the Iowa communities of Aurelia, Carroll, Denison and Muscatine. At Denison High School, he was active in the debate and mock trial teams, National Honor Society and earned his Eagle Scout. He graduated from Muscatine High School with the class of 1984 and competed at the National High School Speech and Debate Tournament.

Mr. VanHecke earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in anthropology from the University of Pennsylvania and was a member of the Penn Philomathean Society. He earned a Master of Science degree in anthropology from the University of Mississippi.

He was employed at St. John Providence Hospital, Detroit, within St. John Providence Hospital Foundation. He was also an adjunct professor of anthropology at Henry Ford College the last 11 years and also taught for Oakland Community College in Royal Oak and Southfield. He previously worked at Cranbrook Educational Community, Wayne State University, Habitat for Humanity-Detroit and the Ruth Ellis Center.

Mr. VanHecke's favorite times were spent with his sons, fishing, gardening and teaching.

Mr. VanHecke is survived by his former wife, Amy DeWys; sons, Garrett and Aidan; parents, Chuck and Gail VanHecke and brother, Frederick VanHecke.

A celebration of his life

Herbert Alan Henchel

Carolyn Mulligan Withers

will be held in Michigan this summer.

Donations may be made to Aidan VanHecke Education Fund, c/o Chuck VanHecke, 2912 Provence Lane, Muscatine, IA 52761, an education fund for Mr. VanHecke's 13-year-old son.

Carolyn Mulligan Withers

Grosse Pointe Farms resident Carolyn Mulligan Withers, 59, passed away suddenly Friday, March 27, 2015, while vacationing in Long Boat Key, Fla.

She was born Jan. 19, 1956, in Detroit, to Willard and Barbara Mulligan, the youngest daughter of seven children. She grew up in St. Clair Shores in a home her parents built, and graduated from Lakeview High School in 1974.

In 1975, she met Michael Withers, whom she married in 1981, because of how he made her laugh. Together they lived in Grosse Pointe, where they raised their three children.

In 2001, Mrs. Withers opened Flowers by Gabrielle in Grosse Pointe Park, where she used her creativity to bring color and beauty into peoples lives until the very end.

She enjoyed spending time with friends and family, decorating her home for holidays, walking her dog, Oscar, gardening and vacationing with her husband. She loved writing songs, playing guitar and singing.

Her family said Mrs. Withers will be remembered as a mother who encouraged her children to dream, be passionate, and never be afraid to stand out. Her nieces and nephews, as well as children in the community, knew they could turn to her in time of need without hesitation or judgment. She had an undeniable love for life and was never afraid to speak the truth. She was fearless and charismatic. She will be deeply missed by her family, friends and acquaintances who inspired her and fulfilled her life.

Mrs. Withers is survived by her beloved husband of 33 years, Michael Withers; children, Jacqueline, Michael and Kelly (Joseph Champine); father, Willard Mulligan; sisters, Colleen Jakes (Gregory) and Peggy Foster (Richard); brothers, John (Marian), Dennis and James Mulligan and 17 nieces and nephews.

She was predeceased by her mother, Barbara Mulligan and sister, Patricia Mulligan.

A funeral Mass will be celebrated at 10 a.m. Friday, May 8, at St. Paul on the Lake Catholic Church, 157 Lakeshore Drive, Grosse Pointe Farms.

Kerby times four

The original Kerby Elementary School was built on the Michie farm on Lakeshore in the late 1850s, probably 1857. In 1886, students moved north to a clapboard structure on Kerby. A third Kerby school was built of brick in 1905 and designed by Stratton and Bladwin. An addition, facing Cambridge was constructed in 1918 and located behind Grosse Pointe Farms city hall. The school building was demolished in 1985.

Today's Kerby, along with Parcels Junior High School, Monteith and Poupard elementary schools, was completed and occupied in 1951, according to school records. Prior to students moving into their new school, they attended other elementary schools.

The elementary school was constructed at the corner of Kerby and Beaupre on land purchased by John Kerby in 1928 and houses students kindergarten through fifth grade.

The school was named for John R. Kerby, a board of education member from 1922 to 1926. He served as board president during his final year on the school board. A crescent window was rescued from the former Kerby School for the newest Kerby, painted white, glass and all.

