Principals in Park Gun Battle

Murderer's Common-Law Wife Suspected in Four Robberies in Pointe Area

Thieves Implicated in Other Jobs Here Deny Any Part in Cases Where Phone Wires Were Cut

Both Melvin Larks and Edward Koupeny, the 22 and 28 year old youths run to earth as figures in several of the major robberies in the Park recently, have maintained that they had nothing to do with four robberies where the phone wires had been cut prior to the robbery.

A thorough checkup of these cases has convinced Detective Lieutenant Arthur Louwers of the Park that they were not the culprits in these cases. He believes they might possibly be explained by the robberies in which Madeline Wisniewski, the common-law wife of Alex Gliva, the murderer of Arba B. Hawley, real estate man, figured.

The Detroit police have already unearthed money stolen by this woman and Detective Louwers is following their hunt for other stolen property with close interest in the possibility that some of the missing Grosse Pointe property may be located in her caches.

Louwers confesses it is only more or less a wild suspicion on his part but several matters that have developed in the Park robberies lead him to think the murderer's wife's escapades may not be too far removed from the local field.

Wiring Foils Auto Thieves

Joseph M. Killoran, of 946 Nottingham, reported to the Park police Friday morning that some would-be thieves had made a mess of the ignition wires on his car while it had been parked the night before in his own driveway. The wiring, however, seemed to have been too much for the amateurs. The stealing of the hub caps on the car was a not too technical job to carry through to completion.

Fraternity Fodder Attempts Social Climbing in Reverse

Mrs. LeClair of 688 Balfour road reported to the Park police early Friday morning that a "suspicious looking man with a car" was parked on Avondale between Balfour and Berkshire. She offered the further information that she thought she heard shoveling.

With images of burglars who entered properties via the tunnel route, Patrolmen Mouton and Van Der Ginstle speeded around in their scout car.

They found Master William Anderson, aged 16, of 518 St. Clair, working industriously to dig a trench in a nearby vacant

Beach Concession Awarded by Park

The operation of the concessions for the Park village municipal beach for the coming summer was awarded again this year by the village commissioners Monday night to Charles Stackman, on the same terms as previously.

The concessionaire pays the village 5% on his gross sales up to $5,000 per month and 7½% for all over $5,000.

Normally this amounts to between $500 and $600 a year. The year before last the village's share amounted to only $188 as the beach was closed a large part of the summer because of the pollution of the bathing water caused by the diverting of sewage from the lower part of Macomb county into the open water course.

Delectable Vistas Opened Up by Offer from Council of Social Agencies

This office received a routine letter news release, on February 9 from the public information service of our own dear Council of Social Agencies. It may have been regarded as a routine hand-out of the Council, but it was no routine stuff to Yours Truly. It opened up a whole vista of delectable experiences which our lowly imagination had never conjured up as strewing our humble pathway.

What caught our eye in the first paragraph of the glad tidings was: "Would you like to go South for a while?"

Would we? Why, that's right up our alley. And then to get all the low down on this promised delight we read on: "The McGregor Health Foundation offers you the opportunity. It has funds available to send persons to rest in other parts of the country. The main requirements are that your physician prescribes climatic change to prevent illness or to convalesce from illness, and that you cannot afford the trip yourself."

It fits our case to a gnat's eyeball. We have neither the time nor the money for such a happy sojourn in far places, but we have the inclination - plus, it shouldn't be too difficult to dig up an obliging medico who would

Post Office Lease Recorded

City Clerk Norbert P. Neff recorded the lease of the Post Office property to the Government with the Recorder of Deeds on February 9. He received an acknowledgement of the recording from that office on Tuesday morning.

The expectation is that as soon as the Post Office Department receives the notification of the recording, the long delayed check for rental will be forthcoming. This will cover a period from November 1944.

School Plan Explained at Mass Meeting

Officials Inform Woods Residents of Details of Building Proposals

A meeting was held in the Mason School Tuesday night, called by the Parent-Teacher Council for the purpose of discussing with members of the School Board and representatives from the executive staff of the schools, the purposes and aims of the special election to be held on March 4.

Dr. Paul L. Essert, Superintendent of Grosse Pointe Schools, explained the proposal at length and had distributed among the citizens present a written explanation in detail of the subject discussed at the meeting, for their most leisurely and convenient study.

After referring to the needs of the school district, both with respect to providing educational facilities for the growing district and adequate pay for the employees, the manner of raising the money, and its application was explained.

The measure on which the people will vote provides for the levying of an additional five mills tax, of which 1½ mills will be applicable for increasing salaries of teachers. The other three and one half mills of the authorized raise will be diverted into a sinking fund for the erection of a Junior High School at Vernier and Mack and an elementary school at Kerby and Beaupre. These provisions are specifically stated in the ballot which the people will vote.

The creation of the sinking fund will permit the School board to begin at once the erection of units of the proposed buildings to cost not more than the anticipated revenues from taxation for that year, amounting the first year to about $327,000. The following year it would repeat the operation, adding to the buildings already started construction equivalent to the anticipated revenues going into the sinking fund to the extent of about $330,000. This practice would continue as long as it was deemed advisable by the school authorities to adhere to the pay-as-you-go plan. This first plan was advised by the architects and builders because of the uncertainty of building costs and material possibilities for the immediate future.

If, after a year or two, building conditions should grow more favorable and it would seem advisable to put-through the quick completion of the building program, the Board of Education would go back to the voters again for their authorization to sell the remainder of the authorized bond issues, up to the difference between the sum already spent and the total issue and make the total balance immediately available to finish the program.

The great advantage to the taxpayers of the pay-as-you-go plan is that it will not compel the School district to proceed at once with the completion of the entire building program, at a possible time when building costs might be abnormally high.

A further advantage is that after the pay-as-you-go program has been in operation for a year or so, government funds might become available to assist in building operations, as was the case when the Mason school was built. The Government participated then on a 45-55 percent division. The district would then be in a position to take advantage of this aid.

Such aid would not be considered by the Government if, at that time the School District had already sold its entire bond issue and had the money in hand.

New hours for the post office on Maumee have been announced as follows:

Beginning Monday, February 18, the office will open one half hour later, at 7:30 a. m. instead of 7 a. m. It will remain open a half hour later, closing at 6:15 p. m. instead of 5:45 as previously.

Food Chain Presents Store of Tomorrow To Grosse Pointers

First Postwar Model of Supermarket Will Be Opened on Kercheval Avenue Wednesday By A & P.

The "Supermarket of Tomorrow" will be opened by A & P Food Stores in Grosse Pointe next Wednesday, February 20. This store, at 17120 Kercheval avenue, is the first "postwar" model to be unveiled in the Detroit area, the company announces.

The public is invited to a preview of the store to be held next Tuesday evening, February 19, from 7 to 10 o'clock. Officials and sales department representatives from the food chain's area headquarters in Detroit, will be on hand to explain the merchandising features and practices which are being initiated. Carl Kotke is supermarket manager.

Installation of eight complete food departments, each fitted with the most modern equipment available, "will enable us to offer the public the most complete food service in the company's history," according to J. A. O'Donnell, A&P vice-president.

The work of remodeling and re-equipping the store without interrupting normal operation, has been under way for several weeks, O'Donnell said, but finishing touches will require closing the store Monday and Tuesday before the Tuesday night preview opening.

Departments, new and remodeled, which will be in operation are described as follows:

A fancy retail bakery, staffed with 10 trained salesgirls, will offer a wide variety of Danish pastries, homemade cookies, doughnuts, cakes, pies and many other delicacies in addition to home-styled bread. Supplies will be

Auto Thieves Foiled Twice

Windows Broken in Two Cars in Farms; Trio Seen Escaping By One Owner

Attempts to steal two autos in the Farms were reported to the police on February 9.

Mrs. Marie Ortwin of 468 Moran road, said that two windows in her car had been broken but nothing had been taken from within.

Bill Browne of 293 Mt. Vernon told the police windows in his car were also broken but he had interrupted the thieves at work. He said there were three of them and they drove off in a Plymouth before he could obtain the license number.

Police Peepers Placed on Alert

Arthur Henry, Sr., of 1110 Maryland complained to the Park police that every evening for several days, at about 7 o'clock or sometimes a little later, a window peeper had been haunting his place.

On one occasion he had seen a man run out of his basement and disappear through the back door. Acting Chief Louwers has detailed the special peeper watch to keep their peepers on the property for the next few days in the hope of peeping the peeper.

War's End Ends Tolerance Shown to Chicken Raisers

During the war the Board of Village Commissioners of the Park were inclined to look the other way on the matter of keeping chickens in the village, on the score that it was a part of the whole national scheme of conserving the country's food supply. For this same reason the citizens were reluctant to lodge complaints against this practice by their neighbors.

Now, however, with the war over, the residents are growing less tolerant and already many complaints have come into Village Manager Lane's office of nuisances in widely separated parts of the village.

Police Arrest Check Forger

Tip From Mayfair Gables Leads Secret Service and Local Men to Quarry

The forger of a government allotment check was picked up by Secret Service men, Detroit police and Sergeant Elmer Labadie of the Farms police department last week. The tip which led to his arrest was furnished by the owners of Mayfair Gables, located on Mack avenue in the Farms.

Jack E. Moore, 18, of 2648 Lycaste, will be prosecuted for violation of the U. S. Code on Forgery. When picked up at his home he told the officers the following story.

One Mike Pallazola of 1458 Seyburn, a rooming house, had given him the check on January 15, offering him half the face value, ($80) if he would have it cashed. The check was made out to Mona Vanier. Moore had forged the names of Mona and George Vanier to it and cashed it at Mayfair on January 29, then went to Canada with some friends to spend his share.

