Woods Residents Clean Up Their New Park

MORE THAN 100 REAL WORKERS turned out Sunday afternoon for the Community Bee staged by the Woods Council and Civic League to start the work of cleaning up the village's newly acquired beach park, a portion of the Edsel Ford estate. Weeds were mowed and burned, rocks were cleared from the waterfront, brush was cut and shrubs trimmed. A continuation of the Bee will be held this Sunday from 1 to 6 p.m. and all residents are urged to be on hand with their tools to help with the many chores that have to be done.

Board of Education Begg For Homes for Teachers' And Employes' Families

Housing Imperatively Needed Despite Intensive Advertising Campaign Which Found Rooms for All Single Teachers

In spite of an intensive advertising campaign all summer the Board of Education reports that housing is still imperatively needed for some of its employees. The Board expresses its appreciation for the large number of rooms listed for rent by the community, which made it possible to house all its single teachers. However, a critical need still exists for houses, flats, or apartments for employes with families.

Three men teachers, two of them veterans, with children have been forced to take temporary rooms, leaving their families with relatives. Two women teachers and their veteran husbands are living in rooms. Two women teachers and their mothers are living in rooms in different houses. One office employe and her mother, and another with a nine-year-old daughter, are in desperate need of any kind of housing.

These are all well-trained and valuable employes and the Board is appealing to the public for assistance in solving the problem. You are urged to call the Grosse Pointe Board of Education, Niagara 2000, if you hear of any possible vacancies.

Election-Mad Pointe Breaks All Registration Records

The Pointe has gone election-mad in the opinion of the clerks of the various villages and the city. All records for registrations were swept away as the deadline approached on Wednesday. Staffs were so swamped they could give no figures, and will be able to give none until the smoke has cleared away.

Carl Schweikart, supervisor of the township, said: "This has all the Presidential elections I've been through beaten 100 ways. They are swarming in here insisting on getting invalids and blind people registered."

The township has hired extra help in all the village offices and supplies have had to be replenished time and again.

Harry Furlon, clerk of the Farms said there were almost 300 brand new registrations on Tues-

Canine Teeth Put Into Law

A dog has absolutely no respect for law and order. This was proved on Monday, October 14.

Mrs. Max Kroeyr, 268 Grosse Pointe blvd., reported to the Farms Police that a small, white dog, owned by Stanley Thompson, 126 Kerby lane, had bitten her 6-year-old son Michael on the hand while he was playing in the rear of the Kerby school. Patrolman Yacks and Roberts were detailed to pick up the canine.

Arriving on the scene they endeavored to follow orders. Patrolman Yacks attempted to seize the animal and with a snarl of disrespect and complete ignorance of the blue uniform and silver badge, the mongrel bit the officer.

Enthusiastic Group Works On New Park

Woods' Lake Front Property Shows Promise of Being Best in Pointe

Residents of Grosse Pointe Woods who turned out last Sunday for the Community Bee at the newly acquired lake front park site, discovered that the village has become the possessor of what may prove to be the best waterfront park in the whole Pointe community.

The entire tract of more than 43 acres was overgrown with weeds and it was difficult to tell much about the general topography of the land before these were cleared off and burned. It was found the area is generally very level, and when plowing, discing and seeding are done next spring, broad, level lawns are expected to transform the tract into a place of great beauty.

More than 500 residents of the Woods inspected the site Sunday for the first time. There were more than 100 who appeared in work clothes and with tools to take part in the many chores that had to be done. A large portion of the rocky shore line was also cleared, affording a clear channel for skaters during the coming winter.

A site is being selected for the temporary structure which will afford shelter for winter sports enthusiasts. The Bee will be continued this Sunday and all residents are asked to report for work on the project.

Thomas Loughlin, of Oak street, Grosse Pointe Farms, superintendent of the Edsel Ford estate, of which the tract was formerly a part, was on hand Sunday watching the workers. He expressed the opinion that the site can easily be transformed into one of the best parks in the Pointe.

Heavenly Show Seen in Pointe

On October 9 there occurred what scientists termed, "the most brilliant display of raining meteors seen in America this century," and while Detroiters missed most of the display due to haze, clouds, and streetlights, Grosse Pointe was afforded a fairly good view of the phenomena.

Pointers took to their yards and streets echoed with "oh's" and "ah's" of wonderment as the rare spectacle in the sky unfolded.

Mrs. Gordon Miller, of Hollywood avenue, reported sighting 165 shooting stars over a 15-minute period. A number of residents, especially students, went to the High School campus, where they had an unrestricted view of the sky as the meteors filled the night with heavenly fireworks.

Students Chased By Martial Crow

A large crowd was spied early one recent morning making like a fighter plane over the heads of the children on their way to the Trombly school. The black bird would swoop down to within four feet of the students' heads and would then swoom off, cawing his battle cry.

Russell Ruth, 811 Beaconsfield, who saw the unusual incident, notified the Park police, and they immediately dispatched Sgt. Frank J. Snay to the scene. The sharpshooting sergeant fired two shots at the crow and scored two direct hits.

Council of Veteran Affairs Cites Need For Time Extension

Greatly Increased Use of Facilities Prompts Request for Funds to Continue Operations Until March 15

Greatly increased use by veterans of the Grosse Pointe Council of Veterans Affairs, and permission granted by the owners of the property on which the quonset hut headquarters of the council are located, to remain there for a longer period, have led that organization to request the various Pointe communities to provide funds which would enable the council to continue to operate in its present location until March 15, 1947.

Previous plans called for closing the quarters and terminating the services for the veterans as of November 1, when it was believed it would be necessary to remove the hut from the property. The owners have now indicated their plans for building have been postponed and state the council may remain until next March if it so desires.

A canvass of services performed at the council headquarters shows that during the past two months, veterans have been making greatly increased use of the council. During the six weeks' period from August 10 to September 25, the counselors have assisted 783 veterans in one form of service or another. This contrasts with 223 veterans served in the six weeks' period from June 22 to August 10.

Of these 783 there were 718 veterans who were first-time callers and 75 repeat calls. Many of these calls were for assistance in applying for Terminal Leave Payments, but it is stated there is increasing use of the council for other services.

Letters have been sent out by Dr. Paul L. Essert and Mrs. Alger Sheldon, co-chairmen of the council, to Grosse Pointe Park, Farms, Woods, Shores and Gratiot Township, apprising them of the changes and asking that appropriations be granted to enable the council to continue its program until March 15 next.

A budget of $2800 has been established for this extended period and it has been pro-rated as follows: Park, $1051.22; Farms, $974.19; Woods, $379.49; Shores, $273.91; Gratiot Township, $121.19.

Farms Police Right in Season

The Farms Police are called on for the strangest things. On Tuesday, October 15, Patrolmen Camiel D'Haveleoose and Peter LaPonsa were detailed to investigate a "mysterious grey animal," furiously pawing in the yard, and running about dangerously.

The officers sped to the scene and disposed of the "mysterious grey animal," an opossum.

And on Monday, October 7, Patrolmen Harold Beaupre and Vernon Sylvester were called on to dispose of an injured "Bugs Bunny" lying helplessly on the lawn of 33 Elm Court.

Bids Reveal Drastic Jump In Costs

First Section of Vernier-Mack Structure Will Contain 18 Classrooms

At a special meeting of the Grosse Pointe Board of Education on October 10 at 8 o'clock p. m., bids for the 18-room section of the new Vernier School were received and opened by a committee of the Board consisting of Secretary Ralph M. Clark and Treasurer Charles A. Poupard. Representatives of contracting firms were present.

Three types of bids were opened—one for the general architectural contract; one for mechanical, including heating, plumbing and ventilation; and one for electrical.

Six architectural bids were received, ranging from $349,850 down to $279,770.

Only three mechanical bids were received, and these varied from a high of $193,665 to a low of $99,800.

There were seven electrical bids and these ranged from a high of $35,620 to a low of $28,685.

Following the receipt and reading of the bids, President of the Board of Education Charles A. Parcels, joined the meeting and the bids were referred for analysis and a report at an early date in the future to a committee consisting of the architect, Giffels and Vallet, Inc., Mr. Ralph M. Clark, Secretary of the Board of Education, the Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Paul L. Essert and Director of Administrative Services, Mr. J. Harold Husband. This committee will report to the Board at a special meeting this week.

Certified checks to the amount of $1,000 were deposited by each bidder, to be refunded in case his bid is not successful.

The section for which bids were received is to be part of the new Mack-Vernier combination elementary-junior high school. This section is all the School Board is allowed to build at this time, by the CPA. Eventually the structure will have 30 rooms, an auditorium and gymnasium.

A study of the bids and figures for other school buildings erected in the Pointe in the past reveals the tremendously increased costs of building. The bids show that the cheapest figure for which this 18-room section can now be built is $408,265. The highest bids total $489,135. This figures out at $1.05 per cubic foot.

The Pierce Junior High School, the last complete school structure to be built in the Pointe, was erected in 1939. It cost between 38 and 40 cents per cubic foot, or $715,140 for the 32 classroom building with auditorium and gymnasium and library.

The club is interested in obtaining a new plane if the membership continues to grow as it has in the past. It is also seeking students with C. F. I. ratings to instruct the members.

Fred Gamber Hit By Passing Car

At a special meeting of the Board of Education on October 14, following appraisal and study of the bids submitted by contractors on October 10, bids were accepted for the construction of the 18-room section of the combination elementary-junior high school building at Vernier and Mack.

At the meeting of the Board in which this decision was made, a member of the firm of Giffels and Vaillet, Inc., architects for the building, made a careful analysis of all bids that had been submitted and a committee of the Board also made an appraisal and analysis of the bids and both came to the conclusion that considering the time and prevailing prices that the low bids submitted were the best that could be done.

The only other alternative left to the Board was to re-submit part or all of the bids and to re-advertise. This would delay the start of construction at least three or four and possibly six weeks with no assurance that new bids would not be even higher.

The successful bidders to whom contracts will be awarded are as follows: Architectural Trades—Henry M. Martens Co., $278,770; Mechanical Work—L. L. McConachie Co., $99,800; Electrical Work—Gray Electric Co., $28,885. This gave a total low bid figure for the 18-classroom section of $407,455.

The architect was authorized to give formal notice of the above awards to the awardee; and the Secretary and President of the Board of Education were authorized to sign contracts.

A great deal of thought and debate was given by the Board before taking this step to the question of what the future held for the building industry. It was recognized that there are possibilities that during the next six to twelve months cost of building may go up, or may possibly go down, but the need for this particular section of elementary classrooms was so great and would be even greater by the time the building is completed that it was felt that the Board should proceed. It is possible that the remaining sections of the complete building to be built may have the advantage of lower prices.

The cost of the building is to be financed from the three and a half mills voted by the taxpayers at the March, 1946 election. It is expected that work will start on the building within the next few days, possibly before the first of November.

Quite Contrary

by mary madison

Our Text today, Girls and Boys, is Football Pads and Ballet Bustles. If we can lay our mitts on these bits of young bravado, we shall send an extra set to the Messrs. Eugene O'Neill, in care of The Theatre Guild, and Brooks Atkinson, in care of the Drama Department of the New York Times. Not as a fancy dress ball tip, but as prizes for their trophy rooms to hang up with the tiger skins and sea lions.

A paradoxical presentation perhaps, but if you follow us down the dark alleys of their labyrinthine minds, you'll see what we mean.

