Police Chief Louwers Gets Confession on Park Robbery From "Lying Little Wretch"

Makes Flying Trip to Chicago to Interview Russell Barclay, Held There for Job Pulled in Evanston Home

Chief Arthur Louwers of the Park police department made a flying trip to Chicago on Wednesday of last week to have a talk with Russell Barclay about the robbery at the Harriet Evans home at 842 Three Mile on October 25.

Barclay is in the Cook County jail, awaiting sentence for burglary in Evanston, Ill., on January 3.

He made a complete confession to Louwers of the robbery here, but was too hazy as to the present whereabouts of some of the jewelry he took, particularly the $4,000 diamond ring. This he claims he disposed of through a curbside transaction with some party whom he does not know. Louwers succeeded in recovering $1,070 worth of the loot here in a pawn shop.

The Grosse Pointe police have a detainer on Barclay in Cook County. If he should get off with a probation sentence there, where the case is not too strong against him, Louwers says steps will be taken at once to extradite him for trial here in Wayne county.

Louwers says Barclay is a lying little wretch and it will be necessary for him to take up such piecemeal information as he got out of him and try to trace down here such recoverable pieces of the loot as can be located.

If Barclay draws a good stiff sentence in Illinois on Jan. 3 the local police will be satisfied, but a short sentence or mere probation will call for a continuation of the hold order, or his immediate extradition.

The Chief learned more of the details of Barclay's capture from the Cook county authorities. He fled from here directly to Chicago.

Pitiful Old Dog Discovers Kindness in Xmas Season

He was old and cold and hungry and hopelessly lost. In his prime he had been a noble specimen of a German Police dog, but now he was just wandering aimlessly about the streets of Grosse Pointe City, homeless and longing for even a kind word and a pat on the head.

He espied a woman walking along Rivard boulevard and followed her intuitively, hoping she might lead him to warmth and shelter. She did both for the poor old fellow. When Mrs. John Knowles

City Lauded For Handling Of Election

County Board of Canvassers Sends Letter of Commendation to Clerk Neff

More congratulations for the manner in which the City of Grosse Pointe conducted its November 5 election, are contained in a letter dated December 17 and addressed to City Clerk Norbert Neff from the Board of County Canvassers.

This board, which conducted the recent recount of votes for the office of County Prosecutor, is composed of Marguerite A. Montgomery, chairman; Philip J. Nedeck and Frank C. Padzieski. The letter states: "Dear Mr. Neff:

"Our recent recount of the above precinct showed a registration of 4,274 with 2,944 people voting.

"The ballot boxes were properly locked and sealed and the bundles of ballots were properly wrapped, tied and sealed, and the recount showed but six ballots uninitialed.

"Having in mind this precinct is the equal to six normal precincts, this board wishes to commend you for the splendid work performed by your inspectors."

McNally Thanks Township Board

The Grosse Pointe Township Board was thanked by Judge James McNally for its selection of officials for the recent elections. The following letter of commendation was sent to the board on December 19: "Grosse Pointe Township Board Municipal Building Grosse Pointe, Michigan Attention: Mr. Carl Schweikart, Supervisor

Dear Sir: The writer wishes to thank you and the entire Township Board for the fine election officials that were appointed by your constitutional board.

When you take into consideration that in a 12,000 vote cast and my net loss over that number of ballots was minus three, it speaks the highest for your honorable body and for the officials who worked so hard during the election. Sincerely yours, James M. McNally."

City and Park Streets Scene Of Accidents

Police Kept Busy As Slippery Pavements Cause Cars to Pile Up

The first substantial snowfall of the year also brought with it the usual number of accidents in the City and Park. The police say drivers have not learned to get the feel of the car or to adjust their driving to the dangerous road conditions, and slides, slithers and bumps are the expected results.

Fortunately there was but little personal injury, but the bumping shops and general repairmen harvested a good crop of extra work.

The first report came in on Friday evening from Kensington road and Kercheval. Joseph W. Manterer, of 1378 Chalmers, going west on Kercheval, struck a 1946 Ford driven by S. P. Rockwell, of 927 Lincoln, going east on Kercheval and making a left turn onto Kensington, causing his car to skid and collide with a 1946 Pontiac owned and driven by Philip I. Worcester of 516 Lincoln. Damages to No. 1 car, right side crumpled; and No. 2, left front side hit. No personal injury.

At 8:36 that same night Kensington was the scene of another accident, this time at Vernor Highway. A 1946 Ford convertible coupe, owned and driven by Lee E. Hartman of 2228 Philip, going west on Vernor, struck a 1936 Terraplane, owned and driven by Michael Z. Craig of 818 Lake Shore road, which had skidded across the intersection at Vernor while driving north on Kensington. The Ford's front end and the Terraplane's right side were both considerably damaged.

Agnes Craig, aged 50, a passenger in the Terraplane, was injured on her left side and taken to the office of Dr. W. T. Krebs at 16419 E. Warren. Mr. Minnie Hartman, aged 53, a passenger in the Ford had her head and both legs lacerated. Officers A. Conlon and Slusser took her to the Bon Secours hospital.

Both of the women were permitted to be taken home after first aid attention. Craig was given a ticket for failure to have his car under control at an intersection.

Another accident was reported soon afterwards at Beaconsfield and Jefferson. A car, owned and driven by William G. Richardson, of 541 Piper boulevard, was struck by a 1946 Ford Tudor owned by the Bryant-Detweiler company and driven by Ward A. Detweiler of 1009 Three Mile drive, driving north on Beaconsfield and making a turn on Jefferson. The damage was not extensive and no tickets were issued.

At 9:53 in came another accident report. This time a Pontiac, owned by Charles M. Haynor and driven by Olive Haynor of 3944 Courville, going west on Mack, skidded and struck a 1946 Plymouth coupe driven by George Williamson of 1693 Prestwick, Grosse Pointe Woods, going east on Mack. There were no personal injuries.

At 1:25 o'clock in the morning, the procession kept up. Frank Levenseller, Jr. of 139 Ridge, driving east on Charlevoix, collided with a 1946 Plymouth being driven south on Devonshire by Fred J. May of 374 E. Grand Boulevard. This resulted in only minor property damage and no tickets were issued.

Several hours later a Buick sedan driving east on Jefferson with George W. Henderson of 2539 St. Jean, at the wheel, collided with a Plymouth driven by Stewart J. Nichols of 2618 McClellan, who had stopped at Jefferson and Three Mile. The Buick driver got a ticket for reckless driving.

Woods Presents Xmas Bonuses

The Woods village gave a Christmas bonus to each of its employees, in the form of a $50 government bond to each employee who has been in the service of the village for more than a year; and a $25 bond for those in service from six months to a year.

Pretty Snow Plays Hob With Drivers On Pointe Streets

Lake Shore Road Is Particularly Dangerous As Season's First Storm Sheathes Highways with Coats of Glare Ice

The Pointe's first snowfall of the season was welcomed by those who had been praying for a white Christmas, but it raised hob with car drivers. Throughout the weekend many of the Pointe's streets were sheathed in glare ice, and this was particularly true of Lake Shore road.

The Wayne County Road Commission, which is responsible for the upkeep of this thoroughfare, paid the Pointe a visit on Saturday and spread salt freely. However, with nightfall and a new freeze, Lake Shore road was worse than ever and reports of accidents began filtering into the Farms and Shores police stations once again.

Sunday's sun melted some of the ice, but much of the roadway was still a sheet of ice, and Sunday night's cold again froze the slush solid.

At 4:45 p.m. on December 21 Chester K. Konishi of 80 Oxford road was driving east on Lake Shore and skidded into a car, also being driven east, by Verona B. Gessick, of 930 Lake Shore. Her car was damaged slightly and Konishi agreed to pay.

At 12:20 a.m. December 22 Frank B. Bewick of 1228 Wayburn, was driving his Pontiac east on Lake Shore in front of No. 66. When he applied his brakes his car went into a spin and struck another, driven by Max A. Franklin of St. Clair Shores. There was little damage and the drivers said they would straighten matters out between themselves.

Shortly after this, Ralph Lakaszewski of Marwell, Detroit, going east on Lake Shore, skidded into a Dodge driven by Lloyd A. Olson of Harvard, Detroit. Each car was damaged to the extent of about $30 and Ralph said he would foot the bill.

While Farms Scout Car 32 was standing at the curb at the officers were investigating this accident, along came a Chrysler driven by Edward Walter Schenker. He was unable to stop and skidded into the police car, doing damage to the village-owned vehicle, but smashing the Chrysler's headlights and front fenders.

At about 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon, the Farms police received reports of three cars figuring in two accidents within a few minutes of each other, and only half a block apart on Lake Shore (Continued on Page 2)

Comes Cropper; Curses Canine

Albert Feller of 618 Notre Dame registered a complaint with the City police December 19 that a dog belonging to his neighbor, Russell Kohn of 638 Notre Dame, had chased him while he was going to his work.

He had fallen down while running towards the bus and hurt his arm. It wasn't quite clear whether his running was sparked by the chasing dog, or the need of catching the bus. At any rate he missed the bus.

The dog is a pint-sized mongrel, prized chiefly by Kohn's three small children. Kohn has promised to keep the beast chained. The question of civil damages will have to be settled by Messrs. Kohn and Feller. The police say they will have no part of that.

McNally's Friends Certain He'll Be County Prosecutor

There is high hope among the McNally followers in the Pointe that the decision of the Supreme Court will be in his favor. The chief issue before the Court will be as to the disposition of the so-called double straight ballots.

This means where the voter has marked his ballot twice; once for a straight vote for one of the major parties, and again a straight vote for one of the minor parties.

In the recount the overwhelming majority of these double-straight ballots were given by the canvassers to O'Brien. By what ledgerman the board could determine the intention of the voter in such cases is one of the

Village Heads Speak Views On Subject

Intense "Home Rule" Feeling Makes Consolidation of All Pointes Remote

The proposal to change the structure of municipal government in the four villages of the Pointe has within recent weeks been coming in for very serious consideration.

This movement seems to stem from varying causes. It was largely sparked by the report of the Michigan Municipal League which, at the request of the Grosse Pointe Shores Council, made a study of the advantages or otherwise that village might gain by changing to city status. The Council of the Shores had felt that the change might place them in better position to work out some of their problems if operating under city structure than the more limited powers of a village permits. This report has been seen by the officials of the other villages and has doubtless made a considerable impression.

Another angle of the situation that has given impetus to the cityward movement has been the belief held by many in the different municipalities that the township's expenses do not justify its cost to the taxpayers and that if they should all change to city form, and so automatically withdraw from the Township, it having no remaining component parts, would pass out of existence.

The Township now manages its affairs through a police and fire service, common to the villages, and a common school system. In which the City of Grosse Pointe benefits by a special arrangement with the Township under which it pays approximately $3,300 a year to the township; it supervises and reports all of the elections in the villages except those for purely village offices and issues.

Its most important function is in the making of the assessment and collection of the School, County and Township taxes. The proponents of the city structure maintain these services could be carried on by each of the little cities within its own limits as efficiently and economically as at present done by the township.