The check was an allotment on behalf of Ray Vanier, who with his wife had roomed at the Seyburn avenue house with Pallazola. They had left for Chicago and the check was to have been forwarded to them by a tenant. Pallazola beat the tenant to it. He is being sought.

Skating Carnival Planned for Kids

A skating carnival for Pointe boys and girls 12 years and under, will be held at the Farms pier Saturday afternoon between 2 and 4 o'clock, weather permitting.

The Grosse Pointe Rotary Club is sponsoring the event, in cooperation with Norbert Neff, clerk of the City of Grosse Pointe, and George Elworthy, head of the Neighborhood Club.

Five to Report For Induction

Five Grosse Pointe boys have been ordered to report for induction into the armed services on February 18. They will meet at the office of Local Draft Board 57 at 7 a. m. on that date.

The list includes: Warren W. Schultz, 776 Berkshire; William F. Baker, 282 Moran rd.; Joseph B. Leach, 15201 Charlevoix; Dorcie E. Moats, 1359 Anita, and George H. Snyder, 1123 Beaconsfield.

War's End Ends Tolerance Shown to Chicken Raisers

Mr. Lane brought the matter to the attention of the Commissioners Monday night and a lengthy discussion ensued. The village has no specific chicken ordinance, such as the Woods village has, and such action as may be taken will necessarily have to proceed on the general nuisance angle. This would necessitate individual complaint.

The village authorities were requested to keep their eyes on the situation but no movement was initiated to deal with the matter by the enactment of a special chicken ordinance. If complaints multiply this action may be taken later.

Park Police Shoot It Out In Cafe Fight

One of Pair Escapes After Crashing Through Heavy Plate Glass Door

The Park police figured in an old fashioned gun battle with bad men in the early hours of Tuesday morning.

A phone call was received at police headquarters from a citizen at 3:40 a. m. The informant said there was some sort of disturbance in progress at the Grosse Pointe Park Cafe at 15222 Charlevoix.

Sergeant Richard Mead, Patrolmen Gerald Kesteloot, Frank Dilloway and Adam Mouton made double time in getting around in their scout cars. They surrounded the place, with Mead covering the rear door.

At this moment the rear door was pushed open a crack and the party inside opened fire at Mouton. He returned fire.

Following this fusillade the man inside, evidently ran back towards the front of the place and burst out of the front, smashing through a heavy glass door. He came through with his gun blazing and the officers responded with a heavy return fire. He was seen to fall down, but whether he was hit is not yet known. He picked himself up quickly and ran south on Beaconsfield and then was seen turning east across a lot onto Nottingham. This was the last seen of him.

While the other officers were trying to locate this party, Patrolman Kesteloot went into the place and gathered up Robert Emil Pelchat, aged 27, who gave his address as 8764 Hosmer Ave., Detroit.

The police are busy checking up on the two and have already learned that they figured with three confederates in a bank hold up in Montreal some time ago.

Must Have Used Vanishing Cream

Commissioner McMillan of the Park village reported to the police Sunday afternoon that two car loads of youngsters were making high jinks driving around in his neighborhood. His only description was that one of the cars was a maroon colored roadster. With this as a lead the police traced down the ownership of the car.

The owner of the car was relieved to know even the transient whereabouts of his property. A Mr. Burns of 523 Barrington Street had turned over his car to some boys to give it a washing and it had disappeared. The saga of the other car's as yet unexplained.

Park Election Plans Complete

Clark Stammen reported to the Park Village Commissioners at the meeting Monday night that the notices of the annual election this year were post-d on Feb. 9. There will be no primary election as the number of candidates filing, not being in excess of two candidates for any one office, made such a preliminary selection unnecessary.

The election will be held on March 11.

The Commissioners named the election boards at the Monday meeting. These will be the same persons who conducted the election last year.

Bond Deal Profit Nets Park $8825

The bond firm of Stranahan, Harris and company which was the successful bidder on $40,000 of Park village bonds held in its sinking fund has completed the transaction.

The item of accrued interest to date of purchase amounted to $583.33. This, added to the premium, presents a net profit to the village resulting from the selling of the bonds and the conversion of the proceeds into government bonds, of $8,825.

"Although several of the innovations in this store are still in the experimental stage, we are convinced that this type of complete food outlet will be the accepted standard in the near future. We are proud to present this store to our Grosse Pointe customers as our first 'postwar' model."

certify that we needed a "climatic change."

We confess to a slight disappointment that the field of our recuperation seems to have been limited to the United States of America, but maybe that was a pardonable oversight. Personally we prefer Sheppard's Hotel in Cairo or the French Riviera. We understand that neither of these places have been too much mused up by the war.

Farther on this missive of cheer says "The McGregor Health Foundation, a member of the Council of Social Agencies, has sent patients to rest in Arizona, Florida, Kentucky, Missouri, New York, North Carolina, Texas, Utah, Virginia, Ontario and to other parts of Michigan."

Ontario seems to be the limit of choice outside of the USA. That's hardly fair. However, we plead for an exception in our case. If we can't get away at once for a rest this side of the equator, the marvelous vacation lands of Chile or the lower Brazil country would quit splendidly about July 1st.

In fact, kindly enter our registration now for early next summer for the South American rest. But we want no misunderstanding about this. It must be completely understood that this is all free gratis for nothing, as your letter plainly states.

The little matter of the physician's certificate can be arranged at any time on a moment's notice, as soon as we get the word that everything is all okay dokey for our recuperation.

Better make it July 1st, and remember, it must be SOUTH of the equator.

School

Such a situation would be prima facie evidence that the district needed no government aid.

The people in attendance at the meeting seemed convinced of the soundness of the School Board's explanation. It was the general consensus of the Woods taxpayers that they should go out and inform the voters of the facts before the election day on March 4.

Much of the doubt that surrounded the issue was laid by the specific assurance carried in the ballot itself that the first claim of the Woods for its Junior High school will be met.

The plan of the School Board to provide first for units which can be immediately available for school purposes as soon as finished in advance of the final completion of the entire building, received much favorable comment.

Glowing Warmth for Chilly Corners

You can banish chilly air these winter mornings with the glowing warmth of an electric heater. These appliances are portable and easy to operate. Heat is always instantly available from your nearest outlet with this modern device. An electric heater is ideal for warming baby's bath area or as a supplement to your central heating system on extremely cold days. There is no cleaner, more convenient type of heat. Detroit Edison's new low rates make electrical heating even more economical.

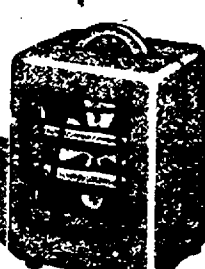

But Not For The Whole Room

The capacity of all electric heaters is plainly marked on each unit. The Detroit Edison Company advises all purchasers of heating appliances to notice carefully how much electricity is required to operate the model under consideration. Be cautious of extravagant claims which imply that an electric heater may be operated indefinitely at low cost and yet have sufficient output to warm large areas. When an electric heater is used indiscriminately, abnormally high electric bills can result.

Here is a simple rule to follow in determining the amount of electricity a heater will use. Take the number of watts shown on the name plate divided by 1000 times 2 cents which will give you the minimum cost of operation per hour.

For example, the minimum cost of using a thousand-watt heater is equivalent to burning ten 100-watt bulbs or seventeen 60-watt bulbs. A 1000-watt heater costs 14c a week if used one hour daily for seven days. The same unit if used eight hours daily costs $1.12 per week and $4.80 per month. Buy your heater from a reliable dealer who can tell you the cost of operating a unit designed to suit your particular needs.

Teen Age Pointers Confess Robberies; Set Fire to Homes

Gang Between Ages of 13 and 15 Gathered In; Series of Thefts and Arson Solved With Their Arrest

When Detective Lieutenant Arthur Louwers of the Park picked up a thirteen year old boy a few days ago for complicity in several of the recent robberies in the lower part of the Pointe, he dug up the explanation of a lot more.

The boy, whose name is withheld on account of his youth, was personally responsible for the robberies at the Arthur Totz home at 712 Berkshire, at the Harold Wurster home at 855 Bal-four and at the O. W. Burke home at 1328 Berkshire, which he robbed on November 16.

Through the 13 year older several other boys were gathered in. On them were fastened the robberies of cash at the Hoeberling Drug Store at 14937 Kercheval, and cash taken from the cash drawer at the gas station operated by J. C. Buckingham at 15009 Kercheval. The latter robbery was only last Friday. The boys were all in the 13-15 year old age brackets and all of them live in Grosse Pointe.

In the Woods village they robbed two private houses, a real estate office and the Smiley Hardware Store, where they took about $50 out of the till. Their depredations however went much farther than ordinary robbery. Both of the private homes which they raided they set on fire.

When questioned about the arson charge neither of them were able to make any rational explanation.

Support Given To Historical Society Plan

Names of 30 Charter Members Sent to Lansing; Founders to Be Named Next

The Grosse Pointe Historical Society has completed a list of thirty names of Grosse Pointers which will go to Lansing as Charter members of the Society.

Following the enrollment of the charter members an additional list of names will be entered as "Founders" of the Society. It is understood there are many in the Pointe who expect to be identified with the society from its beginning.

When organized and set for functioning, the society hopes to be installed in a room in the Alger Museum. The suggestion that the society should eventually be located in the proposed Memorial Library building is still under serious consideration.

BB Gun Taken From Students

A group of high school students celebrating last Saturday night's victory over Hazel Park picked a form of entertainment that proved obnoxious to a resident of the Farms. She reported that they were shooting a BB gun and one of the pellets had struck her window.

