support General Electric company workers.

DETROIT FACED WITH A NEW MILK crisis in a few days unless the Dairy worker strike is settled, with the supply dropping to only 20 per cent of required volume.

REVEALED IN LONDON that up to 1943 the Allies were seriously considering the building of artificial floating icebergs to use in the North Atlantic to accommodate 200 Spitfires or 100 fast Mosquito bombers, with all necessary maintenance supplies

... the dromes to be 2000 feet long and would displace 2,000,000 tons ... would have cost $32 - $40 million each ... the plan abandoned because the strategic need had passed.

AFTERNOON PAPERS say the GM-UAW/CIO strike is close to settlement.

HERBERT HOOVER called to assist in solving the world's crisis in food by President Truman.

Saturday, March 2
THE MILK STRIKE IS SETTLED on the basis of an 18c per hour increase ... sixty per cent of normal deliveries expected on Sunday and complete service by Monday.

DETROIT POLICE AND DETROIT HOUSING COMMISSION are investigating alleged black market operations in building materials used in the Detroit market. Charged that builders have been compelled to pay as high as $500 premium on a single carload of lumber shipped from the South.

FIRES ON FIVE VESSELS IN LIVERPOOL harbor believed to be of incendiary origin ... Cunard liner Empire Waveney burns and sinks.

A NEW PHASE IN PASTORAL work is disclosed in England when the village rector in Bucknell, Oxfordshire, backs petition for a license, saying he expects to frequent the pub himself ... says "the village lacks a public house, lacks social influence—I want to remove the stigma attached to the frequenting of public houses" ... further says, "I maintain that is where he should be, among his people, enjoying with them discussions and ascertaining their point of view; he may be able to help them."

TWO HUNDRED DELEGATES representing 90 struck GM plants, in session in Barlum Hotel, insist that all demands of the union shall be met and decide to continue strike.

SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE ANDERSON says that a "famine Emergency Committee" will be formed to conduct an "eat less food" campaign to help the hungry abroad.

Sunday, March 3
THE SETTLEMENT OF THE GM STRIKE which has seemed imminent on many recent occasions, is spragged again ... strikers who have insisted that nothing less than the agreement by the company to pay the 19½c per hour increase recommended by the fact finding board now propose that the whole issue be left in the hands of an arbitrator to be named by President Truman and that pending his decision the union leaders will recommend that the men go back to work at the best rate offered by the company, i.e., 18½c per hour increase.

KIM SIGLER HITS BACK strongly against the State Senate committee which has stirred up an investigation of his expenditures in his grand jury inquiry into the alleged State Liquor Board graft ... says that indictments growing out of branch bank legislation in 1941 threatened for the near future is the motivating influence that started the query ... intimates that the inquiry is a backfire built to, a) bar further investigation by legislators; b) to squelch and destroy the forthcoming bank indictments and gambling indictments; c) to discredit grand jury investigations thus far, and finally, to shake the confidence of the people in the one-man grand jury system and thus prevent further disclosures in this or any other grand jury.

A TRIBUTE TO THE VALIDITY of the English marriages contracted by American soldiers is witnessed in the statement in an AP dispatch from Washington that "nine shiploads of foreign brides of American soldiers have been brought to this country without one left unclaimed on the Army's hands."

Candidate

COL. OWEN J. CLEARY was announced as a candidate for Governor of Michigan by the Republican Veterans of Michigan. They are circulating petitions for his nomination in the election of June 18. He is a veteran of World War I, headed the Air Raid Wardens in World War II and is head of the Michigan State Troops.

in Bloomington, Ind., will recall to many of the older generation the famous Halls-Mills murder case in New Jersey in 1922 of similar character.

FRANCO CHARGES that the move to oust him is a world wide communist plot, motivated by Russia, fanned into flame in socialistic France and being implemented by the United States and England.

Monday, March 4
GENERAL MOTORS refuses arbitration, as just suggested by the UAW/CIO, following an eight-hour conference by top executives ... says there is nothing left to arbitrate.

"HONEST" HAROLD ICKES, recently ousted from the Secretaryship of the Interior says in a national broadcast: "from the average class of appointments we have been getting lately we can't hope for very much in the way of leadership or good government."

POLICE OF BLOOMINGTON, IND., hold the two brothers suspected of killing the 43 year old Sunday School leader and his choir singing companion.

THE STEWARDESS on the American Airliner which crashed into a mountain in California killing all of the 27 persons aboard was a Detroit girl, Maxine Rickard, who gave up her teaching profession because she wanted work which furnished excitement.

W. AVERELL HARRIMAN, late U. S. Ambassador to Russia, declared there would "not be another war if we maintain confidence in the UNO and take a firm stand with any nation that attempts to take unilateral action which infringes upon the freedom of other nations" ... answering the question whether he thought war with Russia inevitable he said "I most certainly do not, but it depends principally upon us ... there will be no war if we as a country remain strong, physically and spiritually. Above all, we in America must retain our physical and spiritual strength to give the world the moral leadership it is looking for."

Tuesday, March 5

tion the Union replies to the company's proposal for a secret vote on going back to work with the provisional acceptance if two issues are embraced in the same ballot ... 1st, on the bare question of accepting the GM's proposal on taking the 18½c increase offered and, 2nd, the same issue, plus the reference of all other questions to an arbitrator to be named by President Truman ... this latter condition was evolved from the meeting of 200 delegates from 90 strike bound plants held last Saturday.

THE AMERICAN-BRITISH-FRENCH move to unhorse Franco meets with a defiant "I won't quit" from the Spanish dictator ... the same proposal is meeting with a mixed reception in Congress, some members regarding it as "great stuff," others as merely sticking our neck farther into the nose of European complications, while others condemn it as an unwarranted "further Russian appeasement."

THE NATIONAL FEDERATION of Telephone Workers, dubious of the effectiveness of Government intervention insist the stage is set for a nationwide walkout of 250,000 members next Thursday.

THE ROYAL COMMISSION investigating Russian espionage in Canada is expected to soon release further information disclosing more names of persons alleged to be involved.

Wednesday, March 6
CHURCHILL in his speech at Little Westminister College at Fulton, Mo. gives our foreign affairs statesmen a lively bone of contention in his advocacy of an alliance between this country and England, with the suggestion that it might lead to a common citizenship ... his recommendation toward Russia meets with more approval.

SECRETARY BYRNES discloses that nearly a month ago he sent a note of protest to Russia on her policy of bringing the entire economy of Manchuria under a pseudo Russian-Chinese control ... maintains it is wholly opposed to the American policy of an open door for Chinese trade to all nations, a policy laid down by John Hay, American Secretary of State in 1895.

A NATIONWIDE WALK OUT of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers is to start on Monday, officers of the brotherhoods in Chicago say ... the only hope against such a strike would be effective interference by President Truman.

We need fact-finding committees as well as fact-finding committees.

Detroit Edison Has Big Year

Proof of the inherent economic vigor of Detroit and southeastern Michigan, a vigor sustained despite the sudden end to production for war, is contained in the annual report of the Detroit Edison Company.

The year end found war plants in the area almost wholly converted to the manufacture of peace-time products and a continuously rising demand for electricity from residential, farm and commercial customers. The result was a record of gross kilowatt-hour sales in 1945 only 12 per cent below the all-time high of 1944.

The 1945 gross revenues, $85,177,152, exceeded those of 1944 by $1,629,635, or 1.9 per cent. This came about because the rounding off of funds to eliminate liability for Federal excess profits income taxes amounted to $10,450,000 in 1944 as compared to $6,000,000 in 1945. Net income for 1945 was $1.25 per share of common stock and dividends declared amounted to $1.20 per share.

The Detroit Edison Company entered 1946 free of all rate and refund litigation for the first time in three years, the report says. The work of refunding the impounded $18,450,000 to all electric customers, on a uniform basis, as ordered by the Michigan Public Service Commission and approved by the Circuit Court, is now in progress. Electric rate reductions totalling $3,000,000 a year also became effective in January 1946.

The Company's 1945 peak load was on January 15. There was a slight decrease in the load with the end of the war in Europe and a sharp drop when V-J Day came. However, elimination of the brownout, the return to Eastern Standard Time, rapid reconversion of war plants and increased demands from other consumers brought the postwar peak load on December 18 to within 7 per cent of that on January 15, 1945.

Detroit Edison customer service for the year included the replacement of 8,000,000 burned-out lamp bulbs and the repair of 580,000 electric appliances. There were periods in which service calls averaged 2,000 a day in Detroit alone, with 85 per cent of them answered in less than one hour.

We like to prove our worth to people by our work, instead of working to improve the worth of people.

War Plants

This amendment merely lifts the five horsepower limit on the motors used in the small plants and also takes the stop off of the number of employees now permitted which is fixed at five. The purpose was to leave this matter in the hands of the village commissioners to permit them to handle every case according to its character and acceptability to the village.

The problem now is the compliance of the "temporary" manufacturers with the permission which strictly limited their operation to war work and was only intended by the commissioners to be a concession to the emergency.

It is reported also that some of the spokesmen for the manufacturers are stressing the point that the war is not yet over. Here they may have something to hang their hats on at least temporarily. The war will, of course, not be over until a treaty of peace is signed and that might be a long time in the future with some of the late enemy countries not yet having even set up a government with which the allies will be willing to deal.

Eliminate Fires Chief Rector Ask

Fire Chief E. L. Rector is convinced that many of the dwelling fires that occur every year in our community could be prevented if certain fire safety features were incorporated in home construction. With the upswing in building and remodeling, he feels that this is the time to stress the importance of these safety features.

"Your basement walls should be built of solid brick or concrete and the ceiling finished with plaster on incombustible lath or fire-retardant wall-boards," says Chief Rector. All doors from the basement to the living quarters should be of solid, wood or sheathed with metal. Narrow spaces around pipes should be tightly sealed, and openings between inner and outer walls and within partitions that run up from the basement should be closed, to prevent a cellar fire from spreading upstairs through these passages. All pipes should be well insulated, especially at the points where they pass through the floors.

"See that there is a clearance of at least three feet between the furnace and hot water heater and the woodwork," the Chief advises. "And be sure there is a strong metal bin for the storage of coal, or containers that won't leak, for keeping your supply of oil."

"Build the chimney of brick or reinforced concrete, with walls at least 3 1/2 inches thick, and line it with refractory fire clay. Have it project three feet above the roof and install a spark arrester to protect your roof and your neighbor's. Cover your roof with fire-resistant materials.

The Chief also recommends that space be provided in the construction of every home for hand fire extinguishers. Nooks and cabinets, conforming to the architectural design, can be built into a new home to house extinguishers in the living quarters, he points out. "One extinguisher accessible to the furnace, one to protect the kitchen, one in the upstairs hall, and one inside the garage door, all carrying the approval label of the Underwriters' Laboratories, would be ideal," he declared.

"There should always be two ways of getting out of each upstairs room," the Chief says, "so that one could always be used if the other were cut off by fire. A back stairway, a porch or garage roof, a ladder-like trellis for a vine outside a window, are all possible means of escape.

"Incidentally, an attached garage must always be given special consideration," the Chief concluded. "The walls and ceilings should be plastered and filled with noncombustible material; the door communicating with the house fireproofed and self-closing; and the floor made of cement and graded so that explosive gasoline vapors will not collect."

Ask City Approval On Road Project

A communication was received Monday night by the City Council from the County Road Commission appraising the City of Grosse Pointe of the property condemnation the County has made along Mack avenue in connection with widening of that thoroughfare to a uniform width of 150 feet. A map showing the new avenue lines has been before the council for some time. The Road Commission asked the City to take formal action approving its work on the City's side of Mack.

No action was taken at the meeting but a resolution to that effect will probably be adopted at an early meeting. There has been no criticism of the lines established by the commission. The County will assume the whole cost of property condemnations.

More Nutrition In New Flour

Belief that the new 80 per cent flour which will be milled after March 1 will result in improved nutrition for the American people was expressed today by Dr. William DeKleine, state commissioner of health. This flour will be more healthful because it retains more of the nutrients found in wheat, he said.