It was when Eugene O'Neill came to New York for rehearsals of his new play, THE ICE-MAN COMETH, that he told a group of us newspaper people (of all people), that he was no longer reading the newspapers. If America couldn't learn the lesson of Brotherly Love, he thought America was finished. Now before it leaps to your lips that it could be Mr. O'Neill who is finished, remember that he is still one of our guaranteed geniuses with the fire still burning—even if it does burn you up.

Now, Eugene O'Neill can and does practice Brotherly Love, so that the pals of his waterfront days (the characters in his new saloon masterpiece) may still buzz his Madison Ave. penthouse and get into his SALON as easy as into a saloon. Their philosophy, he says, is that there's always one more dream in the bottom of the bottle—and wryly adds: "I know, because I saw it."

On the heels of Mr. O'Neill's decision that no news was good news for him, up spoke that severest friend and best critic of our drama, Brooks Atkinson. Musing on the revival of THE FRONT PAGE, he reflected that no one could write such a downright funny play today, the reason being that the Front Pages were no longer the Funny Pages. And the antic authors of that hit are occupied with more morbid matters, especially Ben Hecht who is shedding his last drop of ink on poignant propaganda for Palestine. They are not in the mood to be The Middle Aged Man on the Flying Trapeze.

NOW, AFTER THESE two dictums from the mentors of our lost generation, we gave up reading the Front Pages. Quit cold. And, if you think it's easy, ostriching your way down Woodward Avenue with the siren voices peddling the stuff, try total abstinence yourself. Just one little headline won't hurt, you say, but one headline leads to another and the next thing you know you're gassed to the gills with news booze.

After a week, we felt like Miss Information of 1946, living in a vacant little fool's paradise of our own. Befuddled as a blind date—but happy as a butcher's dog. People began giving us that look. It was obvious that a cross section of the public—and a very cross section at that—began to wish they had enough pull to get us a reservation in some plush Snake Pit.

Heavens knows how long we might have lolled in this fool's paradise of isolation, had we not been rescued by two blithe members of the unsung young generation. The first of the rescue party came in the form of a midnight phone call from the Junior Genius. The objective: Football Pads for the knees and shoulders. It was a matter of life and death—his life and our death if we didn't turn up with them. Okay, okay, okay, pet—but how are you feeling? Says he, "If I felt any better, I'd be dangerous, dear!"

Were they, the Junior Geniuses, harrowed by the fear that they might have to turn in their football armour on battle jackets? Were they jumping like a news ticker over world upheavals? Not THEY!

The morning after the midnight Paul Reverse Charge, in ankles Sally-of-the-Ballet in our alley. Sally, of the dancing eyes and legs, was on the prowl for Ballet Bustles. Was she worrying about the danger of being changed by some evil spirit into an ugly duckling of disaster, like the Princess in some very Grimm Fairy Tale? Not SHE! All she wanted was the chance to dance—and be young once. Once is enough.

Closing her eyes, we could see the ballet bustles merging with those football pads. If THEY weren't worried about their world why should we be beating our brains out? We—and the Messrs. O'Neill and Atkinson and the rest of the Wailing Wallflowerers? When we picked up this morning's newspaper, it might have been printed in Sanskrit for all it bothers us now. The lost generation has been found and found out!

SO WE'VE STOPPED gambling for high stakes and gone on the prowl for football pads and ballet bustles. If and when we find them, the duplicate set goes to the Messrs. O'Neill and Atkinson. Just as a reminder that middle-aged thinking can sometimes be muddle-aged thinking. Ah Youth! Ah Love! Ah Nuts! Where ARE those football pads and ballet bustles in dear old F. O. B. (Full of Birds) Detroit?

OVER TWENTY ONE—AND PROVE IT, PET!

UNDER THE HEAD of Wishful Drinking, comes word to us from Boston that the new Helen Hayes play, HAPPY BIRTHDAY, turns out to be the one about Addie Bemis, the lady librarian lush (or lush lady librarian)—the one Helen and her husband were considering while in Detroit last. This is a Saloon Saga in three acts. The dear old Boston Tea Bags, it seems, now feel they paid for seats as hot as electric chairs in the Shubert Theatre, from the voltage of shock they felt at seeing a First Lady of the Theatre doing an apache dance in her big solo drunk scene.)

Report on our
YEAR-OLD FUR PRICE POLICY

Saks Fifth Avenue

EXECUTIVE OFFICES
SECOND AND LORENSON
DETROIT 1, MICHIGAN

September 1946

Dear Mrs. Talbert:

About a year ago we wrote you that we were planning to manufacture most of our own finer furs in direct competition with the wholesale market. Our policy enabled you to buy the finest furs at prices as low ... quality for quality ... as those offered direct to the public by any wholesale furrier in the country.

The vast collective purchasing power of our six stores put the world's finest sources of pelts and the finest designing talent at our command. The choice pelts we bought, at remarkably low prices, were exclusively designed and worked to our exacting specifications in our own workrooms. And we advised our customers to have furs made to their order at no increased cost, since even our ready-to-wear models must be handled singly. We priced our furs at our manufacturing level ... with no additional profits.

As a result of the unprecedented customer response to this competitive policy, we have more than doubled our skin purchases for the coming season, and enlarged our workrooms tremendously to meet the demands of our customers.

Now is the time to order your furs, while the selection of skins is large and you are assured of delivery for early Fall. We will be proud to show you our truly handsome Fall 1946 collection, designed by Sophie and her staff, at any time ... whether or not you are now interested in purchasing furs. We are sincerely convinced that the beauty and quality of the models, and the fact that you pay no more, make Saks Fifth Avenue furs a truly exceptional value.

Sincerely,

J. R. Johnson

Rebirth of Faith

A leisurely auto trip through the southern Wisconsin and upper Iowa territory at this time is a heartening experience for any anxiety-ridden or oppressed American.

The tightening of the spirit comes equally with the visible evidence of abundance and wellbeing and the sanity and common sense exhibited in the speech of the people.

There are no social jitters out here—juvenile delinquency is a phrase that has not yet been incorporated in the local vocabulary; Communism is just another one of those crackpot "isms." The business talk revolves almost wholly around foodstuffs. They are not deeply interested in the synthetic kind of social security that has been dished up by the social welfare highbrows—they have the pure quill themselves.

No bucolic dillards are these folks. They are remarkably well informed. Their vision roams far beyond their own grain, fields and cattle pens. They view the constant world panorama with minds undistorted by hectic local surroundings.

Nothing is more revealing of the substantial quality of life in this favored land than the kind of news that comes over the car radio as one drives through the countryside. The little 50-watt and 500-watt local broadcasting stations pour in their constant flow of news. Instead of 10,000 men out of work in a Detroit automobile plant because of a strike in some parts manufacturing concern, the 4H Club in the neighboring village or township is having a competitive live stock exhibit.

A thousand coal miners in some eastern mine may be on strike because some miner showed up at the pit that morning minus his Union button, but instead we learn the citizens of the neighboring village or small city are holding a mass meeting this evening to consider the new wing for the public library.

When we pull up at a cross roads to ask advice as to route, the information is clear, prompt and kindly, whether it comes from Oley Olson or Ivan Rossouskey or Henry Smith whose "great grandfather came out here before the Civil War" as a little wayside chat develops.

And it's all like a balm to the harried soul. We inhale something of the spirit of the American, (we think it was Garfield), who stood on the steps of the old Fifth Avenue Hotel in New York City during the draft riots in July 1863 and proclaimed to the mob, "God reigns and the Government at Washington still lives."

When we pull up at a cross roads and bewilderment in which we now wallow, the reassuring conviction is borne home to us that the heart of America beats true, forcing the blood stream of our inherent spirit and virtues into the far veins and arteries of our national life.

And the wayfarer in this favored land recalls another prediction out of our past when Richardson, the famous traveling correspondent of the old New York Tribune, wrote to the people back east, that "the Great West is to rule us."

Where virtue lies, there is strength and the impression on the transient visitor is deep that this rich land and these fine people constitute the firm foundation from which the current assaults on the American Way of Life will be successfully resisted, and on which the national edifice of greatness and wellbeing of which we have dreamed and for which we have planned, will surely be erected.

(Editor's Note:—Now on vacation, Mark K. Edgar, editorial writer of the News staff, sent back the above from Mason City, Iowa, after a motor trip through the country whose people he has described.)

Bomb Control

Mr. Truman says the atomic bomb is to stay in the United States. He means by this, we presume, that the processes of its manufacture are to remain with us as long as possible.

Most Americans will approve this. Unless and until Russia accedes to its complete and world wide control by recognized and satisfactory international authority, this country can do no less.

Russia's opposition to the Baruch plan seems to stem from her disinclination to permit anyone, even an international commission, to peer behind her iron curtain.

This clearly demonstrated disposition is a poor guarantee of faithfulness in her international covenants.

Meanwhile, we, with the whiphand at least for a time, can only mark time and hope that a shift to frankness and honest dealing will develop in her foreign policy.

British Solidarity

No recent incident more completely illustrates the genuineness of the democracy of Britain than the repeated rumors that Prince Eddie, the Duke of Windsor, may soon accept an important place in the Labor Government.

The situation is neither new nor strange in England. For all of her long established aristocratic moorings, the welfare of the England that will "always be" is the prime force that moves the marker up and down the political and social scale.

When Ramsey MacDonald took the premiership of the first labor government of Britain he quickly and easily adapted himself to the ways and trappings of court society, knee breeches and all. And Prince Eddie, who long since proved himself much more than the royal playboy, would as readily pull an honest, laboring oar in a labor government.

It is this capacity for adjustment which demonstrates the eternal quality of the British social and governmental system.

American Tonic

It is the American seasonal sequence in sports, covering practically the whole year's calendar, which offers the people that wholesome surcease from their personal anxieties which so largely keeps the American spirit on a healthy level. These sports are a tonic which makes a mighty contribution to both the physical and moral strength of our people.

As the baseball season, with its millions of followers, has come to its close, the football season is just getting under good headway. Then will come the indoor sports of basketball, bowling and winter sports in all their myriad forms.

Grosse Exaggerations

A. PRYOR

"To catch Dame Fortune's golden smile,
Assiduous wait upon her;
And gather gear by every wile
That's justified by honor:
Not for to hide it in a hedge,
Nor for a train-attendant;
But for the glorious privilege
Of being independent."

(Robert Burns)

If you're thinking of shipping any eggs out of town, airmail, better think about it twice. A local woman who owns a farm, was asked by some friends in Bermuda, if she would please ship them about 16 dozen eggs, airmail. Our farm heroine gathered together her eggs, wrapped each one with loving care and stowed them away in metal crates; then she piled the crates in her car and lugged them to the post office.

When she told the postman what they were and that she wanted them sent airmail he said, "I'm afraid you'll find that rather expensive." The little woman allowed as how that was all right and figured she'd pay the charges herself as a kind of Christmas present to her friends. The unhappy postal clerk took the crates weighed them, then returned to tell her it would be $45.00 !!

When she picked herself up off the floor, she gathered up her crates and started for the door. The clerk called to her that if she took them to the airport, she could probably send them air express MUCH cheaper. Sooooo she hied herself over to the airport clerk. Yes, they could ship them air express and it would cost about $12.00 . . . would Madam kindly fill out these forms . . . and he handed her nine large size forms! Feeling at that moment like KICKING the eggs as far as Bermuda, she nevertheless sighed.