Parents today have the same concerns of their counterparts.

In an Oct. 3, 1985, Grosse Pointe News article, it stated parents are concerned about juveniles' problems — from the heartbreaks like substance abuse to appropriate use of the telephone.

In "A Walk Through Time:

The History and Heritage of Grosse Pointe," the first reference to Kerby School, Fractional District No. 2, was mentioned in an 1857 annual report. It listed spelling, reading, writing, arithmetic, geography and grammar as specified studies. In December 1866, School District #2 assigned a teacher to a 12-week session. Schooling and school schedules were set according to the needs of the local farms, which required boys' help, according to the report.

For those completing the eighth grade at Kerby, students could attend high school in Detroit at the expense of the district.

I remember when...

Editor's note: This is a portion of a letter written by former Kerby student Richard Champine in the Sept. 12, 1985 Grosse Pointe News.

To the Editor:

I remember far more vividly my own six years at the "Great Old School."

As I walked through the hallway and into old classrooms, I remembered many of my teachers — Mrs. McLoud, Mrs. Ekstrand, Mrs. Wood, Mrs. Hamilton and the only male teacher, Mr. Schaefer. The principal was Mrs. E. Tucker and like a lot of the others, I spent some time in her office getting a stern lecture.

Strangely, I could vividly flash back to Mrs. Kuhlman, our kindergarten teacher. I remember her as a very loving and caring lady. I slowly walked down the stairs to the room which served as our lunchroom and gym when the weather was inclement.

The lunchroom was only allowed for those children who lived a distance from the school and were required to bring a lunch. All others had to go home to eat.

The gym was not much larger than an average family room and limited us to relay races or dodge ball. When weather permitted, we would charge outside to play soccer, but always ended up in what we called "keepaway" with the upper grade students stealing the ball. Prior to the bell signaling the end of recess, there would always be a good scrap or two — bloody noses and all. Win or lose we would be back as friends the next day, grudges or anger were forgotten for later times. Momentous occasions for me at Kerby were: captain of the safety patrol, co-captain of the ball team, which incidentally used to knock the socks off Defer, Richard, Mason and St. Paul's.

Most of the games Mr. Schaefer would travel with us and umpire. Some of the players were: Bob Roy, Charles Hilgendorf, Dick Moore, Arnold Parsons, Jack Thomas, Tom Roberts, John Keir, George Hubbard, Tom Wittingham and Don Stahl.

Other classmates of that period were: Reno, Allor, Beer, Allard, Socia, Gryllis, Vossler, Burn, Johnson, Peters, Dana, Fluitt and Matrianni.

Scholarships

The 2015 Jack McSorley Scholarship honorees were recently announced and the recipients were University Liggett senior August Michael Bonacci and Grosse Pointe South senior Libby Erickson. Bonacci has a grade point average above 4.0 and excels at tennis and music, while Erickson, who also carries a gpa above 4.0, was one of the captains of the Blue Devils' girls' state championship ice hockey team and scored a 35 on her ACT. The $1,000 scholarship has been awarded since 1994 and is given to a senior who has a minimum 3.5 grade point average, played at least five years in the Grosse Pointe Hockey Association, interviewed with the scholarship committee and wrote a personal essay about the impact of being a student-athlete, leadership and future plans. Liggett gets split with BCW

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

Liggett's baseball team hosted two-time defending Division 1 state champion Bay City Western last weekend.

It was the first games played on the new turf field and it was a battle of two defending state champs.

In the pre-season rankings, Bay City Western is No. 1 in Division 1 and No. 19 in the nation, while Liggett is No. 1 in Division 3 and the winner of the 2014 D3 and 2013 D4 state crowns.

"It was a good crowd and a great afternoon of baseball," head coach Dan Cimini said. "We played a very good baseball team and could have won both games. We had our chances, but at least came away with a split."

"It was sweet playing on the turf and this will definitely be a home-field advantage for us."

The Knights lost the opener 6-4, but won game two 5-4 to start the season 1-1 overall.

In the first game, junior

Matt Gushee suffered the loss on the mound, but gave up only two earned runs. He helped his own cause by blasting a two-run homer to tie it 3-3.

Western went ahead late and pulled out the win, but it was another two-run blast from Gushee which propelled the home team to get the split.

