A Resident of the Pointe Describes This Community

By Virginia Cassil

Alh-h-little city—wherein dwell the "blue-bloods," the "four-hundred," the "get-rich-quick," the "would-be" and the "has-been's." Here dwell, also, (but in minority) simple people of average income, who love only to be near the water and to hear the boat whistles.

Grosse Pointe has a front door and a back door, and its formality and beauty vary in style according to how far back you are from the Lake. Situated on flat ground, with many a hill or a valley, it still can be considered a very attractive town. It is spacious, clean and well-planned. You will find the first two blocks, nearest the shores of St. Clair, coldly homes, dignified driveways and beautiful—walled-in estates on either side. Suddenly the avenue dissolves itself into a sun-drenched, double-lane highway, and continues to race on toward green parks and fashionable club houses.

The third and fourth blocks back, are only beautiful—with nurses and governesses on the sidewalk, winding drive - ways and lots of dogs. The fifth and sixth blocks bring you into the shopping district, and one is glad to get back to garages, soda fountains and dime stores. The architecture of the majority of homes and shops, tends toward Old English or Early American Colonial—but then again a little bit of everything can be found, and lately, even a few of those modern atrocities, that look so much better inside.

The seventh and eighth blocks back, consist of attractive, homey abodes with only four bedrooms and people who mow their own lawns. Babies and Budgets The homes in the last two blocks are simple, cute and tiny—with lots of babies and budgets. Here live the folks who like to hear the boat whistles. In spite of the fact that so many different kinds of people make up Grosse Pointe—there still seems to prevail a single feeling or atmosphere about the village. First of all, it takes ten years to get acquainted here. I don't know why—but it does. Everybody belongs to a certain clique with a full membership. Being introduced doesn't mean a great deal. The most charming people cannot "quite place your face" on the morrow. Thus, you're introduced again—and all Fall you try desperately to "crash a clique" only to pick up a Sunday paper one morning and find that the "clique" has gone South for the Winter, leaving only . . . servants and children behind.

In the Spring, you take up where you left off—and discover by the same method, that the "clique" is vacationing in the mountains for the Summer; this time leaving only the servants behind. When school starts in September, the servants leave the "clique" behind. Then it starts all over again.

Courtesy and Serenity The outward culture of the village is very fine. There is courtesy and serenity among the villagers. Peace exists until between the hours of from three to five o'clock each day. School is dismissed at that time and the "students" like to play hide-go-seek in their roadsters. The way they

University of Michigan Club Has Heavy Schedule

Tentative plans for the year's program of The University of Michigan Club were made recently at the meeting of the Governors held at the home of the new president, Harry Hogan of Audubon road.

A lecture will be given in November by some member of the Political Science Department of the University. An exhibition by the University of Michigan swimming team will be held sometime in December. The University of Michigan Club will perform in January or early February. A dinner will be given in the spring honoring Dr. R. C. Bushwell, President of the year.

New Reporter Addresses High School Journalists

"You have to go to college to be in the newspaper business today," declared Thomas Groehn, June 22, general reporter for The Detroit News, in a talk to the journalism classes of Grosse Pointe High School last Wednesday.

Mr. Groehn went on to explain that in the early years of the newspaper business, crime was the principal source of news, but in modern times news has a more intellectual basis and a reporter must be well informed on all topics.

Concerning the Journalism course offered by Grosse Pointe High School, the former managing editor of The Tower commented, "I think that it is one of the best courses in Journalism that is offered by any high school."

can round a corner on two wheels is truly an art.

The living conditions, financially, are above average. Everyone gives the impression of possessing all the things he desires—and more, too. I'm inclined to believe this is true, because there is much extravagance here, and much waste.

The mode of dress is smart—smart—always smart. Be it slacks or furs, ties or socks, they are worn with a comfortable casualness—and they do look smart. The "clique" is generally cheerful, flippant, somewhat sophisticated and indifferent.

The ideals of the Grosse Pointe residents, taken as a whole, are vague. To improve one's property, one's bridge and one's golf seem to be the most outstanding—if these you can call ideals.

