LATE LAST NIGHT President Truman gave CIO President Philip Murray and U.S. Steel President Benjamin Fairless their last chance to compose the steel strike by direct discussion between themselves... when they left the White House late in the evening, having failed to agree, he told them to "sleep over it and pray over it and do their utmost to get together and come back again at 2 o'clock Thursday (this afternoon)... should they fail to get together he would step into the issue with a proposal in the public interest."

THE ARMY IS TAKING strong measures to suppress agitation and demonstrations for early discharges by enlisted men which have been subversive of discipline and military order... immediately following General Eisenhower's explanation before a congressional committee, Lieut. Gen. R. C. Richardson, Jr., Pacific army commander, issued an order stating that "further agitation in behalf of demobilization will not be tolerated"... three men in Honolulu, charged with such agitation, have been confined to quarters, "pending further investigation of their activities"... courts martial are directed for future similar offenders.

PRESIDENT C. E. WILSON of G.M. challenges the statement of Ford Motor Company, through John Bugas, Industrial Relations Director of Ford, that Ford pays its employees more than G.M.... Bugas had asserted that the Ford offer of 17 1/2¢ an hour, raise would put Ford's average hourly rate to $1.38 per hour, or 20 1/2¢ an hour more than the present G.M. rate and 7¢ above what the G.M. rate would be if it accepted the President's fact-finding committee's suggestion of a 19 1/2¢ per hour increase for GM workers.

WILLIAM Z. FOSTER, national chairman of the Communist party, tells 18,000 Reds at a Lenin memorial rally in Madison Square Garden "the corporations are lousy with money... it is time to delouse Congress... the United States is now experiencing the greatest wage movement in its history and the movement shows every indication of taking on greater scope."

MEN WHO WISH to be in style next spring must sport a color scheme in which grays and yellows will predominate; so says the Men's Fashion Guild of New York.

Friday, January 18
THE UNITED STEEL WORKERS' UNION has decided to accept President Truman's proposal for settling the strike. This is one cent per hour under the figure for which Murray has been battling... there is high hope that if this should settle the steel controversy it would set the pattern for the settlement of the Automotive workers issue.

FRANCE BREAKS OFF diplomatic relations with Spain... The Constituent Assembly votes unanimously and goes on further by proposing that all persons actively opposed to the Franco fascist regime shall be given asylum and protection in France... the move may easily be interpreted as a partial triumph for Russian influence in both France and Spain... Russia has resented German-Italian influence in Spain since the beginning of the Spanish civil war in 1936.

CHAIRMAN OF TWO Legislative committees in Detroit to investigate needs of Wayne University give assurance that the University will be properly cared for... service it is doing for war veterans a strong point in its favor.

MACARTHUR lowers the point rate for discharge eligibility for men of his command from 50 to 48 points and the length of service for discharge from three years six months to three years two months.

Corner Lots Go Begging In G. P. City

Council Becomes Alarmed Over Report of Building Superintendent Baker

Ernest Moeller, who is building a house for his own occupancy at Goethe and Washington appeared before the City Council Monday night to ask permission to omit the front door of his house which would have to face on Washington road under the prevailing building regulations.

He had been refused the omission by Building Superintendent Baker. Mr. Baker, while sympathizing with his purpose, had told him he could not permit the deviation from the prescribed building practice.

Mr. Moeller's request precipitated a lively discussion on the injustices done would-be builders on corner lots. Mr. Baker said he had a count made recently of the vacant corner lots in the City and 78 were found. "Corner lots are going begging," he said. There had been cases where prospective builders on corner lots had given up the idea of building on them under the City's regulations, and had built, in some cases, in other communities.

The utilization of these lots is particularly difficult for the ranch type of house which is

Use of Stolen Hudson Store Token Leads to Capture of Man Who Operated in Pointe

Police Hot on Trail of Other Members of Gang Who Have Ransacked Many Residences in This Area

The thieves who visited the E. C. Smith home at 420 Washington road on Wednesday evening, Jan. 9 have been uncovered and one of them caught. It is the hope of the Park and City police that this may lead to the apprehension of the burglars who have carried on a series of robberies in Grosse Pointe homes in recent weeks.

When they raided the Smith home, where they stole several hundred dollars worth of furs and jewelry, they also took a credit token on the J. L. Hudson store. This was not discovered by the household until several days later.

The day after the robbery two men appeared at the Hudson store and purchased miscellaneous merchandise to the value of nearly $400, using the Smith credit token successfully. Had they let their operations stop at that they might never have been discovered, but one week later, Jan. 17, the same two men went to the store again and this time purchased a diamond ring valued at $300. Meanwhile the store had been notified of the theft of the credit token.

After the purchase the men left the ring, saying they would call for it later. A short time later one of them came for the ring and was promptly grabbed by a store detective, but not without a struggle, during which the thief broke away from the detective twice, once running the whole length of one of the long

Farms Police Chief Resigns After Serving for 26 Years

Police Chief Joseph Trombley of the Village of Grosse Pointe Farms tendered his resignation to the trustees of the village at their meeting Monday night. The resignation, to take effect March 1, was accepted.

Chief Trombley plans to spend some time in Arizona. He has suffered some bad effects from his service in World War I, when he was gassed, and believes the Arizona climate will improve his health.

Chief Trombley was born in the northern part of Michigan and came to the Pointe in 1905. He served throughout World War I in France and was with the Army of Occupation. On his return to the Pointe in July 1919 he joined the Farms police department. He has served there since. In 1927 he was granted a three months' leave of absence to attend the American Legion convention in Paris.

He was promoted to a sergeantcy on the force May 1, 1923, was made a lieutenant June 21, 1937, and acting chief on January 1, 1944, after the resignation of former Chief Albert O. Fluit. He has been chief since July 1, 1944.

Chief Trombley has asked the NEWS to thank the people of the Pointe for the cooperation he has been given while serving the community.

Berkshire Road Home Ransacked

Thieves got into the Steggeman home at 1342 Berkshire late Saturday night while the family was out, and after cutting the phone wires stole two cameras, a sole-leather golf bag, 12 quarts of liquor, 2 bottles of perfume, a quantity of costume jewelry and some miscellaneous change, amounting, the family said, to not more than five dollars.

PENNIES FROM HEAVEN
A report to the Farms trustees has indicated that the village sold less than the usual amount of water during 1945 to the City of Grosse Pointe and the Village of Grosse Pointe Shores. This was attributed to the large amount of rainfall during the past summer, which reduced the amount of water needed for lawn sprinkling.

Voters Asked To Ballot on 5-Mill Raise

Funds Badly Needed to Provide More Buildings and More Teachers

At a special meeting held on January 16, the Grosse Pointe Board of Education passed a resolution unanimously to call a special election of qualified voters of the school district on March 4. The election would be for the purpose of permitting the Board to levy taxes up to $5.00 per $1,000 of assessed valuation above the existing 15-mill constitutional limitation.

If this authorization is granted, it is proposed to set aside $3.50 on every $1,000 of assessed valuation to establish a Building Sinking Fund, taken from the increased tax rate voted by the general electorate. The Building Sinking Fund plan will enable the Board to build units of the proposed elementary-junior high school on Vernier and Mack and the new Kerby elementary school as the money is accumulated each year.

If the requested millage increase is voted, it will be possible to have construction of a unit of one or both of these necessary buildings under way by September 1946, if satisfactory construction bids can be obtained. Under this plan the Board will be in a position to take advantage of possible Federal and State aid which might be available in the future to reduce the cost of these buildings.

Increased Costs
The remaining $1.50 per $1,000 of assessed valuation which the Board is asking the voters for is to be used, during the next five-year period, for the following purposes: (1) to build, present salaries of teachers and other employees up to a point that will attract new teachers to the community; and will tend to hold present personnel from leaving the teaching profession to go into other occupations. During the past four years the Grosse Pointe schools have suffered heavily in replacements, having made 149 replacements in a staff of 240.

Police Recover Valuable Stamps

Mrs. Don T. Galvin, of 16911 Cranford Lane, reported to the City police one day last week that her son, who has a very valuable collection of stamps, was conducting a sale of stamps in his home and immediately thereafter missed three valuable stamps.

A number of persons called at the house to examine the collection and make purchases. The stamps missing were three Graf Zeppelins and were valued at $90.

The case was put in the hands of Sergeant Trombley. He called at the home of a party who had attended the sale and made a number of purchases. In his lot the three rare stamps were found and were returned to their owner.

So the city fathers have given their blessing to midnight, and later, eating out by the 13-14 year olds.

The present popular question of juvenile delinquency did not arise. Nor was it mentioned that Francis' place was ever a most popular place with the older generations too, and a great convenience to thousands in the Pointe.

ET TU BRUTE
Lo. at 522, Grosse Pointe Farms Employees Union, affiliate of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor, has sent the Farms trustees a communication asking an 18 percent increase in pay for the highway and pier department employees of the village. The request has been referred to the Special Wage Committee.

Boys' Depredations Force Bus Company To Remove Shelter

Neighborhood Club Trustees Start Movement to Enlist Help of Councils to Have Convenience Restored

It appears as if the citizens of the Pointe had lost the convenience of the bus stop waiting room on the south side of Jefferson avenue opposite the Park Municipal building, as the direct result of the depredations of a lot of half grown boys in the neighborhood. The youngsters stole electric light bulbs, kept the place in a filthy condition and wrote obscene words on the walls until the bus company in desperation decided the only thing to do was to abandon it entirely.

The bus company gave it away to a private party who removed it a short time ago.

The little building was a part of the provision for the convenience of citizens during the war when the scarcity of gas compelled more people to use the buses. The parking lot there was also set up at that time by the Park Village and subsequently maintained by the OCD.

