Ordinance regulates receptacles

By Kathy Ryan
Staff Writer

GROSSE POINTE WOODS — The old saying goes, "One man's trash is another man's treasure," but if that trash becomes another man's eyesore, city officials will soon have an ordinance in place citing residents for improper storage of trash and recycling receptacles.

Acting as a committee of the whole, the city council Monday night approved the drafting of an ordinance requiring residents to store trash and recycling containers in either an enclosed structure like a shed or garage or in the backyard of a house. They can no longer be kept on the side of a house.

The ordinance is the result of continued complaints from residents about neighbors' trash receptacles being visible from the street.

"We get complaints every day," Building Department Official Gene Tutag told the council. "The problem is what do we tell those residents who complain? We don't have an ordinance in place that deals with where these containers should be stored."

That will change, as the council asked city attorney Chip Berschback to draft an ordinance allowing city officials to ticket homeowners who do not move receptacles "out of sight."

Several council members said this is one of the most common complaints they get from residents.

South's homepage message board at 4:42 p.m. Thursday, June 2, after classes ended for the day. "You have no [expletive deleted] business to punish actions if issue happened off school property."

Hamka, principal at South since 2014, took the email seriously enough to request officers from the Farms (jurisdiction of South) and the City (home of district administrative offices) on campus during the lunch hour Friday, June 3.

"Principal Hamka just wants to make sure students can continue their studies in a safe environment," reported City Officer Lisa Monticciolo, having conducted an initial investigation on campus that morning.

Both agencies are giving "special attention to the school until further notice," Monticciolo said.

Assistant Superintendent Christian Fenton first saw the email from home late Thursday night.

At 8:35 a.m. the next day, Friday, June 3 he sent an email to Jon Dean, deputy superintendent of educational services, asking,

"Should we notify the Farms police on this? I think it is some kid probably. I don't know if they can trace the email address."

Dean called City police 25 minutes later.

"Dean stated they have their (technology director), Steve Woloszyn, working to see if they can find out where the email came from," Monticciolo said. "The email has what the school believes to be a fake name of James22@aol.com."

"With the proper technology, we can identify the IP address the email was sent from and, sometimes, the location," Dean said.

"It's fairly simple to track the owner of the IP address an email was sent from," said City Detective Sgt. Christopher Lee. "We'll send a search warrant to the IP address' provider and go from there."

City Lt. Alan Gwyn, the department's computer forensics investigator, said there are no solid suspects, "Not yet."

"Hamka stated he has not received any other emails or voicemails with threats," Monticciolo said.

ORDINANCE:

"People question why they should have to look at a neighbor's trash," said Vicki Granger.

Tutag wanted to make it clear his inspectors will not drive up and down streets looking for violators.

The purpose of having this ordinance in place, he explained, is to give inspectors the tool to deal with complaints.

"We can now cite those who don't comply," he said.

Once Berschback has the final wording of the proposed ordinance in place, it will be presented to the city council for approval.

Court administrator is tops in Michigan

By Brad Lindberg
Staff Writer

GROSSE POINTE PARK — Susan Thomas is known for bringing order to the court.

Her management of Grosse Pointe Park Municipal Court earned her the 2016 Court Administrator of the Year award from the Michigan Court Administrators Association.

"This is a big honor for me," said Thomas, spreading credit to her staff. "We jam a lot into an eight-hour day. It takes all of us to step up."

Park Judge Carl Jarboe hired Thomas from Dearborn district court nearly 15 years ago.

"Of all courts in the state — circuit, probate, supreme — she was selected administrator of the year," he said.

Although Pointe judges are elected to work part time, the courts operate full time.

Thomas's staff consists of two clerks, a part-time probation officer and court reporter.

"We function the same as a district court, only our civil jurisdictional limits are lower," Thomas said. "It all starts here. We handle capital crimes at the first stage. Everything has to be exact."

Prior to administering courts, Thomas worked 22 years for Bon Secours and Cottage hospitals in the City and Farms, respectively. She retired from Bon Secours as manager of admissions and communications.

She was surprised to receive the award at the association's annual conference in May in Thompsonville, near Traverse City.

"They contacted my husband (beforehand) for background information," Thomas said.

Sitting among attendees of the meeting listening to the moderator, Thomas recognized parallels between herself and the soon-to-be-named recipient.

"I caught a few things — been married 43 years, has a cottage on the west side of Michigan but lives on the eastside," Thomas said. "Then they said, 'attended Grace Hospital School of Nursing' and I'm thinking, boy oh boy, please don't tell me this is me. I can't believe this."

Her prescription for success is a positive attitude and being accessible to change.

"You have to be flexible, delegate and be comfortable with those to whom you delegate," she said.

Waves doing damage at Farms Pier Park

By Brad Lindberg
Staff Writer

THE GROSSE POINTES — High water is hammering the shoreline.

Onshore winds in December whipped waves from Lake St. Clair that washed away 18 box docks at Grosse Pointe Farms Pier Park marina.

"This is the first time in my 30 years here that's happened," said Dick Huhn, park director. "The (public safety) dive team did a search. We only recovered two."

The lake is higher than in two decades.

Waves breaking over the eastern end of the outer pier near the marina entrance ripped boxes from foundation bolts.

"We don't know where the others are," Huhn said. "They could have floated into the lake."

Two rounds of similar weather this year damaged landscaping behind the breakwall at Shores Osius Park.

Nature's power impresses Helen Bai, chairwoman of the Shores Beautification Advisory Committee.

"Twice since February, and within the last month, water's come up over the breakwall," Bai said. "It moves rocks that were supposed to be so heavy."

Instead, rocks yielded like "marshmallows," she said.

Committee member Michael May photographed some of the action Tuesday, May 10.

"It wasn't a particularly windy or stormy day, but the wind was in the right direction to make big waves pointed right at us," he wrote in an email.

Farms and Shores officials are concerned about high water accelerating wear on the breakwall along Lakeshore.

"I can't imagine the cost to repair," said Shores Mayor Ted Kedzierski.

Kedzierski, Farms Mayor Jim Farquhar, Wayne County Commissioner Tim

Killeen and Wayne County Executive Warren Evans jointly signed letters in January to U.S. Sen. Gary Peters (R), U.S. Sen. Debbie Stabenow (D) and U.S. Rep. Brenda Lawrence, D-Southfield, requesting financial help patching or replacing the breakwall along 3.5 miles of Farms and Shores shoreline.

Pointe officials think the county is liable because Lakeshore is a county road.

Kedzierski and others discussed the breakwall recently with the Wayne County treasurer.

"We expressed concern about the deteriorating condition of the seawall, particularly between South Deeplands and Woodland Shores," Kedzierski said. "It is dangerous."

A long road home for South grad

By Kathy Ryan
Staff Writer

It has been a long road home for David Dennison.

But what better than a play about hockey to bring this Grosse Pointe South grad and Detroit Red Wings fan home from a journey that has taken him from Grosse Pointe to Scotland, England and Traverse City and now to the stage in downtown Detroit to play several roles in the ensemble cast of "Hockey, the Musical."

Written by Detroit Free Press columnist Mitch Albom, the story asks the audience to imagine a world without hockey. No more ice, no more skates, no more goalie masks, no Stanley Cup, no octopi.

And while Dennison never played hockey, he can't imagine such a world and urges everyone, hockey lover or not, to come see a very funny play, full of music, sports talk and hockey history. "If you like musicals, you'll love the play. If you like hockey, you'll love it even more," Dennison said. "It's not high brow. There are no great messages. It's just a fun evening at the theater."

And the theater is where Dennison has been spending his life since graduating in 2007 with a master's degree in musical theatre performance from the Mountainview Academy of Theatre Arts in London, England.

This may seem like a strange twist from the University of Edinburgh in Scotland where he received a degree in Arabic studies in 2006, following his graduation from South in 2002.

It was the years he spent in the choir program at South that led him to Mountainview, but it was his years spent singing with the Christ Church Grosse Pointe choir that led him to Edinburgh.

Dennison explains. "I had traveled to Great Britain several times with the Christ Church choir and knew I wanted to go there for college," he said. "I had fallen in love with Edinburgh and knew I wanted to go back. I wanted a college in an urban setting and had looked at George Washington and New York University, but I really liked Edinburgh. It was right after 9/11, so I majored in Arabic studies and politics. I thought they would be marketable skills."

But the love of theater was always there and it wasn't long before he joined Footlights, a theater company in Edinburgh. A community theater, it was totally run by students.