"For years our mills have been removing the most nutritious part of the wheat. We have tried to correct this by enriching flour with three of the B vitamins and with iron. The new 80 per cent flour will have other vitamins known normally to be present in wheat and will also supply protein of superior biologic value. Bread and cereals contribute more than a fourth of the protein as now used in the national diet," he said.

Veterans Group Granted Charter

The National Planning Committee of the American Veterans' Committee has granted a charter for an East Side Detroit branch of this national World War II organization. At the first meeting of the members the following were elected as provisional officers: Sam L. Haverman, 958 Dickerson, Detroit, chairman; Leo Mulrooney, 13411 Sunset, Detroit, vice-chairman; James S. Harris, 306 Roosevelt, Grosse Pointe, treasurer; and Charles B. Hull, 253 Mt. Vernon, Grosse Pointe Farms, secretary.

A second meeting of the chapter was held March 26 at the Pierce Junior High School for the purpose of discussing the future programs of the chapter.

On Friday, March 15, a large open meeting will be held, at which time the aims, principles, history, and past action of AVC will be presented to any and all veterans who are interested. Speakers for the evening will be Circuit Court Commissioner William J. Coty and Lewis C. Frank, Jr., member of AVC National Planning Committee.

Interested veterans are asked to attend the meetings or call Chairman Sam Haverman at LEnox 4216.

and plans for necessary building can proceed according to schedule.

"Plans and recommendations are being completed in conferences and meetings with employees of the system to submit to the Board of Education for its 1946-47 budget regarding salary schedules.

Construction Soon

"The vote will mean also that as soon as materials and labor are available and sufficient monies are available from the sinking fund bids may be secured for the construction of at least one wing of the proposed school building on Vernier and Mack which would accommodate from four to five hundred elementary school children. The plans provide that by September, 1948 the primary wing of a new building can be started on the school site at Kerby and Beaupre. Both of these buildings would then be extended and completed during the five year period for which the sinking fund monies were voted. The building on Vernier and Mack would ultimately house 900 pupils, part of which will be elementary school children and part of which will be junior high school children. The ultimate building on Kerby and Beaupre will eventually house approximately 500 elementary school children."

Against Human Woe

The annual national solicitation for the Red Cross reaches closer to the common heart of the American people than any of the many causes presented for their support. There can be no quarrel with the relief of human misery.

Day in and out, year after year, in peace or in war, the "Greatest Mother in the World" carries on her missions of mercy. She stands as the militant goddess of protection against human sufferings. She fights with every weapon except those of destruction.

Whether a village is blotted out by fire, a great river valley inundated, or ten thousand wounded men are strewn over a battlefield her agents are first on the scene. Money and materials flow in, expert ministrations hurry to the front and the bridgehead against human suffering is set up.

In time of war, with its accompanying misery, in a thousand forms, her task is especially heavy. In peace, her agents are the minute men first on the ground. Her sole mission is the relief of human wretchedness in whatever physical form it appears.

The great organization which came into existence scarcely eighty years ago needs no detailed explanation. This story has been told over and over again. It is known throughout the world. Its very name inspires affection and gratitude and the sun never sets, or time never ceases on its endless work.

This is the period when the people are privileged to contribute the sinews which strengthen her arm.

GIVE TO THE RED CROSS, NOW!

Home Building

The scarcity of houses and living quarters for the many new family units which have come into being during the war time, which has grown to critical proportions with the returning of several millions of our fighting men, is not a new experience in this country. Because of the greater numbers involved it has more deeply impressed the country. It is now a distressing to the many young couples who are for the first time engaged in the important adventure of "house hunting."

The country underwent a similar experience soon after the other war, although it did not loom in such proportions as now. This being our first experience in any war which even approximated a total scale, its various aftermaths strike the people as more serious.

Now there is a general disposition, in conformity with our drift towards paternalism in government, to "Let George Do It." Maybe the Government will have to act in some ways and circumstances, but this was not the method before.

Then, most communities undertook to solve their own local problems. One common practice was for the citizens to form house building companies. These were frequently supplemented by other quasi social service concerns which loaned money on second mortgages. The whole scheme aimed at producing houses which could be sold at a figure just sufficient to assure against loss and the continuing soundness of the enterprise. The aim was not to make large profits out of the building of urgently needed homes by those who furnished the money. Labor and builders got their fair profits and the government was largely spared the assumption of one more great burden on the plea of social necessity.

Between 1920 and 1923 home building companies sprang up all over the country. They ran their brief course with surprisingly small losses, and with an average overall modest but safe profit. Many of them were promoted by live chambers of commerce to solve the local home shortage problem. While the plan was more readily applicable to smaller cities, where a greater community of interests prevails there is nothing in the plan which bars it from adoption in any place.

Keep Our Face Out!

To plain John Citizen, sitting on the sidelines of the many ranged World Citzens now performing, it looks as if Uncle Sam was inviting a deal of trouble for himself by inviting himself into a role of dictation affecting the internal affairs of other countries.

The immediate field for concern on this score is Spain, although Argentina is looming as a close second. The civil war in Spain which got under headway ten years ago had its origin, largely, in a financial and even religious evolution which had permitted vast private holdings of land, manufacturing and banking to pass beyond the reach of the people. This situation gave rise to the Republican movement in Spain which dominated for a time but which presently automatically brought Franco and his group of professional militarists into the field.

Whatever injustices and inequalities may obtain temporarily, the problem is internal to Spain. Because Franco, who was in power in Spain while World War II was in progress saw fit to exchange smiles with Hitler and Mussolini, it is no excuse for our involvement there. Our new born responsibility in and for the world at large scarcely justifies our sticking out national features into the political gallery of every two by four power on the Earth's surface. Neither Franco nor anybody else now in power in Spain, can seriously disturb the role we seem to feel ourselves called upon to play in the larger world scene.

If the communists in France feel the time is ripe for the mto push their cause in the land of their nearest

Grosse-- Exaggerations

A. PRYOR

"Be a god and hold me

With a charm!

Be a man and fold me

With thine arm!"

(Robert Browning)

Following is the 'poison fan' letter we received after the squib in our column about the second maid.

"Dear Pryor,

I note that you are up to your old tricks of puzzling those of us who live down here below the tracks where we never hear of second maids except in English novels and Grosse Pointe columns.

"A G.P. matron, you relate, interviewing an applicant for second maid, realized the girl didn't know what the work entailed. 'Oh yes,' you have the gal replying, 'It's a second class maid . . . and that's what I am.' Whereupon you turn the record over and some of us will never know why that's funny.

"An example of this treatment is submitted herewith, with the usual columnar approach:

GROSSE LIBEL

"There was a young maid from Baroda
Who ran an illicit pagoda . . ."

(More Anon)

"A G.P. matron called this week to tell us she had an ad in the paper for a valet de chambre. After interviewing one of the applicants for a few minutes, she realized the man didn't know quite what the work entailed. 'Are you quite sure you know what a valet de chambre is?' queried Mordom. To which the man replied, 'Oh yes! He's the valet who throws it out the window after you get one in which.'"

"The man evidently didn't realize that practically every home in Grosse Pointe has modern plumbing.

"See what I mean, Pryor? Let your readers in on the joke; they'll appreciate knowing what in hell they're giggling about and will hardly be able to wait until next week for you to WOW them again."

Cordially,

G.F.Y.

We didn't dream anyone existed in this age of second this and second that, who'd be mystified by the classification of a "second" maid . . . except, G.F.Y. In case there are any further morons (which we doubt), a second maid is one who assists the butler (or first maid), doing downstairs work, waiting on table and anything else the first maid or butler can palm off on her. However, as any second maid can tell you, Mr. G.F.Y., IT DOES NOT MEAN "second class" maid . . . of whom there is no "whoever. Even a FIRST maid can be second-class . . . but a second maid can and should be first class. Does THAT take care of it for you? Well, then . . . go ahead and laugh!

G.P. Mystery

How about you Agatha Christie fans getting your heads together to solve this one? Just bring the answer to the office with a box top from every one of our advertisers and we'll give you a lucite leashing ring.

A local couple were invited by another couple (who couldn't be considered more than acquaintances), to dinner one evening recently. Shortly after dinner, the female guest developed a slight headache and asked for an aspirin. Her husband, not wanting to disturb his hosts, offered to get the aspirin himself . . . which he promptly did, from the medicine chest in the family bathroom. NOW, dear fans, comes the mystery, which neither the guests nor hosts can fathom. In getting the medicine, his eye caught sight of a spoon resting on a shelf in the chest, next to a bottle of medicine. Not being a snoopy soul, the man's eye was nevertheless attracted to the spoon, since it looked like one of his own. He picked it up . . . and sure enough, it belonged to him and his wife . . . a monogrammed one that was part of their very best set of flat silver! Any answers?

neighbor to the south it is not our obligation to further their plans. It would be more timely for us to talk more pointedly to the Russian state which appears to have no scruples about pushing its own pet ideology to the western rim of Europe. France should lick her own wounds for a while and the Russian bear should talk politely to the country which aided her so greatly and from whom she still hopes to obtain further aid.

Coming Test

Unless our Government is prepared to act more drastically than heretofore against black market operations no mere edicts of price control will avail anything against the threatened flood of inflation.

Now, with the war over, the patriotic urge, to whatever extent it operated in fact during the war, will be a puny weapon with which to hold the dyke. Millions of persons with more money in hand than they ever possessed before, and with a bubbling production and sales machine raring to go, it will take the most rigid controls ever imposed on this people to hold the line. Human nature is a volatile element with which to reckon in facing such a situation. The OPA had better sharpen its weapons and make ready to use them.

And the "Government at Washington," which the country was told during the Civil War "still lives" had best be ready to support its administrators in the field with something quicker and more effective than fact finding board verdicts or pitiful appeals to unlistening ears.

Europe couldn't control similar situations and those countries have peculiar and effective means of their own desiring to make their edicts work.

Tallyho-Hum

We are having more fun in New York with our WAR BRIDES. They are arriving, as you know, by the thousands; squalling babies and squawking mamas. The Italian brides think it's too cold, the English brides think the food is too rich and the French brides can hardly wait to stoop down and see if the streets really are paved with gold. The papas and the brass bands meet the ships and the confusion is something they can all write home about! One bride came down the gang-plank skirling a bagpipe. She is bound for Brooklyn—which is just as well!

We even had a WAR BRIDE GROOM come in. He is tall, attractive CHRISTOPHER PATERSON of Edinburgh. All the brides on the boat called him SCOTTY. He said his American war bride was in Scotland when they married, and that when England passed a law to let the brides come over, he decided it means grooms too, and here he is. As a whole, the brides are exceptionally pretty and anxious to please. (Let's all try to make them feel at home.)

The women from this side, who are going over to join their men in the occupational forces, have been advised what to bring. If any of you girls are tying up your luggage, don't paste on the stickers 'till you slip in a few pots and pans; clothing for at least a year, a fountain pen, (we certainly want to hear from you), a watch, cigarette lighter, (take several, as gifts to your new friends), plenty of lip sticks and cosmetics and a few face towels. Don't say I didn't tell you!

Speaking of brides and bridegrooms, do you know what it cost (officially), the SWEDISH PRINCE to marry his commoner love, MRS. WILKMARK? Well, he lost his right to the Swedish crown (he was fourth in line, so his prospects weren't shining anyhow), his royal rights, and titles, such as Prince of Sweden, Duke of Dalekarlia; his right to two aides, Swedish honors and freedom from taxes. He is given permission to use the royal family name, BERNADOTTE. I saw the Bernadottes in the Champagne Room at EL MOROCCO the other night. Imagine having to pay taxes, and PERONA's bill too! He'll wish he were royal again!

I have been full of GOOD WORKS this week. I am on the SALVATION ARMY COMMITTEE to raise $1,000,000 by the first of March. On the air, Friday night, we had a discussion between BRIGADIER BROWN of the S.A., MRS. GUY PERCY TRULOCK, former pres. of the Federated Women's Clubs of N.Y., MR. WALTER ROARK, head of the Servicemen's Club in Harlem and ME. The theme was BROTHERHOOD. I hope if any of you heard it, you approved, and liked it.

