EVIDENCE supplied by a refugee scientist from the Russian zone, disclosed organized espionage in the secret radar research center of the Army Signal Corps at Fort Monmouth, N. J. The scientist, an electronics expert who escaped his Communist masters in an East German laboratory early in June, 1952, crossed into the American zone and presented much data to military authorities. The story, now told, was withheld lest premature publicity interfere with the investigation. A number of missing secret files were found in East Germany.

FOLLOWING heavy political repercussions in which a Democrat was elected to the U. S. Senate, President Eisenhower set out to four five states in the Midwest farm belt. Lester R. Johnston, who denounced the Eisenhower Administration's farm policy, was the first Democrat in the State of Wisconsin's history to be elected to the Senate. The Republican loser, State Senator Arthur L. Padgett, stated his defeat was due to the dissatisfaction of the farmers of the state against the farm, power and money policies of the present administration.

DEMONSTRATING anti-Communist Chinese prisoners were given an ultimatum by the commander of the Indian custodian troops, Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya, in which he stated the prisoners must listen to Red "explanation teams" or he would send soldiers into the compounds. He said the prisoners will have to attend the sessions, and if this is not complied with, his troops will have to use force. The prisoners were flatly refusing to listen to Red representatives, who are hoping to coax them back to Communist rule.

RUSSIA'S Andrei Vishinsky bluntly warned the United Nations' 11-nation Security Council at the end of a 40-minute speech, that as far as Moscow is concerned there will be no Trieste settlement unless Russia is permitted to participate. He charged that the recent decision of the United States and Britain to turn over Zone A to Italy is in direct violation of the Italian peace treaty. Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., chief American delegate, in a counter charge, claimed the Russians brought up the issue for propaganda purposes.

WAYNE COUNTY is considering the giving of its fifteen-million-dollar General Hospital to the State. The County Board of Supervisors will act on the recommendations of the Ways and Means Committee that it cut loose from the operational losses incurred in caring for State mental patients. Similarly, the seven-million dollar Wayne County Training School is included in the gift proposal. The gift offers specify that the State must continue to operate the two institutions with Wayne paying its own cost. The General Hospital infirmary is not included.

SENATOR McCARTHY stated that a former Communist Party member told his Senate investigating committee, that executed Julius Rosenberg had access to all radar secrets and other secret material at the Fort Monmouth Army Signal Corps laboratory in New Jersey. The dead man was also named as the master mind of the ring that may have outlived him. The senator said that the person who presented this testimony was a classmate of Rosenberg at the City College of New York.

NAVAL INTELLIGENCE and the FBI are probing a blast which occurred aboard the United States aircraft carrier Leyte, in Boston Harbor. The explosion claimed the lives of 35 persons and injured 40, many critically. The dead included 23 enlisted men, eight officers and four civilian workers. The wreckage in some of the ship's compartments, caused by the blast, was such that a thorough search could not be carried out, leaving a possibility that more bodies would be found on the ship. Plan to Add To Parking Area in City

To Lease Strip for 125 More Cars Adjoining Alley North of Kercheval

In the near future the City of Grosse Pointe will provide 125 more parking spaces in The Village area. Plans have been made to lease a strip of land running parallel to Kercheval and extending behind the Kroger, Kresge and Cunningham stores.

This strip is 175 feet long and 20 feet wide. It is owned by the David Whitney Estate; the School Board, and James S. Holden. The City will lease the land at no cost for an indefinite period. It will have the right to put in parking meters, pave, and police the area. All proceeds from the meters will go to the City.

Meters Profitable

There are already 100 meters on Kercheval in the Village area. They paid for themselves in seven months. Last week they took in $206, and this does not include the meters in the Ferry parking lot behind Sander's.

Neil Blondell, Assistant City Clerk, reports that in the first six months of this year the Village parking meters took in $8,916.31. It is expected that the meters will average a $15,000 income for the City every year.

Farms to Give Annual Party

The officials of the Farms City Government will play host to the municipal employees at the Annual Employee Management meeting on Tuesday, November 3.

Memorial Center Directors Elect New Slate of Officers

James Lee, II of Chalfonte road was elected to succeed John Roney as president of the War Memorial Association at the October 12 meeting of the new Board of Directors for the Center. In taking over the leadership of the Center's affairs, Mr. Lee is adding to an already impressive list of responsibilities, including service on the Grosse Pointe School Board, leadership in Princeton affairs, locally and nationally, and prominence in national public relations organizations. Mrs. John F. Hering, former manager of the Women's City Club, who has acted as president of the Restauranters' Association and now teaches restaurant management at Wayne University, as well as handling the downtown Red Cross Canteen in her spare time, is vice-president. Alger Sheldon, whose vision and years of volunteer effort brought the Center into being, and Mrs. Charles T. Ellis, who developed a barren house into a well-equipped community building, will act as honorary vice-presidents. Richard F. Huegli, director in the United Community Services, will continue to volunteer his professional advice and serve as treasurer, assisted by Robert M. Surdam. Donald M. D. Thurber, will serve as the Memorial Association's secretary with Marlon Kellogg, attorney, as assistant.

Health Education Council Discusses Parent-Student Problems, Relationships

School Officials and Other Experts on Subject Get Together With Mothers to Air Many Phases of Growing Up Years

It came as a surprise to most members of the Mothers' Health Education Council of Grosse Pointe to learn that Walter R. Cleminson, principal, and others in authority at the High School fully disclaimed responsibility for the chartering of buses to take teen-agers to football and basketball games away from home.

Many of the mothers had understood that the buses had been arranged by the school. Mr. Cleminson suggested that parents say "no" to children's requests to take rides on these bus trips. Dr. Ralph Steffek, counselor, said it was "neither the function nor the responsibility of the school to transfer students to night athletic contests."

Explains Situation Mr. Cleminson said it was easy for individual youths to charter a bus. A 12-year-old girl can order a bus for charter, provided a group paid the money. There would be no adult supervision other than the driver because the school could not provide chaperones.

The question arose at the first meeting of the Mothers' Health Education Council at the War Memorial Center. This panel discussion of "Teen Ager's Activities" was arranged by Dr. Mary C. Stellhorn, program chairman, with Mrs. Alice Moody Sheaffer, school board member as moderator.

Dating Age Worries "When our children reach the dating age it is natural to feel concerned," said Mrs. Sheaffer in keynoting the discussion. "We do not want to be categorized as the old-fashioned, bossy, 'do just as I say' type of parents who make adolescents want to avoid talking to us; nor do we want to use the policy of 'do just as you wish' that makes them feel deserted and lost. Fortunately, today we know a balance between the two is sounder and healthier."

Dr. Steffek, speaking as a counselor, teacher and parent of four, said: "The primary responsibility for the welfare of the child must be the parents."

Farms to Add To Parking Lot

At their Monday night meeting the Farms City Council approved plans for expanding the parking facilities in the lot behind the local business district on Kercheval hill.

The addition will provide spaces for another 50 cars after the lot is pushed back into the Richard School playground area. It will cost $400 to tear down the existing fence, and $500 to remove the dirt. Another $300 will be spent to surface the area with cinders and re-locate barriers.

Mazer Appointed To City Office

At the October 19 meeting of the Grosse Pointe City Council, John Mazer was appointed Commissioner of Public Safety for that City.

This interim appointment is good until the November 3 election, and then will have to be ratified again by the incoming council.

Mr. Mazer will act as a liaison officer between the police and fire departments and the city mayor and council.

PLENTY OF HEADACHES

There can be many headaches connected with a new house, and seven-year old Jimmy Coyle can tell you all about it. While he was playing in a home being constructed on Beacon Hill, Jimmy fell and cut a gash on his forehead. Farms police took him to Bon Secours hospital where it took six stitches to close the wound.

Incineration Plant Plans Strike Snag

Residents of Clinton Township Flood Their Council With Opposing Petitions

Pressure applied by irate residents of Clinton Township, Macomb County, has definitely cancelled the Grosse Pointe Refuse Authority's plans for building an incinerator in that community.

A premature release of plans to build an $850,000 incinerator at Quinn road between Gratiot and Harper, stirred up opposition from residents in that area, who presented the Clinton Township Trustees with a petition bearing the signatures of 434 residents opposed to the project.

Previously, the Authority persuaded the trustees to grant an option on 42 acres of land at the pickled site and rezone it for industrial use.

At a public hearing, held Monday, October 19, residents stormed the council chambers and presented their petition, and threatened that if a permit to build is granted to the Authority, the residents will seek an injunction preventing the incinerator being built near them.

Township Excluded Clinton Township would have been part of the Authority, and because the incinerator would have been within its boundaries, would have disposed of its refuse and rubbish without cost. Now the township has been excluded as a member.

The Authority is casting about for another site, close enough to be able to conveniently serve the Pointes and Harper Woods.

Halloween Party Helpers Needed

Plans for the 1953 Halloween parties are reaching their final stages. Grosse Pointe children are anticipating attending one of the parties to be held at Pierce, Parcells, Defer, Trombly, Maire, or the High School on Saturday, October 31.

Dr. R. K. O'Neil, who is in charge of supervision of parties, needs volunteer men to supplement those provided by organizations. Work will be divided into shifts of two hours. Men who are able to help are urged to call Dr. O'Neil at VA. 2-5707.

HOT SEAT

When Farms police cruising on Grosse Pointe boulevard saw smoke coming from a parked car on Thursday, October 6, they summoned the fire department. The small fire which had started in the front seat was extinguished, and owner Roland Kahn, a Grosse Pointe High School student was notified.

Opposition Raised To Site for Woods Municipal Garage

Former Councilman Arnold Diesing Argues That Mack Park Has Already Been Designated As Location of Building

Former Woods Councilman Arnold Diesing appeared before the Woods council on Monday, October 19, to protest the city's proposed building of its municipal garage at the Marter road site.

As a result of his protest, which was backed by Councilman Rex Johnston, the council called for a special meeting to be held on Monday, October 26, at which time the site will be discussed and a possible ordinance amendment be made, permitting the erection of a municipal building in a residential zone.

Already Appropriated According to Mr. Diesing, the city had already appropriated land, Mack Park, which was originally chosen as the site for the erection of a building for all the municipal departments in the city.

He held up as an example of what he meant, the Municipal Building of the City of Oak Park in Oakland County which houses the city hall, police and fire departments and every other department necessary to carry on local government.

Backing up Diesing's statement regarding the choosing of Mack Park as the original site, Councilman Johnston read several excerpts from different meetings, which began with the selecting of the Mack Park site to that on Marter road. The gist of his findings pointed out that the council had buffeted the site for the building around so much, that gradually it ended up at the Marter road site.

When asked, City Attorney Jules Berns, pointed out that a correct interpretation of the city's zoning ordinance places the Marter road site and Mack Park in the residential one-story building zone, and that the ordinance makes no provision for the erecting of municipal or public service structures in such zones.

The council will also discuss amendments to ordinances regarding the use of real estate signs on public property and the burning of rubbish on the same.

Local Educator Gets High Honor

J. Harold Husband, Director of Administrative Services of Grosse Pointe Public Schools, was elected a Director of the Association of School Business Officials of the United States and Canada, at the convention of the association which was held last week in Cleveland.

Mr. Husband is also president of the Michigan Association of School Business Officials.

The honor conferred on Mr. Husband is considered especially significant, as there are only nine directors for this association which covers the entire United States and Canada.

Mr. Husband will attend the annual meeting of the executive board in Los Angeles on December 30 and 31. The board will be guests of the Rose Bowl Committee for the football game on New Year's Day and for the Rose Bowl parade.

All expenses of this trip will be paid for by the national association.

TO SEEK GOVERNORSHIP State Treasurer D. Hale Brake has announced that he will be a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor in the 1954 primary election.

Woods Merchants Request Better Disposal Service

Woods City Manager Ray MacArthur informed the council on Monday, October 19, that many business places on Mack avenue were complaining that the city was not giving enough service on rubbish pickups.

Mr. MacArthur stated that last year, rubbish was picked up at least twice a week, but this had been cut down to once a week earlier this year. He said that the businessmen have expressed a desire to have their rubbish picked up at least twice a week and that if this entails added expense, they were willing to pay. He said that a flat rate of $3 for extra pickups should be charged.

New School Named After D. M. Ferry

Roslyn Road Elementary Building Will Be Tribute To Philanthropist

The Grosse Pointe Board of Education, at a meeting held on Wednesday, October 14, officially approved the naming of the new Roslyn road site school as the Dexter M. Ferry, Jr. Elementary School.

The Board of Education took this action to honor the prominent Pointe philanthropist, for his many contributions on behalf of the Pointe and his fellow men.

Donated Library

Mr. Ferry, who resides at 17100 E. Jefferson, is the major donor of the Grosse Pointe Central Library.

He is a member and treasurer of the Board of Directors of the Detroit Institute of Arts; and at present is the chairman of the Board of Directors of the Standard Accident Insurance company; chairman of the Ferry-Morse Seed company, and a member of the Board of Directors of the Fire and Marine Insurance company.

For more than 25 years he served on the Grosse Pointe City council, as councilman and mayor pro tem when the city was still a village, and as mayor when the city incorporated as a city. In recognition of his long service to his community, at his retirement from civic service, he was voted a life-long honorary member of the City's council.

Controlled Finances

Throughout his entire period of serving the City, he was chairman of the Ways and Means Committee which had the major function of controlling the city's finances.

Mr. Ferry is a native of Detroit and lived a great part of his life in the Pointe.

He donated a field at the University of Michigan, which was named after him, where many of the university's athletic activities are held today. In addition, he established the University of Michigan Press, which publishes books and pamphlets written by students and the faculty of the institution.

Gave Club Site

It was Mr. Ferry who gave the property on which the Neighborhood Club was built, and it was he also who presented the Grosse Pointe Congregational Church with the property on which its building now stands.

Detroit's Dexter boulevard was named in his honor, and not content with this, that city has named a school in memory of his father, Dexter M. Ferry, Sr.

Bond Issue Of $235,000 Is Requested

Larger and Better Swimming and Boating Facilities Would be Provided

A new lake front pier to replace the one destroyed by the Spring, 1952, storm has been approved by the Grosse Pointe City Council. At a meeting Monday night the councilmen voted to submit the proposal to residents at the November 3 election.

Plans, prepared by the engineering firm of Mason L. Brown & Son, call for a steel and concrete pier extending 533 feet into Lake St. Clair.

Big Swimming Area Construction of the pier would make possible a large swimming area protected on three sides from rough water, an enclosed outer harbor for small craft, and a chance for strollers to enjoy the water and view without interference from bathers or boatsmen.

The proposed pier will have an enclosed outer harbor for small craft paralleling the shore line about 240 feet. Adequate mooring space for small boats will be provided, including row-boats, outboards and the average sailing craft up to 25 or 30 feet overall.

A large swimming area is to be developed just off the present swimming deck measuring about 175x240 feet and protected on three sides from rough water. The outer end of the proposed pier provides diving boards and space for the more advanced swimmers.

Based upon the experience gained during the lifetime of the former timber-dock structure, the plan shows a deck about twenty feet wide as against the former six feet.

More Shore Frontage The proposed pier will be built extending out from the new, 110 additional feet of land under purchase and immediately adjacent to the present shore front. The total shore frontage will be 276 feet with such addition.

