Judge rules in district's favor

By Mary Anne Brush
 Staff Writer

In an employment discrimination and retaliation case filed by a district employee against the Grosse Pointe Public School System, the court decided in favor of the district.

Senior U.S. District Judge Bernard A. Friedman ordered, in a May 10 ruling, the district's motion for a summary judgment be granted, concluding "no reasonable jury could find that defendant discriminated or retaliated against plaintiff based on her gender or because she took (a family medical) leave."

A summary judgment is a court order ruling that no factual issues remain to be tried and therefore all causes of action in a complaint can be decided upon without trial.

Debra Redlin, assistant principal at Parcels Middle School, filed the complaint Nov. 15, 2016, in the U.S. District Court Eastern District of Michigan Southern Division, alleging while an assistant principal at Grosse Pointe South High School, she was discriminated against on the basis of her gender under Title VII, the portion of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 that protects an individual from employment discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, sex or national origin.

Redlin claimed she was the victim of sexual harassment and discrimination during the 2014-15 school year and was transferred to Parcels Middle School for the 2015-16 school year as retaliation for filing a complaint. Moreover, she alleged discrimination and retaliation for taking a leave from Parcels under the Family Medical Leave Act. She sought economic and non-economic compensatory

Day of honor

The War Memorial welcomed some 200 guests to its grounds Memorial Day, May 28, for its annual ceremony in remembrance of lives lost. This year's event included a keynote speaker, a reading of the names of Grosse Pointe residents who sacrificed their lives for the country and a flyover by pilots from Selfridge Air National Guard Base. Pictured before the American flag backdrop, from left, are the Rev. Peter Henry, pastor of Grosse Pointe Memorial Church; Maj. Gen. Michael Stone, keynote speaker; Louis Theros, mayor of Grosse Pointe Farms; and Ted Everingham, chairman of The War Memorial Board of Directors.

Solar energy approved for Shores home

By Melissa Walsh
 Staff Writer

GROSSE POINTE SHORES — City council approved a special land use request for installation of solar panels on a house in the 600 block of Lakeshore during a public hearing Tuesday, May 15.

The approval was consistent with the recommendation submitted by the Shores Planning Commission following its April 24 meeting discussing design specifications and related building code requirements.

Planning Commission Chairwoman Mary Matuja told council the design meets requirements set by the village's ordinance regulations for residential solar panels.

Concerns by neighbors and questions by city council were addressed during the hearing on behalf of the homeowner by Mark Haggerty of Michigan Solar Solutions preceding the vote by council.

"There were some objections by some of the neighbors," Matuja said. "They had concerns about the panels, that they would reflect onto their home. However, the panels are the dark panels and do not reflect. They actually bring the light in."

During public comment, a neighbor behind the house spoke to this reflection concern. If a homeowner needs to install shrubs to block reflection from the house with solar panels, he said, then the owner of the solar-panel home should be required to pay for it.

"Any reflected light is wasted power," Haggerty said. "So one of the largest technological innovations the last several years is the ability to glean every bit of the potential of the sunlight that passes through it."

Another neighbor said he's not in favor of the solar panels due to safety concerns. He also cited an article that included a DTE claim of low return on investment with solar and wind energy structural design, arguing "little benefit from solar panels" in this region of the United

CITY OF GROSSE POINTE — The spalling concrete on Kercheval Plaza, St. Clair and Kercheval, and the southeast corner of Notre Dame and Kercheval is scheduled to be torn out and replaced with brick pavers later this summer.

"I know there will be a lot of business owners that will be glad to see this happen," Mayor Christopher Boettcher said.

Council approved Director of Public Works Pete Randazzo's recommendation Monday, May 21, to have Ferguson Landscaping remove the concrete and replace it with brick pavers.

Ferguson's bid was the lowest of three at $26,500 and comes well under the $50,000 allocated in the capital project fund for

City purchases new police vehicles

By Anthony Viola
 Staff Writer

CITY OF GROSSE POINTE — Public safety is getting a couple new rides.

Director of Public Safety Stephen Poloni requested $55,590 to purchase two new 2018

Police Interceptor Ford Explorers Monday, May 21. The new vehicles will replace the two oldest in the fleet.

"Since you passed the budget tonight, I'll be the first one to ask to spend some of it," Poloni said.

A total of $74,000 is set aside in the fiscal year

2018-19 budget for the new vehicles. The balance will be used for the needed equipment upgrades.

"I just wanted to thank Sgt. Joe Adams, who is our vehicle officer," Poloni said. "He's worked hard at keeping the prices down, reusing equipment from other vehicles even though they keep changing. They change the bumper every year on us, which means we can't reuse the bumpers. He's done a really good job at keeping those prices down for

Koi Nu Asian opens doors

By Anthony Viola
Staff Writer

CITY OF GROSSE POINTE — The doors of the long-anticipated new Asian fusion restaurant in The Village are open, albeit softly for now. But owner Tony Dao said a grand opening is planned for the not-too-distant future.

Koi Nu Asian, located at 17043 Kercheval in the old Caribou Coffee spot, offers a mix of Korean and Japanese dishes with a full sushi bar.

But, Dao said it won't be your typical Asian fusion restaurant. He said he's been talking with suppliers to bring in fish and other ingredients that aren't readily available in the area and he's not afraid to experiment.

"We want to be ourselves," he said. "We want to do our own thing. We want to take risks and work with different ingredients that no one else wants to work with."

Oftentimes, he said, chefs are hesitant to push boundaries, especially when making menus for somebody else. The fact he is the owner and he's working with his longtime friend and executive chef, Lucky Phongsavath, allows him the freedom to try new and different things.

"I felt like if I continued working for other people, I won't really be able to reach my creative (peak)," Dao said. "I'm going to be limited because I'm going to be working for someone else, creating a menu for them ... That's why I like going to restaurants that are owned by chefs, because they're really creative, taking risks, serving stuff that nobody else is serving."

His impetus is being unique. He handmade the tables from salvaged bowling alley lanes and created the bar from a solid piece of white oak. He said he spent a lot of time doing the renovation work in the restaurant by himself — proof the 33-year-old is planning on being a hands-on owner and passionate about the restaurant.

"I now know how it feels now to have a passion as your career," Dao said. "You're not working for somebody else anymore. You're your own boss. Your creativity has no limit."

Koi Nu is open 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. Sunday through Thursday and 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. Friday and Saturday. Find Koi Nu Asian on Facebook @eatkoinuasian.

States.

"With solar panels, they are actually a shield to fighting a fire," he said, asking Shores administration and council if the village's building code is current for solar-panel construction.

"The 2015 version of the Michigan residential code adopted this pursuant to the California Federation of Firefighters, who have had to deal with this for many years," said Haggerty. "And residential structures need a 6-foot set-back from the peak and need a firefighters' egress to the roof. Single-story, non-attached structures are exempt from that. ... As far as the return on investment, asking DTE what their only competitor's value is is something I would not really trust."

Public Safety Director John Schulte confirmed Shores public safety officers are trained in fighting fires in structures equipped with solar power.

"We are subject to the state construction code," City Manager Mark Wollenweber said. "We do not have the ability to deviate from those state mandates before us. So as they're updated statewide with national codes, those are adopted by the state and mandated for us to use. The building inspectors have been trained with respect to this as well."

Wollenweber confirmed Shores inspectors and officers are trained in safety measures related to solar-panel design and materials.

"So we would have to keep track of the houses with these panels?" Mayor Ted Kedzierski asked.

"We need to comply with the state code," Wollenweber responded. "We no longer have the option, as we did a number of years ago to adopt our own modification to those codes. There is one code for all of the state. And if we choose not to enforce that code locally, the state will enforce it for us."

Haggerty said technical and safety measures adopted for today's solar power include "panel-level optimization" with "rapid shut-down" capability when a building loses power.

He added homeowners opting for solar panels are required to enter into agreement with DTE to sell power to DTE.

damages, punitive damages and attorney fees and costs. She requested a jury trial.

Gender discrimination

According to court documents, Redlin argued the district discriminated against her on the basis of her gender and she received "unwarranted discipline and a demotion" compared to former South Assistant Principal Terry Flint, "who allegedly 'engaged in similar ... conduct and was neither disciplined or demoted.'" She also alleged she had a larger workload than Flint during the 2014-15 school year.

Based on Redlin's own admission her perceived mistreatment from central office administrators was not based on her gender, Friedman determined no "reasonable jury" would believe her "'discipline' and 'demotion' were motivated by gender animus."

Regarding increased workload, the record showed while Redlin and Flint each assumed additional duties in 2014-15, they "split the vast majority of duties equally." According to Friedman's summary judgment, "No evidence shows that plaintiff's workload was disprotionately larger than Flint's. Plaintiff's assertion to the contrary is based purely on her feelings and guesses, not evidence."