Junior Sean Fannon went the distance, striking out four and walking just one.

In the fifth inning, the Knights stretched their lead to 5-2 after freshman Noah Miller singled with two outs.

Miller scored on freshman Will Morrison's double to right-center and he scored on sophomore Connor McCarron's double.

Gushee finished 4-for-7 in the two games, while junior Joey Cipriano had two doubles and two runs.

Next for the Knights is the Mount Pleasant Tournament Saturday, April 11. The other teams competing are Beal City and Ann Arbor Pioneer.

South beats Moeller

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

The Grosse Pointe South boys' baseball team started its season with an impressive 10-4 win over nationally ranked Cincinnati Moeller at the University of Cincinnati.

"We didn't get a lot of hits, but we had the hits at opportune times," head coach Dan Griesbaum said. "It's a nice win against a team which has given us trouble. We haven't beat Moeller since winning 3-2 in 2002."

Ryan Liagre had two hits, a sacrifice fly and three RBIs to lead the Blue Devils, while Justin McMann had two hits and two RBIs.

Others with hits were James Fishback and Zach Thalgott.

The Blue Devils also benefited from 12 walks to help Doug Graham earn the win on the mound. He pitched the first four innings, while Andrew Fabry pitched the fifth and sixth innings and Will Norris pitched the seventh.

Grosse Pointe South is 1-0 and continues its spring break trek playing several more games in southern Ohio.

The Blue Devils, coming off a season in which they played in the Division 1 state championship game, are counting on veterans to step up and lead them.

Others on the squad are catchers Logan Mico, Brad Thompson and John Bornoty, plus Jacob Stone, Cam Mogk, Bob Weiland, Luke Riashi, Aaron Avery, Justin Carrier, Dallas Clem, Nolan Lucas, Alex Partum, Mark Schneider, Jack Wittwer, David Borowicz, Quinn Dyer, Jack Maher, Will Poplawski and team manager Blair Shortal.

North nets win

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe North girls' soccer team put its first win on the board in the Olivia Stander coaching era last week, beating host St. Clair Shores Lakeview 3-2.

The Norsemen scored all three goals in the first half and took a 3-1 lead into halftime.

Senior Lexi Ciaramitaro, freshman Greta DeLoach and sophomore Lindsay Lesha scored. DeLoach scored with five minutes left in the half and Lesha's goal came with only 32 seconds left, which turned out to be a huge insurance goal. The Huskies scored early in the second half to make it close. North is 1-2 overall.

SWIMMING

Local swimmers excel

Last week, four members of the Grosse Pointe Gators Swim Club, Claire Young, Alexis Wenger, Jacob Montague and Alex Hughes, traveled to Orlando, Fla., to compete in the 2015 NCSA Junior National Championships.

This is a yearly meet which attracts 2,000 of the best 18 and under swimmers from around the United States. Future Olympians were in the pool for this meet.

The four Gators who showed their skills in the water were equal to the stiff competition on display at this meet.

Wenger, who attends University Liggett, finished second in the 50-yard breaststroke, third in the 100-yard breaststroke and seventh in the 200-yard breaststroke. In addition, she will compete in the Olympic Trials in 2016 based on the time she achieved in the 100-breaststroke.

Montague, a Grosse Pointe South student, finished sixth in the 200-yard breaststroke, 17th in the 100-yard breaststroke and 33rd in the 200-yard individual medley.

Grosse Pointe South's Young finished 13th in the 50-yard backstroke and 19th in the 100-yard backstroke, while fellow South student Hughes was 28th in the 100-yard breaststroke and 29th in the 200-yard breaststroke.

LIGGETT BOYS

Knights beat AAG

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

The University Liggett boys' lacrosse team began its season with a 9-2 win over Ann Arbor Greenhills last week.

"We played particularly well, despite having only two practices before this game," head coach Bill Brusilow said. "We did some good things on the field and we will get better with more practice."

The host Knights were held scoreless in the first quarter, but they tallied three goals in each of the next three quarters. The defense and goaltender were also solid, holding Greenhills to only two goals.

Harrison Wujek led the way with five goals, while Robert Whitaker, Alex Minanov, August Bonacci and Jeff Lieder had one goal apiece to lead the Knights' offensive output.