The little waiting station was primarily for the convenience of bus riders who came up from downtown and waited in it for transfer to Charlevoix and Kercheval buses. It was originally owned by Ward S. Van Deusen who gave it to the bus company for that purpose. Mr. Van Deusen, at the time, was one of the Park village commissioners.

Since it was removed there has been much agitation for its restoration or the erection of a similar place in the same neighborhood. Mrs. Ledyard Mitchell and Mrs. W. Howie Muir have been active in the waiting room convenience and it was largely through their influence that the Neighborhood Club Trustees brought the matter to the attention of the Councilmen and Commissioners of the Pointe municipalities. They are being requested to lend their influence to having the convenience restored.

The Park village police did their best to protect the waiting room but they obviously could not detail a permanent guard for the place and it seems as if nothing short of this would adequately protect the property from the type of marauders who have been responsible for its loss to the bus using public.

Officials of the Lake Shore Coach Lines, Inc., say that they regret being compelled to remove it. They frankly state its abandonment was caused by the actions of the neighborhood boys and nothing else.

The land on which it was located belongs to a party who lives in Toledo, O. It is under the direct control of Ernest Koinis who has the candy shop next door. Mr. Koinis regrets the removal of the building as it has resulted in his store being crowded by bus travellers who formerly waited for their transfer in the waiting room.

The bus company officials feel that it would be useless to provide another enclosed waiting room unless adequate policing and protection could be provided, but suggest that an open shelter similar to those now in use in many other parts of the Pointe along bus lines would be better than nothing. Such a place, from its exposed nature, would probably be relatively free from the visitation of the pests who used the former enclosed waiting room.

The petition for another waiting room will come before the several Pointe councils at their coming meetings. The women who are urging its restoration are hoping that some common action between the Pointe councils and the bus company can be worked out.

SDM Application Denied by City

The application of the Cunningham Drug Store on Kercheval for a SDM (Specially Designated Merchant) license was denied by the City Council Monday night. This form of license permits the holder to sell wines and beer by the bottle.

The Council recalled that there were already five such places licensed in the immediate vicinity and decided that was enough to serve the public convenience.

Park Scout Car In Collision

A scout car carrying Park police officers Enders and Hennig was run into by another going west on Warren, while they were after an escaping automobile they had chased from Harvard and Vernor Highway at 1 o'clock Saturday morning.

The escaping car had just turned east on Warren and they were not yet to Cadieux when the oncoming car, driven by John Hubert VanVleet of 1498 Baldwin, Detroit, cut across their line of travel for a left turn into Cadieux. He missed his timing and the police car, despite every effort to swerve to the left, struck the right rear of the turning car.

The force of the impact drove Patrolman Hennig's head through the windshield and caused severe cuts on his face and neck. He was taken to Bon Secours Hospital where 22 stitches were necessary.

Vin Vliet was given a ticket for reckless driving, but the escaping car got away.

Potential Hot Election Expected to Fizzle Out

A hot election may be brewing in the Village of Grosse Pointe Farms, but a study of past performances indicates that it may fizzle out as usual with the customary handful going to the polls.

The terms of Village President James K. Watkins and Trustees John R. Sutton, Jr., David Bushaw and Richard Maxon all expire this year. The election date is March 11, with the primary, if necessary, set for February 11. Last date for candidates to file is February 2.

Mr. Sutton has served the village as trustee for 12 years, most of which time he has also been fire and police commissioner. He says he will not run for reelection. Mr. Bushaw has also stated he will not seek reelection, although there is some betting that he will run. Mr. Maxon and President Watkins have indicated a willingness to be reelected to office.

Back into the lists come Joseph Snay and George L. Schlaepfer, former trustees, both of whom served the village well but were defeated at the polls. Both will seek office again, each having filed.

If only these candidates are in the field, and if Mr. Bushaw and Mr. Sutton stay out of the running, it will not be necessary to have a primary election. If new aspirants to office crop up before February 2, a primary election will be required.

Present office holders whose terms expire annually and who have filed for reelection are: Harry Furton, clerk; Francis A. Beaupre, village assessor; and Alonzo J. O'Connor, treasurer.

Group of Residents Urges Erection of Pointe Museum As Suitable War Memorial

Suggestion Made That It Could House Mementoes Brought Home By Servicemen, Women, As Well as Documents

A group of citizens of Grosse Pointe who have a deep interest in preserving the early records of the "Big Point" which juts out into the Great Lakes' water course and marks the termination of Lake St. Clair and the beginning of the Detroit river, have been seriously considering for some time the establishment of a museum for the preservation of historic documents and other material associated with the early history of this region. Most all of these citizens have had a long association with the Pointe area, in some instances running back several generations.

The thought is that this local museum should have to do only with this immediate region, as distinguished from similar institutions embracing the whole Detroit, or South Eastern Michigan area.

The planning that has been going on looking to the erection of a memorial to the men and women from the Pointe who served in World War II has renewed the interest in the Museum plan. It has been expressed by some of these parties that if it should eventually be determined that the majority wish of the people of the Pointe inclined towards the erection of a memorial library as the final choice for a war memorial, their plan might fit into this general scheme. Some of the museum advocates have suggested that if a fine memorial library should be built provision might be made in it for a wing, or other suitable accommodation for the museum.

The museum, they figure, while not in any sense a substitution for the library, would be an appropriate supplement to such an institution.

They also believe that a museum would, from its very character present many features of purely local interest not possible in a general library however extensive its proportions. In such an institution they believe would eventually be stored many articles and manuscripts appertaining to the war itself which would otherwise lie unseen and unknown in private homes for an indefinite period, or in time be wholly lost. Such an adjunct to the library, if a library should be built would always hold a deep personal interest for the men and women in whose honor the library was erected.

The idea of a museum is being urged upon the attention of the study group now looking into the general form the proposed memorial should take and upon citizens in general whose opinions will be sought by the study group before any definite decision is reached.

The action of the study group can only at best be a recommendation to be taken up for further study by the final authority which will have the memorial enterprise in charge.

County Threatens Suit Against City

There was an echo, at the City Council meeting Monday night, of the wrangle the City got into with the county auditors recently over the payment of the bonds for the Grosse Pointe City officials who collect and remit to the county its share of the taxes.

Neil Blondell, the Deputy City Treasurer, reported that after all of the cities in Wayne county outside of Detroit got together and decided they would not pay these bond premiums, the County decided it would pay them, but served notice it intended to institute a friendly suit to determine the ultimate liability of the payment.

Boys Again Transposing Pointe House Numbers

House numbers placed on lawn frames are again coming under the notice of mischievous boys. Two such cases of theft or transfer were perpetrated on Fisher road last week.

It is recalled that a few weeks ago youngsters down in the Park had the house numbers so well mixed up that delivery service to the homes was in a state of confusion for several days before the numbers were unscrambled.

"Goodbye, Mr. Chips"

Sadness weighs heavily on our heart as we report that Mr. Chips is dead. He fell through the ice off the City's beach park on Sunday afternoon and drowned before help could reach him.

Mr. Chips wouldn't have rated a nod at a Westminster Kennel Club show. He was mostly cocker, but other things had sneaked into his pedigree. The mixture produced a heart that encompassed everyone Chips met, an enthusiasm for life that was a joy to behold, a loyalty that was beyond understanding, a zest that imparted a good feeling to all who met him.

He was a very frequent caller at the NEWS office and all the NEWS staff loved him.

Mr. Chips was never one to stay at home. When his young master, Bruce Allen of Lincoln road, eluded him long enough to sneak off to school, Mr. Chips usually found a way to get through or over the fence. He had visited every room in Richard School and been shown to the door more often than he would have liked to admit.

All children were object of Mr. Chips' affection. When Bruce wasn't to be found, Chips found other kids to play with. Sunday he followed a group of them down to the lake in the City Park.

Mr. Chips had the curiosity of a cat and his soul was full of adventure. When he wandered out on the ice and scared his young companions, they called him back and shut him in the park shelter. In true Mr. Chips fashion, he escaped without their knowing it.

Someone on the dock shouted that a dog had gone through the ice, far out on the lake. It was Mr. Chips, and no one could get to him. He was too far out and the ice was too thin.

Even in death Mr. Chips was serving his young friends. Those who had to stand helplessly by and watch him go, were learning a never-to-be-forgotten lesson of the dangers of the lake. They will think ponderously before venturing too far out on its frozen surface again.

Through the tragedy of Mr. Chips a move is afoot to obtain greater safety measures along the lake front. Suppose it had been a child that had fallen through the ice? And no boat on the shore to effect a rescue? That may be remedied because of Mr. Chips.

There is an effort being made to have signs posted all along the lake, warning when the ice is unsafe. Mr. Chips has brought a new recognition of danger, which, through him, may be banished.

Knowing Mr. Chips as well as we did, we feel that he's happy. Somehow, that all-knowing mind of his is conscious of the fact that his last adventure helped his young friends. May he not have died in vain.

City Shifts Water Charges To Catch Terrace Dwellers

New Ruling Calls for Installation of Meter and Accompanying Charge for Every Family Housed in Unit

An ordinance was passed by the Grosse Pointe City Council Monday night which makes radical changes in the method of levying water charges in the city.

Heretofore the practice has been to install a single meter in all types of family residences on a base charge of $5, for the building, with ten cents per hundred cubic feet of water used additional.

In the case of terraces where a number of families might live a single meter was also installed, with the same additional charge. Under this plan the landlord pays for only a single meter, and the City suffers a considerable loss in water revenue. The arrangement that may be in effect between the landlord and his tenants as to the payment of the water rents in no manner affects the City's revenues from the property except in the receipt of only $5 meter charge.