"We did everything," Dennison said. "We were the producers, we built the sets, we acted, we sold the tickets. It was a great learning experience."

And it convinced Dennison to go on to complete a master's degree at Mountainview before returning home to Grosse Pointe.

"It was the height of the recession and like so many other people, I couldn't find a job, especially one in theater. I tried Chicago, but couldn't find a job there either."

A job offer from U.S. Sen. Carl Levin brought Dennison back to Michigan, this time to Traverse City. And while he used his Arabic studies and political science skills in that position, he was able to hone his acting skills with the well-regarded Old Town Playhouse. It was there he met his wife, Psaira.

He also is stepfather to her daughter, Lula Mae, 6.

About six months ago a casting call for a new Mitch Albom play caught his attention and Dennison auditioned in February, receiving the nod from Albom himself in March.

"Mitch has been very hands-on with this production," Dennison said. "We've been in rehearsals since March and opened May 19. The reception has been great. We've had good audiences. It's a fun musical, with both original songs by Mitch and adaptations of familiar songs."

Dennison has several roles in the play, including the part of a referee, a hockey coach, a game show host and the role of Song Policeman, which Dennison describes as a "running joke" throughout the play. The play, performed at the City Theatre in Hockey Town, is scheduled to run until June 19, but strong ticket sales may help extend it.

Dennison has signed on for the duration.

"After that, more auditions and finding my next gig," he said.

Dog in car

Police cited a Sterling Heights man, 30, for animal cruelty last week because he left a pit bull "panting and yelping" in the back seat of a 2015 Chrysler 200 parked in the Kroger lot on an 85-degree day, 2:51 p.m. Sunday, May 29.

Although the car's windows were lowered one-half inch, a patrolman using a thermal imaging camera reported an interior temperature of 117 degrees.

"I stood by (5 minutes) until the owner returned to the vehicle," said the officer, issuing the ticket and releasing the dog to its master's care.

Prowler

Shortly before midnight Thursday, June 2, a husband and wife living in the first block of McKinley tried to identify a man nosing around their cars parked in the driveway, but he got away.

The stranger, a 6-foot male wearing dark clothes, ignored the husband's queries and entered the passenger side of a white Pontiac Grand Prix, which was last seen northbound on Fisher from Grosse Pointe Boulevard.

Police responding to the wife's 911 call found no one.

A few hours later, two officers found a man matching the prowler's description at the intersection of Kerby and Beaufre.

A caller reported him "kneeling in the middle of the street yelling for help," according to an officer.

The man, 21, living on East Hancock in Detroit near Wayne State University, "stated he left the area of Wayburn and Mack because of a disturbance, began to walk home (and) realized he was going the wrong way," said an officer. "Finding his story a bit suspicious, (he) was investigated and given a courtesy ride to the area of Harvard and Mack."

Erratic

A patrolman responding at 8:01 p.m. Wednesday, June 1, to a 911 caller's alert of a motorist operating a blue 2006 Toyota Tundra erratically on Lakeshore, arrested the driver, 45, of Detroit, for having an illegally high blood alcohol level of .17 percent.

The man thought he was on Belle Isle, said the officer.

Phone foul

A 17-year-old Farms male teaching tennis at a club on Berkshire Place traced his $399 Motorola Moto X cellular telephone, missing from courtside at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, June 1, to the area of 18 Mile and Ryan roads in Sterling Heights.

He reported the apparent theft to Farms police and will follow up with authorities in Sterling Heights.

Missing chairs

All available members of the road patrol responded at 10:16 a.m. Monday, May 30, to a burglary in progress allegedly reported by a male homeowner in the 400 block of Allard.

The suspect turned out to be a 52-year-old male tenant.

He was outside banging on the door searching for two Gravity deck chairs missing from the garage.

The tenant said he bought the chairs, worth a combined $100, placed them in the garage and suspected the tenant locked them in the basement.

Police rate the case as a landlord-tenant dispute.

Drunken driving

Swerving a black 1997 Chevrolet SUV on Lakeshore at 1:53 a.m. Monday, May 30, qualified a 34-year-old Detroit man to be stopped near the foot of Kerby and investigated for drunken driving.

He allegedly failed field sobriety tests and registered a .23 percent blood alcohol level.

Officers arrested him and, searching the SUV, said they found a half empty bottle of beer and two cups half full of tequila.

Playground fire

An estimated $500 damage resulted from someone igniting an article of clothing on a piece of Richard Elementary School playground equipment shortly before 5 p.m. Saturday, May 28.

A patrolman using a bucket of water made sure flames were out.

Car recovered

A 30-year-old Detroit man was arrested at 9:22 a.m. Saturday, May 28, for operating a white 2000 Plymouth Neon listed as stolen from a woman living in Sterling Heights.

A patrolman noticed the Neon's expired registration and pulled over the man at the intersection of Mack and Allard.

The officer, trained to trace stolen cars, noted the Neon's damaged driver-side door lock and an altered federal identification sticker.

Home invasion

A resident of the 1100 block of Cadieux was awakened at 3 a.m. Saturday, June 4, by the sound of creaking floor boards. She saw a shadow in her hallway and an investigation showed a rear sliding door was opened. The only item that appeared to be missing was a cell-phone. Police continue to investigate.

Landscaper larceny

A landscaper working in the 1300 block of Devonshire the afternoon of Wednesday, June 1, observed an unknown suspect exit the passenger side of a large SUV and take two leaf blowers, valued at $650, from his trailer and quickly leave the scene. The same suspects committed a similar incident a short time later in Harper Woods.

GROSSE POINTE NEWS MISSION STATEMENT

To provide the Grosse Pointes the most relevant, accurate and timely information in our print and online publications.

I SAY By Joe Warner

Be responsible for your actions

A couple stories, one local and one national, have been the talk about town this week. First, an online racist rant involving four Grosse Pointe (South and University Liggett) students that went viral — the second such incident this calendar year. Once again, Grosse Pointe was judged on social media due to the actions of a couple teens.

It's silly to categorize all of Grosse Pointe as racist. Or to say parents here don't raise their children the right way. It's lame and lazy to say it's because of money or privilege that these stories keep repeating in Grosse Pointe.

They are happening everywhere. The majority of people here — and everywhere — don't tolerate what was spewed in the rant. It's dumb. It's offensive. And it should be a lesson. Colleges will see this. Future employers will see this. Who would hire someone who talks like that? Would you want someone who thinks and talks that way to date your daughter?

It's easy to dismiss things as teen missteps or blame things on drinking, but when you say or do something stupid, it could be recorded and posted. Think about that. Everybody is sorry when something like this happens.

As you get older, you realize "I'm sorry" is something you say, mostly empty, after you've been caught.

The schools are using this to help open a dialogue, which is good. Hopefully parents are doing the same thing at home.

Parenting, in the case of former Stanford swimmer Brock Turner, seems to be a lost art when it comes to his father, Dan.

The younger Turner was sentenced to six months in jail (not the years in prison he faced) for his conviction of sexually assaulting a young coed while she was passed out, on the ground near a dumpster behind a fraternity house.

The defense said it was consensual, always predictable and tough to do when you're unconscious.

The father, in a letter to the judge released last week, claimed his son isn't the same since this happened. And rather than punishing him with prison for "20 minutes of action" when he's done great things in his 20 years, he should be allowed to talk to other students about the dangers of binge drinking and sexual promiscuity.

The young adult here was an Olympic hopeful with a bright future.

Now he deserves the hate he'll receive. And while I have seen and understand a parent always wanting to stand by their child, I guarantee my dad would not say what a good person I am or tell the judge how I don't eat my favorite snacks anymore.

My dad would tell the judge to sentence me to the maximum sentence. He'd tell me to rot in hell. He'd apologize to the victim, telling her "it's not the way we

The Grosse Pointe News welcomes your letters to the editor. All letters should be typed, double-spaced, signed and limited to 250 words. Longer letters may be edited for length and all letters may be edited for content. We reserve the right to refuse any letter. Include a daytime phone number for verification or questions. The deadline for letters is 3 p.m. Monday. Letters to the Editor can be e-mailed to jwarner@grossepointenews.com.

Editor's note: The next two letters were sent to parents at University Liggett Upper School and Grosse Pointe South High School. We are including the letters to go with coverage on our website and in this week's paper on page 1D.

South

Over the weekend a handful of Grosse Pointe teens, including three South students, chose to record a video that included offensive, racist statements regarding African Americans. While no specific students or members of our community were mentioned in the video, the comments made are deplorable.