Credos Are Locked Up

The credos are locked up in the cliques, to which I have no access. But of one thing I am certain. There is absolutely no fear. Each individual, young and old, live for the pleasure of the moment. They are fatalists through and through, though with an air of optimism, and if all should be lost next week, "We'll begin over again" is the attitude. With what, hasn't been considered; or how to prevent loss, hasn't been considered either.

Half of the people here, shy from any mention of religion, and churches, are places for lovely weddings. Still, everyone behaves like a good sport; they look intelligent and make you want to know them. Then they go South.

Blue Devils Down Wyandotte Eleven

Local High School Gridirers Gain First Victory of Season as Weaver Faces Team to 13-6 Triumph

Grosse Pointe High School's Blue Devils football team won its first game of the current season Saturday by defeating Wyandotte High, 13 to 6.

The victory of the local lads was made the hard way. Coming from behind in the last eight minutes of the final period it was Ray Weaver, right half, who paced his team by scoring both its touchdowns.

Wyandotte scored early in the first period when a pass from Redmond to Spots caught the Blue Devil secondary napping. The try for point after touchdown was not good.

Grosse Pointe threatened late in the first half when Weaver carried the ball to the Wyandotte two yard line before an unlikely fumble gave the ball to the Wyandotte. The half ended with the Pointers on the Wyandotte's six yard line.

Late in the fourth period Herbert Kandler, center for the Blue Devils intercepted a Wyandotte pass on the Grosse Pointe 34 yard line and ran 20 yards. From that point the Blue Devils were never stopped and Weaver carried the ball over from the three yard line. The kick for extra point hit the cross bar and bounced away.

Wyandotte, in a vain attempt to win the game, gambled on its passing attack. Blue Devil half back Dick Robbins intercepted a pass on the Wyandotte 48 yard line. Six downs later Weaver went over for the winning tally. Weaver easily was the star of the game. He carried the ball 29 times and gained 168 yards for an average of 5.7 yards for every attempt.

The Saturday Blue Devils face their arch rival Mt. Clemens on the Bathers field.

Joe Zielonko's Touchdown Sprint Beats St. Ambrose

A seven yard touchdown run late in the second period by Joe Zielonko of St. Ladislav proved to be the margin of victory Sunday in the St. Ambrose-St. Ladislav game played on the Grosse Pointe High School field.

Zielonko's touchdown came after both teams had battled fairly evenly for the first period. Early in the second quarter St. Ladislav marched to the St. Ambrose seven yard line, where Zielonko carried the ball over.

St. Paul of Grosse Pointe Gains Its Second Victory

St. Paul of Grosse Pointe gained its second victory of the season last Sunday on Mack field by defeating Annunciation of the second division of the Catholic league, 6 to 0.

With a scant four minutes left to play in the final period Joe Barton hurried a pass directly over the line from the six yard line to Fred Otto, who scampered over the final marker to score.

Silhouettes

In addition to her natural beauty, she's so photogenic, Hollywood to appear in the movies. Born in Moravia, Czechoslovakia, some of her ancestors were Swedish, which accounts for her golden hair. She is a great-great niece of Wilhelm and Peter Grimm, authors of the famous fairy tales.

She and her husband were married in Vienna. Two and a half years ago they came to America, which she loves. "People have been so nice to me," she says. One of her treasures is a scrapbook containing pictures of many of the parties where they have been feted by social leaders of New York and Florida since coming to this country.

She came to the Pointe just three months ago and is delighted with this section. An expert swimmer, she hopes to do a lot of it next year.

Her friends call her... Hildegarde.

Her name... Countess Hildegarde Rosemarie Van Grimm.

Olivier Won Stardom By Killing the Jinx
Laurence Olivier, co-starred with Vivien Leigh in Alexander Korda's "That Hamilton Woman" which is slated for the Cinderella Theatre on Friday. Jinx to talk "shop" to take long walks in the hills and hates to dress up. "That Hamilton Woman" is his fourth Hollywood opus since he returned to the Gold Coast, the previous three being "Wuthering Heights," "Rebecca" and "Pride and Prejudice."
Larry was born in Dorking, Surrey, England, and is descended from French Huguenots. He attended a choir school, but upon his mother's death was sent to a boarding school. He found the sledding there pretty tough and ran away with a traveling troupe of actors.
After many colorful experiences with this troupe, he landed in London where he appeared in flop after flop. His bad luck pursued him to America where he appeared in two pictures, neither of which were sensational successes. Result: he sailed back to London and finally got the break he was praying for—a chance to play with Greta Garbo in "Queen Christina." But when he ferried back to Hollywood, it was only to learn that he had become a laughing stock on the home stretch, he finally gained recognition in Alexander Korda's "Fire Over England" in which he appeared with Vivien Leigh, to whom he is now married. Lord Nelson in "That Hamilton Woman" he declares to be his most difficult role and hopes it will be rated his best.