An illustration cited in the discussion of the measure was: that under the old procedure a thirty family apartment would have a basic rate on the installation of three meters, or $15 semi-annually. Under the new ordinance there will be a meter installed for every family unit in the terrace, or, in the case of a thirty family terrace, $150 semi-annually, the same total basic rate that would be paid by thirty detached single family houses. The City expects to derive considerable additional revenue from this method as in the case of many terrace dwellers the water charges were not equal to the base rate alone which they would have paid had they lived in detached houses.

growing in popularity. All of the city has been plotted with the front of the lots facing the main "roads," "streets," "places," etc., which makes it mandatory to have the houses similarly faced. The house numbers with the exception of some of the corner properties, all are facing these streets.

The disclosure of the vacant corner lot situation by Mr. Baker so disturbed the council that they named a committee, consisting of Building Inspector Baker, Assessor Blondell and Councilmen Carpenter and Morgan to make an examination of the matter and report a recommendation to the Council.

There's a Reason Why

YOU CAN BUY a standard car and you can buy a standard collar. But there is no such thing as a standard shoe, and there never will be. For the simple reason: no one has a standard pair of feet in our whole world—more than that, most people have a measurable difference between the left foot and the right foot! Obviously, shoe fitting belongs in the hands of experts—specialists with a background of experience. Fyfe's offers you that. We have specialized in fine footwear for 81 years. Many of our present employees have been with us for over 30 years. No wonder Detroiters who know us advise: To find what fits you go to Fyfe's. We take time for courtesy and friendliness, and we believe a customer of Fyfe's will find ours a most obliging store.

Strike Picture

The general picture presented to the country as it stands on the threshold of the most threatening strike situation in its history is not as obscure and unintelligible as many try to persuade themselves.

Philip Murray, National president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, and final czar and arbiter of all its powerful affiliated unions, is springing upon the country in rapid succession a series of great strikes, planned and timed with the skill of a great military leader, and to be carried through with the same ruthlessness that a general staff would plan the strategy of a war. The "enemy" he plans against however is the industrial edifice of the United States of America.

His immediate purpose is to capture more money for the pay envelop of the workman. He frankly says this himself, and has even reproved some of the subheads of his organization who have attempted to argue the issue of "ability to pay." He has small concern with this. That's the employers' headach.

What his more remote objective may be is not disclosed. That may appear with startling suddenness, depending on the success of his multi strike campaign.

His general strategy is to effect the rapid suffocation of industry by both successive and contemporary strikes in correlated industries and in those controlling the necessities of life until industry is beaten to its knees and must accept his bidding. Mr. Murray is said to be a kindly gentleman and might prove a most benevolent dictator.

He has selected his own union, the United Steel Workers, as the spearhead of his attack. He knows that if steel manufacture is stopped neither automobiles nor anything else which is made of steel can be produced. He attacks the Nation's meat supply through the packing house approach and doubtless grieves that he has not the farmers of the nation equally in the hollow of his hand.

The other side of the strike picture presents the great employing corporations that are already strike bound and those other concerns that may soon be strike bound.

Let us acknowledge that their first concern is to protect the interest of their stockholders, in themselves no mean portion of the population. In doing so however they are trying to safeguard the investments of all present and future citizens who may desire to place their savings in profit producing enterprises. This is what we have called the American system of free enterprise. Its the way we have lived since 1776.

These big corporations are not opposed to paying their employees big wages, they wish to do so but they want to be sure that they will take in enough money to pay them. They want some stronger assurance of this before they stick their heads in the big wage noose than that given by Mr. Walter Reuther who has told them that the happy days ahead guarantee this ability. They probably have some opinions of their own on this matter fully as valuable as those of Mr. Reuther.

Basically, they know that the more money paid the workmen of the country the more business there will be for all, including their own individual enterprise.

But the employers wish to work up to that situation, not jump into it experimentally and blindly at a moment when the future of all industry is in such an unpredictable state. There are too many factors of doubt bearing on this question all over the world, and plenty here at home, as the leaders of labor know full well.

They also want some assurance, more than the nod of a labor leader, that such contracts as they enter into will be faithfully kept. Mr. Murray and other leaders boast long and often of labor's faithful observance of its "no strike" pledge during the war, but employers all know out of their own trying experiences that there were hundreds of strikes and mass absences from work during the very height of the war effort. They ask that legal status be given to future labor contracts and that employees be bound equally with employers to observe their provisions.

Labor leaders have always opposed this and politically cowardly legislators have feared to enact such measures. Labor's position in the issue follows quite faithfully the old military maxim that a bold offensive is the best defence. Labor knows well that when it is plentiful its services are cheap, and inversely, costly when scarce. The return of several millions of prospective competitors from the war was the starting point for the demands for increases in pay. This was a natural sequence and as old as employee-employer relations. By aiming at the sun, as it did in some instances, labor hopes to substantially better its war time level even against natural economic conditions which would indicate the opposite. The plea supporting this demand was a recent increase in living costs which in truth has not been demonstrated in many cases.

Some trades undoubtedly are entitled to increases. These should be carefully hunted out and supported by a fearless public opinion, whether they are backed by union organization or not. But the general principle of giving a disproportionate share of the earned wages of the country to any particular group merely because it thinks it has the power to demand and get them regardless of the common welfare, should not and will not be supported by the composite opinion of the country.

The implications of the strike situation for the whole country are that if the strikes go on intemperately, the country's entire industrial organism will bog down into a situation of unemployment and low wages followed by a slow and painful return to an even keel of a balanced economy. If the employers are forced into accepting a wage scale which their future earning on the basis of their present prices cannot support they will face bankruptcy unless granted permission to increase the price of their products. When this is done the country directly invites the opening of the floodgates of an uncontrollable inflation which means disaster for all, but falling with special severity upon those whose living depends upon their day by day wages or their normally small fixed incomes. It is the direct antithesis of the "hold the line" policy which President Roosevelt so earnestly preached and which in general results were practiced with quite reasonable fidelity to carry us through the extraordinary conditions of a great and costly war.

These are the alternatives for which labor must shoulder the responsibility in their present pell mell policy of getting their's when, they think, the getting is good, regardless of all other considerations.

Grosse-- Exaggerations

A. PRYOR

"When I'm alone" . . . the words tripped off his tongue
As though to be alone were nothing strange.
"When I was young," he said, "when I was young . . ."

I thought of age, and loneliness, and change.
I thought how strange we grow when we're alone,
And how unlike the selves that meet and talk,
And blow the candles out, and say good night.
ALONE . . . The word is life endured and known.
It is the stillness where our spirits walk
And all but inmost faith is overbroun."

(Siegfried Sassoon)

If big-shot Bingay can use a whole column writing about his sinus trouble, we feel justified in informing our fans that we too have our weaknesses. Our absence last week (which we are pleased to say was noted) was caused by date ole debbil flu and layed us low at Jennings Hospital for a week. It might have been considered a fairly tiresome procedure except for one bright spot in the person of Henry Muell . . . whose working status is that of Orderly . . . but who turns out to be the general factotum of Jennings.

Mr. Muell, who goes about his work with a sort of fantastic efficiency, has done everything in life from ballet dancing to making pottery. He has a keen wit (which is no respecter of the persons it's practised on); he writes poetry with a flair; essays that make more sense than most that are published, and has a fund of general knowledge that throws the average patient.

His pet possessions are a fabulous collection of snuff bottles that are worth p-l-e-n-t-y . . . and a personal note from Mrs. Roosevelt, thanking him for a pottery donkey he made and sent to the President a few years ago. In his small basement room, he keeps his collection of bottles in a glass cabinet he made . . . and also in this room, he keeps the kit in which he dabbles in art when he finds time. He has also been known to make lace . . . and on many occasions, has given his opinion on the diagnosis of patient's cases . . . a thing most doctors take from him with good-natured grace. If ever anyone belonged on "We the People" . . . it's Henry Muell.

Just heard about the local bride and bridegroom who left on their honeymoon last week after much difficulty with the air reservation dept. It seems they had two seats on a plane that had been reserved for some time . . . but when they arrived at the airport, it was found that the bride had HER seat, but the bridegroom's had been sold. The depressed honeymooners practically stood on their heads to "pull strings" to wangle something or other . . . but nothing worked until a man who had the seat graciously gave it up when he discovered their plight.

Either we are way behind the times, or something new has been added to the atomic age. "Treasure" hunts or "scavenger" hunts are not new to us . . . that is, the kind where you are sent in pairs out on the town to collect such impedimenta as someone's false teeth, a hair from the head of a Zombie or a stiff cooked noodle. But a new one was pulled on us recently by two boys about 9 or 10 years old. They also rang our doorbell, to ask us if we knew what a scavenger hunt was. We allowed as how we did . . . and asked what they were supposed to collect, since we always keep a carload of junk in our McGee closet for just such emergencies. The boys went into a huddle, whispering back and forth while we sneezed in the open doorway. Finally, one said to the other, "You tell her." What we were finally told was that they wanted some candy, cookies and two slices of buttered bread. We offered to add to this, 5 pounds of sugar and a porterhouse steak . . . but no, they said the afore-mentioned haul would do nicely! Don't tell US children aren't smart.

Ten Cent Fares

The wrangle under way over the increased local transit fares of the Detroit Street Railways calls for the closest examination by the public and all jurisdictional public authority.

If ten cent fares are an absolute necessity for providing better transit facilities in a system that has been woefully inadequate there may be excusable justification for the increase. If however it is only a means of producing revenue which is to permit the release of other funds for application to general municipal purposes it is absolutely unjustified. Such funds should come from only one source, which is out of general taxation to which all would have to contribute.