Immediately after being made aware of the situation, South administration began contacting students and families. Consistent with the Student Code of Conduct, we are making appropriate decisions regarding consequences for those involved, including student separations from school.

We have assured our students that South is built on a foundation that values the contributions of all.

During the past 24 hours, several of our students have approached staff members and administrators indicating that this video, which has been circulated via social media, offended them and made them question the values we hold dear at South.

During my nearly two years here at South, I have been consistently impressed with the depth of compassion and kindness exhibited by our students.

I am confident that this incident will provide South the opportunity to stand with a united voice of love and acceptance for all.

We will continue to demonstrate that the majority of our students and community members do not accept and will not tolerate such bigotry.

This incident further affirms the need for our continued discourse around diversity, inclusion and race relations. With these topics in mind, we have had sustained dialogue that began in March and will continue well into the future.

Weekly meetings and planning sessions have taken place with students from our Black Awareness Society for Education (B.A.S.E.) club. Additionally, we

Just water

I thought water rates for Grosse Pointe Farms were for the usage of consumed water. Apparently, this is not so. Water rates in Grosse Pointe Farms continue to increase year after year.

The way the system works is if you don't use the water, prices will go up because there is not enough revenue to support the system. So, if you use an excessive amount of water the price should stabilize.

Now, if you add an $80,000 garbage truck to your water bill you have to ask yourself, what's this? I'm paying for water, not a city add on.

I love Grosse Pointe Farms and its water system, but it's not fair to fund other projects through raising the water rates.

Refuse Trump

It should come as no surprise that teens in an affluent, mostly white suburb posted a racist video on Facebook; after all, Donald Trump gives voice to his racist and misogynist thoughts with impunity. We have spent years teaching our children that bullying is wrong. Trump, on the other hand, is applauded for comments that would result in suspension from school if uttered by a child. The only difference between Trump and these teens is that the teens are being punished. We must refuse to accept Mr. Trump's bullying as the standard of discourse in this country.

Another teachable moment

Last week, my senior at Grosse Pointe South sent me a text that said, "Here we go again," and attached a video that was tearing through the halls of social media showing several young men, including some South students, engaged in a disturbing conversation.

The video focused on one South student regaling his friends with how he feels African Americans should be treated when he runs for president in 2040.

I think it's fair to say this young man's presidential run has already been derailed.

This was the second such racially-charged incident that has made the rounds on social media sites involving South students.

Following both incidents, South principal Moussa Hamka was quick to respond, with letters to the South community, deploring the comments and discussing the consequences for the students involved, as dictated in the Student Code of Conduct.

He also reminded the South community the majority of South students abhor the behavior exhibited by a handful of their classmates.

I am proud of Mr. Hamka and the South team for their response and their belief in the integrity of the majority of South students. He and the administration consistently remind South students they have set high standards for them, both academically and socially, and readily applaud students for maintaining those standards. They also quickly respond to those students who don't.

As hurtful as these two recent incidents have been, they have served as an impetus for dialogues within our schools that might never have happened.

Our children have been involved in discussions that probably never would have taken place without the images shared on social media. Unfortunately, many students were offended and hurt, but perhaps it would help them to know even more students learned something very important which will serve them all very well, especially our seniors who are about to go out into the world.

Our students have learned that they have the support of their peers when they stand up for what is right. That's not always easy to do, but our students have been empowered to speak out when they encounter behavior or words that are offensive to others when it would probably be easier to remain silent. They now know they have an obligation to speak out against behavior that is harmful to others when they do, they will be backed by a strong support network of peers, families and teachers.

We are fortunate to have two outstanding high schools in this community, with two outstanding administrators. At both schools our students are receiving an excellent education.

But more importantly, under the leadership of Kate Murray at North and Hamka at South, they have learned to be kind. Most knew that anyway; some needed to be taught. But all have received the message and now know they will be supported without reservation when they do the right thing.

I don't think Mr. Hamka would mind if I shared a message he expresses often when talking about a school's duty to its students. It's appropriate now, more than ever.

"It is not sufficient for our students to aspire to be the best 'in' the world. Rather, we need our children to be the best 'for' the world."

They're on their way, Mr. Hamka and Mrs. Murray. You have every reason to be proud.

You may have already heard of a video that has been circulating on social media involving a few local teenagers making derogatory and racist statements specifically targeting African Americans.

Three students from Grosse Pointe South have been identified in the video, and although not visible, we have confirmed that a Liggett student was involved as well. We became aware of the video yesterday when the parent of the Liggett student involved came forward to alert us to the situation.

I am deeply upset and saddened by this behavior and its impact on our students and wider community.

At Liggett, this type of behavior will not be tolerated, on or off campus, and we are currently determining what disciplinary actions are appropriate.

Unfortunately, this has occurred at a time of year when our community is beginning to disperse for summer break, and thus limits our ability to gather the Upper School. That said, we are offering ways to support the students and give them a venue to meet and process. I am planning to send the students an email welcoming them to come to school tomorrow and use this as a gathering space to talk amongst themselves or meet with faculty.

I also spoke with the grade-level deans and the Assistant Head of Upper School and Dean of Student Life Shernaz Minwalla this morning to discuss how this can inform some of our programming at the start of the new school year in September.

As we move through this difficult moment for our community, I welcome any questions or comments you may have.

Please feel free to contact me at your convenience.

brought him up and we're sorry."

The elder Turner loves his son, but his son is a convicted of three heinous felonies. While he claims his son has no criminal history and has never been violent, there's nothing more violent than sexual assault. Unless it's an assault of a person so incapacitated they aren't able to scream "No."

His son is not the victim here. And this didn't happen "because of alcohol."

The younger Turner will be in a county jail for six months. Big deal.

The victim will live with this horrible event for the rest of her life. The actions of the convicted, his father and the sentencing judge guarantee that.

No wonder many rapes go unreported.

One of the most powerful and amazing things I've ever read, the statement by the victim in the case above, is available on our website, grossepointenews.com. Please take the time to read it and share it.

a.m. Tuesday, May 31, on a noise complaint, police found a couple in a 2014 Dodge Charger with a flat tire. Unable to produce registration or insurance information, the driver, a 34-year-old Detroit resident, told police a friend had given her the car, while her passenger, a 27-year-old Detroit resident, denied any knowledge of the car. A standard LEIN check revealed the car had been stolen out of Detroit. The pair were taken into custody, the driver on a felony warrant out of Detroit for car theft, her passenger on misde-

Apparently he missed the sign

Woods dispatch received a call at 11 p.m. Saturday, June 4, from a tow truck operator. He told police he had just received a call for assistance from a driver who said he "was stuck in the mud in a construction zone" and he was slurring his words. Police responded and found the motorist on Country Club, where his car had run off the cement into the sand area where the road was under construction. Ironically, it was right next to a reflective barricade with the message "Road Closed." Police detected a strong smell of alcohol and a Breathalyzer test revealed a .22 blood alcohol count. The 30-year-old Royal Oak resident was arrested at the scene, the second time for driving under the influence.

EyesOn Design reaches highest point to date

By Jody McVeigh
 Community Editor

A record number of classics — from speedsters and Supercars to muscle cars and motorcycles — grace the grounds of the Edsel and Eleanor Ford House during the 29th annual EyesOn Design, 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Sunday, June 19.

More than 360 vehicles are displayed, each following this year's theme, "Powered by Design," highlighting the many body forms, features and graphics synonymous with muscle and might.

"Since the early days of the automobile, every car manufacturer has had the desire to create a more powerful version of their vehicles," wrote the show's chief judge, Glen Durmisevich. "Design can visually and viscerally describe power and speed. The stylistic expression of rapid motion has changed over time, but has never failed to impart an emotional response in those who view it."

EyesOn Design 2016 stands out from past exhibitions. This year marks the 100th anniversary of the BMW, which will be highlighted with a showcase of the company's racing heritage and production vehicle stand-outs. This year also begins the 100th anniversary of the Michigan State Police and in celebration, the category "Hot Pursuit: Powered for Protection and Service" features decades of law enforcement vehicles. This year also celebrates the hundredth running of the Indianapolis 500, reflected at EyesOn Design with nine vintage pace cars, including the original, a 1915 Packard Model 3-38 Special Roadster.

"We think of Detroit as the Motor City, but there were a lot of other manufacturers as well," said event Chairwoman Kathy Lightbody.

