Petty Pointes

A. PRYOR

Drums:

Now men enough to build an empire fall
Beneath the heavy surging heels
of Mars,
As town and hillside waken at the call
That rises to resound against the stars.
Its d daded echo hends to break

the sleep
Of those who quit the hearth
and field before
To drown in blood the shouting and to keep Faith with their gods; and with the faith they bore,
Lay willingly beside their broken
swords
To make a cushion for the feet of Peace!
And now have risen new un-
dun<sup>ed</sup> herds,
Who, long before the battle cry
shall cease,
Will bend to whisper softly to
the dust;
Move over, Brothers, and make room for us!
—Wilma Crittenden.

Serving on the ticket committee as well as the steering committee for the Shoot the Works party, she is first vice-president of the Women's Exchange, co-chairman for the Community Fund this year and active in the Sophie Wright Settlement.

Her distinguished personality is mirrored in her bright blue eyes and her gay and charming manner expresses her great animation. Her enthusiasm for new undertakings and adventures is boundless and she sometimes finds herself busy at four different ventures simultaneously.

An excellent golfer, she also likes walking (which is fortunate), and loves bowling at the Country Club.

Her favorite vacation locale is Palm Springs, California, although she enjoys a motor trip in any direction on the compass.

Her taste in clothes is simple and very smart, and she prefers black or blue for her wardrobe.

Her family, which is composed of her husband, her daughter Barbara and her son, represents an extremely close relationship, the three spending every possible minute together.

Her friends call her... Dorothy.

Her name is... Mrs. Henry W. Burritt.

The annual chrysanthemum show of Grosse Pointe is always outstanding, but the coming one, to be staged Saturday and Sunday, November 8 and 9 in the Neighborhood Club, Waterloo at St. Clair, will be especially so, for it marks the 25th anniversary of the sponsoring organization, the Grosse Pointe and Eastern Michigan Horticultural society. Co-operating with them are the Garden Club of Michigan, the League of Gardeners, Grosse Pointe branch of the Women's Garden Club, the Village Garden club, the Detroit Garden center, whose members will compete in a section devoted to artistic arrangements. ## Oarsmen's Ball Set For Nov. 19

The night before Thanksgiving, November 19, is the date set by the Oarsmen of the Detroit Boat Club for their annual fall dance. This ball, which is one of the most colorful parties of the fall season, will be especially gay this year, according to its chairman, George Barrie, in celebration of the successful season these athletes have enjoyed this year.

Only a few times in the span on the hundred years of Boat Club history, has the 140 pound crew team at the Royal Canadian Henley Regatta. This year it brought back both the junior and the senior trophies.

There will be an eight-oared shell suspended from the beams of the Boat Club ballroom and other decorations will carry out the same motif.

Besides Mr. Barrie, the committee consists of Warren Winstanley and Rowland Stanley.

"Sarah Is So Sensible"

By Marian Eddy Standish

CHAPTER TEN

"Hello, Jimmie," said Dick to the young man who had come to see him. They were in Dick's office and Jimmie had come from the office. He looked tired and worried.

"Hello, Mr. Low. You are as good as to see me. I won't keep you long. I just wanted to ask you something."

"Go ahead, boy."

"It's just this, Mr. Low. Greg here or we could take care of the matter without troubling you, but this is it. Mary shouldn't be running around the way she is. I know ever since my own mother died, yours has been sort of second hand to me and you and Greg is my best friend. I'm fond of Mary, Mr. Low. She's just got to cut this out. I'll get her so but she doesn't pay attention to anything I say. It just won't do. She's bound to queer restaurants and I ought to cut it out. Tom saw her and she told Mary to cut it and the Mike somebody you saw with her agreed with Tom."

"I can't make it out, Mr. Low, but it's got me worried."

"It's not me worried, too, Jimmie. This isn't news to me and I tried to have it out with Mary last night. But I didn't get far. She's got some object and she says just to trust her and let her work it out as she wants to."

"Did she tell you that? Then she has some idea of what she is doing, Mr. Low. I'd bank on Mary's frankness every time."

"Jimmie—if I can arrange your hours with the steel company will do me a favor and help me out about this thing?"

"You know I'll do anything I can, Mr. Low."

"I want you to join Mary and Greg. But you must see you can't fill in the thing. You just join them and look after Mary a little, will you?"

"Of course I will. I don't know how welcome I'll be. She hasn't much use for me lately. Said I was jealous of her job. That's not easy to take, Mr. Low."

"You hurt her feeling some way, Jimmie. But you're a lot of good to me. I know that you are with her and this Mike. So what you can do will you?"

"I'll start tonight, Mr. Low. Telephone you tomorrow."