The structure will, if the voters in the City approve the measure, replace the dock structure originally built in 1922, and after many years of use, destroyed by the storm of March 22, 1952, city residents thus being deprived of pier facilities by the disaster.

To Vote on November 3

The city park was acquired in 1910 and has been a source of recreational use by residents since then. The City council will submit the proposed new improvement project to the voters at the general city election to be held Tuesday, November 3, and authorization to issue not to exceed $235,000 will be requested of the qualified electors on a bond issue basis.

City residents are invited to inspect the plan of the project in the office of the City Clerk.

City Judges Find Violators Guilty

City Judges Joseph P. Uvick and Douglas L. Paterson both presided at court sessions on Tuesday, October 13.

Judge Uvick found Clive C. Cloverly, 18, of 2409 Fisher road, Detroit, guilty of simple larceny and fined him $25 and $15 costs, and ordered his driver's license held at the City police station for six months.

Cloverly was apprehended on October 2, by City police who had stopped to investigate a parked car in an alley at the rear of 17834 Mack. Finding two gasoline cans and a siphon hose near a truck in the alley, the officers searching further, discovered the youth crouching behind another truck and arrested him for investigation of larceny.

Judge Paterson found Gilbert Carrier, 18, of 788 St. Clair, guilty of reckless driving, and ordered him to pay a fine of $25 and $5 costs.

He also imposed a fine of $50 and $15 costs against John F. Zauner, 26, of 633 Notre Dame, after finding him guilty of driving while his license was revoked.

In addition, Zauner was ordered to report before Judge Paterson on Tuesday, October 20, for probation violation sentence.

Health Council Airs Student Problems

when they reach school age the parents delegate some of the responsibility to the schools. But the schools are limited in their ability to be second parents, due partly to limited staffs and budgetary problems.

Dr. Steffek told how the school recently was shocked by the death of a much-loved student, but made the point that the school does not have the same emotional involvement in the life of a child that the parents do.

Accept Responsibility
"Don't delegate too much responsibility for your children to other people," Dr. Steffek said in conclusion, and the Council members felt that this summed up in general the advice given by the other panel speakers.

James Anderson, student association advisor, Pierce Junior High School, spoke on "The Importance of Chaperoning." The largest number of new seventh graders in Pierce history has necessitated an enlarged coaching staff for athletics, he said. Success of the Teen High Roundups at Pierce and Parcels is due largely to the efforts of parents who work as chaperones, and provide a well rounded program for boys and girls, either separately or together.

Don't Forget Recreation
Parents sometimes forget that recreation for teen-agers also includes the most quiet kinds, such as dramatics, reading, hobbies, and manual craft work, for which the school provides leadership through librarians, dramatic coaches and manual craft teachers.

Speaking on "The Role of Home Discipline," Miss Bernice Moore, dean of girls, Parcels Junior High, advised parents to think of discipline as training rather than punishment. Miss Moore discussed discipline from the standpoint of the adolescent's adjustment to the new environment of junior high school. The children who adjust most easily are those whose parents freely "let go" their hold and realize the child's need for emancipation. The children who make the poorest adjustments are either from homes where discipline is too strict, or from homes where there is little or none.

Be Impersonal
Don't take it as a personal affront when your child defies you," Miss Moore urged. Try to be objective and let go in an impersonal way.

One of the mothers' main concerns was dating hours. Miss Moore said that, in her ninth grade Successful Living Class, students expressed the greatest wish that parents would not embarrass them by reminding them in front of their dates of the hour they must come home. The consensus of the panel was that an hour after school parties ended, to allow time for hamburgers and Cokes, should be the right time for home coming.

Emphasize Individuality
The emphasis of panel members was on the individuality of the child. The speakers stressed that teen-agers vary in sophistication, size and readiness for dating, even to the point where some seventh graders should not be urged to participate in after-school social activities.

Some of the mothers were concerned about how far they should go in urging their children, particularly boys, into dating when they were reluctant. Miss Ruth Flom, dean of girls, Grosse Pointe High School, said we should not try to accelerate our children's activities, dating in particular.

"Today's children need to be slowed down and have more peace and quiet," said Miss Flom. "A large percentage of Grosse Pointe children are preparing for college and they need to devote more time to study."

The last speaker on the panel, John Lake, the genial director of the War Memorial Center, spoke on "Outside Activities for Teen Ageds." A little more than a year ago Mr. Lake was counselor and teacher at the high school.

In his capacity as War Memorial Center director he welcomed the Council to "a building where community problems should be aired."

"There is a need for this Memorial Center, particularly for young people," he said. "The unusual beauty of the grounds and buildings fulfills some of the hidden need for culture that most teen-agers have. If you were to speak to them about culture, with a capital 'K,' you would scare the life out of them. But they are interested in fine arts, in the ballet classes, the art exhibits and art classes. The Center also provides an unusually nice setting for their parties."

Lake said a Teen-High Center is needed in Grosse Pointe, but he felt that one held at the Center last season was not quite a success, largely because there was not enough personnel at the Center to manage it.

Want to Serve
The Center has found that young people want to do something in which they can be of service to others, and Mr. Lake cited the Youth Council as having done such work as entertaining the soldiers and planning parties for orphans.

Other outstanding community educational leaders who participated in the forum, when called upon for their opinions, were Vincent Peterson, principal, Parcels Junior High School; and Charles Leavitt, principal, Pierce Junior High School.

Great Success
"I feel the panel was a terrific success," said Mrs. S. M. Skeen, president of the Council, at the conclusion of the meeting. "The educators, challenged all of us, as parents of Grosse Pointe teen-agers, to a greater awareness of our responsibilities. They avoided direct criticism of us as parents, but focused our attention on problems of our children which the school cannot assume. We need more such stimulating discussions on our Mothers' Health Education Council programs."

Rotarians Hear Dr. Edgar Harden

"Education, not glory on the gridiron or diamond, should be the prime consideration of athletes in selecting a college," Dr. Edgar Harden of Michigan State College told members of the Grosse Pointe Rotary Club at their regular weekly luncheon meeting in the War Memorial Center Monday noon.

Dr. Harden is the faculty representative of MSC on the Big Ten Conference and is also dean of the School of Continuing Education there.

In discussing the background of the Big Ten, Dr. Harden pointed out that the conference was founded in 1895 for the purpose of counteracting evils in athletics and that it has been fighting for this goal ever since. MSC was taken into the conference in 1949, the first school to be admitted since Ohio State in 1912.

"Athletics, on the whole, are very good for any institution," Dr. Harden stated. He cited especially the unifying influence they exert. The main need, he said, is to keep the good features of athletics and be ever on guard to kick out the bad ones.

In commenting on the difficulties some colleges get into through their athletics he said "We have more to fear from friends than from enemies." He mentioned the Spartan Foundation, which was subsidizing athletics at MSC and caused that institution to be put on probation by the Big Ten, as an example of the over-zealous alumni who want more than anything else to win games.

Dr. Harden stressed the fact that MSC has no feeling against the University of Michigan as being the cause of State's problems in this respect. He said Michigan has been very cooperative.

Pick Ex-Pointer For U. S. Post

Dr. Samuel M. Brownell, 53-year-old brother of Atty.-Gen. Herbert Brownell, former superintendent of Grosse Pointe schools, was President Eisenhower's choice on Wednesday, October 14, for the post of United States Commissioner of Education.

Dr. Brownell, a Republican, is president of the New Haven State Teachers College in Connecticut.

He resigned his post in the Pointe in April, 1938, after 11 years of service, to accept a professorship at Yale, which he still holds. He also has been a summer lecturer at the University of Michigan.

Before he came to Grosse Pointe, Dr. Brownell taught in several states and gave courses at Harvard, Cornell and the University of Wisconsin.

He will succeed the late Dr. Lee M. Thurston of Lansing, former Superintendent of Public Instruction in Michigan, who died September 4, two months after taking over the federal job. The position pays $14,000 a year.

Dr. Brownell gained prominent attention, when as head of the Pointe schools during the bank closures in 1933, he was responsible for keeping his teachers' salaries paid, rent and utilities paid and providing transportation when there was no cash available.

He took advantage of an upstate bank's willingness to accept credit from the District of Grosse Pointe. The bank, in turn, held notes against many farmers in the community.

Dr. Brownell sent trucks to gather produce and the contributing farmers were credited at the bank for their value, with the school district crediting the bank for the same amount. The teachers received the produce as part of their pay.

He also persuaded the school board to assume responsibility for milk and utility bills and rent.

Dr. Brownell, a native of Nebraska, became Superintendent of Grosse Pointe Schools in April 1927, at the age of 27. At that time, he was Assistant Professor of Education at Albany State Teachers' College, New York.

He received his A. B. degree from the University of Nebraska and his M. A. and Ph. D. degrees at Yale University.

After graduating from the University of Nebraska in 1921, he served as principal of the Demonstration High School at the State Teachers College, Peru, Nebraska, for two years. He then attended Yale University where he completed his Master's in 1924 and his Doctorate in 1926.

During the academic year of 1926-27, while at the Albany State Teachers' College, he was selected for the Superintendency at Grosse Pointe. During the 11 years that he served, school enrollment grew from 1,978 to 4,110 pupils.

He was in office at the time the high school was completed in 1928, and also planned and built three elementary schools plus additions to two others. The public library system was taken over by the Board of Education during his administration.

Although he served during a difficult period, it was under his leadership that the Grosse Pointe schools grew and developed and gained a national reputation as a superior school system.

They are requesting guests to bring a mask or false face to wear for a special Halloween number.

Wes and Julia Rea will be calling, and will give instructions to beginners before the dancing begins at 8:30.

Apple cider will be served throughout the evening, and special refreshments will be served at 11:30.

Among Potters planning to attend are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Honhart of Moran road, who are taking a square, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Nagel of Park lane, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Meyer of Touraine, and Dr. and Mrs. Carlisle Rueger of McKinley road.

Young People's Concerts To Begin October 31

Brownies Help In Torch Drive

Coinciding with the start of the United Foundation Torch Fund Drive, Brownie Scouts of Troop 1201 of Richard School received their well earned "Torch" pins.

Mrs. Richard W. Jackson, Chairman of the Women's Participation Unit for the Drive honored the troop by making the presentation of the awards today, Thursday, October 22. Troop Committee Chairman, Mrs. John Bockstanz congratulated the girls on the success of their efforts.

This ceremony culminated several months of concentrated thought directed toward better informing the Brownies of ways in which they can effectively serve the community.

As early as March of this year the group enjoyed a working session at the American Junior Red Cross Headquarters. Assorted articles to be sent to needy children in foreign countries were packaged by some of the girls while others placed Junior Red Cross labels on the back of place mats to be sent out to local hospitals.

This fall a Saturday trip took the girls to the Bureau of Social Agencies Building where, under the direction of Mrs. James Rawsthorne, Girl Scout program chairman, they counted pins, solicited cards and contribution acknowledgment cards for distribution. Games and songs furnished a means of relaxation during the day.

At noontime after finishing the nosebag lunches, a visit to the Detroit Public Library seemed to be enjoyed by all the troop.

The making of a Troop scrapbook concerning the Drive, family discussions about the United Foundation, the girls becoming familiar with services financed by the Torch Fund, and of course a contribution from the Troop treasury all seemed to make working for the "Torch" pin a meaningful experience—and, fun, too!

The leaders of the troop are Mrs. Erwin Stoetzer and Mrs. Fred Adams.

Vice may have more appeal than virtue, but how long would it last if it had to depend on a collection plate for support?

The two orchestras which will play continuous music will be those of Jack Quayley and Carl Bonner, who will present an original skit of their own during the evening.

Anyone wishing tickets for the "Party" may call WO. 1-5652, Republican Women's Finance Headquarters.

Plan Open House At High School

Open House for parents of students attending Brownell Junior High and the Senior High School will be held Monday evening, October 26, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Members of the Varsity Club will serve as guides and will provide directories of the building, and Home Room Mothers will serve as hostesses introducing parents and teachers, and seeing that each interview does not take up more than two or three minutes.

Open House is held each semester under the sponsorship of the Mothers' Club, usually after the first marking period. No program is planned, as it is hoped that each parent will have an opportunity to meet each of his child's teachers, and have an interchange of ideas, helpful to teacher, parents and students.

Charles Saltzer, assistant principal, wishes to emphasize that this is more of a social event, rather than business, because there is not time to discuss any serious problem in the few minutes allotted each interview. Parents wishing more time with a teacher should make a regular appointment at the High School.

"Open House has proved to be the most successful form of meeting in getting the parents out en masse to become acquainted with the teachers. The faculty and the Home Room Mothers are endeavoring this year to see that there is a minimum wait for each interview.

Emerging as champions now, he stressed, was due to good luck.

They are looking forward to the bridge matches which are held at the War Memorial Center every Wednesday evening.

Eastern Colleges' Big Bridge Series Begins

Enthusiastic Response to Appearance of Charles H. Goren
Oct. 26-27-28 Proves Bridge A Favorite Game In The Pointe: Series Aids Scholarship Fund

Bridge tables in the Pointe have been buzzing with excitement as the Detroit appearance of Charles H. Goren nears. America's ranking bridge expert, and author of best selling books on bridge, will conduct lectures and solve challenging problems of bridge play at Veterans Memorial Building, on West Jefferson avenue, for three afternoons and evenings beginning Monday.

Mr. Goren is being presented by the Detroit Committee for the Seven Eastern Colleges as their annual scholarship benefit.

Each ticket sold means aid to Michigan girls with their college tuition and college expenses.

A fascinating speaker, Mr. Goren finds a prepared script too confining and prefers to conduct an open forum with questions from the audience during his discussion.

No wonder Pointers are jotting down their own particular bridge problems on note cards to take to the morning sessions.

Evenings of these three days will find husband and wife teams sitting down at the tables for actual play of bridge hands set up by Mr. Goren, each to be followed by a discussion of the rights and wrongs of its playing.

Ground work for the session has been done by a committee including Mrs. Eugene P. Hawkins, general chairman; Mrs. Allen M. Lomax, vice chairman; Mrs. George Detwiler, treasurer; Mrs. Douglas Donald Jr. and Mrs. G. Bethune Duffield, ticket co-chairmen. Pointers heading ticket committees for their respective colleges have been Mrs. Thomas N. Hubbard, Mrs. Alden W. Gallop and Mrs. Wilber M. Brucker Jr.

Mrs. Wendell C. Goddard, as chairman of ushers, has arranged for committee members who will help to see that all runs smoothly each session.

The ushers will be Mrs. Orville Aronson, Mrs. Horace R. Will, Mrs. Thomas C. Pindexter, Mrs. Marshall Massey, Mrs. Frank Cooper, Mrs. W. T. Kreighoff, Jane Beyer, Ann Hagarty, Pat Jacome, Martha Muirhead, Peggy Jackson, Mary Johnson, Lee Wadsworth, Sue Bogle, Grace Mayberry and Bonnie Wheldon. Mrs. Ewald Loud, in charge of setting up the duplicate boards which will be used at the evening sessions, has literally handled hundreds of decks of cards in her job. Yesterday, there were two meetings of Mrs. Loud's committee, finishing up this gigantic task.

One group met at the Iroquois avenue home of Mrs. Loud's mother, Mrs. Henry T. Ewald, and the other group met at the home of Mrs. Hawkins.