"Very well. Where can I find a pencil?" "Oh," replied the clerk, "You'll have to type the answers in or fill them in in ink."

"Well, WHERE can I find the ink?" asked the harried housewife. "We don't keep that around here," sorried the man, "You'd better take them home and fill them in there, then bring them back." The last time the woman was seen, she was prancing up and down Lake Shore Road, frantically tearing pages from "The Egg and I" and scattering them to the winds.

A woman called to tell us we might be amused (and we are) at an incident that took place at her house recently when she and her husband gave a large cocktail party. As usual, the guests, (who are never expected to stay until midnight, but usually do) . . . began to thin out a wee bit around 11 p.m. The host, feeling this was a good time to ease the likker out of the room and thereby, the guests out of the house, began surreptitiously removing one bottle at a time . . . into the pantry. Finally, all the bottles had been put away and it looked as if the handful of die-hards would soon depart . . . when the host noticed one of the guests "sneaking" into the pantry. He didn't worry about it because he'd "locked" the likker up. However, time went on and on and the guest didn't come back into the room . . . so host went to investigate. What he found was his guest weaving before the stove where he was in the process of trying some eggs and bacon (the last piece of bacon left in the house) . . . and brewing himself some coffee!

Note to Husbands: After overhearing the following at one of the Clubs recently, thought we'd give you married gents the tip-off. Several tables at the Club made up the party of guests present to help celebrate one of the couples' anniversary. After the "toasting" was over, a man crossed over to the table where his wife sat, and asked, "Honey, when was our anniversary?" She told him it was August 6.

When he left the table, she turned to the man sitting next to her and said, "That burns me up. He NEVER knows." She then related to the man how she had bought a number of gifts for her husband on their last anniversary . . . but waited before presenting them . . . to see if HE remembered. When he didn't, she just put the gifts around the house, knowing he'd see them sooner or later and probably feel like a heel about it.

During the next few days, he did come across some of the things and would ask where they came from, how long they'd been there, etc. Finally, he came upon the piece-de-resistance gift, one she was sure he'd treasure. When he saw it he called to her, "Jane, where in h . . . did this thing come from?" She explained that she'd bought it . . . whereupon he asked what she'd paid for it. "That's MY business," she replied. "I bought it with my own money." The dear little man then put his foot in further by saying . . . "Well you probably paid too much for it! Anyway we've got a lot of these damned things around the house . . . why did you have to buy another?" HE STILL didn't know they were anniversary presents nor was he aware they'd had an anniversary.

Just about the time the woman finished telling her dinner partner about her gripe . . . the husband returned to the table and said, "I remember our anniversary now. We were in Mackinac and it was on a Friday." The little helpmeet gave him a withering glance and said, "Yeah . . . the thirteenth!"

FROM OUR LETTER BOX

Dear Pryor,
This is from the landscape architect who happens to work for the lovely lady described in your column under date of October 10. Since some parts of this incident are familiar to me and since the episode now weaves itself into a complete pattern, I will take this occasion to explain the circumstances under which the gardener's gardener stooped to so bumble a pastime as raking leaves.

It seems that the estate had become so shaded by large trees that plant life was gradually coming into a state of disabille, especially the lawn, which had become positively naked. Whereupon it was decided by all concerned that trimming should be done to restore the necessary light. After this the lawn was re-seeded and quickly showed signs of new life and hope for a bright green future.

About this time the landscape architect, taking note of the progress of the lawn, discovered certain spots where the seed had not come up. So he requested his gardener who was working on the place to re-seed the spots in question—and at once. To comply with this order it was necessary for the gardener, who is really the subject of this story, to rake the leaves from that section before applying the seed, an operation requiring perhaps forty-five minutes. So it must have been at this critical stage of the operation that madame, looking from her bedroom window, saw our hero engaged in this mundane pursuit and promptly acted accordingly, with the result, which I have just learned, that the additional seeding never was done, but which (since I am really devoted to my client) I will do tonight during the full of the moon.

Of course this is only incidental to the real point of the story, which was the curious fact that the gardener liked to rake leaves. As to that, it may be entirely true. I wouldn't know. I have known ladies who liked to rake, and men who scoured the world for antique vest buttons. Personally I like to gather lotus flowers at sunrise, and what could seem more quaint to most readers of the New Yorker and the Grosse Pointe News?

Yours, with or without philosophy,

Artiest.

Whether as participants or witnesses in bleachers and galleries who take their exercise vicariously, there is a wholesome concentration on fun which is the medicine which dispels the dour and gray outlook on life which obsesses so many less happy people throughout the world.

Girls we're a mess. Miss WANDA MEYERS of the Southern Railways says so. WANDA says women wipe lipstick on the upholstery, steal dining-car silver, grind out cigars on the fine carpets and ask the hostess to mind the baby for a minute and then make a dive for a three hour drink in the club car.

The New York Department stores are crying in their beads too. They would like to smack us but they can't do without us. They tell with great soft tears in their eyes about the tea sea returned showing signs of the party, of the wedding dress brought back the morning after the marriage. One woman brought in a very yellowed but unused shirt. She said oh yes she had bought it five years before but her husband died before he got around to wearing it and her new man needed a larger collar band. Another darling presented a hat she had had several months. She said it simply didn't do a thing for her and please take it back. Really ladies, let's try to improve.

It's nice to report that PAUL WHITEMAN, playing with his orchestra at the CAPITOL, and calling himself THE DEAN OF AMERICAN MUSIC, is accompanied by his son PAUL Jr., aged 21. Junior plays the drums. PAUL also has an adopted daughter. MRS. WHITEMAN told me an amusing story about the girl. Mrs. W. had seen a little girl of seven in Texas, whom she loved and wanted to adopt. When arrangements were completed she brought the child to New York. She was a serious child and MARGARET thought she would be less shy if she were left alone with PAUL for their first meeting. When the little girl came back to MARGARET's room, MARGARET said, "Well darling, what do you think of your new daddy?" In her soft Texas drawl, the WHITEMANS new daughter said, "Ah think Mr. PAUL got an awful big belly."

A QUEEN is on her way to visit us—QUEEN ELIZABETH, the world's largest ocean liner. She will arrive in New York on the 21st on her first all passenger voyage. In dry dock for seven months, she has been converted from a troopship to a luxury liner—the fastest, best equipped liner on the seas. Launched in 1938 she went right to war. She carried as much as a full division at a time. I saw her often in the war years, off the BATTERY, grey and grim and huge. Now she will carry 2314 passengers and 1200 crew. There was a measured 2 mile run in the CLYDE off SCOTLAND the other day. QUEEN ELIZABETH and the two PRINCESSES made the speed run.

MADELINE KUDNER gave a house warming at her new birdcage on East 62nd st. yesterday. Her guest of honor was HOWARD GREER, the man who dresses all those HOLLYWOOD dames and makes them look so divinely pushed up and tucked in. MADELINE'S house is what is known in the DEEP SOUTH as a shot gun shack—that is, from the front entrance you can see straight through the back door. It all opens up on a lush garden equipped with swimming pool, pale green floodlights and elegant trees. Pretty good for a NEW YORK backyard.

GREER was delightful and witty, and flying next morning to PARIS. THELMA, LADY FURNESS came in looking very pretty in a black ostrich feather hat, ILKA CHASE had on one too, in grey, IRENE DUNNE had one. and, THYRA SAMPTER WINSLOW didn't.

If you can't think of anything else to do in NEW YORK, you can always change your name. Simplest thing in the world. If you are a LIZZIE and fancy yourself an ERMINTRUDE all you have to do is file a petition in the city court, pay a $1 and wait 40 days. Then you're ERMINTRUDE. All kinds of people do it. Even Gen. CARL A. SPAATS. He added the 2nd A to his name in 1937, to indicate the way his family wanted the name pronounced—to rhyme with "spots", not "rats."

RONALD FOLLMER BITTEN Ronald Follmer, 8, of 3974 Hereford was bitten by a police dog at 5 p. m., Tuesday, October 15. He was taken to Cottage Hospital for first aid. The Farms Police are investigating the ownership of the dog.

Letters to the Editor

Editor, Grosse Pointe News;

Dear Sir,
May I say that Mr. Maxon's letter about the Memorial that you printed in last week's paper, expresses my sentiments to a T. I know that many Grosse Pointers have the same feeling about the proposed library that Mr. Maxon has but what can we do about it?

I noticed that a short time ago, you printed a series of letters from boys in the service, where in they expressed their wishes concerning the Memorial. If I'm not mistaken, there were VERY few, if any, letters about a library. Most of them were in decided favor of a stadium of Field House or some such thing.

Thank you for giving us such an excellent newspaper and by thanks to Mr. Maxon for his fine, clear-thinking letter. It was a privilege to read it.

Very truly yours,
Mrs. Ina Keiring

To the Editor:

My attention has been called to disputes in the Fourteenth district as to the early political affiliations of the Republican nominee for Congress, Harold F. Youngblood. I have known Harold personally for about twenty years. He was active in Republican party affairs when William H. Green, Jr., was one of the outstanding leaders and then on the staff of the County Auditors.

When John S. Haggerty became Secretary of State in 1927, Youngblood became a member of the staff in the auto license office on Cass Ave. That is positive proof that he was a Republican. I was in charge of that office. Later Harold returned to the county service and remained until the Democrats took over in 1933. He landed in Brush Street in the exodus which is pretty good evidence that he was not a Democrat.

The Republicans in the Fourteenth District can be certain of one thing: If they send Harold Youngblood to Congress he will help the party to purge the federal service of all bureaucrats and return our government to the Free Enterprise system as laid down by our forefathers in the Constitution and Bill of Rights.

I hope that this brief statement will give the Republicans and voters of the Fourteenth district the information that they may desire as to the political background of their candidate for Congress.

MILTON CARMICHAEL, Former Secretary of the Wayne County Republican Committee and for thirty years member of that body.

Mr. Robert Edgar,
Grosse Pointe News.

Dear Sir:
The position of Dr. Paul L. Essert in favor of Amendment No. 2, as reported in the News last week, is in error since the Superintendent, slides easily over the salient point against adoption of the Amendment. Dr. Essert is correct in asserting "The major argument against this measure is . . . (opposition) in principle to the sales tax." But if "This argument seems strange . . ." it is because the Superintendent knows little of tax principles. The opposition to Amendment No. 2 feel it necessary, however unjust, to retain the sales tax until inflation is no longer a danger. Then they hope this unjust tax, which satisfies no basic criterion of social equity in taxation, will be replaced by a good tax.

However worthy the uses of Sales tax money, these uses should not help perpetuate a bad tax. When the local communities become accustomed to this "gravy," what assurance exists against the further inequity of lowered local taxes? The passage of Amendment No. 2 means virtual abandonment of the hope for eventual repeal of the sales tax.

Dr. Essert's proposals for increased salaries are exceedingly worthy of their intrinsic merit, and may justify a higher local tax. These proposals do not, however, justify permanent maintenance of a regressive tax.

Sincerely,
D. Roger MacNaughton,
(University of Michigan).

To the Editor:—
To those who burn their leaves in the Fall.

Do you know that you are wasting one of nature's best fertilizers which is given to you gratis each year?

Why not cover your flower beds with leaves and in the Spring turn them under with a pitch fork.

Why not store them in one corner of your property for use in the Spring. If you have no space, there may be a vacant lot near you where you can dump your leaves and where they can build up a humus, which over the years will enrich any soil.

