Another question of concern that confronts us now is whether or not the lend lease arrangement which was devised in the beginning solled to enable us to buin, material aid to Brita n before we became a belligation to carry over mito the post war era? Finally in the contemplation of these endless and almost seemingly hopeless problems that are going to confront us as soon as the fighting is over we must view them with all the composure we can muster.

We must reconcile ourselves to the understanding that all arrangements cannot be made to our liking Compromises in many directions are inevitable but with the main objective attained which must be attained that the threat off future war is to be removed we can approach them with composure and an open mind

We must realize that all governments must give first heed to the needs and welfare of their own peoples. With a clearer vision we must train ourselves to this understanding. There is no issue on the post war horizon which is not suscept bile trainicable adjustment. Not a single one of them should be even imagined as a potential cause for future conflict. With this state of mind maintained in all the coming disposit one a happier and better world for all peoples is definitely with inreach. A new day hastens to its dawn,

Sidney Hillman, chairman of the Clos Political Action Committee says that the war being waged against the PAC is not so much a political war as a class war not be considered to the political war as a class war of his charge and stated that the war the PAC as waging is a class war and not a political war he would have stated the exact truth insofar as its relationship to the campaign this year is concerned.

inth unserfar as its relationship to the campaign this year its concerned.

He might have placed the seal of final and incontroverible truth on such a statement by saying it was a war being waged by the PAC against all of the American people. He is following quite naturally the pathway blazed by Franklin D. Roosevelt and consistently pursued by him his first day in the White House has bent his every thought and speech to creating class cleavage in this country. He started out by setting himself up as the saylor of the 'For gotten Man and with similar balderdash and hokum, all coined to implant in the mind of the peor man the thought that the rich man was his nature enemy he has done more to destroy that upstanding self respect, the love of America world than all of the class-appealing politicians that have cursed this country since its beginning.

Mr. Rossevell is prime object has always been to get him white the properties of the class-appealing politicians that have cursed this country since its beginning. Mr. Rossevell is prime object has always been to get him white House with the same arounty barraing his falling phy sical powers that he exhibited in his first campaign fourteen.

sical powers that he exhibited in his first campaign fourteen years ago and so this time Mr Hillman has been selected to carry the banner of the under privileged masses the for gotten men etc etc etc which is to head the Roosevelt parade and all to the end of course that Mr Roosevelt may be elected again

A fine one indeed is Mr Hillman to mourn about any one waging a class war

Cold spots created by small unseen cracks in old caulking around windows and doors inevitably lead to larger fuel consumption which can be eliminated with proper caulking or re placement of old caulking

Inasmuch as the maximum in efficiency is desired by home owners from their heating units this is not possible unless the above measures are taken

Statistics compiled by a prominent medical journal state that forty per cent of people who suffer from winter colds contract them right in their own homes due to neglegience in properly fortifying their homes from the elements