A short search produced a car-load of teen-age boys riding around the Farms. They had a gun and admitted they had been shooting at street signs. The gun was confiscated and the boys were taken to the Touraine road home of the resident who had complained.

They offered apologies and then were released after being warned by Sergeant Champane of the police department.

Driver of Truck In Real Trouble

The City Police picked up a man 32 years old on February 5 on the complaint of a father in the city for attempted molestation and indecent exposure directed toward his fifteen year old daughter. The man was driving a green panel delivery truck.

As soon as his arrest was known by the Detroit police they put in a claim for him and he was delivered to them for trial for stealing a car in 1942 from Lieutenant Ludwig of the Army. The City police will take him as soon as his case has run its course in Detroit.

DOG BITE

John Allen, 8, of 160 Kerby road, was bitten on the left hand on February 11 by a cairn terrier owned by John Allmand of 88 Touraine road. Farms police ordered the dog tied up and held under observation for 10 days.

Park Feels Rezoning Symptoms

Agitation to Increase Commercial Area on Park's Main Avenue

The zoning and rezoning bug which has always been endemic in the Pointe and in latter days has become epidemic, has hit the Park.

For long that stretch of the south side of Jefferson between Barrington and Beaconsfield has been the zoning problem child of the Park village. The land is now in Zone "A", residential area restricted to single family home development, but the proximity of the commercial district for improvement with the character of houses found only a block or two beyond and in the rear towards the lake. The high price of the land, plus its undesirability for high class home sites, has resulted in its lying unimproved for many years.

There is now a strong agitation under way to remove it from its present status as zone "A" land and place it in commercial zone "B" category. Whenever this has been agitated in the past the rezoning has always been opposed by those owning homes immediately in the rear of the Jefferson frontage between Jefferson and the lake.

It is now learned that much of this opposition has disappeared among the nearby home owners. The reason for this is said to be that the original subdividers' restrictions, which held this land to single family dwelling house uses only, is about to expire by limitation and the owners of the homes nearby, realizing that this change in zoning is due to come soon in any event, will not seriously oppose the proposed rezoning now.

The exact area that it is proposed to rezone is bounded on the west end by Tony Koinis' candy store between Barrington and Pemberton and the former Ray Whyte manufacturing plant, now being used as an auto sales and service station, on the east end midway between Lakepointe and Beaconsfield.

This is the site which embraced the public parking lot during the war, and until recently contained the bus transfer waiting station.

The change is proposed in answer to the pressure that is constantly exerted by private interests for commercial locations in the Park and for the community-wide needs for greater provision for the accommodation of businesses, which are necessary for the convenience and service of the public in every growing community.

The matter came officially before the Park Council meeting Monday night.

PROWLER ESCAPES

Mrs. Bodman and the children will not move to the capital until June. Mr. Bodman served with the Army in Washington all during the war. Through his confirmation by the Senate, he succeeds Charles T. Fisher, Jr., president of the National Bank of Detroit, who served as a director of the government corporation during the war. Until Mr. Fisher sold his home on Vendome road in 1944, he and Mr. Bodman lived in the same block. Mr. Bodman is a vice-president of the National Bank of Detroit.

Kid Bits

By Betsy Bachmann

On Friday, February the first, CAROL STEWART decided to start the semester out right by giving a party. So she gathered her friends at her home for dancing that evening. Later in the evening, Mrs. Stewart surprised the dancers by serving them a mouth-watering supper. Jack Jenkins was Carol's date, while the other guests included Bonnie Lee, Clerk McPhail, Sally Hoyt, Pinky Devroy, Lois Buck, Ralph Allured, Charlotte Simmons, Jack Rowe, Dot Stoner, Byrd Spurrier, Joanie Williams, Bob Stewart, Gloria James, Bill Joop, Tommy Anton, Bob Temple, Calvin Purdy, Bill DeGraw, John Corfield and Bob Hanson.

Nothing can beat the weekly gatherings where the girls of Grosse Pointe discuss the latest goings-on. Tops in fun and amusement was the session at BARB GALLARNO's last Friday night. The blue-jeaned crowd was made up of Phyllis Biggs, Lois Rick, Dottie Donnelly, Helen Grubbs, Nancy and Janet Dalrymple, Elaine Buhner, Mary Trumbull and Mary Lou Ewing.

Probably the most exciting basketball game of the semester was the one last Saturday between Grosse Pointe and Hazel Park. Arriving in time to see the close struggle between the two teams were Annie Wakeham, Fred Auch, Betsy Bauman, Jeff Welsher, Marilyn Lamb, Bill Queen, Maggie Hanson, Jim Bailey, Sallie Stocum, Harry Garber, Marge Botts, Ron Dykstra, Betty Auch, Dan LaFerte, Mary Thorn, Bill Moll, Joan Schmidt, Bob Beaupre, Judy Zick, Marty Beer, Harriet Howenstein, Butch McKendrick, Ellie Hewitt and Earl Lapp. Bill Kildow and Ralph Dallier caused no small amount of comment when they led the cheers. More power to them!

CAROL LECKEIDER was one mighty surprised gal when she walked into JOANIE WILLIAMS' house last Saturday night. Since it was the night of Carol's birthday, her friends got together and decided to celebrate the occasion by giving her a surprise party. Refreshments of course included the proverbial birthday cake and ice-cream. Carol was with Walt Smith, Joanie with Jim Kennedy, Barbara Greenleaf with Eric Anschuetz, Thelma Fife with Bob Winning, Dolly Anne Lisse with Roland Gray, Shirley Ann Hahn with Alex Jemal and Barbara Golla with Tom Rice.

Parties, parties, parties... a super, deluxe, extra-special one was given on Saturday night by CELESTE BELANGER. Gathered at her Merriweather home for dancing and cokes were Jeannie Howenstein, Molly Moll, Barbara O'Leary, Pete Klaver, Dave Bogle, Don Beaumont, Jack Avery and Chuck Exely.

"Lover's Leap" is the title of the Valentine's dance to be held at the high school on February 16, from 9 till 12. Dan Beck and Joe Hickey are co-chairmen of the dance, and they have chosen a number of committees to assist them with the plans. Jeff Welsher and Ched Swenson will select the band; Ted Likert, Bob Nette, Fred Auch and George Cherpelis will supply the refreshments; Barb Golla and Lorraine Hewitt will issue the invitations and Don Floer, Joanie Williams, Donna Dahlen, Louis Champine, Lorraine Jones, Gloria James, Mitz Cronin, Barb Bundy, Mary Thorn, and Adelle Gillette will take care of the decorations. The boys are asked to wear sport coats, while the girls will appear in skirts and sweaters.

Betrothal Told

ANN CUMMINGS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cummings of 1305 Beaconsfield avenue, whose engagement was announced at her birthday tea on Sunday, February 10. She will marry A. M. 1/c Thomas E. Stone, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Stone of Jasper, Tex.

Club Making Lap Robes For Percy Jones Yets

The Southeastern Woman's Club will meet on February 18 at 11 a. m. in St. Mark's Methodist Church to continue the work of making wool lap robes for the boys in wheel chairs at the Percy Jones Hospital.

The war service committee will be in charge, with Mrs. LaVerne Crandall as chairman. Hostesses will include Mrs. Edward Moore, Mrs. Edwin Klink and Mrs. Otis Everett.

Business Leaders Conducting Annual Campaign for Scouts

Business and civic leaders of East side Detroit and the Grosse Pointes swung into action Monday as the annual Boy Scout drive for sustaining members began throughout the metropolitan area.

The appeal is directed to individuals and organizations and each sustaining member is asked to give $5 or more to help carry out the Scout activities of 1946. The drive will continue until February 28.

Chester F. Ogden, District 3 chairman of the Detroit Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, announced that more than 100 men in this territory are campaigning for new members, and defined the district as all the area east of Bellevue Avenue and north from the river to Eight Mile Road, including the Grosse Pointes.

It was explained that the annual budget for Scout activities is considerably higher than the organization's share from the Community Fund drive and the balance must be raised from sustaining members. A minimum of 12,000 new members must be recruited in the Detroit area to carry out the Scout activities goal for 1946.

Town Hall Books William B. Huie

"What the Returned Veteran Expects from Us" is the topic selected by William Bradford Huie, well known author and roving editor for American Mercury Magazine, for his lecture at Detroit Town Hall, in the Fisher Theatre, Wednesday morning, February 20, at 11 o'clock.

For many years, Huie has been a practical student of military and naval affairs. His first assignment during the war was with the Seabees, and he helped this rugged group set up shore installations and construct docks and airfields under fire. Since the peace, he has interviewed hundreds of servicemen to determine what conditions they feel qualified to meet in civilian life.

Author of the successful novel, "Mud on the Stars," Huie is a regular contributor to Life, Saturday Evening Post, Reader's Digest and other periodicals. He is notable for his discerning articles on American political affairs, and for his biographies of contemporary leaders of thought ranging from Governor Harold E. Stassen to Major Alexander P. de Seversky.

One of the author's earlier books was the startling, "The Fight for Air Power" which described the long political battle waged by General Billy Mitchell and others to overcome official and public inertia. His more recent work is "Can Do," the story of the Seabees in action.

ROOF FIRE There was a roof fire at 1088 Beaconsfield Sunday morning which did considerable damage before it was extinguished by the Park Fire Department.

STRIKES HIT VALENTINE'S DAY

All the florists in town are sad indeed over the lack of enthusiasm on this Valentine's Day... They claim the strikes have practically made Feb. 14 Just Another Day... Most Detroit concerns have cut in half the additional helpers usually hired to pack heart-shaped boxes of posies for beautiful ladies... Too bad, too... because just released after a long absence, due to the war years... are the shimmering celophane boxes that made posies twice as beautiful to receive... The boxes now come with a curved top so that the most fragile of blossoms will not be harmed in delivery...