Goalkeeper Jonathan Elmer was stellar in net, making several spot-on saves to allow the Knights to breathe a little easier.

Liggett freshman Spencer Warezak was the quarterback behind the offensive output.

Liggett is 1-0 overall Shrine at noon Saturday, and hosts Royal Oak April 11.

LIGGETT GIRLS

Knights put up battle before loss

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

Jenny Calver made her head coaching debut for University Liggett girls' lacrosse team last week.

The Knights played on their new home turf, but on a cold and rainy afternoon they lost 13-10 to Temperance-Bedford.

"Everyone competed in a positive way and playing foreign positions was tough to execute after only a couple of days of practice," Calver said. "The communication was strong and it will only get better as we get more practice time in and play games."

The Knights trailed 9-8 in a high-scoring first half, but heavier rains made play more difficult in the second half.

when they trailed 13-10. Grace Scarfone with two. Leading the Knights in scoring was Olivia Wujek with three goals, Meg Shannon with two and Maranda Saigh and Jacqueline Kopicki also scored a goal apiece as Liggett dropped to 0-1.

Grosse Pointe North girls lacrosse, tennis

Mixed bag of results

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe North girls' lacrosse team dropped a 15-9 decision to host Farmington Hills Harrison last week.

Head coach Lauren Nixon watched her Norsemen play well and trailed only 6-4 at the half.

They put more pressure on Harrison's defense in the second half and had to take some chances late in the game to make up the difference.

Goalie Sophie O'Hara stopped 10 shots and leading the offense was Amanda Albrecht with four goals.

Caroline Bock had two goals and two assists, while Lauren Frezza had one goal. Devyn LaValley had two goals and one assist as Grosse Pointe North dropped to 0-2-1 overall.

Tennis

Grosse Pointe North girls' tennis team opened last week with a 7-2 win over Allen Park.

The host Norsemen won three of the four singles matches and four of the five doubles matches.

Freshman Bella Gallant won in straight sets, 6-3, 6-2, at No. 1 singles, and junior Lauren Lesha also took her match with ease, winning 6-1, 6-0 at No. 2 singles.

Sophomore Christina Rafaill won 6-3, 6-1 at No. 3 singles, and junior Emily Graham lost a tough three-set match, falling 7-5, 1-6, 10-3 at No. 4 singles.

At No. 1 doubles, the juniors Sydney Allor and Kayla Gallant rolled to a 6-1, 6-1 win, and senior Katelyn Carroll and Deanna Hanley were pushed to the limit before winning 6-7, 6-1, 11-9 at No. 2 doubles.

Junior Anu Subramanian and freshman Meghan Irving won 6-2, 6-3 at No. 3 doubles, but the No. 4 doubles squad of sophomores Ashley Carroll and Meghan Bessert lost 6-3, 6-2.

Rounding out the victory was a win at No. 5 doubles as sophomore Maria Paluzzi and freshman Ruth McCuen won 8-0, 8-2.

Two days later, North battled a tough North Farmington squad and lost 6-2.

Lesha won 6-1, 6-1 at No. 2 singles and Subramanian and Irving won 7-5, 6-2 at No. 3 doubles.

The Norsemen had a shot to tie it 4-4, but the No. 1 and No. 2 doubles squads of Gallant and Allor, and Katelyn Carroll and Hanley, each lost 10-6 in a pretty even third set.

Grosse Pointe North is 1-3-1 overall.

GROSSE POINTE SOUTH

Russano picks music over football

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe South graduate Tristan Russano dreamed of playing college football.

The 19-year-old built a muscular frame on his 6-foot, 1-inch frame and played at 240 pounds his senior year on the Blue Devils' defensive line under head coach Tim Brandon.

He had speed to rush the passer or stop the running game. He made a lot of solid plays as a member of the Blue Devils.

"I loved football and I dreamed of playing in college since I was a little kid," Russano said.

He was good enough to get serious attention from Butler, Ferris State and Wayne State, plus several smaller Division 3 programs, such as Hope.

During his days as a high school student-athlete, Russano learned to play the bass and dabbled in the school choir, too.

When it came time to choose a college, Russano made a 180 degree turn and chose to accept a music scholarship from Wayne State and now his major is jazz and intellectual property.