All four of the presidents of the Pointe villages were interviewed last Friday by the NEWS for their views on the subject. Elroy Jones, of Grosse Pointe Shores wished it emphasized that he was not acting as a leader in the issue in his village. It was the purpose of himself and the village council to send a digest of the league's report to each citizen of the Shores and if, after they have had an opportunity to read it thoroughly, an obvious public opinion in favor of the change should develop arrangements would be made to submit the city charter issue to popular vote.

This report, incidentally, was an out-and-out espousal of the city plan, at least for Grosse Pointe Shores. It even went farther in saying that the township structure was intended primarily for rural government and had no place in territory which was wholly urban. Hence the report might be taken to address all the Pointe, which is indisputably urban territory.

Howard P. Parshall, president of the Park village, said the city charter subject had been discussed some in his community. He emphasized also that this was a matter that would have to be decided by the people after ample opportunity had been given for enlightenment. Personally, he said, he was inclined to favor the change. He felt that it might admit of a more efficient local government but doubted whether it would result in the concrete savings to the taxpayers which had been represented.

James K. Watkins, president of the Farms village, said there had been some discussion of the matter there but he had not been sufficiently informed on the subject to give an opinion at this time. He suggested that after "two or three months" his ideas might have crystallized sufficiently on the matter to say something. Mr. Watkins, at least did not seem to be hot or bothered about the subject.

A. A. Ghesquiere, president of the Woods village, said

Woods Given Extension on Park Option

Mrs. Edsel Ford Showing Every Consideration in Beach Site Transaction

When the stay lodged against the sale of the Edsel Ford estate's lakefront property to the Woods village for a park was petitioned by the St. Clair Shores officials, Mrs. Ford at once granted an extension of the Woods option until January 1.

When the matter dragged along and no answer was forthcoming from Judge Noe's Court, she extended the option until February 7.

Mrs. Ford has shown every disposition to cooperate with the Woods village and presumably the State of Michigan.

An answer was promptly made by the Woods Village through Attorney Berns to the courts direction to show cause why a permanent injunction should not issue against the deal, but the Court has not yet made its decision.

One thousand dollars was paid to Mrs. Ford to bind the bargain immediately after the voters in the Woods approved the bond issue in October which was to provide the funds. The total purchase price payable to Mrs. Ford is $60,000 for the tract of 43.7 acres, less the $1,000 already paid.

In addition to this the Village has agreed, as was stipulated in the contract of sale, to spend an additional $10,000 on a green barrier between the tract and her remaining estate. This item and about $1,500 for tax adjustments was also included in the bond issue which the voters approved.

Burglar's Story Branded 'Fishy'

The thief who committed the robbery in the Teeter residence at 644 Rivard, was later picked up by the Windsor police, turned out to be Richard Armstrong, aged 38, who lived in Windsor.

He has confessed to the robbery but claims that all of the stuff he took, with the exception of the yellow gold man's watch which was found on him, was either lost by him or stolen from him. This part of his story is regarded by the police as extremely fishy. They expect to persuade him to come clean and disclose the hock shop where it probably rests.

Among the other items unaccounted for is a $1,500 diamond ring.

the Woods, said he thought the Woods was less stirred up over the matter than any other part of the Pointe.

They felt that they were getting along very nicely managing their own affairs under their present structure of village incorporation. He said, however, he "supposed that if all the other villages gave up their village structure the Woods would probably have to go along also. In other words the Woods would not care to remain the only child of a shorn and shrunken township.

All of the officials interviewed evidenced strong adherence to intense home rule. They felt that the sentiment of the residents of the Pointe was so strong on this matter that the prospect of consolidation of the Pointe into a single municipal government was at best remote. One of them, who did not wish to be quoted, said he did not doubt but that economies and a more modern and efficient public service would result if the Pointes were one city but he doubted whether any general realization of this fact could penetrate the local mind to the point of action in less than ten years at the earliest. "The people out here want to run their own affairs, and this insistence begins and ends literally at the street which marks the boundary," he stated.

It seems an open secret that the current agitation for cities instead of villages in the Pointe had its first start in the idea prevalent in the Shores that if they were privileged to make their own assessments, as they would if a city, it would somehow untangle the row now on over the assessments on the high valued lake front residences.

How the bulk taxes to be required from any given community can be materially affected by shifts between assessments and millages is not quite clear, as tax equalization boards have an all-powerful final say on such issues.

Merry Christmas from St. Paul Students

The students at St. Paul High School demonstrated the true Christmas spirit when they loaded these tables with gifts for poor children who otherwise might not have heard from Santa Claus this year. All last week, during the homeroom period, the boys and girls sang carols as they walked through the halls, stopping before the tree and Crib for a sodality ceremony. From left to right are: ALDA MARIE CROWE, RAY HUETTEMAN, PAULA BEAUPRE, ALEC MOIR, JOSEPHINE PRIZIOLA, PHILIP VAN HOLLENBEKE, ALICE FAUSER. Kneeling, left to right, JOAN WEIDMAN and FRANCES ARDETTO.

City Making Another Effort To Lure Lapsed Registrants Back to Qualified Status

Records Show Some 1,000 Residents Who Cannot Vote in Next Election Without Taking Care of Re-Registration

City Clerk Norbert P. Neff's office has been busy for the past several days sending out notices to voters in the city who have not voted for the past two years and who will have to be purged from the voting lists unless they express a desire to be reinstated.

They can do this by the simple process of so answering on the return card. Otherwise they will have to go into the office personally and reregister.

There are about 4,200 voters in the city who are entitled to vote if they are registered. Between 250 and 300 have replied to the cards.

The law requires that the voting lists shall be so revised in December of each year.

In the City, because of its large number of terraces and multiple dwelling establishments, this turnover of reregistration is particularly heavy. There are now about 1,000 voters who will have to be reinstated before the next election if they want to vote. Of those who have replied practically all wish to keep alive their voting privilege.

Crash on Moran Caused by Skid

A sudden skid caused $150 damage to two cars on Moran road in Grosse Pointe Farms at noon on December 21.

Paul A. Erskine of 354 McMillan road, was driving his 1946 Ford past 427 Moran, heading south, when the car skidded and ran into one being driven north by James Norbert Mutschall, of 349 Merriweather road.

Damage to each car was estimated at $75 and Erskine, admitting that it was his car which had caused the crash, said he would pay the repair costs.

Farms Firemen Play New Role

Pointe firemen are called upon to perform many duties which have nothing to do with fires. They are quite accustomed to toting their ladders around to residences where Johnny or Susie have locked themselves in the bathroom and can't get out; or where the master or missus have forgotten to take their keys with them and entrance through an upstairs, unlocked window is required.

But the Farms firemen received a new request on the afternoon of December 19. Would they please come and get a lovebird out of a tree at the Joseph Eskridge home at 260 Mt. Vernon?

Cats in trees are a commonplace in the life of the ordinary fireman. But a bird is something of another plumage. He might fly away, if the whim seized him.

But this bird lived up to his nomenclature and sat cooly on the limb awaiting the attention necessitated by a rescue. The report in the daily fire book closes: "We saved the bird and the kids were mighty happy."

Pointers to Take Naval Training

J. T. Woodhouse of 325 Lake Shore road, and R. S. McGraw of 340 Lakeland avenue, have been selected for training in the Naval Reserve Officer's Training Corps at Yale University, New Haven, Conn.

As contract students in the NROTC, they differ from regular students in that they bear the expense of college work themselves. Regular students are paid $600 a year under the Holloway plan, but are required to serve from 15 to 24 months on active duty after commissioning.

Upon graduation from college and completion of his NROTC work, they will receive a commission in the U. S. Naval Reserve or U. S. Marine Corps Reserve.

They will be placed on inactive duty, will retain their commission in an inactive status, and will be called to active duty only if a national emergency should arise.

CHRISTMAS STORY HOUR

A Christmas Story Hour, held in the City Branch of the Grosse Pointe Public Library on December 24, at 10 a. m., was attended by many Pointe children.

Fruit at room temperature is easier to juice than that which has been chilled in the refrigerator because it is not quite so firm.

A man in Eyrause, N. Y., constructed a perfect sailing vessel model two and a half feet long, from 3,600 used matches.

Voting Machines

The recent expensive recount of the vote for the Prosecuting Attorney office is a visual demonstration of the need for voting machines in this county. If such devices had been in use all over the county instead of a few trial spots there would have been no doubt of the result a very few hours after the polls closed. There would have been no faulty ballots to wrangle over. The figures of the vote would have been as mechanically correct as those on an adding machine.

No mechanical device can wholly guarantee against human dishonesty, but they can reduce the opportunities for it to a minimum. An election board would have to be one hundred per cent crooked to permit a non registered person to go behind the curtain encasing the voting machine. When the qualified voter faces the machine he can't cast a faulty ballot if he tries to. The mechanism of the machine itself prevents that. When the polls close the back of the machine containing the total tabulations is opened and the figures copied off. Again only criminal collusion of the whole board would permit a false copying of the vote. In five to ten minutes the total vote is copied off and may be telephoned into headquarters, and the people who get them will have the comfort of knowing they are correct.

The great county of Wayne has been most backward in availing itself of this great protective device for an honest ballot. Many states in the east have beaten us by two generations. It is recalled that as far back as the first McKinley election in 1896 the total accurate vote of Monroe county, N. Y., (Rochester) was known and flashed to the world forty five minutes after the polls had closed. What a contrast to a hard working election board of 35 employees in Grosse Pointe City laboring from the closing of the polls on election night until 1:15 the following afternoon, and how simple compared to recounting the total vote of Wayne county with its vast population for days on end. And after it was all done Heaven only knows how many votes were cast out that should have been recorded or how many admitted that should have been cast out. There could have been no doubtful votes on a voting machine.

Even if this recount issue should get into the highest court it is difficult to see how any verdict could be arrived at which would remove all doubt, short of an examination of every ballot and a court ruling on every individual disputed ballot. To limit the review of the case to the disposition of the "double-straight" ballots would of course greatly shorten this process.

The cost of these machines is a small consideration against the assurance to the voter of honest ballots, honestly tabulated and quickly and accurately recorded.

It is gratifying to know that a committee of Pointe public officials is making an examination into the subject of their adoption here. Their use throughout the Pointe would solve our own small problem of honest and accurate voting but it only scratches the surface of the issue in the county, where there are many areas in greater need of a revision of their voting practices than here.

Our Best Weapon

There is a growing and timely recognition throughout the country that production must be the key with which to open our door to prosperity. We are being told daily, often by far sighted labor leaders themselves, that it is the only specific action against inflation. There is no known patent for success for either a nation or its individual citizens, unless it bears the imprint of honest work.

The slowdown won't do it nor any general theory that lesser per capita production will make work for more people. We have been suffering from an epidemic of economic crackpots, but they are being recognized.

There are too many men in this country who are good at a drill press or a lathe but a mess in a cost accounting office; and altogether too many who are no good in either place. These latter can best justify their existence by keeping their mouths shut at this time and not rolling the waters with their worthless babble.

If the tendency towards an expanding foreign trade which has been in evidence for some years, goes on, the people might as well understand that we can't be successful participants in it unless we have commodities to sell abroad and at a price which our customers can afford to pay. Our exportable surplus of agricultural products is a diminishing quantity. A trade favorable to us as well as our customers abroad can only be based, for any appreciable range of time, on the products of our mills and factories. These have got to be good and they have got to be priced right. We can't rely indefinitely on our superior technique, our mass production etc. There is nothing we do or make in this country so superlatively well that it won't be equalled by peoples in Europe in time. And the greater the pressure upon them for economic survival the sooner this time will come.

