Draft New Ruling Hopes to Get Help to Halt Pollution Screening System Will Cost About $150,000 Attorney General's Aides Prepare Regulatory Legislation Which Would Give State Power to

to Make Improvements to Solve Fox Creek Problem When plans and specifications for improvements of the storm water pumping station and a connecting sewer are approved by the Park council, the city will apply to the Federal Government for a grant to pay part of the cost of the program, it was disclosed by City Manager Robert Slone on Tuesday, May 31.

The improvements and connection were recently ordered by the State Water Resources Commission, when it was found that the Park was pumping storm water and sewage into Fox Creek and contaminating the water.

Mr. Slone stated that the Park council is expected to pass a resolution at a meeting on June 13, authorizing the firm of Hubbell, Roth and Clark, city engineers, to draw up plans and specifications for the project, which will cost an esti-mated $150,000.

To Seek Federal Aid

When the final plans are approved by the council, the city manager said, the Park will make application to the Federal Government for a grant to help defray the cost of the program. It is not known how much the city will receive, if anything, but the amount is expected to be about $45,000, Mr.

Slone said. When it okays the plans, the council is expected to authorize the city manager to set a date for advertising of bids and the final date when bids will be accepted. The Water Resources Commission gave the Park until May 1, 1962, to complete improvements to the pumping

The gist of the report is that in using the National Recreational Association Standards for a city the size of the Park, 15,410 population (1960 Federal census figure), 160 acres Emil G. Bloomquist of 432 of park land would be required.

> At present, the Park has 31 acres devoted to recreation, including the playgrounds of Defer, Trombly, Maire, Pierce Junior High and the waterfront park. This leaves a deficiency of 129 acres, and due to the character of the community with development on large lots and a nearly fully built-up city,

Mostly City-Owned A good section of this land is city-owned, the rest is lakefilled land owned by the State. (The Park is seeking title to this). This site would provide an 11- acre park which would be pleasantly landscaped, and so laid out as to derive maximum enjoyment of the lake

In addition, a number of residential parcels would be created and sold, to help pay for the over-all park development. But, due to its proximity to adjacent residences, active play facilities would be incompatible with existing development.

The existing waterfront park (7.4 acres) is already developed for active recreation and will be continued as such. The proposed Three Mile drive site would serve to complement this park by providing an additional area for rest and relaxation.

The primary purpose of the public schools is to develop as fully as possible the intellectual faculties of each pupil. The public schools are not primarily responsible for those aspects of child growth and training traditionally assigned to the home. the church, and the community.

The children in attendance at the public schools belong to their parents, who-more than anyone else-have the right and responsibilty to guide their upbringing and development.

The tax money spent on schools belongs to all the citizens. It must be spent wisely and thriftily to insure the fullest value in education for each tax dollar-mere expenditure is not necessarily a guarantee of value.

Detroit Yacht Club's regatta was a huge success under race chairman Commedore Eddie Zerbe but the wind gods didn't co-operate which made for some exasperating hours for 150 skippers and their crews on Memorial Day on Lake St. Clair. Only the first three cruising classes got away from the starting line before the light northnorthwest zephyrs disappeared completely and left subsequent classes becalmed on the starting line. Nearly 60 boats jam-

For the past two years the most frustrated baseball group in the Pointe area has been the National League managers of the Woods-Shores Babe Ruth league who have vainly tried to catch the high-flying St. Louis Cardinals managed by canny George Foster. Under Foster's shrewd direction, the Cardinals won 35 while losing 4. This brought the Cardinals two consecutive league and "world series" titles. Now, at last, the rest of the league appears to be catching up with Foster in the matter of baseball savvy. Last week the Giants, under the new management of Ned Wink-worth, rotated their pitchers in such a manner that they had their 15-year-old ace, Doug Winkworth, ready for the Cardinals. Foster, having already used his two aces, had only second-line hurlers eligible to pitch. The result was a sparkling 6-2 victory by the Giants, and a well-deserved victory for Winkworth who struck out nine Cardinals and allowed but two

In their second game, the Tigers had to settle for a 1-1 tie with John Zimmerman's Cleveland Indians. Called because of darkness after six innings, this game will be played off at a later date.

