Washington, D. C. was the goal for Jim Dunham, and his father, Mr. Bert Dunham, when they motored from the Pointe last Saturday to see the sights of the capital and have a brief visit with relatives.

Mary Ann Swift, Alva Melander, Jean Parrish, Bill Chase, Key Alcham, Doug Putnam, Nellie Hersh, Don Reid, Marilyn Nette, Conrad Williams, Joan Hubbard, Ray Donaldson, Catherine Shilton, Jack Culp, Mary Thompson, Don Moore and Charles Lee were guests at something most exciting in the line of scavenger hunts at Dunham Lee Henderson's home on Yorkville Friday eve. After counting the Pointe for the desired booty, the crowd wound up the evening with dancing and general frolic.

By the way of celebrating their graduation from Grosse Pointe High, Combe Arunday and a gang of her friends gathered at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club Friday morning when Combe entertained at a late breakfast party.

The breakfast was given for Combe by Mrs. Victor Blum. A buffet was centered by a large arrangement of spring flowers and similar bouquets were used on the small tables where places were marked for four and six persons.

Among those who attended the party were Mrs. Norton J. Thomas, of Milwaukee, Combe's aunt, Pat Wunsch, Pat Wunsch, Julie McFarlin, Gayle Horn, Billie Boydell, Sally Wecker, Pat Coulter, Johnny Parker, Tom Candler, Tom Coulter, Bob and Tom Fong, Bill Blum, and Bob Scott.

The Spring dancing recital of Miss Mary McKenney took place in the Pierce Auditorium Saturday evening. Scene entitled "Under the Sea," "In an Artists Studio," "America, the Morning Post," and "Salute to America" were portrayed by the dancers.

Little Johnny Herke's dance in the first scene was applauded as the little boy took the lead of a gold fish named "Glo" and performed her routine beautifully.

The "Pink Sea Shell" and Elaine Bahrer, Patricia Burns, Barbara Comstock, Patricia Burns, Mary Ann Morgan, and Diane Thomas, were dancers of beautiful line-dances in their pink ballet skirts and pink hair ribbons.

Dorothy Whit, assistant to Miss McKenney, was seen in several solo parts, first that of the "Princess Pearl" then in an exhibition with Robert Erwin, and as a soloist in the "Star and Stripes" number.

The second scene found an artist, in his studio painting a lovely model. The "points" too danced, the "points" being Blanche Barley, Patricia Burns, Mary Ann Morgan, and Diane Thomas, were dancers of beautiful line-dances in their pink ballet skirts and pink hair ribbons.

When the artists fall asleep, figures dance in this scene. Probably the most unusual part of the scene were the Famous Portraits. "A Boy with a Tobacco" was portrayed by Joy Chamberlain, "Pinkie" was the role of Diane Thomas, and Mary Ann Morgan was seen as the "Age of Innocence." In each case, the curtains parted to find the figure posing as a portrait, and then to dance.

Miss McKenney's unusual portrayal in "There is a Vision in America" was set off with unusual lighting effects, going from dusk to full dawn in color. The dance was a tribute to "America, the Morning Post," which had each country represented by dancers.

The final scene, the "Salute to America," found the stage glittering with red, white and blue. Many of the performers of the evening returned to the stage to the final curtain call, and the very last thing on the program was a salute from every dancer on the stage.

Mrs. Leland M. Shook accompanied nearly all the dancers, and Fred Whit's variety trio supplied special music for the rumba, conga, and tango.

After the program, dancing was held in the gymnasium and many of the dancers received flowers for their performances.

Mr. Norton lives his Ruth and Raymond, his son and older daughter, with him in the East. His younger daughter, Sally, is studying here. The live trio left the Pointe the middle of last week, and headed for Hartford, Conn.

Tribute Paid Van Kleeck At Farewell Luncheon

Without the energy and enthusiasm of Dr. E. R. Van Kleeck, Grosse Pointe's recently-resigned superintendent of schools, the John D. Perno Junior High School might never have been built, Charles A. Parrells, president of the Board of Education, told those at a farewell luncheon given Dr. Van Kleeck Thursday by 300 school teachers and patrons.

Revealing for the first time how closely collapse of the plan for the junior school had been averted, Mr. Parrells said that 48 hours further delay in the complicated negotiations for the land bought for the school would have lost the United States Government grant of more than $200,000.

Burmington Overstake, "Dr. Van Kleeck rallied us all to surmount the obstacles," Parrells declared. "Then he led our bond leave campaign with such success that it was not only approved by the voters, but carried by a huge majority. No such majority had ever before been attained for a school proposal."

Mr. Parrells attributed to the same energy other improvements in the public schools.

"Never before have the schools been so highly regarded," he said. "Never before have the people supported us so well. We cannot overestimate the value to the schools of this service."