They know over there the soundness of the gospel of honest work. Almost before the echo of the guns had ceased Britain was continuing to skimp herself to sell abroad. Our best hope for success in this coming scramble for trade in this One World, lies in the fact that some of our competition at least is to come from State controlled enterprises; our greatest fear that this wasteful and inefficient program may intrude our own people to a dangerous degree.

America's best weapon is the sword of free enterprise. It won a war in arms; it can win a war in foreign trade if we ourselves are smart enough to realize that our own wheels must continue to turn and our own already well organized industrial plants be pushed into the ranks of the looming world competition.

Grosse Exaggerations

A. PRYOR

"A flower unblown; a book unread;
A tree with fruit unharvested;
A path untrod; a house whose rooms
Lack yet the heart's divine perfumes;
A landscape whose border lies
In silent shade 'neath silent skies;
A wondrous fountain yet unsealed;
A casket with its gifts concealed...
This is the Year that for you waits
Beyond tomorrow's mystic gates."

(Horatio N. Powers)

For you who are not familiar with Palm Beach, not the least in importance on that scene is THE newspaper, the Palm Beach News, which soft pedals what blood and thunder stories and sticks chiefly to things that whet the social palate. Recently, all the papers on the wrong side of the tracks... meaning West Palm Beach... printed in headlines, the story of a man who jumped off the Flagler bridge in Palm Beach. The following day, the Palm Beach News printed THIS under the caption, "Palm Beach Storyette"... "The man who yesterday was reported to have tragically jumped off the Flagler bridge swam to shore and went home, period."

Although Grosse Pointe is noted to be essentially Republican-minded, not all of its residents vote Republican. The day after the last Republican landslide, a local woman, who is noted for being one of the very few hoity-toity Democrats in the Pointe, attended a dinner party. As the butler was passing a soggy canape, he leaned down toward our Democratic heroine and said, sotto voce, "THEY got in, didn't they?" Then he shook his head sorrowfully and muttered "tsk, tsk, tsk." Sympathy makes strange drawingroom companions!

Don't tell us the holiday spirit is dead in America. One day last week, a mother on the bus with her nine year old boy, was embarrassed no end by the child's insistent cry, in a loud voice, "But Mama... I GOTTA go! I gotta go real bad, Mama, honest." Every time the bus stopped, his voice would rise to another loud wail and a plea to GO.

Finally, the bus made another stop. The driver got out of his seat, called to the little boy, who came running from the back of the bus. They both alighted and went into a gas station on the corner. In a few minutes, they were back... both driver and boy wreathed in smiles. Just before the bus started up again, the little tike said for all to hear... "The bus driver had to go too, Mama."

A friend of ours who just returned from a quick trip to New York, told us the queerest sights on the street there were the policemen. Apparently N. Y. has put on an added "shift" for the holidays and haven't any uniforms for them yet. They are standing on street corners directing traffic while wearing old business suits, working clothes and what-have-you... derby hats, soft hats and caps. The only thing that distinguishes them from other folks is the old "badge" that spells New York's Finest.

Not at all in the holiday spirit, is the woman (a right chic G.P. woman, at that), who telephoned an agency to hire a cook for one night during Christmas week. The cook had to take two buses to get to her destination and it happened to be one of the colder and bitter nights. When she arrived, the woman said she had changed her mind and didn't want her after all. Sooo, she was dismissed without a by-your-leave, kiss-my-foot or even bus fare home. If we were the agency, we'd put the grand dame on every domestic-help black list in the City.

A local gent called to tell us of a conversation he had with a female store clerk about an electric blanket. Apparently he had bought one and found after a few weeks that it was not as good as others he'd seen of the same make. He telephoned the store to ask about it and during the course of conversational give and take... the salesgirl explained: "You see THAT type of electric blanket works BOTH ways. For example, YOU can turn your side up to a high heat, if you're the cold type... but the other party in the bed needn't have the heat so high." Our local hero was intrigued with the "other party" routine. He feels he'd like to meet the salesgirl!

We were shopping in one of the Kercheval stores last week, when a man came in breezily and when asked what he wanted, replied: "Oh I've just come in to pay a bill... a little matter of $8.50." In the silence of the shop, the shrill tones of a flip young clerk came from behind a partition at the back of the store: "It may be a small matter to HIM... but it ain't to this concern."

Safe Intersections

At the formal opening of the winter season with our big snow fall the other day, it is a timely moment in which to call the attention of our municipal authorities to the particular care which street intersections need.

Snow and ice create auto travel hazards in cities which are partly unavoidable. They can be greatly minimized, however, if it be the constant practice of our highway crews to see to it that the space directly in front of all stop signs be kept free and clear of snow and ice.

Cars are properly required to stop at all intersections which are marked with stop signs. In fairness to the automobile driver, he should be provided with an underfooting for his tires which will make his car responsive to its brakes. The best brakes in the world are useless against slippery ice or snow. If this cannot be removed completely at these points down to the naked street surface, they should be promptly sprinkled with cinders or sand. Many accidents are caused each winter by cars skidding past these stop signs out into the line of cross traffic.

Two such occurred in the Park alone over the weekend. This is where the highway department can do its share to cut down street accidents.

Bilbo the Nuisance

The Bilbo investigation on in Washington with its disclosures of crookedness shows that political and social nuisance running true to form.

Ever since he entered the Senate he has been a disgrace to the state of Mississippi. His political stock in trade has been incitement to race prejudices often developing into open warfare between the whites and blacks. On the score alone that he has openly advocated the violation of the constitutional guarantees against discrimination because of race, creed or color he should be kicked out of the Senate.

Exercising its rights of being the judge of the fitness of its own members the Senate should rid itself of this malodorous association which is a reflection on the whole body.

The evidence shows that he is a grafter of the meanest order. He took money in return for getting government contracts, accepted expensive automobiles as that was a tolerable field of bribery in his state "which did not send rich men to the Senate" and touched the grandest of political depravity by charging a round fee for a permit for narcotics for a helpless addict.

For its own good name the Senate should kick him out; and if his constituents, in a spirit of cynical bravado, should send him back, kick him out again.

Talley Rant

by
Helen Talley

I know a girl who has to have all her insides scraped because she is full of lipstick. Her name is MISS LIBERTY and she stands on a pailfull of mud in NEW YORK HARBOR. CHARLES MARSHALL, who is superintendent to MISS LIBERTY, said that visitors have smeared so much lip rouge on her insides that in some places their initials could be carved. Naturally that clogged up the works. Right now MISS LIBERTY is closed to the public and when she opens up again her interior will have a coat of washable paint which will cost the public, including lipstick smearers, 23,000 fat dollars.

One of the interesting visitors in NEW YORK these days is ELIZABETH PICKETT CHEVALIER, who wrote "DRIVIN' WOMAN." MACMILLAN'S has bought her new novel, to be called ELLEN GAUNTLETT. The JIM PUTNAMS of MACMILLAN gave a very lively cocktail party for her last week. Brilliant LITERARY NAMES lit up corners and MARTINIS lit up faces. HAS-OLDT DAVIS, the explorer who has 11 books to his credit, was there; CARL CARMER of "STARS FELL ON ALABAMA"; HENRY CHRISTMAN of "TIN-HORNS AND CALICO," and VILHJALMUR STEFANSSON, the explorer, were just a few who came to toast the happy author and the new book.

I gave a little DO for her also and it was fun because the guests were so full of TALENT. JOHN CARRADINE, of the movies, told the most marvelous jokes about the HAW HAW, almost extinct, type of ENGLISHMAN. To illustrate one story JOHN, hardly moving a muscle, took a magnificent stage fall flat on his face on the carpet. From the top of JOHN'S head it is a long way to the carpet. TURNER CATLEDGE of the NEW YORK TIMES entranced everybody with his amusing Negro stories told in wonderful dialect. MARGARET DOUGLASS who is playing in "THE FATAL WEAKNESS," came in with her husband, BEN SMITH. BEN told some Negro tales too, and acted them out in the most beguiling way.

One of the very attractive events of the week, and of interest to many GROSSE POINTERS, was the wedding of the DONALD ORDWAY'S pretty ANN and TYSON DINES JR. ST. BARTHOLOMEW'S CHAPEL was a dream of BERMUDA LILIES and white satin streamers. The reception and dance at the COSMOPOLITAN CLUB was small and beautifully arranged. The DINES family came on 40 strong, from DENVER, DETROIT and GROSSE POINTE sent handsome citizens too. The BRIDE looked lovely in an off the shoulder gown. MARIAN ORDWAY was especially handsome in brown taffeta and a pale blue feature hat.

This week was exceptionally full, with weddings, debuts, holiday dinners, and teasing with two DUKES and two DUCHESSES. It was a gala week for sure. The first royal pair were the DUKE and DUCHESS of UZES who I had the pleasure of meeting at a party given for them by SACHA VOTICHENKO. VOTICHENKO plays the ancient XYMPANON, an instrument of the XVIII century. It is an orchestra in itself and contains almost every stringed instrument there is. SACHA has appeared before every crowned head and before practically every important person in the world.

His studio is difficult to describe. You have to see it to believe it. It is solidly papered and decorated on every inch of the wall with written tributes, gifts and mementoes. He has a world renowned collection of autographed manuscripts and pictures of the great composers. Each composer has his own little niche along SACHA'S wall, lighted with its own small light. It is like a long corridor of small rooms, peopled with the great of the world.

The other DUKE and DUCHESS were the WINDSORS, who were having tea at MRS. VANDERBILT'S. There were only ten guests present so it was possible to relax more than is usual. The DUKE was in a very good humor. He shook hands firmly all around, although two ladies swooped into low curtesies. The DUCHESS chatted amiably with everyone about anything that came up. There are three things that always strike one forcibly about the DUCHESS—her fine blue eyes, her attractive speaking voice and her good manners.

Designs Course In Electronics

Realizing the importance of electronics in the world of the future, the United States Navy has designed a complete course of instruction for its Electronic Technicians Mates.

The Electronic Technicians program calls for a forty-two week basic course in electronics plus extensive advanced schools. High school graduates with a knowledge of mathematics and physics can qualify as students in these schools of tomorrow's trades. An aptitude test must successfully be passed before an applicant will be selected for the ETM program. High school graduates who desire to learn about and work with the new electronics equipment—equipment designed for tomorrow—are invited to learn more of the possibilities offered by the Navy. Full information may be obtained at any Navy Recruiting Station.

*When you decide to travel
However far you're bound—
You wind up where you started
The world is so damn round.*

Quintandina Hotel
Petropolis, Brazil.

DEAR MARY QUITE CONTRARY,

Here I am in Rio—naked with a Zombie—and I do mean the drink—in this fantastic palace of a hotel. It is such a pile of modernistic marble and glass that it looks exactly like Goldwyn's Folly, and I keep thinking I'll wake up some morning and find they're tearing off a wall of the suite to raze the building for a new movie set.