Retaliation

Redlin claimed after she submitted her harassment complaint, the district retaliated by evaluating her as "minimally effective" and transferring her to Parcels.

Friedman determined disciplinary actions — by Redlin's own admission — were justified and resulted in her "minimally effective" rating, with no evidence actions by the administration were retaliatory.

Testimony by Superintendent Gary Niehaus, who initiated the transfer according to court documents, indicated Redlin was transferred "to avoid staff conflict and because it appeared that South's atmosphere of trust was destroyed." While normally this move would result in a pay decrease, Niehaus testified it was his understanding Redlin would continue to be paid at the high school assistant principal rate.

Friedman determined the district's actions in making this transfer were "legitimate, reasonable and non-discriminatory."

FMLA

Redlin alleged her "effective" vs. "highly effective" rating at Parcels for the 2015-16 school year and not receiving a final review or two-year contract renewal was retaliation for taking a family medical leave. According to the summary judgment, however, evidence showed the district gave her a two-year contract and created a final review and Redlin's "impression she was being punished ... is irrelevant." Although Redlin argued she was entitled to a "highly effective" rating, she did not support this claim with evidence.

"Based on this record, no reasonable jury could find that the district retaliated against plaintiff for taking FMLA leave," Friedman concluded.

Pointers honored at 58th annual Guild Dinner

By Jody McVeigh
Editor

Since its inception 70 years ago, the Guild of St. John Hospital & Medical Center has played a critical role in the hospital's success. The Guild helped raise funds to open the hospital in 1952 and continues to support it through acts of philanthropy and community events.

To honor some of its biggest supporters, the Guild hosted its 58th annual Guild Dinner Wednesday, May 23, at the MGM Grand Detroit. More than 650 people attended the event, which set a fundraising record, said Guild President Dan Roma, of raising $185,000 in sponsorships alone.

That total adds to the more than $17 million the Guild has raised for the hospital over the years. Each year, proceeds are earmarked for specific purchases or projects. Past efforts have given the hospital CT scanners, mobile PET scanners, an emergency center, dialysis program and NICU nursery.

This year proceeds will purchase five mobile surgical beds.

The dinner was emceed by WJBK Fox 2 News reporter Roop Raj, whose aunt once worked at St. John.

In his opening remarks,

Yvette and Louis Saravolatz

Claudia and John DeWald

Nancy and Michael Timmis

Walter and Sally Cytacki

Raj noted the importance of accuracy in his job and with the Guild.

"To get it right is critical every night on television. You've got to get it right," he said. "So what is getting it right? It's putting 650 people in a room who care enough to say we need to help our community. That is getting it right. The energy in this room ... is right on. It's what Detroit is about. This community is about helping each other."

St. John President Robert Hoban also addressed the crowd.

"The Guild has raised over $17 million for the hospital. We sincerely appreciate it," Hoban said. "We really find the support of the Guild invaluable at St. John Hospital & Medical Center. Congratulations to tonight's honorees. They are all very well deserved of this recognition."

Four Grosse Pointe residents were recognized for their various achievements and support of St. John. Grosse Pointe Farms resident Walter Cytacki II was awarded the Sister Verence McQuade Distinguished Service Award.

"Receiving this award is very special to me knowing (McQuade) as well as I did," Cytacki said. "The Guild is a remarkable organization. I'm amazed at all it's accomplished over the years."

Farms resident Michael Timmis received the Philanthropic Services Award.

"I am honored to be the recipient of the Philanthropic Services Award," he said. "I am amazed at all the hard work that the members put forward reaching their goals to benefit the community. I've been a supporter of St. John for many decades. In 1994, St. John doctors saved my wife's life; therefore, I have a unique gratitude for St. John. It's a great honor to receive this recognition."

John DeWald, a CPA and Grosse Pointe Shores resident, received the Lifetime Achievement Award. He's been a member of the Guild more than 30 years and a board member more than 20.

"The Guild is a remarkable organization," DeWald said. "It's been a wonderful experience over the years working with such a wonderful group. I'm proud to be a member of this fine organization."

Lastly, the Physician of the Year Award was presented to Louis Saravolatz M.D., MACP, of Grosse Pointe Shores.

"I am truly honored to be among the other distinguished recipients," Saravolatz said. "I'm impressed by the hard work and the generosity that go toward reaching goals to benefit St. John Hospital and the community. I acknowledge my colleagues in medicine, nursing and my office staff who have helped me be successful. I thank God for the many blessings he has bestowed on me, including tonight."

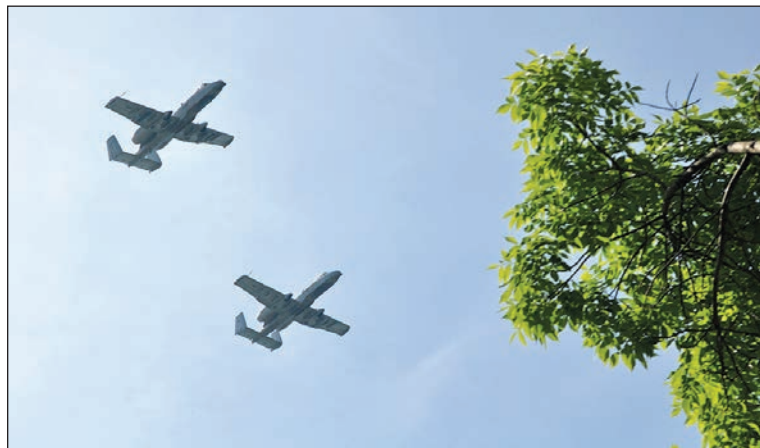

The evening concluded with the awarding of several raffle prizes, as well as a stand-up comedy set by comedian Bobby Collins.

Woods couple streams family fun

By Melissa Walsh
Staff Writer

Bill and Danielle McAllister say talk-radio media is in their DNA as a couple.

"We met on the air," Danielle said.

Danielle was performing at the Detroit Hoedown May 23, 2007, where Bill's radio show co-host, Jay Towers, was doing television work.

"I was a huge fan of Bill's radio show, so I immediately approached Jay, gushing about how much I enjoyed Bill's personality and his takes and opinions on things and his sense of humor. So Jay invited me to be a musical guest on their show."

The two soon became a couple and remain in Detroit's entertainment and media scene. Last March they launched a morning podcast from their Grosse Pointe Woods home, co-hosting their live broadcast, "At Home with the McAllisters," 8 to 10 a.m. Monday through Friday. The pair serve up friendly "water-cooler" conversation for the morning commute and early workday with no prescribed scope or agenda.

"The idea for the show is, yes, we do the show from our home and the appeal, or the draw, is that we want you, the listener, to feel like you're right there with us," Bill said. "We try to talk about what everyone else is talking about."

"We go out in 10,000 different directions, like any married couple does," Danielle said.

Metro Detroiters might call theirs a mixed marriage. Westsider Danielle Carlomusto, 39, grew up in Livonia, and Bill, 54, is an eastsider from Warren.

Today, they're Pointers raising fraternal 2-year-old twins, Amelia and Marco, who are off-camera during the live streaming but appear spontaneously on mic in the background.

"We have old Grosse Pointe hardwood floors. So you'll hear a creak or a wayward animal cracker falling through a vent," Danielle said.

The McAllisters, who moved to the Woods in 2013, said doing the show from their home supports the work-life balance they need.

"I think living in this community in particular has been helpful because you know all your neighbors," Danielle said. "Everyone has these extensive ties within the community and everyone has this allegiance to each other and it's a very tight-knit community."

Bill said going forward they plan to invite people on the show they see regularly, such as a barista at the coffee shop or an employee at the health food store.

"Because we do talk about our neighborhood," Bill said. "We talk about our community, not just metro Detroit, but our community specifically. And there's just a feel to Grosse Pointe that we don't have in other cities."

Supporting Bill's statement, Danielle sang the Sesame Street lyric, "Oh, who are the people in your neighborhood?"

Danielle is a long-time musician. Known as Danielle Car, her country/Americana tracks are available online.

"I've always been a musician. That's how we met," Danielle said.

"She does country, but her biggest influence is Queen," Bill said. "We're both huge music fans and I'd say very knowledgeable music fans."

"I tend to sequester myself within my own brain and go down in my little studio downstairs and experiment a little bit," Danielle said.

"You're like the Beatles when Sgt. Pepper's came along," Bill joked.

"I've been waiting for someone to say that," Danielle replied.

From 2007 to 2016, Bill co-hosted "The Jay and Bill Show" and "The Stoney and Bill Show" on 97.1 The Ticket.

Danielle's career includes stretches at WNIC, The Beat and WYCD.

"I remember doing interviews with my family with the little Casio tape recorder I got for my 11th birthday," Danielle said. "And I remember them being very annoyed with that little microphone. But I thought everyone had a story to tell and I wanted to record it."