Mrs. Trulock, with some of the others, came up to my place after the broadcast. Her grim title, President of the Federated Women's Clubs, etc., had made me feel I was about to meet a Hokinson character straight out of THE NEW YORKER, but not at all. She is witty and broad minded, and a lot of fun. Telling about her life, and of her aunt, who brought her up here and in Europe, she said, "My aunt always advised me to use discretion in my choice of the language to employ for certain occasions. 'For instance,' she said, 'Always use French when speaking to women and children—Italian, to the birds—German, is for horses!'"

SALLY CARTER and ARTI HOLLAND, two Dames from Dallas, lunched with me at the Pavilion yesterday. They said, "Now, come on, show us some CELEBRITIES," and fortunately for me, a couple of same were in plain view. Near us were sitting PEGEEN and ED FITZGERALD, a Radio couple who get up too early for me to know much about. I can report on how they looked, tho. PEGEEN had on a kind of turtle neck blouse job, and a pale pink hat with red poppies languishing on the front. ED was all in brown, including hair. After they finished their roast pork and applesauce, Ed licked his fingers. Tsch! tsch!

Pretty MARGARET CASE of VOGUE was there, and ANTOINE blew in out of the snow and wind. ANTOINE was in a twist over his hair which was every which way from the blasts. He expertly arranged the front wave at the mirror. The back, tho, looked just like a bird's nest. I was sorry I hadn't brought along a couple of robin's eggs. I always keep some around the house for just such emergencies!

MICHIGAN MIRROR

By GENE ALLEMAN

Who's going to get some badly needed pairs of shoes in the taxpayers' family—the state's own "children", the educational institutions and mental and tuberculosis hospitals or the local governments—"children", such as the municipalities, townships and villages?

That is the issue at Lansing where the state legislature is now in special session.

At stake is an estimated biennium surplus by June 30, 1947—one year from next June 30—of $27,600,000.

Let's take a look or two at what it is all about.

It is the recommendation of Governor Harry F. Kelly, supported by leading committees of the state legislature and by elected state officials, that the bulk of this surplus should go to meet the long neglected needs of the state's own responsibilities.

These include the University of Michigan and Michigan State College, as well as other schools throughout the state. No state appropriation has been made since 1927 for an educational building at the University; 61 per cent of the university's present building facilities were financed by private donors or through self-liquidating student dormitories. The plight of Michigan State College is equally as great.

Mental and tuberculosis hospitals are unable to admit patients because of limited building facilities. From 1930 to 1945 the mental hospital population increased from approximately 15,000 to more than 26,000 for an average gain of 750 persons a year. The department of mental health estimates its building needs alone to be $20,296,000.

Who benefits from state hospitals, anyway?

A check-up of the hospital patients, as of Dec. 1, 1945, reveals that Wayne county (Detroit) benefited to the extent of more than 40 per cent of the total—10,989 out of 26,219. Kent county (Grand Rapids) had 1,180 citizens in hospitals; Oakland (Pontiac), 865; Genesee (Flint), 865; Ingham (Lansing) 577, and so on down the list. Fifteen municipalities benefited to the extent of 13,267 per cent!

Who benefits most from the patients out of 26,219—nearly 50 educational services of state colleges, and schools?

The facts are equally revealing, and again it is the metropolitan areas which derive the greatest benefit by number of students at state supported colleges. Enrollment at the schools totals 20,197, and more than half of these come from cities of 10,000 population and over.

Thus it appears logical—and the logic has received support from the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Michigan Farm Bureau, Michigan State Grange, American Federation of Labor, just to mention a few—that Governor Kelly's case for giving priority to the state's own "children" is founded on the fact that the entire state, cities as well as rural areas, will benefit from the 1946 state building program now before the legislature. Certainly the cities will get their fair share. Mayor Edward F. Jeffries of Detroit notwithstanding.

Furthermore, none of these "children" possess the power to levy taxes. And the local governments—cities, counties and villages—do have this right. A. J. Phillips, executive secretary of the Michigan Education association, has conceded that "any solution for the problem of school finances must come from local governments through raising their valuations or increasing their millage or both."

The schools' plight, admittedly great, is a by-product in part of the gradual breakdown of local tax responsibility caused by adoption of the state sales tax and elimination of the state property tax.

Local governments look to Lansing increasingly for a solution of their financial problems. The state's own "children"—colleges, hospitals and others—have been crowded out for years in the pressure group scramble of local governments to get more money at Lansing.

The outcome of the tug-of-war to see who is going to get $27,600,000—the state's own "children" or those of local governments—is going to depend largely on the willingness of legislators to support the administrative program, as drafted by the house ways and means committee and the senate finance committee.

The Michigan Conference of Mayors has been telegraphing mayors of cities, large and small, to bring pressure on members of the house and senate at Lansing.

Rep. David E. Young of Saginaw, retiring president of the Michigan Association of Supervisors, is co-sponsor of a bill to divert one-sixth of the state sales tax to local governments—cities, villages and townships—all of whom have payrolls and numerous employees right in the legislators' home territory.

It's a real showdown, and the outcome is none too certain.

If the big-town mayors and supervisors succeed in raiding the state surplus now, it's a cinch that the state never will have such a favorable opportunity to help its own neglected children—the state-supported schools and hospitals which serve the entire people of Michigan and which have no taxing powers themselves.

STEAL PURSE IN KITCHEN

Mrs. A. E. Russell, 6704 Pemberton, reported to the Park police that some time between 5 o'clock and 6 o'clock in the evening of March 1 someone entered the kitchen of the house and stole a purse lying on the table. The purse contained $22.

Editor,
Grosse Pointe News,
99 Kercheval Ave.,
Grosse Pointe Park, Mich.

Dear Sir:

Your description of the hearings conducted by the Park Council on the erection of the Club House for the Automobile Club, at Somerset Ave. and East Jefferson, contained inaccuracies which I am sure will be noted by all of those present, and which should be brought to the attention of the readers of your paper. In the first place, the general tone of comment by Grosse Pointe citizens attending the meeting was either critical or questioning, although your article gives the definite impression that there was little or no criticism of the project. Nearly all the speakers arising from the audience raised serious questions as to the advisability of the project.

Probably the high point of the whole meeting was a vote taken by the presiding officer which your article failed to mention. It would seem that an impartial newspaper description of the proceedings should have included the results of such a vote, as being indicative of the opinion of those present. The vote, incidentally, was 25 against the building of the club house as against nine in favor of it.

Yours very truly,
A. F. LECKLIDER.

REFUSES TO PROSECUTE

In the case of Edward R. Ward charged with removing merchandise illegally from the Hamlin Market store, where he was acting manager, the proprietor of the store, Lee McGonigle, has refused to prosecute and Ward has been discharged.

History records no greater names than those who devoted their lives to the advancement of medical science: Oslar, Lister, Curie, Pasteur, Banting and others, deathless all.

Proof that these brilliant benefactors of mankind have worthy successors among present day medical scientists is found in the discovery of penicillin, the sulfas, blood plasma. The laboratory and the great minds are constantly at work searching out new weapons to combat disease and death.

To the practicing physician go the findings of the medical laboratories—tried and proven in every case before the doctor puts them to use.

Equally fast to avail himself of tried and tested specifics to fill the doctor's prescription is the alert, conscientious drugist.

Are you the type who likes to look "so round so firm" and not fully packed? Me too. Couldn't believe my eyes at first but JACOBSON'S have received their first postwar shipment of girdles. These long awaited underpinnings are of satin brocade with hand loomed elastic sections. We haven't seen any such for so long we'll probably have to explain to the children just what they are! Can you imagine how wonderful it will be to sit down in one of these models and not feel yourself spreading over the chair with that "overhang" we all wish to avoid? Go early and escape the rush.

Today the ground is covered with deep wet snow and my cocker pup has just come in with snow balls frozen in his "feathers." You know how the snow clings to a long haired dog and packs between their toes? Tony was as wet as though he'd been under a shower and his dangling ears looked just the way our locks do after a shampoo. That is if we have had a good "permanent." All this leads up to my telling you, if you're one of the great majority with naturally straight hair, lady, you can do something about it. BLANCHE and CYRIL, HAIRDRESSERS, on Fisher Rd. really can be depended upon to turn you out with a "kinkless" natural wave and even your best friend couldn't criticize it, or you. Now you know it's good.

Do you remember "It's Tulip Time" from the Ziegfeld Follies? or don't you go back that far? It really doesn't matter as long as you know its tulip time at ARTHUR PASEL'S. And such tulips! We haven't had any Dutch tulips for five years due to certain other urgent imports and exports crossing the Atlantic, but now we can enjoy these lovelies again. And when I saw the hyacinths in their pretty pastel dresses of pink and blue and white, and smelled their delicate perfume I realized how fortunate we are to have these harbingers of Spring with us again. Flowers certainly help the good neighbor policy!

Things have come to a pretty pass. Imagine going to a haberdashery to get candy! I wouldn't kid you, PROPER'S have it, and it's the "nut." Almondola is the name and inside the box you'll find giant almonds covered with rich delicious chocolate Umm, Umm, good! Buyable in half pound boxes for $1.00 or $2.00 a pound. Cheap at twice the price, that is, if you have the price. If you're on the plumpish side, I'd advise again it is when you start, discretion goes out the window. Any way, MR. PROPER would much rather sell you some nice white shirts, if there were any nice white shirts! But he does have new stunning ties so you can feed your vanity or the inner man, as you wish.

Have you ever felt out of sorts or off balance? Well it's not a good feeling and highly undesirable for humans or automobiles. KERCHEVAL-CADIEUX SERVICE specialize in this matter of wheel balance. I don't understand the mechanics of such things, but it does make sense that having the car wheels perfectly balanced saves wear and tear and consequently money and we're all interested when our pocketbook is concerned, isn't it so? "Doc" can explain the advantages of wheel balancing so much better than I, that I suggest you ask him, as I know it will save your car and your cash.

There's nothing artificial about the newest arrival at HENRI'S MARKET. I'm speaking of the great big beautiful grapefruit. Usually coloring is added to fruit to give it "eye appeal" and it is compulsory to have it so labeled. But these Texaco grapefruit can face the world on their own without any aid to Nature. They're so tactful too, they combine the flavor of California fruit with the volume of juice of the Florida products, and they're right from the "heart of Texas." Nary a seed will you find and you may have pink or white, if you're choosy.

Nylons

Blonde, or redhead or brunette? Nylons. If you've stayed out late at night, just what bits of sheer delight Make your waywardness all right? Nylons.

A woman in the towel department of a large department store was overheard the other day. "I don't have time to make my tea-towels any more. I have twenty-six pairs of stockings, all nylons. It takes so much time, standing in the lines. That's why I have to buy these ready-made tea-towels instead of making my own!"

Seeing who can get the most and bragging has become an obsession, rapidly distorting the values of intelligent women and the fever is spreading to the men, too, the men who feature news items, write advertisements and post war prophesies. This is significant of the trend of mind of all whose minds have turned to "now we will see what we can get," instead of, "now let's see what we can do about the world." In Detroit and other cities where innocent strike victims are wondering whether they can keep their business going another day, even whether they can feed their family with bread and milk, women whose relatives just came back from overseas seem to be relaxed about these problems, when all they can talk about is:

"Let me see whether my nylons from Jacobson's look better than yours from Saks Fifth Avenue."

"I don't see why I don't get mine."

In London, statesmen are worrying; wondering whether they can plan and cooperate to keep the peace, and right now the outlook is discouraging to them. Our nation and the other nations are facing problems that are rapidly going to become of personal interest to every man and woman. The women who are worrying and talking about their stockings, and other shortages, could make the necessary effort to obtain their goods and food, and turn their attention to other problems. I should like to hear what they have to say concerning the latest news from the Argentine, India, and Spain. The housing situation and the possibility of more inflation demands their attention right now. These topics affect them directly, and they will undoubtedly be able to vote, put in "their two bits worth," on any bill, or in any election that demands the citizen's "yes" or "no." By reading, thinking and discussion our women could know what they want to vote for, as well as their desire to vote for more nylons!

A House Divided, or Where Do I Vote and Why

guest room (for any reason, coy or otherwise) before the six months were up, she'd have to take it up with the Shores or maybe (perish the thought) she wouldn't be allowed to vote at all!