The workers comprised Mrs. Anthony Moody, Mrs. Oscar Buhr, Mrs. John Detwiler, Mrs. Reade Ryan, Mrs. William Boales, Mrs. J. Nall Candler, Mrs. William P. Harris III, Mrs. Richard W. Bachman, Mrs. John Pottle, Mrs. J. Henry Dazenbrook.

Mrs. James Graves, Mrs. F. M. Whitney, Mrs. Edward J. Hickey III, Mrs. John E. Williams Jr., Mrs. Robert Everett, Mrs. Paul R. Baldwin, Mrs. Gaynor Evans, Mrs. Robert Hamilton, Mrs. Alex M. Stirling, Mrs. Taylor McCray, and Mrs. Robert B. Rains.

Just a few of those who'll attend the Goren series are Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Bumpus, Mrs. Gage W. Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. DeHart, Mrs. Russell Dexter, Mrs. John N. Failing, Mrs. Frank Pitt.

Mrs. David Carter Gillis, Mrs. Carl B. Grawn, Mrs. Rockwell T. Gust Jr., Mrs. George B. Heffner, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Henry, Mrs. Louis B. Hyde, Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Posselt Jr., Mrs. George Schenn.

Group to See DeMille Movie

The Women's Association of the Grosse Pointe Woods Presbyterian Church will meet on October 27, at 8:15 p.m.

Mrs. Richard Mertz will give the dedication of the evening.

The highlight of the evening will be the presentation of the film "And Now Tomorrow," directed by Cecil B. DeMille. The film is in color and dramatizes the history of Presbyterian Missions all over the world for the last 150 years.

The film helps to commemorate the sesqui-centennial of Presbyterian Missions being observed this year.

The Rachel Group, under the leadership of Mrs. Wilmer Krogh, will be the hostess group for the meeting.

The middle-of-the-road politician won't hurt anybody, but with the middle-of-the-road driver it's different.

Famous Ballet Dancers to Give Performance to Benefit Church

Selections from the famous ballets "Swan Lake," "La Spectre de la Rose" and "Coppelia" will be presented in Grosse Pointe on Saturday evening October 24, at Pierce Junior School, by the Lemanis-Tillak dancer group from the Detroit Institute of Musical Arts.

Internationally known for his ballet choreography, Oswald Lemanis was the former ballet master and choreographer of the National Latvian Ballet, and his wife, Mizdra Tillak, was prima ballerina of the same group.

Mr. and Mrs. Lemanis came to this country five years ago as displaced persons and were sponsored here by the Grosse Pointe Methodist Church.

In his work with the Latvian Ballet, Mr. Lemanis was closely associated with the present ballet master of the Sather's-Wells Ballet, Harry Pluckin, who will be guest instructor of the Lemanis classes during the week of November 4 at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Betteanne Bender of Detroit will dance the queen of swans in "Swan Lake" and Evelyn Engeman, also of Detroit, has the lead in "Coppelia." Miss Engeman danced with Mr. and Mrs. Lemanis in a ballet concert given last year in Toronto.

Frederick Williams who dances leads in both "Coppelia" and "Swan Lake" is well known in Boston ballet circles where he danced for Mrs. Lile Wyman in "Ballet Seasons."

The lead in "Spectre de la Rose," once danced by Niginisky and made famous as a male ballet role by him, will be done by Jerry Steabler. Dorothy Padrick will be his partner.

Proceeds from the evening's entertainment will go to the Grosse Pointe Methodist Church. Anyone wishing further information may call TUxedo 1-7878.

Annual Liggett Fair Set for October 31

Scores of Pointers Work on Annual Fair Which Raises Funds for School's Charities and Contribution to United Foundation: Dads have Admiration Night

Pointers galore are working on Liggett School's annual Fair which will be held at the school on Burns avenue Friday, Oct. 30. The theme is a story book one.

Mrs. Ben Heffler, of Harvard road, is chairman of the important decoration committee of the fair which is a project of the entire school: the pupils, their mothers and teachers.

Purpose of the Liggett Fair is to support the school's charities including a contribution to the United Foundation. Mrs. William Warren is chairman of this year's fair assisted by Mrs. William A. Irwin.

A table of contents, seven and a half feet high will stand at the entrance to the school gym, announcing that dolls are being sold in the Never Never Land of Peter Pan, plants in The Secret Garden, stuffed animals in the Zoo Parade; that there is a fish pond in Bozo Under the Sea and games in Who Will Play With Me?

Miss Katherine Ogden, headmistress of Liggett, tells us the Fair begins at 1:30 p. m. but the evening before (Thursday, Oct. 29) fathers of the students have been invited to an Administration Night when they will view the scene but nothing is to be sold.

The fathers will behold the hollow stump doll booth; the wood-burning stove design for kitchen aids; the hip-length Christmas stockings; items of Christmas decorations for home (inside and outside varieties); beautifully wrapped Christmas gifts, priced from fifteen cents for the youngsters to fancier prices for adults; the chi-chi bustle-backed organdy aprons for Ma'm'selle; lovely cable knit sweater and beret sets; and dolls imported from Switzerland and dressed by a Liggett mom.

They'll see puppets with hand carved and painted wooden heads; art objects in abundance; felt headbands and belts which Liggett girls turned out last Summer at school; silk screened Liggett scarves (project of the eighth graders); and such bizarre stuffed animals as sea serpents, turtles, whales; small glittery animals for lapels or for Christmas tree ornaments.

The Fair is sponsored by the Mothers' Committee at Liggett, other members of which are Mrs. Ches. B. Larson, Mrs. John E. Webster, Mrs. Nicholas Gimbel, Mrs. Peter Fortune, Mrs. Harold C. Mack, Mrs. George Kemeny Jr., Mrs. Oliver Horn.

Still other Pointers working for its success are Mrs. Lester Sholly, Mrs. Wade Harris, Mrs. Edward Biederman, Mrs. Oscar Markus, Mrs. Edward Acorn, Mrs. William H. Stewart-Marsh Nuptials Oct. 30

The marriage of Carol Stewart, of Westchester road, and Francis Marsh, will take place Oct. 30 in Grosse Pointe Memorial Church.

Following the ceremony, the Stewarts will entertain the wedding guests at a reception in Grosse Pointe Hunt Club.

The bride-elect has asked Mrs. John Van Dagens to be her matron of honor and the bridesmaids are to include Carol's cousin, Katherine Stewart of Reading, Pa.; Mrs. Robert Stewart and Joyce Jennings.

Marvin Marsh will be his brother's best man and guests will be seated by the bride's brother, Robert Stewart; Stewart Pond, Robert Kearns and Jack Vallad.

This Saturday Carol will be feted at a luncheon in Grosse Pointe Hunt Club to be given by Mrs. William K. Allen. Guests gathered in the young bride-elect's honor Wednesday when Mrs. Max Becherer and Mrs. Cecil Shuert were hostesses at a party in the latter's home in Kercheval avenue.

The John W. Mulford gave a cocktail party in their Provencal road home for the bridal pair last Sunday and still another party complimenting Carol was given by Mrs. Jack K. Wideman of Hawthorne road.

Both are members of the Grosse Pointe Chapter of the United World Federalists, a national organization which is seeking to strengthen the U.N. by giving it adequate powers to maintain peace and insure world law. Many Grosse Pointers are planning to attend the U.N. luncheon scheduled for noon today at the International Institute downtown.

A Gala Opening

Still! other Pointers at the gala opening . . . and it WAS that, a really fun evening . . . were the William G. Sieberts who entertained their guests at cocktails in their Touraine road home before going down to the club . . . In the party were: Mr. and Mrs. Louis C. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth M. Reichle, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wainman, and Mr. and Mrs. Murray MacDonald . . .

Also hosts at cocktails in their home were Mr. and Mrs. Knox M. Hearne of Kercheval avenue . . . whose guests for dinner and the show were Mr. and Mrs. David D. Williams . . . Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Jayne . . .

The Walter A. Bayers were with Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Bayer and Hugo Startman . . . Mrs. W. A. Bayer never looked lovelier than in her steel blue taffeta gown combined with smooth silverblue mink cape . . .

Pointers Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Ogder and the James B. Ogden were in a party where other guests included Mr. and Mrs. John Doyle, Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Compton.

The John DoYLES and Mr. and Mrs. Ned Landis of Birmingham . . . And still another Pointe party we glimpsed included Mr. and Mrs. E. Richard Holtz who were entertaining Mrs. Anger Armstrong and Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Osborne . . .

What's in a Name?

Ever wonder how some Grosse Pointe streets got their names? . . . We often, do . . . so we asked Mr. Grosse Pointe . . . whose other name, of course, is Norbert Neff . . .

We started on an easy one . . . St. Clair avenue . . . but it turned out to be kind of special since it's sixty years, almost to the day, since that tract of land was subdivided into lots . . . and named St. Clair . . .

Its owners . . . Francis B. and Frank E. Snow changed the old name (Clark road) to St. Clair after the beautiful lake which flows past our Pointe . . .

Didjuno that prior to 1901, street cars left downtown Detroit at Cadillac avenue and traveled out Mack to St. Clair, going down the east side of the street? . . .

Mr. Neff remembers that street car track with nostalgia and affection . . . since its cinder bed was a pretty nice place for a little newsboy to walk on days when rains made the street muddy and filled with water holes . . .

Pointe Theatre Presenting Mystery Play in Center

A mystery surrounds the rehearsals of the Grosse Pointe Community Theatre's opening play of their 1953-54 season. Magic wands are being waved, girls are running around in brief tights, silk hats are being tried on by certain members of the cast in an atmosphere of extreme secrecy.

The play is called "Chatranci" and will be presented at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial on Lake Shore drive on October 23, 24, 29, 30 and 31 at 8:30 p.m. Tickets may be obtained at the War Memorial, Doubleday's on Kercheval in The Village, or by calling TUxedo 2-0889.

This year the Theatre has changed its usual method of presentation and will introduce their "Showcase Theatre". Refreshments will be served after each performance and the first night audience will dress formally.

Dean Erskine, who will be remembered for his portrayal of "Death" in last season's presentation of "Death Takes a Holiday", will play the title role. He will be assisted in his act by Bill Dance as "Alexander" and Lydia Kerr as "Estelle".

Need Helpers For Seal Sale

Christmas Seals will arrive at Detroit and Wayne County homes beginning November 16 as the 47th annual sale of double bar cross Seals opens. Dr. Robin C. Buerki, chairman of the 1953 campaign for the Tuberculosis and Health Society, announced Thursday.

"These Christmas Seals will make it possible for the services of the TB and Health Society to continue and expand during the coming year," Dr. Buerki said. "Residents of our community recognize that the crusade against tuberculosis must continue without interruption if we are to cut down our number of cases and our deaths from the disease."

He pointed out that the generosity in past years of purchasers of double bar cross Seals has made it possible for the TB and Health Society to carry on an extensive program of case-finding through promotion of X-ray surveys, health education with adults and children, and rehabilitation and employment counselling of tuberculosis patients.

At the same time Dr. Buerki issued a call for volunteers to aid in the preparation of the letters which will go into 350,000 homes. "We are in need of volunteers to aid us in the office with the sorting of letters and cards and we need volunteers who will aid us with the campaign in their own neighborhoods," Dr. Buerki said.

Volunteers may call the Tuberculosis and Health Society at Woodward 1-1697 to offer their services.

"Tuberculosis causes great suffering here in Wayne County which is known as the No. 1 trouble spot for TB in the state," the campaign chairman said. "In 1952 there were 4,219 new cases reported to our health departments. The TB and Health Society is working 12 months of the year to prevent this tragedy. It deserves the wholehearted support of the entire community."

Church to Hold 'Open House'

Members of the congregation of Christ the King Lutheran Church, will hold an "Open House" on Sunday, October 25, from 4 to 6 p.m. Rev. and Mrs. Walter Geffert will be on hand to greet all members of the community. Refreshments will be served.

Following the success of the dedication of the church last Sunday, members are anxious to be host to the community and to offer their facilities to further goodwill, neighborliness, and the general welfare of the community.

Your Patronage Solicited

Seems You Ought to Know Him!

You see a man in a beautiful new Cadillac—and, almost instinctively, you take a second look.

It seems you ought to know him. Your judgment tells you that those who drive Cadillacs are likely to be people of importance—and are probably in the public eye.

It is small wonder that you feel this way about people who own and drive these distinguished cars.

For more than half a century, Cadillac has been a favorite car of the leading people in every community across the land. For Cadillac is the only car in America whose name has consistently been reserved for the finest motor cars it is practical to produce.

People who want the finest have learned to come to Cadillac—as the tide goes with the moon!

Of course, you don't have to be a prominent person in order to find a reason for coming to Cadillac.

There is every practical reason for owning a Cadillac—as well as every personal one. Listen closely to these three facts—and you will see what we mean:

Under normal driving conditions, the Cadillac car will run a full day on a single tankful of gasoline.

The lowest priced Cadillac costs less than twenty-two different models of other makes of automobiles built in America.

And a Cadillac, according to an authoritative study of national used car prices, will return a greater share of its owner's investment at the time of resale than any other motor car in the land.

So whether you are prominent or practical—Cadillac is your perfect choice!

Naturally, these two classifications include a great many people—and maybe they take in you.

If they do, come in and see us. Cadillac was never so fine and beautiful as it is today—and it was never more practical to own and enjoy.

We're at your service—any-time, you wish to call!

Piece of Alley Sold by Woods

Grosse Pointe Woods and George Robertson, a Detroit businessman, have arrived at a compromise, in which the city agreed to close and sell an alley running through two pieces of Robertson's property.

The council on Monday, October 19, agreed to accept a payment of $1,200 for an alley 16 feet wide and extending from Mack avenue west to the alley between lots 116-123 of Assessors Grosse Pointe Woods No. 4, between Huntington and Manchester.

At a meeting held on October 5, Robertson appeared before the council and offered to buy the desired property for the sum of $500. The offer was rejected, and the city countered with a demand for $1,600 as the purchase price for the piece of real estate.

In answer to a question as to why he desired the property and what he intended to build on it, Robertson stressed that he owned two lots on opposite sides of the alley, and that it was better for him to own one big piece than two separate parcels, and as what he intended to build he stated he did not know, that would depend on the council's decision.

The council authorized City Attorney Jules Berns to negotiate with the Detroitier and he was to inform that body of his decision.

Informed of the compromise, the council approved the sale. A check is already in the city treasurer's office.

Flaming Grease Burns Up Coat

Many a cook has burned a finger or two when heating a batch of grease for frying. John H. Nolan of Hunt Club drive was warming some fat in a deep well for cooking on October 17, when the grease caught on fire.

He attempted to smother the flames with two sport coats but finally was forced to summon the firemen.

They arrived and quickly ended the blaze with an extinguisher. Mr. Nolan suffered the loss of his two sport coats, and a delayed dinner.

Woods Election Procedure Set

Woods Councilman Harry Pratt, chairman of the Election Commission, informed the council on Monday, October 19, of his group's decision regarding the special election which will be held on December 8.

He stated that the commission was in accord in that the coming December election will be a light one and as a result, agreed that the workers in each voting precinct should be limited to four, and that each worker be paid a flat $16 rate.

The Woods has nine voting precincts.

Various Municipal Projects Approved by Woods Council

The Woods council on Monday, October 19, accepted bids for three new scout cars and various projects to be completed within the city limits.