The Arsenal of Democracy collection of military vehicles, as well as Power Wagons, muscle cars and muscle bikes also are featured.

Book-signing event is June 15

Realtor and City of Grosse Pointe resident Lewis Gazoul hosts his first book-signing event 6 p.m. Wednesday, June 15, at Barnes & Noble, 19221 Mack, Detroit.

He will sign copies of his adventure fantasy novels, "Druids of the Faerie — Gather the Champions" and "Druids of the Faerie — Baytel and the Goblin Horde." "People ask when I'm writing, 'Has anyone read it?' No. But I do have a sounding board," he said. "My children. As I was writing it, I told them the story as bedtime stories. This book became their bedtime story throughout their childhood."

Originally written as one novel, the tome was divided into two books for publishing purposes. Both books are available at the book-signing event.

"The biggest satisfaction I get is that my kids were able to see something I created while they were growing up," he said. "They're sharing in it with me."

Though originally told to children, the "Druids of the Faerie" series is geared for an older audience, Gazoul said, as it contains scenes of "blood, death and war."

A third book in the series is due this fall.

For more information about the books, visit druidsofthefaerie.com. For information about the book-signing event, call (313) 884-5220.

Sharing strength

Lake House program features Woods cancer survivor

By Jody McVeigh
Community Editor

Grosse Pointe Woods resident Peter Campbell has an inspiring message to share. He wants to give hope to cancer survivors that the battle can be won, that life is worth celebrating.

The two-time cancer survivor and Mt. Kilimanjaro climber will share his message of perseverance at Celebrate Survivorship, hosted by The Lake House 5 to 7 p.m. Tuesday, June 14.

"I'm very excited to speak at the event," Campbell said. "I'm going to share my two diagnoses and subsequent battles, how I was befriended by Sean (Swarner, a two-time cancer survivor and author who has reached the summit of Kilimanjaro 13 times) at the perfect moment, how he gave me hope and how together we have given so many others that same hope by climbing Kilimanjaro together.

"Positivity (is) a must to succeed in anything in life. An absolute must to succeed in beating cancer," he continued. "I feel it is important for me to stay positive even after (remission) for several reasons. I'm now looked at as a survivor, so people with cancer look up to me in a way. And I'm alive. What's not to be positive about after all I've been through? I'm not saying I'm all smiles and sunshine every day, but it's better when I am."

Campbell, who recently was diagnosed with hypothyroidism due to radiation he received to his neck 13 years ago, said although the battle with cancer is over, the side effects will last a lifetime.

"That's another reason it will help to stay positive after treatment," he said. "Cancer is a war. Wars are made up of battles. I've won every battle so far, but the war is never over."

Lake House Executive Director Madeline

Bialecki said she is looking forward to hearing Campbell's address.

"He is the epitome of living beyond cancer and not letting cancer define him," she said. "He's continued to grow and try new things and embrace life It's good to have somebody who can inspire others."

Apart from Campbell's message, Celebrating Survivorship includes a cookout, featuring food donated by Buffalo Wild Wings and brought by Lake House members.

This is the third year for the free event, which is open to the community.

"From the moment they are diagnosed with cancer, he or she is a survivor," Bialecki said. "This is an opportunity to be grateful for life and all that goes along with helping people stay alive It's a social time for people to come together and celebrate life every day."

The following week, 6 to 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, June 21, the Lake House hosts a panel discussion featuring three speakers.

Tiahna Hayes, a health and nutrition program instructor at Michigan State University Extension, will discuss nutrition and healthy eating. Cheryl Beshada, a certified medical hypnotherapist and Reiki Master with the Van Elslander Cancer Center, will discuss Reiki. Jennifer Raybaud, chief creative officer at the Serendipitous Soul, will lead a mindfulness exercise.

"Mindfulness is helpful with cancer because you can really spin out when you have cancer," Bialecki said.

The Lake House also offers its Newly Diagnosed Cancer Support group beginning 6:30 p.m. Thursday, June 23. The group will continue to meet the fourth Thursday of each month.

Tuesday, June 28, is the organization's annual meeting.

"We have lots of things happening," Bialecki said.

The Lake House is located at 26701 Little Mack, St. Clair Shores. For more information, call (586) 777-7761.

ASK THE EXPERTS By Mary Beth Garvey

Helping children through grief

Q: How can I talk with my children about a recent death when I am struggling to deal with my own feelings of grief?

A: As a parent, it is instinctual to protect kids from pain and minimize the loss they experience. There are many ways to comfort children during difficult periods, but often we feel we have to mask our own response to grief as a way of protecting them.

Though understandable, given how vulnerable we feel after loss, it undermines the example we provide about how to endure, cope and move forward despite intense emotions. When your children see you struggle, then recover, you instill hope. When they see you are tearful or sad one moment and engaged in your usual routine the next, they learn it's OK to move in and out of grief. When you talk about your feelings openly and don't discourage negative emotions, you reinforce it's OK to be wherever they need to be in their grief.

Grieving is different for children because their ability to attend to intense emotions is limited. The above examples are invaluable for them. In addition to modeling healthy ways to cope, you can also support kids by:

◆ Giving them information about the loss using simple, honest,

The Family Center

ASK THE EXPERTS articles

age-appropriate terms. Don't use euphemisms or half-truths — it only frightens and confuses them.

◆ Letting kids talk about it repeatedly if they need to. This won't make it worse. It helps them dismantle their grief. They need frequent reassurance.

◆ Encouraging expressive outlets through drawing, writing or play.

◆ Reading relevant books with your kids. It helps them find words for difficult issues, gives them a chance to project their feelings onto story characters and discuss how they might feel in non-threatening ways.

◆ Normalizing their emotions and instilling hope that they will not always feel like they do in that moment. Let them know it's OK to grieve, but it's also OK not to grieve — to laugh, play, enjoy friends and forget about their sadness.

◆ Providing structure, routine and predictability. This instills safety, normalcy and a sense of control.

Children are resilient. Given the room and support to grieve as they need to, they have an amazing capacity to recover. We don't have to mask our own intense emotions as we help them through the process.

PASTOR'S CORNER By the Rev. Jim Rizer

My shepherd

Psalm 23 remains one of the most treasured and memorized verses in the Old Testament. The main reason for the psalm's popularity through the ages is the description of God as "my shepherd." Regardless of one's preconceived ideas about who God is, this metaphor invites us to rediscover the heart of God and the wonder of a relationship with Him.

"The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want." The psalm starts with a relational paradigm and promise. The relationship is touchingly personal. God is the shepherd and we are His sheep. Shepherds know each sheep by name and know what the sheep need even when the sheep might be unaware. The promised result of this relationship is that we, the sheep, will lack nothing we need.

"He makes me lie down in green pastures; He leads me beside still waters." This wonderful image of God's faithful provision carries a great sense of peace and tranquility. The image is not of lying down in a briar patch with an occasional tuft of grass or attempting to drink from a raging river. This understanding grows when we recall that sheep won't lie down unless they are completely at peace. In our hectic world, I wonder if we could use more green pasture and less rat race.

In the warmth of this verse we are prone to miss the way God does this. God "makes" and "leads" us to this pasture of peace and provision. But to be led we need not only to be complicit in following, we also need to trust where God is taking us will be alright. At times the way to the pasture can be bumpy and there is always a temptation to break away, seeking our own provisions and a lesser peace.

May we continue to "taste and see that the Lord is good" and follow Him to green pastures, still water, incredible provision and much needed peace.

Rizer is the pastor at Living Hope Evangelical Church, Grosse Pointe Farms.

Patricia Ann Tennent

Patricia Ann Tennent passed away peacefully Monday, May 30, 2016.

Patricia "Pat" was the daughter of John H. and Tyler (nee Gatewood) Patterson. She was born Oct. 1, 1934, and raised in Miami. Growing up, the daughter of a pilot, she recalled the times she and her mother packed box lunches for passengers flying on her father's charter air service, American Air Transport, between Miami and Havana and the summers she spent at her grandmother's house in Newport News, Va., where she loved digging for clams. Pat enjoyed waterskiing on the Bay of Biscayne and riding to high school in her friend Susan's vintage Model A. She graduated from Miami Edison High School and instead of becoming a race car driver, her fleeting ambition at the time, she attended Vanderbilt University School of Nursing. While teaching surgical nursing at her alma mater, Pat met the love of her life, Richard "Dick" Tennent, who was a law student at Vanderbilt. The two married in 1958 and moved to Grosse Pointe, where they started their family.

