Smaller Property Owners May Have to Make Up For Lakefront Tax Reductions

Move Reported Started to Have Assessments Raised to Produce Revenues Which Township Needs

It has recently been reported in reliable quarters that a move has been inaugurated to increase the assessments on smaller properties north of Jefferson avenue, but chiefly north of Kercheval, to compensate for the reduction being pressed for on the properties south of Jefferson and on the lakefront.

Despite the refusal of the State Tax Board to grant a further reduction in assessments on Lake front properties, the group of 87 owners of such properties lying in the township, which means the villages of Grosse Pointe Park, Grosse Pointe Farms and Grosse Pointe Shores intend to continue their fight for reduction. The Woods has no lakefront property.

The move to increase assessments on the smaller properties back from the lake is probably intended to ease the problem of the township board in maintaining total assessments at a level which will assure the necessary revenue for school and township support as well as its required quota of the county tax.

The main opposition which the township authorities have had to the lowered assessments for the lakefront properties has been based on their realization that these necessary revenues could not be maintained unless there was a corresponding increase on the smaller properties back from the lake.

The serious intent at the lakefront owners to persevere in their campaign for lower assessments is evidenced in a letter which was sent out under date of December 20 over the signatures of four of the important property owners of such property. This letter frankly said it was the purpose "to institute a suit or suits in the Wayne county circuit court to test the legality of the assessments made by the Supervisor this year on lakeshore properties." It was also significant that this letter urged the current township taxes should not be paid "voluntarily."

This letter had been preceded by a telegram which, while agreeing that the township taxes would have to be paid, recommended that they be paid UNDER PROTEST.

The letter in full said:

December 20, 1945.
"To every owner of property in Grosse Pointe Township abutting Lake St. Clair:

"On Monday of this week, the undersigned, representing a group of 87 Grosse Pointe township taxpayers, sent you the following night letter telegram: "Suggest you do not pay Grosse Pointe Township tax until you receive letter from us this week."

"It has been decided to institute a suit or suits in the Wayne County Circuit Court to test the legality of the assessments made by the Supervisor this year on Lake Shore properties. Only those taxpayers may join in such a suit who do not pay their taxes voluntarily; hence the telegram."

"We have been advised by counsel that the most satisfactory procedure, in order to clearly present the issues involved, will

Pointers Asked To Feed Hungry

The Detroit Council of Churches is sponsoring a drive for canned foods to help feed the starving people of Europe. The Council is appealing for goods to be taken to any of the Protestant churches in Grosse Pointe.

Collections may be taken to the Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, Christ Church or the Grosse Pointe Woods Presbyterian Church any time within the next three weeks.

The goods will be picked up from the churches by the Goodwill Industries, who will pack them and send them to New York. The American Friends Overseas Committee will ship the food to Europe and personally distribute it.

Farms Primary Election Is Subject of Speculation

Whether or not there will be a primary election in the Village of Grosse Pointe Farms this winter will not be known until the date for filing petitions has passed.

Village Clerk Harry Furton has issued the following statement in connection with the election or elections as the case may be:—

January 8, 1946
"On account of the requirements of the General Village Act and a Special Election Amendment, it is necessary this time of the year to give a notice of the date for Primary election without knowing whether one will be necessary or not."

"This is due to the fact that the time between the last filing date for nominating petitions and the actual election day does not give sufficient time to prepare for election.

"However, it is important that persons interested in voting for candidates to be nominated, should a Primary election be necessary, should register on or before Tuesday, January 22 next."

"This is the last date on which the Village Clerk may accept registrations for the Primary election to be held on February 11, if one is necessary."

"The requirement which makes a Primary election necessary is that more than double the number to be elected file nominating petitions for any one office to be filled."

HARRY A. FURTON, Village Clerk.

Plane Wreck Causes Ice Jam at Park

Great Chunks Plowed Loose During Search Pounding at Wall Along Beach

The icebreaker used on Lake St. Clair to clear away the ice from the spot where the missing plane is supposed to have disappeared, loosened big chunks of ice from a considerable surface of the lake off the Farms and this has caused trouble farther down.

The loose ice has piled up from the pressure of the current on the Park beach front six miles down stream. The tremendous pressure of the current squeezes the ice up into mounds which approximate 20 feet in height and, from 75 to 100 feet across. As the ice mounds reach the top they break off with a thunderous crash. Already the crunching ice has done considerable damage to the facing along the Park beach docks.

Park Prowlers Kept on Move

A. J. Krause, of 708 Berkshire answered his door bell Sunday evening shortly after dark to find no one there. A little later on he heard some strange noises in the house next door, No. 710 Berkshire. He knew the occupants were away, so phoned the police. Officers P. Conlon and G. Boone made a thorough examination of the interior of the house but found everything in order.

The tactics used by the unknown visitor were similar to those employed by recent marauders in the Pointe area. They first ring the bell to learn whether anyone is at home and if found empty at the time, go to work.

Their first call at 708 Berkshire got a quick response and they disappeared from sight before Mr. Krause got to the door. They found ideal operating conditions next door but were scared away by the quick arrival of the police.

Killer Called Purse Snatcher

Walter Blattert, the confessed killer of Mrs. Marsden, was the subject of a further teletype inquiry that came into the Pointe police stations Monday afternoon.

The message stated that he had been guilty of purse snatching and asked for information from persons who had experienced this type of assault. The police have hopes of extending their information regarding his activities in the recent past.

Woods Voters Go to Polls Next Monday

Amendment to Zoning Ordinance Affecting Mack Avenue Will Be Decided

Qualified electors of the Village of Grosse Pointe Woods will go to the polls next Monday, January 14, to vote on a proposed amendment to the village zoning ordinances which would affect the future character of a large section of Mack avenue.

The issues at stake have been outlined in detail by Village President Alois A. Ghesquiere in the following letter to the NEWS, which is printed here in full:

"There is apparently some confusion and misunderstanding in the minds of our citizens regarding the proposed amendment to the Zoning Ordinance which is being submitted to the voters on January 14. For this reason and in line with a policy of informing the electorate as much as possible, I am offering a few words of explanation and clarification."

"At present, our Zoning Ordinance permits the erection of business or commercial structures on both sides of Mack avenue on its entire length within the Village of Grosse Pointe Woods, excepting certain listed objectionable forms of business and also excepting when the subdivision restrictions rule otherwise. This zone on Mack avenue and the portion of Vernier road west of Mack avenue are designated as District "B." The residential zones of the Village are designated as District "A."

"The proposed amendment, if approved, would increase the size of District "A" and reduce the size of District "B" by prohibiting the erection of business structures along the west side of Mack avenue from Bourneville avenue where the super market building is now being erected, north to the South Property line of the Village Park site and on the east side of Mack from Huntington drive to the boundary line between Grosse Pointe Woods and Grosse Pointe Farms. This proposed amendment has been instigated at the request of about 60 petitioners who are home owners in the Southwest portion of the village, largely residents of the Country Club Woods Subdivision. Their original request was for only the lots in that subdivision but this was later increased by the Commission to include the areas now in the proposed amendment."

"The petitioners and others who are interested in having this change made submit the following reasons in behalf of the proposed amendment: 1. That the district involved is at present entirely residential, because no business buildings have ever been erected and that it should remain residential in character. 2. That the property on the east side of Mack avenue in Grosse Pointe City and Detroit police radio and telephone on Monday and Tuesday because he had decided to visit his aunt in Detroit rather than go to school."

His father, Clarence Blinn, called up the City Police station at 9:57 a.m. in some alarm and said the boy had not reported at school. The rest of the day the police of two cities were on the lookout for him, equipped with a complete description, right down to the maroon corduroy pants. Late the next morning word came that he was safe and sound at his aunt's."

Woods Election Will Cost $500

The referendum vote in the Woods village next Monday will keep the four village voting places open all day long. Each booth will be manned four attendants, each of whom will get $12 per day for his or her services. This is the usual fee paid in the Woods for a full day's work of twelve hours at the polls on any election.