Roy O'Brien Inc., Ford dealers, lowest of three bidders, will furnish the city with three new scout cars for the sum of $2,277 plus trade-ins.

The Cook Contracting company was given the contracts for the paving of Morningside drive and Broadstone road. The company bid $37,201, for the Morningside drive paving, and $7,069, for that of Broadstone, and promised to begin work within 10 days of the signing of the contract.

However, it was stipulated that because of the lateness of the season, completion of the projects could not be guaranteed until perhaps about May, 1954.

Larry Petrich company, received the contract to install 12-inch and six-inch water mains in the Marder road and municipal garage site. The company's bid $7,049 was well under the city engineers' estimate of $7,300.

Acceptance of bids for the construction of the municipal garage was extended two weeks, because several bidders complained that advertisements for the bids were given on short notice and that they had little time to present their best bids for the project.

The bids already opened, were rejected. The Woods will advertise for bids.

Bid tabulations for the proposed sewer in Mack Park were tabled until the council could study the project more thoroughly.

The Michigan Mutual Liability's bid $1,778 for the Woods Employee Compensation Insurance, was approved over three others.

Reckless Drivers Pay Up in Court

Patrick J. Smith of 18474 Rowe, Detroit, found guilty of violating the Drunk Motor Law, by Park Judge C. Joseph Belanger on Wednesday, October 14, was fined $50, given 10 days in the Wayne County Jail, and had his driver's license revoked for a period of two years.

William H. Harpster of 482 Fisher road, paid a fine of $15 for causing an accident on Kercheval and Wayburn.

Robert L. Hendry of 66 Grand avenue, Mt. Clemens, paid costs of $7.20 for causing an accident at Mack and Audubon. The payment of a fine was suspended.

Oral R. Averill of 1250 Three Mile drive, paid costs of $5 as a result of an accident caused at Vernor and Three Mile.

Robert Frisby of 897 Manistique, Detroit, accused of causing an accident at Jefferson and Wayburn, was found not guilty and his case was dismissed.

FARMS FIRE REPORT
Farms Fire Chief William H. Newport reported that his department answered a total of 23 calls during the month of September. There were only two residence fires with a loss of $650, and one automobile fire with damages amounting to $5.

Seeking to Organize New 16mm Camera Club

Persons interested in forming an East Side 16 mm Camera Club are invited to get in touch with either Lynne or Joe Schneiders at LA. 1-1686.

The purpose of the club is to exchange technical information, develop 16 mm community projects, experiment with new and unusual techniques, and exchange information and films with other similar groups throughout the United States.

Additionally, if enough interest is manifest, its purpose would be to obtain unusual and experimental films for club showing, pictures such as are made available to Cinema 16 in New York.

Joe Schneiders is a well known radio, television, motion picture and slide film writer, director and producer, and is trying to create a group on the East Side of Detroit similar to the Contemporary Motion Picture Group at Cranbrook, of which he was the original production director and one of the founders.

Maybe They Can't Read

The NEWS, and we presume anyone else who has had the audacity to request access to official Grosse Pointe Shores Village records, continued to receive the cold shoulder treatment this week.

The check for $5, which was sent two weeks ago to pay for the cost of obtaining a certified copy of a resolution reportedly passed by the council of the little village, was returned, sans the courtesy of any explanation. The envelope contained nothing but the bare check, not even a memo stating there was no such resolution . . . so we must assume one exists but is being carefully guarded from the public eye.

The resolution which was reportedly passed by council is said to forbid members of the police department from showing the official "blotter" of police cases to anyone not officially connected with the village. A NEWS reporter was again refused access to the "blotter" on Tuesday.

We don't know whether or not the present members of the council have ever bothered to read their own charter, but we would call to their attention that on Page 21, the last line of the first paragraph, Section 5, Proceedings of the Legislative Department, states: "All records of the village shall be subject to public inspection at any proper time."

The same paragraph states: "All meetings and sessions of the Council shall be public." Which makes it hard to understand how the council feels so free about excluding residents and other interested parties from their cozy little gatherings in the council chambers.

We should also like to quote from Section 492 of the Penal Code of the State of Michigan, as follows:

"Any officer having the custody of any county, city or township records in this state, who shall, when requested, fail or neglect to furnish proper and reasonable facilities for the inspection and examination of the records and files in his office, and for making memoranda of transcripts therefrom during the usual business hours, which shall not be less than four hours per day, to any person having occasion to make examination of them for any lawful purpose, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, punishable by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than one year, or by a fine of not more than $500."

We repeat again this week . . . what are the village fathers trying to hide?

Might Have Been Written for Us

The Chicago Daily Tribune carried an editorial on October 10 which might very well have been written for the Pointe municipalities. Entitled "Greater Chicago and Its Taxes," it deals with the problems which are besetting many of the small municipalities which lie in the Greater Chicago area, just as the Pointes lie in the Greater Detroit area.

Reference was made to the meeting of the Illinois Municipal League in Springfield, at which the mayors and other city officials spent much of their time talking about how to make ends meet when prices have risen higher than take-home pay. Many of the Chicago suburbs are said to be scraping the bottom of the barrel hoping to find pennies to pay their bills. Many are considering adopting the one-cent cigarette tax which has already been adopted in Chicago and which is now being tested in the courts.

It has been estimated such a tax would produce about $1 per year for every resident of a community.

The editorial points out that the suburbs with the greatest financial difficulties are those which lack industries and commercial establishments to help carry the tax load. Those who have expressed opinions that the Pointe might be better off without business establishments would do well to consider the amount of taxes which these firms are paying.

The close of the editorial is particularly apropos to the situation which exists in the Pointe. Citing that these satellite towns will be back in Springfield at the next session of the legislature, asking for a share of the state sales tax or some other source of more revenue, the Tribune comments:

"It may be doubted that they are entitled to more money until they get together on some form of a metropolitan government. Why operate separate water departments, sewerage systems, fire departments and police forces in 100 or more adjoining communities that really are only one city? Why have several hundred governmental units, many of them overlapping, and each one levying taxes? Why have thousands of elected officials, few of whom are known to the voters?"

"It is time to recognize that Chicago is a place where 5 million people live and to organize local government accordingly. Then it may be possible to determine how much tax money is needed for orderly, efficient handling of local government functions."

Maybe the Tribune feels that all of these communities should be incorporated into the City of Chicago, just as Los Angeles swallowed up everything to the Pacific ocean.

We're not advocating that the Pointes be taken in by Detroit, but we're certainly in favor of consolidating the five Pointes into one municipality for the sake of economy and efficiency.

Grosse-
Exaggerations

A. PRYOR

"They say my verse is sad; no wonder;
Its narrow measure spans
Tears of eternity and sorrow,
Not mine, but man's.
The thoughts of others
Were light and fleeting,
Of lovers' meeting
Or luck or fame;
Mine were of trouble
And mine were steady,
So I was ready
When trouble came."

(Alfred E. Housman)

The playwrights who wrote "Three Men on a Horse" . . . that hilarious comedy of a decade ago . . . can find enough material for another "horse opera" of quite a different nature if they will hie themselves to Cincinnati and eavesdrop on a group of men there who lunch daily at the Netherlands Plaza hotel.

It seems that these enterprising young men amass a small "pot" of dough each day which is turned over to some charity or other at the end of a month. One day, one of the group decided they could make more (for charity) if they knew how to invest in a race horse. The fact that not one of them knew the difference between a snaffle and a gelding didn't deter them in the least. They LIKED the idea.

As is usually the case in such matters . . . it just SO happened that one of the men knew a guy who had some race horses and since the horse man was indebted to him, he telephoned him and was promptly promised a horse! What kind of a horse, how old, what shape, what condition, was not discussed. It WAS a horse and the little man promised to ship it immediately. At this announcement, the young men were jubilant and proceeded to make plans.

Since there are eleven of these characters, they decided to call their "stable" AND their horse "ELEVEN BOYS." Next came the business of finding a place to keep the nag after he (or she) arrived. That was settled by one of the members agreeing to keep it in his garage! (On advising his wife about this, she immediately left to consult her lawyer in Reno . . . but the deal stands and the garage it is!) The next step was to find a man who could be jockey, trainer, stable boy, walker and rubber all in one! This they found in a tired old bellboy, who used to be a jockey some twenty years ago. (GET US OUT OF HERE!)

After the jockey gimmick was settled . . . the "eleven boys" figured they were also . . . so they dashed to the local drugstore and bought 11 pairs of binoculars. When the drug-gist asked what was cookin' . . . they allowed as how they had a race horse and wanted to see him run! Then they subscribed to a box at a nearby track for the coming season. That's just about the story up to date. They are all set . . . except for knowing anything at all about the horse, or where and how to ship it to a race track or how much it will cost them per day to keep the animal in shape. There is still the business of checking with the jockey club to certify the name and get their colors . . . but this is of no consequence to the "eleven boys." They have their box at the race track and their binoculars and their horse. Amen!

We should like to touch briefly on the subject of photography and women in general. To start with, Pryor is the most hideous subject for a photograph that ever lived. Candid shots of us make passport pictures look like high class oil paintings. As many times a day as we are forced to look at ourselves in the mirror, we are always horrified when we see a snapshot of our queer physog.

We always say to ourselves, "But you COULDN'T look THAT awful!" . . . and it doesn't help our pride one durned bit to have some female say: "I don't think that's a bad picture of you at ALL!"

Even when we have a "sitting" (or if you prefer, a "study" made in the home by a reputable photographer), the poor goop has to work like a dog to make us look human. Feathers, fans, lace, chiffon, soft lights and even soft music do absolutely nothing for us. Soooooo, you can imagine what happens to us when a newspaper photographer plies his trade! They usually rush at you, say "Look pleasant," flash a bulb and off they go. The result is drastic in OUR case and like the alcoholic who finally decides to shun liquor . . . we have decided that posterity will have to suffer along without any pictures of us from now on. And WE shall suffer along without the women who tell us we really LOOK like this or that photograph. A pox on all of them!

Nancy Mason heads the refreshment committee, with Robert Byrwa, Kay Piche, Beverly Cadieux, Johanna Klein and Evelyn Piche. Assisting with the general planning and publicity are Robert Louwers and Gail Dodge as co-chairmen assisted by Robert Taylor, Rosemary Hanzl, Marilyn McEachin, Barbara Roland, Dennis Murphy, Kayann Addy, Sharon McNally and Mary Ann Benham.

It is expected that the St. Paul alumni will attend in droves, and an invitation is extended to each and everyone. An effort will be made to contact alumni members through the publicity committee, and all are looking forward to a grand get-together in the St. Paul gym on the evening of November 6.

The "Homecoming Queen" is the choice of the boys on the football team.

What Goes On
Your Library

By Jean Taylor

A corner of the library which deserves a spotlight is one which is too frequently overlooked. The books in this class are numbered 574, the number accorded, by the Dewey Decimal System, to Nature Study.

To many of us this term recalls hours spent in a tireless laboratory dissecting our first and we hoped our last frog, rabbit or guinea pig or perhaps it reminds us of collections of insects made under compulsion, to pass a certain science examination.

Browsing through the 574's on the library shelves not long ago, we were fascinated first by the titles and then by what we found between the covers. These nature books were not concerned with dissecting rabbits or chloroforming insects. They touched on a thousand and one phases of the outdoor world in a way to delight and refresh the lay reader.

Two well known authors in this field who write most palatably are Edwin W. Teale and Donald Peattie.

A CUP OF SKY by Peattie is a book of essays on the common and lovely miracles of natural life. Included in the contents are Francis of Assisi, Sunlight, Wind, Water, Heartfires, Snow and Shooting Stars. Its prose is a delight to read and the average reader will agree that most of us move about this world with our eyes tightly blindfolded.

An ALMANAC FOR MOD-ERN is an earlier book by Peattie in which is disclosed the day by day revelation of a sensitive mind, beginning the first day of Spring through 365 days of the year.

On October 23rd he writes . . . "I never see the asters marching shoulder to shoulder under the woods and over the hills without remembering the Indian who knew them. The feel of the corn kernels in the hand, the rime of frost on a pumpkin's side, the contentment of a pipe — he knew them all. He was not the enemy of primeval nature as we Europeans have proved to be; he was part of the American fauna, one with the bison, the elk and the beaver. He dwelt with Nature as her brother. There are few of us that at some time have not had a great longing to know our country as he knew it and to have led his free and open life. And this nostalgia for the thing that we have killed is abroad in the wistful days we call Indian Summer."

Edwin Way Teale, another naturalist with an informal style and a feeling for words, has given us several excellent titles. His latest contribution is GREEN TREASURY, an anthology in which he has brought together the world's great nature writing.

In LOST WOODS he gives his own adventures as a naturalist. His impressions include the beauty of the individual snowflakes; strange sights seen while flying through the heart of a cloud; the tiny insect world inhabiting a single leaf; the grandeur of the redwood forests.

NORTH WITH THE SPRING is the story of a trip which Mr. Teale and his wife took, starting in the Everglades and traveling north through 23 states with the Spring.

There is such a wide variety in this category of nature books, space permits us to mention only a few. Come in and browse and discover for yourself the charm of these readable books about the outdoor world.

A weekly Story Hour will be held at all three libraries beginning next week. The first program at the Central Library will be held Friday, October 30, at 4 p.m. At the Woods and the Park Branch it will begin Thursday, October 29, 3:45 p.m. All children of school age are invited.

In answer to a number of requests, the Board of Education has agreed to keep the Central Library open for seven Sundays, 2-5 p.m., on a trial basis, October 25 through December 6. At the end of this period the Board will decide about the continuance of these Sunday hours, basing this decision on the use made of the library during that time.

Have A T.B. X-Ray

By Fred Kopp, R. Ph.

Doctors find upon examining people that many of them have had T.B. and didn't know it. They are the lucky ones for without care their condition corrected itself.

But think of all the others in whom the disease continues to develop unchecked. In most states T.B. X-rays are a part of public health service sponsored by the State Medical Association.

Ask your doctor about a T.B. X-ray.

A good prescription consists of pure, high potency drugs combined skillfully by an experienced pharmacist.

Church to Hold
Hobby Classes

The Grace Evangelical Church of Grosse Pointe will give instructions on the conducting of 16 different hobbies, every Monday evening from 7 to 9 p.m., beginning Monday, October 26.

Entire families are invited to participate in the project which will include such activities as wood carving, leathercraft, cake decorating and photography.

In addition, the church will attempt to form a glee club and organize art classes.

The worst thing about a football game is that none of the cheer leaders ever get injured.

School Parties: Parties are fun! All children enjoy the mystery of Halloween, the spirit of Christmas, and the excitement of Valentine's Day. On these three occasions parties are held in school.

Room parents, teachers, and children have been making plans for the Halloween parties which will be held on Wednesday afternoon, October 28. Parties are several days early this year because of the two day holiday prior to Halloween when teachers will be busy at professional meetings.

The big afternoon will start with a parade led by Mr. Hammel, principal, and Mr. Ferry, music teacher, who will signal the start with the booming of drums. Following the parade, refreshments, limited to two items, will be served in the rooms.

Many games and activities will also be enjoyed. In the interest of safety children have been asked not to wear masks coming to and going from school that afternoon.

MASON SCHOOL

It is a generally known fact that the school child on his way to and from school is safer than the average pedestrian on our streets. The reason for this can be largely attributed to the careful vigilance of the local police department and to cooperation of the school Safety Patrol.