DELIVERY BOYS WEAR OUT SHOES

Speaking of flowers... years of society writing bring these to mind when the subject arises... The oft repeated story of how when Mrs. Frederick Clifford Ford was debutante Virginia Brush... messenger boys from the florists actually WORE OUT the soles of their shoes delivering flowers to her home... And if it hadn't been for the system of automobile delivery when Mrs. Ford's daughter, Mrs. Samuel H. Bell, was a debut... we know the same would have held true... The black orchids which Mrs. James B. Johnson (Frances Dodge) carried when she made her debut (almost a decade ago, now) in the Book Cadillac Hotel... The exotic blooms were specially dipped for the occasion... and everyone swooned at the or-t-i-g-i-n-a-l-i-t-y of it...

MRS. PHELAN CARRIED WHITE VIOLETS

We'll always remember Mrs. James J. Phelan, Jr.'s, bridal bouquet... We've tried our best since then... to inspire some other girl to adopt the idea... but we've never succeeded... (quite a salesman we... as Time would put it)... Mrs. Phelan carried all white violets, a round bouquet, encircled by a ruff of white violet... The Alger... Boyer orchids... are always the most raved over in the Easter parades...

A SHOULDERFUL OF ORCHIDS

A northern girl... Constance Carter... now Mrs. Arthur Douglas, Jr., and we believe she lives in New York... Always wore more orchids at one time than anyone else we've ever written about... (Although Mary Pickford in town a few years ago wore a complete shoulderful of pink orchids every day during her visit... and maybe that didn't get us)... Mrs. Douglas... tall and stately... could wear the large number of orchids with greater success than miniature Mary Pickford... Mrs. D's orchids were invariably deep purple of a pinkish lavender...

MOUNT TREMBLANT ATTRACTS POINTERS

There is a decided vogue this Winter at the Pointe... among the ski enthusiasts... For the trails of Mount Tremblant in the Province of Quebec... From what we can gather... the Winter sportsmen... lodge in quaint French cottages... and participate in more outdoor sports to their hearts content... A group which has spent the past fortnight at Mount Tremblant will return to the Pointe this week-end... In it will be Frances Stroh... Frances Oberteuffer... and Nancy Greene... who probably boast elegant and deep tans from the snows... Former Pointers Mrs. Sidney R. Small... and her daughter, Betty... are also expected at their Garden Court apartment to join Mr. Small this week-end...

HOME OF MRS. STRUTT

Another attraction Mount Tremblant boasts... is the charming presence of Mrs. Michael Strutt (Arielle Frazer)... Who has a home there... Mrs. Strutt finds Mount Tremblant perfect in both Winter and Summer... At the moment... we understand she is visiting locally... with her mother, Mrs. Joseph Washington Frazer...

By Whozit

Have you heard about Peg Small's "short, short" version of "The Man who Came to Dinner"? One Saturday afternoon, she went to Dottie McGiverin's house to play Mah Jongg and became violently ill during the game . . . and there was some question as to whether it was the "pung" or the "chow." The physician called, ruled it was the "flu" and that she could not be moved from the McGiverin menage until Monday. She has since recovered . . . but with the loss of six pounds, which Peg says is a blessing but the wrong method!

FASHION DEPT.

Most women who market "on foot" are not what one might call dressed for the photographer's camera . . . so I was entranced to see Mrs. Anthony Molschall picking out her "greens" while wearing a very smart brown suit, topped by a bewitchingly plumed hat, perched on her "up-do" . . . doubtless she had stopped in on her way to some function, but she certainly relieved the monotony of bare or "babushka" heads generally seen herabouts.

At the Larry Adler-Paul Draper affair Saturday night, the fashion note was definitely black, black, black. The following ladies of the "ensemble" were so garbed: Mesdames Thomas Padgog, William Muir, David Rust, Hayward Thompson, Andrew Hotchkiss, Louis Groch, Hutchinson Larned, John Finkenstaedt, Harold Emmons, Roy Chapin, Haldean Finnie, Ned Batchelor, Albert Bradley, Robert Rains and Darrell Roberts.

Missed Helen Dean, Esther Ford and Molly Macdonald at Town Hall last Friday morning . . . then remembered they'd be at the Book to hear Harold E. Stassen . . . 'natch.

Hear the Robert Koebels are in "seventh heaven" putting in an order for a bundle to be delivered in the early fall.

Mrs. Robert Stoepel is noted for her excellent housekeeping, among other capabilities. The other day I discovered several deep scratches on the otherwise immaculate Stoepel front door . . . and was puzzled for a moment until I realized they must have been carved there by the insistent paws of the miniature French poodle that daughter Helen has recently acquired. I presume "Meuche" has changed

COLLECTOR'S ITEMS

Did you know . . . that Mrs. John S. Sweeney Jr. collects miniature pitchers, made of silver, pewter, copper, brass and porcelain. She must have several hundred arranged on shelves over her desk.

Miss Alice Tucker is interested in Bennington ware and has several very fine pieces among her collection . . . including (don't laugh) a very old cuspidor, which she uses as a container for some of her lovely flower arrangements.

Mrs. George Scheimm and Mrs. Kins S. Collins Re-elected First and Second Vice-Presidents

When Mrs. Allen B. Crow of West Chicago boulevard was returned to office as president of the Detroit YWCA, at the 53rd annual meeting of the Association on February 7, eight Grosse Pointe women were elected to serve with her on the metropolitan board of directors.

They include Mrs. George A. Scheimm of Maumee avenue and Mrs. Kins S. Collins of Westchester road, who were re-elected first and second vice-president, respectively. Mrs. Willie Bugbee of Kensington road is the new third vice-president.

Other officers are Miss Hope Whitten of Burlingame avenue, recording secretary; Miss Loretta G. Sanders of East Boston boulevard, treasurer; and Mrs. Karl B. Brundage, Pacific avenue, assistant treasurer.

Grosse Pointe women who were re-elected to chairmanships of standing committees include Mrs. Stanford N. Phelps of Provincial road, camps; Mrs. Ward A. Detwiler of Three Mile drive, endowment; and Mrs. James L. Dickson of Kensington, finance; Mrs. Edward F. Gehrig of Balfour is the new chairman of metropolitan food service, and Mrs. John J. O'Brien of Kercheval, who was president of the Detroit YWCA from 1927 to 1937, was re-elected a member-at-large.

Mrs. Crow's annual report revealed how quickly changing world conditions affect YWCA program. Round-the-clock activities for war workers on regular and odd shifts have been replaced by new lay-off clubs for girls without jobs. Sunday war workers parties have become reconverted into a Victory Cavalcade entertainment program. Interest in servicemen's wives clubs has decreased with the return of veterans but there is a new interest in couples' clubs.

The wives are acquiring home-making skills in YWCA classes and clubs for young homemakers. The wartime Teen-Age Hang-outs have now become stabilized into orderly self-governing groups with officers elected to direct and plan their activities. All YWCA groups are sponsoring more inter-racial and inter-cultural activities to increase their appreciation and understanding of their fellow members.

Police Provide Real Service

As an instance of the universal character of the service which the police of the Pointe render the citizens, a woman who lives over in the 5700 block on University place in Detroit had come to the village to do some shopping on day last week and when some bad road conditions developed she was afraid to drive back home.

He was entitled to a two weeks' vacation with pay under the rules of the department, but Commissioner Goddard, the proponent of the extra pay, insisted that no embarrassing precedent would be set by the action under the unusual circumstances.

ICE CREAM... Every one loves ice cream, especially if it's the rich, creamy kind made by Sealtest Dairy Products, Inc. You may find just such ice cream at KOPP'S PHARMACY, 16928 Kercheval. This week the special feature is Neapolitan, a standard favorite. Or, if you are planning a party, you may prefer to serve the ice cream which comes in individual servings—eight servings to a quart.

SPRING SUITS... Prepare for the spring days ahead by choosing your new spring suit. JACOBSON'S, Kercheval at St. Clair, has a large selection of suits, fashioned by such clothiers as Kraus, Carmel, and Ben Gershel. The suits this year feature the modified wing sleeve, with the soft drape shoulder. The colors are gray, navy, black, and a new beige-gray called Androsand. Adding sparkle and interest are decorative belts and buttons which brighten up the darker colors with touches of silver and gold. Or, if you like a more informal trim, leather is again in style. You may find these suits in the regular or the junior sizes.

VITAMINS... In the unpredictable days of winter and early spring, build up your system to help prevent colds and sickness. The NOTRE DAME PHARMACY carries vitamins made by many reliable pharmaceutical houses, and bearing such brand names as Parke-Davis, Stearns, Upjohn, Lillys, and Squibb. Ask your doctor which he recommends, and then call the NOTRE DAME PHARMACY, Niagara 2154, for prompt delivery. The delivery hours are 2 P.M., 4 P.M., and 8 P.M. The store is situated at Kercheval Avenue and Notre Dame.

KEEP ON TIME... Electric alarm clocks, formerly unavailable, are now returning to your dealer's shelves. PONGRACZ JEWELRY STORE, Kercheval at Notre Dame, is accepting orders for self-starting electric alarm clocks. The clocks should begin to arrive in about six weeks. They come in a wide variety of colors, including white, brown, blue, and cream.

