THE WORLD'S HEAVIEST satellite was rocketed into orbit Wednesday, putting the United States ahead in the race for the moon. The rocket, costing $17.3 million, propelled a satellite weighing 37,700 pounds into space. Dr. Robert Seamans, associate administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said, "There is no question that today's flight put us ahead of Russia in the capability of launching heavy payloads."

ACTOR ALAN LADD, 50, died in Palm Springs, apparently the victim of a heart attack. The hero of many adventure movies died peacefully in his bed, and was discovered by his butler. However, an autopsy will be held to determine the exact cause of death. Ladd's latest film, "The Carpetbaggers," is still to be released. He had come to Palm Springs 10 days ago to recuperate from a leg injury.

A NEW BILL will be introduced into the Michigan Legislature to qualify Michigan for federal aid to dependent children of the unemployed. Last year, the federal officials refused to accept the Legislature's ADC-U proposal on the grounds that it was discriminatory. The new bill is designed to answer the objections. The bill, if accepted, will shift about $7 million from local welfare rolls to Federal aid.

COUNCILMAN Philip J. Van Antwerp, a retired police inspector, demanded that the Detroit Police Department crack down on school crime. He was angered by the attitude of Board of Education officials who have been too lenient with young toughs. He urged strict enforcement of the law and stiff penalties for offenders. He said, "It's time to take off the kid gloves and start letting policemen be policemen, and not semi-social workers."

MRS. JERRIE MOCK, a housewife from Columbus, O., is planning to circle the globe in a single-engine Cessna airplane within the next few weeks. If the trip is successful, she will be the first woman to accomplish the feat. She estimates the trip will take about three weeks. Twenty-seven years ago Amelia Earhart attempted to do the same, and it turned out to be an ill-fated trip for herself and her navigator, Capt. Fred Noonan. Mrs. Mock is going to attempt a similar route but with slight variations to take advantage of newly established electronic navigation facilities.

TWO SPACE STATIONS were launched into orbit by the Soviet Union with a single rocket, Thursday. One was reported to be traveling at 42,000 miles above the earth. The two stations were unmanned. No indication was given as to the size and weight of the two scientific stations.

Saturday, February 1
ROOKIE TACKLE, Lucian Reeburg, of the Detroit Lions, died unexpectedly in Detroit Osteopathic Hospital. The 305 pound football player had gone into the hospital to lose weight and undergo some medical tests. He had been suffering from uremic poisoning and high blood pressure. He collapsed from cardiac arrest during a test. His death came as a shock to head coach George Wilson who had envisioned a great future for the 21-year-old player.

EVANGELIST BILLY GRAHAM may run for the 1964 presidency, it was disclosed by the Scripps-Howard Newspapers. He is said to be giving "earnest and prayerful consideration to the idea." If Graham runs, it would be on the Republican ticket. He is said to be concerned about certain distressing factors that would accompany his entry into politics, but is also interested in the opportunity for service.

Symphony Concert Set For Sunday

Roma B. Riddell, Canadian Soprano Living Here, To Be Soloist at 3:30

Beauty and talent will combine Sunday afternoon, February 9, to bring a musical Valentine to the Pointe, offered by the Grosse Pointe Symphony Orchestra, in its presentation for the first time as soloist, Roma Butler Riddell, lovely Canadian soprano.

Although Miss Riddell has been a resident of Grosse Pointe for the past six years, she received her musical training in Toronto at the Royal Conservatory of Music, studying under Ernesto Vinci and the late Emmy Heim. She has concertized across Canada from coast to coast and has sung with leading Canadian orchestras, including the Toronto Symphony.

She has appeared in leading roles with the CBC Opera Company for both radio and television and on stage with the Toronto Opera Festival Company. Since she has been in the Detroit area, Miss Riddell has been a member of the Detroit Opera Company and is presently affiliated with Vanguard Theater. She sang the role of Polly Peachum in "The Three Penny Opera" and frolicked through the delightful role of "Little Mary Sunshine" in the long-run musical of the same name.

Driver's Idea of Freedom Slightly Different Than That of Traffic Policemen

Dearborn Motorist Discovers He Doesn't Have Right to Operate Vehicle in Any Manner He Pleases on Pointe Streets

Gerald A. Yagley, 40, 1386 Whittier place, Dearborn, had the wrong idea of freedom of movement on Tuesday, January 28, when he argued with a Shores policeman who stopped him for reckless driving.

Patrolman James Jurcak said that he stopped Yagley after considerable difficulty, when the latter was speeding and weaving on Lake Shore road. When stopped, the motorist said, "This is a free country and you can't stop me for driving the way I did."

The officer said that he was patrolling south on Lake Shore when he saw Yagley traveling in his direction at high speed, and gave chase. Jurcak said he clocked Yagley's speed at 55 miles an hour.

Jurcak said that he pulled alongside Yagley at Provincial, blew his horn and motioned the man to the curb. The flasher of the scout car was turned on, the policeman said. However, the man ignored his signal, the patrolman said.

Slows Down Briefly
Yagley slowed to 30 miles an hour and almost came to a stop, but then picked up speed again, Jurcak said in his report.

South of Moross, Jurcak was about to radio his station for assistance, when a Farms police car with Patrolmen Charles Bingham and Ronald Wooten, came to his assistance.

The Shores officer said that he sped ahead of Yagley and got in front of him and forced the man to stop. Bingham and Wooten drove up alongside of the man's car to prevent any escape, it was said.

Jurcak said that he approached Yagley and informed him of his speeding violation and his weaving from side to side. He detected the odor of alcohol on Yagley's breath, the officer said. The policeman informed Yagley that he was under arrest and demanded his operator's license. Yagley was ordered out of his car, but he refused to obey, and demanded that his license be returned. It was here that he remarked about the free country, Jurcak said.

None of Their Business
Jurcak said that Yagley told him that he was on his way home from a friend's residence, and that it was none "of your business how fast I was driving, or how much I had to drink." The Shores policeman said that he again ordered Yagley out of his car, and when the man refused to budge, he and Bingham and Wooten, were forced to remove the motorist bodily from the car and place him in the Shores police cruiser, after handcuffing him.

The Farms policeman assisted in taking Yagley to the Shores station, where the man was given a ticket for reckless driving, and locked in a jail cell until he had posted bond of $125, pending an appearance in court on February 19 before Judge John Gillis.

Detective's Hunch Results In Clearing of 10 Breakins

A badly cut hand, an escape from a hospital, apprehension and return to the hospital for treatment, a fantastic story, release and a policeman's hunch, were the series of events that resulted in the arrest of a 17-year-old Detroit boy and the clearance of 10 burglaries in the Park and Detroit, according to information given by Park Police Chief Arthur Louwers.

Park Det. James LaPratt had a hunch regarding Michael R. Powers of 1648 Lillibridge, went to the boy's home on Tuesday, January 28, arrested him and took him to the station for questioning. The youth confessed to five burglaries of Park business places, and five in Detroit, three of them committed on Monday, January 27, the day he went to Bon Secours Hos-

Hidden Lane Lights Cause Of Argument

Woods Council Settles Tiff Between Residents By Ordering Installation

A lively and controversial discussion occurred at the regular meeting of the Woods City Council meeting February 3, as to whether or not the City should install street lights on Hidden lane.

A petition originated by Virginia McNally of 557 Hidden lane was presented which included a total of 38 names, all requesting that the lights be installed.

Jack Thorpe, of 640 Hidden lane, appeared before the Council and said that earlier this year he had presented a petition signed by several of the residents of that street, protesting the installation of electric street lights. He said further, that at that time, City Administrator Chester Petersen, had stated in writing that before any action was taken, the residents would be notified so that they could appear at a public hearing.

Questions Signatures
He also questioned the validity of certain signatures on Mrs. McNally's petition, mentioning, in particular, that one family was now living in England and could not possibly have signed the petition. His main reason for the objection to the lights was to cut down on the traffic on Hidden lane, which was already excessive.

Mr. Petersen said that street lights on that street could be included in the 1964 program, which will begin April 1, or when weather permits.

Marvin Boutin, councilman, supported by Benjamin Pinkos, moved that the installation of lights on Hidden lane be included in the 1964 program. A substitute motion was made by Kenneth Boerner, supported by Frederick Maddock, that the motion be tabled until the next regular meeting of the City Council, and that the residents of Hidden lane be notified and given an opportunity to appear at that meeting, which would be February 17. The motion was defeated, at which time the Council went back to consideration of the original motion.

Annual Data Reveals City Hardest Hit

Last Year's Report Shows $190,545 Decrease as to '62 Official Figures

The 1963 total loss from all types of fires in the Pointe has been set at $434,217.43, according to official figures released by the five Pointe fire chiefs. The amount is $190,545.20 less than the loss figure for last year.

The annual reports dispatched to the State Fire Marshal's Office in Lansing by the chiefs for 1962, disclosed a total fire loss of $624,762.33.

The heaviest loss for 1963 was reported by City Fire Chief George Poupart, and this was $122,828.60. Last year's loss was $47,837.99.

The chief stated that his department answered a total of 193 alarms, seven of which were false, and 12 were in response to calls for assistance to other departments under the Mutual Fire Aid Pact in force between the Pointes and Harper Woods.

Woods Comes Second

The second heaviest loss for last year, $101,223.33, was disclosed by Woods Director of Public Safety Vern Bailey. This compared to the 1962 loss of $232,926.33.

The Public Safety Department answered a total of 215 alarms, five of which were on Mutual Aid Commitments. The number of false alarms was not given. Bailey said that there were no deliberate false alarms answered in 1963. All alarms were determined to be for cause or honest mistakes.

The fire loss in the Park last year amounted to $91,930, as compared to $33,893.31 during 1962, according to Park Chief William Graul.

The number of fire alarms turned in in 1963 came to 385, of which seven were calls for Mutual aid, and 19 were false alarms, including one that was deliberate. The person responsible for the latter was arrested and convicted and sent to jail for 90 days.

Big Drop In Farms
Farms Chief M. William Mason revealed that his city suffered a total fire loss of $78,130 during 1963. This compares with $308,136, for 1962, he said. His department responded to a total of 77 fire alarms, one of which was false. Calls for as-

Reckless Driver Pays $100 Fine

Shores Patrolmen Frank Mustazza and James Jurcak were waiting for traffic to clear on Lake Shore drive, when a car drove by at high speed, and they gave chase.

The officers said that at 4:30 a.m. on Wednesday, January 29, while they were on patrol, they saw Edgar Morrow, 39, of 15793 Alden, Detroit, going south on Lake Shore, faster than the speed limit.

Mustazza and Jurcak said they got behind Morrow and followed him to Vernier road, where Morrow slowed, then gathered speed, weaving from lane to lane, at Vernier, Morrow made a U turn, drove a short way and stopped in front of the George Ostus Municipal Park.

The policemen said they stopped and ordered Morrow out of his vehicle. A passenger was asleep in Morrow's car. When the motorist got out of his car, he staggered, Mustazza and Jurcak said. He had a strong odor of liquor on his breath, they added.

Morrow and his passenger were driven to the station, where a check with Detroit authorities revealed that Morrow had four outstanding traffic warrants against him with that department.

Morrow's passenger was released to go home, but Morrow was given a ticket for reckless driving (drinking) and held until he appeared before Judge John Gillis later in the day.

The judge found Morrow guilty as charged and fined him $100 and court costs of $7.50, which was paid. Morrow was released after he paid $34 on the Detroit warrants.

Detective's Hunch Results in Cleaning Up 10 Breakins

Benthuss questioned Powers regarding the robbery, and was informed that the cut was the result of an accident, while trying to get away from a man living in the Park.

The City policeman notified Park authorities that the boy had been found and returned to the hospital, and Police Sgt. Thomas Martin and Patrolman Robert Saiford were dispatched to pick up Powers and take him to their station.

Martin and Saiford questioned Powers, according to Chief Louwers, and the youth told them such a fantastic story, that the odds were "a thousand to one" against it being true, in the words of the chief.

Powers said that he was picked up by a strange man, who drove him to a house in Whittier road, where, Powers said, the man committed perverted acts on his (Powers) person. The tale told by the youth, Chief Louwers said, was impossible to believe, but officers of his department investigated. There was no such home as the boy described; the story told was a phony, the chief said.

The boy was held until it was determined that no felony had been committed, and since no report had been received of crimes committed in the general area, Powers was released.

Tuesday morning, the case was assigned to Det. LaPratt for a final check. After reading the report on Powers, the officer's instinct told him that the story told by the youth apparently was too fantastic, enough so, that it appeared Powers was trying to cover up something.

LaPratt went to Powers' home to pick him up for further questioning. The detective had the youth repeat the story about the activities alleged to have happened at the Whittier home.

The officer's opinion was that the story was "pure fantasy," and that the youth did not cut his hand at the Whittier house.

The detective persisted in his questioning, regarding the source of the wound, and after an extensive and relentless interrogation, Powers confessed that he gashed his hand while committing one of three successive burglaries on East Warren avenue in Detroit, Monday night.

Under further questioning, Powers admitted committing seven other burglaries during a period of time since he was 16 years old, five in the Park and two in Detroit. He was 17 years old on Sunday, January 12.

Chief Louwers said that rather than have Powers tried in Juvenile Court for the crimes committed while he was still 16 years old, Powers was released to Detroit authorities for prosecution as an adult, for the three burglaries committed in Detroit which occurred after his seventeenth birthday.

Powers confessed to the January 27 breakins of the East Warren Auto Wash, 14325 East Warren; the Tomonezo Beauty Shop, 16026 East Warren, where he cut his hand when breaking a window glass; and Charles's Beauty Shop, 15217 East Warren.

By his own admission, LaPratt said, Powers also cleared the breaking and entering of a cleaning establishment at 14110 Mack avenue, about six weeks ago; and a restaurant at Mack and Alter road, about three weeks ago. Both places are in Detroit.

LaPratt said that Powers confessed to breaking into Ann's Beauty Shop, 15302 Mack, on March 1, 1962, and again on April 3, 1962; Helen Young's Beauty Shop, 15126 Kercheval, April 23, 1963, and again on November 10, 1963; and Denyse's Beauty Shop, 17014 Mack, on December 10, 1963.