The money collected from car fares comes solely from the people who ride on the cars and buses. Those who do not would go scot free on this share of the common burden. The fact that those who have their own individual transportation pay for this themselves merely begs the question. The street car and bus users are the only ones who produce the revenues of the DSR, and it is utterly unmoral that any of their money should be used for any purpose other than the maintenance and improvement of the public transit service. If less than ten cent fares will give this then that should be the top figure for car fare.

It is significant that the OPA, which by and large has done a pretty good job for the past few years in keeping down prices, opposes the ten cent fare.

What ever rate of fare can be determined to be enough to give good transportation that should be it and not one mill over. Under no circumstances should any part of the fare paid by the plain people for street car transportation be diverted even indirectly to other uses.

It is quite probable that could the local car fare issue be traced to its original source it would be found to lie in the general inefficiency and ineptness which characterizes the conduct of practically all public services where the ownership or control vests in the municipality, or in government in any of its higher brackets.

If the canny Scots discovered in Glasgow forty years ago that their telephone, street car and all other public services except the water supply systems, had degenerated into a mess of inefficiency and waste, what chance is there for such municipally directed enterprises in the happy-go-lucky atmosphere of the average American municipality?

Asbestos Kid

THE BIG HERO of the little real estate office fire in Rockefeller Center was JACK BEATTY. From his service station window on Kercheval, Jack discovered the blaze, called the fire department, and ran across the street complete with fire extinguisher. He had the fire under control when the fire trucks arrived.

The rumor that GILES REAUME, whose building and papers were saved, is pondering a suitable reward for fire-fighting Beatty is being taken with a grain of asbestos.

Back Alive

WHEN CHUCK BLESSED reported back to Percy Jones Hospital, he found himself more dead than alive. Somehow, during his leave, the hospital records were jumbled and Chuck was listed as dead. He tried to convince the authorities he was very much alive. They were a little skeptical. After all, the records showed otherwise. Chuck signed in anyway. "While you're figuring it out," he yelled, "where do you want the corpse?"

Host & Hostess

A MOTOR DRIVEN spit in their games room fireplace puts the EARL N. MEININGERS of Hillcrest in smooth entertaining trim these winter nights. A roast of venison, slowly turning over red hot coals, with juice sputtering in the hearth pan—all ready to serve at the end of the card game—gives you some idea. Sliced and served hot, it's venison at its tenderest. And French bread dipped in natural gravy . . . with celery, onions and pickles . . . served with the greatest of ease—is Helen-and-Earl hospitality.

Good Wishes

BACK IN JANUARY, 1916 wedding chimes rang out the romance of EUGENE MARSACK and LILY LABADIE. The young couple have been living happily ever after. This January they will celebrate their thirtieth wedding anniversary. They are Mom and Dad to 14 little Marsacks—well, not so little anymore. The manner in which Lily and Eugene raised them is a source of pride and credit to the community as well as themselves. The war records of their five sons, has endowed them with enduring honor. To the Eugene Marsacks, as they celebrate 30 years of marital happiness, we add 30 good wishes for continued understanding.

Visitor

NED JEWETT visits the Farms, his home town. He talked about the huge, Eden-like estate at Rifle River in Ogemaw County, where he fished and hunted with young PAUL DEMING and other Pointe pals not so many years ago. The 4,200 acres belonged to his father, the late HARRY M. JEWETT. The property was sold to the state to be used as a proving ground for experiments in fishing, hunting and conservation. The place is still close to Ned's heart, but his real interest these days is the farm he owns and operates out Metamora way.

Our Letter Box

Dear Sir:

Is there any good reason why the youth of Grosse Pointe are denied the opportunity to skate all winter instead of an odd day, weather permitting? They have never learned fancy skating, skating to music, hockey, etc. These can be enjoyed from five years up.

I recently watched small girls being given instruction in fancy skating in a city much smaller than ours and wonder why there is so little effort to find good, clean fun for our young people.

These awful rinks with snow two or three inches deep are no pleasure to skate on. The lake is dangerous and this year hasn't provided a dozen days of decent skating.

Am enclosing something I came across. This town, I understand, has a population of 25,000. We wouldn't want to use our artificial rink for all these things maybe, but properly run, it would be wonderful for young people. I happen to know as I try to help my son and his friends find some way to get healthy outdoor sport.

Have you ever skated to music on good, clear, crisp ice. Well, it's an idea anyway.

(Unsigned).

Editor's Note:

The enclosure was a full page layout from a Sault Ste. Marie paper, promoting the building of a large arena with artificial rink, auditorium, lounge rooms, banquet hall, etc., to serve as a memorial to the men and women of World War II.

The Board of Directors of the Mutual Aid and Neighborhood Club appeal to you for the exertion of your important influence in behalf of the traveling public of Grosse Pointe, who daily on their trips to and from the City, are obliged to stand unsheltered at the City limits where present transportation facilities require changing from one bus to another and, on this account, a shelter of some kind is badly needed.

Can we count upon you to take such steps as may be within your power to urge the transportation companies to install this much needed shelter house?

Thanking you in advance and with best wishes for your continued success in the important work which you are carrying on in this community, we beg to remain,

Very truly yours,
MUTUAL AID AND NEIGHBORHOOD CLUB

POLICE REPORT

Program Planned For New Pupils

The 7B-10B Orientation Program will be given on Saturday morning, January 28, at 10 a.m. in the High School auditorium. All 7-B boys and girls who will be entering the Samuel Brownell Junior High School, and all 10-B students who will be entering the Grosse Pointe High School, are urged to attend this meeting.

The Orientation Program offers the students an opportunity to become acquainted with their new school and their home room advisers.

The Student Association is planning the auditorium program. After this, each student will be directed to his or her assigned home room and will then be taken on a tour of the building conducted by the home-room teacher. The Bookstore will be open so as to allow new students to purchase their books and locks.

The parents of all the 7-B and 10-B students are invited to attend the program if they care to do so and to meet their children's advisers.

"The Orientation Program has proved its value to the student in helping him to make an adjustment more readily to his new environment. This adjustment is accelerated if the child takes advantage of this opportunity to buy his books and supplies before the opening day of school," stated Ralph Steffek, the Student Association Sponsor.

CREMATION
Four years accumulation of paid bonds and coupons have been prepared for cremation by the Village of Grosse Pointe Farms. The chairman of finance, the village accountant and his assistant will carry out the project.

Convalescents, Be Careful

By FRED M. KOPF, R.F.H.

The convalescent period which follows an illness is one of the most difficult for the average patient. Time moves slowly, one's strength returns by degrees, there is the most extreme impatience to be up and doing.

It is the time above all others to heed the doctor's dictum: "Take it easy." All the good work that has been done may lead to a serious relapse if care is not taken, with the next convalescent period demanding twice the time and attention.

Doctor's orders must be heeded. These may be comparatively simple: rest, of course, particular attention to the diet indicated, regular, refreshing sleep.

Take what medication is required, regularly, obtain it from a careful druggist.

Grosse Pointe Funeral Directors

Junior Members of AWVS Helping World's Destitute

One of the peacetime activities of Junior members of the Grosse Pointe AWVS, in which others may wish to participate, is the Friendship Box project for children in liberated countries.

Its purpose, which is to encourage friendship and understanding between the youth of America and the youth of liberated countries, has been widely lauded by all the foreign relief agencies as well as by returning visitors from abroad. AWVS feels that the box, in addition to the usefulness of the contents, will have great moral effect on the thousands of children who have had so little in the past five years.

The "Friendship Box" itself—an empty cigar box—can be decorated in any manner the youngsters desire—painted, enameled, covered with fancy paper, cut-outs from Christmas, birthday or anniversary cards, etc. Children may select their own country and age groups to which they wish boxes sent.

A Friendship Letter must be enclosed. A snapshot may be included if one cares to do so. Due to scarcity of paper abroad, please enclose two sheets of writing paper with self addressed envelope for reply. Thus international junior correspondence to further friendly relations at this time is greatly encouraged.

School supplies are a "must" in the box, now that resumption of school work has been announced in many countries. Other "musts" are toothbrush and powder, sewing kits, socks or mitts, band-aids and soap.

As "fillers," the following articles are suggested: shoe laces, combs, safety, bobby and hairpins, hair ribbons for girls, neckties for boys, nail file, handkerchiefs, scissors, pen knives, small toys or balls, pocket games, i. e., checkers, chess or dominoes, and a lipstick for an older sister or mother.

Skins of wool and needles for darning and mending might well be used as a "filler" to keep the articles from rattling around inside the box.

Arrangements have been made by the authorized relief foreign agencies to ship and distribute overseas. AWVS has requested its units and the general public to mail or ship directly to the listed agencies, which are as follows:

Belgium, Belgians in 34th and liberated Belgium, 16 E. 34th St., N. Y.; Czechoslovakia, American Re-

French Problems To Be Discussed

"France Today: Problems and Perspectives" will be discussed by Andre Morize, professor of French Literature at Harvard University, on Friday morning, February 1, at 11 o'clock for the Detroit Town Hall at the Cass Theatre.

Andre Morize served with the French army in the first World War as a sergeant, lieutenant and captain in an infantry regiment. Before this war he was associate professor of French literature at Johns Hopkins University, and after the war he was called to Harvard university as Professor of Military Sciences and Tactics. In 1925 he accepted the chair of French literature.

From 1939 during World War II Mr. Morize was Director of the Ministry of Information in Paris and after traveling through Europe he returned to his duties at Harvard.

Professor Morize is the author of several volumes of literary criticism and history and he contributes to numerous periodicals and magazines, and his lectures take him extensively over the United States.