While raising her three children, Pat worked part time as a nurse and made many lifelong friends playing bridge, volunteering and participating in church activities at St. Michael's Episcopal Church. Pat later moved to Bloomfield Hills, where she stayed in touch with eastside friends and made many new westside friends. Fitness was especially important to her and she kept in shape with tennis and aerobics. She was a voracious reader and it was not uncommon for her to read several books at once. Humble to the core and never pretentious, she always was interested in others.

Pat and Dick enjoyed sailing on the Great Lakes, traveling and eventually built their dream cottage "up north." The cottage was one of her favorite places to entertain friends, relax, listen to the loons, fish and play Skip-Bo with any one of her 10 grandchildren, her greatest source of pride and joy. She loved Christmas and took advantage of the opportunity to unapologetically spoil the younger generation. Her tradition of baking Grandma Tennent's sugar cookies lives on in her grandchildren.

Pat is survived by her husband, Richard; brother, Jack (Michelle); son, Tyler (Suzanne); daughters, Katherine Wilkinson (Mark) and Cynthia Sohn (John) and loving grandchildren. She was predeceased by her parents and brother, Edward (Patricia).

A memorial service was held June 3 at St. Michael's Episcopal Church, Grosse Pointe Woods.

Donations may be made to her oldest grand-child's nonprofit organization, the Joan Rose Foundation, in Haiti, at joanrosefoundation.com.

Nancy Kahle

Nancy Kahle passed away peacefully, after a brief illness, Sunday, April 24, 2016, surrounded by her loving family.

She was born Nov. 17, 1936, in Detroit, to Glenn and Lois Walker, of Grosse Pointe Park. Growing up, she was a "daddy's girl" and was his hunting and fishing companion. The Walkers spent summers in Lewiston.

Nancy attended The Liggett School and graduated summa cum laude. Upon graduation in June 1954, she married John William "Bill" Norman. Nancy worked at her father's auto dealership, Glenn Walker Chevrolet, and as a model for the Bavarian Ski Shop. She divorced in 1961 and married Frederick L. "Larry" Kahle in 1963 aboard the SS France, followed by an extensive tour of Europe. She and Larry were world travelers and enjoyed more than 15 cruises throughout their lives; her favorite being a trip around Cape Horn, Chile, and through the Panama Canal. They took a vacation to Lido Key, Fla., in 1968 and purchased a property on Longboat Key, where they wintered 40-plus years. The Kahles belonged to Lochmoor Club more than 50 years.

Nancy was a gifted painter and enjoyed swimming, tennis, golf and playing bridge. Her interest and talents in interior design and fashion led to her working at A Touch of Elegance in Grosse Pointe during the 1970s. During the 1980s, she owned her own business, Blythe Spirits, on Longboat Key and was a longtime chairperson of Les Amis Du Vin. In the 1990s, she opened her own shop, Ritzzy's, in downtown Sarasota. Owning that business was her life's dream. Her later years were spent between Florida and her home in St. Clair Shores.

Her family said Nancy was a beautiful, vivacious, kind and generous lady who changed many people's lives. She will be remembered as truly a one of a kind; her joie de vivre unparalleled. She will be deeply missed by those who knew her.

Nancy is survived by her husband of 51 years, Larry Kahle; daughters, Lois Norman, Juliette Norman-McMillan and Laurie Kahle (Christopher Elicone); son, William Norman; granddaughters, Nancy Bilyeu Norman, Emily Norman and Corinne Elicone; grandsons, Tyler Miller and Eric Elicone and great-grandson, Walker Norman Gurrissi.

She was predeceased by her parents and daughter, Nancy Jo Norman.

A celebration of her life will be held Sunday, June 26, 2016. For details, contact jkmcmillan1@aol.com.

Legacy gift supports hospice mission

COURTESY PHOTO

Carolyn Cassin

When Carolyn Cassin lost her baby son, she went back to work the following Monday, devastated.

The year was 1976 and people didn't talk openly about grief and loss. She remembers the platitudes — you're young, you'll have other children — and the silence. Cassin realized nothing much had changed in the 10 years since the death of her father. She swallowed that loss, too, returning to high school a few days after the funeral.

"I never grieved for my father or my baby," recalled Cassin, who now serves as president and CEO of the Michigan Women's Foundation. "I remember thinking, 'If death is a natural part of life, why don't we talk about it? Why don't we grieve?'"

"I was confounded by this. I didn't know what to do."

So Cassin channeled

her energy and sadness into education. A fellowship program through the Kellogg Foundation enabled her to study the concept of hospice, which was still taking root in America.

"I became unbelievably taken by this," she said. "As I was sitting down and reading, the tears started to come."

"I thought, 'Oh, this is what death should be like. You should be surrounded by friends and family. You should be able to talk about, prepare for it, say your good-byes.' It touched something very deep in me and I knew this was what I needed to do."

So was born a passionate advocate for hospice. Cassin connected with the National Hospice and Palliative Care Organization in the early 1980s, helping bring standards of care to hospice providers throughout the country. She was tapped to join the National Hospice Education Project, which worked to create the Medicare hospice benefit in 1982. As the CEO of Hospice of Southeastern Michigan, hers was one of the first hospice programs in the country to be certified under those new guidelines.

But the career achievement she's most proud of? Uniting 10 nonprofit hospice providers around the state under the umbrella of Hospice of Michigan, where she served as CEO for more than a decade.

"Sometimes it takes being at the right place at the right time," Cassin said. "My sense was that hospice had two paths we could go down. We could each stay in our own community organization and fend for ourselves or we could start to band together as not-for-profit hospice providers and create the size, girth and expertise of a sophisticated organization that could compete with the for-profits."

That process continues today as Hospice of Michigan joined forces in January with Arbor Hospice. The affiliation of two like-minded, mission-driven, nonprofit organizations allows them to better serve patients and families while helping strengthen and expand the future of nonprofit hospice in Michigan.

Cassin continues to support the mission of nonprofit hospice through a legacy gift of $1 million to the Hospice of Michigan Foundation in support of its Open Access program, which will bear her name. Open Access ensures all patients, without regard to age, diagnosis or ability to pay, can receive compassionate care at the end of life.

Legacy gifts like Cassin's are critical to supporting the mission of nonprofit organizations like Hospice of Michigan and Arbor Hospice. Residents of Washtenaw County and beyond have a long history of supporting Arbor Hospice's work through generous contributions to The Arbor Hospice Foundation.

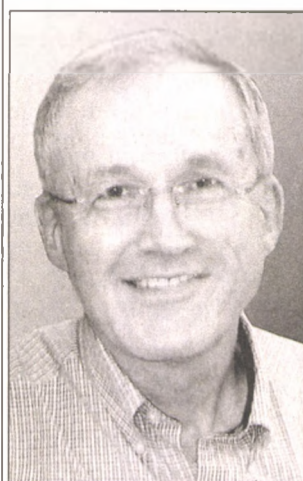

That generosity is underscored by a recent legacy gift of $500,000, pledged anonymously by a donor who appreciates Arbor's dedication to patients' dignity, comfort and peace and the nonprofit model that enables Arbor to put patients' needs first. While patients of both Hospice of Michigan and Arbor benefit from enhancements made possible through the affiliation, donors may continue directing their gifts to a specific organization.

"Uniting 10 organizations under the banner of nonprofit hospice was quite the feat to pull off," said Marcie Hillary, vice president for Hospice of Michigan. "It is Carolyn that we have to thank for our platform that strengthens and supports nonprofit hospice. Her level of innovation and forethought set the stage for Hospice of Michigan and Arbor Hospice to be recognized as leaders in end-of-life care."

Gala, Lingenfelter tour also on tap

The 2016 EyesOn Design is more than just a car show. Not only does it highlight the design and beauty of vintage vehicles, but it serves as a means to honor outstanding efforts in the industry while raising money for the Detroit Institute of Ophthalmology.

In its 29-year history, EyesOn Design has raised more than $4 million to fund research and support for the visually impaired.

This year, Stewart Reed, chairman of the Transportation Design Department at the ArtCenter College of Design in California, will be awarded the Lifetime Design Achievement Award during a black-tie gala 6:30 to 11 p.m. Friday, June 17, at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, 32 Lakeshore, Grosse Pointe Farms. This industry event features a silent auction to benefit the DIO.

Also on tap, patrons are invited to tour the Lingenfelter Collection, a collection of more than 150 cars displayed 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, June 18, at 7819 Lochlin, Brighton.