Bartlett Adds Praise Work of the superintendent, who recently resigned to become assistant commissioner of education in New York State, was also praised.

By Lynn M. Bartlett, director of the board of education, and Mrs. James Danforth, formerly president of the Mother's Club of Grosse Pointe High School. Each presented gifts to Dr. and Mrs. Van Kleeck on behalf of the Mother's Club Executive Board and the employees of the school system.

Vincent touched, Dr. Van Kleeck responded, thanking those present and expressing his regret at leaving Grosse Pointe.

"We superintendents have no illusion as to who does the real work in any school system," he said. "It is you out on the firing line."

Marion Woodward, president of the local teachers' club, was toastmaster.

Quarrels would not last long if the fault was only on one side.

Crew Loses First Race In Chicago

Local High School Leads Are Defeated by Defending Champs of Windy City

By BILL CECIL

There must be some jinx about the first race of the season for the Grosse Pointe High School crew. True to last year's form, the local eight was again beaten in its initial effort last Sunday when Walter High of Chicago triumphed in a heat of the first annual Central States Schoolboy Rowing Association regatta in the Windy City.

George carried the banner for the Grosse Pointe crew in the final to take top honors in the regatta. The Grosse Pointe Junior Varsity eight threw a little excitement into the crowd of more than 10,000 by pulling a Schur J. V. out of a preliminary race, only to lose in the final to a more experienced team.

The race, which was given in honor of white water, was a full eight extended into a long tussle. The Grosse Pointe crew, which was given in honor of white water, was a full eight extended into a long tussle.

Pointe's Playgrounds Attract Young and Old

With 6500 School Children On Vacation, Seven Centers Are Busy These Summer Days

By FRED GALLAGHER

Grosse Pointe High School Journalist Student

Summer vacation is at hand, and some 6500 Grosse Pointe public school children are free from class rooms and homework. They are free to play, yell, and do as they wish.

Many will go to camp but more will stay home. To solve the problem of the children's abundance of leisure time, the Grosse Pointe Board of Education's summer recreation program will swing into action.

In charge of this fourteenth annual recreational program will be Forest Geary, Grosse Pointe High School director of athletics during the winter and playground supervisor during the summer. Many Mr. Geary, who is also in charge of adult education as well as coach of championship basketball team, has been in charge of this summer program for the last 12 of its 13 years of existence.

From the one playground, Defer, under supervision in 1929 of this summer program, it has grown until it now includes seven playgrounds and a swimming pool in the township. This summer these playgrounds will be Defer, Tromp, Vaire, Richard, High School, Mason, and Grosse Pointe Woods.

This year a staff of seven men and four women hired by the Board of Education and under the direction of Mr. Geary will supervise the activities on the various fields. In addition to these there will be one man and one woman hired by the W.P.A.

Activities offered by this program are varied and numerous. For boys there are softball, basketball, tennis, horseback riding, handball, swimming and croquet. For girls, softball, tennis, folk dancing, social dancing, dramatics, croquet, swimming, hiking, kick ball, singing games, and story hours are offered.

Not only children, but adults as well receive consideration in the program. Activities offered for adults are golf, handball, horseback riding, tennis, and croquet.

Marion Muir Potter and Elizabeth Mary Hamilton Are Among First To Make Their Bows To Society Here

The pre-setting round of Pointe debutante parties commenced in a beautiful setting for the tea on Thursday, to introduce Marion Muir Potter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Potter of Moross road and granddaughter of Mrs. W. Howie Muir.

Given in the gardens of Mrs. Muir on Ridge road a pink, blue and white floral motif was carried out with beautiful blue delphinium and pink asters.

Marion wore a white marquisette with a scolloped collar around the square neckline, long full sleeves and a bouffant skirt. She carried her father's gift bouquet of blue delphinium and African daisies, shading from pink to pink.

Mrs. Potter wore a spray of many-colored baby call lilies with her fashionable gown of pale blue silk jersey. Mrs. Muir was gowned in white lace with a corsage of lady orchids.

The assistants, Pat Talbot, Martha Jane Berry, Nancy Elger, Dorothy Lambert and Mildred Mount, made a colorful array.

They were escorted and escorted in their life, the gift of Marion.

Despite the threatening weather and cloudy sky, Mrs. William Per-man Hamilton's home on Beverly road presented her granddaughter, Elizabeth Mary Hamilton, to society before a colorful background of gift bouquets on Saturday.

Between the hours of 2 and 4 the debutante and her assistants arrived in the entrance hallway. Mrs. Hamilton was frocked in Dots de Rose marquisette with daisies applied on black marquisette, defining the deep round neckline.