Added Bill, "As a youngster myself, my brother and our friend Greg — one of us had a tape recorder — you know kids record themselves and we would recreate Detroit Tigers games. We had two bats we would click together to the sound of the bat and someone would be the play-by-play guy and another the color analyst and the other one would do the sound effects. He'd take a ball and mitt and (sound effect) 'There's the out. ... I would love to have those tapes. I don't know where they are. They're 'loong gone.'"

Outside their home studio, the McAllisters look forward to discovering more in the Pointes.

"Now that the kids are getting older, we're going to have more opportunities to explore the community more," Danielle said.

Knowing now what the community offers for parents of twin infants and toddlers, Danielle said they'll learn what the Pointes offer to parents of twins in school and extra-curricular activities.

"We adore our local library," where she takes the twins for story time, Danielle said. "And in the summer months, we love our Lake Front Park."

"Once the kids get older, I plan on coaching Little League and getting involved," Bill said, "and my daughter likes to dance a lot, so we plan on enrolling her in the local Irish dance club and ballet. We plan on being involved with all of that with them."

Danielle is active on the Grosse Pointe mom swap Facebook page, where she's connected with other women in the community.

"As a new mom, it's easy to feel isolated, especially a first-time mom. You feel like you're on an island of one and no one understands," she said. "But it seems from the time I was pregnant with them up through walking them through the neighborhood with the stroller, someone's always offered a kind word or a sympathetic ear or a pat on the back."

Danielle and Bill said they're observing interests emerging in their young children.

"They like the music we like, which is sad for them but great for us," Danielle joked.

"They're going to be the kids in school who, when in first and second grade (other kids) are talking about Arianna Grande or whomever else, say 'What about Freddie Mercury?'" Bill said.

Fraud

A fraud report was filed Saturday, May 26. The victim, a resident in the 100 block of Cloverly, was looking to purchase a vehicle on eBay for her son. The seller requested $1,500 in eBay gift cards in exchange for the vehicle. The victim bought the gift cards and read their numbers over the phone to the seller. Nine days later, the victim contacted the seller who requested an additional $1,000. The victim then contacted eBay, which informed her the account was fraudulent and she should file a police report to begin the process of a refund.

MDOP

Vandalism was reported 7 p.m. Thursday, May 24, at Grosse Pointe South High School. Two trees and a fire hydrant were spray painted. The Grosse Pointe Public School System said if the perpetrators are caught, it would press charges.

Jealous ex-lover

A dispute between a woman, her ex-boyfriend and another woman turned into a road rage incident 9:30 p.m. Thursday, May 24.

While officers were on a traffic stop on Mack near Moross, they heard yelling from a car and observed the car pull into a nearby parking lot. An officer went to investigate and was greeted with the passenger of the vehicle saying a car was chasing them. The officer observed the alleged vehicle turn onto Elizabeth Court and found the car parked in a driveway in the 400 block.

The officer approached the driveway and turned on his lights, at which time the homeowner came outside and informed the officer two unknown people were in his backyard near his garage.

Eventually, the two subjects — one male, one female — exited the backyard and approached the officer.

The female subject said they were at a party on Harvard in Detroit when her ex-boyfriend and another woman came in to give the subject keys to her car.

When they left, the subject chased after them and alleged the other woman hit her car while she was leaving.

The subject then jumped in her car and chased them to get the license plate, she said. The female subject also claimed the male subject was driving the vehicle when they pulled into the driveway. However, the male denied that claim and the female eventually admitted to driving. A LEIN search showed she had a suspended license. She was arrested and the male subject was released at the scene.

The other driver, who pulled into the parking lot and informed the officers, was eventually cited for open intoxicants when officers found an open box of Franzia in her back seat.

Farms budget up $1 million over last year

By Anthony Viola
Staff Writer

GROSSE POINTE FARMS — The Farm's fiscal year 2018-19 budget was approved by council Monday, May 14.

The $15.25 million budget is an increase of approximately $1 million over last year's.

The largest revenue increase comes in property tax collection, which pulls in $11.2 million for the city and represents 73 percent of the city's total revenue. Last year, the city collected $10.3 million in property taxes.

Millage rates increase slightly in the upcoming year to 14.95 mills, up from 14.35. The general operating millage holds steady at 11.5 mills with an increase of .5 mills in rubbish, for a total of 2.36 mills, and a .1 mill increase in the non-voted debt millage, raising it from .9834 to 1.0834 mills in 2018-19.

The millage increases will raise residents' city taxes by an average of $169, according to the budget.

The four largest city expenditures — public safety, parks and recreation, public works and service and general government — are allocated approximately $8.7 million. Public safety receives the largest appropriation of approximately $5.1 million. Parks and recreation is allocated $1.4 million, public works and service receives $1.3 million and general government is allocated approximately $1 million.

The full budget is available online at grossepointefarms.org.

OUR VIEW

A solemn occasion

This year's Memorial Week observances at The War Memorial were especially poignant. America has been in a state of war for 15 years. Consequently, six names of fallen soldiers from Afghanistan and Iraq campaigns were read this year, along with the 126 names from World War II, 16 from Korea and 19 from Vietnam.

The task of reading the names of the WWII lost was shared by Scottie Knight, Ed Lazar and Alicia Nicholson. Stephen Nicholson recited the Korean list, while Betsy Creedon shared the Vietnam list, including, in memory, John F. Willhelm. Amy Chesterton read aloud the six lost in the Afghanistan and Iraq wars. Frederick M. Maddock II was included for Meritorious Service.

(In the list of fallen soldiers printed in last week's Memorial Week edition of the Grosse Pointe News, we neglected to include four of the fallen soldiers in Afghanistan and Iraq. The complete list for Afghanistan and Iraq includes Marcus S. Bowal, Derek Ryan Capulong, Dominic J. Ciaramitaro, Joseph Trane McCloud, Peter Neesley and Scott Winter Ulrich. We apologize to their families for the omission.)

Following the reading of the names, Boy Scout Troop 96 executed the Tolling of the Bell. The Placing of the Wreath was performed by the Grosse Pointe War Memorial Veteran's Club. The Volley (rifle salute) was conducted by the 1146 Ritual Fire Team of VFW Bruce Post. Richard McClelland of the Motor City Brass Band performed "Taps," and Mary Beth Nicholson concluded the solemn ceremony with "Amazing Grace" on bagpipes.

We can think of no more mournful sound than that of "Taps" followed by "Amazing Grace" on bagpipes. Along with the Tolling of the Bell, the Rifle Salute and Retiring of the Colors, the impact was such that not a single attendee left without a tear in the eye or a lump in the throat. A universal silence hung over the crowd as they made their way to their cars and barbecues and other Memorial Day activities planned.

Fitting tribute

Maj. Gen. Michael Stone, above, commander, 46th Military Police Command; assistant adjutant general, Michigan Army National Guard deputy director; Michigan Department of Military and Veterans Affairs, was the keynote speaker at the Memorial Day observation at The War Memorial. Mary Beth Nicholson, left, played a moving rendition of "Amazing Grace" on the bagpipes to close out the ceremony.

In Flanders Fields

*In Flanders fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place;
and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly
Scarce heard amid the guns below.*

*We are the Dead.
Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn,
saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved,
and now we lie
In Flanders fields.*

*Take up our quarrel with the foe:
To you from failing hands we throw
The torch; be yours to hold it high.
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep,
though poppies grow
In Flanders fields.*

barbecues and other Memorial Day activities planned.

This year's keynote speaker was Maj. Gen. Michael A. Stone, commander, 46th Military Police Command; assistant adjutant general, Michigan Army National Guard; deputy director, Michigan Department of Military and Veterans Affairs.

The Memorial Day ceremonies began with the Advancing and Placing of the Colors, followed by Uma Singh, of the University of Michigan School of Music, singing a stirring rendition of the national anthem. The Rev. Peter J.M. Henry of Grosse Pointe Memorial Church did the invocation. War Memorial President and CEO Charles Burke welcomed those attending and introduced the keynote speaker.

In his speech, Gen. Stone touched on most of America's overseas conflicts. He noted the difference in deference paid Vietnam veterans versus the heroes of WWII. Yet, he noted that the learning experience of Vietnam taught us to be more appreciative of our veterans today.

He said many in America today believe democracy is in danger. He disagreed. While civility and civil discourse are in danger today, democracy is not, the general said.

As part of his speech, Gen. Stone read the poem "In Flanders Fields," written during the First World War by Canadian physician Lt. Col. John McCrae and the inspiration for the red poppies handed out by our Boy Scouts on Memorial Day.

He emphasized the last paragraph of the poem that was most relevant to Memorial Day:

If ye break faith with us who die, we shall not sleep, though poppies grow in Flanders fields.