"This is one of the largest personal collections in the nation," EyesOn Design Chairwoman Kathy Lightbody said. "You can almost never tour it unless it's part of a benefit. Most of the time benefit tickets cost $150, so to get in for $15 is pretty special."

The collection includes Corvettes, a Bugatti Veyron and an Enzo Ferrari. The newest addition is a LaFerrari, a hybrid with 789 horsepower and a V-12 engine that accelerates from zero to 150 mph in 9.8 seconds.

Cost is $15 and proceeds benefit the DIO. For more information or tickets, visit eyesondesign.org/carshow or call (313) 824-4710.

a.m., a caravan of them will drive from Windmill Pointe Park up Jefferson to the show They all have period décor inside that matches the era. It's so much fun."

Guided tours of the camping rigs are scheduled at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m.

Also at the show is the Private Eyes Brunch, available 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Tickets are $85 per person, $25 for children ages 12 and younger. Tickets must be reserved in advance and space is limited. Call (313) 824-4710 or email jdara@dioeyes.org.

"It's a great Father's Day/Sunday outing," Lightbody said. "This is by far the biggest show we've ever had in terms of vehicles There will be 16 states with vehicles represented and two countries because there are vehicles from Canada, too. This truly is a world-class event."

"The vehicle selection committee team is absolutely remarkable," she continued. "They have such rich history in automotive and have access to so many vehicles. They know so many people who own so many vehicles of note."

The entire show is judged by a panel, but Lightbody said one category is judged by the Visionaries, a group of visually impaired judges who wear white gloves and feel the automobiles to select a winner.

The day serves not only to sate classic vehicle aficionados, but also raises funds for the Detroit Institute of Ophthalmology.

"Twenty-nine years ago, the idea came to a group of people that a car show would be a great way to raise funds for the Detroit Institute of Ophthalmology," Lightbody said. "This is their major fundraiser."

Specifically, funds this year will benefit the DIO's The Eye and the Chip World Research Congress, which gathers researchers to present and collaborate on visual prostheses.

"They're working to restore some level of useful vision to people who are currently blind," Lightbody said. "When you bring people together to share progress, you accelerate the progress."

EyesOn Design also raises funds for the DIO through its Friends of Vision raffle. Tickets are $100 and winners are selected at 3:30 p.m. First prize is $10,000, second is $500 and third is $300.

The Ford House is located at 1100 Lakeshore, Grosse Pointe Shores. General admission tickets are $25, free for children age 12 and younger with an adult. Tickets may be purchased at the gate.

For more information about EyesOn Design, visit eyesondesigncarshow.com.

The 2016 EyesOn Design Honorary Chairman is KC Crain, son of Keith Crain, who served as the event's first honorary chairman with his wife 29 years ago.

Keith Crain will be presented the Preserving the Vision Award, which "goes to someone who has helped support the art of car collecting and restoration," said Kathy Lightbody, event chairwoman.

This year's grand marshal is Grosse Pointer Paul Alandt, chairman of Crest Automotive Group.

Toronto artist Jay Koka's work was selected as the commemorative poster for the 2016 event.

Johnson captures state title

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe South senior Kayli Johnson finished her high school track and field career on the biggest stage and earned the biggest prize, a state championship.

Johnson is the Division 1 champion in the shot put, winning with a throw of 44-feet, 7 3/4-inches. She also made All-State in discus with her sixth-place throw of 126-feet, 6-inches.

Other highlights for the Blue Devils included Anna Piccione ending her high school career with a personal-best time of 11:10 in the 3,200-meter run to take 20th.

In the same event, junior Reanna Raymond was 33rd with a time of 11:48.21.

The 400-meter spring relay team of Johnson, senior Hadley Diamond, senior Margaret Sohn and sophomore Elizabeth Calcaterra had the third-fastest time in school history, 50.1, to take 19th place.

Diamond also competed in the 100-meter dash, taking 26th with a time of 13.73 and senior Katie Marschner placed 10th in the 100-meter hurdles with a time of 16.34.

Marschner was 24th in the 300-meter hurdles, posting a time of 49.50 and the Blue Devils' 800-meter relay team of freshman Helen Dodge, senior Natasha Boelstler, Sohn and Calcaterra finished 18th with a time of 1:46.20.

The 1,600-meter relay team of senior Hope Adams, freshman Sarah Bellovich, Sohn and Boelstler finished 24th with a time of 4:17.28 and the Blue Devils' 3,200-meter relay team of sophomore Abby Hurst, Piccione, Raymond and junior Katie Kuhr placed 23rd with a time of 10:01.26.

Diamond and sophomore Natalia Szura made the finals in pole vault, but did not record a height and in the long jump, junior Gen Boyle was 26th with a mark of 14-feet, 11-inches.

The girls' squad, under head coach Steve Zaranek, placed 13th in the team standings with 13 points.

By Bob St. John

Freshman Adriana Agosta turned in her best performance of the season last weekend, throwing a no-hitter to lead Grosse Pointe South girls' softball team to a Division 1 district championship over Detroit Cass Tech, 15-0.

"They worked hard in practice and knew they had to play well to win this district title," head coach Bill Fleming said. "The girls really hit the ball well and Adriana pitched a great game. It was a team win and I'm proud of the girls for getting the job done."

Agosta walked only two and struck out three. She kept Cass Tech's hitters off balance the entire game and her defense did the rest. She didn't give up a hard hit ball in her four innings on the mound.

Offensively, junior Jyen-Ai Jones had four singles and four runs scored and freshman Mackenzie Ford had a double and single, two runs scored and three RBIs to lead the Blue Devils.

Freshman Kendall Volpe hit a run-scoring triple in the first inning and sophomore Grace Foster had a sacrifice fly to score Volpe and another run-scoring single in the second.

In the semifinals, Agosta earned another win on the mound as South trounced Detroit East English Village Prep 21-4.

Foster almost hit for the cycle. She needed a home run, but walked. She was 3-for-4 with one walk, three runs scored, four RBIs, one double and one triple.

Jones had four hits, three runs scored, five RBIs and hit an inside-the-park homer.

Norsemen ride arms to crown

By Rich Borland
Special Writer

There was not a cloud in the sky that blistering morning at Kyte Monroe.

The Grosse Pointe North boys' baseball team was finally starting its playoff run after going 29-9 in the regular season.

The hot streak the Norsemen are in the midst of continued as the dominant 1-2 punch of Chad Lorkowski and Tristin Richardson secured a Division 1 district championship.

Lorkowski had been lights out all season and it was a unanimous decision to give the freshman the ball for game one of the playoffs. After getting brushed up for two singles and a run to start the game, Lorkowski settled in and shut down the competition the rest of the way.

Producing 11 strikeouts in six innings, as well as zero walks, was everything head coach Frank Sumner expected out of the right hander.

Against St. Clair Shores Lakeview in the district semifinal, North was up only 2-1 going into the seventh inning, which kept Lorkowski and the rest of the boys on their toes.

They put up a four-spot off a couple of walks and a few timely hits, as well as taking advantage of late defensive errors.

Sam Cross closed out the side in the seventh 1-2-3 and the Norsemen won 6-1.

Up next: Roseville. Just a half an hour after the final out of game one, and no one wanted the "W" more than Richardson. He started by striking out the side in the first inning for the Adrian College commit.

Through three innings he gave up only one walk and one hit, while tossing four strikeouts, all swinging.

An early error in the fourth inning, followed by a four-pitch walk, led to an RBI single to give the Norsemen the lead. After that, Richardson disposed of the opposition in dramatic fashion, striking out eight, while yielding only four hits and two walks.

Richardson got a 4-6-3 double play to end the battle and give the Norsemen the win, 8-1.

Adding to his pitching, Richardson went 2-for-3 at the dish with three RBIs.

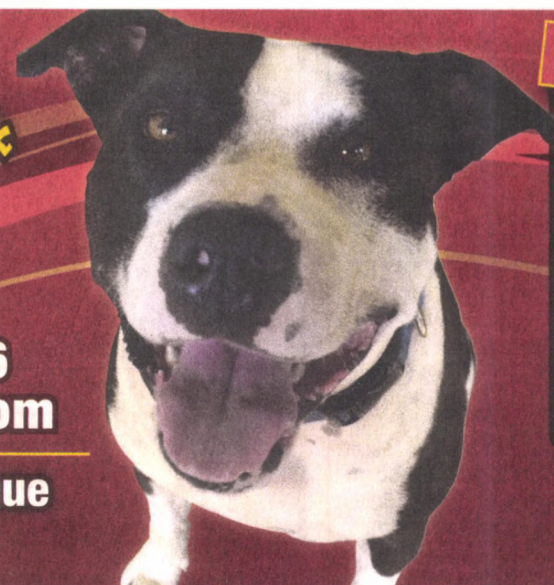

He recently was also awarded the Most Valuable Player of the Macomb Area Conference White Division.