Town Hall Books James Crowley

"What's Happening in Washington" will be the subject of a lecture to be given by James G. Crowley, well known radio commentator at Detroit Town Hall in the Fisher Theatre, Wednesday morning, January 30, at 11 o'clock.

Crowley broadcasts from the Capitol twice weekly under the title, "Your Washington Man," and his pungent comments on national affairs are relayed over two leading local stations.

The brilliant young commentator began his newspaper career in Detroit after being graduated from the University of Detroit. He was then assigned to Washington to cover labor news for Life Magazine, and also became one of the editors of the Whaley Easton Letter Service which mailed to thousands of subscribers.

MARY ANNE SWIFT ENGAGED

Airline loading passes were handed all the guests at the tea which Mrs. Clarence Byron Swift gave in her Bedford road home on Wednesday afternoon.

Reading them, guests learned that Mrs. Swift's daughter, Mary Anne.

Was engaged to Lambert B. Kline, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Kline of Fleming, N. J.

The novel way of announcing the engagement was especially appropriate.

Since both Mary Anne and Lambert are keenly interested in aviation.

The motif was carried further in the silver airplane which centered the tea table, its center filled with Spring blossoms.

Ivory tapers glowed in silver candleabra.

Mary Anne was educated at Randolph Macon in Lynchburg, Va.

Where she became a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority.

Assisting Mrs. Swift at the tea, was Mrs. Henry Phillip Gage.

While presiding at the tea table, were four of Mary Anne's former classmates at Grosse Pointe High School.

Mrs. Keith Muller, Mary Jane Barrows, Ruth Schultz and Natalie Hersch.

No date has been set for the wedding, although it will probably take place next summer.

"INFLATION FOLLIES" BEING STAGED

You'll be hearing more and more of the "Inflation Follies" of 1946.

For which Grosse Pointe's Mrs. Stuart A. Fraser is chairman of the committee heading show arrangements.

It takes place at Cass Tech High School January 30, at 8 P. M.

Mrs. Fraser, whose attractive deep brown eyes twinkled above her snappy gunmetal Winter costume, told us about the show which she says.

"Is slated to live up to its name through outright stage entertainment plus an auction of scarce commodities which will provide one of the evening's highlights."

The entire affair is sponsored by the Detroit Consumer Advisory Committee, a group which has worked for you and me and a square deal in prices since before the war.

AUCTION OF NYLONS AND NEW TIRES

A professional auctioneer will place on the block quantities of women's nylon hose, scarce electrical appliances, new automobile tires, and other equally popular commodities which will provide one of the evening's highlights.

(Which should assure an audience of ladies AND gentlemen.)

One of the evening's features will be an original three act play.

Written in satirical vein, "It Happened in Detroit" OR "The Lady Was Wearing Nylons."

Tickets for the Follies are available this week, and there is a supply of them at Grosse Pointe News' new office on Kercheval.

The evening is free, the tickets yours upon request. Please call for them at Grosse Pointe News' office.

OTHER POINTERS ON COMMITTEE

Other Pointers who are actively interested in Inflation Follies include Mrs. Frederick Clifford Ford, whose Consumers Division of Grosse Pointe will cooperate in distributing tickets.

And Mrs. Edward Gehrig of Grosse Pointe Canning Center and Detroit AAUW Board.

Ceremony in Christ Church Chapel is Followed by Reception in Home of Mrs. Russell A. Alger

An altar banked with Easter lilies forecast the coming of spring as Marion Miller, daughter of Mrs. Sidney T. Miller, Jr., of Provençal road, spoke her nuptial vows to Howard Freeman Smith, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Freeman Smith of Provençal road, Saturday afternoon in Christ Church Chapel.

The Rev. Francis B. Creamer officiated at the 4 o'clock ceremony.

Simplicity was the keynote of Marion's white satin bridal gown made on princess lines. Lace cuffs distinguished the long sleeves, and the full skirt ended in a two-foot satin train over which a long illusion veil extended. Her headpiece was a mantilla of lace and her bouquet was of large white orchids, combined with butterfly orchids.

Six attendants preceded the bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Sidney T. Miller, III. Mrs. Francis C. Farwell II, as matron of honor, was in American Beauty faille fashioned with fitted bodice and bouffant skirt. Her matching hat was of ostrich plumes.

An identical gown of lime green faille was worn by Lucy Mitchell, of Boyce, Va., the maid of honor, while bridesmaids Lanie Wright, Ann Mitchell, Helen Stoepel and Nancy Dodge were in lemon yellow. Their flowers were American Beauty roses.

Best man for his brother-in-law was Arthur H. Buhl, Jr. Guests were seated by Leslie Vivian, of Great Neck, L. I.; Tim Ireland, of Cleveland; Frank Sprole, of New York; John Gardner, of Quogue, L. I.; Spencer Moseley, of Chicago; F. David Lapham, Lieut. George P. Caulkins, Jr., Lieut. (jg) Douglas Campbell, Jr., John C. Chapin, F. Clifford Ford, Jr., Benson Ford and Traver C. Smith.

Mrs. Miller received for the young couple in the Provençal road home of her mother, Mrs. Russell A. Alger, after the service. She chose a gown of dark navy crepe with a lighter blue hat trimmed in ostrich feathers, and her corsage was of blue orchids.

For her son's wedding Mrs. Smith wore garnet crepe with a matching flowered hat and orchids in a red shade.

Mrs. Alger's dress of Quaker gray crepe matched her tulle hat, and she, too, had an orchid corsage.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Smith left for a wedding trip to Nassau, and for traveling, Marion selected a gray wool suit with blouse of shocking pink. A short gray Persian coat and gray hat completed her costume.

Pointe Students Are Scholarly

A grade point average of 2.090, slightly better than B, was reported for fall term by the group of 180, holding alumni undergraduate scholarships at Michigan State college, Glen O. Stewart, director of alumni relations, revealed.

Two Grosse Pointe students holding scholarships earned over a 2.000 average last quarter. Gloria Buzzelle, junior, and Jean Doherty, freshman, made a 2.350 and 2.124, respectively.

Miss Buzzelle, 432 Fisher road, is majoring in French. Miss Doherty, 280 Moran avenue, plans to major in education.

Scholarship awards are presented to students in the upper one-third of their high school graduating class by the alumni association. They are continued throughout the holder's college education if superior grades are maintained. The scholarships provide for the waiver of tuition.

Macomb County played a dirty trick on the Pointe again during the holidays and for some time afterwards. Disregarding the interceptor sewer which was built at great cost for this express purpose, the county to the north started discharging its sewage into Lake St. Clair, once more, on Christmas Day and did not return to use of the interceptor until January 17, a period of 23 days.

Corporal Reed's duty in the Marine Corp during his 30 months overseas, included four major campaigns, Tarawa, for which he received the Presidential Unit Citation, Saipan, Tinian and Okinawa; and more recently occupational duty in Nagasaki, Japan. He arrived in California December 23, with the largest contingent of men yet to come into port as a Division. Due to this fact Corporal Reed was unable to make it home for the holidays and received his discharge from Great Lakes, Illinois on January 9.

A brother of Corporal Reed, S. I. C. WILLIAM REED, U. S. Navy, is expected home on furlough shortly after serving in the South Pacific on board the USS Meredosa.

Luzon, Iwo Jima and Okinawa. This ship is now operating with the "Magic Carpet" which at the close of 1945 had returned a total of 1,947,995 Army, Navy, Marine and Coast Guard veterans to the States.

Pearl Harbor, T. H.—S/Sgt. Reinhard DeKoning, husband of Mrs. Elizabeth DeKoning, of 15027 Kercheval avenue, Grosse Pointe, Mich., is one of 1,847 high-point Army veterans whom the Navy is returning to the States for discharge aboard the U. War Destitute Need Clothing

The second national clothing collection for the war sufferers of Europe and China started on Jan. 21 and will close on January 31. Willard Hoskings is the Grosse Pointe chairman.

The drive in Grosse Pointe has been sponsored by the Rotary club as was the case in the previous drive.

Donations from the Pointe will be taken as formerly to the various fire station houses and to schools and churches, whence it will be delivered by municipal trucks to the general collection depot in Detroit. From here it will go without delay direct into freight cars and sent on its way to the designated national collection depots near the coasts for shipment to Europe and Asia.

The need for clothing in the war devastated areas is probably greater now than during the other drive.

BIG ENROLLMENT SEEN
An enrollment of 10,000 or more students next fall, including as many as 6,000 war veterans, is anticipated by Michigan State College officials.

Veterans in Hospitals Busy Making Models for Contest

Hospitalized service men now are participating in a national model car building competition may make a definite contribution to industry, according to Edward N. Scheiberling, retiring national commander of the American Legion.

Scheiberling pointed out that American service men were members of the world's most mechanized armed force. The experience they thus gained, he said, may give rise to "something worthwhile in new design to industry through the model cars they build."

Thousands of hospitalized soldiers, sailors and marines are participating in a $30,000 model car competition being conducted by the Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild.

Scheiberling, in recognition of the program, said: "It is a most worthy project. But even worthier is the thought behind the project—that America is remembering her disabled heroes and that this memory extends into the halls of industry."

"From our own experience in the rehabilitation field, we know the fine therapeutic value such a competition can have on these thousands of service men now under treatment in hospitals from coast to coast."

The Craftsman's Guild, an educational foundation sponsored by the Fisher Body Division of General Motors, has for years conducted model car building competitions for school-age youths. A program for hospitalized veterans was inaugurated this year in an effort to aid rehabilitation of veterans by means of an entertaining and educational diversion during their convalescence.