The Safety Patrol at Mason School consists of approximately 35 boys from the fifth and fourth grades. These boys were selected to serve because of their own fine safety record, their sense of responsibility and their willingness to help their fellow schoolmates.

Within an area of six blocks from Mason School these boys fill 21 posts where accidents might occur. These posts are covered four times every day, before school, before lunch, after lunch, and after school.

The captain of the Mason Safety Patrol is Jim Eckel. He is assisted by his lieutenants who are Bill Bullard and David Himmelsbaugh. John Baude is the scribe. Mr. Ted Jacobs is the faculty advisor. Captain Jim Eckel says, "The boys and girls of Mason School are cooperating very much with the patrol. That is why it is a success."

On October 12 or 13 all of the Safety Patrol boys of Mason School were invited to be guests of the Grosse Pointe Optimists Club at their annual show. The show "To The Pointe" was held at Parcels Junior High. "A swell show" was the typical remark from those who attended. The boys feel a big "thank you" is in order for the wonderful invitation.

Assisting with the safety program in the halls and on the stairs at Mason are the Service Girls with their green and white badges. Susan Keech serves as

Pointe Baritone Festival Winner

Featured in the Detroit News Music Festival at Masonic Temple Auditorium Friday evening, October 10, was Donald Bliss of 191 Ridgemont. He was judged the best male singer in the News' amateur talent contest.

Bliss, a 31-year old baritone, performed the tria "Eri Tu" from Verdi's "Masket Ball". He had been considering a singing career until he enlisted in the Air Force in World War II.

After leaving the services he decided on a more secure vocation than show business, and joined his father's decorating business. Now he has a three-year-old daughter, Ruth Ann. A soloist at Christ Church, Bliss continued his voice lessons until two years ago.

His wife Ruth urged him to enter the talent contest but he did so feeling he didn't have a chance to win.

Plans have been made for individual winners in the contest to be auditioned in New York for a network television program.

Farms Police Report Submitted

Chief of Police Walter R. Hoyt of the Farms reports a sum of $816 collected for various violations, during September. Parking violations alone brought in $140. Traffic offenders paid $378, and court cases contributed $280. The remaining $12 were fines for violating the dog ordinance.

There were 21 traffic accidents in the Farms with damage amounting to $2301.50. One car was stolen but it was recovered. Three persons were reported missing and three were found. Drivers licenses were issued to 233 people and two had their licenses suspended.

The Farms ambulance answered 11 calls and squad cars responded to seven fire calls. And patrolmen on their midnight rounds found seven doors left unlocked on various business establishments.

Home on Leave

ENSIGN CARL F. BACHLE, Jr., U.S.N., son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl F. Bachle, of La Salle place, has recently returned on leave from Japan and Korea, where he spent ten months on the USS Winston, an attack cargo ship.

In the Far East, the ship participated in troop movements between Japan and Korea, and training operations on Okinawa, and the ship also visited Hong Kong and the Philippine Islands.

After the signing of the Korean Truce, his ship participated in operation "Big Switch," carrying a total of over 6,000 communist North Korean prisoners from the prison camps on Koje do Island to Inchon, for repatriation. Bachle's next assignment is to Pensacola, Florida, for flight training.

Injured Diving Into Dry Pool

Five Pointe youths, who felt like taking a swim, climbed to the second story floor of the Detroit Yacht Club on Saturday, October 17, and jumped into the swimming pool. The pool was dry.

One of the boys, Charles Floor, 18, of 282 Fisher, is in Receiving Hospital with a serious head injury; the others were not hurt.

The boys, one of whose fathers is a member of the club, told Detroit police they climbed a ladder to the second floor at 3:15 a.m., and jumped 15 feet from a scaffolding, left by painters, into the pool. They said they did not know the pool was empty.

Writing off the episode as a prank, the police released John Cooley, 17, of 37 Shoreham road; Tom Kingsbury, 17, of 932 Hawthorne road; Michael McNally, 17, of 1685 Brys drive; and Chris Kuntz, 18, of 20014 Holiday road.

Will Re-Locate Hydrant At End of Meadow Lane

A water hydrant at the western end of Meadow Lane, located almost on the curb, has been damaged several times by trucks and cars backing into it. It is necessary for the Farms to relocate this hydrant on the opposite side of the sidewalk.

The affected property owner, A. H. Aldinger, has his own plan for the new location of the hydrant but it would cost more than the plan of the city engineers. It was decided that if Aldinger still insisted on his location, he will have to pay the difference in price.

The only part of a man that doesn't function well while he is in pursuit of a dollar is his conscience.

Christian Science Lecture by George Channing, C.S.B.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE: ITS SECRET PRAYER AND OPEN REWARD

by
GEORGE CHANNING, C.S.B.
of San Francisco, Calif.

Among the admonitions of Christ Jesus which the Science of Christianity, or Christian Science, is enabling his followers to understand correctly and obey effectively is the following from the Gospel of Matthew (6:6):

"But thou, when thou prayest, enter into thy closet, and when thou hast shut the door, pray to thy Father which is in secret; and thy Father which seeth in secret shall reward thee openly."

This, let I said at once, was not a prohibition against praying out loud, but it was a disapproval of showy words and materialistic motives. For, in commending to his followers the privacy of prayer, Christ Jesus had already warned them not to pray to be seen of men who love to stand in the synagogues and on the street corners praying in order to be seen and perhaps applauded by the public. He had said of such: "They have their reward." The applause, he might have said, is all they are going to get.

You and I, eager for a sense of complete living and desirous of being sound ourselves and contributing to soundness and blessedness everywhere, will gladly forego the applause of the material-minded and conform to the requirements whereby God's open rewards appear in our lives—rewards such as health, activity, freedom from limitation, deliverance from the bondage of sin and from the fear of death, and ultimately from death itself.

To conform to these requirements we must understand them. We must know our Father. We must be aware of the nature of the "closet," and of the operation of "the door," and we must recognize the rewards as they flow boundlessly and satisfyingly from our Father to us.

In seeking aid in the understanding of these things we can consult no better than the textbook of scientific Christianity, or Christian Science. This textbook is called "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures." It was written by Mary Baker Eddy who blessed mankind immeasurably by her discovery of this Science and by her writing of this book which explains it.

In the book Mary Eddy says (p. 15): "The closet typifies the sanctuary of Spirit, the door of which shuts out sinful sense but lets in Truth, Life, and Love."

In this statement the phrase "sanctuary of Spirit" means the sacred dwelling place of God, for the word Spirit is a synonym for God. There are six other synonyms in Mrs. Eddy's comprehensive definition of God, derived basically from the Bible. They are: Mind, Principle, Soul, Life, Truth, and Love. Each of the seven, the definition indicates, must be understood as described by four adjectives, incorporeal, divine, supreme and infinite.

In the sanctuary of incorporeal, divine, supreme, and infinite Spirit no matter can dwell, for Spirit is the opposite of matter and its infinite presence excludes the presence of matter. By correct definition, matter is the supposed absence of Spirit. How can we enter into the sanctuary of Spirit? By partaking of the nature of Spirit, by recognizing in truth that there is no other nature in us.

Spirit being Mind, that which is in the sanctuary of Spirit necessarily partakes of the nature of Mind or Spirit, and indeed of the nature of all the five other synonyms for God. For God, being infinite, is the only creator, and that which is in His sanctuary could not exist unless created by Him. What does infinite Mind create? Infinite Mind creates infinite ideas, each and all expressing Mind's nature. These ideas are individual, because the Mind, or Soul, or Principle, Life, Truth, Love, which knows them, is individual. In speaking of ideas Mrs. Eddy says, (Science & Health 290:7) "Mind creates and multiplies them, and the product must be mental." That truth accounts for you and me from the spiritual standpoint and for all individuality. Further, the ideas are spiritual, because, as just stated, the divine Mind which knows them is also divine Spirit.

Reflecting divine Mind they are conscious of themselves and of their Maker. Acutely responsive to good but not to evil, they are the Mind's means of revealing of all beauty and loveliness in the permanent or spiritual sense thereof, because Soul is the author of the beauty that is spiritual. Being a synonym for God, Soul is Spirit, in whose sanctuary the ideas of God dwell.

These ideas, including the real, spiritual selfhood of ourselves and every one, are perfectly right, or righteous, precisely defined and unblemished in their Godlike nature, because Principle forms and defines them, and Principle is another synonym for the divine creator, or the divine Spirit in whose sanctuary they live.

God's ideas, moreover, are alive forever, because Life, a synonym for God, is their source. They are unchanging and eternally completely loving, because divine Truth and Love, two other synonyms for God, made them in the image and likeness of His Maker. It informs us that God made man in His image and likeness, but He gave man dominion, meaning that man, in his likeness to his Maker, includes in his consciousness of that likeness, or, in other words, his reflection of his divine source, all the ideas that God conceives.

Why does this entering into the sanctuary of Spirit yield to the description of being secret? It is secret from matter or material beliefs. It is totally the true state of consciousness of which matter knows nothing. Not only is knowledge of it denied to matter, but matter, being the complete antithesis of Spirit, is incapable of knowing it.

Why are we admonished to "shut the door"? Because suggestions related to belief in the reality of matter must be kept out of thought. Such suggestions are what Christian Science calls sinful sense, the belief in another God or mind opposed to the one divine Spirit. The Bible, the first of the Ten Commandments, you will recall, forbids such belief and indicates in the Second Commandment that it is sin. If such suggestions do enter into thought in any degree of acceptance, they are an unequalled answer to the affirmative. They are daily and continually improving their ability to bring thought into line with the fact that divine Spirit is, and the entering into the sanctuary has been no entering at all. This means, of course, that the prime requirement for receiving the Father's open reward has not been complied with.

It is possible to comply with that requirement intelligently and practically. Thousands of followers of Christ Jesus, instructed by Christian Science, are today giving to themselves an unequalled answer to the affirmative. They are daily and continually improving their ability to bring thought into line with the fact that divine Spirit is, and the entering into the sanctuary has been no entering at all. This means, of course, that the prime requirement for receiving the Father's open reward has not been complied with.

As the Christ, the Son of God, Jesus was a material being. This proved before human eyes. The great significance of that proof is that it established the fact for you and me that in the degree we too permit the Christ, the spiritual idea of God, to be expressed as our consciousness, we too are indestructible, we know and prove our indestructibility.

It is possible to comply mentally with the requirement to shut the door of the closet, it is possible to comply practically with it. Allowing Christian Science to be metaphysics, it is not abstract. It is indeed demand the lifting of thought above the sense of material living so that the spiritual ideas of God may be seen, felt and understood, but it does not leave human existence unimpaired by the beneficent power of God. Indeed the evidence of God's healing power, as presented by Christ Jesus and by Christian Science, appears as consciousness transforming human existence. Mrs. Eddy emphasizes this in her textbook. For instance on page 209 she defines spiritual sense as "a conscious, constant capacity to understand God," then remarks that spiritual sense "shows the superiority of faith by works over faith in words," and continues with this arresting statement: "Its ideas are expressed only in 'new tongues'; and these are interpreted by the translation of the spiritual original into the language which human thought can comprehend."

Herein lies the practicality of Christian Science.

Fear underlies all mortal thought, and divine Life, controlling and governing as divine Love, wipes fear out. Mortal thought believes in and fears death, and the thought cannot conceive of ending; and it never ends. Man never ends because he is the embodiment of immortal thought. Christ Jesus, our example, living God's love, proved Life to be eternal. He made complete and final triumph over death, which the Bible calls the last enemy. By that momentous act he established the fact that the Life of man is forever—forever because Life is God, God forever expressing Himself, and denying that expression no man.

When an individual attains the recognition of imperishable Life, accompanied by the realization that he expresses that Life, that moment, for that individual, fear is gone. This is not bravado saying haughtily, "Let death come, don't mind it, I'm not afraid." Rather it is intelligence perceiving that death does not come. It is spiritual self-knowledge, knowing that the true selfhood of man is in eternity, forever embodying God's spiritual nature, beyond all reach of termination or anything that threatens in any degree to lead to termination.

Since all disease, all inactivity, all weakness, all defeat, all that is untalented and incompetent flourishes upon the foundation of fear, the sphere of fear, the wiping out of fear, thoroughly and spiritually accomplished, stifles all evil to extinction. Disease does not belong to man. It belongs to mortal mind. It is an incident in mortal mind's dream of existence. Disease is not experienced by mortal mind, hence the answer to the prayer offered in the secret closet with the door shut comes in the awakening to the fact that the divine Mind and not mortal mind is the Mind of man. Mortal mind is mortal, and mortal mind though mortal mind may seem to have been adopted by the individual as his mind, his utter separateness from it can be proved simultaneously with the proof of the fact that man's Mind is divine.

How can the divine Mind be proved to be man's Mind? Any individual can prove it for himself by consecrating thought to the correct understanding of God, divine Mind, the infinite, perfect Mind or creator of all that exists. By understanding the qualities or ideas of such a God, or Mind, he can learn to know himself as reflecting that Mind. Spiritual ideas are always present. These ideas are always present in your consciousness and mine and in the consciousness of every individual. They can be recognized in the degree by anyone who is making a sincere effort to understand God aright. Recognized, they should be accepted as real and more and more vividly apprehended until they become fully manifest in human experience. The human mind appears to control the human body so that when the human mind yields to the divine, the body is harmonious, at ease, and not diseased.

Are these spiritual ideas in the human mind? They seem to be to the human consciousness, because they may be apprehended by you and me, but they are actually in divine Mind and in the degree that they are apprehended and practiced, they characterize you and me as the sons and daughters of God. Through this spiritual sense in your consciousness and mine, comes the Christ, the spiritual offspring of God, actively manifesting it, healing progressively specific disorders of mortal thought until mortal thought, or the human mind, is crowded into its native nothingness. When this is completely accomplished in the sanctuary of Spirit man discovers, as Mrs. Eddy has gloriously stated in words previously quoted in this lecture, that he has reopened "with the key of divine Science the gates of Paradise which human beliefs have closed," and he finds himself unfallen, upright, pure, and free, not needing to consult almanacs for the probabilities either of his life or of the weather, not needing to study brainology to learn how much of a man he is.

Mortal mind, appearing to be the mind of a human being, does not change its mortal or illusive nature. Neither does it partake of or mix with spiritual ideas which you and I are able to apprehend. Mortal notions and spiritual ideas merely seem to grow side by side in the virgin mind. As long as mortal Jesus said would be rightly separated only at the time of harvest, at the moment of understanding what is of God and what of man.

How did Mrs. Eddy discover this marvelous Science of Christianity? She did it by consecration, by devoting herself humbly and religiously to that purpose. When she was a little girl of six years, her thought was so full of confidence in God's presence that she is credited with having calmed an insane man of whom others were frightened. There were other instances in her experience showing the power of thought devoted simply to the effort to align itself with the activity and purposes of God.

Mrs. Eddy came of a deeply religious family. She was born Mary Baker in 1821 in Dow, New Hampshire, the daughter of a rigorously religious father and of a compassionately Christian mother. Her mother, by quiet and admonition, cultivated the child's thought in the love of God. Her grandmother, who lived also in the house, kept the child instructed and informed on significant incidents recorded in the Bible and on their spiritual meaning. Mrs. Eddy's mother saw it through her devout eyes.