Besides taking money from the latter place, LaPratt said, Powers also took a lady's blond wig and a mannequin on which the wig was set.

NEW POLICE CARS

The Farms council on Monday, February 3, agreed to purchase five new custom police cars for the low bid of $4,628.75 offered by Stotts and Murphy Ford dealers. The firm made an allowance of $51,000 on trade-ins for five old cars. The gross bid by the company was $9,728.75, lowest of 10 bids submitted.

Before you buy any car, visit your near-by Chrysler-Plymouth or Dodge dealer. We think you'll agree with these new owners. And you will probably end up driving away in one of the brilliant new '64's from Chrysler Corporation.

*Here's how Chrysler Corporation's 5-year, 50,000-mile warranty protects you: Chrysler Corporation confidently warrants all of the following vital parts of its 1964 cars for 5 years or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first, during which time any such parts that prove defective in material and workmanship will be replaced or repaired at a Chrysler Motors Corporation Authorized Dealer's place of business without charge for such parts or labor: engine block, head and internal parts, intake manifold, water pump, transmission case and internal parts (excepting manual clutch), torque converter, drive shaft, universal joints, rear axle and differential, and rear wheel bearings. REQUIRED MAINTENANCE: The following maintenance services are required under the warranty—change engine oil every 3 months or 4,000 miles, whichever comes first; replace oil filter every second oil change; clean carburetor air filter every 6 months and replace it every two years; and every 6 months furnish evidence of this required service to a Chrysler Motors Corporation Authorized Dealer and request him to certify receipt of such evidence and your car's mileage. Hidden Lane Gets Lights

Leah and Boutin all voiced the opinion that the matter of street lighting was not open to public discussion but was to be decided by the Council, after consideration of the public safety on the street involved.

The motion to have street lights installed on Hidden lane passed by a majority vote with Councilmen Pinkos, Boutin, Lathrop Morse, Leah, and Mayor Kenneth McLeod supporting the motion and Councilmen Boerner and Maddock opposing.

Following the vote, residents of Pear Tree lane and Thorn Tree lane spoke publicly voicing their disapproval of the Council's action to determine whether or not lights should be installed without consulting the residents of the street involved.

Further, Mr. Thorpe protested that the City had gone against its original promise to notify the residents of the installation.

Mayor McLeod asked Mr. Petersen to send a letter to each resident notifying them that lights for Hidden lane will be included in the 1964 program.

Parcells Band Giving Concert

More than 160 instrumental music students will participate in the twelfth annual Band Concert given by Parcells students on Friday evening, February 7, at 8 o'clock. The students will be under the direction of Mr. Donald McNew, who has been with the music department of the Grosse Pointe Public Schools since 1951.

The program of music for the concert will include marches, waltzes, excerpts from opera, and popular musical favorites. Opening the evening will be the 85-piece seventh grade Cadet Band.

The second part of the program features the eighth and ninth grade students in the Concert Band. This 80-piece group will open with the vigorous "Project March."

As a special feature of the evenings a Cornet Trio composed of three ninth grade boys will play "Fantasy For Three," arranged by Walters. They will be accompanied by the Concert Band during this number. The trio members are Thomas Buerger, Bruce Ke'gen and Arthur King.

Tickets will be on sale at the box office, and the public is cordially invited to attend this musical presentation.

DRIVER PENALIZED

Douglas E. Sanner, 22, of 28022 Roy, St. Clair Shores, pled not guilty and was found guilty of causing an accident in front of 20025 Mack avenue. The charge was heard by Woods Judge Don Goodrow on Tuesday, January 28, who fined the youth $35 and banned his pleasure driving for one year. Sanner is permitted to drive to and from work only, according to the judge's order.

Theft Suspect Extradited From Ohio by Park Police

Ray Griggs, 21, no known address, was returned to the jurisdiction of Wayne County from Columbus, O., on Friday, January 31, by Park authorities, after an extradition battle, it was revealed by Park Police Chief Arthur Louwers.

Griggs was returned to stand trial for the burglary of the home of Louise Kroh, 1107 Maryland, which occurred on April 23, 1963.

When arrested a short time after, Griggs confessed to the burglary of the woman's home, and also cleared six other break-ins in the Park and Detroit.

Griggs was arraigned before Park Judge C. Joseph Belanger, who after an examination hearing, found sufficient cause for trial, and set the youth's bond at $5,000. Griggs was remanded to the Wayne County Jail when he could not post the bond.

At a hearing in Wayne County Circuit Court, before Judge Thomas Murphy, the bond was reduced to $500, and Griggs was released. However, when his trial date arrived, the youth failed to show up, and a capias warrant was issued.

A warrant of this type is a writ which calls for the immediate arrest of a defendant who fails to show up for trial.

Chief Louwers said that when Griggs failed to appear for his trial, an all points bulletin was sent to state law enforcement agencies throughout the country, asking for the youth's apprehension and detention.

The chief said that on Saturday, January 25, he was notified by Columbus police, that Griggs was arrested for a misdemeanor, and was in jail. The Columbus authorities said that they checked wanted bulletins and found that Griggs was being sought by Park police.

Chief Louwers said that he was also notified that Griggs refused to waive extradition proceedings, and that he intended to fight his return to Wayne County. Columbus authorities immediately took Griggs before a county judge, who signed extradition papers.

The chief said that Det. James LaPratt, who initially investigated and arrested Griggs on the Kroh residence burglarly, was assigned to bring Griggs back to Wayne County, where Griggs was arraigned for immediate trial.

When a report of the burglary of the Kroh home was made, LaPratt had a hunch that the culprit would pawn some of his loot. The officer went to a pawnshop on Jefferson, at St.

Jean in Detroit.

In checking over a list of several articles reported stolen from the Kroh home, LaPratt's hunch paid off. He found that the pawnshop had accepted items that were on the list.

The detective, to his amazement, discovered the man who pawned the articles, used his correct name and address. He traced Griggs to the address written on the pawn ticket, and arrested him.

Chief Louwers said that another break in favor of LaPratt was that Griggs had no permanent address, that he was a "home jumper", that is, he moved from one place to another, after staying only a short time.

Police Hunting Locker Thief

Eight St. Paul School students discovered that a petty thief ransacked their school lockers during a basketball game on Wednesday, January 5. The culprit took small change and several watches.

Farms Det. Sgts. George Van Tien and Jack Paisley, investigating the thefts, said a young man seen in the vicinity of the lockers is being sought for questioning. The school is at 170 Grosse Pointe boulevard.

The following boys reported losses to police:
Michael Ferrell of 279 Moran road, a yellow gold wrist watch, value not known; Keven Crowther of 790 University, 25 cents; his brother, John, 15 cents and a wrist watch, value not given; Douglas Dziuba of 202 Ridgemant, 60 cents.

Thomas Reinman of 367 Ridgemont, a Timex wrist watch valued at $10; Stanley Renauf of 561 Lakeland, 15 cents and a wrist watch, value not given; Mark Tocco of 121 Lothrop, a yellow gold tie clip and 50 cents; and Tim Allard of 247 Ridgemont, a Timex wrist watch valued at about $12, and a dollar in change.

Some of the victims told police that they observed a boy about five feet-eight inches tall, well built, sunken eyes, and fat cheeks, in the area of the lockers.

YOU AND ATOMIC ENERGY

Mrs. Enrico Fermi and Walker L. Ciser at Enrico Fermi Atomic Power Plant, October 13, 1960. The plant is named in honor of the late, famous Italian-American physicist.

Machines greatly increase the productivity of the men who work in industry. They help make possible higher wages, shorter hours and our country's superior living standards. The energy the machines use, electric power, is one of the lesser costs of production. Nevertheless, it is a part of the total cost of the finished product.

Michigan doesn't contain much native coal, oil or gas—not nearly enough to provide all the energy necessary to run our great industries and provide for the needs of the state's more than 8-million citizens. So fuel must be imported and its transportation costs money. About half of Edison's cost of coal is in the transportation of it, literally by the train load and boat load.

In contrast, uranium, processed to run an atomic energy power plant, is measured by the pound. So its transportation cost is an insignificant factor. Going a step further, the Enrico Fermi Atomic Power Plant, near Monroe, has a special kind of nuclear reactor, a breeder reactor. I believe that this type of reactor, which produces more fissionable material than it consumes, is one of the most important projects of its kind in the world.

As Dr. Fermi said in 1945, "The country which first develops a breeder reactor will have a great competitive advantage in atomic energy."

It is good that Michigan is the site for this kind of research and development work, and that the power it produces will be distributed over our lines. It's one of the ways by which we seek to overcome higher generating costs and produce electric energy at as low a cost as possible.

An important part of our service to you is preparing for the future in this way, by pioneering and participating in the research and development that are so meaningful to you, to our state, our nation and to the world at large.

Sincerely,

Walker L. Ciser

Tuxis Club Will Present Annual Show Feb. 13, 14, 15

The Tuxis Club of Grosse Pointe Memorial Church will present its 10th annual variety show, "Hotel's a Poppin'", on February 13, 14, and 15 at 8 p.m. in Parcels Auditorium. Directors are Mrs. Jerry Keeney and Miss Marilyn Meyer. Mary Zinn is Tuxis program chairman.

"Hotel's a Poppin'" will feature solo performances by four students: Candy Mason, Marcia Cook, Rick Sabel and Mike Calcaterra. Nearly 150 other students will participate in the show as members of the large cast, backstage as members of the crew, or both.

Dean MacGregor wrote the script for the show which also includes contributions from Mrs. William E. Bokram and Kris Anderson. The plot is a secret.

Tickets for the Tuxis Show may be purchased at the Memorial Church office or by calling Betsy Hanson, TU 2-2497. This year, for the first time, patrons tickets are available at $5 each as well as the regular tickets for adults and students which are $1.50 and 75c.

Tuxis Club members hope to achieve a profit of $1,500 from their show to divide among several recently selected charities. These are the Church World Federation, 20 percent; United Negro College Fund, 40 percent; and Detroit Council of Youth Services, 40 percent. In addition, $500 be donated toward the purchase of a jeep to further the work of a Memorial Church project in India.

Although the Tuxis Club is part of the Memorial Church program for its senior high school students, the organization is comprised of teenagers from many different denominations and includes students from most of the public and private schools in Grosse Pointe and the surrounding areas. Jim Blackburn is this year's Tuxis Club president.

Young GOPs Meet Bigwigs

The Fourteenth Congressional District's David C. Dethmers and Norma Lasky were among more than 20 Michigan Young Republicans who attended the Young Republican Leadership Training School, in Washington, D.C.

Mr. Dethmers is chairman of the 14th district club, and Mrs. Lasky is chairman of the Wayne County Federation of Young Republicans.

The school ran from Tuesday, January 21, through Sunday, January 28, and featured a glittering display of very big, big, and would-be enormous names in the Republican Party.

The keynote address was given by Walter H. Judd, former representative from Minnesota, famous for another keynote address, at the 1960 Republican National Convention, and from there the names got even bigger, including presidential candidates announced and otherwise, Barry Goldwater, Nelson Rockefeller and George Romney, Congressional leaders Everett Dirksen and Charles Halleck, and such notable younger members of Congress as Senator John Tower of Texas, Congressman Bob Taft, Jr., of Ohio, and Congressman Gerald Ford of Michigan.

Fire Loss

istance under the Mutual Aid Pact numbered 12, he said.

Last year's loss in the Shores amounted to $40,045.50, according to Chief Fred Duemling, which is an overwhelming figure compared to the 1962 loss of $1,909.

The number of alarms answered in 1963 was totaled at 43, of which three were under Mutual Aid, and 11 were false, the chief said.

Cite Chief Causes
The chiefs were agreed that most causes of fires are faulty, or careless use of electrical appliances. The second prime cause is careless smoking.

They urge residents to be extra cautious during 1964 in the use of electrical equipment, and above all, be careful regarding smoking, especially while in bed, or sitting in a chair.

Another fire prevention idea, the chiefs said, is to make sure there are no accumulation of combustible material stored either in the basement or attic. Residents are urged to get rid of items they do not need, rather than store them away.

Rev. Hammond Series Speaker

"In The Beginning — NOT The Word!" is the title chosen by Rev. William D. Hammond for the third talk in the program series, "Your Window On The World," to be presented at the Grosse Pointe Unitarian Church, 17440 East Jefferson Avenue, this Sunday evening, February 9, at 8 o'clock.

Mr. Hammond's discussion will deal with general semantics which he describes as "the study of the reactions and behavior of people with and under the influence of language." Rev. Hammond has been minister of the Grosse Pointe Unitarian Church since 1950. He received his BA degree from the University of Missouri and did his graduate study at the University of Chicago Divinity School, the Meadville Theological School, and the Institute of General Semantics. He was previously associated with the Ethical Societies of New York, St. Louis and Chicago, and was minister of the Peoples Liberal Church of Chicago before coming to Grosse Pointe.

For 15 years Mr. Hammond has been active and held many positions of responsibility with the Unitarian Ministers Association, the Western Unitarian Conference and the Michigan Area Unitarian Conference, of which he is past-president. He now is a member of the Board of Directors of the Midwestern Unitarian-Universalist Conference and Vice-President of the Unitarian-Universalist Council of Michigan.

Mr. Hammond was a student of the semanticist Alfred Korzybski whose comment that "people do what they do because they see the world as they see it" provides the framework for the "Window On The World" series. For several years Mr. Hammond has taught a course in general semantics under the Grosse Pointe Community Services program.

The final presentation in the series will be made Sunday evening, Feb. 16, when James G. Bond, Ph. D., will discuss the problems of living with minority values under the title, "Being Comfortably Different." For information phone 881-0338 or 885-0233.

Folk Singing Class Offered

Anyone who has had a yen to strum a guitar and sing folk songs can join the folk singing class at the War Memorial that will be offered by Grosse Pointe's Troubadour Alex Szelek.