Trombly's PTA Honors Scouts

An interested and appreciative audience was present at the Trombly P.T.A. meeting on Wednesday evening, January 17, to witness a program by the Girl and Boy Scout groups sponsored by the Trombly P.T.A. Girl Scout Troup No. 124 under the leadership of Mrs. C. W. Swanson, and Brownie Troops No. 138 and No. 405, whose leaders are Mrs. Alfred Houston and Mrs. Hans Walgenbach opened the program. This included the Pledge of Allegiance, the Scout Promise, and several songs. Mrs. William Johnson was accompanist.

Miss Katherine Richards, executive secretary of the Detroit Girl Scouts, and Charles B. Lord, Scout Commissioner for the Grosse Pointe area gave stimulating talks on "Tying Girl and Boy Scouting with the Home, School, and Community."

Mrs. John Petrosky led the members of Cub Scout Pack No. 88 in two songs, then members of the Pack gave the Cub Promise and the law of the Cub Pack. Jerry Davis concluded the program by playing taps on the bugle. The Den Mothers are Mrs. Patrick Burke, Mrs. Raymond Eddy and Mrs. John Petrosky.

Mrs. L. D. O'Brien, Camp Chairman, Mrs. Parfit, chairman of the Grosse Pointe District Committee and Mr. Gerald Chamberlin, P.T.A. Program Chairman, also participated during the evening.

The Girl Scouts assisted Mrs. Frank Townsend and her committee in serving refreshments during the social hour in the gymnasium. Parents and friends attended in large numbers.

"KISS of DEATH"

By LAWRENCE RANDALL
As Told to Mary Madison

SYNOPSIS OF THE STORY SO FAR

Coming home to Grosse Pointe, brilliant young publicist LARRY RANDALL finds Grosse Pointe shocked by the sensational murder of MIRANDA AMES, the girl he so madly loves. He vows to kill the killer. The fabulous beauty and heiress of the world's greatest motor fortune is found slain, wearing a string of $30,000 pearls, on the pier of The Grosse Pointe Golf Club. LARRY takes charge of suppressing publicity on the murder for MIRANDA'S stepmother. FAY AMES, a champagne blonde, now sole heiress of Consolidated Motors. CORNELIUS DUNN, publicity magnate, dispatches to the investigation. GUY ZINGLER, ace New York detective to aid Grosse Pointe Police, headed by LIEUTENANT CARROLL, scientific homicide expert. LARRY suspects ROGER BROOKS, aimless aristocratic fiancé of MIRANDA, involved with IMOGENE GARDNER, charming crook. LARRY trails them to a rendezvous, assaults ROGER BROOKS, climaxing a riot. MISS SNEED, MIRANDA'S cadaverous former governess distrusts everyone. JOCK PENDLETON, Big Name Band Leader, involved in the crime by his autograph found near the body, a forgery of his check and a threat to his life, goes on with the show at the club with his band. DON MONACO, a Spanish clarinet player nervously spouts philosophy, and BIRDIE MACLEAN, the Grosse Pointe Golf Club caddy traces a haunting tune he heard whistled just before finding the body. Emotionally pent up LARRY pursues his desperate search for the murderer by quizzing SUE MANCHESTER, red hot torch singing with the band, who confides she saw the unknown killer slinking from the pier, then collapses into LARRY'S arms. As the morbid MISS SNEED is struck down, a $15,000 REWARD FOR THE MURDER is offered by FAY AMES. After MISS SNEED weirdly reappears, SUE MANCHESTER faints at the microphone, stopping a national broadcast. The manhunt is spurred in Grosse Pointe.

Every eye was on the stage now. The dancers were pushing down toward the footlights. There was no outcry. A tense calm fell upon the crowd, as if they had read Pendleton's hectic signal. You're still on the air! Carroll was cutting his way up the side aisle toward the door leading backstage to the dressing rooms, Zing following him. I looked searchingly over the crowd. What was it Sue Manchester had seen that made her collapse? Who or what was it? Huddled against the wall on the side aisle near our table was a gaunt figure in gray, her step arrested by the crowd shoving toward the stage. She was caught, plucked in the colorful maze of that crowd. In the severe gray uniform, among the fluttering frocks and white dinner jackets, she was sharply incongruous as a steely gray bullet in a shower of confetti. I reached her, grabbed her bony arm. "What are you doing here, Sneed?" I demanded. She jerked away from me. "I'm not doing anything. I didn't do anything to her. She just fell."

That was all. Sue just saw her in that ghost-like gray uniform and fell in a paralysis of fear. I had Sneed's arm again, steered her up the aisle and backstage. I shoved her into a straight chair in the dressing room hall. "Now, out with it, Sneed! Why did you come here?" I bent over her. "What did you want?" "I didn't want anything. I only wanted to stop her—stop her singing and stop this band. There was a volley of venom in her shrill voice. "I told you before it was cannibalism. The rites of the flesh and the devil—" "What do you know of the rites of the flesh and the devil?" She was taut now with a righteous flame. "My sister is a mystic missionary in India. I know all about such things. This music is ungodly."

So that was it. Sneed had a swing fixation. A militant reformer, out to save a nation on the "swing skids." It wasn't the first I'd heard of fanatical aversion to the dance. Hadn't the same type of conscientious objector burned the demons of the dance in centuries past. Were we again in the Rhumba Seat to Hades? Carroll stepped out of a dressing room door. "She'll be all right. She fainted." Then he saw Sneed in the chair. "Well, if it isn't the strolling cadaver!" Sneed was that, all right. But I was speculating. Whether being a strolling cadaver was cause for arrest or even detention. A club attendant swung up the hall toward us. "Mr. Randall, there's a telephone message for you in the club lounge. He said it was urgent."

"Not any more than you do, Fay." She said: "I don't trust her but I do feel sorry for her." "You'll be here for Miranda's farewell at 7 tonight, Larry," she went on. "I'm busy arranging things. Nothing funeral, you know. I'm going to have Lieutenant Carroll and Guy Zingler besides the others who dined with us Saturday night. I think that, since they're working on the case, they ought to be here. Besides, I think Lieutenant Carroll is charming."

Charming was a quaint adjective to apply to Carroll. I got her off the line. I bolted four cups of coffee royale, spiked with brandy. It was exactly 9 o'clock when I stepped up to the row of cabs outside the hotel. The driver of Cab No. Sixty was leaning out of the driver's seat. He high-signed me. Sixty had a face to match his sound track mind over the phone. A thin, sturly, cut-rate face with muddy eyes and a sly smile shot of a jaw from which he shot monosyllabic words. I got into the back seat of his cab. "Hello, Randall." He dragged on his cigarette as if trying to recall what police line-up we'd met in before. "Nice morning."

"I hadn't noticed," I said. "Now tell me about this man you drove out to the Grosse Pointe Golf Club." "First," he said, "I want to get this straight. I don't want you to get no wrong notions about my givin' you my number instead of my name. Fact is, I ain't in, so good with the police right now."

"That's all right with me. Sixty suits my purpose." Didn't he know, I wondered, that I could get his name by checking with the cab company. Or did he have so many aliases that his real tag was buried hopelessly. "Don't get me wrong, Randall. I ain't got no scroll."

"Criminal record?" "Oh, that I wasn't even thinking of a criminal record. What do they want you for? Something like illegal cruising?" "Well, that and another little matter. It's my wife. She's trying to clamp me in the can. Back alimony."

"I see. Well, I think we can take care of that. Forget the police, Sixty. What do you know about this murder?" "It's like I told you. I know the bird who done the job. I had this fare I drove out there. He asked me to wait for him while he kept this appointment, so I kept my flag up, and in about half an hour or so he comes loping back to the cab."

"One minute, Sixty. What's the name of the girl that's singing with Pendleton's band at the club?" "How should I know? I ain't never been past the doorman at that snooty spot."

It was that word "loping" that was the clue. The same word Sue had used to describe the walk of the man she'd seen coming up from the pier. I wanted to make sure Sue hadn't hired and rehearsed this driver. "Where did you pick up this man. Here, at the Book-Cadillac?" "No. The call came from a jerk of a hotel. A spot called The Derby."

"About what time, Sixty?" "A little before 3 a. m. I got him out there about 3:45, waited around for him and got back to town around 5 o'clock. That fits in with the time the job was done, don't it?" "It might. The police can't check on it by minutes. Of course this man may have had legitimate business at the club."

"Three forty-five Sunday morning's a screwy time to be doing business at a country club," he said. "Where did you drop this man in town?" "Back to the same joint, The Derby Hotel."

"You know his name?" "No, you don't have to give no names for a cab call. He was standin' on the curb, waitin' for me. I didn't think he was a hot number until this murder turns up, eh?" "And you didn't think he was hot enough to tell the police about, until this murder turned up, eh?"

Sixty scowled: "I ain't tellin' the police yet. I don't like to get screwed up in other people's jobs. You ain't a stool ace you? You ain't givin' me the double X?" "No. You'll find my word is as good as my check, Sixty. What did he look like? You and I are going to find him."

The mention of the check had a stimulating effect on him. "He was a tall rangy bird, nearly six feet, I'd say. He had sorta wavy brown hair. Didn't

Neil Muir Takes Course at Willys

Neil Muir, of 1144 Lakeshore, is home after taking a special two weeks' service training course at Willys Overland in Toledo. Muir, who is a graduate of Grosse Pointe High, is one of the expert mechanics at Harper Auto Service, Willys dealers, Harper avenue at Anita.

The popular Willys jeep is now on display at the Harper Auto Service.

A move that had its origin in some upstate source, to have the State Fair removed farther up the state to a location more convenient to the rural population, appeared in the City Council meeting Monday night in the form of a request from a couple of nearby communities to oppose the measure.