Do you know that if you burn your leaves in the street, you are harming the asphalt or other composition which paves it?

Valparaiso Grads To Hold Luncheon

A dessert bridge party at Kern's Auditorium at 12:30 noon, Friday, Oct. 18, starts the season's fund raising activities of the Detroit Valparaiso University Guild. The Detroit chapter is one of 50 chapters contributing to the support of Valparaiso University, the chapters recently completing a pledge of $75,000 and pledging an additional $25,000 toward the construction of a girls' dormitory, at a convention held Sept. 27-29 at Valparaiso, Indiana. Mrs. William Fenske is chairman of the party committee; Mrs. William Gervais, chairman of tickets. Chapter president is Mrs. Calvin J. Gauss. Hostesses for the occasion are: Mrs. George Otte, chairman, assisted by Mrs. H. Knaup; Mrs. H. Ford, Mrs. M. Asmus, Mrs. O. Auch, Mrs. W. Porth, Mrs. E. Kleinschmitt, Mrs. H. Rehn, Mrs. O. Baetz, Mrs. F. Kowitz, Mrs. H. J. Borchert, Mrs. M. Welti, Mrs. E. Bernthal and Mrs. W. Hartwig. Table and door prizes will be given and a dessert luncheon will be served.

Grosse Pointers will have the privilege of studying a new course in Art this fall—block printing and Pennsylvania Dutch design. The process of block printing consists of carving out the lights in lines or masses on a piece of wood block with an engraving tool; then inking and printing the block on textile or paper. The striking black and white pattern of this medium with its bold design—adapts itself in a decorative way to book plates, Christmas cards, textiles and many other useful articles. The Pennsylvania Dutch design with its gay coloring and its charming little folk figures will also be taught so that the student will be equipped to use them to advantage in beautifying the home or designing trays, boxes, lamp shades or small pieces of furniture. This type of work lends itself to an interesting and productive hobby beside being a very pleasant diversion for leisure time. This course will be presented by Winifred Grindley Isbell who has studied at the Art Students League of New York, the Detroit Society of Arts and Crafts with John Carroll; with Umberto Romano and Ralph Pearson in The Design Workshop at Gloucester, Massachusetts. Mrs. Isbell has been a frequent exhibitor in the East, Detroit and Toledo. She has also been honored for her work in painting, sculpture and etchings.

She is also an authority on dry point. All who are interested may make reservations by calling the Grosse Pointe Board of Education, N. 2000, ext. 25.

The bride was lovely in a gown of Duchess candlelight satin fashioned with a fitted bodice and a full skirt ending in a long circular train. Evelyn Zimmer Weds Robert John Peterson

Couple Leave for Wedding Trip in South Following Ceremony Performed in St. Paul's Church on Lake Shore

Before the flower banked altar of St. Paul's Church, Evelyn Marjorie Zimmer became the bride of Robert John Peterson, son of the Edwin H. Petersons of Glynn Court, last Saturday at a noon ceremony.

The bride, the daughter of Mrs. Linn L. Zimmer, of Neff road, and the late Dr. Zimmer, wore an ivory satin gown fashioned on princess lines. The square neckline was edged with a small flared collar of rose point lace. Evelyn's veil of heirloom rose point lace over illusion extended from a small coronet cap of rose point lace and fell into a long train. She carried a bouquet of white orchids, stephanotis and Yucca buds.

Attendants were the bride's sister, Mrs. Richard W. Burgess, and the bridegroom's sister, Miss Margaret Peterson. They were dressed alike in gowns of dusty pink faille made with basque waists and full skirts of unpressed pleats. They wore off-the-face hats of dusty pink trimmed with ostrich tips of an American beauty shade. Their flowers were arm bouquets of American beauty roses.

Edwin H. Peterson, Jr., was his brother's best man. Merle McFawn and Linn L. Zimmer, Jr., seated the guests.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Zimmer chose a gown of fuchsia crepe, draped at the neck, sleeves and skirt. Her hat was made of feathers flecked with fuchsia and chartreuse, and she wore green cypripedium orchids at her shoulder.

Mrs. Peterson, the groom's mother, chose a gown of royal blue crepe with a beaded bird of paradise design at the shoulder and on the skirt. Her small hat of multi-colored ostrich plumes was made of the colors of the beaded bird of paradise. She wore yellow orchids.

The bridal party received their guests before the fireplace, banked with greens and flowers, in the Zimmer home. The wedding breakfast was served from the buffet table in the dining room also decorated with greens and white flowers.

For her wedding trip, the bride wore a three piece aqua gabardine suit and brown accessories. On their return, the young Petersons will reside in Detroit's east side.

Grosse Pointe High School greeted HARRIET DORN Friday when she attended classes with Barbara Carter. Harriet, who is well known to many of our young Grosse Pointers, hails from Romeo, Michigan.

Another week-end here in the Pointe was EILEEN ROBINSON, guest of ELEANOR FAULKNER. Eileen comes from over Canada way.

Friday there was a hag dance which was dreamed up by the COUNTRY DAY JUNIORS. Lee McMahon furnished her abode for the jolly event. The recreation room in Lee's Bishop road home was decorated with corn-stalks and pumpkins. Cider and do-nuts added to the October theme, and am-c-g the many informally clad couples were Lee McMahon and Bill Beardslee, Joan Ziegler and Tom Alvarez, Martha Johnson and Crbel Morris, Dick King and Sue Field, Shirley Jerome and Charlie Morris, Jane Kuhlman and Bill Ham-ilton, Cynthia Wade and Post-Forde, Nona Hemmeter and Frank Wilton, Sally Ives and Jack Foster, Ann Whittingham and Tucker Whitehead. More dancing to recorded music were Gerlie Ford with Doug Donald, Joanne Ellis with Jim Touscany, Dorothy Jean Ellis with Bud Fruehoff, Connie Woodall with Bill Fisher, Kay Curtis with Ron-nie Milner, Doris Shover with Jay Purdy, and Barbara Miller with Bill Ghesquiere.

BUNNY SHIPTON rounded up several of her girl friends last Friday for one of those sleepless "slumber parties." The evening's entertainment included a show at the Punch and Judy, and the lucky gals in on the fun were Sue Field, Shirley Davis, Doris Wilson, Nancy Stever, Felice Thorpe, and Marge Shultz.

Celebrating the outcome of the 12B class elections at G.P.H.S., several of the gals gathered for a pot luck supper and scavenger hunt. There was a bit of trouble in finding some of the designated objects on the scavenger hunt, however smoking the long-hunt-ed-for cigars added much humor to the evening. Betty Graham, Ileana Lindh, Pat Day, Sara Ste-phenson, Jennie Quirk, Joyce Schenburn, Mary McKay, Cy-nthia Blean, Shila McComb, Mary Luft, Jessie Farquhar, Verna Rob-erts, Susie Johnson, Mary Nebel, Pat Ruth and Sharron Arnold were there.

PAT BARNES' hag session Fri-day gave the eight attenders a chance to exchange the latest gos-sip and brush up on harmonizing those old song favorites. Invita-tions were sent out to Elaine Cabot, Joy Schriber, Marion Ren-nie, Betty Pesamaska, Barbara Carter, Pat Martin, Joann Lyons and Marilyn Smith.

The hay ride planned by DOT KING was canceled Friday be-cause of weather conditions. Nevertheless, the party went on with dancing, food, and games at Dot's house. A late supper of macaroni and cheese was served. Addison Smart's piano playing added to the fiesta, and Dot and B-b Hancock were tops at jitt-er-bugging. Others doing their part to make the party a success were Allan Helquist, Bob Ha cock, Pat Liddle, Wally Swayne, Dona L-se Davenport, Addison Smart, Erma Hocking, Phyllis Cobb, Jim Mc-Nally, Dick Tidswell, Lucy Heims, Doris Simms, Elton Bam-ford, Gerry Haas, Dolores An-schultz, and Peggy McCarten.

Playing at JEAN SHORT-KROFFS bridge party Friday evening were Ellen Bery, Fay Pankow, Pauline Perrone, Jean-nette Van Beelaere, Joyce Sa-dowski, and Helene Himmeline.

Before trekking out to the Mon-roee game Friday, PEGGY TERRY gave a dinner party. The gals ea-ing hot dogs and making with the chatter were Barbara Daugh-tery, Peggy Hatch, Elaine Buher, Margie Simons, Mary Ellen An-trim, Joy Heidrich, Carol Shar-ner, Patsy Erskine, Carol Chad-wick, Carolyn Johnson, Carolyn Robinson, Janie Leininger, Janet Hiles and Jane Bundy.

Among the stout-hearted Grosse Pointers braving the not-so-good weather at the GROSSE POINTE-MONROE football game were Di Faulk, Joanne Russell, Loraine Jones, Marilyn Smith, Doris Bu-s-s, Carolyn Orr, Mary Ann Queen, Hank Brooks, Dave Thompson, Joan McGinty, Dave Lroyce, Rose Schroeder, Buster Pinkston, Myra Hahn, Don Gra-ham, Joan Schmidt, Les Yeager, Ellie Shaleford, Barbara Daugh-tery, Bill Carruthers, Sparkie Farquhar, Dick Bracken, Gchard Gaenssle, Art Beck, Marvin Wea-ver, Bill Gallagher, George Man-tho, Janet Ried, Elaine Buher, Janet Dalrymple, Jean Gardner, an' Mary Ellen Antrim. Others were Shirley Davis, Marge Shultz, Bill Mondry, Bruce Muir, Nelson McRoberts, Bob Grant, and Roy Marganau. To finish the list, there were Bay Grubbs, Dick Kremmel, Carolyn Johnson, Janie Bundy, Mike Merwin, Harvey Reist, Ariene Roy, and Doug Buck.

A group of fellows planned a hay ride for Saturday night. Be-fore and after the ride, there was a huge bon-fire, and cider and do-nuts were served. Some of the folks who are still picking hay seed off of their blue-jeans are Margie Simons, Don Savage, Elaine Buher, Dick Seymour; Di Faulk, Dick Wuerker; Vonnice Wegman, Don Floor; Letty Kret-schmar, Bill Wolfe; Marilyn Smith, Doy Linewebber; Janie Gehlert, Ray Schuman; Peggy Hatch, Clune Walsh; Celeste Bel-anger, Pete Klaver; Sally Mc-Donald, Allan Kidd; Carol How-ell, Jim Trousdale; Doris Buser, Jerry Scott; Joy Heidrich, Dave Hunter; Carol Chadwick, Kirk man were some of the girls who spent the afternoon exchanging vacation pictures and talking over their summer experiences.

One of the many amusements during the evening was a con-test to see who was the bravest warrior. Dick Forden was the winner, and the party did a war dance around their chief.

JUDY ATHMAN played hostess at a wiener roast last Saturday for a group of her Sophomore friends. Joan Schummer, Marg-a-ret Clark, Rita Leithouser, Sally Murphy, Ann Meathe, Pat Trom-bley, Peggy Labadie, and Chris-tine West were the group who were very busy sipping cokes and munching potato chips until interrupted by Dick Morketter, Jerry Hollerbeck, Jim Law, Dick Hoskins, Joe Cavanaugh and La-verne Athman who joined in the merriment.

The Michigan-Army game was the destination of NANCE STAHL and JOAN ATHANSON last Saturday. They went by train to Ann Arbor to view the out-standing game of the season.