The bodies of the frock was light and finished with long full sleeves and carried a formal spray of purple dwarf orchids and pale lavender larkspur.

Mrs. Hamilton wore a mauve gown with a chignon skirt and lace bodice. Her corsage was also of orchids.

Margaret Hamilton, sister of the deb, who made her bow to society last season, was numbered among her assistants. Her striking gown of gray chiffon had a skirt-collared hand extending from the bodice to the floor, and across her throat and down the sleeves was a scarf of the gray, her flowers were orchids.

Corsages of white carnations were given by the deb to her assistants, who were Mary Dickinson, Jeanne, Helen Spiegel, Sarah Edna McGraw, Beatrice Alexander, Emily Peter, Ann Pincus, Edna Walker, and her two cousins, Hamilton and Elsie Herbert.

Mrs. William S. Herbert, Mrs. James Hamilton, Mrs. Charles H. Hodges and Mrs. John C. Maier presided at the tea table, which was done in blue and gold. A broadcloth skirt covered the table illuminated by yellow candles held in silver candelabra. Pale yellow roses and delphinium in antique Italian vases defined the table arrangement.

After the reception, Mrs. Herbert honored their niece and her assistants and escorts at the buffet supper in their home on Beverly road, followed by dancing in the Country club.

Building Safely

It would probably be unjust to charge any individual or public official with responsibility for the collapse of a portion of the roof over the Girls' gymnasium in the Senior High School, which had it occurred a few minutes later would have caused a tragedy which would have shocked this community.

A fair inference to draw, however, is that the general supervision of building construction in the Grosse Pointes is lax or ineffectual. It is easy to understand that in a community where industrial or commercial building constitutes such a small proportion of total building operation rigid inspection with respect to safety might be neglected. Common sense might have suggested that in the removal of the gravel from the roof that its accumulation in one spot would have placed a strain in that place beyond the safety quotient of ordinary roof support. This, however, is water over the dam.

The plain duty of the local authorities now is to make a thorough inspection of all the places in the Pointes such as theatres, schools, halls or structures of any character where people congregate in order to determine at once their safety with respect to structural support and fire hazard. It will be recalled that the Iroquois Theatre fire tragedy in Chicago in 1903, in which nearly 600 persons lost their lives, occurred merely because some theatre owner had failed to provide an asbestos curtain of sufficient weight.

A fair inference of the local near tragedy is that if these communities functioned as a single municipality, the supervision of buildings and building operations with respect to the public safety.

Graduation

This is the period of the year when thousands of the young men and women of the land are finishing that preparatory phase of their life work which began with kindergarten days, so distant to them but only yesterday to father and mother. All that has gone before has been only a prelude to the making ready for the serious effort, and not less, for the better appreciation of the joys and happiness to come.

A short apprenticeship in the actualities of life and these boys and girls, these young men and women, will be carrying the heat and burden of the day, assuming the responsibilities where the failing hands and eyes of their elders compel surrender. These boys and girls are making their way to the world of reality at one of the most anxious moments of modern times. As Dickens, the great novelist of humanity, might again say, "It was the best of times, it was the worst of times, it was the age of wisdom, it was the age of foolishness, it was the season of Light, it was the season of Darkness, it was the spring of hope, it was the winter of despair."

These embryo citizens cannot as yet sense the deep concern with which their fathers and mothers and the whole company of the elders witness their induction into the world of work and service. Will all of the wonderful agencies for character building and moral training with which they have been surrounded since infancy bear the hoped for fruit? Or will the tumult and clash of isms, theories, plans and what not for social betterment and the economic regulation have cluttered the world since the dawn of reason with these young people, have dulled their vision to see the true and the good way of life? Have the elaborate arrangements set up in some of the great cities in Europe for regular regulation of every department of life loused them from their moorings of their fathers in the haven of religion and caused them to question its efficacy as a solution of life's problems?

Will these young men and women be able to find that love of America which characterized our simpler days? Will they be willing to work and sacrifice for its safety and welfare? Have they that abiding belief in its capacity to afford the highest measure of well-being and happiness to every citizen the preservation of human dignity of any form of government ever set up in all history: a faith so earnestly maintained by their forefathers?

For all of the anxiety so natural to the occasion of their graduation and the time of political and social crisis in which it occurs, there is a deep feeling of confidence among the elders that these boys and girls who are just entering the ranks of the doers of the world will measure up to the responsibilities that lie ahead of them. The older generation senses that with the sloughing off of the play time will come a quick and courageous facing of the tasks to be done.

These fine young men and women who are leaving the high schools and universities this month by the thousands throughout the land have presented to them an opportunity, for service to God and Home and Country greater than that offered to any graduate of the country within the memory of persons living today. And with their first steps in the world of fearful reality which they face it is the first duty of their parents and elders to impart to them a clear and understanding vision of our country, its noble history and the great place it occupies in the scheme of human welfare.