It was decided to take no action on the matter after Mayor Netting and one or two of the more piously minded city fathers opined that the removal of the Fair Grounds from Detroit might eliminate the horrible stigma of horse racing.

Carroll said, "Go ahead. I'll keep an eye on this escaped mummy."

In the lounge I went into the phone room to which the operator directed me. It felt too like a white leather padded cell to loiter in long.

"This is Larry Randall," I said into the receiver.

"Yeah. Well, this is Sixty. I'm a Green Light cab driver, see. About that reward in the paper. I think maybe we can do business. I drove the guy who done that murder out to the Grosse Pointe Golf Club early Sunday morning. He said he had an appointment. I didn't know he had a date to do a murder. I waited for him and drove him back to town."

"What's your name?" I asked, steadying my voice.

"I ain't givin' my name. My number's sixty. That's my cab number."

"Where can I meet you tonight, Sixty?"

"I can't meet you tonight. I'm working. I'll meet you at my cab stand at nine tomorrow morning. My stand's at the Boulevard side of the Book-Cadillac."

"O.K. Sixty. I'll be at your cab stand."

He hung up. I lit a cigarette. So Dunn was right. All one had to do was flash a thumping reward for the identity of the murderer. You find out someone just rolled up in a cab and killed Miranda while the meter was running.

This man had told the cab driver he had an appointment. I could see what that meant. I didn't like that. I didn't like the thought of Miranda having a rendezvous at dawn. But I must find out about it. I felt I had my hand on the doorknob of some mysterious room in a dank and labyrinthine corridor. I didn't know what heart-breaking secret that room might contain, but I knew I must open the door and see for myself.

The next morning I rang Cornelius Dunn and told him about this cab driver Sixty who claimed to have driven the murderer to the club. Dunn sounded more than disturbed. He sounded as if he knew or suspected something he didn't think discreet to tell me. That's what it was—always like, working for Dunn. You felt like a man who turned one bolt on his assembly line. You couldn't see what the finished product was going to look like, because the finished product was a secret visualization in Dunn's mind. It was only when you saw it materialized at the end of his line, that you realized what a neat set of blue prints he'd had in his brain all along. Dunn said to keep him informed about Sixty.

I rang Fay Ames. I outlined Sneed's fanatical trip to the ballroom last night, culminating in Sue Manchester's collapse, stopping the broadcast.

"If you want to keep that cadaverous mummy out of Carroll's clutches," I said, "You'd better keep her locked in your padded castle."

"Poor old Sneed. She's high strung, but harmless. You don't trust her, do you, Larry?"

$270,000,000 Fund Helps
Unemployed in Michigan

The State of Michigan has over $270,000,000 in an unemployment compensation trust fund to aid Michigan workers through periods of unemployment.

During the past three months, an average of $3,500,000 has been paid out weekly. This money is aiding greatly in stabilizing our economic system during the transition from war production to peace production. Probably more than any other factor, unemployment compensation prevented a depression panic like that of 1920-22.

Today in Michigan, over 1,800,000 workers are covered by the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Act. Over 22,000 employers pay into the fund for this protection for their employees. In Michigan, not one employee pays a penny for unemployment compensation. The entire amount is paid by employers.

According to Dr. Robert M. Ashley, chairman of the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Commission, the basic theory behind unemployment insurance is that it gives systematic protection to workers for a limited time. This protection is given as a right based on previous contributions made by the employer.

The paying out of these benefits in time of depression will tend to maintain consumer buying power and thereby serve as a cushion against economic collapse.

Dr. Ashley points out that employees were not always protected from the chaos of unemployment, by compensation laws. The theory of unemployment compensation in the United States dates back to the early 1800's when benefit systems were discussed by trade unions.

In 1831, a local union of printers in New York state inaugurated the first unemployment insurance plan, offering its members $3.00 a week. By 1928, approximately 34,700 trade union members in the United States were protected to some extent through their international and local organizations by some form of unemployment insurance.

In April, 1931, the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics found that unemployment benefit plans of a more or less permanent character were maintained by three international unions and by 45 local unions. The number of workers covered, however, was under 15% of the total trade union membership in the country. The majority of these plans imposed the whole burden of finance on the unions.

The first joint acceptance of cost between employer and employee began in 1894 when the wallpaper crafts made a joint agreement with employers for unemployment insurance.

Again in 1921, the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union reached such an agreement with the manufacturers and dress-makers in New York State. Other similar plans followed.

Despite all these joint plans, less than 100,000 workers in the United States were covered by any unemployment insurance as late as 1934.

It was not until after the depression of 1914-1915 that the movement for compulsory unemployment insurance actually got started in this country. First came a bill in the Massachusetts legislature in 1916.

No action was taken, however, and the bill died. In that same year Representative Meyer of London of New York introduced a resolution in Congress seeking federal legislation. He failed also.

After the depression of 1920-1922, unemployment compensation bills again began to appear—this time in Connecticut, Massachusetts, Minnesota, New York, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin. All these became merely futile gestures.

During the period of comparative prosperity, interest lagged, but quickened again with the approach of another depression. In 1931, some 52 bills for compulsory job insurance appeared in 17 states.

On January 29, 1932, after more than two years of severe depression, the Wisconsin legislature passed an unemployment reserves law. Based on the theory that the employer was responsible for unemployment, it assessed the entire cost of the law on him.

In the fall of 1932, the Ohio Commission on Unemployment Insurance passed a resolution favoring a state-wide pooled fund, under public control, with joint contributions from employers and workers to pay for job insurance.

A bill embodying these ideas was introduced in the Ohio legislature and was copied in bills introduced here in Michigan and in Illinois. Despite all agitation, however, Wisconsin remained the only state to have a compulsory plan.

Township Taxes
Coming in Fast

Township Treasurer Damman reports that up to January 15 92 per cent of the township tax roll had been collected. This rate indicates the usual promptness with which Grosse Pointe taxpayers ordinarily pay their taxes.

The 4 per cent penalty went on on Jan. 10, but taxes are still receivable at the Township offices until March 1. After that time they will have to be paid at the Delinquent tax division in the County Treasurer's office.

More Farmers
To Get Phones

The Michigan Bell Telephone Company has laid before the Michigan Public Service Commission a proposal that would enable an additional 10 per cent of the farm families in its territory to obtain telephone service without special construction charges. The new plan would increase that percentage to 85 per cent.

A petition was filed with the commission which, if approved, would increase from 3/10 to 3/2 mile the amount of construction to be furnished free of charge by the company.

No action was taken, however, and the bill died. In that same year Representative Meyer of London of New York introduced a resolution in Congress seeking federal legislation. He failed also.

Record Falls as Blue Devil Swimmers Beat River Rouge

Pinkston, Beer, Kaiser and LaFerte Set New Pool Mark in 200-yard Free Style Relay as Team Wins

By FRED RUNNELLS
They came, they saw, they conquered. That was the story of the swimming meet between Grosse Pointe and River Rouge last Friday afternoon when the Blue Devils won eight of nine events to score a 61-23 victory, their sixth in seven meets this season, to bring the season's total score to 405 as against the opponents' 153.

Marty Beer and Bill Wolf put on a nip and tuck battle in the first event of the meet, the 50-yard free style, with Beer winning out by a fraction of a second. Bob Jenks, up and coming freshman breast stroker, won the second event, the 100 yard breast stroke, easily over teammate Bob Fosnoe, who barely edged out the River Rouge boy by a foot to give the Blue Devils a commanding lead which was never relinquished.

River Rouge dominated the 100 yard back stroke event by winning first place over Grosse Pointe's Jim Flom by 3 yards plus. Veteran Earl Lapp finished a full second behind Flom.

Dan LaFerte and Dave Kaiser put the Blue Devils back on the winning side of the ledger when they took the first two places in the 100 yard free style event. LaFerte won this event easily and had things pretty much his own way over the distance. LaFerte was so far ahead of the last River Rouge swimmer that he was already out of the pool before the River Rouge boy made the turn for the last lap of the race.

Buster Pinkston continued undefeated in the 150 yard individual medley relay and missed setting a new pool record by less than a second. Cobby Bartlett, swimming in this event, was touched out by the Rouge boy and spoiled a clean sweep.

Unbeatable Don Duncan continued on his merry way to an undefeated season when he took the diving honors. River Rouge scored high in this event by taking second and third. Jim Flom, Bob Jenks and Paul Friese loafed through the 150 medley relay but still won the event by a good ten yards. If this team had been pressed it would have come close to a new pool record but River Rouge never had a chance when Flom grabbed an early lead on the back stroke leg and the other two boys just kept increasing it. The combination of Pinkston, Beer, Kaiser and LaFerte, swimming in the 200 yard free style relay, put on a good show for the spectators when they splashed their way to a new pool record of 1:43.2. The old record was 1:44. The first time this combination swam together was in the Lincoln Park meet on January 8 and at that time they combined to establish a new 100 yard free style record for the Grosse Pointe pool of 1:19.2. The old record, established last year, was 1:19.7 and at that time it was thought the record would stand for a few years, as did the previous one.

Both times this team have swam together they have broken pool records and last Saturday night in the State AAU meet, held at Northwestern High school, they became the 100 yard free style relay Michigan State Champions.

In the last four swimming meets Grosse Pointe has garnered 60 or more points, which is good in anybody's league.

The Blue Devils have a tough assignment come this Friday when they take on Fordson High, always a tough foe in any sport, in the Fordson pool, with competition getting under way at 4 p.m.