Need Volunteers For Chest Drive

Stop minding your own business—exclusively.

How do other people live? How do they raise their children? What do they do about sickness? What do they do for recreation? Where do they go when they have problems?

All of these things influence your life. And that's why Red Feather services of the Community Chest are important to you just as they are vital to everyone in this community.

The Community Chest, you see, doesn't support just one or two kinds of community services. It supports 125 services—scouts, clinics, children's homes, family service agencies, community centers. The manner in which these 125 services are supported during 1947 depends upon the success of this year's Community Chest Red Feather Campaign, October 28 through November 13. And you can help make this campaign a success by volunteering as a campaign worker.

It means giving up two or three afternoons or evenings. It means sacrificing a little bit of your time to help provide milk and medical care for orphaned and neglected children, comfort for old folks in their declining years, wholesome recreation for boys and girls with no place to go and nothing to do, professional assistance for families with problems.

Red Feather services depend on how much you and every individual feel. They depend on how badly you want to help a crippled child to walk, a wayward adolescent to grow into a good citizen, a veteran's widow to raise a fatherless family. They depend on how eager you are to ease tragedy, that by mere chance, struck someone else instead of you.

Do you care enough to volunteer your time and effort to help make the Red Feather campaign a success? If you do, call the Community Chest, Temple 1-1600. Tell them you want to become a member of the Red Feather Team.

PERSONAL APPEARANCES

Saw MARY TIEDEMAN, SR. trotting along the avenue in her well tailored grey suit, with MARY, JR. in a pretty plaid skirt worn with a yellow sweater. They make a lovely mother and daughter picture wherever seen and they have such fun together.

MALLY PADDOCK is another "well suited" gal, she wears one of a mixed worsted that is smart. Mally has such laughing eyes, it is impossible to be with her for long without joining her in a chuckle.

DOROTHY BROWNING always presents such a neat and trim appearance and she didn't spoil her record when last seen in a navy suit with touches of bright green and a bonnet to match. As Dennis Day would say, "She's pretty, too!"

PLEASANT RUMORS

The dining room in the home of the H. LYNN PIERSON'S has unusual charm. The floor is parquetry and the apple green carpet is not too large, but allows a few feet of this lovely parquetry to be seen and form a border around it.

The walls have been paneled with wood for a few feet up from their bases and this has been painted a soft grey green color. The wall paper has a background of a green shade lighter, with a charming design of branches holding parakeets with beaks and feet of a coppery rust shade; small pineapples and flowers echo this color and dainty butterflies have sapphire blue wings to add to the charm of the whole.

The windows are curtained with a tan cotton fabric which makes a sturdy backdrop for the maple furniture of Early American design. The buffet holds a most interesting ship model carved entirely from ivory and encased in glass. The ship is displayed, against a background of antique silver paper and this serves to accentuate the perfection of every detail.

A flat mirror is used as a centerpiece on the table holding half moons of glass filled with dainty flowers and four small carved deer add an interesting note.

In one of the windows are glass shelves filled with antique porcelain. Above a serving table is hung a Bradley clock with a lovely landscape painted on its face and bearing the following inscription on the inside of the door,

"I am as old and worn as my face appears,
For I've walked on time for a hundred years
Many have fallen since I began,
Many will fall ere my course is run."

"I've buried the world with its joys and fears
In my long long march of one hundred years."

MR. G. McDONALD GARRETT

By Olive H. Larned

No matter what breed of dog you prefer, I think most every one will agree that there is none more beautiful than the English setter. Mr. G. McDonald Garrett holds this opinion, and is also of the belief that there is no finer bird dog. He is well qualified to speak on this subject as he has been breeding setters for the past eight years, with the purpose of developing a good English setter to stand up in competition with the best of the pointing breeds. His dogs are trained primarily for pheasant hunting.

Mr. Garrett has hunted since he was a boy, and his family always owned bird dogs, so he's "doing what comes naturally." He says "the breeding of dogs is similar to that of horses; there is no doubt that it is a science which may be proved by the results." He became interested in Field Trials, as they provided the means of determining the various qualities of dogs.

At the turn of the century, in the pheasant and quail field, the setter was supreme in the Field Trials until about 1930. At this time the pointer was being carefully developed and the setter, due to this, and perhaps having been bred too finely, lost his supremacy, but Mr. Garrett feels that he is assuredly on his way to regaining his former status. The setter has always been considered the best grouse dog, I am told. Should anyone hold a different opinion, please remember that I do not pretend to be an expert. I am only telling you what I've been told.

Mr. Garrett's interest in Field Trials began in 1940, when he

he was associated with athletics and he loves the out-doors, and the fun of competitive sport. This is one reason for his adoption of this hobby, he says, "One is compelled to get out of doors and out of the daily routine groove. It's a complete change of pace and one becomes engrossed in discovering what can be done for the dogs."

Mr. Garrett's interest has led to his being asked to judge at Field Trials of pointing dogs. His love of riding makes this a most enjoyable task as the judging is done from horse back.

Five thirty in the afternoon will usually find Mr. Garrett in khakis, preparing to go to the fields to exercise and train his dogs. The hunting season is the ideal time to work the dogs.

This year Mr. Garrett is planning to add to his usual hunting pleasure by keeping a camera record of the high spots of the work of his bird dogs. The thrill of watching a good dog work, far exceeds that of getting a bird, in Mr. Garrett's estimation. He says that one need never lack for employment with this hobby as there is always something to do for the dogs and one's interest is being constantly stimulated.

What with boys all day, and dogs the rest of the time, there should be "never a dull moment" for Mr. Garrett. I should presume, and to complete the success of his hobby is the fact that Mrs. Garrett shares his enthusiasm.

Questions and Answers Forum

By Barb Beranek and Mary Londes

Dear Barb,

My, but the old Autumn Fever's got my gal. Really, it brings out the poet in you. Do I detect a little note of homesickness in your letter? Of course I do. And, you know, I understand just how you feel, for reading your mail has made me think also, of the past and all the wonderfully glorious experiences we had together.

I guess that our good times symbolized vibrant youth. Youth that is so entangled in the ecstasies of simple outer life that existence to them is on an entirely different basis than that of a matured man or woman. Existence to the younger generation is so filled with precious everyday adventure that their height of attainment is today.

I can often remember wishing "Everything to stay the same." Now I know that if life were such we would be as stagnant as still water on a torpid Fall afternoon.

The other evening walking home, dusk had just taken its place in the rapidly cooling sky. The wind was playing havoc with the leaves and they, in turn, performed a ballet that could easily have danced rings around the professionals. You know, I believe it is we who copy nature in all our attitudes and supposedly progressive life. Just for example, Mother Nature changes from the summer season to the fall with such beauty of color, dignity and graciousness, and we turn to the warm shades of "spiced apricot," "apricot brandy," "cinnamon," "garret," and "gold" for our colors of new fall fabrics.

The shops are filled with these color combinations and the trend is definitely toward the smart, simple, but sophisticated styles. Tabu is the word for fussy trimmings of any nature.

From now on there'll be plenty of hikes in the woods, especially for you Barb up there in all that beautiful territory. Good rough out-door life in line with the hazelnuts, apples, pheasants and last but not least the ever popular hayride.

Proper attire for maximum comfort and seasonal spirit is a good pair of warm slacks. How 'bout a bright plaid, soft brown, or deep forest green to blend with the scenery or, to the opposite extreme, a bright orange red for the deer hunters? A good heavy pair of jodphurs will do the trick, too, and come in handy if the gang decides to "don" the horses or even the bikes.

Wintry breezes whistling through the boughs mean time for the plaid shirts, turtle neck sweaters, swagger jackets and, of course, we couldn't get along without the grand old long red woolies that bring back memories of last year's duck hunts. Speaking of the ducks reminds me of water and that means boots. So, if you're one of the clan, might as well dig 'em up and put them on your list if you don't want to end up knocking at Saint Peter's door.

Perhaps you've noticed all the hats with perky feathers. Well, if you haven't, I'm telling you now, friend, that since you've departed to the M.C.S. campus the shop windows have filled with feathers of all types and shapes, pointing north, south, east, west, this way and that!

While on one of my wanderings last week I spotted some heavenly "Eisenberg" hand blocked scarfs. The designs are of all types and the colors are so gloriously blended that it is as if fall had spread itself on each of the large square pieces. Found that they add a special individuality to one's costume by a drape across the hip, an ascot effect around the neck, or braided through the hair.

Well, I'll sign off now and here's hoping I see you over the week-end with the same old Autumn fever still burning.

As ever, MAPY.

New York Cavalcade

By LOUIS SOBOL

YOU FIRST, ALPHONSE!

Recently, in the most casual manner, touched upon a situation which is far from casual. I wrote something to the effect that many of us along Broadway were mellowing. A most unwholesome condition—and I wish I had never brought it up.

But it is a fact—and it means dull and duller days are ahead.

Let me explain. Shortly after I was handed a Broadway column to kick around, Winchell, who claimed a bit of priority in this business, began slapping me around in print when he could find time off from throwing the horn at another priority claimer named O. O. McIntyre. Then I moved over to the Journal and Ed Sullivan assumed my chores on the old Graphic. He took a poke at both Winchell and myself and it became a neat three-cornered affair with nobody speaking to anybody else except O. O., who nodded affably over to my corner.

In the meantime, Dan Parker from his sports desk was throwing bricks around handily. Hellinger came into the picture as a general peacemaker and then Skolsky, who was sent over by the late Harvey Duell to snare my extremely coveted services for the Daily News. Runyon was around, too, not fighting anyone in particular but occasionally throwing a pitchfork with the prongs only slightly blunted by his satiric velvet.

It was really tres gay and when one night Dan Parker punched a fellow sports writer named Marcus Griffin, and Al Johnson grabbed Skolsky on another night and shook him, thinking he was Winchell who had done him some imaginary wrong—well, now, I guess you know what I mean when I say there was always some excitement around.

For that matter, I can remember back to the night in the old colorful Club Argonaut when Billy Seeman punched me in the snoot and Bill Paley apologized for him, and when some hoodlum whose name escapes me, tried to slaughter Paul Yawitz, mistaking him for me. Seeman and I are friends now and that hoodlum is dead—having died in the hard way—and Yawitz is making a million, more or less, a year, grinding out movies in Hollywood.

Those were the days when an Earl Carroll would get up in the swank Central Park Casino and deliver some sort of opinion to the effect that the fellow across the way at another table (again, by coincidence, Winchell), was no gentleman, and a newspaper fellow named Gene McHugh, who is now a big exec on the Daily News, was taken for a ride by the late and not much lamented Jack "Legs" Diamond—but released when he talked himself out with the same smoothness he displays when he lays down four kings and rakes in the pot.

Conditions have changed, let me repeat. Winchell and Runyon go chasing bandits at night and write about each other; Ed Sullivan mentions my birthdays in his column and sends me Christmas greetings; Winchell puts in a plug for my moving pictures and sometimes I gift him with a news item.

It's not a healthy situation. The old, wholesome kick-him-in-the-slats, 'shiv-his-ear rivalry seems to be a thing of the past. A lot of new boys have come into the business and instead of tearing them apart, everyone rushes to the bar—or into print—to gush fulsomely about their wonderful, wonderful essays. It's sickening.