Grosse Pointe North is 32-9 overall heading to regionals.

The host University Liggett girls' softball team made winning a district title look easy last weekend.

The Knights, behind a 16-hit attack and a one-hit, 10-strikeout performance from their pitcher, blanked Detroit Edison Public School Academy 15-0 in a Division 3 district championship game.

The district turned out to be a one-game playoff as the other three schools backed out before the tournament began.

Leading the hitting parade was sophomore Maddie Hamilton, who had three hits, including two doubles, two RBIs and three runs scored, and senior Allison Stapleton, who also had three hits, including one double, two RBIs and two runs scored.

Junior Emma St. John struck out 10 of the 12 hitters she faced in a district title game win over DEPSA.

Junior Emily Miserendino had two hits and two runs, as did senior Emily Kanakry, who also drove in two runs, and sophomore Sabrina Malkoun, who drove in two runs.

Junior Emma St. John faced the minimum 12 hitters in the four-inning game, striking out 10.

She gave up a one out single, which hit the first-base bag in the top of the fourth.

She was thrown out attempting to steal and St. John struck out the next hitter to end the inning.

The Knights scored seven runs in the bottom of the inning to end the game via mercy rule.

Liggett improved to 24-7 overall under head coach Ted Alpert.

North sweeps South en route to title

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

City rivals Grosse Pointe North and Grosse Pointe South girls' soccer teams met for a third time this season with a lot more at stake than a regular season win.

The victor advanced to a Division 1 district championship game and the loser was finished for the season.

It was the best of the three games and in the end it was North ousting South 3-1. In the process, the Norsemen completed a three-game sweep of the Blue Devils for the first time in years.

The game was played at Fraser.

"South played us tough and they had us on our heels for a bit, but we made some adjustments and held them to only one shot in the second half," North head coach Olivia Stander said. "The girls didn't get frustrated and it's nice to beat our rival."

The Norsemen led 2-0 at the half as freshman Meghan Gallagher and sophomore Greta DeLoach scored.

The Blue Devils, under head coach Gene Harkins, got right back in the game when senior Aubrey Leggat sent a perfect shot over the outstretched hands of goalkeeper Katie Link at the 22:59 mark of the second half.

It was the Blue Devils' lone shot of the half, but it made the score 2-1 and it was anyone's game.

The Norsemen had chances to extend the lead as three shots hit a post.

DeLoach put the game out of reach with an insurance goal with only

North went on to defeat host Fraser 2-0 in the district championship game last weekend.

The Norsemen made it 2-0-1 against the Ramblers as Keri Hryciuk scored the first goal, with Ava Stander and DeLoach drawing assists.

The second goal, six minutes later, was scored by DeLoach, with Hryciuk and Madeline Mills netting assists.

Grosse Pointe North improved to 17-5-3 overall.

In the first round, North blanked Sterling Heights 8-0 behind Hryciuk's hat trick.

South also had an easy first-round game, defeating visiting St. Clair Shores Lakeview 6-1 behind Cameron Zak's hat trick.

Grosse Pointe South finished 2-12-6 overall.

North sophomore Rebecca Alway pitched well.

VanDerHaegen hit a two-run homer to straight away center field. She also made two fine running catches to keep Norsemen offense in check.

The Norsemen had runners on first and second with two outs in the first inning, but senior Vicki Blaine's long fly ball to right was caught. They had runners on second and third with two outs in the sixth inning, but senior Liz Grumeretz grounded out to short.

The Norsemen's hits came from freshman Evelyn Zacharias, senior Sarah Cherry and Alway.

Alway took the tough loss on the mound, scattering five hits, walking five and striking out five in seven innings.

After that, a solid defense and goaltending got the job done as Shrine couldn't get the equalizer.

In the district semifinals, Liggett defeated visiting Madison Heights Bishop Foley 4-1.

Sophomore Alexis Wenger had the hat trick and senior Ellie Withers scored the other goal as the Knights beat the perennial state power to advance to the finals.

Racist video prompts action and reaction

By Mary Anne Brush
Staff Writer

On Tuesday, May 31, Grosse Pointe South High School Principal Moussa Hamka was between meetings on improving race relations at South when he was approached by a group of students with disturbing news. A video was being shared on social media that included racist comments directed against black people. The video, recorded Sunday, May 29, at a private home, involved four boys — three from South and one from University Liggett School. One student made denigrating comments about black people while others prodded him with questions and one recorded the conversation. The video later was posted to Twitter and Vine.

“Ironically, I had just met with (a representative from) the University of Michigan to plan for next year in partnering for a road map for sustained communication,” Hamka said. Next on his agenda was a diversity roundtable planned since March in response to a prior incident of racism. In that incident, several South students posted a picture of themselves on Instagram with the “N” word written on their bare stomachs. The image was shared on different social media platforms and quickly went viral.

South students gathered in Cleminson Hall for an impromptu lunchtime forum Thursday, June 2, to address reactions to a racist video posted on social media. Principal Moussa Hamka opened the discussion by encouraging students to share words of support and unity.

The roundtable, moderated by Oakland Schools diversity and equity consultant Jay

Marks and attended by nearly 50 students, addressed the topic of diversity, equity and inclusion. It was part of a series of events including group dialogues between interracial groups of students, weekly meetings with Black Awareness for Education club students and student publications drawing attention and awareness to inclusion of all students.

Also ongoing is the development of a multicultural studies course and building connections with the Michigan Department of Civil Rights, Michigan Roundtable for Diversity and Inclusion and the NAACP.

At the end of the school day, Hamka delivered the news to the students on the public address system. Many already were aware of the video, but some were not, he said.

“I made an announcement calling out the actions and offering my support to all the students, reaffirming that this behavior will not be accepted at Grosse Pointe South and by the overwhelming majority of our students,” Hamka said. “I called it out as racist, bigoted, deplorable. I used strong language. I emphasized that all students should feel welcome. No student should be singled out because of the color of their skin, their sexual orientation, because of their culture or any other difference that they hold.”

He emphasized a handful of students did not represent the views of the 1,700 students at South.

“We have to learn from our past,” he said. “This does not represent our high school or our great community.”

Grosse Pointe Public School System Superintendent Gary Niehaus described his initial reaction to the incident as disappointment.

“We just went through this in March,” Niehaus said. “Why would we have to go through this again? Our kids know better. You get disappointed when you think kids know better and North’s jazz band poses in front of the performance location in Perkins, Ohio.

North’s jazz band receives high rating at Cedar Point

Grosse Pointe North High School’s jazz band received a superior rating at the Music-in-the-Parks festival at Cedar Point Saturday, May 28.

“The adjudicators were extremely impressed with the North students and awarded the band the highest score of the festival, along with the jazz band’s highest score ever received at a Music-in-the-Parks festival,” Director of Instrumental Music David Cleveland said.

The judges also awarded North’s lead guitar player, Simon

Limback, the festival’s only “Outstanding Soloist” award.

North’s band will perform with Grosse Pointe South High School’s jazz band 7 p.m. Thursday, June 9, at Music on the Plaza in the Village of Grosse Pointe.

Valente resigns from school board

Trustee Lois Valente has announced her resignation from the Grosse Pointe Public School System Board of Education effective June 30, 2016.

“Lois has always shared her thoughts and ideas in a constructive way and we have had many conversations over the years that have helped guide me in some of my decisions,” said President Judy Gafa. “Her dedication to the students has always come first.”

Valente was elected November 2011, with her term starting Jan. 1, 2012. Her term would have ended Dec. 31, 2016. She is a 20-year resident of Grosse Pointe Park and has been active in many roles in the community, including past president of the Partnership for Different Learners PTO, a PTO Council representative, on the Strategic Planning Committee and as a member of the hiring committee for the GPPSS director of student services. Valente also served as a member of the Grosse Pointe Park Little League and Medicare/Medicaid counseling volunteer for the Area Agency on Aging.