Fiber optic questions

To the Editor:

The Grosse Pointe News reports votes by Pointe municipalities on joining the consortium spearheaded by Superintendent Gary Niehaus that aims to bring a fiber optic ring to the Pointes.

Where can I find the feasibility study on this proposal?

It is important taxpayers are given the opportunity to examine the actual numbers and model so they can then provide input about how their money will be spent by the district, library and cities that all take in resident tax money.

I am concerned the Grosse Pointe Public School System is going to act as the operating and fiscal agent of the ring.

Will the district need to hire additional employees, technical and financial, to oversee fiber ring operations? How will these additional overhead costs be paid out of an already limited budget?

GPPSS's mission is to provide K-12 education, not fiber ring service. The district has struggled to manage its own financial affairs in recent years.

The Board of Education has been publicly absent from project discussion and yet a district employee, our superintendent, is leading the way.

The community should seek answers to the following questions:

What specific uses for gigabit-class service does the district have and what is its demonstrable educational efficacy?

Does the current provider, Comcast, offer sufficiently higher speeds, with competitive pricing, which could provide the necessary services to the district, the library and the municipal offices?

Cold-patch woes

To the Editor:

April through November in our region provides much enjoyable time outdoors for exercise in the form of biking.

Most people know roads in (especially) Grosse Pointe Woods are in pretty bad shape and by and large there are almost no really safe roads for bicyclists. Mack Avenue and Vernier (east of Mack) are especially unsafe.

Even the limited sidewalk surface on that stretch of Vernier is basically unsafe.

Poor maintenance of Mack at the lane separations are very dangerous. But that is a Wayne County responsibility.

One of my sons had a chuckhole incident a number of years ago wherein he was rushed to the hospital to close up a 100-stitch lacerated throat from a handlebar impalement from being thrown over the bike's handlebar. That was prior to the current era of rampant litigiousness.

I personally ride upwards of 200 miles per month eight-plus months of the year, much of it in Grosse Pointe Woods.

It would appear that cold-patching is on the back burner, at least beyond the "complaint" arena.

A large cold-pack application was provided in front of my residence two or three years ago that still "holds" — it having been applied with some (either) rented machinery or seldom-used rig that appeared to be very effective as an apparent one-man-operated machine. It's the only time I've ever seen it in operation anywhere.

I realize the time constraints on DPW workers, and likely limited occasions of overtime for typical maintenance operations, all things considered in tight budgetary conditions.

But I would invite a response from the city as to what priority is given to the most onerous openings in especially residential streets, such as the gaping one at the Edmonton curve just south of Yorktown, or (especially) the ones behind the library a couple hundred feet north of the school utility truck yard.

Those holes (Sunningdale Park Drive) have been there for going on two years untouched.

I fully realize attention given heavily traveled roadways, especially in the interests of both safety and minimizing auto damage to wheels and undercarriage components.

But what about safety for bikers and/or walkers? Are we being complacent here?

Is "overtime" not an option in the face of public endangerment? Or is it perhaps that "bikers" are in the realm of minorities that outweigh a sense of relative safety?

If the city is unwilling to make a response to this letter, I would be glad to give a presentation at a future meeting of the Committee of the Whole to address this continual problem.

I SAY By Anthony Viola

I'm just here for the trebuchets

Happy summer everyone. With the official start of summer behind us, we can all take a deep sigh of relief. Winter is over. Whether you celebrated with friends and family, went up north or downtown to Movement (or Techfest or DEMF or whatever you want to call it) summer is here. And nothing says summer like playing hockey in the desert. Not only did Monday herald in the best season, it also marked the first game of what is going to be a historic Stanley Cup Finals. If the first game was any indication of what the rest of the finals will be, it's going to be good. The most lead changes of any finals game, referees forgetting they have whistles, Alex Ovechkin getting hit in the face with a puck while on the bench and a Medieval Times show to boot. What's not to love? Now, there's a lot of division on whether Vegas deserves to win a cup in its inaugural season. They should know how truly hard it is to win Lord Stanley's cup, detractors say. The team hasn't put its time in and suffered like the rest of us, with long droughts and losing seasons and mediocre years. But, it's not like they picked a high school team from somewhere in Kansas and told them they were now NHLers. Those guys are all seasoned players, many of whom have won the cup with other teams. Cast-offs for sure, but professionals. If anything I think it shows the parity in the league, that on any given night any team has a chance to win. Or maybe I'm just a despondent Red Wings fan trying to convince himself his team has a chance next year. Either way, I'm happy to give them this one. I could actually see it as some cruel joke by the hockey gods. Let them win in their first year, get their fans' hopes up, then they never win again. That sounds alright to me. But, really, I think a Vegas championship would be good for the game. Their run has pulled a lot of new fans into the sport. Scrolling through various message boards, it's great to see first-time hockey fans show an incredible enthusiasm for their team and, most importantly, for the sport. They've got the bug we here in Hockeytown know so well. Oh, and they introduced trebuchets to the sport, so we owe them for that at least.

PARKING SIGN DEVILRY: The stealing or overturning of traffic signs, which has been one of the prime pastimes of the restless youth of the community, has taken a new and more annoying bent. ◆ Office supplies, competition and organization tools for Ferry Elementary School's Science Olympiad team. Science Olympiad is dedicated to expanding the curriculum beyond the classroom in the areas of science, technology, engineering and math. ($500)

◆ Supplies needed for Parcels Middle School's robotics program to compete and attend workshops to enhance problem-solving, computer coding, website design and practical application of math skills. The Blown Fuses robotics team formed in 2013 and has competed at state and national levels. ($1,200)

plies for Grosse Pointe North High School's "Cool Down Space" and Grosse Pointe South High School's "Chill Room." These rooms provide a space at each high school for students to relieve anxiety and stress and mental health staff members to guide them through various issues, allowing them to compose themselves and return to their learning environment. ($1,000 each)

◆ 15 Chromebooks and a locking/docking station for North and South's Advanced Via Individual Determination programs. This program focuses on career and college readiness for students from the 2.5 to 3.0 grade point average range who have the ability to achieve a higher academic level, but need further college preparatory skills and concrete goals. ($8,700)

◆ Wireless probes for South science department Chromebooks. Using Bluetooth technology, these probes allow science teachers and students to interface with Chromebooks for lab data gathering and creative inquiries. ($3,945)

◆ One-year renewal of

Explore Learning Gizmos, a library of interactive online math and science simulations, at Brownell Middle School. This program helps students develop a deep conceptual understanding of STEM topics through inquiry and virtual exploration. ($2,850)

◆ Two 3D printers, three laptops and a rolling cart for the art departments at Parcels and Pierce middle schools, allowing students to be innovative and maximize their full potential. Brownell Middle School already has this technology. ($5,443)

◆ Graphing calculators for math students at Pierce to replace outdated, aging equipment. Recent technology allows for a higher screen resolution and cost-saving rechargeable batteries. ($5,110)

◆ Continuation of the Grosse Pointe Learning Network, a district-wide professional development initiative providing meaningful learning opportunities for district employees and interested community members. The Grosse Pointe Learning Network is designed to link educators across the district and content areas, allowing them to enhance instruction and learn new skills ($1,000)

North chemistry teacher honored

By Mary Anne Brush
Staff Writer

Steve Kosmas, a Grosse Pointe North High School chemistry teacher, was among those honored by the Michigan State University College of Engineering Saturday, May 5, during the 2018 Alumni Awards Banquet.

Kosmas, a 22-year veteran teacher at North, was presented the Green Apple Teaching Award. He was nominated for the award by former student Ted Supal, who graduated from MSU Engineering May 6, with a bachelor's degree in chemical engineering.

Supal, who graduated from MSU at the top of his class, credited his former teacher with his decision to pursue chemical engineering. In his remarks at the awards ceremony, Supal said Kosmas "instilled many important values that I attribute to my success in college such as excellence, leadership, creativity, ambition and humility."

"As a teacher, Mr. Kosmas challenged all his students — and especially his top ones — to be lifelong learners and this is what I have become," Supal continued. "He is not only passionate about chemistry, but also about all of STEM education. Mr. Kosmas's style of teaching has inspired me to do my very best in STEM."

Supal noted Kosmas's involvement in many after-school activities, including leader of the Chemistry Club and coach of the Science Olympiad team, and role in motivating him to join these clubs.

"He really motivated me to join these clubs and I am very grateful he did," Supal said. "The projects I worked on were not only fun, but enhanced my creativity and innovation. ... From his high expectations in the classroom, to his engagement and encouragement in engineering activities, Mr. Kosmas was important in molding and guiding me to be successful in life. Even today, I talk about my experiences in high school chemistry and Science Olympiad during job interviews. Mr. Kosmas is an excellent choice for the Green Apple award for motivational high school teachers."