The course, in 10 lessons will be arranged to teach beginners, with or without a previous knowledge of music, the basic chord positions on the guitar, the technique of executing the basic strums and rhythms on the guitar, and the method of playing and singing at the same time. The basic purpose of the course will be to enable would-be folk singers to improvise songs by themselves and to imitate the performances they hear on recordings.

For this kind of playing, almost any kind of guitar will do, though the ideal is a Spanish or classic type guitar. This kind of guitar is distinguished by the fact that it has a wide neck and uses nylon strings. The width of the neck means that the strings are further apart than on a plectrum guitar. This makes it easy to get the fingers in between the strings to play single notes. The nylon strings are especially important to beginners since they are easy on the fingers. They also give a softer, sweeter tone, than steel strings.

Alex is giving the course at the Center, he says, because he has had so many calls from people of all ages who wanted to learn to play folk guitar and

Woman Hits Fire Truck

Minnie Gary, 46, of 10559 Halcott lane, Ferndale, was charged with interfering with an emergency vehicle on Thursday, January 30, when she pulled in front of a Woods fire truck causing an accident.

The truck was driven by Public Safety Officer Kenneth Metcalf and was on the way to the Woods Kitchen in Mack avenue, in answer to a fire alarm. The fire turned out to be only a burning furnace motor.

Mrs. Gary was transported to Saratoga Hospital by police ambulance, when she complained of an injured back, left arm and jaw. She was treated and released.

She was taken to the station where she was given a violation ticket for failing to yield the right of way to an emergency vehicle.

Police said that Mrs. Gary was traveling east on Vernier road, and pulled in front of the fire truck, which was going south on Mack. The truck struck the rear left end of the car, causing some damage. The truck had minor damage to the bumper and right fender.

The woman is scheduled to appear in court on February 29.

he has had no time to accommodate them with private lessons. The class should be fun for everyone for it will have much of the character of a hootenanny. Everyone will have a chance to play and sing in turn, and the entire group of students will be expected to practice in unison.

Parisian Group To Sing Here

The Varel and Bailly Chanters de Paris will give one of their inimitable concerts at Fries Auditorium on Valentines Day, Friday, February 14, at 8:30 p.m. under the auspices of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial Association.

Conceived and produced by the internationally famous song-writing team — the "Rodgers and Hammerstein of France"—Andre Varel and Charly Bailly have gathered together a group of top form entertainers, headed by Charly Bailly, himself.

Hailed by the New York Journal-American as "The most exciting group of singing young men we've heard in years," they have packed houses and heard loud and spontaneous "Bravos" all across the United States. Many of the residents of Grosse Pointe are already familiar with this talented light-hearted group through their appearances on television with the Gary Moore and Ed Sullivan shows.

Their music is largely folk and popular songs of pure nostalgic delights. Their program moves along at a swift pace designed to provide an evening of complete satisfaction and enjoyment.

These nine ebullient Frenchmen have an air about them too seldom seen these days — they look happy. They appear to enjoy what they are doing more than anything else in the world. What they do is sing. Their enthusiasm is so contagious that even the food-conscious patrons at the smart supper clubs where they often play stop eating and hang on every note. Their American debut during the 1956-57 season was such a smash success that they were booked each succeeding year for longer and longer hours, with many re-engagements.

"All this is easily understood after hearing the smooth-as-silk musicianship of this group," said a reviewer of their appearance in Santa Fe, New Mexico. "They have near perfect tonal balance and a fine originality of presentation that is apparent at once and which seems to grow with each song they perform. Topping off the excellent technical quality of the singers is a wealth of apparently unaffected enthusiasm and charm that transmits itself to the audience from the moment the group steps on the stage."

Following the show the audience and entertainers will be invited to a champagne reception at the former home of Mrs. Russell A. Alger in Provincial road where festivities will continue until midnight.

There are only a few tickets remaining for this gala black tie evening which concludes the Memorial's "Lighter Side of Life Series" for this season. Tickets for performance and party should be purchased at the Center's office very soon to avoid disappointment.

Chamber Singers Giving Concert

The Grosse Pointe Chamber Singers will appear in concert this Sunday evening, February 8, at the Detroit Institute of Musical Arts. The program is sponsored by the Detroit Chamber Music Workshop.

Under the direction of Dr. Donald Simmons, their founder and conductor, the group will present the first performance of "Songs of the Colors" by Detroit composer, Joseph Hayes. Taking the poetry from the "India Love Lyrics" of Laurence Hope, Mr. Hayes composed the work for and has dedicated it to the Grosse Pointe Chamber Singers.

Mr. Hayes, who studied at Boston Conservatory and Harvard with Gardner Read and Paul Hindemith, teaches flute, and has composed mainly in the field of instrumental chamber music. The Chamber Singers three years ago performed a lullaby Mr. Hayes had written for his daughters, and a state of mutual admiration has existed since that time, which led to the current composition.

Chorus Elects New Officers

The Board of Directors of the Grosse Pointe Community Chorus met recently to elect officers for the coming year. The meeting was held and the group entertained at the Mount Vernon road home of Mr. and Mrs. William Lorenz.

He is the retiring president of the group and the chorus membership is happy to admit to introducing the couple and fostering the romance and marriage.

Dr. Donald Simmons, conductor of the chorus, was present at the meeting to present the program and plans for the spring season. Dr. Simmons is vocal music teacher at Parcels Junior High and director of music at Covenant Baptist Church, in addition to which he has also founded and directs the Grosse Pointe Chamber Singers and the Grosse Pointe Summer Chorus.

Officers elected are: Leonard Bartos, president; Charles Leisher, vice-president and concert chairman; Arlene Braun, treasurer; Carol Domoney, secretary; Ralph Peltier, assistant treasurer and ticket chairman; Ellen Heller, membership and Karen Lorenz, publicity chairman and Lois and Dick Johns, librarian and assistant librarian, respectively. Other committee heads will be named later.

Newly elected members of the Board include Jerry Hughes, who is accompanist for the chorus and the Grosse Pointe Chamber Singers, Dick Johns and Bonnie Leisher.

Other retiring officers are, in addition to Mr. Lorenz: Harold Sidey, treasurer; Nancy Williams, secretary; and Mr. Bartos, who leaves the vice-presidency to assume the presidency of the Board.

The Board announces that registrations for membership in the chorus are still possible, and that registration and the rehearsal for Tuesday evening, February 11, will be held at Brownell Junior High School, on Chalfonte road, rather than the usual rehearsal site, Parcels Junior High, for this night only.

FRACTURES ANKLE
Katherine Kinnucan, 77, of 605 Higbie South, tripped and fell in her home on Monday, January 27, and fractured her right ankle. She was conveyed to Bon Secours Hospital by Woods police ambulance, and the injury treated.

Adult Education Classes Offered

Reading Improvement and Efficiency and Understanding the Gifted Child are being offered in the Adult Education program of the Department of Community Services of the Grosse Pointe Public School System.

Reading Efficiency for adults will begin on Wednesday, February 12, at 7:30 p.m. Carl C. Semmelroth, Assistant Psychologist, Reading Improvement Services, Bureau of Psychological Services at the University of Michigan will be the instructor.

This course is designed for all who would like to read more rapidly and to retain more efficiently what they have read. Development rather than remedial, this course should not be taken by those with serious reading deficiencies. Factors which affect efficiency, techniques of concentration, comprehension, retention, vocabulary development and critical reading techniques are stressed in this course.

Understanding the Gifted Child will also begin on Wednesday, February 12, at 7:30 p.m., for a 12-week course. Kenneth S. Davidson, Associate Professor of Psychology at Wayne State University will conduct this series.

This course will examine the potential and the problems of the gifted child. Latest research and the trends in the field of education for the gifted will be presented. The role of the home and the school in the guidance and training of the gifted child will be discussed, as well as the importance of the gifted child in terms of social growth and potential.

Both courses are being presented in cooperation with the Division of Adult Education, Wayne State University and the University of Michigan.

For further information and class reservation, call the Department of Community Services, 43 Grosse Pointe Boulevard, at Tuxedo 5-3808 or Tuxedo 5-0271.

Board Changes At St. James

The Board of Christian Education of St. James Lutheran Church announces its new board members for the coming year. Dr. Armin Grams will serve as chairman, replacing Herbert Zurstadt.

Other members are: Roland Blank, Charles Finger, Hugh Fletcher, Rev. George Kurz and Mesdames Frederick Hertel, Richard Moellering, Louis Schneider and Herbert Zurstadt.

The educational courses in spiritual growth, planned by this committee, are available to any one, who wishes to strengthen his Christian faith.

Currently two courses are in progress. On Wednesdays at 8 p.m. Dr. Armin Grams lectures on the principles of human behavior embodied in the Ten Commandments. On Thursdays at 9:30 a.m. the Rev. George Kurz conducts a depth study on "Our Creed and Our Commitment."

Schedules for additional educational subjects will be announced as they occur.

Chorus Changes Rehearsal Site

Returning members, new members and aspiring registrants of the Grosse Pointe Community Chorus are warned and reminded that the third registration and rehearsal for the Spring season will be held on Tuesday evening, February 11, at the Brownell Junior High School, on Chalfonte road.

This change is necessitated by the unavailability of Parcels Junior High School, the usual rehearsal site. This change is for the one night only.

There is still room for more singers in the group, and, as with all choral organizations, male singers are particularly urged to participate. There are no auditions and Grosse Pointe residency is not required. Anyone over high school age is welcome. There is a registration fee of $5 for an individual and $8 for a couple. Anyone wishing further information may call TU 4-5964.

The Grosse Pointe Community Chorus, now commencing its 23rd season, is already at work on the 12th Annual Spring Concert, to be presented on Sunday, April 26 at Parcels.

Center Showing English Comedy

The third outstanding European motion picture to be presented at the Fries Auditorium in the Grosse Pointe Foreign Film Festival is the English comedy-thriller, "A Coming Out Party," starring the great Scottish actor James Robertson Justice.

Scheduled for 6:30 p.m., Sunday, February 9, the movie premiered in New York in 1962 and immediately was acclaimed by critics as one of the funniest and most suspenseful war pictures ever to be turned out by the British. Tickets for this performance are on sale at the auditorium door, priced for adults at $1.25, and for students at 90 cents.

The action takes place in a German prisoner of war camp where Justice, in the role of a great scientist, has been incarcerated, along with five feather-brained soldiers. His captors believe him to be a spy, as do his fellow prisoners until word comes over a secret radio that the escape of this great man must be arranged. A plan is arranged that becomes a hilarious slapstick before the picture ends.

Grosse Pointe's second film festival has been arranged by the War Memorial Film Committee and the Studio Theatre of Detroit. The final motion picture in this series will be a classic from Russia, to be shown on Sunday, February 16.

GP Park to Buy Six Police Cars

The Park council on Monday, January 27, agreed to purchase four two-door sedans and two station wagons from a Detroit auto sales firm, to replace a like number of vehicles, for the Police Department.

The cars will be purchased from Ken Brown, Incorporated, which offered to sell the units for the sum of $8,074.16, including the trade-ins. The new fleet will consist of Plymouths.

The six trade-ins have been driven a total of 272,869 miles, according to figures released by City Manager Robert Slone.

The firm promised delivery within two months.

Hannan YMCA Holding Drive

A fund raising campaign, which will enable the Hannan YMCA to extend its benefits to deserving boys from needy families, began on February 1.

Kenneth L. Chapin, of 1625 Faircourt-Grosse Pointe Woods, has been named chairman of the Partner Membership Campaign. Chapin, controller of Zenith Carburetor Division of Bendix Corp., will organize men and women from the East Side and the Grosse Pointes to solicit contributions for YMCA Partner Memberships.

The fund drive is called Partner Membership because the contributor becomes a partner with the Y in helping more young people enjoy Y privileges. "Many of us talk about the problems of the 'inner city,' but the Hannan YMCA is doing something about them—every day, seven days a week," Chapin said.

"We hope the entire East Side community realizes the vital role the Hannan Y is playing and will support our Partner Membership Campaign."

'Curriculum Day' Planned For Secondary Teachers

In accordance with the previously announced schedule, the secondary schools of the Grosse Pointe Public School System will not be in session on Wednesday afternoon, February 12.

If the break in the weekly schedule provides a short recess for the students at the High School, Brownell, Parcels and Pierce, the same is definitely not true for the teachers and administrators of the four buildings.

Their plans for the afternoon, the second such "curriculum day" of the current school year, cover a wide range of activities designed to improve and strengthen the instructional program. A random sampling of some of the agendas of the departmental meetings provides an insight on the scope of the afternoon's proceedings.

For example, the junior high school mathematics department will spend the afternoon working on two projects. The majority of the members will continue the project of revising course of study outlines for Mathematics 7 and Mathematics 1. Five instructors will discuss revisions to the eighth grade final examination.

The industrial arts department members will meet at Parcels to hear a discussion of the Cooperative Occupational Training Program by Jack Doneth. Other plans include tentative improvements in course lines at various levels.

Discussions in secondary social studies will center on current backgrounds of the subject, a look at today's requirements, and an evaluation of some of the concepts now taught. The balance of the afternoon will be devoted to separate group meetings for teachers of economics, U. S. history, and world history.

Instructors of business education subjects will meet in two groups. One will study the development of a two-year sequence for cooperative office education students. The other will explore new ideas on the teaching of junior business and bookkeeping through programmed learning, units about data processing, projects, and up-to-date business procedures in the bookkeeping classroom.

Teachers in foreign language have a variety of tasks planned. Those in Latin will work on the improvement of second-year testing materials. Teachers of French will meet with elementary school language teachers to consider the total program in grades 4-12.

The detailed plans presented by other secondary departments include such activities as textbook selection, the preparation of supplementary instructional materials, an investigation of team teaching possibilities—to name a few.

For secondary students February 12 provides a brief afternoon of recess, but for the staff members, tentative plans indicate a varied and busy schedule covering a mass of chores that will result in the ultimate improvement of the secondary instructional program of the Grosse Pointe Public School System.