I had some hope last year that maybe the good old days were coming back when Pat de Cicco took a heave at Columnist Lee Mortimer and then was walloped in turn by someone else who figured this was the only fight in town. That blew over quickly and dull days came back again. There was a little tingle when someone phoned that Nick Kenny had been in a brawl—but later it turned out they meant Commodore Dutch's annual ball where Nick obliged by singing one of his oldies, "Gold Mine in the Sky."

It's all too sweet and nice-nelly now, with everyone bowing and scraping to each other except a few diehards who still come through with the whip—but not often enough. Of course, Winchell is a little peeved with Bennett Cerf and Lyons is a little peeved with Billy Rose and I'm a little peeved with my tailor—but it's routine, as they say out at the city desk up the hall.

It could be worse, of course. Suppose Pegler joined the mellow parade!

"Something old and something new" may be found at the smart shop of YORK JEWELERS on Kercheval, (across from Jacobson's). The "old" is beautiful silver purchased from estates, that were being settled, and this is a sure way of having heirlooms in your house. I saw a Tiffany flower vase, unadorned and lovely in its graceful design; a cute little crystal and silver mustard pot, telling you that it was hot stuff; serving spoons and forks; pickle forks and gravy spoons. One particularly appealing piece was a spoon with a cut-out design which gave it a lace-like appearance. Flowers, leaves and a pair of love birds were the motifs of the carving. There are many other pieces for those who like nice "old" silver. The "new" may be found in all sorts of sterling and silver plated hollow-ware. Large shells which fill a variety of needs are only $7.50 and small urns which may be used for cigarettes or flower arrangements are $4.95—prices include tax—why don't you include YORK JEWELERS in your next shopping tour?

HAWTHORNE HOUSE continues to be the rendezvous for those who enjoy delicious food in congenial surroundings. Saw the well groomed Mrs. Albert Scott in a smart black suit worn with a black hat adorned with a lush pink rose. The scarlet jacket worn by that cute Peggy Peck Fisher made her hair blacker and her beautiful eyes bluer, if that is possible. A mother and daughter act was seen in the persons of Mrs. Richard Macauley and Mrs. Edwin W. Baker, who are noted for their culinary skill. Mrs. George Renaud looked well in a becoming grey outfit. Mrs. Joseph Neebe and Mrs. George Beeman looking well tailored as usual, added a pretty note to the festive scene at HAWTHORNE HOUSE.

Here's an angel thought for your Christmas—KAY FARCHER has the most adorable angels made of metallic paper and pili-film with hand painted faces, even as you and I. Their heads can be turned too, but not by flattery. Some are made to hang on the tree, and others for table use, and there are doves and flowers, most ingeniously cut from the silver paper. These used as a package tie would make it look like a heavenly gift. I can't tell you how cute they are, but I'm sure the most hardened sinner would be attracted to these angels. KAY FARCHER wants me to remind you that now is the time to order your Christmas cards as there seems to be a limited supply. Forewarned should be fore-armed.

SCHETTLERS wants you to give a thought to the men—Well, that's never a hardship, or is it? Be that as it may, they make it easy for you with the suggestion of Schick electric razors—$15 and $18—and Charbert Shaving Sets, containing shaving cream, and after-shave lotion. Well now, that is a surprise! And some have cologne—$2 and $4. Almond cold cream, what, no judge sauce? No, this is a soap made especially for SCHETTLERS, made especially to be kind to your skin. It will keep you clean too! 12 bars for a dollar. There's a temptation that ought to be indulged.

Who Am I?

Answer to last week's puzzle: Lady Emma Hamilton.

Spanish Dishes, Including Females, Intrigue Pointers

(The experiences of two young Pointers visiting Mexico are described in a series of letters written to the NEWS by one of them, Charles G. Fossati. This is the fourth letter received since they left the Pointe early in September.)

Dear Folks:—
We've had very good luck in finding a place to stay here in Mexico City. We are getting room and board with a group of Spanish refugees for the nominal sum of 47 dollars a month. Our landlady is typically Spanish and talks with that old Spanish lisp. Before Franco came into power her father was the governor-general of the State of Leon in Spain. She is one of those persons whose age you could never guess, and so while I was talking to her the other night I asked her how old she was. For reply I got a sad shake of the head, a stoical smile and, "I have suffered so much in the last ten years that I have aged very much. I used to be so pretty."

She's darn good looking now, so naturally I began wondering what she looked like ten years ago. I asked if she had a picture of herself taken then. She did and brought it out to show me. It was the picture of what looked like a very beautiful twenty-year-old girl. She still hadn't told me what her age was so with poorly concealed curiosity I asked her how old she was when the picture was taken. Thirty-six was the reply. You could have knocked me over with a feather. She doesn't look over thirty-six now. I wonder what she would be like today if she had never lost her rich estates, and her way of living in Spain?

Our food is not Mexican. It's typically Spanish. Although it's different from what we're used to in the States it is not as a rule too shocking. I'm very grateful for that because I have always had a treacherous stomach. Only twice have I had any qualms about what was served me and only once have I not been able to eat it.

That was due to a little of Bob's army humor which came with him out of the service. The Spaniards eat a lot of rice, and it is always mixed with something. On that particular day the rice was served with clams and half a crab to each person. Perhaps you wouldn't call it a crab but I'm afraid that I can give it credit for nothing more. I was a little leary about that crab but determined to do it just because Bob didn't give me a chance.

"Look at that little eye staring up at you," he gleefully exclaimed.

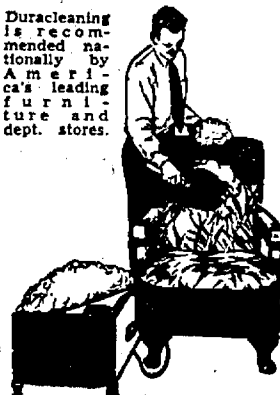

That did it. My poor tummy did a couple of loops and a barrel roll. The second thing which was a little strange to us was served today. Octopus! By this time however we can take anything and so we ate it. It was delicious. It was served in black gravy and had a very pungent odor. It tasted a little like shrimp and a little like oyster.

These Spaniards love their food. They eat lightly at breakfast, having only two courses. Eggs and hot chocolate, or beef steak and coffee with milk. I call the hot chocolate and coffee a second course because the chocolate is so thick you can eat it best with a spoon, and the coffee comes in a cup as big as a jug. As in all the meals these drinks are served last. The noon meal is the biggest. Soup is served first, then a vegetable plate, then two fish served whole; after that meat, followed by fruit, and lastly a small cup of black coffee that for strength has anything the Navy ever produced beat a mile.

Might I add ruefully that the fish is served every day. Here's hoping we don't sprout fins. The evening meal is the same as that at noon minus the fish and plus the coffee or hot chocolate.

They're very economical. In serving the courses they set before you an empty plate, and at your right elbow a small dish of what food is being served. You take what you wish from the small dish and what is left is taken back to the pan, to be served in the evening. I do an injustice to call it a small dish.

Isbey Stars as Pointe Team Beats Monroe in 13-0 Tilt

Trojans Put Up Game Battle Despite Disheartening Break on First Play of Contest; Devils Also Muff Chances

By FRED RUNNELLS Under the lights of the Monroe home gridiron the Grosse Pointe Blue Devils unleashed a powerful aerial and running attack to defeat the Trojans, 13 to 0, for their second consecutive league victory last Friday night.

The score doesn't indicate how strong the Trojans are and only by their own mistakes did they end up on the short end of the score. On the very first play of the game the Trojans tried a pass play deep in their own territory, catching the Devils napping. The pass receiver worked his way behind the Pointers' secondary and was in the clear when the ball bobbed off his finger tips for an incomplete pass.

Undaunted by this bad break, the Trojans continued to execute a razzle dazzle brand of football which had the Pointers completely baffled throughout the first period and but for bad breaks they would have held at least a two-touchdown margin at the end of the first quarter.

Starting the second quarter the Devils made a complete about face in their style of play and drove Monroe deep in their own territory early in the quarter. A long pass from Ed Isbey, standing on the mid-field stripe, to Dan Beck, who took the ball on a dead run on the Monroe 20 and went all the way, gave Grosse Pointe its first touchdown.

Coach Wernet sent in his point after touchdown expert, Flaughner, to convert. He successfully booted the ball through the uprights to give his team a big 7 to 0 lead.

Grosse Pointe muffed a beautiful opportunity to collect another score when Isbey recovered a Monroe fumble on the return kickoff on the Trojans' 38. The Trojans got mad and forced Johnny Rummel to kick for the side lines on fourth down, the ball going out on the Monroe 14. The Devils got the best of the exchange of punts and when the gun sounded ending the half Monroe had possession of the elusive oval on its own five yard line.

The fourth quarter was all Grosse Pointe after the Trojans failed on a drive from mid-field to the Devils' 29 yard line, to start the fourth period, on a series of hard line plunges.

Grosse Pointe stopped this drive when it recovered a Trojan fumble on its own 26 yard line. This set the stage for the most brilliant play of the game. Ed Isbey, aided by some of the

Reserves Beaten By Blocked Punt

By FRED RUNNELLS

A big Fordson reserve team handed the Grosse Pointe reserves their first defeat of the season, 13-7, on a blocked punt late in the third quarter.

Grosse Pointe's Tom Folli put the Tractors in a hole early in the first period with a brilliant 20 yard off tackle smash and scored standing up. Corfield kicked the extra point and the Devils were off to what looked like a one sided victory. But the Tractors had different ideas and came right back in the third quarter to knot the count at 7-all.

Folli uncorked another swell end run which netted 26 yards but was short of pay dirt. It was after an exchange of punts that Fordson forced the Devils deep into their own territory and set the stage for the decisive play of the game. With their backs to the wall coach Peterson sent in his kicker to get the team out of trouble but the Tractors were determined to get possession of the ball and outcharged the Devil line to block the punt and recover on the six yard line. Two plays later the Tractors pushed over the goal line on line smashes. They failed to convert and the score stood at 13 to 7.

In the last quarter all the play was in Fordson's territory but when the chips were down Fordson got tough and took the ball over on downs or intercepted a pass to stop the Devils' desperate bid for victory.

The Blue Devils will travel to Highland Park to do battle with the Parkers, newest addition to the Border City League, next Thursday at 3:45 p. m.

G. P. Cab Leading Post Office Loop

Bud Farnum anchored the Grosse Pointe Cab team with a 237 game and swept three points from Meyer Pharmacy to hold its lead in the Post Office - East Side League at the 20th Century alleys last Tuesday.

The De Santis Undertakers hung on doggedly to second place by winning 3 out of 4 points from St. Clair Shores. George Moars rolled a 236 for the losers.

Holzbaugh Ford made the only clean sweep of the evening when it took the Wilsher Studebaker team for four points. The O. K. Hat Cleaners grabbed three from Welding Gas as did the Jefferson team over the cellar dwelling Kercheval Clerks.

Fox Creek and Altes Lager split despite Ray O'Keefe's 221 game for Altes.

Jackpot Isbey

Left halfback Ed Isbey hit the football jackpot last Friday night against Monroe when he figured in both of the Pointers' touchdowns. Early in the second quarter Isbey flipped a long pass to Dan Beck for the first score and came back in the fourth quarter to romp 70 yards for the Devils final tally to win 13 to 0.

Motor Bike Race Set for Saturday

Here is the chance all you motor bike owners have been waiting for. Next Saturday, October 19, the John Hawley Power Bike Sales and Service will stage a powerbike motor race at the Guyton School Field at Avondale and Phillip avenues.