Wayne Patrons Like Silly Songs
Vining with Peter Piper's Picked Peppers for twisting tongue is that new silly song of the season, "Bly-bye," which Old Wayne Club maestro Charles Costello brought here with him from New York, and which is currently keeping the customers crowding about the band stand.
The McColl Twins, Marguerite and Madeleine, swing out on the clover arrangement, while the maestro and his boys weave a tricky musical background for their blended voices.
Despite the popularity of the new arrangements which Costello is offering, several dance acts that he played last season are taking their share of the action. "Begin the Beguine" with all others and a whimsical arrangement of "Yours or Mine" depending on the taste in lyrics—winning much brighter the Green Room and the colorful costumes. Costello and his own guitar accompaniment for most of his vocal acts.
PARTY TO BENEFIT SCENE

Schools Can't Nursemaids

Last week the News carried a story about 250 high school students participating in a "Grosse Pointe Night" at a Detroit burlesque theatre. Several inquiries have come in, asking if the News blamed local school officials for the adolescent demonstration. The answer is an emphatic "No."

No school system in America does more to provide a healthy, entertaining, character-molding program of extra-curricular activities than our own Pointe system. Sitting in our office in the Punch and Judy building we have a remarkable view of a good many of these activities, the outdoor ones that take place on the broad athletic fields of the high school.

We have seen this spectacle start as early as 6:30 in the morning, when the first tennis players often take possession of the courts in the far corner of the field. Scores of actors on the athletic field stage by the time the school day gets under way. Physical education classes are held outdoors for the hour of health-giving exercise included in the daily schedule for the majority of students.

After school the activity becomes even more fervent. Not one, but six or seven football teams scrap through a couple of hours, while tennis, hockey, soccer, and other games appear to be life's chief recreation for hundreds of high school students. Spectators are always about, and on Saturday when a home game is played, practically every youth in Grosse Pointe must join the bleacher gang for an afternoon of fun in the open.

This sports program is only one phase of the extensive effort maintained by the Grosse Pointe High school in the interests of beneficial recreational activities for its students. If the program is impressive outside the building, it is doubly so within, where the variety and quality of the training given in the profitable use of leisure is amazing. Grosse Pointe High school has some 27 clubs, which encourage young hobbyists in the development of interest in everything from chess, camera, stamps, art, metal, bird lore, etc., to skill in model airplane building. Various types of dramatic work are always in process, with the excellence of results familiar to anyone who has seen a Pointe Players' production. Hundreds of boys and girls are learning to play musical instruments, while records and victrolas offer every student the opportunity to become acquainted with the world's best music and much of its finest poetry. There is the library with its clearly superior collection of books of every type, a collection kept constantly up to date by frequent purchases. There are three student groups challenging the creative abilities of students interested in writing, and the production of the newspaper takes place entirely within the school building with the exception of the linotype work.

Complementing all these opportunities for wholesome extra-curricular occupation is the Grosse Pointe High School Student Association party schedule, which provides frequent evening dances—dances which are somewhat famous for the high type of contest which distinguishes them.

With such a recreational program coupled to a reputation for high scholastic achievements that is the envy of many schools, one should not place the finger of blame on the authorities for what students do in their after school hours. The schools are doing everything in their power. More co-operation on the part of the parents would seem to be indicated.

Facing the Decision

When we entered the Philippine Islands forty three years ago the moral sense of America was shocked when we learned of certain barbarous practices which the Spaniards employed against the natives. The Philippines under the leadership of Dr. Rizal had been in rebellion for two years prior to the outbreak of our war with Spain. To teach the natives to leave the military telephone alone they used to kill every tenth man in the village and to cut wires.