This cost of approximately $200, plus advertising of the ordinance, attorney fees in its preparation, miscellaneous printing chargeable to the election and other incidentals will bring the cost to well over $500.

Neighbors Seething Over Return of Boy Who Assaulted Pal

Protests Over Release of William Dieters From Criminal Institution Pour into Official Offices

The case of William Dieters, the boy who committed a murderous assault on his younger companion Benson Stahl on June 4 in the old garage in the rear of the store at Maumee and Fisher, has the community in the neighborhood where he lives with his parents at 320 Moran road, seething again.

When the assault with a star drill and an ice pick was made, which nearly cost young Stahl his life, Dieters was taken down to Juvenile Detention Home. From there, following an examination by alienists, he was committed to the Ypsilanti institution for the criminal insane by Judge O'Brien on August 9.

Some time last October he was released from there by the Ypsilanti authorities and permitted to go to his home. His appearance there immediately caused concern and complaints began to pour in from the neighbors and particularly from Benson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Stahl, who said their son was still in a weakened condition from the attack and was in a highly nervous state caused by the mere presence of his assailant at large in the neighborhood.

Word got to Judge Healy of the Juvenile Division of the Probate court both from neighbors and from the City police, and the Judge assured the Stahls they would be protected from the menace of young Dieters' presence.

Shortly after this he was taken back to the Ypsilanti institution. This was last October. On December 20 he was finally discharged by that institution, a second time, with the definite word that he was not insane and was not a proper inmate for that place. Since young Dieters' second return home, the trouble has started all over again.

The neighbors, particularly those with young children, do not want him in the neighborhood. Complaints have again poured in to the local police and the judicial authorities in Detroit.

Last Friday Chief of Police Tom Trombly, of the City, took it up with Ernest Bridges, Registrar of the Juvenile Detention home, and insisted that something be done to dispose of the youth's case in a legal way.

As it stands now he has been officially declared of sound mind, and as such has remained unpunished for a crime that narrowly missed murder.

Douglas Returns To Bank's Board

Capt. Dwight Douglas, who will soon receive his honorable discharge from the Navy, was voted back on the board of directors of the Grosse Pointe Bank at a meeting of the board Tuesday night. Douglas is a former president of the bank.

C. Henry Buhl, who has been a director for some years, has resigned from the board. The only other change made was the elevation of Louis Reno from the post of assistant cashier to assistant vice-president.

Park Police Determined To Halt Wave of Thefts

Entering and burglary cases have been increasing of late in the Park and Chief Henry W. Piel of the Park police department is determined to do something to stop them.

He is making a direct appeal to the citizens to cooperate with the police. It has long been the practice for citizens to notify the police whenever they intend to be away from their homes for any protracted stay and the properties are then placed on a police "watch list." He wants this practice to be faithfully continued, but in addition to that, he now asks that when a family is to be away from the house for even a few hours in the evening that it notify the police so that the men on their rounds in their scout cars can give special attention to such houses.

In addition to this the Chief asks that if a resident notices any loiterer or suspiciously parked car in the neighborhood he phone it at once to the Police headquarters, Lenox 7400.

The Chief says the citizens are many and the police few but if they pool their forces they can beat this nuisance.

"There will be no complaint," he says, "if 99 of these reports prove duds. The police will be amply repaid if the hundredth report results in catching one culprit. The police are more than willing to chase down all reports."

Construction Underway in All Sections

Both Commercial Structures and Homes Begin to Rise; Many Permits Sought

The big building boom for the Pointe which has been predicted for as soon as the war ended is fast developing into a reality. During the whole war period when building operations were impossible because of the primary claims of the war upon both materials and labor, there was no new construction at all and only such minor emergency repairs as were absolutely necessary.

Almost with the firing of the last gun however, inquiries began to come into the various building inspection offices of the Pointe, to the real estate offices and to contractors and builders, from parties who were making ready to build.

Down in the Park village Manager Lane has already authorized permits for 16 different building operations. These are either for new construction or for remodeling operations so extensive as to be practically new buildings.

Andrew Pitos of 9918 Kercheval is putting up a building on Mack avenue between Harvard and Cadieux in the Harvard home subdivision that will be used as a restaurant where only diners will be served in the evening. It will have an English style front and is represented to be a high class establishment.

The latest development now under way in the Park is the new auto service and sales building which Tom Boyd is building on East Jefferson at Nottingham. This structure, 75 by 155 feet, which will cost between $40,000 and $50,000, is expected to be completed by March 1.

Flu Threatens School Classes

When the students at Grosse Pointe High returned to classes after their Christmas vacation they missed seven teachers who were on the sick list. All had the flu. Only two substitutes were available.

The following day, Thursday, eight teachers were unable to report and only three substitutes could be found. Some 35 home, rooms, classes and study halls had to be assigned to teachers with free periods.

Post Office Equipment Awaiting Installation

The new equipment for the Grosse Pointe post office has advanced a step nearer its final installation. It is now piled up in the small room in the south end of the post office building on Maumee.

It will be erected as soon as the Detroit post office can get qualified men to go out and place it.

residents of other sections of the village should not be too concerned if the residents of the south end of the village want to keep their immediate surroundings strictly residential, because it will not injure the balance of the village. 8. That the matter of taxes is not pertinent because when a municipality collects extra taxes it must expend the additional amount for additional services.

"Those who oppose this proposed amendment give the following reason for doing so: 1. That this property was originally subdivided as business frontage, some of it before the village was incorporated, that this was recognized when the Zoning Ordinance was enacted in 1940 and that the residents of this area were aware of this situation when they purchased their property and therefore it should remain as is. 2. That the present Zoning Ordinance does not stop the restrictions from being changed to residential if the owners so desire. That the restrictions on the east side of Mack avenue in Grosse Pointe Farms were changed from business to residential by common consent of all property owners in that subdivision and that the residents in the Woods could do the same thing by co-operative effort. 3. That while at present there is too much business frontage in the village, after further growth this will not be true. 4. That it is unfair to the owners of the business lots in this area who have invested in them because the present values of $75.00 to $120.00 per front foot will drop to $25.00 per front foot if changed to residential property. 5. That because these lots are generally only 20 feet wide, they are impractical for residential purposes and that it would be a particular hardship to the owners of a single lot who could not build without acquiring another lot. 6. That it will hurt the tax income of the village because: (a) Business property can be assessed higher for the same area, also personal taxes can be levied upon the stock and fixtures in a business establishment. (b) If this frontage on Mack is restricted to residential only, very few people will care to build a home on a main highway such as Mack avenue and that for that reason the lots will ultimately revert to the state for non-payment of taxes. 7. That the residents of the south portion of the village are unduly concerned about these business structures and that they will not be objectionable because the present Zoning Ordinance prohibits all businesses of that nature. 8. That if this amendment should be passed it will lead to innumerable lawsuits and that it will be very difficult for the village to enforce.

"It will be the duty of the voters to decide on January 14 which one of these two groups of reasons outweigh the other and vote accordingly. It is an important election and it is hoped that a large group will cast their ballots and settle this controversial problem in a definite manner by a truly representative vote. If you have registered for any previous village elections, you are eligible to vote. If not you may register at any time during office hours at the Village Clerk's Office up to 12 noon January 12. Voting will be at the usual polling places.

A. A. Ghesquiere, Village President."

The whole action for reduced assessments has thus far been directed towards the township. Inquiry at the offices of the City of Grosse Pointe on Maumee discloses that no lakefront property owners in the City have made any request for reduced assessments.

The City, as a municipality apart from the township, although wholly surrounded by it, makes its own assessment, which is the basis for its share of the school and county tax as well as that levied for strictly city purposes.

It is understood however, that the City follows practically the same formula for arriving at its assessed valuation as the township.

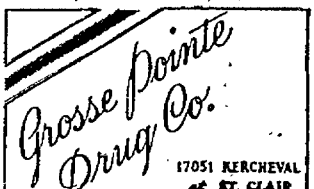

"The easiest way" may all too easily become "the American way."