"51" TITUS DRUG STORE, 1 Kercheval Avenue, has a large supply of the famous Parker "51" pen and pencil sets. The pens with silver tops cost $12.50, and the matching pencils, $5.00. The pens with gold tops cost $15.00, and $17.50, while the gold topped pencils are priced at $7.50. There is no federal tax on these pens. You may choose a pen point which is suited to your type of writing.

TITUS DRUG STORE also has the famous Reynolds pens which are guaranteed to write for two years without re-filling. These pens also cost $12.50.

CLOCKS... Why not drop in at the PONGRACZ JEWELRY STORE and look at their large variety of FINER clocks, now available? These Swiss movement clocks have from seven to fifteen jewels. The travel clocks are covered in leather, and they fold into a small, neat package, wonderful for carrying on the train or plane. The bedroom clocks are encased in gold or plastic. Beauty and time are yours.

Secret of Good School Lunches

"What can I send to school for the children's lunch?" That's a common question, often accompanied by a long sigh, that many rural mothers ask themselves most every school-day morning.

A really good lunch will bring forth exclamations of delight from the children—and mother will be happy. So, Miss Roberta Hershey, extension nutrition specialist at Michigan State college, makes these suggestions:

If the hot dish is not supplied at school, send one from home in a jar to be heated in a hot-water bath at school. And for that hot dish, here are a few tips: creamed mixed vegetables with sliced egg, liver and tomato with spaghetti, corn chowder, creamed almonds and peas, lima beans and tomatoes with bacon, cracked wheat chowder with vegetables, split pea soup with cured pork, or peanut butter-tomato soup.

Be sure that something crisp and succulent is included such as strips of raw carrot, beet, turnip, green pepper, celery, cabbage, wedges or an apple. Cole slaw, canned fruit, puddings, or custards may be carried in small screw-top jars.

Milk in some form should be a necessity for the school lunch. If it is not included in the hot dish, plain milk or a surprise milk drink should be sent alone. Usually children like prune-nog. Just mix 1/3 cup of prune juice, or strained prunes, with 2/3 cup of milk. It may be sweetened to taste.

Raw vegetables make fine sandwich fillings. Some of the good combinations are grated carrots and raisins; chopped cabbage, apple and peanuts; canned string beans, celery and onion; or chopped carrot and pickle combined with small amounts of salad dressing.

Warmth builds friendships. Heat and coldness both destroy them.

"Great Waltz" To Be Presented

"The Great Waltz," the operetta based on the rivalry between Johann Strauss Sr. and his son, which was such a tremendous success when the Civic Light Opera Association presented it at the Masonic Temple last Spring, will be repeated next week. The production will open next Tuesday night, February 19, and be presented every evening, with the exception of Thursday night, through Monday, February 25. There will be both a matinee and evening performance on Sunday. The book for the operetta is from the pen of Moss Hart, while the lyrics came from Desmond Carter. The score was selected from the best works of both the elder and the younger Strauss. The story brings to light the manner in which that most famed of all waltzes, "The Blue Danube," came to be presented to the public for the first time.

The cast selected for this year's presentation of "The Great Waltz" will be headed by a trio of outstanding stars, Norma Terris, the original Magnolia of "Show Boat," who was seen here last season in that role; Mack Harrell, the noted operatic baritone, and Margaret Spencer, a coloratura soprano of note who gave such a stirring performance last season in the title role of "Mlle. Modiste."

Among the immortal melodies that will be heard are "The Blue Danube," "Tales from the Vienna Woods," "You Are My Songs," "Love Will Find You," "Like a Star in the Sky," "There Never was Such a Day" and "With All My Heart." Tickets for "The Great Waltz" can be secured in advance at the Civic Opera Ticket Office located on the mezzanine floor of the J. L. Hudson Co., which is open daily from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. The box office at the Masonic Temple opens nightly at 6:30, and on Sunday at 12 noon, when tickets may be obtained for the current performances.

Detroit's Car Rifled on Neff

Anthony Maher, of 2683 E. Lafayette, Detroit, reported to the City police early Sunday morning that while his car was parked on Neff south of Mack avenue between 10 o'clock Saturday night and midnight someone had done a thorough cleaning-out job on it.

They had stolen a red plaid blanket from the seat and had cleaned out the glove compartment. They had also evidently tried to drive the car away as the ignition wires were all tangled up. They had taken time however to remove all the hub caps from the car.

Wednesday, February 20
8 p. m. — The Elders, Trustees, Deacons and all members of all committees of the new building will meet at the Little Red School House. Important matters that need immediate attention will be presented by A. A. Ghesquier, chairman of the Executive Committee.
11 a. m. — The Pioneer Guild will hold a sewing meeting at the home of Mrs. W. E. Meecham, 1552 Brys drive.

Facts for the Veteran

By Theodore Hoffman

Director of Red Cross Home Service

(American Red Cross News Service)

Archie T. was inducted into service when he was 34. Prior to service, he was a layout man for a mail order house. His income was not large and he did not like the work. He is married. After four years of service, he was discharged on points, but, being unattached, he decided to settle in a small city where he eventually wanted to go into business for himself.

Because of his specialized industrial background, he was not able to find work easily and, besides, he wanted some new type of employment more consistent with skills developed in service.

He tried to find a job, but was unsuccessful.

There are a number of avenues open to Archie. He can contact the veterans' employment representative of the U. S. Employment Service, who can make available a qualified person for job counseling. He can arrange for job registration and assist the veteran in applying for "readjustment allowance," the formal name for veterans' unemployment compensation under the GI Bill. If he is interested in a job in the ranks of skilled labor, arrangements will be made for training on the job, with possible supplementation to his apprentice salary through the educational provisions of the GI Bill.

If Archie wants employment only and the U. S. Employment Service is unable to help him immediately, he will be certified for unemployment compensation and will receive at least $20 a week while unemployed. Another avenue open to Archie is to take advantage of the educational opportunities offered under the GI Bill. Archie can apply to the Veterans' Administration for vocational counseling, thus enabling him to plan his future with experts. He can then qualify himself for a job as a skilled craftsman in many fields and receive all of his educational expenses (not exceeding $500 per school term), plus a subsistence allowance of $65 per month. If Archie wants to supplement these living expenses, he can obtain part-time employment and still retain his $65 per month subsistence allowance.

Red Cross at John R. and Elizabeth is prepared to give you counsel and assistance with reference to benefits available to veterans and their dependents.

There's a Great Day Coming!

We're looking forward to the time when we can say: "Use Long Distance as often as you like and talk as long as you want!"

It isn't here yet. Long Distance lines still get clogged up, particularly at certain times and over certain routes. As a result, delays in service may occur for a while longer and there'll be times when the operator asks you to limit your call to 5 minutes.

But here's good news: This year, 2,100,000 miles of Long Distance circuits will be added to the Bell System network. More switchboards will be installed and large quantities of other equipment, too. Michigan Bell's part in this big program is under way.

Before long, then, your patience and understanding will be rewarded by better Long Distance telephone service than you've ever had before.

Reserves Romp Over Hazel Park

By FRED RUNNELLS With Captain Gerhard and Christianson spearheading the attack with 10 and 9 points respectively, the Blue Devils basketball reserves trounced Hazel Park last Friday night at Grosse Pointe, 30 to 9.

Playing with all the experience and poise that comes with a season of campaigning on the hardwood, the Blue Devils swept the Hazel Park reserves off their feet in the first quarter and held a 9 to 2 advantage at the end of the first period.

Hazel Park looked like scoreless wonders throughout the second quarter while Grosse Pointe was only able to find the range for one field goal, that by Patterson, to hold a 11-2 advantage at the intermission.

Throughout the last two periods the Blue Devils really went on a scoring spree for 19 points while Hazel Park was luck to get the ball long enough to score their final 7 points. Three of those seven points were made on foul shots.

Court Thriller Won By Blue Devil Team

Paul Grubbs Plays Sensationally as Grosse Pointe High Defeats Hazel Park by 44-43 Score

Trailing by one point going into the last minute of the Hazel Park basketball game last Saturday night, Paul Grubbs, a substitute until a week ago, pumped in a long one-handed shot from far out on the court to give the Blue Devils a 44-43 victory.

Throughout the evening it was Grubbs' who kept pulling the Blue Devils out of the hole when the Blue Devils were down. The first time he brought the overflow crowd to its feet was when he dumped in a field goal from the center of the court with only three seconds remaining in the first half, to give his team a 23-22 advantage at the intermission. His second crowd-pleasing shot came in the dying seconds of the third quarter with the Blue Devils again trailing by one point. As time was running out in the third quarter Paul again tossed a "long Tom" from the center of the court. The ball almost touched the ceiling light but continued on its long arching course to swish the net without touching the basket ring. On two other occasions Grubbs tossed long shots which with any kind of luck would have gone through, but instead bounced on the basket ring and tumbled to the floor harmlessly. With these five shots Grubbs established himself as the star of the game.

This was the first meeting between the two schools and Hazel Park's talent was listed as "unknown." Coach Bill Healey figured it would be close. His figuring turned out to be correct shortly after the opening horn when Hazel Park commanded the tip-off and started working a lightning-like passing attack coupled with plenty of deception, which resulted in a beautifully executed under the basket field goal. Grosse Pointe's big center Don McPhail tied the count on his favorite jump turn shot from the foul line. Hazel Park seemed irked at this score and put on an attack which found the Blue Devils on the short end of a 9-4 count after four minutes of play had elapsed.

With Grosse Pointe's high scoring ace, Dick Wuerker, spearheading the attack, the Blue Devils went into the lead for the first time shortly before the end of the period but a last second basket by Hill tied the count and Felmeky pumped in a field goal to break the tie as the horn sounded ending the quarter with Hazel Park leading, 14-12.