This seacoast of Rio, like most of Brazil, is as bizarre as a futuristic painting. Everything is super size—a situation in which they seem to have the collaboration of nature with red cliffs that rise like a stock market's jagged chart outside your window against a background of Blue Skies that look like an advertisement for heaven.

I must say that S. A. has all the S. A. that the song writers say. The senoritas are lush; the senoras are plump. They are all dressed with that perfection of taste one used to find only among the mighty minority in Paris. Alienated during the forties from their Parisienne couturiers, South American designers have established their own designing houses. Some of these places are so lavish they make our New York salons look like a country store.

One luxury shop here in Rio changes its decorations every day by the simple process of putting new slip covers on everything every morning, lest the spotless senoras sit on a speck of dust. The walls in this shop are all mirrored, the wood work is pale grayish sandalwood, and with the daily transformation of covers and drapes, it is quite a rendezvous of fashion.

The Brazilians and Argentines love illuminated black for daytime and illuminated white for evening. I say illuminated, because South Americans have a trick of using their native colors and jewels against either black or white. This gives it an entirely different sense of stimulation than that of our solid senders.

ANKLING AROUND NEW YORK . . . Everybody who IS anybody here is wearing the new ankle length gowns in the evening. Not the juvenile ballet skirt effect, but strictly sophisticated jobs. Mrs. William Rhinelanders Stewart's ankle gown is a full skirted copper satin, worn with a slim cape of ables. And young Mrs. Vincent Astor is taking in the premieres in an ankle gown of brilliant blue lace, with repping skirt, long sleeves and a high round neckline. With this dress she's wearing a triple strand dog collar, formed of two rows of pearls and one of emeralds.

These ankle gowns are also creating a vogue for Anklets of diamonds and other gems—an idea that makes a lady's ankles look slim and a Derby colt's. The only difference, as a gentleman once remarked to us, that the odds are already double in favor of the horse because he has FOUR aristocratic ankles.

The couple are making plans for a wedding some time in February.

"On and on the parties go, and when they'll stop nobody cares because parties mean FUN and the teen-agers are all for it.

BERT MILLER'S gathering in his Berkshire road home on Friday night, was a memorable one for his many friends. Everyone met in Bert's beautiful "room," which was all decked out with Christmas-y decor for the gala affair. After making themselves comfortable in front of the huge fireplace, the guests listened to the recorded holiday music and later on joined in on a few choruses themselves. A "mid-night" snack of answiches, potato chips, coke and cake was served to Mary Helen Verbeist, Dot Hillebrand n' Jerry Hollerbach, Sally Murphy n' Dick Mortketter, Marion McLaughlin n' Dick Hoskins, and Ann Meathe n' Joe Cavanaugh.

DO BACKMAN invited her best friends over to her Lakeview home, for a huge sledding session on "the day before Christmas." The weatherman promised DoDo ahead of time that there would be plenty of snow so she went right ahead and made plans for an appropriate party. After taking cold spills in the snow, hot chocolate was just the thing to refresh the participants. Nancy Stahl, Paula Beaupre, Marty Lo Mauer, Nora Allard, Sue Johnson, Franny Shaw, Edie Carroll, Jo Mannio, Joanne Athanson, all joined in on the fun.

Also on Tuesday nite, SALLY CURRAN did her share toward holiday entertaining by hostess-ing a party to help Santa with his work. First, bright lights and bulbs were carefully placed on the Curran Christmas tree. Then the merry-makers proceeded to do a little seasonal caroling. Dave Roth, Mike Eastman, Ila Ross, Fay Ann Fisher, Sis Thiebault, Truman Fisher, Renay Thiebault, Lee Curran, Joan Crowley, George Curran, Joan Armour, Ann Armour, Roger Shepherd, Bryan Brisden, Sue St. Amour, and Bob Curran joined in to sing the old, traditional hymns of joy and good tidings.

Another group started out their evening with carols on Friday nite. The "lassies" gathered at JUDY HENNEKE'S abode afterwards for a strictly "fem" get-together. Gossiping away during the affair were Carol Staub, Nancy Downey, Anne Dungan, Gerry Kirchner, Pat Gant, Sally McKernan, Mary Ann Buringame, Marilyn Smith, Jo Camella, Mary Ann Stuhldreher, June Allard, Fay Sutherland, Pat Arrald, Eleanor Wade, Barb Van Tiem,

Mary Vernier, Betty DePaola. A big Santa filled with gifts for the guests was the main item of decoration at the Luncheon given by ALDA MARIE CROWE on Saturday afternoon. After the luncheon of chicken pie, olive salad, ice cream and cake was enjoyed, the gifts were presented. Before leaving for home, the girls got in a few games of Bunko in which the grand prize winners were Pat and Mary Lou Thibodeau and Joan Krausman. Mary Ann Hillebrand, was the "booby prizer." Others in on the afternoon of fun were Joan Beaupre, Betty Ann Huettelman, Jean Kulka, and Alice Fauser.

The Big Day is over . . . to be followed by another Big Day (Dec. 26) in the life of the lovely deb, Julie Hudson . . .

Early Thursday . . . out of town guests started arriving for the dinner and ball feting the debutante . . .

From Snyder, N. Y., came Jane McCullough and Marly Doll . . . who will leave again tomorrow for their homes . . . (they're classmates of Julie at Endicott College in Beverly, Mass. . .)

And from Perryburg, O. came three attractive young men of the stag line . . . Bob and Marvin Rorick . . . and Jeff Robinson . . .

GUESTS HERE FOR BALL

The guests will stay at the J. Stewart Hudson residence on Lothrop . . .

The young men remaining for a day or two longer . . .

A disappointing note . . . the only flaw in the whole wonderful day . . .

Was the fact that illness kept Mrs. Arthur H. Buhl from attending the ball she gave for her debutante granddaughter . . .

The dinner before the ball was given by the Theodore D. Buhls . . .

On the twenty eighth of next month . . . Julie will return to her studies (which are going to seem pretty hum drum for a little social butterfly) at Endicott . . .

A row of tiny satin covered buttons extended down the bodice from a round Peter Pan collar of britton lace. The bride's veil of illusion fell from a madonna halo of britton lace, and she carried a bouquet of white carnations.

The three attendants were dressed alike in gowns of burgundy faille, fashioned with square necklines, cap sleeves and full skirts. They wore half halos of shadowed carnations in their hair, and carried bouquets of shadowed carnations and holly.

Joyce Bowen was her sister's maid of honor, and Mary Lou Gullberg and Bettie Flanders were the bridesmaids.

Owen Anderson served as his brother's best man. Seating the guests were Robert Smythe and Robert Llewellyn of Evanston, Ill., and William Carmichael, of Chicago.

Mary Jane Kennedy's Engagement Revealed

Betrothal to Russel Howard Nutter Disclosed at Pre-Yule Tea in D.A.C.; Midsummer Wedding Being Planned

In a setting of Christmas greens and holly, Mary Jane Kennedy's engagement to Russel Howard Nutter was announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Kennedy, of Kenwood Acres, Ann Arbor, formerly of Grosse Pointe, at an afternoon tea in the D.A.C. on Sunday, Dec. 22.

Russel is the son of Mrs. Augustin G. Nutter, of Moran road, and the late Major Nutter.

Not until guests arrived did they learn that the fête was more than the pre-Yuletide tea to which they had been invited. Scrolls with "Russ 'n' Kenne" yielded up from the bag of Santa Claus in the tea table centerpiece, revealed the news.

The table was lovely with Santa seated in his reindeer-drawn sleigh on a field of snow, surrounded with an evergreen border, and red and white tapers in silver candelabra. The party took place in the Ponchartrian room.

Mary Jane wore a short afternoon frock of American beauty crepe with sequin trim of the same color on the bodice, and a deep purple orchid in her hair.

Mrs. Kennedy greeted the guests in a black moire dress, the skirt having a bustle back. She wore red carnations in her hair.

Young Couple Leave for Honeymoon in Woodstock, Vt. Following Lovely Ceremony in Bride's Parents' Home

At one of the loveliest wedding ceremonies of the season last Saturday afternoon Bernardine Simonds, daughter of the late Ralph Warner Simonds, of Lewiston road, became the bride of John K. McEvoy, the son of Mrs. James McEvoy, and the late Mr. McEvoy.

The young couple repeated their marriage vows to Dr. Frank Pitt in the living room of the Simonds home. Wooden candle standards, twined with ivy, were on either side of the tall French doors before which the wedding party stood. Candles in wrought iron floor standards were placed throughout the two-story living room, and greens were arranged above the fireplace.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an ivory satin gown accented with tiny seed pearls around the sweetheart neckline and around the wrists of the long sleeves. From the fitted bodice the full skirt extended into a long train. The bride's long veil of heirloom pointe d'esprit was caught by a cluster of seed pearls at the side of her head, and she carried a spray of mistletoe, tied with an ivory velvet ribbon.

Barbara Simonds, the bride's sister, was the maid of honor and she wore a gown of lovebird blue velvet with a full skirt and fitted bodice which buttoned up to a high round neckline. Her Juliet cap of matching material was trimmed with a small band of braid, and she carried an arm bouquet of purple anemones.

The bridesmaid, Alice White, of New Jersey, wore a gown of alpine rose velvet, fashioned with a fitted bodice, full skirt and V-neckline. Her Juliet cap was of matching material, and she carried an arm bouquet of pink poinsettias which exactly matched her gown.

Little Wendy Colby, as the flower girl, wore a floor length dress of pink taffeta, a pink velvet Juliet cap and carried a basket of small flowers.

James McEvoy, Jr., was his brother's best man. Ralph W. Simonds, Jr. and Richard Simonds, brothers of the bride, served as ushers.

Mrs. Simonds chose for her daughter's wedding a two-piece gown with a light blue and silver brocade jacket over a dark blue accented pleated taffeta skirt. Her halo hat of dark blue taffeta was trimmed with light blue ostrich tips, and she wore a shoulder corsage of pink cyclamen.

The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. McEvoy, chose a gown of soft brown crepe made with a lime yellow and brown bodice. She wore a brown fur halo and a corsage of yellow orchids.

In the dining room the bride's cake was at one end of the table, which was covered with an Italian lace cloth. Centered in the middle of the table was a low dresden bowl of white cyclamen and cyclamen leaves. Dresden candelabra with white tapers were at either end of the table.

For their trip to Woodstock, Vt., the new Mrs. McEvoy traveled in a cocoa and aqua green print dress over which she wore a gray tweed coat with persian trim. Her hat was cocoa colored felt with an aqua green feather.

Upon their return early in January, the young couple will make their home on Seminole avenue.

PERSONAL APPEARANCES

Saw the well dressed FRANNIE BOYER in a smart black cloth suit, with which she wore a small round brimmed black hat with a pouf of black feathers decorating the front. Her crepe blouse was American Beauty, which makes two of them in one costume.

NANCY PADDOCK is wearing a most becoming grey wool dress with a stunning monogram in two shades of shocking pink ornamenting the breast pocket. It makes a nice background for Nancy's sparkle.

JOSEPHINE KANZLER was seen at a recent debutante tea looking her usual well-groomed self in a smartly cut black wool dress with gold braid trimming. With this she was wearing a large black hat and her gold earrings and bracelet complimented the trim of the gown.