Kosmas has spent the past 16 years teaching chemistry, honors chemistry, AP chemistry and organic chemistry.

The award was established in 2006 to honor K-12 teachers who inspire students to study math, science and engineering.

Lights, camera, action

TV production students from Grosse Pointe North High School traveled to Los Angeles to study TV and film production in professional settings. They toured Paramount Studios, Sony Studios and Warner Bros., visiting many working sets where production was ongoing. They also had the unique opportunity to visit mOcean, a private company producing trailers for upcoming movies, as well as Fotokem, a post production facility. The students attended a live taping of "America's Got Talent" and a presentation by professionals from varying fields in the entertainment industry, where they had the opportunity to ask questions about higher education and entry into the business. They were accompanied by TV production teacher Brian Stackpoole and parent chaperones, along with volunteer Linda Lloyd, who organized the trip.

Teacher of THE WEEK

Marisa Collins

School: Mason Elementary School
Years at Mason: 11 (19 in the district)
Grade/Subject: Technology paraprofessional for Young 5's through grade 5
Nominated by: Roy Bishop, principal
Principal's quote:

"Marisa is always willing to help out any way possible. Her drive to consistently exude positivity, work ethic and use of humor to make the most of every situation makes her a great colleague and teacher. Marisa is so much more than a computer lab teacher; she is an essential part of our Mason team."

What do you enjoy most about teaching?
I most enjoy working with the kids at Mason. Every day is unpredictable and exciting. The students' enthusiasm is contagious. They look forward to coming to the computer lab so much and I look forward to seeing them learn and become more capable with each passing day.

Describe a teaching accomplishment you're proud of or a "teachable moment" you experienced.

The change in technology has been amazing. We went from a few stand-alone computers with no internet to a building filled with technology including Chromebooks, iPads, a 21st-century classroom and a computer lab with 30 networked computers. The students have embraced the new devices at every step. They are great examples of adapting and perseverance even if things seem daunting at first. I am so proud of the progress that is made at each grade level every year.

Please share a book or person that has inspired you or your teaching.

I was fortunate to have many excellent teachers and especially loved my elementary school teachers. They made learning fun, but also set high expectations for me. I learned to approach new experiences with a positive attitude. Being successful the first time isn't always possible, but trying every time is something we all can do.

Favorite quote:

GP Theatre closes 70th season with '42nd Street'

North's Christian A. Fenton Performing Arts Center hosts eight shows

By Jody McVeigh
Editor

There's an air of nostalgia surrounding Grosse Pointe Theatre's latest production.

Not only is "42nd Street" set in the 1930s, but cast members have fond memories of the Tony Award-winning musical.

Director Don Bischoff remembers taking a date to see the show at the Masonic Temple in 1984.

"This was the first professional show I ever saw," he said, "so it's sentimental to me."

Catie Hauff, pulling double duty as choreographer and in the lead role of Peggy Sawyer, said she grew up dancing to "42nd Street."

"Now, you're not just listening to it," she said. "You're in the show, you're part of the show. It's exciting."

The production is even nostalgic for longtime theater members, as it hasn't been performed by GPT since its 1988-89 season. It's fitting, they said, such a powerful effort should close the theater's 70th season.

"I knew going in it was going to be a good production," said Tom Pagano, who played Julian Marsh in the show. "Don always puts on excellent work. It's top notch. I love to be involved in something they believe in wholeheartedly."

show," Hauff explained. "Most of the songs in this show are rehearsals for the show within the show, so they have to be better."

Of those selected, six dancers are in high school and three in college.

GPT veteran Theresa Selvaggio, who stars as Dorothy Brock, said she's impressed with the show's dancing — and the opportunity young dancers are getting through their training.

"These high school kids are learning from professionals right now," she said. "It's exciting to have professionals, but it's even more exciting to see the education happening."

Walden, has worked with Bischoff before. He said he considered that, along with his love of tap dancing and singing, when he auditioned for the role.

"I'm really impressed with the depth of the pool we have of tappers," he said. "The opening number is going to be super awesome. The tap dancing is amazing."

So is the venue, Bischoff said, noting his excitement at performing at North.

"The stage, the rigging, the pipes," he said, "we never had that privilege or opportunity (before), so this is an exciting experience for me. We have 16 different scenes

"42nd Street" hits the stage for eight performances Sunday, June 17, through Saturday, June 30, at the Christian A. Fenton Performing Arts Center at Grosse Pointe North High School.

Bischoff, who's directed several productions for GPT, learned December 2016 he'd be directing. He said he jumped at the chance to be at the helm.

"I generally like big tap-dancing shows," he said. "This was next on my bucket list. ... This is one of the more difficult dance shows we've done."

"42nd Street" is set right after the Great Depression. People are desperate for work, including a young, starry-eyed girl who leaves her home for a chance to make it on Broadway.

"It's a show within a

Hauff said rather than the typical boy-meets-girl love story, "42nd Street" is about the love of the show.

"There's so much more depth to it. I can relate to so many characters," she said. "The show within the show can have serious, meaningful moments. And then we dance on dimes (to "We're in the Money") and then get right back into the heart of it."

"It really is your emotions all over the place," Pagano added. "You laugh. There's excitement. You feel everything in a short amount of time. You're going to love this show."

With 35 cast members and more than 100 total cast and crew, "42nd Street" packs quite a punch, including a strong team of tap dancers.

"I've never seen a group of tappers like them," Bischoff said of their talent. "They're limitless with what we can do with them. I haven't seen this many excellent dancers in one show — ever."

"With any big dance show, we want to get the community involved with what's coming up," he continued. "We offered three tap workshops where people learned what's involved in this particular show."

June 6 'INSPIRE' program highlights influence of Basquiat

In honor of the Grosse Pointe Artists Association's 80th annual Members' Show, the GPAA is launching a lecture series to serve as a platform for members to share what inspires their creativity.

"INSPIRE: Angelo Sherman on Basquiat" takes place 7 p.m. Wednesday, June 6, at the art studio at The War Memorial, 32 Lakeshore, Grosse Pointe Farms.

Sherman's work has won many awards, including a gold medal from the Scarab Club. As part of the INSPIRE series, he will share his thoughts on the "fine artist with street cred," Jean-Michel Basquiat. Last year a Japanese billionaire paid $110.5 million for an untitled work by Basquiat, making it the priciest work ever sold by a U.S. artist.

Sherman has prepared an informative and fun presentation on Basquiat. For instance, because Basquiat is known for using found objects, Sherman will use a wooden fence as the canvas for his demonstration painting during the event.

The 80th annual Members' Show can be seen at The War Memorial daily 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. through Sunday, June 24. For more information, call (313) 881-3454.

Welcome back, birds!

The Edsel & Eleanor Ford House hosted Welcome Back Birds May 5, with bird-themed crafts and activities. The event featured education and activity stations, a Detroit Audubon lecture, bird walks by Rosann Kovalcik of Wild Birds Unlimited, Grosse Pointe Woods, a birds of prey demonstration with the Leslie Nature Center and a DNR Outdoor Adventure Center program.

Lannis Smith with the Leslie Nature Center talks about the red-tailed hawk she's holding.

Lannis Smith talks about the American kestrel, the smallest and most common North American falcon, which hunts from perches and often hovers to watch for prey such as grasshoppers and small mammals.

Danny Dawes finds his wing span is the same as a blue heron.

Tuesday Musicale hosts violin prodigy June 6

Students admitted free of charge

The Tuesday Musicale of Detroit, whose mission is "promoting musicians of today and nurturing young artists of tomorrow," hosts a concert featuring 15-year-old violin prodigy Miray Ito at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, June 6, at The War Memorial, 32 Lakeshore, Grosse Pointe Farms.

Ito earned first prize at the Kocian International Violin Competition in the Czech Republic, where she was hailed as "sovereign on stage." She also was selected to compete in the world-renowned Menuhin International Violin Competition in Geneva, Switzerland this past April. There, she was selected as one of 10 semi-finalists from 317 contestants.

The concert is an important event for Tuesday Musicale of Detroit, said its president, Dina Winter. In an effort to reach a widespread audience, Tuesday Musicale of Detroit is waiving its admission fee for students.

"Please spread the word," Winter said. "Bring your friends and be a part of this rare and exciting event. A beautiful afterglow celebrating the young artist will follow the concert. All are invited."

Cost for adults is $25. Tickets may be ordered at warmemorial.org/arts or call (313) 885-7882.

ASK THE EXPERTS By David Gilboe

Slowing the process of age-related memory loss

Q: Sometimes I worry about my memory. I know everyone says memory gets worse with age, but is that true? If so, is there anything I can do?

A: We all have skips in our memory sometimes — misplacing keys, forgetting appointments. As we age, we wonder if these small lapses in memory are signs of something more serious, like Alzheimer's or dementia.