Certificate of Merit Given Pointe for Civilian Defense

Efforts of Local Organization During World War II
Recognized in Award Received by Elworthy

A Certificate of Merit given by Governor Kelly and Capt. Donald S. Leonard, State Director of Civilian Defense, has been awarded to the Grosse Pointe Area Defense Council in recognition of its efforts during World War II.

The certificate, received today by George Elworthy, Chairman of the Defense Council, states: "The Michigan Office of Civilian Defense awards this Certificate of Merit to the Grosse Pointe Area Defense Council in recognition of loyal and unselfish service rendered by the Council and its civilian defense volunteers during World War II. Such service stands as a mark of distinction and patriotic devotion in the Nation's achievement of Victory."

Although Civilian Defense has been inactive since the surrender of Japan, its formal dissolution as a legal entity will take place this month, the interval between having been allowed to give Councils time to liquidate their organizations and dispose of funds on hand. This has now been accomplished in all but a few instances.

In a number of communities various Civilian Defense programs have been taken over by other agencies, particularly in the field of protection such as fire and police auxiliaries. Programs which had served their purpose, or for which there were no other local sponsors, were discontinued in September.

In a letter accompanying the Certificate of Merit, Capt. Leonard said:

"The contribution made by Civilian Defense Volunteers and their leaders to winning the Victory in World War II, and in maintaining our Country in a state of defense preparedness, will forever stand as an impressive tribute to their patriotism and loyalty. Their generous donation of time and energy to carry on the many essential home front tasks assigned to them made them participants in the greatest example of civilian cooperation and organization of all time."

"It therefore gives me pleasure to forward to you a Certificate of Merit awarded to your Defense Council and the Volunteers within its jurisdiction. To that I want to add my personal expression of pride and gratitude for the fact that the outstanding and exceptional record of Michigan's Civilian Defense Volunteers was unsurpassed in the Nation."

Chairman Elworthy said the certificate will be framed and will be presented to the Veterans Affairs Committee and the Honor Roll Society for a decision on the proper place of display.

COMPENSATION

The Michigan Unemployment Compensation Commission paid 16,228 fewer people during the week of December 29th than in the previous week, it was announced by Eugene T. Dormer, executive director.

"This drop is not significant either of reemployment or of the fact benefits are being exhausted," said Dormer. "It is due rather to a short week because of the Christmas holiday."

The amount paid out dropped proportionately to $2,263,876.48, a decrease of $851,767.

MAN'S INGRATITUDE

*In the market place I found you
Standing straight and dignified,
Erect, among a fallen few,
Alone, in virgin pride.*

*As eager eyes appraised your shape
In greed and avarice,
I vowed to purchase your escape
No matter what the price.*

*From the racketeers who brought you
To sell in rude display
I dug down deep and bought you,
So help me—did I pay!*

*I drove you from the market place
And not a word was said
By you in gratitude; disgrace
Appeared to bow your head.*

*Where will I take you now? I thought,
While turning down my street,
With you I simply can't be caught—
I'll find some place discreet.*

*In mute acceptance of your fate
You acquiesced to stay
Secluded, till a certain day
And see me every day.*

*Propitious was the night when I
Sneaked you into my house;
Where none but you could testify
If I were man or mouse.*

*I wrestled with you for a spell
Until you took a stand
Conveying that my acts were—well,
A little out of hand.*

*But, strange enough, you did elect
To wear the jewels I gave,
And in no time you stood bedecked
Like Nero's favorite slave.*

*You evidenced no qualm nor fear,
When Bluebeard-like, I warned:
"These baubles in a recent year Another have adorned."*

*"You, just like her, will be cast out
In little time at most—
I'm fickle, and you won't last out
A fortnight with your host."*

*Alas, a pity this must be
That you should thus be jilted:
I've no use for a Christmas tree
At New Year's, when it's wilted.*

Dad Solves Problems of Soldier Son

Despite all jams and handicaps in the transportation system of the country, Gus Constant, proprietor of the Cupid Restaurant, was determined that his boy, Harry Constant, Pfc. AAC, should get home for Christmas.

Harry was tied down at his base at Fort Lowry, Denver, Colorado, with small prospect of getting home. He had his leave but that was all.

But father Constant was not to be outdone by such small inconveniences as lack of transportation for 3,000 miles in midwinter.

He dispatched his brother-in-law in a car to Denver. Fortunately the weather held good momentarily in that section and the road conditions were favorable. Harry got safely to his home at 970 Lakepointe.

Then, to have as much time as possible with their son over the holidays, father and mother Constant sent their boy back by plane to his base, getting him there just under the wire on his leave limit.

Another Park Home Ransacked

Last Monday night thieves got into the F. D. Everts home at 1923 Bishop by forcing a rear window. Neighbors reported a big dog belonging to a neighboring home barking at 8:30 in the evening, just a half hour before the return of the Everts family.

As the thief had done only a partial job ransacking the presumption is that the return of the family scared him away. This has been the experience in several recent b. and e. cases in the Park.

Car and Truck Tangle At Scene of Sewer Job

Miss Tucker of the Grosse Pointe Board of Education reported to Grosse Pointe police on January 7 that the sewer construction work going on at Kerby road and Grosse Pointe boulevard had cost her a dented fender.

Miss Tucker said she had been given the signal to drive by and just as she was passing a truck had darted out and nicked her fender. The matter has been reported to Village Engineer Smith for investigation.

The Year of Decision

President Truman said in his fireside chat the other night that this was the "year of decision." Everybody with a scintilla of grey matter under his skull will agree with him.

The military war against world dictatorship has been fought and won, largely by the superb courage of our fighting young men, by the proved capacity of our military and naval leaders, by the patriotic and grueling work of millions of our working men and women in the war production plants, by the managerial abilities of the heads of our industrial machine, in the laboratories of our scientists but above all by the united front of 140,000,000 Americans for the time devoted themselves wholeheartedly, unselfishly and without stint or limit to the sole purpose of winning a war. The war was the supreme historic example of the might of democracy in action. This was the great achievement which culminated in 1945.

This year of decision follows immediately after. It is to decide whether the things we fought for, the American way of life, is to continue, making wholesome and orderly advances to a higher level of well being for all, or is to lapse into a dictatorship by labor with labor leaders in the governmental saddle, as doubtless already anticipated by many of them, or is it to swing to an opposite extreme which will mark the death of the labor union. This latter can happen only if labor unions themselves by their dictatorial attitude at this time alarm and exasperate everybody not a part of their own group into drastic action.

The first situation means out and out communism in America; the second means a Hitlerized America.

America wants neither. What every sober thinking American yearns and prays for is a situation wherein every working man can have steady employment at wages better than mere living costs; where the money, the savings of the people, invested in private enterprise, can be assured of a fair return. They dread a spiraling cycle of wages-prices-wages-prices whose inevitable end is the universal destruction of inflation. They equally dread a fall in wages which means shrinking purchasing power, idle factories and a lowering of the living scale. They dread mob rule run mad in our national economy, in the illadvised interest of any pressure group whether it be a labor union or any other form of organized action. They are greatly disturbed at this moment by the coincidence of great strikes already here or immediately threatened which could well paralyze our whole national economic machinery.

The whole people must naturally look to their President and their Congress of Representatives for leadership in this crisis.

They hope and are praying in every religious gathering, in most radio broadcasts at the end of each day, at millions of bedtimes in private homes, for Divine guidance and wisdom and courage and statesmanship in our governmental leaders. They earnestly want them to divorce their minds at this time from the political expediencies of their personal situations. They pray that the composite virtue of their leaders may be equal to meeting the responsibilities that face them.

And, let these leaders of state be assured, the people will be quick to recognize right and wisdom when it is forthcoming and will give it a support which will be irresistible.

USO Perpetuation

The suggestion that the United Service Organization be converted into a permanent organization comes as no surprise to the oldsters who are familiar with the usual course which such wartime conceived enterprises take. The idea of course originated now, as formerly, with those bright young men and women who have done a splendid job in providing entertainment and extending innumerable aids to the men of the armed forces both at home and throughout the world, but who withal have a keen appreciation of an agreeable, steady job at satisfactory pay. Needless to say the suggestion did not come from those who gave their services for nothing.