FILFERINGS

Paul Porter was asked, "What's the most important thing you learned after 14 years in Washington?" Porter replied, "The most important thing I learned in Washington is 'Never turn your back.'"

The most vehement attacks against Jimmy Walker's regime in the mayoralty came from the New Yorker magazine. Raoul Fleishman, the owner of the magazine, met Walker and asked his opinion about the New Yorker. Walker expressed admiration for it. "Even though we attack you?" asked the owner. "Sure, and I'll tell you why," said the then mayor. "What's your circulation, and how much of it is in New York City?" "The circulation was then 100,000 with 60,000 readers in New York City. 'Half of those are Republicans anyway,'" said Walker. "Of the other half at least 10,000 don't vote. The rest are money people. In short, Mr. Fleishman, the people you might affect aren't enough to populate one assembly district."

When Henry Wallace read in the newspapers that President Truman had issued proclamations about Thanksgiving Day and National Fruit Week, he said: "Harry sure is a whiz at that sort of stuff."

DR. ALFRED H. WHITTAKER OF EAST JEFFERSON AVENUE
By Olive Larned

To do justice to the rare and extensive Dickens collection of Doctor Alfred H. Whittaker would require more space than here allotted, so I shall try to tell you about a small part of it and hope to share the rest with you at a later date. Doctor Whittaker's basic collection, which he has been gathering for about 15 years, consists of early medical books dealing primarily with occupational diseases.

The Dickens collection is an outgrowth, as Doctor Whittaker discovered the great influence the works of Dickens had upon public opinion and of that time and how they forced public recognition of the hardships of the laboring classes and helped to improve working conditions. Doctor Whittaker remarked that most people think of Dickens as a novelist but that he was also a great humanitarian.

He was a keen observer of his own times and had many interests other than writing, including theatricals in which he at times played. Most of his stories were made into plays, due to their popularity and this led to a B. Pollock originating an assortment of scenery, set pieces, wings, etc. to be cut out and mounted on cardboard for use in a miniature theatre. Enclosed was a book of the play enabling the various parts to be read. These were so popular that they were played with over and over again, usually until they were worn out, so that it is not surprising that such an assortment is a rare collector's item and Doctor Whittaker's is indeed fortunate to possess one which was published in 1840.

Dickens' interest in the theatre extended to the players also, as is shown by several placards Doctor Whittaker has framed, of announcements of dinners to be given for the General Theatrical Fund for which the tickets were one guinea. One such placard announces a public dinner to be given at the London Tavern, at which "Charles Dickens, Esq. will be in the Chair." A list of the Vice-Presidents include "His Grace, the Duke of Northumberland" and the "Duke of Devonshire, K. G." One time at an auction Doctor Whittaker was bidding for a group of playbills; there were seven playbills in each group and seven groups. He found that he was always outbid until the final group was put up when his competitor gracefully withdrew and he became the owner of the coveted playbills. Later he discovered that he had been competing with Columbia University so he was even more grateful to have been able to secure the group.

One of his billboard notices reads, "Strand Theatre, Christmas Carol or A Dream, Boxes 3 shillings. Doors open at half-past 6 o'clock. The performance to commence at 7 precisely." A description of "Stave Third" puts to shame our modern press agent's, Colossal, Super-stupendous etc. with the following, "A Marine Store Shop, A wretched dirty den, reeking with crime, filth and misery."

Doctor Whittaker has many first editions, including those of "A Christmas Carol," "The Cricket on the Hearth," "The Chimes," "The Hunted Man and the Ghosts Bargain," "The Battle of Life" and "A Love Story." "A Christmas Carol" was written in 1843. He has also a sales placard showing the methods of the book sellers. The books were always published in parts, the fore-runner of our modern serials, either weekly or monthly. "David Copperfield" is considered Dickens' finest work and Doctor Whittaker has the original in parts, which is in extremely fine condition. He also has the original "Little Dorrit in Parts." Dickens was writing "The Mystery of Edwin Drood" at the time of his death and as only six parts had been published of this mystery story and the mystery not explained, a great furor was caused by the public's wonderment as to how the story should be finished. Doctor Whittaker has a very nice copy of this last book of Dickens. In 1937, the original steel plates of the illustrations by H. K. Browne, otherwise known as "Phiz" and printed in 1855, were discovered in the basement of the publishers, Chapman Hall, Ltd. It was decided to publish one more edition with the original steel plates and then to distribute the plates among the subscribers.

A dinner was held at the Waldorf in New York and Freddie Bartholomew conducted the drawings. Doctor Whittaker received the plate and illustration of "Society Expresses Its Views on a Question of Marriage."

It was the custom in the time of Dickens when a story became popular to write songs using the same titles and Doctor Whittaker has many of these, including "Little Dorrit's Polka" and "Little Nell." Respectfully dedicated to Charles Dickens. Included among the first editions is one of "David Copperfield" dedicated to Charles Dickens. Included among the first editions is one of "David Copperfield" published in America in 1849. As the books were re-published they were illustrated by different artists and Doctor Whittaker has many of the original illustrations in pen and ink drawings or exquisite water colors by such artists as "Phiz," Cruikshank, Frederick Barnard and a collection called "18 Characters from Our Mutual Friend" drawn by Kyd, (Clayton Clark). The latter belonged to Jerome Kern and was later sold to William R. Hearst and Doctor Whittaker now owns it with a letter from Kern.

In his room devoted to his collection of Dickens, Doctor Whittaker has the original editorial chair which was used by Dickens during the time he was Editor of the "London Daily News" in 1946. Doctor Whittaker granted this interview with the stipulation that the story be about Dickens but were it not for his graciousness in sharing his collection with us there would be no story and I hope that this may be the "first part" of the story of his Dickens collection.

Salt Over Our Shoulders

By Barb Baranek and Mary Londres

Dear Barb:
The other morning I woke with a horrible feeling in the pit of my stomach. I guess the feeling was natural and usually occurs every six months or so. In my case, one and a half years ago. I had a dentist appointment that morning at ten o'clock.

My reaction to this was varied. Should I over-sleep? Well, I could fall down the stairs on my way to breakfast. Or, maybe I should pound my head with my fists to develop a migrating headache. I could always migrate in a different direction.

After a well-balanced argument with me, myself, and I, we came to the conclusion it was inevitable. I had to go. After all, I could see plainly the consequences—Pain! Gold teeth! False teeth! None at all! And besides, I look back enough already. With these pictures running through my over-worked imagination I faced the world and my north bedroom wall. It was a great feeling! I had conquered fear. Fear of a cold room after a warm bed.

Adequately I went through the morning necessities. I took longer than usual for brushing my teeth—one-fourth of a minute instead of one-eighth.

After a terrific struggle with the wind, I finally reached the dentist's office, cold, hair flying in all directions, and hands half-frozen—there's a hole in the second finger of my right glove.

Just at that moment the nurse,

Miss Inlay, walked in. "Hope you're enjoying them," she said. "The doctor tries to keep up to date on all current issues." With this, she left me.

I began to daydream, but presently it was broken by the slamming of a door. The doctor had arrived. My old fears were once again aroused. I was shaking.

He greeted me and mumbled about the cold room. I was then ushered into the dental room and onto the chair. The dentist came in cracking some old joke that you wouldn't tell to your shadow, and in the same breath he commanded, "Open your mouth." "Please?" I did. He squinted and said, "Humm." "Humm." He was driving me nuts. I couldn't dream of what he saw. Finally he blurted out, "Can't see a thing." "Forgot my glasses."

Honestly Barb, I don't care if my teeth fall out, I'm not going back. It takes too much out of a person. After all, that big let-down was just going a little too far, don't you agree? Well, I guess I'll sign off now as the typewriter needs oiling.

As ever,

MARY.

P. S.: The dentist just called. He found his glasses and I have an appointment tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

O LITTLE O' THIS, A LITTLE O' THAT!

Juliet Lowell, who used to contribute to this department for free, once put together a bunch of silly business letters and they came out as a book labeled "Dumb Belles Letters." She was married then to Leo P. Lowell and was the mother of two children. RKO bought the rights to the nooky letters and based a short on them which brought in a lot of money. A couple of years ago, Lowell died and Juliet took her family from Scarsdale to Hollywood. It was rough going for a while and then the idea came to her to get together another batch of screwy letters—with a wartime flavor. The little book became a best seller, 20th Century-Fox bought it and Juliet put her money into a home with a swimming pool in the back yard. Then she sat down and wrote some more letters and now the new book, "Dear Sir or Madam" is also a big seller—and again the movies are bidding.

For the book? Not exactly! For the life story of Juliet Lowell, who cashes in on dumb letters.

Someone swears he heard John L. Lewis mutter, as he left the courthouse, "Let 'Em Heat Coker!"

The Police Department, I am told, may organize a specially-trained squad of lady cops to deal with the teen-age hoodlums who maul stars in an endeavor to obtain autographs. Seeking an autograph was nothing to raise the roof about in these days, but in recent years, these kids have not only become pests but problems. Collecting in gangs as they do, young boys and girls, some of the weaker gradually drift into what we now sum up as "Juvenile Delinquency." The girls—just listen to some of them and you'll know I'm not exaggerating—become crude and profane in speech, bold in manner. The boys, after a while, become insulting and belligerent.

And while we're about it, do you know anything more nauseating than the screeches and howls of the moonatics every time their favorite crooner heaves into sight—or opens his mouth?

Blonde Nan Bennett is the girl who proves that the daffiest of Hollywood fables can come true. After two years on the Metro lot, Nan came to New York and became a Powers model. Six months later, while at El Morocco on a date, she was "discovered" by Producer Joe Pasternak and taken back to Hollywood as a "find" to the very studio where she had toiled unnoticed. Now she has had her option picked up because of the excellent work she did in "This Time for Keeps." Her first assignment was to substitute for Esther Williams in the long shots. Having made good in that auspicious role, lovely Nan is now rewarded with a fat part in Joe Pasternak's next, "The Birds and the Bees," in which she plays a sultry, sexy, mystery woman—who wanders through the picture without ever being identified!

Brieflets: N.T.G. and Frankie Hyers have brought the Greenwich Village Inn right back into the Big Swim—sell-out nights almost every evening. . . . Port Authority Commissioner Joseph M. Byrnes, Jr., has just been elected a trustee of Notre Dame. . . . Getting back to Frankie Hyers, for a little or two—during the current dim-out he gets out on the floor wearing a miner's light cap. . . . That pretty lady constantly with William "Hopalong Cassidy" Boyd is his wife—and only a few of us who go back to other years remember her as Grace Bradley, one of the first of the night club performers to get a break in Hollywood. . . . Don't get the idea from this that the beautiful Grace is an ancient dame—she was about 18 when the films beckoned. . . . Marshall Tito now roars he doesn't want "peace at any price." Wasn't it just the other month he and his Red comrades were yelling "War-monger" at Uncle Sam because he said the same thing?