While not everyone will develop dementia or Alzheimer's, some memory loss is common as we age. That said, we can reduce age-related memory loss and improve how our brains work. Here are five excellent tips from the Mayo Clinic and the American Psychological Association:

- ◆ Stay mentally active. Mental activity can keep your brain in better shape and this can be done in a variety of ways. You can do mind games, like crossword puzzles, or computer training games designed to improve mental acuity. You can learn a new language. Even volunteering can keep your brain active.

- ◆ Be social. Participating in social activities can help reduce depression, which can contribute to memory problems. It also improves longevity of life and overall health.

- ◆ Train your brain.

When you learn new things, try using mnemonics, acronyms and associations to remember them. Mnemonics use words to remember a sequence; acronyms simply use the first letter of every word; associations create a visual link to a name or location.

- ◆ Sleep well.

A lack of sleep can create cognitive problems. It is always in your best interest to seek help if you have trouble sleeping.

- ◆ Be physically active.

There are many reasons to exercise — physical activity can reduce the risk of a variety of diseases and improve your health physically and mentally. It also has been shown to provide a variety of mental benefits, including improving memory, increasing cognition in older patients and reducing brain shrinkage. A physical therapist can help you identify exercise activities that are a match for your fitness level and physical condition.

flying in, so you can really use your imagination. Before we were restricted to what we could do."

This is the first time GPT has performed at North's performing arts center; the troupe has spent this season traveling to different venues as it awaits a permanent home. North is the biggest venue GPT has seen in recent years.

"We have often sold out previous houses," Selvaggio said. "I'm pretty excited about not saying 'no' for our big, splashy, spring musical.

"We really appreciate the patrons following us along as we travel through the community," she added. "They've been vocal about telling us to keep at it. It's not been easy, but the product is good and patrons are happy."

Added Patricia Ellis, GPT publicist, "I think they will be exceptionally happy with this show."

Selvaggio agreed, calling "42nd Street" a "patron

pleaser."

"That's so important to us," she said. "People will be jumping from their seats with the huge tap numbers that are phenomenal. We embrace the community. We've gotten incredible support and we won't disappoint."

First-time costumer Stephanie Butler and her team have assembled more than 240 costumes — with corresponding shoe pairings — that are true to the show's era.

"The costumes are beautiful. We went all out," Bischoff said. "There are a lot of costumes in the building, but they don't have the pizzazz I was looking for."

Bischoff said he's anxious to see the audience's reaction, while Selvaggio said she's most looking forward to opening night.

"The electricity we get from hearing a laugh or a clap, they have no idea the impact they have on us," Selvaggio said. "The opening number? Total goosebumps."

"There's a lot they're going to like," Pagano said. "There's so many unexpected things I didn't see coming. When the entire company comes in — goosebump moment. You don't expect that — from out of nowhere the singing and dancing envelop you. It's an inspiring moment."

Added Ellis, "This is a production people can feel proud of — both onstage and in the audience. People can't believe we're a community theater. ... Everybody leaves feeling great. The cast is going to give that feeling to the audience and the audience gives it right back to the cast and crew."

Selvaggio said "42nd Street" is a great family show — the perfect way for parents to introduce their children to theater.

"If you're looking for something to do in June, this is the perfect event," she said. "You'll be happy you came."

The Lake House hosts Cancer Survivor Celebration

The Lake House, 23500 Pare, St. Clair Shores, hosts a Cancer Survivor Celebration 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, June 5. The event features special guest and clinical social worker, Marla Ruhana, as well as a light supper and door prizes.

"Our mission is to support the cancer community throughout metro Detroit," said Lake House Director Madeline Bialecki. "We have many impactful members and volunteers who are cancer survivors that we want to highlight at this celebration. In fact, often our members are so invested in The Lake House that they volunteer to help their peers as well. The cancer journey is never truly over, but it's important to celebrate survivorship with the support of a community that understands every impact of this disease."

Ruhana learned she carried the genetic mutation for breast cancer in 2013. At the event, she will share what it was like to know she was BRCA2 positive and how she opted for prophylactic mastectomies. Ruhana is a private practice therapist and adjunct faculty member at Wayne State University, where she teaches about grief and loss, as well as cognitive behavioral therapy. She has more than two decades of social work experience in medical and clinical settings. Additionally, she was featured in the documenary film, "Pink & Blue: Colors of Hereditary Cancer."

Attendees are welcome to bring a dish or dessert to pass. To RSVP, call (586) 777-7761 or email programs@milakehouse.org.

The giving of the law

A few weeks ago, I was invited to a local Detroit church to participate in its worship service. It was Pentecost and the liturgy reflected this time. Actually, in Judaism, this is called the holiday of Shavuot, or the feast of weeks. It is a harvest holiday that occurs 50 days after the beginning of Passover. As Jews, or Hebrews, adopted a less agrarian lifestyle, the holiday changed its character, slightly.

With much scholarly argument and consultation with scriptural texts, the rabbis concluded this was also the day the Torah, or law, was given on Mt. Sinai. So, an old harvest festival became imbued with new meaning — not an unusual practice in the religious life of all faith traditions.

When I returned home, I picked up a book of Hebrew mythology. There, in those pages, were the same injunctions and speculations about the nature of our world, universe and man's place in it. In fact, it traced these ideas backward into Sumarian, Akkadian, Canaanite and other cultures' writings. Often, their scriptures bore an uncanny resemblance to those of the Bible we find so familiar. In reading these ancient writings, it was reassuring to note that we, human beings, are not so very different from our ancestors. We certainly have more gadgets to occupy ourselves, but the base concerns about our behavior toward our fellow man and our creator have not really changed. Love, awe, respect, the rule of law and ethics ring similar. Yes, there are differences and we should respect them. They, the injunctions of scripture, are and have been a blueprint for how to live well on G-d's earth. In sum, we must respect our fellow man to truly honor G-d.

A student, according to the philosopher Martin Buber, asked his rabbi, "Why do we call this day, Shavuot, the day of the giving of the law rather than the receiving of the law?" The master replied, "The giving of the law was at Mt. Sinai. The receiving of the law must be done every day by each of us."

We can all hope to build a better world for ourselves with awareness and recognition of our debt to those who came long before.

Ready to rock summer at the library

By Melissa Rizer
Guest Writer

Summer will be here soon and Grosse Pointe librarians have been working hard to put together a summer reading program for children, teens and adults. This year's theme — "Libraries Rock!" — takes on a variety of topics and the library will host events to help participants learn, grow and have fun all summer. Because libraries do rock, the library will offer many different fun activities and incentives for all ages. In addition to hosting a traveling paleontology exhibit, there will be magic shows, musical concerts, cool sporting events, crafts, story times, visits to parks and more. All programs are free of charge.

Registration for the "Libraries Rock!" Summer Reading Program begins Friday, June 1, for both kids and adults. The library will host an end-of-school, celebration-of-summer reading kick-off party at our Central Branch 1 to 3 p.m. Friday, June 15. The party is co-sponsored by the Grosse Pointe News and Grosse Pointe Library Foundation. This year, we will have a fun bounce house, face painting, crafts, sign-up opportunities and Wally's Frozen Custard. If you can't make it to the kick-off, you can sign up anytime starting June 1, in the library or on our GPPL website, gp.lib.mi.us. The summer reading program runs through Saturday, Aug. 11.

Participants in the "Libraries Rock!" summer reading program track their reading progress by minutes on a written log or through the Beanstack database, available on the library's website. Once they log their reading or have a librarian log it for them, they earn tickets they can use to enter for end-of-summer prize drawings for LEGOs, cool science baskets, ginormous candy baskets, tickets to Cedar Point and an iPad. In addition, the library will collaborate with the Grosse Pointe Public School System to help keep students learning and growing throughout the summer. Reading and math databases students use throughout the school year will be accessible from public library computers. There also will be incentives for students who participate and visit their libraries during summer once school begins this fall.

For more details about the summer reading program, visit any of our three branches or log onto our website, gp.lib.mi.us. We look forward to having a rocking summer in Grosse Pointe!

Grosse Pointe Pride March is June 9

Welcoming Everyone Grosse Pointe hosts the second annual Grosse Pointe Pride March 9:30 a.m. Saturday, June 9, in conjunction with National Pride Month. The objective is to raise awareness and show support for the LGBTQA community in Grosse Pointe, as well as those considering the area for shopping, dining, recreation and living.

Attendees are invited to gather for the family-friendly march 9:30 a.m. in the Grosse Pointe South High School "J" parking lot along Fisher Road and proceed along Kercheval to Maire Elementary School. Before the march, merchandise will be available for purchase and activities offered, including face painting. The event concludes with a brief rally 11 a.m. in the Maire parking lot, featuring food trucks and a performance by a community choir.