Most serious citizens however will question the wisdom of doing this. They already are witnessing a highly organized effort underway to regiment our industrial life and will not be enthused with the idea of taking a step towards the regimentation of our entertainment as well.

The experience of the other war is recalled when an organization called the War Camp-Community Service functioned actively. It was a sort of Parent-Teacher organization elevated to adult status. Its function seemed to be to arrange social contacts and entertainment between the boys in the war camps in this country and the residents of the nearby communities. Its services were quite similar to the functions of the USO and the Hostess Corps organizations.

When the war ended and there were no more war camps to serve, this organization was all dressed up with no place to go. So an effort was made to perpetuate it as a permanent body to be supported by the community as a civil function. The idea never got to first base as soon as the good burghers of the neighborhood learned what was in the making for their pocketbooks henceforth and forever more.

The $25 billion debt which we faced at the end of that war looked rather formidable to the John Citizens of that time and they were loath to take on any avoidable further commitments. We know now in the light of our present financial situation that that old debt was mere chickenfeed but the ten fold greater national obligation we face now is obviously no inducement to urge us into any deeper financial morass.

This idea of hanging onto the tail of the war dog will doubtless be advanced in many quarters. Some sarcastic wit mentioned the other day that we already had in a certain department of the Army more Colonels than Second Lieutenants. A lot of the Colonels are getting better pay right now in some cosy, safe niche in the War Department than they ever got before. A lot of them are lying awake nights thinking up ways and means of hanging on. Many of these men did splendid work in their respective places during the war but the big idea now is that the war is over and the time has come to begin to extend mercy to the taxpayers.

Julius Schubot must be hiding his emeralds under a bushell! Didn't know until Winchell announced it on Sunday over the air, that the colossal emerald with Washington's head cut out on it, (the one being presented to Mrs. Truman) was executed by "Schubot, the Detroit jeweler." Tsk, tsk, tsk, "Jools" . . . and you never even told us!

Any minute now, we'll have enough 'domestic staff' stories to fill a large sized tome. In the call of duty (ahem), we telephoned a local woman last week . . . at the forbidden hour of most people's dinner time. The maid answered the phone, and when we apologetically asked to speak to Madamaam, and were told she wasn't in, we asked when she thought we MIGHT reach her that night. Said the maid, "Waaal, you might call again pretty soon. They went to someone's house on . . . Road for dinner, but they didn't wanna go, so they'll probably be home real soon."

The perfect (oh yeah?) heading for our impressions-in-arsenic this week, is an impression of US sent in by our most loathsome fan . . . sooooooon, if anyone is inclined to feel let down over their's they needn't after reading this:

"A Pryor: Buttered rum and vinegar . . . Champagne with a beer chaser . . . Glass chin . . . Accent on guff . . . Attar of arsenic . . . Stardust in a fog . . . (and choose one), a large mouth or an extremely small foot!" (THAT, my friends, is one fan's opinion of us. Imagine!) The following are our more kindly efforts, even if we do open our mouth again and put our SMALL foot in it.

MRS. JOSEPH DeGRIMME: Fresh-water pearls . . . Iced casaba melon . . . a field of anemones . . . "a coach and four" . . .

Calling all dog lovers . . . in this month's House and Garden magazine there's a story you'll be caraaaaazy about, called "Tim O'Shenko" . . . who turns out to be an Irish setter. The pup wandles his way into a "no dogs allowed" apartment and becomes a loving problem to the young married couple who adopt him.

Just waded through a stack of Christmas bills and were simply fascinated when we came to Kilgore and Hurd's bill. The most delicate and delightful aroma assailed our nostrils . . . and while we thought it a touch sissy for a men's store to send out perfumed bills . . . we were nevertheless pleased as punch.

We lifted it to our nose and took a deep breath, then happily paid the bill. The next bill we picked up was from Jensen . . . and reposing inside was a small blotter sachet of "Breathless" perfume! So Messrs Kilgore and Hurd, we take it all back. It was merely your proximity to Jensen that caused the confusion. But at least for one teeny-weeny minute we thought about you as the sweetest store in all Detroit.

By the time you read this, we will be ensconced in the "Flower Pot" . . . or in other words, our new office, wherein the tree grows. How about coming in for a look-see . . . we're awful party . . . not US, the office!

Pearl Harbor Runaround

The Pearl Harbor investigation which has certainly afforded generous opportunity for the personal alibi role, has gotten around to just about where it began. The essential facts of the case have not been changed an iota. Admiral Kimmel was in supreme command of all sea forces there and General Short was the top Army commander.

The disposition for all arrangements for defense were completely in their hands. The forces were so ample that long before the Japs blasted us into a major catastrophe we had boasted that it was the Gibraltar of the Pacific. About all that Washington could do to supplement their preparations for defense was to keep them posted on the progress of the diplomatic negotiations going on between Washington and Tokyo. There has been much evidence that this was done.

Admiral Stark, Chief of Naval Operations, speaking for our sea forces, says he left the immediate disposition on Hawaii to Kimmel. This seemed proper and reasonable.

But Admiral Kimmel was so woefully ignorant of what was going on on the waters to his west that the Japs were able to bring a sufficient force literally over his head before their presence were known even on our side of the Pacific who blasted his magnificent force of tied up fighting ships into a junk heap.

General Short had his planes hived up so close together on Hickham Field that the Japs destroyed them by the hundreds with practically no loss to themselves.

Despite all of the relevant or irrelevant testimony that has been produced at the hearings the essential facts remain unchanged. It's about time this matter was disposed of by a verdict from some competent authority, other than that of public opinion. That verdict is already in. If they intend to whitewash the whole matter, let them have the courage to do that, if they dare.

Hitler Foot Note

Bit by bit the truth is appearing regarding the last days of Hitler and the Third German Reich. A political testament discovered by British and American intelligence officers in the Bavarian village of Vilshofen, which has been verified by experts familiar with Hitler's handwriting, apparently goes far to clear up the mystery . . . According to this, Hitler named Admiral Doenitz as his successor and directed him to name a Government which was to carry on a "never surrender" war. He looked forward to a third world war and an unending fight against "international Jewry."

Other evidence also discloses quite completely that he married Eva Braun a few hours before their deaths by suicide and that their bodies were cremated according to his orders.

It is of small concern what really has been the exact manner of the exit of this character from the scene of world woe and chaos which was his legacy to mankind. To get the record straight it is merely a satisfactory foot note to current history.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

By no stretch of the imagination does the undersigned consider himself an authority on the subject of modern community planning. But so much ridicule has been heaped upon the idea of changing our zoning ordinance that one would almost think that we here in the Woods have the perfect community.

This ideal residential spot was planned and laid out many years ago by an assorted group of all-wise real estate operators who gazed into their crystal ball and came up with a village of 25,000 population and just enough, not too little and not too much, business frontage to not only comfortably accommodate the residents, but also assure businessmen profitable operation. Thereby assuring sound investment and stable values of property.

This assured soundness of investment and stable value of business property of course, (according to the Grosse Pointe News), always be protected.

Now in the early days of subdividing there was, of course, no village of Grosse Pointe Woods, or for that matter any village at all.

Neither was there any coordinated plan for sewers. But there were some sewer crocks put in here and there, leading no one knew where, and with a capacity which has remained a question for years.

These early subdividers who started way back undoubtedly did not pretend to know how all this would work out, but they had great faith in the future. They even had a slogan, "Buy a lot, keep it, and some day it will keep you."

They of course never detailed restrictions too much. If restricted at all residential lots were restricted to a monetary value of that period, and to members of the Caucasian race only. Such little matters as the Constitution of the United States and the Bill of Rights were conveniently side-stepped.

Business lots of course did not carry any restrictions as to design or type, for such would interfere with free enterprise.

Was it not the era of the rugged individual? And if they were rugged enough to build one hundred hot-dog stands of various hue and shape along Mack avenue who would dare prevent them from doing so?