Mary Baker grew up with the single objective of understanding God and His power and the rule by which Christ Jesus demonstrated that power for the release of mankind from restrictions upon that which is good. Progressively she met and mastered difficulties which seemed overwhelming as they came upon her but which proved powerless to stop her in her onward march toward the goal of understanding God. Among the difficulties was the unwillingness of other Christians to believe that God's power could be apprehended and made manifest exactly as Christ Jesus had in 1868. She had fallen on some fee in her early school days, and she followed would evoke it in greater measure, through the Comforter that would come.

In her early schooling Mrs. Eddy had learned easily and had later read a great number of instructive books. She had been in many ways, including the tutoring given her by her brilliant brother, Albert, a young attorney in the office of Franklin Pierce who was to become President of the United States. She became educated and was brilliant in her retention and understanding of ideas. Albert died young and her parents also passed from the human scene. Her two sisters would have befriended her but they did not understand her holy purpose.

Through years of frailty and illness Mrs. Eddy had sought various cures, believing in some of them for a time but discarding them through necessity. They did not truly benefit her, and none proved even remotely akin to the healing power of Christ Jesus applied, to the finding of which her life was definitely dedicated.

She found it through what was termed an unfortunately painful and serious accident. The year was 1866. She had fallen on some fee in the city of Lynn, Massachusetts, and received injuries from which she was expected to die. But friends and neighbors, waiting at her home in expectation of such a sad event, were startled by her walking in to see them from an adjoining bedroom, a perfectly well woman.

She later explained that she had been reading the account of Christ Jesus' healing of the man sick of the palsy (Matt. 9) when suddenly the culmination of her years of effort focused upon a clear revelation of Christ Jesus' power. She applied it at once to herself, and was healed. She had found the "pearl of great price."

But the price of the pearl, as she was to find, had not yet been fully paid. Her struggles for ordinary subsistence and shelter were well-nigh insupportable while for three years she devoted herself to the application of her discovery to determine for a certainty that it was indeed the method of healing prayer practiced by the Master Christian. Results established the fact that it was.

Despite continued opposition she sought to teach it to others while practicing it herself. There was enough success to assure the onward march toward her selfless goal. That goal was to make this method available to honest-hearted men and women, eager to know God aright and thereby to feel the restorative presence of His Christ in time of every need.

Although clergymen did not accept her discovery, nevertheless, God did raise up a few friends for her, just enough at the right time, even among the clergy. Her own pastor had appreciated and befriended her, but her own Congregational Church, while it never lost regard for her, nor she for it, could find no way to adopt her discovery. She had wished, but had received no encouragement, to give it to all Christian denominations as her contribution to the high achievement of Christianity in its helpfulness, to mankind.

There were other friends than a few clergymen, but the way remained rugged. Many friends lost the vision and became opponents, but new and more discerning ones appeared when needed.

She had published, some early writings on her discovery. In one instance an essay called "The Science of Man" then in 1875 she triumphed over heartbreaking disappointments and issued the first copy of Science and Health. Revised by her time and again, it has passed through many editions until it became the current one used throughout the world by her followers. In it her discovery is labeled for all time as Christian Science and this divine Science is the promised Comforter. Her marriage to one of her followers, Asa G. Eddy, brought for a time needed comfort.

Mr. Eddy was among the first public practitioners of his wife's discovery, a successful one, and a most considerate husband. However, even this human support was to disappear shortly from her experience in the passing on of Mr. Eddy.

Orphaned as Mrs. Eddy had been, and as she knew that her discovery would be buffeted too. Accordingly she was led to seek means of uniting Christian Scientists for the protection of each Christian Scientist in his right and privilege of practicing his religion. Out of this necessity and also that of providing methods of public worship and of dissemination of information to those desiring it, The Mother Church was born. Its location then and now is indicated by its name, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, Boston, Massachusetts. It has today more than three thousand branches widespread over the globe.

To establish divine authority in The Mother Church and its branches, Mrs. Eddy, in accordance with God's guidance which came to her, wrote the Manual of The Mother Church. This Manual is acknowledged as one of the most admirable compendiums of law and order ever produced.

Under this Manual the affairs of The Mother Church are administered. The Christian Science Board of Directors, a self-perpetuating board of five persons who are Christian Scientists obligated to promote and extend the religion of Christian Science, is accorded with Mrs. Eddy's guiding purpose.

This Board is required by the Manual to see that the various offices Mrs. Eddy established are properly filled and the duties properly discharged. This includes the supervision and approval of policy and content of the weekly Lesson-Sermons studied by Christian Scientists throughout the world, and read each Sunday in all Christian Science Churches.

As one body of Christian Scientists, loyal to their God-appointed Leader, members of The Mother Church and of its branches, each in the degree of his own progress, marching forward in their ability through prayer to alleviate suffering and prove the inability of mortal mind to prevent any child from knowing his divine Father and consciously dwelling in His kingdom.

In establishing her church organization, Mrs. Eddy provided for many unique activities. In addition to the Sunday services at which teachers, alternately read passages from the King James Version of the Bible and from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," constituting the weekly Lesson-Sermons, she made provision for a marvelous conceived Wednesday evening testimony meeting.

Such testimony is not casual. It is a "marvelous conceived" because it meets a fundamental need. Extraordinary blessings are not normally accepted in silence by the recipient. There must be some voicing of the heart's bestirred gratitude.

At the Wednesday meeting, any member of the congregation has the privilege of rising voluntarily and acknowledging publicly some evidence or evidences of God's healing power which Christian Science has brought into his experience.

flattering way to keep his thought aligned with the fact that all true thought comes from God. Nevertheless, he had an accident. His automobile was struck by another and he himself was severely injured. Bones were fractured and internal organs thrown out of adjustment. In accord with the rules of public emergency, officials took him to a hospital. Being a Christian Scientist the man did his best to lift thought into that spiritual realm of divine Mind where man truly dwells and where no accidents can occur.

Even the simple effort to do this was rewarded. The man kept his assured sense of the truth that if no accidents occur in the real universe, no results of accidents can appear. He was seeking the secret place of prayer under circumstances in which any yielding to that fact would have been highly unwise. He maintained cordial human relations with all who came near, but in "the secret closet" he was endeavoring to "shut the door." He must have succeeded in some degree. In a little over a week he was again on his way, driving a new car across the continent. When he was released from the hospital to continue his journey, he was somewhat startled to have one of the physicians say to him as he departed: "You probably noticed you were not medicated. The man who maintained the right state of mind can be trusted to find healing. You were sized up as a man who could be trusted for that. If you had not done it, you would have been medicated. I am glad we did not have to medicate you."

The man does not know whether the physician knew he was a Christian Scientist or not. But he does know that the physician was sincere, and he knows also that his God has restored him yet again, that whereas he was bruised and broken, now he is whole. The open reward of secret prayer is present and established.

Much of the significance in the admonition to pray in the closet with the door shut so that the divine Father who sees in secret may give his open reward lies in the fact that the prayer is prayed by an individual. All salvation is individual. Each of us must know and demonstrate for himself his unity with his divine Principle. Each must bring his own thought into line with the infinite and perfect source of thought so that erroneous and sinful notions regarding the nature of thought may disappear with their manifestations.

This is a demand which must be obeyed. But it is no intricate task. It is an inescapable happy duty for each of us. It protects our dignity as individuals, our immunity from interference from anything outside ourselves, and it establishes the right and privilege of each of us to have all the real good necessary for the complete fulfillment of the individuality of each. No one can have so many resources, so much substance in his life, as to deprive someone else of something he needs.

If we understand even in a degree the great meaning of Christianity and of Christian Science we shall not be tempted to believe either that we can deprive others of anything or be deprived ourselves. As this marvelous truth dawns on individual thought and its resultant effect is illustrated in the life of each one, it will enlighten whole groups and nations so that the tensions of the world, the fears that deceive men and nations into murderous strife will lessen and ultimately disappear. "Jealousy is cruel as the grave," says the writer of Proverbs. (Song of Solomon 8:6) Yet the cruelty of jealousy, vicious as it is, is subject to erasure from experience. This is accomplished by removing the false notion that the door of spiritual opportunity can be closed. That door cannot be closed even by oneself, for that which would seem to close it is but false belief, which is subject to the healing power of the Christ. Accordingly the remedy for jealousy is simply to know, each for himself, that he has all the resources he needs from God, the one Mind, which cares for each of his ideas.

Whatever is real, whatever is substantial, must be of God, for God is the only creator. Since God is divine Mind and divine Mind is substantial, the spiritual ideas of Mind are substantial. Hence Mrs. Eddy declares (Misc. 307:1): "God gives you His spiritual ideas, and in turn, they give you daily supplies."

The right answer to our problems, empty of all material, and practiced by you and me, is the demonstration of love—the love which is the manifestation of divine Love, God. We do not mean a sentimental love. Love is intelligent, spiritual understanding.

Oh, let us love more and more. Let us have done with the notion that evil is in man. Man is not evil, subject to destruction, any more than is God. Evil is not man. It is mortal mind. If it seems to be adopted by others or by us as the mind of man, let us vigorously break that sense of adoption. Let us destroy belief in evil without the slightest destructive intent against anyone. How is this done? By clarifying our concept of man, by recognizing and realizing that consciousness reflects divine Principle. But none can do this for himself without doing it for others. My concept of man is faulty if my brother does not agree to me to be as much the son of God as I am.

Herein is love, the ineffable love that heals and saves. It lifts the burden of guilt from one as it enlightens the mind of others. By it the evil which mortal sense would attach to another or to man is nullified in its effects. By it wisdom is supplied whereby evil is rendered powerless and relegated to its nothingness. Love is the way known to God, secret from the world. It is in the spirit of love that we pray, apart from matter, at one with God. Love is the way to understand God, the Father, who, seeing in secret, bestows his open reward. It is the way of Christ's Christianity and of divine Science, the Comforter which Christ Jesus predicted would come to his followers.

The product of three years of labor, the craft has a 45-foot span sign made up of 800 small bulbs slung beneath the wing. The trio plans to sell aerial "space" at the rate of $400 an hour.

Blue Devil Team Smothered By Underdog Wyandotte '11'

The Grosse Pointe Blue Devils' hopes of sharing the Border Cities League football crown exploded like a toy balloon last Friday night, October 16, when an underdog Wyandotte team administered a surprise 21 to 0 whitewashing to the bewildered Blue Devils on the Bears' home field.

Pre-game dogs figured the Devils to be at least three touchdowns better than Wyandotte, but apparently the Bears' front to back line was too good for the Blue Devils' pass choppers. They smothered their way to the upset victory which would tie the Bears into a three-way tie for first place at 12-0 with Motown and Royal Oak. The defeat dropped the Devils into 11th place in the 12-team league.

Stat-Lies Tell Story
Wyandotte completed 10 of 15 passes for 144 yards compared to the Devils' 10 of 19 attempts, which was 144 for a mere 4 yards. Wyandotte churned out 177 yards on the ground and 12 first downs to the Devils' meager 187 yards on the ground and 55 yards on passing plays. The Devils also had four of their passes intercepted, which can't help matters.

Wyandotte's first touchdown came in the early stages of the second quarter. Starting at mid-field, the Blue Devils' line was too tight to get on the first two plays. On the third play, they took the ball to the back field and ran it back 13 yards to the end zone. The play was a 13-yard run by Bob Jeffery, who was the only one to get over the line. Miss Big Chance
Grosse Pointe had a golden opportunity to tie the game up in the third quarter when Mike Smith hit a 35-yard punt and Pete Galt caught it. The Devil secondary, took the ball without breaking his stride and reeled into the end zone without a hand being laid on him. Richards again converted and the Wyandotte stands went wild.

Outplay Devils
Sensing they had an upset of major proportions in the making, the Bears played like demons and outcharged and outplayed the Devils for the remainder of the contest. It was the hard charging play of the Wyandotte line that upset the Blue Devils' appearence.

Neither Jim Lineberger or Lee Clancy had the slightest chance to get set to make their passes as the Devils turned to aerials to get back in the game. It was this strong defensive play of the Bears that turned four Devil passes into interceptions and stopped the Pointers' attack cold every time the Devils got their hands on the ball, which wasn't much in the final period.

Sustained 83 Yard Drive
Wyandotte's final touchdown came in the last quarter on a sustained 83-yard drive which featured the running of halfbacks Erwin Sadanowicz, Jeffery and the passing of Jelsomeno. It was Jelsomeno who plunged over center for the final three yards for the score. Richards made it three in a row when his conversion boot sailed squarely between the uprights to make the score 21 to 0 in favor of the Bears.

The only bright spot of the night was Louie "Tweedle Dum" Hibbs' 33 yard run in the late stages of the last quarter on that old moth eaten Statue of Liberty play. Lou was brought down on the Bears' 42-yard line where three plays later the ball remained as the final whistle blew ending the game.

Sad Blow to Locals
The defeat was a sad blow to the Devils who thought they had a good chance of coming through the remainder of their schedule undefeated and share the BCL crown for the first time in the Devils' history.

Grosse Pointe will meet the winless Highland Park Polar Bears next Friday night, October 23, on the Parkers' home field. Had the Pointers taken Wyandotte as they were expected to do, the Highland Park game could have been classed as a breather before meeting Fordson the following week.

Boat Banter

By Fred Runnells

If the weather is right next Saturday morning, October 23, Grosse Pointers will have a ring side seat to watch Jack Shafer's "Such Crust III" and V and Joe Schoenith's new "Gale III" bid for the world speed boat record currently held by Stan Sayres "Slo-Mo-Shun IV."

The record attempt will be made under the sanction of the American Power Boat Association and the course will be laid along the American shoreline along Lake Shore drive to the south of the Grosse Pointe Y. C. Owner Jack Shafer is confident his "Such Crust III" can top the current world record standard of 178.479 mph and has given Wild Bill Cantrell the green light to try and top the mark with "Such Crust V." Both Chuck Thompson, driver of the 3rd and Cantrell feel their boats can top 180 mph.

"Gale III" is still a question mark but with youthful Lee Schoenith at the wheel you can be sure "Gale" will get a top notch ride.

Prior to the record attempts, which will be made over a measured mile straight away course, Shafer will entertain radio, press and guests at a breakfast at the Grosse Pointe Y. C.

St. Ambrose Eleven Beats St. Philip's for Fifth Win

A favored St. Ambrose eleven trounced St. Phillip's, 35 to 6, Sunday afternoon, October 18. This was the fifth consecutive victory for St. Ambrose. The scoring began in the first quarter with Marv Peeters chucking a 30 yard pass to teammate Don Zach. Minutes later Zach again scored, taking in a 27 yard pass from Peeters.

Captain Fred Saad sliced off tackle, and with some nice downfield blocking streaked 34 yards for six points. Later in the last period Saad scored on the same play. This time he ran 52 yards.

St. Ambrose marched down to the St. Philip's goal line where Dick Vivian plunged over for another six points. In the closing minutes St. Philip's prevented a shutout with a 20-yard pass play. Much credit must be given to Tom Brown of St. Ambrose, who kicked all five points after-touchdowns. His sore toe has put the ball through the uprights on 12 out of 16 tries.