A pathetic and touching note from Lucius Beebe: "Dear Louis," he writes, "a really great loss to the glamor scene of town is the closing, temporarily, anyway, and for keeps if he can't find a new stand, of the shirt shop of Walter McCrory which has been a landmark in W. 46th st. for 17 years. The landlord raised the assessment and Walter can't afford it and if he doesn't get a new place at once, he's through. McCrory and his brother Will, now dead, were the great loud shirt purveyors of town, were first glorified by Odd McIntyre and were famous for the terrific patterns sold to Roy Howard, Christopher of Greece, Bill Leeds and yours truly. All through the war they secretly, via the State Dept., sent Churchill his dress shirts. Really. A most unfortunate episode." (Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

You don't have to read "Favoritisms" to know that most people's favorite food is steak and their most favorite spot for availing themselves of this gustatory enjoyment is the "STORK CLUB." If you are one of the unfortunates who have not as yet availed themselves of this delight due to not knowing about it, or Gene, the charming owner-boss, let me tell you that THE STORK CLUB is located on Warren near Outer Drive—dinner is served until 10 p.m. and the finest steak dinner is only $3.00—a business men's lunch is served from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. (this includes the ladies). They specialize in Italian foods and are equipped to take care of special parties—and you're a "special party," aren't you?

If you read this on Tuesday, the 24th, may I say, "if you don't"—and if you read it after the 25th, may I say, "if you didn't," receive anything to make everyone draw in their breath as you pass by. KOPP'S has just what it takes to make them. Imported perfumes—just this week came an air mail package direct from Paris containing Weil's newest—called "Antelope," created especially for use on furs—they also have the celebrated Lanvin's "Arpeggio"—"My Sin"—and "Scandal." This is a delicious wares, thoroughly enjoyed by all—"Crepe de Chine"—"Crown Jewel" no, not the Duchess; this is a more permanent jewel—Caron's delightful scents and Arden's latest hit of gossip named "On dit" are among KOPP'S souvenirs. So if Santa slipped up—don't you—treat yourself to that luxurious feeling you get when you know that everyone knows that you smell good!

What would you do if you were Queen for a day? I know some one who is Queen every day and he's at your service—for all those "necessaries" to keep you and yours looking clean and pressed. It doesn't make any difference how expensive garments are, if they are spotted, even a teeny weensy spot, or if they're wearing that tired look, they will not become their wearers. Don't be a sloppy Sal or Sam—don't be a dirty Dot or David, call the QUEEN CLEANERS—Filaxoy 4190—for pick up service or if you're feeling thrifty, use the cash and carry department in Grosse Pointe—on Kercheval between Neff and St. Clair—whichever you use, is up to you. All I ask is that you use the QUEEN CLEANERS—and you'll be as clean as a Queen every day.

Now that your clothes are in order, let's give a thought to your top piece—you can't have that well-groomed look with a mussed hair-do—or badly manicured nails—I am presuming that you do wish to be well-groomed—if not, don't read any further—if you do, then go to BLANCHE AND CYRIL'S hairdressing establishment on Fisher Road near Meumee—this is for the benefit of the new-comers in Grosse Pointe—the others all know of BLANCHE AND CYRIL'S and the excellent work they and their merry band of workers do. They are very happy to report that they now have an adequate staff to take care of all your needs in the beauty and good grooming department and you'll have a happy report to make, if you verify their report.

Now that you've given yourself all this service, give a thought to your modern chariot—after all you owe a lot to your car and the KERCHEVAL-CADIEUX SERVICE STATION is ready to help you repay your debt. They are hoping that you will not require the use of their snappy new jeep for road service but should you have a "flat" or your car go embarrassingly shy and need a push, or go on the theory that it can't get anywhere without "pull" then the KERCHEVAL-CADIEUX SERVICE STATION jeep will answer to the call of Niagara 9598—and for other services, including gas and oil go to the home base at Kercheval and Cadieux.

Local Natators Given Scare
By Strong Visiting Outfit160-Yard Medley Relay Settles Meet and Gives Blue Devils
First Win in Border Cities League Competition

By FRED RUNNELLS

A surprisingly strong Fordson swimming team nearly upset the Grosse Pointe apperant last Friday afternoon, December 20, in a dual meet in the Blue Devils' pool. The visitors wilted in the last event, the 160 yard free style relay, when the combination of Ted Mumford, Fred LaFerte, Paul Friesse and Bill Wolfe splashed to a half pool length victory over the threatening Tractors to give the Blue Devils their fourth consecutive victory of the season and their first in the Border Cities League. The score was 32-36.

Going into the last event the Tractors held a 35 to 34 lead as the result of the disqualification of the Pointers in the 180 yard medley relay when Bob Jenks jumped the gun on the second leg of the race.

Highlighting the meet was Bill Kildow's record smashing victory in the 200 yard free style event. He splashed to a new school record of 2:08, thus breaking the old record of 2:12.7, held jointly by Kildow and Bill Mesmer, who set the old record back during the 1940 season. Kildow equaled the mark during the 1945 season.

Fordson jumped into an early lead in the very first event, the 40 yard free style, when Alexander barely out-touched Bill Wolfe and Paul Friesse, who finished two-three.

Sambor of Fordson gave Bob Jenks his first real competition in the 100 yard breast stroke and it wasn't until the 60 yard turn that Jenks began pulling away from his rivals to sew up the event by a good margin. Hall, of the Blue Devil team, captured a third far behind the leaders.

While the spectators were still excitedly chattering about the Blue Devils' taking the lead, Kildow scored his record smashing victory in the 200 to give the Pointers their largest lead of the day.

The 100 yard back stroke event had the fans standing in their seats as the four contestants battled on even terms for 80 yards, but on the last leg Fordson's Ronchetto had too much power and forced the Pointers to be satisfied with second and third, captured by Jim Flom and Doug Buck respectively.

The 100 yard free style race was the hottest of the meet. The distance of four feet separated all four contestants at the finish, with Burt Spurrier getting the nod over Fordson's Martin and Alexander. It was so close that the stop watches split a tenth of a second into fractions.

Little Jimmy Fosmoe had to show plenty of stuff on the last leg of the 120 yard individual medley relay event to win over Faltel and Owen of Fordson. Fosmoe was guilty of loafing on his turns last week, which spelled his defeat in the River Rouge meet. He held a three yard lead on the breast stroke lap but lost this advantage and a couple of more yards on the back stroke lap. It was at the 100 yard turn that he turned on the heat and nosed out Faltel by the narrowest of margins. This win put the Blue Devils out in front, 29 to 24, going into the diving event.

Flanders turned in a surprise victory in the diving for a valuable five points, but the Tractors hung on when Holloway and Ickies took second and third. It was at this point in the meet that the Tractors forged into the lead for the second time in the contest on the disqualification of the 180 medley, which was won by the Pointers by a two and a half yard margin.

Reserve Five

Final MinuteFordson Knocks High School
Second Team Out of Unbeaten Ranks, 31-26

Coach Harold Fisher's reserve basketball team took it on the chin last Friday night, December 20, and dropped its first basketball game in three starts to the Fordson Tractors to the tune of 31 to 26.

The game was a thriller right up to the final minute of play when the Blue Devils let a one point victory slip through their fingers.

Paced by Vince Schoek in the first quarter the Pointers grabbed a 10 to 7 lead and continued throughout the second period to build up a 21 to 13 advantage at the half time intermission.

The Tractors came back strong in the third period, scoring nine points while holding the Pointers to four foul shots with some fine defensive play.

The fourth quarter was a repetition of the third, with Fordson racking up another nine points while holding the Blue Devils to a field goal and a couple of free throws.

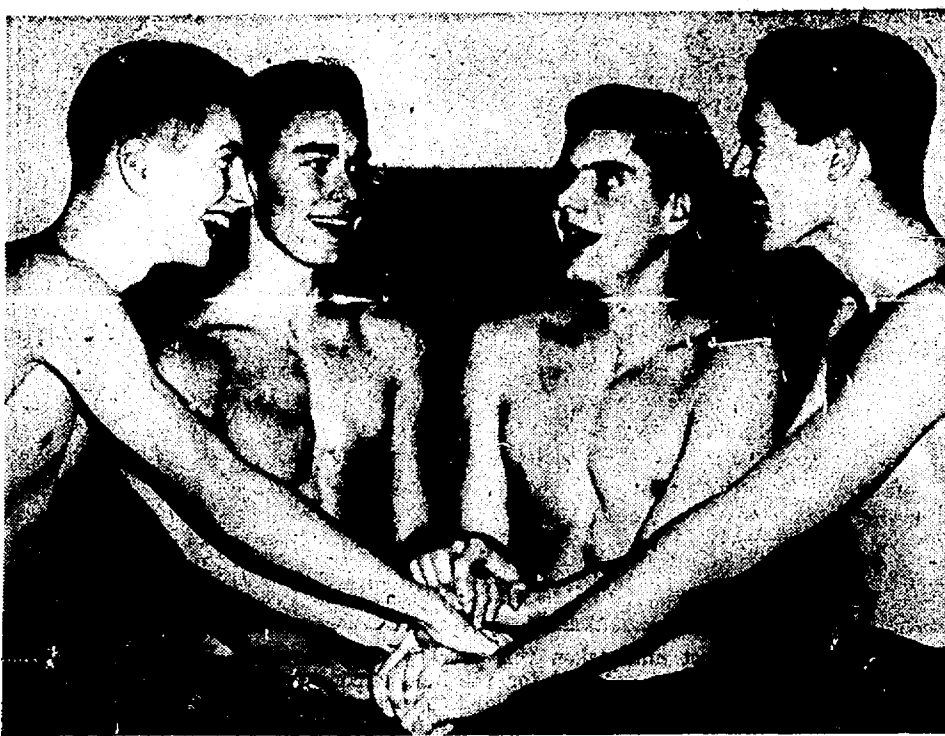

Despite the fact that the Tractors scored nine points in the last period the Pointers held a one point lead until one minute of playing time remained. Some foolish passing on the Blue Devils' part practically handed Fordson three baskets in the last minute for the 31 to 26 victory.

With victory within their grasp the Pointers refused to try and freeze the ball for the remaining 60 seconds and went all out to build up the narrow margin.

Vince Schoek of Grosse Pointe led both teams in individual scoring honors with 12 points. Isom and Edick of Fordson tied for runner-up honors with seven points each.

SPEEDER ARRESTED
City Patrolmen Allor and Teatert gave a ticket to Clarence F. Grant of 1448 E. Milwaukee, Detroit, for speeding 40 m.p.h. on December 20 on the City's streets.

"On a Note of Triumph"

The joy of achievement is graphically reflected in the faces of these four members of the Grosse Pointe High School's 160 yard free style relay swimming team just after they had broken the school record, in their meet with River Rouge on December 17 in the local pool. Left to right are: FRED LAFERTE, BILL WOLFE, BILL KILDOW and TED MUMFORD.

Nelson was well known for his basketball at Grosse Pointe High School where he was graduated in 1945.

Tec 5 Nelson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Nelson of 283 Lincoln road, Grosse Pointe.

Cadillac Glass Gets Hot
To Set New League Mark

In the feature match of the evening in the East Side Independent Bowling League on December 17, Kubiak Jewelry, led by Don Snyder's 598, defeated the Cadillac Glass team and took three points.

Cadillac really got hot in the last game, four men rolling over 200 and the team set a new league high of an even 1000 for the one game.

Another hard match saw Horn Fuel down 98 pins in the first game then come back to take the last two and get an even break with Town Pump.