All boys and young men who are motor bike owners are invited to participate. There is no entry fee.

Rudy E. Rahn, promoter, says, "all races will be against time over a one tenth of a mile circular track with the contestant having the best time receiving a trophy donated by the sponsor of the event."

With this announcement this reporter recalls seeing several Pointe youngsters buzzing around the street like so many mad hornets in match races which were probably born out of an argument during school hours as to whose motor bike is the faster.

Now is an excellent chance for these kids to settle the question, once and for all, over a carefully prepared track.

It is hoped by the promoter to create enough interest in motor bike racing to hold regular monthly meetings of boys interested in "souped up" motor bikes. In case of rain, the event will be postponed to a future date which will be announced in the NEWS.

Three Failures to Convert Cost Flyers 19-18 Defeat

Ray Huetteman Scores Twice and George Heidt Runs 65 Yards After Interception to Give Boulevard Boys Their Scores

By FRED RUNNELLS

Well, it finally happened. The St. Paul Flyers took it on the chin last Sunday for the first time this season when St. Vincent's came out on the long end of a 19 to 12 score. The Flyers have no one to blame for the loss. After holding an 18 to 12 edge in the third quarter let St. Vincent's get them deep in their own territory on fourth down. The Flyers relaxed for a few moments after the fourth down kick and let St. Vincent's right halfback slip through the entire team for the tying touchdown. St. Vincent wasted no time, making the extra point good for its margin of victory.

St. Paul was the first to score when Ray Huetteman scored on a 12 yard end run. The kick was no good.

St. Vincent tied up the game on a beautiful aerial attack which carried it from its own 30 to pay dirt as the quarter ended. The kick was no good.

Starting the second quarter St. Vincent continued its passing attack and was moving down the field for another score when George Heidt intercepted a pass and ran 65 yards for St. Paul's second touchdown. Again the kick was missed and the Flyers held a six point advantage.

The St. Vincent team began to roll again after the kickoff and a series of line plays smashed its way down to the Flyers' eight yard line, from where Barbola scored on a line smash to tie the score at 12-all. The kick was no good.

The Flyers put together a sustained drive to notch their third touchdown of the game scored by Ray Huetteman. For the third time in the afternoon the Flyers missed the point after touchdown. This spelled defeat.

It was at this point St. Vincent scored on the returned punt. The loss threw the Class B division into a four way tie between St. Paul, St. Martin, St. Rose and St. Charles.

St. Paul meets St. Martin next Sunday, October 20, at Neighborhood Field at 3 p.m.

Swenson Leaps from School Reserve to College Varsity

From the Grosse Pointe High School Reserve football team to the Lehigh University football varsity in one short year is a feat that has been accomplished by Ched Swenson, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Q. Swenson of Lincoln road.

Ched was graduated from Grosse Pointe High in June and went right to Lehigh two weeks later. The university is still on an accelerated schedule and has three semesters per year instead of the customary two.

He went out for summer football and so impressed the coaches that he has made the varsity in his freshman year. Ched is six feet three inches tall and weighed 196 pounds when he left the Pointe. It is noted on last week's football program from Lehigh, that his weight is now 186. Hot weather will do that. He plays an end position.

Further news of Ched is that he was recently pledged by the Delta Upsilon fraternity.

Jerrold Wm. Maben, Jr. Accepted at Wayne U.

Jerrold William Maben, Jr., Grosse Pointe Woods, who lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald C. Maben at 1600 Hampton road, was a successful applicant for study in the basic biological science program at the Wayne University College of Liberal Arts this autumn.

Maben is a graduate of Grosse Pointe High School in the June class of 1946. While attending school, he was very active in student activities.

THIS WEEK in SPORTS

THURSDAY, OCT. 10-RECONCILIATION between Connie Mack, owner of the Philadelphia Athletics, and his 71-year-old wife is rumored.

ALBIN FALLON, Detroit who purchased Dan Arena's Gold Cup Challenger, Miss Golden Gate, has spent something like $40,000 to satisfy his urge for speed. Fallon and Dan Foster won the President's Cup on the Pontiac this fall after rebuilding the boat and renaming her Miss Great Lakes. Fallon and Foster will attempt to break Gar Wood's unlimited American hydroplane record of 124.915 miles per hour on the river within the next few days.

DETROIT'S FALCON RECREATION boasted the highest five-man bowling score rolled in the United States this season—a 3369—was fashioned at the Crest Lanes while sweeping three games in the Michigan major.

FRIDAY, OCT. 11-ST. LOUIS CARDS pounded out 20 safeties in defeating the Boston Red Sox 12 to 3 and equalled a mark set by the New York Giants against the Yankees back in 1921. Boston used six pitchers in an attempt to stop the Cards' barrage, which equalled another series mark. Four players, Enos Slaughter, Whitey Kurowski, Joe Garagiola of the Cardinals and Boston's Wally Moses, all bagged four hits each to tie another series record.

EACH ST. LOUIS CARDINAL will receive $5,367.13 if the Red Birds win the World Series, but if they lose their cut will be $3,578.13. Red Sox players each stand to win $1,332.01 or $3,288 if they lose.

HAL NEWHOUSER carded an 83 at Chick Harbert's "farewell" party at Meadowbrook. Liked locker room companions he told the Cards in the World Series.

SATURDAY, OCT. 12-EARLY ARRIVALS at U. of M. stadium enjoyed watching the 314 first classmen (seniors) and 100-piece band that accompanied the team from the Military Academy, parade before the Michigan-Army game.

EIGHTY-FIVE THOUSAND NINE HUNDRED THIRTY-EIGHT SPECTATORS saw an explosive Army team defeat a powerful Wolverine squad, 20 to 13, in one of the greatest grid battles the Midwest has seen in decades. Blanchard's drives, Davis' end runs and Tucker's cunning generalship spelled defeat for a hopeful U. of M. team. After the game coach Earl (Red) Blaik said he was glad that game was out of the way because he figured it to be the toughest for his team this year.

U. OF DETROIT FOOTBALL team had a rough time of it traveling by air out to the west coast for its game with San Francisco, Sunday. The two planes battled windstorms for more than half the way and when the going became the roughest more than half of the squad fell victims to air sickness.

NEW YORK YANKEES and the Cleveland Indians took advantage of the lull in the World Series, while the two teams were traveling to St. Louis for the sixth game, to announce the swap of Yankee Joe Gordon, second baseman, and Cleveland's Allie Reynolds, pitcher. The swap bolstered both teams and appeared to be the first move by President Bill Veech, who bought the Indians in mid-season, to lift the Tepee dwellers out of the second division.

SUNDAY, OCT. 13-THE DETROIT LIONS are in for a complete overhauling before many more days pass. Owner Fred Mandel delivered a caustic blast at the entire team during the half time intermission of the Lions-Chicago Cardinal game at Briggs Stadium today. The Lions were trailing at that time 24 to 0, which was eventually turned into a 36 to 14 rout. Fans booed loudly and Mandel, Coach Dorais, and line coach Joe Bach nodded in sullen agreement.

HOWARD S. (HOWDY) WILCOX, who finished second to Fred Frame in the Indianapolis Speedway 500-mile race of 1932, was killed while he was officiating as starter at a dirt track race in the Converse Fairgrounds. Wilcox stepped out on the track to give the last lap flag to Jimmy Wilburn and was hit by the car of Kenny Wines, Kokomo driver. AL. BONNELL, Eric, Pa.

Doctors Await Big Convention

Many doctors of the Pointe are planning to attend the eleventh assembly and convocation of the United States Chapter, International College of Surgeons, in Detroit on October 21, 22 and 23. Such notables as Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, Vice-Admiral Ross T. McIntire, former ambassador to Japan, Joseph C. Grew, Congressman George A. Dondero and Dr. Morris Fishbein will speak to some 3,000 doctors in recognition of the part doctors of medicine played in World War II.

The International College of Surgeons is an organization embracing membership in all parts of the world and 51 surgeons from England, Egypt, Prague, Peru, Argentina, Brazil, France and other countries, will present papers at the twenty-four meetings to be held at the Masonic Temple, Book-Cadillac and Statler Hotels in Detroit.

Operative surgical clinics in 15 hospitals will demonstrate the advances in gastric, thoracic, biliary, intestinal, genito-urinary and plastic surgery. The modern uses of wire in surgery will be featured.

The attention of the nation will be on Joseph C. Grew's address, entitled the "Preservation of International Peace," to be made before the convocation on Tuesday evening, October 22. This is the first time the former ambassador to Japan has made a public address since his return from Government service. His address will be broadcast.

Abandoned Tricycle Sadly Awaits Owner

A small tricycle is sadly sitting in a large, gloomy cell of the City Police station, anxiously awaiting its juvenile owner.

The "bike" was found at Charles and Roosevelt on October 12 at 11:30 a. m. by the City Police. It is a "Lee" make, red with white trim.

If the small owner, who must by now be sorely in need of this vital means of transportation, will call on the City police they will gladly return it to them.

OVERWORKED FURNACE

White billowy clouds of steam, lots of it, were seen issuing forth from 369 Rivard. Upon police investigation it was found out that nobody was at home and the furnace was going full blast.

Lecture Goers To Hear Taylor

Carl Taylor will be the speaker for the Detroit Town Hall in the Cass Theatre on October 25, Friday morning at 11 o'clock. Mr. Taylor was scheduled to speak next December, but because Governor Greening finds it impossible to leave Alaska at this time, an exchange of dates has been arranged and Governor Gruening will be on the program in December.

Carl Taylor, well known Wisconsin banker, business executive, farmer and former university professor, believes our priceless American heritage is threatened more from within than from without, and that we will go down to defeat only if we lose faith in America and American institutions.

He was born in a sod house in Western Oklahoma, attended the Universities of Oklahoma, Wisconsin and then taught at both of these institutions. His dairy and livestock farm is one of the finest in Wisconsin.

In Mr. Taylor's talk on "What Makes America a Great Country," he tells of the fundamentals that have made America what it is today—the greatest country in the world.

Program Planned By Music Guild

The Detroit Music Guild announces the first of the season's informal musicales and membership meetings at the Scarab Club on Farnsworth at John R., on Saturday, October 19, at 8:30 p.m.

A group from the Guild Chamber Orchestra, under the direction of Felix Resnick will play a program that includes Mozart's Musikalische Spass. A feature of the evening's entertainment will be a Musical Quiz with Al Nicholman as master of ceremonies.

The evening has been planned as a tribute to the past presidents of the Detroit Music Guild, who will be present as honored guests. There will be refreshments.

There is no admission charge to members and prospective members of the Detroit Music Guild.

Knights to Hear Msgr. Hickey

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Edward J. Hickey, Chancellor of the Catholic Archdiocese of Detroit and Michigan, will address the members of Gabriel Richard Council, Knights of Columbus, at their club house on Monday evening, October 21, states Lecturer Earl Thomas.

Msgr. Hickey's subject will be the life and works of Fr. Gabriel Richard, the priest, patriot and educator, a topic on which he is an outstanding authority.

The meeting will serve to formally welcome to their first council meeting the 100 candidates who are to be initiated by Gabriel Richard on Sunday, October 20, in a class named in honor of District Deputy, Eugene J. Fisher.

Gabriel Richard's degree officers will confer the first and second degrees. District Deputy, John Dowd, will supervise the major degree. Exercises will start with Corporate Communion at St. Jde's church at the 7:30 Mass, followed by breakfast at the club house, and the first degree at 10 a.m. Chancellor Joseph Atkin is in charge of the initiation ceremonies.