Now this thing poses a lot of possibilities and impossibilities. Suppose for argument's sake, this woman (who is VERY civic minded and hasn't MISSED a day at the polls since she came of voting age), got fed up with her husband eating crackers in bed or keeping the lights on to read the stock quotations and moved to the guest room in the wee hours. Would her conscience make her report to the clerk's office that she'd forfeited her right to vote in the Woods? Or, would she, in shame, continue to sleep in the guest room for 6 months, so she could vote in the Shores?

Another phase of this unusual set-up is that one is supposed to vote in the City in which one has (according to law) had one's bed and board for 6 months. In this poor woman's case, her bed is in the Woods (or SHOULD be) but her "board" . . . which we presume covers the dining room and kitchen areas . . . is in the Shores! Of course, she could always carry her meals into the living room to eat them, thereby living up to the civic standards of decorum. Or she could eat in the dining room, where most self-respecting people eat, and sleep in the guest room and tell her husband she'd see him again in 6 months . . . at which time she might move in with him for 6 months, then vote in the Shores. Mind you, now, voting is important to this woman.

She was nearly thrown once when an unexpected guest came to spend the night and, naturally enough, was parked in the guest room. One of the neighbors, seeing the guest room light on and knowing the situation of that particular house, said to her the next day, "I see you're back in the Shores again!"

When we interviewed our "lady of the twin Pointes" . . . we felt that where she ate and slept and voted was none of our business . . . but we were interested in what she was expected to do about a fire in the house or which police department to call while a thief was rifling her husband's pants (while she was in the guest room). She hasn't experienced either of those hazards, but was far sighted enough to ask those questions of both Woods and Shores as soon as they bought the house.

Both assured her that a call from her to either department would bring them both on the run. In that, the lady is lucky. We wish her lots of luck . . . and we also hope that if she ever has the misfortune to have a fire, that we will be on hand to see what cooks with the two Pointes. Things are so cut and dried in OUR life, that we can't conceive of anything working so smoothly. We are almost certain (skeptical that we are) . . . that unless we kept our head and called the right fire department for the right room . . . that the wrong one might arrive . . . take a quick gander at the joint and drive away yelling, "Sorry, lady, this fire is across the line and we can't touch it!"

From Another Pointe of View

by
Jane Schermerhorn

The fact that more women took to work and engaged in careers during World War II than at any other time in history... May have something to do with the new careers we are hearing about daily... in the social world...

We were interested, for instance... to learn that Mrs. Frederick Farr... well-known to Pointers... she was the former Josephine McLaughlin and a cousin of the late Mrs. Jean McLaughlin Booth...

Is embarking on a career which comes under the heading of temporary household management...

To enable the owners of large homes to keep open their residences while they travel or vacation by managing the households in their absence...

Mrs. Farr's work will also involve managing families while parents are out of the city...

TEMPORARY HOUSEHOLD MANAGEMENT

There are many owners of large homes at the Pointe which will be interested in this new service...

And which will welcome the dependable, efficient management Mrs. Farr's background assures...

Families grown-up and making lives of their own provide leisure time for many women these days... and the field of temporary home managers may be a growing one...

But Mrs. Farr seems to be the pioneer in the field here... incidentally the same idea is worked with great success in Cleveland...

Talking with Mrs. Farr... we also learned that her daughter... the former Betsy Cosgrave who became Mrs. Charles Broome Toole last January... is back with Mr. Toole from their wedding trip... and they're making their home at Chateau Frontenac...

THROUGH THE KEYHOLE

Gossip item:

The very first girl to be asked to Miss Annie Ward Foster's May Party... which is taking place May 17 in the crystal ballroom of Mission Temple...

Is six-year-old Melinda Bates... daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mel Bates of the Pointe...

Melinda will attend the May Party with Nicky Caulkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Caulkins... who called her at 7 a. m. to make the date (didn't want her to get off to school before plans were definite)...

Melinda also received SIX other bids to the May Party... which makes us think we should get over to the Bates residence for a special feature on the new Glamour Girl of Grosse Pointe...

PHILIPS NEWBERRY FAMILY RETURNS

Except that Christina Newberry (Mrs. James D. Darling II) now makes her home in Philadelphia...

The family of Col. and Mrs. Phelps Newberry has assumed peacetime proportions...

During the past week their two sons returned from service... Philip Newberry II was discharged as an army staff sergeant... and Truman H. Newberry II is home after his service with the USAAF in the CBI theater...

GRAY LADIES HONORED

Back to Mrs. Phelps Newberry...

She will preside at a meeting of all the hospital heads of Gray Ladies... the general chairman and day chairmen... To be held in the new Red Cross Building at 153 East Elizabeth on Monday, March 11...

There will be a luncheon first in the canteen... and then a meeting in the board of directors' room...

Mrs. Newberry passed out Red Cross certificates for meritorious service this Thursday afternoon at St. Mary Hospitals...

Where 30 Gray Ladies were honored for their service in the hospital during World War II...

The award was made to all Gray Ladies who had given 200 or more hours of service...

A special gold star was given Mrs. Marie McIntyre for outstanding work as a Gray Lady... this award came from the hospital itself...

POINTERS NEEDED AT RED CROSS

And Mrs. J. Dwyer Kinnucan... inveterate Red Cross worker... asks that we remind the merchants of Grosse Pointe (TRUSTING they read our column)...

That beginning this week... Mrs. Arthur F. Alders and Mrs. Clarence Blessed... will call on them in behalf of the 1946 Fund Campaign which seeks to raise $2,400,000 for Red Cross' peacetime program...

And while we're Red Crossing... It would look good to see some of Red Cross' loyal Grosse Pointe supporters down at headquarters... Room 703... on Friday and Saturday of this week...

Where volunteers are urgently needed to help stuff campaign kits and sort literature...

How about it?

Making Home in Florida

Week-end festivity in the CHARLES B. WARREN, JR. household on Lake shore road centered about the arrival of their house guests, LIEUT. AND MRS. GERALD R. WATLAND, of New York. The Watlands have been visiting Mrs. Watland's mother, MRS. FREDERICK WALDRON, in Ann Arbor.

Wintering in their home at Hobe Sound, Fla. are MR. AND MRS. ERNEST KANZLER, of Touraine road, who plan to remain in the Southland several weeks.

More Pointers in Florida include MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM L. DAVIS, of East Jefferson avenue, who are stopping in Fort Lauderdale with MR. AND MRS. RAY T. PERRIGO, of Allegan, Mich. En route South they week-ended with their son and daughter-in-law, MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM L. DAVIS, JR., in St. Louis.

MR. AND MRS. DANIEL W. GOODENOUGH feted their 15 Saturday night guests at a cocktail party in their Cloverly road home before going on to the closing dinner dance at the Grosse Pointe Club.

Current in the Pointe is ANN CROUSE, who is visiting her parents, MR. AND MRS. CHARLES BEECHER CROUSE, of Provencal road, for a fortnight before returning to New York.

Week-ends are a source of delight for the JAMES J. PHELANS and their daughters, MARY MEAD, FLORENCE, TERRY and ANNE, of Moross road, for they all trek out to their Metamora home at the close of every week.

MR. AND MRS. KENNETH STEVENSON, of Garden City, L. I., were welcomed by the CHARLES H. HODGES, JR. in their Kenwood road residence last week.

Looking forward to the middle of March are MR. AND MRS. MORRILL DUNN, of Bishop road. About that time they are expecting their son and daughter-in-law, LIEUT. AND MRS. The lieutenant is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Standardt, Jr., of Washington road. The couple were married in Brentwood, Calif. in November.

Acapulco, Mex. will beckon the ROBERT B. POWERS, of Renaud road, south of the border this month. Mrs. Powers' sister, MRS. ALBERT TIETIG, MR. TIETIG, and their children, SYBIL and SUSAN, of Cincinnati, have been dividing their visit here between the Powers' home and that of MRS. FREDERICK SIBLEY, of Whittier boulevard.

Sometimes this month the DOUGLAS CAMPBELLS, of Rathbone place, will reunite with their son-in-law and daughter, MR. AND MRS. FRANCIS C. FARWELL II and their young daughter, MARION. After 18 months in the Pacific, the former Troop Carrier Command pilot joined his family at Lake Forest, Ill., where his parents, MR. AND MRS. ALBERT FARWELL, live. Blue silk jersey formed their identical gowns which had tight bodices and full skirts of net. They carried colonial bouquets of daisies and delphiniums.

Jones Speaks To Pointers On March 12

Distinguished Chemist and Psychologist to Lecture on "Self Management"

Dr. Hilton-Ira Jones, the next speaker for the Grosse Pointe Community Lectures, on Tuesday, March 12, at 8:30 p. m., holds a unique place in the lecturing field — he is an internationally known scientist who has been honored and recognized for his many discoveries and achievements in the scientific world not only by United States and Canada but by England and other countries — and yet is that rare person, a speaker who is considered by various Town Halls as their most popular speaker, a scientist who has the knack of getting his meaning over in the simplest and most interesting manner.

Dr. Jones is not only a chemist — he is a distinguished psychologist and author as well. He has made outstanding discoveries in the field of bio-chemistry and believes a knowledge of body chemistry would help everyone to attain more health, happiness and business success. In these trying post-war days when so many of our boys are suffering from nervous exhaustion caused by the war, and others are suffering just plain "nerves" it should be most interesting and helpful to hear Dr. Jones speak on "Self Management," considered by many as his most popular lecture.

It was attended by 60 couples, comprised of Rotarians, their wives, families and guests. The affair opened with an informal cocktail hour at 6:30 o'clock, followed by dinner at 7:30. During cocktail hour the guests were entertained by a trio of strolling minstrels.

After dinner an excellent floor show was staged by a group of talented dancers from the Elaine Arndt School of the Dance. Another highlight of the evening's entertainment was a short piano recital by Richard W. Palmer. Palmer is the son of Frank Palmer, the president of the club. He offered his newest composition "tango" following with Rachmaninoff's Prelude in C Sharp Minor.

The ladies received favors of unusual attractiveness and a dancing program concluded the evening.

Newcomers Club Now Organized

At a meeting held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Lundgren on Harvard road, Friday evening, March 1, members of the Grosse Pointe Newcomers Club unanimously adopted a constitution and by-laws which had been drawn up previously by the executive board. The club, founded several months ago to foster friendship and provide entertainment for married couples who have moved here within the past few years from outside the Detroit area, has a membership now of approximately 20 couples. Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Huestis, of Grand Marais Road, are the most recent members to join the group.

Following the business meeting, six tables of bridge were in play with prizes being awarded to Mr. and Mrs. Willard Naragon, Mrs. Bennett Burgoon and John Jakle.

A St. Patrick's Day party is being planned at the Neighborhood Club for the evening of March 15. Mr. and Mrs. Lester Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Dickinson, and Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Duncan are in charge of arrangements.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. T. P. Jackman, of Neff road, and Mr. Zens is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey E. Zens, of Harvard road.

Four attendants preceded Florence down the aisle. Mrs. Chilton I. Drysdale was matron of honor and Mary Ann Dewey, Lorraine Byer and Mrs. Philip C. Wenzel were bridesmaids.

Their honor gowns were of sea-blue faille with modified basque tops and sailor collars. Matching open-crown bonnets trimmed in ribbons and bouquets of American Beauty roses completed their costumes.

For her wedding, Florence chose traditional white satin with low square neckline, long sleeves and a bustle effect. She wore a single strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom. A crown of rosepointe lace, which belonged to her mother, topped her fingertip veil of illusion. Her bridal bouquet was of white violets centered with sweetheart roses.

The bridegroom's brother, Jack Zens, was best man. Ushering were Mr. Drysdale, Jack Moore, Mr. Wenzel, Bud Nichols and Tom Jackman.

For receiving at the wedding breakfast and reception in the Detroit Yacht Club, Mrs. Jackman was in gray crepe with a pink satin hat and pink camellias.

Mrs. Zens wore teal-blue crepe with a white flower hat and white camellias. The bride's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Silken DeRosen, selected fuchsia crepe with a matching hat and an orchid corsage.

For motoring South, the new Mrs. Zens wore a blue gabardine suit with black accessories.

Upon their return the couple will make their home in the Pointe.