Notice of Ordinance Adoption Ordinance No. 67

No. 67. AN ORDINANCE PROVIDING MINIMUM STANDARDS OF DESIGN AND DEVELOPMENT IN ALL SUBDIVISION PLATS, RESUBDIVISION PLATS, AND IN THE SUBDIVIDING OF ANY LOT OR LOTS, AND REQUIRING THE INSTALLATION OF MINIMUM IMPROVEMENTS IN CONNECTION WITH ANY SUCH SUBDIVIDING; AND PROVIDING FOR THE ENFORCEMENT OF THIS ORDINANCE AND PRESCRIBING PENALTIES FOR THE VIOLATION THEREOF.

The City of Grosse Pointe ordains:

Section 1. No subdivision plat or resubdivision plat of the subdividing of any lot or lots shall hereafter be approved by the Council of the City of Grosse Pointe unless there is conformance with the provisions hereof, including the minimum standards and requirements provided for herein, as well as compliance with the laws of the State of Michigan, as the same may be from time to time amended.

Section 2. RELATION TO ADJOINING STREETS SYSTEM. Any subdivision adjoining Jefferson Avenue on the south shall make provisions for the dedication of an additional twenty (20) feet of street right-of-way on the south side of Jefferson Avenue.

In subdivisions not adjoining Jefferson Avenue, provision shall be made for the dedication of the proper location and width of major streets. The subdivider may be required to continue certain adjoining streets through the area that is being subdivided whenever such continuations are necessary to provide for normal movements of vehicles or to enable adjoining property to be properly subdivided.

Section 3. MINOR STREET AND ALLEY WIDTH. (a) The minimum width for minor streets in any subdivision located south of Jefferson Avenue shall be forty (40) feet. In other sections of the City the minimum width of minor streets shall be fifty (50) feet; provided, however, that where the topography or special conditions make a street of less or greater width more suitable, the above requirements may be waived.

(b) Alleys shall not be provided in single-family or two-family districts but alleys having a width of not less than twenty (20) feet shall be provided in any area that is to be used for commercial development.

(c) In any subdivision of property located south of Jefferson Avenue, all streets, places and parks shall be established as private ways and areas rather than dedicated to public use or to the City of Grosse Pointe. Adequate provisions shall be made in the deed restrictions accompanying the plat to dedicate such ways and areas to a Board of Trustees and to make proper provision for the construction, maintenance and construction or reconstruction of such ways and areas. Provisions or agreements may also be made whereby any private street or way can be maintained or reconstructed by the City of Grosse Pointe.

Section 4. EASEMENTS. Easements of not less than six (6) feet in width shall be provided on each side of all rear lot lines and side lines, where necessary, for poles, wires, conduits, storm and sanitary sewers, gas, water and heat mains. In no event shall the total width of any easement be less than twelve (12) feet. Public utility easements shall also be provided in all streets. Any permissible easements regarding the use of such easements shall be vested in the City of Grosse Pointe. Easements of greater width may be required along lines or across lots where necessary for the extension of main sewers and similar utilities.

Section 5. LOTS. The minimum area of any lot in a subdivision shall not be less than the minimum lot area requirements of the zoning district in which the area is located. In unusual instances a residential lot may have a narrow frontage providing access to a street but in no instance shall the minimum width of such narrow strip be less than twenty (20) feet.

Section 6. BUILDING LINES. Provision shall be made by deed requiring building lines that shall not be less than required by the zoning ordinance and all enclosed parts of buildings must be set back of such front building line.

Section 7. IMPROVEMENTS. Before the final plat of any subdivision area shall be approved and recorded, the subdivider shall make and install the improvements described in this ordinance. In lieu of final completion of the minimum improvements before the plat is finally approved, the subdivider may post a surety company bond, approved by the City Attorney and City Treasurer, with the City of Grosse Pointe which bond will insure to the City that the improvements will be completed by the subdivider within two (2) years after final approval of the plat. The amount of the bond shall not be less than the estimated cost of the improvements and the estimated costs must be approved by the City Engineer in writing. If the improvements are not completed within the specified time, the City Council may use the bond or any necessary portion thereof to complete same.

Section 8. MINIMUM IMPROVEMENTS. The minimum improvements installed in any subdivision before the plat can be finally approved shall be in accordance with the following subsections:

(a) The subdivider shall grade and improve all new streets and any alleys within the subdivision. The paving on such new streets and alleys shall be of a character suitable for the expected traffic and in harmony with the similar improvements in the surrounding areas. It shall either be of concrete, not less than six (6) inches in thickness, or not less than six (6) inches of compacted macadam and a bituminous surfacing of not less than two inches in thickness. The width of the pavement, exclusive of curbs, shall not be less than eighteen (18) feet. Roll curbs shall be provided along the pavement to accommodate storm water. The cross-section and specifications shall be approved by the City Engineer and all construction shall be done under his inspection.

(b) Concrete sidewalks not less than five (5) feet in width shall be constructed along both sides of the street, unless the Council approves of such sidewalk on only one side of the street.

(c) The subdivider shall, whenever necessary, grade any portion of the property subdivided into lots so that each lot will be useable and suitable for the erection of residential or other structures thereon.

(d) The subdivider shall install sanitary sewers and storm water sewer and provide a connection for each lot. Such installation shall be in accordance with the standards and specifications of the City of Grosse Pointe, and before the improvement is started, the plan therefor shall be approved by the City Engineer.

(e) The subdivider shall install water mains. Such installation shall be in accordance with the standards and specifications of the City of Grosse Pointe.

(f) It is also desirable to install other improvements such as street trees, electric lines, gas mains and similar facilities in any subdivision. When the City Council deems it necessary, it may require that the subdivider procure the installation of any such improvements before the plat is approved.

Section 9. VARIATION AND EXCEPTIONS. Whenever the strict enforcement of these regulations would entail unusual, real and substantial difficulties or hardships, the City Council may vary or modify them in such a way that the subdivider is allowed to plan and develop his property and record a plat of same without unjust difficulties and expense, but at the same time the public welfare and interests of the City must be fully protected and the general intent and spirit of the regulations preserved.

Section 10. ENFORCEMENT.

(a) The Building Inspector shall not issue building or repair permits for any structure located on a lot in any subdivision the plat of which has neither been fully approved and recorded prior to the effective date of this ordinance nor been fully approved in accordance with the provisions contained herein. Neither shall any building or repair permit be issued for a structure located on a lot in any such subdivision which has been sold or transferred by metes and bounds if the deed for such lot was recorded after the date of the adoption of this ordinance.

"Metes and bounds", for the purpose hereof, is a method used to describe a tract of land intended to be used for dwelling or other purposes as contrasted with the description of a part of a properly approved and recorded subdivision plat by the lot and block number of the subdivision. (b) Any person who sells or attempts to sell a lot in any such subdivision by metes and bounds or otherwise shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars ($100.00) for each and every sale or attempted sale.

Section 11. VALIDITY. If any section, subsection, sentence, clause or phrase of this ordinance is for any reason held to be unconstitutional or void, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this ordinance.

Section 12. WHEN EFFECTIVE. This ordinance, when adopted shall become effective ten (10) days after publication in a newspaper circulated in the City of Grosse Pointe and after posting in at least 5 public places in the City of Grosse Pointe.

Flyers Down Annunciation

Big Jim Ayrault had a field day last Saturday, October 17, when he scored all of his team's points as the St. Paul Flyers chalked up their second victory of the season in downing Annunciation 19 to 12. Ayrault wasted no time putting his Flyers into the scoring column when he intercepted an Annunciation pass on the second play from scrimmage and rammed 35 yards for the touchdown. Gene Graham's conversion boot was no good and the Flyers were out in front 6 to 0 with less than three minutes gone in the first quarter.

Does It Again

Ayrault gave the Flyer fans something to scream about in the opening minutes of the third quarter when he picked another Annunciation pass from the air and raced 40 yards down the sidelines for the Flyers' second score of the day. On this run Ayrault avoided two would-be tacklers who stood between him and the goal line, with a beautiful straight-arm of one and a fancy fake of the other.

A fake kick for the extra point was good when quarterback Ted Monahan flipped a pass to Ayrault in the end zone to make the score read Ayrault 13, Annunciation 0.

March 60 Yards

Annunciation got back in the ball game in the dying minutes of the third period when it put together a sustained drive which carried them from their own 40 yard line to the St. Paul end zone. Halfback Joe Macnotte plunged over his own right tackle for the final 5 yards. Phil Van Tien blocked the try for the extra point.

Midway in the final quarter, right guard Dick Dowd crashed through the Annunciation forward wall and blocked a punt on the Annunciation 30. The ball bounced back to the 5 yard line where Ayrault raced in and scooped the ball up on the 5 and fell into the end zone for the final Flyer tally. Graham's try for the extra point was blocked and the Flyers enjoyed a 19 to 6 lead with about 6 minutes left in the game.

Penalties Are Costly Penalties played an important part in Annunciation's final touchdown. After the Flyers stalled an Annunciation attack at mid-field, Annunciation was forced to punt. The ball rolled dead on the Flyers' 5-yard line.

A major penalty put the ball on the St. Paul one-yard line and forced Ayrault to kick out of danger. Ayrault's punt was taken on the Flyers' 30 and run back to the 12, where Annunciation ran out of steam and the Flyers took over.

Once again 15 and 5 yard penalties put the ball on the St. Paul one-yard line. Ayrault was forced to punt and Annunciation put the ball in play on the Flyers' 20 yard line, from where two passes and an end run by Joe Macnotte gave Annunciation its final score of the day.

Miss Point Again The try for the extra point was wide and the Flyers walked off the gridiron with a 19 to 12 victory tucked safely away and brought their season record to 2 wins, 2 losses and a tie.

The Flyers will meet St. Rose on the Neighborhood Club field next Sunday, October 24. Kickoff time is scheduled for 2:30 p.m.

Lead Changes In League

As was expected, the mighty fell before the onslaught of the underdogs. Things were going too smooth for the leaders in the Grosse Pointe Business Men's Bowling League.

The only fortunate team to survive was Barrett's, which took four points from Vermeulen, thereby taking the lead. H. M. Seldon lost four to Norman. Bankes-Lightbourne lost three to Belding's. Kennelly split with Adam-Simms.

The general averages of the bowlers has slowed down to normal and the evening was a bit quieter as a result. Last Thursday's members of the 200 Club are as follows: Baker 212, Carroll 222, Cucchi 203, Calahan 201, Gross 201-201, Weiss 203-203, A. Bosco 232, Higgins 203, DeRidder 204, D. Gump Victorious in Ice Breaker Clyd Gump and his crew of Bob Foster and John Proctor, captured the top honors in the fifth annual Ice Breaker series for Thistle, sloops last Sunday, October 18, held off Bayview Y.C.

It marked the third time in succession Gump had brought his Thistle to Detroit and walked off with the title. Chairman George Devlin said when he presented Gump with the beautiful mahogany perpetual trophy "This is getting to be a habit and if it happens again I am going to refuse to make any more trophies."

The series was a three race affair which started at 10:30 a.m. with 17 boats hitting the starting line. The starting line wasn't the only thing they hit as all the skippers tried to gain the advantage of the weather end of the line. Every one of the three starts resembled a "Dodgem" session at an amusement park as the light weight plywood sloops banged one another around at the gun.

Once away the fleet had a broad reach to the first mark opposite Peche Island, a beat to weather to the second mark off the head of Belle Isle and a run to the finish off Bayview's dock. All races were triangular and were sailed twice around.

The hard luck guy of the series was Bob Johns, who broke a jib halyard at the start of the third race. In the first two races Johns had received the winners gun and was far out in front on points.

The mishap forced him to take last place in the third race which knocked him far down in the standings.

Gump, from Columbus, Ohio, annexed a three race total point score of 42. Chuck Trummon, also of Columbus, and Bill Nissen of Cleveland, tied for second place with 40 points. Trummon was awarded second place on the "horse race" method of breaking ties.

The only bright spot for the local lads was Howard Boston's victory in the final race.

Two Tilts Won By Austin High

New Austin High School, just across the boarder line of Grosse Pointe, under head coach Don Duff, scored impressive victories in its first two games of an independent football schedule last week.

The school, which opened only last fall, has a team made up of sophomores and freshmen, which is the reason it is not playing in a regular Parochial League and has selected an independent schedule for the next two seasons when last year's freshmen became seniors.

The opening game against the St. Ambrose reserves was a thrilling 13 to 6 decision in favor of Austin, with touchdowns scored by Murphy on a pass from Brennan, and the final tally coming in the final two minutes of play on a long pass from Pat Potter to John Dragonajty.

St. Ambrose knotted the score at 6-all in the third quarter on a 60 yard end run.

The U of D High freshmen became the second victim of Austin to the tune of 24 to 18, on Saturday, October 17.

The game was a see-saw battle with the outcome in doubt until the final minutes of play, when quarterback Brennan flipped a pass to his end Bob Murphy for the deciding touchdown.

In the first half both teams scored twice and left the field at halftime all tied up at 12-all. A sustained 80 yard drive featuring the running of Lou Echlin gave Austin an 18 to 12 lead shortly before the third quarter ended. With less than four minutes remaining in the final quarter U of D bounced back to tie the score and set the stage for Brennan's game winning touchdown pass.

Austin is playing its home games on Baldock Field which is adjacent to the school just across Mack avenue.

Two games remain on Austin's schedule, with St. Charles reserves and coach Eddie Lauer's St. Paul reserves. The latter game will be played on Baldock Field and should be an interesting one to Grosse Pointers inasmuch as several former St. Paul students have transferred to the new school. Many of these received their football training under Lauer when they attended the St. Paul grade school before transferring.

MIDGET BASKETBALL

All boys 9-12 who are interested in playing Midget Basketball during the coming season should reserve next Monday and Tuesday nights, October 26 and October 27, for the clinic. All should try to come for both nights from 6:30 to 8 p.m. Registration forms will be given out, and the boys will have a chance to become acquainted with the coaches.

GIANT BASKETBALL Boys 13-14 who are interested in the Giant League are reminded to come on Monday and Tuesday nights, Oct. 26 and Oct. 27, from 8-9 p.m. to register and meet the coaches.

DEMONSTRATION On Monday night, Oct. 26, Ed Lauer, coach of St. Paul, will bring some of his players to the clinic for a demonstration of some of the basic moves and rules of basketball. The demonstration will begin about 7:30, and players from the Giant League, as well as the Midgets, are welcome to come, watch, and learn.

COACHES An invitation is extended to all parents and persons interested in coaching or managing a team in the Giant (13-14), Midget (9-12), or Midget farm system to come on the nights of the clinic. Interested persons should contact Jack Auckland at the Neighborhood Club.

Grosse Pointe City Police & Fire Association, 17145 Maumee, Grosse Pointe 30, Mich. Gentlemen:

We wish to express our thanks for your generous gift of a basket and backboard for the Neighborhood Club gym. Another basket was badly needed, especially for this year's expanded Midget League program and for the Giant League which is being started. The new basket will be a great help, for it will now allow three teams to practice at the same time. Also, it increases by one-third the number who can use the gym during open periods.

Thank you again for a gift which will serve the community for many years to come.

Sincerely, NEIGHBORHOOD CLUB W. DesRocher J. Auckland

The speaker is of national fame for his color work and is rated as a two star exhibitor by the Photographic Society of America.

The members of the club are submitting four slides of color for judging and criticism by the experts.

The meeting will be held at the Neighborhood Club at 17145 Waterloo avenue, commencing at 8 o'clock and the interested public has been invited to attend.