"Thank you, Jimmie. Wait a minute—Here's some cash and don't be silly about taking it. You'll need plenty to do this thing. I'll way I want it done. Be as tactful and as natural as you can and stick to the thing. Jimmie, until we know what this is all about."

"Goodbye, sir. Thanks a lot. I'm glad to do it for Greg. He's as good as Mary's."

When he had gone Dick I asked back in his chair a worried frown. "What a mess," he said. "I'm getting beyond him but he would feel better if Jimmie were there with a weather eye out for Mary's welfare. Nice boy, Jimmie. You could trust him. Something he hoped Jimmie or her Mary—Time to go home for dinner."

At that very moment, Sarah was bending over the unconscious figure of Sonia. She had been startled when the girl suddenly fainted at her feet. Mrs. Sturges was still napping in her big chair by the fire.

With the calm efficiency given her by her years of professional nursing, Sarah did the things necessary to revive Sonia. She laid her on her back, slipped a cushion under the girl's feet, rang for Carrie to get water and was again bending over the girl when Mrs. Sturges woke.

"What's all this?" asked the old lady crossly. She hated to awaken to any sense of confusion in the house. Now here was Sarah bending over that girl and Carrie just coming in with the water. No girl had business lying on the floor with their feet up. That was the trouble with servants nowadays. They thought they could do anything.

"Get me some cold water, Carrie, and some spirits of ammonia if you have any," said Sarah.

"You tell that girl to get right up," said Mrs. Sturges sharply. "She's no good. She doesn't seem to have any sense. She's lying there, fainting like the others in the library."

"Atfoul Goodness," said Carrie. "Of course we got ammonia—both kinds."

"Well go get them both and bring them to me," said Sarah. "Crisp and both old ladies were quiet at once. Carrie hurried out and got the bottles of ammonia. She came back with a glass of water and a little of the ammonia. She poured it on the girl's face and she came to. "You look ill," said Sarah.

"Yes, she does," answered her mother, a little more sweetly. "You look ill, too, Sarah. You look like you've been crying."

"It's all right," said Sarah. "Just a little cold. Carrie has gone for some water."

Sonia's eyes closed again. "I am so sorry," she murmured, as Carrie came hurrying through the door, spilling most of the water on Sarah's dress.

Fifteen minutes later, Sarah sat on the edge of Sonia's bed. The girl was lying limp and weak against the pillow. "Sonia," said Sarah. "I want to talk to you. You know that I am a trained nurse, don't you?"

"Yes," said Sonia, politely but indifferently.

"Yes," said Sarah. "Sonia, did you realize when you came here to work that you were pregnant?"

"Pregnant? Oh, NO! NO! I can't be that—Oh, please don't tell me anything like that."

"My dear girl, I don't think there is a doubt of it. Of course I couldn't be sure—but everything seems to point to that."

"Oh, my God," said Sonia, and turning her head on the pillow she burst into tears—tears that shook her whole body, seemed to rattle her slight frame.

Far East Writer Coming to Cass

Edna Lee Booker, Far Eastern correspondent for the International New Service, author and feature writer for "The China Press," will speak for The Detroit Town Hall, in The Cass Theatre, next Friday morning, November 14 at 11 o'clock.

One of the first American newspaper women to serve as a war correspondent, with 17 years in China making her an authority on the historical background of that country, having lived through the rapidly changing conditions there under the Japanese invasion and the threatening developments of Japan getting more and more openly "anti-American."

Booker's talk "I saw Japan's new outfit at work" will be based on truth-telling facts.

Town Hall Books Sir Philip Gibbs

Sir Philip Gibbs, famous war correspondent and novelist who arrived from London recently via Atlantic Clipper, will speak before the Detroit Town Hall in the Fisher Theatre, Wednesday, Nov. 12, at 11 a. m. His subject will be "The Spirit of Britain."

Gibbs has gone through every war campaign since 1912 when he covered the Balkan War. Since he was 21 he has been actively engaged in some form of journalism. His first scoop was his assignment to interview Dr. Cook upon his return from the North Pole. After talking to him he unmasked the explorer as a faker in a seven-column story in the "Chronicle."

ties by articulating their disgust for and their refusal to countenance those persons whom they know to be at variance with a society built upon moral law and order.

We ask that both the youth and adults of this city (one of the most privileged communities with the United States), voluntarily assume as their civic creed the Athenian Oath, made by the young men of Athens 2,400 years ago in the presence of the Council of the Five Hundred, and bend every effort by their own thoughts and actions and by the influences they may bring to bear upon others that its precepts be practiced as enthusiastically and religiously in the Christian era as it was in the days of Pericles.