GPPSS seeks applications to fill the vacant position. A person will be appointed to fill the position through Dec. 31, and will be replaced by the individual elected to the position based on the Nov. 8 election results. The elected individual’s term begins Jan. 1, 2017.

Interested persons must submit a letter of interest and their qualifications to the district office no later than 4 p.m. Friday, June 17. Submit a letter of interest to: GPPSS Superintendent, 389 St. Clair, Grosse Pointe, MI 48230, Attn: BOE Vacancy. An online form is available under “Headlines” at gpschools.org.

The board will schedule interviews following a review of submitted materials. Questions concerning the role of the board of education and responsibilities of a board member should be directed to Dr. Gary C. Niehaus, Superintendent of Schools, at (313) 432-3003.

Scrabble game connects students

Susan Howey's reputation for innovative teaching goes beyond her fourth-grade classroom at Trombly Elementary School or the Grosse Pointe Public School System. She was one of only 10 teachers nationwide to earn second place in the Henry Ford 2016 Teacher Innovator award competition.

Teachers recognized in the competition demonstrated ingenuity and resourcefulness, approached teaching and learning creatively and used the classroom to inspire innovation, creativity, problem solving and critical thinking, according to the Henry Ford website.

A major part of Howey's teaching style is use of technology, said parent Kym Kinsley.

"She's a big believer in being connected," Kinsley said.

As an example, Kinsley described the class's mystery Skype session last month with a class in Singapore. Neither the Singapore nor Grosse Pointe students knew where their peers resided across the globe, but determined their location by asking a series of questions. Due to the 12-hour time difference, the event was held not during school, but 8 p.m. on a weeknight.

"They all came back (to school)," said Kinsley. "Every single kid. They came in their pajamas. They were chomping at the bit. They couldn't wait."

Technology is not the only way Howey connects her students. She also employs more traditional methods — like a good old-fashioned game of Scrabble. The class's monthly Scrabble parties have grown so popular, they are attended by grandparents, aunts, uncles and siblings as well as parents, said Kinsley. She even took an older sibling out of school to attend one.

Three years ago, Howey adapted the game for outdoor use. Lowe's donated the tiles and two parent volunteers used stencils and spray paint to create the 100 letters required for the game. The field behind the school provides the board.

Students are divided into teams of seven — the number of letters allotted in the game. Team members work together to decide on a word providing the most points for their team.

What started as a class competition has grown this year into an interscholastic challenge. Richard Elementary School fourth-graders participated Thursday, June 2, and Defer Elementary School students joined the competition Friday, June 3.

Trish Gout, a fourth-grade teacher at Defer, said she prepared her students for the match by using the Smartboard in her class to display the board and letters.

"When you hear the words, 'What is Scrabble?' you know you need to practice," she said. "Some of (the students) were more familiar with Words with Friends."

Students from Trombly and the visiting schools were placed together on teams rather than competing against one another.

"It's a great way to connect the kids," Gout said. "They get to know each other here before they meet again (in middle school) at Pierce."

Howey hopes to create an interscholastic league next year, with all the elementary schools in the district participating.

Liggett dedicates field in honor of former coach

University Liggett School publicly kicked off its $50 million Sure Foundations campaign Saturday, May 14, on the athletic fields. Despite high winds, rain and bitter cold, more than 250 people came out to celebrate. The event included the dedication of the girls' lacrosse and field hockey field in honor of Coach Emerita Muriel E. Brock.

The weekend also featured a host of alumni events, including a cocktail reception honoring Richard Baron, recipient of the school's Distinguished Alumni Award; a ladies lunch with speaker Nancy Barr of the Detroit Institute of Arts at the Grosse Pointe Club; the annual Ring & Founders Day ceremony featuring alumni speaker Elisabeth D'Arcy; an Arts Hall of Fame induction of actress and alumna Gilda Turner; and a guided bus tour of Detroit with faculty emeritus David Backhurst.

they continue to make poor choices."

Niehaus had two messages for students and parents. "Whatever you put on social media is permanent and there forever. And secondly, unfortunately we all make mistakes. But we can't make mistakes when we are going to offend and dishearten other human beings."

Niehaus said while the video was recorded off school property and not during the school day, it disrupted three days of school at South and affected students in the district.

"When the video goes viral it creates a chain reaction," he said. "It disrupted the Grosse Pointe Public School System and also the learning that went on during that school day I think one of the good things that's happened both in March and now is that we've drawn kids together and we've had those conversations with them There are some olive branches out there asking for forgiveness. That apology has to go out to the student body. I think our students are open to those apologies and we want to keep it that way."

The student making the offensive comments emailed Hamka acknowledging his role in the video and accepting responsibility for his actions. Hamka met with all the students involved and their parents. The investigation is ongoing, but all three students received suspensions or separations consistent with the Student Code of Conduct and in a fashion similar to the discipline administered for the earlier incident, according to Niehaus. He defined a separation as less than five days and a suspension as more than five days. Liggett upper school administration met with the Liggett student and his parents but, due to school policy, did not divulge the nature of the disciplinary action.

South's investigation revealed at least one of the students was under the influence of alcohol, Hamka said. The Grosse Pointe Farms Public Safety Department is conducting its own investigation.

"Every student involved will be disciplined," said Hamka. "Every student present in that video bears responsibility. The degree of responsibility varies, with the student making the comments being the most culpable. The student taping, the student asking the questions and the student encouraging the comments all bear responsibility and have an obligation and responsibility to put a stop to what was taking place. We expect more of our students."

Hamka said the incident may be a sign of the times.

"One of the things I have noticed is an increased amount of insensitive statements and an increased amount of tweets that are inappropriate and mirror some of the sentiments that are present in the discourse of our candidates running for office," he said. "We're seeing it. We're hearing kids say things in the hall. We keep fighting back. Just because one person is saying some of these things doesn't make it acceptable."

Going forward, Niehaus said the best thing to do is listen. "(Students are) hurt They don't feel good about what other kids are saying about them. I think they're hurt it would happen in their school. I think we as a community have to be disappointed that it happened in our community. I think when we have the opportunity to talk to them, we have to look at it as a learning situation. What can we learn from this, both as a district and as Grosse Pointe South High School?"

An impromptu student forum at lunchtime Thursday, June 2, was a starting point. During two lunch periods, 400 students filled South's Cleminson Hall to share their thoughts and feelings. Hamka set the tone, encouraging students to listen to and respect the viewpoints and experiences of others, even if they held different points of view.

"This is not about blame. It's not about shame. It's about being honest with your feelings and speaking your truth," Hamka said. "But do so with respect, sensitivity and thought."

Hamka encouraged the students to address how the most recent event made them feel and share words of support and unity. He opened it up with his own reactions.

"How did this make me feel? I was hurt. I was ashamed — even embarrassed to work at Grosse Pointe South High School. Those were some of my raw feelings."

Students expressed their anger and outrage. Many said they were offended these comments would be made in a joking manner.

"He is laughing (on the video) as if it is just a joke in spite of all the progress that has gone on," said one student. "This is the second thing that has happened at Grosse Pointe South and that is just on social media. I think forums like this are a good way to address it, but I think more needs to be done. The idea that activism needs to be polite is incorrect. I understand this is a school setting, but it's not going to get us anywhere."

Others said they were upset, but not surprised, believing racism is deeply rooted in the community.

Questions were raised about whether the video should be taken down or left up. "I think people should know that this is still going on and this is how people think," said one student.

"I'm going to leave race out of the picture," said senior Khalee Simpson. "I look at it as a crime against humanity. We're all human, obviously. It really attacks people as a whole. It's disgusting. My point is, if you leave (the video) up there, it's going to give other people the idea that it's OK to post things on social media. If you leave it up there, it stands as a symbol of hate and you can't let that happen. It's a great idea to take this down. It would really hurt me more to let it stay up there as freedom of speech. Freedom of speech, sure, but you can't let symbols of hate and injustice stay up there."

"You can't promote mass genocide on Twitter," said a sophomore. "That's not acceptable."

"I don't think the people who saw the video understand the pure hurt," said senior Melba Dearing. "They don't get it. It just needs to stop."

Hamka concluded by challenging the students to take action.

"What are you doing?" he asked. "Have you voiced your opposition? Have you voiced your support to your fellow students? My challenge to all of you is: Don't be silent. Be an ally. Social media can be negative. It can also be powerful I challenge you. Get on Twitter. Use the hashtag 'SouthUnity.' Send those positive messages. Let's get out there and show the world what Grosse Pointe South is all about."