Earl Lowry's Washington Senators received a 3-hit pitching performance from Moser to shut out the Chicago White Sox, 2-0. The Sox were cheered by the steady 5-hit pitching of young Jack Pioch, a real pitching "find" by manager Stan

Public Hearings

The Farms council has set a date for public hearings on two separate matters.

June 20 was picked to hear appeals from the "Kerchevalon-the-Hill" merchants who petitioned to erect a permanent directory in the municipa! parking lot; and from the Community Theaters for permission to erect an awning at the Punch and Judy Theater.

Roland Gray, spokesman for the businessmen, said the directory would list the merchants doing business on the "Hill". He presented a model of the sign and a plan showing where it would be located.

City Attorney George Mc-Kean ruled that because the sign is larger than the minimum square feet required by city worker applies to her social ordinance, a public hearing should be heard in the matter before the Board of Appeals.

A spokesman for the Community Theaters said the awn ing on the Punch and Judy would be an improvement and would be more attractive than the present setup.

The Theaters are appealing a denial of the Farms Building Department for permission to erect the awning; the business men's petition was heard before percent to be deducted the council for the airst time.

When Mrs. George Williams Duffield travels to Edgerstown, Mass., this summer she will be antique seeking as well as sun searching. The Duffields are in the process of converting their garage to a family room, which will have one wall of glass, another of old brick. There will be paneled cabinets, a mosaic floor and sliding glass doors onto a patio. Major theme of the room will be greenery. Mrs. D. is having slate ledges built to hold copper pots of leaves and planters which she hopes will hold bamboo trees if she can find them. A new garage has been built on the back of the Rivard boulevard property and a breezeway connects it with the house. This is a fine answer to that extra room for old houses where the original builder thought a sun room tacked on the end of a living room should answer the recreation problem.

"Ever since I was a little girl I've wanted a blue house and now I'm going to have it," says Mrs. David P. Jansen, who currently lives in a green house in St. Clair Shores but is moving to Meadow lane about mid-July. The colonial will have blue carpeting, blue floral prints and white accents to highlight her French provincial furniture. In the black and white tiled front hall there will be blue and white striped wallpaper, and in the dining room new highbacked Italian chairs covered in white to blend with the oval table. Pink with shades of lavendar and mauve will be used in the bedrooms and a new marbleized metallic paper in pink and mauve shades in the bathroom.

Mrs. B.'s star decorative piece is a huge white milk glass compote holding gigantic white and pink grapes, very cooling touch for summer.

From Another Pointe of View

By Patricia Talbot

Everyone who has a spare dollar seems to be joining an investment club these days, and George A. Nicholson, Jr., is all for the small stock and bond buyer. He has fathered investment clubs all over the country.

In early July Mr. and Mrs. Nicholson will fly to London to a Free World organization of investment clubs. But before that exciting conference the Nicholsons have graduations to attend.

Their son, Edwin, will be receiving his diploma from Brown University in Providence, R. I., on June 6 with his parents watching. About a week later his brother, George, will be graduated from the University of Michigan's School of Business Administration. George's fiancee, Nancy Alford, of Grosse Ile, will be in the June class graduating from Smith College.

While the older two sons are settling down to work and planning for George's August wedding, John Nicholson, a freshman at Brown and his sister, Beth, will accompany their parents to London. After London, what else but a three-week tour of the Continent's stock exchanges?

And then it will be home for the wedding. "If I were the mother of the bride, not the bridegroom, I couldn't do it," says Mrs. Nicholson.

Convent's Family Day

"When the Pointe Was Growing Up" this week explains the long history of the Convent of the Sacred Heart which today is busy with plans for a Family Day.

The Parent Association of the Convent is preparing for a special day on June 11 as a climax to a science project. Mrs. Robert Coleman, president of the association, hopes the Family Day will raise funds to acquire facilities for more adequate science study at the Convent.