ORIENTAL
RUGS

Appeal to Discriminating Taste

Unlike all other floor covering which derive their popularity from intensified advertising campaigns, Oriental rugs appeal to discriminating taste because they possess certain intrinsic values, derived from their lasting beauty, styling, and usefulness. The skills of the weaver, the designer, the weaver all, expressed in Oriental Art, contribute to that appeal. Cultural people, all over the world adorned their homes with these gems of the Orient throughout the ages. That is the reason why they are admired by discriminating taste; that is a good reason why you should give them place in your home and when you buy, let us talk with you on the subject. It will pay you to let a connoisseur wait on you. We know this business.

Religious Group Hear Speaker

"One of the fundamental purposes of the Baha'i Faith is to unite all the religions of the world," stated Dr. Edris Rice-Wray of Chicago, at a meeting of the Baha'is of Grosse Pointe and their friends Saturday evening. "Already in over 78 countries of the world it has united people of all the existing religions as well as atheists and agnostics. The Baha'i Faith is based on the principle that there is but one God though He may be called by different names, and that religion is progressive not static.

"God has been merciful to us from time to time, by sending us Prophets or Divine Messengers such as Adam, Moses, the Zoroaster, the Buddha, Christ, and Muhammad, to guide man to the straight path. The Baha'is believe that once again a Prophet has appeared, this time bearing the name Baha'u'llah, and coming to unite all the religions.

"Not only did He fulfill the spiritual prophecies of all past religions," Dr. Rice-Wray continued, "but He outlined a Plan for world unity which would insure lasting peace. This Plan includes a world federation, a world language, a world economic system, universal education, a world calendar, and the elimination of prejudices of race, nation, class, and religion."

who, where and whatnot

By Whozit

"PERSONAL APPEARANCES"

Saw Susie Gardner looking very "snazzy" in a basic black wool with a short broadtail coat. Her becoming tan, acquired from recent flying trips to Florida and Nassau, was topped by a winter bonnet with broadtail trim.

Susie's great "pal", Tweezie Stearns, was equally smart looking in a grey suit . . . and her headpiece was one of those musbroom affairs of grey felt veiled in shrimp pink, with tiny chenille dots. On anyone else it might have been a fiasco. On Therese it was "deevine."

HIT PERFORMANCES

Did you hear of Charlie Symington's "quick witty"? He was at a party at the Robert Martin's when Joe Frazer came in with his partner, Henry Kaiser. When Joe reached Charlie in the introductions, he turned to Mr. Kaiser and said, with a great flourish, "And this is Stuart Symington's brother." Whereupon Charlie quickly retorted, "On the contrary, Stuart is my brother!" Mr. Kaiser was so delighted that I'm sure if Charlie ever feels like making a change in the business in which he is engaged, Mr. Kaiser will have a place for him!

With all the flying Dottie Lunken does, I presume the ordinary modes of transportation seem pretty dull. But there's nothing dull about the picture she makes touring down Lake Shore Road in that red jeep of her's. Bareheaded, swathed in a mink coat she could compete with any "cover girl."

Everyone is terribly pleased about the Ann Whitehead-Woodie Crouse engagement. They're both "Nize people." Add to "sisters inseparable" . . . Amy Whitehead and Frannie Book; Mrs. Hal Smith Jr. and Mrs. Nelson Holland; Dottie McGiverin and Olive Larned.

PILFERINGS

It's strange how even the best of friends become strangers. Women who constantly crave something new in their lives usually end up with a neurosis.

Ballet dancers gain popularity by leaps and bounds.

Before Robert Benchley died he visited a friend in residence at Bellevue Hospital. Benchley reported that conditions in the psychiatric ward were so crowded that the patients were having to share their delusions.

PLEASANT RUMORS

I hope that you are as interested in "rooms" in other peoples' homes as I am. Each week I am going to tell you of a different room which has an especial appeal for me and hope that you will find it good reading. My choice this week is a guest room in the Theodore D. Buhl house.

The most arresting feature is the wallpaper; single American Beauties on a white background with a conventional pattern of greenery interspersed. The windows are curtained with bottle green heavy silk taffeta, trimmed with white fringe.

The small marble fireplace has a white mantle and is recessed in a partly mirrored wall. Two small glass vases containing seasonal red and white flowers always adorn the mantle.

The beds are upholstered in a heavy white material and have tailored spreads of the same material with red fringe. Between the beds is a mirrored step ladder night stand, and at one end of the room is a mirrored chest of drawers.

The dressing table has a skirt of soft white "gauzy" stuff with a red fringe trim. There is a small white upholstered chair and an inviting "chaise" covered with a stunning bottle green and white striped material. Three round green taffeta pillows surrounded with white fringe complete this arrangement.

All of the lamps have glass bases and shades in various appropriate white materials with a slight touch of red or green decoration. The room has a Victorian air but combined with the modern use of mirrors there is no "stuffy" feeling. On the contrary there's such a feeling of freshness and "coolth". I'd be happy to "guest" there any time.

will meet at the manse, 1373 Roslyn Road.

Thursday, March 14
8 p. m.—The Board of Deacons will meet at the manse, 1373 Roslyn Road.

WOODS CHURCH

Several suburban pastors will take part in a Lenten series which began last night in Grosse Pointe Woods at Calvary Lutheran Church. Entitled, "Symbols of Christ's Suffering," the addresses in this series will be presented each succeeding Wednesday at 8 p. m. culminating with Holy Week. Visiting pastors include Rev. A. Hahn of Redeemer Lutheran Church, Rev. P. Wieneke of Bethlehem Luth. Church and Rev. N. Rieck of St. Paul's. "A Pulse of Silver," last night's theme by W. J. Geffert, pastor of Calvary, will be followed on March 13th by Pastor Hahn whose topic reads "The Crowning of Christ's Suffering." That this subject matter intrigues public interest is seen in the appearance and immediate success of several religious novels in recent years.

Unfair League Rule Prevents Reserves from Taking Title

Loss to Fordson on a Technicality; Change Urged in Rules Before Next Season

By FRED RUNNELLS

Riding the crest of an eight-game winning streak, the Grosse Pointe reserve quintet invaded Fordson High territory, last Friday night, with hopes of closing one of the most successful campaigns in reserve history. But for a Border City ruling which states, "All reserve basketball games, which precede a varsity contest, must end by twenty minutes to eight," the Blue Devils would have carried out its pre-game plans and had an excellent chance to annex the Border City reserve basketball championship.

Going into the last period of the game the Pointers were at a 24-23 disadvantage but 10 seconds after the start of the period Captain Gerhard put the Blue Devils in the lead with a beautiful rebound shot, 23-24. The two teams battled throughout the quarter without a basket being scored and it looked like the Blue Devils were all but in. On a jump near the Fordson basket the Tractors got possession of the ball. A long pass down the floor with a Fordson player in mad pursuit, resulted in a score and gave the Tractors a 26-25 lead.

At this point the official timekeeper, a Fordson student, was queried as to the remaining time. "One minute left," was his reply. The Blue Devils took the ball out of bounds at the far end of the court and a quick toss in started a rush toward the Fordson goal, but before a shot could be made the horn sounded ending the game.

According to the official time clock, which was used throughout the contest, there was still 45 seconds of playing time. Coach Fisher rushed to the timekeeper's table, along with the referees, and asked why the game ending horn was blown with the clock still showing 45 seconds of time remaining. The timekeeper informed him that the school clock showed 20 minutes to 8 and according to the Border City rule the game must be ended. The Fordson players rushed from the floor to the locker room and it would have been impossible to call them back in time to finish the game even if the referees had decided the student timekeeper had erred. That is what deprived the Blue Devils another victory and a chance at the championship.

Your writer doesn't know when this Border City ruling was made

Grosse Pointe Girls Hold Annual Reunion

Dr. and Mrs. F. E. Putt, seated, go over preliminary plans for the coming summer season at the Crystal Air Camp for Girls, near Frankfort, Michigan, with councilors Betty Lanius, left, Jackie Ward, Junior councilor and Jeanne Tanner, at the fifth annual Grosse Pointe reunion held at the Lochmoor Club, Saturday, March 2. Twenty-five Grosse Pointe girls attended this year's Grosse Pointe reunion.

but I intend to find out. It is high time that a silly rule should be scratched from the docket and give the reserve boys ample time to play a regulation game.

The rule was made so the students would not be kept out late at night. What the Border City officials, who made this rule, didn't take into consideration is that all league contests are played on Friday nights in order that the students would not have to report to classes the following morning. In view of the facts what difference would it have made if the reserve game would have lasted 45 seconds longer.

It isn't fair to the reserve squads of any of the Border City League schools to have to rush through their games so the varsity teams can take and hold the

The rule should and must be changed. Grosse Pointe has one vote at the annual Border City League meeting. Let's use that precious vote to attempt to change a silly rule.

Fordson Beats Grosse Pointe For Border Cities Title

Tractors Smashing Style of Attack Defeats Blue Devil Quintet 34-25 in Title Game

By FRED RUNNELLS

What was supposed to be a "Red Letter Day" for the Grosse Pointe basketball team turned out to be "Black Friday" when the Fordson Tractors whipped the Blue Devils 34-25, for the Border City League basketball championship, in the Tractors' gym last Friday night.

Before an overflow crowd of 1,500 frenzied fans the Fordson quintet systematically ground the Blue Devils into the hardwood and romped off with the coveted title. The Tractors employed a good passing attack coupled with a fast break, which the Blue Devils were unable to solve, to score almost at will.

After a scoreless three minutes of the first quarter Wlasek broke through to put the Tractors in the lead and this score seemed to be the spark his team needed to get rolling and they held a 7-2 margin at the end of the period. Dick Wuerker was the only Pointer to find the range of the Fordson goal.

To start the second quarter Jack Tanner made good on a foul shot and Blue Devil fans hoped this was the start of a scoring spree but Lancel countered on a fast break to score, for the Tractors which was the start of another seven point spurge by Fordson. Grosse Pointe also garnered seven points but were on the short end of a 14-9 score at the half time.

Grosse Pointe was first to score in the third quarter and title hopes looked brighter but Fordson turned on the heat in the first five and a half minutes of the period to score eight points to take a commanding, 22-11, lead. Wuerker received a nasty gash over the right eye, from an elbow, as he was boring in for a shot at the basket. Time was taken out while coach Healy patched up the injury. Wuerker returned to the game and proceeded to dump in two beautiful field goals before the quarter ended, but the Blue Devils were still on the short end of a 25-15 score.

With the fourth quarter getting off to a slow start it looked very much like the Tractors were going to play defensive ball and protect its margin. This theory was short lived as the Tractors started to peck away at the basket with monotonous regularity and held a comfortable 12-point lead at the automatic timeout four minutes before the end of the game.

The final four minutes were the same as the first twenty-eight minutes of play. Fordson controlling the ball off both backboards and forcing the Pointers to play their style of game.

This marked the second time the Tractors have taken the Blue Devils' measure. The first time being at Grosse Pointe, January 25, when Fordson won 51-36. These defeats prevented Grosse Pointe from sharing the Border Cities League title.

The Blue Devils season's record stands at 10 won and four lost.

Dick Wuerker was high man for the losers with 12 points but lost scoring honors to Lancel of Fordson who garnered 13.

Grosse Pointe will meet the winner of the Dearborn-Dela-Salle game, in the first round of the State Regional basketball tournament, March 8, at Lincoln Park High in Ferndale.

Men grow under the responsibility they take. But give it to them and they either turn it down or get puffed up about it.

What your RED CROSS Chapter does in Metropolitan Detroit

YOU KNOW what the Red Cross has done overseas in World War II. The World knows it. Another glorious page in the history of your Red Cross is being written.

Each of the 3,754 chapters in the nationwide Red Cross network . . . just as our local chapter . . . did its full share to make possible all the help and comfort given our fighting men. But that is only half the story. Here is what your Red Cross chapter is doing now and will be doing for years to come.

Home Nursing. The Red Cross teaches the fundamentals of home nursing to many citizens. Mothers and high school girls learn how to care for simple illnesses, and how to follow the doctor's instructions in preventing serious ones.

First Aid Instruction. From eager first-aiders to high school students young volunteers learn, hammer, and plan for the Red Cross. Many also learn first aid, accident prevention, water safety, nutrition, and home nursing.