The Whittier Cleaners supplied the big surprise of the night when they took Al Long Ford over the jumps for a clean sweep. Bill Sketch had a 605 series and Gil Sarkison rolled a 233.

Star Bar and Sprenger Shoes both scored clean sweeps over Kercheval Machinery and Merle respectively. Form-Rite, Falcon Rec, Jim's Bar, Jack's Service, Hakim Brothers, and George's Five all split to make for a nice sociable evening.

Harper Berkshire took three from Kuriya Motors. Dillon grabbed three from the S. and M. Bar team.

The league is having a two weeks' vacation during the holidays.

Dewey Elected
Football Captain

In a vote of returning members of Grosse Pointe High School's football squad, Tom Dewey, regular guard on the 1946 team, was elected to captain the Grosse Pointe High School football team in 1947.

CAR, TRUCK, CRASH
A delivery truck and a passenger car crashed at Kercheval and Fisher at 5 p. m. on December 21, with very little resulting damage.

Robert J. Hoyt, of 314 University place, driver of the truck, admitted the blame. Robert F. Olsen of Kensington road was the driver of the passenger car.

Olson Stars While Devils
Are Losing to Fordson FiveShoots High Individual Score for Third Straight Game;
30-26 Loss for Pointers First of Season

Despite the fact that they lost their first basketball game of the season to Fordson, Border Cities League defending champions, 30 to 26, the long bus ride home from Dearborn wasn't the usual gloomy affair as in previous years when the Pointers lost a game.

As a matter of fact the ride seemed unusually short because Bob Olson, individual high point scorer for the evening kept the entire group in stitches with his antics and funny stories. Of course the team felt badly about losing its first game of the year, but looked at the sunny side and vowed that the Tractors would pay dearly for their deeds when the two teams meet again later in the season on the Blue Devils home court.

Every time Olson opened his mouth to tell a story about his grandpa or some golfing incident he had experienced, the whole gang in the back of the bus would rush forward for a good listening spot near Bob. Of course, Olson had plenty of reason to be jovial because the Fordson game marked the third time in as many games that he had annexed the individual scoring honors. He racked up 14 of the Devils 26 points, despite Fordson's attempt to bottle him up.

Even though Fordson was unable to stop Olson it was successful in bottling up forwards Dick Wuerker and Johnny Rummel and that is the reason it was able to brag about a victory over the Pointers. Wuerker and Rummel were both held scoreless, which is a feat in itself as both boys very seldom score less than eight points apiece.

Paul Grubbs thrilled the crowd with some spectacular shooting in the first two periods, all of them coming in crucial moments. Besides hitting the mesh for eight points Grubbs played a heady floor game in bringing the ball down the court, as did Ed Lebey, his running mate at the guard positions.

For three minutes of the first period neither team was able to find the range. Olson connected with a tip-in shot under the basket and Grubbs hit the hoop with two "long Toms" before the Tractors could count on a free toss by Lillo.

Olson added two more field goals and a free toss before the end of the period to give his team what looked to be a nice 11 to 5 lead.

Fordson started hitting the mesh in the second period and scored 11 points to run its total to 16 while the Blue Devils could only muster three points in this period, two by Olson and one by Grubbs.

Early in the third quarter Coach Wernet substituted Tom Willson for Johnny Rummel and Willson promptly stole the ball from the Fordson guard for a field goal. He was fouled in the act of shooting and was awarded a free toss, which he made, to give the Pointers a one point lead 17 to 16.

Before the third quarter had ended Fordson found the range for seven points to take a 23 to 21 lead after Olson had connected on a field goal and a foul which brought the Blue Devils total to 20.

Olson and Grubbs tried valiantly to pull the game out of the fire in the last period by scoring five points between them, but Fordson found the range and counted seven points. Ed Lebey added the final point to the Pointers' total on a free throw after Lollo tried some football tactics on him.

Lolo of Fordson by far turned in the outstanding defensive game of the evening by sticking to Wuerker like glue and holding him scoreless while scoring eight points himself, which tied him with Grubbs for runner-up spot behind Olson.

One thing that worked against the Blue Devils was Fordson's vast gymnasium, which is about twice the size of the Pointers home court. Every other team in the Border Cities League has a large court which will tend to work against the Blue Devils because they have to practice in a two by four gym.

Skis Made for Army Patrols Find Way Under Xmas Trees

At least one item of war surplus occupies an important place under thousands of Christmas trees in Michigan homes this year.

The boy or girl who received a pair of finely made skis will probably never know that they were originally intended for troops who patrolled the far-north outposts of our Army during the war.

At the end of the war, the government found it had more than 100,000 pairs left over—a normal supply for about five years. They were turned over to War Assets Administration and the entire lot was disposed of several weeks ago. A return of $2,000,000, or more than 80 per cent of original cost, was realized on the sale.

Disposed of through regular trade channels, the skis found their way into retail outlets in time for the Christmas buying season. Increased interest in skiing, especially by winter playgrounds each year, was responsible for the heavy demand, WAA reported. The price, far below that usually asked for skis of equal quality, was also a factor, it was said.

The skis are of the military, mountain type, some of laminated hickory and others of solid hickory.

Life on Ranches in Wyoming Helps Over-Privileged Boys

For twelve years, W. H. Mitchell, a former penitentiary psychologist, has been studying the factors that stimulate character development. Analyzing the biographies of leaders in American business and professional life, he found that they were faced with responsibilities during adolescence, if not downright hardship.

Today, however, even the best urban homes are seldom able to provide character training duties and obligations. In 1936, working from these observations, Mitchell set up a ranch home in the Rockies for boys from good homes who were failing in school and social adjustments. They were provided with responsibilities in the form of individual project work and daily chores. Even when attending school each boy in the "family" group had his own chores and duties just as did the youth of an earlier generation. Profit from any major project work went directly to the individual boy whose persistence and effort had made it a success.

As this procedure demonstrated results, Mitchell found that the group was getting too large to retain the benefit of a family relationship. He therefore selected a few outstanding ranch families on all-year "working" ranches to assist in this work. A capable

Artists to Talk To Camera Club

New Year season of the Grosse Pointe Camera Club will commence Tuesday evening, January 7, with a detailed lecture and demonstration of oil coloring of photographs.

Stanley Kenn, president of the club, has made arrangements with several outstanding color artists to appear before the meeting on that evening and show the various mediums used in coloring and the steps necessary in order that perfection be reached in that line of work. The artists will bring with them many types of photographs including landscapes and portraits which will be used as the subject matters of the coloring.

The demonstration will be under the direct supervision of Don Thomas, professor of photography and well known for his local portraits.

The meeting will be open to those of the public who may be interested in oil coloring of photographs.

Former Farms Officer Here to Spend Holidays

Old friends are welcoming Al Crooks back to the Pointe for a Christmas visit. Al was a Farms police officer for many years, and resigned early this year to take over the management of a hotel in Carrolltown, Penna.

He and Mrs. Crooks arrived Saturday to spend a week with her family, the Michael Beaupres.

William H. Kingbeil Takes Course at SMU

William Hayward Kingbeil of 1041 Lochmoor boulevard, Grosse Pointe Woods, has completed a five-weeks' course in Life Insurance Marketing at Southern Methodist University, Dallas, Tex.

He served with the army as a first lieutenant, and is a graduate of the University of Michigan, where he received his B.A. degree.

clinical psychologist in Wyoming acts as field supervisor, counsels the boys and assists the ranch "parents."

Mitchell, who makes his Detroit headquarters at 1345 Book Building, interviews parents and studies the individual boys. His understanding of their problems makes it possible for him to place them at the particular Wyoming Home Ranch best suited to assist in their development.

When visiting the Grosse Pointe News, Mitchell observed that considerable attention is focused on the under-privileged boy, while the "over-privileged boy" is often left to mature as best he can without the character-forming opportunities of previous generations.

Costume Party Given New Touch

If passers-by wondered about the strange looking people they saw going into the Robert W. Scripps home on Balfour road last Saturday evening, their curiosity was more than justified. Those oddly dressed people were the Scripps' guests—arriving for a costume party.

And those costumes were not ready-made or rented—they were made, according to instructions from the hosts, out of materials on hand in the guests' homes.

Among those who arrived in "original attire" were Dr. and Mrs. Alexander Blain III, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Kimbrough, the Herbert D. Kilners, Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Kinzie, the Charles B. Johnsons, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. John P. Sells, Mr. and Mrs. James P. Harris, Mr. and Mrs. George Bieberbach, the Robert W. Stangards III, Bill Baubie, Liz Robb, Ann Lilley and Fred Hughes.

Jail Promised Drunk Drivers

"Drunk Drivers Go To Jail" is no idle threat in Detroit.

Through the first eleven and one-half months of this year, 638 drunk drivers went to jail for 6,771 days, according to figures released today by Traffic Court.

Traffic Court officials said these figures were being released at this time in the hope they would deter some motorists from mixing driving and drinking during this holiday season. That is an excellent way of spoiling the holiday and winding up in jail, they pointed out.

At the same time Police Traffic Director James M. Lupton warned that from now until January 1 police would be doubly alert for drinking drivers. They are the chief menace on Detroit streets during the holiday season, he said.

"More drunk drivers are arrested during December, and particularly during the holiday season, than in any month of the year," he declared. "To protect Detroiters during the afternoon and night hours from the motorist who drinks and then drives, the Police Department has canceled all leaves of officers. Every man on those two shifts will be on duty with instructions to be constantly on the alert for drunk drivers."

That more drunk drivers are arrested in December was borne out by the Traffic Court figures. Officials pointed out that almost all of these cases are brought to trial in January. Last January 108 persons were convicted of drunk driving and given jail sentences.

Court officials said also that more than three times as many drivers have been convicted of drunk driving and given jail sentences this year as in 1945. This year 893 drivers have been convicted and 638 given jail sentences, while in 1945 only 295 were convicted and 187 sentenced to jail. Drivers who were not given jail sentences received heavy fines.

Trombly School Students Present Christmas Plays

On Tuesday, December 17, the 5A, 3rd and 4th grades at Trombly School presented a Christmas play, "The Prophecy Fulfilled." The characters in the play were Joseph, played by John Vafis; Mary, Marcia Murphy; King Herod, David Reimer; his guards, Walter Eversman and Wendel Faulk; Priest, Bobby Cole; Scribe, Robert Bell; attendant, Peter McKee. Angels were portrayed by Patsy Miller, Martha Hoyer and Judy Grady. Shepherds were Robert Schriber, Nelson Sherbourne and Thomas White and the Three Wise Men were Jerry Tobler, Bruce Rockwell and Frank Crane. The narrator, Gail Hoffman, related the events in the life of Christ.

The remainder of the children in these grades made up the chorus which sang many Christmas songs.

This play was under the direction of Olga Martin, Bette J. Craver and Mae Fuller.

The parents who attended enjoyed the program as it had much of the true Christmas spirit. The play retold the story of the birth of Christ and His message to the world.

The 5th and 6th graders of Trombly School presented a play, "Christmas Eve With St. Francis," written by the Departmental English classes. The time was the Thirteenth Century.

The scene opened with St. Francis and the Monks on the way to Greccio. Ernest Nigg took the part of the Narrator, Joe Lenz played St. Francis, Ronald Nelson, Bill Morrison, Norman Soper and David McKee were the Monks.