Hill added to the Hazel Park lead soon after the second quarter started and his team enjoyed a four point lead for four minutes. Grosse Pointe, lead by Wuerker, again staged a scoring spree to tie the count at 16-16. With only fifteen seconds remaining in the second period Jack Tanner tossed the ball from the Blue Devils' end of the court to Paul Grubbs, who seemed to sense the time was short and dribbled down the side of the court. He successfully eluded his defensive opponent and pumped a long one handed shot from far out on the floor which swished the net as the horn sounded ending the second period, thus giving the Blue Devils the half advantage of 23-22.

Throughout the first half the game was plenty rugged because of the laxity of the officials. It was hoped the second half would be refereed better but instead of getting better it got worse. The game took on all the aspects of a rough and tumble wrestling match repeatedly.

When the Devils found the range in the third period they jumped into a 29-27 lead only to see this vanish in short order with Hill sinking a field goal and a foul shot for a 31-29 lead. Wuerker put the Pointers within one point of a tie by making a foul shot. Only ten seconds remained in the third period when Paul Grubbs once again started down the side of the court and once again tossed a long shot from the center of the court as the horn sounded ending the third quarter. But the ball was in the air barely high toward the basket. It arched missed the ceiling light and started its downward course. The crowd was spellbound and one could hear a pin drop as the ball descended toward the basket—it was good and the Blue Devils led at the end of the third period, 33-32.

Throughout the first four minutes of the fourth quarter the lead changed hands repeatedly and stood at 41-41 as the horn sounded signifying the automatic time out.

Grosse Pointe High Tank Team Takes Two Meets

Wyandotte and Royal Oak Fall Before Local Stars Despite Loss of Veterans By Recent Graduation

By FRED RUNNELLS The Grosse Pointe swimming team made it a grand slam in six scheduled sports events in varsity and reserve basketball and swimming when it trounced Wyandotte, in the Grosse Pointe pool last Friday, 59-25, then followed up this victory with a smashing defeat of Royal Oak, in the Acorns' pool Tuesday afternoon, 56-28.

Last Friday and Saturday the basketball team scored double triumphs over Wyandotte and Hazel Park. Bill Kildow's swimming in the 200 yard free style event against Wyandotte, featured the meet when he tied the Grosse Pointe pool record for the distance. This was the first time the record has been tied since Bill Mesmer set it in 1943. The time was 2:12.7.

Dan LaFerte shared the spotlight with Kildow when he won his ninth consecutive victory in the 100 yard free style race. The Wyandotte meet was a big question mark on the books because Grosse Pointe, was minus the services of its undefeated star, Buster Pinkston, who was Kaiser and Bob Johnson, a diver of note. All these boys in previous meets had garnered at least twenty points for the Blue Devils and Coach Frank Banach just couldn't figure how the youngsters coming up could fill the gap.

On Tuesday the Royal Oak Acorns suffered their second defeat of the season by Grosse Pointe. This meet was featured by Gerhart Gainsley's remarkable finish against veteran Bill Kildow in the 200 yard event when he just missed beating his teammate by a fraction of a second. This was the closest Gainsley has come to taking Kildow into camp.

Dan LaFerte and Bill Mosner of Royal Oak staged a mudger race in the 100 yard free style with LaFerte getting the winning gun to settle an argument started after the first meeting between these two boys last December 20 in the Blue Devil's pool. Cobby Bartlett was well satisfied with himself after winning the individual medley relay event which was the first time he had received the winning gun this season. Bartlett could never come close to Buster Pinkston, who was undefeated in the first nine meets. It was a welcoming sight to see freshman Graham Lindley, swimming his first meet for the Blue Devils, capture second place.

Both the relay events were not decided until the last lap. Bartlett, swimming anchor spot in the

Plan Open House At Country Day

The new nursery school which has been built on the campus of Grosse Pointe Country Day will have its official opening on Tuesday, February 19. The addition is the gift to the school of George Fink, as a memorial to his son, Lieutenant George Fink, Jr., who died in the Pacific Theater of war.

were blue in the face trying to stop the scramble. After the game in the locker room your reporter saw the mixed emotions of both teams. The Blue Devils were pounding Grubbs on the back until he could hardly get his breath. On the other side of the room the Hazel Park boys were speechless and some couldn't choke back their tears as their coach tried to ease the sting of defeat. That is the kind of a game it was. It was only a non-league game but from the way these two teams played one would think the World's High School championship was at stake.

Sharing the spotlight with Grubbs was Dick Wuerker who scored 16 points for the Blue Devils and led both teams for high point honors. Grosse Pointe will entertain Royal Oak next Friday night in the Grosse Pointe gym and attempt to avenge an earlier defeat administered by the Acorns.

Claudette Solves Name Problem

Claudette Colbert is French and her real name is Chauchon. Theatre audiences, she feared, would spend so much time on the sidewalk in front of marquees trying to figure out how Chauchon should be pronounced, that they would miss her plays altogether.

Claudette is currently co-starring with Don Ameche in "Guest Wife," a fast-moving comedy produced by Jack Skirball and directed by Sam Wood for United Artists release. The picture, which features Richard Foran, Charles Francis, Grant Mitchell, Wilma Francis and Chester Clute will be shown at the Esquire Theatre on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Feb. 19, 20 and 21.

"KISS OF DEATH"

By LAWRENCE RANDALL
As Told to Mary Madison

SYNOPSIS

Coming home to Grosse Pointe, brilliant young publicist LARRY RANDALL finds Grosse Pointe shocked by the sensational murder of MIRANDA AMES, the girl he so madly loves; he vows to kill the killer. The fabulous beauty and heiress of the world's greatest motor fortune is found slain, wearing a string of $50,000 pearls, on the pier of The Grosse Pointe Golf Club. Larry takes charge of suppressing publicity on the murder for Miranda's stepmother, FAY AMES, a champagne blond, now sole heiress of Consolidated Motors.

CORNELIUS DUNN, publicity magnate, dispatches to the investigation GUY ZINGLER, ace New York detective, to aid Grosse Pointe Police, headed by LIEUTENANT CARROLL, scientific homicide expert.

Larry suspects: ROGER BROOKS, aimless aristocratic flaneur of Miranda, involved with IMogene GARDNER, charming crook, engaged in a mysterious plot.

MISS SNEED, Miranda's morbid former governess, hating and haunting everyone.

JACK PENDLETON, big-name band leader, now deeply involved by his autograph found near the body, a forgery of his check and a threat to his life.

DON MONACO, a Spanish clarinet player, with Pendleton and his Playboys.

BIRDA MACLEAN, the Grosse Pointe Golf Club taddy traces a haunting tune he heard whistled just before finding the body.

SUE MANCHESTER, red hot torch singer with the band at the Grosse Pointe Golf Club, stops a national broadcast, collapsing at the microphone. The $15,000 reward offered for the murderer lures SIXTY, a cab driver, to track down as the killer he drove to the scene.

KARL KARLSON, a cultured Bostonian, trapped and held by police as a forger, as he checks out of the fifth rate Derby Hotel and Bar, where two phone calls were traced just previous to the murder—one to the Grosse Pointe Golf Club, the other to Fay Ames' home.

Chapter 11

"What a quaint old clasp!" Fay exclaimed. "It's shaped like a shamrock, isn't it? It really must be an heirloom strand of pearls. I wonder whose heirloom it was?"

She wasn't the only one who wondered. She passed them on to Roger Brooks. I couldn't see his face. I could see his outstretched hand accepting the pearls reluctantly. They were not marbles to Roger. He tossed them quickly from one hand to the other and then to Monaco at my right side.

In Monaco held the pearls in his long sinuous fingers. He said, "I know I'd remember if I'd ever seen this strand of pearls before. I haven't." On his temple I could see a blue vein wriggling with reptilian intensity.

I had never seen such green fire as that leaping in the three emeralds in their antique gold setting. Carroll was right. You couldn't forget that clasp. I knew I'd never seen that clasp on Miranda.

Sue Manchester took the pearls from me. I sensed a covetous caress in her fingers as she held the pearls. She shook her head, handed them to Zing.

She said: "What would be the point of anyone putting that valuable string of pearls on Miranda. She must have bought them herself."

"What makes you think someone did put them on Miranda?" Carroll tripped her.

She hesitated. Then: "Why, I suppose if they weren't hers someone must have planted them on her. I just don't get it."

Zing was still staring at the pearls in his hands, with an impersonal, appraising eye. He said: "A magnificent strand. Naturally, I've never seen them before."

Zing handed the pearls back to Carroll, who slipped them into the jeweler's chamois bag and then back into his inner vest pocket.

"Carroll shrugged. 'Well, I'm getting nowhere with triumphs. None of you have ever seen these pearls before?'"

Jack Pendleton blurted out shakily, "I've seen that clasp before. I guess I'm not the only one who saw the pearls, but I'm the only one to admit it."

"When did you see them, Pendleton?" came calmly from Carroll.

"I saw them on Miranda Saturday night. Out on the terrace of the club. I saw that clasp on the back of her neck."

Carroll said quietly: "Thanks, Pendleton. I think we can talk this over later. I wish the others could have been as outspoken."

"It's a relief to me to be outspoken," declared Pendleton. "I don't like being secretive. I don't like this murder—"

I thought I was supposed to be handling his personal relations as well as his public ones. His thoughts ought to filter through me. Did he think he was the only one who was allergic to homicide? It was clear that those tangled nervous wires of his were flashing red danger signals on his mental switchboard. Pendleton had casually incriminated himself.

Fay broke the awkward tension with a throaty laugh. "Let's have our brandy and coffee out on the terrace, shall we?"