Today that country in central Europe which boasts continually of its culture and its leadership of civilization, which aims to establish a "new order," first in Europe and then in the whole world, gathering up large numbers of prominent citizens in its conquests, territories as hostages and murdering them wholesale for any offense, real or imaginary, whether committed by themselves or persons unknown. It is savagery as ruthless and unmitigated as anything ever perpetrated in the darkest moments of the Dark Ages.

There is less excitement in this country now over these latest evidences of the essential barbarity of Nazi Germany than there was over the killing of the jungle natives on the other side of the world forty years ago.

Has the moral sense of the American people atrophied or is it simply the latter day expression of the selfishness or cowardice that seems to have penetrated so deeply into the spiritual marrow of our people?

Can it be possible that there are any considerable number of persons in this country who actually hold an honest belief that we and our free way of life would be safe in our own country if such a power as Nazi Germany attained the political and economic and military mastery of Europe?

Is their reasoning of such a morose order that they can argue that our hemisphere and our own country would be safe if Britain collapsed?

Are they content to sit in cowardly complacency while England bleeds to death fighting a battle which in its true analysis is as much ours as theirs?

Twenty-four years ago we properly entered a similar struggle in Europe when the situation contained not one tenth part of the peril for us that it does now.

Is it not common sense that a conflict which is fast looming as inevitable should be met head on in the courageous manner of the America of old?

The rise of despotism in Central Europe threatens to turn back the clock of human progress two thousand years. Let no one be deceived. If present-day Germany has her way, the long and tortuous climb through seven hundred years toward self government with its fruits of freedom in all its forms and the restoration of human dignity, will fall into the pit from which there will be no return within any appreciable range of history.

Our country faces today one of the great decisions of human history. The isolationists and the cynics may sneer at the suggestion of our responsibility as the guardian of the art of human freedom, but the ultimate responsibility is as clear as the vision of Constantine or the Star of Bethlehem.

Vital Statistics:

George Jessel arranges to be in certain places at certain times so that when the urgent call comes from the Coast announcing that for the first time he has achieved parenthood, he will be on hand to receive the news. Sunday night, the Stock's Club Room, which is a captain came over. "For you, Mr. Jessel. Long distance George."

"That's all," screamed George. "Now I know what it means." He answered the phone. A few minutes later he came back beaming.

"Boy—or girl?" he was asked. "That lovely darling," purred Jessel, "that precious child, that angel-puss—what do you think she just gave birth to in the court of my second act?"

Out of an Envelope: "Recently in the 'American Weekly,' in your story about the late Phil Plant you wrote about my fiancée, the lovely Charles Wesley Turner. Sir, Wesley's suicide was not an admission of guilt by any means, but a confession of his love for me. As he wrote to me in his last letter 'Skipper, no lawyer no case prepared to let me go. I mentioned a woman (name given) and accused her of lying. It's costing me my life' he wrote. A few hours later he killed himself. He was an innocent, generous man who never said a word unkind thing about anyone not intentionally hurt anyone. I loved him and must beg you to help me keep his memory as free of ugliness and unkindness as he was in life."

Fragment: The disillusioned Lenore Lennon has stated the divorce proceedings against her late groom, Jackie, the Webb. "The official answer for the United Youth for Defense was written by Dorothy Stone, Fred's dancing daughter. Although his honorable discharge from the army is scarcely four days old, Sergeant Bobby LaFrance, of the café society set, is planning to re-enlist. . . . Serious bait threatening between Manhattan's café and the musicians' union. . . . The only mistake the Smithsonian institution made after the epochal flight to Paris, according to Joe E. Lewis, was in hanging the plane—instead of the flyer. Mrs. Wills Howard, wife of the comedian is desperately ill in Nassau hospital, Minnesota. . . . But Truman Talley of Fox Movietone has recovered—and is back home."

Written Code: At the Beachcomber Wednesday night, we met a once famous French newspaperman the asked that his name be withheld because he has relatives in Paris) who told us how the French were reacting to the oppression by the Nazi conquerors. "We curse them in their faces—with politeness. We show them our hate—with smiles. We speak to them in a language which we call—Unwritten French. It is spoken only with the eyes!"