The second scene showed St. Francis inspired by the Shepherds with Gretchen Schroeder, Jean Leete and Merwyn Keyes as the shepherds.

The climax of the play came in the third scene with Don MacFarlane as Sir John and the villagers chosen from the 5th and 6th grades in the courtyard of Sir John's Palace in Greccio. They were worshipping the Baby Jesus in the manger as St. Francis retold the Christmas story.

The action of the play was greatly enhanced by the traditional Christmas Carols sung by the chorus of about sixty 5th and 6th graders.

Thief Displays Expensive Taste

There was a breaking and entry at the James H. Hicks residence at 829 Pemberton sometime between noon and 9:30 p. m. on Dec. 19.

The entrance was made by breaking a glass window in the rear of the house. The upper floors of the house were thoroughly ransacked. The thief had an eye for values, as a considerable quantity of costume jewelry was put aside in a dresser drawer, but the more valuable pieces were taken. The police have not yet received a list of the stuff taken nor its estimated value.

School News

TROMBLY SCHOOL
Projects individual and in groups were again the main topic in each classroom at Trombly.

The 1A group is building a model farm in connection with the study of farm life.

The 2A and 3B room has built a Centerville Post Office. They took a trip to the Trombly office to see the post office for the teachers. They then put individual post boxes in their post office. The children enjoy sending letters and receiving them.

Nancy Hays had a birthday and received a birthday package and letters through the Centerville Post Office. The students are studying R. F. D. mail delivery on a small island and Pony Express. Bruce Rockwell is the Postman and Chuck Norris is the Mail Clerk. They are making oral and written reports on post office activities.

The 3A and 4B grades are working on murals and reports about an island village and San Francisco. They are making a model of Sutter's Fort with an Indian Village near it. The 3A class is working on an island village made of clay.

The 4B-4A room is studying about California. Dennis McGinty brought many articles from Chinatown. Phil Hutchins brought some samples of the redwood tree and Roberta Stevens some petrified redwood. They have many folders and pictures of Hollywood. Committees are busy making California scenes and reports on California.

The 5B-2 class is planning a showcase which will show how Detroit looked at the time of Pontiac's Conspiracy. The boys and girls, under the leadership of David Lyndrup and Richard Andrews, are modeling Indians, houses, bridges and utensils from clay.

The 5A-1 class had an interesting flag raising exercise Friday morning, October 4. Margo Knoch, Gretchen Schroeder, Suzanne Dauch, Jay Ann Covault, Charles Reese, Ronald Hartung and Patsy Kelly told about the correct ways of displaying the Santa for Servicemen Editor E. JEROME PETTIT of the Detroit Times dropped in with one of the broadcast stars, lovely MAUREEN CANNON, star of "Up In Central Park," and they enjoyed a late luncheon at the LONDON CHOP HOUSE.

Golf Club Gives Orphans Annual Christmas Party

The Ridgmont Golf Club gave its customary annual Christmas party for orphans on Sunday, Dec. 15. There were 40 of the youngsters, with about half of them from Grosse Pointe.

James Heslop, the club caterer, had immediate charge of the Christmas cheer. The party lasted from 1:30 p. m. until 6 o'clock.

The children were given hot dogs and hot chocolate when they first arrived and were then loaded in for a hayrack ride, with a

Tag, Jim Jackson, Durst Thome, Tom Donahue and Wilson Bryce, with their wind instruments, accompanied the student body in the singing of America.

The following students in 6A-1, Ronald Nelson, David Cobb, Lawrence Daniel, Pat Burke, Burke, Gail Matzen, Donald Schmidt, Kay Jameson, Raymond Osborne, and Joan Couger, are brightening up the cafeteria with a big mural 4 feet long and 24 feet wide. It depicts the different types of food that are brought to our tables from all over the world.

In connection with the unit on Medicine and Health a committee of three pupils in 6B-2, Judith Evans, Mary Jane Hoover, and Richard Wade are making a chart 24"x35" of the circulatory system of the human body. Later they will learn to trace the blood circulation.

Extra curricular activities include decorating the room. This month's theme is Hallowe'en. The results so far are gay and very clever in their originality.

We welcome to Trombly School this year Frank Cody, 1A, from Guyton School; Thomas Ahonan, 3B, Marine City School; Frank Crane, 3B, Rankin School, Akron, Ohio; Dick Burnett, 3A, Defer; Judy Grady, 3A, Wirt School, Gary, Ind.; Barbara Wenzel, 3A, Guyton School; John Wenzel, 1B, Guyton School; Sally Burnett, 4A, and Nancy Burnett, 4B, both from Defer School; Clifford Jenkins, 4B, Richard School; John Winkam, 4A, Grosse Pointe Country Day; LaVerne Athman, 6A, St. Claire Montefelco; Beverly Hanson, 5B, Lincoln School, Alpena, Mich.; Virginia Roberts, 5A-2, Vernier School; Robert Meadows, 5B-2, South Lake High School, St. Claire Shores; Paul Parker, 5B-2, Holy Cross School, South Bend, Ind.; Carol Goodrich, 5B-2, Mark Twain School, Penn.

Pat Burke went through the Turnpike in Pennsylvania. There are seven tunnels in it.

Rita Miller receives interesting letters from his cousin in Copenhagen, Denmark.

Frances Crowley toured the east coast, visited her aunt in New Jersey and saw New York. Delphine Walgenbach went up the St. Lawrence around the Gaspé to Ottawa and then to her grandmothers in Mitchell, Canada. David Cobb sailed across Lake Michigan to Milwaukee.

Gaylord Greene, a new student in the 6A, flew from Los Angeles, Calif., to Philadelphia. From Philadelphia he went to New York, toured the wonder city and on to New Jersey and Detroit where he is now making his home.

The Jolly Junior Blue Bird Group of Trombly had their first election of officers for the year. Janet Rae was elected president, Ann Marie Hellstrom, secretary. Others present were Ann Elizabeth Bacon, Carol Stongking, Irene Stimpfle, Mitz, Spiers, Frances Butterfield, Beverly Johnston and Alice Jane Moore. We hope to see Constance Pavey soon.

Dramatic Guild Presenting Play

Of lively interest to theatergoers and those seeking holiday entertainment, is the coming dramatic Guild presentation of the sparkling comedy "Papa Is All," at the Music Hall for five nights beginning Saturday, Dec. 28.

Charles D. Adams, prominent theatrical producer for Detroit's Dramatic Guild, and director of the Guild's two recent productions — "Personal Appearance" and "Out of the Frying Pan" — continues in his capacity as director of the Christmas week offering.

Backed by Detroit business and industrial leaders who are interested in bringing more good plays within reach of the Motor City's theater-loving public, the Dramatic Guild offers, in "Papa Is All," an outstanding cast of Detroiters of stage, screen and radio experience.

"Papa Is All," Patterson Greene's comedy drama, has been described by the New York Times as "a completely entertaining play... a popular comedy with a funny plot." In bringing this story of a colorful Pennsylvania Dutch family rebelling against its tyrannical father, director Adams has cast Florence Steep, William Saunders, Robert Dale, Jan Koste, Virginia Glasgow and Ivan MacDonald in the important roles.

Youths Invited To Leave Movie

A group of four boys who had gone into the Alamo theater Sunday afternoon made such a disturbance that the manager refunded their money and requested them to get out. The boys took their refund alright but then decided they wouldn't go anyway.

A call to the Park police station brought a couple of officers, who had no great difficulty in removing the reluctant ones. They were taken to the police station where after questioning and reprimand by Sergeant Vernier they were let go with a warning.

Edison Promotes Fred A. Compton

Fred A. Compton, formerly purchasing agent, has been appointed sales manager of the Detroit Edison Company, it has been announced by Angus D. McLay, vice president in charge of sales.

Chester F. Ogden, formerly assistant purchasing agent, has been appointed purchasing agent by James W. Parker, president, to succeed Mr. Compton.

Mr. McLay has held the position of vice president and sales manager since the retirement in 1943 of Miss Sarah M. Sheridan. He continues as vice president.

Mr. Compton, born in Fort Wayne, was graduated from the engineering college of the University of Michigan in 1914. He has since that date been in Detroit Edison's construction and purchasing departments except for service as an officer in World War I. He was active in a utility material procurement exchange program, working with the government and other utilities in the second World War at the request of J. A. Krug, then director of the office of war utilities. Since 1939 he has had charge of purchases at Detroit Edison, including fuel.

Mr. Ogden has been with Detroit Edison since 1934 when he was graduated as an engineer with business administration training from the University of Michigan. During the war Ogden was active in the company's rationing programs and in continuing the company's standardization of purchased items.

Swedish RC Auxiliary Given Christmas Tea

Mrs. Otto Lundell was hostess in her home on Bishop road Friday recently to members and friends of the Swedish RC Auxiliary of the American Red Cross, for a Christmas tea.

Receiving the guests was Mrs. Charles Brown, assisted by Mrs. Harry Newberg, Mrs. Lewi Hult, Mrs. Viking Johnson, Mrs. Axel Jundahl and Mrs. Arvid Kristenson.

Mrs. W. L. Lund and Mrs. Pierce Barker presided over the tea table, which was decorated with Christmas greens.

DEFER SCHOOL

During their activity period, the pupils at Defer constructed a theater stage equipped with lights and curtains; also a display case with adjustable shelves, to present their artistic as well as practical expression in the things they have been studying.

In addition the students will receive a $25-a-month allowance and traveling expenses for one round-trip ticket home a year.

Housewives Get High Fat Prices

The price has now gone up on something the average housewife has to sell according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture. With the lifting of the price controls, the prices paid by Detroit grocers to housewives for used household grease has more than doubled.

Under OPA control, dealers paid four cents a pound for salvaged fat. Now the prevailing price in the Detroit area is 10 cents, although prices range as high as 13 cents and as low as 4 cents. John W. Pierce, USDA Area Supervisor, points out that while saving household fats is now more lucrative, the big incentive to most housewives is the knowledge that the fats are used to make more soap and other hard-to-get consumer goods.

Saving household fats is simple. Fat drippings should be strained into tin cans and taken to any butcher shop. In some neighborhoods pick-up service is available through the Girl Scouts.

Are you a musician? The United States Navy is in need of qualified musicians for Navy Bands. Selected applicants will be given an intensive course of instruction at the Navy School of Music. See your local Navy Recruiting Officer for complete details.

Veteranews

The Social Security Act was amended on August 10 to provide survivors' benefits for dependents of certain World War II veterans who have died or will die within a limited period after discharge.

To qualify for benefits under deceased veteran must show that the veteran was in active military or naval service on or after September 16, 1940, and before the official end of the war. The veteran must have had at least 90 days service, or, if his service was less than 90 days, it must have been terminated by reason of a service-connected disability or injury.

The law applies to veterans who die or have died within three years after their discharge and who were discharged within four days and one day after the termination of the war as determined by presidential proclamation or declaration of congress. The veteran must have been discharged from the service under conditions other than dishonorable.

The law does not apply to veterans who die or have died within three years after their discharge and who were discharged within four days and one day after the termination of the war as determined by presidential proclamation or declaration of congress. The veteran must have been discharged from the service under conditions other than dishonorable.