Would it be too much to say that we have changed our views on many of such matters? Would it be too much to say that most investors in newly laid-out business frontage not only are regarded but regard themselves strictly as speculators either to reap a harvest or to lose. Indeed how many investors of Mack frontage have not already lost?

Of course we have long suspected that the Grosse Pointe News still champions the cause of rugged individualism, as does Councilman Rowe who evidently has not the slightest objection to the aforementioned hot-dog stands or furnace shops.

But this IS 1946 with 1947 just around the corner. We have come a long ways and haphazardly going ahead of old, is making room for coordinated planning.

Granted that the citizens who started all this acted from a selfish standpoint, but so does Councilman Rowe who bought how many feet of Mack frontage for how much?

And then how come this fluctuation in values?

Assessed values of $100 per foot (the records do not show this Mr. Editor) means very little, unless such an assessment can regularly be collected. This has NOT been the case in past history and therefore Councilman Rowe was enabled to buy at tax sale.

The Grosse Pointe News has been grossly unfair in its approach to the entire matter as well as in its interpretation of the council vote. Mr. Toles added to the confusion by further misinterpretation, and Mr. Rowe—Well I think that Mr. Rowe, however sincere he may be, is missing the bus entirely.

The National Committee on Housing in a warning against excess store supply, said among other things, and I quote—"Most communities, old and new, are rezoning of sections of Mack Avenue frontage, I would like with your permission to point out one factor in this proposal which seems to be almost ignored. As I gather, the owners of this property have invested in it on the understanding that it was business and not residential property and by a zoning ordinance it is admitted by all parties for or against that these people stand to lose on their investment. On the other hand, residents of this area have invested in homes knowing full well that a business zone was already established. But, to enhance the value of their own property, the owners of other property must suffer without hopes of reimbursement. I have no investment in this property nor am I even acquainted with the owners of it, but there is a principal involved and honesty is an essential to the welfare of a community as it is to the wellbeing of the individual.

Yours very truly,
H. Wilcock.

This Saturday in Chicago . . .
An Australian girl . . . Mrs. Betty Carita Reid, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. McDonald of Wynus West, Queensland. Will become the bride of Berrien Eaton, Jr. . . son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Berrien Eaton of Bishop road, Grosse Pointe . . .
This wartime romance began in Brisbane . . . where Mr. Eaton (then a captain in Field Artillery of the 1st Cavalry Division, now on terminal leave) was stationed . . .
They were introduced in the early part of 1943 by a friend of the Eatons . . . Captain Christopher Buckley, British Army . . .

WORKED WITH MacARTHUR'S STAFF

Early in 1943 . . . the bride-elect worked in the office of the Chief Engineer, Major Gen. Hugh J. Casey on General MacArthur's staff . . .
After Gen. MacArthur's staff was moved to Manila in March 1945 . . . Mrs. Reid and other civilian employees at GHQ AF PAC went on to Manila . . .
Captain Eaton was stationed there at that time, also . . .
Last August . . . he proceeded with the 1st Cavalry from Manila to Tokyo and has since returned to the United States landing in San Francisco on November 1 . . .
Mrs. Reid arrived in Los Angeles on the USS President Pierce December 17 . . . and came to Grosse Pointe two days before Christmas . . .
She has been the houseguest of Col. and Mrs. Eaton . . .

DOUGLAS HORNING TO BE BEST MAN

Lt. (j.g.) Douglas Horning of Detroit . . . now on duty in Bethesda, Md. . .
Will be Mr. Eaton's best man at the wedding ceremony in St. James Church . . .

DR. AND MRS. WISHROPP TO RETURN

Still in the service . . .
We hear that the popular Edward A. Wishropps will be soon back at the Pointe . . . after many years . . . to again occupy their home here . . .
Dr. Wishropp has been a commander in the United States Naval Reserve . . .
Besides many months of overseas work . . . Dr. Wishropp's last assignment with the Navy (in Seattle) was exclusively pediatrics . . .
(He has been examining 100 . . . (at least) . . . infants every day for the past year . . .)
So he'll be all ready for the vast circle of Grosse Pointe babies who have missed him during his Navy duty . . .

FIRST HOLIDAY SINCE WAR

Before returning . . .
The Wishropps plan their first vacation since the war . . . They'll motor home by way of California . . . Mexico . . .

Republican Women Elect Mrs. Higbie

Enthusiastic Meeting Held in Home of Mrs. Fred Murphy with Congressman Dondero as Speaker

Judging by the capacity attendance at the meeting of the Women's Republican Club of Grosse Pointe at the home of Mrs. Fred T. Murphy on Monday, January 7, Grosse Pointe women are keenly aware that government business is their business.

Congressman George A. Dondero, speaker of the afternoon and a recent visitor to Russia, drew a startling picture of life in Russia as compared with life in the United States. He said that "Communism and Christianity cannot live side by side because communism is in direct conflict with our system of government. The great issue in the coming campaign will be 'Americanism versus Communism' and the only organized group in the United States against communism is the Republican party."

Members of the club were very enthusiastic about the choice of the new president, Mrs. Laura Butler Higbie. Mrs. Higbie is well known in Grosse Pointe for her many patriotic, civic and charitable activities.

Other officers elected were: first vice-president, Mrs. Lester Moll; second vice-president, Mrs. James McEvoy Jr.; recording secretary, Mrs. Edgar Fink; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Lewis

Antoinette Verdonckt Married to H. A. Huck

Wedding Is Solemnized in St. Ambrose Church With Father Van Antwerp Officiating

Reminiscent of the holiday season were the poinsettia plants and pine trees which decorated St. Ambrose Church for the Saturday morning wedding of Antoinette Verdonckt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Verdonckt, of Maryland avenue, and Harold Arthur Huck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Huck, of Redford.

The Rev. Father Francis Van Antwerp officiated at the nuptial service.

Classic ivory satin robes were the choice of the bride, who wore an heirloom rosepointe veil and carried white orchids and stephanotis.

Antoinette asked Mrs. William Allen to be matron of honor. Her gown of dusky pink taffeta was distinguished by sleeves outlined in ruffles, and her flowers were red roses centered with purple violets.

Three bridesmaids preceded Antoinette to the altar. Mrs. Ralph Goode, Mrs. Emil Huck, Jr. and Mrs. Lex Verdonckt wore frocks of powder blue marquisette and carried cascade bouquets of peach gladioli.

Best man for his brother was Emil Huck, Jr. Guests were seated by William Allen, George De Caussin, Frank De Caussin, Ralph Goode and Lex Verdonckt.

Fine Tribute Paid Author Of "Men of the Red Arrow"

"Men of the Red Arrow," the book which is a collection of the series of articles Jack Carlisle wrote for the Detroit News while a war correspondent covering the famed 32nd Michigan Division in New Guinea and the Philippines, was launched fittingly Tuesday at a testimonial luncheon for the author in the University Club.

If Jack had any doubts about his popularity among metropolitan Detroit's civic, judicial and business leaders, whom he has covered for his paper for years, they should have been dispelled at Tuesday's gathering.

Judge Harry Toy was master of ceremonies for host Robert Powers of Arnold-Powers, publishers of Carlisle's book. On the author's right was his boss, W. Steele Gilmore, editor-in-chief of the Detroit News. On his left was his close friend, "who reserves the right to be my severest critic," Mayor Jeffries.

The guest list included Federal Judge Frank Picard, Judge Chester O'Hara, Judge Mackay Skillman, Giles Cavanaugh of the Internal Revenue Department, John Bugas and John Davis of Ford Motor Company, Boxing Commissioner John Hettche, Louis Colombo, Sr. and Jr.

There were his working companions on the news, H.C.L. Jackson, George Stark, Lee White, Hathaway and White and Beck. Former Governor Groesbeck was there and telegrams arrived from Senator Homer Ferguson and Governor Kelly.

Many tributes were paid the author by this group of close friends. Mr. Gilmore said no correspondent had done a better job and few had done as fine a one.

Mr. Carlisle said when he first returned and the idea of bringing out his stories in book form was discussed, it had been suggested that he rewrite the series, "washing out" some of the names and addresses and paying more attention to literary style. He refused.