On Saturday, October 26, the council will hold its 23rd annual Harvest dancing party for members and friends. Ralph Ketcheson and George Williams are chairman and co-chairman of the arrangements.

Bobby-Sox Army Getting Recruits

A "bobby-sox army," 175,000 strong, swung into action this week to recruit parents as volunteer workers during the Community Chest Red Feather Campaign Oct. 28 through Nov. 13.

Participating youth organizations, all recipients of Chest funds, include the Boy and Girl Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, Girl Reserves, YMCA, YWCA, and the Boys' Clubs of Detroit, Highland Park and Dearborn. Children enrolled in activities of Metropolitan Detroit's chain of community centers and neighborhood houses are also included.

Each child will be given cards for their parents, asking them to pledge their services as Red Feather volunteer workers during the $5,800,000 campaign, explained Nate S. Shaper, recruitment chairman.

"Parents whose children belong to one of these organizations know better than most people how important such leisure-time activities are to children," pointed out Shaper, who is president of Cunningham Drug Stores.

"That's why we're asking the parents to help us by soliciting in their own neighborhoods. If they like the funds which make these Red Feather services possible. It's a direct application of the Community Chest slogan, 'Everybody benefits — everybody gives'."

Jans, DeLand At Sid's Cafe

Chet Jans and his music, featuring Jim De Land, the Melody Man of Song, are outstanding hits at Sid's Cafe Lounge, East Warren at Barham. This versatile aggregation consists of highly talented musicians with an exceptional flair for solo and group entertainment.

The band can boast of an elaborate background inasmuch as it scored tremendous success at The Ram in Sun Valley, Idaho, for many winter seasons. Both Jans and De Land acquired national prominence through these engagements.

The former is considered one of the best bass players in the business and the latter, while working at the piano, employs a singing style that strongly rivals that of Phil Harris, the radio and screen star.

During dinner, Harry French, a Sid's favorite, presides at the novachord.

Democracy will not be proved until it's lived.

Town Hall Books Dick Harkness

Detroit Town Hall will present Richard Harkness, NBC's popular commentator from Washington, at 11 o'clock, Wednesday morning, October 23, in the Fisher Theatre.

The lecture subject chosen by the well known radio news analyst for his first Detroit Town Hall appearance is "Do We Get the Whole Truth from Washington?"

In his broadcasts five times weekly, Harkness has covered some of the biggest news-making events of the past few years. He won national recognition with his startling expose of the Pen-dergast political machine, and has followed this up with a number of news "scoops."

Although Washington reporting has given the commentator the inside track on developments in the nation's capital and throughout the country, he has maintained his strictly non-partisan policy explaining "I have seen too much of politics and politicians to be naive."

Emeritus of the Grosse Pointe Unitarian Church, and it was largely through his co-operation that the local church was established.

The death of Dr. Record was a great loss to the denomination for he served well the liberal faith both in Detroit and in Springfield. During his pastorate of twenty years in the Church of Our Father, Detroit, he made many friends, not only in his own congregation but in the community at large. His progressive ideals, his public spirit, his vision and courage made him an outstanding citizen of Detroit, and one of its greatest preachers.

The congregation of the Grosse Pointe Unitarian Church has established an Augustus P. Record Memorial Fund to perpetuate his memory for all time through some lasting thing of beauty.

Judgeship Sought
By Mary V. Beck

Mary V. Beck, the only woman candidate for the office of Probate Judge in the coming election, has an outstanding record of eleven years of service on the staff of the Juvenile Division of the Probate Court. The experience thus gained in family case work and child welfare work with special emphasis on the rehabilitation of juvenile delinquents has given her an unusual insight into the problems of adolescent children.

Miss Beck has never held a public office, but in her capacity of a member of the Juvenile Court staff, she has been a public servant for many years and because of the high type of service that she has rendered she has earned the respect, not only of the parents and children with whom she has worked, but also the respect and love of her co-workers.

Although Miss Beck is a lawyer and a member of the State Bar of Michigan and has the necessary legal background and training for the office which she seeks, it is her opinion that a knowledge of the law is not the paramount requisite of a Juvenile Court Judge. She believes that any person who seeks that important judicial office in a Child-rens Court must be motivated by a spirit of altruism and self-sacrifice and imbued with a love of humanity.

By aspiring to the office of Probate Judge, Miss Beck is asking the voters of Wayne County to give a woman an opportunity to mobilize the forces necessary to combat the rising tide of juvenile delinquency and to develop the Juvenile Court to its fullest efficiency.

Essert to Talk

The Kerby School PTA will hold its first meeting on Tuesday, October 22, at the school. The parents will have an opportunity to meet the various teachers in their rooms at 7:30 p. m. At 8:15 p. m., Dr. Essert, superintendent of the Grosse Pointe Schools will lead a discussion on plans for the new Kerby School. Refreshments will be served after the meeting. Mrs. John Hammond is in charge of the program.

Mr. Davis is a graduate of Harvard and Princeton.

BARBARA CHRISTIE'S home, "Brown Gables," in Birmingham was the scene of a rush tea last Sunday for Nu Beta Phi sorority. Rushes attending included SALLY and PEGGY RONEY, SALLY DUNN, DOROTHY DOWELL, SUE MERCIER, PAT ZIMMER, PAT POTVIN and ELAINE McCREARY.

CYNTHIA DEAN, daughter of the CHARLES A. DEANS, JR., of Lewiston road, spent last weekend as the guest of MR. and MRS. ROBERT W. KNAPP at their home in St. Louis. EDWARD G. HOTCHKISS, JR., of St. Louis, will be the houseguest of the Deans when he arrives this week for the wedding of FRANNIE STROH and DAN SIMMONS.

Returning to the Pointe recently from East Hampton, L. I., was ANN MITCHELL. She has been spending the summer with her parents, MR. and MRS. LEDYARD MITCHELL, at their summer home, "The Dunes". Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell will be returning to Michigan soon.

MRS. ALEXANDER L. WIENER left last week to join MR. WIENER in Chicago. They'll be reuniting with a group of friends from Robbins Field, where Mr. Wiener was stationed when he was in the service.

Bermuda is fast becoming one of the Pointe's favorite spots. There are many residents who practically commute between the sun swept island and their Pointe homes. Of course the most notable examples in this category are MR. AND MRS. WENDELL W. ANDERSON who own one of the most charming winter homes there. MR. AND MRS. JOHN STROH are the most recent Pointers to take a house there. Leaving to visit them at Bermuda on Friday will be DR. and MRS. J. STEWART HUDSON of Lorthrop road. Other Pointers who are also at present guests of the Strohs are MR. and MRS. JOSEPH S. SHERER of Ridge road and MRS. GARI M. STROH of Edgemont Park.

MRS. DEXTER M. FERRY, JR., entertained at a small luncheon on Tuesday at her home on East Jefferson avenue and guests were told of the engagement of her daughter, EDITH FERRY, to CHESTER C. DAVIS, son of MR. and MRS. HAROLD DAVIS of New York City.

The popular bride-elect (and incidentally the wedding date has been set for next Tuesday) attended Vassar College and Master's School at Dobbs Ferry. Her clubs include Tau Beta and the Junior League. She also has been active in Detroit's art and theater circles.

Mr. Davis is a graduate of Harvard and Princeton.

McMillan Made Packard Director

James McMillan, of Bedford road, Grosse Pointe Park, 35-year-old general manager of the Detroit and Cleveland Navigation

JAMES MacMILLAN

Company, has been elected a director of the Packard Motor Car Company.

Alvan Macauley, Packard board chairman, in announcing McMillan's election, said: "Packard's plans for future expansion and diversification make it necessary for youth to assume increasing responsibility throughout our entire organization. We welcome McMillan and his enthusiasm, vision and varied experience."

McMillan also holds directorates in the Detroit Bank, the Detroit Trust Company and the Ferry-Morse Seed Company. He was a director of the Detroit Board of Commerce from 1938 to 1943.

The young business leader, born July 27, 1911, in Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich., started out as a freight clerk for the D & C immediately after graduation from Yale University in 1934. Learning the business from the ground up, he then served as superintendent and assistant general manager before becoming general manager Feb. 1, 1942. From 1942 to 1944, he was affiliated with the Auxiliary and Reserve Coast Guard.

He has been a commissioner for the Village of Grosse Pointe Park since March, 1945, and holds trusteeships in various educational and religious institutions.

His election to the Packard board fills the vacancy left by the death of his father, James Thayer McMillan. Other Packard directors are Henry E. Bodman, Joseph M. Dodge, Alvan Macauley, Robert B. Parker, George T. Christopher, president and general manager, and Col. J. G. Vincent, vice president of engineering.

Teachers to Hear Famous Speakers

The Michigan Federation of Teachers Institutes coming during the month of October will offer an unusual opportunity for members of the teaching profession in this locality and others to hear a number of excellent speakers.

Starting off the convention on Thursday evening, Oct. 24, at 8 p.m., at the Backham Building, James G. Crowley, Washington commentator and newspaperman, will address the teachers on "Whither America." On Friday, Oct. 25, at the morning 10 o'clock session, members of the administrative and teaching staff of various Metropolitan schools will participate in a Round Table discussion on the subject: "What Teachers Expect of Administrators."

From all reports by Miss Tillie Schubert, local representative of the Grosse Pointe Federation of Teachers to the National Convention, the highlight of the Institute will be the address by Honorable Hubert H. Humphrey, Mayor of Minneapolis, who will discuss "Education at the Crossroads." The address will be given at a luncheon scheduled for 1 p.m. at the Book Cadillac Hotel, Friday, Oct. 25.

Mayor Humphrey is a former teacher and a member of the American Federation of Teachers. Delegates to the National Convention this summer were captivated by his ideas on where education should go from here, and what teachers and the public should and can do about it.

EASY ON THE EYES...

MODERN schoolroom lighting is carefully planned to provide the best possible aid to study. Every effort is made to keep that lighting at top efficiency, because educators know that good marks and good eyesight depend on it.

But lighting at home is not always so easy on young eyes. A light may glare because the bulb is too large or because it's improperly shaded. Your child may not complain, because he's grown accustomed to it—but that deceptive glare can tire his eyes and brain, give him B's where he should get A's. It may even cause headaches or harmful eyestrain.

There's no difference between the electricity in your son's school and that in his home. No difference in the quantity used. As far as the quality of lighting goes—well, that's up to you. And the safest way to really know that your youngster's homework is easy on the eyes is to arrange for an Edison Home Service Advisor to call on you and check your lamps and fixtures. She can do this in a very few minutes... if necessary, show how you can bring your lighting up to schoolroom standards. There's no charge for her visit—no obligation to you. And it's a real "ounce of protection" for your family's eyesight!

FOUR WAYS TO GET THE MOST FROM YOUR LIGHTS

1 Dust steals light. Keep bulbs, shades and reflector bowls clean.

2 Replace dark-colored shades with light shades with white lining. Flaring sides are better than straight-sided ones.

3 Use correct-sized lamp bulbs and shades. Too large a size may cause fatiguing glare. An Edison Lamp Exchange Serviceman will be glad to replace your burned-out bulbs.

4 Have your lamps and fixtures scientifically tested for quantity and quality of illumination. Your Home Service Advisor does this with a light-meter.