VOTING IN NORTHERN RHODESIA—After casting her vote, a woman with a baby has her thumb dipped in indelible red ink at a polling station in Mufitira, Northern Rhodesia. HOUSEGUESTING — Lucy Johnson, 16, lets out a laugh as she and Jack Olson, 18, stroll along in Madison, Wis., where he is a student at the University of Wisconsin. President Johnson's daughter is Olson's between-semester guest, chaperoned by Dr. and Mrs. James Kain of Rochester, Minn. The Kains are friends of the Johnsons.

85 CENTS APIECE—Leo Phillips runs silver dollars through his hands in his Chicago liquor store, where he is selling them at reduced prices. "I offered them for 90 cents, one to a customer, but they didn't go so well," he said. "Then I reduced the price to 85 cents, and now they're going to 85 cents." He's selling 800 of them.

DIMES WORTH—The former presidential yacht Potomac was purchased at public auction in Long Beach, Calif., by singer Elvis Presley, who immediately donated it to the National March of Dimes Foundation, with stipulation that it be made a national monument to Franklin Delano Roosevelt, who became a polio victim in 1921. The 165-foot craft cost $1.3 million to build. Presley paid $55,000 for it.

ROYAL LADIES DAY—Queen Frederika of Greece and daughter, Princess Irene, 22, are greeted at the White House by Mrs. Lyndon Johnson and daughter Lynda, 19.

THAT SUPERSONIC AIRLINER—Here are three sketches of the proposed U.S. supersonic airliner, Lockheed's (top) double delta design, North American's (middle) modified delta platform wing, and Boeing's (bottom) variable sweep arrow wing which can be moved in flight. The plan calls for passenger capacity of 227, speed of 2,000 mph, 4,000-mile range.

HAND BACK ON AND O.K.—Wilfred Chabotte, 42, rests in hospital in Hartford, Conn., while his sewed-back-on hand starts to heal. He was working in an ice house, fell into an ice cutting machine and his left hand was completely cut off. He put it in a paper bag and carried it to the hospital, where surgeons reattached it in a seven-hour operation. A doctor said it "appears circulation has been re-established."

Church League Has Good Start

This year the Grosse Pointe Church Basketball League is off to a flying start. In 1964 there are three leagues and it looks like it should be a very exciting season.

In the B League, (13 to 15), St. James is off to a good start with three straight wins. That includes a 42-28 win over Woods Presbyterian in which Rick Schriever scored 20 points. They also had a 44-31 win over St. Paul and a 47-32 win over Christ Church.

Other scores so far this year in the B League are: Christ Church, 27, Woods Presbyterian, 19; Congregational, 43, Woods Presbyterian, 39; Memorial Church, 40, St. Paul, 20.

In the C League, (10-12), Grosse Pointe Memorial Church has also won their first three games. They have defeated two St. Paul teams by scores of 32-14 and 39-11. Their latest win was a hard fought 33-27 win over a good Christ Church team.

In another good game St. Paul No. 1 defeated Christ Church 28-23 as Messacar collected 15 points.

Other scores so far this year are: Congregational, 15, St. Paul No. 2, 11; St. Paul No. 1, 40, Woods Presbyterian, 16; Woods Presbyterian, 23, St. Paul No. 2, 14; Woods Presbyterian, 17, Congregational, 9.

Games are played each Saturday morning at the Grosse Pointe High School. Come out and enjoy the action.

Two Cage Tilts Split by GPUS

Grosse Pointe University School won one and lost one game last week, 74-53 against Huron and 64-57 against University High of Ann Arbor. The Huron game was the highlight of this season as Grosse Pointe rolled over the Huron team with unexpected ease while George Perrin of G.P.U.S. scored 40 points. Perrin's 40 point effort broke a seven year record of 35 points held by Bob Wood. Dave Hadden scored nine points and had eight assists.

University High, a very good Class C school, posed a tougher problem as their height dwarfed Grosse Pointe. Freeman, Laughna, who is totally deaf, and Jones scored in double figures for Ann Arbor: 20, 15, and 12 points respectively. Perrin scored 32 points, Hadden 9, Harris Brown 8, for the Grosse Pointe cause. The evening's performance was marred, however, as Dave Hadden sprained his ankle in the last 30 seconds, and will be lost to the team for two weeks. Although G. P. U. S. lost 4 of its 5 starters from last year's team, this year has been surprisingly successful. G. P. U. S. is 5-3, they opened the season with two losses but went on to win their next five games in a row before losing to University High. Several promising sophomores and juniors have greatly assisted the team this year and should post a basketball threat in '65; these are Dave Hadden, Harris Brown, Chuck Wright and Wally Gamber.

Blue Devils Beat Fordson By Accuracy at Foul Line

By Jim Blackburn

Deadly accuracy at the free throw line brought the Grosse Pointe Blue Devils a 57-49 upset victory over the league-leading Fordson Tractors Friday night at Grosse Pointe. The Devils sank 27 of 35 free throws while the Tractors made only 11 of 20. This provided the margin of victory as the Tractors made 19 field goals to only 15 by the Devils.

The game was one of defenses with the Devils proving superior. Fordson's Neimer Hammond and Tom Novak scored 17 and 13 points respectively. In the fourth Novak fouled out as did center Stan Janik, in foul trouble throughout the contest. Novak had been hitting consistently late in the game and when he was forced out the Tractors' offense died.

This victory avenged an earlier 62-47 defeat at the hands of the Tractors and handed them their first defeat in league competition. However, Fordson remains on top as Wyndotte lost to Highland Park 75-71 in a game which doesn't count in the league standings. Royal Oak Dondero upset Monroe 43-42 to gain their second straight victory after three losses.

Against Fordson the Devils had four men in double figures: Rod Luzi with 17 points, Mike Bielawski with 14, Bob Miller with 11, and Jeff VanSchwarz with 10. This Friday they will journey to Monroe for a game with the Trojans. In an earlier contest at Grosse Pointe the Devils came out on top, 63-54.

In Friday's game the Devils broke from a 7-7 tie to take a 17-8 lead and, while the lead never exceeded nine and went to as little as two points, the Devils never trailed thereafter. The score at the end of the first quarter was 18-13 and though the Tractors narrowed the gap to 23-21 in the second quarter, seven straight points carried the Devils to a quick 30-21 lead. The visitors closed the gap to 33-26 at halftime.

In the second half the Devils turned to defense and held the usually potent Fordson attack in check. The Devils scored only 24 points in the second half, holding the Tractors to 23, only nine in the final quarter. Of twelve Devil points in the fourth period all but two were via the free throw route. At the end of the third quarter the Devils led 45-40. This five point lead was the least the Devils had in the second half, and the most was nine points.

Hockey Chiefs Lose Two Tilts

The Grosse Pointe Hockey Club, sailing along with a string of wins, were suddenly grounded by two losses on successive nights.

Beaten by Leamington, Ontario, 3 to 2, at Gordie Howe Wednesday and bombed by Detroit Milner Hotel, 13 to 2, on Thursday at Olympia, the Chiefs were licking their wounds of battle.

However, it must be pointed out that this opposition is about the best around and was planned and scheduled this way, to help the Chiefs prepare themselves for the State Tourney which begins Sunday night, February 9 at Michigan State University Rink with Lansing their opponent. This is the game for which the team has been preparing and they will certainly give a good account of themselves.

In games this week, the Chiefs vie with two St. Clair Shores teams and then travel to Lansing for the big ones.

What's 'Pointe' Of It All?

That's the title of an editorial which appeared in the Detroit News on January 27, following the telecast which professed to paint a true picture of Grosse Pointe. We were tempted to comment briefly on the subject last week, but having been loosely connected with the program we hesitated, lest it appear that we were trying to make capital from the exposure. Now the DETROIT NEWS has said it, much better than could we, and we obtained permission to reprint the editorial.

We spent an hour one evening with the obviously biased young woman who was in charge of the program and who did the commentary on the air. It was so apparent that she was seeking sensational and derogatory material, that we attempted to straighten her out and tell her some of the many fine things that make us so proud of The Pointe. The telecast was ample evidence of our failure. Here's what the Detroit News writer had to say . . . and we couldn't agree more.

The National Broadcasting Corporation revisited the Grosse Pointes, this time on the "Today" show, and came up with what purported to be a 20-minute documentary which it will claim was fairly balanced, though others would jockey it as a Hyde community presentation of a "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" community.

These news hounds dropped in on the Pointes 2½ years ago. The producer of that David Brinkley epic "Crime Does Pay"—was indignant because he said four of his camera and sound men had been roughed up while taking pictures of homes of people they described as hoodlums.

"An outrage," commented Brinkley on behalf of his legmen, but NBC forgot to prosecute.

One resident the Brinkley program identified as a gangster, a Mafia criminal and a dope user—peddler sued NBC for $300,000. The case was settled out of court.

This time NBC summoned up enough courage to dispatch a woman reporter into this lawless and ruffian community. She summed it up with the quote:

"There was a little girl
"Who had a little curl, right in the "middle of her forehead
"When she was good, she was very,
"very good . . ."

She omitted the last line about when "she was horrid."

At least the lady was half charitable—unlike the outraged Brinkley, who, it is assumed, doesn't himself live in a Washington slum—and she spoke of the good works some of the owners of these gracious homes perform.

The Pointes are the domain of the auto wealthy, said the lady, which indicates her researchers had never heard of Bloomfield Hills-Birmingham. (The auto wealthy there, may, of course, ask for equal time, though we doubt it.)

In passing, there was a line dropped in that there were some unwealthy and nonauto people living in the Pointes, though no camera ever got into THEIR homes. Lacking was an explanation that hundreds of unwealthy people set up homes in the Pointes because of its splendid educational system and that these same people turn out en masse on election day to vote tax increases to maintain that system.

But there was a great deal said about the points system and how potential property owners were screened and kept out by it and that it is now illegal but that the practice is observed slyly and under-the-counter. Mr. Hyde came through bright and clear.

The lady reporter looked most convincing and if Brinkley had been around he would assuredly have said, "Good night, darling" for keeping up the good work.

There's another little verse:

"There was a big network
"With a teeny-weeny quirk, right
"in the middle of its forehead
"When it was good, it could be
"very, very good
"But, always in Grosse Pointe it
"was horrid."

Reel 1 will feature Big Ben and Piccadilly and the people of Britain who look, talk, and act as we do, (almost).

The looming Welsh castles will be seen, as will the glorious mountains and valleys of this country, the great colleges of Cambridge, the picture book villages, Elizabethan England, and the spectacular countryside of Scotland.

Reel 2 will show Scotland . . . Loch Lomond, Inveraray, and the magnificent, lonely land in the north-west.

View Nelson's "Victory", Poveysey, Woburn Abbey, seat of the Dukes of Bedford; a portrait gallery, a state dining room; a private art collection, and tea in a fine Georgian House.

Mrs. Kennard Jones, president of the Mothers' Club of the Grosse Pointe High School, will introduce the speaker.

What Goes On at Your Library

By Virginia Leonard

It's February. Do you know the origin of this name? No? It's from the Latin verb "februare" meaning "to purify." On the 15th of this month, the Romans held a festival at which time a goat was sacrificed. Candlemas Day, occurring on the 2nd, is the Christian Feast of the Purification of the Virgin Mary. The Saxons were accustomed to call February "Sprote-kale" from the fact that kale sprouted during this season. Later, they changed the name to Sol-month, to greet the returning sun. We are used to a 28 day month (except for leap-year), but it was not included in the early Roman calendar. It was added by Numa to the end of the year, following December; he also added January, just before March, and in 453 the order of these two new months was reversed.

It's February. Many famous people were born during this period. (I admit I'm prejudiced — my own birthday falls in February too!) The colorful Aaron Burr was born on February 6th. Here was a man who became Vice-President of the United States, but is perhaps best known for his duel with Alexander Hamilton. The following day is the birthday of Charles Dickens, and this anniversary is observed by branches of the Dickens Fellowship throughout the world. On the 9th we have the birth-date of William Henry Harrison, 9th President of the United States, on the 11th we honor the memory and fame of the great American inventor, Thomas Alva Edison. One of the two most famous men honored during this month is, of course, Abraham Lincoln, whose birthday, as everyone knows, falls on the 12th. And, looking ahead to February 22, we find the other well-known man, George Washington. These last two days are recognized as legal holidays.

It's February. What other important days do we have to consider? There is Shrove Tuesday, or Mardis Gras, a movable celebration, falling this year on February 11. The above-mentioned Candlemas is also known as Ground Hog Day, and is a traditional (although not very scientific or accurate) way to forecast the weather for the next six weeks. This was a custom brought to America by immigrants from Great Britain and Germany. The Boy Scouts of America also are to be honored at this time, as the 10th is the anniversary of the chartering of this Organization. For those with a romantic penchant, there is always Valentine's Day on the 14th. The World Almanac deals realistically with this subject as follows: "Festival of a martyr beheaded at Rome under Emperor Claudius. Association of this day with lovers has no connection with the saint and probably had its origin in an old belief that on this day birds begin to choose their mates."

It's February. Have you recovered from the holiday season? Are you tired of winter weather and wish you were South? Perhaps you're even reading new seed catalogs! If you've hit a mid-winter let-down and have a few hours to spare, we have two suggestions. One, that you come in and get some books to read from our libraries. The second — perhaps you'd be interested in the series of book reviews that our Director, Mr. Robert M. Orr, is giving on eight successive Tuesday nights, entitled: "Books America Is Reading — and Why." This group meets at 8 p.m. in the Meeting Room of the Central Library.

The first review will be on February 11, consisting of Pearl Buck's "The Living Reed." On February 18 you will get a double-barrelled appraisal of the late John F. Kennedy as shown in "Victory Lasky's" "The Man and the Myth," and Hugh Sidney's "John F. Kennedy, President." Again on February 25 a two-for-the-price-of-one treat with John LeCarre's "Spy Who Came in From the Cold" and Helen MacInnes' "The Venetian Affair." The following five weeks' fare will consist of "The Two Viet-Nams" by Bernard Fall, "Of Good and Evil" by Ernest Gann, "The American Way of Death" by Jessica Mitford, "The Battle of the Villa Fiorita" by Rutter Godden, and "Dorothy and Red" by Vincent Sheean. If you are interested in this course, please contact the Department of Community Services of the Grosse Pointe Public School System.