"After living with those boys and watching many of them die," he said, "I wouldn't change one paragraph or one clause for literary style if it meant crossing out one name or one address. Nothing we can do for them is enough."

Judge Toy read a small announcement that had been made in the Villa Verde News, official publication of the Red Arrow Division, concerning the plans to publish Jack's book. Then he dumped hundreds of letters on the table before the guest of honor. They were written from all over the world by men of the 32nd Division, ordering copies of "Men of the Red Arrow."

St. Paul Five Loses, 42-30

St. Margaret - Mary Hands Local Basketball Team First Defeat of Season

By Fred Runnells

St. Margaret-Mary quintet lived up to pre-game predictions and swamped St. Paul, 42-30, to knock the local team from the undefeated class in the CYO League. St. Paul had previously won its first three games by lopsided scores and was considered as one of the teams to beat for the championship. St. Paul will have a chance to even the score with its conqueror later in the season when the second round of games is played.

St. Margaret-Mary had a little more polish in ball handling and passing while St. Paul had bad luck trying to score. Several times the ball actually went into the hoop only to roll out again. If St. Paul could have made good on only half of the baskets tried in the first quarter it would have had at least a ten point advantage instead of being tied at 4 points each.

St. Margaret-Mary began rolling in the second quarter and held a 11-8 half time advantage. To start the second half St. Margaret-Mary's former college players, Gerrard Richard of Wayne U. and Harvey Pierce of Lawrence Tech, began hitting the basket with regularity and at one time in the fourth quarter had their team out in front by 24 points. Only a late rally by St. Paul made the game interesting in the final minutes.

Gerrard Richard of St. Margaret-Mary led both teams in scoring with 14 points. Bob Van Tiem, coach of St. Paul's high school team, was high scorer for the losers with 9 points.

The accumulation of complaints from the neighbors over the return home of the Dieters boy has prompted the juvenile court authorities to reopen the case.

Dieters has been discharged from the Ypsilanti institution and having been declared mentally competent will now be re-investigated with the view of disposing of his case in the criminal courts.

Juvenile Court Referee Baxter has issued subpoenas for the police and all material witnesses in the assault case to come to his office on Friday.

Youngsters' Play Scares Neighbors

Residents in the vicinity of Kercheval and Kerby who witnessed the playful activities of two boys on January 6, were so alarmed at the nature of their play that they called the Farms police.

Patrolman LaPonsa investigated and carted a 14-year-old and an 8-year-old to headquarters for questioning. The youngsters were doing just what the neighbors had reported... chasing each other with knives.

While there appeared to be no malice in the sport, the police were able to convince the boys that there was considerable danger. The knives, of the hunting variety and evidently Christmas presents, were kept in police headquarters until the parents called for them.

William U. Ford Dies at Age 60

Foxholes of Detroit Appeal To Marine More Than Jungle

The most intimate and personal narrative of first hand observations of the war that the Rotary Club has been privileged to hear since the boys first began to come home, was that of Major Henry G. Totzke, at the luncheon meeting of the Club at the Whittier on Monday.

The Major made no attempt in his gripping entertaining account to analyze the causes, conduct or results of the war. He said he was entirely willing to leave those questions to the heavy thinkers back home. But he had a world of personal experiences and observations that would hold the interest of his listeners from start to finish.

As far back as 1938 the Major was a member of the Marine Corps Reserve and when the clouds of war began to thicken he joined up with the regulars. This was in November, 1940, a year before Pearl Harbor. When Pearl Harbor came, he was at Quantico and he said he realized he was in the Marine Corps from then on until the end of the journey.

The Major served in two of the most famous units of the Marine Corps in its whole colorful history, the First and Sixth Divisions. A few weeks after Pearl Harbor they were on transports pointing south from their Virginia base, destination unknown. They stopped briefly at Martinique. The situation there was tense due to the overthrow of France and the unknown possibilities of Germany, through the Vichy government, attempting to secure a foothold in the Western Hemisphere. As they approached the Panama canal they realized their future engagements were to be with the Japs. He said their sensations were varied and mixed as they left the view of the Canal at the stern and many of them felt they were taking their last view of America and what it stood for.

Major Totzke's Division, the First Marines' made the initial landing on Guadalcanal. Illuminative of the woeful ignorance that prevailed then among the rank and file of the Americans regarding the geography of the far Pacific, the Major related that when the word got around days later that they were headed for Guadalcanal the common comment was "here the h-l is Guadalcanal?" The Solomon archipelago was vague enough but Guadalcanal was simply unfathomable.

The Marines got an intimate and unforgettable knowledge of it however, in the next succeeding weeks and months. It wasn't a nice place at all according to the Major. The jittery feeling of our men in the unaccustomed jungle fighting was illustrated by the officers being kept awake most of one night by constant pot shots of some of our men who would frequently first fire and then call out "is that you marine?" The next morning they discovered a big black hog that had been wandering between the lines and miraculously escaped being converted into pork.

The Major avoided harrowing tales of the blood and heroism that characterized our operations. He had an obvious pride in the achievements of the Marines but frankly told how glad they were when the Army boys came and relieved them. He made the same complimentary reference to the Army's role on Iwo Jima and Okinawa, in both of which affairs he had a part. He contracted malaria on Guadalcanal which kept him hospitalized in Australia for several months. In addition to this he is entitled to wear the purple heart, several times over.

Major Totzke said there was a very deep sentiment of affection for and dependence on the Americans among the Australians and that this sentiment was particularly strong among the Tasmanians, the inhabitants of the relatively small island immediately to the south of the Australian continent. He believed that the great majority of the English speaking people in that part of the world would welcome political union with the United States.

The Major's long association with the Marine Corps has taken him into many far corners of the world, after the wont of the famous corps, and his observations are most interesting. He was especially concerned with the reactions of the various peoples of the British Commonwealth to the pro-American sentiment. His opinion was that the people of little Tasmania were strongest in this leaning with Australians next and New Zealanders, who incline strongly to the empire spirit, least pro-American of all in the Pacific. He believes the South Africans have the least American sentiment of any of the members of the Commonwealth.

He took some remarkable pictures of Nagasaki, showing the destruction wrought by the atomic bomb which the Rotarians ingested to view after the meeting.

He is home now, he says, and very happy about that. He hopes that his future hardships will be endured in the foxholes of Detroit.

In private life the Major is an attorney, and was associated with the Probate Court before he went to war. He is a resident of Grosse Pointe Woods.

P. O. Conducts Heavy Business

That the business to be done at the local post office amply justified its erection into a full fledged classified branch by the Post Office Department is seen in the figures for the month of December.

While the office has operated through three holiday periods this was the first one as a classified branch where it was authorized to extend all kinds of postal service to the public.

The business this year from December 1 through December 24 ran about 25% higher than last year for the same period. The figures on the principal items of postal service were:

Registered letters	410
Insured parcels	6,236
Ordinary parcels	53,544
Stamp sales	$19,644
C.O.D. packages	918
Pouches of first class mail	473
Sacks of parcel post	4,482

P.T.A. to Honor Scouting Groups

At the next meeting of the Wednesday evening, January 16, from 7 P. T. A. to be held a program in honor of the Girl and Boy Scout groups sponsored by the organization will be given. Girl Scout Troop No. 124 and Brownie Scout Troops No. 138 and No. 405 are preparing the formal opening for the meeting. Miss Katherine Richards, executive secretary of Detroit Girl Scouts, and Charles B. Lord, Scout Commissioner for the Grosse Pointe area, will give brief talks on "Tying Girl and Boy Scouting with Home, School and Community." Cub Scout Pack No. 86 will be responsible for the formal closing. This program has been arranged to inform and interest many more parents in the Scouting movement. Too few understand the fine character building possibilities inherent in these organizations, it is felt. All troop members and leaders extend a cordial invitation to P. T. A. members and parents in the community to attend this meeting.

Five Drivers Fined in Court

Chair E. Stansbury of 1226 Wayburn, charged with leaving the curb into moving traffic, pleaded not guilty and on examination of the facts was adjudged not guilty and the case was dismissed.