Re-try: The spookiest double feature bill is being shown up Washington Heights way. The table in the lobby shook so much, instead of Nadine Gae, everyone went home with broken dishes.

James McKinley Bryant's Cafe Society Register is not a mere name—also gals—who never could get even their initials into the Social Register, find themselves duly recorded, home address and phone number to boot. Mr. Bryant was kind enough to include this department's name—but in so doing has caused us no end of domestic upset and headache. For though he has been careful to note the marital status of all entries, he quite deliberately or otherwise has listed us without benefit of wife. The lady who shares our household considers it part of a plot in which she does not hold us altogether blameless.

Nation Looks To Unions To Get To Work

By MARK K. EDGAR

No fair minded American will condemn organized labor because racketeers have taken over certain unions within the American Federation or because Communists have fastened their grip on groups in the C.I.O. The achievements of union labor in obtaining better pay and more favorable conditions of employment for the workers of the nation is too well understood by the cooler heads among the people to permit of any wholesale, unreasoning condemnation.

As long as these cankers which have appeared in the labor organizations have not threatened seriously the general welfare, the belief and hope of the great body of citizens has been that these diseases, like those occurring in the human body, usually created by a whole series of causes, and that presently the sensible and honest elements in the organizations, which are always the overwhelming majority of the whole, would assert themselves and put their own houses in order.

In normal times and conditions the country would be content to let this process run its expected course. In a period like the present however, when the nation stands in a peril plainly dictated by a whole series of causes, the responsibilities of organized labor to the country as a whole assume a different aspect. The measure of labor's response to the imperative needs of the Nation becomes the scale in which its patriotism will be weighed. The feud carried on between the two great labor organizations for the past five years is of small concern compared to the needs of the Nation.

The ambitions of big labor leaders to attain or hold primacy in certain industries is of still less concern.

The temper of the American people is growing raw under this chafing. They are becoming increasingly ill tempered over strikes called in essential defense plants having no more important issue than the control of the workmen by A.F.I., or C.I.O. To most persons this question at this time is twofold and twofold.

With them the jurisdictional strike is not. The only real question before the American people is 100% National. It is the defense and safety of the country now and at that moment which already looms over the horizon when the evacuation which has taken the lives and toll and sacrifice of thirty generations to build may be wrecked from its foundations.

Whether the world of free men, which is our world, is to endure is the question that faces us. It is the greatest crisis that has come before this nation since its foundation. Its answer lies more directly in the workshops of America than any other crisis in the world.

Only this productive can be strong and only the strong can be free.

News From Pointe's Elementary Schools

DEFER SCHOOL

3RD GRADE

The students in Mr. Himmelmann's room have started a study of the State of Michigan and find much of the early history is covered in this area.

Mr. William Korte, a Defer custodian, talks with the class about early Grosse Pointe and Detroit. The long narrow farms of this area and the wars with Pontiac, the Indian Chief, stirred their interests in learning more of the early history.

They have started a mural to give their impressions of the early days. Roger Hammer and Gloria Schable are in charge. Clippings and pictures of early Detroit and Grosse Pointe are being collected to help give a better idea of the progress that has been made.

In Mrs. Melburn's S.A.-1 room are some large paintings which the Social Studies class made to depict the beginnings of Communication. There is a sequence in the display from the early cave men and their picture writing through the Indian smoke signals.

The S.A.-1 grade has several active organizations to foster different activities. Among these are: Defer Stamp Committee, which is making posters to help sales; the Junior Red Cross Committee, which has planned some Hallway Sales for the Children's Hospital; and a Library Committee which has charge of loan collections and plans for Book Week.

RICHARD SCHOOL

Another very promising year is underway at the Pere Gabriel Richard School where 334 pupils have left their summer play for more academic enterprise of school work. Four new staff members replacing teachers who have resigned or who were substituted. They are Mary Beard, who teaches the 1A and who comes from the Kellie Consolidated School near Battle Creek; Ruth Kemps, an intern of a year ago, who teaches 1B; William Ferry, who came from Fox Lake, Illinois; and who teaches 3D; Ernest Gotha, who comes from Saginaw and teaches another section of 3B; and Robert Griffin, who comes from the 1B and is the upper grade intern.