"As much as I love playing football, I really enjoy music, so I decided to study it full-time in college, instead of taking the football scholarship," Russano said. "I miss football, but I'm so busy with my music that I don't have the time think about football."

South 2014 graduate Tristan Russano playing the National Anthem before the varsity boys' basketball game against city rival Grosse Pointe North in December.

Russano had the honor of playing the National Anthem before the Grosse Pointe South cross-town rivalry boys' basketball game against Grosse Pointe North in early December. It was Jimi Hendrix-esque and brought the standing room only crowd to their feet. Fans could feel the electricity in the air from Russano and his electric guitar. During his first year of college, he continued playing local gigs with the band he is in, Eclipse, and his band members

Brett Matheny, Albert Kelly, Sean Kelly and Stuart Lyons.

"We play progressive heavy metal and we are going through the process of cutting a demo," Russano said. "We hope to take our band to the next level. I have a fan base on Instagram of over 7.1 thousand people, and that I have been able to share my passion for music through social media."

In the near future, music fans might be able to download one of their songs or hear it on the radio.

Each band member plays a different guitar. They have an eight-string, seven-string and six-string guitar, plus a six-string bass guitar.

"We are all versatile, which I think makes us a good band, which creates some great music," Russano said. "We all enjoy making music."

Russano began his music quest in middle school and matured into a pure music enthusiast. He grew up listening to Kiss, but his genres include jazz and rock and roll. Some of his favorite bands include Mastodon, Tool and Dream Theater, and some of his favorite musicians are Swedish guitarist Yngwie Malmsteen and jazz players Pat Martino and Pat Metheny.

During his sophomore year, Russano attended Interlochen and had a chance to listen to Bobby Cobley of the band, Death.

"That was an eye-opening experience and something I will never forget," Russano said. "I learned a lot during this time."

When he graduates with his bachelor's degree, he will attend law school to get into the music licensing business, working with copyright law and similar avenues.

While he completes his freshman year, he is preparing for the band's gig at the Majestic Theater April 15. He comes from a musical family, led by his father, Anthony, and mother, Lizzy. His brother, Tilman, is a sixth-grader and sister, Ava, is a freshman at South.

Kerby counts to first place

By Kathy Ryan
Staff Writer

Math students at Kerby Elementary School are basking in the glow of being named national champions in the annual Math Madness competition sponsored by the Think Through Math online learning system. Kerby students beat out an Oregon school to win the top spot. Students in grades three through five were involved in the challenge for the past six weeks, which pitted elementary math students across the country in the mathematical version of college basketball's March Madness. Kerby had 100 percent participation from its students, with the young mathematicians competing both during and after school hours. Schools moved through the competition levels in brackets, similar to the college basketball championships. Kerby students were able to participate in the program thanks to a grant from the school's PTO.

According to Kerby PTO member Laura Monahan, Kerby Principal Sara Delgado requested funds for the program which has allowed students to combine technology with math, with students completing lessons in school using iPads purchased by the PTO. TTM representatives will be visiting Kerby to present the championship trophy. "We are extremely proud of all of our students," said Delgado. "They all worked very hard for this honor."

The scholarship is awarded for sixth through eighth grades to a student who shows an interest in the arts and academic promise. This is the 29th anniversary of the scholarship, in memory of Nicole Shammas, who passed away while in middle school at ULS. "For nearly 30 years this scholarship has helped many talented middle school students enjoy a Liggett education," says Kelley Hamilton, associate head of school for advancement at Liggett. "We are grateful for the Shammas family's generous support and we are proud that the Nicole Maria Shammas Memorial Scholarship helps to keep Nicole's memory alive throughout the Liggett community."

ULS students excel at vocal competition

Two University Liggett School upper school students excelled at the recent Michigan State Vocal Music Association's solo and ensemble festival. Sophomore Sarah Galbenski earned a blue medal for an excellent performance. She sang "Dolente immagine di Fille mia" by Vincenzo Bellini and "When Love is Kind," an old English melody. Freshman Catey Elliott also earned a blue medal for an excellent performance. She performed "Love's Philosophy" by Roger Quilter and "Bist Du bei mir" by J.S. Bach.