THE ATHENIAN OATH

To bring no disgrace to this city by dishonest act; to fight for the ideals and sacred things alone with many; to desert no faltering comrade; to reverse and obey the city laws; to incite respect and reverence in those above us who are prone to annual or set them at naught."

"To strive unceasingly to quicken the public sense of civic duty."

"To transmit this city not less but more beautiful than it was transmitted to us."

"If we are to fashion a great democracy in our land under the guidance of God, as did our fathers, we must begin that effort here, where we are, in our own homes and in our own communities. We must, of all us, become moral pioneers and keep clear the path of decent living for ourselves and for all who come after us."

"If we go forward together in this spirit, we will transmit this Pointe to posterity 'not less but more beautiful than it was transmitted to us.'"

The police departments have suggested to the Grosse Pointe News that it can be of inestimable help in such a crusade by giving as much publicity as possible to those who persist in disregarding the rights of others.

Gratiot Township News

A minor stay-away strike hit Gratiot township schools Wednesday as parents of youngsters in Chatham Village refused to allow their children to go to the Manchester school building because of the distance, and because the youngsters would have to cross Harper avenue.

About 12 3rd and 4th grade students were affected yesterday morning by action of the school board which transferred all 3rd and 4th grade students to the Manchester building and all 5th, 6th, 7th and 8th grade students to the Kenosha building on Harper and to Eastwood school.

According to Mrs. Clyde Medley of the Gratiot School Board, the parents refused to send their pupils to school because of the greater distance to the Manchester building and because the youngsters would have to cross Harper avenue.

"We are posting constables to help the children get across the street," Mrs. Medley stated, "and I am pretty sure we will get everything settled."

The constable, Russell Campbell, and Mr. Medley are on duty now at the Manchester crossing to aid the children across Harper.

To tickets for the Gratiot Township Improvement Association November 18 will be available at all leading stores in the township, it was revealed this

Leading Stamp Collector Would Form Local Club

Heinz Hoffman, of 1455 Hollywood, recognized as one of the country's finest stamp collectors, has revealed plans for the foundation of a club in his home in Gratiot Township.

Hoffman stated he will hold a general meeting at 8 p.m. Saturday in his home for all stamp collectors in Gratiot Township who would like to join a philatelic club which would be without all the trills of a social club and whose members would join because they were interested in collection of stamps and discussing them.

Hoffman, who is a photographer for the Detroit News, was accorded international recognition recently for his stamp collection activities when he was asked to prepare photographs for a slide film based on his exhibit at a recent convention of a world wide stamp society in Detroit.

His Work Important
According to Benjamin A. Nevison, general chairman for the World Wide Philatelic Exhibition, Hoffman's work as a stamp collector and photographer have proven of great value and interest to local collectors.

"Hoffman's knowledge of both photography and philately enable him to form an exhibit of great value—and enable him to lay out most of the rules for collecting stamps in a graphic manner."

A more valuable contribution to philately is difficult to conceive.

Hoffman has had a wide experience as a photographer. He started his camera work with the German army in 1914, and later was on the staff of several German newspapers.

Digs Up Old Pictures
Recently when the Krupp munitions plant at Essen, Germany was bombed by the R.A.F. he dug up a photograph from his negative file which he had taken in 1920 of the munition works. His picture was featured in the Detroit News and also served on the Associated Press wire.

For more than 20 years he has been collecting stamps and building a large philatelic library.

"I'd like to start a club not in the Woods," he said, "and have it organized without officers or dues—just a place where men could get together and discuss and compare stamps."

"I hope," he continued, "that anyone in Gratiot Township interested in stamp collection will meet at my house at 8 p.m. next Saturday night."

Unitarian Church Alliance Active
A series of five old fashioned dances will begin this week on Friday, November 7, sponsored by the Women's Alliance of the Gratiot Unitarian church in the Detroit Boat club.

On Thursday, November 11, the Alliance will hold its monthly meeting in the home of Mrs. William B. Lewis of Detroit at 2 p.m. Miss Gertrude Barlow of the Visiting Nurses Association will be the speaker. On Friday, November 14, an evening bridge party will be held in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Edward D. Spalding of Cloverly road.

An Announcement

We wish to apologize to the patrons of the NIGHTINGALE MARKET for the misunderstanding resulting from the error in their advertisement in last week's issue of the News. 2 cans of Del Monte Peaches were offered at 19c instead of 1 can for that price.

The mistake was the fault of our printer and was not in any way the responsibility of the NIGHTINGALE MARKET. We deeply regret this error and hope that the NIGHTINGALE MARKET may have your continued patronage.