Alberic Van Huysse, of 4630 Alter road, charged with driving his car at night without lights, on investigation was adjudged not guilty and his case was dismissed.

Many Veterans Ask Allowances

Each week since October 1, there has been a marked increase in the number of veterans applying for readjustment allowances under the G. I. Bill of Rights, according to Eugene T. Dornier, Executive Director of the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Commission.

Over 18,000 veterans filed new claims during the month of November, bringing the total number being paid readjustment allowances in Michigan each week to over 30,000. For the week ending December 15, $728,308.00 was paid to 30,085 veterans, which is 2,000 more than the number receiving benefit checks the previous week.

THERE ISN'T ALWAYS ROOM FOR ONE MORE

Abdul doesn't know that a straw too many can break the camel's back. And many people don't know that one appliance too many on a circuit is the cause of that troublesome blown fuse. Many people are accustomed to inadequate wiring. But overloaded circuits are not your only handicap to home happiness if you have inadequate wiring. It means, too, improper distribution of outlets—not having the electric rooster where you want it because there's no outlet convenient, or it means that Dad can't use that electric shaver where he wants it. Don't think "there's always room for one more." Don't be like Abdul. Adequate wiring means a home for you "as good as new"—good enough to use every new appliance you'll want in your home. And, of course, if your plans for tomorrow include a brand-new home, adequate wiring is an "A-1" item to check in plans and specifications.

This is one of a series of advertisements prepared in cooperation with the Electrical Association of Detroit in the interest of insuring adequate wiring for every home in this area. Be sure your home is properly wired. When you are planning a new home, for wiring recommendations, call:

ATTENTION!

Grosse Pointe Woods TAXPAYERS

- ★ Do you know that the proposed change in the zoning ordinance which you are to vote upon on January 14 is certain to raise your taxes if it is approved by you?
- ★ That it will wipe approximately One half million dollars of potential taxable property off the tax rolls?
- ★ The present owners of the properties along Mack avenue which it is proposed to take out of commercial zone classification and place in strictly residential zone area will not pay taxes on property they cannot use. You can't build a home on a twenty foot lot, the only use to which these lots could be legally put if this measure should pass.
- ★ You will then have to help pay the taxes which these lots are now paying.
- ★ Did you know that the petition for this change was signed by only about half a hundred of some EIGHT THOUSAND residents of the Woods?
- ★ Can the rest of the Woods afford to pay for the doubtful benefits to be enjoyed by so few?
- ★ Do you think it is to the best interest of all the Village to do this?
- ★ You must know that some of these people bought their business frontage many years ago and have paid their taxes faithfully all these years.
- ★ Do you believe it conforms to principles of justice and fair play to deprive them now of the only use to which this property can be profitably put?
- ★ No community can grow unless suitable provision is made for locations for stores and such businesses as are necessary for the convenient functioning of organized community life. Mack avenue is the only street in Grosse Pointe Woods on which stores can be placed. It offers not a single foot more such room than will be needed if this village is to grow as we all hope and expect that it will, unless thwarted and killed off by such unwise measures as the present proposed zoning of seventy one lots on Mack avenue.
- ★ People will not build homes on twenty-foot lots on Mack avenue. To limit their use to such improvements means nothing less than their utter loss to their owners. How government and other large loan agencies regard their use for such limited purposes as private dwellings is seen in the refusal of these agencies to make loans on them for this purpose.
- ★ Finally, do you know that if this change in the zoning ordinance is made, the village will face many damage suits which will eventually cost the taxpayers a large sum of money. Your money, Mr. Taxpayer?

"Kiss of Death"

By LAWRENCE RANDALL
As Told to Mary Madison

Imogene smiled knowingly, "I could use a down payment on that reward."

"I thought that was it," I told her. She clicked out of the room, waving her childish hat by the streamers at us.

I left Zing's room a few minutes after Imogene. I was striding along in the crisp air, trying to doze off where Imogene had this date. I knew whom she had it with, all right, but not where. As I was passing the broad expanse of plate glass windows of The Colonial Dames tearoom I spotted him, sitting expectantly alone at one of the two-some tables inside the windows. I pushed open the broad ivory door with burnished brass knocker and stepped into the tearoom.

What a lukewarm spot for a liaison! I'd never been in the Colonial Dames before but it ran true to form. One of those depressingly cheerful places. A jungle of gentility. It was alive with frilly white window curtains, pink willow-tree china, grandfather clocks, trailing ivy pots and still-life food.

Roger Brooks was sitting nervously at the first two-some table. I hung up my hat, sat down opposite him.

"Sorry, Larry," he halted me as I sat down, "I'm waiting for someone."

I sat down anyway. "I know you are, Roger."

He lit a cigarette with freshly manicured fingers. The moron blase in its natural habitat.

"I took your call to Imogene in the hotel room. I know you made a date with her."

"What are you talking about? Imogene who?"

"Come, come, Roger. You're all dressed up in your breach of promise suit to meet her."

"I still don't gather you, Larry."

"You will," I promised him. I'd meant to take things easy but now the rim of my collar was searing a brand around my neck.

I look up. A waitress in sprigged pink muslin and a powdered white wig was at my elbow with a menu. There was something incendiary in the thought of Roger, calmly sitting here in this silver foxhole, awaiting a rendezvous with that little twerp of an Imogene while Miranda was still lying in the morgue. Well, he'd wallow in it before I was through with him.

I hurled a scorchingly vile epithet at him. The Colonial Dame at my elbow jumped back.

Roger's face was flaming with venom. He leaned across the narrow table. His clenched right fist shot out and landed a smart clip on my cheek. I hadn't expected that. I lunged at him, smashing a terrific blow on his jaw. Roger reeled from the whizzing impact, his chair teetered, clattered to the floor. He stood up, pushing the table over toward me. I dodged and made the center aisle. He hurled himself after me.

The Colonial Dames tearoom was politely hysterical now with shocked little cries from the tea-sippers and cocktail gulpers. Behind us a hag-and-bag party, with a blazing birthday cake centering the table, eyed us in stupefaction as if they'd been trapped in an underworld hangout.

Roger and I were sparring in the center aisle. Roger came at me with some haymaker punches. I'd underestimated that casual bulk of his. It was a ton of bran spiked with dynamite.

A bevy of the powdered wig waitresses circled timidly around us. There didn't seem to be an able bodied man in the place to stop us. I backed up from Roger's bludgeoning blows, crashing into a tiered stand of ivy pots thudding to the floor.

I sprang after him, giving all I had with my right. It landed on his sore jaw. Roger fell back, caught himself and raced at me again. We collided and Roger ricocheted into the birthday-cake table of women. I looked around quickly. The place seemed to be emptying. I couldn't see any cops plunging in yet, though.

Roger steadied himself, plunged violently at me and missed. I connected with a knockout right on his swollen jaw. He toppled as he staggered back, colliding in his fall with a waitress and spilling a huge trayful of dishes.

We were on the floor now, rolling savagely around on the rug like unsextrically tangled Siamese twins gone hopelessly crazy. Roger had me down. My energy was dwindling. With atomic effort, I forced strength to unwind my legs and knuckled my knee brutally into his stomach. Roger deflated. You could hear his wind choking out. He crumpled over on his side with a faint moan.

The blazing cake from the hag-and-bag party fell on the debris in plumes of fire. The Colonial Dames was in flames.

I stood up, pushed back the powdered wig waitresses and swung for the service door. Knocking aside the cooks, I cleared through the kitchen into a storeroom and out the open door to the alley. I had my second wind now. It was only half a block to the corner. I made it. Traffic halted. I flung open a cab door. The driver glared at me.

"We've got the light now," I shouted at him. "Get going, Joe. Straight out Jefferson. He shot ahead, lost in the traffic. I relaxed. Well, I'd always wanted to break up a tearoom with a good gutter brawl. I guess I also have always wanted to slug Roger Brooks. I know I got an awful surge of sadistic enjoyment, thinking of Imogene, tripping in there now to keep her date with Roger. With Roger's remains, to the tune of fire and police bells. That last wind-smashing business was bad, though. Roger had stopped breathing. Had I gone too far? Had I killed him?