It's February. Not a bad month after all!

League to Show Florida Movies

The breathtaking beauty of wildlife in Florida is the star of the latest color-sound film to be presented at the February 13 meeting of the Grosse Pointe Cinema League, in the Fries Auditorium at 8 p.m.

An alligator grunts and slides into the water. Birds screech noisy challenges. This is the dramatic introduction to a new wildlife film by Saginaw industrialist, Russell Jameson. Mr. Jameson is president of Bridgeport Tool Company and Jameson Machine Company. Photography for him is a hobby, but he is unusually proficient in his hobby.

Twice he has won the Photographic Society of America's Dick Bird Trophy for producing the best nature film of the year. He also has won the Wallace Heaton award of the Institute of Amateur Cinematographers (England) for outstanding photography, and the George W. Cushman award of the Photographic Society of America for the best use of sound on film.

His last prize-winning film was "Heart of the Land," a picture about Southern Mexico, filmed in collaboration with the Michigan State University Museum biological expedition. Previous photographic expeditions have taken him to British Columbia, Newfoundland, Alaska, Alberta and Mexico.

This new film is titled "Intrusion." It covers 400 years of history, starting with Ponce de Leon's search for the Fountain of Youth, in depicting civilization's encroachment upon Florida's wildlife.

Mr. Jameson chose the last frontier of sub-tropical refuge as the scene of his film. He traces the history of the peninsula, shows Indians at work and play and takes his viewers on many trips into the wilds of turkey hunts, wild boar trapping, and into the hitherto unexplored haunts of the alligators, the snakes, and waterfowl and animals of Florida.

There are slow motion shots of wood storks, herons, egrets, ospreys and other winger creatures. One of the highlights of the film is a chilling sequence in which an otter attempts to escape a stalking American alligator.

"Intrusion" climaxes three years of filming effort, and shows the efforts of the Audubon Society and the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission to preserve and perpetuate the wildlife in this area. While Indians, game hunters, "Gentlemen" hunters, yes, and even bathing beauties, appear in "Intrusion," the birds, the colorful flowers and the animals of Florida's Everglades.

The Grosse Pointe public is cordially invited to attend this spectacular film.

The interior decorating studio of William Denler, the first on the Hill, was opened in December, 1939, in the one story building pictured above. Since 1939, Mr. Denler has expanded his studio by two additions. The latest, completed in 1953, was the second floor showroom and offices with the intriguing circular stairway. Mr. and Mrs. Denler have traveled extensively throughout the world, shopping for the rare and unusual items, both new and antique, found in the studio at 77 Kercheval, On the Hill. Along with the expansion of Wm. Denler and Co., Kercheval On the Hill has grown to its present size and reputation, as Grosse Pointe's distinctive shopping area.

In Case You Think You Might Be Stung

By FRED KOPP, R.P.H.

Some people seem to feel that prescriptions are outrageously priced. The truth of the matter is this: Last year the average American bought about 3 prescriptions for a total cost of around $7.50. An average of less than $3.00 per prescription. Sure, some drugs cost a lot. So do television tubes—for the same reason. They're expensive to manufacture. New and improved production methods, however, bring prices down. Penicillin, for example, costs only a small fraction of what it did when it first came out. Your pharmacist has a professional knowledge of drugs and can tell you this. They are fairly priced. You get what you pay for. We are always pleased to serve you.

Three Big Events On DAC Schedule

Detroit Athletic Club has three big exciting events ahead, even as many members right now are reminiscing over the big exciting DAC Bowlers' Ladies' Party of last Saturday, February 1.

The next fiesta will be a theater party on February 13 when members and their guests will have a special dinner at the club at 6 o'clock and then walk diagonally across the street to Music Hall Theatre to view the hilarious new Cinerama comedy, "It's a Mad Mad, Mad, Mad World."

This picture, in gorgeous Technicolor, is a "comedy to end all comedies" with stunts and gag situations to make folk laugh until their "sides ache." In the very large cast of notables are Spencer Tracy, Milton Berle, Sid Caesar, Buddy Hackett, Ethel Merman, Mickey Rooney, Dick Shawn. Curtain time is 8:30 o'clock and the DAC crowd will number 500 that night.

Next on the DAC's roster of glamorous affairs is the "Miami Beach Party," slated at the Indian Creek Country Club at Bal Harbour, Miami Beach, for DAC members in Florida on the party date, March 2.

A cocktail reception at 6:30 o'clock will be followed by 8 o'clock dinner, entertainment and dancing. The fete will be limited to 350 including DAC members and their guests.

George A. Cavanaugh, a DAC'er who spends much of his time in Florida, is chairman at the Indian Creek Club locale.

Then Detroit Athletic Club is to have a cruise to the Eastern Mediterranean and the Greek Isles. Travelers signed up for this will leave Detroit April 3 by Transatlantic Jet for Athens.

Sightseeing will be by ship. A few of the several hundred who attended were the DAC's newly-elected president, Arnold D. (Mike) Freydl, and Mrs. Freydl; the Walter A. 125 Volunteers Needed by Red Cross Opportunities to perform volunteer community services, for which the Red Cross is famous, are offered to 125 women throughout Wayne County by the Detroit Chapter of the Red Cross, a Torch Drive Agency, during the Annual Spring Recruitment Program now under way.

Typical of the openings for which volunteers are sought is the Gray Lady Service found in most hospitals in the community. These gracious ladies perform the non-medical services for patients that over-worked hospital staff haven't time to do. Openings in this service exist in most areas of the city.

A particularly fascinating opportunity exists at the Rehabilitation Institute where volunteers are urgently needed to assist with the many young people for whom rehabilitation from crippling diseases is their only hope for taking a constructive place in the community and in many cases gain the ability to support themselves.

Two other locations in great need of Gray Ladies are the Martin Place Hospital on Schoolcraft and the North Detroit General Hospital. Still another location needing volunteer Gray Ladies is the Veteran's Facility located in Dearborn where service is always needed for those who have given so much of themselves.

Another need of the Chapter is for Motor Service drivers to make deliveries throughout Wayne County of films, literature, personnel to Bloodmobiles, etc. They transport the many items necessary in the conduct of the Northwest and Southwest portions of the county.

Canteeners, those Red Cross women who give time at the canteen in the headquarters building and those who pass out coffee and doughnuts at local Bloodmobiles, are always in demand and the current need is for twenty to twenty-five to bring the staff up to quota.

Openings are presently available for 10 volunteers with typing or secretarial background, to assist with the many office assignments at Chapter House. Here is an excellent opportunity to keep those typing and shorthand skills sharp.

The Chapter's Nursing Services have openings in two fields for nurses. Assisting in the blood center and at Bloodmobile locations taking temperatures, medical history, blood pressure and pulses are areas where nurses are needed. Nurses are needed, too, to teach classes in the "Care of the Sick and Injured" and "Mother and Baby Care."

All Red Cross volunteers are trained by competent Red Cross instructors before they assume their positions.

Now is the time to make the idle hours useful to the community. Plan now to join the Red Cross volunteer program. For further information call Office of Volunteers, Detroit Chapter, American Red Cross, WO 1-3900.

Dental Auxiliary Has Major Project

"Mad Hatters" Tea and Card Party February 15 and April Rummage Sale Planned to Raise Funds for New Dental X-Ray Machine

Strong, healthy teeth that flash through a youngster's bright smile—outshining a crippled body deformed by paralytic disease—is the only incentive that has kept the Detroit District Dental Auxiliary in high working gear since its formation in 1947.

Housed in the basement of the Detroit Orthopedic Clinic, the dental clinic is maintained for children afflicted with polio or other crippling diseases who cannot routinely be cared for in private practice. Last year, the staff dentist and orthodontist treated more than 300 youngsters in their Thursday "open house."

Funds for the clinic are not provided through any agency, but through projects initiated by the Dental Auxiliary, a group of more than 250 Detroit-area dentist wives.

Although many supplies have been donated by dentists or schools of dentistry, the Auxiliary has raised enough to provide a special "easy to get into" chair, and a high speed drill.

Their projects include an annual benefit dinner dance, held this year on January 25 at the Statler-Hilton Hotel, a "Mad Hatters" tea and card party slated for February 15 at the J. L. Hudson Company, a rummage sale, planned for April 6-7, along with periodical theater parties.

The Auxiliary also plays a vital role in the financial operation of the Children's Dental Clinic at Harper Hospital, which serviced 4,000 patients during the past year.

This year, the Auxiliary has taken on the responsibility of providing a new dental X-ray machine for the dental clinic. "Although there is one sitting in the clinic that was used

The classes will take place in the Center's recreation room. They will be limited in size, so advance enrollment is recommended. The cost is $25 for 10 weeks.

The children will be introduced to art through pictures of the primitive world of pre-historic times. They will learn to react to the music of simple instruments and gain expression through movement. They will have finger fun and march to various rhythms. They will become familiar with certain instruments by seeing pictures of them or by actually handling them.

Center Offers French Course

Parlez Vous Français? If you do a little but would like to become really fluent it is suggested that you join the French Conversation Class being offered at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial in conjunction with the University Center for Adult Education.

The group is under the direction of Madame Helen Waldstein of the Wayne State University Faculty. There are only about 15 members and everyone gets a chance to talk in class, have his grammar corrected and his limited vocabulary helped.

While learning to think and speak French easily, class members become very familiar with the vast culture of France—its art, music, literature and history. They learn about the French people, the beautiful country and the ways of French life. They keep abreast of current French politics and the ever-changing Parisian scene. So it is far more than a language course.

The conversation group is open to anyone with some previous instruction in or familiarity with the French language. The group meets each Wednesday morning from 9:30 to 11 o'clock beginning February 12 for a period of 16 weeks. The fee is $35.

Cathy Jens, who left recently for New Zealand, is the fourth Grosse Pointe High School student to travel to the land of the Maoris.

GPHS has a long and active record of student exchanges. It is the only Michigan high school allotted four American Field Service students, and two other girls, enrolled at the High under the Youth For Understanding program, bring the total number of exchange pupils at the Pointe High to six.

Five "permanent" GPHS boys and girls traveled abroad under various exchange programs last summer.

American Field Service week starts tomorrow, February 7; the students themselves hope to raise $1,400—money for two scholarships.

Grosse Pointe Rotary sponsors the third exchange student, and the AFS Adult Committee raises funds for the fourth. Pointers who would like further information, are interested in entertaining foreign exchange students in their homes or have suggestions for other programs, may contact Mrs. William M. Adams, Tuxedo 1-1305.

CAR MIRROR STOLEN

Carl Schickelart of 1018 Bedford street at the City police station February 1 at 10:30 a.m. to report that a side view mirror had been broken off and stolen from his car, while it was parked in the lot behind Jacobson's Store in the Village. It had been taken January 31 sometime between 10:30 a.m. and 12 p.m. It was insured and valued at $15.

University School News

A very international spirit prevailed at Grosse Pointe University School on Friday, January 31, because that was the day of the annual visit of students from other countries, who are spending the year in area schools under the program of the American Field Service or the Michigan Council of Churches. Both of these are agencies which have sent G.P.U.S. students abroad during summer vacations.

The students were guests of the University School A.F.S. Club, with Mrs. Katherine Weltenbach as adviser. They all appeared on stage at the morning assembly with Stephen Fischer and Anne Leach, two of the club's officers, as moderators. There they discussed in an informal and spontaneous manner such matters as dating, school and homework, food, and their families. The assembly took about a half hour.

There were six visitors from widely separated parts of the world, two boys and four girls. The boys were from Japan and Brazil; the girls were from Thailand, Iran, Bolivia, and the Netherlands. In addition, there was Grosse Pointe University School's own A.F.S. student from Denmark, Birte Larsson, a senior girl.

After the morning assembly the students visited separate classes and answered questions about their countries. They were particularly interested in a very animated debate being conducted by Mr. Bellows' 8th grade history class of boys who were representing senators from the North and South discussing issues of slavery as they agitated the nation in 1836. Among the "senators" who were observed explosively stating their case, as the foreign student watched in absorbed attention, were Bruce Barit, Geoffrey Bellows, Gorton Book, William Campbell, Suresh Gupta, Daniel Hall, John Hoag, David Jones, Edward Oetking, and Joseph Pehrson. One of the visitors took a picture of the event.

The students stayed for lunch and attended the annual concert by the school band in the early afternoon under the direction of Mr. David Amer. One of the numbers, an American folk-song of the Appalachian Mountain area, was dedicated to the guests from overseas.

It also features 2 full baths, a paneled den, lovely porch, paneled recreation room with bar and basement lavatory. Carpeting, draperies, new electric range all included for under $25,000.

YORKSHIRE, 1303 — Located near public and parochial schools. Center hall Colonial in fine condition. Spacious kitchen, enclosed porch, paneled recreation room, 3 bedrooms, 2 1/2 baths, lovely yard.

LAKELAND, 440—If you like high ceilings, spacious rooms and superior construction, this is the ideal house for you. Large wooded lot, big entrance hall, 3 fireplaces, library, 5 bedrooms, 3 baths. Owner has bought new home and is anxious to sell this before moving.

JUST WHAT SO MANY of our prospects have asked for: that home which has bedrooms and baths for the entire family (four), in a good neighborhood, needs redecorating, but is priced so low that an additional investment in refurbishing will be justified by the excellent location. $30,500 while it lasts.

HEAD AND SHOULDERS above the rest of the market in this locale, yet priced below the competition. The answer is that the owner really wants to sell this one. If you have been looking for a three bedroom colonial with a first floor lav., and want a paneled room, and large covered porch, want a fenced yard with two-car garage, must have a play room for the kids, but must stay under $25,000, then may we strongly suggest you give this one a look see.

IT'S NOT TRUE! "If you've seen one you've seen them all." Not in the case of this gem on McKinley Avenue, a smartly decorated colonial with large kitchen and also a den for dad to get away from it all. Newly carpeted and many rooms were just redone before the owner got news of his transfer. This one is not like all the rest. Priced to move quickly at $27,000.