Puppet shows and music will be featured with a luncheon also on the agenda. Mrs. John Mueller, Mrs. David Gillespie, Mrs. D. L. Pucci, Mrs. Thomas McCormick, Mrs. Howard Shaw, Mrs. Charles Kotcher, Mrs. Joseph Schrage and Mrs. John Drummy are all working to make Family Day a success.

Mrs. Whinnery brought about the arrest of Yanez and McGee, when she called Park police as the youths were breaking into her home.

when the POINTE was growing up···

In nigh backed shoes, long black pleated uniforms, pompadours and black hair ribbons, a handful of girls entered the Convent of the Sacred Heart, Grosse Pointe

The records of those early years are lost but many grandmothers today remember their years at the convent. The first reunion was held in October 1897; that year there were three seniors. The convent had moved from city quarters in Jefferson avenue and many of the alumna gathered at the city house to take the 9 o'clock car to the Pointe.

In that first year there were seven boarders and three day scholars in the big brick convent built on land purchased from the Morans. Rev. Mother Victoire Van Dyke was the first superior of the order here. It was Mother de Tardieu who planted the long row of maples along what is now Kenwood road, to line an avenue for the sisters and their charges to walk.

In later years the convent property which stretched beyond Grosse Pointe boulevard was sold and with the proceeds a new Gothic wing was built. Following a visit of Mother Digby, vicar general of the order in America, in 1900, the convent chapel was built. The entire building was renovated and modernized in 1930 by Walter O.

The convent in the eighties had its own gardens and a graveyard behind the building, where some of the nuns were buried. During the reunion in 1897, "after evening after 40 years of teaching five-year-olds at nuns were buried. During the reunion in 1897, "after dinner Mother kindly provided carriages to take us to see the historic old butternut tree, which was recently burned." The land owned by the convent was so vast that a carriage was necessary to cover all the grounds. At the reunion in 1899 the alumnae visited the farm, the new home of the chaplain, Father Kraemer, heard an address in French (the language of the school), enjoyed a one act play and two harp solos.

A student at the convent in those early years, Marie Eugenie Therese Aloisia LeRoy Leahy, born in Louisiana, has written her reminiscences as a boarder.

She remembers when the superintendent hammered huge iron bars across one of the student's windows, because the girl walked in her sleep. She used to stay at the convent during the summer months with other boarders who lived too far away. In those years there were girls from as far distant as Rio de Janeiro.

The girls camped out in the vast grounds, returning to the convent to sleep. "We rose at dawn, attended Mass, and returned to camp to cook our breakfast in rural fashion. Then we hiked two miles to the Post Office. Everyone always got a letter. . . . The basement playroom was at our service for roller skating . . . and we could always bathe and wade in the lake.

When the sun went down, it was awfully dark, darker than the city was even in the lamp post days of my infancy. The cheerful sounds from neighbor houses made us miss our homes far away. The mansions of United States Senators McMillan and Truman Newberry, the spacious home of the Dodge boy twins, the residences of the Hall and Moran children, many of whom supplied our finest classmates, furnished our ideas of Paradise back there in 1885 and 1886."

In those days the girls would be frightened by the great flocks of starlings which would fly in from Canada to feast on farm produce. There was no question of protecting those birds in the eighties. This convent girl spent 12 years here and received her diploma from Bishop John Foley in June, 1893.

Among early convent scholars were Mrs. E. P. Hammond, Mrs. Deane Rucker, Mrs. Edward Askin Skae, Mrs. Strathearn Hendrie, Mrs. A. Ingersoll Lewis, Jr., Mrs. Jerome H. Remick, Jr., and Mrs. Cleveland Thurber.

We have to tell this tale on our trade . . . Mrs. Theodore Sweeney, who wrote society for many years under her byline, Marguerite Riley, has given up the social beat to be a housewife and mother these past few years. Once in a while a mother of the bride who remembers her talent asks her to send in a wedding story . . . this happened last week and Mrs. S., who was a stickler for deadlines when she was our boss had a very red face.