Looking Ahead

The vast sums of money which the government is spending in its defense program and for aid to Britain will inevitably stimulate huge groups within the majority of persons living today. And with their first steps in the world of fearful reality which they face it is the first duty of their parents and elders to impart to them a clear and understanding vision of our country, its noble history and the great place it occupies in the scheme of human welfare.

No permanent addition is being made to the common wealth of the country by all these great sums which are being spent for national defense. These huge expenditures are necessary and completely justified costs without argument. They are insurance on the most colossal scale ever undertaken in the whole story of civilization and the thing they insure is the perpetuity of our government, and the security of the way of life chosen by free men here and wherever men hope to remain free.

When this struggle is over a great task will confront private enterprise in re-organizing the resumption of gainful and useful industry as the enduring substitute for the transient and unnatural economy on which the country now floats.

This task will be infinitely easier of accomplishment if it finds the American people with reduced debts and cash savings ready to again become supporting factors in the orderly processes of production and consumption. A sane and rational scale of living now will also reduce the strain on the production of raw materials at a time when the productive forces of the nation so far as they are applicable need be devoted to imperative work of national safety and defense.

Test Pilot Is Real Hero Behind Our Flying Forces

By BUD WELLMAN

Today one rarely hears of structural failure of Army, Navy or commercial airplanes. Why? Because a small group, whose number you can count on your fingers, have provided insurance against it.

These daredevils are the test pilots. As an engineer put it recently: the main point of test flying is that it is better if necessary to crash up on a plane and probably one that has been humiliated by test ships flying around the country.

With planes and newer planes the test pilots have been exceptionally busy. New types of ships—everything aircraft—have been designed and built.

When a new ship is built there is a place for them in our flying service? The test pilot. He is the one who says they are O.K. If they are not, he is not allowed to tell you who says they are O.K.

Standard pay, however, is usually $15,000 a year. Some test pilots are paid $20,000 a year. Some are paid $25,000 a year. Some are paid $30,000 a year. Some are paid $35,000 a year. Playground
The people of Grosse Pointe use and appreciate this summer program is provided by the Board of Education, and the playgrounds. Last year more than 100,000 people used the facilities of the playgrounds.
To obtain these figures attendance was taken three times daily, morning, afternoon, and evening. Attendance is expected to increase again this year, as it has in each of the preceding years, for Grosse Pointe has, in the past, 33 years, earned the great value recreational value, and enjoyment value of the summer recreational program sponsored by the Board of Education.

Graduates

ber, as vice-president of the Student Association, and to man in football, basketball, rowing and track during his high school career.
Lucile Barnes was also an honor graduate, her high school record includes membership in the Latin Club, the Service Club, the Math Club, and the Forum. She was also editor of View Point and a staff member of American. Citations and awards, as well as being a frequent contributor to the Michiganian and member of Quill and Terrell. Various types of foreign travel claimed her participation. Lucile was chosen by the Michiganian in the good citizenship plurimote to Washington, D. C.
this spring.

Landed By Faculty

Three qualifications helped to bring this same boy and girl to special honor at their commencement last week. They were also selected by the vote of the entire faculty as the students who had displayed the most outstanding qualities of good citizenship and were therefore awarded the American Legion Citizenship Award and Certificate, honoring that attainment.
Adolph Heene was also the winner of two scholarships announced at the exercises. One is a $100 cash award provided by the State of Michigan, the other is a $100 cash scholarship by the General Russell
A. Alger and Colonel Frederic
H. Post. Mr. Post, for the student among each year's graduates who displayed the most outstanding character, and contribution to the development of good American citizenship in the student body are considered.

The second scholarship won by Adolph was one of six provided for the Michiganian and the Michigan Club. To Adolph and four others the mothers will contribute $100 each. The other four are: Roger Macdonald, who was graduated in January, Evelyn Hink, also of the January class, Beverly French and Jackie Stern.

Miller Wins Scholarship

The major award presented by the Michiganian is a cash scholarship of $200, won by George Miller.
As the highest ranked student among a variety of letter winners, George Miller, a member of the Michiganian Award of a dictionary, George, an honors graduate,
won his letter in recognition of his scholarship to receive further recognition was Harry Stern, who placed the finest record in the state in science and mathematics.
Because he had an A-B record in four years of high school and a near A record in three years of college, Ralph was awarded the highest scholarship by the faculty of the science department.
He was thereby designated as one among the graduates who gives the most promise of future distinction in the field of science.
Another winner of individual honors was Gordon Tanner whose achievement was the winning of the Pi Beta Phi trophy, provided by the Pi Beta Phi chapter.