Volunteer Special Services. Your neighbor next door or just around the corner is probably a member of one of the many Red Cross Volunteer Corps. She may sew or knit for our hospitalized men; she may drive for the Motor Corps; she may be a Nurse's Aide or a Gray Lady. Perhaps she's a Staff Assistant or a Home Service worker . . . but whatever corps she serves . . . whatever she does . . . her time and effort help stretch the Red Cross dollar.

Disaster Relief. In the United States last year, the Red Cross gave relief in 260 disasters. Experience has shown that no community is immune. Our local chapter has a disaster committee set up and ready to act at the initial warning of catastrophe . . . to provide emergency shelter, food, clothing, and medical care for the helpless victims . . . to save lives and relieve suffering. And after the first shock has worn away, comes the long job of rehabilitation.

Home Service. The Red Cross Home Service worker is a home town trouble-shooter for the serviceman and his family. Our Red Cross chapter has Home Service workers available for duty day or night . . . trained, practical people, equipped to act in emergencies. The Red Cross two-way communication system reaches around the world, so that in a sense the serviceman is no further from his loved ones than our Red Cross chapter.

First Aid. A crash on the highway . . . a slashed wrist . . . a burn from scalding water . . . severe shock without proper attention, all can produce serious results. Our chapter in cooperation with individuals and organizations maintains mobile first aid units and highway first aid stations manned by trained first aiders, who help care for the victims of traffic accidents until the doctor arrives. First aid, water safety, and accident prevention classes are conducted to teach Americans the principles of self-preservation.

THINK of the many thousands who look to our Red Cross for aid and comfort in lonely hours of desperate need. Think what its many services and safeguards can mean to our town . . . to you, and your loved ones. Then remember that your voluntary services, backed up by your contributions, make it possible for Red Cross to carry on in our community. Your individual gifts are its only source of income. Without you and your neighbors, there would be no Red Cross. Give to the Red Cross today.

Girl Scout News

Our much anticipated Girl Scout Week, which is celebrated throughout the nation, is almost here! March 12th is actually the birthday, but the girls commemorate it with activities during the whole week. It is at these functions that all girl scouts turn in their pennies to the Juliette Lowe World Friendship Fund.

This is a fund created by the national organization after Juliette Lowe's death as a memorial to her. It is used for the benefit and welfare of children all over the world. Of course, now it is especially useful, as it is sent to help the children in war-torn Europe.

Birthday Week will start for Mrs. Alton Huntington's troop with a tea at Miller Hall on Sunday, March 10, from 4 to 6 for the mothers and fathers. A court of awards will be held and badges given at this time. Lucky are the girls who will receive a cookery badge, a swimmer's badge, a bibliophile badge, two interior decorating badges. Thirteen girls will receive stars for perfect attendance.

The troop committee in charge of serving the tea is composed of Mrs. Ethelburg Spurrier, Mrs. Henry Lampman, Mrs. Blount Slade, Mrs. Walter Frizell, and Mrs. Milton Clements.

In Grosse Pointe Woods the girl scouts are starting enthusiastically with a big rally for girl scouts, brownies, and their parents, at the Mason School the evening of March 8.

Mrs. Harry Findlay, who is in charge of the program, reports that all is in readiness. The girl scouts, considerable of the less fortunate "Girl Guides" of other lands, are bringing canned foods (in tin cans, not glass, please), to be sent overseas.

International friendship is the appropriate theme for the skills to be presented by each troop. The girls participating will be in the costume of the country they represent. These skills are being rehearsed by the leaders, Mrs. W. S. Multhead, Mrs. A. L. Eyre, Mrs. D. Rhinehart, Mrs. Harry Findlay, Mrs. T. E. Stahl, Mrs.

Charles DeStefano, Mrs. J. A. Paxton, and Mrs. E. E. Knoch. Miss Catherine Richards, executive secretary of the Detroit Girl Scouts, will be the speaker of the evening. Her talk will be followed by the showing of camp movies by Mrs. Andrew Parrisine.

The girls have even planned a novel idea for presenting their Juliette Lowe pennies. A flag ceremony will be the grand finale for the evening.

On Tuesday evening, March 12 at 6 o'clock, the Kiwanis Club too is recognizing Girl Scout Week by acting as dinner hosts to two representatives from each girl scout and brownie troop in Grosse Pointe Woods. Mrs. H. W. Parfitt, chairman of the Grosse Pointe district committee, and Mrs. Richard Sowden, chairman of the Grosse Pointe Woods division, are to be guests also.

Mrs. Gerald Kiefer, chairman of the Kiwanis Youth Committee, has arranged for the guests to give short talks. The girls have chosen subjects such as "Why I Became a Girl Scout," "What Girl Scouting Has Meant to Me," "How Girl Scouts Serve Their Community."

In order to take care of the ever-increasing demand for girl scouting, Leaders' Training Courses are given regularly, which is no special news item. But Mrs. Richard Sowden and Mrs. T. E. Stahl in true girl scout fashion, defied the elements and had a "Cook Out" on March 6 at the Woods Camp Site. They must be REALLY good to be prepared to demonstrate outdoor cookery to their class whether it be chopping through the ice or wallowing in the mud to build a fire.

"Lest you forget," you members of Girls' Council, your first meeting will take place at the Neighborhood Club on March 14 at 4. Mrs. James O'Brien will be there to welcome you.

APPOINTMENTS IF DESIRED

TU-1-3060

At next Monday's election, the name, Thomas L. Lott, will appear on the ballot for your consideration as a candidate for Village Commissioner of Grosse Pointe Park. So that you may vote wisely, I believe it is my duty to give you a few salient facts concerning my background and plans for our community. Therefore, I have prepared this statement to reach those of you with whom I have not had the privilege of becoming personally acquainted.

I am 35 years of age, married, with one youngster, and have owned my home at 1153 Grayton Road since 1941. Since 1936, I have been actively engaged in the practice of law and am a member of the law firm of Foster and Lott. In 1927, I was graduated from Northern High School, Detroit, and subsequently from Dartmouth College, (1932) and University of Michigan Law School (1935). During the war, I helped patrol the Detroit River and Lake St. Clair as a member of the U. S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, in which I remain active.

My candidacy is based on a deep-seated interest in good government and a desire to serve my community and its people. Now that the war is over, it is possible to go ahead with improvements in our public services without resorting to frills, and to make our Park in all respects a better place in which to live. This calls for more than honesty and competence—it requires planning and an alertness to the needs of the community which require specific and immediate attention. Among these are:

1. PUBLIC TRANSPORTATION. Our present transportation system is entirely inadequate. This condition is not due entirely to lack of facilities. I have frequently observed busses returning empty to the garage at the same time that others were going downtown loaded to a degree that was most uncomfortable and dangerous. I have counted 30 standees in a 29 passenger bus—59 passengers in all!
2. BUSINESS ENCROACHMENTS. This community was originally intended to be a strictly residential area. In recent years a number of small plants and similar establishments have located in the Park and have been enlarged. Some of this was a result of war work and probably could not be avoided. This infiltration should be corrected and attempts to continue it should be stopped.
3. EXPRESS HIGHWAYS. Aggressive support should be given to proposed plans for improving traffic conditions between the Park and downtown Detroit to eliminate excessive time expended in going to and from downtown Detroit.

Among the other matters in which I am interested are: planting of small trees on the public right-of-way to replace those which are dying; development and improvement of recreational facilities; improved distribution of information to residents concerning their Village government. I do not make the customary promise to lower taxes. It costs money to operate a government, but I do intend to see that your money is efficiently spent.

If elected, I will put forth every effort to give you a local government which is efficient and progressive and which remains alert to the changing needs of our community.

Thomas L. Lott

SECOND LIEUTENANT WILLIAM L. KUIVINEN, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kuivinen of 846 Lincoln road, has been discharged from the Army where he served as a radar observer in the Air Corps.

"KISS OF DEATH"

By LAWRENCE RANDALL
As Told to Mary Madison

Synopsis
Coming home to Grosse Pointe, brilliant young publicist LARRY RANDALL finds Grosse Pointe shocked by the sensational murder of MIRANDA AMES, whom he so madly loves he vows to kill the killer.

The fabulous beauty and heiress of the world's greatest motor fortune is found slain, wearing a string of $50,000 pearls, on the pier of The Grosse Pointe Golf Club. LARRY takes charge for FAY AMES, MIRANDA's stepmother, a champagne blonde with a colorful past.

CORNELIUS DUNN, publicity magnate dispatches to the investigation.

GUY ZINGLER, ace New York detective to aid Grosse Pointe Police, headed by LIEUTENANT CARROLL, scientific homicide expert. LARRY suspects ROGER BROOKS, aimless aristocratic flaccid of MIRANDA, strangely involved with IMOGENE GARDNER, charming crook, engaged in extorting money from millionaires.

MISS SNEED, MIRANDA's morbid former governess, hating and hunting every JOCK PENDLETON, AND HIS PLAY-BOYS. PENDLETON is deeply involved by his autograph found near the body, a forgery of his check and a death threat.

DON MONACO, a Spanish clarinet player, who spouts philosophy.

BIRDIE MACLEAN, Grosse Pointe Golf Club caddy, tracing a haunting tune he heard while just before finding MIRANDA's body.

SUE MANCHESTER, red hot torch singer with the band at the Grosse Pointe Golf Club, stops a national broadcast, collapsing from the strain as MISS SNEED weirdly hypnotizes her into a breakdown.

THE $15,000 REWARD lures SIXTY, a cab driver to track down KARI KARLSON, cultured Bostonian, trapped by LARRY and held as the forger under suspicion of murder. After a fantastic funeral party, at which LIEUT. CARROLL passes the $50,000 pearls for identification, MISS SNEED disappears on Lake St. Clair. As a dear friend of FAY AMES, and Grosse Pointe gossamer with the killer still at large.

"Squirrels are nesting in it," I said.

Carroll thumped across the floor to a small table at the left of the stage. From the gold staves the boys gave us over their instruments. I could tell that we were about as welcome as a couple of police censors at a burlesque rehearsal. They liked to be alone at these morning sessions to polish up those impromptu solos that burst on the customers at night.

Sue Manchester was doing a conversational song. Her lips were oil-painted scarlet against her pale skin. Her voice surged out of that three-warm mouth like lava bursting from an open hydrant. She finished, sat open limply, her body swaying to a nervous rhythm as she clapped her hands to the beat.

I thought: Sue has the voice of a trumpet and the soul of a strumpet.

She stands for evil the way Miranda stands for good. Somehow I couldn't get into the past tense in my thinking of Miranda. Yet they had been friends. There was some link.

Pendleton put down his platinum horn, came down to our table. "Glad you came to hear us again. I'm working harder than ever to keep my mind off things. There's a certain sanity in work. If I don't work I'll be in a jerk berserk."

Carroll cut in, "I'd like to talk with Sue Manchester."

"You mean now?"

"Yes, why not?" Carroll asked.

Pendleton hesitated. "Listen, could you do us a favor and wait. Just wait until she's finished trying her next number. It's new. First time we've tried it out together. I'm afraid it will upset her to talk to you before she does it."

"Why should it upset her to talk to me?" asked Carroll.

"Oh, the old cliché. Temperament. It may put her out of the mood."

"Oh, all right," from Carroll. He looked irritably at his watch. "I don't like swiving in the morning. It's like drinking rum before noon."

Pendleton smiled. "Thanks. I appreciate your waiting. You see this song is a little thing I wrote last night. Sue ran over it earlier with me. I've just given the score to the boys. It won't be smooth yet. But I'm anxious to try it while it's hot from the heart."

Pendleton went up to the stage. "Now, boys, that new score I gave you. I think you'll find it easy to read. Never mind the arrangement now. Just stick to the melody. Sue, take it slowly. Let it melt. And remember you're singing a love song, not shouting an extra. Ready?"

Pendleton looked down at us. "It's called 'Haunting My Heart'."

The Play Boys warmed up to the melody as Pendleton carried them along with his horn. They were cuddling it sweet and cozy. Sue began to sing, her low husky notes, pulsating with passion.