FOOD for THOUGHT

Argentina Brings to the Local Market Pate de Foie-Gras Akin to French Product

With a certain degree of nostalgia, you may recall the pate de foie gras exported from France before the war. This product emanated from a leading industry in Strasbourg, and Toulouse and if you've missed it since, you'll prick up your ears at the tidings that a shipment of genuine pate akin to the French variety—that is, made with goose livers instead of chicken or pork as our domestic types—has arrived from Argentina. If our memory serves us right, this is the first of its kind to be received in several years.

This delicacy, besides being prepared with goose liver, goose meat and butter, is made even more savory with truffles and contains a generous amount of fat. Light and fluffy in texture—chief traits of good pate—it is less pasty and has a more delicate flavor than the domestic chicken or pork varieties. Some authorities endorse chilling before serving to bring out the full flavor, while others cling to the theory that it is at its best when served at room temperature. Either way, it provides a delicious appetizer when served on crisp crackers.

GALLI is the brand name and you'll find it at HAMLIN'S INC., 89 Kercheval Avenue, Grosse Pointe Farms. Eighty-nine cents is the cost of a four-and-a-quarter ounce tin.

At the request of an importer this pate was made, and we are told the manufacturer is now striving to improve it even further. Geese are apparently in sufficient abundance in Argentina to produce it, while the birds in this country are not plentiful enough to warrant the effort. In France, where the mixture was originally concocted back in the eighteenth century by the chef to the Governor of Alsace, geese are scientifically fattened for the purpose. They are kept in special coops, which prevent them from exercising while being fed to capacity. As you may remember, the Strasbourg pate was often packaged in attractive earthenware jars, and that was a bit more expensive than the present Galli product.

Local Cagers Win Another
Grosse Pte. High Basketball Team Downs Ford Trade, 35-29, in Rough Contest

By FRED RUNNELLS
Last Friday night proved to be just another basketball game for the Pointe Blue Devil cagers when they met and conquered Ford Trade School, 35-29, at the Trade School gym.

The team was plenty confident of taking this game on the ride over to Dearborn but Coach Bill Healy didn't share their confidence because he knew Ford Trade had given Fordson, Grosse Pointe's next foe, a tough battle a few weeks ago, and it was only a last minute rally that gave Fordson the game.

The first string players soon proved to their coach they knew what they were talking about when they stepped out right after the opening whistle and grabbed an early lead, which they never relinquished. Johnny Rummel and Don McPhail were instrumental in keeping the Blue Devils always 3, 4 or 5 points ahead throughout the first half and had their team on the long end of an 18 to 15 score at the intermission.

Ford Trade, no match for the smoothly working offense of the Blue Devils in the second half, began roughing it up and the game took on the appearance of a football game. Dick Finch and Jim Bailey played with coolness and finesse, and kept the ball much in Grosse Pointe's possession in the second stanza of the game.

Lots of fouls were called during the rough play and play was halted too often. As a result the game became dull from the spectators' standpoint.

Dominican High Fathers To Hold Theater Party

The club has reserved a block of choice seats and tickets may be obtained from H. Parker Munger, 3699 Buckingham road, telephone Tuxedo 2-1434.

The next monthly meeting of the club will be held Wednesday evening, February 6, in the school library at 8 p.m.

Strange Request Baffles Husband

A citizen living on Wayburn made a strange request of the Park police late one afternoon last week.

He said there was a "strange" man in his home and he wanted the police to do something about it. Officers Ingalsbe and Del Place were dispatched to give the situation the once over. The strange man was there all right, and not in his astral body. He proclaimed most earnestly, however, that he had been invited to come in by the wife of the house. The wife supported the statement undauntedly.

Husband was in a fog. The visitor was permitted to depart and the officers advised the still confused husband to consult with Detective Lieutenant Lowers for expert advice. On occasions he performs the function of a domestic relations officer, they told him.

People sometimes grow so broad-minded that their thinking gets shallow.

March of Dimes Donations Will Be Shared With State

Annual Drive Most Important in Face of 13,443 New Cases of Polio Reported During Past Year

The annual March of Dimes appeal for funds, conducted each year by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, is under way. All the County Chapters throughout Michigan are conducting their drives simultaneously with the National appeal in order to guarantee that every victim of the dread polio in this state will receive the most modern and effective care.

There have been 13,443 new cases of infantile paralysis in the United States during this past year, of which 216 were reported in Michigan, making 1945 the fourth highest year on record nationally. For the care of these victims Michigan chapters spent approximately $255,000 on hospitalization and treatment alone. In addition the National Foundation has advanced $2,500 in emergency aid to Michigan counties which were not able to meet the cost of caring for all their victims out of local funds.

Infantile paralysis, always one of the most expensive diseases, has become even more costly since the latest methods of treatment, which require almost constant attention in hot packing and physical therapy, have become so universally used. It is now estimated that the average amount spent on each case in this country, is $2,500 per year. Some cases require years of continuing treatment and each year's toll adds new names to the ever increasing list.

That is why an appeal for funds must be made each year, not only to provide care for those who have been stricken, but to be prepared in the event of another epidemic. Michigan counties know how suddenly and tragically such an epidemic can occur, since just two years ago it happened right here, and our state figure rose to more than three times the average of the past seven years.

Half of the money raised remains right here to be used for treatment and hospitalization of local patients. The other 50% is sent to the National Foundation, which in turn disburses it for epidemic control, education, and research.

A. P. Verdonckt Lost to Pointe

The tragic death in an automobile accident of Adolph P. Verdonckt near Tilbury, Ontario, on January 18, was a shock to his wide circle of friends in the Pointe community.

Mr. Verdonckt was driving his car along a country road when he ran off the road for some unexplained cause and his car pitched into an open water-filled ditch and turned over. The only other occupant of the car was his pet dog. Mr. Verdonckt's torn clothing gave mute evidence of the efforts of the faithful beast to extricate his master from the partially submerged car. The lack of visible injuries on the body led to the conclusion that he had drowned.

Mr. Verdonckt had led an active life in the Grosse Pointe community for 30 years. He came here as a boy of thirteen and was born in Belgium. He is survived by his widow, Mary, and a son, George. He also had a brother, George, of Grosse Pointe.

He was actively associated with many civic and social organizations of the community. He was a charter member of the Grosse Pointe Rotary Club and belonged to the Belgian-American Business Men's Association, the Belgian-American Century Club, the St. Charles Society, the Gabriel Richard Council, Knights of Columbus, the Detroit Pigeon Fanciers Association, the Michigan Bakers' Association, the Recess Rod and Gun Club and the Belgian Band. He was the organizer of the latter organization.

The funeral was conducted in the Verheyden Funeral Home at 9:15 a. m. Wednesday and in the Church of Our Lady of Sorrows at 10 o'clock. Burial was in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

The merchandise taken from Grosse Pointe homes has not been identified among the articles taken from Larks' apartment but Edward Flemming of 4100 Kensington identified the suit case as having been taken from his home on December 14.

The police telegraph to Michigan cities and broadcasts to out state centers is hoped to get Kaupenny in the dragnet before long. When he is garnered in the police believe they will uncover the complete story of most of the robberies in recent months in the Pointe area.

Officials' Bonds Changed by City

The City Council at its meeting Monday night made changes in the amounts of bonds of a number of the City bonded officials. The bond of the City Clerk which has heretofore been $10,000 remains unchanged, pending an opinion from City Attorney Meder.

The bond of the Treasurer, who handles very little cash, was reduced $20,000 to $5,000. The Deputy City Treasurer's bond was increased from $10,000 to $20,000 as he handles a large amount of cash and is the immediate custodian of the city's cash. The bonds of the clerks in the municipal offices was left standing at $2,500 each.

Pointer Honored By Scholarship

The scholarship honors the firm's founder, the late Thomas P. Henry, and is dedicated "in memory of his accomplishments in the Graphic Arts field, as well as his great interest in the Printing Industry, and particularly in the Typographical Branch. We feel it most fitting that the scholarship serve to aid others who wish a college education in the Graphic Arts."

Historical Society Is Formed

A group of Grosse Pointe citizens who have been considering the formation of an historical society for the collection and preservation of manuscripts and articles associated with the early history of the Grosse Pointe area met Friday evening, Jan. 18 at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club and perfected an organization.

Application for a charter for a non-profit incorporation has been made and the filing of the names of the incorporators at Lansing will automatically effect the legal status of the society.

The articles of Incorporation read: "To stimulate and encourage the interest of the citizens of Grosse Pointe in the history of this area and its customs, architecture, and government, and the part that its inhabitants have had in service of their government, and their contribution to the development of our social, governmental, financial, and industrial institutions; and to that end to acquire, preserve, and exhibit objects of historical interest, to provide facilities for study, and for research and publication of articles relating thereto; to solicit and receive gifts of money and other property in the furtherance of these objectives."

Officers and the Board of Trustees follow: president, Vincent R. DePetris; vice-president, John J. O'Brien; vice-president, Kenneth L. Moore; treasurer, Hawkins Perry; recording secretary, Florence H. Severs; corresponding secretary, Norbert P. Neff. Trustees, Bernhard Stroh, Jr., Lincoln Maire, George Elworthy, Louise Rau and Murray M. Smith.

CATHOLIC THEATER

Meymo Holt will portray the tempestuous Mary Todd Lincoln in The Catholic Theatre of Detroit's Midwest premiere of "Storm", prize-winning drama by Edith Mirick, to be presented at the Art Institute Auditorium on February 14, 15 and 16.

Outdoor Sports Drive Kids Indoors

The great outdoors is fine these cold winter days, but the pot-bellied stove is a friend in need after a spell on the ice. This gang of youngsters stopped exercising long enough to warm up at the Farms municipal pier Saturday afternoon.