Feature Page

who, where and whatnot

by whoozit

George Simon celebrated his 40th birthday in style last Friday evening — at a surprise party planned and executed by his wife, Penny, who invited 250 friends to a "Top Secret" rendezvous in the basement of the Simons not-quite-redecorated new home in Vendome road. Guests parked their cars in Touraine road, crept across the back yard, and were whisked downstairs, where a thunder-struck George, (he thought he was simply going to inspect renovation progress) found a complete Night Club under way. Dancing plus midnight supper were on the evening's agenda, and sneak preview tours of the house, redesigned for Big Family living — the Simons have nine children; this personal "population explosion" forces them to move from Lothrop road into less cramped quarters — had guests gasping in admiration.

Pointe ladies have discovered a new taste sensation . . . CIGARS! Whoozit, dropping in on a local beauty parlor recently, observed, (to her utter amazement), several well-dressed matrons calmly perusing fashion magazines and puffing stogies 'neath the dryers. What happens to the half-smoked Havanas when the correctly-coiffed Mesdames walk out of the salon doors remains a mystery; perhaps they hide them in their purses, take them out at home after carefully locking the doors, and happily but privately succumb to this newly popular secret vice.

The lady who got into a new dress, couldn't get out of it, and went to bed fully clothed is a classic comedy situation, but Miss Charlotte Dey, of Muskoka road, is living proof that such problems DO arise. A dedicated worker at the East Side Bargain Counter sponsored by the League of Catholic Women, Miss Dey occasionally picks up donated clothes in the evening, keeps them in her home overnight, and delivers them to the re-sale shop bright and early next morning. Recently, a gorgeous evening gown fell into her hands. Miss Dey took it home; she and Rita Roney, with whom she shares her house, admired it; Miss Roney went to bed, and Charlotte, dawdling before she turned out the last light, kept glancing at the dress. She decided to try it on. The zipper was a bit tight in places, but the gown fit rather well and was very becoming. Curiosity satisfied, Miss Dey started to take it off. The zipper refused to move. Tugging, pulling and twisting failed to budge the recalcitrant fastener, and Charlotte, not wanting to wake Rita and loath to tear the dress, finally lay down, in full Ball finery, to a most uncomfortable night.

The curtain finally fell on a Pointe "Comedy of Errors" last week—with a little help from the NEWS classified advertising department in its secondary role of private detective agency. Mrs. A. George Abbott, Jr., opened the door of her Touraine road home shortly before Christmas to find an exquisitely wrapped package, bearing the cryptic inscription, "From Suzy to Carla," on her doorstep. Mrs. Abbott's name is Helen. The package had not been sent through the mail, and there was no further identification. Mrs. Abbott picked it up, brought it inside, and called the police. They had no record of a missing parcel, and no idea of who "Suzy" or "Carla" might be. Curious, but unwilling to disturb his gorgeous outer shell, Mrs. Abbott kept the unopened box through the holidays, checking "Lost and Found" columns every day. Last week, in desperation, she called the NEWS, asking if ANYBODY had heard ANYTHING about a lost Christmas present. Nobody had, but classified advertising promised to keep in touch. The following day, Mrs. Gari Stroh, housebound in Edgemont park because of a broken leg, called to place an ad for a new cook. In the course of conversation, Mrs. Stroh mentioned she had dropped off a Christmas package for her niece at the wrong house in Touraine road, had returned and scoured the street with no success, and wondered whatever had become of it. Classified advertising gasped. Was her niece's name Carla? Yes. Was her name Suzy? Yes. Mrs. Abbott and Mrs. Stroh have communicated via phone, and Mrs. Stroh plans to pick up the parcel in person as soon as her knitting bone allows.

Pilferings

Father to rebellious son: "How dare you disobey your mother! Do you think you're any better than I am?"

Here lies a poor woman who always was tired; She lived in a house where help was not hired. Her last words on earth were, "Dear friends I am going. Were washing ain't done nor sweeping nor sewing. But everything there is exact to my wishes. For where they don't eat there's no washing of dishes. I'll be where loud anthems will always be ringing. But having no voice I'll be clear of the singing. Don't mourn for me now, don't mourn for me never. I'm going to do nothing for ever and ever."

(Verse composed by a Sheffield, Eng., washerwoman, Catherine Alsopp, who died in 1905.)

Modern minute man: someone who can make it to the refrigerator and back while the TV commercial is on.

Canteen Conversation

By Rick Mills

Girls: a subject occupying the mind of many teenage boys to day. Only a few years back these same boys used to avoid the opposite sex whenever possible. Suddenly this anti-girl attitude disappeared and the boys began to appreciate the weaker sex.

What happened? Books on psychology have answered this question many times over and every boy can answer it with his own reactions.

Just what do boys think of the various types of girls? Which kind of girl do boys find attractive? Here are some informative answers from highly qualified sources.

Roger Johnson: "A girl should be concerned about her appearance but not to the extent that she is constantly combing her hair or putting on her make-up. She should act natural and forget about impressing everyone. Intelligence is a good characteristic and usually an intelligent girl has a good, outgoing personality.

"A girl should never talk about former dates and boy friends. Nothing bothers me more than a female who is always going over how wonderful her past dates have been!"

Eric Blakely: "I like a girl I can feel comfortable and at ease with. She should have a pleasant personality. I admire a girl who has individual opinions on important issues, not one who conforms with her friends. If she is easy to talk to and understanding, it is natural to get along.

"I don't care to hear a girl talk about her old boy friends and how much she liked them! She should have varied interests and should not concentrate all her efforts in one direction. A boy should try to date a girl who has some of the same interests he has. A girl should try to show interest in what the boy likes to do, and also show that she enjoys being with him. She shouldn't date a boy just as an excuse to get out of the house or to go to a movie she wants to see. She should have respect for her date's financial situation and see that he spends a conservative amount. Knowing the right clothes to wear for the right occasion is also a great asset."

Unlike most visions, Thea Blomquist's will become reality. Invitations are in the mail, bidding guests to the first fundraising effort for a Northeastern Child Guidance Clinic—a champagne preview of the Flower and Garden Show the evening of February 21, from 7:30 to 10 o'clock, at the State Fair Coliseum.

This "tangible" benefit party follows years of "undercover" work by Mrs. Blomquist and other Pointers, who saw the need for a clinic and devoted themselves to the dogged, essential work of preparing the ground for planting and growing.

Teaching in a St. Clair Shores cooperative nursery four years ago, Mrs. Blomquist became aware of the number of very young children, three and four-year-olds, with persistent personality and behavior disorders. A brief talk by Dr. James Graves, who suggested lay people interest themselves and organizations to which they belong in mental health work, confirmed her interest in the problems of emotionally disturbed children.

Committee Formed

The Greater Detroit Co-Operative Nursery Council agreed to the formation of a committee aimed at investigating facilities for the care of emotionally disturbed children in Michigan. Dr. Eli Ruben, of the Lafayette Clinic, offered guidance and encouragement to committee workers.

Mrs. Blomquist and her fellow "researchers" conducted a survey of pre-school teachers, who reported an appreciable number of youngsters with persistent difficulties. The committee worked for two years, "and, frankly, we got nowhere — but we educated ourselves to needs in the field of mental health."

The needs were and are crying. Today, approximately 500 children are on waiting lists for treatment at Wayne County's three existing publicly-supported child guidance clinics.

Members of the Nursery Council committee determined to attack the problem at a community level. Mrs. Francis Marsh asked Grosse Pointe's League of Women Voters to conduct a study of the Pointe's "exceptional" children, listing under the term "exceptional," the emotionally disturbed, the mentally retarded, the physically handicapped, the neurologically impaired and the gifted—all children, in short, with extraordinary needs and problems. Mrs. Douglas Sargent heads the League's two-year study committee.

This LWV report, released in January, 1963, contained several specific recommendations. Among them was a recommendation to "Begin procedures to stimulate community interest in the need for a publicly-supported East Side Child Guidance Clinic."

Public Hearing Held

"To stimulate community interest," a public hearing was held in February, 1963, co-sponsored by the League of Women Voters and the Mental Health Committee of the Junior League of Detroit. Thea Blomquist describes this meeting as "very successful," a steering committee, headed by George Bushnell, Jr., was subsequently organized, and less than a year later, December 12, 1963, the Northeastern Wayne County Child Guidance Clinic moved a major step toward reality with election of officers and adoption of by-laws, establishing the Clinic as a branch of the Children's Center of Wayne County.

Mrs. Alfred R. Glancy, Jr., accepted the presidency of the Board of Directors. Preparing for the February 21 benefit, Mrs. Glancy has opened her house nine days for envelope addressing and other work, hosting as many as 20 women volunteers at one time.

Vice-presidents of the Clinic Board include Dr. Calier H. Worrell, Charles E. Brake, and Mrs. Donald Blomquist.

Thea Blomquist, who also serves as the Board's co-chairman of community relations and education, has amassed two looseleaf notebooks full of information, correspondence and memos relative to the proposed Clinic.

"Spare Time" Chores

In her "spare" time, she has moved into a new home, designed and fired, in her own kitchen, three boxfuls of ceramic Christmas tree ornaments, and "kept house" for her husband and three young sons, Donald, 11, Bradley, 10, and Randall, 8. The Blomquists lived in Hampton road until a year and a half ago, when they transferred four blocks to their present two-story brick and frame Colonial house, furnished in warmly traditional American style.

Thea Blomquist was bitten by the antique bug a year ago; she and her husband developed a passion for 18th century country furniture, and their family room features a mellow Pennsylvania Dutch cupboard, signed American pewter and comfortable chairs.

Now "hooked" on antiques, they are searching for more formal pieces, especially Queen Anne period, for their living room. Mr. Blomquist began experimenting with mosaics three years ago. Four of his completed pictures, an intricately shaded "Christ" in the dining room, a "Mary" in the living room and two glowing still lifes in the family room, prove his talent.

He designs the mosaics himself, cutting each piece individually. Mrs. Blomquist estimates it takes her husband an average of two months, working every evening, to complete a picture.

Ceramics Take Time Too

Thea's ceramic tree ornaments, horses, ducks, stars and gingerbread men, in traditional Pennsylvania Dutch designs and tints, are equally time-consuming.

The colors, soft blues, greens, golds and browns, are put on in four layers, and each small ornament is fired twice. Among her other interests is a book discussion group, whose members meet once a month to talk over current prose; their latest community reading project was "African Genesis."

Mr. and Mrs. Blomquist both love to garden. Their backyard efforts produced a blaze of color last summer, and they hope to build up a glowing perennial garden, filling in with annuals. "I'm having a lovely time with flowers," Mrs. Blomquist remarks, her soft voice still holding a trace of "Down Under" accent. Born in Perth, Australia, she came to the States in 1947 to visit relatives, stayed so long "I was almost deported," met and married her husband, and has not been south of the equator since.

Had Visitors in 1956

Her mother, who has a sheep farm, and younger sister visited America in 1956, and the Blomquists hope to take their three boys to Perth in the late '60's. The entire family loves riding, western style, and usually vacations where horses and western saddles are available. On a Colorado dude ranch last summer they averaged four hours a day per person in the saddle. Mrs. Blomquist fell in love with Colorado, "the most beautiful State in the Union." She would like to go back to the Rockies, but has New York and the World's Fair earmarked for this season's vacation.

Her three boys attend classes at Ferry School and spend their summers on the sandlots—they will all be on Little League baseball teams this summer, which means Mr. and Mrs. Blomquist will be in the bleachers six games a week.

Now Major Interest

Working for establishment of the Northeastern Wayne County Child Guidance Clinic has gradually become Thea Blomquist's major interest.

"Conclusive evidence from the testimony of officials of schools, churches, police departments, pediatricians, psychiatrists, judges and many parents indicates a pressing need for the establishment of additional diagnostic and treatment facilities for emotionally disturbed children," she says.

The proposed facility would service the Grosse Pointes, Harper Woods and a large section of Northeastern Detroit, would operate as a branch of the Children's Center of Wayne County, and would eventually be supported by State as well as local funds.

It will open just as soon as it has raised sufficient local funds to maintain a headquarters and pay the salaries of a psychiatric social worker and a secretary plus the part-time services of a psychiatrist and a psychologist. Professional staff and services will then be expanded as funds become available.

Show to Open Early

The Metropolitan Detroit Landscape Association and Allied Florists Association arranged to have the Flower and Garden Show ready a day early for the champagne preview. All proceeds raised through the $25-a-ticket benefit will go directly to the Clinic, and additional, vitally needed contributions may be sent directly to Board president, Mrs. Glancy.

Thea Blomquist, gardener, will be among those examining 15 gardens on display at the Coliseum February 21. Thea Blomquist, artist, will be among those admiring arrangements prepared by some 30 flower and garden clubs. And Thea Blomquist, visionary, will be among those seeing their dream of a Child Guidance Clinic begin to become reality.

Jenny Lind Club To Hold Sale

A business meeting and White Elephant Sale is scheduled for the Jenny Lind Club monthly meeting which will be held on February 11.

Mrs. Robert Peebles will be hostess and Mrs. George Baer will be chairman. Mrs. Baer will be assisted by Mrs. Dwight Nelson and Mrs. Alton Wheeler.

Even today prices show little respect for the law of gravity.

How "Necessary" Is College? BY SLOAN WILSON
Round Table: Should Your Town Welcome Industry?

Is college the answer for everyone? A well-known author questions whether it is and offers SUBURBIA TODAY readers some promising alternatives for young people who don't get into college or who choose to take another road into the future.

Party, Anyone?

In February there are countless excuses for parties—Valentine's Day, Lincoln's and Washington's Birthdays (and you can even celebrate Groundhog Day), so here's a potpourri of recipes for delicate and delicious and sometimes pink and frothy treats to make your gala special (or maybe just to cheer up dinner at the end of a dull day).

I Don't Touch the Stuff Myself!

What happens when a man just happens to prefer ginger ale to hard liquor? It's not easy to get by with it socially, but here's how one soft-drink addict pulls it off (although he admits sometimes he could use a stiff drink to do it).

Will Industry Work for Your Town?