Last year's inaugural Grosse Pointe Pride March was a success as more than 1,000 community members and families attended to march, gather and show support for friends and neighbors.

"We were so thrilled with the turnout last year and the positive impact it had on our community, it was not even a question of whether we would make this an annual Grosse Pointe tradition," said Andrea Joy, We GP LGBTQA Task Force leader. "Once again, we have a diverse and far-reaching committee of volunteers, including students from the local schools who have been working to organize the event, and we are looking forward to seeing another great show of support from the Grosse Pointe community. It will be a very positive, fun and family-friendly day for everyone."

Proceeds from this year's event benefit the Ruth Ellis Center in Highland Park, whose mission is to provide short- and long-term residential safe space and support services for runaway, homeless and at-risk lesbian, gay, bi-attractional, transgender and questioning youth. Mark Erwin-McCormick, the center's director of development and advancement, speaks at the rally after the march.

"We are still living in a world where almost half of all LGBT youth do not feel safe in their communities and where LGBT youth are twice as likely to be physically assaulted in school," Joy said. "An organization such as the Ruth Ellis Center is such an important refuge for our at-risk youth and its guiding principles and mission are perfectly in line with Welcoming Everyone Grosse Pointe. We are so pleased to be able to support them with this event."

New this year is the community choir performance. Community members interested in being a part of the choir or who want to help with the march in any way should contact We GP through its website — we-gp.org — or find "Grosse Pointe Pride March by We GP" on Facebook.

Additionally, Posterity Framing & Printing serves as the event's official "Pride Selfie Station," offering selfie prints on site against a themed backdrop.

We GP is organizing several events in support of Grosse Pointe Pride, including a yoga class at Full Lotus Yoga in Grosse Pointe Woods 6 p.m. Friday, June 1. The day of the march, Posterity Framing & Printing hosts a wine-tasting event 2 to 4 p.m. with fellow sponsor SOIF de, followed by a Paint & Sip party at 4 p.m. All proceeds benefit We GP and the Ruth Ellis Center.

Attendees are encouraged to continue their Pride celebrations at other local festivals, including Motor City Pride, a weekend-long festival at Hart Plaza in Detroit the same week. The Motor City Pride March starts noon Sunday, June 10, at Hart Plaza. Ferndale Pride hosts a march Saturday, June 2. More details on these events may be found at motorcitypride.org and ferndalepride.com.

Grosse Pointe Pride March is sponsored by 34 businesses and individuals, including O'Flaherty's Irish Bar, Park Grill Mediterranean, Posterity Framing & Printing, SOIF de and steinerprinting.com.

Griesbaum joins 800 win club

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

Dan Griesbaum will enjoy this moment forever.

The long time Grosse Pointe South baseball manager earned his 800th career win last weekend when his Blue Devils beat Plymouth 12-2 in the first game of the annual Grosse Pointe Invitational.

Griesbaum was able to win the game in front of the home fans who packed Grosse Pointe South to watch the momentous occasion.

"This just isn't about my name on the banner, but about all the players, my assistant coaches, families and Grosse Pointe community," Griesbaum said.

Davis Graham blasted a home run and drove in two runs, while Jacob Hinkle had two hits, including a triple, three runs scored, one RBI and one walk. Drew Maccagnone also had two hits and drove in two runs.

Steve Cavera drove in three runs to help Nate Budziak earn the win on the mound, pitching 4 1/3 innings, giving up three hits, two earned runs, six walks and six strikeouts.

Ben Lemanski pitched the final 2/3 innings, striking out one.

Each team scored two runs in the first inning, but the Blue Devils added five in the second, two in the fourth and three in the fifth as the Blue Devils won via the mercy rule.

South lost the next game 9-0 to Northville, the invitational champion, and then traveled to city rival Grosse Pointe North to finish the invite.

South fell behind 4-1 after three innings, but pounded the ball in the final three innings to cruise to an 11-4 victory. It gave the Blue Devils a 2-0 record against the Norsemen this season.

"For the most part, our bats have been great," Griesbaum said. "We are getting contributions from a lot of players on this team, especially since we had a couple of injuries. (Joey Naporano) Nap has stepped up since (Cam) Shook went down. He battled today to help us get the win."

"We got outplayed today," North head coach Frank Sumbera said. "We got outplayed in every game and that has to change moving forward."

The Norsemen had control of the game, scoring two runs in the bottom of the first, and added two more in the third. Ryan Shanley, Jack Kensora and Dominic VanDoorne had key hits.

The Blue Devils got on the board in the third inning when Cavera hit a long solo home run, but they took control with a five-run fourth.

Cam Mallegg drove home a run with a double, Conor McKenna singled home a run, and Giovanni Lufty had the big hit, a three-run homer to give the Blue Devils a 6-4 lead.

Graham hit a three-run homer in the fifth inning as the Blue Devils padded their lead, and they added two more runs in the sixth inning as Joey Dimambro doubled home a run and Hinkle singled home a run.

The Blue Devils finished with 13 hits, including three homers and three doubles, off four Norsemen pitchers. Hinkle, Maccagnone, McKenna and Cavera each had two hits.

Naporano was the winning pitcher, giving up seven hits, three walks, three hit batters, and four strikeouts.

For North, Nik David took the loss, while Kensora, Louis Cardinale and Nic Good also pitched.

Shanley, Kensora and Matthew Mazzola had two hits apiece to lead the offense.

In their other two games in the invitational, North lost 10-2 to Northville and 5-2 to Plymouth to stand 20-10 overall. North played Fraser earlier in the week and won 7-3.

South had a busy few days leading up to the invitational.

The Blue Devils lost 6-1 to Chippewa Valley and 10-9 to Birmingham Brother Rice, and beat L'Anse Creuse North 3-2 and Utica Ford 13-9 to see their record move to 24-11 overall.

Showcase

It's time to register for the 21st annual Michigan High School Baseball Showcase held Wednesday, Aug. 1, at Grosse Pointe North and Grosse Pointe South high schools.

The Grosse Pointe Baseball Organization, established by former Detroit Tiger Dave Bergman, is sponsoring this event. The showcase provides an opportunity for Michigan's top high school players, who have the desire and ability to play at the next level, to showcase their skills in front of Midwest college coaches and pro scouts. The showcase fills fast, so it is important to register as soon as possible.

Net profits go to the Grosse Pointe Redbirds baseball teams ages 13 to 18.

The cost is $250 and a signed waiver is needed. Interested participants can sign up and obtain more details at michiganbaseballshowcase.com or via the Redbirds website at gpredbirds.com.

An early bird discount is available for those who register prior to June 30.

The showcase format begins with skills competition from 8 to 11 a.m. at Grosse Pointe South and includes infield, outfield, pitching, catching, running, throwing and bat speed. The 104 players will be divided into 12- to 13-man teams, led by high school coaches, for afternoon games. Games will be played at both Grosse Pointe North and Grosse Pointe South high schools.

Sign in and uniform pickup is from 5 to 8 p.m. Tuesday, July 31, at Grosse Pointe North High School. Jerseys are provided and players need to bring their own white or gray baseball pants, socks, catching gear, helmet and bat. Participants will wear their high school baseball cap.

The Grosse Pointe North boys lacrosse team earned its spot in a Division 2 regional championship game after crushing St. Clair 16-3 last week.

The game was played at Warren Cousino and the Norsemen, the No. 1 seed in the regional, used their superior firepower to overwhelm the Saints.

Max Payton led the way offensively, scoring seven goals and drawing one assist for eight points, and Brendan Bergeron had three goals and four assists for seven points.

Ben Hartley and Chris Lorelli each scored two goals, while Marco McMann had a three-point night with one goal and two assists.

Adding their name to the offensive statistic sheet were Connor Obermok, one goal; Anthony Oliver, one assist; and Anthony Romanelli, one assist.

Knights edge DLS

The University Liggett School boys lacrosse team had a tough path to a Division 2 regional title game, trying to beat Warren De La Salle in the semifinals.

The Knights, the No. 2 seed, lost to the No. 3 seed Pilots a couple of weeks ago, but head coach Mike Costanzo and his players did their homework to be better prepared for this crucial game.

The Knights jumped out to a 6-0 lead, watched the Pilots battle back, but in the end advanced to the championship game with a 14-12 victory.

"In the first game, their face-off guy won every possession," Costanzo said. "This time, we put a lot of long poles on the wings to make it hard for them to pick up loose balls on the face-offs and we finished shots. Our best players stepped up."

The Knights held a 9-4 lead midway through the third quarter before the Pilots whittled away at the deficit, making it a 10-8 game early in the fourth quarter.

Spencer Warezak scored two straight goals to give the Knights a 12-8 lead and each squad tallied to make it a 13-9 game with time running out in the final stanza.