The building was made attractively ready for the more than 500 pupils by its having been completely painted inside and out during the summer. Since school started drapes have been purchased for all the windows on the first floor and the second floor will soon be furnished. Of added beauty and patriotic value are the twenty large American flags on standards distributed about the rooms. These, together with some new playground equipment, have been purchased by the Parent-Teacher Association largely from funds earned by the bridge party of last spring.

School patrons will be pleased to learn that work on the new playground is progressing rapidly now. The area has been sodded and the trees, shrubs and vines. Difficulties in obtaining fencing material may mean it will have to be used temporarily at least without a fence.

Already the parents of the school have been busy, there having been two teas given by Louise J. Whitehead and Virginia McNeill in the gymnasium. Climaxing early parent meetings was the successful P.T.A. meeting of September 24. More than 300 enthusiastic parents visited the room, met their child's teachers, and then turned to the auditorium for the program.

The program included community singing led by William Watkins and Elizabeth Ellis, a piano solo by Mrs. Vossler, and excellent talks by Charles Parelli of the Board of Education, and Superintendent Ernest of Grosse Pointe Schools. Besides, adult education classes were discussed by Mrs. Orbaugh; the Saturday symphony concert by Elizabeth Ellis, and some remarks were made by the principal, Clarence J. Messer. Among guests were Mrs. Messer, wife of the Superintendent, and Mr. Bartlett of the Department of Child Accounting and Adjustment. Mrs. Frances Lord was chairman. A committee of Mrs. Browne, Mrs. Bull, Mrs. Coleman, and Mrs. Arnold served refreshments to 200 during the social hour.

On Monday, September 23, parents of kindergarten, one, two and three came for a showing of a movie entitled "When Bobby Goes to School" sponsored by the Wayne County Medical Association. Comments were made by Dr. Stelbom.

These school and P.T.A. sponsored parent meetings are a significant part of the work of the school and the fine assistance of Richard parents is appreciated.

TROMBLY SCHOOL

The first meeting of the Trombly School P.T.A. will be held on Wednesday, October 15, at 7:45 P.M. There will be an opportunity to visit the classrooms. Later, Mrs. Alfred Humphrey, world traveler and lecturer will speak on "It Happened in the Night". After the business meeting, all parents are urged to join together in community singing in the gymnasium. There will be refreshments. Come and meet your child's teacher and your neighbors.

The children in Trombly School are doing their part for National Defense. They are not only buying Defense Stamps, but a drive is on to have 100% membership in the American Junior Red Cross. Kenneth Venderbush, a 6th boy, is the Trombly School representative for the Junior Red Cross in the Grosse Pointe schools. He is working with Miss Harriet Beyer, the faculty representative for Trombly School.

Some of the children in the fifth and sixth grades in Trombly School have organized a chorus club. They call themselves the TROMBLY CHORISTERS. The purpose of the club is to learn songs for their own enjoyment and to be ready to sing at all times for the entertainment and pleasure of others. There are 30 members in the club which is directed by Miss Naomi Jones.

VERNIER SCHOOL

The fourth grade gave a tea Friday for sixteen of their mothers. The class presented its work on "Rebuilding Williamsburg." Miss Alice Tucker spoke on her recent trip to Williamsburg and showed pictures and souvenirs. The pupils served lunch.

A piano and a new phonograph, radio combination arrived at our school last week.

MASON SCHOOL

The 2A children are working out a project correlated with library reading.

The boys have built and painted a book shelf for the room. The children have completed books containing poems, stories, facts about the library and rules.

On October 1st, the class visited the Grosse Pointe Woods Library where Miss Taylor told them the story of "Thick-Headed Jack." She explained library procedure to them and helped them obtain cards and books.

The 4B boys and girls in Miss Clemens' and Mr. Hourihan's rooms have been studying about Williamsburg, Virginia, in social studies. Some of the children had visited Greenfield Village and remembered that it was a restored Colonial community like Williamsburg. So the groups visited Greenfield Village on Monday, September 29, to see a Colonial community. Some of the children are making a booklet about their trip.

1-B News

The 1-B's have become ardent leaf collectors since they began their leaf booklets.

The children are delighted when they find a new kind of leaf because this means they may mount and label it.