Should your town open its gates to industry? Must you sacrifice beauty and order for the tax money industry would bring? Or can industry learn to live in the suburbs to suit suburban standards? To find the answers we queried a panel of editors and publishers of suburban newspapers in various parts of the country. From them, you can draw your own conclusions.

GETTING AROUND

. . . to Our Pleasant Places and People

HOMEOWNERS in West Hartford, Connecticut, were understandably confused when they received this gallimaufry from the city: "Please be advised that notice of caveat assessment for penetration macadam-wearing course is null and void as of this date." So they asked the mayor, who explained, "It just means you don't have to pay for a blacktop road you had previously been assessed for." And he added, "I'm asking town officials in the future, when talking about a penetration wearing course, just to refer to it as a road." What a relief!

Next time you complain about your job, think what it would be like to be shot from a cannon for a living. Babu Zacchini, 22, spent an entire week-end doing just that, we hear, at a shopping center in Scottsdale, Arizona. First she steps into the cannon, then someone pushes a button (her father), and she's sent roaring through the air at breakbone speed, finally somersaulting into a net. Babu is the third generation of Zacchini's to get into this act—and out!

In Des Plaines, Illinois, the hand that rocks the cradle keeps the town rocking right along, too. There's a woman on the Board of Aldermen; and the city treasurer, the deputy city clerk, the civil-defense director, the court clerk, the head of the city health department, and the health inspector are all women, too.

And one of these days, Her Honor the Mayor?

Louis Palladino of Upper Darby, Pennsylvania, witnessed this little scene on a local bus recently: When a young mother got on with her small son, the driver automatically asked the customary question, "Not over five?" (the age limit for riding without paying a fare). "No," she said, firmly. Whereupon Junior, as you might know, stopped dead in his tracks and protested loudly, "I'm not five, Mommy, I'm six!" Hearing the burst of laughter that followed and seeing the young woman turn brilliant red, the chivalrous driver turned to the boy, gently patted him on the head, and said for all to hear, "Quiet, Sonny, your mom knows how old you are better than you do."

Last December local ski areas were feeling the effects of a severe snow drought, according to a ski buff from Boulder, Colorado, and Mr. Robert Parker, the assistant manager at Vail Ski Area, decided that his resort, at least, would take matters in hand.

What did he do? He pulled in 15 Ute ceremonial dancers from the Indian reservation, headed by one Eddie Box, and asked them to do a snow dance. Actually, it was a rain dance, and, of course, rain would have been more of a disaster than inadequate snow, but Mr. Parker, being a wise man, went through with it anyway, relying on Ute magic plus the temperature at Vail.

"Don't you want me any more?" "Are you going to take home a new baby instead of me?" Because fears like these terrify small children who have to go to the hospital for the first time, Dr. Albert J. Beckmann, chief pediatrician at Franklin General Hospital in Valley Stream, Long Island, has developed a program with the local school district which he hopes will reassure the very young. He begins by observing the children's reaction to the word "hospital" on tapes and in essays, then they're given a tour of the hospital and afterward he records what the children have to say. "We are trying to provide a factual and unemotional experience for them," the doctor explains. "Unlike their parents, we trust them to come to a good conclusion." With their teacher, the children visit the pediatric wards, where they find beds with side rails and remote-control television. The food-preparation room comes next—Dr. Beckmann knows his public—and on to the convalescents' playroom filled with toys. "Why, you could live here," said one nine-year-old boy. "I could have no better proof of the program's success than that one little statement," said Dr. Beckmann.

Thanks for the tip, Mrs. Jo Ann Carpenter of Chagrin Falls, Ohio. If your house plants lack vitality, droop, wilt, lose their color, there's hope yet. Like human beings, says

Mrs. Carpenter, they need calcium. So save the water from your morning boiled eggs (there's calcium in it) and give your plants a big dose. Presto, green in their cheeks!

Another tip (housewives are getting smarter all the time)—this one from Mrs. James McMasters of North Hollywood, California. Want to keep white silks from turning yellow? Just a dash of baking soda in the rinsing water will do it. White, white—no yellow.

At 8 p.m. one dark night in Birmingham, Michigan, this winter, a woman's screams caused her neighbors to call for the police. Within minutes they arrived on the spot and found the victim being threatened at gun point—but by a water pistol. Apparently Dad and the kids (all in pajamas, and all by now soaking wet) had decided to have a water-pistol fight and had ganged up on Mom (who was just a bit damp, too). Like any woman, she tried to defend herself by screaming for help. None of her attackers was arrested, police say, because the victim refused to press charges.

Lore Fiedler of Morris County, New Jersey, tells about a town in that state with the unlikely name of Piscataway, which let the students name their own junior high school. And, wouldn't you know, they named it after an Indian chief, Canackawack, who lived in the area three centuries ago. The cheerleaders there, however, won't have any more trouble with this tongue-twister than those at another junior high school in town—Quibbletown

School. And then, nearby, there's Possumtown, and who knows, there may be a new school there one day, too. Jawbreakers, anyone?

We wonder where the traveling brothers, Leigh and Joe Hopkins, of Bloomington, Minnesota, are now. Last fall, when Leigh was 87 and Joe was 85, they sold the big working farm that had been in their family since 1876, and where for 60 years they had produced their famous cottage cheese. Now they're out to see the world. "The world is a big place," says Joe, "but we can find a home in it somewhere. I think we'll start with California for the winter."

A mother in San Marino, California, writes how the day came when her children, as usual, complained, "We haven't anything to do," and, as usual, she said, "Make paper dolls." When they only groaned, she had an inspiration: "Well, then, make MONSTER dolls." Within minutes the kitchen table was mobbed with her own as well as other tv-saturated youngsters from the neighborhood, sketching, cutting out, and appropriately dressing their favorite horrors while Mom retired in peace with a good whodunit.

Overheard from a small boy in Richmond Heights, Ohio, who had just been shown his new baby brother—"Gee, Mom, I'll bet you got a lot of trading stamps with him."

HOW "NECESSARY" IS COLLEGE?

BY SLOAN WILSON

Author of "Georgie Winthrop," "A Summer Place," "The Man in the Gray Flannel Suit"; formerly special reporter at the White House Conference on Education.

ILLUSTRATION BY JOHN WOOLHISER

A man without a diploma may be a little more hungry . . . a little less smug.

NOWADAYS more and more youngsters are being urged to go to college. It's almost impossible to get a good job without a college degree, they are told, and are reminded that on the average, a college graduate makes $100,000 more in his lifetime than a person who ended his education with high school. We are also told that graduates make better citizens, have happier marriages, read more, and, in general, lead more fruitful lives.

All this is a relatively new development. In my father's day, only people who wanted to enter the learned professions felt it necessary to go to college. When, in 1900, he went to the University of Virginia in hopes of becoming a physician, he was one of only about 300,000 college students in the nation. When I went to Harvard 38 years later, everything had changed. I was one of about three million college students in the United States, and precious few of us had any clear idea of why we were there. Now my children are preparing for college or for something. If they go, they will be among ten million college students in this country, most of whom will have a fairly clear idea of why they are there: to get a better job afterward.

It undoubtedly is true that college graduates find it easier than high-school students do to get a job the moment they graduate, but I have a feeling that the over-all values of a college education are being vastly exaggerated. Conversely, the terrors of embarking upon life without a sheepskin firmly clutched in one's right hand like the broad sword of yesteryear are overestimated.

Perhaps one reason so many people think college is indispensable is that they don't compare it to other things a young person can do between the ages of 18 and 22. What if the same money put into college were used for living a few months in several different countries? Certainly one could learn modern languages better that way than in an American classroom. Four years as a copy boy on any good newspaper staff or as a boy of all work on a small paper is still better than any school of journalism in my opinion, and I doubt if any "Drama School" could give the kind of education that 17-year-old professionals get by going right into the chorus and making the rounds on Broadway, fighting for parts. Really serious concert pianists and instrumentalists of all kinds rarely can find time for much "general education." For most young people with real talent to perform an art, not just to "appreciate" it, the rigorous training they need is hard to find on a campus.

All this may seem to be beside the point for youngsters who have little real interest in the arts or in a life of the intellect and who just want to get as good a job as they can, buy a nice house, raise a family, and go to the beach on weekends. Even if, for such people, colleges are only a kind of club where they can meet the elite of their area and get a label which will make them acceptable to the personnel men of large corporations, a diploma still serves their purpose, and a turn-down by an admissions officer or financial difficulties which make college impossible is bad news, indeed. But in all honesty, how hard is it to overcome the handicap of having to write "None" in the blank that calls for college degrees?

SURE, SOME CORPORATIONS have a firm rule against anyone but a college graduate in executive training programs, but the practice is not universal. There are some corporations which are more broad-minded, and almost any corporation will make exceptions for a young man who has found a way to prove himself useful. The trick, of course, is to discover the way. Girls can easily get into offices by learning to typewrite. If they are intelligent and conscientious, people will begin to stop caring whether they went to college or not. Most youngsters nowadays have no idea how hard it is to find a person who takes an active interest in the work of an office, instead of just serving time. The girl who uncomplainingly stays late to make sure that the mail is out does not go long unappreciated. Of course, if she's pretty, that helps, but college doesn't have much to do with that.

For young men, it's harder to get any job at all in an office, but it is still possible to become a shipping clerk or a mail boy, and although things aren't exactly as Horatio Alger would have liked them, records prove that many a vice-president started that way. It undoubtedly is harder to rise from the ranks than it used to be, because of the insistence on diplomas, but one would be brash, indeed, to predict that none of the hungry young men in mail rooms today will ever get that vast expanse of carpet everybody seems to yearn for so much.

Even if corporations in their blindness eventually decided to require college diplomas of everyone, including elevator operators, all would not be lost for the bright young man who wanted a career in business. A good salesman is always in demand, and if a man has the guts and intelligence to start his own business, he never has to fill out personnel forms. After knowing a good many men who have spent their lives as employees of big corporations, never having any independence or real freedom, no matter how much money they make, I can't understand why more people don't start when they are young to build some tiny empire of their own. If a youngster had, say, $8,500 set aside for college and had no real intellectual bent, he might be wise to work in stores for a few years and save his money for the day he can open a small establishment with his own name on the door. The day of small business is fortunately not entirely gone in America. Small grocery stores may be giving way to super markets, but in every town there are men who are fully in charge of their own operations and who make a comfortable living at it. I, for one, would rather run a successful garage or shoe store in a pleasant suburb than to get behind the wheel, bound for an office every morning, with my stomach aching in preparation for the latest crunch of company politics.

The lack of a college diploma is less and less of a handicap as a man grows older, if he can find a way to prove himself when he is young. Nobody cares what a 30-year-old's education has been, if he has a record of accomplishment of any kind. In trying to find a way to prove himself, a youngster without a diploma has the advantage of being a little more hungry than others, a little less smug, a little less convinced that good things will come to him without much effort. The same is true in a man's intellectual life. All too many college graduates acquire the curious notion that their diploma is a certificate proving that they are educated and, therefore, don't have to work at self-education for the rest of their life.

It is common to meet college graduates who read little but the sports page but who are sure that their opinions on literature, politics, and the arts are important because they've got a good education, and they can prove it with a sheet of simulated sheepskin, often written in Latin, which they can't understand. Anyone who bothers to read even five or six good books a year will be far better educated when he is 30 than a college graduate who stops trying, and a person who uses his local library will soon find it hard to regret his lack of a diploma. He will be simply too wise to attach false value to a piece of paper.

ALL THIS, OF COURSE, does not contradict the fact that college is necessary for many kinds of training, helpful in many more kinds, and at least enjoyable for the thousands who learn hardly anything at all. Colleges are fine institutions and among the proudest inventions of mankind, but things are getting a little out of hand when youngsters start to feel that if they don't go to them, all is lost. The human spirit is, at its best, invincible, and a bright boy or girl remains bright, with or without a college degree.

Colleges help a lot of people, but there are many roads that lead to the promised land.

The new sound of music is you at the Hammond

Why children learn music better on a Hammond Organ

Most children are born with a sense of rhythm, an ear for pleasant sounds, an instinctive response to melody.

Music lessons, therefore, can be as natural for a child as learning his native language.

Read how a Hammond Organ fosters this natural process and gently disciplines his musical instincts.

When a child presses a certain key on a Hammond Organ he hears a certain note. When he releases it, the sound stops. Simple, natural, cause and effect.

Whenever he presses that key, he hears the same note. Natural, predictable, reassuring to a child.

With the keyboard spread out in front of him, he can quickly grasp the natural relationship between the position of the printed notes of music and the sequence of the keys. He quickly learns this relationship, but, more important, he understands it because it is natural and satisfies a child's strong sense of logic.

But the genius of a Hammond goes beyond its logic. The instrument satisfies him with its rich, mellow tone. What he plays sounds important. Even scales and finger exercises don't bore him because they sound like music. And when he sounds good, he knows he's making progress.

A Hammond Organ introduces him to the fascination of many instrumental voices...

teaches him how to identify brasses, strings, woodwinds, and he goes quickly from identification into a growing ability to blend them into magnificent orchestral effects.

No other organ gives him such a variety of tones. No other organ allows him to manipulate them as easily.

In addition, a Hammond Organ gives him rich echo effects, brilliant percussion accents, subtle vibrato expressions... more total music than he can explore in a lifetime.

Hammond dealers provide excellent lesson programs for children. Patient and knowledgeable teachers will instruct your child individually, or in exciting group classes. Many dealers have plans for teaching children and parents together.

Nurturing your child's instinct for music is the most natural thing in the world. You'll give him more music, more understanding, more lifelong satisfaction, if you start him on the natural instrument—a Hammond Organ.