It was 14-10 with two minutes left. The Pilots added two goals to the final score, but it was too little, too late and the Knights avenged the previous loss to De La Salle.

Warezak led the way with six goals and two assists for eight points, while Alex Johnson had three goals and five assists for an eight-point game.

Danny Bowen contributed two goals and three assists, and the trio of Tommy Van Pelt, Harry Durno and Tommy Campau had a goal apiece.

Henry Combs was huge in net, making 18 saves, as Liggett improved to 15-3 overall.

Knights fall at Comerica

By John McTaggart
Special Writer

The University Liggett School baseball team had an unusual week.

For starters, the team spent Tuesday, May 22, at Comerica Park, enjoying the Catholic High School League championship games. The Knights were not eligible for the title game this season given it's the program's first year in the CHSL.

After watching Warren De La Salle beat Orchard Lake St. Mary's, the Knights squared off against one of the top teams in Division 3, Traverse City St. Francis, in what was billed as a showcase game for baseball fans who made the trek to Comerica Park.

St. Francis sent lefty Casey Peterson to the hill against the Knights, while ULS countered with Alec Azar.

In short, Peterson was terrific, no-hitting the Knights through the first five innings and allowing his Gladiator teammates to score three runs on Azar in the third inning.

The trio of runs bounced Azar from the game, and saw Liggett skipper Dan Cimini hand the ball over to veteran hurler, Anthony George, who squashed the St. Francis rally and gave his squad a chance to battle back.

Peterson remained a mystery to the Knights, who uncharacteristically could only muster a pair of hits in the contest, while striking out eight times.

Liggett threatened in the sixth and seventh innings, but untimely strike outs and the inability to get a key hit with runners in scoring position was the difference-maker.

The loss was a rare one for Liggett, and set the stage for a showdown with De La Salle a couple of days later.

The Knights surrendered a pair of runs to the Pilots in the seventh inning, falling 4-3 to drop their record to 22-5 overall.

Grosse Pointe South girls softball team completed its Macomb Area Conference Blue Division schedule last week, playing Marine City.

The Blue Devils hosted the Mariners. The game was played in a constant rain, and in the end the Blue Devils lost 16-4 to finish 0-9 in the division.

Head coach Bill Fleming and his Blue Devils started strong, leading 2-0 after the first inning. Margaret Kramer walked and scored on Lauren Sancya's double. Sancya scored on a Colleen Morris single.

Marine City scored five runs on six hits in the top of the second inning, but the Blue Devils got a run back in the bottom of the inning when Lauren Sicksteel singled, took second on an errant throw and moved to third on a fielder's choice. She scored when Kendall Volpe singled.

Sancya held the Mariners in check for the next two innings, but in the fifth the visitors added six runs. Caroline Gallagher pitched in relief and was hit for five runs in the top of the sixth inning as the Mariners built a comfortable lead.

In the bottom of the sixth, Mackenzie Ford doubled and scored on Adriana Agosta's single.

Sancya suffered the loss, while the offense was led by Ford, who had two hits.

The following day South hosted Harper Woods Chandler Park Academy and won 7-0 to improve to 11-17 overall.

Julia O'Halla led the way at the plate, collecting two hits and driving in three runs. Sancya and Kramer also had two hits. On the mound, Agosta tossed a two-hitter, striking out 13.

One wins; two ousted

Head coach Lauren Nixon has seen her youthful Grosse Pointe North girls lacrosse team steadily grow this season.

The Norsemen have struggled at times, but their overall play increased as they prepared to host Utica Eisenhower in a Division 1 pre-regional game last week.

The Norsemen played one of their best halves of the season, but couldn't sustain the momentum in the second half of an 18-9 loss.

"I'm really proud of the ladies," Nixon said. "They played a great game and dominated at times in the first half. We are very young and inexperienced, but I could see them improve."

"This is something positive to build on for next season."

The Eagles scored 23 seconds into the game, but the Norsemen came right back and tied it on a goal by Bella Welke.

It was 3-1 Eisenhower when the Norsemen took over control of the game. They tied it 3-3 with goals by Lainey Aldridge and Isabella Nepi.

The home team had

South's Emery Mathews, right, and her teammates advanced.

several chances to take the lead, but couldn't get that elusive goal.

The Eagles grabbed a 5-3 lead, but once again the Norsemen stormed back to tie it 5-5 when Eleanor Martinez and Zoe Thompson tallied.

The home team was playing well and had a ton of confidence heading into the half behind 6-5 as the Eagles scored with 50.5 left before intermission.

The Eagles took charge, scoring the first five goals of the second half as the one-goal lead turned to 11-5 with 19 minutes left.

Kate Bessert scored two second-half goals, while Aldridge and Meaghan McSkimming also tallied in the final 18 minutes for the home team.

Ally Saigh played well in net, making more than a dozen saves.

North finished 0-13 overall.

South results

Grosse Pointe South advanced in the Division 1 regional playoffs after beating host Troy Athens 20-12 last week.

It was the second time this season the Blue Devils beat Athens. Now the Blue Devils get a second chance at Bloomfield.

South is 6-10 overall.

Liggett results

In the Division 2 regional playoffs, University Liggett School finished its season with a 21-4 loss to Farmington Hills Mercy.

Ella Karolak led the Knights with three goals, and Mila Filipof had one. Allie Quint had eight saves as the Knights ended 4-8-1.

Rally falls just short

By Bob St. John

The Grosse Pointe North girls softball team had a chance to earn a walk-off win over visiting Utica last week.

The Norsemen trailed 4-2 heading to the bottom of the seventh inning.

Head coach Ron Smith watched his squad fight back as Brenna Marsin led off with a single and Lynlee Duquet followed with a single to put runners on first and second with no outs.

Rachel Liagre ripped a ball down the left-field line, scoring Marsin, but instead of having runners on second and third, the runners moved up only one base.

This proved costly as the Chieftains turned a rare 1-5-3 double play and the pitcher recorded the final out when Samantha Bastien hit one right back through the middle, but it sailed right into her mitt and the Norsemen lost 4-3.

Marsin led the offensive attack with three hits, while Duquet and Liagre each had two hits.

Dylan Cardinale had a two-run homer in the bottom of the first inning to give the Norsemen a 2-0 lead.

The Chieftains scored a run in the top of the second inning and added three in the fourth to build the 4-2 lead.

The Norsemen had their chances, but left two runners on in the second, the bases loaded in the third and the bases loaded in the fifth.

Rebecca Alway suffered the loss, and Sydney Brumme pitched in relief.

The day before, North finished its Macomb Area Conference Blue Division schedule with a 10-0 road loss to champ L'Anse Creuse.

The Norsemen finished 3-7 in the MAC Blue.

Guest column

MICHIGAN HIGH SCHOOL ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

Grades matter

Many parents are trying to live the dream through their sons and daughters — the dream of landing a college athletic scholarship by specializing in a sport year-round. Unfortunately, most of these dreams are never realized.

The odds of a sports scholarship paying for even a portion of a student's college education are miniscule.

The College Board, a not-for-profit organization comprised of 6,000 of the world's leading educational institutions, reports that a moderate cost for college students who attend a public university in their state of residence is $25,290 per year.

The annual cost at a private college averages $50,900.

Meanwhile, the most recent data from the NCAA reveal the average Division 1 athletic scholarship is worth only $10,400.

More significantly, the same study shows fewer than 2 percent of all high school athletes (1 in 54) ever wear the uniform of an NCAA Division 1 school.

Even if the dream is realized, parents likely will spend more money for club sports than ever regain through college athletic scholarships. Thanks to the costs of club fees, equipment, summer camps, playing in out-of-state tournaments and private coaching, youth sports has become a $15 billion-per-year industry.

There is an option, and it's a financially viable one: Encourage your sons and daughters to play sports at their high school.

In education-based high school sports, student-athletes are taught, as the term implies, that grades come first.

The real life lessons that students experientially learn offer insights into leadership, overcoming adversity and mutual respect that cannot be learned anywhere else.

Unlike club sports, coaches in an education-based school setting are held accountable by the guiding principles and goals of their school district.

While there is a belief that the only way to get noticed by college coaches is to play on non-school travel teams year-round, many Division 1 football and basketball coaches recently stated they are committed to recruiting students who have played multiple sports within the high school setting.

In addition, by focusing on academics while playing sports within the school setting, students can earn scholarships for academics and other talents — skill sets oftentimes nurtured while participating in high school activities.

These scholarships are more accessible and worth more money than athletic scholarships.

While $3 billion per year is available for athletic scholarships, more than $11 billion is awarded for academic scholarships and other financial assistance.

Without a doubt, your sons and daughters will have more fun, make more friends and be better prepared for life beyond sport by participating in multiple sports and activities offered by the high school in your community.