So Pendleton had written this song last night. After Miranda's burial. It was a form of escape. Musicians could translate their feelings into melody, artists into color, poets into lyrics. If you were a swing leader like Pendleton, you transferred it into notes, pulsating with passion.

Something hot and haunting. Something like this torrid tune that Sue Manchester was pouring out. If you had an inflated ego like Pendleton's, you couldn't carry a lonely torch. You had to be the whole election parade. Exploit your emotions. Collect on the royalties of the shattered dreams. What was the percentage of passion, if it didn't produce. Sue was producing all right.

Dead as yesterday's paper is our amorous lover—

Still you're haunting my heart

Dull as last week's divorce

Or a retired race horse—

Still you're haunting my heart.

I sought satiety

In swift variety

From automaton tray-girls

To Park Avenue play-girls

One anti-macassar from Vassar

Found my passion didn't barass her—

Still you're haunting my heart.

You're the ivy on my ruin

Why did I ever let you in?

I'm your unwilling host

But if I lay your ghost

Won't you stop haunting my heart?

Well, it didn't make sense so it was bound to make money.

Spontaneously the Play boys shouted their approval.

"You've got another smash on your hands, Jock! Man, it's a mowing machine! It will lay 'em out and embalm 'em! When are we going to wax it, Jock?"

Pendleton raised a hand for silence. "Maybe we can work it into something," he smiled. He looked down at us. "Got time for Sue to run over it again?"

Carroll shifted uneasily. "Yes. I'd like to hear those words again. You say you wrote it last night?"

Pendleton nodded. The Play

Original Grosse Pointer

Out of the family group are two Great Grandsons of Mrs. Cheira, Louis Charvat, a radar engineer in the Army Air Corps and Robert Charvat, a student at Michigan State College.

boys swung into the number again. Sue took the solo. She couldn't duplicate her feelings this time. She'd lost the drop-a-tear-in-this-slot technique. She had sensed that Carroll was waiting to speak to her. It put her on needles. She just fell back on a routine huskiness and let the song curl up and droop where it lay.

Pendleton got her mood. At the end of her solo, he patting her on the shoulder, whispered something to her and smiled encouragingly. She passed each pearl on the string through her fingers. She was counting them. Decisively, she put down the strand with a skeptical look at the phony emerald clasp.

On the stage Pendleton and the band went on plugging the song. Intrinsically, "Haunting My Heart" was a carry spouter. Some bands would tear the tune like palbearers, but Pendleton's band was carrying it on their shoulder now, with the hysteria of a football here being borne aloft off the field. We were caught in the rush of the rhythm, talking against its force.

Sue Manchester had both elbows propped on the table. She gave Carroll a long look. That the United States Steel Corporation should patent for melting iron.

"What is this—a very cross examination, Lieutenant?"

"Not very. I think you can be of some help to me."

Carroll had discarded the strong-arm-of-the-law manner. He was out to finesse a trick across the board. "I want to ask you a question and I want you to concentrate before answering."

"I'll try, Lieutenant," Sue leaned forward, confidentially. She was wearing a cuddly sweater, the same sooty black as her hair. It rippled over her breasts and did things to you. Things that made you want to pet it. I saw Carroll's knuckles were clenched white. I was one up on him, because he could only imagine what was beneath the sweater and I knew.

He took the string of phony pearls with its antique clasp of simulated emeralds out of a chamois bag and laid it on the table before Sue.

"Now," he said, "I want you to tell me where you've seen these pearls before."

I was waiting for her to say she'd seen them last night, but Carroll had told her to concentrate and the process seemed to involve some mental labor pains. She drew in her breath, took the pearls in her hands and stared at them. She passed each pearl on the string through her fingers. She was counting them. Decisively, she put down the strand with a skeptical look at the phony emerald clasp.

"I wouldn't know why, Lieutenant, but you're trying to trick me, she said."

"Me trick you?" from Carroll.

"Yes. You're trying to make me say, offhand, that I saw these pearls last night. As I say, I don't know what your game is, but I'm not going to play it."

"No. Because it so happens that I've never seen these pearls in my life before. These aren't the real pearls and you know it."

"Yes. I know it. But how do you know it?"

"Because I counted them."

Sue stopped. It was too late. She hadn't wanted to fall into Carroll's trap. She was going to be smart. She'd outsmarted herself.

"You know because you counted them," Carroll repeated. The real pearls were a one hundred and five count. This string is one hundred and three. Right?

"What's more, I knew the second I saw you counting them that you knew they were not the real pearls."

"But Lieutenant, I always count pearls."

"Not unless they're your own strand of pearls. It's an instinctive gesture of identification. A woman counts her own pearls when she takes them to a jeweler for repair, or watches the jeweler count them. Same thing when she puts them into a safety deposit vault. Usually, she's the only one who knows the exact count of her strand. You knew what the count of the real pearls should be."

"I tell you I never saw these pearls in my life before," Sue maintained desperately. "Don't you believe me?"

"It's possible. Perhaps you never did see this false string. The string you have seen and know the exact count of, is the string of pearls you saw last night at dinner. Those pearls were the ones Miranda Ames was wearing when she was murdered. Those were YOUR pearls!"

"My pearls?" she echoed.

"If they weren't your pearls, how in hell did you know there were one hundred and five of them?" Carroll shot at her.

Sue shrugged. Her voice was nonchalant now. "You win! Why should I try to lie about an innocent circumstance. They were pearls that Miranda was wearing when she was killed. But that doesn't matter. I killed her. I've been afraid that the police, in their masterful way, might put two and two together on their crooked adding machine and breed forty. I know; you won't do that, Lieutenant. You're human."

Carroll shook off the caress in her words. "How did your real pearls happen to be on Miranda?"

"It's so simply explained, I don't know why I didn't tell you before," she sighed. "I thought if I kept quiet you'd eventually find the pearls had nothing to do with the murder, and then I'd just ask you to give them back to me. You see, it was this way."

She took a timing drag on her cigarette. "Miranda came up to my room before dinner was served. She was sitting down at the dressing table, putting on a new make-up job."

Carroll was X-ray-eyeing Sue now. I thought this better be good, baby, because you're commuting between the frying pan and the fire.

"I'd told her," she went on,

"that she looked like a mermaid in that sea foam dress she was wearing. She said, 'Not really? But then pearls are indicated, aren't they?'"

"Well, my strand of pearls was lying on the dressing table before her. She tried them on with the sea green dress and liked the effect. She said, 'I've never seen such flattering phony pearls.' I didn't tell her they were real pearls, because she might not have wanted to borrow them."

Carroll listened with non-committal calm. "And that was the last you saw of them?"

"Yes, until last night, when you brought them to the dinner table. After the dance I was so tired, I didn't notice whether she was wearing them, I'd forgotten about them."

"Until last night, when you got a chance to substitute a copy of them and get your real pearls back? Where are they now?"

"Lieutenant, you must believe me. I didn't steal those pearls last night. Would I be telling you all this if I'd stolen them?"

"We'll let that ride," Carroll said, curiously. "Tell me where you happened to get a string of pearls appraised at fifty thousand dollars."

Sue's eyes were wide with injured innocence. "They were an heirloom in my family. They had a particularly warm place in my heart."

"And who was the original owner?" demanded Carroll.

"They belonged to my great-great-grandmother. It's quite a story. My family all loathed the pearls. You see, my father's side of the family was violently New England. Full of frightful females with improvised glands. Professional ladies. You know. They locked God up in a chilly, stiff white little church with a steeple and bored him with their wily worship."

"Well, my great-great-grandmother wasn't one of them. She's a suppressed legend in the family. The female fossils drove my great-great-grandfather to sea and he found her singing and dancing in a bistro in Buenos Aires."

"Sort of the Carmen Miranda of the nineties?" murmured Carroll.

"Exactly," agreed Sue. "Except that she was far more volatile from what I've gathered. A fiery wench with a penchant for pearls. One of her admirers—say he was an English admiral—tossed a cargo of pirates' jewels at her feet as if they were confetti."

She put her hand on Carroll's arm and favored him with a slow, uncensored smile. She was bending forward until the soft curves of her sweater over her pulsating breasts caressed his outstretched arm. Apparently the only difference between Sue and her great-great-grandmother was that she probably bit a Spanish dagger and Sue could chew razor blades without flinching.

"Just how did you get her pearls?" Carroll inquired.

"My family treated her just the way they're treating me. They had none of her, but they didn't mind taking her jewels when she was dead. They lived off the precious junk for years. That string of pearls with the antique emerald clasp is the last piece of her jewelry that's left. I'm sure it's worth more than fifty thousand dollars. It's mine by more than lineal right. She was just a stench wench to those

New Englanders. They tell me I'm like her. Well, I'm proud of her. I'm proud to be like her. I'm proud of the fire she left in my blood—"

"Along with her flair for being one of the fanciest liars I have ever listened to," finished Carroll.

Sue released his arm jerkily. "What was that you said?"

We're working toward the day when you can say:

Long Distance service is better than ever!

THE volume of Long Distance calls is even greater now than the average of the three war years—when calling reached record-breaking "peaks." Delays do occur, particularly along certain routes at certain hours. And you can help a lot by limiting your call to five minutes when the operator requests it.

But, the situation is "looking up." This year alone the Bell System is adding over 2,000,000 miles of Long Distance circuits, installing new switchboards, training thousands of new operators. This program will be pushed—and pushed hard—until you can honestly tell us: "Long Distance service is better than ever."

Meanwhile, we shall continue to need your help and understanding.

The factory to be started at Cali may service other countries in Latin America for plastic products such as appliance parts, molded containers, toys and the like.

"In Cali, a city of 130,000," says Mr. Pace, "there are only about 30 English-speaking families, therefore a knowledge of the native language, Spanish, is equally essential unless the visitor wishes to employ an interpreter. Anticipating this visit, I took up the study of Spanish last fall in evening adult classes at the Grosse Pointe high school and have advanced so much faster than I had expected that I feel that an interpreter will not be needed in any country I visit in South America, with the exception of Brazil, in which Portuguese is spoken."

"Grosse Pointe has developed a method of Spanish instruction possibly unequalled anywhere in the United States," states Mr. Pace. "Within a few weeks, starting last fall, I was given a course that for rapidity and thoroughness I believe could not be duplicated elsewhere and now I feel that I can go to South American countries and express myself adequately in their language, making my wants known and, to a lesser degree, understanding them."

"What appealed to me about the adult evening classes at Grosse Pointe was that I really began speaking simple Spanish during the first lesson. Then I was taught a brief, carefully se-

MASON SCHOOL

At Mason school the chief topic of conversation is the Council, which has recently been organized. Each room has two representatives to the Council and meetings are held weekly with R. Harwood and H. Seymour, teacher leaders. The minutes of the meetings are dictated and sent to all rooms for discussion. The Council early decided that quiet, clean halls were desirable so all are making an effort to talk in quiet voices, to always walk in the halls, and to keep things picked up. This week each room has an airplane on which is written the teachers name, and all are trying to see how high their airplane can fly. The height to which the airplane can go depends upon the cooperation of the group in the halls.

Large groups may be seen gathered around the location of the airway to view their planes' progress.

Council representatives, according to teacher and grade, are as follows:

Kdg. — Mrs. O'Reilly, Gary Gathen, Pat Murphy; Kdg. — Miss Swett, Joe Stanbery, Beverly Robinson; Kdg. — Miss Gungley, Sharon McEachern, Suzanne Nipper; 1B — Miss Johnston, Beverly Hall, Jimmy Kelly; 1B — Miss Lancaster, Tommy Mason, Marsha Hill; 1A — Miss Sagala, Carol Easton, Dick Zuelke; 1A — Mrs. Harwood, Gary Near, Judy Kloor; 1A — Miss Pangburn, Ruth Ann Schmitt, Ronald Rehahn; 2B — Miss Brownell, Karen Duell, Donald McLeod; 2B — Miss Woverton, Lois Van Allman, David Jackson; 2A — Miss Brody, Miriam Rautio, Billy Wachter; 2A — Miss Hall, Allie Rowe, Donald McKee; 2A — Miss Colgan, Lynn Matzen, Carol O'Neill; 2A — Mrs. Holtzman, Elaine Knope, Gerald Frank; 3B — Miss Lawrence, Sue Paxton, Raymond Beveridge; 3B — Mrs. Cassidy, Sharon Zimmerman, Jack Pender; 3A — Mrs. Messner, Thelma Muirhead, Jimmy McMillan; 3A — Miss Ervin, Roger Duerksen, Carol Roland; 4B — Miss Gustafson, Ann Lange; 4B — Mrs. Cleverdon, Jeanette Cameron, Raymond Putnam; 4A — Miss Evanson, Janet Carley, Ronald Taylor; 3A-4B — Miss Seymour, Joanne North, Harry Duros.