News Notes From D. U. S.

Heading the audio-visual committee at the Detroit University School is Mr. Andrew Cole. Mr. Cole trains students of all grades as projectionists for the movie machine, and after a training period they are permitted to operate the Bell-Howell 16 mm. projector at the school.

Throughout the year movies of a variety of types are shown. Some are intended for general school assemblies. Others are used by individual teachers for their own course work.

Thus some of the titles are "Other Fellow's Feelings," "The Bully," "Improve Your Handwriting," and "How We Cooperate," while films dealing with special course material are ones like "Cells and Their Function," "Our Monroe Doctrine," and "France—Background for Literature."

There are films, too, such as "Basketball by Rupp," that deal with sports and others that reenact famous stories like "Adventures of Huckleberry Finn."

The greater number of films come from the film library of the University of Michigan for whose services the school is a subscriber. Other sources include industry film agencies, such as the General Electric Company, which make movies available that are of interest to science courses.

Also many sources are used in the community or the metropolitan area—the Grosse Pointe Library, the Detroit Roundtable, the Canadian Consulate. Whenever it's possible in a crowded schedule, teachers try to preview the films that they show or, failing that, to use the descriptive material that accompanies education films. They do so, of course, to be able to tell classes what to look for in the film and to sharpen their understanding of what they are going to see.

Discussion and recall of what has been seen are both important, too, since teachers like to stress the point that school movies are not designed for entertainment (though they may be entertaining) but are a supplement to classroom and textbook instruction.

The faculties of the Detroit University School and Grosse Pointe Country Day School are planning a square dance at the D.U.S. gym on Friday, October 30. "Caller" will be Mrs. Blanche Blashill, who is librarian at D.U.S. and likewise a popular instructor in the community in the fine art of square dancing.

D.U.S. teachers seem to be inveterate conference "goers." This past weekend Mr. John Conley attended the conference of the American Association of the Teachers of French at Haven Hill Lodge near Pontiac, Mich. Teachers from all over the state were present, and speakers included Professors Marc Denkinger and Ben Bart of the University of Michigan. The meeting was sponsored by the Detroit A.A.T.F., of which Mr. Conley is president.

PILFERINGS

Many years ago, a New York tabloid managing editor dreamed up the brilliant idea of something new in the way of stories—he hired a lip reader to go to a fashionable Manhattan dining-room and copy, word for word, some of the conversations of the lunchers. He believed he'd get a gossipy, red hot story.

Here's what turned up:

"Where's our waiter?"

"I haven't seen him for half an hour. What's the trouble?"

"I'd like another mint julep."

"Make that two if you ever find the waiter."

"Oh, Mable, what a stunning hat! And where in the world did you ever find it?"

"Like it?"

"Wild about it. It's simply gorgeous. I never saw anything like it."

"Oh, it's really not much. I thought it fairly becoming. It's one I got at Hattie Carnegie's. But really, I'd sooner talk about the menu. I'm simply starved."

"How's your rose garden getting on?"

"Pretty good. We've got a hundred and thirty one . . ."

"I thought you'd gone to France."

"Leaving next week, old fellow."

"Did you get hold of Joe this morning?"

"No, he hasn't been down to the office—at least he hadn't been down the last time I called. He attended that party at the Gibbons' last night."

"That explains everything."

That was the last time the tabloid editor tried this type of assignment.

Pointer of Interest

MRS. JOHN S. FOLEY OF MERRIWEATHER ROAD

By Jane Schermerhorn

When you go to Grosse Pointe Unitarian Church's Holly Fair (on a Friday, November 13 at that), you'll be able to buy the charming pressed glass wares we pre-viewed when we asked Mrs. John S. Foley to be our Pointer of Interest this week.

They looked right at home in Mrs. Foley's charming house which combines Victorian, early American and traditional decor in just the right way. She had graciously arranged many of the pressed glass pieces on her handsome lazy Susan dinner table and it was such a tempting and lovely sight we wanted everything we saw.

The display was a result of the New England trip Mr. and Mrs. Foley made this summer when first order of every day was a bit of pressed or sand-wich glass for Grosse Pointe Unitarian's glass booth at the holiday fair. Not only was Mrs. Foley a faithful shopper but her own interest in glass made her an inspired one and she managed to unearth really prize examples of this early American craft.

And the names of the towns where the glass was found add to the sparkle, too. There is glass from Dumariscotta, Me., Ascutney, Vt., Hopkinton, Mass.

Antique Glass
We rounded the table, slowly, admiring a pressed glass "planter." "An African violet looks wonderful in it," suggested Mrs. Foley, and told us it was originally a nineteenth century medicine feeder.

"I often wonder what the early day manufacturers of pressed glass would think if they could return and see how modern women use their products," she said. Then she directed our attention to the star pattern master salt and salt dishes. The twentieth century matron likes to use them as candleholders and the larger, master salt, as an ash tray.

There is a set of ruby and plain glass (called ruby and swirl) in old fashioned sugar bowl, spoon bowl, creamer and covered butter dish.

There's something called a spill holder in pressed glass. It was used to hold the twists of paper discarded after the fire in the fireplace had been lighted. Today it has become chic as a vase. There are pitchers in many sizes and many patterns—cherry design, for instance . . . and one of those to be sold at the Fair is pictured in the book on pitchers written by Mrs. Oliver Kamm of Carver avenue right here in the Pointe.

Mrs. Kamm's books went right along on the buying trip with Mrs. Foley. The author is well known to Eastern dealers who regard her as one of the country's foremost authorities on glass and china.

Naturally, because she is a thorough hobbyist, Mrs. Foley has a small library of reference books on glass. A particularly valuable one was written by George L. McKearin who is coming to lecture at Detroit Art Institute on October 26. For beginners, Mrs. Foley thinks Ruth Webb Lee's books are fine, too. But she's a good salesman for Mrs. Kamm's works which are so convenient to carry with you and check with right at the scene of the antiques.

Daisy and Button
Collecting pressed glass is a sure way to learn more about early America, too, Mrs. Foley has found. It is pure Americana since it reflects a lack of European influence which colored almost everything made in this country in its early times.

We even learned a little bit about cut glass during our call. What we regard as cut glass, that which appeared at the beginning of this century, is really the product of an American labor saving method, for true cut glass was blown, not pressed.

Daisy and button is Mrs. Foley's favorite pattern in pressed glass. In her own collection she has stunning pieces in this style. We loved her daisy and button berry bowl with its small, round, dishes. She often fills the bowl with lemon ice and passes a daisy and button pitcher full of creme de menthe at dessert time.

This summer she added to her prizes with a dreamy blue-toned, hob nail cologne bottle, really hard to come by since Clark Gable is one of the country's leading collectors in this field and all the dealers send every available antique cologne or medicine bottle to the star.

Back to prizes you'll find at the Fair: There are berry bowls, also in daisy and button pattern; an opalescent pressed glass log which could be used for a cigarette box; footed compotes; a really rare amethystine cake plate in star variant pattern; a scalloped and footed compote of vaseline glass which combines both sandwich and pressed glass and has a pinkish toned edge.

And deserving of mention all their own are the antique pressed glass bottles, once probably containing vinegar, which have become antiques. They were shaped to mark various times in history.

There is one of Carrie Nation (it MUST have held vinegar) and she's a formidable looking gal! Another is a George Washington bottle, probably made at the time of the Sesquicentennial. These are delightful, now, filled with ivy or philodendron.

You're really going to be surprised, too, at the low prices of these wares; for while the ladies of Grosse Pointe Unitarian Church are determined to raise funds for their church at the Fair they are equally determined to keep prices at an attractively low rate for the friends who'll attend.

Our Pointer of Interest is a definite member of that school believing in "comfortable and useable" antiques. The mother of two boys, Mrs. Foley long since decided her antiques must be comfortable and sturdy.

Her wood paneled living room is one of the most delightful we've seen. Adding to its character is a spinning wheel, a hickory cranberry scoop which has been converted into magazine holder; a brass milk jug now a lamp with Grandma Moses shade. Mrs. Foley's first interest in

Knappen to Give Center Lecture

Professor Marshall M. Knappen of the department of Political Science of the University of Michigan will speak on "Our Relations with Britain and France" at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial at 7:45 o'clock on Wednesday evening October 28. Will Winston Churchill go to Russia for a conference on peace? Since we are not ready for this conference how will that effect our relations with Britain? What will be the effects of reduced foreign aid on our relationship with France? Will our present foreign policy really establish a firm foundation for lasting friendship? These and other timely questions will be asked of Professor Knappen.

Professor Knappen received degrees from the College of Wooster, Oxford, and from Cornell University. In military service from 1942 to 1945, he was chief of religious affairs in the office of Military Government for Germany with rank of Lieutenant Colonel.

antique-ing was inspired by her brother-in-law, Floyd Russell of Mills, Mass., who has pursued the hobby to the point where he is lecturer and recognized authority.

She started with English china tea cups and saucers and now has gone on to furniture and pressed glass.

You'll find Foley enthusiasm in every object at the pressed glass booth when you go to the Fair and if you meet Mrs. Foley she'll probably admit to you that she would like to own every single piece of pressed glass she bought for the booth on that shopping trip this Summer.

Pointe Counter Points

Toulouse-Lautrec's art is reflected in colorful cocktail napkins this season. Remember Jane Avril and May Bel on his posters in Moulin Rouge? They're on the napkins. You'll adore the vital colors . . . the hand-rolled hems . . . the pure linen . . . in this set of eight. Then there are the ones on which Confucius say, "Artist who draw women in summer often hot sketch!" "Man who go in cheap restaurant for good steak sometimes get bum steer." And, "Girl who make gift of watch to man, maybe give him bad time." So much for what Confucius say. We say, "They're clever." Then if you're interested in putting on the dog, do it with light, gay, durable trays. Amusing French Poodles or coins are the decorative accents. Practical, too, because they're unaffected by alcohol, hot dishes, or boiling water. The surface does not peel or check. Trot to Jacobson's Home Decorative Shop for these.

Gals who smell like bouquets are just the gals who collect them. Now you'll ask, "What brought all this on?" And we'll answer, "A tiny pouch bag . . . lined with silk . . . studded with rhinestones that match the lining . . . and containing a vial of French perfume called Crepe de Chine." They're around three dollars at Trails Pharmacy. If you don't care for this scent you can always find your own scent by flitting from flower to flower (bottled, that is) at Trails.

A spectacular accessory for him are the embossed Pegasus Cuff links we found this week. The designs represent both comedy and tragedy. You'll find the hunter . . . horses . . . St. Christopher . . . among others. The suede bags that hold them come in turquoise, blue, rose and cocoa. For him . . . you can shop in leisure at Denny's Men's Store, on the hill.

Is the social season starting for your little tykes? If so, you should take advantage of Mr. Clyde Horning's years of experience in fitting shoes. The baby shoes made of soft calfskin come in sizes A through triple E. You can be sure of a personalized fitting and positive that the shoe fits. They're Horning's own shoes made to their specification and order. You'll be as exuberant as we when you see the fit.

The Town 'n Casual Shop over in the Woods takes great pride in presenting their party pastel jerseys by Nelly Don. One style is a Mandarin Sweater Dress . . . full skirt . . . angora trim . . . pink and blue . . . view it in your November issue of Vogue. 20445 Mack.

Pick your favorite country. Or several. Everybody's getting in the act. It's the fashion these days to make enthusiastic presentations of foreign merchandise. One store we know of chose Spain . . . another picked Belgium and Luxembourg. Still another sells lavish delicacies from Switzerland. It isn't that our own country does not produce everything needed to effect a full life. It does. But, ah, the imports add the zest . . . the spice. This week we've picked Italy. We were in the stock room when the buyer at Jacobson's opened up the surprise boxes . . . black angora sweaters for dress wear. They open down that far . . . have long sleeves and you'd wear them strictly for dress-up. They retail at around forty dollars. It is in this department that we're always amazed at the giant stock of sweaters, whether you crave a lavish embellishment of pearls, rhinestones, or gold braid . . . or just a plain sweater, you'll find what you want in this collection.

The BIRD'S NEST atop the hill is four years old today . . . how time flies! It seems like only yesterday that Marie Bird opened her little salon on the second floor at 117 Kercheval. But not for long . . . as word of the fine beauty service went through the Pointe that shop was too small . . . as soon as possible they moved into their present spacious quarters on the ground floor. Congratulations, Marie Bird, on a job well done.

Slant on comfort. New furniture with metal bases frees you from worrying about scuff marks. Harry Bertoia who studied at Cranbrook has come up with all metal bases on chairs. They're upholstered in yellow, charcoal, camel red, grey. The seat and back covers snap on! Available in canvas . . . turquoise, tangerine . . . black and lemon. These at Gillis Modern Home Furniture Store, 403 Fisher Road.

In the close-ups it's the little things that count. Isn't it? In MAGNIFICATION you can see the tiny unnatural wrinkles and premature age lines, the clogged pores, with the aid of a Make-up Mirror. The boudoir model is elegant . . . framed in gold-tooled leather. The colors are pastel blue . . . peach . . . white. Dimensions are fourteen inches in diameter. The portable model (it folds), is framed in gold-tooled leather. Red . . . blue . . . turf brown. Dimensions 7½ x 9 inches. Colors are suitable for HIM. This portable model is neat . . . use it as your constant companion by land, air or sea. Turf brown makes the ideal gift for the man who uses an electric razor. Here's your chance to eliminate imperfection that cannot be seen in regular mirrors. Johnston's Optical Co., on the hill.

"I'd like to write a testimonial about this. But there are lots of women in the Pointe who haven't heard about it." The enthusiastic lady was having her hair re-conditioned. It included an invigorating massage of the scalp, and penetrating cream, an electrically heated cap. Her hair came out soft, shining, and manageable. The brittleness was gone. Yvonne's Salon CAN recondition your hair. 84 Kercheval.

Here is a fabric that couldn't have been made yesterday. It's 50% wool and 50% orlon. It's what Dupont calls modern-living fibers. Orlon blended with wool combines good looks with long wear. That is what makes the May Claire knitted suits at D. J. Healy's so different. The full fashioned tapered skirts will not cup or sag. The spirited colors of gold, white, grey, blue have multi-colored tops. Some are all one color . . . other . . . red, green, brown . . . heather tones. Around forty dollars at the D. J. Healy Shop, in the village.

Daddy should be in that Christmas card snapshot . . . and he can be if you have an auto-release for your camera. It snaps the picture for you . . . because it trips the shutter automatically after about a 10 second delay. It can be used with all cameras that have cable release sockets. At the Camera Center.

To heat your den, nursery, guest room, sun room or office, you might find the fan-forced electric heaters just what you've been looking for. They're under fifteen dollars at Fromm's, in the village.

A bit of fur . . . a touch of leather . . . can make a gay accessory. The provincial milk pail . . . the flat tapered pouch . . . and great . . . these are the shapes of bags this year. They're spacious . . . soft . . . deep. Many are fashioned of fur . . . like these lush beige and honey mouton with leather or tortoise shell handles . . . quite a few in brown and gray, too . . . Around twenty-five dollars. While you're in accessories on Jacobson's Main floor, take a peek at a new handkerchief imported from Switzerland. You'd probably use it in case of pneumonia only . . . for it's eighteen dollars and v-e-r-y elegant.