A POINTE GOLF CLUBBING

Jock Pendleton and his playboys were holding forth at the Grosse Pointe Golf Club when Al Carroll, Guy Zingler and I checked in after midnight. The ballroom, like everything else at the club, was done in the grand manner. A diamond clip-joint. The stage was equipped with all the technical properties, lighting arrangements and scenery shift of a Broadway playhouse. The roll-off roof of the ballroom was opened now, giving a ceiling of star-glittering sky to the dancers.

As we entered Jock and his Platinum Horn were leading a number. Pendleton was plenty Parenheit.

We took a table down front and ordered drinks. No one in the crowd knew Carroll or Zing. It was their opportunity for taking in people without being taken in themselves. I took a deep head-swooning breath and leaned back. Nothing is so hypnotic as the combination of good Scotch, cigaret tang and the scent of fine perfume on fresh young bodies in the night air. Under that aphrodisiac my brain rocked blissfully to the off beat of Jock's music.

The dancers were beginning to drift toward the stage as the band was ad libbing for Jock to swing into his trumpet solo with a weaving contrapuntal background of the drums. He raised that platinum horn and gave. He was riding that horn now. He wasn't just playing a melody; he was the melody. Behind him came the muted wail of a savage civilization. Came the brassy axes of the saxos like the whirr of planes above skyscrapers. The mighty snort of trombones was the rapid breathing of a streamlined train. The star piercing notes of the clarinets, rode the sky. An' beneath it all, the rumbling sub-way thump of the bass and the swift measured tom-toms of the drums, regulating this swift melodic traffic.

The Playboys raced to a demonic crescendo with Jock and his trumpet leading, leading you along as he stormed those golden gates of his hot heaven. He lifted his trumpet. The number was over. You crashed back to earth. The dancers clamored with their beating hands and pounding heels. Someone at a nearby table was letting off shots of champagne corks. Jock swung into an encore. I signalled our waiter, told him to keep serving the same.

NICE, France—PRIVATE WILLIAM E. HANSON, of Grosse Pointe, Michigan, with Battery "O", 795th Anti-Aircraft Artillery Battalion, (IV Air Defense Command), returned to duty with the Army of Occupation after a 10-day furlough in this internationally famed Mediterranean resort, now a vacation spot for American soldiers in Europe.

Guests of the Army, GIs live in fashionable hotels and receive the same careful, courteous attention formerly lavished upon the Riviera's pre-war clientele. In the Army 29 months, 21 of them overseas, Pvt. Hanson has served in England, France, Belgium, Holland and Germany, and has been awarded four battle participation stars on his ETO ribbon for campaigns on the Continent. At present, he is stationed at Nurnberg, in Germany.

Prior to his induction, he was a student at Grosse Pointe High School, and lived with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Hanson, at 564 Lakepointe.

PF. ALBERT J. BERRES, III, is back from the Pacific, where he took part in the Guam and Iwo Jima campaigns as a member of the Third Marine Division.

Albert left Grosse Pointe High School in February, 1943, to enlist in the United States Marine Corps. He was separated from the service Dec. 31, 1945. The young veteran is making his home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Berres, Jr., at 476 St. Clair avenue.

SERGEANT CARL G. WELLFONDER, son of Mr. and Mrs. George G. Wellfonder of 1203 Hampton road, has been honorably discharged from the Army Air Forces at Kearney, Neb. He was in the service 32 months, having gone to active duty in July, 1941.

Sergeant Wellfonder served as a flight engineer on B-17's, B-24's and B-29's. He was an advanced specialist on airplane engines.

He and his wife are spending a vacation with her parents in Bakersfield. They are expected back in the Pointe this weekend.

T/5 Edward H. Behrend, of 879 Neff road, Grosse Pointe, Mich., was among the 4,500 Navy, Army, Marine and Coast Guard veterans who arrived in San Francisco Dec. 15 on the aircraft carrier USS Lexington to be discharged from service.

The carrier had aboard the largest single passenger load ever to leave the Tokyo Bay area.

SERGEANT CHARLES W. TOLES, JR., son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Wallace Toles of 425 Lincoln road, City of Grosse Pointe, has informed the NEWS of a change of address so he may continue getting his home town paper weekly. He may now be reached through Sub-area No. 6, Tidworth Staging Area, APO 437, P. M., N. Y. His number is 36584447.

PEARL HARBOR, T. H.—T/3 LOUIS J. LORANGER JR., husband of Mrs. Burnice R. Loranger, of 1305 Harvard road, Grosse Pointe Park 30, Mich., is on his way home.

Loranger is one of 1,281 high-point veterans whom the "Magic Carpet" is bringing back to the States aboard the U.S.S. Rutland. The U.S.S. Rutland left Okinawa Dec. 9, and was scheduled to arrive in San Pedro about December 26.

Passengers go directly to the Separation Centers nearest their homes to complete the formalities of obtaining their discharges before returning to civilian life.

HARRY A. CLOUGH, machinist's mate, second class, 72 Mapleton road, Grosse Pointe Farms, has been discharged, after honorable service in the Navy, at the personnel separation center in San Francisco, Calif.

BILLY THOMAS SCOTT, aviation machinist's mate, third class, 16904 St. Paul, Grosse Pointe, has been discharged, after honorable service in the Navy, at the personnel separation center in Norman, Okla.

Pearl Harbor, T. H.—T/Sgt. FRANCIS N. MORAN, son of Mrs. Francis Moran, of Grosse Pointe Farms, Michigan, and SGT. RICHARD W. PARSHALL, husband of Mrs. Edna L. Parshall of 534 Pemberton road, Grosse Pointe Park, Mich., are on their way home.

Moran and Parshall are two of 3,116 high-point Army veterans whom the "Magic Carpet" is bringing back to the States aboard the USS Montrose and the USS Lander.

Pearl Harbor, T. H.—T/Sgt. Phillips, 1021 Beaconsfield, Grosse Pointe, Michigan is one of 1,100 high-point Army veterans whom the Navy is returning to the States for discharge aboard the U. S. S. Long Island, a carrier of the Navy's famed "Magic Carpet" fleet. This ship left Pearl Harbor, December 28, and was scheduled to arrive in San Pedro about January 3.

The U. S. S. Long Island, first so-called "jeep" carrier, played a vital role in the important battle of Midway. This ship was used frequently as a transport and supply ship, as the Navy successfully maintained the longest supply lines in the history of global warfare.

Naval Staging Center, Pearl Harbor, T. H.—LT. CDR. ZUL-TAN S. BOHN, 502 Barrington road, Grosse Pointe Park, Mich., and Lieut. (jg) Abner R. Robinson are getting ready to rejoin the ranks of civilians, together with thousands of others going through this Naval demobilization center headed for the States.

At this staging center, the prospective discharges are grouped according to what separation center they will report to for their final papers. They are placed aboard cargo ships headed for the States as soon as shipping space is available.

JAMES STEIN, seaman, first class, 579 Barrington road, Grosse Pointe, has been discharged, after honorable service in the Navy, at the personnel separation center in San Diego, Calif.

AUGUST J. MIEHM, GM 1/c, who was discharged from the Navy on November 21, delighted his fellow Rotarians by appearing at the Club meeting last Monday, after an absence of more than three years.

He was given a standing welcome by the club. Gunner's Mate Miehms happens to be a member of the Miehms Realty firm on Mack avenue and has already solved his own reconstruction problem by getting back in harness with his firm. He is one of the charter members of the Grosse Pointe Rotary Club.

The USS Montrose and Lander—two of more than 300 carriers, battleships, cruisers, and attack transports in the Navy's famed "Magic Carpet" fleet—left Guam, December 15, and were scheduled to arrive in Los Angeles about December 31.

Passengers go directly to the Separation Centers nearest their homes to complete the formalities of obtaining their discharges before returning to civilian life.

Mr. and Mrs. Jean have another son, CHARLES FREDERICK JEAN, yeoman 3/c, who is still in service and stationed at the Naval base in Toledo, O.