Pendleton didn't come directly to the terrace. He followed Carroll into the library. Zing sauntered to the far end of the terrace and stood, dropping his cigarette ashes meditatively into a huge marble flower stand. As I walked up to him he said, quietly, "Your client seems to be in pretty rocky shape. What do you suppose he was doing out on that terrace with the girl? Making love to her? Why is he bent on making an issue of it?"

"I wouldn't know," I answered. When Pendleton and Carroll came out a few moments later, we joined them. Fay and Sue Manchester had gone into the house to get their wraps for the trip out on the lake. It was nearing the time for that strange farewell.

When Fay came back she said, "Snead wants to go out on the boat with us. She says she wants to say goodbye to Miranda. I guess no one will mind. After all, she was her nurse since she was a little girl."

The night was softly dark and trembling with the wavering pulse of a breeze when we boarded Fay's yacht. A ghost of a moon was weirdly white, turning the faces of this strange cortege of mourners into strained white masks.

It was vastly, cruelly dark now far out on the lake. A still, terrible emptiness descended. This was the eternal loneliness of the elements. There was more comfort in the earthy rites of the cemetery, I thought. It was more restful to join that snug population of pioneering dead beneath the tombstone than to brave alone this wave-tossed grave.

This must be a test of nerves to the murderer who had doomed Miranda's body to the cruel vigil. Far out on the water, the boat slowed down. Don Monaco picked up his clarinet. The muted notes of Schubert's Serenade wavered and spilled in a scintillating arc on the air. Their thin echo fell like a shower of pale stars into the water. Fay walked to the edge of the boat. She held up the platinum urn, tossed it into the shining black water. We could hear its muffled splash into the lake.

None of us talked much on the return to the pier. The boat headed faster into the night, now that its sombre cargo had been deposited.

As we gathered again on the pier, Fay Ames looked about her. "All ashore? Are we all here? Where's Snead?"

I looked around then, too. Where, indeed, was she? The woman had vanished. Flown like the witch that she was on a broomstick. But this couldn't be. It was uncanny. I'd seen her myself as we'd stepped on the yacht. We'd all stayed together. Had she slipped away from the group? Had she jumped off that boat or—what?

Fay looked tense with foreboding. "What happened to her?" It was almost as if she'd expected Snead to embark on some eerie excursion.

Sue Manchester clutched Monaco's arm with a small, frightened cry. "Oh, she's done this purposely. That sinister old hag. She terrifies me—"

Carroll took charge. "Mrs. Ames, you'd better send this boat back over the same course. I'll go up to the house, call the lake patrol."

A strange ending for Snead, but then the old woman had always been inexplicable. She seemed to have a brain that was a battered old safety box to which the keys had long since been lost; now the box too was gone.

In huddled silence the little group staggered up from the pier to the house. The rooms were all softly lighted as if to dispell the gloom of our short dark trip, but the lights were more revealing than cheering.

Carroll stalked into the living room, stopped in his stride, there, loping languidly at ease on a divan was the too good looking young man with the wavy brown hair and the Hapsburg mouth.

"Karroll! What the hell are you doing here?" demanded Carroll. The young man inhaled his pipe placidly. He didn't budge from the brocade cushions.

"How did you get here?" Carroll's voice rose in rage.

Fay Ames stepped forward as Karlson rose, extending his hand to her. She said: "Mr. Karlson's an old friend of mine. I think he can explain. Lieutenant—"

Karlson took in Carroll and the rest of us with a cool bow. "It's easily explained. I'm released on bail from the slightly fantastic charge on which you held me."

"Who furnished your bail?" Carroll was pale with the pressure of controlled anger.

Karlson's calm was infuriating. "I believe you'll find that my bond was furnished by one of the town's better barristers, if you care to check on the proceedings."

I was watching Fay Ames. She gave no betrayal of emotion. An old friend, she had said. She greeted him as if he might have been returning from a trip around the world instead of a trip to Sing Sing. Karlson himself was slyly serene.

There was only one explanation. It had occurred to Carroll. "Were you in touch with anyone by phone from the jail?" he asked Karlson.

"I don't believe you'll find a record of the call—"

"I don't believe I'll find one either," he glared at me. "Did you call Cornelius Dunn about Karlson's arrest?"

"You're not implying that Dunn would first try to get an arrest for information in this case and then deliberately supply bond to get the man out of jail?" Karlson smiled smoothly: "That's precisely what he's implying," he said. "He claims it's a case of Who Dunn It."

Chapter 12. TAKING IN RUMOURS

I was driving Zingler away from the macabre magnificence of Fay Ames' place. We'd left Carroll in brisk command of the investigation into Snead's disappearance. The two significant disturbances of that MACABRE party had been Snead's disappearance and Karlson's appearance.

"What do you make of Karlson, showing up there so casually?" I asked Zing.

"I think his own explanation was disarmingly accurate. He's an old friend of Fay's. She found out that he was being held on that forgery charge. She didn't want him involved in the mess so she either phoned or wired Dunn to get him released. Dunn hires a local attorney to get him off. Karlson prances out to Fay's home to see her and runs smack into all of us."

"But that prison record of his doesn't fit into the picture of Fay's polished background."

Zing shrugged. "Karlson may have a record, but I'll bet Fay has an off-the-record performance that's a pink. That's sumpuous little sink of iniquity she's running out there."

"See any tie-up in Karlson's appearing with Snead's disappearance?"

"He wasn't out on the boat," countered Zing.

"How do we know he didn't sneak on the boat before the rest of us got on?"

"Because he could never get back to the house before we did," he pointed out. "Of course, who ever did away with that old witch was obviously the same person who struck Miranda Ames on the pier. I don't know the connection between the events but it's there, all right."

"Snead," I observed, "was too mean to rest in peace or let any one else rest. She'll come back and haunt people. I wouldn't call her a complete murder, anyway; she was more than half dead."

Zing said: "You'd better come down to the hotel with me, Randall. It's my opinion that you're taking this thing too damn intensely."

I shot him a swift sidelong look. "What do you mean—intensely?"

"Just that. Your nerves are full of static. All that business in the tearoom, mopping up on Roger Brooks, trailing this Karlson. You're supposed to solve this case, not solve it. It's nothing to me, Randall, except that I like you. I hate to see you get so hopped up. You ought to relax."

Was he beginning to suspect just how intensely personal was my interest in this murder? And if Zing was beginning to suspect were the others as well?

"I'll go down to the hotel with you for a while," I agreed. "I want to stop at my apartment on the way, though, and pick up some of the reward mail to check over."

Up in my rooms I called Cornelius Dunn. His night nurse answered. There was a dictaphone tick in her voice, as if she were now taking orders from Dunn rather than the doctors. An hour after Dunn arrived in a place he took over.

"Mr. Dunn has had a full day," she was saying. "He can't talk on the phone now. He's resting."

He could get everyone else restless, then crawl into a sulking tent himself.

"If he wakes up, shall I give him a message. Is it important?" she asked.

"It's catastrophic," I snapped. "But he won't wake up, because he's already awake."

I hung up. I lit another cigarette, took a chain of puffs, and rubbed it out. I was smoking too much. I was at the snapping-at-people stage. Yesterday I was even at the slugging-at-people stage. At that dinner table tonight I'd sat shaky as an amateur window washer outside the fortieth floor. Zing was certainly correct. I tried to steady myself, slapped the letters into a large manila envelope and went back to the car where Zing was waiting.

The use in chateaux decor of Zing's apartment at the hotel I found acidly stabilizing. It was in such contrast to the warm seductive brocade of Fay's home.

Zing turned on three knobs of a cabinet in the corner. We had radio, room service and rye.

I went over to another cabinet at the far end of the living room, pulled a knob which released a desk top and dumped my stack of fan mail on its lacquered surface.

I made short work of most of the letters.

But at the bottom of the heap I came across a note on the Grosse Pointe Golf Club stationery. The handwriting was a thin, wobbly Ellis Island scrawl. The small, jerky, setting-up exercises of an ink-soaked gnat across the paper.

The note was signed Ebba Strum.

The Scandinavian fragility of Ebba Strum had hung caution to the winds to the extent of gambling on an enclosed two-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope to facilitate receiving the fifteen thousand. It read:

Dear Sir,

I scrub to the club. I seen the woman who done the murder standing on the pier when I was thru my work Sunday morning a. m. Inclose is 2c stamped envelop to mail me reward money to my home. In cash money. I talk then.

EBBA STRUM.

So Sixty the cab driver had seen the man, and Ebba Strum had seen the woman who "done the murder." I pocketed the note and tossed the rest of the fan mail back in the manila case. I thought of the face powder exhibit now in the police laboratory, the powder that on analysis tallied with that in Fay Ames' compact. Was Fay Ames the woman Ebba had seen? There was something defiant about that flat eyewitness statement. The Swedes, I reflected, could be embarrassingly factual in their statements.

Zing had undressed and was meandering into some lounging pyjamas, his progress slowed down by the fact that the ice-clinking glass had somehow become Burbanked to his right hand. He stood up, looking too suavely like the Esquire Reporter and handed me a fresh drink.

"This, my boy, is what is known as coming through with the rye."

A ripple of knocking on the door and Imogene Gardner came in. She too, was wearing pyjamas of the lounging variety and she wore them with the naïveté of a little girl slipping in to hear her bedtime story. Her childish brown hair was smoothed back and caught with a narrow ribbon. Malice-in-Wonderland, in person.

"Hello, Imogene!" Zing said sweetly, giving her a look you could have iced a wedding cake with. "Come on in, I'll get you coked up."