The fourth grades at Mason school have organized four clubs: Boys' Patrol, Girls' Service, Natural Science, and Handicraft. The purpose of the Boys' Patrol is to provide a greater measure of safety for the student body while crossing streets at or near the school, to develop an awareness and recognition of traffic hazards, and to create proper attitudes and habits of safety. The officers are: Captain, Raymond Putnam, and Lieutenant, Marvin Gragg.

The Girls' Service is to help provide training in safety within the building, and to be of service whenever needed. The officers are: Captain, Merwyn Keys, and Lieutenant, Joan Marks. The Handicraft and Science Clubs are developing special interests and hobbies for leisure time activities.

RICHARD SCHOOL NEWS
Late in the fall of this year an observation beehive became a part of the regular school life of the 2B class of Richard School in Grosse Pointe, under the guidance of Anita Howarth.

During the first weeks the bees were busy moving the honey from the upper honey frame to the lower frame. This honey was made by another group of bees. The observation group thought they had discovered a new source of food and were moving it into their own cells for their own use.

As the weather became colder there was little activity in the hive. The bees clustered together and the heat from their bodies warmed the glass.

In December the bee advisor, Mr. Stack, was consulted to see if the hive contained enough food to keep the bees through the winter. We had tried to feed them sugar and a sugar solution but the bees refused to eat. Mr. Stack assured us our honey would last and that the bees might eat our substitute foods in February or March after their food was gone.

During the winter's warmer days the worker bees can be seen carrying out the dead bees that are lying at the base of the case. We have watched bees ventilating the case by fanning their wings for long periods of time. We have seen bees doing their strange "jigs" and stamping about the edges of a honey cell. We have watched the queen and noticed how protected she is by a group of worker bees. With warmer days ahead we are looking forward to the busy life of collecting pollen, making honey, watching egg cells hatch, and the growth of a new family of bees.

This study has made us realize how interesting and intelligent honey bees really are. If it were not for the honey bees, we should have to go without many fruits and vegetables. Honey bees help the farmer and all of us. They are the only insects that make any contribution to the food of man.

VERNIER SCHOOLS NEWS
The Girls and Boys of Vernier School are all working hard for the Junior Red Cross drive. They have made plans for a movie to be shown at the school.

Mrs. Alice Sheaffer, the Grosse Pointe Junior Red Cross coordinator, is planning on visiting Vernier.

The following have been chosen to be grade representatives: Kindergarten, Sharron Janals; First grade, Richard Mertz; Second grade, Kenneth McDonald; Third grade, Barbara Marco; Fourth grade, Stuart Smith; Fifth grade, Mary Roll and Richard Mason.

PIERCE SCHOOL NEWS
Open House at Pierce Junior High School, to be held in the evening on March 8, will feature an art exhibit under the direction of Janette Gray and Esther Dixon Meldrum.

Several student workshop groups will highlight the exhibit. One of these groups will work on block prints for the school publication, Inklings. The English, Art and Printing departments produce Inklings as an integrated project.

Another room will present a model posed in costume for student artists interested in life-sketching.

In addition, the exhibit will demonstrate actual classroom use of the delineascope and the sound project to show that art is found in several activities of the student's day.

Dartmouth Proxy Speaks At Detroit Club Banquet

Guest speaker at the Dartmouth Club of Detroit's 51st annual banquet on March 20 at the Hotel Statler will be President John S. Dickey of the class of '29. President Dickey will be accompanied by Albert J. Dickerson, '30, Executive officer of the College.

The banquet will be preceded by the election of officers for the coming year.

City Budget for 1946 Calls for Increase

The budget requests of the department heads of Grosse Pointe City presented to the Council Monday night call for $398,359.89. This represents an increase over the present year's budget of about $38,000. The increased requests are due chiefly to the item of $25,000 for employees' pension fund. There are also numerous requests for increase in materials and salaries.

BAD BREAK
Mrs. Frank Edmison, of 990 Nottingham, slipped on the ice in front of her home Friday morning and broke her ankle. At her own request she was taken to the Cottage Hospital.

Village of Grosse Pointe Farms

ELECTION MONDAY, MARCH 11

☒ HOWARD J. TOLL

431 Touraine. Resident of Grosse Pointe Farms for seven years. Graduate College of Law, Wayne University. Industrial personnel and Labor Relations Director.

Personnel problems including wages, promotions, vacations, pensions and unionization of municipal employees in the Police, Fire, Highway and other departments are presented to the Village Council for discussion and solution. Mr. Toll's 15 years' experience in this field with the Chrysler Motor Company and Detroit Vocational Bureau would be valuable both to the Village Council and to municipal employees.

☒ IRVING T. WINKLER

258 Merriweather. Resident of Grosse Pointe Farms for six years. Graduate Detroit Institute of Technology, Architect, Engineer and Construction Contractor.

Mr. Winkler's work as chairman of the Citizens Zoning Committee, appointed by the Village Council, proves his interest in good government and his willingness to serve the best interests of Village residents. As a Village Trustee, Mr. Winkler's 25 years' experience in construction and engineering work would be extremely valuable in future planning and construction programs.

☒ LOREN H. NOLL

462 Madison. Resident of Grosse Pointe Farms for 14 years.

Mr. Noll is well known for his long and active interest in Village affairs. In past years he has contributed much time and energy serving on committees appointed to provide additional Village recreational facilities, enforce building restrictions and provide adequate zoning regulations. Mr. Noll's business experience and knowledge of Village affairs recommends him to serve as Trustee on the Village Council.

Each of these candidates for the office of Trustee is well qualified by individual ability and experience to serve this community well. Each has stated his intention if elected to give all time necessary to fully serve the best interests of all residents of Grosse Pointe Farms.

Good Pointes and Bad

by
RAY HENRY

Westward Ho!

ON TUESDAY, the HAROLD ALLORS, of Oak Street, rolled westward in their newly remodeled school-bus home toward Tucson, Arizona, where future happiness and new ventures await them.

The bus was purchased in lieu of a trailer, and Harold put enough elbow grease and ingenuity into it to create all of the comforts of home. His wife, CATHERINE, furnished the interior like a little cottage, curtained and combed with parlor, bedroom and thundering plumbing. There is plenty of room in the big bus for the two gay and excited, young daughters, PATRICIA and SUSAN.

A subscription party, honoring Harold, was organized by HAROLD (GRAMPS) QUINLAN and JACK BEATTY, both of Brys Drive . . . to properly bid adieu and give him good reason to remember the Pointe. The young couple left many friends behind. And relatives. Don't count now, but the ALLORS and the ALLARDS add up to quite a few.

At the party, Harold and guests had fun. The penny ante table featured seasoned players GILES REAUME, JACK LEISINGER, PAUL CROOK, HAROLD CAMPBELL, BUD HANSEN, WALTER ZIMMERMAN and TEX HOYT. Skillful dart throwers were GENE WOODARD, MAL BEATTY, PHIL and DOUG ALLOR, and CARL HAGERMAN. Eucere sessions included JOHN RABAUT, AB CROOKS, SID ALLOR, CARL COMMERSON, JIM FURTON, HARRY DAMM and the lucky hosts. Most popular pastime centered around a curious contraption that looked like a bicycle pump hooked onto a barrel. And everyone crowded the buffet table spread with supper specials by MRS. BEATTY and MRS. QUINLAN—and we'd enjoy a side order of the potato salad right now.

Presentation of a war bond topped off the occasion, and we imagine farewells and best wishes are still ringing in Harold's ears—to the tune of the big motor—as he drives Catherine and the children toward their new home.

Carbon Copies
ALTHOUGH YOU don't always agree who looks like who, we know a few persons we think you'll agree look like each other. Hudson's famous RICHARD WEBBER looks like EZRA LOCKWOOD, of Ridge Road. Ezra is often greeted with, "How do you do, Mr. Webber." Art dealer JOSEPH DEGRIMME looks like suave, maestro XAVIER CUGAT . . . Miss PETIE WOOD glanced at the next table, and exclaimed, "There's LYNN BARRI!" It wasn't—it was MRS. WILLIAM FARR, of Merriweather Road. Virginia looks enough like the beautiful Lynn to be her stand-in . . . COMMANDER BRODHEAD's son DICK, now on vacation with C. A. Dean III, in California, looks like FREDDY BARTHOLOMEW. Dick, when reminded of the resemblance, never acts enthusiastic . . . JIMMY HARRIS, of Roosevelt, was stopped on the Country Club golf course by a charming gal who thought she was talking to BENSON FORD. It was alright with Jimmy. Actually, Benson is heavier than Jimmy, but they do look alike . . . Two very charming look-alikes are MRS. VINCENT DEPETRIS, of Hampton Road, and MRS. AL J. MEYER, of Bishop . . . BYRON SCOTT looks and acts like VINCENT PRICE who plays the lead in "Dragonwyck." . . . JIMMY ANGELO, of Calvin, is a carbon copy of ex-Mayor LaGUARDIA of New York. Pals call Jimmy, Mayor . . . Nope, I can't think of anyone in the Pointe that looks like VAN JOHNSON.

One Thing and Another

NEIL McEACHIN, of Hilcrest, who is on the ballot for Farms trustee in the coming election on March 11, has made his home in the Farms since 1927 and is the daddy of six children. Oldest is Beverly, star basketball player at St. Paul's, and youngest is Gail, too tiny to make her mark, only four months old. . . . Pretty KATHERINE KOLOVITCH, of Neff Road, can pilot a plane—does a lot of flying, and school teaches on the side. Daddy will soon buy Katherine her own plane . . . The Stork Club has four new members out this way. The TRAVEL PELKEYS, of Berkshire, have a baby boy. They named him TRAVEL, but will call him "T.J." . . . It's a boy at the COLTON PARKS. He's number three, and his name is JOHN GUSTAV . . . The RALPH SCHULTZ, of Three Mile, have a brand new boy. His dad, just out of the Navy, named him RODNEY . . . The TRAVEL SMITH's new baby is still unnamed . . . Bachelor ROBERT H. TANNA-

HILL is building a new ranch type home on Lee Gate . . . Since navy release, GENE WOODARD and the MRS. are living with her parents, the PAUL ZOMBOS. Gene will study engineering at U. of D., and LAVINA will continue her work at the Grosse Pointe Bank . . . The big cave-in on the new building project at St. Clair and Kercheval was due to the week-end's Spring thaw.

Men's Club Hold- Hard Times Party

The Men's Club of the Grosse Pointe Congregational Church will give a Hard Times Party and Dance Saturday evening, March 9th, at the Neighborhood Club. Members of the church and their friends are invited.

Popular dance music by a four-piece orchestra will be supplemented with square dancing, with the calling to be done by Mr. and Mrs. Brennan who were so well received at a similar affair last year.

A feature of the evening will be the judging of costumes, with prizes to be awarded for the best couple, the best man, and the best woman. The judges are to be Frederick Slocum, Mrs. J. Stanley Richardson and Clinton Barry.

The committee in charge of the party is headed by co-chairmen Clare Sober and Elvin Hoffman, and includes Lawrence Westerdale, Lawrence C. Pace, S. M. Huestis, Paul L. Kolvoord, Herbert W. Lester, O. L. Wigton, William Drysdale, Walter Frizell, Karl Schaltenbrand, James C. Bolles and John A. Bell.

Hold Big Party For Octogenarian

Eighty-two candles gleamed on J. J. Jerome's birthday cake Sunday as his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Paul F. Jerome, of Bedford road, entertained at dinner in the Lochmoor Country Club in his honor.

On hand with birthday wishes were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Netting with their daughters, Marcia and Cynthia; William Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Mayer, Mrs. George J. Brett and Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Jerome with their children, Richard, Dorothy and Marilyn.