LINCOLN-TODD FAVORITE CAKE

Especially for . . . The Birthday Party

- 1¼ cups (about 6½ oz.) toasted blanched almonds, finely chopped
- 3 cups sifted flour
- 1 tablespoon baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup butter
- 1½ teaspoons vanilla extract
- ¼ teaspoon almond extract
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 cup milk
- 6 egg whites
- 1 cup sugar

1. Grease bottom only of a 10-in. tubed pan. Line with waxed paper cut to fit bottom; grease waxed paper. Set aside.
2. Sift together the flour, baking powder, and salt; set aside.
3. Cream the butter and extracts together. Add 1 cup sugar gradually, creaming until fluffy after each addition.
4. Beating only until smooth after each addition, alternately add dry ingredients in fourths and milk in thirds to creamed mixture. Stir in the nuts.
5. Beat egg whites until frothy. Add 1 cup sugar gradually, beating well after each addition. Continue beating until rounded peaks are formed (peaks turn over slightly when beater is slowly lifted upright). Gently fold beaten egg whites into the batter until thoroughly blended. Turn into prepared pan and spread evenly.
6. Bake at 350°F about 1 hr., or until cake tester or wooden pick comes out clean when inserted in cake, or until surface springs back when lightly touched.

7. Remove from oven. Cool 15 min. in pan on cooling rack. To loosen from pan, run a spatula gently around tube and sides. Cover with cooling rack; invert cake and remove pan. Immediately peel off waxed paper and turn cake top side up. Cool completely. When cake is completely cooled, frost with Fluffy White Frosting. Decorate with finely cut candied cherries.

FLUFFY WHITE FROSTING

- ½ cup diced candied pineapple
- ½ cup candied cherries, cut in quarters
- 2 cups sugar
- 1 cup water
- Few grains salt
- 2 egg whites
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- ¼ teaspoon almond extract

Uncover saucepan and set candy thermometer in place. Continue cooking, without stirring, until mixture reaches 230°F (thread stage); using a pastry brush, wash down crystals from sides of saucepan during cooking as necessary.
2. Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry, peaks are formed. Continue beating egg whites while pouring hot sirup over them in a steady thin stream. (Do not scrape sirup from bottom and sides of pan.) After all of the sirup is added, continue beating 2 to 3 min., or until frosting is very thick and forms rounded peaks when beater is lifted upright. Fold in extracts and candied fruits with minimum number of strokes. Frost cake immediately.

Think newborns do nothing but eat and sleep the first few months? Any expert baby-watcher will tell you that your baby is busy learning right from birth. He blinks at light and startles at sharp sounds. (Why, at one month he can follow light and sound and starts to learn from what he sees and hears.) Taste buds begin to develop by reacting to sweet, sour, bitter and salty almost immediately. Through skin sensations a wee one learns the comfort of warmth and cuddling, the discomfort of cold and pain. A do-nothing? Indeed not. All this activity is practice for future development.

Solid facts. When your baby's about to embark on cereal, you'll find Gerber Cereals ideal for several reasons. The mild flavors have a way of waking up tender taste buds gently. The texture has an easy-to-swallow smoothness that's designed to please a delicate palate. In addition, the nutrition your baby gets from Gerber Cereals will stand him in good stead throughout babyhood. All five are enriched with iron and calcium. Plus important B-vitamins . . . factors in sparking appetites and spurring growth.

More busybody activities. Apart from learning through his senses in the early months, a baby is busy with other things. For example: clenching and opening fists lead to eventual graspability. Flexing of legs and arms are trial runs for creeping. Coos and gurgles are the forerunners of speech. Yes, being a baby is a full-time job.

More early dietary data. Special baby juices come early in the modern baby's diet for the vitamin C they provide. Gerber Strained Orange Juice and Apple Juice are ideal starting juices because they're ever so mild and well-tolerated by babies. The Orange Juice has natural vitamin C, the Apple Juice is enriched with vitamin C to the same degree. Can't think of two more refreshing ways to help keep your baby's gums and other body tissues in good condition.

P. S. Gerber offers seven other combination juices (vitamin-C enriched) to teach your tyke the delights of different flavors.

For your baby's well-being:

Gerber prepares over 100 baby foods — infant formulas, cereals, strained and junior foods — to meet your baby's nutritional needs. We're proud to say:

"Babies are our business . . . our only business!"*

FOR SOME YEARS NOW, for reasons that have no bearing on this treatise, I have not taken any alcoholic beverages. I am not going into the advantages of such an attitude. My wife will be glad to expound on the matter at length. I would like to point out, though, for anyone who is considering this drastic step, some of the discomforts involved.

Women, particularly, seem to resent my sobriety. I recall a cocktail party not so long ago where I met a charming girl, glass in hand, eyes a-sparkle. We got along famously for 10 minutes when she said abruptly, "What are you drinking?"

"Ginger ale."

"With nothing in it?"

"Nothing in it. I tried an olive once, but I didn't like it."

"Hmmm." The girl pulled down her skirt and moved a little away from me. For a while she just sat there staring at me. Then she said, "It seems kind of sneaky," and walked away.

At another gathering, this time of businessmen, I was trying to put over a good commercial idea and sat down with a stout fellow who had had quite a few, which was his privilege. We began discussing my idea, and it impressed him favorably. In the midst of the conversation he asked me what I wanted to drink.

"Just ginger ale."

He scowled, ordered a double shot of something and cooled off. Somewhere something wasn't quite right. He couldn't put his finger on it, "y'unnerstan?" He had a few more doubles and then gave me a firm, logical reason why I couldn't sell him. "I got news for you!" he shouted. "Fellish not drinkin's out o' tush wish hish fellow men. She? Out o' tush."

You may be sure I am constantly under this sort of pressure. Religious friends quote the Bible about taking a little for your stomach's sake. Medical friends point out that moderate drinkers live longer than abstainers. ("Married people," I point out, "live longer than single people, but that's a damn poor reason to get married.") Psychologists attempt to convince me that alcohol is the great smoother of interpersonal friction, the great social catalyst. (I happen to think ginger ale is.)

Lovely young ladies try to tutor me into understanding that drinking improves the relations between the sexes and that if they are drinking and I am sober, it gives me an utterly caddish advantage. (As a matter of fact, it does not. Under the influence of alcohol I felt I was irresistible to women and when the women had enough, they thought so, too.)

The non-drinker lives in a world of prejudice and intolerance. He is made to feel a little like an illegal Chinese immigrant; guilty, uneasy, and not quite the possessor of any constitutional rights.

NOW AND THEN there is a rift in the clouds; a gleam breaks through and someone seems to understand. About three nights ago I was dancing at a night club, feeling quite gay on trout, chocolate parfait, and coffee, even sitting in with the band for a few numbers. A friend came over and said, "Man, you and your wife look like you're having a ball! What're you drinking?" he asked, calling the waitress.

"Nothing, thanks. I don't drink."

He stared at me a moment and then smiled. "I want to shake your hand. Anyone who can get up on the bandstand like that and make a jackass out of himself sober deserves a lot of credit."

So, you see . . . ?

What I mean is, most of the times I enjoy being sober, but there are infrequent moments when I almost feel I'll have to get drunk to do it.

ROUND TABLE 9

Should Your Town Welcome Industry?

AS YOU WATCH your taxes doubling and tripling, are you becoming resigned to what one commentator calls "cohabitation with industry"?

Granted, industry nowadays does not have to mean noise and smog and fuming chimneys. We are all familiar with the industrial park that "looks like an art museum, sounds like a symphony orchestra, and smells like Chanel No. 5." Even so, is your town going to put up with it? And possibly even welcome the presence of brisk commercial traffic—and the additional revenue—where there used to be only the plain-living quiet of a country field?

When we explored this question with a Round Table of suburban editors and publishers, we got every kind of response from icy rejection to eager approval.

Excelsior, Minnesota, reports on the one hand: "We have no industry here, and we want none of any kind."

Pasadena, Texas, boldly proclaims: "This is an industrial suburb. Every aspect of our community life is geared to the needs of the industrial worker."

Between these extremes, we found every sort of approach.

Take zoning restrictions, for example. Palos Verdes, California, has just one type of industrial zoning—"the tightest in Los Angeles County." It is called SR&D (Scientific Research and Development). Only one firm has accepted the austere restraints: Activities are limited to thinking.

Outside Atlanta, De Kalb County, Georgia, has—and we quote—"some of the most effective, dynamic, and expanding industry anywhere in the nation. There is a major automobile assembly plant of General Motors, a regional Chevrolet-parts depot, and many varied industries—Singer Sewing Machine, American Cyanamid, Eastman Kodak, and many others."

The industries have come, but in other "zones" the graces remain. Business expansion is definitely encouraged, but there are strict laws to protect the town's character and keep space for quiet byways and pleasant houses, for swimming pools and mocking birds and magnolias, as well as for lathes and presses and parking lots.

By contrast, we hear from Macomb County, Michigan, in the Detroit metropolitan area, that its zoning codes are apt to prove "flexible by amendment" when a city council fears the loss of some desirable prospect to a neighboring community. (Industry-happy Pasadena, above mentioned, just laughs and laughs—and makes jubilant claim to being one of the biggest cities in the U.S. having no zoning regulations of any kind.)

The case for industry is plainly stated by Mountain Lakes, New Jersey: "Our generally favorable attitude toward industry nowadays is born of the realization that $20,000 homes on 1/3-acre lots cost us more in services and education than they pay in taxes."

Industry, on the contrary, produces more tax revenue—in some cases a great deal more—than it requires in services. Industrial property is likely to have a high assessed valuation and to take up relatively little space compared with the taxes paid, in contrast to the wide dispersion of residential properties. For instance: a generating plant at Milford, Connecticut, with a 50-family education load pays taxes on a $30,000,000 valuation—$600,000 per family, a valuation matched by few suburban residences indeed! One of two new plants locating this year in Trenton, Michigan, will add $1,000,000 extra school-tax revenue. (Trenton now has the third highest per capita tax intake in the state.) At a new industrial park at Smithtown, New York, the planned investment in buildings is $40,000,000—"a big boost in tax revenue both for the town and the adjacent school districts."

THE ADVANTAGES to the suburban community of having a reasonable number of industrial taxpayers are only one side of the story, of course. There must be economic advantages to industry in seeking suburban locations, or they would not be sought.

The search for more space at reasonable cost is perhaps the most important of the urges that brings industry out from the city. Modern industrial processes emphasize a straight-line flow of materials along a single level. Often in building a new factory it is necessary to plan the complete processing layout first, and then build the factory around the process. Enough additional ground space to permit future expansion is usually sought as well. Since that kind of space is rarely available in cities any more, industry is moving out, with the further result that workers must often come considerable distances to their jobs, which in today's terms

this kind of "industry"—the home office of General Mills in Golden Valley, Minnesota.*

*Obviously, local governments could use the revenue—
but some would rather means still more space for adequate parking facilities.

Another requirement of modern industry is research, experiment, test, and evaluation. New industrial laboratories to meet this need have tended to seek suburban locations because they are welcome there, relative to other types of industry, and because such locations are favored by the scientists, who are the key personnel. Central and regional offices of large corporations also find suburban locations congenial and convenient.

Even the United States government gets into the picture. A few eyebrows were raised in Chamblee, Georgia, when the Regional Center of the Internal Revenue Service moved in, bringing carloads of data-processing equipment and hundreds of new workers to house. But as a focal point of the Atlanta metropolitan area, Chamblee takes pride in its careful planning for the accommodation of new enterprises, and now town and Center are getting along "very happily."

But before the welcome mat goes out in a congenial, convenient location such as Chamblee, the civic authorities must still consider the views and attitudes of the people who came there to find, not promising industrial developments, but open space where they could enjoy life. It is still the exception when a suburban community goes after new industry, regardless of type, and the local zoning laws are made in order to spell out what is acceptable and what is not, sometimes in general terms but often in minute detail. Some zoning codes simply state what types of industry are forbidden—usually barring odors, smoke and other forms of air pollution, noise, and also in some cases heavy additional motor traffic. Other codes prescribe precisely what types of industry (down to products and methods) may be admitted. Zoning is also used, of course, to control the quality of residential properties; in connection with industry there is some suggestion that zoning limitations on low-cost housing may be intended to induce low-income workers to live elsewhere, thus "having the industrial tax revenue for ourselves and letting some other town educate the workers' children."

HOPKINS, Minnesota, offers an interesting example of the best of both worlds. Hopkins has some rather choice industries—"we encourage 'em, fight for 'em, and generally do everything we can to help them grow." The industries located in Hopkins actually have more workers than the total resident population of the town; most of these workers live elsewhere. Hopkins also has a flourishing retail trade—industry pays one-third of Hopkins' tax bill, the retail community another third. Money is therefore available to finance an elaborate parking system, which serves the "commuting" workers, Could Gordon's possibly be older than the London Bobby?

Surprisingly enough, yes. It was in 1829 that Sir Robert Peel reorganized the London Metropolitan Police, who promptly became known as "Peelers" or "Bobbies". But this was sixty years after Alexander Gordon had introduced his remarkable gin to London and given it his name. Happily, the Gordon's you drink today is based on that original 1769 formula. That explains its unique dryness and delicate flavour. Explains, too, why Gordon's is the biggest selling gin in England, America, the world.

Industry

back; the deal was pushed through despite opposition, and now the park is a showplace of its kind and has attracted some welcome industrial taxpayers.

An occasional barrier to new industry is high land prices. In Maple Heights, Ohio, some desirable land parcels — unimproved — were being held by owners for higher prices, but a determined community spirit was aroused to take action in order to open the door to industry. The county tax authorities were pressured into revaluating the land upward — "so either the owners will be inclined to sell and we'll get needed industrial taxpayers, or at worst we'll get more tax revenues from the unimproved land."

So, in detail, local issues are of infinite variety, and yet they all turn on a single pivot: Rather than see their towns and schools deteriorate, people are coming to accept the compromise that admits industry and its tax money to their community, and some are finding that the imagined evils are not so dreadful after all.

Many communities, indeed, are paying substantial sums to professional planners and consultants to lay out a future course intended to keep Our Town in good financial health without sacrificing beauty or happiness — and it takes a professional, in these complicated times, to plan the best use of land and location for the continued welfare of all who live there. The frustrated village manager in Illinois who resigned with the angry statement that "the ideal suburban village 10 years from now is going to be an industrial park run entirely by automation" missed the whole point. The suburbs and industry are joining hands because each needs the other, but industry is learning to live in the suburbs by suburban standards — to the benefit of all.