He arranged a place for her on the newspaper littered divan. Imogene tucked her foot coily under her. She stared at me blandly, as if she didn't really hate me. As if she didn't even know I'd messed up Roger yesterday.

I said: "You two must have a mental telepathy code. I didn't know you had a heavy lounging date. I'd better get going."

Zing finished the coke order to room service. "Don't be dull, Randall. Lean back and relax."

I picked up my glass, leaned back. If you keep up this chain drinking, I told myself, you're going to be a huge help to Miranda. Just an alcoholocaust to her memory, that's all. Why don't you be sharp and casual, like Zingler? Or bored and tolerant like this little wench on the couch?

"Just how well did you know Roger Brooks in Miami, Imogene?" I asked her quietly.

"Quite casually," she smiled. "Just casually enough to try to marry him?"

A small V frown of annoyance formed above the bridge of her nose. "You've got that reversed. It was Roger who tried to marry me."

"And all the while you were just a friend in need—in need of a few thousand dollars?" I persisted.

"Drink up and shut up," she said.

Zing came to the rescue. "You're forgetting, Imogene, that Roger was Miranda Ames' fiancé. Randall is still working to protect her reputation—"

"And what about protecting my reputation?" she began.

"Isn't that a little like hiring an armored car to carry around a load of sawdust?" I was off now. "Granted that in a loose moment, Roger did ask you to marry him. He must have tried to skunk out of the deal. He knew you'd prefer negotiable bonds to matrimonial bonds. The one person from whom Roger could get enough money to buy you off would be Miranda. But Miranda turns down the proposal. Roger becomes enraged. Violently enraged. And in that flash of rage, he strikes her."

"Neat going," she cut in, "except that Roger didn't strike her."

"How do you know?"

"I know he didn't strike her, that's all—"

"You know, because you struck her yourself!"

It was just a blank shot in the air. It didn't even graze that bullet proof poise of hers. She just went on sipping from that pipe-line of Coca Cola straws. I focused on those straws. They suddenly infuriated me, in the way a small object releases a great surge of ruffled emotion.

"Can't you lay off that damn pop?" I blasted.

"I like to be able to remember the next morning the things that other people wish I'd forget," she replied.

Zing turned the radio knob. The music was loud enough to drown out conversation as well as concentration. I felt dizzy now. I knew just how the whale must have felt before he whooped up Jonah from his belly. Zing was pointing to a door. I got up and bolted for it.

This must be the beginning of it. A borderline case. South of the border—this was the worst part of it. This blending of paralyzing fright and facetiousness in my brain.

I stepped back into the living room. Zing eyed me sharply.

He knows what's happening to me. "I'd like to call a cab, Zing."

"But you drove your own car down here."

I said: "I know. But when I drive this way I feel I'm all right but that all the pedestrians are drunk."

I put in the call. Zing handed me a short snorter. "Here, he urged, 'it's the dog of the tail that bit you. You'll be all right, kid."

Sure, I'd be all right. As I picked up my manila envelope and hat Imogene trebled at me that she hoped we were parting friends. No hard feelings. That was it. Friendship with someone like Imogene. Gyps that pass in the night.

I got home to the apartment. Mabel stopped me in the lobby. She stared searchingly at me, then decided to be matter of fact.

"Man by the name of Sixty has been calling for you. Sixty, that's what he said to tell you. Sounds like a phony name to me. Do you know a Mr. Sixty, Mr. Randall?"

"Oh yes, I know a Mr. Sixty—but who's Mr. Randall?"

Up in my bedroom, I flopped down on the cool billowy blue of the bedspread. Only it wasn't a bedspread any longer. It was the swaying blue cradle of the wind swept waves on the lake.

Park Manager Lane Predicts More Revenue for Streets

Sees State Gas and Weight Tax Income for Village Doubled For Years 1946 and 1947

Park Village Manager Everitt Lane presented a most informing report to the Commissioners Monday night of his observations at the midwinter meeting of the International City Manager's Association held at Lansing on January 31 and February 1, which he attended at the direction of the commissioners.

Mr. Lane said the meeting was an obvious struggle between the cities and villages and the Chief Executive of the state to obtain a larger part of the state's teeny revenues for local purposes.

Governor Kelly, he said, was not opposed to making a more generous allowance to the municipalities but was confronted with the mounting claims of hospitals, schools and the various veterans' needs for more money. These looming claims made him loath to part with any of the state's $27,000,000 surplus to local claimants.

It was the consensus of the managers and mayors at the meeting that the chances of obtaining more revenue from the state via surplus and other general state income was small for this year but they believe that with the state's urgent claims met, eventually substantial amounts will be forthcoming.

The prospects for additional revenue from the state's gas and weights tax however seem more encouraging. While this special revenue is earmarked for use on the streets and highways it is welcome revenue to the municipalities.

Mr. Lane told the Commissioners that for the years 1946 and 1947 the probabilities were the village would receive about double its usual amounts from this source. He estimated the figure at about $62,000 a year. The average annual receipts over a period of several years back has been about $30,000.

Yes, it was a blunder! THE ARTHUR J. ROHDE AND COMPANY insurance advertisement was left out of the January 31 issue of the NEWS by one of those errors that sometimes happen. It was the first issue the Rohde Company has issued since the NEWS was founded. We were not surprised to learn how many readers missed the ad, which carries those brief-to-the-point messages.

EARL'S BIKE SHOP is featuring two more of those popular scale-model contests at the main shop, 16392 Harper avenue, at Audubon. If you're a model fan you ought to attend on Friday night, February 15 from 7 to 9 p.m., and Saturday, February 16, from 3 to 9 p.m.

Rotary Donates To Tool Library

The Grosse Pointe Rotary Club has just made a substantial gift to the Tool Library which is to be found in the Grosse Pointe Public Library. The gift includes a rabbit plane, block plane, 10-point saw, keyhole saw, extension bit and Philip head screw-driver.

There are now 44 tools in the collection which may be borrowed free of charge by anyone who has a library card in the Grosse Pointe Library. The Main Library, 15430 Kercheval, where the tools are kept is open every week day from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m.

Rotarians Hear U. of M. Students

Dr. Lomas, of the Department of Speech of the University of Michigan, presented two of the young men of his department at the weekly meeting of the Rotary club, where on the invitation of Bill Steiner, chairman of the program committee, they addressed the club on various phases of American-Russian relationship.

John Chakla discussed "Area of Possible Conflict Between the United States and Russia," and Howard Cole spoke on "Points of Common Interest Between the Two Nations." Both of the young men gave evidence of having made an extensive study of the Russian subject as currently appearing in the history-making days of the present. The members of the club were keenly interested in the young men's exposition of their subjects.

Frustration comes from not getting your way or from getting it and finding it's no good.

Clement Searle Taken by Death

Clement S. Searle, aged 57, died at his home at 584 St. Clair on February 10. Mr. Searle was born in London, England and had been a resident of the Pointe area for about 25 years.

He had been identified with the men's clothing trade for many years and at one time conducted a men's outfitting establishment on Kercheval avenue in Grosse Pointe City. He had been ill for a long time.

He was a member of the Grosse Pointe Rotary Club and was an enthusiastic member of the Camera Club.

The funeral services were on Tuesday afternoon at the Verheyden Funeral Home and were conducted by Rev. O. R. Bulkley of the St. Columba Episcopal church. Burial was in the Roseland Park cemetery.

Mr. Searle is survived by his widow, Emily. There were no children.

J. A. Krausmann Dies at Age 61

Church Offering Lecture Series

The Fellowship Club of Eastminster Church is presenting Dr. Theodore Moldenke, the pastor, in the fourth of his series of lectures on "How to Achieve Happiness." The lecture is to be held at the church Thursday evening, February 21, at 8 o'clock.

Before coming to Detroit Dr. Moldenke, a licensed psychologist in the State of New York, was in charge of several psychological clinics. He was also in charge of the only marriage adjustment bureau supported and controlled by the Board of Education. For 10 years he taught this subject in People's College and was supervisor of guidance work in a large high school.

An excellent musical program has been arranged featuring Salvatore Cuccchiara, noted operatic tenor; Patricia Mann, flutist, and J. Van Overmeer and Reginald Baston, writers and composers of popular music. Refreshments will be served. Tickets may be obtained at the church.

Take responsibility on your shoulders and it leaves no room for chips.

PTA Groups Plan Meetings To Get Facts on School Tax

Discussions Bring Out All Information Pertaining to Proposed Increase in Millage; Election March 4

The Parent-Teacher Associations of Grosse Pointe are cooperating in sponsoring mass meetings for all citizens who are interested in obtaining further information, asking questions and discussing the forthcoming school election on March 4.

These meetings are scheduled as follows, one of which has already been held and another one scheduled for tonight:

February 11, Mason School; February 14, Richard School; February 20, Pierce Junior High School; February 21, Grosse Pointe High School.

All meetings are scheduled for 8 p. m.

At each of these meetings, the Parent-Teacher Council has arranged for members of the Board of Education, the Superintendent of Schools and the Administrative Staff to be present to answer any questions that citizens might have about this election. Arrangements have also been made for citizens to register for the school election at these meetings.

Registration can also take place at any public school in the district or at the Board of Education building, 389 St. Clair, on any week day, Monday through Friday during office hours up to and including March 2. Special registration will be held on the two Saturdays, February 16 and February 23 in each of the elementary schools.

It is the hope of Paul Moreland, President of the Parent-Teacher Association Council that this series of meetings will enable every citizen to get complete and thorough information about this important issue. The Mason School meeting which was held on February 11 was cooperatively planned by William Wresell and James Lafer, presidents of the Mason and Vernier P.T.A. Associations respectively.
